By RAY MARTIN
I gotta virus. That's a Latin medical word meaning "Buddy, I don't know what you've got, but you've got it!" It covers a multitude of ailments ranging all the way from a minor pain in the kundike to a major disturbance in the region of the gayspangh. If you get what I mean. In other words, it's a medical work for "unclassified ailment." In "filing systems," it corresponds with the word "miscellaneous."

Saw a cartoon not long ago of an old-time doctor talking with a brand new doctor, and the oldster was saying, "Boy, you got it lucky; I had to practice back in the days when we didn't have the word 'virus.' We had to find a name for every ailment."

But just in case you are interested in a further definition of the word virus, Mr. Webster puts it this way:

"Venom. Any of a group of submicroscopic infective agents, thought by some to be living organisms, and by others to be complex proteins capable of multiplication in living cells. Viruses cause a number of diseases in animals and plants, as rabies, smallpox, mumps and tobacco mosaic."

So, you see why I'm not up and at'em with my usual pep and enthusiasm. It's that multiplying process that bothers me. Those little buggers are multiplying faster than an electric calculator and probably are holding pep rallies now and then to check up on just what progress they are making. Since rabies, smallpox and mumps are unlikely, it must be tobacco mosaic that's bothering me. Sometimes I do smoke cigars that taste as if they might have that mosaic stuff, so maybe that's where I got this trouble. In fact, except when I can sneak a few 10-centers at the bank, most of the cigars I smoke probably are of the mosaic brand.

I'll say this for these "sub-microscopic" imps: They certainly can create lot of trouble for such tiny creatures. My head feels as if it is about the size of a circus tent, and the legs are completely lacking in their proper rigidity; they feel instead as if they had suddenly turned to rubber.

And there's a taste in the mouth that corresponds with the odor given off by burning automobile tires, and the nose is picking up scents from outer space or somewhere.

By now you probably get the general idea that this virus stuff is not good company.

Another thing, too, that can be said of these little virus buggers: They stick around just long enough to make a fellow feel pretty bad and then they move on to the next of kin. That way they romp through the anatomies of each member of the family before they clear out of the neighborhood. In fact, I think I got the pesky things from the missus in the first place; she was somewhat puny last week (See RAY'S, page 6)

Area's Feed-Lot Industry Hits Peak

Cattle have long been a mainstay of the western Texas economy. But of recent years, beginning with the drought period, the economy has changed from cows to cotton and milo, with range land going begging or placed in soil bank semi-retirement.

Now the trend is coming back with such force and speed that the cattlemen, and particularly the cattle feeder, once again is assuming a prominent position on the agriculture scene.

What has prompted this turn

Youth Center Dance Slated

Muleshoe youth center is planning a "live band" dance for Saturday night, Smitty Aylesworth, president, said Thursday. The Kados of Clovis, who have proven to be popular entertainers for previous dances at the center will provide the music.

Aylesworth said admission will be 75 cents for members or $1 for non-members. He said the "live band" dances will be continued throughout the fall with a dance every two weeks.

IT'S POSTMASTER NOW — The "acting" sign above was just a "prop" for this picture, but it points out that Spencer Beavers is no longer "acting postmaster;" since last Friday he's been "postmaster" of Muleshoe. He became acting postmaster April 14. Beavers, although new to the postal service, is not new to Muleshoe; he's been here for 32 years. Some 15 years he was with Bovell Motor Supply. He and Mrs. Beavers own Beavers Flowerland. (Journal Photo & Engraving)

Traffic Radar Nabs Speeders

Department of Public Safety decided to check speeding on U. S. 84 east of Muleshoe over the weekend. They found a considerable amount of it, tickets would indicate.

As a result of their radar check, Justice Joe D. Vaughn had 35 traffic tickets on file at the start of the week - all of them for speeding. "Biggest bunch of traffic complaints I've had in a long time," he summed up as he prepared to assess fines.

For having heavy feet on the accelerators, 35 motorists must pay fines and costs amounting to $20.50, he said.

And along with the 35 citations, the justice had another case filed early in the week; it dealt with drunk and disturbance.

Victory Over Hereford Cheers Mules for Battle With Dumas

By J. C. SPAIN
Journal Staff Writer

Tough Dumas squad invades Muleshoe Friday, but the lads from the northern part of the Panhandle are going to find a tough and scrappy bunch of Mules ready to meet them, Mules who are encouraged by their first victory of the year, at 13-6 win over AA Hereford.

Because the Muleshoe Mules showed a capacity crowd last Friday just how stubborn a Mule can be, especially around a herd Hereford Whitefaces, an AAA bunch.

Although the herd punched into the scoring column first, they could not match the fired-up crew of Mules who played the finest ball thus far in the season.

Hereford took the ball on the kick-off on the 11 and ran it back out to the 25. Four turns later the Whitefaces fumbled and Jerry Harrison recovered on the Muleshoe 46. But the Mules couldn't go and fumbled the ball three plays later. Hereford then tried their hand at moving the ball but had little success and had to punt.

Harrison downed the punt on Mules 15 and in three plays had "tentative form" he explained, on August 13.

At the same time, the board estimated total revenue from all sources at $787,887 for the school year. The assessed valuation of the district for the school year was set at $23,289,040 and the total tax rate at $1.60. Maintenance rate was set at $1.23 and debt service rate, interest and sinking fund, at 37 cents.

The board heard a proposal by Lonnie Bass on constructing a Stran-Steel building for dressing rooms on the west end of the present gymnasium at a turn-key cost of $38,000. Another plan was studied submitted by the Reveire Construction Co., Lubbock, for a masonry building for physical education and athletic dressing rooms. Cost was set at $43,800.

