Telephone Company today filed with the Public Untility Commission a combined request for an increase in telephone rates that would average 20 per cent throughout the state.

The increases would produce $298.3 million in additional net operating revenues and expense savings for Southwestern Bell, the company said.

For Midland, the monthly rate for a one-party residence telephone would rise from $4.75 to $8.15 with the rate for an extension phone going from $1 each to $1.50 each. Two-party residence service would rise from $3.50 to $5.85 per month.

The monthly charge for a one-party business telephone would go from the tensions from $1.50 each to $2.25 each commission for increased revenues. For example, wages on our intrastate operation last year amounted to $442.9 million. In 1971 this expenditure was $236.2-million," Rogers said.

He said the new rate structure would provide the company a return of its investment in Texas of 9.5 per

"This return is the minimum necessary to allow the company to maintain a sound financial position that, in turn, will allow us to continue to expand and improve service as we go forward," Rogers said.

Tone increase in local monthly telephone rates would result in $110.6 million annually before taxes, less than half the total proposal, Rogers

The new monthly rates for oneparty residential telephones would range from $7.25 in cities with up to 3.200 telephone numbers to $11.50 for first-tier service in metropolitan cities with more than 850,001 telephone numbers. Midland would be in the rate group for up to 60,000 telephone numbers. The range for one-party business telephones is from $16.95 to $35.80 for metropolitan first-tier service. The standard charges for extensions would be the same in all rate groups: The statewide increase in coin telephone rates from 10 cents to 20 cents would produce $8.2 million annually. Rogers said this increase is necessary to reduce the amount of support other services are making to coin telephone service, which is not paying its way.

"The dime coin call went into effect 20 years ago. The cost of providing the coin telephone alone has increased 400 per cent since then. Other rates for basic telephone service have to be increased to cover rising costs," he said. The 20-cent rate already is in effect in more than 50 cities in Texas, including Midland.

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

The number of elementary grades to be included in the final school desegregation plan for Midland is a subject for negotiation among the parties in the case, school board president Joe Dominey said Tuesday after the school board met in executive session with its attorneys.

We are in a position of negotiating on how many grades will be acceptable to the other parties in the

Keeping students at the third grade level and below in the neighborhood school is "very important," he said. Although the court order issued by U.S. District Judge D. W. Suttle directed desegregation beginning at the first grade level, Dominey said the board had been advised by legal counsel that "if the other parties in the lawsuit can agree on a plan, then Mr. (John) Skogland (the court's special master assigned to design a plan) would be receptive."

The parties now in the case are the school district as defendant, the U.S. Justice Department and a group of intervenors led by Dr. Viola Coleman. The Justice Department and the intervenors are listed as plaintiffs in the

If agreement among the parties is reached, the judge could still turn down the plan but there would be "good reason to appeal," Dominey.

Dominey said the issue of the number of schools which are racially identifiable because of intentional (de jure) segregation is "still important" but declined to say how important it is in the negotiations. The school district maintains that Crockett, Milam and Pease elementary schools are racially identifiable because of housing patterns and not because of school district action. These schools were officially listed as racially

Storms pelt Basin, more rain expected

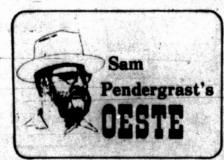

Midland no picnic without ants

Once upon a time, during a tenure with a lesser newspaper, I was attacked by a letter-writer I came to call the "anonymous muckophile" because he, she, or it wanted me to scare up something nasty about some of the towns in Oestexas. (I asked the yearner for unpleasant truth to give me the name of its hometown for a start, and the letters ceased.)

But I do need to come up with something negative from time to time lest some chamber of commerce want to draft me as its public relations

And it's been a problem in the Basin, frankly. Even my attitude toward the school board in Midland improved somewhat when I met board member Ed Runyan, Superintendent James Mailey, and Midland Concerned Citizens Council volunteer attorney Timber Floyd within an hour of each other during the weekend and found them earnest, congenial and reasonable. So, whatever the courts rule and whatever integration plans evolve from current multifaceted talks, I'm hopeful the Midland schools will survive and continue to do a good job educating our young people.

But I have come up with a lew minor elements of Basin life that bug me enough to talk about:

quarter parking meters downtown seem marginally outrageous where parking space isn't at a premium (and some of those pocket-change eaters are so inscrutable I can't tell whether I'm going to get five minutes for a dime or nothing for a quarter). I'm not too crazy about that parking lot at the Midland Post Office, which seems to have been designed by the resident architect of some demolition derby, with cars invited to back into one another across the too-small lot, one another across the too-small lot, an often blind exit into Wall Street traffic when laundry trucks are using the drive-up depository, and the sole entry to the lot handily adjacent to a green light capable of rendering peak-hour traffic a General Motors jackstraw game.

To make this a Basin-wide peeve session, how about that Interstate 20 entry off Grant in Odessa which, with its uphill access and short entry lane, is the closest thing to Russian Roulette on wheels hereabouts?

But my favorite complaint so far has been about the Midland mer-chants' attitude toward checks. You'd think, with much of the Tall of a tank of gas), and I had to visit three different service stations before I could get somebody to accept a check right after I moved here.

And the guy who did—at a Fina station on Florida— had to get out of the business the next week because he discovered he's allergic to gasoline.

So I've been pumping my own at the Kent station down the street and wishing I had a more honest face or more gas dealers liked to live dangerously.

Cleveland school board to appeal

Cleveland school board says it will appeal a federal judge's order to devise within 90 days a plan to integrate the city's public schools.

The city board said it would appeal U.S. District Court Judge Frank Battisti's ruling to the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.. The state board, named with the city board as a defendant in the suit brought by the NAACP, has not yet decided whether to appeal.

The NAACP charged that the schools in Cleveland were unconstitutionally segregated. Battisti said Tuesday that more than 90 per cent of the black children in the school system attend schools that are predominantly of one race although the 127,000 blacks make up only 57 per cent of the school population.

Cleveland's suburbs were not parties to the suit, and Battisti's ruling did not involve them. But a footnote to his decision left open the possibility that a solution could be integration of the city's schools with suburban volvement will be considered during the remedy stage, "and in this regard, there is nothing to prevent the state board from finally commencing the carrying out of its responsibilities.

Battisti rejected the school board contention that segregation in Cleveland was a result of housing patterns.

As in other Northern city cases, the Cleveland school board was found guilty of using a variety of techniques to create and maintain segregation. These techniques include determination of school boundary lines, granting of special transfers, assignment of faculty, use of optional attendance zones, and locations of new schools.

Battisti told the school system not to start any new school construction without his approval, and he ordered the system to provide him within 20 days a list of any construction projects now underway "so that equitable review can be given such plans."

DEAR ERICA: A couple of months ago in your column you mentioned doing huge cabbage roses on your Victorian love seat. I'd love to do one of those roses in crewel, but those of us who don't have your N.Y sketching ability are at a loss. Could you tell me where I could get a transfer of such a rose or a good source of reference where to find a good picture of one?—Mrs. T. Wolf, Camp Hill, Pa-

It's a pillow-14 inches by couch—by joining several stitched squares together to make a sofa cover. Or a bedspread. Or bench seat to make a sofa cover. Or a bedspread. Or bench seat.

DEAR ERICA: Many years ago I came into possession of church altar hangings. I took them as they were going to be thrown away! They must be over 100 years old, and the silk all around the embroidery has just rotted away. I would be very grateful if you could tell me what to do with it.— Helen Nelson, Brooklyn, N.Y.

DEAR HELEN: I shudder to think how many priceless embroidered pieces have gone the way of the garbage dump because of those who don't appreciate the time and talent that went into creating them. But at least with people like you around, there is hope for those as yet undiscovered heirlooms in attics across the country.

Put some linen in an embroidery frame—a piece large enough to cover the whole area of your frontal. Then take the rotted embroidery and lay it over the surface of the linen. Baste it and then cut away the bad material around the embroidery little by little sewing it down as you go so that the whole design stays in its original shape. You can use that clear nylon thread to sew it down with and your stitches will be completely invisible.

Mobile wall cover adds decorating drama to room

By BARBARA HARTUNG

Copley News Service
Q. My husband and I are living in an apartment where we expect to remain only for about a year. However, we would like to add some decorating drama to the walls of our living room, which are drab. How can we do this without making expensive investments in materials which we will have to leave when we move? We like modern things. - I.P.J.

A. Wall-covering designer Jack Denst suggests one solution for persons such as yourself. It is to you feel that involves too much exmount an imaginative wall covering pense, consider an old breakfront or on a giant screen that becomes mobile welsh cupboard. If the piece is old when you move. For convenience, he created a screen in three sections for Repairing rugs easier mounting and moving.

You might use any sort of covering for the screen you find you especially like - either wallpaper, a mural or fabric. The colors in the screen could set the color scheme for your furniture and add plenty of personality to the room immediately. Don't overlook your ability to create your own designs if you are artistic. Cover the screens in a muslin or off-white yarn for a neat job of cotton and create your own abstract or realistic designs.

Q. We are living in a 1930s home which we are remodeling. I would like a traditional feeling in a dining room we are adding to the house. One wall of the room is natural brick which I intend to paint white. Floors will be wood. I'd like soft pastels in the room

Officials still negotiating number of elementary grades affected

Thus, Baskin said, children would to to a school in their areas, if not their own neighborhood schools, for one of the last three grades in elementary school

Baskin said the chief advantage of the plan is that it would distribute the burden of desegregation so that no area would be less involved than another area.

Dr. Clark Johnson, of the Rusk parents group, suggested a com-bination of a "cultural center" for grades one through three and a magnet school for grades four

Under his plan, kindergarten would be unaffected. "Mixed groups" from grades one through three would go to a cultural center once or twice a week for certain kinds of instruction, to be determined by the school board. They would remain in their neighborhood schools the remainder of the time.

