Wholesale prices stable in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices remained stable in January as another big drop in farm prices offset increases for industrial goods, the government said today.

The Labor Department said prices actually rose four-tenths of a per cent last month but after adjustment for seasonal variations, the wholesale price index was unchanged. Since rising 1.8 per cent in October, wholesale prices showed no change in November and declined an adjusted four-tenths of a per cent in December. Over the past three months, they have declined at an adjusted annual rate of 1.7 per cent.

This continued moderation of inflationary pressures and the report last week of a sharp drop in the nation's unemployment rate gives support to the Ford administration's forecast of continued economic recovery in the new year.

It also offered consumers the prospect of an easing in retail prices in the coming months, as trends in wholesale prices usually are reflected later at the retail level. In January, the wholesale price index for farm products, processed foods and feeds fell 1.8 per cent following declines of 2.5 per cent in December and 1.2 per cent in November.

The decline in agricultural products offset a four-tenths of a per cent increase in industrial commodities.

Over the past 12 months, wholesale prices were up 4.4 per cent. The index stood at 179.4, meaning that it cost $179.40 to purchase a variety of goods that sold at wholesale for $100 in the 1967 base period.

Mahon: more restraints needed to avoid nation's fiscal collapse

PLAINVIEW — U.S. Rep. George Mahon has predicted the nation's "fiscal collapse is inevitable" if leaders continue to initiate new programs and expand old ones.

Speaking at a press conference here during Thursday's "George Mahon Day," the congressman was critical of big spending in government.

"We need more restraints, and the better informed the people are, the more insistent they will be for reductions," he said.

Mahon, who chairs the House Appropriations Committee, said that committee on various occasions has reduced the President's budget.

Therefore, he contended, the big spending comes from congressional committees other than appropriations.

The representative, completing his 42nd year in Congress, said in the conference he expects cuts in the federal defense budget this year. Russia is expanding its defenses more rapidly than the U.S., he said, but overall American military power is "equal to or superior with Russian military and that must continue."

Mahon added, however, maintaining U.S. military strength can be accomplished with some small budget cuts. He told reporters he is "for a strong defense at the lowest possible cost."

Continuing on the subject of global power, he charged Secretary of State Henry Kissinger with endangering U.S. world leadership.

Mahon described the secretary as a "brilliant but controversial man with an impossible job, but I feel he has gone a little too far to come to agreement with the Soviet Union."

He said he feels Kissinger is jeopardizing United States armament and defense leadership to appease the Soviets.

Reagan plans to follow Ford's lead on disclosure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he will release some more information about his finances after President Ford issued a financial report putting his family's net worth at $323,489.

Reagan's new report could confirm what public records and other sources already show: Reagan is a millionaire and one of the wealthiest candidates this year.

After Ford made public his financial statement Thursday, Reagan said he would "have some additional information" to bring up to date the limited financial report he filed in February 1975 as required by California law for officials when they leave office. Reagan is a former two-term governor of California.

"There has been no change in my financial situation since" then, he said. He did not say when the new information will be released.

Public records show Reagan owns three pieces of California real estate with a total market value of $2,363,000. And a source close to Reagan described as "pretty accurate" a report by the San Francisco Examiner that estimated Reagan's 1975 earnings at $700,000 from lectures, his radio show and newspaper columns.

Meanwhile, Common Cause, which describes itself as the citizen's lobby, released financial data about nine Democratic candidates. The only professed millionaire among them was Gov. Milton A. Shapp of Pennsylvania, with assets estimated at $2.8 million.

Sargent Shriver listed his total assets at $135,000 as of Aug. 31, 1975, but gave no information on his wife, the former Eunice Kennedy, who is reported to share in Kennedy family trusts.

The Ford financial statement covering the last 10 years said the President's net worth has increased by about $67,000 since he was nominated October 1973 to become vice president. Most of that reflected increased real estate values on four homes the Fords own or in which they have an interest.

The statement also said the Fords aren't saving any money in their own names despite the President's annual salary and expense allowance. Nessen said the President has purchased U.S. Savings Bonds in the names of his four children.

The figures show the first family paid $56,296 in federal income taxes in 1974 on a taxable income of $128,472. Federal income taxes on that amount of income normally would be higher than what Ford reported. White House aides said they would seek an explanation from Ford's tax accountant but suggested that because the President's income rose by some $55,000 in 1974, he may have taken advantage of the tax law's income averaging provisions.

Ford's net worth was given at $323,489, with liabilities of $1,200 in "general bills outstanding." In 1973, when Ford was nominated for vice president, he listed assets of $261,078, with $4,700 in liabilities.

No net asset figures were discernible in reports filed by Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, a Democrat, in his home state. Following the reporting guidelines set by state law, the form gives amounts in terms of "over" or "under" $1,000 or $10,000. Totals of income, assets or liabilities are given.

Wallace lists sources of income including royalties from Wallace Campaign Inc., of over $10,000. He has demanded that his campaign organization pay him royalties for the use of his name on buttons and pictures. The only asset listed is a home in the range of $50,000 to $250,000. Wallace also lists debts to three banks in the range between $25,000 and $50,000.

Before Reagan said he would disclose more of his financial data,

Peter Kaye, spokesman for the President Ford Committee, said the question of personal financial disclosure will be a campaign issue.

"We think Reagan ought to supply financial information," Kaye said. Shapp has disclosed estimated assets for 1974 as $2,812,096. Income in 1974 for Shapp and his wife was reported as $213,349, on which he paid $34,896 in federal income tax.

Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter has disclosed his and his wife's assets as of Dec. 31, 1974, as $588,698. This includes his peanut farm and Carter's Warehouse, both in Plains, Ga.

Carter reported adjusted gross income of $97,334 for 1974 on which he paid $26,153 in federal income tax.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., in a statement of assets as of April 1, 1975, he listed $258,000. He also reported taxable income of 1974 of $62,678 and income taxes of $14,678.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., has revealed his assets at the end of 1975 as $199,000. He says his income for the year was $54,608 and he paid federal taxes of $18,549.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., has reported assets as of May 20, 1975, as $188,775. He lists joint income for himself and his wife for 1974 as $74,608 on which $20,212 in federal income tax was paid.

Shriver, in addition to listing holdings of $135,000 as of Aug. 31, 1975, reported adjusted gross income of $127,054 and taxable income of $77,390 for 1974, on which $41,041 in federal taxes was paid.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., listed his net worth as $115,400 in a report required by the Washington State Public Disclosure Commission.

Jackson says he earned $77,061 in 1974 and paid federal taxes of $8,259, but he follows a policy of giving all income from honoraria to charitable and educational causes and listed $34,316 (Continued on Page 2A)

Opera star Lily Pons dies today in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Retired international opera star Lily Pons died today in a Dallas hospital which she entered Jan. 11. She was 71.

Death spurs violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Irish Republican Army and its supporters struck back with a rash of arson, bombing and shooting across Northern Ireland in retaliation for the death of hunger striker Frank Stagg in a British jail.

Police said there were about 100 incidents of violence Thursday night. Two men were killed, and 13 persons were injured.

Stagg's body was being flown today to the Irish Republic for burial in his native County Mayo. Hundreds of extra police were called to Dublin to guard against trouble, and more were to be stationed along the 180-mile route to Ballina, his home town.

The 34-year-old convicted terrorist died early Thursday in Wakefield Jail after a 61-day hunger strike. He was serving a 10-year sentence for bombings in Coventry and was demanding transfer to a jail in Northern Ireland.

Cause of Miss Pons' death was not disclosed.

A native of France, the coloratura soprano had lived in a swank Dallas apartment for the past 15 years following a spectacular career as one of the world's most celebrated divas of the operatic stage.

She made her debut in this country with the Metropolitan Opera in New York which she left in 1956. She was often seen on battlefront tours during World War II.

When she left New York in 1961 she denied the move signaled retirement, saying, "Retirement doesn't exist for me. Retirement for me is death. Now I want to live a little."

She said she chose Dallas as her new home because "I made many friends here through the years. Also, Dallas is in the South. The people in this part of the country are the people I like. I like the way they think and behave. They are real people..."

After moving to Dallas she became active in affairs of the Dallas Civic Opera and the Dallas Symphony.

Miss Pons was born in Cannes, France, making her first American appearance as "Lucia" in New York in 1931.

Survivors include a sister, Clara Girardot, and a niece, Claire Lily Girardot, both of France.

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Self-proclaimed "young revolutionaries" announced they overthrew the government of Gen. Murtala Muhammed today because of "difficulties" with his seven-month-old regime. There were unconfirmed reports that Muhammed and several other persons were killed.

However, a U.S. official in Lagos said in a telephone conversation with The Associated Press in Washington that the rebels, who announced the coup over the radio, may have control of the state radio station only, and not the entire country.

Actor Sal Mineo stabbed to death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sal Mineo, known as "The Switchblade Kid" for his many film roles as a teenage tough, has been stabbed to death outside his Hollywood apartment house, authorities said.

Witnesses told police they heard screams and saw a man with long, blond hair running from the alley where Mineo was killed Thursday night.

Neighbors found the 37-year-old actor lying face-up in a pool of blood about 20 feet from a parking area behind his apartment, police said. He had been stabbed in the chest.

Bill Jones, a neighbor in the moderately expensive apartments near the Sunset Strip, said, "We heard about three yells. The last yell was 'Help.' We rushed out and saw Sal lying face-up, breathing really hard. 'He was like in a daze, trying to breathe. He didn't say anything.'"

Another neighbor, Mary Chance, 21, said, "It was too quiet. Then all of a sudden those screams, we heard those screams."

Neighbors said Mineo was quiet and kept to himself.

Authorities said the actor apparently lived alone and that his family resides in New York.

Mineo was in rehearsal for a starring role in "P.S. Your Cat Is Dead," a play scheduled to open next week at the Westwood Playhouse.

Recent television appearances by the baby-faced actor included roles in the Ellery Queen and Joe Forrester

Winter of 1775 low point in American revolution

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

"Now," penned Thomas Paine in the winter of 1775, "is the seed-time of continental union, faith and honor." But in that first season of Revolution, prospects for the harvest looked poor.

Fired with enthusiasm for their cause, and successful on the battlefield at Lexington, Concord and Ticonderoga, the American rebels were full of confidence in their Revolution. But winter's freezing temperatures began to cool the fires of patriotism.

Before departing Philadelphia in June 1775 to take command of the Army surrounding the British in Boston, George Washington had written to his wife: "I shall rely ... on that Providence which has heretofore preserved and been bountiful to me, not doubting but that I shall return safe to you in the fall."

By September he'd been disabused of such notions. To the Continental Congress in Philadelphia he wrote on Sept. 21: "My situation is inexpressibly distressing, to see the winter fast approaching upon a naked army, the time of their service within a few weeks of expiring, and no provision yet made for such important events." There was money neither for food nor pay, he said, "and the greater part of the troops are in a state not far from mutiny."

Meanwhile, one of the great fiascos of the Revolution was beginning — the attempt by the colonists to capture Canada from the British to secure the Canadians as allies and deny to the Redcoats a base of operations on America's northern frontier.

Quebec, built on hills overlooking the St. Lawrence, was too strong a fortress for the Americans to take, and the rigors of winter had weakened them. More than half the American force of 800 men was captured. Sixty others were killed in the battle.

Back in Boston it wasn't going much better. Washington's army, 13,743 strong in early July, was down to 5,582 in late December. And it was strung out along a dozen miles of earthworks which kept 10,000 Redcoats bottled up, warm and comfortable, in the besieged city. The Americans didn't have the strength to fight and the British, fortunately, didn't want to either.

However, help was on the way. In Philadelphia, on Jan. 10, Paine published "Common Sense," a pamphlet that inspired the colonists to independence, and somewhere between Ticonderoga and Boston an overweight bookseller was puffing up Washington's rescue.

Col. Henry Knox, in command of some oxen, horses and teamsters, arrived in Boston on Jan. 18 with 59 pieces of heavy artillery captured from the British the previous summer at Ticonderoga.

On March 2 the rebels began a bombardment. Two days later, under cover of darkness and fog, they dug in, with cannon, on Dorchester Heights, overlooking Boston from the south.

American batteries now menaced the city. Yankee guns could hit the British and their fleet below but English weapons couldn't hit the American positions above.

By March 8 the British commander, Maj. Gen. William Howe, saw his position could not be defended. He offered to abandon Boston without burning it down, if Washington would allow him to withdraw unimpeded. Washington agreed and the Redcoats departed by ship on March 17, bound for Nova Scotia. Eventually they would sail for New York and, with reinforcements, form an army of 25,000.

Washington wrote to his brother that he could "scarce forbear lamenting my disappointment" at the lack of a decisive engagement on a field so favorable to the colonies. But the Congress and others, perhaps sharing the optimism of the Norfolk newspaperman, hailed Boston's liberation as a great victory.

Russians lack for luxuries

MOSCOW (AP) — A Russian sable or mink coat is easy to find in a fur salon on Fifth Avenue in New York, but impossible to locate in a fur shop on Gorky Street in Moscow.

Though staggeringly expensive, Russian caviar can be bought with little trouble in the West. Russians say it is extremely difficult to find in their own country.

The quality Russian brands of Vodka — Stolichnaya and Moskovskaya — are sold in many large liquor stores in the United States. Vodka lovers here haven't been able to buy them in their stores for five years.

These luxury goods are uniquely Russian, but they and many others have virtually vanished from Soviet shelves.

Instead, the caviar, vodka, furs and other goods are sent to the West in exchange for hard currency which will buy the advanced machinery and technology the Soviet Union lacks.

Though not openly critical, many Russians are not happy that the goods most identified with the history and culture of their country are nowhere to be found.

"People are not satisfied with this policy," said one Soviet. "It would be better to increase the price for us and let us buy these things than send them out of the Soviet Union."

In fact, authorities did double the price of such luxury goods as caviar, furs and jewelry two years ago. But the hiked prices are academic, since many of the items are almost nonexistent in Russian stores.

A Soviet woman, looking at advertisements of Russian furs in an American fashion magazine, recalled her childhood, when fur pelts, hats and collars were stacked in huge piles in shops.

"But then most people didn't have money to buy them. Now we have the money but not the furs," she said.

At the Pushkinsky state fur farm near Moscow, said to be the biggest of its kind in the world, 110,000 sables, minks and foxes are raised each year for export.

According to official statistics, 58.6 million rubles — $87.7 million — worth of furs were sent outside the country in 1974.

Russians also remember nostalgically when they were able to smear caviar on bread for breakfast in the days after World War II or buy as much caviar as they wanted for nine rubles a kilo — 2.2 pounds.

Now, thanks to the official thirst for hard currency, coupled with pollution and overfishing, black caviar has all but vanished from the menu of the average Russian and is only occasionally available in restaurants. When it can be found, it costs 45 rubles — $59 — a kilo.

Crab, another national delicacy, used to be available here for the asking. Now it's rare, because most of it goes abroad.

Giant cake salutes Bicentennial

By EARL ARONSON

AP Newsfeatures
A 20-foot cake with a 36-foot diameter covered with flowers in Gardens of the World is a salute to America's 200th birthday from Florida's Cypress Gardens.
The giant cake was fashioned by Bob Kundtz, chief horticulturist, who was the mainspring in developing Gardens of the World for Cypress owner Richard Pope. It was Pope who began transforming the famed gardens from swampland 40 years ago.
"Happy Birthday America," proclaims the huge cake made of candles, flowers and plants, emphasizing roses, begonias and Boston fern. As the seasons change, so will some plants in containers. There will be lilies for Easter.

"Cypress Gardens is a 365 day-a-year flower show," says Kundtz, who supervises 16 greenhouses and who scours the world with Mr. and Mrs. Pope for new items. "We have the largest number of general plants of any garden in the world. We are constantly in search for new and wonderful things."
We were told it was not unusual for "Pope's People" to stay up all night during cold spells to protect plants. One of Kundtz's prides is the 27-foot Mediterranean Falls that spills 7,000 gallons of recycled water per minute into pools and streams. The stream beds are made of fibre glass covered with a foam. Sand tossed into the water provides color, and 600 tons of porous rock give the falls and streams a natural appearance.

Kundtz's next project will be a tropical rain garden, he said, pointing to a fern mass from Brazil, with orchids and philodendrons adding to the beauty.

The Gardens of the World are just that. The Italian Garden has tiles designed, painted and fired at Cypress and spectacular fountains. An All-American Rose Garden features 23 award winning varieties.

