

STEERS CLOSING LOWER

Special to The Journal: The Drovers Telegram reports: Cattle—Receipts, 100, Market nominal. Hogs—Receipts, 1700, Market steady. Top $8.35; bulk $8.20 @ $8.24.

NEAR LOW POINT OF SEASON

Cows and Heifers Show Uneven Declines for Week—Bulls Drop—Calves Firm—Stockers Close Very Weak.

No fat cattle of consequence were on offer here today and the market was merely a nominal affair of the week-end variety.

Conditions in the trade for beef cattle this week were exactly reversed as compared with last week when the market opened dull and lower and closed with the loss practically all regained.

On Wednesday a big run at Chicago and increased supplies at this and other Missouri river points precipitated a decline in values. Local prices broke 10¢ to 15¢ and a similar decline was registered on the following day, a lot of steers selling Thursday 20¢ to 25¢ below the Tuesday level and some as much as 30¢ to 35¢ under the Tuesday scale.

Summing it all up the steer values are closing around 15¢ to 25¢ lower than a week ago. In other words the market is about back to where it was at the low point a week ago Tuesday. Buyers have shunned the heavier grades of steers and those along the plainer kinds of light and medium weights show the biggest decline.

Top steers for the week sold at $8.45 with a single prime bullock at $8.75, with bulk of the selling grades ranging in price from $7.75 to $8.25. Quite a few Colorado, pulp-fed steers were offered here during the week. The better grades of these sold at $8.25 to $8.45.

Local receipts for the week total approximately 3,500 head as compared with 6,035 last week and 3,591 corresponding period a year ago. At the five leading markets aggregate supplies of 112,000 head show an increase of 12,000 head over the previous week and a small gain over the same week last year.

COWS, BULLS AND MIXED.

The week's trade has shown a fluctuating range of prices for cows, heifers and mixed yearling butcher stuff. During the first part of the week prices held uniformly good tone, prices showing a tendency to advance. On Wednesday and later days of the week, however, buyers enforced uneven declines, the better grades of cows and medium kinds of heifer stock bearing the brunt of the slump.

At the close cows selling around $8.50 and up show a decline of 10¢ to 15¢ compared with a week ago. Medium styles are off 15¢ to 20¢, while canners and cutters are closing up weak to around a dime lower than a week ago.

Cattle and those along the market a few of the fancy sorts, are closing 15¢ to 25¢ under last week's finish, or 25¢ to 35¢ lower than the high point Tuesday of this week. Declines in fat steers market fact that most of cows in the beef was relatively higher than steers rendered buyers aggressively bearish toward female killing stock, particularly the higher priced kinds. The market has been very tight since Tuesday, despite the fact that receipts have been by no means liberal. Bulk of the useful and attractive heifers and cowboys are closing at $7.70 to $8.10, with a few low of choice quality up to $8.30. Very few cows sold above $7.25 with $7.85 the extreme high point at the best period of the week's trade.

Bulls are closing 10¢ to 20¢ lower than a week ago. Veal demand was good all week and prices are fully as high as a week ago. Toppie grades are selling at $9.25.

STOCKERS AND FEEDERS.

The week's trade in stockers and feeders opened up in healthy condition, buyers taking the moderate supply offered Monday and Tuesday at rates 15¢ to 25¢ higher than prevailed late last week. Very few cattle, however, were moved to the country and since Tuesday the market has eased off, week-end sales showing very little of the earlier advance retained. Closing prices are quotable steady to 10¢ higher than a week ago and the market especially for the weightier grades of feeding stuff, of very limited volume. Dealers will be forced to carry over Sunday a good portion of their week's buy as country inquiry has failed to develop enough to allow speculators to effect anything like a decent clearance.

Good weight feeders have been a scarce article here this week and very few steers of this caliber are included in the supply now on hand. The holdings of light and medium weight steers show extra good quality and according to traders, farmers should find little difficulty in securing cattle suitable to their wants during the opening days next week.

The advance in prices for she stock in this department during the first two days of the week has been entirely wiped away by the bearish tone to trade during the following sessions, and today prices are in about the same notches that prevailed a week ago. The good demand during early sessions has been followed by an indifferent inquiry from country buyers.

HOG MARKET STRONG

LIGHTS STEADY TO STRONG AND HEAVIES MOSTLY A NICKEL UP.

CLEARANCE IS MADE EARLY

Small Supply Met Active Outlet—Top $8.37 1/2, With Bulk of Sales at $8.25 to $8.35—Pigs Are Steady.

Activity and strength were the leading characteristics of the week-end end in hogs. Receipts were under 2,500 head here and the total supply of 20,000 at the five markets showed a decrease of 12,000 head compared with a week ago. Buyers were out early at this point and the market got an early start and a complete clearance was effected in good season. Prices ruled steady to strong mostly strong, on the light and medium butcher weights, and generally 5¢ higher on the heavier classes. Top was $8.37 1/2, the same as yesterday, with bulk of the day's offerings selling at $8.25 to $8.35, as against $8.20 to $8.35 yesterday. There was a pretty good showing of pigs on offer. No change in prices for this stuff.

