Ford, Carter continue winning streaks

CHICAGO (AP) — President Ford and Jimmy Carter emerged from Illinois with victory today, as winners and losers alike turned to North Carolina, next week's stop on the trail of the Republican and Democratic presidential nominations.

Ford fashioned a runaway victory over Ronald Reagan, his fifth win in as many primary outings over the conservative GOP challenger.

Carter, firmly established as the Democratic front-runner, got an added bonus in a surprising haul of delegates from Tuesday's primary. The former Georgia governor trounced George C. Wallace, Sargent Shriver and Fred Harris and Shriver suspended active campaigning.

Neither Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who defeated Carter in Massachusetts, nor U.S. Rep. Morris K. Udall was on the Illinois ballot.

Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss said Carter's victory in the Northern, industrial state showed "that a Southerner can be viewed as a national candidate." There was another winner: Chicago

Mayor Richard J. Daley, trying to restore his political clout in the race closest to home. Daley's candidate for governor, Secretary of State Michael Howlett, won the Democratic nomination over incumbent Daniel Walker, longtime Daley foe.

In the November general election, Howlett will face Republican James R. Thompson, 39, a former U.S. attorney, who easily defeated businessman Richard Cooper.

With 98 per cent of the vote in the preferential primary or "beauty contest" counted, Ford had 449,471 or 59 per cent of the vote to 306,501 or 40 per cent for Reagan. Perennial Illinois candidate Lars Daly got the other one per cent of the vote. Among Democrats, with 98 per cent of the vote counted, the tally was: Carter 618,367 - 48 per cent Wallace 353,987 - 28 per cent Shriver 207,438 - 16 per cent Harris 96,887 - 8 per cent The race measures popularity, but

The big surprise, in separate voting for delegates, was the block of 58 that Carter was winning with 74 per cent of the vote counted. His supporters had said that getting just 25 would be a "massive achievement." Daley was winning 88 committed to Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, who is not a candidate. Wallace had three delegates.

Among the Republicans, with 73 per cent of the votes counted, Ford had 64 delegates, Reagan 14 and 14 were uncommitted.

Reagan, in California as the votes came in, said he had achieved his goal and again stressed that his strength lies in Western and Southern states still to be counted. He prepared for a campaign trip to North Carolina

Wallace said he was "glad to be second in Illinois." The Alabama governor, paralyzed from the waist down because of an assassination attempt in 1972, said the question of his health was hurting him, although he repeated that he's in fine shape. 'I shall continue my campaign,' Wallace said in an interview on the NBC "Today" show. "Polls show me leading in states like Wisconsin ... I expect to win the first one (primary) in North Carolina.

Carter said Illinois was "extremely important ... This is the biggest percentage margin that I've had yet.

Strauss, also in an interview on the Today" show, said Carter was definitely the front-runner. "Now we have to wait for Wisconsin (April 6) and see what congressman Udall does. And I think Gov. Wallace has got to the make-or-break stage."

Strauss said he did not think any candidate would go to the Democratic convention in New York with enough delegates for a first-ballot victory.

The delegates elected in Illinois from the 24 congressional districts are not bound to vote for the candidates to whom they are committed, even on the first ballot.

The Democrats will send 169 delegates to the national convention from Illlinois, the Republicans 101. Ford called his supporters after victory and declared, "That's a great victory and another real clincher in our effort to win the nomination.."

Carter, whose delegate slates were successful in rural and suburban counties, said he "did not expect to win nearly this big." Carter now has won four primaries and said the battle for the Democratic nomination probably would wind up between himself and Jackson with Udall possibly "hanging in." Shriver, his campaign already ailing after bad showings in New England, said he has "no intention of entering any more primaries," except those in Texas and Maryland. He'll do that only to "protect" delegates already on the ballot pledged to him, he said. But he predicted no one would win he nomination on the first ballot and that the national convention will turn into a free-forall nome state.

"I intend to be in that free-for-all," Shriver said.

As Shriver throttled his campaign, California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. told reporters in Sacramento he in-tends his run for the Democratic nomination to be national. Brown said, however, he hasn't decided whether he will solicit money or run in primaries outside of the one in his Brown, 37, denied he is solely a California favorite son and added, "I will campaign in California in the context of a national campaign. It will begin to materialize in California and spread east if that is the will of the

Rubin Carter wins new trial

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) - The New Jersey Supreme Court today ordered a new trial for former middleweight boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter and a codefendant, ruling that their 1967 triple-murder trial had been substantially prejudiced.

In a unanimous 7-0 ruling, the court said the rights of Carter and codefendant John Artis had been substantially prejudiced by the prosecution's failure to disclose promises of leniency to Arthur Bradley, a key prosecution witness who also faced criminal charges at

The court said: "The withholding of material evidence favorable to a defendant is a denial of due process and the right to a fair trial irrespective of the good faith or had faith of the prosecution."

Carter and Artis were arrested in October 1966 and charged with a triple murder at a Paterson, N.J., bar in June of that year. The two were tried the following spring and convicted. Carter was sentenced to three life terms in state prison, two of them to be served consecutively. Until today's ruling, he could not have been released from prison on parole until 1994. The court's order makes it possible for Carter to seek bail immediately while awaiting retrial.

Haley Library to be open to everyone

By LYNNE WELLS

The Nita Stewart Haley Memorial Library is "oriented to the serious student and researcher but there still will be plenty of things to appeal to those who have only a casual interest in Western history," explained Don Hedgpeth, director of the library.

It is not strictly a library, nor is it a museum. It is a combination of the two, Hedgpeth said. The library is a "resource collection with an abundance of visual materials," he said. No complete catalog of the collection exists, but Hedgpeth estimates it contains "in excess of" 10,000 items.

The collection, as described by Hedgpeth, represents the history of the American West, with a major emphasis on Texas and the South-

The permanent building, due to open July 5, will be at West Indiana and L streets. Construction on the outside of the building is about six weeks from completion. Hedgpeth said. Work on the interior and moving the collection into its permanent home should be finished shortly before the opening date, he added.

Most of the collection is in Canyon. with part of it in Midland at 1801 W.

The library is named in honor of Mrs. Nita Stewart Haley, wife of cowboy-historian J. Evetts Haley of Canyon, Mrs. Haley died in 1958, and Haley established the trust for the library in 1961. The collection features books, pamphlets, manuscripts, letters, interviews, artifacts and similar items dealing with trail driving, ranch life and cowboys of the Southwest. Many are rare items from Haley's personal collection.

The library also has the 649 negatives and photographs of Erwin E. Smith, covering all phases of the cattle industry. The collection was a gift to the library from Smith's sister, Mrs. L. M. Pettis of Bonham. Haley wrote the text that accompanied a book of Smith's photographs, "Life on the Texas Range," published in 1952 by the University of Texas Press.

The highlight of the collection is the Alamo Bell, Hedgpeth said. There are also many other artifacts "to see and touch and feel," he said. In addition to the range cattle industry, the library has books on Indians, the oil industry, flowers and wildlife, blographies, cities, towns, forts and other states and even several cookbooks.

The library has a "good collection" of original documents from the Texas Republic and from the Spanish and the Mexican periods of the state. The library has two rare and important books by Charles Goodnight, Hedgpeth said. One is a historical and biographical record of Texas cattlemen, published in 1895 in St. Louis, Mo., and the other is a collection of prose and poetry, published in Kansas City, Mo., in 1905.

Two original photo albums, one of the XIT ranch of Texas and another of the John Chisum ranch of New Mexico, are like family albums, Hedgpeth said.

The complete works of O. Henry, Andy Adams and W. H. Hudson are featured in the collection. Adams and Hudson wrote about the vaqueros and gauchos, the cowboys of Mexico and Argentina, who share a "common heritage" with the American cowboy, Hedgpeth said.

One of the rarest items in the collection is Haley's "Ode to Nita," which he wrote to read at his wife's funeral. Only 100 copies of the ode were published, and they were given to friends of the Haleys, Hedgpeth

"We want people to come in," Hedgpeth emphasized, and he is planning seminars, lectures and art and artifact displays to appeal to the non-academic population.

The central room of the permanent library will be used mainly as an exhibit hall, with rotating exhibits. Each exhibit will feature artwork, artifacts, books, pamphlets and other materials to enable the viewer to get the "total feel" of the subject, Hedgpeth explained.

Some of the displays will come from materials in the Haley Memorial Library collection, while others willbe brought in on a loan basis from other sources, Hedgpeth said. Materials for art shows will be loaned to the library from other sources, since it does not really have a large art collection, he said. Hedgpeth has already arranged for upper level history students at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin to work as interns at the library this fall. Dr. Roger Olien of the history department has helped with the organization of this program. The students will be involved in research using materials in the collection or will get practical experience in library management, Hedgpeth explained. The exact program will be tailored to the student's needs.

Hedgpeth has also met with Dr. Al Langford of Midland College and Dr. James H. Mailey of the Midland Independent School District to develop

Magna Carta junket vote scheduled today

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - House Speaker Carl Albert (D-Okla.), enlisting President Ford in an all-out lobbying effort, appeared Tuesday to have switched enough votes to send 25 members of Congress plus wives and staff to London to accept a loaned copy of the Magna Carta.

An Albert aide said the speaker was having about 95 per cent success in turning around congressmen who helped vote down the proposed trip last week, 219 to 167. Spot checks bore out the claim.

However, on the eve of a House vote today to reconsider the matter, a British official contradicted Albert on a key point in the controversy.

Albert has been calming congressmen's election-year jitters and winning votes with the argument that the trip could not be called a "boonposed by the British, not the Americans. An official of the British branch of the Interparliamentary Union, which is handling arrangements for the trip, told The Los Angeles Times in London that the number 25 "was sort of dreamed up by Carl Albert, Mike Mansfield and (other) congressional

Irish chief addresses joint session

WASHINGTON (AP) - Irish Prime Minister Liam Congrave said today American contributions are being used to buy guns and explosives in Northern Ireland and are "helping to kill or maim Irish men and women of every religious persuasion."