The board took no action on either proposal, but set a special meeting for Monday, Oct. 15.

YOUTHS ON RAMPAGE

Officers Squelch Minor Crime Wave

Youth on the rampage have given officers a busy week in the busiest week in some time, in fact, a check of records at the sheriff's office revealed Thursday.

And in every case, the young culprits, only one of whom was over 16, have been apprehended by the sheriff's office or city police.

There was the mailbox shoot-up down at Enoch's, for instance. Four boys, 15 to 16 years old, were arrested. Now they've agreed to buy the farmer a new mailbox, put it up and paint it.

Then Fuzzy Simmons' grocery at Enoch's was broken into one night this past week, but the young would-be robber made so much noise breaking the front-door glass that he got scared and fled. Sheriff Dee Clements to reconsider these proposals, Dillman said.

In the budget breakdown, $37,300 was set aside for administration, including salaries, contracted services and "other" expenses. Instructional costs were set at $495,000 with salaries at $475,000 of this amount. Text-book costs were estimated at $100, library and audio-visual materials at $2,000 and teaching supplies at $14,400. Other expenses of $3,500 completed the estimate. (See BUDGET, page 6)

Banks Here to Close For Columbus Day

Muleshoe banks will be closed tomorrow (Friday) in observance of Columbus Day, it was announced by both banks Thursday.

All other business in Muleshoe will be open as usual.

Funds Are Sought for Courthouse, Jail Remodeling

Bailey county taxpayers will decide Tuesday, Nov. 6, whether they want to spend up to $360,000 for a new county jail and a general overhauling of the 38-year-old courthouse here.

A bond election for that amount has been ordered by the county commissioners, and although a maximum of $360,000 is called for in the election order, it is thought that the actual cost of construction may not run that high, Judge Glen Williams said Thursday.

"Construction costs and materials have increased greatly since the project was first considered several months ago. Thus architects who figured the funds needed, decided this much should be sought, just to be on the safe side," the judge explained.

The order to call the election was issued late Monday, only two hours before the deadline. Under the law, an election must be called not less than 15 nor more than 30 days from the date of issuing the order. Absentee voting starts October 17; thus the commissioners were forced to order the election no later than October 8.

Any taxpayer in Bailey county, who is a qualified voter otherwise, may vote in the special election which will be carried along with the general election, it was explained.

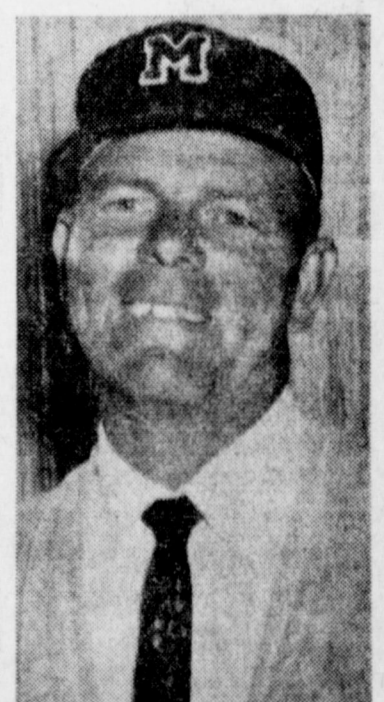

The actual order says that if approved, the county commissioner shall be authorized to issue the bonds in total principal sum of $360,000 to mature serially at such time as may (See ELECTION, page 6)

George Washington Wins Journal's Grid Pot For Week With 8 Correct

George Washington, a coach in Muleshoe schools, took top money in last week's football contest by picking eight out of eight winners in advance. In fact, three men tied for first, but Washington's guess on the Muleshoe - Hereford outcome was more nearly correct; score was 13 to 6 in favor of Muleshoe and Washington has predicted a 13-7 victory.

Howard Splawn again finished in the money, taking second spot with a perfect score on the college games. However, his prediction on the Muleshoe - Hereford contest was not as accurate as Washington's.

The contest continued again this week, and a blank can be found on page C3 of this issue. Five bucks again will go to the top winner, $3 to the second best and contestants must have their entries at the Journal office by 5 p.m. Friday or postmarked by that time. Grand winner will get two tickets to the Cotton Bowl New Year's game and $50 in expense money.

They told the sheriff they had left Littlefield Monday night to go to Hale Center "but got off the route somewhat and wound up in Bula."

The sheriff's jail record Wednesday showed two persons were being held for investigation by the city police department, one was held on a charge of possession, and one was being detained for the Texas highway patrol for failure to signal, in addition to the two mentioned above.

new Worthy Advisor.

As Davy Jean presented her parents and her brother, Hal, she expressed her appreciation to them for their encouragement and for the inspiration of a Christian home. To her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hines, she said, "I hold in my hands tonight two of my most prized possessions. One is a little Bible you gave to me on my eighth birthday. I have carried it these past five years in all of my Rainbow work. The other is my great-grandmother's Eastern Star Manual you gave to me. It was printed in 1872. Thank you for loving and encouraging me always."

Special guests and relatives were introduced. "I Believe" was sung by Alex Foy and Mike Stone, accompanied by Sonja Bass.

She then presented to Sandra Harris the Past Worthy Advisors jewel. As Sandra continued to kneel at the altar, Mike Stone sang, "The Lords Prayer."

David Anderson pronounced the benediction, after which a reception was given. The table was laid with an orchid and purple net cloth featuring a dark orchid net drape, clasped at the corners by purple flowers. Worthy Advisor, Davy Jean Anderson and Junior Past Worthy Advisor Sandra Harris presided at the serving table.

