Lebanese fighting grows in violence

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — At least 100 persons were killed and 173 were wounded in 24 hours as Palestinian guerrillas battled Christian militiamen blockading two Palestinian refugee camps on the northeast side of Beirut, the police reported.

"This is one of the highest casualty tolls for a day during the war," a police spokesman said today.

Police reported Moslem and Christian gunmen also were battling with mortars and machine guns in the downtown banking and business

"Both sides also poured reinforcements into the hotel area. They are evidently preparing for another major eruption in this district," a spokesman said.

Although 5,000 guerrillas were reported thrown into the attack, the Palestinians were unable to break through to the Jisr el-Basha and Tal Zataar refugee camps. The Christian blockade preventing food convoys from reaching the camps began a week ago, touching off a new round of fighting in the nine-month-old civil war and bringing more Palestinian guerrillas into the fight than ever before.

The predominantly Christian officer corps of the Lebanese army was reported infuriated because the guerrillas captured a food convoy Sunday that the army was trying to escort to the camps.

"If there was any sympathy among the officers left for the guerrillas it is now finished," an army spokesman said.

The convoy was made up of six armored personnel carriers, three armored cars and a tank. The army spokesman said when it reached the Moslem Chiyah section "it was suddenly attacked, overpowered and captured by hundreds of Palestinian guerrillas and commandeered to the refugee camp of Sabra in western Beirut."

Although the entire convoy was returned before a 12-hour army ultimatum expired at dawn today, the spokesman said the army would make no more attempts to help supply the refugee camps.

The two camps are on a hillside overlooking the northeastern approaches to the city, including the highway between Ashrafieh, Beirut's largest Christian residential quarter, and a hristian area inland around Mt.

Another refugee camp on the northern outskirts of Beirut was

Bombs found, disarmed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Three pipe bombs, including one set to go off at 3 p.m. — just before a Security Council debate on the Middle East was scheduled to begin — were found and disarmed near the U.N. library today, officials said.

U.N. security men said no telephone warning had been received about the

They said an electrician for the New York subway system found the three bombs, each about a foot long, at 11 a.m. in a power substation beneath a ground-level ramp leading off the East River Drive. They were reported near the library building's basement

U.N. security was notified, the New York police bomb squad was called and later a U.N. spokesman said, "The bombs have now been disconnected."

Meanwhile, the library building was evacuated and the U.N. headquarters complex was closed to the public.

The bomb incident came as Arab delegates and representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization sought in last-minute consultations to forge a common front for the Security Council debate on the Arab-Israeli dispute starting this afternoon.

The Palestinians' chief goal was to cap a series of diplomatic successes over the past two years with a council resolution recognizing Palestinian rights as one of the subjects that must be dealt with in Arab-Israeli peace negotiations.

The PLO has rejected the two council resolutions that form the basis of all peace efforts because they speak of a "refugee problem" without mentioning the Palestinian cause. A new resolution citing Palestinian rights would put heavy pressure on the Israelis to soften their refusal to negotiate with any Palestinian organization.

The most formidable hurdle before the Arabs is the possibility of an American veto in support of Israel. But Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, while declaring he is opposed to any changes in the two resolutions, has not ruled out acceptance of a new one.

İsraeli diplomats in Jerusalem expressed fear that the Arabs would produce an "innocuous looking" resolution calling for satisfaction of the "legitimate rights of the Palestinians."

African leaders split on solution in Angola

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — The African summit meeting on Angola ends today, but the leaders were evenly divided over whether to support the Soviet-backed Popular Movement (MPLA) in the civil war or to call for a coalition government of the three warring factions.

The African leaders agreed that South Africa and other foreign powers should cease their intervention in the fighting. But supporters of the MPLA said Soviet aid to the Marxist faction, which began more than 10 years ago when it was fighting Portuguese rule, could not be compared with the recent help given by South Africa and the United States to the National Front (FNLA) and the National Union (UNITA).

Gen. Murtala Muhammed of Nigeria charged that South Africa and the United States sought to restore white supremacy in Angola because of its oil and mineral wealth.

As debate was adjourned after midnight Sunday, the assistant secretary-general of the Organization of African Unity, Peter Onu, told reporters the OAU members were divided 22 to 22 on two resolutions, with Ethiopia and Uganda not yet taking sides.

One resolution called for the OAU to recognize the MPLA as the legitimate government of Angola. The other called for the OAU to continue the policy of neutrality it adopted last year and urged the three Angolan factions to form a coalition government.

Diplomats said both resolutions called for an end to foreign intervention and condemned South Africa's whiteminority regime for sending troops into Angola to help the FNLA and UNITA.

Observers said there appeared to be no prospect of ending the division over Africa's most divisive political crisis in recent years. But they cautioned against predictions that the Angolan dispute might rip the organization apart. Consensus has emerged before at OAU meetings that appeared near collapse, they said, and most African leaders are determined to preserve the OAU.

Holden Roberto, the leader of the FNLA, complained to newsmen that the Soviets supplied the MPLA more and better arms than the United States sent his forces via Zaire and Zambia.

Midland's mild winter expected to continue

Midland's usual winter weather of mild days and chilly nights is expected to continue for a few days, the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal said. Highs in the middle 60s are expected through Tuesday and the low tonight is forecast in the low 30s. Southerly and southwesterly winds will temper the fair skies and pleasant temperatures, the forecasters said. Area towns are enjoying much the same. Big Lake, Rankin, Crane, Stanton, Andrews and Lamesa all reported clear skies and cool temperatures this morning.

Chilly weather nipped at much of Texas today as one cool front lingered along the coast and another approached the state from the north.

Skies were mostly clear except for occasional patches of clouds across the north central and east parts of the state. A frontal system which finished a sweep to the Gulf of Mexico only Sunday was credited for pulling more clouds into the Rio Grande Valley and the Lower Texas Coast, the Associated Press reported.

Fog cloaked many East Texas points and parts of the coast in early Forecasters looked for the new front to push into the Texas Panhandle tonight and downstate Tuesday with possible showers here and there but little other effect. Fair to only partly cloudy skies were promised before its arrival.

Area unemployment rate an up and down matter

The unemployment rate in Midland and Ector counties for the mo nth of November was down from that of October though up from November a year ago, according to figures from the Texas Employment Commission. The November, 1975 rate stood at 3.5 per cent and represented 2,970 unemployed from a civilian labor force of 84,860. The October, 1975 rate was 3.7 per cent with 3,160 unemployed out of a labor force of 84,760, while the November, 1974 rate was 3.1 per cent, representing 2,570 unem-ployed from a labor force of 81,970.

The TEC estimates February, 1976 will have an unemployment rate of 3.8 per cent with 3,230 unemployed from an 84,530 labor force.

Total employment in the two-county area showed a net growth of only 290 over that of the preceding month, according to TEC figures. The new level, though, was an upturn over the year in that some 2,500 more people were on jobs in both counties than in November a year ago. Nonagricultural wage and salary employment grew during the year by 1,540, while nonmanufacturing employment increased by 2,000 and all other nonagricultural employment gained by 920. Conversely, manufacturing employment posted a yearly loss of 460 workers.

Categories and their increases or decreases for the month of November were reported by TEC as: net manufacturing, down by 60 em-ployes; durable goods, down 80; nondurable goods, up 20; nonelec-trical machinery, down 40; stone, clay and glass, down 30, and food and related products, up 20.

Other categories included: net nonmanufacturing employment, up by 80; medical and professional service, up about 200; business and personal service and contract construction, up 30 each; mining, up 20; state government, down 70; local government, down 30, and communications, wholesale trade, finance, insurance and real estate, all

The TEC reported that, although most job orders placed by employers with the Midland and Ector county TEC offices were filled during November, openings remained in several areas. The jobs still open included those for an accounting instructor, diesel equipment mechanic, industrial engine mechanic, mechanical engineer. machinist, journeyman machinist, district manager, legal secretary, secretary, statistical typist, nurse aide, bookkeeper, auto body repair instructor, photographer and cook.

New library director -- a ranch country kid with a love for history

By LYNNE WELLS

Don Hedgpeth describes himself as "ranch country kid" who studied history in college so he would have the knowledge to dig deeper into his favorite subject, the history of the Southwest. He will have that chance as director of the Nita Stewart Haley Memorial Library, scheduled to open this summer. Hedgpeth, 32, was born in Seagraves in Gaines County' and received his B. A. in history from Texas A&I in Kingsville in 1964. He taught history in Corpus Christi and Montana for two years.

He spent the next three years teaching in Kerrville and commuting to San Marcos nights and weekends to work on a graduate degree. He received his M. A. in history from Southwest Texas State University in Hedgpeth's next calling was in Oklahoma City, where he worked as public relations director for the Oklahoma Cattleman's Association, and publications director for the National Cowboy Hall of Fame. Cody, Wyo. was the next stop, assistant director and director of the Buffalo Bill Historical Center and Whitney Gallery of Western Arts. He recently published a book, where Hedgpeth spent three years as

"Spurs Were A-Jingling," which deals with ranching in Wyoming.

Attorney General Hill gets trial transcript

Dist. Atty. Jim Mashburn, calling for an attorney general's probe into witness-tampering accusations against his chief investigator, made a Friday noon flight to Austin to deliver to Atty. Gen. John Hill's office the 427page transcript of the controversial trial from which the accusations stem

The investigator. Jesse Morales. was accused by a jailed defense witness, Janie Santos, 35, of twice trying to sway her testimony in the trial of 30-year-old Andres Hernandez Midway in the trial last November, District Judge Perry D. Pickett dismissed the possession-of-heroin indictment against Hernandez after the defendant's attorney, Randall Lundy, presented the court with written affidavits of Miss Santos allegations.

Miss Santos, arrested along with Hernandez in a police narcotics raid of her house here on Sept. 18, pleaded guilty to possession of heroin and was sentenced to a 10-year prison term.

The attorney general's "strike force" investigation into the allegations reportedly was spearheaded by the Midland County Grand Jury. In mid-December, the jury requested Judge Pickett and Mashburn to enlist the attorney general's aid for an independent probe into the case against Morales.

