House votes to override

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted today to override President Ford's veto of a $45 billion laborhealth, education and welfare appropriation, adding momentum to a Democratic drive to expand spending on social programs.

The vote was 310-113, 28 more than the two-thirds needed. The Senate was expected to act soon. Senate Democrats are optimistic about chances of completing the override action.

House Republicans offered in vain an eleventh-hour compromise that would have set the funding at a level $424 million below that specified in the measure - but still $491 million above

Ford's budget recommendation. The measure would provide funds cluding the remnants of Presidet Lyndon B. Johnson's war-on-poverty

Ford vetoed the bill on Dec. 19. saying it would exceed his budget by nearly $1 billion and claiming the measure would "add significantly to the already burdensome federal

Mashburn won't seek reelection to DA post

Midland County Dist. Atty. James A. "Jim" Mashburn, 39, today announced he will not seek reelection to the post he has held since 1965.

Mashburn, however, said he will continue to strive for "the best possible law enforcement for the people of Midland."

The district attorney's announcement that he will bow out of public office came a week after 31year-old Midland lawyer E. F. "Trey" Lohmann filed for election to that office on the Democratic party's

The House override vote today was regarded as a major test of Democratic ability to overcome Ford's insistence on tighter budgets.

Democratic strategists predicted Monday they would need 30 Republican votes in order to get the two-thirds needed to override the

Rep. John Brademas of Indiana, a Democratic deputy whip and an education subcommittee chairman, said overriding Ford's veto on the bill was "critical.

As approved by Congress, the bill contains increases over Ford's budget of $496 million for the National Institutes of Health, $112 milion for human development programs and $131.7 million for the Community Services Administration, which administers much of what is left of the federal antipoverty programs passed during the Johnson administration.

The bill, which funds a variety of programs for children, the elderly and the handicapped as well as health research, would cover a 15-month period that began last July 1.

"He's pretty nervous about it." the official said of Bush. "He wants to get it over with." It has been nearly three months since President Ford first chose Bush to succeed William E.

U.S. veto inflames Palestinians

urges action By GENE KRAMER by Congress

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) -The Palestine Liberation Organization threatened to intensify its armed struggle against Israel following an American veto of a U.N. Security Council resolution calling for an independent state in Palestine for the Palestinians and Israeli withdrawal from all territory it occupied in the 1967 Six-Day War.

The 15-nation council ended a twoweek debate on the Arab-Israeli dispute Monday night with a 9 to 1 vote in favor of the resolution. But the lone negative vote was cast by the United States, as expected, and constituted a veto.

Britain, Sweden and Italy abstained, while China and Libya did not participate in the voting on the ground that the resolution was not hard enough on Israel. Voting for the resolution were France, Japan, the Soviet Union and the six cosponsors: Guyana, Pakistan, Panama, Romania, Tanzania and Benin (Dahomey).

Immediately after the vote, the United States and several other countries issued statements in an attempt to dispel any idea that a new Middle East crisis was imminent. They pledged continuing efforts to achieve an Arab-Israeli settlement.

But Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim warned the council that it would soon face "new deadlines which, in the absence of progress toward a settlement, can only bring on a new situation of crisis." He was referring to the expiration on May 31 of the authority for the U.N. buffer force between the Syrian and Israeli armies on the Golan Heights. Syria's price last November for extension of the mandate for the force was the council debate and the PLO's par-

The PLO claimed a political victory on the basis of the support voiced for its cause during the two-week debate.

"We shall go back confident, as we have always been, that the Arab masses will further increase their moral and material support to our armed struggle," said Farouk Khaddoumi, guerrilla chief Yasir Arafat's chief political aide.

Another PLO spokesman, Basil Aql, told a reporter the organization would now consult friendly countries on the next step to take while intensifying its

The American veto was the 143rd in U.N. history and the 13th by the United States. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan told the council it was cast because the proposed resolution would have altered the framework of Arab-Israeli negotiations "in ways that would have been seriously harmful to the future of the peacemaking process.'

The United States - and Israel opposed the resolution because it would have altered the guidelines for a settlement laid down by council resolutions No. 242 voted at the end of the 1967 war and No. 338 after the 1973

Israel, which boycotted the debate because the PLO participated, said the U.S. stand was "an important contribution toward stability in the Middle East and to the promotion of the process of negotiation and peacemaking efforts.'

Ford pleads with House

WASHINGTON (AP) - Expressing grave concern about international consequences of fighting in Angola, President Ford pleaded with the House today not to join the Senate in voting a ban on continued military aid to Western-backed factions.

The House was expected to vote the (Related Stories, Page 10A) ban when it took up a $90-billion defense appropriation bill later in the day. The bill contains the Senateapproved ban on the use of U.S. funds for the fighting in Angola.

In his last-minute plea contained in a letter to House Speaker Carl Albert, Ford warned that without assistance Angola's two largest political movements "will be destroyed by Soviet armaments and a Cuban expeditionary force."

Expressing his "grave concern" over international consequences of the Angolan civil war, Ford declared that the Angolan problem must be resolved by Angolans "and not through the application of brute military force by the Soviet Union and "I believe that resistance to Soviet expansion by military means must be a fundamental element of U.S. foreign policy," Ford wrote, adding: "There must be no question in Angola or elsewhere in the world of American resolve in this regard."

Ford warned that "failure of the U.S. to take a stand will inevitably lead our friends and supporters to conclusions about our steadfastness and resolve.'

Hearst trial under way SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's long-awaited trial for bank robbery began today under tight security, with jury selection likely to focus on attitudes toward kidnap victims, radicals and the wealthy.

Miss Hearst, meanwhile, was described by one of her attorneys, Albert Johnson, as "apprehensive as anyone in her position would be" as the trial approached.

Authorities said all spectators would be required to pass through a metal detector similar to those used at airports. As in all pretrial hearings, federal marshals were ordered stationed at every entrance to the 19th floor courtroom and to patrol the aisles inside.

The stage was set Monday when opposing attorneys submitted lengthy lists of proposed questions for prospective jurors to U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter. Following standard federal procedure, Carter, instead of the lawyers, will question potential

Miss Hearst, 21-year-old daughter of newspaper executive Randolph Hearst, was kidnaped by the Symbionese Liberation Army Feb. 4, 1974. and later proclaimed allegiance to the tiny band of terrorists. She was charged with helping the SLA rob a bank here in April 1974.

She was arrested here last Sept. 18 after a nationwide hunt.

The defense contends she was forced to make a tape saying she had joined the SLA and another recording admitting she robbed the bank of her own free will. Her lawyers say she participated in the robbery out of fear that the SLA would kill her if she

The defense said it wanted jurors asked how they would feel if their own daughters were converted to radical militancy. They indicated they also wanted to uncover hidden prejudices against wealthy or financially secure Defense attorneys have said part of their strategy will be to show Miss Hearst was brainwashed into joining the SLA. Along this theme, they wanted jurors asked: "Do you have any concern or worry that your daughter could be influenced to join a militant group?"

Increasing CB thefts spark reward offer

By COURTNEY BARBER There were 273 car burglaries in Midland in 1975, and 198 of those resulted in the loss of citizens band radios — which has irked Midland CB operators to the point of donating a $500 reward. The reward was an idea of Don Luttrell, who is an avid CBer himself. He said the reward will be given for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a CB burglar.

Luttrell said the $500 reward money has been put in an escrow account at a Midland bank. The reason for the reward is to get someone "to testify." and that once some "arrests are made - this thing will slow down."

He explained that "a bunch of individuals who have lost CB gear themselves, or their relatives or friends have had units stolen, donated $5 or $10 each to raise the reward.

"Most are so disgruntled - they'd pay what they've lost toward the reward - just to catch them," Luttrell added.

Plans are in action to start a neighborhood type watch program among the CBers, where they keep an eye on one another's equipment, Luttrell

"It just upsets them and they want to stop it," he explained. "The CBers are going to have to police their own. Set up a conscientious program. We want to see arrests made.

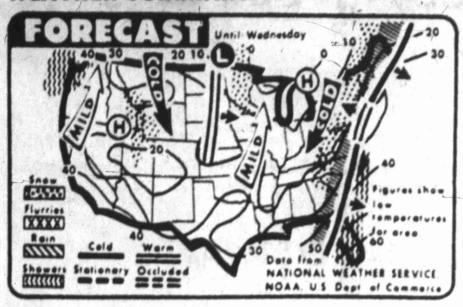

He stressed, however, that this was not a vigilante group - just some very concerned CBers.

"The sad thing about it is that somebody is buying them," Luttrell commented.

"The only way to cut down the number of CB thefts is to take the time to remove them." Sgt. Fred Johnson, of the crime prevention division at the Midland Police Department, said.

He noted that it takes less than 30 seconds to remove a CB and that by taking the unit in the house with them at night — the individual can best prevent the CB from being stolen.

Midland area residents should get some relief Wednesday from all these cold temperatures, as warmer weather is forecast by the National Weather Service.

Tuesday's high was expected to reach the mid 50s with the mercury dipping to the low 30s Tuesday night. Wednesday's high should reach the mid 60s.

Winds Tuesday were from the southwest at 5 to 15 mph, with the same expected for Tuesday night. Area towns were in the 20s and 30s early Tuesday morning. Skies were reportedly clear and sunny throughout the area, though frost covered automobiles and the ground early in the day. No wind was noted in the area Tuesday morning.