The Olde English Courtyard has a formal garden surrounded by antique brick. The Irish planting includes rock and fences, shamrocks, and two Blarney Stone replicas.

Trees of Australia has eucalyptus. Palm Lane features 18 different kinds and shapes. There is a Dutch Windmill 50 feet tall and a Grecian stage built as a set for a TV show.

One area has a "Grey Garden," designed by Pope with Dusty Miller, variegated privet, taxus sage, euonymus and lily turf.

Gardens of the World is available for parties, with guests sampling foods from distant lands along with the plantings. At the Dutch Garden you may nibble cheese; antipasto at the Italian spot, sip Irish coffee at its proper place.

Soon a southern mansion will become a Sports Hall of Fame on a hillside overlooking the gardens and Lake Eloise. It will be a tribute from Pope, Kundtz explains, to John A. Snievely, who was a pioneer in Florida's citrus industry.

Recently returned from a trip to Australia and New Zealand, Kundtz related that seedlings go into the nursery and greenhouses for development.

"Mrs. Pope," he said, "determined that Oregon lilies do well at Winter Haven so we use lots of them for color. We also go on knowledge gained from old timers and people who have been around the gardens for a while. We bring back all kinds of things from all over the world. Some varieties have never been grown before in Florida.

"Frequently these foreign varieties don't know any better and they'll just grow. Especially if they are seeds. I grow a lot of plants where they do not normally grow."

Cypress Gardens' weather stations are checked at least three times daily. The staff is ready to turn on the heaters (fuel cost $20,000 a year) if necessary.

Catherine Serrurier

Midland girl invited to give paper

ODESSA — Catherine Serrurier of Midland, senior student at The University of Texas-Permian Basin, has been invited to present her paper on "A Research of Women's Studies in Higher Education" at the annual meeting of the Western Social Science Association.

The group will meet April 29-May 1 at Arizona State University in Tempe.

Mrs. Serrurier, wife of Richard Serrurier and mother of three children, is the only undergraduate invited to make presentation at the session.

Mrs. Serrurier is to receive a bachelor's degree in humanities at the end of the spring semester. She has been on either the Dean's or President's List each semester for her scholastic excellence. She plans to study for a master's degree in American studies at UTPB.

University song has new version

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania State University has a new, "nonsexist" version of its 75-year-old Alma Mater.

Recognizing that there are thousands of faithful students and alumnae who never "stood at boyhood's gate" and at no time were "molded into men," the university has revised the song.

The "boyhood's gate" mentioned in the song — "When we stood at boyhood's gate, shapeless in the hands of fate" — has been forever locked, replaced by the more equitable "childhood's gate."

And no longer will sons — and daughters — of Alma Mater proclaim in song: "Thou didst mold us, dear old State, into men, into men."

The words have been changed to read: "Thou didst mold us, dear old State, dear old State, dear old State."

Dull lives need touch of color and design

By JEANNETTE BRANIN
Copley News Service

A sense of the theater...that's the missing ingredient in lives that are dull, personalities that are ineffectual and conditions that are frustrating, says Bob Anderson.

"Drama is what we need in this life, the ability to come on strong, to project our personalities," he said in an interview. "Color, the judicious and yet daring selection of color, can accomplish it all."

Anderson, who has offices in Bel Air, Calif., calls himself "the world's first and only designologist." He says he is an interior designer who goes a giant step farther by designing homes from the ground up and providing them with an atmosphere that becomes an aura for the owner.

Anderson applauded the mayor of Vallejo, Calif., Florence Douglas, who successfully campaigned to have the cranes and buildings on Mare Island, location of one of the nation's largest Navy shipyards, painted yellow, orange, blue, lilac and, even, pink. "She brought a sense of joy to the town," he said.

In a recent conference with Margaret Cahill, who, he said, is chairman of the Las Vegas City Beautification Committee, Anderson initiated a grass-roots campaign to plant "the great stretches of nothing" between the airport and the city.

"But it's not so much what I am doing on a tour of cities, it's why I am doing it."

"We need color and design in our society."

"A lack of proper color and design is, in part, responsible for our high divorce rate, juvenile delinquency, school dropouts, soaring crime rates."

"I even assert that dull and uninspiring surroundings have a lot to do with poor-quality products and services, with mental and physical illnesses."

Anderson practices what he preaches. He dresses vibrantly in suits with the House of Dior label. He was wearing a velvet-black jacket with wide chalk stripes and a lustrous coral-pink shirt.

"Dullness, the lack of daring, is an anathema to me. It brings unhappiness to many," he said.

"Recently I was quoted saying that color dramatics could save marriages and a woman called me and said, 'It didn't save mine.'

WOMEN'S NEWS

"I had the bedroom redone in pink and blue with ruffles and I redecorated the living room in chinoiserie, and my husband still left."

"I had to tell her that pink and blue are not intriguing colors. She should have had lots of red or coral in the bedroom, white and green, colors of intrigue and excitement."

Anderson attributes certain qualities to colors that influence us psychologically. Yellow and indigo blue had high spiritual qualities, he said; red, orange and coral are "action colors," full of vitality.

Green and violet are "atavistic" colors, he said. "Green is animalistic, recalling the jungle, and violet reminds us of protective shadows at dawn and at sunset."

Anderson says he is convinced that men and women can control their environments, even their destinies, through effective color, design and arrangements.

"I'm writing a book about it. It will urge audacity, with taste. It will encourage everyone to come on stage, front and center, with dramatic impact."

Letter gets real results

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Seven-year-old Laurie Vermillion recently wrote a letter to the congressman of her district, Rep. Bill Ketchum, asking the 18th district congressional representative for an American flag that had flown over the U.S. Capitol in Washington.

And she got results. Not only did she get the flag, but it was delivered in person by Ketchum. Now it flies over the Frank West Grade School in Bakersfield.

Ran Wilde to perform

Music for the formal 26th annual Charity Ball to be held by the Junior League of Midland, Inc., at 8 p.m. Monday in Midland Country Club will be the Ran Wilde Orchestra in the main ballroom.

Playing in the grill for the "George Washington Ball" will be Jerry Burgess. Performing in the tavern will be "Jubal" combo from Abilene, and, in the Ladies' 19th Hole, the "Topics," three-piece musical group from Abilene.

In addition to Wilde at the piano, every member of the orchestra is an accomplished musician. Wilde offers sound musicianship, creative arrangements and novelty tunes, running the gamut from social music, old standards, show tunes, Latin music and rock and soul.

The orchestra has performed for balls throughout Texas and has been featured on NBC, ABC and CBS networks on their coast to coast broadcasts.

Eliminate white line

When you lengthen overalls for fast growing youngsters, a white line on the fabric is usually the result. To eliminate this, rub the line with blue crayon and press with a warm iron. This trick also works on dresses if the crayon shade and fabric can be matched closely.

Fannin school has new flags

Fannin Elementary School now has two new flags, United States and Texas, and standards, thanks to the efforts of the school's Junior American Citizens Club and the help and generosity of the Col. Theunis Dey Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, sponsor of the JAC group.

The DAR chapter had contributed $25 and loaned the club $50 toward the purchase of Bicentennial emblems to be sold by JAC's. Profits from the sales were used to purchase the flags and standards placed in the Fannin cafeteria.

A check repaying the loan was presented Mrs. Solon P. Crain, regent, at a meeting of the Col. Theunis Dey Chapter at the school. Ben Hadden, JAC member, made the presentation.

At the same meeting, officers for the 1976-77 were announced and a special Bicentennial program was presented.

Officers who will take office in March are Jon Hildebrand, president; Kim Caldwell, vice president, and Pat Reece, secretary.

The program, a play written by Mrs. Norman Ross of Fannin and entitled "Paul Revere," was performed by fourth grade students. Narrator was Yvonne Corbello, also a fourth grader.

Mrs. Bruce Pearson gave the national defense report, presenting a taped recording of Mrs. R. C. Bearden Jr. of San Angelo. Mrs. Bearden is a member of the DAR and chairman of the state textbook committee. She previously raised objections to a number of textbooks, and as a result, some textbooks were not adopted by the State Board of Education. The tape was in regard to the suit filed against Mrs. Bearden by a publishing company.

It was announced that a tea honoring three candidates of the Texas Society, DAR, offices, nominees of the state nomination committee, will be held Feb. 23 at the Midland Woman's Club. Hostesses will be Mrs. Jim Allison Jr., daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Wickett, candidate for state treasurer, and Mrs. John Butler of the Dey Chapter.

Candidates who will be in Midland at that time are Mrs. Georgia Edman, nominee for state regent, Mrs. William Burgett of El Paso, candidate for corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Wickett.

Wilburn Buttery, principal of Fannin, expressed thanks to the DAR chapter members for their interest and support of the JAC's.

DEAR ABBY

One shoe size can fit everyone

By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: I have an elderly mother who has been in a nursing home for the last four years.

I am one of her three children. (One son and two daughters.) We all live within a 45-minute drive from the nursing home, and all of us contribute equally toward the expenses, but I am the only one who visits her. I go there every day.

My brother goes once in four months. He says, "I just can't take it. That place is so depressing!" Can you believe it? He calls Mamma on the phone maybe once a week and keeps asking her if she "needs" anything. (All she needs is for him to visit once in a while.)

My sister runs over there once a month for five minutes. She doesn't even sit down. She tells me the "smell" of that place makes her sick.

How is that for an excuse? Although Mamma gets confused once in a while, she is far from senile. I know she's hurt, but there's nothing I can do about it.

Please print this. The shoe will fit both a woman, size 6, and a man, size 10. Let them wear it!—HAD IT IN DETROIT

DEAR HAD IT: The shoe for this situation has no size. One size fits all.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem and I need help. I have been married for six years, and my husband still acts as though we have been married only a few days.

He won't keep his hands off me. We can have marital relations for an hour straight, and he is ready to go again in 15 minutes. I don't ever reach a climax.

Should my husband see a doctor, or should I get some energy pills?—MRS. A. IN KILGORE, TEX.

DEAR MRS. A.: Energy pills won't help. You need professional help.

(P.S. Too bad your husband wasn't born during Biblical times when a man could have as many wives as he could support.)

DEAR ABBY: I am an 80-year-old man who lost his wife last year. I'm in good health, but I am lonely.

I have become attracted to my widowed sister-in-law. (She was my wife's younger sister.) I never thought I would consider marrying again, but lately I am changing my mind because of this lady.

Is it wrong to have romantic feelings about a sister-in-law? She's 74 and a lot of fun, and she reminds me of my beloved wife.—FEELING GUILTY

DEAR FEELING: When your wife died, her sister ceased being your sister-in-law. She is now as eligible as any other single woman is. If the romantic feelings are mutual, proceed without guilt. Neither of you needs parental consent.

Auxiliary executive board has meeting

The executive board of the Women's Auxiliary, Inc., Midland Memorial Hospital, met in the hospital for a business session conducted by Mrs. W. W. Henry, president.

The volunteer chairman, Mrs. W. L. Peyton, reported 148 men worked during January. Receiving bonus hours were Alyce Swann, 37; Jean Shows, 23; Fran Albright, 20; Corinne Barby, 113; Dorothy Davis, 20; Beth Elderkin, 22; Christine Feagan, 31; Dorothy Ferrell, 73; Emil Hendrick, 26; Adell

Merritt, 22, and Janet Pritchett, 22.

The auxiliary has 166 active, 104 contributing and six honorary members.

Mrs. James L. Davis, Junior Auxiliary chairman, announced 31 girls worked 276½ hours in January. Linda Caldwell and Lynn Gorley won the Candy Stripper Award with 20½ hours.

The sewing department reported 12 new items were made and 17 mended during January. Twenty-eight memorial gifts were received by the auxiliary in January.

Mrs. Mitchell Capadonna, social chairman, reminded the group of the annual awards luncheon to be held Feb. 25 in Midland Country Club.

Luncheon reported

A birthday luncheon honoring Mrs. C. B. Odom was held in the home of Mrs. James S. Chism, 3619 W. Shandon St.

Guests attending were Mrs. Travis Peyton, Mrs. Charlie Crawford, Mrs. LaVerne Foster, Mrs. Earl Moore, Mrs. M. H. Endsley, Mrs. Harrie Smith and Mrs. Jim Kaplan.

Two old friends meet in stitching column

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service
Happiness is finding an old friend!

Dear Betty: Thank you for the information and address on making "spaghetti straps." I must tell you, a long-lost friend saw my name in your column in an Illinois paper (we both thought the other had "passed on").

Knowing there could not be another Anne Simek in Boca Raton, Fla., she wrote me a lovely letter. What a beautiful surprise because, at the time, I was in the hospital. So you see, your column not only supplies great information, but reunites old friends!—Anne J. Simek, Boca Raton Anne, thank you! I hope you and your friend share many, many happy letters.

Dear Stitching Witchery: About the family of four boys and denim jeans legs left over...how does she do it? We have two sons and never have enough patches to go around! Here in Whitefish, Mont., we see various caps, bags, pieced skirts and jackets made of denim pieces.—Ruth Kauffman Denim goes everywhere! Some of the "old jeans" ideas we have are Pop Bottle Tote, Yard Quilt, Notebook Cover (each leaflet is 25 cents and a SASE). Dear Betty: How should I quilt easiest by machine? I feel the polyester batting would be too fluffy for my machine as it doesn't have the new "walking" foot. Could I use a new preshrunk sheet only, or would I need to invest in a sheet blanket?—Edna W.

The sheet can be used alone or with the sheet blanket, depending on the warmth you need.

Without the blanket between, I should think you could quilt by machine. The walking foot fits most standard machines, so you might try one. Have you thought of tacking with yarn rather than quilting?

Dear Betty: You can cut out applique pieces, lay a piece of clear plastic cleaning bag under applique, cover with a piece of paper and iron with medium-hot iron to hold applique in place until you can stitch around it. Keep up the good work!—Roberta Hoensing Shall do, Roberta. Thanks for the tip.

Kissinger slams Reagan, other candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says Ronald Reagan and other presidential candidates are tampering with world peace by reducing the discussion of sensitive foreign policy issues to "partisan sloganeering."

Kissinger was asked Thursday at a news conference about a Reagan charge that detente has been a big plus for the Soviet Union, while benefits to the United States have been limited to "the right to sell Pepsi-Cola in Siberia."

Without mentioning Reagan by name, Kissinger said the relationship between the United States, the Soviet Union and China is "too delicate, too important for world peace to be used for simply partisan sloganeering."

He dismissed Reagan's criticism as typical of the way presidential candidates solve their problem of "getting into the headlines."

Kissinger responded angrily to leaks of the House intelligence committee's secret final report, which depicted him variously as untruthful, obsessed with secrecy and determined to manipulate the dissemination of data to the committee to suit his own needs.

Kissinger charged that the leaks were not only a violation of a committee agreement with the administration but, worse, the committee's interpretation of the documents was so distorted as to represent "a new version of McCarthyism."

The committee's determinations, he said, were so geared to "preconceived ideas that the total impact is to produce a malicious lie."

He said misuse of classified information "must do damage to U.S. foreign policy interests" and that he would resign if those interests would be served by such a step.

But he said he would be reluctant to resign under present circumstances because this would only reward the "totally irresponsible" charges leveled at him by the committee. On Angola, Kissinger said the lack of American resolve there could have implications far beyond Angola's borders. He said the United States will do its best to prevent the Soviet Union and Cuba from repeating their success in Angola elsewhere in Africa.

The experience of Angola, he said, "is one which the United States treats with indifference only at the risk of buying graver crises at higher cost later on."

Albert not rushing to accept offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — intelligence committee's House Speaker Carl Albert is uncertain why rushing to accept the offer. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Thursday that Ford was offering Albert the full cooperation of the government in tracking down the source of the leak.

But an aide said Albert could not tell if Ford's offer was a simple good-faith offer or a political one. So, Albert decided to make no immediate response, the aide said. "He decided that if the President is serious about it, he'll probably follow up personally," the aide said.

Nessen said Ford had offered Albert "all services and resources of the executive branch" to help find out who provided segments of the secret report to the weekly Village Voice, which published them.

In making the offer of assistance, Nessen said Ford believes the report was leaked by someone in Congress. Members of the ouse panel have suggested the CIA or the Ford administration leaked it.

Asked if Ford's offer included FBI and Internal Revenue Service agents, Nessen replied: "You need to go ask Carl Albert."

Newsmen pressing Albert's office for a comment the rest of the day finally were told that Albert would have none.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, meanwhile, accused the House committee of so distorting secret information in the final report as to present over-all "a vicious lie."

