Committee to end job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House intelligence committee is preparing to go out of business after voting on the last of a series of recommendations aimed at limiting abuses by U.S. intelligence agencies.

The panel is to end its business Wednesday night. It planned to complete its work today.

Among recommendations still remaining for committee action is a proposal that would bar the use of news media representatives by spy agencies. The panel will also consider proposals that would require more complete auditing of FBI intelligence operations and would require court orders before the FBI could infiltrate domestic groups.

A recommendation to simply prohibit U.S. intelligence agencies from using the news media was sent back for redrafting last week after Chairman Otis G. Pike D-N.Y., said it was too broad.

Voter turnout 'good' in MC bond election

More than 1,225 voters already had been to the polls by noon today to cast their ballots in the Midland College $6.3 million bond election.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m. in the physical education building on the college campus.

Absentee balloting, which terminated Friday, drew 118 voters. Bob Phillips, business manager for the college, said college officials anticipated a "good turnout" for the issue which seeks to construct an addition to the existing occupational-technical building and a new academic classroom-fine arts building, as well as a multi-purpose facility.

Phillips said voting was moving steadily this morning, and no lines were forming. Ten voting machines are in use.

Soviet-backed Cuban forces push forward

By The Associated Press

Soviet-backed Angolan and Cuban forces are making drives toward Luso, in east central Angola, and south along the coast to the ports of Lobito and Benguela following capture of Huambo, the capital of the two Western-supported factions in the Angolan civil war, a British correspondent reported today from Luanda.

If the two-prong advance is successful, "there appears a strong likelihood that the FNLA-UNITA forces inside Angola will collapse," Jane Bergerol of the London Financial Times reported.

The warring factions are the Popular Movement, or MPLA, which is armed by the Soviet Union and has an estimated 11,000 Cubans fighting for it, and the National Union (UNITA) and National Front

(FNLA), which have been supplied by the United States, South Africa, Zaire and Zambia and have several hundred European mercenaries fighting for them.

Nicholas Ashford of the Times of London, who left Angola this week and went to Johannesburg, reported that South African forces which pulled back from central Angola recently are establishing a defense line against the MPLA about 30 miles inside the former Portuguese territory.

He said South Africa is believed to have about 5,000 men in the area.

UNITA's foreign minister, Jorge Sangumba, said the fall of Huambo marks the end of conventional warfare in the civil war and the beginning of guerrilla conflict.

County raises gift for meals on wheels

By ED TODD

Midland County commissioners, banking on the federal government's coming through with about $260,000 in revenue-sharing funds this year, Monday agreed to raise by $3,700 the county's yearly contribution to the Senior Citizens, Inc.'s, Meals-on-Wheels program.

The increase hikes from $8,000 to $11,700 the amount the county pays toward buying 13,000 once-a-day meals for 50 impoverished folks throughout the year, but only during weekdays.

The county's share is to pay for the "raw food" cost of each meal, figured at 90 cents.

"I'm still of the opinion," Commissioner Charlie Welch commented, "we should pay for the cost of the food out of revenue sharing."

"And that's the only way you're going to get it," Welch told Bill Shaner, chairman of Senior Citizens.

Commissioner Win Brown reinforced that outlook: "And the way things are looking, revenue sharing is going to be axed. . . . The (likelihood of) cutting revenue sharing is a fact, not speculation."

Nevertheless, the commissioners approved the hike.

Regular well-balanced and special-diet meals in the Meals-on-Wheels program are prepared under supervision of a Senior Citizens dietitian at Midland Memorial Hospital. The Texas Department of Public Welfare (DPW) underwrites cost of preparing the food. That comes to $1.10 per meal. Per serving cost is $2.

The Meals-on-Wheels program is budgeted at $44,300 this year.

In other business, the commissioners:

Guatemala quake toll passes 17,000

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — More than a sixth of Guatemala's population was reported homeless today as the official death toll from the earthquake last week topped 17,000.

President Kjell Eugenio Laugerud told diplomats that the count of casualties in last Wednesday's earthquake had risen to 17,032 dead, 54,825 injured, 221,994 homes destroyed and 1,034,441 of the nation's 6 million people homeless.

It was the worst recorded disaster in Central American history. A catastrophe of the same magnitude in the United States, where the population is 34 times as large, would result in more than 575,000 dead, nearly 1,865,000 injured and 35 million homeless.

Relief supplies from many nations flowed into Guatemala City and on into the stricken countryside.

There were complaints from many localities but "distribution of relief supplies is far better coordinated than in any other recent disaster I can recall," said Brian Moss of the U.S. Foreign Disaster Relief Office.

Col. Guillermo Echeveria of the national relief committee, said 100 armed troops were sent into four villages Monday to control food distribution.

"There have been disturbances but nothing serious," he said, denying reports that a helicopter crew was attacked and all the craft's cargo of food stolen at San Andres Itzapa, 50 miles north of Guatemala City.

Laugerud met with the diplomatic corps to discuss additional aid.

Moss said U.S. government aid so far totaled more than $1.5 million and could reach $5 million. By 4 p.m. Monday, 31 U.S. military flights delivered 500 tents, a 15-kilowatt generator to power a 200-bed hospital, 12 3,000-gallon water tanks with pumps, 16 helicopters, ambulances, a 100-bed field hospital, doctors, communications equipment, 500 pints of plasma, 5,000 doses of tetanus vaccine and large quantities of other medicines.

Private U.S. relief agencies have committed more than $3 million in short-term aid, a report from Washington said. The U.S. Embassy said these organizations have already delivered 47 tons of food and 11 tons of medicine.

Authorities started a program of mass vaccination against typhoid and tetanus throughout the 30,000 square miles of stricken area. U.S. military experts worked to get water mains functioning again and to purify contaminated wells and cisterns.

Another strong earthquake was reported Monday afternoon in the Pacific Ocean off Mexico. It was not felt in the closest towns on the Mexican coast although it gave Richter Scale readings of 5.5 to 6.2. The big quake in Guatemala measured 7.5.

Schnabel grand jury ends work

AUSTIN (AP) — A holdover Travis County grand jury returned four more sealed indictments today in its investigation of the office of Senate Secretary Charles Schnabel.

District Court Judge Tom Blackwell discharged the jury.

The identity of the persons indicted will be made known when they are arrested.

The strongest allegations remaining against Schnabel involve the purchase of a hifi set for his Capitol office and the use of "volunteer" work by five Senate employees to type "heat sheets" at the Texas Relays.

Beth Beto, daughter of former prisons director Dr. George Beto, reportedly says she never received a $184 supplemental paycheck in 1971 when she worked in Schnabel's office. The hifi set cost about that much.

The five Senate employees all had worked overtime for which they were not going to be paid, and Schnabel reportedly offered get extra pay for those who worked at the relays. Four made $50 each for 6½ hours, and the fifth worked both days of the relays and earned $92.

The state called eight witnesses before the grand jury Monday to complete presentation of its evidence in the Schnabel case.

Schnabel decided not to testify before the grand jury, sources have told The Associated Press, for two reasons: the grand jury cannot rescind the three indictments it already has voted against him, and since the jury refused his plea to testify prior to returning those indictments it is unlikely to be sympathetic to anything he has to say.

Smith declined to say whether the grand jury was looking at anyone besides Schnabel and former Senate Print Shop supervisor Alex Martinez for possible indictments.

"It is an autonomous body. I wouldn't want to predict," he said.

Patty describes torture by SLA

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Weaving a chilling saga of fear and degradation, Patricia Hearst says her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers forced her to embrace violent revolution and enslaved her mind with the belief she would never escape the terrorist underground.

Fighting back tears, Miss Hearst finally told her story to the world Monday in testimony at her bank robbery trial. It was a bizarre account of weeks in darkness, sexual assault, months of living with the recurring threat of death and a night of watching some of her most vicious tormentors die in flames.

Testifying with the jury absent, she said she took part in the robbery only out of fear of death and said she never surrendered because remaining SLA members threatened to stalk her for the rest of her life if she did. She was captured last Sept. 18.

With a whispery voice that was barely audible at times, the pale newspaper heiress said flight was futile as two surviving SLA members continued to carry on the legacy of those who died — to imprison her forever in a mental dungeon.

"Where could I go?" she asked several times, saying the SLA convinced her that she had been abandoned by her family and that the FBI wanted her dead.

Miss Hearst renounced all her taped communications from the SLA as products of coercion, disclaimed her celebrated love for slain SLA member Willie Wolfe as a farce and said she was forced to help rob a bank and later tell a teen-ager that she acted freely.

"They told me I would be killed," was her simple, direct explanation of many of her actions. She said she was threatened with death "hundreds of times."

Miss Hearst, 21, took the stand at a special hearing at her bank robbery trial as the defense sought to suppress all evidence of her movements after the April 15, 1974, bank robbery.

The teen-ager to whom the defendant allegedly confessed, Thomas Dean Matthews, was scheduled to be the first witness for the prosecution today in its attempt to convince U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter to let the jury hear a tape of Miss Hearst and young Matthews' testimony.

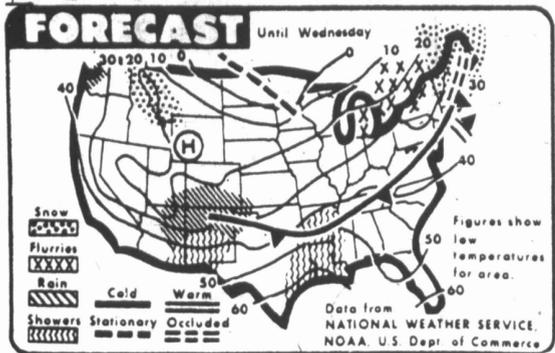

Under questioning from chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, Miss Hearst said SLA members William and Emily Harris, now awaiting trial in Los Angeles, kept up the barrage of intimidation after six SLA members were killed in a fiery shootout with Los Angeles police on May 17, 1974.

$16,154 from the Criminal Justice Division of the State of Texas to set up juvenile probation services in the county.

In other action, the board will:

- Consider a resolution approving the 1976 comprehensive work program;
- Consider a resolution approving the Affirmative Action Plan regarding recruitment of minorities and Section 3 Contracting Procedures regarding an outside consultant;
- Consider a resolution authorizing the executive director to submit an application to the office of the governor, division of planning coordination for some $78,000 per year in HUD 701 planning funds for staffing purposes and technical work;

Former Midland couple suing Midland Memorial

A former Midland couple who alleged their daughter suffered permanent brain damage during the birth process on July 8, 1973, has filed a $1 million suit in federal court against Midland Memorial Hospital and three attending nurses.

The suit, filed by Odessa attorney James D. Cunningham pits the couple, Susan K. Hayes and Larry Bruce Hayes, now of Ardmore, Okla., against the hospital and nurses Maudie Rains, Glinder O'Neal, and Leona Duffee.

The first, against Mrs. Hayes' obstetrician, Dr. Jesse L. Coleman, was asking for $400,000 in damages. However, that suit, filed in August 1974 in 142nd State District Court, was dismissed late in the following December after a reported $85,000 out-of-court settlement.

The second suit, for $1.25 million and also filed in state court, was dismissed without prejudice in late December — six months after it was filed.

That suit was similar to the latest filed in federal court.

The plaintiffs' petition, arguing negligence, claimed that the nurses failed to detect that Mrs. Hayes had diabetes mellitus, failed to perform urinalysis or fasting-blood sugar test, and failed to give her insulin.

In addition, the petition charged that the nurses, in the interval just prior to childbirth, administered an overdose of drugs to Mrs. Hayes, gave her a general anesthetic, and, contrary to a physician's advice, administered a drug intravenously that should have been given intramuscularly.

The suit, filed here Friday, became the third lawsuit growing out of the allegations that the Hayes' daughter, Michelle Lea Hayes, suffered brain damages and other injuries as a result of alleged medical malpractice and negligence.

Cooler weather due in area Wednesday

Warmer temperatures will be here one more day, but a cooling trend with increasing cloudiness will come to the Permian Basin Wednesday, said the National Weather Service.

Andrews, Lamesa, Crane, Rankin, McCamey and Midland all reported clear skies and warm morning temperatures. Midland's overnight low of 51 degrees tied a record for the highest overnight low, said a spokesman for the National Weather Service. Stanton reported clear skies and cool temperatures, and Big Lake had partly cloudy skies but warm temperatures.

accompany the front, but the chances of rain will remain slim until the front reaches the coastal area. Some clearing and cooling is expected behind the front, mainly in Northwest Texas.

Some predawn temperature readings included Abilene 62, Wichita Falls 57, Waco 64, Dallas-Fort Worth 65, San Angelo 61, Tyler 65 and Longview 66 degrees.

Spring-like weather prevailed over Texas on Monday as strong southwesterly winds fanned the state with moist air and warm temperatures which climbed into the 80s. Mineral Wells was the hot spot in Texas with a 90-degree reading. Galveston was the cool spot with 64.

Grand jury to get case

The federal case against three men accused of possessing about 80 grams (2.8 ounces) of heroin Feb. 5 may be presented for possible indictment to a 23-member grand jury to be in session in U.S. District Court here Thursday.

Charged with possession of the narcotic and with conspiracy to distribute the substance were Joe Daniel Torrez, 24, of Carlsbad, N.M., and Abundio Hernandez Martinez, 35, and Jesus Ybarra Villarreal, 34, both of Odessa.

The men were being held under federal custody in Midland city jail in lieu of each posting a $50,000 bond set by U.S. Magistrate Jose Segura of Marfa.

They were arrested in Brewster County around 7:35 a.m. on Feb. 5 after U.S. Border Patrolman Don Newberry spied Torrez toss a condom containing the narcotic from a sedan.

Agents for the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) in Midland estimated the "street value" of the heroin, once diluted (cut), at more than $12,000.

Martinez has retained Odessa attorneys Warren Burnett and Richard Abalos to represent him in court. Villarreal has hired Abalos. As of Monday, Torrez had no counsel.

Adopted a resolution in protest of the passage of a compromise natural gas bill in the U.S. House of Representatives. Known as the Smith bill (after Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa), the measure would continue federal gas-price control.

"I think it would be timely, since we are in oil country," County Judge Barbara Culver said in pushing for passage of the then-unwritten resolution.

"The people out here seem to oppose" the Smith bill, Judge Culver said. That bill passed in the House Feb. 5 by a 205-201 vote.

However, the defeated bill, promoted by Rep. Robert C. Krueger, D-Tex., would decontrol both old and new gas and provide incentives for the exploration of additional gas fields, the judge said.

Commissioner John Thomas expressed concern over the final wording of the resolution: "If we word this wrongly we could be in trouble." It (the Smith bill) is weighted against the majors," but not against the independent producers of natural gas.

Three CB radios were reported missing over the weekend, Midland Police said.

Don Lemmons, 3401 Hill Ave., told police a CB valued at $115, which belonged to Tommy Gibson, 4603 Pasadena Dr., was taken from his vehicle. He reported the theft Monday.

Lee Thomas, 4415 Harlowe Dr., reported the theft of his CB radio valued at $138, from his vehicle, which was parked in the street. Police said the wires had been cut and the brackets had been removed. Entry was gained by rolling down the tailgate window of the Thomas vehicle, police said.

Mrs. Tommie Bengie of Alpine told police her CB was taken from her vehicle while it was in a parking lot at 2300 W. Ohio Ave. The radio had been jerked out of its mountings, police report. Police says they believe a wire object was used to gain entry to the locked vehicle.

Kleppe's firm stand

Three cheers for Interior Secretary Thomas S. Kleppe who has taken a firm stand designed to lease new offshore areas for oil and gas.

Kleppe, who assumed his new cabinet post approximately three months ago, said he will proceed with petroleum leasing of new offshore areas with or without the approval of coastal state governors.

This is something which should have been done a long time ago... something which has been delayed time after time by environmental extremists who have pressured state officials with an almost unbelievable amount of success.

But the time has come for looking at the overall picture and then for taking action for the good of the nation as a whole. Misinformation and scare tactics have been the tools of those who have opposed offshore drilling, particularly in the northeast coastal states.

Secretary Kleppe, in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press, said he may never win the governors' support — "I don't look for that to happen" — but added that the nation faces an energy crisis and "it seems absolutely necessary that we get off dead center" in developing offshore oil and Western coal.

He expressed the belief that Congress eventually will vote financial aid to coastal states for coping with the onshore impacts of offshore oil development.

All too many of the public officials and residents of most of the northeast and eastern coastal states have been willing to use all the natural gas they can get at regulated prices from Texas, Louisiana and other gas-producing states while refusing to permit offshore drilling in their own regions.

Mr. Kleppe apparently intends to do all that he possibly can to remedy this unfair and unreasonable situation. He intends to proceed with the leasing of the offshore areas. Just what will follow this action remains to be seen.

He also means business when it comes to the strip mining of Western coal, which he said will be regulated by the Interior Department, and perhaps by the states or by Congress. He made it clear, however, that the states will not be allowed to "veto" coal projects.

In keeping with the times, Kleppe said that he has spent the major part of his time since taking over as Interior secretary on petroleum leasing of the outer continental shelf and coal. More power to him as he labors on these two most important energy matters.

Welcome, Gov. Hobby

Midland and Midlanders are delighted to have Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby as a guest in the Tall City tonight and Wednesday.

The distinguished state official is here to address the Midland Downtown Lions Club Wednesday noon and to confer with other individuals and groups, including the Legislative Committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Hobby has done a most credible job since assuming the office of lieutenant governor in 1973, and he is due a vote of thanks for his sincere effort and achievements.

He has not had the opportunity of visiting too often in this particular section of West Texas since taking office, which makes Midlanders all the more delighted to have him as a special guest on this particular occasion.

Midland and area residents join in beaming a warm, most cordial, typically West Texas WELCOME to Gov. Hobby.

Secretary Coleman smart to let Concordes land here

WASHINGTON — So let the supersonic Concordes haul their passengers across the Atlantic to New York and Washington. The world won't come to an end. Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman's decision amounts to common sense.

Thimmesch

The arguments against allowing these serpentine airliners from touching down on American territory were sketchy. Coleman was right in letting them come in for 16 months to find out how good or bad they really are.

A study by the Federal Aviation Administration claims that the 1,350 m.p.h. jet will be twice as noisy as a Boeing-707, and four times noisier than the newer DC-10s. Since hundreds of these jets — all larger than the Concorde — take off and land at New York's J.F.K. and Washington's Dulles airports daily, the six Concorde flights will add only small amounts of noise.

