Carter vows to win war with economy

By FRANK CORMIER

LOS ANGELES (AP) - President Carter today promised to battle successfully against high unemployment and high inflation, pledging to take whatever steps might be needed "if the recovery should falter during the years ahead.'

Carter detailed his domestic policy goals in an address prepared for the annual convention of the United Auto Workers union, which has been critical of the President's recommended taxes-and-rebate plan to persuade Americans to buy energyefficient automobiles.

"You and I have honest differences of opinion over some aspects of my proposals," he said, but added that these differences did not cause him to

"hestitate to ask for your help."
Arguing that "more efficient automobiles with a clean exhaust" are inevitable, Carter noted imported vehicles in the January-March quarter claimed a larger share of the American market than ever before.

"I can think of no more disastrous assumption for the American automobile industry than that we cannot successfully compete with foreign companies that produce and sell such Carter also restated, for the first time in recent weeks, his commitment "to the phasing in of a workable national health insurance system." He said his objective is to "submit legislative proposals early next

In a lengthy recital, Carter ticked off six broad goals ranging from balancing the federal budget by 1981 to conducting "an open and efficient government.

Carter also told the conventioneers: "I am unalterably opposed to fighting inflation by economic and budgetary policies which keep unemployment high and factories idle. That approach is economically ineffective and morally bankrupt. If the recovery should falter during the years ahead, I will propose the economic and budgetary measures needed to get it going again.

cond domestic speaking tour since taking office, flew to California to talk to the UAW, star in a live questionanswer television broadcast and inspect drought areas.

Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter's speech "basically takes stock of and reviews domestic priorities" with a look toward the

Asked if the President intended his remarks as a response to Democratic liberals who have contended his economic policies are too conservative, Powell replied: "Not

Later, Carter planned to make his second out-of-town effort to stay close to the voters by fielding their unrehearsed questions during a live television broadcast beamed to the Los Angeles area.

Carter planned to go from the UAW convention site to KNXT-TV in Los Angeles to take part in most of a 90minute local program that Powell likened to the President's March 17

Centerpiece of stimulus package returned to President for signing

WASHINGTON (AP) - A tax bill that began as the centerpiece of program is returning to the White House for final consideration. The President's signature would mean a new permanent tax cut for 46 million couples or individuals.

Those who get the tax cuts should see the changes in paychecks received after June 1.

Congress completed action on the bill Monday. The Senate passed it by voice vote without objection following a 383-2 vote in the House.

Although the bill contains business tax breaks that the Carter administration says are not needed, congressional leaders say they have no doubt that the President will sign

The major new tax cut in the bill would benefit only the 69 per cent of taxpayers who do not itemize deductions. By increasing the standard deduction, the legislation would cut taxes by $111 a year for a typical four-member family earning $15,000 a

A single person earning $10,000 would get a $110 tax cut. But two million single persons earning more than $13,750 likely would find their taxes increased by about $1 a week.

In all, American individuals and businesses would pay $34.1 billion less in taxes over the next 28 months.

In addition to raising the standard deduction to $3,200 for couples filing a joint return and $2,200 for single ersons, the bill would greatly simplify tax returns for 95 per cent of the individual filers. In most cases, a taxpayer could figure his taxes simply by looking at a tax table and without computing any percentages or using multiplication.

The Internal Revenue Service says the more-generous -standard deduction will make it more beneficial to 6.7 million couples or individuals itemizing deductions. The changes will eliminate tax liability above that withheld for 3.3 million returns.

One section of the bill affects almost every taxpayer. It extends for one year, through Dec. 31, 1978, the per cent of the first $9,000 of taxable income); continues the special credit of up to $400 a year for poor working corporations.

Opposition to that plan was quick in coming. Republicans wanted a big permanent tax cut instead. Democrats wondered about the effectiveness of the rebate idea.

Bomb devastates library prior to Mondale visit

MADRID, Spain (AP) - A bomb wrecked the first floor of the U.S. Cultural Center in Madrid today seven hours before the arrival of Vice President Walter Mondale, and a telephone caller said the ultra-leftist group that kidnaped two high-ranking Spanish officials lest winter was responsible.

The newspaper El Pais reported that a caller who said he spoke for GRAPO, a Communist splinter group, told it: "We planted the bomb. We destroyed the Yankee library.'

The caller made no mention of Mondale, but it was assumed the bombing was planned for his visit. The center is about a mile from the nearest stop on his itinerary.

The bomb went off at 4 a.m. when only a nigh watchman was near the building, and he was not hurt. U.S. Embassy officials said the bomb was planted beneath a softdrink machine inside the center and opened a "crater" in the reinforced concrete floor when it blew up. The blast wrecked 10 schoolrooms and the film library on the first floor of the building but caused only minor damage on the second floor. GRAPO first surfaced last winter when it kidnaped royal adviser Antonio Maria de Oriol and several weeks later abducted the top military judge, Lt. Gen. Emilio Villaescusa. The police freed both men unharmed in February.

The vice president came to Madrid from Lisbon, the capital of neighboring Portugal, and both visits were intended to demonstrate U.S. support for the movement toward democracy in the two countries of the Iberian peninsula after decades of dictator-

In a brief arrival statement at the Madrid airport, Mondale said he was "thrilled and excited by developments toward a democratic society in Spain. He said he was looking forward to his meetings with King Juan Carlos and Premier Adolfo Suarez to continue talks begun during the premier's visit to Washington last

Smiley leaves all the flying to Crane boss

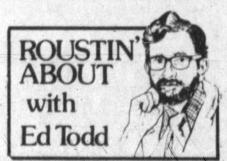

CRANE - Sometimes J. D. Richardson gets so wrought up with all that he has to do that he gets up in the air.

He's a flying dude . . . at least that's what he intends to be. He likes the feel of that prop wash. It all seems to take the bite out of the work-a-day

Awhile back, Richardson decided he wanted to fly So, naturally, he did what most flying buffs would want to do. He went out, bought himself an airplane, and got somebody to teach him how to fly.

"I like it all right," he said in obviously understating his passion. "I needed something to do.'

Of all people, Richardson needn't want for a whole lot more to do in this West Texas oil patch country.

"There's lots of oil, lots of work, around this little ol' town," he said. Richardson has a hunk of the work. He owns and operates an oil well servicing outfit, a trucking company, a sandblasting and steaming operation honed for the oil patch, and, lastly, an automobile parts store. Still, he needed something to do.

He bought the plane, a Cessna 175, over at Pecos. "That's his toy," declared his wife, LaRue, who has been up with him once in the four-seat, single-engine

flying machine

He sort of badgered her into it. The missus said she flew with her husband "one time just to get him to shut up. He kept on and on . But she appreciates his hankering

"He's not so flustered anymore," she said of her middle-aged man, who surely considers himself in the prime

Clouds just keep hanging around

A general cloud cover this morning in the Midland area is expected to return Wednesday morning, the weatherman said.

Considerable morning cloudiness through Wednesday is the forecast from the National Weather Service at the Midland Regional Air Terminal, a spokesman said

Otherwise, skies will be partly cloudy through Wednesday. The low tonight should be in the mid-60s, with a high Wednesday in the upper 80s.

Winds should be from the south at 20/ to 30 mph today, decreasing to 10 to 15 mph tonight. A wind warning for area lakes was in effect today.

Hazy to overcast skies covered many cities in the Midland area this

Andrews reported partly cloudy skies and 66 degrees at 8 a.m. Rankin was overcast, but the clouds were starting to burn off at 8 a.m.

Lamesa was hazy and warm with a slight breeze. Crane was partly cloudy. Stanton was partly cloudy, calm and warm.

A fine mist was falling from overcast skies this morning in Big Lake, which also had mild temperatures and a slight breeze.

Odessa was cloudy and calm A tornado wrecked a rural school in the Texas Panhandle after classes ended and caused other damage Monday, but there apparently were no injuries. The twister left only the walls of the main building upright at the school in the Quail community of Collingsworth County, unroofed a home economics cottage and banged up the homes of Supt. Wilford Arthur and the school

Writhing into the next county north, the vicious funnel cloud also damaged a carbon black plant, a gasoline station and another home in the Shamrock vicinity before spinning away into Oklahoma.

"It was a big, ugly tornado and it was on the ground for some time," a witness told sheriff's officers, who spread an alarm as it approached.

By this morning the thunderstorm spawning the twister - and possibly others — had subsided and the weather calmed across Texas. Mostly light showers still fell in the east part of the state from Lufkin northward to near Tyler, Longview and San Augustine.

Forecasters warned, however, that violent storms were likely to revisit parts of the Panhandle this evening.

WARM WEATHER is forecast today for the eastern half of the nation. Cold weather is expected from the Pacific to the Rockies. Rain is forecast in the northern plains and from Arkansas into southern Missouri. (AP Laserphoto)

Decision on kennel postponed

Decision on a request by the Midland SPCA for a dog kennel on a 1 03 acre tract of land on the Andrews Highway near Idlewilde Drive was postponed by the Midland Planning and Zone Commission Monday.

Approved, however, was a zone change request by Leo Proctor, Security Storage, Midland SPCA and the city that would allow the animal shelter to built on the land site. The actual zone change was from 1Fsingle family district, and LR and LR-2, local retail districts, to C-3, commercial district.

Carter tax program on cars in trouble

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration's plan to tax big inefficient cars and give rebates for small economical ones is drawing heavy fire from both Democrats and Republicans on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Along with the already controversial proposal for a standby gasoline tax increase, the "gas-guzzler" tax and rebate plan doesn't stand "a snowball's chance in hell of passing on the floor," said Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn And Rep. Al Ullman, R-Ore., chairman of the committee, predicts "substantial changes" will be made by his panel in the tax portions of the administration's energy program.

Four top administration officials were scheduled to testify before the panel today in support of the energy plan: Secretary of State Cyrus Vance. Transportation Secretary Brock Adams, Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus and Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Ullman said that while there may be enough votes in Congress to pass the proposed tax on big fuelinefficient cars, the related proposal to give rebates for fuel efficient cars 'is in trouble." He said the proposal for a standby gasoline tax, which could hit 50 cents a gallon if gasoline consumption continues to rise rapidly, "has always been in trouble.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal testified on Monday that the Administration is not prepared to abandon either the controversial standby gasoline tax or the rebate proposal for small cars. Dropping these items "could unravel" the administration's entire energy blueprint, Blumenthal said

Fire damages drive-in theater

Four units of the Midland Fire Department were called to the Chief Drive-in Theater about 1 p.m. Monday where a fire was blazing in the concession stand.

According to reports, an overheated deep fry unit that apparently was left on over night was the cause of the blaze. Reports also indicated that the fire totally destroyed the contents of the stand and heavily damaged the building.

Don Lattrell of 3528 Seaboard Ave. reported items worth $2,120 were taken from his pickup early Monday

Lattrell told Midland police a 23 channel CB, a 35mm camera, three camera legses and a metal case were taken from the vehicle.

Police said entry to the pickup was gained by prying open a vent window

President Carter called for a tax of up to $2,500 by 1985 on the least fuel economical cars and rebates of up to $500 for cars that get the best mileage. Opponents say foreign imports could benefit most under the rebate plan, while the proposed gas-guzzler tax would fall more heavily on the U.S. auto industry, which has traditionally made large cars.

Blumenthal said negotiations are underway with foreign governments to establish ground rules to make sure that the U.S. auto industry isn't put at a competitive disadvantage by the automobile tax-and-rebate plan. At the same time, these negotiations are designed to reduce the likelihood of possible trade retaliation by other nations if the rebates are not extended to imports, he said.

But Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y. said the approach tries to accomplish through taxes and rebates "only what we expect of the auto industry anyway.

Rep. Martha Keys, D-Kan., claiming that rich people would have no trouble paying the proposed gasguzzler tax, called for a law prohibiting manufacturers from making fuel-inefficient cars.

Blumenthal said that made about as much sense as "outlawing rich people from buying very large fuelinefficient houses."

It may have been yours. The Federal Bureau of Statistics defines burglary as "the unlawful entry of a structure to commit a felony or theft. The use of force to gain entry is not required.

According to the bureau, "prevention and detection of the burglarly offense poses a most difficult problem to law enforcement. Volume alone is an overriding fac-

The FBI says there were some 3.25 million burglaries in 1975, the latest year for which figures are available. That works out to one burglary every 10 seconds and represents an increase of about 7 percent from 1974.

Residential burglaries accounted for almost two-thirds of the total in 1975. Over half of them occurred during the day. Losses from these burglaries amounted to $925 million, up 21 percent from 1974, compared to an increase of only 5 percent in losses from nonresidential burglaries.

The average dollar loss per residential burglary was over $440. Could you afford that kind of loss? If not, what have you done to stop it? How well is your house protected? How easy would it be for someone to

A growing number of Americans are asking themselves those questions. And their answers add up to a boom for manufacturers and sellers of equipment to protect homes, not only against crime, but also against such natural disasters as fire.

A spokesman for the National Burglar and Fire Alarm Association said there are no over-all statistics on sales of alarm systems. But she said

- to detect burglary and fire in homes and automobiles - is the fastest growing segment of the business.

The rate of growth in consumer alarms has been 15 to 20, percent annually for the past several years, she said, and the boom is expected to continue since the market remains far from saturated.

The association spokesman estimated that only 1 percent of all residences in America are equipped with burglar alarms. Another 1 per cent have some sort of fire alarm system, she said.

Part of the reason for the increase in security systems has been the rise in burglary. Another important factor, however, is that costs have started to decline. "Previously, only the very, very rich could afford an elaborate security system," she said. "But technology has improved tremendously in the past five years, bringing down costs.'

Burglar alarm systems now cost from $300 to $1,500, depending on the type of residence and the kind of protection you want. Some systems also involve payment of a monthly fee for security forces.

A recent study by Security World Publishing Co. of manufacturers of security and fire systems showed that sales of all types of protection services, residential and commercial, totalled just over $2 billion last year. up from a little more than $1.5 billion the year before. This year's sales are expected to reach almost $3 billion, the Security World survey showed.

When it comes to fire alarm systems, the biggest growth has been in smoke detectors, available for as little as $30 to $50. Many communities now require installation of detectors in new buildings.

The National Bureau of Standards says that one of the most common ways a burglar enters a house is by breaking the strike out of the door frame. The strike is the metal plate attached to the side of the door frame where the bolt latches to the door.

If the screws used to attach the strike to the frame are too short, the plate is easy to detach. The Bureau of Standards suggests screws that are long enough to go all the way through the frame and into the wall studs. combined with a longer-than-normal strike. An eight-inch strike plate with three-inch screws - available most places for well under $10 - should be sufficient.

Glass around doors also is a potential danger spot, since burglars can break through, reach in and open the door from the inside. If your home has panes of glass that are large enough to reach through and are located within 40 inches of the door knob or lock, cover the area with protective grillwork or replace the glass with a burglar-resistant material. Among materials to look for are tempered glass, laminated glass, acryllic plastic and polycarbonate Jalousie doors, with glass slats that angle out, are another problem, since it is often possible to manipulate the knob or crank that operates the doors from outside. Remove the knob or lever when it is not in use or drill a small hole through the housing and shaft of the knob and insert a pin through the hole to prevent the crank from being turned.

The Bureau of Standards says it is impossible to define the "most secure" door because of the variety of materials and workmanship involved. Generally, however, a wood door of solid core construction, 134 inches thick, should offer adequate protection. Metal doors of the type often used in apartment houses are even better.

