10,000 tractors, rallying farmers paralyze Plains

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Thousands of farmers demanding guaranteed profits took their tractors to President Carter's hometown for a rally Friday, paralyzing traffic in town and for miles down the highway.

By dusk it was a two-way jam, with some farmers trying to get out of town while hundreds more were still trying to get in.

"There's just no sense in trying to go anywhere," said one observer. "You just can't move."

Town policeman Billy Barry said there were at least 10,000 tractors in town.

At the rally, state Sen. Hugh Carter, President Carter's cousin, said, "I believe the president is in complete sympathy with you."

Long after the rally started, tractors were backed up for three or four miles on U.S. Highway 280 between Plains and Americus.

The town's only traffic light — 15 seconds red, 15 seconds green — was no help, and Police Chief Billy McClung moved in to cope with the jam.

Throughout town the tractors were parked helter-skelter, in any spot big enough to leave them as their drivers went to hear the country music and the speakers. Businesses closed in mid-afternoon.

"I'm in complete sympathy with you and I believe the president is," Hugh Carter said. "I've had no communication with him, but I believe he is. It's just my opinion."

Carter and others estimated the milling crowd at 30,000 persons. Most of the farmers brought their families or others with them.

Some tractors carried signs: "Hell No. We Won't Grow," and "America Grew Up with the Farms. Don't Let Them Die."

The protest is among many planned by a farmers' group called American Agriculture, leading up to a national farm strike threatened for Dec. 14.

In conjunction with the rally here, a similar rally was held in Plains, Kan., Friday when more than 100 farmers from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas paraded their tractors through the southwest Kansas village.

Farmers participating in the nationwide effort say they will stop planting and will avoid buying anything but essentials beginning then until legislation is passed that will bring what they consider a fair return for their products.

They say they want Congress to guarantee a profit for farmers even in years when bad weather hurts the harvests. They say profits are warranted even then, because consumer prices for farm products go up when such products are scarce.

Documents verify Soviet 'blasts'

By MERRILL HARTSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — For nearly 20 years, the CIA kept secret its knowledge of an alleged nuclear explosion in the Soviet Union that killed scores of people and turned 60 square miles into a "vast nothing," a Ralph Nader-affiliated organization charged Friday.

The Critical Mass Energy Project said CIA documents it obtained through the Freedom of Information Act provide new verification of the rumored nuclear accident in the Ural Mountains in 1958.

There had been varied accounts, but sparse documentation, of the alleged accident in the town of Kyshtym on the Asian side of the mountains. The alleged accident was said to have exposed hundreds of townspeople to radiation.

CIA officials declined to comment on the agency's withholding of the documents. "We've released the documents as required by law, and for now ... they'll have to stand on their own two feet," a spokesman said.

The citizens group said the newly released CIA documents "constitute the first official response from the United States government to allegations made earlier this year that a tragic catastrophe occurred in 1958 that dispersed lethal radioactivity over a wide area following a nuclear accident."

Of the alleged Kyshtym accident, the group said the CIA as recently as last March wrote:

"About 100 kilometers from Sverdlovsk (about 100 miles north of Kyshtym), we crossed a strange, uninhabited and unfarmed area. Highway signs along the way warned drivers not to stop for the next 20 to 30 kilometers because of radiation. The land was empty. There were no villages, no towns, no people, no cultivated land; only the chimneys of destroyed houses remained."

The CIA released 14 of its documents pertaining to the alleged accident, but withheld 15 others, citing national security as the main reason. Portions of the 14 released documents were deleted for similar reasons.

Richard Pollock, the citizen group's project director, said his organization plans to go to court to obtain the unreleased information as well as similar documents that allegedly originated with the State and Defense Departments.

Pollock said he was concerned that the CIA had decided to continue the shroud of secrecy around the alleged accident. "It's absolutely incredible that the U.S. government decided to suppress information about accidents that related to nuclear power systems in other countries for over 20 years," he said.

The CIA documents did not reveal the exact nature of the alleged 1958 accident, the citizens group said, although there were indications the blast either involved a nuclear plant at Kyshtym or a nuclear waste storage facility there.

It said there was a second nuclear-related accident cited in the CIA documents that occurred either in 1960 or 1961, and which was accompanied by a "terrific explosion."

Jordanian radio airs appeal to Arab critics

By The Associated Press

Jordan, playing a peacemaker role, broadcast an appeal Friday to Arab critics of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to tone down their complaints and prevent "the creation of two camps in the Arab ranks."

Amman Radio warned that a rift caused by the visit would lead to "explosion" if allowed to continue.

The radio said although the visit had come "as a surprise to all Arabs, it's now a fait accompli, and the Arabs should unite in order not to force Sadat to take a separate decision."

The attempt to patch up the dispute was indicative of the difficult position into which King Hussein and his government have been pushed by the Sadat initiative. Syria, with whom Jordan is allied militarily, is one of the sharpest critics of Sadat's trip, but sources in Amman claim the king is convinced the Arabs must begin peace talks with Israel soon to avoid another war.

Western diplomats in London report French Premier Raymond Barre will use the opportunity of an official visit to Damascus this weekend to try to dilute Syria's hostility to an early reconvening of Arab-Israeli peace negotiations in Geneva.

They said it was possible that Barre would have some success, since Syrian President Hafez Assad has not personally joined in the chorus of Syrian press and radio denunciation of Sadat.

"It's just possible he's keeping his powder dry in case he concludes it would be in Syria's own interest to attend a reconvened Geneva conference," a senior official in London said.

Sadat's trip to Jerusalem last weekend has been praised by Egypt's close ally, Sudan, and by Morocco and Oman. Critics are Libya, Algeria, Syria, South Yemen, Tunisia, and Iraq, while Saudi Arabia and other oil-rich Persian Gulf states have remained silent since Sadat's return.

In other Mideast developments: —In Cairo the Middle East News Agency said Palestinian leaders in Israel and the West Bank of the Jordan River have been invited to Egypt to discuss the Mideast situation in light of the Sadat visit to Israel.

U.N. action condemns Israeli 'occupation'

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly adopted a resolution Friday night condemning Israel's continued occupation of Arab territories — ignoring Israeli Ambassador Chaim Herzog's warning that it would be an obstacle to Middle East peace.

The vote for the resolution, drafted by nonaligned nations, was 102-4 with 29 abstentions.

The roll call on the resolution wound up a four-day Middle East debate in the assembly.

The resolution called for Israeli withdrawal from all Arab territories occupied in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war and early reconvening of the Geneva peace conference — with participation of the Palestine Liberation Organization — to work out a just and lasting peace.

It mentioned an Oct. 1 Soviet-American conference that would include Palestinian representatives. It did not mention Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's visit last weekend to Israel.

The resolution, cleared with Arab countries bordering Israel, is only a recommendation and has no binding effect on U.N. members.

The United States, Canada and El Salvador joined Israel in voting against it.

Those abstaining were Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Samoa, Papua-New Guinea, Fiji, Barbados, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Uruguay, Austria, Norway, Sweden, Iceland and the European common market—Britain, France, West Germany, Ireland, Denmark, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Italy.

China, Albania, Iraq, South Yemen and Swaziland did not participate in the vote. Cambodia was absent, but all other Communist countries, several European countries and the Third World generally voted for the resolution.

Exceptional gift suits its popular recipient

ANDREWS — Doug Schoenewolf definitely wasn't in the running. There wasn't even a race.

But had there been a contest, he probably would have come out owning the "Mr. Popularity" banner.

And Schoenewolf found out just how popular he was when he decided to leave town for good and let it become known.

He's the chief administrator of Permian General Hospital at Andrews. He won't be for much longer, though.

"He is quite a popular person," said his secretary, Sherri Burgess. "We were quite upset with his leaving."

Nobody but the immediate family is supposed to be particularly fond of a hospital's administrator. Generally speaking, administrators can be less than loved. Ask many a doctor.

If that's the rule, Schoenewolf is the exception. Ask any physician on the Permian General medical staff. Ask the nurses, the clerks, the laundry and cafeteria workers, the janitors and yard men. Ask the board, the whole gang. They'll tell you Schoenewolf is an exceptional guy.

The 33-year-old administrator is leaving. Here early next month to become the vice president for patient services at Driscoll Children's Hospital in Corpus Christi.

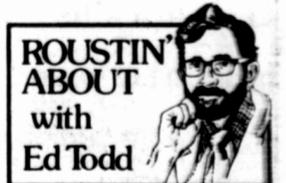

Most all of Andrews County found out just how the hospital's employees and medical staff felt about Schoenewolf's leaving when a full-page "Best Wishes to Doug Schoenewolf" ad recently appeared in the weekly Andrews County News.

The ad bore the signatures of about 170 hospital employees, medical doctors and others. Names accounted for about half of the advertisement.

And that ad, which "cost quite a bit," was the administrator's going away gift, Miss Burgess said.

"This is the only time that we'll probably get that many names together," Miss Burgess said.

Schoenewolf was pleased by the gesture. "I really appreciate it," he said. "It's something. It's so unusual (that you don't know how to respond to it." Running the hospital after Schoenewolf's departure will be Bert DeBord, formerly assistant administrator at The University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston.

"It's a good opportunity for myself ... career-wise," Schoenewolf said of the move to Corpus Christi. Too, he said the "larger community" should benefit his and his wife's (Ann's) children: Karen, 5, Christi, 2, and Carla, 1. Schoenewolf, a West Texan, grew up in Lamesa.

His service to the hospital and to the community drew some favorable comments from Beryl Six, chairman of the hospital's board of director.

Dr. John Kantor, chief of the hospital's medical staff, said the physicians and surgeons haven't always agreed with Schoenewolf's decisions.

But, "despite disagreements," they have managed to get along with the administrator and to respect his judgment and his tact.

"He's always outgoing and honest ... never vindictive," Kantor said. He also described Schoenewolf as "up-to-date" in procedures and in medical thinking.

The full-page tribute to Schoenewolf was initiated by Stheilia Neal, the hospital's medical records librarian. She and others circulated the "thank you" notice for signatures and collected free-will donations that paid for the ad.

Absurdity is right

The U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to hear arguments in the case of the endangered snail darter. It is a case that reduces the environmentalist cause to an absurdity.

The high court will interpret a 1973 law passed by Congress and signed by President Nixon. The law prohibits the destruction or modification of the habitat of any species of animal that is officially listed as endangered.

In this case, the law is being applied to a dam project on the Little Tennessee River. The project dates back several years before the 1973 law was enacted. Construction began in 1967. The dam is substantially complete. It has cost the Tennessee Valley Authority about $100 million.

Opponents of the dam project, using the Endangered Species Act as an instrument, have obtained lower court orders prohibiting the TVA from closing the dam and from filling the reservoir behind the dam.

Meanwhile, TVA is seeking to establish a new habitat for the snail darter on another river. The fish, a member of the perch family, is about three inches long when fully grown. It is found only along this stretch of the Little Tennessee and might not survive if 17 miles of the freerunning river are drowned out by the dam. So what? It is doubtful if anyone would know the difference, except the environmentalists and the snail darters.

In certain instances, the environmentalist movement has had a healthy influence on America. It has raised the country's consciousness of what modern technology can do to the limited resources of the planet. It has encouraged us to take the long view, to respect nature and to be gentle with it.

But there must always be a sense of proportion and perspective. We must see the earth whole in all its aspects and not focus narrowly on the needs of one species to the exclusion of all other considerations.

The snail darter case will damage the cause of environmentalism unless the Supreme Court puts it right. The Endangered Species Act must be amended if it prevents a reasonable compromise on the Little Tennessee River.

Worth trying here

An alarm clock apparently is going to save the British government a whole bunch of money.

It seems that an unemployed laborer, Anthony Murphy of Newbury, England, has been having a great deal of trouble in keeping a job, which has cost the government 2,898 pounds — $5,210 — in welfare over the last two years.

When accused of persistently neglecting to maintain himself, his wife and his two children, his attorney told magistrates that Murphy keeps losing jobs because he can't wake up in the morning.

The prosecutor in the case told Newbury Court that the Department of Health and Social Security was ready to buy Murphy an alarm clock "to help him wake up."

The department kept its promise and 21-year old Murphy said he would be up bright and early the next morning to look for a new job, thanks to the clock, which cost $6.30.

"If the clock does the trick and gets Mr. Murphy off our books it will be money well spent," a department spokesman commented.

The magistrates decided to postpone sentencing Murphy for 12 weeks to see how he fares in this business of waking up, getting up and holding a job.

It could be that an investment in alarm clocks might pay dividends if used in similar situations by welfare agencies in America.

WASHINGTON — The federal government has discovered a disturbing 700 discrepancies in the nuclear bookkeeping of 50 private companies. Hundreds of pounds of nuclear materials, suitable for producing H-bombs, are unaccounted for and, therefore, may be missing.

This news comes at a time of chilling reports that nuclear materials have been stolen from U.S. plants and smuggled to foreign powers seeking to manufacture nuclear weapons.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, which has been charged with keeping track of the deadly materials since 1975, prefers to say the 700 cases are merely "accounting differences." But a spokesman conceded that more than 1,000 tons of H-bomb ingredients cannot be accounted for.

In addition, the status of thousands of pounds of less dangerous uranium is in question. The bookkeeping is so muddled that some companies may actually have more material on hand than the records show.

The discrepancies have been found in the nuclear inventories of such major companies as Westinghouse, General Electric, General Atomics, Babcock and Wilcox, Nuclear Fuel Services and Atomics International.

The nuclear regulators, despairing of solving the problem on their own, are calling in outside contractors for help. The contract bid calls for "eliminating any inconsistencies existing between the two data banks." One data file is located in Washington, the other in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The commission admits the companies may have provided good data to the government. In at least some cases, the information was cranked faultily into the computer banks. In other cases, one set of facts was fed to one federal computer and another set to the other computer. To make it even more confusing, there were instances in which no data at all was delivered to one of the two federal bookkeeping systems.

Footnote: The Natural Resources Defense Council is drafting a massive freedom of information suit against the government in an effort to learn the exact amount of missing nuclear material.

McRAE'S NAVY — A former Navy legal officer has charged in a confidential report that the Navy systematically violates the legal rights of young, unsuspecting recruits.

The disturbing report, submitted by Ronald McRae to Rep. Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., alleges: "Recruits with legal problems... were often given misleading and inaccurate advice, and often denied right of counsel."

The former legal officer explained that Navy recruiters, in their zeal to sign up potential recruits, have given them inaccurate advice. The new men have been told not to worry about any juvenile delinquency, homosexuality or drug abuse prior to their enlistments.

