Energy tax bill approved, but it isn't Carter's

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee approved a patchwork energy tax bill Friday, rejecting virtually all of President Carter's recommendations.

Backers of the measure approved by the committee say it goes about halfway toward meeting the goals set out by Carter without imposing the stiff new taxes the President had sought.

Although the legislation rejects Carter's proposals, action by the full Senate and later by a Senate-House conference committee probably will lead to major alterations. The energy package finally approved by Congress could meet fully the President's goal of sharply reducing oil imports by 1985.

The bill approved by the Finance Committee would rely on $32 billion worth of tax breaks over the next eight years to encourage conservation and provide the energy industry added incentive for increasing production and developing new energy sources.

It would reduce oil and natural-gas consumption by the equivalent of 2.2 million barrels per day by 1985, its backers say. The House bill, relying mainly on Carter's proposed taxes to force conservation, would save an estimated 1.7 million to 2.5 million barrels a day.

Carter's entire energy program, including taxes, a restructuring of utility rates and other nontax provisions, was aimed at reducing oil consumption by 4.7 million barrels a day. Current U.S. consumption is 18 million barrels daily.

The Finance Committee approved its version Friday on an 11-6 vote. Republicans Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and John C. Danforth of Missouri joined nine Democrats in favoring the bill. Democrat Floyd Haskell of Colorado, independent Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and four Republicans voted no.

The committee will take a final, formal vote on the bill late next week after the technical language is approved and aides prepare a lengthy explanation of the dozens of provisions. Debate on the Senate floor could begin about Oct. 25.

Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the committee, praised the bill as a sensible compromise that will not only reduce U.S. dependence on imported energy but fight unemployment as well. In fact, he said, "this bill has more potential for jobs than any single program we've talked about in this Congress."

"It has the potential for solving the whole unemployment problem," he

Recruits may train in Midland

AUSTIN — New recruits for police departments in the Permian Basin will receive training at the Permian Basin Law Enforcement Academy, 310 N. Colorado St. in Midland, if a recommended criminal justice grant is approved by Gov. Dolph Briscoe Nov. 1.

The Governor's Office distributes the grant money, made up of federal funds available for fiscal 1978 through the Law Enforcement Administration Act.

Gov. Briscoe is expected to approve the grant recommendations made Friday by his Criminal Justice Division.

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission requested the $27,100 grant for contracting with the Academy for recruit training.

The grant proposal notes that the region covers 17 county sheriff's offices and 14 city police departments employing 500 officers. Turnover rates range from 7 to 25 per cent, making it difficult for small departments to meet the six-month training deadline for new recruits set by the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education, the proposal states.

Only a few area departments provide their own basic training, a deficiency the contract with Midland would correct, the proposal says.

Heart attack claims Bing Crosby

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Bing Crosby, whose crooning voice and relaxed humor entertained millions around the world for half a century, died of a heart attack Friday after a round of golf outside Madrid. He was 73.

Crosby, an avid golfer, collapsed after finishing a game at the La Moraleja club with three Spanish champions. He was taken to the Red Cross hospital where a spokesman said he was dead on arrival.

A few hours after learning of her husband's death, Kathryn Crosby told a news conference in Hillsborough, Calif., "I can't think of any better way for a golfer who sings for a living to finish the round."

She said his son Harry, 19, and the family's former butler, Alan Fisher, would fly to Spain to accompany Crosby's body back to Los Angeles, probably on Monday.

U.S. consular officials said Crosby's body would be taken Saturday to the U.S. air base at Torrejon, outside Madrid. They said an American mortician was being flown in to prepare the remains for return to the United States.

Officials said an autopsy will be performed.

Mrs. Crosby said she talked by phone with one of the men who had played golf with Crosby. "He told me that Bing had a very good round. I'd like that to be said," she stated, smiling with tears in her eyes.

Crosby carded 85 and won the game by one stroke because of his golf handicap, professional golfer Juan Tomas Gandarias told newsmen.

Gandarias, who lunched with Crosby before the game and walked with him around the course, said the singer was relaxed and joking as he left the 18th hole.

"Suddenly he dropped. Before that he had given no sign of illness although he seemed to be favoring his left arm near the end of the game," Gandarias said Crosby was about 20 yards from the clubhouse when he fell.

Crosby was rushed first to the clubhouse infirmary where a doctor gave him an injection and a pill. Gandarias quoted the doctor as saying Crosby suffered "a massive heart attack."

The singer, actor and businessman had come to Spain primarily for relaxation after a tour of Britain which he described as a test of his recovery from a back injury he suffered in a fall earlier this year. The accident occurred while Crosby was taping a television show to celebrate his 50th year in show business.

The brown-haired, blue-eyed Crosby was known variously as "Der Bingle," "Old Dad" and "The Groaner" — tags stuck on him by his long-time friend and verbal sparring partner, Bob Hope.

Hope, in New York, said of the news: "I still don't believe it. I'm absolutely numb—I saw him a couple

U.S. defense of canal agreed

By RICHARDE MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos, trying to dispel questions about the new Panama Canal treaty, agreed Friday the United States can defend the waterway against any threat and send its warships through it ahead of others in any crisis.

But they also agreed in a joint statement that the treaty allows the United States to direct its actions only toward insuring that the canal remain open and "never against the territorial integrity or political independence of Panama."

Carter said he thought the statement resolved "the major differences of interpretation" that threaten Senate ratification of the treaty. His negotiator, Ambassador Sol Linowitz, told reporters he showed the statement to Senate leaders and "the reaction was very favorable. I'm pleased to say."

As Torrijos left the White House, he told reporters through an interpreter: "If a great power attacks the canal or puts in danger the canal it is the right of the United States (to) go and defend the canal."

However, he added: "The U.S. participates in defending the canal, but the United States has no right to intervene or interfere in the internal affairs of Panama."

"No moral leader of the world would sign a receipt allowing a foreign country to intervene in its country," Torrijos said. "If he would sign (such) a treaty, don't trust him because there must be something wrong with him."

"Intervention is as bad a word here as it is in my country," Torrijos declared.

The President told a group of visiting newspaper editors and broadcast news directors from around the country:

"I think his (Torrijos's) and my statement... will successfully resolve the major differences of interpretation that have been raised about our right to defend the canal and also about the right of our ships to have expeditious passage through the canal."

Carter also said the United States has "no intention to intervene in Panama," citing Panama's own sovereignty as a nation.

The President made his statements after meeting with Torrijos for more than 90 minutes. The Panamanian general stopped at the White House on his way home from a trip to Europe and the Middle East. His meeting with Carter had been scheduled to last only an hour.

Carter has acknowledged that Senate ratification of the pact is in doubt. It is opposed by foreign-policy conservatives who question its adequacy to guarantee that the United States can defend the neutrality of the canal after yielding control to the Panamanians after the year 2000.

A Panamanian plebiscite on the pact is nine days away. At issue in that nation is whether the treaty is adequate to prevent U.S. intervention in Panama.

Man not giving up on effort to farm shrimp

MONAHANS—Johnny Harrison is trying, really trying, to farm Gulf Coast saltwater shrimp in West Texas brine water.

He's not having much luck, but he's a diehard. He's not cashing in his chips yet, although the vast majority of the shrimp keeps seeming to die on him.

"It's still in the investigative stages," said Harrison, who has been worrying with this shrimp thing for about four years. "Our production was not really anything to brag about."

The yield this past season was about 10 percent. But that's not discouraging Harrison, who has been the Ward County agriculture agent since 1953.

After all, those survivors grew from three millimeters in length to 150 millimeters (almost six inches) in 115 days.

"This is phenomenal growth," he said of the plus side of his venture. But he's losing too many of those slender shellfish.

Applying for $230,000 in funds considered

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Midland County commissioners Friday met informally to discuss possibilities of applying for $230,000 in additional Community Development funds.

The funds became available when the Midland city council elected not to comply with Housing and Urban Development rules for the funding application.

At the Friday meeting, the commissioners court met with J. C. Hayes of the Dallas HUD office.

Purpose of the meeting, County Judge Barbara Culver said, was for the commissioners to visit with Hayes.

No action was taken. The commissioners discussed the possibilities of filing for the additional money.

(Hayes) said everything (at HUD) was all shook up because they've got some new directors and there's going to be quite a change in operation," Commissioner Durward Wright said.

Opinion was divided among the commissioners on the advisability of applying for $250,000, rather than the $20,000 the court already is seeking from Community Development funds for 1977.

"I'm going to go for accepting the money and trying to help the people," Commissioner Jack Leonard said after the meeting.

Commissioner Charlie Welch said he believes the additional money would be "beneficial to the community. It won't change any of our obligations as far as housing programs are concerned to have the $250,000 rather than the $20,000 we have applied for."

Commissioner Win Brown, however, said he opposes taking additional money. "Dang, they don't care what they do with the taxpayers dollars, just so long as they can spend it or it gets spent," he said.

Brown said applying for more than the $20,000 presently under application would be "compounding an already intolerable situation."

Commissioner Durward Wright said he really hasn't formed an opinion about applying for additional

Torres family files federal suit

HOUSTON (AP) — The family of Joe Campos Torres filed a $2.5 million federal court suit Friday against the City of Houston, the police department, five former officers and a rookie patrolman.

The suit alleges the defendants caused the death of Torres, 23, through inadequate police training.

The body of Torres was recovered May 8 from Buffalo Bayou, three days after he had been arrested in a bar disturbance.

Two former officers, Terry W. Denson, 27, and Stephen Orlando, 21, were found guilty of criminally negligent homicide and received probation, jail and fine sentences. The state had charged them with murder.

Percy Foreman, attorney for the Torres family, submitted a damage claim to the City Council last month.

The council rejected the claim, opening the way for the lawsuit.

In addition to the parents, the plaintiffs include three brothers, four sisters, and the administrator of the Joe Campos Torres estate.

When asked the value of the estate, Foreman said "I think it consists of a few uniforms and medals."

In addition to Denson and Orlando, the former officers named as defendants are Joseph Janish, 22, who was indicted on a charge of misdemeanor assault, and Louis G. Kinney, 27, and Brinkmeyer, 25, who have been granted immunity from state prosecution in exchange for their testimony. All five were fired after police officials completed an internal investigation of the Torres case.

Also named as a defendant was Carless Elliott, 20, a rookie patrolman who set off the internal investigation by reporting the situation to superiors. Elliott was suspended from duty with pay but returned to duty in late June.

The suit alleges the officers treated Torres in a "brutal and gestic-like" manner and that the city failed to provide "proper safeguard measures and supervisory personnel in the instruction and training of officers."

Meanwhile, a group of ministers of Spanish-speaking churches asked Mexican-Americans to listen only to established local community leaders in discussing the Torres case.

"There have been allegations outside agitators are trying to stir up violence in the community," said the Rev. James L. Navarro, co-chairman of the newly formed United Clergy of Houston.

"If this is true, we want to help our people use discretion in their choice of who they listen to and what meetings they attend. We want to help them recognize established leadership here."

Groups named by United Clergy as "established leaders" include La Raza Unida, the League of United Latin American Citizens, Spanish Speaking Ministerial Alliance, Gulf Coast Community Service Association, Coalition for Responsible Law Enforcement, Catholic Council on Community Relations, Mexican-American Education Council, Metropolitan Ministries, and the Political Association of Spanish Speaking Organizations.

Man not giving up on effort to farm shrimp

there's something wrong," Harrison said of his method of farming shrimp. "I've losing about 90 percent of what I'm putting in. That 10 percent (liveability) lets you know there's something right."

