Committee votes to increase SS tax wage base

By SPENCER RICH
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Senate Finance Committee, seeking new funds for the troubled Social Security system, voted Friday to make business firms pay Social Security taxes on the first $100,000 a year of each employee's salary, instead of the current $16,500 figure. The change will produce about $40 billion in extra revenue during the next 15 years.

The huge rise in the wage base for the tax would apply only to the portion of the Social Security tax paid by the employer. Employees would be taxed on a much smaller amount of earnings, though that too would rise to about $30,300 a year in stages by 1985.

The revisions throw the biggest burden for new financing onto business.

The wage base changes were part of a comprehensive financial rescue plan for Social Security put together by Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) and pushed through the committee with the backing of Chairman Russell B. Long (D-La.). Without a change, the system would run out of money in a few years. Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said the final product is "very close to the administration proposal" even though it drops President Carter's request to let Social Security take income tax funds from the Treasury to help its financial condition.

The plan, subject to review Monday, also raises the Social Security tax rate (presently 5.85 per cent each on employers and employees) slightly in 1979 and in steps thereafter to 7.035 per cent each by 1986 and 9.10 each by 2011; raises taxes on the self-employed; and writes a new formula so that the initial benefits received by the average wage-earner retiring in the future will be 43 per cent of average monthly earnings in the year before retirement. An unintended quirk in a 1972 formula would eventually have raised the rate to 67 per cent and totally bankrupted the system. The current level is about 45 per cent.

Virtually everything the committee did Friday was intended to raise funds or reduce the growth of benefits far off in the future, and thus save money. However, on an 11 to 0 vote it did throw in one big benefit improvement to sweeten the pain.

It adopted an amendment by Lloyd M. Bentsen (D-Tex.) and Nelson permitting retirees to earn up to $4,500 a year in 1978 and $6,000 a year in 1979 and each year thereafter without loss of benefits, instead of the $3,000 limit applicable now and the $3,240 ceiling applicable next year under an automatic cost-of-living formula.

'Reverse discrimination' case generates activity

By WILLIAM CLAIBORNE
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The volatile University of California "reverse discrimination" case before the U.S. Supreme Court has generated more legal briefs from interested parties than any other high court case in at least 20 years, court officials said Friday.

The "amicus curiae" (friend of the court) briefs — 57 of them, on behalf of 162 organizations and individuals — read like the roll call of the American melting pot. The Sons of Italy, the Polish-American Affairs Council and the American Jewish Committee show up on one side (pro-Bakke), while on the other are the Japanese-American Citizens League and numerous groups representing blacks.

Of the 57 briefs filed—some a compendium of the views of several groups or individuals — 41 defend the constitutionality of a university admission system that reserves a specific number of places in each class for members of minority groups, while 16 argue that racial quotas are unconstitutional.

The case involves Allan Bakke, a white applicant rejected for admission to the University of California (Davis) Medical School. Bakke has alleged that less qualified blacks, Hispanics and Asian-Americans were admitted ahead of him under a special quota system.

What potentially is the most influential brief has yet to be filed by the U.S. Justice Department, which has been struggling with the language of its arguments under intense pressure from civil rights leaders and the administrators of "affirmative action" plans in a number of federal agencies.

Many in the civil rights movement regard the Bakke case as the most important to come before the high court since the Brown case, and have worried publicly that a Justice brief which cast any doubt on affirmative action could set back integration efforts for years.

The legal groupings are full of ironies — a measure of how the case has twisted traditional American political philosophy. The American Federation of Teachers, a union considered liberal, is pro-Bakke. So is the Young Americans for Freedom, a group that prides itself on being conservative.

The YAF brief is signed by a young lawyer named Marco DeFuniis. DeFuniis was the plaintiff in the first reverse discrimination case that reached the Supreme Court four years ago. He is a white man who sued the University of Washington law school, claiming he was discriminated against by an "affirmative action" program.

But before the case came before the court DeFuniis was admitted to the school.

First drafts of the government's Bakke brief clearly challenged the constitutionality of racial quotas. Subsequent revisions are said to strongly support affirmative action programs, while fence straddling on the distinction between quotas and "goals."

The document is expected to be released early next week.

There is little ambiguity, however, in the amicus curiae briefs already on file. But the unexpected contrasts abound.

The American Jewish Committee and the American Jewish Congress argue that the California Supreme Court decision favoring Bakke's claim of reverse discrimination

Haldeman points finger at Nixon

By RONALD J. OSTROW
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Former White House Chief of Staff H. R. Haldeman, pleading to be freed from a prison sentence for his part in the Watergate coverup, charged Friday that former President Richard M. Nixon "was the principal actor" in obstructing justice in the case.

Haldeman, in the harshest words he has used publicly about his former boss, said Nixon had made "a clear confession of guilt" in his latest televised interview with David Frost. "Moreover, he brags about a desire to destroy incriminating evidence and thus, for a second time, obstruct justice," Haldeman said in a motion for reduction of sentence filed here with U.S. Dist. Judge John J. Sirica.

In a similar motion, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell blamed Watergate for causing what his lawyer described as "the increasing mental conflicts" of Mitchell's late wife, Martha.

This was a reversal of Nixon's statement on the last Frost interview, broadcast earlier this month, that if it had not been for Mrs. Mitchell's "mental and emotional problem that nobody knew about...there'd have been no Watergate."

Mitchell, however, made no criticism of Nixon in his court papers. Instead, he cited his worsening medical problems since entering federal prison, including a severe degenerative disease affecting his right hip that he said has impaired his mobility and heart problems resulting from hypertension.

