Suttle signature concludes legal fight

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

With a stroke of a pen Thursday, U.S. District Judge D. W. Suttle officially ended more than five years of legal battles over desegregating Midland elementary schools.

Judge Suttle Thursday signed a consent decree outlining a compromise settlement of the case. The agreement was reached after negotiations among attorneys for the school district, the U.S. Justice Department and a group of Negro intervenors.

Approval of the agreement had been recommended to Judge Suttle by John Skogland, who was appointed to prepare plans and submit recommendations to the court.

"The settlement agreement and the consent decree fairly resolve the provide a sound basis for the education of all of the elementary students of the Midland Independent School District," Skogland said in his report to the judge.

The case began in 1971 when the late Judge Ernest Guinn ruled in favor of the Midland school district's original plan to desegregate Washington Elementary School.

Objecting to provisions for closing Washington, a group of Negro in-tervenors entered the case as intervenors and appealed the judge's decision. The U.S. Justice Department appealed also because, although it approved of the plan for Washington, it opposed the judge's failure to require desegregation of De southeast Midland residents also were intervenors but they have not played an active part in the case during its latest trip to district court.

Zavala Elementary School. Another group of dissatisfied

The Negro intervenors maintained that the school board's plan placed the burden on a small portion of Midland residents.

The case sat in the hands of the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals for four years. In August 1975, the court overturned Judge Guinn's original decision and ordered the district court to "dismantle the dual system" of education in the elementary grades.

It also named Crockett, Pease and Milam as racially identifiable schools. The issue of whether or not these schools were racially iden-tifiable because of intentional or de jure, segregation was not determined in Thursday's settlement.

After the 1975 circuit court ruling, the school district made an unsuccessful effort to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court which refused to hear the case.

In June, the court ordered the school district to submit plans for desegregating the five schools listed as racially identifiable, after refusing a school district request to remove Crockett, Pease and Milam from the Judge Suttle said he had not determined the issue of whether or not the school district was liable for desegregative action on those schools. The school district submitted three plans, two which taken together would have desegregated Washington and De Zavala for fifth and sixth grades only and one which would have desegregated all five schools at the

On Aug. 13, Judge Suttle rejected all three of these plans and ordered the school district "to immediately desegregate all elementary school facilities, beginning at the first grade level," with implementation during this school year.

In the same order, Judge Suttle appointed Skogland special master and cosultant to prepare plans and recommendations for the court.

On Aug. 18, Judge Suttle expressed hope that the plan submitted would be a joint submission by all the parties.

After the the court order was issued, all the parties to the case began a series of negotiations. A citizens' group, Midland Council of Concerned Citizens, applied to enter the case as intervenors and was turned down by Judge Suttle.

Basic ground rules were determined in a six-hour meeting among the attorneys in the case with the school board and a representative of the intervors on Sept. 8.

The fourth, fifth and sixth grades were to be fully integrated; grades kindergarten through third would participate in cultural exchange activities. The Carver Building would be reopened and used for that pur-

A draft consent decree was given approval in concept by the school board Sept. 10 and the final decree was signed by the parties involved Tuesday and will be fully implemented for the 1977-78 school year.

Intercity route proposal earns citizen approval

By DEBBIE PIERCE

The proposed development of a north intercity route between Midland and Odessa received almost 100 per cent approval Thursday night at a public meeting sponsored by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Eighty-two persons filed into the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale building at Midland Regional Air Terminal to hear the highway department's presentation and provide input on the road's proposed construction.

If built, the route would extend from the northeast part of Odessa to the northwest part of Midland, crossing FM 1788 about four miles north of U.S.

Bill Harral, resident engineer from Midland, told the crowd that the project would involve a four-lane divided road to be developed in various stages. Two one-way frontage roads would follow the main road throughout the limits of the project, he said. A minimum of 400 feet rightof-way would be required for development of the project, which would follow an undeveloped route. 'This project was first proposed in the 1965 Midland-Odessa Regional Regional Transportation Study and updated in the 1975 version," Harral

The engineer explained that three similar proposed routes had been determined for the roadway by the highay department. All routes would begin at the intersection of Texas 158 (Andrews Highway) and FM 1369 (Holiday Hill Road), follow Texas 158 west one mile and then branch off, he Route A would extend west four miles, then head southwest to the Midland-Ector county line, then west to Loop 338 one-and-one-half miles north of 42nd Street in Odessa. It would involve 14.6 total miles and cost $22.3 million to complete, he said.

Route B, the highway department's preferred route, also would extend west four miles from the branch-off point, then head southwest across FM 1788 and Texas 158 and west and southwest to Spur 492 (42nd Start) and Parkway Drive. This route would comprise 13.8 miles and cost $21.8 million to complete, Harral said.

Route C, the most direct and least expensive route, would extend from the branch-off point, follow Texas 158 southwest to the FM 1788 intersection, then head southwest five miles, then west to 42nd Street and Loop 338. Harral said this route would involve 13.6 miles and cost $21.5 million to complete.

According to Harral, Route A is the longest and most indirect proposal and would travel through undeveloped land; Route B would travel through an undeveloped residential section; and Route C would be the most direct route.

He said Routes A and B would provide adequate clearance for the proposed expansion at Air Terminal, but Route C would only provide the bare minimum of clearance. Thus, the highway department preferred Route B, he added.

Paul Coleman, highway department district engineer, said the route would be a cooperative effort among the cities of Midland and Odessa, Midland and Ector counties, the state highway department and the Federal Highway Administration. He said highway department officials anticipate right-of-way acquisition to be by 1977 and the initial segment of construction could begin by 1978. About 22 persons spoke during the session in favor of the inter-city route; however, most of the spokesmen stated no preference for one route over another Odessa Mayor Dan Hemphill said, "I've always been interested in close ties with Midland. This road would be important because workers here want to get over there and workers over there want to get over here.' Midland County Commissioner John Thomas noted, "We need this project. By 1985, if we don't have this in progress, we'll be aching and aching badly." He also urged highway officials not to put the road's overpass in the flight pattern from Coleman said the preferred route would "provide adequate and more clearance than necessary," and that officials had checked with the Federal Aviation Administration requirements, as well as the City of Midland's expansion plans for the airport. He said, "We could go underground if necessary not to conflict with the airport.'

Gene Garrison of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce added, "If this project was needed in the middle of the last decade, it's urgently needed now. Odessa's growth is to the northeast, and Midland's is to the northwest."

Louis Rochester of Skyline Inc. and Mac McCree, president of Schar-Brothers and Co., both said their property interests would donate some right-of-way to the project, but Me-Cree expressed a preference for Route A and Rochester was for Route B. Rochester also presented 11 letters from citizens favoring Route B. Among others speaking in favor of the proposed inter-city route were Midland Mayor Pro Tem Mark

And Rogers, like some of the folks milling around in the barn, was at work - more or less. He was looking after the indoor latrines. And that job at the four-day fair that closes down Saturday night seemed to be something of a spinoff of his now laidto-rest career; he was a plumbing

"I'll tell you," Rogers said on a philosophical note just outside the flushing privies, "it isn't work that breaks people down. It's worry that breaks people down."

"But you must like it (work) well enough to do it well enough," he said. "If you're not happy with your job, you won't do any good. But Rogers reckons that there's more to discontentment than people's negative attitude toward their jobs and toward themselves. "It's the times in which we are living," he freely allowed. "We're living too fast; we are not taking the time to enjoy life."

Rogers absolutely declares that he and Elizabeth, his wife of 52 years, are enjoying life and people. They don't live all that fast.

"You know," he said, "we like people so well." Rogers worked virtually all over the country before he and his wife finally settled down in Lamesa four

"It's been a rewarding life," Rogers said, as if he were bowing out with the sunset. "You have your problems. But with those problems, you learn something."
Rogers' view of the not-as-popularall," said Woody Hart, who returned to Lamesa to check out the fair and, particularly, to visit his mother, Alyce Hart.

"People used to come from all around," he said. "... Nothing... seems to be the same."

Ecumenical fair 'king'

Now this is what I mean: we have lots of festivals in the Basin, but too many of 'em are held at the same time. This very weekend, the l6th of September celebration is going on through Sunday around Hogan Park, the Ector County Fair and, all right, "Lone Star" Chili Cook-off are going on today and tomorrow, and the St. Ann's Catholic Church "Family Fair" gets warmed up tonight with a teen-oriented carnival before the big "sardine special" crams the campus with some 10,000 souls tomorrow if Mother Nature gets fooled with a clear day for a change.

(Quickly, about the Odessa chili mess: the youth and novice division is being held right now, with judging at about 6 p.m. today, and the open category for the Texas representative to the Tropico, Calif., cook-off will be held Saturday, with judging at about 3:30. They've been told they can't call it the "Texas State Championship," and I think the "Lone Star" title is a magnificent euphemism. It's all at the Ector County Fairgrounds, with judges like C. V. Wood and Joanne Dru Wood and me, and if you're a chili cook-off nut I'll see you there.)

The St. Ann's affair, contrary to some popular misconceptions, is not really specifically for the benefit of the parochial school, but for the general fund of the church, according to Mrs, Pat Stanley, assistant principal, publicity chairperson, and general factotum of St. Ann's (which has a lengthy waiting list and isn't much good for "white flight" because 85 of the 200 students are so-called "minority" kids).

Nor is the fair really a Catholic or a purely "church" event. It's for everybody, and all kinds of people pitch in and help. And I'd say it's working, thanks to you, and has been for 28 years now.

Even the food is ecumenical. ranging from German snacks such as sausage sandwiches to Mexican delicacies such as burritos and tamales and—the blue plate special a complete Italian dinner served from 4 to 8 p. m. Saturday in the school cafeteria. (I'm going to try to sneak back from Odessa chili tastery for that one.)

For Basiners sated by last weekend's Septemberfest, Mrs. Stanley says the St. Ann's fair is "altogether different," which seems to be about half-way true. There's much more emphasis on home-grown crafts for sale, kiddle entertainment booths and the like. Then there's the carnival — and that Italian dinner — and everybody's eyes will be on a little Datsun "Honeybee" that will be the star of the event slated for 10 a.m.

to 10 p.m. Saturday.

And St. Ann's pastor, the Rev. Fr.

Adoplph Kaler, is said to be considering moving the fair to another time that would contribute to the Pendergrast goal of a "festival of the month."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist Vietnam may soon qualify for indirect financial aid from the United States and other developed nations by joining the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

Hanoi already has won membership in the IMF over U.S. opposition, and U.S. officials said Thursday they probably will be unable to keep the Vietnamese out of the World Bank, which takes up the issue next week.

As a member of the two institutions, Vietnam likely will become eligible for assistance from several international aid programs to which the United States contributes heavily.

The amount of such assistance is unknown, but it clearly could be many millions of dollars. Among programs the Socialist Republic of Vietnam almost certainly would eventually qualify for the World Bank's International Development Association (IDA), which makes interest-free development loans to poor nations.

The U.S. Congress has authorized $1.5 billion for the IDA over a fouryear period, about one-third of the agency's budget. The rest of the $4.5 billion in the IDA was contributed by other developed nations.