Here are the Noland Brothers who brought the first two bales of cotton to the Parmer County Gin this year. With the brothers are Jimmy Noland (atop bale) and gin manager Louis D. Gallini. The bales weighed 2,200 and 2,400 pounds gross, the first bale turning 500 pounds lint and the second 650 pounds. The cotton brought 50 cents a pound and was ginned free.

Life was much simpler back in the days before somebody discovered these virus things. But then life in general was less complicated then. In those days the doctor simply had you to open your mouth and say "ah," and if he didn't see anything moving around except your tongue, he gave you a prescription and you got well in a couple of weeks. It was that simple.

But in these days of specialization, curing an ailment is much more complicated. If you got a toothache in the old days, for instance, you simply went to the dentist, who pulled the offender and said "I please," and that was that. Nowadays you can't just have a simple toothache; you gotta go to the medical man first who takes your blood pressure, your heartbeat, and checks the condition of your dandruff before the dentist can shoot you with novocaine. By that time the toothache is over and you've decided just to let it go. Some of these days they're going to get this specialization down to the point that when you call your dentist to tell him you have a toothache he's going to ask, "is it an upper or a lower?" and when you say it's a lower, he will say, "sorry, but I'm an upper specialist myself; you'll have to call on somebody else."

Meantime, viruses or no viruses, I gotta get to work. There's still this week's issue of the Journal to be turned out. Besides, payday is not too far off, and it's surprising how a paycheck will help overcome many ailments, including viruses.

The ballot itself will read simply "For issuance of bonds and levying of the tax in payment." and "against issuance of bonds and levying of the tax in payment."

The commissioners' court set up the following voting places and named these judges: Muleshoe City hall, Allen Guinn; Muleshoe election house, Ralph Edwards; West Camp Baptist church, Tom Watson; Longview church, Bert Seales; Three-Way School, George Tyson; Bailey-boro gin office, Kelly Joe Barnett; Bula school, Chester Setliff; gin office at Circleback, Billy Gore, and a special canvassing board composed of W.

M. Pool, Jr., W. D. Moore and E. O. Baker.

If the bonds are approved by the voters November 6, the building will be extended on all sides except the east, and the entire building will be re-faced. One of the greatest needs, it was pointed out is for a new jail. Under the architects' plans, an entirely new jail would be built.

Seven Charged In County Court, Docket Reveals

Separate charges have been filed in county court here against seven men ranging from liquor violations to theft, a check of early-October records of the court showed Thursday.

The cases included: Bonifacio Guerrero, charged with theft.

Jeffie Sisco, charged with theft.

Homer Toney, charged with possession of liquor for sale in a dry area. He pleaded not guilty and his bond was set at $1,000 by County Judge Glen Williams.

John R. Rogers was charged with aggravated assault. He pleaded not guilty and his bond was set at $3,000. Later he changed his plea to guilty and was fined $25 and costs by Judge Williams.

Claude Blair, charged with giving a worthless check. He pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and costs.

Raymond Purdy, charged with giving a worthless check.

H. C. Castillo, charged with giving a worthless check. His case was dismissed on the recommendation of the county attorney with the notation "No legal cause for prosecution."

Democrats Plan Huge Tulia Rally

A Panhandle-wide Democratic rally is to be held at Tulia at 7 p.m. Tuesday, October 23, it was announced this week, when several hundred persons are expected to attend. All Democratic nominees are invited to take part.

Activities are to begin with a dinner in the new high school cafeteria with tickets priced at $5 per plate.

Remainder of the rally will be held in the auditorium. The public has been invited, and those who do not wish to attend the dinner may take part in the rally to follow, it was announced.

Mrs. Freeman Davis is ticket chairman for Parmer county and Ed Johnson is the Bailey county ticket chairman.

Making quality hay is largely a matter of timing. New Holland tests show. Each day hay cutting is delayed past early-bud stage means a loss in protein and digestibility.

Farm Income Hits New 9-Year Peak

Leon Smith, Jr. president of the Farmers Union in Bailey county, Thursday pointed out to Farmers Union members figures just released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture showing financial statistics for the year ending June 30. The figures, he said, showed these facts:

Net farm income increased by 1.1 billion dollars, the highest net farm income since 1953.

Net per farm income increased from about 2,960 to 3,360 last year, an increase of 13 1/2 per cent.

Consumers spent less of their take-home pay for food than ever before, about 20 per cent, compared with 26 per cent 15 years ago.

Farm assets rose from $200 billion in 1959, 1960 and 1961 to $207 billion in 1962.

For the first time in eight years the trend toward ever-mounted surpluses was halted. Surplus corn stock decreased by an estimated 400 million bushels, and wheat by more than 200 million bushels under the new voluntary programs.

The new program of rural area development, although only a few short months old, is now active in 1,600 counties with nearly 50,000 rural and small-town community people working on the projects. These projects have created new employment for more than 12,000 rural people and have added millions of dollars in rural purchasing power.

Also expanding during the year were research, education and action programs in conservation, food and fiber usage, Forestry and food, and meat inspection.

"No one can deny that there is still much to be done, but after gazing over the report, no one can deny that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman and President Kennedy have taken a big step in the right direction," Smith concluded.

The Mules took over on fourth down on their own 48, ran three plays and punted. It was killed on the Hereford 1 yard line. On the Whitefaces first play they fumbled and the ball was recovered by Gerald White on the 4 yard line. Clifford Gray then ran over for the six-pointer. Jimmy Cabrera's kick for the extra point was good and the Mules led a ballgame for the first time this season, much to the pleasure of the fans.

