Trends index sours

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government index designed to anticipate future economic trends fell during August for the first time since the current recovery began, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said its composite index of leading indicators fell 1.5 per cent in August, due primarily to a higher layoff rate in manufacturing and reduced business spending.

The drop is the first since February, 1975, and the largest since the 3.4 per cent decline a month before that.

A decline in the index is generally a signal of slower growth in the economy. The initial report is subject to substantial revision, so that the initial figures are not necessarily solid. Most economists consider a three-month drop or increase in the index to be necessary before they consider a change in direction for the economy is indicated.

But the index drop does come after three consecutive months of a rising unemployment rate despite growing employment and in the midst of what administration economists consider a lull in economic growth.

Administration economists have been contending that the lull is only

The August decline follows a fivetenths of 1 per cent advance in July and leaves the index, which is at 108 per cent of its 1967 average, precisely where it was in May.

The leading indicator index is composed of a dozen individual economic statistics selected for their position in the forefront of economic trends. Of the 11 statistics available in time for computation in the August index, eight pointed downward.

The layoff rate in manufacturing jumped to 1.5 per cent in August after registering a 1.1 per cent rate in July. The volume of contracts and orders for factories and facilities slipped 12.5 per cent after marking a 1.8 per cent advance the previous month. Other factors contributing to the August decline were a shorter average work week for factory workers, a slower growth in assets held by consumers and business, a slower formation of new businesses, lower stock prices, a smaller amount of money in circulation after adjustment for inflation and a smaller volume of new orders received by manufacturers of consumer products and their suppliers.

Upward influences in the index were higher prices for key wholesale

Congressmen taking sides on Arab bills

By DON OBERDORFER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Amid hectic congressional maneuvering and intensive lobbying involving petroleum and arms transactions. Saudi Arabia Monday denied making threats of a new oil embargo against the United

The embargo report - which originated Sunday with Egypt's official Middle East News Agency was categorically denied by the Saudi Foreign Minister, Prince Saud bin Faisal. State and Treasury Department officials also said the Saudis have not threatened to embargo oil sales to the United States in connection with anti-boycott legislation or a resolution contesting the sale of U.S. missiles.

At the same time, Assistant Secretary of State Alfred L. Atherton Jr., expressed concern that the Saudis would view the passage of these measures as "a pattern of attacks" on their relationship with the United States, with consequences "we could come to regret.

Among the potential consequences, Atherton told the House International relations Committee, is a lessening of Saudi incentives to hold the line on international oil prices, thus leading to "substantial increases in the price lobbyists versus oil company and business lobbyists - and clashes among key legislators appeared to dim the chances for the two measures which the Saudis dislike Monday:

-The House International Relations Committee failed to act on a controversial resolution to block the sale of 650 Maverick air-to-ground missiles to Saudi Arabia. Sponsors said the inaction, due to lack of a quorum, was discouraging because time is running out, and a lobbyist working to pass the measure said failure to act Monday means the measure is "dead" and the sale probably would be made.

-An unofficial session of Senate-House conferees on anti-Arab boycott legislation agreed informally to drop a provision forbidding American companies to give boycott information to Arab states, informed sources said. The Saudis have said passage of this provision, which is strenuously opposed by business lobbyists and the Ford administration, runs against Saudi laws and thus might make it impossible for U.S. firms to purchase that country's

The final shape of the legislation, aimed at preventing U.S. firms from complying with the Arab trade boycott against Israel, is embroiled in parliamentary complexity and is in doubt. A senator close to oil interests, John Tower (R-Tex.), reportedly has threatened to filibuster procedural steps standing in the way of further action. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), apparently in retaliation, has placed a block on International Monetary Fund legislation which the Ford administration wants.

