Odessan charged in city bank holdup

A 17-year-old Odessa man has been charged with the Dec. 16 robbery of Western State Bank and will be charged with the Jan. 16 robbery of Texas State Bank in Lubbock, police said today.

James Richard Clement, 2416 W. 49th St., Odessa, was identified by witnesses at the two banks. He is being held in Midland city jail in lieu of $50,000 bond on a charge of robbery in connection with the Western State Bank holdup.

Clement was identified by Midland witnesses Thursday afternoon in Odessa and by Lubbock witnesses this morning in the Midland city jail. Clement was arrested Thursday at his Odessa home by Odessa and Midland police and agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Clement signed a waiver to have his attorney present at a line-up in Odessa, Luckey said.

Two tellers from the Midland bank, Laura Glass and Reba Jo Waters. were driven to Odessa where they identified Clement as the robber who took $7,000 from Western State Bank. McFadden said.

"Without their cooperation, assistance and support - it would have made our job a lot harder," McFadden commented. "Nor would the case have come to a successful conclusion.

McFadden said law enforcement authorities acted on a tip from Clement's parole officer. Mike Neely, who recognized the picture taken Jan. 16! at Texas State Bank of Lubbock by a hidden camera.

Witnesses at both banks initially estimated the age of the robber as in the mid-to-late 20s, according to earlier reports. McFadden explained the discrepancy, "He looks quite a bit older than 17. After they (Mrs. Glass and Mrs. Waters) identified him in the line-up, I told them his age. They were both very surprised."

Charges were filed and prepared in Midland County and a warrant for Clement's arrest was issued by Justice of the Peace Robert H. Pine, Luckey said.

He added that Clement, as a point of law, had a court hearing in Ector County, which provided him the opportunity of making bond in the county where he lives. Clement could not make bond there, so he was transported to Midland County and went through the same process, Luckey explained. The latter court hearing and bond setting nullified the one in Ector County, Luckey con-

Midland police said $1,200 was found in Clement's trailer-home, but did not confirm it came from either the Lubbock or Midland bank. Floor

Wallace: 'leadership a disaster'

HOME EDITION

America is suffering more acutely from a lack of political leadership than it is from an energy crisis rooted in dwindling fossil fuels, Mack Wallace, Texas Railroad Commissioner, said in Midland Thursday

"We don't suffer in this country with an energy crisis," he said. "We have more coal than any country in the world.'

Like oil and natural gas, he said, coal is buried under a mire of laws and regulations more so than it is under the earth.

Then, lashing out on what he called this country's "national disaster," the commissioner said:

"We suffer from a total lack of political leadership on both sides of the aisle" - Democrat and Republican.

That missing leadership — congressional and administrative is the root-cause of America's failure to be independent in energy resources, he said.

Wallace, a Democrat who was appointed to the Railroad Commission in September 1973 by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, was speaking to Midland Jaycees and Midland business, industrial, and political leaders at the Jaycees' annual Distinguished Service Award-Bosses' (Continued on Page 2A)

Douglas B. On the brink of tears in accepting the award, Henson said that the Jaycees is a character-building organization "that gives a young man the opportunity to try his way, to fail, and not be criticized, and to come back and try again."

Carrillo impeachment vote probable today

AUSTIN (AP) — Judge O.P. Carrillo's lawyer said in final arguments today the district court jurist never would have been im-peached had he not "stood in the way of the Parr machine.'

Arthur Mitchell also told the suspended judge's Senate impeachment trial that disqualifying Carrillo from further officeholding would be "like the death penalty" to one so imbued with politics.

Executive Asst. Atty. Gen. John Odam began final arguments at Carrillo's impeachment trial by saying the state's witnesses, including one who testified under an immunity from prosecution, were believable while the judge was not.

Senate deliberations, which can be held in secret, were to begin after final arguments, probably after a noon recess.

Conviction, with a subsequent decision to bar the judge from ever holding public office again, would end the first Senate impeachment trial since 1931.

Acquittal or failure to disqualify Carrillo could result in continuation of the trial, which began Jan. 5 after three long postponements.

While senators may vote to deliberate behind closed doors, they must reach their verdict in public. A two-thirds majority of those present and voting is required to convict the

Welch kicks off campaign

Paul Welch, until recently a detective sergeant in the Midland Police Department, this morning announced his candidacy for Midland County sheriff in the May 1 Democratic primary election.

"I did this after much encouragement from others and per-sonal soul searching," Welch, 40, said in making his candidacy announcement at a campaign send-off breakfast at the Rodeway Inn here.

As sheriff, Welch said he would operate "professionally" in field work and as an administrator. Welch, who becomes the fourth candidate seeking the sheriff's fouryear tern of office, this morning also outlined his reorganization proposal for the sheriff's department. "As your sheriff," he said, "I will

Intervenors plan to continue school fight

By LUANNA CROW Even four years after the proposal first appeared, Dr. Viola Coleman finds the Midland public schools' desegregation plan "grossly unfair."

A black Midland physician who has found herself in the role of spokesman, she has battled the Midland Independent School District on "Plan A-2" since it first was announced Aug. 19, 1971. And now that the case has gone up

Court, Dr. Coleman sees her name listed, along with "United States of America" (Justice Department), as respondent on a petition for a writ of

If the high court decides to grant the writ and, therefore, hear the case, she feels Midland's black community "will retain legal counsel. At least we

Dr. Coleman, as a representative of the black community, and other dissatisfied southeast Midland residents entered the case as intervenors when the MISD went to district court to seek approval of Plan

When the late Judge Ernest Guinn gave it his blessing, the Justice Department appealed to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court because the plan omits provisions for desegregating De Zavala, a traditionally Mexican-American School.

The intervenors, too, appealed. Their objection was that Plan A-2 placed the weight of integration on minority students and others in southeast Midland.

"The burden of integration in Midland County already is being borne by blacks, and probably, the browns," Dr. Coleman said. "One of the reasons integration has worked so well in Midland is the blacks have been willing to bear that burden without any fanfare." Although noting it also would have failed without the cooperation of the white population, she stressed that the minority groups have carried a "disproportionate share" of the in-'Our children are riding the bus the last six years of their schooling grades seven through 12. The integration plan at the junior and senior high school level involves having the white children ride the bus for one year only, in the ninth grade." If Plan A-2 were enacted, youngsters affected by the scheme "would be the first children in the (school) system living in the city limits riding a bus the first six years of their public schooling.

The MISD plan, devised after the Department of Health, Education and Welfare ordered the district to desegregate the nearly all-black Washington Elementary School, calls for closing that school completely and reopening Bunche Elementary. Then boundary lines with the adjacent South and Travis elementary schools would be revamped, with all southeast Midiand students distributed among South, Travis and Bunche. Four busloads of rural white students would fill out enrollment statistics for non-minorities.

Dr. Coleman feels the school board, in their plans to close Washington and reopen smaller Bunche, was seeking to involve the smallest number of whites. This meant that some of the black children within the community would be bused to either Travis or South beginning with their very first year of elementary schooling.

Gilbert C. Tompson, a member of the board of trustees who was president at the time Plan A-2 was presented, said board members thought "the current plan with neighborhood schools are were the best thing" for all Midlanders.

However, HEW ruled that Washington must be desegregated, thereby dissolving the neighborhood concept for that school. "If we had to correct one school, we felt like we shouldn't upset the entire community if we could help it. We wanted to do it the simplest way possible," Tompson

Dr. Coleman feels the school board was "interested in obeying the law at least the letter of the law.

"To single out these three schools seemed grossly unfair. It also seemed that since more blacks were riding the bus in grades seven through 12 on a percentage of enrollment basis, in all fairness, the percentage could have been reversed," she said.

"It seems like only 10 per cent of the black children should be bused if only 10 per cent of the kids in school are

Dr. Coleman, a Midlander since 1951, had two sons in public school when the MISD announced Plan A-2. Although both her children were beyond the age where they could be affected by a boundary change, she felt it important to get involved.

"It was a basic injustice to the little man who can't fight his own battle." Community involvement is no stranger to Dr. Coleman who last week was elected chief of staff at Parkview Hospital. She also is president of the Midland County Medical Society and is a board member for Planned Parenthood, where she serves one clinic session each week.

Since her involvement in the desegregation problem, she has been instrumental in winning a "stay" of instrumental in winning a "stay" of Plan A-2 in the appeals court. That stay was granted in 1972 and remained in effect until August 1975 when the appeals court ruled in favor of the Justice Department.

In the interim, however, other intervenors representing southeast Midland's white population have dropped out of the picture. They remain interested but inactive.

While that group was active while that group was active, however, it devised an integration plan of citywide busing which was presented in district court.

Dr. Coleman's group also devised a plan which called for maintaining Washington Elementary and also

Nice weather expected in area for weekend

Midland and area residents can look forward to another pretty weekend weather-wise, according to the National Weather Service.

Partly cloudy skies with cool mornings and warm afternoons dominate the forecast for Saturday. Today's high was reported to be near 70. The overnight low will be in the upper 30s, with Saturday's high climbing into the mid 60s.

Friday, skies were clear in Rankin. Stanton, Big Lake and Crane, while Lamesa and Andrews reported partly cloudy skies. Mild temperatures and no winds was the rule throughout the Winds this afternoon were forecast from the west at 15-25 mph, decreasing to 5-10 mph tonight.

Winds from the south to southwest warmed Texas today. Skies were clear over much of the state, but prospects were seen for increasing clouds and possibly a few badly needed showers scattered across the southern half.

Fog dropped visibility close to zero in parts of Southeast Texas early in the day, cloaking areas near the coast and as far as 50 miles inland.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from 26 degrees at Marfa in far West Texas and 32 at Dalhart in the Panhandle up to 57 at Corpus Christi. The top marks Thursday afternoon climbed into the 70s at some points, going as high as 76 at Alice in South reopening Bunche. The non-minority enrollment would come from rural children arriving on buses, she said

"At the time we submitted our proposal, there were too many black children to be accommodated in Washington Elemantary and still meet the requirements of the law, so the plan called for reopening Bunche. also," she explained.

