Rural areas might not feel cutback

By JEFFREY MILLS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, considering an end to Saturday mail deliveries, may allow them to continue in some rural areas.

The provision would be aimed at parts of the country where weekly newspapers often are delivered on Saturday. Urban areas would probably not be eligible.

"One of the things that we have under consideration is to give rural areas that need Saturday delivery a local option," Deputy Postmaster General William Bolger said in an interview.

Under the option, if Saturday mail were continued in some areas, deliveries would be discontinued in those areas on another day of the week.

Bolger called the proposal "one of the major issues" under consideration in the event deliveries are cut to five days a week.

He said any cutback would not take place for at least several months because the Postal Rate Commission must hold hearings on any reduced service proposal, then issue an advisory opinion before the change could take place.

TI to build second plant

DALLAS — Texas Instruments Incorporated announced today that construction will begin Nov. 14 on a 60,000-square-foot consumer products manufacturing building on a 200-acre site midway between Midland and Odessa.

A TI spokesman said the structure, expected to be occupied early in 1978, is the initial phase of a manufacturing complex envisioned for the site located one mile south of Midland Regional Air Terminal on Interstate 20. No timetable has been established for other major buildings at the location, the spokesman said.

The TI Consumer Products Group will operate the new plant in addition to the present 73,000-square-foot plant at Midland Regional Air Terminal, noted TI site manager Bill Steele.

St. Lawrence shindig brings out all ages

ST. LAWRENCE — Allan Sparks dipped a plastic cup into a bucket of beer his sidekick Clay Harris had just picked up at the rustic counter.

He handed the dripping cup to a new-found buddy at the 21st (or thereabouts) annual St. Lawrence Fall Festival here Sunday afternoon. "Everybody's friends here. I don't care who you are," said Sparks, who colored himself as "a cowboy and a son of a gun."

He looked the part. Sparks, from Stanton, was wearing

At least 37 perish after dam bursts

By JACK STILLMAN

TOCCOA, Ga. (AP) — The campus of a small, northeastern Georgia college lay in ruins after an earthen dam broke and sent torrents of water rushing through the sleeping community of Toccoa.

At least 37 persons, including 20 children, were killed in flooding that followed the dam break Sunday morning. Two others were reported missing.

"I believe that sometimes God allows Satan to do things, hoping to discourage us, and we are tested in that way," said Bob Harner of Ravenna, Ohio, who gathered with other mourners for a candlelight service on the ravaged Toccoa Falls Bible College campus. His wife and 2-year-old son died in the flood.

Gov. George Busbee inspected the damage and said later that the dam that broke above Toccoa Falls was one of 84 such earthen embankments in Georgia that had been declared high-hazard dams by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The hazard designation does not mean the dams are structurally unsafe but that if they broke, damage would be significant, a corps spokesman said.

Busbee said federal and state inspections were being made of other dams in northern Georgia to prevent another disaster.

First lady Rosalynn Carter, a Georgia native, flew to the community from Washington Sunday. She told Toccoa's 9,000 residents and the Bible College students that President Carter had promised federal assistance.

Crews worked into the night searching for victims and cleaning up debris. The community was without electricity or natural gas service because of damage to major distribution lines. Water was scarce, some of it carried into the city by neighboring residents. Officials said they expected the college to remain closed for at least a week.

Weakened by two days of heavy rain, the dam — which held back tons of water in an 80-acre lake above the scenic Toccoa Falls — gave way about 1:30 a.m.

The water picked up speed as it dropped over the 186-foot falls and smashed into the valley, demolishing or severely damaging at least a dozen houses and some 15 mobile homes. Most of the damage occurred in the low-lying campus housing area.

Three volunteer firemen also were killed. They were in the area to warn residents that a creek meandering through campus was near flood stage.

"There was this awful screaming and the ripping of metal," said Bill Stacy, 19, who lived in a mobile home with his parents, two brothers and a sister. "It is a miracle, but we all got out, and my parents helped hunt for the bodies later."

The dam, built by the college about 1940, was last inspected three days ago, said Bible College president Kenn Opperman. He did not say who conducted the inspection.

Opperman said the only previous problem in his four years in office occurred about a year ago, when water spilled over the dam and

Guilty verdicts returned in Bolles' case

By CAROL JACKSON

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — All the conspirators have not been identified yet, chief prosecutor William Schafer III says, but the state eventually will prosecute all those responsible for the death of newsmen Don Bolles.

"We have always maintained that there's a small band of conspirators," Schafer said. "As I said before, we don't have all the conspirators, but we will."

A Superior Court jury convicted suburban plumber James Robison and Phoenix contractor Max Dunlap of first-degree murder and conspiracy Sunday afternoon in the Arizona Republic reporter's death. The conspiracy conviction also included the plot to kill Arizona Attorney General Bruce Babbitt and Al "King Alfonso" Lizanetz, 51, a former employee of multimillion liquor wholesaler Kemper Marley Sr., whose name has figured prominently in the investigation of Bolles' murder.

Robison and Dunlap face possible execution by gas when Superior Court Judge Howard Thompson pronounces sentence Dec. 6.

Bolles was fatally injured June 2, 1976, when a bomb exploded beneath his car as he backed from a space in the Clarandon House hotel parking lot. He mumbled the names "Adamson," "Emprise," and "Mafia" to passersby as he lay on the pavement.

Hospitalized 11 days before his death, Bolles lost both legs and an arm to infection.

Robison, 55, and Dunlap, 48, were arrested Jan. 15, after John Harvey Adamson admitted his role in the carbomb slaying.

Adamson, the state's key witness in the murder trial, admitted planting a homemade dynamite bomb beneath Bolles' car after luring him to the mid-Phoenix hotel with a false news tip. Adamson claimed Robison triggered the blast with a radio-control transmitter.

Dunlap, Adamson testified, hired him to kill Bolles, Babbitt and Lizanetz. Babbitt was reportedly a target because of an antitrust suit against the liquor industry and Lizanetz because of his constant barrage of letters to legislators reporting alleged Marley crimes.

Adamson said Dunlap told him Marley would finance the assassinations.

Neither Babbitt nor Lizanetz was harmed.

Phoenix police detective Jon Sellers, chief state investigator, said after court, "We have got some new information as a result of the trial...This gives us more avenues of investigation, leading towards more conspirators. This isn't the end."

As the verdict was announced for Dunlap, his eldest daughter, Pam, burst into sobs and threw her arms around her mother, Barbara.

Several of Dunlap's five daughters and two sons cried.

Mrs. Dunlap clutched the back of the court bench and closed her eyes. Occasionally, she said, "Hush, children. This is not the place."

Dunlap struck the defense table with a hesitant fist after the verdict was read and looked toward his family.

Pam Dunlap reached toward her father as he was ushered out the door and pleaded, "Can't we speak with him?"

The deputy responded with a brusque, "No, not now."

Dunlap said, "They won't let me talk to you kids. Everything is normal...I'll see you later."

The stocky Robison contained his feelings and said to his court-appointed attorney, David Derickson, "That's the breaks."

Derickson, who tried to prove Robison was across town at the time Adamson claimed the plumber met him, said he was "extremely disappointed."

"I can't believe that 12 people could not find sufficient doubt in the evidence presented to return a verdict of not guilty," Derickson said.

John Savoy, assistant defense attorney for Dunlap, said, "The verdict was wrong. They refused to let in evidence concerning the defense theories of why Bolles was killed."

Paul Smith of Boston, head of Dunlap's defense team, contended Phoenix attorney Neal Roberts was behind the killing and framed Dunlap. Roberts and Robison are charged with the attempted bombing of a federal building in Phoenix.

Roberts took the stand, but refused to answer any questions, saying his answers might be used against him in the pending federal action.

Smith, who was absent from court Sunday, also tried to show Adamson was working for the New York-based Emprise Corp. Reorganized under the name of Ramcorp, Inc., Emprise owns all six of the state's greyhound tracks and one horse racing track. It was the target was the subject of several of Bolles' investigative pieces.

Two of those articles were read to the jury during eight weeks of testimony, but Thompson barred other references.

Adamson explained to the jury during his eight days on the witness stand that Marley wanted Bolles killed because of articles the reporter wrote that spoiled Marley's 1976 appointment to the State Racing Commission.

Marley was not charged and strongly denied any involvement when he testified during Dunlap's defense. Marley said he did not want the post to begin with, but was pressured into accepting. Marley called Bolles "just another reporter," one of many covering Marley's activities, and said he "didn't pay any attention" to Bolles' articles.

During closing arguments, Schafer called Marley's commission defeat "ignoble," and said, "Don Bolles was writing and dredging up old things from the past. Bolles is the only one who sticks out like that...What really mad Mr. Marley mad was not that he didn't get the appointment, but the way he didn't get it."

Bail question among those to be decided

Midlanders will go to the polls Tuesday to vote on whether bail can be denied certain persons charged with committing crimes while already out on bond and six other proposed state constitutional amendments.

Amendment 3 would give judges the power to deny bail to persons who are charged with committing crimes while on bail on a prior felony indictment and to persons who have a previous felony conviction and are charged with committing a crime using a deadly weapon.

If bail was denied under this amendment, the individual would have to be tried within 60 days.

Amendment 1, if approved, would expand the Court of Criminal Appeals from its present five judges to nine and would allow the court to sit in three-judge panels. The purpose of this amendment is to speed up the appeals process.

Also on the ballot will be Amendment 2, which would allow an additional $200 million in bonds or obligations for the state Veterans' Land Fund. It also would allow sur-

Energy session slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees are returning to work on proposals they hope to shape into a national energy program while most of their congressional colleagues are out of town for a three-week recess.

The conferees slated a session today on President Carter's proposal to force utilities and factories to stop burning oil and natural gas and switch to coal.

The committee plans to take up other non-tax portions of differing energy bills passed by the House and Senate, leaving the tax provisions to a second conference panel due to meet later in the week.

While the two committees will work separately, they may join on issues involving taxes and regulatory legislation.

President Carter plans to seek public support for his beleaguered energy proposals in a nationally televised speech Tuesday night.

Democratic congressional leaders who support the Carter energy package say the speech may improve the chances that a compromise meeting the president's criteria will emerge from the conference panel.

But critics say it is too late for Carter to have any significant impact.

With most other business out of the way for the year, congressional leaders hope the conferees will reach agreement on an energy measure. But it appears unlikely a final version will be completed before mid-December.

The House passed most of Carter's energy proposals, but the Senate changed some parts greatly and rejected key provisions in others.

The conference committee handling the non-tax sections met 13 times without resolving any of the major differences between the House and Senate.

The panel still faces conflicting proposals on natural gas pricing and electric utility rate reform.

The tax conferees must consider proposed taxes on crude oil and gasthirsty automobiles. Both provisions were passed by the House but rejected in the Senate.

A Senate Armed Services subcommittee was slated today to hear Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's assessment of American-Soviet progress toward limiting strategic armaments.

For some congressmen, the recess provides time to bone up on several subjects.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd and eight other senators leave Wednesday for a three-day trip to Panama.

Mormon Will trial scheduled to start today in Las Vegas

By JOHN M. WILLIS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Two hundred prospective jurors have been summoned for the beginning today of a trial to determine if the so-called Mormon Will was the authentic last testament of the late Howard Hughes.

It is one of two scheduled this month regarding the purported will. A Houston probate court judge has set a Nov. 14 date for a hearing to determine Hughes' legal residence.

Texas, which could gain millions of dollars in inheritance taxes, claims the Houston-born celebrity was a resident there at the time of his death. Hughes' relatives claim he was a resident of Nevada, where he lived for several years. Nevada has no inheritance tax.

The large number of potential jurors was called for the Las Vegas trial because of anticipated difficulties in selecting a six-member panel to decide the validity of the three-page, hand-scrawled document.

Clark County District Judge Keith Hayes noted that pre-trial coverage by the news media has been extensive, and the beneficiaries named in the purported will also pose some possible conflicts in the selection of jurors. Additionally, Hughes' gaming and hotel empire here is the state's largest employer, and there is a good chance that several Hughes employees will be among the 200.

Hughes left a vast empire when he died April 5, 1976. An accounting of the estate filed with the court shows assets totaling about $169 million.

Prior to the filing of the report, which will probably be disputed by the Internal Revenue Service, Hughes' fortune was variously reported to be in the billions.

More than 30 Hughes wills were received by the court here, but the so-called Mormon Will is the only one which has gained any recognition, and revelations of the past year involving Melvin Dummar of Ogden, Utah, have cast doubt on that document.

Dummar, who used to operate a service station in Willard, Utah, has admitted delivering the will to the Mormon Church headquarters in Salt Lake City, where it was found on April 27, 1976.

Dummar is named in the will to receive one-sixteenth of the estate. Dummar's only explanation for being named in the will is a story about meeting a bedraggled old man in the desert north of here in the late 1960s.

Dummar claims he gave the old man a ride to a Las Vegas hotel where Hughes was known to have been living at the time, and that the man indirectly identified himself as Hughes.

Other beneficiaries are the Boy Scouts, the University of Texas, the University of Nevada, the University of California, Rice University, orphans, the City of Long Beach, Calif., and the Mormon Church.

Hughes' relatives contend that the Mormon will is a forgery, an opinion shared by the FBI.

While some of the handwriting is similar to that of Hughes, FBI analysts have declared the document a "rank forgery." Some of the misspellings in the document also are suspect, as is the general format of the will. Hughes was a fussy man, one who demanded perfection.

The style of the Mormon Will does not suggest it was done with care. Defending the Mormon Will is Los Angeles attorney Harold Rhoden, who represents former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich.

Dietrich, 89, is named by the will as executor of the estate, and Rhoden has been named special executor as it pertains to the Mormon Will because of Dietrich's advanced age.

Rhoden has admitted in court that there is little about the will above suspicion.

Hayes has saddled Rhoden with the burden of proving that the document is genuine, a task which is formidable.

Rhoden also must appear Nov. 14 in Houston before Probate Judge Pat Gregory. Rhoden said he can't be in two places at once, and that he has no one to send to Houston as his representative. Attorneys for Hughes' relatives have made arrangements to be represented at both trials.

Hayes issued an order prohibiting Texas officials from seeking a default judgment against Rhoden if he does not appear in Houston on Nov. 14, but Texas Attorney General John Hill has ignored the order. Texas authorities claim the Houston trial date was set before the Nevada date.

DEATHS

Dave Castle

FORT STOCKTON — Services for Dave Castle, 45-year-old weatherman for an Odessa television station, are pending with Jack Rowe Funeral Home in League City.

Trial judge rules out admission of some Davis defense testimony

By JIM BRIGANCE

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Some of the startling testimony of a defense witness in the Cullen Davis capital murder will not be presented to the jury.

Judge Dowlen told prosecution and defense lawyers of his ruling this morning before the trial was resumed. The trial, which was scheduled to reconvene at 9 a.m., had not begun by midmorning.

The material that the judge will not allow before the jury includes threats allegedly made by W.T. Rufner against Davis shot her, Farr and Mrs. Davis. Dowlen also said the jury would not hear Mrs. Worth mansion shortly after midnight.

Davis and his girlfriend, Karen Master, have claimed Davis was asleep at Mrs. Masters' home at the time of the killings.

Last week's testimony included Rufner, Malcolm McDaniel, Valerie Faulkner, Becky Ferguson and Mrs. Myers, all of whom painted a scene of drug use and free-wheeling sex as part of Mrs. Davis' lifestyle.

Dowlen allowed Mrs. Myers on Saturday to tell the jury that Mrs. Davis had told her shortly before Farr's death that "something heavy is coming down" but he withheld a ruling as to whether she could relate before the jury that Mrs. Davis had talked of getting "rid of" Farr, or that Rufner had once told her, "I'm going to get that tall s-o-b..."

Mrs. Davis has claimed Mrs. Davis shot her, Farr and Mrs. Davis. Gavrel just as they arrived at the $6 million Fort Worth mansion shortly after midnight.

