Couple Honored With Open House Reception on Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Allison were honored at an open house reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Allison on Christmas Day in observance of their fiftieth anniversary. Hosts and hostesses for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Allison, Los Angeles, California; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Allison, Madera, California; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Orgley, Littlefield and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Allison, Muleshoe.

More than 100 guests were registered in the living room of the home by a granddaughter, Kay Allison, Los Angeles, Calif. The room was decorated with arrangements carrying out the theme of the occasion and the focal point was a picture of the couple made on their wedding day.

The serving table was draped with a white hand-made crocheted cloth over gold. It was centered with a three-tiered cake topped with gold wedding bells and the numeral "50" in gold glitter. It was trimmed around the sides with white roses with gold centers. An arrangement of gold chrysanthemums flanked with the crystal and silver service complete table decorations. Presiding at the table were Cindy and Susan Allison and Sandra Cox. Nancy Allison served as the hostess in the den where gifts

Santa Pays Visit To Kindergarten

Pupils of Kiddyland Kindergarten were entertained with a Christmas party last Friday morning, complete with the arrival of Santa Claus, in the home of their teacher, Mrs. Cecil Tate. Mothers assisted Mrs. Tate with hostess duties.

Red felt stockings with the children's names on them were filled with candy and given to each as party favors.

Santa Claus arrived for a chat with the children and helped with the gift exchange. Christmas cookies and punch were served.

Second Lady Quickens Pace

WASHINGTON (AP)—"As I see it, we'll hit the ground running," Lady Bird Johnson predicted when the Kennedy New Frontiersmen first headed for Washington.

She described the picture accurately as a result of the know-how of 27 years on the Washington scene with her husband Lyndon B. Johnson.

But, Lady Bird hadn't quite foreseen the role she herself would assume as the wife of the Vice President in an age in which as he points out, "The world has narrowed into a neighborhood, but NOT yet broadened into a brotherhood."

For Lady Bird, it has been global whistle-stopping. She has pinch-hit for the President's wife and even given the hat off her head for worthwhile causes.

Entertaining Russian astronaut Titov one day, Bashir the camel driver the next and rushing off on a round-the-world good will tour with her husband are all part of it.

HER PHILOSOPHY

She has met most of the famous women of today's world of international politics and is discovering their achievements and their needs.

At 49, Lady Bird Johnson is philosophical and thoughtful about her role—searching for the significant, she says, and ever mindful that "it takes great discipline and a firm set of values in Washington or you find yourself frittering away 16 hours a day over trivia, cunts of tea and light comment."

Just as the role of Vice President has grown in stature and responsibilities, the Second Lady has made this transition too.

SECOND FIDDLE

With public interest so keenly centered on the 33-year-old glamorous First Lady, Jacqueline Kennedy, Lady Bird's hardwork efforts sometimes get overshadowed as Vice President Johnson, himself, fades at times behind the glamor image of President Kennedy.

Those who closely observe Mr. Johnson on her endless social rounds notice occasionally a certain tenseness that comes behind the smiles—a sign of hectic life she leads.

Once a month Mrs. Johnson, mother of two teen-age daughters flies to the LBJ ranch in Texas for a change, and to take care of business as head of an Austin, Texas radio-television station.

Their ranch home is a special stop for VIP visitors, such as Parkistan President Ayub Khana and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer—all treated to a sumptuous barbecue.

PERLE'S HOUSE

The Johnsons brought the 12-room French chateau-style house formerly owned by hostess—without the most, Perle Mesta because they need to entertain on a bigger scale, though both prefer the informal, more intimate social life.

The imposing stone mansion now has a dash of Texas amid many of Perle's French furnishings, plus much piped into every room and a special hi-fi for daughter Lynda Bird, 18, "because she doesn't like our taste," Lady Bird explains.

The name of the place was changed from "Les Ormes" to "the English version" "The Elms," because Lady Bird felt "ever so slightly put on" when she came through the gates with that French title.

