Carter warns Democrat chiefs against overconfidence in fall

NEW YORK (AP) - Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter warned party leaders against over-confidence today before returning to Georgia to map plans for capturing the White House in the Nov. 2 election.

Carter said he did not intend to rest on his laurels and told members of the party's national committee and its fund raisers he expected them to work equally hard to register voters and raise funds in order to preserve the momentum of his giant-killer campaign from obscurity to the Drawing a parallel with the campaign of John F. Kennedy in 1960, Carter said his success in November and, after that, in keeping his promises depends on party efforts to get out the vote, give him a strong mandate and solid support in both houses of Congress.

During the morning after their acceptance speeches at the closing session of the party's national convention, Carter and his running mate, Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, met with the party's finance committee and its national committee.

"There can be a very serious mistake made if we are over-confident," Carter said in his first meeting with the national committee. "We have a good chance to win, but it is is not a sure thing.'

He recalled that Kennedy was perceived as a handsome, dynamic candidate running against Richard M. Nixon. Despite that, Kennedy won by the narrowest of margins and as a result his administration suffered from a lack of "national purpose" around the country and in the Congress, Carter said.

The former Georgia governor told, the state party leaders that not since 1960 have the Democrats had a good voter registration drive. He said his staff had already begun work with party chairman Robert Strauss on a major drive to get out the vote this

Carter urged the party regulars not to sit back and wait for a phone call from him or Strauss before working hard for the election of the full Democratic ticket. Earlier he had urged members of the party's finance committee to contact 100 persons each to finance voter registration and get-out-thevote campaigns in the fall.

"I can't keep the promises I've made to the American people or will make this fall - and I intend to keep everyone of them - unless I have a solid base of support in both house of Congress, unless I get a good mandate in the fall, unless we're able to keep a substantial portion of the unity and common purpose that was exhibited last night in a moment of high tension and high emotion and back home to California, or to Kan-sas, or Indiana or Texas and relax and say, 'Well, I've done my part,'" Carter said. "We've got a strong, aggressive, dynamic campaign ahead of us ... but we can't do it with you sitting back ... admiring what others

Mondale also spoke to the finance and national committees, telling the fund raisers that "I've never been through a meeting that was more thrilling and more hopeful, not just for the Democrats, but for the whole country, than I went through last

At the national committee session, Carter called Strauss "the greatest national party chairman I have ever known," although the nominee high commitment," Carter said. acknowledged for the first time
"I would like to ask you not to go today that he know Strauss had thought someone else would head the Democratic ticket. Carter has asked Strauss to remain as chairman through the election.

26 children, bus driver kidnaped

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) -Twenty-six children and the driver of their school bus who vanished on their way home from a swimming outing apparently are the victims of a mass kidnaping, the Madera County sheriff said today.

Deputies and police searched the San Joaquin Valley farmland through a windy, rainy night split by lightning and thunder for some clue to the whereabouts of the children, who ranged in age from 5 to 15.

The bus in which the children had been riding was found in a dry canal Thursday night.

"It appears to be an abduction," Sheriff Ed Bates told reporters. "We are waiting to be contacted."

Bates said his investigators found two sets of tracks superimposed on the bus tracks, suggesting that an abduction "would have to be planned, it seems to me." The tracks showed that "somebody left the area after the bus was parked.'

The bus, which was to have returned the children from the Chowchilla fairgrounds, was found abandoned in a dry canal during a search from the air. It was hidden in a heavy stand of bamboo in the flat farmland about 35 miles northwest of Fresno.

The sheriff said he couldn't "think of any other possibility" but a kid-"There's no blood, no naping. evidence of foul play at the bus. I'm at a loss for words about this one. I absolutely can't figure it. We can't find anybody who has a motive." Bates said the FBI has been called

The children are students at the Dairyland Unified School, which country school."

She said the bus driver, 55-yearold Frank Edward Ray Jr., was "very reliable" and had been driving for the school for 28 years.

"You couldn't ask for a nicer guy," Mrs. Hansen said. "He was born and raised here.'

Sheriff Bates, who set up a command post at the Chowchilla Police Department, speculated that there were five possibilities: a "deranged guy" who had kidnaped the entire group; a "personal revenge, somebody who wants to make the parents suffer;" a kidnaping "for money;" a "terrorist" plot; or "some older kid on the bus took command by force.

Shortly before dawn Bates discarded as a clue reports that a white van seen the last two days near where the bus lets children off might be involved in the disappearance. The vehicle turned out to be a "dental van" which has been assigned to the area, he said.

The sheriff's office said it received calls from anxious parents beginning about 4:15 p.m. Thursday. At that time, the bus was two hours over-

Investigators towed the bus out of the canal and began a search, roping off the area around the bus. At one point, 30 officers from several cluding a force detailed to a door-to-door search south of the town Officer's recovered two towels and items connected with a childrens' ceramics project, Bates said. The key was missing from the bus's ignition, he said.

Democrats here pleased with ticket, optimistic

Midland Democrats this morning were pleased with the Jimmy Carter-Walter F. Mondale combination and optimistic about the ticket's chances in November.

"I think it's fine," Vann Culp, county chairman, said. He said he believes John Glenn might have made a more effective vice presidential candidate in this area, but, "I think Mondale will generally add to the ticket, especially in the Northeast and

I'm really not that sinister

One more preliminary colunn seems in order before I get down to the daily business of throwing out ideas and seeing what readers throw

I'm indebted to the pen and ink drawing to young artist James T. Brocksch of Brownwood, and I hasten to add that Brocksch's original is a much more striking work of art-if no more charitable to the author of OESTE.

There's an interesting story behind the picture, I think. I received the life-sized original by mail-together with a similar drawing in colored inks-from the young artist, plus a letter noting he wanted to do some art work for OESTE Magazine and had copied the cover of the original Terlingua edition to get my attention. He got my attention and I got an excellent artist for what turned out to be my next edition, featuring Brownwood, for which Brocksch created both the modified Peter Max cover suggesting Brownwood institutions and the major inside art: Brocksch's painstaking depiction of the famous Douglas MacArthur Academy of Freedom complex that grew out of the old Daniel Baker College now a part of Brownwood's pride and joy, Howard Payne University.

Brockscsh works with a series of microscopic ink dots to form masses of stone, foliage, or human figures, and his work is so exacting that the effect on newsprint is of a tightly screened reproduction—so tightly screened, in fact, that fairly lightly shaded areas of the original show up All of which is by way of saying that the author of OESTE is nowhere near as sinister as the column illustration makes him appear. Come by the office some time and compare the original Brocksch with the original Pendergrast.

And, if you're a MacArthur nut, you can get a copy of Brocksch's signed, numbered print of the original by writing him at 1308 East Early Blvd., Brownwood, Tex.,

Tell him where you heard about it, because I promised I'd make him famous—in lieu of the customary artist rates for all that work is OESTE

But I like the artistic touch of a drawing, instead of the usual photo, for my column, and I've tried everything from photographs to highly imaginative cartoons topside.

This way, I'm sure there's omething creative about the thing. no matter how dull the copy gets.

Warm, moist Gulf air from a tropical air mass has fed into a low pressure area. When the warm air rises and meets the low pressure area, it condenses and turns into rain, the weatherman said.

Since this particular system has been stationary the siege of cool, wet weather has persisted, but relief may be in sight.

A cold front which was between Midland and Lubbock this morning and was due to pass through the area, brings a possibility of more rain and thunderstorms, he said.

However, the passing of the front will cause a different wind situation and the weather should start to/clear by late weekend, he said.

In the past week, 2.74 inches of rain have fallen at the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal. The average total rainfall for July is 1.82 inches, while this month's total to date is 3.18 inches.

Also, during the month of July, only one day's temperature has been above normal for the month.

For tonight and Saturday, the weatherman said there is a chance of thunderstorms - some heavy with the possibility pegged at 40 per cent and 30 per cent, respectively.

BIG SPRING - No firm date for the release of the first draft environmental statement on the closing of Webb Air Force Base has been set. after what is apparently the third postponement of the release.

The statementoriginally was to be available to the public by June 1. The date was first postponed to mid-June and then to mid-July. This time, no firm date for release has been set, according to an Air Force spokesman in the Pentagon.

"The impact statement is going through the whole Air staff and it depends on what various agencies say," the spokesman said.

increase would be involved.

The matter is further conplicated because of the 40 different rating territories and 18 rating classifications used in setting rates, as well as nunber and type of cars.

But an idea can be gained by comparing the dollar differences of the various coverages for Class 1-B drivers with a Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth, not used in business but driven to and from work (with no unmarried female operator under 21, no male operator under 25, and no operator 65 or over). The changes in Midland County

CRANE - Crane County voters Thursday approved by a wide margin three separate issues totaling $250,000 in a bond election which attracted 219

Passed by a margin of 183 to 36 was a proposal for $180,000 in road bonds. The second proposal, $20,000 for county park bonds which would include an addition to the local youth center, passed 165 to 51.

The third proposal, asking $50,000 for county fire fighting equipment, won voter approval 196 to 23.

Maxine Morgan, secretary to the Crane County Judge, said approval of all three issues will increase the tax rate 114 cents per $100. The new tax rate, she said, will be $1.3125 per $100 assessment on 12 per cent valuation on real property.

When contacted after the meeting, Johnston said, "I don't think they're entitled to it.'

closest to the Hilton, is about $5,000, Johnston said.

In an exchange with board member Patsy Bohannan, Johnston said the Hilton's value should be set between those two figures. In answer to a question from Mrs. Bohannan, he said the Hilton does not offer more facilities than the Sheraton.

The same per room rate as the Rodeway Inn's would give the Hilton total value of approximately $1

He said the per room value of the Hilton under the current valuation is about $37,000 per room. Board members calculated that value to be $34,200 when Johnston's method of obtaining the value was used.

