STEERS ABOUT STEADY

A FEW EARLY SALES WEAKER BUT ON BULK PRICES SHOWED LITTLE CHANGE.

MIXED YEARLINGS AT $8.40

Top on Heavy Steers, $8.25—Heifers Steady to 10c Off—Cows Slumpy—Stockers and Feeders Are Firm.

Around 2,000 cattle arrived at the local yards today, an increase of 800 over last Tuesday. The five markets were in receipt of approximately 24,000, a gain of 5,000 over a week ago. There was a good showing of steers on sale here this morning, including a very fair representation of desirable yearlings and handy weight heifers. Choice heavy steers were scarce but in the yearling line some of the best offerings received here for some time were on display. Trade had a rather slow opening, with buyers showing a disposition to depress prices on yearlings and the heavy class of steers. A few sales of light weight cattle in early rounds were possibly weak to 16c lower, but the market developed better life and stronger pulse and on the rank and file of steers yesterday's price level was fully retained. A rather slow opening on light weight steers and yearlings that end of the trade became active at steady prices and closed firm, some orders held by buyers going unfilled. The heavier grades of steers were, on the whole, slower sale. Prices for this class ruled generally steady. Exceptions were a shade easier on the plainer grades. A feature of the session was the sale of a bunch of choice Shorthorn yearling steers and heifers at $8.40, the highest price reached here for several weeks on this class of cattle. This was the extreme top for the day. Heavy heaves showed a top of $8.25 but few cattle carrying weight sold above the $8.00 line. Some 100-140 steers brought the following prices:

Stockers and Feeders

Stockers and feeder offerings to this point included a fair showing of all classes of cattle. Buyers displayed more interest during the past few hours today than was noticeable on their part throughout yesterday's trade. A good active movement was established early, with cattle moving steadily at prices quoted steady with the previous session. A fair representation of country buyers were at the yards looking over the stock on hand and a few cattle were turned back to the country. Yard dealers have a fair holding of stock in their show pens, including all classes of stock and feeding steers, with the exception of heavy weight feeders, which have been in light quota for some weeks back. Not much change in rates for stockers and feeders has been effected so far this week. The stock was again in light supply today. Buyers, in order to secure cattle suitable to fill standing orders, were on hand early competing for stock offered and a good active movement was the outcome. Prices were regarded a shade stronger than those in vogue during yesterday's trading.

HOG VALUES SLUMP

RECEIPTS ARE LIBERAL—OPENING 15c AND CLOSE FULLY 20c LOWER.

BULK SHOWS FULL DECLINE

Local Run Heaviest in Over a Year, Unumbering 16,000 Head—Top $8.55; Bulk $8.40 @ $8.50.

Hog receipts today were liberal at all Missouri river points and prices got a serious setback. Local receipts aggregated 16,000 head, the heaviest run since March 7, 1912, when 24,887 head arrived. The supply was three times as large as for last Tuesday and double that of a year ago. The five leading markets gave a total of 86,000 head, an increase of 35,000 over last Tuesday. Chicago with a moderate run of 15,000 head reported their market about a nickel lower but on "the river" where the big supplies were centered buyers had things their own way and were able to force a sharper break in values. Heavy receipts gave the buying side an opportunity to put prices at Missouri river points more in line with Chicago. Trading began here on a 15c lower basis and wound up fully 20c under yesterday. Only about 1,500 hogs sold on the opening at $3.99 @ $5.00, a decline, bulk of the offerings having to take the 20c cut. Quality was fair to good. The slump carried tops down to $8.55. A good number of the crop found outlets at $8.40 @ $8.50. Pretty fair progress toward making a clearance had been made at noon and the hogs were practically all sold when the session closed. Prices were in moderate supply and buyers were subjected to little or no change. Prices for hogs averaging 140 lbs. and up ranged from $3.99 @ $5.00, with the bulk selling at $8.40 @ $8.50. The bulk sold yesterday at $8.37 @ $8.70, a week ago at $8.50 @ $8.60, a month ago at $8.25 @ $8.45, a year ago at $7.42 @ $8.25, two years ago at $6.99 @ $7.10, three years ago at $6.29 @ $6.75, and four years ago at $7.39 @ $7.55.

