A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
WE MUST STEEL OURSELVES TO FACE GRIM REALITIES SOMETIMES: Now is my soul troubled; and what shall I say? Father save me from this hour. But for this cause came I unto this hour. John 12:27, 28.

The Tide Of the Future

Now, at last, you can begin to feel the rising of a mighty tide. It is a Tide of the Future, and it is freighted with the burden of a new world. There are waves, true, and one of them has been described by Mrs. Lindbergh. She sees the world helplessly driven forward by a wave which washes it toward a life more nearly exemplified by totalitarianism than by freedom. But that is a Wave of the Present. It is the wave that has engulfed France, and Norway, and Holland, and Belgium. Beneath and beyond this wave there is a mighty tide, and it is a tide of freedom. The time for quivering and quaking is past. The time to huddle over "what will the totalitarians do?" is past. The time is past, to cower before their advancing wave lest we be temporarily submerged. The time to quibble over "Just how democratic is England?" or "What have the English done to India?" is past. Whatever they are, whatever they have done, they fight the fight that promises most for freedom. They ride securely on the tide which now begins to rise, slowly but perceptibly now, toward a free world.

It is too late, again, to look back to 1918 and the dream that was dashed into a million pieces—the dream of a peaceful, decent world, the dream of "a world fit for heroes to live in." We won that war and lost the prize. But that world, that prize, remains infinitely desirable. Thank the Nazis for one thing, anyway. They have shown us that the world of the future cannot be the world of the past. That much is clear. The security which the Nazis now promise their people is a security which every country must achieve. Few clearly-stated war aims have come from Churchill, but every word from England is that the ancient world of privilege and position is dead. This time the heroes are going to make their own world. It is on this great Tide of the Future that the President has launched the United States, even though to sail upon it, some waves must be breasted. Whether those waves will mean war for the United States, we do not know. They may, whenever the Nazi leaders believe the United States is no more dangerous at war than as the "arsenal of democracy."

We do not know precisely to what sort of brave new world this tide of the future is bearing us. No blueprints are drawn, no guarantees established. In detail, in manner of administration, no doubt, it will be strangely different from what we have known. We know only that we cannot be wrong in steering directly toward the Four Freedoms to which the President has rightly dedicated all our strength—freedom to speak and to express ourselves, freedom to worship God each in his own way, freedom from want, and freedom from this ever-impending fear of war which has made the world a nightmare for 20 years. Let us take courage, then, whatever we face, from the fact that while Waves of the Present may break against us, we ride the Tide of the Future.

More Airfields

If there is a single word dominating the national consciousness at this moment, it is "More!" More planes, more engines, more tanks, more ships, more arms, more soldiers. That being the national mood, it is comforting to learn that there are more airports, by 205, than there were last year. Donald H. Connolly, administrator of civil aeronautics, reports that on Jan. 1 there were 2656 airports in the United States and Alaska, including seaplane bases: 788 municipal and 496 commercial airports, 289 CAA intermediate fields, 507 auxiliary fields, 21 naval air stations, 69 army fields, and so on. More than 700 are lighted for night flying. In addition, many fields have been enlarged, for newer and faster planes require larger fields for high-speed landing and taking off. Two hundred new airfields is impressive for a single year, but it is only a hint of what is to come.

Foreign Language Barometer

The choice of foreign languages for study by college students always forms an interesting barometer of the state of the national mind. Students are influenced sentimentally, but also by their judgment of what they think is most likely to be helpful to them in the future. They evidently agree with a great many of their elders that the future of the United States is going to be increasingly intertwined with South and Central America, for 100 colleges quizzed by F. S. Crofts & Co., publishers, reported registrations of 36,146 students in Spanish this fall, as compared with 29,739 in 1939, an increase of 21.54 per cent in a single year. French enrollments declined 15 per cent from last year, and German 3.29 per cent. More students are still taking German than Spanish, though at the present rate of change, Spanish will soon predominate. These figures are a straw which shows how the wind is blowing—southward. The average American family spent $1236 last year on retail purchases—no part of it going for gas masks. The future is much too short to spend worrying about the past. Ideas are obstinate little things. They won't work unless you do.