Freezing weather chilled all of Texas except the semitropical Lower Rio Grande Valley and parts of the coast this morning, and it wasn't much warmer in those sections. Temperatures tumbled as skies cleared throughout the state. Forecasts promised the start of a warming trend in West Texas, however. It was expected to finish spreading eastward by Wednesday, The Associated Press reported.

Readings dived to 18 degrees at Lubbock and 19 at Amarillo and Dalhart in the PanhandlePlains sector near dawn. At the same hour the warmest spots were McAllen in the extreme south at 39 and Galvston on the coast at 40.

Three cars damaged in collision

Three cars, including a Midland police car, were damaged, at 6:10 a.m. toway in an accident at Midkiff Road and Ohio Avenue

Lt. Herman Wicker, head of the Traffic Division, said Patrolman Michael Charles Reed stopped to assist James Earl Anastasio, 2715 Roosevelt, whose car was stalled in the northbound lane of Midkiff Road.

Reed stopped the patrol car, and turned on the yellow emergency flashing lights. As he got out of the car, he saw headlights approaching in the rear-view mirror. Wicker said he then turned on the red flashing dome

A car driven by William McIntosh, Box 4803, Midland, struck the back of the patrol car, and the patrol car hit the stalled vehicle. The patrol car and McIntosh's car burst into flames, Wicker said. The impact turned the partol car completely around, he

Texas Reagan group picks eight chairmen

Eight county chairmen in the Texas Citizens for Reagan for President campaign for Reagan delegates to the 1976 Rublican National Convention in Kansas City have been selected, according to Robert L. Monaghan of Midland Monaghan is 19th Congressional District chairman for the Reagan-for-President drive.

The new county chairmen and the counties they represent are Jack R. Cook, Andrews. John R. Skaggs, Hale: Mrs. Elois Reese, Hockley; Jack Markam, Lubbock; Mrs. Mary Tom Roper, Martin; Carroll Thomas, Midland; Floyd S. Reeve, Parmer, and James W. Evans, Terry The committee's initial efforts have been in circulating petitions for signatures in support of four Ronald Reagan delegates from the district at the 1976 Republican National Convention.

"Overwhelming success has been encountered in this," Monaghan said, "and enthusiasm by the average Republican worker and conservative voter exceeded all expectations.

He said the committee's "next major project" is the formation of a delegate selection committee Feb. 15. Monaghan said Reagan supporters are to put on a "turn out the vote" campaign for the May 1 Republican primary election. The balloting then will include a Presidential Preference primary.

Tefteller sworn in as assistant county attorney

Ronald G. Tefteller, 28, Monday was sworn in as Midland County's assistant county attorney in a regular meeting of the commissioners court. He succeeds Leslie Acker who was promoted to the county attorney's post after then County Atty. Jimmie Oglesby last month resigned to return to private practice. Tefteller, who was admitted to practice law Jan. 9, is a December 1975 graduate of The University of Texas School of Law. His oath of office was administered before the commissioners by County Clerk Rosenelle Cherry.

Tefteller is a 1965 graduate of Robert E. Lee High School in Midland, and holds the B.S. degree (1970) in agricultural economics from Texas A&M University.

His salary as assistant county attorney will be at $10,800, about $1,000 less than Acker was getting in serving in that same post. Acker now earns in excess of $17,000.

Tefteller joined the county attorney's office Jan. 20. Moments after the swearing-in ceremony, Dist. Atty. James A. Mashburn resumed bargaining with the commissioners on raising the salary of his chief assistant, Rusty

"He has been first assistant,"

Mashburn said. "He's the only assistant that I have. I would like the maximum you can give him. He'll damn sure earn it this year. Mashburn jotted down a proposed salary. And the commissioners, after some discussion and without openly mentioning the amount of the suggested salary, approved it: Wall, a prosecutor in the district attorney's office since September 1973, had been drawing a $10,070.04 salary. Mashburn, who is allowed two assistants, lost one late last year when Marc Morrison resigned to enter private practice.

And Mashburn told the commissioners "theoretically I am" looking for a second assistant to replace Morrison.

Ronald G. Tefteller

In other business, the commissioners:

- Listened to, but took no action on William Shaer's plea or an increase from $8,000 to $11,700 the county's contribution to the Meals-on-Wheels program for the elderly. He said increase would cover "raw food cost" in the program that feeds 50 senior citizens each a meal a day five days a week throughout the year. The raw food cost is 90 cents per meal, and the preparation of that food is $1.10. The latter cost is funded by state Department of Public Welfare. Shaner, who is chairman of Senior Citizens, Inc., said he would seek donations elsewhere, possibly from the private sector. Commissioner Win Brown suggested some people "with a tax problem can give you some kind of contribution." The program is budgeted at $44,300 per year, and the food is prepared under the supervision of a Senior Citizens, Inc.,

We cannot continue to operate as now structured without additional appropriations from Congress,' Richard F. Gould, the service's top financial officer, said Monday. Gould commented before the Senate Post Office Committee opened hearings today on the financial situation of the Postal Service.

Postal Service officials are expected to warn the committee that failure to offer new subsidies will force an end of Saturday delivery and other service such as special delivery.

The committee is taking up a bill by Chairman Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., to double the Postal Service's $1.5billion annual subsidy over the next three years.

When Congress reorganized the old Post Office Department into the Postal Service in 1971, one of the goals for the new agency was financial selfsufficiency. The law provided for phasing out of subsidies and empowered the Postal Service to manage its own finances independently of Congress.

money every year since then. Last fiscal year, the deficit was a record $989 million and the Postal Service expects to lose $1.5 billion in the current fiscal year that ends June 30.

Despite some economy measures already taken, "we face the prospect of never having revenues in balance with our costs," said Gould, senior assistant postmaster general for

Although the Postal Service increased the cost of mailing a firstclass letter from 10 to 13 cents last month, the extra revenue is not enough to cover steadily increasing costs, Gould said.

Congressional sources said it would be difficult to get higher postal subsidies approved by Congress. The House twice voted down increases last fall, and President Ford opposes any increase.

As major reasons for the Postal Service's financial condition, Gould cited general inflation and the added cost of labor under contracts that call for cost-of-living increases, a decline in usage of the mails and the lengthy procedure for raising postal rates.

Solon says conviction crimps plans

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) - Rep. Andrew J. Hinshaw says his conviction on two counts of felony bribery "obviously puts a serious crimp in my political future.'

The 51-year-old congressman was found guilty Monday of accepting stereo equipment and a $1,000 campaign contribution from the Texasbased Tandy Corp., operators of the Radio Shack stores, when he was Orange County assessor. He faces sentencing Feb. 17.

Federal law does not require that a person found guilty of felonies be removed from office. However, Hinshaw is the first congressman to fall under a House rule adopted last year that prohibits members from voting if they have been convicted of a crime carrying a sentence of two

Bob Smith could accept campaign contributions more than a year before his term expired without

says Secretary of State Mark White. White, the state's chief election officer, issued a statement late Monday apparently settling the question of Smith's status and that of indictments returned against Senate Scretary Charles Schnabel after Smith accepted contributions beginning in July 1975. Smith announced this year he is running for district judge. The constitution says an officerholder automatically vacates his office if he becomes a candidate for another office when he has more than a year to serve. The Texas Election Code defines candidate as someone who, for example, accepts campaign contributions.

But White said the Legislative Council explained the purpose of the automatic resignation clause in the 1958 constitutional amendment:

"...it would be possible for an officer to run for a different office at the general election in the middle of his term, thus defeating the purpose of the (1954 term-extension) amendments— to permit an official to give his office his undivided attemtion for

Pot possession charges lodged

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Misdemeanor marijuana possession charges have been filed against four Texas A&M students, including three athletes who have completed their sports eligibility at the school.

County Atty. Roland Searcy Jr. said All-America defensive back Pat Thomas, halfback Skip Walker, former basketball center Cedric Joseph and Julie Willis were charged with possessing less than two ounces

All four are students at A&M but the players have finished their college athletic eligibility.

Conviction of possession of less than two ounces of marijuana is punishable by a fine not to exceed $1,000 and-or six months in the county

Acting on a tip, police obtained warrants to search two units at an apartment complex following a Tuesday night basketball victory. In one unit, officers said, a party was under way with several members of the football and basketball squads in

In a nearby apartment, officers discovered 11 pounds of marijuana. Dist. Atty. W.T. McDonald Jr. said Monday he will bring evidence before a grand jury soon for consideration of two possible felony indictments.

at least three years, without the Security number were put on the camera while it was being repaired and without Schnabel's knowledge.

White says Smith didn't vacate office

Smith showed reporters three pieces of paper he received Monday in the mail from Honeywell Photographic Products of Denver, Colo. One reporter saw Smith open an envelope and read the the papers over his shoulder. Smith then showed them to other reporters.

One sheet of paper is an undated letter signed with the name Claiborn Crain, head of Senate Media Services, saying the camera's "wind-cock seems to be stuck."

Another piece of paper is an advertising form offering the initial and Social Security number service for $8 'as an added protection to you. It's a proven way to reduce theft and eliminate resale of stolen cameras ...

"Want to go really wild? Choose your favorite color and we'll use it." At the bottom of the form are these

The colors black and white are checked at the bottom of the form, and blanks are filled in with the handwritten initials C.A.S. and the Social Security number 461-42-4136.

