Press gag order ruled unconstitutional

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that a Nebraska judge's order restricting news coverage of a sensational mass murder case last October was an unconstitutional restraint on freedom of the press.

In an opinion by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, the court did not rule out the possibility that such orders could be issued in other circumstances to protect the right of a defendant to a fair trial.

But Burger declared that "the barriers to prior restraint remain high" and those barriers were not overcome in the Nebraska case.

Justices Byron R. White, Harry A. Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist joined in Burger's opinion, which marked the first time the court has given a fullscale review to a direct prior restraint on news coverage of a criminal case

Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Potter Stewart, and Thurgood Marshall filed a separate opinion concurring in the judgment. Justice John Paul Stevens also filed a separate opinion which concurred.

In his opinion, Burger warned the news media that First Amendment protections for freedom of the press carry with them a duty "to exercise the protected rights responsibly - a duty widely acknowledged but not always observed by editors and publishers.

"It is not asking too much to suggest that those who exercise First Amendment rights in newspapers or effort to protect the rights of an accused to a fair trial by unbiased jurors." Burger said.

Brennan, Stewart and Marshall held "that resort to prior restraints, on the freedom of the press is a constitutionally impermissble method" of enforcing the right to a fair trial.

Stevens agreed "that the judiciary is capable of protecting the defen-dant's right to a fair trial without enjoining the press from publishing information in the public domain and

However, Stevens added: "Whether the same absolute protection would apply no matter how shabby or illegal the means by which the information is obtained, no matter how serious an intrusion on privacy might be involved, no matter how demonstrably false the information might be, no matter how prejudicial it might be to the interests of innocent persons, no matter how perverse the motivation for publishing it, is a question I would not

In addition to joining Burger's opinion, White filed a separate statement expressing "grave doubts ... whether orders with respect to the press such as were entered in this case would ever be justifiable.'

Burger's opinion was confined closely to the facts in the Nebraska case. White said it was not necessary to issue a broader ruling to settle the Nebraska matter.

But he said the Supreme Court probably "should at some point announce

Sen. Goldwater endorses Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Barry Goldwater today advised Republicans to stick with President Ford rather than risk their campaign future in "a hairsplitting debate" over his contest with conservative Ronald Reagan.

Goldwater, the 1964 GOP nominee and an influential conservative elder, said this is not the year to change from incumbent to challenger.

The Arizona senator had signaled all along that he preferred the President, particularly in criticizing Reagan's insistence on permanent American sovereignty over the Panama Canal and zone. Goldwater took the final step and endorsed the President in a letter sent Tuesday to delegates to the Republican National Convention, which opens Aug. 16 in Kansas City.

"Many months ago, when the campaign started, I made the statement that I would not become involved in backing either candidate," said Goldwater. "Many of you will say that I have already done this by the position I took with Gov. Reagan on Panama, and I suppose that technically you are right, but today I have to take the last step ... and go on record as being in favor of

City may spare elms on Illinois Avenue

By DEBBIE PIERCE

Those stately American elm trees in the 1200 block of Illinois Avenue may not have to be uprooted after all.

Midland Public Works Director Fred Baker said today that the final decision in the matter rests with the city council, but the public works department has come up with an alternate proposal for improving the street without taking out the trees.

Baker said, "We have proposed narrowing Illinois Avenue down approximately 11 feet and eliminating the continuous left-turn lane in the area from D Street to F Street. The rest of the street would be constructed Schreiner's Longhorns will pull into Midland around noon Thursday.

They'll be corralled at the Southwestern Livestock Auction off U.S. Hwy. 80 East in Midland. And at around 2:30 p.m. the Longhorns will be driven westward down the highway to Wall Street and downtown Midland.

The Midland trail drive will come to a galloping halt at the Holiday Inn off Wall Street on the city's far westside.

There, at 5:30 p.m., the cowpokes, their horses and others will "wet their whistles" in a settle-the-trail-dust

Bicentennial ceremonies will be held at the Holiday Inn at 6:30 p.m., and a barbecue supper will be served there a half hour later.

The first leg of the drive was, in gesture, headed up by Texas Sen. John Tower. Helping the sanator keep the Longhorns in line in "hoofing it" across northern San Antonio were straw bosses Jim DeLesdernier, Van Poorman and Charles Schreiner IV.

The herd's stops and trottings this week were planned for northern San Antonio Sunday; across the Guadalupe River and into downtown Keerville Monday; into San Angelo and Fort Concho Tuesday; through Stamford Wednesday; into Midland Thursday; and, finally, upward to Lubbock and Texas Tech Friday.

There, on the Texas Tech museum grounds at 5 p.m. Friday, Lady Bird Johnson will ramrod the dedication of the Ranching Heritage Center.

"I hope this will not only celebrate our Bicentennial," trail boss Schreiner said of the event, "but wi!! also afford the young people of Texas the opportunity to see living history and to learn what an important role the Longhorn played in the development of our state and its heritage.

47 hostages win release

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) -Palestinian hijackers of a French jetliner today released 47 elderly women, sick persons and children among the more than 250 hostages held at Entebbe Airport. Air France put all but one of them on a special flight to Paris.

Two Americans were among those released. They were identified as Carol Taylor, 33, and her 6-year-old son Eric, from Cambridge, Mass.

The Israeli cabinet was meeting in emergency session to decide what to do about demands to free 40 prisoners as ransom for the rest of the captives and the plane, which was hijacked Sunday over Greece. At least 70 Israelis are among the hostages.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford's signature on legislation rushed through Congress would prevent payroll tax withholding rates from increasing at midnight tonight.

paychecks. The freeze would remain in effect through Sept. 1, giving Congress more time to complete action, on a long-range, catchall tax revision measure.

Without Ford's signature, withholding rates would increase when tax cuts enacted last year expire at midnight tonight. The Senate passed the stopgap freeze on withholding rates Monday and the House followed suit with unanimous approval on Tuesday.

The Senate, meanwhile, continues debate on the over-all tax revision bill. On the agenda today was an amendment expected to pass easily that would impose tax withholding on income from interest and dividends in the same way that taxes are deducted weekly from employes' pay checks.

Such a system would catch millions of dollars worth of taxes that are lost when recipients of interest and dividends fail to report such income, experts say.

The multibillion-dollar tax-revision bill being debated in the Senate would extend the tax cuts, at least until July 1, 1977, with strong indications they may be made permanent. The complexity of the bill made it impossible for Congress to pass it by tonight, thus necessitating the twomonth extension of existing withholding rates.

The big bill includes more than 200 different tax provisions, ranging from a crackdown on tax shelters used by wealthy investors to a liberalized tax credit for child-care expenses of working parents.

City parks discussed

By DEBBIE PIERCE

A people-oriented park, designed to compliment an exhibition hall building and containing shady areas, walkways and benches, is the concept of the proposed downtown park as visualized by the city Parks and Recreation Commission.

The commission, meeting in special session Tuesday, learned the architectural firm of Frank Welch Associates will need a few months more before final drawings of the park can be submitted. The firm now, however, is in the process of building a model of the park for better three-dimensional viewing. Parks superintendent Wayne Kohout explained to the commission' that several specifications have been suggested regarding items to be included in the park at the corner of Loraine and Texas streets. He said architects are "trying for a large open space but not a desert atmosphere."

He said benches and tables of permanent concrete, fountains for drinking and aesthetic use, bike racks, shade, a naturalistic setting and a provision for wheelchairs and curb cuts all are suggestions for the commission and said plans so far look downtown park. Other suggestions include properly marked, attractive and functional trash receptacles. direct area lighting for safety purposes, offset lighting to attract day and night use, and buffers for noise and wind blocking as well as maintenance considerations. Kohout said parks officials believed raised planters for flowering growth would be more desirable than flower beds since the planters could be moved or maintained by various groups in the city. Commissioner Dick Saxe said the first consideration is the purpose of the area. He said he visualized the parle as an all-shaded area, containing little grass but several walkways and benches. Commissioner Bob Paxton said he visualized a long fountain | with park. He said a walkway, grass, a narrow open space for sun, a screen from the commercial area and benches with seatbacks are other facets of his idea for the park. E. J. Pryor, who leases his Pryor taken on the rest of the group's agenda. The commissioners discussed a request from Paxton for a budget amendment for a restroom-concession facility at Lancaster Park. He said the facility would be used mainly by the girls' softball league and he suggested removing the $20,000 stated in the budget for new restroom facilities and applying it to existing facilities. The matter will come before the commission again July 20 during its regular session.

Commissioners also discussed priorities regarding capital expenditures in the upcoming year's budget, since "it's obvious there will not be enough money to go around,' according to parks director Bob Thomson. Discussion centered mainly on whether Midland needs a new clubhouse or an additional nine holes at Hogan Park Golf Course. This matter, too, will be on the group's next agenda.

Hearing slated for Midlander

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - The Water Rights Commission has set a hearing for 10 a.m. Sept. 1 on the application of Arnold T. Sikes, 2500 Culpeper St., Midland, for a permit to maintain an existing dam and reservoir in Concho County and to use up to 185 acre-feet annually for irrigation of 307 acres. The reservoir, Chandler Lake, is located on Dry Hollow, a tributary of the Concho River and part of the Colorado River system, with the dam approximately 23 miles northwest of Eden and seven miles west of Paint Rock. The hearing will be held in the Stephen F. Austin State Office Building, Austin.

Federal judges to rule on order

By JAMES H. RUBIN Associated Press Writer

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) - Every available federal judge in the state has been ordered to take part in a hearing today to determine whether New Jersey's schools must shut down Thursday.

As the judges convene, the state legislature will be waiting at the State House, ready to try one last time to beat the deadline.

At issue is a State Supreme Court order to close the schools July 1 unless a new system for financing them is approved by the leislature. On May 13, the state court said the existing method - based on property taxes - is unfair to schools in poor neighborhoods:

The federal court panel hearing the case will be drawn from a pool of the 11 federal judges in the state. The chief judge of the Federal Court. Lawrence A. Whipple, on Tuesday directed all federal judges who are not occupied with other cases to take

In case the federal court does not grant a last-minute stay, sources say, leaders in each house have devised a set of signals designed to pass a tax bill before the deadline. Senators will vote on a property tax relief bill with the understanding that the same votes will be cast for a 2 per cent income tax bill favored by the Assembly.

State officials say the impact of meet the court's demand, deadlock- the school closing will be extensive

About 1.5 million students attend the state's 6,000 schools during the regular school year. Of those, 150,000 attend summer school and 61,000 attended vocational training school during the summer.

State Education Commissioner-Fred Burke said that for every day the shutdown order is in effect, the schools will open one day later this fall, a claim that has been disputed by other officials.

He also announced Monday that-900 employes of the State Education Department will be laid off this summer if the schools close.

Six challenges to the state court ruling were filed with the federal court, from local school boards, the New Jersey School Boards Association and U.S. Atty. Jonathan L.

They argue that school children have a constitutional right to an education.

A companion suit was filed by 31 members of the Republican minority in the Assembly, claiming that the state court exceeded its judicial role in ordering the schools closed.

WOMEN TODAY AND TOMORROW By GAY PRICE

We bought the chandelier when our children were two and four years of age. I did not know then why we bought it. I know now, although it has taken me more that a dozen years of living as a part of the human race to understand its significance.

I found the chandelier in a store in North Dakota, shining with a warmth and splendor that could not be dimmed by the raging blizzard outside. And I, who never prized material possessions, suddenly coveted it with an overwhelming passion. I showed it to my friend who was with me (my newly-made friend, since we had moved from Texas to the frozen Dakota plains only six months before). "What do you think of it?" I breathed.

