Atlantic drilling urged by Carter

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — President Carter, after touring an oil rig in the Gulf of Mexico on Friday, called for faster oil drilling along the Atlantic coast and expressed confidence that offshore drilling would not interfere with U.S. lifestyles.

Carter, flying by helicopter to a $38-million drilling rig in the Gulf of Mexico, donned a red jumpsuit and a white safety helmet to inspect the drilling platform. The rig in 500 feet of water is owned by the Zapata Corp. and so far has drilled down 7,200 feet without finding oil.

While on the rig, Carter said he hoped "states further north along the Atlantic seaboard to be as eager as I am to see oil exploration take place there."

After returning to New Orleans, Carter told a news conference he was confident that drilling is sufficiently safe to warrant faster activity off the Atlantic coast.

The President said he felt reassured that oil production efforts in Atlantic waters can "be both successful and compatible with the preservation of our lifestyle."

Carter flew back to Washington on Friday afternoon.

Off-shore drilling has been challenged by some critics who maintain the drilling causes economic dislocation along the affected coast and that possible oil spills threaten the physical habitat. In some cases, drilling has been delayed because of legal battles.

Carter said he favors a bill by Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., that would provide federal payments to offset the impact of drilling on coastal areas. However, Carter said he sees no need for increased incentives for private oil exploration and production.

Johnston, Sen. Russell Long, D-La., and Rep. Lindy Boggs, D-La., and the state's Democratic Gov. Edwin Edwards went to the rig with Carter.

At the news conference later,

Carter was questioned about a proposal approved this week by the House Special Energy Committee to double the federal gasoline tax from four cents to eight cents a gallon.

While saying he would find an increase acceptable, Carter urged that a formula for apportioning the billions it would raise be made more flexible.

As an example, Carter said the committee proposal would mandate funds for rapid transit projects that would provide no benefits for rural residents who also pay a share of gasoline taxes. And he said he would like to see one cent of the increase transferred to state governments to maintain existing transportation systems.

The President, who talked at a public forum in Yazoo City, Miss., Thursday night about prospects for a sea-level Panama Canal, elaborated on the subject Friday. By the year 2000, he said, the nation could find that such a canal "might be in the interests of our national security militarily as well as economically."

Carter said administration officials now are reviewing a study of the feasibility of a sea-level canal that was conducted when Lyndon Johnson was president.

The study, he said, found the likeliest route for a new canal to be north of the present one, but still in Panama. He said the cost was estimated at $7 billion.

Noting that the cost of a proposed pipeline to carry Alaskan natural gas would cost an estimated $12 billion, Carter said the price tag for a new canal "would not be exorbitant" by comparison.

The news conference wound up a two-day Southern tour that also featured presidential appearances in Charleston, S.C., Jackson, Miss., as well as Yazoo City.

Woman, eight children slain; arson suspected

By JAMES F. SMITH

PROSPECT, Conn. (AP) — The bodies of a woman and eight children, some of them bound and gagged and some apparently with head injuries, were found Friday in a house gutted by a fire believed to be arson.

State police called it "the worst mass homicide" in Connecticut's history.

The pre-dawn blaze wiped out the family of Fred Beaudoin — his wife Cheryl, about 29, and their seven children — while he worked an overnight shift at a factory. Police contacted him there.

The eighth child killed was a visiting cousin.

"Some of the firemen found some of the children in there bound, so we're treating it like a murder," a state police spokesman said.

Police said they were interviewing some 50 persons in connection with the fire, and among them was a childhood companion of the father. State Trooper William McCasland said the man had been living in the basement of the Beaudoin home for several years.

A neighbor, Dan Walsh, said he saw the man Thursday night and again early Friday sitting in a black sedan in a church parking lot about a mile from the house.

Another neighbor, Mrs. Frances Paolino, said she saw a black car driving down the street when smoke from the blaze woke her about 3:30 a.m.

Dr. Elliot Gross, chief state medical examiner, said "there is evidence of head injuries to some" of the victims, but he refused to say how many — or how many had been bound and gagged.

The bodies were all burned. Officials said a determination of the causes of death would have to wait until autopsies are conducted.

The modest, one-story wood frame house is in a pleasant suburb of Waterbury, an industrial city in central Connecticut. The streets are often filled with children.

Police said the father was working the midnight-to-7 a.m. shift as an inspector at a Pratt & Whitney plant in nearby North Haven when the fire occurred. The plant makes aircraft engines.

Egypt bombs Libyan base

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egyptian planes bombed and severely damaged a Libyan air base south of Tobruk Friday in response to three Libyan air raids on Egyptian frontier positions, a military communique said.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said all Egyptian forces had withdrawn from Libyan territory, but a broadcast from Tripoli, Libya, indicated action was continuing.

The broadcast said Egyptian warplanes bombed the Al Adam air base Friday, paratroop "shock forces" raided a Libyan village and the Egyptians were conducting a major armored offensive on Libyan territory.

It was the third day of fighting this week in the border area between the long-feuding North African Arab neighbors. An aerial and tank battle took place Thursday near the border and 72 miles east of the Al Adam air base. There was a four-hour frontier battle Tuesday.

First word of the new action came from Sadat. He told a nationwide television audience his armed forces had withdrawn from Libya after giving Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy "a lesson he will never forget."

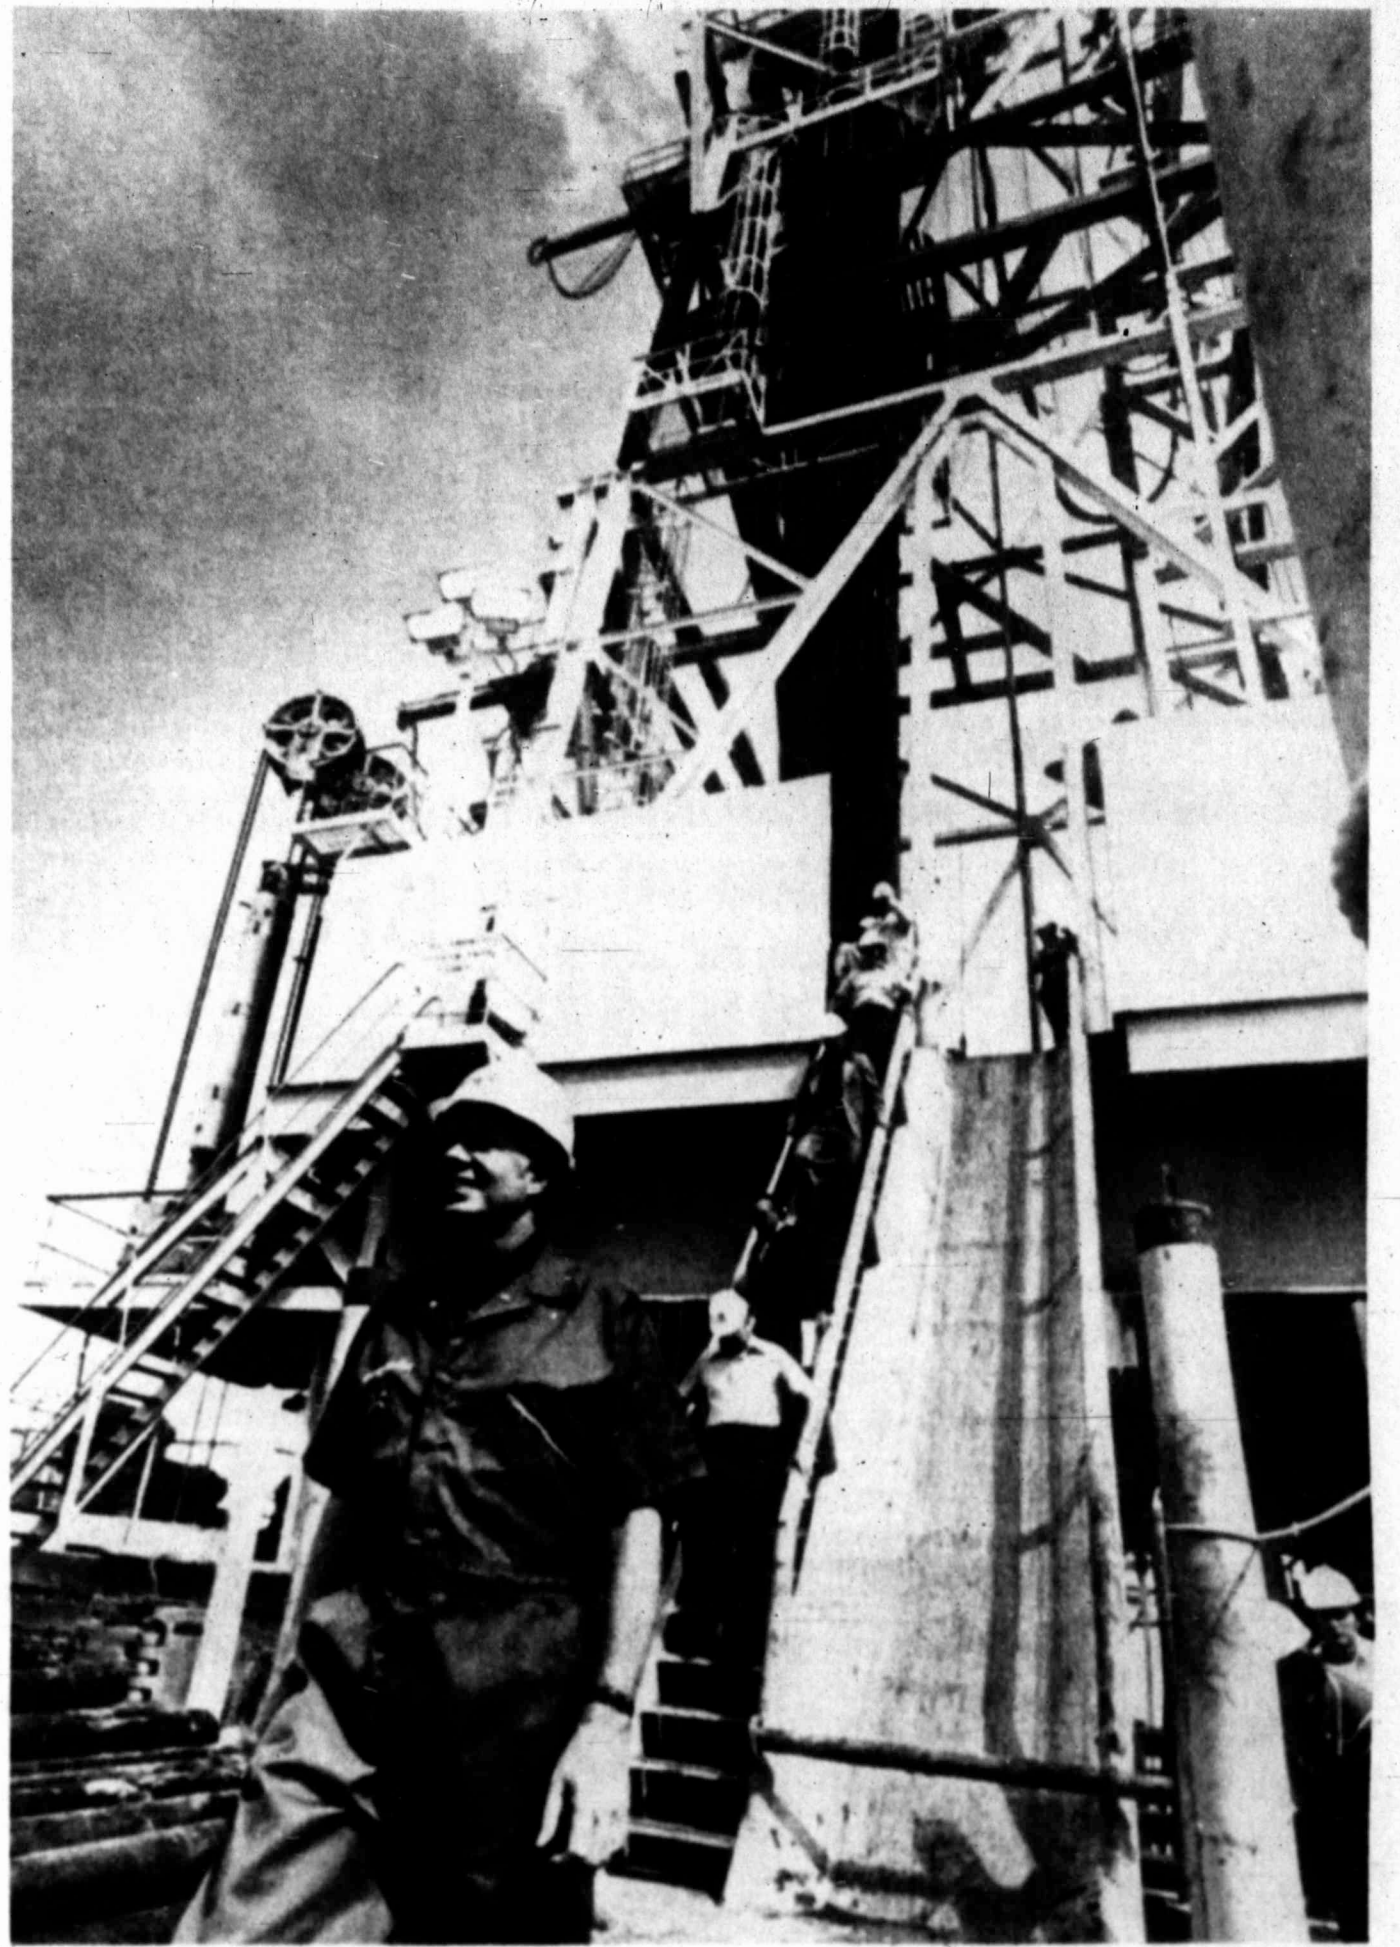

"By God, if they resume, we resume," Sadat said to heavy applause as he addressed 1,000 delegates at the national conference of local governments.

Yasir Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, was shuttling between Cairo and Tripoli trying to arrange a truce.

Sadat, who has accused Khadafy of being controlled by Moscow, said he had sent a message with Arafat to the Libyan leader telling him: "If your aim is to say that you are stronger than Egypt — No. We will beat you. If you are being instigated by someone else, we still will beat you."

The Tripoli broadcast reported that Sadat, in a message delivered by Arafat, said Thursday's attack against Mousaid was ordered by local military commanders. It said Libya had accepted Arafat's mediation efforts and suspended its air defense system, believing military operations were over, but "the Egyptians exploited the issue."

From Khartoum, Sudanese President Jaafar el-Numairi messaged Sadat pledging Sudan's full support against the "Libyan plot." Egypt's official Middle East News Agency reported. Numairi has blamed Khadafy for a coup attempt in Sudan last year.