In the narrow hallway outside the "unofficial" conference session, lobbyists for Caterpiller Tractor Co., Standard Oil of California, Bechtel Corp. and other large construction firms, the National Association of Manufacturers, U.S. Chamber of Commerce and other business groups opposing anti-boycott provisions crowded along one side, waiting for lawmakers. Along the other side, physically and symbolically, were lobbyists for the American Jewish Committee, Anti-Defamation League and American Israel Public Affairs Committee who are backing the legislation against the boycott.

The Capitol Hill struggle over U.S.-Saudi arms boiled up last Friday when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 8 to 6 for a resolution to block the proposed sale of 650 Maverick missiles. Israel had strongly objected to the transaction on grounds that the weapons might eventually be turned against it by Saudi Arabia, directly or by transfer to another Arab country.

After a telephone call from Rockefeller, committee chairman John Sparkman (D-Ala.) obtained unanimous consent of the Senate Monday morning to return the resolution to his committee, thus delaying action on the floor. Sparkman later quoted Rockefeller as saying that the Ford administration is 'greatly disturbed' over the resolution in view of the "tremendous power that country (Saudi Arabia) exercises over oil.

Only a few senators were in the chamber when the action was taken. and proponents of the anti-missile resolution were furious when they heard of the maneuver.

Here's a plain and simple message to any illegal CB'er out there: "You'll never know they're out there, until they've got you by the tail (or handle).

This, more or less, is the warning Carl Pyron of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) in Dallas has for any citizen band operator who decides to transmit out of the bounds of the law and FCC regulations

Pyron is engineer-in-charge of the FCC's enforcement division for Northern Texas and Oklahoma. His people occasionally monitor some of those 700,000 CB'ers in the two states. And his team may be in the

The offenders were fined from $50 to $500 for FCC rule-breaking, which included: (1) transmitting via too-tall (overheight) antennas; (2) operating on a frequency not assigned to CB service; (3) operating with an overpowered transmitter; (4) and 'talking skip" - contacting stations more than 150 miles away; (5) operating without a CB license, which costs $5 for a 4-year period. Generally speaking, the FCC will not launch an undercover CB investigation into any area until after complaints have been turned in and stacked up.

Because we just don't have time to pick on people," Pyron explained. Nationwide, Pyron said, the FCC has four teams to check into illegal CB use. Though some complaints have originated out of Midland and Odessa. he said, they're stacked up high from such Texas cities as Lubbock, Amarillo and El Paso drives quietly around, and sometimes at night with their lights off, in unmarked cars equipped with hidden signal finders. The team makes tape recordings of transmissions, locates the offenders and, once the investigation is over, moves in and confronts the CB'er.

Once in town, the FCC's CB team

Afterward, as if setting an example. the FCC will publicly announce its undercover work.

However, it's like Pyron said, once the FCC team makes contact with one CB'er, "the world knows you're around."

(But) you'll never know it until it's all over," he said.

Though Pyron did not know offhand how many CB'ers are in the Midland-Odessa area, he said some 523,000 licensed CB operators are in Texas, according to a count taken last April. Oklahoma had 122,000 then, he said. And Texas, CB-wise, outnumbered all other states, including the heavily populated New York, which counted 111,000 CB'ers.

The FCC, as it turns out, is primarily concerned with technical abuses over and with the citizen band. The Federal Bureau of Investigation deals with abusive language cases. 'It (the lingo) would have to be pretty gross before you could get a prosecution," Pyron said in a telephone interview from his Dallas from under a bridge, crossed the median where signs forbid crossing. and flagged me down to present me a ticket for driving 76 on a highway built for 120 in a car with a speedometer marked for 100. It was a beautiful morning with light traffic, and when I slowed to 55 every vehicle in Oestexas passed me except a 1938 pickup with a chicken coop on top.

The officer asked with studied politeness if I was involved in some mmediate emergency.

I always have a strong compulsion to say, "As a matter of fact, yes, a guy named Col. Speir has been horribly mangled in a bicycle-airplane crash near Pyote and has sent for me to hear his deathbed confession that lawmen who burn up the highways with sirens blaring are sometimes just going home to lunch."