Closing prices on hogs are around a nickel lower than a week ago. Outlook for next week's market does not suggest any improvement over the present range of values; the possibility exists of still lower figures as under the surface packers are out and out hours. Chicago estimates 40,000 hogs for Monday, May 13. Receipts this week have been but moderately heavy. Local supply for six days total 32,052 head compared with 30,095 last week, 23,099 a month ago, 26,257 a year ago, 30,589 two years ago, 26,168 three years ago and 26,714 four years ago. While the local supply shows an increase over last week, receipts at the five leading markets total 294,790 head, as against 329,100 last week, 256,409 a month ago, 270,260 a year ago, 325,490 two years ago, 251,399 three years ago and 298,520 for corresponding period four years ago.

Prices for hogs averaging 140 lbs. and up ranged from $8.15 to $8.37 1/2, with the bulk selling at $8.25 to $8.35. The bulk sold yesterday at $8.20 to $8.35, a week ago at $8.30 to $8.40, a month ago at $9.00 to $9.15, a year ago at $7.70 to $7.85, two years ago at $6.95 to $7.15, three years ago at $6.42 to $6.90, and four years ago at $7.00 to $7.30.

A WILD GOAT DRIVE.

Hawaii Cowboys Round Up 500 Slaughtered 2,400—Animals a Pct.

St. Joseph, Mo., May 10.—Two thousand four hundred wild goats were slaughtered on a peninsula near Puako plantation, Hawaii, as the conclusion of the greatest goat "drive" ever held in the islands.

R. B. Booth of the Fred Waldron company, has returned from Hawaii, where he has been rusticated on the Hind's ranch, near which the "drive" originated.

The goats occupy the higher levels in the lava regions, but go down frequently to the lower levels, where the cattle pastures are located. They have been destructive and have eaten up a large amount of valuable cattle fodder, so the drive was decided on.

Under the direction of Robt. Hind, all the cowboys for miles around were organized into a band determined to "get the goats" of that part of Hawaii.

The men were spread out in a long rather thin line far above the usual haunts of the goats and then gradually worked down into the lava beds.

The goats, driven from their haunts, were soon leaping and jumping down the mountain sides and moving in the direction of the peninsula. The country was pretty well cleaned up, and probably less than a hundred escaped beyond the line and back to the higher levels.

The great herd, which began with hundreds, soon became a thousand, and then two thousand, and finally, when all were driven onto the peninsula, in which there is also a lagoon, the herd numbered 2,400.

FILIPINOS AND MOTOR CARS

Latest Adjunct to Its Activities in Modern Progress.

Manila Bulletin: Manila may now be said to be up-to-the-minute in things metropolitan. The latest adjunct to its activities calling attention to progress in this direction was the recent appearance upon the streets of a motor car washed in mud and powdered with the fine dust of various grades and colors produced between here and Baguio, it had made a new record between the summer capital and Manila.

The machine was stripped to a condition almost immodest, fenders and top were superfluous to requirements and no wind shield protected the driver's face against the hot winds that blow at midday across the plain.

The friendliest feeling exists for the motor car. The barriers become a chorus of children with the roady "Hello;" even the dogs and chickens get the inspiration.

MUTTON TRADE QUIET

TODAY'S RECEIPTS MADE UP EXCLUSIVELY OF TEXAS SHEEP DIRECT TO PACKERS.

NOTHING OFFERED FOR SALE

Decline of 20¢ to 30¢ on Wool Lambs and 15¢ to 25¢ on Clipped Grades and Sheep for the Week.

Around 1,100 head of sheep arrived at the local yards today but the entire run consisted of Texas grazers direct to packers, leaving nothing on the open market.

Local receipts of sheep and lambs for the week total around 16,000 head as compared with 19,774 last week and 7,230 corresponding period a year ago. Supplies at the five markets for the week total 197,000 head as against 190,900 last week and 132,700 a year ago. The trade in lambs has failed to show much life at any period and the general drift of prices has been toward a lower level.

The market held up fairly well during the first three days, clipped lambs showing a slight advance Wednesday. Declines were taken over by a local packer Thursday and Friday put the market 20¢ to 30¢ lower than a week ago, with shorn lambs off 15¢ to 25¢ in sympathy.

Aside from ten singles of Texas grazers offered Tuesday, the week's supply included very few aged wethers and practically no yearlings. The Texas grazers, the first of the season on this market, sold at $5.50 to $5.85. Not enough sheep have been on sale to keep an accurate line on the market for that class of stuff from day to day. Prices at the close, however, are quotable around 15¢ to 25¢ lower than a week ago. Best wooled lambs sold early this week at $8.45. The top on clipped grades for the week was $7.50.

Man of 85 One of Party Which Made Run to Wichita in 25 Days.

Wichita, Kan., May 10.—An automobile, steered with the mud of six states, reached Wichita last night from California, ending a twenty-five days' run over mountains and desert, and through rain and windstorm. In the machine, when it left Santa Ana, Cal., was Joseph Chamberlain, aged 85, one of the healthiest and spryest passengers of the six in the car. Mr. Chamberlain was accompanied by Joseph Chamberlain, of California, a son of the healthiest and spryest nephew and niece, and another son, Ray Chamberlain and his wife of Mulvane, Kan. The Chamberlains operate a general store at Mulvane.

While crossing a desert in Arizona the car stuck in a sandhill fourteen miles from settlement and water. Members of the party walked the fourteen miles and got a Mexican and mule team to drag the machine out of the sand.