Fourth through sixth grades would be desegregated through voluntary assignment to a magnet school. Johnson said he would prefer to involve as few grades as possible. In response to a question from trustee Ann Page on which facilities would be used, Johnson suggested the Midland High School building since it is in a "neutral area," with a new campus constructed for Midland

He also said the Carver and Bunche facilities might be used. Dominey read a letter from the board of directors of Casa de Amigos urging the board to "spread the burden of inconvenience broadly through the district."

He also read a letter from Terry A. Nabi advocating a "uniform level plan" with all city students in a given grade attending schools completely devoted to that grade. She said such a plan would improve the quality of teaching.

Dominey said citizens can communicate ideas and suggestions to the board through schools superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey.

The attorneys in the case scheduled a meeting for this morning to continue their discussions.

would produce $26.5 million annually. The current maximum charge for Midland of one residential telephone is $17 and the maximum charge for one business telephone is $30. "We still are not recovering the services are making toward this activity," Rogers said. Long distance rate increases within the state would produce another $43.7 million annually, with the biggest increases placed on calls handled by operators. Some customer-dialed calls would decrease in cost, Rogers said. These are calls of 51 miles or less and calls of more than 133 miles. The reductions are for the first minute. The new schedule of rates could go into effect Oct. 7 unless suspended by the Public Utilities Commission under the provisions of the law which total installation cost but the new the commission will schedule a rates will reduce the support other hearing to consider the request.

Rogers said he hopes the commission expedites consideration of the request and "issues its order allowing us the rate relief we so desperately need at an early date."

Bell officials this morning delivered 11 sets of the request, each set consisting of about six boxes filled with documents, in a rented truck.

A spokesman for the commission said the request would be taken under study and set for public hearing later. One copy of the request will be made available to the public in the commission's office. A preliminary hearing to "classify" those for and against the rate increase will be held in 15 days.

Young brave has 'Y' tradition

Brave Lightning is more than a nickname for young Midlander Shelby Bond. It is a family tradition.

Shelby is a member of the Midland YMCA Indian Guide program, with his grandfather, W. G. Thorsen of 1607 Holloway St. Thorsen and his son Dan also were members of the program in the first Midland tribe, "Apaches."

Both Shelby and his uncle were named Brave Lightning. Now more than 20 years old, the Midland Indian Guide Program has 15 guide tribes and seven princess tribes. Nationwide, Thorsen said, the program began in 1927 and now has 500,000 members.

Based on the tradition of some American Indian cultural groups, the guide program emphasizes the son's learning directly from his father, or in the case of Shelby, from his grand-

The purpose of the program is to strengthen a healthy father-son relationship in a variety of activities. The Y-Indian Princess program is a similar group for fathers and daughters. A new year for the Y-Indian program will start in this month, Thorsen said, adding that interested persons may call John McVicker at Shelby has been in the program

The present school will be demolished in November to make room for a new building approved by voters in a July bond election, schools superintendent Mel Williams said.

Williams said the trustees decided to use temporary buildings instead of converted mobile homes because the mobile homes have "no flexibility" and could accommodate classes of only 20 students.

Enrollment in Greenwood schools as of Tuesday was 284 students, up by 36 from the highest enrollment last year of 248. Williams said enrollment will climb during the year and predicted a 20 per cent increase this year, as opposed to the usual 10 per cent increase for the district.

In other action, the trustees amended the 1975-76 budget to conform to actual expenditure during the year. The original $550,246 budget was amended to $514,292. Williams said the decrease came from all budget classifications.

Investigators plan audit on MCAA

Dallas will be in Midland today to begin a three-day audit of the Midland Community Action Agency's books. The audit comes in the wake of the firing of the agency's executive director, Carol Burns, by the board of directors last week.

The investigation is the result of a letter sent by Winfree Brown, county commissioner and member of the agency's board of directors, to Michael Allen, director of the Economic Opportunity Division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs. Such an investigation can, by law, be initiated only at the reguest of an elected official.

The investigators are John W. Cardwell, Lupe Langoria and Hadi Mahrous of the Texas Department of Community Affairs, Austin, and an agent from the Community Services Administration in Dal

Charlie Welch, county commissioner and board member, said today the personnel committee has not yet met to discuss selection of a new director for the agency, but that an ad will probably be run in the paper in the next week or two. The ad, he said, also will include openings for two bus drivers, to drive the minibuses the agency is receiving from Dallas for its senior citizens program.

Debate negotiations continue

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford and Jimmy Carter are sending their rival negotiators back to work to draft ground rules for the presidential campaign debates both candidates

The major issue to be settled as negotiators return to work today apparently is the question of what the candidates will debate.

Republican Ford and Democrat Carter both have proposed that their personal campaign specialties be staked out as topics for the first debate, likely to be conducted during the third week of September.

Those proposals, like the issues of the number, duration and timing of the debates, may yield to compromise in order to get the show on before the national television audience.

Ford summoned his two chief negotiators on debate arrangements to a Tuesday night White House meeting to give them final instruc-

He met with Dean Burch, a Washington lawyer and former White House aide, and former Deputy Atty. Gen. William Ruckelshaus, on the debate situation, but his spokesman would not discuss their plans.

Carter already has said that the initial negotiating session last Thursday produced a tentative plan for a series of three debates, each 75 minutes long, beginning the third week in this

Each candidate has three representatives in the debate talks, being conducted by officials of the League of Women Voters, the group that has offered to sponsor the joint appearances. All sides agreed after the first meeting that they would not disclose the terms under discussion until there was a final agreement on debates and the rules to be followed.

"We intend to keep our part of the bargain," White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said. Nessen insisted no agreement had been reached, but said there had been progress in the talks.

The League of Women Voters got clearance on Monday from the Federal Election Commission to sponsor and finance the debates, which could cost $150,000.

But there remained a possibility that independent candidate Eugene J. McCarthy or former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, candidate of the American Independent party, might go to court in an effort to block televised debates matching only Ford and Carter.

Under current law, television and radio networks could broadcast campaign debates between the major party candidates, without being required to provide equal time to minor candidates, so long as the debates were independently staged and were covered as news events.

While the debate talks were resumed, Carter returned to Plains, Ga., after a day of campaigning in Washington and New York.

In Washington, the presidents of 109 AFL-CIO unions promised a massive voter registration and turnout campaign in behalf of the Democratic ticket. Carter also met Tuesday with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who said he would actively campaign for the Carter ticket.

Carter met privately with the Na-tional Council of Catholic Bishops, and got a cooler reception there because he has declined to support a constitutional amendment to forbid abortion.

Carter also renewed his proposal that the terms of chairmen of the Federal Reserve Board coincide with those of presidents. The board governs the nation's money supply, and its members are appointed to 14year terms, with one member designated chairman.

While the proposal is one Carter made repeatedly during the presidential primary campaign, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon issued a quick rebuttal to Carter's renewed suggestions.

Simon's statement, issued through the Ford campaign committee, said,

"While Mr. Carter's words are typically vague and general, they represent nothing less than a thinly disguised plan to politicize the nation's monetary system."

Both candidates for vice president were campaigning Tuesday, with Sen. Walter Mondale meeting Democratic officials in California and Sen. Bob Dole arguing in Delaware that the Republican party was not involved in Watergate.

Mondale, Carter's running mate, met Tuesday with California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and Brown renewed his promise to campaign for the Democratic ticket in the nation's most populous state.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Four years after hundreds of persons died when two dams collapsed, not a of single dam has been inspected for safety under a law rushed through Congress in response to the

The inspection program remains unfunded, basically because of disagreement over who should inspect or pay for the inspections of the more than 49.000 nonfederal dams covered by the law.

Congress hasn't appropriated any money to pay for federal inspections, the White House hasn't asked for any such money and the states say they can't afford to pay for the inspections.

Like the two dams that prompted enactment of the federal law, these nonfederal dams were built by states, local governments and private companies. The Army Corps of Engineers has estimated that it would cost $73.5 million to inspect the dams. Testifying before a House subcommittee Tuesday,

Brig. Gen. Drake Wilson of the Army Corps of Engineers said "no inspections have been performed due to limited funding. Wilson later said in an interview that the Army engineers had been given funds to compile an in-

NFL players reject owners' offer

CHICAGO (AP) - National Football League player represen-tatives have rejected the contract offer by team owners that sparked a fierce internal battle between their oft-controversial executive director and their union president.

The action Tuesday, after 11 hours of secret meetings, continues the rift between owners and players which in the last 21/2 years has triggered one preseason walk-out, one wildcat strike and harsh feeling on both sides.

"I honestly don't know where we go from here," said a disconsolate Dick Anderson, the injured safety for the Miami Dolphins who as president of the NFL Players Association had worked out the proposal with owners

"Sometimes you win, sometimes you lose, sometimes you get rained out. The game will go on." Anderson He and three other members of the seven-man NFLPA Executive Committee supported acceptance of the offer. They were opposed by Ed Garvey, executive director of the players' union who some members would like to see ousted.

"It was a plan I felt was good and tried to sell," said Anderson. "Yeah, I'm disappointed, I feel at this point it's the best offer we're going to get."

Garvey has witheld public comment regarding his personal feeling on the offer, but a source close to him said he feared acceptance would negate players' rights already won in

Nevertheless, at a brief news conference following the marathon session, Garvey said no single point of the 70-page offer was the decisive factor in rejection. Rather, he said, it was the package as a whole.

By a majority vote, the Executive Committee summoned each of the 28

NFL teams' representatives to grapple with the proposal and decide whether to submit it to a vote of all the NFLPA players.