The form bears the signature "Charles Schnabel," which appears to be the same as Schnabel's signature on Senate payroll records.

Texas presidential primary given okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas has been given the goahead by the federal government to conduct its first presidential primary May 1.

The head of the Justice Department's civil rights division, Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger, ruled Monday without written comment that the primary complies with the federal Voting Rights

Some opponents had claimed the primary's winner-take-all provision would discriminate against black and MexicanAmerican voters.

Under the Texas Primary Law, passed by the state legislature last year, at least 75 per cent of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention will be selected on a winner-take-all basis according to voting in state senatorial districts. The Republicans will elect 96 delegates to their cording to congressional districts. Opponents of the primary bill have aimed most of their criticism at the Democratic senatorial district

New newspaper plant

Congratulations are directed to the Plainview Daily Herald, which Sunday afternoon observed open house in its new, most attractive and completely modern newspaper building and plant.

The event attracted more than 3,000 persons, all of whom undoubtedly were pleased and impressed with what they observed. The new, spacious plant is functional in design and pleasing to the eye throughout.

The architectural design of the building is Contemporary Spanish, a theme which is carried out throughout the facility.

The plant is equipped with a new offset press, along with other modern printing equipment and attractive furnishings.

Personnel of the Plainview Daily Herald, an Allison Communications, Inc.-owned publication, have every right to be as proud as can be of their new. modern daily newspaper facility. This goes also for the good people of Plainview, Hale County and vicinity, many of whom toured the new plant Sunday The Herald, incidentally, is in its 87th year of publication.

James B. Oswald is general manager of the Herald and Jim Servatius is editor.

Well, just how much is $394 billion anyway?

WASHINGTON - It's possible that one or two persons in this country are confused about President Ford's budget for 1977 so I will be happy to take questions.

"How much is $394 billion?" "I'm sorry, I didn't understand the question. 'President Ford said the federal budget for next year would be $394 billion. How much is that in money?"

"I don't think you should think in terms of money. You should think of it in terms of services that your country will provide you in the future: better housing, health protection, employment opportunities, a stronger defense and a chance for your children to have a better life than you did. I would also like to point out to you that this budget provides for only a $43 billion deficit.

"How much is $43 billion in

"I don't know how much it is in money, but it is $33 billion less than the deficit for 1976 which fiscally, as you know, was a bad year. "Where is President Ford going to get the $394 billion?" "He hopes to get it from you." "I don't have $394 billion.

"I didn't mean you personally. I meant you as a taxpayer. If everyone pays his taxes and no one cheats, we will have $394 billion, minus, of course, the $43 billion which we'll have to borrow from the American

Now, almost four years later, George Wallace is back on the presidential trail. But this time he's in a wheelchair; for his diagnosis was correct. A bullet struck his spine and turned our most dogged presidential candidate into a paraplegic.

Should this handicap bar him from the White House? Wallace looks upon himself as a poor man's Franklin D. Roosevelt, who successfully governed the nation from a wheelchair. But polio left FDR merely with disabled legs; Arthur Bremer's bullets left Wallace paralyzed from the waist

NICK THIMMESCH Sen. Edward M. Kennedy: The charisma isn't dusty

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - The crush of visitors to Sen. Edward Kennedy's office last week was different because it was a bittersweet lot. There were the usual star-struck fans, brighteyed youngsters hoping for a glimpse of Kennedy. But the Right-to-Life (anti-abortion) crowd was around, offering roses to most people but verbal razzberries to the Massachusetts senator.

It was also the week of President Ford's basic policy and budget messages, and Kennedy was concerned with responding to those. Kennedy is up for re-election and he likes to crank up early.

He relished attacking Mr. Ford's proposals on catastrophic insurance and Medicaid as "an absolute fraud on the elderly." Interviewed in his office, Kennedy also gave low marks to the President's tax cut for that $15,000-a-year family and claims the proposed increase in Social Security tax will all but eat up the savings.

He acknowledges that the Administration made progress in reducing inflation, but says it has failed to provide more jobs. Kennedy's formula to increase employment is a mix — a 15 per cent business investment credit for new capital expansion; enlarged public works programs, and passage of the railroad assistance act.

While he says "Amen" to any proposal to reduce government in-terference by regulation of the enterprise system, Kennedy says: "It's important not to get caught up in slogans and shibboleths" concerning the evils of big government. "We had a hearing and learned that

400 more women are going to die this year because they are taking estrogens associated with menopausal problems. And yet the Office of Management and Budget cutting back on the Food and Drug Administration is making it difficult for it to do the kind of review to protect the health of the American people.

"As for turning programs back to the states, the problem is the states didn't handle these problems before. weren't providing the vital programs involving the aged and alcoholism, for example 'There is a general malaise in our society. It deals with all institutions political, religious, educational and the family. A survey shows that 40 per cent of the children prefer the TV set to their fathers. We're lucky we're running that high, I guess." Though Teddy Kennedy works for reduced defense budgets and military involvement around the world, he surprises by saying that "one of my major concerns is that the U.S. has been talked down, especially after the Vietnam situation. "It is American officials who raise the question whether we or our allies have the will to meet our responsibilities in the world. Administration spokesmen say if we don't stand up to the Soviet Union in Angola, won't this be interpreted by our allies that we don't have the will to stand against

Portugal. There's no question about the forces of aggression. 'We didn't hear that three or four years ago when the Soviet Union was in Egypt, and even more recently in the American people's will or our military strength. The question is over the willingness of our leaders to exercise the power and strength we have." That sounds a bit hawkish, but then Kennedy is concerned about aggression in the Third World, sees the Lebanese agony as symptomatic of the drive of Arab radicalism. He also says he is "bothered" by and deplores Israeli bombings of Palestinian refugee camps. In Massachusetts politics, the most bothersome issues for him are abortion and busing. The love tendered him and his family by Boston's lower-income Catholics turns to hate because of his stand on these perplexing questions. He cites his conscience in defending forced busing. Then he says his conscience also dictates opposition to abortion, but it will not back a constitutional amendment to prohibit abortion. This logic, and Kennedy's vote backing use of Medicaid funds for abortion, drives the anti-abortion organizations to fury. Same way with his views on busing which caused one angry crowd to jostle and try to attack him. Kennedy blames much of the busing trouble on the Nixon Administration which he says exploited the issue for votes once it saw Gov. George Wallace scoring

When skeptics ask him why his children aren't in integrated public schools. Kennedy replies: "If they were in public schools where we live. they would be with fewer black children than in the private school they attend. When people say I don't understand. I tell them I don't have to be a fisherman to work for good legislation on fishing.

And so it goes. Kennedy can overwhelm by sustaining a volley of his views. He can charm with his quick smile and friendly way. The charisma isn't dusty. Whatever his ideology. Kennedy is competent and concerned as a senator. Kennedy, only 43, is a senior in the Senate. It seems incredible that he is running for that Massachusetts seat for the fourth time. Will he ever run for the seat that his late brother occupied in the White House?

"No. I'm not running in 1976. I am really out of it," he insists. "I would never speculate about what could happen in some other year. I am just in my Senate campaign now. That's

A. A broken bone, or fracture, heals, often without leaving a scar, through the formation of a mass of new cartilage and new bone. When a bone is broken, it should be set, or put into proper position, at once. They will then grow together, or knit, and in a short time the bone becomes normal again. This usually takes from four to 52 weeks, depending upon the size of the bone, the location of the fracture, and the age of the individual.

Mansfield plans to run for reelection

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - He will be 73 on March 16 and already has served as a Senate leader longer than any man in history

Yet, in contrast to the current trend in Congress, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) says he has every intention of seeking reelection to a fifth six-year Senate term this year.

It has always been my intention to run," he said in an interview. "I will make my final decision in March, as I usually do.

Although there have been rumors that Mansfield would retire when his term ends this year, his colleagues are becoming convinced he intends to run again.

Furthermore, despite signs that Mansfield is slowing down physically, there is common agreement that he could be reelected as majority leader when the 95th Congress convenes a year from

MANSFIELD, who began his 15th year as majority leader on Jan. 3, said he would accept the leadership again next January if the Senate Democratic conference, the organization of all Senate Democrats, offers it.

"I will not seek it," he said, "I never have." 'He would be reelected by acclamation, just as he always has," said Senate Majority Whip Robert C. Byrd (D-W.Va.), Mansfield's chief deputy.

While Mansfield remains among the most popular men in the Senate, some of his colleagues indicate they would like to see a younger and more vigorous man become majority leader, the most powerful position in Congress.

In his apparent decision to seek reelection in November, Mansfield is running counter to the growing tendency of members of Congress to retire when they reach their late 60s, or early 70s.

"I am convinced from observing the sad examples of others that it usually is a mistake for anyone in public office to seek reelection after age 70,"said Rep. Charles A. Mosher (R-Ohio).

Mosher, who is 69, said he is retiring when his term ends this year because of "Mosher's law," which, he explained "states it's better to retire too soon than too late

ANOTHER REASON for retiring, jet lag, was advanced by Sen. Hiram L. Fong (R-Hawaii). Fong, who is 68 "approaching 70", said in his retirement announcement last week that jet travel between Hawaii and Washington "now takes a greater toll physically and my biological time clock requires longer to adjust."

Fong and Mosher are among 12 House members and 8 senators who thus far have said they will retire this year for reasons of age, health or a desire to do something else. More retirements are expected.