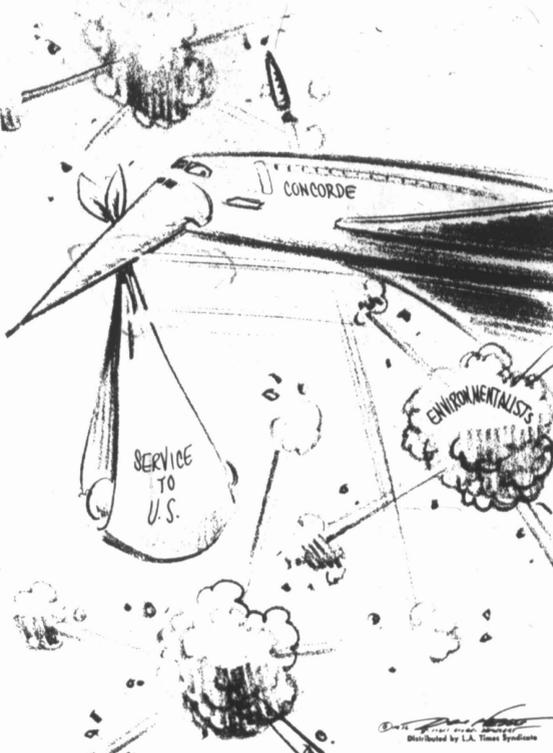

The British-French sponsors claim that the extra noise to be heard at the Kennedy airport will affect only 2 percent more people than now suffer jet noise. There will be no additional people affected at Dulles.

As for pumping dangerous quantities of impurities into the stratosphere, and thus depleting the ozone — a protective buffer from the sun's ultraviolet rays — well, the arguments against the Concorde are admittedly based on speculation.

As it is, the stratosphere is already being bombarded by fluorocarbons from aerosol sprays, nitrogen oxides from supersonic military jets, fertilizers from plain farmers and even old-fashioned subsonic jet exhaust. What is a little supersonic dust in this stratospheric veil of tears?

So let these confounded planes land, and thus not only provide three-and-one-half-hour transatlantic services for swells, but show the British and French that we are not really Simon Legree about their $1 billion project. Our planes have been landing at foreign airports in great numbers since the end of World War II, bringing with them ever-increasing amounts of sound and dirt, and the rest of the world had to put up with it.

If the Concorde proves nothing else, it reminds us of the need for cities everywhere to build new airports miles away from population centers and connect them with those centers by high-speed trains. Airports and white picket fenced houses don't mix.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Case of the pilfered pennies

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — The strange case of the pilfered pennies helped to send earnest Mary Brooks, the harassed director of the U. S. Mint, to the hospital last November with nervous exhaustion. She is still quietly recuperating.

Many pressures contributed to the strain that has kept her away from her office for more than three months. But the incident that upset her the most, according to friends, was the mysterious disappearance of a dozen aluminum pennies on Capitol Hill.

The experimental coins were delivered to the Senate and House banking committees for the members to inspect. That's the last the authorities saw of most of the pennies, which are worth thousands of dollars apiece to anyone brash enough to risk federal prosecution. Within a few years, their individual value may be as high as $100,000.

Poor Ms. Brooks was responsible for the rare coins. She had to get them back or report them stolen. But it would have been awkward for her to accuse Members of Congress of theft. She would have been obliged to investigate the very committee members who oversee the U. S. Mint.

We published the story of the missing coins on April 21. This put Ms. Brooks on the spot, but she was unable to solve the disappearance. Meanwhile, the lightfingered legislators still haven't returned the valuable coins.

The embattled Mint director finally arranged for hospitalization last November and disappeared as quietly as the pennies. Her friends say she hopes to be back in her office in a few days on a limited basis.

Another problem that weighed heavily upon her was a monumental coinage study, which may result in dollar coins, two-cent pieces and other new mintings.

She had argued that two-cent pieces would stop vending machine operators from escalating prices five cents at a time. The dollar coins not only have become realistic as they diminish in value, but they will far outlast paper currency, she contended.

All a spokesman at the Mint would say was that he expected the boss back in the office "in a short time."

Footnote: In an earlier column, we reported that Ms. Brooks had tried to block the minting of 65,000 experimental aluminum pennies. This was disputed by Coin World, the coin collectors' bible.

We not only have secret Mint documents which back up our story, but we spoke personally to Ms. Brooks who confirmed that the minting had been carried out by her aides without her knowledge. Apparently someone slipped Coin World a wooden nickel.

KENNEDY'S COOL: Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., keeping cool in a crisis, recently saved a young woman from possible decapitation.

ART BUCHWALD Secretary writes, President answers

WASHINGTON — The big news in Washington last week was not that Daniel Patrick Moynihan resigned, but that Elliot Richardson decided to stay on as secretary of commerce for the rest of the month of February.

As everyone knows, Mr. Richardson has not remained at one position in the government for too long. He has been secretary of health, education and welfare, secretary of defense, attorney general, ambassador to the Court of St. James and was sworn in last week as secretary of commerce.

While most people send the President a letter when they resign and receive a letter from the President regretting their departure, Mr. Richardson turned the tables and wrote the President saying he planned to remain at his post.

Here is the exchange of letters between the President and Secretary Richardson.

"Dear Mr. President: I am happy to tell you that after a week as secretary of commerce I intend to stay. My reasons for this decision are personal. I need the job.

"You have always treated me fairly and supported me during these trying days when the Commerce Department has been under fire from all sides. I hope you are satisfied with the job I did during the last week and the decisions I made over the weekend. It has been a pleasure working in your Administration and with you personally.

Art Buchwald

"While my reasons for staying on are my own, I will be frank and say that I discussed them with my wife. She thought I might do some good in the private sector but urged me to stay on in my present position because of the security involved. My children also played a part in the decision. Every time they went to school and someone asked them what their father did for a living, they said they couldn't remember.

"I have assured them that, at least until the election, they could say I was secretary of commerce. So, as you can see, my decision to remain in your Cabinet has not come about lightly. It was discussed at home and with close personal friends, and the conclusion was unanimous that I stay where I am.

"I want you to know, Mr. President, that although I will remain at my post as secretary of commerce, I will always be available for consultation and advice whenever you wish it. By staying in the government, I have not lost my interest in the affairs of state, and I hope you will call on me for future service to my country.

"During the past week, you and Mrs. Ford have both been most generous to Anne and myself, and we thank you for it. This is not goodby, but, as the French say, 'au revoir,' which translates into 'until we meet again."

Your obedient Servant,
Elliot Richardson"

This was the President's reply. "Dear Elliot: It was with extreme pleasure that I received your letter announcing your decision to remain as secretary of commerce. No one has done as much against such formidable odds as you have during your first week as a Cabinet officer. Your country owes you a debt of gratitude for the great service you have performed in one of the most difficult roles any American has been asked to undertake. Without you, the Commerce Department would have been a shambles.

"What I have admired about you, Elliot, is that you have always been a team player; and the last seven days have proved that once I give you the ball, you can run with it.

"Please accept all my good wishes for the future, and, on behalf of Betty and myself, the best of luck wherever your travels as secretary of commerce may take you.

Sincerely,

Gerald Ford

President of the United States"

Blackbird swarm returns to small Maryland town

The Washington Post
GRACEHAM, Md. — The birds are back.
 Curse their locust-like swarm into cornfields and turkey farms or admire their flight symmetry and precision, more than one million blackbirds have returned to make life miserable for this tiny town of 400 for the third year in a row.
 The annoying cackling and stifling stench, the bird droppings that fall like rain on clothes lines and cars, have dispelled the optimism that last year's noise war and forest-thinning project would keep the birds away.
 "Damn those birds," said Ross Smith, owner of a 23,000-fowl turkey farm in Graceham. "They eat my feed almost as fast as I put it down. So far, I've already lost 200 turkeys to a lung disease I know is caused by bird droppings," he said.
 "THEY STARTED coming back in October," said Mrs. Archie Green, who lives next to the 60-acre pine grove where the birds roost at night. "I haven't been able to hang my clothes out since because of bird droppings. If the sun is out when they leave in the morning, the sky darkens. It's like a big black cloud moving over the town," she said.
 The Frederick Board of County Commissioners last week asked the Maryland Wildlife and Fisheries Administration to give residents the green light to kill the birds. The commissioners acted after more than 200 residents signed a petition favoring extermination.

 "A local radio station has been conducting an on-the-air 'Bird Line' survey and reports that 90 per cent of the callers favor killing the birds."
 The state responded to county officials in a letter that said if the Army cannot devise a multi-state attack on the birds, a Graceham extermination project would do no good.
 "We can understand how you feel," the letter said. "We are just as frustrated as you are. After three years of efforts, we seem to be right back where we started."
 And so are the birds. Now that the state has thinned out the once-overcrowded pine grove, the pine trees are growing fuller, providing a better roost than the birds had last year. The grove was thinned out in hope that the birds would not find it so protective.

JUST AFTER DAWN each day, an estimated 1.5 million blackbirds — grackles, starlings and cowbirds — make a mass exodus from the pine grove, separate and reassemble into hundreds of squadrons that venture into various parts of Maryland and other states along the East Coast.
 They systematically attack cornfields, wheatfields, dairy farms and, as a last resort for nourishment, dog food bowls. They spar with dogs which try to stop them.

 "They broke into my turkey shed," Smith said. "They herded up the turkeys into one corner, then swarmed the feeders. The turkeys are plain and simply afraid of them," he said.
 Ross, who took over management of the farm from his parents three years ago, said he has lost more than $2,000 so far in dead turkeys and medical costs alone. "Each bird eats about 3-4 ounce of grain a day," Ross said. "That means they're getting about 18 tons of food from somebody and I think it's me and the other farmers."
 "We've thought about poisoning the birds, but we don't have any control over where the birds die. They might fly over to a cattle farm and poison a neighbor's herd. I could end up poisoning my own turkeys," he said.

A YEAR AGO the Army tried to rid Fort Campbell, Ky., of its blackbird problem by spraying the birds with a chemical solution.
 The net effect of that effort to destroy millions of birds was the same as Graceham's five-day noise war last year when residents used shotguns and other noise makers to scare the birds away.
 In Ft. Campbell, as in Graceham, the birds returned.
 In Kentucky last week a Vietnam veteran piloting a specially equipped helicopter sprayed the birds at Ft. Campbell with a chemical mixture that includes a detergent to strip them of their warmth-retaining oils.
 The theory is that the detergent, activated by rain of some other source of moisture, makes the birds vulnerable to winter weather and the cold kills them.

 Officials in Kentucky were hoping for rain or snow over the weekend.
 If the Ft. Campbell birds — it is estimated there are between 6 million and 8 million of them — survive, they will begin to migrate north in the spring. One stop for them is expected to be Graceham.
 "We'll surely see more of them before we see fewer," said Ann Burnside Love, a free-lance writer who lives on another side of the pine grove, which is literally blanketed with white, greasy bird droppings laden with plant-destructive ammonia.

"I don't want to say I want the birds killed," she said. "Kill the birds" is too emotional. The birds must be managed. It smells like a filthy chicken farm out here.
 "THE PROBLEM is so large. There are just too many health problem possibilities," she said.
 Environmentalists contend that mass extermination of the birds would disrupt the balance of nature. National Audubon Society members argue that the birds are vital because they feed on plant-destroying insects.
 "Well, just how many birds do you need to control insects?" Love asked.

Drug possession charged Midlander

Charges have been filed against a Midland man who is being held in lieu of $20,000 for possession of a controlled substance believed to be heroin, a Department of Public Safety narcotics agent said.
 Jesse Tavares Lopez, 29, of 401 W. Neely St., was arrested at his home at 11 p.m. Saturday, the agent said.
 Agents said they recovered 12 grams and 10 shot papers of heroin and estimated the street value was $1,000.

Many doctors indifferent to rape victims

The Los Angeles Times
SAN FRANCISCO — Los Angeles woman Too many emergency room doctors are unaware of the needs of rape victims — or even indifferent to those physical and psychological needs, a Los Angeles woman psychiatrist told a California Medical Assn. session.
 "We would like to believe that the mismanagement of rape is a legal problem, but there's evidence of medical mismanagement also," Dr. Martha Kirkpatrick told her fellow psychiatrists.

 She said many emergency hospitals provide "indifferent care or even refuse to treat woman victims of rape unless they are unconscious or bleeding."
 There are many cases on record where Los Angeles police have had to take rape victims to several different hospitals before finding one willing to examine the patient, according to Dr. Kirkpatrick, who is clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical School.
 Often, she said, the rape victim in the emergency room becomes identified by hospital personnel as "the rape" and becomes an object of curiosity — behavior which adds to the embarrassment already felt by the victim. It also feeds the rape victim's strong reluctance to report what has happened to her.
 Asked to comment on Dr. Kirkpatrick's allegations, Dr. Walter Edwards, president of the California Assn. of Emergency Room Physicians, said "this probably has been true in the past and probably still exists to some extent."
 "One reason is that a large number of so-called rape victims are phony and the emergency room personnel become cynical," Edwards said in a telephone interview in Los Angeles.

 He said the Hospital Council of Southern California and his association have developed a booklet detailing the procedure doctors should follow in rape cases, and that these guidelines should help to improve care.
 Kirkpatrick said many women go to emergency rooms to have their wounds treated but never mention that the wounds were sustained in a rape. One reason, she said, is that the woman expects to meet with accusatory or punitive responses by the emergency room personnel, so she keeps quiet.
 Another reason is that she fears retaliation by the rapist if she reports what has happened.
 If she does decide to report it, various evidence is supposed to be collected by the doctor that will be used in court if the rapist is apprehended. This includes a vaginal smear, fingernail scrapings and other evidence of the assault.
 Dr. Kirkpatrick quoted Barry Fisher of the Los Angeles Sheriff Department's Laboratory for Physical Evidence as saying he receives "inadequate" evidence from physicians in such cases.
 According to Dr. Kirkpatrick the smears often are improperly done or not signed or not dated or illegibly captioned. She said there is strong suspicion this is because the doctor does not want to be subpoenaed to appear in court to testify.
 Too many emergency room physicians are unwilling to accept instructions from police officers on how to gather the evidence the officer needs but which the doctor must get from the victim.
 Dr. Kirkpatrick said many doctors still believe in some of the "myths" of rape — that it is rare and that it occurs only to women who are provocative and that most accusations are false. She said police reports indicate 18 per cent of alleged rapes turn out to be unfounded after police investigation.
 The psychiatrist said that, contrary to common belief, rape is not a sexual act but rather a form of assault using sex as a weapon. She said rapists usually are not particularly interested in sex but commit rape because they have "violet urges toward women."
 The victims of rape also believe in some of the myths, she said. One study of attitudes of nurses revealed that even those who had been raped themselves believed that only "bad" girls are raped and that they were exceptions to that rule.

U.S. joins in massive aid to stricken Guatemala

By MIKE SHANAHAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite diplomatic and logistical delays, the United States is joining several nations in providing millions of dollars in disaster aid to the victims of Guatemalan earthquakes.

While food, supplies and medical aid have been pouring in in huge quantities, officials of relief agencies are discouraging Americans from volunteering to travel to Guatemala to help.

"Our fear is that a tremendous number of well-meaning Americans will show up there and all they will do is use up the food, housing and water," said Dwight Swartzendruber, Latin American director for Church World Services, a Protestant relief organization.

In all, the private U.S. relief agencies have committed more than $13 million in short-term aid.

The State Department announced Monday that the U.S. government so far has dispatched $1.5 million in assistance, including two 100-bed military hospitals, food and 16 Army helicopters.

In Mexico, diplomatic sources said some of the choppers initially were delayed because the government refused to grant fly-over rights. But Mexican President Luis Echeverria reportedly lifted a law that banned overflights by foreign military aircraft in formation.

At the international airport in Guatemala City, relief supplies arrived in such quantities that incoming flights were temporarily suspended because of excessive air traffic.

Among the flights were planes chartered by the Catholic Relief Services, which have delivered 120,000 square feet of tent material, 10,000 blankets, 1.5 million tons of tools, one ton of baby clothing and 40 community-size first aid kits.

A flight carrying 70,000 pounds of other relief and medical supplies, including antibiotics, water purification tablets and food, was scheduled for departure from New York today by the Catholic organizations.

A spokesman for CARE said the relief organization has tapped 11 million pounds of food already stored in Guatemala to set up a "soup kitchen" operation in the hardest hit area of the country, Chimaltenango.

But the most urgent request coming to CARE's New York office is for serum and other medical supplies to head off possible outbreaks of typhoid and other diseases resulting from unclean drinking water and the bodies of more than 15,000 persons killed in the quakes.

The Seventh Day Adventist World Service also is sending medical volunteers, twelve doctors, plus medical students and nurses from Loma Linda University in California.

Lockheed may not be able to pay

By DAVE RILEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp., which doled out more than $20 million in payoffs to foreign government officials, may not be able to repay bank loans guaranteed by the federal government.

U.S. Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats, in a report to Congress dated Jan. 30, said Lockheed has forecast operating profits through 1979 that are "sufficient to maintain the company's stability, but insufficient to liquidate its guaranteed bank loans by the end of 1978 — the maximum time provided by law."

The report also indicated Lockheed's management was worried that publicity about the company's foreign bribes would harm sales overseas.

Staat's revelation followed testimony last week in which A. C. Kotchian, Lockheed's chief operating officer, told a Senate subcommittee details of many payoffs, some of them totaling millions of dollars, to foreign officials in an effort to assure sales of company planes.

Lockheed earlier had admitted paying some $22 million to foreign officials.

Congress, under a 1971 law, authorized a government guarantee of up to $250 million in loans to Lockheed. The loans were to be repaid by the end of 1975 but were renewable for no more than three years. Last May, the Emergency Loan Guarantee Board extended the government guarantee through the end of 1977.

As of Dec. 31, 1975, Lockheed's over-all bank loans totaled $595 million. Of that amount, $195 million was guaranteed by the federal government.

To achieve profit projections in the near future, Lockheed is counting on substantial revenues from foreign sources, according to Staats. He said Lockheed officials had resisted efforts to disclose the details of the foreign payoffs for fear public knowledge of the payments might "seriously reduce Lockheed's foreign market potential."

A unique shopping center with an elegant style in a most prestigious setting is being offered to the merchant with a select clientele.

Lockheed case queen's fourth major scandal

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — The charge that Prince Bernhard got $1.1 million to influence the Dutch government to buy Lockheed planes is the fourth major furor to hit the House of Orange since Queen Juliana came to the throne in 1948.

None of it has hurt the 65-year-old queen's bulging pocketbook.

The extent of Juliana's fortune has never been officially disclosed, but an unofficial estimate in the late 1960's indicated her bank balance then was around $100 million.

In addition, she has sizable holdings in the giant Royal Dutch Shell oil company, the Algemene Bank Nederland, the country's largest commercial bank, and other major Dutch companies.

One financial expert said her private fortune must be "huge."

The first big scandal in her reign came in the 1950's, when she and Bernhard turned to a faith healer, Greet Hofmans, in the hope that she could help their partially blind youngest daughter, Princess Christina.