She looked doubtfully at the dangling crystal prisms, stared upward to the delicately etched globes. "Well," she said tactfully, "it might be a little elegant for the rest of your furnishings.

"A LITTLE elegant," I laughed anniversary, I do not claim to be a delightedly. Visualizing the total incongruity of the fairyland creation surrounded by our solid maple, child-proof furniture, I reluctantly turned my back on the shimmering glory and struggled through the abrasive, blowing snow to the car and to our newly purchased house.

Calling it a house was Pollyanna optimistic. It was a two-bedroom frame, pink and white wooden disaster, our eighth residence in eight years of marriage. I was twenty-six years old and somehow, in spite of the feelings in my heart, regardless of the maroon, aqua and gray bathroom, I must wrestle the house into the semblance of a home, as I had seven times before. I sat on our one carpeted floor with our children playing at my feet and thought about the chandelier.

. In other countries, other cultures, a house is a home forever, passed down from generation to generation - the Ancestral home, with strong emotional ties to land and territory. But we were an American family, locked in by few traditions, free to dream and reach as far as our capabilities could carry us. We were transient by choice, plucking op-portunities like golden globes of fruit, planning our future and creating our children with the undisciplined hope of infinite possibility.

My husband arrived from his work, hungry, cold and already! wished that I had bought the chandelier so it would be within the use, shining, beckoning, lending its warmth and promise of what waited inside. I looked into his eyes. He still seemed to me very young at that time - a young engineer in an alien environment with three other human beings totally dependent upon him. For a moment, I felt the frightening responsibility.

I took him the following weekend to see the chandelier, and we purchased it immediately and secured it to the living room ceiling that evening. We touched the switch and the four of us gazed in rapt fascination: Light! It caught and held in myriad reflections, dancing in our children's eyes. We touched, laughed, hugged, danced beneath that light and all it symbolized. The prisms moved and shifted as if they had a life of their own. And gradually, with hours of back-breaking work, we scraped and painted, curtained and carpeted our house, but it was that night when it became a home.

We have had many homes since then, sold and bought other houses. But we always clearly state that the chandelier will not remain and we carefully pack it and rehang it in another home, to work the peculiar magic with which we have endowed

On this, our country's 200th an-pioneer. I have travelled in no wagon trains, survived no winters without food. But I have created homes in alien environments: I have clasped my husband'a hand across a sick child's bed; I have sheltered others from storms. And I have bought a light which skines from the windows where we live.

Since that year, I have had various careers, which coinciding with our modern culture, have added new facets to my development as an individual. But I do not tease my mind with an exaggerated idea of their importance. My creative urges are satisfied through my writing, but my very humanness surreptitiously knows that I am little different from the skylark who builds her nest secure against the world and is at one with nature and with herself.

THE WINE DRINKER

La, Mission ranks among first growths

By TOM GABLE Copley News Service

Chateau La Mission Haut Brion is well-known among longtime students of wine but most wine drinkers don't associate the name with top quality the way they do with such names as Lafite, Mouton, Margaux, Latour and Haut Brion.

Those are the "first growths" of France, or those chateaus chosen from among the thousands for having consistent greatness and styles that make them recognizable throughout the world. Haut Brion is across the road from La Mission Haut Brion, which is ranked one step lower.

Yet the La Mission wines in the last 10 years have been of first-growth quality and, more often than not, better than their neighbor.

La Mission Haut Brion and Haut Brion are just outside the city of Bordeaux in the area defined as Graves. Graves is more than 35 miles long, up to 12 miles wide and is best known for its mediocre white wines. But Haut Brion had such a reputation for its red wine that it was included in the 1855 classification of first-growth wines. It continues to make excellent wine but is feeling the pressures of having a neighbor of equal or better quality.

There is a cross on the top center of the La Mission Haut Brion label, which symbolizes its ownership by a religious order from 1698 until the French Revolution. After World War I, it was taken over by Frederic Woltner. His heirs, most notably Henri, who died in 1974, made great things happen at La Mission. Henri introduced cold fermentation and strict temperature controls to carefully nurse his wines out of their infancy and through the early stages of development when they are most vulnerable to outside influences.

Once the wines have completed their fermentation in the specially designed glass-lined tanks at La Mission, they are put into oaken barrels for aging. After oak aging, they are given some bottle aging before release to the world.

The somewhat special combination of wine types, soil of the area and wine-making techniques at La Mission Haut Brion give its wines a lively, full, rich and complex quality.

They are bigger in style, but not as hard as something with a greater percentage of Cabernet, such as the Latour. The 1966, 1967, 1970 and 1971 wines from La Mission Haut Brion are better than those from their more illustrious neighbor at Haut Brion. And they cost a few dollars less a bottle, which is important even in higher-priced wines, which

Calorie counting is battle

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY Registered Dietitian Copley News Service

The American obsession with the bathroom scales and its fluctuations has led vast numbers of people into a constant battle with calories.

Reference to calorie charts preceding meals is not only a haphazard approach to dieting, but frustrating. Weighing, measuring, counting and calculating can turn mealtimes into neurotic frenzies.

The newest and best approach to weight loss is through nutrition and chemistry and not merely the counting of calories. This is not to mean that calories do not count.

They most certainly do, but it is the kinds of foods, the source of your calories, and the other elements of nutrition and chemistry reacting in your body that is so vitally important to your health and your weight

You must, of course, take in fewer calorles than you use if you want to lose pounds, but doing it properly will allow you to keep it off.

The weight loss must be slow, two or three pounds a week is a very good loss, so that you are able to adjust your eating patterns with new habits replacing the bad ones which caused your overweight.

A sensible, healthy program should include three nourishing meals. Your body and your energy require breakfast, lunch and dinner. You are depleting your body of nutrients without ac-complishing a weight reduction by skipping one or two meals.

Some of the heaviest people limit their eating to the evening.

Breakfast should clude fruit, protein (egg, meat, fish or fowl) and cereal or toast.

A good lunch consists of a salad with a variety of salad greens, tomatoes. onions, radishes, cucumbers with either fish, meat or fowl mixed

The so-called diet plates of a meat patty and cottage cheese may be high in fat and wiches and french fries. and if you wish a dessert, make it fruit.

Dinner can be varied greatly with fish, meat and fowl, a salad, vegetable and fruit. Make sure the meat is lean and no more than six or seven ounces per serving. Do not use commercial dressing on your salad, rather use corn oil and vinegar.

Limit your vegetable and fruit servings to onehalf cup.

An improper diet results in loss of lean muscle tissue causing aging and a sick appearance. Do not depend on vitamin pills to make up the deficiencies, because food contains important nutrients that have not been isolated and processed into pills. Shirley Bright Boody's diet can be found in her new book, "The High Energy Low Budget Weight Loss Diet."

Questions may be sent to Shirley Bright Boody, Eat Yourself Slim, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Youngsters have

most nightmares

Preschool children frequently experience terrifying anxiety dreams and nightmares. Nightmare activity declines for the 4-8 year olds and further declines from 8-14 years of age, according to Dorthy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Wallcovering gives rooms bright look

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) Thoughtful use of wallcoverings can make a dreary room bright, a long room look short and a dull room in-

And, for those with limited budgets, a change in wallcovering can achieve an impression of total decoration at a fraction of the cost.

Here are some tips for redecorating with wallcovering from Mrs. Bertha C. Nickel, housing interiors specialist at Oklahoma State University here: -A boldly patterned wallcovering with large flowers, graphics or the look of tapestry can make a sparsely furnished room appear more cozy. -High ceilings can be lowered with dark colors, or dramatic designs on raised with vertical stripes. -Ugly pipes and ducts can be camouflaged by covering them with paint or wallcoverings to match the walls or ceiling. -For a room without a view, add one in the form of a mural.

-In the kitchen matching vinyl wallcoverings on cabinets, ceiling, and window shades create a festive atmosphere.

-For a small, dull room, select a stunning wallcovering and use matching fabrics for curtains and slipcovers. But limit colors and quantity of furnishings because when a small room becomes too busy, it seems smaller.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Last week I got the shock of my life. My husband of 24 years announced that he doesn't want because it's required by law, but you make a good point. An I.D. bracelet or necklace would make an ideal gift for to be married anymore. He is 51 and I am 49. We built a Kathy Bock wonderful business together, and we're still in it. We have children and grandchildren He insists there is no other woman, and I believe it because he is hardly man enough for me. (I never complained. Why start trouble?)

He says he wants his own apart-ment, but he doesn't want a divorce; he just wants to be "free." He says if we get a divorce, it will cost us a fortune dividing up the assets, so we should stay married, remain business partners, but live apart.

I am still in shock. I don't want to stay married to a man who doesn't want to live with me, but what have I to gain by that kind of arrangement? I'd be married in name only, but not really free to look around. Help me .--IN SHOCK IN ORLANDO

DEAR IN: Tell your husband that you don't want an "in-name-only" marriage. But go slowly. Before you throw 24 years of marriage away, both of you should decide whether it's what you really want to do.

Men also go through a kind of menopause in their middle years, which could account for your husband's sudden decision.

DEAR ABBY: Last week on the way home from work, my husband and I saw a little girl on the side of the road who had just been hit by a truck. That was bad enough, but when the ambulance arrived they found no identification on the girl, and no one knew who or where her parents were, so all they could do was take her to the hospital. At the hospital they couldn't do anything without parental consent because she was a minor.

If that child had been wearing an I.D. bracelet or necklace her parents could have been easily located and treatment could have been started

We make sure our pets have tags because they can't tell people where they live, but a child who is unconscious can't talk either. Please print this .- J. L. E.

1 teaspoon gravy seasoning, if desired 2 10-ounce packages frozen green

2 1/2 quarts or 3 1/4 pounds of beef.

cooked, diced

Crust: 2 cups flour, unsifted

1 teaspoon salt % cup margarine 4 cup cold water

I teaspoon poppy seed, if desired with heat-resistant freezer wrap. Allow enough extra wrap to fold over top. Use one pan for each six servings or one-fourth of the recipe. Do not line pans for food to be served without freezing.

For filling, cook onions in boiling water until tender. Drain; save cooking liquid and water slowly. Add gravy seasoning, if desired. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour one-fourth of the mixture into each baking pan.

For crust, mix flour and salt. Mix in fat only until mixture is crumbly. Add water and mix lightly. Divide dough into an 8-inch by 8-inch square. Fit over filling in pans. Sprinkle with poppy seeds.

To serve without freezing preheat oven to 450 degrees F. (hot). Bake 45 minutes or until crust is lightly browned.

To freeze - cool for 30 minutes at room temperature. Fold and seal wrapping. Label and freeze immediately.

To heat frozen beef pie — preheat oven to 450 degrees F. (hot). Remove freezer wrap. Place food in baking pan. Bake one hour or until filling is bubbly at edges, crust is lightly browned and food is hot in center.

Makes 24 servings, about two and one-half by four inches each ---

Pointers for Preparing and Cooking - Serve food soon after cooking or refrigerate quickly.

— Refrigerate hot foods if they do not raise the temperature of the refrigerator above 45 degrees F. - Speed the cooling of large quantities of food by refrigerating in shallow pans. - Keep hot foods hot above 140

degrees F - Keep cold foods cold below 40 degrees F

Food may not be safe to eat if held more than three-four hours at temperatures between 60-120 degrees F. This is the zone where bacteria grow rapidly. This time includes preparation, storage and serving

- Thoroughly clean all dishes, utensils and work surfaces with soap and water after each use.

Bacteria can be destroyed by rinsing utensils and work surfaces with chlorine bleach in proportions recommended on the container. Cutting boards, meat grinders, blenders and can openers particularly need this protection.

