Court strikes campaign spending limits

WASHINGTON (AP) - A divided Supreme Court today ruled that candidates for President or Congress may spend umlimited amounts of money in their political campaigns.

It upheld federal subsidies to presidential candidates, ordered changes in the new Federal Election Commission, and left intact the legal limits on what private citizens may give to federal candidates.

In its historic opinion the court also struck down limits on what federal candidates themselves may spend from their own or their family's money

But the court ruled that federal candidates must continue to disclose what they spend in their election campaigns and where they get the money

The decision was hailed as a victory by John Gardner, president of Common Cause, the citizen group that fought to defend the year-old federal election law against sweeping challenges.

There was no immediate reaction from Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., who was among the chief attackers of the law.

Initial reactions from candidates indicated the ruling would have only a slight effect on campaign strategies. It would allow better financed candidates, such as Republican challenger Ronald Reagan or Democrat Sen. Henry M. Jackson, to mount big advertising campaigns in the Feb. 14 New Hampshire primary if they wish. The law had limited spending in New Hampshire to about $200,000 per candidate.

Jackson, however, said he would abide by the old spending ceiling. even though it is no longer binding.

But the ruling means most candidates will continue to have difficulty raising money. Private citizens may give no more than $1,000 to any single campaign. Political committees may give/no more than $5,000 per campaign

Federal subsidies to the presidential candidates will continue. with the Treasury matching up to the first $250 for each private donation to presidential candidates.

Because of this difficulty in raising money, it appears unlikely that more than a few of the present candidates would be able to raise enough money to spend beyond the old limits.

As to the spending limits, the court said in its unsigned opinion that they "impose direct and substantial restraints on the quantity of political speech.'

The court said the requirements for public identification of contributors. and other financing disclosures, would serve the government's interest in informing the electorate and avoiding political corruption.

The court also curbed the enforcement powers of the Federal Election Commission, saying it could exercise only the kind of investigatory authority which might otherwise be delegated to a congressional committee.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger dissented from the portions of the decision upholding requirements for disclosure of small contributions. upholding the limits on contributions and providing for presidential campaign subsidies

Justice William H. Rehnquist concurred in most of the decision but contended that provisions for generalelection financing discriminated against minor parties and independents.

Justice Thurgood Marshall concurred with the bulk of the opinion but said he would have upheld a section limiting the amounts that a candidate can spend from his personal funds or family funds under his control.

Justice Henry A. Blackmun dissented from part of the decision upholding a $1,000 limitation on contributions by individuals and groups to candidates and campaign committees.

Justice Byron R. White dissented from the ruling to strike down the spending limits, saying that they "reinforce the contribution limits and help eradicate the hazard of corruption.

The court's main opinion said:

"A restriction on the amount of money a person or group can spend on political communication during a campaign necessarily reduces the quantity of expression by restricting the number of issues discussed, the depth of their exploration and the size of the audience reached. This is because virtually every means of communicating ideas in today's mass society requires the expenditure of money.

The court had been under pressure to decide the case quickly because of its impact on the current presidential campaign. The justices heard arguments in the case Nov. 10.

Wayne Gideon now police chief;

Wallace to serve as consultant

By COURTNEY BARBER

Wayne Gideon is Midland's new chief of police. Gideon, who had been named police chief-designate in November, was promoted to his new job Thursday immediately following a 21/2-hour meeting of the City Council.

Retiring chief Harold Wallace will remain with the force as a consultant until his scheduled retirement May 31, James Brown, city manager, said.

Brown announced the changes shortly after 4 p.m. Thursday after the second closed-door session of the morning from 10:50 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. They then adjourned for a luncheon break and reconvened at 4 p.m. and again retreated behind a closed door. Within a matter of minutes they returned to the council chambers and made the announcement regarding Gideon's promotion.

According to informed police sources, the appointment followed a probe by a Dallas investigator hired by the council approximately two weeks ago.

Inspector Tommy White and Lt. Mickey Brown reportedly first aproached the mayor shortly after Gideon was named police chief designate to air "certain complaints" they had regarding the council's choice of Gideon as designate, police sources said. Both White and Mickey Brown were contenders for the police chief position, sources said. White and Mickey Brown are on vacation and Brown's wife, Dale, who was White's secretary, quit last week. police sources confirmed.

'It is my understanding that Mr. Brown and Mr. White have tendered their resignations for the best interest of the department effective March 1," James Brown admitted White said in a phone interview that he "took a day of vacation today (Thursday) and I'm on leave of absence until March 1.

Chief of Police Gideon said, "I'm very pleased in the confidence and support shown to me by Mayor Angelo and the city council, Mr. (James) Brown and Mr. Poe, because they really did stay with me.

assistant chief of police.

"It's going to take a great deal of thought and planning in the selection of key personnel," he said.

Gideon is a 20-year veteran officer, who graduated from the 77th session of the National Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy. He also has an associate degree in applied police science from Odessa College and a B.S. degree in police administration from Sul Ross University.

He began his tenure at the Midland Police Department July 20, 1956. He has served as patrolman, dispatcher, desk sergeant, detective sergeant, captain of detectives and was appointed assistant chief of police in December 1968.

Reports circulating throughout the community for several weeks concerning unrest in the police depart-ment because of Gideon's ap-pointment as chief-designate were put to rest by the announcement.

Fred Poe, assistant city manager, said the move was made early because, "We just felt like this was for the best, as far as the continuity and the operation of the police department was concerned."

In making the announcement Thursday afternoon, Mayor Ernest Angelo and council members reaffirmed their faith in Gideon. Poe explained Wallace was "aware" of the decision "and is well in accord with it."

Wallace is out of town and could not be reached for comment. Senior patrolman Bob Miller made the announcement to police officers at 4:44 p.m. Thursday over the dispatch radio

Ford spoke at the swearing-in ceremonies in nearby Langley, Va., of George Bush, former Texas congressman and U.S. envoy to Peking, as new director of the CIA.

Describing Bush as "fully prepared" for his duties, Ford said the new CIA director's first job would be "to restore public confidence in this agency."

But Ford said that cannot be accomplished by dismantling. paralyzing or undermining the CIA. After taking his oath from Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart, Bush declared that "the emphasis now will be on the future." The House, by a vote of 246 to 124, ordered its intelligence committee Thursday to either deliver the panel's final report on U.S. intelligence activites to the House as a secret document or get Ford's approval to release it publicly.

Ford hailed the step, saying the vote "shows the House members recognize that the American people want a strong and effective foreign intelligence capability....Today's House vote demonstrates that it also takes seriously its responsiblity to protect national security secrets.

A different view came from Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., chairman of the intelligence panel, who said the House order gives Ford and the CIA the power to censor the committee's report on the CIA and other intelligence agencies.

Pike said he'd rather issue no final report at all but said he did not know what the committee will decide.

"I do indeed see a cover-up in which I think the Congress is regretfully participating," Pike charged. "...I think they (Ford's advisers) have managed to block the report."

The House followed the recommendation of the committee's senior Republican, Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, who said the question was whether the House could be trusted to keep its word.

"I'm grateful that Chief Wallace will be available to serve as consultant. He's worked long and hard to build a department whose reputation is respected throughout the southwest " Gideon continued

"Myself, I'm also very appreciative of the support and confidence of our policemen as well as the citizens of Midland.'

Franchise holder files $4 million lawsuit against McDonald's chain

By ED TODD

McDonald's Restaurant, closed since Saturday following a contractual dispute between the Midland franchise-owner-manger of the fastfood service place and the McDonald's organization, opened for renewed business Thursday, but under new management and under two lawsuits totaling nearly $4 million

Ralph P. Baker, the Midland franchise- owner who said he invested $197,000 in the business venture, shut the resturant down Saturday behind promises he would file suit against the nationwide chain.

The restaurant opened Feb. 25, 1975, at 1111 Andrews Hwy. Baker had been granted a 20-year license to adopt and use "the McDonald system" in operating the restaurant.

Baker, claiming the business was not as profitable as McDonald's had led him to believe. Thursday filed two suits in federal court against the system.

The first suit, in which Baker is asking for $3.7 million, is against the McDonald's System, Inc., the Mc-in operating the restaurant would total "at least $85,000 per year" over the next 20 years. Furthermore, him "assistance with advertising and training necessary to operate a profitable and successful restaurant."

Another complaint Baker expressed in his petition was the lack of a promised passageway between the restaurant and the nearby Town & Country Shopping Center parking lot. He said McDonald's assured him Franchise Realty Interstate Corp. would provide that entrance-exit link between the restaurant and the center.

Baker also complained of the alleged lack of appropriate signs and lights, drive-in window facilities, and of a let-down in service from Mc-Donald's field consultants.

In that first suit, Baker is seeking $1.7 million in actual damages and $2 million in "exemplary or punitive" damages.

Baker said McDonald's had offered him "first refusal" (option) on five other McDonald's Restaurant locations in the Midland-Odessa-Big Spring area.

Joining Baker in the second suit, for personal injury totaling $175,000, was his wife, Janis A. Baker.

Baker said his wife suffered a miscarriage in her fourth month of pregnancy and that loss was because of fright instilled in her by Mc-Donald's agents who harassed her and her husband.

The petition alleged that agents Tom Thompson and Jessie Jinks

"orally defamed" Mr. and Mrs. Baker and their reputations and caused them "to suffer severe emotional and physical distress, fright, grief, and the loss of their child in the fourth month of pregnancy."

Baker alleged that McDonald's threatened to terminate Baker's franchise license "unless their business operation improved."

A McDonald's agent Thursday said the organization had taken over operation of the restaurant because Baker defaulted on his contractual agreement.

Midland attorneys John E. Gunter and H. J. Rucker are representing Baker and his wife in the litigation.

MCT drive reaches 40 per cent

The campaign to raise funds for a new Midland Community Theatre building has reached 40 per cent of its $1.5 million goal.

Jim Allison Jr., chairman of the drive, announced Thursday afternoon that $607,500 has been collected or pledged during the Advance Division's solicitation.

At the same time, another phase of the campaign began with the organization of a Special Gifts Divi-

Jack Steele and Charles Henderson are cochairmen of the new division. A large committee will begin asking prospects to make three-year pledges to the building campaign, the cochairman said.

The new Theatre Centre will be constructed on newly acquired land on West Wadley, just south of the Midland College campus.

Workers in the Special Gifts Division were told Thursday the theater has outgrown its present facilities and that the new building will allow increased programming, more productions and what Director Art Cole called "a unique opportunity to cooperate with Midland College to a greater degree."

Ford panel willing to pick up tab

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford's legal counsel said today the Ford campaign committee will reimburse the Treasury for part of White House aide Rogers C. B. Morton's salary if the Federal Election Commission feels some of the money should be treated as a political expense.

In advising the commission of the White House position, counsel Philip Buchen acknowledged that Morton's duties will be highly political. Buchen said that if the commission assesses the salary status of individuals carrying out political as well as official duties, any guidelines on the issue should apply to the assistants of all candidates, including members of Congress and governors.

When Ford announced this month that he had enlisted Morton, the outgoing secretary of commerce and former Republican national chairman, as a key White House aide; controversy erupted over whether the taxpayers should pay Morton's salary

In his letter to commission Chairman Thomas B. Curtis, a former Republican House member from Missouri, Buchen pictured some of Morton's chief political chores as a way to minimize political demands on Ford "and thereby to protect the time which he requires for his essential duties and responsibilities as president,"

However, Buchen also said that Morton, who officially joins the White House staff on Monday, "plans to spend time of his own participating in campaign activities on behalf of the President.