Haldeman and Mitchell began serving 30-month to eight-year prison sentences three months ago for their Watergate coverup convictions.

Both men in their motions Friday expressed regret for their roles in the coverup conspiracy, their first declarations of contrition to Sirica, the judge who sentenced them.

"Counsel is authorized by Mr. Mitchell to advise the court that he is truly sorry for and regrets those actions of his that resulted in his conviction," Mitchell's lawyer, William G. Hundley, said in one motion.

Haldeman's attorney, John J. Wilson, said in the other that his client was writing Sirica "of his remorse and regret that the events and actions which form the basis of the indictment took place."

"He has expressed his contrition and his repentance, as well as his determination both to avoid any such actions in the future and to resume his career, hitherto unblemished, of service and contribution to his community and country," Wilson said.

Haldeman's motion, which Wilson said his client fully endorsed, made caustic reference to Nixon's televised interviews with Frost.

Blackmail effort denied

By RICHARD PYLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — American and Panamanian officials denied Friday that Panamanian diplomats had tried to blackmail U.S. negotiators into making concessions on the new Panama Canal treaty by threatening to disclose an alleged U.S. spying operation.

At the same time, U.S. officials declined to confirm or deny a report that American intelligence agencies had used electronic means to eavesdrop on Panama's treaty negotiators.

The report, broadcast by CBS Television, said the Panamanians had discovered the eavesdropping and used their discovery to blackmail the American negotiators.

The allegation led the Senate Intelligence Committee to discuss the issue at length Friday. A committee member briefed both President Carter and former President Gerald Ford on the matter, and the committee scheduled further closed-door hearings next week.

The committee chairman, Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, afterward refused comment on the meeting.

Inouye said further hearings would be held early next week with CIA Director Stansfield Turner and Sol Linowitz, Bunker's colleague in the treaty talks, as witnesses. Both men were out of town Friday.

At the White House, President Carter, saying goodbye to visiting French Premier Raymond Barre, fended off questions. "I'd rather restrict my answers right now to questions about France," he said.

Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, a U.S. treaty negotiator, denied the allegation as he arrived at the Capitol to meet with the Senate Intelligence Committee.

The proposed treaty, providing for the United States to gradually turn control of the canal over to Panama by the year 2000, was signed last week by Carter and Panama's dictator, Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos.

But the treaty still must be ratified by the Senate, and strong opposition already has arisen from some conservative lawmakers and other critics.

Senate sources opposed to the Panama Canal treaty said that the alleged eavesdropping affair may date back to 1974 when then-Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Panama's foreign minister signed a preliminary agreement outlining the terms under which the agreement would be negotiated.

Libel suit filed against writer of book on Hill

HOUSTON (AP)—Ogilman Ash Robinson, just one day after denying in state civil court he had anything to do with the murder of his former son-in-law, filed a $20 million federal court libel suit Friday against the author and publisher of a book based on the death of Dr. John Hill.

Robinson, 79, seeks $10 million in real damages and $10 million in punitive damages from Thomas Thompson, a former Houston newspaperman who wrote "Blood and Money," and the publishing firm of Doubleday & Co.

The suit contends Thompson and Doubleday knew at the time the book was published that it contained numerous falsehoods, including a contention Robinson was responsible for Hill's death.

"Bloody and Money," the suit contends, impeaches Robinson's honesty and integrity and has subjected him to public hatred, ridicule and contempt.

Hill, a plastic surgeon, was shot to death in 1972 as he and his third wife were entering their home in fashionable River Oaks. At that time, Hill was awaiting a second trial on a charge of murdering his first wife, Joan Robinson Hill, through medical neglect in 1969. A first trial ended with a hung jury.

Robinson testified Thursday he had nothing to do with Hill's death but had wanted to see Hill prosecuted and punished if found guilty.

"My daughter, I think, was murdered," Robinson testified. "I wanted whoever did it punished. I didn't sue anybody."

"No, sir, you got them indicted," said Ray Bass, a Hill family lawyer.

"I didn't get anybody indicted," Robinson answered.

Robinson was testifying in a $7.6 million suit brought against him by Hill's son, Robert, 17, widow, Mrs. Connie Hill, and mother, Mrs. Myra Hill. The three filed the damage suit against Robinson while alleging he masterminded Hill's murder as revenge for his daughter's death.

No criminal charges have ever been filed against Robinson.

The libel suit also contends "Blood and Money" contains falsehoods in presenting Robinson as a racist and as being abnormally obsessed with the death of his daughter.

The suit also says the falsehoods include a contention Robinson had an adulterous relationship and that he arranged to adopt a child born of that relationship.

Proposed blue collar pay changes attacked

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Proposed changes in the pay structure for federal blue collar workers were attacked Friday by workers and San Antonio officials, but government representatives defended the Carter administration plans.

Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex., San Antonio officials, federal employee union representatives and workers dominated the testimony at a hearing by the House Committee on Civil Service's compensation subcommittee.

The hearing was called to get comments on President Carter's proposal to trim the government's blue collar pay scale by 12 per cent through a restructuring of the Federal Wage System.

Carter's plan would abolish the top two pay steps in each of five pay grades, repeal a law which requires seeking wage data from outside an area if no similar private industry exists and eliminate the pay differential for night work.

Krueger said the proposals would have serious impact on the lives of federal government blue collar workers.

"We must consider the human impact these proposals have on these people," said Krueger, a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate from Texas.