Frugally buying for their new home, Mrs. Johnson told a friend in amazement "you know they stare at me when I ask for 'seconds,'" in buying towels and other linens.

EXPERT GUIDE

The Elms is now headquarters for Lady Bird's twice-a-week Spanish lessons with a small group of friends, her office, and place where she dutifully enters string of visitors.

Over the years, Lady Bird has become an expert Washington sightseeing guide and many VIP visitors have had the pleasure of hearing her regale them with little known tidbits of history as she takes them through the Capitol or on a trip to Mount Vernon.

The Vice President's wife gets an average of 25 letters a day and about five invitations. There are five or more daily requests for an autographed picture, a favorite recipe or a personal item to be auctioned at a

WOMEN'S UNTAPPED POWER

After meeting women do-ers all over the world, Mrs. Johnson sees the free woman of the world as "an enormous untapped power that is just becoming available as women around the world emerge from the veil to the vote.

Although she maintains "I love what I'm doing—I'm glad to do all I can" Lady Bird feels the immense pressures of her back-up job.

Once she drove her car to the drive-in snack bar, where she could sit in her car undisturbed to write a speech.

Problems for the Women (Bless 'em) In '62 Little Different From 1961

By JOY MILLER
AP WOMEN'S EDITOR

Women worried about the same old things in 1962: cost of living, dieting, getting a man—or if they had one keeping him—their children's futures. They added some new tensions too.

At the supermarket they collected trading stamps with philatelic fervor. At the beauty shop they insisted on a bouffant hairdo, often succumbed to the practical blandishments of a wig.

Often as not they settled for rabbit by another name, or perhaps mink, but in their dramatic little hearts they longed for an Elizabeth or Elizabeth Taylor or Jackie Kennedy were photographed in.

For that matter, a good many longed for just about anything the First Lady—from Capri pants to wraparound sunglasses to rajah coats.

The serious-minded sometimes scorned fashion and found their outlet in picketing for peace. Others argued earnestly at Congressional hearing that women should be sent into space.

Mothers were besieged from all sides. An eminent pediatrician insisted tests showed babies thrived on unheated milk just out of the refrigerator, a new fangled theory many a mother vowed to have nothing to do with.

Having weathered many another fad, mothers of teen-agers faced the newest cheap kick: glue sniffing. And the Twist, in spite of detractors, was still popular at year's end.

If there was unanimity on anything it was that Dr. Frances Kelsey was the heroine of the year. She was the U. S. Food and Drug Administration medical officer who stubbornly held out for 14 months against impossible odds to bar thalidomide from American market. The sleeping pill later was blamed for the deformity of thousands of babies in Europe.

Dr. Kelsey was the undisputed year's heroine, but actress Elizabeth Taylor was unrivaled in the role of siren. Her carrying on her leading man Richard Burton during the interminable filming of "Cleopatra" in Rome was clucked over and avidly followed by almost everybody, from housewife to cab driver. The actors' respective spouses repeated the sympathy.

Mrs. Kennedy Tops
For consistently popular interest though, Mrs. John F. Kennedy won hands down. Her trips, to India and Italy were given as devoted reportage as if they were summit meetings. When she rode to the hounds, took a turn on a surfboard or appeared with a new coiffure, everybody discussed it. She became a television personality to reckon with after she conducted a televised tour of the White House she had refurbished. No trivia escaped attention. When Leonard Bernstein, the New York Philharmonic conductor, gave her a chaste peck on the cheek at the opening of Philharmonic Hall the question of the social kiss became a topic of the day.

Occasionally other Kennedys got attention. Sister-in-law Ethel won many a heart in her global trip with husband, Bob. Lovely Jean Kennedy gained the spotlight when Tex won the senatorial election in November.

SQUELCHES REVOLT

On the international scene, Mrs. Sirmavo Bandaranaike, prime minister of Ceylon, put down a place revolution staged by mere men.

And the United States got another lady ambassador: Mrs. Eugene Anderson, to Bulgaria. Ambassador Frances Willis was appointed in 1961 to Ceylon where she copes with the formidable Mrs. Bandaranaike.