The Hereford Whitefaces then received the kick and moved to their own 44 and then a hard rushing Mule line pushed them back to the 29 where they had to punt. The Mules ran two plays and the half ended.

On the kickoff the Mules moved from their 15, on to seven yards at a time, in a drive that the Herd couldn't stop, all the way for a score.

Clifford Gray pushed over from the one yard line to make the last score of the ballgame. The kick for PAT was wide.

The last quarter was a defensive maneuver as neither team could move the ball inside the 20 and as the game ended Clifford Gray moved the ball to Whitefaces 32 yard line and then the clock ran out with score reading in the Mules favor, 13-6.

Industry--

others on pasture or open range. They tell a story of a revitalized industry, that of feeding out stock for packers located in the nations big market cities.

The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce Industrial Study Group became curious as to how many of those 108,000 head were being fed in the area right close to Muleshoe. So they decided to find out. And what they discovered makes an interesting and little known story.

The group devised a brief questionnaire form, and armed with a sheaf of these and a camera, set out to visit every known fed pen in a 25-30 mile radius of Muleshoe. Thirteen lots were inspected, and thirteen feeders were interviewed with the following facts revealed:

QUESTIONNAIRE USED
There are 46,400 cattle on fed as of October 3, 1962, within the area described, and within 60 days that number will be 60,000. So, approximately half the panhandle's 108,000 feeder cattle are concentrated in the Muleshoe area.

Tuesday in Deaf Smith County Hospital of injuries received in a two-car collision which occurred at 10:45 a.m. Tuesday just west of Hereford.

She was a passenger in an automobile driven by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hazel Wimberley, who received minor cuts and bruises in the accident.

Highway Patrolman Ed Richards identified the driver of the other vehicle as Jose Guadalupe Mata, 19, Hereford. In the Mata car also was Margarito Ramirez. Neither of the men were injured.

Officers said Mrs. Wimberley's car was traveling east on U. S. 69 when the collision occurred. Mata told officers he was driving onto the highway from the parking lot of a roadside cafe and did not see the Wimberley car. Officers said the automobiles collided almost head-on.

Cross Roads — Ph. 6830

A good portion of the lots are on the farm pens, where milo raised on the farm is put into cattle for an immediate short-range return of cash money year round.

In more than one instance, on the farm feeders have an almost "perfect circle" operation. Fed is combined or made into ensilage. Manure (roughly 3-4 of the total feed weight) is spread on the field after stalks are disced, and this is followed by a turning plow. Thus the grain serves a dual purpose in many such feeding operations.

EFFECTS ON GRAINS
This cattle feeding is having a direct relationship on the grain sorghum market of the high plains. Although no definite figure can be quoted on the annual consumption of milo by the Muleshoe area feeder cattle, it isn't representative figures.

Feeding animals vary from ator. On feeder reports feeding at or. One feeder reports feeding two to five pounds per cow per day, along with green chop when available, and silage year round. This particular operation is a "Warm up" feeding. That is, the cows are not finished out, but are kept only long enough to prepare them for the topping off by other lots nearer the packer.

One feeder, who said his pens stay so full "the cows tails are hanging over the fences," reported feeding 164 million pounds of milo annually, plus cottonseed hulls and hay. This 400 head lot is finishing operation, with cattle being shipped to an Arizona packer.

MILLION POUNDS WEEKLY
Another lot, with a capacity of 18,000 head feeds a million pounds of local grain very week. Grain and imports sugar bet pulp and molasses as a feeding supplement.

The wonder of all this is where do the cows come from, and after they are fed where do they go?

The Chamber group's survey reveals that the cows are purchased in central and southeast and Alabama. Some are even shipped in from Arizona, fed out here, then shipped back to Arizona for slaughter.

Feed out cattle are disposed of in almost as many ways as there are feeders, but all ultimately wind up in the slaughter pens of packers around the nation. Muleshoe fed beef graces the tables of folks in every part of the country.

Every feeder has connections for selling his cattle, but a few feed "warm ups" for an ultimate finisher, and one or two sell to casual buyers. The latter numbers on hand at any one time.

One lot ships to a packer in Iowa. Another to Phoenix, Ariz. Still another to Lubbock and Amarillo, while one feeder sells all his fat cattle to Dallas packers.

But one factor is common to all feeders. They do not have a local packer close at hand to whom they can sell all they feed. And that is apparently one big gap in the entire feeding picture.

Aside from offering a tremendous outlet for the millions of pounds of grain sorghum produced in the area, cattle feeding has some other highly attractive aspects.

These include the near perfect weather conditions prevailing for year round feeding; a good supply of feeders and stockers from nearby states; a good market due to the expanding population of the country; and good winter wheat pasture.

Another factor is the ready market and high agriculture. It is estimated that from one half to three-fourths of the dry weight of feed lot by products, half to three-fourths of the dry weight of feed is turned to fertilizer. This necessary adjunct to soil fertility in a farming area is obviously of economic importance. Lot manure is applied commercially for about $3 per ton.

And while the fertility value of barnyard fertilizer is unquestioned, the economic factor prevents its application large areas by all but a few. Never less, the demand is steady, and lots that do not put it back on their own farm land, have a ready market for it.