Four men shot to death, heaped inside elevator

PARK RIDGE, Ill. (AP) — Horrified employees arrived at their modern suburban office building Friday to find four men shot to death and heaped atop each other in a bloody elevator like rag dolls.

A police investigator from nearby Chicago called it a "professional assassination" and said 25 to 30 shots had been fired. But another source said there was "no indication of mob involvement."

The victims were three businessmen who dealt in burglar alarms and a man thought to be related to one of the others. They were last seen alive about 10:30 p.m. Thursday in their offices in the building.

Chicago police were called in to help police from this well-to-do suburb northwest of Chicago. Park Ridge officers were saying little.

The killings were discovered minutes before 8 a.m. when a secretary, entering through the underground parking garage, inserted her pass key in the lock for the elevator.

The doors slid open. She gaped in horror.

"She came screaming out of the building, running across the street, hysterical," said an attendant at a nearby service station.

He called police, but meanwhile, B.L. Sershon, district manager for the Mirro Aluminum Co., which also has offices in the building, called for the same elevator.

"...When the door opened I saw them," he said. "The four men were piled atop each other in a bloody mass."

The three businessmen were associates in U.S. Universal Systems Co.

Authorities identified the victims as Joseph D. Larose, 35, of Inverness, another affluent northwest suburb;

John F. Vische, 32, of Country Club Hills, a south suburb; Donald Marchbanks, 33, of Blue Island, a south suburb; and Malcolm I. Russell, 36, of Chicago.

The two-story building, which houses 10 offices, is located on Higgins Road, east of O'Hare International Airport.

Sgt. Rocco Rinaldi of the Chicago police homicide unit said there were no signs of a struggle and more than one gunman may have been involved. All the bodies had powder burns and the victims were shot in the head and chest, said Rinaldi.

Three more expensive suits. The fourth wore slacks and a shirt.

Rinaldi said the gunmen apparently were "looking for something" because the pockets of the three well-dressed men were ripped. The fourth did not appear to have been searched, he said.

Lance asked to explain about loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee chairman called on federal budget director Bert Lance Friday to explain the circumstances surrounding a $3.4 million loan he used to buy bank stock.

Lance was asked to appear Monday before the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee to explain why the National Bank of Georgia deposited $200,000 in the First National Bank of Chicago one month before Lance obtained a $3.4 million loan from the Chicago bank to finance his purchase of National Bank of Georgia stock. Lance resigned as president of the Georgia bank to become President Carter's budget director.

A spokesman for Lance said the budget director had agreed to appear before the committee Monday. The committee delayed a decision on Lance's request that he be released from his promise made during confirmation hearings to sell his bank stock by the end of the year. Lance has said the stock has declined in value since he bought it and a forced sale could cost him more than $1 million.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the committee, said a vote on whether to proceed with a full-scale conflict-of-interest investigation of Lance's finances will be put off until after Lance is given an opportunity to explain the circumstances of the loan.

A spokesman for Lance denied any impropriety and said there is "absolutely no connection" between the National Bank of Georgia's opening a "correspondent" account at the First National Bank of Chicago and the subsequent loan by the Chicago bank to Lance.

Ribicoff said the questions surrounding the loan are serious and it is the committee's responsibility to determine the facts.

Ribicoff was supported by other senior committee members. But some junior Democrats disagreed strongly and the panel seemed divided on how to proceed.

Ribicoff proposed that Philip Manuel, the chief investigator of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, be assigned to trace Lance's bank dealings.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said, "What we're really talking about is a need to get the facts, fairly and impartially."

Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., said he saw no need for any investigation of Lance.

Unnamed 11 aid cause with 'Star Wars' idea

Eleven men got together and decided to do something worthwhile. They went to the movies.

They viewed "Star Wars," which is sort of a reeling science-fiction comic book, er, comic tome. The forces of good battle the evil in the universe in a movie that's simply got to be the most cosmopolitan of any fun film.

It's a blockbuster.

And those 11 men, who figured the movie might have merit, bought enough tickets to guarantee a full house. Fact is, they rented the theater, Cinema 1 (the old Ritz), in downtown Midland. They were intent on seeing the film.

Generously enough, they passed out handfuls of tickets to friends of theirs.

The theater was closed to "outsiders" for the "special premiere" showing Thursday night.

The anonymous 11, who shelled out the cash, surely must have concluded that, in the end, they got their money's worth. (Seats rent for $2.50 each, and there are 400-plus of them in the movie house.)

You see, they had more in mind than just seeing the new film and footing the tab for 200 or 300 of their friends or their friends' friends.

It was, plainly, just an honest, straightforward and novel way of raising oodles of money for a cause — The Trinity Towers Building Fund.

Those invited to the free showing were asked to donate to the 11's cause. They dumped money and checks into a basket in the lobby and what was dropped therein went to Trinity, which is an uptown retirement facility

MIDLAND'S MAJOR E. K. Browning Jr., right, commander of the Midland Region of the Texas Department of Public Safety, is honored at the Midland County Exhibit Building Friday night at a party preceding his retirement on July 31.

Browning honored on retirement

"You have overwhelmed me here this evening, with your presence, your kind words and all these gifts," Major E. K. Browning Jr. commander of the Midland Region of the Texas Department of Public Safety, told a large crowd present at a retirement party given in his honor Friday night in the Midland County Exhibit Building.

Major Browning's wife, mother, children, grandchildren, a sister and other family members were special guests. Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland presented the major with a copy of a resolution adopted by the Texas Senate thanking him for his long years of service to the state and wishing him well in his retirement.

A letter of appreciation from Gov. Dolph Briscoe, addressed to the honoree, also was read, as was a message from Clarence Kelley, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Robert Ivey, assistant agent in charge of the El Paso office of the FBI, also spoke briefly at the session.

Major Browning's retirement party was held at the Midland County Exhibit Building. Major Browning's wife, mother, children, grandchildren, a sister and other family members were special guests.

Insurance board lists county rate changes

AUSTIN BUREAU — AUSTIN—Figures released by the State Board of Insurance indicate the following changes for private passenger auto insurance rates under the board's staff recommendations for Midland, Ector, Howard, and Scurry counties:

Bodily injury liability is up 4.3 per cent; property damage liability is up 9.2 per cent; the $50 deductible comprehensive coverage is up 5.3 per cent; the $200 deductible is up 3 per cent.

No dollar figures for individual rating territories for the staff proposal and no figures for individual rating territories under the insurance industry proposal were immediately available.

Changes for counties surrounding Midland, including Andrews, Martin, Glasscock, Winkler, Reagan, Crane, Upton, Ward, and others are: bodily injury up .8 per cent; $50 deductible up 5.3 per cent; $200 deductible down 3.3 per cent.

Arms deal for Israel includes tank funding

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has approved a $250 million arms deal for Israel, including financing for development of a new Chariot tank capable of carrying infantrymen into battle.

Congressional sources said the administration also has decided to sell Israel from 60 to 100 F16 jet fighters but probably would reject a request to co-produce the plane.

The $250 million deal includes 18 helicopters, two hydrofoil patrol boats, ammunition and $107 million in easy credits to manufacture the tanks.

Under the law, Congress has authority to block any military sale valued at $25 million or more.

Motorcycle crash injures Midland man

A 35-year-old Midland man was seriously injured Friday night when his motorcycle apparently struck a curb and overturned near the intersection of Midkiff Drive and Williams Street, according to a Midland Police Department spokesman.

Ronald Parks, of 3205 Thomas Ave., was taken to Odessa Medical Center Hospital with severe head and back injuries following the accident which occurred shortly before 8 p.m.

His condition was listed as critical at the Odessa hospital, according to a spokesman late Friday night.

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Tex. (AP) — A tar-like substance similar to that which washed ashore on Port Aransas beaches Monday, appeared on this island resort Friday, said U.S. Coast Guard officials.

Padre Island beaches hit by substance

SAMPLES of the sticky, poker chip-shaped substance has been sent to a laboratory in Louisiana for comparison to the samples collected in the Port Aransas area.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., failed Friday in an effort to amend the 1977 farm bill to help cotton farmers in his West Texas district.

Mahon's amendment dealt with the provision in the law that requires the U.S. Department of Agriculture to drop restrictions on cotton imports when cotton prices reach a certain level.

The amendment would have allowed the USDA to elect in each case whether to let the imports in rather than be required to do so. It failed on a 36-17 standing vote of the House members present.

Funds possible for Big Spring

BIG SPRING — The City of Big Spring may be eligible for $23.2 million in economic aid if a bill proposed by two Michigan senators is passed. The bill is linked to the closing of Webb Air Force Base here.

Sen. Robert Griffin and Robert Reagle propose that 10 per cent of the money the Air Force will save in 10 years by the closing of Webb AFB and four additional bases be channeled to the affected communities.

Deaths Services held for E. Holiman

Services for Ebin Holiman, 74, were at 10 a.m. Friday at Newie W. Ellis Chapel. Burial was in Resthaven Memorial Park. Holiman died Wednesday night at a Midland hospital.

Crew receives okay to work

IOLA, Tex. (AP) — State health officials have given a Navajo Indian railroad construction crew the go-ahead to resume work after an unknown disease killed two of the workers last week.

Dr. Jerome Greenberg, deputy director of preventable diseases for the Texas Department of Health Resources, said the mystery malady that sent several other workers to the hospital has yet to be diagnosed.

The crew was working at a site near Iola in Southeast Texas.

"At this time, the cause of the two deaths has not been determined and may not be until extensive laboratory testing of tissue specimens has been carried out. The possibility that the cause of death was heat stroke has not been ruled out," Greenberg said in a prepared statement.

"On the basis of investigations by trained personnel and negative findings in a variety of environmental and industrial specimens, the State Department of Health Resources feels that the Rock Island Railroad track crew at Iola may resume unrestricted work."

Faithfulness is a wonderful virtue, but does not apply in all situations. It isn't necessary, for example, to stick to a suit through sickness and health, forsaking all others.

West opened the seven of spades. East played the eight, and South won with the queen. Needing two hearts and two spades, South led a low heart toward dummy.

When dummy's jack held, declarer returned with a club and led his other low heart. West followed with the eight, completing a high-low signal.

Dummy's queen won, and declarer returned a spade from dummy. East stepped up with the ace of spades and led a third spade with touching loyalty to the suit he had bid.

South ran the rest of the clubs to make his contract, taking five clubs, two spades and two hearts.

IMPORTANT CLUE

East should have read the whole situation from South's failure to tackle diamonds.

After taking the ace of spades, East should lead the ace of diamonds and a diamond to the king. West would lead the ace of hearts, capturing the king, and would then take the setting trick with the ten of hearts.

Sterilization now becoming popular birth control plan

NEW YORK (AP) — Sterilization of both sexes has become so popular a method of birth control that it now rivals the pill and is the most commonly used method of birth control among couples married 10 years or more, according to a study.

A study of 3,403 married white men and women indicated that about 6.8 million couples had chosen surgical sterilization to prevent unwanted birth, compared to 7.1 million wives using the pill. An additional 1.1 million persons were sterilized for medical reasons.

The survey, conducted in 1975, is the fourth in a series of National Fertility Studies conducted at Princeton University. It was released this week.

The percentage of married couples who use sterilization for birth control almost quadrupled in 10 years, jumping from 8.8 per cent in 1965 to 16 per cent in 1970 and to 31.3 per cent in 1975, the survey said.

The survey indicated that the pill was still predominant among the young and newly married, while sterilization was more prevalent among those married 10 years or more as well as among couples who have had all the children they intend to have.

The use of condoms dropped by half between 1965 and 1975 and the use of diaphragms declined slightly, the survey said.

Intrauterine devices, or IUDs, gained in popularity between 1965 and 1973, but declined in use in the following two years. The researchers suggested that publicity about the hazards of the Dalkon shield IUD may have frightened women about IUDs in general.

The survey indicated that female sterilization has been increasing a bit more rapidly than male sterilization, but the percentage of marriages where the male was sterilized was about the same as where the female was sterilized.

Detroit hopeful of curing decay

By PETE YOST

DETROIT (AP) — Nathaniel Smith stood in the middle of 12th Street 10 years ago and watched his cleaning establishment burn.

His store was adjacent to a white-owned bicycle shop and a white-owned grocery store. "To get to the two whites, they got to get me," the black businessman recalls.

Smith managed to reopen, but most businessmen fled. Today, he's one of only a handful of shopkeepers still operating along the strip where on July 23, 1967, the most destructive civil disorder in modern American history erupted.

By the time it ended five days later, 43 persons were dead, 657 injured, 7,231 under arrest and thousands left homeless. More than $50 million in property was destroyed. The U.S. Army patrolled the streets.

It had begun with a routine police clean-up at an afterhours bar. Instead of finding a few docile drunks, the vice squad stumbled into a resentful crowd of more than 80 patrons.

Residents of 12th Street hurried off their porches and out of hot apartments to watch. Rumors spun through the crowd that police had used excessive force in making arrests.

By 8 a.m. that steamy Sunday, the crowd had grown to 3,000. Liquor stores and bars were looted. "Everyone was drunk before noon," recalls one city official.

Police, overwhelmed by the chaos, stood powerless. Thousands joined the mob. Free television sets. Free clothing. Free jewelry.

White-owned businesses were the targets of fires. Firemen, hampered by high winds and pelted with debris, abandoned 100 blocks to the rioters.

In the succeeding 10 years, Detroit has become a textbook example of urban decay. The city's population is down by 200,000. Once-thriving commercial strips crumble. Nearly 2,000 retail businesses are gone.

The police department, focus of much of the rioters' wrath in 1967, has undergone several top-level shakeups. An affirmative action program in hiring and promotion has put more black officers on the street but has left many veteran cops bitter.

But 1977 is an election year and aides to the city's incumbent black mayor, Coleman Young, are optimistic.

Auto magnate Henry Ford II and the private sector have built a $337 million Renaissance Center, a riverfront hotel-office complex seen as the focal point for a rejuvenated downtown. Crime and unemployment are on the downswing. A friendly administration in Washington may help some of the city's deteriorating neighborhoods.