Morales, 41, has been the district attorney's investigator September

The grand jury is to reconvene Jan. 21 to resume its investigation into Morales and the events surrounding the Andres Mernandez trial.

The attorney general's probe, presumably, is already underway particularly in light of Mashburn's delivering the trial's transcript to the attorney general's office.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Gerry Garuth has been assigned the Midland case. He or his aides are expected to meet with the grand jurors.

The grand jury's deliberations are held in secrecy.

Letter from Korea makes another day

By Abigail Van Buren DEAR ABBY: This is to thank you for your Thanksgiving Day column. It gave me the strength to make it through another day.

I am in the Army, stationed in South Korea, and I find it hard to be thankful for anything while I am un-willingly separated from my dear wife and two children.

I am under constant pressure from my buddies to go out with the local "girls," and I'm criticized because I won't. I am in a race with myself to see if I end up in a hospital from too much alcohol or from a nervous breakdown.

I volunteered to work today to keep my mind off the fact that it's a holiday. After reading DEAR ABBY today, you made me realize that as homesick and blue as I am, lots of people have it worse. Thank you.

THANKSGIVING IN KOREA DEAR THANKSGIVING: Hang in there. Your letter made my day. If you'll permit me a little unsolicited advice: Stay away from the bottle. One drink is too many and a hundred isn't enough. Write home every day, keep busy, stay out of trouble and, yes, pray. And before you know it. you'll be home with your family. God

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to see in your column an item about hostesses who are always pushing food on their guests. Thanks for saying "an ideal hostess never comments on how little a guest is eating.

I have always been a very small eater. When my hostess would call attention to how little I was eating (or worse yet, loudly announce how "hard" she had worked preparing the meal and how "hurt" she was that I didn't "like" it), I'd proceed to stuff myself. Then I would go home and be physically sick! Finally, I decided that rather than subject myself to such needless torture, I would simply decline invitations from people who tried to make me feel guilty for not eating more than my stomach could comfortably hold.

EATS LIKE A BIRD DEAR EATS: I'll print your letter for all those well-meaning foodpushers who need reminding.

Sew what if your daughter lives in jeans

Copley News Service

Mothers shouldn't despair if their daughters refuse to wear anything but

That's how Marian Shoemaker, dressmaker and sewing instructor, sees the current denim craze. She says the jeans fad is no more ridiculous than the can-can stage she ushered her daughters through in the

"I clipped threads and tags as my daughters walked out the door," Mrs. Shoemaker recalls. "I often closed my eyes and always closed my mouth. They often went out looking ridiculous, but they were happy. Then, as now, it was important for them to be happy.' With a little know-how, an ingenious mother can insure that her daughter's — and her own — jeans and sportswear are attractive and neat.

Mrs. Shoemaker suggested, in an interview, combining patchwork material to make coordinating shirts and jackets. She said the denim look is also available in knits which are easily laundered, wear well and need no ironing

No matter what finish or color denim is, it should always be prewashed before cutting out a homesewn garment, she advised.

Mrs. Shoemaker noted that for proper fit in slacks or jeans, four measurements are necessary: waist, hip, crotch length and finished leg length. Making slacks to measure is more difficult and time-consuming than simply following a pattern, but the better fit is worth the effort, she

How does a home seamstress choose a pattern? If you are making a dress for yourself, select a pattern that is most becoming to your figure, your age and the occasion, Mrs.

Shoemaker said. She has found there are differences from one pattern manufacturer to another. She pointed out that Simplicity instructions are more detailed and easier to follow, Vogue more advanced in style but clear, and Butterick, difficult to follow.

When selecting pattern size, it's important to have an accurate list of your measurements. Choose a size nearest to the bust measurement, Mrs. Shoemaker advises, because it is far easier to alter a waist or hip measurement Coordinating fabrics and patterns can be difficult, particularly with the large variety of fabrics available today.

"It wasn't too many years ago that I could name all the fabrics," Mrs. Shoemaker said. "But today, there are so many, I doubt if anyone could find such a listing anywhere.'

She advises choosing materials that suit the patterns - a flowing fabric such as a soft knit, sheer or crepe for a flowing design; a stiffer, heavier material for a tailored pattern.

pattern lends itself to plaid," she BOODY warned. Stripes and large prints should be used in patterns with as few seams as possible. And the fashionconscious dressmaker should choose colors that flatter her skin, hair and eye coloring.

Natural fibers include linen, cotton, silk and wool.

Today, many natural fibers are treated for shrinkage, stretchability, perma-press, fire and soil retardants. Some are also vat-dyed, softened, stiffened and made water repellant, so that it becomes almost impossible to distinguish the natural from the synthetic, Mrs. Shoemaker pointed

"This makes it a must to read all labels before purchasing yard goods," she said.

Photo misidentified

Due to the reversal of a photograph on the cover page of the Women's News section in some issues of Sunday's Reporter-Telegram, there was an erroneous identification. Mrs. LaVern A. BUSINESS NEWS Solar energy competition high in state

AUSTIN-Sometime late this year, the federal government is going to award a $50 million-a-year grant for the development of solar energy, and various Texas cities, businesses and universities may well be in competition for the prize.

At stake is the Solar Energy Research Institute, a nationwide project funded by the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) to develop solar energy as a viable heating and cooling source in light of declining oil and gas resources.

Other states showing a strong interest in the research program are California, Arizona, New Mexico, Florida, and a consortium of east coast states that some officials believe may have an inside track on winning the prize since they operate more as a regional entity, a fact that ERDA apparently finds attractive.

From the $50 million per year, the research facility will employ 800 people directly and may require up to an addition 700 supportive employment personnel.

Perhaps the City of El Paso has done the most of any group in Texas to develop a presentation to ERDA on how it would operate the facility. El Paso Mayor Don Henderson last month led a delegation to meet with Gov. Dolph Briscoe who remains committed to the idea of getting the project to Texas, but will not speak more favorably about one city than another at this time.

Certailly not far behind El Paso. and approaching rapidly, is the City of San Antonio, where Mayor Lila Cockrell said all interested cities should consider an integrated application in order to assure that the Solar Energy Research Institute is located within the state.

After winning that round, Mrs Cockrell said the Texas cities would then compete among themselves, possibly deciding to divide the project into various levels of administration, research and field experimentation.

(For example, administrative offices could be in one city, research could take place where existing manufacturing would benefit the solar equipment needed, and field experiments would be conducted where large reflective mirrors and panels could easilu be constructed.)

Now showing interest in the project, as evident from discussions held with Briscoe and his aides, are a consortium of Texas universities. General discussions on the subject have taken place among the University of Texas, Texas Tech, Rice and the University of Houston.

And, Joe Ventura of the Governor's Energy Advisory Council said private industry may very soon show an interest in the project. ERDA will release the official criteria for applying later this month, and such companies as Honeywell, Boeing Aircraft and McDonald-Douglass have been helping the agency develop application guidelines.

The first function of the project, once funded and created, will be to develop a small electrical generating plant, Ventura said. While the City of Corpus Christi uses generators of a 300 megawatt capacity, success in the field of solar research is to make a generator of 10 megawatts. With the development of a small generator, the research project will then turn to finding ways of storing solar energy so it can be used in the nightime hours and on cloudy days

Already two small Texas towns have announced plans to use solar energy, although initial expenses of designing and constructing such facilities may prove to be astronomical.

Recently the City of Bridgeport, northwest of Fort Worth, refused to accept a rate hike of 11.25 per cent from Texas Power and Light Company, so both sides have agreed to stop TP&L service after November 1978. Instead, Bridgeport has contracted with Solar King, Inc. of Reno, Nevada, to build a four megawatt plant for $4 million.

Several hundred miles away, in the Panhandle city of Crosbyton, similar plans are underway for E-Systems Inc. of Dallas to build a five megawatt generator for $20 million. Crosbyton officials first began thinking about alternative energy sources back in May 1975 after suffering the first of continuing price increases for natural gas and fuel oil. And actually, the latest city to talk with the Governor's Energy Advisory Council about the ERDA solar project is Hondo, a community of only 1,000 population southwest of San Antonio. Hondo has 3,000 acres to donate as a test site near an old air field, but it probably doesn't have the $500,000 to $1 million needed for consulting fees and preliminary research to make application.

Ventura believes solar will eventually "win out" over nuclear power as the major source of energy in the future, after gas, oil and coal supplies are drained. At present, the cost of producing electricity through solar and nuclear means are comparatively expensive—about $1,200 per killowatt hour

The biggest single detrament to nuclear generation is, of course, the fear of radiation leaks, while solar develop must only contend with the poor aesthetics of large metal panels and concave mirrors.

Real interest in the Solar Energy Research Institute should begin attracting nationwide attention among cities, universities and research organizations once the application guidelines are published in the Federal Register.

Tom Berg, chairman of the San Antonio Public Service Board, said those interested should begin making 'political contacts at the highest level," since he believes the utilimate decision of who gets the project will be made by President Ford.

So far, Ventura said, the institute has been "one of the most will kept

Associated Press Writer Former Georia Gov. Jimmy Carter says the attorney general should be removed from the Cabinet to shield the Justice Department from politics, while George Wallace is calling for a constitutional amendment to ban

Their proposals came Sunday as candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination geared up their campaigns for coming primary and party caucus tests.

Campaigning for the Republican nod, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan wound up a whirlwind tour of Florida with staff predictions that he would sweep that primary on March 9 with a 3-1 victory over President Ford, a prediction hotly refuted by Ford's campaign chairman.

At the same time, friends of former President Richard M. Nixon said he would sit out 1976 politics to continue "working on his book."

Carter, in Des Moines, Iowa, to seek support in that state's Jan. 19 delegate-selection caucuses, proposed an independent attorney general, appointed by the president to a five-to-seven year term.

Removal, which could come only for malfeasance, would have to be approved by the president and leaders in Congress, under Carter's plan aimed at protecting the FBI from partisan pressures. The FBI, part of the Justice Department, would then "seek its natural role as a nonpolitical, professional organization,' Carter said.