For example, Buchen said, Morton will take part in political strategy sessions of the official President Ford Committee, deliver political speeches and attend Ford fund-raising events.

"Of course, any expenses incurred in relation to such campaign activities will be paid by the PFC" in accordance with commission regulations, Buchen said.

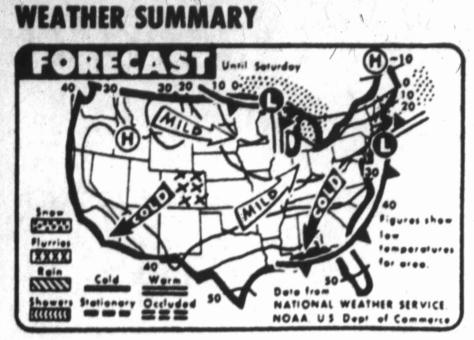

Buchen asked the commission to decide whether any part of Morton's salary, or those of assistants to Congress members and governors, 'must be reported for the purpose of determining that a candidate has kept within his or her expenditure limits."

Baker said McDonald's had promised

Donald's Corp., and Franchise Realty Interstate Corp. Alleging breach of trust, Baker said McDonald's told him he could expect gross sales of "at least $53,000 per month" and that his personal income

Air Force jets crash

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - Two U.S. Air Force F4D Phantom II fighter-bombers collided in the air and crashed today near Taejon, 85 miles southeast of Seoul, an Air Force spokesman said.

He said the fate of the four crew members was not immediately known but that a rescue team was being sent to the remote crash site.

He said the planes were assigned to the 8th Tactical Fighter Wing at Kunsan Air Base on the west coast, 120 miles south of Seoul.

The spokesman would not identify the crewmen.

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said the Air Force in Seoul reported no sighting of parachutes after the collision. The cause of the crash was unknown immediately, he said.

The spokesman said the two fighter-bombers were part of a threeplane air combat training mission.

Cooling trend due

Friday's warm temperatures are not expected to continue over the weekend, as winds will bring a cooling trend by Saturday, said the National Weather Service.

Nights continue to be cool, but Andrews, Lamesa, Crane, Rankin, McCamey, Big Lake, Stanton and Midland reported temperatures were warming up quickly by mid-morning. The overnight low should be in the middle 30s, and Saturday's high will be in the low 60s, about ten degrees off today's near-70 mark.

Winds will pick up Saturday, being variable and 5-15 m.p.h.

A weak cold front straggled into the Texas Panhandle today, easing as far south as the Canadian River in early morning. Aside from lowering temperatures a bit, it promised to have little effect on the state's weather pattern.

Temperatures sagged to freezing in only a few localities. Readings near dawn included Wink 38, El Paso 29, Lubbock 30, Dalhart 31 and Amarillo 32. Elsewhere they ranged up to 53 at Brownsville in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, The Associated Press reported.

Austin Bureau AUSTIN — Atty. Gen. John Hill has ruled that university groups, such as a faculty senate or athletic council, are not required to comply with provi-sions of open meeting's legislation. The opinion was requested by Higher Education Commissioner Bevington Reed and Dr. Grover E. Murray, president of Texas Tech universi-ty at Lubbock.

Hill said the composite and function of faculty groups and athletic councils helped him determine that they were not required to hold open meetings. Murray had questioned whether the athletic council at Texas Tech was re-quired to hold open meetings, Hill said it did not, since control of the university's athletic program still rested with the school's Board of Regents, regardless of any council recommendations.

Hill said only those committees, councils and board that actually supervise public policy must hold open meetings.

Mass killer Simants sentenced to death

By EDWARD C. NICHOLES

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP) -Mass murderer Erwin Charles Simants demonstrated "exceptional depravity" by raping a 10-year-old girl before and after killing her, says the judge who sentenced Simants to die in the electric chair.

Lincoln County Dist. Judge Hugh Stuart's comment came Thursday as he ordered Simants electrocuted the morning of April 21. Simants' attorneys have asked for a new trial and, as in all such cases in Nebraska, the death sentence must be reviewed by the state's Supreme Court.

Simants was convicted Jan. 17 by a jury of seven women and five men on six counts of first degree murder while committing or attempting sexual assault.

He confessed to the murders of six members of the Henry Kellie family. three of them children, last Oct. 18. The confession came about 12 hours as 74 at Corpus Christi.

AUSTIN - The Texas Water Quality Board has approved the sale of $15 million in water quality enhancement bonds which will be used to make loans to Texas communities to help finance wastewater treatment and collection facilities.

WQB staff engineer Robert G. Feleming told the board that the water quality enhancement bonds have been depleted at a rate predicted by the staff and now is a good time to sell aditional bonds. The state altogether is authorized tosell $60 million in bonds.

Fleming said the funds obtained from the bond sale should last another 12 months.

after he shot them one by one at point-blank range.

In sentencing Simants, Stuart noted that testimony showed that the defendant had assaulted 10-yearold Florence Kellie, her grand-mother, Audrey Marie Kellie, 57, and had molested Deanne Lynn Kellie, 7, after murdering them. The defense had tried to show that Simants was insane or drunk at the time of the crime.

The trial attracted national attention because of an on-going fair trial-free press controversy sparked by so-called "gag" orders on pretrial publicity.

Lincoln County Judge Ronald Ruff issued the initial restrictive order. and Stuart replaced that with an order of his own. That order, in turn was modified by U.S. Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun and then by the Nebraska Supreme Court.

"The success of our country has depended on its people, just as the success of our chamber depends on its members," Parker said. "The ideas. enthusiasm, and determination of our membership can make 1976 the best year ever for Andrews."

SEATTLE (AP) - Jeanette Erickson had it bad for Elvis, but it's all over now.

Once, Mrs. Erickson, founder of the Elvis Presley Flaming Star Club, offered to donate her eye to the rock superstar. She had heard his left eye was going blind.

A middle-aged widow on welfare, she passed up necessities and instead used about $1,000 of her money to buy Elvis birthday presents, or to call him long-distance to wish him well.

All she wanted in return was a short thank you note. And that, she says, she never got.

"He couldn't care less," she said. "I've been the club's president for four years, and what have I got for it? Nothing! Just my dreams and my hopes.

The 88-member club is dead because of Mrs. Erickson's broken heart. The end came recently as the woman, suffering with a bad back and other ailments, rested in a hospital bed for two weeks. She had torn ligaments in her right knee.

As she lay there, she thought of how she had sent Elvis getwell cards when he was in a hospital last year for an enlarged colon and fatigue. Then she

Now, Mrs. Erickson is taking down the 1,000 pictures of the star from her living room walls. She's going to write the club's last members and explain they are disbanded.

She also has a new idol.

He is Johnny Rusk, a Seattlebased singer who does a lounge show called "A Tribute to Elvis." She sees his shows, and while Mrs. Erickson was in hospital, he paid her a short visit.

He wrote on her knee cast, "To a real sweetheart, all my love, Johnny Rusk.'

WASHINGTON - Molly Bartholow is an up-andcoming Dallas attorney

She also is a wife and the mother of a small infant She fits in all three through what rapidly is gaining acceptance - part-time work.

After her baby was born last spring, Molly changed her full-time schedule to three days a week

Today more than 13.2 million American workers -14.5 per cent of the civilian labor force - are voluntary part-timers.

This is 5.7 million more than the Bureau of Labor Statistics found in 1963 when it began keeping these statistics

The numbers of part-timers have been growing perform its mission." dramatically. Between 1950 and 1965, the full-time U.S. labor force increased by 20 per cent and the part-time work force by 69 per cent

In 1967 the Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated that by 1980 one worker out of every seven would be part-time. But, the rate of increase in part-time workers has been so great that the ratio of 1 to 7 was reached by the end of 1972 - eight years ahead of time

And, between 1967 and 1974, the part-time labor force skyrocketed by 34 per cent.

A majority of part-time workers are women.

Of today's 13.2 million part-timers, women make up 64 per cent. Of the total work force, women make up 43 per cent

The bill defines part-time work as 16 to 30 hours a week, arranged flexibly by a certain number of hours a day or a number of days a week. Obvious benefactors of the legislation would be mothers with young children.

HINTS FROM HELOISE If fuzzy about lint...

Dear Folks:

I have received letters from you asking me to find out about the best way to remove lint from clothes dryer units and refrigerator or freezer units - if it is necessary for this to be done occasionally for the best performance of the appliance.

Here's something I learned that I want you to know so put your broom in the corner for a minute and listen:

I wrote to our friends at the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM) for their help and advice. They urge all you readers to reread and carefully follow the instruction booklet that came with the appliance. WHEN IN DOUBT CALL A SERVICEMAN!

Here is the information they gave us on cleaning lint from a clothes dryer. I quote at they have to say so listen carefully!

"The vacuum cleaner hose can be used to clean lint free spaces easily reached without taking the machine apart or forcing the hose end into spaces where it will not easily go.

"A consumer who has no knowledge or experience in repairing mechanical devices should not attempt to do anything which requires moving the dryer or disconnecting either gas or electric service to it. Neither should an attempt be made to take parts off the dryer because of the possibility of exposing any mechanical or electrical connections and thus creating a potential hazard. "Needless to say the machine should not be operating when it is being cleaned. All controls should be in the off position."

"If lint collects around the dryer vent to the outside, this, too, can be cleaned with a vacuum cleaner or by hand. Consumers should probably not try to clean out the vent tube unless it can be easily removed and replaced without tools. Caution should be observed in that some vent tubes are quite difficult to replace even though they come apart relatively easily."

So friends, don't get yourself in a tizzy over cleaning the lint from your dryer. Just follow the good instructions given us.

Now about cleaning out the refrigerator and freezer units, AHAM has also given us the following information. I quote:

"The vacuum cleaner can be used to clean the coils on a refrigerator or freezer. This should be done from time to time to assure that most efficient operation. Be careful, however, not to bump, bend or otherwise damage the coils. Check your refrigerator or freezer instruction book!"

So now that we have all this good information, let's do as AHAM has told us.

By following their advice you just might save yourself a costly repair bill

I can think of more interesting ways to spend money, can't you?? Heloise agged behind the private sector, particularly in medium- and high-level responsible positions

The U.S. Civil Service Commission submitted figures in 1973 to the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Commission showing that only 1.3 per cent of federal workers - or 24,911 individuals - are permanent part-time employes.

Several bills pending before Congress would change this.

One which passed the Senate last June - introduced by Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif. - would create thousands of part-time opportunities at all but the very highest levels of government.

According to the Part-Time Career Opportunity Act, every agency would allocate as permanent parttime positions 10 per cent of its jobs at every level up to and including Grade 15, where salaries start at $29,818

Each agency would be required to increase parttime jobs over a five-year period by 2 per cent annually An agency could request a waiver from the percentage requirements if part-time employment would be "disruptive of the ability of the agency to increased productivity that the minor additional administrative expenses that may be incurred are more than fully offset. What are those benefits?

There is substantial evidence that part-time workers are more efficient and productive than those in comparable full-time jobs," Tunney said in introducing the legislation.

'They often show more enthusiasm for the job, are less distracted by outside responsibilities and do not develop the counterefficient boredom that often comes with standard-hours employment."