Venerable bandleader Guy Lombardo dies

HOUSTON (AP) — Famed bandleader Guy Lombardo, whose "Auld Lang Syne" became a New Year's Eve mainstay for nearly a half century, died late Saturday night in Methodist Hospital. He was 75.

Lombardo died from a respiratory insufficiency stemming from the pulmonary problem for which he was admitted, a hospital spokesman said. His wife, Lillie Bell, was with him when he died about 9:45 p.m. CST. Funeral arrangements are pending in Long Island, N.Y.

He was admitted to the Houston hospital Oct. 27 after undergoing heart surgery in late September.

He had been listed in critical condition earlier Saturday although a spokesman said "he seems to be improving a little."

Guy Albert Lombardo Jr. started his musical career in 1914, 12 years after he was born in London, Ontario. He formed a band to play at small dances; he was a violinist, but was never to gain fame for playing an instrument.

Lombardo's New Year's Eve performances became a tradition for many Americans on Dec. 31, 1929, when his Royal Canadians first played the tune for a radio audience.

Lombardo was 27, and the band had been formed five years before.

Lombardo and his two brothers, Carmen and Lebert, formed the band in their native Canada and shifted to Cleveland and then Chicago. The youngest brother, Victor, joined the 9-piece band in 1930, and a sister, Rose Marie, sang with the Canadians until her marriage.

From that time to the present, the Lombardo sound has been a simple smoothness — Lombardo would take an arrangement, and "put it in a singing key, the key you'd sing in at home, more or less," he once said.

"If we play 'Stardust' of 'Smoke Gets in Your Eyes,' there's no doubt about it — that's it," he noted.

With that formula, the Royal Canadians managed to produce more than 300 hits. Among them were "Boo Hoo," "Little White Lies," "Easter Parade," "You're Driving Me Crazy" and "Seems Like Old Times," a song which highlighted Woody Allen's 1977 film Annie Hall.

Popularity came swiftly to Lombardo and his band, although Chicago was a demanding, and dangerous, town in the late 1920s. One night, Lombardo was faced with a drunken reveler who took his microphone. Lombardo knocked him out with one punch.

Several nights later, the customer Lombardo punched out returned, and this time he brought a gun. The man, a mobster named George Maloney, shot to death two other gangsters in the middle of the dance floor, the first murder ever broadcast live.

It was in Chicago that Lombardo's band earned the moniker "the sweetest music this side of heaven," a phrase attributed to Ashton Stevens, a Chicago critic.

The band moved to New York in 1929, just before the Stock Market crash, and took up residence at the Hotel Roosevelt Grill, the site of the soon-to-be traditional New Year's

Guy Lombardo

Eve bash. From then to now, Lombardo has been in New York for New Years.

For the most part, Lombardo concentrated on avoiding new things. A number of times the bandleader decided to modernize, and each time the band lost some of its following.

So instead of changing with the times, Lombardo watched as sounds from jazz to rock and roll caught the popular imagination. He was dismissed as an anachronism, but the Lombardo sound was still selling records at the time of his death.

Record sales, millions of dollars in bookings, and a sharp eye for business teamed to make Lombardo a rich man. In addition to the band, the Lombardo brothers owned a music publishing house, and Guy Lombardo invested in Texas oil, a restaurant near his home in Freeport, L.I., and a number of show business spectaculars at Jones Beach, N.Y.

The money Lombardo earned allowed him to enjoy a hobby that few would identify him with — speed-boating. Lombardo and his boat, Tempo VI, won the Gold Cup at Detroit and the National Sweepstakes in Red Bank, N.J., both in 1946. In 1948, he briefly held the North American straightaway record for single-engined craft, 118.2 mph.

But in the 1948 Gold Cup race, Lombardo was traveling at more than 100 mph when he swerved to avoid another boat that crossed his path. He was thrown 15 feet, and wound up with a broken arm, cuts and bruises and a badly damaged boat.

Soviets mark 60th anniversary

The Los Angeles Times

MOSCOW — The curtain opens to reveal a wall-size picture of the Winter Palace in Petrograd — site of what the Soviet leadership calls "the most important event in the 20th century and the beginning of the world's historic transition from capitalism to socialism."

On a miniature stage in front of the picture are hundreds of figures depicting the Bolshevik-led revolutionaries charging across an open square toward the palace.

Inspiring music in the background grows louder as a man's voice tells the story of that November night in 1917 — October by the Russian calendar of the time, which leads to the Russian reference to the October Revolution. There is the boom of the cruiser Aurora's foredeck gun firing a signal and then the sounds of more firing and men shouting.

"It was a real battle," the voice intones.

So goes the official version of the storming of the Winter Palace and the birth of the modern Soviet state that is dispensed at Moscow's Museum of the Revolution. It is the reason for this week's big 60th anniversary celebration here — the Soviet Union's July 4.

It is also a bit of a historical overstatement.

"Every country has its historical myth," an American Sovietologist here said, "and the storming of the Winter Palace is their's. Our's is the heroic farmer fighting from behind trees to repel the British invaders."

In fact, the American revolution did not get very far until George Washington organized a conventional army using conventional tactics, despite the more romantic image of the heroic farmer.

Similarly, the storming of the Winter Palace was not really much of a battle — despite what the announcer at the Revolutionary Museum says. The Bolshevik take over on Nov. 7 and 8, 1917, was actually an almost bloodless coup.

By contrast, the subsequent battle for control of Moscow lasted several days and claimed as many as 3,000 lives. One could even make a good argument that the turning point in the Bolshevik Revolution came not with the storming of the Winter Palace but with the surrender of the Kremlin eight days later.

Even though Petrograd — now Leningrad — was the seat of government in 1917, Moscow was still the symbol of Russia. It was then, as it is now, the largest city in the country and the Kremlin was its spiritual citadel. Russia's critical railroad network branched out from Moscow like spokes from the hub of a wheel.

"Had Moscow held, it would have been a critical challenge to the Bolsheviks," a student of the revolution said. "Had there been a loyal government in Moscow, the Bolsheviks in Petrograd almost certainly couldn't have held power."

V.I. Lenin confirmed that assessment when he dispatched reinforcements from Petrograd to help with the battle for Moscow five days after he took power.

"Remember," Lenin said, "Moscow is the heart of Russia, and this heart should be Soviet. Otherwise the revolution can't be saved."

Four months later he moved his new government here permanently.

There are few signs today that Moscow played such a critical role in the revolution. But the visitor to Leningrad can still walk into the room in the Winter Palace where the Bolsheviks captured members of the provisional government and find it just as it was then. The Smolny Institute, which served as Lenin's headquarters, is today the headquarters for both the city and the district party organizations. But the rooms where Lenin lived and worked are preserved as minimuseums. And the aura is a floating museum of the revolution.

It is difficult to find any evidence of the revolution in Moscow, however. Even the Moscow Revolutionary Museum devotes little space to the subject. In contrast to the huge diorama devoted to the storming of the Winter Palace, the museum has only a poster-size map of Moscow filled with arrows and symbols marking the key troop movements and battles for control of the city.

Mikhail Zelkovich, chief guide for the Moscow Excursion Bureau, said there are plans for a new revolutionary museum here in which the role of Moscow will get far more emphasis. But asked when it will be opened he only laughed.

"Who knows?" he shrugged.

One reason why there are so few memorials of the revolution here may be the city's penchant for tearing down old buildings to put up new ones. Zelkovich said that between 3,000 and 4,000 buildings are razed every year.

"Those who are interested in preserving historical monuments really have to fight against the architects of today," he said.

One district falling prey to the bulldozer is Krasnaya Presnya, near where the American Embassy stands today. In 1917 it was a stronghold of the proletariat, located just outside the "ring road" that surrounds central Moscow.

It is a district where it is still possible to find the log houses that were ancient at the time of the revolution. But it is run down, and its reputation is bad. A Soviet journalist has labeled it a "garbage district." The pressure to modernize seems relentless.

"You think these old wooden houses are charming," a Moscow woman said, "but for the people who have to live in them they are horrible. That's why we would rather see them torn down to make room for new apartment houses."

The city fathers compromised when it came to the old wooden house at No. 4 Bolshevik St. in the district. In 1975 they remodeled it by adding on a large, modern concrete building. The whole thing today is the Krasnaya Presnya District Museum, which contains several exhibits devoted to the November Revolution in Moscow.

The scene of perhaps the heaviest fighting during those November days in Moscow "has changed so much that very little is left from the way it was in 1917," Zelkovich said. Known as the Nikitsky Gates, the square was a key outpost for the counter-revolutionaries, lying about halfway between their stronghold around the Kremlin and the concentration of revolutionaries in the Krasnaya Presnya district.

"Fifty cases of ammunition were spent right here," Zelkovich said.

But instead of pock-marked buildings, the main features of the square today are a park and the modernist headquarters of Tass, the official Soviet news agency. The only sign of any historic significance is a large plaque depicting some red soldiers. The plaque is mounted on the wall of a movie theater across from the Tass Building.

Those most hallowed of Russian historical attractions, Red Square and the Kremlin, were central to the battle for Moscow.

Cowboys sack Giants, 24-10, for 8th in row

By HAL BOCK

Joe Pisarcik, quarterback of the New York Giants, had a chance to meet each of them on a personal basis Sunday as the unbeaten Cowboys scored a 24-10 victory, running their National Football League winning streak to eight games.

BETWEEN THEM, the four linemen had six of the eight sacks that Pisarcik suffered. Linebacker Tom Henderson and safety Randy Hughes recorded the others.

"We just kept coming, like we always do," said White. "I don't key on anything. I just keep coming."

Pisarcik, an alert quarterback, noticed all the Dallas visitors.

"We called our extra pass blocking 'Joe protection,'" he said. It really means the backs stay back to help the ends. But Dallas messed us up by calling delayed blitzes all the time.

"Then there is 'the Henderson problem'" Pisarcik continued. "He's so quick I'd look up and say, 'What are you doing here?'"

HENDERSON, WHO had a piece of six tackles to go with his sack, understood Pisarcik's dilemma.

"Our defense dominates a game," he said. "I feel sorry for the teams we play."

The Giants, of course, can use all the sympathy they can get. From the Cowboys, all they got was trouble.

With Dallas defenders swarming all over him, Pisarcik was able to complete only 6 of 17 passes for 61 yards, but when you deduct the 59 yards he lost on those eight sacks, New York's net air gain come to just 2 yards.

Roger Staubach had a comfortable 15 completions for the Cowboys, including three long ones to Drew Pearson that kept Dallas scoring drives moving. Pearson's catches were for 25, 23 and 41 yards, stretching his streak to 39 games in which he has had at least one reception.

HIS FIRST catch, on a third-and-15 play, kept the Cowboys moving in a drive that was completed by Staubach's 5-yard TD pass to Billy Joe DuPree. Then Pearson grabbed the 23-yarder in a drive helped by a long pass interference call against

New York's Bill Bryant and climaxed by Tony Dorsett's 1-yard TD plunge.

Pearson's third grab for 41 yards came with the Cowboys en route to Efrén Herrera's 35-yard field goal.

Dallas' first TD came when Jay Saldi recovered a fumbled punt at the 8-yard line and took it into the end zone.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Orantes, Borg register wins

TOKYO — Top seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain outclassed ninth-seeded Kim Warwick of Australia 6-2, 6-1 in the finals of the $100,000 Fred Perry Japan Open tennis tournament to take the $18,000 top prize.

Warwick and Geoff Masters of Australia won the doubles crown with a 6-2, 7-6 victory over countrymen Colin Dibley and Chris Kachel.

PARIS — Italy's Corrado Barazzutti upset top-seeded Brian Gottfried 7-6, 7-6, 6-7, 3-6, 6-4 in the finals of the $50,000 Open Crocodile Tennis Tournament.

Barazzutti, Italy's No. 2 player, played the seesaw 4½-hour marathon with exceptional artistry. He showed the kind of baseline command that enabled him to crush Gottfried earlier this year in the quarter-finals of the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, N.Y.

COLOGNE, West Germany — Top-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden won the men's singles championship of the Cologne Grand Prix Tennis Tournament, beating Poland's Wojtek Fibak 2-6, 7-5, 6-3 in the finals.

It was the 21st successive tournament victory and the fourth straight Grand Prix triumph for the Swedish Wimbledon winner.

LIMA, Peru — Mario Martinez defeated Miguel Mautua 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 10-8, and Carlos Alvarado downed Luis Olmedo 6-0, 6-1, 6-3 in singles matches as Bolivia defeated Peru to clinch victory in the first elimination round of the South American zone of the Davis Cup.

BUENOS AIRES — Transsexual Dr. Renee Richards scored a 6-0, 7-6 victory over Viviana Gonzalez of Argentina to advance to the finals of the $10,000 River Plate Open Tennis Tournament. She will meet 16-year-old Ivanna Madruga of Argentina in the finals.

Ali wants no part of Norton

LAS VEGAS — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali said he would not obey the orders of the World Boxing Council to make a formal commitment to fight Ken Norton, who beat Jimmy Young in a 15-round split decision.

WBC President Jose Sulaiman of Mexico said that Ali must make the commitment within 60 days to fight Norton within six months or face being stripped of his crown.

Paul Moser opens lead

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Fifth-year pro Paul Moser of Somerset, Mass., won seven of eight match play games and opened a commanding 212-pin lead over Rick Miner of Portland, Ore., after the fourth round of the $60,000 Syracuse Open Professional Bowlers Association tournament.

Moser, whose only title came when he won the 1976 U.S. Open, began head-to-head match play with a 51-pin lead, then averaged 220 for his eight match play games to move within range of his second PBA title.

Moser rolled games of 214, 241, 206, 198, 227, 216, 244 and 215.

McDonald wins first major

SYDNEY, Australia — Trevor McDonald of Australia won his first major golf tournament beating Billy Dunk on the second hole of sudden death playoff in the $22,470 New South Wales Open Golf Championship.

Waltrip holds on for win

HAMPTON, Ga. — Darrell Waltrip tucked his Chevrolet under Donnie Allison's Chevy in the third turn of the last lap, and held on for victory as Allison and Cale Yarborough crashed fighting for second behind him in the rain-troubled Dixie 500 Grand National stock car race.

