Smith forfeits control

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) After 11 years of defiance, Prime Minister Ian Smith's white government Friday bowed to international pressure and agreed to surrender power to the country's black majority within two years.

He said an interim government representing both blacks and whites would be set up to draft a constitution providing for majority rule.

The announcement came shortly after U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended an intensive 10-day diplomatic campaign in Africa to win Smith's agreement for black majority

In a nationwide television and radio broadcast, however, Smith firmly tied the turnover to "categorical assurances" from Kissinger that the escalating war by black nationalists will end and that United Nations economic sanctions against Rhodesia will be lifted "as soon as the necessary preliminaries have been carried out Smith said he has messaged his government's acceptance of the proposals to Kissinger. But he emphasized that his decision was subject to (the plan) being accepted by the other parties involved and ... to the lifting of sanctions and the cessation of terrorism." Smith had unilaterally taken Rhodesia out of the British Commonwealth on Nov. 11, 1965, apparently because the 278,000 Rhodesian whites feared Britain would turn the country over to the country's 6.4 million blacks.

Kissinger's shuttle climaxed with a meeting in Pretoria, South Africa. last weekend at which South African Prime Minister John Vorster told Smith he could no longer expect support even from South Africa, once Rhodesia's strongest ally.

"It was made abundantly clear to me that as long as the present circumstances in Rhodesia prevailed, we could expect no help or support of any kind from the free world." Smith said in his broadcast. "The pressures on us from the free world would continue to mount.

The 57-year-old Rhodesian leader said that "the American and British governments, together with the major Western powers, have made up their

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, a kidnap victim who became a bank robber, was sentenced to seven years in prison Friday by a judge who told her: "The violent nature of your conduct cannot be condoned. The 22-year-old heiress was im passive as she stood before U.S. District Court Judge William H. Orrick. He imposed an additional twoyear sentence for her use of a firearm during the April 15, 1974, robbery of the Hibernia Bank, but ordered that the term run concurrently with the seven years

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr., who had urged Miss Hearst's imprisonment as an unrepentant criminal, told reporters she would be eligible for parole in one year and four months.

The judge gave Miss Hearst credit for 371 days of jail time served since Sept. 18, 1975.

Orrick, who rejected defense pleas for Miss Hearst's immediate release from custody, said he had agonized over his decision.

"The court has the deepest compassion for the defendant and also the

However, he said that he was influenced in his decision by the jury's verdict. The jury, he recalled, found on March 20 that Miss Hearst "freely and voluntarily participated in an armed bank robbery" in which bystanders were shot.

Looking directly at the slim heiress, Orrick said, "Miss Hearst, although you did not personally shoot anyone, you are just as guilty as your accomplices. Violence is unacceptable in our society and will not be tolerated.

"I do not think that you are likely to be a future danger to society." the judge continued. "Nevertheless, the violent nature of your conduct cannot be condoned.

Two bystanders were wounded by gunfire as Miss Hearst and her companions from the terrorists Symbionese Liberation Army fled the bank, and Orrick said he hoped her prison sentence would serve as a lesson to others.

Miss Hearst has been undergoing psychiatric testing since her conviction. She had been temporarily sentenced to the maximum term of 39 years.

- not in the press or in the court," bitter Catherine Hearst told reporters outside the courtroom. Her husband, San Francisco Examiner President Randolph Hearst, said of the sentence, "I don't know what it means."

Her chief attorney, F. Lee Bailey, said the sentence was unexpectedly harsh and announced that an appeal of her conviction already had been

Orrick, who was assigned to the case by lot after the death of trial judge Oliver J. Carter, rejected the opportunity to sentence Miss Hearst under the Federal Youth Offenders Act, which would have made het eligible for immediate release of probation. He said she would not benefit from sentencing under the act, and he chose to consider her as an adult, though the act applies to people up to 25 years old

Miss Hearst was kidnaped from het Berkeley, Calif., apartment by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army on Feb. 4, 1974, Avowed SLA members William and Emily Harris pleaded innocent Thursday at an arraignment in Berkeley on state charges of abducting Miss Hearst.

Activities planned for schools

Full implementation of the Midland elementary school desegregation plan does not begin until fall 1977 but preliminary activities are scheduled to begin as early as October. The desegregation settlement approved by all the parties in the lawsuit calls for field trips and activities in the elementary schools, on a desegregated basis, to begin this

Dr. Douglas W. Brown, assistant superintendent of schools for instructional services, said a prelimary chart has been designed for this year's activities.

Planning also is underway for full implementation in 1977, with the creation of 10 teacher committees.

This year's schedule calls for four activities for kindergarten and first grade pupils and an increasing number for each grade level, with 14 activities scheduled for fifth grade.

Although not required under the agreement, activities are being included for sixth grade also, Brown said. Sixth grade is included as "a way of getting all of the children oriented to the fact that they are part of the cluster and so sixth graders won't feel left out," Brown explained.

That planning is in progress. Campus exchanges within each of the six clusters of elementary schools listed in the desegregation plans may begin as early as October, with the exchanges planned by the principals in each cluster, he said. The first systemwide activities will be in November.

The following activities have been scheduled, each on an integrated basis, for this year:

- Theater for fourth and fifth grades at the Midland Community Theatre in February. Students will see a play performed by the Picwick

there will be a workshop.

- Symphony for fourth through sixth graders at Lee High School in November and February. The Midland-Odessa Symphony will present programs.

- Museum of the Southwest and the Haley Library in October and February for third and fifth graders, a half-day field trip.

- Petroleum Museum for fifth graders, a 90-minute visit.

- Planetarium, for third, fourth and fifth grades, a 75-minute astronomy program. - Field day, for kindergarten through fifth grade on elementary campuses in May. Each school within each cluster will host a particular grade level or levels for that day. Activities would be motor activities learned this year.

Houston cool to Carter visit

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas' largest city gave Jimmy Carter a low key reception Friday as the Democratic presidential candidate tested the waters just a day after his televised debate with President Ford.

A handful of protestors greeted the smiling candidate in this city of 1.5 million whose majority hasn't voted for a Democratic presidential can-didate in 12 years. Most of the dozen or so signs were held aloft by antiabortion forces.

Police roped off a section of downtown Houston which thousands of office workers spilled into for a glimpse at the former Georgia governor. There were boos and jeers when Carter described the late President Lyndon B. Johnson as a "greater Many spectators stood unsmiling, hands thrust into their pockets, as Carter climbed atop a makeshift platform between a hotel and a department store

Police officials said an estimate of the crowd was impossible at the time of the rally, with scores coming and going, stopping to listen to a paragraph or two and then hustling back to work.

This was the first outdoor downtown rally in Houston since one by President Dwight D. Eisenhower more than two decades ago.

Carter spoke on Lamar Street, one of the major downtown arteries, with a giant aerial balloon as background and the First Baptist Church in the foreground with its neon sign-"Jesus Saves."

The big balloon collapsed at the moment Carter began his speech. In addition to the right-to-life signs, there was one large red-and-white display that read, "Carter for Playmate, Ford for President.'

The presidential candidate was introduced by Democratic Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who was interrupted by boos and chants in his brief speech, as those standing in the hot, murky weather called, "Let's hear Carter, let's hear Carter."

Briscoe was forced to begin his introduction over again.

Carter, who came under fire for comments in Playboy magazine, several times referred to former President Johnson as one who cut inflation, who reduced unemployment

Zero-based budgeting would help the United States balance its budget, said candidate Jim Reese of Odessa, who opposes incumbent George

Speaking at a noon meeting Friday of the Westside Jaycees, Reese said now many federal departments and agencies will ask for $100 million one year, for example, and return the next year and ask for $20 million more.

Congress then considers the additional $20 million rather than the total of $120 million. If the departments had to "bring the budget back to zero each year" and justify each entry, the country would save a lot of money, Reese said.

The budget could be balanced without cutting defense spending, Reese said.

"National defense is our most important domestic program," Reese said, adding that we must keep ahead of the Russians in defense.

The Russians, he said, are spending 150 per cent of what the United States spends each year. "They lead in throw weight about 3 to 1 now and will lead by 4 to 1 in 1980. We can't protect the country with a wall of food stamps," he said.

The weatherman says there's a very good chance of rain today and maybe a little tomorrow.

Friday night Andrews reported offand-on rain and Rankin called in the beginning of a light sprinkle shortly before 9 p.m.

Rain or no rain, the weatherman says Midland is in store for considerably cloudy skies through Sunday. The probability of rain will be 30 per cent today and tonight and 20 per cent on Sunday. Winds are expected to be between 10 and 15 mph from the southeast.

Friday's high was 84 degrees. The record high for that date was 97 degrees in 1953.