The plan, articulated by Carter during an appearance on NBC's "Meet the Press," drew immediate fire from fellow panelists Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, who charged an independent Justice Department would lose ac-

In Massachusetts, where the nation's second primary will be held on March 2, Alabama Gov. Wallace called for a "debusing" program to end the controversy which he called "a symbol of the discontent of the average citizens of our country with the country telling him what to do with his child and his money and every aspect and phase of his life.'

their chidren attend. Wallace supporters in the state, where busing has been the center of controversy among many voters, said anything more than the 8 per cent he received in the 1972 primary would be a victory for Wallace.

Also in the Bay State, supporters of former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford announced the 58-year-old candidate had been admitted to a hospital for observation after experiencing some minor chest pains during a campaign appearance in Marblehead.

Sanford's staff is "holding" his schedule for Tuesday through Thursday in New Hampsire, where voters name their preference on Feb. 24. A hospital spokesman said he "didn't think" the Duke University president's pains involved his heart.

The weekend saw not only a new Democratic candidate - Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W,Va. - but also a new preferential primary, Vermont's. Vermont will vote March 2, the same day as Massachusetts

The Vermont contest drew its first Democratic hopeful, R. Sargent-Shriver, with Carter, Harris, Bayh and Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona waiting to enter, according to their Republican Reagan said he has not yet decided to add his name to the other side of the ballot in Vermont.

Reagan's Florida campaign chief, L. E. Thomas predicted, "Two thirds of the Republicans in Florida want Reagan. I guess a campaign chairman really shouldn't be predicting such fantastic odds, but it's true....The opposition is already beginning to look like poor losers.'

But Howard Callaway, who leads Ford's election effort, said Ford will win in New Hampshire, "Reagan's best northern state"; Florida, "his best Southern state"; Illinois; Massachusetts and North Carolina.

A fund-raiser for the re-election cause of Rep. Berkley Bedell, D-Iowa, gave Carter, Bayh, Harris, Udall and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington a chance to press for support from Iowa voters, who next week select precinct delegates in a process that eventually will choose delegates to Nation," called for constitutional the Democrats' New York City convention.

After those precinct meetings comecounty, regional and state conventions. At each level, delegates are selected for the next.

Udall pointed out the importance of the Iowa caucus system. "You are starting the choosing process for the whole country. So look at us and make sound choices," he told 1,200 Democrats.

Bayh called for major tax reform, improved housing and an end to high-interest money policies. "The disturbing thing about our country is that people have lost faith," Bayh said. "What American people want is a president that can make them believe again."

Gross mismanagement of the economy and foreign affairs have eroded America's confidence in its leaders, Jackson charged. He said, "We want detente to be a two-way street, not one-way. It's high time we

Kissinger's phone monitored

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who was implicated in tapping the telephones of seven subordinates and four newsmen, had his own phone calls

No less than Richard Nixon, in a fit of presidential pique, ordered the Secret Service to monitor calls to and policy adviser in from his top foreign December, 1972.

This has been confirmed by the man who transmitted Nixon's orders to the Secret Service, Charles Colson, then a member of Nixon's inner circle. He has described the incident in a sizzling, soon-to-be-published book,

"Born Again." We have also spoken to other sources familiar with the backroom machinations that led to the eavesdropping. Here are the in-credible details:

On Sunday, Dec. 17, 1972, President Nixon ordered the Air Force to bomb North Vietnam into submission to force a settlement. The devastating round-the-clock raids outraged our adversaries and allies alike. Even at home, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield called the bombing . 'Stone Age strategy.'

Kissinger pleaded with the President to explain his reasons for the bombing to the world. Nixon not only declined but ordered strict silence about the bombing throughout the bureaucracy.

Not long afterward, New York Times columnist James Reston wrote that Kissinger had opposed the bombing. Reston was critical of the air assault, calling it "war by tan-Colson read the column to Nixon, who was furious. "I will not tolerate insubordination," he exploded. "You tell Henry he's to talk to no one. period! I mean no one! And tell him not to call me. I will accept no calls from . him."

Colson relayed the message to Kissinger who agreed not to discuss the bombing with anyone in the press. Meanwhile, Nixon buried himself in a Washington Redskins football game. but it didn't cool him down, Colson recalls.

Possibly to escape Nixon's wrath,

Kissinger had flown off to Palm Springs, the California resort, for a few days of relaxation. But Nixon, still fuming, decided to. keep tabs on Kissinger.

As Colson recounts it, the President "ordered me to have the Secret Service keep a record of all incoming and outgoing calls from Kissinger's heavily guarded villa in Palm Springs.

Colson issued the orders through an aide and the Secret Service began monitoring Kissinger's calls, says the former White House aide. He's unsure whether the Secret Service tapped Kissinger's lines, bugged his end of the conversation or merely used devices to list incoming and outgoing calls. The Secret Service had the capability, according to our sources, to do all three.

that every president isn't a crook.

Disrespect for the presidency harmful

The Secret Service learned from the monitoring that Kissinger tried to reach Nixon. But true to his threat. the angry President refused to take the calls. Colson reports that Kissinger then "proceeded to call his old friend, Joe Kraft.'

Three days later, the columnist wrote in the Washington Post that Kissinger had valiantly opposed Nixon's bombing order. This so infuriated the President that he began "counting the days until Henry left to return to Harvard," recalls Colson.

Sources close to Kissinger say he was acutely aware of the move to send him back to Harvard. The H.R. Haldeman-John Ehrlichman-Charles Colson palace guard were "out to get him," according to intimates of Kissinger. During this period, Kissinger felt the palace guard wanted to force him out in disgrace and make him the scapegoat for Colson contends, however, that Nixon had decided even earlier to replace Kissinger. Colson quotes the former President as confiding to him at Camp David: "Kissinger will be leaving in six or eight months. It's not good for a man to stay too long in that position. It will be better for Henry."

Nixon's bombing policies.

Kissinger's intimates confirm that the palace guard succeeded for awhile in cutting Kissinger off from the President. But as Nixon sank deeper in the Watergate mire, he turned increasingly to foreign affairs to divert attention from the scandal. Eventually, he concluded that he needed Kissinger.

So instead of ousting Kissinger, the President added to his stature. At the time, Kissinger had only one title; he was the President's national security adviser. But in August, 1973, Nixon invited Kissinger to San Clemente. Calif. During a swim in the presidential pool, Nixon notified Kissinger that he would be the next Secretary of State.

One year later, it was Nixon who left office in disgrace and Kissinger who survived in power. Footnote: The Secret Service flatly denied that it ever monitored Kissinger's calls. "This kind of monitoring," a spokesman said "is not our business. Our business is security." Colson told us that it was conceivable, but unlikely, that military communications handled the

also has demonstrated a basic honesty that was a seven-year need at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. With rare exceptions, he has operated an 'open" presidency. In response to one of the more cruel anti-Ford cartoons, Fred Phillips of Van Nuys, Calif., wrote to the Los Angeles Times, "I'd rather have a clumsy president in the White House than a crooked one."

Cartoonists are a breed apart, and Mr. Phillips should not let them get his blood pressure up. Their role is to deflate big people and they serve a certain purpose therein. Moreover, if you get to know them you'll find most are a morose, sullen, often ugly lot not the funny little men their drawing board ridicule seems to indicate.

The men of the written word are different - and their responsibility for balance and fairness should be greater. Regarding Mr. Ford's clumsiness, there isn't one in 100 reporters who could ski with him. There likely isn't one in 50 who could play golf with him. And, there isn't one in a million who shares his responsibilities regarding the wellbeing of the nation and the peace of the world.

Would they rather have the Richard Nixon of two years ago, or is Gerald Ford a more refreshing tenant of the White House?

Looking at the past, it might be said that Mr. Ford is the most basically honest president since Dwight Eisenhower.

Considering the challenge Mr. Ford faces within his own party from a formidable Ronald Reagan, he is behaving in an exemplary manner. He is campaigning low key and infrequently, even though his nomination is in some doubt (any Republican's election would seem safe in the face of the 27 nobodies the Democrats offer). He is grappling, honestly and carefully, with severe domestic economic problems. He is having more success than he gets credit for in foreign affairs. Generally, he is doing a good job.

Those whose range extends from Capitol Hill to the bar of the National Press Club should get out in the country and get the pulse of the American people.

It would do lots of good for their sense of balance and their sense of fairness. They need to know the present mood of the nation. They might find that President Ford's performance isn't considered as shabby as they make it out, an airplane boarding ramp misstep notwithstanding.

Nobody has asked for my 1976 predictions, but here they are Henry Kissinger will resign after being denied a request for just one token division of troops to Angola. The code name for Henry's plan will be "Operation Let's Pretend."

On July 4, 1976, President Ford will journey to Philadelphia for the reenactment of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. In his speech he will declare it to be a great day for the Israeli people.

Congress will at last override a Presidential veto - of a bill honoring apple pie baked by American mothers. Carl Albert will make a statement saying "That oughta show 'em who's boss!'

remembers Gov. Carter working on the . plan — "hard" or otherwise. He did sit in on one NAACP-school board did sit in on one NAACP-school hoard negotiating session as an observer, objecting to any busing in Atlanta. "For him to claim that he did anything to help a settlement is an outright lie," one black leader told us. Actually, "fibbing" better describes falsely claiming credit—common among candidates, who usually have more than a little Baron Munchausen in them. But Carter is the anti-Washington, anti-government, anti-lawyer candidate telling audiences, "I'll never lie to you," and setting post-Watergate standards of honesty. Against that pledge, old enemies in Georgia use the words "lie" and "liar" with tisturbing frequency to describe him.
Without analyzing Carter's often onflicting public statements since

Evans

1970, we checked for factual accuracy his statements in two recent appearances - on CBS's "Face the Nation" Nov. 30 and at the Dec. 2 Washington breakfast with reporters. Besides the Atlanta busing matter, these were the findings:

Item: On Dec. 2, Carter argued federal revenue-sharing should go only to local governments, not to states, and claimed he took that position as governor. There is neither record nor recollection of such an unselfish position, sure to have attracted attention. Carter's statement to Congress in 1971 asserted, "I support the concept of sharing ad-ditional federal revenues with state and local governments"; cutting off the states was not mentioned

Item: Carter declared Nov. 30: "I've been a member of Common Cause for a long time, and par-ticipated in the evolution of the ideas that led to (the federal election) law" - a statement raising some Georgia

In fact, his wife, Rosalynn, joined the liberal organization late during Carter's governorship. Carter never joined (explaining to us the membership is in Mrs. Carter's name because "she writes the checks"). There is no record of Carter participating in election reform.

