

STEER MARKET - FIRM

YEARLINGS, TIDY WEIGHTS AND BETTER GRADES OF HEAVIER STEERS HAVE THE CALL.

TOP BEEVES SELL AT $8.65

Cows Open Slow But Rule Generally Steady—Best Heifers and Yearlings Strong—Veals Strong—Stockers and Feeders More Active.

Cattle receipts continue to show a falling off in comparison with last week and the tide in the market seems to have turned toward higher prices, although for the two days values have not been elevated to any great extent.

Beef steers again formed the bulk of the day's cattle offerings at 18 1/2¢ and the quality was of better average than on the opening day of the week.

DRY COWS AND FEEDERS

Stock, including feeders and cattle were in rather light supply again today. Hardly enough fresh stock was received to satisfy yard dealers' needs.

FEEDERS AND CATTLE

Feeder calves were in light supply today, causing the prevalence of a farmer feeling on today's market. Salesmen began turning early in the morning and prices were quoted fully steady with spots strong on the more desirable grades of feeders.

STOCKERS AND FEEDERS

Stock, including feeders and cattle were in rather light supply again today. Hardly enough fresh stock was received to satisfy yard dealers' needs.

YEARLINGS AND CALVES

Yearlings and calves were in light supply today, causing the prevalence of a farmer feeling on today's market.

HOGS DRIFTING LOWER

FALLING AWAY IN SUPPLIES DOES NOT CHECK DECLINING TREND OF THE MARKET.

PRICES 5c TO 10c DOWN

Trade Fairly Active at the Decline—Top on Lights $8.85; Bulk of Sales in $8.85 and $8.60 at $7.50.

Despite a decided falling off in receipts of hogs compared with last week prices continue to seek a lower basis. Approximately 7,000 hogs were on the local market today.

Chicago reported 11,900 fresh hogs and 12,000 holdovers from Monday on sale, with prices 90c lower.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—What Makes The Grains of Corn Pop?

THEY were sitting around the kitchen stove popping corn. "I wonder what makes the corn pop?" Jack wondered. "Why, the fire, of course," answered Evelyn quickly. "What is the really true reason," the little boy insisted. "I'll try to tell you," daddy said. "Last year all these little kernels of corn grew on a cornstalk out in the field. The roots of the plant kept sucking up water from the ground, and the stalk pumped it through its little tubes to the corncob, and then it was divided among the different grains of corn. In each of these little kernels lay a tiny baby corn plant. All the water and food which the roots pumped from the ground were meant as food for this little plant when it should wake up and grow in the spring. The corn stood in the sun a long time, and its nice soft skin grew hard and dry. The water was then sealed up safely in the grain. One day the farmer came along and picked all the ears of corn and hauled them off to the market. There he sold them, and they were sent about on trains and wagons until at last they reached our town. Mr. Grunt, the storekeeper, bought them and put them in his window, where your daddy noticing them one evening as he came home thought what fun they would be some dull evening when Dinah would let us have a fire in her kitchen. So I bought the ears of corn and brought them home and gave them to you children. The little baby corn plant in each of the kernels was fast asleep, with nice flaky grains of starch packed around inside the shell, so that it would have something to eat when it was time for it to wake up, which it expected to do in the spring. When we got out the corn popper and put the grains of corn into the popper the little plants may have thought: "Well, my gracious; it is getting warm! This feels like spring. I do wonder if I ought not to get up?" "But the little plants waited, for the heat did not feel like summer heat. Inside the grains of corn the water was getting hotter and hotter until at last it turned to steam and there wasn't room enough for it inside the shells. Suddenly the steam burst the shells, and, pop, all the nice white starch ran over and the grains of corn turned inside out. And that was the reason the corn popped. As to the little baby plants, of course they were shriveled up and cooked so that now even if you planted one of these popped grains in the ground it wouldn't grow."

KANSAS BANKERS TO MEET

Large Number of Women Expected to Attend Convention at Hutchinson.