"What we are facing is a new form of McCarthyism," Kissinger said at a news conference Thursday.

Misuse of secret information turned over to the panel, Kissinger said, has damaged U.S. foreign policy.

The report accuses Kissinger of pressing for covert operations over CIA and other agency objections, having a "passion for secrecy" and in one case lying.

The House report accuses Kissinger of lying when he said he never held up reports of alleged Soviet arms agreement violations more than two months. Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said at a public hearing the committee found one report was held up six months.

The report says Kissinger, as director of the National Security Council, was instrumental in getting approval of the covert aid operation in Angola, even though a task force opposed it.

It also says Kissinger approved the CIA's channeling of $9.9 million to Italian political parties in 1972, despite a report from the CIA's station chief in Rome that the money would do little good in the U.S. effort to gain in Italy.

The Village Voice for the first time published passages of a draft of the report.

The New York Times and CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr had published details apparently based on at least a reading of drafts of the report.

Other news organizations including The Associated Press reported substantial detail on the basis of interviews with people who had read the report.

Boeing under investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even as the waves from an international bribery scandal involving Lockheed Aircraft spread across the globe, the government has disclosed it is investigating whether the Boeing Co. engaged in similar activities.

The Securities and Exchange Commission said Thursday it has received information that Boeing "may have made illegal payments to certain foreign government officials in connection with Boeing's foreign operations."

A spokesman for Boeing said in Seattle that the company denies any wrongdoing either in this country or abroad. Lockheed's board of directors scheduled a meeting today in Los Angeles for discussion of disclosures of international payoffs by the firm. There were reports that two top company executives would resign.

Meanwhile, a business research group said Thursday that about 75 per cent of American companies it surveyed reported pressures to make payoffs to foreign government officials, customers and others.

The Conference Board, an independent nonprofit business research organization, said its study was made of 73 top level executives of representative business firms.

The SEC said in documents filed in U.S. District Court here that Boeing and its president, M.T. Stamper, have declined to turn over information subpoenaed for the probe of possible company payoffs.

Judge Thomas A. Flannery of Seattle ordered Boeing to appear on Feb. 20 to show cause why it has not complied with the SEC subpoena.

Lockheed and one other major aerospace company, Northrop Corp., already have admitted to making millions of dollars in payments to foreign officials and not revealing the payments in their financial statements to the SEC and the public.

General liked idea

MAPLEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — A friend tried to persuade Ulysses S. Grant to take up golf as a good form of exercise. Grant consented to be an observer. Arriving at the course, the first thing they saw was a tyro swinging his driver vigorously but vainly. "That does look like very good exercise," agreed Grant. "What is the little white ball for?"

Steven Weed to testify at Hearst trial today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With the prosecution ready to rest its case, Patricia Hearst's attorneys planned to call her ex-fiance today to recount the night of the kidnaping that ultimately led to her trial for bank robbery.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said he would wrap up his case against the 21-year-old newspaper heiress today when he resumed questioning FBI agent Thomas J. Padden, "our final witness."

Chief defense counsel F. Lee Bailey said he would immediately begin reconstructing Miss Hearst's kidnaping by calling her former fiance, Steven Weed, to the stand.

Weed was left beaten and bleeding at their Berkeley apartment the chilly night of Feb. 4, 1974, when the Symbionese Liberation Army abducted Miss Hearst. He and the defendant have not met since the kidnaping. Miss Hearst was captured here Sept. 18.

The defense maintains that Miss Hearst took part in the bank robbery two months after her kidnaping out of fear for her life.

Browning based his case on Miss Hearst's own words and actions during her bizarre 19-month odyssey through the terrorist underground and on testimony of witnesses who saw her during that time.

The evidence he offered included bank camera photos of her during a San Francisco robbery two months after the kidnaping and a tape recording in which she proclaimed allegiance to the SLA.

Browning called 32 witnesses, including law enforcement officers, persons at the scene of the bank robbery and a Los Angeles area teenager who was kidnaped and spent a night with Miss Hearst and SLA members William and Emily Harris.

Bailey has secured U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter's approval to take the jury to two hideouts where Miss Hearst was kept in closets in the weeks just after her kidnaping. They also will visit the bank that Miss Hearst and the SLA robbed on April 15, 1974.

Bailey said the excursion will be Monday. There will be no courtroom session because of a legal holiday.

The 13th day of the trial ended emotionally for the pale defendant Thursday as the government played for the jury a tape from the SLA featuring Miss Hearst saying she voluntarily joined her captors in the bank heist.

The frail young woman wept when she heard the strident, angry voice of SLA chieftain Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze spew a cold, militaristic account of the bank robbery.

Her shoulders shook visibly, and tears rolled down her face. She seemed to slightly regain her composure when a voice now identified as Harris railed about the news media and authorities fanning racism.

However, when her voice, soft but brimming with disdain, spoke as "Tania, a soldier in the people's army" she bowed her head and nervously rubbed her temple and lips.

The jury must decide whether Miss Hearst was forced under threat of death to rob the bank and make the dramatic tape, as she has testified outside their presence.

Browning originally intended to play only the portion containing Miss Hearst's speech, but Bailey insisted that the jury hear the entire reel.

DeFreeze and five other SLA members were killed in a gun battle with Los Angeles police a month later. The Harrises are in custody in Los Angeles.

Bailey fought long and bitterly to have the tape barred from her trial, contending that "words forced from her should not be used to convict her."

'Maniacs' blamed for bombing

SAN SIMEON, Calif. (AP) — Patricia Hearst's parents blame "maniacs" for the $1million-plus bombing of an ornate guest house at the fabled Hearst Castle while their daughter is on trial in San Francisco.

There were no warning calls Thursday before the blast ripped through a building which 53 tourists had passed through just three minutes earlier, authorities said.

San Luis Obispo County sheriff's deputies said there were no arrests and no suspects. The FBI was investigating phone calls to two San Francisco radio stations claiming the New World Liberation Front was responsible for the explosion here, 150 miles south of San Francisco. The NWLF is a terrorist group that has claimed responsibility for numerous San Francisco Bay area bombings.

Deputies said at least $1 million worth of treasures were damaged in the Casa del Sol, one of three mansion-sized guest houses near the main castle. They said the extent of structural damage has not been determined.

"These people have the same mentality as those who killed Marcus Foster and kidnaped Patricia. They're nothing but a bunch of maniacs," said Randolph A. Hearst after he learned of the blast and rushed from the courtroom where his daughter is on trial on bank robbery charges.

Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster was killed by the Symbionese Liberation Army, the same group that kidnaped Miss Hearst.

"It just shows the vicious, terrible people that Patty was with. It's no wonder she was terrified of them," an angry and shaken Mrs. Hearst told reporters.

There was no immediate indication that the bombing at the Shangri-la of late publishing magnate William Randolph Hearst was connected with his granddaughter's trial.

Visitors to the estate, which became a state historical monument in 1958, were evacuated from all buildings and questioned by authorities for possible clues to the bombing.

Ron McCullough, manager of the castle for the state park service, said the bomb appeared to have been planted under a bench outside the Casa del Sol, about 100 yards from the turreted-castle. When the Hearsts visit the estate, they stay in another guest house, the Casa del Mar.

He said new security measures, such as examining handbags and camera cases of tourists, would start today.

Hua plans to sidetrack rivals

TOKYO (AP) — Acting Chinese Premier Hua Kuo-feng's two chief rivals — First Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping and Second Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao — are expected to be given commanding positions in the Communist party and withdrawn from government administration, the Peking correspondent of the Kyodo news agency reported today.

The Japanese news agency's report said Hua was named acting premier by the 16-member party politburo, but the 149-member party central committee had not met yet to confirm or reject the appointment.

Hua appears to have the inside track for the premiership, but it seems likely that both Teng and Chang will make a fight for it unless the prospect of party seniority satisfies them, the report said.

There has been no indication when the central committee will meet.

China watchers were stunned last weekend by word from the Chinese capital that Teng, considered their apparent to the late Premier Chou En-lai, had been passed over, and Hua, the minister of security and No. 11 in the party hierarchy, had become acting premier.

Speculation that a power struggle was under way was heightened today by telephone reports from Peking residents that dozens of posters have appeared on the walls of Peking University indirectly attacking the 71-year-old

Teng. Such poster campaigns were one of the chief propaganda weapons of the radicals during the 1966-69 Great Cultural Revolution in which Teng was a casualty, and they often reflect the thinking of Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

The posters attacked "capitalist roaders" and resurrected a well-known Teng quotation, "I do not care whether a cat is black or white; the important thing is whether she catches mice."

Alonzo gets life term

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A jury has given Benito Alonzo, convicted of helping to arm prison inmate Fred Gomez Carrasco for a fatal escape attempt, a life sentence as a habitual criminal.

The 40-year old San Antonio man, who has been to prison four times before, heard the finding Thursday without showing emotion. His attorneys have said they will appeal.

The same jury found Alonzo guilty Wednesday night of delivering to Huntsville the three pistols used by drug kingpin Carrasco in an attempted escape on Aug. 3, 1974. Dist. Atty. Jerry Sandel of Huntsville said one of the weapons, a .357 magnum, was used by inmate Rodolfo Dominguez to kill hostage Julia Standley, a prison employe.

Carrasco, Dominguez and hostage Elizabeth Beseda also were killed.

Base salaries now lag in nation

By NANCY L. ROSS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Base salaries for middle-level management employes in northern continental Europe and in Brazil now equal or exceed those of Americans in the same jobs. A European or Japanese executive earning $45,000 a year receives more benefits and perquisites — often tax free — than his U.S. counterpart. These are some of the findings of a 14-country study on levels and practices of remuneration made by Towers, Perrin, Forster & Crosby, a New York management consulting firm. The study is intended primarily as a guide for multinational corporations in setting equitable pay scales.

Both international and local businesses were surveyed but no oil-producing countries were included.

According to TPF&C, 1975 base salaries — the all-important figure on which related benefits are usually calculated — for chief executive officers in Belgium, Brazil, France, the Netherlands and West Germany were higher than for Americans in the same position. In Sweden, the amount was equal this year.

For example, a Belgian chief executive officer earned 105 per cent of U.S. base pay. Using this country as the base figure of 100, the percentages were as follows: Brazil, 105; France, 110; and West Germany, 115. Marketing, financial and personnel directors, on the other hand, earned less than their American counterparts on the whole.

The 1975 scale was based on Nov. 1 foreign exchange rates. Since then the U.S. dollar has risen about 2 per cent against most European currencies, and promises to gain more as this country pulls out of the recession ahead of Europe. As such, the base salary advantages charged by TPF&C would be cut back or even wiped out, the study's author, John Able, acknowledged.

Nevertheless, the growth of worldwide executive salaries against American standards has been strong. During the period 1965-70, executive pay scales in Common Market countries ranged between 60 and 80 per cent of U.S. scales; in Latin America, 50-70 per cent, Able said.

As neat an indicator as base pay scales seem, they should not be compared solely against one another without taking other income and fringe benefits into account.

For example, the direct salary payment for a top Japanese executive represents only about 40 per cent of his total cash remuneration of $45,000, the lowest of any country studied. An employer should know that Japanese custom — and in some cases, law — dictates that the Japanese executive will get an additional 10 per cent over his base pay for holidays and vacations, and 50 per cent in bonuses.

The TPF&C study revealed sharp differences among the countries in legislated and private benefits:

—Whereas in the United States, employer and employee each contribute a like amount to Social Security, in Sweden the employer bears the entire burden. But the Swedish worker earning $10,000 a year who retires in 1975 can expect to receive 79 per cent of his salary in state pension; the American, 55 per cent. In Britain a $10,000-a-year man contributes 18 per cent and gets back 20 per cent.

—Legislated benefits are highest in Italy, France and Sweden; private benefits highest in the U.S. and Canada. All European countries, with Belgium in the lead, give federal family allowances or allotments for each child, a practice unknown in the U.S., Japan and Latin America. But in Japan and Brazil the private sector is expected to do so.

—The U.S. and Canada have the most complex private medical coverage, while such coverage is rare in Italy, Spain and Sweden. In West Germany only higher paid employees may have it.

—Profit-sharing, popular in the United States as a means of building retirement income, is required by law in France, but few such private plans are seen in Europe and Latin America. Incentive bonuses, long traditional here, in Canada and Japan, are catching on in Latin America and Europe.

The study also gives an executive the bad news: taxes. A $10,000-a-year Swede with wife and two children pays 6.5 to 7 times as much personal income tax as his counterparts in France, West Germany, Japan and Venezuela; three times as much as the American. At $45,000 a year the same executive is taxed at 11 per cent in Venezuela; France, 19; U.S.A., 27; Italy, 34; Canada, 37; United Kingdom, 50; and Sweden, a whopping 61 per cent.

Study eyes new N-plant hazard

By MIKE SILVERMAN
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The federal government is funding research into a little-known theory about how an accident at a nuclear power plant might trigger a dangerous steam explosion.

Officials of the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission said that the $100,000 project at Sandia Laboratories at Albuquerque, N.M., is only one of many studies probing possible safety hazards. They say there is no evidence at this point to indicate the theory is valid as applied to nuclear power plants.

But critics of nuclear safety say the hypothesis raises the specter of nonnuclear explosions that could rend the walls of any of the 58 currently licensed reactors and allow deadly radioactive materials to spread into the atmosphere.

"The kind of explosion we're talking about is not very big, just equivalent to a few tons of TNT," said Prof. Henry Kendall, a nuclear high-energy physicist at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a founding member of the Union of Concerned Scientists.

"The hazard is that it could rupture all containment structures in the building and let radioactive material seep out into the wind," he said in a telephone interview. "If the theory is true, you could have a seemingly innocuous accident aggravated to the point of a major public catastrophe."

The theory, first proposed by astrophysicist Stirling Colgate in a study of volcanoes, tries to explain why surprisingly large explosions sometimes occur when molten materials come into contact with water. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's 1974 Reactor SAFETY Study cites four such explosions in small nuclear reactors and also a series of fatal blasts in industrial foundries.

In a paper in the August 1973 issue of Nature Magazine, Colgate hypothesized what he called a "dynamic self-mixing effect," in which an initial mixing of molten materials and water produces a high-pressure steam that in turn causes more mixing in a kind of chain reaction.

Colgate further speculated in an unpublished paper how such an explosion might occur at a light water reactor plant in the unlikely event all cooling systems failed and the uranium oxide fuel was reduced to a molten mass, an accident called a core meltdown.

The nuclear application of Colgate's theory is developed in an article in the February 1976 issue of Environment Magazine, published by a New York-based watchdog group called Scientists' Institute for Public Information.

Author Kevin Shea, a biologist and the magazine's editor, says Colgate speculated that following a meltdown, the molten fuel would come into contact with water and might produce a large-scale steam explosion sufficient to tear apart the steel and concrete walls of a power plant.

The Reactor Safety Study estimates the frequency of core meltdowns at 1 in 20,000 per year for each operating plant — so that with 200 plants in operation, such an accident could be expected every 100 years.

The study further calculates that only one in 100 meltdowns would lead to a steam explosion severe enough to release radioactivity into the environment. Shea says that Colgate's theory challenges this last figure, by "postulating that in every case (of core meltdown) there is a potential for explosion by the dynamic self-mixing process."

Busing, gun controls

Most residents of Congressman Richard White's deep West Texas district are very much opposed to any type of gun control.

They also are overwhelmingly against busing to achieve racial balance in schools.

The El Paso congressman conducted a constituent questionnaire on the two subjects in December. Returns reportedly still are arriving at his Washington office. More than 5,000 of the returns have been tabulated.

It is said that 89 per cent of those responding indicated that Congress should pass a constitutional amendment prohibiting busing in schools for the purpose of achieving racial balance. Ten per cent opposed such an amendment, with one per cent undecided.

Only four per cent responded favorably to a proposal that busing should be continued and expanded to all areas to assure a goal of racial balance in all schools, while 85 per cent were opposed and 11 per cent were undecided.

Then came the gun control survey results, which revealed that 62 per cent were against any proposals which would require persons owning firearms to register them. Thirty-three per cent were for a control proposal, and five per cent were undecided.

It is interesting to note that 62 per cent approved laws to ban the so-called "Saturday night special," but 58 per cent said there should be no further restriction on firearms ownership.

Approximately the same percentages likely would hold throughout West Texas and perhaps the entire state, for that matter.

Most of the members of the Texas delegation in Congress can be counted on to vote against gun controls and it is hoped that they will be able to stimulate support sufficient to again beat down control proposals which always are before Congress.