Today, a healthy 16 pounds, Kelly Anne has passed her first birthday and keeps up a lively stream of patter. The 181/2-inchtall dimpled charmer stands sturdily on chubby legs and crawls as speedily as the next baby into mischief.

The horoscope forecast for the day of her birth was appropriate for her.

"You may have somewhat of a weight fine sense of humor. you're artistic and more than mildly fond of travel. May should be one of your most important months this year. You are making valuable contacts, especially through friends and social-charity

Then came July 13, the day the Cahills took their 4 1/2 pound baby home. "She wore a doll dress made by a friend. She was just too tiny for a regular dress," Mrs. Cahill recalled.

She also went apartment hunting with her parents in Toronto, where Cahill has joined the staff of the Toronto Catholic Children's Aid Society.

> BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The Lebanese Christians and their Syrian backers were reported waging a three-front offensive today against the Palestinian guerrillas and their leftist Lebanese Moslem allies.

The leftists claimed they were putting up a hard fight, but they were losing ground on at least one of the

The Christians announced they have completed their conquest of the Palestinians' Jisr el-Basha refugee camp on the east side of Beirut and launched a "final offensive" against the adjacent and much larger Tal Zaatar camp.

The Palestinians in effect admitted the fall of Jisr el-Basha in a statement paying homage to "those who stood firm and fought." The statement vowed a "defense until death" of Tal

The Palestinians also charged that Syrian troops and tanks made a sudden attack today on the Moslem port of Sidon, 25 miles south of Beirut, after a night-long barrage of heavy artillery and rocket fire set several sections of the biblical port city afire.

Telephone communications between Beirut and Sidon were cut, and no confirmation of the report was available. The Palestinians said their guerrillas and their leftist Lebanese Moslem allies were locked in "savage combat on Sidon's hilly outskirts to repel the surprise Syrian assault."

The Palestinians and Christians both reported the fighting on the third front. They said Syrian troops, tanks and planes were attacking leftist positions in the string of ski resorts northeast of Beirut that threaten the Christian enclave between Beirut and Tripoli. The Christian command said the leftists were "hopelessly sandwiched between our forces and the attacking Syrians on the east" and were fleeing.

A joint communique from the six Christian militias taking part in the nine-day-old assault on the two refugee camps said Jisr el-Basha was put under a dusk-to-dawn curfew, and that its guerrilla commander asked for asylum in Christian territory.

The two camps form a leftist wedge in Christian East Beirut and overlook the main roads between the city and the Christian heartland to the north Jisr el-Basha housed an estimated 6,000 Palestinian refugees, most of them Christians, before the siege. Tal Zaatar had a population of 20,000 Moslem Palestinians and 30,000 Lebanese driven from South Lebanon by Israeli reprisals to Palestinian raids across the border. In an attempt to ease the Christian pressure, the Moslems said they attacked the Christian suburbs of Ein Rummanneh, two miles north of Tal Zaatar, and Hadath, to the south.

'If Tal Zaatar falls," Lebanese Moslem leader Kamal Jumblatt warned, "we shall never accept a cease-fire or negotiations but shall carry on the war to its end no matter how long it takes."

Security and hospital sources estimated that more than 240 persons were killed and at least that many wounded during the night in Beirut, its suburbs, Sidon and eastern Lebanon. The continuing high toll raised the total number of dead in the 14-month-old civil war close to 30,000 by conservative but admittedly uncertain estimates.

Farmers buying crop insurance at record rate

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farmers are using a record amount of federal crop insurance this year, according to Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz.

An estimated 22 million acres of crops have been insured against losses from natural hazards for a value of about $2 billion, up 25 per cent from 1975 coverage, Butz said Tuesday. The insurance involves crops in 1,467 counties in 39 states, he said in a statement. Federal crop insurance is available on 24 varieties of crops and operates 'like any other insurance plan, with farmers paying yearly premiums based on local crop production and loss history," Butz said.

Loss of exemption could hit pension fund hard

tax-exempt status for the Teamsters union's biggest pension fund could have a devastating impact on the fund itself, the employers who finance it and the pensioners who benefit from it, says a key trucking industry of-

"The ramifications are really farreaching," said William G. McIntyre, president of Trucking Employers, Inc., the industry's bargaining arm.

McIntyre said the disclosure Tuesday that the Internal Revenue Service has revoked the tax-exempt status of the $1.4-billion Teamsters' Central States Pension Fund for alleged mismanagement and imprudent loans came as a surprise.

IRS officials, in keeping with policy. declined direct comment on the agency's action, contending that the affairs of taxpayers are confidential. But the officials did discuss generally the impact of an IRS decision revoking a fund's tax-exempt status. and their assessment of the potential impact agreed with McIntyre's.

If the action survives expected appeals by the fund's trustees - IRS officials say the process could take years - the Central States fund would be liable for taxes on its earnings back to 1965. The revocation was retroactive to Jan. 31, 1965.

This could involve millions of dollars in both past and future earnings and substantially reduce the amount of money available for paying ployers who contribute to the fund in behalf of their workers either would have to kick in more money or the benefits would be lower than they would have been otherwise. The workers do not contribute to the fund.

For employers who contribute to the fund, the government's action could mean they will have to pay taxes on contributions deducted since 1965, as well as on future con-

In the year ended Jan. 31, 1975, records filed with the Labor Department show the trucking industry contributed $283 million to the Central States fund. If forced to pay taxes on that amount, the bill might run as high as $135 million.

The fund is administered by 16 trustees, eight from the trucking industry and eight from the union, including its president, Frank E. Fitzsimmons. The trustees declined comment. Fitzsimmons confirmed Tuesday night that the IRS had revoked the fund's tax-exempt status, the Oklahoma City newspaper, The Daily Oklahoman, said.

The newspaper said the Teamsters boss said in a telephone interview that the action extends back to Jan. 1. 1966

Fitzsimmons criticized the action and suggested that IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander did not know the status had been revoked by subordinates in Chicago, the newspaper said.

Over the years, the fund has been accused repeatedly of investing its members' money unwisely, making loans to people connected with organized crime and failing to provide proper pensions. An estimated $200 million has been invested in Las Vegas gambling and hotel interests, making the fund the biggest investor in that city.

The departments of Labor and Justice began an investigation last fall into allegations of improper and illegal loans by the fund to persons with underworld ties. But the IRS action was not directly related to either that inquiry or a separate congressional probe. Sources said the IRS decision resulted from an investigation of the fund that started before the other government agencies began looking into Central States affairs.

On Friday Miss Evert will meet Australia's Evonne Goolagong who overwhelmed Britain's Virginia Wade

The beefy Czech woman, who lives in Beverley Hills, Calif., fought back strongly in the later stages of the match and Miss Evert was often American, favorite for the title she won two years ago, had lost only 10 games in the previous five rounds, and had not dropped a set.

A packed crowd of 17,000 on the center court sat silent as Miss Wade made a string of errors. Obviously nervous, she failed to get her first service in and missed volleys.

Women blamed for surprise

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The two women in Jimmy Connors' life—his mother and glamorous girlfriend—cost him the Wimbledon championship, his ex-manager, Bill Riordan, charged tuesday.

Riordan spoke to reporters as the dejected Connors drove off in a Mercedes with his girlfriend, former Miss World Marjorie Wallace, after being knocked out of the tournament.

Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain. Tenn., upset the topseeded Connors of Belleville, Ill., in Tuesday's quarter-finals 6-4, 6-2, 8-6.

When you are playing tennis at this level," Riordan said, "you can't afford to be rushing around after your girls all the time. He should not have to look after anyone

"If I was involved I would have sent Marjie home," said Riordan, who is suing the 23-year-old Connors over his dismissal last year.

"She is obviously a distraction. It is question of him having to wait on her, she has to have tickets, and she is looked after. That is not what his mind should be on.

Riordan said he has "nothing against Marjie personally. I think she is very charming, but on this occasion she just shouldn't have been there.' Riordan added that he believed Mrs. Gloria Connors has possibly taken too big a part in her son's life and that Connors is suffering from 'too much momism.'

"I think she ought to ease up a bit on (Continued on 4 B)

After winning the first two games Miss Goolagong dropped her service to love, and it looked as if Miss Wade might be settling down

Miss Navratilova, the No. 4 seed, did more running than the American, and hit some fine shots - notably forehand drives and smashes.

Miss Evert won the first set comfortably, and seemed well on the way to victory when she broke service to lead 3-2 in the second set. But the Czech immediately broke back.

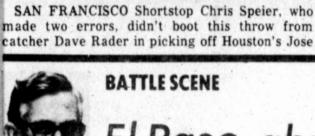

Miss Navratilova broke again to win the set at 6-4. she was steadier in baseline-to-baseline rallies, first with a forehand and then with a backhand.

Miss Evert hit two of her best shots at the start of the third set - a lob and a beautiful forehand return - and broke service for a 1-0 lead. The next two games also went against service, and Miss Evert led 2-1. After that both players held their services.

Miss Evert, serving at 4-3, trailed 0-30 and Miss Navratilova briefly looked capable of winning. But the American held on, helped by some poor strokes from the Czech.

Chrissie held her service to love in the last game and finished off the match with a devastating forehand

Miss Goolagong was seeded second and Miss Wade third.

Well, he almost did. Paul Blair marred the masterpiece with a sharp, clean single leading off the sixth inning. Only walks to Reggie Jackson and Al Bumbry in the seventh and ninth-innings, respectively, proved the faulty brush strokes in what still was a pitching work of art.

Kingman now has 62 runs batted in after 76 games. Of that total, 49 have come as a result of homers. Lolich gave up hits in each of the first three innings but didn't allow another after that. He struck out nine and walked three.

Phillies 2, Expos 1 Dick Allen scored from third on a squeeze bunt in the ninth to give Philadelphia its victory over Montreal. Allen led off the ninth with a single and went to third on Jay Johnstone's base hit. After Garry Maddox flied out, Bob Boone laid down a bunt on the first base side and Allen raced home with the winning run. The Expos had tied the score 1-1 in the bottom of the seventh on Barry Foote's home run. It was Foote's fifth homer of ths season.

Pirates 10, Cubs 1 John Candelaria pitched a threehitter and contributed a two-run triple to an eight-run first inning as Pittsburgh defeated Chicago. Candelaria, 7-4, stopped the Cubs without a hit until Jose Cardenal singled to center with two outs in the sixth inning.

Only five balls were hit out of the infield in the first eight innings, and the only Chicago run came on Bill Madlock's ninth home run, in the ninth inning.

Dodgers 2, Braves 1 Winning pitcher Tommy John squeezed home the decisive run in the second inning and Elias Sosa provided instant relief in the ninth as Los Angeles edged Atlanta.

John, 5-4, earned his third straight victory but needed relief help. Astros 4, Giants 3

Cliff Johnson's two-run triple capped a three-run eighth inning rally that lifted Houston over San Francisco. All four Astros' runs were unearned, thanks to four errors by the Giants who were given a tonguelashing by Manager Bill Rigney prior to the game for their last place play. Reds 12, Padres 5

Pinch-hitter Mike Lum's leadoff homer in the 14th inning ignited a seven-run rally that gave Cincinnati its victory over San Diego. Following Lum's blast and a two-run triple by Cesar Geronimo, a solo homer by Dave Concepcion finally put the four-hour game out of reach for the

athletes

thletes in the upcoming Olympic Games will get their share of gold medals but should not make that their only goal, says former Olympic gold medalist Jesse

Owens, a track star in the 1936 Olympics, said

attention should be

focused on the individual athletes, not the country.