He said more than one-third of Texas' 32,000 government blue collar workers are in San Antonio.

"These are not fat cats. These are workers," he said.

Mayor Lila Cockrell said a 12 per cent cut in the government's blue collar wage would reduce the payroll $20 million annually in San Antonio.

Henry Cisneros, a city councilman, blasted the proposal, saying the federal payroll "provides the only real stability in San Antonio's economy."

Advocates of the proposed changes were booed several times as they testified the current pay scale often means the government is paying its employees more than their private industry counterparts.

The hearing in San Antonio was one of six being held around the nation by the congressional subcommittee chaired by Rep. Gladys Spellman, D-Md.

Farm bill gets final congressional approval

By BRIAN B. KING

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House gave final congressional approval Friday to a wide-ranging measure boosting grain farmers' incomes, revamping the food stamp program and expanding agricultural research.

The 283-107 vote adopted the compromise version of similar bills passed this spring and summer by the Senate and House.

The measure, which could mean government spending of up to $11 billion a year over the next four years, now goes to the White House. The Senate adopted the compromise Sept. 9 on a 63-8 vote.

President Carter is expected to sign it, even though the projected costs are about $2 billion more than he wanted to spend to renew and revise the major Agriculture Department programs which expire Sept. 30.

Actual spending will depend primarily on the weather in the United States and other major crop-exporting countries. For example, a continuation of favorable growing weather worldwide, bumper harvests and sluggish foreign demand for U.S. grains will mean depressed market prices and thus higher government payments.

The legislation will trigger a record $1.2 billion in payments in this year's 2.03 billion-bushel wheat crop, which came in with 1.1 billion bushels already in surplus. Corn prices will be slightly pushed up by higher supports, too.

More modest increases are slated in the price and income support rates for wheat, feedgrains, rice and cotton next season.

The farm programs are expected to average no more than $4.4 billion a year in government costs through 1981.

Average food stamp benefits are not expected to be changed substantially from the present 81 cents per person per day when the bill's provisions become fully effective next spring.

But about 340,000 of the roughly 5.1 million families now receiving the 13-year-old program's benefits each month are expected to be cut from the rolls and stringent new job search requirements will be imposed on those remaining.

Inconsistencies probed in officer's testimony

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Defense attorneys probed two inconsistencies Friday in the testimony of a rookie Houston policeman who has testified that Joe Campos Torres was beaten by five other officers before being pushed into a bayou.

Two former policemen, Terry Denson, 27, and Stephen Orlando, 21, are on trial for the slaying of Torres, whose body was pulled out of Buffalo Bayou on May 8, only a few blocks from Houston police headquarters.

Patrolman Carless Eugene Elliott, 20, acknowledged Friday that in his original statement to police he said he couldn't remember which officer had said, "Well, let's see if the wetback can swim."

On Thursday, Elliott said Denson made the statement.

Elliott testified Denson, Orlando and three other officers took Torres to the bayou and beat him after he was arrested in a bar disturbance.

Elliott said an attendant at the Houston city jail later told the officers to take the prisoner to a hospital for treatment but the group, instead, returned Torres to the bayou.

However, Police Sgt. Leo Pierpont, who was on duty at the jail, testified Friday afternoon that he couldn't be sure that Torres was the injured prisoner brought to the jail.

In both his testimony and in the statement Elliott had said he was at his patrol car answering a radio call when he heard a splash in the bayou.

In the statement, Elliott said he ran back to the bayou and saw Torres in the water "in total control."

"When I gave that statement, I was pretty shook up," said Elliott, who gave the original statement to police the day after Torres' body was recovered.

Elliott said his memory is much clearer now.

Elliott also said he didn't mention in the original statement that Denson allegedly told him he had pushed Torres in the bayou. In his court testimony, Elliott said Denson told him he shoved Torres into a bayou and allegedly threatened the rookie officer to keep quiet about it.

Elliott testified Denson, Orlando and three other officers took Torres to the bayou and beat him after he was arrested in a bar disturbance.

Elliott said an attendant at the Houston city jail later told the officers to take the prisoner to a hospital for

Indefinite stay granted

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — John A. Spenkelink, whose execution for the murder of an ex-convict was slated for Monday, was granted an indefinite stay of execution by a federal judge Friday.

U.S. District Court Judge William Stafford halted the execution pending a hearing on a defense attorney's argument that the death penalty has been applied in a racially discriminatory and irrational manner in Florida.

The judge did not say when he would hold the hearing.

State Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin said he would decide later whether to appeal Stafford's ruling to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Spenkelink's attorney, Tobias Simon of Miami, argued that administration of the death penalty in Florida is discriminatory because many killers of whites are sentenced to die but few killers of blacks receive death sentences.

Spenkelink is white, as convicted of killing, has taken place in an electric chair.

Spenkelink, 28, of Buena Park, Calif., was scheduled to die in the electric chair at 8:30 a.m. Monday in the Florida State Prison at Starke.

The Florida Supreme Court refused earlier Friday to halt the execution.

Judge Stafford said Spenkelink's attorneys raised substantial constitutional questions and that in the interest of justice he would hold a hearing on the arguments.

If Spenkelink were executed, it would be the second execution this year and the first in 10 years that an execution has taken place in an electric chair.

Briscoe planning big Dallas political rally

DALLAS (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who says he already has "well over a million dollars" stashed away for his reelection bid, is planning a November rally to flex his political muscles for the press and other political observers.

An informational sheet including plans for the mammoth rally was distributed to Briscoe supporters at a private meeting in Dallas. At a news conference here the governor said plans for the rally have not been completed.

