Income, $1000; War Tax, $500

Remember the old slapstick movie actors in the early rough-and-tumble movies—how, when the property vase had been broken over their skulls they shook their heads with a dazed look? That's the way the average American reacts to the news that Britain is going to have wartime taxes of 50 per cent and up. And up means up—rich people will be paying as high as 19 shillings out of every pound (20 shillings) of income.

But it is worth while to shake off the dazed feeling and consider what this really means. This is a great deal more than simply a tax. It is more than simply an effort to raise money to run the war.

It is an effort to guide the "reconstruction after the war" period. It is an effort to prevent inflation, now or later. It is a piece of social engineering as well as a means of raising the money to run the war.

Many months ago John Maynard Keynes, the British economist, proposed a plan of "enforced savings" in wartime. It drew laughs and hot comment as "too radical." But now, under Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, the British are adopting a plan that is almost the same thing.

The exemptions on income tax are cut down to almost nothing, admitting 2,000,000 people to income tax liability who never paid it before. But the payments these people make as a result of lowered exemptions will be credited to them in postal savings accounts, payable to them again after the war. So with higher incomes. It is estimated, for instance, that an income of $4000 will pay a tax of $1524; of which $1352 will go into the treasury as a straight tax, with $172 deposited as a compulsory but repayable "loan."

It is hoped to accomplish two things by this system. First, to prevent present inflation. Keynes figured that wartime inflation is caused largely by the fact that many people's incomes rise in wartime. They are able to bid against one another for goods; therefore the price of goods rises. By taking from everybody practically all the money they receive above what it takes barely to live, this competitive bidding for goods is restricted, and prices have less reason to rise. In short, if the amount of money left to the public is kept in proportion to the amount of goods available for them to buy at present prices, there is not likely to be much inflation.

Second, it means that everybody will have some savings to his credit after the war. There will be a let-down then. If people have some money to spend, even though out of a job, the release of that money will cushion the shock.

Thus Britain is laying down the most drastic war taxes in history, using taxation not only as a source of money to run the war, but in an effort to guide the economic present and future.

Social Barriers Into Kindling

Sidney Kingsley—pardon us, Private Sidney Kingsley—is in normal civilian life a playwright. He has written many fine plays in which he had some fine things to say to all of us. But he never said anything finer than when he gave an interview recently on his experiences as an army recruit.

"It is a wonderful kind of social organism," he said of the army. "There is a great deal to be said for anything that brings men closer together. . . . I think it will be a rebirth of democracy. It will tear down a lot of false social barriers. It will teach young men of America that real distinctions are not distinctions of class and background, but of character, integrity and personality."

Whether Kingsley knew those things right along, or whether he has learned them quickly in the army, we don't know. It doesn't matter. They're true, and the sooner every man, woman and child in America learns them, the better for all of us.

Halting The Exodus

Many cities are worried because so many taxpayers are leaving the city to settle in suburban areas, cutting down the city's income tax, and speeding up the tendency of the less desirable city areas to degenerate into real slums.

There is only one answer, and that is to make the city areas more livable and desirable, so that people won't move out. Illinois and Chicago are working on the problem; so are New York, Michigan and Minnesota. The plans are all along lines of condemnation of the worst slum areas, and then granting tax concessions and financing inducements such as will draw private enterprise to rebuilding the deteriorated areas into places that will again be worth living in.

People in a free country are going to live where they can live best. Cities can keep them only by maintaining such conditions within the city as will make the city the best place to live.

The President designates Sunday, May 18, as "I am an American" Day. The expression sounds good enough to us for everyday use.

Regardless of what happens to prices, the cost of living remains the same with some people—all they make.

To Determine His True Position A Shipmaster "Shoots" His Stars

● With a sextant, as pictured above, the shipmaster "shoots" his stars and finds his position but there is no single fixed star by which you or your electric service company can determine daily, exactly at noon, to what extent and in how many ways it is serving you today and will serve you tomorrow.

Operating such an investor-financed enterprise rendering such a vital public service is not like running a five-man ferry-boat over a familiar course between two always visible ports—or is it even as simple as navigating a giant liner, with a 1,000-man crew, on an uncharted sea.

To determine the true position of your electric service company in the development and betterment of the community requires four-fold measurement. Its past, present and future accomplishments must be measured (1) as an efficient and economical power-generating-and-distributing agency; (2) as a tax-paying, responsible, local citizen composed of your individual fellow-citizens; (3) as an employer giving steady employment under excellent working conditions and with good pay; and (4) as an investor-financed, free, American business enterprise—assuring exceptional safety of investment and paying reasonable wages on the investment to your fellow-Americans whose money has built and will build your electric service facilities.