LONG LIVED SUIT SETTLED

Fifty Years' Litigation Ended in New York by Compromise.

New York, May 10.—The longest-lived suit in the history of New York jurisprudence was settled today—an action brought fifty years ago against the city by Charles L. Appleby for damages done to his property by a mob during the Civil war. Mr. Appleby sued for $7,300 and demanded interest on the principal which would have brought his claim up to $42,000. He compromised with the city today and was paid $7,300.

REDUCING MEAT BILL

MUCH MAY BE ACCOMPLISHED BY BETTER COOKING METHODS.

CHEAP CUTS WORTH TRYING

Some Very Excellent Dishes Are Suggested by Kansas College Which Would Not Be Unduly Expensive.

Manhattan, Kan., May 10.—One thing which puts a good many wrinkles on the brow of the family man is the meat bill bobbing up every month, says Lucile Berry of the State Agricultural College. It wouldn't be wise to abolish meat bills, for most people are healthier and happier if they eat the meat. There is an essential constituent of the diet found in meat. It is protein, without which there can be no formation of new tissue or rebuilding of worn-out tissue. There are other sources of protein which could furnish the body with this food but people are so much in the habit of eating meat that it would mean more than discomfort to many to even suggest using anything else.

A family does not need meat at every meal, though. A prominent investigator in nutrition said, in looking over statistics showing how much meat American families are eating, that those figures were a measure of American wastefulness. What if your husband did have a mother who gave him meat three times a day? She gave him sulphur and molasses each spring and greased him with skunk oil the rest of the year. A man who is doing heavy muscular work does not need more meat in his diet than one who is not. If some one near and dear to you must chop wood or work on the road, let him all he wants for he needs an increased supply of food. He does not need an unusually large slice of roast beef or a quarter of a ham, but he needs his socks and ties his four-in-hand should see that he doesn't get it. An excess of protein in the food often causes trouble. The waste products in protein digestion are the strongest substances which must be quickly eliminated.

Care in buying the meat will shrink the bill more than you think. On looking day when you have a fire in the range you can cook a sheep cut with no extra fuel. Cheaper cuts come from parts of the animal which have been most used during life. These muscles are tough, but the meat is often better flavored and exactly as nutritious. If you're looking for a task which will demand the strongest efforts that you can put forth, tackle a piece from the neck of the animal—a piece which has been intrusted to unskilled quarters. At the second bite you probably would have the strongest neck had served its day of usefulness, switching flies, before the post-mortem.

A tough roast in the hands of a good cook—one who understands all the shortcomings of a neck piece, is a different proposition. She might decide to have a pot roast and be truly thankful if she does for you can't beat it. Here is her recipe:

Three pounds beef, quarter pound salt pork, quarter cup carrot, quarter cup turnip, quarter cup celery, quarter cup onion, one tablespoonful parsley, half leaf, cloves, salt, pepper, three cups water.

Wipe and dress the meat with flour, and brown the entire surface in pork fat. Place in a kettle; surround with the vegetables, spices and water. Season, cover closely, and simmer slowly for four hours. Skim the liquid below the boiling point. Remove to a hot platter. Thicken the liquid and serve with the vegetables around the meat. The sauce may be strained if desired.

One need not buy an expensive roast for a company dinner. You need not serve a chicken or turkey. Flank steak, stuffed and baked, makes a good addition to any dinner. This is a good way to cook meat for a big dinner, for it is prepared and put in the stove before the dinner. The dinner begins to press down upon the cook. Wipe the steak clean with a damp cloth. Carefully remove the skin and fat and lay it flat on a board; moisten three-fourths cup of crumbs with hot water, add one teaspoonful salt, one-fourth teaspoonful pepper, one-half an onion, chopped fine, and one tablespoonful chopped parsley. Spread the mixture on the meat evenly, then roll with the grain, so that when sliced it will be cut across the grain. Tie with twine, turning the ends to make a neat even shape. Dice an onion, carrot and turnip and lay them in the baking pan.

On top of them put the roll of meat, putting in enough water to fill the pan to the depth of 1 inch. Cover and place in a slow oven to cook at least three hours and longer if possible. When cooked, remove the meat and thicken the broth.

Some day, when you've become blue thinking about the high cost of living, cast off your gloomy thoughts and fix some meat balls in cabbage for dinner. These are Hamburg balls played with variations. Wash a medium-sized head of cabbage. Separate the leaves and remove the center. Flatten into shape and cream until tender. When the cabbage is cooked, fill the center with tomato sauce.

STOCKING UP WITH CATTLE

Many Dairy Animals Being Shipped Into Phillip, S. D.

Phillip, S. D., May 10.—Dairy cattle are being shipped into Phillip by farmers and ranchers, and the shortage of live stock in the west-of-the-river country is rapidly becoming less noticeable. In the fall of 1912, thousands of head of live stock, mostly beef and cattle, were put on the market from this section, or driven to greener pastures east of the Missouri river. The fall of 1912, thousands of head of live stock, mostly beef and cattle, were put on the market from this section, or driven to greener pastures east of the Missouri river. This spring an effort has been made on the part of farmers to again stock this country, the choice tending strongly toward dairy stock. Farmers have also given encouragement to any feasible scheme to restock grazing lands.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Boy At the Masthead.