Miss Hofmans became the queen's confidante, was reported advising her on matters of state and was dubbed the Rasputin of the Dutch court. Bernhard objected, and there were rumors of divorce and abdication. Unconfirmed reports said Juliana and her husband lived in separate wings of Soestdijk Palace for six months, communicating only by notes.

The crisis ended in 1956 with a statement from the royal couple that they had resolved their differences and "look forward to the future with confidence." Bernhard banned Miss Hofmans from the palace, and Princess Christina's sight improved under conventional treatment.

The next bombshell came in 1964 when Princess Irene, the couple's second daughter, became a Roman Catholic to marry the Carlist pretender to the Spanish throne, Prince Hugo Carlos of Bourbon-Parma. The Protestant Dutch were shocked.

Irene renounced her rights to the Dutch throne and was married in Rome. Her parents stayed home and watched the ceremony on television.

Public opposition was aroused by another royal romance in 1966 when Crown Princess Beatrix became engaged to a West German diplomat, Claus von Amsberg. Objections were voiced to his teen-age membership in Nazi youth and labor organizations during the war, and there were smoke bombs and hostile demonstrations outside the church during the wedding ceremony in Amsterdam.

The hostility evaporated the next year when Beatrix gave birth to a son, the first Prince of Orange in the line of succession since 1884.

The earlier crises did no damage to the popularity of the queen and her husband and the widespread affection for her. The effect of the Lockheed scandal depends on the investigation which the government has promised. Bernhard, denying he received any money, said he welcomed a full inquiry.

Cattle herded

SALIDA, Colo. (AP) — Rancher Ben Gray is driving 850 cattle here from his ranch in Center, Colo., along a 68-mile stretch of U.S. 285.

Gray, his son, and a ranchhand left Wednesday and expect to arrive here next Tuesday and sell the cows on Friday the 13th.

"He's not superstitious," said Mike Typer at Salida Livestock Sales, who said Gray was trying to save $2,500 in trucking costs.

The three cowboys are herding the cattle on horseback, following the general route of the major highway.

Typer said Gray arranged with the federal Bureau of Land Management and with private landowners en route for pastureland and overnight lodging for the three men.

Colorado has no restrictions on cattle drives as long as the animals are tended along the way.

Selassie's family said rotting in prison

By COLIN LEGUM
The Observer, London

LONDON — The late Emperor Haile Selassie's family is quite literally, being allowed to rot in prison appropriately named Alem Bekagne. It means: "Finished with the world."

It holds 17 members of the royal family, aged from 14 to 73. They have been in custody for over 16 months. No specific charges have been made against them, and there are no prospects of a trial.

Among them are mothers of young children, whom they have not seen for a long time. Some are widows of men shot in the bloody Saturday massacre of November 1974. Some have their husbands also in prison or in exile, so that their children are practically orphaned.

THE "ROYALS" are only one small group of Ethiopia's political prisoners, who now far exceed the numbers held during Haile Selassie's reign. Nobody knows for sure how many there are, but they certainly run into thousands. Although a few hundred have been released over the past year, many more have been arrested.

Their physical conditions are mostly scandalous — despite a recent promise of decent treatment from the minister of interior. Ethiopia's prisons have always been notoriously bad.

The only political prisoners who have tolerable physical conditions are the 100-200 former members of the imperial establishment held in the underground cellars of an ancient palace. This group also includes prominent academics and Marxist revolutionaries who, having originally supported the Dergue, have now joined their opponents.

Among the charges levelled against the late emperor by the Dergue (Ethiopia's provisional military administration committee) was that he imprisoned his opponents without trial and was "vengeful" towards them. Yet it would be hard to imagine anything more vengeful than the treatment now being meted out to the Emperor's family and to others regarded as "enemies of the revolution."

THE OLDEST of the royal prisoners is Princess Yeshashe-Work Yilma, now 73 and a diabetic. There are doubts about how much longer she can survive prison life.

Princess Seble Desta, one of the most dynamic members of the old establishment, has not seen her three young children since her arrest last year, when her youngest child was only six months old. Her husband, the Dejazmatch Kassa Wolde-Mariam, a former chancellor of the Addis Ababa University, was arrested at the same time.

Princess Zuriash — Work Gebre Igyiabbase, now in her sixties, is the widow of Ras Asrate Kassa, the former chairman of the crown council and an adversary of the Emperor. He was shot on bloody Saturday. She is in prison with two of her daughters — Rebecca, now 24, and Mimi, 18. Three of her sons are in a different prison — Mulugeta, 25; Kassa, 18, and Wond Wossen, 16.

One young woman prisoner, recently — and inexplicably — released, told friends: "All I wished for in prison was death, and all I still desire is to die to expunge the memory of what we have been through."

One of the Emperor's grand-daughters, Princess Mary Abebe, did succeed in killing herself in prison. She was in her late thirties and had three boys under the age of 10. Her father was shot on bloody Saturday.

Princess Sophia Desta has suffered a serious mental breakdown. At least one other prisoner has begun to show serious signs of psychiatric disorder.

The 40-year-old Princess Egiyayehu Asfa Wossen is described by a friend who saw her six months ago as "scratching herself to death." She has always suffered from a serious skin allergy which needed constant care, even under the best conditions.

U.S. has surplus helium

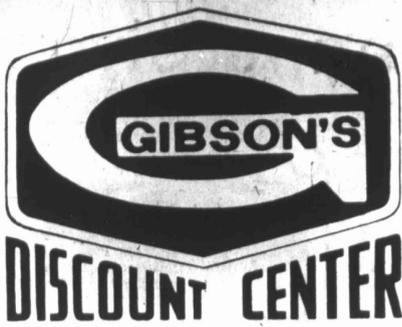

Newsday
WASHINGTON — The United States is losing nearly $20 million a year because it has accumulated a huge supply of helium that it can't sell.

In the last 10 years, the U.S. Bureau of Mines has accumulated — at heavy cost — 42.1 billion cubic feet of the lighter-than-air gas in the underground, Cliffside Gas Wells at Amarillo, Texas. This reserve represents more than seven times the amount of helium expected to be used in the entire United States by 1980.

At the current rate, it's enough for 200 years.

How did the government wind up with so much helium? In the 1960s, the government began buying massive amounts of helium to provide rocket fuel for the space program. The project left a massive debt, then demand dropped sharply with the decline of the space program and development of a substitute solid fuel for rockets. On top of that, the Secretary of Interior had set a $35-per-million cubic feet price on the gas, $9 higher than the average private industry price.

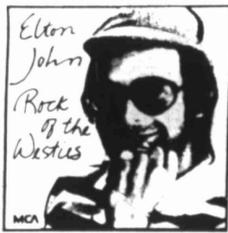

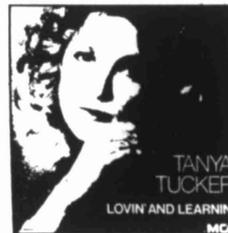

The result is that the stockpiling program which began 25 years ago is stuck in a deep fiscal hole with a $412 million debt increasing at the rate of $20 million in interest a year because revenue from helium sales is nowhere near enough to pay off that interest.

Elect BOB HARRIS Democratic Candidate for SHERIFF

TO THE RESIDENTS OF MIDLAND COUNTY:

Since it is virtually impossible to meet each of you personally, I am having this letter published to acquaint you with my background and intentions as a democratic candidate for Sheriff of Midland County.

I was born in Midland 41 years ago, graduated from Midland High School in 1953, am a veteran of the Armed Services, and have made my home here most of that time. I have been married for 22 years to my wife, Gloria, have six children all of whom have attended Midland Schools and four who are presently enrolled here.

I began my law enforcement career in 1957 as a patrolman with the City of Midland Police Department. I have worked for Midland County in the Sheriff's Department and Constable's Office for over the last five years. I am familiar with the way our county offices are run and personally know all the county employees.

I am a certified peace officer and a graduate of the Midland Police Academy and have attended various seminars over the past years on narcotics, homicide, bomb investigations, etc. I am presently enrolled in Midland College, having completed law enforcement classes there over the past two years, and am working toward an Associate Degree in Law Enforcement.

As your Sheriff my intentions would be to make a few changes, but they would be gradual ones. The complete change over of department heads and employees along with changing the system would mean chaos to the county. I am familiar with the many day-to-day duties the Sheriff's Department must do to keep our county running smoothly. My first major change would be to acquire more working deputies, working on a rotating basis where possible. As the vast turnover problem in this department has been due to insufficient salaries I will ask this of the commissioners and will attend every commissioners' meeting until higher wages for the officers is accomplished. In return for better pay I intend to see that the county has better service and protection from this department. I will not ask the commissioners for an allowance to uniform the officers as I think the county's money would be better spent on repairing and maintaining the present equipment.

I would like to have five cars on night duty to patrol Midland County, as I have found the best way to reduce the crime rate is to prevent it. Along with the city patrolman on night duty I feel this should be sufficient coverage for a city and county our size. Having known our present Chief of Police, for over twenty years and worked with him, I am sure our departments will work together and give the Midland residents the best protection possible.

I would like to meet each of you and answer any questions you have as to why I think I deserve your vote and support and how I intend to make this department as good as possible. I will try to use our county taxpayers' money wisely by giving you a department you will all be proud of. I intend to be available to any resident before and after the election to be of service.

If this is the kind of Sheriff you want, let me know by giving me your vote May 1 in the democratic primary election.

Sincerely,
Bob Harris

Prince Charles gets command of vessel

The Los Angeles Times

LONDON — Britain's 27-year-old Prince Charles took over his first Royal Navy command Monday as captain of the 360-ton, 153-foot minehunter HMS Bronington.

The Bronington's main task is locating mines, which her divers destroy. She also may be assigned coastal fishery protection duties.

As a bosun's pipe shrilled, Charles boarded the minehunter at Scotland's Rosyth Dockyard at Fife on the North Sea, saluted, shook hands with his predecessor, Lt. Cmdr Harry Bates, and went off with him to his 9 by 10 foot, newly painted cabin to sign receipts for the ship's confidential papers and keys.

It is a Royal Navy tradition that a new skipper's cabin gets a fresh coat of paint before he assumes command of his ship.

Ford Social Security plans draw criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's proposals for a Social Security payroll tax hike and Medicare changes face close scrutiny in Congress where top Democrats back other ideas or want to see the fine print on Ford's plan.

"I don't look for much change (in existing law) by this Congress," House Speaker Carl Albert replied when asked about chances for enactment of the recommendations that Ford formally proposed Monday.

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee's panel on Social Security, said taxes should be cut in the payroll area, rather than raised as Ford suggests.

Burke's plan, in turn opposed by the Ford administration, would involve using the Treasury's general tax revenue to pick up one-third of the financial burden of Social Security. That would turn what presently is a half-and-half tax on workers and their employers into a three-way split by adding the government as a financial helper.

The President's proposal to extend Medicare coverage for catastrophic illnesses was criticized Monday by Nelson H. Cruikshank, head of the National Council of Senior Citizens.

He said health insurance should "protect the great majority of the covered population against the most common risk — not just the exceptional case." He cited a cartoon depicting a man reading a health insurance policy and telling his wife, "Look, honey, we get $50,000 if we are run over by a herd of elephants on Fifth Avenue."

Ford's plan, first announced in his State of the Union address last month, was sent to Congress on Monday. The proposals came just in advance of the nation's first two primaries in New Hampshire and Florida, both states with a high population of retired people.

The Ford plan would increase Social Security payroll taxes by three-tenths of 1 per cent for employees and employers, raising the tax from the current 5.85 per cent to 6.15 per cent in 1977.

The extra cost to a worker would range from $15 a year for those earning $5,000 to a maximum of $49. The total taxes paid in 1977 would range from $307 to $1,014 for those taxpayers. Under present law, the maximum is $895 for 1976 and $965 in 1977.

Ford said the Social Security tax increases would not cost any worker more than $1 a week and would "insure the financial integrity" of the system.

On Medicare, Ford would provide Medicare beneficiaries with coverage for unlimited stays of hospital and skilled nursing facility care. But the majority of beneficiaries would be required to pay up to $500 a year for hospital and nursing services and $250 a year for doctor and medical services.

And to help with medical costs in catastrophic illnesses, Ford asked Congress to limit increases in Medicare payment rates in 1977 and 1978 to 7 per cent a day for hospital and 4 per cent for physician services.

Ford said steps "are needed to slow down the inflation of health costs and to help in the financing of this catastrophic protection."

The program also would be financed by larger contributions from Medicare patients.

Texas highway building facing financial crunch

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State highway engineer B. L. DeBerry says Texas may be able to build only about one-eighth of the highway projects it has planned and currently approved because of tight money.

"The crisis is upon us. It is real and it is serious," DeBerry, engineer-director of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation said Monday in a statement.

DeBerry said the department has a current backlog of construction and right of way projects totaling nearly $11 billion but will have only about $1.9 billion in state and federal funds for construction over the next 20 years.

Actually, he said, this will be available for only six years or less, "since around 1980 we will not have sufficient state dollars to match available federal dollars. That's enough to whittle away only 17 per cent of our current backlog...or only one eighth as large as was possible at past funding levels."

"It is also clear that financial resources at this point will make it necessary to reduce many ongoing projects in both scale and cost," said DeBerry.

DeBerry said district engineers in each of the department's 25 districts will be making local appearances in the next few weeks to explain to civic leaders, officials and the public the financial situation.

"It is the department's duty to inform the people of the situation and to point out that the mobility modern Texans enjoy, the mobility on which our economy depends, is in danger," he said in a statement.

DeBerry stressed that transportation in Texas, particularly highways, are caught in a squeeze between declining revenues and increased costs.

He said the department has contracted with a management consulting firm, McKinsey and Co., to advise the department.

Bentsen to scale down campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, hurt in two early candidate tests, is scaling down his national presidential campaign to a favorite son candidacy to guarantee that Texas has a voice at the Democratic National Convention, campaign officials say.

The Texan, who hoped to build momentum with early victories but suffered setbacks instead in Mississippi and Oklahoma, was expected to announce his plans at a press conference this afternoon in Austin, one day before his 55th birthday and a week before the first anniversary of his candidacy.

A favorite-son campaign would mean that he would halt his national campaign but would run in the Texas Democratic primary on May 1.

Meanwhile, Republican Ronald Reagan campaigned in New Hampshire, stressing his differences with administration policies, after President Ford made a weekend swing through the state. New Hampshire's primary, the first in the nation, is two weeks from today.

After Bentsen came out of the Mississippi caucuses Jan. 24 with less than 2 per cent of the delegates, sources close to him said if he did not do well in Oklahoma last Saturday, he would be forced to drop out. After ending up in third place among four candidates with less than 12 per cent in Oklahoma, Bentsen has been evaluating his political future during a campaign break at his Texas home.

Bentsen's departure from the national race would leave eight active Democratic candidates. An earlier casualty was former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, the president of Duke University.

The candidate most likely to benefit would be Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, with whom Bentsen was competing for support from conservative Democrats.

Meanwhile, there were these political developments on Monday:

—The Harris poll said its latest survey of sentiment among Democrats and independents showed two noncandidates as the top two choices for the Democratic nomination. Harris said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota were first and second in the poll, with Alabama Gov. George Wallace third.

—Ford, after a weekend of campaigning in New Hampshire, was the subject of an explicit medical report released at his request by his doctor. The President has urged other candidates to issue such reports.

—Reagan, appearing in Portsmouth, N.H., stressed differences with Ford policies. "I differ very vehemently with the approach made by the administration and the State Department to make friends with Cuba ... (and) I disagree with the negotiations that are going on to give away the Panama Canal Zone, which is sovereign U.S. territory," he said.

—Conservative fund-raiser Richard Viguierie said he plans to campaign for write-in votes for former Texas Gov. John B. Connally on the Democratic side of the New Hampshire ballot.

Moursund buys state benefits

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A. W. Moursund, longtime financial adviser and domino buddy of Lyndon Johnson, paid more than $14,000 to "buy into" the state employe retirement system last year.

Moursund, a wealthy Johnson City rancher-banker, worked for two months for Senate Secretary Charles Schnabel to make his previous state employment county toward retirement benefits.

Schnabel said he doubted the wisdom of paying that much money to get a state pension that Moursund doesn't need.

The legislature authorized the "buy-in" procedure in 1969. Dozens of former legislators have taken advantage of it.

The purpose of the 1969 law was to allow former lawmakers who did not have the benefit of a retirement plan to get into the system.

A prerequisite is state employment subsequent to the establishment of the system in 1963.

Schnabel said "the Senate" hired Moursund, but he declined to say who told him to put Moursund on the payroll.

Ken Adams (10) of Midland College, dribbles past Odessa's Anthony Forch during Western Junior College Conference basketball game in MC Gymnasium Monday. The Chaps took an exciting 94-90 victory over the Wranglers.

Parks ignites Chaps to win over Odessa

BY TED BATTLES
For 36 minutes, Midland College's 94-90 victory over Odessa College was the kind of tooth picker that's easy on frayed nerves and for a while it seemed as though Chaparral Coach Chester Story might even finish the game with tie knotted and his shirt buttoned.

Oh sure, there was the stretch midway through the second half when Odessa whittled a 65-48 lead to 66-61 in a three minute stretch, but Tommy Parks came off the bench to ignite the Chaps back into an 86-23 bulge, the same kind of advantage they had enjoyed most of the game.

With less than five minutes to go it was still a "no sweat" 88-79. "We wanted to contain them and not let them get behind us on the fast break," Story explained. "Once they start hitting those jumpers, they can wipe out a big lead in a hurry."

MC'S MAN to man press mixed in with a zone press worked beautifully in this respect for most of the game.

"I think our press hurt their continuity," noted Story.

But a couple of missed inside opportunities off the four-corner slowdown offense and here came the Wranglers storming toward the wire.

Six-five Tony Forch, the former Houston Wheatley star, converted a three-point play to tie it at 88 and the MC barn was burning again with 2:12 left.

Scott Stamp, directing the attack as Park moved to the base line, found Tommy open underneath for two, but Forch tied it again at 90. Then Stamp, the 5-9 Carrollton Turner guard, playing his best game for the Chaps, split the lane for two with 1:10 left to vault Midland back into a 92-90 lead.

THEN WITH 25 seconds Stamp drew a foul while driving and converted both free throws to nail down a hectic 94-90 victory for Midland College, its second Western Junior College Conference victory on the home dignities.

By winning MC raised its WJCC record to 6-7 going into Thursday's date with Western Texas at Snyder and left the Chaps 16-9 for the season.

Odessa College skidded to 3-10 in conference and 6-13 for the season as Midland College swept the season's series.

Park, 11 of 20 from the field, had his customary big night with 30 points, but Stamp, Jackson Pace and surprise starter Jeff Jackson chipped in with thunderous nights as five Chaps crashed double figures.

IT WAS the first game Jackson, the 6-4 former Midland Lee starter, had started. "We thought some new blood might change our luck," Story said.