Based on this erroneous counsel, some enlistees haven't bothered to list on recruitment forms that they had once smoked pot. This has been used against them later, in some cases, to bring their discharge for fraudulent enlistment. Yet the recruiters who misinformed them have received only

Victim of bomb accident merits government help

By CHARLEY REESE Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — I. D. Cosson, of Clermont, Fla., sits in his battered, worn-out wheel chair, twisting his hands inside his undershirt. He is a unique victim of World War II. He was bombed by an American plane on American soil.

It was about 9 o'clock one night in August 1944. I. D. and his father, Alfred Cosson, then 49, were visiting his uncle, James Cosson, then 60. The Cosson brothers lived on small farms three miles north of the bombing range on Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. They were poor but hard workers.

That summer evening I. D., who was in fifth grade and a tall rangy country boy of 11, had been playing with his cousins, James Jr., 12, and Winnie, 13. The house was a simple wooden-frame, painted white, with a wood shingle roof and a Chinaberry tree in the front yard.

I. D. and his father were getting ready to leave when the planes, making night bombing runs, dropped their flares. Everybody came outside to see the flares float to earth. It was an event in their simple lives, a free fireworks display to cap a happy summer day.

The nightmare began when they heard, over the roar of a plane, the screaming whistle of bombs. Uncle Jim grabbed Winnie's hand and sprinted toward the house. The 16 bombs hit the field, each one after the first falling closer to the house, each a loud whump. It was as if an invisible assassin had cut them down with a shotgun.

Shrapnel screamed through the air. Uncle Jim's brains were blown up on the house. Winnie fell at his side. I. D.'s father toppled over with a gaping hole in his chest and his other cousin, Jim Jr., was chopped to shreds. I. D.'s spine was cut clean through and he fell against the fence, hugging a cedar post, unable to move.

An awful silence descended for a moment, then was broken by screams and wailing. Four Americans were dead, five others badly wounded. The last casualty of the tragedy would be the pilot who went insane when he learned what had happened and, according to Bob Mickler, of Webster, Fla., I. D.'s nephew, is still in a mental hospital.

It had been an accident due to a faulty bomb rack which had failed to release the bombs over the target and then dropped them on the Cosson farm.

What has followed, however, was no accident and it is just as bad. It often happens that people who are not clever or well-educated or not in positions of influence get taken advantage of and so it was with the Cossons. It is all the more rotten because they are the kind of people with implicit faith and trust in their country. As the families were being bombed in America, I. D.'s brothers were in the Pacific and Europe fighting for their country.

In the Eglin hospital, I. D. developed gangrene and lost his leg and the toes on one foot. He says today he quit counting after 13 operations but he spent more than 10 years in hospital beds. He has no hip joints left, no bladder, no education, and no pension.

Back in 1944, the government settled quickly: $5,000 each for two fathers, $3,000 each for two children and $3,750 for I. D.'s paralysis. The U.S. government then sued the estate of the dead men and collected farm loans given the Cossons that spring from the settlements. Lawyers and banks also took their cuts.

Around 1949, because some people in Orlando heard about I. D.'s situation, a bill was passed in Congress giving him $15,000. He didn't want it. He wanted a pension because he fears what will happen to him in the future, but a government man told him to either take it or get nothing.

He took it and bought a small house and a car. Later, he married and has been living on a Social Security disability check of $167 a month, plus the $40 to $50 a week his wife earns from her job.

Not long ago, the government discovered that his wife was working and demanded $3,000 in back payments. He was supposed to have reported that she was working. He didn't, but he never made any effort to hide it. All these years she's been paying income taxes and Social Security taxes.

Well, this threat was the last straw as far as Mickler is concerned. He is determined to get his uncle a pension. He had done a good job, too, of collecting the records and tracking down people who can testify to the poor treatment his uncle received in the military hospital. He has affidavits from them.

"He was an innocent bystander and it's not right, the way they've treated him," Mickler says. "The nurses have sent me notarized statements saying he got gangrene because the hospital staff didn't keep his wounds clean. They thought he was going to die. The government had already bought a casket."

Mickler and I. D. are not looking to stick the government for a big settlement. He just wants a pension so that he does not have to worry about how he will eat in the years ahead. And a wheelchair that is not falling to pieces.

I hope that a government which has spent $260 billion on foreigners can find a few bucks a month for I. D. Cosson whose dreams and plans and future soaked into the dirt with his own blood that August evening as he lay clutching a fence post.

mild reprimands. McRae cites several cases to document his charge that recruits are getting unfair treatment. He notes, for example, that one recruit received a prejudicial "general discharge" for "homosexual tendencies." Yet a company commander "who homosexually molested two recruits, was granted an honorable discharge for "unsuitability."

In another example, McRae reports that 16 recruits signed a petition last January against their master-at-arms. The superior officer who was supposed to investigate the complaint didn't bother. Instead, he accused the petitioners of being "mutineers," ordered them to stand at attention in the sun and threatened them with a dishonorable discharge unless they recanted.

Subsequently, Navy investigators discovered that the master-at-arms and his assistants, indeed, had "threatened, kicked and assaulted recruits."

Footnote: Downey has forwarded a copy of McRae's report to Navy Secretary Graham Clayton and has demanded full answers.

SENATE REPORT CARDS: Freshmen senators just like school children get report cards. These cards don't contain passing or failing grades. But the Senate quietly keeps track of the first-term senators who play an active role in making laws.

By this standard, the current crop of 18 freshmen senators isn't impressive. Only four of them managed to get any legislation through the Senate this year. They are Sens. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., H. John Heinz III, R-Pa., Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, and S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif.

DeConcini is the only freshman senator who maneuvered more than one legislative proposal through the Senate. He got four bills passed.

NUCLEAR PROTEST: Energy Czar James Schlesinger is under fire for stacking the Department of Energy with proponents of nuclear power. Experts on other forms of energy, such as solar power, are being ignored.

This has upset the Senate Energy Committee. At least five of its members led by Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., and Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, have put their protest in writing.

In a private letter to Schlesinger aide Dale Myers, the senators complained: "The disproportionate amount of talent and money that we have devoted to nuclear technologies makes it tempting to allow the bureaucracy and the giant corporations to dictate energy policy."

Their nuclear inclinations, suggested the senators, is clear. The five senators strongly suggested, therefore, that Schlesinger place the responsibility for all the "alternative" energy sources under one bureau. This will make it easier for the Senate and the public to keep an inquisitive eye on it.

INSIDE REPORT:

General's letter cites turbulence in the Pentagon

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Symptomatic of turbulence within the nation's senior officer corps, the chief of air defense has been relieved of his command for "medical" reasons after writing his superior a stinging private letter charging that a proposed reorganization undercuts U.S. security and sounds the wrong signal to the world.

Gen. Daniel (Chappie) James Jr., commander of the U.S.-Canadian North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) and the U.S. Aerospace Defense Command (ADCOM), suffered a heart attack in September (medically described as a "cardiac incident"). He was expected to stay in command until retiring six months from now. But that was before his Oct. 20 letter to Gen. David Jones, Air Force chief of staff. Both Jones and James deny to us that the letter was connected with James' relief from command, but scarcely any Air Force officer believes that.

James, 57, the first black ever to achieve four-star rank, is noted for moderation and discretion. Hence, the language in his protest to Jones is exceptional. Opposing a Jones-backed reorganization which eliminates ADCOM to save costs, James called the proposal "inaccurate," "superficial," and "biased" and declared a "perceived deemphasis in U.S. air defense priority could signal the wrong intention to both our enemies and our allies."

Typifying discontent among the uniformed military, James' complaint transcends petty bureaucratic grievance and goes to central issues of national survival: withdrawing troops from Korea; junking the 6-1 bomber; proposing concessions in strategic arms and European force negotiations. These have generated a barely suppressed anxiety at the Pentagon.

The Air Force study heightens this anxiety by proposing that ADCOM be eliminated — its interceptor functions going to the Tactical Air Command (TAC), its space surveillance functions assumed by the Strategic Air Command (SAC). To Air Force officers, this climaxes years of downgrading air defense, making the U.S. vulnerable to air attack.

That this proposal could doom the 30-year U.S.-Canadian partnership in NORAD was disclosed in an Oct. 14 "eyes-only" memorandum sent to Ottawa by Canadian Maj. Gen. K. C. Lett, NORAD's director of operations. Contending the Air Force study breaks the U.S.-Canadian agreement, Lett said: "It is underhanded, devious, full of half truths."

On Oct. 18, the Air Force sent a confidential memo to Defense Secretary Harold Brown summarizing the study. Arguing against a separate Air Defense Command, the summary contends ADCOM could be eliminated "without disturbing...our international agreements with the Canadians regarding NORAD." That raised some Air Force eyebrows, considering Gen. Lett's attitude.

About that time, Gen. James, convalescing at home in Colorado Springs, Colo., dictated an eight-page letter to Chief of Staff Jones. It was then expected James would reassume his command around Dec. 3. So, according to fellow officers, James knew he was making a bet-your-job gamble in writing Jones.

"I have strong objections to the approach, logic, appropriateness, rationale, adequacy and accuracy of the study," James began. He complained the study was written on high with immoderate reaching his command, adding: "The misinformation is undermining the Air Force."

Then James got to the substance. Contending the reorganization would provide only "minimal savings," he said: "If national security is a valid priority, a strong air defense organization is required." He called perceived deemphasis in air defense "untimely," coinciding with the cancelled B-1 and the coming Soviet Backfire bomber.

Warning the plan would help Canadians who want to withdraw from NORAD anyway, James declared: "I am convinced that the Canadians will not tolerate any significant dependence on SAC for attack warning (a conviction confirmed by Lett's memo)."

James does not weasel: "The study itself is seriously inaccurate. It is a superficial and biased collection of perceptions about the most serious operational role assigned to United States forces — are we or are we not under attack? There is no room for misinterpretation, confusion or mistake."

Shortly thereafter, James was reassigned to Washington. Jones told us the change had "nothing to do with" James' letter. James used nearly identical language over the telephone from Colorado: "It has absolutely nothing to do with it. I am going out because of health."

But Chappie James is no shouter and never intended his letter to see the light of day. Besides, fellow officers say he does not want to agitate black airmen. However, for the officer corps, his departure discloses what happens to a senior officer who protests, even privately, that cost savings undermine security.

Mark Russell says

The President sent the stock market soaring by the mere statement that he liked Arthur Burns. It's too late now, but maybe the statement should have been written into the Presidential oath.

If one kind word about Arthur Burns can have such stupendous results, think what would happen if saying nice things about him became a national pastime.

Perhaps President Carter should begin each day by going on television and saying, "Good Morning, America. This is your President saying Arthur Burns is a nice man."

A national ad campaign could be set up with the theme: "Have you hugged Arthur Burns today?"

A pop culture with Burns as its hero could make Wall Street jump for joy. Families would flock to Washington and kids would plead, "Daddy, can we go to the Federal Reserve?"

Farmers 'take it in the neck,' receive few benefits, Tower says

WINNSBORO, Texas (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., charged Friday that Texas farmers will not benefit from increases next year in food prices.

In a speech before a town hall meeting here, Tower, said the Department of Agriculture is projecting a 6 per cent increase in food prices. But added, "once again, it appears that the producers of food in Texas and elsewhere are going to take it in the neck."

He said the increases will be due to higher wages, packaging, transportation and import costs.

"In other words," he stated, "inflation is affecting everything except what the farmer gets for his products, but he must still pay higher prices for everything he uses."

Texas farmers are organizing a two-day rally in Irving Dec. 1-2 to protest low prices for their products and to publicize their planned Dec. 14 nationwide farmers strike.

"I have consistently said that increased labor costs, particularly when unrelated to increased productivity, are a leading cause of inflation," Tower said. "Now, over and above what big labor is able to gain in wage boosts, the Congress has added to the fires of inflation by passing a minimum wage bill that will ultimately call for an hourly rate of $3.35. The only thing this will do is force the farmer to pay higher labor costs."

He claimed the Carter Administration has not helped the farmers.

"It is no wonder that our farmers are uneasy and afraid about the future when there appears to be no way they can pass on the added costs of production," Tower said. "In Texas alone, we have lost 3,000 farmers over the past 24 months. We must find solutions to preserve this nation's most basic industry."

Leaders of the planned strike said here this week farmers will not plant next year's crops and will stop buying farm equipment unless the government takes measures to secure fair prices to farmers for their products, especially wheat and corn.

'Free market' prices sought, farmer says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Colorado leader of the effort to organize a nationwide farm strike said Friday the movement is aimed at getting higher prices through the free market, not more federal subsidies.

Derral Schroeder, a grain and livestock farmer from Campo, Colo., said that by mid-December, he and other farmers will quit selling commodities and will subsist on bare essentials until they get fairer prices.

"We own these products, we finance them, we grow them on our own land but we don't have the right to price them," Schroeder said in a telephone interview from Springfield, Colo., the national strike headquarters of a new organization called American Agriculture.

Meanwhile, angry farmers paraded tractors escorted by crop dusting airplanes Friday in Plains, Ga., President Carter's hometown, as momentum built for the strike set for Dec. 14.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said earlier this week he supports the strike by farmers but added he believes it will fail as he questioned about Bergland's views, Schroeder replied: "I don't think he's been out to talk to many farmers."

What farmers want instead of government price supports, Schroeder said, is free market prices for wheat and other commodities at levels that represent 100 percent of parity.

One hundred percent parity theoretically gives farmers the same purchasing power their forebears had in the early 20th century when farm costs and prices were considered in step.

The price farmers got for wheat last month was $2.26 a bushel, 45 percent of the full parity indicator of $5.02 a bushel.

"We don't feel that the government should guarantee us anything," Schroeder said of price support legislation, the most recent of which was an $11 billion bill enacted by Congress and signed by Carter.

"This is the one thing that we want to get back to all people, we're not asking for a guarantee," he said.

Schroeder also said farmers should handle grain exports to the Soviet Union and other countries instead of standing by while a few big grain companies make secret deals.

"Why should they sell our grain? They don't own it, we own it," he said.

Schroeder said there are several ways to improve the plight of the American farmer. He called for legislation to establish a farmer-elected board at the Agriculture Department with authority to oversee collective bargaining by farmers on commodity prices paid by those who buy grain and other products.

"The way we see it now is that the president appoints a secretary of agriculture, and we don't think we're being represented," he said.

After three successive huge harvests, U.S. grain surpluses have developed, forcing farmers' prices to tumble sharply. The lower prices have bitten deeply into farm income, while costs of production have continued to increase.