High-ranking U.S. officials are worried over the impact in Congress of Vietnam's membership in the two agencies, especially since Congress has been reluctant in the past to vote funds for programs such as the IDA.

As a member of the IMF. Hanoi already may be eligible for interestfree loans from the IMF's Trust Fund for poor nations, which is financed with profits from the agency's gold auctions. About $174 million has been raised for this fund so far and the total could grow to $2 billion in several

The United States originally contributed to the IMF a large portion of the gold now being auctioned.

It is understood that an IMF inspection team has already visited Vietnam, possibly as a prelude to an IMF loan available to any of the agency's 128 members under its regular lending procedures.

Charles Cooper, the U.S. executive director to the World Bank, said the United States probably will oppose bank membership for Vietnam during debate next week.

"I think we'll take the same position as we did in the fund," he said in an interview Thursday. But he acknowledged he is pessimistic about the chances of keeping Hanoi out because it "didn't work" in the fund where the United States was out-voted by other IMF members. Until the vote against Hanoi in the IMF on Wednesday, the United States had never before voted against a country applying for membership in the institution. While the United States has veto power over some major actions by the IMF and the World Bank, U.S. of-ficials stressed that the veto does not extend to membership questions, which are decided by majority vote. Loans also are made by a majority vote and are not subject to a veto.

agencies, the Midland Council of Camp Fire Girls has worked since its inception in 1964 to offer a quality program to more girls each year. After the group's admission into the United Way family on Aug. 25, the Council believes they have achieved this goal, a spokesman said.

With the help of the United Way, the council believes it can continue to offer a constructive program for girls in the Midland area.

In Camp Fire Girls, a member's individuality is nurtured first in a small group and later in larger groups where her whole potential is challenged, a spokesman said.

A diversified program establishes her relationship with her peer group and guides her to make constructive contributions in the community.

By placing a premium on feminine attributes of imagination, insight and vision, Camp Fire stimulates the girls to use them as a social force.

Base closing could result in shortage

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Sen. Lloyd Bentsen Thursday warned that if the Air Force proceeds with plans to close Webb Air Force Base in Big Spring and Craig Air Foce Base in Alabama, it won't be able to train all the pilots this country's defense system will need by 1981.

Those present from Big Spring included Mayor Wade Choate, publisher J. Tom Gramm of the Big Spring Herald, attorney Ben Bancroft and Winston Wrinkle. The Air Force representatives were headed by Dr. Billy E. Welch, special assistant to the secretary of the Air Force.

"It makes no sense to close one base this year and have to turn around and build another base several years later," Bentsen told the Air Force spokesmen.

"By your own statistics, if you go ahead with plans to close Webb Air Force Base and Craig Air Force Base in Alabama, the demand for pilots by fiscal year 1981 will exceed your capacity to train them.

Bentsen said he objects to the preliminary environmental impact statement submitted by the Air Force because it does not consider possible alternative missions.

The senator pointed out that Webb is currently training foreign pilots under the Security Assistance Training Program and he noted that this program will expand substantially in the wake of the projected sale to Iran of 160 F-16 fighter planes.

"Where will this fine pilot training program be relocated if you close Webb?" Bentsen asked

"Webb has so much going for it: the best weather, more than enough flying space, and outstanding community relations; and I believe it was a serious mistake for the Air Force to close down this excellent facility.' Sen. Bentsen said.

BELGRADE - The Yugoslavian government, apparently miffed over the publicity given to the anti-Tito extremists who hijacked a TWA jet, has indirectly criticized what are being called "very powerful and influential reactionary U.S. circles" that oppose friendly relations with Yugoslavia.

The attack came in an editorial by here as closely resembling the worthe diplomatic correspondent of the official Tanjug news agency, which normally reflects foreign ministry positions.

B-1 opponents look to Carter

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - Tacked to the wall of the cluttered office of the National Campaign to Stop the B-1 Bomber is a quotation from Jimmy Carter: "The B-1 bomber is an example of a proposed system which should not be funded and would be wasteful of taxpayers dollars.'

The coalition of pacifist, environmental and labor groups which opposes the $22 billion project knows that the Democratic Presidential nominee has fuzzed his position somewhat since he delivered that line to his party's platform committee.

ponents of the supersonic aircraft see Carter as their last, best hope to block the project. And their aim this fall is to nudge the former Georgia governor into rigid opposition to the proposed weapon system. The critics of the airplane really have no other choice. Congress has decided to leave the decision to the president who is in office next Feb. 1. And President Ford is an enthusiastic advocate of the craft which the Air Force wants to buy to replace the aging B-52 as the mainstay of the manned bomber

So the lobbying effort on both sides of the complex and emotional issue is focusing on Carter.

The former Georgia governor devoted only two sentences to the subject in his statement to the Democratic Platform Committee. Both seem to say he would stop the B-1 before the plane goes into full

But on July 27, after discussing defense policy with advisers at his Plains, Ga., home, Carter told reporters: "I don't favor construction (of the B-1) at this point...It's a fluid situation... We ought to keep the B-1 bomber as a potential weapon, and not authorize its construction until it is obviously needed

Those remarks give Carter plenty of room to decide to go ahead with the project early next year if he wins the Nov. 2 election. Although backers of the plane clearly prefer Ford's outspoken support, they insist that Carter is by no means a lost cause.

If Carter does commit himself before the election to cancellation of the project, the B-1 could become one of the most significant issues of the Ford-Carter campaign

Ford has already made it clear that he will stress his support for the plane as an example of his commitment to a strong national defense.

As an election issue, the B-1 has a lot going for it. It evokes strong emotions on both sides but it can be debated in rational terms. Both proponents and validity of many of the ents admit t arguments on the other side while insisting, of course, that their arguments should carry more weight

Many opponents concede the B-1 is a better bomber than any now flying but they insist that it is too expensive. They also point to the environmental drawbacks of any large supersonic aircraft. Many supporters of the plane agree that other weapons could perform much of the mission carved out for the B-1 but they insist that it is more versatile than the alternatives and can do more things better.

The remnants of the Vietnam peace movement have seized upon the B-1 bomber as the focal point for opposition to military spending. In addition, the environmental groups which opposed the supersonic transport have turned the same arguments against the B-1. If the Air Force obtains the 244-plane fleet that it wants, it would put many times more big supersonic aircraft into the air than all of the world's SST's combined.

On the other side, the Ford administration and its allies have selected the B-1 as the litmus test for support of the national defense. Backers of the bomber equate opposition with a willingness to see the nation sink into a position of military inferiority.

Three flying prototypes of the plane have been produced at the Palmdale, Calif., plant of Rockwell International. They are undergoing flight testing at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

In theory, the Air Force will decide in late November if the plane shows enough promise to begin full production. In fact, the Pentagon has already decided to go ahead with the project provided there is no cancellation order from the

After a year-long lobbying effort, Congress this month reached a compromise which postpones the decision to start production until Feb. 1 - 10 days after the inauguration of the President elected this

The compromise permits the government to spend $87 million a month on the plane until Feb. 1. The $87 million is one-twelfth of the $1.049 billion the Pentagon wanted to commit in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1 to start the production lines rolling. The month-to-month financing permits Rockwell to keep its B-1 team together but allows for a quick cancellation next year.

Opponents of the project like to stress the cost to the taxpayers, calling on B-1 "the most expensive weapons system in history." Rockwell and the Pentagon contend that if inflation and performance are taken into account, some earlier systems cost

If present estimates hold, the proposed fleet of 244 B-1s would cost $87 million each by the time the last plane is delivered in the mid-1980s. It cost the Air Force an average of slightly more than $10 million each to acquire 744 B-52s, mostly in the 1950's, but if that figure is adjusted for inflation, the cost would be about $46 million each in the mid-1980s.

But no one doubts that $22 billion is a lot of money; enough, for instance, to support all programs of the Departments of Agriculture and Housing and Urban Development for the coming fiscal year with $4 billion left over.

The Campaign to Stop the B-1 group likes to stress its own version of the jobs argument. The committee argues that the B-1 will produce 22,000 jobs per $1 billion in government spending while the same amount of money spent on housing would produce 36,000 jobs; on health, 46,000 jobs, and on education, 52,000 jobs.

The Pentagon sees the bomber in terms of keeping up with the Russians.

Gen. David C. Jones, Air Force chief of staff, said in an interview that the B-1 would be the most ver-satile weapon in the nation's arsenal. He said it could be used to drop gravity bombs — conventional as well as nuclear — or as a launcher for either short range attack missiles or longer-range cruise

Kissinger off for more talks

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, on a diplomatic shuttle for racial peace in southern Africa, flies to Pretoria today for a new round of talks with the region's leading white spokesman, South African Prime Minister John Vorster.

Kissinger has already conferred with two key black leaders - Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda and Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere. After their meeting here Thursday, Kaunda told Kissinger he has "days, not weeks" to forge a compromise and end the threat of all-out war between black nationalists and white minorities in Rhodesia and SouthWest

"President Ford shares your view that time is running out," Kissinger told Kaunda. "We (Americans) have an obligation to all and you can be sure that I am conscious of the responsibilities I face.

Kissinger hopes to obtain from Vorster a committment to negotiate with the South-West Africa Peoples' Organization (SWAPO), a black nationalist group Vorster has refused to recognize as a party to talks leading to independence for the South African territory, also called Namibia.

The U.S. secretary would also like Vorster's cooperation in negotiating a plan for black majority rule in Rhodesia by 1978.

Prime Minister Ian Smith, head of Rhodesia's white minority government, is scheduled to be in the South African capital of Pretoria on Saturday, ostensibly to watch a rugby match. But observers here speculated that a meeting between Kissinger and Smith might occur during Kissinger's two-day stop.

The South Africans have reserved a seat for Kissinger at the game, and it

If Kissinger attends the game he could be open to charges of condoning South Africa's policy of racially segregated sports. If he refuses, it might be interpreted as a snub to

> The rugby series caused many black African nations to pull out of this summer's Olympics because of New Zealand's participation in the Montreal games.

Kissinger has agreed not to meet with Smith or begin negotiations without first consulting with black African leaders. In Dar es Salaam on Wednesday, Tanzania's Nyerere said that "Africans would not be very happy" if Kissinger treated Smith "as a statesman." To black Africans, Vorster and Smith are symbols of the hated system of white supremacy.

In a speech Thursday to a congress of his all-white Rhodesian Front party, Smith said any settlement with the country's six million disenfranchised blacks must be based on "the golden rule of retention of government in civilized hands

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) - Three former Wheatheart, Inc., officials on trial for fraud and conspiracy heard a Fort Worth bank officer testify Thursday that Wheatheart mortgaged the same feed to two banks simultaneously.

Kenneth Porter, vice-president of First National Bank in Fort Worth, said that Wheatheart mortgaged the same feed to his bank and The First National Bank and Trust Co. of Oklahoma City.

In order for that transaction to be legal, Porter said, Wheatheart would have had to pay off the Fort Worth loan plus interest before allowing another bank to take a mortgage.

$700,000 from loans made to the bankrupt cattle feeding operation.