A door opening outward generally is less vulnerable to a burglar than one opening inward, since it is more difficult to pull a door out of its frame than it is to push it in. The outward door also may leave the hinge pins accessible, however. Make sure the pins are not removable or that the hinges interlock when the door is

One way to cut losses in the event a burglary does occur is with federal crime insurance. The program was developed by the Federal Insurance Administration of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and a little more than one-third of the 50 states are participating.

Costs vary according to crime rates in the area involved. Policies generally insure against losses of up to $10,000 resulting from burglary or robbery and policies cannot be canceled because of loss. To find out if you are eligible, contact any licensed property insurance agent or broker. Details also are available from Federal Crime Insurance, P.O. Box 41033, Washington, D.C., 20014.

Paper may switch time

By DAVID JOHNSTON The Los Angeles Times

OAKLAND, Calif. - The Phoenix, Ariz., man whose company agreed over the weekend to buy the Oakland Tribune for $15.8 million in cash and stock, said he may convert the financially troubled afternoon daily into a morning newspaper.

Karl Eller, for years a major figure in the billboard industry, told The Los Angeles Times in a telephone interview "we plan to start making money the day we take over" and to do this 'we might move it to the morning.

Such a move, a variation of which is already under study at the Tribune, could mean a lively circulation war in the San Francisco Bay Area.

The San Francisco Chronicle has dominated the morning newspaper market here for 13 years, ever since it beat the rival Examiner in a lively battle which observers said marked the emergence of "news as entertainment" and resulted in the Examiner moving to afternoon publication with a substantial loss in circulation.

Announcement of the agreement in. principle to sell the Tribune followed a bitter fight between two factions of the powerful Knowland family, which has owned the newspaper since 1915.

The part of the family which holds a majority of stock in the Tribune's two companies tried last fall secretly to sell the paper. The minority faction, which controls the Tribune management, got wind of the plan and obtained a court order to stop it.

The two groups finally agreed to a joint effort to sell the paper, but not before extensive information about the privately-owned newspaper's finances were entered into court records and thus became public. The Tribune was the base from which the late U.S. Sen. William F. Knowland rose to power.

OSHA's new image (?

One of the brightest and most encouraging bits of news coming out of Washington this past weekend was the announcement made by the new director of the troubled Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) that she hopes to turn the agency into a partner of industry rather than an adversary.

Eula Bingham said further that she intends to shed the agency's image as a nitpicker and instead concentrate on hazards which threaten to kill workers at their

This is something that industry has dreamed of and hoped for ever since OSHA came into being, with its widespread harassment of business and industry. The only thing better would have been news of the agency's abolishment.

But the continued survival of OSHA is the very thing which Ms. Bingham hopes to achieve through her image-improvement efforts.

"I don't want to see it go down the drain until it has had a chance to work," the director said in an interview. "That means cutting out the Mickey Mouse and focusing on the truly hazardous situations that make people sick and die."

She surely must be a really courageous person, to take on one of the toughest jobs in the Carter administration. The agency of which she now is in charge has been criticized by both industry and labor since its creation in 1970. Employers have charged with justification that the agency. is nothing more than a harassment.

Congressman George Mahon and Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown last week, at a field hearing at Lubbock, took OSHA to task for some of its proposed standards for exposure to cotton dust.

Mahon blasted OSHA for issuing proposed standards for cottonseed oil mills, warehouses, compresses and cotton gins across the nation without concrete evidence that there is a serious problem in these sectors of the industry.

"OSHA in my book is our servant, not our master," the West Texas congressman and chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations said.

Brown also issued a series of stinging statements against the proposed standards, which, if enacted would ruin the industry.

It was even suggested by one witness at the hearing that Chairman Mahon might cut off appropriations for OSHA as a means of eliminating the agency.

OSHA also has numerous other outspoken opponents in Congress who have been chipping away at its authority. Ms. Bingham apparently is well aware of this situation, and she hopes to save the agency by improving its

It would help a whole lot if the new director could conduct a course in courtesy for her employes, particularly those agents out in the field.

Ms. Bingham acknowledges that many of the complaints are valid.

Responsible for alleviating working conditions which each year are believed to kill, injure or sicken many workers, OSHA's regulations, such as those requiring coat hooks in toilet stalls and advice to farmers that cow manure can be slippery and therefore hazardous, have made it the butt of numerous jokes. Other OSHA edicts have been just as ridiculous. But they are not funny when they come to the point of shutting down a business at the whim of an agent.

Ms. Bingham, formerly associate director of the Institute of Environmental Health at the University of Cincinnati's medical school, says she plans to simplify regulations and to enlarge the agency's program of educating workers and employes about health and safety problems. She also has in mind developing a consultation program for small businesses and place a greater emphasis on serious health problems. She is said to be exploring ways of helping small businesses meet the higher cost of redesigning dangerous machines or installing new equipment - a program which would involve tax credits or incentives.

Eula Bingham has her work cut

ART BUCHWALD 'Nixon won't let us alone, writer says

WASHINGTON - The mail as I expected has been coming in' on on Nixon. The typical letter reads as follows: "Why don't you lay off Nixon and leave him alone? Why is the press still hounding him? How long do you plan on persecuting him?"

My response to these letters is as

"I'm not hounding Nixon. He's hounding me. I waved goodby to him as his helicopter took off from the White House in August 1974, and I never thought I'd hear from him again. We had our disagreements (I'll never forget I decided to let bygones be bygones, and since he no longer had any power I wouldn't write about him again. It may have been my imagination but I thought as the helicopter took off, Nixon waved back to me as if to say, 'No hard feelings. You had a right to do what you did, and I had a right to do what I did.

"I wasn't the only one who was sad as we watched the helicopter disappear over the horizon. All the newspapermen around me had tears in their eyes.

"Whom are we going to write about now?' said a hard-bitten wire service

"From my viewpoint,' I said, 'he was the best President I ever had. But life has to go on. May he find the Watergate he has always been looking for in retirement in San Clemente.'

this but I didn't give Nixon a thought for almost three years. It was like an 18 1-2-minute gap in my life.

nore him any longer. He had set the whole thing up, not for money but so we would have to put him on the front pages again. He was forcing us to rehash the entire Watergate debacle Well, you're not going to believe once again, even though the media had wanted to put Watergate behind

"My wife said it best as I stared in anger at the set. 'Why doesn't he leave you alone? Haven't you suffered

"He leaves me no choice,' I told her. 'I'm going to have to write about him again.'

"She hugged me and said, 'Only I know what agony you're going through. Will Watergate never end for

"So, my answer to the people out there who keep asking me, 'Why am I still picking on Nixon?', I can only say I never planned to, but what can I do when he goes on television selling Alpo dog food and weed killer to 50 million people? If I ignored him people would accuse me of a coverup. I could even be charged with obstruction of justice. What choice does a newspaperman have? I'm not doing it to Nixon — Nixon is doing it to me

Mark Russell says

There is only one person who needed a comeback on TV more than Nixon. David Frost.

George McGovern strongly criticized President Carter the other day. It's about time the Democrats got back to normal - tearing each other apart.

A unified Democratic Party this past year was unreal. Reminds me of a couple who don't get along but who hold hands when the in-laws are visiting.

I get a kick out of liberals being surprised to learn that Carter is not one of them. It's as if they were all hypnotized a year ago and the spell is just for the sake of his psychological survival.

He has always had a knack for improving on reality. A quartercentury ago in his celebrated Checkers speech, he could not resist reaching out for the Irish vote by saying that his wife was called Pat because she was born on St. Patrick's Day, March 17; only a boor would spoil that story by pointing out that her real birthday was March 16.

Likewise, the most touching portions of the first David Frost interviews benefited from improving on the facts. John Ehrlichman insists that, at his Camp David dismissal, Nixon had been crying all right but for Nixon, not Ehrlichman.

And Meade Alcorn insists that it was he who fired the hapless Sherman Adams; Nixon was invited to the hanging but backed out the last minute. All of which recalls Nixon's own observation that a political speech should be poeiry not prose.

The old performer is once more upon the boards, grinding out the organ music with a heavy foot on the pedal. There is a fascination with him that drew 40 to 50 million viewers to a makeshift network. His audacity confounds us; his indestrustibility comforts our fear of decay.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Nixon rising after the fall

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - The Richard Nixon who has risen from his San Clemente tomb after three years is not a reed broken by the storm but the same dogged fighter, battered but ring-wise, rolling with the blows as of sometimes awkward but still serviceable, landing an occasional kidney punch that looks almost accidental, and coming on strong in the late rounds out of combative endurance.

It is a performance gratifying to those concerned about his health, but filled with ominous portency for the legion that ever keeps guard over Nixon's tomb for fear of yet a Third Coming. His color is roseate, his mind selectively agile. On the day after the first telecast, he played 36 holes of golf. Clearly, Nixon has come a long way back.

His re-emergence needs to be placed in context. We have questioned intimates who have had access to him during his seclusion. He entered an exile which is often called selfimposed but which was, in fact, the only possibility for one to whom the scene of every triumph had turned to wormwood, one who bore the visible skeleton of an unparalleled majesty and public trust defaced by crimes universally known.

When the exile began, the intimates tell us that Nixon was on the edge of disintegration. One source described him as "totally weary, terribly depressed and completely despondent." Another was struck by his "stark lonliness . . . Nixon was absolutely alone within himself."

To sleep, he had to take Seconal. His conversations sometimes wandered off into incoherence. He was unable, we are told to utter the name of the special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski Aides considered his internal balance so delicate that they would take visitors aside and caution them not to mention Watergate.

Only Nixon himself could measure the depth of the pit into which he had fallen; for only a president can appreciate the inseparability of his presidential and personal fates. If his presidency goes sour, he is not per-mitted the blessed neglect accorded to obscure failures or the disgrace that is at length forgotten. Each day's news rekindles the ugly past. Each anniversary, each new campaign, each memoir of an associate becomes an occasion to revive the old reproaches. Jail terms and strangled careers have blighted the associations that, for other presidents, are the constant occasions for recalling past glories and for viewing themselves as a font for a thousand men's rise.

And he must meap the bitter harvest of a quarter-century vendetta with large elements of the press and academia. Always he had been convinced that for him triumph could come only from success so gaudy as to render hollow the voices of his detractors. How close he had come! For a time in late 1972, his foot was on the neck of his enemies (a favorite Nixonian image). But he stumbled and let slip the sword with which, in countless articles and books yet unwritten, he would be eternally skewered. And so for a time, the recluse of San Clemente would sit staring blankly at the sea, lost in a blackness in which there shone not a star of hope. But though frayed, he held together, never quite surrendering the control of his faculties. At first, he could not articulate his despair. Then he turned to his wife and began to pour it out his moods, his fears, his anguish. Our sources believe it was this that saved him. "If it hadn't been for Pat," said one friend, "Dick would not have survived. Her presence pulled him through.

As he inched out of his shell, he turned to a retirement project conceived in happier days. He had planned a Churchillian retirement as the world's senior statesman sought after for advice, surrounded by the relics and papers of his presidency and, more important, the tapes exclusively his from which he could write a history such as never before had been possible.

The plan for eight years of triumph crowned by a great tome, was in ashes. Not even the tapes, now confiscated, remained. But the memoirs were to be even more important for him - his therapy, the means of his financial survival and personal rehabilitation.

Seeking out the recollections of those ex-aides to whom he could still turn, he began to conduct interviews which drew him out further. He was once more a man with a purpose, armed again with his long yellow

Now he constructed those allimportant rationalizations, the little facelifts that were indispensable if he was again to navigate the outside world. He found he could face his fall by treating it as a political debacle, no different from the scrapes that Harry Truman and John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson had covered up, except that he had the ill luck and the poor judgment to get caught.

Viewed in this light, his downfall was testimony to his inner innocence amidst the stupidity of his aides, the venom of his enemies. He put particular blame, according to intimates, on John Mitchell and John Ehrlichman whom he called "those crooked

TACOMA, WASH. — An industry planting seedlings now, for harvest as big trees in the year 2027, must believe in the future. The very nature of the wood industry requires the long look. But the wood industry feels that it is too much occupied with the present generation of government regulations, snoops and partly informed legislators. A half-century or more ago, the lumber buccaneers did indeed ravage huge tracts of virgin timber in the Northwest. It took a conservation movement, a bit of Teddy Roosevelt spirit and a return to reason to convert the wood barons from pirates to tree farmers.

Wood is pleasant and attractive. Compared to other materials, most people prefer to have it around them in their daily lives. Besides in today's mass-market societies, there is a giant appetite for lumber, plywood, paneling, cartons, disposable diapers, paper bags and all manner of wood products. Wood is now a $75 billion-ayear industry, with some $4.5 billion of its products being exported annually. Plant, produce, harvest. Plant. So it should be expected that a leader like Weyerhaeuser calls itself "The Tree Growing Company," and increasingly applies technological terms to what we all revered in Mother Nature. When Weyerhaeuser began its "High Yield Forestry" program in 1966, it described the program as "a biological opportunity to produce more wood," and spoke of "mission orientation," "technology transfer points" and "regeneration centers. The Weyerhaeuser Empire stretches over millions and millions of acres of forestland in the United States, Canada and overseas, and yet it all begins in relatively small nursery plots. Instead of allowing nature to sow tree seeds in freshly logged areas, young trees are grown from seed in nurseries.

Much of this seed is gathered from cones collected from the best trees in the forest. Increasingly, however, the young trees are bred from genetically superior seed produced in controlled "seed orchards." The more scientific the process becomes, the quicker and greater the yield in trees. Weyerhaeuser estimates that within 50 years, this breeding of superior stock will cause trees to grow 70 to 100 percent faster then now

Weyerhaeuser is even into a "way out" tissue culture research project at the Oregon Graduate Center which could lead to reproduction of superior Douglas fir trees from single cells.
This sounds like Huxley's "Brave
New World," only it deals with test tube trees, not babies

The farming concept is pervasive. Harvested areas are replanted rapidly, by hand and by machine. Helicopters apply nitrogen fertilizer to young growths of trees. Forest managers employ an intricate system of thinning out trees at two different stages so the best specimens grow into even bigger trees. Some young to measure the effects of moisture, heat and light. Specialists can even determine how much water a tree absorbs or how much it grows in 30 minutes.

Moreover, Weyerhaeuser makes thorough studies of forest soil, giving it five rankings according to its suitability for tree growing, just as a farmer would test his soil to determine which crops would grow best

The forests of Europe have been managed for centuries in-order to insure a constant supply of wood. Not so in the United States because we always had an abundance. But now, with European coaching, and our own quantum leaps in technology, the United States is fast achieving world leadership in forestry. Even the envious Swedes admit that. When an industry knows what it is about, and is doing a first-rate job, it should say so, without shame. But now, though the industry follows reforestation and good environmental practices, as well as showing good economic performance, it catches an uncommon amount of

In California, several timber companies face the possibility of yielding up to 74,000 acres of forestland to the U.S. government to enlarge the Redwoods National Forest at a cost of up to $700 million. It's ready to put these well-managed forests into government ownership, as though that was a religious act.

If there are going to be more government people in the woods, the Weyerhaeuser people hope they are U.S. Forest Service personnel, not itinerant inspectors from the Office of Safety and Health Administration (OSHA). Lumber companies with concessions in the national forests complain the U.S. Forest Service is undermanned and underfunded. There is also the industry view that it is all right to have an EPA regulation, if it is clear and understandable. The wood moguls are less tolerant of OSHA and charge that many OSHA inspectors are only on fishing expeditions for trouble.

Anyway, when an industry does a ob better than the government can, it should have a hearing, and not be tied down by bureaucratic Lilliputians armed with red tape. Weyerhaeuser seems to be doing a good job in producing wood and obeying the environmental and aesthetic commandments of the great forests.