Wool Lambs An Exception, Such Classes Ruling Slow and Lower—Springers Sell at $8.00 @ $8.25.

Arrivals at the local point figured around 1,500 head compared with 2,678 head a week ago and 1,983 a year ago. Estimates for the five markets called for 40,800 head against 36,900 head Tuesday and 40,900 the same day a year ago. The local run was made up mostly of mixed native shipments. Two cars of wool lambs from Colorado feedlots constituted the supply of foreign sheep. Spring lambs were reached between the two trading factions, and a good active movement was evident from the onset. The general run of natives, both sheep and lambs, were moved at prices quoted fully steady with yesterday and last week's close. Buyers showed a rather indifferent disposition towards the Colorado lambs, bids being quoted $1.00 lower. Spring lambs met with good demand, the bulk selling around $8.25.

At present the only women eligible for a free grant of land are widows. Mrs. Frances Graham, the organizer of the campaign, believes that quite a few cattle scattered about, though possibly not as many as usual. There was a time last winter when it looked like there would be a shortage of marketable hogs during the late spring and early summer months but there were a good many fall pigs raised and under favorable weather and pasture conditions the shortage was averted. It does not indicate shortage. Of course my territory is bigger than that of the average shipper, as I buy over a radius of fifteen miles but I am convinced that no scarcity of marketable hogs exists in my district. Mr. Pfeiffer sends all of his porcine offerings to the local market and says he has always got pleasing service and prices from the St. Joseph yards. ITEMS IN BRIEF

HEED STOCKMEN'S PROTEST

Supposedly reliable information from Washington today indicates that the senate finance committee has decided to cut fresh meats and flour from the free list of the impending tariff bill. This action is the result of vigorous protests from the live stock and grain interests over the unequal provisions of the Underwood measure as it passed the house, which provided a duty on live cattle while admitting fresh meats free; a duty on wheat while flour and its products were on the free list. The live stock exporters and the various live stock associations of the country put forth strong protests against the unequalities of the Underwood bill in the matter of live stock and meats—beef, mutton, and pork—and the senate finance committee has apparently heeded. In local live stock circles the report of the contemplated action of the committee is met with genuine indignation, as indeed it will with the live stock producers of the entire country.

Washington, June 2.—Meats and flour will not go on the free list in the Democratic tariff law if the recommendation of the senate finance committee in charge of the agricultural schedule is accepted.

This important alteration of the Underwood bill is a disappointment was determined upon yesterday by the subcommittee composed of Senators Williams, Shively, and Gore. It was decided, in carrying out the determination, to equalize raw materials and their products, that it would be wiser to levy nominal duties on meats and flour products than to take out of the market the free list.

In accordance with this decision, the subcommittee in revising the schedule took from the free list in the Underwood bill wheat, wheat flour, mutton, and pork—and made them dutiable at 10 per cent ad valorem. Wheat flour was restored to the dutiable list at the specific rate of 45 cents a barrel, with wheat and wheat products at 10 per cent ad valorem, and the Underwood duty on oats was reduced from 10 cents per bushel to 5 cents on oatmeal, said to be approximately 5 per cent ad valorem. This rate on oatmeal was not definitely determined but it is assured that the recommendation will be taken out of the free list. Cattle, sheep, and hogs will stand as they are in the proposed bill, dutiable at a car of cattle, while J. A. Wood accompanied a two-car shipment of hogs.

Champion Molasses Feed shortens feeding period, increases gain, reduces cost per bushel of gain, equally good with ensilage.—Adv.

BOYS LAND 52-POUND FISH

Ran Away With Line and Pole, But Lads Caught It by the Gills.

Cottonwood Falls, Kan., June 2.—A catfish believed to be the largest ever caught in a Kansas stream was landed by two small boys, Willy Potter and Tom Evans, while fishing in South Fork.

OREGON'S GREAT VOLCANO.

The highest mountain now existing in Oregon, Mount Hood, is only 11,225 feet high, but there was a time, probably before the dawn of life upon the earth, when a great volcano towered far above Mount Hood.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Story of The Moccasin Flower.