Topeka, Kan., April 22.—The state convention of the Kansas Bankers' Association, which will be held in Hutchinson, May 6 and 7, will bring to the state a number of the prominent financiers of the nation. Among these are W. C. Brawn, president of the New York Central Railway Company; James Wilson, former Secretary of Agriculture; Byron W. Moser of St. Louis, president of the American Institute of Banking, and former Congressman R. W. Bonnyce of Colorado, once a member of the National Monetary Commission.

One of the interesting features of this year's convention will be an address by Mrs. Marion Wharton of Chicago, on welfare work. Mrs. Wharton's address will be before a meeting of the wives, sisters and daughters of the bankers.

There probably are 200 women connected with the banks of Kansas. A dozen are conducting banks of their own.

MAORIS SUFFRAGETTES

The Maoris are not black; they look like Indians, and have straight black hair. Some of the women have their lips tattooed, to indicate submission to their husbands, but there is a suffragette movement on here, as elsewhere, and the Maori woman who showed us about laughed scornfully at the notion that woman is inferior to man.

Had that banking to go fishing yet? Grass minus cattle equals discontent to the farmer.

Fine weather for plowing, likewise for the new-born pig.

Sheep market is the same erratic proposition it has been for months.

Every baseball team is a pennant winner—to hear the managers tell it—when the season is in its infancy.

The last session of the Kansas legislature cost Kansas $77,230. Worth the price? Ask that question to some Kansas taxpayer.

Ambition is a great thing but ambition can be carried to excess. Looks like Willis Moore overstepped the limit. Result—Mr. Moore is minus a job.

If floods cause a damage of $100,000,000 a year and they could be controlled for $50,000,000, the bargain in the case is clear. Loss of life and health is also to be computed, but not in dollars and cents.

Bryan and Clark having made up and agreed to let bygones be bygones, the claim of harmony in the Democratic party is a little more plausible. But there'll be need of a whole lot of harmony in the Democratic ranks before the tariff question is put on ice.

The Wichita Eagle says the old tornado cellar built long ago in that part of Kansas are being "revived" since the tornado season set in so early and with such virulence. One might infer that the tornado cellars of that region all fainted when the Omaha tornadoes got into action. If they did, they certainly ought to be "revived."

Talk about a cattle shortage in the Southwest country receives a check when a cattle inspector at Fort Stockton, Texas, states that 29,000 head of cattle located in Pecos county, which he covers, have been sold, and are now about to be moved from that country to other parts.

Pecos county is bounded on the north by the Pecos river, and on the south by the Rio Grande. Estimating the value of these cattle at $40 per head, which would be conservative, their value reaches $480,000. This shows the great magnitude of that industry, as the county named is but one of more than 100 counties in the state which produces cattle.

USE SERUM AT RIGHT TIME

St. Joseph Live Stock Record: "I am fully convinced that if a good serum is used and applied at the right time, there is nothing like it for a cholera preventative." Thus writes Frank C. Woodward, a large farmer and live stock feeder of Glen Ellen, Iowa.

There is plenty of room for believing that Mr. Woodward struck the keynote of success in the use of serum treatment of hogs when he says "If a good serum is used and applied at the RIGHT TIME." At the same time there is room for suspicion that serum treatments have sometimes received a black eye from being used at the wrong time. It is possible; in fact, there is hardly a room for doubt, that many hogs have been treated with serum, and have recovered from the cholera, and that hogs that have been exposed to cholera have become immune by the treatment. But, we take it that the preventative power of the serum should be the dominant factor in serum treatment.

In his letter to a local serum treatment company, Mr. Woodward says: "About August 1, last year, cholera broke out in my drove of 300 shoats, and after losing something like thirty of them I shipped the balance to market. Later I bought about 300 head, treated them with four serums, using the simultaneous treatment, and every one has pulled through although they were put in the same yard where the others had died. I even let several of the treated shoats have access to the carcasses of some of those that had died, and even the old pig infected the young shoats. This has fully convinced me of the truth of the statement at the head of this letter, viz: That if a good serum is used and applied at the RIGHT TIME, there is nothing like it as a cholera preventative."