But the informational sheet listed specifics. The event will be centered on a Nov. 7 rally at the Dallas Municipal Auditorium. Admission will be $12.50 per person. The Dallas metropolitan area committee is to furnish 4,000 people for the rally while 4,000 other Briscoe supporters are due in from other parts of the state, according to the informational sheet.

The sheet also states the primary goal of the rally is to "generate excitement, enthusiasm and a sense of participation among Gov. Briscoe's thousands of campaign workers, supporters and contributors."

The gathering is also supposed to demonstrate to the press and other political observers the depth of the support for the governor, his programs and his record of public service.

At his press conference Briscoe said his campaign treasury is already well-stocked and "I think the pledges would be something well over a million dollars."

In 1974, when Briscoe defeated GOP challenger Jim Granberry, the governor listed $1,028,049 in campaign expenditures. Documents filed with the secretary of state in Austin show contributions to Briscoe's 1974 campaign totaled $1,070,314.

Briscoe said he remains confident of election to an unprecedented third term despite former Gov. Preston Smith's entry into the race earlier this week. Smith lost his job to Briscoe in the 1972 election.

The governor said polls commissioned by himself and others show him well ahead of his potential opponents and indicated he would win the Democratic primary without a runoff.

Briscoe said he did not anticipate that Smith would run strong enough in the rural areas to hurt his re-election bid.

Briscoe also said he is stronger now than ever before in "Dallas, the metropolitan areas of the state, as well as the rural areas of the state."

Atty. Gen. John Hill, who held a $50-per-ticket fundraiser in Austin Thursday and has been travelling through the state blasting Briscoe, is expected to announce his candidacy early next week.

Transplant gives Texan twin hearts

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Lindell Hill, a 37-year-old Texan, has been discharged from Grootte Schuur Hospital after having a second, "piggyback" heart implanted in his chest by transplant specialist Dr. Christiaan Barnard.

Hill, of Denison, was the first foreigner to undergo the "twinheart" transplant. During the five-hour operation Aug. 5, the heart of an 18-year-old South African farm laborer killed in a traffic accident was implanted in Hill's chest alongside his own.

The second heart, attached to his own, acts as a booster in the fashion of a double pump.

After weeks of special care, Hill left the hospital Thursday, smiling and laughing despite pouring rain.

"Everything is going just fine for him," said his wife, Lily. "It's a perfect day for him to be discharged because he loves the rain."

Fifteen South Africans received twin hearts from the Grootte Schuur team before Hill.

Hill, a father of three, has not worked since suffering his first heart attack 10 years ago. Mrs. Hill, 38, has supported the family.

The Hills and their children — Rhonda, 16, Rani, 13, and Jim, 11 — are staying with friends in the Cape Town suburb of Rondebosch while he continues to recuperate. They hope to be back home in Texas by Thanksgiving.

Deposed Bhutto again threatens political comeback in Pakistan

The Manchester Guardian

LAHORE, Pakistan — The determined attempt by Pakistan's tough new military government to keep the former prime minister, Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, out of circulation during the coming election campaign has ground to an embarrassing halt.

After spending nine days in custody in connection with a 3-year-old murder charge, Bhutto this week was unexpectedly released on bail in Lahore. The man whom some people were already beginning to count out of Pakistan politics for some time to come was soon addressing a relaxed press conference, telling of his plans for fighting — and winning — the general election six weeks from now.

The decision to free Bhutto on bail, and to defer another case against him for a fortnight, were taken by a young and hitherto unrecognized high court judge who, with a single elegant sentence, has managed to turn politics in Pakistan neatly upside down yet again.

Last week the principal dilemma here was that facing the potentially leaderless and rudderless Pakistan

People's party. Now a still more pressing problem confronts Gen. Zia Al-Haq, the man who removed Bhutto from power two months ago, but who now seems unable to ward off his possible return. The general will have to act swiftly to avert what the freed former premier called, in another context, a new and grave crisis in Pakistan.

Zia has only a limited number of choices open to him. Since he and his colleague generals in Islamabad and the four provincial capitals appear dedicated to preventing Bhutto's return to power at all costs, there would seem only three practical choices: to call off the elections, currently scheduled for Oct. 18; to arrest Bhutto (possibly for a breach of the martial law regulations) and see that this time he stays inside; or to do nothing and gamble that Bhutto will run, and lose.

On the basis of the latest occurrences in court the risk Zia takes in adopting the latter choice would be, to say the least, considerable.

Justice M. A. Samdani's decision to free Bhutto came as a total surprise, to the premier's friends and enemies alike. It had appeared as though the Punjab special prosecutor's case — supported as it was by numerous confessions from other parties to the alleged murder conspiracy, was just about watertight. Bhutto's own lawyer erected what other advocates considered a flimsy defense to what had seemed a basic tenet of Pakistan's criminal laws — that where evidence tended to link a defendant to a capital crime, bail should be disallowed.

Bhutto himself, brought to the court protesting about being awakened at dawn, but still managing to display his usual sartorial elegance, made a brief and cutting speech to the court.

He had been "framed," he said. There was a "systematic and vicious" campaign, to "destroy him." The proceedings were just a "gimmick and drama" the like of which has never been seen in the history of the subcontinent, he said.

At this stage the feeling in the well of the court, and confirmed by one of his nine lawyers in a brief conversation, was that the judge would deny the application for bail.