New rules govern Congressional franking privilege

By SPENCER RICH The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Sen. John V. Tunney (D-Calif.), who is running hard for re-election, sent out a routine congressional newsletter to 1.3 million persons in his home state last fall.

The four-page newsletter contained Tunney's name, or the words "I" or "the senator," 25 times on the first page and 64 times in all, plus three pictures of Tunney. One article described him as "a leader" among first-term senators in getting legislation passed Tunney's reelection committee paid $10,859 for the paper used in the newsletter. But the postal costs estimated at $200,000 by Tunney's angry potential opponent for the Senate seat, Republican Rep. Alphonzo Bell - were paid entirely by the congressional franking (freemailing) privilege.

Sen. James L. Buckley (Cons. R.N.Y.), who is also running for reelection, sent out a newsletter containing 51 personal references, plus four pictures. Here again, all mailing costs were covered by the frank.

NEWSLETTERS of this type, containing repeated uses of the senator's name and discussions of his views and achievements, abound in the Senate. and in virtually every case it is the public that pays the postal costs through the franking privilege.

In January Lowell P. Weicker Jr. (R-Conn.), who is seeking re-election. put out a two-pager with 37 personal references; Alan Cranston (D-Calif.). whose term isn't up, put one out to 780,000 persons with 47 personal references, and Hugh Scott (R-Pa.), who is retiring, sent a newsletter with 35 personal references and four pictures to 500,000 persons.

That's the way newsletters have always been written, but from now on, Senate press aides who produce the newsletters are going to find it much harder to interlard every paragraph with the name of the boss.

The Senate Ethics Committee, spurred by charges that the newsletter really constitutes political advertising for the senator with the public paying the costs, has just ordered a change in the Senate franking rules. Henceforth, the senator's name or the word "I" or other personal references can appear only five times on any page. The new rule was applicable at the start of this year, and doesn't apply to the newsletters cited above, all of which were printed before senators were notified of the five-mention limit

In addition, two lawsuits have been brought against the franking privilege

COMMON CAUSE, the so-called public lobby, has brought suit in federal court here, alleging that the franking rules (recodified in a 1973 law) are unconstitutional because they allow an incumbent senator or House member to send out free mailings that actually are political propaganda, while opponents must pay for all their mailings themselves

Almost unnoticed on Dec. 19. the Senate authorized employes to testify in the suit and to produce computerized information about mass mailings. The total number of franked mail pieces and other facts bearings on Common Cause's allegation that senators have perfected the art of mass-mailing propaganda to selected electoral groups with devastating effect on potential opponents

Rep. Bell, after the Senate Ethics Committee rejected his protest that Tunney had broken the rules, brough: suit in federal court Dec. 29 alleging that Tunney had abused the franking privilege for political purposes. Bell said 1.3 million pieces of mail last fall, at 10 cents each, cost the taxpayer $130,000; moreover, one page of the Tunney newsletter was a question-

Playboy photographer looks for twinkly eyes

By RON SHAFFER The Washington Post WASHINGTON - The telephone rang in the Georgetown hotel room of David Chan. "Yes, this is David Chan What do you do? A telephone operator? Very interesting, I haven't had one of those yet What are your measurements? 36C. Yes, Yes. Can you come to my room? Bring your sister if you like." For several days recently David Chan was ensconced in his room at the Georgetown Inn, waiting for beautiful women to file and pose on his bed. And they did one after another. because Chan is a staff photographer for Playboy magazine, and he was in town looking for prospects for a photographic layout on "The Women of Washington. In walked Agnes Soos, 29, looking a bit apprehensive. Chan looked her up and down quickly sat her on his bed. fully clothed, and got behind his camera. "Give me the smile now lean forward ...

naire that could be mailed back free under the frank, so he estimated the total cos :t at $200,000.

MEAN WHILE, the Ethics Committee, in a Dec. 4 action that went almost unnoticed until the end of the year when the committee finally got around to notifying Senate offices. change d the franking rules.

The committee noted that the purpose of the franking law is to allow members of Congress to communicate matters of legislative interest to constituents, to poll public opinion, and to report on general govern ment developments bearing on legislation.

Ther efore, the committee said, excessive: use of "the personal pronoun "I" a senator's name, or other personal references to him in a franked newsletter or other mass mailing from h im. whether or not he is a candidate, such as 'he,' 'him' or 'the senator' " are forbidden, lest it appear he is advertising himself for political purposes contrary to an express prohibition in the law.

So far. Congress has voted $62 million this fiscal year to reimburse the postal service for franked mail sent out by members, officers and committees of both chambers, though this includes some leftover costs from earlier years. (A House member's free mailing is restricted to his district.)

Limiting the number of personal references may not reduce the subsidy or satisfy the critics, however Common Cause spokesman Fred Wertheimer said the real problem isn't how often on a page a senator gives himself a puff. The broader problem, he said, is that senators and direct-mail experts have learned how to build up computer lists of persons who are good prospects to vote for the senator. These are then used for mass mailings which, even when they don't overtly ask for a vote, trigger the right response in the recipient - at public expense.

PRESS SECRETARIES to senators reply that the newsletter serves a very important legislative purpose of keeping constituents informed, and that citizens are particularly interested in what a senator's position is, making it very difficult to avoid using "the senator" or "I" or "he."

"If you try to keep your man's name out, you get letters back saying never mind what happened, tell us what you stand for." said one press aide, declaring that the five-reference limitation is foolish.

A random survey on one floor of the Russell Office Building - the third shows that not every newsletter is loaded with personal references. The latest from Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) contains the senator's name twice and "I" only once. A two-pager from GOP whip Robert P. Griffin (Mich.) employs only seven personal references. A four-pager from Charles McC. Mathias Jr. (R-Md.) contains 17 references - an average just under the new five-mention limit. Freshman Paul Laxalt (R-Nev.) has never put out a newsletter.

One senator who will have to change his newsletter style is Howard W. Cannon (D-Nev.), chairman of the Ethics Committee, although it was his committee that put the five-mention limit into effect.

Cannon's December newsletter contains nine references to himself on the first page and six on the second.

Cannon's press secretary said the newsletter was prepared and mailed before she was notified of the change.

HE SNAPPED a polaroid, and gave her an interview card. Height: 5-2. Weight: 108. Measurements: 32C-25-33. Occupation: Administrative assistant for the National Commission on Water Quality.

"Have many of the women been like this?" she asked, making an exaggerated line in front of her bust. No. she was assured.

At least 100 women streamed into his room by Chan's count. As word of this arrival spread he found himself booked up, at 15 - minute intervals. The telephone rang every few minutes during a recent visit.

"I want to give them all a chance. it's only fair." he said. "Besides, you never know when the next one might be the best."

By and large the women he saw are amateurs at posing. They are U.S. government employes, secretaries. keypunch operators, students. The wife of a TV anchorman, the daughter of a newspaper editor, a bartender, models down on their luck.

They come mostly for their egos, a few for the money ($250 if they are selected for a return session in February), a few who are models hoping for impressive portfolio material. "I want to be a successful model, as well known as Lauren Hutton," said 19-year-old Sandra Gwinnup of Woodbridge, Va. "I know I could start a "t's a lark, something fun to do."

said Sue Tihila, 30, a clerk for the Bechtel Corp. in Gaithersburg, Md. "I was on a guy's boat in Florida, you know, wearing a bikini, and the guy said, 'Wow, you're real centerfold material, I guess I haven't forgotten that."

Wanda Hudkins, a 24-year-old bartender, looked a bit nervous.

"IF I LOSE 10 pounds do you think I can make it?" she asked. Chan smiled, and said she photographed quite well, and turned to another applicant while Hudkins rose to leave.

31

"I can't remember my waist size," said the other applicant, a blonde secretary from the Department of Justice who wore a blue jumpsuit not guite concealing a see-through blouse. Chan pinched each side of her waist. "It's 24%," he said, perhaps facetiously, perhaps not. "Wow, he's great, isn't he?" said Miss Hudkins.

After each girl left, Chan made a notation on their interview cards "Good," "Fair," "Great Face." or more often. "no."

TO A WOMAN, the applicants rejected the viewpoint that Playboytype publications are degrading to women.

"I'm proud of being woman, if people didn't look at me as a sexual object I'd be insulted," said Sidney Sanger, a dental assistant from Chevy Chase. "Men looking at you is the greatest compliment you can have."

"If the feminists would shut up and take care of themselves they would be better off," said Gina Kapucinski, a brunett yoga teacher from Falls Church, Va. "I'm liberated; I do what I want.

(Of Miss Kapuncinski, Chan said after she had left: "She's a very good subject, but you have to be careful photographing her, the nostrils are pushed in a little.")

This assignment is routine for Chan, a Playboy veteran, a man who has photographed the women of New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit, etc

But he has seen something unique about the women of Washington, he says. Ninety-nine per cent of those who have come to see him are working, he says. "They all have a career. a goal. In other cities the women might be actresses or models, or maybe they do nothing.

What Chan is looking for in his 15minute interview sessions this trip. are intriguing faces.

So it's just Polaroids this time. while he scrutinizes faces to eliminate those with warring elements.

HE IS LOOKING especially for women with "Twinkly" eyes, almost a must if she is to be selected.

'Sometimes you ask women to smile, but their eyes are dead you know?" Chan said. "So I talk to them about something they like, money. sex, whatever it is, to get the twinkly eyes.'

He also likes long hair ("it's wild and free") rather than short hair ("usually too prim")

David Chan is patient, scheduling interviews from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. "Every girl intrigues me. I love wornen. Each one is a challenge to photograph, a challenge to make them as beautiful as they can be. He is a bachelor, and will not admit an age other than "pushing 40." Some of his applicants flatter him, offering to show him around Washington or answer the telephone for him. "You name it, I've heard it," he says.

"I try to stay one step ahead of them. When they start to proposition me. I bring down the Greal Wall of China on them."

He has a girlfriend in California, Chan said, "and she trusts me 100 per cent. A lot of people might not believe it, but there is no hanky-panky" in the photograph sessions. "When I'm with my girlfriend I turn on the warm water, and when I'm with the girls. I turn on the cold water. physically, sexually. That's 'a good description."

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, FR1., JAN. 30, 1976

Jobs measure sent to President

WASHINGTON (AP) - Riding /high on two straight spending victories, congressional Democrats are planning to push their antirecession program despite President Ford's demand for budgetary restraint.

The House voted 321 to 80 on Thursday to pass a $6.1-billion bill featuring grants for public works projects and funds to help state and local governments avoid employe layoffs and tax hikes. Sponsors claim the bill would create or preserve up to 800,000 jobs.

Hours before it was passed, Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, told reporters the President would veto the bill. A day earlier, Democrats won their first spending battle of the year, overriding Ford's veto of a $45-billion money bill for labor, health and welfare programs.

Ford made no direct comment on passage of the public works bill, but there was no indication he had changed his mind about vetoing it. The House vote margin was far above the two-thirds needed to override a veto. The Senate approved the bill by voice vote Dec. 17.

Talking to a delegation of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, a group that lobbied hard for the public gram is rolling. Only 13 Democrats voted against the these quick fixes that some of these people advocate.

Suggesting that his strategy would be to press for extension of general revenue-sharing instead of specific programs backed by Democrats, Ford later told a group from the Young Republican Leadership Conference there had been no forward movement in Congress on his 8-month-old request for the extension

Revenue-sharing, inaugurated in the administration of former President Richard M. Nixon, gives state and local governments a share of federal revenues with virtually no strings. Some Democrats advocate putting requirements into the plan if it is extended.