In the world of women there was tragedy, too.

The world lost its First Lady when Eleanor Roosevelt died at the age of 78. The Dutch lost Princess Wilhelmina, 82, their queen for 58 years.

Marilyn Monroe died at 36 from an overdose of sleeping pills and the movies' lost its sex symbol.

Other vital statistics include:

DIVORCES

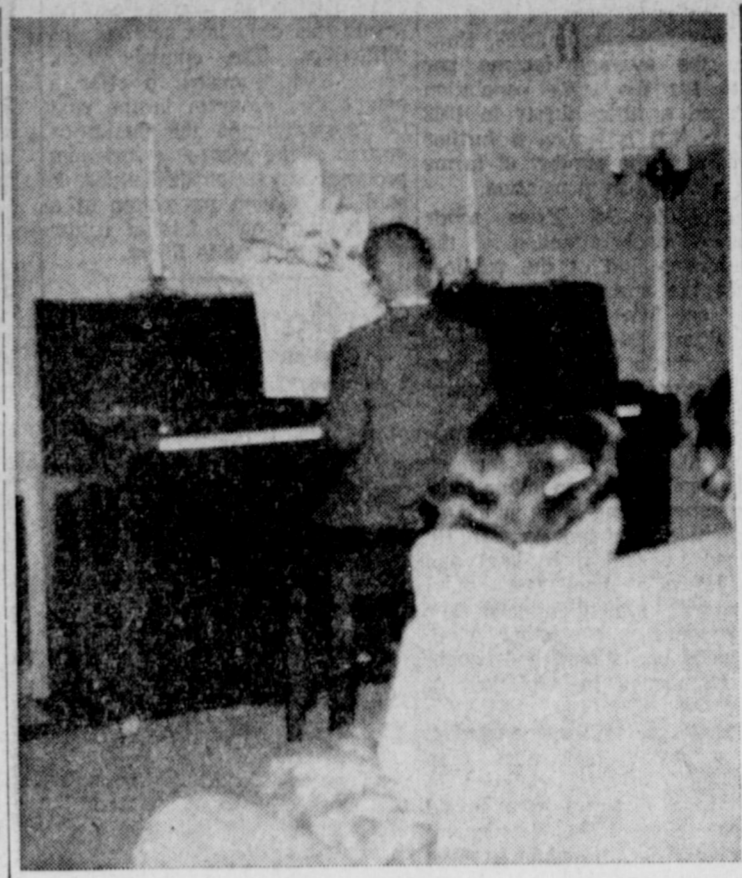

Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, after 32 years of marriage to the New York governor; and some movie colony raptures—Lana Turner, Rosemary Clooney, Janet Leigh, Dinah Shore.

MARRIAGES

Prince Juan Carlos of Spain, 24, and Princess Sophie of Greece 23 honeymooned in this country; Zsa Zsa Gabor took her fourth husband, Herbert Loeb Hunter, a Manhattan investor she met at a charity ball.

Two autumn alliances: The Sparrow, French chanteuse Edith Piaf, 47, and Theo Sarapo, Greek ex-hairdresser, 23; Laito Lonva 64, widow of composer Kurt Weill, and Russell Detweiler, 37-year-old American impressionist painter.

and the electric blanket hardly turned itself off all night. But it best stashing in coal or wood.

Quite different from the old days back in my youth. Last thing every afternoon I had to scoop the snow off the woodpile and bring in armloads of fuel. You piled it into the box behind the brass burner and there it thawed, simmered and spewed until it had dried out sufficiently to be used. Made a nice honey sound as it dried out.

And on Christmas eve you laid in an extra supply. The folks wanted the house to be nice and warm when old Santa came to visit, so the old fellow would warm his toes in front of the fire before going on the Jone next door. He had a lot bigger job to do at the Jone house since there were more folks in the family and besides they were better fixed than the Martins and thus could afford a more luxurious Christmas than we could on a small town superintendent's salary.