How do you tell a cop with his foot on your bumper that you've driven some 500 miles in the last couple of days, partly to officiate at a chili contest for the Air Force World contest for the Air Force World Championship in a patriotic attempt to bring a little pleasure into the lives of airmen at a dozen bases who roam the world's skies so that highway patrolmen may sleep better between tickets, and you've taken a 250-mile detour through Abilene to see your 80-year-old mother who has broken her foot and refuses to see a doctor, and open, but look out for the law stamp, separate, and bundle 500 copies of "West Texas Life" for subscribers to a defunct magazine you tried to publish despite all odds in order to bring a little englightenment to the information-starved masses in Oestexas?

The officer would probably prefer to believe the story about Col. Speir and you know you're going to get a ticket anyway. (I did tell one one time I was taping an editorial about the plight of the 1,300 Americans still missing in Southeast Asia, and he mumbled "That's nice," as he began writing the ticket.)

Please understand that I don't blame the officers, who are just doing their job - a job I wouldn't have on a bet because being a newspaperman is closer than I really like to get to minding other people's business.

The fault, Dear Brutus, is not in our stars but in our lawmakers that we are harassed for doing what comes naturally in Oestexas, where we have the best highways in the world and great expanses to cover in the course of work and play and no chauffeured limousines with wet bars to transport us from New York to Washington, D. C., at bumper-to-bumper crawls to pass laws that have no relation to reality elsewhere.

So I can well understand Midlander Bob Corley's decision to run for the House of Representatives on a plat-form that includes hostility to what I have come to call the "Nixon-Exxon Memorial 55-Mile Speed Limit."

I understand his opponent, Rep. Tom Craddick, is also opposed to the 55-mile madness, so we can't lose in that sector. But, whoever wins in November, if he can really do something about that legislative monster, I'll be glad to vote for him for president. Ster.

Write-in candidate visits Midland

By JUDY JOHNSTON

Texas has enough trial judges to handle the volume of civil and criminal cases in the state, if they are utilized efficiently. Tom Lorance, an independent write-in candidate for associate justice of Texas Supreme Court, said today.

In Midland this morning on a brief campaign tour of the state, Lorance suggested the adoption of the 'Chicago system' in order to "get full-time employment out of judges, employes and the courtroom.

Under this system, the court sounds the docket on Friday and holds the lawyers available for trial. Then using the courtrooms in rotation, Lorance said, the court takes case after case, with the litigants and lawyers waiting at the courthouse.

"It keeps pressure on them to settle. It works," Lorance said. Lorance is an attorney from Houston, where the Chicago system has worked effectively for a few years, Lorance said.

The Texas Supreme Court has less of a backlog of cases than it did about 20 years ago, Lorance said. About 20 years ago a meritorious case had about a 1-in-20 change of being heard in the Supreme Court. Today with a meritorious case, the chances are about 1-in-3, Lorance said, attributing the efficiency mainly to Chief Justice Joe Greenhill and other working judges.

"They work and I'm proud of them," he added. Lorance entered the race in opposition to Donald B. Yarbrough, the Democratic nominee and the only name to appear on the Nov. 2 ballot. Later Sam Houston, a Democrat from Denton, announced his independent write-in candidacy.

Lorance, senior partner of the Houston law firm of Lorance, Thompson and Wittig, said other attorneys and friends convinced him to run "because I am qualified and someone has to stop Yarbrough."

"I am the only one qualified who is available to sit on the Supreme Court," Lorance said.

Sam Houston is not "Supreme Court material - at least not yet," Lorance said. Houston has never presented a case to the Supreme Court and has had minimal appellate experience,

"I don't put him into the same

Tom Lorance

category as Don Yarbrough, but I could not withdraw because of him, as I would have for Barrow," Lorance continued

Charles Barrow is the man Yarbrough beat, Lorance explained. Although Barrow was well-qualified, the San Antonio court of civil appeals, "he did not have a trick name," Lorance said.