These days a successful businessman often develops a thick skin to ward off criticism Weyerhaeuser actually considered itself complimented when one conservation writer described the company as "The best of the SOBs."

Young tells conference delegates U.S. 'trying very desperately'

MAPUTO, Mozambique (AP) Ambassador Andrew Young, here for a U.N. conference on black rule in southern Africa, says the Carter administration is "trying very desperately" to respond to the great expectations of black Africans.

Young, the first black American ambassador to the United Nations, said Monday he had found "a great deal of expectation for the Carter administration" during the first 10 days of his current African tour.

The ambassador, who addresses the conference Friday, said the interests of Africa and the United States in white-ruled Southern Africa "are not in conflict.'

"We'll all profit by majority rule as soon as the struggle for liberation moves into the struggle for economic development," he said.

Nujoma, whose Soviet-backed organization is waging a small guerrilla war against South African control of South-West Africa, said SWAPO demands independence on its terms and "will never accept any kind of compromise."

Young flew to Maputo from Lisbon Portugal, where he interrupted his African tour for talks with Vice President Walter F. Mondale, who meets with South African Prime Minister John Vorster in Vienna on Thursday and Friday.

WASHINGTON + After studying the issue for a year, a joint committee of Congress declared Monday that Soviet civil defense programs do not provide any reliable protection against U.S. strategic forces.

No rational Soviet leaders would risk starting a nuclear war, the Joint Committee on Defense Production said, because that war would inevitably destroy the Soviet Union as a great power.

The United States, the committee, concluded, should not try to mimic or match the Soviet civil defense effort, because greater spending on civil defense here would prove ineffectual and a waste of money.

These conclusions appear in a 100page report, which amounts to a detailed rebuttal to alarms sounded during the past year by some members of the strategic community concerned about the ongoing Soviet civil defense program. The com-mittee majority said, in effect, these alarms are unjustified.

Three members disagreed, and filed a minority report, which said the Soviet program is menacing. However, they did not recommend a new American program to match it, but instead urged further study and analysis of what the Soviets are really

Miami blackout blamed on faulty relay switch

By CINDY ROSE

MIAMI (AP) - Buzzing dental drills fell silent. Elevators stopped between floors. Drawbridges gaped open, clogging major traffic arteries. People couldn't buy gasoline or even withdraw money from banks.

The blame for the chaos went to a faulty $50 relay switch that shortcircuited on Monday and caused a blackout affecting almost three million people over 15,000 square miles in south Florida.

No deaths or injuries were attributed to the outage, which lasted seven hours in some places. A dentist in Miramar, southeast of from getting an advantage over the United States in civil defense.

The Carter administration itself Monday signalled its intention to spend less money on precautions against a nuclear war. In a change of policy, the administration will allow the states to spend federal civil defense funds to prepare for floods, hurricanes and other natural disasters.

This was announced by Bardyl Tirana, newly appointed director of the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency in the Pentagon. Tirana said said communities can use federal money for disaster planning provided they will draw up plans for handling a nuclear attack.

Previous regulations restricting the use of federal funds to bomb shelters and other war preparations wasted money, Tirana said.

Tirana also said he could not use wisely any of the extra money the House appropriated for civil defense. "I do not seek it. I do not want it," he said

In its analysis of civil defense, the Joint Committee on Defense Production made these points:

-Soviet civil defense measures might be effective in protecting lives and industry against an attack by a secondary nuclear power like China or France, but there are no foreseeable circumstances in which they could give significant protection against an all-out U.S. attack.

The report analyzed the Soviet economy and concluded that it is too vulnerable to recover with any speed from a nuclear war. The Soviets' relatively undeveloped transportation network and its backward agriculture made it particularly vulnerable, the committee concluded.

Many crucial targets in the Soviet Union cannot be protected with the kinds of measures the Soviets use such as building up the walls of fac-Proponents of the extra money said a tories or digging shelters. Oil it was needed to prevent the Soviets refineries were cited as an example of an unprotectable target.

-The idea that the Soviets are building up their civil defense programs because they are contemplating a "war-winning" nuclear strategy does not make sense.

Those who view the Soviet program with alarm because it might allow the Russians to survive a nuclear war with less damage than the United States would suffer take too narrow a view, the committee said. The question is not which superpower would suffer more, but whether either could remain a superpower after a nuclear exchange.

The committee said no rational leaders would launch a war unless they were confident it could survive with basic social, political and economic institutions. This could not be assured with any foreseeable civil defense program, the committee said

'To adopt the view that either nation can attain the ability to 'win' a major nuclear exchange in any meaningful sense of the term or to survive it as a major power through passive industrial defense (i.e., civil defense measures) runs the risk of encouraging potentially dangerous strategic miscalculations," the committee said.

House passes primary bill system

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Texas House members the bill setting up the 1976 primary today passed, 117-7, a bill setting up a permanent presidential primary system without last year's controversial winner-take-all feature.

Senate action still is needed. Fourteen representatives, mostly Republicans Texas delegates to national party nominating conwho wanted the GOP to have the right to a winnertake-all primary, voted "present." The House debated for an hour, then postponed staes or other parts of Texas. Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, made the as an active candidate, and Jimmy Carter received delaying motion after amendments had taken out several key provisions. He said he would offer on

Peveto says property tax bill up to Hobby

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Wayne Peveto said today that his con-troversial bill to consolidate property tax appraisal is dead unless Lt. Gov Bill Hobby shoves it out of the Senate committee where it now languishes. "The hour is late," said Peveto, D-Orange. "Unless the lieutenant governor acts in the next day or so, property tax reform will be dead for senators gave in, Peveto said. Peveto's blocking action was prompted by Creighton's refusal to send the bill to the Senate floor unless Peveto produced a list of 21 senators who would vote to take it up. It passed the House nearly a month ago. Peveto said Hobby had repeatedly issued public commitments to get the bill to the Senate floor. "In the lieutenant governor's report of March 4, 1977, Hobby stated, 'Property tax reform is high on the list - and I personally consider this to

Market turns downward

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market turned downward today in a session marked by selling pressure on the steel issues.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.82 at 928.68, and losers held a slight advantage over gainers among New York Stock Exchangelisted issues. U.S. Steel, the most active

NYSE issue, was down 1% at 431/2. Bethlehem Steel dropped 11% to 31% and Armco was down 3/8 at 281/2. Both U.S. Steel and Bethlehem are included in the Dow. The selling in the group appeared to be touched off by a report on the group issued by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith on Monday night.

Charles Bradford, the analyst who wrote the report, said in a telephone interview he had lowered his earnings estimates for several big companies in the industry for this year because of some short term factors such as cold weather at the start of the year.

But he also said he was 'very positive' on the industry's 1978 prospects and had raised his evaluation on Bethlehem from "neutral" to "okay to buy" while keeping an "okay to buy" rating on the other industry leaders.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks lost .14 to 54.21. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .30 at 114.18. Volume on the Big Board totalled 9.36 million shares by noontime against 8.60 million at the same point on Monday.

Lee Youth Center chatter

JANIS SANDERS and DEEHONA WISE

This issue of the Chatter is dedicated to The Midland Reporter-Telegram, the Seniors of 1977, and YC Director Bill Collyns. Without them the Chatter would not have been possible. With never-ending gratitude, thanks to all of you! WE LOVE YA!!

Junior Council: The breakfast last Friday was a success at Sambo's. It was a time to say good-by to the seniors and hello to the sophomores who made Junior Council. At the breakfast, new officers were elected for the 1977-78 school year. They are as follows: President, Wendy Heckman; vice president, Susan Dakil; secretary, Victoria Igou; treasurer, George Barr. That's not all, the new CHATTER WRITERS were announced. They are Anita Ragan, Missy Seawright and Diana Scott. We know they wil be GREAT and we wish them the best of luci.

Pardue. Congratulations and have a good next year!
Boogie Fever: The End of School Dance will be held Friday, May 27. New members (Austin fresh men) who have bought Youth Center cards will get in free. Those who haven't will be charged 50 cents Austin freshmen — bring your $5 Thursday or Friday to buy your Youth Center cards for the summer and next year. They are really worth it, so don't miss this chance!

The announcement of the Student Council officers will be next week.

Rebelettes: This is a reminder to all of the Senior Rebelettes. If you have any of your uniform that you would like to sell, go by the library. Also if you stil have a pattern you would like to donate, please do so Next year's Rebelettes need these in order to make their uniforms. ATTENTION sophomores and juniors: You need to go by the library and sign up to be a Rebelette for the 1977-78 school year. Rebelette: keep up the SPIRIT!

Spring Sports Banquet: This beautiful occasion was held last Tuesday in the Lee Cafeteria. All varsity sport lettermen received their awards Congratulations to all. The exciting moment came when the Outstanding Boy and Girl Athletes were announced. They are Brad Wright, who lettered in football, basketball and baseball, and Wendy Williams who lettered in swimming for three years. Wendy also received the Janis Ottmann Award. We are really proud of these two talented athletes, who are OUTSTANDING in every way!

The Scrimmage: Yes the annual scrimmage of the year was held Saturday morning at 10 on the Lee practice field, with the Old Seniors playing Varsity for next year. The SENIOR MEN of '77 proved their ability by beating the Varsity 8-3. Way to go seniors, you are really fantastic. However, we know that the Varsity will be great next year and wewish them the Best of Luck because the REBELS will always be NO. 1.

SENIORS SEVENTY-SEVEN: The night of your life is coming soon . . . the ALL-NIGHT PARTY on June 3. You will be listening to the tunes of J. J. and his Music Machine, along with Fever, who will present a floor show at 1 a.m. The tickets are only $6 per person and will go on sale next Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The tickets will be on sale in front of the auditorium through May 27 each day. On Sunday. May 29, you can buy them in the Youth Center after Bacculerate. Don't forget the reception honoring the seniors and their parents at the Youth Center after Bacculerate. Tickets also will be on sale from 9 to 11:30 on June 2, during Commencement practice, which starts at 9:30 NO tickets will be sold at the door. At the All-Night Party, there will be FREE food and drinks along with a FREE breakfast at 3 a.m., catered by McDonalds. This party is for seniors only or seniors and their dates. Don't forget to buy your tickets and the gifts to be awarded at the

party! OLD DAYS GOOD TIMES I REMEMBER: And our good time was when our Rebel football team took the District Bell and Bi-District Trophy. FUN DAYS FILLED WITH SIMPLE PLEASURE: These were

the days we watched our Rebel Roundballers bring in victories throughout the season. DRIVE-IN MOVIES, COMIC BOOKS AND BLUE JEANS: All of the memorable dances at the great Youth Center and the faded overalls we love to wear. HOWDY-DOODIES, BASEBALL CARDS AND GOOD DAYS: All of those afternoons sitting at the Rebel Diamond cheering on our Rebel Batmen. TAKE ME BACK TO A WORLD GONE AWAY: The memories of the Dixie Belles about the fun-filled Mo-Ranch trip (Toast) and the victorious football game. MEMORIES SEEM LIKE YESTERDAY: It seems just like yesterday that we started our BIG Senior Year. OLD DAYS GOOD TIMES I REMEMBER: When our Fantastic Tracksters brought home many new records. OLD DAYS, DAYS I'LL ALWAYS TREASURE: Rebel golfers always will remember those everyday teeoffs and placing first almost every tournament FUNNY FACES FULL OF LOVE AND LAUGHTER: Those funny faces that appeared on Valentine's Day who sang you a Love Song. FUNNY PLACES, SUMMER NIGHTS AND STREET CARS All of those thousands of circles around and around Love's and the Youth Center parking lot. TAKE ME BACK TO A WORLD GONE AWAY: When our Rebel, Red-Eyed Swimmers qualified for the state meet. GOOD MEMORIES SEEM LIKE YESTER-DAY: All of those cherished memories of wrapping lockers and painting signs by the loyal Rebelettes. OLD DAYS IN MY MIND AND IN MY HEART TO STAY: The beautiful Senior Dinner filled with friendship and that late night out at the places and the sleepy eyes the next morning (and a few headaches). LOCKED IN DREAMS OF GOOD TIMES GONE AWAY: The Congregating in the orange hall between classes everyday, with the fireworks and smoke bombs. BITS OF LOVE AND FEELING THAT YOU'RE FREE: Along with the tears that will be shed on June 3 during Graduation. BITS OF MAGIC STILL SO CLOSE TO ME: The memories of victories and losses. Coronation ceremonies. Homecoming, the Prom, and many other priceless memories. OLD DAYS: Our times to remember were every Sunday writing the Chatter hoping that you would get as much fun out of it as we did but now it is our time to say, "GOOD-BYE AND

THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES! Mica, Janis and Deehona P.S. We want to pass on our full-filled Sundays to next year's Chatter Writers and hope they will keep up the tradition along with having a great time chattering

Governor says energy plan would hurt coal

The Washington Post

DENVER - In one of the most wide-ranging assessments yet of President Carter's proposed energy plan, Colorado Gov. Richard D. Lamm warned here Monday that the program could produce enormous financial and social strains on the Western coal states.

Lamm refrained from criticizing the Carter energy package but he predicted it would cause his state's coal output to swell four-fold by 1985 in order to meet rising out-of-state

If that happens, said the governor,

it would cost Coloradans nearly $500 million in coal-related housing and transportation costs alone and mean a huge increase in coal train traffig through the state, a drop in tourism and the arrival of nearly 55,000 new residents at rural coal-producing

The effect on neighboring states with even larger supplies of coal than Colorado has, Lamm said, will be

In presenting his energy proposals to Congress and the nation, President Carter called for a massive national fuel conversion from natural gas and

Federal energy statistics indicate that nearly two-thirds of the nation's 45 billion tons of minable coal are located in about six large Western coal states. Right now, Western coal accounts for only about 16 per cent of the annual coal output. Under the Carter plan, which calls for a better than billion-ton annual coal production by 1985, the West is expected to supply about a third of the

Wolfcamp oil production was extended 1/2 mile west in the War-Wink. South field of Ward County, with completion of Getty Oil Co. No. 1-22-18 University, seven miles northwest of

The 24-hour flowing potential was for 236 barrels of 53.6-gravity oil and 289 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 7,191-1. The flow was through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations at 13,192-13,246 feet. The section had been acidized with 4,500 gallons. The new oiler is 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 22, block 18, ULS.

Schleicher test flows

Mitchell Energy Corp., Midland, No. 1-19 Ryan, Schleicher County scheduled prospector, 17 miles southwest of Eldorado, flowed gas at the rate of 400,000 cubic feet per day, plus 11 barrels of load water and some condensate, in 10 hours.

Amerada Hess Corp., Tulsa, was preparing to drill below 11,546 feet at No. 1-D Seminole Deep, after the Gaines County wildcat recovered oil on two consecutive drillstem tests in the Devonian Tool was open 22 minutes on the test coal policy" for the state. Under it, he said, Colorado would pursue tougher clean air standards and land reclamation laws for strip miners. The governor said the state will also emphasize controlled growth to avoid what he called "a boom-and-bust cycle" and will seek to export its coal for processing in other states rather than convert it into energy at mine sites here.

Colorado's coal output under the Carter plan would jump from 9.4 million tons per year in 1976 to 37.8 million tons per year by 1985, Lamm said. By contrast, neighboring Wyoming faces a ten-fold increase in coal production to 296 million tons annually by 1985. New Mexico, Montana, North Dakota and Utah also face huge increases in coal production, Lamm said.