Congressman White has some excellent figures to support the views of the Texas delegation.

And there is no reason to believe that the percentages on the busing matters would be very much different in other sections of the Lone Star State.

Congress, one of these days, will get around to taking definite action on the matter of ending school busing for the sole purpose of achieving racial balance. Right now, however, the courts still are very much in the saddle.

Again, White has some impressive figures on the subject.

The copout option

A new law in Nevada has produced some levity and invited some praise as permitting voters to express their displeasure with government.

Rather than checking their choice of a candidate in state and federal races, Nevada voters can mark a space that says simply "none of the above."

Possibly the Nevada option will offer a more accurate evaluation of the public mood and convey a message to the political establishment.

But the "none of the above" alternative also exploits and encourages a wave of alienation from the "system."

And a renewal of American confidence in government is dependent upon increased voter participation in the effort to make government more responsive. The dropout vote is no vote at all.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — For most of us, the annual ordeal of wrestling with our income tax returns is upon us. It is all the more odious because it involves participation in a continuing scandal.

To call it an ordeal requires little substantiation; it is enough merely to cite common knowledge. Millions give up deductions they are entitled to so they can use the short form and escape the annual headache. Two out of five taxpayers turn to so-called experts.

But millions more will struggle through the days of toil and nights of anguish. In rendering unto Caesar, they must give an accounting of the minutest details of their lives. During this season, then, Americans experience the sense of foreboding that marks not the free citizens but the subjects of an omnipotent and capricious state.

But the tax law is also a scandal which has turned taxpayers from the simple accepted duty it once was to the resisted contest at skulduggery it is today.

Because of its complexity, it is not just Joe Doaks who cannot understand his tax return. Once we get beyond the elemental, even the Internal Revenue official is not likely to understand it.

A few years ago, an Atlanta taxpayer, to prove a point, called at five different IRS offices around the country, presented the same set of facts and asked for a computation of his tax. He got five different answers, some varying from others by hundreds of dollars.

Such absurdities occur not because Internal Revenue personnel are incompetent, but because the tax code is incomprehensible. What mere human could assimilate 6,000 pages of conflicting federal tax laws and regulations?

And behind the complexity is the greater scandal that causes it. The tax law is a mess not because the law makers wanted it to be complicated, but because they wanted it to be a vehicle for doing hidden favors, a Trojan horse for financing programs that couldn't gain acceptance as open subsidies, a Christmas tree on which the visionary's public concern was hung alongside the lobbyist's private swindle.

The average taxpayer got illusory deductions to be paid for in higher basic rates, while the rich and the calculating got away with token taxes or none at all by putting their money into real estate ventures, or oil or tax-exempt bonds, or exotic charities, or 101 other shelters.

We have had access to secret tax filings by members of our wealthiest families, the Mellons, the Rockefellers, the Hunts and others. Their returns have one thing in common. Each of the families has had millionaire members, who from time to time, have paid no income tax at all. And almost all of them regularly pay only a fraction of the tax their income would require were it not for loopholes.

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, for example, paid no federal income

POLITICIANS IN A TIZZY Election law rebuff aids 'big spenders'

By BENJAMIN SHORE
 Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — These are unsettled times for presidential and congressional candidates, Congress and the Federal Election Commission.

The Supreme Court's decision of Jan. 30 that parts of the new federal election law were legal and others were not has thrown confusion into the politicians' ranks.

With the presidential primary elections heating up, the candidates have just learned that the federal campaign subsidies they had counted on to carry them to the nominating conventions may be cut off.

The Federal Election Commission, created by Congress in the 1974 campaign reform law and in business only nine months, was given 30 days to be reconstituted or close up shop.

Congress must confront all these problems at a pace normally reserved for considering resolutions declaring motherhood to be a fine institution.

To understand what the court did, it is helpful to have a basic understanding of the 1974 law, which:

- Put a spending ceiling on presidential and congressional candidates.
- Put a limit of $1,000 on amount an individual may give to a federal candidate.
- Provides federal matching funds for presidential candidates who raise at least $5,000 in each of at least 20 states in contributions no larger than $250.

— Requires fuller, clearer and more frequent finance reports from federal candidates.

— Created the Federal Election Commission to administer the new law.

The Supreme Court decision's key points are:

— The spending ceiling is unconstitutional, except that a candidate who accepts federal campaign money will have to abide by spending limits.

— The $1,000 limit on individual contributions is not unconstitutional, but a candidate may spend limitless amounts of his own or family's money on his own campaign. Furthermore, an individual may spend an unlimited amount on behalf of a candidate as long as the spending is not directed by the candidate.

— The Federal Election Commission is not constituted properly for its role of administrator, interpreter and enforcer of the new election law. (The court objected to the commissioners being appointed two by the White House, two by the Senate and two by the House, with each pair being of opposite parties and subject to confirmation by both houses of Congress. The court said commissioners of such a powerful agency should all be appointed by the president.)

— The requirements for full and prompt disclosure of contributions and spending by candidates are constitutional.

The immediate implications were clear. Wealthy candidates and those with the broadest financial support now can spend as much as they wish, while poorer candidates dependent on federal subsidies will have to live within the limits of the 1974 law.

Politically, the greatest concern is over the lifting of the spending ceiling. This could permit well-heeled candidates to return their initial federal funds (Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., has received the most so far, $906,500) and then spend whatever they wish on strategically chosen primaries.

The "poor" candidates who were to receive a fighting chance under the new law and not have to rely on fat-cat contributions, now might be left in the dust.

Mark Russell says

Daniel Patrick Moynihan knew it was time to leave the U.N. when three members from a Third World country asked him to step outside — and he was on the thirty-third floor.

Moynihan told Ford he plans to return to the Halls of Academe. Ford asked, "Isn't that right outside Boston?"

I'm a bit confused about the candidates' stand on abortion. As I see it, President Ford is against abortion except in states having major primaries.

The President says he's against abortion but Mrs. Ford is for it. This makes for convenient campaigning. Betty can speak to the feminists and Jerry can speak to the Right To Life. If you disagree with one, vote for the other.

A recent poll reveals that all pro-abortionists are people who have already been born.

Hot winds from Panama add to new treaty problems

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — An inexcusably vicious attack on the U.S. by the Panamanian ambassador to the usually soporific Organization of American States (OAS) is adding to President Ford's grave problems in arranging a new Panama Canal treaty and further embarrassing the U.S. throughout Latin America.

What makes this particularly significant is its coincidence with Washington's rising danger from the Communist political offensive in southern Africa, western Europe and Asia. Now, the hate-America campaign is exploding on Washington's back door.

The Jan. 23 attack accused the U.S. of a "policy of strangulation" of Panama, of "paternalism...colonialism...oppression." Panama's delegate, Ambassador Nader Pitty, told the shocked assembly he regards his mission in the OAS as "one of destroying the (U.S.) policy of arrogance" toward Panama — and by implication, all of Latin America.

Robert E. White, deputy chief of the U.S. delegation, coldly informed Pitty the U.S. could not acquiesce to such a misuse of the OAS forum to attack the U.S. He reminded Pitty that the U.S. and Panama are "reaching the final stages" of a new treaty. But that further infuriated Pitty, who then accused White of "blackmail."

Behind this tirade lie decades of grievances building in Panama against the U.S.-imposed canal treaty that gives the U.S. control of the canal "in perpetuity."

Evans Novak

Pitty's brutal language particularly shocked members of the U.S. mission because of President Ford's effort to reach agreement on a new treaty more favorable to Panama.

Indeed, with elder statesman Ellsworth Bunker as his negotiator in Panama, Mr. Ford has provoked the outrage of the Republican right wing and endangered his nomination by tentatively agreeing to major treaty revisions.

With Secretary of State Henry Kissinger finally making his frequently postponed goodwill trip south of the border, the Panamanian attack seemed calculated to put this nation in the worst possible light at the worst possible time.

The possible explanation: a new U.S. demand for major changes in a proposed revision of the OAS charter, which Latin countries have been drafting the past three years with the U.S. sitting quietly on the sidelines.

Pitty's explosion encapsulates anti-Washington emotions which more responsible OAS diplomats, also angered at the sudden U.S. demands, have expressed with far more restraint.

HUMPHREY'S DEFENSE

A private letter from Sen. Hubert Humphrey to consumer advocate Ralph Nader not only emphasizes his sensitivity to charges of being old-hat but dispels any remaining doubt about Humphrey's eagerness for the Democratic presidential nomination should all contenders fail.

Nader, interviewed on NBC's "Today" program Jan. 19, gave a 43-word reply when asked his opinion of Humphrey. Describing him as "a fine, ebullient person" who "exudes compassion," Nader then expressed muted criticism. He doubted whether Humphrey has "had many new ideas recently" and added: "I think he's not close enough to the need for citizen action and citizen involvement in actual reality, but he's voted very well on labor and consumer issues."

That relatively innocuous criticism produced a 600-word letter from Humphrey on Jan. 21 — a massive, detailed self-defense.

The reason: Nader's criticism fit a pattern that Humphrey's friends believe is intended to knock him out of the presidential picture. Nader's comments were followed by similar alarms from presidential hopeful Jimmy Carter, who referred to Humphrey's "reputation as a loser" and, more recently, Sen. Edmund Muskie (hand-picked by Humphrey as his 1968 running-mate) who talked of Humphrey's diminished leadership capability.

In his "Dear Ralph" letter, Humphrey told Nader his "evaluation of my legislative endeavors was something less than fair," then recited his record as an innovator since returning to the Senate in 1971:

foreign aid, rural development, forest conservation, public facility financing, economic planning, Senate reform, campaign reform, food assistance, energy research, education aid, full employment, Federal Reserve reform, housing, tax reform.

The letter's peroration was vintage Hubert: "Just thought I'd pass along a few of the things that we've been doing. I don't believe you will find Hubert Humphrey a man of the past. I'll stand by my record, and I think it'll stand the test of critical examination."

A footnote: Ironically, shortly before Carter's attack on him, Humphrey in an intimate conversation with close supporters commented how favorably impressed he was with the campaign of the former governor of Georgia. Such pro-Carter comments have abruptly ended.

If you're in the oil business and need some help, Charles Fraser may be your ace in the hole.

In the heart of the wheels of progress are the oil men. Our economy depends on the nation is its customer. And West Texas is the source which provides much of the energy that is vital to everyone's well being.

No one knows this better than the Oil Department at the First National Bank of Midland. We've been helping oil men for a long time. Our staff includes six petroleum engineers . . . people who've been around in the oil business and know what it's all about.

People like Charles Fraser. An expert in oil and gas whose financial know-how has helped mean success for many who depend on oil for their living. If you're in the oil business, and need the help an exceptional bank can provide, then call on Charles Fraser or any of the staff in the Oil Department at First National. They're here to help you.

It's by helping people that we help Midland grow. In fact, we put more money back into our community than all the other banks in town. Because, after all, helping you is what we're all about.

Religious drama group to perform

The New Jerusalem Players, a touring group which uses drama to present a Biblical message, will perform in the Christian Church of Midland, 2608 Neely St., Sunday evening.

The 7 p.m. presentation will be open to the public said Billy Stewart, minister of the Christian Church of Midland.

According to Mr. Stewart, the New Jerusalem Players is one of the mobile evangelistic teams sent out by "Jews for Jesus" organization to bring a Jewish message about Jesus to cities and towns across the continent. Jh'an Moskowit, at 27 the senior member of the troupe, points out that "the message that there are Jews for Jesus and that Jesus is for the Jews has largely been ignored throughout history so we needed a more dramatic way to catch the attention of the public; we're letting people know that salvation in Christ is for everyone, everywhere."

Other members of the troupe coming here Sunday include Martha Brickner, a second generation Jewish Christian from Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bond. Mrs. Bond, formerly Lyn Rosen, is the daughter of Jews for Jesus founder Moishe Rosen.

Rev. Cain to lead seminar on angels

A seminar, "The Relationship of Angels to Man," will be held Monday through Wednesday at Northside Baptist Church, 303 E. Shandon St.

They will seek to answer such questions as "Do angels really exist?"; "Do they help man today?"; "What do they look like and how do they appear?" Leading seminar sessions at 7 p.m. on each of the three days will be Dale Cain, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church at Lubbock.

The study series will embrace both the Old and New Testaments as well as some of the inter-Biblical writings. Five basic study areas are planned: 1) The existence of angels; 2) the nature of angels; 3) the characteristics of angels; 4) the employment of angels and 5) the recognition of angels.

The public is invited to attend the three-night seminar. The church nursery will be available each evening.

Lutherans slate new Study series

A new study program to provide educational enrichment for adults is being instituted at Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan St.

According to the Rev. David Herman, pastor, adult Christian education and theological thought is one of the most neglected areas in the church today, and the upcoming study program has been formulated to correct this weakness.

The first course in the program will begin Sunday in the 9:45 a.m. Sunday school, with Pastor Herman teaching a class titled "The Relevance of Christ and His Word for Today." This series will continue weekly through April 18.

Another study and discussion series will be led by the Rev. Dennis McCarthy, a minister in the American Lutheran Church (ALC) and presently a member of the Midland Lutheran Church congregation. Mr. McCarthy currently is serving in an extended ministry as a psychiatric social worker on the staff of the Big Spring State Hospital.

Pastor McCarthy's study series will use themes that reflect the major news happenings of 1975 which affect American religious issues and thought, presenting the Christian's point of view on the theological implications. Topics of study and discussion will include "The Quinlan Question," "Mysticism and Modern Lutherans," "The World Council at Kenya" and "What About Women Priests?"

Both these Sunday morning study series will be open to the public, it was announced.

First Alliance Church to host missionaries

The Midland First Alliance Church, 1610 W. Wall St., will be host to two missionaries of the Christian and Missionary Alliance during an annual missionary convention this weekend.

The convention began Thursday night and will continue through Sunday evening, said the Rev. Curtis Pace, pastor of the church. Services tonight and Saturday will begin at 7:30 p.m., while Sunday services are announced for 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. All are open to the public, Mr. Pace said.

The convention speakers are the Rev. H. Leroy Josephsen and the Rev. Thomas B. Kyle.

Mr. Josephsen, who served his denomination for approximately 16 years as a missionary to South Vietnam, was preparing to return from furlough in the U. S. at the time that South Vietnam was taken over by North Vietnamese forces. In the later years of the Vietnamese conflict, but prior to 1975, Mr. Josephsen and his wife, stationed at Hue, directed Christian and Missionary Alliance relief work in the northern provinces.

The other guest of the local congregation, Mr. Kyle, has spent the past decade as a preacher and teacher for the Alliance in Brazil. The son of a minister, he accepted his missionary assignment after several years' service as pastor of a church in Minnesota. He and his wife and family make their headquarters in the Brazilian city of Curitiba, in the southern state of Parana.

Episcopalians start series

A series of inquirers' classes is under way at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, 1412 W. Illinois St.

Class sessions on Sunday afternoons concern Anglican beliefs and doctrine and are offered for persons wishing to prepare for confirmation in the Episcopal Church as well as those already confirmed who wish to refresh themselves on their church's teachings. Persons studying for confirmation will be confirmed by the Rt. Rev. W. R. Henton, bishop of this diocese, during his next official visit to the Holy Trinity parish.

Additional information on the series may be obtained from the parish office, 683-4207.

Bob Hughes pulpit guest

Bob Hughes, a former missionary to the Philippines, will be a Sunday morning pulpit guest at Kewview Heights Baptist Church.

Mr. Hughes, who has spent 16 years in the Orient in missionary service, now is in the United States on medical leave. The Rev. Frank Johnson, host pastor, is inviting the public to hear this dynamic speaker at the 10 a.m. Sunday worship service. Kewview Heights Church is located west of North Big Spring street near Scharbauer Drive.

Mrs. M. D. Abel to head group

Mrs. M. D. Abel is the new president of the Midland Association of Churches.

She was installed as head of the ecumenical organization Thursday night during the association's annual dinner. The presidency, alternating yearly between lay person and minister, was held during 1975 by the Rev. Caleb Hildebrand, pastor of St. Mark's United Methodist Church. Mrs. Abel is a member of the St. Luke's United Methodist congregation here.

Other officers to serve during the coming year are: The Rev. Jerry Richards of the First Church of the Nazarene, first vice president; Mrs. F. C. Milford, second vice president;

Mrs. Roger Artley, secretary, and Paul Laverty Sr., treasurer. Chairmen of permanent committees of the association include the Rev. Steve Edwards of First Christian Church, education; the Rev. Elmer E. Burrall of Hope Lutheran Church, social action; the Rev. Robert Stalcup of Christ Presbyterian Church, public relations; the Rev. John Long of Memorial Christian Church, finance.