Here's Johnny! brews lawsuit

DETROIT (AP) — Lawyers for Johnny Carson want a Utica, Mich., toilet maker to stop talking about the television star's $1.2 million suit over a line of "Here's Johnny!" portable toilets.

The attorneys contend Earl J. Braxton, owner of Porta-John Corp., is using the lawsuit to gain publicity.

Carson's lawyers asked U.S. District Court Judge James Churchill Thursday to bar Braxton from talking to reporters about the "Tonight" show host's suit.

Carson sued Braxton last January after he brought out a line of portable toilets called "Here's Johnny!" That is the phrase used by announcer Ed McMahon to introduce Carson on the TV show, and the suit charges trademark infringements.

Pay increase decision due soon

By MIKE CAUSEY
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Look for a White House announcement soon, maybe by Monday, on the exact size and price tag for the military and federal civilian pay raise due Oct. 1.

The last phase of complicated government pay-setting was completed Friday when President Carter discusses the raise with a task force composed of private industry pay experts.

Most people expect the President will authorize an across-the-board federal-military pay hike of 7.05 per cent. That would cost $3.5 billion and go to nearly all white collar federal workers and military personnel, including more than 360,000 in the metro Washington area. But it isn't official yet and won't be until the President himself sets the amount.

The 7.05 per cent figure was recommended by the President's pay agents — the Office of Management and Budget and the Civil Service Commission — as the amount necessary to bring most federal pay rates up to par with their counterparts in industry. But it is not official until the President says it is. He could still raise or lower the amount, if he thinks "comparability" with industry dictates a different figure.

Under the complicated federal-military pay law, the President decides the amount of each October's catch-up-industry raise. He makes that decision based on private wage data collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. That data is used by three legally constituted groups (the CSC, OMB pay agents are the most important) who advise the President on pay.

CSC-OMB has suggested 7.05 per cent. A panel of federal union leaders asked for 8.8 per cent. The third group, a blue ribbon advisory panel made up of private industry pay experts, has made its report to the President.

Most government pay experts believe Carter will go with the 7.05 per cent raise. But they point out that he couldn't very well announce his decision until he gave the industry advisory group the courtesy of a face-to-face meeting to explain their proposals.

The betting is on 7.05 per cent. But don't count on it until the President himself says it, and issues an executive order putting the raises into effect.

The increases — whatever the amount — will be effective Oct. 1.

LULACs displeased

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Leaders of a Mexican-American organization said today they are disenchanted with President Carter and predicted possible demonstrations and violence if the Justice Department fails to investigate killings of Spanish-speaking persons allegedly by police.

Corpus Christi lawyer Ruben Bonilla, state director of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC), said Carter has pushed for human rights worldwide, but "has ignored the human rights of Mexican-Americans."

"The Mexican-American in Texas has no human rights," Bonilla said at a news conference.

Joining him were Reps. Paul Moreno, D-El Paso; Arnold Gonzalez, D-Corpus Christi; Ray Ramirez, state executive officer of LULAC; and Ruben Sandoval, a San Antonio lawyer and advisor to LULAC.

Sandoval faulted the Justice Department for not filing civil rights charges against Houston police officers who allegedly drowned Joe Campos Torres and for not investigating the death in the Sierra Blanca jail of Juan Zuniga of Odessa.

He said the change of venue to Huntsville of the trial of the policeman charged in Campos Torres' death virtually guaranteed that a murder conviction would not be returned since Huntsville is the state's center of law enforcement.

Major buyers slash October nominations

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Major oil buyers have asked the Texas Railroad Commission for authority to purchase 3,049,283 barrels a day in October, with an additional demand of 767,668 barrels daily for a total of 3,816,951.

This is a decrease of 101,867 barrels a day from the September total.

The commission reported Friday the average calendar day allowable on Texas oil production as of Thursday totalled 3,580,886 barrels.

Estimated actual production this month is about 3,022,000 barrels daily, compared with an actual production of 3,137,401 barrels in the same month last year.

Billy Carter beer coming

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — President Carter will probably have streets and other public projects named after him, but his younger brother Billy has already had his name given to an appropriate item.

The well known lover of hops appeared at a news conference Friday to announce that Falls City Brewing Co. will market a beer named after him.

It will be called "BILLY" and the top of the label will carry this endorsement: "Brewed especially for and with the approval of one of America's all-time great beer drinkers, Billy Carter."

Current plans call for the beer to be introduced in Carter's home state, Georgia, then be distributed nationally by Nov. 1.

Asked if he was sending a sample to the White House, Carter grinned and replied: "No, but if I go there I will take some with me."

Carter told newsmen he'd always wanted "to own a beer joint and I got one. But I never realized I'd be associated with the production end of it."

He said he will travel around the country, "as my time permits," to promote the new product but he declined to say what his financial arrangements are with Falls City.

"For me, the beer thing was a natural, 'cause I know a good beer better than anybody," he said. "Who knows? Maybe I'll become the Colonel Sanders of beer."

Senate votes in favor of pregnancy benefits

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Friday to require employers to include pregnancy benefits in any workers' disability plans they offer.

The legislation, if enacted by the House, would overcome the effects of a controversial Supreme Court ruling. The bill is being championed by various women's groups.

The Senate vote was 75 to 11. A similar measure currently is awaiting floor action in the House.

Employers who offer disability benefits also would have to offer them to cover pregnancies and pregnancy-related disabilities under the proposed amendment to the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Before approving the bill, the Senate on a 44-41 vote rejected an amendment by Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., that would have prohibited abortions from being considered a pregnancy related medical expense that could be covered by such plans.