During their discussion, board members noted that the Hilton has ballroom, restaurant and meeting facilities that are not comparable to those of any other hotel or motel in the

After the meeting, Johnston said he used the per room value approach because rooms are the "major income division." He said rooms available to civic groups are primarily a community service.

Conventions attracted by available meeting facilities help "everybody else in town" as well as helping to fill the hotel's rooms and are, therefore, primarily a community service, Johnston said.

He said other hotels and motels in the city are not valued on construction cost and "I don't want them to value my hotel on cost and every other hotel on something else.' Jones said other hotels are valued on their market value at the time of their construction. The board voted to request the cost figures in order to determine the fairness of the assessment after agreeing that valuation based on income or market value is not feasible because income figures are not available yet. They also agreed there is no comparable facility with which to determine market value.

In other action, the board reached agreement with the Midland National Bank on the assessment of that new bank building.

The value was set at $8,705,620, which is 95 per cent of the original appraisal. The assessed value will be 75 per cent of that amount. Since the building was 95 per cent complete Jan. 1, the property will be carried on the tax roll for this year at 95 per cent of that value, Jones said.

The board did not decide whether the bank or Gerald D. Hines Interest, shown as the owner of the building, is liable for the taxes.

One after another, the delegates who emerged from those meetings said they were personally still uncommitted, but that they expected half or more of the other delegates who attended those sessions to vote for Reagan.

"I was leaning to Ford. Now I'm straight up and down. I'm unleaning," said delegate James Stein.

Schmidt: Germany won't cancel nuclear sales

By MURREY MARDER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - West German Chancellor helmut Schmidt Thursday ruled out any reversal of his country's decision to sell Brazil cycle, despite fears in Congress that this might lead to Brazilian nuclear

The answer is no, we are not reconsidering our policies in this matter," Schmidt told a National Press Club audience.

Brazil, unlike West Germany, is not a singer of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, he noted. But Schmidt said, "I welcome this opportunity to state before an American public Audience that by those treaties with the Brazilian government we have brought the Brazilian government to undertake even greater duties toward NonProliferation than they would have to undertake if they were a partner to the Non-Proliferation treaty.'

Nevertheless, some members of Congress are alarmed that countries like Brazil may get back-door access to nuclear material that could be used to produce bombs. Congress last month voted to impose a cutoff of American aid and military credits to nations that deliver or receive nuclear reprocessing equipment, which could lead to a dispute over the Brazilian nuclear sale.

Schmidt was greeted warmly Thursday morning by President Ford at the white House in a ceremonial Bicentennial visit. They last met just a few weeks ago at the Puerto Rico economic summit conference of industrial nations.

The President, noting this was their eighth meeting in two years, lauded Schmidt as "a very steadfast ally, distinguihsed statesman and an esteemed personal friend." West Germany, Mr. Ford said, "today stands as a model of stability, social justice and economic wells being."

Schmidt, in turn, said his present, visit comes at a time when "our bilateral relations could not be bet-West Germany, which has sent millions of immigrants to this country during its 200 years of independent, holds "deep confidence in the United States of America," he said.

Schmidt was in a bouyant mood as he addressed the National Press Club audience. He was most forceful in response to the recurring question of the consequences of a withdrawal of American troops from Western Europe. This time he said that would have "a catastrophic impact" on not only Western Europe, but "the equilibrium of power all over the globe."

Congressional pressure for a unilateral cutback of U.S. troops in Western Europe had abated in the past year. The more intense issue, where West German policy is concerned, has been the sale of elaborate nuclear facilities and West Germany's expanding role as an exporter. Earlier this month, France and West Germany signed letters of intent for multibillion-dollar nuclear sales with Iran, reportedly worth more that $9 billion.

Bishops critical of abortion plank

The Los Angeles Times

CHICAGO - Roman Catholic Bishops from Illinois and other states have sent sharp messages to Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter in the last two days protesting the Democratic plank on abortion and questioning the Carter camp's knowledge of the strength of Catholic opposition to abortion.

Responding to expressions of criticism. Carter said at a news conference in New York Thursday, after introducing Sen. Walter S. Mondale as his vice presidential choice, that his own position on abortion "is very close to what the Democratic platform said, but I would have worded it differently.

Carter denied being consulted on the abortion plank and said "I did not have any input, I might say, personally or through my staff, so far as I know, with the adoption of the particular abortion plank."

The Democrate plank reads: "We fully recognize the religious and ethical nature of the concern which many Americans have on the subject

Catholic Bishops, the leading group of Catholic Church leaders, has worked during the last three years for an amendment to the U.S. Constitution that would guarantee the right of life to the unborn fetus from the moment of conception. Carter has not agreed with the need for such a constitutional amendment.

The protest by many bishops of the 325-member National Conference of Catholic Bishops was stimulated by the organization's general secretary, Bishop James S. Rausch, from the conference's Washington, D.C., headquarters. In addition to Reausch, John Cardinal Cody of Chicago and all other nine Illinois Catholic bishops, the others who have sent protests to Carter include Terence Cardinal Cooke of New York City, Archbishop John Dearden of Detroit, Archbishop Peter Gerety of Newark, "and many other bishops," according to conference press spokesman Russell Shaw in a telephone interview Thursday.

The bishop's protest was partly designed to demonstrate the unanimity of the conference's support of its president, Archbishop plank "irresponsible" and "morally offensive."

Part of the protest made by several bishops was directed at comments by the head of Carter's issues staff, Stuart Eizenstat, an Atlanta lawyer. The bishops took offense at Eizenstat's comments, reported in the press, that Archbishop Bernardin had not been speaking for all bishops when he condemned the Democratic plank on abortion.

Carter said Thursday of the abortion plank: "I would have preferred wording which would say: within the bounds of the Supreme Court decision, whatever it might be, now and in the future, that we should do everything that we can to minimize the need for abortion.'

LONG BEACH, Calif. - Pat Nixon walked unaided Thursday for the first time since she was hospitalized with a partially paralyzing stroke.

Dr. Bernard J. Michela, director of rehabilitation medicine at Long Beach Memorial Hospital, described the former first lady's steps as a "most significant sign of improvement."
Mrs. Nixon, 64, has been undergoing twicedaily, 20-minute therapy sessions consisting of brief walks and standing exercises.

A hospital spokesman said those sessions now would be lengthened in view of her rapid progress.

She entered the hospital July 8 after suffering the stroke a day earlier at the Nixons' San Clemente estate. Doctors said the stroke partially paralyzed muscles on her left side and left her with a slightly slurred speech.

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) - A district court jury early today found former Dist. Court Judge O.P. Carrillo of Duval County guilty of felony

The jury of seven women and five men deliberated six hours and 55 minutes before returning the verdict a 2:45 a.m.

Dist. Court Judge Joe B. Evins ordered the jurors to return at 1:30 p.m. for the punishment phase of the trial. Carrillo faces 2 to 10 years in prison, but has requested that he be considered for probation.

The former judge showed no emotion and stared straight ahead as Evins read the verdict. About 20 members of the Carrillo family who had remained in the county ourthouse through a long displayed no emotional reaction as they filed from the courtroom. Carrillo would make no comment.

Asst. Texas Atty. Gen. Gerald Gerald Carruth said, "We are pleased with the verdict."

Carruth said the prosecution would ask the jury for a maximum punishment of 10 years in prison.

The case against the impeached judge went to the jury at 6:45 p.m. Carrillo, 52, from Benavides, was tried on a charge of stealing about servation and Reclamation District, a controversial water district, to purchase a station wagon.

Defense lawyers Richard "Race Horse" Haynes and Randy Schaffer of Houston spent much of their final arguments attacking circumstantial evidence against Carrillo and the character of Rodolfo Couling, a key prosecution witness who testified under an agreement with the state that four of five felony indictments against him will be dismissed in exchange for his cooperation and testimony.

Couling explained to the jury how he, in the prosecution's words, "laundered" money stolen from the water district and how it reached Carrillo.

A former tax collector for the Closing arguments, including Benavides Independent School rillo told him that the late political boss George B. Parr said the water district was going to buy Carrillo a station wagon. Couling said the water district sent a $5,625 check to the Benavides Implement and Hardware Co., a firm owned by Couling. He said he had not performed any services or sold any merchandiese to the water district in return for the check.

He deposited the check in his bank account, Couling said, and gave Carrillo a blank, signed and dated check on which he wrote that it was payment for "one station wagon."

Records of the First State Bank of Rio Grande City indicated that Carrillo used the check from Couling to pay off a $5,650 loan he obtained at the time he purchased the station

Carrillo, who was removed from office in January after the Texas Senate found him guilty of an impeachment charge, also faces eight other felony indictments returned by a Duval County grand jury investigating official corruption in that South Texas county. # Lubbock club owner to comply with indecent exposure ruling

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) - A threejudge federal panel upholding Texas indecent exposure laws has prompted at least one nude dancers' club owner to cover up his employes, but the statewide effect of the decision is uncertain today. Ted Robbins, owner of the Lubbock club whose dancers were involved in a suit challenging the law, said Thur-sday he still thinks his dancers have the right to dance totally nude but there will be no more bottomless or topless dancing at the club.

"I plan to go strictly by the law," Robbins said. "We are not going to try to appeal this ruling."

Robbins said he feels the opinion will set a precedent statewide. He said cities may cite the opinion to stop nude performances at places where no alcoholic beverages are sold.

In addition to calling the state's indecent exposure law constitutional, the judges also lifted an injunction which had allowed six dancers to continue their line of work without clothing or fear of arrest by police since the case was filed in November.

The opinion was filed late Wednesday by U.S. District Court Judges Halbert O. Woodward of Lubbock and Robert W. Porter of Dallas and 5th Circuit Judge Thomas Gibbs Gee of New Orleans.

