The Industrial Statesman

Necessity and the times may be creating a new type of leader in the United States—the industrial statesman. There are signs of his appearance in men like William S. Knudsen and Owen Young who are willing to give their time and abilities to public causes, and in men like Sidney Hillman and Walter Reuther from labor's ranks, who are willing to think about national problems on a broad scale.

The United States has a predominantly industrial civilization. What could be more natural than to expect that out of the ranks of workers and managers of our vast industries should come leadership for the nation itself?

Because our problems have been continually grave as a people and a nation for a decade or more, men of industry have been forced to give thought not only to their own business affairs, but to those of the nation as a whole. For we know now that we cannot individually prosper if the nation goes to smash.

The president of General Electric, Charles E. Wilson, has apparently been thinking along these lines, for an address he made in Philadelphia recently is filled with the spirit of a new industrial statesmanship. He sees, and we think rightly, a link between all the western countries in the fact that all of them are experiencing "the second stage of a revolutionary movement of the masses" which began with the World War and will probably last for several decades. The common people of Britain fight, he believes, "from a deep-held desire to insure for their masses and for their fellow men in other lands a much larger measure of economic freedom and security than the conventional capitalistic and imperialistic system has previously provided."

It was this mass urge toward security, this rebellion against frustration, that brought Nazism to Germany. The same urge is felt here and in Britain, but these countries have been thus far deeply determined to achieve the goals without sacrificing freedom.

The answer, Wilson feels, is that "the financial and managerial components of our free enterprise system must prove by deeds as well as by words their full comprehension of their social responsibilities"—they must "demonstrate, beyond the chance of successful challenge, that the public-spirited people administering private enterprise inherently and actually excel the people comprising political organizations . . . as instrumentalities for insuring an ever-increasing measure of economic freedom and security for all the people—save the indolent—all of the time."

Wilson then accepts the challenge, sets forth a detailed plan for achieving the desired ends. An increasing number of men in his position are thinking along similar lines.

Perhaps the latter half of the 20th century is producing its own characteristic type of leader—the industrial statesman.

Mechanical Love-Call

"The auto horn," exploded the voluble Mayor La Guardia of New York, "should be used as a warning, not a love call. The dating swain should at least be willing to climb the porch steps to his beloved's door."

So say we all of us, watching with eager interest the luck being found by municipal authorities in New York, Salt Lake City, and Washington, D. C., all of whom are trying to curb unnecessary and distracting horn-blowing.

Automobile love-calls, trick horns that play tunes all the way through, horns loudly blasted merely to tell another motorist that somebody doesn't like the way he's driving, horns blown for any reason except to prevent or avert danger, are a nuisance. Drivers would do well to abate the nuisance themselves before public authority climbs right up on the seat beside them and says, "O. K., buddy! Quiet, please!"

War Televised

Much has been said about the fact that modern war depends on mechanics, on technology, on science, rather than on bare shock of fighting men clashing together with arms in their hands.

The ultimate in these revelations (thus far) was reached the other day in the suggestion that television has now advanced to the point where a general behind his front lines can send a plane across the fighting front and receive by radio at his headquarters a telephoto screen picture of exactly what is happening at that moment on that front.

The possibility is breath-taking, in the light of history. All the campaigns lost for lack of proper intelligence, for lack of knowledge of what was really happening at the front, flash into view, and war begins to resolve itself from an art into a science, from a groping among unknowns into a problem from mutually known data, a chess game with all the pieces in full view.

When It Comes To Shame--

Apparently a sore spot was pricked in Germany by repeated assertions that the German Nazi system would bring back the Middle Ages. The Allegemeine Zeitung is reported in a heated defense of the Middle Ages as a historical and cultural peak period. There isn't space here to go into a comparison between the Nazi state and Medievalism in its finest flower, except to suggest that, for one thing, the church occupied a somewhat different position than the Nazis allow it today.

"We have no reason to be ashamed of the Middle Ages," proudly proclaims the newspaper.

Of course not. The question is, would the Middle Ages be ashamed of Nazi Germany?

These Men Command U. S. Armies And Fleets

Here are the generals, admirals and flagships of our three new fleets that form the bulwark of leadership in U. S. defense. At sea, Admiral H. E. Kimmel is commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet as a whole, and of the Pacific fleet; Rear Admiral E. J. King commands the Atlantic fleet; Admiral T. C. Hart commands the Asiatic fleet. On land, Lt. Gen. Hugh Drum commands the first army area; Lt. Gen. Ben Lear, the second army; Lt. Gen. James Brees, the third army; Lt. Gen. John L. DeWitt, the fourth army. In command of the newly consolidated Caribbean defenses (Panama Canal, Puerto Rico and Trinidad) is Lt. Gen. Daniel Van Voorhis.

British Seek To Shake Faith In Nazi Government

By DeWitt MacKenzie, Associated Press Staff Writer.

The British inspiration to broadcast a message from Wendell Willkie to the German people represents an interesting effort to shake their faith in the Nazi government, and emphasizes the importance of civilian morale in Europe's life and death struggle between empires.