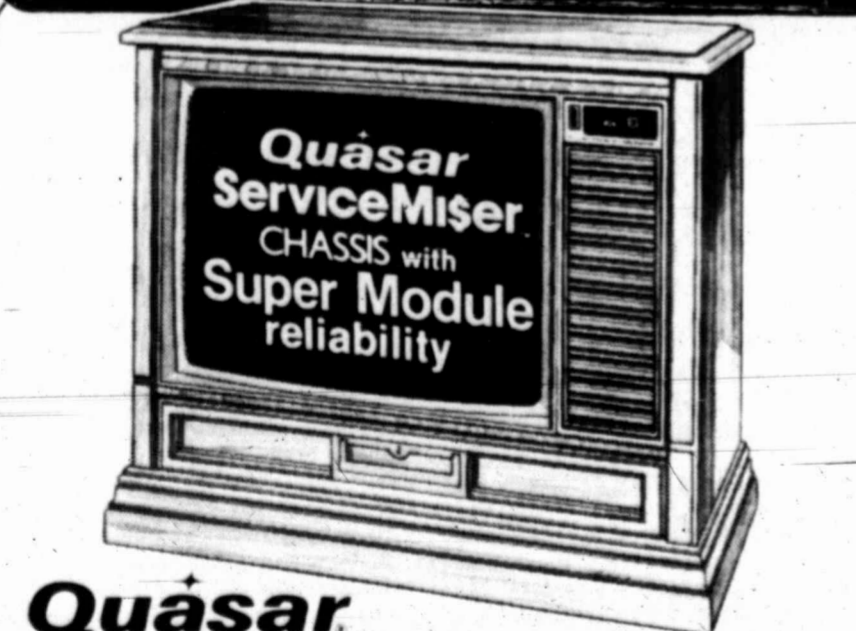

Police were astonished last month when the homicide rate in the town dubbed "Murder City" dipped below one a day. Drug addiction is said to be declining.

Civic leaders are confident the city's residents won't explode in anger as they did 10 years ago.

Captive Nations Week

The 19th annual observance of Captive Nations Week concludes today, and it is unfortunate that there hasn't been a great deal more written or said about it. But the subject of "Human Rights" has been very much in the news following President Carter's declaration on same, and the terms "Captive Nations" and "Human Rights" are—so intertwined that they can be used interchangeably.

In fact, and as used by Dr. Lev E. Dobriansky, chairman of the National Captive Nations Committee, as the title of an interesting article on the subject, "Human Rights Are Old Hat for Captive Nations."

It very well could be that this really is the closest the United States has come to a meaningful observance of Captive Nations Week.

back as 1920, when the non-Russian nation's now held captive in the Soviet Union were the first to be victimized by Soviet Russian imperialism, colonialism and an across-the-board deprivation of human rights, the two issues have been inextricably interlocked.

He explains, however, that it obviously is not enough just to espouse human rights in an aimless and moralistic fashion. A practical framework for understanding and action with regard to the present structure of global, politico-economic reality, and a philosophically sound concept of human rights which can be realistically adapted to that framework are necessary for a maximum, effective instrumentation of rights and values.

"Failing in either of these, our pursuit of human rights as a basis for our foreign policy will itself be doomed to failure," Dr. Dobriansky said. "In short, if we have the sensible courage to speak up for human rights globally and with a single standard, we must also possess equal courage and insight to face up to differential reality in the world structure, especially within the Soviet Union."

So, in line with Dobriansky's thinking, Captive Nations Week is a most appropriate time for America and Americans to give serious thought to the matters at hand.

The captive nations, incidentally, are said to include Armenia, Azerberijan, Byelorussia, Cossackia, Georgia, Idel-Ural, North Caucasia, Ukraine, Far Eastern Republic, Turkistan, Mongolia, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Albania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Poland, Romania, Czechoslovakia, North Korea, Hungary, East Germany, Mainland China, Tibet, North Vietnam, Cuba, Cambodia, South Vietnam, and Laos.

Who's next Angola? Thailand? Republic of China. South Korea? Rhodesia? Ethiopia? Panama?

This is a good question for one and all. Think about it.

"In connection with our 19th observance of Captive Nations Week, the national climate of human rights discussion is about the most conducive to thinking about the captive nations in Central Europe, within the U.S.S.R., in Asia and Cuba. The Captive Nations Week Resolution, which our Congress passed in 1959 and President Eisenhower signed into Public Law 86-90, is, simply put, all about human rights in their total meaning — personal, civil, and national."

He said further that the captive nations concept and the one on human rights are "supremely intertwined."

"There is no area in the world that can compare with the totalitarian, Communist area in terms of the gravest deprivation of human rights," the congressman added. "The record right up to the present is solid on this. This is the area of captive nations from the Danube to the Pacific and into the Caribbean."

Captive Nation's Week provides us with the forum to discuss human rights.

Dr. Dobriansky puts it this way, "Literally for decades the vital issue of human rights has been at the very core of the dynamic issue of captive nations. At its highest point of relevancy and applicability it is still there. As far

Difficult to dismount after riding Russian bear

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

Evans

LUSAKA, Zambia — The fortress-like Soviet Embassy here has become the nerve center for guerrilla operations against Rhodesia (Zimbabwe) and Southwest Africa (Namibia), undermining persistent Western hopes that Zambia's President Kenneth Kaunda would become the peacemaking moderate for southern Africa.

Behind the embassy's high, heavily guarded walls, a short walk from the Zambian foreign ministry, Ambassador Vasily Solodovnikov is intimately involved in training, supplying and even deploying guerrillas. Moreover, old diplomatic hands see him doing his worst to scuttle Western efforts for negotiated settlements in Rhodesia and Southwest Africa. For the Kremlin to cash in on its heavy investment, the guerrillas must win. A genuine free election might well install a non-guerrilla government.

The Soviet aim thus conflicts with popular sentiment in Zambia, possibly shared at heart by Kaunda himself, for a quick negotiated peace in Rhodesia. Nevertheless, Kaunda publicly takes the hard line and may be trapped in positions not in his nation's best interest. Having mounted the Russian bear, Ken Kaunda cannot easily get off.

Solodovnikov has impressive credentials. An expert at the Soviet Africa Institute with intimate links to the KGB, he was architect of the Kremlin's highly successful strategy military operations elsewhere, he is not beyond attempting a little subversion here. Some 250 Russian technicians, mainly teachers, are suspected by Zambian officials of proselytizing student radicals against Kaunda as an old fuddy-duddy with insufficient revolutionary fervor.

The matter surfaced when the Zambian government accused a Novosti press representative (undoubtedly a KGB man) of subversive activities and told Solodovnikov there would be no publicity if the agent were quietly returned home. The ambassador refused. The Zambian government then kicked out the Novosti man, announcing it in a brief item buried in Lusaka's government-controlled newspapers.

The Novosti incident is seized upon by Western diplomats as proof that Kaunda runs his own house, but it actually reveals Solodovnikov's arrogance and Kaunda's caution. Certainly, Kaunda is no free agent capable of throwing out the Russians in Egyptian-Sudanese fashion. Besides reliance on Soviet arms by the Zambian army (now deployed on the Rhodesian border), Kaunda is constrained by fellow "front-line" states (Mozambique, Angola, Tanzania) more radical than Zambia.

So, Kaunda's posture has hardened. The agent for Angola's anti-Communist UNITA guerrillas, backed by Kaunda in the Angolan civil war, has been thrown out of Lusaka. Although Kaunda once condemned Cuban intervention in

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Baseball occupies front seat

By JACK ANDERSON
 and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — A new president may be shaking up Washington; oil prices may be causing economic havoc; peace may be hanging in the balance in the Middle East. But many Americans are more exercised over a small lump of stitched rawhide called a baseball.

A fierce controversy has been raging on the nation's sport pages over the construction of the baseball. According to one theory, the baseball has been altered in some insidious manner to make it an easier target for the bat wielders. This could be giving an advantage to the likes of Rod Carew over such pitching ace as Detroit's Mark Fidrych, also known as "The Bird."

The debate has boiled over on to the editorial pages of the Washington Post, which suggested that the explanation for the thundering bats was less important than the excitement they brought to the national game.

We don't know whether there has been any tampering with the baseball's inner core of cork. But we had already sent our roving reporter, Hal Bernton, to seek the human story behind the baseball.

This all-American symbol is constructed not in the USA but in Haiti, where the climate is balmy and the labor is cheap. The major sports corporations have closed down most of their factories in the United States and reopened new factories in Haiti. The biggest names in U.S. sporting equipment have now set up shop in Haiti's capital city of Port-Au-Prince.

Bernton visited the Rawlings baseball factory in order to see what it was like on the inside. The factory, located off the main avenue leading to the wealthy suburb of Petitionville, sits like a fortress behind concrete walls and barbed wire. Visitors must pass the careful scrutiny of an attendant at the front gate.

Within the building, dozens of women in pleasant pink uniforms are engaged in the tedious task of tightly stitching the baseball skins around the cores. By American standards, they are working under sweatshop conditions. But by Haitian standards, they are paid well.

The $1.60-a-day labor costs, however, are a mere fraction of what the sports corporations would have to pay in the United States. But the factory workers are fortunate compared to the drought-plagued peasants.

This is a grim comment on the state of the Haitian economy and the welfare of the populace. Yet it is precisely these conditions that have created the boom in baseballs in Haiti.

Last year, Rawlings produced about 360,000 professional baseballs in its Haitian plant. Thousands more balls of lower quality were turned out for minor and little leagues.

The Rawlings headquarters in St. Louis is reluctant to let visitors inside the plant and has ordered the staff not to give out any production statistics. A company spokesman explained that Rawlings had perfected a secret technique for producing baseballs and maintained tight security to prevent this process from being copied.

ARGENTINE PROBE: Terrorism linked to top-rank officials

By WILLIAM GIANDONI
 Copley News Service

William Giandoni

In Argentina, no one can be sure how high the influence of terrorism reaches. The detentions of former President Gen. Alejandro Lanusse and his principal aides are one indication that the current military government thinks that the terrorists had conduits right to the top.

That is not to say that Lanusse himself or the other members of his military junta were members of either the Marxist People's Revolutionary Army (ERP) or the Peronist-based Montoneros, the two terrorist groups that fought the Lanusse government and all the governments since.

But it does seem that official investigators think Lanusse may have been unduly influenced by persons later discovered to have had close ties with subversives.

One such was David Graiver, a young Argentine international banker, missing and presumed dead in the crash of a private jet airliner near Acapulco, Mexico, in August, 1976.

Graiver, prominent in Argentine business circles, was an adviser to the Social Welfare Ministry during Lanusse's presidency. Recent investigations indicate that Graiver had been handling the terrorists' banking. He was said to have supervised the investment of some $17 million that the extremists obtained in kidnap ran-sons and other actions, so that the subversive movement would be self-sustaining.

Gen. Jorge Rafael Videla, Argentina's current president, announced in April that the government has evidence that the "Graiver group" was working in favor of subversion in Argentina.

Other sources, most notably the newspaper Nueva Provincia of Bahia Blanca which first broke the story, indicate one link between Graiver and Lanusse was the aluminum firm, ALUAR, which was established during Lanusse's presidency.

Lanusse and his aides were detained in connection with official investigation of ALUAR. An important stockholder in the aluminum company was Jose Ber Gelbard, minister of economy during the presidencies of Gen. Juan Peron and his wife, Maria Estela. Gelbard, who, now lives in the United States, is said to be the man who put the terrorists in contact with Graiver.

The official investigation into the affair is wide ranging. In addition to the former president, Graiver's father, brother, widow and other members of the family have been detained. The government is also checking the records of more than a dozen enterprises linked with the Graiver group to determine whether they were involved in subversive activities.

Even a number of newspapermen have been detained on suspicion that because they worked for publications owned or financed by Graiver they may be linked with terrorism.

Most prominent among them is Jacobo Timemman, publisher of the Buenos Aires daily, La Opinion. The irony of his detention is that La Opinion is greatly considered to be the most pro-government of the major Argentine papers.

Gen. Roberto Eduardo Viola, chief of the Argentine general staff, has explained that "a percentage, not yet determined of the firm owning La Opinion belonged to the Graivers, financiers of the guerrillas. Therefore, it is possible to presume that Timerman, a stockholder in the same firm, could be implicated in the matter being investigated."

KOREAN INCIDENT —

The downing of an American helicopter over North Korea had the boys in the backrooms chewing their nails for awhile. The problem is that Kim Il Sung, the absolute ruler of 15 million North Koreans, is volatile and unpredictable.

The Washington strategists couldn't be sure what he might do next. He is itching, they knew, to extend his iron rule to cover all of Korea. And he is a vain, difficult man, whom his Soviet and Chinese allies can't control.

Kim is a Moscow-trained former guerrilla fighter, who battled the Japanese during their occupation of the Korean peninsula. He is politically shrewd but not overly intelligent. He is a suspicious man who trusts no one outside his intimate circle.

Thus nepotism is rampant in Pyongyang. No member of his family is without some important government position. Even now, he is grooming a son, Kim Chong Il, as his successor.

The heroes of Communism — V.I. Lenin, Mao Tse-tung, Fidel Castro — all take a back seat to Kim in North Korea. He is worshipped as a reservoir of wisdom and font of knowledge.

This adulation, in Kim's view, is his just due. He considers himself a Communist pioneer on a par with Mao and Lenin. This rankles other Communist leaders, who view Kim as a heretic and a nuisance, according to diplomatic dispatches.

THEATER THREE (Dallas) is premiering "Jeepers Creepers," a musical salute to Harry Warren, widely known composer of dozens of popular songs. The show will run through late August. Theater Three is located in The Quadrangle shopping center.

CASA MANANA MUSICALS (Fort Worth) concludes its current attraction, "Annie Get Your Gun," with performances at 2:30 and 8:15 p.m. today. Opening Monday night at the theater-in-the-round will be the Lerner-Loewe musical, "Brigadoon."

JUDGE ROY BEAN Visitor Center, located in Langtry, Texas, offers travelers a peek at the past in its preservation of such sites as the legendary Jersey Lilly Saloon. The saloon and the town are namesakes of Lilly Langtry who was idolized by the judge, also known in frontier days as the "Law West of the Pecos." The center is open daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. No admission is charged.

UNIT

Royce Griffin, center, is the new bishop of the Midland Ward, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Assisting him in the leadership of the Mormon congregation here are Blaine Bushman, left, as first counselor, and Doyle Snow, right, as second counselor.

LDS Church names new bishop, counselors for Midland Ward

New leaders of the Midland Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints have been named.

Selection of Royce Griffin as bishop of the Mormon unit here, and the appointment of Blaine Bushman and Doyle Snow as first and second counselors, has been announced by the First Presidency of the LDS Church in Salt Lake City. The three men comprise the Bishopric of the Midland Ward.

Bishop Griffin, a geologist with Leede Exploration Co., succeeds Bishop Larry James at the helm of the Midland Ward. Griffin, a Midland resident for five years, served his church in a similar position at Kingsville from 1970 to 1972. During the last four years, he has served as a counselor to Bishop James here.

