Legislators pass bill increasing school aid

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Texas legislators finished the top job of the special session Friday by passing a bill increasing state aid to public schools by $945.4 million over the next two years.

SATURDAY WEEKENDER

Gov. Dolph Briscoe promptly dropped new work on the lawmakers. He asked them to tighten state regulation of nursing homes and permit the state to build an offshore port for super tankers if oil companies.

Briscoe said Friday night in McAllen that he is happy with the school finance bill passed by the legislature and that he will sign the

He said the bill provides more money for equalization between poor and rich school districts than any school finance plan yet.

The governor was in McAllen to address the second annual meeting of the Texas Association of Mexican-American chambers of commerce.

Legislative removal proceedings against Justice Donald Yarbrough of the Texas Supreme Court were aborted when Yarbrough suddenly resigned. Briscoe immediately named Charles Barrow of San Antonio as Yarbrough's successor.

Barrow, former chief justice of the San Antonio Court of Civil Appeals, was defeated by Yarbrough in their Democratic primary race for the supreme court.

Senate votes to give Carter oil authority

By JOHN AVERILL The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - Overriding opposition by oil-state senators, the Senate voted 54 to 39 Friday to give the President sweeping authority to undertake an inventory of all the nation's oil and natural gas reserves. both onshore and offshore

The authority was added to a bill providing for a massive overhaul of the 1953 law regulating offshore oil and gas drilling on the Outer Continental Shelf. The 145-page bill was passed by a vote of 59 to 18 and now goes to the House where similar legislation is pending.

The Senate's two-day consideration of the bill was marked by a series of setbacks for the oil industry. The bill was strongly opposed by the industry as it emerged last month from the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee. Amendments added to the bill on the Senate floor made it even worse from the industry standpoint

The most objectionable to the industry was an amendment by Sen. John A: Durkin (D-N.H.) that would authorize and direct the President to determine the availability of all oil and gas within the nation's boun-

Declaring that previous federal efforts to obtain this information "has been bogged down in lengthy litigation." Durkin told the Senate:

The government can no longer afford to rely on industry for such vital information. We must seek independent data that has been verified and audited. Durkin said arguments that his amendment would put the government in the oil drilling business were efforts "to raise a straw man."

However, oil state senators made just that charge.

"To replace independent drillers. who do 95 per cent of the drilling, with a government oil company which this (amendment) contemplates is absolutely insane," said Sen. J. Bennett Johnston (D-La.), who carried the brunt of the opposition to the bill. Sen. Clifford P. Hansen (R-Wyo.) denounced the Durkin amendment as a "taxpayers' ripoff" and said it would cost the government billions of dollars to determine the extent of oil and gas reserves.

To prevent any legal interference with carrying out his amendment. Durkin included a provision that said "no court shall have jurisdiction to grant any injunctive relief to stay or defer the implementation of this act.

A similar amendment by Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) but restricted to offshore oil was added to the bill Thursday by a vote of 52 to 48. also over oil industry opposition.

Jackson's amendment would authorize the Secretary of the Interior

Senators accepted the House's rewrite of a school finance bill they had passed Tuesday. The two most expensive features of the bill are $345.2 million to raise teacher salaries and provide more teachers in kindergarten through third grade and $341 million to reduce local fund assignments (LFA) for the Foundation School Program.

Another major feature creates a School Texas Assessment Practices Board to make sure that similar property is appraised in the same way, statewide, for school taxes.

Each school board will choose how its local expenditures for the foundation program will be determined. There are district-wide figures for the market value of property. There also are lower figures based on agricultural land's productivity rather than its value as real estate. A school board can choose which numbers to use in setting its LFA.

If it chooses market value, that number will be multiplied by .0018. "Ag values." however, would be multiplied by .0021.

Teachers received modest increases in salaries, except at the top end of the seniority scale, where sizeable raises were granted.

State-supported minimum pay for beginners would jump from $8,000 to $8,460 this fall, while those with three years of experience would increase from $8,950 to $9,400. A teacher who has been at the top of the scale for two years would get a raise from $11,780 to matter had been destroyed. Turner wrote Inouye in the letter delivered Friday:

"I find it my duty to report to you now that our continuing search for drug related, as well as other documents, has uncovered certain papers which bear on this matter. Let me hasten to add that I am persuaded that there was no previous attempt to conceal this material in the original 1975 exploration.

House Korea probe special counsel resigns

By JIM ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) - Philip A. Lacovara resigned late Friday as special counsel to the House investigation of alleged Korean influence-buying in Congress in a dispute with the chairman of the ethics committee.

Lacovara sent his resignation to Rep. John J. Flynt, D-Ga., chairman of the committee conducting the probe, after Flynt was quoted as calling complaints by Lacovara about the slow pace of the probe "arrogant, self-serving, misleading and grossly inaccurate.

'The 'ethics committee had hired Lacovara's firm and appointed him to head a special staff to investigate allegations that Koreans tried to buy influence with congressmen with cash, gifts and favors.