The judges' opinion only dealt with was upheld by the panel." he said. contentions by just one of eight plaintiffs that the state's penal code dealing with indecent exposure is unconstitutional and that local police's arrest procedures "created a prior restraining and chilling effect" on the right of free expression. Joyce Prisk is the only one of the plaintiffs who does not have legal proceedings still pending from incidents that prompted the suit against City Atty. Fred Senter, police chief J.T. Alley and Luke E. Robinson, then administrator of the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

The other plaintiffs except Prisk may still claim the state's law is unconstitutional as a defense in their respective municipal proceedings, according to the judge's opinion. The judges could not rule on the other plaintiffs while their cases were pending in municipal courts.

But the decision has virtually ruled out their opportunity to challenge the law in federal court other than the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Texas statute is aimed primarily on "conduct," the opinion said, and only has incidental impact

Alley was pleased by the opinion of the panel. "We always felt that the law was a good one. I'm glad that it

The meet is one of America's top AAU age group competitions and, as in years past, it has attracted the top age group swimmers in the nation. The Cincinnati Marlins, champions of the last two meets, are back this year with another strong team.

It is noteworthy that eleven states are represented in the meet - Ohio, Florida, California, Louisiana, New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Colorado, Mississippi and Texas. This makes it something extra special, and Midland and Midlanders are delighted to be hosts to the more than 30 swim teams from across the nation.

The big annual event is sponsored by the City of Midland Swim Team, the City of Midland, and Midland Jaycees, with Dave Rathjen serving as general

WASHINGTON - Everyone knows Jimmy Carter did it. But no one knows how he did it. This is the truth, so help me God.

On Oct. 28, 1974, Jimmy Carter went out to his field in Plains, Ga., and got on his knees. His sister came out and said, "Jimmy-Earl, what on God's green earth are you doing?"

"I'm planting delegates," Jimmy replied, without looking up.

"Peanuts, Jimmy-Earl. You're supposed to be planting peanuts. Delegates will never grow in the South.

"Well, I got me my first delegate." Jimmy's sister sneered, "Jimmy-Earl, one delegate doesn't give anyone a blue ribbon. You're going to need a ton of them.'

Jimmy just smiled. A few months later there were delegates sprouting up, one right after the other.

'Danged it all, Maw," Jimmy's brother complained. "Jimmy-Earl keeps growing delegates, and there's no place to raise my earthworms. You gave him one acre and he keeps taking up all my worm land.

'Jimmy-Earl's got his heart on bringing in a crop of delegates, Jimmy's mother said. "Let him be."

'But, Maw, what about the Jackson blight and Udall plague and the Bayh tornadoes and Humphrey hot winds? Anything could happen in the next year. At least with earthworms we know we got us a paying crop.

'Don't worry about Jimmy-Earl. He's cross-pollinated his delegates so they can stand a New England winter, a Midwest frost and the Southern Wallace weevil.'

It is interesting to note that a public opinion poll conducted earlier this year showed that more than 70 per cent of Louisiana's voters favored enactment of the bill.

It also is noteworthy that the Democratic party's draft platform called for repeal of state Right to Work laws. We haven't seen the platform as adopted, but it is presumed that this plank must have gone through with the others. Jimmy Carter, the Democrat standard-bearer, also has said that he favors repeal.

"The Right to Work," Larson said, "is as fundamental a right as the right to live and breathe."

He is absolutely correct in this observation. Without Right to Work laws, Louisiana reportedly has been unable to attract new industry with any degree of success, whereas its neighboring Right to Work states - Texas and Arkansas - have been most successful in this regard.

Reagan's vice president list

By JACK ANDERSON with LES

WHITTEN NEW YORK - While Jimmy Carter was narrowing down his vice presidential choices, members of Ronald Reagan's inner circle drew up their own secret, informal list of vice presidential prospects.

They are confident Reagan will win Republican presidential nomination next month and will choose a running mate from their list.

The surprise on the list is Ambassador to Britain Anne Armstrong. Even Reagan's most chauvinistic advisers have said they could support the dynamic ambassador. She is one of the three top contenders.

Another hot prospect is Treasury Secretary William Simon, a conservative like Reagan but a loyal supporter of President Ford. Simon also has the respect of the Eastern money establishment. Reagan's inner circle feels that Simon, because of his devotion to Ford, would draw the party together after the President's anticipated defeat. The third leading contender is William Ruckelshaus, who has served alternately as deputy attorney general, FBI chief and environmental czar. He was a victim of Richard Nixon's notorious "Saturday Night Massacre" which forced out the first special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox.

Considered but rejected by the inner circle, barring an unlikely change of heart, are Reagan's able campaign chairman, Sen. Paul Secretary John Connally.

In Connally's case, his "big government" concepts have alarmed some Reagan backers. They also fear the milk scandal and Connally's taint the ticket, even though he was acquitted of criminal charges.

Down the list are three senators who at least are under consideration by the Reagan strategists. They are Sens. ### INSIDE REPORT:

Export-Import Bank caught in backstage struggle

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - A potent weapon is about to be introduced into an in-tense backstage Washington struggle to pressure the Export-Import Bank to reduce interest rates for Poland, thereby assuring $200 million for the depressed U.S. machine tool industry. The weapon: a tautly-worded letter from Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, to Stephen M. DuBrul, Jr., Ex-Im Bank president. Although Anderson's letter does not say so, intimates of the Congressman report it is only his first of many such moves. Their intent is to compel the bank to offer better terms for Poland's purchase of machine tools here for the new truck plant to be built in Poland by General Motors. Few East-West deals have provoked such strong political passions as the GM truck deal for Poland. Therefore, more powerful influences than Anderson and other congressional leaders may be needed to bring down interest rates. It may take President Ford, intervening to replace flinty banking policies with more flexible procedures for East-West deals not involving U.S.

security. The issue is simple. With interest rates to finance the purchase of the machine tools far lower abroad (6.5 per cent in France) than the 9 per cent rate proposed to Poland by the Ex-Im bank, Poland naturally is turning elsewhere. But the Poles so prefer Americanmanufactured tools that they probably would pay 8 to 8 ½ per cent interest. Nevertheless, DuBrul and the bank refuse to permit lower rates, despite one instance of mild but direct White House intervention by presidential economic aide William

DuBrul may well eventually compromise, but by then it could be too late. For now, DuBrul appears more concerned by pro-labor congressional critics decrying federally subsidized financing of a foreign truck plant than he is by the $200 million windfall in new business for the recession-bound machine tool

Top AFL-CIO lobbyist Andrew Biemiller took big labor's opposition directly to Ex-Im Bank officials, arguing that some of the 1 to 5 1/2-ton trucks to be manufactured in Poland might turn up for sale here, DuBrul was impressed. In truth, however, the trucks are being built to en-vironmental specifications lower than those in the U.S. and probably could not be imported here.

Although the Ex-Im Bank should 'facilitate exports' by providing credits unavailable at commercial banks. Dubrul tells critics its mandate also requires it to be "selfsustaining" - no loans at rates lower than its borrowing costs. In fact, the record shows that Ex-Im is in no danger. Last year, it returned more than $110 million to the Treasury.

One former Ex-Im Bank president told us DuBrul is too tight-fisted, partly because of pressures from the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) which would like to convert Ex-Im into a money-maker.

When Secretary of State Henry Kissinger pointed out adverse foreign policy implications of a DuBrul-led holdout against lowered interest rates for a proposed RCA television factory in Poland, DuBrul replied to Kissinger that foreign policy is not in the bank's mandate. The RCA-Poland deal finally was arranged - but only because RCA alone could provide the needed technology. Poland had to swallow high interest rates.

No such inducement is available for the GM truck plant. Top Polish officials can buy everything they need in West Germany, Britain, Italy and National security is not an issue. Hard-line anti-Soviet politicians have expressed little unhappiness over the truck deal for Poland. "Poland is not the Soviet Union," we were told by an intimate of Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who led the battle against giving Moscow Ex-Im Bank privileges.

Still, DuBrul holds fast to his 9 per cent interest rate, in the face of warnings from Warsaw that the machine tools will have to be contracted for soon - if not here, then elsewhere. DuBrul may be bluffing, hoping the Poles will meet his terms. But Anderson and other congressional leaders, along with key officials in the Ford administration, will soon push for presidential help to end the game.

The political reality can be found in John Anderson's congressional district, one of the nation's largest machine tool centers. Unemployment is high there, the election campaign is heating up, and $200 million in new business would help. If DuBrul does not understand that today, he will very soon.

Uganda unleashes new reign of terror

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Foreigners fleeing Uganda report that President Idi Amin has unleashed a reign of terror following the Israeli commando raid that freed more than 100 hijacked

Kenyans returning to their homeland reported that Amin's soldiers were slaughtering Kenyans living in Uganda, Kenya's official news agency reported.

It said John Owino, one of 200 refugees who arrived in the border town of Bungoma Thursday, reported that troops shot seven Kenyans last Sunday at Namango, a village outside Kampala, the Ugandan capital.

Already tense relations between the two East African neighbors were strained further by Amin's charges of Kenyan complicity in the Israeli raid.

The London Daily Express reported that the British government agreed to beef up Kenya's defenses with shipments of guns, ammunition and bombs. The paper, giving no source for its information, said President Jomo Kenyatta assured the British his forces would not attack the Ugandans, whose army is about twice as large as Kenya's.

Patrick Morris, a Canadian who flew from Kampala to Nairobi with 18 Britons, said many whites who wanted to leave were afraid to go to the air-

"The soldiers are so rough they don't give you any chance to explain," he said. "They beat you and drag you to their torture chambers.' Morris, 38, said he was arrested and interrogated

"I heard people screaming with agony," he said. 'They were crying out, it was horrible, yelling for help and begging their captors to stop ... They gave me a couple of punches before releasing me.'

British Prime Minister James Callaghan, speaking in the House of Commons, in effect told the 500-550 British citizens still living in Uganda not to expect his government to rescue them. You know the risks and the limitations of our capacity to assist you, as you are dispersed throughout the country," he said. "Assess these risks and make your decision.'

