Cheers, tears, unity vows mark GOP convention end

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Republicans' Middle America ticket of Gerald R. Ford and Robert Dole of Gerald R. Ford and Robert Dole leaves this city with promises of support from the once-divided GOP convention for its underdog team and primed for debate with Democrat Jimmy Carter.

Dole offered today to debate the other half of the Democratic ticket, his Senate colleague Walter Mondale. He noted that he and Mondale have debated in the Senate for years and

He noted that he and Mondale have debated in the Senate for years and that extending this debate into the campaign would provide a natural extension of the colloquy.

"I'm willing," Dole declared.

There was no immediate comment from Mondale.

Ford, meanwhile, urged the Republican National Committee to Ford, meanwhile, urged the Republican National Committee to consider changing the way the party choses its vice presidential nominee. While endorsing no specific revision, he noted that a fight over the vice presidential selection procedure figured in his nomination battle.

His challenger had urged the convention to require Ford to name his running mate in advance of balloting on the presidential nomination. Ford defeated the proposal in a crucial convention showdown.

On the matter of debate, the President took the initiative Thursday night when he launched his campaign against Carter with a challenge to "debate the real issues face to face." Before the Republican convention adjourned, Carter accepted.

"I am ready and eager," he told the delegates "to go before the American people and debate the real issues, face to face with Jimmy Carter. The people have a right to know where we

The delegates roared their approval in what was probably the most emotional and most spontaneous response Ford received during the

But the final emotional moment belonged to the man Ford defeated. After his acceptance speech, Ford called Ronald Reagan and his wife, Nancy, to the podium.

It was gesture of unity often seen in the closing moments of national political conventions. The victor and the vanquished stand together to demonstrate to their followers that the contest is over and it is time to unite against the common enemy.

But when Reagan began to speak, the hall grew silent. He recalled the cheers that had greeted his arrival in the hall hours earlier. "They give us a memory that will live in our hearts forever," he said.

Among the delegates who had given Reagan 1,070 votes, 60 short of the majority he sought for the presidential nomination, many wept.

The former California governor referred to the "erosion of freedom that has taken place under they belonged to a minority party, their actions could significantly affect the course of American history.

"We must go forward from here united, determined," Reagan said.
Then he embraced Betty Ford, and greeted others on the podium.

Minutes later, the convention ended.
After his defeat Wednesday night,
Reagan pledged to campaign for
Ford. And Ford acknowledged the pledge in his acceptance speech when he said that "after the scrimmages of the past few months, it really feels good to have Ron Reagan on the same side of the line."

But only the campaign itself will demonstrate whether the show of unity that ended the Republican convention or the one that ended the Democratic convention a month earlier will hold up, whether wounds will heal, whether supporters of the losers will work with enthusiasm for

In an Associated Press survey of Reagan supporters at the convention, 80 per cent of the more than 600 who responded said they would work for the Ford-Dole ticket.

And the Reagan delegates joined with Ford backers to interrupt the President with applause 63 times during his acceptance speech

Thursday night.
"I have been called an unelected president, an accidental president,"

"Having become vice president and president, without expecting or seeking either," he added, "I have a special feeling toward these high

"To me, the presidency and the vice presidency were not prizes to be won, but a duty to be done.

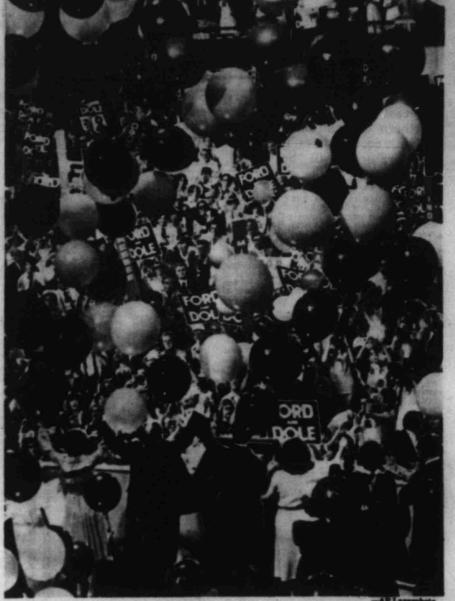

"So tonight, it is not the power and glamour of the presidency that leads me to ask for another four years. It is something every hard-working American will understand — the challenge of a job well begun, but far from finished."

In tones reminiscent of Truman's campaign, Ford attacked the "votehungry, free-spending Congressional majority."

He said the Democratic platform

"talks about tax reform, but there's one big problem — their own Congress won't act." In similar references to Democratic master in the Midland desegregation case, has requested information from the U.S. Justice Department to be presented Monday when he meets with attorneys involved in the case.

In a memo on file in the U.S. district clerk's office, Skogland requests four kinds of information. The first two requested items are short statements in Midland which are in dispute and on aspects which are not in dispute.

The third item Skogland has directed the department to prepare is a "plain statement of the manner in school district may have violated the rights of students at the three elementary schools in question."

The three schools are Crockett, Milam and Pease elementary schools, mentioned in the mandate of the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals as "racially identifiable," which the school district maintains should not order.

Skogland also directed the Justice Department to furnish a detailed description of the documents it wishes to examine before deciding whether to proceed with its charges that rights of students at these three schools may have been violated. In its response to school district desegregation plans, the Justice Department said it needs more time to gather the facts in the case.

Skogland, reached this morning in San Antonio, refused to comment on any aspect of the case, saying such comment would be improper.

School trustees will meet with their attorneys Tuesday to be informed of the attorneys' discussions with

The meeting among school district and Justice Department attorneys and Skogland is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Monday in the U.S. Courthouse.

Private funds grow for downtown park revenue sharing monies to help construct the park.

By DEBBIE PIERCE

The Midland Area Foundation is about 60 per cent home on its project of raising funds from the city's private sector for construction of a downtown park, foundation spokesman Charles Priddy told directors of the Midland Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

Private contributions totaling $250,000 are needed to make the park a reality for the renovation of the city's downtown area.

Chamber directors voted to recommend the city council present the $1.5 million bond issue for the park to voters as soon as possible.

Besides the private contributions and the bond issue, Priddy said $250,000 would come from the city by way of Community Development and

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - This was the way the Texas delegate recalled it: Betty Ford had leaned down over the railing and told him, "I love you" and his irritation had been smoothed over.

By SUSAN SWARD

Tom Callison, a 30-year-old San Antonio salesman, gave this description Thursday to the 100-member, Ronald Reagan pledged delegation which was mulling over complaints that Jack Ford had dumped confetti and toilet paper on them from his gallery seat.

Young Ford, the President's son, had done that all right, Callison told the group. But immediately after that Jack "leaned over the railing and said, 'Texas'-that's what he called me all week—'I'm very, very sorry.''' Callison, wearing a Ford-Dole button as he spoke, said: "And Betty Ford leaned over and threw me a kiss,

His account of the episode ap-parently soothed over ruffled Texas' tempers which had prompted several delegates to call out loudly, demanding a public apology on the convention floor from Jack Ford.

and I threw her a kiss.'

Saying he was now behind Ford and Sen. Robert Dole, Callison said he was sure Jack Ford had not known there was any toilet paper in the confet-tistuffed airline bag when he tossed the confetti over the railing Wednesday night.
He added delegates had had a long-simmering verbal feud with the Ford party, which was seated above the delegation all week. "We'd been saying things like, "I smell marijuana so the Ford family must be around,"

Callison said. But some delegates remembered the incident differently. Lila Rehkop of Athens, Tex., said Ford yelled out "Now take that!" as he tossed the confetti and toilet paper down on the Texas delegation. "I was heartbroken," said Mrs. Rehkop, who said she had worked in GOP politics for 15 years. "It makes you wonder if it's worth it."

Ernest Angelo, the mayor of Midland, said the episode occurred when some delegates were already holding up Ford signs after the Presi-"It was really bad. He dumped a whole lot of stuff right on us." Mrs. Rehkop said. "It was senseless. It was an unbelievable bad deal," Angelo

Betty Ford was also discussed by the delegation in another vein. A six-member grievance commit-tee appointed by Ray Barnhart, the delegation chairman, said in a draft report that Betty Ford had "de-meaned herself" by dancing and in-terrupting a demonstration for Nancy Reagan, the candidate's wife.

That language was voted out of the report, which the delegation later voted overwhelmingly to send to the Republican National Committee, detailing the delegation's contention the Ford camp got better room assignments, guest passes and convention floor assignments. Although the caucus heard several calls for unity behind the GOP ticket at its afternoon caucus before the final session, there were some delegates who weren't buying any of that sort of talk.

Pat Jacobson of Fort Worth was one of those. "I threw up right after I got back to the hotel Wednesday night" following Ford's nomination, said. "Then I threw up again when they picked Bob Dole. I'm not

"I'd never, never support these men. ... There are two klutzes on the ticket," Mrs. Jacobson said shortly before she swept out of the meeting following several unity pitches by

"My friends, Washington is not the problem — their Congress is the problem," he said. The President never mentioned

There were other problems when he took office, Ford said.

"Our economy was in the throes of runaway inflation, taking us headlong into the worst recession since Franklin D. Roosevelt took the same oath," said the President.

Earlier, Dole's name was put in nomination by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, who had difficulty getting the podium microphone to

On a balcony above the box from which Nancy Reagan had watched the convention sessions, young people held signs reading, "Write-in Reagan.