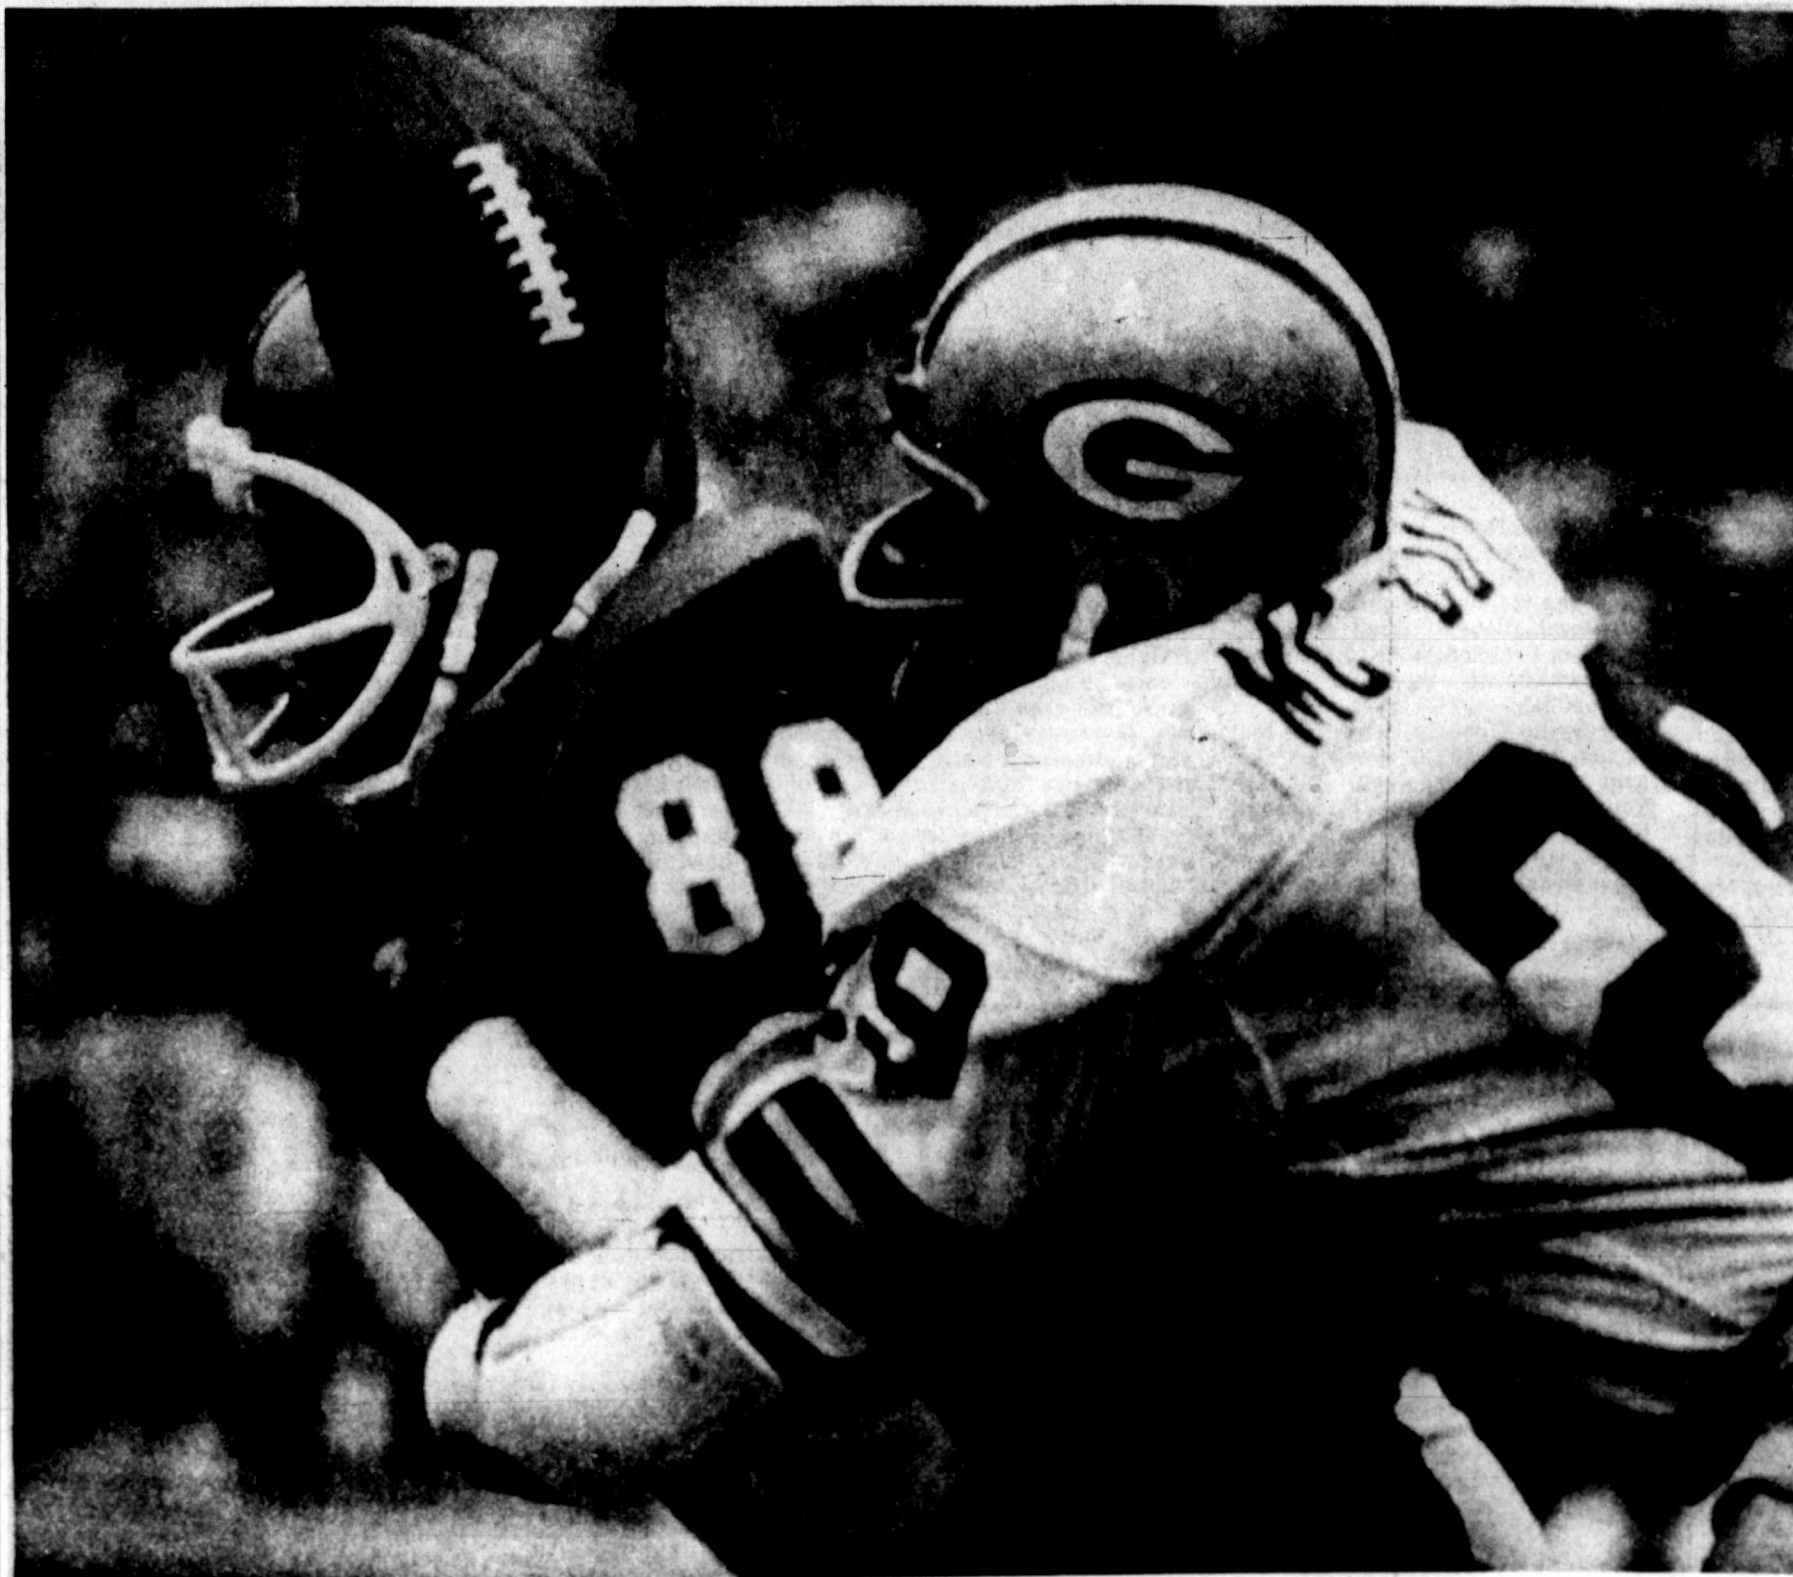

David Pearson plunged through the careening cars for second, 100 yards behind Waltrip, with Benny Parsons third. Allison and Yarborough wrestled the battered, smoking cars across the line for the next two positions. Richard Petty, who eased off when he saw trouble, was sixth.

AJACCIE, Corsica — France's Bernard Darniche and Alain Mahe piloted a Fiat Abarth to victory in the Tour of Corsica auto rally, giving Fiat the World Rally Championship.

Bruins' star hospitalized

The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — UCLA's football team may have to finish its schedule without starting quarterback Rick Bashore, who was hospitalized Sunday with a collapsed left lung and broken rib. Bashore, injured in Saturday's 21-3 Bruin victory over Oregon, will definitely miss this Saturday's game with Oregon State and will be doubtful for the UCLA-USC game Nov. 28.

McCright carries on in Midland tradition

Gary McCright emerged from the trainer's room with a lump under his lower lip like he'd been stung by a hornet or a Horned Frog or something.

The Texas Tech linebacker from Midland Lee saw the concerned look and assured, "It's not as bad as it looks, just a pinch of tobacco between the gum and the cheek," move over Walt Garrison.

It was quite a different scene from six weeks ago when Gary sat slumped in front of his locker, battered, bruised, discouraged and smoldering just a bit after the 33-17 loss to Texas A&M.

Saturday it was a different world, and why not.

TECH HAD just thumped TCU 49-14 with an impressive last half and McCright had set up the back-breaking touchdown in the third period with a 37-yard interception return, the third of his college career, incidentally.

It seems Midland is developing a reputation for turning out linebackers. Before McCright, there was Larry Molinare at Tech, Steve Aycock and Wahoo McDaniel at Oklahoma among others.

And even now, Morgan Copeland is an integral part of No. 1 Texas' opponent-devouring defense. Unfortunately, Midland fans never had an opportunity to watch Morgan in high school. He grew up here, moved to Houston for his high school years and now that he's at Texas, his family has moved back to Midland.

BUT FOR McCright, the party is almost over. If Tech does wind up with a bowl bid, Gary, in effect, will be playing as an ex. He graduates in December.

There is no concern over the NFL draft. He has no pro plans.

"I'd like to get a job as a high school assistant or possibly stay on here at Tech as a graduate assistant," he said.

But Gary, who became a father last fall, says, "I've got a family, so I've got to go out and get something to make some money."

Right now, that can wait for graduation. There's still SMU, Houston and Arkansas left, not to mention those final final-exams.

A COUPLE of weeks ago, Sports Illustrated did a short feature on college football's super fans, noting that Dr. Charles Davis has attended every Maryland home game since 1930. Pretty good, huh?

Then there's Bob Beaven, a 53-year-old Houston accountant, who has seen more than 500 games. Giles Pellerin, a 71-year-old accounting examiner, has seen every Southern Cal game, home and away, since 1926, which includes all of the Notre Dame-USC games. His streak reached 544 with the Stanford game last week.

Although he was overlooked, there's another super-duper fan who deserves special mention. It's one thing to follow USC faithfully, that's easy, but what about a guy who has seen 351 TCU games, the last 315 in a row?

PROBABLY MOST of the folks in Midland with TCU ties know him and we'd heard about him, but we never met him until the Dallas-Detroit game last week. While typing our story in the press box after the game, someone said, "Hi, Andy." When we looked up he saw his mistake, "Sorry, from the profile you looked like (Dallas sportswriter) Andy Anderson."

Paul Ridings, Jr., who runs a Fort Worth public relations firm and has several Midland clients, was so apologetic about his mistake, he wound up driving us to the airport later.

"I've seen 60 per cent of the TCU games since 1900," he admitted, "including all of the TCU bowl games."

TCU HAS endured some lean years recently, but it hasn't always been that way. "I graduated from TCU between the Sammy Baugh near-Rose Bowl team of

Cards' rout of Vikes stuns Coryell

What they were saying around the National Football League Sunday:

"This is partial atonement for a horrible crime we all committed. Every man in this locker room feels like he was responsible for Paul Wiggins, one of the best men we ever knew, losing his job. Why does it take a tragic event to awaken people to their responsibilities?" — Kansas City center and captain Jack Rudnay, after the Chiefs beat Green Bay 20-10 in their first game under interim coach Tom Bettis, who took over after Wiggins was fired on Monday.

"I was stunned. It was by far our best game of the year." — St. Louis Coach Don Coryell, whose Cardinals upset the Minnesota Vikings 27-7 — at Minnesota, no less.

"The defense and the special teams are awesome. The offense? Not yet, we're not."

Dallas wide receiver Drew Pearson, when asked how good were the Cowboys, 8-0 after beating the New York Giants 24-10.

"Those kind of games are fun." — Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler, enjoying the Raiders' 41-7 romp over Seattle.

"It was the worst game I have ever been associated with in any form. We were humbled." — Chicago Coach Jack Pardee, whose Bears were routed by the Houston Oilers 47-0.

"We had a hell of a time getting out of the soup from our field position."

"We had something to prove — that we weren't the worst team in pro football." — Buffalo running back Roland Hooks, who filled in for injured superstar O.J. Simpson and rushed for 155 yards to lead the Bills to a 24-14 upset of the New England Patriots.

"I'm gonna keep it to myself." — San Francisco defensive end Cedric Hardman, when asked the secret which helped him make five sacks in the 49ers' 10-3 decision over Atlanta.

"We had no operating room." — New Orleans Coach Hank Stram, after Spike Jones pined the Saints within their own 10-yard line on four punts in the Philadelphia Eagles' 28-7 victory.

"We had a hell of a time getting out of the soup from our field position."

"We had a hell of a time getting out of the soup from our field position."

SWC reaches critical stage

By The Associated Press

The Southwest Conference football race reaches another critical crossroads Saturday at College Station.

Eighth-ranked Arkansas, fresh off a 35-9 blistering of the Baylor Bears, comes callin' at Kyle Field—one of the more inhospitable places on earth if you aren't wearing a Texas Aggie uniform.

Arkansas and the rested Aggies, who were idle, are the only survivors of a rigorous SWC elimination derby which now has top-ranked Texas alone atop the ladder with a 5-0 ledger.

TEXAS A&M is 4-0 and Arkansas is 4-1. Enough said.

If Arkansas loses, the Razorbacks can dream dreams of going bowling but it won't be in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 2 as the SWC host team. Of course, the Aggies can afford a loss and still make it into high cotton with a spotless bib the rest of the way, including victory over the Longhorns Nov. 26—also in Kyle Field.

Texas A&M last appeared in the Cotton Bowl in 1967 so if things end in a three-way tie between Arkansas and Texas, the Aggies get the nod because both the Razorbacks and Longhorns have visited the post-season classic since the Cadets defeated Alabama.

TEXAS WHIPPED Houston 35-21 and the top-ranked Longhorns host outmanned Texas Christian, a 49-17 loser to Texas Tech, this Saturday in Memorial Stadium.

The Longhorns meet Baylor in two weeks before the annual unholy war against the Aggies.

The other games on the 10th week of the SWC campaign will be just for fun and possibly a bowl bid for Texas Tech. The Red Raiders are 3-2 in SWC play but own a respectable 6-2 overall margin.

Tech is at SMU. Should the Red Raiders down the Mustangs, they could be in line for a bowl bid the next week by knocking off Houston which shared the SWC co-championship with Tech last year.

Rice is at Baylor while Houston is idle.

SMU outlasted Rice 41-24 last Saturday before the Mustangs' smallest Cotton Bowl crowd since they started playing in the stadium in 1948. Only 6,918 persons paid their way into the wild offensive game.

All bowls want Irish, but Cotton is No. 1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Stop the presses! The main man in determining this year's college bowl picture is not grizzled old Bear Bryant of Alabama but a gentleman in clerical garb who works out of South Bend, Ind.

The name, football fans, is the Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president of the University of Notre Dame and chairman of the fancy-named Faculty Board in Control of Athletics. The entire board officially has to approve Father Joyce's recommendation, but they've been listening to him for 25 years so why stop now?

This is the problem: The bowl bids go out Nov. 19 and, according to a Sugar Bowl spokesman, "I'd guess Notre Dame will be everybody's first choice, but they'll have to make a value judgment as to who the No. 1 team will be on bowl day."

SO, DOES Notre Dame, ranked fifth in the nation last week and an impressive 69-14 victor over Georgia Tech, opt for the Cotton Bowl, whose host team probably won't be settled until No. 1-ranked Texas, a 35-21 winner over Houston, meets Texas A&M on Nov. 26?