WHEN daddy told Jack and Evelyn the name of this story, of course Jack asked at once: "What's a masthead, daddy?" Daddy answered: "That means the very head or top of a mast of a ship. This story happened about a hundred years ago, before there were any steamships, and the larger ships had very high masts on which to raise the sails."

"There was a boy who was the son of the captain of one of these large sailing ships. I do not know his name, so we'll call him Tom."

"Well, Tom's father took him with him on his voyages to far parts of the earth, and so the boy, as far as his strength allowed him, was becoming a very good sailor. The men on board of the ship were fond of him, for he was a bright, active little fellow, and they taught him how to make sailors' knots and raise the sails and help to drop and raise the anchor and mend the canvas of the sails and do the other work which sailors of that day used to do. But above all things Tom, like all other boys, used to like to climb the masts."

"The ship was lying at anchor in a harbor far across the sea. She was waiting for her cargo, and there was nothing for the crew to do, so they were lying about the deck enjoying the warm sunshine. Suddenly one of them looked up and let out a cry of fear."

"The others rushed to him. He could not talk. He could only point to the top of the mainmast of the ship. There, standing up on the very top, was Tom. In a spirit of mischief he had climbed to the very top, and now he was standing there, frightened and helpless, too scared to try to climb down. The ship was moving slowly with the waves, and he could keep his feet, but that was about all."

"It seemed that no one could help him and he must fall to the deck and be crushed to death. Some of the sailors rushed for the mast to climb to him, but it was plainly to be seen that before any of them could get up the boy would fall and be killed. What was to be done?"

"Just then the captain came out of his cabin and saw his boy in such terrible danger. For a moment he stood helpless; then he rushed back into the cabin and came out with his gun. Pointing it at Tom, he cried out as loudly as he could:

"Jump, Tom, jump. Jump far out into the water or I will fire at you!"

"It was the boy's only chance for safety. In the water he might be saved, but if he fell on deck he would surely be killed. He heard his father's cry and jumped out as far as he could into the water. Almost before he struck the waves the sailors had a boat out, and they saved him. But he never again climbed to the masthead."

north, are in duty bound to credit the south more than we have been accustomed to.

It is a matter in which the whole country may congratulate itself that Mason and Dixon's line with loyalty on the one side and disloyalty on the other is wiped out and that the old feud between the sections is practically dead.

SCHOOL FOR DISCONTENTED.
 There is a school for discontented school children in Kansas City, Missouri, according to information received at the United States Bureau of Education. The "Lathrop Industrial School" has been organized for the purpose of educating children over 14 years of age who have reached the fifth grade and did the work of the regular school distasteful.

The school proceeds on the theory that in many cases the distaste of these children for school is due to the fact that the ordinary studies are not adapted to their particular needs. Such pupils frequently appear "backward" or lazy, when in reality all they need is a different form of educational activity. Accordingly, Lathrop school gives them what is known as "pre-vocational" training. Courses in bench woodworking, shop-drawing, pattern making, printing, carpentry, and shop electricity are provided for the boys; cooking, sewing, millinery, and embroidery for the girls. Classes in plumbing, bricklaying, and concrete work will be formed as soon as the demand warrants.

The academic branches are also taught in this continuation school, but they are taught in close relation to the industrial subjects. Arithmetic concerns the problems of the shop. English consists of practical instruction in necessary business forms; no attempt is made to teach technical grammar. Geography and history are taught from the commercial standpoint; and local government is an important subject.

The course is three years. During the first two years the teacher directs the choice of the pupils; but for the last year each boy is allowed to select his work in the trade he wishes to learn. Time is about equally divided between industrial and academic branches.

Educators are interested in the Lathrop Industrial School, not because they believe in vocational training to the exclusion of the fundamental subjects, but because schools of this kind are designed to fill the needs of a large class of boys and girls to whom sufficient attention has not hitherto been paid; the children whose tastes and aptitudes differ from those presupposed by the usual school curriculum. Work as that done in the Lathrop school promises to make valuable citizens out of children who might otherwise never find themselves.

ROMAN FARM IS FOUND
 Excavations Reveal Buildings in Earthen Inclosure.

London, May 10.—Excavations at Rockbourne Down, Dorset, have brought to light the remains of a small Roman farm, inside a low earthen enclosure.

The extent of the farm was ninety-six acres, and the buildings were enclosed with a ditch, which surrounded a quadrangle 150 feet by 39 feet. There is a dwelling-house, a baker's house and a granary, with the remains of a good deal of corn.

PAYS DEBT OF GRATITUDE

Lawyer, Whose Life Was Saved Forty Years Ago by Defendant's Father, Reciprocates.

Kansas City, Mo.—The trial of former State Senator Ernest D. Martin for alleged misuse of the mails in the promotion of an electric railway has one romantic feature of which Judge, jury and spectators are in ignorance. By the side of the accused man in the federal court there sits daily a keen-eyed, stout, gray-haired man, with a "fighter's law," his chief counsel. That man is Jacob I. Shepherd of Fort Scott, Kan., and he is paying a debt of gratitude of 40 years' standing.

It was 40 years ago that Dr. Solon Martin of Marshall, Mo., while driving along a country road came upon a tent where a woman sat beside a sick child.

"Do you know where we can find a doctor?" asked the woman. "My son is dying."

"I am a physician," said Dr. Martin. "We'll do what we can. But you'll have to get him out of this tent and into a house, where he can have constant care," he added after an examination of the child.