It seemed for a moment, despite the scattered signs, that this final session would be all Ford and Dole, the Kansas senator, whom few expected to be chosen for the vice presidential nomination.

Then Rep. Robert Bauman of Maryland stepped to the podium to place a name in nomination. "It may be a little presumptuous for somebody from the state of Maryland to be offering advice about the vice presidency," said Bauman in a reference to Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned the post in a scandal.

Bauman, a Reagan supporter, went on to nominate Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina.

Helms followed Bauman to the podium and asked that his name be

Forming local citizens groups requires initiative, planning

The Midland desegregation case has led to the formation of several citizens groups, primarily comprised of parents, to explore means of acting to influence the ultimate decision.

to influence the ultimate decision.

One committee, a group from the black community led by Dr. Viola Coleman, was organized five years ago when the desegregation case was last before U.S. District Court.

The others, however, have been organized within the past month since the school district submitted its plans, which have been rejected, to the court.

These groups include one called Concerned Citizens from the Eastside and parent groups from the Bonham, Rusk and Fannin Elementary School attendance areas.

Wednesday night, persons from several other schools asked those who had organized groups already for advice on how to form their own.

Ranch lessees may benefit

Conservation efforts being initiated by the University of Texas lands department may increase the grazing carrying capacity of some ranches in the Midland area between 300 and 400 per cent, Soil Conservation Service officials have predicted.

Meeting Tuesday in Midland, representatives of the university and the SCS reviewed plans to upgrade conservation of the 2.1 million acres of UT land.

One major step toward conservation is the implementation of the "flexible grazing lease," Dick Hagelstein, SCS director in Midland, said.

Payment of such a lease, he said, is based on the number of animal units grazed on the land rather

This lease system will insure the proper number of animals to be grazed for the acreage. Often in the past, Hagelstein explained, ranchers had to overgraze in order to show a profit. Now the rancher on UT lease lands will pay only for those animals he runs on the land, according to this system.

Hagelstein said the system will give the rancher a od return on his investment and that he expects all 133 lessees on UT lands to have flexible grazing leases within four years.

The SCS helped the UT lands department develop long-range conservation plans when Billy Carr of Midland, UT lands agent and oil field supervisor, initiated the program in 1969. Before then, Hagelstein said, there generally was no control of grass management on the lands.

Other cooperative projects of UT lands and SCS include research into control of mesquite and into suitable grass for arid land. Also cooperating in the conservation program are the Agriculture Extension Service, Texas Agriculture Experiment Stations, Texas A & M University Range Science Department and University of Texas of the Permian ng the meeting Tuesday were Geor Marks, State conservationist with the SCS; Dr. Don Walker, UT deputy chancellor, and Carr.

Carter stunned at Ford thrust

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) - President Ford's challenge to a presidential campaign debate upstaged Jimmy Carter and caught the Democratic nominee and his staff by surprise.

The words "face-to-face" debate were hardly out of Ford's mouth when Carter's press secretary rounded up reporters to say his candidate, too, was ready to debate - a decision that could produce the first such presidential campaign encounter since John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon met in 1960 in a series of four nationally televised debates.

Ford made his challenge Thursday night in his presidential nomination acceptance speech to the Republican National Convention and a national television audience.

"I am ready and eager," he told the delegates, "to go before the American people and debate Jimmy Carter. The people have a right to know where we

The debate challenge was not in the advance text of Ford's speech. Carter press secretary Jody Powell relayed Carter's acceptance - what Carter people called his "counter challenge" — to fewer than a dozen reporters watching Ford deliver his speech on a television set beside a motel swimming poll.

His staff had scurried from room to room searching for newspaper, wire service and television reporters. Powell read the only available copy of the Carter statement.

It wasn't supposed to happen that way. Carter had intended to issue his own debate challenge to Ford today at a 9 a.m. news conference in a carefully orchestrated response to the week-long GOP convention.

But he decided to release his prepared statement as soon as he earned of Ford's decision from television commentators, who reported shortly before Ford gave his speech that he would issue the debate

"The Democratic party doesn't know what its candiate stands for...and the Democratic candidate doesn't think we have a right to know." he said.

In naming Dole, Ford pointed to some of their similarities.

"His philosophy and mine coincide almost exactly," Ford said. "He has been a great team player."

Dole married the former Phyllis E. Holden, a therapist who helped him recover from injuries suffered in World War II which cost him the use of his right arm and left him with only partial feeling in his left arm. Mar-ried in 1948, they had one child before eing divorced in 1972.

Late last year, Dole married Elizabeth Hanford, a member of the Federal Trade Commission.

Dole's selection as the vice presidential candidate has two parallels with Sen. Barry Goldwater's choice of Rep. William Miller as his running mate in 1964. Both Dole and Miller served as national GOP chairman. Both selections came unexpectedly.

Dole grew up in Russell, Kan., where his father operated a cream and egg station. He was aiming for a medical career when World War II broke out.

He rose to the rank of captain before being hit by shrapnel as he led an infantry charge against a machine gun nest in Italy. His right shoulder was shattered and his vertebrae cracked. He spent 39 months in an

After the war and his recuperation, Dole finished his undergraduate work at the University of Kansas and went on to earn his law degree there in 1952.

He immediately plunged into state politics, winning a seat in the Kansas legislature, where he served from 1951 until 1953. Then he won four straight elections as prosecuting attorney of Russell County.

In 1960, Dole was elected to the House of Representatives. His district spanned 52 wheat-growing counties on the plains of western Kansas.

During his eight years in the House, he worked with Ford and devoted much time to the interests of his district. He served on the House Agriculture Committee and chaired an ad hoc Republican committee investigating the scandal surrounding Bobby Baker, a Lyndon Johnson pro-

Nursing home care broadens

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nursing homes around the country are quietly carrying out new, community-involved creative programs to benefit elderly and chronically ill people, according to Ted Carcich, president of the American Health Care Association

Many homes have stimulated their residents into participating in meaningful community activities, a survey by the AHCA, which represents about 7,500 nursing homes in 48 states, shows.

This involvement has been found to be essential in avoiding the isolation and the feeling of uselessness that previously characterized the nursing home resident, Carcich points out.

"Making it possible for the aged and the chronically ill in nursing homes to be self-sufficient and to retain their self-esteem is a major challenge," he says. "It is a challenge facing society, since we have an aging population, thanks to the miracles of medical science. But chronic illness often is an unfortunate component of longevity.'

A pioneering concept of community involvement by a group of health care centers in rural Illinois has drawn high praise from AHCA. The objective is to provide "total care" for residents and, as extensively as possible, for elderly and chronically ill persons in the community.

Amarillo helium city

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)

— You might call
Amarillo the Helium
Capital of the World.

According to a leaflet put out by the Amarillo
Convention and Visitors Board, "Today in excess of 90 per cent of the free world's known belium world's known helium supply is to be found within a radius of 150 miles of Amarillo.'

Although the city of 143,000 people was once a center of research in and production of the lighterthan-air gas, it is now principally the focal point of the country's helium conservation program. Helium produced at plants as far away as Kansas is piped or shipped by train to the reservoir at the Cliffside Gas Field about 15 miles northwest of Amarillo. The helium is stored in porous rock about 3,500 feet below the surface. About 38.4 billion cubic feet of helium has been put in storage there by the federal government and slightly less than one billion cubic feet. billion cubic feet of helium is stored there by private companies.

It was the space program that gave helium its big boost and vice versa.

Life on Pacific island compared to apartheid

KWAJALEIN ISLAND (AP) - This super-secret suburb in the middle of the Pacific has brought American affluence tantalizingly close to native Marshall Islanders.

The United States moved the natives away to make way for a military base that became a key part of the missile program. Now the islanders live on a dusty, disease-ridden slum island eight miles away, and only those with jobs on the missile base are allowed here.

Island leaders sometimes wish the missile test range would go away, but they concede they need the dollars that flow from it.

The 3,000 American residents of Kwajalein Island are pampered with free movies, a golf course, sparkling beaches, subsidized food and topflight schools and medical care. The tropical climate is perfect for bicycling to work along treeshaded streets. California seems much closer than 4,600 miles away.

The Marshall Islanders live on Ebye — 73 parched acres where 7,000 people have crowded out all but a few trees and patches of grass. There is only one doctor to treat common ailments such as influenza, scabies, dysentery and malnutrition.

"There is no question that there is discrimination," says George Allen, an American lawyer employed by Micronesian Legal Services. "It is just like South Africa's apartheid."

But American officials say Kwajalein is no different from any other U.S. military base.

Kwajalein Atoll, a necklace of more than 90 small islands surrounding 1,000 square miles of lagoon, has been a missile test base since 1959. The NikeZeus, Nike-X, Sentinel and Safeguard ABM systems were tested here, and Kwajalein Lagoon is the target for ICBMs test-fired from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

Security is strict. Visitors must get permission from the Army, and reporters have been allowed on the island only in the last few years.

Although the Safeguard system was scrapped, Kwajalein is now preparing to test radar and computers for another missile defense system.

"As long as there is ballstic missile defense testing and intercontinental ballistic missile testing, there will be a need for Kwajalein Missile Range,' says Col. Robert L. Russell, the base Russell estimates the U.S. investment here at $1 billion.