"Come, mother," said her boy.

DOWN by the brook the yellow ladyslippers were in bloom. Jack and Evelyn had found them growing there and gathered some for mother.

"Yes," replied daddy; "that's why they were called moccasin flowers by the Indians. There's a story about it."

"Once in the long ago when there were no white people in this country and the Indians had everything to themselves there lived in a little Indian village by the side of a wide flowing river a young Indian couple with their child.

"Both parents were very fond and proud of their small boy, the Little Brave, as they called him.

"One evening after Little Brave's mother had sung him to sleep by the river shore the mother went back to the wigwam to get supper for her husband, who had not yet come back from the forest where he was hunting.

"There came a terrible clap of thunder, and by the lightning's flash they saw two long white arms lifted up out of the river and pick up their sleeping boy. Then boy and arms went down into the water. The river spirit had carried off their child to his home.

"On the bank of the river they found the moccasins their child had worn. They picked them up. It was all they had left to remind them of their boy.

"The poor mother sat by the bank of the river many days weeping over the moccasins.

"One night as she sat staring at the water a little hand touched her shoulder, and, turning, she saw her little boy.

"Come, mother," said he; "you are to follow me up the Shining Way to-night, and be pointed to where the Milky Way, that great path of star dust, stretched across the sky—straight to the home of the Great Spirit, as the Indians think it leads.

"She rose and followed him and was never seen on earth again. But as she rose she dropped the little yellow moccasins, and where they fell sprang up a beautiful plant which the Indians named moccasin flower and which we sometimes call wild ladyslippers."

FEET TAKE PLACE OF HANDS

English Woman, Born Without Arms, Has Taught Herself to Sew, Cook and Write.

At Eastbourne, says an English paper, resides a woman probably without an equal in the country. She was born minus arms yet she can do almost anything with her feet.

At present the country is producing 250,000 bales yearly, not enough to keep the mills of Rio de Janeiro supplied.

When England Needed Bread. England was once on the verge of a bread famine. That was in 1800, when the wars with France combined with a succession of bad harvests to plunge the country into a state of general destitution.

Regeneration of the Campagna. An impressive ceremony took place at Castiglione del Lago, the farm that stands on the site of ancient Gabii, when the peasants solemnly burnt their old wretched huts and took possession of the new blocks of flats built of stone, which has been erected by Prince Lancellotti.

WHEN ADAMS FIRST MOVED

Started the Custom Which Mankind Will Probably Never Be Able to Drop.

A good many sympathetic persons have felt sorry for our first parents because they had to leave the beautiful garden they called home, and at the same time they have been inclined to regard them with considerable harshness because among other evils they introduced moving into a happy world.

The spectacle of poor, old Adam with the original stovepipe under one arm, the sun-dried bricks of the family hearthstone under the other, and the family wardrobe rustling in an osier basket on his back, may be calculated to excite pity, but that doesn't exonerate him from the enormity of his offense.

Even the sight of Eve, barefooted and otherwise unfortified against a fall of temperature, to say nothing of the familiarities of the unfriendly cactus and the stinging nettle, cannot atone.

Their day of folly was followed by moving day, and ever since they perspired their way through the Edenic gates, mankind has been moving, here and there and everywhere—and some time back again totting his household goods on his straining back, and vowing that nothing short of a combination of earthquake and tidal wave and typhoon could ever force him to move again.

But he goes on moving just the same—and no doubt will keep on moving very much as if this game which we call life were simply an exaggerated form of chess, wherein the player moves and moves until the grim referee calls "Mate."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NEUTRAL WATER IS TABOO

Certain Spot in Rivers Where There Is No Use Trying to Make Catch of Fish.

According to old fishermen there is what might be called neutral ground, or rather neutral water, in rivers, where there is no use of trying to make a catch—unless that it be that some fool fish snatches bait like an insane human might grab a red hot stove.

This neutral water is the part of the river where its flow encounters the saline impregnation of the salt water of the bay or ocean into which it finally empties. With the ebb and the flow of the tide the salt water of the bay runs up into the river for miles, and on the reverse the fresh water descends several miles again to the bay leading into the salt sea.