Least the impression be gained that cattle feeding is a guarantee of golden opportunity for everyone, look for a moment at the other side of the coin:

NO "QUICKIE" SCHEME

There is a local packer who can absorb all the cattle now being fed. There is the high cost of shipping fed out cattle to the packers. There is the danger of overcrowding the field, as well as bringing the price down on finished cattle. And there is the not inconsiderable expense of pens, storage tanks, mixers, trucks, troughs, and pit silos. So, it is not a get-rich-quick scheme for everyone. There is no valhalla for everyone who'd like to feed out a few head.

But there is a big, big business being operated almost within a day's horseback ride of Muleshoe.

And it's getting bigger all the time.

Pros, Cons of Chemicals to Aid Harvest Aired at Area Meeting

LUBBOCK -- In a meeting held this week in Lubbock, leading cotton authorities from the Lubbock Experiment Station, the trade, the cotton ginners and other segments of the cotton industry discussed the use of harvest-aid chemicals on the High Plains. The meeting was called by the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. at the request of area ginners and farmers.

Information developed at the meeting will be reported by the PCG through area news media and in a direct mail program to High Plains ginners. According to Don Johnson, PCG executive assistant, the ginners will receive a letter emphasizing the importance of proper defoliation guide prepared by the extension service, and a poster outlining the major points to consider in a defoliation program. "It should be understood," said Johnson, "that the recommendations on the poster are intended as guidelines only. Each grower must carefully evaluate his situation and circumstances in making a decision regarding the use of a defoliant or desiccant on his crop."

The last few years has seen a marked increase in the use of harvest-aid chemicals as a recognized management tool. With the increase of machine harvesting, both defoliants and desiccants have been used to good advantage by area farmers. Harvest-aid chemicals when properly used can increase profits through earlier harvesting, higher grades, improved fiber quality, and other values to individual growers. However, as was pointed out at the meeting, improper use of such chemicals can lower profits to the grower through lower grades, decreased yields, poor fiber quality and other damaging effects.

It was also pointed out that poor fiber quality can injure the reputation of a cotton producing area, thus causing the trade to look elsewhere for its supply of raw cotton. High Plains cotton has enjoyed an enviable position in the market place over the past three years and every effort should be made to maintain this position.

Research at Lubbock and throughout the cotton belt has shown that 60 per cent of the cotton bolls should be open before a true defoliant is applied and more than 60 per cent before a desiccant is applied. Harvest-aid materials thus applied have not been observed to reduce yields or lower fiber quality. This is not, however, a hard and fast rule which will apply to all cases as other factors such as stage of growth, variety, date of last watering, weather conditions, and condition of bolls on the plant must be considered.

"Again it should be emphasized," said Johnson, "that each grower will need to evaluate his individual situation, to determine whether he should or should not use a harvest-aid chemical. If in doubt, he should seek the advice of his county agent or some other recognized authority

Euler Suggests Farm Bill Study

By RAYMOND EULER
It is to be hoped that every farmer will make a detailed study of the administration passed "Food and Agricultural Act of 1962". Besides finding it interesting, you will also find it preplexing in many details Farm in 1963 will go on much as it has in 1962.

However, there are some very different details included for the year of 1964. The following example concerns a farm of 1150 acres in the Panhandle. Bill Wedemeyer, promotion and research director of Texas Farm Bureau has prepared this example based on information at hand. There are accompanying comments, but we are just relating the figures arrived at if the farmer in question accepted the minimum acreage reductions necessary for compliance with the program:

It is assumed that the farm has acreage allotments on wheat of 500 and grain sorghum of 400 and 250 acres of temporary pasture.

Doctors Seek Ban On Head Blocking

After intensive investigation the Texas Medical Association has declared that "helmet" or "head blocking" may result in serious orthopedic and neurological injuries, and has recommended that this practice be discontinued in junior and senior high school football.

"Chronic damage to the brain, neck or spinal cord are the residual consequences of this practice," stated Dr. Robert G. McCorkle of Austin, chairman of a special TMA committee to study this problem, and death can result if the injury is severe enough."

COBB'S

CLOWNS, PRETTY GIRLS, ELEPHANTS — That's what a circus is made of, and Sells Bros. famous 3-ring circus has plenty of all the ingredients that go to make up a traditional American tent circus.

Circus is Coming Girls, Clowns, All

The true American circus, complete with Big Top, flying banners, menagerie and sawdust, is in Muleshoe next Thursday for Sells Bros. 3-ring circus. Shows are slated for 4 and 8 p.m., sponsored by the Muleshoe fire department, at Boy Scout grounds.

The show travels in giant trucks, trailers, and busses, carries an administrative and working crew of 127, in addition to the hosts of performers.

Although the show has been modernized to make possible the handling of such a huge project, the true elements of the typical American circus have been preserved. The Big Top is larger than any canvas arena to go on tour in recent years. Its construction is all new and modern devices such as a mechanical canvas loader are utilized to make possible the prompt putting up and "tearing down" essential to keeping the big show on its busy schedule.

Contrary to popular belief, the Circus never splits up or divides, and is always exhibited intact. It will be seen here exactly as it may be seen earlier or later in the season at such metropolitan areas as New York, Chicago, St. Louis or Denver.

More than 30 feature acts will be presented in all 3 rings, with a full 90 minutes of arena and aerial entertainment; plus Sells Bros. famed five continent menagerie and traveling zoo, the finest of its kind in the world. This show, the largest ever designed for automotive transportation, believes that cities off the main lines are also interested in a circus of outstanding size and quality; and to quote Mr. Duke, this year the show is Bigger - Better - Grand - than ever before; Foremost - Mightiest - Supreme, brimming over with innovations and wondrous surprises and a myriad of unprecedented amazing features from all strange lands.

