Sand-Whipped Italian Warriors Cross Egyptian Borders

Frontier Towns Taken Over by Advance Legions

Situation Declared "Well in Hand" in British Communique

CAIRO, Sept. 14 (AP).—Italy's sand-whipped legions swept across the Egyptian frontier tonight, tanks and armored cars rolling into the ruined villages of Sollum and Muisaid under heavy attacks by the British air force.

Although the Italians forced a wedge 10 miles deep, a British communique declared the "situation is well in hand."

How many troops the Italians were putting into their advance was not known but they were believed to be considerable numbers.

This apparent prelude to a desert blitzkrieg came with all Egypt momentarily expecting a big Fascist offensive.

British headquarters described the Italian move as an "advance" rather than an "attack," emphasizing that the British never had made any pretense of trying to hold Sollum, a port, or Muisaid, which they said, were only much-bombed villages used chiefly as centers for British patrols harassing the Italians.

The British, on the alert for the start of a real mechanized offensive against Egypt, the Sudan, or both, said the Italians were using airplanes, armored cars and trucks to transport their troops and were continuing their thrust beyond the two occupied villages.

A British statement said "there is no anchorage at Sollum or other facilities and it has not been visited by any war vessels for many years."

Its occupation was regarded as unlikely to facilitate any Italian advance along the coast since the route suitable for military transport had been destroyed.

A customs post a few miles from the sea, was described as of even less importance than Sollum.

Liquor Companies Filed Against by Attorney General

AUSTIN, Sept. 14 (AP).—The attorney general's department filed anti-trust suits today against seven distillers and 23 wholesalers, seeking statutory penalties from $50 to $1,500 daily from Jan. 1, 1936, to date and permanent injunctions against alleged price fixing and other agreements.

The suits represented one of the largest anti-trust actions ever to be brought by the state.

The suits were similar but not identical. The common allegation was that distillers agreed with their wholesale outlets on a fixed territory in which to sell products upon a fixed wholesale and retail price and, further, that wholesalers refused to sell to retailers who offered to the public the distiller's brands at a price lower than that agreed upon by distiller and wholesaler.

Filing of the suits climaxed a year's investigation by the attorney general's department. Penalties were asked against each group of defendants.

Fall Field Trip of West Texas Geologists To Be in Eddy County

Choosing Eddy County, New Mexico as the scene of their annual fall field trip, members of the West Texas Geological Society will assemble at La Caverna Hotel in Carlsbad, Friday night, Sept. 27.

Theme of the trip is the relation of subsurface to surface formations. Leading the outing will be Ronald K. DeFord, Neil H. Wills and Geo. D. Riggs.

The first day, Saturday, Sept. 28, the leaders will attempt to demonstrate relations between the Yates and Tansill formations and the Capitan, Castile and Salado. Sunday the "red-sand" key-bed at the top of the Queen formation will be studied both in subsurface and surface; and the San Andres problem also will be brought up.

Short Illness Fatal to Bankhead

House Speaker Bankhead Dies In Washington Hospital Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP).—Speaker William B. Bankhead of Alabama died at 1:35 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time) today in naval hospital. He was 66 years old.

His death was due to a ruptured artery in the abdomen. He had been unconscious for four hours before his death.

The Democratic leader was stricken last Tuesday (Sept. 10) in Baltimore where he had gone to deliver a political address. At that time Dr. George W. Calver, capitol physician, announced that the speaker had fainted as the result of a painful attack of sciatica.

Dr. Calver explained that he had withheld the true nature of the illness because Bankhead was able to converse with others and read newspapers and he did not wish him to learn how seriously ill he was.

President Played As "Appeaser" in Speech by Willkie

ENROUTE TO KANSAS CITY, Sept. 14 (AP).—In a voice so hoarse that aides summoned throat specialists from Chicago and California, Wendell L. Willkie charged today that President Roosevelt "has been one of the principal contributors to the breakdown in Europe."

Speaking in Peoria, Ill., after a series of rear platform addresses had strained his voice, Willkie said huskily: "Where was Franklin Roosevelt, this great, indispensable man, when Germany was reaching out? If he had given encouragement, this thing would never have happened."

"Franklin Roosevelt, instead of being one factor for the preservation of the Democratic way, has been one of the principal factors in the destruction of the Democratic way."

Although declaring that the President's motive "are always noble," the Republican presidential candidate said that "it doesn't do any good to have noble motives if you don't know what you're talking about."

Referring to a statement by Henry Wallace, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, that the Republican party is the party of appeasement, Willkie said: "Appeasement? He (Roosevelt) has appeased the Democratic world to destruction. Of all the men I know who have any acquaintance with international affairs, Franklin Roosevelt is the least qualified to lead this nation."

Willkie asserted earlier in Joliet, Ill., that Mr. Roosevelt once "telephoned Hitler and Mussolini and urged them to sell Czechoslovakia down the river at Munich."

Final Passage Of Conscription Measure Is Made

Signature of FDR Is All Necessary for Execution of Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP).—For the first time in United States history, a peace-time draft bill won final approval of Congress today and the President's signature, expected early next week, was the last remaining step necessary to start the machinery for raising a conscript army of 900,000 men.

The revised bill, requiring 16,500,000 men aged 21 to 35, inclusive, to register for possible service went through both houses by margins of almost two to one today, thus demonstrating how simply Hitler's onslaughts abroad have reversed the traditional congressional aversion to peace-time conscription.

The millions of America's young manhood will be registered by some local 700,000 election officials on a day to be set by the President, perhaps early in October. In mid-November the first batch of 75,000 draftees are due to be called to the colors. Under the War Department plans, subsequent calls would build up the army to 400,000 early in 1941 and to 900,000 by the spring of 1942.

The President, anticipating Congress action, dispatched a request to Speaker Bankhead for an additional $1,733,886,976 for the defense program, including $24,825,108 to start the draft.

Obviously prepared before Congress finished its job, this proposed appropriation would speed the conscription processes. Although registration may take place when the President has signed and fixed the registration date, the legislation requires that appropriations must precede the actual calling of men.

The final congressional actions, approved first by the Senate and then by the House, were a revised version of the legislation, came quickly at midday after brief debate. The Senate approved 47 to 25 and the House 232 to 124.

This compromise version included authority for the President to take over and operate on a rental basis plants from which the government could not obtain defense orders as expeditiously as desired. At the insistence of the Senate, the bill had been shorn of restrictions which several senators complained, weakened the bill's force and made it unenforceable in the courts.

The controversy in the Senate over the provision prevented Congress from voting approval of the legislation last night. The bill was referred to a conference committee, composed of senators and representatives, for revision of the industry provision previously passed by the House. It was this revised form that was approved.

Although the bill permits only 900,000 men to be under training for any one year, it does not mean that only 900,000 men are drafted. As conscripts are mustered out, new men are to be called. Under the army's plans, the drafting process is to go on for five years, the time limit set in the bill, and about 4,500,000 men are to be trained.

The recruits will be drawn from men without dependents, will receive $21 a month during the first four months of training and at least $30 monthly, new pay of buck privates, for the remaining five months.

Armed Uprising in Mexico Is Expected Over Election Poll

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 14 (AP).—Reports were current tonight in official quarters and political circles that supporters of General Juan Andreu Almazan, independent claimant to the presidency, might take tomorrow's independence anniversary ceremonies as an occasion to create disorders in Mexico as a prelude to an armed uprising.

It was said either tomorrow or Monday might witness organized disturbances in various sections of the republic.

At the same time, a responsible government official said President Cardenas would make an important statement on Mexico's political situation tomorrow night before observing the 130th anniversary of the village of Dolores Hidalgo in Guanajuato state. Arrangements have been made for a nationwide broadcast of his remarks.

The president, with members of his cabinet and other government officials, left tonight on a special train for Dolores Hidalgo.

General Manuel Avila Camacho, officially proclaimed president elect of Mexico, remained at his birthplace ranch outside the city of Puebla.

Governor, Mrs. O'Daniel Visit Here

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel and Mrs. O'Daniel as they appeared here Saturday. (See story below.)

"Forget Personalities, Get Down To Business," Governor Demands

A fervent hope that "Texas legislators would forget personalities and get down to business" when they meet in January was voiced Saturday by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel in a short talk to residents of Midland.

The governor was in Midland only a few minutes, but found a large crowd awaiting him at the Scharbauer Hotel. Although showing signs of the terrific pace he is traveling in visiting new and old legislators over the entire state, the governor was friendly and cordial to all who managed to talk with him.

He opened his short talk by asserting the legislature never "got started" last session and expressed a hope it would be able to really do some beneficial work the next session.

Without calling names, the state's chief executive said legislators devoted more time in the last session to "personalities" than to accomplishing worthwhile business.

O'Daniel expressed appreciation to Midland County voters for giving him a majority in the primary election this year and said the race for governor was over so quickly he did not have a chance to get to Midland before election day. Humorously, he commented the race was over before he could even stop and that he was "still going."

Politics and other controversial subjects were ignored in his talk. He said his present tour was designed to acquaint him with new members of the legislature and to renew acquaintances with old members. The industrialization program he has advocated since entering the governor's race in 1938, he said, is progressing far more favorably than he had even hoped and he expressed a belief Texas, in the near future would be listed as one of the chief manufacturing states of the nation.

The governor left here for Odessa, where he was the guest of honor at the Odessa-Lubbock football game, and an overnight guest. Today he will go to Fort Stockton to confer with State Senator H. L. Winfield.

Miles Leading on Early Returns From New Mexico Voting
By The Associated Press.
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 14 (AP).—New Mexico voters flocked to the polls today in state-wide primary elections marked by bitter Democratic rivalries for the nominations for United States senator and governor.

Fragmentary returns from urban centers over the state indicated during the afternoon a marked trend in favor of the renomination of Gov. John E. Miles, Democratic incumbent opposed by his predecessor, former Gov. Clyde Tingley.

In the intense Democratic senatorial contest, which drew top interest, United States Senator Dennis Chavez and Rep. J. J. Dempsey waged a slam-bang Democratic primary battle which was inconclusive on the basis of the few returns available at mid-afternoon.

Seventh Air Raid Alarm Since Saturday Morning Sends Capital Residents Fleeing to Shelters

By The Associated Press

London's main network of anti-aircraft guns roared into action early today in full fight against the seventh German aerial assault since Saturday morning.

It was the first time during the night that the anti-aircraft guns sounded off. They had remained silent when British fighter planes alone threw back three successive German attacks between early evening and midnight.

The number of alarms in one night represented a change in German tactics from the continuous, all-night air raids which have kept Londoners huddled sleeplessly in shelters during the nights of the last week.

75 Thousand Will Enter Army Under Conscription Act

By The Associated Press.
16,500,000 men, 21 to 35 years old, inclusive, must register on a day to be fixed by the President, perhaps early in October.

75,000 are expected to be mustered into service in November for a year's training. A total of 400,000 conscripts are due to be in training early in January, 1941, others later. The bill places a 900,000 limit on the number of conscripts in the army at any one time.

Exemptions and deferments to be granted to men with dependents, ministers, theological students, men in essential occupations, certain government officers, aliens, the physically unfit and conscientious objectors. The latter are liable for non-combatant training.

Draftees to receive $21 a month for the first four months and $30 subsequently, with opportunity for raises.

Industries balking at filling government orders can be taken over on rental basis.

Electrical Survey Due For Magnolia Sandidge Prospect in Dawson

By Frank Gardner
Electrical survey was slated to have been run yesterday in Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 A Sandidge Heirs, new prospect in northwestern Dawson County three miles east by south of Gaines' Cedar Lake pool.

Operators planned to set casing upon completion of the survey. No. 1 Sandidge is bottomed at 5,065 feet in line and logged soft, oil-stained lime from 4,945-50, 4,960-65, 5,040-43 and from 5,062-65 feet. It is located 2,200 feet from the south and west lines of section 110, block M. E. L. and R. R. survey.