For the Marshallese, though, "Over the long term. Kwajalein is a real liability," says Sen. Amata Kabua of the Congress of Micronesia. "All of the evils of the ghetto are on Ebeye." Rep. Ataji Balos, a member of the congress who was born on Kwajalein, concludes: "We're stuck with it."

The islanders have become dependent on the base. Kwajalein is worth $3.3 million a year in salaries to Marshallese employes, $2 million a year in taxes to local government and $704,000 in reparations to those who were relocated from Kwajalein.

Here, this is big money. The rest of the Marshall Islands earned barely $1.1 million in 1975 from exports and tourism.

Some Marshallese are asking for a better deal - for example, access to Kwajalein's schools, stores and

Col. Russell responds that Mar-shallese may not shop on Kwajalein for the same reason that Hawaii residents may not use the PX at Pearl Harbor. And he notes that seriously ill Marshallese are treated on Kwa-jalein, qualified Marshallese are given preference for jobs on Kwa-jalein and Kwajalein charities con-tribute more than $90,000 a year to projects in the Pacific.

Though a slum by American stan-dards, Ebeye continues to be a magnet for the Marshallese. The lure of jobs and Western ways has pushed Ebeye's population from 2,000 to 7,000

The 505 Marshallese who commute by boat to jobs on Kwajalein earn an estimated average wage of $3.15 an hour - four times the pay considered good elsewhere in the Marshall Islands. The Marshallese generally have menial jobs, though several hold skilled positions.

But few of the islanders are getting ahead because virtually every wageearner is inundated by free-loading relatives.

"You can't just send people away," explained one Ebye resident. "It is very bad in our custom."

The Army spent $7 million between 1966 and 1968 to build housing on Ebeye for 3,500. Today as many as 20 people are crammed into single $10month units in now-dilapidated

What is the attraction for the Mar-

"The bright lights, the beer, the movies — and, for some, the jobs." says Lawrence Edwards, who represents the Marshalls government on Ebye. "They think it is a good standard of living. There are a lot of things they cannot get on the outer Edwards is in charge of Operation Exodus, an effort to cut Ebeye's population to perhaps 4,000. More than 200 have left voluntarily since Exodus began in January, and Edwards is now drawing up lists of the jobless and homeless, who will be ordered out.

The government extends little help to those who leave Ebeye. Critics fear that many who have had one foot in the Twentieth Century may now be unprepared to return to more primitive ways.

"Returning people from Ebeye," says Rep. Balos, "may be a way of shortening their lives.'

Fast-food packaging said rough on trees

It takes a lot of trees to keep the fast-food restaurant firms supplied with napkins, paper cups, hamburger boxes, bags and the like. In fact, a University of Illinois professor has estimated that it takes the sustained yield of more than 630 square miles of forest, for example, to keep McDonald's supplied with paper for a

Bruce Hannon, an engineer with the University of Illinois Center for Advanced Computation, made the estimate based on an examination several years ago of the packaging used at one McDonald's outlet. He recently updated his figures. Hannon said he found that about 2.4 ounces of paper was required for the average McDonald's customer (that calculation includes the packaging for the packaging). He said he was not trying to single out McDonald's; "the others are just as bad."

The sustained yield is the amount of wood a forest produces in a given year as the mature trees are harvested. Hannon said. The forest is not totally eveled, or clear cut. Referring to the 630 square miles, Hannon said, 'That's the amount of land they (McDonald's) tie up each year."

Matt Lambert, a spokesman for McDonald's, said "his (Hannon's) imagery is colorful but misleading You'd think we were cutting down

Hannon also estimated that the McDonald's chain uses the egivalent of 2.1 pounds of coal for each customer to supply its energy needs for a year. That is enough coal to supply power to the cities of Pittsburgh. Boston, Washington and San Francisco for at least a year, he said.

Hannon made his original estimates in 1972, when there were 1,750 McDonald's restaurants. There are now close to 4,000, and Hannon said the overuse of packaging remains a serious problem

Lambert said McDonald's and others do not waste paper needlessly. 'Packaging is a cost item." he said. and no businessman is frivolous about it. We're not interested in using paper in a wasteful way. The public demands packaging to keep the food sanitary and hot.

Hannon said officers of the fast-food firm did not cooperate with his original study. "I talked to the manager of a McDonald's outlet." Hannon said, "and he agreed to let me study his operation as long as I did not disclose its location or his name.' Hannon did the work on his own as a sidelight. He and his colleagues at the computation center have been studying energy use and conservation for several years under grants from the Ford Foundation and others.

Hassle nettles NATO

The present dispute between Greece and Turkey over territorial rights in the Aegean Sea has the earmarks of a sparring round rather than a full fledged championship fight. Whether or not they land any blows on each other is open to doubt, but the referees had better look out as the swinging commences.

It's an old, old story between the two nations, one which dates back to the classic Greek-Turkish hatreds during the breakup of the Ottoman Empire - or in this century to the Greek invasion of Asia Minor after World War I.

Greece and Turkey presently have their horns locked over air and continental shelf rights in the Aegean Sea, each other's rights in Cyprus, whether or not Greece can impose a 12-mile territorial limit which would block Turkish commerce, demilitarization of Greek islands off Turkey's coast and even over aid from the United

It is unlikely that the present flap will develop into outright armed hostilities between the two NATO menbers. When Greece tossed the problem to the Security Council it all but admitted that it was not planning a military response to a Turkish oil probe in the Aegean.

The sad fact is that as weak as it is, the United Nations may have been better able to react to an outright military situation than it is to the constant probing and testing of wills which could leave both contestants on the floor without either having landed a

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Wayne Hays: The final chapter

By JACK ANDERSON with LES

WASHINGTON - The meanest man in Congress, Rep. Wayne Hays, D.-Ohio, has given up the fight. He has been brought down by a bosomy blonde who wanted publicity to sell a book and promote herself. This is the story of his final days.

It's the story of an outrageous, shoot-from-the-hip curmudgeon who abused his power. But it is also the story of a tired old man, deeply in love with his wife, bedeviled by his former mistress, weary of the turmoil.

He talked of killing himself to spare his wife more painful publicity. He took an overdose of sleeping pills — by mistake, he later insisted. Finally, he decided to withdraw from Congress for the sake of his wife's

By sheer orneriness, Hays became one of the most powerful men in the House. He was "mean, arrogant, cantankerous and tough," he admitted to his colleagues. They kept out of his way.

Most of them enjoyed his plight, therefore, when Elizabeth Ray revealed to the world their sordid relationship. It was a story we had turned down two years earlier. She had called our office in a hysterical crying fit. She was about to lose her job, she sobbed, because she "would not go to bed with Wayne Hays." We learned that she was having an affair with Hays, all right. But she also performed secretarial services in return for her congressional salary. Our associates, Jack Cloherty and Bob Owens, called on her in her office. Contrary to her later claims, she could type and answer the phone.

They saw her do it. She called our office repeatedly. We found her erratic, unreliable and unpredictable. From sources who knew her well, we established that she not become Hays' mistress against her will. On the contrary, he had tried to break off the relationship. Then she had threatened to take her story to the press. Other times, she had threatened to cause a scene in his office unless he took her out.

She staged at least one scene after a heated argument about Hays' imsecretary, Pat Peak. The Capitol olice were summoned to remove Ray from the congressman's office. Afterward, she phoned a friend, who later told us about the call. "I really put on a good act," Ray boasted. "I made the police feel sorry for me."

Hays went ahead with the marriage, and his spurned mistress told her story to the Washington Post. There is reason to believe that she had been preparing material for a book all along, a book that she later sold.

Hays at first denied having an affair with Elizabeth Ray. "Hell, I'm a happily married man," he said. He lied, his friends say, to protect his marriage. But the Washington Post reporters had carefully nailed down the evidence. He finally confessed to having had a "personal relationship" with Ray. He denied, however, that she did no work for her government salary.

Sources close to Hays say the ublicity almost wrecked the new marriage. He would plunge into a deep gloom or suddenly cheer up, they say, in direct relationship to how his wife was reacting.

At one point, we persuaded the harassed Hays to drop by our office. He was not the churlish, defiant curmudgeon we had known. The old fire was gone. He was totally subdued. He slumped into our office; he spoke in a voice barely audible.

He told of the effect the publicity was having on his wife. To spare her further anguish, he said: "I would put a bullet through my head." Then he added meaningfully: "And I've got the guts to do it."

He made similar statements to a congressman who later reported it to us. But after he recovered from an

We learned, meanwhile, that Hays had put a man on the U.S. payroll who did less work than Liz Ray. He is a Democratic party worker named Paul Pendergast who draws $17,235 a year as an Assistant Sergeant at Arms. Yet he doesn't even have a desk in the Sergeant at Arms office.

Instead, we found that he was working for the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee. His duties are strictly political; his main function is to raise funds for Democratic congressional can-

We called Hays last Thursday for his comment. Back came a statement that he had merely followed precedent and had been backed by the House leadership. A few hours later, he announced his decision to retire from the House. His press secretary, Carol Clawson, said he made the decision after getting our inquiry.