"Those who make the team will defend the United States," he said.

"We'll win our share of gold."

Owens also said the selection process for the U.S. Olympic competitors does not need updating. The "one-shot" trials in Oregon were fair

even though some athletes with outstanding records in their events did not qualify, he said.

"I think there is a time to leave the nest and that time has come. Of course, his mother should be there to watch him. I have great respect for her and she has made him the great tennis player he is."

Mrs. Connors and Miss Wallace shared the tension of Connors' losing match as they sat together in the front row of the VIP box.

Miss Wallace, dressed in a flimsy top of blue cheesecloth and white jeans, hid most of her feelings behind huge tinted sunglasses. Mrs. Connors became more and more dejected as her son's fortunes waned.

Connors seemed to take the defeat hard and the usually talkatative been good friends

Miss Wallace told reporters "Go away and leave us alone.'

Tanner, 24, said: "I had to keep my head during the match. That was vital. I found before that if you get down and disheartened it spirals and gets worse and worse. I concentrated on my play, game by game and point by point.

Tanner, who was beaten by Connors last year in the Wimbledon semifinal, said he "was not out there today for revenge. But it feels awfully good to beat him here.

He doesn't fit the stereotype of the modern fighter, though he has a chance to be remembered - and resented by many - as the conqueror of Muhammad Ali.

Ken Norton wasn't shaped by a ghetto en-vironment. He isn't motivated by memories of hunger and poverty. He had a happy childhood, he isn't much bothered by the pigment of a person's skin, including his own.

It happens that Norton is black, but he seldom thinks in terms of color. 'I'm not hostile toward will bloom nicely in the several-year period of pro football chaos, he said, pointing to the free-agent acquisitions as evidence. And the baseball troubles might just hasten a franchise here, although congressional action to eliminate territorial restrictions would be the swiftest means.

Noll admitted surprise at two recent developments, the terms of the pro basketball merger and Charles O. Finley's sale of the better part of his team to the Yankees and Red Sox. Noll could not understand the ABA teams paying anything, let alone the reported $3.2 million each, to join the NBA.

"Before, you paid that much to join a league because there were so many player restrictions," he said. "Now it's a relatively free market. And I don't understand why the Yankees and Red Sox paid Finley $1 million for those players when they could have gotten them for just their salaries after

"If a team wants to buy a pennant it'll do it no matter what system happens to be used," he said. "Look at the Yankees. They paid an enormous price to Catfish Hunter when he was a free agent, and they paid an enormous price to Finley for Vida Blue under the old system. It's just a matter of who

"Sure the Yankees paid tremendously for a few players. But I'do not believe that they now are A's beat Texas anywhere near as dominant as they were in the period from the '20s to the mid-'60s operating under the old system."

> THE VIEW here is that the majority of players, 3 in football and baseball, will be hampered if the market for their services remains totally open. Restrictions tend to at least tolerate incompetence by management. Zero restrictions would tend to cause teams to fail, and that would create empty stadiums and additional burdens on taxpayers.

Still, that white elephant called RFK Stadium came about under the old system, and one that encouraged felows such as Robert Short and several owners of ABA and WFL franchises to slip into a town, grab all the depreciation possible and then leave fans twisting slowly in the wind.

'In the short run, baseball will become stable more quickly than pro football," Noll said, "because baseball has antitrust immunity and the NFL doesn't. Frankly, it looks to me like the baseball players association is going to cave in, to agree to some sort of reserve system.

a restaurant or a lounge, they wanted to give me a free glass of milk" Spitz said, recalling the reaction to one of his many television commercials. "I may have helped the milk industry but I found people joking and making fun of me for drinking milk."

Returning from Munich in 1972, with his unprecedented seven gold medals and seven world records, Spitz was hailed as a national hero. He was invited to Washington, where members of Congress gave him a reception normally accorded princes and potentates. Agents fawned over him. Women gushed.

Madison Avenue went batty. He was the hottest commercial commodity of the generation. He was called "the greatest hero since Lindbergh." The William Morris Agency. which specializes in Hollywood talent, landed him for $5 million.

THE MORRIS AGENCY went to work getting America accustomed to the face of the goodlooking Olympic champion. He made his public debut on the Bob Hope Show-normally a springboard to stardom. He saturated the TV screens with appearances on the talkshows-Dinah Shore, Mike Douglas, Merv Griffin, Johnny Car-

He began-for a princely price-plugging everything from electric razors to swimming pools, milk to hair dryers and credit cards. His price tag for personal appearances was $12,500.

The 'Mark Spitz Look' became the thing. Young business types copied the bushy dark hair hanging just slightly over the ears and the welltrimmed mustache. Then, suddenly, Spitz all but disappeared from the nation's TV screens, except in periodic commercials. His projected movie career went sour. Norman Brokaw, the agency executive who handled this fragile piece of china, made the excuse that Spitz had been offered as many as 30 movie roles but all had been turned down because they were wrong for his im-

"Everyone wanted to do a Tarzan remake," Brokaw said. "You can't take a hero and have him play a bank robber right away."

LOOKING BACK, Spitz could see the matter with greater objectivity

"In the beginning, there might have been some exploitation," he said. "Some of the parts were real crazy, not adaptable to my personality. But the situation is stagnant now. I think Hollywood has forgotten about me."

Spitz acknowledged that the fault may lie with his personality. As the world's best swimmer, he was sullen and introverted. He hated interviews. He often ignored and even insulted the press. He was jealous of his own

Spitz said he was not resentful of all of the press-"I have had a good press and a bad press''-but that a few may have turned him against the whole.

Spitz said one of his problems was that he was too honest. He wasn't able to smile and roll with the punches, as some people can. He resented tinsel and phoniness. "Everything with me has been concrete," he continued. "I always tried to give honest answers. When I came back from the Olympics, I wasn't professional. I was functional, not adaptive. That was the trouble."

Once in 1973, Spitz became so discouraged that he threatened to throw everything overboard and devote his life to the cause of Israel. He also said he might return to dental school. "I am thinking about it," he said. "But I doubt if I'll become a den-

About three years ago Spitz met and married Suzy Weiner, 22, daughter of one of his father's business associates. They live in a two-room condominium in Marina del Rey, on the outskirts of Los Angeles. The pretty Mrs. Spitz also has appeared in some of his commercials.

We go to some Hollywood affairs, but we are not part of the Hollywood swing set." Spitz said. "Our friends are young like ourselves. They don't drive Rolls-Royces. They treat us as average people. We play tennis and golf. I still swim some. But I never look at the clock."

Six teams compete in AHL

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) - The American Hockey League will enter the 1976-77 season with at least six of its eight member teams intact, league President Jack Butterfield said Tuesday.

Five teams have already indicated they are ready for the new season, Butterfield said at the close of the first day of the league's annual meeting.

He identified those clubs as Hershey, New Haven, Nova Scotia, Rochester and Springfield, and said the sixth could be either Baltimore or Providence.

Ali's the greatest, TV rankings back up champ

By DAVE BRADY The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The Nielsen ratings certify that Muhammad Ali is, indeed, the "greatest," even though he lets only his grade B performances on home television.

He is the individual, one-shot ratings champion by far - on prime time - without counting his bigmoney bouts on closed circuit television, which the conventional networks cannot afford.

Ali's most recent title defense against a popover, Richard Dunn in Munich, drew the highest rating ever for a boxing bout on free television, going into 24,360,000 homes.

CONTRAST THAT with a highly attractive fight between two former champions, George Foreman and Joe Frazier, which drew so badly on closed circuit television that it reportedly cost the promoters about $1.8 million in losses.

Ironically, it was Jimmy Young against Ali at Capital Centre who helped pump up interest in the Dunn bout. Young's close loss to Ali raised the prospect that at age 34 the champion was ready to be taken, possibly even by Dunn.

Team-wise, as they say on "Mad. Ave.," pro football is still the leader in delivering the most households to an advertiser on free television. The Super Bowls, for all their

To those visionaries who have been seeing the bloom off the rose for pro football, there is evidence to the contrary in that Super Bowl 10 not only was the most-watched sports event of all time but the most widely viewed of any regularlyscheduled event, sports or nonsports. It reached 29,440,000 homes.

IN FACT, the only non-sports programs on the all-time top 10 listing are the 1973 showing of the move "Airport" in 1973, the movie "Love Story" in 1972, All in The Family in January 1976, and the Bob Hope Christmas special in 1970.

In the all-time top 10 in sports category, it took a Super Bowl or World Series game No. 7 in 1975 to beat Ali-Dunn, which ranks seventh. The dramatic sixth game of that series ranks ninth. The seventh game ranks fiftyth in the combined sports and non-sports division. Baseball is faced with more of a challenge by the weather than the other team sports - football, basketball, and hockey - because it is played when potential viewers more likely to want to be outdoors.

ABC WAS sensationally successful to the Winter Olympics. Those games attracted 15,100,000 households in prime evening time and 10,720,000 in the daytime for a combined 13,640,000.

U.S. vetoes U.N. plan to establish Palestinian state

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) -Ringing up another in a quickening succession of American vetoes in the United Nations Security Council, the United States has blocked approval of what it called a misguided blueprint for setting up a Palestinian state.

The veto cast Tuesday by deputy U.S. representative Albert W. Sherer Jr. ended a council debate held sporadically since June 9 on a report by the special U.N. Palestinian

The report called for Israel to withdraw from occupied Arab lands, the phased construction of a Palestinian 'entity" in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, and "further arrangements for the full implementation of the inalienable rights of the Palestinian

The Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) was trying to get. the Security Council at least to "take note" of the report. The report itself will go to the General Assembly when it meets in September. It is guaranteed overwhelming approval there by the Third World and Communist PLO representative Shafig al Hout said that regardless of U.S. vetoes. "the Palestinian people will return to their lands in Palestine.

"The question is simply this: Will we return home in an orderly and relatively peaceful fashion? Or must we struggle by all means at our disposal and with the support of friendly powers at a tremendous cost of human lives in order to return?"

Only the United States voted against the resolution. Britain, France, Italy and Sweden abstained on the ground that the report concentrated on only one aspect of the Arab-Israeli problem Explaining his veto, Sherer said the resolution was "totally devoid of balance." He added that the "political interests" of the Palestinians must remain a question for Arab-Israeli negotiations.

Israel boycotted the debate as a protest against both the content of the report and the composition of the 20member committee, which is dominated by pro-Arab countries.

The United States has now cast 16 Security Council vetoes, all since 1970. Ten were cast in the past 13 months. There have been four this year, including one last week to block Angola's application for U.N. membership.

The Soviet Union cast 110 vetoes during the years that the United States dominated the United Nations. The Russians have not had to use the

AMA delegates to take up controversial issues

DALLAS (AP) - The American Medical Association's House of Delegates, which spent most of Tuesday wrestling with changes in the bylaws and telling big government to keep its nose out of medicine, will consider several more controversial resolutions today.

High on the agenda, in this final day of the 125th annual AMA convention, are resolutions to protest violence on television shows; to start a hardhitting campaign against cigarette smoking; to oppose any form of national health insurance, and to fight bill introduced by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., to give the federal government more control over the doses of drugs prescribed by doctors.

Although the delegates have allocated themselves only three hours for debate today, it is certain the convention will go far beyond the suggested adjournment time, with scores of resolutions still to be con-

Colorado Medical Center professor believes there could be a sharp reduction in lung disease if steps were taken for early diagnosis as is done for heart attacks and hypertension.

Dr. Thomas Petty, chief of the center's pulmonary science division. said at a news conference Tuesday the symptoms of a lung diseases can be determined by a simple breathing test and a questionaire.