Think of your electric service organization as your ally in all these ways. Treat it as you like to be treated. Enable it to serve you most economically by giving it more to do.

We, the Women

By Ruth Millett

Pick out any white-haired woman of your acquaintance who is regarded as a swell person by much younger people and not as "old Mrs. So-and-so" and you'll find most of these things are true of her:

She's good to look at. The years have softened, rather than hardened her face. And she dresses carefully and smartly. The chances are she is better groomed than any woman of 25 you happen to know.

She is capable and self-assured. There's no mouse-like timidity about her. She knows her own mind and she knows her own worth.

Known for Her Kindliness

She has a kind heart. That sounds old fashioned, but it is the most important thing about this older woman who finds it easy to make friends among persons of all ages. She isn't catty and she'll go to bat for the absentee person who is getting a going over from his friends.

Of course she won't do it in a prissy, "always say good about everybody" sort of way. She'll just see—because she is a mature, intelligent adult—that the person under discussion has something on his side, and when she points it out, she'll be able to do it in a way that won't make the others feel that they are heels.

She knows what is going on in the world—and is vitally interested in today and its headlines, she isn't tempted to talk about the past.

She Makes You Feel at Ease

She has the happy gift of knowing how to make you feel that you're a pretty nice sort of person yourself.

She acts her age. That is, she lives up to your expectations of what a person of her age should be. She leaves carelessness, temper, jealousy, possessiveness to those young enough to be excused for such fault.

She enjoys life. She knows the ways of the world—but, in spite of its faults, she likes it.

Those things are pretty true, aren't they, of the white-haired friend of whom you say, "She's a perfectly swell person."

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

OUT OUR WAY

By Wm. E. McKenney

As a member of the Eastern team-of-four champions, Mrs. Stuyvesant Wainwright of New York is the first woman to have her name engraved on the Reisinger trophy. Her teammates were Oswald Jacoby, Sherman Stearns and Charles Lochridge of New York, and John R. Crawford of Philadelphia.

The Eastern Tournament is one of the oldest in the country, and was formerly conducted by the Knickerbocker Whist Club. This year it was taken over by the American Contract Bridge League. It believes that it provides the strongest competition of any tournament in the country.

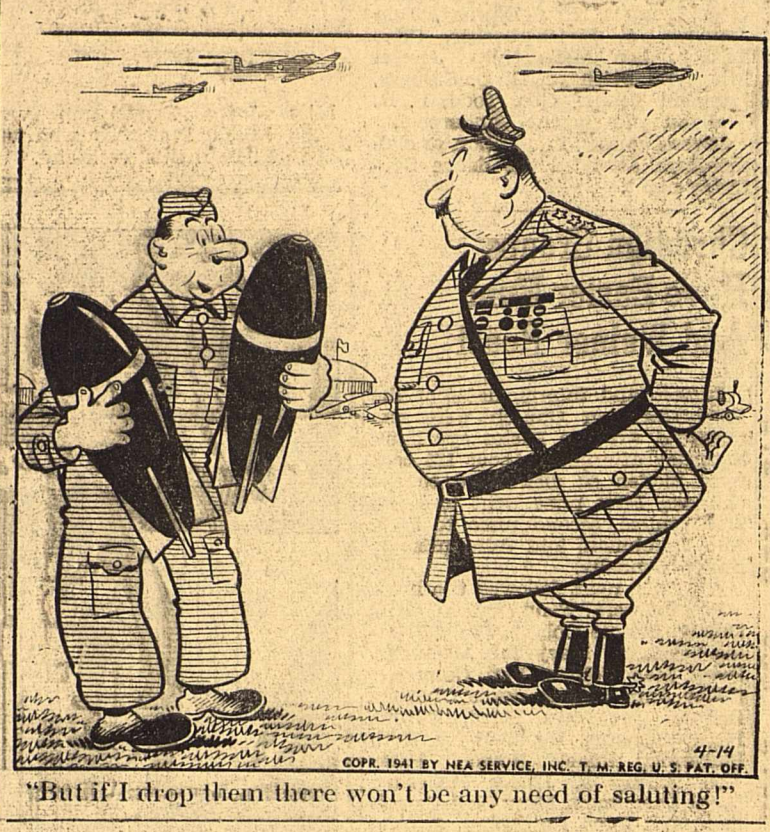

Mrs. Wainwright, a former Pittsburgh girl, was certainly thrilled when she made this contract doubled.