MISD officials objected to the plan, citing the increased cost of operating an extra school and the necessity for more busing.

Dr. Coleman said that plan, if instituted today, probably wouldn't require reopening Bunche to accomodate "all the black children in the community" due to a population shift and a decreased birth rate.

Payton E. Cook, director of pupil and community services for the MISD, confirms the population shift in the Travis and South neighborhoods. More blacks and browns have moved in, and more whites have moved out, he said.

The upshot of the shift, according to Cook, is Plan A-2, if enacted four-anda-half years after it was drawn, could easily transform either South or Travis into a "racially identifiable" school Dr. James H. Mailey, superin-

Department would sanction an integration plan which would create a school situation with a minority enrollment over 66 per cent. However, he disagrees with Cook on the probability of creating such a tendent, said he doubts the Justice situation. He feels the balance will be close to the limits set by HEW, but feels Plan A-2 still would hold 'roughly the same' ethnic balance.

Dr. Coleman, asked if she agrees with a law which demands an ethnic balance, replied, "Basically, yes. As the years have gone by, it makes you wonder, but I think educational opportunity should be equal and equally available.

She feels education in mostly black schools is "more on par with the rest of the city now than it was" before the Civil Rights Act of 1964 made itself

"The school board did not feel Carver (Junior High) was as good as San Jacinto or Alamo," she asserted, when they decided to close Carver and initiate citywide integration in the secondary schools.

Carver Junior-Senior High was closed at the end of the 1967-68 school term. The trustees first planned to close only the senior high portion, but later voted to shut down junior high operations, too.

Dr. Coleman recalled the black community's anger and disbelief when "their" school was closed. However, "having been through it once, we were better able to respond in a positive way" when they heard the news about Washington. 'We were the last to know." she

Although she objects to the principle of minority children bearing the brunt of busing, Dr. Coleman finds the current situation ironic. "Historically, the black children have been walking, while the white children have been riding a bus.' Still, she feels busing is only a problem if society makes it one. "The average black person cannot react to the issue of busing as the average white person does," she said. 'Busing has only become a bad word since it has involved bringing white students into black or brown schools. It is very difficult to understand why it is upsetting everyone — a 15-minute ride on a bus.

Dr. Coleman said she asks herself if busing is used as "a screen, a beautiful smoke screen" by those to reject integration.

'When you jump on the band wagon about busing, what are you really fighting?"

have a line command and staff command.' He said the line command would include patrol, criminal investigation, vice and narcotics, and case investigation divisions. The staff command, he explained would take in identification, special services, communications, warrant and jail divisions and bailiffs for the courts. Welch said his proposals for revamping the sheriff's department would hinge on the approval by the county commissioners whom "you (voters) have entrusted to spend your tax dollars." Welch's plans for shaping a "working professional sheriff's department" are aimed, he said, as deterrents to crime in the county. The crime rate in Midland, he said "has increased nearly 40 per cent in the past two years. "I will attempt to have," Welch ... a patrol division that operates on three shifts 24-hours a day." He said he would have four patrol cars "moving at all times" in Midland County. He county, he said, would be divided into four patrol "If someone calls for help," Welch said, "I want a sheriff's unit to be there within a matter of minutes. Welch said his deputies would be pressed in uniforms and would operate distinctly-marked patrol units. Welch's bid for the sheriff's post is his second campaign to unseat Ed

Darnell, 69, Midland County sheriff since 1941. In the 1972 Democratic primary election, Welch came in third behind Jesse Morales, now chief investigator for Dist. Atty. James A. Mashburn, and Darnell. Darnell drew in a majority of the votes then, and out-polled Republican opponent Vernon Conn 12,622-10,776 in the 1972 general

On Jan. 12, Darnell announced his bid for reelection. And in December, then Deputy Constable Bob Harris, 41, announced his candidacy for sheriff on the Democratic party ticket. The only Republican so far seeking the sheriff's post is Dallas Smith, 33, a one-time trooper in the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS). Welch, who began his career in law enforcement as a patrolman in the Midland Police Department in 1964, resigned his commission Jan. 15 to campaign for sheriff. Welch, a Midland County resident for 15 years, and his wife Billee are parents of three teen-age daughters: Paula, 16, LuAnn, 17, and Lauri, 19. He said that he is not related to Midland County Commissioner Charlie Welch.

Chuck Carter, a former state law enforcement agent, is Welch's campaign manager and treasurer. "I'm grateful for his dedication to professionalism in law enforcement," Carter said at the campaign rally attended by approximately 70 Welch supporters.

"We don't have the people at the national level who understand the serious situation that faces us today.' But an energy-apathetic Congress is only part of the total problem, he

"We are governed not by a Congress, not by a President, but by layers of federal bureaucracy." depth of that bureaucracy, he implied, may be indicated in the $350,000 the federal government spent in studying "the flight patterns of a Frisbee Wallace called "disgusting beyond belief" governmental experts who think they "can cut the price of a scarce commodity (petroleum) and (still) find more.

"There's something drastically wrong with this nation today . . .," he said.

That was not nearly the case a generation ago, Wallace said, when during World War II America's leadership knew the strategic value of petroleum. So did the Axis powers.

"If you don't think oil and gas aren't important," Wallace said, "ask (German Field Marshal Erwin) Rommel or Adolf Hitler." The Luftwaffe and Panzer divisions became virtually immobile due to Germany's fuel shortages.

But the Allied Forces were well fueled and victorious. Today, he said, the American public does not have that same driving spirit that produced the oil and fuel and won the war. "We don't have the same type of fortitude and determination that we had during those dark days of World War II."

"If we hadn't sent the fuel to the battle lines, we would have lost the war." he said.

Wallace recalled the laying of "The Big Inch" — a 1,400-mile pipeline carrying petroleum from Texas to New Jersey and New York. That line was constructed in "11 months and 16 days" in the early 1940s. Today, he said, the proposed 800-mile Alaskan pipeline is years from completion despite years of study, talk, and environmental bickering. "And the old-timers tell me that they could build it in less time .

with a pickup truck and a shovel," Wallace said. America today has "more technology but less political sense'

We live in an 'Alice and Blunderland' . . .," he said. "And I say that with a great deal of regret, because I wish it weren't so.'

than in years past, Wallace said.

Wallace talked of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's "trying to give away the Panama Canai" and of the U.S. Navy being compromised into running its fleets "on foreign crude

"The greatest tragedy — that could befall this nation," Wallace said, "is the continuation of the type of thing that makes us dependent on foreign crude." He said the United States spends $75 million per day on foreign crude oil. Wallace called on bipartisan efforts at home "to put coal in the bin" and "to put oil in the oil tank."

"I would like to see statesmen who can make a big lie out of (Russian novelist) Alexander Solzhenitsyn" who claimed that American politicans lack foresight and the nationalistic spirit to be concerned with the nation's long-term welfare. They're too interested in material gain and in getting reelected. Wallace said of olzhenitsyn's observations.

Wallace himself made a few observations and turned his criticism to the three major television networks: ABC, CBS, and NBC.

Consumer credit group hears Henry

Norman Henry, district manager of Pioneeer Natural Gas Co. was the guest speaker at this morning's meeting of the Midland Consumer Credit Associationat Ramada Inn.

He explained that natural gas bills are higher because the gas is costing the gas companies more. He said gas reserves have dwindled and competition from petrochemical and industrial companies has never been so fierce.

President of the organization, Terry Blaney, reported a credit education committee was recently appointed to hold classes for interested groups concerning the wise use of credit.

Clement was booked into the city jail at 4 p.m. Thursday and will remain there until he makes bond, police said.

PLAZA

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) - Joey's getting tired of mashed potatoes and Jello. He wants a big. juicy hamburger or a messy hot dog or a leg of fried That's rather typical for a 5-year-old boy. But Joey Green isn't a typical little boy.

He was born with a partial esophagus and had to be fed through a tube inserted in his stomach. The esophagus connects the mouth with the stomach.

He never felt the rich, creamy taste of chocolate ice cream slide down his throat nor knew the pleasure of chopping down on a hunk of bubble gum, swallowing the juice and blowing a sticky balloon that poppedon his face. He couldn't even turn up his nose and fake a gag when forced to eat his spinach.

Times have changed for Joey and the E. J. Green family of Lake Brownwood. Joey got his first taste of ice cream recently and now is taking more nourishment by mouth and less by the tube. His mother said in an interview, "He's doing great. He eats more each day, although most of it is soft food or liquids. Joey is still weak, but he's getting better every day. "He has a good frame of mind, always cheerful, although he is getting tired of Jello and looking forward to that hamburger."

It was in December when Joey underwent five hours of surgery. A section of his colon was removed and attached to the esophagus. Then there were needles, oxygen, injections and days in the intensive care unit of Brownwood Community Hospital. A collapsed lung brought another round in the

Retirement fund can save taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) - A sizable tax break is possible for 1975 for people who invested in their own individual retirement accounts under a new program that went into effect during the year.

Taxpayers who want the most for their earnings. and to keep taxes to a minimum, should make themselves familiar with this program. Although it's too late now to start for 1975, it can be joined in 1976 and in future years.

All of the wide range of deductions should be closely checked by taxpayers in deciding whether they can do best by itemizing or claiming the standard deductions.

Many taxpayers overlook such expenses as taxi fares to a doctor's office, which can be included in itemized deductions, IRS spokesmen say. Even whiskey, if prescribed by a doctor to ease an ailment, can be itemized as a deductible medical expense.

But the retirement investments are deductible whether the taxpayer itemizes or takes the standard

The Individual Retirement Savings Program, as it is officially known, was set up by Congress to help people create their own retirement benefits if they are not covered by a qualified retirement plan.

One congressional backer of the legislation said 53 per cent of the American work force had not been covered by retirement programs, including 88 per cent of the nation's working women.