But it was Christmas anyway then or now, and I'm glad that under all the tinsel and the glitter and the colored lights and everything there can be found the real meaning of Christmas—not the Xmas sort of thing, but the Christmas that is spelled with Christ at the start.

Sometimes it seems, when I'm in a more pessimistic mood, that Christmas is lost in the shuffle, and Christmas becomes an exchange of presents, value for value, with people who don't need the present in the first place.

But always there are things that indicate such is not the case—the candlelight services, the Christmas carols (and I'm not referring to the sacrilegious parodies that are heard now and then) (and I mean "true") Christmas programs on radio and TV, and the folk who know and practice the real meaning of Christmas.

That's what makes Christmas Christmas. Too bad that all people don't know its meaning. This has been a pretty wonderful Christmas, but, come to think of it, I don't recall any Christmas that wasn't.

And let me be the first to say it for next year: Merry Christmas! After all it's only 363 days away.

Scandals--

1962 was forecast for 1963. However, the average income per capita for the farm population averaged a little higher in 1962 than in 1961 reflecting a further decrease in the number of farms and in the farm population.

The Billie Sol Estes affair occupied much attention of the government—and of the public—during the spring and summer. Estes got into trouble with the Agriculture Department with a plan to obtain large cotton planting allotments under a pool program.

The promoter obtained pooled cotton allotments from farmers whose land had been taken over by government agencies under the right of eminent domain. He claimed he sold them land and then leased it back from them along with the allotments. The department, on the other hand, contended he, in fact, had bought the allotments in violation of law.

The allotments were cancelled and a penalty of more than $500,000 for alleged violation of the cotton program was levied against Estes. The department also denied him the right to store surplus grain.

Administration critics claimed Estes received favored treatment by the department and some of its officials—a claim denied by both President Kennedy and Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman. Two top-ranking department officials were fired and a third resigned. Testimony linked them with gifts from Estes.

The NFO farm strike had a temporary effect of holding down on marketings of livestock and a temporary increase in prices in some markets. Farm leaders generally agreed that it had no lasting effect on the market situation. They said such a strike has little chance of success unless the great bulk of farmers join in, which they did not do.

The legislative battles centered on administration proposals to set up tight production controls on feed grains and dairy products and to tighten controls on wheat. Although Democrats controlled both houses of Congress, they were able to get approval on a new wheat program only. Some Democrats joined Republicans to defeat plans for feed grain and dairy controls.

The administration achieved a degree of success in reducing grain surpluses under voluntary programs. These latter programs offered growers payments and price supports for taking grain land out of production. These payments totaled about $1.2 billion this year compared with $800 million last year.

A decline in cotton exports tossed this crop into new surplus difficulties. The administration, which had promised to offer a new cotton program in the next Congress, blamed the dual-price system of the present government program for cotton difficulties. It said this system put cotton at a disadvantage with foreign cotton and with man-made fibers.

The average staple length was 29.7 thirty-seconds of an inch as compared with 29.9 thirty-seconds of an inch the preceding week. Twenty-nine thirty-seconds of an inch accounted for 35 percent, 15-16 inches 59 percent and 31-32 inches 4 percent. Two percent of the cotton classed was 3/4 or shorter in length.

The trend of the micronaire readings continued to be the same this week. The trend has been to more samples to fall each week in the 3.4 or lower category. This week 53 percent of the cotton received miked 3.4 or below, with 3 percent being classed as wasty. The range of 3.5 or better accounted for 47 percent.

For the week ending December 21, 49,590 bales were reportedly purchased by the Lubbock Cotton Exchange according to the E change Secretary, H. A. Poteet. This figure is down about 3,000 bales from the week before and below the same week of 1961 when 124,000 bales were reported.

down suddenly. This is one of the most common types of highway accidents.

Major Hutchison also warned against lagging behind the pace of surrounding traffic because, by doing this, you invite a rear collision with the car behind you.