"They (American contributors) are not helping, whatever they may think, to bring an end to what they call the British presence in Ireland," Cosgrave said in a speech prepared for a joint meeting of Congress.

Before visiting Capitol Hill, Cosgrave began the first St. Patrick's day visit to the United States by an Irish head of government by pinning a shamrock on President Ford and praising a "special friendship' between their two countries.

Immediately after his welcoming ceremony on the south lawn of the White House, Cosgrave met with Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Besides the troubles in Northern Ireland, Ford and Cosgrave were expected to talk about increased trade between the two nations.

Cosgrave, who also plans to make speeches across the country, told Congress there are some Americans "who contribute in the most direct way possible" to violence by knowingly sending military goods to Northern Ireland.

In those speeches, aides to the Prime Minister said before his departure from Dublin, Cosgrave will single out some Irish-American organizations as prime sources of money and arms used by IRA

A large number of Americans, whether knowingly or unknowingly, have contributed to "organizations nominally engaged in relief work which have used that money to buy guns and explosives," Cosgrave said.

Regulations spawn inflated prices, waste, delay

nd EVANS WITT

WASHINGTON (AP) - Because of federal regulation, it costs almost twice as much to fly from Chicago to Minneapolis as it does to fly between San Francisco and Los Angeles, even though the trips cover about the same distance.

A New Jersey company wastes 90,000 gallions of fuel a year because the government won't let the parent company's trucks carry goods for its Florida subsidiary.

TWO GROUPS filed competing applications for a radio station license in California's Central Valley 36 years ago, but the government hasn't made up its mind which application to ap-

In 1972, growers left 14,000 tons of cherries to rot in orchards because of a federal marketing order designed to keep prices up.

Inflated prices, waste, delay: these are the price Americans pay for federal agencies to regulate prices and control competition in private

These agencies' defenders - including generally the industries they regulate - say the costs of regulation are justified by providing services to sparsely populated areas, stabilizing prices and preventing strong firms from squeezing weaker ones out of busaness

BUT AN ODD ALLIANCE of consumer advocates and conservatives reject these arguments and say many agencies' powers should be drastica! by cut. Ralph Nader and Ronald Reagan, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and President Ford are among those who have called for massive changes at the Interstate Commerce Commission, Civil Aeronautics Board and other agencies.

Perhans the clearest example of the costs of economic regulation comes with the interstate airlanes, which are regulated as to fares and routes by the CAB. Airlines that fly solely within a state are not subsect to the CAB flies thousands of people every day between San Francisco and Los Angeles for $25.50 one way. That's a 347-mile trip within the state of California.

The Northwest Orient fare between Chicago and Minneapolis - about 355 miles - is $45.37. Thus, that fare, controlled by the CAB, is close to twice the fare regulated only by a state government.

The CAB and major airlines argue that the concept of "public service" must be added to the cost equation. They say many smaller cities and towns would lose air service - or have it only at the higher rates because such service is not profitable. The CAB now requires carriers to fly such routes, and the carriers argue that the profits from other routes must support the moneylosing

"IF YOU THINK those major airlines make any money by going into those little towns, of course, they don't," says Sen. Hubert Humphrey, d-Minn. "But it's part of a service. It's like Rural Free Delivery. We've got a lot of city slickers that don't think farmers ought to get their mail

Since there is little or no competition in fares among the airlines, the competition is reduced to expensive, but not necessarily significant areas

But now the Rock Island line is bankrupt, and Union Pacific really doesn't want to merge any more.

On Jan. 12, the ICC once again extended the time limits for another six months for anyone interested in the case to express an opinion.

Just complying with agencies' intricate regulations on price and competition often costs money, fuel or other limited materials.

FOR EXAMPLE, a Department of Transportation study discovered that a big manufacturer of building materials in New Jersey ships three truckloads of goods a week from its main plant to Tampa, Fla. The trucks make the return trip empty.

Couch, who is in charge of dalism, has been cut

This company has a subsidiary in southern Florida that sends three truckloads of goods a week to eastern Pennsylvania. But the subsidiaries' trucks make the return trip south empty - because the ICC will not let a subsidiary's trucks carry goods for the parent company or vice versa.

THE DOT STUDY, which did not name the firm, concluded that this one company could save 360,000 miles of useless travel and 90,000 gallons of fuel a year just by running trucks in a circuit from New Jersey to Tampa to southern Florida to eastern Pennsylvania.

The ICC won't allow it. The rationale is that allowing different firms to carry one another's goods - even when they are commonly owned would undercut the for-hire truckers.

ICC regulation of the trucking industry is required by law to eliminate destructive or unfair competition among the "common carriers," the firms that haul goods for hire.

The ICC tells truckers precisely what kinds of goods they can carry, precisely what highways they can use and what they can charge. The ICC also limits competition by denying thousands of applications each by truckers desiring to offer new

THE MAJOR TRUCKING firms band together in "rate bureaus" that decide what to charge for hauling. These cartels, exempt from antitrust prosecution, then challenge any attempts to have lower rates approved by the ICC.

This keeps shipping prices higher than they could be.

An Agriculture Department study found that shipping rates for frozen fruits and vegetables dropped 18 per cent when the courts ruled those products exempt from ICC oversight. Another Agriculture study showed rates for dressed poultry plummeted 33 per cent when ICC regulation was

THE AMERICAN FARMER has often been the subject of praise and promises of support on the floor of Congress.

But Congress has done more than just talk about supporting farmers: federal law allows price-fixing and strict limits on competition in the production and sale of many agricultural products, mainly milk, fruit, nuts and vegetables

In the harsh years of the Dust Bowl and the Depression, when farmers were at the mercy of plunging prices and middlemen, Congress opened loopholes in federal antitrust laws to allow farmers to ban together in cooperatives. Without the exemption, such co-ops would be illegal.

But now many co-ops are big businesses that work closely with arms of government called 'marketing orders," which commonly control production, quality, the flow of produce to the market and sometimes even prices.

ASSOCIATED MILK Producers Inc. which controls up to 90 per cent of the market in some Midwestern areas, is a $1.4-billion-a-year giant that ranks 141st on the Fortune 500 list of industrial corporations.

Ocean Spray controls 85 per cent of the nation's cranberry sales. Sunkist Growers Inc. controls 75 per cent of the oranges and 88 per cent of the fresh lemons grown in California and

The secretary of agriculture, who oversees the marketing orders, is required by law to protect consumers from price-gouging increases by the coops. Yet the government has never penalized a co-op for boosting prices, even though some dairy co-ops have charged prices up to 22 cents a gallon above the federal minimums for milk.

SHEER WASTE CAN be the result of the federal marketing orders, since supplies are often held low to keep

In 1970, about one-quarter of the California cling peach crop was destroyed intentionally and 8,600 acres of trees pulled up. In 1972, Ocean Spray reported 600,896 barrels of cranberries that had been held off the market were "lost due to shrinkage.' Farmers and Agriculture Department economists argue that these government restrictions, in the long run, help to even out what would otherwise be "boom-and-bust" cycles of low prices and ruinous competition alternating with short supplies and high prices.

BUT OTHER ECONOMISTS disagree.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability says a new study shows milk prices would fall 4.5 cents a gallon if marketing orders were wiped out. For all dairy products, consumers would save $100 million to $150 million a year. And the council adds that farmers' income would fall only $50 million to $100 million, because of the waste in the current system.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - With her father among the final witnesses, Patricia Mearst's trial for bank robbery appears all but assured of reaching the jury by week's end. U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter hinted Tuesday that he would reject efforts by either U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. or defense counsel F. Lee Bailey to carry testimony beyond today.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill has asked a federal appeals court to nullify the wide ranging reforms ordered for the state's juvenile

Hill told the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday that only a three-judge federal panel could issue such sweeping changes.

At issue was an August 1974 decision by U.S.

District Court Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler, who ordered Gatesville State School and Mountainview School closed.

Judge Justice also ruled that Texas children put into correctional institutions had the right to treatment. Justice laid down a long list of regulations by which such treatment must be accomplished.

The ruling came in the 1971 class action suit brought on behalf of Alicia Morales, then an inmate of Catagorilla and the ather lunguilles against James

Regulations spawn inflated prices, waste, delay

and EVANS WITT

WASHINGTON (AP) - Because of federal regulation, it costs almost twice as much to fly from Chicago to Minneapolis as it does to fly between San Francisco and Los Angeles, even though the trips cover about the same distance.

A New Jersey company wastes 90,000 gallons of fuel a year because the government won't let the parent company's trucks carry goods for its Florida subsidiary.

TWO GROUPS filed competing applications for a radio station license in California's Central Valley 26 years ago, but the government hasn't made up its mind which application to ap-

In 1972, growers left 14,000 tons of cherries to rot in orchards because of a federal marketing order designed to

Inflated prices, waste, delay: these are the price Americans pay for federal agencies to regulate prices and control competition in private business.

These agencies' defenders - including generally the industries they regulate - say the costs of regulation are justified by providing services to sparsely populated areas, stabilizing prices and preventing strong firms from squeezing weaker ones out of

BUT AN ODD ALLIANCE of con sumer advocates and conservatives reject these arguments and say many agencies' powers should be drastically cut. Ralph Nader and Ronald Reagan, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and President Ford are among those who have called for massive changes at the Interstate Commerce Commission, Civil Aeronautics Board and

Perhaps the clearest example of the costs of economic regulation comes with the interstate airlines, which are regulated as to fares and routes by the CAB. Airlines that fly solely within a state are not subject to the CAB flies thousands of people every day between San Francisco and Los Angeles for $25.50 one way. That's a 347-mile trip within the state of California.

The Northwest Orient fare between Chicago and Minneapolis - about 355 miles - is $45.37. Thus, that fare, controlled by the CAB, is close to twice the fare regulated only by a state government.