Flynt also was quoted in the interview published by the Cox Newspapers as saying he plans to ask Congress' General Accounting Office to audit Lacovara's $35,000 legal bill for January, Lacovara dictated his letter of resignation from Europe, where he is on vacation "It is now evident that the relationship of mutual trust and

Probe initiated in N.Y. blackout

By LOUISE COOK

NEW YORK (AP) - Authorities began trying on Friday to pinpoint reasons and responsibility for the blackout that crippled New York for more than 24 hours and cost millions in lost business and looting.

As businesses and public facilities returned to normal — or at least nearnormal - officials and private citizens alike were asking four questions: What went wrong? Who's to blame? What was the cost? Can it happen again? The Federal Power Commission formally opened its probe of the blackout that began Wednesday night when lightning struck a transformer and power lines. Similar probes have been announced by the city, the state and Consolidated Edison Co. itself.

Before the federal hearing started, Richard L. Dunham, commission chairman, said the government must share the blame.

Whatever we did obviously didn't prevent this situation," he said, referring to measures taken after the 1965 Northeast blackout. "Quite obviously something didn't fit. We're going to find out what went wrong and find out what steps can and must be taken to prevent the same thing from happening again.

"I'm satisfied that technology is available at least in the theoretical sense," he said, but he added: "There's no way to give absolute guarantees this sort of thing won't

Craddick gives support to House-amended version Youth detained

AUSTIN — Midland Rep. Tom Craddicks supported the Houseamended version of Senate Bill 1, the school finance bill passed by the Legislature Friday afternoon.

The bill will benefit the West Texas school districts." he said.

As amended, the bill reduces local fund assignments, the share of school finance money raised by each school district. The unamended Senate bill and a House bill backed by a coalition of liberals offered less reduction of local fund assignments and more money towards equalization aid for poorer districts.

"This bill helps the school districts in the area of the state I represent across the board financially," he said.

Craddicks said he co-authored an amendment to the bill deleting a provision reducing the amount of available school funds for budget balanced districts.

Body identified, death said due to blow on head

ODESSA - The body of a woman found northeast of Odessa on the Buzz Hurt ranch May 22 was identified Monday as 19-year-old Dorothy Marie. Garlington, said Ector County Sheriff Elton Faught in a Friday press conference.

At the time of her death, Mrs. Garlington had been in Odessa approximately six months, working as a go-go dancer, according to Faught. Faught said they had several potential suspects.

Mrs. Garlington died from a blow on the head with a blunt instrument, according to the pathologist's report. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Harten of Nederland.

Hubbard's trial set for Monday

Nice work, indeed!

The Wall Street Journal, in a recent editorial, pointed out that the financial load of the United Nations staff is completely unjustified. And the staff itself is unbalanced in relation to financial support.

The Journal said that surveys recently prepared by the General Accounting Office noted that although the United States is the largest contributor to the United Nations and its affiliated agencies (it pays approximately 25 per cent of the total annual bill), only 13 per cent of the U.N.'s professional employes are Americans. In addition, most Americans are relegated to middle or lower leveljobs.

As a result, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff has urged that the United States get a fairer share of the important jobs

His request certainly is in line and should receive serious consideration in the U.S. Congress and the United Nations

But, as stated by The Wall Street Journal, the really important questions about U.N. employment have gone unanswered in Congress and elsewhere.

"The most important," the editorial continued, "is how long the U.S. will provide the lion's share of funds to a bloated bureaucracy whose employes are far and away the world's most highly paid and pampered civil servants."

The editorial went on to say that the U.N. work force has doubled to almost 41,000 during the last decade. The number of independent agencies has

This really is something, isn't it? Almost 41,000 employes, who are the world's "most highly paid and pampered civil servants." And the United States is the largest contributor to the fund which meets the payroll.

"The State Department International Organizations Bureau," the Journal said, "estimates that the basic salaries of U.N. professionals are 38 per cent to 57 per cent higher than the salaries of U.S. civil servants. Pensions for U.N. bureaucrats are as much as 55 per cent higher. vacations longer

"In addition, top U.N. employes working outside their home country are entitled to hefty extra allowances, receive rent subsidies, subsidized parking at the U.N. garage, discount liquor and exemption from local sales taxes. They are also exempt from any income taxes, paying instead a 'staff assessment' that is far below U.S. tax rates."

"Even if the U.N. were working miracles, it would be hard to justify the demands on U.S. taxpayers to help support the high living standards of its employes." the Journal said. "And while it has some accomplishments to its credit, it definitely is not working miracles."

FOR BUSINESS

LeBaron family: Mixed-up bunch

By JACK ANDERSON and LES

WASHINGN - The transformation of Ervil LeBaron into a messianic murderer is an unfinished story still being written in blood.