In addition to installation of officers, the meeting featured annual reports and a talk on Bicentennial plans for the city presented by Joe Dominy of the Midland Bicentennial Commission.

Offerings go to aid

Special offerings will be received this Sunday and next at St. Luke's United Methodist Church to aid earthquake victims in Guatemala.

The United Methodist Committee on Relief recently delivered $30,000 worth of medical supplies and high protein foods to that country and also is providing teams of doctors and nurses to help care for victims of the recent earthquake there. To carry on this work, UMCOR needs additional funds and numerous Methodist churches in this area, the state and elsewhere in the U. S. are scheduling the special offerings.

Individuals or groups who would like to add to this fund may send contributions to St. Luke's United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas St., Midland 79701, with checks marked "UMCOR Guatemala Relief Fund."

Jamboree changed

The Gardendale Jamboree, normally held on the fourth Saturday of each month, has been changed this month to 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

The event will take place in the community building on the corner of Larkspur and Gardendale.

The jamboree is sponsored by the Melody Masters from Midland and Odessa. No fee will be charged for admission.

Pirates still sail Asian seas

By KENNETH WHITING
SINGAPORE (AP) — Pirates still sail the seas of Southeast Asia.

Singapore police say they recorded 11 cases of piracy last year within sight of the skyscrapers on this busy seaport, the world's fourth largest.

"Most of the incidents were minor," police spokesman Teo Han Wue said recently.

"In only three incidents were the pirates armed and in another three the victims were seriously injured. In one incident in May four pirates intercepted a fishing boat and escaped with cash and valuables worth 12,000 Singapore dollars, ($4,838)," said Teo.

Minor or not, piracy continues in 1976 as it has for centuries around Singapore, in the Malacca Strait between Malaysia and Indonesia, off Thailand and elsewhere in Southeast Asia.

Pirates in this part of the world, past or present, bear little resemblance to such celebrated buccaners as Captain Kidd or Blackbeard. The origins of piracy here were relatively respectable for that era, a primitive form of taxation on merchant shipping by local sultans and other strongmen for the privilege of entering port or merely transiting a narrow waterway.

Powerful Chinese junks and Moslem war fleets enjoyed this license to demand coin or cargo until the coming of colonial navies. A main responsibility for British warships based at Singapore was to stop piracy. The last British frigate assigned here sailed home five months ago.

Minister Lee Kuan Yew suggested as far back as 1969 that the most useful role for the United States 7th Fleet after the British withdrawal would be to curb piracy in the Malacca Strait. Foreign Minister Sinnathamby Rajaratnam echoed the view in an interview a year ago.

"If people can hijack planes, the hijacking of, say a supertanker, is very simple," Rajaratnam said.

On Dec. 27 on the western side of Mindanao Island in the Philippines, armed pirates affiliated with the Moslem secessionist movement in the southern Philippines struck for the fourth time in less than four months.

Their prey was a tugboat and barge plying between Tarakan in Indonesia and Zamboanga on Mindanao. Nine crewmen were taken hostage and one was released later to carry to authorities a ransom demand of two million pesos—about $285,000.

The government declined to pay. A navy patrol found the pirates on a small island off Zamboanga. Three of the estimated 30 outlaws were killed and a fourth wounded when the Philippine navy moved in to recover the tug and barge.

Burn treatment saving victims

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Grace Ann Brown, once a pretty O'Fallon, Mo., high school student, now lies in a hospital bed swathed head to toe in bandages that protect second and third-degree

Many incidents apparently to go unreported.

"We have to ply the same routes to the same fishing grounds. If we make a police report, the pirates may take revenge on us," said one young fisherman.

Acts of piracy that do come to light don't cause much stir, possibly because they are so common.

burns over 75 per cent of her body.

That she is alive at all probably would not have been believed 10, or possibly even five years ago.

Today Grace, a victim of flames that engulfed her when a playful classmate flicked a cigarette lighter next to the paper pom-pom costume she was wearing for a school function last fall, is on the slow road to recovery.

"She will never be totally normal—not the way she was before the burns—but we believe she will be able to live a full and productive life," said Dr. William W. Monafa, director of the burn unit at St. Johns Mercy Hospital in St. Louis County.

The near miracle of the girl's recovery, and those of the other patients in the 18-bed special care unit, is owed in part to Monafa, recognized as one of the pioneers in the treatment of burns.

"It used to be that a patient with serious burns over 40 or 50 per cent of their bodies would almost certainly die, if not from shock then almost certainly from massive infections that their bodies could not ward off," the doctor said.

Today, persons with burns over far larger portions of their bodies can survive if they are given the proper treatment quickly, he said.

"Unfortunately, too many doctors still treat the shock caused by thermal trauma the way they treat any other kind of shock," Monafa said, "and that is not enough."

"It is not uncommon for a serious burn victim to lose 20 to 30 pounds of fluid from the burn area in a 24-hour period as the body tries to provide sodium to the wound. Older techniques call for replacement of that fluid with plasma or water with a relatively weak sodium solution.

"Here, operating on the theory that the fluid is in large part only a vehicle for the sodium, we have had good success in injecting a more concentrated sodium solution, providing the needed sodium and reducing the amount of fluid loss."

A few other doctors, including Charles L. Fox, microbiologist at Columbia University's College of Physicians & Surgeons in New York, have used similar techniques successfully, Monafa said.

"This method tends to avoid the problem of overloading the patient with fluids," he said, "and it's less expensive than plasma."

Once the severity of shock has been alleviated, the doctor said, physicians can concentrate on sterilizing the wound, a very difficult task made even more difficult because the burn victim's body has usually lost its ability to fight infection.

"Silver nitrate is currently used almost universally as the first line of defense in burns," Monafa said. "Somehow the metal penetrates the nucleus of bacteria cells and interferes with reproduction."

Once the immediate problem of survival is overcome, patients in the special care unit begin a long and painful process of treatments for mind and body on an around-the-clock basis.

"Burns are the most painful injury a person can suffer," Dr. Monafa said.

Rebels eye Black Cats

Spring in Abilene. Permian is currently on a nine-game winning streak and brings a sparkling 25-5 record into the game compared to Lee's 18-10 reading. James Hunter, 6-4 senior center, leads the Black Cat attack with 562 points in 30 games for a 24.2 average while Lee is led by 6-4 Junior Miller who has tallied 548 points in 28 games for a 19.7 average.

While Hunter is a key, it has been the play of 6-5 junior Tom McLemore, that has sparked the Panthers. McLemore is averaging 13.7 points per game and has started to rebound well for the Panthers. Joining Hunter and McLemore in the Permian lineup will be Mark Berryhill, 6-1, Craig Johnson, 6-1 and Stan Striffler, also 6-1.

Miller will be joined by 6-5 Steve Reiter; 6-1 Brent Hockabay; 5-10 Robin Todd and 6-1 Roy Lee Smith.

There will be three games with a sophomore tilt set for 4:30 p.m. with the junior varsity contest at 6:15 p.m. and the varsity at 8 p.m.

Midland, meanwhile, takes a 13-18 season mark to OHS and 1-3 record reading while the Bronchos stand 4-26 and 0-4 and have lost 16 straight and 21 out of their last 22 games.

Ruta Gerulaitis responds to hard smash.

Fox, Gerulaitis move into Futures semifinals

BY TED BATTLES
Rayni Fox and Ruta Gerulaitis won quarterfinal matches Thursday to set up half of Saturday's Women's Futures Tennis Tournament semifinals at the Racquet Club, but they must await the outcome of matches today to learn who their opponents will be.

Miss Fox, from Rollins College in Florida, defeated Virginia Ruzici of Romania 7-6, 6-2 while Miss Gerulaitis, a blonde from New York, came on strong in the final set to defeat Isabel Fernandez 7-5, 2-6, 6-2 in almost balmy weather at Midland Country Club.

Starting today, the remainder of the tournament will be played at the Racquet Club with its large grandstand as No. 1 ranked Regina Marisvoka of Czechoslovakia squares off against California's Marita Redondo at 4 p.m.

IN THE other remaining quarterfinal, Australian Diane Fromholtz, who upset No. 2 seeded Tine Zwann Wednesday, meets South Africa's Yvonne Vermaak at 1 p.m. Miss Vermaak defeated No. 7 seeded Roberta Stark of Florida Wednesday to reach the round of eight.

Two doubles quarterfinal matches are scheduled at 4:30 p.m. Miss Fox put away a shot as Ruzici charged the net with the deciding point of the tie-breaking first set game.

Rayni then lost her service on the first game of the second set, but proved that isn't quite the disaster it is in the men's game by winning six of the next seven games and the set.

"IN WOMEN'S tennis, the ground strokes are more important than service," noted Bill Harris, tournament director and a former South-west Conference champion. "There are longer volleys and more strategy. I think that explains the growing popularity of the women's game. The average player can relate better to the game. In the men's game, it's bang, bang and all over."

Perhaps the strongest serve in the tournament belongs to Miss Fernandez and, although she scored numerous aces, the persistence of Gerulaitis eventually won out.

Both of Thursday's matches had to be regarded as upsets since Fernandez was seeded No. 4 to Gerulaitis' No. 6 and Ruzici ranked fifth while Fox was unseeded. However, in point standings for the year, Gerulaitis has 120 for the year while Fernandez has 55.

OF THE players left in the singles, Miss Fromholtz possesses the most impressive 1975 credentials, earning $7,675. The 19-year-old from Albany is regarded as one of Australia's more promising young players.

Last year, she took her teacher, Margaret Court, to three sets at Houston and played tough matches against Chris Evert, Nancy Gunter, Martina Navrdilova and Virginia Wade. Currently, she is ranked No. 3 in Australia.

In Thursday's doubles, Marita Redondo and Susan Memmedbaich defeated Pat Bostrom and Linda Thomas 6-0, 6-4 while Regina Marisvoka and Tine Zwann won over Nancy Ornstein and Mary Struthers 7-5, 6-2.

Saturday's singles matches are scheduled for noon and 1:30 p.m. and doubles will be played at 3 and 4:30 p.m. All four singles semifinalists will move up to the Virginia Slims circuit for the next tournament.

Olympics bring sheer joy

ABC's television coverage of the 12th Winter Olympic Games has been absolutely tremendous. I mean they have me sitting in front of that tube night after night, and for the life of me, I can't quite figure out why.

For a native born Texan, what can all that snow and ice hold in the form of entertainment? They have things jutting up to the sky called mountains, and they perform sports that most Texans have never heard of. So, you can see that I'm having a hard time figuring out what the attraction is.

BUT I'M sitting there taking it all in. I watch that silly screen just like I knew what was going on. I've even caught myself telling the wife some of the finer points of the sports that I've never seen in person, and I usually comment on how the judges have a poor sense of judgement. Why that's pure madness for a Texan to even offer a conclusion on an ice skating performance.

Don't get me completely wrong because I have had some contact with the sports that have been unreeled in the Olympics.

I went ice skating once, and I'm happy to report that I can identify with that beauty on ice. Many times during my skating experience I was able to perform one of the stunts shown on TV.

YOU KNOW the stunt well. It's where you leap into the air and come down on the seat of your pants. I know there must be a trick to it because I saw the same stunt in the Olympics. I just don't know why it didn't impress ABC commentator Dick Button. He said something about a "fanny flop" and that it didn't mean much toward winning the gold medal. I guess he's right because no skater I saw use the flop won a gold medal, but at least, I know how to do that trick.

And I'm very well acquainted with the luge event as is most West Texans.

I remember one icy morning in particular. I tip-toe out to the car, make one move just a little too quick, and it's a luge run down the driveway to the street gutter.

The speed gained on the way to the street was not as impressive as the knots recorded on TV, but I can still relate to the luge. I'm convinced that they have better equipment than what momma and daddy created.

And then there is the cross country race. I ran a mile uphill in the Army one time, and I can relate to Bill Koch, who said, "Everything hurts." The only thing that really bothers me, however, is that I would like to know just how far a kilometer is so I could compare how my 11-minute mile stands up to the best.

I EVEN went skiing once, and that must be why I like the downhill racers so much.

A friend told me that I needed some lessons before I took to the slopes, but it sure seemed like a waste of time to me since I just had two days on the mountain.

I got on one of those little chairs that goes up the beginners slope, and had at it. Some 15 feet down the slope at break-neck speed, I ended up plastered to the bark of a tree trunk. I thought the worst was over before I figured out that it must be an impossibility to get from a prone position to a standing position with skis on.

I finally got down the hill without the skis, and only sunk up to the neck in the snow twice. That's why I feel for those poor racers that fall before the finish line. I'm convinced, however, that I managed as much speed in 15 feet as the Olympic racers did in an entire race. Who can blame them for taking it easy?

So, maybe I relate more to the winter sports more than I thought. I just wish you could enjoy the Olympics as much as I have. You have to work at it.

Y Church conducts cage tournaments

The Midland YMCA-Church League basketball tournament will get underway Tuesday at St. Ann's gym with four games on tap.

Outreach YMCA tips off the tournament against First Presbyterian at 5:15 p.m. with First Christian against Park Center, 6:30 p.m.; Golf Course Church of Christ vs. First Baptist, 7:45 p.m.; and Antioch Baptist vs. St. Ann's at 9 p.m.

The tournament continues with championships and consolation bracket games Feb. 19 and concludes with title games Feb. 21.

TOURNAMENTS IN the B-1 and B-2 leagues also begin next Tuesday. Carver High gym will be the site of the B-1 tournament and play tips off with St. Luke's vs. First Baptist One at 6:30 p.m. while First Methodist meets St. Marks, 7:45 p.m., and Central Y tangles with St. Ann's No. 1 at 9 p.m.

San Jacinto gym will play host to the B-2 tournament. First Presbyterian meets St. Paul's at 6:30 p.m.; First Baptist No. 2 faces Crestview at 7:45 p.m. and St. Ann's No. 2 tangles with Outreach Y at 9 p.m.

Appeal set for Friday

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Arguments on a federal court ruling making major league baseball players Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally free agents are to be heard next week by a federal appeals court panel in St. Paul, Minn.

The hearings were set for Feb. 20 by Floyd R. Gibson, chief judge of the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, after attorneys for major league owners filed the appeal here Thursday seeking to overturn a decision by U.S. District Court Judge John W. Oliver of Kansas City.

Seven Cubs sign pacts

Midland's Cubs defending Texas League co-champions signed seven roster players to 1976 contracts, according to Midland General Manager Bill Rigney.

Five of the players, outfielder Jose Ortiz, infielder Bill Huisman, outfielder Steve Verban, and outfielder-first baseman Aaron Randall were with the club last year as was first baseman Cliff Hall.

Newcomers are catcher Mike Gordon and Larry Groover, a left-handed pitcher. Huisman, Midland's MVP in 1974, split last season between Midland and Wichita, batting .272 for the Cubs. Ortiz batted .323 in 107 games and finished seventh in TL batting and was among the leaders in stolen bases.

Randall played the season with Midland, starting 54 games and batting .227 after an outstanding spring. Aaron finished the season at the Cubs' Fort Lauderdale Class A affiliate.

Verban came up late in the season and made a valuable contribution to the team's pennant drive with a .255 average and some spectacular defensive work in 19 games after replacing Joe Wallis.

Hall played only nine games in Midland at the season's start before going to Class A.

The Cubs will open spring training in Scottsdale, Ariz., under new Manager Denny Sommers on March 15.

Soccer tilts set by YMCA

The Midland YMCA is now accepting registration for its 1976 soccer program.

The program is open for junior and senior boys as well as for boys and girls in fourth through sixth grades. The registration deadline for juniors and seniors is Feb. 27, and for elementary grades the deadline is Feb. 20.

Registration forms are available at schools and at all YMCA branches.

Daytona officials rap top pole qualifiers

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "I guess you've got two cheaters in Victory Lane," Dave Marcis quipped after he and Darrell Waltrip won a pair of 125-mile qualifying races for Sunday's $350,000 Daytona 500 stock car classic.

Those two young rising stars of National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing Grand National racing were set down for rules violations after posting some of the fastest times in pole position qualifying last Sunday.

Officials ruled that the cars of Marcis, Waltrip, A.J. Foyt and Bruce Hill were speeded up by "non-approved" equipment. They had to make changes, requalify and start back in the pack for the 125-milers Thursday.