Among the retirees is the dean of Congress, Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.), who at 81 has House since 1929.

However, Mansfield is not the only exception to the retirement trend. Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss.), 74. who barely survived a hold-up shooting outside his Washington home three years ago, also is seeking reelection this year. Stennis' 29 years in the Senate make him sixth in seniority in that chamber.

ALTHOUGH AMERICAN voters have shown an increasing tendency to vote elderly politicians out of office, neither Stennis nor Mansfield is believed to be in any trouble at home.

"Mike is such an institution in Montana that I doubt anyone could defeat him," said a Senate Republican aide with Montana ties.

Why, at a time when most people face mandatory retirement at age 65 or even earlier, are some members of Congress disposed to seek reelection even after they are 70? For one thing, there is no law that forces them to retire at any age.

Another explanation is that senior members feel that with their accumulated seniority and power they can do more for their states than a freshman senator or representative.

That unquestionably is true. Mississippi is dotted with defense installations and plants placed there by Pentagon officials and defense contractors anxious to remain on the good side of Stennis, the influential chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

There is little evidence that Montana has prospered similarly, possibly because Mansfield is a critic of current levels of military spending. But he does watch out for Montana interests. A few years ago when the Veterans Administration proposed abandoning several VA hospitals, including one at Miles City, Mont., for economy reasons, Mansfield raised such an angry fuss that the closings were dropped. He also has been known to let Cabinet officers wait in an outer office while he chatted leisurely over coffee with a Montana visitor in the majority leader's spacious office off the Senate chamber.

THERE HAVE BEEN reports that Montana business interests, normally inclined to support Republicans, have urged Mansfield to seek reelection so that his sparsely populated state retains his Washington influence.

Nor is that the only inducement Mansfield must have pondered as he debated what to do. The perquisites of a Senate leader are impressive. Both the majority and minority leader receive an extra $7,400 a year beyond their annual Senate salary of $44,600. Each also has a $3,000 annual expense

There also is power, more than that held by any other congressional leader of either House. As majority or floor leader, Mansfield determines which bills will or will not be called up for Senate action.

He is chairman of the Democratic Policy Committee, which draws up the legislative calendar. He also is chairman of the Democratic Steering Committee, which makes committee assignments. And finally he is chairman of the Democratic conference, the caucus which is the final authority on

Then there is the chauffered limousine provided by the taxpayers and the most prized and ornate suites of offices in the Senate wing of the Capitol. Mansfield, somewhat uncharacteristically, commandeered but does not normally use the huge office across the hall from his that used to belong to the Vice President.

THAT OFFICE, so elaborate it is known around the space-starved Capitol as the Taj Mahal, has not been occupied full time since Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson stepped up to the presidency in 1963 after the death of John F. Kennedy.

About the only use the huge office now gets is when Mansfield or his wife hold social functions there.

"You can't underestimate a wife's influence when a senator is deciding whether to seek reelection," said a close friend of the Mansfields, "I know that Maureen Mansfield doesn't want to leave Washington and I doubt that she wants to lose that impusine or those Capitol offices."

Wallace says bureaucracy needs trimming

By REX THOMAS
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace says the federal government can save billions of dollars by eliminating welfare 'ripoffs" and billions more by curtailing foreign aid. And, he says, unless Congress clamps a ceiling on federal spending in general, the nation's economy itself will do it because "the money won't be there."

But he does not give figures on any of these points, and, indeed, says through an aide that he doesn't have any.

WALLACE, campaigning again for the Democratic presidential nomination, argues that the federal government has grown too big and has spawned a bureaucracy which, he says, has grown 'stronger than the executive and the Congress

He says some of its functions should be turned back to local authorities, particularly the control of "our democratic institutions such as the schools." Aside from schools, he did not specify which functions he would turn back.

Federal intervention in schools is an old theme with the Alabama governor, who gained prominence battling federal school intergration orders with the battle cry "segregation forever." But he has muted his segregationist image.

He criticizes forced busing, but no longer does he advocate school segregation. He says that it is a thing of the past, a way of life in the South that will not return. Wallace solicits the support of black

IN HIS CAMPAIGN - his fourth for the presidency - he stresses opposition to the intervention of the federal courts in the lifestyle of

When a federal judge recently ordered major reforms in Alabama prisons, the governor charged that "thugs and federal judges are about to take over our society.

On ways to save federal money, Wallace charged in an interview that welfare checks and benefits from other "humanitarian" programs are being paid to hundreds of thousands not entitled to federal aid.

When he was asked for specific figures and detailed proposals, the only response came from Billy Joe Camp, his chief spokesman, who said the figures would be worked out as the campaign progresses

Wallace says that there should be tighter eligibility requirements and constant monitoring of all relief programs to stop cheating.

'Many of the programs that we have instituted now in this country that were meant to be purely humanitarian have turned out to be ripoffs," he said.

Again, he provided no specifics. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, in a study of the $16-billion aid for dependent children program, estimated that errors cost the government about $1 billion annually. The report said that about half was due to administrative errors by states and counties. It blamed the rest on errors by individuals. HEW officials could provide no specific figures on the number of intentional cheaters in the latter group but said the number was

WALLACE ALSO advocates a "strong curtailment" in foreign aid, contending that much is wasted on "those who are not friends of the United

That assertion also was made without specifics, and the Wallace camp would offer none.

He said that "we do have a responsibility to join in constructive efforts ... to help sustain life and health" in the poorer countries. But he warned that 'we cannot do so to the extent of exhausting our resources.

"We have been called on for more than our share, and that in itself is self-destructive."

Foreign military and economic aid totals nearly $8 billion for the current fiscal year. Wallace was not specific about how much of that he would cut.

At home, Wallace said, "The liberals who have been in charge of the government so long cannot cope with unemployment, inflation and recession, because, too often, their only answer is "more big government."

The problems can be solved, he said, only when the nation's productive capacity is "put back to work." One way to increase productivity, he said, is to "take the strain off the middle class in inflation and the tax burden that the federal level is putting on them. A request to the Wallace campaign for details on how he would accomplish this produced none.

PUBLIC WORKS projects to provide jobs should be undertaken only as a last resort, he said, and only for a short period of time. Wallace was critical of the nation's foreign policy, which he said should be more than "a one-man show," and apprehensive on the effectiveness of detente with the Soviet Union. "I believe it's going to be necessary to continue to have dialogue with the Soviet Union and the Red Chinese," he said. "We cannot get to the point where we say we refuse to talk." But, he said, "we should recognize the realities of this situation, the realities of who we're dealing with, those who have never kept any agreement unless it was for their advantage.

The best way to talk and negotiate and to have a policy of detente that would eventually work is for this nation to regain its superiority in military offensive and defensive capabilities.

"We will never have any generation or generations of peace unless we are the strongest and negotiate from a position of strength."

While Wallace seemed to be suggesting a larger military budget, he gave no figures and made no specific recommendations on weapons systems.

He said the United States should never agree to an arms reduction "unless we can be absolutely sure through adequate inspections that the agreements would not be violated and that the Soviet Union would not use the agreement to take advantage of us, which, in my judgment, it has already done.

WALLACE SAID there is no "short-haul" solution to the energy crisis in the United States, but that much can be accomplished by voluntary conservation. That, he said, "hasn't been emphasized enough."

He said completion of the Alaskan pipeline will give some relief, and he recommended construction of a second pipeline "if the reserves, as I now understand it, would warrant."

According to government estimates, North Slope Alaska oil reserves total about 45 billion barrels. The current pipeline will carry about two million barrels a day. Another, presumably, could double that

Along with that, Wallace suggested stepped-up offshore drilling on the outer continental shelf.

Estimates of offshore oil reserves vary widely. with some guesses ranging up to 190 billion barrels. Wallace urged a long-range research program to make maximum use of solar energy.

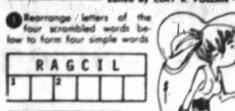

But "the big answer, he said, is coal. He said the nation hasenough coal to meet its energy needs and help make it independent.

INNSBRUCK, Austria - The building doesn't look like much from the outside. It is jerry-built, unpainted and strictly functional. But inside the one-story structure sits millions of dollars of television equipment, everything from a complete master control to a bank of color cameras.

the focal point for American coverage of the Winter Olympics here Feb. 4-15. A behind-the-scenes look at what it takes for a network to telecast such a complicated event was given by Julius Barnathan, vice president in charge of broadcast operations. He has been living and breathing Olympics since ABC-TV was awarded it in mid-1973.

"All of this equipment was disassembled in New York, shipped here, then reassembled," he reported during a tour of the facilities. "Ninety per cent of it is new; that's why the total cost is somewhere near $5 million.

"But once the Olympics are over. we'll dismantle the equipment, ship it back to New York, then use it at the Summer Olympics in Montreal, which we'll be covering. After that, it will be dispersed among our other ABC projects.

The network's newest mobile unit, valued at $3 million, had arrived at Innsbruck the day before. It will be based at the Ice Stadium, where the figure skating events are being held.

Telecasting in another country has produced a number of problems for Barnathan and his staff of technicians.

Power — enough of it — is another concern of the ABC-TV crew. Barnathan has installed a back-up system at all the Olympic sites in case of a power failure. He is guarding against the nightmare of all telecasters — the

And, in this day of electronic miracles, viewers in America will be seeing a slalom or skating event onetenth of a second after it actually occurs, Barnathan said. That's all the longer it takes in the transmission from Innsbruck.