Everyone knows that when small-pox breaks out in a vicinity, there is no waiting for a general exposure to the disease before vaccination becomes epidemic. It is done as a preventative and not as a cure. Of course, when the cholera appears in the drove of hogs on a farm, the farmer makes a strenuous effort to check the ravages of the disease—and there is absolutely no censure due the farmer for his efforts after the disease has begun its destruction. But, it is not fair to a serum to denounce it as a fake if it fails to cure the hog after he has begun to show unmistakable signs of cholera. To immunize the hog against cholera appears to be the real mission of serum treatment, and it is the opinion of students that the RIGHT TIME is when the pig is young, healthy and frisky.

HAT PIN LAW IS IN FORCE

Women Accosted by Policemen for Wearing Unmuffed Ours.

Boston, Mass., April 22.—The law forbidding the wearing of unmuffed hat pins exposed more than half an inch has gone into effect here.

No arrests have been made, according to instructions issued by Police Commissioner O'Meara, but a score of women's names were taken.

One of the first was that of Miss Bessie Stivers of Middletown, N. Y., a member of the "Firefly" company, playing at the Shubert Theater, whom a policeman accosted on the street.

On the other hand, a woman writer on an evening newspaper says that with extraordinary long pins protruding from her hat she paraded the shopping district from one end to the other, giving no fewer than sixteen policemen a chance to enforce the law, but not one of them did so.

MARCH EXPORTS FELL OFF
Reductions Were Chiefly in Food Animals and Cotton.

Washington, April 22.—Exports of breadstuffs, meat, cotton and oil show a greatly reduced total value in March, 1913, compared with March, 1912, but a slight increase in nine months ended with March, 1913, over the same period of 1912. Reduction in March occurs chiefly in cotton and food animals, cotton exports being $23,500,000, against $29,750,000 in March of last year, and of food animals only $59,000, against $76,000 in March of last year, against $16,000,000 in March, 1912, against $9,500,000. Exports of mineral products, $19,500,000, against $5,000,000 in March of last year; meats and cottonseed oil show slight changes.

March total for domestic exports was $85,282,027, against $94,303,958 in March of last year. For nine months total is $847,595,796 against $799,242,250. Breadstuffs show a remarkable advance, for nine months being $159,705,523, against $94,213,002. Mineral oils show $96,879,001, against $77,072,466; while other articles show a decline. Meats and dairy products declined in nine months, being $32,682,137, against $101,903,256; cotton $470,807,619, against $495,476,969; cotton seed oil $15,744,901, against $19,444,005; and cattle, hogs and sheep only $756,213, against $85,115,152 in same months last year.

ALFALFA GROWING.
Iowa State College Carrying on Educational Campaign.

Ames, Ia., April 22.—Alfalfa, the greatest of forage crops, will grow on every soil, and if properly cultivated. The agricultural experiment station at Iowa State college is certain of that fact, after thorough investigation, and it is now the subject of an educational campaign, intended to alfalfa growing everywhere in Iowa. The station has just printed a large edition of a bulletin, "Alfalfa Management in Iowa," by Prof. H. D. Humes, which will be sent to thousands of names on the mailing lists, and to all who ask for it. It has also issued an alfalfa poster, which is being displayed in every bank, every postoffice, every railway station and every creamery in the state, and in other public places.

A person has good health and strength in just the proportion that their vital organs perform their work properly. There is something wrong when one feels tired and discouraged, and unwilling for their daily work. Humanity was never naturally intended to suffer with headaches, coated tongue, pain in back or stomach, hollow eyes, pimply skin, yellow complexion, weak nerves, and the many symptoms which attend a half-sick condition which attacks so many people. They are not sick enough to go to bed and not really well enough to be up at work, and so they go on trying to keep their place in a busy world where people in half-health stand little show. And all the time some disease is making deeper and deeper inroads, until in some cases they are most stricken before they know it. Then they wake up when it is too late.