But Hays told friends that he three

The U.S. economic blockade, the ban on U.S. exports to Cuba, except food and medicines, went into effect on Oct. 19, 1960, and the United States broke all relations with Cuba Jan. 3, 1961

According to Ambassador Alarcon, until the blockade is lifted, there can be no conversations looking toward resumption of relations between Washington and Havana.

The United States, of course, has set its own conditions for such talks: that Cuba withdraw the estimated 15,000 troops it sent to intervene on behalf of the Popular Movement for Liberation of Angola, and that Cuba stop meddling in the affairs of Puerto Rico.

Detente protects Latin Americans against U.S. international cooperation and

By WILLIAM GIANDONI Copley News Service

The Soviet Union says that "detente" is holding the United States back in Latin America.

As the Kremlin views the Western Hemisphere, "peaceful coexistence (between the United States and the Soviet Union) prevents imperialist and reactionary intervention in the internal affairs of Latin American countries.'

That is the conclusion drawn in an article in a recent issue of New Times, a Soviet weekly of world affairs, now circulating throughout the world in eight languages, including Spanish. The article is a commentary on the

"The Foreign Policies of the American Countries After World War II," written by the staff of the Institute of Latin American Studies of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

According to New Times, Latin American countries have been playing an ever greater role in in-ternational affairs and showing a growing desire to follow a course ndependent of the United States.

"Looming large," says New Times, "are such problems as the Cuban republic's foreign policy of promoting safeguarding the gains of its revolution, the foreign policy program of Chile's former Popular Unity government, and the diplomatic moves of countries regarding the evolution of a foreign policy that would be independent of imperialism as a means of protecting national interests."

The article did not expand on those points but, elsewhere in the magazine, New Times explained that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's dictatorship "has an important role to play in the peoples' anti-imperialist movement.'

As an example, it cited Angola, the former Portuguese colony in Africa, where Castro sent an estimated 15,000 Cuban troops to the rescue of the Soviet-backed liberation movement.
New Times said that "Cuba's help to Angola will go down in the annals of the liberation struggle of the peoples of the world as eloquent testimony to the power and viability of proletarian internationalism." All this and more was made possible by "international detente," the magazine said. At another point, New Times came close to suggesting that, had the United States and the Soviet Union been seeking detente three years ago, the government of Marxist President Salvador Allende might not have been overthrown in Chile. But that would have been to stretch the truth too

Even Chilean Communists admit that the mistakes that they and the Socialists made were what provoked the Chilean armed forces to oust

Still, in reply to a letter to the editor, New Times did say that with detente "it is becoming harder and harder to repeat the 'Chilean variant'" in Communist-dominated countries such as Angola.

Today, the Soviet weekly said,

Washington no longer can take Latin America as a dependable hinterland reserve and buttress for imperialism as it did in the early postwar period, when it could reckon on a safe Latin American vote in the U.N."

Quite obviously Moscow's Latin America specialists are proud of their work and they want credit for it.

"The international atmosphere generated thanks to the consis effort made by the USSR and the other Socialist countries to achieve peaceful coexistence between states with different social and political systems is serving to advance the liberation movement," New Times

But, as so often happens when one or another of the great powers announces that developments in Latin America are to its liking, the panorama changes.

In Peru, Argentina, Venezuela, Mexico and other countries there are signs that the ideological pendulum is moving toward the right now, no matter what the Soviet Union or the United States says or does.

Living cost index rockets second month in row

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumer prices rose by half a percentage point for the second month in a row in July, the government said today. Food costs increased moderately but there were rapid jumps in such things as gasoline and medical care.

The five-tenths of 1 per cent advance, which amounts to a compound annual rate of 6.2 per cent, means inflation has remained virtually stable since the four-tenths of 1 per cent price increase in April.

The Labor Department said prices now stand 5.4 per cent ahead of where they were a year ago. That's the smallest year-to-year rise since the 5.1 per cent advance as of April 1973.

The pace of inflation enabled workers to expand their buying power, the department said. After-tax weekly earnings discounted for inflation grew by one-tenths of 1 per cent, reversing June's five-tenths of 1 per cent drop. For the year, inflationadjusted earnings are up three-tenths

The Labor Department said the primary ingredients of the rise in prices were gasoline, used cars, medical care, transportation services, home loan interest rates and dairy products. Food prices were actually up by the biggest margin in nine months — seven-tenths of 1 per cent — but since July is typically a month of higher food prices, the gain was adjusted to show a one-tenth of 1 per cent increase for the index. Meat, poultry and fish prices, though actually up seven-tenths of 1 per cent, showed a 1.6 per cent drop after adjustment for seasonal variations and now stand 2 per cent below a year ago.

Those protein prices were offset by higher prices for coffee, eggs and dairy products. Coffee prices are 51.4 per cent above a year ago.

Commodities other than food rose by six-tenths of 1 per cent in price, the department said, with gasoline prices accounting for almost a fourth of that jump. Gasoline prices rose 1.5 per cent, leaving the average national price of a gallon of unleaded regular gasoline at 62.3 cents in July.

The costs of service were up by sixtenths of 1 per cent, with medical care showing the strongest increase. Prices for medical care had been increasing at about the same rate as consumer prices generally for the last three months, but in July the cost of medical care shot up 1.1 per cent. Medical care now costs 9.7 per cent more than it did a year ago.

The department said the latest changes in prices left its consumer price index at 171.1, meaning a market basket of goods and services costing $100 in 1967 now costs $171.10. Much of the relief from the high rates of inflation of the previous three months can be attributed to food prices. They had declined for three consecutive months at the start of the year and as of June were only 3.7 per cent ahead of a year earlier.

If it hadn't been for food prices, inflation for the year ending June 30 cent higher at 6.6 per cent.

Greenwood school trustees Thursday approved a $2,466,786 budget for the 1976-77 school year and approved a $2.22 per $100 of assessed value tax

The local maintenance portion of the tax rate, $1.50, is the same as last year's, but the debt service portion of the tax rate, 72 cents, is a 48-cent increase from last year. Property assessment is based on 60 per cent of actual value.

The reason for the increase is a $1.7 million bond issue for a new elementary school and other construction, Mel Williams, school superintendent, said.

The maintenance and operations budget totals $534,050, with the remainder of the budget for debt service and the $1.7 million construction expenditure, Williams said. Trustees agreed to pay out bonds for the construction over a 15-year period, he said. Trustees discussed also leasing temporary buildings to use elementary classes during con-struction of the new building, after the demolition of the old building. Action was postponed until after the start of school so that they will have actual enrollment figures, Williams said.

The latest figures contrast sharply The latest figures contrast sharply with 1974, when the rise in food prices matched the over-all 12.2 per cent inflation. By the end of 1975, food prices were up 6.2 per cent and already showing a slower growth than the over-all inflation rate of 7 per

The slowing of the rise in food prices has resulted from improved weather at home and abroad, and fallout from the high prices of 1974.

The higher prices encouraged farmers to plant bigger crops, and with the cooperation of the weather, the U.S. is expected to harvest a record corn crop this year, a nearrecord wheat crop, and a soybean crop that should be in line with These harvests are being supplemented by improved harvests abroad. Sizable wheat sales to the Soviet Union, for example, were a factor in the rapid rise of food prices. But the Agriculture Department reported recently that the Soviet

On-campus move-in Saturday at UTPB

ODESSA - Saturday will be moving day for the first students to live in on-campus housing at The University of the Permian Basin.

Final preparations have been made this week to the 50 three-bedroom units and residents can move in over the weekend, although landscaping and some other finishing touches will be completed later, resident manager Terry Wiethoff said.

The housing was installed because of the Odessa housing shortage.

Each unit has three bedrooms (two private and one to be shared by two persons), two full bathrooms, a living area and a kitchen area.

They are installed in duplex fashion, back to back, in two circles with a paved street between them. On-street parking is provided for Stan Jacobs, Midland College art instructor, has just returned from a two-week workshop in watercolor techniques. The course was con-ducted at the Texas Tech University extension center at Junction.

Instructor for the graduate-level course was Dr. Clarence Kincaid, There were 18 students in the course, most of them public school and college art instructors.

Jacobs joined the Midland College faculty in 1971. He received his BFA degree from Washburn University of Topeka, Kan., and the MFA degree from the University of Kansas.

UTPB sets registration dates

ODESSA - Fall registration for oncampus courses at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin will be Monday and Tuesday in the university student lounge.

Enrollment is on an assigned time basis with hours of operation both through Friday.

Summit conference seeking oil embargo

By KENNETH L. WHITING

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) -Leaders of the nonaligned movement returned home today after another call for a new international economic order and the usual criticism of the United States and its Western allies. Communist and socialist countries were spared the harsh words.

Political and economic declarations approved Thursday at the end of the four-day, 85-nation summit conference condemned the West in specific and general terms. But the language of the economic statement was relatively restrained.

Diplomatic observers said this reflected awareness that the underdeveloped Third World can't achieve an economic breakthrough without the cooperation of industrialized North America, Western Europe and Japan.

The conference produced two unex-pected moves: plans for the Third World countries to start their own commercial bank and a call for oil embargoes against France for agreeing to sell a nuclear reactor to South Africa and against Israel for contracting to build corvettes for the South African navy.
Although 10 of the 14 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) also belong to the nonaligned movement, no embargo is likely. The OPEC nations have never reduced their prices because of the hardships they cause other underdeveloped nations, and they are not likely to reduce their revenues for the remote possibility that this might benefit the blacks of South Africa.