"I think general revenuesharing is in very deep trouble," Ford said. "We have to launch a massive effort to get some action. He told the Young Republicans their economic vote as evidence that their economy, priming pro-works bill, Ford said he was "not going for some of bill, while Republicans divided 52 for and 67 against. Democratic Whip John J. McFall of California said the House will act soon on a bill to increase from 310,000 to 600,000 the number of federally funded jobs for the unemployed in state and local governments. Ford has recommended phasing out the jobs program.

"Our actions will reduce the heavy drain on the Treasury from welfare payments and unemployment compensation, create hope and opportunity for the jobless and further advance national economic recovery," McFall said.

"The House of Representatives has sent a clear. positive message to the jobless of this nation," Speaker Carl Albert said, "The central issue was clear - whether we should put 6,000,000 Americans to work now...or permit them to remain idle, contributing little and collecting unemployment compensation and welfare. The House acted affirmative-

Earlier, Nessen told reporters the public works bill would add $2.5 billion to the federal deficit in the year beginning Oct. 1 and more than $1 billion in the following year.

The sums authorized by the bill are maximums. Actual amounts available would be determined by appropriations.

The authorizations include $2.5 billion for grants to state and local governments for public works projects to be started within 90 days, with priority for high-unemployment areas.

The special funding for state and local governments would be triggered by an average 6 per cent unemployment rate - well below the present 8 per cent plus level of the projections for the rest of this year. For each of the next five quarters, $125 million could be paid out, with increments of $62.5 million being made available for each half percentage point above 6 per cent unemployment. The funds would be earmarked for maintaining essential services. The authorizations also include a $1.4-billion addition to an existing grant program for sewage treatment plants; $100 million for economic development programs in cities; $500 million for quick employment projects in areas of high joblessness; and $125 million more for a program for working capital loans and interest guarantees, with emphasis on small business.

FORT WORTH (AP) — A five-member committee which investigated alleged irregularities in the Fort Worth Police Department's auto theft division says that certain unnamed auto theft detectives and their supervisors "participated in acts and conduct which may have been violations of the law.

in Fort Worth police policies

In an 88-page report made public today, the committee recommended no action against specific members of the police department, but urged City Manager Rodger Line to tighten policies and procedures of the entire police department.

Nearly 300 hours of public hearings were conducted from July 15 to Oct. 27, after a Fort Worth Star-Telegram story accused police of alleged misconduct in the auto theft division.

The report concluded that any officer who drives stolen vehicles for either surveillance or personal use should be fired. It also recommended that any officer who exchanged recovered or abandoned auto parts for information from informants should be disciplined.

A carefully supervised fund for use in obtaining "essential information" from informants was recommended by the group. Also called for in the report was a city-supervised auto pound to store recovered, stolen or abandoned vehicles.

Committee members also recommended that the statute of limitations be extended from six months to 12 so an officer involved in misconduct could be prosecuted.

The report recommended a police-civilian review board and the hiring of a police psychologist. The review board would be a fact-finding group with no authority. It could, however, recommend disciplinary action against any officer.

Committee members also recommended that future police chiefs have formal law enforcement training with a degree in police administration. criminology or police science.

Minister's flock all over world

TULSA (AP) - The Rev. Wishard Lemons is a modern version of the old-fashioned circuit preacher.

But unlike his counterparts of past years, Lemons' route stretches from the Arctic North Slope to the steaming jungles of Borneo. He makes his rounds by plane and helicopter.

The Rev. Mr. Lemons, an associate minister of Tulsa's First Methodist Church, ministers to crews who work on rigs of the Parker Drilling Co.

The ministry is an idea of Dr. L.D. Thomas, senior minister at the church, and Robert L. Parker, president of the oil and gas drilling company and a member of the church's board of trustees.

Dr. Thomas made the first trip to the North Slope and, after that, decided his associate was the staff member most suited to the unusual function.

The next trip for the Rev. Mr. Lemons will be to the North Slope early in 1976.

"It's their greatest time of activity," he said of the midwinter date.

Oil-rich sultanate charges plot

By M.G.G. PILLAI Special to The Washington Post

KUALA LUMPUR - Brunei has charged that Malaysia is plotting a course against the tiny, oilrich, British-protected sultanate reminiscent of Indonesia's actions in Portuguese Timor

Sources in Brunei allege that the Malaysians are planning an uprising in the state as an excuse for direct interference, as Jakarta used the unrest in neighboring Portuguese Timor to intervene.

Underscoring Brunei's fears was the recent statement by Sultan Sir, Muda Hassanul Bolviah that "a neighboring country, which was once very close to us, now openly supports the strategem of traitors in their efforts to revive" the Brunei People's party, which was banned for armed rebellion in 1962.

Since Malaysia is Brunei's only neighbor, the sultan's target was clear, although he did not mention Malaysia by name and officials in Kuala Lumpur deny the allegations.

The sultan's charge that the "neighbor" is trying to "poison the thoughts of our beloved people" is regarded by diplomats and other observers here as the first definitive statement from Brunei on the widening gulf with Malaysia.

Britain, which maintains an agreement on defense and foreign affairs with the 2,000-square-mile sultanate, does not appear greatly concerned about the present situation, but observers are keeping a close watch for further indications of shifting power relations in Southeast Asia as the region reshapes itself after the American withdrawal from Indochina

Brunei's size and population of only 140,000 make it only a small factor in the region's power balance, but its daily oil production of 150,000 barrels adds an important dimension. Royal Dutch Shell holds the concession for Brunei operations and pours in so much money that Brunei is often referred to as the 'Shellfare state.

The sultan's outburst appears to be a response to Malaysian support for a People's Party appeal at the recent U.N. General Assembly that Brunei is a British colony which should be given an opportunity for vote on independence. There also have been Taiwan may differ on Nationalist government. ment's Department of some rumors of minor border unrest, although there their political views but The agents are reluctant Commerce and Industry have been no indications of serious border incidents

The sultan and the British reject the idea that Brunei is or has ever been a colony, pointing to Brunei's long history (the sultan of Brunei controlled all of Borneo in the 16th century) and a treaty rela tionship with London going back to 1847.

At one time, serious negotiations even took place for Brunei to become Malaysia's 15th state, but they broke down mainly over control of Brunei's substan tial oil revenues. There were also fears that the state's 150,000 citizens would have lost some of their unusual privileges - they pay no income tax, for example. Senior Malaysian officials who were at the Hong Kong officials said talks insist, in retrospect, however, that the British they are expected to be were simply reluctant to relinquish control over Brunei. Krueger fights for decontrol

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading House opponent of price controls on natural gas claims deregulation would add much less to the average residential gas bill than government reports predict.

Rep. Bob Krueger, a freshman Democrat from Texas who has been in the forefront of House efforts to lift the controls, provided no dollar figures but said Thursday that prices probably would rise 4 per cent a year without government regulation. The Federal Power Commission says residential users of natural gas paid an average of $170 in 1974. A rise of 4 per cent a year, beginning with that base figure, would bring the average cost to a residential user to $215 by 1980 and $261 a year by 1985. The General Accounting Office, in a

Lone Star seeks raise

DALLAS (AP) - Lone Star Gas Co. has asked the city of Dallas for permission to raise residential and commercial gas rates to cover more than $5 million in operating losses last year.

Lone Star officials said Thursday the increase, an average of 46 cents per thousand cubic feet, would mean a $30-amonth gas bill would go up to about $40. Enserch Corp.'s Utility Division, which has 233,000 customers in the Dallas distribution system, also asked for residential and commercial gas rate increases of 46 cents per thousand cubic feet.

Lone Star said, "In 12 month period ending Oct. 31, 1975, upon which period this application is based, a loss of over $2.5 million was incurred. An additional loss of about $2.5 million ocurred in November, 1975

Lone Star president Doug Williams said that net income had dropped from $1.7 million in 1973 to the $2.5

report earlier this month on the im-pact of deregulation on prices, estimated that by 1980 through 1985 residential users could expect to pay an average of $331 a year.

Earlier this week a private consulting firm called to testify before the energy and power subcommittee on which Krueger serves, concluded from a study it had conducted that by 1980 the average yearly cost of natural gas to consumers, without price controls, would be $243 in 1980. That is $28 more than under Krueger's 4 per cent formula.

Krueger won approval late last year to offer on the House floor an amendment that would substitute his plan for deregulation for an emergency natural gas bill that avoided the issue.

That bill probably will be called up next week, at which time Krueger's substitute amendment is expected to be offered

Meanwhile, Krueger continues to speak out against government reports he says are erroneous.

One of these is a study by the Library of Congress, released last year, that he describes as 'remarkably naive ... and naive is the most generous term you can use."

He said the study confused the price of delivered gas to the consumer and the price of the gas at the wellhead, "which is about the same as confusing the price of wheat and a loaf of bread.

He also supports the argument that without increased price incentive, exploration and drilling for new wells will continue at low levels, creating shortages of natural gas and more reliance on substitute fuels such as oil, synthetic and liquid natural gas. The Library of Congress study, he said, failed to take into account the higher costs of these substitutes in arriving at a conclusion about energy costs to Americans in future years.

These fuels currently are priced higher than natural gas and, in the case of at least one contract for synthetic natural gas mentioned by Krueger, the price is eight times the cost of the natural fuel.

Krueger's proposal would immediately lift price controls for all new gas from on-shore wells and would end controls for new gas from offshore wells by 1981. He says his bill would not materially increase supplies in the short run, but was meant to provide significant benefits in years to come. 'The approach we need is to take the long-term view of energy supplies for the country," he says.

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - An Oklahoma congressman pleaded guilty Thursday to violating election laws in the first of an expected series of prosecutions of politicians who accepted cash from Gulf Oil Corp.

Rep. James R. Jones, a Democrat who once served as President Lyndon B. Johnson's White House appointments secretary, admitted he failed to report a $1,000 to $2,000 campaign contribution from Gulf in 1972. The misdemeanor charge, brought by the Watergate special prosecutor, carries a maximum penalty of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine. U.S. Dist. Judge William B. Bryant Jr deferred sentence pending a probation officer's report. Following the 15-minute court proceeding. Jones told reporters he would not resign from Congress and intended to seek re-election this fall to a third term from his district, which includes Tulsa. "I thoroughly enjoy public service," he said. A source in the special prosecutor's office indicated other court cases will result from a recent disclosure that Gulf had distributed more than $12 million to politicians at home and abroad from a corporate slush fund.

to Savage in Tulsa, it was said. "Shortly after receiving the funds Savage met with the defendant in Savage's law office and handed him an envelope containing between $1,000 and $2,000 in cash," the summary added the government has no evidence that Jones knew he was receivingcorporate funds, the prosecutor said,

Coast lease sale gains support

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - Two U.S. Interior Department officials have expressed surprise at the degree of public support for the proposed sale of oil and gas leases off the East Coast.

"We're not startled, but we're a little bit surprised at the amount of support for this sale as compared to the California and Alaska sales." said Douglas P. Wheeler, deputy assistant secretary for fish and wildlife and parks.

Offshore oil yield drops

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Texas' offshore oil production declined in November by 5,824 barrels from November 1974, the Railroad Commission reported Thursday.

The commission said state and federal leases produced 41,496 barrels of crude oil in November, compared to 47,320 barrels in the same month.