The impact of the coal boom already is being felt in some places here and will grow rapidly throughout the state in the next few years, he said. Coal traffic on railroad lines in the state will jump from four trains per week to 172 trains weekly in 1985,

By 1985, the state will also have 45 new or expanded coal mines with at least 15 of them large strip mines, a task force official said.

Lamm said one Colorado town in the northern Rocky Mountains has grown 288 per cent to 12,000 residents in the past seven years because of coal development there.

Lamm also said he feared that the proposed construction of large coalpowered electrical generation facilities near mine sites in the state or coal slurry pipelines; which transport crushed coal mixed with water, would seriously deplete the state's scarce water reserves.

The governor's task force report is the most exhaustive effort at either the state or federal level to gauge what effect the Carter energy proposals will have on Western coal

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Your headache may be migraine

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am 22 years old and have been having pretty bad headaches on and off for seven years. It's a throbbing kind of pain, and just before it starts, I see flickering lights in front of my eyes. Sometimes, the left side of my tongue feels numb at the same time. My mother has the same trouble. Other people's headaches don't seem to act that way, so I'm wondering if mine are something more serious.—John R.

Dear John: The condition you call "other people's headaches" is the much more common type, brought on by tension. What you describe sounds like migraine, which usually isn't more serious in the sense of dangerous. However, it's certainly a great deal more unpleasant, as I'm sure I needn't tell you.

A migraine headache results when a blood vessel in your head contracts. temporarily cutting off oxygen to part of your brain. When the blood vessel expands again, it causes the throbbing pain you complain of. The other symptoms you describe coincide with the so-called "classic" migraine, in which any of a number of symptoms can precede the headache (sometimes by as much as 30 minutes), depending on what part of the brain is served by the offending blood vessel

Some headaches, also preceded by these symptoms, CAN be dangerous, and should be treated by a specialist, buy your description points in the direction of plain, old garden-variety migraine. To begin with, your numbness and vision trouble disappear when the headache comes on; in the more dangerous headaches, the symptoms remain even after the pain has begun. Then there's the time factor: the facts that you have a family history of such headaches, and that you've been suffering from them for some time now point to a case of classic migraine. (By the way, a "classic" migraine differs from a "common" one in that the common one has no other symptoms preceding it-the pain just hits you out of the blue.) Some migraine sufferers also complain of nausea and vomiting: that, too, is nothing to get alarmed about

So you shouldn't worry, but you should certainly do something about your problem. Definitely, you should see a doctor, if you haven't yet, do so. He'll prescribe the proper medication to ease your pain-most likely, a drug containing ergotamine, the leader among anti-migraine drugs.

Also, I suggest you start a headache diary, in which you record the time each headache starts, how long it last, what medicine you took for it, how severe it was, and what you ate that day. The last item is important because, like allergies, migraines are triggered by specific things, varying from person to person and ranging from stress and exertion to chocolate and hot dogs. You should find out what triggers your migraines, so you can try to avoid these things in the

If you follow your doctor's advice with regard to medication, and avoid your migraine triggers as much as possible, your headaches should get a

User admits water power has drawbacks

By DAN FREEMAN

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) - After 20 years of making his own electricity with a waterwheel, Herber Ogden says homemade energy is great but warns of pitfalls involved in doityourself power.

He found the 19th-centuryvintage, 13-foot, 6-inch waterwheel in Pennsylvania and paid $500 for it. Today, he says, it would cost $5,000.

'The eight-foot bull gear cost $25, junk price. The pulleys and shafting are all junkyard stuff," says Ogden, whose waterwheel also runs his cider and grist mill near his house at Hartland in southern Vermont.

"Of course, the stuff is even more scarce now. If you can buy secondhand, okay. But if you're going to have to buy new and you have to make this go economically, you just can't do it." he says.

Even with the cost of electricity as high as it is, it still isn't feasible."

Ogden, who had electricity before hooking up a generator to the waterwheel, says his power source has drawbacks.

"We don't have a television, but it probably wouldn't work," he says.

Lightbulbs flicker when there is too little power being generated and blow out when there is too much.

"If the power goes off suddenly, that means some valve has come off. If it's just low, it could be trash or ice preventing the water from coming through.

"That's the kind of inconveience you put up with. But when it works, it sure works nice," he says. "We have the purest, freshest organic electricity available.'

Ogden says his only power costs are for replacement parts, a major cleaning of the system every four or five years and about $6 a month to a power company for standby power to the house. He supplements electric heat with a wood stove during the bitter Vermont winters.

The standby power is for emergencies or when Lull's Brook is low in the summer.

Ogden says there's always been enough water to run only the mill. where apples are mashed into cider and grain ground into meal.

Ogden, a state senator, says he learned to work on machinery as a farmer and that he gets lots of advice.

"Anybody who has ever run a waterwheel himself cannot stand to drive by somebody else's without stopping and telling him how to do it.'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tax bill that began as the centerpiece of President Carter's economic stimulus program is returning to the White House for final consideration. The President's signature would mean a new permanent tax cut for 46 million couples or individuals.

Those who get the tax cuts should see the changes in paychecks received after June 1.

Congress completed action on the bill Monday. The Senate passed it by voice vote without objection following a 383-2 vote in the House.

Although the bill contains business tax breaks that the Carter administration says are not needed, congressional leaders say they have no doubt that the President will sign

The major new tax cut in the bill would benefit only the 69 per cent of taxpayers who do not itemize deductions. By increasing the standard deduction, the legislation would cut taxes by $111 a year for a typical four-member family earning $15,000 a

A single person earning $10,000 would get a $110 tax cut. But two million single persons earning more than $13,750 likely would find their taxes increased by about $1 a week.

In all, American individuals and businesses would pay $34.1 billion less in taxes over the next 28 months.

In addition to raising the standard deduction to $3,200 for couples filing a joint return and $2,200 for single persons, the bill would greatly simplify tax returns for 95 per cent of the individual filers. In most cases, a taxpayer could figure his taxes simply by looking at a tax table and without computing any percentages or using multiplication.

The Internal Revenue Service says the more-generous standard deduction will make it more beneficial to 6.7 million couples or individuals to stop itemizing deductions. The changes will eliminate tax liability above that withheld for 3.3 million returns.

One section of the bill affects almost every taxpayer. It extends for one year, through Dec. 31, 1978, the general $35-per-person tax credit (or 2 per cent of the first $9,000 of taxable income); continues the special credit of up to $400 a year for poor working families, and lowers tax rates for corporations.

Also included are special onetime tax breaks for sick-pay recipients, elderly persons and Americans who worked abroad in 1976. These temporary changes are designed to delay for one year the effective date of some parts of the big tax law package passed last year.

Missing is the major element contained in the bill when it was proposed by Carter in an effort to spur the sluggish economy. Carter had wanted $50 rebate checks mailed to about 200 million Americans in an effort to boost consumer spending and the economy:

Crash leaves 'gory mess

NEW YORK (AP) — The heliport atop the Pan American building was turned into a "gory mess" of "brains and ribs" after an idling helicopter keeled over and sent its whirling rotary blades slashing through passengers and onto the sidewalk 59

Five persons were killed in the accident Monday, including a woman who was hit by falling debris a block away from the skyscraper that straddles Grand Central Terminal in midtown Manhattan. At least eight others were injured.

Three waiting passengers were literally cut to pieces as the blades hit the landing pad and spun off. A fourth man also died on the roof of serious

One blade sailed over the Biltmore Hotel to land on Madison Avenue, striking Anne Barnecott, 29, of the Bronx in the rush hour pedestrian traffic. She died instantly. Another blade boomeranged into a window of the Pan Am building, but no one was injured. Witnesses described the scene as "a gory mess" after the landing gear of the New York Airways helicopter, about to take off for John F. Kennedy International Airport, collapsed.

"There were people decapitated," said fireman Dick Martinson. "It was a very grim scene. There are ribs and brains showing all over the place." Later Deputy Medical Examiner Michael Baden showed reporters several paperback books, sliced and bloody. "This is what the bodies looked like," Baden said. "Their wounds were immediately fatal."

The four rooftop victims were believed to have been among those waiting to board the craft for the return trip to Kennedy Airport, said an airline spokesman.

They were identified as Enrico Gnaga, 45, of Milan, Italy, who died at Bellevue Hospital; David Toomey of Montclair, N.J.; Michael Findley of Manhattan, and a man who remained unidentified early today.

Reported in critical condition was Jean Koski, of Neptune Beach, Fla. She was traveling with her husband, George, and their 9-year-old son, John, who were injured less seriously.

A half-dozen new passengers had been taken aboard when the accident occurred, but the crew got them out a window after the craft keeled over.

There was no official explanation for the accident, but several reports bolstered the theory of the collapsed landing gear.

Mayor Abraham Beame, who visited the rooftop, ordered the heliport license suspended until the investigation was completed.

Bomb devastates library prior to Mondale visit

MADRID, Spain (AP) - A bomb wrecked the first floor of the U.S. Cultural Center in Madrid today seven hours before the arrival of Vice President Walter Mondale, and a telephone caller said the ultra-leftist group that kidnaped two high-ranking Spanish officials last winter was responsible.

The newspaper El Pais rekported that a caller who said he spoke for GRAPO, a Communist splinter group, told it: "We planted the bomb. We destroyed the Yankee library.

The caller made no mention of Mondale, but it was assumed the bombing was planned for his visit. The center is about a mile from the nearest stop on his itinerary

The bomb went off at 4 a.m. when only a nigh watchman was near the building, and he was not hurt.

U.S. Embassy officials said the bomb was planted beneath a softdrink machine inside the center and opened a "crater" in the reinforced concrete floor when it blew up. The blast wrecked 10 schoolrooms and the film library on the first floor of the building but caused only minor damage on the second floor.

GRAPO first surfaced last winter when it kidnaped royal adviser Antonio Maria de Oriol and several weeks later abducted the top military judge, Lt. Gen. Emilio Villaescusa. The police freed both men unharmed in February.

The vice president came to Madrid from Lisbon, the capital of neighboring Portugal, and both visits were intended to demonstrate U.S. support for the movement toward democracy in the two countries of the Iberian peninsula after decades of dictator-

Smiley leaves all the flying to Crane boss

CRANE - Sometimes J. D. Richardson gets so wrought up with all that he has to do that he gets up in the air. Wayup

He's a flying dude . . . at least that's what he intends to be. He likes the feel of that prop wash. It all seems to take the bite out of the work-a-day

Awhile back, Richardson decided he wanted to fly.

So, naturally, he did what most flying buffs would want to do. He went out, bought himself an airplane, and got somebody to teach him how to fly. "I like it all right," he said in obviously understating his passion. "I needed something to do.' Of all people, Richardson needn't want for a whole lot more to do in this

West Texas oil patch country. "There's lots of oil, lots of work, around this little ol' town," he said. Richardson has a hunk of the work.

ROUSTIN ABOUT Ed Todd

He owns and operates an oil well servicing outfit, a trucking company, a sandblasting and steaming operation honed for the oil patch, and, lastly, an automobile parts store.

Still, he needed something to do. He bought the plane, a Cessna 175, over at Pecos.

"That's his toy," declared his wife, LaRue, who has been up with him once in the four-seat, single-engine flying machine

"He'll come home from work all flustered and go out there (to the airport and fly) and come back and not be flustered," the wife said. Actually, Richardson hasn't been

Decision on kennel postponed

Decision on a request by the Midland SPCA for a dog kennel on a 1.03 acre tract of land on the Andrews Highway near Idlewilde Drive was postponed by the Midland Planning and Zone Commission Monday.

Approved, however, was a zone change request by Leo Proctor, Security Storage, Midland SPCA and the city that would allow the animal shelter to built on the land site. The actual zone change was from 1F-1, single family district, and LR and LR-2, local retail districts, to C-3, commercial district.

But Denton Hines, who said he would live 100 yards from the animal shelter, voiced opposition to granting the specific use permit because barking dogs would disturb his sleep.

Dalton Byerly, director of the Midland SPCA, countered by saying, "There is a difference between a kennel and the type of thing we are proposing."

Currently the Midland SPCA is keeping puppies, kittens and cats at the present facility located at 5109 Andrews Highway.

Commission member Mrs. James Purvis asked the city planning staff look into the ordinances and sanitation requirements for the operation of a kennel.

If the specific use permit is granted, the Midland SPCA would house about 23 large dogs at the present site. Hopefully in two or three years a new shelter would be built, Byerly said. In other action the commission:

- Approved a request by Larry Peel for a zone change from LR-1, local retail district, to MF-1, multiple family district on 4.02 acres of land located on the southwest corner of Neely Drive and Pecos Street.

- Approved a preliminary replat of Kelson Place, southeast corner of Murray Street and Golf Course Road. - Approved a final plat of Nottingham Square, northwest corner of Andrews Highway and Midland

Elections being held around country today

In addition, Oregon voters are deciding whether to change their constitution to avoid a repeat of school budget problems that left more than 9,000 pupils out of class for up to a month and a half this year. Democrats in Philadelphia are c oosing candidates for controller and district attorney.

In Seattle and Pittsburgh, voters are picking replacements for Democrats appointed to Carter administration posts — Adams as secretary of transportation and former Pittsburgh Mayor Peter Flaherty as a deputy attorney

In Washington's 7th District, a pastiche of innner city slum and af-fluent suburb, liberal Democratic lawyer Marvin Durning, 47, is generally considered the favorite against conservative Republican state legislator Jack Cunningham, 46.

Other candidates are Ted Andromidas, U.S. Labor, Richard Kenney, Libertarian; and Dave Smith, American Independent.

It is the last of three special elections precipitated by President Carter's selection of congressmen for high administration posts. Former city council president Richard Caliguiri, who succeeded Flaherty as mayor, promised at the time not to run in the primary but may run as an independent in the fall. He is expected to do so if Foerster loses or wins with less than 50 per cent of the vote.

On the Republican side, Joseph Cosetti, a Democratic city treasurer who switched parties, has the Republican endorsement but no place on the ballot because his nominating petitions were ruled invalid. But his write-in campaign was expected to succeed against Barney Cook, a restaurant owner, and Albert Black, a county court tipstaff.

The Oakland election pitted Lionel Wilson, a 62-year-old black superior court judge who has the support of Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., against Dave Tucker, an investment banker endorsed by the retiring incumbent, Republican John Reading.

Minorities, including blacks, are estimated to be about 48 per cent of the population of 361,000.

Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter's speech "basically takes stock of and reviews domestic priorities" with a look toward the future. Asked if the President intended his remarks as a response to Democratic liberals who have contended his economic policies are too con-servative, Powell replied: "Not really. Later, Carter planned to make his second out-of-town effort to stay close to the voters by fielding their unrehearsed questions during a live television broadcast beamed to the Los Angeles area.

Carter planned to go from the UAW convention site to KNXT-TV in Los Angeles to take part in most of a 90minute local program that Powell likened to the President's March 17 appearance at a "town meeting" in Clinton, Mass.

Man's condition

'satisfactory'

ANDREWS - Jose Cordoba is in satisfactory condition at Odessa Medical Center Hospital. Cordoba has been undergoing treatment since Friday for injuries sustained in an oil rig accident.

