Carter urges NATO to build up 'muscle'

By FRANK CORMIER

LONDON (AP) — President Carter told the NATO allies today Western Europe needs more military muscle because Communist forces are much stronger than they need to be to defend the Soviet Bloc.

Making his debut as leader of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Carter told a special summit meeting of the alliance the United States is ready "to make a major effort" to improve NATO's strength. and he urged the other 14 members to

Carter called for a committee of NATO defense ministers to study the military status of all alliance members and report at another summit meeting in Washington next May.

"The threat facing the alliance has grown steadily in recent years," Carter said. "The Soviet Union has achieved essential, strategic nuclear equivalents. Its (European) theater nuclear forces have been strengthened. The Warsaw Pact's conventional forces in Europe emphasize an offensive posture.

'These forces are much stronger than needed for any defense purpose. Since 1965, new ground and air weapons have been introduced in most major categories: self-propelled artillery, mobile tactical missiles, mobile air-defense guns, armored personnel carriers, tactical aircraft and tanks. The Pact's buildup continues undiminished.

The President indicated achievement of such goals as recognition of human rights, mutual troop reductions in Central Europe and nuclear arms agreements depends "on a credible defense and deterrent."

He urged the allies to do more to "improve cooperation in development, production and procurement of weapons, saying they "should not be weakened militarily by waste and overlapping" nor "by disputes over where to buy defense equipment."

He promised U.S. cooperation in promoting "a genuinely two-way trans-Atlantic trade in defense equip-

"I have instructed the secretary of defense to seek increased opportunities to buy European defense equipment where this would mean efficient use of allied resources," he said. "I will work with the Congress of the United States to this end.'

Midland officials plot loop tactics

By JIM STEINBERG

Although the whole strategy has not been ironed out, officials here came closer Monday to agreeing on what they will tell the state highway department in Austin June 30 when they seek approval of a north loop road around Midland and a new road between Midland and Odessa.

The Midland County Commissioners and Midland City Council met with the Highway Committee of the Chamber of Commerce to discuss plans for a presentation to the high-

In dispute before - and after - the session was whether the city and county bodies would agree to tell Austin they would pay 100 per cent of the right-of-way costs or the 50 per cent customary for such roadbuilding ventures.

The state would be more receptive to the plan if the local government footed all the right-of-way costs. Gene Abbott, chairman of the chamber's highway committee, said.

Social Security not secure

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's plan for shoring up the financially troubled Social Security system was criticized by House opponents today as a gimmick and "a brazen show of fiscal legerdemain."

Rep. Joe Waggoner, D-La., No. 2 Democrat on the House Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security, said using income tax revenues to help finance the pension fund would "make Social Security a welfare matter and this looks dangerous to me.'

Rep. Bill Archer of Texas, ranking Republican on the panel, told Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare, that his presentation of the Carter plan to the subcommittee should have been labeled "President Carter's magic

Archer accused Carter of "fiscal legerdemain" in the Social Security

And Archer said the President's plan to use income taxes for Social Security in times of high unemployment was comparable to the 'gimmick' of basing federal spending on the revenues that might be expected in times of low unemployment. On Monday, the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon, said he saw no need to make the far-reaching changes Carter wants in order to solve short-term Social Security

Byrd, without committing himself to details, said some action is needed to shore up the system. Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker said he would favor using taxes to save the fund if the alternative were bankruptcy for Social Security.

Under Carter's proposals, changes in Social Security would be felt starting in two years.

Col. C. E. Bissell dies; services Wednesday

Col. Clarence Eugene "Bud" Bissell (Ret.), 83, a 35-year Midland resident, died in his home, 416 E. Pine St., Monday. He had been in declining health the last several years.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church, of which he was a longtime member and ruling elder emeritus. Dr. Robert Boynton Smith, senior minister, will officiate at the services. A military service will be held in the Valhalla Mausoleum. Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Col. Bissell was born Sept. 7, 1893, at Manchester, Conn., and was educated in the public schools of that state. He was a veteran of both World Wars I and II and served in the Reserve Forces following both con-

He first entered the U.S. military in 1910, serving as an officer in the Cavalry until 1919. He also saw some service in the Infantry.

He re-enlisted in the military in 1942 and was assigned to the U.S. Army Air Force, rising to the rank of colonel. He was separated from active service in 1946.

He served with the American Expeditionary Forces in Europe and received a citation from Gen. John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief, for 'exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services.

Col. Bissell came to Midland in 1942 as commandant of cadets at Midland Army Air Field. His family accompanied him here. They remained in Midland during his World War II assignments, with the colonel returning to Midland following the war to establish permanent residence

His other World War II assignments included tours of duty at Ft. Hayes, Ohio: Dalhart, Tex., Rapid City,

S.D., and Pyote, Tex.

He also had served as commanding officer of the 9816th Volunteer Air Reserve Training Squadron with headquarters here, after his World War II service.

Col. and Mrs. Bissell were married Oct. 7, 1922, at Ridgewood, N.J. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1972.

Bissell had engaged in the life in-surance business in Midland from 1946 until his retirement from active business about two years ago.

He was recognized as one of the Southwest's most outstanding and best-known amateur archeologists. He was a director of the West Texas Museum of Texas Tech. He also played a leading role in the discovery and excavation of the "Midland Woman" in the sand dunes near Midland several years ago.

He and Mrs. Bissell had done archeological work over a vast area of West Texas. They had one of the finest and largest collections in this part of the country, which they donated to the Museum of the Southwest last year.

Sam Logan didn't . . . until he saw the honeybees busily at work in upside-down glass jars. "He can't get over that," Wilson said of his city friend, who had ac-

He wasn't. Wilson has two working beehives. In each one are six 11/2-quart widemouth jars — a showplace of honeycombed activity. ". . . Lots of people, they just can't get over it," Wilson said of his jarred

Wilson knows what he's doing. He's got a couple of sound reasons for his unorthodox hives. First, he's allergic to bee stings.

And the jar approach cuts down on the number of stings. The bees don't get so upset and aggravated when he merely lifts the honeycomb-laden jars from the topside of the hives. However, they really get flustered by the conventional approach to honey robbing. Secondly, the jar method makes honey stealing fairly easy and un-

And there was a challenge right in his own backyard. A swarm of bees just hankering for a home was clustered around a peach tree limb.

Thousands of worker bees were huddled into a solid pack. Some others were flying around. Meanwhile, the scouts were out looking for a permanent lodging place for the homeless swarm. Only the day before, the bees and a queen (either the old one or a new one) had fled Wilson's overcrowded hive.

"The queen and the drones are in there somewhere," he said. "The queen's in the middle of it. They are protecting her."

But first, he would don the veil and some other protective clothing before he moved the swarm from the tree limb to a beehive.

Initially, they might not appreciate the manmade move. They just might sting the man who's trying to be their

Wilson has been into beekeeping for six or seven years. It's a pasttime. His money-making job is as a main-tenance engineer for a Midland bank; he works the nightshift. Before that, he was in the waterwell business.