Water law change asked

ABILENE — Revisions of the 1902 Reclamation Act affecting some El Paso County landowners using irrigation water from Elephant Butte Reservoir in New Mexico has been called for in a resolution by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The act limits to 160 acres water rights allowable to one individual coming from the federal reservoir. The limitation had not been enforced for many years and of the 69,000 acres under irrigation in far West Texas a approximately 10,000 acres would be in units exceeding the minimum.

William C. "Bill" Donnell, chairman of the WTCC Agriculture and Ranching Committee, said that, "a recent decision by the Interior Department to enforce the letter of the Act would place an unwarranted hardship on those landowners whose irrigated acreage exceed the 160-acre minimum. Donnell went on to say that under today's farming practices and modern day economic realities, 160 acres was not a sufficient amount of land for an economically sound operation."

The WTCC has not found any evidence to indicate that unfair advantage is being taken by any of the West Texas landowners even though some do exceed the limit. Assistance from two Texas senators, the 12 West Texas congressmen, Secretary of the Interior Andrus and President Carter has been requested in the matter.

wages and "elimination of some of the vital gains won in the 1974 contract."

Miller already has announced that in the event of a strike, medical and death benefits would be cut off and pension benefits reduced for the miners and their dependents. Normally, these benefits continue during a strike, but the employer-financed trust funds that pay for them have few cash reserves.

Break in negotiations 'assures' UMW strike

Since most utilities and other major coal users have stockpiled large amounts of coal in anticipation of a walkout, a UMW strike is not expected to have any serious national economic impact for at least four months.

Although the union's contract covering 130,000 members doesn't expire until 12:01 a.m. Dec. 6, both sides agreed that it would take about 10 days for miners to ratify a new contract.

Miller earlier had raised the possibility of seeking a contract extension if there was "sufficient progress" toward a settlement, but that now appears out of the question with the talks broken off and no meetings scheduled.

Union and company negotiators returned from a Thanksgiving Day recess with an agreement to meet through the weekend, but Friday's session ended abruptly after only two hours. Miller said as he arrived for the session that he wouldn't continue negotiations unless the industry began to "bargain realistically."

Bitter internal strife and wildcat strikes over the past three years have weakened the once powerful union to the point where its members now account for only 50 percent of U.S. coal production, down from about 70 percent in 1974.

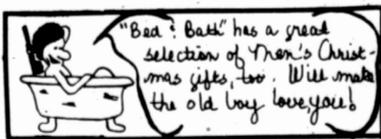

Among the most difficult contract issues is the union's demand for a "limited" right to strike over local issues by majority vote at each mine. The BCOA, contending this would legitimize wildcat strikes that have curtailed production in the Appalachian region, has rejected the demand totally. The industry insists instead on guarantees of "stability" in production through a system of pay incentives and penalties.

Restoration of health benefits, cut July 1, and guaranteed levels of payment for the future is another key union demand. Miller said the industry has proposed a reduced medical program through company insurance plans, a no-strike clause with penalties that would reduce miners'

Betty Talmadge has advice for all wives

By JURATE KAZICKAS

WASHINGTON (AP) — At age 24, Betty Talmadge was the youngest first lady Georgia ever had. As a senator's wife, she managed her own million-dollar business.

Now, as the former wife of Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., she's trying to be "one small voice for those of us who are left like dangling participles, trying to decide what to do with the rest of our life."

Mrs. Talmadge, 54, won't talk about her divorce. There are still legal problems about the property settlement and she says it's better not to discuss any of it.

Back on Dec. 29, she learned from a television news show that her husband had filed for divorce earlier in the day. His action came a week after their 35th anniversary.

Two days later, she told reporters she was shocked and surprised at what her husband had done. "I just don't know what I'll do," she said.

Now, she says: "I guess I'm still upset. But you know, I've learned a lot."

The divorce, granted last month, made her realize, she says, that she was not alone, that millions of women face the question of what to do with their lives when a marriage ends.

"Sure, there's a sense of failure," she says. "There's hurt and humiliation. But I'm walking on. I'm just doing the best I can. I'm looking out for myself, because ... I really have no choice."

The divorce is still very much on her mind. The last chapter of a cookbook she recently wrote exhorts women to prepare for the day they might be left alone.

"Find something to do with your time," she advises. "Get active in something and then become the best there is. Whether it's sewing or baking bread or being a lawyer, become an expert. Don't wait until all the children are grown and gone before finding something rewarding to do with your life."

Or go back to school. "It gives you a lift — a new vitality and insight to be with young people again," she says.

She knows she was more fortunate than most women facing the end of a marriage.

She started a lucrative business curing and selling hams in the early 1950s, when Talmadge was the governor of Georgia. By the time she sold it in 1969 it had annual sales of $3.5 million.

She's still in the meat business with Betty Talmadge and Associates and has just launched her book, "How to Cook a Pig and Other Back-to-the-Farm Recipes." First lady Rosalynn Carter wrote the foreword.

"I don't know how I would have survived ... without my business and the book," Mrs. Talmadge said in an interview.

And she said she could not have made it without the psychiatrist she's been going to on and off for 13 years.

"He taught me to believe in myself. You can live without a lot of things but you can't make it through life without self-respect."

Mead summarizes marital success

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Anthropologist Margaret Mead summed it up this way: "Throughout history, females have picked providers for mates. Males pick anything."

"I had three very successful marriages," she added. "Good work came of each of them and I am on good terms with all three husbands to this day."

The good work was book writing.

Miss Mead and her former husbands, all anthropologists, collaborated on most of her writing projects.

Miss Mead, curator emerita of ethnology at the American Museum of Natural History in New York, was in St. Louis to receive an award from the Religious Education Association.

The subject of her lecture Monday was "The Roots of Marital Disillusionment: the Changing Sex Roles."

"Nobody knows how to be married anymore," she said. "We have this antiquated notion of what marriage was. It used to be when we said, 'Til death do us part,' death parted us pretty soon. That's why marriages used to last forever. Everybody was dead."

Necessity, political realities changing Carter's tax policies

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe the income tax system isn't such a disgrace after all.

The crowds used to cheer when Jimmy Carter vowed a complete overhaul of the tax code. "It is a disgrace to the human race," he'd say, and they would cheer some more.

AP Analysis

But attacking the tax laws and rewriting them are vastly different undertakings.

"All my life I have heard promises about tax reform, but it never quite happens," Carter said in accepting the Democratic presidential nomination. "with your help we are finally going to make it happen. And you can depend on it."

But not now and not soon. The prospect now is that Carter will recommend that Congress enact tax reductions in the $15 billion to $20 billion dollar range in 1978, but that he won't propose any major overhaul until later.

His package apparently will include some minor changes the administration can call a first installment on the promised reform effort.

When he was campaigning, Carter said it would take him at least a year in office to put together a detailed, comprehensive tax reform plan. He said he won't go to try to do it one piece at a time because that way, interest groups could concentrate their forces to block action on their favorite tax preferences.

Through most of the campaign season he avoided specifics, saying only that he wanted to overhaul, simplify and reform the whole 40,000-page tax code, and would do it in such a way as to decrease taxes on the average man.

Setting his administration's agenda, Carter had said that he would come up with tax recommendations early this fall. The draftsmen have been at work for months. Their proposals are expected to be ready for Carter sometime next week, and for Congress after it reconvenes in mid-January.

As the timetable slipped, the proposals have become less ambitious, and Secretary of the Treasury W. Michael Blumenthal now says the legislation sent to the election-year Congress will be relatively simple.

Campaigning, Carter was firm and specific on one feature of his tax plan: he always said he would seek to end the tax preference for capital gains. He said all income should be treated alike, so that profits on the sale of stock, real estate or other assets would be taxed at the same rate as other income.

All indications are that the president will not be recommending that change, at least not now.

Under present law, there's a tax break for gains on the sale of assets held for at least nine months. The period increases to 12 months effective Jan. 1. Fifty per cent of such capital gains are exempt from income taxes.

Or the taxpayer can elect to pay a lower-than-ordinary rate on the full capital gain, an alternative which is to the advantage of some people in high tax brackets.

"I intend to take on myself, as a president's responsibility, at one time, a complete and comprehensive tax reform effort," Carter said in a campaign interview. "... I would move to treat all income the same and remove the sharp distinction now drawn depending on where the income is derived."

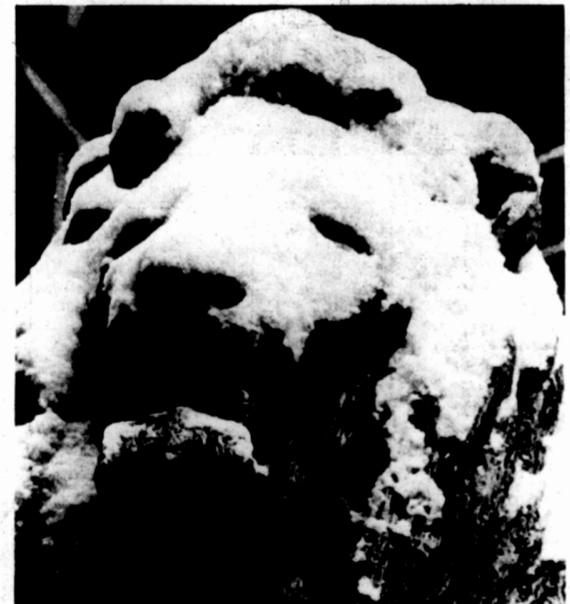

But Blumenthal, in a Wall Street speech on Monday, virtually ruled out a proposal to eliminate the capital gains tax break. "We fully understand the important role that preferential tax rates for capital gains have played in encouraging capital formation — especially for venture capital and new businesses," he said. "We will, of course, take this into account in designing reforms to reduce or eliminate unjustified tax preferences."

The changing outlook on Carter tax proposals stems from competing priorities — and political realities. Congress is likely to do a lot more tax cutting than reforming in the 1978 election year, no matter what the White House recommends.

At 7 percent, unemployment is still a major problem for the administration, particularly as it enters a congressional campaign year. So, as he was a year ago in planning for a new administration, Carter is looking at measures to stimulate the economy, including a tax cut to put more money into the hands of business and consumers. The problem is compounded this time by the fact that Social Security and energy tax increases will work in the opposite direction.

So that campaign promise to overhaul the whole tax code will have to wait, probably until 1979.

Filipinos doomed to die

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — A military court today sentenced Senator Benigno S. Aquino Jr. to death for subversion, murder and illegal possession of arms. Two Filipinos tried with him were also condemned to death.

They were Bernabe Buscayno, alias Commander Dante, head of the New People's Army, the military arm of the Communist Party of the Philippines, and Philippine constabulary

Lieut. Victor Corpus. Buscayno was Aquino's codefendant on charges of subversion and murder, while Corpus was a codefendant on the subversion charge.

The seven-man military commission reached its verdict after deliberation for 6½ hours.

After hearing the decision, Aquino declared: "If Marcos believes I'm guilty, I want to be shot tomorrow."

Bus talks resuming

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Negotiations between the Amalgamated Transit Union and strike-threatened Greyhound Lines are resuming after a Thanksgiving recess.

Union officials had said they planned to use the one-day break to refine their contract demands for the resumption of talks today.

"We're working on language drafts — trying to iron out drafts in language we can understand," said Don Rhodes, vice president of the AFL-CIO union's Greyhound bargaining unit. He and council president Owen Jones spent the holiday working on the contract demands.

The current contract expired Oct. 31, and union leaders have been given authorization to call a strike, but Jones has said the contract will remain in force day to day as long as negotiations continue.

Drivers and terminal workers make an average $6.21 an hour or 25 cents a mile.

Gardens Assembly of God Church to dedicate, consecrate building

Gardens Assembly of God, 2901 W. Kansas Ave., will hold a special Celebration of Praise Sunday to dedicate and consecrate a newly-completed addition to the church plant.

Participating in the special services planned during the day will be a number of district officials of the Assemblies of God denomination, along with world famous author and evangelist Dave Wilkerson.

The events will be open to the public, said the Rev. Paul Cox, host pastor.

The Gardens Assembly of God congregation launched a major expansion and remodeling program a number of months ago which has resulted in additional office and classroom space, as well as an enlarged sanctuary for worship. The project has been brought to final completion within recent weeks.

According to Pastor Cox, a service at 10:50 a.m. Sunday will be a "Celebration of Worship." Speaking at the gathering will be the Rev. Haskell Rogers, West Texas District Superintendent of the Assemblies of God.

A 2:30 p.m. "Celebration of Dedication" will have the Rev. Bob Goodwin, secretary-treasurer of the West Texas District, as the speaker. Leading the ceremony of dedication will be District Superintendent Rogers, assisted by the Rev. J. W. Farmer, pastor of Midland's First Assembly of God and Sectional Presbyter for this area.

The third and final service at 7 p.m. Sunday will feature a message by Dave Wilkerson, widely-known author of "The Cross and the Switchblade," who last spoke in Midland in 1972 at a rally in Midland High auditorium, attended by an overflow crowd.

Wilkerson, known around the world as the "Gang Preacher" as a result of his work with street gangs in the big city ghettos, is founder of Teen Challenge, one of the most successful rehabilitation programs in the nation for drug-addicted youth.

In addition to the major speakers, others participating in the Sunday services will include the Rev. Harvey Wampler, district president of Christ's Ambassadors, the Assemblies of God youth program; Chuck Redger, director of West Texas Teen Challenge of Midland, and Larry Cox, youth director for Gardens Assembly of God.

Special music in the services will be provided by the Gardens TV Choir, under direction of Mrs. Paul Cox. Kathy Giebel, a student at Oral Roberts University and a member of the Gardens congregation, will be featured vocalist in the evening "Celebration of Consecration."

Members of the Gardens Assembly governing board are Dick Bledsoe, James Caton, Larry Cox, Osler Hutson, Quanah Jobe, Raymond Messimer, Eric Schneider, Dan Sissom and Bob Williams. Members of the building committee overseeing the recent renovation and expansion project were Aaron Giebel, chairman, and Clyde Brown, Harold Gregory and Osler Hutson.

Two-day consultation on relations set by Jewish, Christian leaders

AUSTIN — A two-day consultation of key Christian and Jewish clergy, scholars and lay leaders from throughout Texas will be held Monday and Tuesday at a retreat center near Dallas.

Among persons attending the conference will be Dr. Garner L. Wilde of Midland.

Sponsored by the Texas Conference of Churches (TCC), the meeting is designed to "envision together the most desirable future state of Jewish-Christian relations," said the Rev. Harry E. Winter, O.M.I., acting executive director of the TCC.

With attendance by special invitation only, the consultation will attempt to deal openly and honestly with the theological, sociological and psychological issues of compatibility and division between Jewish, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant traditions.