Eagleton said that even though the bill does not spell out that abortions would have to be covered in such plans, "I fear that the bill's language... could be construed to mean that all employers would be forced to pay out disability benefits for abortions."

The bill would legislatively overturn the effects of a December 1976 Supreme Court ruling that held company disability plans do not have to provide pregnancy or child-birth benefits.

It would amend the 1964 Civil Rights Act to prohibit sex discrimination in disability plans on the basis of pregnancy.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams, DN J., the prime sponsor of the bill, said the legislation would offer important protection to the 36 million women in the nation's labor force.

Women workers would be guaranteed maternity leave and re-employment rights under the bill as long as they work for employers who have disability programs covering other medical disabilities.

In its decision, the Supreme Court said that plans not offering pregnancy benefits do not, of themselves, discriminate against women.

The court upheld 6 to 3 a disability plan by the General Electric CO. WHICH FAILED TO PROVIDE BENEFITS FOR PREGNANT WOMEN. The court's majority said that even though only women become pregnant, failing to offer pregnancy benefits is not sex discrimination.

This ruling reversed a number of lower court decisions and overturned 1972 guidelines by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission that had required employers to treat pregnancy like any other temporary disability.

The court upheld 6 to 3 a disability plan by the General Electric CO. WHICH FAILED TO PROVIDE BENEFITS FOR PREGNANT WOMEN. The court's majority said that even though only women become pregnant, failing to offer pregnancy benefits is not sex discrimination.

Utility officials say power shortage ahead

By MARTIN MERZER

NEW YORK (AP) — Planned neighborhood blackouts or government-imposed restrictions on the use of electricity are almost certain as early as 1979, utility officials said Friday.

Government officials agreed that a power shortage is coming, but said it might not require such restrictions quite that soon.

"This is a critical situation," said Larry Frech, a researcher for the Edison Electric Institute, a utility group that collects statistics on electricity usage and reliability. "Other energy matters are getting a lot of attention, but this is going to be one of the biggest problems."

The Edison Institute has been warning for several months that electricity reserves would fall below the level considered prudent in the near future. And this week, the National Electric Reliability Council — a group formed in 1968 by U.S. power companies after the Northeast blackout of 1965 — released the most pessimistic report to date.

The council's report cites governmental and environmental objections to the locations and designs of power plants, "lack of timely and adequate rate relief" and confusion over which fuel federal officials prefer for use by power companies.

"The continuation of these restraints will surely result in forced curtailments of electric power starting as early as 1979 and increasing in severity in the period beyond," the report said.

The curtailments would include blackouts rotated by neighborhood, reduced voltage throughout a power system and possibly government-ordered conservation measures. The council and federal officials said.

The council said the consequences of the curtailments would be: "Adverse changes in lifestyle of the American people; an era of an energy-limited economy for the United States; threats to the health and welfare of all citizens."

Norton Savage, chief of power supply and reporting for the Federal Power Commission, said the FPC agrees with the industry report.

"The only real difference between us and them is that they see problems beginning in 1979," Savage said. "We don't see any problems until 1981. And by 1986, if some nuclear generating units don't come into service as planned, there will be much bigger problems."

"If, by 1986, we don't get either the needed nuclear power or coal-fired capacity or something, we'll have problems meeting electric demand. There'll be blackouts and other reductions in service."

Blaze damages stores

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — A blaze of undetermined origin destroyed two of Ardmore's largest department stores and damaged two more late Thursday and early Friday.

Firefighters said the blaze began in an upstairs office of the J.C. Penney store. When the first units arrived after the 11 p.m. alarm, they found much of the building in flames.

The fire spread to the adjacent Fine Family Clothing store.

Preliminary damage estimates placed the loss at about $300,000 and at close to $100,000 at the clothing store. Total losses are expected to exceed $500,000 for both businesses, an official said.

The Woolworth Department Store immediately to the west of the burned-out buildings and L.O. Hammons Men's store on the east side suffered smoke and water damage.

Firefighters feared for a time the four-alarm fire might spread to the Ardmore Civic Auditorium, but that building escaped damage.

Four firemen received cuts and bruises when a wall collapsed, blowing them out of one of the gutted buildings. None was seriously injured.

Plainview holds off Lee Rebels, 21-14

Jamie is on the move again. Plainview quarterback Jamie McCallister finds a hole in the Lee line, and rips off a big gain during the Bulldogs third quarter scoring drive, which broke open a 14-14 game. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

By PAUL DOMOWITZ

"I didn't really know what it was all about," explained Plainview coach George Kirk, "and to tell you the truth, I didn't really care. I'm sure not one to look a gift horse in the mouth."

That "gift horse," which came compliments of the Lee High football team, was an illegal substitution penalty by the Rebels midway through the third quarter, which kept a Plainview drive alive and allowed Kirk's "Baby Brigade" to cash it in for a tie-breaking touchdown and upset the Rebels Friday night at Memorial Stadium, 21-14.

Faced with a fourth and eight situation near midfield, with just under six minutes left in the third period, Plainview punted the ball away. But Lee was caught with 12 men on the field, and were penalized 15 yards which gave the Bulldogs an important first down and opened the door for their winning score.

Nine plays after the infraction, Plainview fullback Royce Coleman went over from one yard out to give his team a 20-14 lead. The point after by Ralph Hayes made it 21-14, which turned out to be the final score.

Lee didn't go down without a fight, however. But it was Plainview, with its sophomore and junior-loaded lineup that came up with the KO in the final round.