The President flew here form London Monday afternoon for his first encounter with Assad after a two-day economic summit conference with leaders of the United States' industrial allies and a meeting Monday morning on the status of Berlin.

For Carter, with his acute sense of symbolism, the trip to this city that aymbolizes neutrality may have had special significance. The President has already met in Washington with other major leaders in the Middle East — Yitzahk Rabin when he was still Prime Minister of Israel, President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and King Hussein of Jordan.

But to meet Assad, a key figure in any Middle East peace settlement, Carter had to fly here, where the two leaders met in Assad's suite and later had dinner hosted by Carter.

Assad, the most solidly entrenched of the Arab leaders, has been considered a hard-liner in dealing with Israel and the most vocal champion of the Palestinians' cause. For years he was aligned with the Soviet Union but recently has shown more openness toward the West.

Nonetheless, before meeting with Carter Monday, Assad made it a point to fly to Moscow last month for two days of talks with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev

Odessa recently purchased land in Midland County to construct a second water treatment plant near the existing one in southeast Ector County. The application concerns runoff from this proposed plant. In another matter, the com-

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP) -Roland Brusco planned a vacation trip to get the family reacquainted. That it did, but only after the vacation turned into a fiery nightmare in the Canary Brusco, his wife and his mother survived the March 27 collision of two Boeing 747s at Tenerife de Santa Cruz. At least 580 people died in the crash, the worst in aviation history.

The experience, says the 29year-old Brusco, manager of a family towboat business, has taught him to appreciate life in ways he didn't before.

"I just love to get out of bed in the morning to get started on another day," he said in an interview. "I hadn't really thought of death in a personal way, but now I feel like I have a second

"Before I left, it was like pulling teeth to get me to leave the office," he said. "I was a machine....business was everything.

"Since I've come back ... my values have changed," he said. "It's hard to explain, but now I spend more time with my family. My wife and I have gotten to know each other better.

"I would say I've really enjoyed life since I got back.' Brusco said since the brush with death, family life has become more meaningful. His wife has quit her job as secretary of the business and does things she always thought she didn't have time for.

Brusco's three children by a former marriage were not on the vacation, but "the whole thing brought us all closer together."

"My mother was there in the hospital," he said. "She said, 'You saved my life.' I said, 'It's okay. I owed you one for giving

Brush with death Smith resignation part of plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new British-U.S. plan to make Rhodesia an independent black-ruled state by Sept. 24, 1978, foresees the resignation of Prime Minister Ian Smith and his government by next summer.

Sources here say the resignation of the Smith government would clear the way for immediate cancellation of the United Nations embargo against Rhodesia as well as for a cease-fire between white-led Rhodesian forces and black guerrillas.

The sources say the plan, which is to be unveiled this week, will call for the resignation of Smith and his Rhodesia Front government about three months before Rhodesia actually comes under black control as an independent state.

"Smith's white regime would hand over all powers to a provisional regime that would hold the ring during the brief final phase." one senior diplomat reported.

The U.S.-British accord was reached in London last Friday by British Foreign Secretary Dr. David Owen and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance. Sources say they resolved to dispense with the convening of a Rhodesian constitution-writing conference of the kind that collapsed in Geneva last year.

Owen and Vance intend, instead, to

"British-American presence" either a major gain in winning the backing in Lusaka, Zambia, or in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania.

The British element is to be headed by a senior Foreign Office diplomat, John Graham, a specialist in African affairs. The chief U.S. envoy probably has been chosen by Vance, but senior State Department officials here say they do not know who he will be.

The British are the major architects of the plan, which in all stages was closely checked with Washington. The British, lacking power themselves to assert any kind of authority, consider they have made of the United States for a peace plan that needs the clout of a major power to make it work.

Sources gave this rundown of the apparently unique diplomatic procedure the British and Americans will use in seeking support from all of the factions in conflict over Rhodesia:

-From their Lusaka or Dar es Salaam base, the British and Americans will consult with each of the rival black nationalist factions who intend calling the new state Zimbabwe instead of Rhodesia, which was named after the 19th century British entrepeneur Cecil Rhodes.

-Leaders of those black factions will be invited to confer with the British and-or Americans, but if they fail to show, high-level British and U.S. officials will trek through the bush country, by air or overland, to seek them out for talks.

-The U.S. and British envoys will consult, too, with the Smith govern-ment, probably in Salisbury because white Rhodesian delegates or Smith himself would not be welcome in Zambia or Tanzania.

Study raps rural post offices

WASHINGTON (AP) - The financially ailing Postal Service could operate more effectively and save an estimated $490 million a year by shutting the doors on post offices in some 17,000 rural communities, a government study says.

As an example of offices that should be closed, the study cites 10 facilities which it calls examples of extreme inefficiency, since they account for less than $150 worth of business a

"Assuming an average transaction of $1 (which is rather low), they average less than one-third of a transaction per day," the study says.

The study, prepared for the Postal Service board of governors, says there would be no immediate rash of closings and that further studies would be needed. The Postal Services maintains post offices in an estimated 30,000 communities.

The study also says surveys show that rural residents who oppose post office closings find them "highly satisfactory once they occur.

"Among those whose offices have been closed, there is a high degree of satisfaction with the new services they are receiving," the study says. Despite the conclusion, the report's assertion that closings will not hurt service is certain to be challenged in Congress. Previous Postal Service attempts to cut the number of offices have run into heavy opposition from representatives from rural districts.

One foe of past Postal Service cuts, Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., is promising another battle.

Glomar Explorer rests officials ponder fate

"She's a treasure hunter and that should be exploited," said Rep. Robert Leggett, D-Calif. "How many ships were lost during World War II? Literally thousands. There is much to be recovered."

The 36,000-ton vessel was built at a cost of $550 million to raise a sunken Russian submarine in 1974. It has the capacity to lift objects from 18,000 feet below the ocean surface

Government officials have refused to comment publicly, but published reports have said the vessel managed to salvage part of the Russian sub.

The Explorer's huge hold is a cavern the size of an aircraft hangar used to store whatever the ship's cranes and cables lift from the ocean depths. Nine-foot-thick gates in the hold floor open to permit objects to be hauled inside.

The Explorer, which arrived here in January, is expected to lie at anchor off this town 20 miles north of San Francisco for about five years while feasibility studies are conducted.

Ethiopia goes astray

Ethiopia seemingly was playing one of the oldest diplomatic games of all when it ordered some 350 Americans to leave Eritrea recently. It wants to have the best of both worlds.

The Americans were expelled, according to the Ethiopian government, to remove the "tentacles of imperialism," which contradict the ideology of its socialistic revolution.

But - and here's where the two worlds part comes in - Ethiopia did not close the United States embassy in Addis Abbaba. And it will continue to accept some U.S. aid. At the same time, Ethiopia will begin to receive Soviet aid and military equipment.