"We're driving through the country to Kansas," said the woman. "We have no house and no means."

"I'll take care of the boy," said Doctor Martin. "You go ahead, and we'll send him to you well in a month or so."

The boy was taken to the home of the physician and kept until he had recovered. Then he was sent to his parents, who were making themselves a home in Kansas.

Shortly after the former state senator had been charged with misusing the mails he received a letter bearing a Post Office postmark.

"Forty years ago," the letter ran, "your father put me under a great obligation which I could not fully repay during his lifetime. I beg of you permit me now to discharge that debt by acting as your counsel in the present matter."

The letter was signed "J. I. Shepherd."

BOY ADMITS MANY THEFTS

Tells Police He and Brother Robbed Homes in Lakewood, N. J., to Sell to a Jeweler.

Hackensack, N. J.—Paul Ostin, 16 years old, one of two brothers charged with having robbed several summer residences in Lakewood, was arrested in Hackensack. The boy in the presence of Chief of Police Jacob Dunn of this place and Deputy Sheriff W. T. Mason of Lakewood, broke down and confessed. Carl Ostin, 17, was arrested a few days ago in Lakewood, but would not confess. The thefts amounted to several thousands of dollars.

Paul told the police he was employed in a real estate office in Lakewood and was in charge of the keys of many of the houses of New Yorkers who had closed up their summer homes.

"One day Carl came to me and said that as I had the keys to these houses we might just as well get into them and see what they had and what we could steal, and that's how I began," said the youthful prisoner. The lad said a Lakewood jeweler told him to bring all the jewelry he could get and he would give him something for it.

Paul said he got as much as three dollars for a diamond ring, and more for gold watches. Constable Mason says he knows the jeweler, and when he left here for Lakewood with Paul, would question him. Carl Ostin is under arrest in Lakewood on the charge of the theft of $30 from a patron of the Lakewood postoffice.

HANGS HEAD DOWN 2 HOURS

In Odd Position Woodchopper Fires Revolver and Aid Finally Comes.

Newton, N. J.—Hanging head down with his leg caught in the crotch of a tree twenty feet above the ground, John Finnan, a farm hand, spent two hours of agony. The leg which was caught in the tree was broken.

Finnan had chopped down a tree for firewood, but in falling its branches caught in those of another tree. In an effort by Finnan to get the tree free it fell and his leg was caught and broken.

Finnan managed to reach his revolver and he fired its contents to attract attention.

The man who first responded had called help and then a block and fall had to be rigged in the tree above Finnan and his weight placed on it before the leg could be freed.

The trunk of the tree was not large enough for a third man to work aloft, so one had to do all the climbing and rigging. Meanwhile Finnan's position was eased as much as possible by another man standing below him and holding up on his shoulders. When finally lowered Finnan was in a faint and he remained unconscious for hours, but will recover.

EXPERIMENT WITH HOGS.

Texas Compares Indian Corn With Kafir and Milo.

Ft. Worth, Tex., May 10.—After feeding hogs for three years on kafir corn and milo and J. O. Turner of the firm of J. O. Turner & Son of Canyon began to feed a load on a part diet of Indian corn recently. It was something of an experiment with him and he watched the growth of the hogs carefully and compared it with the results of his previous feeding.

As a result, Mr. Turner probably will return to the exclusive use of kafir and milo.

"I can't see where Indian corn has made the slightest improvement over the hogs that I fattened on kafir and milo," he stated. "In fact, they might not have done so well. Anyway, I expect to go back to my old methods."

"There are not many hogs in our section of the state right now."

$35,000 for Boy Refused.

St. Louis, Mo.—Mr. and Mrs. Julius Baron, 4423 Evans avenue, although parents of 11 children, have declined an offer of $35,000, made by a childless society woman, for permission to adopt their youngest son, Arthur, 15 years old, a musical prodigy. The woman assured Mrs. Baron that if the boy was given to her in legal adoption, she would give him her family name and take him to Europe for education. She wept when the offer was refused.

MAKE OVER RUMELY CONCERN

Manufacture of Agricultural Implements Will Be Reorganized.

Chicago, May 10.—Complete reorganization of the Rumely Company, manufacturers of agricultural implements, Laporte, Ind., is to be effected. Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester Company, will succeed A. J. Rumely as president, it is said, and according to the reported plans, Dr. Edward A. Rumely, vice-president and general manager, and J. J. Rumely, vice-president, will resign.

Reports of the projected reorganization have been in circulation for some time and were confirmed last night. The change in the management was decided on by the New York bankers who financed the enlarged Rumely Company. Over-expansion of the business of the Rumely Company is said to have brought its affairs into an unsatisfactory condition.

From an authoritative source it was learned that Funk will have in his hands when he takes charge, the resignations of the entire Rumely staff. A. J. Rumely, Doctor Rumely and J. J. Rumely are all the members of the family now in the company.

Funk was released by Cyrus H. McCormick, president of the International Harvester Company, to take charge of the Rumely concern, it is said, because it was thought the situation of the agricultural implement business would be bettered by Funk's management.

Expansion of the Rumely business has attracted attention in the financial world. More than $2,000,000 of securities of the company have been floated pursuant to a world-wide policy for the products of the firm. Recently two representatives of banking firms took place on the finance committee of the company and Doctor Rumely resigned the trusteeship.