Item: On Nov. 30, explaining his 1972 nomination speech for Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Carter declared, "I've known Scoop since I was working under Adm. (Hyman) Rickover on the atomic submarine program and he was a junior member Congress involved with atomic energy, so I don't have any apology to make about a long-standing friendship with Scoop.'

Jackson told us he is sure he did not meet Carter until he ran for governor in 1970. Furthermore, nuclear of-ficials doubt a navy lieutenant in operations would have had much contact with a member of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee or, for that matter, with Rickover.

Item: When we told Carter Dec. 2 what Jackson said, he recalled reminiscing about the "old days with Scoop" with the late Sen. Richard B. Russell over breakfast in 1970. "Carter has greatly exaggerated his relations with Sen. Russell," a former Russell intimate told us, adding Carter had leaked Russell's deathbed wish that he be elected governor. "I know that to be a lie," the Russell

Item: Asked on Dec. 2 whom he consults on policy, Carter listed. among others, Wilbur Cohen, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and George Ball, former Under Secretary of State, In fact, Cohen spent a day with Gov. Carter in Atlanta in 1974 and has not seen him since; Ball breakfasted with Carter in-New York one morning last autumn. their only contact.

To list Cohen and Ball as advisers may be par for the old political course but is scarcely the whole truth for a post-Watergate candidate conspicuously offering himself as the man of truth. These instances flowing from two public appearances suggest Carter has fallen short not only of his lofty, self-advertised requirements of candor but even of old-fashioned Washington standards. Nor has Carter been candid talking about devotion to civil rights and opposition to Gov. George Wallace, while in fact as governor he praised Wallace's fight against busing.

Nevertheless, Jimmy Carter is the only Democratic candidate to capture anybody's imagination and may dominate the first delegate showdown in Iowa. But he should know today's demands for candor go beyond pious preaching to rigorous practicing and that he, with all other candidates, will be held strictly accountable.

Study finds racial barriers in mostly-black school

The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — A study exploring the behavior of white students in one predominantly black Washington elementary school has found that barriers between its black and white students exist, despite the commitment of school officials and parents to integration.

The study, while noting that black and white students often formed sincere friendships that extended beyond the school, found that nevertheless there was a well-defined "division of territory" within the school

White students, the study said, are reluctant to "hang out in the halls, the bathrooms or outside the school building," and rarely venture into the school building's poorly supervised

The study also found that the two student service groups, one of which patrols inside the school and one that patrols outside the school, are split largely along racial lines because of the division of territory and that white students generally do not compete in after-school sports with their black classmates.

The study said that, although some black students did not participate in after-school recreation and shy away from certain areas f the school building, and that some white students "hang out" with blacks, "the majority of white students fit this

Despite the existence of these barriers, the author of the study said she found that white students like the school, which she termed excellent academically, and value their experience there.

The study, by Gretchen E. Schafft, a doctoral candidate in anthropology at Catholic University, involved an elementary school in an intregrated Northwest Washington neighborhood, which she disguised with the name of "Greentrees." Schafft said the school, whose real name she declined to reveal, has an enrollement of about 400 blacks and about 50 whites. Her own two children attend the school, she said.

She said she spent the 1974-75 academic year observing the behavior of white students.

Schafft's study apparently is the first such attempt at observing the behavior of white children who form a distinct minority, in a Washington public school.

Whites comprise 4,510 or 3.5 per cent of the 124,451 students in Washington's public schools, a slight increase from their numbers last year, according to school officials.

Blacks comprise 95.2 per cent of the school system's total enrollment. Most of the city's schools are predominantly black. Only 11 elementary schools, all in Northwest Washington have more white than black students.

The white children (at "Greentrees'') aren't suffering academically, nor did I find them fearful, anxious, or isolated," Schafft said in an interview.

"They're learning to cope with being in the minority, and they're being accepted by the black students. The inter-racial interaction most blacks and whites in this neighborhood were seeking just hasn't happened as fast as we hoped it would." Schafft said her study focused only on white children because it "was about white behavior in a setting where they are the minority group."

"Being in the minerity is unusual for white children," she said. "It's not supported by the national culture as it is for blacks. You don't see on television one white person in a crowd of blacks, but it's common to see one black person surrounded by whites. "I wanted to study anthopologically one situation where whites were in the minority."

Bentsen back

DALLAS (AP) — Democratic presidential nomination hopeful Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., returned to his home state today to open a twoday campaign tour through eight cities.

Schafft said her study wasn't an attempt "to blame either black or white students or parents for what exists (at the school) because what exists is a result of the way American society is structured."

Many "Greentrees" residents particularly those whose children attend the school, chose the neigh borhood of modest single-family homes and low-rise, moderately priced apartments with a view toward its racial mix, according to Schafft.

You can heat your home without wasting energy. Here's how:

Keep the filters clean. Check them at least once a month. Dirty filters make your furnace work harder and use more electricity.

Meet the latest FHA home insulation standards. You can save as much as 20% or more on energy consumption if your home is well insulated.

Weatherstrip doors and windows. Keep drafts out and seal heat in. And remember to close the fireplace damper when not in use.

Set your thermostat at 68°. When you lower your thermostat, you lower your energy use and cost.

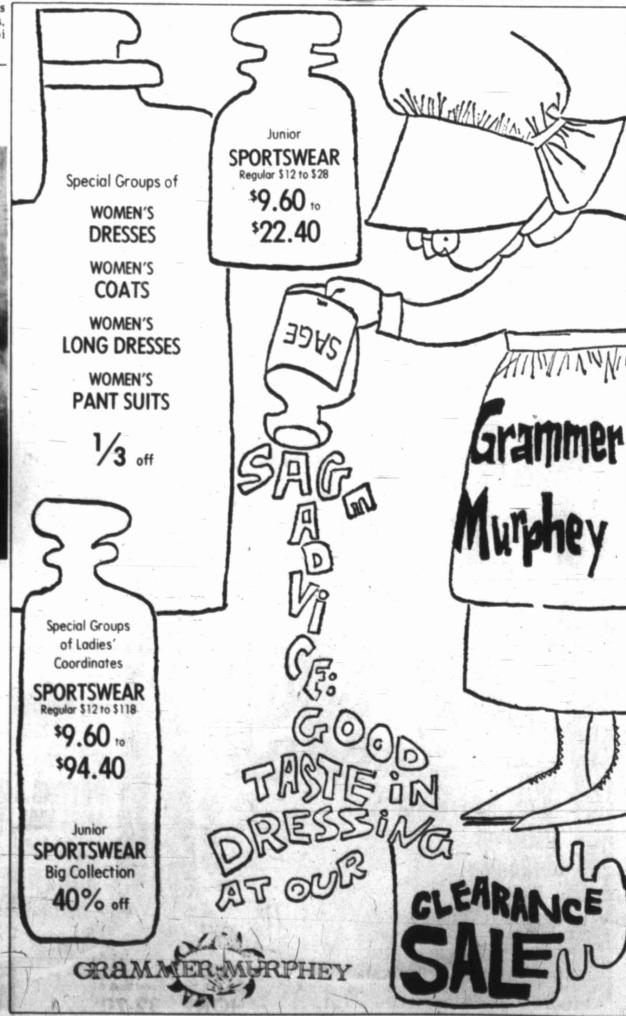

Consider installing a humidifier. At lower thermostat settings, your home will be more comfortable with additional humidity.

Open draperies or shades on the sunny side of the house. Let the sunshine heat your home. Otherwise, keep draperies closed to help keep in the warm air.

Even though your rates are well below the national average, electricity is worth using

Miller stages rally to win

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - It was different, and tougher, and maybe a little bit more satisfying. And it was just the tiniest bit embarassing. But the result was the same-Johnny Miller won the Tucson Open Golf Tournament. 'I almost felt guilty about it," Miller said Sunday after he scored his third consecutive victory in this event. "You know, I think the gallery might like to see somebody else win.'

That point was brought home to him when the All-American boy-a nondrinker, nonsmoker, family man, and church worker-got some heckling for the first time in his career.

'It didn't bother me," Miller said. 'You know, this is supposed to be a gentleman's game. But now we get all kinds in the gallery. Maybe it's even a Good thing or not, it had absolutely no effect as the placid Miller calmly and quietly put together a charging. four-under-par 68 that lifted him three strokes clear of the field with a 274 total, 14 under par on the 7,200-yard Tucson National Golf Club course.

3rd straight Tucson crown

The victory-in sharp contrast to his front-running, record-setting triumphs of 1974 and 1975-enabled him to become the first man to win the same event three times in a row since Jack Nicklaus took his third Disney Open title in 1973. The record is four in a row, set by Walter Hagen in the PGA National Championship in the

"That was one of my goals for the year," Miller said. "I wanted to win one of them three times in a row."

He has a chance for a second triple this week. The tour now moves on the Phoenix. And Miller, bubbling with confidence, has won that one for the past two seasons, too. He's now won a stunning five consecutive Arizona events and is shooting for No. 6.

He doesn't have to win there to achieve another goal. The $40,000 he collected in Tucson pushed his career winnings to $987,192. He could finish third in Phoenix and go past $1

"That's another goal," Miller said. "If I could do it, I'd be the youngest ever to win $1 million."

Miller is 28. Nicklaus was 30 when he went past the $1 million mark in "That would be important," Miller continued. "I think of things in terms of age. I don't compare myself to Nicklaus, I compare myself to guys who are 27 or 28 years old.

"I'm just getting to my prime. I'm not at my peak yet. I should reach that in about five years, when I'm in my early or middle 30s.'

North topples South

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) - A pair of National Football League coaches were a little surprised at the offensive efficiency generated in Sunday's Senior Bowl football battle in which Craig Penrose pitched the North to a 42-35 victory over the South.