A continuous, ever - varying, always changing, kaleidoscopic multiplicity of all-star acts by all-stellar artists, embracing a flood of talent such as never seen before will thrill and amaze for a full 90 minutes with over 30 feature acts in all 3 rings. Headlining the featured performers is Miss Kathleen, star of the high trapeze; the Misses Laura, Linda and Leah, queens of the air; and Sells Bros. own "Aerialettes." Senior Edwardo and company bring feats of juggling beyond compare, while the Silvers troupe of equilibrists, Sir Stanley the worlds' greatest wire walker, and Miss Pinky of the acts aplenty feature Terrell Jacobs trained animals, Bradleys' trained canines, Punks' famed monkeys, and the first family of the equestrian kingdom, the bareback riding Santiagos. All these plus a host of others and a cavalcade of clowns make this a show long remembered.

Citizenship Parley Scheduled by P-TA

Mrs. J. M. Farmer, president of District XIV of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, announces a citizenship parley for all local unit officers and committee chairmen, council officers, and district board members for Tuesday, October 16 at 9:30 a.m. at the Crosby County Pioneer Memorial Auditorium, Crosbyton. Other interested persons are invited to attend, also. The theme for this year is "HOMES CREATE COMMUNITY STRENGTH THROUGH GOOD CITIZENSHIP."

Bill Mann, superintendent of Springlake schools, chairman of District XIV citizenship committee, will be in charge of the program.

Among the special guests on the program will be Jack Strong, mayor of Lubbock; Virgil Trout, Lubbock, chairman of district XIV character and spiritual committee; and Dr. Homes Webb, Texas Tech.

There will be several workshops in the afternoon from 1 p.m. until 2:30 with a discussion panel in each workshop.

Teachers Oppose 'De Novo'

The following editorial, under the title of "Vote no on de novo", appears in the current issue of the Texas Outlook, monthly magazine of the Texas State Teachers Association.

UNLESS local school officials want to spend a great deal of their time in court from now on, they would be wise in working for the defeat of Amendment No. 14, the "trial de novo" amendment which will appear on the Nov. 6 general election ballot.

Although the Legislature likely had no such intention, the probable result of this amendment would be to tie the hands of all government could be certain that actions.

George E. Murphy, president of the Texas Municipal League representing 600 member cities, contends that the proposed amendment "could, as presently written, virtually destroy municipal government in Texas, except for certain of its police powers."

Even the most simple action or decision by any administrative agency or officer of municipal government could be subject to innumerable litigations in the courts, Murphy noted.

Neither the taxpayer nor the government could be certain that any decision would be final. Every decision could be made subject to court review and the burden of proof could be imposed upon municipal government, rather than upon the individual instigating the suit, Murphy added.

The Texas School Board Journal points out how the "trial de novo" amendment might affect local school boards.

Conceivably, personnel decisions could be subject to court action. Assessments of property for school tax purposes could be taken to court. Authority for school sites would be subject to litigation. Board policies regarding school program, pupil discipline, teacher placement, teaching materials, school calendars, etc., would be subject to jury review if questioned. School bonds and other bonds could be taken to court for decision as to their legality. And board policies regarding awarding of bids for school purchases could be thrown out by the courts.

High state officials have expressed concern that the adoption of the "trial de novo" amendment would cause breakdown in the operation of state departments and agencies.

Without question, local control by school districts and other political subdivisions would be weakened to a considerable degree. A correspondingly larger degree of control would rest in the Legislature and courts. This weakening of local control could very well result in loss of initiative, decreased efficiency, and curtailment of essential school services.

More fundamentally, this step could lead to a dangerous tilting of the delicate balance in our separation of powers between the legislative, judicial, and administrative branches of government.

THE SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

He Looks At Electronic Computers, Says They Won't Work on Farm

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm discovers once more he hasn't found an easy way to farm, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor:
I was out here on my Johnson grass farm yesterday sitting down resting my mind from all the current crises of the world when a pleasant October breeze blew a newspaper into my yard and dropped it right at my feet and I picked it up and skipped the front page headlines and was going through the inside pages when an article caught my eye.

"Computers Will work On Farms," it said, and I read it immediately. "Farms of the future will be handled largely by computers," it continued.

This is just what I'm looking for, I told myself, but then I got to the next paragraph. "Computers will be used by farmers to tell them when to plant crops, what to feed th animals, and how much water is needd by the crops."

That's when I cooled off. I don't need a machine to tell me when to plant, what I want is a machine that I can tell it when to plant.

The last thing I need is an electronic machine on this Johnson grass farm running me ragged with orders. I'm not carrying out the orders I'm already getting.

The article even went on to say that "information obtained from transmitters placed on cows would be transmitted to a computer and a report would be made outlining the animal's needs." This is ridiculous. I already know what my animals need. They need mor feed, and I also know the way they'll get mor feed is by m working harder, and I wouldn't be interested in having a machine on this place to tell me that. Aren't going to catch me working harder to pay for a machine to tell me to work harder to fed my livestock.

I've never fully understood the point in these big electronic computing machines anyway. I know they can figure up in a few seconds the answer to a problem it'd take a man years to figure, but the way I get around needing such a machine on this farm is, I just don't think up any problems that big. Why don't they turn these machines loose on the problem of Cuba?

Yours faithfully,

Sen. Yarborough's Weekly Letter

Dear Fellow Texan:
I supported the Administration's farm bill as it was passed by the United States Senate last Tuesday, September 25. Because even though this bill lacked some features that would have made it more acceptable, without the passage of this bill and with the session soon drawing to a close, there would have been no emergency wheat and feed grain programs this year.