On trial are former Wheatheart president John O. Pitts Jr. of Oklahoma City; J.D. Hodges, a company director of Woodward, Okla.; and Henry F. Shrum of Oklahoma City, the company's former treasurer.

The three officers of the bankrupt company were indicted by a federal grand jury here in March on 28 counts of fraud and conspiracy.

The charges allege that the men conspired to violate the federal head of cattle.'

Senate to determine abortion funding ban

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate, which has twice refused to accept a complete ban on the use of federal funds for abortions, must now decide whether a partial ban is more acceptable.

A House-passed measure that the Senate is considering today would prohibit federal funds from being spent for abortions through Medicaid except when the life of a woman is endangered by a full-term pregnancy.

The House approved the proposal Thursday by a 256-114 vote. It is attached to a $56.6 billion appropriations bill for the departments of labor and health education and welfare and may face a veto because the appropriations bill is $4 billion more than President Ford asked for.

The abortion amendment was agreed to Wednesday by House-Senate conferees trying to come up with a compromise between the original House bill that would have banned all federal funds for abortions and the Senate bill that had no limiting provisions.

The amendment permits federally funded abortions when they are considered medical necessities by physicians. Such abortions are not precluded when a woman's life is endangered by disease. The amendment prohibits federal payment for abortions "as a method of family planning or for emotional or social convenience."

Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., who had drafted the abortion amendment, urged his House colleagues to adopt it quickly so that Congress would have time to try and override any presidential veto before the lawmakers adjourn Oct. 2.

Opponents of the amendment claim it is unconstitutional and invades a woman's right to privacy.

Patty anxious to know fate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - She sits in her cell, crocheting, reading away the hours and, according to her attorney, apprehensively pondering her future at the hands of the court. Soon she will know.

A federal judge in San Francisco ordered Thursday that Patricia Hearst be brought here from her San Diego prison for sentencing a week from today on bank robbery charges. The announcement came two days before the anniversary of her capture on

Miss Hearst was convicted March 20 of armed bank robbery and use of a firearm in a felony. The months since the end of her trial have brought changes in her, and in the persons whose lives she

"She's apprehensive about her sentencing," attorney Albert Johnson said recently from the federal prison in San Diego. "She is very hopeful, as we are, that the judge will understand the fact that the whole thing was caused by a violent and brutal kidnaping. We will urge credit for time served and probation."

Judge William H. Orrick Jr.'s choice ranges between that minimum and the maximum of 35 years' imprisonment. Since her conviction, Miss Hearst, 22, has been in San Diego undergoing psychiatric testing that Orrick will use in reaching his decision. Miss Hearst's celebrated eight-week trial disclosed details of her 19 months with the terrorist

Symbionese Liberation Army that kidnaped her 21/2 years ago. Now, there are signs that she is looking ahead to a more normal existence. "She'll be able to have a normal, useful life, although there are some individuals who'd like to do her harm," her attorney said, noting that Miss Hearst was listening as he spoke on the phone.

"There would be problems with the security situation. But she has indicated she'd like to return to school and finish her education. "She'd like to participate in magazine enterprises of her father and probably do writing. She's tending toward journalism and probably business. She has in the past indicated an interest in law but has to expose

Meanwhile, Miss Hearst reads and crochets scarves and caps for her parents and other family members who visit her weekly. She often talks to Johnson, her most frequent visitor, about personal and legal matters such as the appeal being prepared.

"I hope no one has to ever go through what I've had to go through," Johnson quoted her as saying. There are signs that her parents, too, anticipate more tranquil times. During the trial, Miss Hearst's father. San Francisco Examiner President Randolph A. Hearst, spent little time at the newspaper.

"Randy is returning to more daily concerns at the newspaper," says Tom Eastham, former Examiner executive editor and currently Hearst correspondent in Washington, "Increasingly, he's at the paper. He's returning to a routine supervisory corporate role.

Attorney William Coblentz, a family friend and UC regent, said: "Randy's adjustment is better than Catherine's. When you talk to Catherine, she goes ...well, she's still preoccupied with the case. I don't know what kind of routine she's in, but she ain't in the routine of going to regents meetings."

Schnabel guilty

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—After a year in the headlines, Senate Secretary Charles Schnabel has pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor in exchange for dismissal of five felony indictments against him

Schnabel's lawyers, Roy Minton and Charles Burton, worked out a deal with Travis County Dist. Atty. Bob Smith to have Schnabel plead guilty Thursday to facts he never denied—that he sent Senate secretaries to The University of Texas to help with track meets Schnabel was fined $2,000 and given a one-year probated sentence at the suggestion of the district attorney. That was part of the agreement.

"The point I tried to make." Schnabel told reporters afterward, 'was that I didn't receive a penny."

Minton put Schnabel on the stand, and the 43-year-old secretary testified he never profited personally from any act he performed in his 20 years in office, including the acts charged in the five felony indictments.

"It was an ordeal, but it's over." Schnabel said. "I'm glad I handled it this way

Asked how he thought his guilty plea to a misdemeanor would affect his chances for re-election by the senators next January, Schnabel said, "I think that those chances are not severely affected. I have discussed it with some members of the Senate, and I have received favorable resposes," he said.

The district attorney shook his head and declined to comment on the agreement

Schnabel sent five Senate secretaries to type "heat sheets" at the Texas Relays in 1975 and said that he assigned another secretary to the UT sports information office for four months in 1974

Schnabel says lending one state agency's employes to another agency is unusual but not unprecedented. But the district attorney said that amounted to "an unauthorized exercise of his official powers," a violation of the Penal Code

By pleading guilty, Schnabel avoided a long felony trial at which he likely would have been convicted of the lesser crime anyway, because he has always admitted sending the secretaries to UT

Dallas officer

DALLAS (AP) - A 62year-old man was charged with two counts of murder Thursday night after surrendering to detectives for the slaying of his wife-secretary to Dallas Police Chief Don Byrd- and an offduty policeman.

Theran Roble Ayers surrendered to Dallas detectives at his home within an hour after two bodies were found in a van along the Trinity River Thursday af-

Police said a telephone call to headquarters tipped them where to find the bodies of Mrs. Pearl Avers, 54, and police officer A. B. Hammett, Judge George Orndorf set the bond at $25,000 on each murder charge.

Deputy Chief J. D. Bryant, commander of the criminal investigation division, said the victims were shot in the head with a shotgun as they sat in the front seat.

Chief Bryant said detectives reported the victims apparently were eating lunch when the blasts were fired through the window on the driver's side.

Fellow workers said the Ayers and Hammett families had gone on camping trips together and had participated in school activities of their children.

Officer Dwaine Hall, an assistant to Chief Byrd, said Ayers called him 13 minutes after a man called the fire department requesting an ambulance and telling where the dead bodies could be found.

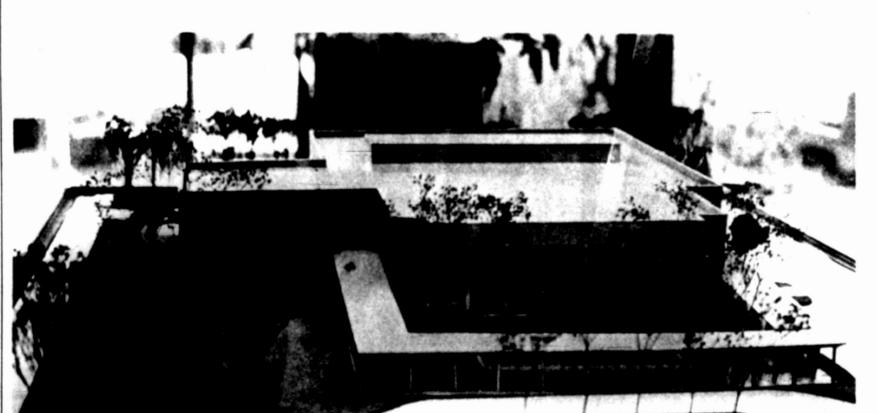

Hall said Ayers told him he had shot his wife and Hammett and told him where to find the bodies. The detectives said Ayers took them into a bedroom at his surburban Hutchins home and pointed out a 12-gauge shotgun on a wall rack, which he said was the murder weapon. Hammett, a 22-year veteran of the police department, was also a Dallas traffic reporter for radio station KRLD beginning in 1960.

American home: its roots deep in history By MARIE STANTON

Copley News Service

How might a typical American home be described today? Would it be constructed of wood or glass or adobe? Would it be one story, two or three? Would its facade rise majestically with Grecian pillars or would its low-profile, whitewashed siding ramble across a hill? Would it have a red tile roof or thatched one? The questions could go on forever.

The point is the American home hardly can be categorized or even described because, like America, the American home has become regionalized.

It grows out of the land and the way of life of that particular part of the United States and is influenced by the world as seen from that locale.

There are the white farmhouses of Kansas, the brick town houses of Boston, the plantation mansions of Virginia, the contemporary glassand-wood structures of Washington, the ranch homes of Wyoming, the pueblo-inspired dwellings of New Mexico and the mission-influenced architecture of California. All are American. But once, back three and a half centuries ago, the American home was on the plains and woodlands, on the banks of great rivers and in the sandstone canyons where the Indians, America's first people, carved out their living on the land.

Then when Jamestown and Plymouth settlements were established, the influences of the Old World were transported to the new shores. The early Colonists brought with them Jacobean Europe which they remembered. After the Revolution, American styles and tastes, although still heavily influenced by European aristocracy, began to emerge with a look and a way of life totally their own. With each wave of newcomers through three centuries, new influences from various countries were reflected in the American home as it evolved. Just how the American home originated in Eastern America is an

Tomatoes are being scrutinized

By MARIAN BURROS The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A government tomato specialist said he can't "defend" the taste of supermarket tomatoes, but he'd like to do something to improve it, if possible.

Dr. Allan Stoner, a geneticist at the Department of Agriculture's Research Service in Beltsville, Md., said recently that none of the scientists with whom he works at USDA 'are trying to defend the quality of what we get, but you have to expect that if tomatoes are available 12 months a year."

He said his colleagues hope to discover what it is in red, ripe juicy tomatoes from the garden that makes them taste so good. If they can find out, he said, then perhaps they can breed tomatoes that will taste better even though they are picked long before they are ripe.

At an informal briefing and tastetesting recently. Stoner explained why those supermarket tomatoes are so tasteless. Because they must travel several thousand miles to reach markets, the tomatoes are picked either "mature green" or green with a tinge of pink, what the industry euphemistically calls "vine-ripened." They also call such tomatoes interesting study which spans the subjects of architecture, the decorative arts, politics, education and just about all phases of American life. The study of American homes is the study of social history.

And today Americans are indeed fortunate that they can literally walk through this social history in numerous villages, towns and reconstructed areas to see just how life was lived in the homes of Eastern America.

Early history can be traced at Plymoth Plantation, about 40 miles south of Boston, where a living museum of the 17th Century contains some of the examples of reproduc-tions of some of the earliest

From homes circa 1680 there's the treasure house of Winterthur two and a half miles from the site of (pronounced Winter-toor), the Du Pont family's collection of Americana ranging up into the 19th Century. Winterthur is six miles west of Wilmington, Del.