With 6:12 left in the game, the Rebels took over on their own 11, and marched 88 yards downfield. Unfortunately, a touchdown would have taken 89. Lee had four cracks at a score from inside the five in the final minute of play, only to be stopped cold by what Kirk called "the greatest goal line stand I have ever seen."

Kirk may be just a bit biased, but it was impressive. Lee's big 208-pound fullback Jeff McCowan tried to bull his way over not once, not twice, but three times, and quarterback Todd Clements even used the old sneak play, but they couldn't make it count. The end came with just under 40 seconds left in the game when Arnold Pardo stopped McCowan inches short of the goal on fourth down.

Plainview's offense, which had been declared legally dead a week ago against Amarillo Tascosa, came to life in Memorial Stadium, racking up 207 net yards — all but seven of it coming on the ground — and took advantage of every break Lee gave them.

And there were more than one. A fumble by Rebel flanker Mark McHugh on his own 11-yard line with just 1:46 left in the first half, set up Plainview's second score of the game. Four plays after the fumble, quarterback Jamie McCallister squeezed his way over from the one foot line. The PAT tied the game at the half, 14-14, and that's the way it stayed until the Bulldogs struck gold.

McCallister, the only senior on Plainview's starting offensive team, cut through the Lee defense like a master surgeon in the final half to pull off the upset.

Plainview scored first on their initial possession, when speedy halfback Billy Williams turned the left corner and sprinted 52 yards for a touchdown.

But the Rebels came right back on their next possession, and marched 67 yards on 10 plays with McCowan bullying over from one yard away. McCowan's kick tied the contest.

Lee got a big break late in the first quarter, when McHugh, who was playing in the defensive backfield as well, picked off a McCallister aerial — one of only three he threw all night.

The Rebels took over on their own 32, and eight plays later, halfback Marvin Iglehart cleared the right corner and turned up for a 21 yard score. McCowan's kick gave Lee a 14-7 lead at the time.

REBEL RAMBLINGS: The Lee band entertained at halftime as the majorettes, Flag Corp and Rebel Rifle Corp were featured during selections from the movie "Rocky."

Monterey sacks Pack, 19-0

By BOB DILLON R-T Sports Writer

LUBBOCK—Quarterback Ron Reeves rushed and passed the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen past the Midland Bulldogs, 19-0, Friday night in Lowery Field.

The 6-3, 205-pound senior, rushed for 78 yards and hit seven of 21 passes for 110 yards in an impressive showing.

It was another frustrating showing for Coach Jerry Hopkins team which is now 0-2-1 on the year compared to Monterey's 2-0-1 record.

Midland rests this next week before taking on state power, Odessa Permian in its District 5-4A opener in Midland's Memorial Stadium.

The Monterey defense was just too tough to crack for the Purple Pack.

Midland only had nine first downs for the evening compared to 18 for the Plainsmen.

While Reeves was the whole show for Monterey, junior halfback Walter Bryson led the Midland ground attack with 66 yards in 11 carries.

JEFF HARPER added to the Plainsmen attack with 63 yards in 13 carries as Monterey wound up with 172 yards rushing and an additional 110 yards passing for a total offense of 282 yards.

Midland had exactly 202 yards total with 101 rushing and 101 passing. The Bulldogs lost two fumble and had two passes intercepted.

Halfback Alvin Price fired a long pass down field to split end David Isby, who had gotten behind the Monterey safety, but Isby dropped the pass.

IT WAS a study of frustration for both teams in the opening period with neither able to score.

The Plainsmen later picked off a Doug Atnipp pass on their own 41 when Mike Wooten came up with the interception.

Reeves hit Erick Voyles with a 12-yard pass and the Plainsmen started to mound a drive which started at their own 41 and wound up at the Midland 28 where Brian Booker, Bryan Hixon and Steve Cole made great defensive plays for the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs came alive and moved down the field with Bryson breaking on a 26-yard scamper, thanks to a great clearing block by fullback Brentley Jackson. The run moved the pigskin to the Monterey 32 as the first period came to an end.

Price and Jackson took turns carrying the mail and the Purple Pack got all the way down to the Plainsmen 12 where Jackson fumbled with Phil Bruedigam pounced on the loose ball for Monterey.

MONTEREY THEN marched 91 yards in 10 plays to score. Reeves gained seven, 11 and eight yards and hit Dudley McMinn with a key 36-yard pass down the middle. The pass moved the ball to the Midland four and in two plays, Reeves banged over from the one.

The try for the extra point by Bruedigam was wide to the left, making it 6-0 with 5:59 left in the first half of play.

Midland was unable to move the ball with Tracy Gann getting off a 31-yard punt.

Monterey moved from its own 38 down field where with 17 seconds left on the clock, Bruedigam booted a 28-yard field goal for a 9-0 halftime lead.

Reeves connected on passes of 21 and 19 yards in the drive. Isby saved a sure TD for Midland when he knocked down a Reeves pass in the end zone.

Bruedigam added a 35-yard field goal for Monterey in the third period and the Plainsmen scored another touchdown on a six-yard pass from Reeves to Voyles. Bruedigam's PAT was true, making it 19-0 with 31 seconds left in the third period.

Midland threatened late in the same when Gann hit Isby with a 37-yard pass to the Monterey six, but the Plainsmen held. Price dropped a sure TD pass from Gann when he was spotted wide open on third down, but a halfback pass attempt from Price to Isby was also broken upon fourth down.

Standouts for the Bulldogs on defense were Ricky Goode, Isby, Hixon, Bryson and Booker.