The conference also asked the U.N. Security Council to impose a mandatory arms embargo against South Africa. This, too, is unlikely to

Equipment arrives

LOS ANGELES, Calif. - A fleet of 15 ocean-going barges, carrying approximately $200 million worth of processing units and equipment for development of Alaska's North Slope oil and gas fields, has arrived at Prudhoe Bay.

The flotilla began leaving a point barrow rendezvous Aug. 11 when the northern movement of the Arctic ice pack provided a limited annual access through the Beaufort Sea to that Mexico's petroleum exports in the current year should total $447,760,000. If that goal is reached exports will have risen almost 13 times in the six-year period Echeverria has been president. In 1971, first full year of his term, export sales amounted to about $34.6 million.

Neither of those figures was clear profit. Although Mexico has been producing oil in commercial quantities, and in the early 1920s was a major petroleum exporter, it used to ship mostly crude oil, and import gasoline, lubricants and other refined products from abroad.

But, in 1975 and 1976, with the completion of new, larger refineries, the Mexican government oil company has been able to reverse the process. This year, the country expects its oil exports will exceed the cost of its imports by more than $228 million.

Last year Mexican oil exports were worth almost $141 million more than imports.

PEMEX is predicting that once the new refinery at Tula reaches full capacity Mexico no longer will have to rely on foreign, chiefly U.S., sources for its gasoline, diesel and fuel oil needs, according to Dovali's

Most of what Dovali and other PEMEX officials told the president was known in industry circles. But the incrsase in the proved reserve figure was intriguing under the circumstances. Since the publication in the United States and Mexico of reports that a 'supersecret" CIA study calculated Mexican 6il reserves at 75 billion barrels, PEMEX has been under some political pressure to raise its Francisco Javier Alejo, the youthful minister of government proper-ties, for example, has said that he figures Mexican reserves at between 30 billion and 60 billion barrels.

Nevertheless, when Dovali and other experienced oil men speak up they limit themselves to the much more conservative, "proved" reserve figure, now 6.48 billion.

Plane crash kills family

EBONY, Tex. (AP) — Four persons were killed shortly before midnight Thursday in a small plane crash near this tiny Mills County community in West Central Texas, the Department of Public Safety said today.

DPS officer Ronnie Rush said the victims were Carroll C. Smith, 48, of Smithville, his 45year-old wife Janis and two young girls, possibly the couple's children.

Rush said the crash occurred near FM road 574 in Mills County, about 18 miles southeast of Brownwood. The DPS officer said witnesses told him the plane circled a field and tried to land, but crashed into the field. He said the Cessna 182 had a flight plan from Colorado to Smithville. Rush said he found a piece of paper in the plane with the name Fred Smith of Denver on it, and he speculated the Smith family may have been visiting a relative in Calorado.

Cotton

No. 2 were mostly low-er in midday dealings today.

Some profit taking caused prices to fall back from early highs. Export demand for U.S. cotton and buying by previous short sellers caused the early advance.

The average price for strict low middling 1 1-16-inch spot cotton declined 1 point to 74.85 cents a peund Thursday for the 10 leading markets. according to the New York Cotton Exchange Midday prices were $3.00 a bale lower to 85 cents higher than the previous close. Oct. 78.40, Dec. 77.35, and March 77.90.

NEW YORK (AP) NEW YORK (AP) — Concern over the progress of corporate profits and the economic recovery drove stock prices into another broad decline today.
The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 6.99 at 976.89 on top of an 11 l linging slide on top of an 11.13point slide Thursday. Dow Jones' transportation and utility averages also gave ground.

Losers outpaced gainers by about a 3-1 margin among
New York Stock Exchangelisted issues.

On Thursday the government reported that the rise of business profits from the first quarter to the second quarter was the slowest in five such reporting periods. Analysts said the news underscored recent signs that some of the momentum of the recovery from the recession had dissipated. Hewlett-Packard was the biggest loser in the list, tumbling 7% to 92 after a delayed opening. The company reported lower earnings for the quarter ended July 31, citing "weakness in our international orders".

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped .33 to 54.89. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .44 at 101.95. Volume on the Big Board was a airly quiet 6.59 million shares over the first two hours, against 6.67 million in the comparable period on Thursday. Among blue chips, Union Carbide fell 1 to 65, General Motors lost ½ to 66% and U.S. Steel was down % at 48%.

Gun show Sales High Low Last Che. Stocks down enhances

EDITOR's Note — There are 43 million handguns in the United States owned by dealers and individuals and many of them circulate in a sort of private national market that keeps no records.

TIM REITERMAN Associated Press Writer

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP) — Before noon, the cavernous auditorium comes alive at Solano County fairgrounds. Two children collect $1.50 ticket stubs at the door. One young woman pours 50-cent wine coolers and beer. Others slop chili dogs on paper

And hundreds of hands heft and stroke bayonets, Nazi swords, knives, antique muzzle loader rifles, heavy-barreled match target rifles, chromed lugers converted into carbines, sleek deer rifles, shotguns — and handguns, from mini-derringers to .44magnum cannons.

magnum cannons.

Sawhorse-legged tables are manned by amateur weapons collectors and weekend entrepreneurs who paid $15 for the space to buy, sell or trade with the hundreds of gun fanciers milling around, many with pistols jammed in their belts or rifles slung across heir backs.

One man with $300 in his Levis wants to buy han-

At the first table, he asked the price of a displayed gun, but the burly proprietor with a silver crew cut shakes his head. "I can't even quote you a price on a handgun," he partially whispers. "I might get in trouble."

Nonetheless, he is persuaded to give his name and phone number for a possible transaction outside the auditorium, the walls of which are decorated with notices quoting a new state law requiring a 15-day waiting period for handgun sales.

Minutes later, the buyer is spinning the cylinder of .38- caliber Smith and Wesson revolver at another table. "How much?"

"Price is on the back of the card," yawns the proprietor, a drawling middle-aged trucker. The card "I'll take it." The buyer peels off $109 for the gun and a $4 box of target ammunition.

Now friendly, the trucker examines the buyer's driver's license and asks whether he is a convicted felon, drug-addict, asylum escapee — or a federal firearms agent. Satisfied by the negative answers, the man writes a receipt. His beaming wife slips the gun and bullets into a wrinkled paper sack. A minute later and a few yards away at another table, the buyer inspects a husky .45- caliber automatic pistol, the official sidearm of the U.S. military. "How much?"

"I'm asking $165, but I could easily get $175 at the San Jose gun show," says the seller.

"How low will you go?" The tall man tugs at his greying mustache, ponders and says, "One hundred fifty-five." This deal is sealed with the same series of questions, written this time on a receipt bearing the buyer's license lists a former address, but not the current

In neither sale has the buyer been asked to fill out the official yellow form that the U.S. government requires of the nation's 160,000 federally-licensed gun dealers. The dealers must keep these forms as a record of each handgun sale

As the tall salesman demonstrates the .45, he adds, "I got it from a guy who bought it through the Na-tional Rifle Association. It was government surplus. Manufactured in 1944."

The buyer crosses the room to buy a box of Army surplus .45-caliber cartridges for $7. The paper bag rips, so he swaggers outside with both guns in his belt and bullets in his pockets. No one bats an eye.

The guns were purchased by this reporter from men who might have been operating as unlicensed dealers. They certainly violated the state law requiring a 15-day waiting period before delivery. The two guns were the same types used in two assassination attempts against President Ford last fall. The .45 is like one that Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, a Charles Manson cult follower, pointed at Ford in Sacramento after taking it from the home of a friend. The .38 is similar to one that Sara Jane Moore fired at the President in San Francisco after buying it from a private arms collector. These two weapons are among an estimated 43 million handguns in the United States owned by dealers and individuals. The estimate was 40 million last year, federal officials say. There is no central record system for this private arsenal, and millions of the handguns are almost impossible to trace. There are records, on the other hand, for the two million handguns manufactured domestically each year and the 500,000 imported handguns. Each of these goes to a federally-licensed dealer, but once the dealer sells the weapon it often enters a recordless limbo - unless it is resold to a dealer or surfaces as a gun used in a crime.

These guns change hands at gun shows and through numerous sales between individuals. Some are stolen from homes and stores. Others are inherited or passed from friend to friend. So exactly how many handguns there are — aside from those held by the military, police, government agencies and licensed dealers — and who owns them is a

The gun shows — held nearly every weekend in California and in other states — illustrate a number of points: that handguns are readily and immediately available to anyone with money; that sales bet-ween private individuals are essentially without enforceable controls; that gun ownership is important not only to fanatics and criminals, but also to sportsmen and connoisseurs interested in the craftsmanship, design, history and ballistics of firearms.

"Gun shows have legitimate people," says Brenton G. Thorne of the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms in San Francisco. "But some are there to escape laws requiring licensing of dealers."

Federal law does allow a person not licensed as a dealer to make an occasional sale or to buy firearms

But Thorne says: "If you offer an extra $25 or $30 over what a gun normally sells for, he (a gunshow seller) is generally not going to be particular about getting proper identification."

Hence, a handgun bought at a show is often untraceable. This was the case for the two weapons traceable. This was the case for the two weapons purchased here by this reporter.