The Carter administration apparently interprets the Ethiopian policy as "an effort to bring the U.S. presence down to the level of other embassies."

In other words, the special relationship which has existed between the United States and Ethiopia for a generation - from the early 1950s until the removal of Emperor Haile Selassie - has ended.

As the Copley Newspaper Service points out, whatever assistance the United States gives Ethiopia could be used against it and all Western nations.

While Ethiopia is not a threatening military power, it is a nation with substantial resources. And it is strategically located on the horn of Africa where it can influence transportation routes through the Red Sea and the Suez Canal with the aid of the Soviet Union.

The U.S. response to Ethiopia has been tepid at best - an "expression of regret." At the very least it should have been an expression of outrage. Better yet, the United States should make it clear to Ethiopia that we cannot and will not subsidize Soviet domination of northern Africa.

Ethiopia has eaten U.S. cake -$600 million worth in the last quarter of a century. It cannot have it too.

Agnew was drummed out of the vice presidency in 1973, and Park fled from a Justice Department investigation two years later - the former for allegedly accepting bribes, the latter for allegedly paying bribes.

They have now combined their talents in pursuit of international business deals. Park's private papers contain cryptic reference to joint Agnew-Park ventures in the Middle

We have also established that Agnew has received messages at the Korean entrepreneur's London office. On at least one occasion, Park personally accepted a telephone message for the former vice president.

More specifically, an elusive businessman named Sami Shamoon has sent joint cables to Agnew and Park about a steel venture in Iran.

One cable, dated Nov. 25, 1975, assured the odd couple that the Iranian steel business "will grow very big since 100,000 residential flats coming up only in Teheran. With dams and other projects, steel con-struction is extremely and definitely vast. If you agree, we can have a joint venture together."

In a separate cable, an aide advised Tongsun Park of a Shamoon cable "addressed to both you and Governor S.A. as a most urgent and important message. It is clear from other evidence that the mysterious 'Governor S.A." is Spiro Agnew, who was once governor of Maryland.

Park's private records also tell of bulk varn deals in Iran. A travel itinerary indicates that Agnew, Park and Shamoon made at least one business trip together to New York City. And Agnew's name crops up in other Park documents. Our attempts to get an explanation of the Agnew-Park connection from the principals were fruitless. We were told that both men were out of the country. We tried to reach Agnew through Pathlite, Inc., a Maryland firm that lists him as its president. All our questions were answered with a polite "no comment.

Park's American company, Pacific Development, Inc., had no telephone. We tried Park at a London number provided by one of our sources. The phone was answered "Eastern Navigation," but we were told Park was not there. We left messages for him in London and for his attorney in Washington.

We also traced the mysterious Sami Shamoon to London, but he has an unlisted number.

Footnote, In past columns, we have chronicled Park's financial shenanigans, which have often left his creditors holding the bills for his financial fandangos and posh lifestyle. We pieced the story together from his private papers, which were saved from the shredder. Ford probably will point out in his May 19 speech that he held the annual inflation rate to slightly over five per cent. But under Carter, there is gloomy talk of another round of double digit" inflation.

Ford is hard at work on the May 19 speech. He is also consulting advisers on Capitol Hill to make sure his remarks won't upset their political strategies.

Dear An

we'll never know the truth about Watergate. Frost started to ask about the tapes and what was said on them.

Nixon replied that everyone could put their own interpretation on them, but he could categorically say he did nothing to obstruct justice. "I believe him," Uncle Harold said.

"I never did before, but a man wouldn't go on television for $600,000 "Why not?" I asked.

"Because if the FCC found out about it, they could take the station's license away.

Frost kept zeroing in on what Nixon said to Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Colson about the hush money.

Granny started to get mad. "What right does an Englishman have to ask him questions about American hush money? "He's only doing his job, Granny," I said. "There does seem to be a discrepancy between what Nixon said and what he really meant.

When Nixon was asked what was on the 18 1-2 minutes of tape that had been erased, he said that it was merely a discussion between himself and Haldeman on a public relations offensive to counteract the political slopover of Watergate.
"I believe him," Uncle Harold said.

"What else could they have possibly talked about?"

As the show went on, Nixon switched from details to what was in his heart. He said if he had any fault it was that he wasn't a good butcher.

"I didn't even know Nixon was a butcher." Granny said. "That's just a figure of speech," I told her. "He was quoting a prime minister of Great Britain who said a leader has to be a good butcher. Nixon admitted he lied to the American people, but they were little lies and he did it to protect Ehrlichman and Haldeman because he didn't want to do to them what Eisenhower did to Sherman Adams.

"I believe him," Uncle Harold said. "The man was only trying to protect his loved ones."

At the end of the show Nixon said he would never grovel before the American people, and if he had made mistakes they were of the heart and not the head. It was at this moment that everyone grabbed for their Kleenex boxes.

Granny was the most moved, of course. Finally, she pulled herself together and said, "Well, I hope Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman are satisfied. They not only destroyed the best President we ever had but they made him go on television to bare his soul to an Englishman."

All Uncle Harold could say between sobs was "I believe it. I believe it. I

But there no longer is any doubt in the mind of the Dallas resident. He has been ticketed for alleged violation of the City of Dallas' smoking ordinance and is scheduled to appear in municipal court on May 16.

It is the first time a Dallasite is scheduled to go to trial for such a violation. It perhaps is one of the first in the state.

The man was cited for violating regulations which prohibit smoking on Dallas Transit buses. If found guilty, he could face a maximum $200 fine under the city rules which limit public places where smoking is allowed. The ordinance was adopted almost three years ago. It is reported that several antismoking groups have complained that the law never has been enforced by the police. The council members had considered appointing a committee to review the ordinance, but they never did get around to it. City officials have said that voluntary enforcement is the key to the success of the ordinance.

TB is no longer the great killer it used to be. But it is still a major public health problem, even in a country like the United States.

Most people who come down with TB in this country nowadays were actually infected years ago, but at that time their bodies' defenses sealed up the germs in tiny, hard capsules. Then recently, for one reason or another, their resistance has weakened and the germs have broken out and

Pygmies now endangered species

The Los Angeles Times

MALIBU, Calif.—There have been campaigns to save porpoises, otters, baby seals, whales, bald eagles, leopards, the oryx and other endangered species.

Now, in a novel twist to those efforts, a Belgianborn author, agronomist and ethnologist has added Pygmies - a small, ancient, nomadic people found mainly in the equatorial Ituri Forest of eastern Zaire - to the endangered species list.

But until the Zaire war thrust them into the limelight, the tiny Pygmies had been content to be left alone, secure in their tropical rain forest homes be working in the office? one and then recheck as be an anal ulcer. Hallet, 50, was born in Louvain, Belgium, but as a child he spent a lot of time among the Efe Pygmies of Zaire, the territory then known as the Belgian Congo. Between 1956 and 1960 he lived among the Efes.