Penrose, a star at San Diego State, brought the North attack to life with a trio of third period touchdown marches as the Yanks surged to a 42-28 lead after trailing 21-7 at one point.

Penrose, named the game's most valuable player, hit on 12 of 15 passes for 303 yards and three touchdowns, be the winning score when Penrose and Wyoming's Larry Gaines combined on a 73yard scoring play, with Gaines taking the pass in traffic at his 40, popping clear and outrunning everybody to the end zone.

Gaines earlier had scored the tying touchdown on a threeyard plunge after Penrose set it up with passes of 31 and 29 yards.

The other North scoring came on passes of 27 and nine yards from Toledo's Gene Swick to Joe Smalzer of Illinois.

Richard Todd of Alabama triggered the Rebel offense by passing for 332 yards and two touchdowns, an 82yarder to Texas A&M's Bubba Bean in the opening quarter and a 15yarder to Sammie White of Grambling with only five seconds left in the game.

The other three South scores came on one-yard plunges by Florida's Jimmy DuBose, named his team's outstanding offensive player.

Nevada-Las Vegas keeps on winning

By The Associated Press

Jerry Tarkanian moved out of Southern California because he didn't like the climate. The air was fresher in Nevada, he decided.

Nevada-Las Vegas was his next stop, but people questioned the wisdom of that decision. Nevada-Las Vegas? A good place to gamble, but bad to play basketball, was the consensus opinion

However, everything Tarkanian touches turns to gold, it seems-even material in the Nevada desert, and currently the Rebels have the best record among major schools in the

"We didn't play too good today." Tarkanian said almost apologetically after his fifthranked team beat lowa State 88-82 Saturday

It was the 16th triumph this season for the undefeated Rebels, although not their most artistic. Hapless Iowa State is winless in 12 games.

"For us to be a good team, we've got to utilize our quickness," Tarkanian said. "We're tired mentally tired. This is our 17th game, counting an exhibition with the Yugoslavian team, and it's only the sixth week of the season.

Before building Nevada-Las Vegas into one of college basketball's superpowers, Tarkanian had done the same at Long Beach State. Tarkanian left Long Beach in the midst of an NCAA investigation of recruiting violations at the school.

While Nevada-Las Vegas continued to win, two of the nation's Top Ten teams were unceremoniously beaten by supposedly lesser opponents. Secondranked Maryland was upset 9693 by No. 7 Wake Forest and thirdranked UCLA was stunned 75-58 by unheralded Oregon State.

Elsewhere in the Top Ten. No. 1 Indiana defeated 19thranked Michigan 80-74; No. 4 Marquette whipped Oklahoma City 71-60; sixthranked North Carolina turned back Virginia 85-82; No. 8 Washington stopped Stanford 87-81; No. 9 Tennessee nudged Kentucky 90-88 in overtime, and 10th-ranked Alabama nipped Auburn 63-62.

In other games, No. 11 North Carolina State beat Rollins 77-75: 12th-rated Rutgers walloped Fordham 93-55; 13th-ranked Notre Dame outscored Manhattan 88-71; No. 14 St. John's whipped Temple 70-63; No. 15 Cincinnati outlasted Eastern Kentucky 73-66; Providence upset No. 16 Louisville 63-60; Iowa shocked 17thranked Minnesota 71-68, and 18thranked Southern Cal was upset by Oregon 77-72.

Sam Smith and Eddie Owens sparked a rally midway through the second half as Nevada-Las Vegas held off Iowa State. Nevada-Las Vegas trailed 66-64 midway through the second half when Smith scored on two long jump shots and stole an inanother basket and a 70-66 lead with 9:30 remaining.

Iowa State, which trailed by as many as nine points in the first half, never led again but stayed close and trailed by four points with 2:15 remaining.

"You can't take anything away from them," said Tarkanian, lavishing praise on his opponents. "They surely played us well all the way and gave us fits on the boards." Oregon State's Lonnie Shelton scored 20 points as the Beavers upset UCLA on the heels of another shocker over Southern Cal. Oregon State whipped the Trojans 80-70 Thursday

The Beavers took an 8-7 lead after 21/2 minutes and never frailed. Shelton sat out 13 minutes of the rst half with three fouls but playe the entire second half. George Tucker added 11 points while directing a patient of-

Richard Washington, UCLA's All-American forward, led all scorers with 21 points. Andre McCarter scored 15 for the Bruins, now 1-1 in the Pac-8 and 11-2 over-all.

"This is the greatest victory of my career." said Oregon State Coach Ralph Miller. "It was probably the greatest defensive game we've had in a long, long time. We kept them shooting from the outside and it had to be one of our best games on the backboards. According to our plan, we had to outdefense them. And we thought we could run with them and score.'

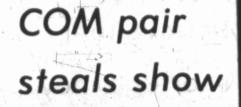

Wake Forest used clutch free throws by Skip Brown and Rod Griffin to hold off a last-minute Maryland rally and defeat the Terps. The Deacons' triumph, their third of the season over nationally-ranked opponents, came despite a 34-point effort by Maryland's John Lucas. Wake Forest beat North Carolina State and

Kent Benson scored 33 points leading Indiana past Michigan. The 6foot-11 center scored 18 of his points in the first half, when the Hoosiers took a 36-33 halftime lead, then helped them hold off a Wolverines charge later in the game. The victory was Indiana's 42nd straight in regular season competition and its 22nd in a row in the Big Ten. Marquette got 23 points from Earl Tatum and 17 from Bo Ellis in beating Oklahoma City handily. The outside shooting of Phil Ford and John Kuester late in the first half cracked Virginia's zone defense and North Carolina hung on to beat the Cavaliers.

"I think they're a contender in the Atlantic Coast Conference right now," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith. "At least I hope they are because if they aren't, we aren't

DALLAS (AP) Southwest Conference officials and possibly the National Collegiate Athletic Association are investigating the University of Arkansas football program, the Dallas Morning News said today

Evert pockets $50,000 check in net finals

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - America's Chris Evert passed her own tennis mental test and has a Texas-sized check to prove it.

The world's No. 1-ranked woman's tennis player blunted a relentless rally by Evonne Goolagong of Australia Sunday in defending her of Women's Tennis.

Miss Evert, 21, won the $50,000 first prize-the biggest in women's athletics-by defeating Miss Goolagong, 6-3, 7-6. Prior to the nationally televised championship match at nearby Lakeway resort, Miss Evert had said, "Mentally, it's tougher for me to play Evonne than any other player. But after she had exhibited her new style of rushing the net more and had taken advantage of numerous errors by Miss Goolagong, the champion said, "I don't think I'm afraid of her (anymore). I had placed her on a pedestal, because she's so great. The victory gave Miss Evert a 14-9 career record over Miss Goolagong, who once had led in their competion, but Miss Goolagong said, 'When I play really well, I know I can beat Chris. I still believe it.

For finishing second, Miss Goolagong, 24, won

Miss Evert ignored a crowd- many of whom were bundled in blankets-that favored the erratic Aussie in capturing the first set without much difficulty. Miss Goolagong, however, led 6-5 in the second set and could have won the match with a single shot.

Miss Goolagong double-faulted, however, and Miss Evert topped a soft backhand over the net to tie the score at 6-6

Miss Evert captured the bestof-nine tiebreaker 5-2, and the set 7-6. She said Miss Goolagong would play "great" and then "sloppy," and "I told myself, 'Stay in there and don't let up." "I'm taking more chances, rushing the net more and the results are much better," said Miss Evert, who has the reputation of methodically stroking returns from the baseline. In the third-place match, Martina

Navratilova, 19, who defected from Czechoslovakia last August, defeated Virginia Wade of Great Britain, 7-6, 6-0. "I was freezing-my muscles were stiff," said Miss Navratilova, who donned warmup pants at 3-2 in the first set. She said Miss Wade, 30, had a chance to win the first set, but "she gets too upset ... and chokes." Miss Navratilova won $15,000 and Miss Wade

Serious fuel shortage may not develop

TULSA, Okla. - The U. S. will be spared serious fuel shortages this Supplies and stocks of heating fuels will remain adequate even if the rest of the winter is abnormally cold, the Oil and Gas Journal reports in its Jan. 12 issue.

Warmer-than-normal weather in the fourth quarter of 1975 and slack demand from utilities and industry are prime reasons for the excellent mid-January fuels position.

Spare domestic refining and processing capacity also is available to boost production if needed. And, fuel imports can be stepped up sharply to meet any threatened emergency, the weekly business magazine says.

Large natural-gas pipelines and distributors say their deliveries are holding up well despite record demand in some regions. This, the Journal says, is due to curtailments of interruptible customers and a mild fall that allowed good buildup of underground storage.

The U.S. generally is experiencing its third consecutive warmer-thannormal winter. This allowed a 10.6 per cent drop in heating demand for distillate and residual fuels in the fouth quarter compared with 1974. Demand was down 5.6 per cent for LP-gas and about 3 per cent for natural gas.

Assuming normal weather, heating demand in the first quarter forecast call for increases of 3.5 per cent for distillate use, 3.3 per cent for residual and 2.7 per cent for LP-gas.

If this demand materializes, it will be near the highest levels for each fuel for the last 3 years.

Industry and utility demand also has been slack. Utilities have used 4.4 per cent less distillate and 6.2 per cent les residual this season. Industry's cutback has been 4 per cent for distillate and a whopping 29.5 per cent for residual. Both reflect depressed economic activity.

Utility demand for distillate still is expected to be off 4.4 per cent in the first quarter and 10.4 per cent for residual. But industry demand for distillate should rise by 17.8 per cent and remain steady for residual.

LP-gas has been hit by a 6.1 per cent decline in demand for petrochemical feedstocks. An increase of 10.3 per cent, however, is forecast for the first quarter, the Journal says.

As for natural gas, utilities say they can continue to maintain increased deliveries to firm customers mostly on the strength of greater withdrawals from storage. Above-normal temperatures forecast the rest of winter for Midwest and Eastern Seaboard population centers also will

Several natural gas companies reported record sendouts during the winter's first severe cold wave in late December. And some interstate pipeline officials said these records likely never will be surpassed because of dwindling gas supply.