J. J. responded with a 12 point night on five of seven from the field, but perhaps most important, he pulled down a game high of 14 rebounds.

Face hit eight of 12 floor shots for 17 points and yanked down 11 rebounds. Sim Nickerson, almost obtrusive, always seemed to be there when needed, coming up with 15 points while hitting six of eight from the field.

Although OC trailed by as many as 15 points in the first half, the Wranglers came to life in the second half on the scoring of Forch, who wound up with 19 points, and 6-5 David Wood, who dumped in 23 after being snuffed out with four free throws in the first half.

WOOD, AN all-stater from Albuquerque, went eight of 10 from the field, most of them from under the rim, and it was mainly through his efforts that OC wiped out two-thirds of Midland's 65-48 lead midway through the second half.

Three baskets by Parks, however, sparked MC back to a 75-65 lead and took the heat off until the final three minutes. With the score 86-73, OC reeled off 15 straight points, sparked by Forch, Wood and Donnie Ferrari, who finished with 12, to put the crowd through an emotional wringer once again.

Immerfall gives U.S. another Olympic medal

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Dan Immerfall, an unheralded 20-year-old speed skater from Madison, Wis., gave the United States its eighth medal and the Soviet Union and East Germany continued to pile up victories Tuesday at the 12th Winter Olympics.

Immerfall beat out his betterknown teammate Peter Mueller to take a bronze in the 500-meter event which was won by Russian ace Evgeniy Kulikov in 39.17 seconds, an Olympic record. Valeriy Muratov of the Soviet Union was second in 39.25 and Immerfall was third in 39.54.

Immerfall's effort provided the U.S. with its eighth medal of these Games, tying the number won by Americans four years ago at Sapporo and boosting U.S. hopes of besting its all-time total of 12 medals for a Winter Olympics set in 1932.

Five of the U.S. medals have come in speed skating—three of them won by Sheila Young of Detroit.

Mueller, 21, from Mequon, Wis., wound up fifth in 39.57. The final American entry, James Chapin of St. Louis, was 10th in 40.09.

The Soviet Union picked up another gold medal as Raisa Smetanina won the 10-kilometer (6.2 miles) cross country ski race and East Germany got one when Hans Rinn and Norbert Hahn took the double-seater luge event.

The results left the powerful Soviets atop the medal standings with 10 gold medals and 20 over-all, followed by the East Germans with six gold and 13 total medals and the upstart Americans with a gold, three silver and four bronze.

Today's competition also included completion of the men's giant slalom.

Helena Takalo of Finland, who won a gold medal Saturday in the five-kilometer cross country, took the silver medal at 10-kilometers and Russia's Galina Kulakova, deprived of a medal Monday on a doping charge, won the bronze.

Miss Smetanina, a 24-year-old teacher who finished second in the five-kilometer event, led virtually the entire race and was clocked in 30 minutes, 13.41 seconds. Miss Takalo was timed in 30:14.28 and Mrs. Kulakova, deprived of her bronze in the five-kilometer because she took ephedrine, an illegal drug, to combat a cold the night before the race, clocked 30:38.61.

Martha Rockwell of West Leabon, N.H., was the top American finisher, coming in 36th in 34:21.34.

Rinn and Hahn clocked a track record of 42.77 seconds on their first of two runs down the 870-meter run for an aggregate time of 1:25.60. Hans Bradner and Balthasar Schwarm of West Germany won the silver medal in 1:25.88 and Rudolf Schmid and Franz Schachner of Austria won the bronze in 1:25.91.

Meanwhile, with over 25 per cent of the Olympic athletes seeking legal remedies against colds and the flu, the Americans are staying healthy with their one-a-day habit.

That's one medal a day and the United States can get a double dose today when Phil Mahre takes his second run at the giant slalom and Peter Mueller goes for the gold in the 500-meter speed skating event.

Mahre and Mueller are each part of special social teams here, with Mahre joining his identical twin brother Steve on the slopes and Mueller joining his fiancée, Leah Poluou, on the speed skating surface.

Phil Mahre, of White Pass, Wash., finished fourth in 1 minute 45.58 seconds in the surprise performance of Monday's men's giant slalom. Gustavo Thoeni of Italy was the leader at the halfway point of the competition. Steve Mahre was 14th.

Mueller, of Madison, Wis., whose better half won a silver medal in the 1,000-meter race, faces a stiff challenge from world record holder Eugeni Kulikov of the Soviet Union in today's 500-meter sprint.

A medal by either American would continue the United States' run of a medal a day, which may or may not keep the doctor away but has kept spirits high in the American camp.

The electrifying dance team of Colleen O'Connor and Jim Mills fed the United States' medal habit Monday with a wildly acclaimed freestyle program that helped give the duo from Colorado Springs, Colo., a bronze medal.

"I'm glad we carried the crowd," said Mills. "We try to give them excitement and bring them out of their seats. I'm glad we did that."

Also scheduled for today is the first phase of the women's figure skating, in which Dorothy Hamill of Riverside, Conn., and Diane de Leeuw of The Netherlands are favored to duel for the gold medal, and three Group A hockey games, including the United States' must game against Finland. If the winless Americans lose, the ice will crack under their bronze medal hopes.

Hoosiers keep No. 1 cage rating over rest of field

By The Associated Press
Unbeaten Indiana received all but one first-place ballot and remained the overwhelming leader in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll. The lone dissenter cast his No. 1 vote for Rutgers, one of the nation's two other major undefeated teams.

Indiana and Rutgers both raised their season records to 20-0 with victories Monday night, Indiana beating Big Ten rival Michigan State 85-70 and Rutgers routing outmanned Delaware 110-87.

This week's poll, however, was based on games played through Sunday. In last week's action, Indiana pulled out a 72-67 overtime victory over Michigan while Rutgers posted triumphs over Princeton, West Virginia and Navy.

The nation's only other major unbeaten club, Western Michigan at 18-0, moved up two spots in the latest ratings to No. 15.

Indiana headed the list with 1,278 points on 63 first-place votes and one second from the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Marquette, 18-1 after beating Manhattan 78-59 and Detroit 68-66 last week, remained far back in second place with 1,093 points. North Carolina, 18-2 and Maryland, 17-3, moved up one place each to third and fourth, respectively, and Rutgers climbed from seventh to fifth.

Nevada-Las Vegas, third last week, dropped down to No. 7 after suffering its first loss of the season, at the hands of Pepperdine by a 93-91 score Friday night.

North Carolina received 950 points, Maryland 772 and Rutgers 756.

UCLA climbed from ninth place to sixth after upsetting Washington, which had been No. 6 last week but dropped down to No. 9. Nevada-Las Vegas was seventh, followed by Tennessee, eighth last week; Washington, and Notre Dame, 11th last week.

Alabama headed the Second Ten, followed by North Carolina State, Cincinnati, Missouri, Western Michigan, Michigan, St. John's, Virginia Tech and Centenary and North Texas State, tied for 19th.

Michigan is the lone newcomer to the list following its impressive showing against powerful Indiana, with Princeton—No. 15 last week—dropping off after losing to Rutgers 75-62.

Rebels to face Steers; Bulldogs try Bobcats

BY BOB DILLON
Midland Lee hopes to rebound tonight against the tough Big Spring Steers in Big Spring while Midland entertains the San Angelo Bobcats in District 5-A basketball action.

While Lee tries to get back into the thick of things in the second half of the race, all eyes will be on Odessa where the Permian Panthers take on Abilene Cooper's Cougars in a big showdown battle. The winner of that one will take over sole possession of first place since both stand 3-0.

Odessa High, meanwhile, still looking for its first loop win and on a 15-game losing streak, has the dubious task of taking on Abilene High in Abilene in the other league game.

Lee was beaten, 63-51, in Abilene Friday and now stands 2-1 in the loop race and must win to get back into the second half playoff picture. After the trip to Big Spring, the Rebels face Permian in the Lee Gymnasium Friday in another key game.

Midland played Abilene High much closer the second time around in losing, 54-45 Friday night. The first time around, the Eagles bombed the Purple Pack, 76-45, in the Key City.

San Angelo's Arnold McDowell continues to hold on to the scoring lead in 5-A with 237 points in 10 league games for a 23.7 average. Next comes 6-8 Derrell Baxter of Abilene with 223 points and Lee's Junior Miller, is the No. 3 scorer with 205 points.

The Bobcats posted a 60-52 win over Midland in the first meeting between the two schools in San Angelo.

Craig Dunn, 6-3 junior, paces finished 14 strokes ahead of San Marcos, which had finished second behind Odessa Permian over the weekend in the San Antonio Invitational Golf Tournament.

Lee shot a team total of 619 to Permian's 614 for the runnerup spot and Midland's attack with 142 points and he came up with 19 against Abilene last Friday.

Central has a balanced attack with Steve Speer also scoring in the double figures for the Bobcats with 148 points in 10 loop outings. Mike Brown is scoring just under 10 per game for the Bobcats.

A preliminary junior varsity game between the Midland Bullsups and Central JV starts at 6:15 p.m. followed by the varsity contest at 8 p.m.

Lee and Big Spring will play a triple-header with a sophomore tilt at 4:30 p.m. followed by the JV and varsity games.

The Rebels would have been in great shape with a victory over Cooper, but they now find themselves needing to win the rest of their games to have a shot at the second half crown.

Coach Jack Stepehnsen's Lee JV snappd an 18-game winning streak by the Cooper JV Friday and is now 8-2 in loop play compared to Cooper and Permian's 9-1 reading.

Benson paces Indiana past Michigan State by 85-70 in Big 10

By The Associated Press
Indiana center Kent Benson is the kind of player coaches drool over. He stands 6 feet 11, weighs a muscular 235 pounds. He's intimidating under the boards, mobile enough for any running game and as good a jump shooter as most forwards. Defensively, he's learning to hold his own at the Bobby Knight school of man-to-man combat, as fine a proving ground as you'll find anywhere.

He comes up with the clutch play, like the spectacular tap-in at the buzzer against Michigan Saturday which kept Indiana's unbeaten streak alive. He's improved steadily year by year, to the point where he's now the equal of any big man in the college ranks.

And his attitude? A chapter president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Benson sounds more like a coach than a player. "I just go out and try to play hard night in and night out," Benson said Monday night after scoring a career-high 38 points to lead unbeaten, top-ranked Indiana to its 20th victory of the season, an 85-70 Big Ten triumph over Michigan State.

"Sometimes in the game of basketball, you can get yourself psyched out before the game even starts," said Benson, a junior. "But we have to learn to go through that and play without making any mistakes."

If that ever happens, Benson and his Hoosier mates will be awfully tough to stop. As it is, they've got a pretty powerful juggernaut on the move—20-0 overall, 11-0 in the Big Ten, 30 straight conference victories and 50 consecutive regular season triumphs.

"It's like trying to move a mountain with Kent Benson inside," said a duly impressed Gus Ganakas, coach of Michigan State. "He's just like the Himalayas."

"Benson played very well," added Indiana Coach Knight. "He did a real good job of moving to the ball."

Benson's performance overshadowed a 40-point effort by Terry Furlow, the Michigan State forward who leads the Big Ten in scoring. The Indiana center was nearly unstoppable against the smaller Spartans, especially in the second half after three Michigan State starters fouled out.

"Benson is typical of the modern player," said Boston Celtics president Red Auerbach. "He's bigger, stronger and faster than the centers of 10 or 15 years ago, and he can shoot so much better."

Indiana went ahead to stay with an 11-2 spurt for a 33-28 advantage. The Hoosiers led by nine at the half and then drew away.

In other games involving Top Twenty teams, No. 5 Rutgers beat Delaware 110-87, No. 8 Tennessee defeated Vanderbilt 73-59, No. 10 Notre Dame topped St. Bonaventure

95-80, No. 11 Alabama edged Florida 79-73, No. 16 Michigan beat Ohio State 90-66 and No. 19 North Texas State was upset by Memphis State 111-93.

Rutgers remained undefeated by routing Delaware for its 20th triumph of the season, reaching 100 points for the eighth time. Hollis Copeland and Phil Sellers were the big guns for the winners, Copeland scoring 22 points and pulling down 11 rebounds and Sellers added 17 points, 18 rebounds and nine assists.

Tennessee stayed atop the Southeastern Conference by beating Vanderbilt behind 24 points from Ernie Grunfeld and 19 from Bernard King. The Vols are 10-2 in the SEC and Vandy is now 8-3.

Alabama, meanwhile, stayed one-half game back at 9-2 by beating Florida behind Leon Douglas' 24 points. Florida committed a conference record 35 personal fouls, but Alabama could make just 25 of 47 free throw tries.

Adrian Dantley scored 27 points and Notre Dame pulled away from stubborn St. Bonaventure with a 20-9 spurt midway through the second half after the Bonnies had pulled within three.

Rickey Green scored 23 points and Wayne Britt added 20 to lead Michigan to its easy victory over Ohio State. The Wolverines, who lost to Indiana 72-67 in overtime Saturday, are now 9-3 in Big Ten play and trail Indiana by 2 1/2 games.

Bill Cook's 27 points led highscoring Memphis State to its upset of North Texas State. Losing coach Bill Blakeley was not happy about the hostile crowd at Memphis, saying, "They were throwing ice and cussing us and we lost our composure."

Elsewhere, Jacky Dorsey scored 24 points and Georgia overcame an eight-point deficit in the second half to trim Kentucky 86-81 and Mississippi State nipped Auburn 75-74 in the Southeastern Conference; Otho Tucker's 22 points helped Illinois beat Wisconsin 70-59 and Purdue whipped Northwestern 86-58 in the Big Ten. John Long scored 23 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to carry Detroit past Buffalo 93-81, and Oral Roberts edged St. Louis 72-69.

SWC tilt sold out tonight

The second largest crowd in Southern Methodist basketball history was expected for tonight's Southwest Conference clash with league-leading Texas A&M.

SMU officials have sold 500 chair seats at $3.00 each to go around the floor. The other 9,000 seats in Moody Coliseum have long been sold.

The previous high for an SMU basketball crowd was 9,740 for the 1974 game against Texas Tech.

A&M carried a 9-1 record into the fray against the Mustangs, who are 9-3.

The Aggies defeated SMU 93-87 in College Station Jan. 14 and Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf called it "a real classic."

In other SWC games tonight, Texas Tech hosts struggling Texas and Stagg Christian is at Houston. Rice is at Arkansas Wednesday.

Another big showdown looms Saturday afternoon when Texas Tech (9-2) jousts the Aggies in a regionally televised match at College Station.

"If we don't win we can't win the regular season," said SMU Coach Sonny Allen of the crucial meeting with the Aggies. "We just have to win this one. If Texas A&M beats us, they can probably lock up the championship."

AAU Sullivan Award going to Olympic swim star Shaw

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The United States will be strong in Olympic men's swimming this summer says the young man who happens to be the best of the bunch right now.

Tim Shaw of Long Beach, Calif., voted the 46th recipient of the Sullivan Award for amateur athletic excellence in the nation, said, "I'm pretty sure we'll score high over what we've accomplished through the years."

In 1975, Shaw set world records in the 400, 800 and 1,500 meter freestyle with times of 3:53.31, 8:09.60 and 15:20.91. He also swam on the record setting 800-meter freestyle relay team of the Long Beach Swim Club.

Shaw doesn't want to be compared with Mark Spitz, the swimmer who won the Sullivan Award in 1971 and then went on to capture seven gold medals in the 1972 Olympics.

"I don't know why they make the comparison," the 18-year-old Shaw commented at his award presentation. "We are totally different. Our strokes are different. We are different people...and...he's not swimming anymore."

Shaw scored 1,840 points in the Amateur Athletic Union balloting for the Sullivan Award which the AAU symbolizes as going to the outstanding amateur athlete in the nation.

Second place went to Bruce Jenner, the world decathlon record holder from San Jose, Calif., who polled 1,660 points. Women's freestyle swimming champion Shirley Babashoff took third with 1,553.

The news media, AAU board of governors and former Sullivan Award winners voted on the basis of five points for first, three for second and one for third.

Shaw, a freshman at Long Beach State University, said he expected tough competition in the Olympic trials from several swimmers but particularly from teammate Bruce Furniss, holder of the 200 meter freestyle record.

"I don't like to make predictions because I think it is ridiculous," the blond, 175-pound Shaw told a news conference. "I will be working toward doing well in the Olympic trials."

Those trials, starting June 16, will be held in his home pool at Long Beach—the Belmont Plaza. "That will be an advantage only because I won't have to fly anywhere to compete," said the 6-foot-1 star who swims between nine and 10 miles daily while in training.

His coach, Dick Jochums, commented, "He's been called a superstar but both Tim and I know he isn't a superstar. What makes him special is that he's willing to pay the price—two hours practice in the morning and two in the evening at full strength."

"He's a super hard worker—most deserving of this honor."

Shaw plans to try to make the United States Olympic team in the 200, 400 and 1,500 meter freestyle and if he makes it in the 200, he'd also be on a relay team.

Shaw became the 17th Californian to win the Sullivan Award, the late being basketball's Bill Walton in 1973.

There's a great deal in store for you.

Plan to recover from rotten luck

By Alfred Sheinwald

It's possible to recover from a wound, but history tells us of very few cases of recovery from death. When you have a choice at the bridge table as in today's hand, risk a wound rather than death.

The contract with the rest of the clubs. South should consider both finesses before making a choice. If he loses the diamond finesse to begin with, he is dead—just as we have seen. If he finesses first for the queen of hearts, however, he may still recover.

Suppose, for example, that South leads a heart at the second trick and is unlucky enough to lose a finesse to the queen. He can win the club return and fall back on the diamond finesse. He makes the contract if West has either the queen of hearts or the king of diamonds. He is not dependent solely on finding the king of diamonds in the West hand.

As the cards lie, the first heart play loses to the ace. South can win the club return and continue the finesse through West's hearts, winning three hearts, three spades, one diamond and two clubs. There is no need for a diamond finesse when the heart finesse succeeds.

DAILY QUESTION Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S 643 H Q5432 D 532 C 95. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. You might venture a bid if you had a singleton to accompany your heart length, but this hand is a trifle too weak for any response. (If you have a reliable partner, a raise to two hearts may work out well.)

South took the first club and led the queen of diamonds for a finesse. East won with the king of diamonds and forced out South's second club trick. South had only eight tricks, and East got in with the ace of hearts to defeat

Aid seen for violent crime victims

By MICHAEL GETLER The Washington Post

BONN — A proposed law greatly expanding to help victims of violent crime is making its way through the West German Parliament.

The measure, in the view of Justice Ministry officials here, is the most far-reaching yet developed among Western industrialized nations. The United States and others only belatedly are getting around to dealing with the innocent victims of a global increase in violent crime.

The West German law, which was approved by the lower house of Parliament here last week, goes well beyond traditional social security, welfare and health care payments. If passed as expected by the upper house Feb. 20, the law will do something West German experts say has never been done before — provide all victims of violent crime in a major nation (62 million people) with enough money to maintain their individual living standards.