To cover the Olympics, ABC-TV will have a team of announcers headed by Jim McKay, Chris Schenkel and Frank Gifford. McKay, if you'll recall, did an outstanding job of reporting the terrorist attack on the Israeli team at the Munich Olympics in 1972, which showed his all-round capabilities as a reporter. Among the experts called in by the network to assist in the coverage are Art Devlin, former ski champion who was a member of five U.S. Olympic teams; Dick Button, Gold Medal winner in figure skating; Bob Beattie, former@coach of the U.S. ski team; and Anne Henning, speed skating champ.

Colby admits leaking story to Washington paper

WASHINGTON (AP) - Amid charges and countercharges over the leakage of intelligence secrets turned over to the House intelligence committee, CIA director William E. Colby has acknowledged that he too was once an anonymous source for a newspaper story exposing CIA contacts with journalists.

Colby and other Ford administration officials accused the House panel Monday of violating its oath by disclosing topsecret intelligence operations contained in the committee's final report which was to be released this Friday but which was leaked to the news media over the weekend.

"The committee seems neither able to keep secrets nor its agreement." Colby told a news conference in one of his last official acts as head of the

Meanwhile, the Senate is expected to vote today to confirm former Republican national chairman

George Bush as Colby's successor at Richard M. Helms, currently under investigation by the Justice Department for his role in past agency misdeeds, is scheduled to testify before the Senate Government Operations Committee on legislation that would create a new panel to monitor the intelligence community.

FBI director Clarence M. Kelley told the committee Monday that the establishment of such a committee could jeopardize the bureau's investigative work.

Colby acknowledged in an interview Monday that he had revealed to the Washington Star in November 1973 that the agency had some three dozen American journalists working abroad on its payroll.

Colby said the question was raised by a Star staffer during a meeting he was having with the newspaper's editorial board. Colby said he "couldn't be in a position of telling them something false" and so he the CIA. Also, former CIA director / responded affirmatively to the

During the interview and a later news conference Monday, Colby also:

-Denied a statement in the House committee's report that the CIA manipulated the British-owned Reuters news agency. Colby accused the panel of distorting a hypothetical reference to Reuters and said the name was raised for the hypothetical discussion by someone on the committee, not himself.

-Said he doesn't know of any pornographic films made by the CIA other than "Happy Days." a phony film reportedly produced to make President Sukarno of Indonesia angry with the Soviet Union.

According to sources, the House committee report says Sukarno was caught in a sexual affair in Russia and the CIA made a film - using an actor - purportedly showing him in an embrace. The film was to have been distributed in Indonesia in a way that made it appear to be peddled by Russian agents.

-Confirmed that Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., once gave the CIA advice on how to try to avoid testifying at a Senate hearing on Chilean activities. He called Jackson's action "perfectly appropriate."

-Declined to confirm the House committee report's statement that the CIA supplied weapons to Kurdish rebels in Iraq at the order of President Richard M. Nixon despite

-Said the recent leaks of secrets turned over to the House Committee and other congressional panels have brought CIA effectiveness to a new low point. "I had thought about early December we had managed to get through a year of investigation without really indicating that we could not protect some important secrets," Colby said. But, "right now we're about as low as I can think with this enormous leakage of all the material we gave to the House committee.

-Called the House report "a partial, sensationalized, biased view." When the first revelation of CIA wrongdoing occurred more than a year ago, Colby said he failed to anticipate the "sensationalized character that would be given to the few CIA misdeeds that we had."

Meanwhile, White House press secretary Ron Nessen said the leaks of the House report raises "serious questions about how classified material can be handled by Congress when the national security is at

Detroit integration plan broadens today

DETROIT (AP) - Court-ordered integration of Detroit's schools, begun peacefully with the busing of elementary school children. broadened today as classes resumed in the city's secondary schools. School officials said the first day of court-ordered busing in Detroit was a success Monday, even though nearly one-third of the pupils stayed home.

But civil rights leaders and school officials acknowledged some concern about the high schools, which in the past have been hit by occasional racial fights and violence.

Detroit is the largest city in the country to undergo court-ordered desegregation, with about 10 per cent of the 247,000 pupils to be bused under the plan. The school system is 75 per

Many buses were only halffull as they arrived at elementary schools Monday. More than 40,000 elementary pupils were absent.

Supporters of the city's largest antibusing groups kept their children home Monday in an indefinite "yellow flu" boycott. There were no incidents at the schools and only three small demonstrations against the integration program.

School Supt. Arthur Jefferson estimated absenteeism was 32.4 per cent of the city's 127,000 elementary pupils, up from a normal rate of 12.5

per cent. "Many parents are waiting to see what happens before they send their children," Jefferson said. "They can see we had a nearly normal day

The absentee rate in Region 7 in the city's predominantly white northeast corner was 56.3 per cent. To the west, in nearly all-black Region 5 which was not affected by the integration order, only 15.7 per cent stayed home.

"In the northeast area everyone has quarantined their children with the yellow flu," said Carmen Roberts. head of Mothers Alert Detroit. MAD, the city's largest antibusing group, claims a membership of 2,000 families.

House expected to vote aid ban

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House is expected to join the Senate and vote a ban on continued military aid to Westernbacked factions in the Angolan civil

The issue is scheduled to be raised when the House takes up the $90-billion defense appropriation bill today. That bill contains a Senate-approved amendment to prohibit U.S. funds from being used for the fighting in the southwest African nation. Appropriations Committee Chairman George Mahon said he expects the amendment to be approved by the House today "by a wide margin. In another development, Rep. Don Bonker, D-

Wash., said Monday that he had 200 cosponsors to a resolution advising President Ford not to aid any military faction in Angola unless the Congress specifically approves such assistance. Bonker said he considered the support for his resolution indicative as to how the vote on the funds will go.

The administration has included $28 million in the defense appropriations bill for support of the Western-backed National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA) and its ally, the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA). The Soviet Union has been supplying arms, and Cuba has sent men, to the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA).

A fund cutoff would affect only direct appropriations to Angola. Bonker has voiced concern that U.S. funds could be channeled through Zaire for use in continued support of the antiSoviet factions.

Monday, the State Department's assistant secretary of state for African affairs, William E. Schaufele, told the House International Relations Committee that U.S. efforts to aid the two Angolan factions were a response to Soviet and Cuban military intervention. "We must recognize that the Soviet Union has strained the fabric of detente by its lack of restraint and unilateral actions in Angola," he said. "We were not hostile to the MPLA before it decided to impose its rule on the strength of Soviet and Cuban

Black Viet veterans ready for war again

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - About 200 black Vietnam war combat veterans in the Washington area are organizing to go to Angola and fight on the side of the U.S.-backed forces in the civil war there.

The black Army, Navy and Marine Corps veterans, most of whom are in their early 30s, include messengers, hospital technicians, a Washington police officer and several unemployed men who are bitter about their failure to find work

Most of them fought in Vietnam in specially trained infantry units with high esprit d'corps and have had some difficulty adjusting to civilian life. Larry Mitchell, a Holy Cross Hospital operating room technician who is recruiting the veterans, said they will be organized and ready to leave for Angola to fly Continental to Houston.

Rebels, Bulldogs battle in city shootout tonight

Midland Lee and Midland High, both out of the running for the first half basketball championship in the District 5-4A race, still battle each other with lots of pride at stake tonight in the Lee Gymnasium.

In the past five years, both the Rebels and Bulldogs faced each other with this game having some meaning on the outcome of the first half of the race, but only Abilene and Odessa Permian are interested in that.

Actually, Abilene, with a 6-0 record, has already nailed down at least a tie for the first half crown since the Eagles beat Permian, 53-52, in overtime. A loss by Abilene to crosstown rival Cooper and a Permian win over hapless Odessa High, would see the first half wind up in a deadlock.

Midland owns a narrow 15-14 edge in the overall city series which has been a heated one and seen some great games played bewteen the two Tall City teams.

The two sophomore units got things underway a day early by playing Monday night, but there is a junior varsity contest set for 6:15 p.m. in the Lee Gymnasium with the varsity tipoff set for 8 p.m.

Lee sends the No. 3 scorer in the district up against the Purple Pack in 6-6 senior Junior Miller, who has tallied 118 points in six loop games for an average of 19.6 per outing. The big senior has scored 447 points in 23 games for a 19.5 mean and has now poured in 1,003 points to trail Mike Prince is a 1970 grad for the Rebels and still holds the individual single game scoring record with 46 points against Odessa Permian on Feb. 11, 1969. By the way, the Rebels still lost that game to the Panthers, however, 71-67.

Joining Miller in the lineup tonight will most likely be Steve Reiter, 6-5 senior: Brent Huckabay, 6-1 senior: Roy Lee Smith, a 6-1 junior and either Robin Todd, a 5-10 senior or Billy Ray Ennis, a 6-3 junior.

Lee sports a 14-9 season record compared to Midland's 12-14 reading and the Rebels are 3-3 in loop play while the Pack stands 1-5.

Trojans feed Major Leagues

The infield was composed of Ron Fairly, Gary Sutherland, Roy Smalley and Rich Dauer while roaming the outfield were Fred Lynn. Steve Kemp, and Dave Kingman.

