CATTLE TRADE NOMINAL

WEEK HAS WITNESSED 10@15c UPTURN IN LOWER GRADES OF STEER STUFF.

LITTLE STRENGTH ON BEST

Price Spread Growing Narrower—Substantial Gains in Cows and Heifers—Stockier and Feeder Trade Somewhat Improved.

Less than 100 cattle arrived at the yards today and the volume of business transacted in the cattle alleys was necessarily very meagre.

There was a substantial increase in the movement of cattle this week compared with last, when the election had the effect of curtailing the number of cattle forwarded to the various centers.

HOGS HIGHEST HERE

St. Joseph Hog Market Leads All Others in Prices Paid.

The St. Joseph hog market was in a class by itself today. Prices realized by shippers to this point today were higher by a substantial margin than those for any other market in the west.

GET RID OF BINDWEED.

Manhattan, Kan., Nov. 16.—Bindweed, the most pestiferous of small weeds, can be eradicated from small areas by the use of tar paper and hogs.

COWS, BULLS AND MIXED.

Cows and heifers have sold freely all week and sellers have succeeded in forcing an advance in prices.

WEEK'S PORK PACKING.

STOCKS AND FEEDERS.

What little trading that was done in this division today was not enough to create change in the price list.

KANSAN DIES IN RUNAWAY.

Herklimer, Kan., Nov. 16.—John Jozcel, thirty-five years old, a bachelor farmer living near here, was found dead in the road near his home yesterday morning.

HOG VALUES ENHANCED

A FLURRY IN THE MARKET DUE TO APPEARANCE OF A SHIPPING ORDER.

PRICES LIFTED 5 TO 10 CENTS

Closed 10c Up—Local Prices Higher Than at Any Other Western Center—Top $8.02 1/2; Bulk $7.80 to $7.95.

The local hog market hit 'er up again today, the matter of prices all outside markets were undisturbed. A 5@10c higher trade locally in the face of declines elsewhere put prices here above every other important center.

DOG DETECTIVES ON TRAINS

Railways Use Animals to Detect Contraband Quail.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, whose recent discovery of a tribe of blind Eskimos at Coronation Gulf stirred the scientific world, announced today that he would sail with an expedition from San Francisco or Seattle in June, 1913, on a three-year search for a continent supposed to exist in the Arctic.

Mr. Stefansson said the expedition would be financed by private contributions and that it had the scientific approval of the American Museum of Natural History, of which he is a member.

Three winters and four summers are to be devoted to the work of exploring Victoria Island and Prince Patrick Island and in looking for new islands.

The explorer expects to take a staff of six scientists with him, but the personnel of the party has not been determined. A schooner will carry the expedition into the North where two bases of operations will be established. At Prince Patrick Island there will be a base of geographic work and at some other point another will be located for geological and ethnological investigation.

SPECULATION AT END

TO REVISE THE TARIFF

Gives This Information Before Starting on Vacation Trip to Bermuda Isles—Plan in General Favor, He Says.

New York, Nov. 16.—Governor Woodrow Wilson announced last night that immediately after his inauguration as president of the United States, he would call an extraordinary session of congress to convene not later than April 15, for the purpose of revising the tariff.

The president-elect will sail for Bermuda at 2 o'clock this afternoon for a vacation and will return Dec. 16. To set at rest in the meantime speculation as to what he would do with regard to tariff revision, he issued the following statement:

"I shall call congress together in extraordinary session not later than April 15, should I have any business because I think that the pledges of the party ought to be redeemed as promptly as possible, but also because I know it to be in the interest of the country that all uncertainty as to what the particular items of tariff revision are to be should be removed as soon as possible.

Beyond this brief announcement, the governor said, he had nothing further to say. Most of the opinions he had received from public men seemed to be in favor of an extra session, he declared.

The governor did not intend to express himself about an extra session until after his election. Although he had favored the idea of an extra session because the present arrangement would not bring the new congress into session until thirteen months after its preliminary date, he expected to spend more time in ascertaining public opinion. With the time to be consumed in discussion, the governor felt that an extra session, not called, the benefits of tariff revision would be postponed for practically two years. Throughout the campaign he had been desirous of an immediate revision of the tariff and that Democratic leaders knew perfectly well how to proceed about it.