He said that another great danger is the lulling effect of driving for long periods of time on long straight, even pavement with little or no cross traffic. He advised drivers to break the monotony of the holiday trip by stopping frequently to take a short walk, a brief nap, or get some refreshment.

Farmers have twice as much money invested in machinery as the steel industry and five times as much as the automobile industry.

Welcome You

Psalm 23

The Lord is my shepherd! I shall not want.
 He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
 he leadeth me beside the still waters.
 He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
 Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me;
 thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
 Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.
 Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

Justice Dept. Fails Again to Jail Hoffa

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Justice Department has failed again—for the fourth time in five years—to put James R. Hoffa behind bars.

The $1-million conspiracy trial of the Teamsters Union president wound up with a hung jury Sunday. After the judge declared a mistrial, several jurors said the vote was 7 to 5 for acquittal.

Hoffa was accused of conspiring with a Michigan car-hauling firm to violate the Taft-Hartley Act's ban against payoffs from employers to union officials. The complex trial began Oct. 22.

As he released the jurors, U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller ordered a thorough investigation into heretofore secret FBI testimony that two Hoffa associates tampered with or tried to influence two members of the jury. The two jurors were replaced by alternates earlier this month.

The jury received the case Friday and deliberated 17 hours, including three hours Sunday. Upon receiving the jury's fourth report that it was hopelessly deadlocked, the judge dismissed the panel.

"I dislike very much the idea of not having the case resolved one way or the other after all of this labor and effort. However, there comes a time when, if the members of the jury cannot agree, they cannot agree, and that is it," Judge Miller said.

Hoffa said he was disappointed he was not acquitted but gratified he wasn't convicted.

James F. Neal, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and chief prosecutor in this case, said he had no idea whether the government would seek a retrial.

In the five years since he became president of the 1.5-million member Teamsters Union, Hoffa has spent much of his time in legal scraps with the federal government.

Labor Division Marks 50th Year

WASHINGTON — The Department of Labor has published a special seal to commemorate its 50th anniversary in 1963.

The seal shows an American eagle, its wings spread wide, holding a badge which carries the wording "50 years of progress."

The years 1913 and 1963 are on either side of the eagle, in a semicircle under the eagle are the words "The dignity of labor in a free society," the theme for the anniversary period beginning March 4. In a semicircle over the eagle is printed "United States Department of Labor."

All publications issued by the Department in 1963 will carry the seal. It will appear on the Department's stationery and on certificates of appointment being presented to all members of a special anniversary committee established earlier this year by President Kennedy.

The seal will also appear in special window displays and other exhibits staged around the country to observe the event.

The Labor Department was established March 4, 1913, when President William Howard Taft signed a bill creating the Department "to foster, promote and develop the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, to improve their working conditions and to advance their opportunities for profitable employment."

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gardner and Don spent Christmas in Fort Worth visiting with their sons, Paul and Max, and their families.

This is Danger Period for Fires, Experts Warn

COLLEGE STATION — Fire and accident hazards are multiplied at this season, most are man-made. Unless more attention is given to safety, the results could mean a disaster, warns the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

The trouble could start with the center of attraction, the family Christmas tree. Danger from this source can be lessened by the selection of a freshly cut tree and by proper handling, they say. The tree can be kept fresh by cutting the butt diagonally and placing it in water or wet sand and by seeing that moisture is supplied as needed. Rememb warns the Council, nothing short of gasoline burns with greater intensity than a dry Christmas tree.

The tree should be placed away from exits, the fireplace, stove, radiator, powerful electric lights or other sources of heat. Only "UL" approved lights should be used on the tree. Lights which have been used before should be checked for broken or brittle insulation and damaged sockets.

If the damages cannot be repaired, discard the string and don't overload electrical circuits with additional lights, toys and appliances, warns the Council.

Decorations on the tree and in the home should be on non-flammable materials. Tree lights should be turned off when no one is at home and the trees should be discarded when the needles begin to fall.