There is midway between the salt and fresh water points, however, that very seldom shifts. Around this midway shad and blue and other salt water fish, if they visit at all, will hover on the ocean side. On the fresh water fringe will loiter such fish as inhabit currents that are devoid of the saline ingredient. If the fisherman happens to cast bait in this neutral zone he is not likely to get either one or the other.

Spirits Told Fibs. Spirits are not always a dependable source of information, according to statements made by R. M. Evans in a divorce suit brought in the Wyandotte county district court.

Mr. Evans charges that certain information furnished to his wife was false, and that because of that information his home and happiness had been destroyed.

Mr. Evans gave his age as fifty and that of his wife as forty-five when they were married by Judge Sims on the Kansas side, October 4, 1911. She was Mrs. Mattie Gable. The petition states that she had been married twice before and had one son. Evans is employed by the Missouri Pacific railroad.—Kansas City Star.

Takes No Vacation. Apropos of a gold-mounted electrical message machine worth $40,000 that occupies the dressing room of a New York woman's house, Miss Mary Garden said, in Philadelphia:

"Undoubtedly a rich woman can look younger than she really is. What with Turkish and Russian baths, open-air exercise in abundance, temperance in eating and drinking, massage and so forth, a woman can, to a remarkable degree, preserve her figure and her complexion."

She smiled, then added: "But the trouble with fighting time is that time works 24 hours a day."

YOUNG ALDIS BLAKE

How a Carrier Pigeon Foiled the Plotting of a Scheming Lawyer.

"I declare, Marie, I don't know how much longer I can stand this!" exclaimed Miss Helinda Dawes, spinster, and aunt of the lovely niece she had arraigned before her.

Took Up a Bottle From a Table.

to her finger a dove pecking at some cage crumbs on the sill. It had a hamper to one foot, so it could not fly nor wander far away.

She had met young Aldis Blake at a village party two months previous. There never seemed a pair so mated as they to one another.

Young Blake made a practical ad of pigeons. He boasted the ownership of "Silver Wing," a carrier that had won the prize for the longest sustained flight on record.

"I should cherish any reminder of the pleasant hours we have spent together," she said frankly. "Then I am going to leave Juno with you."

"Some day," said Aldis slyly, as he arose to take leave of Marie, "I am going to send Venus with a message. I have every reason to believe that within a month the great family lawsuit, which involves a large fortune, will be decided in my favor."

One month, two months—no word, no glad visit for Juno from her absent mate. That evening, however, as the open window, thinking, hoping that the flutter of welcome wings might break the long vigil.

Then the clouds came up, rain was pressed, and with a sigh Marie reclined on her bed, dreaming once more of the golden week in her fair young life when she had met Love, and welcomed him to an abiding place in her heart.

Marie had closed the window as the rain began to fall. Suddenly there seemed to be a louder sound than the splatter of the drops. It was like a tap-tap-tap! Then some heavy object beat against the pane.

One hour later Marie was speeding down the road leading southwards, mounted on a bicycle. She had found under the wing of the carrier dove was a card in the writing of Aldis Blake.

"Dear aunt," she said soothingly, "don't scold this time. I faithfully promise that Juno shall be kept closed in her box until your special seeds are all fully sprouted."

"Why, no—he—that is, Mr. Blake called two of his pet dove mates Juno, the other Venus."

"I'm—so that's the secret of your fondness for that audacious nuisance that has eaten up my choicest sprouts—imported, too! I wouldn't moon much over that young man if I were you, Marie. They tell me he never worked a day in his life, and all his father left him was a lawsuit."

Marie blushed to the roots of her hair, hastened to her room, and coaxed Marie approached the old rookery. A light guided her. She traced it to a room on the lower floor. She saw a ruffianly faced man trying a lock of door.

Marie was in the lighted room as soon as the man was out of sight. She noticed the padlocked door beyond, found a heavy iron bar, burst in the door, and, extending the lantern saw—her lover, handcuffed, lying on a heap of straw.

"You!" shouted Aldis in amazement. "Yes," fluttered Marie—"your message—the dove."

"What! Venus flew to you, instead of home, as I expected?" exclaimed Aldis. "Ah, I see—for her mate."