Mr. Willkie expressed pride in his German blood and then said: "Tell the German people that free German-Americans reject and hate the aggression and lust for power of the present German government."

The purpose of that message to the Germans, from a distinguished member of their own race, was to impel them to ask themselves whether their government is indeed an aggressor, lusting after power, as Willkie charged. An affirmative answer presumably would weaken their belief in their leaders.

The message was calculated also to challenge the thought of the hard-pressed people of Italy. It has called them to reflection at a moment when their proud African empire is dropping to pieces before their eyes, as witness the fall of Bengasi, last stronghold of eastern Libya and a strategic plum which greatly strengthens Britain's ambition to knock Italy out of the war.

Back of the message was the thought, if I read the signs rightly, that the European conflict is going to be determined largely by the morale of the non-combatants under the torture imposed by present day warfare.

Military operations will play their part, but the spirit of the folk at home will turn the trick. That is why all the belligerent countries are working openly to try to weaken the morale of the enemy populations.

What is it that creates this all-important morale upon which the life or death of nations hangs? Consider this little case, for instance: A neighbor of mine recently arranged to bring his small nephew—a fourteen-year-old English school-boy—over to this country to live. When the time arrived for the lad to start he refused flatly to leave home.

"I'm going to stay here and fight for England," he said—and there he is.

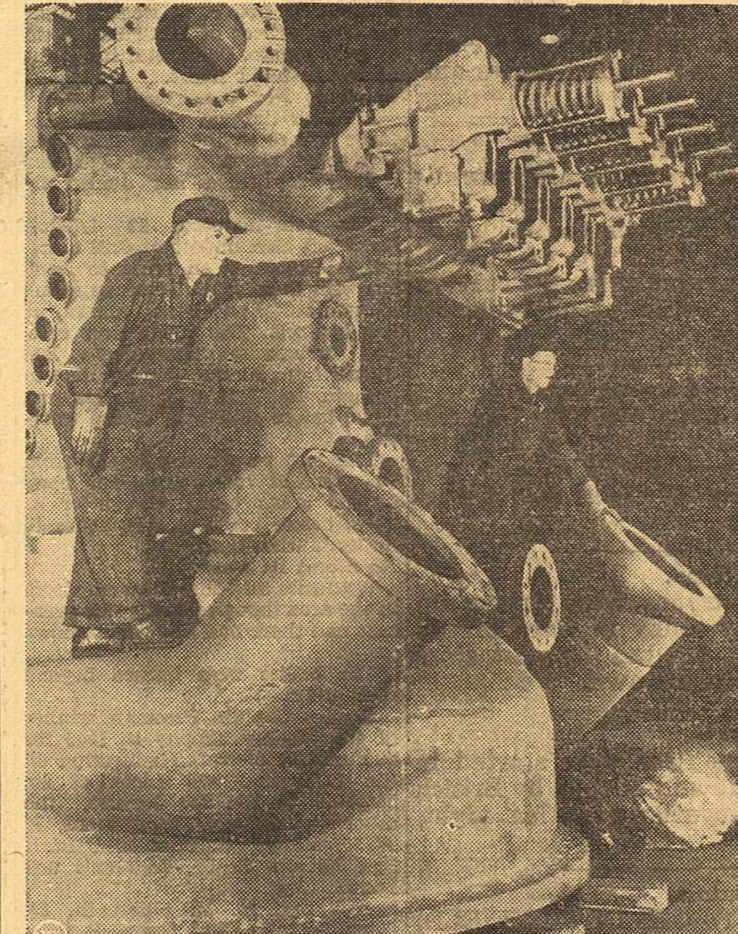

What could inspire such devotion to country in a youngster's mind? It is important that we know, if the outcome of the war is dependent on morale. Let's answer this way: "Great Cause" Factor.

If a country is to win a war its people must be inspired by a great cause and (to them) a just one, which not only is worth dying for but which cannot be maintained without resort to arms.

That wasn't necessarily so in times past. A lust for power on land sometimes was accepted by the civilian population of a belligerent country as sufficient cause for war. Those were the days when the non-combatants often were so far removed from the scene of conflict that they had only infrequent reports of the fighting. It was a sort of impersonal affair.

But this modern war, with its scientific violence and mechanized speed and power of striking over

And It Can't Fire a Shot!

It looks like the gun turret of some weird super-super-dreadnaught. Apparently, at upper right, is a battery of pom-pom anti-aircraft guns such as British use. The workmen are standing on what looks like huge mortars. But all that "artillery" couldn't fire a shot. The photo shows the upper half of an 80,000-kilowatt turbine shell being built at the General Electric Co.'s Schenectady plant. But it will generate power to keep wheels of industry turning for national defense.

great distances from the air, has made entire civilian populations a part of it. They died without even the protection which the soldier has.

Only if they are inspired by a great and spiritual cause are they able to withstand the terrors and privations and death of such a conflict.

The morale of the civilians is vital, for their suffering and fears react on the fighting forces and even the government.