The Sloan and Zook Company No. 1 J. L. Speyer, southeastern Dawson wildcat, had drilled to 4,045 feet in soft gray lime. Another core was to have been pulled yesterday. First core, from 3,842-60 feet, had returned porous lime carrying a strong odor of sulphur water. The test is in the southeast corner of section 22, block 34, township 4 north, T. and P. survey.

Sandhills Extension Seen
Promising one-half mile east extension of deep Permian production in the Sandhills pool of western Crane County, Gulf Oil Corporation No. 13 W. N. Waddell et al. logged pay in cores from 4,400-34 feet, total depth. Hole is being reamed to 4,400 feet, and a drill-stem test will be taken from 4,400-34 feet.

Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 1 J. S. Todd, north central Crockett County deep test, still is swabbing an average of 15 barrels of salt water hourly with slight showing of gas through 2-inch tubing set on bottom at 6,074 feet. Packer is set at 5,963 feet, and tubing is perforated above packer. Fluid level is approximately 1,400 feet from surface. The well topped the Strawn, lower Pennsylvanian, low at 5,828 feet and showed limited natural production while bottomed at 5,880.

Moore Exploration Company of Midland and Olson Drilling Company of Tulsa No. 1 Mrs. Clara Church, western Crockett wildcat, is drilling at 1,135 feet in sand and anhydrite. Yates sand was topped at 1,063 feet. Eight-inch casing is stuck, and operators will run a string of 7-inch when casing seat has been found.

Wristen Recovers Drillpipe
Four-inch drillpipe lost in Gulf No. 5 Wristen Brothers, southeastern Ward County deep test, has been recovered, but fishing for packer still is in progress. The well is bottomed at 9,187 feet in Ellenburger, lower Ordovician, dolomite topped at 8,002 feet. It is said to have logged saturation in the top of the Ellenburger.

$100,000,000 Spending by the Government Is Due in Orange

ORANGE, Sept. 14. (AP.)—The quiet town of Orange is still shaking its head.

Like the beggar who won a sweepstakes fortune, Orange feels the good news is hard to believe.

More than $100,000,000 will be dumped into Orange's lap because the United States needs ships for defense.

The Consolidated Steel Corporation holds a government contract to build 12 destroyers here, costing approximately $8,000,000 each.

Unofficial sources report $5,000,000 has been allocated for establishment of a naval ship building plant, and a giant housing project probably will figure in the program.

Twenty four steel utility craft, for transport of troops and supplies from ship shore, will be built.

What will all this mean to Orange?

It will mean a boom reminiscent of the roaring oil discovery days of Mexia, Burkburnett and Spindletop, and of Orange's own World War days' boom.

It will mean the weekly payrolls of thousands of shipyard workers will be plunked into the cash registers of the barbershops, the cafes, the tailor shops, the hotels, the rooming houses, the stores. Bank deposits will soar.

It will mean a building scramble such as Orange never has seen. Permanent structures and flimsy shacks will spring up like magic.

It will mean a population jump of possibly more than 300 per cent.

But it will mean a monstrous headache, for into Orange, a peaceful law-biding, church-going town of 8,000 persons, will come the boom town riffraff—shady characters who always show up when money is loose and plentiful.

Tinhorn gamblers, filles de joie, con men and second story experts—Orange awaits their arrival and promises a warm reception.

In the first flush of excitement, Orange gaily welcomed the news of the destroyer contracts, but in the space of hours, city officials and civic leaders were planning to combat this Crime Column.

Mayor Abe Sokolski pledges "regardless of what people might expect, I intend to keep a close check on Orange and see that it is the cleanest city in the good old U.S.A."

Orange is taking its cue on handling the boom from World War days, when its population jumped 15,000 to a total of 25,000.

Four concerns built 50 to 60 wooden boats here, intended for overseas service. Not a single boat went abroad, however; the armistice was signed before they were dispatched.

A few burned as they were launched, providing mysteries which remain unsolved to this day.

Among the vessels constructed here was the largest wooden steamer in the world, named for Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

At war's end, the ships were returned to the "honeyard" and dismantled. Henry Ford bought some of the junk and towed it to Pittsburgh.

The boom lasted a year. With little living space available, many persons lived in tents. Others slept cramped in the back of their cars or in attics.

Tiny huts, intended merely as temporary shelter, arose overnight in one section of the city. A. F. Burns, a reporter, tagged it "toy-town," and the name stuck.

When the bonanza evaporated, the population sagged and Orange resumed its normal course until another wave hit it upon the discovery of oil near the city in 1920.

After the oil flurry, Orange again went back to its shipping, its lumber and rice production.

Now the town is ready for another wild era, but the crescendo will not be reached for some time. First the Sabine river channel, running 28 miles to the Gulf of Mexico, must be deepened to 25 feet, with a 150 foot bottom width.

The 60 odd acre site of the destroyer plant must be filled in and leveled. Construction of the plant, approximately a mile and a half long, will be started immediately thereafter.

Ordinarily it would be at least a year before construction of destroyers would begin, but Commander E. B. Perry, sent here by the navy to supervise shipbuilding, said:

"This is an emergency and it will be only a matter of months' before construction actually starts.

Plans still are in a nebulous stage and Commander Perry was reticent concerning details.

Jack Crain Relied Upon to Carry the Longhorns to Top

By Felix R. McKnight

AUSTIN, Sept. 14. (AP.)—Cowboy Jack Crain will ride again, and at the old weight of 170 pounds.

It probably will come as a terrific disappointment to the summer gossipers who hiked the cowboy's waistline to proportions of a cider barrel and listed his waddling weight at 200 pounds, but Cowboy Jack is very trim.

So trim, in fact, that members of the coaching staff solemnly swear that the Nocona nugget reported for fall training in the best condition of any back on the University of Texas squad.

Furthermore, the cowboy has made no demands for a first mortgage on the administration building or a shot at Dana X. Bibbes' job.

He is just quietly worrying along in his old capacity as perhaps the nation's outstanding ball carrier. The cowboy is a very normal lad, he is assured, and is a favorite with his mates.

The rumors concerning the stumpy little genius gathered more momentum than a chain letter the past few months. The simple fact is that he quietly worked as a counselor in a summer camp for teen age youngsters for three months.

To quote a man extremely close to the cowboy:

"Rumors had the more impressive citizens believing that Crain would report for practice weighing more than 190 pounds and dragging the ground fore and aft; that he would insist on a valet to help with his uniform and a couple of stooges to do his blocking and tackling, that he could come to practice only on photographer's day, and perhaps order up beer and sandwiches between each quarter.

"The stark truth is that Crain has been a model of industry and attentiveness since reporting, hasn't given the coaches a minutes worry, takes his share of the drudgery without hesitation, and, in general, has exhibited a perfect attitude."

"The cowboy is brown as a nut, is the first man on the practice field at each workout and could probably play 60 minutes of football tomorrow.

To get down to the meat of the matter—Jack Crain may be better than ever this season.

The old elusiveness, quicker-than-the-eye change of pace, and hard, straightaway running is there again. To give the natives a slight line on what to expect this fall, he jumped into scrimmage took a pass and proceeded to hurry the remaining 35 yards to the goal line with a run that must have totaled 100 yards before he finished reversing his field a couple of times and dodging tacklers all the way.

Just a few minutes later he gathered in a punt and went 45 yards for a touchdown straight through the middle of a dazed second team.

Cowboy Jack Crain, the lad who scored eight touchdowns last season on average jaunts of 51 yards and finally wound up with 701 yards gained, will ride again—definitely.

Chapman Defeats McCullough by 11-9 to Cop Amateur Golf Title

By Bill Boni

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Sept. 14. (AP.)—They threw a tournament golfer in against a week-end golfer in the final of the National Amateur Championship today, and the result was a foregone conclusion after the first nine holes.

What was supposed to be a 36-hole final ended on the 27th green with Duff McCullough, the week-end player, racing across the turf to shake the hand of Dick Chapman, the seasoned campaigner and new title-holder.

Chapman—Richard Dorval Chapman is the full name—thus supplanted Bobby Jones as the second most decisive winner in the history of the tournament. For Chapman whipped McCullough by 11 and 9 while Bobby's biggest score was 10 and 9 against Phil Perkins at Brae Burn in 1928.

McCullough, 32-year-old Philadelphia who reached the finals with conquests of two ex-champions and a two-time finalist, looked as if he were going to make a match of it when he won two of the first three holes with birdies this morning.

But two holes later the match was squared. From there on McCullough could win only two holes with Chapman running off eight of the last nine and getting a half on the other.

Chapman probably has tinkered with his golf game more than any amateur in the country. But this week the 29-year-old socialite's unorthodox style stood up well enough to give him the medal with two sub-par rounds, bring him through preliminary triumphs against five tough customers and finally carry him right to the championship Havenney or trophy with a four-under-par performance for 27 holes.

He played his home Winged Foot course like a master, and was entitled to full credit for his feat of succeeding Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., as titleholder.

Yet McCullough earned his share of the credits. Through the final two-thirds of the match, and especially the last nine holes, not a putt that he hit would drop. But the Philadelphia made no audible complaint. He didn't throw his clubs in disgust.

When it was all over, and his fourth shot on the final hole landed in a public parking lot, his only comment was:

"I've got no kick. I just came for the ride, and I rode twice as far as I expected."

Krist or Nowak to Be on Slab as the Buffs Meet Houston

HOUSTON, Sept. 14. (AP.)—Howard Krist or Hank Nowak will be on the hill tomorrow, as the Houston Buffs face the Beaumont Exports in the first game of a best four out of seven series for the Texas League championship.

Krist, who was named for the opening assignment Friday before the start of the final battle with Oklahoma City, was nursing a heavy cold as the Herd returned home Saturday noon and unless the loop's best right hander is much improved, the nod will go to Nowak.

The young right hander has been effective against Beaumont this season.

Manager Eddie Dyer also announced that Nick Cullop, veteran outfielder, would not be used as a starter in the Beaumont series. Cullop re-injured his knee at Oklahoma City Thursday night and there is little chance of his being ready in the all important series opening today. However, he will be able for pinch hitting.

With Cullop on the sidelines, Lou Tezich will go into left field and Tom Winslet will switch to right.

Manager Al Vincent is expected to shoot Les Mueller, cross fire right hander, at the Buffs. Mueller, who dished up a no-hitter just before the close of the regular season and checked in with a two hitter in the San Antonio series for a shutout, won 18 and lost 11 during the regular season. Krist had 29 wins during the year against eight setbacks, and Nowak scored 13 while losing six. Should Vincent decide to hold Mueller for the second tilt, Luther (Bud) Thomas, a veteran moundman, is due out.

BULLDOGS TAKE OPENING GRID GAME FROM YSLETA CLUB, 19-0

White Scores 2 Touchdowns as Victory Recorded

The Midland Bulldogs, looking alternately good and bad, came through with a 19-0 win over the Ysleta Indians in the season's opener here Friday night.

At times the Bulldogs looked ragged but one thing they had was SPIRIT. They received several bad breaks during the game but came right back with more determination than ever to make the breaks come to them.

Once the Bulldogs held the Indians for three downs when the visitors needed only one yard for a touchdown. The Bulldog line was plenty vulnerable out in midfield but when the Indians got down inside the 20 the boys massed together and turned back every threat.

Most of the credit for the win goes to big Wendell Williams, who not only called a smart game from his quarterback position but carried the brunt of the offensive work during the game. He did all the passing for the Bulldogs and carried the ball the majority of the time.

However, Williams was not the sole show—not by a jug full. Jim White, Gordon Bigham, Odie Kelly and Ivan Hall were giving him a lot of help in the backfield. In the line, a veteran and a rookie put up sensational performances.

