Budget includes 'hard choices' for nation

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford today proposed increased defense spending, higher Social Security taxes and cutbacks in some welfare programs in a fiscal 1977 budget that he said makes hard choices between what the nation wants to do and what it can afford to

He also asked Congress to approve an additional $10-billion decrease in income taxes this year and a $28billion cut next year, indicating he might approve them even if Congress fails to enact the rigid spending ceiling he has demanded previously.

The Ford budget, for the fiscal year begining Oct. 1, 1976, calls for total expenditures of $394.2 billion and revenues of $351.3 billion, leaving a deficit of $43 billion, the second highest since World War II. But Ford said a balanced budget should be possible by 1979.

He proposed to reverse the trend toward big government by giving the states new authority over 59 individual federal programs, including Medicaid and 15 other health programs. The states would receive money for the programs almost without strings.

Ford hinted for the first time he no longer would insist on the $395-billion 1977 spending ceiling he demanded previously as a trade-off for permanent reductions in income taxes, although he made clear he prefers that ceiling.

But he said his budget should put the economy on a growth path that can be sustained, even though unemployment will remain high for the next several years.

While Ford said his tax reduction proposals would cut income taxes in 1977 by $227 for a family of four making $15,000 a year - compared with 1974 tax rates - the increase in Social Security taxes would take back $45 of that. The Social Security increase would amount to $119 for families with incomes over $16,500.

The increase, amounting to an additional three-tenths of one per cent of a worker's gross income, would take effect on Jan. 1, 1977. Some increase would occur anyway in 1977, but Ford said the additional hike is needed to ensure adequate funds for Social Security benefits.

Americans also would feel the Ford budget through reduced outlays for food stamps, school lunches and increased charges for Medicare. While some Medicare benefits for the elderly would increase for major illnesses, the total savings to the government in 1977 would be $2.2

Full-time federal employment would be reduced 11,500, including 6,700 civilian defense workers. Antother 19,000 parttime and temporary defense jobs would be cut.

'This budget does not shrink from hard choices where necessary," Ford said. "If we don't get a handle now on the growth in federal spending, we're going to be in serious difficulties in vears ahead.

Federal expenditures in 1977 would be about 5.5 per cent greater than the 1976 estimated outlays of $373.5 billion, which Ford said is less than half the average spending growth of the previous decade. The 1976 deficit is estimated at a record $76 billion.

Ford administration officials said Ford trimmed about $20 billion from what would otherwise have been spent in 1977.

Spared from his economizing, however, was defense spending, which Ford said was getting "a significant increase" to $100.1 billion, up from an estimated $91.2 billion in

Ford asked for $1.5 billion in supplemental funds for 1976 to help pay for 310,000 public-service jobs created to relieve high unemployment.

But he proposes phasing out both the public-service program and the expanded unemployment-benefits program during 1977, which would mean that jobless workers would get coverage for 39 week of joblessness instead of the 65 weeks now provided by special legislation.

The Ford budget projects that unemployment will remain high, averaging 7.7 per cent this year and 6.9 per cent in 1977, compared with 8.5 per cent last year.

To encourage creation of jobs in areas where unemployment exceeds 7 per cent. Ford urged special tax breaks for businesses that build or expand facilities in these areas. The breaks would permit rapid depreciation of buildings and

Ford's proposals to give new authority to the states over a wide range of federal programs are expected to come under severe scrutiny in Congress, even though the President said his proposals "will

In the most comprehensive of these, 16 health programs including Medicaid, community health centers, rat control and veneral-disease programs, would be consolidated. programs would be limited in future

Director James T. Lynn told reporters that individual states could receive proportionately more in years ahead because of new formulas for distribution.

Unlike the present grant programs, states would no longer have to provide matching funds to get the federal payments, which could reduce total outlays if states decided against spending local funds on a particular program.

The tax increases and decreases proposed by Ford were outlined previously by the administration. They are:

INCOME TAXES - An increase in the personal exemption from $750 to $1,000, and a single standard deduction of $2,500 for married couples and $1,800 for single taxpavers in place of the existing lowincome allowance and percentage standard deduction.

These changes would be accompanied by reductions in tax rates for individuals and a permanent cut from 48 per cent to 46 per cent in the maximum corporate tax rate. Ford also called for special tax breaks for electric utilities

Total individual cuts would be $18 billion in 1977; for businesses the cuts would total $3.8 billion. Ford did not appear to tie approval of the reductions as firmly to a fixed spending ceiling for fiscal 1977 as he had

The proposed $10-billion tax cut for individuals this year would be in addition to the $18billion reduction that Congress already has approved for the first half of 1976 and is expected to extend through the remainder of the year.

SOCIAL SECURITY - Ford is asking Congress to vote an increase of .3 of a percentage point for contributions from both employes and employers to trust funds from which Social Security retirement benefits are paid, effective next Jan. 1.

Hill calls act 'controversial'

John Hill, deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Administration. this morning described the Energy Policy and Conservation Act of 1975 a very controversial bill, one that bears a definite political trademark.

Hill was in Midland to conduct a public forum on the bill and to try and explain the workings of its complicated price structure.

Man who robbed Lubbock bank prime suspect in Midland holdup

By COURTNEY BARBER

Several witnesses at Western State Bank, 1030 Andrews Hwy., "have tentatively identified" a photograph of the man who robbed Lubbock's Texas State Bank of $2,000 Friday as the same man who fled with $7,000 from the Midland bank Dec. 16, police

Sgt. Jim McFadden, investigating officer in Midland, said the Midland Police Department had a strong suspicion that both banks were robbed by the same man.

"It's looking real good at this stage, and I'm real optistic about it," Mc-Fadden commented.

The basic physical description of the robber in Lubbock fits that of the man who robbed Western State Bank, McFadden said. Both were described as being in his midto-late 20s, black wavy hair, 5-feet-8, medium build and a ruddy complexion, he added.

Also, there are several other similarities that are parallel between the bank robbery in Lubbock and the Bank robbery suspect that occurred in Midland regarding the bank robber's method of operation, McFadden concluded.

He noted that the Lubbock bank robbery took place one month to the day and that no gun was actually exhibited on both occasions. Yet, in both instances, the man alleged to have a gun.

Both time he indicated that he had gun by reaching into his clothing, as if to bring out a weapon," McFadden explained.

He pointed out that a stolen car was used in the Western State Bank robbery and later abandoned. Shortly after the robbery in Lubbock, approximately 30 minutes, a car was reported stolen by a man fitting the description of the bank robber in Lubbock.

After seeing a picture of the robber of the Texas State Bank, that was taken by a hidden camera in the Lubbock bank, a Carlsbad, N.M., woman notified law enforcement authorities in Lubbock that the man could possibly be her son, Lubbock police officers said. The woman programs.

It seems an unlikely object for a legal tug-o'-war.

Located in an economically depressed neighborhood in East Midland, De Zavala Elementary School operates quietly. The principal thinks of it as a progressive school doing a good job. Teachers generally describe the students as enthusiastic. Vandalism at the school is almost nil.

But more than 90 per cent of its 326 students are Mexican-American, a handful are black and only two are The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has pointed its finger at the enrollment statistics and charged discrimination on the part of the Midland Independent School District. School officials deny the accusation. In an effort to maintain its long-embraced neighborhood school attendance policy and, concurrently, maintain the bilingual education program concentrated at De Zavala, the MISD has been fighting the Justice Department several years.

The battle now rests at the doorstep of the Supreme Court where justices soon will decide whether to hear the case in which the school is appealing a decision of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

De Zavala teachers and parents alike appear to resent the idea that the court might send their children to another school. In the words of teacher Barbara Trousdale, "We've really got a good thing going here." Earlier in the school year, parents met with MISD officials to discuss the appeals court's August opinion which ordered the district to "dismantle" a dual system of education.

Romeo Canales, De Zavala principal, said the parents told administrators they do not wish the school to close. If busing becomes necessary, they want it to be a twoway route - if De Zavala youngsters must be bused out, then other youngsters should be bused into the De Zavala district.

Since the beginning of the desegregation negotiations with the Justice Department, De Zavala has been a bone of contention.

The district did not contest HEW's decree that Washington Elementary, traditionally a black school, should be integrated since Texas law once demanded that separate schools should exist for black students. But the lawbooks have carried no such statute regarding Spanishsurnamed students. De Zavala was established in 1914.

according to to school records, when the "board decided to offer the Mexican children a school and a teacher to themselves, and the president was instructed to give official notice to the Catholic priest to this effect.' Two years earlier, the trustees had resolved to "provide (a) separate

(Second in a series)

school for Mexicans if demanded." When established, De Zavala included grades one through eight. It was a terminal facility until the mid-1940s; no Spanish-surnamed student graduated from Midland High School

The Justice Department, charging that the school's history indicates de jure (intentional) segregation, contends that the attendance zone drawn around the school in 1956 "exactly circumscribed El Barrio or Mexican Town." School officials, however, counter that the zone was, and is, consistent with the neighborhood attendance policy. They further point out that Mexican-American youngsters at-tended schools other than De Zavala even prior to 1956.

MISD officials also emphasize the school's special educational thrusts geared specifically for youngsters who attend classes there. Included are bilingual, migrant and state and federal compensatory education programs.