Nature plainly warns us when all is not well with the body—just as plainly as the automobile warns its operator when the engine is not working properly. Watch nature's danger signals and answer promptly her call for help, and many will be your years in the land. Thousands have found the quickest and safest way to consult well known and reliable specialists in chronic diseases like the United Doctors, whose St. Joseph offices are located at 720 Felix street, second floor. Their life work is to cure people of these subtle, obscure diseases, which are often the despair of the average physician. While they accept no incurables, still they are curing hundreds who have tried many treatments and doctors without success. Their accuracy in diagnosis, their directness in applying treatment, often brings marvelous results, as people in every community in this part of the country can testify.

From far distant as well as nearby points patients flock to see these specialists, Mrs. A. B. Berry, Lemoyne, Neb., writes "I am getting along fine and am well pleased with the way I am getting well under the United treatment. I do not hesitate to recommend you to every one. I am gratefully yours."

A patient in far away northern Wyoming journeyed to St. Joseph to consult the United Doctors a month ago. He is now able to write as follows: "Haven't had an epileptic spell since I commenced your treatment. I sleep and eat well. Sunday I walked three miles."

The United Doctors are specialists in diseases of the stomach, kidneys, liver, blood and nerves, and have become famous for cures in rheumatism, gaiteritis, indigestion, constipation, catarrh, kidney and liver complaints, bloating, weakness and run down conditions, nervousness, loss of appetite and strength, neuralgia, sleeplessness, epilepsy, asthma, diseases of women and diseases of men. No case accepted without careful examination, which is made free in their St. Joseph offices, 720 Felix street, second floor. No case accepted unless cure or relief can be promised the patient.—Adv.

MAY HAVE RURAL HIGH SCHOOL
Gentry, Mo., April 22.—The proposition of establishing rural high schools is to be submitted to the people of Gentry county, and seems to be meeting with approval. Petitions have already been filed by some of the districts in which the citizens wish to consolidate the rural schools, and establish a high school. Present indications are that there may be some new country high schools established within the year.

POTATO WISDOM.

Use Common Sense—Plant When the Price Is Low—Choose Good Seed.

Brookings, S. D., April 22.—When seed potatoes are $1.50 to $2.00 per bushel people clamor for seed and a very large acreage is the result. With seed at 50 cents per bushel they are a drug on the market. Like sheep, all go the same way; this, however, applies only to a number of farmers whom we might call gamblers in farming. The farmer who has his work mapped out several years ahead, crop rotations in operation, where potatoes are a crop on some field or other every year, is not materially affected by the fluctuations in the price of potatoes. When potatoes are low it is a pretty good time to plant them. This will hold true with other crops such as wheat, barley, and all of these have their innings. Live stock offers a pretty safe avenue for marketing all crops, writes John Larson, farm expert for Spink county.

Potatoes deteriorate or run out as quickly as any other seed if allowed to. The practice of sorting out the good smooth medium sized potato for eating and then planting the small ones left is bad. Indications of seed running out are: tapering tendency at the seed end of the potato, long slim potatoes, and a general getting away from the variety type. The yield can be materially increased by proper selection. The kind that the housewife likes to pare and cook are pretty near the kind of potato one is looking for to plant. Treat the seed for scab with formalin. It will do the business.

GOOD SIGNS OF TIMES.

Indications Point to Breeding Up of Cattle Supplies in Montana.

Sioux City, Ia., April 22.—The Live Stock Record says: One of the best indications in the spring message of stock men in western South Dakota and Montana is the growing tendency to restock with cattle by breeding. "I do not think there has ever been as much of a movement to breed as is right on the ground, instead of relying on the southwest for stockers, as was shown at the Miles City meeting," said Merl Felt, who returned into last week from that meeting. "Of course, the old time big ranchman is passing, and we are sorry to see him go, for he was a good fellow. But, I noted that in the large attendance at the meeting the young men predominated. He does not control the vast area of grazing land that his predecessor did. He is confined in his land holdings and control. But he is making some progress with farming and along with this is beginning to conserve the heifer for restocking purposes, and I think this is a splendid sign of the times. The big range is gone, it will never return. But, I believe that Montana is now in line to produce close to an old-time quota of cattle, and what she may lack in numbers she will make up in beef weight, for Montana will produce more feed and will have better bred stock than in the old range days. The Miles City meeting was a good one and pointed to getting back into the cattle business on modern lines."