A FAMILY breadwinner who becomes disabled as a result of unprovoked crime, and is forced to take work paying far less than what he earned while healthy, would be entitled to government money to raise his income.

A young worker with a family, who has not worked long enough to pay in very much to the basic social security system and whose family thus would not be entitled to much of an initial pension if the worker were killed by an attacker, would have his pension re-evaluated on the basis of his likely earnings over the years.

A taxi driver who witnessed a violent crime, chases the attacker and wrecks his car in the process would be able to make a claim against the state for his losses and not have to hope that a kind-hearted insurance company will pay a bill that they can now legally avoid.

West German officials acknowledge that the plan will be expensive. Its first year cost is estimated at only about $5 or $6 million. But as new claims are added each year it is expected to nearly double by 1980. The cost is supposed to be borne by the 11 West German states rather than the federal government.

The West Germans are not pioneers in this area. The governments of New Zealand and Britain in 1964 were the first in the West to introduce programs for dealing more humanely with the victim of crime and not just the criminal.

THE DUTCH, Austrians, Australians and Swedes also have laws that provide some special compensation, as do some provinces in Canada and about 15 U.S. states including New York, California and Maryland.

The U.S. Senate has passed a bill that would allow a maximum $25,000 payment to crime victims and President Ford has proposed a $50,000 maximum payment, limited to victims of federal crimes. But crime victims in states that allow payments already have complained that compensation boards have been reluctant to grant adequate amounts of money.

"The awards to be made are not meant to represent full damages," the sponsors of the West German law wrote. "They must however, meet the social responsibility of the general public and go beyond the principle of neediness," as defined by current federal social security programs.

"THE VICTIMS must be compensated by the general public to such an extent that a social degradation of the affected persons themselves, of their families and dependents, is avoided," the law's drafters have written.

The West Germans have also come up with a unique way to operate their proposed new system. They will tie it to the existing federal law on war victims' benefits. That law, which dates back to 1920 and the aftermath of World War I, has been a basic provider of compensation for millions of veterans here whose property and incomes were destroyed by two world wars. In effect, the West Germans are now seeking to put their peacetime civilian population under the same wartime umbrella in terms of their lives being lost or sharply altered by violent crimes.

Compared to the United States, West Germany has a low major crime rate that has held steady for the past three years. There have been about 2,700 homicide charges reported annually, about half the U.S. per capita rate. Statistics for 1975, however, indicate that crime is increasing.

Hybrid wolf-dogs plague Russia

The Los Angeles Times MOSCOW — The vaunted wolves of Russia, traditional chasers of troika riders, have been replaced by wild dog packs in several areas of the country, including regions within 20 miles of Moscow.

This was reported recently in Komсомосkaya Pravda, which also said, "In some areas, the dogs have mated with lone wolves and produced a very tough new generation of hybrid wolf-dogs."

"The dogs and hybrid wolves are very daring beasts of prey," it added. A village shepherd was quoted as saying, "They are worse than wolves." Originally the wild dogs were stray domestic animals, either lost or abandoned on the city outskirts. They gravitated to garbage dumps where they formed into packs. When dumps were closed or did not provide enough food, the dogs began roaming the forests.

One pack consisted of 12 animals, highly organized behind a brown male leader. Ranging near Zimenki, a village close to Moscow's Vnukova airport, it has attacked a village dog and calf, killed two goats at a nearby town, and brought down a deer or an elk, the article said.

Hunting is forbidden in the "green ring" around Moscow that includes the area, but villagers nonetheless went after the animals. "They had very poor results."

bagging only one dog, it was reported.

"The pack was cleverer than the hunter, even escaping traps that once caught wolves. Hunting dogs are afraid of the wild ones but the dogs seem unafraid of people," the article said.

"We are witnessing a surprising occurrence at present," the newspaper said. "The ecological niche of the wolf (who had been hunted almost to extinction in European Russia) is being occupied by wild dogs." The pack near the airport is characteristic for many places in the Moscow region, and they are also found in Vladimir, Yaroslavl, Kaluga and Ivanovo," it added. All are well over 100 miles from Moscow.

Discussing the story, a Russian acquaintance said an area 70 miles from Moscow where he owns a dacha (summer home) has wild dog packs. "Near us there are rest homes and sanatoriums and the dogs feed off their dumps," he said, "so in this respect we are lucky."

"But in other places they roam the forests and we think they are quite capable of bringing down a man if they are hungry enough," he said.

"Such is the unexpected replacement of the wolf in our forests," concluded the Komсомосkaya Pravda article.

Lee Youth Center Chatter

By Jolee Aylesworth Lisa McDonald Jana Williamson Roses are red, violets are blue and NHS has got a surprise for you. Coming up Friday, you may receive a message from a secret admirer, a carnation from a mysterious stranger, or a song from an unknown love.

The National Honor Society has provided Lee High School with the finest musicians and the rarest flowers for your Valentine pleasure. Wednesday is your last day to order, so don't wait until the last minute to tell your honey that you love her (or him). The meager sum for these loving messages is a mere 25 cents for a telegram, a measly 75 cents for a carnation, or a scant dollar for a song. You may be sung to by a Country Hick, a Mouseketeer, a dwarf, a little old lady, a Fonzle, or a freak straight out of the freak show. Don't skip Friday or you'll miss the show of a lifetime.

The fun doesn't end here cuz Saturday night the Key Club is sponsoring a Valentine's dance in the Youth Center from 8 to midnight. So ask your sweetheart early and make plans to boogie to the tune of "Fresh Start," because a Valentine's King and Queen will be selected and gifts will be awarded. You may receive a radio, a year's supply of hamburgers, cosmetics, jewelry or a C.B. radio.

If you're on the ball and get your tickets early they will only cost you $1.50 each—but if you wait around, then the price of admission will be $2 at the door, so grab a Key Clubber and buy your tickets now. Also the romantic Rebelettes will be selling kisses (candy ones, that is). So we'll see ya Saturday night and we'll celebrate Valentine's 1976.

During all the commotion, don't forget that those Punky Peruvian Panthers will come to our gym to challenge our Rebel men. We'll prove that Mojo Magic is of no use against our Mighty Rebel Roundballers. The Maroon Mean Machine really put it to the San Angelo Bobcats Tuesday night, but lost a heartbreaker Friday night to the Abilene Cooper Cougars. We're still gonna take the second half, so all you Rebels let the players and coaches know how proud we are of them.

Attention, Rebelettes, we will have quad meetings at 7:45 a.m. Wednesday so that will give you some extra sleep time and no excuse for not showing up. Some important business will be taken care of, so please try and get there on time.

A mighty Rebel salute to the Rebelettes who yelled their hearts out at the basketball games. The team couldn't have come as far as they have without you. Keep up the good work, girls.

To all Senior Women, there will be another meeting at 8 p.m.

Wednesday for the hostesses. Please turn in your list of people to invite and bring your $20. There are some new ideas to discuss, so please come and voice your opinion. All ideas are needed.

Good luck to the track team in all its preliminary meets. We are really excited to see what ya'll have got in store for us this year. That goes for Coach Johnson's baseball team, too. We're gonna do it again this year, guys.

Well, that is about it for this week. Let those you care for know it Saturday, that day isn't set aside for nothing, you know. Happy Valentine's Day from: Jolee Gay, Jana Sue and Lisa Mac.

P.S. Happy Birthdays go to Susan Posey, Pam Hutson, Jeff Hull, Ken Hargert, Danny Brock, Joe Pacheco, Mark Bodnar, Marlon Scott, David Dakil and Scott Patton.

USGS employes can keep interests

By PAUL HOUSTON
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Ten employes of the U.S. Geological Survey, accused by the General Accounting Office last March of real or potential conflicts of interest, have been allowed by the Interior Department to retain financial interests in oil and mining firms, the GAO said.

In a report to Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), the GAO said 37 other employes of the Geological Survey have divested themselves of conflicting interests and two more with conflict problems have left the agency.

The GAO, a congressional agency, listed without comment the reasons given by the Interior Department for allowing the 10 employes of the Geological Survey, an arm of the Interior Department, to retain their financial interests.

One unnamed employe, identified as an administrative geologist, was allowed to retain stock holdings in 13 companies engaged in coal mining, oil and gas exploration, gas distribution, energy stock investment and asbestos mining.

The GAO said Interior Department lawyers had approved the holdings because of "the minimal number of shares held, the lack of a direct relation to the employe's duties, or the fact that the federal government's interest was determined to be minimal."

A survey geologist was allowed to retain stock in 10 companies, including Exxon, Gulf Oil, Mobil Oil, Texaco, Continental Oil and Union Carbide, because the Interior Department "found that the securities were part of an inherited, irrevocable trust set up by the employe's aunt in the names of the employe's children."

The GAO said a department regulation, revised last Oct. 1, specifically permitted such a situation.

The department also allowed a district engineer for the Survey to keep his stock in a company which explores for oil in Australia because conflict-of-interest laws did not apply to activity outside the United States.

The GAO had said it felt that "holdings in foreign companies raised conflict of interest possibilities because of the survey's responsibility for administering the Earth Resources Observation System program."

Two Survey employes were allowed to retain mineral interests because the interests were acquired by their spouses apparently without any intent to circumvent conflict-of-interest rules.

Another employe was able to keep his mineral interest, the GAO said, because it was on private property and conflict-of-interest policy applied only to public lands.

The Interior Department permitted four employes to continue receiving retirement incomes from their former oil company employes. It was determined that the retirement plans were not tied to the companies' continued financial success.

The GAO said the department had implemented all seven GAO recommendations for improving the survey's financial disclosure system.

In fact, the GAO said, the improvements were applied throughout the department.

28 schedule 'D' firms to be tried

By JANIE PALESCHIC
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Twenty-eight of the 54 "Schedule D" oil and gas firms based in Texas are being taken to court by Attorney General John Hill at the request of the State securities Board.

State Securities Commissioner Roy

Mouer said lying to a prospective customer is common practice, but the cursing and drinking encouraged by the Rio Grande was not typical.

The salesman claimed the production from Splendora Gas Field in Montgomery County was sold to Houston Natural Gas Company, but Mouer said Houston Natural Gas had never heard of the Schedule D company.

Mouer said Rio Grande was the only company he had heard of the kept an open bar for employes.

Mouer said he proposed to the SEC that Schedule D firms be abolished, and barring that, that a six-month moratorium be placed on any new firms.

Under proposed rule changes by the SEC, Mouer said a Schedule D operator would be required to notify the state securities commissioner before entering the state to do business, and all sales would be made by a broker.

The Schedule D firms operate under an exemption in federal regulations, but Mouer thinks they must register in Texas under state law.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

W. Mouer said every Schedule D firm investigated by the state agency has turned out to be less than legitimate, but he believes there are some legal operations.

Mouer said that besides the injunctions being sought against the firms, seven indictments have been returned against individual, six of which were connected with the Rio Grande Oil Company.

Although two cease and desist orders have been issued by the Board in addition to the 28 injunctions sought, Mouer said an injunction is more effective in stopping the fraudulent promotions.

"With a cease and desist order, they usually just pick up and move out," Mouer said.

Data gathered from the Secretary of State's office and the State Auditor shows that 47,000 persons across the country invested close to $100 million by Mouer's estimate in the schemes between January, 1973, and September, 1975.

Companies reported to the U.S. Securities Exchange commission $70 million invested for drilling and testing and $7 million for completion, but Mouer said companies are not required to report completion figures.

The list shows a large number of investors from New Jersey and New York, states with little regulation, Mouer said, and also from California.

A tape played by Mouer for the State Securities Board gave an example of the sales pitch used by salesmen for the Rio Grande Oil Company, which has been sued by the state.

Representatives of the attorney general's office said the tape had already been played in open court, and the tape was made with the salesmen's knowledge.

Wildcat set in King area

Gus Edwards of Abilene plans to drill as a 6,400-foot wildcat in North King County, his No. 3 Floyce Masterson.

Drillsite, one mile northeast of his recent Atoka gas discovery, is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 1, H&GN survey, 1 1/2 miles northeast of Guthrie. Ground elevation is 1,782 feet.

Trustees will hold interviews

Midland public school trustees will meet in special session at 7 p.m. Thursday to hold interviews with applicants.

The meeting, scheduled to be held in the district's administration building, will be conducted in executive session, as provided by law when considering personnel.

Drug possession charges filed

Charges of felony possession of a controlled substance have been filed against a 34-year-old Midland man who was stopped on a traffic violation by Trooper R. E. Petty, Justice of the Peace Robert H. Pine said.

Petty said he found one shot paper of a substance believed to be heroin when he stopped Alfredo Olgin Hernandez of 1006 N. Terrell St., east of Holiday Hill Road on Interstate 20 at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Pine set bond at $25,000, he said.

Prolific discovery potentials

A prolific gas extender has been completed in Loving County and outposts have been staked in Crane and Ward County fields.

Clayton W. Williams Jr., Midland, has completed No. 2 Gataga Gas Unit as a 1 1/4-mile southwest extension to Fusselman production in the Moore-Hooper field of Loving County, one mile south of Mentone.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 883.721 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, from open hole at 17,626-18,784 feet.

It has a 7 3/4-inch liner hung from 11,492-17,626 feet. Location is 1,714 feet from northeast and 1,320 feet from southeast lines of section 81, block 1, W&NW survey, abstract 195, one mile south of Mentone.

WARD SITE
Gulf Oil Corp. will drill No. 3-D-P. C. Hill as a one-mile northeast outpost to Fusselman gas production in the Quito field of Ward County, six miles north of Barstow.

The test is slated to 17,500 feet, and spots 1,220 feet from northwest and southwest lines of section 224, block 34, H&TC survey.

CRANE PROJECT
Watson & Cox Oil & Gas, operating from Midland, accounted for a Crane County test. It is No. 1 J. B. Tubb Estate, scheduled as a 1 1/2-mile east outpost to the three-well Devonian gas sector of the Crarar field of Ward.

Drillsite for the project is 1,050 feet from south and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 9, block B-20, PSL survey, 2 1/2 miles northwest of Crane. Planned depth is 6,300 feet.

Schmitt retires

G. T. "Ted" Schmitt of Oklahoma City, formerly of Midland, has announced his retirement after 24 years with Sohio Petroleum Co. — effective March 1.

Schmitt is area geologist for the Mid-Continent and Rocky Mountain Division. He was employed by Sohio as a geologist in 1952 and was assigned to the Abilene District office. Since then he has held many responsible positions in the Midland Exploration office, foreign operations, Headquarters Special Studies Group and in the Mid-Continent and Rocky Mountain Division.

Confirmer completes

The Beal's Creek (Wichita-Albany) field of Mitchell County gained its second well and a location southwest extension with completion of Dorchester Exploration, Inc., Midland, No. 4-A Spade.

It finished to pump 10.25 barrels of 29.2-gravity oil and nine barrels of water per day, with gas-oil ratio measuring 3,439-1. Production was through perforations at 3,602-3,612 feet, which had been acidized with 3,000 gallons.

Slated as a wildcat, it was drilled to 4,060 feet, and plugged back to 3,644 feet, in 4 1/2-inch casing set at 4,046 feet.

Location is 2,200 feet from north and 1,700 feet from east lines of section 11, block 18, SPRR survey, 2 1/2 miles southwest of Colorado City.

The discovery, Dorchester No. 2-A Spade, finished in November, 1975, for 33.1 barrels of oil daily, through perforations at 3,628-3,633 feet.

Nolan, Stonewall get pair of explorations

A wildcat site has been staked in Nolan County and a Stonewall strike drew an offset location.

Suburban Propane Gas Corp., operating from Ozona, filed application to drill a 7,000-foot venture in Nolan, nine miles south of Sweetwater. It is No. 1 F. A. Pierce.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 38, block X, T&P survey, 3/4 mile southeast of the depleted Featherstone (Strawn) oil field and 2 1/2 miles east of the Lake Trammell field.

It is on the site of R. L. Burns Corp. No. 1 Tommie Pierce, staked as a 7,100-foot wildcat in 1973, but which was never drilled.

Prior to his present Dallas assignment, Woodward spent 12 years in the Rocky Mountain area, the last eight as regional manager.

Pavlich has been special services representative in the Houston general office since 1971. Prior to that he was regional engineer at Houston for 12 years.

Properties to be sold

HOUSTON (AP) — Entex Inc. announced Monday it has reached agreement to acquire the retail gas distribution properties of Houston Natural Gas Corp.

Jackson C. Hinds, chairman and president of Entex, said the Houston Natural Gas properties serve about 360,000 retail gas customers in Houston and approximately 119 other cities and communities in Texas.

Entex serves some 739,000 retail customers in more than 400 cities and towns in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

With the exception of the immediate Houston area, the two companies serve different cities and communities, although both operate in the same general area of the Texas Gulf Coast, East Texas and South Texas.

Hinds said in a statement that the agreement provides for a 20-year gas supply arrangement with the Houston Pipe Line Co., which is the wholesale gas supplier to Houston Natural.

In Texas, the retail rates of both companies are regulated by municipalities and by the Texas Railroad Commission. The gas supply agreement between Entex and Houston Pipe Line also remains subject to approval and control by the Railroad Commission.

License plate motto ruled OK

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A three-judge federal panel has ruled that New Hampshire may not forbid motorists from covering the "Live Free or Die" motto on the state's license plates.

The written opinion, issued Monday by the U.S. District Court in Concord, said enforcement of the state mutilation statute violates the constitutional right of "symbolic expression" and forces those disagreeing with particular slogans into "involuntary affirmation."

The case stems from the arrest two years ago of George Maynard for violation of the statute.

When the 42-year-old Claremont, N.H., printer was arrested, he said that he and his wife, Maxine, both Jehovah's Witnesses, "wouldn't give up our lives for freedom. We feel life is more precious than freedom."

The federal panel agreed with Maynard's contention that the law prohibiting unauthorized external markings on license plates violated constitutional guarantees of freedom of expression.

"Their acts constituted protected symbolic speech and...the state cannot prosecute them for masking the motto," the court said.

"...It is clear in the plaintiff's case that the act of masking the motto with reflective tape is motivated by deeply held fundamental religious beliefs that death is an unreality for a follower of Christ."

The slogan was written by Gen. John Stark, hero of the Battle of Bennington, Vt., in a letter to veterans of the Revolutionary War fight.

Student finds $7,000 gem

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Fourth grade pupil Justin Green picked up "a pretty piece of plastic" at school last Friday and shoved it into his pocket.

He didn't know it at the time, but the "plastic" was actually a $7,000 diamond which fell out of the ring one of his teachers.

Justin heard classmates talking about a missing stone Monday and told the teacher about what he had found.

But he couldn't remember what he had done with his find.

Dave Nickerson, principal at Meadowbrook Elementary School, searched to the lad's house and began a search with Justin's mother.