State and federal monies for those programs this year totaled $122,043. Qualification for such governmental grants depends upon high percentage concentrations of educationally disadvantaged students.

School officials fear that "resegregation" will dilute the programs, thereby depriving the children of an adequate education. Even without the governmental aid figured in, "per pupil cost" at De Zavala averages $586.43, compared to the citywide average of $528.81. Canales feels other schools could offer the same programs, but a time lag in fully developing those programs would prove a disad-vantage for students during the first few years. If transported to another elemen-tary school, the children might "find it harder to compete" without the small classes available at De Zavala. Pupil-teacher ratio is 23-1, and the pupil-adult ratio, which includes teacher aides, is 11-1.

The emphasis on hermage found at De Zavala also might be missing in another school, he said.

"We see still another problem with the parents who might not feel comfortable visiting a different school. Many parents do not have transportation," still another obstacle to visiting the school and the teachers.

"We have a very interested group of parents. They are concerned about the quality of education their children are getting. They are very positive about the school and very happy with the quality of the staff.

"The last thing, I think, the parents would want is for their school to be closed," the principal said.

Community feeling apparently runs strong in the De Zavala area, and parental participation in school activities has grown during the past several years. "Economically, they're just struggling to make it," Canales said of most De Zavala parents, many of whom hold two jobs in an effort to make ends meet. Despite the lack of leisure time, many of the fathers donated their time to build playground facilities for the school. And the traditional Halloween carnival, once operated almost entirely by the school staff, is in the hands of the PTA.

An active group, the PTA recently (Continued on Page 2A)

Midland educators have observed an often-difficult transition period for minority children when they reach junior high school where balanced integration is in effect citywide.

Canales feels more thorough integration on the elementary level would help minority students make the adjustment faster and easier.

Observing that numerous Mexican-American youths "see an opportunity to drop out (of school) at the end of the eighth or ninth grade," he feels an earlier adjustment might help remedy the situation.

"Professionally, I don't believe in segregated schools," Canales said. "I don't think De Zavala is intentionally segregated.

feet, would provide "badly needed" classroom space. One wing would house 15 classrooms and a laboratory Also included in the plans is a 250-seat lecture hall which could be used also for community service workshops and small community meetings.

The building would enable Midland College to offer an often-requested music program. Included in one area would be choir, string ensemble, stage band rooms, piano, voice, instrumental rooms and storage facilities.

The building's central lobby is designed for additional use as an area for displays and student art shows Another wing is planned to accommodate additional art classes, journalism and publications. The proposed addition to the occupational-technical building would provide additional classroom space for those courses already in existence as well as others planned for the future. The 27,000-square foot addition also would have laboratories for the petroleum technology program, electronics, machine technology, and heating, air conditioning and refrigeration. The multi-purpose facility, planned to include 61,000 square feet, will feature an estimated 3,700 permanent seats and 1,400 movable seats.

College trustees and administrators stress it would be a college building. but a community facility with a wide variety of uses.

Among the specific uses geared for the Midland College program are expansion of a physical education program for both men and women, faculty orientation, registration, regional education meetings, gymnastics, tennis, volleyball, intramural sports, college athletic tournaments, banquets and graduation ceremonies. Reagan Legg, a member of the trustees' Long Range Planning Committee, gave the Tuesday night presentation for the proposed bond election. He noted that the Midland Independent School District has great use for the facility for many of the same purposes.

The MISD already is on record saying that Midland High School needs a new gymnasium, a venture which would cost taxpayers an estimated $1 million.

Legg said it "seems a little foolish...that the taxpayers should be asked to duplicate facilities. "Such joint use would be of benefit to not only Midland College, but also the MISD, and of course the tax-

AUSTIN - The Court of Criminal Appeals today reversed the Midland County conviction of Jimmy Dwain Morgan for burglary.

A new trial was ordered for Morgan who had been sentenced by a jury to nine years in prison.

such community events as banquets. conventions, trade shows, lectures, industrial shows, art exhibits, road shows, ice shows, touring sports events, large tennis tournaments and other meetings.

Legg recommended that, while the college should encourage public use of the proposed building, it should maintain full control of its use. Passage of both propositions would raise the college's bonded indebtedness to $11.4 million, less the amount retired in the last two years. The debt service ratio is less than 2 per cent, according to Dr. Al G.

MC trustees hike salary of president

Midland College trustees Tuesday night raised the college president's salary $3,667 and extended the three remaining years on his contract to five years.

Following an annual review and evaluation of Dr. Al G. Langford's contract, board members raised his annual salary to $34,667, setting his annuity allowance at $1,733 and housing allowance at $300 monthly.

In addition to considering the contract, trustees also voted to purchase louvered blinds for classroom instructional areas at a cost of $8,788.50. Other action included appointing trustee Fred Wright representative to the chamber of commerce board of directors, granting a developmental leave and acted on a city tax litigation. Trustees also authorized Langford and trustee president Robert Leibrock to negotiate with the city regarding an access road to Wadley and to keep prices from "going out of sight.

He told of the history of government intervention in the oil business, from the standpoint of contols and explained several proposed measures to control the industry that never made it through Congress.

"I honestly believe that the energy act just passed into law is far better than anything that preceded it." "I think it is much better than the proposal made by President Ford for complete decontrol, plus a winfall profits tax," Hill said. Hill pointed out that the work done by the committee, headed by Senator Henry Jackson was made more difficult the various factions including those who worried only "about how much it would cost the consumer and how much the oil industry would make in profits.'

Hill said that the basic number in the pricing structure is $7.66 a barrel on all domestically produced oil -$5.15 for old oil and $11.28 for new oil. He said an escalator had been added of seven per cent during the first 12 months, beginning March 1, with a incentive fee rate of three per cent.

"That escalator percentage can be increased by proposals by the FEA each 90 days during the year," Hill said.

One of the questions put to Hill during the question and answer session included the status of stripper well production. ""The energy act relieves the FEA of the power to exempt stripper wells from price and allocation control. That oil will be treated as old oil," the administrator said. However, he tempered his statement with another - "the act gives us the flexibility to handle the situation.'

In fact, one person said after the forum, that Hill answered far too many questions put to him by saying 'the act gives us ... "One thing for sure, if I was confused before this session started. I really am now," one unidentified participant said following the forum. Another said, "what I don't really understand is the fact that they kept saying that they didn't know this or that, but that the rules would be ready Feb. 1 when the act becomes law. If

Publishing changes seen

LONDON (AP) — Books as we know them may not lest in 30 years' time, Britain's top librarian said as tans were discussed for the housing of more than 12 cillion books in the new British Library.

Dr. Harry Hookway, the library's chief executive, said in an interview that the cost of printing and bookbinding is going up so fast publishers may soon be unable to afford to issue books in hard covers.

"Already some publishers of scientific works are printing books in facsimile from the author's typed manuscripts, and I think this will spread to other scholarly works," Hookway said. "Librarians in charge of great collections like ours are having to the their plans for storage space and new buildings to what is likely to happen in communications. Frankly, we don't know what is going to happen."

The British Library was formed two years ago to provide the nation with a comprehensive library and modern facilities, and it inherited the six million tooks in the British Museum. As other libraries berged with it the total stock has swollen to nearer million books, pamphlets, periodicals and newspapers. The annual report said it is accumulating two million printed items a year.

Hookway, 54, former scientific adviser at the British Embassy in Washington and president of the Institute of Information Scientists, said: "We could build the biggest library in the world and then find hardly anyone is reading but using television and other audio-visual methods instead."

Hookway said the time may be coming when people will not know how to use a book. "The pattern and use of reading is changing," he said. "Books nowadays are packed with illustrations. You see adults reading books of picture strips which 20 years ago were printed only for children. Imagine a situation where the act of opening a book, finding what you want in it and reading it becomes unimaginable.

"Librarians and architects planning libraries that will stand into the next century have got to think of these things. Already, to retrieve some data, one has to consult a computer and command an image on to a screen. Does anyone know where we shall be in 30 years?"

Hookway announced himself an enthusiast for books—"I am still convinced the book has a future," he said. "There is nothing like a book. You can put it in your pocket, read it, browse about in it. You can't do that with microfilm."

The British Library still has no building of its own. Apart from the British Museum its books are scattered all over London, in a plant that produced tanks for both World Wars, in a disused department store, an old warehouse and an office block.

Building is scheduled to start in 1979 and the first phase to be ready in 1985. Some British Library officials think the library complex won't be completed until the end of this century.

$30 credit cuts tax obligation

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — One tax credit that every taxpayer will receive for 1975 is the special $30 credit for each dependent. It's not the same with some other credits, however.

The $30 credit was part of the government's 1975

Ex cut package that was designed to give consumers more money to spend and thereby help pull the economy out of recession.

Along with other tax reductions, the tax credit has already been paid out to most taxpayers through lower withholding taxes. But to make sure they don't pay more taxes than they have to, taxpayers will need to claim it on their tax returns.

Third in a series

The credit can be taken on either the long or short 1040 form, and it doesn't matter whether the taxpayer itemizes or not.

After computing the tax he or she would otherwise have to pay, the taxpayer subtracts the credit from the total, thereby reducing the tax obligation.