The first result of such a failure would have been a billion dollar loss in income for farmers, a blow no section of our economy can stand. A second result would have been more wheat and feed grains surplus in the warehouses.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, in final debate on the bill, said that without this law there would be a 3 million-bushel feed grain Carry-over from the 1950's and that, in addition, failure to approve the program would add some 500 million bushels of feed grains and 100 to 150 million bushels of surplus wheat to this surplus wheat to this surplus of 1963.

In short, without this law, we would be pouring more food into warehouses when we ought to be putting more on the table in a world with far too many hungry people in it.

Much of the debate on the farm bill centered around production control. Such debate ought not to overlook the fact that a vote against the farm bill would have been a vote for lower farm income. It would have been a vote for more government money for higher storage costs for warehouses, for insurance on the stored farm commodities, and higher carry-over costs to the government.

In short, the purpose of the bill is to take out these carry-over costs for storage and put more money in the farmer's pocket. And I believe it will do just that.

Some other really good points are included in the bill. For example, it will strengthen the Rural Areas Development portion of natural resources, and improve the Rural Electrification Administration, one of the best friends the farmer ever had.

Due to a combination of low farm prices and with more use of machinery during the 1950's, farmers were -- and still are -- in desperate need of low-cost real estate credit. This Administration had already released $35 million more in farm operating loan funds -- all of which had been frozen under the previous Administration. But there is still need for more credit and this bill took another step forward in this area. It broadens the purposes for which real estate loans are made.

This bill as passed also has improvements in small watershed development, soil conservation, national forest and grassland programs for farmers and were worthy of support. In Texas, where we have such a diversity of climate and soil -- some section of the state can benefit from each of these separate features in the bill.

This farm bill also includes a stepped-up Food for Peace program. It authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to enter into sales contracts for needed foods and fibers with both foreign and United States private trade firms and institutions. In order to dispose of stored - up foods and fibers the U. S. government also could enter into contracts and agreements with friendly nations--as it has in the past -- and could expand this program to trade on a dollar basis with the private trade firms in friendly nations.

In short, fellow Texan, the object of this part of the bill is to get food on the tables of hungry people and help our surplus situation also with dollar credits to our advantage. This is an area where American goodwill is taken right into the homes of needy people in friendly nations -- the best peacetime weapon against communism ever devised.

A man we know handed the cashier in the cafeteria a slip of paper with the numbers 1004180. The cashier smiled and let him pass without paying.

Muleshoe Man Describes Motor Trip With Family Through Europe

(Editor's Note: The letter below is from Capt. Rood Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson, Muleshoe, and describes a trip to Rome, Italy. This is the first of a series of three travel letters he wrote to his parents here.)

Dear Folks:

A short apology before I begin the narrative. It will be absolutely impossible to relate all that we saw, much less convey the emotions we felt while viewing the many ancient masterpieces. I can only say that we feel so fortunate to have been able to take such a trip. Jeff presented a few small problems since he got tired, couldn't understand a lot of what we were doing, and was unable to drink milk (or the wine, as I did). However, he got by pretty well on fruit juice, and was pretty uncomplaining about all the walking and looking.

We began our trip on Sunday, Sept. 2. Loaded the car and left Murbach about 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Picked up the Autobahn at Mainz and made excellent time. Ate a picnic supper outside of Stuttgart. The countryside here was lovely — much more prosperous looking than the Hunseruk. Crossed the "Beautiful Blue Danube" at Ulm. Beautiful farm country here; this is upper Bavaria. Stopped at a roadside park about 9, just about 25 miles west of Munich. Slept in our bedrolls in the car.

Monday, Sept. 3. Got up pretty early. Discovered that the clothes we took off and laid on the tail-gate had absorbed about 2 gallons of dew. Became quite alert and awake when we donned them — Carroll's lips turned an exotic shade of blue; I chipped 3 teeth with chattering. Had the rest of our picnic for breakfast. A beautiful, clear day; on the road at 7:20. Got to Munich about 8. Spent a couple of hours touring the city — several pretty fountains.

Visited the Feldherrenhalle (Hall of Generals) built in 1841 to commemorate the Bavarian Army. National Theatre built on the University campus was an impressive building. Got a good look at the Frauenkirche (15th century cathedral) with its onion shaped domes. Highlight of the morning was the visit to the Town Hall. This is a 14th century structure. Gothic Architecture, complete with all the gargoyles, etc. Main attraction, however, is the "Glockenspiel". This is probably the most fabulous clock in the world. At 11:00 each day, it begins an 11 minute performance. We were in a cafe in a building across the street, 5 stories up, looking across at the clock's performance. It starts with two life-sized bronze figures striking the hour on bells with hammers. This is followed by a folk song played on the chimes in the top of the building. Then starts a procession of brightly painted, life-sized, wooden figures — pages, jesters, squires, etc. preceding a pair of knights on horseback. The knights are carrying lances. The second time knight's lance strikes the other knight and rocks him back in the saddle. These figures cease moving and the chimes play another folk song. Then a second row of wooden figures start dancing around a fellow (figure) who is turning his head from side to side and waving a baton in time with the music. When the dance is completed, we are treated to a couple of more songs on the chimes. The grand finale comes when a huge brass cock flaps his wings and crows twice. I took movies of all this and hope they came out o.k.

Had sauerkraut (good), wurst potatoe salad (wonderful), apfelsaft (apple juice) and beer in a small sidewalk cafe before leaving the city. Drove south past Oberammergau, site of original Passion Play, and through Garmisch. Such pretty country coming into the mountains — the beginning of the Alps.