Groups To Hold Poll On Proposed Walk-out

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—Fourteen standard railroad labor organizations made plans to poll their 750,000 members on a proposal to strike for annual vacations with pay.

"No other course is open to us," George M. Harrison said late yesterday in announcing the strike vote. Harrison heads a committee of leaders of the 14 affected unions.

But because of the mechanics of union balloting and terms of the railroad mediation law, a strike, if voted, could not become effective before late spring.

Harrison called on President Roosevelt, who, he said, expressed hope a walkout could be averted. Then the union leader said he would seek a conference with John J. Felley, president of the Association of American Railroads, for a last-minute effort to fork out an agreement.

Mrs. C. Schnurr Is Complimented At Tea

Mrs. Kenton S. Boone And Mrs. Byrne Are Hostesses At In-Honor Courtesy Attended By Large Group Of Guests

In compliment to Mrs. C. Schnurr, who was Mrs. Bertie Boone until her recent marriage, Mrs. Geo. Byrne and Mrs. Kenton Boone entertained at tea at the home of the latter, 311 North F Street, Thursday afternoon from 4 o'clock until 6. About 100 guests called.

Children's Theatre Play Tells Tale Of Buried Money

If you had a fortune in gold pieces, amounting to as much as a thousand guilders in Hollandish money buried somewhere in your yard, no one knows where, what would you do? Would you dig up the entire lawn and garden (if you had a garden) until you found it? Or would you wait till you had some idea of clue as to the approximate place where the gold was hidden and just dig there?

This is one of the problems that Hans Brinker and his sister, Gretel, have to solve in the stirring play, "Hans Brinker or the Silver Skates" which is coming to Midland February 17 under sponsorship of North Ward P.T.A. It is a Clare Tree Major Children's Theatre production and this famous children's story by Mary Mapes Dodge has been dramatized by Mrs. Major as well as staged by her.

Commenting on Mrs. Major's coming production Mrs. J. J. Black said: "There are tales of lost or buried fortunes behind many families in every community and when money is suddenly found or claimed by rightful heirs, it creates great excitement and always means a front page story in the local paper."

"Hans Brinker, as depicted in Mrs. Major's dramatization of the famous story," declared Mrs. Black "is a clean-cut type of outdoor boy who is willing and eager to work for a living, to help his parents, just as many of our young people are doing today. His sister, Gretel, is just as desirous of doing what she can to help about the home. Money is shown not to be the all-important thing in life, necessary though it is."

Golf Match Between Pro Stars And Texas Players Shape Up As First Round Of San Antonio Meet Starts

By Felix E. McKnight
SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 7 (AP)—Golf's winter tourists started on the first leg of the $5,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament today, but the buzz around the rain-churned Willow Springs course was the possibility of matching those famed Texans against a picked team of American professionals.

Long talked about but never advanced past the conversational stage, the dream match between eight Texas pros "against the world" took definite shape.

A group of Dallas golf enthusiasts sent a representative down here to talk turkey on a match that would pit the Texans against a team to be captained by the veteran Walter Hagen on the week-end before, or immediately after, the National Open tourney to be held at Fort Worth in early June.

The Texans would throw this lineup against any eight professionals in the game: Ben Hogan, Snead, Jimmy Demaret, sensation of the winter trek last year; Harry Cooper, Lloyd Mangrum, Dick Metz, Silent Ben Hogan, leading money winner of 1940 and greying old Jack Burke, the National Senior PGA champion.

Meanwhile, the giant field of 226 players, a record for this 19-year-old classic of the winter season, started pouring off the tee for the first 18 holes of the Texas Open.

Bilth, long-hitting Samuel Jackson Snead, the Hot Springs, Va., smoothie, once again was set up as the pre-tourney favorite with a couple blistering rounds of 64-67, considerable shooting over Willow Springs' par 96-35-71 course.

U. S. May Turn Out New British Airplane

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—American production of Britain's new Hawker Tornado pursuit plane, one of the most efficient fighters in the world, was reported reliably today to be under serious consideration.

British authorities were said to be weighing the advisability of making the powerful new warplanes available for manufacture in this country both for the Royal Air Force and the United States army and navy air service, if the test program of the Tornado, which is reported to have a speed of 425 miles an hour and to be armed with eight machine guns and three cannons, may figure in efforts now being made to standardize American and British aircraft production in this country as much as possible.

Draft May Handicap Gambler In Quoting Baseball Race Odds

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP) Jack Doyle, who likes to take a flier on sporting events, may shy away from the baseball pennant races for the first time in many years.

The veteran betting commissioner, vacationing here, shook his head dolefully as he worked his way around the putting green.

"The draft law is a fine thing for the country in every other way," he said sadly, "but it may makethese pennant races mighty hard to figure.

"Suppose, for instance, Greenberg gets drafted. That would be like knocking one of the legs from under the table as far as the Tigers are concerned. Hank is the kind of fellow who would go with a smile if they call him and I admire him for it but it would sure leave some of the betting fraternity out on the end of the limb."