The program allows a participant to deduct up to $1,500 annually from his or her taxable income if the money is put into retirement savings and not used for any other purpose. The interest the money earns also is non-taxable.

When the participant does retire — no earlier than age 59 and one-half years — taxes must be paid on the money as it is withdrawn from the account, but presumably he or she will be in a lower tax bracket

(Last of a series)

The amount of money that can be exempted from taxation is the smallest of the following: one, the actual amount of the savings; two, 15 per cent of the participant's total wages; or $1,500.

Individual retirement accounts can be established at participating banks, federally insured credit unions and savings and loan associations.

Also qualifying are individual retirement annuities of a life insurance company, individual retirement bonds purchased from the federal government, or trust accounts established by an employer or employes' association.

Both a husband and wife can claim the deduction if they adopt separate retirement savings programs and if they are otherwise eligible. It doesn't matter whether they file taxes jointly or separately.

The main thing to bear in mind is that the account will lose its exemption if the participant withdraws funds prematurely, that is, before the age of 59 and one-half. The funds can be withdrawn in the event the participant is disabled.

Savings withdrawn prematurely must be included in gross income during the tax year they are taken, and the taxpayer also must increase his or her tax by 10 per cent of the amount withdrawn.

Contributions to a retirement account in excess of what may be exempted are subject to a nondeductible 6 per cent excise tax.

In deciding whether to itemize deductions, a rule of thumb is that it's probably profitable to itemize if deductions exceed 16 per cent of gross income, or $2,600 for a joint return, since they are the maximum standard deductions.

Examples of deductions that may be itemized are payments for medical insurance and medical and dental care, in excess of certain limits; local and state taxes; alimony payments; interests on loans and mortgages; charitable gifts, and union dues.

Taxpayers with questions about deductions, or anything else regarding their taxes, are urged to consult the IRS at any local office or by calling the toll-free information numbers listed in the tax

The IRS also has available a 200-page taxpayers' uide called "Your Federal Income Tax" which can be obtained from IRS offices. As usual, the IRS will compute a taxpayer's tax for him or her, as long as the taxpayer provides all of the relevant information on the tax return.

Supreme Court agrees to hear death penalty cases

The Los Angeles Times
WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, newly restored to full strength. prepared Thursday for a final showdown on the constitutionality of the death penalty and signaled that its long-awaited decision would come by Acting with unusual speed, the justices ordered expedited consideravicted murderers from Georgia, Texas, North Carolina, Florida and Louisiana are pleading for the outright abolition of capital punishment. The cases accepted for review present the justices with their first opportunity to rule on the efforts of state legislatures to circumvent the high court's landmark 1972 ruling, Furman vs. Georgia, which invalidated most death penalty laws then on the books. Thirty-five states have since enacted new laws to salvage the death penalty for some crimes.

The men whose appeals were granted are:

-Troy Leon Gregg, a hitchhiker who was convicted in Georgia of murdering two men who picked him up on an interstate highway and stealing a car and about $500 in cash from them. (Gregg vs. Georgia, 74-6257).

-Jerry Lane Jurek, 25, who was sentenced to die by a Cuero, Tex., jury for kidnapping a 10-year-old girl, making sexual advances to her and then throwing her off a bridge, while she was still alive, into the Guadalupe

River. (Jurek vs. Texas, 75-5394). She drowned

-James Tyrone Woodson, 23, and Luby Waxton, 24, who were convicted of killing a Dunn, N.C., grocery store clerk during an armed robbery (Woodson vs. North Carolina, 75-5491). Two younger co-defendants were spared and given prison sentences when they pleaded guilty.

-Charles William Proffitt, 30, who was condemned to die for breaking into a Tampa, Fla., apartment building and fatally stabbing a tenant sound asleep in his bed (Proffitt vs. Florida, 75-5706)

Ford medical report to be released

President Ford's new medical report will be made public after his examination Saturday, although Ford's physician says such disclosure could overstep the bounds of privacy and set a bad precedent for future presidents.

Ford has urged other candidates for the presidential nominations to also reveal their health

But White House physician William Lukash said he feels "uncomfortable about the precedent" of releasing minute details of a patient's record in view of the traditional confidential patient-doctor

"Exams are really a private thing - there's a certain dignity about one's physical exam," Lukash said in an interview Thursday. He said the public may be entitled to have information about the ability of a president to perform his duties "but to lay out all the details that go with it is beyond the propriety of one's privacy.

New Lebanese cease-fire marred only in minor ways

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Occasional rocket, mortar and machine gun fire marred the new ceasefire in the Lebanese civil war during the night, but an army spokesman reported a 75 per cent deescalation on all battle fronts today

As the fighting tapered off, hundreds of armed hooligans broke into shops and homes in Beirut and stole more than $2 million worth of goods, officials

Official spokesman said the Syrian government, the author of the military-political peace plan which all the warring factions accepted Thursday, assured President Suleiman Franjieh that the Palestinian guerrillas who crossed into Lebanon from Syria to help the leftist Moslem Lebanese against the rightwing Christian fighters would be withdrawn soon. Officials estimated that there were about 2,000

Palestinians to be withdrawn. "Syria also pledged to crack down ruthlessly on any attempt to undermine the cease-fire or the new national charter that is to regulate peaceful coexistence between Moslems and Christians," one informed official reported.

"The Syrians mean business. They want the war over once and for all and are prepared to go to any extremes to see that no one, including the guerrillas,

But so many previous ceasefires ended in a resumption of fighting that foreign observers had their doubts about this one. The chairman of Al Ahram, the semiofficial Cairo newspaper, predicted that the truce would not hold for long. Other Cairo papers said the Moslems and Christians would use the ceasefire to bury their dead and rearm.

President Ford says he is considering at least five men as possible running mates if he wins the Republican presidential nomination.

In a conversation with a group of New Hampshire newspaper editors, Ford said Thursday that among the possible choices are Commerce Secretary Elliot L. Richardson and Sens. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, Howard Baker and William Brock of Tennessee and Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

Ford also said there were "some excellent governors" such as Gov. Dan Evans of Washington. Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa and Gov. Christopher Bond

Meanwhile, former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford was scheduled to hold a news conference today amid speculation that he may become the first of the 11 Democratic presidential candidates to give up the race.

While Ford mentioned five possibilities for a running mate, he said there are "many others" who could be considered

Percy, told of Ford's statement, said he was "flattered," adding that "no one says 'no' to a president."

"It's nice to be on the list," said Baker, "but I'm not packing any bags." He said "the time between now and Republican convention time in Kansas City is a political lifetime in this day and age.'

Brooke said he was pleased to be on the list, but "I do not expect the President will ask me and I shall do nothing to encourage it."

confining his energy to his new Cabinet post.

Sanford, who took leave from his post as president of North Carolina's Duke University to pursue the what his aides called "an important announcement."

Published polls have shown Sanford at the bottom of the list of candidates and a Sanford associate, Sam Poole, has said the former governor may end his campaign in New England but remain in the North Carolina primary.

Poole said the chances are 50-50 that Sanford will leave the race altogether.

On the Republican side, the White House had no comment on the results of a new Gallup poll that shows Ford leading challenger Ronald Reagan by 53 per cent to 42 per cent among GOP voters polled.

A Ford spokesman said the White House is making it official practice to avoid comment on polls, and Reagan aides also made little of the new figures. Gallup also said that in a matchup against Sen.

Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Ford got 48 per cent to 46 per cent for Humphrey, with 6 per cent undecided. Gallup said the figures represent a sampling of 1,118 registered voters. In a similar test last month, Ford's margin over

The force of the explosion threw pieces of concrete, some of them four feet long, as far as one quarter of a mile, observers reported.

Saginaw County sheriff's deputies said rescue workers could see the bodeyy of Roger H o r n e y buried under debris. They listed no home town or age for the dead man.

Rescue workers said it could take the rest of the day to remove the body from the wreckage and find the missing man among the rubble.

Workers used cranes and a helicopter to help in the search for bodies and injured. One injured man was plucked to safety as he clung to the wreckage of a wall left standing after the blast. Three other workers walked away from the explosion with minor cuts.

Larry Fess, 24, of Linwood, was pinned for more than 13 hours in the debris of the wrecked structure while doctors and rescue workers tried to comfort and reassure him. Even a beautiful model is not always content with her looks. In fact, she may try to look like somebody

"For years I was trying to look like Maude Adams," says beautiful Sunny Griffin, "and it didn't come off. So then I thought I'd like to look like Lauren Hutton. But Lauren said, 'Look, it is not going to work because I want to look like Karen Graham and Karen Graham wants to look like Maude Adams.' And that's whom I was trying to look like in the first place. Who does Evelyn (Kuhn) want to look like, we wondered. We decided, nobody

All the girls Sunny mentioned are top models who do television commercials as well as model for cosmetics companies. Sunny, a model for 13 years, was making the comparison to illustrate that models learn to make up by watching each other and that each person must find a look she likes by experimenting with her makeup until she is satisfied with her appearance.

It is a point Sunny makes when she is conducting beauty seminars for Avon, the cosmetics company that also has jewelry and apparel. She is its beauty editor, advising on fashion colors, and she makes television commercials and is also making a film for the company. She has been to 40 or 50 cities since she took the job a year ago and meets with team leaders and representatives. The company has more than 300,000 representatives in the United States

"I've knocked on doors since I've been in training and I discovered that some people do slam doors. But most people are very nice. I went around with a representative who would introduce me and one woman froze for a minute, then ran into the house, grabbed her husband and brought a camera back so that she could take

At the seminars, Sunny removes all her makeup to illustrate how it all goes together, the model way. First she uses a moisturizer, then a foundation that exactly matches her skin color. She uses a lighter foundation around her eyes and on her cheek bones and spends a good deal of time telling the women how to use rouge.

"Most women do not know how to use rouge, but it can really give a flow to the face. You must use it on areas you want to recede. I put it just under my cheek bones," she advised.