The taxpayer is entitled to a $30 credit for each person claimed as an exemption on his or her tax return. A family of four, for example, would be entitled to a total credit of $120 on a joint return. A single person filing a tax return with only himself or herself as a dependent would receive a $30 credit.

It is important to remember that only one credit per dependent is allowable.

Although a taxpayer should continue to claim extra regular exemptions if either the taxpayer or spouse is blind or over age 65, this does not also entitle the taxpayer to an additional credit in those

In addition, the credit can only be used to reduce taxes. If a low income worker had tax credits of $120 and a tax obligation of only $100, he or she would not be entitled to a refund on the $20 difference.

Persons who don't pay any taxes because of insufficient income will not have any benefit from the

The regular $750 exemption per dependent, with additional exemptions for blindness and age, remains unchanged from last year.

The regular exemptions are incorporated into the IRS tax tables that many taxpayers use to determine their tax obligation.

Dollar-for-dollar, there is more value to a taxpayer from a credit than an exemption, since a credit is deducted directly from the tax obligation, while an exemption is deducted from total income before determining the income that should be taxed.

Other credits available to persons who qualify include the earned income credit, the credit for new home purchases, a retirement income credit, a credit for contributions to candidates for public office, a work incentive credit, an investment credit and a foreign tax credit.

Only three credits can be taken on the short form the $30 credit, the earned income credit and the contributions credit.

The credit for contributions permits the taxpayer to deduct half the amount of political donations to a maximum of $25 for a single return, and $50 for a joint return.

Salute to Jaycees!

Jaycees here and across the land are celebrating the observance of Jaycee Week, a particularly significant occasion in this Bicentennial year.

The observance here will be climaxed Thursday night with the staging of the annual Jaycee Distinguished Service Award-Bosses Night Banquet at Midland Country Club. Midland's "Outstanding Young Man of 1975" and the Jaycees' "Boss of the Year" will be revealed at that time.

This is a great occasion -Jaycee Week - an event to which Jaycees look forward with great anticipation.

But it goes far deeper than just a week of special observance. The work and achievements of the Jaycees go on day-by-day and week-by-week, with the beneficial results of their efforts mounting all the while.

The Jaycees are known far and wide as an association of young men who believe in action - first on the community improvement and development front, and then branching out to state and national levels.

Midland Jaycees meet these standard qualifications, but they also go far beyond the normal call of duty in meeting people needs as well as civic demands. Yes, the Midland Jaycees are something else when it comes to meeting challenges and taking care of most any situation.

And they have been doing this consistently since the organization of the chapter here

It is an amazing story of achievement. It would be all the more amazing if all the projects, programs and accomplishments of the Jaycees through the years could be recalled for one and all to see. The list would go on and on for hours on end.

The first big projects and accomplishments came during the World War II years, even when most of the chapter's members had been called to active duty in Uncle Sam's military forces. It was during those years that Midlanders discovered just what the Jaycees were capable of doing and what they were willing to do when called upon to tackle a specific job.

And when the war was over and young men again were available in numbers for membership in civilian organizations. Midland Jaycees were quick to regroup and to tackle civic assignments which had been delayed pending their return.

They have been in the forefront of numerous community programs, projects and activities during the intervening years. striving continually for community improvements of multiple

At the same time they have made special efforts to improve the lot of certain groups and individuals who needed assistance. This is where the meeting of "people needs" enters the picture.

The Christmas shopping tours conducted annually by Midland Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes for youths who otherwise wouldn't be able to do any shopping are excellent examples of the case in point.

Yet this is only one phase of the many and varied aspects of the overall, far-reaching Jaycee

They seldom if ever say "no" when called upon to assist in a worthwhile community program. They have been busy, busy, busy during the years of the unit's existence.

And the year 1975-76 certainly is no exception as Midland Jaycees continue to serve the community and its residents under the leadership of President John

Yet the Jaycees often are taken for granted, seldom receiving the recognition and the thanks which they so richly deserve.

Jaycee Week, however, presents an excellent opportunity for expressing special appreciation to the young civic workers who never look back when it comes to service to community, state and nation. The hundreds of awards won by Midland Jaycees at regional, state and national levels speaks well for the young men and their

Let's all join in directing a community-wide salute of appreciation to our Jaycees, of whom we are proud.

PAN AMERICAN REPORT:

Mexico's oil income reaches record high

By WILLIAM GIANDONI Copley News Service

Mexico is beginning to cash in on its oil bonanza. The government oil company, Pemex, reports it is now exporting some 140,000 barrels of crude a day and getting $12.32 a barrel for it, which is 81 cents higher than Persian Gulf oil

At that rate, Mexico should earn over $620 million for its oil shipments in 1976.

That would be a very welcome amount, what with generally gloomy prospects of an increasingly unfavorable trade balance, the Zionist boycott of Mexican tourism, and the anticipated customary decline in business and industry as the nation gets ready for July 4 presidential elections and a change of govern-

The estimated $620 million return for oil exports this year is better than double the figure for the first full year of Mexico's reentry into the world petroleum market.

Pemex reported that, in the 12 months from Sept. 17, 1974, to the same date in 1975, Mexico had exported more than 28.3 million barrels of crude. According to the company those shipments were worth something over $308 million.

That Sept. 17, 1974, date marked the beginning of a new era in the history of the Mexican oil industry, once one of the world's most prosperous.

For years prior to September, 1974, Mexico had been a net importer of petroleum and petroleum products.

The national economy had expanded so fast that Pemex was not able to keep its production high enough to satisfy domestic demand.

Most of the nation's oil fields, discovered in the 1920s, 1930s and 1940s, were being depleted.

But then, with perfection of drilling equipment that allowed Pemex to drill to depths of 15,000 feet and more, the government company made new discoveries in the Isthmus of Tehuantepec region, in the Reforma area of Chiapas state, and the Samaria region of Tabasco. It seemed that each well that Pemex put down was not only a producer, but bountiful besides, making 40 and more times as much oil as the 120 barrels a day national average for the older wells.

Pemex is by nature cautious in release of production figures, and has been for decades now.

Most oil reporters experienced in Mexico tend to shy away from Mexican press reports of what purport to be Pemex statistics, other than those that are released by the monopoly's offices in Mexico City.

However, occasionally, there are oil items in newspapers in the Aztec capital that sound accurate.

One such was the news that reporters accompanying Jose Lopez Portillo, the official Institutional Revolutionary Party presidential candidate, on his recent visit to Chiapas were told that Pemex now has 74 producing wells in the Reforma-Samaria area. They were said to be producing a total of 410,000 barrels a day, that is an average of over 5,540 barrels per well. There was no confirmation of that report in Mexico City, however.

Mark Russell says

The President keeps trying to shake off his "clumsy" image. Nixon said, "I am not a crook;" Ford will soon declare, "I am not a klutz!"

We have the Washington Monument and someday we'll have the Ford Monument - two giant skiis, one parallel to the ground, one pointed skyward.

Or perhaps the Ford presidency will best be memorialized by modern art - a huge, stainless steel, tangled dog

FDR had his famous cigarette holder. With LBJ, it was the tengallon hat. With Jerry Ford, it's the Band-Aid.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Colson: The Watergate years

JACK ANDERSON with Les

WASHINGTON - The first member of Richard Nixon's tight inner circle to reach print, Charles "Chuck" Colson, has described what it was like inside the oval office during the Watergate years.

He has completed a compelling book called "Born Again," which is loaded with inside stories about Nixon, Spiro Agnew, Henry Kissinger, and other headline figures from the incredible Nixon era. We have obtained a bootleg copy of the book, which hasn't yet hit the bookstands. Colson portrays Nixon as a shy, haunted nan who got down on his knees at night to pray, yet a vicious, vindictive man who was eager to stomp on his enemies. Colson also traces his own astonishing transformation from a ruthless political hatchet man to a zealous Christian. Here are a few of the book's most startling revelations:

- As the specter of impeachment began to haunt Nixon, he became paranoid and suspected a conspiracy against him. He feared the special prosecutors were wiretapping the White House. He even came to believe his own aides and secretaries might be conspiring to bug him.

Once he took Colson to the Lincoln sitting room on the second floor of the White House to thwart the suspected eavesdroppers. "The problem, Chuck," he confided, "is that I don't think I can trust anybody. Not even the secretaries.

It turned out, ironically, that Nixon bugged himself and provided the prosecutors with the damning transcripts that brought his own downfall. But the President blamed his major domo, H.R. "Bob" Haldeman, for this. Speaking to Colson later about the White House recording system, Nixon said: "They were all Haldeman's idea, Stupid, just stupid. I told Bob twice to have the system removed, but you know Bob. I forgot all about them.

- The beleaguered Nixon once told Colson he had considered becoming a Roman Catholic. But he added: "If I converted, everyone would say it was some political gimmick - Tricky Dick making a pitch for the Catholic

But Nixon told Colson earnestly: "You know, Chuck, I get on my knees every night and just pray to God." When Colson spoke to then Senator Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, the Senator asked Colson to invite Nixon to join them in their prayer circle. But Nixon, partly out of shyness, declined.