The CAB and major airlines argue that the concept of "public service" must be added to the cost equation. They say many smaller cities and towns would lose air service - or have it only at the higher rates because such service is not profitable. The CAB now requires carriers to fly such routes, and the carriers argue that the profits from other routes must support the moneylosing

"IF YOU THINK those major airlines make any money by going into those little towns, of course, they don't," says Sen. Hubert Humphrey, d-Minn. "But it's part of a service. It's like Rural Free Delivery. We've. got a lot of city slickers that don't think farmers ought to get their mail

Since there is little or no competition in fares among the airlines, the competition is reduced to expensive. but not necessarily significant areas - free champagne or drinks, stewardesses' uniforms and the variety of meals. In general, the airlines which stay within a state do not offer such frills — another reason for their

A REGULATORY DECISION can mean millions of dollars for a company and touch thousands of people. Because of the complexity of the issues and the constitutional mandate to hear all sides, agencies often take years to decide cases.

But sometimes the cases stretch interminably

The Federal Communications Commission has been thinking about a petition from West End Radio Co. in Tracy, Calif., for a radio station license since Aug. 31, 1950. And it's also been considering the competing application from Olympia Broadcasting in Carmichael, Calif.

The FCC's file on the applications is thick, but it lacks one item: a final

AT THE ICC, it's been 13 years since the Union Pacific Railroad asked to merge with the Rock Island line, which was in financial trouble. Thousands of pages of testimony have been taken on the issues. But now the Rock Island line is bankrupt, and Union Pacific really doesn't want to merge any more.

On Jan. 12, the ICC once again extended the time limits for another six months for anyone interested in the case to express an opinion.

Just complying with agencies' intricate regulations on price and competition often costs money, fuel or other limited materials.

FOR EXAMPLE, a Department of Transportation study discovered that a big manufacturer of building materials in New Jersey ships three truckloads of goods a week from its main plant to Tampa, Fla. The trucks make the return trip empty.

This company has a subsidiary in southern Florida that sends three truckloads of goods a week to eastern Pennsylvania. But the subsidiaries' trucks make the return trip south empty - because the ICC will not let a subsidiary's trucks carry goods for the parent company or vice versa.

THE DOT STUDY, which did not name the firm, concluded that this one company could save 360,000 miles of useless travel and 90,000 gallons of fuel a year just by running trucks in a circuit from New Jersey to Tampa to southern Florida to eastern Penn-

The ICC won't allow it. The rationale is that allowing different firms to carry one another's goods - even when they are commonly owned would undercut the for-hire truckers. ICC regulation of the trucking industry is required by law to eliminate destructive or unfair competition among the "common carriers," the firms that haul goods for hire.

The ICC tells truckers precisely what kinds of goods they can carry, precisely what highways they can use and what they can charge.

The ICC also limits competition by denying thousands of applications each by truckers desiring to offer new services.

THE MAJOR TRUCKING firms band together in "rate bureaus" that decide what to charge for hauling. These cartels, exempt from antitrust prosecution, then challenge any attempts to have lower rates approved

This keeps shipping prices higher than they could be.

An Agriculture Department study found that shipping rates for frozen fruits and vegetables dropped 18 per cent when the courts ruled those products exempt from ICC oversight. Another Agriculture study showed rates for dressed poultry plummeted 33 per cent when ICC regulation was

THE AMERICAN FARMER has often been the subject of praise and promises of support on the floor of

But Congress has done more than just talk about supporting farmers: federal law allows price-fixing and strict limits on competition in the production and sale of many agricultural products, mainly milk, fruit, nuts and

In the harsh years of the Dust Bowl and the Depression, when farmers were at the mercy of plunging prices and middlemen, Congress opened loopholes in federal antitrust laws to allow farmers to ban together in cooperatives. Without the exemption, such co-ops would be illegal.

But now many co-ops are big businesses that work closely with arms of government called 'marketing orders," which commonly control production, quality, the flow of produce to the market and sometimes even prices.

ASSOCIATED MILK Producers Inc. which controls up to 90 per cent of the market in some Midwestern areas, is a $1.4-billion-a-year giant that ranks 141st on the Fortune 500 list of industrial corporations.

Ocean Spray controls 85 per cent of the nation's cranberry sales. Sunkist Growers Inc. controls 75 per cent of the oranges and 88 per cent of the fresh lemons grown in California and disagree. The Council on Wage and Price Stability says a new study shows milk prices would fall 4.5 cents a gallon if marketing orders were wiped out. For all dairy products, consumers would save $100 million to $150 million a year. And the council adds that farmers' income would fall only $50 million to $100 million, because of the waste in the current system.

"I will rule preliminarily on that right now," Carter replied, "and the answer is no." The trial is now in its eighth week.

Park-naming requests approved

Requests by the Midland Zoological Society to dedicate a new zoo exhibit in the memory of George H. Vineyard and the Midland Kiwanis Club to develop a park site to be named in their honor prompted discussion of establishing guidelines for naming parks and exhibits at Tuesday's Parks and Recreation Commission

The request to dedicate the new alligator exhibit at Cole Park Zoo in Vineyard's memory passed unanimously. Vineyard, a former Parks and Recreation Commission member and vice president of the Midland Zoological Society, died of cancer about three months ago.

The Midland Kiwanis request to work with the city in developing a park at Haynes and Whitney Drive passed despite two negative votes. Martha Houston and Dick Saxe objected to the part of the motion saying the park would be named for the establish a policy on naming parks and monuments, but Tommie Strake felt care should be taken not to be too restricting.

Wayne Kohout, superintendent of parks, told the group the park would be used as a model for future parks. The area will feature a playground, a shade ramada and landscaping. The designer will be Scott Price, who has designed several parks in Houston, Dallas and College Station.

when capital improvement funds are available after Oct. 1, Kohout said. Bob Thomson said these were the first naming requests in six years. He noted the Parks and Recreation Commission held a special meeting in 1960 to re-name all the parks, with the approval of the City Council.

Work on the project would begin

The group also approved a request by the Miss Softball League to work with the city in building another playing field. The lot is bordered by Storey, Cuthbert, Alpine and Tarlton Streets.

A backstop will have to be put in grass planted and a water meter and tap installed, at a cost of $500, before the field will be ready.

Bob Paxton added an amendment to the motion that a "fair and equitable agreement" regarding the purchase of the water meter be worked out between the two groups.

The commission praised the Kiwanis and the Miss Softball America League for their efforts in working with the city.

The Midland Shrine Association has given permission to use Midland Cub Stadium for the Shrine Circus; Sept.

The Shriners will pay a $200 cleanup deposit, with the Demolays doing the work. They will also pay rent of $150 and insurance at $15 per day. Commissioners noted the insurance fee is the only added cost from when the Shriners used the facility last

In other action, the commission: Granted the Alamo YMCA permission to use Alamo Pool for its summer programs. City employes will staff the pool to insure all rules are obeyed, and YMCA employes will organize the programs.

Approved a request by the Midland Rotary Club to use Wadley-Barron Park May 1 for a get out the vote rally. Clarke Straughan told the group the rally was part of the Rotary Clubs "Free Enterprise Week."

Chairman Dick Spruill appointed commission member Carol Burns to the parks committee. She said she was interested in this committee so she could "learn."

The group also voted to change their meeting time to 3 p.m. The next meeting will be April 14, because the regular meeting date on the third Tuesday of the month conflicts with Easter vacation, and several commissioners plan to be out-of-town.

Property addition requests denied

Four requests for property additions violating city ordinances were denied and four were approved at Tuesday's Board of Adjustments meeting.

Members Roy Prescott, Jimmie Leath and Tom Harrell had to wait for alternate member Tom Stovell to arrive so they could begin the afternoon session. Regular member Art Donnelly was out of town.

Mrs. Thelma Lovett's request to build a storage room in violation of rear yard width requirements was denied by the board.

Several of her neighbors voiced objections, fearing any additions on the Lovett property would decrease the value of their own.

Another neighbor, L. P. Starett, said he was worried about the possible fire hazard, and said the Lovetts had been working on various construction projects at their home. 606 Devonian Dr., for a number of Speaker for the event is to be Golden Richards, wide receiver for the Dallas Cowboys.

Board members also denied a request by Paul Noel of Cord Land and Development to build a duplex at 2602 N. Pecos St. in violation of front set back requirements.

The duplex would have exceeded the requirements by about two feet for about 12 feet along the house due to the irregular shape of the lot. One neighbor said he thought this would cause a traffic hazard if a fence was ever built around the duplex. Jimmie Leath asked Noel if he could stay within the required boundaries by using a different house plan, and Noel said he could. In other action, the board: Denied a request by Mrs. Barry A. Beal, No. 2 Deerfield St., to build a

Father won't take blue for fourth child

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am expecting my fourth child in May. My husband and I already have three boys, and of course we'd like to have a little girl this time because four is my limit. My husband constantly tells me and everyone else he sees that if I don't have a girl this time, he will "divorce" me. (He's only kidding of course, but it hurts me to hear it just

WOMEN'S NEWS

DEAR ABBY: Since we have returned from our Christmas vacation, I have needed to get something off my chest.

Every year my husband insists that we take our children to visit his parents over the holidays because they are so eager to see the grandchildren and they'd be "hurt" if we didn't. This involves a four-day automobile trip, which we make only once a year.

During the eight days we were there this year, the grandparents left us and our children four times to babysit for their daughter while she and her husband attended some holiday

I didn't expect my husband's parents to stay home all the time we were there, but I did resent them spending so much time with their daughter, who lives right in town and sees them the rest of the year.

Since I don't have the nerve to point this out to them, I hope you'll print this as a reminder to grandparents that when their children and grandchildren make such a special effort to visit them, they should limit their outside activities.

Thanks. It's very hard to discuss inlaw problems with a husband .-FEELS BETTER

DEAR FEELS: Don't rely on the in-laws to see this and mend their ways. The solution to your problem can be found through some honest dialogue with your husband. You have a legitimate beef. Start talking.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think about a person who would accept a lovely, hand-crocheted gift and then enter it in a handicraft show as her own creation? She even removed my "especially handmade" label from it.—HURT AND FURIOUS

Big Spring auxiliary seeking volunteers

The Midland Volunteer Auxiliary to the Big Spring State Hospital has expressed a need for new members of the organization, which serves patients in the Big Spring facility.