A high pressure ridge over Southeast Texas kept the Houston and Beaumont-Port Arthur areas under a shroud of smoke, dust and haze Friday, the Associated Press said.

Except for a few light rainshowers in Southwest Texas, the remainder of the state had clear to partly cloudy skies and summer-like temperatures.

The smoke, dust and haze reduced visibility to two miles in Houston Friday morning and was expected to last through Saturday.

Less than a quarter of an inch of rain fell in isolated rainshowers in Southwest Texas, and some isolated thundershower activity was expected again Saturday.

Estimates reveal Ford inching closer to victory

WASHINGTON (AP) - While finding the first Ford-Carter debate a virtual draw, an Associated Press national voter poll shows the President is inching a bit closer in a tight election contest.

The scientific telephone survey of 1,065 registered voters also disclosed

-Ford is winning the independent vote, vital for a Republican in any national fight against the larger

Democratic party. -The number of undecided voters dropped significantly following Thursday night's debate, but enough yet remain to win the election for either candidate.

-Voters who thought Carter won the debate were more likely to cite his positions on issues as the reason than people who thought Ford won.

-Those who called Ford the victor were more likely than the Carter group to cite such reasons as "more knowledgeable on most subjects" and "he just sounded like he would make a better president."

The survey respondents were questioned during the week before the debate and at that point either preferred or were leaning toward Carter by a margin of 45.3 per cent to 41.1 per cent for Ford.

Contacted again within 90 minutes after the debate ended, 34.4 per cent thought Ford had won, 31.8 per cent gave the nod to Carter, 26.0 per cent called it a draw and 7.8 per cent said they didn't know who won.

Asked to state their preference for president following the debate, 46.9 per cent selected or leaned toward Carter; 44.9 per cent picked Ford.

Although Ford picked up 3.8 percentage points to Carter's 1.6, that difference and the 2.0 margin between the two in over-all preferences are so narrow the result cannot be taken as

But with this national sample of 1,065 persons, the chances are only one in 20 that the percentages will vary by any more than 2.9 points from the result that would be obtained if the entire registered voter population were surveyed. Based on these results, however, the election in less than six weeks is presently too close to call. Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, expressing pleasure at the outcome of the AP poll, said that the significant point is that three out of four respondents who were undecided before the debate made up their mind to choose Ford after the performance.

Kissinger tells Russia to leave Africa alone

LONDON (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger wound up his African peace shuttle Friday with a warning to the Soviet Union not to meddle in the racial turmoil of southern Africa.

At a news conference just before leaving for Washington, the secretary jokingly responded that it was his "personal charm" that helped him in his mission to avert further racial conflict in Africa. He added "we'll get the blame" if the diplomatic effort British Foreign Secretary Anthony Crosland agreed. "That's right," he told reporters at a joint news conference.

Concluding the 12-day mission that took him to South Africa, Tanzania, Zambia, Kenya and Zaire, Kissinger said, "We believe that it should be in the interests of all countries to promote peace in

"And we would hope that the Soviet Union would not, for the sake of ideology or great-power rivalry, try to introduce an element of contention which must, above all, hurt the peoples of southern Africa and destroy any opportunity for peace.

Kissinger then left for Washington confident that Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, a key figure in the secretary's African talks, would agree to a plan aimed at giving majority rule to that nation's six million blacks within about two years. The country's 273,000 whites now control the government.

Reporters who traveled with the Kissinger party to Africa were told by a senior U.S. official that the Soviet Union, vying for influence in Africa, has mounted a full-scale campaign in the hope of wrecking the peace mission.

Kissinger has been depicted in the state-controlled Soviet media as trying to preserve white supremacy in southern Africa in new forms and his mission as "a dangerous imperialist plot."

"The mission," said the official Soviet news agency, Tass, "aims by concessions and half measures to dampen down the national liberation struggle which lately is acquiring ever greater scope, and to win time to strengthen the

Kissinger emphasized at the news conference that the peace plan is not his personal brainchild, but a consensus worked out among black and white leaders in southern Africa within the framework of British proposals made last March.

Asked about a timetable for a transition to majority rule, Crosland replied: "The transition should take place as quickly as possible. The last thing we want is a long delay in which everything could get muddled and during which others can poke their

Rhodesia was a British colony until November 1965 when Smith's white-supremacist government made a unilateral declaration of independence in reaction to British pressure for progress toward majority rule. Britain still regards itself as the sovereign power in the rebel colony

Bentsen worker recommends southwest regional primary

By JACK KEE

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The Texas chairman of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's presidential campaign urged a House subcommittee Friday to consider a southwestern regional primary in 1980 to help candidates save their strength for the general election.

With 31 state presidential primaries this year, said state Agriculture Commissioner John White, "We are almost destroying the physical well-being of our presidential candidates The presidential candidates "spend 90 days running against their friends and the next 90 days trying to get their friends to support them." he said. White said it "would be appropriate" for the subcommittee to contact other southwestern states about a regional primary in which voters would cast their ballots on the same day. "I hope we don't wait and have one imposed on us," he said

Louisiana. Preferably, he said, it should be held on the same day as the regular primary.

The subcommittee will report to the 1977

In the May 1 presidential primary, Jimmy Carter won nearly 92 of Texas' 98 delegate votes to the national Democratic convention even though Carter polled only 48.88 per cent of the vote. Bentsen got 21.26 per cent of the vote but only six delegates, and George Wallace 17.57 per cent of the vote and no delegates

Ronald Reagan captured all 96 Republican national convention delegates, although President Ford got 32.7 per cent of the vote.

"It did turn out to be a winner-take-all primary no doubt about that," said clerk Brian Graham of the House Elections Committee.

The bill setting up the primary automatically selfdestructed after the primary

The Texas AFL-CIO and Republican Party agreed with White that Texas should have another presidential primary in four years, but they differed on whether it should be winner-take-all

Rep. Bob Davis, R-Dallas, noted that the state He suggested the regional primary might include GOP platform requested another winner-take-all Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and contest, but White and labor president Harry Hubcontest, but White and labor president Harry Hubbard endorsed proportional representation.

"There's absolutely no sentiment to go back to the old system," said White.

Hubbard proposed a late filing deadline for the presidential primary, because "today's 'viable' candidate may be tomorrow's 'has-been.'

Growth rate falls off in college enrollment growth at Texas colleges and universities almost came to a standstill this month, underscoring the need for caution in building more schools, the state commissioner of higher education said Friday.

Kenneth Ashworth said statewide growth in September was less than one per cent above the September 1975 figures, and this is the smallest enrollment gain in two decades.

Preliminary tabulation by the College Coordinating Board shows a fall enrollment of 681,000, an increase of about 5, 760 students, or .85 per cent.

'With last year's unusual jump of 15 per cent, it's not surprising that we have had this adjustment," Ashworth said in a statement

"Our schools right now are able to absorb a reasonable increase in numbers of students," he said. "For the first time in over a decade institutions may be able to direct some of their attention from brick and mortar to educational programs.

The most dramatic change, Ashworth said, was the slight decrease in junior college enrollment. a segment of higher education that had had an annual average growth of more than 10 per cent for the past decade

LOS ANGELES — Four years ago, Terry Oaks wore an American Flag pin on his lapel, not an unusual ornament for a political conservative with a good job as a studio technician and aspirations for a state assembly seat from the district here in suburban Sepulveda.

Now the job and the political future are gone, and a tiny gold hangman's noose has replaced the little American flag. The hangman's noose is the symbol of a loosely organized citizens vigilante group called Posse Comitatus. Oaks, 38, heads the Los Angeles chapter of the group.

Posse members claim they are organized nationally - federal authorities estimate there may be 10.000 members in chapters around the country, most of them disgruntled but not very active ultraconservatives - and that their mission is to uphold the law in the face of what they view as a judicial and moral breakdown in the nation.

The posse originated eight years ago in Portland, Ore. Its name means "Power of a county" in Latin. Its members, to justify their claim of authority to arrest, try and even carry out sentencing if necessary, and

"The posse," said Jaks, "is just people. The supreme law of the land is not the Supreme Court. The Posse Comitatus is the highest law. The people are sovereign here.'

Such sentiments have gotten Posse members in trouble in places around

Last month two dozen Oregon State Policemen arrested a group of seven Posse members who seized a potato packing plant and held 15 workers captive over a land dispute in a rural section on the state near Pendleton.

The seven promptly tried to make their own arrests of the local district attorney and Umatilla County Sheriff Willima McPherson before they were taken to jail.

"I told the guy who tried it that if he thought he was big enough he should hop to it," McPherson said, smiling. ''I guess he decided he wasn't.'' "There's no way we're going to let them come in and play sheriff here." he said. "There's only one sheriff of Umatilla County and I'm it." Last fall, armed Posse members in

"If those brown bereted fascists can go into the tomato field they can go into my bedroom," San Jouqin County Posse leader Francis Gillings said in an interview. Gillings and another Posse member were convicted earlier this summer of assaulting a deputy sheriff during the tomato field incident.