For a look at 17th and 18th Century America, the best-known example is at restored Colonial Williamsburg in Virginia, where the entire old village, once a center of politics and government, has been restored.

Many advocating 'delawyering'

By PHILIP HAGER The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — In recent months, the courts of the land have been called upon to decide:

Whether the University of Oklahoma can be forced by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. to reduce its football coaching staff from 13 to 9.

-Whether a patron of Clyde's Bar on "M" Street in Washington was illegally denied admission for lack of coat and tie, causing him to suffer "humiliation, scorn and discrimination."

-Whether federal prisons are unconstitutional because, as "lowcost housing projects," they exclude whites and therefore violate the Civil Rights Acts of 1964 and 1968.

Whatever their merits, these cases vividly underscore the vast array of disputes that have swamped the nation's judicial system.

But now critics of the system, including lawyers themselves, are proposing sweeping new ways to relieve congestion and improve access to the courts - among them, as some put it, "delawyering" the

"There's this kind of silly notion that everyone has his right to a shot at the Supreme Court — even if the Supreme Court never takes his kind of case. I think you'd get better justice under alternative systems." Some critics see alternative forums as providing better means of resolving disputes for those who find their access to lawyers and courts blocked by cost, congestion and other obstacles.

Frequently, small monetary disputes and civil claims don't really lend themselves to the oftenintimidating atmosphere of the courtroom, said Jane Lakes Frank, chief counsel to the Senate subcommittee on Representation of Citizen Interests, chaired by Sen. John V. Tunney (D-Calif.).

"The formalities of the courts just aren't suited to some controversies," she said. "To the maximum extent, disputes should be resolved in the most informal, personal basis possible."

The caseload in the federal system increased 77 per cent from 1940 to 1960, then jumped 106 per cent involving divorce, child custody and other family by 1975. The number of federal appellate cases alone tripled in the past decade. In simple divorces, uncontested wills, routine real estate transactions and minor criminal cases, reformers believe lawyers can be eliminated.

For example, in Philadelphia, defendants facing minor charges (such as an assault complaint brought by a neighbor) may transfer case to a special community tribunal, where an arbitrator attempts to arrange a settlement between complainant and defendant — a solution often more advantageous to both than the traditional courtroom

Consumer complaints also seemto offer a fertile field for legal experimentation, here, reformers call for simplified, more understandable sales and finance contracts; business-operated consumer redress procedures (ranging from money-back guarantees to more formal, industry-wide complaint panels); and substantially revamped small claims courts, with simplified procedures, increased hours of operation, higher monetary ceilings and less dominance by credit agencies

Constitution Day!

"We the people of the United provide for the common defence. need be promote the general Welfare, and ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution of the United States of America."

Thus, as you know, reads the Preamble to The Constitution of the United States of America, the greatest political document of all times.

But how about the Constitution itself; how familiar are you with it, really? How long has it been since you have read the document? For most of us, it most likely has been too long.

Today, however, is an excellent time to give serious thought to The Constitution of the United States of America.

Yes, this is Constitution Day, marking the 189th anniversary of the document's adoption. The occasion ushers in the observance of Constitution Week, one of the most meaningful of this nation's annual observances.

being sponsored by the Lt. William Brewer and Col. Theunis Dey chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, as is their usual custom. The observance nationwide is sponsored by the national D.A.R.

A Thursday noon luncheon being arranged by the D.A.R. chapters will be a highlight of the week's observance here.

Fortunate, indeed, are we that there are those patriotic groups who are interested sufficiently to sponsor this particular observance which means so much to America. This very definitely helps keep America strong. It especially is fitting in this Bicentennial year that special emphasis should be placed on the importance of the Constitution.

It is because of this interest and assistance that this great and meaningful document has endured through the years.

Yet, all too many of us take the Constitution for granted. We go merrily along life's way without ever giving serious thought as to what makes it all possible - the individual freedoms which we enjoy. So many know so little about the precious document or of its true meaning.

There are those individuals and groups, however, who would devalue the document or perhaps even do away with it altogether, thereby destroying many of the freedoms which we as citizens enjoy.

We should at least become States, in Order to form a more sufficiently familiar with the perfect Union, establish Justice. Constitution so that we might be insure domestic tranquility, in a better position to defend it if

President Abraham Lincoln, in secure the Blessings of Liberty to a "Study the Constitution" message, said:

"Let every American, every lover of liberty, every wellwisher to his posterity swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and laws let every American pledge his life, his property, and his sacred honor. Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty Let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges, let it be written in primers, in spelling books and in almanacs, let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in the legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let The observance in Midland is it become the political religion of the nation, and, in particular, a reverence for the Constitution."

President Lincoln's words of wisdom were of special importance when he wrote them. And they are just as important and as meaningful today as they were then.

We should remember always that the price of liberty is eternal

This is why Constitution Day and Constitution Week assume and hold their high ratings among the nation's annual observances.

A CHANGING WORLD:

Perhaps Carter is in tune with times

By JOHN PINKERMAN Copley News Service

Well, the newspaper columns, the radio waves and the television images are producing more heat than light these days — all of which means our quadrennial election process is officially under way.

Carter's mission is a tougher one than appears at first glance. Love, church and the regular guy approach just won't do it anymore. The yo-yo nature of the polls must tell him something.

ASIA PERSPECTIVE:

Taiwan's nuclear move could be fight for survival

By JOHN PINKERMAN Copley News Service

American politicians are excited because word has leaked out that the little Republic of China on Taiwan may be moving toward manufacture of an atomic weapon.

The Taipei regime that is the stumbling block in six-year U.S. hopes to establish full diplomatic relations with the Reds of Peking may be secretly reprocessing spent uranium fuel. This would be an important step in producing weapons materiels. One reaction to this development, coming on the heels of the U.S. protest against France selling Pakistan a nuclear plant that would give the volatile Asian nation an atomic bomb capability, was the little disguised sneer of the London Times: "The United States is beginning to suspect that the policy it pursued over 23 years of the free sharing of information and materials for the peaceful' uses of nuclear technology has been a dreadful mistake. Forty countries could have enough plutonium by 1985 to build atomic Promises and international inspections aside, in the case of Taiwan, a more to the point observation might be: "Why shouldn't the increasingly hemmed in, 16 million island Chinese go nuclear in their own way? They don't have much information that once-loyal allies are really loyal anymore.

They have been loyal to the United States through World War II and since they fled from the mainland in 1949 on the Communist takeover. They were loyal United Nations members and a charter member of the Security Council since the world body's origin. They were close allies of Japan.

What has been the reward for that loyalty? They have been booted out of the U.N. in favor of the Communist Chinese regime. Japan has broken relations in order to cozy up to Peking. The United States has effectively cut off communications diplomatically in its dilemma over establishing ties with Peking. Two presidents of the United States have toured Asia — but skipped Taipei. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has been out there 13 times — but has skipped Taipei.

The Soviet Union is a latent enemy and always has been.

On top of this Red China has atomic weapons, a delivery system and has vowed to take over Taiwan. Russia has a like nuclear capability. Japan has an atomic weapons potential despite its constitutional disavowals. India has atomic, weapons and has ducked the stringent "peaceful use" admonitions of the U.S. agreement on nuclear know-how by calling the weapons "designed for peace." Taiwan is in a corner - and is reacting as one might expect any threatened nation to react. It may be using American and Canadian peaceful use technology and materials toward a situation where it can save its own skin. Neither should Canada scream too much.

It dropped Taipei in favor of Peking

This does not diminish the danger in nuclear weapons proliferation. France's sale of a reprocessing plant to Pakistan is a dangerous adventure. So is West Germany's plan to sell a complete nuclear fuel cycle facility to Brazil. In fact, there is some peril in every "peaceful" nuclear sale the United States makes to any foreign nation.

However, we have gotten ourselves in our own mess, just as the London Times says. Congress is wrestling with the problem, as is President

Robert Fri, deputy administrator of the Energy Research and Develop-ment Administration, has warned Congress that prohibitive export controls on nuclear development "would likely drive our partners to other suppliers, thereby diminishing rather than enhancing our influence over nonproliferation.

Fri makes sense - and the Republic of China's secret weaponry activities are a natural extension of a fight for survival. There is great risk in enlargement of what once was a small big-power "nuclear club." But, Taiwan reasons realistically that when your friends desert you the alternative is to take care of yourself by all means available.

Midland College trustees Thursday

swarded construction contracts for almost $6.5 million.

The $6,448,000 total in low bids for two new buildings and an addition to an existing building was in excess of the $6.3 million voted in bonds in February. But college president Dr. Al G. Langford said invested bond money will yield almost $500,000 in income and the college has received some gifts for construction.

Total cost of the fine arts-academic classroom building and the addition to the occupational-technical building was $1,400 above estimated cost, architect Preston Geren said.

But the $3,267,000 cost of the multipurpose facility, called Chaparral Center, will be $190,800 above the predicted cost.

Trustees voted unanimously to accept the low bids on the facility and authorized Geren to trim approximately $50,000 off the cost of Chaparral Center by redesigning the parking lot.

General contract for the fine artsacademic classroom building and the occupational-technical addition went to Batson-Cook Co., bidding out of Dallas. The award was for $1,998,000. The Chaparral Center contract went to Herman Bennett Co. for A contract for 4671,900 was awarded to Midwest Electric of Midland for Trustees expressed some concern at the amount of time that will be required to build Chaparral Center. The Herman Bennett bid for the

MC contracts total $6.5 million

The occupational-technical addition must be completed by August 1977, under the bid specifications. Geren said the fine arts-academic classroom building should be ready by mid-term of the 1977-78 school year.

During his president's report, Langford told trustees 2,083 students have enrolled in fall semester classes at the college. He reported a drop of 140 veteran students with the end of GI Bill benefits for many but said he expects many of them to return to school later.

He also reported that eight of 12 tennis courts are in use now and the other four should be finished next week. Completion of the courts was delayed by grass growing through the surface of the courts.

The trustees authorized Langford to look into the possibility of constructing a building with restrooms and pro shop for the tennis center. Langford said the total cost of the building would be about $40,000 and he hopes the city will share the expense.

In other action, the trustees approved subsidizing the Midland Student Childcare Center with a $250 per month payment for salaries. The center cares for children of students at minimal rates. The money is needed because several employes who have been paid by government funds are no longer eligible for such payment.

Dean of students Camal Dakil said 55 of the 70 children at the center are children of Midland College students. Trustees also approved end-of-year budget amendments to reflect actual expenditure and revenue for the 1975-76 school year.

Total income, budgeted at $2,876,920, was $3,030,683. Total expense, budgeted at $2,831,819, was

Other bidders for general construction of all three buildings were as follows: Area Builders, $4,682,000; Batson-Cook Co., $4,490,000; J. W. Cooper, $4,811,000; Herman Bennett Co., $4,537,100; Rose and Sons. $5,298,400; Wilmac Constructors, Inc., $5,023,000, and Zapata Warrior

Other bids for Chaparral Center only were Area Builders for $2,664,000 and Batson-Cook for $2,550,000.