It's the story of a religious fanatic who sees himself as God's avenger and sends armed women to strike down the nonbelievers. It's the story of the Old West come alive again, with shootings and bushwackings in the remote, rugged countryside where Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid once roamed:

But most of all, it's the saga of the LeBarons, a violent family, whose lives have had a bizarre Old Testament quality

The sons came out of the desert, claiming to be prophets in the Moses tradition. One of them reenacted the Cain and Abel story, with Ervil doing in his brother Joel. Then Ervil sent his women, armed with shotguns and firebombs, to destroy Joel's followers, much as the Israelites fell upon the false priests of Baal.

The trouble began with the practice of polygamy by a few early Mormons in their isolated desert communities. A disapproving federal government outlawed polygamy, and the church responded by abolishing the practice

But a few unreconstructed polygamists settled in Mexico. It was in this environment that Alma Dayer LeBaron was raised. He became obsessed with the idea that the Mormon church had gone astray and that he was the true prophet. The authority had been his deceased grandfather who had appeared to him in angelic form. The resurrected ancestor, in turn, conferred upon him, he claimed, by had received the holy authority from the Mormon prophet Joseph Smith. Le Baron promised to bequeath it, as a birthright, to the most worthy of his seven sons. They have been feuding over this ethereal birthright for two decades, with startling results

The oldest son, Benjamin, was the first to claim the inheritance. He proclaimed himself the true prophet. "Mighty and Strong." To demonstrate his holy strength, he once held up traffic for 30 minutes while he did pushups in the center of a busy Salt Lake City intersection.

Investigative reporter Dale Van Atta has reported in the Deseret News that Benjamin also had the habit of roaring like a lion to dramatize his claim to be the "Lion of Israel." He wound up his ministry in a succession of mental hospitals.

Joel LeBaron was the next brother to claim his father's divine authority. The old patriarch personally ordained him as the the successor, Joel declared. Relatives remember him as a benevolent prophet. Christ-like in his ministrations

But Joel's dispensation ended in tragedy after his younger brother. Ervil, began to challenge first his dogma and then his authority. As the dispute deepened, the terribletempered Ervil threatened his brother's life.

Joel responded by excommunicating Ervil from the fold. In the eyes of Joel's followers, Ervil was a Judas. He became a Cain and implemented the threat against his brother. In August, 1972, Joel was brutally slain. The Mexican authorities accused Ervil of arranging the murder, which was actually committed by one of Ervil's fanatical

The brilliant, dynamic Ervil LeBaron demonstrated an ability to fire his followers with such zeal that they would die for him or kill for him. He trained them from childhood not only to handle weapons but to use them in his holy cause.

On a ramshackle farm outside Salt Lake City, meanwhile, another brother claims to be his father's true heir. Ross LeBaron leads a church with no members. His only followers are goats, which he raises.

He has the zany, happy look of comedian Red Skelton. Like the martyred Joel, Ross is at peace with the world, a gentle soul awaiting the Second Coming. That he expects the Messiah to arrive in a flying saucer is dismissed by his neighbors as merely another of his eccentricities. "Ross LeBaron doesn't have a violent bone in his body," a neighbor told our associate Marc Smolonsky

Yet violence may be his legacy. He stands in the way of Ervil's mad quest to become his father's sole spiritual LeBaron, has taken over the spot that Joel headed before his violent death. Now Verlan's name, apparently, is at the top of Ervil's execution list. Associates say he is philosophical about the threats from his brother. but he is also secretive about his movements.

He was related by marriage to the late Dr. Rulon Allred, the leader of 1,000 polygamists. The doctor was also threatened by the evii Ervil. Last May, Allred was gunned down by two women who burst into his office and shot him in cold blood.

This leaves two brothers - Alma. .. who presides over a small flock in San Diego and Floren, who is trying to start his, own religious movement in Nicaragua. Both have been threatened by their bloodthirsty brother.

Ervil, meanwhile, has raised his sights. Sources close to his wild bunch say he intends to conquer the world. As the first step, he reportedly wants to eliminate President Carter and Vice President Mondale.

believe abortions to be wrong, they should act against it in principle and not deny to poor people what others may freely do.

The issue here isn't abortion, it's the double standard that enforces certain aspects of middle-class morality for poor people while exempting the more affluent.

That hypocrisy becomes even more blatant when people endorse cutting off the availability of abortions to the poor while at the same time denying poor families with children the daycare centers, the quality schools, and the work and income maintenance they so desperately need to lead independent lives.

It's not enough to impose one's own morality on other people when it comes to the death of a fetus: there's also the moral obligation to accept other people's needs to meaningful, not just biological, life.

actions against affirmative action programs, described by code words such as "reverse discrimination" or 'quotas.'' Congress has been adamant about stopping federal pressure on institutions to have affirmative action programs with numerical goals.

But at the same time Congress has passed a law providing that medical schools receiving federal funds have to reserve classroom spaces for American students who enrolled in foreign medical schools before last

How can it sanction a quota system of sorts for Americans studying abroad while refusing to sanction a similar system for traditionally discriminated-against minorities If a student has the financial ability to pursue a medical education in another country, what pressing social purpose is served by forcing American medical schools to accommodate him or her at the expense of others trying to gain admission?

places will be set aside for such students in the next academic year. Yet a major constitutional issue has been raised because one medical school set aside only 16 out of its 100 places for minorities in an attempt to increase the pitifully small numbers of minority doctors. So what we are now seeing is very much an old story — the cloaking of anti-minority, anti-poor attitudes behind misreadings of the law, moral arrogance and sheer selfishness. That hypocrisy infects our land, from the Supreme Court on down to our neighborhoods.