They found the diamond after taking apart the family washing machine. The stone had caught in a trap intended to keep small items from jamming up the washing machine.

"Oh good Lord. We were all happy," said Mrs. Erich Wendel, Justin's teacher and the owner of the diamond.

Said Justin: "I thought it was a piece of plastic. It was polishing it and making it shine and showing it to the other kids."

The principal gave Justin a $5 reward.

The two-term board member is completing his sixth year as a trustee. Other board members whose terms will be expiring are James E. Winget, Jr., president, and Gilbert C. Tompson.

POOCH OR PEDIGREE is the question. Is a dog without a title as elegant your setter? The Westminster Kennel Dog Show is now under way in New York and some of these dogs are in the show. The others are from an

Accounts vary on Nixon words

By KENNETH REICH
The Los Angeles Times
LOS ANGELES — Two men who were present at a White House meeting with then-President Richard M. Nixon during the time he was seeking to dissuade House members from impeaching him confirmed Monday that Nixon had spoken of his capability of killing millions of people in a few minutes.

Rep. Charles Rose (D-N.C.) and former Rep. Clem McSpadden (D-Okla.), who was serving in Congress when the meeting was held, had memories of what Nixon said that were slightly different from the account Sen. Alan Cranston (D-Calif.) had related second-hand over the weekend.

Rose said he recalled Nixon as saying, "I can go in my office and pick up the telephone and in 25 minutes, millions of people will be dead."

McSpadden recalled Nixon as saying, "I can pick up the phone and 70 million Russians can be killed in 20 minutes."

Cranston, who was not present at the meeting, had said Friday and Saturday that he understood the quote was: "At any moment, I could go in the other room and press a button and 20 million later 60 million people would be dead."

Cranston did not hear about what Nixon had said until 1974, although the meeting in question took place in November 1973.

According to Rose and McSpadden, about 30 Southern Democrats were present, including Reps. George Mahon of Texas, Mendel Davis of South Carolina, Gillis Long of Louisiana and Dawson Mathis and Andrew Young of Georgia. None of the others could be reached for comment Monday.

Rose and McSpadden, in telephone interviews, both said that the Nixon observation did not seem to be a threat, but that it came out of context with the rest of the conversation and that they had viewed it as peculiar.

"My concern at the time," Rose said, "was why he found it necessary to make the statement at all."

McSpadden, reached at his home in Tulsa, said that he recalled having just asked Nixon, "What is the Communist threat, if any, worldwide?" when Nixon abruptly made the comment.

"It was a very awesome thing to me, him putting this just in terms of what 'I can do,'" the former congressman said. "That's what scared me."

In San Clemente, Nixon aides refused to accept calls asking for comment from the former President.

Composer Percy Faith dies of cancer at 65

The Los Angeles Times
VAN NUYS, Calif. — Percy Faith, who as a young student was forced to abandon pursuit of a concert pianist's career and who became a world famous popular music composer, conductor and arranger, died of cancer Monday at Valley Presbyterian Hospital here. He was 67.

Born in Toronto, Faith began as an arranger-conductor for Canadian radio in the early 1930s, moving to this country in 1940 to become prominent on radio shows here.

His first film scoring effort, "Love Me or Leave Me" in 1955, brought him an Academy Award nomination. He received other awards for his albums.

When he was an 18-year-old student at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, the clothing of his 3-year-old sister caught fire. Faith beat out the flames with his hands, which were so burned he could not continue toward his goal as a concert pianist.

Faith concentrated on composition and orchestration, eventually becoming an orchestra leader in the Toronto area.

He leaves his widow, Mary (Dolly), a daughter, Marilyn Leonard, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday in Inglewood, Calif.

The family asked that in lieu of flowers, donations be made to the American Cancer Society or Heart Fund.

Report From Philip Morris

Filters Fall Short.

Researchers create 'Enriched Flavor' for taste of new low tar MERIT after disappointing results with special filters.

After countless efforts at designing special "low tar, good taste" filters, Philip Morris—like most others—had achieved only marginal results.

Filters are good for filtering, not for giving taste to a cigarette.

Tobacco gives taste to a cigarette. And the more tobacco taste that's filtered out in the form of tar, the less taste a cigarette will deliver.

That's the conclusion that led us to the business end of smoking. The tobacco end. A change in emphasis that eventually led to a remarkable new flavor discovery called 'Enriched Flavor.'

The new cigarette with 'Enriched Flavor' is MERIT.

It delivers only 9 mg. of tar—less than 98% of all cigarettes being sold today.

Yet 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivers the taste of cigarettes having more tar. Up to 60% more tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Flavor Secret Hidden In Tobacco Smoke

By "cracking" cigarette smoke down into its various ingredients, we isolated and analyzed over 2000 separate units that make up cigarette taste.

What we discovered was startling: there are certain "key" ingredients in smoke that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

By selecting those high quality flavor yet low tar producing ingredients, 'Enriched Flavor' was developed, perfected and packed into the tobacco used to make MERIT.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, tested at home*.

The results were conclusive.

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette.

MERIT. Incredible smoking pleasure at one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today—only 9 mg. tar. From Philip Morris.

A SOVIET-BUILT self-propelled rocket launcher moves through the streets of Luanda, capital of MPLA-held Angola, during a parade marking the 15th anniversary of the uprising of Angolans against the Portuguese.

Soviet backed soldiers drive deeper in Angola

By The Associated Press

Soviet-backed Angolan and Cuban forces are making drives toward Luso, in east central Angola, and south along the coast to the ports of Lobito and Benguela following capture of Huambo, the capital of the two Western-supported factions in the Angolan civil war, a British correspondent reported today from Luanda.

If the two-prong advance is successful, "there appears a strong likelihood that the FNLA-UNITA forces inside Angola will collapse," Jane Bergerol of the London Financial Times reported.

The warring factions are the Popular Movement, or MPLA, which is armed by the Soviet Union and has an estimated 11,000 Cubans fighting for it, and the National Union (UNITA) and National Front

(FNLA), which have been supplied by the United States, South Africa, Zaire and Zambia and have several hundred European mercenaries fighting for them.

Nicholas Ashford of the Times of London, who left Angola this week and went to Johannesburg, reported that South African forces which pulled back from central Angola recently are establishing a defense line against the MPLA about 30 miles inside the former Portuguese territory.

He said South Africa is believed to have about 5,000 men in the area.

UNITA's foreign minister, Jorge Sangumba, said the fall of Huambo marks the end of conventional warfare in the civil war and the beginning of guerrilla conflict.

"UNITA has lost one town, but our determination and will to fight are still there," Sangumba told reporters in Lusaka, Zambia. "We will now enter a second stage of the war, which is guerrilla war."

He said more than 20,000 UNITA soldiers will turn guerrilla.

U.S. officials in Washington said the UNITA-FNLA forces that had been in Huambo pulled back to Silva Porto, UNITA's military headquarters 90 miles to the east, and were fighting a "rear-guard action." But Miss Bergerol's report indicated that the main MPLA forces were ignoring Silva Porto for the moment.

The MPLA, having captured nearly all of northern Angola, is now concentrating on the central part of the country and the British-owned Benguela railroad over which Zambia and Zaire ship their copper to the Atlantic coast.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson told the House of Commons that "substantial numbers" of British mercenaries have been killed in the Angolan conflict. He said reports that 13 or 14 were executed by order of their British commander for refusing to fight appear to be true.

"The substantial numbers killed in warlike operations... are very considerable indeed," Wilson said.

But Colin Taylor, head of the private British organization that recruits mercenaries for FNLA and UNITA, said that as far as he knew the execution report was false. And he said he knew of only three mercenaries who had been killed in fighting in Angola.

Guatemala quake toll passes 17,000

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — More than a sixth of Guatemala's population was reported homeless today as the official death toll from the earthquake last week topped 17,000.

President Kjell Eugenio Laugerud told diplomats that the count of casualties in last Wednesday's earthquake had risen to 17,032 dead, 54,825 injured, 221,994 homes destroyed and 1,034,441 of the nation's 6 million people homeless.

It was the worst recorded disaster in Central American history. A catastrophe of the same magnitude in the United States, where the population is 34 times as large, would result in more than 575,000 dead, nearly 1,865,000 injured and 35 million homeless.

Relief supplies from many nations flowed into Guatemala City and on into the stricken countryside.

There were complaints from many localities but "distribution of relief supplies is far better coordinated than in any other recent disaster I can recall," said Brian Moss of the U.S. Foreign Disaster Relief Office.

Col. Guillermo Echeverria of the national relief committee, said 100 armed troops were sent into four villages Monday to control food distribution.

"There have been disturbances but nothing serious," he said, denying reports that a helicopter crew was attacked and all the craft's cargo of food stolen at San Andres Itzapa, 50 miles north of Guatemala City.

Laugerud met with the diplomatic corps to discuss additional aid.

Moss said U.S. government aid so far totaled more than $1.5 million and could reach $5 million. By 4 p.m. Monday, 31 U.S. military flights delivered 500 tents, a 15-kilowatt generator to power a 200-bed hospital, 12 3,000-gallon water tanks with pumps, 16 helicopters, ambulances, a 100-bed field hospital, doctors, communications equipment, 500 pints of plasma, 5,000 doses of tetanus vaccine and large quantities of other medicines.

Private U.S. relief agencies have committed more than $3 million in short-term aid, a report from Washington said. The U.S. Embassy said these organizations have already delivered 47 tons of food and 11 tons of medicine.

Authorities started a program of mass vaccination against typhoid and tetanus throughout the 30,000 square miles of stricken area. U.S. military experts worked to get water mains functioning again and to purify contaminated wells and cisterns.

Another strong earthquake was reported Monday afternoon in the Pacific Ocean off Mexico. It was not felt in the closest towns on the Mexican coast although it gave Richter Scale readings of 5.5 to 6.2. The big quake in Guatemala measured 7.5.

Schnabel refuses to testify

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A holdover Travis County grand jury was expected to return at least two more indictments today against Senate Secretary Charles Schnabel.

The strongest allegations remaining against Schnabel involve the purchase of a hifi set for his Capitol office and the use of "volunteer" work by five Senate employees to type "heat sheets" at the Texas Relays.

Beth Beto, daughter of former prisons director Dr. George Beto, reportedly says she never received a $184 supplemental paycheck in 1971 when she worked in Schnabel's office. The hifi set cost about that much.

The five Senate employees all had worked overtime for which they were not going to be paid, and Schnabel reportedly offered get extra pay for those who worked at the relays. Four made $50 each for 6½ hours, and the fifth worked both days of the relays and earned $92.

The state called eight witnesses before the grand jury Monday to complete presentation of its evidence in the Schnabel case.

Schnabel decided not to testify before the grand jury, sources have told The Associated Press, for two reasons: the grand jury cannot rescind the three indictments it already has voted against him, and since the jury refused his plea to testify prior to returning those indictments it is unlikely to be sympathetic to anything he has to say.

Smith declined to say whether the grand jury was looking at anyone besides Schnabel and former Senate Print Shop supervisor Alex Martinez for possible indictments.

"It is an autonomous body. I wouldn't want to predict," he said.

But he wouldn't rule it out? "No." Then he paused and said, "I wouldn't want a great number of people to get paranoid over it either."

Patty retracts tape statements

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Weaving a chilling saga of fear and degradation, Patricia Hearst says her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers forced her to embrace violent revolution and enslaved her mind with the belief she would never escape the terrorist underground.

Fighting back tears, Miss Hearst finally told her story to the world Monday in testimony at her bank robbery trial. It was a bizarre account of weeks in darkness, sexual assault, months of living with the recurring threat of death and a night of watching some of her most vicious tormentors die in flames.

Testifying with the jury absent, she said she took part in the robbery only out of fear of death and said she never surrendered because remaining SLA members threatened to stalk her for the rest of her life if she did. She was captured last Sept. 18.

With a whispery voice that was barely audible at times, the pale newspaper heiress said flight was futile as two surviving SLA members continued to carry on the legacy of those who died — to imprison her forever in a mental dungeon.

"Where could I go?" she asked several times, saying the SLA convinced her that she had been abandoned by her family and that the FBI wanted her dead.

Miss Hearst renounced all her taped communiques from the SLA as products of coercion, disclaimed her celebrated love for slain SLA member Willie Wolfe as a farce and said she was forced to help rob a bank and later tell a teen-ager that she acted freely.

"They told me I would be killed," was her simple, direct explanation of many of her actions. She said she was threatened with death "hundreds of times."

Miss Hearst, 21, took the stand at a special hearing at her bank robbery trial as the defense sought to suppress all evidence of her movements after the April 15, 1974, bank robbery.

The teen-ager to whom the defendant allegedly confessed, Thomas Dean Matthews, was scheduled to be the first witness for the prosecution today in its attempt to convince U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter to let the jury hear a tape of Miss Hearst and young Matthews' testimony.

Under questioning from chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, Miss Hearst said SLA members William and Emily Harris, now awaiting trial in Los Angeles, kept up the barrage of intimidation after six SLA members were killed in a fiery shootout with Los Angeles police on May 17, 1974.

Shot wounds Midlander

A 53-year old Midland man is in satisfactory condition in Midland Memorial Hospital after being shot in the back of the head Monday night, a hospital spokesman said.

Rex Bradshaw, 2500 Copus St., had closed Wallace Grocery, 1700 Cloverdale Rd., and was in his pickup truck when the shot was fired about 9:20 p.m., said Sheriff's Deputy Tom McGinnis. The shot went through the metal cab of the truck and part of the bullet struck Bradshaw, said McGinnis. He said the victim was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital by his wife.

McGinnis said the shot was fired from a vacant lot across the street from the store. He said the shot was probably fired from a rifle. He is still investigating the incident.

Voting off to fast start

An estimated 300 voters already had been to the polls by 8:30 a.m. this morning to cast their ballots in the Midland College $6.3 million bond election.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m. in the physical education building on the college campus.

Absentee balloting, which terminated Friday, drew 118 voters.

Bob Phillips, business manager for the college, said college officials anticipated a "good turnout" for the issue which seeks to construct an addition to the existing occupational-technical building and a new academic classroom-fine arts building, as well as a multi-purpose facility.

Phillips said voting was moving steadily early this morning, and no lines were forming. Ten voting machines are in use.

County raises gift for meals on wheels

By ED TODD
Midland County commissioners, banking on the federal government's coming through with about $260,000 in revenue-sharing funds this year, Monday agreed to raise by $3,700 the county's yearly contribution to the Senior Citizens, Inc.'s, Meals-on-Wheels program.

The increase hikes from $8,000 to $11,700 the amount the county pays toward buying 13,000 once-a-day meals for 50 impoverished folks throughout the year, but only during weekdays.

The county's share is to pay for the "raw food" cost of each meal, figured at 90 cents.

"I'm still of the opinion," Commissioner Charlie Welch commented, "we should pay for the cost of the food... out of revenue sharing."

"And that's the only way you're going to get it," Welch told Bill Shaner, chairman of Senior Citizens. Commissioner Win Brown reinforced that outlook: "And the way things are looking, revenue sharing is going to be axed. . . . The likelihood

Nevertheless, the commissioners approved the dole.

Regular well-balanced and special-diet meals in the Meals-on-Wheels program are prepared under supervision of a Senior Citizens dietitian at Midland Memorial Hospital. The Texas Department of Public Welfare (DPW) underwrites cost of preparing the food. That comes to $1.10 per meal. Per serving cost is $2.

The Meals-on-Wheels program is budgeted at $44,300 this year.

In other business, the commissioners:

— Made a spot-check into the minutes of their Jan. 26 meeting and kept Ron Tefteller's salary at $10,800. Commissioner John Thomas said he had understood that the beginning

Midland's overnight low of 51 degrees tied a record for the highest overnight low, said a spokesman for the National Weather Service. Service woman found dead

BIG SPRING — An 18-year-old woman, who was to be discharged from the military service in Big Spring Monday, was found dead at her Big Spring apartment shortly after noon Monday.

The woman's name has not been released pending notification of next of kin. She was found clothed in a nightgown in her bed. No marks were found on the body to indicate violence.

Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena Jr. called for an autopsy, and a ruling is expected to be completed this afternoon.

Police said the woman's estranged husband, also serving at Webb Air Force Base in Big Spring, discovered the body after she failed to appear to receive her discharge papers.

Police said an examining physician estimated the woman had been dead about 36 hours.

Grand jury to get case

The federal case against three men accused of possessing about 80 grams (2.8 ounces) of heroin Feb. 5 may be presented for possible indictment to a 23-member grand jury to be in session in U.S. District Court here Thursday.

Charged with possession of the narcotic and with conspiracy to distribute the substance were Joe Daniel Torrez, 24, of Carlsbad, N.M., and Abundio Hernandez Martinez, 35, and Jesus Ybarra Villarreal, 34, both of Odessa.

The men were being held under federal custody in Midland city jail in lieu of each posting a $50,000 bond set by U.S. Magistrate Joe Segura of Marfa.

They were arrested in Brewster County around 7:35 a.m. on Feb. 5 after U.S. Border Patrolman Don Newberry spied Torrez toss a condom containing the narcotic from a sedan.

Agents for the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) in Midland estimated the "street value" of the heroin, once diluted (cut), at more than $12,000.

Martinez has retained Odessa attorneys Warren Burnett and Richard Abalos to represent him in court. Villarreal has hired Abalos. As of Monday, Torrez had no counsel.

PBRPC to study grant applications

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission (PBRPC) will study 13 grant applications and preapplications during its board of directors meeting at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at Air Terminal.

Included in the grant applications are a request by the City of Odessa for $50,000 from the Environmental Protection Agency for a solid waste resource recovery; the City of Big Spring for $87,500 from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for the Roy Anderson Park supplement; and the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation for $300,000 to construct Moss Creek Road Bridge in Howard County.

PBRPC directors will also review the entitlement Community Development funds of $23,000 for the City of Wink and $912,000 for the City of Odessa.

Grant preapplications to be studied by the board are by the cities of Big Spring, Grandfalls, Fort Stockton, Rankin, Stanton and Coahoma, plus the counties of Upton and Martin. The preapplications are made through PBRPC so that the Department of Housing and Urban Development can review the projects without the small cities having to submit full applications.

PBRPC directors will also study an application by Andrews County for $16,154 from the Criminal Justice Division of the State of Texas to set up juvenile probation services in the county.

In other action, the board will:

- Consider a resolution approving the 1976 comprehensive work program;
- Consider a resolution approving the Affirmative Action Plan regarding recruitment of minorities and Section 3 Contracting Procedures regarding an outside consultant;
- Consider a resolution authorizing the executive director to submit an application to the office of the governor, division of planning coordination for some $78,000 per year in HUD 701 planning funds for staffing purposes and technical work;

- Consider a resolution authorizing the executive director to submit an application to the State of Texas for about $54,000 in state planning assistance grant;
- Consider awarding a contract on radios for the 13 Emergency Medical Service ambulances with the cost being split 50-50 between the cities involved and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; and
- Discuss proposed changes in the by-laws of the National Association of Regional Councils.