In a recent interview in his Malibu home, Hallet, who at 6-foot-5 towered over the Pygmies, scoffed at reports that the dimunitive forest people had joined Mobutu Sese Seko to fight off the insurgents.

Davis asserts moving trial OK with him

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) - Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis says the probability of his capital murder trial being moved to Amarillo is all

"I don't care where I go," Davis said Monday after State Dist. Court Judge Tom Cave indicated the trial will be scheduled June 6 in State Dist. Judge George

Cave withheld a final ruling on the venue change until he has reviewed exhibits submitted at a hearing

"It is quite likely the court is going to grant the motion (for change of venue)," Cave said. He said trials on Dowlen's docket would have to be rearranged before he could take the case.

Cave in effect will be approving his own motion for a change of venue, a move brought on by the April 13 mistrial of Davis in Fort Worth. Cave halted that session in its eighth week because of jury miscon-

The 43-year-old Davis is accused of the capital murder of his 12-year-old stepdaughter. Andrea Wilborn, last August at the Davis mansion in Fort Worth. She died in a shooting spree that also left former TCU basketball player Stan Farr dead and two others wounded, including Davis' estranged wife, Priscilla.

Davis has been indicted in the other shootings. Prosecutors presented evidence to support the change of venue, and defense attorneys filed a motion Monday morning saying they agreed the case should be relocated.

Davis' attorneys had previously said Davis preferred to be tried in his hometown of Fort Worth.

Cave said Amarillo has a favorable population makeup and location, has been exposed to little publicity about the case and has "open-mindedness and good people."

He said other cities were disqualified for geographic or population reasons. He said Austin had been highly regarded, but it was determined that a backlog in criminal cases there made courtrooms unavailable for the Davis trial.

Dowlen, Cave said, "can try this case better in Amarillo that I can in Amarillo.

Cave also postponed Monday a contempt hearing scheduled Tuesday for defense attorneys Richard Haynes and Phil Burleson. They were to have shown why they could not be sentenced to three days in jail and fined $500 each, as Cave had ordered.

Cave could end up taking a controversial case off Dowlen's docket. It involves indictments against Potter County Atty. Kerry Knorpp on two counts of aggravated perjury, one count of bribery and five counts of felony theft.

Trio of teacher bills to receive House attention

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Three bills for teachers past, present and future — with a two-year price tag of $476 million were set for House action today.

Representatives also planned a final vote on a bill creating a modified cabinet system of state government that also would lump most of the 200-plus agencies under 16 umbrella departments.

Each department's secretary or executive director would report directly to the governor, serve at his pleasure, recommend efficiency measures and submit the budgets for all agencies under his

But the day's big business was action on two bills raising benefits for retired teachers and those who retire in the future, at a cost of $213 million in 1978-79, and a measure raising teacher salaries by $263

How much money will be left for teachers and several proposed new state programs will depend on the efforts of a 10-member House-Senate conference committee working on a compromise general appropriation bill.

The committee was set up Monday after the House rejected the Senate's $15.6 billion substitute for the $15.4 billion two-year state budget bill approved by representatives last week.

In contrast to the eight days the House spent on the bill, senators shot it through in 51 minutes, accepting with little questioning the measure written by the Senate Finance Committee.

Senators left $856.7 million "on the table," while the House bill leaves $1.1 billion in unspent revenue that would be available for teachers, school finance improvements and other items.

House members authorized state employe pay raises of only 3.4 per cent a year, compared with the Senate's 6.8 per cent next year and 5.1 per cent in fiscal 1979 — a $115 million difference.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, was up-braided for trying to amend the bill to switch $81 million earmarked for prison construction to welfare payments for dependent children.

"We don't write appropriation bills on the floor of the Senate," lectured Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris, dean of the Senate and chairman of the finance com-

Truan's amendment was shouted down.

Senators also passed and sent to the House a billchanging the name of the Texas Railroad Commission to something that conforms more closely to what it really is: Texas Energy and Transportation

The commission regulates not only railroads but also trucks, buses, oil and gas production, gas utilities and liquefied petroleum gas such as butane

Final house action was possible late in the day on several Senate bills that were given tentative ap-

HOUSTON (AP) — A neighbor of Paula Cantrell Derese says she "screamed and hollered like a kid

IPAA committee says plan would idle many

DENVER (AP) - President Carter's proposed energy plan would increase prices, deny jobs to millions of Americans and make the nation more dependent on expensive foreign oil, an independent oil producers group has maintained.

The executive committee of the Independent Petroleum Association of America approved a statement Monday which claims the President's plan relies too greatly on taxes and other governmental action and not enough on the free enterprise system to avoid energy shortages.

The association, which represents more than 4,000 independent oil producers, is holding its annual midyear meeting here.

Carter's proposal "calls for a massive intervention of government into the life of every citizen of the United States," the group's statement

"It abandons the concept of a free market that has served the public and built the strongest economy in the world. We believe reliance on the free market provides the most effective and least costly solution to the nation's worsening energy supply

The group also said the Carter plan incorrectly assumes there is little or no possibility of producing new oil and gas in the United States. Such supplies could "significantly contribute" to meeting the nation's energy needs, the association said, while avoiding increased dependence on imported

"There is no practical alternative to supplying substantially more oil and gas. And this can and must come from domestic reserves if this nation is to remain secure and prosperous," the association said. "The administration's program ignores the compelling need to accomplish that all-important objective.

Sen. Cliff Hansen, R-Wyo., told the association that Carter's program "seems to be a massive taxation program that will add billions to the cost of crude oil, gasoline and fuel

Hansen called for an energy program which includes deregulation of the price of new natural gas, accelerated leasing and development of offshore oil and gas reserves, and federal support for research into new

Carter attitude may jeopardize programs

By DAVID'S, BRODER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The chairman of the House energy committee said Monday that passage of President Carter's energy programs could be jeopardized by signs that Carter is 'soft" on returning the proceeds of his proposed energy taxes to the peo-

Rep. Thomas L. Ashley (D-Ohio), head of a special panel shepherding the energy legislation through the House of Representatives, said Carter did not seem "firm" on refunding the money to be raised by oil and gas taxes. Ashley said any wavering on that point would complicate prospects for congressional approval.

Ashley made the comment to reporters after Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd had commended Carter's "flexibility" on the same issue.

Byrd told reporters over the weekend that he had urged Carter to use some of the energy taxes to provide jobs for the hard-core unemployed in such energy-related fields as repairing railroad roadbeds and renovating subway cars.

He quoted the President as saying that he "expects Congress to provide alternative proposals.

Others at the White House leadership meeting said Byrd had told the President he was very doubtful about rebating the energy taxes to the public through individual income tax credits, as Carter has proposed. Carter, they said, indicated that if Congress preferred to use the money differently, he had no objections.

It was this attitude that prompted Ashley to say that "in this area, as in

Energy plan rolls ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a sluggish start, President Carter's proposed Energy Department is rolling rapidly toward votes in both the House and Senate.