Posse chapters have also been active in Washington and Idaho as well as around Portland, Ore., in the last year.

One member of a Washington posse chapter tailed and arrested a Washington State trooper as he drove along Interstate 5 last February. The posse member charged the trooper who claimed he was chasing a speeder - with speeding. The arrest was upheld by a judge after the trooper was fined.

Another posse member disrupted a public hearing on land use planning in Portland recently when he appeared with a rifle under his arm. He was, he told police as they led him away in handcuffs, merely exercising his right to defend his property.

Posse members in the Portland area ride around with official-looking

"They're kooks but they're getting more militant," said McPherson. 'They're people who can quote the Constitution but they forget the federal and state statutes and everything else that goes with it."

Posse leaders here in California and in other states have run afoul of the Internal Revenue Service becasue the organization claims federal reserve notes are unawlful and they won't pay federal income taxes until the government goes back to the strict gold and silver standards.

In addition to Oaks, public relations director John N. Schmitz and other senior Posse members have been convicted on tax charges. In December, Wisconsin organizer Thomas Stockmeier was sentenced to 60 days in jail for assaulting an IRS

People misinformed about food nutritional values

Associated Press Writer

How much do you know about the food you eat?

This week's announcement by the Food and Drug Administration that it would ban two more artificial food colorings has spotlighted the fact that appearances can be deceiving when it comes to what we eat.

An FDA spokesman noted that artificial colorings are used in a wide variety of foods, from baked goods to soft drinks. Some of the dyes are chemical - like the Red No. 4 and Carbon Black which were banned. Others, such as the beet powder often used to make pink lemonade pink, come from natural sources.

Color is not the only thing about food that can be confusing, however. A recent report by the FDA's Division of Consumer Studies, based on a survey of over 1,600 persons, showed that many Americans are misinformed about the nutritional value of various foods. The agency picked four foods milk, beef, tomatoes and bread - and asked whether each item was important for: building body tissues, building blood cells, strong teeth and bones, healthy skin, the eyes, the nervous system and fighting in-

When it came to tomatoes, people # tended to underrate the vegetable's qualities. Less than 40 per cent, for example, knew that tomatoes are important for the eyes, for healthy skin and for fighting infections.

In the same vein, less than 40 per cent of those questioned knew that bread is important for building blood cells and for the nervous system. More than half - 52 per cent - answered incorrectly that bread is important for strong teeth and bones.

Consumers also are uncertain about which vitamins can be found in which product. Fifty-two per cent thought milk was a good source of Vitamin A. It isn't. Milk provides calcium, protein, fat, Vitamin D and Riboflavin or B2

Hanoi knows answer

All is not what it appears to be as the Democrats, the United Nations (by inference) and Vietnam accuse President Ford of "playing politics" with the Americans Missing in Action

President Ford would, of course, be foolish if he did not appeal to the public on any legitimate issue if he thought that it was to hia political advantage to do so. And certainly Hanoi's failure to account for the 800 American MIAs as Vietnam promised to do in 1973 is a legitimate issue.

However, it was not President Ford who prepared the United Nations agenda which raised the question of Vietnam's membership and the U.S. veto. And it was not the President who raised the whole question of MIAs, but Vietnam which recently provided a wholly inadequate list of 12 American pilots who were presumably killed over North Vietnam

When matters came to head it was pretty natural for the President to take precisely the same position on MIAs that he has taken all along - no accounting. no "normalization" of relations.

The United Nations, which prevented an American veto by postponing consideration of Vietnam's membership until after the U.S. election, may be in for a

The United States has backpedaled considerably since signing the cease-fire treaty with North Vietnam in 1973. But there is ample evidence that the State Department is right when it says that the Americans will accept no less than a complete accounting of MIAs as a prerequisite to better relations with Hanoi. It is indicated in the polls, in President Ford's stand, and in statements made by challenger Jimmy Carter on July 29 in Plains, Ga. And it is obvious that even Hanoi believes that it would benefit President Ford politically to be firm on the MIA question.

Indeed, we would guess that Hanoi has been playing its own brand of politics, a cat and mouse game, over the last few months in an effort to obtain U.N. mem-

When Secretary of State Henry Kissinger wrote a polite personal note last March to Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh that it was time for the United States and Vietnam to search for a new base of relations, the reply was terse, stressing the need for American contributions toward rebuilding Vietnam and reparations. At this time foreign reports indicated that North Vietnam was getting more aid that it could assimilate with its primitive way of doing things.

The game of verbal sticks and carrots continued through June and July. On Aug. 27 Hanoi suggested the possibility of a U.S.-Vietnam meeting in Paris to discuss approaches for better relations

Now that President Ford has said that the United States will deny Vietnam membership in the United Nations until the MIA issue is resolved he is illogically accused of having no concern for the missing Americans, only "on the vote in his election cam-

If he had no concern it would be easy for him to gloss over the MIA

Finger lickin' deal not Kosher

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - Kentucky Fried Chicken, which peddles Colonel Sanders' delectables around the world, would like to have its chicken and eat it, too

The corporate bosses, according to their confidential papers, would like to open a franchise in Israel. But if they should raise the colonel's goateed visage in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv, they might be boycotted by the Arab nations and thus lose a lot of bucks.

So they have been considering a scheme that would permit them to sell finger-lickin'-good chicken to the Israelis without offending the Arabs. The plan, as outlined in confidential corporate memos, calls for setting up an Israeli franchise, pretending it is illegal and laundering the proceeds, possibly through South Africa.

Kentucky Fried Chicken is now owned by the Heublein Corp., a billion-dollar firm that otherwise dispenses beer, wine and liquors. One of its executives. G.A. McNamara, is convinced that Colonel Sanders' Kentucky fries would be gobbled up in

"We must be in Israel," he declared in a July 28, 1976, memo. But this could leave the Heublein Corp. with a lot of uneaten chicken on its hands from Cairo to Kuwait. He concluded, therefore, that "we cannot be there

But there is more than one way to pluck a chicken. He had located a man who was "interested in becoming a pirate franchisee."

McNamara noted that Kentucky Fried Chicken had received a number of requests for franchises in Israel.

It could mean trouble with "U.S. and U.K. (United Kingdom) Jewish organizations," he warned, if Colonel Sanders invaded Israel and then retreated at the first Arab outcry. WATCH ON WASTE: An ingenious plan to save millions of dollars now wasted chasing deserters has been pigeonholed at the Pentagon.

At present, after a serviceman is AWOL for 30 days, he is declared a deserter and a costly FBI investigation begins. The Pentagon's former chief investigator. Don Stewart, has suggested that the time be extended to 120 days. About half of the 48,000 deserters in fiscal 1975 returned voluntarily within 120 days. Stewart estimates the savings in government manhours would run over $12 million. The Pentagon has put off a decision until March 1977 when it may have better figures and data available from the General Accounting Office.

STATE DEPT. STALL: The Administration has stalled for 18 months on a request for political asylum. A former aide to Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos broke with Marcos and now seeks sanctuary in the United States.

The exile, Primitivo Mijares, was offered a $50,000 bribe by the Marcos government not to testify before a House committee about Philippine atrocities under Marcos. Mijares testified anyway

We can find no evidence that Marcos has intervened with the United States to block Mijares' appeal for asylum. We can report, however. that the U.S. desire to get along with Marcos is a major factor in the delay.

For the record, the State Dept. refused comment on the case, saying it is still under consideration. In fact, most political asylum requests are resolved in less than six months.

PAN AMERICAN REPORT:

Students provoke Panama's dictator

By WILLIAM GIANDONI Copley News Service

Gen. Omar Torrijos, Panama's dictator, is losing support because of the patience he has shown on Panama Canal treaty talks with the United

His tacit agreement to a brief interlude in the 12-year-long negotiations on a new pact to replace the treaty of 1903, under which the United States built and has been running the inter-oceanic waterway, has alienated the leftists who manipulate many Panamanian student organizations.

Torrijos' critics see no reason why the United States should be given time out for presidential elections.

Recently, using governmentdecreed price hikes for milk and rice as a pretext, students staged demonstrations in the business district of Panama City.

After four days of protests and some looting, which government sources said was the work of "antisocial elements," most schools were closed for a few days to prevent an escalation of the trouble.

The government took the outbursts quite seriously.

'The disturbances and looting...were not the result of a simple student protest," the government announced. It blamed Panamanian exiles in Miami and New York for the trouble.

Obviously, the reference was to former President Arnulfo Arias and his supporters. Arias has been living in the United States since the National Guard toppled his government Oct. 11, 1968, only 10 days after his inauguration.