Jennings Resigns As Baylor Bears Football Mentor

WACO, Feb. 7 (AP)—Grizzled Morley Jennings called it a career today, stepping from football's coaching ranks after 29 years in the role of "giant-killer" down here in the hazy-burley Southwest.

The soft-spoken, 51-year-old mentor of Baylor's Golden Bears said he was weary of the grind—the wear and tear that comes from directing teams in gripping struggles for football's accolade.

But, says those who profess to know, Jennings is not leaving the field of athletics.

His resignation yesterday as coach at Baylor left the way open for Texas Tech's Lubbock to make him athletic director. He often has expressed a desire for such a position and reports from Lubbock indicate he will be offered the job.

"I've been coaching athletics for 29 years and I wish to be relieved," Jennings told Pat M. Neff of Baylor.

Jennings would not comment on the report he would take the Tech post, opened when Pete Cawthon resigned along with members of his staff.

The Baylor Athletic Committee did not consider a successor to Jennings at its meeting yesterday, a member said. However, Jack Sisco, North Texas State coach, who was one of the greatest football players in the history of Waco high and Baylor, is generally considered top choice for the position.

Jennings Baylor teams never won a Southwest Conference championship but the Bruins were noted for staging the unexpected—the jarring upsets—and finishing in a position that confounded critics who habitually relegated the Bears to the second division before the season opened.

Lee Introduces Bill For Cotton Payments

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Enactment of an "income certificate plan" to increase payments to American cotton growers was proposed by Senator Lee (D-Okla) in a bill (S757) he introduced yesterday.

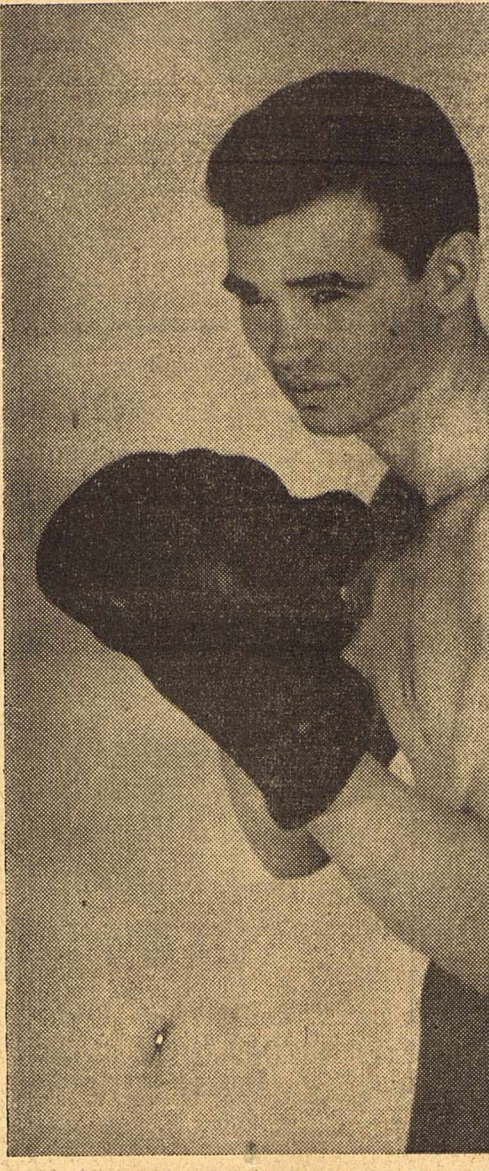

Backed by the National Farmers Union, the bill would guarantee parity to the farmer on that portion of his crop consumed in this country.

The processor of the staple would be required to pay to the farmer the difference between the current market price and a standard domestic price fixed by the secretary of agriculture.

The processor or processors handling the cotton would indirectly reach the consumer would be expected to increase the normal price of the commodity to take care of the marginal payment given the grower.

Grooms Strike At Santa Anita Park Costs Huge Sums

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7 (AP)—The gates of Santa Anita Park, Southern California's $3,000,000 horse racing plant, swung open today for the resumption of business after a one-day strike of 1,500 grooms (horse valets) that cost the park at least $60,000 and the state of California $28,000 in taxes.

The strike, effected dramatically yesterday a few minutes before the first race was scheduled, grew out of an altercation last Sunday, involving five of the grooms, who care for and feed the thoroughbreds.

Santa Anita stewards, saying that law and order must prevail within the confines of its establishment, took away the badge of one of the grooms, Jay Reynolds. Although the grooms are represented by no labor union, they were called together and decided to back up their suspended member.

While they were meeting they drew up a few more demands. They told the stewards they would have to be paid $10 for every winning horse race and $5 for every losing race. They also demanded the privilege of sitting in the grandstand and placing bets in the grandstand mutuels.

While the stewards conceded none of these points in a conference with the grooms last night, Barney Bentley, spokesman for the grooms, telephoned Jerry Giesler, California Racing Commission Chairman, who is in New York, and obtained the temporary reinstatement of Reynolds.