"Boog" Edison, captain and a four-year letterman, played the best game of his entire career but he did not outshine Wilford Lester, a rookie end who looked all-state during the 45 minutes he played. Together, the two boys probably got about 90 per cent of the tackles during the evening and on the offense they were blocking like professionals. The rest of the boys in the line played a lot of good football but did not come up to the pace set by Lester and Edison.

For the visitors, a slight youth in the backfield named Jim Hill was the big noise. Time after time he knifed through the Midland line and was never stopped until his feet were pulled from underneath him. He just ducked his head, took off and tore all first obstacles completely apart.

The Bulldogs got off to a two-touchdown lead in the first quarter, despite failure to make as many yards or first downs as the Indians. Later in the period Edison broke through and blocked a punt by Crutcher, Indian end who dropped back to do the punting, on the Ysleta 22. Maurice Bratton took the ball on a high pop and raced to the 10 before being downed. Williams picked up three, White got one on a stab at tackle, Kelly got three in the middle, then White went around right end for a touchdown. Williams place-kicked for the extra point.

A couple of minutes later Hill tossed a pass that bounced off Crutcher's hands, hit Mike Buffington of the Bulldogs and bounced out of bounds on the Ysleta 19. On the first play Williams went inside his own right tackle, cut back to the left and raced all the way to pay dirt untouched.

The two clubs battled from one end of the gridiron to the other until early in the fourth quarter when Midland got another touchdown. After Edison had intercepted a Ysleta pass on the Midland 49, Williams and Bigham alternated in carrying the ball down to the Ysleta 6. The Indians held for three downs, then were penalized five for being offside and White sliced through the middle for another Midland score.

Summary:
Ysleta
First Downs 8
Yards gained rushing 142

Buffaloes Lose Second in Row To Colorado City

By Cleddie Shelburne
STANTON, Sept. 14. — The Colorado City Wolves moved off with the long end of a very one-sided football game played on the Colorado City grid last Friday night. A wild scoring spree in every quarter with the exception of the second, gave the Wolves a 44-0 win over the Stanton high school Buffaloes. The Colorado City team counted three times in the first quarter, and two times each in the third and fourth quarters. The Stanton club at no time made a serious scoring threat.

Late in the second quarter, after having kept themselves in the hole by numerous fumbles, the Stanton Buffaloes began a slightly powerful march from their own 30 yard line. O. C. Turner, Buff halfback reeled off a nice run for a first down and it was followed three plays later by a second first down by fullback Howell "Red" White. Not having had possession of the ball more than a dozen downs during the previous minutes of play, these were the first plays that netted any speakable yardage. The march was abruptly ended by the half time being called.

Johnny Grubbs, Colorado City quarterback was the great offensive power for his club. Grubbs went to the paydirt early in the first quarter after a fumble by Stanton was recovered on Stanton's 36 yard line. Wide end sweeps and slashing line plays featuring the Notre Dame system proved very effective with the Wolf triple-threat man packing the pigskin. Grubbs claimed the scoring honors for the night with three touchdowns and one extra point.

Wade, running mate of Grubbs showed a good account of himself with a razzle-dazzle 64 yard run and very good defensive play. Smith, Caffey, and Wade each scored one touchdown for Colorado City.

Summary:

Stanton	Colorado City
4 for 90	1 for 35
1 for 15	kick off 8 for 275
5	first downs 10
2 for 35	passes completed 4 for 81
6	passes incomplete 6
76	yards gained 166
19	yards lost 39
10 for 100	penalties 4 for 20

Majorettes Named To Lead the Band During School Term

Selection of four majorettes to lead the Midland high school band, under direction of drum major Edna Earle Lineberry, was announced Saturday by M. A. Armstrong, band director. The four winners (no comparative rankings were made) are: Frances Carter, Betty Jo Barton, Margaret Ann West, and Betty Ward.

The majorettes were chosen by four competent judges from a field of eight contestants the others being Glenna Jones, Ann Vannaman, Mary Lee Snider, and Billie Walker. The judges praised the ability of the majorettes and declared decision between the girls was hard to make.

Tests for majorettes were conducted Friday night on the football field when the candidates strutted down the field, then faced the grandstand and followed the drum major in a drill.

Armstrong stressed the fact that the position of majorette is held through competition and that unsuccessful candidates or others who wish to compete will have a chance to try for the majorette positions in other contests during the year.

Ramblers, Mexicans Meet This Afternoon

The Midland Ramblers will meet the local Mexican team at City Park today at 3:30. The Ramblers will be trying for their ninth victory of the season as against one defeat. Their only loss was a 4 to 5 decision to the Big Spring nine earlier in the season. The Ramblers will probably start Bobby Walker on the mound today. There will be no admission charge.

DO YOU KNOW—?

- 1. Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Hoodwink was the only other starter when Man o' War won the Lawrence Realization Stakes at Belmont Park in 1920. The odds on Big Red were 1-100.
- 2. Augie Galan, Chicago Cubs' infielder, played the entire 1935 season without hitting into a double play.
- 3. Tommy Wright of Knoxville, Tenn., shot rounds of 68-64-132 in qualifying for the National Open at Atlanta in 1939. It is the lowest sectional qualifying score on record.

Arkansas Without Passer, Will Rely Upon Ground Game This Year

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Sept. 14 (AP)—The famed tag that identified University of Arkansas football teams the past three seasons has been shelved.

No longer is Arkansas "the pass-iest team in the nation." A. J. Yates, a 187 pounder handicapped by injuries last year, is the other starter. But again the reserve problem bobs up, and line coach Glen Rose is only willing but none too able backstops.

A trio of centers make the spot strong. They include Zeylon Holly, 185-pound senior; Daryl Cato, the sophomore of last year who started most of the games. And Ken Hayden, 205-pound junior. It could be any of the three on the field opening day.

Coach Thomsen breaks into his first smile when you mention his ends. He should—they are great. Seniors Howard (Red) Hickey and Maurice Britt, massive 200-pounders, are rangy, fast and rugged. Both are great receivers, if they only had someone to throw to them. Behind this pair comes John Frieberg, the six foot, eight inch basketball star who was injured last fall; towards the running game. If a star is to be found in the backfield, it will be Jay Lawhon, a boy who has never played a Southwest Conference game.

The boy they tagged as the "sophomore most likely to succeed" last season finally accumulated so many wounds and ailments in the training sessions that he just didn't get to play. He was the makings of a great fullback, however, and is Thomsen's starting choice.

With him will be Aubrey (Pug) Neal, a 172-pounder who starred in the last two games Arkansas played last season at quarterback; Felice Cialone, a fine looking Italian boy from Fort Smith, Ark.; and Estes McDaniel, 195-pound senior back who was "found" in the middle of the '30 campaign.

"Naturally, we have room for a lot of improvement in strategy on the field," Thomsen admitted.

No different from any other football team in lean years, Arkansas will be no stronger than its tackles. Right now it looks as if Jan Carter, 225 pound senior, and Jeff Coats, 205-pound junior, will make the starting tackle positions. Only sophomore and one transfer are in reserve. It worries Thomsen.

The guard situation is none too bright although in Milt Smitington, the 225-pound veteran who owns the great kicking foot, they have

Courtney Defeats Sterling City in Six-Man Football

By Cleddie Shelburne
COURTNEY, Sept. 14. — The six-man football season started with a bang Friday in district 12 when the Courtney Eagles, defending district champions, smeared the Sterling City high school football team, 19 to 7, in a conference game on the Courtney grid. Taking advantages of several breaks, the Eagles were able to lead the game all the way.

Kelly, Graham and McMorris each scored a touchdown to get into the season with their team out in front. Effective passing as well as yardage on the ground by Kelly gave the set-ups for two of the scoring plays. A pass interception and masterful running by Graham counted for the last six points.

First downs favored Sterling City 3 to 2. Lineup, Courtney: McMorris, and Jones, ends; Sadler, center; Kelly, fullback; D. Graham, M. Graham, halfbacks.

Sterling City: Mills, Mathis, ends; Chesney, center; Foster, fullback; Sharp, Broome halfbacks.

Wildcats Defeat New Mexico Champions

WINK, Sept. 14. (Special). —The Wink Wildcats opened the 1940 season tonight with a 25-0 victory over Jal, New Mexico champions in 1939. Quarterback Youngblood of Wink led all scores with two touchdowns and one point after touchdown. Halfback Paugh and Rice made the other Wink scores.

Miss Georgia Goss Becomes Bride Of Dan Harston Here Saturday

Trinity Church Scene of Ceremony at Which Bishop Cecil Seaman Officiates

With Bishop E. Cecil Seaman of Amarillo officiating at the marriage service, Miss Georgia Goss, daughter of Mrs. Clara Goss, and Dan Harston of Denver, Colo., son of Mrs. D. G. Harston of Dallas, were married at Trinity Episcopal Church Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Relatives and friends filled the church to hear the couple repeat the vows of the single ring ceremony.

Preceding the Entrance of the Wedding Party, Mrs. Frank Miller Played "I Love Thee" by Grieg as a Piano Solo

A choir of selected voices, including Miss Frances Gillett, Miss Jesse Scott Price, Miss Ruth Anderson, Mrs. R. M. Turpin, Vann B. Mitchell, and Jack Hurt sang "O Perfect Love."

All the musicians wore vestments of black and white. Johnny Guy McMillan lighted the six candles on the altar, where white gladioli were arranged. Floor baskets of pink gladioli stood before the choir stalls.

Wilbur Yeager, nephew of the bride, was the cross bearer. The two boys likewise were in vestments.

Mrs. Miller played the "Bridal March" from "Lohengrin" for entrance of the bridal party, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as a recessional. "Londonderry Air" formed a muted musical background for the service.

Miss Goss entered on the arm of her brother-in-law, W. A. Yeager, who gave her in marriage.

She wore a light-weight wool suit in brown with fur trim and brown accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses tied with yellow ribbon.

Sister Is Attendant
Her sister, Mrs. Don Thompson of Odessa, as matron of honor, was her only attendant. She wore tailored green crepe and also carried yellow roses.

Rex Clark of Goldsmith was best man. Ushers were R. C. Tucker and John Cornwell.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Harston left on a honeymoon trip after which they will live at Denver City.

Mrs. Harston attended the University of Kansas and the University of Oklahoma and has studied dancing extensively. She has lived in Midland for the past six years, most of which time she has conducted a studio of dancing. She has been active in social circles.

Mr. Harston holds a degree from Texas Christian University at Fort Worth, where he was a football star. He is now associated with the National Supply Company at Denver City.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding, in addition to members of the bridal party, were: Mrs. Fred Morris, Fred Goss, and Jim Sturgis of Denver, Colorado; Mrs. W. S. Smiley of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Smith and daughter, Rosalie of Sapulpa, Oklahoma; Mrs. D. G. Harston of Dallas; Miss Vida Harston of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Harston of Waco; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Price and daughter, Gale, of Lubbock.

State Vice President of PTA Is Guest Speaker at Meeting Here

Mrs. James B. Day of Rotan, state vice president of the Parent Teachers Association, was chief speaker at the PTA school of instruction sponsored by PTA City Councils of Odessa and Midland at Hotel Scharbauer, Saturday afternoon.

MRS. JAMES B. DAY

Stressing the safeguarding of the home through security and service, Mrs. Day also pleaded for personal participation in PTA activities. She emphasized the fact that it is desired to make the PTA a "parents" organization and that fathers as well as mothers are wanted as members.

PTA Objectives. She stressed the objectives and aims of the PTA as set forth by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. They are:

To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church, and community.

To raise the standards of home life.

To secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth.

To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child.

To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social, and spiritual education.

Twenty-three women were present for the school of instruction including the following from Odessa: Mmes. S. A. Moore, H. W. Windham, Clark, E. E. Lewis, W. G. Hicks.

A luncheon in the Blue Room of the hotel preceding the school was sponsored by the PTA City Council.

A meeting of the Council followed.

this, with Mrs. Ernest Sidwell, president, discussing the projects for the year, organization of PTA's in negro and Mexican schools being the high points in view.