However, earlier, the Federation of Students of Panama (FEP), which is controlled by the Torrijos government, blamed such violence-prone organizations as the Revolutionary Students Front (FER), the Guaykucho Group and the Revolutionary Socialist League (LSR) for the student rampage.

"The principal objective of the provocations was that a student be killed," the pro-government federation alleged. Such a martyr would then be utilized to agitate the entire student movement against Torrijos. At present, Panamanian students are fragmented. There are 31 recognized student groups at the University of Panama which has an enrollment of around 25,000. The FEP claims to represent them all, but that is doubtful.

The Revolutionary Socialist students, for example, complain that FEP only mouths slogans of the Torrijos government, "a Bonapartist bourgeois regime" that is "trying to present an international image of struggle against imperialism.

Of course, to further confuse public opinion, after the pro-government students gave their version of recent events, government-controlled newspapers began to allege that the United States, the Central Intelligence Agency and a number of Canal Zone residents were involved in the conspiracy, to overthrow the Torrijos government.

Observers in Panama predict that agitation against Torrijos will build up, at least until Oct. 11, the eighth anniversary of the National Guard coup. a date on which Torrijos customarily makes a patriotic speech to the Panamanian nation.

In the past, under similar circumstances. Torrijos has been able to talk himself into another reprieve.

Poland turning to West to solve economic woes

By MURRAY SEEGER The Los Angeles Times

WARSAW - Poland is turning further away from orthodox communism as it seeks to cope with the combination of economic problems which ended its recent period of unusual growth.

As a result, despite its continuing close political alliance with the Soviet Union and other Eastern European Communist states, it is seeking to increase its trade and financial ties to the West. In their drive to turn their economy more towards industry, the Poles already have run up $6 billion in debts to the capitalist world.

The Polish economic problems are similar to those in much of the rest of the Eastern European Communist trading bloc (COMECON), which is feeling delayed effects of the recent capitalist recession in the West and of its own harvest shortfalls.

And, in addition, Poland, which increased the real income of its workers by 40 per cent between 1970 and 1975, is plagued by the persistent headaches of centrally planned economies, such as poorly organized services, a bogged down construction industry and shortages of key goods.

While the problems are similar to those of other orthodox Communist states such as the Soviet Union, Rumania and Czechoslovakia, the solutions the Poles are trying out bear closer resemblance to the policies of the more experimental states of Hungary and Yugoslavia.

"In all of the proposed changes the Poles have made, the tendency is to move to the right," a Western diplomat commented.

—Poland's over-extended, inefficient construction industry is being overhauled by ending the system of state-built housing and reducing capital investment to areas specifically endorsed in the current five-year plan.

-The inadequate service sector will be revived by permitting more private entrepreneurs to open up shops for repairing shoes, automobiles, household appliances and plumbing.

—The narrow consumer sector and tourist industry will be expanded by permitting foreigners to invest in hotels, restaurants and, perhaps, small manufacturing.

—In addition, Polish officials are studying the possibility of permitting Western industries to enter into joint ownership with state enterprises and take out some of the profits. "We do not exclude any ideas," one government official said. The government's aim is to improve efficiency by importing more Western technology and paying for it by exporting Western-style goods as well as the country's own manufactured products and raw Poland's international trade is almost evenly divided now between the capitalist world and its Communist neighbors.

Stimulated by Polish purchases of American grain, two-way trade with the United States will reach $1 billion this year and is expected to double by 1980. Poland's trade deficit with the United States last year was $355 million and will be higher this year. Poland is still considered a good debt risk, however, because of its ability to sell coal and other minerals abroad, because it enjoys "most-favored-nation" status with the United States enabling it to sell goods at the lowest tariff rates, and because of its size as the second largest European Communist state.

Only in agriculture, one of the weakest links in the Polish economic chain, is the trend toward greater state ownership, and even there good possibilities exist for ambitious farmers to expand their holdings. Since the founding of the Communist state nearly 30 years ago, Poland has maintained a larger private economic sector than most other COMECON members.

In most small towns, the repairmen and mechanics remained independent. In Warsaw, many small shops stayed in private hands and individual craftsmen supplied many of the souvenirs sold to tou: sts. A few private restaurants operated.

But while the number of individuals working in private enterprises has nearly doubled from the 250,000 of 1960, they represent only about 4 per cent of the total work force of 12 million.

The biggest private sector in Poland has been farming, where 80 per cent of the land is owned by individuals. The few big state farms are mostly in Western Poland, where huge estates once owned by Prussian landlords were taken over after World War II when the Polish border was moved into former German territory to make up for territorial losses in the East to the Soviet Union. Many of the 3 million private farms are no bigger than five acres. however.

About a third of the individual farmers are over 60 years old and would like to retire but, like elsewhere, many of the younger generation of farm families have left the land and moved to the cities to take industrial jobs.

Under the government program to improve farming, the aged farmers are offered pensions and an apartment in exchange for their land. The purchased land will then be consolidated into more state farms, assembled into new farming cooperatives or sold to "efficient individual farmers," an economics authority said.

While the government's program is likely to result in a larger socialized farming sector, it may also create a new group of "kulaks," large landowning farmers who are more productive than their fellows, one Western diplomat commented.

A major restraint against the government seizing more land is the Polish Catholic Church.

Broadcast dispute Black mayor concerns report

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The Corporation for Public Broadcasting last March destroyed 1,800 copies of a study when officials belatedly discovered "errors" in the author's interpretation of the organization's long power struggle with the Public Broadcasting

The major issue is a chapter that recounted the stormy history of public TV's formative years and the influence of the Nixon administration on some money and programming decisions.

Nineteen hundred copies of the 72-page study by San Francisco consultant Nathan Katzman had cost CPB $6,397 to print. Both CPB and HEW, which helped pay for the report, had previously approved

Later this spring CPB reportedly sent HEW a revised first chapter of the study, prepared by its legal staff and deleting much of the story of the PBS-CPB conflict and its relationship to the Nixon administration. The revision was reportedly re-

As a result of the flap, the National Association of Educational Broadcasters (NAEB) obtained permission from HEW and Katzman to reprint the original, destroyed version.

It is now offering copies of the report to its 3,000 members at a cost of $3.75 each.

CPB officials denied they had submitted a "censored" version of the Katzman report to HEW's National Center for Education Statistics for approval. Instead, CPB president Henry Loomis said a revised version of the Katzman study, "considerably updated" will be considered with Katzman's approval. Other CPB sources suggest much of Katzman's original material has been restored to the version under consideration.

"A major consideration now," said Loomis, "is vnetner it's worthwhile to reprint it now that NAEB has published the original.

Loomis said he had been unaware of the decision to destroy the 1,800 report copies last March and was 'not familiar' with the contents.

A copy of the changed version of Katzman's first chapter, obtained by The Post, indicates the CPB objections fell into two categories. There were minor factual and interpretative errors by Katzman — he called public TV stations "affiliates" instead of "member stations" and occasionally cited incorrect statistics. But the CPB legal staff also objected to Katzman's characterization of their organization's role compared to that of PBS, which is the heart of the ongoing power struggle between the two bodies.

In PBS' eyes, CPB was created by Congress in 1967 to act only as a "shield" against political interference in public broadcasting, and to distribute federal and foundation funds around the TV and radio systems.

Under that view of CPB's role, the key programming and scheudling decisions would be left to PBS. which interconnects the 240-plus public TV stations, and to National Public Radio with its 150 national

During the Nixon administration, the CPB board, appointed by the President, took away much of PBS original programming power. The board used the simple device of withholding or cutting back funds alloted to PBS for specific broadcast categories, such as the public affairs shows the Nixon White House openly opposed. Katzman traces these developments in the first chapter. It was much of this narrative that was removed by the CPB legal staff, according to the version made available to The Post. Leon Rosenbluth, CPB's director of research activities, who negotiated with Katzman originally, said "we found a lot of mistakes in it. And don't forget it was a year old when we published it; it had

"The other thing," said Rosenbluth, "is we felt the report was very factual in the later chapters but the first chapter was simply Nate Katzman, with a lot of free-wheeling conclusions."

to be updated

PBS president Lawrence K. Grossman said that he had found the Katzman version published by NAEB "an intelligent, knowledgeable piece of work."

NAEB president James Fellows, who pushed through publication of the study for his organization, said he had read it "and thought it was good orientation for our people and the volunteers who work in public broadcasting."

He said Katzman had been angered by the changes in his original text at CPB.

Both Fellows and Grossman said that the CPB changes suggested "revisionist history."

"It is," said one key PBS official, "just another example of the paranoia of those people over there."