The British government called on Amin Thursday to account for Dora Bloch, a hostage the Israelis could not rescue because she had been taken to a Kampala hospital two days before the raid.

Mrs. Bloch was a 75-year-olds widow with dual British-Israeli citizenship. Amin said she was returned to the airport before the Israelis landed, and he expelled a British diplomat who reported seeing her in a Kampala hospital after the raid. She is believed to have been killed by Ugandan security police.

Callaghan appointed a new acting high commissioner to Uganda to replace James Horrocks, whom Amin charged with complicity in the Israeli raid and ordered out of the country. Britain denied the accusation but said Horrocks would leave Kampala today.

He is being replaced by Eustace Gibbs, a Foreign Office inspector already in Kampala.

They found Custer's body at the top of the hill, surrounded by the bodies of

They lay scattered in all directions across the slopes, stripped, scalped and mutilated, beside the bodies of swollen, stiff-limbed horses.

It was a dreadful scene - the aftermath of one of the most shocking disasters in U.S. military history.

The Battle of the Little Big Horn, in Montana Territory, was fought 100 years ago, on June 25-26, 1876. News of Custer's defeat and the total annihilation of his force by Indians spread gloom across the nation's Centennial celebrations.

It had begun as a relatively unimportant military operation.

A gold discovery in the Black Hills of South Dakota had brought prospectors crowding to this Indian land. Resenting the intrusion, the Indians left their reservation and moved out onto the plains. When they refused to return, the Army was called in, with orders to "bring Sitting Bull's band and other wild and lawless Indians residing without the bounds of their reservation back to their reservation to which they were assigned, and to do it by force.'

Lt. Col. (brevet Gen.) George Armstrong Custer, an experienced Indian fighter, was assigned to lead the 7th Cavalry, one of three units under command of Gen. Alfred A. Terry, commander of the Department of Dakota

A moving account of the column's departure from Ft. Abraham Lincoln, in Bismarck, N.D., on May 17, 1876, was given by Custer's wife Elizabeth in her book, "Boots and Saddles." She wrote:

"From the first hour of breaking camp, before the sun was up, a mist had enveloped everything. Soon the bright sun began to penetrate this veil and dispel the haze, and a scene of wonder and beauty appeared. The cavalry and infantry in the order named, the scouts, pack-mules, and artillery, and behind all the long line of white-covered wagons, made a column altogether some two miles in length. As the sun broke through the mist, a mirage appeared, which took up about half of the line of cavalry, and thenceforth for a little distance it marched, equally plain to the sight on the earth and in the sky.

"The future of the heroic band. whose days were even then numbered, seemed to be revealed, and already there seemed a premonition in the supernatural translation as their forms were reflected from the opaque mist of the early dawn."

The column with its heavy-laden wagons moved slowly westward toward the Yellowstone River, while scouts were sent ahead to reconnoiter for Indians. A fresh trail was discovered. Custer was told to take his 7th Cavalry and proceed up Rosebud Creek to find out where it

His actions thereafter have long been debated. He has been blamed for foolhardiness in attacking the Indians instead of maneuvering himself into a position that would prevent their escape, there to wait until Terry's main force came up, as he had been advised to do.

Terry's order, however, contained the phrase: "It is, of course, impossible to give you definite instructions in regard to this movement, and were it not impossible to do so, the Department Commander places too much confidence in your zeal, energy and ability to wish to impose upon you the precise orders which might hamper your action when nearly in contact with the

On June 25, believing his presence had been discovered by the Indians, Custer decided to attack at once.

The regiment was divided into four units. Two groups, under Maj. Marcus A. Reno and Capt. Frederick W. Benteen, totaling about 265 men. were sent to attack further upstream, while Custer was to lead another group of 220 men in a direct charge. one company was assigned to bring up the packtrain.

Custer estimated he would be oposed by not more than 1,500 Indians. He did not know that hundreds more young Indian warriors had left their reservations to join Sitting Bull, and that the camp was swarming with Blackfeet, Cheyenne and Sioux. It has been estimated that Custer, with a total force of about 655 men, attacked village inhabited by as many as 15,000 to 20,000 Indians, of which some 5,000 were warriors

Reno was the first to become aware of the Indians' immense numerical superiority. Instead of running away, they were coming to meet him.

He retreated to the top of a bluff, losing 45 men killed and some 60 wounded. He sent word to Custer. Whatever plan of action Custer decided on then never will be known, because all who shared his final decisions were to die with him within the next two hours.

He sent a message to Benteen to come quickly with the ammunition packs. But Benteen already had gone to Reno's assistance.

Custer, evidently impatient with Benteen's failure to appear, decided to proceed without him and reached a ridge where he saw the awful truth for the first time. There, on the long, narrow ridge overlooking the valley of the Little Big Horn River, Custer made his last desperate stand.

The ferocious battle, in which he and his entire force of 220 men were wiped out, has been graphically detailed in the latest of many books on the subject - "The Custer Adventure.

By the use of diaries, letters, official reports, newspaper interviews, illustrations and previously published but difficult-to-obtain material, the reader is led step-by-step to the tragic conclusion. Alluding to the controversy that always has surrounded the episode, the book's introduction states that Custer was certainly "not the psychotic fool portrayed in the movie, 'Little Big Man," nor the super hero of 'They Died With Their Boots On,' but curiously he almost always is placed in one of these two extreme categories - hero or fool."

In Custer's own book, "My Life on the Plains," he wrote:

"If I were an Indian, I often think I would greatly prefer to cast my lot among those of my people adhered to the free, open plains rather than submit to the confined limits of a reservation, there to be the recipient of the blessed benefits of civilization, with its vices thrown in without stint or measure.

Which, as the latest work concludes, are hardly the thoughts of a psychotic fool.

Although he had no formal training in education, Suzuki is the leader of the Talent Education Movement, a rapidly expanding group of teachers dedicated to the central idea that there is no such thing as a child without talent.

Learning the violin: child's play

Talent is no accident of birth, Suzuki has stressed in his many books on the new approach to musical

"In today's society a good many people seem to have the idea that if one is born without talent, there is nothing one can do about it. They simply resign themselves to what they consider to be their 'fate.'

'Consequently they go through life without living it to the fullest or ever knowing life's true joy. That is man's greatest tragedy." Suzuki contends man is born with natural ability.

"A newborn child adjusts to his environment in order to live, and various abilities are acquired in the process.

"Many children grow up in an environment that stunts and damages them, and it is assumed they are born that way. They, themselves, may believe it, too, but they are wrong.

"An undesirable, disagreeable adult is one who was brought up wrong. A person unable to do good work is one brought up that way.

"One cannot deny fate," Suzuki admits. "We can do nothing about our being born into this world, nor about our having to die sooner or later.

"Good or bad, however, once born we have to live with ourselves until the day we die. There arises then, the inevitable question of how to live.

"If our ability was not developed for us. we have to develop it ourselves. 'Instead of being defeated by misfortune, we have to make something good of our lives. There is no need to give up in discouragement.

"The mother is a vital first step in Suzuki's music teaching just as she is in teaching a child to speak.

Mrs. Smelser said children can start the Suzuki method as early as two and a half years of age.

Probably the most important single factor to discourage teachers from beginning students at a very early age is the inability to sustain interest and to teach music to youngsters who cannot read music," she said.

"Suzuki's method has solved this dilemma by simply maintaining the rote teaching method for as long as necessary, two or three years, or until the child's reading readiness is established. "During this period, the child listens to recordings of his music at home and learns by ear, and by illustration, how to play the music. "In this intense 'ear training' approach, recordings play a vital role, but even more important is the role of the mother.'

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - In 1724, a black slave, who later was given the name Thomas Fuller, was brought from Africa and sold to a plantation owner in Alexandria. Though Fuller could neither read nor write, he became well-known for his mathematical ability. He was "the famous African calculator, said his obituary.

His 1790 obituary in the Alexandria Gazette described him as a man who could give the number of months. days, weeks, hours, minutes and seconds in any period of time that any person chose to mention, allowing him his calculation for all the leap years ... and in every calculation he would produce the true answer in less time than 99 men in 100 would take with their pens."

Fuller's accomplishments are described in a black heritage exhibit at the Alexandria, Va., bicentennial Center.

The exhibit, which will be on display the rest of the year, includes three registers of freed black slaves during the early 1800s, descriptions of church meetings in 1872. photographs of early churches and schools established for blacks in the city, newspaper clippings and various artifacts owned by some of the oldest black families in Alexan-

The exhibit, entitled "We Were There, Took," is the first in a series of exhibits on the history of the city's families and institutions sponsored by the Alexandria Bicentennial Commission Fuller, who was owned by Elizabeth Cox, was not allowed to learn or do much more than his slave work.

Life for free blacks was not that much better. "Whatever the employment, free blacks had little choice but to work for the very cheapest wage," according to a Composite History of Alexandria, a book by the city's bicentennial Commission. The free blacks competed with the slaves as well as whites for jobs.

'Negro Tom (Fuller), the famous African calculator aged 80 years,' begins the newspaper obituary dated

Dec. 9, 1790. The article states that Fuller was "a prodigy, whose "first essay in numbers was counting the hairs and the tails of the cows and horses. which he was set to keep ... the power of recollection and the strength of memory were so complete in him that he could multiply 7 into itself, that product by 7, and the product produced by seven for seven genius at measuring things.

According to the obituary, when Fuller was interrupted while calculating, "his operations where not thereby in the least deranged, so as to make it necessary for him to begin again, but he would go from where he had left off, and he would give any or all of the stages through which the calculation had passed." "Thus died Negro Tom, this selftaught arithmetician, this untutored scholar," the article says.

"Had his opportunity of improvement been equal to those thousands of his fellow men neither the Royal Society of London, the Academy of Sciences at Paris, not even a Newton himself need have been ashamed to acknowledge him as a brother in science," it said.