Select Soose To Turn Back Vigh

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Ernie Vigh and Billy Soose, a couple of young fighting fellows trying to get along, tangle in Madison Square Garden tonight to see who has been wrong for the last couple of years.

Each has been banging along the middleweight trail for about two and a half years. Tonight, whoever can knock the other fellow's ear down gets a shot at Ken Overlin's world championship in March.

The betting odds and a lot of other things, including his press clippings, favor Billy, the glamor boy from Penn State College. But Ernie, a serious young guy with a cement chin, has a very handy equalizer. He can knock out anyone he can hit on the chin—with either hand, at that.

Feder Picks Vigh
As a result, this corner goes against the handwriting and picks Vigh to take care of Billy in the approved style, despite the ballyhoo which has attended the lanky Farrell, (Pa.) boxing specialist since he outpointed both Overlin and the National Boxing Association's title holder, Tony Zale, last year. At the moment, Soose is 5 to 8 to whip the Newburgh, (N. Y.) nailer and the odds-makers will lay you 5 to 1 Vigh can't knock out his man.

Action in the "livest" division of boxing today, the middleweights, promises to bring some 12,000 customers into the Garden and some $25,000 to $30,000 into Promoter Mike Jacobs' strong boxes.

J. C. SMITH STORE

On the foundation of doing a "Good Turn" daily, thousands of boys throughout the United States have grown to manhood under the influence of Boy Scout teachings. These teachings have made better citizens---have been of a character moulding influence---have produced leaders in service to every community.

The Scout Oath is a direct pledge to self-control and service to others. It develops unselfishness---it inspires to the greater and better things in life.

The Scout Motto---"BE PREPARED"---means preparedness for the problems of life. Useful citizenship is the direct aim of the Scout Movement, which prepares the youth of America to assume the responsibilities of leadership in later years.

On the Thirty-first Anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, we pause to pay tribute to this splendid movement: To its membership---to its leadership; to wish you well and to congratulate you on your magnificent growth. Again, we wish to say that we heartily endorse the Boy Scout movement.

Publication Reports High Retail Activity

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Continued high activity of retail trade—at the highest level for this season in 11 years—was reported today by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., in its weekly survey. "As a rule," said the mercantile agency, "retailers found sales results for the weekly highly satisfactory. Occasionally it was felt that consumer spending, although improved, did not yet reflect the substantial increase in industrial employment. "The repayment of old debts was thought still to impede the full expansion in buying. In many instances, however, retailers reported sales outrunning expenditures, x x x "Despite brisk consumer interest, price appeal was still a major

Man Dies By Shots While Minding Baby

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—The body of a man shot to death while minding the four-month-old daughter of a couple in the Bronx, was identified today by police as that of Benjamin Tannenbaum, 35, alias "Ben the Boss." The man was shot twice in the chest last night in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Max Helmer, in Featherbed Lane, but the shots didn't awaken the baby Paulette. Neighbors of the Helmers were aroused, however, and summoned police.

County Officials Seek Highway To Big Bend Country

CRANE, Feb. 7 (Special)—A proposed direct highway through Crane to connect with the Fort Stockton highway leading into the Big Bend country was discussed here at an open meeting. Crane County Judge John J. Waits was instructed to appeal to the State Highway Commission for aid. Civil Service Announces Examination For Position

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced a new type of examination, the first of its kind in this district. It is an open competitive examination for the position of mechanic-learner, $50 per month, to fill vacancies in the army air corps, San Antonio air depot, Duncan Field. Applications for men, 16-25, must be on file before Feb. 18. Additional information and application blanks may be obtained from Frank Smith, a secretary of the board of U. S. Civil Service examiners, at the Midland post office.

This is the fifth of a series of 12 articles on the new bidding rules in the 1941 Culbertson System, which will be officially published March 1. By Wm. E. McKenney America's Card Authority.

The requirements for opening bids in the 1941 Culbertson System have, in certain cases, been reduced. For example, an opening bid may be made in a six-card major (but not a minor) suit with only two-plus honor-tricks in the hand. With a six-card minor suit, you still need two-and-one-half to bid.

These requirements apply to any position from first to fourth hand. East's opening bid on today's hand made use not only of this newly reduced requirement, but also of the new provision that a singleton in the hand is counted as a "plus value."

The four-heart contract was easy. South took two spade tricks and East ruffed a third spade. The ace of clubs put dummy in and the three of hearts was led. North played low and East played safe by finessing the seven-spot. The play of the ace would have cost him the contract, if North had had both heart honors.