First Counselor Blaine Bushman, a sales representative for Exxon Co. USA, has served in the Midland bishopric for the last year and a half. Second Counselor Doyle Snow, a landman with Texas Oil and Gas Corp., is new in the bishopric. He has been active in youth programs of the local church.

All three leaders have given the traditional two years of missionary service to their church. They serve without in their new lay ministries.

Midland Mormons are planning a special celebration at the church tonight to commemorate the day the first Mormon pioneers arrived in Utah's Salt Lake Valley on July 24, 1847. This special "independence day" is celebrated by Mormons throughout the nation and elsewhere.

The celebration will begin at 5:30 p.m. with a children's parade of decorated bicycles. A dinner for the entire congregation of the Midland Ward will follow at the church at 2101 Tarleton St., with special musical entertainment to be presented by Stephen Rowell and Don Walliser. The meal will be followed by square dancing and by pioneer games.

Midland church leaders join encampment staff

MARFA — An estimated 2,000 persons from throughout West Texas are expected to participate in the 57th annual Paisano Baptist Encampment next week.

Preaching services, Bible studies and music will emphasize the theme "The Family — Living the Christian Life." The encampment will begin Monday and continue through July 31 at the encampment grounds between Marfa and Alpine.

Among featured speakers at the gathering will be Dr. James Flammig, pastor of Abilene's First Baptist Church, serving as a Paisano preacher for the fourth time, and Dr.

Daniel Vestal, pastor of Midland's First Baptist Church since May 1976, who will be a replacement at Paisano for Dr. Jaroy Weber of Lubbock. Dr. Weber, pastor of Lubbock's First Church and a former president of the Southern Baptist Convention, is recovering from a mild heart attack suffered in late June.

Music at the upcoming encampment will be directed by Dr. Euell Porter, member of the Baylor University music faculty and longtime music director for Paisano. Youth music will be directed by David Campbell of Midland's First Baptist Church.

Bible teacher for adults will be Dr. Virtus Gideon, professor of New Testament at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth. Youth activities will be directed by Charles Elliott, member of the staff of Midland's First Church. Men's prayer services will be directed by Paul Cates of Lubbock.

The pastors conference will be directed by Bill Blackburn, staff member of the Christian Life Commission of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, and the Rev. and Mrs. Bob Burtis will be encampment missionaries. The Burtises have been on leave from their missionary post in Argentina during the last year and will return to South America following the Paisano encampment.

Paisano's newly-elected president is the Rev. Glen Edwards, pastor of Broadmoor Baptist Church at Baton Rouge, La.

Briarwood instruction planned

AUSTIN — The fifth annual Southwest Training Lab, offering quality experiential instruction for church and organizational leaders from throughout the region, will be held July 31 to Aug. 6 at Briarwood Presbyterian Retreat Center.

Co-sponsored by the Texas Conference of Churches and Consultant Trainers Southwest, the 1977 conference will be divided into two learning experiences, said Sister Anne Finnerty of Brownsville, chairman of the division of education of the Texas Conference of Churches.

Depending on previous laboratory training, participants will spend the first half of the week in either a "basic human interaction" or a "personal growth" group. The second portion of the week will see them taking part in an open "learning fair" where each person can focus on a specific area of development, such as values clarification, life planning, leadership styles and decision-making processes. Participants actually produce their own learning situations as others respond to their immediate behavior. In an encampment environment of trust and acceptance, formed by themselves and the conference staff, participants will develop personal awareness and effective means for applying their knowledge.

Dean for the laboratory will be Eleanore Hill of Tulsa, a Consultant-Trainers Southwest staff member who also serves as an independent consultant to religious and community organizations.

Pastor to speak at Woman's Day special service

The Rev. O. J. Archie, pastor of Midland's Macedonia Baptist Church, will be guest speaker at a special service this afternoon at New Hope Baptist Church, 511 Stonehill St.

The 2:30 p.m. service, open to the public, is part of the annual Woman's Day observance at New Hope Church.

Israelis heed church, government relationship

By WILLIAM TUOHY
The Los Angeles Times

JERUSALEM — "Israel is a Jewish state," said Rabbi Yehuda Ben-Meir. "It is not a state of Jews, and there's a big difference."

"We want the young people in this country to grow up believing that they are Jews first and foremost and, only secondly, Israelis. Not the other way around, as they are often taught now."

Ben-Meir's views on such matters as the relationship between being Jewish and Israeli are closely heeded these days. For as well as being a rabbi, he is a professor of psychology, a member of the Knesset, Israel's parliament, and leader of the "young guard" wing of the National Religious Party.

The National Religious Party won 12 of the 120 seats in recent national parliamentary elections that saw the right-wing Likud Party oust the Labor Party as Israel's leading political movement.

Now the Likud Party and its leader, Menachem Begin, are forging a governing coalition. But Begin cannot win an effective coalition without the National Religious Party.

"We are the key factor in the next government," Ben-Meir told a reporter in his tiny Tel Aviv office. "We have been moving the National Religious Party away from the Labor alignment (bloc) toward the Likud. And, as we served as a bridge between the government and opposition in the last government, we will continue to do so in the future."

"One reason for our success is that we have a clear conception of what a Jewish state should be, in all its forms."

It is that very conception, however, that worries many Israeli moderates, not only in terms of the party's religious zealotry but in terms of its hard-line approach to holding on to the Arab West Bank captured from Jordan in the 1967 war.

"When you combine nationalism and religion, as the next government will do," a liberal Israeli official said,

"under certain circumstances (this makes for a very frightening combination."

Many Israelis see the strengthened hand of the National Religious party and two other minor religious parties as a clear sign that the country's diplomatic position will be hardened, and that the religious blue laws will be toughened.

Ben-Meir says that one condition of Religious Party and — more particularly — the Agudat Israel have asked for much sterner measures. They include:

—Amending the "law of return," under which any Jew can become a citizen of Israel, to conform with the Halacha, the Orthodox religious law, when it comes to recognizing converts to Judaism.

—Tightening up the observance of the sabbath by reducing the number of work permits for the Saturday holiday, and possibly calling for shutting down national radio and television.

—Permitting women to avoid military duty merely by submitting an affidavit that they cannot serve for reasons of religion or conscience.

—Eliminating the provision in the new Israeli law that provides for certain specified social reasons for abortion.

—Allowing autopsies only with the deceased family's written consent.

—Providing government funds for the autonomous religious school system.

If such measures are enacted into law, critics argue that the orthodox religious rabbis could determine who is a Jewish convert, thus voiding conversions in American Reform or Conservative Jewry.

Critics also say that religious leaders would be given a virtual veto power on Saturday work permits, the women's military branch would become essentially a volunteer unit, denying the Israeli defense forces much of its needed woman power, and the quality of Israeli medicine might be diluted by sharply reducing the number of autopsies performed by the nation's pathologists.

As the Jerusalem Post put it, "these changes would constitute a sweeping revision of the status quo in relations between religion and the state."

Non-religious Israelis say the religious elements are a minority, and they are offended that this minority tries to dictate laws concerning religious practice to the entire state.

RELIGION

his joining the Likud coalition will be the award of three key ministries to his party — education, interior and religious affairs.

Many observers believe that this could well mean that the country's public school system will become more religious in outlook, and that private religious schools will receive huge government subsidies.

"It is hard to see how a Likud government can deny the religious people what they want," a liberal observer commented glumly.

In the election, the Likud Party won 43 seats. With the two seats won by ex-Gen. Ariel Sharon's party, along with the 12 seats of the National Religious Party and the four votes of the smaller religious party, the Agudat Israel, the government under Begin could muster 61 votes, which would give it a bare majority.

Nonetheless, it would enable the government to take a harder line toward bringing in the more moderate Democratic Movement for Change, which won 15 seats. As long as the Likud has the religious votes, the Democratic Movement cannot dictate moderate terms as the price for its joining the coalition.

Any changes in the laws forced through by the religious parties will have to have approval of a majority in the Knesset, and it is not at all certain that a majority would support new blue laws. But as the price for their joining the government the National

IT'S IN THE BOOK

Are you willing to forgive?

By CHARLIE SHEDD

What is the worst thing anyone ever did to you? If that person came knocking at your door right now to apologize, what would you do? (Great time for discussion, anyone?)

Philemon is a short book, but when we get the message, it may be with us forever.

The Place: Rome. The Characters: Paul (The apostle), Philemon (rich man, friend of Paul), Onesimus (Philemon's runaway slave).

Onesimus had come in contact with Paul. Whether he was a believer before he fled, we don't know. But this we do know—Paul had a powerful influence on him.

So Paul and Onesimus had some serious discussions and they decided there was only one right thing now. The runaway must return to his owner.

But that was a daring decision. A runaway slave could be punished severely. He might even be put to death. This is the tone of Paul's letter:

"Dear Philemon: Friends are for doing favors, aren't they? So I am asking you to do me a personal favor. I am asking you to forgive one of your runaway slaves. Onesimus is with me. He is a good man now, useful to me, and has agreed to do the right thing. I hope you will receive him, not as a runaway, but as a fellow believer. Of course, this is asking a lot, but I plead with you to treat him right. I believe you can do this, Philemon, if you remember how much God loves you, how much he has forgiven you, and how much he expects of His followers."

If you were Philemon, how would you answer Paul?

Question: What happened?
Answer: Nobody knows.
Do you suppose God doesn't tell us, so we can write our own answer?

For discussion:
Is there somebody our whole family needs to forgive?

Is there someone in the family (or outside) I need to forgive?

Prayer together:
Lord, thank you for forgiving us— Help us to be merciful. Amen.

NO TIME FOR GOD?

It's a busy world teeming with millions of busy people... coming and going, eating and drinking, laughing and crying, being born and dying.

Most folks in our age find themselves engulfed in extremely tight time schedules... involving many and varied activities... and the tempo of such a busy, hurried life seems to increase each day. Some can't take it and crack under the strain. Others seek refuge through tranquilizers and still others through alcohol.

Time is the most precious commodity on the market in such a swirling civilization. Who has enough time? Most readily confess to lacking the time to accomplish the really important things in life. Yet many of us do have plenty of time but never seem to get around to doing the things we know we ought to do.

Many resolve to seriously read the Bible to learn of its truths, its commands, and its promises... but the sacred volume is seldom investigated and rarely picked up... except at dusting time. Not enough time.

Many express an interest in becoming a Christian but to date remain out of Christ. Too busy. Not enough time.

Many parents want to become closer to their children and take more of a personal interest in them... only to see the little ones grow up and go away with the best time for real understanding and companionship gone forever. Too busy. Not enough time.

The Bible was written for the present. No man knows what tomorrow will bring. One thing the Bible does not promise any man is another day... or even another hour... or even another minute.

Man's most important mission in life is to learn the will of God, to submit completely to its teachings, and to be governed by the eternal spiritual values rather than the fleeting material things of life. This is our supreme challenge. Do you have time to learn of God? Do you have time to obey his will and thereby glorify your Maker? Every man will have time to die and to be judged by Christ. To be prepared will require time, our best time.

A life with no time for God is both foolish and tragic.

To such a covetous farmer, the Lord once said, "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee..." (Luke 12:20).

Evangelist to conduct city crusade

Evangelist Juanita Sapp of Brooklyn, N. Y. will conduct a revival crusade next week at Midland's Faith Temple Church of God in Christ, 1605 N. Terrell St.

According to the Rev. W. C. Kenan, host pastor, the guest minister is a dynamic speaker who has conducted revivals and crusades in many parts of the nation. The public is invited to hear her in services beginning at 8 p.m. Sunday through Friday.

Dear Neighbors,

BERT MERCER
INSTRUCTOR

Tomorrow morning we will be studying "Righteousness" from Matt. 5:17-20. Have you wondered what Jesus meant when He said "For verily, I say unto you, till heaven and earth pass away one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass away from the law, till all things be accomplished."? We will be answering this question, the Lord willing, in our class.

Briscoe signs bill on school financing

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe signed a $954 million school finance bill Friday, saying it sets a trend for the state to take over more of the costs of paying for public schools.

Tower refuses use of public campaign funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Tower of Texas said Friday he would not use public funds in his 1978 campaign even if a new law makes them available. "I don't feel I could in good conscience accept taxpayers' money to finance my campaign," he said at a news conference called to reveal Republican senators' plans for "extended debate" against a bill to provide public funds for Senate campaigns.

reviewing a $500,000 appropriation in a bill allowing Texas government to build a deepwater port for supertankers if oil companies fail to do the job.

He expects to sign the bill next week, Briscoe said.

All the measures were passed by the 11-day special legislative session that ended Thursday.

"This is an excellent piece of legislation," Briscoe said of the school bill as legislators, school lobbyists, reporters and other observers crowded into the governor's reception room.

There was so much interest in the school bill that the picture-taking session took 40 minutes as one group, then another, posed with Briscoe at his desk.

He said the bill "strikes a balance — it is fair and equitable to school districts throughout the state, large and small. It establishes a trend for the state to assume a greater responsibility for the Minimum Foundation Program."

Briscoe said the bill will increase from 76 to 85 per cent the state's share in the school finance program, with local districts paying the remaining 15 per cent.

"This is moving in the proper direction," Briscoe said, "and no school district should have to raise taxes" for the coming school year.

The bill also "greatly improves teacher salaries," Briscoe said, "and most importantly it rewards career teachers."

Afterwards, at a brief news conference, Briscoe was asked about federal judge Jack Roberts' recent finding that Texas' system of distributing financial aid to schools is unconstitutional because it relies solely on real estate taxes.

The governor said the judge's comments "definitely point up the need to get a study underway" — presumably by a nine-member commission created by the school finance bill.

Asked if he saw a "massive taxing of intangibles" — such as stocks and bonds — Briscoe replied, "I don't think that question can be answered at this point."

As a final note, Briscoe was asked about Atty. Gen. John Hill's speech to the AFL-CIO state convention in which Hill, a probable opponent of Briscoe's in 1978, attacked his administration.

"I've never been more confident about the future than I am now," Briscoe said. "The special session results helped increase support of my administration."

Homicide ruled in nursing home death

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A justice of the peace ruled homicide Friday in here last month, the death of an 81-year-old man who was beaten inquest ruling after the body of Willie Homer Homeyer was exhumed last week and an autopsy performed.

Dist. Atty. Tom Curtis said his office would investigate the matter before deciding whether to file charges against an 83-year-old resident of the home who allegedly beat Homeyer.

Homeyer died June 20, a week after the incident, at an Amarillo hospital. His death certificate lists cardiac arrest as the cause of death.

"If it looks appropriate to let the matter rest with other agencies, we'll do that. If it looks appropriate for us to go forward with it, then we will do that," said Curtis.

