Hijacker surrenders at Majorca airport

PALMA DE MAJORCA, Balearic Islands (AP) — A Libyan airliner hijacked on a flight within Libya today landed here with 86 persons aboard and the hijacker surrendered, airport sources said.

The hijacker, identified only as a man opposed to the Libyan regime of Col. Moammar Khadafy, gave up to airport police and turned over two toy pistols and two knives to the chief of the airport, the sources said.

They said nobody was injured and the passengers were being looked after by airport authorities.

Officials in Algiers said the hijacked Boeing 727 jetliner had landed previously at Boufarik air base, 20 miles south of Algiers, after being refused permission to land at the Tunis and Algiers airports. The base is the headquarters of the Algerian air force.

Algerian authorities said the plane stayed at Boufarik only about 10 minutes, then flew on to Palma de Majorca. There was no information on whether it refueled in Algeria.

The plane was hijacked on an early morning flight between Trinoli, the Libyan capital, and Benghazi, in eastern Libya. It was assumed that most or all of those aboard were Libyans.

The pilot tried first to land at Tunis airport, but Tunisian officials refused permission and barricaded the runways.

Tunisian officials said a man aboard the plane told the Tunis control tower he had taken over the aircraft and was a member of a Libyan underground movement called Vigilant Youth that is opposed to Khadafy's regime.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Hunnicutt, Crane town's Bicentennial parade Monday residents since 1926, were grand marshals in the parade.

Birthday bash gave us rare chance to feel good

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent

It turned out to be a big, warm surprise party. We surprised ourselves.

There was a disposition, a hunger, to feel good. Not just well, but good. We felt good.

At long last, the grim clichés of more than a decade — "The American malaise," "The sick society" — were scarcely heard in the land, praise God.

There were, here and there, voices of protest and gloom and guilt, but they were easy to turn off or tune out this day. Can you forgive us, Jane Fonda? Were the blacks less reproachful, the Indians less militant? It would seem so. Even the increasingly assertive American Woman appeared to pause in her march to full equality and seemed less disposed to unsettle the American Male. Can you forgive them, Gloria Steinem?

In all the land, there seemed to be a kind of a truce in fights and causes. Even the critical young seemed less critical. Nobody profaned the cathedral. And did you see all those young people jumping with joy at the Boston Pops concert led by that loveable American square, Arthur Fiedler? Imagine, if you can, American adolescents waving flags and dancing happily to "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Somehow, after all the ballyhoo, we had feared someone would muck it up with the black headlines of violence or a torrent of bad taste born of commercial greed. But they didn't. As the tourist said at the pageant of Valley Forge, "It is history and darned if they ain't doing it right."

Darned if we didn't.

In an apartment overlooking the Hudson River and the greatest splash of sail since Trafalgar, New Yorkers watched from boxed off terraces. Someone started singing and a contagion spread among people who could not see each other and from the whole glassy face of this soulless, modern building, from the individual warren pens of New Yorkers famous for not seeing or hearing or knowing each other, there came "God Bless America."

In the cloudbursts of wiggly flames that broke all around her, could you fail to look at the Statue of Liberty with the eyes of a frightened Russian immigrant or the heart of a boy from Iowa returning from a war that was won and was good to win?

The joy of the rockets' red glare may not have given proof through the night that it would last. But for a moment, it was there, pure, spontaneous, undiluted, unashamed. Didn't it feel good feeling good?

Individually, this kind of eruption of elation has been known to happen to a city, as it did to Pittsburgh when the Pirates won the pennant, as it does to Centerville when the high school basketball team wins the state title, as it does to a research lab when the old man finally wins a Nobel.

But for a whole nation to blow its top short of a war ending is singular, indeed. What had we won this time but the renewal of self respect, even pride, in the perspective of 200 years?

We felt some of that when a freckled All-American boy named John Glenn orbited the earth. Some of it when Neil Armstrong walked on the moon.

In each case, the feeling soon faded. This one will go, too, but, one desperately hopes, not yet, not yet.