Resource consultants will include a theologian-scholar from each of the three constituent groups and two communication consultants, who will facilitate the interaction process.

Theological consultants for the event will be Rabbi Samuel Karff of Houston's Congregation Beth Israel; the Rev. Michael B. McGarry, C.S.P., associate director of the Catholic Center at The University of Texas, Austin, and the Rev. Dr. James A. Wharton, pastor of Houston's Memorial Drive Presbyterian Church. Communications consultants will be Ruth Hunt of Richardson and the Rev. Alfred E. Parsons of Houston.

The workshop, to be held at the Bishop Mason Retreat and Conference Center at Flower Mound, near Dallas, is being presented under auspices of TCC's Commission for Jewish-Christian Relations. The commission's chairman is Rev. Msgr.

Robert C. Rehkemper, vicar general of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Dallas. The commission envisions the gathering as the first of several attempts to develop closer relationships within the Judeo-Christian tradition.

Interim pastor named by Midland congregation

Dr. John S. Rasco, Pastor of Odessa's First Baptist Church for more than 20 years prior to his recent retirement, will serve as interim pastor of Fannin Terrace Baptist Church of Midland.

Fannin Terrace's pastor, the Rev. Bill V. Cathey, resigned the post to accept a position with the Baptist General Convention of Texas. Dr. Rasco will serve the congregation until a new pastor is called.

Dr. Rasco, a native of Alabama, is a graduate of Howard College in Birmingham and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. He holds an honorary doctoral degree from Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene.

Prior to becoming pastor of the Odessa church in 1954, he served churches in Hodgenville, Ky., Jacksonville, Fla., and Texarkana. During the years, he has been active in denominational activities and has served on various Southern Baptist boards and agencies. Currently he is a member of the coordinating board of the Christian Education Commission of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. Dr. Rasco and wife Helen have a daughter and three grandsons.

Holy Trinity parish to host interim rector

The Rev. Hugh Crockett McKee, rector emeritus of St. Martin's Episcopal Church in Metairie, La., has arrived in Midland for a several weeks' stay as interim rector of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity.

The visitor will be conducting Holy Trinity parish's Advent and Christmastide services.

McKee, a native of Frankfort, Ky., was educated at the Louisville Institute of Technology, the University of Louisville and the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., where he was graduated from the School of Theology in 1948.

McKee, a former newspaperman, was a member of the editorial staff of the Louisville Times from 1932 to 1942 and served in the U. S. Army during World War II.

McKee currently serves as chairman of the division of parish schools in the Department of Academic Institutions of the Episcopal Diocese of Louisiana. He served 26 years as a founding trustee of St. Martin's Protestant Episcopal School and now serves on the school's board of visitors. In the past he has served as president of the Greater New Orleans Federation of Churches and has been chairman of the board of the Episcopal Children's Home.

McKee recently returned to the U. S. from a six weeks' visit to Scotland and Northern Ireland where he did research for an historical novel he plans to write.

The visitor will conduct his first services at Holy Trinity Church at 8, 9:15 and 11 a.m. Sunday.

Bible study for pastors scheduled

ABILENE — The 12th annual Bible study for pastors in the West Texas area will be held Thursday at Hardin-Simmons University here.

Topic for this year's study is to be the Book of Exodus.

Activities will begin at 10 a.m. with an address of welcome by H-SU president Dr. J. C. Fletcher, after which the Rev. Jack Weir, assistant professor of Bible at H-SU, will speak on "Exodus: Introduction and Exposition of Chapter 1."

Other leaders and their study topics will include Dr. George Knight, H-SU associate professor of Bible, "Exodus: From the Birth of Moses to Mount Sinai"; Dr. Clint Dunagan, associate professor of Bible and philosophy, "Exodus: The Events and Revelation at Mount Sinai," and Dr. Bill Austin, pastor of Abilene's University Baptist Church, "Exodus: A Theological and Homiletical Interpretation."

The Bible study will conclude by mid-afternoon. The day's events are open to pastors, laymen and staff members of churches throughout the region.

Mission opens Advent season

Asbury United Methodist Church, 106 W. Dakota Ave., will initiate the Advent season with a preaching mission Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The series of special services will be conducted under the leadership of the Rev. J. Lloyd Mayhew, minister of visitation for the St. Paul United Methodist Church of Abilene. The Advent services will begin at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday, and at 7:30 p.m. both Monday and Tuesday, said the Rev. Roy R. Havens, pastor of Asbury Church. The public is invited.

Mayhew has served as pastor of the First United Methodist churches of Lamesa, Levelland, Brownfield and Abilene. He has been minister of visitation at St. Paul Church of Abilene since 1975.

Israel, Arabs in family feud?

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Legend says they're ancestral cousins, those two edgy rivals who had been breathing fury and distrust at each other until they sat down at a table together, the Arab and the Jews.

They're both Semitic peoples and according to Scriptural accounts accepted by both Moslems and Jews, they're blood cousins. It might seem odd that they've been such bitter foes.

"But families are always having arguments," says Biblical historian Shaye Cohen of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. "Family arguments always are the most ferocious."

There were hints of that sort of thing, both the entrenched antagonism and also the latent, somewhat surprised consanguinity, when Egypt's President Anwar Sadat and Israel's Prime Minister Menahem Begin met together.

"We liked each other," Begin put it, incredulous but pleased. "May peace be with us all, God willing," said Sadat.

Both referred to their shared roots, Sadat to the Biblical patriarch Abraham, "forefather of Arabs and Jews," and Begin to the "racial kinship and ancient bonds" between Arab and Jewish people.

Their family ties go back to the sons of Abraham: Ishmael, born of Hagar, Egyptian maid of Abraham's wife Sarah, who had urged the affair so her aging husband could get a son, and Isaac, born later to the aging Sarah, amazed to laughter that she finally could bear a child herself.

Ishmael's offspring are considered the Arabs, as affirmed by the founder of Islam, Mohammed. Isaac bore the Jewish line. The fathers of the two lines were half-brothers, the uncles and the descendant cousins.

After Ishmael and Isaac became toddlers, Sarah on seeing them playing happily together, urged Abraham to throw out the servant woman and her son for he "shall not be heir with my son, Isaac."

This annoyed Abraham because Ishmael was a son, too; but with divine prompting Abraham did as Sarah wished, since Abraham's descendants would be named through Isaac, although Ishmael also would sire a nation.

A "great nation," says Genesis 21:18. The boy grew up in the wilderness, becoming an expert bowman. He took an Egyptian wife. His descendants would be so many "they cannot be numbered for multitude," was the Biblical promise of him in Genesis 16.

Isaac married Rebekah, the parents of the Jewish patriarch Jacob.

Movie slated

"Corrie: Behind the Scenes with 'The Hiding Place,'" a full-length color motion picture based on the experiences of Corrie ten Boom in the Netherlands during World War II, will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday in Dellwood Baptist Church, Midkiff and West Ohio streets.

The film has had showings in several Midland churches during the past year.

The latest screening will be open to the public at no charge, said Dr. Chapmond Davis, host pastor.

Curate resigns

The Rev. Duane C. Beauchamp, curate at St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church of Midland, has resigned the post effective Nov. 30.

He will become vicar of St. Luke's Church at Levelland.

Beauchamp came to St. Nicholas' parish two years ago as curate and deacon-in-training.

President Sadat, citing the ancestral ties between Jews, quoted from the Koran:

"We believe in God and what has been revealed to us and what was revealed to Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob and the 13

Jewish tribes. And in the books given to Moses and Jesus and the prophets from their Lord, who made no distinction between them."

"So we agree," Sadat said. "Shalom aleikum — peace be upon you."

Hanukkah (HAH-noo-kah) is a Jewish holiday. The Menorah is a candle holder. It holds eight candles.

It also holds an extra candle called a Shamash (SHA-mash). The Shamash is the candle used to light all the other candles. On the first night, one candle is lit. On the second, two candles are lit. This goes on for eight nights. The Jewish people exchange gifts during Hanukkah.

Switzer praises Sooner offense

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — University of Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer says his Big Eight champion football squad, a 38-7 victor over Nebraska on Friday, is the best offensive team he has ever coached.

"This year's offensive team is the best I've ever coached," Switzer said.

"Thomas Lott (the Oklahoma quarterback) makes it all go. He was the player of the game (for ABC television) but I gave the game ball to Elvis Peacock. I was so happy to see him have such a fine last game here."

Lott finished with 143 yards rushing on 22 attempts while Peacock had 123 on 20 carries.

The game, played before a sellout crowd and a nationwide TV audience, was for all the conference marbles. The win gave the league title to Oklahoma outright, along with a trip to the Orange Bowl where the Sooners will meet Arkansas.

Nebraska goes to the Liberty Bowl against North Carolina.

Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne agreed with Switzer's assessment.

"A few years back they might have had a few stronger defensive people up front but offensively they're playing as well as I've ever seen. We tried everything we had, but they just ran right at us. They didn't have to resort to any tricks."

Oklahoma fullback Kenny King said the Sooners' quickness was a major factor in the outcome.

"Their defense was strong, physical and quick — but we were quicker," King said. "They had to commit their defense one way or the other, and when they commit one way, we go the other."

On defense, the Sooners gave up 322 total yards but surrendered only seven points while recovering one fumble and intercepting three passes, two by Zac Henderson. Nebraska's vaunted I.M. Hipp, who was averaging 126 yards coming into Friday's game, was held to 33 yards on 15 carries.

"We knew to win against Oklahoma we would have to score three or four times, at least, and take advantage of their turnovers," Osborne said. "But they didn't have turnovers and we did."

"The first time we were stopped by a penalty; then we had an interception and then a fumble. When we got behind like that, it took us out of what we wanted to do pretty early."

Henderson said it was the most physical game the defense has played this year.

"I was scared the entire first part of the game," Henderson said. "It was about the end of the third quarter before I felt they couldn't come back."

Osborne said he noted one major change this year in the way Oklahoma played his Cornhuskers.

"OU played a lot of eight-man punts against us," Osborne said. "In other years, they played us primarily as a passing team. Today they played us as a running team."

I. M. Hipp, Nebraska running back, is stopped cold by Oklahoma defense on a third down play in the first quarter in a battle for the Big Eight championship. The Sooners held and went

By the end of the period, Lee was up 36-31.

The Rebels went into a stall with just seven minutes left in the game and still up by five. Inexperience was quite evident as they turned the ball over to the Sandies on a number of occasions, but the Panhandle team could not capitalize.

Lee's 5-11 guard Mike Richard put the game out of reach when he made a pair of free throws with 1:29 left in the contest to give his team an unreachable 42-35 lead.

for Austin with 16 points.

The game was tied at 51 all after regulation time, but Jefferson iced it in the overtime period as Rivera dropped in four of his team's six points.

Burges got a rather balanced scoring effort to work to perfection against Big Spring, as Manuel Vasquez (14), Raul Venegas (12) and Junior Turner (10) all hit in double figures. Chip Wright was high for the Steers with 16 points, while Mark Poss had 11.

Clemson burns Horned Frogs

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—The Clemson Tigers raced to a 58-28 halftime lead and never trailed in downs in the first round of the IPTAY Invitational basketball tournament Friday night, 125-62. Colan Abraham led the Clemson scoring with 21 points, while sophomore John Campbell added 17 and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Rhode Island met Ohio University in the nightcap of the fifth annual tournament, named for the Clemson booster club "I Pay Thirty a Year". Consolation and championship games will be Saturday.

Clemson Coach Bill Foster used all 14 players he had available in the season-opening game for the teams.

Steve Seales scored 20 points before fouling out to pace TCU.

Amarillo's 6-7 postman Victor Mitchell was the game's high scorer as he dropped in 14 points, while Goudeau was Lee's only double figure man with 10. Eight of Goudeau's points however, came in the third quarter when the Rebels turned the game around.

Jefferson got an 18-point scoring night from its big 6-7 postman Jim Ivy in the win over El Paso Austin. Gabe Rivera had 14 and Joe Mendez notched 11. Eddie Rojas was high man

Navy begins battle cry

By BARRY LORGE
The Washington Post

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — At the U.S. Naval Academy, this is the week of pep rallies, elaborate papier-mache sculptures, serenading the superintendent with fight songs, transporting seemingly immovable objects with the irresistible force of bare hands and the incessant expression of a simple message: "Go Navy, Beat Army."

That is the battle cry across the campus. As the members of the Brigade of Midshipmen approach a feast of turkey, they know Thanksgiving week is not complete until the Corps of Cadets, their Army counterparts at West Point, N.Y., are made to eat a banquet of crow.

"Go Navy, Beat Army." The phrase reverberates through dormitory corridors and dining halls, by loud word-of-mouth and placard. It is printed with shaving cream in letters eightfeet high across the windows of Michelson and Chauvenet Halls, the modernistic science and math classroom buildings that border

Tecumseh Court. It is on the lips of everyone from the superintendent to the lowliest plebe.

IN THE rotunda of Bancroft Hall, the massive residential and boarding center for the Academy's 4,300 Midshipmen (it has five miles of corridors), huge banners and ingenious projects produced by each of 38 150-person companies are on display.

All celebrate Navy's stubbornness on the playing field, as characterized by its goat mascot. The symbolic object of derision is Army's mule mascot, which all Navy men are convinced is really an ass.

Even though many Mids refer to their school with bemused affection as "the un-college," it remains one of the great bastions of "old college spirit" in its pristine form. As at West Point, this is the week when it is most in evidence here.

Some of the hoopla is sophomoric, but most is good, clean, often clever fun. It builds to a crescendo when the Brigade and the Corps march into Philadelphia's John F. Kennedy Stadium at 2 p.m. (EST) today for traditional ceremonies that help keep the Army-Navy football game one of the most stirring spectacles in collegiate sports. Kickoff is 4 p.m.

THE MOST outrageous pranks of yesteryear (Navy's planting of the Cadets' section of the stadium with aromatic Limburger cheese, for example, or Army's announcing its kidnapping of the goat with full-page ads in The Washington Post and New York Times exclaiming, "Hey Navy! Do you know where your 'kid' is today? The Corps does.") have for the most part lost favor.

By agreement of the leaders of the academies, attempts to kidnap each other's mascots during the week before the game was outlawed. However, a plot by midshipmen to capture the mule was foiled in mid-October.

For that raid, a group of Mids chartered a plane and flew to West Point, where they had quietly arranged with a farmer to rent a horse trailer. They got as far as the precious mule's barn, but they tripped an alarm and were apprehended as they sneaked past a pile of hay at their would-be victim's stall. Call the ill-fated caper "The Foddergate breakdown."