Unsuccessful combined bids for the electrical work were as follows: Broback Electric, $771,536; Burton Brothers Electric, $761,900; Cardinal Electric, $787,000, and General Engineering Corp., $796,000.

Other bidders for the fine artsacademic classroom building and occupational-technical addition electrical contract were: Broback Electric, $375,577; Burton Brothers Electric, $361,000; Cardinal Electric, $367,000, and General Engineering Corp., $373,000.

Other bidders for Chaparral Center electrical work alone were Broback Electric, $433,363; Burton Brothers Electric, $414,900; Cardinal Electric, $421,000, and General Engineering Corp., $426,000.

Unsuccessful combined bids for mechanical work on all three buildings were Batjer and Associates, $1,427,000; General Engineering, $1,635,800; Brown-Olds Corp. $1,419,512, and Plains Plumbing Co. $1,459,361.

Midland man struck by car

A 61-year-old Midland man was treated and released from a Midland hospital Thursday morning for bruises he received in a pedestriancar accident.

Floyd Stiles, of 4314 Erie Drive, was taken to the hospital by Fire Department ambulance after he was struck at 9:23 a.m. by a car while he was walking across the parking lot at the Main Post Office, 100 W. Wall St.

The car was driven by Walter Lee Sutton Jr.

PARTS TAKEN

Some $475 worth of parts were taken from trucks at the Huckabay Chevrolet, Inc., 4100 W. Wall St., it was reported at 2:51 p.m. Thursday. The trucks were not locked but were parked in a fenced lot.

DOORS SMASHED

Someone drove a vehicle through the back doors of Midland Oil Scouts, 704 S. Pecos St., to enter the building and remove an electric typewriter estimated to be worth $200. Also taken was $2 in change from a soft drink machine. The burglary was reported at 7:34 a.m. Thursday.

AUSTIN (AP) - The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals rejected a plea by Jerry Sadler today to certify him, instead of Jon Newton, as the Democratic party candidate for railroad commissioner on the November general election ballot.

Newton defeated Sadler in a runoff, 541,444 votes to 272,350, but Sadler filed suit to sub-stitute his name for Newton's on the ballot. Sadler contended that

Newton was ineligible because as a member of the 1975 legislature he had voted for the ap-propriations bill, which increased the railroad commissioner's salary, and this is against the state constitution.

Newton argued that Sadler, as a defeated candidate, had no right to bring the suit. District Court Judge Herman Jones agreed. The ap-peals court said it thought Jones' ruling was correct, citing a court standard first set in 1928.

> If you enjoy four yards and a cloud of dust football, you're going to be in for a real treat tonight, when Midland and Lubbock Monterey tangle in a battle of unbeatens at Memorial

In regard to his defense however, Bulldog coach Jerry Hopkins has other aspirations. It's called two yards and punt.

'We cannot let them control the football," Hopkins stated earlier this week. "If they manage to control it, it will force our own offense to play conservatively, and you don't win football games that way."

The man Brian Booker, Shane Fletcher, Chris Gaddy and company will have to stop is Plainsmen quarterback Ron Reeves, a bullish, 200-pound option quarterback, who heads his team's awesome running Bulldog assistant coach Stan Moore scouted Monterey last weekend, and had nothing but praise for the play of Reeves. "He's a big boy for a quarterback," Moore said, "and he can run real well. He's got good speed, and doesn't give away any size to defensive linemen. As a matter of fact, Monterey likes to use Reeves defensively on goal line stands."

Midland's own offense, which rang impressive 21-6 win over El Paso Eastwood, has been the subject of equal concern the past few days, as it attempts to compensate for the loss of split end David Isby, who broke his

"We've got our work cut out for us," Hopkins admitted. They can move the ball on the ground, and the variety of defenses they use can make a team look mighty bad offensively. But if we can play as well as we did last week, I think we'll give 'em a ball game." Hopkins was noticeably pleased with his team's performance against Eastwood, but he is still far from satisfied. "Our offensive line did a real fine job picking them up, and Kevin (Widner), Rusty (Maroney), Phillip (Ward), Alvin (Price) and the rest were finding the holes. But there is always room for improvement.

"This game may be non-district, but it's a big one in more ways than one," he added. "If we can go into district play unbeaten, it will give us a lot of momentum, and with Permian only two weeks away, we're gonna need a lot of that." Maybe even six yards and a cloud of dust.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - Not years. since 1969 has Alabama lost two regular season football games in a row. But Southern Methodist Coach Ron Meyer says his team has "full gear on" to do just that.

Alabama was a 10-7 victim of Mississippi last Saturday while SMU was a 34-14 victor over Texas Christian in Meyer's coaching debut at the Texas school.

Meyer said he told the Mustangs just after the TCU victory "if anybody...doesn't feel that they are going to beat Alabama...then don't waste my time this week and don't waste their time."

AFTER DROPPING its second season-opener in a row, Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant said: "There's no magic wand for us. You don't have a wand and come back to win 11 like we did last year."

The Crimson Tide was beaten 20-7 by Missouri in 1975. But then Alabama went on to take apart other opponents and post a 13-6 victory over Penn State in the Sugar Bowl-the first bowl game victory for the Tide in nine

Stargell's homer helps whittle Phils' lead to 4

By Associated Press

Where there's a Willie, there's a way for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"We're not giving up," says Pitt-sburgh's Willie Stargell, "We have the will to continue, no matter what the circumstances.'

Stargell sounded Pittsburgh's homestretch battle cry after blasting a home run to help the Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-6 Thursday night and cut their National League East lead to four games.

It was 151/2 games at one point last month, but the swaggering Pirates have chopped most of it off by winning 17 of their last 22 starts-including five straight against the Phillies.

THE TEAMS played through a long

DUFFY DYER started the Pirates' ninth when he was hit by a Reed pitch. Dilone went in to run and reached second on a sacrifice bunt by Omar Moreno. Pinch-hitter Ed Kirkpatrick flied out before Stennett doubled into center field for the winning run.

Bill Robinson knocked in four runs for Pittsburgh with two hits, including his 21st home run of the season. Stargell's 17th home run of the year, a solo shot in the fifth, had increased the Pirate lead to 5-0.

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark thought perhaps some good could come out of the disappointing

"It was an inspirational thing, the way we came back from a big deficit," he said. "We haven't done that in a long time."

Reds 4, Dodgers 2 Cincinnati left-hander Don Gullett, finding his 1975 form after a month of inactivity, won his second straight start by beating Los Angeles with a seven-hitter. The victory reduced Cincinnati's "magic" number to four. Any combination of four Cincinnati victories or Los Angeles defeats will give the Reds a second consecutive National League West pennant.

Gullett retired the last 15 men and drove in a run as the Reds won their 12th game in 15 meetings with the Dodgers this year. Gullett, 9-3, lifted his lifetime record against Los Angeles to 14-5. The only unsigned player on the World Champions, he has been troubled by shoulder injuries all season.

"I'm elated that I was able to throw the ball as hard as I did the last three innings," said Gullett. "The stamina and strength is still there."

Stove registers surprise

ATLANTA (AP) - "I kept it inside but it still hurt badly to lose," said top-seeded Martina Navratilova after she was upset by Holland's Betty Stove in the Women's National Indoor Tennis Championships Thursday.

Miss Stove, 31, her nation's No. 1 player, knocked off Miss Navratilova 6-1, 3-6, 6-3, leaving only two seeds in the tournament which ends Sunday.

It was the second upset in two weeks for Miss Navratilova, who defected from Czechoslovakia to this country a year ago.

The other-at Forest Hills-caused her to cry after she lost her firstround match in the U.S. Open. There were no tears Thursday.

Penn State gets its big chance

By Associated Press

Penn State football Coach Joe Paterno figures this is the time for his Nittany Lions to make a major bid for a national championship. Penn State, rated seventh in the week's Associated Press poll, hosts second-rated Ohio State and it is not hard to figure what would happen if Paterno's team beats the Buckeyes in the regionally televised game.

Also scheduled to be shown on regional television are ninth-rated Georgia at Clemson, Colorado at Washington and Yale at Brown.

Paterno, the winningest coach in college football over the past decade (94-18-1) says, "It's a great time for us to play Ohio State.

"WE'RE COMING off a win (15-12) over a good team (Stanford). Ohio State won its first game. It's on regional television. It's an incentive to our people.

Paterno is not overestimating his team's strength.

"We're a good football team, but certainly not outstanding, not yet. I'm pleased with the defense. The offense is a little slower coming around. We're about at where I figured we'd be. It may take three or four more games to be pretty good," he said.

Paterno has indicated that his team may be the best he has had going into a season since the 1973 team. That club was 12-0 and beat Louisiana State in the Orange Bowl. PATERNO HAS his team passing ford) to what has to be the best running attack in the country," Paterno observed. Ohio State passed the ball twice last week against Michigan State, completing one. The Buckeyes won 49-21. This week Stanford tries to be a real giant killer as it tries to upet the nation's No. 1 team, Michigan.

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler knows his club will be challenged by quarterback Mike Cordova, who passed for 290 yards when the teams got together for a 19-19 tie last year. He'll be facing a defense that gave up 268 yards in a 40- 27 triumph over Wisconsin last week.

MICHIGAN STADIUM'S second straight 101,000 crowd is expected for the game, the first of three non-league encounters on Michigan's schedule. Schembechler called Cordova "a passer—a REAL passer ... You and I know they're gonna get 200-300 yards passing Saturday. . They've got excellent defense," he added. "We'll have to earn what we get. We've gotta work for first downs. We're not gonna get 56- yard plays."

Michigan's third play from serimmage against Wisconsin was a 56yard touchdown run by sophomore tailback Harlan Huckleby.

PHILADELPHIA

. TATE

When he first came to Midland as a one-man sports staff in 1953, Ted Battles once took a look at a particularly tight allotment of weekend space and half-jokingly referred to The Reporter-Telegram as "West Texas' lvy League newspaper, the only one that deemphasized football."

Those days are just a dim memory.

Today the new and expanded sports department provides the most complete coverage in Texas west of Dallas and north of Houston.

In the last two years, The Reporter-Telegram has introduced a 24-hour Associated Press leased Sports wire to its services for Permian Basin area readers.

The R-T's broad range of detailed coverage includes major league box scores every day, weekly American and National League batting and pitching summaries, major NFL and college game statistics as well as National Hockey League and National Basketball League box scores.

Coverage of PGA and LPGA golf is the most comprehensive in West Texas and reporting of tennis has been expanding with the increase of interest and participation in a sport that has seen a renewal boom in recent years.

For features, in depth study, penetrating comment and analysis, The Reporter-Telegram offers readers Copley news Service in addition to its AP wire.

The Reporter-Telegram is the only West Texas newspaper serviced by the Washington Post, Los Angeles Times wire, which provides another viewpoint of the world of sports. The staff represents a total of more than 40 years of sports reporting experience.

Ted Battles

Heading the four-man sports staff is Ted Battles, who has won more than a dozen APME writing awards while reporting West Texas high school and college football and pro baseball. Battles writes Battle Scene, one man's view of the world of sports. His beat includes the Texas League Cubs, Midland College basketball and college football.