Elsa S. Rosenthal, a member of the Alexandria Bicentennial Commission who has gathered much of the information for the exhibit, said Fuller apparently was taught mathematics by liberal Quakes who settled in the city.

Rosenthal's research on Fuller led her to a story told to the Philadelphia Historical Society by Dr. Benjamin Rush, on Nov. 14, 1788.

Fuller was being quizzed by a group of Quakers the story said. 'Upon being asked, how many seconds there are in a year and one half, he answered in about two minutes - 47,304,000.

Then they asked, "How many seconds has a man lived who is 70 years, 17 days and 12 hours. LOS ANGELES (AP) - "I want to go places I've never been, do things that have never been done. New challenges scare you, but they also excite you and get you up.

Superstar Neil Diamond was discussing his return to performing after a lapse of more than three years. After his record-breaking one-man show at the Winter Garden in New York in 1972, he abruptly left the spotlight for a period of writing and introspection.

His withdrawal lasted until early this year, when he appeared in Australia and New Zealand. And he recently opened the $10-million Aladdin Theater for the Performing Arts in Las Vegas. His fee for three concerts: $500,000. Then he threw in two more at the bargain rate of $150,000.

"In August I'll play Forest Hills Stadium in New York," he added. "It hasn't been used for concerts in four years because of troubles with audiences, but they're opening it up for me. I'm the only one playing there this summer. I don't expect any problems. My audience is more mature.'

Diamond will also appear in Cleveland and Chicago, perhaps the Greek Theater here, a few other cities, make an album in November, play Japan for the first time in December, then start taping his first television special for NBC.

The composer-singer talked about his renewed activity in his comfortable office on a West Hollywood sidestreet. Now 33, he seemed relaxed but eager to face audiences again.

The Aladdin date was his Las Vegas debut. Why did he wait so long?

"Because I didn't know if I could do two performances a night, 14 in two weeks. My work is not crooning, not light stuff. It takes its toll.

Carter blueprint concedes no sections of nation

By MARTIN SCHRAMM

NEW YORK - In Jimmy Carter's file of private papers, there is a blueprint - already drafted and approved - for the fall campaign of 1976. It is the plan Carter expects will carry him to the White House in November.

It is headed: June 2, 1976.

To: Jimmy Carter From: Hamilton Jordan.

The memo is thick, some 130 pages long, and it is divided into sections: pre-convention posture, postconvention posture, vice presidency, organization with the Democratic National Committee - and mainly, approach to the fall campaign, and budgeting for the fall campaign.

The approach basically will be to run in every state - don't concede anything to the GOP. Jordan believes that Carter can take even traditionally Republican farm belt states because he himself is a

The budget for the campaign will be $25 million. It includes heavy spending for television advertising, especially a new series of fiveminute spots.

And there will be a new emphasis - on issues.

"The ideology is not going to be any different," campaign director Jordan is saying. "It's just that the issues are going to be presented in a more formal way ... Position papers, issue papers, speeches hitting on a single issue." The plan is to bury quickly - the fuggy-on-issues shadow that followed Carter everywhere in the last half of the primary campaign.

"We'll be putting high priority on the states with the big electoral vote

"These are especially the states that are likely to vote Democratic. But we've got a good shot at every state. Even states like Kansas: They are farm states and Jimmy's a farmer. He knows their needs and they know that he does. So this is going to be a year where the Democrat doesn't have to run a regional campaign doesn't have to concede any state."

Carter will run on all his old themes: honesty, decency, trustworthiness. But media advisor Jerry Rafshoon has mapped out an advertising campaign for the fall that will focus on one quality more than all the rest: competence.

The Rafshoon plan is based on the assumption that Gerald Ford will be the nominee of the Republican Party; but Carter men say the plan will work just as well if Ronald Reagan is the opponent.

The Plan was put together after a review of a series of polls by Patrick Caddell. "The people just did not feel that Ford was competent as Jimmy," Rafshoon says, resting his foot on the high first step outside a trailer door. "So we've decided to talk up the competence issue." Rafshoon is readying a series of five-minute television spots for the fall campaign designed to stress Carter's competence and his emphasis that he does indeed have firm positions on the issues. "The spots will go into how he'd approach the problems of the presidency - tax reform, reorganization, foreign policy ... We'll do it in five minute shows things like 'From Jimmy's Study in Plains, Georgia, here's excerpts of Jimmy Carter on foreign policy.' Or reorganization. Or tax reform.'

The Carter master plan calls for the Democratic national presidential Atlanta. The Democratic National Committee will be a Washingtonbased coordinating point for the Carter campaign. But the detailed campaign work will be coordinated out of Atlanta by Tim Kraft, a young man with a Fu Manchu moustache who came out of New Mexico to run the Carter victorious caucus campaign effort in Iowa, scene of the year's first presidential contest.

Carter's Atlanta headquarters for all field operations will be relatively. small, just 40 people. There will be eight regional coordinators; they will serve primarily as liason people coordinating the efforts of 50 state campaign managers. "We expect these state campaign managers to be the real movers and decisionmakers," says Tim Kraft. "We're going to hire people who know what they're doing. We can't have a national campaign headquarters - or even regional people - setting a hard and fast, by-the-numbers set of regulations for how to win campaigns in each state.

Jordan has been in three of the four trailers of the Carter compound - a cordoned-off area inside the Garden, just off the convention floor.

tomorrow ...

'Can you come over here while we work out the Georgia delegation procedure?'

Jordan is a stocky-but-athletic man, 32 years old, with dark straight hair and a red-tanned face, and he has been moving from one trailer to another like a jock doing windsprints - except most jocks don't do their windsprints sipping from a can of ged me all over America - and Jimmy ... If I can't put your buttons down, I guess I'll put them on."

The politically sophisticated Jordan lets out a whoop: "Yeeeaaaahhh!!!" And then: "He's a good man, that Udall."

Jordan laughs again. "That's a helluva statement," he says. "Udall for vice president!"

Many women delegates believe vital gains made at convention

By PEGGY SIMPSON

NEW YORK (AP) - Many women left this year's Democratic convention convinced they are coming of age politically and with a new appreciation of the art of compromise.

"Women delegates this year were much more politically mature about when to negotiate and when to be part of the system," said Carleen Waller of Nashville, Tenn., an alter-

"They have learned political accommodation, in the finest sense, and how to get what they want politically. You can't read this in a book. Women haven't lost their ideals but they've learned how to tie them into practical politics." For the first time, women put together a cadre of their foremost feminists, including Rep. Bella Abzug of New York and Pennsylvania Secretary of State Delores Tucker, to negotiate directly with a presidential nominee about their concerns.

They accepted a compromise with Jimmy Carter over their demand for 50-50 representation at future conventions after winning a pledge that the party would lead the fight for equality and that Carter personally would campaign for the Equal Rights Amendent in 16 states which haven't ratified it.

The delegate selection compromise puts the party on record as "promoting" rather than "requiring" an equal male-female delegate split at future conventions.

Women also were successful in making sure that an abortion rights plank which they considered acceptable was included in the platform. The plank opposes a constitutional amendment banning abortion.

Even so, some women said there has been little substantive progress. "It's going to be a lot harder than we thought," said Texan Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, who in 1972 became the first woman nominated for the vice presidency. 'She said women got "visibility" at the 1972 convention but haven't been able to trade that for concrete gains. Anne Zill, director of the Women's Campaign Fund, said, "Women are nowhere near the mainstream of politics and won't be for hundreds of years. Women are given cultural training that is devastating and women in politics-will have an uphill battle for years.'

should reduce its dependence on foreign oil as rapidly as possible," Standard said. "However, most of the actions taken recently in Washington and in many state capitals are precisely counter-productive to this stated objective — and the U.S. is running out of time."

Recent legislation enacted into law has reduced crude oil prices amd extended price controls on oil, Standard pointed out. At the same time, federal price controls have been maintained on natural gas.

"These steps, in addition to encouraging energy consumption, are draining billions of dollars from domestic oil and gas expansion programs. In combination with governmental policies which are adversely affecting other energy industries, these measures are making it increasingly difficult to minimize foreign oil imports."
Other counter-productive legislation currently being considered by Congress, Standard said, would break up the major oil companies an extremely serious step which would greatly curtail oil and gas expansion efforts.

Standard pointed out that U.S. energy needs grew at the rate of 4.3 per cent a year between 1960 and 1073. However, because of slower economic expansion and energy conservation, Standard expects energy consumption to increase only about 3 per cent a year in the future.

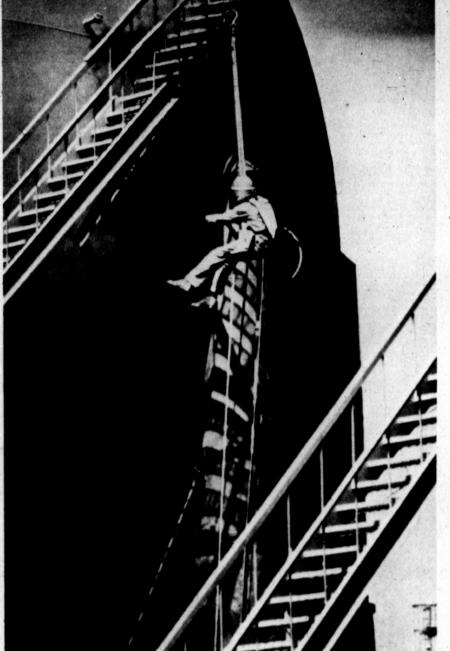

Standard cited what it called "two popular energy misconceptions: first, that the nation can solve its energy problems principally by reducing its consumption, and second, that it can switch rapidly to new energy sour-

"Increasing the efficiency of our energy use can and will contribute importantly to a favorable energy balance in the U.S.," Standard stressed.