Mrs. Wainwright trumped the opening lead. She cashed the ace of spades and discovered the extremely bad trump break. Dummy was put in with the ace of clubs to lead a heart, which South ruffed. A second club was led. West ruffed and led another heart, which South ruffed.

Now Mrs. Wainwright led her last club. West again ruffed. But now West had no safe exit. He tried leading the nine of diamonds. Dummy played the ten, East the queen, and South the king.

The South led the eight, which held the trick when West did not cover. The defenders made only three trump tricks.

Teach Stephens Girls Best Spending Methods

COLUMBIA, Mo.—(UP)—It is just as important, Stephens College officials decided, to know how to spend money as it is to know how to earn it.

Once the decision was made, authorities at the girls' school moved on three fronts to carry out their ideas. They established a course in Personal Finance, opened a consultation office where students may obtain advice on their budgetary problems, and, third, informed the parents of their action.

The course and the clinic were established by the Institute for Consumer Education, a project of the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, Inc., through the college.

LOVE POWER BY OREN ARNOLD

Dr. Hale backed away slowly, as if hypnotized by the miracle of science that had occurred here. He knew the world's greatest secret. Miss Sormi knew. This was the discovery of centuries!

CHAPTER I
AWED by what he knew now to be true, Dr. Robert Hale backed slowly away from his observation chair, moving as if under a hypnotic spell. The sheer potency of what had occurred here seemed to have numbed him even though it was expected and planned.

He glanced once at Miss Sormi. She knew! She looked ghostly, her eyes wide as she waited there by the door, gazing back spell-bound at the great unit in full realization of what it contained. Neither spoke until they were outside.

"Robert!" She whispered it tremulously, and repeated, "Robert!"

Faces strained, they were still staring back in.

"Wait here," said he. "I'll go back and—"

"No! No, no!"

"Just to throw the switch, Leana. You know that must be done!"

The switch was a massive bar; Miss Sormi stood transfixed while he put both hands to it and pulled. The weird hum that had dominated their laboratory stopped instantly, as if genuinely glad of its own release, but the silence that followed was almost a tangible thing.

Robert glanced at the windows, verifying for the hundredth time that they were both high and barred. The steel door across the room he knew to be doubly locked.

Back near Leana Sormi, he paused only to push a button that controlled the lights, then moved outside and locked the door. They walked a hundred yards toward the offices before either spoke again.

"Don't be uneasy," he labored to say it easily himself. "Go about your personal routine."

"Yes, Robert."

"Say nothing, of course. I—I shall take the precaution of setting an armed guard. A man, several men, with rifles."

"Rifles!" She spoke contemptuously.

Dr. Hale nodded, looking afar off. "I know. Impotent now, Leana. But—only you and I know! You and I! The only two people in the world who do know! The only two people since—since Creation!"

He was literally shaking under the power of his thoughts.

"You and I," murmured Leana. "Two people. You and I."

FOR an eternity they stood there, a dark-haired, hatless young man and a blond woman in white, just thinking, trying to grasp it, striving to be sensible in the face of their achievement. A factual two minutes passed and he turned toward the office door. He inhaled deeply.

"There is no hurry," said he. "No hurry at all, Leana. We absolutely must be calm at this stage. The armed guard will serve as a precaution. It

Midland Athletes Train Attention On Regional Meet

District titleholders for the first time in several years, the Midland high track team turned its attention today to the regional meet scheduled in Marfa this week-end. Coach L. M. Freels planned to work the sprint relay team at its maximum this week. He has not decided definitely between Ivan Hall and Ken Williams as the fourth member to join Windell Williams, J. M. White, and Charles Hines in the quartet.

Individual performers, the Williams brothers, Hines and White, also will drill in their favorite events this week. It is not known whether Midland will concentrate in special events or try to win the regional title. One thing is certain—the sprint relay team—one of the state's finest—will be the center of attention in practice this week.

Letters For Six
On the basis of Saturday's showing in the district meet, Freels will have Hines, K. Williams, W. Williams, and White to enter in the regional meet. Hines will devote full time to football.

Midland high awards letters to performers who place in the district meet. With this as a basis, the following men earned sweaters Saturday: Hines, White, W. Williams, K. Williams, Ivan Hall and Charles Kelly.

First, second, third and fourth place winners are eligible to participate in the regional meet, but expenses are allowed only for first and second place winners. Freels will take a squad of four or five to Marfa.

Midland Bowlers Beat San Angelo

Midland bowlers defeated San Angelo in two match series there yesterday, 12 to 8. Games were bowled at two different alleys.