Harrison's experiment with white shrimp from the Galveston Bay has been going on in four quarter-acre ponds along the Pecos River about 25 miles south of Monahans. The experiment, if eventually successful, may be the forerunner of commercial shrimp farming in West Texas.

The ponds are fed by underground saltwater that flows about 7 1/2 feet deep along the Pecos River. It has about one-third of the salinity of coastal sea water. But that's not the problem, said Harrison, who doesn't exactly know what the problem is.

He's working toward a solution when time allows.

"As county agent, I have a lot of other things to do," he said.

And he has much more to learn about the wriggling shrimp. He could also use some sound advice.

"To be honest about it," Harrison said, "I'm not a wildlife biologist. He said he does 'need some help in looking for an answer' to the shrimp problem.

As in the past, any help may be coming by way of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, which helped Harrison get into experimental shrimp farming in the first place.

The service provides Harrison with those wiggling baby post-larval shrimp, and has them flown clear out to West Texas for a new life, however brief, in West Texas brine water.

County's effluent request rejected

Midland County's application for a rehearing on a City of Odessa request to dump additional effluent down Monahans Draw has been rejected by the Texas Water Resources Board, County Commissioner Win Brown said Friday.

But, Brown said, he believes the rejection is only "temporary."

The reason given for the rejection was that the request for a rehearing was not filed within 15 days. Brown said notice of the pending request was filed within 15 days.

Also, he added, under the law which created the Water Resources Board, the county had 30 days in which to file its request.

Brown said he is currently looking into the procedures for getting the decision reversed and obtaining a rehearing.

The City of Odessa presently has a permit to dump up to five million gallons of treated effluent down Monahans draw daily.

Its new permit, granted by the Texas Water Quality Board on the last day of its existence as a separate agency, gives the city permission to build a new treatment plant in Midland County and dump up to five million additional gallons of effluent down the draw daily.

Commissioners consider applying for $230,000 money "because things are so vague."

Welch and Wright said they expect the issue to appear on the agenda for the commissioners Oct. 24 meeting. But Brown said he does not think it will be discussed at the meeting.

"I doubt if it will ever be discussed in an open meeting," Brown said.

The commissioners said they have been told they need to notify HUD soon if they intend to apply for the additional funding.

However, Leo Garrett, area director of Community Development for HUD, said Friday the commissioners have about five to five-and-a-half months to make application.

"These are reallocated funds and they must be applied for within six months of the time they come available," Garrett said. He said if his office would like to know the county's intentions soon "if they're not going to take them (the funds), we want to give them to somebody else," he said.

Committee OKs energy tax bill added, referring to incentives aimed at increasing activity in the oil industry, whose benefits would trickle through other segments of the economy.

Republicans were not so sure. Sen. Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., said he voted against the bill because it contains few incentives for increased energy production. Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., said the measure falls short by failing to reduce "our terrifying dependence on foreign oil."

The only tax provision in the Senate bill is routine extension of the current four-cent-per-gallon tax on gasoline. The committee voted, as did the full House, to extend the tax through Oct. 1, 1985, otherwise it would revert to 1.5 cents next October. The tax will cost drivers about $21.2 billion between now and 1985.

Also at Friday's meeting, the commissioners discussed with Hayes the possibilities of getting an extension on the deadline for committing 1978 Community Development funds.

The commissioners court had planned to spend the $40,000 in 1976 funds, along with the $20,000 expected for 1977, to partially defray expenses in building a rehabilitation counseling center.

However, construction bids for the project ran over the amount of money available from Community Development and privately solicited funds.

Hayes told the commissioners he would attempt to help them get an extension on that deadline. Garrett said such an extension probably would be granted.

'Crooner' dies of heart attack of months ago and he seemed fine... I can't understand what happened."

Crosby made more than a score of records which sold more than one million each. The most widely known hits included "Silent Night" — his alltime best seller, "White Christmas," "When the Blue of the Night Meets the Gold of the Day" — his radio theme song. It was often said during his heyday in the 1930s and 40s that at any time, somewhere in the world, his rich baritone could be heard on a radio, phonograph or jukebox.

For many years, Crosby was credited with selling more records than any singer in history. He was overtaken in the 1950s, however, by Elvis Presley, who also died recently.

Crosby seemed to be at home in almost every medium. He made more than 70 films and won an Oscar as best actor in 1944 for "Going My Way," in which he played a priest. His screen credits ranged from the "Road" comedies with Hope and Dorothy Lamour to "The Country Girl" in which he played an alcoholic and to the rollicking "High Society."

Hope said Friday that he and Crosby had just "resolved all the contract deals" for a new "Road" picture with Miss Lamour, "The Road to the Fountain of Youth."

Trudy Berger, the cook at the Crosby home in Hillsborough, Calif., said Friday, "He had been feeling fine — we were expecting him back in a day or two."

She said the only family member at home was Crosby's youngest son, Nathaniel, 14. "We just picked him up from school. He's very distressed naturally. They were all very attached to their father," she said.

Crosby's 17-year-old daughter, Mary Frances, was rehearsing for a part in Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" at the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco and immediately headed for home after word of the death reached her.

Kathryn Crosby, who married the singer in 1957, five years after the death of his first wife, arrived at the family home about 2 p.m. PDT and drove slowly up the short incline leading to the estate. Her eyes were red and her face wet with tears. She was followed to the gate by a police car.

Crosby had four sons by his first wife and a daughter and two sons by his second wife, who at 23 was 30 years his junior when he married her.

Crosby was playing golf with Spanish champions Manuel Pinero, Valentin Barrios and Cesar de Zulueta when he collapsed. He had been planning to join a partridge hunt on Saturday and also intended to play golf on the Spanish island of Majorca.

Talking with a group of journalists in the clubhouse before Friday's match, Crosby seemed to be in a holiday mood. He reminisced freely about his lengthy show business experience and said the movie "High Society" in which he starred with Frank Sinatra, Grace Kelly and Louis Armstrong, was "the most satisfying one in my career."

Like Hope, other old friends reacted with surprise and sorrow at the news of Crosby's death. "It's a terrible shock to me," said comedian George Burns. "He was one of the greatest. He made it possible for a lot of new singers by introducing a new style. The world is going to miss him."

Sinatra said, "The death of Bing Crosby is almost more than my career. The idol of my youth and a dear friend of my maturity. Bing leaves a gaping hole in our music and in the lives of everybody who ever loved him. And that's just about everybody."

Crosby was a millionaire many times over, but he refused to retire, saying, "I'll go on singing... as long as I'm asked."

DEATHS

Mrs. Lena Beard

Mrs. Lena Beard, 81, of 615 W. Cuthbert died early Friday morning in her home after a lengthy illness.

Is Pleased To Announce Two Special Awards For Its Newspaper Carriers:

OUTSTANDING CARRIER OF THE YEAR*

$100.00 Bond

CARRIER OF THE MONTH AWARD*

$25.00 Bond

The first Carrier Of The Month Award, for October, 1977, will be presented about November 15 (monthly thereafter).

The Outstanding Carrier Of The Year Award will be presented in connection with International Newspaper Carrier Day, October, 1978.

Reporter-Telegram carriers Ronnie Gover, 14, and Vickie Barnes, 13, smile as Publisher Jimmy Allison explains details of the monthly and yearly carrier awards. District Manager James Dumas is one of five "D.M.'s" and two assistants responsible for carrier supervision.

Today, on International Carrier Day, 1977, The Midland Reporter-Telegram is especially grateful for the opportunity to recognize its entire organization of 153 carriers.

The final, important step in our news distribution system, delivering the newspaper to YOU on time, seven days per week, 364 days per year, is performed faithfully by these boys and girls, these men and women, managing a business enterprise in their own right. The Youth, the boys and girls who make up most of our carrier organization, learn through this experience how private enterprise functions and what their individual responsibilities are in the system...to their supplier, to their customers, and to themselves. Modern business principles are involved and every one of our 153 carriers is trained to apply the practices and procedures of these sound principles.

Seven of our Circulation Department employees have completed college, or are enrolled in college courses, assuring that the youth associated with this newspaper as carriers will be exposed to the best current teaching in modern business education. ...and there's one more significant fact:

Consider the great number of topmost leaders in business, the professions, government, and other walks of life, who started as newspaper carriers in their youth.

QUALIFICATION CRITERIA FOR AWARDS:

1. Bills paid by 5th day of each month.
2. Average less than one service complaint per 1,000 newspapers delivered.
3. No serious service complaints.
4. Above department average of new subscribers personally secured.

Officials vote to ban sex change operations

By JERRY SCARBROUGH

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Southern Baptist officials met in executive session Friday and voted 54-2 to ban sex change operations at the Baptist Medical Center, a major U.S. center for such surgery.

The operations have been suspended all summer awaiting the verdict by the Board of Directors of the Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma.

The Rev. Joe Ingram, executive director of the general convention, said the board's ruling would be the final word on the subject that has sparked bitter fighting in the denomination.

"This decision will be it," he said. "There will be no ifs, ands or question marks. This will be the decision that stands."

The 67-member board is dominated by Baptist ministers, who generally have opposed the operations on grounds that such psychological abnormalities can be righted only through spiritual transformation.

Of the 64 at-large members of the board, there are eight women, eight laymen and 48 ministers from all areas of the state. The other three members are the three statewide officers of the convention.

Board members already have received a recommendation from the board's committee on hospitals, and the Rev. Mr. Ingram said the board almost certainly will follow the committee's recommendation.

The committee recommendation has not been announced officially, but one committee member said the vote went overwhelmingly against permitting the operations.

The operations were performed at the hospital for four years, during which the sex of more than 50 transsexuals was changed, mostly from male to female. An additional 50 transsexuals are in preliminary stages of the change, awaiting the board's decision.

The revelation that Baptist Medical Center and the University of Oklahoma Hospital were performing sex changes in sufficient numbers to make Oklahoma City one of the nation's centers for such operations has sparked a major controversy in Oklahoma Baptist ranks.

About half a dozen other U.S. hospitals offer similar surgery.

Baptist Medical Center's lay advisory board, the medical staff and the team of physicians who help in the operations favor resuming them, but the more fundamentalist segment of the denomination wants to end them.

Bill hiking minimum wage OK'd

By HELEN DEWAR
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — House and Senate conferees approved compromise legislation Friday to raise the hourly minimum wage from $2.30 to $3.35 in four annual steps through 1981, starting with $2.65 next year.

About 4.6 million workers, roughly 5 per cent of the total work force, would have their pay increased in January, according to Labor Department estimates.

The conference result was a victory for organized labor, women's groups and other minimum wage supporters — a substantially more generous bill than the one initially adopted by the House last month.

"Those who are supporting the legislation can claim a major victory," said Jack Carlson, vice president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, one of the chief opponents. Labor lobbyists called it a "good bill."

Employer groups had lobbied aggressively to cut back the proposed post-1978 pay levels, to exempt most small businesses from coverage, to fend off a wage rate increase for workers who receive tips, and to provide a "subminimum" for teenagers.

All this met with minimal success, in sharp contrast to the groups' earlier lobbying victories in Congress this year.

Carlson, in effect, conceded defeat on the wage bill. While urging rejection of the conference report, he said there is little likelihood of that.

Both houses are expected to give final approval to the legislation next week, according to its chief Democratic sponsors, Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. (N.J.) and Rep. Phillip Burton (Calif.).

President Carter endorsed the legislation in much the same form as approved by the Senate and is expected to sign the bill — which proponents say will expand "economic justice" but opponents say will aggravate both inflation and unemployment.