But the question never got that far. After procedural haggling and a point-by-point debate, the representatives instead approved a motion "to table discussion" of the offer "pending further negotiations and clarifications." In effect, Garvey said later, the vote meant rejection.

Oilers face season of discontent

HOUSTON (AP) - This has been the Houston Oilers' preseason of discontent.

Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips, who directed the Oilers to a well orchestrated 10-4 record in the National Football League last season, has not had the luxury of a trouble-free training camp this year.

Injuries and losses have mounted simultaneously, a trade for running back Altie Taylor did not come off smoothly and then there was the publicized scuffle between defensive end Tody Smith and linebacker Gregg Bingham.

You'd think by now, going into Saturday's preseason finale against Dallas with an 0-5 record, that the easy-going Phillips would be ready to take tweezers in hand and pull out each hair on his flat-top hair style.

But losing control is not the Phillips Phillips says Taylor, who failed to report earlier because of mental exhaustion, is due out of a Detroit hospital today and if he gets here in time will play against the Cowboys. Phillips, in his easy-going, tobacco-chewing, domino-playing approach, says the injury situation is improving. and as for the Smith-Bingham scuffle. well, training camp fights are a dime a dozen. "I would have been nice to go through training camp without any injuries like last year," Phillips said. 'But that's hurt us this year. W had four starters (including the entire three-man front) out for the New York Jets game.

"We looked at a lot of extra people longer because we had to. Last year we played our number ones together and then looked at the rest. In a clutch, we could bring our number ones back. "This year, we've had to play our number twos and then slip in our number threes.

As injuries mounted, striking particularly at the running back position were starters Ronnie Coleman and Fred Willis are on the preseason injury list, Phillips traded draft choices to get Joe Dawkins from the New York Giants and Taylor from Detroit.

But the day after the trade for Taylor, the Oilers discovered the runner in a hospital suffering from what doctors said was mental exhaustion.

"If he gets here tomorrow," Phillips said Tuesday, "we'll play him some in this game."

But Phillips comes closest to swallowing his chewing tobacco in rage when someone mentions the training camp scuffle between Smith and Bingham.

"We've been having them ever since I've been coaching," Phillips said. "They go on in high school and college and the pros are no different. And when it's over, the ones involved are the best of friends."

Goltz two hits Brewers

By The Associated Press

Dave Goltz fired a two-hitter and struck out a career-high 11 batters Tuesday night, pitching the Minnesota Twins to a 4-0 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers in the first game of a doubleheader.

Goltz, 11-13, set down the first 15 batters he faced and had a no-hitter through 61-3 innings until Bill Sharp broke it up with a ground single to right. Among his strikeout victims were Von Joshua and Sixto Lezcano, three times each.

STEVE BRYE belted a three-run homer to pace the Twins' attack on Bill Travers, 15-11. Brye also scored Minnesota's other run, on a single by Craig Kusick.

The Brewers came back to gain a split of the twinbill as Von Joshua's two-run single in the seventh inning snapped a 3-3 tie. Bill Slaton, 14-11, went all the way for Milwaukee, which pinned the loss on Minnesota relief ace Bill Campbell, 13-4.

ELSEWHERE IN the American League, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Kansas City Royals 4-3, the Texas Rangers beat the Boston Red Sox 8-3, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-2 in 10 innings, the California Angels topped the Detroit Tigers 6-3 and the New York Yankees trimmed the Oakland A's 2-1.

Jim Palmer, the winningest pitcher in the AL, raised his record to 19-11 by stopping the Royals, with eighthinning relief help from Dyar Miller. Ken Singleton drove in two runs for Baltimore and Al Bumbry scored three times.

ROY HOWELL knocked in three runs and Tom Grieve belted a two-run homer to power Taxas over Boston. Duane Kuiper's fourth consecutive single launched a three-run rally in the 10th inning that gave Cleveland its victory

Nolan Ryan scattered eight hits and struck out 11 for California. In the process he became the 29th pitcher in major league history to reach 2,000 strikeouts for his career.

Graig Nettles slammed a two-run homer in the seventh inning to back the three-hit pitching of Doyle Alexander for the Yankees.

DAVE PARKER'S two-run homer backed the four-hit pitching of Jerry Reuss as Pittsburgh beat Padres ace Randy Jones, 20-10. Ken Henderson hit a two-run double in a three-run sixth inning outburst that carried Atlanta past Chicago. Doug Rau combined with Charlie Hough on a sevenhitter for the Dodgers.

Roy Staiger snapped an 0-for17 streak with a seventh inning single and scored the tying run, then singled home the go-head tally in the eighth for the Mets. J.R. Richard fired a sixhitter and Bob Watson drove in two runs for Houston, which posted its sixth consecutive victory.

Ladies Night

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas on the team. But the Cowboys must cut or trade one man from the list of Duane Thomas, Doug Dennison, Ron Johnson and Scott Laidlaw

The Thomas situation had drawn the most interest because he is a former Super Bowl hero for the Cowboys who left the team in a massive personality conflict four years ago but has returned with a reformed outlook. 'Duane has to come on this week.'

said Landry. "He knows his situation, where he stands. He has to show up pretty strong against Houston because he hasn't had a real good game yet.

"The lower echelon of backs are competing and my final decision will be based on their performance, not what they might eventually do.'

The coach said he would make final decisions on the running back positions based on performances this summer, "not on what I think a player might do in the future."

Two veteran kickers also will be having their final chances to impress Landry. He said Toni Fritsch and Efren Herrera are going into the Oiler game about even.

Fritsch has led the Cowboys in scoring three of the last four years. He was injured in 1974 and Herrera led the team in scoring that season.

Landry also said at his weekly press luncheon that rookie wide receiver Duke Fergerson may be out for the season. Fergerson injured his right hand against Pittsburgh Saturday and underwent surgery Sunday.

Landry said he did not expect injured fullback Robert Newhouse and safety Cliff Harris to play against the Oilers, but one or both might see action in the first regular season game against Philadelphia Sept. 12.

NFC to stage wild race

By The Associated Press

It's going to be wild, wild, wild in the National Conference East Division this year.

And you can take that as gospel from a man who ought to know, Dallas Coach Tom Landry, active dean of National Football League coaches.

The 16-year coaching veteran says, "I can't think of a team that shouldn't be improved. Again, the race pro-bably won't be decided until the final Sunday and the division should produce a wild card team."

IN 1975, St. Louis captured the conference crown for the second consecutive year but Dallas dealt its wild card 10-4 record right into the Super Bowl, bowing 21-17 to Pittsburgh.

For years, the NFC East has been dominated by either Dallas, St. Louis or Washington. But Landry sees a revival at Philadelphia and particularly for the New York Giants two teams usually out of the race by October.

"The Giants helped themselves tremendously when they got Larry Csonka," says Landry. "He gives them a running threat to go with Craig Morton's passing."

THE GIANTS stunned Pittsburgh 17-0 in preseason without Csonka New York was 5-9 in 1975 but Philadelphia was even worse, 4-10. There's a new coach at Philadelphia-Dick Vermeil, who guided UCLA's Rose Bowl upset of SCOIES Ohio State. "There's usually a lot more enthusiasm on a team when a coaching

"We know more of what kind of defense to expect against us now when we go into the shotgun," says Landry.

THE REDSKINS tumbled to an 8-6 record and out of the playoffs last year for the first time in Goerge Allen's five seasons as Washington coach.

Allen, with money as no object, obtained running back John Riggins from the New York Jets, and signed Calvin Hill, who once played for the Dallas Cowboys. Hill is a World Football League refugee. We have a chance to have the best

The Giants' defense allowed 306 points in 1975 and face a rugged " schedule that includes Pittsburgh, Minnesota, Los Angeles and Detroit out of the division. The Giants have young but improving linebackers in Brad Van Pelt and Pat Hughes flanking Brian Kelley in the middle. Draftee Harry Carson rates high.

BUT ALL the talk is about Csonka and what his presence will mean to a hard-pressed offense. Csonka, 29, averaged 4.6 yards per carry through seven NFL seasons at Miami.

Joe Dawkins, traded to Denver recently, was New York's leading rusher with only 438 yards last year.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Johnny Rutherford holds a 250- point lead over Gordon Johncock and a 550point advantage over Al Unser in United States Auto Club championship car standings going into Sunday's California 500 at Ontario.

Bubby Jones was an unexpected winner in last Sunday's 100-miler at DuQuoin, Ill., but Johnny Parsons' fifth-place finish gave him the lead in the dirt car standings going into the Sept. 11 Hoosier 100 at Indianapolis. Parsons, with 260 points, vaulted ahead of Jones and second-place finisher Tom Bigelow, who are tied at 200 points each. Brian Redman, driver for Midland's Jim Hall, regained the Formula 5000 lead by winning the 80-mile, 20-lap race at Road America in Elkhart Lake, Redman beat Danny Ongais and Al Unser to the finish and now leads Jackie Oliver and Alan Jones by 32 points going into the series finale at Riverside, Calif., Oct. 17. Bay Darnell drove to victory in Saturday's 100-mile stock car race at DuQuoin, but point leader Butch Hartman increased his lead with a fourthplace finish. Don White was second in the race and Paul Hartman now leads Sal Tovella and Ramo Stott, ,670-1,455, going into the Sept. 12 Governor's Cup 250 at the Wisconsin State Fair.

Tommy Astone's victory in a 40-lap event at Hamburg, N.Y., on Friday night was his first USAC sprint car triumph, Pancho Carter, who finished fifth, still leads the standings, followed by Larry Dickson, Bigelow and Jan Opperman, driver for Midland's Bobby Hillin.

The next sprint car races are on Friday night at the Illiana Speedway in Schererville, Ind., and next Monday at the Sandusky International Speedway in Ohio.