Lorance said he believes the association of Donald B. Yarbrough's name with that of Donald Yarborough, former gubernatorial candidate, helped Yarbrough win.

Lorance also believes Sam Houston's name association may give him an edge.

'The real issue is qualification, not a trick name, nor Democrat or Republican, nor conservative or liberal, nor economics or politics,' Lorance said.

Lorance has been in general trial and appellate law practice before district and appellate courts 27 years. He was graduated with honors from the University of Texas Law School in

He was a fighter pilot with the United States Air Force in Europe during World War II and was decorated six times for valor. From 1949 to 1950 he was assistant district attorney in Dallas.

Downey, 46, reflected on his past as one of America's most celebrated cold war prisoners in an interview Monday with The Associated Press. The interview ended three years of self-imposed public silence following a single news conference on his return

During most of his captivity from 1952 to 1973, Downey said he felt the policies of both nations made personal intervention in his behalf almost

"I definitly felt that I was caught in an enormous clash of politics....That probably was one reason I didn't feel embittered in terms of thinking somebody should have done something for me, because I felt it had gone beyond that point," he said.

Now, with three successful years of Harvard Law School behind him and word Friday that he had passed the Connecticut bar examination, he leaned back in the conference room of his new law firm, fidgeting as he answered questions.

He is reported to have received upwards of $400,000 in back pay from the Central Intelligence Agency after his release from prison, bu he refused to disclose the exact amount.

He also declined to answer most questions about his feelings towards the CIA and former President Richard M. Nixon, who played a role in his release. Downey did say that he joined the CIA in 1951 after graduating from Yale University because, with the United States becoming involved in the Korean conflict, "it was a glamour thing, a prestige thing.' He and Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., were in a plane that was shot down a year later over Manchuria in northern China while on a CIA mission. Fecteau was released in 1971.

Downey has said he was not physically abused by his captors except for being held in leg irons during his first 10 months in prison, but he said he was subjected to persistent ideological pressure.

Although sentenced to life imprisonment for espionage, he said he was given subtle reasons to hope he might be released. Those hopes reached fruition when he learned of plans for Nixon's historic visit to mainland China

County will receive $2,578,239 in taxes

Midland County should receive $229,559 more than in property taxes in 1976 over what it received in 1975, Elmo Linebarger, county tax assessor-colletor, said Monday afternoon in regular session of Midland County Commissioner's Court.

The county should receive a total of $2,578,239, which is a based on a total assessed taxable value of $271,385,470

To derive the total assessed taxable value, the county assesses 32 per cent of the actual property value and makes certain exemptions for disabled veterans and the over-65 homestead. Then a county tax rate of 95 cents per $100 is applied.

An increase in construction in Midland County appears to be the main reason for the increase, Linebarger's chief deputy Mrs. Francess Sheffield said. Midland National Bank and Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. buildings were two sizeable additions, she said, adding that many new homes were built.

In addition, the commissioners authorized the purchase of 32 used voting machines for $30,000 and tradein on 32 old county machines.

The new used machines have a five-year factory guarantee and should be received in late October. The newest of the 32 machines the planning to take some time off near the end of September to decide how he could best spend his time for the remainder of the campaign.

Carter aides said the decisions made in Plains in the next few days will determine where Carter will spend the bulk of his effort in October. Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, took Monday off. Ford running mate Sen. Bob Dole was campaigning in the Midwest.

Ford's plans are to remain at the White House, meeting with a procession of visiting foreign ministers to set the scene for the second presidential debate. The subject of that debate is foreign policy and national security, and Ford's plans call for holding numerous meetings with the foreign leaders to portray him as working on world affairs.