The man taken by police to the psychiatric facility was returned to the nursing home after several hours of tests, officials said.

"This special session of the legislature made some big changes in laws regulating nursing homes," he added. "While I am not familiar with the details, that may have some bearing."

The report of the death came one day after a federal investigator reported nursing home conditions in Texas were "critical."

The special session of the legislature recently passed laws that provide prison sentences for persons who abuse patients. The laws also require nursing home officials and other persons to report any abuses in nursing homes.

"We were called to the scene on June 13," Ferguson said.

"We escorted a mental patient from the nursing home to the psychiatric

Insurance board formulates new uninsured rates

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — New uninsured motorist insurance coverage will be available Aug. 29 as the result of a law passed by the recent session of the Texas legislature.

Rates for the expanded coverage of personal and property damages caused by uninsured motorists were announced Friday by the State Board of Insurance.

Currently, protection from uninsured motorists is limited to $10,000 for injury to one person and $20,000 for injury to more than one person. This coverage costs from $4 to $6 per car.

The new coverage will cost from $12 to $20 a car for $25,000-50,000 limits and $19 to $49 for $100,000-300,000 limits.

The new law also covers property damage by uninsured motorists for the first time, minus a mandatory $250 deductible that the damaged car's owner must pay. The cost will range from $2 per car for $5,000 property damage protection to $8 for $100,000.

LBJ years recalled at suite dedication

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, Thursday dedicating the LBJ Suite. It is decorated in shades of mauve and brown, with furniture from the 1800s and brass fixtures.

Johnson cut a ribbon Thursday dedicating the LBJ Suite. It is decorated in shades of mauve and brown, with furniture from the 1800s and brass fixtures.

Johnson was napping at the Driskill on election day 1960, the year in which his name was on the ballot twice — as a candidate for vice president and for the U.S. Senate.

The Johnsons, friends and campaign workers always gathered at the Driskill for election returns. It was where Johnson learned in 1960 that he had been elected vice president and in 1964, president. The Driskill also was the White House press center when Johnson was at the LBJ ranch, 50 miles away.

A loudspeaker blared outside his window: "Double you pleasure, Scratch Johnson twice." Johnson bellowed: "You can't even sleep around this place."

The only "celebrity" to occupy the LBJ suite was television and movie star Susan St. James, who was here for the premiere of the movie, "Outlaw Blues," in which she costarred with Peter Fonda.

Louisiana well's tubing prepared for capping

CAMERON, La. (AP) — Workers on a Mobil Oil Co. well that has spewed a geyser of water and gas for three days prepared Friday to cap the tubing and pump mud into the well to stop the blowout.

Dolye Marrs, exploration production manager, said the crew planned to halt the rush of gas Friday afternoon or Saturday morning, depending upon their success in preparations. He said the well crew could have the well producing within a day after the geyser is capped.

The well is 25 miles south of Cameron. Marrs said the well blew Wednesday, while workers were pulling the tubing from the well 6,600 feet below the surface so they could begin drawing out gas.

He estimated the loss of gas for three days was worth no more than $30,000.

"We were called to the scene on June 13," Ferguson said.

At least nine Texas mayors seek to save Seadock

FREEPORT, TEX. (AP)—At least nine Brazosport area mayors plan to be in Washington on Monday, hoping to get President Carter to help rescue the endangered $700 million Seadock project.

They want the President to take steps to bring federal and industry officials together to resolve problems that threaten construction of the offshore crude oil supertanker terminal 27 miles off the coast from Freeport.

"Right now, we don't have an appointment with the President but we hope to receive word Saturday," Mayor Vic Vickers of Lake Jackson, spokesman for the group, said Friday.

Aug. 1 is the deadline for Seadock's acceptance of a federal license for the terminal but three major members of the industry consortium—Mobil, Exxon and Gulf—have withdrawn because of what they consider to be excessive federal regulations.

The Texas Legislature on Friday approved a bill that would permit construction of a state-owned deep-water terminal if the private industry efforts fail.

But Vickers said a majority of the area's mayors believe private industry can do a better job and do it quicker.

"Most of us agree the government just doesn't do things as quick or as efficiently as private business," he said.

Vickers said there have been suggestions the mayors confer with other administration officials and possibly testify before a congressional committee if they are unsuccessful in seeing Carter.

"Right now, however, our plan is to see the President," he said.

"We are disappointed and concerned citizens. We think Seadock is very important, not only to Brazoria County but to the entire nation. We feel like the loss of Seadock will cause higher prices per gallon and fewer gallons of gasoline available at the pump."

He said Seadock is near collapse.

"We think the President should call the heads of the departments who wrote those strenuous restrictions and invite the companies to sit down and work out this problem," he said.

"I really think with the energy crisis or shortage the President should take this step and get the two sides back together. Right now we feel he is the only one who could do it."

Vickers said many people still doubt there is an energy shortage.

"And failure of the administration to put forth a strong effort to get this problem worked out would increase those doubts," he said.

Other mayors scheduled to make the Washington trip include Tobey Davenport, Freeport, Benny Childs, Clute, Bennie Howard, Richwood, Bob Brannan, Surfside, Chuck Reynolds, Oyster Creek, George Slade, Jones Creek, George Lincaum, West Columbia, and Larry Menard, Danbury.

Hot weather likely to boost the price of broiler chickens

By The Associated Press

Summer heat threatens to boost prices of one of the staples of budget-watchers' menus—chicken. But consumers planning barbecues don't have to worry yet, particularly if they shop carefully.

Hot weather has been blamed for the deaths of thousands of chickens in such key producing areas as Georgia, Alabama, Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas, North Carolina and the Delmarva peninsula of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

But the losses, while severe for individual companies, represent only a small fraction of the 3.3 billion broiler chickens—the most common variety, used for frying and barbecuing—produced each year.

The National Broiler Council recently surveyed its members to check on the scope of the heat problem and spokesman Bill Roenigk said, "It's fairly widespread, but it varies from company to company. Most companies are experiencing losses above normal."

An even more severe problem, according to Roenigk, is the lack of appetite among chickens due to the heat. "They don't grow as well. It takes more time to get them ready for market."

It takes about seven to eight weeks from the time the egg is hatched until the chicken is ready to market as a broiler. Prices for whole frying chickens are running around 60 cents a pound, according to government statistics.

Chicken prices traditionally are higher in summer than in winter because of increased demand. "People are having barbecues and cookouts...and they are eating hot and cold fried chicken," said Conner Kennett, chief of the poultry division of the Maryland Department of Agriculture. "The deaths and slower growth caused by the heat could cause higher prices by reducing the quantity of poultry available."

Roenigk was a little more cautious. "It's premature to say prices are going up," he said.

But the possibility of higher prices makes it more important than ever to shop carefully.

"The form in which poultry is purchased often determines how good a buy it is," says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. "Whole chicken is usually a better buy than chicken pieces, such as breasts or legs, in terms of the amount of meat provided."

To decide on the best buy, you should figure out the cost per serving as well as the cost per pound. As a general rule, you can count on about 2 1/2 three-ounce servings of meat per pound of chicken when you buy a whole broiler or fryer. You'll get about 2 1/2 servings from a pound of whole stewing chicken. Breasts sold separately yield about 3 1/2 servings per pound; drumsticks provide 2 1/2 servings per pound. If you are buying chicken halves or quarters for barbecuing, you should allow half a chicken per serving if the birds are small—2 to 2 1/2 pounds—and one-fourth of a chicken for larger birds.

Another factor to take into account when buying chicken is the cooking method. The class name on the bird usually suggests the way it should be cooked. Here is a guide:

ROASTING—Most chickens sold whole can be roasted. Those specifically marked "roasting chicken," "Rock Cornish hen" or "capon" are young birds, with tender meat and soft pliable skin. They have enough fat to brown well at a moderate temperature.

BROILING, FRYING, BARBECUING—Broiler or fryer chickens are ideal for cooking on a grill or rotisserie, either whole or cut up. In parts, they also can be broiled or fried.

STEWING—Hens or stewing chickens require slow cooking in a covered pan with water or steam to make them tender. They are best prepared by simmering, steaming or pressure cooking.

Mature chickens are generally preferred for stews because they are more flavorful.

Federal law requires that all poultry be inspected by either the state or federal government. The official inspection mark in the form of a circle indicates that the poultry is from a healthy flock, processed under sanitary conditions, with no harmful chemicals or additives.

Once you've bought your chicken, you can keep it, raw, in the refrigerator for one or two days or for up to 12 months in a freezer at 0 degrees Fahrenheit or less. Do not stuff the bird before freezing; store the stuffing separately. A whole chicken will keep longer in the freezer than one which is cut up in parts.

Energy unit advances

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House-Senate conference committee completed work Friday on the proposed creation of an energy department, but handed President Carter a setback by giving a five-member commission authority to set natural gas prices.

The new department will begin life with about 20,000 employees and an annual budget of $10.6 billion.

The energy reorganization measure now goes back to both houses, where routine approval is expected, before going to the White House for President Carter's signature.

Members of the conference committee predicted that the new department, designed to carry out the President's energy plan, would be in business sometime in August.

The new department will draw in energy programs now scattered throughout the federal government and abolish three existing agencies outright.

Windfall becomes long fall for casher of check

DALLAS (AP)—It was nice while it lasted. In August 1976 a two-zero mistake by the Northwest Commerce Bank converted Jesse Roy Kelly's $300.40 paycheck into a $30,000.40 windfall.

Thursday a Dallas jury converted the windfall into a felony theft conviction. Kelly, 28, was ordered Friday to repay the bank.

He was also sentenced to a probated eight-year prison term.

Kelly, a draftsman, had lived the good life after the August 1976 mistake. He bought a Corvette and moved to California. All went well until January when his former employer discovered the $29,400 overpayment.

Kelly's attorney, Joe Johnson of Fort Worth, said there was no way the bank would have ever found the error that had been made on the magnetic coding on the check and deposit slip by a teller.

Bank President Mike Ballases said it was his bank's mistake but added Kelly made a bigger mistake when he withdrew the money two months after the error.

"It's a real shame. He has a pretty good background but this is going to ruin his life," Ballases said; but added that Kelly's actions were no different than a "common theft."

Johnson said Kelly did not think he did anything wrong.

"He's quite surprised that this happened. Its just getting through to him now but he's slow in being convinced that it's against the law," the lawyer said.

"He thought the bank was making him a gift. It was in his account," he added.

Kelly has lost the California job and is living with his mother in Henderson, Tex.

Johnson said he has not talked to Kelly about a possible appeal. Such action would be expensive, the lawyer said.

"Under the law there is a criminal offense here but I don't know whether they proved it," he said. "If the bank makes a mistake it's not your money. You don't get it."

New rules get tough

HOUSTON (AP) — Massage parlor patrons will be required to sign a register including name, address, age and service received under new regulations approved by Harris County commissioners.

The regulation also prohibits massages to customers of the opposite sex.

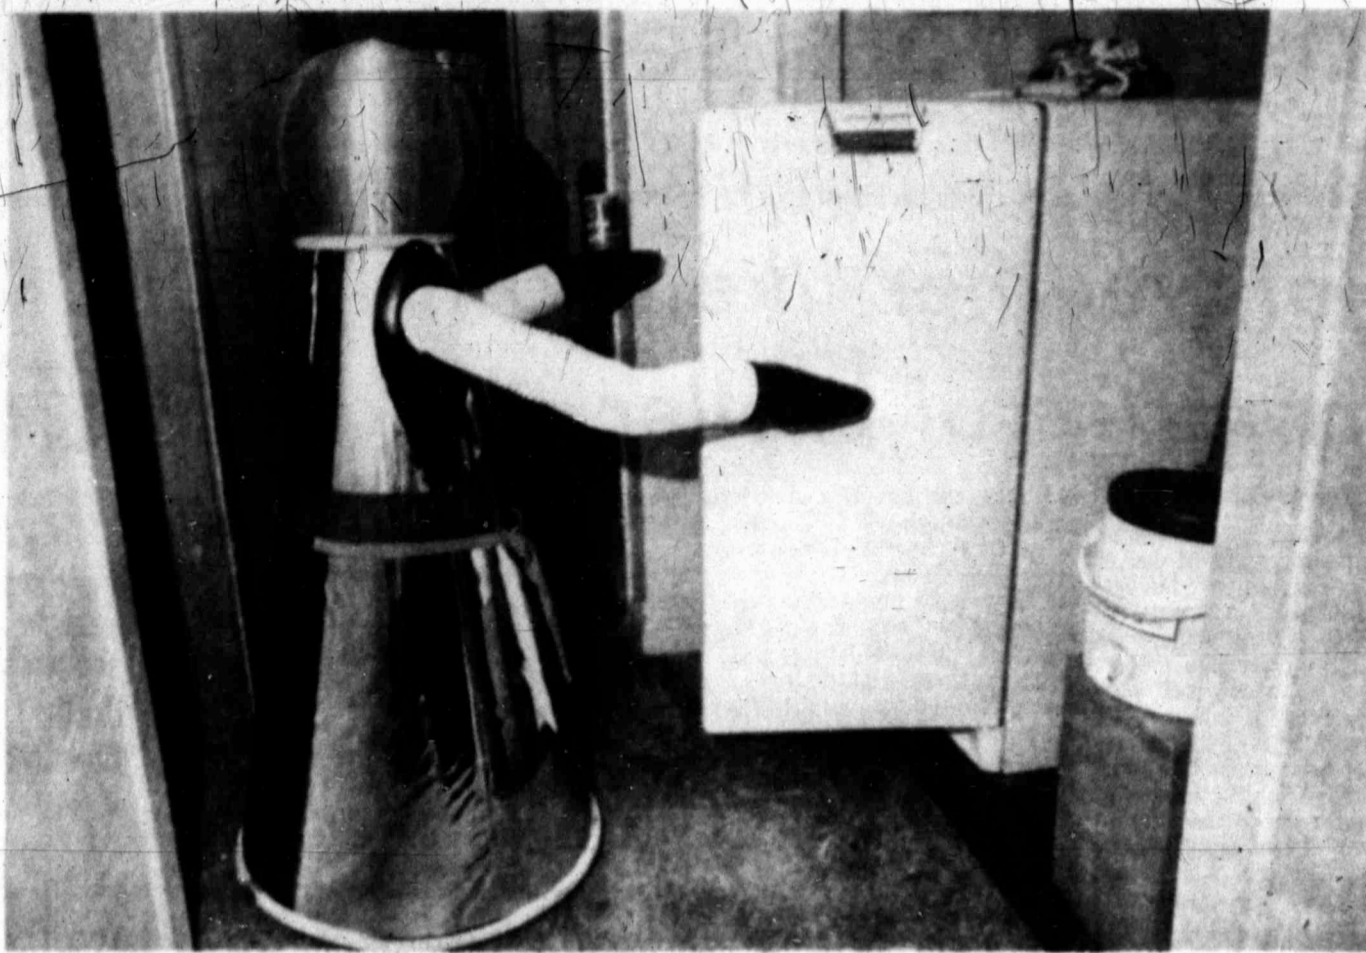

A newly enacted state law authorizes the commissioners court to regulate massage parlors in unincorporated areas.