Italian War Units Strike Back Hard

ROME, Jan. 10 (AP) — Italian planes and naval units, striking hard in the war at sea, hit a British battleship with air bombs, sank two submarines and two freighters and torpedoed two other merchantmen, the high command said today. In addition, the high command reported, Fascist warships "effectively bombed enemy coastal positions" in the Greek campaign. The British battleship was not identified but the daily war bulletin said it was hit despite "violent anti-aircraft reaction" during an attack on a large naval formation in the Eastern Mediterranean. One of the two submarines sunk by torpedo boats was the 1,400-ton French Naval, the communiqué said, identifying her as a vessel "incorporated in forces serving England."

The United States produces more than half of the world's naval stores of turpentine and resin.

Soil Conservator Declares Erosion Ruins Vast Area

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 10 (AP)—Soil erosion has already ruined for "further profitable crop production" in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas an area equivalent to 150,000 average-sized farms, Louis P. Merrill, Fort Worth, said in a speech prepared for delivery here today. Merrill, regional conservator of the Soil Conservation Service, said the area damaged in these four states—nearly 27,000,000 acres—was once capable of supporting 750,000 persons. He came here to address a four-state meeting called by the Arkansas State Flood Control Commission. Marks New Era When the government passed the Omnibus Flood Control Act of 1936 "it marked a new era in the relation of the American people to their

Court To Hold Hearing In Woman's Murder Case

LAKE CHARLES, La., Jan. 10 (AP)—Hearing on a motion to quash a murder indictment against Annie Beatrice Henry will be held in district court here next Tuesday. Her attorneys contend that the grand jury which returned the indictment was illegally constituted. The woman was convicted last year of killing Joseph P. Calloway, Houston, Texas, salesman, and she was sentenced to hang, but the supreme court granted her a new trial.

Murray States Error In Strike Laws While Proposal Considered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Members of Congress continued informal discussions of legislation to ban strikes in defense industries today although CIO President Phillip Murray contended that any law restraining labor's freedom to strike would be a "very great mistake." A troubled labor situation at a Farmingdale, Long Island airplane motor factory lent point to the problem. Rear Admiral John T. Towers told the House Naval Committee yesterday that a threatened CIO strike at the Ranger plant of the Fairchild Engine and Aircraft Corporation at Farmingdale would hamper national defense "seriously." At Farmingdale it was announced last night, however, that the deadline for settlement of a wage dispute with the company had been extended until Monday. The extension was announced shortly after a national defense commission official