Or do the Fighting Irish decide that Texas A&M, 10th last week and idle over the weekend, will win the Southwest Conference shootout, thereby changing Notre Dame's course to the Sugar Bowl, where second-ranked Alabama nailed down the host spot, as well as its sixth Southeastern Conference crown in seven years, by trouncing 18th-ranked Louisiana State 24-3? The Crimson Tide has two regular-season chances left to lose — slim and none, alias Miami and Auburn and you pick which is which.

OR WILL it be Notre Dame's opinion that Oklahoma, currently ranked No. 3 and a 61-28 romper over Oklahoma State, will turn back Nebraska on Nov. 25 — the Sooners must first face Colorado next Saturday — win the Big Eight championship and become a stronger opponent in the Orange Bowl?

And now, the envelope, please. "It would be nice if we could wait," says a source close to Notre Dame, "but if Texas is No. 1 on Nov. 19, we've got to go with them."

Of course, 13th-ranked Clemson, which was held to a 13-13 deadlock by

North Carolina — guess what Clemson's unlucky number was this weekend — could spoil all the guesswork by upsetting the Irish come Saturday.

But if all goes according to form, it will probably be Texas-Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, Alabama against the Ohio State-Michigan Nov. 19 loser in the Sugar Bowl and Oklahoma against the Nov. 26 Penn State-Pitt winner in the Orange Bowl, the loser perhaps winding up in the Gator Bowl.

"It's still kind of a confusing picture, but I think a lot of people will be jumping on Nov. 19," says another bowl official. "The results this week (Notre Dame-Clemson, Arkansas-Texas A&M, Colorado-Oklahoma, Brigham Young-Arizona State) will start settling the dust."

SOME MORE bowl talk:

—If Texas doesn't win the SWC championship, the Longhorns probably would prefer to remain within the state for recruiting purposes, leaving only the Bluebonnet and Sun Bowls.

—The Liberty and Fiesta Bowls are very interested in Arkansas — don't bet against the former — and the Fiesta wouldn't mind having any SWC contender.

—Why is the Sugar Bowl leaning toward the Big Ten runner-up? Well, the Sugar has never had a Big Ten team and it had Pitt last season and Penn State the year before.

—The Sugar Bowl's contract with the SEC, currently in only its second year, is preventing the Cotton Bowl

Racquetball play ends

The YMCA held a youth and ladies racquetball tournament over the weekend, with competition held in three divisions.

Vicki Harrison defeated Lesa Emmert, 21-9, 21-11 in the ladies beginners, with Ofilia Gonzales taking consolation by defeating Suzanne Tonkin, 21-17, 11-21, 11-3.

In the youth division, Kevin King defeated Mark Garrett, 21-7, 21-6. Chad Sullivan downed Shirley Cassin in consolation, 21-9, 21-16.

Ginger Lankford took the top spot in the ladies intermediate division over Kathy Eudy, 21-18, 21-14. In consolation, Pat Hansen was a 21-9, 21-12 winner over Ingrid Malcom.

All of the players were from Midland.

GRIMSLEY'S SPORTS WORLD

Baseball becomes battle of bankroll

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

He was a forlorn figure, sitting in a corner of the anteroom, one leg propped up on a chair, silently absorbing all the baseball hi-jinx exploding around him.

"Who would have thought the game would ever come to this?" mused graying Dick O'Connell, 31 years with the Boston Red Sox, 11 years the club's executive vice-president and general manager, now a recent addition to the roll of the unemployed. "It looks like Wall Street in there. Everybody wanting to buy a championship. Spend a few million and land in the World Series."

THE SITE was the Grand Ball Room of the fashionable Plaza Hotel and the occasion was the second free agent re-entry draft last weekend, with 80-odd pieces of diamond bric-a-brac up for grabs.

Indeed, it was a microcosm of Wall Street, and more. It was the neighborhood supermarket on Friday afternoon, a street scene in the Casbah, the old Chicago stockyards with crystal chandeliers dealing in prime beef, some apt to go as high as $20,000 a pound.

"This is bound to create two levels of baseball clubs with a wide gap between," said O'Connell. "The top level, the rich clubs with $11 million budgets or more, and the financially insecure, struggling to get by on $4 million."

"The result: The affluent buy what they need, win and draw fans. This brings in more money. They spend and win some more. The poorer clubs fall from contention early. Fans desert. They keep falling back."

"THE POOR clubs stay alive by operating on a deferred compensation plan — buy now, pay later. The rich pay up front to take advantage of tax deductions. The rich get richer, and the poor get poorer."

Most of O'Connell's career has been spent with a team which bore the gold-plated imprint of the late Tom Yawkey, who was accused of trying to buy pennants before anyone ever heard the name of George Steinbrenner.

"The Red Sox got that reputation before my time — it was when Yawkey had Joe Cronin doing the work for him," the former Boston exec said. "When he was alive, Mr. Yawkey told me, 'Don't bother me with details. It's your job to run the club. Do it.' He was a generous man."

O'Connell was summarily dismissed recently when a syndicate headed by Buddy LeRoux and Haywood Sullivan put up money to purchase the club from the Yawkey estate. The sale is yet unapproved, but O'Connell concedes that his Red Sox ties are irreparably severed.

COMMENT

EXECUTIVES of the 26 major league clubs sat around round tables with red cloths and bid for negotiation rights to players who had let their contracts expire and now were seeking instant riches, such as Reggie Jackson's $2.9 million contract with the Yankees a year ago.

One by one, the names were called and recorded ... Lyman Bostock ... Oscar Gamble ... Larry Hise ... Rich Gossage ... Mike Torrez ... Dave Kingman ... Ross Grimsley ... price tags ranging from $1 to $3 million.

There were periodic breaks, and the baseball barons came out to face the glare of klieg lights and battery of microphones and TV cameras.

"I don't like this system," said Steinbrenner, bankroller of the world champion Yankees, "but I accept it as the new way of baseball life. If I can improve my club, I have an obligation to the fans to do it."

Steinbrenner is pitting his ship-building fortune against Ray Kroc's hamburger millions (McDonald's) and San Diego, the whisky fortune of Montreal's Charles Bronfman (Schenley), Ewing Kaufman's Kansas City pharmaceutical empire and Gene Autry's California broadcasting cache.

Meanwhile, baseball traditionalists such as Minnesota's Calvin Griffith, Detroit's John Fetzer, Cleveland's Ted Bonda and the Red's Bob Hovsaw & Co., among others, hang on for dear life.

Gilbert, Jones nab Team Golf triumph

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — It was a weary, emotionally exhausted Gibby Gilbert who issued an eyes-lifted sigh of relief. "Thank God he had that putt — not me. I'd have putted it in the sand trap," Gilbert said.

It was one of those kneeclocking four-footers. Grier Jones had it for birdie on the 72nd hole Sunday to win the Walt Disney World National Team Golf Classic with teammate Gilbert. Riding on it was a $20,000 check for each man. Gibby, sidelined for most of the big money portion of the tour with torn muscles in his rib cage, had considerably more than that at stake, however: a certain amount of pride and an exemption from qualifying for next year's tour events.

Jones boldly rammed it in, capping off a betterball, 6-under-par 66 that produced a one-stroke victory over the team of Andy North and Steve Melnyk. Gilbert and Jones finished with a 253 total, a whopping 35 strokes below par on the 7,197-yard Magnolia Course at central Florida's spectacular entertainment complex.

"Any player on the tour will tell you that Gibby's a good player, a real good player," said Jones. "If he hadn't been hurt, there's no question that he would have finished in the top 60 (money-winners and thus achieved an exemption.)"

NEW YORK (AP) — Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz has taken action against five promoters, including Madison Square Garden Boxing and Don King Productions, to obtain nearly $400,000 in taxes due New York State from five heavyweight fights held here last year.

Lefkowitz said Sunday that three actions have been filed in Supreme Court against the promoters based on a state law that requires five percent of the gross gate receipts to be paid the secretary of state. Included in that figure is money from broadcast, television and motion picture rights.

Named as defendants were Madison Square Garden Boxing, Inc.; Don King Productions, Inc.; Main Event Boxing Corp.; Caesars Palace Productions of New York, Inc., and Caesars World, Inc.

According to the Lefkowitz statement: —Garden Boxing owes $260,102.35 for the Muhammad Ali-Ken Norton heavyweight title fight it promoted at Yankee Stadium on Sept. 28, 1976.

—Don King Productions and Main Event (of Utica, N.Y.) owes $32,038 for fights in Utica between George Foreman and Scott Ledoux, Ron Lyle and Kevin Isaacs and Chuck Wepner and Duane Bobick.

—Caesars Palace Productions and Caesars World, Inc. owe $103,199.35 for the Joe Frazier-Foreman fight at Nassau Coliseum on June 15, 1976.

O. J. who? Bills give Patriots unexpected Hooks

By The Associated Press

O.J. who? The Buffalo Bills, who lost superstar O.J. Simpson for the season with a knee injury last week, have found a new running star in Roland Hooks, who rambled for 155 yards Sunday to help the Bills upset the New England Patriots 24-14 in National Football League action.

"They pulled themselves together," said Buffalo Coach Jim Ringo, whose team put on its best offensive show of the season despite the absence of Simpson. "They knew it wouldn't do any good to panic."

"We had something to prove — that we weren't the worst team in pro football," said Hooks. "We had to get our self respect back."

IT WAS only Buffalo's second victory in eight starts, and it left New England Coach Chuck Fairbanks confused and upset.

"It was a humiliating-type loss," said Fairbanks. "We created long-yardage situations, but we let them come out of them. We were flat."

Hooks wasn't the only fill-in to have a big day. Rookie Rick Kane, starting in place of injured Dexter Bussey, rushed for 105 yards and two touchdowns to help the Detroit Lions surprise the San Diego Chargers 20-0.

That was the first victory for a National Conference team over one from the American Conference this season. The AFC holds a 10-1 lead.

Bills 24, Patriots 14

Hooks set up one Buffalo score with a 66-yard, Simpson-style scamper around the right side. Quarterback Joe Ferguson passed for 201 yards and a TD and the Bills' defense picked off four Steve Grogan passes. Doug Jones returned one interception 24 yards for a touchdown, while Mario Clark's interception set up a 30-yard field goal by Carson Long.

About the only spark of life shown by New England was a 93-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Raymond Clayborn. The Patriots could not get beyond the Buffalo 44-yard line until the fourth quarter.

Lions 20, Chargers 0

"I was really nervous before the game," conceded Kane, Detroit's new hero. "They slowly brought me into this (starting) position. I think I was ready for it."

As for his touchdowns, both of which were scored on short drives over a stacked-up goal-line defense, Kane reasoned, "Up and over is the shortest way to the goal. It's the easiest way to go because the defense is usually down tight."

Cardinals 27, Vikings 7

Jim Hart threw two touchdown passes and running backs Wayne Morris and Terry Metcalf each scored twice. Morris rushed for 182 yards in 27 attempts, the second highest total in Cardinal history.

The Cardinals, 5-3, remained in the running for a wild card playoff berth. The Vikings, also 5-3, lead Detroit in the NFC Central race by one game.

Raiders 44, Seahawks 7

Oakland scored seven of the first eight times it had the ball in routing the Seahawks. Ken Stabler threw three touchdown passes, Errol Mann kicked three field goals and Willie Brown intercepted two passes.

"Those kind of games are fun," Stabler said after the romp.

Broncos 21, Steelers 7

Denver's Orange Crush defense allowed Pittsburgh across midfield only three times as the Broncos kept pace with Oakland.

"Our minds weren't on the game today," bemoaned Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll. "There's not a hell of a lot of difference between winning and losing. We've lost that little bit, and we've got to search for it and get it back." Special teams star Rick Upchurch provided the offensive spark, returning five punts for a team-record 167 yards including an 87-yard scamper for a touchdown.

Chiefs 20, Packers 10

one touchdown as the Chiefs won their first game under interim coach Paul Wiggan, who took over after popular Paul Wiggan was fired on Monday.

"This is partial atonement for a horrible crime we all committed," said center and team captain Jack Rudny. "Every man in this locker room feels like he was responsible for Paul Wiggan, one of the best men we ever knew, losing his job. Why does it take a tragic event to awaken people to their responsibilities?"

Bengals 10, Browns 7

Chris Bahr's 47-yard field goal in the third period gave Cincinnati its victory and tightened the AFC Central Division race. Cleveland still leads at 5-3, but Cincinnati, Houston and Pittsburgh are all at 4-4.

"For an overrated team, we played very well," crowed Cincinnati Coach

Bill Johnson. "Through the years, there's been a lot written about the Cincinnati Bengals not hanging on when it's tough. If this doesn't dispel that trash, I don't know what will."

Oilers 47, Bears 0

Houston's defense left Chicago with a net passing yardage of minus 16, while the Oilers' big-play offense overwhelmed the Bears. Billy Johnson broke loose for two scores, racing 75 yards with a free kick and 61 on an end-around, and Dan Pastorini hooked up with Ken Burrough for touchdown passes of 85 and 43 yards.

"It was the worst game I have ever been associated with in any form," said Bears Coach Jack Pardee. "We were humbled."

Rams 31, Bucs 0

It was the 22nd consecutive loss for the Bucs and spoiled the homecoming of Tampa Bay Coach John McKay, who had been a highly successful college coach at Southern Cal before going pro. Pat Haden, a Southern Cal grad, threw two touchdowns as the Rams, 5-3, moved to a one-game lead over Atlanta in the NFC West.

49ers 10, Falcons 3

San Francisco knocked Atlanta out of a tie for the NFL West lead, sacking Falcons quarterback Steve Bartkowski seven times for losses of 76 yards. Defensive end Cedrick Hardman, in on five of those sacks, said the 49ers had discovered a secret about Atlanta's offense, "but I'm gonna keep it to myself."

The only touchdown of the game came on a 2-yard run by Wilbur Jackson in the third quarter.

Eagles 28, Saints 7

Ron Jaworski passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more, but the hero for the Eagles was punter Spike Jones, who pinned the Saints within their 10-yard line four times. Ironically, Eagles Coach Dick Vermeil had spent the week trying to find a new punter, but came up empty.

"I'm real pleased the way Spike came back and competed today like he did," Vermeil said. "It was a real credit to his character. I love to see that as a coach."

Dolphins 14, Jets 10

Bob Griese threw scoring passes of 20 and 24 yards to Durriel Harris and Miami's defense kept the Jets out of the end zone until the final minute. The victory moved Miami within one-half game of Baltimore in the AFC East race.

"You can lower your heating bill 24% this winter by lowering the temperature in your home from 74° to 68°"

A setting of 68° during the winter is the one Texas Electric recommends for both comfort and energy efficiency. For each degree above 68° the energy used for heating your house is increased by approximately 4% per degree.

As shown by the chart the difference between the recommended thermostat setting and 74° is 24%. At 78° the increase in energy usage is 40% or more.

Clearly, the lower you set your thermostat the lower your heating bill is going to be. And after last winter, one of the coldest on record, we think a lot of people are going to be trying their best to use less energy.

Remember to change the filter in your heating system regularly, too. A dirty filter causes your heating system to work longer and that costs you more. Check the filter at least once each month.

All forms of energy are costing more these days. If you're serious about saving energy and money, request a copy of our energy efficiency tips booklet on the comment portion of your electric service bill.

Irish lean toward Cotton Bowl

from matching No. 1 Texas and No. 2 Alabama.

—And Notre Dame, which began the season by edging Pitt only because the Panthers lost quarterback Matt Cavanaugh, then lost to Mississippi and had to come from behind in the final period to beat Purdue, has, according to still another bowl spokesman, "gone from being in a trap to a very good position, an unbelievable position considering where they were after three weeks."