So long as our nation clings to this sort of double standard - one set of laws for the middle class and the affluent, and another for the poor and for minorities it will never become the just society it can be.

New great debate over U.S. strategic policy likely

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Second thoughts following the rhapsodic first reaction to President Carter's cancellation of the B-1 bomber are producing a different response, confronting the administration with serious problems for which solutions are not presently

A new great debate over U.S. strategic policy seems assured, now that the B-1 supersonic bomber whatever its immense costs to the taxpayer — has been scrapped. Plans for such a debate are now being laid defense-oriented members of Congress who want to know among other things whether Mr. Carter has hidden plans for some new and cheaper manned bomber to penetrate Soviet air defenses after the B-52 dies of old age in the next 10 to 12 years.

The deepening concern inside the defense bloc is that the virtual abandonment of the strategic (longrange) B-1 bomber - with no other replacement for the B-52 yet visible — was primarily a sudden money-saving move with inadequate study of its profound implications.

Some of these implications seem, at least on the surface, to pose horrendous new problems. For example, under the long-held American nuclear balance thesis of mutual deterrence, or mutual assured destruction, the U.S. has allowed its air defenses to atrophs. The Soviet Union, to the contrary, has done just the opposite: constructed the world's most remarkable air-defense system.

No air defense has been developed against the low-flying cruise missile. Yet, even though U.S. experts hint broadly that the American missile may be equipped with counterelectronic measures that blind Soviet radars, the threat of an eventual effective Soviet defense against the cruise is real.

Moreover, it is axiomatic that what the U.S. does, the Soviets eventually can also do. Jimmy Carter's abrupt decision to cancel the B-1, leading to all-out U.S. development and production of the cruise missile — not as a bargaining counter for strategic arms talks but as the replacement for the long-range bomber - will predictably lead to a crash cruisemissile program in the Soviet Union. If successful, leading congressional defense experts warn, this Soviet capability will either force the U.S. into an immensely expensive air-defense program or hand the Soviets an unacceptable advantage.

"We've got the marbles right now with the cruise missile," a top military expert told us, "but 10 years down the road the cruise is going to turn into our problem, not theirs. There is, moreover, growing suspicion on another score on Capitol Hill, even among hawkish members of Congress who always have felt that the air-launched cruise missile was the American ace-in-the-hole. The suspicion: that without the B-1 to take a major role in the air-launched nuclear bomb force - one leg of the strategic triad - the 2,500 kilometer ceiling on the range of the airlaunched cruise missile is clearly inadequate. That ceiling was offered the Russians by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance last March, but never

With the B-1 as its partner, it was felt that the cruise missile could be restricted to that maximum range (about 1,500 miles) from the point of launch. Without the B-1's versatility. that range will give sanctuary safety to vast Soviet areas, say congressional critics who will make the ceiling a key target in the up-coming defense debate.

The effect of the B-1 decision on the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) barely begins with the question of lifting that 2,500 kilometer range ceiling for the cruise missile. More important in the long run is the question of verifying the range, numbers and payloadstof the Soviet cruise misile.

Verification lies at the heart of congressional worry about any new SALT agreement with the Russians. Yet no way exists to "verify" the existence of whatever numbers of cruise missiles the Soviets say they possess - once they master development and move into production.

This presents the administration with a profound problem. John L. McLucas, who as Undersecretary of the Air Force in the early Nixon days was head of National Reconnaissance - the top verification job - recently defined that problem

In a letter to the Washington Post July 9, McLucas warned that "the President is moving away from a world of known weapon systems...to a world where there is no way to count how many each side has. He will have traded a temporary advantage in technology for a loosened control over weapons in general."

Underlying these rising concerns is the fact that Mr. Carter cancelled the B-1 with no apparent offset of any kind from Moscow, a paradox deeply troubling to his critics. The President's new budget amendment, asking Congress to kill $1.5 billion in B-1 funds and transfer $500 million of it to the cruise missile. was due on Capitol Hill this week. Mr. Carter is certain to get what he wants, but he may also get what he does not want - the start of a great debate on the strategic position of the U.S. as it looks ahead to a new period without the manned bomber.

"SHOCKING TREND" Hypocrisy on social issues infects nation

By VERNON E. JORDAN JR. Copley News Service

Increasingly, there is a shocking trend for social issues to be discussed in a hypocritical way, with a huge gap between enunciated principles and reality as it affects poor people.

A good example of this is the latest U.S. Supreme Court blunder - the decision that states and local hospitals can refuse to perform or even to permit elective abortions with federal funds.