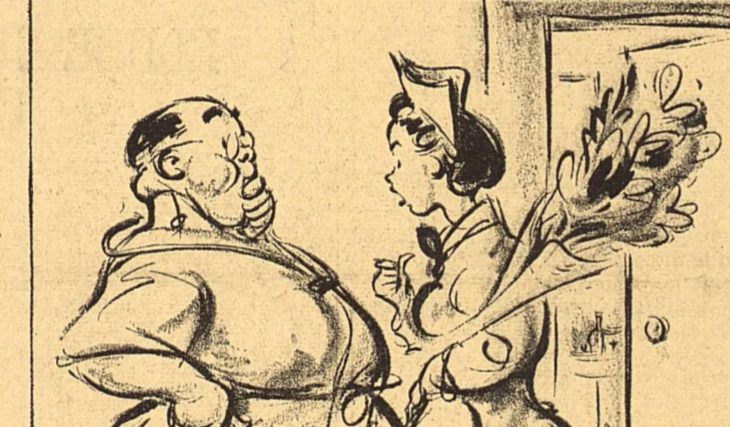

North-South could not profitably have sacrificed at four spades, because East could have ruffed two clubs, and a three-trick set would have given East-West 500 points.

CONSCRIPT'S WIFE

BY BETTY WALLACE

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: The search goes on, but there is no trace of Bill. Martha finally gets hysterical. Is sent to bed. Paul and Suzanne drive to Emma's. Martha remembers Butch, and how Bill loves the dog. She hurries to the kennel. Bill is there.

THE BEST CONSCRIPT'S WIFE

CHAPTER XXX
"MARTHA!" Bill cried huskily. Martha!

He darted forward as she swayed. His strong arm steadied her, and his blue eyes looked down into hers with concern and a quick, pleading humility. For the split-second that phantasmic relief she knew a relief almost unendurable in its ecstasy. She clung to him, seeing in that one look the new haggardness of his face, the shaded uncertainty in his eyes.

But in the next moment, she was pushing him away. She was standing straight and rigid, the anger and despair which had whipped her on through the dreadful hours making her lips tighten and her voice hard.

"Where were you all this time? Don't you know we've been looking for you? I almost went out of my mind. Paul had detectives in New York—Suzanne hired detectives here—phoned the camp. They said you'd deserted—where were you? Why did you do it?"

Bill's eyes dropped. He kicked morosely at a pebble.

"After I—I knocked Paul down. I—I had to hitchhike from New York. I went crazy, Martha. I didn't come to until they kicked me out of the hotel. But knowing you'd gone back to him—"

"Oh, Bill, don't start that again! I told you I've never been in love with him, I didn't go back to him!"

Suddenly all the anger left her, the passionate desire to convince him. "Oh, never mind, Bill. That doesn't matter now. Do you know you're a deserter? You've got to get back to camp quickly! You must do everything you can to make them go easy on you."

"I've made a dreadful mess of things," he admitted morosely. "I guess it's too late."

"Not! It isn't too late! Oh, Bill, get into the car with me. You drive, please. Drive fast! We'll get to camp, I'll speak to the commanding officer. Perhaps they—they're not so heartless after all..."

severe punishment? "Bill, will they court-martial you?"

"I don't know." He turned and his eyes met hers. "All I know, Martha, is that I'm ashamed in my soul to have given you all this trouble. I—I could get down on my knees to you, I could—could cut off my arm... but it wouldn't help. Nothing could make it right again."

"Oh, sweet, will you ever trust me after this? Can you ever forgive me for my suspicions? I—I'd do anything, if only you'd give me another chance!"

"The Army's got to give you another chance," she said steadily. "That's our first concern. After that—oh, Bill, I've never stopped loving you! She lifted her tear-stained face. Bill kissed her swiftly. Then they turned their faces resolutely straight ahead—to the immediate future that awaited them at the camp.

TWO hours later, going down the road that led to the sentry hut and the cantonment, Martha saw Suzanne's car. "Bill! There's Paul and Suzanne!" Bill touched the horn button. Paul and Suzanne tumbled out of their car in surprise and relief.

"Oh, Martha, you found him!"

"Yes," Her smile was tremulous. "There's no time now. Bill must report at once. Wait for me."

As Bill stepped on the starter, Martha saw Paul turn to Suzanne. "You've been wonderful," he said simply.

Suzanne answered, "I was wrong about those things I said at the hospital, Paul. I know now none of them was true. But you should have known, long ago, Paul—I'd do anything for you."

Martha thought, as they were left behind there on the road, that perhaps this crisis had worked a minor miracle. It had brought Paul closer to Suzanne—it had given Suzanne a chance to atone. "How odd, that my life and Bill's should touch the lives of others at every point..."

A moment later, Bill was smartly saluting a young officer. "Private Marshall reporting, sir. I—I've been absent without leave."

The young officer looked at Martha. Her chin came up. "May I speak to the commanding officer, please?"

Bill looked on as the young officer said, "I don't deserve it. But I'll provide for the rest of my life showing that I do appreciate it."

Martha's face, a soldier's face, said, "From now on, the past's just dust. The future's ahead. Oh, love you!"

"But face," he agreed steadily. "together."

Bill will they court-martial you?"

"I don't know." He turned and his eyes met hers. "All I know, Martha, is that I'm ashamed in my soul to have given you all this trouble. I—I could get down on my knees to you, I could—could cut off my arm... but it wouldn't help. Nothing could make it right again."

