CATTLE CLOSE STRONG

FINAL SALES FOR WEEK SHOW EARLY LOSS IN STEERS MADE UP.

TOP BEEVES LANDED AT $9.55

Cows and Heifers Met Active Demand All Week—Prices Fully 10 to 15c Higher—Bulls Lower—Calves Higher—Stockers Off.

There was no quotable change in the general cattle market situation today, as compared with Friday. Only a few loads came in, which included nothing of consequence in the fat steer line. Yesterday's issue of the Journal contained the following summary of the week's trade in steers:

HOGS AVERAGE STRONG

EARLY TRADE STEADY TO 5c HIGHER BUT CLOSE IS SLOW AND EASY.

MOST STRENGTH ON HEAVIES

Some Strong Weights Sold Early Easily a Nickel Higher—Top $8.10; Bulk of Sales $7.75 to $8.00.

Final day of the week brought out a fair sort of a run, both locally and at outside points. The supply on sale here was estimated at 5,500, or 1,400 in excess of the number received a week ago, while the total run at the five markets, 31,200 head, showed an enlargement of 5,000 over last Saturday. Prospects for the week are bright in the trade at the start-off and opening sales ranged steady to 5c higher than yesterday, heavy weights and butchers, violating recent precedent, showing the greatest strength. Lights were still popular but popularity did not extend to the extent of paying any premium over yesterday's prices. The survey of the project will require more than a year.

REDUCING THE COST

PRODUCING PRODUCTS ECONOMICALLY SUREST WAY TO GET RESULTS AT MARKET.

NOT ALL IN HIGHEST PRICES

Is Time for Farmers to Forget Top Prices and Work for Cheaper Methods of Production.

It is up to the farmer, the producer of the country, to get away from the idea that his whole success or failure depends on his getting highest prices for his products and to change his present methods of production where-by it is necessary for him to get those prices in order to realize a profit on his stock.

The profits realized by selling a commodity at all times is determined by the difference between the actual cost of producing the commodity on the farm and the amount received for it at the time of selling. The profit thereon is dependent entirely on one factor, as many producers are wont to believe but upon the two and any variation in one is just as effective in the profit as a variation in the other.

The Farmers' Guide says the production of the farmer is the one that is determining the study now. The markets are more or less stable and cannot be influenced by the individual, however much it may seem to the farmer to do so. But he can bring about some results without expending his own money by his own hands.

MR. SCHULTZ ACCOMPANIED HIS HOGS TO THE YARDS AND WHILE HERE PAID A CALL TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY JOURNAL.

Mr. Schultz accompanied his hogs to the yards and while here paid a call to the editor of the Daily Journal. He reports crops in acute need of rain in his territory. "Early planted corn has been damaged already but there is a chance for the later planted fields if we get rain soon," said Mr. Schultz. "Wheat, oats and hay, however, will be able to give a good account of themselves this year. Most of the wheat has been harvested with yields running from 20 to 30 bushels per acre, and occasionally a small field ran as high as 40 bushels. The oats crop is good. The first cutting of alfalfa made a very good showing and the second cutting, while not finished at the first, was fair. Clover and timothy yielded good hay, a considerably heavier crop than was secured last year."

ARMOUR, S. D., July 25.—John Spotts, a wealthy land owner residing on the banks of Lake Andes, Charles Mix county, lost eleven head of horses last Saturday, comprising four males and seven colts, ranging in age from yearlings to 5-year-olds. The animals were poisoned by some miscreant putting Paris green in the drinking trough. The loss was discovered shortly after Mr. Spotts had turned an animal out of the stable into the pasture. When turned out it was apparently as sound as a dollar, but shortly it was noticed to be staggering and unable to walk. Investigation brought to light the fact that someone had placed the poison in the tank. The tank was drained and about a pound of the deadly poison found. There are no clues to the poisoner.

Sally's Demise

By John Philip Orth (Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

The Oak Grove farm, one of the best in the county, was owned and run by the widow Baines.

These things were only criticised, but when it was known that the widow had sent her daughter east to a seminary to be educated and polished up there were men and women that stood aghast.