"I THINK there has been a conscious attempt by both schools to make the Army-Navy week festivities nondestructive." Midshipman Art Athens, Brigade Commander, said Monday as Mids lunched on chili dogs, perhaps intended to inspire a performance worthy of top-ranked Texas.

"You still get the painting of buildings, but people are smart enough to use water-soluble paint. We may send a plane over West Point dropping 'Beat Army' leaflets, and there will be sheet posters and pep rallies every night."

The information usually disseminated at "chow call" before nighttime formations — uniform, menu of the meal, names of officers on watch, and so forth, as well as what Mids call "The Days," the number of days left to the Army-Navy game — has been simplified this week.

"All the guys say are what the uniform is and 'Beat Army,'" reported Deputy Brigade Commander John Acin. "Nobody wants to know the rest of the stuff."

Everyone knew Monday was "Hat Day" when Mids were excused from wearing their regular caps and encouraged to substitute any headgear of their choosing. Even a Catholic chaplain, Cmdr. Charles Murray, traded his dress cap for a Tartan plain tam-o'-shanter complete with pom-pom.

THE VARIETY was astounding. There were more-or-less conventional hats, golf and ski caps, straw boaters, fedoras, 10-gallon steppers, Russian babushkas, bowlers, beanies, berets to hats, Sherlock Holmes-style fore-n-afts, cycling and baseball caps, Mickey Mouse ears, and at least one Indian headdress.

The hats of every trade imaginable were trotted out, from the white stovepipe of a French chef to firemen's helmets and construction workers' hard hats, all ornamented with store-bought buttons or hand-lettered slogans: "Go Navy, Beat Army."

Tuesday is "T-shirt day," when Mids will don "Beat Army" jerseys with a "Star Wars" theme depicting Luke Skywalker as a victorious Mid and Darth Vader, rendered as a vanquished Cadet. The design was the result of a contest among the Academy's companies, and 4,800 were sold in three days.

After the sixth game of the season, Waddy was one of the NFC's leading punt returners with 18 for 198 yards (an 87-yarder for a touchdown, which would have been the first since 1961 for the Rams, was called back). But lately, breaking the speed limit has caused Waddy problems: He sometimes floorboards it before he's caught the ball.

After losing a couple of fumbles and plenty of yardage (his stats have fallen to 26 returns for 186 yards), he was replaced as punt returner by Cullen Bryant Sunday. But the coaches say the rookie soon will get a second chance.

"When you have hands as good as Billy's," Taylor said, "sometimes you tend to take them for granted. But he'll get better. He just has to learn to stay under control. Remember, he hadn't played much receiver."

Indeed, at Colorado Waddy played tailback, slotback, split end, flanker and returned punts and kickoffs. But this jack of all trades never ad a chance to master one. "Just give me time," he said.

Family ran out of first names

By SKIP BAYLESS
The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — It's understandable why some of the Los Angeles Rams call Billy Waddy "Billy Quicker." When you grow up racing 10 older brothers and sisters for the bathroom and the mashed potatoes, you better be.

It's also obvious why the rookie receiver and punt returner wound up with such an unimaginative first name. After his parents had come up with Lorenzo, Rafael, and Ira J. (twins), Jessie Earl, Essie, Merline, Willie Jean, Roxie Lee, Bernice, Jerry and Robert, they clearly had run out of creative energy.

around him. Coupled with his speed is his willingness to block. Right now, his future is in his hands.

Or feet. In Sunday's 23-10 victory in San Francisco, Waddy caught his first touchdown pass as a pro, a 26-yarder which put the Rams ahead for good, 10-3. But it wasn't so much the catch but the run that raised eyebrows on both sidelines.

Waddy caught the ball at the 14 and wheeled to face cornerback Tony Leonard, Waddy's head and shoulders went left, his feet went right and Leonard, faked off balance, went down. Waddy darted down the right sidelines into the end zone, where he executed one of the leaping overhand spikes he and some of the other Ram receivers laughingly practice after practice.

"It's always in my mind: Go for the Big One," Waddy said, meaning touchdown catches or runs. "It can happen like that (he snapped his fingers). It's the greatest feeling in the world — there's no other way to define it. I dream about the Big One at night. Why, I even look out across the field right now visualizing myself breaking the Big One."

After the sixth game of the season, Waddy was one of the NFC's leading punt returners with 18 for 198 yards (an 87-yarder for a touchdown, which would have been the first since 1961 for the Rams, was called back). But lately, breaking the speed limit has caused Waddy problems: He sometimes floorboards it before he's caught the ball.

After losing a couple of fumbles and plenty of yardage (his stats have fallen to 26 returns for 186 yards), he was replaced as punt returner by Cullen Bryant Sunday. But the coaches say the rookie soon will get a second chance.

"When you have hands as good as Billy's," Taylor said, "sometimes you tend to take them for granted. But he'll get better. He just has to learn to stay under control. Remember, he hadn't played much receiver."

Indeed, at Colorado Waddy played tailback, slotback, split end, flanker and returned punts and kickoffs. But this jack of all trades never ad a chance to master one. "Just give me time," he said.

But Billy, the youngest of a laborer's clan, turned out to be the best athlete, a gifted composite of his siblings. At 6-0, 183 pounds, he has the reach and upper-body strength of Lorenzo (6-8), Alford's hands, Jerry's moves and two family traits, speed and confidence.

"Yeah, I broke the state 440 record in high school with a 46.5," Waddy says of his days in Wharton, Tex., about 45 miles south of Houston. "Now that's movin'." Uh-huh.

"So you must have been a terror in football?" he was asked as he stretched out in the practice field grass.

"Yep, kicked everybody's behind and won; the state championship," he told an interviewer with a deep chuckle. "I played quarterback. Mostly, we just rolled left or rolled right. I had so many yards they couldn't keep track." Chuckle.

And basketball? "Thirty points a game was nothing for me. Hey, I'm not bragging, I just did it." Chuckle, chuckle.

But don't think Billy Waddy is some hotdog full of hot air. He grew up in an area where athletic feats were viewed with as much reverence as a Billy Graham revival. If you could do it, you could talk about it.

Bearded Billy is a long-armed, long-legged young man with a weightlifter's chest, a mature-looking mug and a tongue-in-cheek sense of humor. Off the field, he moves along slowly, toes pointed out, as if his next step could be his last.

On the field, the second-round draft choice became the starter when Ron Jessie was lost for the year with a knee injury in the third game. He's caught 14 passes for 267 yards (19.1 per reception) and with rookie Wendell Tyler, provided the Rams with some big-play spark they haven't had.

"He's going to be a premier-type receiver," general manager Don Klosterman said. "He has the God-given ability and he has good people

Aggies hope for upset

PAUL DOMOVITCH

COLLEGE STATION — Granted, the Texas-Texas A&M series may well be one of the greatest rivalries in college football. And it no doubt deserves mention in the same breath with Ohio State-Michigan, USC-UCLA, Army-Navy, Harvard-Yale and Wisconsin-Iowa. It's an annual confrontation steep in tradition and guaranteed to be exciting regardless of the outcome.

But while the annual meeting between the Horns and Aggies may well be the most exciting and plentiful of them, the game itself has been a flat Frankly, Tom & Jerry cartoon. There have been more exciting than this game lately.

THE 1977 teams meet for the 84th time here today at Kyle Field, and a sellout crowd of 57,000 is expected, while 6,200 more will view the game on closed-circuit TV in the G. Rollie White Coliseum on the A&M campus.

Texas comes into the contest unbeaten in 10 starts, ranked first in the country and about a five-point favorite in the oddsmakers' minds. The Aggies are 2-2 and rated 12th.

A victory by the Longhorns would clinch the Southwest Conference title for them and give them the host spot in the Cotton Bowl opposite Notre Dame. But the Aggies, with a 5-1 conference record, could put themselves in the driver's seat with an upset win today. If they can get by Texas, they would need only a season-ending victory over Houston next week to earn the Cotton Bowl.

BUT BACK to this game's lack of excitement. With the possible exception of the 1975 game which the Aggies won 21-10, this battle has been dullsville for almost 10 years now. A&M romped to a 27-3 win a year ago in Austin in a game that was probably the best score for incomparability.

this past week has been fullback George Woodard's figure. The big guy's on a diet. The bruising 6-0 junior who is closing in on the A&M career rushing record, has weighed as much as 280 pounds this season, but he is determined to get down to 255 for Texas.

He's been on a diet that includes a milk shake of powdered protein mixed with skim milk and one meal a day consisting of lean meat, green beans, salad and sugar-free soda. The diet seems to be working. He went into the Arkansas game two weeks ago weighing a "slim" 265.

"I definitely felt the difference in my running," he admitted after he gained 116 yards against the Hogs in a 26-20 Aggie loss and another 163 in the route over TCU last week.

His coach Emory Ballard likes the lighter Woodard. "He's always amazed me how quick he could get to the line when he was heavier. But now that he's got his weight down, he appears just as quick and has more of a second burst after he hits the line. He still drags a few people with him but can also bounce off them a little better now."

BUT THE Longhorns have an adequate runner of their own. Perhaps you've heard of him. His name is Earl Campbell. Ballard has, and the Aggie mentor knows that he's going to have to try and stop the great one somehow. Or at least slow him down. Or something. Anything.

"No one is going to line up and say Campbell won't make some yards. . . that would be ridiculous," explained Ballard. "Earl Campbell is a great running back. He'll make yards, no question. Our goal is to try and keep him out of the end more and breaking big plays."

And if the Aggies can manage that, then maybe this game won't put that many people to sleep after all.

Defense takes backseat

By The Associated Press

Most football coaches will tell you that games are won on defense. So it's rather unusual that the four teams involved in Saturday's two really big games appear nine times in the national offense lists but only four times on defense.

The pair of battles matching member of The Associated Press Top Twenty have No. 1-ranked Texas at No. 12 Texas A&M and ninth-ranked Penn State at No. 10 Pitt.

TEXAS IS eighth nationally in total offense (429.9 yards a game), sixth in rushing (303.5) and third in scoring (37.4-point average) while the Texas Aggies are tops in rushing (322.0) and tied for 17th in scoring (29.7). Meanwhile, Penn State is sixth in total offense (435.0), 11th in passing (214.0) and 11th in scoring (33.0) while Pitt appears only among the scoring leaders. The Panthers are second in that department, averaging 38.1 points a game.

But defensively, Texas is third both in total defense (217.2) and against the rush (81.6) and fourth in scoring yield (8.6) while Pitt is 13th in points allowed at 11.6.

AT STAKE in the Texas-Texas

A&M game — maybe — is the Southwest Conference championship and trips to the Cotton Bowl. . . provided Texas wins. Should the Aggies triumph they must still beat Houston on Oct. 1 to make it to the Cotton Bowl. The Bluebonnet Bowl awaits the winner.

Penn State and Pitt already know where they'll be spending the post-season period. Penn State is going to the Fiesta Bowl and Pitt to the Gator Bowl. Both had hoped to sell the Orange Bowl on the winner of Saturday's clash for the mythical Eastern championship.

The Orange Bowl, however, opted for sixth-ranked Arkansas, which defeated Texas Tech 17-14 Thursday on its 50-yard field goal in the first half and Ron Calcagni's two touchdowns passes in the second half. Longhorns' G. Woodard scored on a 1-yard pair of 1-yard runs in the first half.

Members of The AP's Top Twenty have the entire Thanksgiving weekend off — fourth-ranked Michigan, No. 6 Notre Dame, No. 7 Kentucky, No. 8 Ohio State, No. 13 Clemson, No. 14 Washington, No. 15 North Carolina and No. 20 Florida State.

Meanwhile, second-ranked Alabama, bound for the Sugar Bowl, has its annual regular season wrap-up with a game in Birmingham Saturday when it visits San Diego State. San Jose State and No. 18 Brigham Young is at Texas-El Paso.

Friday's schedule had No. 11 Nebraska at No. 3 Oklahoma, No. 17 UCLA vs. Southern California and Arizona at No. 19 Arizona State.

Texas, which has gone through almost as many quarterbacks as victims — and the Longhorns are 10-0 — will go back to third-stringer Randy McEachern, who came off the bench against Oklahoma early in the season but sat out the Nov. 12 rout of Texas Christian with a sore knee.

A RECORD crowd of 57,000 is expected at Texas A&M's Kyle Field for what Texas Coach Fred Akers says is such a great rivalry that "they ought to triple the price of the tickets."

"They're a top football team and we're a top football team. It's a great rivalry and it should be a great game. The stakes are high and I would think both football teams will be at their best."

Penn State-Pitt also is a great rivalry which this year has been fueled by Pitt's feeling that Penn State Coach Joe Paterno cost the winner a shot at the Orange Bowl by refusing to make any kind of deal until it was too late.

THIS GAME originally was scheduled to be played last Saturday — bowl invitation day — but an ABC-TV request plus Pitt's refusal to move the contest from Pitt Stadium to nearby Three Rivers Stadium, which has lights, forced the switch to this week.

"Right now, the only thing I'm thinking about is Pitt," says Paterno. "All that bowl stuff is behind us."

Paterno also says (1) "We're in as good shape as we've been all year" and (2) "This could be the best team I've ever had." But he qualifies the latter statement by adding: "I've got to see them in a couple of tough games. I'm anxious to see how they perform Saturday before they're the best."

PITT'S JACKIE Sherrill says Paterno's assessment "may be very true. I don't think they've had a team in the last five years which was able to do everything, but now he's got the quarterback (Chuck Fusina) to tie things together."

For an impartial look at the two teams, tune in to Syracuse Coach Frank Maloney, who lost to each by seven points but had to come from behind against Penn State while blowing a 21-14 lead in the fourth period against Pitt.

"We were able to shut off Pitt's scoring game but they have the greatest skilled people I've ever seen," Maloney says. "Gordon Jones is the greatest pass-catcher in the country bar none. It will be Pitt's skill vs. Penn State's strength. Matt Cavanaugh (Pitt's quarterback) is a great competitor who will find 10 ways to beat you, but so is Fusina."

"They're more evenly matched than a year ago. Penn State is much stronger on defense and Pitt is not quite as good. On defense, I give Penn State a slight edge while Pitt has the edge with its big-play offense."

Tillage eyes Grambling

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ken Tillage tried to mail down a permanent head coaching job at Southern University today by doing the one thing that his predecessor couldn't do — beating Grambling.

Tillage became head football coach at Southern five weeks ago, while the team was still reeling over disciplinary action taken against one of its players. The team was 3-21 when Tillage took over. It now is 3-4-1.

