Judge Collings Defines Charge In Detail To Jurors

Midland Man Contends He Was Not Under Influence Of Liquor The Thurmon case jury was still deliberating at 3:30 p.m.

The fate of W. P. Thurmon, Jr., indicted for murder while in the performance of another felony, was placed in the hands of a district court jury at noon to-

Immediately after receiving the case the jury was taken to lunch.

Final arguments for the state were made by District Attorney Martelle McDonald of Big Spring and County Attorney Merritt Hines.

Thurmon's argument was presented by C. C. McDonald, Wichita Falls attorney.

In his charge to the jury Judge Cecil C. Collings defined in detail the charges of murder and driving while intoxicated. The state charges Thurmon was intoxicated last Decrash and Mrs. Hays was injured

Devotion

Lay the flowers gently on the sod, prop the wreath carefully against the monument. The dead will not hear, nor see, nor smell, nor be disturbed. They had their hour; brief it was. They were cut down in their youth and in their strength.

Before the unseen bullet came or the unheard shell detonated, they lived many lives in one. They knew the sweet knowledge of what it is to put something else before self. Many do not learn this in a long lifetime, though it is one of the things we are put on earth to learn.

These men we honor today died for us. They died because, with what vision was granted to them at the time, it seemed the only way to preserve something more precious than life.

Did you ever talk to soldiers? You wouldn't hear them say anything like that. If the subject were brought up, you would get only a deprecatory shrug, a swift change of subject. Men who become soldiers don't talk about saving democracy, or of devotion to freedom. Don't let that fool you. The devotion is there, too deep for expression sometimes, too latent for thought, but it is there.

It was there in all of these dead when they were young and tanned and strong. Because they had it; because, though any of them would have fumbled and blushed, and denied his devotion, it was deep within him even to death; because of these things we are what we are evening before the accident. Armo

America's Card Authority.

D. Bruce Burnstone has held the lead among the Master Point holders since the system was inaugurated. Before moving to California from New York, Burnstone played in all the championship matches of the Four Aces, but has been out of tournament competition since 1938, when he and his teammates won the World Championship Masters

Oswald Jacoby has been striving to pass Burnstone for years, and although he lost the Vanderbilt Championship in the last round, Jacoby received sufficient Master Points for his runner-up position to give him the grand total of 1338 -six more than Burnstone.

Out of every championship match there is one hand that brings forth a great deal of comment and discussion. While Jacoby went down on this hand, a great many players were of the opinion that he played the hand correctly.

Jacoby had to make a sheer guess on the opening lead — a guess as to which opponent held the king of diamonds. What he actually did was to put up the ace of diamonds, cash the ace of trumps with out a finesse, then cash rounds of clubs, discarding his two diamonds. But East ruffed the third club and West still had his king of trumps.

Of course, we can all see that by ducking the first lead, Jacoby could have made a grand slam. The question is, what is the correct line of play, when you don't see all four hands? If Jacoby's line of play would win if the clubs were split 3-3, or 4-2 with the hand holding two clubs also holding Kx in spades.

Some experts argue it is better to accept both finesses in diamonds and spades if necessary Others prefer the plan of playing the ace of diamonds, and running three clubs at once for discards. This plan would leave the spade finesse as a last resort. What do you think is the best chance?

Will Open Bids For REA Lines

Bids will be opened today at the Caprock Electric Cooperative, Big Spring, for a 25-mile extension of REA lines into Midland County.

O. B. Bryan, district supervisor, said $16,000 had been allotted for the work. He stated bids might, be under that figure.

Laying of the lines is expected immediately. The network will be in the south part of Midland County. Another allotment is expected for lines in the north sector of the county.

Says U.S. Planes Will Surpass Others

NEW ORLEANS, May 30-(AP)-An air force commander who won his wings more than a quarter-century ago believes United States planes will surpass any others and will be piloted by men "born to fly." He is Major General John Curry, commander general of the Second Air Force, who said he still can "take them up and set them down." Major Curry and his staff arrived here yesterday on a tour of inspection and coordination of the nation's air defense. General Curry said in an up with: interview. "We're working hard. We're going to have types of air-planes superior to anything the world ever has seen. When mass production starts, they'll come pouring out in a flood. And these American youngsters are born fliers." Cameraman, Grieved Over LOS ANGELES, May 30-(AP.)-

Rebels Win Over Bryant And Tulsa

By The Associated Press

Apparently Clay Bryant, the former Chicago Cub pitcher, isn't finding the warm southwestern sun as restorative as he had and his bosses had hoped.

Bryant, sent to the Texas League in the belief that a little heat would take the kinks out of an ailing arm, has dropped three of four games in which he has started with the Tulsa Oilers. He experienced his latest reverse last night when the Dallas Rebels at Tulsa opened up on him before he could get a man out and went on to win the game by the score of 9 to 8.

In the only other contest of the night, Ted Cieslak played the hero by cracking out a single in the sixth with the bases loaded to drive in two runs that enabled the Indians to whip the Fort Worth Cats 3-0 at Oklahoma City