"It didn't hurt Dave and me much as it turned out," Waltrip said. "We just lost a position or two for Sunday. Justice will prevail, and I guess it did."

Foyt, whose Chevrolet developed mechanical trouble and lasted only nine laps, will start in 31st place. As fastest on Sunday, at 187.477 miles per hour, he would have been on the pole and $5,000 richer if his speed had not been disallowed.

Hill's Chevrolet made only four laps in the qualifier and he'll start 33rd.

The Marcis Dodge and Waltrip Chevrolet will start in the second row behind new faces Ramo Stott and Terry Ryan in a pair of Chevrolets. Stott and Ryan, whose cars were legal, inherited the inside and outside pole because of the three disallowed speeds.

Stott's car malfunctioned at the start of the first 125-miler and made only 35 of the 50 laps. Ryan was competitive and finished third behind Waltrip and Richard Petty's Dodge in the second qualifying event.

Speed Weeks attention turned today to the windup of the International Race of Champions series with Foyt favored to take the $50,000 winner's prize. After three previous races in Michigan and California, Foyt leads the nine top drivers chosen from Formula I, NASCAR and Indianapolis type cars.

In fact, Foyt with 31 points needed only to finish sixth or better to win the series. Bobby Allison with 25 points and Mario Andretti with 23 are the only ones who could beat him.

A 200-mile race around the 3.84-mile road course for NASCAR modified stock cars also was on today's program. A 300-mile event for NASCAR Late Model Sportsman stock cars will be run Saturday as a buildup for Sunday's richest stock car race ever run.

A favorable weather forecast is expected to draw more than 110,000 for Sunday's events. Nearly 60,000 were on hand for Thursday's qualifying races.

The qualifying events were as different as possible with two races matching the same type cars over the same course and distance, except one driver from each was hospitalized.

In the first race, John Banks, of Windsor, Ontario, flipped end over end and then went into a barrel roll going into the 31-degree banking of the 2.5-mile superspeedway. He said he felt all right when taken to the infield hospital, but was taken to Halifax General Hospital for overnight observation for a possible concussion. Otherwise doctors said he had only multiple cuts and bruises.

Dave Decker of Elmhurst, Ill., crashed into the concrete barrier along the backstretch in the second race. He also was hospitalized overnight, for a possible cracked sternum.

Waltrip gambled on gasoline and beat Petty by half a lap. He pitted for fuel and repair of a flat tire during an early caution period.

Price control maneuvering resumes on battered plan

By PAUL E. STEIGER
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Maneuvering resumed Thursday over the Ford Administration's battered plan for lifting federal price controls from natural gas, and a new showdown could come as early as next week.

Despite a narrow but definitive defeat of natural gas deregulation by the House last week, Federal Energy Administration chief Frank G. Zarb told a press conference he is still hopeful Congress can be persuaded to lift the controls this year.

He included such a measure prominently in a list of legislation which he announced President Ford believes must be enacted before Congress goes on its summer recess.

At the same time, Zarb assailed a competing plan — approved by the House last week in lieu of the Senate-passed decontrol measure backed by Ford — that would abolish price regulation only for smaller gas firms while expanding it for major gas producers.

Backers of the House bill, however, are beginning to line up Senate support for their approach. They hope to capitalize on growing Senate sentiment favoring legislation that would break up major petroleum concerns by forcing them to divest themselves of some of their operations. Many of the companies that would be adversely affected by the House natural gas measure — known as the Smith bill, after Rep. Neal Smith (D-Iowa) — are among the giant oil firms that are targets of the divestiture movement.

The list includes such companies as Exxon, Gulf Oil Corp., Texaco Inc. and Mobil Oil Corp.

At stake in the natural gas fight are billions of dollars that would be paid by consumers in higher prices for natural gas or products made from it and channeled into the profit coffers of gas producers, should the current price curbs on gas sold to interstate pipelines be removed.

Gas used in the same state in which it is produced — intrastate gas — is not subject to price control.

The oil and gas industry and the Ford Administration back deregulation, arguing that unrestricted prices are necessary to call forth the investment in finding new supplies of the increasingly scarce fuel, on which many jobs depend. Unions and self-styled consumer groups have combined to fight the move, conceding that somewhat higher prices are needed but contending that a price surge such as would occur under deregulation is unnecessarily severe.

In October, the Senate passed by a 58-to-32 margin a measure — known as the Pearson-Bentsen bill after Sen. James B. Pearson (R-Kans.) and Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen (D-Tex.) — that would eliminate controls on gas produced from wells drilled on land and phase them out over five years on gas produced offshore.

Despite that margin, supporters of the Smith bill believe they now have a good chance of getting Senate approval for their measure when Congress returns next Tuesday from its current recess.

For one thing, said James Flug, a former top aide to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and now head of an anti-oil industry group known as the Energy Action Committee, the true support for the Pearson-Bentsen bill was probably better reflected in some of the narrower, earlier votes on amendments than on the vote for final passage.

For another, Smith supporters say, the widespread spot shortages of natural gas predicted last fall for this winter have not materialized. Therefore, they argue, the urgency of such drastic action to protect jobs as decontrolling prices of natural gas may no longer seem so great to some senators.

Moreover, backers of the Smith measure say, now that the House has passed it, senators who believe some release from price controls is necessary but who don't want to go as far as the Pearson-Bentsen bill have something to rally around.

Finally, Smith backers contend, even if they cannot win quick passage of their measure in the Senate, the weight of normal congressional procedure is now heavily on their side. That procedure would call for a joint Senate-House conference to work out differences between the Pearson-Bentsen and Smith bills, and the members from both houses likely to be chosen for such a conference could be expected to lean closer to the House measure. Each house would have to approve the compromise bill before it could be sent to the White House.

At his press briefing, Zarb made clear that he is not eager to see such a conference to resolve differences between the two bills, although he said he did not "want to shut all doors" to that approach.

He said Ford would veto the Smith bill if it was sent to him.

Zarb also released an FEA study purporting to show that the Smith bill would add more to home heating costs than deregulation even while stimulating less gas production. Supporters of the Smith bill disputed the assumptions in the FEA study.

At least one Democratic senator — John V. Tunney of California — widely mentioned by Smith supporters as one of those who voted for the Pearson-Bentsen measure in October but whom they think they can woo to their cause, said late Thursday that he continues to support the deregulation approach.

Reached by telephone in Napa, Calif., where he is campaigning for reelection, Tunney said the provisions in the Smith bill extending price controls to gas sold in intrastate markets by big firms would face a long constitutional challenge in the courts.

"I don't think we can afford the luxury of a two or four or six year delay" in resolving the gas price issue, Tunney said.

Agency to study shipping program

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A federal agency will study the environmental impact of a proposal to ship Alaskan oil by tanker to Long

Blythe and on through southern Arizona and New Mexico to Midland, Tex.

From Midland it would be sent through existing distribution systems to Midwestern refineries.

The BLM said 30 to 50 employees will work out of the Long Beach project office on the 12-15 month effort to produce the environmental impact statement.

The Port of Long Beach is preparing a similar report for the State of California and is expected to complete its analysis of the port and harbor component by mid-March.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

Beach and then transport it by pipeline to Texas.

November is the target date set by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management for publication of a draft environmental impact statement on the project, the bureau said Thursday.

Hearings will be held in December on a final statement, which will be published in April 1977.

The Alaskan oil pipeline is expected to be finished by mid-1977. Oil flow through the pipe is expected to exceed West Coast demands by early 1978.

The bureau will study a proposal to ship crude oil from Valdez, Alaska, to Long Beach in tankers; construct tanker facilities at Long Beach, and complete a 1,033-mile pipeline to from Long Beach to Texas.

Under the proposal a new 42-inch pipeline would be built from Long Beach underground along the Los Angeles River floodway to Whittier Narrows, and then to Beaumont.

At Beaumont it would be connected with an existing 30-inch natural gas pipeline, which would be converted to oil transportation.

The oil would flow through the existing pipeline, with limited segments of new construction, through the California desert, crossing the Colorado River below

Some wholesalers near panic state

CHICAGO (AP) — Gasoline Wholesalers at some stations in the Midwest are in "a state of near panic" because retail prices have fallen below the 50 cent mark for regular brands, says a prominent oil industry analyst.

Herb Hugo, senior editor of Platt's Oilgram, revealed Wednesday that retail gasoline prices at some stations have dipped to their lowest level in nearly four years. Hugo added that the trend appears to be nationwide and that there is little immediate prospect that gas prices will rise much.

The oil analyst said the Oilgram, an industry publication, will report today that a price of 47.9 cents a gallon for regular plus 2 cents tax is common at independent stations in the Chicago area — a price "awfully close to cost."

While Hugo called the lower retail prices "a great piece of news for those of us who drive a car," he said the lower prices are a problem for the industry.

He said the average price for major brands has declined steadily since Labor Day, when it peaked at 65 cents a gallon.

At that time, said the editor, almost everybody associated with the oil industry expected the price to keep rising. Hugo said he predicted that it would go to 70 or 75 cents a gallon, while others predicted $1 to $1.25.

Wildcats staked in Runnels areas

Two wildcat tests have been staked in Runnels County. James K. Anderson of Dallas plans to drill No. 2 Schwertner, 3 1/2 miles northwest of Rowens and 2 1/2 miles west of the depleted Rowena, Northwest (Jennings sand) gas field.

The 4,000-foot project spots 467 feet from north corner and 250 feet from northwest lines of R. A. Terry survey 28, immediately north of the center part of Dillard Cooper survey 166 1/4.

Jake L. Hamon of Dallas plans a 4,000-foot prospector in Runnels, seven miles east of Ballinger. It is No. 1 Spreen.

Drill site is 15,505.5 feet from north and 4,427 feet from west lines of R. M. Williamson survey 232. Ground elevation is 1,627 feet. The site is 2 1/2 miles southwest of the Spreen (Goen) oil pool.

ODP checks port plans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Federal officials reviewing the offshore superport proposals of Louisiana and Texas say they want to be certain the ports do not create a monopoly on crude oil imports.

Ernest T. Bauer, deputy director of the U.S. Department of Transportation's new Office of Deepwater Ports (ODP), and his assistant Lonnel Johnson commented in an interview here Thursday.

The ODP is responsible for overseeing all facets of the superport reviews.

Johnson, a Federal Trade Commission lawyer assigned to the ODP, said superports could create "a rather dangerous dependence on a small portion of the industry" for oil imports.

Lea, Chaves get projects

Lea and Chaves counties, N.M., drew discovery completions.

Skelly Oil Co. has completed its No. 1-B West Jal Deep as a Fusselman gas strike in Lea, one mile north of the former dual Fusselman and Pennsylvanian gas pay opener in the Jal, West field.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 3,606 million cubic feet of gas per day, producing through perforations at 16,411-16,439 feet. The pay had been acidized with 40,000 gallons.

Total depth is 18,945 feet, and a 5-inch liner is hung from 14,322-18,930 feet. The plugged-back depth is 17,905 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 17-25-36.

CHAVES STRIKE
Marathon Oil Co. completed a Strawn gas strike in Chaves.

No. 1 State gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 1.5 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 6,218-6,268 feet, after acidizing pay with 4,000 gallons.

Drilled to 6,561 feet, it is plugged back to 6,345 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 21-48-27e, 214 miles southeast of the reopened Newmill (Pennsylvanian) gas field, but separated by failures and depleted Pennsylvanian wells.

Canadian audience hard to get to

By DON FREEMAN
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — It is the contention of Gordie Tapp, a member of the "Hee Haw" troupe who hails from Canada, that his countrymen are truly swell folks in every regard except one. Place them in a group facing a stage and, thus assembled, they do not exactly add up to the world's most responsive audience.

In common with the Canadian winters, the average Canadian audience does not thaw quickly. "Canadians, you have to say, are just not too easy to get to," judges Gordie, who has, at that, done better than most.

"Canadians in an audience might wave a book instead of applauding to indicate approval," he says, sadly. "Of course, you might ask why are they taking a book to a show in the first place?"

"Often as not," says Gordie, "a Canadian in an audience will look and see if someone around him is laughing. If he hears laughter, he might join in — but only if he's been properly introduced to the one who's laughing. I exaggerate, but not by too much."

"Still, you have to give the Canadians this. In a studio audience, unlike the Americans, they won't applaud the commercials unless they are firmly prompted to do so.

"And yet, American comics will come up to Canada and tell me that Canadian audiences are great. Partly, I suspect, this has to do with Nashville, is the predominant Canadian influence on a show with such a grass-roots American flavor. From the outset, when two Canadians named Frank Peppiatt and John Aylesworth were creating "Hee Haw," Gordie Tapp came aboard not only in his Cousin Clem characterization but also as a technical expert on rural humor.

Don Harron, best known as Charlie Farquharson, the "Hee Haw" reporter on Station KORN, is yet another Canadian expert. Curiously, Harron was once noted as a Shakespearean actor.

There are those, in fact, who say that Shakespeare, in his less lofty moments, would have delighted in "Hee Haw" and its earthiness of humor. Not everyone will admit to a taste for "Hee Haw." Once, says Gordie Tapp, he was strolling down Michigan Boulevard in Chicago when he was approached by a woman, perhaps in her 60s, well-dressed and very dignified.

"Do I know you?" she said. "Aren't you on TV?"

"Yes, I'm on 'Hee Haw,'" Gordie said.

the old inferiority complex thing, the deference to the American giant to the south.

"Let Grandpa Jones come up from 'Hee Haw' and the Canadians will slap their sides and guffaw. I get out there and they say, 'Oh Gordie's one of us. We can always see him. If he says something funny, we'll just wave a book.'"

Mangione, King play jazz to very different drummers

By ROBIN WELLS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Maybe nothing is easy in music but if you want to phrase it that way you can say that young Chuck Mangione came up the easy way. Compared to, say, B.B. King, the onetime "Beale St. Blues Boy."

Not many years ago Mangione's father, owner of a grocery store in Rochester, N.Y., was taking Chuck and brother Gap out to some jazz joints after he closed the store in the evenings.

Mangione already was well into music, having taken up piano at 8 and trumpet at 10. The Mangione home was alive with music.

Early on Mangione met bopping Dizzy Gillespie, and played with people like Maynard Ferguson, Art Blakey and Chick Corea.

Then he joined Rochester's prestigious Eastman School of Music, directed the school's jazz ensemble, and later conducted the Rochester Philharmonic in a performance of his own music. Still a young man, Mangione now ranks among the country's top jazz musicians.

Now go back half a century to a cotton plantation near the Mississippi Delta town of Indianola where a baby christened Riley B. King was born. No easy life for a black family then, or now. B.B.'s parents went their separate ways when he was 4. His mother died doing tenant farm work.

B.B. had an uncle, Booker T. Washington White, who preached at the local church, and accompanied himself on the guitar.

Fascinated by the instrument, the adolescent B.B. somehow saved $8 for a Sears catalog guitar, and taught himself to play at home. He played the blues.

In the 1940s B.B. hitchhiked to Memphis and got a job doing patent medicine commercials on a black radio station, which led to a disc jockey-performing job that got him the "Beale St." nickname.

Then for many years he drifted around the country playing and singing the blues — until in the late 1960s he was suddenly "discovered" as one of America's best jazz musicians. Lean years back there, but now it's pretty much the fat life for B.B. He's even performed at London's Royal Albert Hall, which is pretty good for a boy from Indianola.

Mangione and King. Their music is as different as their backgrounds.

Mangione is very, very modern, but without the freakish sounds. He's sleek and sophisticated, you can feel the polish of the Eastman years. B.B. King is crude, raw, basic. There is no fussing around with fancy harmonies; he gives you life as it is.

Both are out with new LPs: Mangione's "Bellavia" on A&M Records, and B.B.'s "Lucille Talks Back" on ABC. Try them back to back.

Cagney:retiredhooper who did a good job

By C. CHAMPLIN
The Los Angeles Times

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — James Cagney still thinks of himself, with merry Irish modesty, as a retired hooper who did a pretty good job of work in his day.

Since his retirement from the movies more than a dozen years ago, Cagney has made himself just about as seclusively private as a very famous and much-loved man without moving to a Himalayan cave. He last emerged, in a good cause, as the honoree at the annual fund-raising banquet of the American Film Institute in 1974.

It was the warmest event in recent Hollywood history, and Cagney made a brief and unforgettably affecting talk about the good old boys he grew up with in rough-tough New York and about "that touch of the gutter" which had been an essential flavoring in his career.