Republican strategists plan for Ford to claim in the San Francisco debate that he is experienced in ducted a successful foreign policy. On the other hand, Ford will portray Carter as having never dealt with representatives of foreign nations in any official capacity other than as governor of Georgia.

And to help underscore his claim of on-the-job experience, Ford summoned Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress to the White House to discuss Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's peacemaking efforts in Africa.

Ford returned Monday night from three days of campaigning in the South, where he toured Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

His schedule calls for him to remain away from campaigning and in the White House until Oct. 4, when he leaves for an extensive Western tour leading up to the debate in San Fran-

He said his crusade would include a drive to place career criminals and "violent and street-wise" youthful offenders behind bars.

But Carter campaign director Hamilton Jordan leaped on the Ford speech immediately.

"That is a strange promise from a man who has been president for more than 700 days already. But perhaps it is a necessary one, since the record of that 700 days shows serious neglect of the crime problem," Jordan said.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell ordered Monday that Texas Secretary of State Mark White place Mc-Carthy's name on the ballot in Texas as an independent candidate for president

McCarthy had asked Powell Friday to stay an order of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, which had upheld a three-judge federal court panel at Austin in denying him a place on the Texas ballot this year.

Both the Texas panel and the 5th circuit had agreed with the former Minnesota senator's challenge of a Texas election code provision that forbids independent candidates for president. But the jurists said there was not enough time to get on the ballot by petition this year.

Powell said Monday he justices and obtained agreement by a majority of them to grant Mchis reasoning.

Those vacant lots

Midland is stepping up its "war" on cluttered, weed-infested, unsightly vacant lots throughout the city no doubt is welcomed by many residents

Just getting rid of the extra good crop of weeds would be downright good news for hay fever sufferers and others.

The weeds have really come to life since the rainfall of recent weeks, many of them having reached what could be record height. Some vacant lots right close to the downtown business center have some weeds which should be entered in the "Tall Weed" contest, if such an event

Anyway, this is a mighty good time to get with it, so to speak, in ridding the city of its weed crop.

Certainly, this is a tremendous job for the city. We know this, but at the same time it is a job which should and must be done

Hundreds of vacant lots are scattered across town and, as Deke Austin, assistant city attorney, says, a substantial sum of money must be appropriated to clean the lots and keep them that

The city council last year appropriated approximately $5,000 for this purpose and it is hoped that a similar amount will be allocated this year

Midlanders who own vacant lots certainly should take the lead in clearing and cleaning their property. If they fail to do so, then the city should take steps to force the 'issue. The city, it is un-

Announcement that the City of resident property owner to clean his lots, giving a 10-day waiting period, and possibly a second such period. If the property still has not been cleaned by that time, the city may file on the owner in Municipal Court.

In the case of non-resident property owners, the city cleans the vacant lots, assesses the owner a fee and sets up a lien on the property if the fee is not paid.

The city itself owns a number of vacant lots and these should receive prompt attention without further prodding.

Most resident property owners are willing to take care of their own vacant lots when the matter is called to their attention. It will be interesting to see who will take the lead in this particular program. Others quite often will follow suit if someone will jump out in front in such a clean-up

Those who will not cooperate in this regard should be filed on by the municipal government. This is a community project and it is hoped that it will meet with favorable, widespread response.

All Midlanders will feel better and the community will be much more attractive when the job is

Thanks and all best wishes are directed to the city personnel in charge of the program as they get it under way — hopefully real

And it wouldn't hurt for all Midlanders to join in a community-wide fall clean-up effort around the house and in alleys in derstood, first notifies the all parts of the Tall City

A charming mystery

Scientists are using the word "charm" to describe the property of a new sub-atomic particle discovered with the big atom smasher at Batavia, Ill. It's something like an electrical charge. We're not sure what this means in physics, but it tells us something about physicists. They're as baffled as the rest of us by some manifestations of nature.

Psychologists aren't sure why some women can turn men into butter, or, vice versa, why an awakward newborn puppy makes people want to pick it up.