The only major setback for the administration, labor and other backers of the original bill was decisive rejection by the House of an automatic escalator formula pegging future minimum wage increases to average manufacturing wages. But the Senate approved the specific wage rates that such a formula would have prescribed through 1981, and the conference committee shaved them only slightly.

Under the conference compromise the minimum wage would be set at $2.65 through 1978, $2.90 through 1979, $3.10 through 1980 and $3.35 thereafter. The House figures were $2.65 in 1978, $2.85 in 1979 and $3.05 in 1980, with no increase in 1981. The Senate figures were $2.65 in 1978, $2.90 in 1979, $3.15 in 1980 and $3.40 for 1981 and thereafter.

The biggest fight in the conference committee came over how far to expand the existing small-business exemption, under which business with $250,000 or less in annual sales do not have to pay workers the minimum wage.

The House voted to keep the so-called "tip credit" at 50 per cent, while the Senate scaled it down to 30 per cent by 1981. The conferees agreed to reduce it to 45 per cent in 1979 and 40 per cent in 1980.

Ex-exchange student due

Jochen Behrens of Bad Godesberg, West Germany, attended Midland High School in 1969-70 as an American Field Service student, and he is coming back to Midland for the MHS homecoming on Oct. 28-29.

He has advised Mr. and Mrs. James F. Ormond of his plan to be here that weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Ormond were his host parents the year he spent in Midland.

Mrs. Ormond said Behrens, who is an officer in the West Germany Luftwaffe, presently is completing a training assignment at Sheppard Air Force Base at Wichita Falls. He last visited here in 1973.

Bullets came from same gun, expert testifies

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — An expert state witness testified Friday a bullet removed from the body of Stan Farr matched the bullet that killed Andrea Wilborn.

"Frank Shiller, director of the Fort Worth crime lab, said four of nine bullets in evidence could positively be identified as having been fired from the same gun.

Farr, 30, and Miss Wilborn, 12, were slain in a midnight shooting spree last year at the hilltop Fort Worth mansion of millionaire defendant Cullen Davis.

Davis, 44, is accused also of wounding his estranged wife Priscilla, 36, and a chance mansion visitor, Gus Gavrel, 22.

"You don't open your best Christmas present first," prosecutor Joe Shannon quipped in explaining why the state waited almost eight weeks before matching up the bullets.

It was essential to the state's case to show that the bullets that killed Farr and Miss Wilborn came from the same gun because the murder weapon was never found.

The state's case is technically circumstantial since there were no eye witnesses to the slaying of the girl, the defendant's stepdaughter.

However, Mrs. Davis testified she lay wounded on the mansion floor and watched in helpless horror as the "man in black" fired four bullets into Farr.

She identified Davis as the bewigged gunman dressed in black and with his hands and pistol concealed in a plastic garbage bag.

The ice-blond socialite and Farr, a bearded, 6-foot-10 giant of a man, shared the mansion at the time of the Aug. 2, 1976 shootings.

Chimp's heart transplanted
Agence France-Presse

CAPETOWN — A 60-year-old man who had a chimpanzee's heart transplanted alongside his own Thursday was reported to be "satisfactory in the circumstances" by Grootescheur hospital here Friday.

The transplant was carried out by Professor Christian Barnard.

The patient's identity has not been disclosed but hospital sources said the man had been given only a few hours to live because of a heart ailment when it was decided to operate.

No. 1 Kennedy collector finally wearies of hobby

By BOB LEVEY
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Sure, he remembers — of all people on earth he should. He was filling teeth in his Silver Spring, Md., dentist's office on Nov. 22, 1963. The radio bulletin came from Dallas. "And then I went home and watched TV for three days like the rest of the world. But that wrenching weekend was only a brief bubble of passivity for Dr. Gerald Jay Steinberg. A few months later, this otherwise sane soul noticed an ad in the Sunday paper. A stamp dealer was trying to peddle some new African issues that bore John F. Kennedy's face. Steinberg was a lifelong stamp collector who had just sold his collection. "But I figured, 'Why not?'" he said. And so it began — a collection of JFK memorabilia that has been certified by historical societies and fellow collectors as the largest in the world. "You name it, I got it," says Jay Steinberg. "I want it."

After 13 years of dinner plates that sport Jackie Kennedy face in four colors, after writing as many as 100 letters a night in search of a rare Kennedy piece, after "lots and lots" of dollars, Steinberg is trying to sell the whole ball of wax. Much of it may go to other collectors.

He doesn't even reverence Kennedy as a President, although he voted for him. Johnson was probably the greatest President in the history of the country," Steinberg said, "until he ran afoul of the kiddies."

He decided to open a Kennedy gallery in Georgetown in partnership with Aubrey Mayhew, a Tennessee businessman and fellow Kennedy collector who once bought the Book Depository for $650,000 at an auction.

Jackie quits Viking Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Onassis has quit Viking Press, where she worked as an editor for two years, over its publication of a novel depicting an imagined assassination plot against her brother-in-law, Sen. Edward Kennedy.

The former first lady, widow of President John F. Kennedy, submitted a letter of resignation Thursday to Thomas Guinzburg, Viking publisher, according to Nancy Tuckerman, a spokeswoman for Mrs. Onassis.

Miss Tuckerman quoted Mrs. Onassis as telling her: "Last spring, when told of the book, I tried to separate my lives as a Viking employee and a Kennedy relative."

"But this fall, when it was suggested that I had had something to do with acquiring the book and that I was not distressed by its publication, I felt I had to resign."

Guinzburg was not immediately available for comment.

However, he said Thursday that Mrs. Onassis had expressed no "distress or anger" about the book when she was told about it several months ago. He said she had "a feeling of resignation that people will go on using this bleak material."

Mrs. Tuckerman said Thursday that Mrs. Onassis was never consulted about the book and said she was "extremely upset" over its publication.

The novel, "Shall We Tell the President?" was published last Monday. Written by British author Jeffrey Archer, it tells of a plot to kill Edward Kennedy after he is elected president in 1980.

John F. Kennedy was assassinated in 1963. A third brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was assassinated in 1968 while campaigning for the Democratic nomination for president.

After President Kennedy's death, Mrs. Onassis, 48, married Greek shipper Aristotle Onassis, who died in 1975.

Guinzburg said Thursday that "no Kennedy family member ever asked" Viking to withdraw as publisher of the book. He claimed that Viking was a prestigious publishing house and would handle the book more tastefully and sensitively than other publishers.

Dr. Gerald Jay Steinberg holds a drawing of John F. Kennedy as a senator, part of the dentist's collection, believed the world's largest. (Washington Post Photo)

Chicago bank spokesman reassures depositors none will 'lose a penny'

CHICAGO (AP) — Was it an embezzlement, a burglary or just an accounting error? Apparently no one knows for sure how exactly $1 million in cash disappeared from the underground vault of the country's ninth largest bank.

But a spokesman for the First National Bank of Chicago said not one customer "is going to lose a penny." Homer J. Holland, senior vice president in charge of administration, said the apparent loss has been charged against the bank's third-quarter earnings, which still are expected to exceed last year's third-quarter earnings.

second largest in Illinois, has insurance for such losses, but the deductible is greater than the amount missing.

When the bank closed Friday for the three-day Columbus Day weekend, the $1 million was in a locked cart inside a vault, officials said. But at the day's end accounting of cash on Tuesday, the bank's head teller found that the money was gone, Holland said.

The FBI thinks the money was stolen by a bank employee, either through embezzlement or a burglary, said George Mandich, spokesman for the FBI's Chicago office. But bank officials said they have not ruled out the possibility of an accounting error, although a study by internal auditors on Wednesday

CHARLEY REESE: Question of a middle class in America

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

Below the belt blow

President Jimmy Carter has gone too far in his attack on the petroleum industry.

He has demeaned the office of the Presidency in insulting a great American industry which has done as much or more than any other in building a great nation, in improving its living standards and in playing a leading role in its defense and security in times of war.

And in this period of energy crisis, the petroleum industry has done and is doing more to find and produce more oil and gas than anything the President or the Congress has done in this regard up to this point.

Yet President Carter, in opening his all-out campaign to save his staggering energy program, lashed out at petroleum companies, referring to them as potential war profiteers trying to take advantage of the energy crisis by conducting a giant rip-off of the public.

This is a most unusual and deplorable action on the part of the President of the United States. He has insulted some of America's leading business firms, he has insulted business leaders and he has insulted the intelligence of the American people.

It most certainly is time for the petroleum industry and its leaders to defend themselves against such an unwarranted attack — one which comes purely from selfishness and stubbornness on the part of one who seemingly will not alter his position even when the error of his position has been pointed out by experts in the oil and gas business.

It is time also for individuals, organizations and business firms generally to rally in defense of the petroleum industry, which means so much to the nation's continuing progress, economy and security. Every resident of Midland, of West Texas, the entire Lone Star State and far beyond should express their views on the subject directly to the President.

Howard Blauvelt, chairman of Continental Oil Co., spoke out for the industry in excellent form, stating, "I deplore the intemperate attack that the President of the United States made on the petroleum industry."

"The effect of his comments was to shed more heat than light on issues of crucial national importance. Moreover, he has impugned the integrity and motives of those segments of the public that find themselves in disagreement with a portion of his energy program."

John E. Swearingen, chairman of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), said, "The President has made an emotional appeal to defend a tax program that is not defensible."

"His energy program involved the largest peacetime tax increase ever imposed on our citizens, and none of it would be used to increase the production of domestic energy."

These executives, along with others who have expressed themselves publicly, have pointed out pertinent facts in the case. They know whereof they speak.

President Carter, incidentally, had said that without controls in the energy plan, petroleum profits would leap to some $150 billion a year and the extra $50 billion reaped in by the oil companies would not bring any additional oil or gas to the public. He said it would simply end up in the pockets of the oil companies. Hogwash, Mr. President!

Accused unjustly of a charge such as this, is it any wonder that the petroleum industry as a whole has reacted with indignation?

Yes, the President has hit below the belt in this instance, and he should be held accountable.

It is just as John J. Christmann, president of Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners, said, "The plain and simple fact is that the President's proposals are unsound, and the Senate is creating a situation in which a sensible energy policy can result."

Re-routing of U.S. 80 Highway through the City of Midland was requested in three petitions received by the City Council at its meeting last night. One petition was signed by 11 Wall Street residents, another by 17 Missouri Street residents, and the third by 20 persons residing on Texas Street.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Judge Boyd's private feifdom

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITEN

WASHINGTON — Robert Boyd, a $47,500-a-year administrative law judge, is a well-groomed six-footer with the imperial manner of a Southern plantation owner. He runs his government office as if it were his private business operation, ordering his workers to take care of his most trivial personal affairs.

Boyd, despite his work as the National Transportation Safety Board's chief law judge, finds time to run a tobacco business on the side. He is also active in the Boyd Family Foundation and chairs the membership committee of the Belle Haven Country Club in Virginia. And his office employees frequently have to set aside government business to help the judge with his personal affairs.

For example, Boyd enlisted his government secretary, Bette Dodge, to type his voluminous business correspondence. She even wrote some of the letters herself. "I have a new secretary," Boyd wrote to a country club colleague, "and she is working with me on the membership matter. If you have any questions at any time, please call her." Boyd then listed her office phone number.

In another letter, the energetic Boyd described the need for a questionnaire so country club members could list their "sizes and preference in golfing attire and equipment." He added, "I can get the office to type and mimeograph it."

Mrs. Dodge, who no longer works for Boyd, admitted to us she handled the judge's private work. "He felt he was entitled to the personal work," she said, adding, "Sometimes he asked too much."