Federal officials said the .38 was manufactured during World War II and shipped to England as a military weapon, then somehow was returned to this country, possibly as a war souvenir. They said the .45 bore a stamp that indicated it was government surplus sold sometime during the postwar years through the National Rifle Association.

There is no federal handsun registration law in the

There is no federal handgun registration law in the United States, but the federal Gun Control Act of 1968 requires the 160,000 licensed gun dealers to have a buyer produce identification and fill out a form designed to weed out ex-felons, persons under indictment, fugitives, narcotics users, mental defectives, persons dishonorably discharged and illegal aliens.

Death Row inmates wait without hope

The Los Angeles Times

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. - They live suspended at the end of time, waiting the unthinkable wait. The hours slip by unnoticed, the days pass without meaning. Nothing, save an occasional face, changes. Their unearthly world, so full of silence and isolation, belongs to them only, the inhabitants of Death

Ernie Smith, like the other 42 men on the three-tiered row here, was pressed up against the bars of his pint-sized cell that Friday afternoon seven weeks ago, watching one of the six television sets attached to the nearby wall. He remembers the precise moment and the dizzying stab of futility it brought.

An announcer's voice interrupted the soap opera. The Supreme Court, it said, had upheld by a 7-2 vote capital punishment statutes in Texas, Florida and Georgia, a decision that could end the nine-year moratorium on executions in the United States. Nine years. Such a long time that the im-minent reality of death had been lost for even those sentenced to die.

"One or two guys cried," recalled Smith, 28, an accomplice in the robbery and murder of a grocery store clerk. "But I didn't. I figured it might go this way. Mostly the row just got real quiet. Guys laid out in their bunks, saying nothing. We've been locked up ever since - no recreation, no nothing except a shower once a week - to keep the guys from doing something crazy like wasting (killing) themselves.

"You try to put it out of your mind but it's bound to weigh on you. Everytime you pick up a paper someone's making a comment on the death penalty this, the death penalty that. I try to read and I can't concentrate. I try to draw and I can't concentrate. I guess it gets rougher on you mentally as it goes along.

"Like I say, you get guys down here who've knocked off ladies, killed three or four people. I don't know what's running through their heads. But I'll put it this way: I'm at peace with myself. I had no intention of killing any dude. Which I didn't. I'm at peace and if it happens, it hap-

So they wait, lying on their bunks in the breathless heat of the Texas summer., Most wear only their undershorts. The small tables next to their toilet and wash basin are stacked with cans of snacks and law books - special privileges for the condemned. A typewriter clatters in a distant cell. A chess set, attached to the bars between two cells with coat hangers, rests unattended. A voice calls out softly, "Hey, Mark, you asleep? Mark Moore,24, rises in cell No. 6 He is officially identified as Execution No. 513 by the Texas Department of Corrections and he stands convicted of raping and murdering a woman in an office building where he worked as a janitor. He knew at the time, he says, that what he did was wrong and he wishes that there was some way to 'correct" his mistakes. "I know I what purpose it would serve society to execute him.

"They ain't going to stop the killing and robbing by electrocuting us," he says in his gentle voice. "That'd only get revenge. The robbing and killing's been going on for 200 years. It's the only way some people know how to make it. The same cell I'm sitting in. someone else is gonna be sitting in it right after I leave. They can't kill everybody. Moore's days - and those of the other 175 men and one woman on Death Row in Texas, Florida and Georgia - are not yet numbered. The Supreme Court on July 22 blocked all executions pending a review of a petition for rehearing its ruling upholding limited capital punish-ment. The petition probably will be considered in October when the court reconvenes, although it would be extremely rare for the justices to rehear a case already decided by written opinion. Capital punishment was once a common penalty, often accompanied by torture, throughout the world. In 18th century England it was carried out for several hundred crimes, mostly crimes against property. Today the death penalty has been abolished in many countries, including Great Britain, New Zealand and the Scandinavian nations. Since statistics were first kept in 1930, 3,859 persons have been LEGAL NOTICES executed in the United States, excluding 160 executed by military

Each of the 48 continental states has DBA, Chesa Nuova used execution as punishment, Restaurant, Alois ranging from one execution in Munzer General Montana and one in South Dakota to 229 in Georgia. The last execution was that of Luis J. Monge in Colorado in making application to June 2, 1967.

In June, 1972, the Supreme Court, Beverage Commission by a 5-4 vote, said that capital punish- for a mixed beverage ministered. It said the penalty was carried out arbitrarily and irrationally but it did not be address of 2800 N. irrationally but it did not rule out Big Spring, Midland, capital punishment under any cir- Midland County, cumstance. However, that decision Texas. still resulted in the sentences of those on Death Rows across the country being commuted to life imprisonment. In Texas, five of those former death row inmates have since won paroles. Thirty-six states responded to the court's 1972 decision by enacting new death penalty laws. It is uncertain how many of them are constitutional but the NAACP Legal Defense and FOR RECYCLING 14¢ POUND Educational Fund, Inc., a prime mover in the aboliton drive, estimates that as many as 20 are "arguably similar" to the Texas, Florida and Georgia codes upheld last month. Other legal sources estimate that the court's recent ruling — which struck down the capital punishment statutes in North Carolina and Louisiana as well as upholding those in three states - would cut the national death row population of 600 or so by about half.

"I don't see how you can call that fair." said Texas Death Row inmate Moore. "How can they allow them to live and us to die? That don't seem right. If they're going to execute us, why don't they execute them, too?"

can't do it by just saying. 'I'm sorry, Intelligence groups overlapped efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. intelligence agencies duplicated each other's efforts and emphasized quantity, not quality, in gathering data abroad, according to a study that led to a major overhaul of the intelligence community in 1971.

The pivotal study, which was declassified and released Thursday, was prepared under the direction of James R. Schlesinger, then assistant director of the White House Office of Management and Budget (OMB). Former President Richard M. Nixon not only heeded Schlesinger's call for reform, but eventually chose Central Intelligence Agency and, later, as Secretary of Defense. The study noted "the cost of intelligence has almost doubled during the past decade," but found that "it is not at all clear that our hypotheses about foreign intentions, capabilities and activities have improved com-

Schlesinger to serve as director of the mensurately in scope and quality." Intelligence-gathering has become "exceedingly expensive," primarily due to "the acquisition of expensive new systems without simultaneous reductions in obsolescent programs," the report found. During his six-month stint as CIA head in 1973, Schlesinger moved to cut costs and improve performance. He forced 1,200 of the CIA's 18,000 employes into early retirement and also nitiated an internal review that led to the first disclosures of CIA miscon-

Schlesinger served as defense secretary from 1973 until last

November, when President Ford fired both him and his successor as CIA director, William Colby.

Schlesinger apparently fell from favor with his outspoken criticisms of detente with the Soviet Union. Nixon issued an executive order in November 1971 giving then CIA director Richard Helms an "enhanced leadership" role with broad supervision over all foreign intellience activities carried out by the CIA, the Defense Department's Defense Intelligence Agency, the State Department, the Atomic EnergCommission and the FBI.

Schlesinger's OMB report was credited with precipitating that order, but the actual 47page report had not been made public. It was released. with references to actual intelligence costs deleted, under a Freedom of Information Act request by Rolling Stone magazine and Mortin Halpern, former National Security Council aide to Henry A. Kissinger.

The study found that the National Security Act of 1947, which laid the groundwork for present U.S. in-telligence activities, did "little to provide strong leadership for the (intelligence) community. One reason was that the act's primary intent was "to prevent a recurrence of the intelligence confusions and delays that occurred prior to Pearl Harbor." To do so, it emphasized collecting intelligence, not analyzing or coordinating it, the study

Another reason, the report said, was that "powerful interests in the military services and elsewhere opposed (and continued to oppose) more centralized management of intelligence activities."

Diablos beat Cubs to bounce back into first place

BY TED BATTLES

El Paso's Diablos bounced back into first place in the Texas League West Division by once again muscling their way to an 8-5 victory over the Midland Cubs at Cubs Stadium Thursday night.

That leaves Manager Bobby Knoop's bunch in pretty good shape going into tonight's final game of the series. Even with a loss, the Diablos wouldn't be more than a half game out of first place, heading into a six-game series at San Antonio while Amarillo comes to Midland to wrestle the Cubs in a six-gamer starting

Although the Cubs lost four out of five to the Gold Sox at Amarillo recently, all the games were close and it took some spectacular infield play to keep the Sox on top.

AT ANY rate, the Diablos would rather face the young Brewers than Righthander Balor Moore, 5-10, the former Montreal Expos pitcher who is attempting to come back after arm surgery, will go for the Diablos in tonight's 7:30 25 cent Beer Night special. His mound opponent will be Cubs' ace Wayne Doland, 13-5.

Both pitchers already have won in this series. Moore beat the Cubs, 12-3, Sunday and is 2-0 against the Cubs this season, both wins here.

Doland, looking hopefully toward a good spring trial with Wichita, beat the Diablos' 74 Monday. For the season, the Hamburg, N.J., righthander is 2-1 against El Paso.

In Thursday's game, what started out as a pitchers' battle for five in-nings, developed into a slugfest and predictably the power laden the Diablos got the best of it.

BILL HUISMAN'S lead off homer over the left field fence in the fourth off James Dorsey gave Steve Hamrick a 1-0 lead, but things started to unravel in the sixth.