AS she sat there beside him, while the old car strained over the road, Martha thought of the guardhouse where she had found him last Sunday. Would this being absent without leave mean a longer term in the guardhouse? More

Man May Choose: God Or Mammon, Liberty Or Slavery

By R. A. Weaver.

12 And if ye have not been faithful in that which is an others, who will give you that which is your own? 13 No servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.—Luke 16.

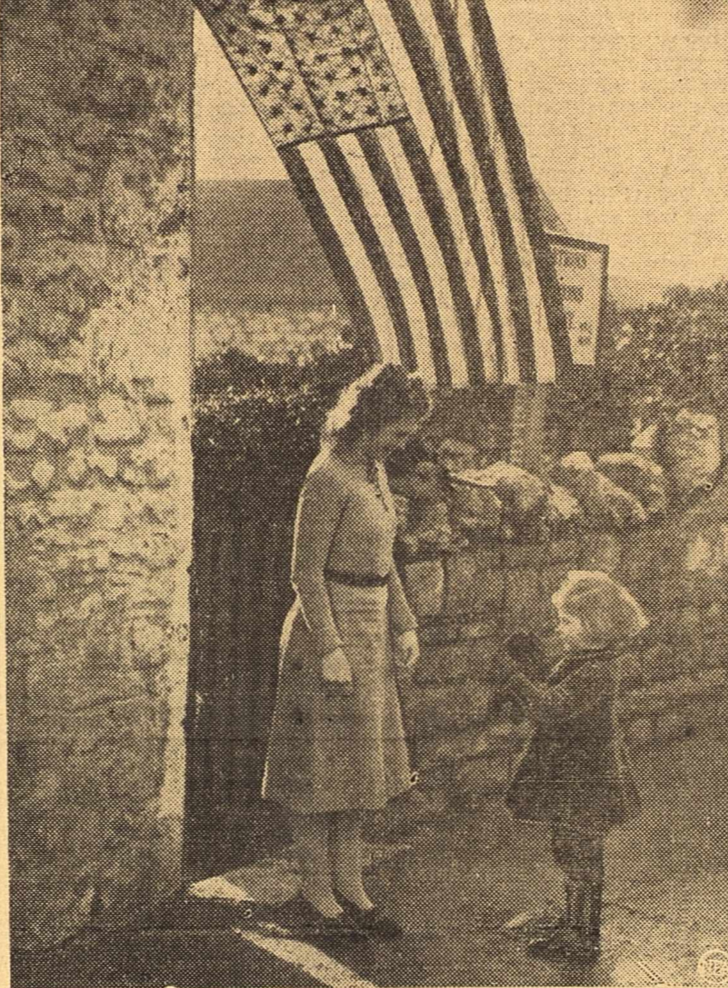

Bondage slavery, serfdom and peonage have attested to man's inhumanity to man that makes countless millions mourn. Primarily, Jesus came into the world to establish and insure the right of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness to every human being on the globe. He publicly stated that among the missions for which He came into the world, two of these were "to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound." His church was to consist of men among whom there were neither bond nor free, Jew or Gentile, but all of one blood in Christ. Slavery and bondage is the fruit of those nations of despots who "wade through slaughter to a throne, and close the gates of mercy on mankind." Our Bible lesson has to do with service, and service is a thing that makes servants, and man can easily become a slave to the things he serves. Every man has a master. But no man can serve two masters. Man belongs to the master whom he serves most.

Political and Moral Bondage. America was born out of subjection to a sovereign into a Free State of free people through rejection of this yoke. Liberty and freedom are peculiarly a Christian tenet, and the Declaration of Independence was predicated upon the fact that Life, Liberty and the pursuit of happiness are unalienable rights "endowed by the Creator." These rights were considered rights under God, and to which every man under the sun was entitled and each race and each individual was given equal privileges and opportunities to pursue his course in finding happiness. The history of mankind travels in cycles, and today we find the state of man rounding the curve of the perihelion nearer to danger than ever before. The farther a nation strays from God, the farther it moves from the security provided under democratic form of government. The fires of patriotism require constant fanning. The dangers of a democracy are tares sown by the enemy while the householder sleeps. Decadency, deterioration and death of a democracy are states brought about by apathy, servility and lack of spirit. When this happens people are not worthy of being free men. This applies to both political and moral phases of human life.