Building not donated

Samuel Gibbs, chairman of the administrative board at Hollowell United Methodist Church, 404 S. Marshall St., said the church agreed to allow the Midland Community Action Agency to use the building, but that it was never donated to the agency, as reported in a story Thursday.

raises cash for NAACP

ATLANTA (AP) — The man standing in front of City Hall collecting money wasn't a local beggar. He was Mayor Maynard Jackson.

The mayor said he and black officials elsewhere in the nation were collecting money to help the NAACP meet a $1.6million damage judgment due Monday in Port Gibson, Miss.

The NAACP lost a suit filed by a group of white businessmen for damages caused by an NAACP-sponsored boycott of their firms.

"If this money is not collected" and the NAACP cannot make that payment, which is to be held as bond while the group appeals, "they could break the financial back of the NAACP," Jackson said.

In the Big Leagues or

the Little League, at the World Series or on a sandlot—the rule is the same. Three strikes and you're out!

And it's also one of the basic rules of life

Missed opportunities spell failure!

But it's your attitude that counts. Come to the plate knowing you'll strike out and you will!

Take a positive approach in all matters—even re ligious education. Every Sunday in our churches hundreds of boys and girls gain a spiritual foundation that will help them fulfil their richest opportunities. Their parents, too, in worship and Christian service, are learning to improve the quality of life in our community photocopying. What is required legally is written permission of the copyright owner for such use and usually payment of a FEL estimates that 57 of all folk liturgies use pirated hymnals. Over the last 10 years, Fitzpatrick said, his company's estimated loss for such violations is $29,457,000. The loss in royalties to the firm's 65 composers and authors in the last year alone is estimated at $507,000, or an average of $7,800 each, he said.

"Our publications are inexpensive and we have offered a license for only $100 a year since 1972, which permits a parish to copy legally," he explained. "We have mailed over 200,000 brochures with three separate mailings to every Catholic church and school since November 1972, attempting to educate them in using only legal worship materials." Fewer than 900 churches, schools and religious groups have taken advantage of the offer, he said.

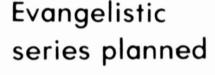

One copyright owned by FEL is the popular tune, "They'll Know We Are Christians By Our Love."

At the height of its popularity in 1969, the young composer had to borrow money to survive because his royalty check was only several hundred dollars "when it should have been 100 times that amount by our estimate," Fitzpatrick charged.

That song "might be more aptly paraphrased, 'They'll Know We Are Christians by Our Pirated Hymnals,"he said. "As it stands now," Fitzpatrick added, "it seems to us that we are ripped off before the ink is dry on the page."

As far back as 1967, the Music Advisory Board of the U.S. Catholic Bishops' Committee on the Liturgy warned against illegitimate use or music copyrights and urged bishops to correct such violations in their dioceses.

Two years later, the committee itself made a strong plea to parishes and church organizations to "stop the indiscriminate and unauthorized use of copyright materials." Such activity they said, is "immoral and illegal."

Catholic church. It stems in part from growing interest in new liturgical forms and ecumenical worship. In response to this interest, many church-related organizations are developing their own worship resources. Robert O. Hoffelt, manager for music resources at Abingdon Press, an agency of the United Methodist Publishing House in Nashville, issued a sharp reminder in April 1974 that photocopying sheet music is illegal. From a sampling of 182 churches in the archdiocese, the plaintiffs allege that 103 of these churches have violated FEL copyrights.

FEL also is offering a $10 reward for copies of pirated hymns "in order to end this exploitation and bring justice to our altars."

In response to the suit, a Chicago archdiocesan spokesperson said lawyers are investigating the charges. "If they discover a bona fide copyright infringement, steps will be taken to correct that," she said.

Jewish congregations observe High Holy Days

Jews throughout the area, the state, the nation and the world are in the midst of the High Holy Days, which began Thursday with Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year, and will conclude on Oct. 4 with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

This 10-day period is also known as the "Ten Days of Awe," a time of prayer and introspection.

The Jewish New Year, Rosh Hashonah, is one of the most ancient and sacred days in Jewish history.

The morning worship service will have "The Family" as its theme, with emphaais on family-related endeavors such as prayer, witnessing and church attendance.

A covered dish luncheon is scheduled following the 10:55 a.m. worship hour. During the evening service, scheduled to begin at 7, a marriage renewal service is planned, at which couples may renew their vows to each other and to God.

The services will be open to all

The commandment for the observance of the holiday is described in the Biblical book of Leviticus. According to the Hebrew lunar calendar, the current new year is 5737.

The Jewish New Year is markedly different in character from joyous, exuberant celebrations of other faiths, being a profoundly serious day during which Jews come together to pray, to examine their acts and take stock of their relationships to God and to each other, and to remember their past and dedicate themselves to the

CRANE - Radio station KBSN in Crane has converted to a full-time gospel music-teaching ministry

And in doing so, the station has forsaken its 15-year image as a country-and-western music station.

The change came about last month. explained station owner-manager Al Crain, because of the growing popularity of the new, contemporary gospel music.

'And since no one else was playing this music in the Permian Basin, we changed to it," said Crain, 47.

He said the new format will satisfy "the needs, desires, (and the) wishes of the people to be able to turn on the radio at anytime and to be able to hear some gospel music."

> Harriet Beecher Stowe was one of those heroic 19th Century housewives who, after her other labors were done and the children were in bed, would sit up by a lamp, scratching away with a pen to help make ends meet for the family. She could earn two dollars a page at it. When she first tried her hand at a novel and sold it as a magazine serial for $300, she exulted because this was precisely the debt of her household up in Maine.

> As a writer of fiction, Mrs. Stowe was never shy of melodrama and exaggeration, but nothing she imagined beside the lamp ever exceeded in improbability the ultimate effects of that first novel. It made her the first millionaire writer in American history, and it gave her an influence on that history such as no other woman had ever had. Lincoln himself acknowledged Mrs. Stowe's impact on the events of her time. "So this is the little lady who made this big war," he is supposed to have said on being introduced to the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

> Biographers have been telling the remarkable story of Mrs. Stowe's life ever since her son, Charles, came out with the first version in 1889 when she was still alive. Noel B. Gerson's "Harriet Beecher Stowe" (Praeger, $8.95) is the latest attempt at it and surely not the last. Gerson's book is compact and absorbing and, in the portrait it draws, unremittingly admiring as it almost had to be. Not to feel at least impressed by Mrs. Stowe would take a professional negativist. She had the kind of granite integrity that seems to have gone out with the century she lived in - when people of her sort believed they were living under constant judgment by the one Being whom it was impossible to fool.

> She was born in Litchfield, Conn., in 1811, the daughter of Lyman Beecher. a protestant minister who was said to "the father of more brains than any other man in America." All of his many children by three wives were gifted, but the one who came closest

Beecher, the most prominent

American clergyman of all time. In girlhood, she assumed the burden of hard work that she was never to lay down. From the age of 16, she was a teacher in a school founded by her sister in Hartford, carrying a load of teaching and study which only an oak-ribbed Victorian could have withstood.

In 1832, she went west to Cincinnati where her father was setting up a seminary for frontier missionaries. Back in New England, she had politely deplored slavery but now she got a closeup view. On a rare holiday from the girls' school in which she had again joined her sister as teacher, she crossed the river to Kentucky as a guest at a tobacco plantation. The fellow teacher who went with her wrote later that she appeared to pay no attention when the hosts ordered their slaves to cut capers for the entertainment of the guests but scene after scene from that visit turned up almost 20 years later in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." When Harriet married the Rev. Calvin Stowe, an absentminded scholar who was a colleague of her father, the couple became active in Cincinnati's flourishing Underground Railway for escaping slaves.

and little means for looking after them. Trying to stretch her husband's meager income, she stole time from the housework to write small essays of piety and instruction for religious magazines. Harriet seldom complained, but once she wrote her husband who was away at a religious convention: "I am sick of the smell of sour milk, and sour meat, and sour everything, and then the clothes will not dry, and no wet thing does, and everything smells mouldy ..." Her husband fell ill, and Harriet wrote furiously to make up for the lost income. Somehow she also managed to give up precious time to organize and teach at a school for children of the children in Brunswick, Maine, where her husband had been appointed a professor at Bowdoin. One winter Sunday, while attending communion, Mrs. Stowe - who at 40 was still scribbling away to forestall bankruptcy — had a vision of an old slave dying of a beating but forgiving his murderers. Of the novel that she immediately went to work on, she later said, "The Lord himself wrote it, and I was but the humblest of instruments in His hand." The events that followed the writing were miraculous enough to bear out her

First, the $300 paid for the serial rights was exactly enough to cover her debts. As a book, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was published in March 1852 in an edition that sold for 56 cents. Nobody, least of all the author, was braced for the public reaction. On the day of publication, 3,000 copies were sold. Two more editions were sold out in two weeks. Four months after the book appeared, Mrs. Stowe received her first royalty check for $10,000.