The governor was impressed by the fact that he had not heard of an extra session as to an extra session Democratic leaders in congress could begin to take counsel at an early date. The tariff revision, he said, could be worked out before congress convened on April 1. The governor was prompted incidentally in this regard by the fact that many members of congress were desirous of arranging for the extra session if he desired to do so, immediately upon his election, the governor made up his mind to wait until after he returned from his vacation before making known his attitude, but upon his return, he said that opinion in favor of a special session was practically unanimous, he felt no hesitation about making public his conclusions.

Though the president-elect means to rest while in the Bermuda, he really expects to give a good deal of time to quiet thought about the tariff that faces him. He will sketch his annual message to the New Jersey legislature, and will do some extensive reading on data on the tariff, monetary, banking and currency reforms and other issues.

The governor came to New York last night to attend the dinner given in his honor by his classmates at Princeton '79. He expected to have no political conferences while in the metropolis, and seemed fully confident that he would not be disturbed by political callers while resting in Bermuda. All the prominent men in the campaign just closed, the governor knew by his classmates, he said, that the consideration of political subjects until his return.

HIGH PRICE OF MEATS.

Peoria, Ill., Mayor Informed It Can Be Reduced by Eating Mutton.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 16.—Mayor Woodruff has received a communication from S. W. McClure, of the National Wool Growers' association, whose headquarters are at Gooding, Idaho, relative to the high price of meats and the same is herewith reproduced:

"Mayor of Peoria, Ill.—Knowing that you have at heart the welfare of the residents of your city, I beg the liberty of calling to your attention a matter that will prove of unusual benefit to you and your people.

"At the present time beef and pork are retailing at high prices, due to a temporary shortage of cattle and hogs. However, mutton and lamb are selling at low prices. Due to an oversupply of sheep, which will continue for some time, if the attention of your people could be attracted to mutton, mutton would be immediately forthcoming. While mutton is low in price, it is fully equal to beef and pork in its nutritive value, and is superior to either of them in digestibility and health-building qualities. The sheep is the only meat-producing animal that does not cost as much as the pig. This fact is proven by reports of the United States bureau of animal industry.

"The Chicago packers last week were obtaining dressed lamb at 11 1/2 to 12 1/2 cents a pound and dressed prime mutton at 8 1/2 to 9 1/2 cents per pound. With the wholesale price so low the retail price must be correspondingly low. Therefore, if the people of this country knew these facts they could at once materially reduce their meat and mutton bills. This was the second meeting of the kind held by the association and like the first was a decided success. The entries of farm and garden products and kitchen and pantry stores would have done credit to an ordinary county fair. Believing that the best opportunity for the negroes is in the country, the Missouri State Board of Agriculture sent to this meeting as a special lecturer and demonstrator, Henry Kirkin, a successful negro gardener from Columbia, Mo. The association has elected officers and will hold another fair and farmers' institute next year.

TO AID FARM WOMEN.

Miss Nellie Nesbitt to Conduct Institute Work in Missouri.

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 16.—Miss Nellie Nesbitt, a graduate from the Home Economics Department of the University of Missouri, and who has had experience in the teaching of home economics, besides giving a much thought and study to the problems of the home, and especially of the farm home, has recently been employed by the Missouri State Board of Agriculture. Miss Nesbitt will devote her entire time to institute and organization work. She hopes to do for the farm women of Missouri what S. H. Jordan, J. K. Wright and others employed by the Board of Agriculture, have done and are doing in their work with the men on the farms. Communities desiring the services of Miss Nesbitt should communicate with the secretary of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture at Columbia.

SHIP GOLD THROUGH MAIL

New Method of Illicit Exportation Discovered in Africa.

Johannesburg, Nov. 16.—According to the Rand Daily Mail, an extensive conspiracy for the illicit exportation of gold has been discovered. It is stated that for some time past large quantities of gold in the form of ingots has been sent to London, Liverpool, Dover, and other places through the post, packed in parcels purporting to be process blocks. Payment was made to a man in Johannesburg who was dealing direct with a wealthy English syndicate. The gold itself was of course, easily disposed of at one of the depots of the firm in England. The traffic is said to have been discovered by a spy, who spent some months in the gold mines and wormed himself into the confidence of the illicit exporters.

NEGROES HOLD A FAIR.

Second Event of Its Kind in Cooper County, Missouri, a Success.