Hamrick got the first two batters, but then the Diablos, limited to two hits ripped out five straight singles for two runs and then Lawrence Rush capped the surge with his 14th homer, an awesome poke that carried over an awesome poke that carried over fence in center.

The Cubs battled back gamely with four runs in the home sixth to tie it 5-5. Joe Hernandez, stretching his hitting streak to 11 games, singled and scored from first on Mike Umfleet's double to right. After Mike Gordon insided. singled, Dorsey left for Fred Kuhaulua. Kuhaulua walked Scott Thompson to load the bases and then in retiring Huisman and Jose Ortiz uncorked a wild pitch to let a second

EARLE CHEW then simply outlegged the pitcher to first in beating out a slow roller to first and two runs scored on the play.

The Diablos, with Amarillo winning over San Antonio at this point, kayoed Hamrick on one-out doubles by Terry Stupy and Marty Friedman, the latter the blow that proved the difference.

Kuhaulua hung around through the eighth, long enough to pick up his first Texas League win while Hamrick suffered his second loss in this series and dropped to 9-10.

Stroughter continued to swing a hot bat for the Diablos with three hits in four trips while second baseman Ron Farkas made the biggest defensive play of the night for El Paso in the

WITH BOB Hrapmann on second after doubling and two out, Farkas made a diving stop to his left to rob Keith Drumright of a hit that would have made it 2-0.

After it was over, the Diablos got a bonus, learning that San Antonio had come from behind to nip the Gold Sox and El Paso had back the lead it lost the previous night for the first time since early June.

CUBS BRIEFS— John Caniera,
despite a 13-4 record, is due for postseason arm surgery. "There are bone chips in the elbow and, although they don't bother me now, doctors feel they could pinch a nerve if left alone.

could pinch a nerve if left alone. However, they are going to check it after the season to see if I still need surgery," says the Eastern Connecticut University righthander....

The only trouble with Keith Drumright's .326 batting average is that it means the University of Oklahoma product will probably get a pretty good shot at Wichita next spring....An All-America second baseman at Oll Keith started out baseman at OU, Keith started out here at a 3-for-35 pace.....

JENIPHER SCHRAG, left, could be wondering why Midland Cubs Manager Denny Sommers doesn't change pitchers and Scott Melzer, her four-

Cage aides named

Two new assistant basketball coaches at have been named for the 1976-77 school year, according to Athletic Director Sam Cox.

Eddie Shirley, former University of Texas at El Paso athlete and Greg Wright, have been named at MHS and Lee, respectively.

Shirley has been coaching at Goddard Junior High School while Wright, a Lee graduate, has been associate coach at Tarleton State at Stephenville.

Wright will coach the Lee junior varsity and sophomore units and is sophomore units and is familiar with head coach BOXWOOD Paul Stueckler's program since he played basketball for the Rebels. gal. He replaces Jack Stephenson who has moved to Snyder where he will be head coach of the Class AAA Tigers.

Shirley takes Don Humphery's slot as sophomore and JV coach was elevated to the head post when James Cagle resigned to take a similar position at Duncanville High School.

Twins' Campbell'soups' Baltimore, 5-4 Walgreens

The Baltimore Orioles suffered another dose of indigestion Thursday after sampling the peas served up by Bill "Soupy" Campbell.

"When Campbell's throwing like he was for those couple of innings, he's not throwing peas, he's throwing split peas," Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch said after the bulllpen ace

Campbell entered the game with two on and two out in the seventh inning. He retired Tony Muser on a grounder and then set down the final six batters, striking out three and earning his 15th save to go with 12 relief wins, five short of the American

The Twins came from behind twice, then getting three in the bottom of the sixth after the Orioles scored twice in the top half. Although Dave Pagan was charged with the loss, Tippy Martinez walked Lyman Bostock with the bases loaded to force in the win-ning run and drop the Orioles 11 games behind the idle Yankees in the

At the first sign of trouble in the seventh, Mauch wig-wagged for Campbell.

"There's no way I'm going to let this one get by us," he said, even though starter Bill Singer insisted he was still strong. "We've just got so far behind too many times recently, and the way are yet a chance I'm not when we've got a chance 'I'm not going to let it slip by."

Brewers 6, Royals 4

Gorman Thomas belted a three-run homer in the second inning and triples by Von Joshua and George Scott keyed Milwaukee's two-run fifth. Joshua tripled leading off the fifth and scored on a sacrifice fly by Robin Yount as the Brewers broke a 3-3 tie against Dennis Leonard. Scot followed with a triple and scored or second baseman Frank White's wild relay to third.

Indians 7, Rangers 5

Boog Powell pounded a pair of two-run homers off his favorite pitching staff. Powell has hit only six home runs this year and four have come against the Rangers, who have lost six games in a row. Powell also delivered a run-scoring single in the ninth inning for his fifth RBI.

Tigers 4, Angels 3 Non-regulars Chuck Scrivener, Dan Meyer and Ben Oglivie drove in the first three Detroit runs and Jim Crawford pitched 31-3 innings of onehit relief to preserve the victory.

Detroit scored the decisive run on a single by Ron LeFlore after Bill Freehan was hit by a pitch and Pedro Garcia walked. Bob Jones and Mario Guerrero homered for California. White Sox 4, Red Sox 2

Jack Brohamer drove in runs with a single and sacrifice fly and Ken Brett scattered eight hits for his first win in more than three weeks. Loser Rick Wise failed in his fifth consecutive try for his 10th win. Brohamer's single in the second inning drove in Jerry Hairston, who walked and was sacrificed to second. Brohamer's sacrifice fly in the fourth followed a leadoff walk to Brian Downing, a single by Hairston and another

Nostalgia buffs in glory

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) - Pro golf's nostalgia buffs were in their glory.

There was Sam Snead, that 64-year-old relic from from his side-saddle stance and happly chortling: "If I could keep this up, they might be able to coax me back to the tour."

(Scores on 6C)

Snead, with his trademark, a brightly-banded Save-W Campbell (15). HBP-by Sing-Panama straw hat firmly in place, converted his best of (D Duncan) T-2-31. A-7-(15) putting round in years into a 68. That was just three strokes off the pace of Rik Massengale, whose sixunder-par 65 was all but overshadowed by the heroics of another generation of golfing greats Thursday in the first round of the $210,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open.

THERE WAS Arnold Palmer, 46, a winner of this tournament 20 years ago, holing out his approach shot for an eagle two on the first hole and then br-

"I hit the wedge just the way I wanted to," Palmer solemnly announced of the 70-yard shot that ripped a joyous roar of appreciation from his huge gallery on

There was Art Wall, 52, a winner here a decade ago, moving into a tie for second with a 67 despite a bogey on the final hole. "I shot 63 in the last round last year with a bogey on that hole," Wall recalled.
"I just don't play it very well. Maybe I'm just choking. Maybe I'm just a bad player," said the softspoken man who won the Masters and Player of the Year honors in 1959.

AND THERE was Billy Casper, 45, once one of the game's premier putters, who used a refound touch for a 67 that included two putts of 35-40 feet in length and three more from about 15 feet.

"It's been a long time since I had a round like this," said Billy, who won the first of his four Hart ford titles 13 years ago. That quartet of challengers chasing Massengale, Lum, who doesn't consider himself a pull hitter, was baffled by the move-but obviously not shaken by it. He smashed a single through the dramatic overshift into right field to score the winning run in the Reds' 3-2, 11-inning victory.

"That's a Gene Mauch play all the way, no ifs, ands or buts," noted Cincinnati Manager Sparky An-

He added: "If you're going to pull in outfielders, though, you just as well should bring them all in. But you know what it really is in that situation? You pray. That's the best how do I want my poison.

The Reds had men on second and third at the time with Lum in a pinchhitter's role and the dangerous Pete Rose on deck.

"I pitched to Lum," pointed out Bristol, "because Rose with 2,700 lifetime hits is not going to beat me."

Tony Perez ignited the winning rally for Cincinnati with a single and went to third when former Red shortstop Darrell Chaney threw wildly to second on a grounder. Bristol then made his move. With Perez at third and Dave Concepcion at second and a count of 1-1, Lum drilled a liner just out of reach of first baseman Willie Montanez' glove. Pirates 1, Giants 0

John Candelaria scattered nine hits and scored the game's only run as Pittsburgh beat San Francisco. The shutout was the third of the season for Candelaria, 12-4, with two coming against the Giants. He hurled a twohit victory at Candlestick Park on April 25. The game's only run was scored in the fifth inning off Jim Barr, 10-10. Manny Sanguillen walked and was forced at second on Candelaria's sacrifice attempt. With two out, Omar Moreno sent Candelaria to second with a single and Richie Zisk followed with a run-scoring base hit to center.

Phillies 7, Astros 1

Steve Carlton pitched a five-hitter for his fifth straight victory and Mike Schmidt belted his 32nd home run as Philadelphia beat Houston. Carlton, 15-4, struck out six and walked two in earning his 10th triumph in his last 11

The Phillies rattled Houston starter Joaquin Andujar and relievers Bo McLaughlin and Joe Sambito for 17 hits, including four hits for Jay Johnstone that boosted the outfielder's average to a league-leading .344. He had his fourth home run, 30th double and two singles.