Midland's team was Jim Payne, Donkey Roberts, Richard Hoekendorf, Harry Hoekendorf, and E. B. Dozier.

Midland will enter the West Texas New Mexico tournament in Santa Fe this week-end.

Hurler Is Back For Texas League Fling

PORT WORTH, April 14—(AP)—Semi-pro baseball annually sends hundreds of youngsters into the ranks of the "all-paid."

It did the same for Veteran Geo. Milstead but in the case of Cleburne's pride it was a stepping stone back.

Milstead is beginning his twenty-first season in professional baseball. Last year he said he was washed up when he appeared in but five games for Oklahoma City of the Texas League and no decisions went into the record book.

George faded to semi-pro ranks. But the veteran left-hander found himself when Enid represented the United States in the Semi-Pro World's Series at San Juan, Puerto Rico.

That gave him confidence and he decided to return to professional ball. So he signed with the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas League and has been hurling fine ball. He had played here in 1935.

Kovacs Goes After River Oaks Singles

HOUSTON, April 14—(AP)—Frank Kovacs of Berkeley, Calif., the funny man of tennis who makes his antics pay off in titles, goes after another today — the River Oaks single crown.

Second seeded behind Defending Champion Bobby Riggs of Chicago, the California artist won five winter tournaments, including the National Indoor Championship.

Other seeded players, in order, are: Jack Kramer of Winter Park, Calif.; Ted Schroeder of Palo Alto, Calif.; Betsy Grant, Atlanta, Ga.; Frank Guernsey, Houston; Ed Alloo, Rollins College, Fla.; Bill Talbert, Cincinnati.

Women's singles and doubles, and men's doubles and junior singles begin Tuesday.

FIRST LOG DISCOVERED OF U. S. MARINE CORPS

PHILADELPHIA—(UP)—A battered and worn ledger, owned by the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, has been identified as the first log of the United States Marines.

The book was used by the Marines in 1776 when recruits were being sought for the new Continental Navy. The payroll, muster roll and many other records fill the volume's pages.

Soldiers Enjoy Recreation Room

The recreation room at 210 W. Texas apparently fills a need, if the attendance of soldiers during the first two days of its opening is an indication.

Approximately 170 men in uniform registered Saturday and Sunday, and the attendance probably exceeded that figure.

A piano, radio, game tables, magazines, and writing tables have been provided and the room is assuming a home-like atmosphere.

The room will be open from 1 to 6 p. m. week days and through the late evenings on Saturday and Sunday.

Ford Rouge Factory Resumes Operations

By The Associated Press
The huge Ford Motor Company River Rouge plant at Dearborn, Michigan, resumed operations today after a CIO strike, and "some announcement" was expected later in the day on a CIO union demand for a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase for 240,000 employees of the United States Steel Corporation.

Bethlehem Steel announced a 10-cent raise for about 90,000 employees. Soft coal mines in the Appalachian states remained idle due to a rift between southern and northern operators.

As the vanguard of about 20,000 workers went back to work at the Ford plant, officials said full-time production on assembly lines was expected in about 10 days. The plant employs 85,000 workers.

Beg Pardon Dept.

That nifty poem we ran Saturday about Bobby Jones and his 76 should have been credited to Halsey Hall of the Minneapolis Star-Journal instead of to Jack Troy of the Atlanta Constitution. (It all happened in the rush to get out to Ebbets Field on one of Larry MacPhail's 50 cent passes, gents.)

The current "pic" prints a map showing the birthplace of each major league ball player. And Gordon (Cleveland Plain-Dealer) Cobblecled gives the low down on last year's Indian uprising in Collier's.

Sporting one of the Kentucky Derby candidates, was sired by an army draft boss named Red Bug. Blue bloods, eh? Brooklyn rooters, still steaming over the high cost of Dodger passes, wouldn't be surprised if the next move of the amazing Mr. MacPhail is to charge ten a quarter to listen in on the broadcasts.

American Teams Win Spring Game Honors

By The Associated Press
While they still pay off on the regular season games, which don't start in most cities until tomorrow, the results of 1941 competition in the "Grapefruit League" point to an American League year.

There wasn't any all-star game in the south this spring, like the one which started the National League off to their unbroken string of inter-league triumphs in 1940, so the only test of power lay in the two major circuits.

American League clubs won 70 of these to earn a clear margin over the older loop.

The slugging New York Yankees topped the spring standing with a record of 25 victories and nine defeats. They won ten and lost eight against National League clubs. Following them came the Washington Senators (17-7) and the St. Louis Browns (18-8).

San Angelo Defeats Negro Team 9 To 5

Season Openers In Texas League Attract 18,500

By The Associated Press
Eighteen thousand and five hundred baseball fans who watched Detroit and the Texas League's 1941 season yesterday got two story-pilot finishes for their money.

The Houston Buffs, defending champions rated by league sports writers as top choice again, had no easy task in winning 2 to 1, from the Exporters at Beaumont before a crowd of 7,500.

After four scoreless innings the Buffs were handed a run in the fifth on an error after two were away. The Shippers talked in the seventh and Houston sent Pinch-hitter Ed Filo to bat in the ninth to try to break the deadlock. And he came across with a single that scored Ervin Dusak from second.

Washington Delivers
The Shreveport Sports won their home game before 6,000 the same way. They were tied 2-2 in the last of the ninth with the San Antonio Missions, with a man on first itching to go in. Veteran Vernon Washington, outfielder who had broken up many a game before, walked to the plate, waved his bat and sank a Texas leaguer that scored Ray Taylor for the game.

The Fort Worth Cats gave warning they didn't intend to win for keeps. Their last year's cellar position by going on a seven-run rampage in the first inning and defeating the Dallas Rebels, 9 to 5. Ed Beartracks Greer, the veteran feline hurler who won't wear out, went the route and scattered ten hits before 5,000 homefolk.

The two Oklahoma teams, Tulsa and Oklahoma City play their opener tonight. Rain washed out yesterday's game.

Today's schedule:
Dallas at Fort Worth (Night).
Tulsa at Oklahoma City (Night).
Houston at Beaumont.
San Antonio at Shreveport.

Bulldogs To Drill Under Clark Today Regardless Of Rain

Rain threat will not make any difference to the Midland High Bulldogs today as Coach Earle Clark's lightweights enter the third week of spring training. A drill is slated this afternoon and daily throughout the week.

Clark intends to speed up drills to the climax game with the departing seniors which will close the spring practice.

With the track season waning, several Bulldogs will give their entire attention to football.

Blocking and tackling was stressed last week and these fundamentals plus more offensive thunder will be infused in this week's drills.

Jameson Withdraws From Meet Leaving Defender Favorite

HOUSTON, April 14—(AP)—Shorn of much of its glamor through the absence of National Champion Betty Jameson, the Texas Women's Golf Association tournament opened today, with a field of 98 hopefuls swarming over the wind-blown Country Club course.

Betty, the winsome San Antonio girl who won the title four straight years, from 1936-1939, announced yesterday she would not attempt to regain the championship she lost last year.

The mere fact that Betty would be her opponent was enough to unnerve the average golfer.

With her out of the way, several players felt their lot improved by a great margin. Among the superior linkswomen expected to challenge Mrs. Goldthwaite were Kay Pearson of Houston; Mrs. E. R. Hury of San Antonio, and Mrs. E. H. Wohlfahrt of Houston.

Navy Gets Ready To Fortify Ships

WASHINGTON, April 13—(AP)—The navy was understood today to be preparing for the swift arming of hundreds of government and privately-owned merchant vessels should such action become necessary.

In addition, Congress has provided funds to enable the navy to acquire equipment to protect such vessels against magnetic mines.

President Roosevelt's action last week in opening the Red Sea to American shipping stirred conjecture as to whether United States merchant vessels carrying supplies to African ports would be armed in view of Adolf Hitler's threat to torpedo all ships carrying supplies for the British.

Meet Sammy, Mascot Of 197th C. A. At Army Encampment

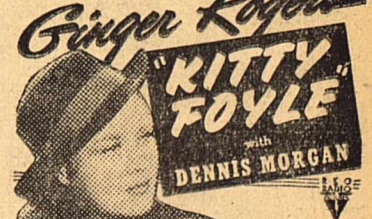

Meet Sammy, pet coon and mascot of the 197th C. A. (AA) of the Provisional Searchlight Battalion on maneuvers in Midland.

Sammy belongs to Sgt. F. R. Tyrrell of the 197th. However Tyrrell complains that the soldiers of his outfit fight over whose bunk Sammy will be chained to.

The soldier got the coon from a man in Midland. The animal has the run of Tyrrell's tent and bunk. It burrows down among the bed clothing to sleep.

Tyrrell, of New Hampshire, is a trainer of coon dogs and has sold a number of registered animals to Texas hunters. His Texas coon is smaller and lighter than those in New Hampshire, Tyrrell says.