Midland-based company files $2 million lawsuit

End Devices, Inc., a Midland-based manufacturer of beam-pump control equipment and related oilfield drilling products, has filed a $2.05 million federal lawsuit against Halliburton Services, a division of the Halliburton Co.

The dispute, in which End Devices is claiming breach of contract, stemmed from a 1974 agreement whereby Halliburton would be the sole distributor of plaintiff's products in the United States, Canada and elsewhere.

However, according to the petition, Halliburton neglected "to diligently promote the sale" of End Devices' products and thereby caused the Midland company to suffer "severe financial losses."

End Devices, the petition asserted, "is now in dire economic straits because of defendant's breach and repudiation of distributorship agreement."

Furthermore, the petition alleged that End Devices' license on the patent covering the beam-pump control equipment would eventually fall into Halliburton's ownership should End Devices go into financial ruin and collapse.

Halliburton, the petition stated, was aware of that probability and subsequently did not diligently promote End Devices' products.

End Devices, bolstering its claim that Halliburton was slack in selling, said its products should have noticeably increased in sales during the recent worldwide "energy crisis which has resulted in increased oil and gas activity." Such was not the case, End Devices claimed.

The petition said Halliburton had access to End Devices' financial records, and intimated that the worldwide oilfield service company was engineering its fall.

John E. Gunter, a Midland lawyer, filed the suit on behalf of End Devices.

Barry Welton of Midland is listed as the company's president.

Cotton gins burglarized

LAMESA — Two cotton gins were burglarized the past two nights in Lamesa with over $1,000 in equipment taken from each gin, the Lamesa Police Department reported.

The Jenkins Cotton Gin and the Adcock Cotton Gin were robbed of welders, cutting torches, hoses, gauges and a wide assortment of tools and electric drills, a police spokesman said.

Entry was apparently gained by prying off the gins' locks.

— Adopted a resolution in protest of the passage of a compromise natural gas bill in the U.S. House of Representatives. Known as the Smith bill (after Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa), the measure would continue federal gas-price control.

"I think it would be timely, since we are in oil country," County Judge Barbara Culver said in pushing for passage of the then-unwritten resolution.

"The people out here seem to oppose" the Smith bill, Judge Culver said. That bill passed in the House Feb. 5 by a 205-201 vote.

However, the defeated bill, promoted by Rep. Robert C. Krueger, D-Tex., would decontrol both old and new gas and provide incentives for the exploration of additional gas fields, the judge said.

Commissioner John Thomas expressed concern over the final wording of the resolution; "If we word this wrongly we could be in trouble. . . . It (the Smith bill) is weighted against the majors," but not against the independent producers of natural gas.

Former Midland couple suing Midland Memorial

A former Midland couple who alleged their daughter suffered permanent brain damage during the birth process on July 8, 1973, has filed a $1 million suit in federal court against Midland Memorial Hospital and three attending nurses.

The suit, filed by Odessa attorney James D. Cunningham, pits the couple, Susan K. Hayes and Larry Bruce Hayes, now of Ardmore, Okla., against the hospital and nurses Maudie Rains, Glinder O'Neal, and Leona Duffee.

The plaintiffs' petition, arguing negligence, claimed that the nurses failed to detect that Mrs. Hayes had diabetes mellitus, failed to perform urinalysis or fasting-blood sugar test, and failed to give her insulin.

In addition, the petition charged that the nurses, in the interval just prior to childbirth, administered an overdose of drugs to Mrs. Hayes, gave her a general anesthetic, and, contrary to a physician's advice, administered a drug intravenously that should have been given intramuscularly.

The suit, filed here Friday, became the third lawsuit growing out of the allegations that the Hayes' daughter, Michelle Lea Hayes, suffered brain damages and other injuries as a result of alleged medical malpractice and negligence.

The first, against Mrs. Hayes' obstetrician, Dr. Jesse L. Coleman, was asking for $400,000 in damages. However, that suit, filed in August 1974 in 142nd State District Court, was dismissed late in the following December after a reported $85,000 out-of-court settlement.

The second suit, for $1.25 million and also filed in state court, was dismissed without prejudice in late December — six months after it was filed.

That suit was similar to the latest filed in federal court.

A Department of Public Safety spokesman said Williams was southbound on FM 1212 and traveling at a high rate of speed when he attempted to turn onto FM 1208. The pickup missed the turn and rolled over four and one-half times, the spokesman said. No passengers were in the vehicle.

Graveside services for Williams will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at Evergreen Cemetery directed by Gilbreath Funeral Home of Stanton.

Williams was born Oct. 25, 1920, in Putnam. He married Vondell Davis in 1941 in Midland. He was a farmer and a veteran of World War II. He had lived in Martin County since 1945.

Survivors include the widow; a son, Wesley Weems Williams III of Midland; two daughters, Mrs. Pamela Fern Eames of San Antonio and Tracy Williams of Stanton; the mother, Mrs. Dewey Williams of Stanton, and two grandchildren.

Parks ignites Chaps to win over Odessa

BY TED BATTLES

For 36 minutes, Midland College's 94-90 victory over Odessa College was the kind of tooth picker that's easy on frayed nevers and for a while it seemed as though Chaparral Coach Chester Story might even finish the game with tie knotted and his shirt buttoned.

Oh sure, there was the stretch midway through the second half when Odessa whittled a 65-48 lead to 66-61 in a three minute stretch, but Tommy Parks came off the bench to ignite the Chaps back into an 86-23 budge, the same kind of advantage they had enjoyed most of the game.

With less than five minutes to go it was still a "no sweat" 88-79. "We wanted to contain them and not let them get behind us on the fast break," Story explained. "Once they start hitting those jumpers, they can wipe out a big lead in a hurry."

MC'S MAN to man press mixed in with a zone press worked beautifully in this respect for most of the game.

"I think our press hurt their continuity," noted Story. But a couple of missed inside opportunities off the four-corner slowdown offense and here came the Wranglers storming toward the wire.

Six-five Tony Forch, the former Houston Wheatley star, converted a three-point play to tie it at 88 and the MC barn was burning again with 2:12 left.

Scott Stamp, directing the attack as Park moved to the base line, found Tommy open underneath for two, but Forch tied it again at 90. Then Stamp, the 5-9 Carrollton Turner guard, playing his best game for the Chaps, split the lane for two with 1:10 left to vault Midland back into a 92-90 lead.

THEN WITH 25 seconds Stamp drew a foul while driving and converted both free throws to nail down a hectic 94-90 victory for Midland College, its second Western Junior College Conference victory on the home diggings.

By winning MC raised its WJCC record to 6-7 going into Thursday's date with Western Texas at Snyder and left the Chaps 16-9 for the season.

Odessa College skidded to 3-10 in conference and 6-13 for the season as Midland College swept the season's series.

Park, 11 of 20 from the field, had his customary big night with 30 points, but Stamp, Jackson Pace and surprise starter Jeff Jackson chipped in with thunderous nights as five Chaps crashed double figures.

IT WAS the first game Jackson, the 6-6 former Midland Lee starter, had started. "We thought some new blood might change our luck," Story said. J.J. responded with a 12 point night on five of seven from the field, but perhaps most important, he pulled down a game high of 14 rebounds.

Pace hit eight of 12 floor shots for 17 points and yanked down 11 rebounds. Sim Nickerson, almost obtrusive, always seemed to be there when needed, coming up with 15 points while hitting six of eight from the field.

Although OC trailed by as many as 15 points in the first half, the Wranglers came to life in the second half on the scoring of Forch, who wound up with 19 points, and 6-5 David Wood, who dumped in 23 after being snuffed out with four free throws in the first half.

WOOD, AN all-stater from Albuquerque, went eight of 10 from the field, most of them from under the rim, and it was mainly through his efforts that OC wiped out two-thirds of Midland's 65-48 lead midway through the second half.

Three baskets by Parks, however, sparked MC back to a 75-65 lead and took the heat off until the final three minutes. With the score 86-73, OC reeled off 15 straight points, sparked by Forch, Wood and Ronnie Ferrari, who finished with 12, to put the crowd through an emotional wringer once again.

Immerfall gives U.S. another Olympic medal

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Dan Immerfall, an unheralded 20-year-old speed skater from Madison, Wis., gave the United States its eighth medal and the Soviet Union and East Germany continued to pile up victories Tuesday at the 12th Winter Olympics.

Immerfall beat out his betterknown teammate Peter Mueller to take a bronze in the 500-meter event which was won by Russian ace Evgeniy Kulikov in 39.17 seconds, an Olympic record. Valeriy Muratov of the Soviet Union was second in 39.25 and Immerfall was third in 39.54.

Immerfall's effort provided the U.S. with its eighth medal of these Games, tying the number won by Americans four years ago at Sapporo and boosting U.S. hopes of besting its all-time total of 12 medals for a Winter Olympics set in 1932.

Five of the U.S. medals have come in speed skating—three of them won by Sheila Young of Detroit.

Mueller, 21, from Mequon, Wis., wound up fifth in 39.57. The final American entry, James Chapin of St. Louis, was 10th in 40.09.

The Soviet Union picked up another gold medal as Raisa Smetanina won the 10-kilometer (6.2 miles) cross country ski race and East Germany got one when Hans Rinn and Norbert Hahn took the double-seater luge event.

The results left the powerful Soviets atop the medal standings with 10 gold medals and 20 over-all, followed by the East Germans with six gold and 13 total medals and the upstart Americans with a gold, three silver and four bronze.

Today's competition also included completion of the men's giant slalom.

Helena Takalo of Finland, who won a gold medal Saturday in the five-kilometer cross country, took the silver medal at 10-kilometers and Russia's Galina Kulakova, deprived of a medal Monday on a doping charge, won the bronze.

Miss Smetanina, a 24-year-old teacher who finished second in the five-kilometer event, led virtually the entire race and was clocked in 30 minutes, 13.41 seconds. Miss Takalo was timed in 30:14.28 and Mrs. Kulakova, deprived of her bronze in the five-kilometer because she took ephedrine, an illegal drug, to combat a cold the night before the race, clocked 30:38.61.

Martha Rockwell of West Leabon, N.H., was the top American finisher, coming in 38th in 34:21.34.

Rinn and Hahn clocked a track record of 42.77 seconds on their first of two runs down the 870-meter run for an aggregate time of 1:25.80. Hans Bradner and Balthasar Schwarm of West Germany won the silver medal in 1:25.88 and Rudolf Schmid and Franz Schachner of Austria won the bronze in 1:25.91.

Meanwhile, with over 25 per cent of the Olympic athletes seeking legal remedies against colds and the flu, the Americans are staying healthy with their one-a-day habit.

That's one medal a day and the United States can get a double dose today when Phil Mahre takes his second run at the giant slalom and Peter Mueller goes for the gold in the 500-meter speed skating event.

Mahre and Mueller are each part of special social teams here, with Mahre joining his identical twin brother Steve on the slopes and Mueller joining his fiancée, Leah Polouso, on the speed skating surface.

Phil Mahre, of White Pass, Wash., finished fourth in 1 minute 45.58 seconds in the surprise performance of Monday's men's giant slalom. Gustavo Thoeni of Italy was the leader at the halfway point of the competition. Steve Mahre was 14th.

Mueller, of Madison, Wis., whose better half won a silver medal in the 1,000-meter race, faces a stiff challenge from world record holder Eugeni Kulikov of the Soviet Union in today's 500-meter sprint.

A medal by either American would continue the United States' run of a medal a day, which may or may not keep the doctor away but has kept spirits high in the American camp.

The electrifying dance team of Colleen O'Connor and Jim Mills led the United States' medal habit Monday with a wildly acclaimed freestyle program that helped give the duo from Colorado Springs, Colo., a bronze medal.

"I'm glad we carried the crowd," said Mills. "We try to give them excitement and bring them out of their seats. I'm glad we did that."

Also scheduled for today is the first phase of the women's figure skating, in which Dorothy Hamill of Riverside, Conn., and Diane de Leeuw of The Netherlands are favored to duel for the gold medal, and three Group A hockey games, including the United States' must game against Finland. If the winless Americans lose, the ice will crack under their bronze medal hopes.

The American Olympic team is in the pink physically, despite the pesky flu bug and colds that have claimed some 300 victims, including members of the powerful Czech hockey team, Austrian Alpine skier Anton Steiner and 1972 Olympic downhill champion Marie Theres Nadig of Switzerland, who was forced out of last Sunday's downhill by illness.

Hoosiers keep No. 1 cage rating over rest of field

By The Associated Press

Unbeaten Indiana received all but one first-place ballot and remained the overwhelming leader in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll. The lone dissenter cast his No. 1 vote for Rutgers, one of the nation's two other major undefeated teams.

Indiana and Rutgers both raised their season records to 20-0 with victories Monday night, Indiana beating Big Ten rival Michigan State 85-70 and Rutgers routing outmanned Delaware 110-87.

This week's poll, however, was based on games played through Sunday. In last week's action, Indiana pulled out a 72-67 overtime victory over Michigan while Rutgers posted triumphs over Princeton, West Virginia and Navy.

The nation's only other major unbeaten club, Western Michigan at 18-0, moved up two spots in the latest ratings to No. 15.

Indiana headed the list with 1,278 points on 63 first-place votes and one second from the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Marquette, 18-1 after beating Manhattan 78-59 and Detroit 68-66 last week, remained far back in second place with 1,093 points. North Carolina, 18-2 and Maryland, 17-3, moved up one place each to third and fourth, respectively, and Rutgers climbed from seventh to fifth.

Nevada-Las Vegas, third last week, dropped down to No. 7 after suffering its first loss of the season, at the hands of Pepperdine by a 93-91 score Friday night.

North Carolina received 950 points, Maryland 772 and Rutgers 756.

UCLA climbed from ninth place to sixth after upsetting Washington, which had been No. 6 last week but dropped down to No. 9. Nevada-Las Vegas was seventh, followed by Tennessee, eighth last week; Washington, and Notre Dame, 11th last week.

Alabama headed the Second Ten, followed by North Carolina State, Cincinnati, Missouri, Western Michigan, Michigan, St. John's, Virginia Tech and Centenary and North Texas State, tied for 19th.

Michigan is the lone newcomer to the list following its impressive showing against powerful Indiana, with Princeton—No. 15 last week—dropping off after losing to Rutgers 75-62.

Rebels to face Steers; Bulldogs try Bobcats

BY BOB DILLON

Midland Lee hopes to rebound tonight against the tough Big Spring Steers in Big Spring while Midland entertains the San Angelo Bobcats in District 5-4A basketball action.

While Lee tries to get back into the thick of things in the second half of the race, all eyes will be on Odessa where the Permian Panthers take on Abilene Cooper's Cougars in a big showdown battle. The winner of that one will take over sole possession of first place since both stand 3-0.

Odessa High, meanwhile, still looking for its first loop win and on a 15-game losing streak, has the dubious task of taking on Abilene High in Abilene in the other league game.

Lee was beaten, 63-51, in Abilene Friday and now stands 2-1 in the loop race and must win to get back into the second half playoff picture. After the trip to Big Spring, the Rebels face Permian in the Lee Gymnasium Friday in another key game.

Midland played Abilene High much closer - the second time around in losing, 54-45 Friday night. The first time around, the Eagles bombed the Purple Pack, 76-45, in the Key City.

San Angelo's Arnold McDowell continues to hold on to the scoring lead in 5-4A with 237 points in 10 league games for a 23.7 average. Next comes 6-8 Derrell Baxter of Abilene with 223 points and Lee's Junior Miller, is the No. 3 scorer with 205 points.

The Bobcats posted a 60-52 win over Midland in the first meeting between the two schools in San Angelo. Craig Dunn, 6-3 junior, paces

Midland's attack with 142 points and he came up with 19 against Abilene last Friday.

Central has a balanced attack with Steve Speer also scoring in the double figures for the Bobcats with 148 points in 10 loop outings. Mike Brown is scoring just under 10 per game for the Bobcats.

A preliminary junior varsity game between the Midland Bulldogs and Central JV starts at 6:15 p.m. followed by the varsity contest at 8 p.m.

Lee and Big Spring will play a triple-header with a sophomore tilt at 4:30 p.m. followed by the JV and varsity games.

The Rebels would have been in great shape with a victory over Cooper, but they now find themselves needing to win the rest of their games to have a shot at the second half crown.

Coach Jack Stephenson's Lee JV snapped an 18-game winning streak by the Cooper JV Friday and is now 8-2 in loop play compared to Cooper and Permian's 9-1 reading.

Benson paces Indiana past Michigan State by 85-70 in Big 10

By The Associated Press
Indiana center Kent Benson is the kind of player coaches drool over. He stands 6 feet 11, weighs a muscular 235 pounds. He's intimidating under the boards, mobile enough for any running game and as good a jump shooter as most forwards. Defensively, he's learning to hold his own at the Bobby Knight school of man-to-man combat, as fine a proving ground as you'll find anywhere.

If that ever happens, Benson and his Hoosier mates will be awfully tough to stop. As it is, they've got a pretty powerful juggernaut on the move—20-0 overall, 11-0 in the Big Ten, 30 straight conference victories and 50 consecutive regular season triumphs.

95-80, No. 11 Alabama edged Florida 79-73, No. 16 Michigan beat Ohio State 90-66 and No. 19 North Texas State was upset by Memphis State 111-93.

spurt midway through the second half after the Bonnies had pulled within three. Rickey Green scored 23 points and Wayman Britt added 20 to lead Michigan to its every victory over Ohio State. The Wolverines, who lost to Indiana 72-67 in overtime Saturday, are now 9-3 in Big Ten play and trail Indiana by 2 1/2 games.

He comes up with the clutch play, like the spectacular tap-in at the buzzer against Michigan Saturday which kept Indiana's unbeaten streak alive. He's improved steadily year by year, to the point where he's now the equal of any big man in the college ranks.

"It's like trying to move a mountain with Kent Benson inside," said a duly impressed Gus Ganakas, coach of Michigan State. "He's just like the Himalayas."

Tennessee stayed atop the Southeastern Conference by beating Vanderbilt behind 24 points from Ernie Grunfeld and 19 from Bernard King. The Vols are 10-2 in the SEC and Vandy is now 8-3.

Elsewhere, Jacky Dorsey scored 24 points and Georgia overcame an eight-point deficit in the second half to trim Kentucky 86-81 and Mississippi State nipped Auburn 75-74 in the Southeastern Conference; Otto Tucker's 22 points helped Illinois beat Wisconsin 70-59 and Purdue whipped Northwestern 86-58 in the Big Ten. John Long scored 23 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to carry Detroit past Buffalo 93-81, and Oral Roberts edged St. Louis 72-69.