SAVES BOY'S LIFE.

Lad Was Bitten by Snake and Father Sucked Out Poison.

Atchison, Kan., May 10.—By applying his lips to the wound after his 12-year-old son had been bitten on the heel by a copperhead snake, Thomas Ricketts, a farmer living south of the city, drew the venom from the bite and saved the boy's life.

The boy, barefoot, had been burning brush on the river bluffs when, without warning, the snake struck him. Ricketts bound the boy's suspenders around the ankle above the wound and sucked out the poison. Dr. M. E. Dingsess, who categorized the bite later, said that only the prompt action of Ricketts had saved his son.

HAD PIANO FOR COWS.

Dairy Man Furnished Barn to Food Sanitary Committee.

London, May 10.—An amusing joke by a Portland (Dorset) dairy farmer was perpetrated on the members of the Sanitary Committee. When the committee arrived to inspect the farm they found the farmhouse sumptuously furnished, including a piano and with pictures on the wall.

The farmer explained that the piano was for the cow to play while the calf danced. The committee were so amused by the farmer's satirical humor that they departed without making an official inspection.

CORN SHIPMENT BY BOAT

The Chester Is Loading With 40,000 Bushels for St. Louis.

Kansas City, Mo., May 10.—The steamer Chester was loaded with 40,000 bushels of corn at the local dock Tuesday for shipment to St. Louis. On the trip down the river at a point near St. Louis the boat will pick up 100 head of hogs for East St. Louis.

The steamer Advance with the large banner in tow docked at St. Louis Monday and will make the return trip as soon as it can be loaded.

RECORD CROP IN SIGHT.

Wheat Yield Along Central Branch This Year Will Be Biggest Ever.

Atchison, Kan., May 10.—The largest wheat crop ever grown will be harvested along the Central Branch this year, according to Will Washer, a prominent grain man of this city, who makes the official reports for the Missouri Pacific. Washer says that the branch will handle 10,000 cars of wheat this year. This means approximately 10,000,000 bushels, or 3,000,000 more than last year. The estimates made by Washer in former years for the railroad officials have never varied more than 10 per cent from the harvested crop.

QUESTION UNASKED

Not Propounded in Court, but Makes Subsequent Proposal Very Easy.

By GERTRUDE MARY SHERIDAN.

The flashlights of the camera men boomed from every angle of the courtroom. There was a suppressed cheer following the solemn announcement of the foreman of the jury:

"Not guilty."

Cameras and eyes sought one special corner of the place. It was where a dignified, fine faced old man had sat all through the trial—where he sat now. He was the accused, Robert Dayton. A faint expression of gratification crossed his face. Then it softened down to extreme tenderness. Evelyn, his daughter, his constant companion during the trying ordeal of the past few days, had thrown her arms about his neck and was sobbing out her joy upon his bosom.

"Not guilty!" she gasped—"Oh father, did you hear?"

"What else could it be, my child?" replied Mr. Dayton proudly. "I expected it."

"It was so unjust, so cruel!" murmured Evelyn. "How dared they bring that dreadful charge? And against you—you dear good father, whom everybody loves and respects!"

Evelyn did not exaggerate in her filial statement. It had been a nine days' wonder to the little city when, one week after the destruction by fire of the unused plant of the Dayton Manufacturing company, two former partners of Mr. Dayton had accused him of burning down the property.

There had been friction and litigation between the three partners, so severe that Mr. Dayton had closed down the works. He had offered his partners a fair settlement, which they had bitterly refused. The fire had settled it all. The only beneficiary through the insurance was Mr. Dayton.

This point his enemies had used against him, and this, together with the rather vague evidence of a night watchman that he had seen a cloaked person resembling the manufacturer in appearance near the factory at nine o'clock in the evening, one hour before the fire was discovered, had formed the basis of the accusation in court.

Mr. Dayton had been able to prove that he had been confined to the house all that fatal day with a slight indisposition. He had gone up to his room at eight o'clock. The jury had only his unsupported word for this, for no member of the household was able to say that he had been seen again until the ensuing morning.

The base implication of the prosecution was that Mr. Dayton had slipped out of the house between the hours of eight and ten in the evening. They hinted that he had fired the plant and returned to his room before the flames were discovered.

It was at the darkest moment in the trial for the anxious father and daughter, when their lawyer called Dr. Paul Merwin. A serious faced young man the Daytons had never seen before took the witness stand. He was carefully but not expensively dressed. It was notable that he never even glanced at the accused man nor his daughter.

His evidence was plain, simple and convincing. He was a comparative stranger in the city working up a small practice. The evening of the fire he had been resting in the garden of the vacant house adjoining the Dayton mansion. Doctor Merwin swore positively that he had sat there, the Dayton house in clear view, from eight o'clock in the evening until nearly eleven p. m. During all that time, he testified, he had been in full sight of the music room where Miss Dayton was entertaining some guests, and the up stairs apartment in a wing of the house where her father had been studiously engaged in going over some account books.

The prosecution was confounded. The lawyers asked a few formal questions. There was no refutation of the evidence. Robert Dayton was a free man, honorably acquitted.

MEN DOOMED BY FATE

Spanish Prime Minister Foretold His Own Death.

Wonderful Prognostications of Mahmoud, an Egyptian Astrologer, Were Verified, When Bourgeois Pasha Was Slain.