The scientist, during a news conference at the 125th annual convention of the American Medical Association, said a limited test made recently in a Colorado town showed that if an early test is made, those with the symptoms of coughing and wheezing, can be advised to give up smoking, and to take medication that will prolong their lives.

Petty said the "smoking male with

Help's still available for compulsive politicos

By PATRICK CONWAY Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - "Dear Uncle Patrick: I am a compulsive politician and a member of Politicians Anonymous. I read about this wonderful group in your column eight years ago, went to a meeting, and have not shook a hand nor kissed a baby since.

"How does one tell if he is a compulsive politician? Uncle Patrick. here is a list of 20 questions. Anyone who answers YES to seven or more of these questions has a serious political problem. I hope you will print my letter, Uncle Patrick. Millions of people need help, and they don't know what to do, or where to turn. You can tell them

1 - Do you lose time from work because of politics?

2 - Is politics making your home life unhappy?

3 - Is politics affecting your reputation? 4 - Do you have a secretary who cannot type, but who is a great and good friend? 5 - Do you ever borrow money to finance your political endeavors? 6 - Do you catch yourself using phrases like: "Let's get down to the lick log," and "It's time to fish or cut 7 - Does politics cause you to have difficulty in sleeping? 8 - Do you consort with lobbyists to take your mind off of problems?

9 - Do you like to make things perfectly clear even when you don't know what you are talking about?

10 - Do arguments, disappointments or frustrations create within you a compulsion to go out among the people and "press the forum rather than a feed? 12 - Does politicking keep you out late at night and prevent you from performing efficiently on the job the 13 - After losing a political race, do you feel you must run again as soon as possible to restore face?

14 - After a win, do you have a strong urge to gut those who opposed

15 - Do you wake up in the middle of the night screaming: "Mr. Speaker?

16 - Do you believe everything can be solved by a committee or a special outside research study?

17 — Do you make promises you know you will never keep? 18 - Have you ever committed, or considered committing, an illegal act to promote your political future? 19 - Do you believe politicians are entitled to special privileges, tax breaks, free meals and booze, etc.?

20 - Do you ever lie when you know the truth wouldn't hurt you? "I repeat, anyone who answers YES to seven or more question's needs Politicians Anonymous. Please, Uncle Patrick, do what you can to help these lost souls. Sign me +

Hooked/in Austin.' Dear Hooked: Thanks for your helpful letter. Thousands of politicians have been helped by your wonderful organization. It's no easy matter to admit you're a politicaholic but your words I am sure will be a Godsend for many. However, to be a member of Politicians Anonymous, you must first admit that there is a power greater than yourself. That's a mighty tough first step for most compulsive politicians.

Bicentennial 'rescues' China's fireworks exports

By JAY MATHEWS The Washington Post

HONG KONG — With the flash of "Moon-Wooing Phoenix" and the pop of a "Golden Dragon," the celebration of America's revolution has come to the rescue of one of revolutionary China's favorite exports - fireworks.

Stung by threatened new safety regulations, Chinese sales two years ago to the United States of its noisy, centuries-old specialty were about as lively as a wet firecracker. After going from $500,000 in 1972 to more than $3 million in 1973, they plummeted in 1974 to less than $1 million after the Consumer Product Safety Commission threatened to ban all firecrackers.

But the enormous Bicentennial demand for noise and color has apparently persuaded the commission to put off its final decision. Sales are expected to shoot up and a fair proposition of the gold, blue, green and red rockets bursting over Washington and elsewhere in the next few weeks will come courtesy of the followers of Communist Party Chairman Mão Tse-tung.

For a nation that usually disdains colorful decorations, gaudy billboards or any individualized glamor, the labels China gives its pyrotechnical creations are startling: "Spring Prevails Over the Garden' night display shells Garden' night display shells, "Monkey Violates the Heavenly Palace" rockets, "Clustering Bees," "Twitter Glittering." "Moon-Wooing Phoenix." "Silvery Birdcall," "Lady Crackers," "Tom Thumbs," "Lightning" and "Golden Dragon."

According to a lengthy report prepared by Stephanie R. Green for the National Council for U.S.-China Trade, Chinese fireworks are made in three southern provinces. The delicate placement of fuses is often done by thousands of women working in their homes for an auxiliary income of about one dollar a day.

Their creations are funnelled through Hong Kong where Chinese middlemen have spent a hectic fall and winter trying to meet the huge Bicentennial demand. After the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission placed only a "tentative" limit on the powder content of firecrackers, and put off a final decision until the fall of 1976, "all of a sudden the demand hit and some manufacturers and distributors were not so well prepared," said H.C. Fung, managing director of Li and Fung Ltd.

(Of the estimated $10 million in U.S. imports of fireworks last year, about a third came from China.) Fung, 58, now heads the second generation of å merchant family that has plied the fireworks trade here for more than a half century. He presides over an empire of plastic flowers, beaded curtains and other novelty items, but even though the half million dollars in fireworks he shipped to the United States this over last year, he is glum about the future.

The manufacturers and exporters here don't feel the new regulations are fair, he said, "for our firecrackers can't be as dangerous as many fireworks items manufactured in the United States."

The U.S. Safety Commission has lowered the maximum permissible powder content of firecrackers from 130 milligrams to 50 milligrams, after noting that there were 3,300 firework-related injuries in the 1974 July 4 season.

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) - With their own "air force" at the ready, nine flight instructors at Gateway Technical Institute direct a college program that turns out pilots, flight instructors, aviation managers and

The program, already popular with-potential students, gained some prestige recently when Gregory Gorak, an assistant to chief flight instructor Bob Clarke, was named by the Federal Aviation Administration as the top flight instructor in America.

Gateway officials say the two-year college course is the only one of its kind in a five state Midwest region. They believe there are few others like it in the nation.

The Gateway "air force" includes

13 aircraft used in flight training, and seven other planes, including some military surplus equipment, used in the airframe and power plant program.

Gorak, 38, joined GTI in 1968 when the school first offered associate degrees in pilot training, aviation mid-management and airframe and power plant mechanics.

He has been a major force in its growth, although he admitted during an interview that until two years ago, "we had trouble filling up the program.'

But Gorak, president of the Metro Milwaukee Flying Club and an enthusiastic promoter of flying and of Gateway's program, embarked on a tour of state schools, spreading the word that budding flyers could go to college and learn a more glamorousthan-some trade at Gateway.

"We have 28 openings for next fall and about 108 applicants," he said. "We visited schools, and we talked to teachers at the state teacher's convention. It all helped.

The school's airplane mechanic's program is also popular, with three instructors and 55 students who graduate after 2,000 hours of classroom and lab time.

Student-pilots study and fly in seven Cessna 150s, four high performance Mooneys, one Citabria aerobatic plane and one Beechcraft Baron, a six-passenger, multiengine aircraft.

Student fees pay for the airplanes. Students pay regular tuition at the state vocational-technical school, plus $4,000 for the two-year flight training course. Gorak said a comparable private course would cost from $7,000 to $12,000.

"They leave here with a com-mercial license, instrument rating, multi-engine rating and a flight in-structor certificate," Gorak said. "we have the pleasant situation of being able to place all our flyers."

A typical freshman entered in pilot training takes typical college freshman courses such as math, written composition, psychology and English, plus less typical offerings of 40 hours of flying, five hours in a simulator and aeroscience ground school.

Course work in pilot training matches the amount of work required in any major field of study, Gorak said. Applicants for the program are not required to have any previous related training, just an interest in

$50 billion deficit

Washington Report, a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, advises that Congress has agreed on federal spending targets for fiscal year 1977 which would result in a $50.8 billion federal deficit.

The first concurrent budget resolution adopted by both Houses proposes a spending limit of $413.3 billion. This is $17.5 billion above the President's spending request for fiscal 1977.

These are billions of dollars about which the executive and legislative branches of government are talking and considering.

And this reminds of the tough time third grade students of an Arizona school are having in determining just how much a million is. One wonders how many members of Congress have any idea as to how much a billion is. If they really made a study of it, most of the congressmen perhaps would have as much difficulty in dealing with billions as the thirdgraders are having in their "million" study.

This doesn't seem to bother most congressmen very much, however, since it is YOUR tax dollars they are spending.

The Congressional Budget Control Act of 1974 requires Congress to estimate total revenue and set tentative federal spending limits in a first concurrent resolution by May 15 for the following fiscal year.

Next, after action by the Appropriations and other legislative committees, Congress must pass a second concurrent resolution by Sept. 15 which establishes final limits on federal spending for the next fiscal year which begins Oct. 1. For fiscal 1976, the deficit was fixed at $74.1 billion.

Total revenue for fiscal year 1977 is estimated by Congress at $362.5 billion, compared to the President's estimated $351.3 billion. This shows that even with the higher revenues, Congress' increased spending target leaves a deficit of $50.8 billion for the next fiscal year.

The U.S. Chamber publication points out that the deficit would amount to $679 per household in 1977 which, while less than the

INSIDE REPORT:

By ROWLAND EVANS

And ROBERT NOVAK

$1,013 expected deficit for the present fiscal year, is still a right substantial amount for the average household.

It is noted that the total federal debt will increase from $534 billion for fiscal year 1975 to $623 billion in 1976 to an estimated $714 billion for 1977, an increase of more than one-third in only two vears.

Washington Report states that the major part of the $40 billion increase in the spending target for 1977 is in the following categories:

Income security programs, $11.1 billion; health, $5 billion; national defense, $8.9 billion, and for natural resources, environment and energy programs, $4.3 billion.

And, in addition, interest on debt will be up $5 billion over the current year's $40.4 billion, as a result of the larger national debt.

This really is something to ponder. Just think of it - $45 billion in debt interest alone! This is enough to frighten anyone. Although President Ford cannot veto congressional budget resolutions, he has said he will not go along with the $413.3 congressional budget. It is possible for him to veto individual spending bills ... and Mr. Ford could have a field day in this area.

It is explained that the major difference between the President's proposed federal budget and the first budget resolution of the Congress, is that Congress has rejected the President's proposals for an additional $11 billion tax cut to stimulate the economy and to hold federal spending growth to 5 per cent: instead Congress voted in favor of more taxes and a year-toyear increase in federal spending of almost twice that recommended by Mr. Ford in his

And that's where the matter stands at this time.

Meanwhile, the Arizona thirdgraders still are learning the hard way just how difficult it is to accumulate a million pop bottle tops. It is a meaningful lesson for the students. It would be equally meaningful for many members of Congress.

and considered their attack on the nation's business community more carefully, they wouldn't be so pleased with themselves. And, if they succeed with their foolish campaign it won't be long before they will be pining for 'the good old days' of Big Oil.
The charge against the oil firms is that they create a monopoly, stifle competition and thus enforce unreasonably high prices nationwide. They should get out of all but one of four main functions, it is said: exploration, production, transportation and refining-marketing

Despite liberal cries of anguish, a breakup would create the very opposite of the desired effect.

This is not to say, by any means, that Big Oil is lily white. The oil industry, along with the automobile industry, surely long ago should have conquered pollution problems that wrack the nation. It has other failings,

WASHINGTON MERRY—GO—ROUND

Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN WASHINGTON - A harried but stubborn Richard Nixon was headed in September 1974 for the trial of the century. Sources inside the Special Prosecutor's office have told us that he definitely would have been indicted for obstruction of justice. At the same time, sources close to the former President have told us that he would never have agreed to a deal with the prosecutors. He would have spurned plea bargaining and would have fought for his freedom in the This epic drama was aborted on Sept. 8, 1974, when President Ford granted his predecessor a pardon. Millions of Americans still wonder whether it was a set-up, whether Ford in return for his vice presidential appointment had promised to keep Nixon out of prison.