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 16.—A fair and farmers' institute, managed and conducted entirely by negroes, was recently held at Bunceston, in Cooper county. This was the second meeting of the kind held by the association and like the first was a decided success. The entries of farm and garden products and kitchen and pantry stores would have done credit to an ordinary county fair. Believing that the best opportunity for the negroes is in the country, the Missouri State Board of Agriculture sent to this meeting as a special lecturer and demonstrator, Henry Kirkin, a successful negro gardener from Columbia, Mo. The association has elected officers and will hold another fair and farmers' institute next year.

Among well pleased patrons of the local market yesterday was "Nick" Debeck, a substantial farmer and one of the big feeders of Warren county, Iowa, who accompanied a consignment of heavy butcher hogs of his own raising and feeding to the market. The shipment was made up of 58 hogs, averaging 183 lbs. that sold at $7.90, the top of the market and a nickel above the Kansas City top. Mr. Debeck was more than pleased with his sale and St. Joseph will likely attract more of his business in the future.

If pigs are well fed they will usually wean themselves at the proper time, without any trouble.

HEAVY HOG RUN IN EAST. Eastern exchange: Buffalo and Pittsburgh are getting their annual hog run and its appearance is always a bear argument.

purpose, or else purchase meat from local stores or butcher shops. The fact is that many farmers have either sold out or been cleaned out by cholera. It is an unusual situation.

Cholera last year was widespread, killing thousands of hogs, and although a severe winter separated the calendar record of the plague from the present year it appears that the germs either lived over or a new crop was generated in time to do a great deal of damage this season.

When the lands were allotted to the Indians of the Five Civilized Tribes of former Indian Territory there was a large residue in each nation that was not taken and this is to be disposed of at the coming sale in the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations.

Some of the land contains valuable timber, but most of it is valuable for agricultural or grazing purposes. Some of the land, of course, is not first class, but many of the tracts compare favorably with the best land in the communities where located.

The land is located in 22 counties and the portion located in each county is to be sold at public auction at the county seat. The government reserves the right to reject any bids. No bids can be made for any fractional part or subdivision of any tract advertised, nor will a bid for the minimum price listed be considered.

No more than 640 acres of land may be sold to any one person, this maximum limit to include Indian lands he may have bought previously at government sale.

Bids of prospective purchasers may be submitted through agents, but such agents must present and file power of attorney properly executed by the person interested.

Twenty-five per cent of the amount of the purchase price must be paid at the time the bid is made and the balance bearing 6 per cent interest may be paid as follows: 25 per cent in one year and 50 per cent in two years from date of sale, but the entire amount may be paid at any time.

All bids will be accepted subject to approval by the secretary of the interior and upon such approval a certificate of purchase will be issued which will entitle the purchaser to immediate possession of the land, but the cutting or removal of timber for commercial purposes or drilling for oil or gas is prohibited until after the entire purchase price is paid.

Waters formerly lived in this county. He was reared near Vandalla and his brother, W. S. Waters, lives there. When Governor Wilson toured Kansas a few weeks ago during the campaign, he arranged by wire for a conference with President Waters at Manhattan. The conference took place, but what passed between the two nobody but the governor and Waters know. The fact, however, that there was a long private talk is known to Waters' friends in this county and they regard it with significance.

President Waters was at the head of the Missouri college of agriculture several years before going to Kansas.

Back to Land Reversion Cure. Wisconsin Commissioner Says There is Much Depreciation in Country.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Ten days of doing chores before breakfast will cure the average back-to-the-land fever, said Benjamin O. Packer, Wisconsin commissioner of immigration, at the second annual meeting of the National Conference of Immigration, Land and Labor Officials here.

Packer said that there was much depreciation in country life. "Those who have started and kept alive the poetic sentiment relative to the back-to-the-land movement," he said, "are the ones who are most likely to find their ideals dashed to the ground by duties and conditions not considered before leaving their comfortable urban apartments."

"It is not the man unaccustomed to hard manual labor that the land departments of the various states want on their farms. The man who has some of generations of farmers in this country or other countries is the best to encourage in this work. He will get results where the others will fail."

NODAWAY HOGS DYING FAST. Hundreds of Swine Are Succumbing to Disease Near Maryville.

Maryville, Mo., Nov. 16.—A disease of the nature of which is not named in the present report, is killing hundreds of hogs in Nodaway county, and causing the farmers to rush their swine to market before their herds have been attacked.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Rat Went Out of the Back Door

Gyp Watched the Rat Hole All Day.

THERE was a smile on daddy's face to begin with. "Now," said he, "I think I will tell you about a smart little puppy dog."