London—"I know that I am condemned to death, because I possess positive information that two anarchists have taken an oath to kill me. I know, further, that the anarchist who is to take my life is a man who was banished from Buenos Aires, and that he went thence to Paris and Biarritz, after which the police lost trace of him."

So spoke the late Senor Canalejas, the Spanish prime minister, on Nov. 5, 1912, in a conversation with an intimate friend, and four days later he was shot dead by an assassin while looking in at the window of a book shop.

It must be a terrible strain on nerves and pluck to feel, as so many have done, that the sword hangs over their head, suspended, as it were, by a single hair.

But such has been the fate of more than one public man during the past few years, and of scores in earlier days.

In February, 1910, Sheik Mahmoud, a well known Egyptian astrologer, went to Boutros Pasha, prime minister of Egypt, and told him that he foresaw his death at the hands of an assassin. Boutros believed the prophecy and, as every one knows, was foully murdered a few months later.

It is worth mentioning that Mahmoud put in print a prediction of the death of King Edward three months before it occurred. He said that it would come to pass in May.

By the way, he also foretold in 1910 that King George of Greece would annex three Turkish cities. This also has come true.

While on the subject of Turkey and the east, we may say that the late King Alexander of Serbia fully believed that he would meet with a violent death.

Years earlier, in fact, when King Milan, Alexander's father, was on the throne, a Serbian peasant predicted that Milan's reign would be one of many misfortunes, that he would wage an unsuccessful war, that he would marry, have one son and then be divorced. He ended by prophesying a violent death for the son.

Alexander, realizing how true the rest of the predictions had been, frequently spoke to his intimates of his coming end, but he could hardly have expected that it would have been attended by such horrors as were actually the case.

Of all modern stories of doom, none is so terrible as that of the Austrian noble family of Vetzera. The name will be familiar to all readers, because of the Baroness Marie Vetzera, for love of whom the Crown Prince Rudolf killed himself.

Every member of that family was beautiful and gifted, yet for generations ill-fate dogged them and none died a natural death.

Marie, it is believed, poisoned herself with strychnine, her brother, a fine young officer, was burnt to death in the awful conflagration at the Ring theater; the father, Baron Vetzera, fell dead of sunstroke in a Cairo suburb. Finally, Jeanne, countess of Blyandt, one of the most beautiful and accomplished women who ever lived, died suddenly in Rome.

Poison caused her death, but whether administered intentionally or not none can say.

New York—Since the death of Mrs. Frederick K. The woman's body was taken to a crematory. The ashes will be placed in an urn and preserved until the death of her husband, at which time Ernest M. Friedrich, a son-in-law, will carry out the wishes of both.

Heirs of Late Landlord Found, New York Tenants Hear Homes Will Be Sold.

New York—Rent days are due for the families who for more than seven years since the death of Frederick S. Copley on December 9, 1905, have been occupying free of charge three dwellings in South Prince street, Flushing, Copley, an Englishman, died on Staten Island, leaving no will.

After a world-wide search, Nelson Tunncliffe, an attorney of this city, found the heirs in England, Africa and Australia. They have authorized the sale of the property.

Leaves His Partner $1,000,000.
New York—Carrying out a compact made four years ago that whichever of the two died first should leave the other a million dollars, the will of the late George W. Crossman, a leader in the coffee market, leaves to his partner, Herman Slickens, the sum agreed upon.

WILL AID CHILDREN

Five Hour Day Is Asked Workers in Massachusetts.

To Lead Country Again If Measure Pending in the Legislature Is Passed—Other States Aid Reform.

New York—Massachusetts will again lead the country in one part of its child labor laws, according to the national child labor committee, if the bill to reduce the hours of work for all under sixteen years becomes law. Massachusetts now has a ten-hour day for workers under sixteen, which it is proposed to reduce at one step to a five-hour day, with the requirement that all child workers under sixteen shall attend a part time day school.

Other states, meanwhile, are wondering if they can establish the eight-hour day, and definite campaigns for this end are on in Arkansas, California, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Texas, West Virginia and elsewhere.

The committee points out that the bills which have already been introduced in Pennsylvania, Delaware and Texas all include the regulation of street trades provided in the uniform child labor law.

This allows no newsboy under twelve years and no other street trader under fourteen. It also forbids all girls to engage in these occupations before they are sixteen years old.

New York, under the recommendation of the state factory investigating commission, is considering bills not only to prohibit child labor in canneries and tenements, but to reorganize the factory inspection department as an industrial commission with a greatly increased staff of inspectors. Delaware, Indiana, Missouri, North Carolina and others are also talking of measures to make more efficient their departments of inspection.

In many states, minimum wage boards, pensions for widowed mothers, prohibition of night work and methods of determining age of children seeking employment are under discussion.

New Hampshire and some of the southern states will probably raise the age limit for working children from twelve to fourteen years, and it is hoped that a child labor law for territories will be presented to congress.

A compulsory school attendance law has been introduced in the North Carolina legislature, and bills are talked of in South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

LIMIT IS PLACED ON MEALS

Club of Women of Newport Organized in Which Cost of Refreshments Must Not Exceed "Two Bits."

Newport, R. I.—Twenty-five cents is the price Newport society people now pay for their dinners. A club, "The Limit," has been formed. It is a dining club only, the "limit" being a quarter as the price of a meal.