Orders Better Action Among Fascist Members

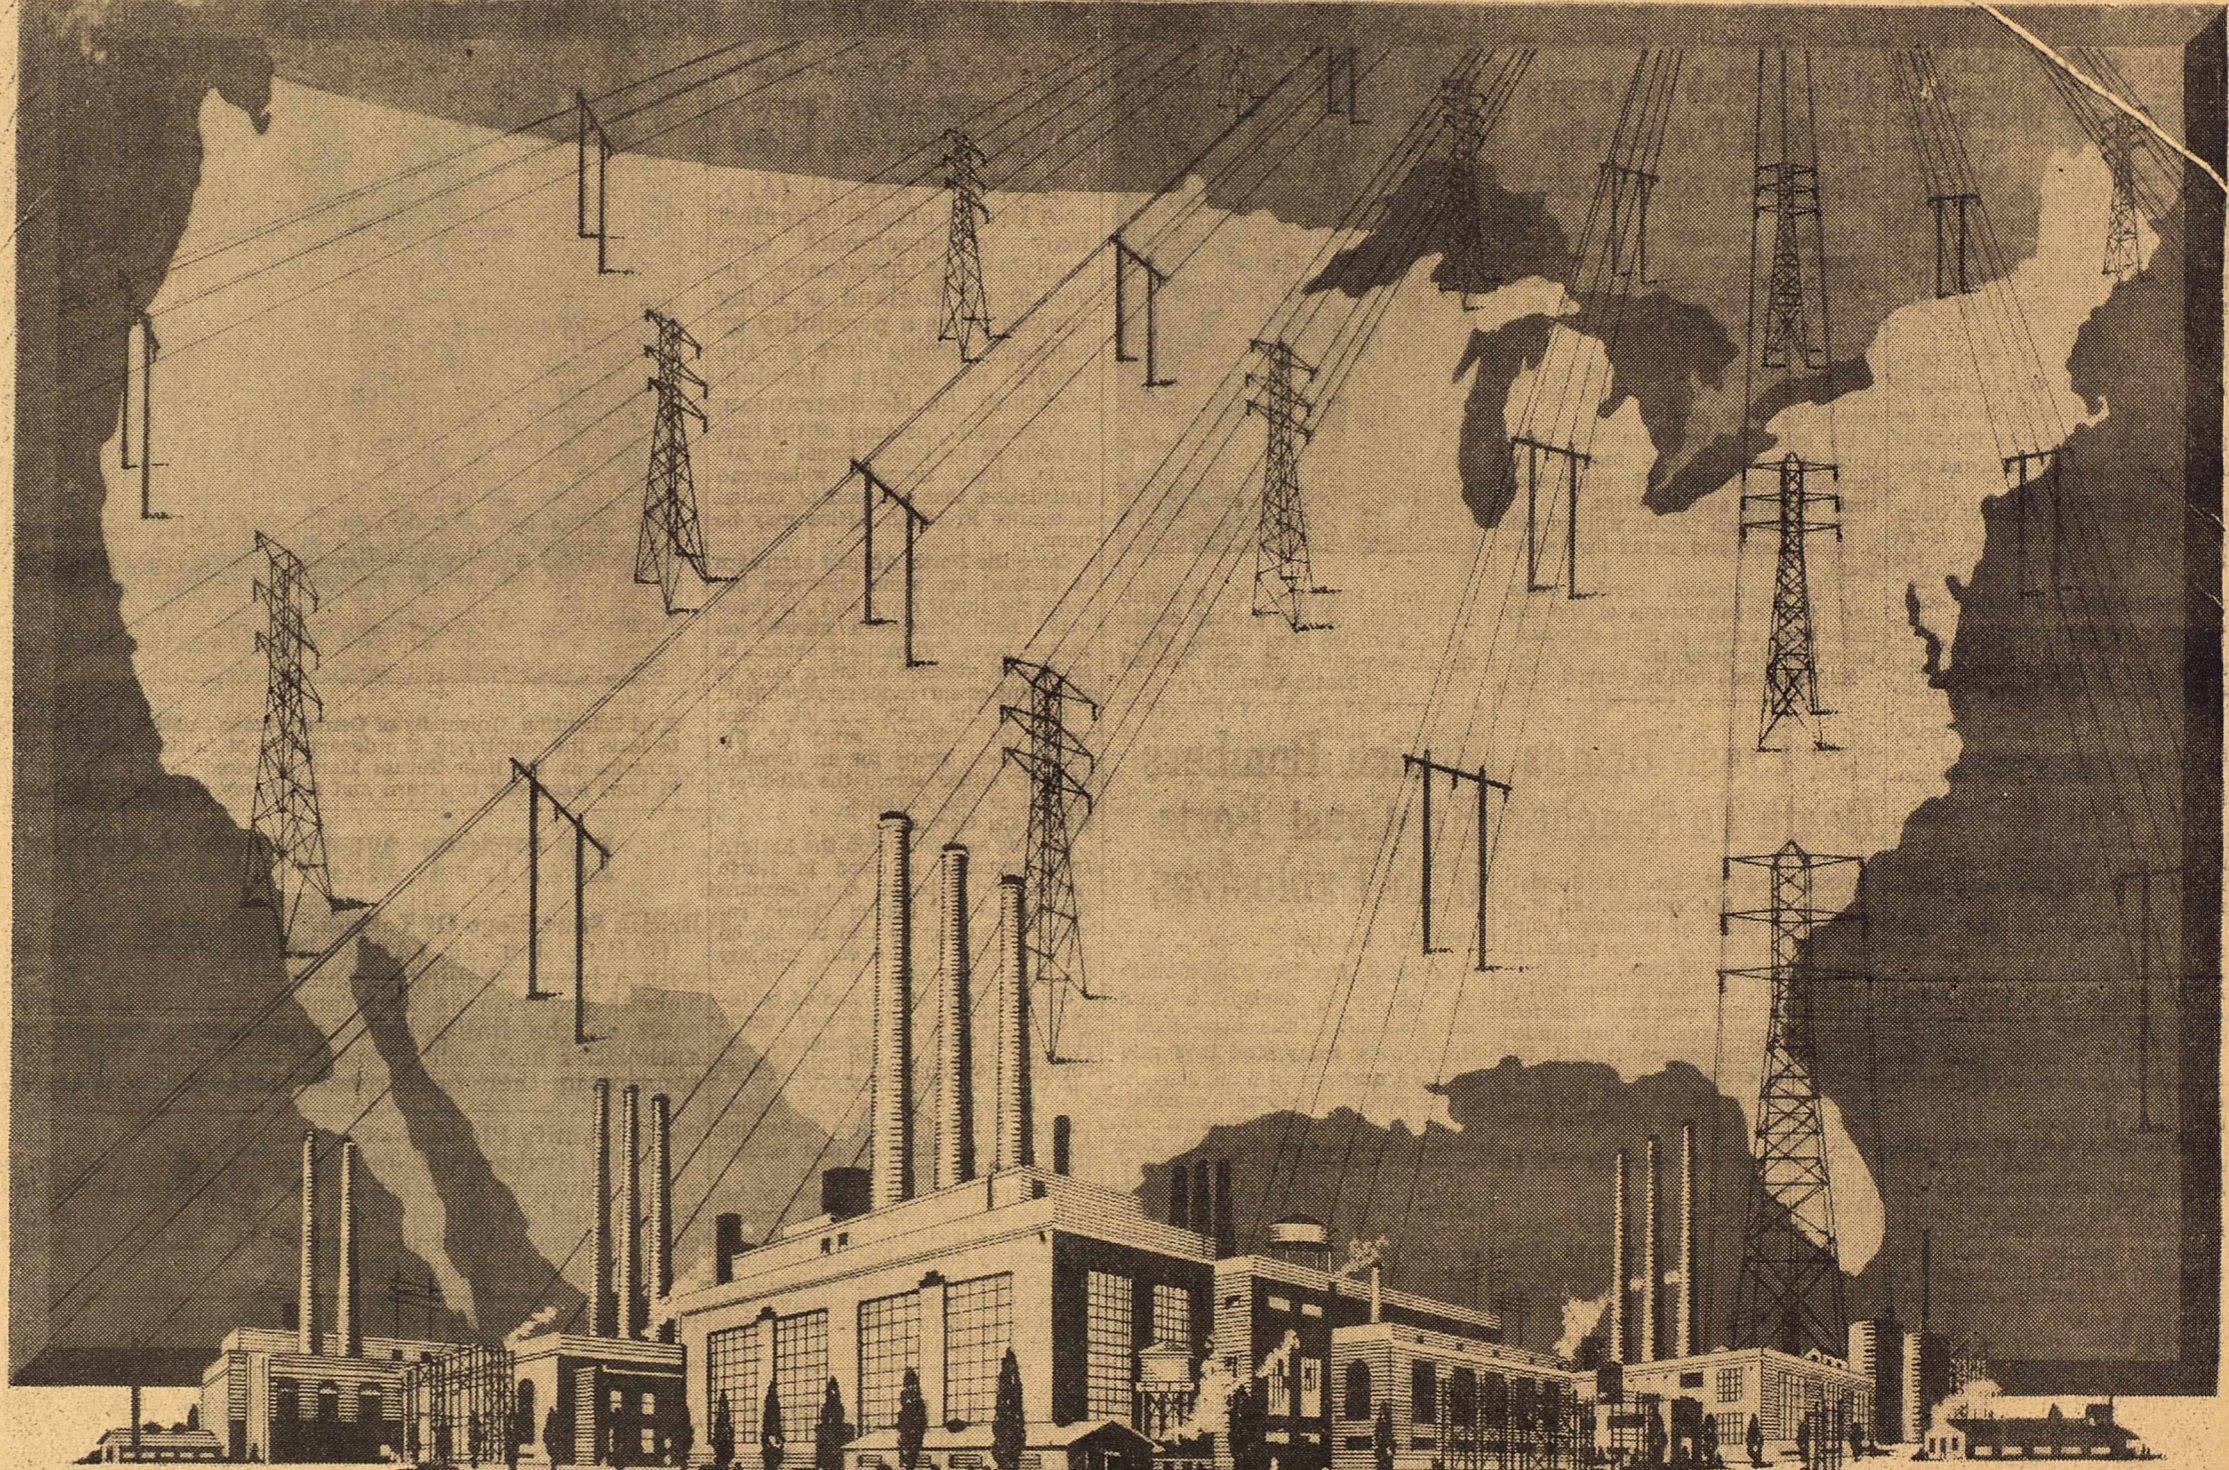

ROME, Jan. 10 (AP) — Premier Mussolini ordered today "more effective action" on the part of the Fascist party members among the Albanian "masses" in an audience granted to Tefik Mboria, head of the Albanian branch. He had reported to Il Duce on political conditions in Albania. Mussolini's instructions were along the lines of those he gave to Fascist chiefs in Italy Nov. 18—that they show more activity in making