The Great Emancipator. Next Wednesday, Feb. 12th is the anniversary of a great liberator, Lincoln was a man who committed himself to the proposition that all men are created equal. Upon this proposition he lived and died. Seventy-seven years ago at Gettysburg he expressed his idea of America's place in the sun, and the position of America in the affairs of the world: "Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here. It is for us to highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain; that the nation shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Lincoln was a modest man. Every great man is modest. How little did he realize that this speech would become a classic, and a model of oratory through out all generations. When great men speak, their words become alive, and take on the virtue of immortality. Heaven and earth may pass away, but words of truth live for ever. Yesterday and Today. When Lincoln issued the proclamation of Emancipation, he became great, for he brought life, freedom

Weyand Denies French Would Give Reich Base

VICHY, France, Feb. 7 (AP)—General Maxime Weyand has denied in the name of the French government that France is intending to let Germany use the naval base at Bizerte, French Tunisia, and has declared that no negotiations are under way for cession of Bizerte or the landing of German troops there from Libya. Weyand, supreme commander of armies in French North Africa, made these statements in a radio address yesterday at Algiers, Algeria. Word of the broadcast reached here today.

and liberty to a whole race of people. All nations did him honor. Europe, the world is too small to be spoken in every land under every tongue. Today as we recall the effect of his death upon the world, it seems paradoxical that the following was spoken and printed about him in Germany: "Germany on Lincoln. "Greatest among the sages and heroes of this generation; the most perfect embodiment of the genius of a free and mighty people; the noblest benefactor of his species that has ever tolled and suffered among men; the glorious father of a whole world's regeneration; the great prophet of the speedy emancipation of every man on the earth who is burdened and wronged; there is no mortal name beneath the stars that can be placed beside that of Abraham Lincoln. He has lived and died, not for America alone, but for the people of England; the people of France; the people of Germany; the people of Italy, the people of every land under heaven. He has lived and died, not only for America, unity and brotherhood, but for the unity and brotherhood of all the groaning and oppressed people of Europe. The world is too small to furnish a grave for Abraham Lincoln; and the spirit of the glorious martyr must continue to dwell among us." To what nobler task could the Christian commit himself than that which guarantees that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth?"

Cotton Stamp Plan Would Help Farmers $25,000

ATLANTA, Feb. 7 (AP)—The federal government's cotton stamp plan should increase purchasing power of cotton farmers by $25,000,000, Phillip F. McGuire, assistant administrator of the surplus marketing administration, said here today. Addressing the closing session of the Association of Southern Workers convention, he explained that under the plan farmers would be given 10 cents for each pound they reduce their cotton production from estimated yields.

Town Hall Guest Says Southern Neighbors Want To Collaborate

By Kathleen Eiland Society Editor.

The majority of people in South America want to collaborate with the United States, which is symbolic of the life they want, said Rene Dussaq, brilliant young Argentine scholar, athlete, and adventurer, who will address the Town Hall Club in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. tonight.

And, he added simply, they need collaboration in many ways. Fault for misunderstanding between the two continents he places upon "worthless politicians" who have guided the destinies of the South American republics and granted to investors from the north privileges and benefits which should not have been. When the people replaced the politicians, new leaders will keep the contracts made by their predecessors. Misunderstanding with foreign investors therefore arose.

Feudal Minority Rules. In the United States, the people have "gotten off on the right foot" in their democratic way of living, Dussaq pointed out, while in South America there has been a feudal minority ruling over the mass.

South Americans have their criticisms of their northern neighbors, Dussaq reminded that his people are realists and theoretical they note the discrepancies in the Monroe Doctrine which he recalled was applied against England and Germany in Venezuela, but did not prevent the marines being sent 40 times to lands south of the United States.

Too, he said, they cannot understand why a country as great as the United States should "use subterfuge" in some of its dealings.

Slender and dark with the eloquence traditionally described to the Latin, the young lecturer can turn instantly from general conversation to a serious discussion of South American viewpoints.

He arrived in Midland this morning.

Perhaps Your Wardrobe Is Feeling Blue advertisement: 'Perhaps Your Wardrobe Is Feeling Blue. By Alicia Hart NEA Service Staff Writer. Your wardrobe, as well as your spirits, probably needs a little pep-ping up at this time of year. Both may be a little blue. Treat the suede shoes that were so smart last October but which look a little tired now no matter how much you brush them to a coat of dye and new lifts. Hire a seamstress for a day or so; or take a couple of evenings off yourself and get all of your clothes in perfect order. Replace missing snaps and hooks, straighten sagging hemlines and fix split seams. Afterward, send everything to a good cleaner. SHOP WITH A DEFINITE PLAN Not until you have done your best to make everything you own wearable again should you decide what new dresses or accessories you need. Don't buy a new hat to wear with last fall's gray wool dress until you are sure that you are going to wear the gray wool for a few more weeks at least. Don't buy a bright evening jacket to give the old black foundation dress a new lift until you know positively that the old black is worthy of a new jacket. In other words, shop with a plan and a purpose. Women who shop haphazardly, without list, plan or purpose, waste a great deal of both time and money. EVEN THE DRESS WILL FEEL HAPPIER It's safe to say that you'll need a new hat of some kind. Pastel felts and dark felts with bright ribbons or feathers are ideal types for this time of year. Do skin gloves to match a pastel hat will give an old black day dress a forward-into-spring feeling. A blouse, gloves, bag, hat and shoes in a different color from those you wore with your suit last fall will make the suit seem new and different. A new scarf may be just what your winter coat needs to make it more appealing to you. And, if you have been wearing house coats all winter, perhaps dinner slacks will give a fresh sparkle to your leisure hours. READ THE CLASSIFIEDS