'MOST COMPLETE SPORTS COVERAGE IN TEXAS WEST OF DALLAS AND NORTH OF HOUSTON"

Bob Dillon

Eight-year veteran Bob Dillon, a past first place winner in the APME writing competition, is the R-T's man about Midland, Odessa, and 5-4A, covering football, basketball and baseball. Bob's beat emphasizes Midland schools and he has been an astute observer of The West Texas prep scene for 15 years, coming to Midland from the Odessa American.

> Terry Williamson, four-year veteran of The Reporter-Telegram staff, heads the intensive, personalized coverage of R-T area high school sports. Terry's column probes behind the scenes in the area for in-depth and human interest studies and enjoys wide popularity throughout the Permian Basin area.

Terry Williamson

Paul Domowitch is the newest addition to the staff, coming to Texas from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where he attended Wilkes College. Paul will cover Midland and 5-4A sports.

SATURDAY WEEKENDER

The Midland Reporter-Telegram's recently inaugurated Saturday morning edition provides a vastly increased dimension to the newspaper's sports coverage with fresh, down to earth, straight from the shoulder, up to the minute reports on the previous night's area football, as well as other sports.

Paul Domowitch

If it's worth reporting, Williamson or one of the staff usually is there. Last fall, The Reporter-Telegram personally staffed seven Crane, two Lamesa, four Reagan County, five McCamey, two Rankin, two Andrews and three Stanton games. No other West Texas sports staff covers its area as thoroughly.

Midland and Robert E. Lee's girls volleyball teams take on a pair of Panhandle teams Saturday when Amarillo High and Tascosa come to the Tall City.

Coach Jo Ann Martin's Midland Bulldogs are undefeated in three outings while Lee is 0-2 on the year. MHS has beaten Fort Stockton, Pecos and Monahans which is the defending Class AAA state champion.

While Midland is facing Amarillo at 10 a.m. Saturday in the MHS Gymnasium, Lee tries Tascosa at the same time. The teams switch gyms at 2 p.m. Saturday with Tascosa at Midland and Amarillo battling Lee.

The doubleheaders set the stage for District 5-4A play next week for both Midland schools.

The Buildogs play Odessa Permian Tuesday in the MHS Gym and then Big Spring Thursday on its home floor while Lee travels to Odessa and San Angelo on Tuesday and Thursday.

SWC shoots at .500 this week

By Associated Press

The Southwest Conference may find itself hard-pressed to bat .500 this week in eight attractive intersectional football jousts, including four on the road in the deep south.

Baylor is at Auburn, Southern Methodist is at Alabama, Houston is at Florida and Texas Christian is at Tennessee as the SWC goes four-onfour against the Southeast Conference. In every game, the SWC is the underdog.

Auburn is a 5½ point favorite over Baylor, Tennessee is an 18-point choice over TCU, Alabama is a 22-point nod over SMU, and Florida is an 8-point selection over Houston.

In other games, 11th ranked Texas

A&M is a 19-point favorite over Kansas State at College Station, 19th rated Texas is a 15-point favorite over North Texas State in Austin, 12th ranked Arkansas is a field goal selection over Oklahoma State at Little Rock, and the Rice-Utah matchup at Houston is rated pick'em.

Cooper-Killeen heads 5-4A grid schedule

Midland's confrontation with Lubbock Monterey along with the Abilene Cooper-Killeen game in Killeen top the schoolboy schedule tonight in games involving District 5-4A football teams.

Both Midland and Monterey go into the game undefeated in two games while Cooper and Killeen have also escaped with perfect records in their first two outings of the year.

Robert E. Lee's Rebels are on the road for the second consecutive week, facing Plainview's Bulldogs on the South Plains with a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

San Angelo Central's Bobcats, with a surprising 0-2 record may just take out their vengence tonight against the San Antonio Roosevelt Rough Riders in San Angelo. The Bobcats have dropped narrow contests to stateranked Bryan and Killeen.

Abilene's speedy Eagles have another tough chore tonight in P.E. Shotwell Stadium in Abilene when they take on the big and talented Temple Wildcats. Abilene dropped a Austin last week after blowing plast past Wichita Falls Rider, 39-0.

Big Spring continues its rivalry with Class AAA Snyder in Snyder and this one shapes up as toss-up even though the Tigers are unbeaten in two games. Snyder holds wins over Monahans and Borger while Big Spring has lost to Andrews, but surprised Hobbs, N.M., 9-0, last week in its home opener in Big Spring.

Odessa High faces Hobbs this time around, but in the New Mexico City

Lee, MHS face tough old foes BY TED BATTLES

BATTLE SCENE

Year in and year out, Lubbock Monterey and Plainview provide Tall City high schools with their toughest predistrict tests and chances are that will be the case again tonight.

Plainview won its first two games against Midland Lee, but the Rebels have swept the last four and probably the most memorable game of the series came in 1971...the one that got

It was Lee's second year under Coach Jim Acree and the Rebels in their first two games had equalled the victory totals of the previous two

Bill Davis brought a lean, mean Bulldog eleven to Midland's Memorial Stadium and that night, they were appropriately named. When it came to possession of the football, they were like a hungry Bulldog with a bone.

AFTER A 7-7 first half, Lee's only acquaintance with the football was a nodding one as Plainview dominated the ball for all but about three plays in the third quarter.

The Bulldogs won 21-7, but the Rebels' tenacious defense in that second half perhaps was the making of the team and as it turned out it was the game in which the Maroon

Lee finished 5-5 that year and never really felt out of any game. Following 0-10 and 2-8 seasons, 5-5 was almost as good as the district title in 1974.

MIDLAND'S SERIES with Monterey has been one of the West Texas classics, fraught with frills and spiced with surprises.

For example, Midland upset Monterey innings on a last ditch punt return by Robert Ellis in a 22-21 thriller at Lubbock, a loss from which the Plainsman recovered to advance to the state AAAA quarterfinals.

Then there was 1967, the year disaster befell Monterey on the eve of the game and the starting senior quarterback was lost through injury. Coach Jim Odom had to start a sophomore who had never even played quarterback in a varsity game. The Purple Pack would have been better off against the senior. Bobby Lewis sparked underdog Monterey to a 20-7 win and, strangely enough, never played quarterback again after his sophomore year.

Since the 1970's began, most of the games have been spellbinders. Midland missed a last second field goal in 1972 and lost 17-16. The 1973 game was a 7-7 tie and it looked like another sister-kissing standoff in 1974.

HOWEVER, MIKE Hudspeth bulled over from the two with 10 seconds left for a 14-7 Midland win.

Even the one-sided games are special, like last year's when Monterey was an overwhelming favorite. Midland had just seen its season wash down the Rio Grande with a 3-2 loss to little-respected Eastwood. Monterey, meanwhile, had come off a total route of Wichita Falls Rider, which the year before had won bi-district and returned most of the same caste.

As everyone predicted, it was a rout. Midland muffled quarterback Scott Gardner and led 28-0 before the reserves yielded a couple of last quarter scores.

Bullpups knock off Monahans JV, 14-0

The Midland High Bullpups kept pace with their varsity counterparts Thursday night, when they rolled over the Monahans junior varsity, 14-0 at Memorial Stadium for their second straight win

Halfback Randy Moore paced the Bullpups to victory, scoring both of his team's touchdowns on runs of 29 and eight yards. Midland backfield mate Chuck Barron had a very productive night as well, gaining 129

Midland's defense, which limited Monahans to only 89 yards in total offense on the night, stopped the visitors to the Memorial gridiron cold on their next possession attempt, and the Bullpups came right back.

With just over three minutes remaining in the first half, the Midland running game got rolling again. Taking over on their own 30, Moore and Barron ran for substantial gains, that got the Bullpups across midfield with over 2:26 showing on the Quarterback Mowles then put the ball up in the air for only the second time in the contest, and found Heineman, his split end open for a 14yard gain. Barron broke off tackle for a quick 16, and then Moore went to work again, following tremendous blocking for the eight-yard score

Midland went for two on their PAT attempt, and Mowles found Barron wide open in the end zone for an easy connection.

After managing only 14 yards in total offense during the first half. Monahans did put a little more zest into their attack in the final two quarters. But the Bullpup defense corralled them time and time again, and Midland hung on for a lazy win.

Three Cal players arrested

DALLAS (AP) - Three University of California football players were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct early Thursday after police said a woman complained that she was harassed in a bar.

The three were identified by police as linebacker Peter Anthony Sitta of San Diego and defensive back Wade Allan Johnson and fullback Paul Kent Jones, both of San Jose, Calif. Johnson also was charged with theft and escape, according to police records. All posted bond and were released after their coach, Mike White, went to the Dallas jail.

The team was in Dallas working out in preparation for Saturday's game with Oklahoma, in Norman, Okla. The team left by bus for Norman later Thursday.

Two other persons were also arrested in the incident.

The Associated Press erroneously identified a John Williams arrested with the players as being the John Williams listed on California's football roster. The John Williams arrested was not a team member.

Dave Maggard, California athletic director, later confirmed that Sitta, Johnson and Jones had been arrested and released on bail.

"All players are with the team," he said upon his arrival in Oklahoma

Maggard said White would take disciplinary action against the players involved at some time in the future, but he did not know what the action would be or when it would be

'The entire incident is unfortunate Maggard said. "I think at this point the matter is closed and we are preparing to play Oklahoma." he

NEW YORK (AP) -Stock prices moved ahead today as the market carried its recent advance into a third session. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 4.40 to 992.35 at noon and advances led declines broadly on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers credited the advance to the momentum of Thursday's 8-point gain in the Dow. They also said another drop in the nation's money supply this past week raised some hopes that the Federal Reserve will ease its credit policy to help speed the recovery.

Stock prices dipped around 11 a.m., as a rumor circulated on Wall Street that an attempt had been made on Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's life. The White House and the State Department denied the rumor. Kissinger is in Africa for a third round of talks with the Union of South Africa's prime minister. Brokers said some disappointment that Citibank failed to lower its prime rate today may also have caused some selling.

The most active stock was Panhandle Eastern Pipeline, down 1/8 to 381/4.

The nyse composite index was up .23 to 56.44 at noon and the American Stock Exchange market value index was up .35 to 103.17.

The NYSE volume was an active 12.95 million shares in the first two hours compared with 6.87 million shres the day before.

RCA Corp. was down % to 274. Its chairman resigned today after disclosing he failed to file personal income tax statements from 1971 through 1975. The company said its business was not affected by his former actions.

True Algarve not on coast

By JUNE GOODFIELD The Washington Post

Tourist developments have slid smoothly over the Algarve coastline, sheathing the real heart of the province as completely as a sheath does a dagger. To understand, to sense anything of this distinctive southern province of Portugal, one must travel at least seven miles inland to the small villages of the foothills. There the heart of the Algarve still beats from the accumulated toil of the people whose history, etched in their faces, is as revealing as a tell-tale line on a fossil.

Comapred to the people of the coast regions, they have been little touched by the tourist boom of the years just before the revolution. There was the occasional house to be built, the price of fish went up, but their basic pattern of life remained constant. Now as then — one can see a man and his mule painfully ploughing the furrow under the lee of a stranger's house which had cost many times more than he could ever hope to earn in a lifetime.