Sheriff Jack Heard said the regulations approved Thursday would close "houses of prostitution advertised as houses of massage."

The commissioners also levied an annual license fee of $500 for each parlor and each masseur or masseuse must pay a $100 fee.

The regulations likewise require employees to wear white, opaque clothing. Legs may not be exposed more than six inches above the knee. Employees will be required to complete a one-year college level course in human anatomy or physiology.

Twenty of the 21 persons speaking at Thursday's hearing favored the regulations. One said the proposals were not strict enough.

Dallasites sue mayor

DALLAS (AP) — Three Dallas residents filed a suit this week against Dallas Mayor Bob Folsom, claiming Folsom has violated a state statute that says no member of a city council can be directly or indirectly interested in an any "work, business or contract" financed with city funds.

The suit claims the city of Dallas spent $92,499 as its share in the construction of a bridge across White Rock Creek that gives access to the Bent Tree Country Club area, a country club owned by Folsom.

The suit also claims Folsom "actively encouraged" the consolidation of Renner, a community where Folsom owns development property, and the city of Dallas. The consolidation nullified and ask that Folsom be required to make restitution to the city of all city funds spent on water and sanitary pipeline projects in the Bent Tree area.

After examining a copy of the suit, Folsom said he is "not concerned."

Carter tax package could hurt

By JEAN HELLER Newsday

WASHINGTON — President Carter is editing a sweeping tax reform program that would provide Americans with a permanent tax cut of $14.7 billion — but that would not make most taxpayers happy.

The program's overall impact would be to shift the bulk of the tax burden to higher income categories, but this effect would largely be achieved through the termination of some deductions for high-income taxpayers and would not provide substantial relief for the poor.

During his presidential campaign, Carter called the U.S. tax system "a national disgrace" for the advantages it gave the wealthy and the burdens it placed on the poor. Under the proposal now in Carter's hands, there is little relief the poor could find.

The rate in the lowest tax bracket was dropped by only 1 per cent. The only other relevant change would eliminate the combined $750 personal exemption and the $35 individual tax credit and substitute a $200-per-person tax credit. For someone in the 13 per cent tax bracket, the difference would be $67.50 in taxes paid.

There is also no substantial relief for middle-income taxpayers. Although the tax burden would be shifted somewhat to upper-income families, the category in the draft proposal begins with taxpayers — even families — earning between $15,000 and $20,000 a year.

"Carter had better change some of that before he sends it up here," a House Ways and Means Committee economist said. "If he thinks we're chopping up his energy program, he ain't seen nothin' yet."

For corporations and large business, the program would mean tax increases and a complex investment incentive that some experts — including Carter's — believe might inhibit investment.

Specifically, the tax program would:

- Create new tax brackets, dropping individual income tax rates at all levels. The rate for the highest bracket would be cut from 70 per cent to 50 per cent of an individual's taxable income. The rate for the lowest bracket would drop from 14 per cent to 13 per cent.
- Eliminate the 50 per cent preferential tax rate on capital gains, without any phaseout period. Capital gains would be treated as ordinary earned income.
- Eliminate all deductions for state and local gasoline taxes, sales taxes and miscellaneous taxes.
- Severely limit deductions for medical expenses and casualty losses. The two items would be combined and could only be deducted to the extent that they exceeded 10 per cent of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income.
- Increase the corporate tax rate to 50 per cent from 48 per cent, although the rate would remain unchanged for small businesses.
- Require savings banks to withhold 20 per cent of the interest paid to depositors, catching up with people who — illegally — do not declare their interest income but depriving all depositors of compound interest payments on the withheld amount.

- Limit to $10,000 the deductions that can be taken for the combined interest on mortgages, installment credit loans, and on bank, credit union and other personal loans. The ceiling could go up for taxpayers in very high brackets who have significant investment income.
- Eliminate the double taxation of corporate dividends. As tax laws stand, a corporation pays taxes on earned income and then passes out a share of that income to stockholders as dividends. The stockholders must then pay tax again on the same dollars. Under the proposal now in Carter's hands, the corporation, along with its dividend, would pass through a tax credit to its stockholders, which would ensure that taxes were paid only once and which would keep more money in the stockholder's hands.

The tax package was put together by an administration task force headed by Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal and was delivered to the White House last month. Administration sources say Carter undoubtedly will make some changes before sending his final proposal to Capitol Hill in September.

Carter's tax experts predict the program would be a tremendous economic stimulus, so great that of the $14.7 billion in tax cuts, all but $5.6 billion would be returned to the Treasury in the first year through economic expansion.

However, other experts, including some on Blumenthal's staff, say the effects actually might be adverse. They contend the abolition of the capital gains preference could seriously inhibit investment incentive, and the plan to halt the double taxation of dividend income is so complex, with an impact so unpredictable, that investors might hold back.

Reading should be fun

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Children forced to read books beyond their comprehension are learning at their "frustration level," understanding only 75 per cent of what they read, says Dr. Elden E. Ekwall, a Texas reading specialist.

The professor of reading at the University of Texas at El Paso told a conference that although today's children are better readers than those of a decade ago, they may lose the desire to read through lack of practice.

"We are teaching a lot of children to read, but we're not teaching them to be lifetime readers," he said.

He urged teachers and parents to develop a "reading atmosphere" at home and school by providing interesting books.

Books of interest to boys include those on sports, adventure and wildlife. Girls prefer stories about home and family relationships, Ekwall stressed.

For elementary and high school readers, Ekwall suggested a silent period each day. In the home, he advocated a "quiet hour" when every family member reads.

The 43-year-old professor said easy reading material should be placed in the schools and children be allowed to browse through it daily.

"We don't need to worry about giving too easy reading material," Ekwall said. "Children will seek their own level of difficulty."

The educator said television makes viewers "prisoners of what they want to feed you."

Cubs sweep pair from Shreveport

BY TED BATTLES

Midland went 88 games into the Texas League season without a real hint of a shutout and then came up with two in a three-game span.

Jeff Albert broke the season-long drought Wednesday and then Andy Muhlstock, a refugee from the Cubs bullpen, blanked the Shreveport Captaine, 6-0, in the nightcap of a doubleheader sweep.

In the opener, Randy Martz hit a two-run single to help his own cause and pitched a route-going 8-3 victory over the Captaine for his first Texas League victory.

Thus, the Cubs ended the home stand riding a four-game winning streak and for the 10-game stretch in the friendly-confiner finished a rousing 7-3. A run the other way in two of the losses would have made it a 9-1 stand.

IT WAS noteworthy that Cubs' starters went the route in all seven victories.

The first game was the kind that Manager Jim Saul could have relaxed with a six-pack, if he wanted to, after all, it was Two-Bit Beer Night, and enjoyed the fun from the dugout.

The Cubs blew it open early, leading 7-0 after three innings and it was just a question of Martz, not long off the South Carolina campus, doing his job the rest of the way.

The nightcap was something else. Mike Umfleet walked, stole second and scored on Tony Pepper's triple to right. Aaron Randall then powered his fourth homer over the right field fence, well over. So the Cubs led 3-0 after one inning, but to hold on Muhlstock needed some spectacular saves.

JIMMY BUCKNER AND Joe Her-

mande threw out runners trying to score from second on singles. On the latter, catcher Steve Haug took Joe's throw 10-feet down the baseline just as Ernie Young bowled him over, but he never got to the base.

"After that second play, I thought I had a chance for a shutout," Andy said. "In fact, I always go into a game thinking shutout until I lose it."

Muhlstock, whose Groucho mustache reminds of a tintype of an early day gunfighter, went on, "It feels good, it was my first shutout in a couple of years, since I was in a ball."

After Randall led off the fourth with a two-run double, Scott Boras was walked and Muhlstock singled home one run and Buckner doubled in two more and it seemed just a question of whether Andy would get his shutout.

ACTUALLY, ANDY was a strange candidate for shutout honors. In the first half he was an eight-save, five-win relief ace, but then his arm began to tighten up between assignments and it took three or four days to recuperate after an outing.

"It's tight now, and I was getting tired toward the end, but it has been feeling better lately."

In the first game, Midland struck for three runs in the second. Pepper singled and scored on Kurt Seibert's double inside the third base bag and Duane Gustavson singled to short right and alertly took second on the throw home as Seibert held third. Don Robinson broke two pitches off in the dirt to wild throw both runners home.

Midland routed Robinson with a four-run, 10-batter third as Martz delivered a two-run single. Joe Hernandez singled to start the rally and Pepper and Gustavson contributed run producing hits.

Jim Kidder hit a two run homer for the Captaine, but Martz lost his shutout in the third on a two-base throwing error and an infield single by John Dean.

CUBPRINTS—The Cubs leave for a 10-game invasion of Tulsa and Shreveport. Fred Martin, Chicago Cubs roving pitching coach, joined the team after two weeks in Chicago and will travel to Tulsa with the M-Cubs. It was her night at Cubs Stadium and 1,237 fans turned out and demolished 83 cases of the stuff.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina had to struggle Friday, but he advanced to the quarterfinal round of the $125,000 Washington Star International Tennis Championships.

The 20-year-old Vilas, winner of the tournament two years ago, beat 14th-ranked Victor Pecci of Paraguay, 6-3, 6-7, 6-1 in a match that took two hours, thirty nine minutes on this breezy afternoon in the nation's capital.

Vilas will meet fellow countryman Ricardo Cano, the hero of Argentina's Davis Cup victory over the United States, today. Cano moved into the quarter-finals with a hardfought, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2 victory over Hank Pfister of Bakersfield, Calif.

However, it was the battle between Vilas and the 21-year-old Pecci that had the public cheering for the underdog.

Pecci won in Madrid and Berlin a year ago, but has only reached the finals in Munich thus far this season. He was tied at 3-3 in the first set before Vilas polished him off.

'Super Mex' 3 up in golf tourney

OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — Lee Trevino benefited from what he called "a couple of lucky breaks" and continued mastery of the fast, rolling greens for a four-under-par 68 and a three-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $225,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

"It should have been another 72,"

Trevino said. "It was a lot like yesterday—only this time I didn't make any bogeys. That's not because of the way I hit the ball. It's because of the way I scrambled."

"I had 26 putts again today. My short game and my putting is what saved me."

He also holed a bunker shot for a birdie, chipped close on what he called "an impossible shot" to save par and once skipped a low shot off the surface of a pond safely onto the bank.

"If I can start hitting the ball, I've got an excellent chance to win," Trevino said after posting his 135 total, nine under par for two trips over the hilly, 7,090 yard Glen Abbey Golf Club course.

"I've got to start hitting the ball better. I can't keep on putting and chipping like this. I can't figure on 52 putts for the last two rounds. Usually I'm pretty good tee to green and have trouble with my short game. Now I'm putting and chipping great and hitting the ball awful."

Jack Nicklaus dropped a 15-foot putt for an eagle on the 18th hole and tied Tom Kite for second at 138, six under par and three behind Trevino. Each shot a second round 70.

Nicklaus' effort, fashioned in the afternoon when swirling winds were at their trickiest, was wildly erratic.

"It was about the toughest medium wind I've seen, swirling all the time," he said. "The golf course played very difficult."

Some of the other afternoon scores supported his statement: 85 by Al Geiberger and 86 by Ben Crenshaw, both of whom missed the cut for the final round; 81 by Bruce Lietzke, a two-time winner this year, and Nicklaus' playing partner; 79 by defending champion Jerry Pate.

Ray Floyd, with a 67 that ranked as the day's best round, was alone at 139. George Cadle was next at 72-140.

Blaine Nye retires

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Former All-Pro Blaine Nye announced Friday he was retiring after nine years as a Dallas Cowboy offensive guard.

Nye, who says he considered retirement several times in the past because of family problems, failed to report with other Cowboy veterans Friday.

The problems stemmed from having to leave his permanent home at Menlo Park, Calif., for six months each year while his family stays behind.

Nye has told Cowboy officials he would stay in football if he were traded to the Oakland Raiders or San Francisco 49ers, both in the vicinity of Nye's California home.

The Cowboys have said they have attempted to arrange such a trade, but the efforts were fruitless.

"I've been walking out of camps since my third year so it's hard for people to believe I'm serious," Nye told the Dallas Times Herald from Menlo Park.

Stacy holds down Women's Open lead

CHASKA, Minn. (AP) — Georgian Hollis Stacy scrambled with a one-over-par 73 Friday and maintained her lead in the U.S. Women's Open golf tournament with a one-under 143 total after two rounds of the 72-hole event.

The 23-year-old Miss Stacy had four bogeys and two birdies on an erratic back nine.

She birdied No. 13 with a wedge shot from a bunker and birdied the 16th before bogeying the final two holes of the day. Miss Stacy, who won her first Ladies' Professional Golf Association tour event just two months ago, also bogeyed the 10th and 15th holes.

Nancy Lopez, the 20-year-old rookie from Roswell, N.M., who is making her LPGA debut in the Open, moved into second place at 145, one stroke ahead of defending champion JoAnne Carner.

Miss Lopez, who came within four shots of winning the Open two years ago as an amateur, and Mrs. Carner each shot par 72.

Jan Stephenson, who was bunched with Jane Bialock, Amy Alcott and Joyce Kazmierski in a second-place tie, two strokes behind Stacy at the beginning of the day, dropped four strokes back at 147 after a three-over 75.

A course as lovely as a lady

By PAUL DOMOWITZ

Even people who have been born and raised here in West Texas will have to admit that this area isn't exactly God's new answer to the Garden of Eden. I'm not knocking it mind you. But let's face the facts.

It's so dry that the only thing you can really grow around here is old. Grass usually varies in color from an off-shade of yellow to your basic brown. And it's so flat, you can see Shreveport on a clear day. I don't want to say that Midland is out in the middle of nowhere, but when I took this job (raise your hand if you think I shouldn't have) and asked them where EXACTLY the city is located, they told me, "Oh, about 310 miles west of Fort Worth and 320 miles east of El Paso." All I can say is, thank God for AAA Trip-tiks and my Mexican guide.