The Rose Bowl, of course, will pit the Ohio State-Michigan winner against the Pacific-8 champ, either Southern California, UCLA or Washington. White fourth-ranked Ohio State was trimming Illinois 24-10, No. 6 Michigan Eastern Northwestern 63-20, No. 16 Southern Cal bombed Stanford 49-0, Washington knocked off No. 17 California 30-23, and UCLA turned back Oregon 23-21.

BESIDES ALABAMA, Louisiana Tech also went into a bowl. The Bulldogs defeated Lamar 28-6 to capture the Southland Conference crown and the host berth in the Independence Bowl.

Shreveport, No. 7 Kentucky whipped Vanderbilt 28-6, No. 8 Arkansas bopped Baylor 35-9, No. 9 Penn State edged North Carolina State 21-17 and No. 10 Texas A&M was idle.

In the Second Ten, No. 11 Nebraska beat Missouri 21-10, No. 12 Pitt drubbed West Virginia 48-3, No. 14 Brigham Young trounced Utah 38-8 as Marc Wilson passed for an NCAA record 571 yards and five touchdowns and No. 15 Florida State edged Virginia Tech 23-21. Arizona State, tied for 19th, mauling Wyoming 45-0 while Iowa State, the other half of the No. 19 parity, lost to Colorado 12-7.

As usual, Texas was led by Earl Campbell, who plowed for 173 yards and three touchdowns against Houston and moved into sixth place on the all-time NCAA rushing list with a career total of 3,887.

WILSON, who became a starter when Gifford Nielsen was injured, completed 26 of 41 passes in erasing the major college passing mark of 561 yards by Utah State's Tony Adams — also against Utah — in 1972.

Wilson also surpassed the small college record of 568 set by Bob Toledo of San Francisco State in 1967. Ironically, Tom Stine of Central Methodist set an NAIA record Saturday by also passing for 571 yards in a wild 56-43 triumph over Culver-Stockton. That wiped out the mark of 564 set last year by Abilene Christian's Jim Reese.

Meanwhile, Grambling State's Doug Williams completed 23 of 30 passes for 378 yards and seven touchdowns to become the NCAA's all-time pass yardage leader with a total of 7,551, two more than Florida's John Reeves. Williams also upped his record for career touchdown passes to 84.

IN OTHER outstanding performances: —Notre Dame's Joe Montana passed for a career-high 273 yards and three touchdowns and scored once himself against Georgia Tech as the Irish outgained the Yellow Jackets 667 yards to 125.

—Michigan's Rick Leach tallied twice and passed for two more scores against winless Northwestern.

Big E apologizes big

By The Associated Press

Elvin Hayes was apologizing to his Washington Bullets teammates, castigating himself for the paltry 52 rebounds he'd contributed in six previous games.

Nearby, a near-record crowd was filing into the Superdome to see the hometown Jazz, who had acquired a surprising habit of winning in this National Basketball Association season. The fans numbered 26,474, the third largest crowd in NBA history, but it didn't help the Jazz.

"It's something I felt I had to do," Hayes said Sunday. "I've been standing back, thinking, 'Let someone else do it.' I felt I owed my teammates an apology and told them I was sorry."

Then Hayes backed up his apology with 21 points and 20 rebounds as the Bullets broke the Jazz habit and disappointed all of those fans, 26,474.

In other NBA action, the New York Knicks dined the Los Angeles Lakers 106-102, the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Indiana Pacers 106-106 and the Kansas City Kings defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 99-83.

New York 106, Los Angeles 102

Jim McMillon burst out of a shooting slump — one that had cut deeply into his playing time for more than a year — to score a season-high 22 points for the Knicks, 10 of them in the fourth quarter. His 30-foot jumper with 6:59 remaining put the Knicks ahead to stay at 89-88.

In other NBA action, the New York Knicks dined the Los Angeles Lakers 106-102, the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Indiana Pacers 106-106 and the Kansas City Kings defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 99-83.

New York 106, Los Angeles 102

Jim McMillon burst out of a shooting slump — one that had cut deeply into his playing time for more than a year — to score a season-high 22 points for the Knicks, 10 of them in the fourth quarter. His 30-foot jumper with 6:59 remaining put the Knicks ahead to stay at 89-88.

half, leaving the floor with a 67-57 advantage.

Portland 106, Indiana 106

The Trail Blazers put down a late Pacers rebellion that trimmed their lead to two points three times in the final five minutes as Dave Twardzik scored 22 points and Bill Walton added 21.

Indiana's Dan Roundfield reduced the margin to 108-106 on a three-point jumper with 21 seconds to go. The Blazers followed with an effective passing game to run out the clock.

Seattle City 99, Seattle 83

Seattle suffered its 10th loss at the hands of a defector as former Sonic Lucius Allen poured in 24 points for the Kings.

Ex-Trojans with Bucs long for the old days

By EARL GUSTKEY
The Los Angeles Times

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. — When he allows himself the luxury of a daydream, Ricky Bell dreams of those Los Angeles Coliseum afternoons when the holes created by USC's offensive line looked wide enough to drive a motorhome through.

Like many good dreams, that one is enough to moisten Bell's eyes these days. Because for Tampa Bay, he's carried the ball only 64 times for only 186 yards. At USC, he could've done that on a wooden leg.

"At SC, it seemed like if I got tackled at the line of scrimmage, it for sure wouldn't happen the next time," Bell said.

Now I get the ball and five of six guys tackle me. I'm under assault. But I think: 'Try it again.' So I try it again and the same thing happens. It happens all afternoon. Then I think: 'Well, maybe next week...'

That's how it is for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, maybe the worst team in the history of the National Football League (They're 0-for-21).

BELL IS one of three former USC offensive stars here with the Buccaneers. The others are Anthony Davis, a tailback like Bell, and receiver John McKay Jr., son of Tampa Bay's coach, formerly a big winner as coach of the Trojans. Bell was an All-American before he became the NFL's first draft choice last spring. Lounging in his hotel room at Newport Beach before leaving for a practice at UC Irvine, Bell talked, unsmiling, about the anguish that is Tampa Bay.

"This has been very difficult for me," he said. "Winning has been part of my life. I will never adjust to losing. Losing has affected my personal life. Football shouldn't be that important, but to me it is."

"At SC, winning made life enjoyable. You wanted to go out, have a good time. Winning made you happy. Now, I not only do not want to go out, I don't even enjoy eating. And I can't sleep."

"I FEEL sorry for our defensive guys. They've really done well. They gave up only one offensive touchdown against both Minnesota and Dallas. Offensively, we just aren't consistent."

"People are getting on the coach, but he knows what he's doing. A lot of people rap the I formation, but it's a damn good offense. Baltimore uses it."

"Sure, the Tampa writers are getting on us. But if we were in New York or L.A., it'd be five or six times as bad."

Anthony Davis was having breakfast at a Newport Beach coffee shop with a reporter. The waitress and hostess approached, tentatively. The waitress asked: "Excuse me, but aren't you O. J. Simpson?"

"No, I'm not," said Davis, who bears a facial resemblance to O. J. autographs all around.

At 25, Davis has played in the World Football League, the Canadian Football League and the National Football League since his USC years.

HAVE 21 straight losses created internal problems with Tampa Bay? "Man, don't ask me that," he said. "I have to work for these people."

Is Tampa Bay as good as the Southern California Sun, his WFL team?

"Don't ask me that, either," he said. Davis, who has been playing behind Bell at tailback ("Don't ask me about that, either"), views himself as a motivator for a football team down in the dumps.

But the weeks roll by and the Mondays become more painful.

"It's our lack of consistency," said Davis, who leads the team in rushing with 212 yards for 61 carries.

"I DON'T care if it's Pop Warner ball or the NFL, you must be consistent to win. We'll make a couple of first downs and then flop."

"We're losing to teams who are up for playing us. Man, San Francisco played us like it was the Super Bowl. I think other clubs figure we're one team they have to beat."

Tampa Bay's players, he acknowledged, are discouraged and frustrated. He was asked if those problems would vanish with a couple of wins.

"A couple?" He asked, incredulously. "Man, if we could just win one!"

For John McKay Jr. it was a reunion week with his former teammate of eight years in high school and at USC, Pat Haden, now the Rams' quarterback. They played golf on Tuesday.

"I beat the hell out of him," McKay said.

Morgan Copeland

Copeland receives NFF honor

NEW YORK — Midland's Morgan Copeland was one of 11 college seniors named by the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Scholar-Athletes for 1977.

The group includes six potential lawyers, two doctors, two civil engineers and one executive in business. And there's not an offensive back in the lot.

In addition to qualifying for $1,000 fellowships if they choose to pursue graduate study, the 11 seniors will be honored at the Foundation's 20th annual Hall of Fame Awards dinner in New York on Dec. 6.

Selected by the Foundation's Awards Committee headed by Leonard Henry, the announcement was made by Vincent dePaul Draddy, chairman of the Board.

Copeland plays linebacker for the No. 1 ranked University of Texas Longhorns and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Copeland of Midland.

Javs could cry after 7-6 loss

By MILLER BONNER

KINGSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Texas A&I's quest for football immortality was dealt a death blow Saturday night when East Texas State knifed the Javelinas 7-6, ending the nation's longest collegiate unbeaten streak.

"There is a lot of difference in one point," understated A&I coach Fred Jonas. "I know our kids wanted to just cry their eyes out after the game was over but they kept their heads high and shook the hands of the East Texas players and were real men about it."

Since the final game of the 1973 season, the Javelinas had steadily marched over opponents and appeared headed for the record books as the team with the lengthiest string of unbeaten games.

BUT THE East Texas State loss stopped the Javs at the threshold. A&I's 46-game unbeaten streak will go into the books as the second-best in modern collegiate football history, behind the 48-game string compiled by the Bud Wilkinson-coached Oklahoma squads of 1953-57.

The all-time record belongs to the 1920-25 California squad that compiled 50 straight—46 wins and four ties.

Following a 28-0 loss to Howard Payne on Nov. 10, 1973, The Javs marched to 42 consecutive victories, second only to Oklahoma's 47 and besting the previous state record of 30 set by Darrell Royal's Texas teams of 1968-70.

THE JAVS won an unprecedented three straight national (NAIA) titles during their reign and could still qualify for the playoffs this season.

The eventual loss to ETSU was foreshadowed earlier this season when another Lone Star Conference foe—Ablene Christian—manhandled the Javs for three quarters, mounting a 25-0 lead.

But A&I staged a near-miraculous comeback, scoring 25 points within a 10-minute span of the fourth quarter to salvage a tie.

Freshman kicker Robbie Spencer stroked a 31-yard field goal against ACU in the closing minutes to assure the tie.

But against ETSU, Spencer misfired from 42 and 27 yards. The Javs also fumbled away two scoring opportunities deep in Lion territory.

A 79-yard scoring bomb in the third period coupled with a successful extra-point kick gave East Texas State its historic win.

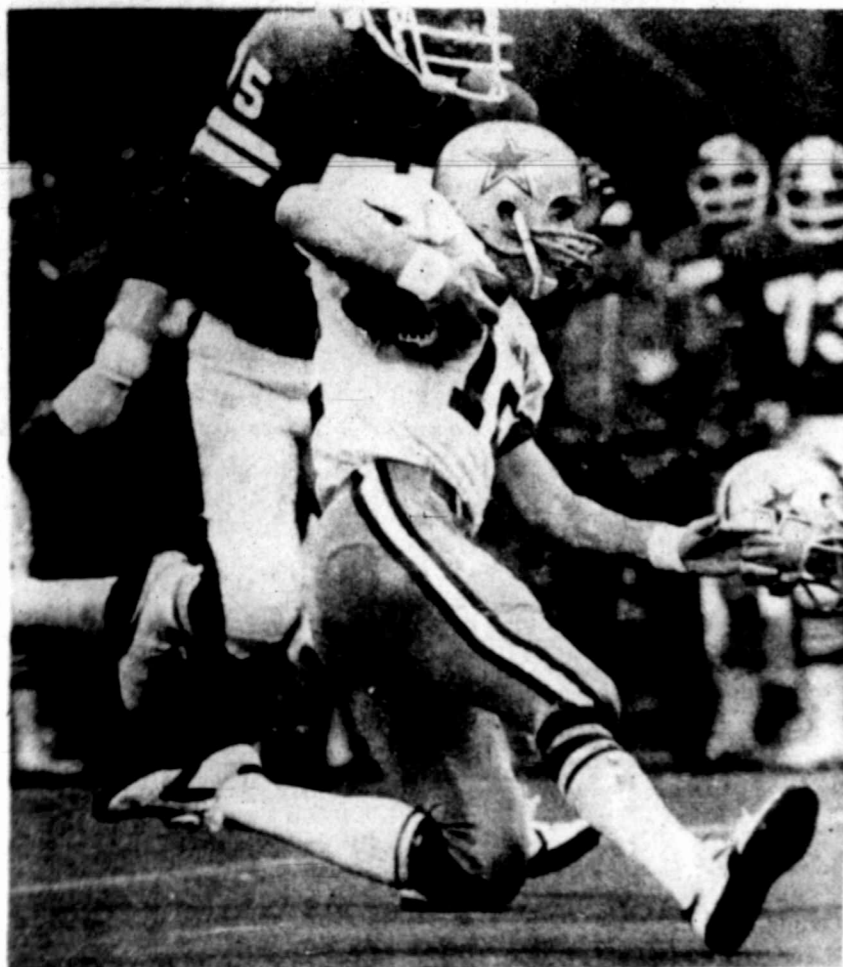

THE A&I six points came from an 80-yard pass play in the second period but a higher center snap negated the extra-point attempt.

"You can't blame any one kid on this team for the loss," stressed Jonas. "A high snap on the extra point, a missed field goal... Those things happen... You can't pinpoint one thing and say this cost us the game."

"I'm sure we'll come right back this week and play as hard as we ever have. We'll just pick up and start another one (win streak). That's how the kids look at it and how can the coaches look at it any other way?" He asked, his voice hoarse and choked with emotion.

The loss almost assures the Javs of dropping from the No. 1 ranking in the NAIA national poll, a position they have held for 39 consecutive weeks dating back to 1974.

"The dream of every college player and coach is to play on a national championship team," added Jonas. "We've been fortunate here to have won the last three. Of course, the kids are disappointed about the win streak but it's not the end of the world."

ROGER STAUBACH, Dallas quarterback, slides into second. He was safe, because, as you can see, he caught the catcher's throw on the way into the bag. (AP Laserphoto).

Colts, Redskins vie in TV game tonight

BALTIMORE (AP) — 60,000 fans who'd rather entertain the Washington Redskins in Monday night's National Football League television special, a forum which provides both head coaches with their weekly psychological plays.

The Redskins have rolled up an imposing 9-1 record in the Monday night telecasts, a bit of trivia which Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibroda of the Colts molded into a post-Halloween horror story for the Colts.

George Allen of Washington, always looking for an edge to fire his "Over The Hill" gang, undoubtedly reminded the Redskins that it would be nice to maintain the Monday night hex.

The lure of a resumption of the neighborhood rivalry, dormant since 1973, produced a sellout of him an extra day to be in Memorial Stadium prepare." At the moment, the Redskins need all the help they can get. With a 4-3 record, they're already three games behind the Dallas Cowboys in the NFC East and are one of four teams with the same record fighting for an NFC wildcard playoff berth.

George always prepares his teams well," leading the AFC East with a 6-1 mark, can ill afford to lose.

Russell takes MTC net title

Joni Russell downed Kelly McAfee, 6-1, 6-2, in the finals Sunday to win the Midland Tennis Club's Women's Singles title.

Margaret Smith won a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Farrah St. Clair to take consolation honors.

Caroline Kirwan took the B-1 bracket with a win over Jane Goodell while Mary Jane Belden won consolation with a 6-3, 6-4 win over Claudette Odiorne.

Cindy Crow won the B-2 crown with a 6-0, 6-2 win over Legen Gay while Shirley Stiles took the consolation prize with a 6-1, 6-1 win over Stacy McAfee.