The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee gave unanimous approval Monday to its version of the energy reorganization plan, and Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said the full Senate probably would vote on the measure next week.

In the House, the measure is expected to receive equally quick at-others, he (Carter) has been soft." In an April 22 press conference the President first said the gasoline tax he has proposed would be "refunded directly to every person" as an in-come tax credit. Later, he said he needed "some flexiblity" and could not "certify today that every nickel" would be returned Ashley said that if the President did not insist on returning substantially all the energy taxes to the people, as he first proposed, "the liberals" in Congress would try to use the money to finance welfare reform or other social legislation.

That, he said, could jeopardize passage of the Carter tax package. While the administration has not furnished firm figures to Congress, unofficial estimates are that the crude oil equalization (well-head) tax, industrial fuel taxes and retail gasoline taxes could amount to $80 billion a year by 1988.

"That can represent a hell of an impact on the blue collar worker" if the money is not returned through tax credits, Ashley said.

Despite his expressed concern on this point, the energy committee chairman said, "The odds are good there'll be a major piece of (energy) legislation this year and it will be recognizable" as the Carter proposal. On the other hand, Ashley said, failure in the energy area by Carter "would reduce his credibility to the point he'd have difficulty getting a resolution through in support of the Ashley said he thought Carter might have made a mistake in insisting on the April 20 deadline for submitting his energy program. "When he said in January he'd have it on April 20, I don't think he knew what

Carter tells NATO to build up 'muscle'

By FRANK CORMIER

LONDON (AP) - President Carter told the NATO allies today Western Europe needs more military muscle because Communist forces are much stronger than they need to be to defend the Soviet Bloc.

Making his debut as the leader of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Carter told a special summit meeting of the alliance the United States is ready "to make a major effort" to improve NATO's strength. and he urged the other 14 members to

Carter called for a committee of NATO defense ministers to study the military status of all alliance members and report at another summit meeting in Washington next May.

"The threat facing the alliance has grown steadily in recent years," Carter said. "The Soviet Union has achieved essential, strategic nuclear equivalents. Its (European) theater nuclear forces have been strengthened. The Warsaw Pact's conventional forces in Europe emphasize an offensive posture.

These forces are much stronger than needed for any defense purpose Since 1965, new ground and air weapons have been introduced in most major categories: self-propelled artillery, mobile tactical missiles, mobile air-defense guns, armored personnel carriers, tactical aircraft and tanks. The Pact's buildup continues undiminished.

The President indicated achievement of such goals as recognition of human rights, mutual troop reduc-tions in Central Europe and nuclear arms agreements depends "on a credible defense and deterrent."

He urged the allies to do more to "improve cooperation in develop-ment, production and procurement" of weapons, saying they "should not be weakened militarily by waste and overlapping" nor "by disputes over where to buy defense equipment."

He promised U.S. cooperation in promoting "a genuinely two-way trans-Atlantic trade in defense equip-

Assad meeting called 'valuable'

By EDWARD WALSH The Washington Post

GENEVA - President Carter and Syrian President Hafez Assad ended what was called an "extremely valuable, very informative" meeting Monday night with no dramatic movement toward achieving a Middle East peace settlement yet in sight. In what Assad described before the session as an "atmosphere of great together for more than four hours at the Intercontinental Hotel here.

The talks, according to the Carter's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, ranged over such issues as the future of the Palestinians, Israel's insistence on militarily secure borders and Carter's suggestion of establishing international buffer zones between Israel and the Arab nations as an interim step toward a

But in briefing reporters about the meeting, Brzezinski stressed that the meeting was only part of a "protracted process" aimed first at establishing "a wider area of understanding" among Carter and Middle Eastern leaders. Pressed for specifics, Brzezinski would say only that there had been

"some further exploration of possible solutions" during the talks, which he and Secretary of State Cyrus R.
Vance also attended.
Assad established an unusually optimistic tone for the meeting.

Talking to reporters before the meeting, Assad, in what appeared to be off-the-cuff remarks, sounded unusually optimistic about achieving a Middle East peace settlement and credited "the expressions of President Carter on the subject" for creating "an atmosphere of faith and encouraging atmosphere of op-But when Assad turned to his prepared statement, he bluntly warned that Israel's continued occupation of territories captured in the 1967 war and the "homelessness" of the Palestinians "inevitably means the prolongation of a grave situation that threatens to renew the wars and tragedies from which our region has suffered for 30 years."

The Midland County Commissioners and Midland City Council met with the Highway Committee of the Chamber of Commerce to discuss plans for a presentation to the highway department.

In dispute before — and after — the session was whether the city and county bodies would agree to tell Austin they would pay 100 per cent of the right-of-way costs or the 50 per cent customary for such roadbuilding ventures.

The state would be more receptive to the plan if the local government footed all the right-of-way costs, Gene Abbott, chairman of the chamber's highway committee, said.

But many balked at the commitment of capital necessary to buy all the rights, even though an exact figure of the amount required has not yet been determined. Rough estimates indicate those rights may cost $2.5 million, although some of the land may be donated to the project, Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. said.

The proposed 16.7 mile loop around Midland would cost $37 million and would split off from U.S. 80 east of town, circle the city and rejoin U.S. 80 west of town.

The other proposed road would link Midland and Odessa with a northern route that would siphon off as many as 7,000 cars now using U.S. 80, Abbott The groups decided to look further into right-of-way acquisitions before the June 30 meeting. State and federal funds could be used to construct the roads if the state gives approval to the County Judge Barbara Culver and Mayor Angelo will present the Social Security fund. Lower-paid workers would begin paying higher

In a message to Congress, Carter said $83 billion in new revenue is needed for Social Security by 1982. Otherwise the fund that finances benefits for disabled persons will be exhausted in 1979, while the fund from which old-age and survivors benefits are paid will run out of money in 1983, Thirty-three million people receive Social Security benefits while 104 million pay into the system. Mondale said changes are needed to assure workers they will receive the benefits they are paying for.

"Older Americans shouldn't have to live in fear that their benefits may be reduced or cut off," he said. "Younger Americans must be free to plan for their futures.

The proposed changes drew praise from organized labor and criticism from an organization of businessmen. AFL-CIO President George Meany said in a statement Carter's plan 'would put the Social Security program on a sound financial basis now and in the future." The United Auto Workers Union also praised the President's recommendations.

And there was a challenge right in his own backyard. A swarm of bees just hankering for a home was clustered around a peach tree limb.

Thousands of worker bees were huddled into a solid pack. Some others were flying around. Meanwhile, the scouts were out looking for a permanent lodging place for the homeless swarm. Only the day before, the bees and a queen (either the old one or a new one) had fled Wilson's overcrowded hive.