If you are planning a trip during the Holiday Season, remember that a lot of other Americans will be doing the same. Traffic conditions are often bad due to hazards and it is easy to see why weather conditions and the driver urge to get some place in a hurry. Add up the additional accidents hazards and it is easy to see why observing the basic rules of safety at home and on the highway is so important at this season, says the Council.

OKLAHOMA VISITORS
Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Brockett were in Soper, Okla. during the Christmas holidays visiting with her parents and other relatives. Her parents are C. L. Hartsell, former Muleshoe residents.

Some cooks like to add raisins to the meat and rice mixture used as a stuffing for cabbage rolls.

JENNINGS FAMILY HERE DURING HOLIDAY SEASON
Guests in the O. N. Jennings during the holidays were her brothers and families, Mr. and Mrs. Joyce Davis, Petersburg; Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Davis, Deming, N.M.; and a sister, Mrs. J. D. Travis, Cone; the Joe Bates Jennings family, the Derrell Jennings family, Lubbock; and the J. A. Nickels family.

The Joe Bates Jennings were hosts to the family gathering the following day. The family will be guests in the home of Mrs. J. D. Travis in Cone Sunday and will be joined there by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Davis and family, Truth or Consequences, N. M.

JUST RATTLING AROUND PATAGONIA, Ariz. (AP)—For several weeks Patagonia volunteer firemen heard a buzzing sound under the floor of the firehouse.

Finally they investigated and found a large rattlesnake.

COTTON, COTTON EVERYWHERE — Bailey county cotton is rolling to the gins these days, as pretty weather last week helped farmers get their cotton out of the fields. The scene above, made at a Bailey county gin, is typical of the business which the gins are doing these days to boost the year's cotton production beyond the 100,000-bale mark. The trailers above contain an estimated 1,131 bales of cotton. (Photo by Sam Damron, Journal Engraving)

The Sandhills Philosopher

Our Johnson Grass Farmer Views '62; He's Not Sure What Happened

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm has found out a new year is at hand, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:
At the close of an old year and the beginning of a new one, I know people are supposed to review the past 12 months and estimate what's going to happen in the next twelve, but there are a couple of things wrong with this.

In the first place, nobody knows what's going to happen in the next twelve months, and in the second place, very few know what happened the last twelve.

It takes a Supreme Court to tell what Congress did, and it takes a later Supreme Court to tell what an earlier one meant.

The world had all sorts of crises this past year, but it's impossible to tell now which ones we solved and which ones just went away or got lost while we moved on to different ones.

Out here on this Johnson grass farm, the way I handle a crisis is to look the other way. If this doesn't work, I look straight at it, but I've learned a long time ago you don't get very far trying to solve one. Why solve it when you know good and well it'll be replaced by a newer and possible bigger one? My theory is, when you get used to a crisis, keep it. And I think the world follows this theory too, only it doesn't admit it. It substitutes new names and moves the things the same old crises. A man who can't live with a crisis ain't long for this world.

As for what's coming up in 1963, I have no idea. Yes I do, too. What's coming up will be pretty much like what happened in 1962, whatever that was.

I know there are people who are afraid the world won't get through 1963, but I've noticed every year since time began, and I doubt if 1963 will have what it takes to put a stop to it.

Oh, man may venture further out into space, but I doubt if he'll find anything more fun than what he's already got. There's nothing wrong with this planet, excusing a few things, if people would leave each other alone long enough to enjoy it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

-1942-
Due to many reasons, which include gas rationing and tire rationing and the war in general, Christmas in Muleshoe was one of the quietest days ever witnessed.

Practically every business was closed and at eleven o'clock Christmas morning there were exactly three cars parked in the streets down town.

-1942-
More than 2,000 tons of sugar beets will go out of the shallow water irrigation belt in the Plainview territory this year—just five years since growers really started taking the crop seriously.

In 1937 sugar beet production in Hale and Floyd counties started with one bag of seed. The current harvest is about ended, however not all of the beets have been shipped, because of transportation.

Word was received here Tuesday that Horace McAdams had been assigned to special course in the School of Pharmacy at Columbia University. Horace is serving with the U. S. Coast Guard.