Israelis to give hero's funeral to American-born commando

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel gives a hero's funeral today to American-born Lt. Col. Yonatan Netanyahu, the only Israeli commando killed in the rescue of more than 100 hostages held by Palestinian terrorists at Uganda's Entebbe Airport.

Two of the three Israeli civilians killed in the gun battle Saturday night were buried Monday with military honors. Speaking at one of the funerals, Israel's chief military chaplain, Brig. Mordechai Piron, said the 2,400-mile, three-plane commando raid "was a magnificent, courageous operation, but it is the fate of this nation that every joy and delight be mixed with pain and mourning."

Threats of retaliation from Palestinians in Lebanon and from Uganda's President Idi Amin did nothing to diminish the pride and rejoicing of the Israelis in their armed forces' most notable exploit since the defeat of the Arabs in the 1967 Six-Day War.

Border patrols were being especially vigilant, and Palestinian reprisal attacks on Israeli diplomatic and business establishments in foreign countries seemed likely. But with the Palestinians in Lebanon fighting for their existence in a civil war with Christian Lebanese and Syrian forces, no large-scale raids

Nita Haley Memorial Library dedicated

By LYNNE WELLS

The Nita Stewart Haley Memorial Library, housing one of the most extensive collections of Western history in the country, was formally dedicated Monday.

John Pennington of Houston, a member of the library's board of trustees, said the library emphasizes the "best tradition of the West — rugged individualism and independent enterprise." No government funds support the library, he said.

Family members unveiled portraits of J. Evetts Haley and Mrs. Haley painted by Bettina Steinke of Santa Fe, N.M.

Mrs. Haley, who died in 1958, was described as a woman who had an eager anticipation of what tomorrow would bring. Nephew John Haley said, "She had a zestful approach to day-to-day living."

J. Evetts Haley, who donated most of the library's books, photographs and other materials, celebrated his 75th birthday Monday.

Haley, who is recognized as a range country historian, was called "the most original American," by Mrs. Peggy Nichols, a family friend. She called him a true Westerner in mind and spirit and a unique and creative character" who revealed himself as he wrote.

Haley has written such works as "The XIT Ranch of Texas" and "Charles Goodnight: Cowman and Plainsman."

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. expressed his appreciation for the city being chosen as the site for the library.

Christy Edmiston crowned Miss Crane

By ED TODD
R-T Staff Writer

CRANE — The little girls came out in one-piece bathing suits. The whistles and catcalls were restrained or even muted.

But when the big girls promenade on the boardwalk, the razzle-dazzle was there but not like it could have been. They wore floor-skirting evening gowns.

And the head-to-heel-eyeing judges settled on what they liked in girl- and woman-showmanship and named three winners in the annual tot-to-womanhood Miss Crane Beauty Pageant here Monday night.

The show, next to a dance and fireworks, all but rounded out Crane's three-day Bicentennial celebrations over the Fourth of July weekend.

A good third of Crane's 3,500 denizens were seated on coliseum grandstands and folding chairs when formally-attired Christy Edmiston, 16, was crowned Miss Crane of 1975.

Miss Edmiston, one of six contestants in the big-girls' beauty league, was crowned by last year's Miss Crane, Beth Doshier, 18.

Runners-up were Dora Heredia, 18, first, a 1976 Crane High School graduate, and Vickie Hill, 18, an Odessa College freshman.

Miss Edmiston, who will be a senior in the upcoming school year, has been named managing editor of Crane High School's newspaper, The Crane

Queen Elizabeth II beginning U.S. visit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II was awaited in Philadelphia today to begin a six-day Bicentennial visit to the United States with dedication of a special bell — 200 years after the Liberty Bell rang out a message of freedom from England.

The queen and her husband, Prince Phillip, were scheduled to disembark from the royal yacht Britannia at Penn's Landing on the Delaware River, where Pennsylvania's founder William Penn, came ashore in 1681.

The 10-ton Bicentennial bell, cast at the Whitechapel Bell Foundry in London where the Liberty Bell was made in 1752, hangs in a 130-foot-high brick bell tower at the new Visitors' Center.

