Top Yearlings $8.50—Cows and Heifers Trend Lower—Veals Decline—Stockers and Feeders Are Dull, Weak.

Reports of weakness at Chicago, an increase of almost 10,000 head in aggregate cattle marketing over a week ago and buyers' efforts to avoid paying for a lot of water movement in beef steers trade at this point today.

Stockers and feeders buyers showed a disposition to cut rates again today and succeeded to some extent, as prices were quoted weak to 10c lower than yesterday, or around a quarter under prices current at the close of last week.

Feeding cows and heifers suffered a rather bearish trade during yesterday's late trade and closing prices were quoted weak to 10c lower.

There was a moderate supply of butcher cattle on offer here today and the tendency of prices was lower.

Bulls and stags cleared rather slowly but in most cases men were able to work out a deal.

Ben Lisenfelt, Extensive Nebraska Shipper, Markets Two Loads at $8.55.

Ben Lisenfelt, of Alexandria, Neb., was here today with two cars of light weight hogs that sold at the top of the market, $8.55.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME. Charity begins at home, even when the home doesn't need it.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — A Boy Who Never Forgot His Whipping.

DADDY said that as it was so near the Fourth of July he would tell Jack and Evelyn a story about one of the boys of the Revolution. "You know," daddy began, "the Revolution was the war which the American people once had with the English when old King George raised their taxes more than they thought he had a right to do."

"But before King George would agree to let them alone a long and cruel war between England and America was fought. Many brave Americans enlisted under General George Washington, and when the war was over the English were glad to go home and let the Yankees do as they pleased."

"Among the American officers none was braver than General Daniel Morgan, and no one was more feared by the English soldiers. General Morgan was a terrible fighter. Not only did he think that the English king had no right to tax Americans, but he had a grudge of his own against the English."

"And this is how the grudge began. When England was at war with the French and Indians Daniel was a wagon boy in the army that marched over the mountains from Virginia to fight the French at old Fort Duquesne."

"The boy took the thrashing quietly, but he fainted when it was over. He always claimed that the man who counted the strokes made a mistake in counting and that he had been given only 400 instead of 500 lashes."

"He never forgot the unjust whipping and was one of the first to answer the call of the colony for soldiers when their war with England began."

Those who are disposed to question this statement would do well to have themselves subjected to a test in some laboratory where the degree of impairment in mental and physical functions caused by alcohol can be measured quite as accurately as a yard of cloth.

Scientific experiments show that alcohol has been misnamed a stimulant. Its effect is anaesthetic. Therein lies the danger, and for some its charm. The man who "wakes up" under alcoholic influence is really going to sleep, so far as his higher reasoning faculties are concerned.

The fancied stimulation is merely a release of the lower nervous activities by a suppression of the higher, causing a narrowing of the field of consciousness. The use of alcohol in medicine as a direct heart stimulant is obsolete. It is a poison. It is still used as a sort of temporary food in the crisis of fever, as it is known to lower the resistance to disease toxins.

The most saddening of the evils intemperance brings is the hereditary transmission of the drink craving and the changes in the system induced by its indulgence. It is the right of every child to be well born, but how can children be at their best when one realizes the frightful mental disturbances that are traced to the drunkenness of parents?

Alcohol not only blunts the sensibilities, clouds the intellect and dwarfs the soul, but descends with fearful power on surrounding generations until the family becomes extinct.

TESTED RECIPES. Spanish Rice.—One can tomatoes, six tablespoons raw rice, five small onions, half a cup butter, half a cup grated cheese, one-fourth teaspoon red pepper, one cup hot water, and salt to taste.

Strawberry Pie.—Make a rich crust, same as for lemon pie, bake nicely, then fill crust with fresh strawberries, sprinkle liberally with sugar, then beat the whites of two eggs, add one-fourth cup sugar, and cover the berries with this. Set in oven until whites or frosting, turns a delicate brown.

Washed Bean Salad.—One pint, cold baked beans, dry, strained, and pint cooked tomatoes, possible through colander; one bunch (small) celery, chopped fine; one-half pound English walnuts, chopped fine. Salt and pepper to taste. Mix with salad dressing.

DYE SAVES THE COLORS. Dresses made of colored linen will keep their color as long as they last if a little dye is added to the water in which they are rinsed.