Game parties are held every Tuesday, and fruit, cigarettes and gifts are distributed by the volunteers to patients. The auxiliary currently is preparing plans and refreshments for a picnic in April for the patients.

Officers of the auxiliary for the coming year are Mrs. R. O. Smith, chairman, Mrs. W. F. Prothro, co-chairman; Afton Fondren, secretary; Mrs. T. G. Turpen, treasurer; Mrs. Herman Norton, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. John Caldwell,

Two Midland women, Mrs. Earl Johnson and Mrs. Harry Denton, met with officials of the hospital in 1955 to discuss ways in which women in Midland could assist the hospital. Midland volunteers were enlisted and the auxiliary was formed. Mrs. Johnson was at that time executive secretary of the Texas State Mental Health Hospital Development Association and was aware of the great need for volunteer workers in the hospital.

In November 1956 a campaign was started to obtain Christmas gifts for 800 patients and, as a result, 1,600 gifts were presented to the patients. These gifts were collected from women's clubs, civic and church organizations, merchants and other individuals. This project was so successful that in 1957 a volunteer council composed of prominent citizens and club representatives of Big Spring and surrounding cities was

Kissinger scrambling to survive as political issue

By PATRICK J. SLOYAN

WASHINGTON - President Ford's campaign manager was snarling at his television set as the New Hampshire primary returns were being analyzed by Roger Mudd of CBS. "Tell us what to do, Roger," snapped Howard Callaway. .So, CBS polled voters on detente and Secretary of State Kissinger's...." Mudd said.

"Oh no," Callaway howled. "We'll get killed on that poll. Detente is killing us." Callaway was right. Mudd noted that 60 per cent of those questioned outside polling places disapproved of detente, which has been a keystone of foreign policy during eight years of Republican administra-

the same squeeze play that led Vice President Nelson Rockefeller to withdraw as a possible Ford running mate in the coming election.

At the Ford committee some senior planners are whispering that Kissnger could cost the Republicans the White House.

"This is an old story in Washington," one of Mr. Ford's closest political advisers said. "There are always people on the President's staff who want to do away with an influential cabinet member who has been around a long time.

'But those are just spider bites. It is solved very easily - either the President supports the cabinet member or he does not. Ford is sticking with Henry — it's that simple.

Mr. Ford has been forceful in his defense of Kissinger, more so than with Rockefeller. To the persistent questions the President has encountered while campaigning, he reviews Kissinger's accomplishments.

At Wheaton (Ill.) College Friday Mr. Ford said, "Our foreign policy is moving forward ... and in these circumstances, I would not under any circumstances want Henry Kissinger to quit - period."

But as the CBS and other polls indicate, hostility to detente is widespread, not limited to conservative voters and, above all, complex to analyze. Mr. Ford has said he will stop using the French word used to describe improved relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. Detente meant that both Moscow and Washington, while pursuing different political goals, would coexist and even strengthen ties with expanded trade relations and treaties aimed at reducing the threat of a

AMONG VOTERS, however, there is a different perception. "We're getting screwed by the Russians," was the way a Boston cab driver put it. He cited U.S. wheat sales to the Soviet Union that contributed to American inflation. Also cited was Moscow's refusal to withdraw from involvement in Angola after harsh words from both Mr. Ford and Kissinger, the chief architect of detente.

"In my state, they wonder if we've been had by the Russians," said Sen. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.), who is a Kissinger defender. Beall was talking about Pentagon charges that Moscow has a massive arms build-up under

"It would be tragic if Kissinger goes now," said Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. "Kissinger is best equipped to handle Mideast negotiations, and that continues to be a tinderbox. Kissinger has had problems, but nobody's perfect. He has the majority support in the Senate."

Another defender, Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.), said he has talked privately with Kissinger and predicted the Secretary would stay on. "He's full of fight," Javits said.

"Henry has a perception problem with the voters," said Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.). "That can be changed." The conservative senator has arranged a Dalles speaking engagement for March 22, where Kissinger "will show he is a tougher guy than they think."

IT WILL BE another in a series of talks Kissinger has delivered in an effort to enhance his image. Besides Angola, it has been tarnished by:

SALT - Despite predictions by Kissinger of a major breakthrough on strategic arms limitation talks, a significant agreement this year seems doubtful. U.S. officials say only a partial accord is in the works, but they still fear election-year criticism of the proposal from the Democratic Congress - Kissinger's credibility, already low with Senate Foreign Relations Committee members, tumbled even further after the debate over aid to Angola and after his bitter exchanges with congressmen investigating his role in U.S. intelligence activities.

Wiretapping - Kissinger's involve-nam opponents has been refueled after former President Richard M. Nixon, in a deposition, contradicted earlier Kissinger statements. Kissinger had said that Nixon initiated the wiretaps, but Nixon said Kissinger supplied names of those to be tapped. Mideast - Following last year's Sinai disengagement agreement, there appears to be little chance of agreement on the more complex issue of the Golan Heights. Criticism of Kissinger in Israel and his support of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has riled American Jews.

MUCH OF THE criticism of detente and Kissinger has been voiced by Ronald Reagan. When Reagan decided to take the gloves off in the Florida primary, he focused on detente, the Soviet Union and policies initiated by Kissinger and Nixom rather than by Kissinger and Mr. Ford.

Although badly battered, Reagan says he will continue to hammer away at these issues in the remaining

Even with Reagan virtually out of contention for the GOP presidential nomination, Mr. Ford faces the same line of attack from Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination.

According to Jackson planners, Kissinger's handling of the Mideastand relations with Arab leaders—will be a staple in the campaign preceding New York's April 6

Steel decision could boost prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's decision to limit imports of specialty steel could increase prices some products to consumers because the imports are 20-30 per cent below domestic prices.

The exact effect on prices won't be known right away, but even officials of the U.S. steel industry, who have advocated import restrictions, say prices could increase in the short-run. However, they have argued that consumers would benefit in the longrun from a strengthened domestic steel industry.

Specialty steel, which is only about 1.5 per cent of total U.S. steel production, is primarily stainless and alloy tool steel. Stainless is used extensively in the food, chemical, textile, pollution control and electrical power industries, while alloy steels are used to make tools, including tools for the manufacture of nearly all industrial products.

With such wide use, any price increases in specialty steel are potentially felt across a broad economic spectrum. Barron's, a weekly financial newspaper, said earlier this month that import restrictions could cost American consumers millions of dollars more.

The Ford administration announced Tuesday that the President would seek negotiated limits on specialty imports and, if that step failed to curb imports, he would then impose import quotas.

This did not go as far in restricting imports as the U.S. Trade Commission had recommended.

Present bumper standards, in effect since 1972 models were introduced, are aimed at protecting safety devices on head and tail lights. The new standards are supposed to cut damage to all parts - including sheet metal, gasoline tanks, radiators and exhaust systems.

The auto industry has frequently claimed that the bumper standards aren't cost-effective that they cost more to install than they are worth.

The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety doesn't agree, but it told Congress last week that long delays in imposing the bumper standards has eaten away at the cost benefits to be derived by consumers.

THE SPARE TIRE, ingrained in the American motorist's mind for 70 years as an essential device, has become a favorite whipping boy in the move to smaller, lighter, more efficient

The space and weight taken up by a spare has made it an easy target for automotive engineers seeking ways to reduce the size of today's cars. And tire companies insist you don't really need a spare - at least not a full-sized one, any way.

One tire firm has designed the Tempa-Spare, which is 30 per cent narrower, 17 per cent smaller in diameter and 40 per cent lighter than a conventional radial, and it is expected to be used on some of Detroit's 1977 models.

The next generation of tires, however, will be even more different, according to Firestone Ex-ecutive Vice President Mario A. DiFederico, because future tires won't act like the present variety when they go flat. They won't flop around or cause steering difficulty, he says, so some sort of low-air warning will be

This gave Sammy the chance to surrender. "You're too lucky," Sammy groaned at South. And Sammy sadly played the king of trumps.

There was no further problem. Declarer could win any return and draw the last trump with dummy's queen. Then he had the rest of the tricks without a struggle.

Don't ask: What could poor Sammy do about it?" Anybody who asks that sort of question is a potential Sammy. PLAYS THE JACK

What would South do if West played the jack of spades instead of the king? If West had started with J-10-7 of trumps instead of K-J-7, South must play a low trump from dummy rather. than the queen.

Perhaps a fine declarer will play dummy's queen of trumps four times out of five. Perhaps an average declarer will make this correct play three times out of five.

The point remains that even the finest declarer will sometimes go wrong. If West steps up with the king of spades, however, no declarer can DAILY QUESTION

Margaret's marriage on rocks

LONDON (AP) - The Daily Express reported today that Princess Margaret and her photographer husband, the Earl of Snowdon, plan to separate. The Daily Mirror said they have begun divorce

The Mirror said Queen Elizabeth II was expected to announce the breakup of her younger sister's 151/2year marriage shortly. Divorces within the royal family must have the monarch's approval.

A spokesman at Buckingham Palace told newsmen, "Obviously the situation has been discussed by the royal family. But I am not in a position to say what decision, if any, has been

But there was speculation that Margaret would have to renounce her right of succession to the throne because the monarch is the head of the Church of England and the church is opposed to divorce.

Margaret is fifth in the line of succession but unlikely ever to occupy the throne since she is preceded by the queen's four healthy children.

Margaret and the former Antony Armstrong-Jones were married in a state wedding on May 6, 1960, five years after pressure from the royal family and the Church of England forced her to break off a romance with a World War II fighter ace, Group Capt. Peter Townsend, because he was divorced.

Accepting satirist's version would save taxpayers bundle

WASHINGTON (AP) - If the House Ethics Committee would settle for satirist Mark Russell's word on who leaked the leak that Daniel Schorr leaked, it 'could save the taxpayers $350,000 or more.

That's the amount being begged by Chairman John J. Flynt, D-Ga., to launch a hunt he says may go to "remote parts of the country or the world" to find the one man or woman who handed Schorr a secret congressional report on the CIA.

Russell, on the other hand, insists that CBS correspondent Schorr was a beneficiary of the "Leak Fairy," a sort of governmental gremlin who hides out in remote parts of Xerox machines.