Jack and Ralph also smiled, for puppy dogs were particularly dear to them. "Gyp was a fat black-puppy dog. He lived in a house behind which stood a big white stable," daddy went on.

"Fan and Gay, the two brown carriage horses, lived in the stable. Up in the loft the feed was kept, and in the harness room hung the nice leather fittings the horses wore when they went out."

"Tabby, the house cat, was too old and rheumatic to spend the night in the stable. So Gyp, whose mother, a cute little terrier, was a splendid ratter, was kept in the stable so that he might see his mother catching rats and learn the business early."

"Gyp did his best to learn. There wasn't a rat hole in the stable that he didn't sniff hopefully every morning when he got up and to which he did not pay a good night visit before he crawled into his sleeping box in the corner."

"But, as all good rat catchers could have told him, there is something more in catching a rat than watching a hole."

"One morning as he played about the stable he noticed a big gray rat poke its head out of one of the holes. The rat was looking for something to eat, but when it saw Gyp it jerked its head back into the hole. Barking delightedly, Gyp made for the rat hole and sniffed and whined, coaxing the rat to come out again."

"I'm going to sit down here and wait till I catch it," said Gyp. He thought that would not be very long. All morning he watched the rat hole.

"Good dog," said the coachman when he took the horses out in the morning. "Good dog," he said again when he came back at noon. Gyp began to feel hungry, but still he would not stir.

"As it began to grow dark his mother came in to see where he had been all day. 'Why didn't you come to the house for your lunch?' she asked."

"I'm watching for a rat," he replied. "I've been watching ever since it looked out of the hole this morning."

"You silly child," replied his mother. "Come along, now, and have your supper. Don't you know rats have more than one way to get in and out of the holes? I dare say that was the very rat I caught down in the stable cellar this morning."

"And poor Gyp moaned with disappointment."

OIL AND GAS IN OKLAHOMA

Reported by United States Geological Survey as Promising Field.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—The development of the oil and gas resources of north-central Oklahoma is discussed by Robert H. Wood, of the United States Geological Survey, in a report just issued as Bulletin 331-B. The region considered in the report includes lands formerly within the Pawnee, Otoe, Ponca, Kaw, and Tanawha Indian reservations, comprising about 52 miles from north and south and 50 miles from east to west in Grant, Kay, Osage, Pawnee, Noble, Garfield, Logan, Payne and Lincoln counties. The principal towns are Guthrie, Pawnee, Perry, Ponca, Newkirk, and Blackwell, and the principal railroads are the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway, and the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad.

Comparatively little geologic work had been attempted in this region until Mr. Wood spent portions of last January and February in visiting localities where producing wells and test holes had been sunk.

His conclusions, after considering the data at hand concerning the region, are that it includes encouraging possibilities of oil. This conclusion is based, in the first place, on the fact that all the productive sands of the main field to the east dip under the area at a low angle and the lowest sand at the deepest point in the west-east cross-section is over 4,200 feet beneath the surface. In the second place, there are a large number of sands throughout the geologic section, nearly all of which, from the highest at Ponca to the lowest at Cleveland, have been productive in some locality or other, and several sands have been found to be productive in the same well. In third place, there are, in several localities, undoubted anticlines, which, in this region, are extremely favorable to the accumulation of oil and gas.

The fact that a number of oil wells have been reported to be productive even in the immediate region around them, because very few of the wells are deep enough to be thorough sandstones, owing to the variability in thickness and porosity of the sand and the influence of structure in developed territory dry holes are sometimes drilled not far from producers and even near producers.

Prospects for the development of the number of pools in this region seem to be good.

A copy of the report may be obtained free on application to the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

Success in Taking Accurate Astronomical Observations Regarded as Unusual.

San Francisco, Nov. 16.—Many odd geniuses have become infatuated with the Arctic region and one of these has just returned to his home near here after months of isolation in the frozen north. He is Ernest de Koven Leflingwell and he came back on the whaler Belvedere with Dr. H. M. Anderson, who was Stefansson's companion when the latter discovered the blond Eskimos. As has been announced in earlier dispatches, Dr. Anderson's reports fully verify those of his fellow explorer.

Leflingwell's hobby in the North has been the making of a coast map, with soundings, the first since those made by Franklin and Simpson more than half a century ago. He has completed this work for 150 miles of the little known seas, but he has spent all of his fortune and sees no chance of completing this work unless the Federal Geological Survey will finance further efforts.