Washington, June 15.—The much-mooted agricultural schedule of the Underwood tariff bill was suddenly upset again by the majority members of the senate finance committee late yesterday when a motion was made to reconsider action taken earlier in the day approving the free listing of live stock and wheat subject to a countervailing duty.

Old Ranchman Heeds Call of Plains After Many Years. Roswell, N. Mex., June 15.—The call of the saddle became so compelling that Col. S. K. Sydes, thirty years departed from his career as a cowboy, mounted his horse last week and departed to again ride the range.

But he simply wanted to ride. When he reached Roswell the other day he had traveled about 1,200 miles on his novel journey through the cattle regions of Texas and New Mexico.

For several years prior to his leaving the occupation Sydes was manager of the Howry Cattle Company, with headquarters near the little settlement of Endes, which shared with Liberty the reputation of being the "hot center" of the general roundup.

BIDS FOR IRRIGATION PLANT

First Kansas Experiment Will Be Tried Near Dighton. Topeka, June 15.—The first experimental irrigation plant to be established by the state board of irrigation will be at Dighton, Lane county.

Sites have also been selected in Wallace and Wichita counties, where the county commissioners are putting down test wells to ascertain the amount and depth of the underflow. If the test wells come up to requirements windmills will also be established there.

"On the Dighton tract," said Mr. Walker, "the soil is so rich that if it were placed on trains and hauled back to Iowa and put on the land there it would act as a fertilizer. The only drawback is the lack of moisture. There is an abundance of it below. Therefore if we can demonstrate that it can be lifted and put on the surface and made to raise stuff at a profit we will have made a success."

"Our idea is to interest the settler in windmill propositions. If we can demonstrate that the settler can put in two or three windmills and create an oasis in that barren country and make his living from the stuff he can raise from it, the problem is solved."

The last legislature appropriated $125,000 for irrigation experiments in the counties lying west of the 100th principal meridian and the country through which the meridian runs. This comprises 31 counties. The board in charge of the work is composed of F. A. Hinds, Scott City, chairman; B. P. Walker, Osborne, secretary; and J. B. Hammond of Hamilton county.

Drinking Liquor As a Habit

Once the Necessity for Alcoholic Stimulants Has Become a Habit the Victim Must Have Help to Escape from His Craving.

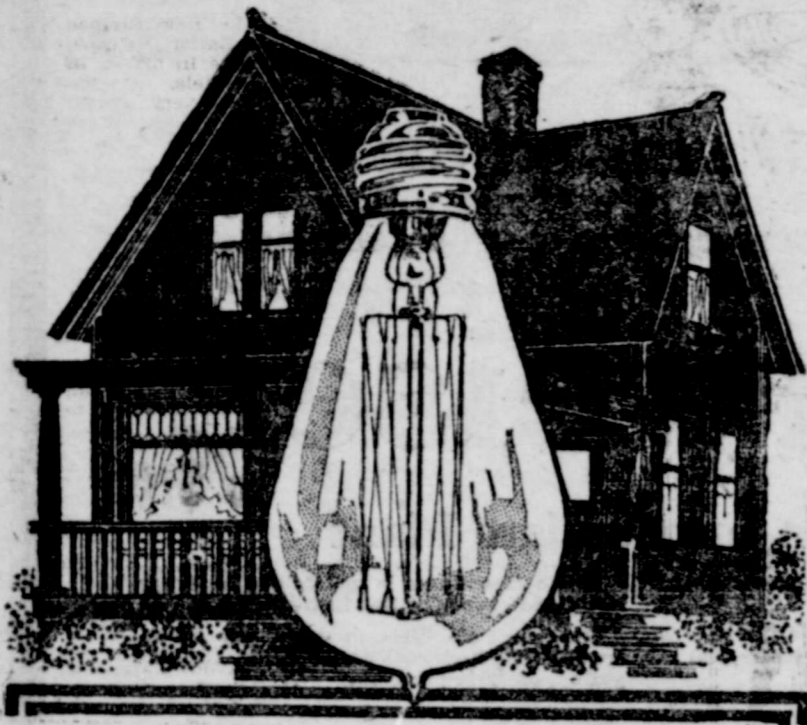

The NEAL TREATMENT Removes All Craving in Three Days.