contact with the people, looking after their morale and extending relief to the needy.

Boy Scout Committee Will Support Banquet

An extensive drive for a delegation of scout leaders and parents from Midland to attend the Buffalo Trails annual banquet in Big Spring, Jan. 17, will be made, the Boy Scout district committee announced in a meeting last night. Midland won a trophy for the largest delegation on a previous occasion, it was pointed out. Riley Parr and Bill Collins, committeemen, are handling ticket sales, Dana M. Secor, district chairman, presided at the meeting. Eight scout leaders attended.

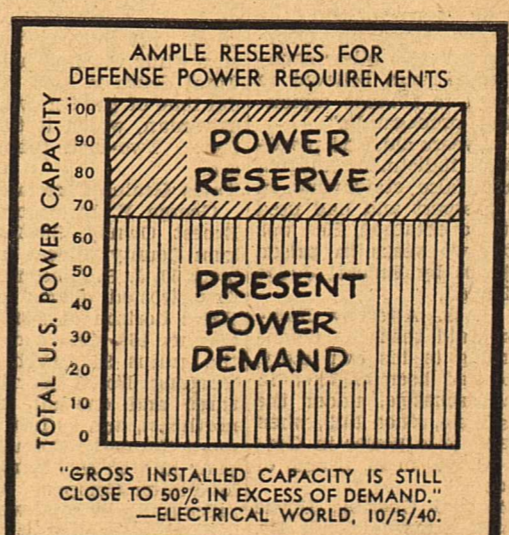

Airlines Pilot Lauds Airport Landing Field

"This is one of the best landing fields in Texas." That is what a pilot of an American Airlines passenger plane said upon landing at Midland Airport Wednesday night. The Douglas passenger plane came down when it was impossible to land at Big Spring. "You have a splendid setup here," the pilot told army men.