Initially, they might not appreciate the manmade move. They just might sting the man who's trying to be their friend and who also wants to rob them of their surplus honey. He always leaves plenty for their own needs. Wilson has been into beekeeping for amendment to its city waterplan requests permission to allow effluent to flow through the Monahans, Midland and Johnson's draws, then to Mustang Creek, Beal's Creek and to the Colorado River.

Odessa recently purchased land in Midland County to construct a second water treatment plant near the existing one in southeast Ector County. The application concerns runoff from this proposed plant.

In another matter, the commissioners voted to contract directly with Senior Citizens, Inc., for the Meals-on-Wheels program, and authorized by Judge Barbara Culver to work out details.

In the past, the county has paid Midland Memorial Hospital $975 for food items for the program. The hospital prepares the food delivered by the program.

Bill Shaner, board chairman of Senior Citizens, Inc., asked the commissioners at the Monday meeting to pay the money directly to the program so that the money could be forwarded to the Department of Public Welfare.

The money will be applied toward the program's 30 per cent local share so that the program can receive 70 per cent funding from the Department of Public Welfare plus the original 30 per cent. The Meals-on-Wheels program then would reimburse the hospital, Shaner said.

District Attorney Vern Martin presented his proposed 1978 budget to the commissioners, saying that his office needs law books and that he expects an increase in appeals by fall. The appeals increase should be a result of a docket with double the number of jury weeks in the summer, he said.

Commissioners awarded the con-

Carter, Assad meeting 'valuable, informative'

without text or notes, reiterated specifically his belief that a Middle East peace settlement must provide "a homeland for the Palestinians ... some resolution of border disputes" and "guarantees for the future securi-ty of these countries, which all can

The President flew here form London Monday afternoon for his first encounter with Assad after a two-day economic summit conference with leaders of the United States' industrial allies and a meeting Monday morning on the status of Berlin.

For Carter, with his acute sense of symbolism, the trip to this city that symbolizes neutrality may have had pecial significance. The President has already met in Washington with other major leaders in the Middle East - Yitzahk Rabin when he was still Prime Minister of Israel, President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and King Hussein of Jordan.

But to meet Assad, a key figure in any Middle East peace settlement, Carter had to fly here, where the two leaders met in Assad's suite and later had dinner hosted by Carter. Assad, the most solidly entrenched of the Arab leaders, has been considered a hard-liner in dealing with Israel and the most vocal champion of the Palestinians' cause. For years he was aligned with the Soviet Union but recently has shown more openness toward the West.

Nonetheless, before meeting with Carter Monday, Assad made it a point to fly to Moscow last month for two days of talks with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev. Syria still de on the Soviets for arms and is interested in maintaining a close rela-tionship with them.

The optimistic tone of Assad's opening remarks was striking not on because of his reputation as a hardliner, but because in recent days he has been described as among the more cautious of Middle Eastern leaders in viewing the prospects for a

For Carter, much is riding on the outcome of his meetings with Assad and other Middle East leadrs. Carter has already invested considerable time, effort and personal prestige in a concerted attempt to reconvene a Geneva conference on the Middle East later this year.

American officials believe the prospects for peace in the Middle East are particularly good hti year because of the presence of relatively moderate Arab leaders, some of whom may not survive politically if there is no movement towards a settlement soon. The President struck this theme in his opening remarks, saying that 1977 "is a year when we are blessed with strong and moderate leaders in the Middle Eastern region.

YORKTOWN, Va. - A mile or so from the site of the last great battle of the American Revolution stands a monument to a more recent victory. won by the residents of this Tidewater community. It is the massive power plant of the Virginia Electric and Power Co. and it is burning oil.

Until five years ago, the plant burned coal.

"It was miserable," recalled Robert Ripley Jr., York County commonwealth's attorney. "The ash was falling in buckets. You'd paint your house white and it would come out gray. You'd get up in the morning and you'd have dirt all over your Backed by indignant citizens who fought the plant for two decades. Ripley sued. Vepco was indicted by a York County grand jury on a charge of criminal nuisance. In June 1972, just before the trial was to begin, the company signed a court order agreeing to switch from coal to cleaner burning oil.

"It was the biggest thing that happened to improve the environment around here since Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown," Ripley boasted in his courthouse office last week

But now Yorktown is being ordered to switch back. It and 149 other plants around the country are being ordered to burn domestically abundant coal instead of scarce oil and gas. The orders are part of a three-year-old conversion program that President Carter has promised to expand. It will, he hopes, reduce the nation's dependence on foreign oil.

Yorktown is a microcosm of the myriad problems of coal conversions. Utilities originally switched from coal to oil during the late 1960s and early 1970s, when oil was cheap and new environmental laws discouraged coal. Now the same plants are being asked to to the reverse.

Some are converting voluntarily, but many are resisting because coal is difficult to handle and requires expensive new equipment to comply with ever-stricter air pollution laws. Vepco says it could cost more than $150 million to comply with Federal Energy Administration orders to convert units at Yorktown, Chesterfield and Portsmouth to coal - costs that would be passed on to consumers. The utility spent $122 million to convert those plants to oil. Baltimore Gas & Electric and Pepco which serve Maryland and Washington, are under similar or-

In communities across the country, coal-conversion orders are stirring fears that the air will become cloudy with smog, coal dust and noxious gases such as sulfur dioxide.

'It's an unbelievable paradox," Ripley said of the Yorktown order. "After all that litigation to get clean air, now they're going to turn around and make it dirty again."

FEA, which issued the preliminary orders to Vepco two years ago and plans to make them final soon, says the plants can be converted without violating air-quality standards. At Yorktown, however, the agency may have to go to court to overturn the 1972 agreement.

In that event, Ripley said, "we're not going to roll over and play dead. We'll insist that the best technology

Converting two of Yorktown's boilers to coal — a third, built only for oil, is not under an order - would require a new electrostatic precipitator. This $5 million piece of equipment, as large as a 10-story building, collects ash from the burnt coal before it flies out of the stack. Custom-designed, it would take as long as four years to obtain, Vepco said.

Even then, according to Yorktown plant superintendent James Broaddus, "the cleanest coal unit in the world is dirtier than an oil plant."

Since coal is 10 per cent ash, and oil on-tenth of 1 per cent, the problem of disposing of 400 tons of additional ash a day is formidable. There is no room near the power plant, which sits in the middle of a residential area, so the ash must be trucked out.

"Can you see it?" Broaddus asked. "That means one truck every 15 minutes along these bumpy roads canvas covers flapping in the breeze" blowing dust over nearby homes.

The company would have to purchase land to bury the ash - a problem that brought complaints of acid runoff before. And because of the large amounts, Broaddus said, "Even a hundred-acre site would last only nine years" in a rapidly growing county where land is becoming

The fugitive dust problems worry Walter Reiser, owner of a marina across the road from the plant. In the past, when coal was unloaded off railroad cars, he said wind blew dust 'like a dense fog through people's homes. When my wife let the window open in summer, it spread everywhere like black talcum

Dust would also blow off the huge coal storage pile, which is as long as three city blocks.