The NEAL internal treatment cures the periodical, occasional or moderate drinker, the habitual and excessive drinker and the nervous man who has to drink to keep from becoming more nervous. It takes away all inclination to drink, all desire and craving for drink by neutralizing the poison of alcohol in the system and ridding the blood of the poison by a rapid process of elimination, leaving the drinker in the same normal condition he was in before tasting liquor so far as the effect of alcohol may be concerned—all appetite for drink gone—and he a new man.

A MODERN TREATMENT. The Neal is a Physician's Cure for the drink habit; it is the most modern and perfect of known treatments, originated by a physician, compounded by a physician, and administered by experienced local physicians. It never fails.

FARMERS OWN HIGH SCHOOL

Institution in Plymouth County, Iowa, Is Growing.

Westfield, Iowa, June 13.—An article in a recent newspaper told of a high school near Clinton, Mo., which is owned by four farmers. There is a similar school in Sioux Township, Plymouth county, Iowa. It has been established two years. The people of the township decided it would be cheaper to start a school than to pay the tuition of twenty-two pupils at the nearest school, ten miles away. This year there are so many pupils from outside the township that the tuition fees pay all the expenses except the salary of the teacher, Miss Anna Donohue. If the farmers had not established this school, the young folk of the township would have had other hardships beside the payment of tuition, as the roads are hilly and journeying to the nearest school would have been decidedly unpleasant. The Sioux Township high school is the only one of its kind in the state. Irrigation has been practiced in Spain nearly a century, the first canal having been begun in 1314.

WED AT COFFIN OF MOTHER

Chicago Couple Carry Out Woman's Last Dying Wish—Funeral a Wedding Trip.

Chicago.—The most urgent request of the late Mrs. Peter Peterson, 1422 East Seventieth street, to her son, Christ Peterson, during her final years was that he get married before her death.

"If not before I die, then at least before I am buried," she told him. The son was in no hurry, and not thinking there was any likelihood of his mother dying soon, he kept putting it off. Perhaps one factor in the postponement was the hesitating attitude of the girl of his choice, Miss Hannah Jensen, 6838 Adams avenue.

But on last Saturday Mrs. Peterson while visiting a neighbor was stricken with apoplexy.

Young Peterson remembered the last wish his mother had expressed. He telephoned Miss Jensen and obtained her consent, then telephoned the license clerk and discovered it was too late to get a marriage license.

The Rev. William Steinhilber, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, was asked to officiate.

On Tuesday the minister was telephoned again and asked to appear a few minutes before the time set for the funeral service. He was escorted into the room where the casket lay. At the head of the coffin in deep mourning stood young Peterson and Miss Jensen hand in hand.

Some one whispered the circumstances to the shocked clergyman, and after he had regained his composure he marched forward, forgot the funeral service temporarily, and united the couple in marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson took their places with the other mourners and the funeral proceeded. They went to the cemetery, watched the burial, and returned to the house. That was their only wedding trip, Peterson said philosophically.

FRISCO OLDER THAN NATION

Pacific Coast City Said to Have Been Founded March 27, 1776, by Anglican Indians.

Berkeley, Cal.—The yellow, misty pages of an old Spanish ecclesiastical document in the possession of the University of California have yielded to researchers a new story of the founding of San Francisco, which places the date before the birth of the nation—March 27, 1776.

The document is contained in the Robert E. Gowan collection presented to the Academy of Pacific Coast History by the late Collis P. Huntington. It has just been deciphered by Prof. Frederick C. Teggart. The narrative deals with the journey from Sonora, Mexico, of Padre Pedro Font, first apostle to the Indians of San Francisco peninsula. His party founded a mission at Yuma, Ariz., then crossed the Imperial valley of California to San Diego and moved up the coast to San Francisco.

There, "on the extremity of the white cliff, at the inner point of the entrance to the harbor," the cross was planted and a settlement established.

GLASS EYE FOR A JERSEY

Milk Supply Falls Off After Accident and Veterinarian Diagnoses Case as Injured Vanity.

Kansas City, Mo.—A few months ago a dairy cow belonging to Blair Stanton, a Wyandotte county farmer, producing eight quarts of milk a day, lost an eye in the hedge brush. Saddened by her loss, the cow refused to associate with others of the herd and fed alone.

Her output dropped to four quarts a day. A veterinarian was called. He found no ailment except melancholy. He said she was suffering with fallen pride. Then he solved the problem. He provided her with a glass eye.