Leflingwell says that the coast is much changed since the maps now used were made, but that islands then charted are gone, but that he has found most of them by making lead soundings. Also he has found gross inaccuracies in the work. While he took this map maker's first experience in Arctic work was with the Mikkelson's expedition in 1901. Later he furnished one-third of the funds for the Duchess of Bedford expedition and on that trip he began his map making. He returned in 1908 and, obtaining more funds from his father, returned to the work. While he took what seemed ample provisions, he was compelled to spend a good deal of his time gathering a meat supply.

Aside from the necessity of hunting for food, the map making job in the Arctic is no task for a man who is in a hurry. During his first year's stay Leflingwell was favored with 10 working days and during the 42 months he has just closed, the total working days, when the weather permitted taking of soundings, totaled three months.

One feat of which Leflingwell is especially proud is that of taking accurate astronomical observations in the frozen north. This is the way he explains the difficulties he encountered in this work: "The observer must hold his breath or the frost will fog the glass. Much of the work is done at night, but the reading light is held too close the heat will disturb the level. Care must be taken not to breathe on the pivots of the instrument with bare fingers, and with bare fingers it had to be done. I had all the metal parts of my instruments covered with fiber. I wore gloves that left only the tips of my thumb and forefinger exposed, and as a further protection against cold, I wrapped the pencil with which I made my notes in cloth. In that air the hand will freeze stiff in one minute, and as I had to work an hour at a time it was very necessary that they be protected."

YOUNG HUNTER NEAR DEATH. Clay County, Mo., Boys Quarrel Over Possession of Gun, and One Shot.

Liberty, Mo., Nov. 15.—One gun with the boys to shoot. It may result fatally for Roy Woodard, a youth of sixteen. Woodard's life hangs by a thread, according to two physicians who have been with him constantly since the shooting. Woodard, with Charles Cox, aged eight, and Cox's brother, Ben, aged twelve, left their home in Birmingham, for a hunt along with the shooting. Woodard, who had but one gun and an argument soon arose as to who would shoot it.

While the contention was at its height, Woodard sat down on a log in the woods and Charles Cox grabbed the rifle. Almost at the same instant the rifle was discharged. The bullet entered Woodard's throat and ranged downward through his left breast.

The physicians are unable to locate it. The Cox boys, frightened, hurried to Birmingham, where they reported the tragedy. Woodard has been unable to give his version of the affair. Prosecuting Attorney James S. Sinclair has announced he would make a thorough investigation of the case. The mother of the Cox boys died some months ago.

BODY BLOW TO LIVING COST. Chicago Women to Serve Meal for 7 Cents a Plate.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Women of the Chicago school of Domestic Arts and Sciences plan a body blow for the high cost of living in an exhibit to be given by them next week. They say they will set a wholesome meal at a cost of 7 cents a plate. The meal is planned for a family of six and costs exactly 42 cents. The following is the bill:

One loaf home made bread, 2 cents. Mutton and vegetables, encasserole, 25 cents.

Steamed rice, 5 cents. Bread pudding custard, 10 cents. The encasserole dish, it is held, will contain as much nutriment as a 90 cent steak and makes side dishes unnecessary since it includes vegetables. The rice is included for good measure, being richer in food value than potatoes. The women say they will prove that 250 loaves of bread may be made from one sack of good flour.

CONVICT MILLING COMPANY. Winfield Firm Guilty of Violating Feed Law, Jury Says.

Winfield, Kan., Nov. 16.—The Arkansas City Milling Company was found guilty in the Cowley county district court today on two of the counts in the indictment charging violation of the Kansas mill feed law, one allowing adulteration of mill feed and the other selling without registration. There were five counts. A demurrer to one was sustained. Two others were dismissed for want of evidence. Sentence was deferred by Judge Swartz.

FOUND RIGHT MAN AT ONCE

Seedy and Unlikely Looking Individual Knew All About City's Street Railway Troubles.

A man once came to Newton D. Baker, mayor of Cleveland, and said: 'My town is going to have a street railway fight. I want to know all about Cleveland's.' 'I shall be only too glad to tell you all I know,' said Mr. Baker, 'but unfortunately I have appointments until one o'clock. Will you come back?' 'How can I most profitably put in the two hours here until that time?' asked the stranger. 'The answer was: "Go out on the public square, sit down by the most unlikely man you can find—the one who looks most as if he didn't know the difference between a franchise and a double track. Ask that man to tell you about Cleveland's street railway fight, and when you come back I will tell you whatever you haven't been able to learn from him."'