Pipeline officials, however, caution that the U.S. can not continue to count on mild winters and periods of economic recession to escape future gas-supply shortages.

Chaves test rate shows

A gas discovery has been indicated in Chaves County, N.M., with the flowing of gas and recovery of shows on a drillstem test at Maralo, Inc., Midland, No. 2 Butler Springs, 17 miles northeast of Lake Arthur.

It surfaced gas in 15 minutes on the test taken from 9,260-9,490 feet, on which the tool was open five hours. It flowed initially, at the rate of 450,000 cubic feet per day, decreasing to 350,000 cubic feet per day during the last hour of the test.

The sample chamber recovery was .8 cubic foot of gas and 320 cubic centimeters of drilling mud.

Energy assessments sees more oil imports

WASHINGTON - The same bleak assessments are being made about the energy outlook for this year as for last, no matter who is making them.

Take your choice: the Library of Congress, part scholarly and part liberal view; the energy advisers to a handful of states, presumably a more independent view; the economists and managers of the major oil companies, conservative defenders of the business view. No matter. They're all saying the same things.

"Domestic oil production is still going down at an annual rate of 400,000 barrels a day, however you look at it." says Robert O. Anderson, chairman of the Atlantic Richfield Oil Corp. and an astute analyst of the energy picture. "The only thing that can take the place of domestic oil is foreign oil, which means rising imports for the next five years."

Or longer. Anderson believes the United States will be importing 9 million barrels of oil every day by 1980, almost 50 per cent more than the nation imported in 1975. The Library of Congress puts imports closer to 10 million barrels a day in 1980. Exxon's economists top them both. They think imports will be more than 10 million barrels a day by then.

The United States paid out more than $75 million a day for imported oil last year, a figure that is expected to grow to almost $100 million a day this year. And next year, more than $100 million. By 1980, as much as $150 million - and that assumes that worldwide oil prices don't go up again from the current $14 the United States is paying for a barrel of delivered oil.

Increased reliance on foreign oil could affect the nation's leverage in foreign policy," the Library of Congress warned in a recent report.

ENERGY

"Energy may well become the 'Achilles heel' of U.S. foreign policy the same way agricultural shortages are for the Soviet Union."

Why such a gloomy forecast? Isn't the Alaskan pipeline due to deliver domestic oil late next year? Yes. But while it is true that Alaska will be piping down to the lower 48 states up to 2 million barrels of oil a day by 1980, that amount, at best, will make up the difference lost by the dwindling fields of Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana.

Worse still, the United States is becoming more and more dependent on oil for its energy. Americans banked on oil for 46 per cent of their energy needs last year, up from 44 per cent less than five years ago. Our dependence on oil is on the rise, partly because coal is still hard to mine and harder to burn and partly because domestic natural gas fields are declining at twice the rate that our oil fields are disappearing.

One reason the natural gas shortage isn't already worse is that many gas users switched to oil last year. Farmers used diesel oil to drive their irrigation pumps, factories switched to heating oil for furnace fuel and many users who couldn't use oil turned to higher-priced bottled gas (propane).

'We've exchanged our natural gas shortage for more reliance on oil," said Jack O'Leary, onetime energy director for the Mitre Corp. and now energy adviser to New Mexico. "This means more imports because that's where the oil is.

Another reason oil use continues to grow is the disappointing performance of coal, the most abundant energy source in the United States. The final statistics aren't in yet, but energy users estimate that coal consumption grew by no more than 3 per cent in 1975 after being touted as our prime alternate fuel.

The reasons for coal's lack of lustre are the same reasons coal has been declining for the last two decades. It is hard to mine, partly because of mine safety laws and rules against strip mining. It is hard to burn cleanly, mostly because nobody has found an economical way of removing the sulfur and scoot exhausted through the smokestack by burning

There is little likelihood that coal will better itself in the years just ahead. Typical of coal's problems was the postponement last month of a $3.5 billion coal-fired plant in Utah that would have supplied 3 million kilowatts of electricity to southern California. The construction delay is for at least a year and was called in part because of coal's clean air dif-

Nuclear power has been beset by some of the same troubles as coal. The money shortage has forced postponement of dozens of atomic power plants, each of which cost $1 billion to build. Many of those that have not been set back by money problems have been stoppped by intervenors, battling in the courts over questions that range from safety of operation to safeguards against diversion of plutonium to make weapons.

Synthetic fuels would ease the growing pressures to burn more oil but synthetic fuels are at least 10 years away, he Energy Research and Development Administration has a $6 billion synthetic fuels program in the works, but at best it is expected to produce the oil equivalent of no more than 350,000 barrels a day by 1985.

There is a rising enthusiasm for solar and geothermal energy, but nobody has learned how to use either one in the regions of the nation where energy use is most critical. The sun doesn't shine too often in the wintertime in the northeast and the only parts of the country that have usable buried heat are a handful of unpopulated western states.

It all sounds bleak and indeed it is. But there is little urgency to brighten things, mostly because houses are warm and there is gasoline in the pumps. But if the Arabs choose to call another embargo the way they did two years ago houses will be cold and as many as one third of the gasoline pumps in the country will be dry. The cost to the economy would be stagger-

Small strike is potentialed

A small Pennsylvanian oil pay opener has been completed in the Hackberry Creek (Canyon) gas field of Edwards County, 12 miles east of Rocksprings.

Pierce & Dehlinger, Midland, No. 1 Hyde gauged a 24-hour flowing potential of four barrels of 34-gravity oil and four-tenths of a barrel of water, with gas-oil ratio of 1.25-1.

Production was through an unreported choke and perforations at 4,247-4,318 feet, which had been acidized with 1,250 gallons and fractured with 38,000 gallons and 36,875 pounds of sand.

Location is 1,806 feet from south and 2.235 feet from east lines of section 60, block 1, GWT&P survey, abstract It was drilled to 4,900 feet, and has

Parker to dig Alaska projects

TULSA - Parker Drilling Co. has been selected by The Louisiana Land and Exploration Co. of New Orleans to drill four exploratory wells in the Kandik Basin of East Alaska.

R. L. Parker, president, said a specially designed arctic TBA 2000 rig has been assembled and is en route to the site which is about 150 miles northeast of Fairbanks.

The rig is being shipped by truck to Fairbanks and will be moved by Hercules aircraft to the first well site, Parker said, and the initial well will be spudded late this month. Helicopters may be used to transport the rig to subsequent well locations.

The Kandik Basin, a large sedimentary basin, is one of the few remianing unexplored onshore areas in Alaska, encompassing more than 3 million acres. Louisiana Land acquired exploratory rights from Doyon, Ltd., a regional corporation established to own and administer land returned to the natives of Alaska under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act. About two years will be required to drill the four projects, according to

"We now have seven rigs in operation on the North Slope and one operating offshore in the Cook Inlet," he said, "and we are excited about this opportunity to participate in exploratory efforts in the vast interior

Casa de Amigos needs program volunteers

Casa de Amigos, a nondenominational service center in Northeast Midland, is sounding an appeal for volunteers to staff its spring tutoring program.

The tutorial effort, for children in need of assistance in academic subjects, will begin Jan. 19 at at the organization's "Casa de Ninos," 906 N. Dallas St., continuing weekly until early May.

During the fall semester, Casa de Amigos had 20 children enrolled in the tutoring program who were helped to measurable degree by the project. Since the program is on a one-to-one basis (one tutor to one child), the need for volunteer teachers is sizeable, points out Marcia Ingram, Casa de Amigos' director. At the present time, the organization has approximately a dozen children on a waiting list for the academic assistance, who cannot be

Stock market continues slow, steady advances

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market advanced gradually today, adding to its dramatic gains since the start of 1976.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 2.76 at 913.89 on top of a 58.72 jump over the first six sessions of the new year. Gainers out-distanced losers by about a 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange. Brokers noted that buying interest was being fed by a continued flow of favorable economic news. A quarterpoint cut in the bank prime lending rate to 7 per cent spread further in the industry today, for example, and there were predictions that the basic rate on business loans would soon go to 6% per cent or even lower.

Citicorp dropped 14 to 294 in heavy trading and Chase Manhattan fell 11/4 to 2716. The Washington Post reported Sunday that the Publication notes Basin oil boom

By DEBBIE PIERCE

Petroleum and natural gas resources are running short in most parts of the United States but, since the supplies are abundant in the Permian Basin, the area looks attractive for still more industry.

This conclusion was drawn in the November issue of Scene magazine, published 11 times per year for em-ployes of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Four pages in the publication were devoted to a discussion of the oil boom in the Midland-Odessa area.

According to the magazine, a boom is going on throughout the Permian Basin but is especially notable in Midland and Odessa, the largest cities in this area.

"Imagine a place where newcomers — even those with plenty of money - have a problem trying to find a vacant house to buy or an apartment to rent," the magazine said. "Where businessmen have difficulty locating enough people who are willing to take good jobs at good wages. It's almost as if this part of the world were still living in the 1950s." The article explained that the Permian Basin was not doing much better than the rest of the country until the 1973 Arab oil embargo, when the demand for domestic oil ros sharply. And the region just happens to have that oil.

'This year the number of rigs in use in any given week has averaged well over 250," the magazine reported. Using a ratio of 150 people per rig, as recommended by The Reporter-Telegram's oil editor Joe Salmon, a total of 37,500 people are working at jobs they wouldn't have otherwise.

Unemployment averages about three per cent, compared to eight per cent or higher in many industrial centers. People skilled in drilling, refining and petrochemical manufacturing are steadily pouring into the area, while wages are creeping upward.

The article reported that in Cash taken in burglary

J. R. Bowen, of 3700 Thompson St., told police his home was burglarized early Saturday and that a money bag containing $200 in cash was taken.

Bowen told police he had put the money in the headboard of the bed.

Entry was gained through the bathroom window, police said, and the burglar had used a pipe to break the glass.

Midland, division headquarters for a dozen oil companies, the average family income is over $26,000, about double that of the U.S. as a whole.

What this means to Southwestern Bell, serving Midland, Odessa and over 30 other exchanges in the Permian Basin, is a great increase of business. So much, in fact, that planners are wondering "if the demand will ever slack off so they can catch their breath," according to the magazine.