Mrs. John Perkins was elected vice president of the Council.

Mrs. Day came to Midland with Mrs. L. G. Byerley, district six president, and Mrs. Sidwell when they returned from a school of instruction held at San Angelo Friday.

Mrs. Byerley presided at the school. She also spoke at a PTA meeting at Phillip Nolan school at Sweetwater, Thursday afternoon, and she and Mrs. Sidwell attended a dinner there Thursday night.

We, the Women

SOME THINGS just don't pay—and a woman is smart who crosses them off her list, once and for all. These things don't pay:

Letting jealousy dictate your actions.

Arguing with a man—about anything.

Trying to be friends with a catty woman.

Choosing your clothes for comfort alone.

Considering yourself above using feminine wiles.

Telling the man you are in love with about the men you dated before him.

Letting a man get by with breaking dates with you.

Making excuses to yourself for a man's waning interest.

Putting a career first in your life.

Kidding yourself that you can marry "any time" if you are nearing thirty.

Dating married men.

Managing to get your own way by making scenes.

Giving up your old friends and your outside interests just because you are married.

Being so skeptical that you ask yourself "What is behind this?" every time someone is friendly or tries to be kind.

Taking a husband up on his plea "Just stay as you are."

Neglecting yourself or your interests in an effort to give your children everything they want.

Being rude—ever.

Letting a man know you can very well take care of yourself.

If you'll look around you at the women who haven't crossed these off the list, you'll see then why such things don't pay.

Prairie Lee School Opens, Enrolling 59 Students

Fifty-nine pupils were enrolled with the opening of school at Prairie Lee Monday, Sept. 9.

Principal Gay Koonce made an inspirational talk and introduced Miss Beulah Fuller, new teacher of the third, fourth, and fifth grades. Mrs. Koonce is primary teacher.

The pupils are proud of the new school bus.

Seventy new song books have been purchased by the trustees.

Hope for Typing. The eighth grade is hoping to take typing this year and plans are being made to obtain two typewriters.

Miss Alpha Lynn, county home demonstration agent, met with the 4-H club girls Tuesday.

Miss Sue B. Mann, district supervisor, visited the school Thursday. She inspected the rooms and made a talk to the students.

Mrs. Koonce's room has a library of its own and an attractive library table.

Librarian Elected. By popular vote, Doris Jane Preston was elected Tuesday to serve as librarian the first six weeks of the term.

The editor and assistant editor were also elected by popular vote. Avalene Crudup is editor and Betty Jean Graham assistant editor.

Reporters for Miss Fuller's room are Lavada Crudup and Billie Jean Pigg.

Mr. and Mrs. Koonce and Miss Fuller are organizing a girls' quartet.

The Rev. W. R. Mann, Presbyterian missionary, spoke at a general assembly during the week.

Woodrow and Virginia Baker are moving to Garden City today.

NOT LIMITED Beer comes from hops, wine from grapes, and hard liquor from grain, but they also may come from cactus plants, dandelions, rice, potatoes, and prunes.

Miles Leading-- (Continued From Page One)

Fe, the capital, found Dempsey and Tingley trailing far behind. One precinct gave Chavez and Miles 145 votes to five for Dempsey and Tingley.

The long ballot was expected to delay conclusive returns until tomorrow, since voters selected nominees for the Senate, the state's one House seat, a full slate of state officers, and full membership in the state legislature as well as district, county and precinct offices.

Visiting Writer and Midland Woman Plan Unusual Motor Trip

By Kathleen Eiland

An unusual automobile trip starts this morning for Mrs. N. A. Lancaster and Mrs. Clara Hood Rugel. Mrs. Rugel has been a guest of Mrs. Lancaster this weekend.

Albuquerque, New Mexico, will be the northward goal of their journey. There Mrs. Rugel, fiction and travel writer whose articles have been a feature in Good Housekeeping and other popular publications, will interview Mrs. Wendell Willkie. Until the interview at midweek, Mrs. Lancaster, president of Midland's Civic Theatre, laughingly commented she would "interview the Albuquerque Civic Theatre."

Following the visit of the Willkies the two travelers will journey southward into Chihuahua, Mexico, where they will be guests at the hacienda of the widow of Pancho Villa.

Like The Unusual It was their mutual love of the strange and unusual that drew Mrs. Rugel and Mrs. Lancaster together. They met in August at the Indian ceremonial dances at Gallup, New Mexico—ceremonies which Mrs. Rugel describes as "the only thing that has touched me in North America" and the only thing which ranks, in her opinion, with the Moslem Feast of Ramadan witnessed at Marrakesh, deep in Morocco.

The visit to Marrakesh came as the climax of a long trip through Europe and Africa and other lands of the Mediterranean which she made as an assignment from her employers.

Algeria, Tunisia, Libya, Cairo, Luxor, the Holy Land, Arabia, Constantinople, Greece—these are only a few of the glamorous history-haunted spots visited by the tall, goodlooking Mrs. Rugel and her son, John, on the long trip.

Mussolini Approves The "mother and son" aspect of the trip is credited with bringing her the special approval of Mussolini, who showed his two visitors unusual courtesies on their Italian tour.

Mrs. Rugel named Mussolini as one of the outstanding personalities visited on the trip. General Italo Balbo, late Italian aviation ace, was another. She was the guest of the General and his wife and visited the large modern air base he had built in Africa. The Grand Mufti, whom she visited at Lebanon and who afterward went into hiding in the troubled political times in Palestine, was another noteworthy acquaintance made on the tour. So was Dr. Azetia Manin, of "San Michele," a fanatic of whom she was a guest for a day's visit at his home high above Capri and Anacapri.

She lived for a few days in an apartment in the Vatican city and visited in the home of Giovanni Papini, whose "Life of Christ" was a sensation several years ago.

Colorful Marrakesh But Marrakesh—an all-Arabian city save for a few hundred foreigners, set far in the interior, was for her the acme of the picturesque and vivid local color which abounded on her trip.

Here, in the public square lighted by the smoky flare of pitch torches, Arabs in the native costumes went through the generations—old carnival of the Feast of Ramadan. And here late at night came a camel train from Teheran, Persia, by way of Cairo.

Insight into the actual life of the harem came at Fez where she was invited into the home of a wealthy leather merchant. He had a harem of 25 young women whom the American traveler found "gorgeous" but fulfilling the old saw of "beautiful but dumb."

They had an old copy of a Paris fashion magazine and a fairly new copy of Mademoiselle and Vogue—and they were practically in hysterics over Western styles. When Mrs. Rugel had examined their wardrobes, they turned the tables on her by insisting that she display the garments she was wearing.

Harem Wants Silk Hose The leather merchant said he had "made the mistake" of bringing home from Paris the ancient fashions in publication. The "mistake" was that "they have wanted silk hose, Madam, ever since!"

But if the inmates of the merchant's harem were glamour girls, his wife was something else again. She weighed about 300 pounds but her husband said she had been a "pretty nice" for 35 years and she was "very nice."

Mrs. Rugel liked the foreign countries. In fact, it was only the thought of her husband, she admits, which made her want to come home. Back in 1940 North America, her search for the unusual, the strange and the interesting sent her out to witness the Indian dance rites. It is sending her southward to a Mexican hacienda where the memories of just-past history linger, and northward to do something that is utterly modern—interview the wife of a 1940 presidential candidate. If variety is the spice of life, then Mrs. Rugel's life is never lacking in flavor.

If You Can't Be Beautiful, Be Smart

By Alicia Hart
NEA Service Staff Writer

ALL RIGHT, you're not a raving beauty. Maybe you can't even kid yourself that you are pretty.

You're off on the right foot when you admit that hard fact—to yourself. But never to anyone else, mind you.

Now that you've faced the unpleasant truth, what are you going to do about it? Are you going to sit around and wish that you looked like your most attractive friend or your favorite movie actress. And will you decide that since you don't—and can't—you might as well find yourself a comfortable corner and sit your youth out?

No. Not you. You're going to do after some things that will make the pretty girls wish they had what you have.

First of all, you are going to look the very best you can with the very thing you have. You are going to study yourself more carefully than you've ever studied any subject before. When you get through you'll know every one of your physical assets, and every one of your handicaps.

Tell Your Spirit By Your Walk

YOU'LL decide how to make the best of both—and forget them. You'll realize, of course, that for any woman—and especially the woman whose face is not in the glamor class—a graceful body is a number one essential.

You'll learn to walk beautifully, no matter how many hours you must spend walking on an imaginary (or real) line with a book on your head.

You'll learn how to wear clothes with distinction.

Then you'll learn how to please other people. I don't mean you'll go around spreading flattery as thick as you can. Far from it.

I mean you'll learn how to be a really good friend. You'll become the kind of person who instinctively knows how to put others at ease, how to help without intruding.

So, you're not a raving beauty. Well, what of it?

OFFICER'S SLAYERS SOUGHT. PARIS, Tex., Sept. 15 (AP).—State and local officers converged on the little town of Kanawha in Red River County early today in the search for two men charged in the kidnapping slaying of Deputy Sheriff George Robertson of Paris.

An intensive hunt through the area surrounding Kanawha was started after a farmer living a mile and a half west of the town said two men answering the description of the slaying suspects were seen acting suspiciously near his house.

Discovery that a thin spray of paraffin wax prevented freshly printed pages smudging made modern continuous printing possible. Previously it was necessary to slip a sheet of plain paper between the freshly printed pages.

Fall Headliner: Pompadour

BEAUTIFUL Olivia de Havilland, like many Hollywood stars, is wearing a pompadour these days. The arrangement at left is Miss de Havilland's favorite version. The arrangement at right is the hair she waved softly and made to simulate bangs. In both cases, the back of the hair is brushed smoothly downward and arranged in a deep chignon on the nape of the neck. Hair is parted behind ears and across the top of the head.

Construction Is Slated Soon for Warfield School

With 36 pupils enrolled, Warfield school opened Monday, Sept. 9, in a temporary building.

Construction of the new building to replace the school destroyed by fire last year is scheduled to begin in the near future, but no definite date has been set.

The new school house will be of stabilized adobe. It will have two large classrooms, ample space for a workroom and typing room, two cloak rooms, one offstage room, and hot lunch room or kitchenette. Inside restrooms will be another advantage over most rural school buildings.

The playground will be modernly equipped, with hard-surfaced basketball and tennis courts.

Teachers for the school this year are Marvin Bryant, who returns as principal, and Miss Imogene Hale. Miss Hale was reared in Midland County, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Hale of Stokes community. She is a graduate of Texas State College for Women at Denton.

ORCHIDS

In England about 50 different varieties of orchids are to be found. The most common in that country is the Bee orchid, which is found on cliffs and open spaces.

The lesson will be on the eighteenth chapter of Leviticus.

Taubert, McKee and Siemoneit No. 1 Mrs. Virginia W. Crockett, seeking Ordovician pay in northern Pecos County, yesterday was drilling at 2,600 feet in Permian lime.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company No. 1 Edleman (Yeager and Armstrong), a mile and a half south of the Gulf-McElroy pool in southwestern Upton County, is cleaning out and bailing water load after shot. The well tested one-half barrel of oil per hour before shooting. It topped pay at 2,990 feet and is bottomed in lime at 3,250 feet.

Ector Wells Gauged

Three completions in as many Ector County pools were reported yesterday.

In the Goldsmith field, Phillips Petroleum Company No. 105 Clyde Cowden of Midland set daily potential of 2,047.50 barrels after acidizing with 5,000 gallons in pay lime from 4,101-57 feet, total depth. Oil is 38-gravity and gas-oil ratio 852-1.

Great Western Producers, Inc. No. 5 J. L. Johnson, in the South Cowden pool, flowed 681 barrels in 24 hours after shooting with 515 quarts in pay horizon from 3,890 to 4,076 feet, bottom of the hole. Gas-oil ratio is 402-1.