The new bell is inscribed: "Let Freedom Ring."

As the queen prepared to dedicate the new bell with her only formal speech of the day, preacher-demonstrator Carl McIntire planned a demonstration to protest the gift-bell's lack of a biblical inscription.

The Rev. Mr. McIntire says the new bell is a "counterfeit and a phony" and he wants the queen to take it back.

Raid due to increase Uganda-Kenya stress

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The Israeli commando raid Sunday on Uganda's Entebbe Airport is expected to intensify the bitterness between neighboring Uganda and Kenya.

Ugandan President Idi Amin accused Kenya of complicity in the rescue of Israelis held hostage by Palestinian and German hijackers. Kenya denied the charge. But the three Israeli planes did stop at Nairobi airport after the rescue, for treatment of the wounded. And there were reports that at least one of the planes landed here en route to Uganda and that advance Israeli agents were operating freely in Nairobi.

Amin is bound to step up his war of words against Kenya, informed sources say.

Uganda and Kenya are partners with Tanzania in the East African Economic Community. Amin's predecessor, President Milton Obote, was respected in Kenya and on friendly terms with Kenyan President Jomo Kenyatta.

When Amin, then army commander, overthrew Obote in a military coup in January 1971, Kenya chose not to interfere and rejected Obote's request for political asylum.

But Amin's abrupt expulsion of 40,000 Asians, his break with Israel, his flirting with the Arabs and the systematic and brutal extermination of his enemies found no favor in Kenya. The adverse publicity hurt the tourist industry throughout East Africa and in Kenya particularly.

Last February, Amin laid claim to large chunks of western Kenya. He said the territory was Ugandan historically and had been wrongly transferred to Kenya by the British.

Thousands of Kenyans took to the streets in protest. Many demanded that Kenyatta order an invasion of Uganda. The people of one province offered $10 million for Amin's head.

Kenyatta said in a speech that "only a madman" would make the territorial claims Amin was making.

Amin also has resented Kenya's continued ties with Israel. Although Kenya broke diplomatic relations with Israel after the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, the Israeli government maintains an office in Nairobi, and Israel has invested heavily in the Kenyan economy. Many of Kenya's most prosperous businessmen and industrialists are Jewish.

Diplomats believe that Kenya's part in the Israeli raid, no matter how small, was in Amin's eyes conclusive evidence that Kenya is a real enemy.

Amin accused Kenya of "collusion with the Zionists" and threatened "to retaliate in whatever way possible to redress the aggression." But in a statement late Monday night, he said Uganda does not have the air power to attack Kenya.

Carter still mum on No. 2 spot; delegates lean to Brown, Church

By EVANS WITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter isn't saying who is at the top of his list for a running mate on the Democratic ticket, but delegates to the party's convention name Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Sen. Frank Church as their top choices for the second spot.

The delegates who will meet in New York City next week named more than 50 politicians and nonpoliticians as their choice for vice president, a continuing Associated Press survey of delegates found.

Carter, who has enough delegate votes to win the Democratic presidential nomination, says he will interview five possible running mates before the convention.

His first interview was with Maine Sen. Edmund Muskie in Plains, Ga., on Monday. Carter said this did not mean Muskie was his first choice.

The former Georgia governor, who has not released the names of the four other contenders besides Muskie, has said no one speaks for him on this decision.

And it is Carter's vote that will count at the convention. In the past, the convention always has approved the presidential candidate's choice for his running mate.

Brown, who defeated Carter in three late primaries, was named as the choice of 155 of the 988 delegates who stated a preference for vice president in interviews with The AP.

Medical services arranged

NEW YORK (AP) — Ministering to the medical needs of some 12,000 athletes from 128 nations at the XXI Olympiad in Montreal, July 17-Aug. 1, will be 1,303 men and women, says The Physician And Sport-Medicine.

This medical corps was put together by Dr. Carroll Laurin, chief medical officer for the summer games.