- After Colson had served seven months in prison, he had a trauma in his family. Senator Hughes, Rep. Al Quie, R-Minn., and two other prayer group members offered to serve out Colson's term under an antiquated

Quie was ready to go to the White House with the substitution plan when Colson was unexpectedly released by Judge Gerhard Gesell. - The ugly side of Nixon's nature showed itself on the presidential yacht Sequoia one balmy spring night. The President's staff began to talk about his enemies. "One day we will get them," he vowed, "we'll get them on the ground where we want them. And we'll stick our heels in, step on them hard and twist - right, Chuck, right?" Listening solemnly to this Presidential diatribe were Kissinger. Haldeman, and John Ehrlichman. Only Ehrlichman looked away in apparent disagreement, Colson reports. - This vengeful side of Nixon came out again when Daniel Ellsberg leaked the Pentagon Papers. "I want him exposed, Chuck," said Nixon, "I don't care how you do it ... do you understand me? That's an order." Colson eagerly worked to discredit Ellsberg. - Perhaps the most important news story in the book is Colson's confirmation the Nixon planned to pardon every one of his aides caught in the Watergate web. Colson recalls he was helping Nixon President, obviously referring to his embattled aides, promised: "There'll come a time when we wipe the slate clean. Not yet but it will come." Instead, only Nixon wound up with a with his coat one day when the

- Another promise that Nixon was unable to keep, according to Colson, was given to ex-Treasury Secretary John Connally when he switched to the Republican party. Nixon offered to support him for President. Nixon's intention was, first, to replace Agnew with Connally on the 1972 ticket, then to back Connally for the 1976 presidential nomination. But Agnew had too strong a following to be dislodged in 1972. And by the time Agnew was forced out a year later. Connally was under investigation in the famous milk bribery case.

As the noose tightened on Agnew in 1973, his aides sought to engineer impeachment actions against him in the House. The strategy was to shortcircuit and possibly avert criminal prosecution. But Nixon undercut his own Vice President telling Colson; Both Jerry Ford (then House Republican leader) and Carl Albert (House Speaker) are in line. They will oppose any impeachment resolution.' Colson had to tell Agnew that the President had scuttled him.

INSIDE REPORT:

CIA: Congress seeks 'super-oversight' authority

Novak

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - The anti-CIA orgy in Congress is about to take a potentially ominous new turn in the direction of super-oversight authority which could give Congress virtually equal powers with the administration in the whole field of intelligence. This new turn is just the latest example of the headlong rush by fueled by Congress', own failure for decades to make regorous use of the oversight powers it has always had over U.S. intelligence. In preparation for six days of hearings before the Senate government operations committee starting committee staffers, working ly with the staff of the Senate's

Congress to grasp new authority over traditional executive prerogatives,

Select Intelligence Committee, have completed draft legislation that is deeply troubling presidential experts in the intelligence field.

Little wonder. The draft legislation (considered so sensitive that the committee staff denies its existence) d set up a new Senate standing mittee of nine members with recedented powers.

he heart of these powers is the t to complete information con-ing "all intelligence and coun-stelligence policies, programs activities" in any way connected with the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), the National Security Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA), and the intelligence and counterintelligence activities centered in the State, Treasury and ld place the nine-member

Senate panel, called the Committee on National Intelligence and Surveillance, in oversight control not only of the CIA, but also of the in-dividual military service intelligence units and - more important - the Federal Bureau of Investigation

Experts who have studied the language of the draft legislation believe it may be broad enough to give the proposed new committee advance access not only to covert intelligence operations in foreign countries but to actual, day-to-day results of these and other, more routine operations in the intelligencegathering area.

Considering the insatiable and unseemly appetite of Congressmen and Senators for the political glory that has been flowing so predictably from calculated leaks of secret intelligence information, this grant of authority over the government's world of intelligence might dry up all but the most prosaic intelligence

Indeed, even under the administration's present, highly-limited legal obligation to inform six key congressional committees before launching any new covert intelligence operation abroad, there has been no possibility of keeping the secrets secret. Both the medium-sized CIA paramilitary aid to anti-Soviet factions in Angola and the miniscule CIA financial aid to pro-Western political parties in Italy were leaked by Congressmen hostile to the policy and seeking personal gain in exposing it.

The draft legislation to be considered during the hearings later this month, moreover, would give the new committee "full access to the records and materials of the (Senate) select committee" on intelligence, which is due to expire later this year. Considering the recent rash of politically-inspired intelligence leaks now confounding Ford administration policymakers, such a repository of secrets would be mouth-watering. Indeed, the draft legislation deals with that fact.

If "one or more members" of the new committee suspected that another member was guilty of leaking secrets, the committee would sit in judgment and consider "appropriate action against the (offending) member." But in today's sieve-like Capitol Hill security screen, such language poses little threat.

Even if it did, the tenure of membership on the proposed new committee would mitigate it. The panel is designed for continuously rotating membership, with three of its nine members to be replaced every two years in the new Congress. The effect of this unique scheme would be to aggrandize the power of the panel's permanent staff, a comparatively new trend throughout the whole structure of congressional power politics that deeply troubles both older members and the executive branch. The Government Operations

Committee is under Senate order to recommend a permanent intelligence oversight committee by March 1. The staff draft, which has been sent to a small list of intelligence experts for study and criticism over the signature of Sen. Abraham Ribicoff of Contecticut, the committee chairman, is ar from locked in as an unchangeable That it will be changed is certain.

But its existence in present form, hewever well-intended, illustrates the rapid congressional advance on the executive's freedom to conduct foreign policy. That is perhaps the mest dangerous single result of the tragic array of past CIA - and FBI abises, a result dearly welcomed in the heart of the Kremlin. Copyright 1971, Field Enterprises, Inc.

WASHINGTON - The Internal Revenue Service is investigating former President Nixon for civil tax fraud, according to informed sources.

The IRS concluded in March 1974 that it did not have sufficient evidence to charge Nixon with civil tax fraud, but has re-opened its investigation and now believes it can show that the former President had knowledge of a backdated deed claiming an illegal deduction for his gift of papers to the government, the sources said.

If fraud is charged against Nixon, the former president could be forced $148,080.97 for a 1969 tax deficiency found by the IRS in 1974 plus a 50 per cent penalty for fraud of $74,040.48.

Nixon had no legal obligation to pay the 1969 tax deficiency because the three-year statute of limitations had expired. However, fraud has no statute of limitations and, if charged. makes the basic tax deficiency collectible at any time.

Nixon could challenge a fraud assessment in court. In 1974, Nixon paid $284,706.16 in tax deficiencies and negligence penalties for his 1970-72 tax returns. He said he would pay the 1969 deficiency but has not, according to the sources.

Carey presents budget

The Los Angeles Times

NEW YORK - With the need to enter the money market place in April very much in mind, Gov. Hugh L. Carey Tuesday proposed a $10.76 billion budget for New York state.

The budget for the 1976-77 fiscal year contains no new tax increases and promises substantial cuts in state services. These include layoffs of 1.500 employes of the state university, possible state college tuition increases and the closing of a number of large state institutions for troublesome youths and drug addicts. State aid to New York City will be reduced by $100 million.

"I intend this budget to mark a turning point for government in New York state, from needless expansion to careful retrenchment." Carey said in his annual fiscal message to the state legislature "The policies of the past have threatened the fiscal survival of the state. We have seen how a crisis in one city, in one authority, can endanger all the others and undermine the credit of the state itself.

.Most importantly, the capital markets must recognize - well before the seasonal borrowing on which all units of New York government depends - that our finances are in order, our credit is sound and we are entitled to access to their President Ford's pardon of Nixon covers only criminal matters and would not apply to civil tax fraud. Spokesmen for Nixon and the IRS declined comment Tuesday on the current investigation. The IRS deposition in 1974 that concluded there was not sufficient evidence to charge Nixon with civil tax fraud was made before several key witnesses testified under oath.

Since. IRS investigators believe they have gathered enough evidence to pinpoint Nixon's role in the backdating of the deed

According to the public record, Nixon's vice-presidential papers were not donated until April 1970, nearly nine months after a tax reform act took effect eliminating the charitable deduction on papers donated after July 25,

The investigators say they have evidence that Nixon instructed his aides to lobby against the act. Nixon, however, signed the act into law on December 30, 1969. The sources said that the IRS can build a case showing Nixon knew he was taking a deduction no longer permitted by law when the backdated deed was submitted to the National Archives in April 1970. The sources said that the IRS has not developed any dramatic new evidence in the case but has been the beneficiary of an 18-month investigation by the office of the Watergate Special Prosecutor which, because of Nixon's pardon, could not bring a

Others have been prosecuted for handling Nixon's taxes. Former White House aide Edward L. Morgan, who signed the backdated deed, pleaded guilty to tax fraud conspiracy on Nov. 8, 1974. Literary appraiser Ralph G. Newman was convicted on Nov. 12, 1975, of two counts of providing false information to the IRS in connection with the Nixon papers. In October 1975, a federal judge in Los Angeles dismissed charges against Nixon tax attorney Frank DeMarco; Jr. who had been charged with obstructing investigastions in the Nixon tax case.

It could not be learned Tuesday if President Ford or any of his top aides are aware of the civil fraud investigation of Nixon.