Crossed into Austria; roads became immediately worse. The country even more beautiful. Never seen such lush, green grass growing right up into the trees. Roadside rife with crucifixes, religious statues, and wayside altars. Innsbruck is beautifully nestled in a small valley between towering ridges of mountains.

This will be the site of the 1964 Winter Olympic Games — much construction in progress. Marvellous bridge being constructed here, part of a much needed new road over the Alps. Concrete columns to support this bridge are 300-500 feet high — really quite a sight. Drive over Brenner Pass is most trying — bumper to bumper at 5 mph for a 20 mile haul. However, we made like Hannibal and herded our little white elephant over the mountains. I'd really hate to try to move an army over that terrain with modern roads and equipment — can't imagine how the old boy from Carthage ever managed it.

Finally dragged our weary carcasses into Italy on the down-slope of the pass about 7. Too late for accommodations there; had to drive on to next small town. Found a nice hotel back up in the trees — quoted rates seemed reasonable; accommodations quite good by European standards and was I ready for a hot bath and good meal.

We had a fine meal — discovered that in many of the hotels and pensions you have little or no choice about your main course. You eat what they have prepared or you just don't eat. Of course the main course is such a small portion of the meal, that it makes little difference if you eat it or not. A typical meal starts out with a choice of soup, spaghetti, ravioli, or lasagne.

This alone is enough to fill you up. Next comes the main course the meat, always accompanied with an ample portion of spuds and at least one other vegetable — salad is optional. Americans are always warned to stay away from the local water and from the green salads (because of dysentery). However, we partook of both with no ill effects.

The Italians grow the best tomatoes I've ever seen — hardly any seeds in them at all, just tasty, juicy meat. For dessert, you usually have your choice of ice cream. Jeff and Carroll usually stuck with the delicious peaches and grapes. I was introduced to a delightful, mild, sweet wonderful, and I never failed to have it. My usual beverage was a local wine (generally the white) while Carroll and Jeff alternated with fruit juice, lemon soda, and Coke. I gripped at Carroll the whole trip because one Coke cost almost as much as a whole bottle of wine.

Tuesday, Sept. 4 started early again. We learned a little more about Italian hotels this morning. The rates they quote for a room are a basic rate to which is added a 15 percent service charge, plus a federal tax and a couple of local taxes. When everything was tallied up, our recast about $20 for one night's lodging with supper. After paying this, we decided to forego breakfast at the hotel; opened up a can of tomato juice, drank it in the car, and commenced our drive south toward Verona.

We were still in beautiful, were narrow, winding, and in poor repair. We made poor time, juice foundation was wearing pretty thin. We stopped in a small town and I went into a bakery. Of course, the shop girl spoke no English — I thought I'd have a heck of a time. It turned out that she spoke German in addition to Italian. So I parlayed my Texas-Deutsch and 400 lire (about 75 cents) into a sack of bread sticks and a big cut of cheese. I soon discovered a strong enough similarity in Italian and Spanish that I was able to blunder along and usually get what we wanted from the natives. Back to the cheese and bread sticks. We were hungry.

I consider myself a pretty stinky cheese eater (eater of stinky cheeses, that is). Well, this stuff was so strong it just about knocked Carroll out of the car. She ate bread. I found that I could down small portions of the cheese along with huge quantities of the bread. Jeff, the little toad, thought that rotten smelling stuff was the world's greatest — either that, or he was just too hungry to care.

Our morning drive was quite picturesque. Numerous churches, old forts, and monasteries perched high up in the rugged terrain. The valleys are all well irrigated. Many dams on the small streams and rivers. We even saw quite a bit of sprinkler irrigation going on. Grapes, apples, and grass seem to be the main crops in this area.

Got to Verona about noon. Seems to be a lovely little city; sorry we couldn't have spent more time there and take it in better. Did visit the huge Roman amphitheatre there which is still in good shape (better condition than the Coliseum in Rome). Also spent about an hour in a pretty square where Carroll and I sat in the shade watching the fountain and the people. Jeff chased the "fijuns" (pigeons) with a little Italian boy. Here, in Verona, we made connections with a travel agency, told them what we wanted, and they made reservations for lodging, meals, and conducted tours for us in Venice, Florence, and Rome.

About half of Verona is surrounded by the old Roman wall which enclosed the whole city in the old days. Wall is still in excellent condition. One of the bridges still in use today, large enough to carry two lanes of traffic, is an original structure built by the Romans — don't think even a single cobblestone has had to be replaced.

Left Verona about 5. Beautiful 1 1/2 hour drive on a fine Autostrada (freeway) to our hotel a few miles west of Venice. We crossed a short span of the hill country of northern Tuscany. Fine supper at the hotel.

After supper, we were picked up at the hotel by a tour bus which took us to Venice. Met some friends of ours from Hann who were on the same tour and staying in a different hotel. Jeff was most excited about riding in a "school bus"; it soon became "my school bus." We got a moonlight gondola ride on some of the back canals. Also had a pretty nice serenade from a tenor and a guy with a "mildicator" (don't ask me why, but that's what Jeff calls an accordion).

Ten quite what the pictures and brochures make them out to be. The water is just too full of garbage to be pretty. The impressive thing is the age of the onece lovely buildings (a few of which are still kept nicely) rising straight out of the water. Actually, the town is built on 119 small islands, but since the buildings are built right at the water's edge with the water lapping at the walls, it looks as though they are built on the water itself.

Think I'll close my letter with the end of this day. For the exciting outcome of this adventure don't miss the next chapter of the Johnson's trip to Italy. Write us when you can.

Love, Ronald