Dodgers 6, Mets 5

Steve Garvey blasted a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning and Ron Cey followed with a game-winning solo shot as Los Angeles rallied for a comeback victory over New York.

Trailing 5-2 entering the ninth, Ted Sizemore and Bill Buckner led off the inning with singles, and Garvey followed with his eighth home run to tie the score. Bob Apodaca replaced Skip Lockwood, and Cey followed with his 20th homer to give the Dodgers their fourth straight victory.

West, Cooke bury the hatchet

Cooke ended his feud with Jerry West, hired the all-star basketball player to coach his Los Angeles Lakers and now undoubtedly will demand a championship team.

West had filed a $6-million suit against Cooke claiming the owner hadn't lived up to his last playing con-

Cooke had filed a $2-million countersuit claiming West hadn't Called "Mr. Clutch" and "Zeke from Cabin Creek" in reference to his West Virginia background, West joined the Lakers in 1960 when they moved from Minneapolis to Los Angeles. On 13 occasions, he was the National Basketball Association's all-star guard.

Admitting he'll be under pressure, West said, "I haven't seen the player

Cooke pondered his coaching selection for six months after the end of the NBA season, the second in a row in which the Lakers failed to reach the playoffs. Then he announced that Bill Sharman would have a front office job. That turns out to be assistant general manager.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A younger Woody
Hayes treated nonconference football games as fin, the only two-time Heisman Trophy winner; mere exhibitions preparatory for Big Ten Conquarterback Cornelius Greene; wingback Brian replacement in sophomore Rod Gerald. Grif mere exhibitions preparatory for Big Ten Conference championship bids.

The stormy Ohio State coach, now silver-haired and 62 years old, has altered that philosophy. "You have to play for keeps right away now," he says. "Teams are so much better."

Perhaps the Big Ten power's schedule is the reason. The Buckeyes start with Michigan State, Penn State, Missouri and UCLA, the toughest in Hayes' 26 Ohio State seasons. Hayes' burning desire to win a third Associated Press national championship before he retires could be behind his theory to treat all opponents alike.

HE HAS taken teams to five of the last six Rose Bowls, losing all but one. In most cases, the defeats cost Hayes that coveted national title. The most upsetting was last January when unheralded UCLA torpedoed the Buckeyes 23-10, dropping the Big Ten champions from first to fourth in the final poll.

"I haven't discussed the Rose Bowl and I won't," said the disciplinarian who has turned out a 213-63-8 record in 30 college seasons.

The Buckeyes, 11-1-0 last season, lost eight of 11 offensive starters and 12 of 22 over-all.

Baschnagel; offensive tackle Scott Donnelley, and safety Tim Fox.

Still, Hayes refuses to discuss any team weaknesses, preparing for a controversial home opener with Michigan State Sept. 4. The Michigan State campus newspaper, in a series of preseason stories, charged the Buckeyes with recruiting viola-

"IT'S GOING TO be a dandy," Hayes will only say of the Big Ten opener against the Spartans.

"I want other coaches to find our weaknesses. They might be different than what they expect. It's like a poker player who doesn't turn over his hole cards until the hand is over," said the Ohio State

It's no secret the Buckeyes' strengths will be Pete Johnson, a 247-pound fullback who led the nation in Hayes believes he has a capable quarterback replacement in sophomore Rod Gerald. Griffin's old position will fall to 184- pound junior Jeff Logan or Ron Springs, a heralded junior college transfer.

Best of the defenders are tackles Nick Buonamici and Eddie Beamon, middle guard Aaron Brown, linebacker Ken Thompson and deep backs Bruce Ruhl and Ray Griffin, Archie's brother.

Griffin was offered a chance to go for his older.

Caps, Mets share lead in East

By The Associated Press

El Paso's Lawrence Rush clubbed a three-run homer to cap a five-run Diablo outburst and propell El Paso to an 8-5 win over Midland and back into first place in the Texas League West Division Thursday night.

There is also a new situation atop the East Division standings, as Shreveport's 3-2 win over Lafayette and Arkansas' 5-0 whitewashing of Jackson left the Captains and the Mets in a dead heat for first place. In other Texas League action Thursday night, San Antonio shaded Amarillo 2-1.

El Paso's win, coupled with Amarillo's loss, left the Diablos with a onehalf game over the Gold Sox in the West.

San Antonio left-hander Rich Shubert, 2-5, and reliever Bobby Cuellar combined for a four-hitter. Cuellar recorded his 12th save of the season. Jay Franklin, 5-4, took the loss for Amarillo.

Arkansas' John Young drove in three runs and hurler John Urrea, 11-8, twirled a shutout in the Travelers' win over Shreveport took a 3-0 ead early and held off a Driller rally to grab a share of first place in the East. Rod Scerry, 8-6, got the win and David Fuqua.

Bowl champs start over again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Rose Bowl victory over Ohio State gave UCLA's 1975 football team a 9-2-1 record and a ranking as the fifth best team in the United States but the Bruins would rather not be put on the Quarterback John Sciarra and two of his top offensive linemen, Randy Cross and Phil McKinnely, and defensive ace Cliff Frazier have graduated and Coach Dick Vermeil has left for the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles. But the man who'll take over for Sciarra says UCLA didn't make it to the forefront of college football in one

"We're still just gaining round," said articulate Jeff Dankworth. "We have a lot of young people who got their first taste of what it's like to be in a Rose Bowl game. Heck, we're only picked to be third in our own

Yet the Pacific-8's defending champion has a lot of talent back from 1975 including its top ground gainer, Wendell Tyler, its best tight ends, Ricky Walker and Don Pederson, and the bulk of a defense which was maligned at the start of last year but came on to play exceptionally well.

"We'll run the Veer again," said Dankworth, but he added there was a slight change: "there will be a dif-ference in the way the quarterback handles the ball.

"Under Pepper Rodgers, the quarterback kept the ball until he was just about to get destroyed and then he flipped it off to one of his backs. This year I'm going to get rid of it a little faster — which is to give credit to our great backs."

Tyler a Sfoot-10 188-pounder

Tyler, a 5-foot-10, 188-pounder, gained 1,388 yards last year despite playing seven games with a severely sprained left wrist which was heavily wrapped in tape. "Nobody knew the agony I was in," he said. "It'll be more fun without worrying about the wrist this year." wrist this year."

Tyler has gained 2,178 yards in two seasons and needs just 317 more to break the school career rushing record set by Kermit Johnson between 1971 and 1973.

New Coach Terry Donahue was UCLA's offensive line coach last year, and he turned the front five into a swift, potent group. This year he has a massive rebuilding job to do in that

THE TEXAS Aggies, owning the top defense in the nation in 1975, hope to overcome the psychological shellshock of winning 10 games in a row then losing to Arkansas in a showdown for the Cotton Bowl and eventually to Southern Cal in the Liberty Bowl.

The Aggies return another hardhitting defense but a suspect offense despite the presence of 230-pound fullback George Woodard and the most sought after schoolboy running back in the state, Curtis Dickey.

"I thought we had an excellent season," said A&M Coach Emory Bellard. "We return a solid nucleus of starters. I think more than two or three teams have a good shot at the championship. It looks like nearly all of our conference opposition will be stronger in 1976."

"Maturity, experienced depth at most positions, an outstanding offensive line and a desire to get back into the bowl business are the big things going for the Bears," says Coach Grant Teaff. "Arkansas, Texas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Baylor I think have good teams returning and you can't overlook the others for a minute." Injured quarterback Mark Jackson injured quarterback Mark Jackson returns healthy after an impressive spring as does tailback Cleveland Franklin, who established a school single season rushing record of 1,112 yards last year. However, Franklin was one of the big culprits as the Bears lost 38 of 65 fumbles.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) -If Earl Campbell's thick thigh can withstand the stretches and strains of fall football workouts, the Texas Longhorns could romp during the regular season.

Campbell, a 231-pound junior with enough speed to outrun many defensive backs, missed spring training with a pulled hamstring, muscle, and published reports pictured Longhorn coaches as fearful it would keep him out in the fall.

"Earl has a 28 %-inch thigh. That's a lot more to pull than the average leg." says Coach Darrell Royal, "but the story was blown way out of proportion. He's running full speed."

Kuhn sets playoff

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Officials at the Tennis Week Open awaited word here today on whether more women players would drop out of the tournament in reaction to the schedule

NEW YORK (AP) - Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced Thursday that the American and National League playoffs will begin on Saturday, Oct. 9, with an afternoon and night game each day to be na-tionally televised.

The World Series will get under way a week later.

The American League playoffs will open the afternoon of Oct. 9 in the park of the West Division champion. The National League playoff starts that evening on the field of the Eastern champion. The following day the NL switches to an afternoon game with the AL going at night.

After an off day, the best-of-5 series resume on Tuesday, Oct. 12, with an afternoon game in the NL West park and a night game on the AL East field.

If necessary, the leagues switch starting times Wednesday and again on Thursday. All afternoon games will start at 2:15 p.m., CDT, and night contests at 7:15 p.m., CDT. ABC-TV will Scott said when he talked to Cathy May she said, "She would follow the leaders" and not compete.

"The second reason that the 15 girls were dropped was because the Women's Tennis Association issued a letter to its players withdrawing its sanction of the tournament," Scott said. "The letter says that a man is playing in our tournament. The letter is patently incorrect."