Musicologists aren't sure why certain tones strung together in a certain way can make people want to dance — or cry. Do art critics really know why people like to look at the landscapes of the Dutch masters?

something as mysterious turns out to be what holds atoms together, or the whole universe, we wouldn't be surprised. And if the physicists never figure out exactly what it is, we won't be disappointed in the least

It's charm, of course, and if

Ford vetoes own Arab boycott

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - "There should be no doubt about the position of this administration and the United States," on the Arab boycott, President Ford declared last year. "Such discrimination is totally contrary to the American tradition and repugnant to American principles. It has no place in the free practice of commerce as it has flourished in this country.

But behind this fine moral language, the Ford Administration has quietly but clearly chosen petrodollars over principles. Virtually every government agency charged with fighting the boycott has undermined the provisions that would have put an end to it

This official cowardice has allowed American firms to do $4.5 billion worth of business under boycott conditions in the last two years. In addition, banks and financial institutions have handled discriminatory letters of credit for Arab transactions totalling $836 million in the first six months of 1976

The two key agencies with power to thwart the Arab boycott are the Federal Reserve Board and the Department of Commerce. But both have failed to enforce anti-boycott measures against American businessmen who trade with Arab Sometimes the agencies have even pointed out loopholes in the regulations. These are just some of the charges of a confidential study by the House subcommittee on Commerce and Monetary Affairs, chaired by Rep. Ben Rosenthal, D.-N.Y.

'There is strong evidence that financial institutions are unsure either of the full meaning of (antiboycott) regulations or the extent to which the Department of Commerce is willing to go to enforce the policy declarations of the (Export Administration) Act," the report states. "The Department has backed away from clear moral principles and relied instead on nice legal distinctions.

For example, two banks resisted handling letters of credit with boycott restrictions. Their client, a U.S. exporter, went to the Commerce Department for advice. The department informed the cautious banks that they could legally handle the letters.

The subcommittee claims that Commerce has been "seriously remiss" in referring bank violations of the anti-boycott laws to the Justice Department for prosecution. And even when it does refer them. Commerce often fails to notify federal bank regulators of the action

According to the study. Commerce has also failed to deploy sufficient manpower to check up on boycott reports. The forms are designed to reveal boycott efforts. But they are vague and filled with loopholes.

These forms now provide a handy cop-out for bankers. The moneymen can simply check a box which says that the decision of complying with the boycott "will be made by another party involved in the export transaction." In effect, this absolves the bankers of any responsibility.

This device has been employed on 2,217 Arab letters of credit in the second quarter of this year, even though the banks are usually aware of boycott restrictions.

WASHINGTON - The day that

Jimmy Carter's famous quotes from same day he issued a paper on how to save the American family. Mr. Carter

The Federal Reserve Board, the subcommittee charges, was also less than diligent in controlling discriminatory banking deals. At first. Fed chairman Arthur Burns took a tough line. In December, 1975, he warned bankers not to comply with economic boycott restrictions under penalty of law. But under pressure from New York bankers. Burns later backed down and issued a "clarifying" letter. The Fed had no intention of creating "new legal obligations for banks." Burns assured the lending in-

This federal waffling has encouraged U.S. bankers to handle letters of credit containing boycott restrictions. Indeed, the subcommittee surveyed 15 major banks and found that they were consummating Arab deals at a rapidly increasing pace.

Yet there is evidence that resistance to the boycott provisions would not curtail trade with the Arabs. The Arabs badly need American technology and expertise When Morgan Guaranty Trust rejected 24 letters of credit because of restrictive provisions, all but one was amended by the Arabs to take out the anti-Israeli language

Some of the companies on the Arab blacklist seem to have been selected arbitrarily. The House Oversight and Investigation subcommittee, chaired by Rep. John Moss, D.-Calif., found that Topps Chewing Gum, which makes bubble gum and baseball cards, are blacklisted by the Arabs. So is the Meyer Parking System. although they do no business with Arab nations.