"However, conservation can do only part of the job. We cannot arbitrarily place severe limits on energy growth without seriously damaging our economy."

As for new energy sources, Standard said, these (solar, nuclear fusion, geothermal and others) cannot help significantly in the next 10 years - and perhaps not very much before the turn of the century. This is because of the long lead times required to develop the technology. then to place these sources into significant use

"Therefore, in the next 10 to 20 years, oil, gas, coal and conventional nuclear power must continue to shoulder most of the energy supply alleged illegal campaign contributions on Gulf's behalf to two Senate races. As Gulf's chief Washington lobbyist, Wild has been named in court records as having disbursed $5.4 million in corporate campaign cash over a 15-year period.

The appeals court, in its opinion Tuesday, acknowledged that Wild was under "some pressure" by Nixon campaign officials to provide the laundered funds but nonetheless had engaged in "misrepresentation and deceit" of Gulf shareholders and the public "in an effort to prevent public disclosure of a political gift by a corporation.

In 1974, Wild pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court here to a misdemeanor charge of making illegal corporate contributions and received the maximum fine of $1,000 but no jail term from chief Judge George L. Hart. Jr. Wild, the appeals panel recalled, secretly transferred funds of a Bahamian Gulf subsidiary to the Committee to Re-Elect the President and directed Nixon-fundraiser ... Maurice Stans to list the contributions as made by "employes of Gulf Corporation.

The action, the court said, was "a patent effort to cirvumvent the law in violation of the public interest and the public good."

The one-year suspension recommended by the disciplinary board and approved by the court was less than the two years initially urged by the board committee that heard Wild's Since Wild's actions were not among specifically enumerated "serious crimes" calling for automatic suspension, the appeals court had asked the bar's disciplinary board for its recommendation. The Kleindienst case was handled similarly by the court. Kleindienst had entered a misdemeanor guilty from law work plea before Chief Judge Hart for making misleading statements to a Senate committee concerning White House involvement in the ITT anti-

> In Kleindienst's case, Hart had said his offense "reflects a heart that is too loyal and considerate of the feelings of others." Hart gave him 30 days unsupervised probation and a minimum $100 fine. The bar disciplinary board then urged a one-year suspension of Kleindienst's right to practice law, but the D.C. appeals court, in a split decision, settled on 30

Wild, who resigned his Gulf position March 1, 1974, compared his case to Kleindienst's in asking the appeals court for a "token suspension" of 30 days. Such a disposition, Wild had argued, "would serve as sufficient disciplinary action in the main-tenance of the distinction between fitness and punishment.'

Rejecting the plea, the appeals court, in a five-page opinion by Judge Catherine B. Kelly, said Wild "knowingly engaged in a deliberate and designed course of illegal conduct ... and thereafter attempted to prevent public disclosure of that fact.

Wild, who is now a public relations consultant operating from his suburban Bethesda, Md., home, did not return a reporter's call Thursday.

His attorney, James R. Murphy, said of the court action, "Economically, it shouldn't have any effect on him." Wild, his lawyer said, "spending most of his time defending himself from other charges and representing clients in P.R.

Interior preparing for offshore leasing

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Interior Department is preparing to begin leasing offshore drilling sites off the Atlantic coast. It will open the eastern U.S. coast for oil and gas drilling for the first time.

The department said Thursday it would begin leasing the sites on Aug. 17. The department said it also is beginning procedures to resume leasing off Santa Barbara, Calif.

Scheduling the sale of petroleum leases off New Jersey and Delaware, Interior Secretary Thomas Kleppe refused a request for a delay sought by Rep. Johnn Murphy, D-N:Y. Murphy, chairman of a House committee on the Outer Continental Shelf, had asked Kleppe to delay the sale until Congress could act on legislation aimed at revising the offshore leasing program.

The Interior Department announcement said Kleppe told Murphy "it would not be in the national interest" to postpone the beginning of the lease program.

Meanwhile, the department's Bureau of Land Management invited the oil industry and the public to propose areas for possible leasing off the Southern California coast, including the Santa Barbara area where drilling was restricted following a massive oil spill in 1969.

The department sought comment on the possible leasing of some 13.2-million acres south from Point Conception and extending as far as miles out to sea from the mainland:

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Ford administration said today that the economy will perform better than originally expected during 1976, providing Americans with about 379,000 more jobs and diminishing the erosion of inflation on peoples' buying

"The President believes his economic policies are the major reasons for this improvement," said White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen.

Revised administration projections on the nation's unemployment, inflation and production capacity must be sent to Congress later this month under the new budget-making procedures.

The President's top economic and budget advisers released their projections at a briefing. They attributed the estimates of the strongerthan-expected economic performance to developments which already have

Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said a crucial factor in the improved economic picture has been greater confidence by consumers and businessmen. Greenspan said the confidence has been gaining even faster than expected and has been translated into faster economic growth.

Nessen said the President is determined to stick to his economic program and get the budget back into balance by 1979, if posible. The latest projections, released by the Council of Economic Advisers and the Office of Management and Budget, were the first solid economy projection figures since the administration's initial forecast in

The broad economic projections expect an average of about 6.9 million Americans will be unemployed this year instead of the 7.3 million originally estimated. Unemployment currently stands at 7.1 million.

Obscured sign causes three-car accident

Three cars were involved in an accident around 12:20 p.m. Thursday at Louisiana Avenue and D Street when one of the drivers failed to see a stop sign obscured by trees, police

The drivers of the vehicles were JoAnn Cagle of 803 Stanolind Ave., Walter Kelly of Stanton and Cheryl Semple of Route 1, Box 57N, Midland. None of the persons involved in the accident was seriously injured, police

HIT AND RUN WRECK

A Midland man suffered minor injuries in a hit-and-run accident at Front and Colorado streets around 3:15 p.m. Thursday, police said.

Norman Keith Greenway, 19, of 2905 W. Louisiana Ave., was treated for bruises at Midland Memorial Hospital and released, a hospital spokesman Greenway told police his vehicle was struck by a welding truck. Police said it was raining hard and the streets were slick when the accident occurred.

MAN ARRESTED A Midland man was arrested

Thursday by Midlan nection with an alleged indecent exposure offense Wednesday evening at a Midland mobile home park, police said.

The victim was walking to the pool in the park to meet her sister and aunt when the alleged offense occurred, police said.

OFFICE BURGLARIZED

An adding machine valued at $125 was taken Wednesday night or Thursday morning from an office at First United Methoidst Church, 305 N. Baird St., police said.

Police said entry to the building was gained by breaking an east side window and reaching in and unlocking it.

Police said several desk drawers had been rumaged through but nothing was reported missing. THREE FIRES REPORTED Two air conditioning unit fires and a grease fire were reported to the Midland Fire Department Thursday and early today. Firemen were called to the R. B. Stephens residence, 1204 W. Kansas Ave., at 5:20 a.m. today. The fire in the air conditioner was out when firemen arrived. The motor pad and flex duct were damaged, firemen said. The cause of the fire is listed as a short in the air conditioning motor, firemen said An overheated air conditioning motor was blamed for a fire at May & Duncan Music Co., 408 Andrews Highway, at approximately 8:40 a.m. Thursday, firemen said. The fire was out on arrival and there was no damage, firemen said. Firemen were called to extinguish a grease fire at the George Franez residence, 114 W. Dormard Ave., at 7:40 p.m. Thursday. The fire was out no damage reported.

YOUTH'S FOOT BROKEN A 16-year-old youth who fell in a sand pit Thursday morning at Trans-Pecos Materials Co. was treated and released at Midland Memorial Hospital with a broken foot, a hospital spokesman said.

Ronald Gustin, Route 2, Box 1000, No. 238, was operating a feeder belt in the bin when he slipped and fell onto the belt, firemen said. He was trapped in the pit with his leg pinned against the belt for approximately 20 minutes. fireman said.

Mental patient attacks boy aboard jet airliner

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) - A mental patient attacked a young boy in the bathroom of a Chicago-bound Eastern Airlines jumbo jet and, when the plane returned to San Juan, wrested a gun from a policeman and seriously wounded him, police said

Police said the patient was being

Greenwood bond issue explained

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

About 40 Greenwood residents Thursday night attended a community meeting to hear architects and school trustees outline a proposed new elementary school and other additions to be voted on in a $1.7 million July 31 bond election. Most of the questions from the audience centered on features of the proposed facilities, which also include a swimming pool and studentcommunity center, a stadium, two tennis courts, dressing rooms and a concession stand.

Trustee Paul Cooper told the group the present elementary school, built in 1951, has inadequate plumbing and lighting and will need major repairs if a new building is not constructed. Architect Tommie J. Huckabee said the design of the proposed building will allow maximum flexibility in use and future expansion.

The elementary school and an auditorium are the first of three separate ballot proposals and would cost $1,280,000.

The swimming pool communitystudent center proposal will be the second on the ballot and will cost $325,000: The third facility, which includes stadium and tennis courts, along with auxilliary installations, will cost $95,000 to build.

transferred to a veterans hospital in Michigan under the supervision of two nurses, one man and one woman. About 45 minutes after the plane left San Juan, the man attacked the boy in the bathroom, police said.

A passenger told a Chicago radio station (WBBM) by telephone that the boy was sexually molested. Police said he suffered bruises.

Crew members and the nurses subdued the patient and put leather restraints on his wrists and ankles, police said. They also gave him a sedative and stretched him out on the back seat of the plane, police said.

The pilot decided to return to San Juan and informed authorities on the ground of the incident. Shortly before 6 p.m., the plane landed and three policemen came aboard.

When Sgt. Porfirio Diaz took the man in his arms to remove him from the plane, the patient pulled Diaz' gun and shot the officer in the chest and in the hand, police said. Diaz was reported in serious condition at a San Juan hospital.