In response to literally thousands of requests, we have conducted a painstaking investigation into the circumstances that led to the controversial Nixon pardon. We have uncovered some fascinating details that can now be revealed for the first

Gen. Alexander Haig, then the White House staff chief, first raised the question of a pardon with Gerald pord on August 5 - four days before Ford replaced Nixon in the White House.

Haig notified Ford to be prepared to assume the presidency. In discussing several possible contingencies, Haig mentioned that Nixon could pardon himself before resigning or might be granted a pardon after he resigned. Ford gave no inclination what he might do.

But thereafter. Ford noticed for the first time, he later confided, that Nixon looked drawn and defeated. He also appeared to have lost weight.

Gerald Ford took the oath as President on August 9. Not until August 27, so far as we can learn, was the subject of the pardon raised with him again. Then aides Jerry Horst and Robert Hartmann alerted him to expect questions about it at a press conference the following day.

Immediately after the press conference, the President instructed his general counsel, Philip Buchen, to explore the possibilities of a pardon. We are privy to the backroom discussions, which are too detailed to

But shortly after Labor Day, Buchen approached Nixon's attorney, Herbert J. Miller, about the possibility of a pardon. Buchen strongly suggested that Nixon should issue a statement of contrition. But this was not a condition. Buchen added carefully, to the pardon.

Privately, the White House wanted a statement that would keep Nixon from proclaiming his innocence once it was no longer possible for the courts to establish his guilt. Miller agreed to seek such a statement from his San Clemente client.

The President sent a close friend, Washington attorney Benton Becker, to San Clemente to make the flew to California together. Although they didn't reach San Clemente until 11 p.m., Pacific time, they went immediately into a three-hour huddle with Nixon aide Ronald Ziegler.

The talks were resumed the following morning in Ziegler's office. Frequently, Ziegler and Miller would slip out of the room for whispered consultations. At one point, Ziegler received a call from the White House. It was Haig on the phone, advising Ziegler that Nixon didn't have to sign any statement at all.

An understanding was reached nevertheless, that any pardon would be followed by a statement of contrition from San Clemente. Not until the negotiations were completed did a fatigued, forlorn Nixon appear. He looked aged as if he were not Nixon but Nixon's father, Becker recalled. The former President also gave Becker the impression that his head was too big for his body.

He was despondent, disoriented. "Thank you for being fair," he murmured. "You are a fine young man." Then in the middle of the conversation, he grabbed Becker's "You are a big boy," Nixon blurted out of context. "Did you ever play football?" Later, as Becker was leaving. Ziegler intercepted him and said the deposed President wanted to see him again. Becker was ushered into a sparse office. Nixon greeted him solemnly. "Mr. Becker," he said, "you have been a gentleman. You haven't been a bully. I have had my share of bullies. I want to give you something." Then he extended both arms toward the sparse office walls. "But I don't have anything," he said, his voice almost breaking. "They took it all away."

Swallowing hard, Nixon pulled open a desk drawer and produced a pair of cheap, presidential cuff links and a tiepin. He handed these dramatically to Becker. "Pat took these from my jewelry box," said Nixon sadly. 'Hang on to them. They are the last ones in the world."

Back in Washington, President Ford had already made his decision to grant the pardon. He instructed Hartmann to draft an announcement. Hartmann warned that the desision would cause and uproar. The President had already made up his mind. He didn't want Hartmann's opinion, just the statement.

is risky adventure petition in the industry and it is this truth that has stopped retail prices from going even higher than they have already.

There are about 10,000 companies competing in U.S. gas and oil exploration and production. There are 15,000 wholesalers of petroleum products. No one firm controls the industry. Exxon, the industry's giant, has only an 8.5 per cent share of crude oil production. It owns only 11.6 per cent of crude reserves. It has only 9.2 per cent of refining capacity.

Texaco, another big firm, produces only 6.7 per cent of the nation's petroleum liquids. It has a 7.5 per cent share of Big Oil's refining capacity. It has an 8 per cent share of marketing. And, so on with Standard Oil, Union and others whom the liberals see as

There are, in all, about 50 firms that engage in the four functions some complainants would like to see separated.

Dismemberment of Big Oil would be a costly adventure for the American consumer. It would delay for dangerously long periods the vital need for vigorous new exploration in the North Sea, in the arctic, on the continental shelf. These are costly operations - a drilling rig in the North Sea costs over $50,000 a day.

Splitting Big Oil also would be good news to the Arabs. It would strengthen the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries cartel and would enhance its blackmail opportunities.

Also, there are hundreds of "onefunction" oil firms that do quite well, along with the larger more integrated companies like Exxon. Firms in single-stage operations for many years have won business away from the big boys, especially in local markets.

There is financial risk of gigantic proportions in oil exploration. Big money is needed and the big firms, unlike smaller ones, have risk money available. The alternative would be a government, tax-financed. socialiatic-style enterprise. Perhaps a move toward socialism is what the liberals have in mind. With the taxpayers paying the bills.

The whole divestiture campaign is a bad deal for the American consumer. Nuclear power may be in our future, then solar energy. They are some years away, however, and oil will be the name of the game in many industries - and in your driving pleasure - for some time to come.

Those who cry out for breaking up the oil industry are raising fallacious claims and ignoring the economic realities of our industrialized society. The big losers would be the same ordinary Americans whom the liberals claim they are anxious to save from Big Oil.

POLITICIANS SYNONYMOUS -

national convention delegates here week before last, this state'e informal unit rule was in its death throes - a fatality with possible consequences for Reagan ranging from merely damaging to absolutely catastrophic. Reagan's national strategists had hoped for a majority within currently pro-Ford - led by Gil Carmichael, nearly elected governor last year, and 29-year-old Jackson city commissioner Doug Shanks.

Novak

Had Reed and Mounger chose to fight it out, they surely could have elected a unanimous Reagan delegation. Instead, they avoided bloodshed and opted early this year for a harmony delegation, where hard Reagan strength barely exceeds 50 per cent. That decision was based partly on the mistaken belief that the presidential nomination would be decided in the primaries. But Reed and Mounger felt secure in the unit rule, first adopted here in 1960 and passed again, 3 to 1, by this year's state convention in April. Why not magnanimously allow Ford backers on the delegation when their vote would not count anyway? Reagen leaders were still hoping for 30 to 0 until week before last, when commissioner Shanks, chairman of the Ford declared publicly he would break the unit rule on the floor at Kansas City and record his vote for Gerald R. Ford. Although Reagan forces still believe Shanks is bluffing and will not risk his political career in Mississippi, the signs are un-mistakable that he has burned his pany. Although Carmichael had promised to honor the unit rule, Shanks convinced him that this was a dead issue once one delegate broke it. So, endangering his future ambitions for governor or Senator, Carmichael will join the rule-breakers. So will the state's two black delegates, Gloria Beal and Bill Dease.

That total of four could climb to five if Miki Cassidy, a pretty young housewife from the Mississippi Delta town of Marks and a staunch supporter of Carmichael, feels Mr. Ford needs her vote. Three other delegates. now uncommitted, told us they may decide to back Mr. Ford and, if they do, also may break the now-shattered unit rule. There is enough doubt about four other delegates to raise the Ford total to a maximum of 12.

Thus, the Reagan campaign can no longer think about a Mississippi sweep but must worry about averting catastrophe by individually wooing uncommitted delegates. With the unit rule in terminal condition, dealing with this state's Republican power brokers is no longer adequate.

Reagan's visit here showed that his managers do not fully comprehend the new reality. Instead of the formal question-and-answer session they were given, delegates would have preferred intimate conversation with the candidate - congenital desire of the uncommitteds. The Ford campaign plans such intimate talk on a presidential trip to Mississippi or, more probably, a White House visit from the entire delegation. Uncommitted delegates Mr. Ford would encounter are as varied as Jack Lee and Odell Tucker.

Jack Lee is a 25-year-old Chevrolet dealer and rookie delegate from Union, Miss., who had been leaning toward Mr. Ford but wants a winner in November and now regards

President Ford's Mississippi windfall cited Reagan as a superior campaigner. However, should he decide on Mr. Ford, Lee would not hesitate to join the unit rule breakers. Odell Tucker, a 61-year-old truck stop owner at Greenwood (in the Delta) who describes himself as having no more than a 10th grade education, is counted on by Ford backers, mainly because of his close essociation with Carmichael. But Tucker insists he is uncommitted. looking for someone to lead the nation out of crisis. If he decides on Mr. Ford, would he break the unit rule? He says he might but does not know.

These names are important only because of young Doug Shanks. He has infuriated erstwhile patrons (especially Mounger, who financed his city council campaign) and antagonized much of the state party. But, in the present dead heat for the nomination, he might turn out to be the salvation of Jerry Ford.

House Democrats forecast huge increase in gas price

By ROBERT A. ROSENBLATT The bos Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., and two other powerful House Democrats said Tuesday that they expect the Federal Power Commission to raise the price of natural gas aimost 200 per cent.

Consumers' gas bills would jump an estimated $9 billion or more, Moss told a news conference. An increase of this size "would be a totally unwarranted rip-off," according to Moss, chairman of the House oversight and investigations subcom-

The FPC is conducting a regular review of natural gas prices, an FPC representative said Tuesday. "There are rumors all over the place about prices," she said.

But Moss said his sources within the FPC indicated the agency is considering a jump in the price of new gas to $1.40 or $1.50 per thousand cubic feet from the current price of

The FPC regulates the price of gas sold across state lines.

"Our best intelligence indicates that they are planning to do this," Moss said

The 52-cent price applies to gas produced from wells in which drilling started in 1973 or later. "Old" gas from wells drilled earlier has an average price of 23.5 cents per thousand cubic feet.

Moss joined with Rep. Harley Staggers (D-W.Va.) and Rep. John Dingell (D-Mich.) in sending a letter that warned the FPC against altering its system of setting rates based on the cost of producing gas. The FPC "is required to set rates that are just and reasonable," the letter said. "The FPC is not authorized to peg the price of gas to the price of Skelly Oil Co. No. 2-9-18 University, Ward County Strawn-Atoka prospect, nine miles northwest of Pyote, flowed gas at the rate of 1.279 million cubic feet daily, on a one-inch orifice. The flow was through perforations require the (FPC) chairman and each (FPC) member to justify his position in a public hearing." Staggers is chairman of the House Commerce Committee, the parent body of the oversight subcommittee. Dingell chairs the energy and power subcommittee.

A big increase in gas prices would be "particularly shocking" since the 52-cent gas sold for 26 cents as recently as 1974, the letter said.

Moss said he called the news conference Tuesday to draw attention to the possible price hike. The FPC will probably approve the higher prices while Congress is in recess and attention is focused on the Democratic convention, he said. "It will only get second or third page coverage,"

Newton's eligibility to be argued today

well as heating.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Dist. Court Judge Herman Jones hears arguments today over the eligibility of Jon Newton to be the Democratic nominee for the Texas Railroad Commission The suit was filed by Jerry Sadler, defeated by Newton in the June 5th runoff primary.