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots of the National Football League received news Tuesday that wide receivers Randy Vataha and Steve Burks will be sidelined for extended periods because of injuries.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks said that Vataha will be sidelined four to six weeks. X-rays showed that the veteran receiver suffered a triple fracture of the left cheekbone in Monday night's 30-27 exhibition loss to the Browns in Cleveland.

Fairbanks said that Burks, one of the team's top preseason performers, will be out indefinitely. Burks suffered a right knee injury, possibly torn cartilage, and his leg was placed in a cast.

Offensive guard Steve Corbett, offensive tackle Leon Gray and defensive end Julius Adams were other casualties in the Patriots' next to last Corbett suffered a pinched nerve in his neck, a condition which has plagued him since his Boston College days. Corbett, who has undergone two operations for the ailment in three years, was sent to hospital for tests.

Gray and Adams reported knee injuries. However, the Patriots said neither was considered serious. The loss of Vataha and Burks leaves the team with just two wide receivers, veteran Darryl Stingley and rookie Willie Armstead of Utah.

Football season rolls around again

By BOB DILLON

It's that time of year again - thank goodness. That's right, the ole pigskin will again be pumped up with the opening of the 1976 schoolboy football season and this corner is excited about the prospects for fans in District 5-4A.

So without anymore hesitation in taking a saying from the late F.M. White - "Bring on the gladiators!" Six Games are scheduled Friday and one Saturday with teams from 5-

4A or the Little Southwest Conference. The only team not opening the season this week are the Rebels or Robert E. Lee High School. MIDLAND HIGH hits the road to the Panhandle and takes on the Amarillo Tascosa Rebels in Dick Bivins Stadium at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Midland is picked as high as third in 5-4A while Tascosa is also rated third in 3-4A behind Pampa and Amarillo High. Going to go with new Coach Jerry Hopkins to open with a bang. The Purple Pack to roll to a 27-7 victory.

SAN ANGELO has a tough opener with the Bryan Vikings, coached by former Abilene Cooper mentor stick with Smitty Hill's Bobcats to post a 28-14 victory.....

ODESSA HIGH has Darrell Shepard and Tim Holder in the backfield, but a line that is suspect as the Bronchos take on the big and burly Amarillo High Golden Sandies in W.T. Barrett Stadium Friday night. Going against the Red Hosses as much as I hate to. Amarillo to take 20-14 vic-

ABILENE COOPER and Brownwood hook up in their annual football opener in Brownwood. Gordon Wood is supposed to have his best team ever, but then Abilene beat the Lions in a scrimmage last week. Going to go with Ray Overton's Blue Crew to take a 20-16 victory....

ABILENE'S EAGLES have speed to burn and a dandy in Joe Jones. (He scored three times against Brownwood). But the Warbirds will have their hands full in P.E. Shotwell Stadium with powerful Wichita Falls Rider. It still should be a good ball game, however. Going to pick the Raiders to win, 22-13...

BIG SPRING opens the season under new Coach Donald Robbins against Class AAA Andrews. Robbins was successful in the middle 60s for the Steers. Have to go with a Class 14; Palo Duro over the Dumas AAAA team over Class AAA outfit, Demons, 22-8; Pampa to eke out 16-14 say, 20-13...

ODESSA PERMIAN has lots of talent and waits until Saturday night to open the season in W.T. Barrett Stadium against El Paso Coronado. Permian is favored to win 5-4A and Coronado is the pick in District 1-4A. The Harris Poll picks Mojo by three points. This corner goes with the Panthers to win by three — three touchdowns that is...

OTHER PICKS this weekend include: Pecos over El Paso Irvin, 28-15: Odessa Ector to upend Amarillo Caprock for second straight year, 20-win over 4-4A favorite Hereford; Wichita Falls over Lubbock Coronado, 20-14; Lubbock over Borger, 26-14; Monterey to post 26-12 win over Canyon; Sherman over L.D. Bell, 26-22; Trinity of Euluss under former Midland Coach John Reddell, to take 26-14 win over Denison; Arlington over Arlington Heights, 21-14; Longview over Dallas Carter, 26-20; John Tyler over Dallas Spruce, 30-13; Kashmere over Sterling, 34-14; Port Neches Grove over Pasadena Dobie, 30-19; Brazoswood to whip Angelton, 34-0 and San Antonio Churchill over Holmes, 27-7.

Free-spending Arabs

The Arab oil tycoons who have been living it up, so to speak, on their ever-mounting oil incomes are drawing criticism "back home."

It is interesting to note that one Kuwaiti newspaper referred to them as "the big bellies," and said they are spoiling the Arab fimage. The newspaper said further that they need to have their overseas woman-chasing and high living curbed by the government.

'The government should protect the citizens from exhausting their sexual and #inancial prowess in London," the newspaper said. "Isn't it the task of government to direct our citizens toward proper places and keep them away from immoral places which steal their money?"

It is said that approximately 70,000 Kuwaitis had been expected to visit London this summer, not to mention the petrodollar spenders from other oil sheikdoms which, like Kuwait, enforce an atmosphere of austerity at home. In Kuwait, for instance, women are veiled, liquor is prohibited and there are no nightclubs and few movies.

The newspaper Al Watan estimated that Kuwaiti vacationers spend about $100 million abroad and "this does not take into account the cash wasted at gambling tables, nightclubs and brothels, which are clever in swallowing our money.'

> It would seem that the oil sheikpretty good job in swallowing from over there.

United States dollars gained from high priced oil. It is only natural that the Arab oil tycoons would be big spenders while vacationing abroad.

It would seem, however, that more of the Arab dollars would be spent in the United States rather than in England. But London seems to be "the spot" for the big spenders this season.

Another newspaper, Al Siyasah. complains that Arabs celebrating in European nightclubs are ashamed to wear their traditional robes. "You can't find one wearing a clean Arab dress in Soho who takes pride in being an Arab," it said in describing the London entertainment scene.

The newspaper Al Qabas also was in a complaining mood, criticizing the recent purchase of London's Dorchester Hotel by unidentified Arabs.

"Instead of wasting large amounts on aristocratic palaces in Europe, these wealthy Arabs should have the sense of citizenship to invest their money in productive agricultural projects in the Arab world to serve our needy brothers," the newspaper said.

It is said that London pickpockets also have been having a field day, what with all the wealthy Arabs in town.

The big spending spree must have had a most favorable impact on Britain's economy.

And when the tycoons get back home and start their accounting process — look out for another doms themselves have done a increase in the price of crude oil

Krueger, more recently, came into prominence as a member of the House-Senate conference which came up with legislation to extend the life of the Federal Energy Administration. He was instrumental in getting the conference committee, and later the House, to adopt a measure decontrolling the price of crude oil from stripper wells.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

White House blocks 'no-fault'

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - The White House and the trial lawyers joined forces behind the scenes, it can now be reported, to block no-fault insurance.

The official record shows only that the Senate, by a 49-to-45 vote. recommitted S-354. But the story behind this routine development dramatizes how the people get their pockets picked by their own elected officials.

Senate bill S-354 would provide quick compensation for auto victims and would lower insurance premiums. For under no-fault, each insurance company would simply pay off its own policyholders without going to court.

This would cost the trial lawyers an estimated $1 billion in legal fees. The lawyers' loss would be the customers' gain, sinte the cost of litigation is passed on to the policyholders in the form of higher premiums.

But the trial lawyers had no intention of losing all that money. They hired the lobbying firm of Timmons and Company, which has more connections on Capitol Hill than the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. Its stars are two former White House lobbyists, William Timmons and Tom Korologos, who used to pull wires on Capitol Hill for ex-President Richard Nixon.

When Nixon departed the White House in disgrace, Timmons and Korologos hastily shifted allegiance to the new occupant. Timmons so ingratiated himself with President Ford that he became the President's convention manager in Kansas City. Korologos also enlisted in the Ford cause at the Kansas City convention.

The pair earn their living, however, lobbying for the special interests. Indeed, Timmons is known in the backrooms of Washington as "The Rainmaker," because he has been able to produce a downpour of benefits for his clients.

It looked bleak for the trial lawyers before they hired Timmons and Company. By private count, 56 senators were expected to support nofault insurance. The bill, therefore, appeared to be headed for certain It also had the support of Transportation Secretary William Coleman, whose experts had concluded that the legislation was "great for consumers." But something funny happened to S-354 on the way to the Senate floor.

President Ford ignored the advice of his transportation secretary and dispatched White House lobbyist Joe Jenckes to Capitol Hill to work against the bill. Jenckes and Korologos quietly huddled together, comparing notes and discussing Jenckes draws his salary from the taxpayers, and Korologos was paid by the trial lawyers. Yet they worked together in perfect harmony to benefit the trial lawyers at the expense of those taxpayers, at least, who pay automobile insurance premiums.

Jenckes acknowledged that he had lobbied against no-fault insurance and that he had conferred with Korologos. But Jenckes insisted that the White House and trial lawyers had not coordinated their efforts. Jenckes. Korologos and Timmons, nevertheless, pulled the switches that sidetracked S-354.

The best way for the special interests to show their appreciation for members of Congress, of course, is to contribute to their campaigns. With this in mind, the trial lawyers collected $352,304 in pledges to pass out to their friends on Capitol Hill. Another $445,500 in pledges was available, if more money was needed to win friends and influence congressmen.

Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R.-Md., for example, supported no-fault insurance the last time it came up in the Senate in 1974. He voted for it again this year inside the Senate Commerce

Then he had a talk with Korologos. Suddenly, the Senator had a change of heart, followed by a change of vote Not long afterwards, Korologos' clients, the trial lawyers, sent Beall a $5,000 campaign contribution. A spokesman said Beall still favors the 'no-fault concept" but thinks the regulation should be "left to the states.