As for her blue-gray eyes, she uses lavender eyeshadow at the inner corners and another shadow from the center of the lid out. "Lauren was using lavender shadow and I've been using it ever since." she said. She also likes to use creamy eyeshadow out of little tubes as an eyeliner. She puts it on with a little brush

Nome still battling to recover from damage of late 1974 flood

NOME, Alaska (AP) - It's been more than a year since Bering Sea waves crashed through the streets of this coastal town, and Nome is still trying to recover.

Main Street has been pretty much restored to its preflood Gold Rush look, but city hall has been declared unsafe because of flood damage, and sewage is still pumped into the sea because the treatment plant hasn't been repaired.

The town of 2,500 on the Bering Sea actually suffered a double disaster beginning with the Nov. 11, 1974,

Part two came in August when waters and lost cargo that was meant to rebuild and repair much of Nome.

"The Kokohead's sinking has been just as big a disaster as the storm in some respects," says Tom Small, the city utilities manager.

Among items lost in the accident was a complete standby powerhouse, needed to supply auxiliary power in case of malfunctions at the city's main power plant, whose foundation was damaged in the flood.

To provide the needed auxiliary power capability, the city has constructed an emergency tie-in to the Alaska Gold Mining Co.'s power plant outside of town.

Thirteen months later, city officials continue to battle the paperwork that goes with qualifying for federal and state disaster relief money. Some funds already have been approved. while other requests are pending.

Small gives high marks to the state disaster office. "They've bent over backward to help us," he says. City offices are housed temporarily in another building until a new city hall can be built. The sewage treatment plant remains inoperable, ex-

Rolls-Royce luxury cars have one of best years in firm's history

LONDON (AP) - Soaring fuel costs have made the big prestige car an extravagance few can afford. But Rolls-Royce, the most prestigious of them all, has just had one of the best years in its seven-decade history.

Stressing handcrafted quality and catering to an expanding export market, especially in the United States and Middle East, the makers of Rolls-Royce cars survived bankruptcy in 1971 and have become the envy of the British auto industry.

With the possible exception of the British subsidiary of Ford Motor Co., which reported a small profit for 1974 and may do the same for 1975, RollsRoyce is the only auto manufacturer making any money

While such carmakers as British Leyland and Chrysler U.K. expected record losses and struggled to stay afloat in a time of slack demand for autos, Rolls-Royce Motor Holdings, Ltd., indicated that last year's earnings, when reported in April, could be above 1974's net profit of almost $4.5 million.

One reason was an increase of exports to the oil-rich Middle East, where the company's car sales rose to more than 100 last year, up from 72 in 1974 and just 27 in 1973. But the company made clear the United States will continue to be its major single export market.

"There just aren't that many princes and sheikhs in the Middle East," one company official said. 'But you can go to the San Diego Yacht Club and find 500 people with $200,000 boats. All of them can afford our car."

Rolls-Royce sold a record 860 cars in the United States last year, 21 per cent more than in 1974.

Another reason for RollsRoyce's success is its worldwide reputation for excellence, carefully nurtured since Frederick Henry Royce, an engineer, teamed up in 1904 with the Hon. Charles Stewart Rolls, an

Since then Rolls-Royce has turned out more than 70,000 cars and claims more than half of them are still in running order. A new one currently costs the equivalent of between $30,000 and $60,000.

"A hand-made pair of shoes may cost three times as much to buy as a mass-produced pair but will last four times as long," says Chairman Ian J. Fraser, who was a foreign correspondent in the 1940s and 1950s for the British News Agency Reuters.

Last year, Rolls-Royce produced and sold 3,134 cars, about the number that British Leyland could turn out in a day. That was Rolls-Royce's most productive year to date, topping the 1974 total of 2,902 cars, and nearly 60 per cent of last year's production was exported.

The company's car exports rose in value to the equivalent of $44.8 million in 1975, up 51 per cent from the $29.6 million of car exports recorded a year earlier.

Experts disagree on crash

WASHINGTON (AP) A misunderstanding over three words, "cleared for approach." led to the crash of a TWA jetliner that left 92 persons dead in the Blue Ridge mountains, government investigators say

In a rare split decision, a 3 to 2 majority of the National Transportation Safety Board put the primary blame for the Dec. 1, 1974, crash of TWA flight 514 on the crew of the Boeing trijet

But in a highly unusual written dissent, two board members said the crash also was caused by the failure of the traffic controller to tell the pilot the altitude he should maintain as he approached Dulles International Airport for landing.

theme underlying both the majority and minority reports released Wednesday was that the plane's crew did not know what the controller meant when he simply told the pilot he was "cleared for approach" without giving further instructions.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) - A judge has ordered AFL-CIO union representatives into court Monday to show why they should not be limited to two peaceful pickets at a construction site here.

Jupiter Chemical Co. and its prime contractors, Payne & Keller of Louisiana, filed suit Tuesday for an injunction to prevent any further interference with workers from an independent union

One man was killed and four others hurt in labor violence at the site last

The suit claims that the Calcasieu sheriff's department and state police had been warned of possible mass picketing last Thursday but they left before a mob stormed the site.

It said the attackers were members of the Southwest Louisiana Building and Construction Trades Council, AFL-CIO, or persons under the council's direction.

Signing of the accord also guaranteed the release and return of all prisoners of war and the return of bodies of all men who died in combat and in captivity. along with the fullest accounting possible of men missing in action in Southeast Asia.

But the bulk of the guarantee yet remains to be done ... and Americans simply must not overlook this fact. Every effort must be made to achieve all pledges cited in the accord.

It is reported that during the interim period something over 500 prisoners have been returned to their families. A few bodies of those heroes who died have been sent home.

But for every man who has been released there reportedly are yet two men whose fate is unknown.

Families of the POW-MIA and concerned citizens have conducted a nationwide campaign, often in the face of tremendous discouragements, to get something done in this regard. Appeals were made to Congress,

GOPHERS FROM NORTH:

No light shining at end of Red's tunnel

By JIM BISHOP

Copley News Service SEOUL, Republic of Korea - The three-mile invasion tunnel the North Koreans dug deep and illegally through solid rock under the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) is another tangible evidence of the tangled thinking of the North Korean Com-

For two years, the North Koreans blasted through the granite far beneath the hills and valleys of the DMZ. Complete with fresh-air pumps, electric lights and narrow-gauge railroad, the tunnel was planned to flood 30,000 armed troops an hour behind the South Korean and U.S. forward lines.

The plan couldn't possibly work. It was as foolish as using pogo sticks to hurdle the barbed wire barrier that separates North and South Korea.

The sensoring devices of the Republic of Korea (ROK) and U.S. G-2 and the Korean Central Intelligence Agency picked up the sound of underground blasting. Only a sleeping or stupid defense could miss it. The United States and ROKs in South Korea are neither asleep nor stupid.

Once the sound was picked up, a cat-and-mouse game began, although the ultimate end was predetermined. The ROKs called in petroleum drilling specialists. The oilmen started drilling for something more valuable than black gold.

Weeks of probing went by. Finally, in a part of the terrain where the North Korean tunnel was closer to the surface, the ROKs hit pay dirt.

Circular cores of solid granite had come up for more than a month. Suddenly one core showed an open space six feet high. A natural opening in the rock or a tunnel? More drilling proved it was a tunnel.

A downward-slanting intercept tunnel was started with frantic haste by the South Koreans. A strange underground contest began. The ROKs won. They broke into the Communist tunnel to find the Reds had retreated. The tunnel was blown into an impassable mass of blasted granite. South Korean lives were lost to clever and destructive booby traps left by the North.

The tunnel was one of the more obvious of the 25,000-plus violations of the DMZ staged by the North Koreans. There were lots of red faces in the North.

When the ROKs called in the world press to see how the Communists had been out-maneuvered, North Korea lamely said the tunnel was to "make it easier for refugees to travel from the South to North Korea."

The tunnel, and another one like it which was also headed off by the South Koreans, actually were integral parts of the planned three-day blitzkrieg that North Korea had mapped out to conquer the ROK.

The Communists had expected to see a light at the end of the tunnel in South Korea. Instead, the tunnel plan is as cold as yesterday's noodles and North Korea is the laughingstock of South Koreans, military and civilian

The entrance to the South Korea intercept shaft is rapidly becoming a national shrine for the ROKs. VIPs are bused and Jeeped through the tough terrain to see the visible result of the alertness of the South Korean defenses.

Teachers are brought up the hill in groups so they can return and tell schoolchildren about it. spit-and-polish ROK troops stand at attention at the tunnel's entrance. Beyond them, the South Korean shaft slants sharply down. It's a long blackness of rugged rock, water drippings, bare electric lights and moist air.

At the bottom, the North Korean tunnel, narrower and lower than the intercepting shaft, stretches in a straight line north. The blasted portion of the tunnel has been neatly sealed with many feet of South Korean cement.

It's another dead end for the North Koreans.

Politics of the energy bill

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Energy Czar Frank Zarb would have followed Labor Secretary John Dunlop out of the government if President Ford had vetoed the energy bill as he did the common situs labor bill.

Sources close to Zarb say he was but it's not much of a recomready to resign, effective in April, if mendation for supporting any of he had been hit with a veto. For the doughty little ex-broker had spent months hammering out a bill which sets a new national oil policy. Zarb worked 16-hour days to patch together a compromise. Even when his duties took him out of town, he set up extra phones in his hotel rooms and kept burning the wires to Capitol Hill.

The compromise bill satisfied no one, least of all the oil companies, but it was the best that could clear Congress. The oil barons made a final, powerful effort to pressure President Ford into vetoing the bill.

The showdown came on November 13 behind closed White House doors. The President called in top congressional Republicans to hear Zarb present his arguments against a

But the indefatigable Zarb didn't give up. He inveigled a ride on Air Force One for the first lap of the President's trip to China. All the way to Alaska, Zarb lobbied the President. After Ford's return, Zarb kept it up until the President signed the bill on POISONED FIELDS: The field workers, who helped make America the best fed nation in history, are themselves often undernourished. Now there is evidence that they are also being poisoned by pesticides.