And it is clear that some members of Congress are as skeptical about that answer as they are about the approach envisioned by Flynt, who took his funding plea before a House administration panel Tuesday. "I'm appalled by a figure of $350,000 above what the committee is already allowed" for routine operations, said Rep. Mendel J. Davis, D-S.C., an administration committee member. 'We hope," drawled Flynt, "that this can be done for a fraction of what we are asking." But he added that "some have suggested we could spend $1 million .. we don't know whether this is going to take one day or from now until next Jan. 3.

Asked if the probe could finish by July 31, or before the national political conventions, Flynt replied: 'We would hope so."

Flynt's panel has been ordered by the full House to make "findings and recommendations" about the publication of the CIA report by the Village Voice, a New York weekly newspaper. Schorr, based in Washington, has ackowledged that the paper got the report from him, though he has declined to name his own source, CBS News has suspended him, pending the outcome of the probe.

Rep. John L. Burton, D-Calif., of the administration committee demanded to know why Flynt's request includes $120,000 in travel and per diem funds for investigators, since "everything that happened, happened in Washington and New York:

We have been informed," said Flynt, "that there is information to be gathered on this matter from people far removed from Washington. They may be in remote parts of the country or the world. 'The world?'' asked Burton.

'Absolutely," said Flynt.

That apparently struck Rep. Frank Thompson, 4D-N.J., chairman of the panel, as a bit much. "Well if you go to Paris," he snapped, "try the ... (inaudible) Cafe. I recommend duck and the Chateau Lafite

Burton then wanted to know if the entire issue couldn't be settled 'if Mr. Schorr would come in and say I got the report from (former CIA Director William) Colby.

"Nothing would please the Ethics Committee more than for Mr. Schorr to say in answer to our first question where he got that information," said Flynt.

Sinking funds into big swindle

By JACK ANDERSON with LES

WASHINGTON - Unscrupulous promoters have been systematically swindling investors who sink their savings into oil and gas wells.

Our sources at the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) have described these drilling-fund schemes, taken together, as probably the biggest swindle in America today.

easy prey of fast-talking manipulators who promise them tax shelters and high returns if they will join the national search for oil and gas. More often than not, the investment disappears into a hole, real or imaginary.

Sometimes, the promoters merely pretend to drill for oil. They have been known to rig phony derricks and paint water pipes to bamboozle investors. Sometimes, the promoters circulate the money in such dizzying circles that it would take a team of auditors to trace it.

But in the end, the promoters usually wind up with most of the swag and the investors are left with tax deductions that probably wouldn't hold up under Internal Revenue scrutiny. The investors not only may lose their money but may have to pay back taxes, plus penalties.

The SEC is investigating drillingfund cases involving hundreds of millions of dollars. The Oil and Gas branch has flatly refused to discuss the investigation, not even for the sake of alerting the victims. But from our own SEC sources, we have obtained documents which describe how the swindlers operate.

These documents, intended for official eyes only, place heavy blame on inadequate disclosure laws. The promoters can get away with withholding vital information which might otherwise arouse suspicion.

This appears to be particularly true in the oil and gas industry, states one memo, "where compliance with those requirements might ... (thwart) the promoters."

regulations, known as "Schedule D," exempts from full disclosure the promoters of wells costing under $250,000. This leaves the investor largely in the dark about the credentials of the promoting com-

"Schedule D investments are to a significant extent being marketed under 'boiler room' conditions reminiscent of the 1950s," declares another document. "It is apparent from the sheer number of offerings alone by a few companies that Schedule D is being used as a money machine for the sole benefit of unscrupulous promoters and fraudulent salesmen.

Often the promoters, not satisfied with the original amount they squeezed from their victims, return with additional assessments. The investors are warned that the operation will fail unless more money is pumped into it. Then the promoters pocket the additional funds as well. The SEC, however, has some of the most dedicated peeple in government - tough, honest attorneys who are determined to put an end to the drilling-fund swindles.

Footnote: Despite widespread abuses, not all drilling funds, of course, are potential swindles.

President Ford had vetoed the public jobs program and the Democrats were trying to produce a two-thirds vote to override him. The President, in turn, was counting on all good Republicans to sustain his veto.

Percy's wife, Loraine, went ahead to the airport with his ticket and luggage. The senator stayed behind for the important veto vote, but he also wanted to make the flight.

He checked with Bill Hildenbrand, the Republican secretary, to find out whether the vote could be moved ahead. Hildenbrand said he doubted

But the obliging Hildenbrand, eager to help out, spoke to some White House aides about Percy's plight. The President's men quickly arranged for a military car and driver to meet the senator at the Capitol and to rush hin across the Potomac to the Pentagon helipad.

The senator cast his vote and was whisked to the helicopter, which flew him to the airport in the nick of time to catch his plane. In all the rush, the presidential aides didn't seem to notice that Percy had voted against the President. (The veto, nevertheless, was upheld.)

Footnote: A taxi to the airport would have cost the senator $20. The helicopter trip cost the taxpayers $127, not counting the salaries of the military chauffeur and helicopter

Brazil needs help developing its oil

By WILLIAM GIANDONI Copley News Service

Brazil spent more of its hardearned dollars on imported petroleum in 1975 than it used to put out for all of the goods it bought from abroad.

PAN AMERICAN REPORT:

The government oil monopoly Petrobras, disclosed in its annual report that the total cost of fuel imports last year was more than $3.2

Five years earlier, the total import bill, including capital goods, wheat, petroleum and all the rest, amounted to just over $2.8 billion. But that was before the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) quadrupled oil prices.

Brazil is clearly in a difficult position. It is the most economically progressive of the South American nations, with booming agriculture and industry. But the country depends on automobiles, trucks, buses, riverboats and airplanes for transportation. What railroads there are, exist mostly in the southern third of the country.

So, as President Ernesto Geisel sees it, Brazil must develop its oil industry as quickly as possible.

Petrobras, which Gen. Geisel headed until he resigned to become president two years ago, has been working mightily to find oil.

In 1975, for example, the company put down 228 wells. That was a considerable improvement over the previous year when 177 wells were

However, economists say, probably 10 times as many wells should be drilled each year if Brazil is ever going to be able to reduce its reliance on imported oil. According to Petrobras' report, some $285 million was spent on exploration work in 1975. Still, average daily production fell about 3.1 per cent, to 171,700 barrels a day. That was far short of the average of 865,000 barrels a day that the Brazilian nation

The differencs, over 693,000 barrels of petroleum every day, had to be imported from abroad at an average of $12.29 a barrel.

During the years that Geisel headed Petrobras he was, like most Latin American oil men, an outspoken advocate of government monopoly oil exploration and development.

But once he became president, and got a clearer picture of the enormity of the Brazilian nation's needs, he began to change his mind. On Oct. 9, 1975, he announced that the government had decided to authorize Petrobras to sign "risk contracts" with foreign oil companies so that they could help in the search for oil.

It was not until Feb. 15, 1976, that Petrobras formally announced that it was ready to accept proposals from private firms that are willing to take the risk of investing millions in wildcatting in return for a percentage of whatever oil is discovered. The areas in which the private companies are being invited to work are said to be located on the continental shelf in front of Brazil's 4,500 mile Atlantic Geisel's plan to let foreigners work in Brazilian oil has aroused the opposition of some ultranationalists. But other Brazilians favor the idea. The newspaper O Estado de S. Paulo, for example, has been decrying the bureaucratic obstacles being raised to it. At the rate things have been going, O Estado says, "we won't reap the fruits of risk contracts before

Gov. Jerry Brown responds to appeals of liberals

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Gov. Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown of California has ended months of calculated suspense by deciding to enter the state's Democratic presidential primary responding to appeals from his liberal supporters. Liberals, passionately against Sen. Henry M. Jackson, were not the only Californians anxious for Brown to enter the June 8 primary. Backers of Sen. Hubert Humphrey, whose chances entirely depend on a convention deadlock, are pushing Brown to prevent California's huge delegation from helping put any frontrunner over the top. Thanks to his immense popularity,

Brown might well win 170 out of California's 280 delegates despite the new proportional representation rules that ended the state's old winnertake-all system. That many delegates not only would throw down the frontrunners but give Brown unique bargaining power at Madison Square Garden next summer. Actually, Brown's left-wing backers - not diminished in their loyalty by the governor's fiscal conservatism were initially urging him to run in order to block Gov. George Wallace in California long before they perceived a threat from Jackson. Jackson's victory in Massachusetts March 2, however, intensified their urgency. Stanley Sheinbaum, a rich in-tellectual active in Southern California left-wing politics, has been particularly active in privately pressing Brown.

Pressure from the Humphreyites was more public. The call for Brown to run which came from state AFL- Angola have been flying to southern CIO secretary-treasurer John Henning was universally recognized as a Humphrey move. So was last week's statement by campaign consultant Joe Cerrell, manager of Humphrey's 1972 primary campaign in California, that Brown should run to stop Wallace.

But Brown also had received similar advice from close associates whose principal interest was neither anti-Jackson nor pro-Humphrey. He has long been urged to run by former Democratic national committeeman Stephen Reinhardt who believes a California primary win would enhance Brown's prospects for a place on the 1976 national ticket. CUBANS BEDDING DOWN

Intelligence reports that Cuban wives are now joining their army husbands in far-off Angola, at first treated with skepticism here, are now being taken deadly seriously for the first time - an ominous indication of Fidel Castro's long-term intentions for his Cuban Africa corps. Although exactly how many is not known, families of Cuban "advisers"

Africa in large enough numbers to make secrecy impossible. Indeed, information available in the Ford administration does not rule out the possibility that the women may not be limited to wives of Cuban "advisers" - the earliest batch of Castro's men who went to Angola. They were followed later by front-line units of his regular army. Thus, the wives may also include wives of the army regulars. This new development reinforces a growing conviction at high levels here that Prime Minister Castro is no longer fearful about political or military repercussions from his dangerous African game, which now may be shifting to Rhodesia. With wives moving in, Castro obviously plans to keep at least some Cuban military men in Africa for a long

A footnote: Castro stripped his military leadership of some of its highest officials for duty in Angola with his 12,000 to 14,000 Cuban troops, including the chief of staff of the armed forces ministry and the vice minister of the interior DOBRYNIN'S FLU

Although the prospect for a new strategic arms limitation agreement (SALT II) has been less than even for the last two months, the severe illness of Soviet Ambassador Anatoliy F. Dobrynin is delaying even further another negotiating trip to Moscow by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Odds on such a Kissinger trip this spring are now well under 50-50.