Atty. Gen. John Hill said Tuesday that Sadler had no grounds for a suit against Newton and that Secretary of State Mark White should be allowed to certify Newton as the Democratic

Hill's answer, for White, was filed Tuesday in reply to the civil suit filed June 22 by Sadler who claimed that Newton was ineligible for run for the office because as a state representatives he had voted to raise railroad commissioners' salaries from $40,500 a year to $42,500. Sadler said the state constitution prohibits a legislator from raising the salary of a state job and then taking the job within a year after he leaves office as a legislator. A temporary restraining order was issued to stop White from certifyingNewton. Hill said in his brief that Newton is clearly eligible to be a candidate because of a special state constitution provision that says legislators' terms end on Dec. 31, and if elected he would not take office on the Railroad Commission until after Jan. 1. Hill said state election laws provide that the acceptance of a second office by a state official automatically creates a vacancy in the first office.

Furthermore, Hill argued, Sadler had no legal right to bring the suit because he has no right to the Democratic nomination after he was defeated by Newton in the runoff

Survey shows oil to remain at top

While many U.S. firms have research programs to find new ways to produce energy, few of them are willing to take financial risks in developing energy technologies, a research group has found after a survey of 142 corporations.

Despite public enthusiasm for alternate energy sources after the Arab oil embargo, the survey found, petroleum is likely to retain its dominance for the rest of the century. The survey, released Monday, spells out the obstacles faced by new technologies - such as solar, geothermal and fusion power. It traces the extent to which major corporations have become, as the authors put it, "more and more dependent on federal funding, enmeshed in government procedures and reacting to government

Virtually all of the firms surveyed said it was up to government to fund the major share of the research into new technologies. Those firms involved with fields that are becoming more technically advanced, such as solar heating and cooling, said they were waiting for federal action, such as tax incentives, to make their systems more economically attrac-

"We found few companies taking large risks," Stewart Herman, a coauthor of the report, said last week. "The firms are pursuing their short-term interests, extending their current products and current markets." Much of the research involves depletable resources such as oil and coal, he said.

The report was prepared by IN-FORM, a New York-based, nonprofit research group. It is to be publihsed as a book called "Energy Futures." Herman and his coauthor, James S. Cannon, identified 207 major research projects in 17 different technologies, ranging from solar heating and cooling to nuclear fusion, tras conversion, wind generation and the use of fuel cells. The study shows that alternate sources of energy are unlikely to replace oil and gas to a substantial degree before the early part of the next century. But it contains a wealth of detail on what research is actually under way. The report gives a company-by-company breakdown of efforts in the various research fields. It is written for the layman and is the first comprehensive look at what corporations are up to in the search for energy sources.

The authors said that the firms were generally cooperative in providing information, but tehy admitted that they had no way of doublechecking some of the data. Companies refusing to permit interviews, they said, included Bechtel, Standard Oil of California, Stone and Webster, American Cyanamid and Combustion Engineering.

The survey notes that the Energy Research and Development Administration already pays almost the entire costs of corporate development efforts in five of the research fields.

House leaders await response on session

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)-Gov. Dolph Briscoe's response was awaited today to a claim by House leaders that a special legislative session could save consumers more than 10 per cent on their utility costs.

Speaker Bill Clayton laid out a package of bills that have been readied by three committees for a special session in case the governor calls one. He said he had given the proposals to Briscoe. Clayton held a joint news conference Tuesday with the chairmen of the House Committees on Ways and Means, Energy Resources and State Affairs. They had been instructed by Clayton to seek ways a special session could reduce Texans' utility bills.

The Ways and Means Committee came up with the most dramatic proposals, and chairman Joe Wyatt, D-Bloomington, predicted savings of 10 to 12 per cent

Ways and means recommendations would:

-Eliminate the 4 per cent state and per cent city sales taxes on utility bills. This would cost the state-and save consumers-about $104 million and cities about $26 milion in the coming fiscal year.

-Set a minimum natural gas severance tax of four cents per 1,000 cubic feeet (mcf) on gas selling for less than 53.3 cents per mcf. This would add an estimated $58.7 million to the treasury next year by boosting revenue from gas sold out-ofstate. It would not, however, reduce the 71/2 per cent tax paid on the price of more expensive gas and passed on to consumers by producers.

-Provide special credits for privately owned utility companies that do not pass on to consumers their gross receipts, sales and corporate franchise taxes. Cost to the state: $76.4 million next year. Wyatt said this in itself could reduce utility bills by 10 per cent in areas served by such companies.

Wyatt said the treasury could afford the tax cuts because of a projected $3 billion state surplus over the next three years.

That noise you hear is South wailing when West ruffed. A noise like that might haunt you for years.

"I thought he was leading from the 10-9 or 10-9-8," South moaned as he gave the opponents 100 points. The truth is that South didn't think at all.

Mao's wife possibly losing political grip

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) - Chairman Mao Tse-tung's deepening illness raises a question: What is to become of his wife, the former movie actress Chiang Ching, who is a member of the Politburo of the Chinese Communist party. Already there are subtle signs that the woman Mao married in 1937 may be losing her grip on the cultural scene she has ruled for so many years. The Communist party Central Committee decided this month that Mao, 82 and said to be suffering from the after-effects of a stroke, would no longer see foreign visitors. This suggests that Mao is no longer in day-by-day control of the country. If this is so then Chiang Ching's unique political position may also have ended. Leader of the radical group in the Communist party, she has fought for Maoist ideology against the moderates and technocrats who gave it second place to economic advance. She carried out a revolution in the Peking Opera, the ballet, the theater, films and music. True to Mao's dictum, pronounced three decades ago, art for art's sake has been abolished and the frivolous or merely entertaining replaced with the Maoist message, heroic, heavy and considered by outsiders to be

Though she adapted Western music to opera, she is said to have been behind the movement to ban the playing of the Western classics two years ago. Western symphony orchestras, once welcomed, found the door suddenly closed.

When the Chinese wish to attack someone, they sometimes do it in the guise of defending that person. The Peking newspaper, People's Daily, recently disclosed that some people in the theater were saying, "The broad masses of workers, peasants and soldiers are dissatisfied with the present state of the arts.'

Disgraced former first Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping was accused of circulating this rumor, along with another that nobody wants to buy tickets for the New Model Revolutionary operas which Chiang Ching fostered. Another article in the official newspaper disclosed there has been some heated debate over whether the proletarian heroes of the opera are too good to be true, unblemished by human weaknesses.

Wall newspapers at Tsinghua University recently said Teng walked out of one of the operas saying: "With the Model Operas today, you just see a bunch of people running to and fro on the stage. Not a trace of art. No sense bragging about them. Foreigners applaud out of courtesy, not because they appreciate the show."

Teng's reaction, after hearing the Vienna Symphony play Beethoven: "This is what I call food for the spirit ... The Model Operas nowadays are no more than gongand-drum shows. Go to the theater and you find yourself on a battlefield.'

It seems more than a coincidence that in the wake of these thinly concealed jabs at Madame Mao the door has suddenly been reopened to a European musical group, the French National Toulouse Chamber Orchestra. It not only has played Couperin, Rameau and Leclair in Canton and Peking, but also has received rave notices from the official press: Hsinhua news agency, the People's Daily, and the Kuangiming Daily.

How much all this is linked to Chairman Mao's declining health and Madame Mao's loss of influence can only be a subject of speculation.

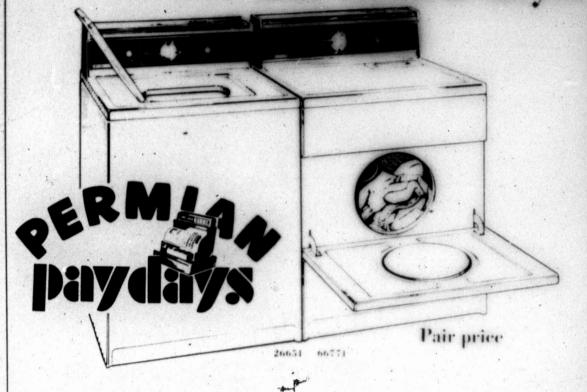

Even if, as seems possible, Chiang Ching, who is in her early 60s, now is being attacked in a roundabout way. it does not necessarily mean that her future is imperiled.

She rose to her place in the 19member party Politburo through the intrigues and infighting of the 1965-69 cultural revolution, making enemies along the way. They include many of the moderate leaders, now rehabilitated, she helped purge.

Though her backers include First Vice Premier Chang Chun-chiao, concurrently chief of the army's political department, her own roots in the military are shallow. They are even flimsier in the government administration.

In the final analysis, she may decide to remain in the background, lending her presence and talents to leaders like Chang Chun-chiao. Or, as some Western experts predict, she could - although this seems highly improbable - just withdraw from politics entirely and play the role of the chairman's revered

Population bomb menaces Israel

The Los Angeles Times

SAKHNIN, Israel - Mayor Jamal Taravi. 36, comes from an average size household by Israeli Arab standards.

He has five children. His six brothers all have five or more children. His father was one of six brothers.

Sakhnin, a village of 12,000 Arabs in Galilee, has the highest birthrate of any village of its size in the world, the mayor proudly proclaims, quoting U.N. statistics.

Each year, Sakhnin produces 500 live births, for an annual population increase of 4.1 per cent, compared to an average of 2.0 per cent for Israeli Jews. (The U.S. average is 0.9 per

The rate of increase for Israeli Arabs as a whole is 3.5 per cent annually, one of the highest rates of population increase in the world

The 518,000 Arabs inside the Jewish state are a population bomb - each year becoming a larger chunk of the Israeli population, while feeling in-creasingly hemmed in physically and alienated politically.

Taravi, a longtime supporter of Israel's ruling Labor Party, said flatly, "They don't want Arabs in this country; we live without a future. Where can we expand?

What concerns the Arabs are the implications of the Israeli government's avowed policy of 'Judaization of the Galilee.' namely settling more Jews in

Right now in the rural areas of Galilee, Arabs outnumber Jews 138,800 to 87,300

The current Arab disaffection over government land expropriation plans to expand Jewish settlements in Galilee appears to some degree to be more of a biological struggle for survival space than a political dispute

The government's figures purport to show that only a small portion of the nearly 5,000 acres planned for expropriation, in a disputed program, actually belongs to Arabs. The official version is that the expropriation takes in 1,625 acres owned by Arabs, 1,000 by Jews, 2,000 acres by the Israel Lands Authority and 325 acres from private owners voluntarily "without recourse to the compulsory purchase power.

However, the Arabs view these government claims with Taravi said that before Israel was founded in 1948, Sakhnin consisted of 3,800 people who owned 23,750 acres. Now the village has 12,000 people and only 5,000 acres, the rest having been expropriated by the government over the years for various development projects. including the national water storage system.

"That's why our villagers are so concerned, in view of the threat of further land expropriations. Our village has the highest natural procreation rate in the world," Taravi said.

"Some people think the Israeli Arabs can migrate to other Arab countries," he said. "We know we cannot leave." Taravi pointed out that the families of Sahknin had farmed here for generations, and said they would have no assets to start life

"We will die here," he said. "If every 10 years there is another expropriation, what will happen to us?'

The growing number of Israeli Arabs living off agriculture confined to dwindling lands could prove to be an explosive problem in Israel's future.

According to the Israeli Central Bureau of Statistics, the Arabs inside the pre-1967 boundaries are destined to constitute a greater share of the overall population in the coming years.

Even if Israel manages to attract an average of 25,000 Jewish immigrants a year, the Arabs will continue to outstrip the Jews in population growth, according to the bureau's projections.

The Arabs will increase from the present 15 per cent of the population to 16 per cent by 1978. 17.4 per cent by 1983, 18.9 per cent by 1988 and 20.5 per cent by 1993, according to census projections.

The unrest among the Israeli Arabs came to a head last March 30, when an attempted general strike to protest the expropriations resulted in the most violent rioting in the history of Israel. Military sources said the extent of participation in the rioting by Israeli Arabs was broader than that of West Bank Arabs in the occupied territories during the recent disturbances there.