He is suffering from a possible skull fracture, a possible broken collarbone and other injuries. The rig where Cordoba was employed is seven miles west of Andrews n the Funice Highway day, and many voters moved on to beaches and picnic grounds to enjoy the first sunny day after a long cold spell. The 82-degree temperatures promised a heavy voter turnout. Officials said almost all the 3,879 polling stations opened on schedule, and by midmorning the only incident reported was a small bomb which exploded in the occupied West Bank town of Nablus causing no casualties or damage. The voters included city dwellers, kibbutz farmers, soldiers at remote front line bases, ultra-Orthodox Dews who refused to look at billboards

School bonds vote today

Ector County voters today are deciding whether to issue $12.65 million in school bonds to finance construction of three new schools and a football stadium. Two previous bond proposals, in 1971 and 1974, to construct a new football facility have been turned down by Ector County voters. Construction of a junior high and two elementary schools accounts for $5.4 million of the bond package. But most discussion has arisen concerning the $4 million proposed football stadium.

Additions to Ector High School, Hood Junior High School and four elementary schools, as well as renovation of parts of Odessa and Permian high schools, also are included.

Three charged in prostitution

A man and two women were charged Monday in connection with prostitution arrests made by Midland police over the weekend.

Robert Montgomery, 26, of 209 S. Carver was charged with promotion of prostitution. Ann Washington, 25, of 304 S. Webster St. and Kelly Cole, 35, who gave her address as Dallas, were both charged with prostitution.

According to reports, Montgomery and Washington were arrested about 4:15 a.m. Sunday at a business in the 2300 block of E. Kentucky St.

Cole was arrested early Sunday morning at a motel in the 3000 block of West Wall St., according to police.

Young tells conference delegates U.S. 'trying very desperately'

By SERGE SCHMEMANN

MAPUTO, Mozambique (AP) Ambassador Andrew Young, here for a U.N. conference on black rule in southern Africa, says the Carter administration is "trying very desperately" to respond to the great expectations of black Africans.

Young, the first black American ambassador to the United Nations, said Monday he had found "a great deal of expectation for the Carter administration" during the first 10 days of his current African tour.

The ambassador, who addresses the conference Friday, said the interests of Africa and the United States in white-ruled Southern Africa "are

"We'll all profit by majority rule as soon as the struggle for liberation moves into the struggle for economic development," he said. But the 30-nation conference called to promote black majority rule in South-West Africa (Namibia) and Rhodesia (Zimbabwe) at its opening session Monday heard speakers blast U.S. efforts to resolve the racial conflict in southern Africa, claiming it was a smokescreen to keep the whites in power.

"We believe it is a mistake to speak of peaceful solutions when there is a war," said Mozambique President Samora Machel.

Machel, whose Frelimo liberation movement took over in 1974 when the Portuguese pulled out, attacked Western concern for the rights of the whites when the black majority took over Rhodesia and SouthWest Africa.

He said the whites there were 'settlers, not minorities" and should not be given special status "to preserve colonialism. Robert Mugabe, leader of the Patriotic Front guerrillas in Rhodesia, said he opposed

"Americanization" of the Rhodesian issue and attacked the U.S. offer to cosponsor a conference with Britain on the future of Rhodesia. Sam Nujoma, head of the South-West Africa Peoples Organization (SWAPO), denounced recent efforts by the United States and four other Western nations to arrange a referendum on the future of his territory.

Nujoma, whose Soviet-backed organization is waging a small guerrilla war against South African control of South-West Africa, said SWAPO demands independence on its terms and "will never accept any kind of compromise.

Young flew to Maputo from Lisbon, Portugal, where he interrupted his African tour for talks with Vice President Walter F. Mondale, who meets with South African Prime Minister John Vorster in Vienna on Thursday and Friday.

Soviet civil defense found wanting

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - After studying the issue for a year, a joint committee of Congress declared Monday that Soviet civil defense programs do not provide any reliable protection against U.S. strategic forces.

No rational Soviet leaders would risk starting a nuclear war, the Joint Committee on Defense Production said, because that war would inevitably destroy-the Soviet Union as a great power.

The United States, the committee concluded, should not try to mimic or match the Soviet civil defense effort, because greater spending on civil defense here would prove ineffectual

These conclusions appear in a 100page report, which amounts to a detailed rebuttal to alarms sounded during the past year by some members of the strategic community concerned about the ongoing Soviet civil defense program. The committee majority said, in effect, these alarms are unjustified.

Three members disagreed, and filed a minority report, which said the Soviet program is menacing. However, they did not recommend a new American program to match it, but instead urged further study and analysis of what the Soviets are really withdraw money from banks. The blame for the chaos went to a faulty $50 relay switch that shortcircuited on Monday and caused a blackout affecting almost three million people over 15,000 square miles in south Florida.

MIAMI (AP) - Buzzing dental drills fell silent. Elevators stopped between floors. Drawbridges gaped open, clogging major traffic arteries. People couldn't buy gasoline or even

No deaths or injuries were attributed to the outage, which lasted seven hours in some places.

A dentist in Miramar, southeast of Fort Lauderdale, said he was fixing a man's mouth plate when the power went off.

"I was just to the point of smoothing everything out," he said. "He's going to spend the day with a very rough Carolyn Cutting, a hairdresser, said

The short circuit shut down a nuclear-fueled generator at Turkey Point south of Miami at 10:12 a.m. (EDT), said officials of the Florida Power & Light Co.

For a shaky 12 minutes, automatic devices allowed other generating units in the giant utility's network to absorb the loss.

But attempts to keep the juice flowing failed at 10:24 a.m. as major plants toppled. Operators manually shut down one nuclear unit because of wide fluctuations in voltage. That triggered the automatic shutdown of five oil-fueled generators.

In short order, FPL customers from Marathon in the Florida Keys up the coast to St. Lucie, just north of Fort Pierce, were without power. The outrage stretched across the state to Naples on the Gulf Coast.

Some were without power until shortly before 5 p.m. Others, such as those in Naples, were out for about 10

Proponents of the extra money said it was needed to prevent the Soviets from getting an advantage over the United States in civil defense. The Carter administration itself Monday signalled its intention to $134.8 million, although the Carter administration did not want this extra-spend less money on precautions against a nuclear war. In a change of policy, the administration will allow the states to spend federal civil defense funds to prepare for floods, hurricanes and other natural disasters.

This was announced by Bardyl Tirana, newly appointed director of the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency in the Pentagon: Tirana said said communities can use federal money for disaster planning provided they will draw up plans for handling a nuclear attack.

Previous regulations restricting the use of federal funds to bomb shelters and other war preparations wasted money, Tirana said.

Tirana also said he could not use wisely any of the extra money the House appropriated for civil defense. "I do not seek it. I do not want it," he

In its analysis of civil defense, the Joint Committee on Defense Production made these points:

-Soviet civil defense measures might be effective in protecting lives and industry against an attack by a secondary nuclear power like China or France, but there are no foreseeable circumstances in which they could give significant protection against an all-out U.S. attack.

The report analyzed the Soviet economy and concluded that it is too vulnerable to recover with any speed from a nuclear war. The Soviets' relatively undeveloped transportation network and its backward agriculture made it particularly vulnerable, the committee concluded.

Many crucial targets in the Soviet Union cannot be protected with the kinds of measures the Soviets use, such as building up the walls of factories or digging shelters. Oil refineries were cited as an example of an unprotectable target.

-The idea that the Soviets are building up their civil defense programs because they are contemplating a "war-winning" nuclear strategy does not make sense.

Those who view the Soviet program with alarm because it might allow the Russians to survive a nuclear war with less damage than the United States would suffer take too narrow a view, the committee said. The question is not which superpower would suffer more, but whether either could remain a superpower after a nuclear exchange.

The committee said no rational leaders would launch a war unless they were confident it could survive with basic social, political and economic institutions. This could not be assured with any foreseeable civil defense program, the committee said.

"To adopt the view that either nation can attain the ability to 'win' a major nuclear exchange in any meaningful sense of the term or to survive it as a major power through passive industrial defense (i.e., civil defense measures) runs the risk of encouraging potentially dangerous strategic miscalculations," the committee said.

The committee is chaired by Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), who said in a press release that Soviet civil defenses "have not kept pace with advances in U.S. strategic weapons,' and therefore do not need to be matched by this country.

The dissenting minority report, which called for further study, was signed by Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.), and Reps. Garry Brown (R-Mich.) and Chalmers Wylie (R-Ohio)

Senate action still is needed. House members advanced the presidential primary bill on voice vote Monday with surprisingly a Bentsen delegate and was defeated. little debate, contrasting with the hullaballoo over the bill setting up the 1976 primary

As it now stands, a presidential hopeful's name would go on the ballot if he or she had qualified for federal campaign funds or was recognized as a candidate in the national news media.

Texas delegates to national party nominating conventions would be divided according to the percentage of the vote received by each candidate.

In the 1976 primary, delegates were given to the candidate with the most votes in each senatorial bill exempting rentals of motion picture films from

'Attitude' concerns police chief, mayor

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Police Chief B.G. Bond says he's concerned about the attitude of Houston policemen and Mayor Fred Hofheinz says part of that attitude is an illness.

"I have established an internal affairs division," Bond said Monday. "Perhaps the message will be received. When we start having the inspectors' command checking on all officers, then I'm confident that time will tell if they (officers) feel they have carte blanche.

Earlier Monday, Hofheinz said "I think there is something loose in this city that is an illness. And, that is an attitude on the part of a lot of people, including a lot of community leaders, people in charge of mass communications, that whatever a Houston police officer does is OK.

Hofheinz said such an attitude causes Houston policemen to think they have community protection against crimes they commit.

Comments by Bond and Hofheinz came as the district attorney's office prepared to take the case of officer

Blaze origin

WACO, Tex. (AP) Firemen were still trying to determine today the cause of a blaze that left 17 families homeless in this Central Texas city.

No one was killed in the fire, but 15 were injured and two remained in a hospital. Elaine Williams, 18, was listed in fair condition under intensive care for head injuries. Twenty-year-old Alan Cockrell was reported in satisfactory condition with serious back injuries. Both dived from fourth floor windows as the blaze consumed the Hardin Apartments.

Officials say the fire was believed to have originated in the basement of the 50-yearold building around 1:30 a.m. Monday

Fire Marshal Chris Winkler said the building had two exits. The front was blocked "almost immediately" by flames, Winkler said Flames did not reach the back exit until later, but some residents had to escape through windows. The blaze destroyed the building in less than an Winkler said fire officials had inspected the building only six weeks ago. The building was not considered "condemnable" at that time, but was rated "adequate," he said.

Johnson mystery may end

WICHITA FALLS, Tex, (AP) — The mystery surrounding the disap-pearance of grain dealer Robert Johnson may soon be solved, federal authorities said Monday.

Johnson reportedly fell from a party boat and drowned Jan. 3 in the Gulf of Mexico near Port Aransas. Some law officers have said they believe he is alive and hiding, perhaps having undergone plastic surgery to alter his appearance.

After a federal grand jury indicted Johnson Monday for interstate transportation of stolen grain and merchandise, Asst. U.S. Atty. Ron Eddins said the case "will be wrapped up in three or four months."

There have been various reports of Johnson living in Mexico and Belize in Central America.

Eddins said one effect of the indictment is that it cuts off the statute of limitations. Eddins said without an indictment, Johnson could return to the country after five years without fear of prosecution.

Lee Youth Center chatter

JANIS SANDERS and DEEHONA WISE

This issue of the Chatter is dedicated to The Midland Reporter-Telegram, the Seniors of 1977, and YC Director Bill Collyns. Without them the Chatter would not have been possible. With never-ending gratitude, thanks to all of you! WE LOVE YA!!

Junior Council: The breakfast last Friday was a success at Sambo's. It was a time to say good-by to the seniors and hello to the sophomores who made Junior Council. At the breakfast, new officers were elected for the 1977-78 school year. They are as follows: President, Wendy Heckman; vice president, Susan Dakil; secretary, Victoria Igou; treasurer, George Barr. That's not all, the new CHATTER WRITERS were announced. They are Anita Ragan, Missy Seawright and Diana Scott. We know they will be GREAT and we wish them the best of luck Congratulations to all!

Also, here are the new Junior Council members from the old 100 Club: Beth Welton, Karen Berry, Pat Graham, Emily Chalfant (HIGH POINT), Patty Adams, Susan Neal, Kevin Miller, Lisa Edwards, Martha Dern, Pam Moseley, Brenda Manaugh, Shelly Alther, Susie Alexander, Margaret Strickling Jeannie Carter, Kathleen Gilles, Dalyn Tomlin, Patty McBride, Gayla Nease, Cindy Canfield, Sherri Hicks, Joni Reinli, Laura Buresh, Prissie Foster, Rayma Lewis, Angela Durr, Robin Bennett, Chris Payne, Sara Hellinghausen, Sherri Griffin, Suzanne Brower, Melissa McGlothlin, Allison Alvarado, Kelly Blackwell, Diane Dot, Monica Wyant, Winna Hail, Kathy Tomberlin, Paula Morris, Mary Beth Graham, Felicia Adams, Susan Murrah, Becky Murray, Tracy Bevers, Marlise Crow, Jana Robinson, Jill Hagist, Edwin Scherzer, Lynn Erwin, Lori Hahn, Beth Bailey, Julie Ochsner and Darla Pardue. Congratulations and have a good next year!

Boogie Fever: The End of School Dance will be held Friday, May 27. New members (Austin freshmen) who have bought Youth Center cards will get in free. Those who haven't will be charged 50 cents. Hicks, Joni Reinli, Laura Buresh, Prissie Foster, free. Those who haven't will be charged 50 cents. Austin freshmen - bring your $5 Thursday or Friday to buy your Youth Center cards for the summer and next year. They are really worth it, so don't miss this

The announcement of the Student Council officers will be next week.

Rebelettes: This is a reminder to all of the Senior Rebelettes. If you have any of your uniform that you would like to sell, go by the library. Also if you still have a pattern you would like to donate, please do so. Next year's Rebelettes need these in order to make their uniforms. ATTENTION sophomores and juniors: You need to go by the library and sign up to be a Rebelette for the 1977-78 school year. Rebelettes keep up the SPIRIT!

Spring Sports Banquet: This beautiful occasion was held last Tuesday in the Lee Cafeteria. All varsity sport lettermen received their awards. Congratulations to all. The exciting moment came when the Outstanding Boy and Girl Athletes were announced. They are Brad Wright, who lettered in football, basketball and baseball, and Wendy Williams who lettered in swimming for three years. Wendy also received the Janis Ottmann Award. We are really proud of these two talented athletes, who are OUTSTANDING in every way!

The Scrimmage: Yes the annual scrimmage of the year was held Saturday morning at 10 on the Lee practice field, with the Old Seniors playing the Varsity for next year. The SENIOR MEN of '77 proved their ability by beating the Varsity 8-3. Way to go seniors, you are really fantastic. However, we know that the Varsity will be great next year and we wish them the Best of Luck because the REBELS will always be NO. 1.