Dobrynin returned to Moscow for last month's Communist party congress, with every intention of coming back to Washington immediately after the congress ended. It was assumed here that he would bring the Soviet response to the latest American SALT plan, to be followed by a probable Kissinger trip to

Instead, Dobrynin came down with a virulent type of flu and has been confined to bed, with reports reaching here that he is now fighting off pneumonia. But even without Dobrynin's illness, the debate in the U.S. over detente and administration policy toward the Soviet Union, heated up in the presidential primary campaigns, has meant a worsening political climate for SALT II, quite apart from deep disagreements between Washington and Moscow over the American cruise missile and the Soviet Backfire bomber.

The likely result: no SALT II in election-year 1976.

Although Wilson after announcing his retirement rejected Conservative party leader Margaret Thatcher's demand for election of a new Parliament, political observers speculated that his successor may decide to seek a mandate of his own from the 40 million voters later this year if he can score some quick success in improving the economy. Labor has a one-seat majority in the 635-member House of Commons, but the future of three of the Labor seats is in some doubt. The Times of London said this uncertainty could make au election within months necessary "to resolve an indecisive situation.

One seat Labor doesn't have to worry about is Wilson's. Although he is retiring from the government and the party leadership, he will continue to represent the northwest industrial district of Huyton. He has held the seat for 26 years.

Space mining could solve resource woes

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Out in space beyond Mars, the orbiting scraps of rock called asteroids ma. be a rich source of raw material for the resource-poor earth of the future. scientists say.

Two Massachusetts Institute of Technology researchers have concluded a study that says it is but technically and economically possible to mine the asteroids for iron and nickel.

They have worked out a science fiction-like scenario of colonies miners digging on the asteroids and shipping home the metal with rockel powered tugs.

Thomas B. McCord, director of MIT's astrophysical observatory, and Michael J. Gaffey, a staff scientist at MIT, outlined their study Tuesday at the Luner Science Conference in Houston.

"We have concluded that the exist significant economic vironmental and political inception for the utilization of extraterresina resources and that no insurmount about technical problems exist to preve such utilization," they said scientific paper.

Using telescopes, the screen have found that some of the asteroids are composed almost entirely of area

They say it would be possible to bring back metal each year worth $140 billion. This approach would eliminate both the environments problems of mining on earth and the possibility of confrontation with the nations that now control much of the planet's resources.

Tidelands

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards filed suit against the state treasurer Tuesday, seeking court answers on how tidelands revenues may be used. Specifically, the governor asked a declaratory judgment answering these questions: -What portion of the $136 million Louisiana received last fall is severance tax and what is "tidelands funds" as defined by the state constitution?

—What debts may the state pay with the tidelands funds? -What portion of that money must go to coastal producing parishes?

The governor said he needed clarification of those points to prepare a state budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1. He said the response would not directly affect last fall's temporary restraining order.

A federal judge told the state last

September it could not use the $136 million it received in severance taxes and lease royalties to pay off current debt under the state constitution.
But Edwards said the judge had not specifically answered the questions his suit poses. "Once the court rules on the constitutional issues, we will know what debts will have to be paid and what impact the funds will have on anticipated revenues for next fiscal year," said the governor.

"Lone Star did not receive a single cubic foot of "new" gas until Jan. 28 1975. Ordering Lone Star and its customers to pay out of period adjustments applicable to "new" gas would be requiring them to pay a rate for a type of service which they never received," Neaves said.

Kenneth Heider, Lo-Vaca's manager of regulatory affairs, said all Lo-Vaca customers are billed at the same rate, including subsequent Lo-Vaca lawyer Jeff Giller of Houston said Youngblood already had instructed Lone Star to pay the adjustments and asked what would happen if the commission let Lone Star continue withholding them.

"There is only one answer, it has to be paid by the other customers,'

On Sept. 27, 1973 the commission required Lo-Vaca's customers-except those who refused to pay its rates-topay Lo-Vaca's full gas purchase costs plus a nickel per 1,000 cubic feet. Lone Star refused, but the commission ordered the utility on Jan. 28, 1975 to

The study, by the congressional Office of Technology Assessment, said responsibility for leasing of the Outer Continental Shelf is fragmented. It also cited a lack of coordination between the Interior Department and the states affected, particularly New Jersey and

As a result, state officials are doubtful that the federal government will impose strictenough standards to guard against oil spills or other possible hazards of the offshore operations, the study released

Sens. Ernest F. Hollings, DS.C., and Clifford P. Case, DN.J., who had requested the report, called for a postponement of the first Atlantic lease sale - now set for May and involving some 1.1 million acres until problems raised by the report could be rectified. They also urged Interior Secretary

Thomas S. Kleppe to name a fulltime assistant interior secretary to coordinate all Outer Continental Shelf

The report said the department "has no fulltime, policylevel coordinator" with responsibility over the leasing programs.

And it said the flow of information from the federal government to the states since the 1974 decision to accelerate offshore leasing "has been slow and uncoordinated."

An Interior spokesman said steps to increase coordination on offshore leases have already been taken within the department. He said an internal panel was recently set up to monitor and manage all key decisions on the Outer Continental Shelf. And the spokesman said criticism that the department does not exchange enough information with states or give them more of a policymaking role "is way out of date. Coordination between the department and the states has never been better.'

Hollings blamed Kleppe directly for the laxity in the department cited by the study. He said former Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, now a White House advisor, did a good job at overseeing the offshore leasing The report included these key

Official battle starts for research center

By RREN E. LEARY

WASHINGTON (AP) - State and local governments, universities and private industry have begun the official battle for the national solar energy research center and millions of federal dollars going with it.

The Energy Research and Development Administration announced Monday that proposals would be accepted to manage and operate the first stage of the Solar Energy Research Institute SERI.

The institute is to be the nation's primary solar energy research and development agency and could evolve into a multimillion-dollar organization employing hundreds of

More than a dozen states have actively lobbied for it, with major contenders including Arizona, California, New Mexico, Florida, Texas, New York and a coalition of the six New England states.

Another sign of the institute's glamor is that both President Ford and some of the candidates for the the Democratic presidential nomination have dangled the prospect of building the center in those states where they have been campaigning in primary elections.

ERDA officials said the geographical location was unimportant, particularly in the first stages, and bigger factors were the technical and management expertise available at potential sites.

Dr. Robert Hirsch, the ERDA official in charge of the solar effort, said the institute was beginning on a smaller scale than earlier envisioned to give it flexibility. Hirsch said it would be a mistake to start a big building program before the aims of "SERI can be whatever it wants to be." Hirsch said. "It can grow very rapidly if it wants and if it performs. But it will have to work and we will be watching its progress very

Hirsch said the first stage of SERI, which should be operational on Jan. 1, 1977, would employ a professional staff of between 49 and 76 persons under a first-year contract for bet-ween $4 million and $6 million.

Marriott plans two 'Great American' theme parks

The Washington Post
SANTA CLARA, Calif. — The
Washingtom-based Marriott Corp. on March 21 opens its first "Great American" amusement park in this be California town 40 miles down the peninsula from San Francisco. Mar-riott calls it the biggest investment gamble in its 49-year history.

An identical second park will begin operations on May 29 in Gurnee, Ill., midway between Chicago and Milwaukee. If all goes well with these two, and if zoning and access hurdles can be overcome, Marriott plans a third park in the Virginia countryside south o'l Washington, D.C., to open in 1980, at the earliest.

Capitalized at $70 million each, the Great American parks will cost more than the profitable Disney World near Freedomland, in New York City's Bronx Borough, contributed significantly to the bankruptcy of its developer, real estate tycoon William Zeckendorf, in the 1960s. And its site is now occupied by Co-op City, a public housing project plagued by a longrunning rent strike.

Other parks have opened half-finished and their reality has never achieved the advertised illusion.

Marriott, however, believes it can benefit from hindsight and avoid mistakes made in the theme park industry. It has raided the Disney operations and most other major parks for seasoned professionals to run the two Great Americas.

Marriott feels it has selected locations in "areas without competition ... that have a significant number of tourists and also a good local market who have a relatively high and stable income," says J. W. Marriott, presi-

San Francisco, Oakland and San Jose are all less than an hour's drive from Santa Clara and the resident population within a 100-mile radious totals about 7 million. The population surrounding the Gurnee park is even larger - estimated at 12 million within a 100-mile radius. In neither case is there a major amusement park less than 250 miles away.

The company predicts that in the first year of operations, each park will turn a profit. Attendance at each is estimated at 2.5 million visitors expected to generate revenues of $32.5 million, or a total of $65 million in the initial year.

rank among the top five outdoor amusement attractions in the country. They will be exceeded only by the two seemingly untouchable Disney operations and Knotts Berry Farm. The latter supposedly benefits from its proximity to the Anaheim, Calif.

Disneyland. Great America is known as a P-O-P, or pay-one-price, park. Admission for adults will be $7.95. For children 4 to 12 it will be $6.95, and for tots three and under it is free. Once inside the park, there are no additional charges. Food, souvenirs and games in the arcades are extra. Marriott expects the average visitor to spend about $13 amusements are different.

The Santa Clara Park covers 65 flat acres and has 135 acres of parking. The 65 acres are divided into five separate areas. Each is tied nostaligically — or, in Marriott argot — "themed" to something from the American past.

Hometown Square has trolley cars and a general store. In its volunteer fire department a barbershop quartet periodically slides down the poles. All this is supposed to evoke the asmosphere of a small town main street circa 1920.