Sen. Robert Stafford, R.-Vt., also voted for no-fault insurance in 1974. but voted to sidetrack a similar bill this year. The trial lawyers were so touched that they sent Stafford, too, a $5,000 campaign contribution.

The senator told us that he was visited by Korologos several weeks after the vote. According to Stafford's account, Korologos asked whether he would accept a contribution from the trial lawyers. The senator gratefully assented, and the $5,000 duly arrived. He changed his mind about no-fault insurance, he told our associate Gary Cohn, because of its "spotty record" and because his constituents showed no interest in it.

Footnote: A White House spokesman said President Ford believes no-fault insurance should be left to the states to decide. Neither Timmons nor Korologos returned our about it much any more but terroristic hijacking still is an occasional fact of life in many other parts of the world.

A CHANGING WORLD

The heroic Israeli rescue of over 100 hostages at Uganda's Entebbe airport late in June thrilled the world. The unsuccessful hijack attempt of an Israeli El Al airliner in Istanbul, Turkey, in July, with the deaths of four persons, including an American, indicated the increasing difficulty terrorists find in pulling off a successful kidnaping.

But, the thrilling story of the Uganda rescue has pretty much passed into history.

And, the Istanbul incident, in these times of accepted violence, wasn't much more than what newspapermen call a "one-day story.

Even more recently, in Cairo, Egyptian armed commandos disguised as maintenance workers stormed a hijacked Egyptian jetliner at Luxor airport, captured three armed hijackers and freed the crew and passengers unharmed.

So, the world sits back and waits for the next hijacking - in the Philippines, in Latin America, in Europe, in the Middle East, in Africa. And, does little or nothing.

The American Jewish Congress is putting pressure on the United States. on the international civil aviation community and on what it calls "the civilized nations of the world" to take American air travelers don't think drastic action to curb these periodic hijackings. Realistically, however, the AJC won't get very far - except perhaps limited success in keeping the problem before the public.

Its motives are proper but it faces a major though mostly unspoken problem that grows in the minds of many people throughout the world, including increasing numbers of Americans. The public, without regard to any validity in its attitude, sees such demands for action as strictly an Israeli or American Jewish propaganda effort. "The Jews are protesting again; they're getting a bit pushy again" is the tone of the reaction.

This is unfortunate but it is a fact despite a residue of admiration that continues to exist for the beleaguered tiny nation of Israel in the minds of most thinking Americans. If the American Jews had persuaded some other nation - particularly a Third Worlder - to demand anti-hijacking action, they might have succeeded; almost certainly would have succeeded in the United Nations as it is constituted today.

One demand of the American Jews was that the United States persuade the civilized world to seal off all countries that give sanctuary or support to hijackers. They also asked that U.S. aid be suspended to any such nation. They asked similar embargo action by airlines and pilots. Subsequently, after the Istanbul terrorism, the American Jews asked that the United States "quarantine" Libya. The Istanbul terrorists appeared to have been aided and abetted by Libya's strong man, Muammar Kaddafi.

Pressure has been put on Jimmy Carter and the Republicans to push such actions. However, little will come of the demands. One cannot help but recall U.N. action on the Uganda air piracy affair as an indication of the difficult job the Jews have in getting tough action.

Rather than obtaining strong U.N. pronouncements against the terroristic act, Israel with the help of the United States had to fight off being censured for rescuing the hostages.

Air hijackings still are a danger to international travelers. Israelis and Jews do the right thing in pushing for tough action. Plainly, however, the reaction is "I don't want to go to war over Israel." This is the low state to which affection for Israel has sunk productive. It is wrong but it is a fact of life in the United States and in many other "civilized" countries.

Jimmy's helper brings anger and apprehension

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Anger and aprehension swept through the Ford White House when presidential aides learned that Jimmy Carter's transition team was consulting a certain expert: Frederick V. Malek, one of Richard M. Nixon's most feared hatchet men. The apprehension stems from well-founded White House suspicions that Malek, now senior vice president at the Marriott Corp., gave Carter transition chief Jack Watson the old Nixon blueprint for taking over the government by replacing political appointments in 60 key slots. "In effect," contends one Republican, "Fred identified his own people, many of whom are still in their old jobs. Now, of course, these people are marked for quick execution and replacement. Malek and Watson both told us they met in Washington on transition problems — including political jobs to be filled — about two months ago, a meeting initiated by Watson. Both say they have no plans for future meetings. Both deny reports that they met again in Atlanta Aug. 9 (though Malek says he was in Atlanta that day on Marriott business)

Whether or not the Malek-Watson meeting was a oneshot affair, it deeply worries Republicans because Malek maintains ties with key figures in the Ford White House. That includes senior White House aide Jerry

Jones, Malek's former deputy. The fact that Watson solicited transition help from Malek can be ascribed either to naivete or to cynicism. Malek, 1972 deputy chairman of CREEP (the Committee to Reelect the President), was one of the most feared operatives in the Nixon adminsitration. A footnote: Malek, out of politics for the 1976 campaign, told us he is helping neither Carter nor President

BEHIND CONNALLY'S ANGER The real reason for John Connally's

unconcealed anger during the Republican convention in Kansas City can be traced to Richard Cheney, President Ford's top White House aide, who completely forgot to give Connally an urgent message.

When Connally showed up at the White House on July 27 to endorse Mr. Ford, the President asked him to be one of three party superstars to make a nominating speech for Mr. Ford (the other two: Vice President Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater).

Connally accepted with alacrity. One week later, on advice of top campaign aides, Mr. Ford decided that using his three big guns at the same time was a wasteful allocation of talent. He ordered Connally, Rockefeller and Goldwater scrubbed as nominators and scheduled Connally for a speech Tuesday evening, Aug. 17. Cheney, however, neglected to inform Connally.

Thus, when Mary Louise Smith, Republican national chairman, telephoned Connally Aug. 10 and asked if he would like to address the convention Aug. 17, he said no thanks, he would rather nominate the President Aug. 18. Mrs. Smith, who had never been told about the original plan, was thunderstruck. Word quickly leaked out from the Republican high command that Connally was playing hard to get and embarrassing the President, leading to anti-Connally news stories.

Not until Peter O'Donnell, former Texas Republican chairman who went to Kansas City with Connally, complained to the President Ford Committee (PFC) was it discovered that Cheney had never informed Connally of the schedule change.

For Connally, that was par for the course. Ever since Mr. Ford's primary campaign began, Connally has blamed White House staffers for one of the most badly organized campaigns in modern politics. Although pleased by the selection of Texan James A. Baker III as new PFC boss, Connally's confidence in the Ford White House remains near rock bottom

LONELY SCHWEIKER There was only one explanation for not inviting Sen. Richard Schweiker to the podium in the carefully conshow of good fellowship between President Ford and the Reaganites the last night of the Republican convention. The President had a completely open mind, despite Schweiker's humiliating putdowns of Jerry Ford as just not up to the job of chief of

But Ford operatives, after a careful canvass, decided that if Ronald Reagan's chosen running mate ever showed his face on the podium the convention would (as one told us) "rock with boos from Ford men who see Dick as a traitor and Reaganites who see him as an enemy.

Schweiker himself was sitting with Reagan when the President dramatically waved his arm and invited Reagan to the podium. Schweiker waited, expectantly and hopefully, for a similar summons but it never came. In that fraternal setting so carefully stage-managed by Mr. Ford's operatives, Schweiker was

The snail darter's friends, however, see more at stake than a little fish in TVA's proposed big pond. They want to preserve a lovely trout stream and the pretty valley that runs alongside in the shadow of the Great Smoky

"I don't have any particular love for the snail darter," acknowledges W.P. Boone Dougherty, the Knoxville lawyer who has argued the suit. 'Mainly what we're trying to do is save the whole eco-system of the

The snail darter case is not an isolated one. The endangered species list is becoming a popular tool for fighting all sorts of projects such as dams and highways. The list now contains nearly 600 species that cannot be disturbed by federal agency action. Among them are grizzlies, trout, crocodiles, wolves, butterflies and bats.

A major interstate highway has been blocked in southern Mississippi because excavation for an interchange would have potentially destroyed the habitat of the Mississippi sand hill crane, an endangered species numbering about 40 birds. The Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals enjoined construction on the interchange last December and gave the Department of Interior — which has strongly supported the endangered species legislation — a virtual veto over any highway plans that would violate the habitat.

Conservation groups tried to block an Army Corps of Engineers dam in southeastern Missouri's Meramec Basin because it threatened a species known as the Indian Bat. Two courts disagreed that the species was threatened with extinction and refused to enjoin the dam.

But the endangered species list keeps expanding and with it the number of potential law suits against federal projects. But the endangered species list

Moreover, the service is also considering adding endangered plant species to the list for the first time, giving them the same legal sanctuary as fish and animals. Some 1,700 species of plants — representing about 8 per cent of seed plants and ferns in the United States — may be darter's habitat.

included. Under the law, no federally financed project could proceed if it endangered the plants' habitats. The snail darter in the Little Tennessee River is a clear case of how the confrontations develop. Environmentalists had long opposed the TVA dam, which has been under construction since 1967, but had already lost their first court test

Its eggs would hatch only on the sandy, rocky bottom, in depths of no more than three or four feet. The reservoir envisioned by TVA would flood that section up to depths of 40 and 50 feet, which the Interior Department said would mean "total destruction" of the

The legal battle started when Hiram Hill, then a University of Tennessee law student, looked around for an interesting topic for his class in environmental law. He seized on the snail darter, got the support of con-servationists, marine biologists, and two law professors, and went to court seeking an injunction to stop TVA from moving a single rock or cutting a single tree.