I think my boss, Ted Battles summed up West Texas pretty well, when he told me about the letter he sent to his wife shortly after he moved here. Ted had come down from Oklahoma by himself to get settled in, and his wife was to join him a little later. In that first message, he wrote, "... as soon as you get down here honey, we'll go out and I'll show you the TREE."

SO, TO expect any kind of a legitimate golf course to flourish in this kind of environment is ridiculous. And the more than 200 golfers who came to Midland last week for the Trans-Miss Amateur Golf Tournament were expecting the worst from Midland Country Club.

"From what a guy told me about this area," explained one California golfer, "I figured the only way to recognize the fairways from the roughs would be by the color of the dirt."

Another one added, "for water hazards, I was expecting to see a guy standing in front of the green spitting tobacco juice out of his mouth."

Well as good ol' Gomer Pyle used to say "surr-prize, surr-prize!" In the middle of this West Texas desert stands a golfing oasis. A course of such beauty and challenge, that it's as out of place here as pork at a Jewish family's dinner table.

I traveled its lovely tree-lined fairways and strode along-side its elegantly-kept greens for seven days last week covering the tournament, and I still can't make up my mind whether it was all for real or just a beautiful dream. Maybe the Garden of Eden is in West Texas after all.

I SAW the best amateur golfers in the United States—men like John Fought, Scott Simpson and Lindy

Miller, all of whom may be the next big names on the professional tour—I saw them admire the huge 7,400 yards of this par-72 layout, and I saw them fear it. I saw some of them survive the treachery of its narrow fairways, high roughs and fast greens, and I saw some of them fail. But all of them—the conquerors and the casualties—spoke with great respect for the course they had just played.

Fought, the T-M champion who has played some of the finest courses in the country, including Augusta and Southern Hills, remarked, "It's just a beautiful course. I'd rank it up there with any I've played—bar none. The greens probably could be better protected, but that's the only criticism I could possibly make about this place. It's hardly what I expected in this part of the country. Did they bring it in from another state in pieces?"

"It's as challenging as they make them," added 29-year-old former Walker Cup player John Grace, who made it to the semi-finals before Fought eliminated him. "There's very little margin for error. You either keep it straight or you suffer the consequences. I really enjoyed playing it."

I HAVE heard the stories over the months, of how the Midland Country Club members have guarded their course like overly protective parents against intruding outsiders. They refused to let anyone fool with their girl, and griped when a Jack Nicklaus or Arnold Palmer dared to put a spike mark on her fairways during an exhibition.

There was a time when I thought that kind of behavior was absurd. Another example of what snobs some rich people can be when they put their mind to it, I thought. But not anymore. If I possessed something as remarkably beautiful as that, I wouldn't share it with anyone either.

But that's going to become an increasingly difficult task. Soon, the entire golfing world is going to find out what beauty lies off Lamesa Highway. Most will laugh in disbelief like doubting Thomases—like I laughed before I touched the wounds. And maybe it's just as well. Because if MCC became too well-known, surely the Lords of golf would demand that it be moved to a location that could do this lovely creature more justice—like Palm Springs, Calif., or St. Petersburg, Fla.

Hewitt pitches Furr's team past Eubanks in city soph game, 5-0

Mark Hewitt blanked the Eubanks Pistons with a brilliant three-hitter Friday night to pitch Furr's to a 5-0 victory at Redfern Field in the city Sophomore League playoff finale.

Furr's won the best-of-three series two games to one and now both Tall City teams advance into the district tourney starting in Abernathy Monday evening.

Hewitt struck out 16 Pistons with 15 of those whiffs coming in the first six innings.

Justin Morett also threw a three-hitter for the Pistons in the well-played game.

Furr's took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the fourth inning on a solo home run by Steve Miller and then erupted for four runs in the fifth inning.

Base hits by Miller and Cling Hughes along with a pair of walks and an error, gave Furr's its four runs.

Cather Robert Scharfenberg legged out an infield hit for the Pistons in the fifth inning and then Eubanks threatened with two out in the top of the seventh inning when Scharfenberg singled, up the middle and Robert Perez had a base hit into right.

Hewitt got the next batter on a popup and with the out, came the city championship.

Furr's won the first game of the series, 2-1 and Eubanks came back to win the second game, 8-5, setting up the rubber game of the series.

HNG stages late rally in city slow pitch playoff

HNG #1 came up with three runs in the top of the seventh inning Friday night to knock Dorland's out of the Men's City Slow Pitch playoffs, 7-4 at Hogan Park.

With the game tied at 4-4, Craig Holly powered a two-run homer and Ken Woods added the icing on the cake with a solo poke for the final 7-4 margin.

HNG was the American League champions during the regular season with 23-4 record while Dorland's wound up third in the always-tough National League with a 17-13 reading.

HNG now advances into the semifinals Tuesday night against National #1, formerly Well Fluids with the winner of that 7 p.m. taking on unbeaten Goodrich Service Center in the finals. Goodrich, runnerup to Well Fluids during the regular season, has won four straight in the city tourney so either HNG or National #1 must beat the Tirenmen two straight Tuesday in order to win the championship for 1977.

Trophies will be awarded to the top four teams in the six leagues at 9 p.m. Tuesday at Hogan Park.

The Permian Oilers won the Pioneer League

Reuschel pitches Cubs to victory

CHICAGO (AP) — Rick Reuschel set up the game's only run with his second single and limited the Atlanta Braves to five hits Friday while hurling the first-place Chicago Cubs to a 1-0 victory.

Manny Trillo opened the seventh inning with a single and went to second on a sacrifice bunt by George Mitterwald, as Reuschel then singled sharply to left as Trillo stopped at third and then scored when Ivan Dejesus hit into a force play.

Reuschel upped his record to 13-3 and Atlanta starter Dick Ruthven, 3-6, took the loss.

Reuschel gave up a one-out single to Garry Matthews in the first inning and then retired 17 in a row—all of them in the infield—before Matthews looped a single to center to open the Atlanta seventh.

Matthews was cut down attempting to steal and after Willie Montanez struck out, Jeff Burroughs beat out a chopper to third and Biff Pocaroba drew Reuschel's first walk before Junior Moore fled to right.

Darrel Chaney led off the Atlanta eighth with a single but was erased when Rod Gilbreath grounded into a double-play.

The Cubs had scoring chances in the first, second and fifth innings although they came with two outs. In the first, Larry Bittner singled and went to third on a single by Bobby Murcer but Jerry Morales hit into four runs to tie the score in the ninth.

soaked his third double of the game in the 12th before Robinson's long single to left center brought him home with the winning run.

The Pirates had held a 6-1 lead earlier in the game and were ahead 6-2 when the Reds rallied for four runs to tie the score in the ninth.

Dave Parker had in the ninth.

Caldwell limited the Yankees to three hits until the seventh when Lou Piniella drew a oneout walk and scored on Reggie Jackson's double and Graig Nettles followed with his 22nd home run. The Yankees, now 3½ games out of first place, suffered their ninth defeat in the last 12 games.

Brye, who took over in right field after Sixto Lezcano was hit by a pitch in the first and suffered a broken bone in his left hand, drove in the first two Milwaukee runs with singles in the third and fifth innings off loser Mike Torrez, 8-10.

The Brewers, who have won just five of their last 16 games, three of the victories coming against the Yankees, broke the game open in the seventh. Edgardo Romero opened

Rangers blast Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — out 14, including at least one in every inning. The Baltimore Orioles scored three unearned runs, two on a seventh-inning triple by Toby Harrah, and defeated the Baltimore Orioles 5-1 Friday night behind the four-hit pitching of Bert Blyleven.

Blyleven, 9-9, struck out 10 of their last 13 games under manager Billy Hunter, former long-time third-base coach for Baltimore, scored on Willie Horton's first-inning single and Jim Sundberg's run-scoring single in the fourth before getting help from the Baltimore defense.

A throwing error by losing pitcher Ross Grimsley, 9-5, on an easy tap to the mound by Harrah was followed by Ken Henderson's RBI double in the sixth. Henderson was 0-for-18 against the Orioles.

An error by third baseman DeCinces following a leadoff double by Mike Hargrove in the seventh set the stage for Harrah's triple.

Brye, who took over in right field after Sixto Lezcano was hit by a pitch in the first and suffered a broken bone in his left hand, drove in the first two Milwaukee runs with singles in the third and fifth innings off loser Mike Torrez, 8-10.

The Brewers, who have won just five of their last 16 games, three of the victories coming against the Yankees, broke the game open in the seventh. Edgardo Romero opened with a single. Brye drew a one-out walk and center fielder Mickey Rivers misjudged Sal Bando's fly ball for a two-run double. Joshua then greeted Sparky Lyle with his fourth home run of the season.

Caldwell limited the Yankees to three hits until the seventh when Lou Piniella drew a oneout walk and scored on Reggie Jackson's double and Graig Nettles followed with his 22nd home run. The Yankees, now 3½ games out of first place, suffered their ninth defeat in the last 12 games.

Steelers win court battle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal court jury Friday returned a verdict in favor of the Pittsburgh Steelers and rejected George Atkinson's $2 million slander suit against the National Football League team and coach Chuck Noll.

The two-man, four-woman panel deliberated for four hours before returning the verdict, determining that Atkinson, a veteran defensive back for the Oakland Raiders, was entitled to no damages for remarks made by Noll.

"I am pleased," said Steelers' president Dan Rooney. "It was the most depressing experience of my life. I'm happy. We got a fair trial. The press was fair to us."

Noll and Atkinson were not present when the verdict was read. Atkinson left shortly after the case went to the jury to take a pre-training camp physical and Noll left Thursday for the Pittsburgh training camp.

reference the day after a Pittsburgh-Oakland game last September.

Steelers receiver Lynn Swann suffered a concussion in the game when he was hit in the head by Atkinson as he ran a pass pattern and Atkinson attempted to defend against him.

Noll, in response to a question, told newsmen in Pittsburgh:

"You have a criminal element in every society and apparently we have it in the NFL, too. George Atkinson's hit on Lynn Swann was with intent to maim and not with football in mind. I'd like to see those guys thrown out of the league. They put a guy's whole career in jeopardy."

Atkinson's attorneys charged the remarks were a "calculated, deliberate action...made knowing they were totally false or with utter disregard for whether or not they were false."

The Steelers countered by saying Noll spoke the truth and does not apologize for the remarks. The remarks were "aptly applied and correctly used," said the Steelers' attorneys.

Just before the case went to the jury Friday, Atkinson's attorney Willie Brown told newsmen the case never should have gone to trial.

A "healthy five figure" settlement was reached out of court with the Steelers insurance company, Brown said, but was rejected because of the "pride of the Steelers."

Steelers attorney Allen Garfinkle denied that a settlement was reached, saying the two parties were "not close" to agreement in pre-trial negotiations.

The cast of characters during the two-week trial read like a National Football League all-star list.

The Steelers offered testimony from Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw, running back Rocky Bleier, retired linebacker Andy Russell, fullback Franco Harris and Swann.

Testifying for the plaintiffs were Atkinson and Raider teammates Pete Banazak, Ken Stabler, Fred Biletnikoff, Phil Villapiano and Gene Upshaw, plus retired All-Pro center Jim Otto and receiver Lance Alworth.

Also on the witness stand were Raiders' owner Al Davis, Steelers President Dan Rooney, Oakland Coach John Madden, Noll, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and NFL supervisor of officials Art McNally.

Noll took up the most time, testifying for a full day and a half, during which he attempted to explain what he meant when he linked Atkinson to a "criminal element" in pro football.

"In my view, that is anyone who breaks the rules or has a wanton disregard for the rules," Noll testified. "In that sense, George Atkinson falls into that category as do a number of other people."

Noll admitted several of his own players, including defensive back Mel Blount, could, at times, qualify for membership in what Atkinson's attorneys called "Noll's criminal element club."

Blount has since filed a $5 million suit against Noll in federal court in Louisiana, claiming his reputation had been damaged by the coach's statement.

"This case never should have gone to trial," Atkinson had said earlier. "All I ever wanted was a retraction from Coach Noll."

One of Atkinson's attorneys, Dan Mason, had no comment.

James MacInnis, a Steeler attorney, said, "On the whole, the result in the case is a good thing for football. Atkinson can go back to work and finish out a good career and we wish him well. I think the vindication of Chuck Noll can serve as an impetus to end unnecessary violence in football."

Atkinson had filed a suit seeking a maximum $2 million in damages for remarks made by Noll at a news conference the day after a Pittsburgh-Oakland game last September.

Steelers receiver Lynn Swann suffered a concussion in the game when he was hit in the head by Atkinson as he ran a pass pattern and Atkinson attempted to defend against him.

Noll, in response to a question, told newsmen in Pittsburgh:

"You have a criminal element in every society and apparently we have it in the NFL, too. George Atkinson's hit on Lynn Swann was with intent to maim and not with football in mind. I'd like to see those guys thrown out of the league. They put a guy's whole career in jeopardy."

Atkinson's attorneys charged the remarks were a "calculated, deliberate action...made knowing they were totally false or with utter disregard for whether or not they were false."

The Steelers countered by saying Noll spoke the truth and does not apologize for the remarks. The remarks were "aptly applied and correctly used," said the Steelers' attorneys.

Plot thickens in cage feud

NEWARK (AP) — The agreement between the state of New Jersey filed Nets and the New York Knicks—so far the major obstacle to the Nets' move from Long Island to York Nets basketball New Jersey—violated team to move to the federal and New Jersey Meadowlands Sports anti-trust laws forbidding unreasonable restraints of trade.

The suit charges that a 1976 territorial agreement was a condition for the Nets' joining the National Basketball Association last season. The Knicks say it gives them the power to veto a Nets move to New Jersey or other parts of the New York metropolitan area.

The New Jersey suit charges that the two teams in effect agreed to "monopolize the market for the exhibition of professional basketball" in the area, spokesmen for state Atty. Gen. William F. Hyland said.

Although the Nets, who want to leave Nassau

Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y. and move to the Meadowlands, are trying in a separate court action to overturn the agreement, the team is named along with the Knicks as a defendant in the New Jersey suit.

In a separate charge that implies a challenge to all the territorial franchises governing major league sports, the state also asserts that the agreement between the Nets and the Knicks "constitutes an allocation of exclusive territories in restraint of trade," the

Longhorn quarterback needs knee surgery

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Longhorn quarterback Ted Constanzo will have knee surgery in San Antonio Saturday for a cartilage torn playing racquetball Thursday.

Constanzo started several games for Texas last year but played second string to freshman Mark McBath, 5-11, 185, the final four games.

Pressed into duty against TCU late in 1975 when Marty Akins hurt his knee, Constanzo had difficulty handling the Wishbone-T offense.