Yukon Territory at the park is an outpost typical of the Alaskan gold rush. Yankee Harbor is meant to resemble a New England fishing village in the early 1800s. And Orleans depending on which guide you ask.

Marriott claims that details of the areas are accurate for their periods. Though sometimes bland or cute, detail has been executed with flair and attention that Marriott people expect will delight visitors.

There are jumping horses on the Columbia. This is a giant gold and white two-tier carousel. It looms beyond a reflecting pool lined with olive trees, and visitors see it when they first enter the park through ornate wrought-iron gates. Supposedly these are exact fiberglass replcias of famous carousel horses of the past.

The opening of the parks just happens to coincide with the country's bicentennial celebration this year.

celebrates its Bicentennial. A survey of Mason Neck in Fairfax County and other major roosting sites in the Washington area has found a significant increase in eagle nests high in the tall pine trees the birds

Experts think the resurgence may be due to less pesticide pollution in the waters of the Chesapeake Bay estuary where the eagles feed.

Jackson M. Abbott, a Fairfax ornithologist who has kept a count of eagles in the bay area since 1957, reports the existence of 76 nests up from 55 in 1970. He also said individual nest have more eggs than in past years, indicating increased fertility.

Abbott said the eagle (specifically the Southern bald eagle, which is three times as rare as the slightly larger Northern variety) has not made enough progress to be removed from the endangered species list. But he said, "there appears to be a slow but steady increase in the number of eagles able to hatch."

That assessment was backed up by Stanley N. Wiemeyer, a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service biologist at the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center near Laurel, Md.

Wiemeyer said decreasing use of so-called hard pesticides like DDT and dieldrin probably accounts for the eagle's increased propagation.

New bank savings rules proposed

The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — The nation's bank regulatory agencies said this week that customers should be able to authorize their banks to take money from their savings accounts to cover overdrafts on their checking ac-

The proposed rules, if adopted, would blur further the distinction between checking accounts, called de-mand deposits, and time and savings

Under federal law, banks can pay interest on time or savings deposits such as passbook accounts or certificates of deposit — but may not do so on demand deposits.

The rules, proposed by the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., also would permit customers to authorize transfers from savings accounts if their checking balances fall below a #### certain level.

However, depositors would have to forfeit 30 days interest on the amount transferred from their savings deposits. In addition, the federal agencies said that the transfers would have to be in multiples of $100.

The Federal Reserve Board provided an example of the proposed over-draft protection where the checking account balance was $600, the savings balance was $1,000 and a check was written for $1,050.

In that situation, according to a Fed statement, $500 would be transferred to the checking account. The depositor would forfeit 30 days interest on that $500 transfer, which at the current ceiling of 5 per cent on bank passbook savings accounts, means the customer would forfeit $2.08 in savings interest.

Most banks, however, charge fees for checks they refuse to honor because of "insufficient" funds that range between $3 and $5.

The proposals come as amendments to federal regulation Q, which governs the amount of interest banks and savings and loan associations pay depositors. Savings and loan associations would not be affected by Monday's proposals because they are not day's proposals because they are not permitted to offer checking accounts.

Some banks and mutual savings banks in New England are permitted to offer negotiated orders of withdrawal, which are essentially interest-bearing checking accounts, but Congress has not yet voted to expand these NOW accounts nation

The very existence of federal ceilings on the amount of interest banks can pay depositors has been criticized in recent years because the ceilings penalize smaller depositors who have nowhere else to invest their money but banks and S&Ls.

The Federal Reserve and the FDIC said that they will accept comments on the proposed rules until May 14.

U.S. assembly plant pondered by Volkswagen

By MURRAY SEEGER The Los Angeles Times

BONN - Will all those Americans who fell in love with Beetles made in Lower Saxony have the same affection for Rabbits made in Pennsylvania, Ohio, or, of all places, Detroit?

Can Volkswagen, which created a worldwide automobile revolution from the ashes of postwar Germany, find happiness and profits building cars side-by-side with the American giants? These are among the questions facing the management of Volkswagen, Europe's largest automaker, as it comes closer to making a final decision on establishing a manufacturing base in the United

WHILE MOST industrial authorities now expect VW to plunge directly into the American market with an assembly plant, at least by 1978, the decision is extremely delicate and complex because of the economic and political atmosphere in which the com-

"They say they are going to make a final decision in April," an American commercial expert living in Germany said. "But then they have been saying that

On the face of it, the economic decision seems fairly easy. Labor costs in Germany have now risen to the same high level as in the United States and are going up at a faster rate. There is no longer a financial advantage in making cars in Germany to be sold

THE POSSIBILITY of VW opening a factory to make 200,000 cars a year in the industrial Northeastern states where unemployment has been persistently high is enough to stimulate the political instincts of American Politicians.

"A visit to Wolfsburg (the VW headquarters) has become a favorite journey for American Politicians," a U.S. diplomat commented.

The next one to make the visit will be Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio. Like his predecessor, former Gov. James Gilligan, Rhodes is interested in having VW occupy an empty, former U.S. tank plant in VW MANAGERS have indicated that their preferred plant locations are in the Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Detroit areas, traditional sites for metal working and auto building.

"It would be erroneous to draw any conclusions about an American location from the governor's visit," a VW spokesman said. "Gov. Rhodes is one of a number of American leaders we have had the pleasure to welcome at Wolfsburg.'

Among the other recent visitors was a delegation from the State of Virginia, which was chosen by the Swedish auto manufacturer, Volvo, for the site of its new American plant. Both the VW and Volvo moves toward the United States are examples of the growing interest by European corporations in investing directly in the American market. IF VW WERE an ordinary proprietary institution like Volvo, the decision to open an American factory would be a clear economic response to the sharp drop But VW is not an ordinary corporation. Forty per cent of its stock is evenly divided between the Lower Saxony state government and the Bonn federal government. The rest is in public hands The 21-member supervisory board of the company includes a who's-who of German industry. Eight members represent the workers and unions, six come from government, three from banks and four from the shareholders, suppliers and dealers. Thus, while VW through most of the postwar period occupied a position in Germany comparable to the situation of General Motors in the United States. It must be managed like a public utility in which the voters have a direct stake.

WHEN VW SUGGESTED it might have to build a new overseas factory, it was immediately challenged by both politicians and union leaders. They charged that it was "exporting jobs," the same accusation made against American companies which invested in foreign countries in the past 25 years.

The criticism against VW carried special weight, however, with political and worker representatives holding a majority on its supervisory board.

German companies have been sending so much capital overseas in the last year that many economists and political leaders are fearful that the country will have a slow recovery from its current recession, the deepest since the end of World War II.

For VW to make such a decision just after it suf-fered record financial losses and cut its payroll by 13 per cent — to 123,000 persons — would be especially disturbing to the delicate political coalition of labor-supported Socialists and liberals which governs Ger-

JUST A FEW DAYS ago, Eugen Loderer, chief of IG Metal, Germany's most powerful trade union, and vice chairman of the VW board, said no jobs in the company's six German plants "can be sacrificed" to build an American plant.

Closing the VW plant at Emden on the North Sea, where most cars for the U.S. market are assembled, 'is beyond any discussions," Loderer added.

The union leader acknowledged that the best possibility for VW to enter the American market with the least impact on home employment would be the opening of a plant to assemble parts imported from

With its factories operating at about 70 per cent of capacity, VW last month announced an agreement to sell motors and other parts for a new small car Chrysler plans to build in the United States starting CHRYSLER WILL BUY up to 300,000 four-cylinder engines and 120,000 transaxles, a combined transmission and front axle for use in front-wheel drive cars.

VW has been talking with both Chrysler and American Motors about the possibility of different cooperative deals to help the German company enter the American market. Most recently, however, the evidence has pointed to VW buying or building its own factory instead of renting another company's property or sharing pro-

VW will have to make a major decision soon if it wants to maintain or improve its position as a major eller of cars in America.

The company's problems have been twofold — a sharp rise in the price of its product and the sudden disenchantment with its classic rear-engine Beetle, a vehicle with an impact on the auto industry com-parable only to Henry Ford's Model-T.

OPENING AN AMERICAN factory, according to

OPENING AN AMERICAN factory, according to several experts, could help meet both problems.

From 1970, when VW sold 570,000 autos in the United States, sales dropped precipitously to 287,718 last year. VW maintained its position as the leading U.S. car importer in 1975 only by including in its totals the sales of Audis, made by a subsidiary, and Porsches, made by a small, independent company.

The same six-year period saw the price of the standard VW car rise by 80 per cent. The American who bought a Beetle in 1970 for $2,000 found that to replace it with a new Rabbit would cost $3,600.

Texas coach Pat Corrales under arrest

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) -Texas Rangers bullpen coach Pat Corrales has been charged with burglary after allegedly entering two rooms occupied by guests at a hotel where he and other Rangers are staying, sheriff's deputies say.

Rangers officials had Corrales, charged early Tuesday, freed on $5,000 bond. General Manager Dan O'Brien said he would seek lesser O'Brien deferred comment on possible disciplinary action.

Broward County sheriff's deputies gave this account of the incident: Michael R. Wilson, 30, a corporate planner from Quebec, Canada, said a man kicked in the door to his room at the Surf Rider Hotel, where some Rangers players are housed awaiting spring training Wilson said he didn't see anyone and closed the door. He said it was knocked open again and a man walked in, picked up a piece of molding that had been knocked loose, took a batting stance and asked, "Do you want to fight?" Wilson said his wife went for help and hotel personnel managed to talk the man out of the room.

Catherine McKeating, 20, a student from Pittsburgh staying on the same floor, told investiagors she was in a room on the same floor with friends when two men, one of whom police later said was Corrales, entered the room and started ripping pictures off

She said the two left, the door was barricaded, and a later attempt to kick it in failed. Police said they had not identified the second man.

Donald R. Hayhoe, 35, businessman from Ontario, and James J. Lamand, 19, a student from Ontario, told police that the doors to their rooms on the same floor were rattled by someone.