When members of the club are entertained at a luncheon or dinner the expense account of the hostess is read to show the cost of everything served has been within the 25-cent limit.

There was much discussion when the club was formed as to the proper sum to spend and really make it a "stunt," and it was decided that 25 cents should be the limit spent for each of the members.

Mrs. Edward Stanley Kellogg was the hostess last night. Other members are Mrs. Walter Coles Cabell, Mrs. George W. Williams, Mrs. W. S. Sims, Mrs. Edward Sturtevant, Mrs. Ernest Howe, Miss C. Olden Jones and Mrs. William Satterlee Pyle.

So keen is the competition among the members that the prospective entertainers consult with their grocers to get prices of fancy morsels. All the delicacies are listed and the women return home to arrange various combinations that will provide alluring menus within the 25-cent limit.

CROP OF HAIR MOWED OFF

Inauguration of Wilson Absolves Wisconsin Democrat of Pledge Made During 1896 Campaign.

Orlando, Fla.—Seated in a bandstand in the public square, in the presence of scores of townsfolk assembled for the event, Sode Hill, an aged resident of Orlando, recently had his first haircut in 16 years.

During the 1896 campaign Hill made a pledge to allow his locks to grow untrimmed until a Democrat became president of the United States.

Following the slipping of the hair, Hill made a speech to his fellow townsmen in which he declared that the pleasure of parting with his superabundance of hair was not more welcome than the assurance that a Democrat at last had taken up his residence in the White House.

Paris Prisoners Turn to Writing.

Paris.—A literary malady has broken out among the prisoners awaiting trial in Paris for the long series of bandit crimes. Raymond "La Science" has written about theology; Souly, "the man with the carbine," on social philosophy, with quotations from Moliere's "Misanthrope"; and Carouy has now written "memoirs" in which he aspires to a life in the country and the satisfaction of his love of nature.

WOMAN VETERAN IN WANT

"Mustered Out" of New York Municipal Service; Was Wounded in Battle.

New York—Kady Brownell, the only woman veteran of the civil war, has been mustered out of the civil service, under which she had served the last seventeen years.

She and her husband, Robert S. Brownell, have been living in the Jumel mansion, corner of One Hundred and Sixtieth street and Edgecomb avenue, where they have been acting as caretakers. Commissioner Stover of the park department tried to arrange with the Grand Army of the Republic of which both Mr. and Mrs. Brownell are members, to take care of them in some institution for the rest of their lives. The difficulty is that the organization has not had to consider similar case before.

Mrs. Brownell's military career may be said to have begun with her birth on the battlefield, when her father, Colonel George Southwell was stationed in Cafaria, South Wales. Her mother died a few days later, but the child was sturdy and lived to go home with her father.

After a time he was ordered back to Africa and the little girl came to the United States with another friend of the father's, Cameron McKenzie. While living in Central Falls, R. I., she met and was married to Mr. Brownell, she being then barely 18 years old. Three days after her marriage the war broke out and her husband, who was one of the charter members of the Mechanics' Rifles of Providence, was summoned to go to the front.

He went home and broke the news that he was going to the war. His wife said she, too, would go to the front and fight beside her husband.

Both Mrs. Brownell and her husband were wounded during the war, the latter seriously. In 1884 congress passed an act granting her a special pension. Since 1903 she has been employed by the New York Department of Parks.

STUNG WHEN BEEHIVE LEAKS

Alton Expressman Has Nine Miles of Acute Discomfort—Ban Is Placed on the "Stingers."

St. Louis, Mo.—If three boxes of bees which Harry Collins, an Alton expressman, received to carry from Alton to Wood River, a distance of nine miles, had not "leaked," Collins' face would look different.

Before starting with the bees Collins made particular inquiry as to whether the boxes "leaked," as he termed it. He was told they did not. With G. H. Pierre he started on the drive. One after another, infuriated young bees wigged through cracks, to Collins' discomfort.

Smarting under a particularly effective sting, he finally managed to turn the wagon into a deep rut and upset one of the boxes. Thousands of bees swarmed forth and made the following fifteen minutes unpleasant.

Collins suffered particularly. After the bees subsided in the box the journey was resumed. Collins will carry no more boxes of bees.

Oats Sprouted in Farmer's Eye.

Branchville, N. J.—Farmer Jacob Rose has discovered that his eye is a fine place to grow oats. A seed flew into his eye while threshing last summer, and recently his eye gave him so much trouble that he was compelled to visit a doctor. The physician removed the grain, which had grown a sprout almost a half inch long.

Aged Couple Are Wedded.

Philadelphia.—One is never too old to love according to Thomas Middleton, 89 years old, an authority on real estate, who married his housekeeper, Miss Cornelia M. Del Whitney, 64 years old.

FAVOR SIMPLE SPELLING.

Wichita Educators Want Reformed Orthography in Kansas.

Topeka, Kan., May 10.—A committee of Wichita educators, which is in favor of simplified spelling, has written to W. D. Hoag, state superintendent of public instruction, asking his opinion as to the advisability of having simplified spelling taught in the public schools of the state. The committee wants the matter brought up before the next Teachers' Association and is contemplating sending a letter to the colleges of Kansas asking if they would adopt simplified spelling, providing two-thirds of the colleges would agree.