Boyd once instructed a government worker to Xerox 150 copies of a 17-page document entitled "The Boyd Family Directory." At first, Boyd insisted he only ordered 50 copies. But when our reporter — Bob Cettlin showed him a copy of the duplicating request, the judge cast an imperious eye on the evidence, squirmed uncomfortably in his chair, and blurted: "Okay, you got me. Write it up!"

Boyd, a 35-year government veteran, has also managed his tobacco business from behind his federal desk. He sent a letter, for instance, informing the Fidelity National Bank of Virginia that "I only need $4,000 to cover the purchase of a second-hand tractor and related equipment."

He has frequently made private, long-distance calls from his government phone, according to our sources. His business contacts were advised to call his office person-to-person collect, our sources say. Office workers would deliberately reject the calls, which Boyd later returned from his phone. On one occasion, an office employee spent three mornings making long-distance calls to track down Boyd's crop insurance agent.

The judge handles even the most routine personal errands from his office. His secretary, for example, typed up his personal income taxes. His office sent a letter to Timex Co. demanding that it repair Boyd's broken watch. The judge also wrote to Gulf Oil Corp. on government stationery, asking for renewal of his Gulf travel card.

A fellow administrative judge growled: "He doesn't know that much about the law and doesn't care." Boyd insisted, however, that his office is running smoothly and handling its workload. But he admitted using his secretary to help manage his private affairs.

"There's no denying it," he grunted. "Bette did personal work for me. Ever since I've been into government, I've had my secretaries do personal work for me."

Footnote: On one occasion, Boyd was so ecstatic after an unusually good round of golf that he dispatched a staffer to a government bookstore to purchase a frame. The framed scorecard now hangs in Boyd's office, a personal tribute paid for by the taxpayers.

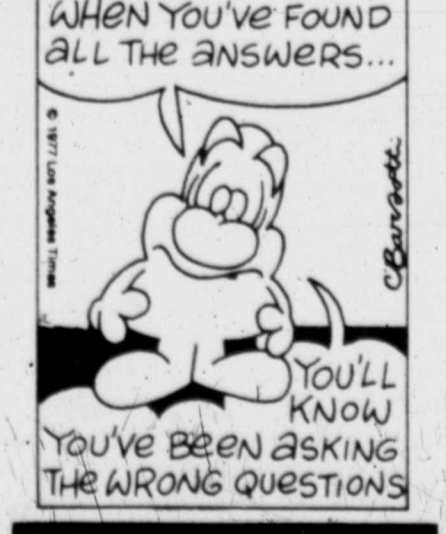

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Republican Rep. Bob Kasten of Wisconsin is turning down a presidential invitation. It's an appeal from Jimmy Carter to join the "President's Club," a thinly disguised effort to extract a $25 contribution from those on the huge mailing list. But the mailing lists got fouled up and the GOP congressman is replying to his note from "Jimmy" with a resounding "no!"

Every year, Americans throw away half a billion gallons of used, "dirty" oil, a great deal of it from engine oil changes. But a joint study by the Defense Department and the Environmental Protection Agency has found that dirty oil may be better than regular oil once it is "re-refined." A number of San Diego police cars which used re-refined oil were found, after 100,000 miles, to be in better condition than engines using regular oil. Yet much of the used oil is dumped into the nation's waterways as sludge.

Persuasive Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, is using his office letterheads to drum up contributions for an outfit lobbying against the Panama Canal treaty, the Council for Inter-American Security. Hansen has considerable experience in mustering contributions: He pleaded guilty in 1975 to criminal misdemeanors in connection with his own campaign contributions and was fined $2,000.

In a recent police case in Washington, D.C., the first eight witnesses turned out to be illegal aliens. But when police called in the Immigration and Naturalization Service, they were astounded to hear that its agents dared not move against the aliens. Immigration bigwigs, the agents complained, had ordered no more "mass roundups" of aliens.

BROADSIDES

BIBLE VERSE
There is no wisdom nor understanding nor counsel against the Lord. — Pro. 21:30.

you a steak dinner that if you earn $15,898 a year and are honest, you are ineligible for 100 per cent of the hundreds of government giveaways and aid programs for which you pay.

I have long believed that the United States economically is a lot healthier than most of us realize. One thing that blinds us to reality is inflation. Most of us who are working for a paycheck are taking home more dollars than we ever have. It's only when we measure those dollars in terms of what they will buy do we realize that incomes have not in reality increased as much as they appear to have.

Another factor which beguiles us is easy credit, or to put it more accurately, easy indebtedness. To my knowledge, no other country in the world has such liberal credit policies. On the surface, this may seem like a good thing, but I'm not sure that it really is.

By the end of June 1975, Americans were in debt for personal purchases to the tune of $186 billion. In 1960, the figure was only $60 billion.

That $186 billion represents $186 billion in future income which is already spent. All but a tiny portion of that debt was spent on consumption items which will depreciate in value. The figure does not include money borrowed to purchase homes.

That burden of debt represents in many cases a lot of human misery. Many marriages collapse because of financial problems and a great deal of stress, a big factor in physical illnesses, is generated.

Furthermore, people operating on a thin margin between income and debt have no cushion. The temporary loss of a job, a serious illness or the sudden increase in utility costs can spell disaster for a family whose every penny is obligated to creditors.

This debt is also, in my opinion, the explanation of stagflation which so many experts pretend is such a mystery. Stagflation is the name somebody coined to describe a recession in the midst of inflation.

In the first place, the conventional notion of a recession — an excess of production followed by a reduction in prices — operates only in a free market which has all but disappeared in the U.S.

What happens is this: families buy on credit, leaving themselves some margin for other purchases. Inflation, however, pushes up the cost of necessities like utilities, gasoline, food and clothing. This rise eliminates their margin. They stop spending, not because of excess production, but simply because they have no spare dollars.

At the same time, many of the things which are causing the inflation are permanent: government taxes, government-mandated costs such as workmen's compensation, unemployment insurance, pollution control or safety devices, minimum wages, the added costs of government-imposed paperwork, and increased money supply. Thus the businessman, like the consumer, finds himself unable to respond to a change in the market situation.

We have been led down a primrose path by closet socialists and fascists who have piece by bit on this pretense and that injected government controls into the private economic arena until today free enterprise is more fiction than fact. And as free enterprise fades, the middle class goes with it.

INSIDE REPORT:

Backfire bomber not classified as strategic weapon

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The tentative SALT agreement virtually pinned down when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko visited the White House does not classify the Russian Backfire bomber as a strategic weapon despite a new U.S. intelligence report showing it able to reach North America with ease.

A top secret study puts the Backfire's range at over 10,000 kilometers (about 6,200 miles), nearly double some previous estimates. Yet the strategic arms limitation (SALT) agreement relies on a Kremlin pledge — clearly unverifiable — not to use its impressive new bomber as a strategic weapon.

That alone would guarantee significant opposition to Senate ratification of the SALT II treaty. But briefings within the national security bureaucracy on the tentative agreement point to the all-too-familiar pattern of U.S.-Soviet negotiations: steady U.S. retreats with no significant Russian concessions.

Senior U.S. officials claim a major "concession" by the Soviets in agreeing to lower the overall limit of 2,400 strategic launchers (including long-range bombers) fixed at Vladivostok in 1975. But since the limit applies to each side, calling it a concession can be challenged.

Evans Novak agreement abandons President Carter's demand of last Spring that Moscow effectively limit the number of its fearsome heavy missiles. Without that limitation and in the absence of U.S. heavy missiles, the Russians gave up nothing by reducing the overall limit on strategic launchers.

Similarly, there is a familiar taste to the way the tentative SALT II agreement handles two weapons systems left in limbo at Vladivostok: the U.S. cruise missile and the Soviet TU-26 bomber — the Backfire. The U.S. will severely limit cruise missile ranges for three years. But, according to secret briefings, the Backfire will be limited only by "unilateral" Soviet declarations promising not to use it strategically and promising not to increase production.

Reliance on the Kremlin's word collides with highly classified Air Force briefings, featuring a chart showing the Backfire with longer range than the other bombers listed. That chart in turn reflects a recent study sponsored by the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) and carried out by the Air Force's foreign technology division at Wright-Patterson Air Base.

It reveals that, thanks to important aerodynamic modifications, the Backfire's "B" model — now in serial production — has substantially lengthened its range. If refueled once, in midair, the Backfire range is 8 per cent greater than the most advanced B-52s and 17 per cent greater than the shelved B-1. The DIA study is unmistakable: The Backfire is an intercontinental weapon.

As part of the SALT II agreement, the Russians agree not to refuel the Backfire. But that assurance crumbles on two points: first, the Backfire can hit the continental U.S. without refueling on a one-way mission; second, the Kremlin's promises are simply not verifiable. The "B" model is fitted for midair refueling, and advanced Soviet "civilian" aircraft such as the wide-bodied IL-86 can be easily modified to become a tanker.

Nor does the Soviet "unilateral" promise not to increase production really insure against the threat to the U.S. of a greatly expanded Backfire fleet. Thanks to meager U.S. air defenses, the bomber is believed by the Pentagon to be a much bigger threat than is envisioned by the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA).

Thus, as informally agreed upon, SALT II describes an uneven poker game between the Russian and the American. Each is limited in his betting by table stakes. But when needed, the Russian can reach into his pocket and up the ante — by calling on the long-range Backfire bomber, not included in the overall limit on strategic launchers.

How can the U.S. negotiators countenance this? Senior officials say various U.S. intelligence agencies disagree on the Backfire's range. Yet, a 1976 study performed for the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) putting the Backfire range at 6,000 kilometers (about 3,700 miles) has been discredited as based on faulty premises. In secret congressional testimony July 28, CIA director Stansfield Turner himself conceded his agency's study was out of date.

U.S. negotiators are putting aside their own intelligence study and accepting Russian promises because they believe that the nation's need for an overall arms limitation, treaty outweighs inequitable provisions it may contain. That was the philosophy espoused by chief SALT negotiator Paul Warnke and his lieutenants in private life, though certainly not by candidate Jimmy Carter or a good many U.S. Senators. This contrast promises an historic Senate debate with profound consequences.

Probe of 'wholesaling' of cars announced

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Critics call them "contraband" cars that gyp consumers, but dealers say they're sometimes the only way to have enough autos on hand to satisfy customer demands.

At any rate, the executive director of the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission said Friday he will probe the "wholesaling" of new cars and its effect on warranties.

"If a dealer is selling a used car and representing it as a new car, that would be a violation of the Motor Vehicle Code and probably other statutes," said Russell Harding.

L. T. Varnell said he bought a new Cadillac from Moritz Oldsmobile-Cadillac of Arlington for $13,697 on May 31 but later found somebody else had purchased it at retail in Michigan five months before.

That five months was chipped off the General Motors one-year, 12,000-mile warranty. Moritz agreed to flesh it out at its own expense to the full 12 months.

"Moritz has sold cars without giving a General Motors warranty. They have given something less than that. They have given a Moritz Cadillac warranty, if you can call it that," Russell Niederer of Dallas, Varnell's lawyer, told Harding and commissioners Bob Ragsdale and James Karnes.

GM advertising leads the customer to expect a full year's GM warranty, he said.

Niederer said Varnell wants the commission to yank the license of Moritz and any other dealer who sells autos bought at "wholesale" with shortened warranties.

Moritz' lawyer, S. G. Johndroe III of Fort Worth, said wholesaling is a "common practice."

"It is done for the convenience of the consumer and to keep his (the dealer's) sales staff working," he said.

David L. Moritz, owner of the dealership, said in an affidavit that wholesalers buy new cars from dealers who are over-supplied and sell them to dealers who are under-supplied. Warranties run from the initial purchase.