The McGraw-Hill publication notes the group will include 260 general practitioners and specialists, 8 medical administrators, 30 nurses, 143 medical assistants, 25 dentists, 7 pharmacists, and 200 physiotherapists.

Teaching now family affair

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Browning Samples and her 26-year-old daughter Olga Davis are both full-time faculty members at St. Philip's College.

Mrs. Samples, a widow in her mid 40s, is a counseling guidance program coordinator and a former evening division instructor. Mrs. Davis, a University of Texas graduate, teaches drama and speech classes.

Another 153 delegates when asked in the continuing AP delegate survey.

After Brown and Church, in order of total number of delegate mentions, were Sen. Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois, chosen by 115 delegates, and Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, by 81.

Both Stevenson, who was a favorite son contender, and Bayh, who dropped out of the presidential race midway through the primaries, drew much of their support from their home states. About a third of Stevenson's support was from Illinois, with almost half of Bayh's coming from Indiana.

Minnesota Sen. Walter Mondale, was named by 70 delegates, about 50 of whom currently are listed as Carter delegates in the AP survey.

Rep. Morris Udall, who amassed more than 300 delegates in his bid for the nomination, was named by 62 delegates for the second spot.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., was the choice of 38 delegates, while Ohio Sen. John Glenn also was named by that number. Sen. Henry Jackson, whose presidential campaign stalled in May, and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., rounded out the top 10 in delegate preference with 30 and 26 supporters, respectively.

The AP survey found that Brown, Church, Udall and Jackson still have support from a relatively large number of delegates for the presidential nomination.

House prices decline

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — In case you missed the original announcement, it should be recorded that in May the average purchase price of a new single-family home fell to $46,300, a drop of $2,200 from the record-high price a month earlier.

It is understandable that you might believe those figures to be the result of a typographical gremlin, but they are not. It is possible too that they are another of those well-known statistical flukes, but maybe not.

The fact is that there are some solid reasons why the prices of some new homes might have dropped. Some are smaller editions, many a re-minis of a year ago. And some sellers have been having problems.

This latter cannot be ignored: if you think you've had troubles in buying a house your local builder can reduce you to tears with his frustrations in trying to sell a house, even at a miniscule profit.

So what do we deduce from this latest news? That it pays to wait? If you so conclude you are battling the odds. You might very well find yourself in the same trap that snared many young householders of the 1960s, who were convinced that housing prices would stabilize.

Well, they did, for a while. But while housing prices were stable, and only briefly, interest rates rose. And they rose and rose, fully 50 per cent in 10 years.

Housing prices weren't stable for long either. They too rose and rose, doubling in about 10 years and leaving those who waited holding in their fist a down payment that grew less and less adequate.

Although nobody can say the next 10 years will be a repetition of the past 10, and despite the recent good news, the trend is still upward for both purchase price and financing. What happened in May isn't likely to be repeated.

Price for land, materials and labor are ascending. Many areas are imposing costly building limitations in order to preserve the purity of their water.

Will there be a technological breakthrough that might lower costs? Attempts so far have yet to prove themselves as permanent or broadly acceptable, and many have failed.

Remember the factory house? It's still being produced and the quality is good. But mass production hasn't really caught on; the industry is still largely one of small stick builders operating locally.

The no-frill house? Promising. But some builders maintain they really can't produce a quality house by stripping away distinctive features and then manage to sell at a profit. Still, it continues to offer limited hope.

Mobile homes? Possibilities. But shipments of these units, which had surged to one-half million units several years ago are now back to one-half that, although rising again. Bears watching.

Cooperatives and condominiums? Many buyers have had very successful experiences, but many people still resist them as a substitute for conventional housing. And in some the prices and maintenance costs are high. Cluster housing? In this technique the individual lots are reduced in size in order to provide more common green spaces. Some have been successful, but for the most part they haven't substantially lowered costs.

The fact remains that most Americans like what is called conventional housing, and there is at the moment rather little long-range hope of any meaningful lowering of prices while quality is maintained.