Hill raised legal funds by selling

"Save The Snail Darter" T-shirts and bumper stickers, hired a lawyer, and got experts to testify that the species might vanish from the earth if the habitat was flooded

'The more work I did, the more discouraged I got about TVA," Hill recalls. "They think the snail darter is just a joke, just one more stumbling block for the dam. I want to save this fish just for the principle of the thing.

Who knows — next it'll be the Bald Eagle. It's just incredible to me."

The TVA jumped in with its own legal and scientific cadres. It sent divers down to examine the darter's eggs and breeding habits. It searched 43 nearby streams and rivers, hoping to find the species prospering in one of them (which would prove the Little Tennessee habitat wasn't critical after all). It transplanted 600 of the fish to one stream in hopes of proving they could survive. Recently, TVA said it had found at least one snail darter that had hatched in the new

District Court. Judge Robert L. Taylor agreed that the Tellico Reservoir, when filled with water. would smother the darter's eggs, kill off snails which are the darter's main food supply and destroy the fish's habitat.

But he said it would not be reasonable to halt construction of a dam on which $80 million has been spent. He noted that the snail darter was declared endangered in November 1975, nearly 10 years after Congress began appropriating money for the dam.

The Sixth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, however, issued an injunction prohibiting TVA from filling the reservoir when the dam is completed. That had been scheduled for next January. The circuit court will hear the appeal this fall, but the likelihood of an appeal from either side to the Supreme Court means the flooding at least will be deayed past that date.

All state employes now in single health plan

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Approximately 90,000 state employes who now are covered by 86 different group health insurance policies found themselves under a single plan today.

The new package will mean higher premiums for some employes, but others will get reductions, and most will receive wider benefits.

A new state law makes the single plan possible.

In the past, each state agency has had to negotiate group insurance for its employes, said Jim Sessions, who administers the state's Uniform Group Insurance Program. He said premium costs and policy benefits often depended on an agency's size and skill at the bargaining table.

It was not unusual, Sessions said, for employes of one agency to pay 50 per cent more than those working for another agency.

Generally, employes of the smaller agencies paid more because the insurance was cheaper when it could be spread among more people.

It is this principle that increases the buying power for state employes under a single plan.

Under the old arrangement, employes paid about 8 per cent of some $40 million in premiums to cover profits and administrative costs

Marines prowl Sierra in training program

PICKLE MEADOWS, Calif. (AP) -Thousands of Marines have been prowling through the high Sierra this summer as part of a recently resurrected mountain warfare training program. By summer's end the Marine Corps expects to have trained about 6,000 Marines and Marine reservists in 'mountain man' skills such as scaling sheer granite cliffs and crossing river gorges by rope. Base for the activity is the M

Mountain Warfare Training Corps' Center, located in this 7,000-foot-high meadow just north of Yosemite National Park.

The austere base, first built in 1951 after U.S. military setbacks in rugged sections of Korea, resumed full-time training last May after a nine-year break.

It is the only facility of its sort in the Marine Corps, and one of only two run by the U.S. military services in this country. The Army has a similar base in Alaska.

Lt. Col. George Knudson, commanding officer, says the training isn't designed to build up an elite fighting group within the Marines, or to deal with some impending conflict in mountain regions elsewhere in the

'We just want to build up the allaround capability of the Marine Corps," says Knudson, 42, who runs the base from a spruced-up quonset hut. "Marines should be able to go anyplace. We have never been able to pick where we go to war. Somebody else picks that for us.'

What Marines get here is a crash course in mountain fighting. Training runs year round, from two to four weeks for each group sent here.

The Marines scale cliffs, both by rope and with bare hands, make rope bridges so they can crawl across ravines, and learn land navigation so they can find their way across trackless mountain stretches seldom seen by anyone but backpackers and hunters

Marine reservists get quick cour in mountain survival, learning how to to make shelters, build fires without matches, snare animals and survive on available vegetation.

During winter months Marines will learn how to camp in snow and below zero temperatures, and to showshoe and ski while carrying rifles, packs. and other gear.

Knudson says the Marine Corps hopes to run about 10,000 trainees through the program each year.

Demanding patients live longer

By SUŞAN OKIE The Washington Post

Mr. Smith and Mr. Jones have the same kind of cancer. Smith will not talk about death. He jokes with the hospital staff, insists on receiving medication whenever he is in pain and becomes a well-known character on the ward because he often asks for help and advice. As he becomes sicker, he gets angry and impatient about his own increasing weakness, but still shows strong interest in his treatment. He does not resign himself Jones is quiet and calm. Unlike Smith, he seldom has visitors, and he never asks nurses or doctors for extra attention. He talks serenely about the fact that he is dying. As his illness progresses, he sometimes becomes depressed and cries. Most of the time, though, he is a composed, reticent man who neither complains nor asks special favors of the hospital staff. Which patient will probably live longer? Is anger a stronger weapon against cancer than acceptance? Does the lifelong pattern of relationships with parents, friends and spouse affect a patient's relationship with hospital workers and thereby influence the treatment of disease?

According to a statistical study of cancer patients by Dr. Avery D. Weisman and Dr. William J. Worden, psychiatric researchers at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, Smith, the unresigned, demanding patient is likely to live longer than Jones.

Angry, vocal patients tend to do better than those who are resigned to illness and death, Weisman and Worden have found. Cooperation and close interaction with the hospital staff also make longer survival likely. Patients whose parents were often absent during their childhood died sooner, the researchers reported.

Weisman and Worden found three types of behavior that seemed to contribute to longer survival. The first, which they called "rising resentment." characterized patients who became angry or simply more demanding (but not to the extent of alienating the hospital staff) as their illness grew worse.

The second, called "terminal apathy," was the pattern of patients who seemed unaware of the severity of their illness or indifferent to it. Because they showed so little change in mood as death neared, those taking care of them were sometimes misled about the seriousness of their con-

The third, "terminal cooperation," typified patients who became closer to the staff and easier to care for the sicker they got.

The study has also shown that patients with histories of unsatisfactory relationships with other people tended to die sooner than expected. Absence of one or both parents for long periods during a patient's childhood was correlated with an earlier death from cancer as was a pattern of unhappy but dependent personal ties. Patients who wanted to die or became extremely depressed survived for shorter periods than average. But so did patients who accepted the idea of death and were willing to talk about it.

Weisman does not know why the behavioral patterns affect survival whether they work by changing a patient's hormonal state, for example or his body's natural defenses against cancer. But he believes that, at the very least; they probably elicit responses from the hospital staff that have important effects on treatment.

In his paper, Weisman urged hospital workers to be alert to their own reactions. He warned that a patient's depression or death-wish may sometimes be caused by "an unfortunate breakdown in care-taking hospital functions, induced by a patient with an objectionable attitude and unappreciative manner."

Weisman is now shifting his emphasis away from the study of cancer death and toward the study of day-today survival with illness. He hopes research may establish links between psychological factors and a cancer patient's susceptibility to pain, weight loss or infection.

"I would like to know when people begin to die and why," he said. "You should be dealing with a person who is a patient, not just a patient who is the receptacle of a tumor.

She has her own fishbait

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) - The worms have turned away from Nebraska's first lady. The governor's wife says a summertime drought has dried up her personal supply of nightcrawlers for use as fishing bait.

"It's been so dry that you can't find them. I've had to resort to buying some," Pat Exon, wife of Gov. J.J. Exon, com-plained Monday. "I don't know where they're getting them from this summer, they must be imported."

Normally, Mrs. Exon gets all the worms she needs for her once-aweek fishing trips from her private worm garden in the fallout shelter of the governor's mansion.

She said she began cultivating the garden about three years ago because "time is so hard to come by that when I can get away, I don't have time to shop for

"So I had Jim (the governor) make a box so could raise them myself. Some of these babies take 18 months to mature," she says, "and the bigger the worm, the bigger the fish."

Mrs. Exon said she generally goes wormhunting in her garden at night after it rains.

Some might say it isn't fitting for a first lady to be poking around for worms, but the first ladies I know are those who do what's comfortable for them," she said. The worm project is a few doors down from the public Bicentennial exhibit of dolls depicting Nebraska's 33 first ladies. Mrs. Exon admits that the garden "gets a little smelly."

A GREAT SHIP IS SAILING INTO TEXAS TO TAKE YOU AWAY FROM IT ALL.

Last spring, the SS Veracruz came to Texas and took thousands of people nowhere.

And they loved it.

This fall we're giving you a chance to go nowhere again. Two incredibly fun days in the Gulf of Mexico. Aboard a beautiful ship.

With good food and drink, exciting night club shows, live music and dancing.

But if nowhere isn't where you want to go, we take you somewhere special. To Cozumel for five nights. Or Tampico for three nights. On the same ship. Filled with the same great fun.

You just get to enjoy it longer. To find out more call your travel agent, or toll free 1-800-327-3910.

split among Texas Republicans over President Ford and Ronald Reagan for the presidential nomination developed Tuesday into a battle for the next state GOP chairman. Ray Barnhart, Pasadena former state legislator who was chairman of the 100 per cent Reagan Texas delegation to Kansas City, announced he would oppose State GOP Chairman Ray Hutchison, Dallas, who wants re-election.

Both say they will support the Ford-Dole ticket in the Nov. 2 general election.

Barnhart first said after the Reagam loss in Kansas City that he would support the platform but he was not sure about campaigning for the Ford-Dole Hutchison stayed neutral during the hot June presidential primary but the avid Reaganites refused to name him a delegate to Kansas City because he refused to speak out for Reagan. Others said Hutchison actually favored Ford.

National GOP split

"I am firmly convinced that President Ford's election must be a major goal of our party and just as firmly convinced that we must continue to apply all pressures possible to assure that our Texas philosophy is strongly felt in the Ford administration, Barnhart told a news conference Tuesday.