While the boycott is ostensibly aimed at strategic goods, the Moss subcommittee found that tobacco, liquor. Christmas cards and even childrens' bikinis were on the list. Oddly enough, however, General Electric is not being boycotted, even though they manufacture the engines used in Israeli fighter planes. The Arabs need the engines, too.

Over administration objections. Congress is now trying to push through an amendment that would strengthen the anti-boycott provisions and force the administration into practicing what it preaches. Until it does, the frivolous and discriminatory Arab boycott will continue to flourish for the sake of the almighty petrodollar.

NICK THIMMESCH

The perils in being a 'born again' Christian cited

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - Carter is fated to stand as a wide-open target for clerics and all manner of souls intrigued with morality. The man is a "born again" Christian. He prays plenty, admits the world is full of sin and professes to be unafraid of that Christian destiny called death.

He wandered into the temporal kingdom of Playboy and, before departing, deposited many Christian thoughts which, in an odd way, profaned those pages. Imagine Carter telling Playboy that sexual intercourse outside marriage and homosexual activities were "sins."

Anyway. Carter gets a bum rap from those who criticize his sermonette on the parable concerning the Pharisee who thanked the Lord for being made virtuous, and the poor sinner who begged merciful forgiveness. That was straight Christian stuff.

Carter tried to give a personal example of how he lusted for women, committed adultery in his heart many times and still won't condemn someone who not only lusts after a woman but "leaves his wife and shacks up with somebody out of wedlock." For that Carter caught some undeserved hellfire.

Carter can't be faulted by good Christians for preaching against the moral arrogance of a Pharisee. At this point, he was ahead.

But to me, he contradicted himself a few paragraphs later when he said he wouldn't take on the same frame of mind "that Nixon or Johnson did -

Carter thus became a Pharisee himself, in effect, thanking the Lord for being virtuous and not like those no good sinners. Nixon and Johnson.

Yes, being a "born again" Christian and a moralist is dangerous business in politics. Consider Carter's campaign agony over the abortion question. Everywhere he goes, Rightto-Life pickets greet him, and he routinely asks that they lower their signs. Pro-lifers are sore because Carter failed to influence his party not to write a pro-abortion plank.

Put the Democratic and Republican planks on abortion aside for a moment, and consider the other measurements of Carter and President Ford on this tough issue. Carter has repeatedly declared that the government should do everything to minimize abortion, and that he opposes federal funding of abortion. Mr. Ford has said nothing about federal funding, and Mr. Ford quietly amendment leaving this question to the states, he would keep an open mind on it. Carter told the Catholic bishops that he didn't think the President had a proper role in constitutional amendments. One bishop quietly pointed out that Carter had sent wires to 19 states urging passage of the Equal Rights Amendment. guess you've got me there," he told the bishop and broke into his famous

Mr. Ford supports a constitutional amendment leaving the abortion question to the states.

Pro-lifers would have to give Carter at least as good marks as Mr. Ford to their scorecards, were it not for the party platforms.

Carter says the wording of the Democratic plank on abortion is "inappropriate" and "not in accordance with my desires." That plank stated it was "undesirable" to attempt to amend the Constitution on this question. Any civil libertarian should object to those who stop efforts to amend the Constitution, and Carter acknowledges that. The Republican plank calls for a continuance of public dialogue on abortion, and this certainly is a more reasonable course. How strange that liberal Democrats want to snuff out dialogue about anything?

Ah, Carter, because of his deeply felt morality, has got plenty of people irritated with him. Those who thunder against adultery can cry that Carter endorsed that sin by failing to condemn it adequately. Those who didn't like Nixon's language on the tapes can now lump Carter with him on that one. Mrs. Lyndon Baines Johnson is miffed at Carter calling her late beloved husband a liar and a cheat.