In this case, an "R.G. Goodman, Trustee" of Moorestown, N.J., bought from Curt Terova Cadillac in Ann Arbor, Mich., the car that Varnell later purchased.

Moritz said Goodman was an employee of Texas Vehicle Management, a wholesaler. He said the car was purchased in an individual's name so that Terova "would receive credit from General Motors for the sale of the car."

Moritz said the sticker on the car bore the name of the Terova dealership.

THE SALVATION ARMY won't get all this money, but it will get about $500 from the Costume-A-Doll contest sponsored by The Midland National Bank and a doll show sponsored by the Doll Club of the Permian Basin. "Best of Show" and best "period" doll winner Mrs. J. H. Deaton donates her $60 in prizes to Salvation Army Capt. Bob Vincent. The doll show will be at Dellwood Plaza today beginning at 10 a.m.

Prizewinner credits philanthropy

HOUSTON (AP) — A Nobel Prize winner for medicine says he is a part-time Houstonian who credits Texas philanthropy for much of the success of his research.

Dr. Roger Guillemin, 53, was named Thursday to share the $145,000 award with two other researchers.

The major research in Guillemin's discovering, purifying and synthesizing the first brain hormone was done while he was a professor of physiology at Baylor College of Medicine from 1953 until 1970. He is still an adjunct professor at the Houston school.

Guillemin joined the Salk Institute in San Diego, Calif., in 1970.

"Private philanthropic support such as has always been available to Baylor researchers can mean the difference, especially in these recent years of decreasing federal support for basic research," Guillemin said in a telephone interview. "I know of no other medical center in the country which gets such fine private support. Houstonians can be very proud of this."

Guillemin said basic research always pays off.

"It is vital and always has some significance," he said.

"At least 50 researchers, many of them still at Baylor, have played very major roles in my own work."

Guillemin said he has unlimited respect for Dr. Hebbel E. Hoff, retired Baylor physiology chairman and the man who hired the French-born scientist in 1953, and Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, surgery chairman and president of Baylor.

DeBakey said Guillemin's award "serves as a source of inspiration to all of us."

Hoff described Guillemin as "the very best of modern scientists, very much like Louis Pasteur was."

Hoff said he recalls hiring Guillemin "because even then I recognized his remarkable intellectual capacity and intuitive thinking about science which so many French researchers possess."

Guillemin is to share one-half of the $145,000 with Dr. Andrew Shally, 50, of the Veterans Administration Hospital in New Orleans, one of Guillemin's first post-doctoral fellows at Baylor in 1957 and an associate professor of psychology and biochemistry there when he left Houston in 1962.

Dr. Rosalyn Yalow, 56, of the VA Hospital in New York City will receive the other half of the cash award.

Frost Belt-Sun Belt battle apt to be issue

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The hottest issue at the Texas Municipal League's annual conference here this year is likely to be the continuing battle between Frost Belt and Sun Belt states over federal assistance programs.

More than 3,000 delegates from Texas cities and towns are expected to start arriving in San Antonio for the conference Saturday.

Though it officially opens Sunday, TML executive director Dick Brown said some delegates will meet Saturday to map out strategy to "counteract the efforts of the Frost Belt states."

A committee will also meet Saturday to prepare drafts of resolutions on the states' squabble and another issues which will be put to a vote at a Tuesday general business session.

Brown said the conflict between the two regions was precipitated by complaints from northern states that federal assistance formulas discriminated against them.

"Over the past 12 months, they've amended bill after bill after bill, and they've succeeded in changing the formulas so that they now get a bigger share of the federal grant money," he said. "A good example of how it has affected us is the community development measure recently signed by President Carter. The Frost Belt got more money from the measure while the Sun Belt states got scraps, or at best stayed at par. The $1.2 billion set aside specifically for urban development action grants in itself accounts for 10 per cent of the funds and that money will go to northern cities."

Brown said Texas is only scheduled to receive 2.5 per cent of federal funds granted for utility assistance programs, though even by 1970 census figures Texas is responsible for 5 per cent of the nation's population.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen plans to explore the question when he speaks at Monday's general session on "The New War Between the States."

Other speakers at the Monday session include Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., and Leonel Castillo, commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, who will discuss "The Price Texas Cities Pay for Illegal Aliens."

Tuesday, delegates will hear talks by Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton, Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Dr. James Boren, president of the National Association of Professional Bureaucrats.

Clayton will discuss the 65th Legislature's anti-crime package and Briscoe will wind up the conference with a banquet address on "Federal Energy Decisions and Their Effect on Texas."

Dr. Boren's speech is entitled, "When in Doubt, Mumble." During the Tuesday business session, delegates will elect a new slate of officers. Houston Mayor Fred Hofheinz is the current TML president.

Lo-Vaca files suit against Crystal City to collect debt

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. sued Crystal City in state district court Friday to collect $800,000 the South Texas town owes for gas furnished by the pipeline company.

The suit actually is a counterclaim to Crystal City's deceptive trade practices suit that alleges Lo-Vaca did not deliver 60 per cent of the gas for which it billed the city.

Lo-Vaca already has shut off the supply of gas to Crystal City for non-payment of its bills.

If Lo-Vaca wins its new suit, the next step will be for the courts to instruct Crystal City how to go about paying for the gas it has used.

"We were unable to collect, so service was suspended. However, that did not solve the collection problem. We are still obligated to collect and so we have filed suit," said Don Newquist, Lo-Vaca vice president.

Lo-Vaca already had branded Crystal City's accusation that it was billed for unreceived gas as "trumped up."

It said Crystal City had measured gas received by adding up amounts shown on individual consumer meters. Crystal City runs the local gas distribution system and bought its gas from Lo-Vaca.

The city tried to hold Lo-Vaca to its contract price of 36 cents per 1,000 cubic feet (mcf) after the Texas Railroad Commission gave Lo-Vaca permission to pass through its gas purchase costs to consumers. Current prices are about $2 per mcf. Customers were, in turn, charged only the contract rate, and no money was escrowed to pay the Lo-Vaca bill if the courts ruled against the city, as they ultimately did.

Congress skirting church roadblock

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — A new kind of congressional effort is underway to get around the usual church-state roadblocks so as to help families struggling to pay educational tuition for their young.

The measure, shaped specifically to maintain neutrality regarding religion, also would brace up many financially threatened private colleges and universities, some of them church related.

"Diversity is vital in our culture and in our educational system, and if we don't do something to preserve it, we'll end up with a homogenous, governmental monopoly," says Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., who introduced the bill in the Senate with wide bipartisan support.

Broad-based and simple, the measure now before both the House and the Senate would provide tax credits for tuition costs at all accredited elementary and high schools, colleges and universities — public, private, church-operated, vocational, business and trade schools.

The credit would amount to 50 percent of tuition, up to $500 per year per student, to be deducted from income taxes due.

"Middle-income families are being priced out of any educational choice," Packwood said, noting that the rich can pay tuition costs, while government tuition aid is restricted to lower-income families.

Obviously, the poor need it, he adds, but if the present situation goes on, it will mean that the only Americans with any realistic prospects of college will be the "very rich, the very poor and the very brilliant," who win scholarships.

and stick in the House, but I believe it'll pass there," Packwood said this week, noting full-scale hearings are set in January, with 13 of 18 Senate Finance committee members among co-sponsors.

Past attempts at federal aid to include private schools have been ruled unconstitutional because "the bulk of the aid went to one religious group," Catholic schools, Packwood said.

In distinction, the new measure provides tuition credits for the entire educational spectrum, Packwood

Baptist association schedules city talks

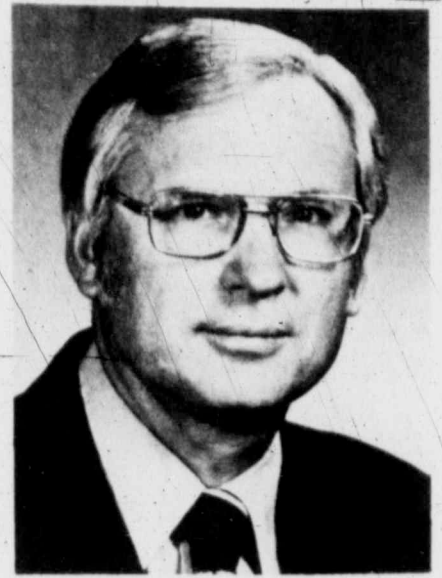

The annual meeting of the Midland Baptist Association, composed of all Southern Baptist churches in the city and county, will be held Tuesday in Fannin Terrace Baptist Church.

The gathering will feature messages by Dr. James L. Cooper of Dallas and the Rev. O. N. Reed of Midland.

Dr. Cooper serves as coordinator of counseling service for the Baptist General Convention of Texas. His address will highlight the afternoon session of the annual meeting, and he also will present the state missions report during the evening session.

Mr. Reed, who has served as pastor of Midland's Travis Baptist Church for a number of years, will deliver the annual sermon at the associational gathering.

Messengers, or delegates, to the meeting from member churches will hear reports on the work of the association and its member units, and will act on various items of business, including an annual budget and calendar of activities. During the evening session, a special media presentation is planned on the projected work of the Midland Baptist Association for the coming year. New leaders of the organization also will be selected. Special music will be presented by singing groups from several member churches.

Attendance at the afternoon and evening sessions is open to all interested persons, it was announced.

Seminary dean to lead San Antonio conference

AUSTIN — The dean of a well-known seminary and a theologian-spiritualist will be guest leaders for the 13th annual Texas Faith and Order Conference scheduled next month in San Antonio.

The gathering, a yearly project of the Texas Conference of Churches, will be held Nov. 17 through 19 at Casa San Jose, formerly St. Joseph's Retreat House, in San Antonio.

The Rev. Dr. Colin W. Williams of New Haven, Conn., dean of the Divinity School of Yale University, and the Rev. Dr. Egon W. Gerdes of Evanston, Ill., professor of historical theology and coordinator of spirituality at Garrett Evangelical Theological Seminary, will be the featured speakers at the conclave. Their addresses will be centered around the 1977 conference theme, "On Being a Christian: Evangelization and Spirituality for the 20th and 21st Centuries."

Two Texas residents, Mrs. Philip A. Masquelette and the Very Rev. Edward F. Jordan, will give the response to the major addresses. Mrs. Masquelette, of Houston, is a postulant of the Episcopal Diocese of Houston and currently pursuing studies at the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest in Austin. Father Jordan, formerly chancellor for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Austin, is pastor of St. Luke's Catholic Church at Temple.

The Faith and Order Conference is the major annual program of the Division for Christian Unity of the Texas Conference of Churches. Approximately 120 Roman Catholic, Protestant and Greek Orthodox clergy and lay leaders from throughout the state are expected to attend this year's gathering. Registration applications are now being received through ecclesiastical unit offices of TCC-member denominations and at the TCC offices, 2704 Rio Grande Ave., Austin 78705. The TCC office telephone number is 512-478-7491.

Former ministers visit for church anniversary

Trinity Presbyterian Church was host to former Midland ministers at special anniversary services last weekend.

Trinity Church came into being here in 1971 with the merger of two predecessor Presbyterian churches, Westminster and St. Andrews, both of which had been organized in the early 1950s.

Joining Dr. William K. Hedrick, current pastor of Trinity Church, in the Sunday morning worship service were the Rev. Richard A. Braun, a former pastor of the Westminster congregation, and the Rev. William I. Boand, formerly minister at St. Andrews.

Mr. Braun now is minister of First Presbyterian Church at Sherman and Mr. Boand serves as minister of First Presbyterian Church at McKinney.