In 1973, the court ruled state prohibition of abortion unconstitutional. How then, can it turn around only four years later and deliver a decision that makes abortion impossible for poor people? By doing so the court has supplanted equal protection of the laws as a constitutional standard and replaced it with a new standard personal affluence. The effect of its ruling is to place abortion beyond the reach of poor women who cannot afford private doctor's fees and hospital costs.

It also creates a two-tier health system, whereby people who can afford to do so may choose to have abortions while poor people are denied access to the same health

Just a day later, the Senate jumped onto the same hypocritical bandwagon to ban use of Medicaid funds for most abortions.

What makes the whole exercise an obscene lesson in hypocrisy is that if the court and the Congress really Carter bad for Clinton?

By DANIEL Q. HANEY

CLINTON, Mass. (AP) - Four months ago. Clinton residents beamed with pride at the prospect of a visit from President Carter and hoped the publicity would give the town a boost. But since then, Clinton has sunk into its worst economic slump since the Great Depression.

On March 16, Carter attended a special town meeting at the Clinton Town Hall, then spent the night with the family of a local beer distributor. Crowds stood for hours for a glimpse of the President

The town meeting was carried live on national television, and residents of this out-of-the-way town exclaimed they were finally being put on the

the next day, the Colonial Press, once Clinton's biggest employer, announced it was going out of business. There's been little but bad news since.

The book printing company laid off about 750 workers. Another 360 have been out of work for 15 weeks because of a strike at the Ray O Vac flashlight battery plant.

In a town of 13,500, the loss of these jobs has been disastrous. Alan Jewett, chairman of the town selectmen, says he expects the unemployment rate in July to be 14 per cent - almost double the level when Carter came to town. Carter's trip to Clinton was the first of a series of meet-the-people events across the country. 'It certainly put Clinton on the map, but I don't know what it's done for us," said Robert J. Fitzgerald, manager of the Clinton branch of the Worcester County National Bank. "Nothing has changed for the better," he said. "Now we're waiting to see if we can get back on our feet and be a viable community again. In the downtown area several shops stand vacant, and the ones that remain say business is terrible. "Look out there," said druggist Francis E. Messenger. "There are no cars on the street. No people and no business. Many Clinton residents had hoped that Carter's visit would help attract jobs to town, but Messenger says people do not blame the President for all that has happened since. 'I don't think the fact that he came here had any effect," he said. "A lot of unfortunate things have happened.

Our economy collapsed. But you can't Ray Philbin, 66, a life-long Clinton residents, says this is the worst misery the town has gone through since the 1930s. That was when a big carpet plant and a gingham mill Since then, the red brick mills have been taken over by other kinds of manufacturing, but unemployment has long been a problem.

Campus becoming vacation destination

By LOUISE COOK

A growing number of families are spending summer vacations on college and university campuses, studying everything from performing arts to government in special low-cost programs combining leisure and

The vacation colleges generally are sponsored by alumni associations, but most are open to non-alumni as well, sometimes at a slight additional fee. There are no prior educational requirements and the programs do not carry credits toward a degree.

A few summer colleges are limited to adults only; more and more schools, however, offer something for everyone in the family: seminars and lectures for grownups, recreation for youngsters.

Prices vary, but a week or 10-day program for a family of four, including room, board and tuition, usually runs about $500 to $600.

There is no central clearinghouse for statistics on the number of schools offering vacation programs or the number of people enrolled. A spokesman for Cornell University. which operates one of the oldest programs, said vacation colleges are offered by 60 to 70 schools.

Spokesmen for individual colleges and universities agreed that interest is growing.

'The courses are increasing in popularity and more schools are offering them," said a spokesman at the University of Michigan which has a one-week program beginning Aug. 14 with seminars for adults on a variety of subjects. The program is in its third year.

Families live and eat in dormitories and there are special activities for children, according to age. The allinclusive price is $140 per adult, $120 for youngsters 12 to 17, $90 for those 2 to 11 and $50 dollars for children under 2. People who are not graduates of the university must pay an additional $15 for an associate membership in the alumni association.

Ninety persons have signed up for the 1977 session of the Michigan program. "That's much higher than last year," said the spokesman.

"It's a different kind of vacation." the spokesman said. "There's an emphasis on education, but it's fun. The kids have a great time."

The Cornell program is in its 10th year and, according to director G. Michael McHugh. "We are the biggest one in the country." Nine hundred adults and 400 children are enrolled in four one-week programs which started July 10.

"It's a vacation for the mind," said "The main thing is the intellectual atmosphere." While adults attend lectures and seminars; there are recreational, cultural and educational activities for youngsters. A one-week program costs $195 per adult, $95 for children 3 to 6 and $115 for youngsters over six.

Another well-established program is offered by Dartmouth University. in Hanover, N.H., where the Alumni College is in its 14th year. The Aug. 7 to 18 program -open to non-alumni as well - is expected to draw some for a course on "Men and Women: What's the D-$275 per youngster and $599 per adult couple - include lectures and discussions for adults, along with entertainment in the evening, and activities including crafts and sports for youngsters.

The University of Oregon is offering a family vacation program for the first time this summer. An adultsonly plan is in its 14th year.