SENIORS SEVENTY-SEVEN: The night of your life is coming soon . . . the ALL-NIGHT PARTY on June 3. You will be listening to the tunes of J. J. and his Music Machine, along with Fever, who will present a floor show at 1 a.m. The tickets are only $6 per person and will go on sale next Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The tickets will be on sale in front of the auditorium through May 27 each day. On Sunday, May 29, you can buy them in the Youth Center after Bacculerate. Don't forget the reception honoring the seniors and their parents at the Youth Center after Bacculerate. Tickets also will be on sale from 9 to 11:30 on June 2, during Commencement practice, which starts at 9:30 NO tickets will be sold at the door. At the All-Night Party, there will be FREE food and drinks along with a FREE breakfast at 3 a.m., catered by McDonalds. This party is for seniors only or seniors and their dates. Don't forget to buy your tickets and the gifts to be awarded at the

party! OLD DAYS GOOD TIMES I REMEMBER: And our good time was when our Rebel football team took the District Bell and Bi-District Trophy. FUN DAYS FILLED WITH SIMPLE PLEASURE: These were the days we watched our Rebel Roundballers bring in victories throughout the season. DRIVE-IN MOVIES, COMIC BOOKS AND BLUE JEANS: All of the memorable dances at the great Youth Center and the faded overalls we love to wear. HOWDY-DOODIES, BASEBALL CARDS AND GOOD DAYS: All of those afternoons sitting at the Rebel Diamond cheering on our Rebel Batmen. TAKE ME BACK TO A WORLD GONE AWAY: The memories of the Dixie Belles about the fun-filled Mo-Ranch trip (Toast) and the victorious football game. ### Your headache may be migraine

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am 22 years old and have been having pretty bad headaches on and off for seven years. It's a throbbing kind of pain, and just before it starts, I see flickering lights in front of my eyes. Sometimes, the left side of my tongue feels numb at the same time. My mother has the same trouble. Other people's headaches don't seem to act that way. so I'm wondering if mine are something more serious.—John R.

Dear John: The condition you call "other people's headaches" is the much more common type, brought on by tension. What you describe sounds like migraine, which usually isn't more serious in the sense of dangerous. However, it's certainly a great deal more unpleasant, as I'm sure I needn't tell you.

A migraine headache results when a blood vessel in your head contracts, temporarily cutting off oxygen to part of your brain. When the blood vessel expands again, it causes the throbbing pain you complain of. The other symptoms you describe coincide with the so-called "classic" migraine, in which any of a number of symptoms can precede the headache (sometimes by as much as 30 minutes), depending on what part of the brain is served by the offending blood vessel.

Some headaches, also preceded by these symptoms, CAN be dangerous, and should be treated by a specialist, buy your description points in the direction of plain, old garden-variety migraine. To begin with, your numbness and vision trouble disappear when the headache comes on; in the more dangerous headaches, the symptoms remain even after the pain has begun. Then there's the time factor: the facts that you have a family history of such headaches, and that you've been suffering from them for some time now point to a case of classic migraine. (By the way, a 'classic" migraine differs from a "common" one in that the common one has no other symptoms preceding it-the pain just hits you out of the blue.) Some migraine sufferers also complain of nausea and vomiting: that, too, is nothing to get alarmed

So you shouldn't worry, but you should certainly do something about your problem. Definitely, you should see a doctor, if you haven't yet, do so. He'll prescribe the proper medication to ease your pain-most likely, a drug containing ergotamine, the leader among anti-migraine drugs.

Also, I suggest you start a headache diary, in which you record the time each headache starts, how long it last, what medicine you took for it, how severe it was, and what you ate that day. The last item is important because, like allergies, migraines are triggered by specific things, varying from person to person and ranging from stress and exertion to chocolate and hot dogs. You should find out what triggers your migraines, so you can try to avoid these things in the

Oil retiree breeds world's rarest dogs

By DAVID LARSEN The Los Angeles Times

PLEASANT HILL, Calif. - They used to say that journalist Heywood Broun looked like an unmade bed. He would have been the envy of every Shar-Pei dog in existence.

Which isn't many. The Shar-Pei, according to the Guinness Book of World Records, may be the rarest pooch of

"I am just about certain there are fewer than 100 in the entire world,' said Ernest Albright.

Albright has become a bit of an authority on the rare Chinese dog. He raises them in the backyard of his home in this East Bay community.

Aside from having a tongue that looks as if they have been eating blueberries, the Shar-Peis aren't all that striking in appearance. They just look as if they could use a new tailor.

The easiest way to describe one would be to say that his mother must have been an accordion. The animal is an endless array of folds and wrinkles and dewlaps.

The skin hangs loosely and is so sandpaper coarse that a person can get a scrape if his forearm rubs "The breed goes back at least 2,000 years in China and they were originally used for fighting," Albright said. The loose skin came in handy. But the disposition of the dogs in Albright's yard is pure lovable. Especially if a visitor brings along a piece of dried liver. "Their native diet was 50 per cent rice, but now they thrive on regular dogfood," Albright said. And, from Mrs. Albright, an occasional fortune cookie.

The 62-year-old Albright, a retired oil company dispatcher, became interested in the breed seven years ago when he saw a magazine picture of one taken in Hong Kong.

The psychiatric community says the problem "I wrote to kennel clubs and pet for most professionals is in psyching down, in usshops and schools in Hong Kong," he ing the extra adrenalin in recalled. "Finally I found a man over there who was trying to preserve the breed. He located a bitch in Macao and I got it for $400.

Albright later acquired a male Shar-Pei from the same source, and in no time his yard was a riot of

He keeps six dogs and has sold the rest. "The least I ever received was $500, but the price is usually $1,500,'

"I am running an advertisement in a Taiwanese paper offering $750 for others," he disclosed. "I don't want any more myself, but I know of people who do." One reason is that the fawn-colored blue-eyed animals are excellent watchdogs. And they crave affection.

More women visit doctors

NEW YORK (AP) - More women than men in the United States visit doctors, according to the Health Insurance Institute.

The Institute says that estimates based on government figures show that 8 to 10 of all women have visited a doctor at least once a year, while the male ratio is 7 in 10.

Water safety clinic planned

ODESSA - A free water safety and first aid clinic for life guards and swimming pool managers will be offered June 4 by The University of Texas of the Permian Basin campus recreation office.

Instructors will teach sessions in first aid and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, preventive life guarding and administrative procedures from 8:30 to 11:45 a.m.

Dr. Patt Dodds, assistant professor of physical education and health, and Don David, Odessa Fire Department paramedic, will be instructors.

User admits water power has drawbacks

By DAN FREEMAN

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) - After 20 years of making his own electricity with a waterwheel, Herber Ogden says homemade energy is great but warns of pitfalls involved in doityourself power.

He found the 19th-centuryvintage, 13-foot, 6-inch waterwheel in Pennsylvania and paid $500 for it. Today, he says, it would cost $5,000.

'The eight-foot bull gear cost $25, junk price. The pulleys and shafting are all junkyard stuff," says Ogden, whose waterwheel also runs his cider and grist mill near his house at Hartland in southern Vermont:

"Of course, the stuff is even more scarce now. If you can buy secondhand, okay. But if you're going to have to buy new and you have to make this go economically, you just can't do it." he says. "Even with the cost of electricity as high as it is, it still isn't feasible.

Ogden, who had electricity before hooking up a generator to the waterwheel, says his power source has drawbacks.

"We don't have a television, but it probably wouldn't work," he says.

Lightbulbs flicker when there is too little power being generated and blow out when there is too much.

"If the power goes off suddenly, that means some valve has come off. If it's just low, it could be trash or ice preventing the water from coming

"That's the kind of inconveience you put up with. But when it works, it sure works nice," he says. "We have the purest, freshest organic electricity available."

Ogden says his only power costs are for replacement parts, a major cleaning of the system every four or five years and about $6 a month to a power company for standby power to the house. He supplements electric heat with a wood stove during the bitter Vermont winters.

The standby power is for emergencies or when Lull's Brook is low in the summer.

Ogden says there's always been enough water to run only the mill, where apples are mashed into cider and grain ground into meal

Ogden, a state senator, says he learned to work on machinery as a farmer and that he gets lots of advice.

"Anybody who has ever run a waterwheel himself cannot stand to drive by somebody else's without stopping and telling him how to do it.'

Governor says energy plan would hurt coal

The Washington Post
DENVER — In one of the most wide-ranging assessments yet of President Carter's proposed energy plan, Colorado Gov. Richard D. Lamm warned here Monday that the program could produce enormous inancial and social strains on the Western coal states.

Lamm refrained from criticizing the Carter energy package but he predicted it would cause his state's coal output to swell four-fold by 1985 in order to meet rising out-of-state

If that happens, said the governor,

it would cost Coloradans nearly $500 million in coal-related housing and transportation costs alone and mean a huge increase in coal train traffic through the state, a drop in tourism and the arrival of nearly 55,000 new residents at rural coal-producing

The effect on neighboring states with even larger supplies of coal than Colorado has, Lamm said, will be even more severe.

In presenting his energy proposals to Congress and the nation, President Carter called for a massive national fuel conversion from natural gas and oil to coal Federal energy statistics indicate that nearly two-thirds of the nation's 45 billion tons of minable coal are located in about six large Western coal states. Right now, Western coal accounts for only about 16 per cent of the annual coal output. Under the Carter plan, which calls for a better than billion-ton annual coal production by 1985, the West is expected to supply about a third of the Lamm made his assessment of the effect of the program on Colorado during a speech and a news conference held at the Governor's Mansion here. He quoted the findings of a state task force he designated last month to look into the effects of Carter's plan.

"The President's energy plan will have the most profound effect of anything that has happened in the state in the last 100 years," said the

Wolfcamp oil production was extended 1/2 mile west in the War-Wink, South field of Ward County, with completion of Getty Oil Co. No. 1-22-18 University, seven miles northwest of

The 24-hour flowing potential was for 236 barrels of 53.6-gravity oil and 289 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 7.191-1. The flow was through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations at 13,192-13,246 feet. The section had been acidized with 4,500 gallons.

The new oiler is 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 22, block 18, ULS.

Mewbourne Oil Co., Midland, was calculating absolute, open flow potential at No. 1-E State Communitized, Lea County, N.M., wildcat, 16 miles west of Lovington.

It flowed the following one-hour gauges on four-point tests taken through perforations at 12,906-12,923 feet, which had been acidized with 3,000 gallons: on a 6-64-inch choke. 750,000 cubic feet of gas per day; on an 8-64-inch choke, 1.05 million; on a 10-64 inch choke, 1.05 million and on a 12-64-inch choke, 1.3 million cubic feet

coal policy" for the state. Under it, he said, Colorado would pursue tougher clean air standards and land reclamation laws for strip miners. The governor said the state will also emphasize controlled growth to avoid what he called "a boom-and-bust cycle" and will seek to export its coal for processing in other states rather than convert it into energy at mine

Colorado's coal output under the Carter plan would jump from 9.4 million tons per year in 1976 to 37.8 million tons per year by 1985, Lamm said. By contrast, neighboring Wyoming faces a ten-fold increase in coal production to 296 million tons annually by 1985. New Mexico, Montana, North Dakota and Utah also face huge increases in coal production, Lamm said.

The impact of the coal boom already is being felt in some places here and will grow rapidly throughout the state in the next few years, he said. Coal traffic on railroad lines in the state will jump from four trains per week to 172 trains weekly in 1985, he said.

By 1985, the state will also have 45 new or expanded coal mines with at least 15 of them large strip mines, a task force official said.

Lamm said one Colorado town in the northern Rocky Mountains has grown 288 per cent to 12,000 residents in the past seven years because of coal development there.

Lamm also said he feared that the proposed construction of large coalpowered electrical generation facilities near mine sites in the state or coal slurry pipelines, which transport crushed coal mixed with water, would seriously deplete the state's scarce water reserves.

The governor's task force report is the most exhaustive effort at either the state or federal level to gauge what effect the Carter energy proposals will have an Western coal

Wolfcamp discovery takes potential test

Schleicher County gained a Wolfcamp gas discovery, wildcat sites have been staked in Nolan and Crockett counties, a pool stepout is slated in Irion and a Concho field gained a new producer.

J. Cleo Thompson, Dallas, has completed as a Wolfcamp gas strike its No. 1 Emmons Estate, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 3.5 million cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-liquid ratio measuring 118,530-1. Condensate gravity is 66.4 degrees. The well was finaled through

Oil shows in Gaines

Amerada Hess Corp., Tulsa, was preparing to drill below 11,546 feet at No. 1-D Seminole Deep, after the Gaines County wildcat recovered oil on two consecutive drillstem tests in the Devonian.

Tool was open 22 minutes on the test taken from 11,468-11,496 feet. Reversed out was 89 barrels of oil plus the water blanket.

A two-hour and five-minute test from 11,504-11,546 feet, surfaced water blanket in 30 minutes, mud in 55 minutes and oil in one hour. Oil flowed at the rate of 14 barrels per hour. Gravity of the oil was 30.5 degrees. Reversed out of the test tool was 116 barrels of oil.

The project is surrounded by production in the Seminole (San Andres) field and four miles northeast of the Seminole, Southwest (Devonian) field, 760 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 229, block G, WTRR survey, two miles northwest of Seminole

Rosalynn Carter has 'protector'

By DONNIE RADCLIFFE The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Rosalynn Carter teases her that it is the smallest town she has ever seen, outside of Plains. Actually, it is smaller than Plains and though its name is Star Town, it is less a town than a crossroads with a couple of stores, a gas station and, at most, 150 inhabitants scattered there and on farms around the neighboring North Carolina countryside. Her father still lives among them.

"You won't believe," says Madeline Fry MacBean, who as Rosalynn Carter's $40,000-a-year personal assistant is about as close to her as any mortal other than Jimmy Carter can be, "but peanuts - and sweet potatoes - were his major crops."

You do believe it, though. After six years together, ever since Jimmy's move into big-time politics, there can be little doubt that Rosalynn Carter and she are of similar cloth. MacBean feels protective of her - "like anybody you feel close to." And she is aware of complaints that she is too protective. "Protector," MacBean frames the word, then quite candidly admits that she is. "In every way."

- "you anticipate what would make things easier for her without having to ask" — and she watches Rosalynn Carter carefully. From the shadows behind a receiving line. From a doorway. From the sidelines generally, chain-smoking and alone, and usually unrecognized It is not surprising to learn that like Rosalynn Carter's childhood, Madeline MacBean's had been cut short by family tragedy and it had fallen to her to do the cooking, the washing, the cleaning - all the chores the only girl in the family would have been expected to do on a farm when the farmer's wife had gone away.

Rosalynn Smith was 13 when her father died, and she took charge of the house and three smaller children so their mother could work to support

Madeline Fry was 10 when her mother left home. There had been grandmothers living on either side then and an aunt who had helped out the first couple of years, but by the time she was 12 she had taken over the household chores. "We were very poor, we couldn't afford to have any

She long ago learned to anticipate housekeeping help, anything like that, so I did everything.

Outside, in the fields, George Fry and his young son Harold did everything. "We always figured," a Star Town neighbor says now, "that George worked so hard he never had time for her mother."

Growing up without a mother had some effect," MacBean supposes, "but I haven't analyzed it or tried to figure it out." "She really seemed able to understand her mother's leaving and her staying with her father,' says a girlhood chum.

Says an Atlanta friend: "Somebody turned her into a very fine girl think it may have been Madeline."

Whatever caused George Fry's marriage to break up, his relationship with his children earned him only respect from people who knew him in those days. Described as a mildmannered, reticent man whose German ancestors had moved from Pennsylvania in the mid-18th century to settle around Newton, he was "so typical of the South," says an acquaintance. "Good breeding but, well, you know, poor." Friends remember a determination that his own adversities should not shortchange his children. Whenever a symphony or concert was in town, he took them, then waited outside for them until it was over. "He wanted them to have opportunities," says a Newton

Whether the "opportunities" fostered the interest, or simply sustained it, Madeline Fry grew up intending to be a concert pianist. Altogether she studied piano for 10 years, through elementary and high school where she also edited the school newspaper, the year book, played basketball, was a cheerleader and read voraciously. She graduated in 1957. "I had so many things going, she says now, "that I lost interest in piano. I didn't have time to practice."

"She was always different, always bright and ambitious," says a girl friend who remembers that MacBean was popular with the boys, too. There had been one boy in particular by the end of school and "she cared about him a lot, but she also had a lot of vision and no desire to stay in Catawba-County. He had no plans to go anyplace. As far as I know, he's right there now.