MacAfee given Camp Award

NEW HAVEN (Conn. AP) — Tight end Ken MacAfee of Notre Dame was named Walter Camp Player-of-the-Year Friday.

The announcement of MacAfee's selection — the first time a lineman has been chosen for the trophy — was made by Louis Harwitz, president of the Walter Camp Football Foundation.

MacAfee, a 6-foot-4, 250-pounder, has led the Irish in receptions for the past three years. He is the son of Ken MacAfee Sr., a former standout at Alabama and later a player with the New York Giants.

In addition to being one of the nation's premier college football players, the Brockton, Mass., resident is an outstanding student, maintaining a B average in a pre-medical program at Notre Dame.

While looking forward to being one of the top picks in this year's pro football draft, MacAfee also plans to enter dental school at the University of Pennsylvania after graduation.

"We are extremely pleased that Ken MacAfee was chosen as the outstanding player of the year," Harwitz said. "He certainly is an ideal all-American individual," the foundation president said.

According to Tom Devine, coach at Notre Dame, MacAfee is a complete tight end — there are any number of tight ends who can catch the football — the country is flooded with them — but there aren't many that can block and catch the ball like Ken."

MacAfee will be honored with other members of the Walter Camp Foundation all-star team next Saturday in New Haven.

Past winners of the Walter Camp trophy were: O.J. Simpson, Steve Owens, Jim Plunkett, Pat Sullivan, Johnny Rodgers, John Cappelletti, Archie Griffin and Tony Dorsett.

He replaced Charlie Bates, who guided Southern to 8-3 records the past three years, but couldn't win the big game — the annual battle against Grambling. Tillage was promoted from the staff to interim coach.

"I'm not concerned about a contract. I'm concerned about beating Grambling," said Tillage, apparently not regarding the two ideas as being mutually inclusive.

"I'd like to win the game for the alumni, for the people who support us and for the kids. I'm much more concerned about the football players than I am about myself."

"I'll be concerned about a contract after the season."

"I don't want them to feel that they're playing to win me a job. I'm for them. The important thing is for them to play as well as we can."

It was expected to take that and more for Tillage to lead Southern to its first victory over Grambling since 1969.

Grambling is coached by Eddie Robinson, who has the second most victories of any coach currently in the game — 262. Bear Bryant of Alabama has 271 lifetime victories to rank first, and Woody Hayes of Ohio State is third with 238.

And Grambling, 8-1, is loaded. Quarterback Doug Williams has thrown 86 touchdown passes during his four-year career, more than any college passer in history. He is being highly touted as a Heisman Trophy candidate, and today's limited television exposure (in Louisiana and Arkansas) was the closest he had come to getting the limelight accorded stars at bigger schools.

Despite Grambling's offensive prowess and Southern's lack of ability to score, Robinson said he was worried.

"We don't even take the rest of the season into consideration when we play Southern," he said. "Last year's kisses don't count."

"Earlier this season, Southern was ranked very high in defense against the pass, and we live or die on the forward pass."

Vilas, Fillol take

Argentine net wins

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Guillermo Vilas of Argentina and Jaime Fillol of Chile each scored singles victories Friday to advance to Saturday's semifinals in the Argentine Open tennis championship.

Vilas beat Beloslav Prajoux of Chile 6-3, 6-2, and Fillol defeated his countryman Patricio Cornejo 6-1, 6-0. In Friday's other quarter-finals, Hans Gildemeister of Chile topped American Mike Fischback 6-2, 6-2 and Victor Pecci of Paraguay ousted American Gene Mayer 6-3, 6-7, 6-1.

In the semifinals, Vilas will face Fillol and Gildemeister meets Pecci.

Finley keeps talking

CHICAGO (AP) — no solid offer. We talked money. Yes, I'd say we're negotiating with Robert the Oakland A's, revealed Friday he has been in negotiations with a group interested in purchasing the team to move it to Denver.

Finley said he was leaving for Alabama too, where he has some business to take care of, but would be in touch with said "I have to sell the Patterson again next club because of health reasons, probably Monday."

"Red was here and spent a day with me," Finley said. "There was

"I'm also still negotiating with Robert Moody (of Galveston, Texas) who wants to buy the club and move it to New Orleans," Finley said. "I'll probably be talking to him next week."

Finley said the negotiations were held Wednesday with Red Patterson of the California Angels and "an individual who would be the primary owner of the team, whose name I am not at liberty to divulge."

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. Alabama's 4-1-1 SEC newspaper said this AP—"Anything can happen in seven weeks." "Obscure" is the consensus on Saturday's Southeastern Conference football clash between second-ranked Alabama and cross-state rival Auburn.

Conrad Dobler is red faced

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pugnacious St. Louis Cardinals guard Conrad Dobler says he's red-faced over a player melee which marred the closing seconds of Thursday's Cardinals game against the Miami Dolphins.

Specifically, says Dobler, he feels repentant over brush with one of the officials in charge of the National Football League game.

The 253-pound Dobler, the central figure in the brawl, said he was confronted by an official in the second altercation concluded and was shoved in the chest.

"He shoved me first, but I apologize," said Dobler, who was ejected from the game. "I intended to tell him an sorry of apology. I'm big enough to take an I'm sorry I lost my temper."

Dobler said his emotions boiled over as a scuffle with Dolphins linebacker Bob Matheson preceded the fighting. "He (Matheson) had spit at me earlier. He had slapped me three times," Dobler said. "So I shoved him 15 yards downfield, and he grabbed my face mask and pulled me down."

"The next thing I knew, there were four other guys on top of me."

Autry's Angels fall

By JIM MURRAY
The Los Angeles Times

After 30 years of getting the girl, killing off all the bad guys, and riding off into the sunset singing "That Silver-Haired Daddy of Mine," Gene Autry, in 1960, bought the then-Los Angeles Angels. And, right away, he knew what the rustlers felt like.

The Angels lost more often than the guys in the black hats. They were an Italian movie. Everyone got killed in the end.

GENE WAS shocked. Every place he looked there were Indians. Things like this never would have happened in the old days at Monogram and Republic. The wags got busy. Autry's horse in the old days was "Champion," they snickered. If he made a comeback, his horse would be named "Cellar."

The Angels needed a third act. Autry knew what was called for. You call in the cavalry. Only, in Autry's case, it was always Custer's.

There's sort of a sporting tradition in baseball that you build a championship from the ground up. It's kind of like giving the other guy the first draw.

It didn't work for Autry. He kept getting gunned down before he could get his 45 out of his holster. This was an adult Western, not a kiddie's matinee.

SO, GENE decided to do a little dry-gulching on his own. He began by hiring a manager. This is a dumb thing to do. Baseball is a general manager's medium.

Next, Gene tried players. Gene operated on the theory that what the Angels needed was one good player to put them over the hump. What the Angels needed were nine good players. At least.

In 1971, Gene thought he had finally found his John Wayne. Harry Dalton, an ex-sports-writer from Springfield, Mass., had just led the Baltimore Orioles to four pennants and two World Series in six years, largely because he had acquired a Hall of Fame pitcher (Frank Robinson) for a .500 pitcher (Milt Pappas).

Autry figured the fort was saved. They would cut the league off at the pass. The varmints would swing for their crimes.

BUT THE Angels continued to play it for comedy. Dalton brought in a pitcher who threw no-hitters on his good nights — and walked in the world on his bad.

"Phee-noms" with "can't miss" labels, not only missed, they took called third strikes. Outfielders threw to the wrong base on the infrequent occasions they got to the ball in time to throw anywhere. Jerry Lewis drooled at some of the routines the Angels' infield perfected.

So, Autry looked over at George Steinbrenner of the Yankees who was busy buying an annual pennant on his Diners Card, so to speak, and Gene thought "I can play that game."

FINANCIALLY, Gene could. The owner of hotels, radio stations, rodeos and a half-dozen music companies, Autry could have bought the entire American League on the annual proceeds from the royalties of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" alone.

So Gene bought the "on paper" championship of the world. Every available .300 hitter or 20-game pitcher got in to him for a bundle. But they kept getting hurt, or fooled — or benched. In other words, they turned into Angels. You had a picture of Autry running out on the field periodically yelling "Cut! Cut! Now, just a minute, everybody, this is a Take! Be serious! Somebody put a little makeup on Ryan there. Now, Nolan, we're way over budget. Get this one IN there!"

THE ANGELS ended up, as usual, surrounded — a remake of "Beau Geste" instead of "Big Sky." They had arrows sticking out of them all over. Autry began looking at Dalton the way he used to look at the sheriffs who weren't getting the job done. "Marshal, how come you haven't brought in that Billy the Kid yet? Why, women aren't safe in this town!"

The Old Cowboy finally brought in a new man to the territory — Buzze Bavasi, a man who had built the old Dodgers' dynasty — in other words a man who had cleaned up Dodge City. Tombstone now had two Wyatt Earps.

Dalton got the message and went clear to Milwaukee before he stopped. Buzze got the star on his chest. The territory was now his, lawlessness and all.

WILL THIS new lawman survive the shootout at O.K. Corral? Or will the Clantons win this one — again? Can the cavalry get there in time? Or will they arrive with back spasms, and hamstrings, and broken hands, and an inability to hit the curve as usual? Will Bavasi run the rustlers out? Will the Cowboy get one more happy ending before he goes to that Big-Bunkhouse-In-The-Sky?

Many years ago — 50, in fact — when he was a telegrapher for the railroad in Sapulpa, Okla., Gene Autry was playing his guitar one day when a stranger dropped off a train, patted him on the head, and said "Keep trying, son." That was Will Rogers and, but for that chance remark, Gene Autry might be now on a Santa Fe pension. But there was another piece of advice that Sitting Bull, the retired Indian chief, used to give everybody in the stagshow "Annie Get Your Gun." It was the old Indian maxim: "No put money in show business." Old Sitting Bull didn't know Autry. But he sure would have known the Angels.

NFL teams to face pressure

By The Associated Press

And now it is Atlanta's turn to play the toughest pressure game on the National Football League's weekly schedule. The Falcons travel to Tampa Bay Sunday to face the winless Buccaneers.

So what's so tough about playing a team that has lost 24 consecutive regular season games and, in fact, never won one? Well, it is the knowledge that sooner or later, the Bucs are going to stop losing and nobody wants to be the team on the other side of the field when that happens.

"They are the most feared team in the league," said New York Giants Coach John McVay. "Nobody wants to be the first team to lose to them."

McVay called the Giants' practices before their game with Tampa Bay "the worst week of pressure I've experienced in 25 years of coaching."

Now it is the Falcons' turn in the Tampa Bay pressure cooker.

The NFL's 11th weekend started on Thanksgiving Day with Miami routing St. Louis 55-14 on six touchdown passes by Bob Griese and Chicago whipping Detroit 31-14 as Walter Payton rushed for 137 yards.

In Sunday's other games, Baltimore plays at Denver, Kansas City is at Houston, Pittsburgh visits the New York Jets, San Diego goes to Seattle, Dallas visits Washington, Green Bay hosts Minnesota, New Orleans is in San Francisco, Los Angeles plays at Cleveland, the New York Giants visit Cincinnati and Philadelphia is in New England.

Oakland hosts Buffalo in the Monday night game.

The Tampa Bay losing streak is approaching the league record of 29 setbacks in a row set during World War II by the old Chicago Cardinals and a hybrid wartime team labeled the Card-Pitts. That streak started in October, 1942 when the club began a six-game losing streak and continued through two straight 0-10 seasons in 1943 and 1944 and an 0-3 start in 1945. It ended on October 14, 1945 when the club beat the Chicago Bears.

And by the way, did you notice who Tampa Bay plays next week? That's right, the Chicago Bears.

Dallas' White ignores trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don't try and tell Randy White that there is anything wrong with the Dallas Cowboys' Domsday II defense.

White, who played collegiately at nearby Maryland, thinks the Cowboys' defensive unit has been receiving a bad rap lately even though the quarterback sacks aren't coming as often as they did earlier in the season.

"There's nothing wrong — nothing at all," said defensive end White as he prepared for Sunday's crucial National Football League game against the Washington Redskins in RFK Stadium. "Everybody down here is worrying unnecessarily. We were just doing so well earlier in the season that people began expecting too much."

During the first eight games, when Dallas amassed an 8-0 record, the defense compiled 39 sacks. In the last two games — both losses — the defense had only one sack each game, with White getting the last in Pittsburgh, with help from Mike Hegman.

Over the first eight weeks, White and his cohorts played some of the NFL's best defense, allowing only 185 yards and 12 points per game. Then, suddenly, the St. Louis Cardinals and Steelers averaged 316 yards and 26 points.

"Okay, they broke a few big plays on us," White said. "Look, there's no way we would keep going the way we were for the whole season. But we've got a pretty good defense. I'm not at all worried."

The last time the teams met, Oct. 16, the Cowboys won 34-16 and Domsday II had eight sacks against Redskins quarterback Bill Kilmer and Joe Theismann. Kilmer started that game, but Theismann came in early in the second quarter. Theismann will start Sunday, with Kilmer waiting in the wings.

White is not terribly worried about Theismann's scrambling which helped the Redskins beat Green Bay 10-9 last Monday night.

"He gained good yardage against Green Bay," White admitted. "But I don't think he can hurt us running. And, anyway, I'd rather have quarterback sacks running than passing."

The Cowboys' star rookie running back, Tony Dorsett, suffered a bruised knee in practice Wednesday, but said he would play if the healing process continues as it has. The Redskins will start Eddie Brown at safety in place of Jake Scott, who suffered two broken ribs against Green Bay.

The Cowboys, 8-2, could just about clinch the National Football Conference East title with a victory over the Redskins, who, at 6-4, still remain in the race for a wild card playoff berth. A Redskins victory would put them in a tie with St. Louis, losers Thursday against Miami, and make their meeting in two weeks the game to decide the wild card slot.

Austin takes crown

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Fourteen-year-old Tracy Austin of Rolling Hills, Calif., the top seed, defeated Dawn Otto, West Sayville, N.Y., 6-2, 6-0 and Elsie Burgin, Baltimore, 6-3, 6-3 to lead the field into the semifinals of the National Girls 16-year Division Indoor Tennis Championships Friday.

Second-seeded Kelly Henry of Glendale, Calif., third-ranked Pam Shriver of Lutherville, Md., and fourth-rated Suzy Jaeger of Lincolnshire, Ill., also reached the round of four.

Coaster spills Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two National Football League teams headed on opposite directions on a roller coaster colided when the Miami Dolphins met the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday.

The Dolphins, their backs against the wall in the NFL playoff chase, exploded with a charge of emotion to their 55-14 triumph before a national television audience.