Besides ash, coal burning produces sulfur dioxide, an invisible gas that can damage lungs, corrode buildings and ruin crops with acid rain. FEA says Vepco can burn low-sulfur coal, but, according to Axel Mattson, chairman of the Virginia Air Pollution Control Board, the state will probably require scrubbers, elaborate equipment to clean the stack gas of Vepco estimates scrubbers would cost $16 million at Yorktown, and Mattson acknowledged there is probably not enough room for the massive machinery on the site.

"Conversion is going to be a big fat mess for everyone," said Mattson, a retired engineer who lives a mile from the plant. "We can convert to coal, but it's going to cost a lot of money."

Technically, conversion is a headache, as Vepco discovered at its Chesterfield plant south of Richmond where two boilers that originally burned coal were switched to oil and then back to coal. The first changeover required insulating a vast array of pipes insde the boilers with a cement-like substance because oil burns hotter than

Carter attitude may jeopardize programs

By DAVID'S, BRODER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The chairman of the House energy committee said Monday that passage of President Carter's energy programs could be jeopardized by signs that Carter is "soft" on returning the proceeds of his proposed energy taxes to the peo-

Rep. Thomas L. Ashley (D-Ohio), head of a special panel shepherding the energy legislation through the House of Representatives, said Carter did not seem "firm" on refunding the money to be raised by oil and gas taxes. Ashley said any wavering on that point would complicate prospects for congressional approval.

Ashley made the comment to reporters after Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd had commended Carter's "flexibility" on the same issue.

Byrd told reporters over the weekend that he had urged Carter to use some of the energy taxes to provide jobs for the hard-core unemployed in such energy-related fields as repairing railroad roadbeds and renovating subway cars.

He quoted the President as saying that he "expects Congress to provide alternative proposals.

Others at the White House leadership meeting said Byrd had told the President he was very doubtful about rebating the energy taxes to the public through individual income tax credits, as Carter has proposed. Carter, they said, indicated that if Congress preferred to use the money differently, he had no objections.

It was this attitude that prompted Ashley to say that "in this area, as in others, he (Carter) has been soft."

In an April 22 press conference the President first said the gasoline tax he has proposed would be "refunded directly to every person" as an in-come tax credit. Later, he said he needed "some flexibity" and could not "certify today that every nickel" would be returned

Ashley said that if the President did all the energy taxes to the people, as he first proposed, "the liberals" in Congress would try to use the money to finance welfare reform or other social legislation.

That, he said, could jeopardize passage of the Carter tax package.

Promotions announced

EL PASO - A. W. Derrick, H. P. Logan and R. L. McConn, have been elected senior vice presidents of El Paso Natural Gas Co., a principal subsidiary of The El Paso Co.

All have been vice presidents of the subsidiary. Derrick will be responsible for regulatory affairs, marketing and all phases of gas supply other than exploration. Logan will be responsible for all the com-pany's transmission operations and engineering, and McConn will have overall supervision of various administrative functions.

nished firm figures to Congress, unofficial estimates are that the crude oil equalization (well-head) tax, industrial fuel taxes and retail gasoline taxes could amount to $80 billion a

"That can represent a hell of an im-pact on the blue collar worker" if the money is not returned through tax credits, Ashley said.

Despite his expressed concern on this point, the energy committee chairman said, "The odds are good there'll be a major piece of (energy) legislation this year and it will be recognizable" as the Carter proposal.

On the other hand, Ashley said, failure in the energy area by Carter "would reduce his credibility to the point he'd have difficulty getting a resolution through in support of the Ashley said he thought Carter might have made a mistake in inmight have made a mistake in insisting on the April 20 deadline for submitting his energy program. "When he said in January he'd have it on April 20, I don't think he knew what he was talking about," Ashley said.

However, he added, Carter's insistence on the deadline did communicate "a sense of urgency" to the country and make it possibile for Congress to pass the energy legislation.

gress to pass the energy legislation within the same calendar year.

But he said the administration estimates on the economic impact of the program and the investment costs for meeting the coal conversation and nuclear power targets were shakey enough to require "close scrutiny" by Congress.

Rhubarb takes back row seat in praises of spring gardens

By MARION CLARK ne Washington Post

Here it is, May again: the great glories of trawberries — Doubtless God could have created a etter berry, but God never did" - are being blathered around; and asparagus; and tender new

But as usual, rhubarb, that Rumpelstiltskin of the stirring occasionally. ant world, is taking the annual back row in the spring plot. Children don't know its name, let alone its taste. Adults don't know if it's a fruit or vegetable. Can the lovely mauve stalk that was once the hero of so many American victory gardens remain unrung much longer?

No. Herewith, an ode in four parts to the royal herb. But first, we offer a rhubarb ruse for those of you who complain it needs too much sugar. If, when you are using rhubarb, plain or in a recipe, you first blanch it, you need only half as much sugar to bring out its sweetness.

When you are steaming rhubarb, cut the stalks in one-inch chunks, use as little water as possible, and simmer gently without stirring until the rhubarb becomes tender (about 25 or 30 minutes). Then dissolve about 1-2 cup of sugar for each pound of rhubarb in 1-4 cup hot water and add this to the simmering rhubarb. Steam for another 2 minutes. It can be served hot or chilled, as is or with cream and sugar, or a lacing of maple syrup.

ien on,

If it were anybody else, you'd say he was going out in style, but not Bill Huisman. He retires after tonight's game, but what he did in Monday's Texas League game against El Paso is the kind of thing Midland Cubs fans have come to expect and accept as routine over the last five years.

The Cubs had been leaving men on base almost every inning and were locked in a 3-3 tie with the Diablos going into the last of the eighth. The bases were loaded, but two were out and no one would have been surprised if this were just another false alarm. except that Huisman was the batter.

Bill lined Randy Wilson's 2-2 pitch between third and short to drive in two runs and give Midland a 5-3 lead and then started a snappy gameending double play in the ninth to give the Cubs a 3-1 edge in games going into tonight's 7:30 series windup at Cubs Stadium.

HUISMAN'S HEROICS capped off a nifty route-going seven-hitter by Darrell Turner, who made it three wins in four decisions to lead the Midland staff.

After El Paso forged ahead 3-2 with a couple of runs in the sixth, shortstop Steve Davis boomed his fifth homer over the scoreboard in left-center in the last of the sixth to tie it up.

Midland had taken a 2-1 lead in the first on sacrifice flies by Huisman and Karl Pagel after Keith Drumright was hit by a Jim Dorsey pitch and Joe Hernandez singled.

El Paso scored in the first on a walk; Gil Kubski's single and a bad bounce hit over Drumright's glove at second by Terry Stupy.