Woman dislikes guests who offer to help

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am an older woman living alone in a small apartment. Sometimes a neighbor or a not-too-close friend will stop by to visit, which I appreciate. I always offer her a cup of tea. If she accepts, I turn on the TV in the living room so she can watch it while I go into the kitchen to prepare the tea.

Does she stay put in the living room and watch TV? No. She follows me into my kitchen and stands over me. I have to ask her to please move so I can open the door to the cabinet.

Abby, when I get unexpected company, there may be a few dirty dishes in my sink and the place isn't as tidy as it could be. This is very embarrassing and nerve-wracking. Will you tell your readers to please

Hairdresser predicts beauty salon changes

The beauty salon as we have known it may be on the way out. More emphasis will be put on giving a woman what she wants, at a price she can afford and within the time at her disposal.

That prediction comes from Jean-Louis David of Paris. American salons are already in such an at- kind of bulk," he says, using hairpins, braiding mosphere of change, the well known hairdresser strands of hair over each prong and then bending the points out. 'There will be new possibilities in a beauty salon, expensive and inexpensive," as he sees it. "Like dress designers who offer both couture clothes and ready-to-wear; a new kind of beauty salon will offer to pamper at a price, or a woman can merely have a hairdo without the extra services - manicure, pedicure, whatever."

The quick service is already operating at Henri Bendel, a fashionable New York retail store, where Jean-Louis has opened his first American salon.

"It does not mean that only particular women will gravitate to those services," he explained. "A woman may want the ambience of deluxe service occasionally, stretching her budget to get it, and a woman who can afford lots of pampering may want to avail herself of quick service from time to time." In a way, the alternate beauty salon idea is designed to appeal to many women who might have done their hair at home to avoid fuss and expense. But other things have changed. In fact, Jean-Louis free. has introduced some spectacular hairdos that také on new form. "Geometrics are out," he said. "It's a

He illustrated it on his wife, Danielle. After cutting the long hair in an oval shape, "blending it downward," he began setting it with pins. It can be "with or without a perm."

oin to hold it in place. Hair at roots and ends is kept

'Next we blow with a drier to warm the curls," he said. Combing it out, he explained, "You see it does not look Hollywood '30s. It is modern and different.' The hair frames the face in tremendous bulk and has a kind of indefinite look about it. It is a stunning look for a youthful face. "It is not for every woman, one reason hairdressers must have rapport with clients. Each haircut should bring out the natural flow of hair. The hair is dried naturally or with lamps."

He has so much faith in his system that he has put it on videotape "so the cassettes can instruct hairdressers around the world.

'It is being done on a pyramid system - we do a technique, a movie, and we train a salon manager who trains hairdressers in the variety of hairdos from the tape. In Paris we are doing 1,200 clients a day in four salons, all different, but all modern and

She's 'lucky' husband travels

Beautiful Red Ripe

California Grown

For some reason, Americans cannot work up a scrap of compassion for (a) a Mercedes with a flat tire, (b) a price increase in polo scorecards, (c) the woman who holds down the homefront while her husband travels.

The first two I could understand, but why pick on a woman who is bravely shouldering the responsibilities of both mother and father? The women assure me it is true. A friend of mine kept a log of her week just to prove a point.

On Monday, she went to a parent-teacher conference alone to be told her son stole paper towels from the restroom (the girls), wrote an obscene word in the dust on Mr. Gripper's car, and was flunking lunch. She said her husband travelled a lot and the teacher said she should be glad he was working.

On Tuesday, the dog got hit by a motorcycle, the house payment got lost in the mail and her daughter tried to crush a tin can with her hand like the bionic woman and required a tetanus shot. She told the doctor her husband travelled a lot and he said she was lucky she had a car.

On Wednesday, the television set blew a tube, the car developed a wheeze and she had to cancel a night out with the girls. Her mother-in-law said, "be thankful you have the children.'

On Thursday, as she was making a left-handed turn in her VW Rabbit, a car plowed into the back of her. As she sat there crying softly, "The rabbit died ... the rabbit died . . . " a police officer stuck his head in the window and said, "You're lucky lady.

Nobody got hurt."
On Friday at the supermarket, so bored she was carrying on a conversation with a broom display, she went through the mechanics of shopping — lashing one kid to the basket, getting another out of the bean display where he "found" a hole in a bag of pintos, and on finding the third had eaten an unknown amount of fruit, offering to weigh him and anything over 53 pounds, pay the difference. The checkout girl in noting all the convenience foods said, "You're lucky to have your husband gone a lot. At least, you don't have to cook big meals.

On Saturday, she car-pooled it to Little League, two haircuts, one dentist appointment, baton twirling lessons, the cleaners, the post office, and a birthday party. As she pulled in at dusk; a neighbor yelled over the fence, "You're lucky. At least you get out of the house.

On Sunday, she dragged the brood to church. As she extended a limp hand to the minister, he said, "Glad to see you. At least coming to church gets rid of the kids for an hour. Incidentally, if you sleep during the sermon, I'll understand. He was the only one who did.

Ulrich explains health care costs

The high cost of health care services was outlined by Wayne Ulrich, Nidland Memorial Hospital ad-ministrator, when the MMH Hospital Auxiliary, Inc.,

met in the hospital's conference room.

Mrs. Micky Cappadonna introduced Kelly Jeanette Fitting, Julie Ann McEwen and Diane Cain, recipients of the Auxiliary Nursing Scholarships. Mrs. William L. Peyton reported 157 women had worked a total of 1,868 hours. Those working above their limit were Jeri Arnold, 25; Linda Carden, 31; Beth Elderkin, 21; Dorothy Ferell 50; Elm Haught, 33; Glenyth Herring, 22; Karen Pike, 25; Lois Parker, 32; Karen Rogers, 31; Dorothy Steinman, 23; Alyce Swann, 24, and Getty

Mrs. Richard Cramer reported there are 170 active members of the auxiliary, 119 who are contributing members and seven who are honorary.

Mrs. George Berry said there are 24 girls in the Junior Auxiliary who worked a total of 97 hours for the month. Suzie Alexander earned the Candystripers award with 19 hours. Also working above their limit were Susan Smith, 141/2, and Cheryl

Mrs. Ralph Geisler reported there were 14 memorials made in April. The group mended 48 articles and made 73 new ones.

Firm thrives on dust, particularly if it's Hawaiian

By MICHAEL SEILER The Los Angeles Times

LIVERMORE, Calif. - Lest you thought that there was no way to turn a buck on common, everyday house dust, consider this:

A company here will pay 50 cents a pound for the stuff you vacuum up from behind the refrigerator, under the carpet and atop the bookshelves.

And they want all the dust you've got. In fact, they can barely get enough of it.

If, by chance, your house dust comes from a condominium or little grass shack in Hawaii, so much the better. For, it seems, Hawaiian dust is the most desirable house dust of all.

Hollister-Stier Laboratories makes allergenic extracts for diagnosis and treatment, and, according to Allan M. Dishman, their regional manager. here, house dust is second only to pollen as the most common source of

Dishman said his need for the stuff 'Even though we have so much of it around, it's hard to get people to sell it to us," he said. Not that folks here are hoarding house dust, he explained. It's just that people find it hard to take Dishman's pleas for their dust seriously.

From here and five other regional offices around the country (in Atlanta, Dallas, Dowers Grove, Ill, Yeadon, Pa., and Burhank, Calif.) house dust is shipped to the com-pany's main office in Spokane, Wash. There, its protein is extracted and turned into the material doctors use for skin tests and anti-allergy injec-

So far this year alone, the Livermore office has collected more than 3,000 pounds of dust, most of it brought in by nonprofit fund-raising groups after door-to-door dust drives throughout Alameda County.

In fact, dust drives around here have replaced the recyclable newspaper and aluminum can fundraising efforts, simply because house dust is a more valuable commodity. The contents of the average 3-pound vacuum cleaner bag bring $1.50. According to Lester Williams, a 16-year-old 4-H Club member here, it would take nearly 10 pounds of aluminum cans to match that figure.

And, Williams said, dust seems a lot easier to find. "Dust is coming in much faster than cans or old newspapers ever did," he said. "Some people have a lot of dust."

The important thing to remember, Dishman said, is that it must be house dust, not dirt swept off the back porch or lint collected from the clothes

"We had a group of Girl Scouts a couple of years ago who came in with about 500 pounds of dust they'd picked up at a carpet-cleaning firm. But it was mostly dirt and not real dust," he

"We gave them a token payment, anyway, and asked them to bring us house dust from vacuum cleaners next time," Dishman added.

There is another problem in dust-collecting, he said. The stuff has to be brought in in paper bags or sacks like vacuum cleaner bags, not in plastic containers or garbage can liners.

Plastic causes the dust to get too

Hollister-Stier, a division of Cutter Laboratories, Inc., a national phar-maceutical firm, makes a long list of antigens for allergies ranging from chicken feathers to gerbil fur to newspaper to smut (a grain mold).

In all cases, the process is roughly the same, Dishman said. The allergen (say, gerbil fur) is collected and its protein extracted and manufactured into an antigen for patch tests and injections to build up a resistance. "Basically, doctors give you the hair of the gerbil that bit you,"

Dishman said with a grin. But, still it's house dust that is Hollister-Stier's top-of-the-line product. And the creme de creme of house dust is Hawaiian.

"We'd love to get more Hawaiian house dust," he said. "It has the most mite content. Mites are little bugs you can't see and they're one of the basic causes of allergies.

Cans provide heat

By CHARLES HILL-INGER The Los Angeles Times

SEBASTOPOL, Calif. — Cal Midgley has come up with a solar-heating system he says "the or-dinary Joe" can afford.

His solar heater is made from beer cans. "It took me three months to mill around in my mind the idea for a cheap solar heater," said Midgley, 67. "Then all of a sudden it hit me."

Two months ago, he built a solar-heating unit out of beer cans to heat the 22-by-40-foot snack bar at his 17-acre flea

On one side of a 16-foottrapezoidal struc-he mounted 1,200 beer cans in holes in plywood covered with aluminum foil. The structure, which is 8 feet high, 6 feet wide at the base and 2 feet at the peak, contains 25 tons of large rocks and boulders in which heat is stored.

At the foot of the panel of beer cans, a huge mirror set on a slant catches the sun's rays and bounces additional solar heat into the structure, which is insulated with three inches of styrofoam. The beer cans are under glass. They are painted black to absorb the heat, and their poptops face inside the structure. Heat from the sun pours into the rocks through the open pop-tops.

Two pipes, 8 inches in diameter and wrapped in fiberglass, lead from the structure to the snack

When Midgley wants to heat the snack bar, he opens the vents to the pipes and turns on a onesixth horsepower motor that draws the heat trap-ped inside the structure into the snack bar.

To demonstrate, he switched on the small motor and heat poured into the snack bar.

"It's working mighty fine," he said. Why beer cans?

"There are plenty of empty beer cans everywhere. Aluminum is the best conductor and there is 10 times as much aluminum in the same amount of space than (there would be on) a flat surface," he explained. Midgley said he uses rocks instead of water

"because rocks are slower in absorbing the heat, but also give off more heat in the long run. "If you boil a rock in a bucket of water and take the rock out of the water, when the water cools, the rock is still hot. It takes longer to charge the rock and longer to discharge Midgley said he built his first solar-heating system in 1932.

"I've been tinkering with solar heaters ever since. My ancesters were all Scotch. I look for ways of saving money."

"I'm planning to manufacture beer can solar heaters," he said.
"Not to make money. Hell, I've got all the money I need. But to help America save energy

'Girls' make quick exits in NJCC tourney

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

Day one separated the men from the boys, or the women from the girls if you will, as the National Junior College Athletic Association Women's Tennis Tournament got underway Monday at the Midland College courts. The Broome Techs, Mercer Colleges and Barton Community Colleges found out in the opening two rounds of this event that Midland is a great place to see a lot of Baptists and get a great tan, but not a very ideal location to win a tennis tournament. as the "great pretenders" were systematically sifted out on the opening day of the NJCAA event. It was a day where straight set victories were the rule rather than the exception, and where pretty little things from New York, Michigan and Illinois ran around asking, "do you really play tennis here all year round?"

Yes darlin', they do.

Monday's opening round proved only two things. That lily white skin does burn in 90 degree heat, and that this tournament is a three-team race between Midland College, Odessa College and Indian River College of Florida.

The Chaps and Indian River jumped out to the first day lead with 12 points apiece, as both schools saw their four singles performers and two doubles teams get through the first two rounds of play unscathed.

Odessa, which won the women's Region V tourney just a week ago here, is a point off the pace with 11. Their only victim was Cindy Menna, who played Monday with the flu, and lost her second round singles match to Yapsam of Palm Beach College, Fla. Tyler College is in fourth with 10 points, having lost two singles players Monday, Palm Beach is in fifth with eight points, and Schreiner College of Texas is in sixth with seven points.

It was a splendid day for Coach Brian Gilley and his Midland College team, who hold the edge over Odessa for the moment at least.

Jana Hanks, seeded fourth in the singles event, drew an opening round bye and pounded Debbie Smith of Broome Tech, N.Y. in the second round, 6-0, 6-0.

Sixth seeded MC performer Ann Layman opened the day with a 6-0, 6walloping of Susie Winterman of John Calhoun College of Alabama, and closed out first day play by putting it to Nancy Ryker of Hutchinson College of Kansas, 6-0, 6-0.

Cute and curly-haired Karen Schuchard was the third Chap singles survivor as she won a pair of straight set victories, drilling Karen Palak of Grand Rapids College, Mich., in the first round, and following it up with a 6-0, 6-2 drubbing of Carol O'Kane of Henry Ford College of Michigan.

Blanca Barriga rounded out the Midland quartet still alive entering Tuesday's third round action as she defeated Louise Mathis of Jefferson College, Ala., 6-2, 6-0, after drawing a first round bye.

In doubles, Layman and Hanks, seeded third, played only once, defeating Waters and Karges of Joliet College, Ill., 6-4, 6-0. Schuchard and Barriga are not seeded among the top sixteen, but they still won easily, downing Steward and Shurley of Young Harris College of Georgia, 6-0, 6-2 in the opening round, and following it up with a 6-0, 6-0 win over Salter and Edwards of Blue Mt., Oregon.

Odessa is a heavy favorite to end Midland's two-year reign atop the women's National Junior College Athletic Association throne, and with the exception of Menna's first round loss, they are still in strong shape to pull it off.

The Wranglers' Sandy Collins and Andrea Galloway are seeded one-two respectively in the singles competition, and both won Monday in convincing style. Collins defeated Patty Cavanaugh of Palm Beach. Fla., 6-1, 6-0, and Galloway did the same with Melissa Homewood of Barton Community College, Kan. Odessa is also seeded one-two in doubles. Galloway and Menna are the favorites after winning the Region V crown a week ago, and Collins and Debbie Phillips are seeded second, a step ahead of Midland's Hanks amd Layman.

Despite playing sick, Menna teamed with Galloway to pound Barker and Denton of Young Harris College, 6-0, 6-0, and advance to the final sixteen. Collins and Phillips were 6-0, 6-1 victors over Schrodter and Schaefter of Schreiner College.

Time close for Ali to get off trolley

By The Associated Press

LANDOVER, Md. (AP)-Muhammad Ali still has some fights in his future, but with each outing the guestion grows over how much talent is left in the heavyweight champion.