The family program, running from July 17 to 22, offers morning lectures and discussions for adults on "Effective Communications." Afternoon activities for the grownups include tours of cultural and recreational areas and sports.

Children live in a separate dormitory from their parents and have their own programs. Families get together for breakfast and dinner. The price is $136 per adult, $50 for youngsters 13 to 18, $40 for those 5 to 12 and $10 for children under 5.

The adults-only study program is more expensive - $220 per person and lasts longer - Aug. 14 to 21. Housing is more elaborate and participants have a choice of two study areas: "Everybody's Art" and "Perspective on Our Urban Society."

A spokesman said interest is growing for several reasons. "Part of it is coming back to or just being on a college campus." In addition, more people "are interested in learning for learning's sake rather than credits. We bring contemporary issues to their attention."

American University in Washington offers participants in its one-week program from July 31 to Aug. 7 a chance to combine study with sightseeing in the nation's capital.

Adults are offered a choice of five courses covering architecture in Washington, single parenthood, the U.S. government, the performing arts and the diplomatic scene. Classes run from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., with the afternoon free for oncampus activities or sightseeing. For children, the school offers supervised recreational activities from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

One party really rules Denmark

By BERNARD D. NOSSITER The Washington Post

COPENHAGEN, Denmark - Gen. Charles de Gaulle is supposed to have said despairingly of the French, "How can one govern a country with 352 different cheeses?" Most foreign observers here count 11 different parties in the Danish Parliament and ask roughly the same rhetorical question. Stable government, they conclude with regret, is impossible in a setup like this.

Nevertheless, Prime Minister Anker Joergensen, whose Social Democrats hold only 65 of the 179 seats in Parliament, has in fact as much authority as the chief of any democratic government. If he calls out the police or the troops, they don't count his seats in Parliament but obey orders. Joergensen's tax collectors collect very high taxes; his bureaucrats spend money on welfare, housing, highways and medical care and nobody questions the checks. Joergensen's foreign minister negotiates treaties. If the prime minister makes the appropriate compromises, he can even get Parliament to adopt some new tax and spending bills.

To be sure, Joergensen cannot get Parliament to pass one of his pet projects - taxing employers to build a fund for a union takeover of large companies. There is no fundamental agreement among voters or parties on this. It is a neat illustration of Walter Lippmann's rule of thumb that no far-reaching measure should be adopted without consent from two-thirds of an electorate.

But Joergensen's position is no different from that of British Prime Minister James Callaghan, whose party got 40.1 per cent of the vote in the last election, or, for that matter, of President Carter, who got 49.98 per cent of the vote last fall. Callaghan does not try to put through his Parliament a favorite Labor bill to tax wealth. Carter has had to give way on many issues, from a tax rebate to his first choice for director of the CIA

The point is that Denmark's multi-party structure hides the central fact: This country is essentially governed by one party. Its factions are called Liberal party, Radical Liberal, Conservative, Christian People's party, Social Democrat, Center Democrat and the like. Its governments are variously called Coalition, Liberal or Social Democrat.

The real political argument is over men and over details - should the state pay for ceramics courses for housewives; should the tax burden be shifted at the margin from workers to owners or the reverse; how much medical care should be underwritten by the state; would Joergensen or Poul Hartling of the of consequence has changed. Liberals produce the better pay policy? But the fundamental strands of policy are agreed upon.

For Denmark, they are: —A classically liberal economy, based on private expects any radical departure. property and more or less free markets to determine output and prices.

—Large-scale economic intervention by the state, using tax, spending and monetary policies in an effort to dampen the business cycle, restrain inflation and reduce unemployment. -Generous welfare payments for the needy, disabled and aged, with wide state support for all medical expenses and all schooling. -Firm adherence to the Western alliance and full participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organiza-

This consensus excludes the three leftist parties -Communists, People's Socialists and Left Socialists. They would quarrel with nearly every one of the points above. In the last election, the three received together one vote in 10, a measure of their isolation.

On the right, many Danes upset by including under the consensus tent the Progressive party of Mogens Glistrup, Glistrup, who got one vote in seven, is thought of as an antisocial charlatan whose opposition to income taxes is a threat to Denmark's social solidarity. In fact, Glistrup has softened so many of his original positions — he no longer boasts that he pays no taxes, now concedes the need for defense spending and favors pensions and medical insurance that he has all but crawled onto the political band-

Denmark's one-party system, moreover, is much like those of its neighbors in democratic Sweden and Norway. Swedish voters finally ousted the Social Democrats after two generations. The Swedes rightly guessed that it would not make much difference.