RELEASES STOLEN HORSES

Evidently Fearing Capture, Thief Abandons Four Fine Animals.

Meadow, S. D., April 22.—Horse thieves have been operating in the vicinity of Meadow lately. Last week 15 horses were reported missing, but the owners thought they had strayed during the storm of April 5. Some of the missing horses were found, but four valuable ones belonging to Jake Prosser could not be traced. The authorities were notified, and a vigorous search was begun. Horses answering to the description of the four animals had been seen near the 15th ranch, 8 miles northwest of Meadow. Two were being driven to an old buggy and two were following. The thief was met by the proprietor of the ranch, who spoke to him, but the driver of the stolen horses, with his face hidden by a souch hat, made no response and hurried on. A short time afterwards the horses disappeared. He has not been seen since. The stolen horses started toward home and were found and returned to the owner.

OUTLOOK FOR CROPS BRIGHT

Expert Snow Says Winter Wheat Conditions Is Near Perfect.

Chicago, Ill., April 22.—"The wheat crop in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Southern Illinois is nearer perfect than I have ever seen it in twenty years of personal observation," says B. W. Snow. "There is a small area in Kansas west of the 100th meridian where the start is rather ragged, because of a dry fall and winter, but even here there is enough surface moisture for present needs, and a good season hereafter will give an average season hereafter will give an average yield. Everywhere else the plant is strong, well rooted and rooted, and there is no forced top growth to deceive the eye. The growth is simply normal and perfect, and if there is an acre to be abandoned because of a poor start, I cannot find it. It is too early to talk about bushels, but the crop is getting a start that might easily carry yields far above the usual winter wheat condition figures. Oats seeding is well along and while part of the crop may be late, much of it is equally early, and the average is about normal. Soil conditions so far as moisture is concerned, could not be improved upon."

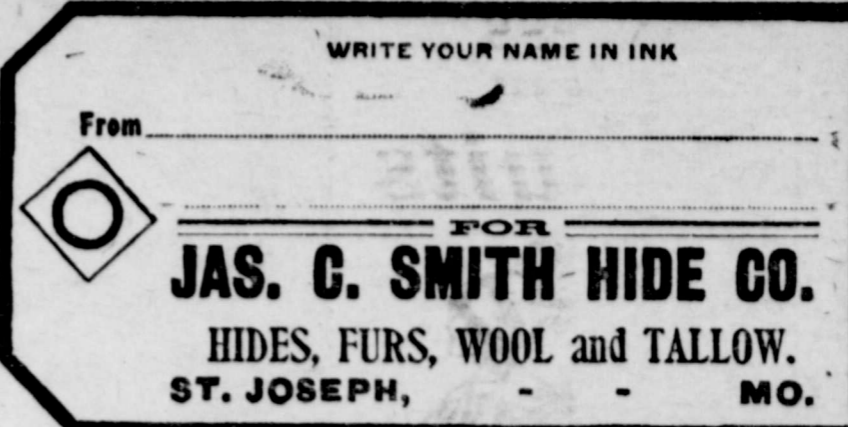

CORN 32 YEARS OLD.

Centralia, Mo., Man Has a Unique Heirloom.

Fulton, Mo., April 22.—R. L. Ansell, of Centralia, has an ear of yellow corn that is 32 years old. The corn was the last crop, raised by the late James H. McBride on his farm between Centralia and Sturgeon. It has been kept among the household treasures all these years by Mrs. Agnes McBride, his widow, who died last week. Mrs. McBride was Ansell's grandmother and she turned the heirloom over to him to be perpetuated in the family. Ansell will plant several grains of the ear this summer to ascertain if the vitality still in the corn after the 32-year drying process