ROUGH MANNERS OF THE PAST

Drinking Trick in Which English Monarch Figured—The First Fingerless Gloves. Drinking tricks figured in diplomacy in the time of Henry VIII. Mrs. Henry Cust quotes the king's challenge to Hubertus, the representative of the Palsgrave Frederick. He sent for two fields, filled with wine and beer respectively, and gave the envoy his choice for a "drinking out" test. In vain Hubertus pleaded that his master had actually instituted a company of the Golden Ring to put down such contests, any member who broke the prohibition to lose his ring and give $1 to the poor. Henry, anxious to prove that the Englishman was the better man, promised to find the forfeit himself and drank his beer at a draft, while it took the German four gulps to account for the wine. How early did mankind think of the convenience of the fingerless glove? Little was said of gloves in ancient times, but in most cases it is obvious that they had fingers. Those worn by the secretary of the younger Pliny, used when he visited Vesuvius, so that he might keep on jotting down notes in spite of the cold, must have been fingered, no less than those of the glutton in Anteanus, who wore gloves at table so that he might handle the meat while hot and get in advance of his bare handed fellow diners.

A Vivid Picture. Of all "aptitudes," the mechanical is least likely to manifest itself in a feminine brain. The young woman whose visit to a locomotive works is described in Young's Magazine, was doubtless interested in what she saw, but her account of the processes observed leaves the reader to doubt her entire understanding of them. "You pour," she told a friend, "a lot of sand into a lot of boxes, and you throw old stove lids and things into a furnace, and then you turn the red-hot stream into a hole in the sand, and everybody yells and shouts. "Then you pour it out, let it cool and pour it, and then you put in it a thing that looks like a nail. Then you screw it together, and paint it, and put steam in it, and it goes spinning, and they take it to a drafting-room and make a blue-print of it. "But one thing I forgot—they have to make a boiler. One man gets inside and one gets outside, and they pound fruitfully, and then they tie it to the other thing, and you ought to see it go!"—Youth's Companion.

Thoughtful John Chinaman. "The virtues of a Chinese laundryman never have been half told," said the woman. "Not of my laundryman, anyhow. He is such a motherly old soul. The other day he brought my handkerchiefs home folded in two different ways, some squared, some cat-cornered." "Why the different styles in ironing?" I asked. "John pointed to the stack of cat-cornered handkerchiefs. "These holes," he said. Then to the square pile, "These good. In big bulky, not gettee mix and go out with holey handkerchief." "Kind old John. His idea was all right, but doesn't keep me from getting mixed, for I can never remember which shape means holey and which means whole, so I am likely to disgrace myself with a holey handkerchief after all."

Tested. "Eighty dollars for a set of tires is pretty stiff," said Jipson. "Haven't you got anything cheaper?" "Sure," said the affable salesman. "I have a set here you can have for ten dollars." "Ten, eh?" said Jipson. "That's good and cheap. How about 'em—are they good for anything? Ever had 'em tested?" "I should say so," said the salesman. "They've traveled over 20,000 miles already."—Harper's Weekly.

BORES ON RAILROAD TRAINS

Woman Complains of Talkative Fellow Travelers Who Insist on Revealing Secrets.

It is strange how many people, when traveling, are so bored with their own society that they will talk to whatever stranger they can force to listen—yes, and tell their heart's secrets, too. Once, in the dressing room of a Pullman, a woman whom I have never seen from that day to this, told me with exact detail all about a recent scandal in her family which they had kept out of the papers only by the most strenuous effort. Yet for all she knew, I might have been a reporter and I must say I longed to frighten her for her indiscretion by telling her that I was one! Less serious confidences are frequent. "I've hardly a hair on my head that's my own," whispers the woman who has come over from the next section ostensibly to offer you a magazine, but really to hear herself talk. "These puffs cost $20—and altogether I've bought over 200 worth of braids and switches." Pleasant thought! It is much more difficult to handle the cheerful, expansive woman traveler who has made up her mind to talk to one of her own sex and who's at heart a very good sort, but who merely happens to be a frightful bore, than it is to discourage the advances of the offensive traveling man, who, seeing a woman alone, feels that he can follow up his rude stares with conversation. Usually a curt monosyllabic answer or no answer at all will sufficiently crush him—but you cannot deal out that sort of treatment to your own sex.—Exchange.