The Rev. Charles Hollingsworth, General Presbyter of the Presbytery of Tres Rios, was the presbytery representative at the anniversary service.

Highlighting the anniversary event was a luncheon in the Trinity fellowship hall, attended by approximately 300 persons. The program included the burning of Trinity Church's mortgage, symbolizing the church's debt-free status. Bill McMillan, a member of the Trinity diaconate, gave a talk on Trinity as it now exists, and the program concluded with a special presentation of the history of Trinity Church and its two predecessor units.

Becerril to speak

The Rev. Luis Becerril of Dallas will be guest speaker Sunday morning at Midland's Church of the Dayspring, 310 N. Weatherford St.

Mr. Becerril currently is a member of the staff of the Beverly Hills Baptist Church of Dallas and president of the Jericho Foundation, which operates a Christian home for former convicts as they make the transition from prison life to life on the outside.

Mr. Becerril is himself a former convict.

Bishops treading carefully

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of the Episcopal Church are treading a cautious, conciliatory line in the face of extensive "deep hurt" in the denomination, some departures from it and portents of more.

To try to nip the revolt in its infancy, the church's bishops at their meeting last week in Port St. Lucie, Fla., took several qualified, pacifying stances, some direct, some indirect.

One clear-cut measure was adoption of a statement of conscience, affirming the right of any member-priest or bishop conscientiously to dissent from the church's decision allowing women's ordination and to take no part in it.

The authorizing of women priests a year ago had been the catalyst which brought discontent to a head, epitomizing what protesters saw as secularizing trends in the church.

So far, 18 parishes out of a total of 7,200 have acted to pull out of the denomination, only a fractional trickle at this point, but the protesters say it will spread in time.

It will be slow, but considerable, they say, if current court tests provide precedents for departing parishes to keep their property.

At the bishops' meeting, an intriguing, yet unclear move — seen subsequently by many as intended to contain dissent — was the open declaration by the presiding bishop of his opposition to women's ordination.

He offered to resign if fellow bishops thought his position disqualified him, but they assured him it didn't, turning down his offer.

Initial reaction of some Episcopalians was that his action would foment dissent and encourage departures from the church, something he has striven to prevent.

Others felt, however — and ensuing events tended to bear it out — that the presiding bishop's outspoken stand against women in the priesthood, and his continuance in the office, would bolster those of similar views to do likewise.

That is, they could properly exercise their opposition within the church, rather than quitting; if the church's top officer could do it, certainly the ordinary member was free to do so. That was the message considered by many implicit in the Bishop's Allin's maneuver.

That, indeed, was the reaction in some dioceses where dissent has been keen, according to diocesan bishops reporting favorable feedback. But in dioceses predominantly favoring women priests, reactions were said to be negative, holding that Bishop Allin's action would abet dissidence.

However, in those dioceses, there were no threats of revolt, anyhow. It was in the areas of greatest opposition that the breakaway clouds hovered, and in those areas, the impact was said to have been favorable.

Black suffragan bishop elected

WINDHOEK, Namibia — A black suffragan bishop has been elected by the Anglican church in Namibia for the first time in the local history of the church, the Vicar-General Rev. Ed Morrow announced here Friday.

The new suffragan bishop is Rev. James Kauluma, 45. He is expected to assume office in January 1978. He replaces Bishop Richard Wood who resigned his position in favor of a black suffragan bishop.

estimated 80 per cent of the credits would be applied toward public universities and colleges and only 20 per cent for private schools, only 15 per cent of that to Catholic schools.

While Moynihan is a well-known Catholic, Packwood is a Unitarian. Sponsors of an identical bill introduced in the House were Reps. Tom Railsback, R-Ill., a United Church of Christ member; Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., an unaffiliated Christian, and James Burke, D-Mass., a Catholic. Moynihan calls the bill trans-denominational, Jewish, Lutheran, Catholic and others. Like Catholics, Lutherans, Episcopalians, Jews and Seventh-day Adventists have extensive grade-school systems, and they've spread extensively among others, including Baptists and Methodists.

About 780 of the nation's 1,600 private colleges are church-connected, 500 Protestant, 247 Catholic, 24 Jewish the rest miscellaneous. Many are hard pressed financially. A recent United Methodist study found 22 of the denomination's 107 colleges and universities in serious financial difficulty. Says Packwood, "Private schools are having a harder and harder time of it, and if they fall by the wayside, the country will be less for it. It won't be good for the schools or the nation."

Fall inquirers' classes begin

St. Nicholas Episcopal Church will begin its traditional fall inquirers' classes Sunday.

The instructional series will continue Sunday and Tuesday evenings each week through Nov. 22. Sessions will be from 7 to 9 p.m.

The series, for adults and older students, will delve into basic Christian beliefs and the doctrines and teachings of the Episcopal Church. The course will be taught by the Rev. J. L. Considine, rector of St. Nicholas' parish. Additional information is available by telephoning the parish office, 694-8856.

Seminar slated this weekend

ODESSA — The Life Unlimited Christian Center of Odessa is offering a special "Financial Freedom" seminar this weekend.

The seminar began Friday night and will continue with a session from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. today. The event is open to all interested persons without charge.

The Life Unlimited Center is located on West County Road at I-20 in southwest Odessa. The center's telephone number is 332-7641.

Music program discussion set

Problems encountered in building a music program in a small church or small parish will occupy members of the West Texas chapter, American Guild of Organists, at its next meeting.

The meeting will be held Thursday evening in Hope Lutheran Church, 2003 North A St., beginning at 7:30. The event will be open to all interested persons.

Leading the program will be Harriet Motter, organist at Hope Lutheran Church, assisted by the Rev. Elmer Burrall, host pastor.

Church names elders, deacons

New elders and deacons have been named by the Golf Course Road Church of Christ congregation.

Elders are Cooper Daw, Willie Goudeau and Keith Levy. New deacons include Andy Ackermann, Ira Adams, Bill Childers, L. P. Coston, Roy Greenway, Tommy Hale, Bill G. Hill, Grady Lobley, Cary Miller, Ed Palk, Gary Selby, Mack Thomas, Dwight Wallum, J. V. Weaver and Wes Williams.

Midland congregation to host convention

The Foursquare Church of Midland, 415 Alta Ave., will be host to the annual convention of the South Central District of the Foursquare denomination.

The conclave begins Monday and continues through Thursday, said the Rev. Pete Adcock.

Ministry candidate to visit

The Permian Church of Religious Science will be host to a visiting minister, the Rev. Ronald Phillips, at its Sunday service.

Mr. Phillips, a native of Los Angeles, will visit here as a candidate for the ministry of the Midland church. He is a graduate of San Bernardino College in California and holds a degree from the Los Angeles School of Ministry. He also is a licensed professional practitioner and has done extensive youth work.

The Permian Church of Religious Science holds services in the Midland Unitarian Church, 3400 North A St. The Sunday service is scheduled for 12 noon and will be open to all interested persons.

Guest speakers at next week's meeting will include Dr. William Mauer, president of Mount Vernon Bible College in Ohio; the Rev. Paul Hackett, a member of the faculty of L.I.F.E. Bible College in California, and the Rev. and Mrs. Claude Updike, missionary-evangelists to Central America.

District Supervisor Westbrook will deliver the keynote address at the opening session of the convention Monday.

Other special events will include public meetings of Foursquare and United Four-square Women, lay organizations of the denomination; and a service honoring retired ministers of the denomination.

Designer of men's fashions takes aim at fat pocketbooks

By NINAS HYDE
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Menswear designer Don Robbie says things a lot of people think about fashion, but few fashion people will say "Fashion," he begins, "is something of the moment to try and get your money."

Encouraged by the smile of a listener he goes on. "It's a tease. It's a way of trying to get my hand (as a manufacturer) into your pocket (as a consumer)." There's more. "It's a cover-up for someone who didn't have any money yesterday to show that they have it today."

Don Robbie likes to outrage people, largely to call attention to himself. He starts by crediting himself as once the menswear designer for Pierre Cardin and then Yves Saint Laurent.

"Cardin said to me, 'I make the publicity, you make the clothes,'" Robbie recalls and just as straight he adds, "I did the Saint Laurent menswear and twice a year they took me to lunch to thank me."

(A spokesman at Cardin said Robbie did work for Cardin and left to work for YSL, but as for designing the clothes, "I'd say he interpreted Cardin's designs for the American market.")

Now Robbie is doing for the American look what he once did for the European look. "The European look was there," he admits, "I just made it wearable for the Americans."

When he first started his own line, his style was largely Latino. "I just picked up what was going on in New York in music, dance and food," says Robbie.

"This season he's on to a strictly 'WASP' look as he calls it, with sport coats, natural shoulders, no dart jackets, narrow lapels. 'Everything as anti-European as it can get,'" says Robbie.

"The young guy who needs a job has to look like the guy who is going to hire him," says Robbie. "If you can't lick 'em, you got to join 'em." Later he added, "If you want that guy's money, you have to pose."

The difference between WASP clothes now and 20 years ago, says Robbie, are the people wearing them. "I guess you'd call them the wrong people for WASP. They are the browns, the black, the Italians the young Jews. They are into them just as something different."

Jobs, jobless drop in Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Employment in Texas dropped by 14,700 in August but still was 154,400 above the total for August 1976, the Texas Employment Commission reported Friday.

As of mid-August, the total work force — those with or looking for jobs — was 5,733,900, the commission said. Unemployment declined from July's 302,400 to 294,800 in mid-August. The unemployment rate dropped from 5.3 to 5.1 per cent. This compares to 5.8 per cent in August 1976.

Elephant held for ransom

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE
BANGKOK — A six-ton elephant has been kidnapped by heavily armed men, taken over the border into Burma, and held for a ransom of $4,500, police reported Friday.

A spokesman for the Thai-American Rattan company, which bought the elephant two months ago for $2,000 said there were no plans to pay the ransom as Burmese police had already arrested those thought to be responsible.

Protect yourself against bad break cashed the top clubs and ruffed a club in dummy. Then he tried to draw trumps, discovering the bad news. He next tried to run the diamonds, but East ruffed the third diamond and cashed the queen of clubs to defeat the slam.

South's slam is unbeatable unless he runs into a bad trump break. He should therefore assume a 4-1 trump break and guard against it.

RUFF LAST CLUB

After ruffing a club in dummy, South should ruff a spade and lead his last club. There is no danger if the opponent with four trumps overruffs dummy.

If the player with the singleton trump is short in clubs, the odds are still 3 to 2 in declarer's favor; that opponent is helpless if he has the singleton 7 6 or 4, can overruff dummy only if he has the singleton 10 or jack.

When your contract is excellent, always ask yourself: "What can beat me?" And then guard against the answer to your question.

Chopsticks used to fire model steam locomotives

TOKYO (AP) — Twenty-seven model trains, ranging from 1 1/16 to 1-8th actual size, puffed around the foot of a 52-story office building in Tokyo recently providing rides for about 54,000 kids during a nine-day run.

The occasion was an International Model Engine Exhibition that drew rail buffs from as far away as Germany, Britain, Switzerland and Australia.

The steam locomotives, with smoke flying and whistles sounding, operated on an 800-foot track set up for the event.

traction engines, they called ideal, wood for firing up their steam engine — chopsticks.

Howell said he got the idea for using the chopsticks while taking part for the first time in a Japanese-style dinner in Tokyo.

"We started the fires with used chopsticks as Howell suggested," an official of the exhibition site building told The Associated Press in an interview. "We needed about 600 pairs every day. Japanese restaurants gave them to us."