It was fortunate that Aldis Blake had his pet dove with him when captured. A scheming lawyer had plotted for his absence when the law suit came up. He was foiled. Aldis gained the suit and a fortune.

It was for this reason that, in 1878, congress formally established the life saving service, at that time the only institution of its kind in the world under government control.

At each of the 279 stations is a keeper, as well as a captain of the crew. Crews number from seven to ten, according to the importance of the station in relation to the prevalence of danger.

"It was the Other Kind of Hitch." A descendant of the faterland in McPherson, Kan., went to his family physician for a prescription for his son, who was afflicted with an irritable skin disease.

"The trouble," he explained, "is in his side, Doc. It hitches him once." "Oh, I see," replied the learned gentleman. "Any cough?"

"No, no; it just hitches him yet." "Severe pain when he breathes, I presume?" "No, no, Doc; it scratches him once already!" exclaimed the impatient caller.

Singing and cheering in the "wee, small hours," supposedly the inalienable rights of college students, has raised a howl of protests from the residents of One Hundred and Thirteenth street, New York, who object to the goings-on in the ten fraternity chapter houses maintained by Columbia students in that thoroughfare.

KANSAS HOGS MADE IMMUNE

State Is Establishing Eight Demonstration Stations.

Topeka, June 3.—Sam S. Graybill, state sanitary live stock commissioner, is establishing eight demonstration stations in Kansas to show that the vaccination of hogs with serum and cholera blood by the simultaneous method will absolutely immunize the animals from hog cholera.

One station is now in operation at Silver Lake. Another will be located at Hutchinson this week. Arrangement for a third station at Marysville will be made at once.

Each station has a territory of some four or five sections of land. In that district every hog is vaccinated by the simultaneous method. For twenty-one days the district remains under quarantine. It costs a farmer from 20 to 30 cents to vaccinate an animal.

The vaccinated or immune animals do not take the disease. The annual commencement exercises will begin tomorrow, when the annual department of music concert will be held.

QUEER THING IS THE TURTLE
Scotch Naturalist of Wide Repute Declares It is Neither Fish, Flesh Nor Fowl.
According to Macdonald, a Scotch naturalist of wide repute, the turtle is the strangest of all living things and the most unfathomable. He can live in the water as well as out of it and can seemingly go for indefinite lengths of time without air or food or light. He is neither fish nor flesh nor fowl, and yet he has the characteristics of all three. As for his eating, it seems quite superfluous, for he can remain shut up in a barrel for a number of weeks and emerge at the end of the time apparently none the worse for the lack of food and light and air. The baby turtle seems also just as indifferent to its surroundings as its parents are. As soon as it comes forth from its egg it scuttles off to the sea. It has no one to teach or guide it. In its brain seems implanted the idea that until its armor becomes hard it has no defense against hungry fish. And so it seeks shelter in gulf weed and feeds unmolested until its armor gets hard. By the time that it weighs 25 pounds, which occurs the first year, it knows that it is far from all danger, for after that no fish, however hungry or well armed with teeth, can interfere. The turtle immediately withdraws its head into its neck between the two shells, and all intending devourers struggle in vain to impress it.

WHERE HER THOUGHTS WERE
Woman's Ideas Eminently Practical, Though Not Quite Following Husband's Reading.
The husband was reading a newspaper account to his wife. Now and then he paused and asked a question. The nature of her replies made him doubt that she was listening closely. He accused her of having thoughts elsewhere, and she indignantly retorted that she had heard every word. He continued reading for a few minutes and then glanced at her. From the far-away look in her eyes he knew her thoughts were not upon the item he was reading. So turning the sheet as an excuse for the pause, he continued as follows:
"Last night, at about two o'clock in the afternoon, just a few minutes before breakfast, a hungry boy about sixty years old, bought a doughnut for nine pins twenty feet thick. With a cry of despair he jumped into a dry millpond, broke his arm at the knee joint and was drowned. It was only ten years later, on the same day and at the same hour that a goat gave birth to six elephants. A high wind then came up and killed three dead horses and a wooden cigar Indian. What do you think of that, dear?" he questioned suddenly.
She gave a little start, smiled and said:
"I think that's a splendid bargain, Henry. You had better get a half-dozen, for your stock of shirts is low."
—Puck.