Barnhart said he decided to make his stand for Ford after spending Monday in Washington talking to James Baker, newly named National GOP chairman.

"I wanted to be assured that there would be a very firm approach in Texas on the basis of the platform and that there would be a strong campaign in Texas and I have been assured that," Barnhart said. "The Ford campaign strategists consider Texas a key state in the campaign," he said.

Hyacinths saving city from sewage problem

RIO HONDO, Tex. (AP) -Research by the National Aeronautic and Space Administration (NASA) saved this small town in the Rio Grande Valley "about $300,000" says the Rio Hondo mayor.

A year ago, Mayor Jkanita Brodecky addressed the problem of either building a sewage disposal plant or facing the wrath of the Texas Water Quality Board.

Today, Rio Hondo has its plantliterally

NASA researchers in Bay St. Louis, Miss., trying to solve their water purity problems during long space flights, discovered a solution in water hyacinths, a fragrant, lily-like plant that abounds in this semitropical area of Texas.

"The plants devour all the baddies out of the water," says the mayor. "Instead of spending about $300,000 for a mechanical sewage treatment acre pond filled with hyacinths. "Somebody had to try it and we are uniquely qualified due to our financial situation and climate.'

Mrs. Brodecky says the idea originated with Sam Lattimore, the city manager in nearby San Benito.

'I noted that NASA was doing a lot of experimentation with water purifying plants," says Lattimore. "I went to Bay St. Louis and talked with Dr. Bill Wolverton of NASA.

"The hyacinths literally feed on the sewage," notes Lattimore. "It's obvious the cockeyed things work. Rio Hondo's water meets standards. The only problem is freezing temperatures and we seldom have that down here."

San Benito, a city of about 18,000, is also trying the hyacinths but with less favorable results.

LOS FRESNOS, Tex. (AP) — An investigation by from Austin to the border. Mexican and U.S. officials has revealed no records of an illegal alien who died shortly after he allegedly was beaten by federal officials while being transported out of Texas.

U.S. Immigration and Mexican consular officials said Tuesday they have found nothing about the alien identified by the Mexican Foreign Ministry as found anyone by the name of Balderas Loredo. Cornelio Balderas Loredo of San Luis Potosi, Mex.

Officials in Mexico City said they had requested a U.S. investigation after it was learned the man died two days after reaching his hometown. A Mexico City newspaper said Balderas Loredo was beaten by U.S.Immigration officials while being taken by bus

Fences can be attractive as well as utilitarian

By ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures

There are many functional reasons for building fences other than the oldest of them all - to keep cattle, horses and other animals within certain boundaries.

No matter how utilitarian your reason, you can add to the appearance of your home and, consequently, its market value, if you choose a design from among the many exciting styles now available.

Even the picket fence is becoming more stylized.

Whatever your choice, even before you decide on whether you want a traditional or contemporary design, make sure what the zoning requirements and survey limits are. The most common limitation is the height to which the fence can be built along a property line. Sometimes, a potential problem can be averted by reaching an agreement with a neighbor on sharing the costs and work of building a so-called "good neighbor" design, one that looks the same from either side.

support the entire structure, their installation is of vital importance. Get them solidly in place and the chances are the fence will last indefinitely without the necessity of a repair. Generally, it is best to use one of the weather-resistant woods, such as redwood, cypress or cedar, although other types of wood will be satisfactory if they are treated with a preservative. "Treated" does not mean brushing the posts with a single coat of preservative. They should be soaked overnight in a container of the liquid. In fact, it's a good idea to do this with ANY kind of wood.

The posts should be 4 by 4s, each set one-third of its length underground. In digging the hole, make it about 8 inches in diameter at the top, slightly larger at the bottom. Make it from 4 to 6 inches deeper than the part of the wood that will go below ground. Fill that extra space with gravel to facilitate drainage. While many persons backfill the posts with well-tamped earth, a better job can be obtained by setting them into a concrete mix. It can be one of the premixes or a mixture of your own made of one part portland cement, two parts of sand and four parts of gravel or other coarse aggregate.

When a post has been placed into several inches of concrete mix, brace it into position with two or three pieces of wood, set at an angle to hold it firmly. Then pour in more concrete mix until it fills the hole and comes to a point slightly higher than the surface of the ground. Trowel the mixture so that it slopes away from the post, permitting rain to flow away rather than settle next to the wood.

Keep the braces in place until the concrete has hardened. Wet down the mixture a couple of times a day for several days, skipping this step on a rainy day and increasing the treatments if the concrete is exposed to the sun for several hours a day.

Gate posts should be even stronger than the fence posts because they are subjected to constant strain. The gate itself should be at least 3 feet wide, with about a half-an-inch clearance between it and the latchpost.

Both insects, man formidable enemies to Brazilian art

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) -In Brazil, it's difficult to tell whether art's worst enemy is six-legged or

The two-legged variety tends to steal it, destroy it or autograph it, while the six-legged eats it for lunch.

Protection and restoration of art treasures from paintings to statues to colonial churches presents special problems not found in Europe or the United States, said Eddson Motta, head of the restoration center of Brazil's Historical Heritage Institute. The level of education and culture in a developing country is one problem, the level of humidity and heat in a tropical country is the other. Motta said heat and humidity make the country ideal for insects. Wooden buildings and statues are under constant attack by termites Brafil's big problem now is that, just recently, the natural protection against insects afforded by resin in the wood of 17th-and 18th-century art works has vanished. "The types of wood used in Brazil and South America have a 200-or 300year period of self protection," Motta said, "Now they have reached the end of this time."

Resin has lost its anti-insect properties and insects are munching busily away at beautifully painted church ceilings and statues of saints. Fortunately, Motta said, this is happening at a time when governments are more aware of the value of

willing to spend money to restore This is where the restoration center national art treasures and are more comes in Throughout Brazil, representatives of the center are peeling paintings of saints and angels from the damaged wood of church ceilings and replacing that wood with new boards treated in a way it is hoped will resist insects permanently.

Motta explained a technique developed especially in Brazil for damaged wooden statues: a statue is sunk in a hot vat of wax. The wax fills holes and fissures left by insects. The statue is allowed to cool, then slightly heated again by infrared rays so the excess wax on the outside of the statue can be softened and removed.

Motta said mildew and fungus are far worse problems in the sultry Brazilian air than they would be in other countries. There is a chemical process that removes brown mildew spots from books and documents - permanently in most countries, but here for only 12 years.

Man's inhumanity to art is also a problem. Motta said works of art have been removed from coastal Bahia where the humidity is about 80 per cent, to the nation's capital Brasilia. Brasilia has about 13 per cent humidity and bad damage is caused as the wood dries out.

Security is poor in the vast and sprawling country and recent weeks brought stories of church officials protesting to the justice ministry of theft of art works from colonial churches. Motta said the law now supposedly protects historical treasures from sale to private collectors or foreigners, "but who can control 800 million square kilometers?"

SINGAPORE (AP) — Question: what odor do you farmer grumbled. get by crossing a skunk with a cesspool? Durians are also Answer: durian. That's right, durian, the polecat of the orchard. It's a fruit so smelly that it is barred from airplanes, trains and most hotels in this part of the world. But it is also savored by those who would beg, borrow or steal to satisfy their passion.

"It stinks like hell and tastes like heaven," said one old Asia hand.

The telltale stench permeates sections of Singapore, Malaysia and Thailand now that the main durian season has rolled round again.

An Australian executive arrived at his Singapore office one recent Monday and immediately asked his secretary to find out whether the toilet had overflowed or a sewer pipe had broken during the weekend. No, he was told, the wholesale durian market had reopened six floors below in Beach Road. The market bustles as trucks unload, dealers haggle and connoisseurs sample the forbidding fruit. The powerful aroma is the perfume of prosperity for growers and others in the trade. Prices vary according to the fruits' freshness, weight, shape, and where they were grown. The market seems as delicately balanced as Wall Street.

Too few durian and the price skyrockets out of orange, into a paste called tempoyak.

Durians are also used in cakes packaged like long sausages. Durian jam and durianflavored ice cream are also marketed. To the aficionado, however, durians are a delicacy to be eaten raw. A quality fruit is said to be "lighter than it looks"; Singapore counted 60,000 durian trees in an a heavy one is either unripe or with little pulp but agricultural census three years ago. About half were filled with seeds. Seeds are sometimes consumed mature and yielded 8,900,000 fruits per year, or after being boiled or baked, but the discriminating enough to treat each Singaporean to four durians a usually toss them into the garbage.

The fruit varies widely in size and shape but is Millions of others are imported each season, most-generally about eight inches long and seven inches ly by fast truck from Malaysia. wide. The outer rind is thick and covered with sharp thorns, or "duri," so tough that relatively few break open when they fall to the ground. Tradition requires that they are never knocked from the trees.

Rapid chemical change, which can alter the flavor perceptibly within hours, starts the moment a durian drops from its tree. This fermentation spoils the fruit in less than a week and few people will eat them more than three days after they fall.

'When durians are down skirts are up," is part of regional folklore. It refers both to the alleged aphrodisiac effect of the fruit and skirt-like wrappers worn by many Malay men which have to be hiked up for running on nocturnal raids on local orchards.

Several states in Malaysia have laws governing reach of most buyers. Too many and durian becomes the right to collect durians. A British newspaperman a drag on the market, forcing growers to process its wrote, "Men cheat and steal and fight over durians, pulp, ranging in color from pale yellow to bright as I know, for a big durian tree overhangs my garden ange, into a paste called tempoyak. in Singapore and every year thieves smash down the "There's no money in tempoyak," a Malaysian fence to get at the stinking fruit."