For pitchers, there were Tom Seaver, Steve Busby, Tom House, Jim Barr and Brent Strom

Put 'em all together and you might have a major league pennant contender. And that's exactly what they did over the weekend as the University of Southern California opened its baseball season against the Lynn, of course, was the American League Rookie and MVP of the year while Kingman hit 36 homers and 88 RBI for the Mets. Kemp, you probably haven't heard of, but you will. He was the No. 1 draft choice, going to Detroit after hitting .435 for the Trojans last season, a school record incidentally.

SEAVER, 22-9 and the Cy Young Award winner in the National League; Steve Busby, 18-12, 3.08 with 260 strikeouts for Kansas City; and Bill Lee, 17-9 with the Red Sox, could start for anybody. Strom posted an 8-8 with a 2.55 ERA for San Diego while Boston thought enough of Atlanta's Fairly hit .301 for the Cards and Smalley crashed the Texas Ranger lineup in his first year while Sutherland was Detroit's promising rookie second baseman.

Lynn says the warm, dry Southern California climate is part of the reason the Trojans develop such baseball standouts.

But he believes most important is the "winning attitude" Lynn says, "I know what it means for the other team to walk on the field and start to think, 'Oh, no, those are the Trojanswe can't win, and we got the feeling that no matter how far upwn we were. we could always somehow come

By the way, guess who won the Alumni game?.

CLEAR LAKE, 27-2, is rated the No. 1 AAAA basketball team in the state by the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches' poll. Houston Jones, 26-3, Dallas South Oak Cliff, Abilene, Deer Park, Houston Waltrip, Houston Madison and Fort Worth Dunbar complete the top 10.

Midland Lee pulled a No. 15 ranking

Other divisional leaders are South Grand Frarie, AAA; Morton, AA; Brookshire Royal, A; and Union in B.

Apparently, the poll is a once a month project and things have changed quite a bit since this one #as conducted. Bill McMurray, Houston sportswriters, rates Jones No. 1 in the Houston area ratings over Clear

El Paso Eastwood, 20-2, and El Paso Austin, 20-3, lead District 1-4A with 3-0 records.

Ysleta Bel Air is the leader in 1-4A with a 6-0 record in 2-4A. and El Paso Bowie is a good example of just how rough things are in the Border City.

Last year, Bowie, a predominantly sophomore-junior team reached the regional tournament. This year, Bowie is 15-10 and last week had a 27game district winning streak snapped by Bel Air and then Ysleta added insult to injury with another defeat.

Bartow may try lineup changes

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Gene Bartow, coach of the 12th-ranked UCLA Bruins, hinted again Monday that he may change his starting lineup for Saturday night's Pacific-8 COnference game against Southern Cal at Pauley Pavilion.

'We're going to do some evaluating this week that may or may not lead to starting lineup changes," Bartow

Bartow, whose team has lost three of 17 games and dropped quickly in the national basketball rankings, would not say where changes may be made. But the starting jobs of center Ralph Drollinger and guard Andre McCarter appear to be in the most Drollinger, 7 feet 1, has been inconsistent this season. In UCLA's 95-85 loss to Notre Dame Saturday, he accounted for just one rebound in the 21 minutes he played. "Ralph has played some great basketball and you can't fault anyone for one isolated game,"Bartow commented,."But we are concerned that we aren't getting 12, 15 or more rebounds a game from a 7-foot-1 player." McCarter tops the feam in assists with 82, but his shooting has dropped to 27.5 per cent from the floor in the Bruins' last three games. "We're also going to have to take a hard look at our guard situation," Bartow said. "We're not as consistent there as I hoped we'd be. While Bartow talked of lineup changes, he did not dwell on the possibility. He had first mentioned making switches after a UCLA victory over Stanford Jan. 16, but he

Scott gets axe from Piston job

DETROIT (AP) - Ray Scott, the National Basketball Association's Coach of the Year in 1974, was fired Monday as coach of the Detroit Pistons because of what was described as a breakdown in communications.

Scott, the Pistons' winningest coach of all time, was notified of his release by three principal club owners during a practice session at a suburban Detroit high school.

"We have terminated Ray Scott's contract because of a com-munications breakdown," said General Manager Oscar Feldman. 'We believe this action is in the best interest of the team. The other two owners are Bill

Davidson and Herb Tyner. Feldman said assistant coach Herb Brown would take over the head coaching duties for the remainder of Scott used the same spot and Midland led 64-61 as the crowd warmed up to the action.

From that point on it was anyone's game until Parks' game winning free Parks wound up with 24 points and Nickerson with 12. Six-eight Frank McLelland had 26 for NMMI and ruined Story's pregame plan. "McLelland wasn't supposed to be a shooter, so we were concentrating on Blueford, Franklin and McConico. He shot holes in that theory, so for the second half we just decided to play everybody solid. ALL MCLELLAND did was go ninefor-nine from the field and two-for-two from the line im the first half, winding up 12-of-14 from the field. MC managed to stay in front on some good outside shooting by Parks, Rick Daniel and Sim Nickerson and a lot of second effort shots under the boards. Parks was four of seven the first half. Daniel four of eight and Nickerson four of five. Jackson Pace also had the touch with four of five. The Chaps were 20 of 35 from the field in the first half. However, in the second half Franklin, blanked in the first half; Blueford, held to three points, and

McConico came to life to combine for 26 points between them and make it a MONDAY WAS one of those nights when much of the MC strategy went Blueford was on to penetrate and draw something. But they changed their pattern and it didn't work." One thing that assistant Ron Mayberry did feel worked was a timeout called by Story after NMMI reeled off those 12 straight points midway through the second half to take a 57-54 lead. "We got settled down and it cooled them off," Mayberry said. Midland College journeys to Amarillo Thursday to begin the second half of play and the Chaps will be trying to reverse a two-point loss suffered at Midland early earlier in

McMurry coach resigns post

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) - Don Newsom has resigned as head football coach at McMurry College to accept a similar position at McCullough High School of Conroe. The new school will open in the fall and play a junior varsity schedule in 1976. The next year it will enter varsity competition in District 16-AAAA. Newsome has been at McMurry since 1973. He was named NAIA District 8 coach of the year in 1974 when his team posted a 6-4 record. McMurry does not offer athletic scholarships.

Newsom, a native of Mt. Pleasant and a graduate of Austin College, coached at several Texas high schools before joining the McMurry staff.

wasn't in real good shape.'

But the shape looked fine as he lofted a 14-yard scoring strike to Terry Metcalf of the St. Louis Cardinals with 3:10 remaining. That put the underdog NFC within striking distance at 20-16. On the next drive Metcalf's teammate, Mel Gray, elbowed under a Boryla toss in a crowded end zone for the game's final score with just 1:09 left to play.

Boryla describes his special as "kind of a razzle dazzle play" in which two faked handoffs lure the linebackers up close while Metcalf sneaks into the secondary for a pass.

In the fourth quarter, Johnson evaded five would-be tacklers and rambled 90 yards to the end zone to give the AFC a 20-9 lead that seemed insurmountable. That broke Renfro's record of 82 yards. Johnson said he owed his success to for the longest pass play, set on a throw from Harris to Gray last year. Dan Pastorini of Houston broke that mark when he found teammate Ken Burrough for a 64-yard touchdown pass with only 12 seconds left in Lawrence McCutcheon of Angeles snapped the record for it longest run from scrimmage when dodged 43 yards from his own 29 in th third quarter and fumbled into the arms of Harold Jackson, also of the Rams. The previous record was a yards, held since the 1975 Pro Bowl h O.J. Simpson.

Simpson had X rays taken of hi hand, injured when he tried to protect his chin strap from a souvenir-hungry fan after the game. Doctors gave the Buffalo running back a clean bill

Another record of sorts was se when Ray Guy became the first punter to bounce a kick off the Superdome instant replay screens 90 feet above the artificial turf.

Guy says he aimed for the 20by-40 foot color screens "just to see if could do it.'

It was early in the third quarter and the AFC still held its 13-0 halftime lead. "I never would have tried it in a regulation season game," said the Oakland Raider punter.

The NFC seemed unable to move throughout the opening half as an AFC defense stifled the offense led by Hart of St. Louis.

Marquette takes 11th win in row

By The Associated Press

Marquette Warriors are 15-1 and ranked second in The Associated Press college basketball poll, wants to flirt with defeat.

"I hope we have some tight games before we go to the tournament, if we go, and I think we will," McGuire said Monday night after Marquette defeated Georgia Tech 55-44 for its 11th straight victory

"In fact," the Warriors coach said. "It probably won't hurt us to lose one before the tournament. That takes the pressure off. That's why Indiana didn't win it last year.

The Indiana Hoosiers, top-ranked this season, were undefeated last year when they were upset in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament. The Hoosiers ran their record to 17-0 Monday night with an easy 88-73 victory over Iowa.

Looking lethargic through most of the game. Marquette spurted out to a 17-4 lead, let it dwindle to 25-20 at halftime, the twice built up margins of 18 points in the second half before Georgia Tech rallied in the final three

"I was pleased," McGuire said. "the idea is to win the game. The score makes no difference.

DENVER (AP) - While coaches Larry Brown and Kevin Loughery agree that the game plan for tonight's American Basketball Association AllStar contest is to win, Commissioner Dave DeBusschere and the league's Board of Trustees are trying to agree on a game plan for the future of the ABA.

"The All-Star Game is fun and a time to relax, but there is no question that we're going out there to win," said Brown, who will match his first-place Denver Nuggets against a 12man team of all-stars coached by Loughery.