From California to Florida, crop sprays are bringing sickness and death to stoop laborers. This had led Dr. Joseph Swartz, a biophysicist doing research for the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in California, to call field work one of the most hazardous occupations." His conclusion is based on "time lost to occupational illnesses."

Xet the EPA, which is supposed to be the nation's environmental watchdog, has failed to protect workers from the menace of sprayed fields. Here are the shocking facts: - The National Farmworkers

Information Clearing House (NFIC) has prepared a survey to determine the number of deaths and illnesses from exposure to pesticides. Yet EPA has not sent this vital health survey to !25 migrant health clinics.

- Under pressure from the growers. EPA also quashed an earlier NFIC project, the pesticide hotline, which would have provided a toll-free telephone number for field hands to report poisoning incidents.

 EPA has made only a token effort to enforce EPA regulations on the farm. Many disregard the regulations and spray their crops with reckless abandon. Yet EPA has assigned only an average of one inspector per state to protect the public from poisoned

- For that matter, the EPA doesn't have adequate facilities to determine whether the pesticides it certifies for commercial use are actually safe. Instead, the agency relies almost entirely on the dubious data provided by the pesticide manufacturers.

One reason for EPA's failure to control pesticides is the power of the agribusiness lobby, which is more interested in protecting crops than

The House Agriculture Committee has brought enough quiet pressure to bear on EPA, meanwhile, to prevent enforcement of the pesticide regulations.

The effect can be measured in stark human terms. Consider these reports, for example, from Florida

 Last November ten field hands, three of them women, were hospitalized with severe nausea, skin rashes and dizziness after going into a sprayed tomato field.

- A farm worker at Del Ray, Fla. entered a tomato field after it had been sprayed with four different toxic pesticides. Thereafter, he developed a skin rash resembling leprosy and has been unable to return to work.

Footnote: An EPA spokesman told us his agency lacked facilities to doublecheck adequately the pesticide industry's data. The EPA, he said, may release the NFIC survey in the

Radicalized Lebanon presents realistic hazards

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

INSIDE REPORT:

UNITED NATIONS - Although direct U.S.-Soviet confrontation could grow out of escalating civil war in Lebanon, the more realistic danger is a radicalized Lebanon becoming a rich new base for Soviet political operations on Israel's border. Fear over this predictable future for Lebanon is raising Arab pressures high at the United Nations for a sectlement of the Palestine question. Indeed, the danger of political infection from a radicalized Lebanon, financed and armed by Moscow, is a larger reason than the actual plight of the Palestinian refugees for wanting the Palestinian question solved.

That lies at the heart of Britain's decision last week to separate itself from the U.S. on bringing direct pressure on Israel to satisfy political "rights" of the Palestinians.

The British concern: failure to settle the Palestine issue threatens to turn the clock back on the Nixon-Ford administration's successes over seven years in limiting and replacing Soviet influence in the Middle East. But while the British and other U.S.

allies, including Japan, are pressuring Israel publicly at the UN to deal with the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), the U.S. — which has most to lose in a radicalized Lebanon - is not. The reason: unwillingness to split with Israel, which would unleash the American-Jewish community against President Ford at the crucial point in his struggle with Ronald Reagan for the nomination.

This is a case of American politics conflicting with Mideastern reality. A conspicuous PLO success at the UN may be the single most important political necessity slowing the rush of events in Lebanon. Those events are now driving Lebanon into total civil war, threatened by intervention from both Syria and Israel to protect their That melancholy tide may flow unchecked no matter what happens. But Mideast experts here and in Washington agree on this: serious inroads by Moscow will be unavoidable if there is continued deadlock over the PLO's right to represent the Palestinians and over Israel's withdrawal from its occupied Arab lands until after the 1976 U.S. presidential election.

Ever since 1958, when President Eisenhower landed U.S. Marines on Beirut's beaches to block a threatened Communist takeover, Lebanon has been the pleasant and safe haven for Western interests in the Mideast. Some Arab businessmen mark 1958 as the start of the slowly growing American influence which with many ups and downs, produced close relations between Washington and Cairo and persuaded Syria despite its arms dependence on Moscow — to reestablish diplomatic relations with Washington.

Now, the precise reverse may be starting: Lebanon, radicalized in the civil war between the Moslem left (including Palestinian refugees) and the Christian-Moslem right, becoming the incubator of political extremism for export to pro-Western Arab states such as Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Egypt.

The irony of this situation is dramatized by the view of some strong protectors of Israel in the U.S. government - including UN Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan. They claim ending the deadlock on terms even close to the PLO's would hand Moscow and the Arab extremists a glittering victory. In fact, the reverse is closer to the truth. To continue freezing out the PLO guarantees continued radicalization, which is the essential breeding ground for Soviet

That, in turn, gives the color of truth to the recurring Israeli theme that the Middle East is most important to the U.S. because of U.S.-Soviet competition. Civil war leading to a radicalized Lebanon financed from Moscow makes this Israeli theme a self-fulfilling prophecy.
reestablishing Soviet influence in full bloom after its withering decline during the Nixon-Ford years. Israeli hawks sound this theme so avidly because it deflects U.S.

A U.S.-Soviet showdown following a new war between Syria and Israel over Lebanon - though highly questionable - cannot be ruled out. Some high officials believe such a showdown contains the seed of World What is certain is that the longer the Palestinian question goes unsolved, the more difficult the U.S. position becomes throughout the Arab world and the more opportunities Moscow has to leapfrog back over the U.S. as champion of the Arabs.

Italian produces 'kolossal' film

By DESMOND O'GRADY

The Washington Post ROME — The Italians have a word for it: kolossal. It is Bernardo Bertolucci's first film since his "Last Tango in Paris" and the "kolossal" refers to its present running time: six

Its budget is colossal, too: at $6.5 million, it is the costliest film ever made by an Italian producer. Burt Lancaster, Robert De Niro, Donald Sutherland, Stefania Sandrelli. Gerard Depardiu and Sterling Hayden are some of the actors.

It is not yet decided whether the film, scheduled for release in early spring, will be broken into two parts. or whether Bertolucci will edit it further, to something well under six

The film, called "1900," traces the story of two men, one rich, the other poor, born on the same day at the beginning of the century in a farming zone in Emilia, Bertolucci's native region. It covers their careers over those brought about by Fascism, a favorite Bertolucci subject.

The theme of the film, he stresses, is the survival of "popular culture."

"Consumer-oriented society neocapitalism are killing what is most valuable in all cultures," said Bertolucci in an interview at a villa outside Rome during the editing of the film "It's monstrous, and cinema seems to me the only art which is capable of coming to grips with this slaughter. The other arts are already victims of the process.

"My latest film examines what happens to two friends from very different backgrounds. But the point of the film is that, despite massive pressures against it, popular culture in Emilia has managed to survive.

The credit for this goes to socialism." Bertolucci's grandfather left Emilia at the beginning of the century because of his socialist convictions. He emigrated to Sydney, where he sold Olivetti typewriters and got married. Bertolucci's mother was born in Sydney but came to Italy as a child. She married Attilio Bertolucci, a poet and film critic. At home in Parma and, later,

Rome, Bertolucci says, "poetry was in the air I breathed.'

Poetry was an inheritance, but Bernardo Bertolucci, now 34, discovered cinema for himself. In some ways his choice of cinema rather than poetry was a rejection of his father, a proof he could succeed in his own art form.

The late Pier Paolo Pasolini, who was a friend, asked Bertolucci to be an assistant for his first film, "Accatonne." Pasolini, who until then had been solely a novelist and poet, was discovering cinematic skills.

"Pasolini was innocent of film techniques and learned as he went along." Bertolucci recalls. "For me it was like the birth of cinema."

They took their training from Dr. and Mrs. Leon Smith, directors of Education for Marriage and Family Life, a department of the United Methodist Church, and also studied with Dr. and Mrs. Taylor McConnell from the Garrett School of Theology. Evanston, Ill.

In recent months, the McCormicks have conducted workshops, seminars and training labs in marriage communications throughout the the Northwest Texas Conference of the Methodist Church.

Mr. McCormick served several years as pastor of Midland's St. Mark's United Methodist Church until assignment to his present post as pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Levelland. His wife currently serves as coordinator of family ministries for the Council on Ministries of the Methodist Northwest Texas Conference.

Archbishop provided progressive leadership

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Cincinnati, winding up his first year as president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, has given the church an open and progressive leadership and has selected for himself the role of conciliator

He is a man the other bishops trust, according to one of his colleagues, in a time when the American Catholic hierarchy faces smouldering issue as evidenced at the annual bishops' meeting. The four-day session during which the bishops launched a massive antiabortion campaign and called for decent housing and full employment for all Americans and improved Catholic-Jewish relations was significant for its inclusion of two other stormy issues - the role of women and the concerns of gay Catholics. "Archbishop Bernardin is a man of integrity, but he's not going to compromise on the church's teachings, and that's why the bishops have confidence in him," said Bishop Warren L. Boudreaux of Beaumont,

"The shape of U.S. Catholicism over the next 25 years depends on how he uses his power and manages the consensus of bishops," the priestpsychologist, the Rev. Eugene C. Kennedy of Chicago wrote of Archbishop Bernardin in U.S. Catholic magazine.

Archbishop Bernardin, a softspoken Southerner who is virtually assured of becoming the next U.S. cardinal, placed his views forthrightly before his 300 colleagues. "The past 10 years in the life of the church in the United States have been marked by a tremendous dynamism," he said, referring to the Second Vatican Council of bishops in 1962-65 which sparked extensive reform in the church.

In spelling out the "unfinished business'' before the American bishops, he cited human rights, moral confusion and the need for serious dialogue with women, divorced and remarried Catholics and gay Catholics who are seeking equality in the church.