For the Cards, the pressure of three previous key games, two of them victories over the Minnesota Vikings and Dallas Cowboys, extracted the predictable toll.

"I think we were a little tired. It's tough to play three games in 11 days. We just didn't play a very good game," tackled St. Louis defensive lineman Mike Dawson.

Nat Moore, who snared three of six touchdown passes thrown by Miami quarterback Bob Griese, labeled the Dolphins' surge a carryover from last Sunday's 23-17 loss to the Cincinnati Bengals.

"We went away with bitter taste in our mouths," explained the 5-foot-9 flanker. "We've sort of had letdowns. We've lost two games in the final few minutes."

Miami, with Griese exploiting an injury-riddled Cards' secondary, grabbed a 14-0 lead in the opening five minutes and expanded its command to 28-7 by halftime.

Linebacker Bob Matheson intercepted a Jim Hart pass at the outset of the third quarter and the Dolphins increased their advantage to 48-7 before St. Louis was able to score again early in the final period.

"I didn't think it was going to be that easy," said Griese, whose touchdown aerials came within one of equaling the NFL's single-game record. "The line was blocking well, both for running and passing."

Contained throughout by a young Dolphins' defense, the frustrated Cards finally let their emotions spill over late in the fourth quarter during twoplayer brawls centering around their all-NFC guard Conrad Dobler.

"I certainly didn't like what I saw at the end," said Griese. "I know we're a team that doesn't get in fights and they do. I'm sure that a lot of St. Louis players weren't happy with what they saw."

"We completely dominated them," said rookie Bob Baumhower, Miami's 6-5 nose tackle. "I think he (Dobler) just does it because of his reputation."

By winning, the Dolphins boosted their record to 8-3 and kept alive their title hopes in the American Conference East behind the Baltimore Colts, 9-1, their next opponent in a game to be played Dec. 5 at Miami.

The Dolphins' schedule also includes a key contest Dec. 11 at New England and concludes the following week at home against the Buffalo Bills.

Women form tennis group

The newly-organized Midland Women's Tennis Association is holding its first tournament, a six-week league in which 52 players are participating.

The captains appointed were: Janice Craig, the Aces; Jane Goodell, Line Drivers; Margaret Amin, Poachers; Beverly Bullen, Lobbers. Substitute players are still needed for the group.

Women who sign up for membership now will be included in the yearbook and will be eligible to play in two tournaments planned for the spring.

For information, call Em Carnett, Parks & Recreation Dept., (683-4281, Ext. 280).

Hand holding motivates Bears

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Jack Pardee called his Chicago Bears' holding hands in the huddle "a gesture which brought them together. I don't know who started it but I'm all for it. I like the results."

The Bears started the maneuver when they were trailing Kansas City in the second half in a National Football League game in which they rallied for a 28-27 victory.

The Bears have since defeated the Minnesota Vikings 10-7 and Thursday knocked off the Detroit Lions 31-14 to boost their record to 6-5, one game behind the Vikings in the Central Division of the National Football Conference.

It marks the first time since 1968 the Bears have won three straight.

"I'm proud of what's happening," Pardee said Friday. "We were having our problems when we were 3-5. But I knew we'd come out of it. We didn't change our philosophy or our coaching tactics."

"Rather than fold, they got it together," said Pardee. "Three weeks ago what did this Bear team have but themselves? So they held hands and it brought them together."

Pardee credited the defense for much of the Bears' recent success especially against Detroit when the offense was unable to move the ball in the first half which found Detroit leading 7-0. "The defense was put to the test in the first half," said Pardee. "The players are playing better, especially Mike Hartenstein and Jim Osborne in the line. Ozzie knew when Wally Chambers went out for the season he'd have to go all the way so he made himself stronger working out and so did Hartenstein."

Pardee also singled out middle linebacker Tom Hicks, who replaced Don Eaves, and defensive backs Virgil Livers, Doug Plank and Gary Fencik for their fine play in recent weeks.

"The defense has given up only one touchdown in the last three games against opponents in our division—the Packers, the Vikings and the Lions," said Pardee. "We're not overpowering anyone but if everyone plays together, we'll have a chance."

The Bears are idle until Dec. 4 when they play at Tampa Bay. Then they come home for a game against Green Bay and finish the season against the New York Giants.

If the Bears win their three remaining games and the Vikings lose two of their last four, the Bears can claim their first division title.

Pardee shrugged off the various possibilities and said "Minnesota is no different than we are. If they don't play their best, they will lose. If they play their best, they'll win."

Shrine game called off

DETROIT (AP) — Sponsors of last year's North-South Shrine All-Star football game have decided not to stage the contest this year because of costs, but the organizers vow they will return in 1978.

"The cost factors, including insurance, are enormous," Fred Morrison Jr., managing director of the 1976 game, said Friday. "We want to solicit a TV package for next year and make sure that we do it right."

Morrison, who is illustrious potentate of the Shriners' Moslem Temple in Detroit, said date selection for 1978 would hinge on National Football League scheduling of Detroit Lions' home games at the Pontiac Silverdome.

He said there would have been difficulties in securing a Silverdome date this year because most of the dates that were available conflicted with other events scheduled by individual Shrine groups around the state.

He said the Shriners want a date next year similar to the 1976 contest, a Saturday in December.

Morrison said last year's game, the first, drew a paid attendance of 41,625 at the Silverdome and netted $20,000 to benefit the Shriners' hospitals for crippled children and burn centers.

Morrison said 60 of the nation's top college seniors were selected for the 1976 game, 34 of whom were drafted by teams in the NFL. It was the first all-star game played indoors and the first Shrine contest in the north.

Rossman, Lopez cancel fight

NEW YORK (AP) — A scheduled 10-round fight between light heavyweight contenders Mike Rossman of Turnersville, N.J. and Alvaro Lopez of Stockton, Calif. has been canceled because of an injury to Rossman, it was announced Friday.

The bout, between Rossman, ranked sixth in the 175-pound division by the World Boxing Association, and the eighth-ranked Lopez, was scheduled Dec. 19 at Madison Square Garden.

Spain's Ballesteros captures golf lead

TOKYO (AP) — Spain's Severiano Ballesteros shot a 2-under-par 70 Friday and grabbed a 1-stroke lead in the second round of a $200,000 golf tournament.

The 20-year-old Ballesteros had 4 birdies and 2 bogeys on the 6,986-yard, par 72 Phoenix Country Club course and brought a 36-hole total to 138, 6-under-par.

Winner of the Japan Open last week, Ballesteros was 1 stroke behind the leader going into the second 18-hole play with Miller Barber of the United States.

Barber, 1977 Professional Golfers' Association champion, had a 71 Friday to fall into a second-place tie with Japan's Shinsaku Maeda with a 139 total. Maeda registered a 67, the best score of the day.

David Graham of Australia moved into fourth place with a 68-140, Americans Andy Bean and Jerry McGee were tied for fifth place at 141 with Japan's Toru Nakamura. All three players 70s Friday.

Hubert Green of the United States, 1977 U.S. Open champion; Hsieh Yung-yo of Taiwan and Takashi Murakami of Japan were tied for eighth place with 142s.

Defending champion Graham Marsh of Australia jumped to a 11th place tie with Rik Massengale of the United States and Fujio Kobayashi of Japan with 143 totals. Graham, who was in 27th place after the first round Thursday, shot a 70.

Sixty players of the 90 made the cut at 150, six over par, for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. ninety pros teed off Friday under clear skies.

Johnny Miller, 1976 British Open champion, and Jerry Pate, this year's Phoenix Open winner, were out of contention for the $50,000 dollar first prize.

Goolagong downs Fromholtz

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Australian tennis star Evonne Goolagong overcame fellow countrywoman Dianne Fromholtz 3-6, 6-1, 6-3 in the quarter-finals of a $75,000 women's tennis tournament Friday.

It was the first time the Australian star has been seriously tested since her return to international competition after the birth of her daughter.

Goolagong clawed her way back into the match in the 100-degree temperature at center court while dozens of fans collapsed from the heat.

"That was certainly my toughest match to date and I'm quite pleased with the way my comeback is going," Goolagong said later.

"I was so tentative early and it was a matter of me pushing myself. I was particularly pleased with the way I was able to do that and keep going despite the heat."

"I started hitting out a bit in the second set and attacking the net." Goolagong will meet Betty Stove of The Netherlands in a semifinal match Saturday.

Stove had to struggle to shake off Australian Helen Cawley 6-4, 6-3.

Trish Bostrom of Seattle and young Australian Kym Ruddell scored an upset in doubles competition when they ousted Betsy Nagelsen of the United States and Renate Tomanogova of Czechoslovakia 2-6, 7-5, 6-3 in a quarter-final match.

Remember Ky of South Vietnam? He's hitting it off in California

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

NORWALK, Calif. (AP) — The mostly Mexican patrons of Ski's Liquor Store, just off the Santa Ana Freeway, call the dapper mustachioed man behind the cash register "El Presidente."

Tourists from all over, some of them Vietnam veterans with their families, stop off on the way to Disneyland to shake his hand and coax him outside for a snapshot.

The postman calls twice a day with letters postmarked Ho Chi Minh City and affixed with what now passes for exotic Oriental stamps: happy workers in the communal rice paddy, happy housewives bicycling to market under happy solidarity slogans. Some come simply, starkly addressed: Premier Ky, U.S.A.

"The letters reach me somehow, often by secret ways," said Nguyen Cao Ky, settling back in the red leather upholstery of his late model Fleetwood Cadillac. "Things are bad in Vietnam. People are hungry. Chocolate is a dream. They ask me for help. I do what little I can. There are ways of getting money through to them."

We caught the former premier and air marshal of South Vietnam on his way to the bank from his combined liquor store and delicatessen in this heavily Mexican-American suburb of Los Angeles. He had turned the cash register over to an old Vietnamese air force buddy, a fellow Skyraider pilot from that doughy band that once staged a daring raid over North Vietnam but unfortunately bombed the wrong target.

The last time I saw the premier he was standing by the cockpit of his new American jet fighter denouncing Henry Cabot Lodge and the U.S. command for giving in to a rabble of Buddhist rioters. He was 35 years old then, dashing and dapper in a black flight suit touched off by a lavender scarf and pearl handled revolvers.

Now 12 years and a long lost war later, he still looked like an off-duty tango instructor and was berating American officialdom for everything from California's weather (too cold for surfing) to allowing communist Vietnam into the United Nations.

Mulligan's Stew

His moustache had grayed a bit at the edges but the wardrobe was still dashing even by Hollywood's dashing standards: suede earth shoes, tan brushed denim slacks, sports shirt open a button or two above the Bellafonte line.

We also watch too much television, which makes us partly responsible for the cultural collision in the Ky household and the defection of his recently married 23-year-old son, Dat.

"I do not recognize this marriage," said Ky, sparing us the details but not the guilt. "He was too American. American society tends to corrupt boys faster than girls. They watch too much TV."

The Kys live in nearby Huntington Beach in a raised California ranch with exposed redwood beams and a two-car garage that looks like any other $100,000-plus house in their upper-middle class development except there is no basketball backboard over the driveway. The vaguely mission-style Ky manse, backing up on a tiny patio barely able to contain a barbecue pit much less a backyard swimming pool or presidential chopper pad, belies rumors of his nipping out of the Nam with a few million in gold bars or imperial silverware or whatever.

Carter's Urbank concept labeled 'slogan in search of a program'

By DAVID S. BRODER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Framers of the Carter administration's new urban policy are running into great skepticism about the proposed centerpiece of his program — a government-funded bank to spur center-city economic-development projects.

Patricia Roberts Harris, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development and head of the president's task force on urban policy, acknowledged in a New York speech on recently that many people regard the so-called Urbank plan as "a slogan in search of a program."

Nonetheless, she said, such a concept is almost certain to be part of the program the administration sends to Congress next year.

Confirming this judgment, other administration officials said that President Carter is under strong political pressure from his urban constituency to come up with what look like new approaches to big-city unemployment and fiscal problems. But budget constraints and plans for a big tax cut next year severely limit the new spending he can propose for public-service employment and direct fiscal relief to the cities.

Urbank offers him one of his few escape routes, and despite the doubts expressed in the administration and Congress about the usefulness of hte project, it is likely to be a publicized part of the Carter package.

Interviews with administration officials working on the urban-policy statement and comments at a New York meeting on the same subject, sponsored by the National Democratic Forum, cast a clear light on some of hte dilemmas facing Carter in this area:

—The task force is likely to recommend a further expansion of direct public-employment programs to chip away at the hard-core joblessness that reaches up to 40 percent among center-city minority youths. But those programs were increased markedly this past year, and any further expansion would run up budget totals at a time when the administration wants to hold down spending and push through a major tax cut.

—The measures for fiscal relief some mayors of hard-pressed cities most desire — such as a total federal takeover of the local share of welfare and Medicaid — have already been ruled out by Carter for next year.

—Proposals for further federal aid to cities are complicated by the fact that such aid was increased sharply this past year by administration anti-recession measures. Many in the administration believe Carter will have his hands full just preventing a cut-back in the flow of funds to the cities, as Congress looks skeptically at renewing such measures as counter-cyclical revenue-sharing.

—Other strategies the urban-policy task force will recommend — such as better targeting and coordination of federal programs to the neediest cities and stimulus of state and suburban efforts to help the cities — either face formidable political problems or are likely to be slow in demonstrating visible effects.

So the pressure is strong for something — like Urbank — which can be advertised as a Carter solution to the problem of the big cities.

Harris herself has been wrestling with the draft of the urban-policy statement prepared by an interdepartmental committee. Serious discussions with the Office of Management and Budget on the program are expected to begin this week, and a proposal is supposed to be ready for the president's consideration by Dec. 13.

However, major issues remain to be settled, even about the Urbank proposal. At the New York forum and in Washington interviews, Assistant Treasury Secretary Roger Altman said "Urbank is a misnomer." What is really under discussion, he said, is "a program of grants, loans and perhaps tax incentives" for the creation of private jobs in areas of high unemployment.

The grants and loans would enable developers to assemble land and put up buildings that would add to the dwindling job supply in areas high unemployment.

Altman outlined a Treasury version that would provide federal grants for 15 percent, or the first $3 million of capital costs for such projects, and low-interest loans for 75 per cent of the remainder — a package that would still require about 20 percent private financing. Along with expanded "secondary-market" financing and an increase in the limits on industrial bonds from $5 million to $20 million for such areas, the Treasury proposal is the most specific to surface publicly so far.

But Altman conceded that the possible role of tax incentives in the proposal has not been settled, and he warned that Urbank would have "a relatively long lead-time" in terms of visible results.