Joining the steam engine buffs were Gordon Howell of Andover, England, and three other enthusiasts with their

Crawling Texan reaches Virginia on long junket

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP) — East Texan Hans Mullikan, who says God commanded him to crawl from Texas to Washington, has crawled his way to Virginia after more than a year on the road, his relatives report.

Mullikan, member of a Baptist church in Marshall, began his trek to Washington in March 1976 saying it was intended to remind the country to "get down on its knees and pray."

His mother, Dee Mullikan, said Thursday her son phoned, her this week from Virginia saying he was doing fine.

"He had this religious experience three years ago," Mrs. Mullikan said. "He is convinced God called him to do what he is doing and to witness for Christ along the way."

Mullikan, a lumber industry worker, usually lives out of a truck he is driving on the way to Washington. He wears heavy knee pads and gloves.

"He crawls some distance and then has to get back and pick up the truck," his mother said. "But he is crawling all the way to Washington."

Mrs. Mullikan said her son returned home last Christmas and stayed in Marshall for several months during the winter.

"He went back in April or May," she said. "He had to stop because of the cold weather. When he called this past week he said he had been slowed down in recent days because it was raining."

"He is a very optimistic man," Mrs. Mullikan said. "He depends totally on God."

Mrs. Mullikan said she has received letters from persons who have met her son along the way or from families with whom he has stayed.

"His mission is to try to get people to come back to God," she said. "He is taking his time along the way preaching to people he meets. Sometimes this slows him down and he may go two or three miles a day. He has no deadline. He said he will be in Washington when the Lord wants him there."

PRESS RELEASE STOVALL'S IMPORTS AWARDED NEW PEUGEOT DEALERSHIP

Stovall's Imports of 1810-1900 West Front Street, Midland, Texas, has been awarded a dealership by Peugeot Motors of America.

Heading the new dealership is Richard Stovall, whose Stovall's Imports also represents Renault and Subaru.

Established in August, 1960, Stovall's Imports will offer the complete line of Peugeot automobiles comprised of the 504 diesel and gasoline powered sedan and station wagon and the 604 SL luxury sedan.

"We at Peugeot are very pleased to welcome aboard Stovall's Imports," said Trevor Rolfe, national sales and marketing manager. "Richard Stovall joins our network of 300 dealers across the country who provide reliable professional and quality sales and service in the deepest tradition of Peugeot automobiles."

The Peugeot 604 SL.

Too new to be called a classic.
Too distinguished not to become one.

Becoming a classic takes time. So even a car as distinguished as our new Peugeot 604 SL can't be called a classic right away.

But we're confident that it will be. For while its styling alone places the 604 in a class with the world's most prestigious motor cars, its comfort is even more impressive.

For inner comfort, it offers the roominess of a chauffeur-driven sedan, leather seats, an electric sunroof, and power just about everything.

For driving comfort, it has fully independent suspension, four-wheel power disc brakes, and power-assisted rack and pinion steering. And for passing comfort, it has a powerful, overhead cam V6 engine.

Finally, the Peugeot 604's suggested retail price starts at around $11,000 P.O.E.* And that, you'll have to agree, is a comforting price for a car that's in a class with the classics.

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price. Delivery, optional equipment, license, title, taxes, dealer preparation not included.

Rebels sack Cougars; Bulldogs flog Eagles

By BOB DILLON

Running back John Marks scampered 74 yards in the third period to spark the Robert E. Lee Rebels past the Abilene Cooper Cougars, 16-10 Friday night in Memorial Stadium.

Marks' beautiful TD run broke open a 9-7 game which was a bruising battle, thrilling a large homecoming crowd.

It was a defensive battle through two periods as both teams came out hitting, much to the delight of the crowd.

The victory is the first for the Rebels in 5-4A play and the loss all but knocks the Cougars out of the race with a 1-2 loop reading.

Marks picked up 92 yards in nine carries to lead the potent Lee ground attack which ate up 236 yards on the Cougars.

JERRY MOORE got Lee on the scoreboard first in the first period by booting a 28-yard field goal after Lee pounced on a fumble by sophomore fullback Terry Orr.

The Rebels kicked off to Cooper and on the second play from scrimmage, Orr was belted hard with Marvin Iglehart pouncing on the ball at the Cougar 27.

Lee got down to the Cooper six, but was unable to push across a score so Moore calmly split the uprights for a 3-0 lead with 8:24 left in the first period.

ABILENE—Somehow, victory should be a lot more satisfying. But this one rang with hollowness. The Midland High Bulldogs fooled the critics here Friday and used a devastating 28-point offensive performance in the first half to vault them to a 35-27 victory over Abilene High at P. E. Shotwell Stadium. But overshadowing the win, Midland's second in a row, was the injury of running back Walter Bryson, who was taken off the field by ambulance with 2:31 left in the third quarter. He was rushed immediately to Hendrick Memorial Hospital here in Abilene and his condition was still unknown an hour after the game.

Bryson was the spearhead of the win. He had rushed for 115 yards, his second straight 100-plus yard game, when disaster struck. After Abilene's Reggie Fields had scored from two yards out late in the third quarter to make it 28-13, Bryson returned the kick when he was hit in the air, spun around and landed on the back of his neck. They used a back splint as a pre-cautionary measure, and 170-pound junior was given a standing ovation as he was placed in the ambulance.

In the lockerroom after the game, the team voted to give the game ball to Bryson.

Friday was Coach Jerry Hopkins' birthday, and the Bulldogs gave him

Austin dreams of national title

By BOB OATES
The Los Angeles Times

They're talking national championship in and around Austin, again this week, as they often do when the Texas Longhorns beat Oklahoma. And under their new coach, Fred Akers, the Longhorns have a chance, many people believe.

It depends on the quality of the quarterbacking they do in the next month or two. Of the four things needed to win a lot of football games — sound defense, good kicking, good running and satisfactory quarterbacking — Texas seems to have the first three.

And against Oklahoma last week its third-string quarterback, Randy

Andrews' Boogier paces Ponies over Seminole

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
R-T Sports Writer

ANDREWS—The Andrews Mustangs wanted everyone to know that the snow war farce of 1976 is over, and they convincingly began their 1977 challenge for the District 2-AAA grid championship by waltzing past helpless Seminole 34-6, here Friday night.

Seminole fans' came to this one with a banner reading "It's Boogier Pickin' Time", but what they got in return was a Boogier stuffed up their collective nose.

As a matter of 2-AAA fact, it was Andrews quarterback Boogier Brooks who led the Mustangs to their first district win. The brone buster climbed out of the saddle for 108 yards rushing and 116 yards passing. He also dug in his spurs with touchdown runs of 10 and eight yards and tossed two scoring strikes of 10 and 76 yards. He is the man with the mission.

ANDREWS LOST the 2-AAA championship a year ago in a 3-0 loss to Monahan on the last snow filled weekend of the season, and they are out to make amends. If there could have been a better start, no one knows how to do it. The Mustangs had it all.

Andrews roared out of the blocks for 316 yards rushing and another 116 in the airways for a total offensive barrage of 432 yards, and it could have been much more. Brooks and Company played only through the first few moments of the third period, and then sat back to watch the bench have a little fun with the sinking Indians.

Seminole just could not get it going and ended the game with a mere 45 yards rushing, 34 coming in the first half. Seminole also had 39 yards in the airways, but only five first downs to show for their effort. Their only score of the night came in the final period after an Andrews fumble gave the Indians the ball at the Mustang 17-yard line.

TAILBACK RICKY Green hit quarterback Mike Grass with an 8-yard scoring toss for Seminole's only score.

Other than that it was all Andrews. Kenny Hearne opened the Mustang attack in the first period with a 43-yard hip swinging, open field run for six points that left Seminole players strewn about the field. A crushing block by Eldon Jones at the 15 accounted for the final few steps.

On Andrews next series, Brooks bulled over from eight yards out to finish 38-yard drive, but he wasn't through by a long shot.

Five plays later, Brooks faked a run before finding Jones behind the Seminole defense, and he lofted a soft bomb to Eldon for a 76-yard scoring play. Seminole was never close to the speedster, and Andrews led 20-0 as Ricky Chesbrough missed his only extra point try of the night.

JUST BEFORE the half, Brooks again went to work and drove the Mustangs 89 yards for another score. Brooks ended that drive with a 10-yard pass to tight end Joel Gilliland.

Brooks opened the second half of play by directing an 85-yard march, and covered the final 10 by himself for the 34 Mustang points. Hearne, who was an end at the beginning of the season, had a good night also. He gained 97 yards in nine carries.

The Mustang defense was also impressive as Joe Dan Barnes, Steve Kolb, Don Fulton, Lyn Wagner and Micky Munsell stormed the Indians teepee with repeated assaults.

The Mustangs will test unbeaten Pecos in another severe test next week on foreign turf. Andrews is now 5-0-1 on the season while Seminole fell to 2-4.

Longhorn fans dream of return to glory

McEachern, played well. But McEachern hadn't expected to play that day. He didn't have time to get nervous.

Against Arkansas today the Texas senior will have to prove it again. This is college football's game of the week and it's virtually a tossup between two undefeated (4-0) teams with two interesting new coaches, Akers and Arkansas' Lou Holtz, two fine running backs, Earl Campbell and Arkansas' Ben Cowins, and a pair of two-way, long-distance kickers, the incredible Russell Erxleben and Arkansas' Steve Little, who both have a 60-yard field goal capability. As punters, both are averaging 46 yards.

If either team has an edge at quarterback it could be Arkansas with Ron Calcagni.

Texas' defense was the surprise in the Oklahoma game, a 13-6 upset last week. Afterward, Oklahoma's coach Barry Switzer said: "It was just too much Campbell, Shearer and Erxleben."

Brad Shearer, who has made a successful comeback from off-season knee surgery, is a likely All-American at defensive tackle for Texas this year but he's one of only two seniors in the defense, which lines up with no less than seven sophomores.

It is the talent of the sophomores that has converted the Longhorns into a college power this season and could well keep them up there for years.

At linebacker, for instance, although they graduated what some believe was their best three-man unit ever, the Longhorns may be better than last year with sophomores Lance Taylor and Mark Martignoni and five-year veteran Morgan Copeland.

The middle linebacker, Taylor, seemed quicker than Oklahoma's running backs. He may not have the height at 6-1 to be a great pro, but the Texans think he's a better 19-year-old linebacker than Rommy Novis was.

The sophomore safeties, All-American candidate Johnnie Johnson and Ricky Churchman, who both played extensively as freshmen, controlled the field against Oklahoma from hashmark to hashmark — and, when needed, all the way up to the scrimmage line.

Derrick Hallett, the sophomore left corner back, showed the speed to cover most college receivers man-for-man. And against Oklahoma, the two sophomores up there in the line with Shearer (Henry Williams and Steve McMichael) must have been doing something.

Paul talks to Yanks

Calling the latest chapter in the tumultuous life of the 1977 Yankees, Paul said: "The World Series is at stake and our guys have got to bear down and start playing ball and forget all the other stuff. My philosophy about ballplayers and ballclubs is that controversial players are sometimes better performers because they are un-mindful of the consequences."

"I don't mind controversial players and situations. What I do mind is a miser who is worried about what's going to happen. The decisions on the ballfield are the players'. The decisions what to do with the players are up to the manager." Paul did say, however, that "we gave the Dodgers better tickets in New York than they gave us here." But he noted that under baseball rules a team is allowed 650 tickets, with 150 assigned to the players. "There is no designation as to location," he said, pointing out that Cedric Tallis, the Yankees' vice president, is "sitting in right field because we don't have better tickets and some other executives are sitting pretty far out in right field." "We're allowed two boxes near the dugout for club executives. And I certainly think we're entitled to sit where club executives usually sit."