"We must never write off anyone. We must remain in dialogue, even if they will have to deal with it."

the dialogue does not seem to be leading to mutually satisfactory solutions." he added

In another talk, he said: "Authentic renewal has sometimes been impeded by those who have distorted the Second Vatican Council mandates through excess. Others have hindered renewal by fearfully holding back, as if everything would be lost if all the implications of the council were followed. Still others, the majority perhaps, have turned the conciliar teaching into dry bones through apathy and neglect.

"The greatest need now is to breathe new life into the many structures and forms.

Archbishop Bernardin, over six feet tall, stocky and with thinning black hair, has a relaxed and graceful manner. At 47, he is young among the American bishops. He is a distinct contrast to his predecessor, John Cardinal Krol of Philadelphia, a man who has found it hard to accept many of the Vatican II reforms and who as president, often used his position to advance his interests and beliefs.

Archbishop Bernardin was commended at the close of the meeting by lay and clergy observers for his "responsive leadership" in concert with a partliamentarian, the first ever called in for a bishops' meeting. The remark drew a hearty applause from his fellow bishops.

On the subject of women, a committee of bishops recommended the establishment of an office for women's concerns in the U.S. Catholic Conference. Sister Kathleen Keating of the National Assembly for Women Religious called the suggestion a "breakthrough."

Bishop Michael F. McAuliffe of Jefferson City, Mo., the committee chairman, reported that participation of women in ministry, the ordination of women priests, the merits of the Equal Rights Amendment and the role of women in family and society demand "urgent and extensive attention from the church."

"For the first time this issue has been presented publicly before the whole body of bishops," said Sister Kathleen. "Because women's groups have raised the issue so significantly.

Kissinger ends Moscow talks

By BARRY SCHWEID

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) -Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended talks with Soviet leaders today and flew here to tell North Atlantic leaders that the Soviets have put forward "some significant and constructive new ideas" for a nuclear weapons treaty.

The package deal taking shape would reduce by about 10 per cent the strategic bombers and missiles allowed to either side. It would also provide a compromise on the two principal difficulties - Soviet Backfire bombers and American cruise

U.S. officials said that, while "a hell of a lot of work remains to be done," if all goes smoothly Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev could be in Washington as early as May to sign the new treaty with President Ford.

Kissinger evidently was much less successful in his Kremlin talks on Angola. He reminded Brezhnev that Soviet support for a Marxist faction in the African civil war was undercutting detente in the eyes of the American people. But Kissinger made no apparent headway.

The secretary of state said that a report by newsman John Scali, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, that Kissinger might resign because he couldn't persuade the Soviets to end their support of the Popular Movement (MPLA) in Angola was "ridiculous."

Despite the absence of a breakthrough in nuclear weapons negotiations, Kissinger and his top aides laid claim to "significant progress." Reporters were told at least two issues were essentially resolved - the definition of light and heavy missiles and how to deal with American cruise missiles launched from the air.

In Moscow, Gromyko also told reporters there was "movement forward on several matters."

At the airport before leaving Moscow, Kissinger said, "We settled some important issues which will be passed on to (the nuclear treaty negotiators at Geneva). We made good progress on other issues."

Specific measurements of both the size and the force of missiles will be established by agreement in order to avoid charges of treaty violations. U.S. officials acknowledged that a unilateral American definition under the 1972 interim agreement was

Speed doesn't win bridge table race

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Several thousand years ago one of my ancestors lost myriads of drachmas betting on the hare in its celebrated race against the tortoise. Ever since, the Sheinwolds have been cautioys abu! about betting the family silver on mere speed. The caution applies to bridge hands, too.

East ruffed the third club with the of hearts and returned a diamond to dummy's king. Declarer then thought for 10 minutes but had to lose two more trumps and a diamond South ran true to form, starting with a great burst of speed, but he soon came to a halt. Don't put your drachmas on declarers like that. Start like a tortoise. Take the ace of diamonds and then lead out the ace of trumps and a low trump. Don't be in a hurry to discard the spade

DISCARD DIAMONDS If the opponents switch to spades and lead a second spade, you can ruff and lead another trump. Eventually, you will surely discard both losing diamonds on dummy's clubs. The best defense is to take just one spade and then lead a diamond to dummy's king. Now you run the clubs. West must follow to three rounds of clubs, and by the time he has trumped the fourth club you have discarded both loaing diamonds.

You sometimes have to play a hand slowly to make a fast drachma. DAILY QUESTION

Banks suddenly find way onto news pages

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) - Whether we should have an open or a closed society is now one of those enormous ideological themes that now and then moves from the world of academe directly into the daily public debate. The nation's banks, traditionally an area of discreet privacy, have suddenly found themselves the subject of

There was a report Thursday that a dozen of the nation's 50 largest bank holding companies are on the Federal Reserve Board's "problem list Another recent news story said the nation's second and third largest banks, First National City and Chase Mahattan, are on a similar list of the Comptroller of the Currency.

There are those in government and in the banking industry who claim such publicity is not in the public interest. It all amounts to part of a larger debate on the place of secrecy in our society.

There are those, for example, who say the nation's intelligence operations should be an open book, to be read for profit not only by insiders but by the general public and potential adversaries too.

And there is a school that defends intelligence secrecy as the only way to protect a society we call free and open from blundering into mistakes that, it is feared, could undermine every other lofty idea. Data, facts and activities that once were withheld "in the public interest" have now been pried loose from the Internal Revenue Service, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the business establishment, the investment community, the White House and other institutions and are now public knowledge. A Freedom of Information Act prevents government from withholding certain information. And public interest groups now employ staffs whose job is to open up the system to examination and use by the public. In almost all instances the prying has revealed information that many people consider shocking, and therefore each inquiry seems to generate another. And now the pressure is on the banks. Disclosure of information about the nation's banking system always has been handled with great sensivitivity, restraint and secrecy, the rationale being that public confidence must be maintained even if problems are hidden Asked if recent disclosures of sometimes shaky finances, poor judgment and questionable management practices in banking has hurt rather than helped the country, a member of the Federal Reserve Board privately suggested the public was hurt.

The news media, he said, has made it more difficult for banks to lend. If they know that reports of their internal activities will be scrutinized by the public rather than restricted to certain federal officials, they will be reluctant to makes some loans. And, he concluded, the economy will be hurt. But, he was asked, didn't the massive loan losses incurred by some banks lead to higher interest rates? Didn't banks cover their losses by raising prices? And therefore, wasn't the public damaged.

He agreed. But he went on to say the media remains at fault because of what he called its "snapshot" views of highly technical, complicated and changing matters. The story is a continuing one, he said, and requires a series of pictures.

That suggestion appears likely to be followed up, partly because congressional interest also is aroused in what goes on in the private world of high finance, where little is done that does not have a public impact.

Escape try ends in death for prisoner

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) - A man in the middle of a capital murder trial made a desperate "freedom or death" attempt to escape Thursday evening and he lay in the Jefferson County morgue today. His codefendant, less militant in his intentions, surrendered. Authorities said Warren Joseph

Ryes, 26, of Port Arthur was shot three times and killed by Deputy Sheriff Wilbur Toups after Toups and another officer approached Ryes and the other attempted escapee, Ernest Dugas Jr., 20, at the end of a short Toups said Ryes, who had taken a gun from a bailiff, turned to the officers and shouted he was going to 'kill you both.' It was then, Toups said, that he fired his .45 caliber pistol three times, hitting Ryes once in the head and twice in the chest. Dugas surrendered to the two officers.

Police said Ryes and Dugas overpowered bailiff Troy Jones while he was taking them from the second floor courtroom to an elevator. They had been in court for selection of jurors in their trial on charges of killing Port Arthur pharmacist Jerry Allen Perkins last July 1. Jones said Ryes shoved a knife at his throat, took his gun and handed the knife to Dugas. Toups and deputy Barry Nicholas saw the two prisoners run across a vacant lot and gave chase.

Democratic leaders call Ford's Medicare proposals misleading

By STUART AUERBACH Washington Post

WASHINGTON - About 25,000 aged and disabled Americans - not the 1 million that President Ford said would benefit under present law from his proposal to put a $500 ceiling on a Medicare patient's out-of-pocket hospital expenses, congressional analysis showed Thursday.

Those 25,000 are the people who stay in a hospital longer than 75 days - the time it would take under the present law to run up $500 in hospital bills that are not covered by Medicare.

Staff members of the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committees, using figures supplied by the Social Security Administration, said about 1.5 million people -500,000 less than Mr. Ford's estimate of 2 million — would benefit from his proposal to put a $250 ceiling on out-of-hospital doctor bills for Medicare patients.

In his budget briefing, President Ford declared his proposed ceilings on catastrophic Medicare expenses would benefit 3 million Americans.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), chairman of the Senate Health Subcommittee, Thursday called the Ford Medicare proposals "a fraud on the elderly." And Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), promised to make health "a dominant issue in my campaign for the presidency," and said Mr. Ford's figures "are misleading.

Catastrophic coverage for the nation's 25 million aged and disabled covered by Medicare received strong emphasis in Mr. Ford's State of the Union address Monday night. But the details did not become known until Wednesday's budget message.

In estimating the number of people hwo would benefit from the catastrophic provisions, the administration assumed Congress had approved other proposals that would make Medicare patients bear a greater proportion of their hospital and doctor bills, said William Morrill, assistant secretary of Health, Educa-

These proposals would add $1.9 billion to the costs paid by patients covered by Medicare - the 10-yearold program covering medical care for the aged and disabled.

Under those proposals, patients would continue paying $104 for the first day of hospitalization but would be charged 10 per cent of bills from the second day through the 60th day of hospitalizations, which are now fully covered by Medicare. The proposals would also add $17 to the present $60 deductible on supplemental coverage of out-of-hospital doctor bills.

With those provisions in place it would take 15 to 16 days in the hospital to reach the $500 ceiling.

"In effect the primary purpose of the President's catastrophic insurance plan is to protect the elderly from the new catastrophic costs the President wants to impose on them," said Kennedy.