Israelis release, expel gun-running prelate

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON

ROME (AP) — The gun-running Greek Catholic Archbishop of Jerusalem, Hilarion Capudji, rested in Rome today following release from prison and expulsion from Israel. Vatican sources said the 55-year-old prelate would recuperate for about three months and then would be given a new post, probably in the Americas or Australia. Associates said he lost about 25 pounds in prison. The archbishop had served nearly three years of a 12-year sentence for smuggling arms to Palestinian guerrillas in Jerusalem and the West Bank when the Israeli government acceded to a direct appeal for his release by Pope Paul VI. The pope in his letter to Israeli President Ephraim Katzir assured him that the release "will not be detrimental to the State of Israel." Capudji told a Lebanese newspaper that the Vatican agreed he could not return to Jerusalem and would be kept out of the entire Arab world permanently. Looking pale and weak from hunger strikes, Capudji was greeted on his arrival Sunday by a delegation from the Palestine Liberation Organization, a representative of the Vatican and other church officials. An envoy of PLO leader Yasir Arafat told reporters: "We consider him a hero, a symbol of resistance, a man who really loves his people and his land." Capudji, a native of Syria, refused to talk to reporters at the airport. But the Beirut newspaper An Nahar said he gave it an interview in which he paid tribute to the Palestinians who during his imprisonment hijacked planes or seized hostages in Israel and then demanded his release. "I shall never forget the martyrs who sacrificed their lives to win my freedom," he was quoted as saying. The archbishop expressed gratitude to the pope but complained about being barred from Jerusalem. Capudji was arrested Aug. 8, 1974, and charged with smuggling four sub-machine guns, two pistols, 220 pounds of explosives and a quantity of grenades and bullets from Lebanon to Israel in his limousine. An Israeli court rejected his demand for immunity from prosecution, found him guilty and sent him to prison Dec. 9, 1974.

Two names, one horse, investigators believe

By JOHN NELSON

NEW YORK (AP) — A five-man task force, which spent four days in Uruguay investigating the Belmont ringer scandal, planned to return to New York today with evidence that a horse called Lebon actually is South American stakes winner Cinzano. The task force took blood samples from horses that shared common ancestry with Lebon and from Lebon's dam, Talavera, in addition to interviewing five witnesses who identified Cinzano in pictures that the team had brought from Belmont. The pictures were taken of the horse called Lebon. The task force apparently also will attempt to show that the switch of Cinzano for Lebon — two horses imported from Uruguay last June by suspended veterinarian Dr. Mark Gerard — was made after the horses cleared customs in the United States. "If there was a switch, it was in the United States and definitely not here," says Luis Donamari, a Uruguayan who has acted as broker for Dr. Gerard for the sale of about 100 South American horses during the past seven years. A key figure in the case — which broke after a horse listed as Lebon won a race at Belmont Park on Sept. 23 at 57-1 odds — is Alice Gerard, wife of Dr. Gerard. One published report said she scouted Uruguayan farms for two weeks before purchasing a Cinzano look-alike. She denied the report and was scheduled to meet with her attorney, Richard Reisch, today. Reisch said Mrs. Gerard's passport will show that she was in Uruguay for a very short time — which will be corroborated in depositions taken by the task force. In fact, Donamari told The Associated Press that he made the purchase of Lebon. "Gerard had asked me to find a race horse with a purchase price of around $7,000-$8,000," Donamari said. "I found Lebon. Nobody told me to look for a horse that looked like Cinzano." Dr. Gerard was suspended by the New York State Racing and Wagering Board in October, accused of secretly substituting Cinzano for Lebon, resulting in the high odds, and collecting $77,920 on a bet he placed on the horse. Dr. Gerard reported that he destroyed Cinzano on June 12, shortly after the horse arrived in New York, because it had suffered a head injury. In addition, Lloyd's of London has paid $150,000 to the listed owner of Cinzano, Joseph Taub, and the FBI has said it is investigating the possibility of fraud-by-wire in the insurance payment.

Thankful flood survivors describe night of terror

By JEFF PRUGH
The Los Angeles Times

TOCCOA, Ga. — Charles Ford was asleep at 1:30 a.m. Sunday when suddenly someone pounded on his dormitory-room door and shouted: "Get out! Get out! Don't take anything! It's a flood!" "At first, I thought it was a joke — college life, you know, another joke," said Ford, 18, a divinity student at Toccoa Falls Institute (enrollment: 425), nestled here in the northeastern Georgia mountains. But it was no joke. The college-owned Kelley Barnes Lake Dam had burst about a half-mile away, shooting 80 acres of water from a hillside reservoir on a terrifying surge of death and destruction through the valley below. By Sunday evening, the death toll was 37, with two persons missing and 45 injured. Most were affiliated with the 70-year-old Bible college where President Carter, as governor of Georgia, had formally dedicated the library several years ago. Many of the dead were faculty and staff members and their children. Some were found several miles away after the raging water ripped through buildings, snapped trees and destroyed off-campus residences. Others were students who did not get out of the three-story Forrest Hall, a men's dormitory, as Ford and fellow schoolmate Chuck Dowell had done. Dowell, a senior from Akron, Ohio, reportedly swam in his basement room to safety. "He woke up with water almost up to his mouth," a friend said. "If he hadn't been near a fire exit, he wouldn't have made it." Ford, a freshman from Savannah, Ga., said he ran down a stairwell and through a rear door, as lightning flashed repeatedly across the night-time sky. "I heard people hollering and screaming, 'Help me! Help me!'" he said in an interview. "But we couldn't do anything — there wasn't enough time. It was awful! It was absolutely unreal!" Nearby, the school's dean of men, David Ebey, was observed perched atop the roof of his small, frame house as the torrent knocked the structure askew. "It happened so fast that he didn't know how he got there," one eyewitness said. "But somehow he got himself and his family out of there. Praise the Lord!" For most of the surviving campus community, it was a day of mixed emotions. The tragedy left everyone dazed, shocked, saddened, grateful to be alive...and philosophical. "Look at it this way," said Sam Hay, 26, a New London, Ohio, student who wore a National Guard uniform. "These people are all in heaven right now," he said of the victims. "Everything will work out — we have that promise from God. "If this will cause anyone to have knowledge of the saving grace of Jesus Christ, well, it was worth it." Leah Dees, 18, a freshman from Orlando, Fla., said that her aunt and uncle had died in the flood. "They were Christians," she said, "so I'm sure they're now in a better place than we are on earth." The college president, Dr. Kenneth W. Opperman, said he had experienced another tragedy only 24 hours earlier. He had attended the funeral in Florida of a Toccoa Falls Institute student who had been killed in an automobile accident. "Our concern is not so much for the millions of dollars of damage," he said, upon returning to the campus, "but for the heartbreak of the mothers, fathers and the grandparents who have heard that they have lost loved ones in this tragedy." But Opperman said he saw a silver lining, too. Church members of all denominations in Toccoa (pop. 8,300) opened their homes to victims who were left homeless. Service groups such as the Red Cross and the Salvation Army hastily set up relief centers. Two local businessmen, Opperman said, donated $5,500 to help the recovery effort. "This is a reaffirmation of the brotherhood of man," Opperman said. "I wish we always could treat our fellow men as kindly, instead of having to wait for something as terrible as this has been...I can't think of a greater explanation of what we call America." At the muddy, devastated campus, students and residents slowly walked past Forrest Hall. They peered into broken windows, gazing forlornly at dormitory rooms that were waist-deep in mud and debris. One window still was littered with a student's lecture notes from a New Testament literature class. At another window was an open Bible, its water-soddened pages showing Psalm 9, with the notation "a psalm of thanksgiving for God's justice," and Psalm 10, with the heading, "a prayer for the overthrow of the wicked." It was a disaster that caught almost everyone by surprise. Campus officials said they never expected the dam to break, even though northern Georgia had been pelted by four days of heavy rainstorms. But one student said he recalled that several classmates had casually wondered about the dam three weeks ago. "They were thinking that with all this rain," he said, "something was bound to happen." Toccoa, a light-industry town where items from sewing thread to earth-moving vehicles are made, reportedly got its name from the Cherokee Indians. One historian said that the Cherokees discovered the waterfalls above what is now the college campus and called them "toccoa" for the word "beautiful." "Even after all that has happened today," one student said, "those waterfalls are still beautiful."

First Lady comforts survivors

By KATHRYN JOHNSON

TOCCOA, Ga. (AP) — A man who lost his wife and son in the flood that overwhelmed this northeastern Georgia community found words of encouragement for President Carter's wife, who sought to comfort him in a hospital. "We'll be praying for you and the big things you have to do," Jeffery Metzger said Sunday as Rosalynn Carter left his room. Metzger and a daughter, Debbie, survived the flood. But his wife and son were among the 37 persons killed in rampaging waters. A rain-swollen lake burst through an earthen dam early Sunday, sending tons of water crashing down a falls and through Toccoa. Especially hard hit was the Toccoa Falls Bible College. Metzger was among several persons Mrs. Carter visited in a brief stopover at the hospital on a hill just above the area where the flood waters struck as most of the college's students and staff slept. She flew by jet from Washington to Anderson, S.C., then by military helicopter to Toccoa. She returned to Washington Sunday night. When Mrs. Carter arrived, she saw dozens of bulldozers churning through muddy debris, clearing away remnants of homes and school buildings. "It was indescribable," the first lady said at a news conference. "It's a terrible tragedy." She added: "I've learned a lot about dams since this happened, and I learned there was a bill passed by Congress to provide for inspection of such dams, but it has not been funded. "Jimmy wanted me to come here and express his concern and to tell them the federal government will do what it can to cooperate." Gov. George Busbee has asked Carter to issue a disaster declaration for Toccoa and the surrounding area so that federal loans and grants will be available to residents. During her hospital visit, Mrs. Carter lightly touched the arms of survivors and whispered encouragement. Mrs. Carter was accompanied by a secretary, several Secret Service agents and a hospital official, but she entered one room alone. Behind the closed door she visited Patricia Sproull, who lost her three children in the flood. Her husband, professor Jerry Sproull, was missing.

Mutual opponent key to Chinese friendship

By PHIL BROWN

TOKYO (AP) — China's Communist leaders in a lengthy review of the state of the world make clear that they have settled on a policy of being friends, at least temporarily, with anyone opposed to their enemies. The article last week in the official Peking People's Daily disclosed there had been some disagreement over such points as how capitalists could be allies of the Chinese Communists.

An analysis

The decision was to set aside some doctrinaire points in favor of practical results. This explains the recent relatively good relations between Peking and Washington despite the article's assertion that the United States and the Soviet Union are exploiting, bullying superpowers, "the common enemies of the people of the world." Declaring that the Soviet Union is the more ferocious, reckless and treacherous of the two, the article said putting it on a par with the United States "blurs the primary target," meaning the Soviet Union. The opposition to being friends with ideological foes was led by the "Gang of Four," the radical leaders arrested last October, the article indicated. "They opposed China's support to the Third World, opposed China's effort to unite with all forces that can be united, and opposed our dealing blows at the most dangerous enemy," the article said. "They vainly tried to sabotage the

Football dates back 2,000 years

CHICAGO (AP) — Football-like games date back over 2,000 years, according to Encyclopedia Britannica. In the Middle Ages, it says, whole towns in Europe "turned out to play each other in rough and dangerous contests with more than a hundred participants on each side and the goals perhaps half a mile apart." building of an international united front against hegemonism and to disrupt China's anti-hegemonist struggle, doing Soviet social-imperialism a good turn." Arguing for the united-front policy, the article praised the Soviet alliance with the Western allies against Germany in World War II and the Chinese Communists' alliance with the Nationalist Chinese government against Japan. These were necessary, it said, to safeguard the Soviet and Chinese Communists from the greatest danger at the time. Later, the Chinese Communists went back to war against the Nationalists, driving them from the mainland in 1949, and the Soviet Union took a hostile stance toward the capitalist West. The Chinese view is that the nations of the Third World will naturally fight imperialism because they have been subjected to its most ruthless oppression. It considers Africa, Latin America and Asia, including China but excluding Japan and the Soviet Union, in the Third World. "In the common struggle against the Soviet Union and the United States, it is both necessary and possible to ally with the Second World under given conditions," the article said. It did not spell out these conditions. The Second World is Japan, Canada and Europe. While the Second World has exploited the Third World, the article continued, it also "is being subjected to interference, control and bullying by the two hegemonist powers and to their war threats, particularly on the part of the Soviet Union."

PORTLAND, Ore. — Jack Scott, the man who Patricia Hearst Pa. says drove her and two fellow fugitives across country to elude the FBI, considers himself a survivor. After what he calls "three tough, miserable years" of battling the FBI and the U.S. Justice Department, Scott and his wife, Micki, have bought a comfortable turn-of-the-century home in northwest Portland. They have a child, Jonah Gregory, born on Labor Day, and express "an state at that time, I think something wrong, please implicit faith in the it's worth writing about, give us a trial," Scott said. "Let's say I was in those situations," he said, it, and it was the right "Whatever I write, some thing to do because it of it would portray her in a sympathetic manner faith that even in that kidnapped her, the and some would show Scranton a jury would be that she lied under oath." # Weddings were lovely

CABOT, Vt. (AP) — Four Vermont brothers and their wives — with a total of 123 years of married life behind them — have fulfilled a claim they'd made for years: Given the chance, they'd get married all over again. For Dora Lovely, who eloped with Robert at age 16, the ceremony served as "a booster shot" for the couple's 30-year marriage. "The first one wasn't the same as doing it in church," she said. "And my parents were very upset because I was so young." Ralph Lovely was married without the watchful eyes of family members 20 years ago because, as his wife Lola remembered, "We went by ourselves because it seemed like such a sacred thing." Marge Lovely, married to Paul, endorsed the idea of remarriage. "I'm very grateful for the 39 years Paul and I have been married," she

"None of us ever had church weddings, receptions, honeymoon, or even wedding cakes," explained Wilma Lovely, who married Lloyd 34 years ago Sunday. "We were married during wartime." "Renewing our vows was something we wanted to do for our own personal gratification." Others in the congregation rose at the request of the Rev. David McBride to repeat their marriage vows with the Lovelys.

Extension completes

Adobe Oil Co. No. 1-A Currie has been completed 3/4-mile west and slightly north of the Apple Creek (Wolfcamp) field in Glasscock County, seven miles east of Garden City.

The new Wolfcamp extension finished for a daily flow of 20 barrels of 40.5-gravity oil, plus 27 barrels of water, through a 1/2-inch choke and perforations from 7,616 to 7,679 feet.

Gas-oil ratio was 750-1. The pay was fractured with 60,000 gallons and acidized with 1,500 gallons.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 1,427.5 feet from west lines of section 30, block 32, T-4-S, T&P survey.

Gas, crude gauged

Phillips Petroleum Co. was moving off well serving unit at No. 1-M Mitchell, 1 1/4-mile northwest outpost to the Puckett, East (Strawn) field in Pecos County, 36 miles southwest of Sheffield.

The project flowed at the rate of 875,000 cubic feet of gas per day, plus 142 barrels of oil and 85 barrels of load water on 24-hour test.

Drill site is 1,570 feet from north and 1,220 feet from west lines of section 39, block 100, EL&RR survey.

The production was from perforations from 11,365 to 11,575 feet after an 8,000-gallon acid treatment.

Wildcat scheduled

Amoco Production Co. No. 1 Sally Reeves is to be drilled as a 6,600-foot wildcat in Floyd County.

The well is 1,330 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 7, block B-4, AB&M survey.

It is six miles of Plains. There is no nearby production.

Gulf tests ward well

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-13-18 University, south outpost to the War-Wink, South (Wolfcamp) field of Ward County, is testing on perforations from 11,962 to 12,899 feet.

During the last 24 hours reported, the project flowed 149 barrels of oil and 148 barrels of water, through a 20/64-inch choke.

Location is 1,320 feet from west lines of section 13, block 18, University Lands survey.