Cagney then eased back into his interrupted privacy, rejecting all the overtures that come to him through his old friend and interference-runner, producer A. C. Lyles, who is my neighbor and at whose house I recently ran into Cagney again. He is 78 this Bicentennial year, and as of last week the star of "Yankee Doodle Dandy" had had 20 requests for appearances on the Fourth of July. He says no, as he does to the lucrative movie offers which still arrive. He has, however, become an author, and his autobiography, "Cagney by Cagney," will be published by Doubleday on Feb. 13.

"Now there's a fat-headed title if there ever was one," he says, snarling for a second like Cody Jarrett, the tough guy he played in "White Heat."

"But I explain in the introduction that I had to use it because the others have all been taken. I don't even own my own name."

He dictated the book to a tape recorder over a three-year period. "Ninety-eight per cent of it is right from the tapes," Cagney says. He hated it. "The writing was a pain in the you-know-what. I never could stand to look at the galleys. Ken (McCormick, his editor at Doubleday) was going crazy."

He undertook the book in self-defense. "Way back in 1955 Ralph Wheelwright, a publicity man who was an old, old friend of mine, said I'd better do a book because if I didn't, somebody else would. But I said I didn't want to add my bit to all the junk-writing that comes out in the name of Hollywood stars."

"Ralph said, 'Yeah, but somebody'll try.' I said, 'Who could do it?' Hell, they could never even find anybody to double for me in boxing scenes. Cagney also wrote to congratulate George

Burns for his triumphant reviews in "The Sunshine Boys."

"I said, 'Now you're legitimate.' George wrote back and said, 'I'm a buck dancer and you're a buck dancer and your wife Bill is a buck dancer, and it's un-American of us to think of ourselves as anything else. Actors are a dime a dozen. I know; I just became one.'"

"And there you are. You're a hooper who did the work and if it went well, fine. Jack Warner once said he didn't know why Darryl Zanuck ever hired that lug, meaning me. And one of the guys who looked at me for Fox one time, Joe Pincus, said I'd never photograph and to forget it. But it all turned out fine."

Wholesale prices stable in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices remained stable in January as another big drop in farm prices offset increases for industrial goods, the government said today.

The Labor Department said prices actually rose four-tenths of a per cent last month but after adjustment for seasonal variations, the wholesale price index was unchanged.

Since rising 1.8 per cent in October, wholesale prices showed no change in November and declined an adjusted four-tenths of a per cent in December. Over the past three months, they have declined at an adjusted annual rate of 1.7 per cent.

This continued moderation of inflationary pressures and the report last week of a sharp drop in the nation's unemployment rate gives support to the Ford administration's forecast of continued economic recovery in the new year.

It also offered consumers the prospect of an easing in retail prices in the coming months, as trends in wholesale prices usually are reflected later at the retail level.

In January, the wholesale price index for farm products, processed foods and feeds fell 1.8 per cent following declines of 2.5 per cent in December and 1.2 per cent in November.

The decline in agricultural products offset a four-tenths of a per cent increase in industrial commodities.

Over the past 12 months, wholesale prices were up 4.4 per cent. The index stood at 179.4, meaning that it cost $179.40 to purchase a variety of goods that sold at wholesale for $100 in the 1967 base period.

Mahon: more restraints needed to avoid nation's fiscal collapse

PLAINVIEW — U.S. Rep. George Mahon has predicted the nation's "fiscal collapse is inevitable" if leaders continue to initiate new programs and expand old ones.

Speaking at a press conference here during Thursday's "George Mahon Day," the congressman was critical of big spending in government.

"We need more restraints, and the better informed the people are, the more insistent they will be for reductions," he said.

Mahon, who chairs the House Appropriations Committee, said that committee on various occasions has reduced the President's budget.

Therefore, he contended, the big spending comes from congressional committees other than appropriations.

The representative, completing his 42nd year in Congress, said in the conference he expects cuts in the federal defense budget this year. Russia is expanding its defenses more rapidly than the U.S., he said, but overall American military power is "equal to or superior with Russian military and that must continue."

Mahon added, however, maintaining U.S. military strength can be accomplished with some small budget cuts. He told reporters he is "for a strong defense at the lowest possible cost."

Continuing on the subject of global power, he charged Secretary of State Henry Kissinger with endangering U.S. world leadership.

Mahon described the secretary as a "brilliant but controversial man with an impossible job, but I feel he has gone a little too far to come to agreement with the Soviet Union."

He said he feels Kissinger is jeopardizing United States armament and defense leadership to appease the Soviets.

Reagan plans to follow Ford's lead on disclosure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he will release some more information about his finances after President Ford issued a financial report putting his family's net worth at $323,489.

Reagan's new report could confirm what public records and other sources already show: Reagan is a millionaire and one of the wealthiest candidates this year.

After Ford made public his financial statement Thursday, Reagan said he would "have some additional information" to bring up to date the limited financial report he filed in February 1975 as required by California law for officials when they leave office. Reagan is a former two-term governor of California.

"There has been no change in my financial situation since" then, he said. He did not say when the new information will be released.

Public records show Reagan owns three pieces of California real estate with a total market value of $2,363,000. And a source close to Reagan described as "pretty accurate" a report by the San Francisco Examiner that estimated Reagan's 1975 earnings at $700,000 from lectures, his radio show and newspaper columns.

Meanwhile, Common Cause, which describes itself as the citizen's lobby, released financial data about nine Democratic candidates. The only professional millionaire among them was Gov. Milton A. Shapp of Pennsylvania, with assets estimated at $2.8 million.

Sargent Shriver listed his total assets at $135,000 as of Aug. 31, 1975, but gave no information on his wife, the former Eunice Kennedy, who is reported to share in Kennedy family trusts.

The Ford financial statement covering the last 10 years said the President's net worth has increased by about $67,000 since he was nominated October 1973 to become vice president. Most of that reflected increased real estate values on four homes the Fords own or in which they have an interest.

The statement also said the Fords aren't saving any money in their own names despite the President's annual salary and expense allowance. Nessen said the President has purchased U.S. Savings Bonds in the names of his four children.

The figures show the first family paid $56,296 in federal income taxes in 1974 on a taxable income of $128,472. Federal income taxes on that amount of income normally would be higher than what Ford reported.

White House aides said they would seek an explanation from Ford's tax accountants but suggested that because the President's income rose by some $55,000 in 1974, he may have taken advantage of the tax law's income averaging provisions.

Ford's net worth was given at $323,489, with liabilities of $1,200 in "general bills outstanding." In 1973, when Ford was nominated for vice president, he listed assets of $261,078, with $4,700 in liabilities.

No net asset figures were discernible in reports filed by Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, a Democrat, in his home state. Following the reporting guidelines set by state law, the form gives amounts in terms of "over" or "under" $1,000 or $10,000. No totals of income, assets or liabilities are given.

Wallace lists sources of income including royalties from Wallace Campaign Inc., of over $10,000. He has demanded that his campaign organization pay him royalties for the use of his name on buttons and pictures. The only asset listed is a home in the range of $50,000 to $250,000. Wallace also lists debts to three banks in the range between $25,000 and $50,000.

Before Reagan said he would disclose more of his financial data,

Peter Kaye, spokesman for the President Ford Committee, said the question of personal financial disclosure will be a campaign issue.

"We think Reagan ought to supply financial information," Kaye said.

Shapp has disclosed estimated assets for 1974 as $2,812,096. Income in 1974 for Shapp and his wife was reported as $213,349, on which he paid $34,896 in federal income tax.

Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter has disclosed his and his wife's assets as of Dec. 31, 1974, as $588,698. This includes his peanut farm and Carter's Warehouse, both in Plains, Ga.

Carter reported adjusted gross income of $97,334 for 1974 on which he paid $26,153 in federal income tax.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., in a statement of assets as of April 1, 1975, listed $258,000. He also reported taxable income of 1974 of $62,678 and income taxes of $14,678.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., has revealed his assets at the end of 1975 as $199,000. He says his income for the year was $54,608 and he paid federal taxes of $16,549.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., has reported assets as of May 20, 1975, as $188,775. He lists joint income for himself and his wife for 1974 as $74,608 on which $20,212 in federal income tax was paid.

Shriver, in addition to listing holdings of $135,000 as of Aug. 31, 1975, reported taxable income of $127,054 for 1974, on which $41,041 in federal taxes was paid.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., listed his net worth as $115,400 in a report required by the Washington State Public Disclosure Commission. Jackson says he earned $77,661 in 1974 and paid federal taxes of $2,259, but he follows a policy of giving all income from honoraria to charitable and educational causes and listed $34,316

IRA hunger striker's death spurs violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Irish Republican Army and its supporters struck back with a rash of arson, bombing and shooting across Northern Ireland in retaliation for the death of hunger striker Frank Stagg in a British jail.

Police said there were about 100 incidents of violence Thursday night. Two men were killed, and 13 persons were injured.

Stagg's body was being flown today to the Irish Republic for burial in his native County Mayo. Hundreds of extra police were called to Dublin to guard against trouble, and more were to be stationed along the 180-mile route to Ballina, his home town.

The 34-year-old convicted terrorist died early Thursday in Wakefield Jail after a 61-day hunger strike. He was serving a 10-year sentence for bombings in Coventry and was demanding transfer to a jail in Northern Ireland.

The IRA proclaimed him a martyr and swore vengeance. In the violence that erupted, gunmen in a passing car shot and killed a 31-year-old constable in a village near Londonderry and wounded another policeman patrolling with him. Police said another man was killed and four men and two women were injured by an explosion in the Roman Catholic Falls Road area of Belfast. There was speculation that they were making bombs.

The two deaths raised the fatality toll in Northern Ireland's Catholic-Protestant war to 1,444 since August 1969 and 55 since the beginning of the year.

Other bombs injured four teenagers in a Belfast house, a soldier and a teen-age girl who was caught near an army patrol.

Police said a garage, a warehouse, homes and more than 40 buses and trucks were set on fire. All the mail posted Thursday in Belfast for London and southern England was destroyed when a postoffice van en route to the airport was hijacked and burned.

Several thousand persons marched in a torchlight procession in Belfast to protest Stagg's death. Troops broke up a "big riot" at Lurgan, in County Armagh, the army said.

In London, IRA supporters demonstrated near the home of Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, whose ministry is responsible for Britain's prisons and police. He announced three weeks ago that the government would not surrender to hunger-strike "blackmail."

Coup fells Nigerian

NIAMEY, Niger (AP) — Broadcasts from Lagos today announced the second military coup in less than seven months in Nigeria.

A lieutenant colonel whose name could not be understood announced the overthrow of Brig. Murtala Muhammed. He said the government had been dissolved, travel was forbidden and a curfew from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. was ordered.

"We are all together," the broadcast said.

The South African radio also reported the coup but gave no details.

It was the fourth military coup in (Continued on Page 2A)

Actor Sal Mineo stabbed to death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sal Mineo, known as "The Switchblade Kid" for his many film roles as a teenage tough, has been stabbed to death outside his Hollywood apartment house, authorities said.

Witnesses told police they heard screams and saw a man with long, blond hair running from the alley where Mineo was killed Thursday night.

Neighbors found the 37-year-old actor lying face-up in a pool of blood about 20 feet from a parking area behind his apartment, police said. He had been stabbed in the chest.

Bill Jones, a neighbor in the moderately expensive apartments near the Sunset Strip, said, "We heard about three yells. The last yell was 'Help.' We rushed out and saw Sal lying face-up, breathing really hard."

"He was like in a daze, trying to breathe. He didn't say anything."

Another neighbor, Mary Chance, 21, said, "It was too quiet. Then all of a sudden those screams, we heard those screams."

Neighbors said Mineo was quiet and kept to himself.

Authorities said the actor apparently lived alone and that his family resides in New York.

Mineo was in rehearsal for a starring role in "P.S. Your Cat Is Dead," a play scheduled to open next week at the Westwood Playhouse.

Recent television appearances by the baby-faced actor included roles in the Ellery Queen and Joe Forrester shows. Highlights of his acting career included his portrayal of a juvenile delinquent along with James Dean in "Rebel Without a Cause" and later as an Israeli terrorist in "Exodus." Both (Continued on Page 2A)

Transportation crisis upon us

ODESSA — A real crisis in transportation, particularly in highway transportation, is now upon us, Paul H. Coleman, district engineer with the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, said Friday.

But, studies now being conducted show the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation has a backlog of construction and right of way projects totaling $11 billion.

Coleman explained that reductions are now being considered in the number of grade separations and interchanges, the number of lanes, lane width, structure width, median width, signing and lighting and design speed.

Also, the highway department is considering elimination of frontage roads, elimination of emergency parking shoulders on long structures and downgrading freeways to expressways and, in some cases, to conventional two- and four-lane roads.

Other plans include the reduction of maintenance and operating expenditures, the identification of a first priority "backbone system" of highways, a moratorium on certain right of way purchases and cancellation or deferral of contract lettings.

Coleman said the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation has also contracted with McKinsey and Co., a noted management consulting firm, to study the conditions and to assist the department in finding the best courses of action to provide the most mobility for the available dollars.

Applications being accepted for transportation improvement

ODESSA — The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation today announced it is accepting applications for demonstration projects aimed at improving public transportation in rural and small urban areas.

The number of proposals chosen nationwide will depend on the number and cost of the applications submitted.

After a project has been selected by the Washington office, the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, aided by the applicant in the area to be served by the system, will conduct a public hearing.

Daytona officials rap top pole qualifiers

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "I guess you've got two cheaters in Victory Lane," Dave Marcis quipped after he and Darrell Waltrip won a pair of 125-mile qualifying races for Sunday's $350,000 Daytona 500 stock car classic.

Those two young rising stars of National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing Grand National racing were set down for rules violations after posting some of the fastest times in pole position qualifying last Sunday.

Officials ruled that the cars of Marcis, Waltrip, A.J. Foyt and Bruce Hill were speeded up by "non-approved" equipment. They had to make changes, requalify and start back in the pack for the 125-milers Thursday.

"It didn't hurt Dave and me much as it turned out," Waltrip said. "We just lost a position or two for Sunday. Justice will prevail, and I guess it did."

Foyt, whose Chevrolet developed mechanical trouble and lasted only nine laps, will start in 31st place. As fastest on Sunday, at 187.477 miles per hour, he would have been on the pole and $5,000 richer if his speed had not been disallowed.

Hill's Chevrolet made only four laps in the qualifier and he'll start 33rd.

The Marcis Dodge and Waltrip Chevrolet will start in the second row behind new faces Ramo Stott and Terry Ryan in a pair of Chevrolets. Stott and Ryan, whose cars were legal, inherited the inside and outside pole because of the three disallowed speeds.

Stott's car malfunctioned at the start of the first 125-miler and made only 35 of the 50 laps. Ryan was competitive and finished third behind Waltrip and Richard Petty's Dodge in the second qualifying event.

Speed Weeks attention turned today to the windup

of the International Race of Champions series with Foyt favored to take the $50,000 winner's prize. After three previous races in Michigan and California, Foyt leads the nine top drivers chosen from Formula 1, NASCAR and Indianapolis type cars.

In fact, Foyt with 31 points needed only to finish sixth or better to win the series. Bobby Allison with 25 points and Mario Andretti with 23 are the only ones who could beat him.

A 200-mile race around the 3.84-mile road course for NASCAR modified stock cars also was on today's program. A 300-mile event for NASCAR Late Model Sportsman stock cars will be run Saturday as a buildup for Sunday's richest stock car race ever run.

A favorable weather forecast is expected to draw more than 110,000 for Sunday's events. Nearly 60,000 were on hand for Thursday's qualifying races.

The qualifying events were as different as possible with two races matching the same type cars over the same course and distance, except one driver from each was hospitalized.

In the first race, John Banks, of Windsor, Ontario, flipped end over end and then went into a barrel roll, going into the 31-degree banking of the 2.5-mile superspeedway. He said he felt all right when taken to the infield hospital, but was taken to Halifax General Hospital for overnight observation for a possible concussion. Otherwise doctors said he had only multiple cuts and bruises.

Dave Decker of Elmhurst, Ill., crashed into the concrete barrier along the backstretch in the second race. He also was hospitalized overnight, for a possible cracked sternum.

Waltrip gambled on gasoline and beat Petty by half a lap. He pitted for fuel and repair of a flat tire during an early caution period.

Price control maneuvering resumes on battered plan

By PAUL E. STEIGER
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Maneuvering resumed Thursday over the Ford Administration's battered plan for lifting federal price controls from natural gas, and a new showdown could come as early as next week.