Police said the patient was very violent and it took 15 minutes to bring him under control after the shooting. He was taken to a hospital, then to a psychiatric institution, officers said. The man was charged with attempted murder and a weapons violation. The FBI has taken charge of the case, police said.

West Texas Swim Meet opens today

By BRUCE CAMPBELL

Contrary to rumors, the West Texas Invitational Swim Meet isn't scheduled annually to assure Midland of reaching its average yearly precipiation totals.

As he seems to do every year, the weatherman followed some of the nation's finest young swimmers into town Thursday but it didn't seem to damper anyone's spirits before today's meet which City of Midland coach Doug Ingram considers "one of the top two or three age group meets in the nation.'

"I feel like one of those guys in deep water," laughed Mission Viejo coach Pat Birch after arriving in town amid threatening skies.

there than we were last year.

Birch feels his team "isn't as strong as we have been" in the older age brackets but said "we brought in 30 good kids and we're looking forward

While Mission Viejo ranks among the top five teams nationally along with the Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Hall of Fame Swim Club, another entry in the field, the team to beat will be the defending champion Cincinnati

"I REALLY don't know how good our chances are until we see how good the competition is," said Marlin assistant coach Bob Gorscth while awaiting his luggage at the airport. 'We're bringing in the largest group we have ever brought here and we should do well.

Gorseth said the key to his team's chances for a third straight West Texas title will be the performances of the Marlins' 13, 11 and nine-year olds. "If they do well, we have a good chance of winning." he added.

In the past, Cincinnati has relied heavily on its Senior Boys and Girls, but Gorseth said the Marlins also will be strong in both 10 & Under Girls and

"Our kids get as excited about this meet as any they go to," Gorscth. "The kids regard it as a great opportunity.

ONE OF the Marlins who regards the meet as an opportunity to perhaps break some mational records is John Owsiany, who broke pool records in winning the 100 and 200-yard butterflys as well as the 50-yard freestyle last year

"This is the best meet I've competed in besides the Junior Olympics," said Owsiany who moves up to the Senior Boys competition this summer after two years in Boys 13-14. 'With all the top teams here, it makes things a lot more interesting because you have to get pschyed up more.

Ingram who is hoping for a fourth or fifth place finish after coming in sixth a year ago, feels the meet will benefit his squad no matter where they place.

'To reach the higher levels of competitive swimming you have to face the best," Ingram said. "It's going to be quite a challenge for us." BIRCH SAID the meet is helpful to his squad for more than just competitive reasons 'It gives the kids a chance to travel. to get away from Mommy and Daddy and to teach them some self-reliance which is a good experience for them,' Dena McKenzie, 9, who competes both in the backstroke and the breaststroke said she was enjoying her first trip to Midland but smiled "it's humid and hot." The meet keeps COM parents and local Jaycees busy housing the Tall City visitors, most of whom stay in private homes. "The last two or three swimmers can eat at their funny hours," laughed a COM Mom. Tonight's finals start at 6 for the 29th annual meet with prelims Saturday at 9 a.m. Admission will be

Palmer denies quote, then blanks Angels

By The Associated Press

Jim Palmer would like to set the record straight "I never called Darrell Johnson an idiot," said Palmer, one of a number of top American League pitchers who were not selected by the Boston manager to participate in Tuesday night's All-Star Game.

"Someone else said it-I just agreed with him."

As if to underscore the error of Johnson's ways, the 34-year-old Baltimore ace blanked the California Angels 4-0 Thursday night on three singles, becoming the first 12-game winner in the American League.

In other American League night games. Detroit edged Oakland 3-2 in 11 innings, Minnesota beat Cleveland 5-2 and Chicago defeated Milwaukee 5-3 in 10 innings. In two twinight doubleheaders, the New York Yankees swept Texas 7-6 and 6-4, the second game in 10 innings, and Kansas City split with Boston, winning the opener 12-5 but dropping the nightcap 2-1.

Fight results

Palmer was overpowering against California, giving up just three singles-and two of those runners were erased on double plays. Reggie Jackson drove in three runs, two of them on his 10th home run of the season, and Al Bumbry scored three runs for Baltimore, which has won its last five outings.

Yankees 7-6, Rangers 6-4

Carlos May's three-run homer and Mickey Rivers' three hits and two runs batted in powered the Yankees to victory in the opener despite a shaky seventh inning during which relief ace Sparky Lyle faced three batters and walked them all, forcing in two runs. But with the bases loaded and New York's lead down to one run, Dick Tidrow came on and got Roy Howell on an inningending grounder.

Twins 5, Indians 2

Twins infielder Roy Smalley, who went into Thursday night's game with a .212 batting average and just 14 runs batted in, collected three hits and knocked in three runs. He cracked a two-run triple in the second inning and squeezed home another run with a bunt in the fifth as Minnesota dealt Cleveland its ninth loss in the last 10

White Sox 5, Brewers 3 Ray Sadecki relieved Milwaukee starter Jim Slaton with two out in the 10th inning and Pat Kelly greeted him with a two-run homer to the upper deck in right-center, giving Chicago the victory in a game in which all the runs came in on homers. Earlier, Chet Lemon had a solo shot and Jack Brohamer a two-run blast for Chicago while George Scott hit a three-run Royals 12-1, Red Sox 5-2 Bob Stinson drove in four runs and Jaime Quirk knocked in three in the opener as Kansas City pounded four Boston pitchers for 16 hits.

Krumm and Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, were in complete harmony on one point. They thought of the athletes first.

'We feel the athletes, who have given so much time and dedication to preparing themselves for these games, deserved consideration," Krumm said. "We had that in mind in deciding not to withdraw.' Killanin has insisted all

The IOC hoped the Taiwan affair would be solved Friday. First it had to vote to change its rules and allow the Taiwanese to march in the opening parade as "Taiwan" and not as the Republic of China. A twothirds majority among the 69 IOC members present is needed.

Dave Kingman is in the groove; Dusty Baker hopes he has found one. "My home runs come in bunches," said Kingman, who smacked his 31st of the season-tops in the majors-Thursday night in leading the New York Mets to a 3-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

Baker finally connected on only his second four-bagger of the year in helping the Los Angeles Dodgers defeat the Chicago Cubs 5-2.

"It's the longest time I can remember going without a home run," Baker said. "I had a streak last year of eight weeks and I couldn't believe that."

Baker, who also hit a runscoring single, last hit a home run in the opening game of the season.

In other National League games Thursday, Philadelphia defeated San Francisco 5-3, Pittsburgh crushed Atlanta 131, Montreal nipped Cin-cinnati 43 and St. Louis edged San Diego 2-1.
"Maybe I will hit more at home in the second half of the season," he said, noting that only 10 of his roundtrippers have come at New York's Shea Stadium. "The fans give me a big round of applause here now and they have big expectations."

"The home run was a nothing pitch. It was a slider right over the plate. He was looking slider. He got his pitch and he hit it."

Dodgers 5, Cubs 2

The Dodgers struck early when Ric loser Rick Reuschel opened the bottom of the first by hitting the first two batters. Los Angeles went on to score four runs as winning pitcher Doug Rau scattered five hits. "Everybody played relaxed," said Rau. "Really, it's the first time we've had any days off.

Jerry Morales hit a two-run homer

Phillies 5, Giants 3 Tim McCarver, who sees only spot action, drove in three runs to give the Phillies their victory over San Francisco. "The thing that makes getting hits and RBIs the most fun for me is that two organizations thought I couldn't do it anymore," the 35yearold catcher said. McCarver was sold by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1974 and released by the Boston Red Sox early last year. McCarver's single in the sixth broke a 3-3 tie, giving lefthander Steve Carlton, 10-3, his fifth straight decision.

Pirates 13, Braves 1

With Bill Robinson providing the most muscle—a two-run homer— Pittsburgh exploded for 12 runs in the first five innings to crush Atlanta. Sloppy Atlanta fielding aided the Pittsburgh onslaught as Darrell Chaney bobbled a two-out, bases-loaded grounder in the second and four runs followed. The Pirates also sent two runs across the plate in the third, one in the fourth, five in the fifth and one in the eighth.

Expos 4, Reds 3

Larry Parrish's two-out single in the eighth off Cincinnati relief ace Rawly Eastwick snapped Montreal's seven-game losing streak and handed the Reds their third loss in a row. Steve Rogers, 3-8, who needed relief help in the ninth, scattered six hits to notch his first victory since May 9.

Cards 2, Padres 1

A one-out double by Joe Ferguson in the ninth broke up a 11 deadlock and sparked St. Louis Cardinals to victory over San Diego.

Ferguson's double scored Don Kessinger from second base, handing the Padres their fifth straight loss. St. Louis' Al Hrabosky relieved in the bottom of the ninth with one out and a runner on second to abort a Padres rally and record his eighth

Teen-ager now favored to win in Trans-Miss golf tourney

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) - A little extra preparation has helped 17year-old Doug Clarke of LaJolla, Calif. become the favorite at the halfway point in the 73rd TransMississippi Amateur Golf Cham-pionship today.

The 6-foot-3 teen-ager won medal victories during reduction of a starting field of 219 to 16 for this morning's round.

"I'm coming out every night and checking where they're going to have the cup the next day," Clarke said Thursday after a 6 and 5 victory over Mark Tinder of Pebble Beach. "It really makes a difference, especially on the first five holes."

Clarke was five under on the par-72 Spyglass Hill course in his secondround victory. He bogeyed the first hole and birdied 2, 3, 5, 7, 12 and 13, coming close to a hole-in-one on No. 3. Tinder was two over.

"I've been trying to play my own game and not worry about my op-ponent," said Clarke whose thirdround opponent is John Stark of San Antonio, Tex. Stark beat Peter Jacobsen of Portland, Ore. 4 and 3.

Eric Batten of Santa Cruz, Calif., who ousted defending champion Tim Wilson of Austin, Tex., in Tuesday's first round, was an easy winner Thursday over Dennis Saunders of Yorba Linda, Calif., 5 and 3.