Outside of Kubski's lead off single. a walk, another bad bounce hit by Steve Stroughter and a run-scoring force out for two rums in the sixth. Turner pitched so well he could easily have had a shutout

TONY PEPPER got a couple of hits, but his glove was more valuable this night. He robbed Ken Landreaux in sixth and Stroughter in the eighth and then saved Davis' fine defensive play by digging the throw out of the dirt to retire swift Tommy Smith in the sixth.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Jerry West says his Los Angeles Lakers have "a fantastic attitude" going into tonight's National Basketball Association semifinal game against Portland, despite being down 2-0 in the best-of-seven series.

"We've played hard all year, and that won't change," said West after a Monday practice. "We've just got to shoot better and handle the ball better, and I'm hopeful we can come back."

The Trail Blazers returned home Sunday night after a 99-97 victory in the second game to a tumultuous greeting at the airport by more than 1,000

The talk was of a four-game sweep, but Portland Coach Jack Ramsay was having none of it.

"It's important for us to remember we won't win here just because we're in Portland," said Ramsay. "We're just looking to win that third game.

Huisman gets off trolley

If there is anyone who deserves the title of Mr. Midland Cub, it has to be Bill Huisman, who has been a member of the club every season since the franchise was moved to the Tall City from San Antonio back in

It will be strange, a Midland team without Bill in the infield, but tonight will be his last game at Cubs Stadium. Wednesday he heads for Centerville. Iowa, and a job as head baseball coach and sophomore basketball coach in high school.

"I expected to play out the season here," says the 5-6, 160-pounder from Goldfield, Iowa, "I knew it was nearing time for a change, but I didn't expect an opportunity like this so soon."

BILL WENT for an interview Thursday and was hired Friday, that quick. But it was a move the former All-Big Eight Conference second baseman from Kansas State had planned to make eventually.

"I'd like to get into coaching," Bill mentioned once last summer, "That's what I was trained to do.'

What probably is a little mystifying to most Texans is that Huisman is leaving now to take over as coach of a high school baseball team. In the Lone Star state, the season is ending "My duties begin May 26 and the season runs into August with the state tournament at the end of July. We'll play a 40-game schedule, mostly

IT SEEMS like a logical arrangement, playing after school is out in the summer. The players are not only free to concentrate on baseball, but they avoid the unsettled spring

As he prepares to depart, Bill is busy picking up helpful hints from the Midland Cubs pitchers. "I figure I have a solid foundation for coaching just about every other position, but I really don't know much about pitching," explains Huisman.

In high school, he starred in baseball, basketball and track so he will be no stranger to his other job sophomore basketball.

'I figured this (year) would be the end, anyway," says Bill, "So when this opportunity came along I couldn't HUISMAN HAS been in the Texas League since 1970 and has been a steadying influence for the Cubs for most of those years.

Last year, he batted .313 and although he spent most of 1975 with Wichita, he arrived back in Midland to help the Cubs' drive to a pennant by batting .272 in 61 games.

His best year was 1974 when he batted .325, fifth best in the TL, led the second basemen in fielding (.972) and was selected to play in the league allstar game.

It was no surprise when Midland fans voted him the Cubs Most Valuable Player.

For Bill, it was a strange career most of the way. Even his managers admitted he was the best second baseman on the team, but it always seemed there was someone else around that had to be looked at.

With the guy who pays his buck at the gate, there was never any doubt. Bill always has been number one.

Chisox Lemon not excited

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) - Chicago White Sox Manager Bob Lemon has been around too long to get overly excited about his team's stunning road success, which has brought them within a half game of leading Minnesota in the American League West. It was the fourth consecutive victory for the White Sox and their sixth in the last eight games on the road.

Lefty Ken Brett scattered nine hits to earn his fourth victory against two losses. It was Brett's first route-going performance of the year and only the sixth by a White Sox pitcher. Steve Stone has four complete performances and Francisco Barrios has the other one.

Brett said "The key was that I didn't walk anybody. Boy, was I tired at the end. It was hot and I should have taken some salt tablets because my legs kept getting some cramps.

Asked if he had heard of the rumors that he was on the Chicago trading block, Brett said "They are just rumors . . . I'm not going to lose any sleep over it. If they trade me, fine, I'm not going to lose any sleep over it."

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices scored some moderate gains today in an upswing attributed to internal market forces.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, down 10.35 in the past two sessions, recovered 3.90 to 936.99 by noontime today.

Gainers outpaced losers by about a 5-3 margin among New York Stock Exchangelisted issues.

Analysts noted no special economic developments to account for the upswing. Monday's decline of 3.65

Dow points came on the lightest trading volume of the year. The absence of any concerted pressure on the market appeared to encourage some cautious buying by traders today. Eastman Kodak was actively traded, slipping % to 60% after a %-point drop on Monday, when the company announced a rebate plan for dealers and consumers on its instant cameras and film. The Big Board's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks rose .18 to 54.33. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .24 at 114.41.

Volume on the NYSE stepped up a bit, reaching 8.93 million shares by noon against 6.52 million at the same point Monday.

Houston Oil & Minerals. the Amex volume leader, picked up 1/2 to 54% after a 41/8-point jump Monday. The company has reported finding a natural gas field in the Gulf of Mexico off Louisiana.

re-elected Charlie Welch board chairman of the Midland Community Action Agency Monday night despite a city council request that he

Late in April the city council voted not to replace its two representatives to the MCAA board until the agency met these requests: all board members from the time of the agency's major problems would resign and a new board would be formed, all present agency employes would be terminated and replaced by the board, and that the bylaws be rewritten to give better protection to board members for agency

A letter explaining the city's position was sent to chairman Welch, who did not have a copy at Monday night's meeting. The other board member affected by the council's request would have been

Dewey Williams. In response to the council's letter, the board voted to send a return letter inviting the council to attend a board meeting. Welch said he would like for the council to see for itself what the board is doing and would like 'them to explain to the board just what their requests are." He also said it would be helpful for the board to have the prestige of the backing of both the county and the city

Welch is one of two county representatives, along with commissioner Jack Leonard, on the board. They are the only two remainin representatives of local governmental bodies on the board, since both the school board and the city council have withdrawn members and his term expires later this year. In other business, the board received a letter from Ben Haney of the federal Community Services Administration (CSA), the agency's principal source of funds admonishing the board for "complete abdication of responsibility ... and absence of internal control" for the agency's earlier problems. Haney will make the final recommendation to the CSA as to whether or not MCAA is refunded. Haney also said his office would have to receive an audit through the period March 31, 1977 by Sept. 30, 1977 or the agency would not be refunded. The board voted to instruct accountant Russell Horn to submit a fixed asset maucrions schedule (inventory) to the CSA regional auditor a HOUSEHOLD GOODS by May 25.

Weich then appointed
Eva Hernandez, Alfredo Rey and John Cooper as a budget committee to a PROZEN FOOD LOCKERS review the budget.

Haney further stated that the board would have to take immediate action to remedy unauthorized overexpenditures for the 1976 budget and supply additional documentation for the overexpenditures | BLIVESTOCK POULTRY or they would be prers