Although two well-placed sources said that they expected IRS Commissioner Donald Alexander to approve a civil tax fraud case against Nixon in the near future, one other source said he doubts the investigation will result in a case being brought.

"There is no smoking gun," this source said "and let's face it, the case is really contrary to the spirit of the pardon." The source said that he doubted the White House wants this to happen in an election year.

In a matter related to Nixon's taxes but apparently not known to federal investigators, reliable sources said recently that Nixon tried to halt the initial IRS audit of his tax returns.

This attempt was in May 1973 while Nixon was President but before his

At that time, according to the sources, Nixon was informed that his tax returns had been computer selected for audit because fo the large deduction he had for his vice-presidential papers. Nixon felt he was being picked on by the IRS and insisted that the IRS should not audit him unless it had Nixon was furious and ordered White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr. to call George P. Schultz who, as Treasury Secretary, was in charge of the IRS.

"What the hell is this," Haig reportedly told Schultz, "the President of the United States being audited?"

Budget likened to painting of many hands, pockets

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) - From the standpoint of a family wrestling with its finances, President Ford's budget proposals may look like a giant surrealistic painting of many hands and pockets.

Some of the hands are putting money into pockets, while other hands are taking money out of pockets. Some of the hands may seem triplejointed as they limberly reach through and around regulations and hidden passageways to pluck and

Defense expenditures of $100 billion asked

By FREDS. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) - President ford today recommeded the nation's first $100 billion spending budget for defense, designed to maintain a military balance with Russia while seeking agreements to curb nuclear arms and other forces.

Ford's proposed $100.1 billion defense budget for next fiscal year tops this year's record level by $8.9

Most of the increase is earmarked for buying additional advanced warplanes, tanks, ships and other new arms, as well as for improving the readiness of equipment already in

In the strategic-arms field. Ford called for continued development of new nuclear weapons, including longrange airbreathing cruise missiles which could be launched from bombers, submarines and surface

Per capita debt totals $2,596

WASHINGTON (AP) - If you and the rest of the 215 million Americans happen to feel like donating an extra $2,596 each to the federal government by the end of fiscal 1977, the national debt could be wiped clean.

That's the per capita share of an obligation that's expected to total Stepping down the economic ladder. the proposed income tax cuts get proportionally larger. A family of four with $10,000 of adjusted gross income, which paid $709 in 1975, would be paying $485 by 1977, a drop of nearly one-third, or $224. At the same time, the Social Security tax from 1976 to 1977 would be only $30 greater.

The tax drop works out that way because not only are the tax rates lowered for the first $10,000 in adjusted gross income, but the tax exemption for each family member is increased from $750 to $1,000 by 1977.

The latter provision is especially helpful to large families. For two parents and their six children, for example, the change means $2,000 less income on which to pay tax. The amount actually saved would depend on the family's tax bracket, but might amount to $400 or $500 for a middle income household.

elderly parent, the Ford program increases the chances of having to pay as much as $750 in short-term or routine medical costs, but it would eliminate the risk of a lengthy medical crisis draining thousands of dollars from the family bank account.

If the family budget has room for a bit of saving, the Ford plan would encourage putting that money into common stocks by providing tax

If the $15,000-family of four could set aside $500 for eligible stock purchases, this program might be worth $104 in tax savings.

Some of the other budget proposals might provide a bonanza for some people, nothing for others.

To someone now unemployed who got a job because of Ford's proposed business stimulants, the administration's plan would be worth thousands of dollars.

But the story would be different to a teller at a savings and loan association if he or she were laid off because the tax break for the stock investment drew too much money out of savings accounts.

At a briefing Tuesday on his budget, Ford spoke as though full-scale production of the controversial B1 bomber is a foregone conclusion.

But Pentagon officials stressed that a final decision on production will not be made until this fall, after testing of development models is completed.

On the assumption that there will be a production go-ahead, the new defense budget would authorize the first three B1s in a planned fleet of 244 bombers which ultimately could cost a total of more than $20 billion.

Congress is being asked to authorize $1 billion as a start on production, with about $100 million to be spent next year.

However, Ford's budget contains no proposal for major new weapons programs beyond those already under

"The United States seeks to reduce military expenditures and international tensions through negotiations," Ford told Congress in his budget message

"Effective agreements can be reached, however, only if United States and allied forces remain at least as strong as those of potential adversaries," the President said.

The administration's budget presentation was without any saberrattling, although Secretary of Defense Donald H. Rumsfeld stressed that Soviet defense spending has been increasing steadily over the past decade while U.S. military outlays have been decreasing in real terms that is, taking inflation into account.

DEAR ABBY Working conditions

/ ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: For three months during the past year I worked as a part-time secretary for a lawyer. I quit because I felt rather uncomfortable about certain things.

To start off with, my boss told me when I answered the phone to say that he wasn't in. It seems I had to constantly lie to his clients. Also, I know that he owed people a lot of money and was constantly dodging them.

Because I felt that he wasn't on the up and up, I

Fire protection Chief Lambert H. Romero of the State Forestry Commission said more than 500 fires destroyed approximately 7,400 acres from Friday through Sunday.

He estimated 75 per cent of the fires were set "for malicious purposes." The hardest hit areas were in Beauregard, Vernon, Allen and St. Tammany parishes.

Although last weekend was paritcularly bad, Romero said woods arson is nothing new in Louisiana and Mississippi, the two states he rated as having the greatest problem.

Of 4,800 Louisiana forest fires in 1975, Romero said 4,000 were believed to be the work of arsonists. There were only eight arrests and five convictions.

Romero said some of the fires are set by cattle owners angered because new woods growth is filling open areas where they once enjoyed free grazing.

Others are set by former timber company employes disgruntled at their former bosses, he said, and still others because of "just plain meanness on the part of some people.'

Nearly half of last weekend's fires involved tree farms, as opposed to natural timber stands. Almost all of the damage was to young trees, less than 10 years old.

"People in certain areas of this state have seen fires burn during this period of the year so often they feel they've just got to have wood smoke in the air." Romero said. "A lot of the oldtimers will say the woods are too thick. They are used to seeing the woods thinned out. They like to be able to walk to a certain spot and look so far and now they can't.

"A lot of it is custom that has been accepted, but we just can't afford to accept it any longer. It's just a handful of misfits whose thinking is warped for one reason or another who do all the damage."

Arson convictions are difficult to obtain in woods fires because cases are almost never decided on circumstantial evidence, said Romero.

"You've got to be there with a witness to see them or be so close to him you get him and he confesses," he years in prison, Romero said most offenders get off with a "slap on the wrist and three years probation.

The unusual number of fires last weekend was attributed to dangerous conditions from a cold front which brought high winds and low humidity. Romero said arson is relatively easy to detect in forest fires from the pattern in which they occur and evidence subsequently found at the

No-till farming gaining increased acceptance

The Washington Post

HERSHEY, Pa. - About 5,000 years after man invented the plow. farmers are learning that they can do better without it.

More than 1,500 agriculture experts from five mid-Atlantic states met here last week to discuss the concept known as "no-tillage farming," which has spread to more than 6 million acres, about 2 per cent of cropland in production, in the last half-dozen

No-tillage, or no-till, as it is usually referred to, means exactly that - do not plow the earth. Its increasing acceptance - the U.S. Department of Agriculture predicts more than half of all America's cropland will be farmed without plowing in 30 years - marks "one of the truly basic changes in the history of our agriculture," said James H. Eakins Jr., head of agronomy at Pennsylvania State University

Essentially, the process works list this: after the fall harvest, a winter "cover crop," usually rye, is planted in the field. In the spring the rye is killed with herbicides and the main crop is seeded into the resultant mulch by a special planter. No a furrow is turned, and the field need not be entered again until harvest time, when the cycle begins anew.

The savings in time and money over traditional plowing, which entails numerous tractor trips over the field to turn the earth and control weeds, are enormous. Field tests comparing no-till with plowing shared no-till required a third to a sixth the amount of fuel to plant the same acreage.

The unturned soil, aided by the protective mulch layer, retains 50 per cent more soil moisture than a plwoed field and cuts erosion and runoff on sloping acreages by as much as 90 per

This is of particular significance in Maryland, where runoff from agricultural lands has been a major source of pollution and siltation in Chesapeake Bay. Farmers in Maryland, the leading state in acceptance of no-till, currently have forsaken the plow in planting an estimated 70 per cent of their corn and 60 per cent of their soybeans.

The ability of the no-till method to control erosion even on hilly lands also means it can open millions of acres to productive farming that previously had to be kept fallow, or in pasture. Land in this category in aryland alone amounts to about a million acres, University of Maryland agronomists said.

Crop yields from no-till farming have proved equal to or slightly better than those achieved by plowing. In one popular variation of the process, a practice known as "double cropping." the time saved by now plowing allows farmers to realize an extra harvest of winter wheat or barley before they plant their main crop. In the spring, farmers can be seen planting literally in the wake of their harvesters.

A no-till field, with the seedlings pushing their way through the mulch of weeds and high stubble, is not as esthetic as the neat furrows of a plowed field.

"It looks ratty as the dickens." admitted Joseph Newcomer, an agronomist from the University of Maryland, "but when you are saving maybe $5 on each acre (over plowing) and getting better yields too, you

For all its promise as the corn patch of the future, no one at Hershey last week was billing no-till as the panacea for farmer's worries.