Natural gas production on offshore leases totaled 17.345.798.000 cubic feet in November, an increase of 2,013,393,000 from November 1974.

gauges flow An undesignated Morrow gas sector of Eddy County, N.M. gained its second well and a 1/2-mile north extension with completion of Penroc Oil Corp., Midland, No. 2 Wright Federal.

It finaled for a calculated, absolute open flow of 8.993 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 10,833-10,837 feet, which had been fractured with 20,000 gallons and 23,500 pounds.

It has 41/2-inch casing set at 11,121 feet, total depth.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 6-20s-28e, 11 miles north of Carlsbad. The discovery, the firm's No. 1 Wright-Federal, finaled Sept. 3, 1975, for 3.439 million cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 10,828-10.894 feet.

Roland G. Robison Jr., deputy assistant secretary for land and water resources, cited support for drilling from politicians such as New York City Mayor Abraham Beame.

Atlantic City Mayor Joseph F. Bradway Jr. also endorsed drilling Thursday as "an economic boost" to this depressed resort town.

Wheeler and Robison sit on the Interior Department panel that has held hearings here since Tuesday on the government's draft environmental impact statement on the proposal to lease 876,750 acres for drilling more than 54 miles off the coasts of New Jersey and Delaware.

Gov. Brendan T. Byrne and representatives of the governors of New York, Delaware and Maryland have expressed concern about the onshore impacts of drilling. demanded a share in federal lease revenues and called for oil spill liability legislation.

Robison said it was up to Congress to provide revenue sharing and a liability fund. The Interior Department lacks authority to write into leases a requirement that oil companies provide spill insurance, he said

Even those critical of the Interior Department's drilling policies have admitted "grudgingly" that the federal government has taken steps to meet the coastal states' concerns, said Wheeler

"There is more knowlege about what the federal government intends to do and with that knowlege a muting of criticism," said Robinson.

Depco tests in Eddy area

Depco, Inc. of Odessa was preparing to effect dual co from the Wolfcamp and Morrow, Eddy County, N.M', prospect, 15 miles northeast of Carlsbad. It flowed an unreported time from the Wolfcamp on a 1/2-inch choke and through perforations at 8,866-8,902 feet, making gas at the rate of 7.4 million cubic feet per day, plus 150 barrels of condensate. The Morrow zone flowed gas at the rate of 5.4 million cubic feet daily. through a 36-inch choke and perforated interval at 11,025-11,047 feet. Total depth is 11,535 feet, and it is plugged back to 11,055 feet in 51/2-inch casing set on bottom. Location is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 23-19s-28e, 15 miles northeast of Carlsbad and two miles north of the Winchester field which produces from the Wolfcamp, Strawn and Morrow zones.

New urgency brought to Prudhoe Bay gas

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) - A report by a former member of the Federal Power Commission has brought new urgency to the question of when and how Alaska should dispose of its huge natural gas stocks at Prudhoe Bay. Fomer FPC member Rush Moody Jr., in a study released by the legislature Tuesday, warned that prior commitments of the gas by industry to users in other states could require its exportation, even if later needs were uncovered here.

Such a development would run contrary to the current estimates of state officials that the best use of royalty gas at Prudhoe Bay may be or industrial and residential consumers, rather than simply being taxed at the wellhead and exported. Unless the state acts soon, Moody said, it may be unable to prove to the FPC that sufficient use for the gas xists in Alaska. And, once the royalty gas is commited to an interstate pipeline, the eport said, it is doubtful that any

Higher gas rate sought

HOUSTON — El Paso Natural Gas Co., a subsidiary of the El Paso Co., today asked the Federal Power Commission for authority to increase its rates to wholesale natural gas customers.

In its application, El Paso asked for an average increase of about 5.38 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas in Arizona, California, South Nevada. New Mexico and West Texas.

A company spokesman said this would result in total additional revenues to El Paso of about $50 million annually

The spokesman said the increase is necessary to offset higher costs of gas supplies, borrowed capital, labor, material and supplies.

No. 1 Voss opens pool

The Petroleum Exploration & Operating Corp., Midland, completed No. 1 Voss, a Pennsylvanian reef oil discovery, in Scurry County, six miles southwest of Snyder.

The 24-hour potential test gauged 89 barrels of 44-gravity oil and 33 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio too small to measure. Production was through perforations at 6,779-6,834 feet, which had been acidized with 3,750 gallons. Total depth is 6,853 feet.

Location is 2,100 feet from south and 3,300 feet from west lines of section 188, block 97, H&TC survey, ¼ mile east of the depleted Tri-We (Pennsylvanian reef) field.

According to a summary of evidence read in court by assistant prosecutor Michael Lehr, the contribution was accepted by Jones following the 1972 general election when his campaign faced a deficit.

Bob Vetter, who had been active in Jones' campaign, contacted Royce H. Savage of Tulsa, a former federal judge who once was Gulf's general counsel, and asked for financial assistance, the summary said.

Savage then contacted Claude C. Wilde Jr., then Gulf's Washington lobby ist, who later mailed the money

AT&T seeks long distance rate increases

WASHINGTON (AP) - If you make long distance telephone calls, the chances are your monthly telephone bill will be going up on Feb. 12.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co., filing for rate adjustments Thursday, said the average residential telephone bill will increase by about 10 cents per month. The average business customer will pay about $2 a month more if the Federal Communications Commission approves the new rates as expected.

The new rates submitted to the FCC would increase the cost of long distance calls made over short distances, while reducing the cost of calls made over longer distances. Calls in which operator assistance is required would undergo the sharpest increase.

For instance, a three minute directdialed evening call from Chicago to San Francisco would drop from 84 cents to 80 cents, but a station-tostation call between the same cities requiring operator assistance would rise from $1.90 for three minutes to $2.15.

AT&T says the hikes will make long distance calls about as expensive as in 1953 when the company began lowering its long distance rates.

The FCC approved a similar rate pattern on an interim basis last March 9, increasing about two-thirds persons who may be abusing the Medicaid program This month a short letter is being mailed to all Medicaid recipients asking them to help cut down misuse.

This letter says, in part: "We are going to contact those who seem to be seeing doctors more than ususal. If the visits are really needed, we'll pay the bills. If the visits are not needed you may be asked to pay the bill.

Vowell said that as a followup measure, welfare workers will make personal visits to some 500 individuals in February who have been identified by a DPW computer as "high utilizers" of physician office visits, outpatient hospital visits, hospital stays and excessive visits to different physicians.

Renal dialysis patients and hemophiliacs would be among those who would be on the high use group, but a medical screening panel would know their conditions and no welfare worker visits nor reductiion in level of care likely would be warranted.

Those persons tagged for personal visits will not receive their monthly Medicaid eligibility card in the mail Instead, it well be sent to the appropriate welfare worker who will arrange a counseling session with the individual.

During that session, the recipient's medical needs will be discussed, and he will be given his Medicaid card along with a monthly medical record card, Vowell reported

This person-to-person education program will continue each month until "the recipient demonstrates a utilization pattern appropriate to his

Court ruling

curbs rights

of juveniles

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - The State Suprime Court has ruled that all constitutional rights assured an adult accused of a crime are not necessarily available to juveniles in delinquency proceedings.

"In fact, the U.S. Supreme Court has specifically refrained from going that far," the court said in an opinion involving a 15-year-old Ector County youngster.

The Supreme Court said a trial court was correct in declaring the youth, identified only a "S. J. C.," a delinquent for his participation in an Aug. 14, 1974, armed robbery of an Odessa restaurant.

Attorneys for the youth claimed the judgment should be overturned because he was declared a juvenile delinquent solely on the uncorroborated testimony of an adult who was also involved in the holdup.

It was noted that an adult cannot be convicted on uncorroborated testimony unless there is other supporting evidence, but the high court said the judge had rightfully determined that the youngster was delinquent and should be placed in the custody of the Texas Youth Council.

Republican men hear virtues of Ford, Reagan Classified

Robert Monaghan touted the virtues of one presidential contender while Jim Allison explained the actions of the incumbent during the Thursday meeting of the Republican Men's Club

Monaghan, the Midland County Republican party chairman who has announced for re-election, was replacing Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo as proponent for Ronald Reagan's party nomination.

Jim Allison spoke in favor of President Gerald Ford's returning to the White House after the November elections.

Allison, speaking first, said a Ford campaign "will be particularly tough in Midland in light of his signing the energy bill.'

He quoted a letter from Robert Mosbacher, national finance chairman in the Ford campaign, answering several questions regarding the controversial legislation.

The letter refers to the president's statement, "I fully intend to use the flexibility which is granted to me by this legislation to expedite the decontrol of crude oil in order to increase domestic production. I do not expect the Congress to stand in the way of such actions.'

The letter also reiterates Ford's pledge that he will work to ensure that by the end of 40 months, governmental controls over domestic prices will be fully phased out.

WASHINGTON (AP) - New

Hampshire officials of President

Ford's campaign deny they used fill-in-the-blank press releases attacking

Ronald Reagan, but such a release was mailed to a reporter by the President Ford Committee last week.

Reagan, who is vying with Ford for the Republican presidential nomination, said in New Hampshire

on Thursday that the Ford organization was using "dirty tricks"

The former California governor, in several campaign stops, cited reports that Ford's committee had in the key primary campaign.

Campaign officials

Jim Allison

Mosbacher further points up Ford's statement, "The only solution is to deregulate the price of natural gas . I urge the House to act expeditiously so that, by the end of January.

deregulation of the price of new natural gas will become law. "These quotes," Allison read from Mosbacher's letter, "clearly indicate that President Ford's intent is to make this legislation, which was foisted upon him by a liberal Congress, as palatable as possible." The publisher said also he had been in recent telephone contact with Rogers Morton, former secretary of the interior and commerce. Morton told Allison "the administration feels it has a commitment on deregulation of natural gas.

Monaghan, speaking next on Reagan, largely bypassed the energy issue to concentrate on other facets of the California politician's campaign. Referring to the contest for the Republican nomination, he said the situation "might discourage (George) Wallace from a third ticket which would take conservative votes" from the GOP stronghold. The county party chairman further noted Reagan "is not linked with the public disgust" often pointed toward Washington politicians. Monaghan said Reagan also is a polished speaker and has an attractive appearance, both "to be considered in a campaign.

Recounting his chosen candidate's political and administrative experience, Monaghan cited Reagan's budget successes while governor of California

In Reagan's platform is a balanced federal budget which would be aided by returning welfare programs to the states. Monaghan said this proposal has been blasted by welfare recipients, bureaucrats on the federal payroll, the ultra-liberal factions and opportunists.

He noted, however, such a move would cut income taxes by $23 billion and, at the same time, take the government a step closer to a balanced budget.

Although Reagan's proposal on welfare is unpopular with many, Monaghan said, the candidate has "the underdog image" which appeals to many Americans. His progress in the polls is 'phenomenal," the Midlander said. "He is the leader our country's yearning for.

distributed the fillin-the-blank news releases in New Hampshire

Before sending the release to news organizatons, local Ford backers supposedly were to insert the names of local campaigners in the blanks so it would appear the words written by the Ford committee were actually coming from the local supporter.

"It's a little bit dishonest," Reagan said of the effort. "It comes under the heading of dirty tricks." He said his positions on issues were distorted by the releases.