TAUGHT EXPERTS A LESSON

Accident While Casting Cannon Resulted in Foundation of Present English Gun Factory. We owe our present arsenal at Woolwich to an accident. The government had a gun foundry in Moorfields, where, upon one occasion, in the year 1716, a distinguished party were gathered together to witness the operation of casting a large cannon. A young foreigner, named Schlich, who seems to have been almost an entire stranger, but who was well acquainted with the details of casting, noticed that one of the molds had been insufficiently dried, and warned the molders against using it. They disregarded his advice, and when he saw that he could not prevail upon them to desist, he immediately put himself well out of harm's way before the cannon was cast. A terrible explosion occurred when the molten metal rushed into the wet mold, owing to the sudden generation of steam that could find no outlet, and several persons were killed and a large number injured. It is said that search was made for the man whose predictions had been so painfully verified, and that the government employed him to advise about the best mode of preventing such accidents in future. The result was that Moorfields was given up as a site of a gun foundry altogether, and upon his advice the establishment was removed to the Warren at Woolwich.—London Tit-Bits.

"This Is Your Show."

The late Sir George White, defender of Ladysmith, was a strong enough man to take responsibility for failure; he was a strong enough man, too, to give credit to his subordinates for good work done. The first time I saw him was at Elandslaagte. The battle was well in progress. General French was elaborating one of the most brilliant affairs of the South African war. Late in the afternoon Sir George White and his staff rode on the battlefield, and had not been there five minutes before a shell fired from one of the Maxim-Nordenfletts which the Boers captured from Jamieson at the time of the raid, but which were destined by nightfall to be in our hands, plowed up the ground within a few yards of his horse. Almost simultaneously French hurried up and drew rein before the chief to surrender command. "No you carry on," said Sir George, "this is your show."—London Daily News.

Archbishop's Feast.

A correspondent sends us the material for a dinner given by the Archbishop of York in 1468: Three hundred quarters of wheat, 330 tons of ale, 104 tons of wine, 1 pipe of spiced wine, 80 fat oxen, 6 wild bulls, 1,004 sheep, 3,000 hogs, 300 calves, 3,000 geese, 3,000 capons, 300 pigs, 100 peacocks, 200 cranes, 200 kids, 2,000 chickens, 4,000 pigeons, 4,000 rabbits, 204 bittern, 4,000 ducks, 4,000 herons, 200 pheasants, 500 partridges, 4,000 woodcocks, 400 plovers, 100 curlew, 100 quails, 100 egrets, 200 roes, 400 bucks, 5,500 venison pasties, 5,000 dishes of jelly, 5,000 custards, 300 loaves, 300 bream, 8 seals, 4 porpoises and 400 tarts. There were 1,000 servants, 62 cooks and 515 scullions. Our correspondent informs us that his authority does not state in what circumstances the dinner was given, or how many guests assembled. Possibly some reader may be able to throw light on the subject.—London Globe.

INCIDENTS OF INDIAN WAR

Custer's Last Fight and the Fight of the 'Dobe Walls.

A. R. Stewart in The Craftsman: It was Charging Hawk, a former Sioux scout, who first told of an unexplained incident of the Custer war.

Wounded again and again, the white man kept on fighting until he fell, and the Indians killed not a single one of his brave men.

Another Indian echo of that battle is of a big black dog which escaped after the fight.

The story of the fight has been retold and rewritten many times.

SUICIDES IN GERMANY.

Series of Tragedies Among Boys and Girls Opens Problem.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—The recent suicide of a schoolboy of 15 years at Frankfurt-on-the-Main, coming after a series of such tragedies, has once more raised the question of school examinations and the too strenuous upbringing of youthful Germany.

In the case under notice the boy, a son of a wealthy and very honorable family of Magdeburg, was 17 years old and then disappeared.

These were three of the more remarkable cases. One may also remember a case of double suicide in which two school children, a boy and a girl, ended their lives, and many almost inexplicable cases of the suicide of young servant girls.

The general reasons are not very clear. School examinations and the strenuous programme of the German schools have undoubtedly been a factor in some cases.

SAVE THE BROKEN EGGS.

They Are Frozen or Dried and Used in Cooking.

Manhattan, Kan., Nov. 16.—The freezing and drying of eggs, to preserve them for commercial use, is an industry that is rapidly developing.

This is because Kansas produces a great many eggs. The home of any industry must be close to the material which it uses in the manufacture of its products.