Forest Development Corporation No. 1-H Paul Moss, a mile and a half south of the South Cowden pool, is digging cellar and pits and moving in material. Arrow Drilling Company is contractor.

In the Jordan pool, The Texas Company No. 26 W. E. Connell rated 24-hour potential of 752.16 barrels, upon completion at 3,650 feet following nitro shot of 1,110 quarts. Oil tests 35.4-gravity, and gas is in a ratio of 850-1. The well topped pay at 3,470 feet.

Forest No. 1 Bradley et al, Ector wildcat seven miles southeast of the Harper pool, is rigging up rotary. Arrow is contractor on the test.

Magnolia No. 1 R. B. "Bum" Cowden of Midland, north offset to production in the North Goldsmith pool, has dug cellar and pits and is moving in material.

Stanford Oil and Gas Company No. 1-C Midland Farms Company, a mile east of Ector's North Cowden pool, had 400 feet of fluid in the hole as it cleaned out shot cavings to 4,695 feet.

Seminole Well Tested

Twenty-four hour potential rating of 562.08 barrels, based upon flow during the last half of six-hour gauge, was assigned Magnolia and Atlantic No. 1-217 Havemyer and Jenny, in the Seminole pool of central Gaines. It was neither shot nor acidized. Total depth is 5,325 feet and gas-oil ratio 499-1.

In the Wasson field of southern Yoakum, Humble Oil and Refining Company No. 32 H. O. Wooten flowed at the rate of 1,082.32 barrels of 34.3-gravity crude per day, with gas in the ratio of 591-1, after acidizing with 10,000 gallons. Pay was entered at 4,895 feet, and total depth is 5,135.

Extending the Dugan pool of southeastern Cochran County a mile and a half north, Magnolia No. 1 F. L. Woodley is swabbing into pits, with no further estimates. It had flowed and swabbed 22 barrels of oil hourly, cut six per cent with sediment and water, yesterday after re-treating with 3,000 gallons of acid as follow-up to first job with 1,500 gallons.

Andrews "Mystery Well"

Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1 M Bar Ranch, southern Andrews County wildcat, has drilled plug from 7 5/8-inch casing cemented at an undivulged point. Total depth is now 4,253 feet in lime, and it is reported that operators will drill to 4,300 feet before testing. No. 1 M Bar has been a "tight" operation during the past week and has caused considerable speculation as to whether or not it has encountered any pay. Setting of casing would tend to indicate that at least promising showings have been logged.

FDR ASKS TWO BILLION.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP).— President Roosevelt asked Congress today for $1,733,886,906 to help finance the conscription program and other defense measures.

Coupled with this request, on which congressional leaders promised to act quickly, was a recommendation that the government be permitted to enter contracts for $207,000,000 additional defense facilities.

PUBLISHERS CONFER

GALVESTON, Sept. 14 (AP).— Newspaper publishers of Texas concluded their semi-annual fall meeting here today after hearing Ernest L. Kruth, president of the Southland Paper Mills, Inc., report on the progress of the firm's newspaper mill at Lufkin.

A resolution endorsing the traffic safety program was adopted following an address by John M. Darr of New York, trustee of the foundation.

Norris Attitude on Third Term Flayed By Republican Chiefs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP).— Selection of Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.) as head of an independent committee for the re-election of President Roosevelt brought a Republican comment today that the Senator once declared that a presidential third term would lead to eventual establishment of a monarchy.

In a statement issued through the Republican national committee, Rep. Ditter (R-Pa.) recalled that Norris voted for a 1928 anti-third term resolution which was adopted by the Senate. He quoted Norris as saying at that time:

"If a president of the United States were allowed to renominate himself as he could, it would mean—not perhaps in my lifetime, or it may not be in the lifetime of anyone here—but it would mean ultimately the establishment in this country of a monarchy upon the ruins of our present Republican form of government."

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York announced Thursday that Norris would be honorary chairman of an independent committee for Roosevelt.

Among other political developments in the capital was a decision by the Senate campaign expenditures committee to study President Roosevelt's Labor Day speeches to determine whether they were "political."

Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Republican national chairman, had protested that the speeches, described by the White House as "non-political," were actually campaign addresses. He demanded that the committee inquire into who paid the costs of Mr. Roosevelt's trip and decide whether they should be included under the $3,000,000 limit on campaign expenditures imposed by the Hatch act.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke twice on Labor Day—at Chickamauga, Tenn., dedicating a TVA dam, and at Newfound Gap on the Tennessee-North Carolina line, at dedication of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) announced that the Senate committee had decided also to hold hearings on alleged padding of registration polls in Hudson County, N. J., Democratic stronghold of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, and in Wilmington, Del., Republican center.

During the day, President Roosevelt received a report from Representative Marvin Jones of Texas on the political situation in the midwest. Jones, who is agriculture adviser to Chicago Democratic headquarters, said he told Mr. Roosevelt that Democratic prospects were "improving."

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, announced that he would speak at Aurora, Ill., next Saturday afternoon in one of a series of a half dozen campaign addresses.

Aged Bullet Mold Donated to Museum By New Mexico Man

A bullet mold estimated to be over 150 years old has been donated to the Midland county museum by Bob Profit of Capulin, N. M. Profit found the mold near the headwaters of the Cimarron river on the old Santa Fe Trail.

Financed by a small budget from the county and free will donations of citizens, has on display over 10,000 articles, both historical and cultural.

One of the most interesting displays is a collection of 41 pieces which are remains of an old wagon train found in the sand hills west of Monticello. From all appearances the persons in the wagon train were massacred by Indians in about 1849. Gold bullion was the cargo carried by the train and is supposed to be buried near the site. The remains, consisting of hand forged hubs, a cup, and bits of bone, were donated by Allen Cowden.

The museum has on display a collection of glassware, old lace, some of it over 500 years old, a small doll collection, old musical instruments, a hand woven basket known to be 1000 years old. In the coin collection, consisting of rare American pieces, is one French coin dated 1255.

Another interesting item is a newspaper dated Jan. 4, 1800. It contains an account of the death and funeral of Gen. George Washington, who died on Dec. 14, 1799. Another interesting item is an advertisement offering slaves for sale. Many magazines and books complete this collection, some of them dated in 1784.

A total of 6171 persons from 29 states and two foreign countries visited the museum, one of the largest county maintained repositories in the state, in between Jan. 1 and Sept. 1.

Developers See Increased Need For Harmony

Harmony in the external design of houses and in their location with respect to topography and finished ground elevations is an important factor in creating residential neighborhoods of homogeneous character. Successful developers are giving special consideration to this factor, according to Federal Housing Administration land-planning officials.

Building Costs Raised

Placing houses awkwardly on the land increases construction costs without adding value. Too much foundation wall may be exposed. Heavy grading may result in loss of valuable trees and result in ugly steep banks or meaningless ground surfaces. Too many steps create added cost and increased risks to the householder and his guests and services. Where the house is designed for harmony with the land and pleasant relationship between its rooms and the surrounding outdoors, the greatest use is made of the lot, and the house will be more private and livable, the general appearance of the neighborhood improved, and construction costs substantially reduced.

Values Created

Harmony in styles of architecture on each street will help create values. The freakish house is generally admitted to be undesirable in the neighborhood, but contrasts between good styles of architecture, if unwise, mixed, are as offensive to good taste. Care should be taken to blend the external design of houses which are opposite or adjoining and yet to avoid the monotony of unchanging plans.

Successful subdividers provide protective covenants for control of the external design for all structures in the tract. Unharmonious plans may thus be eliminated before they are carried out.

Army's New Rifle Comes in for Praise

Say, if your big draft worry is fear of being kicked about by the army's new Garand (M-1) semi-automatic 30-caliber rifle, stop fretting.

With all this talk about the M-1 (some say it's the best combat gun ever made, and some say it's the worst) we decided today to fire a few rounds, and perhaps get a sore shoulder.

It was our first experience with any kind of a rifle, so Capt. Rothwell Brown, the army's M-1 expert instructor, lay down beside us on the 200-yard range.

Two hundred yards away was a silhouette target, 26 inches wide and 14 inches high, representing the head and shoulders of a man prone.

"Hold the rifle tight against your shoulder, get the sights dead on the center of the target, and squeeze the trigger," Capt. Brown ordered.

Never having fired one of the doggone things, we expected the recoil to knock off our hat, stop our watch and untie our shoes, but when we squeezed the trigger the "kick" was like a friendly clap on the shoulder.

The scoring pits flashed that the shot was about two inches off the "black," the captain clicked on a bit of "windage" and dropped the "elevation" just a mite.

Then we fired a string of eight in a minute and a half, slow shooting for the semi-automatic, but we were having trouble since each shot kicked the muzzle skyward.

The pits signaled the score—seven "5's" and a single "4," which was just one point away from perfect.

It was the first time we had ever fired a rifle, so we were a perfect "tyro" for an unbiased M-1 test.

We figure that if we can get 39 or 40 score with the gun at 600 feet, anyone in the world can do it. And if the function of a combat gun is to shoot where you aim—then this M-1 gun has what it takes, minus the "kick" that most military rifles possess. In our book, it isn't the best gun that can be built for our doughboys, it will do until the best one comes along.

Sale of Tickets to Lubbock Fair Opens On September 28

LUBBOCK, Sept. 14. — South Plains Fair Directors announced early this week that an advanced ticket sale would begin immediately and continue until Saturday, September 28, thereby giving residents of the South Plains an opportunity of securing special rates to visit their Fair.

Tickets have been placed on sale in Lubbock and other places at a special price. Regular fifty-cent single admission tickets, four to a strip, are being placed on sale for $1.00—a regular $2.00 value. The regular 50c front gate admission will remain the same officials declared. The special bargain sale makes the cost of tickets only 25c.

This special advance ticket sale will be in effect until Saturday, September 28. After that time the regular admission price will be in effect. All those interested in securing these bargain tickets may do so by writing the Panhandle South Plains Fair Association, Lubbock, enclosing a money order or bank draft in the current amount. No tickets will be sold under $1.00. Each person may buy as many tickets as he or she desires.

The special sale will make possible attendance at the Fair by hundreds of South Plains families who heretofore have not been able to attend as many times as they would like.

School Officials Urged to Stress Americanism

By Milton Bronner
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — "To prepare aliens living in our country for citizenship, to make good Americans of naturalized persons, and to make better Americans of native-born adults and children."

That's the way Dr. John W. Studebaker, U. S. commissioner of education, sums up the meaning of his recent call to state, county and city school superintendents all over the country.

He asked them to enlist again, not only in the old battle on illiteracy, not only to impregnate the minds of children and college students with the true meaning of Americanism, but to work among adults by way of public forums where America's problems and benefits may be discussed.

DR. STUDEBAKER realizes that schools and colleges in their ordinary routine can reach only a limited number. So his bureau is encouraging public forums in connection with schools and clubs—for they have a potential audience of tens of thousands more. Speaking of the discussion program, he says:

"It is the best way to combat the sly and poisonous propaganda of the friends of the dictatorships. We want recruits for a campaign to save democracy through education."

"Without guns, uniforms or flags, the war on civic illiteracy must be carried on. It is part of our national defense. Our school-houses are ready for use as barracks and drill grounds in the preparedness campaign for intelligent citizenship."

"Every vital issue, every political appeal, every bit of dope put forth by fifth columnists or totalitarianism is a potential target for the intellectual marksmanship of citizens anxious to preserve their birthright if freedom."

"As simple questions which might be addressed directly to an audience for study, he offers these:

"Look at the religious situation of your town. What specific changes would take place if a dictatorship held sway? What would go out when the dictator came in?"

"What have you heard said on the radio which a dictator would have forbidden?"

"What news item have you seen lately in your local newspaper which would have been stricken out by a dictator?"

"What books have you taken out of the library which a totalitarian regime would have burned in the market place?"