At eighteen Miss Minnie was back home. She wasn't snobbish, but it was plain that she preferred the village people, and there was hardly a day that calls were not being exchanged.

"He's just the best fellow in the world," was the girl's assertion after telling her mother the secret.

The engagement took place in August, and the wedding was set for Thanksgiving day. There's a queer thing about these engagements.

Walked Forth as Stiffly as a Crowbar in Trousers.

change. And the change is not altogether in him. The girl sees that he wants to boss the roost, and she resents it, and there are quarrels where before all was serene.

A week after the engagement the widow took on a new hired man. He was a student trying to work his way through college by hiring to farmers during the vacation.

"How do you know that he isn't an escaped convict?" demanded Dick. "That's foolish."

"I don't like his looks." "Perhaps he will change them." "You had no right to ask him to sing with you the other evening, as I heard you did."

"Mother found no fault with me." "But your mother can be easily deceived." "And you, who have traveled all over the world, can read human faces like a book!"

At the end of a fortnight Miss Minnie wrote that she thought both of them had acted precipitately and foolishly, and that the student had finished his work and moved on.

SILK SOCKS WENT ASTRAY

Prized Pair of Hosiery Finally Find Themselves on "Mr. Cockroach," a Negro.

Joplin, Mo.—Among the many presents received by Willard Butts recently, it was learned at the police station, his mother-in-law presented to him a fine pair of tan silk socks, costing $1.50, the most valuable pair he had ever owned.

Mr. Butts may yet wear his silk socks, but "Cockroach," a notorious negro of Joplin, can say that he was the first person to adorn his pedal extremities with those same socks, and that they were stripped from his unwilling feet at the "bull pen" of the city bastille.

At the Butts home, 510 North Moffet avenue, a negro domestic has been employed until recently. For several weeks a large number of personal articles belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Butts have been missing.

A trunk, found in the house occupied by the two negroes, contained a large part of the missing articles from the Butts home. When Mr. Butts saw "Cockroach" in the "bull pen" of the jail about the most conspicuous part of the darky sport was his fancy silk socks, which proved to be Mr. Butts' Christmas present.

"MAN OF MYSTERY" IS FOUND

Juror Recognizes Witness as Man Whom He Had Long Sought.

Deaver, Colo.—"There is the man of mystery who saved my life fifteen years ago. I have never laid eyes on him to thank him for his daring and bravery, and I can't wait until I get out of this jury box to put my arms around him and tell him what I think of him," said Patrick McAndrews, a jurymen on the present panel of the federal court, when Glendon Burton of Longmont took the stand to take oath to testify in the case of the government against the Colorado Contract Investment company.

McAndrews and Burton were residents of the western slope fifteen years ago, and when the former was seriously injured during a cold winter, and he held up the letter and said: "I forgot to mail it!"

CHILD SHOWS RARE NERVE

Seven-Year-Old Girl Walks Mile With Mangled Hand and Sees Fingers Amputated.

Ellendale, Del.—With one hand nearly cut off as the result of an accident, Mary Corkhill, a seven-year-old child, displayed remarkable bravery and fortitude when she walked more than a mile and then calmly held her hand while a physician amputated four of the fingers. The little girl and her younger brother were playing in the woods when the boy picked up an ax and cut the girl so that two fingers were severed, two mangled and the hand nearly severed at the wrist.

BELL CRAZES BITING DOG

Its Clanging Made the Brute Attack Pennsylvania Farmer—Is Killed by Son.

Carlisle, Pa.—Jacob Helser, sixty-five years old, a farmer residing near here, is under the care of a physician as the result of being horribly bitten by his big shepherd dog, which had been crazed by the clanging of a big dinner bell on top of one of the farm buildings. Helser's life was probably saved by his son Elmer, who came to the rescue with a revolver, putting four bullets into the animal and killing it.

London.—When a Hammersmith train drew up at the Baker street "Tube" station just after six o'clock recently several hundred infuriated bees got out of the train, as well as several passengers.

An official on duty at the gate saw the air full of little black and yellow bodies, felt something crawling on his hand—and boiled!

There were many thousands of bees in the box, but the majority of them were secured in time. Nobody in the stampede considered the bees themselves, which were vainly trying to reach daylight and the flowers.