As soon as Phillips came into the game, he was a help to his team. Within a minute, he had his first basket and by the time he was finished scoring, Kentucky had a 76-70 lead with 5:10 to play. James Lee later hit two free throws with 1:18 remaining to provide the Wildcats of the Southeastern Conference with an 80-74 lead and their eventual winning

"We had a substantial lead and that seems to bring more pressure to us than to other teams," noted Kansas State Coach Jack Hartman. "We haven't played well with a big lead all year. The big thing was that we let Phillips catch the ball too low. Their size was definitely a factor.

Bruce Campbell and Bill Eason each hit four big foul shots in the last three minutes to lead Providence over Louisville. The Cardinals had scored four straight points and moved within 59-57 of the Friars at the 4:18 mark before the team from New England used the foul shot to wrap up the tense

Mustangs romp past Purple Pack, 21-9

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

At first, Midland High's baseball encounter with Lubbock Coronado at the Memorial Stadium diamond looked like the Pearce Brothers Circus, but it proved to be a skipping illusion in another "Jaws" rerun as the Mustangs battered the Bulldogs,

The three-hour and six minute contest proved to be a marathon exhibition of futility as 33 players moved from position to position with no combination really working for either club. But when you score 21 runs, nothing in the field really has to work that well.

It was the second time this year that the Bulldogs have allowed 21 runs in a single contest, and hopefully, it was the last. THE MUSTANGS collected only 13 hits in the contest, but the parade of Pack pitchers also gave up 12 walks and a couple of additional hit batsmen. The Bulldogs gave up aid wherever needed, including six Coronado's David Arterburn and Chuck Johnson proved to be the real thorns. Arterburn got four hits in five trips to the plate to drive in six runs. The other time he was safe on an error. The Bulldogs haven't gotten him out yet. Johnson had three hits in five trips and drove in two. Other than that, the Mustangs had enough help from others to make the final killing. They scored 10 runs in the seventh as the sun sank slowly in the west.

Ironically enough, the Purple Pack, now 3-9 on the year, had leads of 3-0 and 4-1. That's when things were looking rosy as the Pearce brothers, Clellan and Kevin, were putting on a hitting display.

CLELLAN OPENED the second by lifting a homer over the left field fence. Brother Kevin couldn't stand to be out done, so he belted one over left to give the Pack a 2-0 lead. Errol Winkler later scored on a bloop double by Kevin Widner.

Coronado scored one in the top of the third as Johnson plated Arterburn with a single, but the Pack added a run in the third when Clellan's single scored pinch runner John Magness. Clellan had a field day at the plate, and was one of the few bright spots of the day. He had four hits in four appearances with four rbi. He also hit another homer in the seventh.

Larry Murphey, the Pack's starting pitcher, looked good for four innings, giving up a mere run. Coach Arlen Dickson lifted Murphey to start the fifth, and the Coronado onslaught began.

When Murphey left, however, Midland shoved four pitchers at the Mustangs in three innings. The results were five runs in the fifth, five in the sixth and 10 in the seventh. The four pitchers gave up 10 walks and 10 hits. They were also hurt by some costly errors.

The Bulldogs will try to rebound Friday and Saturday when they travel to Fort Worth for a three-game set with O. D. Wyatt.

James Bradley scored 24 points. State Fair's top scorer was Charles Johnson, who put in 28 points.

Indiana meets Alabama next in NCAA play

By The Associated Press

Leon Douglas, who overwhelmed a second-team All-American last time out, gets a chance to take on No. 1 Thursday night.

Douglas, the 6-foot-10 senior of sixth-ranked Alabama, goes against first-team All-American Kent Benson in the key matchup as the Crimson Tide meets unbeaten and top-rated Indiana in a Mideast Regional semifinal of the NCAA basketball tournament at Baton Rouge, La.

"I'm looking forward to Indiana," said Douglas, who was the catalyst in Alabama's 79-64 upset of North Carolina last Saturday, scoring 35 points and grabbing 17 rebounds against Tar Heels center Mitch Kupchak. "I like a challenge. I'd rather play against "All-American stuff doesn't bother me," added Douglas, a third-team All-American. "I just want to play a game-and win.'

Douglas may have a slight edge in quickness over Benson, a 6-foot-11 junior, although the Indiana center appears to be a bit more physical. "I feel I have to outquick my opponents," såid Douglas. "My proced is my best asset." speed is my best asset.'

Both coaches, meanwhile, are approaching the game apprehensively.

"We will be playing a truly outstanding basketball team, well-coached and with exceptional ability," said Indiana's Bobby Knight. "Leon Douglas is the finest center we will have faced, and he has teammates who complement his abilities and give the team many dimensions. It is a unique team in that it has great quickness without sacrificing size and

Solomonwears down Richey in WTC play

WASHINGTON (AP) - Hometown favorite Harold Solomon, the No. 4 seed, wore down Cliff Richey, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2, for a first-round victory Tuesday night in the $60,000 World Championship of Tennis

Solomon, who said he had leg cramps at times, ran Richey back and forth across the baseline while mixing in an occasional dink before taking the upper hand in the fourth game of the third set of the one-hour, 50-minute match. Other first round winners were No. 3 seed Mark Cox of England who took a 6-3, 6-3 decision over Fred McNair of Chevy Chase, Md., and Allan Stone of Australia who struggled to a 7-6, 4-6, 7-5 triumph over Alex Metreveli of the Soviet Union which included a 7-6 tiebreaker in the first set.

The singles winner of the tournament, being held in the 5,000-seat Smith Center at George Washington University, will collect $17,000.

Solomon, of suburban Silver Spring, Md., said he got a little tired during the first set. After dropping the second set, he said he became determined to become more aggressive.

"I felt that anytime I get in a third set I can win," he said. "But the court is super slow, so the game is super slow. You just can't put the ball away.

"I felt I was hitting the ball well, but the court negates a lot of my shots. I dink the ball a lot, but on this court they can run them down, so I was going to the net more often than I do."

He said he knew he had to win the fourth game of the third set when he was at double advantage point because the game "would have been 4-1 rather than 3-2. That game took a lot out of him."

> There had been talk that Rubinstein would announce Monday night he was finally giving in to failing health. He has been saying on his 20-city U.S. tour that a 1973 attack of shingles left him nearly blind, that his hearing was gone in his right ear and that, well, he

> But all he said to the audience was thank you-not good bye- for having listened to him for so many years.

> At the famed hall where he made his American debut 70 years ago, on Jan. 8, 1906, Rubinstein neither sounded nor appeared like a man > about to tiptoe into retirement. He strode on stage alone with his brisk, boyish gait and bowed, greeted at once by a standing ovation.

Musically, Rubinstein began strong, with Beethoven's "Sonata in E Flat Major" and went on to Schumann's "Carnaval." From the section on, he gave each succeeding section its own architecture, color and mood, all with the famous Rubinstein tone and timing. The second half of the program was Schumann's "Fantasiestucke" and Chopin's "Four Preludes" and "Scherzo in B Flat Minor," followed by three encores, the last one as driving as an approaching freight

At the end, the "bravos" came not shrilly, but huskily, from throats full of emotion. Rubinstein cut them off with a gesture and said:

"I simply want to thank you from the bottom of my heart. All these years I played and you listened to me untiringly. For 40 years, I came every year. You listened with marvelous affection for me. I love you and I thank you from the bottom of my heart.'

Simulators make pilot training safe, less costly

By MIKE COCHRAN ARLINGTON, Tex. (Al') - The sleek jumbo jet glided silently through the nighttime California sky. descending gradually fulo a merky smister cloud cover.

Several long seconds later, the air craft, yawing slightly, broke through

From an elevation of only 400 feet, a distance just slightly longer than a football field, pilot G. A. Wynn confronted the glittering panorama of San Francisco International Airport.

Scanning the flickering lights of his control panel, Wynn swiftly guided the airliner into an approach pattern and dropped softly onto the landing

"Picture perfect," said his copilot.

It was more pun than praise. Wynn and his "copilot," a reporter, never left town. The phantom voyage unfolded totally from within a simulator at the American Airlines Flight Academy.

The weather conditions and the airport image were created through a computerized visual system that boggles the novice pilot's mind.

Pilots from around the world come to train in American's fleet of flight simulators, cornerstone of the multipurpose academy midway between Dallas and Fort Worth. "Simulation is the backbone of the aircraft industry," said Col. Bill Bliss, a former Canadian Air Force pilot and now a marketing executive or Redifon Flight Simulation

The British firm custom built most of the flight simulators and visual systems at the academy. "Using simulators, airline companies can maintain their crews at top-level proficiency and introduce them to emergency procedures and problems they could experience in flight," Bliss said. "And the savings are astronomical."

Bliss said the simulator makes it unnecessary for airlines to purchase additional planes for the sole purpose of training, or to divert revenue flights to training.

"And in the last couple of years, the escalation of aircraft fuel prices has been tremendous problem to companies trying to cut overhead while maintaining a high degree of training," he said.

"Simulation is not new, but since the advent of the computer it is being fully developed. It has made flight training in simulators more realistic.

"Another thing you can do is reconstruct the crime, so to speak. You can't subject a real airplane to some of the more precarious and complex emergency procedures."

Bliss said pilot training in jumbo jets such as a 747 or DC10 costs about $4,000 an hour. Simulation runs no more than $350 hourly.

"Also," he said, "there's the wear and tear on the airplane, plus the thing you can't put a finger on: accidents. The greatest percentage of accidents are in the training mode."

As Bliss talked, pilot Wynn "flew" his visitor into New York's La Guardia and JFK airports, to Los Angeles International, to Washington's Dulles and then to Mexico City.

The visual system duplicates the airport setting complete with candlepower, navigational fixtures, strobe directional lighting and even moving airplanes and ground

The displays appear on television screens bolted on the front and side windows of the cabin, providing a stunning sense of depth and move-

A pilot can thus familiarize himself with an airport in Hong Kong without ever having landed there. Furthermore, a wide variety of wind and weather conditions can be demonstrated, and reduced visibility effects can be simulated in day or night conditions.

"The daytime visual breakthrough came only in the last few months," Bliss said.

These displays include natural lakes, hangars, buildings, everything, "God knows what we're going to come up with in the future," he said. "It is very, very exciting:
