A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Frankness Is A Sterling Virtue
Set before yourself this contrast: When Mussolini's legion were kicked out of Libya by General Wavell's sensational offensive, the world was treated to a series of elaborate alibis.

When the Germans kicked the British back out of Libya in an even more sensational campaign, Churchill admitted bluntly to the House of Commons, "we were outsmarted," and that though the German force was scarcely larger than the British, they had won because the British had missed opportunities and fumbled the ball.

Capital Agrees Flight Is Blow To Nazi Morale

WASHINGTON, May 13—(AP)—Diplomatic circles seemed agreed today that the melodramatic flight of Rudolf Hess to Britain would be a great blow to the morale of the German people, no matter what explanation they accept.
Both the official German and the British accounts of the war's strangest episode, it was said, contain elements that can hardly be reassuring to the average man in the Third Reich.
These sources reasoned as follows: The German version speaks of Hess "falling health for years" and raises doubts as to his sanity, at least at the time he decamped. Inasmuch as Hess continued active in important government and Nazi party affairs almost to the end, the inevitable question arises as to Hess' mental condition for some time past.

Girl Scout Troop 2 celebrated its first birthday anniversary, Monday with a mother-father-daughter picnic at Cloverdale Park.

Troop members invited as their guests the girls of the newly-organized Troop 3 and their mothers and fathers.

M. C. Ulmer offered the invocation, after which the Scouts were seated in a circle to eat. They made a wish on the large single candle burning in the center of the green and gold birthday cake decorated with the Girl Scout trefol.

Those present sang, "Happy Birthday, Girl Scouts."

Four Scouts, Sharon Cornelius, Janice Knickerbocker, Phoebe Lewis, and Camilla Crawford read a poem written by Sharon to Mrs. F. B. Kingon, who is resigning as leader of the troop. The poem, in ten stanzas, briefly looked backward over the history of the Girl Scouts here and paid honor to the work of Mrs. Kingon. It was a presentation tribute to the retiring leader who was at its close presented with a gift.

Approximately 100 people attended. Mrs. Jimmie Wilson was in charge

MUSTANG BOYS' CLUB COLUMN

The "woim toined" yesterday afternoon when the Bedford Bruisers defeated the Mustangs 11 to 8. Another game is expected Thursday. Recently some good samples of sportsmanship have been noticed at these games. This is a treat. The writer visited, not long ago, a large boys club in a large city. Spread all over the north wall of the main club room were these words—"When the great scorer writes against your name, he writes—not that you won or lost, but how you played the game." Who remembers the home runs we make but who fails to remember a good sportsman when he sees one. The market is flooded with beefers and brawlers and poor losers. These can be bought for two cents on the dollar. We also may well consider snooty winners in the same class with poor losers. We wonder who were able to get some good pictures of the recent "Pet Parade". The club would be pleased to borrow the negatives long enough to have some good prints made for the club rooms. The police request that the Mustang Boys Club cooperate with them by observing the traffic rules and by trying to make Midland a town noted for its safety. Lets play ball with the law, speaking particularly about bicycles. There's a good reason behind every safety rule. Why has Midland no tinker shop? —NUFF SED.

POLISHED OFF

By William E. McKenney
America's Card Authority

My next stop on the return from Florida was Asheville, N. C., where I went to make arrangements for the annual Southern Appalachian Sectional Championship of the American Contract Bridge League, which will be held about Aug. 22-24.

As I walked into the hotel I couldn't help but think of last year's tournament, in which three teams tied for first place. There was a local team, another team headed by Oswald Jacoby, and the team of which I was a member. The tie was broken by a playoff, and we fortunately won the championship.

My partner during the match was Waldemar von Zedwitz, who sat East. Our teammates were A. M. Barnes and Mrs. Wilkinson Wagar, both of Atlanta. I'll always claim that perhaps the world's greatest card analyst is Von Zedwitz, and an example of his play is given below.

From the bidding it looks as though both West and North were afraid that the other side was trying to steal something.

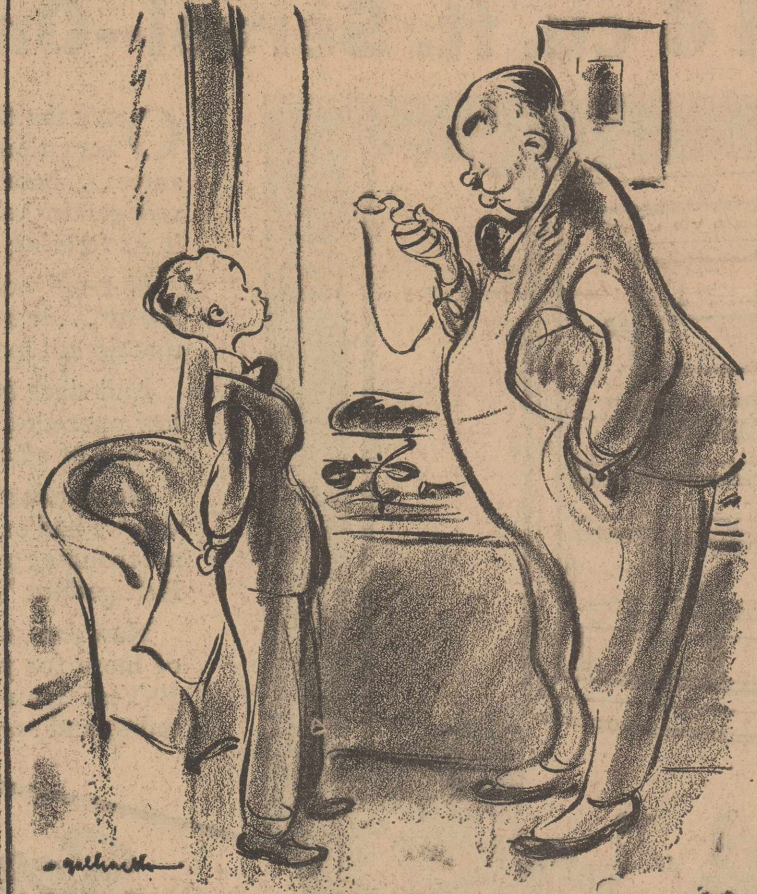

After winning the first trick, South led a low spade, North finessed against the dummy, and Von Zedwitz ruffed. He laid down the ace of hearts. When the jack fell, he decided it was a singleton. His next move was to lead a low diamond and let South's ten hold.

North defended well by over-taking the ten with the jack and leading a second diamond. The ace won, and dummy led the heart for a winning finesse of the nine.

Now Von Zedwitz led his third diamond. South by this time saw that it was important not to lead a spade, so he exited with a club. But dummy's jack held, and a spade was led for East to ruff and shorten up.

Then a low club put dummy in again with the king to cash the long diamond. North properly discarded his last club, but when Von Zedwitz discarded the ace of clubs, dummy was left in the lead to pick up North's trumps on the last two tricks.

SERIAL STORY

THREE TO MAKE READY

BY W. H. PEARS

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Paula Jeffers, Chris Wentrich and Tony Beale have been pals through four years of college. Now, as commencement nears, Paula and Tony view the future seriously, but Chris refuses to mope over leaving Cardman. Paula begs him to be careful, not to get into any scrapes before graduation. Chris laughs at her fears, but does not promise.

CHAPTER II

THE memory of a kiss pulled Paula's mind away from Dr. Martin Lud's lecture. Usually his class was one of her favorites, but not today. She caught fragments of the talk, but her mind seemed only large enough to hold Chris.

"Suppose we ask ourselves a question," Lud suggested. "What is the eventual aim of these..."

Again Paula's mind drifted. What was the eventual aim of Chris? He had kissed her. That in itself was pretty startling. Long ago Chris had decided that love was too tame. The only effect a moonlight night had on him was to make him want to chase the moon. He asked of life only that it give him plenty of thrills and excitement.