Eggs that are cracked or dirty, but still wholesome, can be frozen or dried and will make perfect cooking material for bakers.

The eggs are sometimes frozen at a temperature of ten degrees below zero. The yolks and whites are removed from the shells, placed in 10-, 15- or 100-pound cans and frozen in them.

WOMAN AND MAN IN DUEL

Paris Girl Slays Man Who She Says Insulted Her.

Paris, Nov. 15.—The fashion of dueling seems to be spreading among the fair sex, as was demonstrated by evidence in a case this week where a servant girl was accused of murder.

PRESUMABLY HARD TO FIND

If Actions Go for Anything, Young Man is Still Looking for That Envelope.

This happened in a crowded subway express train the other night.

The young man understood and faded from view.

Annoying Honesty.

Having vouched for the honesty of the woman who wished a situation as scrubwoman, the good-natured man was subjected to a severe examination by the superintendent of the building.

The Hat Question in 1790.

The Handel festival was originally given in Westminster Abbey, and the official notice of 1790 announced that no ladies will be admitted with hats, and they are particularly requested to come without feathers and very small bows, if any.

Song Bird as "A Noley Animal."

William Smith of Upper Holloway was summoned to the North London police court a few days ago for "keeping a noley animal" to the annoyance of his neighbors.

Advanced.

Mrs. Willis—Is she advanced? Mrs. Gillis—Frightfully so. She is the suffragette leader of a new religious sect in a Socialistic community, where they talk nothing but universal language.

FOUGHT WITH RAILROAD TRAIN

At a point on the railway line between Mirabel and Canaveral, on the Spanish side of the boundary line between Spain and Portugal, there occurred an odd sort of bullfight.

A train had just come out on a sweeping curve from the hills and down upon a little plain when the engineer saw directly before him a herd of bulls on the tracks.

The market for frozen and dried eggs is largely in the East. The United States army and navy and the Alaska trade consume a large part of these products.

When all the men abandoned their task and took refuge in the cars, the bulls followed them to the very steps, bellowing and pawing.

TRACKED BY POSTAGE STAMPS

Whether a man is a criminal or a law-abiding citizen, he ought to take the pains to stick his postage stamps on exactly straight.

"After you put a stamp on a certain way for a little while it becomes second nature and you stick it on that way unconsciously.

Choose Neighbors With Home.

"The subject of neighbors is one on which we are sensitive," writes Agnes Athol in an article on "Some Things That We Learned by Renting a House in the Suburbs."

Why We Are Right-Handed.

One of the professors at a well-known agricultural college has figured it out that if you are left-handed it is a sign that your ancestors were not good fighters.

Ventilation Test.

A single way to tell whether your room is properly ventilated is to place a wide-necked bottle of water into which you have put half an ounce of lime water, in the room, letting it remain uncovered overnight.

USE FOR SHOPPING GLOVES

Mr. Compton's Simpler Method at Bargain Counter Rejected With the Scorn It Deserved.

From his easy chair Mr. Compton watched his wife putting on a pair of tan gloves.

"Oh, no, no, not for shopping gloves," said Mrs. Compton, and with her fingers off the table, she ran a scale up and down several times.

GAUGING DOWNFALL OF RAIN

Few people really understand how rain is measured. We often read in the newspaper that so many inches of rain have fallen during a certain period, but it is difficult to realize what an inch of it actually means.

Your Duty to Your Dealer

By SETH BROWN

You should realize that your dealer is your servant—that his goods and service are intended for your benefit, and, therefore, if you are not receiving from him just exactly the kind of service which you believe you are entitled to, it is not only your privilege but your duty to tell the dealer.

Make it plain to him wherein he can improve his service and methods in your behalf and you will find, as a rule, that he will give close attention to your suggestions.

One of the methods which you can use in this direction is to call the dealer's attention to announcements which have appeared in his advertising.

For instance, if you are buying certain articles which you have seen advertised, and if for any reason those articles do not exactly meet with your approval, or if they do not quite come up to your idea of what they were represented to be, it is a good plan to state this fact to the dealer frankly.

Almost all dealers are honest. They have learned by experience and observation that it is only wise to advertise the truth about their goods.

But sometimes errors will creep in which the dealers are always glad to rectify. Your duty to your dealer goes beyond the point of buying goods from his store—and paying for them.

You should appreciate the fact that he is your servant, and as a servant he is entitled to know how nearly he is fulfilling his trust—pleasing his customers.