What did the revolution and the recent election mean to these people? I have come to know well one such community in the village of Santa Barbara de Nexe, some 600 feet above the coastal plain. It forms a community dispersed in more than one way: first, because the parish straggles for a radius of two to three miles. and second, because this is essentially an emigrant community which for years has been losing its population to America, Europe or Australia. The men return when they have enough money to build a house or, staying abroad a little longer, they return when they can give their children a professional education. Emigration on this scale bleeds a country, and strains its heart.

The parents of one such emigrant live a mile outside the village in a house with a mud floor and a bamboo roof. There are two or three outbuildings where almonds are stored. The one room used for living and sleeping has a bed, a table and a most splendid new motorcycle which belongs to their son, who is working in Germany. He also left behind his motor car which, covered with plastic, sits like a surprised and pensioned-off elephant in the bean patch. This son spent two years in Angola, fighting in a war which made little sense to him or his parents. One morning several years back, when he was home on leave. I came across his godmother weeping her heart out and I was met with the question, "Why do young men have to go away to be killed in wars which we do not understand?" Later, he returned and began to look for work and I saw him again at the christening of his goddaughter. Friends and relations packed into the small crowded room to eat bread, sardines, fishcakes, sausage, cheese, olives, sweet-cakes and beer. He turned to me and asked me two questions. He himself was going to get married shortly - Would I be god mother to the wedding? Heretic though I am, I apparently qualified as a sponsor. I said, "Yes" with delight. He then asked. "What about making a revolution, here in Santa Barbara?" I said yes to that, too. Two years before it happened one could already sense not only that change must come but that it was long overdue.

By the time change came, Jose had left for Germany with his wife, and there he remains. At first glance, things seem to be going on in the village much as they did before, but to believe this would be to take a superficial attitude. Changes have come the first election was just the beginning. Had the ability to acquire and use red paint been an index of success, the Communists and the Left would have won that election hands had their chance and they blew it.

Thirty years earlier, Jose's godmother, now 51, had married a Communist of the old style. Her father and grandfather, hidden Communists, too, came from the Alentejo, that high, harsh hinterland where generations of absentee landlords squeezed the last drop of blood from a peasantry that had no alternative but to work like that or starve. Her husband, along with a number of his friends, was imprisoned by the secret police in Lisbon. When finally released, the others emigrated. But her husband, unable to emigrate for practical reasons, and unable to obtain a job because of his political connections, became an alcoholic.

What does she think of his present-day successors? Not much! In the old days, she told me, those who were Communists knew about work, knew about sharing and support and would do anything, risk anything, to help one another. The contemporary Communists in the small villates seem to do no work at all, yet manage well and are believed to be getting external support from somewhere.

Indeed, one man openly boasted of receiving 12,000 escudos ($395) a month from the Communist party (the amount may be exaggerated). On the day of the revolution in April 1974 he emerged as an avowed Communist, but shortly spoiled the effect by leasing the village dance-hall and immediately raising the price for an evening's entertainment. In the eyes of many of his comrades, he has now joined the ranks of the Capitalist Fascists.

The Sept. 13 issue of the weekly magazine says the surplus figures include not only idle tankers but also ships not used due to slow steaming or to other economic reasons.

Intertanko is promoting several other remedies: the conversion of suprlus shipbuilding capacity to tanker scrapping work; the use of idle tankers to store strategic oil reserves for the U.S. and Japan; and the conversion of old tankers into ballast and-or oil spill cleaning stations at major ports.

Smaller tankers have been grabbing more of the business from large and medium sized tankers which have had to operate at sometimes unprofitable rates, the magazine says. Worldwide, a few ships have been removed from the inactive list during the past few months, but from 40-50 million dwt of new ships will leave yards by Jan. 1, counterbalanced by only 12.5 million dwt in scrapping and Tanker owners are looking forward to the start of Alaskan North Slope productio, which will require about 3 million dwt of tanker capacity, and the initial deliveries to U. S. strategic storage reserves, requiring another 3 million dwt, both in 1977. But this 6 million dwt will have little effect on the world's surplus oil tanker capacity, the Journal says.

Spot sales approved

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The railroad commission approved Thursday spot sales of natural gas by Lo-Vaca Gatherig Co. to Transcontinental Gas

Pipe Line Corp. over a 60-day period.

Lo-Vaca told the commission the sale would enable the company and its customers to avoid payments under take-or-pay contracts and increase the volume of less expensive gas in the Lo-Vaca system.

The gas to be sold is "new gas" that is more costly than "old gas" under contract at cheaper prices.

Lo-Vaca intends to sell up to 5.1 billion cubic feet at a price of $2.27 per thousand cubic feet.
Savings to customers will be about 4.5 cents per thousand cubic feet, Lo-

Vaca said.

Offshore leasing bill facing President's veto

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Interior Secretary Thomas S. Kleppe Thursday hinted that a bill to drastically change the government's offshore oil and gas leasing practices may face a veto by President Ford. The administration "cannot responsibly accept" the legislation. Kleppe said, asserting that oil companies would lsoe interest in drilling for offshore oil if Congress passes the bill and sends it to Mr. Ford.

However, a House-Senate conference committee Thursday neared completion on the offshore leasing bill. Its proponents — Sen. Henry M Jackson (D-Wash.) and Rep. John M.

Bill would discourage development says delays built into legislation now before Congress will tend to discourage future energy developpending legislation could cause a 40 per cent curtailment of offshore oil and gas exploration within two years after enactment. Loucks, president of Imco Service.

C. P. Loucks said Thursday the a division of the Halliburton Co., also said the current five to seven years in time between offshore leasing and actual producton could be increased to nine years.

"At a time this nation needs to encourage further development of our energy resources, it appears the enactment of this legislaton would seriously delay and possible even halt the development of much needed offshore oil and gas reserves, Loucks said.

Act prescribes 70 precedural steps that must be taken between the leasing and the actual production of any offshore tracts.

"These steps, together with the actual work that must be performed usually means a wait of from five to seven years before any oil begins arriving onshore," he said.

Eddy strike completed

Eddy County, N.M., drew a Morrow gas discovery and an offset site.

Morris R. Antweil, Roswell, and Mesa Petroleum Co., operating from Midland, have announced completion of their No. 1 Mesa Grande, Morrow gas strike, 1/2 mile south of Carlsbad.

The calculated, absolute open flow was for 3.441 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, producing through perforations at 11,107-11,246 feet, after treating with 6,000 gallons of acid and 49,000 gallons and 30,000 pounds of fracture.

Murphy (D-N.Y.) — showed they had the votes to send the revised legislation to the House and Senate for final approval next week.

Jackson, replying to Kleppe's compliants, said that President Ford "will have to bear the risk of a veto" if he chooses to exercise one.

The exchange between Kleppe and the congressional committees is the latest clash over what both sides agree is the most important energy legislation left on the Hill before Congress adjourns Oct. 2.

Murphy recently denounced Kleppe for attempting to delay passage by sending up a large number of proposed amendments last month.

The legislation has been approved by both the House and Senate by large majorities, although differnces remain for conferees to resolve between the two versions.

The legislation is designed to make the process by which oil companies bid for offshore oil leases let by the federal government more competitive and to assure that coastal states are consulted on plans to lease sea bed tracts off their shores.

In the current system, the Department of Interior leases offshore tracts by putting them up for bids. The oil company or consortium bidding the most money wins the lease. The government, in most cases, receives one-sixth of the gross value of the oil and gas produced from each tract in addition to the original bid money.

Jackson and Murphy have agreed on legislation that would authorize other bidding practices. One of them would permit the government to obtain a fixed percentage of the profits from sale of the oil and gas. The company offering to pay the highest percentage would win the lease.

The legislation would also permit the government to conduct exploratory drilling to determine appoximately how much oil and gas might be recovered from the tracts offered for bid. The Interior Department currently conducts limited exploration before offering the offshore tracts.

Kleppe, in a letter to Murphy, said the current bidding system is successful, and warned that oil companies might refuse to bid under the

.. We cannot responsibly accept the serious disruption to the leasing program which would occur if the bills passed by either the Senate or the House become law as now written," Kleppe said.

Scott-Gulf case ends

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott says he found it "most gratifying" that the Senate Ethics Committee dropped its inquiry into his link with alleged illegal Gulf Oil Corp. contributions.

Thus, barring any new developments, it appears unlikely that the full details of Scott's involvement in the Gulf money controversy will ever be made public.

The 76-year-old Pennsylvanian. who decided not to seek re-election this year after 16 years in the House and 17 more in the Senate, said Thursday that the ethics panel had conducted a "thorough and objective" review of the matter.

Senators pay last tributes to Mansfield

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Mike Mansfield finished the longest tenure anyone has had as Senate Majority Leader in his reserved and modest manner Thursday, walking off the floor just before a round of tributes were to

LUTRICK, Parker Humes and

evening when Rotarians and their

When he returned, he walked quietly to a seat in the second row of richly finished mahogany desks and sat with head bowed, a slight, unrumpled figure looking younger than his 73 years, less comfortable than those Senators who rose, one by one, to praise him, and smaller than his reputation.

As the dinner hour approached and a second round of tributes was about to begin, Sen. Robert byrd (D-W. Va.) asked the Senate to name one of the ornate, high-ceilinged hearing rooms the "Mike Mansfield Room.

"Object." Mansfield said softly but firmly

He has said that when he is gone, he wants to be forgotten. But an aide called him off the floor, and his colleagues unanimously named the room in his absence. That's the bittersweet way it went for Mansfield all day Thursday, with members of the club that Senate inority Leader Hugh Scott (called "our great and beloved institution" constantly going to him, slapping him on the shoulder and expressing congratulations and regrets.

Although Mansfield won't officially end his 33 years in Congress until January, thursday was the last day he expects to function as the leader of the majority party, a post he has held for 16 of his 24 years in the Senate.

Still spry and quick, Mansfield left today for a work-study trip to China with Sen. John Glenn (D-Ohio). When Mansfield returnes late in October, the Senate is expected to have adjourned for the year.

Around the edges of the stream of Mansfield managed to put in what he described as a routine day. He was at his office at 6:30 a.m., half an hour later than normal, he said, attending to Montana business.

Except for a luncheon with committee chairmen to thank them "for their cooperation over the years," he was in and out of the Senate as it rambled through an afternoon of routine business.

"I have mixed emotions." Mansfield said when asked in an interview how he felt about leaving the tiled hallways, some full of statues of legislative giants of the past. "It's hard to describe For weeks, as the time approached to leave the Senate floor, his place of business since 1953, Mansfield has said little about his impending depar-

His reticence was in keeping with his low-key approach to leadership. "A man of calm in a chamber of clamor." writers have called him 'the last of the low profiles.'

Mansfield spoke eloquently in a letter to President Ford shortly after he decided last March not to seek reelection to a fifth six-year term. The letter said in part:

"My years in the Congress encompass one-sixth of history since Independence; the administrations of seven Presidents, the assassination of a president, and other extrme outrages against human that Tatum would work decency; able political leaderships and seamy politics and chicanery; the dawn of the nuclear age and men on the moon; a great war and a prelude of more wars and an uneasy peace ... I ask now that this trust be shifted to other shoulders.