"It (no-till) is advanced farming. substituting radical usage of herbicides and insecticides for what the plow used to do," Eakin explained. "It is not for the casual or sloppy farmer.

Insects that formerly were kept in check by deep plowing tend to thrive in the undisturbed soil and mulch of a no-till field. Failure to ancitipate this problem and select the proper insecticides can spell disaster.

Helping You Is What We're

All About

Likewise, herbicides must be used with precision in orchestrating cover crops to produce enough mulch to check erosion without smothering the seedlings, Newcomer noted.

The use of no-till outside university test plots did not achieve widespread currency until about 1970, with U.S. Food and Drug Administration approval of the first herbicide effective in controlling weeds without plowing.

No-till farming, for all its rapid spread along the Eastern seaboard and in the South, is likely to take root more slowing in other areas, notably the Midwestern grain belt, according

Reagan County polishes off Golden Cranes

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

R-T Sports Writer BIG LAKE-The Reagan County Owls were looking for a hole to crawl into after hitting only two of 12 shots from the field in the second period here Tuesday night in a District 7-AA cage encounter, but a flashy junior and a reserve ignited a second half rally to give the Owls a 57-54 victory over the Crane Golden Cranes.

Jennings Teel, a 6-2 junior, caught fire in the second half and dumped in 18 points while reserve Dennis Kruse, 6-0 junior who tips the scales at 200 pounds, scored 12 points in the second half after being pressed into duty by Owl regulars that had the knack for getting into foul trouble.

Kruse, who looks more like a tight end than a basketball player, was consistently getting loose under the Cranes' goal on superb feeds from Mitch Kiser and George Thompson. Teel complemented the attack by hitting bombs from the outside, and his six unanswered points in the third period seemed to turn the tide.

Crane, the pre-season favorite to win 7-AA, got 27 points from 6-2 senior Bill Lewis, but 17 of them came in the first half when the Cranes posted a 24-

23 halftime lead. The loss moved Crane into third place with their first loop loss and now stand 2-1 in district play. The Owls own a share of first place with the McCamey Badgers, both 2-0. The two will meet Friday in what will probably decide the first half title. The Owls came out gunning in the first period and hit three straight baskets for a quick 6-0 lead before a Lewis layup ended an 0-for-5 streak by the Cranes. A Kiser card ripper gave the Owls a 14-6 margin at 3:40 of the first period, and the eight point lead was to be the largest of the night.

Crane, however, began a comeback and the Owl lead was cut to 16-12 at the end of the first period. Then the Owls went into a super drought which saw the hosts miss 12 attempts at a score. They lost their lead at the 4:15

Writers pick Staubach top pro athlete

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) -Quarterback Roger Staubach of the Dallas Cowboys was a runaway choice for Pro Athlete of the Year in Texas as selected by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Staubach, who guided the wild-car Cowboys to Super Bowl X, drew 49 first place votes and 1,130 points to beat 12 other nominees in the preferential balloting. Halfback Mike Thomas of the Washington Redskins, picked as NFL rookie of the year, was runner-up. The former Greenville schoolboy star drew eight first place votes and 904 points. Two other pro footballers, Billy

Johnson of the Houston Oilers and Cliff Harris of the Dallas Cowboys, finished third and fourth. Johnson was third with 11 first place votes and 867 points. He tied an NFL record for kickoff returns for touchdowns. Harris, selected for the All-Pro Bowl, finished with 11 first place votes and 883 points. Shortstop Toby Harrah of the Texas Rangers, named to the All-Star game and All-League team, was fifth with 775 points.

Golfer Sandra Palmer of Fort Worth, who won almost $100,000 in prize money the past year, was next with 771 points. Race driver A. J. Foyt, winner of over $300,000 and the national champion, had 726 points.

However, the stunner came at Austin where winless Texas upset Arkansas 59-57 with a screaming, stomping crowd psyching the Razorbacks' Jack Schulte into missing two free throws with time expired.

In the only other game, North Texas State outran Southern Methodist 96-88 in non-conference action.

Rams anxious to make deal for Namath

NEW YORK (AP) — You may be calling 'Broadway Joe' Namath "Hollywood Joe" any day now - if the New York Jets and Los Angeles Rams can work out a deal for the football star.

Los Angeles owner Carroll Rosenbloom would love to make a catch of the high-priced Jet quarterback, who's declared publicly that he wants to be traded to "One thing Joe said interests me," Rosenbloom said Tuesday in an interview with The Associated Press. "He said he thought he could help the Rams. I am interested in anybody who can help the Rams. What we want to do is win. The Rams, of course, are stocked with good quarterbacks, although perhaps none with Namath's skills and experience. At 32, Namath is still rated one of the game's top passers despite gimpy knees and a history of injuries. The 1975 season was one of his worst - and one of the worst in Jet history as well. They finished with a 3-11 record, winding up with the third worst defensive record in the history of the National Football To say that Namath didn't enjoy the year would be an understatement. Afterward, he deduced that the Jets were going with a "youth movement" for next season and that he didn't fit in their plans. He expressed a desire to leave for the West Coast. However, he didn't tell Jets president Phil Iselin. "Joe hasn't said a word to me about being traded."

Tuesday night while Iselin said. "Sure, if he wished, we would be willing dropping a 46-33 District to trade him, granting we got what we wanted."

5-A cage verdict to The Rams may not be able to give the Jets what they want, however. In fact, the Rams may be hardpressed giving Namath what he wants. He was paid about $450,000 last year and it's reported his contract will soar to $500,000 in 1976. "We are not in a position to pay that kind of money, never would be," Rosenbloom said. "It would hurt way for Shallowater with the football team. But the Jets are committed to pay 17 points while none of the it. So, if the Jets are really thinking about a complete

All because you didn't learn the telephone trick.

The danger of a heart ruff should occur to you. How will East get the lead to his partner for the heart ruff? Clearly, by way of a diamond. YOUR DEFENSE

Your defense against this is to lead the diamonds before East is ready to ruff. You set up communications before the opponents have anything useful to say or do.

If you lead a diamond at the third trick, East will win and return a club. You try the finesse, losing to the king. That takes out West's last entry, and there is still a heart in the East hand.

Map expert pinpoints locations

By ANDY LIPPMAN

CINCINNATI (AP) - Sometimes Carl Marquette must feel like a latter-day "Answer Man." He gets calls for the locations of large cities, small cities, cities which no longer exist and cities which exist and whose names have been so badly mispronounced through the years that they are no longer recognizable.

Question Marquette where an ancestor might have lived in 1887, or the best way to get around Berea, Ohio. He probably knows.

Marquette watches over one of the Midwest's largest map collections, housed in the Cincinnati Public Library.

Although it is largely an unknown commodity to the general public, there are still plenty of people who have enough questions to keep Marquette rummaging through a collection of over 100,000 maps, 800

atlases and 250 gazetteers. "One time, we had a fellow call who wanted to know the shape of a certain lake in New Guinea," recalls Marquette, who searched more than two hours before he came up with the

Much of his time is spent roaming the paper countryside of Germany and the old AustroHungarian Empire, trying to find the old homestead for many of the Cincinnati residents with German ancestry.

In fact, he receives many requests from people who have finally decided to find out whether their grandparents were telling the truth about a place in Germany.

Other questions come from genealogists tracing ancestral homes, and for them Marquette can offer city maps dating back to 1798. With the use of ward lists, Marquette can pinpoint where a family lived in the city, or in much of the surrounding area.

Marquette, who has been map librarian since 1972, can also serve as a travel consultant. The library consistently buys city street maps for all cities with a population of over 25,000 and almost any community in the area with a population of over 5,000. The maps are available on loan.

"There's almost nowhere in the city that you can buy a map," says Marquette. "Every once in a while you find a map of Chicago, but by the time you want one, the store is sold

Phone calls to Marquette ask for such minute details as the zip code of Port Republic, Md., which has a population of 10.

In case you're writing someone there, save the phone call. Marquette had the answer. It's 29676.

DASIN NOW AMERICA'S #1 SELLING IMPORT

Whyshould I care?

Not many people give any thought to the fact that one auto company is outselling another. But that doesn't mean it isn't worth thinking about.

After all, Datsun outsold all other imports in 1975 for some good reasons.

Probably the most important is the way Datsuns stretch gas. But there's more to it than that. Let's look at Datsun's strong points:

Choice of Models. At a Datsun Dealer you can select from an entire economy car pool, wading right through hardtops and hatchbacks, stylish sedans and our legendary Z-Car. Wagons, too. Fourteen models in all, including America's #1 selling small pickup, Datsun's Li'l Hustler.

Gas Mileage. While other cars are learning, their fuel keeps burning. Datsuns knew how to pass up a gas pump a long time ago, and we keep getting better. Right now, our champion gas squeezer, the B-210, gets an amazing 41 MPG on the highway and 29 MPG in the city. (EPA mileage estimate. Manual transmission. Your mileage may be more or less depending on the condition of your car and how you drive.)

Parts and Service.

Datsun takes care of its own. You can count on a dealer network with nearly 4,000 factory-trained service technicians, and a nationwide, computer-connected parts system. Your Datsun Dealer's very big on small car experience, too.