Morrow test flows

Gulf Oil Corp. is waiting on four-point gauges at its No. 1-GK Eddy-State Communitized, project two miles south of the Richard Knob (Morrow) gas area of Eddy County, N.M.

The project flowed gas at the rate of 3,357 million cubic feet per day on test through perforations from 8,603 to 8,641 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 19-18-25e and seven miles south of Artesia.

"This is a tool that will give the small operator and independent geologist the same targeting capability as major oil companies because of low cost. It can eliminate millions of dollars in geophysical and aerial photography cost," he said.

One of the most distinct advantages claimed for Landsat imagery over aerial photography for geological interpretation is the fact that the area of study is photographed every 18 days throughout the year, providing the geologist a wider range of information.

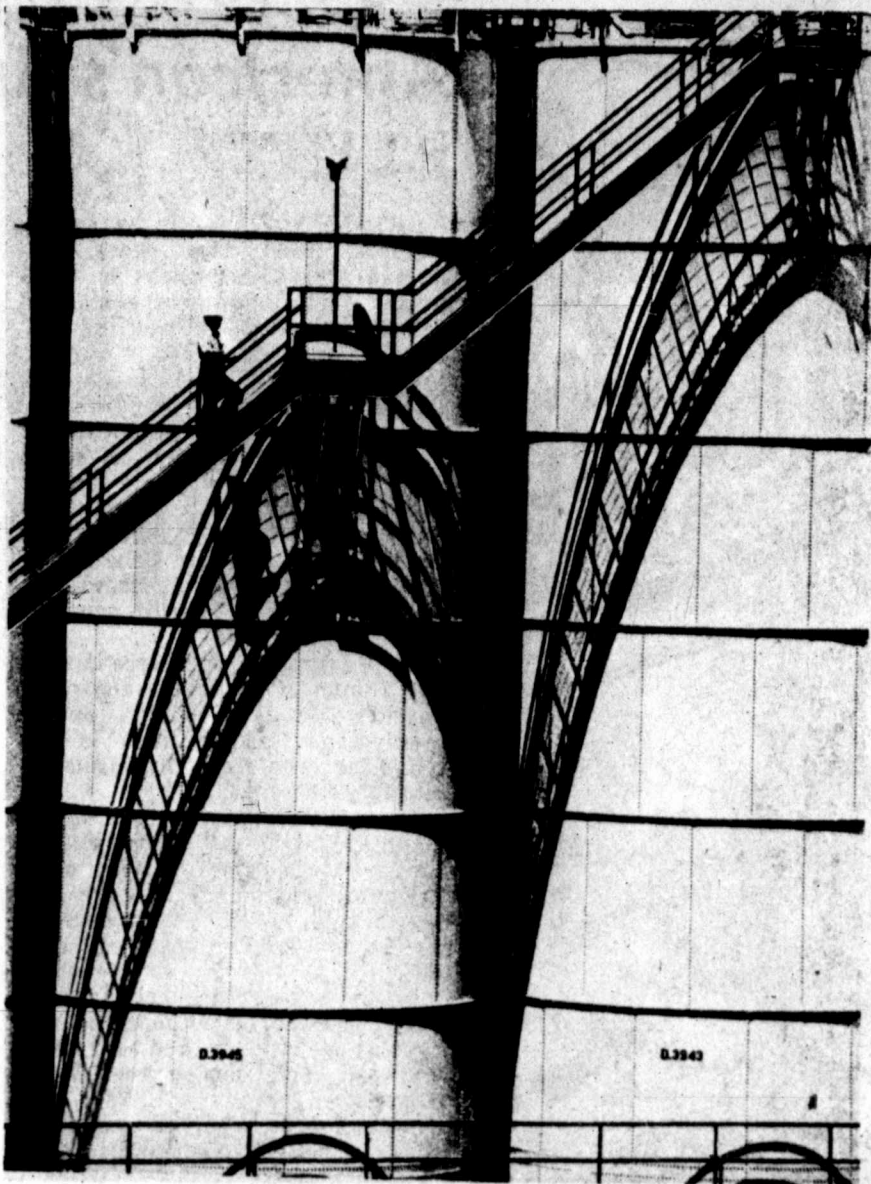

Since landscape characteristics change throughout the year with seasons, several false-color images of the study area can provide the geologist with additional clues to locating deposits.

Ramsey-Palmer cautioned Landsat imagery is not a substitute for field geology.

Oil-locating method being taught at UTPB

ODESSA — A method of locating oil and gas deposits, previously known to only a handful of geologists and engineers nationwide, is currently being taught to 16 University of Texas at Permian Basin students.

Bill Ramsey-Palmer UTPB earth science lecturer and Odessa consulting geologist, said 14 of the 16 students in the class are already employed in some way with the Permian Basin petroleum industry. The course teaches working geologists and others how to use satellite data to find deposits within a 12,500 square mile area.

Ramsey-Palmer said the course, entitled, "Targeting Exploration Prospects Utilizing Landsat Remote-Sensed Data," is the only one of its type being taught in the United States.

"Techniques taught in the course will eventually be the key to targeting thousands of acres in the Permian Basin and millions of acres around the world," Ramsey-Palmer said.

Landsat data is acquired from two satellites — Landsat I and II — launched in a circular orbit 570 miles above the earth's surface. Each orbit is from north to south, allowing for repetitive coverage every 18 days.

While Landsat data currently is being used by major oil companies, Ramsey-Palmer said only a handful of persons are qualified in Landsat targeting techniques. "It is the intention of UTPB to make this information available to the working geologist," he said.

Ramsey-Palmer said the principles used in this type petroleum exploration are essentially the same as those used in aerial photography, except the undisturbed overview is much greater, the data more complete and the cost drastically reduced.

"This is a tool that will give the small operator and independent geologist the same targeting capability as major oil companies because of low cost. It can eliminate millions of dollars in geophysical and aerial photography cost," he said.

OPEC countries may vote against oil hike

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said Sunday there is a chance oil-exporting countries will vote against price increases for next year in a bid to help improve the world economy.

"We can't really be sure...but there is a chance that they will decide not to raise the price of oil for some time. I'm hoping that they will make that decision for an entire year," Blumenthal said on the television program "Face the Nation" (CBS).

The secretary said his optimism stems from his trip last week to Europe and the Middle East, during which he tried to convince leaders of oil-producing nations it would be in their best interests to forego price increases next year.

The 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) plan to meet in Caracas next month to discuss oil prices.

Based on his discussions last week in Saudi Arabia, Iran and Kuwait, Blumenthal said he believes the oil exporters "are actively considering" keeping oil prices steady through 1978. "But we will have to wait and see," he said.

"Even a moderate increase (in oil prices) would have a very negative effect on many economies around the world — including our own," Blumenthal said. "In the case of our country, each percentage of increase in the price of oil costs us about $400 million to $500 million in our balance of trade," he said.

In countries that are "almost totally dependent on oil imports," each percentage of increase in oil prices "has a major inflationary impact," Blumenthal said.

"Stability — meaning no price increase — is very important," he said. Blumenthal said the oil-exporting nations have become aware of the importance of maintaining stable oil prices.

For example, he said: "Every time we have a high inflation rate and they (oil exporters) contribute to it by raising their price of oil, the products we export start going up in price and they lose it (oil profits) all again by having to pay more for the goods they buy from us.

"They have to take into consideration a lot of conflicting factors before they make up their minds" on what to do about oil prices, he said.

The United States now spends about $45 billion annually for oil imports — a major factor in this country's nearly $30 billion trade deficit, Blumenthal said.

The deficit is "too high and too worrisome" and puts "squarely in the forefront the terribly important issue of the president's energy program," said Blumenthal.

"There is, therefore, nothing more important...than for the Congress to adopt speedily and effectively a program for reducing the consumption of energy, and therefore reducing the need to import oil," Blumenthal said, making a pitch for President Carter's embattled energy plan.

On other matters, the Treasury secretary said:

"The Carter administration is considering tax cuts in conjunction with a tax-revision program. He said business and individual tax cuts under consideration range from $15 billion to $20 billion.

—Despite present setbacks in the economy, the administration can meet its goals of a balanced budget and a 4.75 percent inflation rate by 1981.

—caution must be used in managing the federal money supply to avoid further slowing of economic recovery, but he declined specific comment on the Federal Reserve Board or its chairman, Arthur Burns.

Midland firm enters huge drilling program

Tom Brown, Inc., of Midland and its partners, Brownie, Wallace, Armstrong and Bander and Bill D. Saxon have entered into an agreement with Farmland Industries, Rainbow Resources and Claud Hamill to drill 30 Madison wildcat wells and five Red River wildcats in the Williston Basin of North Dakota.

The drilling program will be conducted over a three-year period, with the commencement date on or before May 1, 1978.

The agreement provides that upon completion of the drilling program, the Tom Brown group will earn one-half interest in approximately 590,000 acres in this increasingly active Rocky Mountain Basin.

In addition to the above program, Tom Brown, Inc., and the above mentioned partners have planned on drilling 60 wells in the MonDak area next year.

The company will move six drilling rigs into the basin, four out of the existing fleet which will be re-rigged for Rocky Mountain drilling and two which will be constructed.

All rigs should be on location by the end of the second quarter of 1978.

Amendments election

Your voter registration cards again will come in handy Tuesday when you go to the polls to have your say on the seven proposed amendments to the state constitution.

There hasn't been a lot of ballyhoo one way or the other on the amendment proposals, but this doesn't mean that they aren't important. Any and all amendments to the constitution are important, and qualified voters in representative numbers should cast their ballots "for" or "against" each proposal.

As stated previously in this space, The Reporter-Telegram recommends a vote in favor of all seven amendments, as proposed.

Just to refresh your memory on the amendments:

No. 1 would provide for a court of criminal appeals with nine judges and permit the court to sit in panels of three judges.

No. 2 would provide for an additional $200 million in bonds or obligations of the State of Texas for the Veterans' Land Fund and to allow surviving spouses of veterans to purchase tracts under certain circumstances.

No. 3 would permit denial of bail to a person charged with a felony offense who has been theretofore twice convicted of a felony offense, or charged with a felony offense committed while that person was admitted to bail on a prior felony indictment, or charged with a crime involving the use of a deadly weapon where there is evidence such person has been convicted of a prior felony offense; providing for a 60-day limit to that person's incarceration without trial; and providing for that person's right of appeal.

No. 4 would amend Article VIII of the Texas Constitution by adding Section 1-F, relating to tax relief to preserve certain cultural, historical, or natural history resources.

No. 5 would grant the legislature power to authorize the formation of agricultural and marine associations which may mandate the collection of refundable assessments for improvement of production, marketing or use of their products.

No. 6 would give the legislature power to authorize state and national banks to exercise banking and discounting privileges by use of electronic devices or machines.

No. 7 would change the name of the State Judicial Qualifications Commission to the State Commission on Judicial Conduct, and relating to the commission and the powers and proceedings of the commission, a master, and the supreme court, or court of civil appeals justices serving in place of the supreme court, for the suspension, censure, removal, or involuntary retirement of a justice, judge, or justice of the peace under certain circumstances.

The Reporter-Telegram urges all citizens to exercise their voting rights by casting ballots in Tuesday's election.

Shameful incident

A shameful, disgusting incident occurred last week at Virginia Beach, Va.

While a woman driver was being beaten in a parking lot by a man whose car had hit hers, authorities said one witness locked her shop door, several passers-by refused to stop and about 20 onlookers watched passively before she got help.

The victim was hospitalized following the beating, which was stopped when a Navy captain and a woman clerk pushed through the crowd of onlookers and scared the assailant away.

This is another happening of which Americans cannot be proud. What in the world has come over people when they will make no effort, even to calling the police, to help a woman being beaten by a man in a public place. Fortunately, authorities later arrested two men, including the driver of a car which allegedly clipped the fender of the woman's car.

The people who watched the incident without raising a hand must feel mighty proud of themselves.

Amin's 'flycops' train in Texas

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — With a great show of disapproval, the United States cut off foreign aid in 1973 to Uganda's brutal dictator Idi Amin. Yet a dozen of his crack airborne police are now receiving helicopter training in Texas.

We learned about the Ugandan training mission from an intercepted cable sent by the chief of the police airwing, G.M. Sematimba, to the Ugandan United Nations ambassador, K.Y. Kinene.

The cable was sent from Entebbe, site of the famed Israeli commando raid that freed hostages held by hijackers. It confides that the police pilots will get "advanced flight training and pilot ground school at Bell Helicopter Company, Fort Worth, Texas.

"Their training should run approximately five weeks," reports the cable. Thereafter, "They will proceed for further training at Oak Grove Flight School (also in Fort Worth) for approximately six weeks."

We reached one of the Ugandan pilots, Cyria Isoko, who told us the trainees arrived in Fort Worth on October 25. All are police pilots, he said; none are military.

They could never have been admitted into this country without quiet State Department assistance. Because the U.S. embassy in Uganda has been closed down, the pilots had to get their entry visas through the U.S. embassy in neighboring Kenya.

Amin has an ugly reputation for battering his victims to death with sledge hammers. The hammers have been wielded usually by his security men in the special "State Research" and "Public Safety" units, not by the police.

Yet official sources say the police have participated in Amin's repression. They operate at least nine Bell helicopters, which were sent unarmed to Uganda. But they could easily have been converted into para-military aircraft, which could be used for chasing down dissidents in the bush and whisking kidnap victims from one torture site to another.

Once the 12 Ugandans complete their helicopter training, another U.S. agency, the Federal Aviation Administration, is expected to test and license them. At the FAA, a spokesman said there are no FAA regulations to block such a license.

In addition to the police helicopter pilots, three commercial pilots from Uganda are in training at Daytona Beach, Fla. One is sponsored under a personal contract with Idi Amin himself.

A confidential investigation by Rep. Don Pease, D-Ohio, has also uncovered a $4 million contract to provide Amin with a satellite communications system. The contract is held by the Harris Corporation, a Cleveland firm, which has a branch in Florida training about a dozen Ugandan technicians.

But Amin received his biggest U.S. bonanza from coffee dealers who paid the dictator $12.6 million for his coffee during the first five months of this year.

The outraged Pease fired off a private letter to the State Department, charging that the coffee payments provided "the lion's share of revenue for Amin." The madcap ruler then used the money, complained Pease, to bankroll his armed forces.

CHARLEY REESE:

Gen. Lewis Walt: An American's American

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — In an age of hustlers, tinsel, huge egos, and human robots fashioned by mad public relations geniuses, it's refreshing as heck to meet the real thing.

General Lewis Walt is the real thing. He is as close to embodying my image of an ideal American as anybody I've ever met or heard about.

He is a man of courage, both physical and moral. He's honest. He speaks plainly the truth as he sees it whether or not you want to hear it and even when it would be to his personal advantage to keep silent.

He is aggressive and fierce in war, but a man of gentleness and compassion. He is a leader, not a manipulator, and a man of intelligence who lives his ideals of morality and religion.

General Walt is a former assistant commandant of the Marine Corps; former commander of Marines in Vietnam; commander of the 5th Marines in Korea, and a hero of Guadalcanal and Peleliu in World War II.

I could write several columns just telling you what he has done since his days as one of 12 children on a dusty Midwest farm during the Great Depression.

But it's more important to relay to you what he is saying now because it has a direct bearing on your life and on the lives of your children and grandchildren.

We are now at this moment a second rate military power, he says. The Soviet Union is stronger than we are militarily and growing stronger every day while we are growing weaker.

This is straight talk, no political bull and no effort on the part of a military man to get his budget increased. This is talk from a man who knows the truth and who loves his country. I have sat in the privacy of his home and seen the anguish on his face as he talks about the politicians giving away what thousands of American boys paid for with their lives.