A Ford campaign spokesman in Concord, N.H., denied that any such fill-in-the-blank releases had ever been used and he called Reagan's charge "absurd.

John Michels the director of Ford's had never seen any such releases. But a fill-in-the-blank release was mailed to an Associated Press reporter in Washington on Jan. 21, along with a letter from Ford committee press secretary Peter Kaye, The Midland Junior Achievement also in Washington. -Former North Carolina Gov Terry Sanford, who last week withdrew as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. says he will accept no more contributions or federal subsidies.

The Federal Election Commission certified that Sanford is due $2,219 more in federal funds, even though he dropped out of the race last Friday. But Sanford's lawyer told the commission he will not accept that money, and will return it if the government sends it to him.

Sanford had received $244,069 in federal funds before he withdrew.

-At a Young Republican conference in Washington, Mary Louise Smith, chairman of the GOP National Committee, urged the group to work together to elect a Republican president and Congress and said the race between Ford and Reagan "need not be divisive."

An informal conservative group within the Young Republican National Federation decided at a Wednesday meeting to support Reagan, although the federation itself is not allowed under its constitution to make a formal endorsement.

To counter the group's action, the Ford supporters circulated a list of more than 20 state Young Republican chairmen lining up behind the President

Courthouse men's room now open for business

COOPER, Tex. (AP) - The basement men's room of the Delta County Courthouse was open for "regular" business again Thursday after commissioners court moved out of the privy to its regular first floor quarters.

County Judge George Bolger described his temporary chambers in the restroom as the outgrowth of a "long. drawn-out story."

Car accident injures three

Three persons were injured in a two-car accident Thursday on the north service road of U.S. 80 West, about nine miles west of Midland, said the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The accident, which occured at 7:15 p.m., involved a car driven by Robert Lenn Ross, 28, of Odessa and a car driven by Roger C. Hanks, 46, of 1401 Ventura, Midland.

The Ross vehicle was traveling east and the Hanks car was westbound at the time of the collision, said a DPS spokesman.

Ross and his passenger, Laurie A. Ross, 29, were treated for minor bruises and released from Midland Memorial Hospital, the DPS spokesman said

Hanks is in satisfactory condition at Midland Memorial Hospital with neck injuries, a hospital spokesman said.

Mrs. Bingham asks

election as clerk

LAMESA - Deputy Clerk of Dawson County, County Mrs. R. T. Bingham, announced this week she is a candidate for the unexpired term of Louie C. White, late county clerk. The term runs through November 1978.

Mrs. Bingham, who is currently acting county clerk, has been a deputy county clerk for 20 years.

The Commissioner's Court will make a permanent appointment to the office until the November general election. At that time, the person elected will finish the remaining two years of the term.

Mayor Pro Tem Jim Norris announced he will run again for the Lamesa City douncil. He is currently completing his second term.

Commissioners conducted court affairs Wednesday in the restroom where Sheriff Benny Fisher had moved all of Bolger's office furniture. The sudden transfer of offices was the result of a conflict between the sheriff and Bolger over allocation of county operating funds. 'He (Fisher) moved my desk, my clock, my pictures, everything. Those chairs were lined up just as neat as if you were going to eat in a dining hall. He really had me set up for business. Had my name on the door," Bolger said

Two burly local residents outside the courthouse told one reporter, in a menacing tone, "He's a stud duck. We don't want nothin' bad said about our sheriff. If there's nothin' bad said about the sheriff there's nothin' bad gonna be said to you.'

Fisher said earlier he moved the judge's chambers into the restroom because he wanted Bolger to "know that he does not own the courthouse and that I am tired of his cutting off my orders for supplies for the county jail."

County Atty. Jack Neal ordered the restroom returned to its traditional setting of cigar smoke and ribald jokes.

"We obviously have a problem here," Neal said. "But it was grandiose. You've got to say that." He said the squabble between Fisher and Bolger has been resolved but if it is not, "I will take the necessary evil steps to insure that it

Fire damages Lamesa theater

> LAMESA - A fire at a Lamesa movie theater caused extensive damage to the lobby, according to Lt. Terry Brown of the Lamesa Police Department.

He said the fire at the Movie Theater, 602 N. Austin St. in Lamesa, was reported by a patrolman at 2:30 a.m.

A popcorn machine which was left on is the probable cause of the fire, Brown said. He said the lobby and concessions stand area was "heavily damaged," but no actual estimate of the damage has been made yet.

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP.) Patience paid off for Rod Curl.

"I'd been playing good. If you're playing good, it's just a matter of time until the putting comes around. It came around today," the happy little guy said after his brilliant eightunder-par 64 had set the pace in the first round of the $230,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament.

"It could have been better, but how do you complain about a 64?" Curl asked.

"I touched the cup on five putts that didn't fall. It might have been a 60.' He paused and grinned broadly.

"But I more than made up for it on those long ones. You can't figure to make those.'

He scored three times from 30-35 feet, didn't make a bogey and didn't miss a green, but keyed his round by the surprising power that is packed in his 5-foot-5 frame. He reached one par-five in two and two-putted for birdie and scored two others when his massive drives let him use a nine iron for approaches on par four holes measuring 411 and 447 yards.

"The course is made for the big hitter," Curl said. "It really helps to have the power.'

And the playing conditions helped,

"It was the most perfect day you could have," Curl said. The temperature was in the 80s. The tropic sun was bright and warm. The trade winds were but gentle breezes, swirling through the palms and banyan trees.

And it set up some of the lowest scoring of the year on the pro tour. There were 16 scores of 67 or better. There were 71 scores-almost half the field- at 70, two under par on the 7,219-yard Waialae Country Club course

Big John Jacobs, like Curl one of the game's long hitters, was alone in second at 65. The group at 66 included Hale Irwin, Bob Murphy, Al Geiberger, Ed Sneed and rookie Barry Jaeckel, son of movie actor Richard Jaeckel.

There were nine at 67, including U.S. Open champion Lou Graham. Arnold Palmer, who blew a chance to win this tournament a year ago, had a 68 and Lee Trevino was five strokes off the pace at 69. Defending champion Gary Groh shot 73 and must improve if he is to qualify for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller are not competing Curl, 33, a veteran of eight years on the tour, scored his only triumph two seasons back in the Colonial National Invitation in Fort Worth, Tex. He was sidelined by tendinitis in his wrists most of last season.

"But I'm coming back strong," he said. "I'm getting stronger every day. And that helps. That really helps."

Curl played his front nine in 31. He scored twice from 30-35 feet, reached that par-five in two, holed one from 12 feet and flipped a nine iron shot only six feet from the pin on another hole. He chipped to six feet coming home, dropped another long one and went to eight-under for the day with a 10-12 foot birdie putt.

SPORTS PAGE ID

Chaps tumble to Amarillo, 72-71

AMARILLO-Amarillo College remained a game out of first place in the Western Junior College Conference basketball race by squeaking by Midland College, 72-71 here Thursday night.

Western Texas College maintained its lead with an 86-62 win over Clarendon to raise its record to 8-2. Frank Phillips downed New Mexico. 82-80, and Odessa College defeated South Plains, 92-87, in an upset.

The loss for Midland drops the Chaparrals to 5-5 in conference play and 15-7 for the year.

Darrell Holliman scored 19 points for AC while Alonzo Campbell had 14 in the Panhandle team's second narrow win of the season over the

Chaps

Tommy Parks pumped in 25 points and Sim Nickerson had 18 before fouling out.

"We didn't have our usual quickness which we needed for better movement against their zone," Coach Chester Story said.

"We did play good team defense and held 6-10 Alonzo Campbell to 14 points and hurt them with our MIDLAND CULLEGE (71)

Kush stays at A-State

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Frank Kush, being wooed heavily by the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, has decided to remain at Arizona State University, the Arizona Republic reported in a late edition story today.

"I made a couple of calls and thought it over, and decided that I owed to everyone concerned to remain here," the Republic quoted a weary Kush as saying upon returning late Thursday night from a California recruiting trip. "I thought about the Arizona State fans and all the others who have meant so much to my success.

Kush, 46, had been inundated with letters from Arizona State boosters pleading with him not to accept the Eagles post.

Kush, meanwhile, had scheduled a 9:30 a.m., EST, news conference at Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport, just prior to his departure today for Boston, where he was to address a clinic.

He had previously stated that he would wait for a meeting today in Boston with Bob Woolf, famed sports attorney, before making a decision. There had been reports that Woolf had negotiated a five-year contract in excess of $1.2 million for Kush with the Eagles.

Parseghian eyes game

CHICAGO (AP) - Former Notre Dame football Coach Ara Parseghian will return to the college coaching ranks-but only for one game.

Parseghian, 52, will coach the 1976 College All-Stars against the National Football League champion Pittsburgh Steelers, Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., which sponsors the annual event, said Thursday.

"I'm looking forward to the ex-perience," said Parseghian, who won national championships in 1966 and 1973 at Notre Dame before he retired at the end of the 1974 college season. His squad will face the twotime NFL champion Steplers July 23 in went 7-0 in the first half to win the title Midland Lee entertains the fastimproving Odessa High Bronchos while Midland travels to Odessa to take on the Permian Panthers, 6-1 finishers in the first half of the race.

Lee takes a 15-9 season record compared to OHS' 4-22 reading, but the Bronchos have improved since Laron Powell was moved to the the varsity from junior varsity. In fact, OHS had Permian down, 21-15 at the end of the first period last Friday before Mojo came back to take a 71-61 victory. The Rebels blasted OHS, 62-38 to open the first half. There are three games on tap tonight with the sophomore contest starting at 4:30 p.m. followed by the junior varsity game at 6:15 p.m. and varsity tip-off at 8 p.m.

Lee posted a 4-3 record and OHS was 0-7 as the Rebels opened defense of the 5-4A crown.

Midland, with a 12-15 record, meets a tall and talented Permian team which is 21-5 on the year, in the Permian Fieldhouse.

There will also be three games between Midland and Permian.

Lee's Junior Miller poured in 37 points against Midland last Friday and now is the No. 2 scorer in the district behind San Angelo's Arnold McDowell. McDowell has 163 points and Miller 155 in the first seven league games

Joining Miller in the lineup tonight will be Steve Reiter, Brent Huckabay, Billy Ray Ennis and either Robin Todd or Tom Choate. OHS will have Rick Boren, Powell, Robert Lane, Mike White and Noe Baeza. Starters for Midland will include Tim Johnson, Craig Dunn, Jeff Gotcher, Phillip Ward and either

Rusty Maroney or Mike Wiley Permian, led by 6-4 James Hunter and 6-5 Tom McLemore, will also have 6-8 Monte Malone, 6-1 Craig Johnson and either Mark Berryhill or Stan Strifler in its lineup.

In other games, Abilene (23-2) is at Big Spring (12-13) San Angelo (15-8) at Abilene Cooper (12-14).

in stretch run BY TERRY WILLIAMSON

All of the area basketball teams will be involved in the downhill stretch of the 1976 season when the cagers take to the hardwood Friday night. All area districts have completed the first half of their district schedules, and from here or out, it will be a heated sprint in an effort to gain that long awaited playoff berth.

The Reagan County Owls, the first half champions of District 7-AA, will mount an effort for the outright district crown Friday, when they entertain the Sonora Bulidogs. The Owls have to be favored to win the championship after finishing the first half with an unblemished 4-0 record.