"I didn't come here to lose and neither did the players," said Loughery, coach of the New York Nets and the winning coach in last year's All-Star game in which the East trounced the West 151-124 at San Antonio. "The All-Star game can be fun, but we'll also be trying to win.'

The Nuggets will have advantages of team unity, cohesiveness, timing, the hometown crowd and the incentive of trying to beat the league's best players. "Our players won't need any more incentive than already exists," said Brown, the losing coach in last

Brown also pointed out that "during the regular season, we have had the advantage of being acclimated to the Denver atmosphere, which can wear dow teams here

But he added, "I don't see how you can wear down 12 all-stars. Not only is their starting lineup strong,

While Brown goes with his starting lineup that has opened a 31/2-game lead over secondplace New York-forwards David Thompson and Bobby Jones, center Dan Issel and guards Chuck Williams and Ralph Simpson-the all-stars will open with forwards Julius Erving of New York and Billy Knight of Indiana, center Artis Gilmore of Kentucky and guards James Silas of San Antonio and Brian Taylor

For reserves, Loughery has forwards Maurice Lucas of Kentucky, Marvin Barnes of St. Louis and Larry Kenon of San Antonio, center Billy Paultz of San Antonio and guards Ron Boone of St. Louis, George Gervin of San Antonio and Don Buse of In-Both teams worked out for about an hour Monday, and it was disclosed that Bobby Jones, who had been a doubtful starter because of recent chest problems. had been declared physically healthy after undergoing tests.

Meanwhile, the trustees held the first lengthy session of their two-day meetings, in which DeBusschere had promised to "discuss all the general things, but the theme probably will be a game plan for the future.

The most important development from Monday's meeting was the disclosure that the struggling Virginia franchise, which had been on shaky financial ground, had paid its longoverdue assessments to the league

Calling himself "pleased with the present status of the Virginia franchise" and saying it would be a "financially strong team for the remainder of the season," DeBusschere also reaffirmed that the other six franchises were in "solid" financial shape and the league would continue-at least temporarily-on a seven-team, one-division basis.

The commissioner however, added that the ABA has received several franchise applications for next season, including one from Cincinnati. But he said the league could not act upon them immediately because of the possibility of merger with the National Basketball Association for the 197677 DeBusschere reiterated that the merger "would be in the best interest of professional basketball...but we won't go calling. I don't believe in it.

'We know what we want," he added. "It's just a matter of what the other side (the NBA) wants. But it would be fruitless for us to discuss it at great length because of the Oscar Robertson suit.

Robertson and the NBA Players Association have filed suit against the NBA trying to block a merger. The suit is scheduled for trial on June 1, although attempts currently are 8being made at an out-ofcourt settlement

Industry speaking out against proposed bills to breakup companies

By BENJAMIN SHORE Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - At nearly every opportunity oil industry executives today are speaking out against a piece of legislation that has them scared.

Those giant oil companies scared? Afraid of the U.S. Congress, which never has proved difficult to handle in

The answer is yes, and the reason is a proposal to force so-called vertically integrated oil companies to be broken up into smaller competing

The Petroleum Industry Competition Act of 1975 was introduced last fall in the Senate. It is aimed at the decades-old practice of oil companies controlling every aspect of the industry, from exploration to pumping gas. The legislation divides the complex sequence of operations into four main parts - production, transportation, refining and marketing. It would require a company to control no more than one of these functions of the petroleum industry.

For example, Exxon would be forced to select one function to keep and sell the other three. If it chose to keep its production activities, it would have to sell its transportation facilities, refineries and gas stations.

Commented Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief sponsor of the legislation:

"This nation cannot and will not be able to solve our massive energy problems, nor provide lasting cures to the serious recession and inflation that can be traced directly to oil prices, unless we recognize that the oil industry is fundamentally non-

The oil industry is worried primarily because the legislative proposal has popular appeal to an American public pushed to the wall by steadily rising energy prices - and aware of the enormous profitability of

In a speech Jan. 14 to the annual meeting of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, Frank Ikard, president of the industry-sponsored American Petroleum Institute. described the American consumer

Angry, disillusioned and in no mood to acknowledge the benefits of efficient performance over the years. He's harassed by inflation and hurt by recession. And he's convinced he is being ripped off at the supermarket check-out counter and the gas pump.'

Ikard charged that "some members of Congress have been quick to capture - or capitalize - on the He noted that a similar divestiture amendment was defeated in the Senate 54 to 45 last year, a vote which he interpreted as showing "substantial support" for the concept of divestiture

What Ikard did not tell this particular audience is that the proposal to break up the oil companies is not new, nor is its theory - more competition results in lower prices - new among legislators.

Furthermore, Ikard and company officials are attacking Congress but not the executive branch, whose Federal Trade Commission two years ago sued the eight major oil companies for alleged anti-competitive practices

(The Justice Department, whose ob it is to enforce existing antitrust laws, has taken no position on congressional proposals to break up vertically integrated oil companies.)

Ikard, the industry's chief spokesman, said the companies were under attack because they are big "and there seems to be a feeling that bigness - especially bigness in business — is inherently bad.

But proponents of the break-up legislation deny that bigness is the villain. They say it is the lack of competition in an industry that plays so vital a role in the nation's economy remarks accompanying in troduction of the legislation, cosponsor Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., chairman of the Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, noted that many industries are well-suited to vertical integration, which of itself is not necessarily bad.

"At its best, it can add efficiencies and economies which can enable a company to offer competitive prices to its customers." Hart said. "At its worst, it can be a strong anticompetitive weapon. Each industry demonstrating vertical integration must be judged on its performance.'

A new directional-drilling firm has been formed here for service to the oil industry throughout the Permian Basin, Mid-Continent and Rocky Mountain areas.

The corporate trade name is DIG. short for Directional Investment Guidance, Inc.

Principals and stockholders include Glen Harbert, president; Joe C Thompson, vice president; Loyd Jones and Glen Cothrun.

All are veterans of the directional drilling industry with a combined total of more than 40 years experience, particularly in deep, hot holes and hard-rock formations.

Harbert previously served as regional vice president for Eastman-Whipstock, supervising five districts and eight branch offices through the Western states and Alaska.

Thompson was a regional representative, and both Jones and Cothrun served as directional

Imports to increase in 1976 Journal says; good year forecast

TULSA, Okla. - The U.S. will import record volumes of foreign oil in 1976 as domestic crude supplies continue to slide downhill.

The imports rise will be sparked by a 3.5 per cent jump in demand for all types of energy, the Oil and Gas Journal reports. And the increase in demand is being generated by a reviving economy after two straight years of declines.

Oil will bear the brunt of most of that increase, especially with more consumers switching from natural gas. Together, oil and gas will contribute 73.5 per cent of the U.S. energy

At the same time, higher oil demand will run head on into declining domestic production, the Journal says. Oil demand is estimated to rise 5.1 per cent in 1976 to 17,098,000 barrels per day. Domestic crude-oil production will drop 3 per cent to 8,093,000 barrels per day and natural gas liquids, 1.6 per cent to 1,635,000 barrels per day. Heavy imports, particularly of crude, will make up the supply deficiency in 1976. Landings of crude are expected to increase by 21.8 per cent to a record 5,032,000 barrels per day. This compares with a record 4,133,000 barrels per day in 1975, the Journal says.

Imports of products, which declined last year, will increase in 1976 to 1,977,000 barrels per day. Total energy imports will reach

7,009,000 barrels per day, the highest total volume in U.S. history, passing the previous mark of 6,201,000 barrels per day set in 1973. In order to meet rising petroleum demand, domestic refiners will have to increase their crude runs by an average 5.3 per cent to 13.101.000 barrels per day, the Journal predicts. Refiners, in addition to high runs, are expected to draw slightly on stocks of both crude and producs during the year to meet demand. Overall stocks will decline by 97,000 barrels per day, a change from 1975 when there was a slight buildup of stocks. The bright spot of 1975 was drilling. Drilling was unusually strong with the peak coming in December when 1.811 rigs were active. The high rig count resulted in completion of an estimated 38,498 wells, the highest since 1965, the Journal reports.

The drilling outlook for 1976 calls for a continued high level of activity with completion of 38,755 wells Wildcat wells are expected to surpass

Flow was through a 50-64-inch choke and perforated interval at 12,485-13,082 feet.

During the last 12 hours, the average gas rate was 2.13 million cubic feet per day, with load flowing back at the rate of 7.75 barrels per hour, on a 44-64-inch choke. Testing continued.

The Oil and Gas Journal's annua forecast-review als predicts that: -Gasoline demand will rise slightly to average 6,790,000 barrels per days up 1.8 per cent. —Distillate demand will average 3,280,000 barrels per day — up 14.5 per cent compared with 2.6 per cent decline last year.

-Production of nuclear energy wil more than triple from 888 trillio BTUs three years ago to 2. quadrillion BTUs last year.

Overall, the Journal says 1976 look like another good year for the oil industry. But this assumes good judgement in administering the omnibus energy bill and not further legislative restrictions imposed from

Oil taxes swell state treasury

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Oil and gas production taxes pouring into the Texas treasury will help raise the state's surplus to $428.2 million by Aug. 31, 1977, predicts comptroller Bob Bullock.

Last July, Bullock estimated a surplus of only $28 million.