Constanzo's departure leaves Jon Aune, Mike

Cordaro and Randy McEachern as returning quarterbacks to contest McBath.

Aune, 6-1, 200, and two freshmen, Sanford Coggins, 6-3, 180,

Doubles mates meet in final

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Tenth-seeded Ted Henry of Charlotte, N.C., upset fourth-seeded Tal Robbins of Salt Lake City 6-4, 6-4 Friday to advance to the finals of the National Junior Clay Courts Tennis Championships.

Henry will face his doubles partner and friend, seventh-seeded John Corse of Atlanta, Ga., in the finals on Saturday.

Corse defeated unseeded Lloyd Bourne of Pasadena, Calif., 6-1, 7-5 in the other Friday semifinal.

"I think Tal and I, we try to play the same way," said Corse. "He might be a little stronger than I am and he is a year older than I am, but we both try to just keep the ball in play."

Corse is 17 and Henry is 18 and both say they hope to attend the University of North Carolina in the fall.

Corse said after his semifinal match that he felt he "just got lucky. I made some pretty good shots," he said.

Bourne, a sophomore at Stanford University, defeated ninth-seeded Chuck Hodgins of Sumter, S.C., 7-6, 6-3 to move into the semifinals.

Arthur Ashe: man for all seasons

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Ashe is one of America's most gifted, articulate and sensitive athletes—a man with an inflated right heel and a burning urge to correct abuses to human rights.

The first may end the brilliant tennis career of the first black man to crash the sport's big time and play on the U. S. Davis Cup team. The second may put a portfolio in his hands and turn him into one of the world's most effective ambassadors.

Don't discount the potential of Arthur Ashe.

"I am sort of in limbo right now—I probably succumbed to a sense of false security," said the 33-year-old son of a Richmond, Va., policeman, pondering the results of a foot operation which he hoped would put him back on the tennis tour.

"I started practicing a couple of weeks ago," he added. "I entered tournaments in Washington, D. C., Louisville, North Conway, N. H., and Boston, hoping to be ready for Forest Hills in late August."

"But I had to stop. The pain returned. I was taking Butazolidin pills, those anti-inflammatory things which I think sometimes are given to horses. But I have to take periodic blood tests because the pills destroy the white cells.

"I am discouraged but I still am certain that I can play two or three more years of top tennis. I simply will have to cut down on my schedule, play 20 weeks in the year instead of 35 and strive for optimum efficiency."

Ashe, who won the inaugural U. S. Open in 1968, reached the pinnacle of his career in 1975 when he won both the World Championship of Tennis, beating Bjorn Borg, and Wimbledon, trouncing Jimmy Connors. He was the undisputed No. 1 in world rankings.

Then an old injury in his left heel involving calcium deposits was reagravated and his tennis ventures were momentarily interrupted.

In February, he married a pretty photographer, Jeannie Marie Moutoussamy, in a ceremony conducted by his good friend, UN Ambassador Andrew Young. In April, he made a trip to South Africa to see how much progress had been made in that country's racial policies.

The results of that trip will be featured in a documentary on ABC's Wide World of Sports Saturday between 5 and 6:30 p.m. EDT. The show is called "Arthur Ashe in South Africa—Apartheid in Sports."

For this very concerned athlete, the trip turned out to be an extreme disappointment.

"I am sorry to say that I found very little substantial progress in South Africa toward the elimination of its apartheid policies," Ashe said. "They have made some petty changes. They have taken 'White Only' signs off the benches. In places such as Cape Town they have eliminated the white taxis."

"But the bedrock of apartheid remains as inflexible as ever. Until these policies are changed, I will never play tennis in South Africa again."

Ashe said that while the sports structure is completely free of bias, the government's stand is unchanged.

"For instance, technically any South African athlete can qualify for a national team no matter what his color is—black, or colored, as they say," he added. "But down the life some provincial government official will find a means to nullify it."

"It's very hypocritical." What South Africans are attempting to do, Ashe said, is simply make apartheid more palatable or less harsh.

"For instance, I asked the minister of sport, Dr. Piet Koornhof, outright if he favored the one-man, one-vote policy. He ducked the answer."

Ashe said the stance of the African nations in boycotting the Olympics, the Davis Cup and other events to point up the system's injustices was based on moral and emotional rather than legal grounds.

"I think their purpose is good," he said, "but the method is wrong. My suggestion would be that the African nations compete and win the gold medals, then make their protest."

"With a gold medal around their necks, the whole world will listen."

Nastase beaten

PARIS (AP) — Francois Jauffret came from two sets down to post a stunning five-set victory over Ilie Nastase Friday and help France to a 2-0 lead over Romania in the best-of-five European Zone Davis Cup final.

Jauffret beat Nastase 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 in the opening match of the series. Patrick Proisy then made it 2-0 by beating Dimitru Haradau in the second singles match 6-2, 6-4, 8-6.

France can wrap up the series with a victory in the doubles match Saturday. The two other singles matches will be played Sunday.

Nastase started strongly against Jauffret, taking the first two sets with ease. The 35-year-old Frenchman was clearly outpaced by the very fast rhythm imposed by Nastase.

Nastase led 4-2 in the third set and had two points in hand to make it 5-3, apparently heading for an easy victory. But he suddenly lost concentration, and Jauffret jumped in to take the set 6-4.

Nastase appeared tired after the break between sets, and his errors became more frequent. Jauffret, his confidence growing with each shot, took the fourth set to equalize the match and ran through the final set without difficulty.

"I still can't believe I won," an elated Jauffret said after the match.

Though Jauffret has twice before beaten Nastase in Davis Cup play, in Paris in 1966 and in Bucharest in 1974, the Romanian has beaten him seven times in tournaments.

"I don't understand why Nastase started making so many mistakes when he was leading 4-2 in the third set," he said. "He got nervous then in a way that is incomprehensible for a player of his class."

Nastase, deeply disappointed, also called his failure "incomprehensible."

"I suddenly got upset in the third set, when I had victory in my grasp, because of the comments of a person from my group in the grandstand," Nastase said. He did not elaborate.

Olympic site revisited

MONTREAL (AP) — The 1976 Olympic site one year after:

—A major league third baseman fields hot grounders in the vicinity of Bruce Jenner's triumphant arms-upstretched finish in the decathlon.

—Public swimmers, at a rate of 2,500 per week, splash for $1 a day where East Germany's Kornelia Ender churned to three gold medals.

—Ice skating lessons are taught in the Velodrome, where the world's best cyclists maneuvered at breakneck speeds.

—A crane still sits atop the massive 60,000-seat stadium, waiting for $100 million in funds to complete the roof, and accompanying tower.

—A concrete skyscraper dormitory built to house 12,000 athletes and team personnel sits empty, waiting for renters.

Supporters praise it as a boon to benefit future generations of French-Canadians. Critics call it a billion dollar boondoggle.

"Yes, it's been called a white elephant," said Nicole Mireault. "In fact, one member of parliament called it a whole herd of white elephants."

The total price tag on the 114-acre project won't be known until later this year. But Miss Mireault, information officer of the Olympic Installations Board, is certain it will top the current estimate of $1.4 billion spent to stage the three-week event last summer.

"We are trying to make the most of it," she sighed. "We feel it will prove itself to be a good investment."

Not all residents of this French-Canadian city agree.

The unfinished stadium that cost $28 million to construct now consumes $45,000 a day in upkeep expenses. Grumbling citizens have resigned themselves to decadal dollar devaluation.

But tourism is up, and there are other positive signs.

A crowd of 57,000 welcomed the Montreal Expos professional baseball team on opening day. With attendance almost twice what it was at this point last year, the club is assured of over a million fans for the season, for the first time since 1970.

Last fall the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League averaged more than 50,000 per game.

Americans dominate Deaf Olympic Games

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Jeffrey Float and Laura Barber swam away with four more gold medals Friday, pushing their final tally to a record 10 apiece, as the United States team won 23 of 26 aquatic events at the World Games for the Deaf.

Float, a 17-year-old Olympic team prospect from Sacramento, Calif., led a U.S. sweep of the 200-meter freestyle with a deaf world record clocking of 2:02.46. Then he swam the opening backstroke leg on the 400 meter medley relay which set another deaf world mark of 4:45.60, and beat the runnerup Soviets by a length.

Barber, 14, of Allison Park, Pa., another candidate for the 1980 Moscow Olympic Games, clocked a deaf world record time of 4:45.60 in the 400-meter freestyle. She also swam the anchor leg on the 400-meter freestyle relay team that beat the Russians by nearly five seconds.

Both Float and Barber were undefeated in the five-day competition, each winning seven individual events and swimming legs on three victorious relay teams.

Elena Shipilina of the Soviet Union grabbed her country's only gold medal in the swimming competition by winning the 100-meter breaststroke Friday. Canadian women won the two other gold medals earlier in the week to prevent a U.S. sweep of the top places.

Jimmy Crowell, Jr., 17, of Townsend, Tenn., won the 100-meter breaststroke in the deaf world record time of 1:11.86 in the first race of the six-event swimming finals. He was almost two seconds faster than French silver medalist Dominique Filippi, who clocked 1:13.79.

David Ritchey of Kirkwood, Mo., earned the bronze medal by clocking 1:14.53. "I won this medal for my dad," he said in sign language afterwards.

Ritchey's father died earlier this month while traveling to Morganton, N.C., to watch the 18-year-old youth try out for a berth on the U.S. team.

Ricky Milford, a 22-year-old sophomore at Gallaudet College of Cordele, Ga., won the 200-meter dash for the only American victory in track and field events Friday. Milford clocked 21.7 seconds to beat teammate Drexel Lawson, 19, of Minot, N.D., silver medalist at 22.2. Russia's Valery Lukash took the bronze, in 22.3.

Lyle Grate, 18, of Lake Andes, S.D., held the lead after five events in the decathlon with 3,455 points. Steffan Resewig of West Germany was second with 3,389 and Hannu Vesa of Finland third with 3,253.

The Soviets grabbed two more gold medals in track and field competition. Olga Glodina won the women's discus at 152 feet, five inches and teammate Alexander Belinski leaped 6 feet, 1 inch to win the triple jump. Robert Milton, 17, of Georgetown, S.C., won the bronze in the triple jump.

Olaf Garberg won Norway's first gold medal of the Deaf Olympics by heaving the hammer 158 feet.

Ivan got onto the medal list in a big way Friday by winning seven of the 10 freestyle wrestling titles. The Soviets won two golds and the United States one gold in the 181-pound category. The American winner was Lewis Parry, 29, of Tulsa, Okla., who competes for the University of Oklahoma.

Hood double winner

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Sailmaker Ted Hood, skipper and designer of Independence, twice steered his 12-meter yacht to victory Friday against Enterprise in the best outing for Independence in the America's Cup trials.

Hood, who had never before won two races in a day of preliminary or observation trials, got the jump on Lowell North in Enterprise at the start of the first race, crossing the line five seconds ahead.

Independence increased her lead on the first windward leg, leading by 25 seconds going into the initial reach. However, Enterprise narrowed the gap on the next two legs and then it was Independence's turn to shine again.

Tacking expertly into the wind, Hood guided Independence to a 51-second lead rounding the final mark and won race one by 41 seconds.

Enterprise led by three seconds at the start of the second race, by five seconds at the weather mark and by 11 seconds at the gybe mark. The two yachts were dead even at the leeward buoy.

Going again to windward, Independence took over and won the shorter 14-mile race by a minute, 45 seconds.

"The breaks weren't with us before," Hood said afterward. "But now they're with us. I guess instead of being overtaken downward, we've overtaken someone."

"We're still making mistakes. But we're doing a little better downward. We're keeping our air clean."

Two Lions missing

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — Safety Charley West and wide receiver Ray Jarvis were not among the 66 players at the Detroit Lions National Football League training camp Friday.

The team said Jarvis is not satisfied with his contract offer. General Manager Russ Thomas said the veteran would be fined $500 a day for each day he misses practice.

West, another veteran, has indicated he may retire.

In another development, fullback Lawrence Gaines underwent knee surgery Friday in Detroit to remove damaged cartilage. Doctors said there were no complications.

Lions coach Tommy Hudspeth said he expected second-year man Gaines would return in time for the first regular season game or perhaps at least by the third game.

Thomas said he had not spoken with Jarvis, but added that money was the problem. Jarvis is in the option year of his contract. He was the Lions' most valuable player on offense last year and their leading receiver.

Hudspeth said West's legs have been giving him problems.

"Sure we will miss him," he said. "He has been our director back there (in the secondary)."

TEE TIME

Lawrence has ace

BY REX WORRELL
Hogan Park Golf Pro

The happiest man at Hogan Park this week had to be J.C. Lawrence. An avid golfer, J.C. scored his first hole-in-one on the par three No. 3 at Hogan.

Don Haynes, normally a regular playing partner of J.C.'s, heard about the ace about two minutes after it happened.

J.C. had rushed into the golf shop and telephoned Don the good news at work. Congratulations, J.C.

THE HOGAN Park Junior Golf program held July 15 saw David Foster defeat Ronnie Conner for medal in the 11-under Champions division. In the 11-under regular division, Derrick Westbrook took first with Stacy Worrell second and Perry McIntosh third.

Janice Littlefield won the 12-13 bracket with an excellent 91 while Scott Page was second with a 98. Stacey Raney took first with a 90 in the 14-15 group with Penny Sutcliffe second after winning a playoff over Bruce Philpy.

In 16-17 competition, Kendall Blocker took first with Jim Leach second.

THE REPORTER-TELEGRAM'S Midland Men's City championships will be held at Hogan Park Aug. 5-7. Deadline for entries is Aug. 2 at 6 p.m. Entry fee will be $20.

Midland County residents who have completed high school eligibility may enter. All players without an established handicap must play in the championship flight, which will be 54 holes of medal play.

All other flights will play 36 holes medal. All flights will be cut to the low half and ties for the final round. Those missing the cut will compete in a consolation flight the final day.

There will be a barbecue for contestants following play, Aug. 6. Each player will receive two tickets for the barbecue. Trophies and merchandise certificates will be awarded in each flight and consolation brackets.

Tee times will begin at 2 p.m. Friday for the championship flight and at noon Saturday with the championship flight first and other flights in order.

Sunday's tee times begin at noon with fourth flight consolation and working back to the title flight, which will tee off last.

Flights will be set up as follows: Championship, 0-6 handicappers, plus anyone wishing to declare champion; President's flight; those championship flight players missing the cut; first flight, 7-10 handicappers; second flight, 11-14 handicappers; third flight, 15-19 handicappers; and fourth flight, 10 and over handicappers.