Harris, in her comments, was much more guarded, saying that the Treasury plan was only one of three alternatives under consideration, and that none of them was "the holy grail of urban finance." Harris even left open the possibility that no new lending institution would be created, and that the loans and grants would be arranged cooperatively by HUD, the Commerce Department and the Small Business Administration.

In addition to the vagueness of the proposal, there is great skepticism even among urban specialists about its usefulness. Rep Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of hte House Banking, Finance and Urban Committee, which would handle such legislation, gives it low priority. He told the New York forum he would favor an Urbank "only if it's sharply focused on areas of real need."

Frank Morris, president of hte Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, told the same forum that "Urbank is not the answer" to the declining industrial and commercial base of the older Eastern cities.

Strike backed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Two Texans promoting a national farmers' strike next month say they've received some support in California.

But Fred Herfinger, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation, says few California farmers would back such a strike.

The Sacramento Bee said Thursday that Oran Watson of Tulia, Tex., and Gerald McCathern of Hereford, Tex., report having won favorable reaction at meetings with California growers.

Watson and McCathern are leaders of a group that is asking farmers to refuse to sell any products or buy equipment or supplies after Dec. 14. The group is demanding an average increase in the prices for farm products of about 50 percent, which would raise consumer food costs about 20 percent, the story said.

Major national agricultural organizations have denounced the plan, however.

Said Watson, "With the support we have throughout the Midwest and Southwest, consumers are going to feel the effects very quickly."

Official canvass makes no change

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Canvassing Board today certified official vote totals in the Nov. 8 election at which voters adopted five new constitutional amendments and rejected two propositions.

Board members are Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Secretary of State Steve Oaks and Mrs. Blake Sparenberg of Austin.

The canvass showed the voters rejected the amendment allowing agricultural organizations, by referendum, to impose mandatory assessments on members, 299,060 to 231,164.

The proposition allowing banks to install electronic fund transfer systems (EFTS) at such places as shopping centers without violating the constitutional prohibition against branch banking failed, 344,483 to 208,264.

Changes passed were:

- Increasing the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals from five to nine judges, 410,170 to 150,862.
- Authorizing another $200 million in veterans land bonds, 329,417 to 225,919.
- Denial of bail to two-time losers, gun-toting criminals and those accused of committing a felony while already free on bond, 472,948 to 92,568.
- Allowing tax relief for historic, culturally significant or natural history sites, 306,102 to 244,477.

Woman still deals blackjack in Nevada after 40 long years

By CHARLES HILLINGER
The Los Angeles Times

RENO, Nev. — Doris Moseley has been dealing blackjack eight hours a day, five days a week for 40 years.

"It beats working in a department store," says the 5-foot-2-inch 60-year-old woman who doesn't drink, smoke, swear or gamble.

She has been dealing cards in a gambling house longer than any other woman in the state of Nevada.

Nothing surprises the quiet-spoken Mrs. Moseley when she is dealing because so much has happened over the years.

"Once a man betting at a table next to mine had a heart attack, and fell over dead," she said.

"You know how gamblers are. 'Keep dealing,' they insisted. So I kept dealing. Eventually the dead man was carried away on a stretcher."

"Another time one of the players, a pregnant woman, started having her baby at my table. I kept dealing as they helped the woman to a nearby rest room where the baby was born."

People from all walks of life show up on the seven stools at Doris Moseley's blackjack table at Harold's Club.

"The very first person I remember ever dealing to — all I know him by is 'Old Mac' — still stops by. He was 45 when I first dealt him a hand. He's 85 now," Mrs. Moseley said.

"Many gamblers at my table are regulars. Some I see once a year when they're here on vacation. They come from all over the country, from all over the world."

Numerous celebrities have gambled at Mrs. Moseley's table. She remembers the time Henry Fonda lost a bet and playfully stuck his tongue out at her.

And Gary Cooper, "a wonderful gentleman and a very frugal gambler who never bet more than $1 at a time."

The biggest streak of luck at her table was during World War II, when a merchant mariner borrowed $10 from a friend and ran it up to $100,000.

As a dealer Mrs. Moseley earns $29 a day plus tips.

"Almost every day there are gamblers who bet the limit — $500 a hand — at my table. I think I'm in the wrong business," she said.

Women were not permitted to work as dealers in Las Vegas until 1950. In 1958 the Las Vegas city Council passed an ordinance prohibiting women dealers, but the courts overturned the statute as discriminatory in 1970.

Here in Reno, however, a handful of women, including Doris Moseley, began working as dealers at Harold's Club in 1938. In World War II many of the Reno clubs hired women.

Today at Harold's Club 250 of the 274 blackjack dealers are women.

Mrs. Moseley was single until three years ago when she married Glenn Moseley, an assistant chef at Harold's Club.

When asked if she and her husband ever play cards at home, Mrs. Moseley replied:

"Playing cards is a dirty word at home."

Doris Moseley, 60, still is dealing blackjack at Harold's Club in Reno after 40 years, longer than any other woman in the state of Nevada. She doesn't drink, smoke, swear or gamble. (Los Angeles Times Photo)

Finesse may work in two directions

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When the opponents lead a key queen, you are often able to finesse for it in either direction. The two-way finesse is sometimes possible even when the missing card is a king.

Opening lead — ♦ Q

Suppose you think that west has the king of hearts. After drawing trumps you lead a heart from your hand and finesse with dummy's queen. If that wins, you will discard a spade on the ace of hearts. The rest will be easy.

But if East has the king of hearts, he will win a heart trick and return a diamond to defeat the contract.

The other way of finessing is better. Take the king of spades, draw trumps and lead a heart to the ace. Then return dummy's queen of hearts.

If East plays low, you discard a spade. When dummy's queen wins the trick, you are home free.

CANNOT GAIN

East cannot gain by playing the king of hearts, for then you would trump and get back to dummy with the ace of spades to take all your discard on the jack of hearts.

Best of all, you make your contract even if your queen of hearts loses to the king. West cannot afford to lead diamonds, since then your king would win a trick. But if West leads anything else you can reach dummy to discard two diamonds on good hearts.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold: S A52 H AQJ10 D 83 C 10953. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. The hand is not quite worth an opening bid. If one of the low clubs were a low heart, so that you had a five-card heart suit, the hand would just barely be worth an opening bid of one heart.

Coca-Cola moving rapidly into nation's wine market

By CARL CANNON
The Los Angeles Times

SAN FRANCISCO — Coca-Cola Co. only this month purchased California's Monterey Vineyard, the third winery it has acquired in less than a year.

The move firmly established the dominant soft drink maker as a wine producer on both the East and West coasts and it signals a new marketing era for the American wine business.

Coke purchased New York state's Taylor Wine Co., the nation's sixth largest, last January, and the much smaller prestigious Sterling Vineyards of Napa Valley in August. Now, with the acquisition of Monterey, it presents a marketing challenge to all strata of the country's established wine industry.

The Atlanta-based soft drink producer issued a statement saying only that it had purchased Gonzales Co., which operates Monterey Vineyard. But sources close to the transaction said Coke had also purchased the winery building, which is owned by the John Hancock Insurance Co. and leased to the Gonzales company.

Neither Coke, Gonzales nor Hancock would put a dollar figure on the transaction. Monterey Vineyard winemaker Richard Peterson had owned 80 percent of Gonzales Co. and a partner, Dan Lucas, the other 20 percent. Coke said Peterson had agreed to stay on as president and winemaker.

Although Monterey has never produced more than 22,000 cases of wine during its three-year existence, it was built with a capability of producing 150,000 cases and can be extended to produce half a million cases annually. That is what Coca-Cola is expected to do as rapidly as possible, allowing it to compete with the middle-level premium California producers.

There has been industry speculation that Coca-Cola was gearing for a major marketing battle with California's mass producers through its Taylor wines. With the 10,000-case capacity at Sterling and 150,000-case capacity at Monterey, it has two strong entries in the premium category. If it produces the other 350,000 cases as a second label at Monterey, observers reason, it would also press the middle line producers of the state.

While most observers doubt that the Coca-Cola name will ever appear on a bottle of wine, a few believe that some sort of identification with the soft drink firm could appear on a new label at Monterey.

Peterson said that he had a guarantee from Coke that the Monterey Vineyard wines would in no way be affected by the new-label wines, which he will also produce for Coke.

Some national security officials are nervous at the prospect. The Pentagon will keep expendable booster rockets ready until 1983 at Cape Canaveral, and until 1984 at Vandenberg Air Force Base, when the Shuttle goes operational, with "decision points" along the way to reverse the booster phase-out plan if necessary.

When two NASA launch vehicles in a row blew up earlier this fall, one Pentagon official said it was "worrisome." The failures, on investigation, were not the fault of NASA's operations system.

But NASA competence is being monitored more closely and critically by military and intelligence agencies now. And any apparent drop in performance could soon lead to pressure from the Pentagon to take over NASA's satellite launching responsibilities.

Surprisingly, some NASA officials would prefer the Air Force to take over NASA launch operations now because they fear NASA's image will be irreparably tainted when the Shuttle carries secret satellites and is piloted by military men.

As it now stands, NASA will be barred from giving out public information on those launchings, the activities of the men on board, and all other details, unless approved by the Pentagon or intelligence community paying for the flight — a sharp break with NASA's past policy on public disclosure.

A few officials already perceive NASA to be drifting more toward a military mentality. "I frankly doubt that NASA today would take the Pentagon on as it did in 1963 to get observation satellite technology broken out of the closet," said one of them.

He was referring to a bitter battle that was waged behind closed doors to allow NASA to launch satellites to observe agriculture production, seek mineral deposits, and observe other practical, nonmilitary activities on earth in what is now called the Landsat program.

Two similar cases occurred recently involving attempts by the military and intelligence communities to put restrictions on forthcoming NASA satellites for security reasons. NASA won the first, taking it to the President. If it loses the second, its critics are prepared to charge that it chose not to fight hard enough.

In the first case, the Joint Chiefs of Staff wanted the radar altimeter on the coming "Seasat" satellite to transmit its data in code rather than in ordinary "language." The altimeter will measure the heights of ocean waves and current directions, among other things. Its data will provide a picture of gravity variations under the sea and this, the military feared, would be useful information to the Soviets for targeting submarine-launched missiles.

Eventually, Defense Secretary Harold Brown supported NASA, but it required intervention by Carter to override military objections.

More controversial is an attempt to improve the optical resolution ("viewing power") of future Landsat-like satellites from the present 80 meters (250 feet, or football field size), down to 10 meters (33 feet, or house size).

The issue has been heatedly debated among a dozen government agencies as part of a broad review of national space policy, now being formalized as Presidential Review Memorandum 23. Accounts of participants vary but there is a strong minority view, at least, that NASA was not aggressive in pressing for permission to equip its satellites with the better optical gear.

"We're pulling NASA along on this," said a Department of Agriculture official, "we and interior, Commerce, AID (Agency for International Development)" — NASA's "user constituency" in the government.

The controversy seems a bit ridiculous because there is no doubt the Soviet Union is taking pictures with satellites having resolution of far better than 10 meters. In fact, the European Space Agency has announced that it intends to launch a satellite with 10 meter resolution on NASA's Shuttle in three to five years.

Industrial competition is another growing problem for NASA. The space agency continues to call Landsat an experimental rather than an operational program to avoid pressure from Congress and the White House to turn such satellites over to private enterprise, as happened to communication satellites a decade ago.

If NASA is lukewarm on the 10 meter issue, one reason may be that such resolution would make satellites economically profitable, quickly paying for themselves in data sold to private companies. Private firms like Comsat would then compete intensively with NASA and probably eclipse the Landsat program.

NASA lacks a powerful industrial constituency such as the Defense Department enjoys. The space agency recognizes that "it's the little guy on the block compared to the Pentagon and intelligence community," said a scientist who has served in two of those agencies.

"It knows it can't go up against the big boys too often without hurting," he added, "so there's a built-in tendency to do some back-scratching."

In the last Republican administrations, NASA chiefs had trouble even getting in to see the president.

As part of the broad space policy review, carried out over the last seven months under the chairmanship of Defense chief Brown, there was debate on whether the three groups with space programs — NASA, the Pentagon and the intelligence community — should be merged into one. Predictably, the three concluded that all should remain as is.

There has been some reorganization this month within NASA, nevertheless. But whether this was done to accommodate the real needs of NASA, or just to satisfy Mr. Carter's repeated calls for reorganization, is unclear. It is unlikely to win NASA significantly more money, however. For the President, like Congress, has openly urged NASA to concentrate on exploiting existing knowledge rather than exploring for new knowledge. It's cheaper.

Charitable organizations are stepping up their appeals as the holiday season progresses and consumers may find it difficult to decide which causes to support.

Knowing where your money goes can help and efforts are under way on several fronts to provide more information. As a general rule, the Postal Service advises would-be givers to:

- Restrict donations to groups with which you are familiar.
- Ask for a financial statement before you give.
- Check with the Chamber of Commerce, the local Better Business Bureau or local or state consumer agencies for information about the organization.

The American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel Inc. says Americans gave a record $29.42 billion to charities last year, up 9.4 per cent from 1975. The association said that for the first time in three years, the increase in contributions exceeded the rise in inflation. Bicentennial-related contributions accounted for most of the increased giving.

The biggest chunk of the money — $12.84 billion or 43.6 per cent — went to religious organizations. Health and hospitals got $4.37 billion or 14.9 per cent of the total; educational charities received $4.07 billion or 13.8 per cent; social welfare groups got $2.67 billion or 9.1 per cent; the arts and humanities got $2.08 billion or 7.1 per cent; civic and public associations got $970 million or 3.3 per cent; and other groups — including such temporary things as earthquake relief funds — got $2.42 billion or 8.2 per cent.

Most of the money — $23.58 billion or 80.1 per cent — came in the form of gifts from living individuals. The rest came from bequests, foundations and corporations.

A spokesman for the TACB said the agency had asked the EPA for a waiver from the policy and EPA is expected to decide on it by Dec. 10.

He added that if the state application is rejected, state officials may decide to ignore the controversial policy anyway and brace for the expected layoffs to be caused by the anticipated fuel cutoffs.

This summer EPA accused four Texas companies of violating the guidelines by beginning construction of new plants without making sure that the offsets would follow. The companies had construction permits from the TACB which does not require the offsets.

Public hearings have been scheduled for Dec. 19 to decide what to do if the EPA turns down the request for the waiver.

In its waiver request, the TACB argued that it can achieve the same pollution reductions its own way and the offset policy might backfire.

"The offset policy is a disincentive for industry to clean up," said Andy C. Wheatley, director of TACB's Control Strategy Division.