Value and Durability.

Datsun puts 'em together to stay together-with 43 years experience building today's size cars. Quality features like unibody construction, crankshafts with five main bearings and all-vinyl upholstery mean a Datsun not only saves, it survives.

The whole point is that we want you to know we're number one, but not to do a number on you. Datsun outsells other imports for good reasons: economy, durability, a wide selection of models and a fine dealer network. If you're in the market for a car, it's something you ought to care about. A lot.

Come look at number one.

Bonn won't sell Saudi Arabia personnel carriers

The Los Angeles Times
BONN — The West German government has decided not to sell 800 armored personnel carriers worth $400 million to Saudi Arabia because this would be contrary to Bonn's longstanding policy against sending military hardware into "areas of tension," qualified sources have revealed.

Another $200 million in spare parts would have been included in the deal. Although Saudi Arabia has not been an active combatant in the Middle East, the entire area around Israel is covered by the West German em-

Chancellor Helmut Schmidt has delayed a reconsideration of the arms embargo apparently in hopes that the general economic recovery in Germany and among its trading partners would remove some of the pressure by military manufacturers anxious to enlarge their markets.

After several postponements, the Security Committee of the cabinet is expected to make a new statement on the issue later this month.

"We will probably say that Iran, Brazil and Peru are not areas of tension but that Israel, Egypt and Syria are," one official said.

While the government may loosen some of the restrictions on arms manufacturers, the most likely increase in overseas sales will come from the several joint development projects of new weapons German companies have with other Europeans.

The government's overriding concern is to increase Germany's good standing in the world and to avoid reawakening the memories of the national history of militarism.

Former labor union organizer sentenced

Charles Dean Davis, 38, a former labor union organizer in Midland, was sentenced Tuesday in federal court here to two one-year prison terms for making false reports to the U.S. Secretary of Labor and with making false entries in union records in the Judge D. W. Suttle, turned the first punishment into a split sentence and ordered the man to serve five months in prison. He suspended the remaining seven months and placed him on probation for five years.

Suttle also suspended the second one-year prison term and ordered Davis on probation for five years.

The court dismissed against Davis an indictment alleging he embezzled more than $22,400 in union funds.

"He was in a battle of survival his defense attorney, Britt Thurman of Abilene, told the court of Davis' efforts to built up the union during a construction boom in a 16county area in West Texas.

"None of this money when into Mr. Davis' pocket," he said.

U.S. Assistant Dist. Atty. Ronald Guyer recommended that the embezzlement charge against Davis be dropped in a plea-bargaining agreement.

Davis was president, financial secretary and business agent of the Midland-based Local Union 789 of the International Association of Or-

Judge denies bond reduction

Federal Court Judge D. W. Suttle on Tuesday denied reduction of a $75,000 bail bond set on a 29-year-old El Paso man charged with hauling 2,900 pounds of marijuana from Mexico to Texas on Jan. 14.

However, the judge allowed the accused, George Michael Frisbie, to make his bail by deposting $1,500 in cash and by having his relatives and friends sign surety bonds totaling Earlier. Judge Suttle had turned down defense attorney Sib Abraham's suggestion that the amount of bail be lowered to $10,000.

"Of course," the judge said, "there's a lot marijuana involved here, almost 3,000 pounds, if the government's allegations are right."

Frisbie, a seven-year veteran of the Air Force, said he is enrolled at The University of Texas at El Paso. He was arrested last Wednesday by U.S. Border Patrolmen 31 miles south of Alpine on State Hwy, 118. Frisbie said he was driving a pickup truck. fitted with a camper, borrowed a day or two earlier from a friend.

Site selected for UTPB housing

Site has been selected for transi-tional student housing at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin and invitations to submit proposals are being mailed to groups which have indicated an interest in leasing 100 mobile home units for that pur-

Proposals will be received until 2 p.m. Feb. 9.

Dr. Richard Keist, Director of Student Services at UTPB, through whose offices the housing program is being handled, said the chosen site is immediately north and slightly west of the university's south campus cluster which includes the Learning Resource Center. This is near the center of the campus and east of the UTPB classroom and laboratory buildings.

The invitation for proposals specifies UTPB's intention to establish the temporary 12-acre housing complex for 300 to 400 students, consisting of mobile home units and one double laundry unit for the fall

City zoning board okays agenda items

The City Zoning Board of Adjustment approved all five items on their agenda during regular session Tuesday.

A request by William D. Knickerbocker of 4324 Princeton was approved by the board with no opposition voiced.

Knickerbocker wanted to build a two-car garage and storage area in violation of side yard setback requirements as stated in the City

He said the storage area would be set back 12 feet from the curb area. If it were set back the required 22 feet, the area . would overlap his kitchen,

His garage would be set back 17 feet; if it had to be set back the required five additional feet, he could not get a gate there, he added. He said the storage building would have no windows and would be a solid wall on the west side, designed to keep out noise from Midland Drive. The board agreed he could go ahead with his project. Board members also gave their approval to a request by S. G. Carrasco, 4620 Bowie, to build a bay window at the front of his garage in violation of front yard setback requirements stated in the Code.

Carrasco said he would only need two to two and one-half feet in front of his garage to construct the bay window and said the structure would not protrude from the house's

Board members gave their approval to a request by Paul Noel to expand a non-conforming business operation at 3404 FM 868 in violation of the City Code. Noel said he wanted to construct a building of some 2,000 square feet of storage space in the rear of two buildings he already has on the property. The wood frame building with no wiring or plumbing would store masonry products, stucco,

The invitation seeks proposals for three phases:

1. By Aug. 1, furnishing and installing on the site, construction of foundations and connecting utilities for 50 three-bedroom similar units and two laundry units.

2. Leasing the 100 units and two laundry units to UTPB for three years, with options to the university of lease renewal for one or more additional years, of earlier termination on payment of a suitable penalty or of purchasing the units at the end of the three-year lease.

3. Removing the units from the site at the end of the lease.

It specifies that payment for the listed work and rental will be made in 36 equal monthly payments over a three-year period beginning Sept. 1,

The invitation says that while the university desire double units installed, a proposal for single units closely spaced may be submitted as an alternate. Also the university will consider

- The people here still speak of Feb. 13, 1945, as the night that their world-famous city turned "blood red" with fire hurled from the sky amid the last agony of tens of thousands.

To this day, Dresden has not fully recovered, the scars in the city center still obvious even at first

City planners say frankly it will be the year 2000, and more likely beyond that, before a Dresden risen from the ashes will once again take on a full new form.

Dr. Dieter Moebus, 41, is assistant to the chief architect charged by the government with the formidable task of restoring as much as possible while charting a way into the future. Moebus, who studied in Dresden but who is from the city of Magdeburg, said he found it an exhilarating challenge. He disclosed that at war's end 30 years ago various plans were considered as the city lay in ruins, its baroque elegance fireblackened, heaps of bodies buried in unmarked mass graves to reduce the threat of epidemic.

The alternatives considered, Moebus declared, ranged from rebuilding all of Dresden exactly as it was to moving it from its present location to another nearby site along. the Elbe River.

It was quickly evident. Moebus added, that Dresden's people never would have accepted its location being shifted from the old city center on the south side of the river.

In any case, Moebus said, a decision to rebuild on the old location as much as possible that could be salvaged while adding new concepts

The bombing was done primarily by the British Royal Air Force in an action ordered late in World War II that remains controversial to this day as to its military necessity.

The philosophy is that a person must work for the entire society, completely unconcerned whether that good work is noticed. If it is noticed and he is proposed, then he has a duty to accept.

Petrsons indicating political ambition would be shunned for trying to build names for themselves. A warning against building personality cults and GARLAND, Tex. (AP) — Despite a modest start, the Texas Municipal Power Pool has mushroomed into a massive system that now expects few problems in selling $8 billion in bonds over the next 20 years.

The pool is a one-of-a-kind, "consumer-owned" electric generating system that began with a single transmission line hookup between Garland and the Brazos Power Electric Cooperative

Charles Duckworth, Garland city manager and president of the newly formed Texas Municipal Power Agency, says the pool had its start during World War II when his Dallas suburb turned to the Brazos system to help provide electricity to a defense

"In the 1950s, Greenville tied into us," he said. "They needed the power and we needed the support-spinning reserves-if one plant failed, the rest of the system would pick it up.'

In 1963 the power pool was officially formed between the cities of Bryan, Garland and Greenville and the Brazos system. Denton joined in 1969. Each city owned its own generating transmission facilities and saved money, Duckworth says. The pool's purpose is uninterrupted service at economical savings for the plant, but they shared the Brazos customers. With the energy crisis, natural gas became more expensive and less reliable as a source of fuel for power

"Last year we got the legislature to allow the four cities and Brazos to create the new agency," Duckworth said. "This allows us to join together to finance a large plant that will burn lignite (coal) fuel and reduce fuel costs by 50 per cent.

Part of the bond money will be used to begin purchasing 10 per cent interest in the Glen Rose nuclear power plant being built by Texas Utilities and three of its subsidiaries.

Duckworth estimates the power pool saved the city of Garland $5.7 million in fuel and construction costs from 1963 to 1974.