Homes which used to have a single telephone line and a couple of ex-tensions now have added a second line for the children.

John Horton, Midland-Odessa district engineer, said two reasons exist for the great increase in the number of main phone lines in Midland from 1974 to 1975. "One reason is all the Deb.ADD 2 / new apartment units going up; we'll probably double the present number within the next two years. The other reason is the incredibly large demand for new business services," he said.

Wade Crews, marketing department account executive, sold 191 WATS lines in the Midland district during a special five-month sale campaign and said there is a great demand for the special lines.

He said, "I sold lines to retail shoe dealers, pottery manufacturers. cotton brokers and auto dealers, but about 65 per cent of my sales were to oil-related industries. Crews noted that a drilling company operating over a five-state area may have employes doing just one thing all day - using the phone to collect reports on drilling progress. And companies headquartered here are reaching out to other states trying to locate oil.

The article reported Bell is expanding its technical facilities to meet this onrushing demand. A new No. 1

DAN McDONALD DALLAS, Tex. (AP) - A former

East Coast Mafia chieftain recently described Texas as "a great big watermelon ripe for the plucking." Law enforcement officers across the state agree. Indeed, the pluckers have arrived, some on a large scale.

The Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council is the agency established to combat the state's organized crime. Last year, the group identified 163 men in Texas as associates of Mafia members.

Of these, 32 were identified as past or present members of the Mafia. FRANK DYSON, director of the Austin-based state crime council, says: "There is no question in my mind that Texas is ripe for organized crime influence. The presence of organized crime will ultimately mean corruption, possible violence and increased economic burden on citizens through higher taxes, higher consumer costs. The potential for organized crime is great and we must act immediately to stem its growth." The Associated Press began its probe of organized crime with two days of interviews with a former Mafia

The fat man presided at dinner with a rough elegance born of street power and money

HE SPOKE of the good life: Good food, big cars, thoroughbred women. It was the kind of life protected in part by the .38 caliber pistol hidden beneath his red dinner napkin.

The meal was delicious. The wine was excellent. But this was no clam house in Little Italy in New York City. Instead, it was a hotel club in one of Texas' largest cities, operated by the former East Coast Mafia lord. The former Mafia leader agreed to an interview with The Associated Press about Texas' organized crime, but would not allow his identity to be disclosed. In this story his pseudonym will be "Mr. Angelo."

HE ASSUMED he left the Mafia behind when he came to Texas but he soon learned the Mafia already was here, he said.

Mafia men carry no membership cards. They wear no fraternal rings and they don't give out Man of the Year awards. Generally, their names are not among directors of banks or hospitals.

They can cloak their activities in legitimate bussinesses through which they "wash"-report as legal incomemoney earned in narcotics trade, loan sharking, prostitution and gambling. They only kind of contracts in these lucrative enterprises are blood war-

ACCORDING TO Mr. Angelo, West Coast mafiose are moving into Texas, claiming-jumping on a New Orleansbased "family." Much of what Mr. Angelo said cannot be substantiated. "If we could do that, these people would be in jail and their enterprises would be stopped," said Dyson. "We are aware of some contacts between organized crime figures and some businessmen in Texas, however,, we are unable to draw any conslusive inferences from these contacts in terms of illegal activities."

Mr. Angelo said hoodlums "are getting ready for the day when gambling is legalized in Texas. It'll come just like booze did." He said masive land holdings-mostly in West Texasrepresent economic power with which "the mob" can finance race tracks, casinos, brothers and clubs.

"HELL, YOU name it. But remember. The key to success is getting the right people in your pocket. You have to do it," said Mr. Angelo.

He said he was approached by a high-place state official soon after his arrival in Texas. "This guy says if the mob would put up the money and whatever to get him elected governor, he'd turn the state over to them. I'm not in that kind of business any more. I threw the SOB out. I checked on him, thjough. He's already got dirty hands. He's into some pretty big drug operations.'

MR. ANGELOO said former New York mobster Joseph "Joe Bananas"Bonanno, now living in Tucson, Ariz., had flown to El Paso frequently to visit his son, Joseph Charles Bonanno. The younger Bonnano was serving a federal prison term for extortion and conspiracy. "He was visiting the kid," said Mr. Angelo, "but he was talking business with people, too. Joe's not out of ac-

Federal authorities confirmed young Bonanno was transferred last summer from the El Paso prison to Terminal Island, Calif., to complete his sentence. They confirmed that Bonanno Sr. visited frequently.

CRIMINAL ORGANIZATION in Texas is not new. But its proliferation is the current worry of law enforcement officers. The late Sam Maceo controlled organized crime in the Galveston area during the 1940s. In those days, Galveston was a neon light on the sea-shore. Postoffice Street was lined with bordellos.

Texas Rangers, led by Clint Peoples, now U.S. marshal, and his wife, closed down the Maceo-owned Balinese Room Casino in the mid1950s. Asked why he hadn't done the job himself, late Sheriff Frank Biaggne dryly remarked: "They wouldn't let me in. I wasn't a member.

IN THE EARLY 1960s, Biaggio Angelica was convicted in Galveston of fire-bombing a clinic at nearbt High Island in what authorities termed a noarcotics dispute. Angelica was reputed a Mafia underling transplanted from New York to Houston.

Mr. Angelo said a Mafia family controls an out-of-state real estate company which operates a Texas land development company. The AP confirmed both companies exist, but was unable otherwise to corroborate Mr. Angelo's claim.

Mr. Angelo said New Orleans Mafia kingpin Carlos "Little Man" Marcello is "mixed up" with the Mafia family. itself based out of state, which has the real estate company. The connection, he said, is in ownership of a Dallas

DALLAS POLICE confirmed Marcello always stays at the hotel when he visits Dallas.

Mr. Angelo said the hotel's linen service also is a Mafia front, reporting illicit income as ligitimate income. An advertising executive who has done business with the land development company said, "Frankly, I'm afraid of them. They have acted rather sinister and shady with us. We're not doing any more business with them."

The executive said he, too, knew of a connection between the development company and the real estate.

The late Joe Civello of Dallas was among the 63 hoods arrested in 1957 at the infamous Apalachin Conference in upstate New York. Civello, operator of a food and liquor import business, was given five years for conspiracy to thwart justice. Judge Irving R. Kaufman called him a "high ranking criminal who cloaked himself with the facade of legitimate business."

MR. ANGELO said Civello's death left a vacuum which Marcello tried to fill. But not without its consequences. Marcello was arrested in 1966 at the LaStella Restaurant in Queens in New York City at a so-called "Little Apalachin Conference." With him at dinner were Carlo Gambino, Joe Columbo, since vegetabilized with a bullet in his brain, and Florida's Santo Trafficante, all wellknown Mafia

Mr. Angelo-said Marcello's expansion stepped on the toes of a crime family in Dallas. "The information I have is they're getting up tight with Marcello. If he don't back off, there's gonna be a war."

He said the Dallas family has East Coast origins but came to Texas to establish its own minikingdom. Dallas police dismiss such an idea.

MASSAGE PARLORS, gambling and narcotics traffic have blossomed in Dallas, San Antonio and Houston in recent years. A prostitute at one of the Dallas parlors said her boss was a man who came around to pick up money. He carried a gun and a briefcase filled with cash.

Investigation showed the man was a partner in a Dallas health club which filed for bankruptcy in Beaumont, Tex. in 1972 and which was not registered with the secretary of state. "I don't think he was the real boss," the prostitute said. "But I was afraid of him. I think he delivered the money to somebody else. ONLY RECENTLY, the FBI in Dallas broke up what it called one of the biggest gambling networks in the Police discount the likelihood of conflict between Marcello and the Dallas crime faction. At a Dallas party early last year, police observed Marcello emissaries.

"There were seven or eight guys from New Orleans, Marcello's people. They wouldn't be so lovey-dovey if they were fixing to get it on," said a Dallas police intelligence officer.

SIX MEN were convicted last January in Dallas of bookmaking, an operation police said grossed $2,000 a day. One of them was Anthony Paul Diodone, 52.

"I knew him by another name," said Mr. Angelo. He would not elaborate.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill has filed suit to halt operations in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Pelican Tomato Co., a company operated by the Marcello family. The suit named Joseph Marcello Jr., Joseph Saldino, Paul Saldino, Jim Saldino and Joseph Matassa

"I DID NOTsend a task force down there," Hill said. "In connection with our work on the Pelican Tomato case. it turned out there were Mafia connec-"They are no longer doing business.

The two lawyers working on the case suggested there was some evidence of underworld figures involving themselves in real estate transactions in the Padre Island area.

"As soon as we find the time and the manpower we do intend to pick up that investigation a little later and do a more exhaustive investigation than we have done to date," Hill said.

DYSON SAID he is aware "that the U.S. Departmen. of Justice...and the Texas attorney general's office was exploring a possible connection between Carlos Marcello and various enterprises in South Texas which may or may not be illegal.'

Who is Carlos Marcello? Marcello is a short, squat czar with trappings of vanity. His 6,500-acre Churchill Farms estate outside New Orleans was once described as being worth more than $60 million. "I sure do hope so," Marcello cracked. Stories about him as godfather of New Orleans are legion. They include gifts of $10,000 to a kid selling Girl Scout cookies and $100,000 to hurricane victims. EACH OF THE bridesmaids at his daughter's wedding received a mink stole from the "Little Man."

Dyson said, "Intelligence reports in 1974 indicated that a Mafia or Cosa Nostra family based in Louisiana had associations with individuals living in Brownsville, Dallas, Houston and San Antonio. There was no evidence, however, that these persons in Texas were anything more than associates as opposed to members..."

Marcello sometimes describes himself as an "investor."

A New Orleans judge says there is nothing indiscreet about his friendship with Marcello. "We don't discuss cases. We just barbecue goats on a spit. There is nothing sinister about our relationship," the judge has been quoted. "Carlos Marcello needs a fix in municipal court like Rockefeller needs to steal pennies."

LAST DECEMBER, the San Antonio Express reported that anyone with the right connections can find expensive call girls in the Alamo City. The connections include the socially and politically prominent, and high level law enforcement officers, the newspaper said.