In an age when the public appears to rank politicians at the bottom levels of public trust, praise for Mansfield that flowed through the Senate Chamber Thursday was well-wishers and ceremonies strangely old fashioned

Airline seeks support in establishing service

A representative of a transcontinental airline is seeking support from the Midland Chamber of Commerce in speeding a bill through Congress - with the ultimate goal being establishing service to the Permian Basin through Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Federal Express Corp., a Memphis, Tenn - based firm that promises overnight delivery for small packages 93 per cent of the time, plans to expand its operation to Midland, if House Bill 14623 can be moved out of committee by Tuesday.

William Carroll, public relations manager for Federal Express, told a group of Midland chamber officials Thursday that approval of the bill would enable his firm to purchase several large jet planes (DC-9's) for the longer flights, thus freeing more of the smaller Falcon jets for service to cities like Midland.

'Next Tuesday is the last day we can get this bill out of the aviation sub-committee of the House Committee on Public Works and Trancompleted in this session," Carroll said. sportation and hope to get action

Chamber slates early breakfast

The Midland Chamber of Com-merce will hold its September early bird breakfast at 7 a.m. Thursday at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

This month's breakfast is the second following a three-month summer vacation and will be sponsored by Levi Strauss and Co.

Chamber members and guests wishing to attend the event may make reservations by calling the chamber office at 683-3381 by Tuesday. Tickets are $3.75 per person.

Carroll said Federal Express plans to establish centers in Midland and about a dozen other Texas cities, using the firm's own trucks and airplanes, that would allow the company to pick up a package at the close of the business day, and deliver it to its destination before noon the next day in 130 major cities, coast-to-

In a news release issued by Carroll, Frederick Smith, chairman of the firm, said, "We are trying to expand out service to the dozens more communities that need it, but, quite frankly, we don't have any more space in the 41 airplanes we use to serve our nationwide system. We have asked Congress for authority to fly larger airplanes, which would allow us to expand to Midland and other Texas cities that we believe are entitled to the same express service as New York or Atlanta.

Smith said Federal Express is barred from carrying packages in DC-9s or other large-capacity airplanes unless it first goes through the complex and elaborate certification procedures required of passenger

The Falcon jets the firm now uses have a 7.500-pound load capacity.

Smith said the firm carries a variety of packages, including electronic parts, computer spares, hospital supplies, drugs, aircraft parts, production components and government and business documents.

The firm now operates 75 centers throughout the nation, the news release said, and is carrying more than 18,000 packages daily. All packages are funneled through Memphis, Carroll said.

Federal Express currently serves Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Austin, San Antonio and El Paso in Texas.

Liberal move looms

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) - A liberal move to seize party control looms as the major issue confronting delegates assembling here today for the Texas Democratic Convention.

The two-day session kicks off this evening and the battle over the party chairmanship perhaps overshadows even presidential politics and the candidacy of Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter

'This election is damned important," said one Democrat. "But I'm sure people realize just how important." The interparty skirmish involves an effort by Lufkin attorney John Henry Tatum, backed by Billie Carr's liberal "Texas Democrats," to wrest the chair from Calvin Guest of Bryan, Gov. Dolph Briscoe's hand-picked chairman. 'The Democratic Party is in real trouble in Texas. It is trying to find it self, '' said a said a Democratic legislator who, because he is seeking reelection, asked anonymity.

There is great pressure on the conservative wing of the Democratic Party from the national level ...and you've got the Connally thing-John Connally trying to make Republicans out of people who traditionally call themselves conservative Democrats.

"If Guest is kicked out and liberals take over, I think you're going to see wholesale desertion of the Democratic Party conservatives.

Guest who has held the post since 1972, is supported by a medley of conservatives and liberals, including the Texas AFL-CIO and the United Auto Workers.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Carr, Democratic national committeewoman from Houston, said she wanta change because "Guest's methods are marked by favoritism, ineptitude and general incompetence.

Although Guest is cochairman of the Texas campaign for Jimmy Carter, Mrs. Carr insists Guest is in sincere and harder to carry Texas for the Democratic ticket.

Both Tatum and Guest have campaigned hard for the post, and the 3,400 delegates will determine Saturday which one will lead the conduct of party affairs for the next two years.

"I estimate I'm going to win by 100 votes, Tatum declared. Said Guest

'We have checked very carefully, and we have a sufficient number of votes to win.

Guest told newsmen after a brief meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee Thursday that the party is in the "healing process" and added:

"The most important thing i to come out of this convention with a unified party to elect Jimmy Carter and all other Democratic candidates.

Production of milk increasing

WASHINGTON (AP) -Milk production this year shows signs of increasing at the sharpest rate in more than 25 years, Agriculture Department analysts say, causing them to hedge week-old predictions about the price outlook for both farmers and consumers.

Retail prices still are forecast to climb through the coming winter, but farm prices may not quite make it to the recordbreaking level expected earlier, they say.

Wholesale butter and cheese prices dropped markedly in late August, the Outlook and Situation Board reported this week. Butter prices had lost 14 cents of the 18 cents per pound they gained in June and July, and cheese prices have fallen back 7 to 9 cents, after a 13- cent rise.

NASA now concentrates effort on near space transport system

By JAY PERKINS

WASHINGTON (AP) - Now that men have landed on the moon and a spacecraft has landed on Mars, the nation's space agency is about to christen the first of the planes that will carry colonists into space.

The Saturn, the Atlas and the Titan rockets that sent American astronauts into orbit and to the moon are being retired as too inefficient and too expensive for the job of placing permanent space stations in orbit. A new workhorse, the space shuttle, a cross between a rocket and an airplane, is being built.

The first was due to roll out of the Rockwell International plant at Palmdale, Calif., today (Sept. 17). The delta-winged craft, about the size of a DC-9 jet, is to be test flown late next year. But the first flights into orbit won't take place until 1980.

NASA's focus for the rest of this century will be on near space, that area within a few hundred miles of earth's atmosphere.

'Our manned and unmanned orbital flights and moon walks during the last 18 years have just as surely led us to the beginning of a space shuttle transportation system that promises unlimited opportunities not only for space exploration but space exploitation in the decades ahead." NASA's Administrator, James C. Fletcher, told the National Space Club earlier this year.

"Following the development of a successful space shuttle system should come the construction in space of a permanent space station," he added.

a number of ways: the assembly of other space stations for biological and medical research, manufactur-space operations, radio and optical technicians. No longer will the beamed to earth by laser.'

Fletcher said, "The concept of the space colony is anything but the flights of fancy that you find in science fiction. Barring some unfore-seen calamity on earth, we will have next century, possibly in the last decade of this one.'

NASA hasn't decided what sort of permanent space stations will be put into orbit once the space shuttle is operating regularly, although scientists say the first probably will be a modular station, costing about $2 billion, with room for four to six people. These would be used to maintain satellites to build large structures in space, such as solar energy power

The shuttle will take off like a rocket and land like an airplane. Solid propellant rockets will drop off after boosting the craft to a height of 27 nautical miles and a speed of more than 3,200 miles per hour. The shuttle's three engines then will take over, using fuel from an external tank to push the craft to 17,600 miles per hour and into an orbit about 115 nautical miles above the earth. The external tank will be jettisoned just before orbit is reached. The shuttle orbiter will draw on internal fuel tanks for the rest of its journey.

The craft is designed to carry as many as seven persons. Its missions will last from seven to 30 days. The "We can then become operative in minimum time between missions is expected to be two weeks.

The space shuttle will open space astronomy, and solar power to be passengers have to be highly trained astronauts with extensive flight time and in perfect physical condition.

Liftoff pressures on the passengers will be only three times gravity instead of the nine times gravity load of previous manned flights. Re-entry habitations in space surely in the pressures will be about 1.5 times

> The cost of developing the shuttle is high — $6.664 billion, including testing, and $6.9 billion if inflation continues at its present rate for the coming years. By comparison, the two current unmanned Viking missions to Mars are costing about $1

> NASA plans a total of five space

So far Congress has appropriated $3.177 billion for the first two shuttles. The fiscal year 1977 budget. which starts on Oct. 1, proposes an additional $1.288 billion out of a total space budget of $3.3 billion.

Operational costs are smaller. NASA estimates that it will cost less than $20 million to fly one mission with the shuttle. That's a fraction of the cost of using a Saturn 5 rocket to launch a satellite into a low earth orbit similar to the orbits the shuttles will use.

While the shuttle is developed, NASA will continue with other programs. Besides the explorations of other planets, research satellites will be launched to study sun spots, map the earth's magnetic field and its weather patterns, and assist in finding resources on the earth's sur-

The shuttle will allow man to establish permanent stations in space - and that will open up a new way of doing things.

For example, current space probes like the Viking Mars missions consist mostly of fuel tanks and engines because they must build up enough speed to break away from earth's gravity. This limits the size of the experimental apparatus which can be carried.

But if a mission to a planet is launched from an orbiting space station instead of from earth, it already has most of the speed needed to break away from the gravitational pull. The payload can be increased.

On a more down-to-earth front, permanent space stations can make it easier to forecast the weather, manage food and forestry resources, increase our knowledge of chemistry, and even open up new manufacturing opportunities.

No estimate has been made for building space colonies - a project well in the future - but NASA chief Fletcher told a House subcommittee this year that such a colony probably would be comparable in expense to the Apollo moon program.

"There is nothing at all that is technically unfeasible about this program," Fletcher said. "It is a question of dollars, and right now it doesn't seem like the time to start spending the dollars . . .

"The problem is the initial investment. The figures are always a little questionable but according to the calculations, it would eventually give a good return on the investment.

Jobless rate high in Chile

By WILLIAM R LONG

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) In Chile's legions of jobless, many of the hardest hit are victims of political vendetta. And their future looks bleak.

They are the Communists, Socialists or members of other nowoutlawed parties that supported overthrown Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Others are members of the large Christian Democratic party which, while it opposed Allende, has also been in conflict with the ruling military regime.

This past winter has seen the greatest unemployment since the armed forces seized power in September 1973. The government's Institute of Statistics figured that 19.1 per cent - nearly one in five - of all workers in greater Santiago rere jobless at the end of June.

Along with the first blossoms of spring, there is hope that better times are coming for "los cesantes" - the idle ones. But more available jobs will not necessarily mean better prospects for the unknown percentage who were "selected out" of work because of their political past.

The latest statistics, from a special survey made by the University of Chile in July, showed that the jobless rate had dropped to 16.3 per cent in Santiago.

The metropolitan area is the home of about onethird of Chile's 10 million people. Unemployment rates in the provinces generally are estimated to be somewhat lower, but many rural workers are underemployed. averaging only a few hours of work a week.

In the decade before the 1973 coup, unemployment of 4 per cent was considered normal in Chile. After the coup, the rate began to rise rapidly as the government cut public payrolls and the private sector fell into economic depression.

Authorities say the government cutbacks vere necessary to reduce deficit spending administration. They say the depression is a result of damage done to the sconomy by chaos and irresponsibility under Allende.