And his attitude? A chapter president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Benson sounds more like a coach than a player. "I just go out and try to play hard night in and night out," Benson said Monday night after scoring a career-high 38 points to lead unbeaten, top-ranked Indiana to its 20th victory of the season, an 85-70 Big Ten triumph over Michigan State.

"Sometimes in the game of basketball, you can get yourself started out before the game even starts," said Benson, a junior. "But we have to learn to go out there and play without making any mistakes."

Alabama, meanwhile, stayed one-half game back at 9-2 by beating Florida behind Leon Douglas' 24 points. Florida committed a conference record 35 personal fouls, but Alabama could make just 25 of 47 free throw tries.

Adrian Dantley scored 27 points and Notre Dame pulled away from stubborn St. Bonaventure with a 20-9 spurt in the second half to top St. Bonaventure 77-62.

AAU Sullivan Award going to Olympic swim star Shaw
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The United States will be strong in Olympic men's swimming this summer says the young man who happens to be the best of the bunch right now.
"I don't know why they make the comparison," the 18-year-old Shaw commented at his award presentation. "We are totally different. Our strokes are different. We are different people...and...he's not swimming anymore."
Shaw scored 1,840 points in the Amateur Athletic Union balloting for the Sullivan Award which the AAU symbolizes as going to the outstanding amateur athlete in the nation.
Second place went to Bruce Jenner, the world decathlon record holder from San Jose, Calif., who polled 1,660 points. Women's freestyle swimming champion Shirley Babashoff took third with 1,553.

AAU Sullivan Award going to Olympic swim star Shaw
The news media, AAU board of governors and former Sullivan Award winners voted on the basis of five points for first, three for second and one for third.
Shaw, a freshman at Long Beach State University, said he expected tough competition in the Olympic trials from several swimmers but particularly from teammate Bruce Furniss, holder of the 200 meter freestyle record.
"I don't like to make predictions because I think it is ridiculous," the blond, 175-pound Shaw told news conference. "I will be working toward doing well in the Olympic trials."
Those trials, starting June 16, will be held in his home pool at Long Beach—the Belmont Plaza.
"That will be an advantage only because I won't have to fly anywhere to compete," said the 6-foot-1 star who swims between nine and 10 miles daily while in training.
His coach, Dick Jochums, commented, "He's been called a superstar but both Tim and I know he isn't a superstar. What makes him special is that he's willing to pay the price—two hours practice in the morning and two in the evening at full strength."
"He's a super hard worker—most deserving of this honor."
Shaw plans to try to make the United States Olympic team in the 200, 400 and 1,500 meter freestyle and if he makes it in the 200, he'd also be on a relay team.
Shaw became the 17th Californian to win the Sullivan Award, the late being basketball's Bill Walton in 1973.

USGS employes can keep interests

By PAUL HOUSTON

The Los Angeles Times WASHINGTON — Ten employes of the U.S. Geological Survey, accused by the General Accounting Office last March of real or potential conflicts of interest, have been allowed by the Interior Department to retain financial interests in oil and mining firms, the GAO said.

In a report to Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), the GAO said 37 other employes of the Geological Survey have divested themselves of conflicting interests and two more with conflict problems have left the agency.

The GAO, a congressional agency, listed without comment the reasons given by the Interior Department for allowing the 10 employes of the Geological Survey, an arm of the Interior Department, to retain their financial interests.

One unnamed employe, identified as an administrative geologist, was allowed to retain stock holdings in 13 companies engaged in coal mining, oil and gas exploration, gas distribution, energy stock investment and asbestos mining.

The GAO said Interior Department lawyers had approved the holdings because of "the minimal number of shares held, the lack of a direct relation to the employe's duties, or the fact that the federal government's interest was determined to be minimal."

A survey geologist was allowed to retain stock in 10 companies, including Exxon, Gulf Oil, Mobil Oil, Texaco, Continental Oil and Union Carbide, because the Interior Department "found that the securities were part of an inherited, irrevocable trust set up by the employe's aunt in the names of the employe's children."

The GAO said a department regulation, revised last Oct. 1, specifically permitted such a situation.

The department also allowed a district engineer for the Survey to keep his stock in a company which explores for oil in Australia because conflict-of-interest laws did not apply to activity outside the United States.

The GAO had said it felt that "holdings in foreign companies raised conflict of interest possibilities because of the survey's responsibility for administering the Earth Resources Observation System program."

Two Survey employes were allowed to retain mineral interests because the interests were acquired by their spouses apparently without any intent to circumvent conflict-of-interest rules.

Another employe was able to keep his mineral interest, the GAO said, because it was on private property and conflict-of-interest policy applied only to public lands.

The Interior Department permitted four employes to continue receiving retirement incomes from their former oil company employes. It was determined that the retirement plans were not tied to the companies' continued financial success.

The GAO said the department had implemented all seven GAO recommendations for improving the survey's financial disclosure system. In fact, the GAO said, the improvements were applied throughout the department.

Managers appointed

HOUSTON — Dowell Division of The Dow Chemical Co. has named R. L. Dickson, Joe P. Pavlich and John D. Woodward to newly-created positions of national account managers.

Dickson will remain at Tulsa, Pavlich at Houston and Woodward at Dallas, reports R. E. Hurst, Dowell sales vice president.

Dickson has been with Dowell since 1940 and has been in sales and special product management since 1950. Prior to his present Dallas assignment, Woodward spent 12 years in the Rocky Mountain area, the last eight as regional manager.

Pavlich has been special services representative in the Houston general office since 1971. Prior to that he was regional engineer at Houston for 12 years.

Properties to be sold

HOUSTON (AP) — Entex Inc. announced Monday it has reached agreement to acquire the retail gas distribution properties of Houston Natural Gas Corp.

Jackson C. Hinds, chairman and president of Entex, said the Houston Natural Gas properties serve about 360,000 retail gas customers in Houston and approximately 119 other cities and communities in Texas.

Entex serves some 739,000 retail customers in more than 400 cities and towns in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

With the exception of the immediate Houston area, the two companies serve different cities and communities, although both operate in the same general area of the Texas Gulf Coast, East Texas and South Texas.

Hinds said in a statement that the agreement provides for a 20-year gas supply arrangement with the Houston Pipe Line Co., which is the wholesale gas supplier to Houston Natural.

In Texas, the retail rates of both companies are regulated by municipalities and by the Texas Railroad Commission. The gas supply agreement between Entex and Houston Pipe Line also remains subject to approval and control by the Railroad Commission.

28 schedule 'D' firms to be tried

By JANIE PALESCHIC

AUSTIN — Twenty-eight of the 54 "Schedule D" oil and gas firms based in Texas are being taken to court by Attorney General John Hill at the request of the State securities Board.

State Securities Commissioner Roy

ENERGY OIL & GAS

W. Mauer said every Schedule D firm investigated by the state agency has turned out to be less than legitimate, but he believes there are some legal operations.

Mauer said that besides the injunctions being sought against the firms, seven indictments have been returned against individual, six of which were connected with the Rio Grande Oil Company.

Although two cease and desist orders have been issued by the Board in addition to the 28 injunctions sought, Mauer said an injunction is more effective in stopping the fraudulent promotions.

"With a cease and desist order, they usually just pick up and move out," Mauer said.

Data gathered from the Secretary of State's office and the State Auditor shows that 47,000 persons across the country invested close to $100 million by Mauer's estimate in the schemes between January, 1973, and September, 1975.

Companies reported to the U.S. Securities Exchange commission $70 million invested for drilling and testing and $7 million for completion, but Mauer said companies are not required to report completion figures.

The list shows a large number of investors from New Jersey and New York, states with little regulation, Mauer said, and also from California.

A tape played by Mauer for the State Securities Board gave an example of the sales pitch used by salesmen for the Rio Grande Oil Company, which has been sued by the state.

Representatives of the attorney general's office said the tape had already been played in open court, and the tape was made with the salesmen's knowledge.

Mesa finds Kansas oil

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — Mesa Petroleum Co. announced a gas discovery in Clark County Kan.

No. 1-1 Dailey had a calculated absolute open flow potential of 47 million cubic feet of gas per day from a basal Pennsylvanian sandstone at 5,200 feet.

On test, the well flowed 7 million cubic feet of gas per day with a tubing pressure of 1,125 pounds on a 3/4-inch choke.

Mesa owns 100 per cent interest in the well.

Mauer said lying to a prospective customer is common practice, but the cursing and drinking encouraged by the Rio Grande was not typical.

The salesmen claimed the production for Splendora Gas Field in Montgomery County was sold to Houston Natural Gas Company, but Mauer said Houston Natural Gas had never heard of the Schedule D company.

Mauer said Rio Grande was the only company he had heard of the kept an open bar for employes.

Mauer said he proposed to the SEC that Schedule D firms be abolished, and barring that, that a six-month moratorium be placed on any new firms.

Under proposed rule changes by the SEC, Mauer said a Schedule D operator would be required to notify the state securities commissioner before entering the state to do business, and all sales would be made by a broker.

The Schedule D firms operate under an exemption in federal regulations, but Mauer thinks they must register in Texas under state law.

Wildcat set in King area

Gus Edwards of Abilene plans to drill as a 6,400-foot wildcat in North King County, his No. 3 Floyce Masterson.

Drillsite, one mile northeast of his recent Atoka gas discovery, is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 1, H&GN survey, 1 1/2 miles northeast of Guthrie. Ground elevation is 1,782 feet.

Trustees will hold interviews

Midland public school trustees will meet in special session at 7 p.m. Thursday to hold interviews with applicants.

The meeting, scheduled to be held in the district's administration building, will be conducted in executive session, as provided by law when considering personnel.

Drug possession charges filed

Charges of felony possession of a controlled substance have been filed against a 34-year-old Midland man who was stopped on a traffic violation by Trooper R. E. Petty, Justice of the Peace Robert H. Pine said.

Petty said he found one shot paper of a substance believed to be heroin when he stopped Alfredo Olgin Hernandez of 1006 N. Terrell St., east of Holiday Hill Road on Interstate 20 at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Pine set bond at $25,000, he said.

Prolific discovery potentials

A prolific gas extender has been completed in Loving County and outposts have been staked in Crane and Ward County fields.

Clayton W. Williams Jr., Midland, has completed No. 2 Gataga Gas Unit as a 1 1/4-mile southwest extension to Fusselman production in the Moore-Hooper field of Loving County, one mile south of Mentone.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 883.721 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, from open hole at 17,626-18,784 feet.

It has a 7 1/2-inch liner hung from 11,492-17,626 feet.

Location is 1,714 feet from northeast and 1,320 feet from southeast lines of section 81, block 1, W&NW survey, abstract 195, one mile south of Mentone.

WARDSITE Gulf Oil Corp. will drill No. 3-D P. C. Hill as a one-mile northeast outpost to Fusselman gas production in the Quito field of Ward County, six miles north of Barstow.

The test is slated to 17,500 feet, and spots 1,220 feet from northwest and southwest lines of section 224, block 34, H&TC survey.

CRANE PROJECT Watson & Cox Oil & Gas, operating from Midland, accounted for a Crane County test. It is No. 1 J. B. Tubb Estate, scheduled as a 1 1/4-mile east outpost to the three-well Devonian gas sector of the Craraw field of Ward.

Drillsite for the project is 1,050 feet from south and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 9, block B-20, PSL survey, 2 1/2 miles northwest of Crane. Planned depth is 6,300 feet.

Schmitt retires

G. T. "Ted" Schmitt of Oklahoma City, formerly of Midland, has announced his retirement after 24 years with Sohio Petroleum Co. — effective March 1.

Schmitt is area geologist for the Mid-Continent and Rocky Mountain Division.

He was employed by Sohio as a geologist in 1952 and was assigned to the Abilene District office. Since then he has held many responsible positions in the Midland Exploration office, foreign operations, Headquarters Special Studies Group and in the Mid-Continent and Rocky Mountain Division.

Permits requested

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Two more oil companies, Shell and Exxon, have applied for permits to drill exploratory oil and gas wells in the Cortes Banks off San Diego.

A spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Los Angeles confirmed Friday that it is reviewing the applications. Gulf Oil applied for drilling permits late last year.

Other permits must be obtained from the federal Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Geological Survey before drilling can begin, an Army spokesman said.

The rush for drilling permits began after the federal government sold leases to offshore oil tracts in the Cortes Banks, 100 miles off the coast of San Diego. An exploratory well to study sediment deposits has been financed by a consortium of oil companies.

Queen test scheduled

Read & Stevens, Inc. of Roswell will drill No. 2 Lucky Lake, a 1,850-foot undesignated Queen test in Chaves County, N.M., 20 miles southeast of Hagerman.

Location is 660 feet from south and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 16-15a-29e, 3/4 mile northwest of the Lucky Lake, South (Queen oil and gas) field.

Gas hearing set March 16

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The railroad commission has scheduled a March 16 hearing for Lone Star Gas Co. to show why natural gas deliveries from LoVaca Gathering Co. should not be halted.

Lo-Vaca contends that Lone Star has failed to pay $1,078,473 that it owes Lo-Vaca.

Nolan, Stonewall get pair of explorations

A wildcat site has been staked in Nolan County and a Stonewall strike drew an offset location.

Suburban Propane Gas Corp., operating from Ozona, filed application to drill a 7,000-foot venture in Nolan, nine miles south of Sweetwater. It is No. 1 F. A. Pierce.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 860 feet from west lines of section 38, block X, T&P survey, 3/4 mile southeast of the depleted Featherstone (Strawn) oil field and 2 1/2 miles east of the Lake Trammell field.

It is on the site of R. L. Burns Corp. No. 1 Tommie Pierce, staked as a 7,100-foot wildcat in 1973, but which was never drilled.

STONEWALL TEST

Markay Oil & Gas Co. of Midland, staked site for a 1/2-mile northwest offset to the one-well Jud, West (conglomerate) gas field of Stonewall County, 12 miles north and slightly east of Old Glory. It is No. 1 Rayne Speck.

Drillsite is 200 feet from south and 2,000 feet from most southerly west lines of Sterling McGraw survey 59. Planned depth is 5,900 feet.

The discovery, Alvin C. Hope No. 3 Ira A. Short was completed in July, 1975, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 5 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 5,794-5,800 feet.

POOCH OR PEDIGREE is the question. Is a dog without a title as elegant your setter? The Westminster Kennel Dog Show is now under way in New York and some of these dogs are in the show. The others are from an ASPCA kennel. Can you tell the well-bred dogs from the mutts? The seven pooches from the ASPCA kennel are in the left vertical row and the second horizontal row. The remaining dogs are in the show.

Accounts vary on Nixon words

By KENNETH REICH
The Los Angeles Times
LOS ANGELES — Two men who were present at a White House meeting with then-President Richard M. Nixon during the time he was seeking to dissuade House members from impeaching him confirmed Monday that Nixon had spoken of his capability of killing millions of people in a few minutes.
Rep. Charles Rose (D-N.C.) and former Rep. Clem McSpadden (D-Okla.), who was serving in Congress when the meeting was held, had memories of what Nixon said that were slightly different from the account Sen. Alan Cranston (D-Calif.) had related second-hand over the weekend.
Rose said he recalled Nixon as saying, "I can go in my office and pick up the telephone and in 25 minutes, millions of people will be dead."
McSpadden recalled Nixon as saying, "I can pick up the phone and 70 million Russians can be killed in 20 minutes."
Cranston, who was not present at the meeting, had said Friday and Saturday that he understood the quote was: "At any moment, I could go in the other room and press a button and 20 minutes later 60 million people would be dead."

Cranston did not hear about what Nixon had said until 1974, although the meeting in question took place in November 1973.
According to Rose and McSpadden, about 30 Southern Democrats were present, including Reps. George Mahon of Texas, Mendel Davis of South Carolina, Gillis Long of Louisiana and Dawson Mathis and Andrew Young of Georgia. None of the others could be reached for comment Monday.
Rose and McSpadden, in telephone interviews, both said that the Nixon observation did not seem to be a threat, but that it came out of context with the rest of the conversation and that they had viewed it as peculiar.
"My concern at the time," Rose said, "was why he found it necessary to make the statement at all."
McSpadden, reached at his home in Tulsa, said that he recalled having just asked Nixon, "What is the Communist threat, if any, worldwide?" when Nixon abruptly made the comment.
"It was a very awesome thing to me, him putting this just in terms of what I can do," the former congressman said. "That's what scared me."
In San Clemente, Nixon aides refused to accept calls asking for comment from the former President.

Composer Percy Faith dies of cancer at 65

The Los Angeles Times
VAN NUYS, Calif. — Percy Faith, who as a young student was forced to abandon pursuit of a concert pianist's career and who became a world famous popular music composer, conductor and arranger, died of cancer Monday at Valley Presbyterian Hospital here. He was 67.
Born in Toronto, Faith began as an arranger-conductor for Canadian radio in the early 1930s, moving to this country in 1940 to become prominent on radio shows here.
His first film scoring effort, "Love Me or Leave Me" in 1955, brought him an Academy Award nomination. He received other awards for his albums.
When he was an 18-year-old student at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, the clothing of his 3-year-old sister caught fire. Faith beat out the flames with his hands, which were so burned he could not continue toward his goal as a concert pianist.

In 1950, he joined Columbia Records as musical director of the popular division and has more than 45 of his albums in that company's catalogue.
His arrangements of "Because of You," "Cold, Cold Heart" and "From Rags to Riches" helped singer Tony Bennett win three gold records and Faith's own composition, "My Heart Cries For You," won a gold record while launching the singing career of Guy Mitchell.
His first film scoring effort, "Love Me or Leave Me" in 1955, brought him an Academy Award nomination. He received other awards for his albums.
When he was an 18-year-old student at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, the clothing of his 3-year-old sister caught fire. Faith beat out the flames with his hands, which were so burned he could not continue toward his goal as a concert pianist.
Faith concentrated on composition and orchestration, eventually becoming an orchestra leader in the Toronto area.
He leaves his widow, Mary (Dolly); a daughter, Marilyn Leonard, and four grandchildren.
Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday in Inglewood, Calif.
The family asked that in lieu of flowers, donations be made to the American Cancer Society or Heart Fund.

West braces for more rain

By The Associated Press
Already battered by widespread flooding and mudslides, California, Nevada and Baja California braced for more rain today, while Kansas sighed with relief that a crop-threatening windstorm had abated.
In California's central San Joaquin Valley farmers welcomed the end of the 10-month drought. Fresno recorded 4.22 inches of rain for the season Monday, compared to a normal 5.85.
The western rains have been pouring intermittently for a week and have claimed two lives in a Tijuana, Mexico, mudslide.
Several roads in Las Vegas were swollen with water Monday although the weather bureau said the worst of the storm apparently had passed. By Monday, Las Vegas had received 2.45 inches of rain, 65 per cent of the normal rainfall for the area in an entire year.
Los Angeles got three inches of rain during the storm.