Glass in Japan.
It is only during a comparatively short time that the Japanese have glass as accidentals know it. When the first railroads were built, passengers in the coaches often put their heads through the windows to be pasted pictures on the glass to call attention to the fact that a solid substance was behind them. The masses of the Japanese today do not know the mirror as it is known in the west. The richer people have one mirror, indeed, but usually the glass used in the mirrors sold to the populace is not quicksilvered, being merely well polished. As for cut glass, it is practically unknown in the island, and glass drinking cups are rare.—Harper's Weekly.

Why She Was Quitting.
A famous Ohio humorist says that a new rich family in Cleveland, who were beginning to put on a lot of airs, hired a colored girl just arrived from the south to act as their serving-maid. Her new mistress insisted that all meals should be served in courses. Even when there wasn't much to eat it was brought to the table in courses. At the end of a week the girl threw up her job. Being pressed for a reason for quitting so suddenly, she said:
"I'll tell you, lady. In dis yere house dere's too much shiftn' of de dishes fur de fewness of de vittles."
An Office Necessity.
The little tots in a private kindergarten had been unusually noisy and the nearly distracted teacher was puzzled to think of some way to restore order. Finally she thought of a scheme.
"Boys, I want you to pretend that you are business men and that this is your office and that you have lots of work to get out today," she said.
"All right," said one precocious little five-year-old, "I will if you will let Nellie be my stenographer."—Indianapolis News.

Advantages of Steel Collars.
Enameled steel shirt collars are advertised in England. When they become soiled you merely pass a sponge over them and they are as good as new. If the wearer sits down in a damp room the collar begins to rust immediately; this corrosive admonition frequently protects sensitive people from colds. On a pinch the garment may be made to do duty as a razor or a carving knife. If it be lent to a friend it will in all probability cut his throat.—Leslie's Weekly.

HIS LONG SEARCH IS ENDED

Old St. Joseph Resident Spends Many Years Looking for Relief.

Then Finds the United Doctors Right Here at Home, and Is Cured.
The following letter from a well-known resident of St. Joseph will explain why so many hundreds of people are grateful to the United Doctors. Mr. Edwards states his case plainly, and is only one of the great multitude who have found relief and cure from these great specialists in modern medicine.

St. Joseph, Mo., June 1, 1913.
I was a sufferer from indigestion and rheumatism for 15 years and tried every means of relief without much relief, only a little temporary help at times from local physicians. This spring I got so I was unable to work and hearing of the many cures being made by the United Doctors I decided to make one more effort to get well. I have been under the United treatment less than three months now and must say my improvement has been wonderful. My stomach trouble and indigestion has disappeared entirely, and my rheumatism is practically gone. I work nine hours every day now at the carpenter trade, in fact can get away with more work in a day and feel better after it than I have in five years. And then when I get to the dinner table how different from what it used to be. Before I saw these specialists I would turn sick at the table nearly every day and would have to give up trying to eat. Now I sit down and eat everything in sight and seem to have as good a stomach as I did when a boy, though I am now 64 years of age. I have lived here in St. Joseph for some time, and for years was a resident of Hamilton, Mo., and I make this statement with the sole idea that I may thereby help some other sufferer to find the right place and be restored to health.
S. C. EDWARDS,
6419 Grant Street.

The remarkable success of the United Doctors of St. Joseph in chronic diseases is due to the fact that they never treat symptoms alone, but search deeply into the causes and fore-runners of each case, and then by applying the results of their discoveries, the cause is removed and the patient soon on the road to recovery. The study and cure of chronic diseases is their life work, they cannot afford to make mistakes for it is upon cures and not upon experiments that the success of the United Doctors has been built. They avoid failures by selecting their cases, refusing all they deem incurable. Since their consultation and examination is free to all it costs nothing for any sufferer to find out whether curable or not. The offices of the United Doctors at 220 Felix street, second floor, are busy every day with patients from far and near, for the fame of these frank, honest and successful specialists has spread into many of the surrounding states.—Adv.