Even Angelo Dundee, Ali's longtime trainer, found it difficult to evaluate the champ after he scored a unanimous 15- round decision Monday night over lightly regarded challenger Alfredo Evangelista of

"Is this the best he can do?" Dundee said. "Who knows? He's still a great fighter ... at 35, and still dancing like that. He was comfortable. Not breathing hard.

LIKE DUNDEE, Ali talked mostly of his ability to dance at the age of 35.

No one in Ali's camp discussed his punching power, or lack of it.

The champion did most of his scor ing with left jabs as he backpedaled across the ring in the Capital Centre, where a little more than a year ago he was awarded a controversial 15-round decision over Jimmy Young.

Ali weighed 22114 for Evangelista. compared to 230 for the Young bout. But he didn't pack the punch to put away an opponent who only four times previously had only gone as many as eight rounds. "I tried to knock him down but I couldn't do it." Ali confessed during his post-fight monologue which included a pitch for the upcoming motion picture based on his life and a needle for reporters who had previously downgraded Evangelista.

DUNDEE SAID he thought Ali Evangelista in the eight and ninth rounds, and claimed he almost succeeded once after the challenger missed a roundhouse left.

"But the guy was awkward," Dundee said. "He covered pretty good, and Ali's not the greatest body banger in the world.

Referee Harry Cecchini scored the bout 71-65 for Ali, with judges Terry Moore and Ray Klingmeyer each giving the champion a 72-64 edge. Evangelista, through interpreter Eddie Mafuz, said he was happy he had proven a worthy challenger, but contended he would have won had the fight been held in Spain- where the native of Uruguay has become a naturalized citizen.

Asked if he was satisified with the In his post-fight interview, Ali conmade a definite effort to floor decision, Evangelista replied through tended that negotiations were under Mafuz: "Ali is the champion and we were in Maryland, so he was expecting the worst.

The decision which went against Young a year ago apparently scared off George Foreman, who preferred not to face Young in the Capital Centre for fear the Maryland officials would favor him. The bout then was held in Puerto Rico.

WHILE SOME boos greeted the Ali-Young decision, the crowd of 12,000 seemed resigned to the inevitable Monday night

Ali, who is believed building up to a lucrative fourth bout with Ken Norton, will have to be much sharper in his next start.

way for him to face unbeaten Larry Holmes. That fight would be promoted by Don King, probably at the Meadowlands in East Rutherford,

Before the fight, however, it was reported that Madison Square Garden in New York had all but lined up Earnie Shavers, a veteran slugger, to be Ali's next challenger.

'I know my competition is working tenaciously to make the fight," said King, who also noted that his son, Carl, had divested himself of all interest in Holmes-and that he was now handled by Rick Gichetti.

As for Evangelista, Ali urged reporters to give the challenger

Cubs to tangle with Arkansas

Midland's Cubs, who were smoking until cooled off in the last two games at San Antonio, hope to stoke up again when they open a 10-game homestand at 7:30 p.m. today against the Arkansas Travelers at Cubs Stadium.

The Cubs had won five straight and seven out of eight before San Antonio rallied in the ninth to beat Midland 5-4 Saturday and then followed with the first whitewash of the year against Midland, 4-0, Sunday.

Tonight's contest is a Senior Citizens Night game with all senior citizens admitted for 75 cents.

The Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals farmhands hook up in a five game series tonight through Saturday and then the Jackson Mets (New York Mets) come to Midland for five games. It will be the only Midland appearance of the year for the Texas League East Division clubs.

OX

SPECIAL NIGHTS during the stand include Guaranteed Win night Wednesday, Ladies Night Thursday and Two-Bit Beer night Friday. If the

Cubs don't win Wednesday's game, everyone attending gets a free ticket to Thursday's game

The Cardinals' farmhands, managed by Buzzy Keller, bring some familiar faces to Midland such as outfielder John Yeglinski, who has always hit well against Midland pitching, and second baseman Manny Castillo. Yeglinski is hitting over .300 for the Travelers while catcher Eddie Daves and third baseman Jim Riggleman are other .300 hitters.

Outfielder Karl Pagel is the Cubs' top hitter and power man. The former University of Texas star is batting .337 and has supplied a nine-homer, 34-rbi punch at the plate. Several other Cubs are flirting with the .300 mark, including Joe Hernandez (.299), Aaron Randall (.286) and Keith Drumright (.279).

PROBABLE STARTER tonight will be Mark Covert, 2-2, who last year (Continued on 2C)

Phils find patch to keep hill rotation together

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Phillies, riding a five-game winning streak, may have found a patch to keep together the quilt they call their starting rotation.

Relying on a rotation that includes sometimes four, sometimes five pitchers, Phils Manager Danny Ozark took a long look Monday night at rookie Randy Lerch Lerch threw seven innings, picking up his fifth victory against two losses, and worked out of some tough situations while the Phillies were beating Los Angeles

In one inning, the fifth, Lerch found second and third. Philadelphia led 7-5. But the gutsy rookie, a 6-foot-3 southpaw, struck out Steve Garvey, Rick Monday and Dusty Baker in succession, ending the threat.

"HE JUST threw super pitches to those three hitters," said Phils catcher Bob Boone.

And Ozark added, "Maybe I ought to start him every fourth day instead

The Phillies-hurt in the stretch last year by inconsistent pitching-have been going with Lerch. Steve Carlton, Larry Christenson, Wayne Twitchell and sometimes veteran Jim Kaat as starters.

Of the five, only 1972 Cy Young Award winner Carlton, 5-1, and Lerch have winning marks. The 28-year-old Twitchell is 0-3 and Kast is 0-1. hristenson has won three and lost

"He (Lerch) showed me something," said Boone, "He showed me what he's got inside. That fifth inning may have been the key to how he does his entire career.

After Lerch threw 110 pitches in seven innings, Ozark felt it was time to remove the rookie. "No, I didn't ask to come out," said Lerch. "But anytime you work as hard to get out of as many jams as I did, you're tired. Even though the last two innings I pitched very well. Cubs 9, Padres 6

Gene Clines had four hits, including a two-run homer, and drove in five runs, helping the Cubs extend their winning streak to five games. Clines drove in a run with a first-inning double, homered in the third and singled in two runs in the fifth.

"I've had 4-for-4 before and twice I've had 5-for-5," Clines said, "but that's the first time I've ever driven in five runs in one game.'

The homer was Clines' first since 1973 and only the third of his major

Geoff Zahnl 6-1, went the route, despite sitting out a 1 hour, 43 minute rain delay, and scattered seven hits in Minnesota's victory over Cleveland and the Indians' $2 million right-

Red Sox 8, Angels 7 Denny Doyle singled home Dwight Evans with two out in the 11th inning, giving Boston its victory after the Red Sox had squandered a 7-3 lead in the

Mariners 8, Orioles 3 Lee Stanton cracked a three-run double in the seventh, and the Mariners roughed up Jim Palmer, 5-3, for three runs in the second on only two singles. Palmer yielded five walks before leaving with a 2-0 count on Ruppert Jones in the second.

Glenn Abbott, 1-4, got the victory with relief from Mike Kekich. A's 8, Yankees 4

Wayne Gross smacked his 10th homer, tying him for the AL lead with Chicago's Richie Zisk, and Earl Williams homered in Oakland's victory over the Yankees, who slipped to third in the East, a half-game behind Baltimore and Boston.

Darrell Turner

Meet the Cubs

Off to a 3-2 start, which easily could be 4-1, this may be the year Darrell "Law" Turner begins living up to his potential. A 6-3, 190-pounder from Ocoee

Fla., the 22-year-old righthander, is a hard thrower who just might put it altogether at any time.

However, the learning process for the inclined-to-be-wild astballer has been rocky times. After being signed by Q.V. Lowe, Turner joined the Cubs' Rookie League club at Bradenton in 1973 and was 1-2 with a 2.32 ERA for nine games

The next year, Turner probably figured he should have stuck to football, a sport in which he was an all-state high schooler at Ocoee

TURNER'S MISERIES in cluded tying for the lead in Florida State League losses, (18), leading the league in runs league record for most consecutive losses (14, April 30 through July 29). Things were bad but at least he didn't break a

Darrell posted a 3-18 record but his Key West teammates weren't the most robust hitting team in baseball and Turner's 3.73 ERA was respectable enough.

In 1975 at Key West, Turner was 8-9 and led FSL pitchers with a 1.000 fielding percentage on 38 chances. He got a brief look at Wichita where he was 1-1 in five games.

Last season, Turner was 4-12 with six complete games for Midland and if things hadn't gone had for him in inning Saturday night at San-Antonio, he would have equalled that victory output already this

LAST FALL, Turner began to put it together in the Arizona Fall Instructional League where he was 4-1 with a 3.11 ERA. Most important, however, he fanned 36 and walked only 16 in 55 innings, leading the league in the former department. The performance earned him an early look with the Chicago Cubs at Scottsdale, Ariz., during spring training, but he was farmed back to Midland before the Cubs broke camp.

A righthander all the way. Turner was 12-2 with 0.50 ERA in pitching Ocoee to the Florida Class AA high school championship and his figures were good enough for all state.

Financial woes plague NBA

teams to survive the demise of the American Basketball Association are finding the price of survival to be costly indeed.

"Our four newest members have financial problems, in some instances quite serious problems," said National Basketball Association Commissioner Larry O'Brien, referring to the Denver Nuggets, Indiana Pacers, New York Nets and San Antonio Spurs

The problems, serious enough to force the teams to seek relief from the NBA, are an outgrowth of the agreement by which the four clubs became part of the league last

In return for places in the pro basketball establishment, the four exABA teams agreed to pay an entrance fee of $3.2 million each; to buy out the Kentucky and St. Louis ABA clubs which were not part of the merger; to pay legal costs and fees needed to pave the way to merger, and to forego sharing in television revenues until the current contract with CBS is completed. These other factors push the entrance fee upwards of $5.5 million, not counting the lost TV revenue or the territorial indemnityestimated at $2 million-the Nets had to pay the New York Knicks.

A payment of $200,000 per club, the last part of the $3.2 million, is due June 1. The four clubs asked for a delay, but were turned down by the league's finance and advisory com-

Every kid grows up with a favorite team, one he lives or dies with every time it plays, and it's usually a matter of geography. It's only natural for a oungster with Texas roots to gravitate toward the Rangers, Astros, Cowboys and Oilers.

Stockton finds identity

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

How far has Dick Stockton come as a tennis player over the last five months? Well, let me put it this way. Up until January, he would have been the perfect guy to use in one of those American Express Card commercials. His name was recognizable enough, but only his wife Sue, and some very devoted followers of the New York born netter's career could identify him by sight.

But all that has changed for Stockton. It's goodbye American Express, hello Miller Lite, Wilson tennis balls, Aramus after shave, geritol and whatever else he wants to

It's not that the 25-year-old Stockton has lived in anonymity as a tennis player. Far from it. As an amateur competitor, he won the National Junior title back in 1969, and followed that up two years later by capturing the NCAA singles crown while a collegian at Trinity University in San Antonio

But since turning pro shortly after that, Stockton hadn't, as the sports cliche goes, reached his full potential. Oh sure, he won more than $135,000 last season on the World Championship of Tennis circuit (the minimum wage), but most of it was accumulated as a result of third, fourth and fifth place tournament finishes. The world figured there was a Dick Stockton somewhere, but they couldn't quite be sure, because he was never on their television screens when Sunday afternoon's finals came

AFTER DOMINATING amateur play since he was knee-high to a Jack. Kramer autographed racket, Stockton was struggling. When the ATP (Association of Tennis Professionals) computer rankings came out in December, he was no better than the tenth-ranked player in the United States, and was down the list with the John Doe's of tennis in the world classifications.

Then, quicker than you could say Lamar Hunt, it happened.

Very few people on this earth have ever been thankful to Philadelphia. Pa., for anything, except maybe for the right to leave. Just ask the next American Legion member you see. But Stockton is. For it was in the City of Brotherly Love just five months ago, that his professional tennis career finally began to skyrocket.

"IT WAS definitely the turning point," he said last week. "Up until then, I had begun to get down on myself. Sure, I was making good money on the circuit, but I just couldn't seem to win the important matches. I wanted to be ranked among the ten best tennis players in the world, but I was sure going about it in an awfully strange way.

And there didn't seem to be any reason to expect different from him in Philly either, when the U.S. Pro Indoor Championships got underway the last week in January. He entered the competition seeded no better than twelfth, but playing what he called "the best tennis of my life." Stockton powered his way into the nationally televised finals, and proceeded to whip Jimmy Connors in five sets for

NO ONE has had to ask Dick Stockton for identification since. He has been the talk of the tennis world so far this year, and despite his fourset, 6-7, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3 loss to Connors in Sunday's WCT final in Dallas, Stockton is well on his way to something a bit more memorable than mediocrity.

As a matter of fact, his entire life has taken a very pleasant upswing. He and his wife have moved to Carrollton, a small suburb outside the Dallas city limits, and the residents of "Big D" have adopted Dick as their own. In addition, Sue is expecting a little Stockton along about Sep-

Earlier this week, before the WC" event got underway, Stockton v looking forward to playing in Mou and in front of a partisan crowd.

'I've been really well received by these people," he said with a smile "The crowd seemed to be pulling for me out there, and while it can't help, it can't hurt either.

And the crowd was certainly pulling for Stockton Sunday. But it takes more than a little fan favoritism to beat Jimbo Connors. It takes playing the "best tennis of your life." Philadelphia, Stockton did. In Dallas,

Nuclear defenses Advertising no good?

By MAUREEN SANTINI

WASHINGTON (AP) A major nuclear conflict would destroy both the United States and the Soviet Union as great powers no matter what kind of defenses they erect, a congressional committee concludes.

The Joint Committee on Defense Production declared in a report issued Monday that the much-touted Soviet civil and industrial defenses would not provide the Russian population or industry with any reliable protection against U.S. strategic forces.

Nor could the United States satisfactorily protect its economy as a superpower, even if it spent huge sums of money constructing industrial defenses, the committee said.

'We said it doesn't matter who comes off the more bloodied, but whether either could continue to operate as a major power after a nuclear attack," said William H. Kincade, the committee's staff director. "We concluded neither could," he said. The report mainly studied industrial defenses that attmpt to irotect the nation's economy in the event of a nuclear attack, rather than civil defenses, which

try to protect the population.
"It doesn't seem to be either militarily or cost effective to put a lot of money into industrial defense since it can easily be overcome by selecting crucial economic targets that are incapable of passive protection," Kincade said.

The 100-page report, the product of a year's study, concludes that the United States would waste its money by trying to match the Soviet's defense program against nuclear attack. "By changing U.S.

targeting plans slightly A MISCELLANEOUS and by structuring our attack over a certain time period we could overcome any benefits they gained" from their industrial defenses. Kincade said.

Even the three members of the committee who dissented from the majority report did not suggest that the United States try to match the Soviets' nuclear defense effort They said the United States should continue to study and analyze the Soviet program. Kincade said that focusing on Soviet civil defense efforts was meaningless since the United States' nuclear strategy always has been aimed at destruction of enemy industry rather than population.

"We felt people fomenting the Soviet civil defense gap were being dishonest with the public in saying we couldn't kill the Soviet population we didn't want to kill," he said.

The report says the U.S. civil defense program is mismanaged. however. For example, 'most fallout shelters available are in urban areas that would be likely targets (for a nuclear strike). Fallout shelters should instead be in rural or other areas that don't make good targets, Kincade said

The committee; headed by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., also concluded that the Soviet civil and industrial defenses may preserve that nation's economy against an attack from a secondary nuclear power like China. But under no foreseeable circumstances could it survive a significant attack from the United States.