Permian, Odessa romp in 5-4A grid action

Odessa Permian moves into sole possession of first place in the District 5-4A football race, thanks to Odessa High which stunned San Angelo Central, 17-0 Friday night.

Permian built up a 36-6 lead over Big Spring and used second and third stringers and the Steers came back to score 15 points in the final period to lose, 36-21. Barry Babecek scored two touchdowns for Mojo which is now 6-0 on the year and 3-0 in 5-4A play.

Other TDs turned in by the Panthers were by Alap Swann, Brain Vickers, David Aldridge and Vic Vines.

The Panthers had 345 yards rushing and 44 passing for a total offense of 389 yards.

Charles Whittington boomed a 42-yard field goal for OHS while teammates Daniel Stevens and Steve Shannon scored TDs in the Bronchos 17-0 win. OHS is now 4-2 and 2-1 and Central also 4-2 and 2-1.

Rampaging Pack sacks Eagles for 35-27 win

as a present one of their finest performances since Hopkins took over as Midland coach last year.

The offense, led by the running of Bryson, fullback Brently Jackson, the wingback Alvin Price, racked up 447 yards in total offense, with 332 of it coming in the first half, when they jumped out of a 28-7 lead.

Midland played almost flawlessly until the last three minutes of the game, when they saw a seemingly unbeatible 35-13 lead get cut apart.

After Jackson's two-yard scoring run with 10:46 left in the fourth quarter gave them that 22-point cushion, Abilene quarterback Glenn Stirman caught fire. A hard rush by the likes of David Collins, Rickey Goods, Robert Montgomery and Billy Walker, who had sacked Stirman four times in the first half for 31 yards in losses, kept the Eagle passing game in check through three quarters, but he began getting the needed protection in the final 10 minutes, and drove his team 82 yards on 19 plays, hitting fullback Joe Diggs on a two-yard scoring pass with 2:42 left in the game. Ghe two-point attempt failed, and Midland still was in good shape, up 35-19.

The Eagle's on-side kick attempt failed, when Joe Mowles, who alternated with Doug Atnipp at the quarterback slot, fielded the ball. But a play later, Jackson fumbled, and Abilene's Greg Etter recovered on the Bulldog 42.

Stirman went right to the air on the first play, and hit Terry Austin with a perfect serial to make it 35-25. They went to two again, this time, Fields made it into the end-zone to cut the margin to eight.

They attempted an on side kick again, but it was touched by an Abilene player before it went the necessary 10 yards, and the Pack had only to kill 2:20 to ice the game. They did.

Price put the Pack on the board first, when he sprinted 72 yards down the left side of the field for a touchdown with 5:03 left in the first period. The PAT was wide.

Abilene's Field's, who finished the game as the leading rusher with 165 yards on 22 carries, tied it with a one-yard plunge four minutes later, and the extra point by Reggie Heckman gave Abilene the lead, 7-6.

But the Dogs left them in the dust after that, with a 22-point second quarter scoring surge. After successive 24 and 37 yard carries by Bryson had moved Midland inside the Abilene five, Mowles used tremendous second effort to sneak it over from a yard out.

With 4:24 left in the half, Atnipp heaved a 42-yard scoring pass to split end David Isby, who best his man by five yards. The point after by Montgomery made it 21-7.

But they weren't through. With no time left on the clock, Mowles sidestepped a defender, and then tossed a 37 yard scoring toss to a diving Craig Heineman. Montgomery's kick made it 28-7 at the half.

MC golfers finish 5th

ODESSA — Midland College finished fifth, 28 strokes off the winning 295 by Western Texas College, in the fourth Western Junior College Conference golf tournament of the season at Odessa Country Club Friday.

Led by Tommy Harper and Shayne Berry, who fired 80s, Midland College posted a 323.

As a result, MC dropped to fourth in the standings for the three tournaments thus far with 12 1/2 points. WTC leads with 19 while Odessa College has 16 and NMJC 15. Other scores are NMMI 8, Clarendon 7, and Frank Phillips 4.

Results of WJC golf tournament at Odessa: WTC 295, DC 310, NMJC 318, NMMI 321, MC 323, Clarendon and Frank Phillips 336. Midland College: Tommy Harper 80, Shayne Berry 80, Russell Wimberley 81, Bert Wimberley 82, Kelly Eng 82.

"I wish the ball hadn't hit Tommy's glove," Lasorda said. "I wish it had gone to the infield because it would have been a double play ball. That fourth-inning hit off the Penguin's (Cey) glove was also mighty close." "If the ball had been hit three inches closer to Ronnie it would have been a double play, and if that other one hadn't hit Tommy's glove it would have been a double play, too, and we might still be playing. But that's baseball," Yeager said. The Dodgers shook off questions about the bickering among the Yankees. "As long as they play together on the field, that's the thing," commented Yeager. Dodgers center fielder Rick Monday said of the Yankees: "They were unified as long as they stayed within the white lines;" in reference to the outline of the playing field. "They have a great deal of talent." When asked about the hit by Dent, Cey said: "I don't know if we'd have had a double play or not. It was just off the end of my glove...just out of my reach." Asked if he still was optimistic, Lasorda said: "Certainly. This is four-of-seven. They've got to win four we have to win four. I have the greatest confidence in this ball club."

Renee's foe walks off court during tourney

Unseeded Dr. Renee Richards advanced to the semifinals of a $75,000 women's pro tennis tournament Friday when fifth seeded Kerry Reid walked off the court. Dr. Richards, a transsexual, was leading 7-6, 4-1. Mrs. Reid's husband, Raz, literally threw in the towel, missing Dr. Richards with it by inches. Vitas Gerulaitis gained the semifinals of the Brisbane South Pacific Tennis Tournament with a 6-0, 7-6 win over Nick Saviano. Ken Rosewall and Tony Roche will meet in the other semi while top-seeded Gerulaitis meets Hank Pfister.

Eddie Dibbs beat Wojtek Fibak 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 to gain the semifinals of the Madrid Tennis Tournament against Bjorn Borg, 6-2, 6-2 winner over Jose Higueras.

SPAIN'S SEVERIANO
Ballesteros shot an eight-under-par to climb within two strokes of Nick Faldo, the leader of the Lancome Golf Tournament at Paris after two rounds. The California Angels named Ray Poitevint as director of scouting and player development Friday. The Angels also announced that coach Del Crandall will not return next year. Fourteen Del Valle High School football players have contracted viral meningitis over the past three weeks, school authorities revealed Friday.

NBC has signed a new four-year contract with the National Football League to telecast the American Conference games through 1981. The agreement calls for a 16-week regular season schedule, two more than in the current contract. The Pittsburgh Steelers have listed quarterback Terry Bradshaw as doubtful for Monday night's NFL game against Cincinnati, but Bradshaw says he'll play.

"I didn't come here to sit around," Bradshaw said. "I came here to win." Bradshaw last week broke a bone in his left wrist in a game against Houston.

Archer leads way with 67

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — George Archer fashioned a solid three-under-par 67 Friday and overtook Charles Coody as the second-round leader in the $150,000 Texas Open golf tournament.

Archer, showing a return to the form that made him one of the pro golf tour's most consistent money winners, had a total of 131, nine-under-par for two rounds over the rolling, tree-lined Oak Hills Country Club Course that plays to a 6,525-yard par 70.

Coody managed a 70 Friday after firing a near course record 63 on the opening day. The lanky Texan had a costly triple bogey six after four-putting the sloping, slick 18th green.

Miller Barber, who lost this tourney last year in a sudden death playoff, compiled the day's lowest round, a sizzling six-under-par 64 that vaulted him into second place with a 132 total, one shot behind Archer.

Butch Baird, the defending champion, missed the 36-hole cut with a 74-148. Seventy-six players remained for the final two rounds, with three-over-par 143 being the cutoff score.

Coody and Carlton White, shared third place at 133. White, who must win $6,075.50 in this tournament or lose his playing card, had a 66 Friday.

Range war rages again

The roles don't quite mesh the way they should, but it's the range war all over again and apparently it may become just as long and drawn out as the 19th century folklore fodder.

A football coach, overseer of all that beef on the hoof somehow seems more natural for the cattleman's role, but Oklahoma's University Coach Barry Switzer finds himself allied with the sheepherders. He's the one who wants to build those fences to keep the press, those stampeding herds who pluck every last blade of grass and digest it in a story.

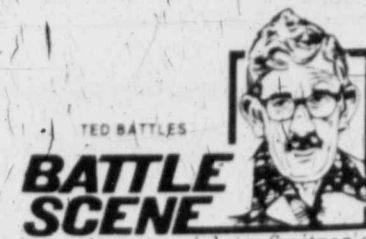

It all began last winter when a Daily Oklahoman writer got wind of an NCAA investigation of possible violations in the Sooners' football program. Dutifully, the writer reported it as a news-worthy happening.

ON THE Norman campus, where nerves will still jangle from a recent probation that cost the Sooners oodles in bowl and TV appearances, the Oklahoman's report evoked a Pearl Harbor reaction from super-sensitive fans.

Blindly and somewhat irrationally they lashed back as though the Daily Oklahoman was conducting the investigation and not the NCAA.

Last week the range war flared anew when Daily Oklahoman writer Walt Jayroe reported an injury to OU tackle Phil Tabor on the even of the OU-Texas game.

Switzer charged he had requested the press not to publicize Tabor's injury. Jayroe ignored the request and mentioned it in the last paragraph of the story. He was the only writer to violate Switzer's appeal.

THE UPSHOT was that Switzer barred Jayroe and the Oklahoman from workouts, apparently forever.

Switzer's request is understandable, if for no other reason than that he might have wanted to protect the player from becoming a target for an opponent. Those things do happen.

From the writer's standpoint, it was an open practice. Anything that happened was fair game. Other writers and probably hangers-on were present. Jayroe reported the injury in print. Another writer or even a spectator could have respected Switzer's request but hurried to the nearest phone and forwarded the intelligence and any other information in regard to tactics that he observed during the workouts to the opposition.

Switzer, if he had something to hide, should have hidden it closing practice or keeping Tabor out of the sight of an inquisitive press.

IT SEEMS an inconsequential thing to receive all the space and the wide coverage it has in the last few days. Obviously, there is more to it. Switzer apparently is suspicious of the press and the Daily Oklahoman apparently feels its integrity is at stake and doesn't want a football coach serving as its editor. The example of the dictatorial manipulation of the Columbus press by Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes probably is enough to frighten the Oklahoman out of any hint of a cheerleading role.

In any case it's a feud that will continue to fester and probably erupt anew. Meanwhile, get a bag of popcorn while waiting for the next exciting chapter. Incidentally, how did that last chapter with the NCAA come out? They never finished it, did they?

The forecast:
Texas 17, Arkansas 14 — Even with a third string quarterback, we've got to go with Earl.

Texas Tech 48, Rice 14 — Homer Rice claims the Owls will be competitive in 1979. Unfortunately, this is 1977.

Texas A&M 28, Baylor 16 — Aggies well rested.

Houston 21, SMU 19 — Mustangs not all that bad.

Oklahoma 20, Missouri 7 — Sooners rebound.

Michigan 31, Wisconsin 7 — Honeymoon ends for unbeaten Badgers.

Ohio State 30, Iowa 0 — Buckeyes rolling again.

Nebraska 19, Iowa State 17 — For Big Eight survival.

S. Dakota State 17, N. Dakota 14 — S. Dakota St. lost to N. Dakota State, but N. Dakota beat S. Dakota so, naturally, it's S. Dakota State. Let's see, now, have I got that straight?