By the time the next legislature meets in January 1977, Bullock's estimate could be even higher, but he predicted that if lawmakers continue their spending patterns they "will need to pass a huge tax bill."

Bullock attributed $207.4 million of his revised estimate to increasing yields to oil and gas taxes. He noted, however, that the federal energy bill recently signed by President Ford cut a potential $50 million off his

Exxon reports earnings loss

NEW YORK (AP) - Exxon Corp., the world's largest industrial company, said today its profits in 1975 fell 17.5 per cent below the 1974 level.

In the last three months of the yar. Exxon's profits declined 17.9 per cent from the like period of 1974, the company said.

Texaco, Inc., and Mobil Oil Corp., the second and third largest oil companies, also have reported profit declines in 1975, when the end of postembargo inventory profits and a slack in worldwide demand for oil combined to reduce oil company earnings.

Water Board honors Long

AUSTIN (AP) - Stuart Long of the Long News Service was honored by the Texas Water Quality Board today in "recognition of outstanding commitment to informing the public' on water quality matters.

The first George Gordon Fulcher Award was presented to Long in memory of the late former chairman of the board.

Long's Austin-based news service serves 27 newspapers in Texas, including the Midland Reporter Telegram, and he also publishes six weekly reports. including "Pollution Report" and the "Water Report."

Long grew up in Abilene and started his news services 30 years ago after graduating from the University of

A Goddard Junior High School student has been released from Midland Memorial Hospital, while the teacher-bus driver remains in the hospital in satisfactory condition, a hospital spokesman confirmed

Reid was driving 15 students to Carver School for their Cooperative Vocational Academic Education class Friday afternoon when the bus collided with a tractor-trailer truck driven by Martin Gustafson of Fresno, Calif., at the intersection of Wadley and North Big Spring streets, police said.

Only one student was admitted to the hospital, 13-year-old Hector Sosa. son of Mrs. Della Sosa of 308 E. Maple St., the spokesman said. Sosa suffered a broken arm as a result of the collision, the spokesman added.

ments, David Norwood of the Kermit Police Department and Henry Wedel of the Alpine Police Department also attended the class which ended

Burglars loot cars at club

Two autos were burglarized Sunday at Ranchland Hills Country Club, resulting in the lost of a small caliber revolver and a citizens band radio. Larkin Lay of 3322 Fannin St. said a 22 caliber, single action revolver was taken from under the front seat of his car sometime between 10 a.m. and 4:10 p.m. Investigating officer Dewey Lee of the Midland County Sheriff's Department said entry to the car was gained by breaking the front door window on the driver's side. He speculated the burglar may have been looking for a CB radio, which was in use by Lay's son at the time.

Five parking places away from Lay's car, according to Lee, a CB radio was reported missing from the pickup truck of Samuel C. Walker, 3402 Tanner St. Walker told Lee the incident occured sometime between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Entry was gain by breaking out the window on the driver's side. The radio was removed from its mounting on the dash board.

Freedom Train holds historic fire engine

An 1849 hand pump fire engine will be part of the American Freedom Train's Bicentennial display in Midland, thanks to a 200-year-old volunteer fire engine association.

The Friendship Veterans Fire Engine Association of Alexandria, Va., spent some 24 years restoring this relic which assisted in putting out the fire at the nation's capitol in 1851.

In the mid-1880s, getting the hand pump into engine action was an elaborate ritual taking the efforts of four to eight men. On good days and uncluttered streets, firemen rushed to the scene of a fire at a speed of nearly five miles per hour.

The hand pump engine is part of the transportation display located in the Freedom Train's two showcase cars. Also included in the display are the backup lunar rover and the first auto to win a transcontinental race in the

Other display items include George Washington's copy of the Constitution with his own marginal notes, the 1849 hand pump from Washington's fire company, Benjamin Franklin's draft of the Artificles of Confederation. Delaware's ratification of the Bill of Rights and relics spanning America's achievements from its early settlers to space exploration.

The Freedom Train will be at the Midland Regional Air Terminal for public viewing from noon to 10 p.m. Feb. 7 and from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Feb.

Admission is $1 for children from 3-12 years old and for senior citizens 65 and over. Other admission costs are $2, with children under 3 being admitted free of charge Tickets are available at Gibson's in Midland. The American Freedom Train is sponsored by The American Freedom Train Foundation Inc., a tax-exempt. non-profit organization headquar-

Severe Russian winter brings grain crop hopes

The Los Angeles Times

MOSCOW - "The harder the winter, the better the harvest, cording to one Russian proverb. "The more it snows, the more grain grows," says another.

By that measure, this should be a bumepr crop year in the Soviet Union. The European part of the country has been in the deep freeze for a month, with Moscow temperatures veraging about 4 degrees below zero.

"This is the first really cold winter in the four I've been here." a German diplomat remarked. "One of the two or three coldest since I came here in 1952," said a shivering taxi driver from the Georgian Republic. The latest weather summary said

January temperatures have been 4 to 10 degrees below normal throughout European Russia. More importantly. it also said the winter crops were under an insulating snow blanket and doing well.

The Russians could do with a good harvest after last year. The 1975 grain yield was one-third under plan, and the effects are already being felt.

Newspapers report scattered bread shortages in the countryside. While most were blamed on poor transport facilities, Westerners here suspect the lack of grain is a major cause.

Bakers last week were ordered to start making small rolls (about 2 ounces) and fewer large loaves of bread. Large loaves are often cut into huge hunks in cafeterias and canteens, and much of it is left half-eaten.

"Bread is our greatest wealth," one official said in Komsomolskaya Pravda, reinforcing the conservation line that is being stressed here. The hard winter seems to lift Russian spirits. Perhaps it is because it has been a peaceful cold, without much wind, and the sun has shone between the periodic snowstorms. Low in the winter sky, it casts a rosy look to things.

"A real Russian winter," said a policeman happily. He proudly displayed his fleece-lined greatcoat and gloves, and his warm "Valenki" (felt boots) to prove he really could stop stamping his feet and swinging his arms if he chose "A good winter," said a Russian who had been needled by Westerners about slushy seasons of the past. "Warm winters are good only for catching grippe," said a Russian woman as if it were yet another Russian pro-

Children particularly love it. Their only complaint is that the thermometer has been stopping just short of 13 below zero - school-closing temperature here.

After a few days of the deep freeze, their sled runs turned into long ice slides, and the snow, banked gently on the side, created bumpy toboggan-like runs. The children use anything flat - a wide wooden slat, a linoleum square, even a chunk of broken Plexiglas - that gives a spinning. speeding ride over the wavy ice.

Improvised slides appear in the snow along almost every Moscow sidewalk. Children probably start them on the way to and from school. Swaddled toddlers are given rides by their mothers, who run alongside holding up one end of the child's scarf as a safety harness. A few adults, including one or two of pension age. give in to the impulse to slide along

Inside a bus, one is surrounded by white, with tracked-in snow unmelted on the floor and windows coated with frost and ice. One schoolgirl rode with a mitten constantly against the window — "to keep a hole so I can see where to get off." she explained.

Driving can also be adventurous. Snow removal is excellent, but roads are nonetheless slick. If the defroster breaks down the windshield frosts over almost immediately. Wipers freeze to the glass, and switching them on without first manually freeing them means losing the rubber strips and sometimes the metal arms as well.

Democrats will meet Friday

The Texas Democratic Party's affirmative action committee will meet with area party supporters at 7 p.m. Friday in the Court of Domestic Relations on the fourth floor of the Midland County Courthouse.

Changes in delegate selection and filing procedures are to be explained at the meeting.

The meeting has been called by Marie Prichard, Juanita Camfield and Lloyd McConnell, co-chairmen of the party's Area 10 affirmative action committee.

Austin College

to be viewed

ODESSA - Prospective students and their parents will be given a general overview of Austin College at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Odessa's Pioneer Natural Gas Building.

Hosting the informal meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. George T. Holland of Midland and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Reese of Odessa. Also present for the session will be Rollin Phipps, assistant director of admissions, and Dr. Shelton Williams, assistant professor of political science.

New 9 mg. tar MERIT with Enriched Flavor proves taste no longer depends on amount of tar.

Until now, cigarette flavor pretty much depended on the amount of tar that went along with it.

Regardless of "low tar, good taste" claims, regardless of fancy filters and "space-age" filtering systems - you couldn't get high taste without high tar.

Nor low tar without low taste.

That was the theory.

Until now.

This is another report on MERIT from Philip Morris. If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Low Tar, Good Taste: Filters Fall Short

At first, we tried designing special filters, too. Like others, our results were generally disappointing.

These results confirmed a belief that if there was any way to get flavor-real flavor-into a low tar cigarette, the answer had to lie somewhere in the tobacco itself.

So we focused on the business end of smoking. The tobacco end. And decided if we wanted to get more flavor through to you, we'd just have to start with more.

After a twelve year effort, our Richmond Research Center succeeded. They isolated the "key" flavor ingredients of tobacco as they exist in cigarette smoke.

By adding only those natural ingredients of extreme high quality as flavor contributors, yet low tar producing as well, they were able to pack MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor' - without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

'Enriched Flavor.' It's extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't drop out, can't do anything but come through for you.

Read the taste-test results for yourself.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved. smokers like yourself, tested at home*

The results were conclusive.

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much -or more - taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette.

MERIT. Incredible smoking pleasure at one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today only 9 mg. tar.