"What have you observed occurring in the courts which you would designate as evidence of a fair and impartial trial and which you think would be interfered with if not prohibited—by a dictator?"

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. How can heat loss be reduced in an unfinished attic?
A. If the attic is not used or floored and there is no necessity for keeping the space at a comfortable temperature, insulation may be applied above or below the floor joists of the attic or in the space between the joists. If there is necessity for keeping the attic heated however, the insulation should be applied above, below, or between the roof rafters. Attic windows should be weathertight, and if there are louvers or vent openings they should be tightly covered during cold weather. Spaces between the studs at the floor line should be boarded over to block the free passage of air from within the walls. This measure is also a precaution against fire.

Q. What is meant by the term cricket or saddle in connection with roof construction?
A. At the back of a chimney which extends through a sloping roof, the slope of the roof is altered in such manner that the roof water is made to flow quickly toward either side of the chimney. This is usually accomplished by building a miniature roof sloping in two directions, which prevents the water from being dammed up by the chimney. This miniature roof is termed a cricket or saddle. They should be covered with a corrosion-resisting sheet metal and properly flashed with the chimney and roof so as to be made water-tight.

Q. Should a basementless space under a house be ventilated?
A. If the basementless space is enclosed, provision should be made for foundation wall vents. There should be at least two or three vents, and their size should be proportioned on a basis of one square foot of effective free opening for each 15 lineal feet of exterior wall. Openings should be protected by non-corrodible screening of not over one-eighth-inch mesh.

Q. How thick should mortar joints be in a brick-masonry wall construction?
A. Although no definite relationship has been proven, walls with thin joints, about one-fourth inch, tend to have a somewhat higher strength than those having thicker joints. For standard brick, a one-half-inch joint is most useful in forming patterns and bonds, since two headers plus the joint approximates the length of the stretcher. Five-eighths-inch and three-fourth-inch joints are used extensively, the difference in unit length of a stretcher and two headers plus joint being compensated by vertical joints. Walls having joints three-fourth-inch or over require more time for erection and will therefore cost more than if a thinner joint is used.

FHA Wields Great Influence In Home Construction Field

Preliminary review requirements and construction standards set up by the FHA, to which all projects financed by private capital under its insured-mortgage system must comply, minimize careless and faulty construction, said Administrator Stewart McDonald. These construction requirements are a powerful weapon to discourage flagrant disregard of sound methods of home building.

Three Inspections Made

The FHA makes at least three inspections during the course of construction of properties submitted for home-mortgage insurance to ascertain that the work is done in accordance with the original plans and specifications.

The FHA's minimum standards of construction which the small house must meet have been far-reaching in improving the design, plan, and construction of virtually all small homes, it is pointed out.

"The purchase of a home is not only the largest, but also the most involved transaction undertaken by the average family," Mr. McDonald said. "Few persons have the technical specialized knowledge necessary for the completion of such a transaction. Few people know the difference in a new house between a well-built and a shoddy one; the evaluation of the character of a neighborhood is a technical problem; and every type of mortgage has particular advantages and disadvantages, none of which is evident to the layman."

Trained Advisors Available

"Now, under the FHA's insured-mortgage system, the average family obtains the advice of technically trained valuers, appraisers, and architectural inspectors. When a mortgage is submitted for FHA insurance, the staff of the Administration's local office examines the property, the neighborhood, and the mortgage transaction. Many of the common mistakes in previous mortgage transactions are thus avoided."

"Furthermore, when operative builders wish to obtain commitments to insure mortgages on houses to be located in new developments, they are required to submit subdivision proposals for approval. This permits review of the arrangement of streets, lots, and blocks, of provisions for playgrounds and other public areas, and of plans for building and financing the utilities and street improvements.

Protection Is Provided Buyers In New Communities

Protection to those who build or buy homes in new subdivisions approved by the Federal Housing Administration is provided by FHA's insistence upon installation of adequate street improvements and upon assurance of their maintenance before individual sites become eligible for insured mortgage financing.

Simplicity Vital

Simplicity in exterior design is considered by most builders and FHA officials to be one of the basic principles of planning small houses for livability and low cost.

DEL RIO, Tex., Sept. 14 (AP.)—Sheriff A. E. Steinmetz said today he had closed his investigation into the slayings of Antonio Gomez and her sister, Marguerita, after the death of Eleuterio Gonzalez.

Gonzalez, 28, was charged with murder in the slayings after he was found yesterday by a highway near where the bullet-riddled bodies of the sisters were discovered Thursday. Gonzalez's throat had been slashed and his abdomen ripped with a knife. He died last night in a hospital here.

Officers said he was scheduled to be tried soon in Eagle Pass on a charge of criminally assaulting a 14-year-old girl.

Hats Off To The Bulldogs

Coach Bud Taylor and his Bulldogs of Midland High School had a hard job out for them Friday. Some good citizens were skeptical that the desired result could be achieved. Others gave the matter only passing thought.

But the Purple and Gold tribe came through and did the job in good shape, 19 to 0. They spanked a good team from Ysleta and proved to the hundreds of fans that the Bulldogs are determined to win every possible game.

The Saturday morning quarterbacks and strategists had plenty to talk about Saturday morning over their downtown coffee, but every one agreed that those who were not in the stands at Lackey Field missed a good contest with plenty of thrills for an evening of bang-up entertainment.

Wink's Wildcats will be here next Friday night and football fans should get their tickets early. Midland defeated Wink last year for the second time in ten years.

The Bulldogs are determined to ride to victory again. Give them your support. Let's all be there.

Tag Ends to Clean Up

Here is a splendid example of the sort of tag ends which must be cleaned up before Congress adjourns, fence-mending or no fence-mending:

In June, both houses passed bills which for the first time put the Monroe Doctrine in statutory form. They declared American non-recognition of transfer of any Western Hemisphere area from one non-American power to another. But the two bills were passed in slightly different form. Each has languished since in committees charged with reconciling the two bills. So there is not yet any joint bill ready for final enactment.

It seems impossible that there should be any real objection to passage. The delay is merely an incident of complicated Congressional procedure. But so vital a bill must not be allowed to die of neglect in the adjournment rush which seems to be approaching.

Civilian Training Speeds Up

One of the fastest-moving phases of the defense program has been vocational education—the training of civilian workmen in elementary skill that qualifies them for jobs in defense industries.

Within four days of the signing of the act appropriating $15,000,000 for the purpose, the program was launched. By July 31, 80,000 men were in training. Commissioner of Education John W. Studebaker calls this speedy work a tribute to American education, and so it is.

Labor unions, industry, and educators all co-operated. Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt stresses, pointing to vocational training work in 283 cities. Placement reports give hope that 20,000 trainees are already moving from summer courses into defense jobs.

Co-operation, team-work, speed. Result, accomplishment.

YESTERDAY: Sue Mary goes to Youth Progress headquarters, helps Vera with typing. The place is a surprise to her, with young people intent upon affairs she has considered entirely out of her scope. Nick comes in, is glad to see her there, asks her to go to a concert with him.

SUE MARY MEETS 'OLE RICH'

Chapter VI.

IT WAS a benefit concert to help war refugees and it was held in a small hall crowded with interested young people and a scattering of older men and women whose foreign faces were serious until the music began. Some of it was familiar to Sue Mary; most of it was strange. "That's by the modern Russian," Nick told her during intermission. "You get the feeling of power, freedom, and mass happiness."

"I liked the Tchaikovsky," she said softly. "I know that one." "Lavender and old lace," Nick said. "Like you: old-fashioned and very young — and sort of sweet. Different."

"Maybe there is something to this stuff about the sheltered girl. You're not like Vera and Natalie. They're real workers. No illusions. You'll be a good worker, too. And yet you're sweet the way you are."

He wasn't making love to her. It was though he was talking to himself. There wasn't that something in his voice that came to Joe's when he said goodbye after kissing her good night.

Somehow it was hard to think of Nick ever being sentimental; not with his usual cynicism, his worldliness, his drive and force. Yet sometimes that evening, when she looked into his eyes and heard the music surging around her in waves of beauty, she experienced an entirely new sensation—almost a heady feeling of danger.

THE OFFICE seemed bleak and dull the next day. The five-day week made it necessary to double up on work. Kitty was gone and Miss Grant kept Sue Mary busy. It was later afternoon when Miss Grant asked her to go to the Clark home. "Mr. Ross isn't feeling well and he wants to give some dictation," she explained. "Just notes," she added quickly. "You can do it easily. I can't leave because some clients are coming in. Now go along. When you're through there you can go home and finish up that work in the morning."

It was the first time Sue Mary had been in such a home. The butler who admitted her took her to a small library with book-lined walls and dark polished furniture. Flowers gave a touch of color to the room and pictures of family groups in heavy, old-fashioned silver frames, desks ornaments, and a faint odor of good tobacco made it livable.

Like a movie set, she thought, wishing she could relax and enjoy it only for these few moments, the luxury about her. How strange it must be to live in such a house day after day; accepting these things without even seeing them, taking them for granted as she took for granted her small room, her tiny radio, her few cakes of good soap and her one small bottle of perfume.

Someone had entered the room and Sue Mary came back to reality with a start. It was Mitzi Clark, last year's orchid debutante and the oldest daughter. She looked like her brother: blond hair, exquisitely groomed, poised and self-conscious.

With her was Joan Brant. Sue Mary recognized her, too, from the rolo pictures. This year, she was society's No. 1 glamor girl.

It was Mitzi who spoke. "You're from father's office?"

Sue Mary's voice seemed strange to her own ears. She tried to be calm and assume the young business woman role, but she felt terribly gauche, awkward, wrongly dressed.

"He'll be down eventually," Mitzi said, taking some books from the desk. "He won't exercise, you know," she explained, turning to the other girl, "and now he's working harder because of all this war stuff."

"I'm sick of hearing war all the time," Joan Brant said. "It's cut a terrible crimp in the social season. I would get a lousy break the year I came out."

Mitzi laughed. "Could be worse. Well, we have to get along," she said to Sue Mary. "Miss Brant's being a deb. I'm being a former deb. This is my afternoon at the day nursery. Funny, but I get a sort of kick out of it. Working with those dirty, smelly little kids, I mean. They have so little and are so grateful."

"I think I'll help Alice Simpson campaign for a new social center. She's up to her neck in welfare work and social reform. Oh, well, it's something to do besides play bridge and go to cocktail parties."

THEY WERE gone with a swish of perfumed frocks and a gleam of silken hose, the clicking of their heels tapping a tune on the polished floor. Sue Mary decided she liked Mitzi; liked her more than she liked her blond polo-playing brother. She didn't seem to pretend, and she looked healthy and clean and as though she might have become a little tired of being called an orchid deb.

Sue Mary wondered what Vera and Natalie and Nick would say about the girls. In the few times she had been with them she had come to sense the bitterness undercurrent of their talk about the "upper classes."

At first she had thought it just the natural desire to have the luxuries, the ease, the fun that went with that life; desires that she had and took for granted. But she wondered now a little if it wasn't something that went deeper. They were so bitter about the "idle rich."

OUR COUNTRY

Sixth of 24 articles on "Our Country," written exclusively for NEA Service and The Reporter-Telegram by the nation's most famous authors.

By Sherwood Anderson
Author of "Dark Laughter," "A Midwest Childhood," "Puzzled America," etc.

IT seems to me that, in surrendering to the totalitarian idea, man is simply throwing away what men have fought and died for all during man's history. It must be that present day man is very tired.

So we are to glorify the state, that vague thing up there. We are to bow down to it. Individuality is to be thrown overboard.

The state, the people, the masses, the proletariat. How we ran about babbling these meaningless words.

There is no such thing. Such words have no real meaning. There is to be this man — the man — the leader — he only to develop his individuality. We are to make ourselves shadows of him.

It comes to that. What else? WELL, it will be more efficient. There will be no discussions, no questions. The leader speaks and we must blindly obey.