The Crane Golden Cranes, the preseason favorite to win 7-AA, will try to get back a share of the title and a district playoff against Reagan County when they begin the second half Friday by hosting Ozona. Crane was 3-1 in the first half.

The Rankin Red Devils lead the District 6-A chase after the first half with a 4-1 reading after slipping to Graan Tuesday at home. Rankin still fiolds a one-game edge over the field. however.

Rankin has four of its next five games on the road and Friday's engagement in Balmorhea could be an important test for the Devils.

NEW YORK (AP) - Former heavyweight champion George Foreman has a fault similar to tennis player Evonne Goolagong, says trainer Gil Clancy.

But the lapse is much more painful to Foreman than to Ms. Goolagong.

"He goes into what I call the Evonne Goolagong walkabout," Clancy said Thurdsay. The Austrlian tennis star calls her habit of losing concentration a "walkabout."

Foreman has the same habit and it could have cost him dearly in his fight Jan. 24 against Ron Lyle, when he twice climbed off the canvas to win by a knockout in the fifth round.

win District 11-B this year, finished third behind Water Valley and Forsan in the first half, but Tuesday the Rangers whipped Water Valley to New York spur hopes for a second half title. The Washington Ceveland Rangers will host Garden City Friday in an effort to keep the momentum going. If the Rangers can win the second half outright, they would have to defeat Forsan in a district playoff to earn a playoff berth. Odessa Ector, who won District 2-AAA's first half title with a perfect 6-0 mark and who was favored to do so. will begin the second half chase Friday by hosting Monahans. Andrews, who is 1-0 in the second half, will take the night off Friday. Andrews and Kermit, both of whom wound up with 4-2 second place marks in the first half, are the only teams figured to give Ector any kind of push at all

Defending state AAA champion Lamesa will begin the second half chase in District 3-AAA in Brownfield Friday. Lamesa had a disappointing 2-4 mark in the first half while Lubbock Dunbar won the first half title with a 6-0 reading

AA McCamey and Class A Stanton will square off in a non-conference contest Friday in Stanton. Both teams had a disappointing first half in their respective districts Both will jump back into loop action Tuesday

Hunter, whose free agency 13 months ago brought him a five-year $3.75 million contract with the New York Yankees, may be on the open market once again if the owners carry out their no-play threat for spring training.

That's the opinion of Marvin Miller. executive director of the major league baseball players association. who responded on Thursday to the owners' threatened shut down of spring training camps if the players and owners don't reach agreement on a labor contract by then.

"If the owners delay the opening of spring training, it would constitute a breach of every players' contract similar to what happened in the

Hunter, who led the Oakland A's to. three world championships, left them in 1974 because Charles O. Finley breached his star pitcher's contract. Arbitrator Peter Seitz ruled in December of 1974 that because Hunter was not paid in the manner stipulated by his contract, he was a free agent

Instead of one free agent roaming the hills of North Carolina, there soon could be hundreds all over the country if the players don't get paid for the spring training period.

"If the owners close down the camps, the players would demand to be paid," Miller said. "If they were not paid, then their contracts would be breached. It's that simple. Besides the owners' threats.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has said that the training camps may stay quiet until a new labor contract between the players and owners is signed. The last one expired Dec. 31.

Kuhn was not available for comment and his actions over the last two days are a mystery. In Boston on Wednesday for Thursday's baseball writers' dinner. Kuhn excused himself, saying he had to leave because of a matter "of grave importance." Several of Kuhn's aides. declining to discuss the nature of the matter, said it dealt with baseball.

Baseball is presently facing a matter of grave importance in Kansas City, where federal judge John W. Oliver is deliberating over an appeal filed by the owners, who are trying to overturn another freedom decison by Seitz.

Seitz ruled Dec. 23 that pitchers

Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally had become free agents after playing one year beyond their contractual commitments to their teams. This decision tore at the heart of baseball's reserve clause, the vehicle that has tied a player to one team for as long as that team desired The owners claimed in Kansas City that Seitz had no jurisdiction to declare the two pitchers free agents. Testimony was concluded Wednesday and Judge Oliver promised a decision by Monday or Tuesday.

The players association has been calling for a collective bargaining settlement to the reserve rules dispute for several years. The owners have stonewalled it, saying the reserve clause was not a subject for the bargaining table.

Seitz' decision one month ago changed the strength of the parties but, as yet, has not brought any meaningful progress at the negotiating sessions.

With their suit in Kansas City, the owners would seem reluctant to make concessions at the bargaining table while simultaneously fighting the issue in federal court.

But there is talk that the owners may be softening their position. An informed source says there is a possibility that the owners might "go into court and ask for judgment of the case before Oliver rules. They might just give up and not contest it anymore.'

If the owners do not intervene, three possibilities seem likely if Oliver rules against them :

They could appeal and refuse to negotiate while litigation is continuing. The owners said in 1970, while Curt Flood was challenging the reserve rules in the Supreme Court, that they could not negotiate while the same issue was being contested in the courts.

College hockey

They could let an unfavorable decision stand and not appeal, ending the dispute of free agency for Messersmith and MrNally. Then they could attempt to hammer out a reserve rule agreement with the union at the bargaining table.

Or, they could appeal the decision but continue bargaining on the reserve question.

While noting the owners' inconsistency with their 1970 stance, Miller said the union would continue negotiating even if the reserve rules were being challenged in a higher court.

"I won't take a non-negotiating position under any circumstance, Miller said. "We are willing to negotiate on any issue at any time."

And Miller added that if the cries of "play ball" are stifled this spring, it would because the owners refused to play ball with the players, and not the other way around.

"The players (will) not delay spring training for one minute."

Ducks scalp Beaver's fur, 76-74

By Associated Press

Whenever the Oregon State Beavers and Oregon Ducks get together, fur flies, tempers flare and emotions flame.

It was another of those intense, all-or-nothing games Thursday night. even if it was played for "fun.

In a game that meant nothing to the Pacific-8 Conference standings, but everything to hometown pride, Oregon pulled out a 76-74 overtime thriller over 16th-ranked Oregon State.

"We just weren't ready to play at the start," said Oregon Coach Dick Harter, whose team trailed 9-0 and 11-1 in the early going. "But the kids kept their composure in a very difficult situation.

Ron Lee, who helped the Ducks upset the Beavers in their last meeting just a week ago, scored 28 points and enhanced his position as one of the best all-around guards in the country

"I don't think that I've ever seen him play better," said Harter. "He made the big plays-he turned us around. I think Oregon State will agree now he is a great basketball player.

Both Harter and Coach Ralph Miller were not especially enchanted with having a non-conference game between the backyard rivals. They were openly critical, pointing out that it was hard enough competing in the rough Pac-8 race without adding a fourth game to their intense rivalry.

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 3 Nevada-Las Vegas beat Seattle 107-77 and Wichita State upset 20th ranked West Texas State 63-55.

Oregon's Stu Jackson sank a pair of free throws with 59 seconds left in overtime to provide the Ducks with their upset victory. Oregon State, now 12-6 overall, had forced the overtime session by rallying to erase a six-point deficit in the final minute of regulation play

Protests disregarded

Other critical issues may have been on the agenda when U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger met with Soviet leaders, but the subject of "detente" surely cropped up time and again. There is no doubt that the success of the strategic arms limitation talks, the prime agenda item, will be determined by Soviet and American perceptions of their broader relations.

To the United States, detente means three things, according to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. First it is the control of nuclear arms to avoid mutual annihilation. Second, it is restraint in areas of direct confrontation . . . such as in Central Europe. Third, detente is restraint in "areas where there is no direct confrontation . . . such as the Middle East,"

The Soviet perception differs. As the position of the Kremlin emerges with each new confrontation, the Soviet Union is willing to negotiate limits of strategic arms, cultural exchanges and scientific projects. "The process of detente," said the top Soviet commentator in Izvestia recently, "does not mean and will never mean, a freezing of the social and political status quo in the world --- or a halt to the antiimperialistic struggle of the peoples. . . ." He made it clear that Russia intends to continue supporting "national liberation struggles.

and unless the secretary of State can convince Americans that they must be patient.

Mr. Kissinger has promised Americans that our defenses would not be proportionately weakened by detente. He has said that detente would not undermine traditional American alliances. He has said that "we shall insist on responsible international behavior by the Soviet Union and use it as the primary index of our relationship." The secretary of State also has said that the Soviet Union would destroy detente if "the Soviet Union uses detente to strengthen its military capacity in all fields; if in crisis it acts to sharpen tension; if it does not contribute to progress toward stability; if it seeks to undermine our alliances." Finally, Mr. Kissinger has said that the United States will not accept "the atmosphere of detente without the substance."

To an increasing number of American people, the Soviets have reneged in all of these areas in the last four years, and are continuing to do so without regard to American protests.

We believe that the best thought Mr. Kissinger could leave in the Kremlin was expressed by a multi-billion-dollar consumer bill. President Ford to Leonid

Consumer bill is a hard sell

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, the fair but firm arbiter of the Nixon impeachment hearing, has been less heroic in championing the consumers. Two years ago, he called boldly for Yet after the echo of his brave

He was a shrewd choice. For Lerman happened to be a former law associate of committee counsel Dudley. They had worked together on corporate cases six years earlier.

We have established that Lerman quietly warned Dudley the legislation brought business tycoons to Capitol Hill to whiteper in the backroom against the bill.

in late July, Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., a suave, conservative lawyer, managed to water down the revised version

But at least a tough report was written for presentation to the House Rules Committee. In fact, it was too tough to suit Dudley who privately chopped the report in half and

A CHANGING WORLD: The high price of dissent in Russia

By JOHN PINKERMAN Editor, Copley News Service

A one-paragraph news item used in very few American newspapers the other day reported that Soviet authorities had released dissident mathematician Leonid Plyushch from a psychiatric hospital. He had been held as insane for two years after arrest on anti-Communist propaganda charges.

What this underplayed story failed to state was that there are 7,000 others held under the most brutal conditions as prisoners. They also are called insane by psychiatrists, the military and the KGB secret police - all because, in varying degrees, they have expressed some doubts about the Soviet Red utopia.

A recentereport of a U.S. Senate Judiciary subcommittee led by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., tells the story of these terrifying conditions in the Soviet Union. The report is entitled "Abuse of Psychiatry for Political Repression in the Soviet Union." It is available for $1.35 at the U.S. Government Printing Office for anyone who might see merit in emigrating from America to Russia. Much of the material in the report was put together after several years of research by Dr. Norman B. Hirt, a distinguished Canadian psychiatrist dismayed over the unethical and terroristic activities of some Moscow psychiatrists who bow to the repressive political demands of Communist bosses.

Supporting Hirt's charges is Vassily I. Chernishov, a Russian scholar familiar with KGB tactics, who said, "Although I am afraid of death, let them shoot me 'rather than this (torture that includes beatings, forcible feeding of narcotics and drugs like aminazine). How loathsome, how sickening is the very thought that they will defile and crush my soul.'

Part of the "treatment" is the habit of binding victims to their beds naked and leaving them to lie in their own excreta for days on end. And, remember - all this for speaking out against communism as every American exercises his free right to speak out against the government every day of his life.

Hirt speaks of "chemical lobotomy, a process intended to kill the original person by killing his creative soul.'

A large number have undergone this process, he said. "The idea," Hirt told the committee, "is not only to end the spiritual life of the victim but also to terrorize his peers into silence.