Despite a narrow but definitive defeat of natural gas deregulation by the House last week, Federal Energy Administration chief Frank G. Zarb told a press conference he is still hopeful Congress can be persuaded to lift the controls this year.

He included such a measure prominently in a list of legislation which he announced President Ford believes must be enacted before Congress goes on its summer recess.

At the same time, Zarb assailed a competing plan — approved by the House last week in lieu of the Senate-passed decontrol measure backed by Ford — that would abolish price regulation only for smaller gas firms while expanding it for major gas producers.

Backers of the House bill, however, are beginning to line up Senate support for their approach. They hope to capitalize on growing Senate sentiment favoring legislation that would break up major petroleum concerns by forcing them to divest themselves of some of their operations. Many of the companies that would be adversely affected by the House natural gas measure — known as the Smith bill, after Rep. Neal Smith (D-Iowa) — are among the giant oil firms that are targets of the divestiture movement.

The list includes such companies as Exxon, Gulf Oil Corp., Texaco Inc. and Mobil Oil Corp.

At stake in the natural gas fight are billions of dollars that would be paid by consumers in higher prices for natural gas or products made from it and channeled into the profit coffers of gas producers, should the current price curbs on gas sold to interstate pipelines be removed.

Gas used in the same state in which it is produced — intrastate gas — is not subject to price control.

The oil and gas industry and the Ford Administration back deregulation, arguing that unrestricted prices are necessary to call forth the investment in finding new supplies of the increasingly scarce fuel, on which many jobs depend. Unions and self-styled consumer groups have combined to fight the move, conceding that somewhat higher prices are needed but contending that a price surge such as would occur under deregulation is unnecessarily severe.

In October, the Senate passed by a 58-to-32 margin a measure — known as the Pearson-Bentzen bill after Sen. James B. Pearson (R-Kans.) and Sen. Lloyd M. Bentzen (D-Tex.) — that would eliminate controls on gas produced from wells drilled on land and phase them out over five years on gas produced offshore.

Despite that margin, supporters of the Smith bill believe they now have a good chance of getting Senate approval for their measure when Congress returns next Tuesday from its current recess.

For one thing, said James Flug, a former top aide to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and now head of an anti-oil industry group known as the Energy Action Committee, the true support for the Pearson-Bentzen bill was probably better reflected in some of the narrower, earlier votes on amendments than on the vote for final passage.

For another, Smith supporters say, the widespread spot shortages of natural gas predicted last fall for this winter have not materialized. Therefore, they argue, the urgency of such drastic action to protect jobs as decontrolling prices of natural gas may no longer seem so great to some senators.

Moreover, backers of the Smith measure say, now that the House has passed it, senators who believe some release from price controls is necessary but who don't want to go as far as the Pearson-Bentzen bill have something to rally around.

Finally, Smith backers contend, even if they cannot win quick passage of their measure in the Senate, the weight of normal congressional procedure is now heavily on their side. That procedure would call for a joint Senate-House conference to work out differences between the Pearson-Bentzen and Smith bills, and the members from both houses likely to be chosen for such a conference could be expected to lean closer to the House measure. Each house would have to approve the compromise bill before it could be sent to the White House.

At his press briefing, Zarb made clear that he is not eager to see such a conference to resolve differences between the two bills, although he said he did not "want to shut all doors" to that approach.

He said Ford would veto the Smith bill if it was sent to him. Zarb also released an FEA study purporting to show that the Smith bill would add more to home heating costs than deregulation even while stimulating less gas production. Supporters of the Smith bill disputed the assumptions in the FEA study.

At least one Democratic senator — John V. Tunney of California — widely mentioned by Smith supporters as one of those who voted for the Pearson-Bentzen measure in October but whom they think they can woo to their cause, said late Thursday that he continues to support the deregulation approach.

Reached by telephone in Napa, Calif., where he is campaigning for reelection, Tunney said the provisions in the Smith bill extending price controls to gas sold in intrastate markets by big firms would face a long constitutional challenge in the courts.

"I don't think we can afford the luxury of a two or four or six year delay" in resolving the gas price issue, Tunney said.

Explorer scheduled

Great Western Drilling Co., Midland, will drill a 9,500-foot exploratory test in Borden County, 5 1/2 miles northwest of Gail. It is No. 1 Clayton-Johnson.

Location is five miles northwest of the Aplark (Spraberry) field and 1/4 mile east of a 9,534-foot failure. Drillsite is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 29, block 31, T-6-N, T&P survey. Ground elevation is 2,937 feet.

Agency to study shipping program

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A federal agency will study the environmental impact of a proposal to ship Alaskan oil by tanker to Long

Blythe and on through southern Arizona and New Mexico to Midland, Tex.

From Midland it would be sent through existing distribution systems to Midwestern refineries.

The BLM said 30 to 50 employees will work out of the Long Beach project office on the 12-15 month effort to produce the environmental impact statement.

The Port of Long Beach is preparing a similar report for the State of California and is expected to complete its analysis of the port and harbor component by mid-March.

Beach and then transport it by pipeline to Texas.

November is the target date set by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management for publication of a draft environmental impact statement on the project, the bureau said Thursday.

Hearings will be held in December on a final statement, which will be published in April 1977.

The Alaskan oil pipeline is expected to be finished by mid-1977. Oil flow through the pipe is expected to exceed West Coast demands by early 1978.

The bureau will study a proposal to ship crude oil from Valdez, Alaska, to Long Beach in tankers; construct tanker facilities at Long Beach, and complete a 1,033-mile pipeline to Long Beach from Texas.

Under the proposal a new 42-inch pipeline would be built from Long Beach underground along the Los Angeles River Floodway to Whittier Narrows, and then to Beaumont.

At Beaumont it would be connected with an existing 30-inch natural gas pipeline, which would be converted to oil transportation.

The oil would flow through the existing pipeline, with limited segments of new construction, through the California desert, crossing the Colorado River below

Some wholesalers near panic state

CHICAGO (AP) — Gasoline Wholesalers at some stations in the Midwest are in "a state of near panic" because retail prices have fallen below the 50 cent mark for regular brands, says a prominent oil industry analyst.

He predicted that it a gallon, while others would go to 70 or 75 cents predicted $1 to $1.25.

Herb Hugo, senior editor of Platt's Oilgram, revealed Wednesday that retail gasoline prices at some stations have dipped to their lowest level in nearly four years.

Hugo added that the trend appears to be nationwide and that there is little immediate prospect that gas prices will rise much.

The oil analyst said the Oilgram, an industry publication, will report today that a price of 47.9 cents a gallon for regular plus 2 cents tax is common at independent stations in the Chicago area — a price "awfully close to cost."

While Hugo called the lower retail prices "a great piece of news for those of us who drive a car," he said the lower prices are a problem for the industry.

He said the average price for major brands has declined steadily since Labor Day, when it peaked at 65 cents a gallon.

At that time, said the editor, almost everybody associated with the oil industry expected the price to keep rising. Hugo

ODP checks port plans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Federal officials reviewing the offshore support proposals of Louisiana and Texas say they want to be certain the ports do not create a monopoly on crude oil imports.

Ernest T. Bauer, deputy director of the U.S. Department of Transportation's new Office of Deepwater Ports (ODP), and his assistant Lonnel Johnson commented in an interview here Thursday.

The ODP is responsible for overseeing all facets of the support reviews.

Johnson, a Federal Trade Commission lawyer assigned to the ODP, said support proposals could create "a rather dangerous dependence on a small portion of the industry" for oil imports.

Lea, Chaves get projects

Lea and Chaves counties, N.M., drew discovery completions.

Skelly Oil Co. has completed its No. 1-B West Jal Deep as a Fusselman gas strike in Lea, one mile north of the former dual Fusselman and Pennsylvanian gas pay opener in the Jal, West field.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 3,606 million cubic feet of gas per day, producing through perforations at 16,411-16,439 feet. The pay had been acidized with 40,000 gallons.

Total depth is 18,945 feet, and a 5-inch liner is hung from 14,322-18,930 feet. The plugged-back depth is 17,065 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 17-25-36.

CHAVES STRIKE
Marathon Oil Co. completed a Strawn gas strike in Chaves.

No. 1 State gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 1.5 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 6,218-6,268 feet, after acidizing pay with 4,000 gallons.

Drilled to 6,561 feet, it is plugged back to 6,345 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 21-48-27E, 214 miles southeast of the reopened Newmill (Pennsylvanian) gas field, but separated by failures and depleted Pennsylvanian wells.

Author paint future innovations in labor

NEW YORK (AP) — The year 2,000: No more assembly lines. Laborers assemble products from start to finish. They design their own factories and shops. They take sabbatical leaves. Supervisors aren't bosses but consultants to the employees, who run their own workdays.

That's the way it will be in the factory of tomorrow, according to Paul Dickson, the author of a new book on working.

These work innovations are not fantasies and will affect the greater part of the nation's work force, Dickson says in his book, "The Future of the Workplace." Some American and European companies now have these practices in operation, he said.

The Communications Division of Motorola, Inc., allows one person to put together, test and package the firm's pocket paging device. A Danish paint factory in Copenhagen was designed and planned by its workers. Time, Inc., International Business Machines Corp. and Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, a Boston firm, grant employees sabbatical leaves with pay for a year.

Dickson said in an interview that less than 1 per cent of the workers in this country perform in such systems where he says individual potentials and talents are recognized.

Dickson, a 36-year-old former reporter for McGraw-Hill, Inc., who also wrote a book on think tanks, said he spent about three years researching the current work.

"We've really made tremendous strides in taking care of people in terms of health and benefits," he said. "But now the revolutionary thing that's happening is the content of one's job."

"This means giving people independence, letting people pick their own hours, within reason, giving them freedom and letting them form groups that boss themselves."

Labor unions are just beginning to realize that the content of jobs is negotiable, and will have to play a greater role in making work systems more enlightened, he said.

Dickson, like other proponents of job enrichment, says that workers who have greater independence and responsibility and less supervision tend to produce more and take pride in their work.

He said most employers and employees are reluctant to alter the "boss and be bossed" system because of fear of change.

"A lot of people are desperately afraid, but that fear is not well founded because supervisors and executives who would be displaced by this will have a whole new world opened to them," he said.

Instead of having power over coffee break and restroom privileges, he said, supervisors would be involved with longrange company planning and would have more chances to be creative.

BRIDGE Happiness is coping at bridge table

By Alfred Sheinwald

Happiness at the bridge table is coping with an unexpected bad break: any sad sack can succeed when every thing goes well. Now the only question is: Would you be a happy hero or a sad sack if you met today's hand in actual play?

At the table you might win the first trick in dummy and lead the jack of diamonds for a finesse. West would win diamond tricks only with the ace, king and ten.

Since you need four diamond tricks for the slam, you should look for a play that will work even against a bad diamond break. Any play will work against a 3-2 or 4-1 break, so you should consider only the possibility that one opponent has all five diamonds.

DUMMY'S DIAMONDS
Win the first trick in your own hand, and lead a low diamond toward dummy. Whenever West decides to take the queen, you can win the other four tricks with high diamonds. If West plays low, dummy's ten wins, and you return to your hand with a club to lead another low diamond.

What if the five diamonds are with East instead of West? When you lead a low diamond to dummy's ten, East wins with the queen; and West's discard tells you the whole story. Later you win a diamond in dummy with the jack and turn a diamond to finesse through East's nine. You still make the slam.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S-A74; H-K8; D-AK832; C-KQ3. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three diamonds. Your 19 points in high cards enable you to make a jump takeout in a new suit, forcing to game and hinting at a slam. With this hand you plan to get to a slam no matter how weakly partner may rebid.

Hong Kong discovers new export to China

The Washington Post

HONG KONG — This 400-square mile colony lives by trade, and world recession has caused difficulties, in the words of the government, with "essential raw materials, soft market conditions, increasing competition, tighter financial liquidity and falling profit margins."

Yet 1976 began on an optimistic note with the announcement that Hong Kong has begun exporting at least one essential raw material, "night soil" — human excrement — to the People's Republic of China.

Despite recent advances in chemical fertilizer production, night soil still plays an important role in Chinese agriculture. And although speculators are not exactly bidding for night soil futures, the sales are expected to earn at least $200,000 this year.

This encouraging financial news was played down in the local press — perhaps because, as one local newspaper put it,

"The modern city dweller prefers not to think about where his or her night soil ends up."

But, the paper added, "The more business-minded amongst us will be happy to know that we are all now doing our bit to earn money for Hong Kong." Unlike petroleum and other raw materials, there is no reason to fear that the world-wide supply of night soil is in danger of being exhausted. Hong Kong's proximity to the China coast and its high-density population of 4 million gives the colony a competitive edge."

However, a close examination of Hong Kong's Urban Services departmental report gives less cause for long-range optimism. The output of night soil has fallen from more than 25,000 tons in 1965 to slightly more than 15,000 tons in 1975. The advance of modern plumbing is the most likely cause of this steady decline. The current market is not fully exploited.

Both parties probing for '76 'soft spot'

By RUDY MAXA

WASHINGTON — It's called "targeting" around the Republican and Democratic National Committee offices, and this year both parties have their research staffs poking for the soft spots in senators of the loyal opposition who might be particularly vulnerable to defeat.

The GOP, according to reliable sources, is trying to topple these Democratic senators: Joseph Montoya of New Mexico, Edmund Muskie of Maine, Henry Jackson of Washington, John Tunney of California and Gale McGee of Wyoming. Victories in all of those races would still not give the Republicans a majority, but it would help them out of the doldrums.

In Robert Strauss' shop, the majority party wants more. The seats of retiring Senators Hiram Fong of Hawaii, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Paul Fannin of Arizona are considered possible pick-ups. And incumbents up for re-election the Dems think are ripe for defeat are Senators William Roth of Delaware and Robert Stafford of Vermont.

In a pistol shoot-out, you should always squeeze the trigger while leaning forward because — should your opponent manage to plug you a couple of times — you can continue firing while falling. That's one trick of the trade. Watergate tough guy G. Gordon Liddy told one of his prison cellmates during his stay in the D.C. Jail last year.

Danny Wilkerson, or Mr. Diamond D, as he likes to call himself, says he and Liddy became friends in prison because he taught Liddy how to play chess. Liddy returned the favor by helping Wilkerson file a motion that convinced a judge to drop his possession of marijuana conviction. Wilkerson is now an entertainer at nightclubs in Washington and Liddy, of course, is maintaining his silence in prison in Danbury, Connecticut. Even the hard-hearted Liddy had one weakness, says Wilkerson. He would regularly trade precious cartons of cigarettes in exchange for his favorite food: apples.

Thanks to a Capital Architect's Office $2.7 million plan, those gracious, old-fashioned elevators run by students in the Cannon, Longworth and Russell Office Buildings on Capitol Hill are on their way out. Arriving to take their places are modern, automatic cars that have already irritated some congressmen.

"All of the members I talked with liked the sense of accountability that you don't get with the new buttons," laments Rep. James Symington (D-Mo.), who longs for the good old days when the elevators with the big glass windows enabled an operator to recognize and pick up legislators hurrying to make a floor vote. After six months of what Symington terms "a lot of banging, whacking and clanking," the first of the new elevators opened recently in the Cannon Building. It was a "members only" car, so it still featured an operator, though the unfortunate employee now has no seat. "Now it'll always stop when anyone calls it, even if a roll call vote is pending," explains Symington. "If the operator stops and opens the door to see who's there, he may have to tell a little old lady from Tulsa this is a 'members only' elevator. She may leave with a strange suspicion about Congress. In the past, he could go past and she might just think the elevator was full."

Footnote: modernization could also cut down on classic Hill elevator stories, such as the time a sassy operator lost his job after he told a diminutive passenger to "pipe down, Shortstuff" while he stopped to pick up a senator. He didn't know his passenger was the five-foot, six-inch senior senator from Texas, John Tower.

Foundation-favored and publicity-wise Jeremy Rifkin, founder of the maverick People's Bicentennial Commission, has no plans to sing a swan song come July 4th. PBC, the group that began as a gadfly challenge to the establishmentarian outlook of the government's bicentennial administration, finds itself a somewhat prosperous organization (1976 budget: $250,000) with grand hopes that stretch beyond the end of the bicentennial.

Conservatives are viewing Rifkin with alarm, labeling him a dangerous socialist. Rifkin's friends, conscious of his shrewd public relations sense, hint he loves the fanfare a bit too much. Rifkin eschews any personal political ambition but is not shy about quoting a Peter Hart poll the PBC commissioned late last year. The majority of those polled wanted a political movement to battle big business and favored a system whereby workers ran their own companies.