Ordinary durians retailed for $1.40 (about 57 U.S. cents) a pound in Singapore as the current season reached its peak. Superior ones can fetch much

AUSTIN — A former Midland special education teacher, despite her own handicapped condition, adopted a handicapped nine-year-old boy last year and seems pleased with his progress.

Jean Starnes of Austin, daughter of Mrs. J. D. Starnes of 1007 Boyd Ave., is paraplegic, speaks with difficulty and is confined to a wheelchair due to cerebral palsy. However, she was successful in adopting Ricky, a mentally retarded, physically handicapped child, last year.

Miss Starnes served as director of the opportunity center at the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center of Midland from 1961 until July 1972, when she left for Austin. She served as acting diffector two years prior to and was at the center 13 total years. She recently was featured in an edition of The Austin American-Statesman. "I wanted a handicapped child because I thought I could understand his problems better than most people," Miss Starnes commented. "The problems encountered by normal kids - like dope - scared me to death.

Miss Starnes, a psychologist at the Travis State School, is completely independent, the Statesman said. She drives a specially equipped car, cooks. keeps house and is tanned from a recent vacation in the Bahamas. Two years ago, a picture in the Statesman of a handicapped child available for adoption was all the impetus Miss Starnes needed to dial the number for information. She was then interviewed by a child welfare worker and, a few months later, the two started looking at case histories of available children.

Miss Starnes told the Statesman, "The only handicaps I ruled out were blindness and deafness. Sometimes you have to get to a deaf child quickly, and I thought I'd feel sorry for a child who was

She said, "He was wearing his new suit, his new tie, his hair was slicked down and his eyes were just shining. We went into his room and he asked me why I couldn't walk. I said for the same reason his right arm didn't work right. Then I asked him if he'd like to come live with me and be my little boy.

Ricky has hemiplegia, in which one side of his body does not function normally. However, his chores now include making his bed, carrying out the garbage, feeding Miss Starnes' dog and watering the plants. He also takes the plates to the table and clears them Miss Starnes told the Statesman she speculated Ricky's learning problems might be emotional rather than physiological in origin. A special education teacher for 18 years before coming to Austin, Miss Starnes cited a recent battery of tests as reasons for her speculation. She noted the tests showed he had made significant progress in social maturity, achievement and I.Q. since his adoption a Sixty divers and other oil rig workers died between 1965 and 1975 in the North Sea.

"Most of these men were inexperienced and probably panicked when something went wrong. Virtually every accident that has been investigated out here can be put down to human error," said Johnson.

Today's divers are better trained and equipped and must meet the strict qualifications of the British government's diving regulations introduced last year, covering a diver's training, age, number of dives, medical checkups and Consequently the number of diving accidents has dropped significantly, but most divers agree that North Sea diving will never be completely safe. There are too many unknowns.

As oil companies reach into deeper offshore waters for new oil strikes, divers are being called upon to plunge to 1,000 feet or below and simulated dives have reached 1,500 feet.

Special capsules and minisubmarines are on the drawing boards to enable oil explorers to push out into uncharted waters 2,000 feet deep, handling the jobs now done by divers. But until such techniques are perfected, the industry must rely on divers for essential drilling and pipelaying tasks.

Three wildcats set; strike gains offset

Wildcat sites have been staked in Sutton. Crockett amd Stonewall counties, and a Fisher strike drew an offset location.

Wesley West, Houston, No. 1 J. E. and P. E. Adams, is a 3,700-foot prospector to be drilled in Sutton County, 28 miles east of Sonora

Location is 2,167 feet from south and 2,076 feet from east lines of section 59, block A, GWT&P survey, 1/2 mile east of 2,800-foot Canyon oil production in the Fort Terrett field.

CROCKETT TRY Texas Oil & Gas Corp., operating from Midland, staked site for No. 1-A Owens, a 7,200-foot venture to be drilled in Crockett, 15 miles east of Sheffield. Drillsite is 990 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of M. Gallardo survey 6, abstract 40, 14 mile northwest of the Lancaster Hill multipay

Ford may okay plutonium use

WASHINGTON - The Ford administration Tuesday came a step closer to approving the use of plutonium as a nuclear fuel by saying that plutonium posed no environmental hazards serious enough to ban its use

In a carefully worded summary report, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said it will make no recommendations on whether the United States should begin using plutonium in atomic power plants until it considers the "safeguards" aspects of the plutonium issue. These involve possible diversions or thefts of power plant plutonium by other countries or terrorists interested in making nuclear weapons.

The NRC has been studying the safeguard aspects of plutonium use for almost two years and is expected to complete its report in the next two months. The NRC took almost three years to complete the report released Tuesday which concerned the health, safety and environmental aspects" of plutonium use.

The central question addressed by the report is whether there are any serious health and environmental hazards posed by the recycling of plutonium from spent uranium fuel. Plutonium is not now used as a fuel for atomic power plants, which burn uranium to generate electricity.

Martin test flows crude

RK Petroleum Corp., Midland, No. 1-B Juliette Wolcott, Martin County Devonian wildcat, nine miles northwest of Tarzan, and four miles south of the Breedlove (Devonian) field, flowed 132 barrels of oil and 66 barrels of water in 24 hours.

The flow was through a 12-64-inch choke and from open hole at 12,084 feet, where 51/2-inch casing is seated, and 12,095 feet, total depth. Testing continued.

Location is 6,384 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 251, Ward CSL survey, nine mlles northwest of Tarzan.

While the uranium burns, some of it is converted to plutonium through radioactive decay. The plutonium then burns along with the uranium, producing about one third of the power plant's electricity through the useful life of the fuel.

With the price of uranium skyrocketing and a possible shortage in sight, many energy experts have urged the Ford administration to approve the use of plutonium as a starting fuel for atomic power plants.

Kimble gets two gassers

John D. Chalmers, Abilene, has completed two gas extenders in Kimble County sectors.

No. 1 Helline & Jon Ragland, third well in the Doreen Shallow (Buck) pool, one mile south of Junction, gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 280,000 cubic feet of dry gas

Doll guaranteed to fall apart

By JUDITH MARTIN The Washington Post

Every year, we adults can hardly wait until Christmas to see what the new toys are going to be. What new harlot-dollies can we bring into our homes? Are there any good new weapons for preschoolers to use on one another?

What perfectly natural human functions which the children have just been trained not to do in public, or have not yet learned to do, will now be performed by their "action figures" on our sofas, in front of our guests?

Not to keep us in suspense for another agonizing season, the toy companies are beginning their hard sell. With any luck, even if you give in to the new cries, you can still look forward to four months of high-pitched nagging.

Here are some of the highlights from just one toy company, which is in no way to be presumed to be all that Santa has in store for us

A new enemy doll named Maskatron, part of the Six Million Dollar Man empire, the figure refering to a combination of the outlay and the damage debts you can reasonably expect. Maskatron is advertised as 'not invincible; hit him in the right places and his arms, legs — even his head — pop off!

This is a toy breakthrough, a toy that falls apart. It is part of the consumer education system for toddlers, who will emerge the wiser after a good cry. No doubt, you can easily put it back together again, to reteach the lesson, but with any skill at all on the part of the ages 5 and up for whom it is recomradiator, a leg in the child's milk glass and even a College. head in the plumbing.

But don't knock it. It also has "two snap-on weapons.

New Baby Alive is touted as an improvement on the old model, which was an improvement on baby dolls which did nothing but wet after being fed. The new one, the company promises, will have "a totally new, even more realistic look for 1976."

Now, "realistic" has often been used as a code word in the toy business, and guess for what. If New Baby Alive doesn't turn out to be as realistic as you registered nurse with six years of emergency room or your child could hope, you might go for Nugget, a experience. horse doll that is designed to go with two dolls who release, is making "a big splash with a wonderful Bubblin' Bath 'n' Shower." That's what it says, anyhow. One can only hope that truth-in-advertising has not yet taken over the toy industry; otherwise what that lifelike horse is doing in the shower with those two ladies might scare the other lifelike horses on the street.

Then there is the Bionic Woman, no doubt a response to feminist complaints that the boys have all the fun with the Bionic Man, the doll with all the medical transplants. Bionic Woman's equipment is "a fabulous Bionic Beauty Salon" and "Designer Collection Fashions.

But the best new doll of all, one which is heralded as being "for the whole family to enjoy" is Sleep-walker Sam. The game is to "crank him up for a wild walk over the framework of the four-story building. See if you can get him down without falling!"

This opens up a whole new world of dolls with psychological ailments. But we may have to wait un-til Christmas of 1977 for the New Sam, who, no doubt, will stand crazily on the top of that building and threaten to commit suicide. See if you can get him down!" Or if you want to.

volume NEW YORK (AP) -The stock market headed still higher today after gaining more than 13 points in the last three sessions.

Market

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which has been advancing since Friday, was ahead 4.32 to 978.06 at noon. Advancing stocks lead declines by about 2 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange. Brokers said the market's upward momentum over the past three sessions stems partly from evidence that inflation is slowing. They point specifically to government reports that farm price dropped in July, rollbacks of price hikes planned by major steel firms, and reports that labor productivity is rising. However, investors remain cautious because economic growth has also slowed, they said. Federal National Mortgage, the Big Board's most active stock, was up 1/8 to 161/2 boosted by several large block trades early in the session. The NYSE composite ndex was up .21 at 55.13 at

Stock sales were on the light side but were better than the very slow pace recorded earlier this week. Trading in the first two hours totalled 7.06 million shares against 6.99 million shares Tuesday and 4.68 million shares in the first two hours Monday.

Blue chip and glamor issues showed some good gains today. Stocks up more than a point include International Business Machines, Johnson & Johnson, Du Pont, Fairchild Camera, Burroughs, Weyerhaeuser, and International Paper.

The American Stock Exchange market value index at noon was off .10 at 101.88.