Next day the Jersey was found with the herd grazing in deep contentment. Best of all, she regained her milk and started in to make up for lost time. Now she is giving ten quarts of milk a day and is contented.

London.—Miss E. J. Emery, an American who had long been a resident of England and who recently died here, bequeathed $100,000 to the Salvation Army for work among women and girls of foreign countries. She also left smaller bequests to charity. The balance of her bequests, which amounted in all to about $460,000, goes to nephews and nieces in America. Officers of the Salvation Army said they believed that Miss Emery formerly resided in Minneapolis.

TOP STEERS FROM NEBRASKA

High Class Beeves Fed by Bert Watson Bring $8.55.

The best beef steers offered on the local market yesterday was a load of Shorthorns raised, fed and marketed by Bert Watson, of Franklin county, Nebraska. The lot, consisting of 20 head, averaged 1,317 lbs. and sold at the satisfactory price of $8.55, the extreme top. He also had a load of yearling steers on sale that brought $8.35, these cattle averaging 1,092 lbs. Both lots had been on full feed since last December and according to Mr. Watson put on a good gain. The feeding ration consisted of corn with a liberal allowance of alfalfa hay for roughness.

Mr. Watson keeps about sixty head of cows and heifers on his Franklin county farm. The calves he gets he raises and finished up for the market. He has found this a most satisfactory and profitable way to utilize the corn and other feed that is produced on his farm.

The crop situation in Franklin county, Mr. Watson reports, is encouraging in a general way, although there is some fear that the dry weather will damage the corn unless there is relief soon in the way of moisture. Small grains promise good yields and there will be a heavy crop of alfalfa. The first cutting, Mr. Watson says, made an unusually good yield.

COUNTY'S WOLF HUNT

Montana's Pest Run Down by Dogs and Men.

Colts and Two-Year-Old Cattle Attacked and Mangled While Still Alive in Corral by the Hungry Animals.

Phillipsburg, Mont.—A big gray wolf that had been the terror of the stockmen of the Rock Creek country, Granite county, since early fall was finally run down by a pack of dogs and a force of mounted hunters. The wolf was laid low by six shots fired on the run by "Jack" Guinness, a rancher of Rock Creek, and Fred Elkins, a professional hunter from Colorado. Mr. Elkins' dogs continued the chase for gray wolves mate after darkness compelled the men to discontinue.

Wolves were never seen in the Rock Creek country before last fall. This pair is supposed to have come across from the Big Hole country. Many depredations among the stock on Willow and Rock creeks were committed by the wolves before stockmen were aware of their presence in this section. A few stockmen who knew of the characteristic manner in which the wolf attacks his prey started the belief that wolves were actually in the country, and the stockmen of Granite county offered a reward of $75 to any one killing a wolf in the besieged section and afterward raised it to $100, when the effort to slay a wolf proved unavailing by individuals on the hunt.

About three weeks ago the whole Rock Creek country rose up to the pursuit, but found the wolf a wily animal to deal with. All day the crowd would track the animal and just before nightfall be obliged to give up the chase without a result.

The wolves committed their depredations in the dark of the early morning, visiting pens or fields where stock might be corralled for safety and devouring from the living animal what meat they needed. Colts and two-year-old heaves were their special prey. Sometimes the victims would escape with the loss of their tails or portions of their hind quarters, but would die from the effects of the attack.

An attack would be telephoned from one ranch at daybreak, and at the same time fresh tracks of the wolves would be found at another ranch miles away. This made it confusing and discouraging for the stockmen in pursuit. The services of Mr. Elkins, a professional hunter, and his pack of trained hounds were obtained, and since then the wolves have been sighted repeatedly and shot at, but never overtaken until crowded back into the Meadow Creek range.

Great relief is felt and general rejoicing prevails among ranchmen throughout the country over the fact that the larger and more vicious one of the pair of wolves has been killed. He measured 5 feet 7 inches from tip to tip, height 2 feet 8 inches and weighs 150 pounds.

The chase for the female is being continued by the hunters, and it is believed that she will be easily run down, since her "meat getter," as one of the hunters called the big wolf, is dead.

TRUTH ABOUT ADRIANOPLE

Times Correspondent Says Turk Defense Were Pitifully Inadequate.

London.—The Times publishes a long and critical account of the siege and capture of Adrianople, from a correspondent who visited that city immediately after it was taken by the allies. It shows that the defense of Adrianople, though stubborn, was not as skillful and spirited as had been supposed and that the difficulties the Servians and Bulgarians had to overcome in the final assault have been very much exaggerated.