Everything man has gained to be thrown away, French revolution, American revolution, the opportunity for the exceptional man to arise, freedom of speech, everything thrown aside.

For efficiency. Guns made faster, killing made easier—all of man's feeling for man, that can grow only with the growth of individuality—all of this sacrificed efficiency.

Are we that tired? It is all tiredness.

What else? It is a dream of tired men.

It is a throwing away of all responsibility of man for man.

That is the totalitarian state.

ARE we so tired of body and spirit that we must make the state our moher, creep like babies to suck at the dry dugs of the state?

It is a sickening thought—the final surrender to hopelessness.

It must be stopped. Man must regain his feeling for man.

And why not here, in America? It is still a new, fresh land. All of our traditions cry out against surrender of freedom of movement, of speech, of the right of the individual to find his way to his own God, to love and understanding of his fellow man.

It seems to me that there is again a chance for America to become as it was in early days the land of an old tired world's hope of renewal.

Because human reason has not yet prevailed, our arms must, writes Philip Wylie in the next article of this series on "Our Country."

Canadian Ship Is Damaged by Japs

TOKYO, Sept. 14. (AP). — The 16,909-ton Canadian liner Empress of Asia was hit by a test bomb dropped by Japanese naval pilots engaged in bombing practice off Oshima Island, at the mouth of Tokyo Bay, but suffered no damage, the Japanese admiralty announced tonight. Four Chinese crewmen were injured. Japanese officials hurried aboard to apologize and naval surgeons attended the injured.

The liner, a World War veteran which served as an armed auxiliary cruiser and helped transport American troops to Europe, sailed tonight for Vancouver, B. C., her home port.

Her pursuer in a radio telephone conversation with the Associated Press confirmed that the bomb caused no structural damage. He declined to give further information.

INTERPRETING THE WAR

By Edward E. Bomar
Associated Press Staff Writer

Air war tactics, the calendar and new threats from Berlin combine to reinforce the warning in London that the next 48 hours is a "period of intense danger of invasion of England."

The targets sought by Royal Air Force bombers testify that the men who direct the Isles' aerial defenses are guided by the judgment that the supreme Nazi bid for victory may come at any moment.

With a single purpose, British bombs are being directed against the spearhead of the menace across the channel.

When Berlin for the second night escaped attention, Germany was told that enemy bombers had been turned back. What is more probable is that the British never headed for the German capital at all. More than ever just now, Britain is compelled by necessity to shut mere reprisals lest the hammering be weakened against nearby Nazi airfields, big guns, troops and ships.

The calendar, tide tables and weather records are eloquent of the immediate peril to Britain. Friday night German bombers were guided to their targets by bright moonlight. There is a full moon this week and Wednesday will bring the highest tide of the period. The channel and North Sea are free from storms for the moment.

These considerations figured prominently in Prime Minister Churchill's warning of last Wednesday that "we must regard the next week or so" as ranking in importance with the days when the Spanish Armada was approaching the channel.

An incidental consideration is suggested by American air experts. They calculate that regardless of the effect of moon, tides and weather on the chance for invasion by sea, several weeks of good flying weather remain for aerial warfare.

It will end, by this judgment, when cold weather brings ice to coat warplane wings and controls.

The British air command parenthetically is preparing in every way for operations long past the onset of bad weather. Guided by the experience of last winter and spring, an official mission is in this country quietly learning everything possible about American blind flying systems. The RAF was almost helpless last spring when Norway was invaded, the Britons reported, because of lack of such facilities.

The latest threats brandished by Berlin, that London will be bombed into capitulation and that Adolf Hitler "won't be hurried," were certainly not intended to enlighten his foes about when he will strike.

Berlin propaganda is not stressing invasion just now, even though the massing of men, ships and warplanes has removed Britain's last doubts of the Fuehrer's purpose.

By now every preparation must have been completed, with characteristic German thoroughness.

Plans Complete for "Conscription Age" Party of Jaycees

Plans were practically completed yesterday for the "conscription outing" of the Midland Junior Chamber of Commerce to be held at Cloverdale Park Wednesday evening at six o'clock when young men of Midland between the ages of 21 and 35 will be the guests of the Jaycee organization. Conscription age limits are identical with those of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, thus the "conscription outing" title for the party.

The affair is being held under the direction of the organization's membership committee of which L. H. Curry is chairman. An effort is being made to have every Jaycee member and prospective member of the city in attendance. Those planning on attending should call Curry at number 74 not later than Monday afternoon.

An interesting and entertaining program for the outing is being arranged by Bill German. A picnic-supper will be served prior to the presentation of the program, with J. T. Baker being chairman of the food committee.

Health Board to Have Called Session

Midland County Public Health Board will have a called meeting in the commissioners' courtroom at the courthouse, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to be present for election of officers and other important business. Dr. R. B. Wolford, new director of the City-County Health Unit, will be present.

British Guns Defiant in Iceland

These huge anti-aircraft guns, above, indicate that English and Canadian troops in Iceland haven't been loafing since arrival.

ATTACK MUST HAVE SEVERAL PLAYS TO THE SAME SPOT TO PAY OFF-NORTON

First of five articles by football's foremost coaches.

By Homer H. Norton
Texas A&M's Athletic Director and Head Football Coach

COLLEGE STATION.—The running game is the basic means of attack, but for a team to be dangerous on the ground it must also have the threat of aerial warfare to make power and finesse click. The power play in football is one of the game's most gripping spectacles. But the successful team's repertoire must include a good portion of deception and a couple of bang-up backs and guards who can block.

You can't send your ball carrier anywhere without interference. Many teams are doing a good job on the ground with an unbalanced line and the single wing. Texas A. & M. runs power plays from a double wing with a balanced line.

Running Plays Often Wind Up As Aerial

OUR passing attack from a double wing helps make our ground game go. We feel the double wing gives us the best passing set-up. To function, a running attack must have several plays to the same hole, with different finesse, but with the same blocking in the line.

This prevents defense from immediately recognizing simple ground plays at point of origin. Plays that start like running plays but wind up as passes are necessary. These run-and-pass plays must be available from both the direct and spinner attack.

One of the strongest aids for your running attack is the shuttle pass. This prevents the defense from rushing your passer and keeps it at a safe distance for spinners and power finesses.

Quick-Kick Keeps Defense Backed Up

ONCE you have defensive linemen hesitant, and backers-up wary, you've got the defense set up for a spinner or other quick opening plays. The quick-kick from any formation with balanced or unbalanced line prevents the defense from bunching too close to the line of scrimmage.

Before any ground game will bring appreciable results a coach must have a line that is fairly big, but above all, fast and crisp blockers. They've got to have those holes opened by the time the carrier gets to the intended opening.

Texas A. & M. is exceptionally fortunate in having John Kimbrough, an All-America fullback who runs over the opposition, but it isn't necessary to have a bone-crushing type as long as you have backs who start quickly, run hard, and keep their feet.

NEXT: The Kicking Game, by Jimmy Phelan of Washington.

The running game, primary adjunct of a great offense, needs interference like that above, points out Homer Norton, inset, Texas A. & M. coach.

Flashes of Life

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 14 (AP)—A six year old boy, being spruced up for school here by his barber, was docile enough at first.

But, he wailed angrily when his mother refused to have the barber shave out a bare spot on top of his head "like daddy's."

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Sept. 14 (AP)—If you hear politicians shouting in the next six weeks about folks getting back to Thomas Jefferson, there's something to it.

In August, 16,821 persons visited Monticello, the home of Jefferson, the largest number for any August on record.

NEW BERN, N. C., Sept. 14 (AP)—Tom Haywood, who became widely known through his original four-shoe self-kicking machine that he set up in front of his home at Croatan, now has competition.

A two-shoe kicking machine, equipped with high rubber boots and overall tops, has been installed in front of a CCC camp between Elizabethtown and Clinton.

It has been estimated that in order to build 50,000 planes yearly, the cost would be $280,000,000. That figure, just for the planes—exclusive of engines and propellers, includes the cost of the land, factory, buildings, tools, etc.

Iron Guard State For Rumania Made By New Dictator

BUCHAREST, Sept. 15 (Sunday) (AP)—Creation of a totalitarian iron guard state was announced today in a decree by General Ion Antonescu, Rumania's military dictator.

The decree, setting up a state patterned on Nazi lines, established the Iron Guard as the sole Rumanian political party.

Antonescu, at the same time, announced a new cabinet with himself as chief of state, premier and minister of foreign affairs.

Horia Sima, "fuehrer" of the Iron Guard, became vice premier. The leader of the Bucharest Iron Guard, Vasile Iasinski, was named minister of labor, and Antonescu's nephew, Mihail Antonescu, was made minister of justice.

Other cabinet members are George Cretianu, director general of the Rumanian Bank, minister of finance; General George Petrovicescu, minister of interior; and Prince Costin Struza, Iron Guard lawyer, minister of foreign affairs.

The transformation occurred as Princess Helen sped home by train from a decade of exile past stations lined with Iron Guardists and peasants in costume.

With the Grecian princess, divorced wife of banished King Carol II, was her tall, somber, 18-year-old son, King Mihai, but the premier, at the last minute, had abandoned plans to welcome her and had remained here for a series of secret conferences.

There had been reported at first connected with new disputes with Soviet Russia over frontier disturbances.

(It was reported Saturday night in Moscow that Grigore Gafencu, Rumanian minister there, had answered a Soviet Russian protest with a note disclaiming any Rumanian responsibility for aerial or troop provocations and laying any such responsibility at Russia's door.)

Tech Officials to Visit in Midland
Heads of the departments of economics, government and speech of Texas Technological College, Lubbock, will accompany Dr. J. F. McDonald, director of the division of extension of the school, to Midland next Tuesday evening for a meeting with all persons of Midland who are interested in the establishing of one or more extension classes here. It was announced yesterday from the chamber of commerce office.

The Tuesday evening meeting will be held in the Crystal ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer at eight o'clock. Persons interested in enrolling for one or more extension courses are urged to be present. Details pertaining to the establishing of extension courses in Midland will be outlined in detail by Tech department heads, with possibility of organizing one or more classes at the session.

24 HOURS IN BALI-AND HEAVEN CAN WAIT

Peter Edson, editor of NEA Service, is one of the newspapermen in the Pan American press flying party inaugurating clipper passenger service to New Zealand. His dispatches are appearing in The Midland Reporter-Telegram and other NEA client newspapers.

By Peter Edson
Editor, NEA Service
BALI, Netherlands, East Indies, Sept. 14 — So you have to see Bali in 24 hours. Other people have stayed a year and written a book, but since it is only a one-day stop-over point on the KNILM, the Dutch East Indies Airlines that runs from Sydney, Australia, to Singapore, you can only try to crowd it all into one three hundred and sixty fifth of the necessary time.

It is neat. It is clean. Even the earthen floors of swept. Every inch of land is put to work to support its far too thickly settled little brown men and women and countless children. Houses crowd the roads. Dogs crowd the roads. People walking and people on bicycles crowd the roads. And cars dash through at the amazing speed of 30 miles an hour, to scatter them all.

PARTICULARLY THEY DANCE

EVERY house is a compound, a place with a wall around it. The walls keep out the devils. The family, generations of the family, live in a compound. Every compound has its gods, its temples, its idols. A lot of compounds make a village, and the village is the nearest thing to communistic perfection yet devised. The people work the rice fields and share the harvest. They are poor, desperately poor, and they work.

They carry huge bundles, the men with two balanced loads suspended from a pole across their shoulders, the women—modestly, unashamedly bare from the waist up—balancing huge bundles on their heads, sheaves of rice from the harvest fields or rich high baskets of fruit as offerings on temple altars.

They carve wood. They weave cloth. They work silver. They dance. Particularly they dance. They dance at night—10-deep circles of men squatted on the brown earth before a primitive oil lamp, reciting in rhythm the story of the battle of the monkeys against the demon, gesturing and chattering like monkeys, swaying to a musicless chant that is all harmony. They dance by day, coming in from the fields for holiday performances of old rituals of which they never tire.