Translations came out in 40 languages, and the money rolled in. Even so, it could have been three times as much. Because she disapproved of the theater, Mrs. Stowe never secured the theatrical rights. The pirated stage version with 19 companies in one period playing it simultaneously - held the boards without a break from 1853 to

In Germany, Heinrich Heine said "Uncle Tom" was the greatest book since the Bible. Tolstoy called it an example of pure moral art. The book was praised by Dickens, George Sand and Henry James. Eventually, the housewife who couldn't get the laundry dry dined at Windsor Castle with her fan, Queen Victoria. In her own country after the Civil War. Holifield's TD gallop ignites Crane victory

MARFA - Steve Holifield returned a pass interception 45 yards for a touchdown with seven seconds in the half to break up a 15-15 tie and ignite the Crane Golden Cranes to a 37-15 win in a non-district football game here Friday night.

Crane struck again for two third period touchdowns to build up its winning 37-15 margin before a heavy shower in the third period shut down all offensive maneveurs for the rest of

Holifield wound up with 143 yards to lead the Cranes attack, but sharing the starring role was Chris Brightman, who gained 122 yards and scored three times.

BRIGHTMAN'S SCORING canters came on runs of 21, 18 and seven yards. Dale Mitchell also broke loose for a 27-yard run and ran over one extra point. Mark Evans kicked four conversions.

Despy Howard scored both of Marfa's touchdowns on runs of 52 and 27 yards

The win gives Crane a record of 2-2 going into next Friday's game with Fabens at Crane.

Sophomore power runner Jeff McCowan and senior quarterback David Hobbs led the Robert E. Lee Rebels to a smashing 38-0 football victory over El Paso Irvin's Rockets before more than 6,000 fans in Memorial Stadium Friday night.

McCowan, a 200-pounder, rushed for 114 yards in only 10 carries and had a touchdown scamper of 66 yards in the final period to give the Maroon Platoon its third victory of the season to remain undefeated going into District 5-4A play next Friday against

While McCowan was thrilling the crowd with his slashing running, Hobbs was hitting four of nine passes for 82 yards and two touchdowns against the outmanned Border City

After a sluggish start, Lee got on the scoreboard on its third possession of the game, marching 62 yards where Jerry Moore capped off the drive with a 25-yard field goal. Moore ripped off gains of 17 and 15 yards and Hobbs 13 more before the drive bogged down, but Moore's field goal with 2:14 left in the opening period got Lee started towards the rout.

The Rebels really came alive in the second period, racking up 21 points to go to the dressing room at halftime with a 24-0 advantage.

Following a short 30-yard punt off the toe of Irvin's Charles Yancura, Lee got the ball at the Rocket 43 and in only four plays, was on the scoreboard again. This time Hobbs dialed Steve Sledge's number with a perfect 29-yard scoring pass and Moore's kick made it 10-0 with 11:53 left in the second period.

Mike Kerley gave Lee a break late in the second quarter at the Irvin 21 with a fumble recovery and in six plays, scored again. A 19-yard screen

Panthers devour Coyotes, 47-6

By PAUL DOMOWITCH R-T Sports Writer

ODESSA-Some things will just never change. Texas women will always be the prettiest in the land, politicians will always be crooked, children will always play in the mud, and as sure as there is a sunrise and sunset, the Mojo grid machine will win They made it three in a row Friday night, as coach

John Wilkins' powerful Permian eleven wiped the W.T. Barrett Stadium turf with the Roswell, New Mexico gridders, enroute to a one sided 47-6 victory before 12,000 fans. Running backs Kerry Bullard and Greg Lambert each scored twice, and Mark Graves rushed for 124 yards, as the Panther offense accumulated 401 yards on the ground and through the airways

Permian scored on five of their six possessions in the first two periods, to put the game out of the Coyotes' reach by halftime After forcing Roswell to punt on their first possession. Panther quarterback Curtis Pittman marched his troops 40 yards in seven plays, with Bullard rambling in from the seven to put the first Mojo points of the evening on the scoreboard.

Failing to move the football once again, Roswell's defense was put to the test once again, and forced Permian to punt it away. The kick would be only the first of two Panther boots all evening.

Their brief success against Pittman and company two opportunities to take it in, but on fourth down, the may have given the Coyote a momentary feeling of Panther signal caller dove across the goal line confidence, but it didn't last long. Regaining himself from one yard out. possession on the Roswell 41-yard line with 1:34 Permian made or remaining in the first quarter, the barrage started coming...and coming... and coming.

Pittman took the pigskin around left end for a 17-yard gain, as the quarter ended. And on the very next play. Lyndon Kauk reached the end zone unmolested from the five, and the Panthers were on the board again.

Bullard scored his second touchdown of the game with 8:06 still remaining in the first half, when his eight yard run capped off a seven play, 73 yard drive.

Things went from bad to worse for Roswell less than two minutes later, when punter Ralph Meeks mishandled a high snap, and was forced to eat it on his own seven. Pittman wasted very little time putting another nail in the Coyote coffin, connecting with Mike Hanson on a seven yard touchdown toss. Kirk Edwards' PAT made it 27-0.

After Roswell tried unsuccessfully once again to move the ball against the stingy Panther defense, Permian received one more scoring opportunity in the waning seconds of the second quarter, and they made it count. With the ball on their own 19, Mark Graves went into his high-stepping routine on a trap play up the middle, and ran 74 yards to the six yard line, before he was caught from behind. Pittman gave Graves and that was a fumble by Lyndon Kauk on his own 39yard stripe early in the third period. A personal foul penalty on the Panthers moved the ball up to the 24, and five plays later, Coyote wingback Gerard Morales sprinted around left end from three yards out for the first- and last Roswell points of the

Lambert, the sensational young Panther sophomore, stole the center-stage limelight from there, scoring on a one-yard plunge, with 5:47 remaining in the third period, and climaxing a 70 yard drive midway through the final quarter, by hitting paydirt from two yards out. Permian, the 1975 Texas 4A schoolboy runnerups, open their district season this Friday, entertaining Midland at W.T. Barrett Stadium converted a couple of pass interceptions into quick touchdowns to beat defensively stubborn McCamey, 27-0, here Friday night.

It was the third win without a loss for the Lions while the Badgers, who open District 6-A play next Friday against Van Horn, are 0-3. Quarterback Randy Allen's 34-yard pass to end John Galvin gave Ozona its first touchdown and Galvin converted with 7:37 left in the first period for a 7-0 lead.

Galvin returned a pass interception 90 yards to make it 13-0 in the second period and McCamey then foiled another score just before half by holding the Lions four downs at the one-yard-line.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Cesar Cedeno slashed four hits, including two in an eight-run fourth inning, and Cliff Johnson cracked a three-run homer, powering the Houston Astros to a 14-5 romp over the San Francisco Giants Friday night.

The Astros sent 13 batters to the plate in the fourth inning, collecting eight of their 15 hits off starter Frank Ricelli, 1-1, and reliever Dave Heaverlo.

Johnson's 10th homer of the year was the big blow in the inning.

Sonora whips Owls

SONORA - The • powerful Sonora Broncos stormed past past the Reagan County Owls of Big Lake, 28-6, Friday night in a non-district football game.

Sonora took a first period lead of 7-0 on a 61yard drive which took 15 plays. Quarterback John Elliott dove over from the two and John David Cook booted the PAT for a 7-0 lead with 1:15 left in the opening period.

The Owls came right back to make things interesting with Mario Hernandez skipping 47 yards for the score, but the extra point attempt failed, making it 7-6 in favore of Sonora with 9:40 left in the second period.

Elliott scored again for the Broncs on a 1-yard plunge after his 41-yard pass to Tony Mathews, set up the score. Cook's in 14th nips Rangers, 2-1 ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) - Hal McRae slashed a two-out single in the top of 14th inning Friday night to score John Wathan and lift the Kansas Cty Royals to 2-1 victory over the Texas Rangers. The victory reduce the Royals' magic number to three games for clinching the American League West title.

Kansas City's victory, coupled with Oakland's 4-2 loss to Chicago, put Kansas City six games ahead of the A's with eight games left on the schedule. Kansas City's winning rally in the 41/2-hour marathon began when Wathen singled up the middle off Ranger reliever Steve Foucault. Jim Wohlford walked and McRae delivered the game-winning hit off righthander Jeff Terpko. McRae's sarafice fly in the sixth inning had tied the game off Texas starter Jim Umbarger.

Larry Gura, who pitched five innings of two-hit relief, picked up his third victory against no losses. Mark Littell picked up his 16th save by getting the Rangers in order in the bottom of the 14th.

up the score. Brian Crowell knifed over from the seven to make it 16-0 and and Moore's PAT made it 17-0 with 25 seconds left in the half.