The correspondent attributes the fall of the fortress in a great measure to lack of spade work on the part of the Turks, and says that in the final assault the main works were barely defended—were, in fact, almost indefensible.

The infantry trenches on Arnautkeul ridge were nothing more than field works that a brigade of Indian infantry would have been ashamed of.

"When I remember the Ladysmith defenses and the Russian works which the Japanese had to force at Liao-Lang," continues the correspondent, "and compare them with the positions on military engineering which were defended at Adrianople for five months, my opinion is that Adrianople could and ought to have been taken at any time during those five months."

"Along the whole line of barbed obstacles were none of those signs of desperate passage which those who were in Manchuria will remember in their dreams to their dying day.

"The fortifications in the positions around Adrianople were miserable in design and totally devoid of military acumen in their execution. The marvel is that the Bulgarian artillery did not pound these batteries to pieces. They apparently feared to get into range of the Turks' heavy guns."

The correspondent thinks that it would be kinder not to examine into the allies' official estimates of the losses on either side in the final assault.

HADLEY IS SUED BY AN ARTIST

Former Governor of Missouri Says Likeness for Capitol Wall is Too Hard About Mouth.

St. Louis, Mo.—While Governor Hadley was the chief executive of Missouri he had his portrait painted. It was to take its place in the gallery at the state capitol building. Though "Governor" Hadley is now "Mr." Hadley and though the portrait has long since been finished from a technical standpoint, the "sittings" are not yet over.

A deposition filed in the Superior court recently made clear this fact. It also showed that the former state executive didn't like the expression of his own face.

The deposition is that of Miss Anita Moore of St. Louis and was filed on behalf of Miss Samantha L. Huntley, an artist, who has brought suit for $1,185 against Colonel A. Houts and three other members of the state legislature, who, it is charged, have refused to order the payment of the sum because the portrait was changed after its completion. According to Miss Huntley, who is now in Italy, the former governor before vacating his office ordered her to modify the hard expression in the mouth of the likeness.

TWINS CAUSE ODD PUZZLE

New Jersey Youths Are So Much Alike That Complainant in Assault Case is Stumped.

Union Hill, N. J.—Roy Root and Ray Root, twins, are locked in the police station here, each charged with assault and battery, and the authorities know that but one is possibly guilty. The boys look so much alike that the complainant could not tell them apart. They are eighteen years old.

When one of them became involved in an altercation on the street the other brother joined him and so perplexed the complainant that he could not tell which man had struck him. The police also were unable to solve the question, and, to be on the safe side, arrested both. The pair had previously had a great deal of fun out of the complications the resemblance causes.

PRETENDS SHE WAS ROBBED

Girl, Afraid to Tell Fiance of Change of Heart, Fakes Loss of Jewelry.

New York.—Agnes Erhart, nineteen, engaged to marry Feodor Heinicke, decided at the eleventh hour that she did not really love him, but was afraid to tell him so. She thought the loss of what money and jewelry she had might chill his intentions.

In league with a friend she concocted a robbery, and turned up at a police station with a pitiful tale of how a man had leaped out of a closet in her room, choked her and bound her and made away with her valuables. When the detectives broke down her story the girl admitted that she wasn't really robbed, but "had to do something to keep from marrying Feodor." She signed a long written statement and was allowed to go.

FILM RECORD OF WEDDING

Relatives of Couple Unable to Attend, So Ceremony Is Conducted Before Movies Machine.

Denver, Colo.—Harry L. Rand of this city and Helen Stanford of Salt Lake City wanted to repeat the marriage ceremony in the presence of their families. Circumstances prevented the appearance of any relatives, so it was decided that the entire ceremony would be taken on motion picture film.

Therefore, every action of the young couple, from the time Rand kissed the bride-to-be at the station until the conclusion of the ceremony, was recorded on motion-picture film.

Rev. A. A. Tanner of the First Congregational church of this city performed the ceremony.

Cat Attacks Little Child. Atlantic City.—Mrs. Mollie Kravitz hearing her two-year-old baby, Annie, screaming with pain, ran into the room where the child was on the floor, and found that the baby had been attacked by a large black cat and severely scratched and bitten. The cat was crouching for another spring at the child when Mrs. Kravitz drove it away.