But, here's another case. Hirt interviewed a 23-year-old Russian girl named Julia Vishnevskaya. At 13 she took a hand at writing poetry, and as she advanced in age to 15 she began to doubt some aspects of life in the USSR: she sensed a certain hypocrisy.

"One day," Hirt said, "she was invited to a youth gathering for a discussion. However, en route, she was seized by the KGB and taken to a mental hospital. Her parents were warned that unless they agreed to her being treated at a 'special hospital' she would be sent to a labor camp for criminal children

The differing perceptions between East and West make the collapse of detente inevitable unless Mr. Kissinger and the Soviet leaders define it better -

It's good insurance

Selective Service officials have warned that young men may not be registered for the standby draft this year because funds are running out. The move would have hazardous consequences.

No one actually has been drafted for more than three years now. But 18-year old men still are required to register and an annual lottery is held to determine in what order they would be called up in case of a national emergency.

Continued registration is necessary because it provides a man-power pool of known size and composition which can be drawn on immediately.

In today's world, emergencies could erupt with savage swiftness. They could disrupt society and communications to the extent that it would be difficult if not impossible to locate and register men needed to fight a war, restore order, or bring disciplined aid to disasters.

Registration is a small premium for a valuable insurance policy.

words had faded, he dilly-dallied and shilly-shallied while business tycoons systematically sabotaged the bill.

The measure would encourage states to sue giant corporations for antitrust violations and award billions in damages to the public. It had the enthusiastic support of the attorneys general from 39 states.

But the bill was held up unavoidably by the impeachment hearings. Then Rodino selected as his new chief counsel Earl Dudley, an able, intense man with little antitrust experience.

There is evidence that Dudley worked against the bill behind the scenes. Nevertheless, it was approved overwhelmingly by a subcommittee and scheduled for quick ratification by the full Judiciary Committee last June

But something funny happened to the bill on the way to the full committee. One of the nation's most powerful lobbies, the Business Roundtable, suddenly awoke to the importance of the bill.

The Roundtable is made up of about 160 of the country's largest companies, which operate facilities in almost every congressional district. The lobbyist's hand is quicker than the public's eye. So what happened next was too fast for the public to follow. But the Business Roundtable quietly assigned its able lobbyist. Arnold Lerman, to build a backfire against the bill.

The pressure had its effect upon Rodino. On the day before his Judiciary Committee was supposed to meet on the bill, he summoned the subcommittee members to the Speaker's dining room for a surprise 'briefing.'

This neatly got around the House rules against secrecy. The legislative sessions are supposed to be open to the public, so Rodino pretended the meeting was an informal "briefing."

According to several who were present. Rodino quickly got down to legislative business. His enthusiasm for the bill, it became clear, was wavering. He said that industry "pressures have been tremendous." He "would need everyone's support, he pleaded, before he could take the bill to the House floor

This brought open grumbling from the bill's backers, particularly Barbara Jordon, D-Tex., and Ed Mezvinsky, D-Iowa. Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio, who had joined Rodino in sponsoring the bill, gamely tried to keep the bill alive but agreed to "unload" some provisions.

As a result, the full committee meeting was put off, and the subcommittee took more time to prepare a revised bill. The delay gave the business lobbyists time to regroup. When the full committee finally met seriously weakened it

Seiberling managed to retrieve the report and strengthen it. This took until September. Then Rodino delayed until November before making his presentation to the Rules Committee.

It was nothing like his passionate appeal of two year earlier. Even a friend acknowledged that Rodino's performance was lackadaisacal, that he was "disastrously uninformed."

The business tycoons, meanwhile, shifted their attention to the Rules Committee. Under pressure from the big boys, the committee quietly caved in and tabled the bill.

Now Rodino has heard from the consumers, and he has made gestures to Speaker Carl Albert to revive the bill. But for the moment the bill is gathering dust in a cubbyhole.

Footnote: Rodino insisted at length that he still is committed to the bill and that the delays were not intended to give the Business Roundtable more time to sabotage it. He defended Dudley, who told us he wasn't influenced by his friend Lerman. The triumphant Lerman told us: "I think the committee did a public service in slowing the bill down.

Woes of arms merchant highlighted by tongue-lashing

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

INSIDE REPORT:

WASHINGTON - A tongue-lashing applied by a bumptious Iranian general to a startled U.S. cabinet member over lunch Jan. 19 in a private Pentagon dining room reveals the woes and suggests the folly of this country's present posture as the world's greatest arms merchant.

Gen. Hassan Toufanian, Iran's vice minister of war for armament, was hopping mad over the rising cost of U.S. weapons and the low production in Iran by the international con-sortium of oil companies. In rough language, he told Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld to lower arms prices and pressure American members of the consortium to step up oil production, thereby generating nore dollars to buy weapons. Otherwise, Toufanian warned, Iran might seek new arms suppliers and new allies.

Attempting to bully Rumsfeld, one of Washington's most cold-blooded infighters, was a colossal tactical error. While contenting himself at unch with a cool rejection of the Iranian's demands, Rumsfeld may now align himself with the minority of administration officials long skeptical about Uncle Sam as arms merchant for the Shah of Iran.

What also remains to be seen is whether Rumsfeld might join Treasury Secretary William Simon in renewing an old policy dispute inside the Ford administration. Simon still wants confrontation against the in-ternational oil cartel (OPEC) in general and Iran in particular to break world eil prices. Until now, President Ford has rejected Simon's advice and accepted Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's policy of aiding OPEC members - including heavy arms aid for Iran.

That aid can be traced to President Richard M. Nixon's travels in May 1972 at the peak of his power and popularity. Arriving in Teheran May 30 after signing the SALT agreement in Moscow. Nixon promised heavy U.S. arms sales to Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

The Shah, intent on countering Soviet power, thereupon escalated his weapons purchases. From $113 million in 1970 and $524 million in 1972 (the year of Nixon's Teheran visit). Iranian orders of U.S. arms climbed to $2.1 billion in 1973, $3.9 billion in 1974 and $2.6 biilion in 1975.

These purchases certainly did not trigger the Shah's big push inside OPEC for high oil prices; basically, he needed dollars for ambitious internal improvements.

caused mainly by expensive oil, creates the rise in U.S. arms costs which aggravated the Iranian general. But the depressing effect of OPEC prices has reduced Western oil demand, leading to Iran's slack production, also complained about by Toufanian. Faced with dollar needs to finance his weapon orders, Iran cannot even contemplate lowering OPEC prices to coincide with reduced demand

Disastrous worldwide inflation,

Actually, heavier arms sales were opposed unsuccessfully upon Nixon's return from Teheran in 1972 by his then-Secretary of Defense, Melvin R. Laird. Improvements in the U.S. balance of payments, Laird argued, would be outweighed by the threat to world peace by fueling the Mideast arms race.

The successful State Department riposte cited not only the balance of payments but the likelihood that the Shah would find other suppliers probably Great Britain and France f turned down by Washington. But military experts here contend no Western European nation can match the U.S. in quality,' amounts and technical assistance. For Iran, they say, it boils down to U.S. arms or nothing.

These same experts, moreover, believe the Shah's lavish expenditures have produced a military establishment less fit than before to cope with the Soviets. Some equipment has been oversupplied; helicopters purchased from the U.S.

are being cocooned in Iran. according to reliable Western sources. Although the Iranian air force with U.S. F-4's is one of the world's best, experts here say the army cannot handle its sophisticated new weaponry. These critics, until now silenced by transcendent considerations of Nixon-Kissinger geopolitics, may have gained an invaluable ally in Rumsfeld. At the least, he is not about to capitulate to the Iranian general's demands for lower arms and more oil. Considerably less certain but vastly more important is what side, if any,

Rumsfeld takes when Simon renews efforts for a new U.S. offensive pitting Saudi Arabia against Iran to break OPEC prices If Rumsfeld intervenes against Kissinger's policy of exchanging inflated arms for inflated oil, that Jan. 19 luncheon at the Pentagon may prove fateful indeed.

Cities facing

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - Urban areas of Texas have until April 1 to submit their plans for reducing automobile emissions with the Air Control Board.

The Air Control Board has agreed to act as something of a "go-between" for the cities, trying to reduce animosity which the Environmental Protection Agency has caused over requiring substantial reductions in auto pollution.

According to Executive Director Charles Barden of the Air Control Board, between 80 and 90 populous areas have indicated they will be filing their plans for reducing auto emissions with the agency. rapidly with the major The only opposition to the plan of working with the slump in stock prices in

EPA through the Air Control Board has come from the smaller cities, where officials say they don't have enough money to undertake such projects anyway. Consequently, the Air Control Board is acting on behalf of communities of 10,000 or more population.

Areas like Austin, San Antonio, Houston and Fort Worth are well on the way to developing major transportation plans, Barden says, adding that "I still don't believe it's going to affect the photochemical oxidant problem...but it certainly will help congestion.

Most cities are offering such things as exclusive bus lanes, limited access ramps and park-and-ride and carpooling promotions for limiting auto emissions

Barden, however, opposes EPA's two most controversial proposals to require mandatory emission. maintenance of all automobiles and gasoline vapor control devices.

Calling such ideas "impossible," Barden said the money the trusts mandatory emission inspection project would cost borrowed from the bank they were in effect af-Texas motorists $400 million per year, if operated like the safety inspection stickers are handled by the Department of Public Safety through local garage operators.

Similarly, Barden said requiring service stations to install devices to capture gasoling vapors would cost $2,000 per gasoline pump, and "would drive the small operators out of business."

"I'm not against control," Barden said, "I'm just against impractical control."

The Air Control Board is proposing to establish voluntary imspection stations, where motorists can have their car's exhaust checked for a high level of emissions through a device inserted into the tailpipe. Motorists' would then be advised if emissions were abnormally high.

State employes register protest at raise ruling

AUSTIN - Proposals by Speaker Bill Clayton and Comptroller Bob Bullock to do away with cost of living salary adjustments may force many state workers onto the welfare roles, according to the head of the Texas Public Employees Association.

Jim Stewart, TPEA executive director, said their plan to give only merit raises to deserving employees 'is regressive, not progressive, because it takes both types of salary adjustments too keep even with the board.

Stewart also noted that Gov. Dolph Briscoe has advocated a reduction across-the-board of state employees as one means of again achieving his program of "no new taxes" for Texas.

Stewart said that for many years the state has wrestled with employment problems and followed the merit system, but the plan did not work.

"The reason for the failure of this single type of y system of salary adjustment are many and varied," he said. "Some agencies were more effective in speaking for monies for employes than others. Little or no attention was paid to the job market in business, industry and the federal government."

Stewart said the state did not compete in the job market and the better performing employees moved on to similar jobs at higher salaries with competing employers.

'The turnover in state employment was high and the state of Texas was regarded as the highest on-the-job training source of any employer anywhere," Stewart said.

Glasscock County show slated Monday

GARDEN CITY - The 39th annual Glasscock County Junior Livestock Show will be held Monday. Judging will take place in the old gym in Garden City, which will be heated for the event.

The swine judging will begin at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, so all judging will be completed by noon Monday, said Oliver F. Werst, Glasscock County Extension Agent. Lambs and steers will be judged Monday.

A noon barbecue featuring a tobacco spitting contest and chip throwing contest, will precede the auction sale of premium livestock.

Billy Reagor, Crockett County extension agent, will judge lambs and steers, while Frank Brownfield, vocational agriculture teacher from Colorado City, will judge the swine.