Mr. Angelo said, "I'll tell you about so-called upper class people. Usually they're involved in decent things, legal things. But around here there are so many people mixed up in corrupt stuff it's unreal. They really throw their money around. A prominent stockbroker came to me and on the other side of the fence again, Texas would be a great big watermelon."

"An inadequate informationgathering system in Texas leaves us only the crudest of approaches-guessing," he

MR. ANGELO claimed he went "legit" after breaking with the Mafia. He has since left Texas and return-valued at nearly $500,000.

TAB Installation set at Wednesday session

The installation of officers and directors of the Central Basin and Odessa chapters, Texas Association of Business, for 1976 will highlight a luncheon session of the two groups scheduled Wednesday noon at Ranchland Hill Country Club here.

Following lunch and installation of officers, Houston, L.W. "Bill" Gray, association president, and David T. Shirey of Greenville , chairman of the state organization, will present its Legislative Program and Plan of Action for 1976.

Texas Association of Business, until Jan. 1 of this year, had been known for 53 years as Texas Manufacturers Association. A spokesman for the association said the name was changed to better reflect the membership and purpose of the organization. Its purpose — building a better business climate for business and industry in Texas - will remain the same.

Approximately 6,000 business executives are represented by the association which maintains offices in Midland, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Tyler and Austin. Executive headquarters are located in Houston.

Officers, directors and committee chairmen of the Midland-based Central Basin Chapter to be installed include Doug Henson, chairman; Cecil Bybee, vice chairman-director; Ralph Nelson, secretary-treasurer; Jim Allison Jr., public affairs chairman; H.D. Sutterlin, public relations chairman; James Elain, industrial relations chairman; James L. Kent, director; Barry S. Welton, state membership chairman; Harry W. Clark, director-at-large, and Stanley C. Moore, senior council member. The Odessa Chapter has the following officers, directors and chairmen: Attieson Halbrook, chairman; Bill D. Chandler, vice chairman-director; George Haley, secretary-treasurer; Ed Barham, public affairs chairman; Walter Weaver, public relations chairman: Dean C. Hamilton, industrial relations chairman; B.C. Bell, director; O.R. Clements, director-atlarge, and Norvell W. Harris, senior council member.

White wants all

Texans represented

AUSTIN - State Rep. John C. White, state campaign chairman for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's presidential race, has announced a "grass roots" drive for full representation of all groups of Texas voters in the eventual selection of primary delegates. "We want a final list of delegates committeed to Sen. Bentsen who will fairly and equitably represent all ethnic, social and economic groups in Texas," White said. He noted that delegate selection commissions will be named and delegates selected in all 31 Texas senatorial districts within the next several weeks. White urged interested Texans to contact Sen. Bentsen's headquarters, P. O. Box 1708, Austin, 78767, if they want to participate in the presidential primary process at any level.

Tank battery catches fire

A tank battery owned by U. S. Smelting, Refining and Mining Co., caught fire at 1:45 a.m. Sunday, firemen said, due to a malfunction in the heater treater.

Firemen said the tank battery is 21 miles north on Tas 349, one mile east and three miles south of Midland. When they arrived, they said, the vent of the heater treater was burning and some crude oil on the ground was The heater treater sustained slight damage, firemen said.

Auction sale tops $35,000

ODESSA-The Sand Hills auction sale of the top 40 Hereford steers and the top 40 lambs of the show brought a record figure of $35,809.50 Friday afternoon in Ector County Coliseum.

The 40 steers sold brought in $29,575.10, which included the $4,500 paid for the champion and reserve champion. The average price, including the champions, was 78.48 cents per pound.

The total price paid for the 40 lambs was $6,234.41, which included the $800 paid for the champion and reserve champion. The average price was $1.52 per pound, including the champions.

Cody Everett of Big Lake pocketed $300 for the sale of his reserve champion lamb. This was his first stock show. Another Reagan County resident,

Danny Kirkpatrick, sold his lamb to Furr's Inc.for $143.33. Kathy Knox of Midland sold two animals in the steer auction, one to Pauline Slator of Odessa for $603.75 and another to Clay Wood for $577.50. Bo Estes of Midland sold his steer to Armor Cote for $617.90.

Other sales in the steer auction included $615 to Charlesa Tom from Broncho Chevrolet and $710 to Tana Yates from KOSA-TV. Both girls are from Martin County. Nae Harris of Dawson County sold a steer to Electric Service and Supply for $662.40, and Doug Crider of Crane County made $632.70 on the sale of his steer to Main LaFrenz and Co.

The total money paid at the auction was up almost $4,000 over last year when buyers paid out $31,970 for the 80 animals.

McAlmon to run for Congress

EL PASO - George McAlmon, an El Paso Democrat, has announced his candidacy for congressman from the 16th District of Texas. McAlmon will be seeking to unseat incumbent Democrat John C. White. Although the newly announced candidate has served four years as county Democratic chairman, this is his first bid for public office.

McAlmon, 49, is a graduate of The University of Texas Law School and was admitted to the State Bar in 1951. He has been in private legal practice since that time except for three years when he served as assistant city at-

The El Paso Democrat said he will base his campaign on "a "a people-to-people approach, learning first-hand what my district thinks about the problems in America.... Then, I intend to make those wishes and needs known loud and clear in Washington." McAlmon listed among his special concerns eradication of wasteful federal spending, inflation, unemployment, less regulation of individuals and small husinesses, elimination of "extravagant" tax subsidies that favor the "super rich" and large corporations, and awareness of the needs of the aqing.

Freedom Train layover prompts postal offering

U.S. Postal Service clerks will be cancelling postage stamps with a commemorative cachet (seal) at site of the Freedom Train's Feb. 6-9 layover on a Texas & Pacific Railway spur at Midland Air Terminal, Postmaster David Holster said.

Tower recommends new U.S. attorney

DALLAS (AP) — Michael Carnes, 31, an assistant U.S. attorney, will be recommended to President Ford as a replacement for Frank McCown, retiring U.S. attorney for the Northern District of Texas. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said he will recommend Carnes.

Tower added he thinks that Carnes, a graduate of the University of Texas School of Law, is "eminently qualified" for the job.

McCown announced his resignation in December, effective next month, when he will return to private law practice.

Carnes, a native of San Antonio, has been with the Department of Justice since 1969. In December he was named chief of the criminal division of the Dallas U.S. attorney's office.

"I am delighted to recommend this able young man to the Department of Justice," Tower said. The northern district covers 100 counties with divisions in Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene, San Angelo, Amarillo, Wichita Falls and Lubbock.

Bridge unit elects Gifford president

Al Gifford of Midland Sunday was elected president of the Greater Permian Basin Dublicate Bridge Unit 209 of the American Contract Bridge

Larry Anderson of Kermit was voted vice president, and T. D. Branch of Midland was elected secretary-treasurer.

Directors elected to represent the Permine Basin Duplicate Bridge Club include Mrs. James N. Allison, Mrs. Joel Smith and Jack Cambden. The unit voted to hold the Gran National Team Trial Championships (District 16) Jan. 31 in the Community Center at Andrews. The two-session event will begin at 1 p. m. Registration is scheduled for 12:30.

WASHINGTON (AP) -A new study sponsored by the Veterans Administration argues that education benefits under the GI bill should continue to be paid to veterans rather than go directly to schools.

Congress is considering legislation that would require GI education benefits to be paid directly to the schools to assure that the money is used for education rather than for unauthorized

A 223-page Veterans Administration study was made by the VA administrator's education and rehabilitation advisory committee headed by William M. Detweiler, Vietnam veteran and New Orleans attorney. Several of the 10 members are educators.

The committee sent questionnaries to 8,000 veterans and dependents going to school under the GI bill, and 5,912 sent usable responses which brought the finding that 19 of 20 prefer the present system of providing flat illowances to veterans directly.

The committee, in recommending that no change be made, said it "has the highest respect for the veteran's right to bargain for the educational institution of his choice and believes that the American taxpayer is the direct beneficiary of the veteran's conscientious spending of our tax dollars."

The committee, while finding that tuition cost was not the main factor in selection of school for most, added, "Trainees under the GI bill tend to seek the lowest cost schools and therefore have a lower average cost for tuition and fees than is average ... within both the public school and the private school categories."

The study noted that nationwide, there was a dramatic increase in the usage of junior colleges under the GI bill last year from 45 per cent in April 1974 to 58 per cent in April

The committee said a separate proposal to provide specific tuition assistance would increase costs $4 million annually to administer and present many ad-ministrative difficulties.

The study said singling out tuition for recognition "would surely give rise to pressures for enactment of other costly measures to recognize other ements of educational costs on a piecemeal basis which could lead to adminstrative chaos."

Philip Morris Announces The First Major Step Since The Filter Cigarette.

Enriched Flavor discovery revealed for new low tar cigarette.

Ever since filters were first introduced to cigarettes the trend has been to limit cigarette tar.

And with every new refinement in filtration, the tar levels went down.

Unfortunately, in most cases so did the taste.

Regardless of all the "low tar, good taste" claims you've read; regardless of all the fancy filters and space-age filtering systems you've tried—your own taste told you: the less tar, the less taste.

This is a report on a new kind of cigarette.

MERIT. Only 9 mg. of tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Yet with incredible flavor.

If you're looking to become a low tar smoker, or don't particularly enjoy the taste of the low tar brand you smoke now —you'll be interested.

Smoke Cracked: 'Enriched Flavor'

After a twelve year research effort, a team of scientists at our Richmond Research Center succeeded in isolating the "key" flavor ingredients of tobacco as they exist in cigarette smoke.

By adding only those ingredients which were of extreme high quality as flavor producers yet low tar producing as well, we're now able to pack incredible flavor into a cigarette without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor'.
'Enriched Flavor' It's extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't drop out, can't do anything but come through.

We packed 'Enriched Flavor' into the tobacco used to make MERIT.

And began an extensive series of taste tests. The results were startling.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg_tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, all tested

at home*

The results were conclusive:
Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new Enriched

Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.
In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg.
menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT
MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette.