Badgers shock Stanton, 20-13

By TERRY WILLIAMSON R-T Sports Writer

MCCAMEY—There were probably those here Friday night that were ready to give the Stanton Buffaloes a TKO victory over the McCamey Badgers after the first play from scrimmage, but pure "scrap" never had more meaning.

The Badgers gave up a 45-yard touchdown run to Stanton's fabulous Marvin Jones on the first play of the game, and it appeared that the awesome Buffs were on their way to their third straight victory and a high state ranking.

So much for the first play. The Badgers stormed backed to win 20-13, and pull off what could be the biggest upset in area circles this year. And they did it with a lineup that looks like it had been in the Weight Watchers program for life.

"WE DON'T have any size or speed," commented elated winning coach Ronnie Page after the stunning upset on homecoming night. "These kids won only one game last year, and they don't possess the talent that some other teams have, but they don't give up. We may lose, but they sure don't give up. I don't think I've ever been prouder of a team. You can't take anything away from Stanton, they have a fine team, but our kids just didn't know how to quit."

Jones, the area's leading scorer with 8 TDs this year, got the Buffs rolling early with a sweep that found resistance, but not enough to stop him from the goal 45 yards later. Kendall Blocker added the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 11:36 still to play in the first period, and the Buffs were living up to their press clippings.

BUT THEN the surprising Badgers, who had only one player over 200 pounds, put on a football show that left the Buffs limp.

Defensively ends Don Trowbridge and David Martinez were superb. Stanton just could not get their powerful running game outside, and the Badgers held Marvin Jones to 97 yards rushing. Jones was injured in the fourth period and the bad knee could end his season and the Buffs.

The Badgers also got a great deal of help offensively, but quarterback Bobby Acosta has to be the greatest key.

ACOSTA RUSHED for 61 yards, completed two passes for 26 yards and scored twice. But his flawless option pitches to running backs Lenny Luna and Bobby Valdez with Stanton defenders draped all over him was probably the difference. Time after time he made pitches just as he was hit and he never misfired once. It was a sterling performance.

Luna picked up 90 yards for the Badgers and Valdez added 82 steps in the three pronged attack. Luna brought the Badgers back to 7-6 in the first period with a four-yard run after Stanton had set the Badgers up with a minus eight yard punt at the 24 yard line.

Acosta gave the Badgers the lead in the second period with a 20-yard touchdown run—that was just pure determination. He had to break four tackles to get in. Luna ran for two, ACOSTA CAPPED a 72-yard scoring drive with a one-yard plunge in the third period, and that drive was the key to the game since they used up all but 3:13 of the third period clock and led 20-7.

Stanton showed a lot of character in the fourth period to score with 17 seconds left and the game already out of reach. Quarterback Tommy Morrow completed six of his 10 passes during the drive for a 63-yard march. Fullback Bob Jones, who had 57 yards rushing, got the final one yard for the score.

Jal downs Red Devils

RANKIN — A game Jal, N.M., team parlayed 273 yard rushing into 23 second-half points Friday to end an 11-regular season game winning streak by Rankin.

With the 23-0 setback on home ground, the District 6-A Red Devils are now 2-1 for the season. Quarterback Ricky Jennings, who plagued the Rankin defense all evening in gaining 157 yards on 20 carries, broke open the struggle by romping 42 yards for a touchdown with 10:32 in the third quarter. James Raney banged through the PAT.

Jenning struck again minutes later with a 10-yard run, followed by another Raney extra kick.

Another Raney, Kenneth, a halfback, scored the last Jal touchdown on a four-yard blast with 3:44 left in the game. A 33-yard field goal by James Raney with 36 seconds ended the whitewash.

Bobcats score wild 35-29 win

SAN ANGELO — Danny Abbott passed three yards to Mike McLaughlin with 42 seconds left to play to give San Angelo a 35-29 victory over San Antonio Roosevelt in a wild scoring orgy here Friday night.

It was the second win in three predistrict starts for the Bobcats.

Carl Brainard, who converted five extra points, opened the scoring with a 30-yard return of the opening kickoff for San Angelo.

Mike Johnston's two-yard run put San Antonio on the board and from there on, touchdowns flowed like water.

Rickie Ware's 16-yard run with 10:38 left in the game put San Antonio, Roosevelt in the lead, and 29-28, and set the stage for Abbott's game winning pass in the final minute.

COOPER holds off Killeen

ABILENE — Abilene Cooper held off Killeen in the final quarter Friday night to beat the Kangaroos, 17-13 here at Shotwell Stadium.

It was the first loss in three outings for Killeen, who were the ninth-ranked team in the state going in, while Cooper picked up their first victory.

The Cougars put together 10 points in the third quarter on a 35 yard field goal by Pete Smith and a 43-yard Tracey Thomas to Rickey Tompson touchdown pass to pull off the upset.

Odessa demoralizes Hobbs Eagles, 54-6

ODESSA — Brian Cantrell romped for scoring runs of 11, 43 and 54 yards Friday night to lead Odessa High to a one-sided 54-6 victory over Hobbs, N.M., at W.T. Barrett Stadium.

The Bronchoes piled up 415 net yards against the Eagles, with Cantrell having a field day, gaining 114 yards on just six carries.

Cantrell's backfield mate, Larry Jones, joined in the multiple touchdown parade, scoring twice on runs of seven and 11 yards.

Odessa piled up 22 points in the first period and never looked back. Hobbs, which was hampered by 11 penalties totaling 125 yards, didn't score until the fourth quarter when they finally pushed across six points.