Indeed, the only difference so far is that Prime Minister Thorbjorn Falldin's coalition has spent money faster on nuclear energy and other public works than Olof Palme, his predecessor. But nothing

Mrs. Baxter looks as if she doesn't have a care in the world. She is always perfectly groomed. Her house and her garden, with its beautiful flowers, are always just so. She isn't trying to give a false impression; in fact, she would be horrified at the thought. But the truth is that things have not been all that easy for her. Her husband is a semi-invalid; their only son was killed in a tragic accident. She works in her

Sexual attitudes polled

By MARJORIE HYER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - A study of sexual public schools; 80 per cent opt for inattitudes of the 1.8 million member United Church of Christ disclosed that Members of the church, which is in the liberal wing of American Protestantism, still lean toward traditional Christian beliefs in such matters as teenage sex, divorce and some aspects of homosexuality, according to a study released here recently.

The study was conducted by Dr. Yoshio Fukuyama of the University of Pennslyvania and is based on the views of delegates elected to the church's 11th General Senate, in session here. More than 70 per cent of the 703 delegates responded in writing to the 59-question survey.

Clergy - 73 per cent - agreed more readily than lay delegates - 59 per cent - that Biblical assumptions about sexuality "have been proved inaccurate.

On homosexuality, 78 per cent of those surveyed favor laws guaranteeing civil rights for homosexuals, but delegates were divided almost equally on whether or not homosexual acts are "sinful." Over 46 per cent opposed ordaining "an avowed homosexual" to the ministry, 40 per cent-would ordain and 13.1 per cent hadn't made up their minds.

The United Church has no national policy on this question since ministers are ordained at the discretion of local associations of the church.

Seven of 10 church members who are descendants of the Pilgrims and the Puritans said they share the experience President Carter reported last year when he confessed that "I've looked on a lot of persons with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times.

Tomorrow morning we will be studying "Righteousness." from Matt. 5:17-20. Have you wondered what Jesus meant when He said "For verily I say unto you, till heaven and earth pass away one iot or one tittle shall in no wise pass away from the law, till all things be accomplished."? We will be answering this question, the Lord willing, in our class.

WASHINGTON (AP) - People like to talk to other people - almost any time, about almost anything.

At the FCC, we think this is an important reason why CB radio is so popular today and why it will continue to be popular in the future. Every day, thousands of people join the millions world of enjoyable conversations and learning about the very important public service contributions of CB

The CB Radio Service is your radio service. You do not need any technical training to operate a CB radio. You do not have to take any exams to become licensed in the CB radio service. Almost anyone can get a CB license, and the temporary permit allows an applicant to get on the air immediately after he has filed a license application. The rules governing CB radio are minimal, and most of them are intended to make your communications easier and

We know that families often use CB radio to keep communications open between their houses and their automobiles. Small businesses often use hand-held CB units to communicate among employes within an office building. Boats, especially small pleasure craft, are frequently equipped with CB radios to stay in contact with shore-based units in case of

Volunteers answer cancer calls

By GALE TOLLIN

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - "I've got this symptom ... Do I have cancer? What do I do? Should I go to a doctor? What is chemotherapy?'

Since May 1976, trained volunteers and a couple of paid employes have been answering questions phoned tollfree to the Minnesota Cancer Information Service.

Supervisor Debra Minde estimates between 6,000 and 7,000 calls have been received. Some are from people suspecting they may have cancer. Some are from concerned kin. A few are from proponents of cancer "cures" and quackery.

Trans-Miss tourney reaches semifinals

Scott Watkins fires from rough

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

Lindy Miller is going to have one helluva future ahead of him when he decides to forfeit his amateur golf status next year and tackle the pro tour. And if you don't believe it, just ask John Grace.

"Of all the young golfers I've seen." said the 29-year-old former Walker Cup player, "I think Lindy is as good, if not better than any of them.

But the Oklahoma State University All-American still hasn't reached the point where he can't be taught a thing or two about the game that may someday make him a millionaire. So Grace took it upon himself Friday to play teacher in the pair's quarterfinal match of the Trans-Missiasippi Amateur Golf Tournament being held at the Midland Country Club.

When the lesson was finally over. the older and wiser Grace had beaten his 20-year-old adversary, three and one, to advance to today's semifinal round in this 74th annual golf classic being held on the tough 7,400-yard par-72 MCC layout.

Joining Grace in the final four is John Fought, who defeated Rod Nuckolls in the quarters, one up. Scott Watkins, a sudden-death winner over David Rasco, and NCAA champion Scott Simpson, who eliminated Mel Calender, three and two.

FOUGHT, THE highly-regarded Portland, Oregon golfer who will meet Grace in one of today's semifinal matches, defeated Rod Nuckolls of Wichita, Kan., one-up.

Watkins, who resides in Scottsdale. Ariz., and will be a junior at Arizona State in the fall, was extended to two extra holes before sinking a four foot birdie putt to win_it. His semifinal Calif., ended the Cinderella hopes of San Marcos and Texas Tech golfer Mel Callender, three and two, in the last quarterfinal match Friday.

Callender, who had to battle 18 other golfers in a special playoff Monday just to earn one of the last three berths in the 64-man championship field, surprised everyone including himself - by making it as far as he did in the tourney.

"I really didn't expect to do as well as I have here," he said. Especially after barely even making it into the championship flight. This is the best tournament I've ever had, and I was real pleased to get as far as I did.