He says that today our fleet is about in the same shape it was in 1939, that we do not have the naval capacity to either reinforce or evacuate our troops in Europe. He fears the Soviet Union may one day soon order us out of the Mediterranean and resort to nuclear blackmail. He already has evidence our weakness, more evident to foreigners than to the American people, will drive traditional allies toward the Soviet Union.

A high Japanese official, for example, told him recently that Japan no longer has faith in our willingness to defend that country or ability to guard her vital oil supply which comes from the Middle East. He said plainly the Japanese will be reassessing their relations with Russia.

What alarms General Walt most is that nobody seems to care. He warned the nation in 1970 in his book, "America Faces Defeat." That same year, more than 70 congressmen spoke the same warning. The Blue Ribbon Defense Panel, made up entirely of non-military and non-government citizens, reached the same conclusion after more than a year of study. They, too, were ignored. Their report concluded:

"Yet the response of the public generally, much of the media and many political leaders ranges from apathy and complacency to affirmative hostility — not against the potential enemies which threaten us but toward our military establishment and the very concept of providing defense capabilities adequate to protect this country and its vital interests. This paradox in response to possible national peril is without precedent in the history of this country."

Why do you suppose this is the case? Why did we allow ourselves in less than two decades to fall from a position of safety and strength to a position of peril and weakness?

I don't know how to put it any plainer but what the general and these other people are trying to tell us is that there is a high probability that within five to eight years we will either be incinerated or stand around and watch an American president sign away the sovereignty of the United States and the freedom of the American people.

You know the Soviet Union, since the Russian Revolution, has lost 60 million people, most of whom they murdered themselves. I hope you're not counting on them to be either gentle masters or to refrain from blowing you away if that suits their purpose. If you are, history is against you.

The only thing that gives me hope is that there are people like General Walt willing to keep fighting. He's a Marine's Marine and an American's American.

Mark Russell says

The government of Uganda is reported to be employing female agents to watch dissidents. If I know Uganda, they are probably the only meter-maids ever to carry machine guns.

The women are said to be a "Mata Hari" squad of attractive but deadly spies set up by Idi Amin to follow Ugandans who have fled the country. That's right — "Idi's Angels."

Unrest in South Africa once again reminds us all of a tiny ruling body imposing its will on a vast black majority. Where? Washington, D.C., of course.

The District of Columbia has a representative in the Congress who cannot vote, which is like sending a eunuch to an orgy.

INSIDE REPORT:

Gloom is apparent in Hussein's Kingdom of Jordan

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

AMMAN, Jordan — The temptation for Israel "to use its military might while it is at its peak" is the most dangerous political fact in the world today and one that directly threatens President Carter's peace efforts.

King Hussein, now in his 25th year on the throne of Jordan, couples that warning with another conclusion that cuts at the heart of American policy toward Israel since its conquests 10 years ago in the Six-Day War.

"It has been said that a strong Israel is a moderate Israel," the King told us during an exclusive interview in his family palace called El-Hashemia. "I am afraid it is now clear that that is not true."

Hussein expressed the usual hope that Mr. Carter's plan to reconvene the Geneva conference will succeed and praised Mr. Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance for the most forthright peace efforts ever made by an American administration. But his inner mood was melancholy, not optimistic. The reason is found in his somber view about Israel's real intentions, and its ability, thanks to the billion-dollar-a-year military pipeline from the U.S., to make good those intentions.

"I firmly believe that they are not interested in any withdrawal from the occupied territories, particularly the West Bank and Gaza," he said. "They have in the back of their minds a base in all of Palestine, after 2,000 years, and I don't think they will part from it even for true peace."

The King had just sent the President a request for clarifications and modifications in the U.S.-Israel working paper on the procedural arrangements for Geneva. Clearly, the task for coordinating Syria, Egypt and Jordan on a common Arab position is proving to be no picnic.

For example, on the central question of PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) attendance at Geneva — absolutely ruled out by Israel — Jordan is not at all interested in making a fight. Since the PLO has been designated by the Arab world as "sole representative" of the Palestinians on the West Bank (in clear view across the river from El-Hashemia Palace) Jordan theoretically is not even a direct party for the Geneva talks about Israel's withdrawal. But the King was vague about this. The PLO issue, he told us, is "rather important" and it would be "of great benefit" to have the PLO at Geneva.

The real question, he said, is not so much the PLO (described by one high government official here as the rotten apple in the Geneva barrel). Rather, it is to let the West Bank Palestinians themselves decide their future — "the people of Palestine as such, without pressure from any one, should exercise the right of self-determination under international auspices."

Hussein's deepest worry is neither the PLO nor the West Bank but what he sees as Israel's real game in the pre-Geneva jostling: "to out-manuever the Arabs and remove any blame from themselves for lack of progress" in getting to Geneva or in a breakdown of diplomacy thereafter. Thus, he implied, Jordan, Egypt and Syria should at all costs agree to go to Geneva and not let Israel's procedural demands deflect them. Otherwise, "Israel may get off the hook" and blame the Arabs for a breakdown and then, on any one of a multitude of manufactured pretexts, bring into play its immense military power.

However it may appear in the West, this view of a militaristic Israel capable of brazen exploitation of its U.S.-supplied power is today one of the underlying realities in the Arab world — a reality some students of Mideast politics have warned about for years.

Hussein's special worry about the probability of yet another Israeli military attack ("the shadow of the unknown hanging over us") is Jordan's vulnerability as an easy avenue to Syria and Iraq.

"Jordan lies between Israel and major sources of Arab energy," he told us. His nightmare, which American politicians have until recently dismissed as Arab paranoia, is yet another failure of peace efforts — with the Americans blaming the Arabs, followed by a lightning Israeli assault to destroy the Arabs' war-making capability. As the soft underbelly of the Arab world east of the Jordan river, Jordan, in the eyes of the King, could not be spared.

DEAR ABBY: As far as I'm concerned, that self-proclaimed "liberated" woman who thought her boyfriend should pay for her birth control pills, is far from liberated.

Her attitude is typical of most "liberated" women. They prefer to open their own doors and light their own cigarettes, but when it comes to money—the liberation's over!

Most men spend between $15 and $25 for an evening out. Multiply that by the number of times they go out during the month and it's a lot more than the $3 or $4 a month she pays for birth control pills.

When was the last time this girl picked up the tab for an evening out? And when did she last invite him over for dinner? And when was the last time they used HER car on a date?

I think she should pay for her birth control pills, don't you?—REALISTIC

DEAR REALISTIC: Not necessarily. A man who's asked to shell out for his girlfriend's birth control pills would be a fool to refuse. It's peanuts compared to what his monkey shines could cost in terms of child support.

It's olive-green in color and flavorful. 1 pound (2 medium-large) zucchini 1 quart water 4 chicken bouillon cubes 2 teaspoons instant minced onion ¾ to 1 cup leftover mashed potato, home-cooked or prepared from a package Salt and coarsely ground black pepper to taste

Scrub zucchini; cut off tips and discard; do not pare. Grate coarsely—there should be about 3 cups not packed down. In a 9-quart saucepot bring the zucchini, water, bouillon cubes and onion to a boil and boil for a minute or two. Puree in an electric blender; return to the saucepot and add the potato. Reheat, whisking in potato until blended. Add salt and pepper. Makes 1¼ to 1½ quarts.

Woman hunts for clues of crash

By MILES CORWIN
Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES — Mary Wallace Funk, an air safety investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board, investigates airplane crashes for a living. She carries a beeper 24 hours a day, 14 days a month.

Her office's jurisdiction is over Southern California and Arizona. She has to be ready to move within minutes. "I may have a cake in the oven or dinner party going, but if I get called I've got to go," she says. "I always have my car packed and ready to go. The inconvenience doesn't bother me because I love to travel." She is prepared for all kinds of weather and terrain.

"I've worked in clothes from down suits to shorts and T-shirt. And I've gotten to crash sites every way possible — car, helicopter, horse, mule — you name it."

Her job is similar to a homicide detective, but with a higher success rate. Air safety investigators are responsible for determining probable cause in 95 percent of the nation's airline accidents.

The largest single cause of accidents is pilot error, which encompasses bad weather. The pilot is supposed to avoid poor conditions or turn around when approaching foul weather.

When an investigator reaches an accident site, Funk says, the first thing to do is secure the wreckage with the help of law enforcement officers, so each part can be studied later on. Persons near the crash site are interviewed and a sketch is made of the site.

Weather charts are checked, the plane's instruments are documented and pictures are taken. Investigators, who work closely with the Federal Aviation Administration, may talk, in the search for clues, to radar controllers and regional airports.

In some cases, such as midair collisions, flights may be re-created as nearly as possible. Similar aircraft is used over the same area at the same time and day under similar weather conditions.

After the research and analysis of the information is gathered, the investigator must compile a full report for the safety board, with conclusions and suggestions.

At 5, Funk began building model airplanes and received her pilot license at 16. "I always knew I wanted to be a flyer."

She is the National Transportation Safety Board's only woman investigator. Beginning her first job as a civilian flight instructor for U.S. Army officers, to her current position, she's had no trouble, she says, achieving success in traditional male fields.

She was chief pilot at the Hawthorne airport here for 15 years. She was an inspector for the FAA for four years before becoming an investigator two and a half years ago. Her aviation background and four

Teen-agers should not suffer from acne, specialist says

By SHERYL FITZGERALD
Newsday

Acne can be cured; it can also be prevented. Many people seem to consider it simply a normal unpleasantness, one dermatologist says, but "if a madman went through the streets of our cities throwing acid in the faces of beautiful young girls, the public would be outraged and horrified."

This expert contends: "No teenager needs to have pimples. They are not normal. They are not necessary. They are not natural."

In a book entitled "Acne Can Be Cured" (Arco Publishing Co. Inc., $3.50), Dr. Gustave H. Hoehn defines the problem of acne as a matter of incorrect diet. But he says the condition isn't precisely the fault of the familiar villains — ice cream, candy and cheeseburgers — but the solid fats that they contain.

One problem, according to the dermatologist, is that many people do not recognize the condition, unaware that acne can be present even when there are only a few pimples and blackheads.

Many sufferers also think that acne is a sign of dirt. Blackheads aren't caused by dirt, he says, nor by makeup. Acne vulgaris is a condition in which there are plugs in the ducts of the oil glands of the skin, the sebaceous glands.

Part oil and part keratin (the cast-off outer layer of the skin), the plugs may be visible as blackheads — or they may be down deep and visible only as white nodules, if at all. The earliest stages of acne exist only as such plugs and may begin in children as early as the age of 7. As the glands grow larger in puberty, the plugs form deeper down, close to the sebaceous glands, and become infected. That condition produces the pimples and other phenomena most people call acne.

There has been considerable controversy about diet as the key to acne relief, but Hoehn says eating properly is the key to curing the condition. In 1882, he writes, Dr. L. D. Buckley noted that when young girls tried to put on weight by eating chocolate and rich milk, they developed acne within three months. In Buckley's day, Hoehn writes, drinking milk was rare weeks of investigator training school in Washington, D.C., have adequately prepared her for her work.

In 1961, Funk was one of 25 women invited to the Women in Space Team Program. She was on her way to being qualified as an astronaut when NASA made 1,000 hours of jet flying time a prerequisite. At that time, it was impossible for women to meet the requirement, she says.

Her fantasies of space were delayed, not forgotten. "In the 1980s, I'd like to give the space program another shot. It's an adventure and a contribution to science."

after infancy and chocolate was a rare delicacy. Other physicians have blamed fried foods, he says, when only foods fried in butter, lard or solid shortenings are the culprits.

That leads Hoehn to the theory of what he calls "fat" and "thin" oils. The key, he says, is not to take into account the consistency of cooking oil when heated, but to notice if the oil is thick or thin at room temperature.

If "thin," it's fine, he says; but if not avoid it. He says that he advises acne sufferers to use only liquid, unsaturated oils like peanut, olive, fish and vegetable oils, and void solid fats from beef, pork, bacon, ham, cheese, milk, ice cream and the lard used to cook many fried foods.

To avoid the oils that cause sebaceous glands to become clogged and infected, Hoehn recommends the following diet (and the only problem with it, he says, is resisting the temptation to add hard fats when preparing food for the table):

- All fruits.
- All salad greens and vegetables.
- Wheat, oats, barley, rice.
- Nuts, in their natural form.
- Beans, split peas, lentils and other legumes.
- Fish and seafood, but cooked only in thin, polyunsaturated oils.
- Chicken, goose, duck, turkey.
- Salad dressings made from oils and seasoning (including mayonnaise).
- Milk products with all butterfat removed.
- Foods that should be avoided on an acne-relief diet, Hoehn says, include:
- Butter and butterfat in milk products.
- Fat in all cuts and kinds of meat.
- Margarine from any source.
- Hydrogenated (solid) shortenings and fats of all types, including hydrogenated peanut butter.
- Chocolate or cocoa in any form.

China eats Japanese food

Agence France-Presse TOKYO — Japanese food is being served in China for the first time since the Cultural Revolution, the Japanese agency Kyodo reported Friday.

The Sino-Japanese friendship association invited Japanese journalists to a Japanese meal in the Peking Hotel. The journalists tucked into their favorite dishes, tempura, chawan mushi and sukiyaki. Sashimi, the Japanese raw fish speciality, was on the menu but was withdrawn at the last minute as the fish, caught off Talien, was not fresh enough on reaching Peking.

One of the cooks Chen Jun-hsui said that Japanese food had been added to the hotel's menu following requests from Japanese guests, who are the most numerous and stay the longest.

Where real estate is a profession...

BIG, BEAUTIFUL & DIFFERENT: This tri-level home has almost 3,700 sq. ft. of 4 bdrms, 3-1/2 baths, large den with fireplace, large formal dining room, and a big game room that can be used as a bedroom, sprinkler system, refrig. air, excellent location. Call Mary Jo, $100,400.

NEAR MIDLAND COLLEGE: Attractive wall paper in just the right places makes this large 4 bdr & den home different from the rest, large his & hers walk-in closets, beautiful carpet, fireplace, refrig. air, $86,000.

EXCELLENT CONDITION: The owner has just redecorated this beautiful large (2,648 sq. ft.) 3 bdr and den home on Stanolind. Beautiful yard, covered patio, refrig. air and lots of storage space. Call Mary Jo, $71,500.

COUNTRY LIVING: An ideal place for horse lovers because it has 4 1/2 acres of land, a 2 stall horse barn and equipment. A large (3,880 sq. ft.) 4 bdr and den home and apartment, good location on Andrews Hwy. $89,900.

NOT TOO OLD: One of the newer 3 bdr and den homes in a good location, refrig. air, electric kitchen, beautiful carpeting and vaulted ceiling in den. Call John, $48,500.

NEAR THE HICAC: A real nice 3 bdr home that is priced right. The room arrangement is such that it offers a private living area with kitchen facilities separate from the other area. Call John, $20,300.

SOUTH SIDE: Here you get a lot more for your money. This 3 bdr home is zoned so it could be used for business. Owner would like to sell the furniture and appliances too. Call John, $13,850.

WEST SIDE: Located not far from Dellwood shopping center.
This very attractive 3 bdr and clean home is priced at only $16,000 per sq. ft. which is low in this market. See it now to get a good buy. Call Mary Jo, $28,000.

ROOM FOR A POOL TABLE: This unusual 3 bdr. home has a large den with fireplace plus a game room large enough for a pool table, sunken den, sequestered living room, refrig. air, good location. $53,000.

JUST LISTED: This nice 3 bdr., 2 bath brick home is priced to sell quick so see it now, good location between Dellwood center and Town & Country center. $32,500.

BECOME A DEVELOPER: 164 acre tract already subdivided into 30 plots, 7,500 ft. altitude in the beautiful mountains of New Mexico, NE of Santa Fe, a good opportunity for an enjoyable enterprise. Call Goodrich $12,500.

LOOKING FOR OFFICE SPACE OR A COMMERCIAL LOC-ATION: We have it. We have good locations to build for lease or sell outright. Try the professionals, you'll be glad you did.