Then why had he kissed her this morning? Was it simply to avoid making a promise? Or had she really sensed a tenderness in the touch of his lips? Paula tried to ignore the sudden jump of her heart at the thought. Why, the whole idea was silly! Chris was completely self-sufficient, yet...

Paula shook her head impatiently. What was wrong with her? Moping like a high school girl over her first love!

For several moments she gave her undivided attention to Dr. Lud. But before she knew it her thoughts were fitting motes back to the flame that was Chris.

Paula Jeffers decided to face the issue squarely. She was in love with Chris. Before long, if she did nothing about it, Chris would walk under Cardman Arch and she might never see him again. Her only hope was to crack his brittle crust and find out what lay beneath.

She must be alone with Chris often, without Tony...

Paula's eyes followed the diagonal slant of a sunbeam across the classroom. It stretched downward, bursting into white flame as it touched Kilo Sherwood's hair. Involuntarily Paula thought, "What a stunning creature!"

A NIMBUS of mystery hung about Kilo's slim shoulders. Little was known of her except that she headed the Anti-Fraternity League, a group of students whose goal was the elimination of fraternities and sororities from Cardman. They denounced "campus cafe-society" and harried their Greek-letter opponents at every opportunity.

Until recently no one had taken the League's activities seriously. Then it had made the mistake of kidnaping one by one the musicians playing for a Pan-Hellenic dance at which President Van Horn was guest of honor.

The following morning Van Horn issued an ultimatum. The faculty was tolerant. It held the principles of free speech and personal liberty sacred. But the League had gone too far. Either it would refrain from interfering with the rights of other groups or it would disband.

This statement had served merely to drive the League to cover. They now held their meetings in secret, their zeal unabated. Everyone on the campus knew it. Perhaps the faculty also knew it. Possibly to avoid open dissension in Cardman.

Dr. Lud was saying, "I believe it is our duty to resist these changes..."

Illustrated by Carol Johnson

Paula had heard that this Kilo Sherwood was making a "big play" for Chris. Now Kilo was smiling, as Chris argued.

Paula saw Kilo Sherwood lean toward Chris, seated next to her, and whisper. Chris stopped nibbling an orange, grinned. Kilo locked slim hands together, gave them a little shake of encouragement.

"I'm scared, Tony," Paula admitted. "Chris has got that look in his eye. I've seen it before. It means trouble. Remember when he let all the air out of Dean Larson's tires, and—"

"Paulie, those were kid jokes. But getting mixed up with this League outfit might be more serious. Oh, sure, I know they're just a bunch of brainless nuts, but Van Horn hates that sort of thing on the campus. He'll let them alone so long as they keep quiet. But if Chris starts running with them he won't let them keep quiet. Just before Commencement is no time to stir up trouble..."

Paula's lips trembled angrily. "Oh, Tony, Chris wouldn't have blown off if she hadn't..."

Tony nodded. "I saw it, too, Paulie. But we mustn't get sore at Chris. We've got to keep him from doing something crazy."

"You're talking this thing pretty seriously, Tony," Paula's hazel eyes were shrewd. "Do you know something I don't?"

Tony met her gaze. "Bill Jenks has come over from the city. I saw him hanging around the Sweetland. That scandal sheet he works for doesn't waste time nor money on anything that isn't pretty sensational."

"What could it be?" Paula asked.

"I don't know," Tony admitted. "But my hunch is that something's in the wind, and that it concerns the League. That's why I want to talk to Chris tonight... Here he comes now. I'll beat it before he sees us with our heads together."

CHRIS looked a bit sheepish. "I gave the old boy a prod, didn't I, Paulie?"

"You certainly did!" Paula retorted. "Chris, why did you do it?"

"Because that 'no change' stuff burns me up!"

"Look, Chris," Paula said. "I'm in a rush now to catch another class. How about you and Tony and me doing something tonight?"

"Tonight?" Chris shuffled his feet. "Well..."