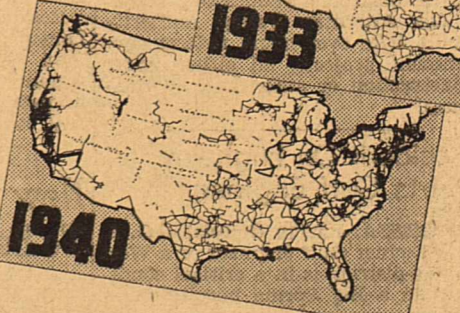

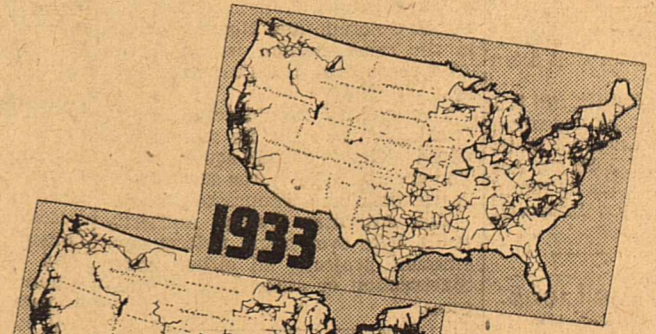

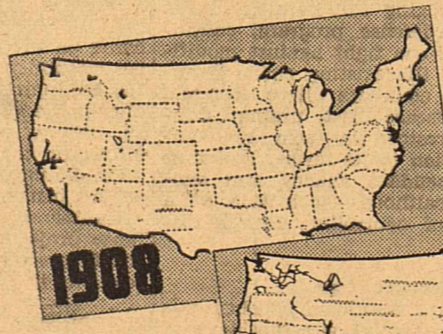

TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE COMPANY IS READY TO DO ITS PART IN THE NATION'S DEFENSE

Look at the maps below. Until 1908 electric power transmission lines, as we know them today, practically didn't exist. Even when we entered the World War, they were few and far between. But see how they grew, through 1928 on up to 1940. Today the nation is criss-crossed with service facilities, reaching from great cities into towns, villages, even to ranches and farms... everywhere except on tops of mountains and in the great American desert. Today we are prepared... fortified with a combination of electric service systems, unmatched in all the world. This "Preparedness" program has been building for 40 years. Electric Power's defense is "Ready."

In 100 West Texas communities, in the big oil fields of West Texas, Texas Electric Service Company is the servant of the local community... an important part of national defense. Oil wells and pipe lines are powered; cities are lighted; industry's machines are driven. Power is constant, unflinching. The power transmission line system of Texas Electric Service Company and other inter-connected power transmission line systems in Texas exceed in number of miles the entire British "Power Grid." Texas' systems, combined with others of the nation, form a national "Network" no emergency could break down.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney
America's Card Authority.

The world's No. 1 woman bridge player—Mrs. R. C. (Sally) Young of Bywood, Pa.—lived up to her reputation in the recent national championships. While she and her teammates lost the women's team-of-four title which they won in Pittsburgh in 1939, Mrs. Young did win the mixed pair championship with Sidney Sidor of Oakmont, Pa.

Today's hand gives an example of why Mrs. Young is an outstanding player. Her method of finding the ninth trick disclosed the technique of the real expert.

The opening lead was won with the ace of spades. Mrs. Young saw that a hold-up would be bad. The diamond ten was led, and held the trick. A small diamond was led and won with the jack, West discarding a club.

Hoping that East would be forced to help by the return lead, Mrs. Young led a small spade, East winning with the queen. But East brilliantly led a diamond to avoid worse leads, and Sidor cashed the remaining diamonds, West discarding clubs.

Then Mrs. Young cashed the ace and king of clubs and led a third round. East was at last forced to lead hearts, so that the defenders could not avoid giving declarer one more trick in either hearts or spades.

Germany Comments On Ambassador's Arrival

BERLIN, Jan. 10 (AP)—The presence of United States Ambassador Admiral William B. Leahy in Vichy was interpreted by authorized German quarters today as a step "to attenuate the bad impression" of the United States in France over lack of ample relief from America.

The shipments of condensed milk from the United States was regarded as merely "a drop of water on a hot tile." (The American Red Cross has obtained permission from Britain to send milk through the blockade to unoccupied France.)

Diplomatic Circles Report Netherlands Damage 500 Millions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—An estimated $500,000,000 worth of damage was done to Dutch property in the five day German blitzkrieg which conquered the Netherlands last May, according to information only now received in diplomatic circles here.

The details of destruction, while apparently authoritative, were unofficial in character.

Seemingly complete reports which have now reached diplomatic quarters here give this picture of the havoc wrought:

"In any emergency the Japanese people must be prepared against enemy raids," the news agency said War Minister General Hideki Tojo told the cabinet.

So many things, now that I knew Suzanne had always loved me with Paul. Even before we were married. 'Martha, Suzanne was so huskily, when you were in love with Paul, I played it square. I do keep out of his way. I do a lot of things I could do. Oh, it wasn't easy. Some times I couldn't help wanting to see him, just for a while. He didn't run after him, I didn't use any tricks, I told myself it over and I tried to get along without him.'

'Yes,' said Martha faintly. 'It was all right to begin with when you married Bill. I was wildly happy when Paul began to call me again, ask to see me. Martha, it didn't take long before I realized that he—we—well, we were always a foursome.' 'I don't understand.' 'Yes, you do. You must! Suzanne weren't that blind! We'd right here in this apartment, Paul's eyes never left you. Look at you so hungrily—and the while he never heard a word I said...' 'You're crazy, Sue,' Martha perched. 'Crazy.' Her brain spinning dizzily. 'You im-