'The proper analogy is to the person who takes from a collection plate, then asks for praise because he put 20 per cent of the money back." the senator added.

The House Ways and Means Committee will hold hearings on the Ford MEdicare proposals Feb. 9, 10 and 11 with HEW Secretary David Mathews slated to be the first witness.

In his campaign statement of health, Sen. Jackson declared his support for the cradle-to-grave government-run national health insurance plan sponsored by Kennedy and Rep. James C. Corman (D-

Differing from President Ford's view that the nation cannot now afford national health insurance. Jackson said, "We must act today for it would be too expensive to delay.'

Jackson's statement is the first indication in a year that national health insurance may be revived as an issue. Jackson said he does not expect any bill to be passed until 1977 or 1978. But he proposed an immediate expansion of Medicare benefits and the creation of a strengthened, cabinet-level Department of Health to manage national health insurance.

In 1973, the farm produced University of Oklahoma AllAmerican Lucious Selmon and in 1975 two more All-Americans, Leroy and Dewey Selmon, sprouted from the fertile soil of Lucious and Jesse Selmon.

And Thursday night it yielded still another honor when Leroy Selmon was named winner of the 1975 Vince Lombardi Award, symbolic of the nation's outstanding lineman.

"What Mom put into us at home has been the backbone of our careers," Leroy said shortly before accepting the 45-pound granite trophy named in honor of the former Green Bay and Washington coach who died in 1970 of Leroy Selmon, an All-American defensive tackle who led the Sooners in tackles and earlier won the Outland Trophy, beat out his brother Dewey, Texas A&M linebacker Ed Simonini and Notre Dame defensive tackle Steve Niehaus for the honor.

Leroy, 6-2, 256, explained to the 800 persons attending the $100 per plate dinner the secret formula Mrs. Selmon used to grow such hybrid college football talent.

"After my first day of football practice in the eighth grade. I got up the next morning and went to my mom and told her I didn't think football was for me." Leroy recalled. 'I told her it was too tough.

"She got kind of a funny look in her eye and I knew that attitude wasn't the kind she thought she had instilled in me. When I saw this look in her eyes. I got up the nerve to go back the next day and I've never got that feeling again."

Proceeds from the annual dinner go to the American Cancer Society ftr research. More than $150,000 has been donated from five previous dinners.

"It boiled down to a question of who would be impact on the owners,' said NFL Players Association Executive Director Ed Garvey.

In a 90-minute closed meeting, the players decided management would not have been hurt by a boycott, but football fans would have been, Garvey said: About 30 members of the all-star squads did not attend the meeting.

"After a prolonged discussion of the situation, we decided it was in our best interests not even to vote on whether there would be a strike." said union President Kermit Alexander.

He denied that the decision to avoid a strike a setback for the association.

"For it to have become a defeat, we would have had to have come into the meeting planning to strike," he said. Both Alexander and Garvey said all week long that they would not recommend any course of action to the players.

Memories fall to new rulings in sports

(First of a series)

Everybody knows by now that Roger Staubach's incomplete pass to the end zone closed the door on Super Bowl X. It also closed out one of the greatest professional sports years in memory. At least, that is my view.

I include the Super Bowl with 1975 since it really belongs with that season. It is being hailed as the greatest of all Super Bowls and it was a fitting climax to a year that excelled all expectations for you-the fan.

Surely, you don't have to stretch your memory far to know what I mean. After all, it was the year that Rick Berry, a former American Basketball Association star, turned the Golden State Warriors into the Cinderella of the west. They never even lost a golden slipper along the way to a National Basketball Association championship.

Then there were those fanatical Philadelphia Flyers, who turned the National Hockey League into a blood bath satisfying the city of Brotherly Love with mayhem and a long sought after championship. Philly was no longer a loser in the professional sports world.

Lamesa coach is reassigned

LAMESA-Tom Koger, coach for the past two years of the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes' football team, has been reassigned to teaching duties only by the Lamesa school board.

The board took the action Wednesday in an emergency meeting. saying it wanted a stronger program and was not satisfied with Koger's handling of the players. Officials said Koger was being reassigned to classroom duties effective Sept. 1.

Koger had a 7-12-1 record in two grid seasons at Lamesa and had a year remaining on his contract. Koger told the board that he intended to remain a full-time coach until he was reassigned. The board's action began Monday in an executive session when superintendent Neal Chastain was instructed to offer Koger the classroom position at his present Chastain said written applications for the vacated job should be sent to P. O. Box 261, Lamesa, in care of the Lamesa superintendent of schools.

Angelo State edges past Howard Payne

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) - Dennis McLaughlin and John Elder scored 14 points each for Angelo State as the Rams beat Howard Payne 67-60 in a nipand-tuck Lone Star Conference basketball game Thursday night.

Howard Payne's Tommy Johnson was high-point man for both clubs with 21 points.

The game was tied 14 times and the lead changed hands 19 times before Angelo State pulled ahead to stay. Angelo is now 5-2 in conference and 12-5 for the season while Howard Payne is 3-4 and 11-8.

And, hopefully, we will never forget that controversial, but entertaining World Series of 1975. No baseball fan could ask more of a series than what was given by Cincinnatti and Boston in that memorable seven game extravaganza. It was almost to good to be true for prime time airing.

WE HAD Jack Nicklaus and Sandra Palmer: Jimmy Connors and John Newcombe; and the new sex symbol of the tennis world in Chris Evert against that gal with the lovable name of Yvonne Goolagong.

We had Oklahoma winning the national college football championship, but maybe the best of all was reserved for UCLA when they upset highly favored Ohio State in the Rose Bowl. Maybe, just maybe, it will teach Woody Hayes not to wear a baseball cap on the football field. And we were spared Texas A&M getting into the Cotton Bowl.

We had the last of John Wooden at UCLA, and his Bruins went out with a flourish with another national college cage title. Wooden is one of the few men that is a legend, and is still alive to enjoy it. He came in a winner and went out a winner

we saw super star compete against super star, and the list goes on and guess that you have already noticed that two of the categories mentioned are not considered professional sports, but I guess it's all how you look at professionalism.

The point is that all of these sports combined gave us a tremendous book of memories. And it is very possible that professional sports as we know it is in for a change. I'm not ringing the bell of doom for professional sports, but the air outside is changing-like from summer to winter.

Take a look at a few facts. The unofficial word is that seven of the 18 established NHL teams are in the red. Attendance is down 200,000.

We all know of the ABA's problems with the loss of two teams this year. and how they are begging the NBA to take them in to stop murderous salaries that are eating up both leagues. The NBA, for the first time in its history, now claims to have as many losers, financially, as winners.

Baseball was drawing more fans than ever, but most teams were pictured as merely marginal on the profit-loss sheet. Salaries in the American League alone increased 78 per cent in 1975 after the Yankees gave free agent Catfish Hunter a record $3 million-plus salary. There were other franchise problems in San Francisco and Atlanta that embarrassed pro baseball. To make matters worse the baseball reserve clause took a beating by an arbitration panel.

Pro football's Rozelle Rule tumbled in court, and scared NFL owners out their wits. And the World Football League folded, signaling the end to an era when any pro franchise could make it if given enough time.

The baseball reserve clause and the Rozelle Rule are probably the two most important decisions yet to be decided in the courts. The results of these cases could change the existing sports world. In future columns, I will try to cover these two topics, which may be the most important decisions ever rendered on the pro sports scene.

There is no doubt that these two decisions, yet to be decided in the courts, could change the pro sports world as we know it. It could also have an effect on you- the fan.

Rebels face Abilene; Pack hosting Cougars up against the Bobcats while the

BY BOB DILLON

Midland Lee faces the Abilene Eagles in Abilene tonight while the Midland High Bulldogs entertain the Abilene Cooper Cougars in District 5-4A basketball action.

Coach Paul Stueckler's Rebels take on the league leaders in Abilene and they have only beaten the Warbirds one time in 15 years in Abilene.

The Eagles own a 5-0 loop record and appear well on their way to the first half championship and a victory tonight, will give to to them no matter what they do against cross-town rival Cooper Tuesday night.

Abilene cleared a big hurdle in beating the San Angelo Bobcats Tuesday, 67-54, but probably the biggest win in league play came a week ago when the Eagles downed Odessa Permian, 53-52, in overtime in Odessa. Now the Panthers must face the Eagles in Abilene in the second half of the race and most likely will have double trouble with 6-6 Andre Hickman returning into the starting lineup for the tall and talented Lee fell four points short in Odessa Tuesday night in dropping a 56-52 decision to Permian and the Rebs take a 14-8 season record to Abilene tonight compared to the Eagles' 21-2 reading.

Lee will start Junior Miller, Steve Reiter, Robin Todd, Brent Huckabay and Roy Lee Smith against Abilene

The Eagle lineup will include Darrell Baxter, a 6-8 senior along with Mike Little, 6-3 senior; Willie Stephens, a 6-2 senior; Eddie Forkerway, 6-0 senior and Steve Thomas who is a 6-0 senior.

Baxter is averaging 21.6 points per game in five loop outings while Little is scoring at a 20.4 clip in league play Thomas is right behind with a 17.4

mean to give the Eagles a potent offense

Stephens is capable of scoring in the double figures and against Odessa High, dragged down 22 rebounds in playing in the place of Hickman who was the leading rebounder before an ankle injury.

Midland finally picked up its first 5-4A win in five games Tuesday by bombing OHS, 73-47 in the MHS Gymnasium. The Purple Pack, with Craig Dunn, a 6-3 junior showing the way, returns to the friendly confines of the ancient gym tonight to try and beat Cooper and team which whipped Big Spring, 65-54 Tuesday.

The Bulldogs own a 12-13 season record and stand 1-4 in league play compared to Cooper's 11-13 and 2-3

Joining Dunn in the startling lineup for MHS will be Tim Johnson, Jeff Gotcher. Phillip Ward and Rusty Maroney, Maroney, Dunn and

Phillips are juniors. Dunn is averaging 12.0 points per game in district play. Cooper's attack is led by Donnie Ray Cruse who is scoring 13.2 points in league play along with Kenneth McLeod and Roger Ridlehoover. McLeod is scoring 12.0 and Ridlehoover 11.4.