In the wake of the March 30 uprising, Jewish leaders have been reassessing the country's policies towards Israel's Arab minority.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin met with the heads of local village councils in the Arab sector on May 23 and declared, "We deem it an obligation and a need to ensure every privilege for Israel's Arab population, coexistence and full quality of rights - while observing and respecting the religious and cultural singularity of Israeli

Rabin said Arabs lacked enough participation in government decision making, and he promised a series of reforms: establishment of a ministerial committee at the cabinet level to deal with Arab affairs, creation of a committee of directors general from the various ministries and setting up of an advisory public council composed of Jews and Arabs.

On the key issues in the minds of the Arabs, however, Rabin said no.

On the question of expropriations of Arab lands for building Jewish settlements, the Arabs wanted Rabin to declare a moratorium and to set up an Arab-Jewish coordinating committee with full powers to plan future development for Galilee.

Such a committee was unnecessary, the prime minister said. The cabinet's resolution on expropriations remained in force, and the government would not alter its decision. Rabin told the Arabs.

The other Arab demand was for an official inquiry into the behavior of security forces during the March 30 disturbances, in which six Arabs died as a result of gunfire from Israeli police or soldiers.

"Let us learn lessons and proceed towards the solution of problems, instead of scratching the sores of the past," Rabin

Odessa officials end protest against airline

ODESSA - City and chamber of commerce officials in Odessa Tuesday reversed their previous positions opposing an application by Southwest Airlines to serve Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Chanber officials Tuesday morning agreed to remove their opposition to the intrastate carrier and approved a motion encouraging Southwest to begin air service here as soon as it receives approval from the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

City officials followed suit that

The two Odessa groups had opposed Southwest's entry here at the request of Midland officials, who said they feared service by Southwest would hurt the two cities' chances of securing an additional carrier at Air But the cities' request before the Civil Aeronautics Board for an early hearing on their air service situation was denied by the CAB, which also denied an early hearing to a Braniff International request to provide that additional air service here.

MH-MR gets federal funding

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - The Texas Commission on Alcoholism has awarded $20,000 in federal funds to Permian Basin Mental Health-Mental Retardation, Midland. The grant, designed to provide alcoholism related services to persons in Midland and Ector Counties. was reduced from its original request of $40,000 because the commission said the agency could receive financial support from other state and local agencies.

The commission has been conducting hearings to study 120 grant applications from organizations throughout the state, and has awarded more than $2.8 million to The CAB denial plus pressure from Texas agencies dealing with alcoholism treatment, rehabilitation and education.

said the voice, believed to be

Scientist Dr. Harold Masursky said the northwest site - so-called because of its direction from the original landing point — appeared in new pictures to be an ancient basin where water had once gathered.

Masursky believes that at one time massive flood waters, perhaps from the melting of ice beneath the surface, cut large channels that flowed down from the original site into the basin.

He said the area was not as dramatically etched by ancient torrents that seemed to have made the higher plateau of the original site too rough for a safe landing. The northwest site is, in effect, downstream of the first site, though both areas are now dry.

"The water must have been much lower and much sparser here" at the northwest site or Chryse Phoenicia.said Masursky "We're moving in this direction because we think we're getting farther downstream (from the original site), and we think this is a very strong indication that we are moving out of the area that has been heavily flooded and heavily modified.

The planned July 4 landing of the Viking 1 automated laboratory was postponed last weekend because of the suprisingly rough terrain in the proposed touchdown area. But no one was prepared to say Tuesday that the northwest site was definitely an improvement, although Masursky said some of the features in the new area may have been softened by desposits of wind-blown sand.

It may be that neither Chryse Phoenicia nor the distant alternate site, designated A2, will be used in the end. The original site, called A1, may be chosen if neither of the others

Marine's mother leaves it to God

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) - The mother of a Marine Corps recruit who died from training injuries said Tuesday God will punish a drill instructor acquitted of charges in connection with her son's death.

Betty McClure Calhoun, mother of Pvt. Lynn McClure of Lufkin, reacted Tuesday to the acquittal of S. Sgt. Harold Bronson, one of three drill instructors charged in connection with McClure's fatal beating last December. "God will punish him," Mrs. Calhoun said of the acquitted instructor.

Five officers and three enlisted men deliberated about three hours Monday before acquitting Bronson on charges of involuntary manslaughter, assault, maltreatment of a recruit and violating an order to conduct close combat drills only with supervisory officers present.

"I don't think they should have had officers on the jury," Mrs. Calhoun said. "The Marines are going to stick together.

Attorney John Gyorkos of Huntington Beach, Calif., has filed a $3 million wrongful death suit against the Marines on behalf of McClure's mother and stepfather. "I don't know if we'll continue with our suit or not," Mrs. Calhoun said. "We'll have to talk about it.'

Bronson's acquittal followed testimony by medical experts, character witnesses and ex-recruits who saw or participated in the beating of McClure.

Judge's signature upholds verdict

Supreme Court nominee Donald B. Yarbrough has been signed by a state judge upholding a jury verdict earlier this month against the Houston attorney.

State District Court Judge William N. Blanton's signature Tuesday upheld the jury's verdict June 15 in which two Houston businessmen were awarded $98,966 in a suit filed against Yarbrough.

Rex L. Cooper and Douglas W. Ford contended Yarbrough defrauded them in a 1974 bank purchase deal. They had sought about $539,000 in actual and exemplary damages.

The jury verdict signed by Blanton requires Yarbrough to pay Cooper $80,500 in damages for failing to provide legal advise about tax shelters for 1974 income.

Yarbrough also is to pay Ford $18,466 in connection with the jury's verdict of fraud. The jury found that Yarbrough committed fraud when he represented to Ford that Ford would be paying the same price as Yarbrough for the control stock in any bank the three men might purchase together.

Michael Maness, Yarbrough's attorney, said he would file a motion for a new trial, a procedure that is "a prerequisite for an appeal."

Yarbrough, who won the May 1 Democratic primary over veteran Appellate Justice Charles Barrow, stayed in the courtroom 30 minutes after Blanton listened to arguments on the judgment. Yarbrough then walked quickly past newsmen, refusing to comment on the final judgment.

Fed policy inspires advance

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market advanced broadly today, inspirted by the promise of a continued moderate approach by the Federal Reserve its money and credit policies.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 4.02 at 1,004.67, and gainers outpaced losers by more than a 2-1 margin in the over-all tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Arthur Burns, the Federal Reserve chairman, told a congressional committee this morning he intended to stay with a moderate monetary policy. Burns also said the evidence indicates that the economy recovery, despite a bit of a slowdown lately, is maintaining its force.

Polaroid was among the day's most active issues, up 3/8 at 403/8. A 28,400-share block moved at 401/2. Noontime readings showed the NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks up .28 at 55.74 and the American Stock Exchange market value index ahead .22 at 105.37.

Volume on the Big Board picked up to 9.70 million shares over the first two hours against 7.95 million in the comparable period on Tuesday.

Tracor picked up 3/8 to 141/4 and Systron-Donner added 3% to 534 after opening delays in both stocks. The companies announced merger plans.

Go West, young folks

By WARREN BERRY Newsday

If you want a job nowadays, head West, young man or woman.

If you want a better-than-average raise, that's also the best spot to be.

At least that's what the latest statistical indicators seem to be saying as the economy pursues its rather uneven - some might even call it unfair - recovery course. While the Mountain and Pacific states continue to show increased job opportunities, as measured by helpwanted ads in major newspapers, "the least strength in ad volume in the last few months has been exhibited in the southern areas - up until then job advertising had been improving steadily - and the Middle Atlantic region, where volume is not much higher now than during the recession," reports Kenneth Goldstein, a labor economist at the Conference Board, a leading business research group.

His Help Wanted Index is closely watched as an indicator of demand for labor, especially those kinds of middle-class jobs that are the most frequently advertised. While the latest reading, in May, is only about 2 per cent higher than in April, it is about 26 per cent better than in the recessionary days of May 1975.

Another even more official indicator also shows that something's shaking out West. The first release of the government's new Labor Cost Index shows that between October 1975, and April 1976, wages and salaries went up 5.5 per cent in the West, 3.9 per cent in the South, 3.7 per cent in the Northeast.

"I'm not attaching any great significance to those figures

- yet," says Labor Department economist Arthur Sackley, pointing out that "after all, the West is still probably our smallest source of employment.'

In general, Sackley found that during the sixmonth period studied, the best wage gains went to some of the lowest-paid workers: laborers and service workers, for instance, getting 5 per cent hikes, while craftsmen and white collar people were openly ahead about 4 per cent and managers and professionals eked out a 3 per cent gain.

As for the outlook for increased job opportunities at all levels and in all parts of the nation, the Conference Board's Goldstein sounds halfway confident as he looks over his latest Help Wanted indicator: "These trends point to a gradual improvement in labor market conditions which is likely to continue for a time. One question, however, is how well the labor force will absorb graduating students this summer.

Man 'critical' atter mishap

An Odessa man is listed in critical condition at Odessa Medical Center following a motorcyclepedestrian accident Tuesday night on FM 1882.

Steven Conrad Partridge, 17, 5014 Johnson Road, suffered head injuries when he was struck by a motorcycle driven by Dee Lynn Dodson, 20, Odessa, a Department of Public Safety spokesman said.

Partridge was kneeling on the west shoulder of the road, lighting a firecracker, when he was hit. He was knocked 80 feet, the spokesman said.

FEDERAL CHARGES

Two Albuguerque, N.M., men were arrested in Marfa Tuesday afternoon and charged with possession of heroin before Federal Magistrate Joe D. Segura of Marfa.

Federal marshalls arrested Ernest Pete Montoya. 36, and Conrado Gillie Carillo, 26, at 5:45 p.m. Both men are being held in Midland city jail on $50,000 Also arrested was Cruz Cardero Dominguez, 33,

Grand Prairie. Dominquez was charged with smuggling aliens. Segura set bond at $10,000. TOOLS TAKEN pany, 1200 W. Front St. THIRTEEN FIRES Six grass and trash fires Tuesday probably were started by firecrackers, the fire department said. Two fires were reported at the west end of Cuthbert Avenue. Other locationa were: 1603 E. Pecan St., FM

1369 and U.S. 80, FM 1369 11/2 miles north of Andrews and U.S. 80 West in front of the Texan Drive-In.

A pickup truck was damaged by fire Tuesday afternoon in the 200 block of North Big Spring Street, the fire department said. The fire caused heavy damage to the wiring under the hood. The fire department said a short in the wiring probably caused the fire. Owner of the truck is El Paso Natural Gas Co.

Heavy damage to the engine and the hood was the result of a car fire Tuesday night at Lee and Front streets. The fire department said a gas line coming loose at the carburetor probably caused the fire.

Wiring and curtains in a trailer house were damaged by a fire Tuesday morning at 3300 Cottonflat Road, the fire department said. There was also slight damage to a bedroom wall. Probable cause of the fire was a short in the wiring.

A short in the dishwasher probably caused a fire at 3102 Harvard Ave., Tuesday afternoon. The fire was confined to the dishwasher.

A fire in packing straw at Suthwest Pottery, 26 W. Industrial Loop, occurred Tuesday afternoon. The probable cause of the fire was a cigarette, the fire department said. There was no damage.

Damage to an electrical line was caused by a fire Tuesday night at 4010 Avondale Drive. The fire department said the probable cause was a short in the line, which fell to the ground. Damage was confined to the line.

A car fire in the 2800 West block of Wadley Avenue probably was caused by a car accident, the fire department said. No additional damage to the auto was caused by the fire.