Batten was matched today with Lance Tenbroeck of Chicago, who beat Curt Worley, the 1974 California Amateur champion from Coronado, 3 and 1. John Fought of Tuolatin, Ore., outclassed Joe Rassett of Turlock, Calif. 7 and 5, but Fought's Brigham Young University teammate, Mike Reid of Kirkland, Wash., lost to Jim McMurtry of Danville, Calif. 2 and 1. Walker Cup team member Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., bea Mark Abfalter of San Leandro, Calif. 3 and 1, but another Walker Cupper, John Grace of Fort Worth, Tex., lost to Randy Simmons of Shreveport, La.

Athletes tested for use of drugs

MUNTREAL (AP) - Athletes chosen at random will soon begin a testing program to determine if any of them uses the banned drug anabolic steroids.

Olympic officials have said they may suspend any athlete whose urine test turns up positive, showing the chemical in the system.

For years athletes have all but admitted use of steroids. Jay Silvester, the veteran discus thrower, recently said there isn't' one worldclass shot putter, discus thrower or hammer thrower who isn't using the drug as a body-building aid. Dr. Tony Daley, the U.S. track team's physician, has known about the plans to test for some time and has warned American athletes about its dangers. He said U.S. athletes in the weight events are asked if they use the chemicals and all have said no. However, for the last few years it has been rumored that no foolproof test had been developed for the testing of the drug. Now it appears that problem has been solved.

Olympic officials say they have developed a test which detects the use of the anabolic steroids - artificial male hormones which some feel help develop muscle.

"The test works," Daley said. "I heard rumors it might now, so I bought one of the testing kits and turned it over to a major radiology laboratory in Los Angeles. And I got all positive results.'

He said he then began to advise . ll American athletes, especially weightlifters, shot putters and discus throwers, that steroid use was no longer permitted and, he said, he advised athletes who were taking steriods to stop immediately.

"It takes takes about three weeks without use for the steroids to become no longer detectable," he said. "That's for the oral type. For the injectable steroids which are fatsoluble it takes longer."

Officials say the steroid testing program is to be administered on a random basis, with names drawn from a list of those already in the village. Any athlete whose name is selected must appear within 24 hours to take the test. 24 hours to take the test.

However, a number of track and field squads have not yet checked into the Olympic Village.

East German track and field athletes, for example, were training in Sudbury, north of Toronto. West German athletes were reportedly in Three Rivers, Ontario, and a spokesman for the Soviet Union delegation said his track and field performers were still in Quebec. Dr. Daniel Hanley, a U.S. member of the International Olympic Committee's Doping Commission, said studies done in the last two years show that steroid intake does very little to improve an athlete's performance.

Hanley, of Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine, said those who take steroids are also advised to go on a high calorie, high protein diet and increase their work load. That by itself, without the steroids, has much more to do with an increase in performance, he said.

"The reason for the drug testing program," he said, "is basically to protect the health of the athletes. The use of steroids is, as you said, widespread, but it's not beneficial to the health of the athletes who are using them.

154 214 NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 continued higher in midday dealings today. Renewed speculative demand for contracts caused prices to firm, brokers said.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16-inch spot cotton declined 141 points to 81.26 cents a pound Wednesday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

1876/1894 prices were 65 cents to $7.50 a bale higher than the previous close. Oct. 85.60, Dec. 86.75 and March 80.40.

Market dealt setback

NEW YORK (AP) -Concern that short term interest rates might be headed higher again dealt the stock market a broad setback today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 5.65 at 991.81, and losers outpaced gainers by about a 3-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues:

Analysts noted fears that the sharp rise in the money supply reported in weekly Federal Reserve statistics late Thursday would dissuade the Fed from continuing its recent relaxation of its credit policy. Hopes for a prime rate reduction by New York's Citibank went unfulfilled this morning in the wake of the Fed figures when the bank held the basic rate on business loans unchanged at 71/4 per cent.

IU International was the most active NYSE issue, down 1/8 at 11. A 300,000-share block traded at that price.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped .30 to 55.93. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .36 at 106.24.

Volume on the Big Board remained moderate, with 8.93 million shares trading in the first two hours against 8.75 million in the like period on Thursday.

Walt Disney Productions lost 34 to 521/2 on top of a 23/8point decline Thursday when the company reported a second quarter earnings gain that fell short of some advance Wall Street estimates.

New skills effective

By LARRY MARGASAK

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - In five years, Pennsylvania high school graduates may be showing employers and colleges a list of skills they've accomplished instead of letter grades.

The list would be part of their school records. It could show ability to read and write at 12th grade: levels and proficiency in balancing a checkbook, computing interest, purchasing insurance and completing tax forms.

It's all part of a state government program to prepare pupils for the outside world. Some call it competency-based education and it's catching on, to one degree or another, across the country.

EDUCATORS WANT schools to teach skills rather than just subjects because too many high school graduates lack the skills needed for life's daily decisions, they say. 'Students need to know that if you can't read a newspaper you aren't going to make it in this society," says Pennsylvania's Education Secretary John C. Pittenger. "If you can't fill out a job application you are headed for disaster. If you don't have the computational skills to take out a mortgage, handle a checking account or buy insurance, life is going to be one long headache.' ABOUT A DOZEN districts will be selected this fall to include in their curriculums the survival skills needed in the outside world. The districts also would upgrade teaching of basic reading, writing and math. Within five years the state will require every school district to incorporate new course material into teaching programs. Eventually, the decision to award diplomas may depend on pupils' abilities to read and write at acceptable levels, and to competently handle survival

A PROPOSED NEW school code leaves open the question of making pupil competency in specified areas a graduation requirement. Rep. Samuel E. Hayes Jr., a member of the House Education Committee, said those who drafted the legislation never intended the section on survival skills to prevent graduation.

State government educators say they favor promoting, evaluating and graduating pupils based on their demonstrated competencies. They feel it's meaningless to continue awarding diplomas just because pupils complete a specified number of English, math and social studies courses.

There's no debate among the drafters and the educators over the need to teach survival skills.

AMONG THE PRINCIPAL boosters of the concept are Pennsylvania school children.

A pupil advisory board that offers the pupil view point to Pittenger said in a committee report: "There is a growing skepticism over the value of the traditional system. Educators, taxpayers and employers are questioning the value of the high school diploma. It is imperative that we reevaluate our system and establish new outcomes for education The pupils chose a dozen areas where pupils must demonstrate competency to graduate. They. added seven life experiences that pupils must participate in before earning a diploma.

THE COMPETENCY areas ranged from traditional reading, writing and mathematics to shopping, swimming, simple electrical repair, politics-

The experiences would involve care of children. participation in sports, exposure to art, speaking to a group, working with a group on a common task, job training and working with foreign languages. Some competencies would be taught in the traditional classroom. Others would be learned in the community. The proposed school code asks the state to devise ways of measuring pupil competency. A record would be kept of skills attained by each pupil, thus; telling the state, the district and the individual how the new concept was working. Charles Lohin, principal of McCaskey High School in Lancaster, said the skills list could be an advantage to the pupil.

"I THINK IT'S more meaningful for a student to leave the school at a certain level and to an employer or a college and be able to say: 'Here is actually what I can do, here's evidence that I can do it,' as opposed to 'Here is my A or B and you' decide what that means."

Frank Manchester, state commissioner of basic education, said once school districts meet the minimum requirements, they could tailor competency-based education to their own community needs. In districts with a strong family and church environment, pupils can learn to balance checkbooks and do comparison shopping from their parents, he said. Where strong family ties are lacking, teacher might have to take pupils to the supermarket.

The Lancaster School District is already into a competency program.

FOR EXAMPLE, Maria Morales, a junior at Me-Caskey High, filled out this year's income tax form for her mother, who only speaks Spanish. She learned how to do it in class.

Patti Leonard, another McCaskey junior, was: hired to run rides at an amusement park. She won out over several friends, she said, because she learned in school how to conduct herself during job interviews.

"A lot of kids graduating are just sliding by." Maria said.

Pupils are learning to complete tax forms, balance checkbooks, read insurance policies and fill out job applications, among other skills.

New course material is under development, using survey of employers and parents who told the district what they expected of graduates.

One of McCaskey's most popular electives is 'Practical English.' In that class Maria Morales learned to handle her mother's income tax and Patti Leonard discovered what to expect at job interviews. The teacher, Nancy Shackford, also taught her pupils to plan a family budget. She issues them 'paychecks," and has the pupils allocate realistic amounts for rent, utilities, food, spending money, bus fare and savings.

No black captains were trained to read the charts of the hazardous deep sea fishing grounds, alive with tuna and red snapper, beyond the reef.

Angola slips from bad to worse

Of the 32 high-speed, ultramodern fishing boats left behind in Luanda's Half Moon Bay, 16 were destroyed in a tidal wave a few months ago because no one could be found to sail them to safer anchorage. Only sardines and other shoal fish show up in the markets.

The Popular Front-run Angolan government, whose main strength is in the Kimbundu tribe, is trying to rally the people to bring in the coffee harvest, the country's most important agricultural export, once valued at a half-billion dollars a year. The plantation workers, mostly members of the northern Bakongo tribe, were the main supporters of the losing faction, the National Front for the Liberation of Angola. It was for this side that the white mercenaries fought.

With the Cubans in charge of the harvest, the government has emptied out the jails and resorted to press gangs to pack off the unemployed in trucks to the plantations because the offered wage of 80 escudos -about $2.40 - a day is scoffed at by the regular hands.

'The Communist union leaders used to lead strikes against the Portuguese when they paid twice that much." said a shipping agent who remembers when 4,000 ships a year called at Luanda as opposed to about one a week these days.

One day recently a big downtown supermarket had only curry powder, dried milk and, ironically, American instant coffee on its shelves, and Danish caviar at 600 escudos - $20 - a jar in the refrigerated show