Lee came right back when Crowell picked off an Oscar Vargas pass at the 34 and with no time left on the clock, Hobbs zeroed in on a TD toss to

John Lowery. Moore split the uprights to give Lee a 24-0 lead at intermission. The Rebs added touchdowns in the third and fourth periods as Coach Jim

Acree cleared his bench and played just about everybody. McCowan pounced on a Rocket fumble at the offset of the third period and the Rebels moved 36 yards in three plays with Crowell going the final nine yards to pay dirt. Moore booted the PAT to make it 31-0 with 9:49 left in the third stanza.

Stan Carter, James Lundy and

Terry Padgett led a tough Lee defensive unit in the third period as Irvin was unable to move the ball, except for a few pass receptions. Stewart intercepted an Irvin pass for the Rebs, but they were unable to take advantage of it in the early going of the final period. Then came the most exciting run of the evening when McCowan blasted 66 yards, breaking two tackles along the way and a good stiff arm at the Irvin 26, gave him the boost he needed to rumble into the end zone. Moore kicked the extra point to make it 38-0 with 4:29 left in the contest. Lee racked up 308 yards on the ground and an additional 82 through the airways for a total offense of 390 yards.

The victory sets up the big battle with Odessa's undefeated Bronchos in Memorial Stadium Friday. OHS is also 3-0 on the year.

Lee's defense was outstanding once again with Donald Salinas, Lundy, Jeff Degenfelder, McCowan, Crowell, Brian Ramey and Company, doing a hatchet job on the Rockets who are 0-3 on the year and have yet to score this

Roscoe nudges Stanton by 14-12

STANTON - Roscoe Plowboys scored on a four-yard pass with 7:03 left in the game and then foiled Stanton's bid for a game-tying twopoint conversion with 1:34 left to score a 14-12 victory over the Buffaloes here Friday night. As it turned out, Thurman Williams twopoint conversion run after

Roscoe's second period score proved the difference. Roscoe had scored on a five-yard run by Thad Haynes after a 31-yard drive with a recovered fumble. Still in the second period, Ralph Gonzales blocked a Roscoe punt and recovered at the 17 to set up Tod Smith's five yard touchdown run with 1:39 left in the half.

THAT TOOK care of the scoring until the fourth period when Mark Box passed four yards to Johnny Jay to make it 14-6 in favor of Roscoe with 7:03 left.

Stanton roared back with 1:34 left when Smith found Oscar Perez with a 59-yard scoring pass.

record while Roscoe is 3-1.

Standing out for Stanton on defense in this homecoming show were Bimbo Allred and George McCallister as Stanton's defense kept the Buffs in the contest although the Plowboys made 285 yards rushing to 62.

Wayne Hirt scored from the twoyard line and Wesley Overton kicked the point as Garden City took the lead for good in the first period. However, Doc Turk's two-yard plunge narrowed the margin to 7-6 for Miles.

quarter. The two battle hardened units took enough breather at the half to allow Annette Harcrow, a senior, to be named homecoming queen.

SNYDER, WHO managed only two first downs in their last possession in the first half, came out smoking in the third period.

Snyder moved right down the field from their own 27-yard line to the Andrews five before stalling when Andrews' sophomore 223-pound tackle Steve Kolb dropped Snyder quarterback Tim Falls for a nineyard loss back to the 14-yard line. Snyder had to settle for a 31-yard field goal off the toe of Ricky Beard. That narrowed the margin to 14-3 with 5:03 still left in the third period.

Andrews showed the character that has been lacking the past two years when they marched 73 yards after the ensuing kickoff to put the game away.

Brooks ended the big yard gulping crunch with a five-yard plunge for the 20-3 margin and the ball game. Ricky Chesshire had his kick blocked after toeing the first two extra point tries.

SNYDER MANAGED to get on the scoreboard with 1:19 left in the game when their fate had already been sealed.

Beard crashed over from one-yard out for the tally after Snyder 80 yards for the score. A 31-yard interference call on Andrews did most of the damage, however.

It was sweet revenge for the Mustangs, who dropped a 61-12 verdict to the Tigers a year ago in one of the biggest mismatches of the year.

Andrews will try to make it five in a row next week when they host Levelland. Snyder, now 3-1 for the year, will take the week off before opening District 3-AAA play against Lamesa, Oct. 8.

Bucks escape upset, but Lions deserve credit

BY TED BATTLES

Missouri, upset by Illinois last week, was the lone top 10 team to take a tumble, and, as it turned out, quite a tumble at that. From No. 6, the Tigers tumbled into the abyss below No. 20.

Ohio State just as easily could have suffered a similar fate, although the Buckeyes wouldn't have dropped out of sight completely. That the Buckeyes didn't is a circumstance for which OSU and Penn State probably deserve equal credit.

In his pregame appraisal of the teams, TV analyst Bud Wilkinson described it as Ohio State's talent against Penn State's intelligence. Bud must have misread his cue card. It turned out just the opposite.

Even more important, the Texan knows when to eat the football, an Andress shortcoming that proved disasterous to Penn State.

Gerald subordinates his talents to his other backs, and in Woody Hayes' scheme of things, that makes for an ideal quarterback...just get the ball to the Archie Griffins, John Brockingtons and Pete Johnsons.

As a result, OSU played a close to flawless game, the lone mistake coming when a tackle hit a safety man too soon on a punt. But this was eradicated on the lip of a score when Penn State, second and goal at the five, had Andress pass into a crowd

WHILE THE Buckeyes were squeaking by 12-7, Illinois caught Missouri sandwiched between games with Southern California and Ohio State and made mincemeat of the Tigers, who undoubtedly were looking a week ahead.

Playing its toughest non-conference schedule in some time (UCLA still remains), the Buckeyes' mistake-free offense that can control the pigskin for what seems like days at a time and a sturdy defense should make it a routine win for the Bucks, say 21-7. The others...

Pitt's Tony Dorsett favored for Heisman Trophy

Copley News Service

Archie Griffin has gone on to the pros but there won't be any shortage of candidates for the 1976 Heisman Trophy.

Glamour players aplenty are being pushed for the honor that went to Ohio State's Griffin the last two years. Going into this college football season, three Heisman candidates stand out and many more are waiting in the wings for their chance to captivate the nation.

YOU'LL GET arguments from the West Coast, which has two super players in the University of Southern California's Ricky Bell and the University of California at Berkeley's Joe Roth, but the man to beat for the Heisman right now is Pitt's Tony Dorsett, a star since he was a freshman, has piled up over 4,000 yards rushing in just three seasons. Even if he has a subpar year carrying the ball, he still could surpass Griffin's NCAA rushing record for a career this

What puts Dorsett in the Heisman forefront, though, are his feats against Notre Dame. The Pitt speedster has been unbelievable when facing Notre Dame.

THE IMPORTANCE of this is partly political: besides the Eastern vote Dorsett commands, he has a strong following in the Midwest as a result of his performances against Notre Dame.

And make no mistake about it, the Heisman Trophy winner often is determined as much by politics as he is by statistics. The amount of publicity, the school, the section of the country, competition, tradition, team record, TV exposure...all these factors influence the sportswriters who vote for the Heisman.

Dorsett assumed a very strong grip on the Heisman this season when Notre Dame again failed to stop him and went down to defeat.

He'll need all the edge he can get to stave off Bell and Roth, although the fact that those two play in the same area of the nation could dilute their

BELL HAS that Trojan tradition, the memories of Mike Garrett and O.J. Simpson, going for him. Also, he figures to have ample national TV Roth will have a harder climb. His

Cal team isn't overpowering and faces a very demanding schedule. There are no national telecasts of Cal games scheduled at this point, either. However, if Roth somehow can lead the Golden Bears to the Rose Bowl, he couldn't be overlooked by the Heisman voters. He's a brilliant passer and fits the golden boy quarterback image.

While these are the main Heisman candidates, there are other impressive ones.

Kansas insists that its wishbone quarterback, Nolan Cromwell, is as good as anyone in the nation.

NEBRASKA IS being boomed as one of the top teams in the country, and the Cornhusker quarterback.

The field is loaded with running back candidates. Texas fullback Earl Campbell is devastating but he's just a junior, a factor which will work against him. The same thing for Alabama's Johnny Davis, who might become one of the Crimson Tide's all-

Reading from the New International Version of the New lestament, we observe the following: "You, therefore have no excuse, you who pass judgement on someone else, for whatever point you judge the other, you are condemning yourself... (Ro.2:1) When that passage is read one is quick to point a finger of guilt to those who find ococasion to criticize others for their practice. They say "You are always finding fault and criticizing others for what they do. Don't you know that the Bible speaks against your practice of criticizing folks?" My answer to that is always, "No. I did not know the Bible spoke against Criticizing others when others are wrong.