SMU finally hires Meyer as head coach

DALLAS (AP) - Ron Meyer, who took an infant program at Nevada-Las Vegas and gave it maturity, now has the job of taking a sick program at Southern Methodist University and making it well. Here is the situation facing Meyer, who was named Pro hockey Thursday as the new head coach for the Mustangs: SMU has been on probation the last two years an this week the probation was extended another year without television or postseason sanctions. Its 4 record last year was posted before more empty seat at home than occupied ones. The Mustangs also wi have big graduation losses this year, and Meyer wi get a late start on recruiting.

"I am very excited about the opportunity." Meye said. "Heaven knows we have a lot of work to do wit recruiting and naming a staff. I'm anxious to ge started. I leave the University of Nevada at La Vegas with mixed feelings. I feel fortunate to have been associated with UN-Las Vegas, but I'm lookin forward to my stay at SMU."

Meyer, 34, guided Nevada-Las Vegas to a 27record in his three years with the school. His mos successful year was in 1974, when the Rebels con piled an 11-0 regular season record and advanced the NCAA Division II semifinals.

Earlier he had a six-year assistant coachin career at Purdue from 1965-1970 and two years as scout with the Dallas Cowboys

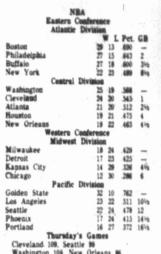

SMU Athletic Director Dick Davis said, "We are very happy with Ron's acceptance. He understands the job and we feel he's the man for us. In our selection, we looked for a man who has turned a program around and Ron did this at Las Vegas."

Meyer succeeds Dave Smith, who resigned under pressure Dec. 31. Early candidates for the job included Hank Stram, who this week was named head coach of the New Orleans Saints; Johnny Majors of Pittsburgh and Lou Holtz of North Carolina State. All of them turned SMU later announced that Darryl Rogers of San Jose State had been offered the job and even gave a probable date his hiring would be announced. After several days, however, Rogers said he would stay in

Baseball Hall of Fame votes Lemon, Roberts to join elite players

NEW YORK (AP) - It would be nice to report that Bob Lemon had lived out a boyhood dream when he was elected along with Robin Roberts to the baseball Hall of Fame.

But it's just not so. The truth of the matter is that baseball occupied a back seat with Lemon when he was growing up in San Bernardino, Calif.

"I wanted to run a gas station, said Lemon, who instead won 207 games in a 13 seasons with the Cleveland Indians. "What's wrong with a gas station?" he asked. "Where do you go

Louisville rips WTSU bv 69-57

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) - Wesley Cox scored 22 points to lead Louisville to a 69-57 college basketball victory over the 19th-ranked West Texas State Buffaloes Thursday night.

A record crowd of 6,308 at the Amarillo Civic Center watched Louisville avenge an earlier loss to West Texas. 'They said they were coming down to play hard and they did," said West Texas Coach Ron Ekker. "And when they play hard they are a tough team to cope with. Led by Cox' 18 first-half points, the Cardinals, who never trailed in the game, took a commanding 41-32 lead at intermission. Louisville led by as much as 18 points in the second half and went into a slowdown game with 5:24 left before as eight late in the game. The Cardinals' aggressive defense forced West Texas into 22 turnovers. Maurice Cheeks scored 14 points to lead the Buffaloes, now 12-2 for the

After I'm through with baseball, I think I'll go back to pumping gas."

Baseball, however, isn't quite through with Lemon and Roberts. The two pitchers have an Aug. 9 date in Cooperstown, N.Y. where they will be inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Both were elected easily in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. With 388 ballots returned, 75 per cent or 291 votes were required for election. Roberts received 337 and Lemon 305. The late Gil Hodges was third with 233 votes, 58 short of election.

Between them, Roberts and Lemon won nearly 500 major league games and enjoyed 13 seasons in which they won 20 or more games. Roberts, pitching for the Philadelphia Phillies, Baltimore Orioles, Houston Astros and Chicago Cubs won 286 games in 19 seasons and had six straight 20victory seasons. Lemon had 207 victories including a stretch of seven 20win seasons in nine years, all with the Cleveland Indians.

Both pitchers nearly made it last year. Roberts fell nine votes short and Lemon was 39 away when the writers elected slugger Ralph Kiner to Cooperstown. Roberts was bitter at coming so close but still missing. 'This makes up for that disappointment," he said.

While Lemon came to the majors out of gasoline alley, Roberts was signed by the Phillies off the campus of Michigan State University.

"My mother loved baseball, but my father didn't care much for it," Roberts said. "I remember in 1951, they came to St. Louis to watch me try for my 20th victory. I beat Joe Presko on a home run by Tommy Brown. We were driving home and my dad asked if I'd mind if he didn't come to any more games. He couldn't take the excitement.

Roberts recalled the latter stages of his career.

"I remember Bob Gibson telling me he'd never do that...hang on at the end. He said he'd know when to quit. But you don't. You always think the other guy is crazy and that you can keep going. Then, it catches up with

Roberts left baseball in 1967, going into the security investment business. Lemon is still in the game and recently signed as pitching coach for

Tanner predicts Oakland squad will be in series

OAKLAND (AP) - The Oakland A's pride was hurt when they lost a chance to play in the 1975 World Series, but that same pride will get the title back for them this season, says the team's new manager, Chuck

Tanner, 46, was introduced to San Francisco Bay area sportswriters Thursday by his new boss, the controversial Charles O. Finley. Finley hired Tanner in mid-December, two days after he was dumped as manager of he Chicago White Sox by new owner Bill Veeck. Tanner replaced the fired Alvin Dark, who had replaced Dick Williams the year before.

How is the return to past glories going to be accomplished? Well, it won't be done with a slew of new untested players, both Finley and Tanner agreed.

"We're still a young ball club, capable of coming back and winning the whole thing- and that's our goal this year." Tanner said. The A's have made only one minor trade this winter, and Tanner says he feels the pitching staff, led by Vida Blue and Ken Holtzman, is strong enough to lead the team back to the title they won three years in a row.

Of course, Finley would not be adverse to getting the dazzling Jim "Catfish" Hunter back in the fold. He said team attorneys have advised him a court ruling on Hunter's status would be handed down before the beginning of the coming season.

Finley lost Hunter to the New York Yankees after an arbitrator ruled the team owner had defaulted on the terms of Hunter's contract, making him a free agent.

Tanner, 46, joined the White Sox at the beginning of the 1971 season, piloting them to third place in the Western Division of the American League. The next year they climbed to second place and Tanner was named American League Manager of the Year by The Associated Press.

But in 1973 the team took a nosedive and finished fifth, fourth and fifth through 1975 before Tanner was dismissed with three years to go on a $60,000-a-year contract.

Tanner's Oakland contract coincidentally runs for three years, with Finley and Veeck splitting his salary. Details of the split were not made Tanner also refused to disclose who actually will be running the A's on the field. Finley is notorious for hiring managers, then telling them how to run the ballclub.

'When we're losing I'm going to let Charlie run it, but when we're winning I'm going to take the credit," he

Michigan city gets national tournament

Midland, Mich., instead of Midland, Tex., has been chosen as the site of the 1977 National Fastpitch Softball Tournament.

The Associated Press reported today that the Tall City had been selected as the tournament site, which drew a raised eyebrow from Freddie Ezell, commissioner of the Midland Softball Association. "I sure didn't know anything about it,"Ezell said. "I knew that the AP story had to be a mistake. I learned this morning that Midland, Mich., had to put up $90,000 for the event, and I knew we hadn't been working on anything like Morning newspapers and radio stations reported that Midland, Tex., had been awarded the site. There is not even a fastpitch league in the Tall City, where slowpitch has drawn the major summer interest.

UCLA coach unhappy with play of Bruins

By The Associated Press

UCLA Coach Gene Bartow was perplexed, concerned, and perhaps a little angry after his sixthranked UCLA Bruins had unexpected trouble with lightly regarded UC Santa Barbara. "If our starters don't show considerable improvement, you can look for a lot of freshmen to be starting future UCLA basketball games," Bartow said after the Bruins posted a hardfought 64-50 victory over the Gauchos Thursday night. "I can't understand what's happening to us," Bartow said of his Bruins, who trailed Santa Barbara 26-24 at the intermission. "We should be playing "I am concerned," he said, repeating it later for emphasis. While he was not at all pleased with the Bruins' play, Bartow said he had something to be thankful 'Thank heaven we didn't play USC tonight," he Bartow was reminded that Pacific-8 foe Southern Cal has lost its last five games. "But they will be most difficult for us when we play them here," he said, referring to a Jan. 31 matchup, "particularly if we play like we did tonight." The Bruins, who faced 15th-ranked Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend, got 27 points from junior orward Richard Washington, 19 of them in the cond half, in the victory over the Gauchos. Washington scored eight points early in the second half to help the Bruins move out to a 38-29 advantage, ut Santa Barbara charged back to pulkwithin three, but Santa Barbara charged back to game before the Bruins finally began to pad their lead.

UCLA's biggest spread was the final score, as Washington hit a 15-foot jumper in the closing seconds to make the Bruin lead 14. The victory, UCLA's 94th consecutive home triumph, gives the Bruins a 14-2 record, and they have a 3-1 Pac-8 mark. Santa Barbara, led by Andy Oliveira's 15 points, had come into the contest with a six-game winning streak. The loss gives the Gauchos a 10-5 record. The only other member of The Associated Press'

Top Twenty to see action Thursday night, 19thranked West Texas, fell to Louisville 69-57. Elsewhere, it was Tulsa 103, Drake 83; New Mexico State 91, Bradley 85; Virginia 78, Delaware 65; Northeastern 79, Boston U. 67, and Holy Cross 89.