They make music with Gamelan Gong bands of many pieces, playing their own unwritten symphonies. They dress. For the dances, they don ornate costumes of rich gold headress, winding yards of sash about their slim middles, bending harmony of color and line into a living, breathing painting that is a pageant and a poem.

MAKES YOU WONDER—

THERE is a picture at every turn of the road. A hill, a mountain, even a volcano; lifts its head in approved art department style. Rice paddies tumble down hills, water dripping over cascades of dyked fields, every drop of the water made to work many times before it flows to the sea. Plodding buffaloes pull their weight, straining into the yoke to draw a crooked stick plow through knee-deep mud. Every growing thing blossoms in a riot of tropical color. Sun beats down mercilessly at midday. Rain pours in torrents. Skies darken in an early tropical night. Stars shine, big as grapefruit. It is a land of contrasts. Poverty in wealth. Peace in an unending struggle for enough to eat. You wonder what fates picked on this spot, what forces decided that here would be a garden, here men would build temples centuries before white men would come here to write punk pieces about it.

Committeewoman

Mrs. Hal C. Peck, above, was elected committeewoman of the 28th senatorial district at the state Democratic convention in Mineral Wells. The district comprises 28 counties. In 1934, Gov. James V. Allred appointed Mrs. Peck on the State Women's Advisory Committee to represent the 31st senatorial district which comprises 26 counties. This committee worked and passed the law "giving women equal representation in the State Executive Committee." In 1938 at the state Democratic convention in Beaumont, she was elected the first senatorial committeewoman from the 31st district. In the meantime, Congressman Marvin Jones named Mrs. Peck as Democratic committeewoman from the 18th district, which capacity she served until her election last week.

Jones Confirmed as Commerce Secretary

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP.) — The Senate confirmed today the nomination of Jesse H. Jones as Secretary of Commerce to succeed Harry Hopkins, resigned. Previously Congress had approved legislation permitting Jones to take the cabinet post and retain his job as federal loan administrator.

The British consulate at Houston, its six-member staff working assiduously on the empire's business in Texas and New Mexico, must heed one strict order which appears to be out of line in the light of the present crisis.

It must refrain from any campaign of "public enlightenment" on the British-German conflict. Despite the obvious possibilities for propagandizing the Southwest-ern country, the consulate must cling rigidly to its task of caring for routine matters of a non-commercial nature.

It looks after British shipping; handles cases of missing persons; participates in legal affairs; issues passports and visas, and gives friendly advice on problems which may face a British subject resident in this country.

"We are under explicit instructions to studiously avoid propagandizing," said H. E. Slaymaker, consul.

"If we are invited, that is another matter; we will give the British view. But we most certainly are not going to 'show' any leaflets."

"We would defeat our own object if we tried to spread propaganda; the surest way to anger a religious person is to hand him a tract, you know. It is a matter of common politeness with us."

"Besides," he added drily, "Hitler is doing a good job of propagandizing for us."

The consul has addressed luncheon clubs and other organizations numerous times but in each case, he said, he was invited.

The principal business of the consulate, which has a staff double that which would operate in peacetime, is handling navicerts.

Amarillo Ready for Willkie Talk Tuesday

AMARILLO, Sept. 14 (AP.)—Amarillo relaxed tonight, its preparations for the reception of Wendell L. Willkie next Tuesday morning complete.

The city, which has, in the last three years, entertained President Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, James A. Farley, and other notables, is ready to greet the first presidential candidate ever to visit Texas.

Estimates of the expected crowd vary from 50,000 to 100,000. The Tri-State Fair opens Monday morning, but things are expected to be comparatively quiet until Tuesday. On that day a dozen major delegations from Panhandle—Plains towns, complete with bands and banners, and scores of smaller groups will converge on Amarillo to hear Willkie in the morning and parade along the midway in the afternoon.

Republicans and Willkie Democrats from every corner of the state have accepted invitations to attend. Chartered buses will bring some of the delegations.

The arrangements have been in charge of a committee of three Amarilloans, Mile Bivins, rancher and member of the Texas for Willkie Clubs directorate; Joe Sneed, Jr., rancher, and L. S. Hobbs, Panhandle representative of the State Republican Committee.

Naval Policy for 1940 Is Promulgated

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP.) — A new United States naval policy for 1940 was promulgated today, crystallizing in a formal public statement the navy department's intentions to build up a two-ocean fleet, utilize the lessons of Europe's war and keep the navy ready to "uphold national policies and interests."

Prepared by the navy's general board and approved by the secretary to replace the 1937 policy, the document sets down as one of its general policies this proposal: "To organize and maintain the navy for major operations in both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans."

By contrast, the corresponding policy in 1937 was simply "to organize the navy for operations in either or both oceans so that expansion will only be necessary in the event of war."

GUARDSMEN MAY DEFER PAYMENT UNIVERSITY FEES

AUSTIN, Sept. 14 (AP.)—The registrar's office of the University of Texas announced today prospective students who are members of the Texas National Guard may defer payment of fees, as late as Sept. 30.

If the order for the Guard's induction into federal service is not known by then, the university will be in a position to cooperate "further and sympathetically," the announcement said.

Big Arrowhead Well and Three New Root Oilers Feature In New Mexico

HOBBS, N. M., Sept. 14—Addition of another large natural producer in the Arrowhead pool of Lea County and completion of three more oilers in the Root area of Eddy County commanded interest this week among Southeast New Mexico developments.

In Sierra County, in the southwestern part of the State, Clyde R. Wofford and associates have staked location for No. 1 Graham State. The wildcat is 660 feet out of the southwest corner of section 8-14-2w.

Great Western Producers, Inc. No. 1-D State, offering indication of opening a new pool in northwestern Lea, is standing, bottomed at 3,052 feet in anhydrite, after cementing 7-inch casing at 3,048 feet with 75 sacks. There was 2,600 feet of fluid in the hole, two-thirds of which was oil and the remainder salt water, when casing was run. Operators had made an electrical survey while casing was swung at 3,015 feet.

May Deepen Ventura Well
No. 1-D State encountered its oil and water in red sand from 3,025 to 3,035 feet in a zone thought by some geologists to correspond to the Artesia or Maljamar sand found productive farther southwest. Operators may elect to gun-perforate casing opposite oil horizon before deepening the test. It is located 660 feet from the south, 810 from the east line of section 30-12s-32e, less than a mile east of the Chaves County line.

Decision of Ventura Oil Company to plug its No. 1 H. L. Lowe, northeastern Lea deep test, was changed at the last minute, and negotiations are being made to drill it deeper. Present total depth is 6,000 feet in lime. No. 1 Lowe ran high structurally but failed to find porosity in the upper lime section. It is located 660 feet from the south, 1,980 from the east line of section 26-13s-37e.

Continental Oil Company No. 10-J-2 State, in Lea's Arrowhead pool, gauged natural flow of 102 barrels of oil per hour for three hours through casing with drillpipe in the hole and now is preparing to test through tubing. Gas volume gauged 2,700,000 cubic feet daily. The well is bottomed at 3,830 feet in lime and is located 1,980 feet from the north, 990 from the west line of section 2-22s-34e.

Three For Root Area
Stanley Weiner et al No. 1 Saunders, southeastern Lea wildcat 660 feet out of the northeast corner of section 20-21s-38e, is drilling below

3,035 feet in anhydrite. Depth at 2,770 feet was corrected to 2,796 feet when steel-line measurement was made.

Fulton and Faulkner No. 1 L. T. Root was largest of three producers completed this week in the Root area of Eddy. On 24-hour test through 2-inch tubing set at 2,618 feet, with packer at 2,465 feet, it flowed 107 barrels of oil. The well topped pay at 2,564 feet and went to total depth of 2,665 feet in lime, later plugging back to 2,624 feet. After plugging back it was shot with 160 quarts of nitro from 2,564 to 2,580 feet and from 2,608 to 2,622 feet. Location is 1,980 feet from the north and east lines of section 12-17s-29e.

C. L. East No. 2 Root, 660 feet from the south, 1,980 from the east line of the same section, flowed 91 barrels in 24 hours through 2-inch tubing set at 2,613 feet, total depth, with packer at 2,213 feet. It logged first pay at 2,572 feet and was shot with 150 quarts from 2,550 to 2,610 feet.

Big Maljamar Oiler
Mac T. Anderson No. 5 Root, 660 feet out of the southeast corner of section 1-17s-29e, was completed for 24-hour flow of 65 barrels through 1 1/4-inch choke on 2-inch tubing set at 2,667 feet. It is bottomed at 2,750 feet, plugged back from total depth of 3,435 feet in lime, and encountered top of pay at 2,631 feet. The well was shot with 250 quarts from 2,615 to 2,735 feet.

Barney Cockburn completed another big oiler in the Maljamar pool of Western Lea, his No. 21-B Balish. After shooting with 100 quarts from 3,750 to 3,806 feet, the total depth, it flowed 400 barrels in 24 hours through 2-inch tubing set at 3,100 feet. Pay zone was entered at 3,785 feet. Location of the well is 1,980 feet from the north and east lines of section 28-17s-32e.

Failure for the West Eunice area of Lea was seen in Wilson Oil Company No. 6 Shell Oil Company, Inc., State, which was plugged, and abandoned at total depth of 3,895 feet in lime. It logged slight showing of oil with sulphur water from 3,850 to 3,853 feet and found water increase at 3,880 feet amounting to one barrel hourly. The dry hole is 1,980 feet from the north, 587 from the west line of section 18-17s-35e.

Bagdad, Calif., had only 3.93 inches of rainfall from 1909 to 1913, inclusive.

The average weight of an elephant is five tons.

Bowling Association Will Hold Banquet Thursday Night

The Midland City Bowling Association will hold its first annual banquet in the Crystal ballroom of the Hotel Scharbauer on Thursday evening, Sept. 19. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

The program will include discussion of the formation of a traveling bowling league after the football season ends. Suggested members of the loop are Midland, San Angelo, Sweetwater, Abilene and Lubbock.

Midland has three men's bowling leagues, two with eight teams. The Women's league had four teams last winter. Midland bowlers play at the Plamor Bowling Palace, one block west of the Hotel Scharbauer, which has eight lanes. C. E. (Son) Edwards is manager of the Plamor.

Bill Elvins is president of the Midland City Bowling Association and Hugh West is Secretary-Treasurer. Jim Payne is general chairman of arrangements for the annual meeting and banquet Thursday and Russell C. Conkling is chairman of the ticket sales and publicity.

Tryouts Continue For "Our Town"

The Civic Theatre of Midland is now casting "Our Town" which will be its opening play for the season. Next tryouts will be held Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Crystal ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer. A large cast is required and Theatre officials urge anyone interested to attend and become acquainted with the roles. Major characters include:

A stage manager who is an important member of the cast and is a mature man; Dr. Gibbs, an older man, and Julia Gibbs, his wife; Editor Webb, editor of the town paper, and his wife; George Gibbs, a young man about 17 years old, and his sister, Rebecca, a little younger, the children of Dr. and Mrs. Gibbs; Emily Webb, about 16 years old, and her younger brother, Wally, children of the editor and his wife; a professor at the University; Mr. Stinson, organist at the Congregational Church and perennially drunk; Mrs. Soames, a bit of a gossip; a milkman; a newsboy.

"Our Town," Thornton Wilder's play which brought him the Pulitzer Prize, was first produced in New York in 1938.

The English Channel also is known as the Straits of Dover.

Practicing to Land Nazis in England?

The appearance, for the first time in Nazi air raids on England, of 30 four-motored bombers of the Junkers 89 type, pictured above, caused Britons to wonder whether German troop landings from planes were imminent. Built as 40-passenger commercial planes, the Junkers giants were troop transports during the invasion of Norway. They are 86 feet long, with a 115 foot wing span.