You see, I did in this article what most people do when they quote this passage: I left out the last phrase which completely explains the kind of criticism which is condemned it reads, ... because you who pass judgement to the same things. This is also the meaning of Matthew

Many times my readers get perturbed at me because I have occasion to find fault with their religious practices and rather than to take Bible in hand and show that their practice is scriptural, they just wave their hand in disgust and say. "He is always finding fault with others." My friends, the caption of this weekly feature is really to explain my motive for writing the things which I write. Knowing my own heart better than anyone else can, my purpose is not to condemn for condemnation sake, but to provoke my readers to THINK of themselves. While some become bitter toward me personally. I am grateful for those who have written or called to encourage my efforts. And there have been many who has done just that.

No Christian can be right in God's sight who will not do what God has said to do. Won't you agree to that? But God has said, "..reprove, rebuke, and exhort with all long suffering and teaching.."(2 Ti.4:2) The word "reprove" in greek means To "criticize; to condemn as wrong." Of course, the Bible is the standard to determine such. Hence, IF what I do is interpreted as "criticize or condemning others as wrong." then if I use the Bible for such. I am merely doing what God said for me and every other faithful Christian to do. But, now how about applying this to Romans 2:1? If you criticize me for criticize others, are you not doing what you condemn me for? Now, read again Romans 2:1, AND THINK.

After Opperman success, Unser signed

Cowboys, Oilers

It has been an eventful year for Midland's Longhorn Racing Team on the U.S. Auto Club circuit. There has been some ups and there has been some downs, but when the season ends the Longhorns won't have much to quibble about. The good is going to out weigh the bad, hopefully.

The Longhorns started the year with driver Bruce Walkup, but the team let him go a third of the way through the season standing fifth in the national sprint car standings. That was not a bad showing, and was better than last year's seventh place finish, but the Longhorns had not won a feature race.

Midlander Bobby Hillin, who is principal owner of Longhorn Racing, hired Jan Opperman to do the driving for the rest of the season. It was a move that paid dividends.

OPPERMAN, THE long-haired ordained minister who also does great work with young drug addicts, went on to win three features, two at El Dora, Ohio, and another at Dayton.

He also moved the team to third place in the standings, and the Longhorns are only 28 points out of second place and 130 points behind leader Pancho Carter, who has been phenomenal this year.

Opperman was also impressive in the Dirt Championship Division of USAC racing although the Longhorns failed to make any points.

At Springfield, Ill., Opperman started 16th and held the lead on the 70th lap before a fuel pickup system failed. In another race, he took the lead after 47 laps after starting 20th, but a starter failed when the race was halted to clear a wreck.

MIDWAY THROUGH the USAC season, the Longhorns entered a Championship Division car. This is the division of the Indy type racers, and the Longhorns are currently using an Eagle car with an Offy engine. Opperman again responded.

He finished sixth in the California 500 at Ontario, and tenth in the Trenton 200. Not bad for the first outings in the super tough division that features the top racing teams in the world.

Things were going smoothly for the Longhorns, and Opperman. Jan also won four straight Midget Division races, which was not with Longhorn Racing.

But then came the Hoosier 100 a couple of weeks ago, and Longhorn Racing and Opperman suffered a severe blow.

Opperman started the Hoosier by qualifying fifth. He was in second before the first lap ended, and held that position for 51 laps before destiny took its toll.

ON THE 51st lap, leader Johnny Parsons spun out in front of Opperman, and Jan climbed the Parsons' car and flipped. In a secondary crash, Opperman received severe head injuries and doctors said he had a bruised brain. He was placed on the critical list.

Jan is now well on the way to recovery, and Hillin reports that he is now alert and feeding himself. Still, it is not known how soon Opperman can return to racing, but Hillin says that Opperman will be his driver as soon as he recovers.

The wreck, however, placed the Longhorn team in a bind since there are 10 races left in the sprint division, one in the dirt championship and the big championship division race at the Texas Speedway.

Hillin has taken measures to compete in all of the divisionsmeasures that appear to be solid.

HILLIN HAS acquired the services of racing great Al Unser to race in the Syracuse 100, Oct. 2, to end the dirt championship series. That has to be an exciting prospect.

"You never know who you can get until you ask," Hillin said. 'Al had turned down some other rides, but he had heard about our cars and wanted to try.

It is a one race deal, and hopefully, Unser will not meet the same problems faced in the other dirt championship races.

Right now, however, the biggest hole left was in the sprint car division where the Longhorns have a chance to improve their national standings with the 10 races remaining.

Hillin has hired George Snyder to drive the remaining sprint schedule if Opperman can't return. Snyder was No. 1 in the sprint standings in July, 1975, before a wreck forced him out of action. He is a proven HILLIN STILL hopes that Opperman can return for the Texas Speedway race later this year, and has not named a replacement. The Longhorns, however, will be in the race even if they have to use another driver.

With only two years on the USAC circuit, the Longhorn team has an amazing record. The team seems to be looking to bigger things all the time.

With the addition of an Indy car this year, it doesn't take much looking to see where the team is headed. Maybe there will be a Midland car in the Indy 500 before it all ends. After all, that's the Super Bowl of the racing world.

Lauda named winner of July road race

PARIS (AP) - James Hunt of Britain was disqualified Friday as the winner of the July 18 British Grand Prix at Brands Hatch, England.

The International Automobile Federation (FIA) awarded the victory to the runner-up, reigning world champion Niki Lauda of Austria.

However, FIA rejected an attempt by Lauda's team, Ferrari, to reopen its judgment on Hunt's victory over Lauda in the Spanish Grand Prix. Hunt's team, Mclaren, was fined for its car being too wide, but Hunt's victory was allowed to stand.

The decision increases Lauda's lead over Hunt in this year's driving championship race to 17 points from five, but with three races to go, the title is still wide open.

"I want my wife; my two children need their mother," Jaffa pleaded before television cameras and reporters. "Please get in touch with me."

Sheri Linda Jaffa, 35, disappeared Wednesday morning either from the family's home or her car enroute to a hairdressing appointment.

In a telephone call to his office about 10:15 a.m. that day, Jaffa said a male voice told him his wife had been abducted and he could get her back for $200,000. The caller threatened his wife with acid, Jaffa said.

"He said my wife's car was in a certain location, I drove by and it was there," Jaffa said.

That sent him rushing to the bank. But "as I grabbed the door, I realized it was closed," Jaffa said. "I banged on the door and got in," he said.

American Broadcasting Co., which was responsible for distributing the sound and picture to television and radio operations, said "the failure was due to a major malfunction in the amplifier system.

The part that failed, called an electrolytic capacitor, cost between $1 and $1.25, said Phil Levin, ABC's chief engineer.

Under the proposed changes, cadets would try their fellow students rather than turning that task over to an officer panel. The board could recommend retention of a cadet found guilty if it was satisfied he was basically qualified to become an army officer.

Cadet Michael Ivy, chairman of the honor committee, said in an interview that changes in trial procedure would probably be voted on by the Corps of Cadets some time next week. He said the proposal to implement an alternative to separation would be weighed

"It's always had a solid performance record," Keating said. "I never heard of one going bad before, or of the distribution amplifier ever

The defective amplifier had been used to distribute sound during Ford's trip to China last year, and also at the Montreal Olympics and the national political conventions in 1976.

ABC said it had been "totally reliable" in those operations.

ABC's Elliot Bernstein, the pool TV producer, said: "My engineers tell me the capacitor is a reliable piece of equipment.'

So reliable, in fact, as well as the amplifier itself, that ABC acknowledged "there was no backup system to guard against the unique failure that took place.' ABC had duplicate equipment to guard against other possible failures, "including double microphones, mixes and lines," but they weren't needed.

"I'm sure the engineers will provide a backup amplifier from now on," Keating said, still unable to hide his embarrassment.

EPA drops controversial plan to slowly reduce lead in gas

Instead, the agency said it would allow refiners to keep lead content at its current level for the three-year period and to make the total reduction in one step after the grace period

The announcement came exactly one week before the plan was to go into effect. EPA said it was taking the action because studies by the government and by independent contractors showed phasing down with big defense industries.

As a senator. Douglas did not hew always to the party line' although an affable and friendly man he never really became a member of the "club." Nor did he enjoy the best of relations with two Democratic Presidents, Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson, Truman, during an investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in which Douglas was engaged - characterized Douglas as an "overeducated s.o.b." Douglas's sense of propriety also was outraged by the way Johnson ran the Senate when he was majority leader, just the kind of opposition LBJ hated. There were frequent clashes between the two men.