The Dove Creek field gained its fourth Canyon "D" oil well and was extended 1¼ mile southeast into Tom Operating Co. No. 1-A Winterbotham, 12 miles southeast of Mertzon.

The daily flowing potential was for 37 barrels of 47.3-gravity oil with gasoil ratio of 6,918-1. Production was through a 12-64inch choke and perforations at 6,388-6,396 feet, after acidizing pay with 2,000 gallons.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 28, block 21. H&TC survey SUTTON EXTENDER

Amoco Production Co. has completed No. 3-1 Edwin S. Mayer Jr. as a 2%-mile south and slightly east extension into Sutton County of the Turkey Roost (upper Pennsylvanian)

It had a calculated, absolute, open flow potential of 3.9 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 6,714-6,972 feet. The pay was treated with 50,000 gallons and 8,2500 pounds of sand fracture.

Drilled to 7,375 feet, it has been plugged back to 7,310 feet, in 41/2-inch pipe set at 7,352 feet.

Location is 2,000 feet from most easterly south line and 300 feet from most easterly east line of Day Land & Cattle Co. survey 1026, abstract 837, 20 miles northwest of Sonora.

Newton announces candidacy for RRC

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Rep. Jon Newton, D-Beeville, entered the Railroad Commission race Tuesday with a filing fee of$1,000 in $1 donations from his hometown supporters.

"These dollars represent a lot of respect and admiration that you enjoy in your home town," said Alfredo Moreno, Beeville civic leader, as he presented the stacks of bills to Newton at a news conference.

Newton, 34, immediately handed them over to State Democratic Chairman Calvin Guest.

Already in the Democratic race for the Railroad Commission seat being vacated by Ben Ramsey are Rep. Lane Denton, D-Waco; Houston lawyer Terence O'Rourke, and Rep. Dave Finney, D-Fort Worth. Also in the race is Walter Wendlandt, Austin, former commission executive recently turned Republican.

"I do not claim to have any magic solution to our problems and I think anyone who does is trying to pull the wool over the eyes of the public," Neton told the news conference.

"And pulling the wool over their eyes is not going to keep people warm when they run out of natural gas," he Newton said one of his aims, if elected, would be to "do something about the Coastal States-Lo-Vaca matter ... I'm not just sure what. It seems to me there sould be some incentive for Lo-Vaca to purchase natural gas at the lowest possible price and not just pass the increased cost on to the fuel consumers."

Newton said he did not think the severe gas curtailments brought on by Lo-Vaca contracts could be solved by "spinning off" Lo-Vaca from its parent firm, Coastal States Producing Co. "If they spin off LoVaca, there should be adequate money for working capital for Lo-Vaca. Coastal States has some responsibility for the LoVaca contracts."

Newton has been practicing law in Beeville since 1965. He has been a member of the Texas House since

Strike offset in Ward Field

Union Texas Petroleum Corp. will drill No. 4 West Caprito Unit as a 34mile south offset to the middle Delaware pay opener in the Caprito field of Ward County, nine miles northwest of Pyote.

Drillsite for the test, slated to 6,250 feet, is 467 feet from north and west lines of section 38, block 17, ULS.

The discovery, Union Texas No. 2-J

West Caprito-Unit-Graham, was completed Feb. 2, 1975, for 71 barrels of 39.4-gravity oil and 89 barrels of water per day, through perforations at 6,004-6,164 feet.

Commission suspends interests in ventures

DALLAS (AP) - The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has suspended sales interests in 48 Texas drilling ventures by eight Schedule D oil and gas firms, including two of the largest in the country

The suspensions announced Tuesday could mean the companies would lose for five years their exemption from registration under the 1933 U.S. Securities Act. The exemption now permits the firms to sell up to $250,000 in working interests for the drilling of each well. Five of the suspended firms are controlled by Paul E. Cash and J.W. Heflin of Dallas, whose headquarters have been moved from Dallas to Shreveport, La., the SEC said.

Cash and Heflin's Enntex Oil & Gas Co. had filed offerings with the SEC

tures, making it the second largest Schedule D firm in the country. An-Enntex representative testified in district court in Dallas last monththat losses to both Enntex and investors could run as high as $40 million if the firm were liquidated. Also suspended by the SEC was Tri-State Oil & Gas, Inc., the country's most active Schedule D firm before it stopped doing business in Houston. Tri-State, which filed 39 offering sheets in 1975, was cited by the SEC for failure to deliver the SEC offering sheets before selling interests in oil and gas leases. Profit taking gets good hold on market

NEW YORK (AP) - Profit taking finally took hold on the stock market today following a string of almost uninterrupted price gains since the start of 1976.

The Noon Dow Jones industrial average dropped 6.46 to 943.40, cutting short a 97-point rally begun about three weeks ago. New York Stock Exchange losers topped gainers by more than a 3 to 1 margin, but the biggest declines were in higherpriced blue chips and glamors which had scored the largest gains in the rally.

Chart-watching analysts said they weren't surprised to see the market slide as the Dow approached 950, a level few expected the market to broach on its first attempt. Others noted some concern on Wall Street over fighting in Lebanon, as well as the surprise halting of trade in the lira by the Italian government in response to that country's economic problems. Transco Cos., leading the Big Board actives, dropped % to 916, including a 201,300 share block at that price. The NYSE's composite stock index was off 0.35 at 51.98, while the American exchange's market value index gave up 0.22 at 92.78. Volume at the Big Board was 14.83 million in the first two trading hours, still heavy but down from Tuesday's nearrecord 17.20 million. Alcoa, which reported lower 4th quarter earnings Tuesday, declined 136 to 4214 In the glamor area, Digital Equipment was off 2% to 160%. IBM dropped 2% to 20%, and Johnson lost 1% to 87%.

Cross-examination of Carrillo continues

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) -Crossexamination of Judge O. P. Carrillo continues today, with senators planning to work longer hours to hasten the end of Carrillo's impeachment trial.

Prosecutor Terry Doyle ended one line of cross-examination Tuesday, with Carrillo saying witnesses had lied under oath when they said Duval County bought his groceries."

Cleofas Gonzalez and Mrs. Lauro Yzaguirre had testified county payments to the Yzaguirre grocery store were based on chits listing persons who did not obtain groceries. "All I can say is that Mrs Yzaguirre and Mr. Gonzalez have lied told the Senate. Senators voted to work from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day instead of quitting at 5 p.m. to expedite the trial.

to this body of men here," Carrillo

Carrillo also accused Atty. Gen John Hill of allying himself with Archer Parr to take over the Duval County water district and of being out "to get all the Carrillos."

Hill promptly denied the ac-

Carrillo's assertion came after he had denied using tile owned by the Benavides Independent School District at the time he was school board president in the 1960s.

Doyle reminded him that two menwho might have testified about the matter, Rogelio Guajardo, his nephew, and D. C. Chapa, his father, took the fifth amendment in earlier proceedings.

Carrillo replied they did so on the advice of Hill, "who went down there, taking instructions from Archer Parr. with his sights set to get all the Carrillos.

"I definitely do make the accusation that the attorney general of the State of Texas, Mr. John Hill, got together with Mr. Archer Parr to take over the water district," Carrillo said.

He said both Archer Parr, whom he removed last year as Duval County Judge, and the late George Parr, the "Duke of Duval," had taken money or equipment from the district.

'And the attorney general has done absolutely nothing about it," Carrillo

Rental camera seized in Schnabel probe

By ROBERT HEARD

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - A "rental" camera with Charles Schnabel's initials on it has been seized by a district attorney's investigator, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says he favors another vote on the resolution allowing Schnabel to keep his job pending trial.

The Senate approved that resolution by an 18-13 vote on Jan. 5 despite Hobby's opposition.

Hobby cannot call a Senate caucus to reconsider Schnabel's status. Sen. A. M. Aikin, DParis, dean of the Senate, calls caucuses. Asked Tuesday if he thought the Senate Administration Committee. which has been investigating the Schnabel case, should recommend a caucus to Aikin, Hobby replied: 'Well, the dean has very good judgment. Let's put it that way

Jim Sturdivant, manager of Capitol Camera Rentals, declined to comment on the camera's ownership or anything else about the case.

David Sheppard, investigator for Dist. Atty. Bob Smith, seized the camera in Schnabel's office Tuesday. He also took boxes of Senate records of purchases and rentals for the past seven years

Sources told The Associated Press. that Schnabel dropped the camera on the Senate floor several months ago, returned it to the rental firm for repairs and that someone at the firm called Schnabel's office to learn his middle initial and Social Security number, afterward returning the engraved camera to him.

Abilene calls booze vote

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) Abilene residents vote for the first time in 38 years next month on whether they want to legalize the sale of alcholic beverages. Taylor County commissioners voted unanimously Tuesday to hold the election Feb. 17. Last week they were presented a petition with 5,453 signatures requesting the election-1,057 more than needed to put the measure on the ballot. A ruling Monday by State District Court

Judge J. Neil Daniel

turned down a final effort

by opponents of the liquor election to delay the vote. Parts of Abilene lying in Jones County and adjoining precincts are not included in the election. The vote will be taken in Taylor County Justice Precinct 1, including Dyess Air Force Base, and the nearby communities of Tye, Proponents had sought last fall to put the measure on the ballot.