Paula saw a silver-blond head approaching. It bent close to Chris's ear for an instant as Kilo said softly, "You won't forget to pick me up at 7:30, Chris?" Then she was gone.

Chris said weakly, "I—I'm sorry, Paulie, but I'm all tied up..."

CLASSIFIEDS—SMALL COST—BIG RESULTS

Today's Guest Star Roy Shudt, Troy (N. Y.) Times-Record: "Does it strike you as odd how the big boys are bowing out in order? ... First it was Babe Ruth, wearing No. 3 ... Then Lou Gehrig, No. 4 ... Last week it was Hank Greenberg, No. 5 ... No. 6?"

The Sports Parade Up in Boston they refer to Joe DiMaggio merely as Dom DiMaggio's brother ... Eddie Rickenbacker is writing friends he positively will attend the Indianapolis 500-mile race—and that's great news for all ... Pete Coscarart would be playing second base for Montreal if the Giants would let him get out of the league ... George Abrams, Ken Overlin's stablemate, will headline the army-navy boxing show Gene Tunney is staging Saturday at Jacksonville ... Larry MacPhail is so high on television he is toying with the idea of piping the World's Series into a half-dozen Brooklyn theaters—if the Dodgers are in there, of course ... "The Sporting News" has issued its 1941 record book and it's a "must" on your sports reading program.

Today's True Story Two weeks ago a friend long-distanced Hank Greenberg from Honolulu ... He said: "You've got to have more power if you're going to start hitting homers ... I'm sending you four cases of pineapples ... Last Tuesday the pineapples arrived ... And on Wednesday Hank hit his first two homers of the year.

Latest to go are Waner, Bartell and Mungo, whose combined term of major league service up to this season totals 39 years. The first two drew their outright releases from Brooklyn and Detroit Sunday. At the same time Mungo was taken off the Dodgers' active list with indications that he soon will join Carleton at Montreal. Carleton was shipped down to the Brooklyn "farm" a couple of weeks ago, just about a year after he had pitched a no-hit game against the Champion Cincinnati Reds.

The Boston Bees cast off Ferrell and Averill within the past week or two after taking them from American League clubs at the start of the season. Another colorful baseball character, Zeke Bonura, never got to start this season, winding up at Minneapolis after arguing about the contract the Cubs offered him.

Southern Methodist Beats Horned Frogs FORT WORTH, May 13—(AP)—In a listless Southwest Conference baseball contest, Southern Methodist defeated the Texas Christian Horned Frogs 9-4 yesterday. The game was played in place of one rained out sometime ago.

Veteran Pitcher Defeats Houston By The Associated Press Well, Well! Another chapter in the youth versus age controversy.

Well, Well! Another chapter in the youth versus age controversy. Veteran Ed Greer, who was pitching when Howard Pollet was toying with a rattle, took the 19-year-old Houston star over the bumps at Ft. Worth last night and turned in a neat 3-2 victory for the Cats in the seventh-inning nightcap of a Texas League baseball doubleheader.

Pollet's first reverse in five starts. The Buifs took the initial contest by the score of 8-3, with Freddy Martin getting credit for his fifth consecutive win.

The fifth-place Beaumont Exporters came to life and took both ends of a doubleheader from Oklahoma City on the latter's grounds, the curtain-raiser to the tune of 6 to 2 and the finale, called at the end of the sixth, by the score of 6 to 4.

In the two other league games, also played at night, Tulsa sledge-gunned Shreveport 6 to 1 at Tulsa and Dallas hit at the right time to defeat San Antonio 7 to 3 and wind up a three-game series on the home field.

British Believe Italian Ship Sunk In Sea Fight ABOARD A BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLAG SHIP, May 13—(AP)—Italy's powerful 35,000-ton battleship Vittorio Veneto is generally believed by the British to have been sunk.

Frequent British aerial reconnaissance over Italian seaports since the battle of Matapan March 28 have failed to disclose any trace of the vessel.

The apparent failures of Italian radio broadcasts to refer to any return to port by the battleship after the battle of Matapan strengthens this belief.