"But today against Simpson, I was struggling. I stayed with him on the front side, but on the back side I right out of it.'

EVERYONE EXPECTED the Grace-Miller battle to go right down to the last hole, with Miller a slight favorite after Grace was extended to four extra holes in Thursday afternoon's third round by former Arizona State golfer, Bob Burton.

But it didn't. The long-hitting Miller couldn't buy a fairway shot Friday. and time and time again he was hitting his second shots out of the rough. To make matters worse, his usually solid putting stroke failed him

At 5-foot-6, Grace realized a long time ago that he wasn't built for power golf, so he compensates for his diminutive stature with accuracy.

"Because I'm not that big. I've had keeping the ball straight, and I think I usually do," he stated.

At no time was his accuracy more in evidence than against Miller. In the 17 holes that the match lasted, Grace missed just two fairways off the tee.

Ironically, the turning point of the match may have come on one of the holes he didn't drive well on. A birdie by Miller on 12 put the young star just two down. On 13, he hit a long drive that landed on the right side of the fairway on the par-4, 432-yard hole, while Grace came up 20 yards shorter and in the right rough.

But Grace threw up an iron shot that fell 12 feet from the pin, and Miller sliced his shot, missing the entire green. Grace then parred out, while Miller was left with a

"That hole was definitely the key." Grace said after the match as he talked to repoters. "It turned the match right around. Lindy seemed to be getting his game together after he birdied the twelfth, but that second shot on 13 killed him

"I don't think Lindy was on his game today. But I was under par too,

It obviously wasn't one of the big matches of the Trans-Miss that day and since one golfer was from Scottadale, Ariz., and the other from Lafayette, La.; it really didn't pack much local appeal. What made it something out of the ordinary was one of the three tagging along in the players' wake was Ernie Banks.

And it was a bit strange to hear a baseball great who is scheduled for induction into the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., bubble in open admiration over the "Way these young kids hit the ball and play this game. They're all good

Watkins' shot was good, as predicted, but his opponent's ball was even better and after 16 holes the Arizona State golfer's lead had shrunk to none

The obvious question was why the Chicago Cubs' immortal would fly in from the Windy City and choose this particular match between two relatively obscure golfers to watch in the just-as-windy Tall City.

"He and Scott) and my boys were friends at Mesa Community College in Arizona," he explained.

"SURE THEY hit a home run off Bruce Sutter in New York last night," Banks replied to a comment. "We have him do that now and then just to make them think he's human. Most of the time he isn't, you know.

Trudging up the fairway. Banks enthused, "It's hot, but I'm getting my exercise by walking with these players. Tonight I'll do some running at the ball park before the game.

"I always like to do something every day. I walk, run a mile, ride a bike or swim ... something to keep in shape. You feel good. Really, everybody should do it. There's no excuse for not staying in shape and keeping your body tone.

Ernie is a great advocate of P.M.A. (Positive Mental Attitude). He'll preach it to anyone who will listen. "You've got to have it. That's what we (Chicago) have this year and it's paying off.

Watkins birdied 17 to go one up. "Watch now, he'll go for the trees on the right and his hook will take him back into the fairway so he'll be in the center for a good shot at the green." Watkins played it just as

THE GUY with Ernie persisted in bringing up baseball and asked whether Pete Broberg, the one-time No. 1 draft pick of the old Washington Senators, might fulfill the Cubs desperate need for a lefthander.

'He could. Fred is with the big club and working with him, said Ernie referring to Fred Martin, the Cubs' roving pitching coach who saved Bruce Sutter's career by teaching him the sinker.

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) - Jack Nicklaus, playing in a tournament he wanted to skip on a course he doesn't care for, regained his interest with a 67 that staked him to a share of the second-round lead Friday in the $250,000 Pleasant Valley Golf Classic

"Coming back from a major championship, the biggest problem is in just getting started," said Nicklaus, who lost to Tom Watson by one stroke in one of golf's great duels last week in the British Nicklaus traditionally does not like to play the week following a major championship. This event, however, was given "designated tournament" status this year and he and all other leading players were required to compete.

He has played here only once before in his career and makes no secret of his dislike for the deep bluegrass fairways.

"It's hard to play short iron shots with any control out of bluegrass," he said. But he has made only one bogey in 36 holes and says he is ready to make a run for his fourth title of

Seaver happy with Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) - Tom Seaver, who capped his first month as a member of the Cincinnati Reds with a two-hit victory over the Atlanta Braves, finally feels settled after the blockbuster trade that brought him from the New York Mets.

"It was impossible to feel at home at first, coming to a new team and leaving friends behind. But now it feels super. I don't want to be anywhere else," explained Seaver after he had pitched a 7-1 victory Thursday over the Atlanta Braves.

Seaver, who said his wife and two children will move here from Greenwich, Conn., after the All-Star break, is impressed with the Reds' lineup that now plays around him. "You really learn to appreciate just how outstanding the players are when you see them every day. You really appreciate someone like (George) Foster." said Seaver. 'The thing that impresses me about this team is that they're real