Right-to-Lifers will pursue Carter to Election Day and beyond. And the strident a woman's-body-is-her-own crowd will snarl that Carter is a morafistic jerk.

Carter deserves a fair amount of compassion on these counts, compassion which is Christian and

Nkomo, diplomats leave for talks in Botswana

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) -Rhodesian nationalist leader Jshua Nkomo is to leave for neighboring Botswana today for more talks with black African leaders on the changeover from white to black rule in Rhodesia. Also headed for the Botswana capital of Gabarone are U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's top Africa aide, William Schaufele, and British Minister of State for African Affairs Ted Rowlands.

Rowlands will begin talks on setting up a constitutional conference demanded by the leaders of the five "front-line" black African states as the next step in transferring power from Rhodesia's 278,000 whites to its 6.4 million blacks.

Nkomo is considered a top candidate to be Rhodesia's first black prime minister. He denied Monday that the five "front-line" black African presidents who met in Lusaka, Zambia, last week, had rejected Kissinger's plan for a transition to black majority rule in Rhodesia.

"They have rejected nothing," he said, adding that all they had done was insist that Britain is the only power that can call a conference of Rhodesian leaders to work out a new constitution

"What they did was remove serious flaws which were in the document that is generally known as the Kissinger plan," he said. Nkomo said the presidents had produced a "workable document" in their meeting, but he would not disclose what it contained.

The presidents of Zambia, Botswana, Zaire, Mozambique and Tanzania issued a statement after their meeting saying they would not accept the plan for an interim government in Rhodesia outlined by Prime Minister Ian Smith. Smith said the evenly divided between whites and blacks. The five black leaders said it must be dominated by blacks. Rhodesian Foreign Minister P.K. van der Byl said the black leaders' statement showed "unreliability and irresponsibility." Smith said he was waiting for clarification from the United States and Britain.

The Rhodesian leader added that "it looks as though the Communists are calling the tune in those parts."

But in Washington, William D. Rogers, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, said African leaders had sent diplomatic messages emphasizing that they have not rejected the overall British-American plan for resolving the Rhodesian crisis, although they disagree with

Rogers said the plan - which shuttle diplomacy by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger - was still "on track." He stressed that the Africans had agreed to attend a conference without preconditions. "The process is going to require major adjustments by both sides,' Rogers told reporters.

The British mission, headed by Minister of State Edward Rowlands, moved up its scheduled departure by 24 hours because London views the situation as urgent.

Rowlands and other officials were to meet in Botswana with Presidents Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, Samora Machel of Mozambique, Agostinho Neto of Angola and Sir Seretse Khama of Botswana. Then the mission is to fly to Dar es Salaam to confer with President Julius Nyerere of

Auction in Abilene sets fund record

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — A chicken sold for $3,600 and a 35-pound pig for $750 as farmers and ranchers reached deep in their pockets to aid a handicapped children's center.

A record-setting $107,602 was collected Monday at the 17th annual Cattlemen's Round Up for Crippled Children. This was just $352 more than the previous record set last year, but cattle prices were higher and nine more animals were sold then.

Most of the money went for 310 cattle, but as a diversion a rooster painted bright blue by a group of sixth grade Abilene children was bought and sold 16 times, bringing a total of $3,600. The selling and reselling amounted to a donation because the children took the rooster home.

In addition a 35-pound pig went for

More poor may lead to cut in taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) - With the government reporting a 10.7 per cent jump last year in the number of persons who are poor by its standards, Democrats and Republicans on the Joint Economic Committee of Congress agree another tax cut may be in order next year to spur the economy.

The yearly increase in the number of persons living in poverty was the second in a row and brought the total to 25.9 million persons, roughly one American in eight.

The Census Bureau blamed the increase in 1975 to the whipsaw effect of high inflation in the midst of recession, together with the widespread exhaustion of unemployment benefits last year.

At the same time, the report said that despite an $818 increase in median family income to $13,720 a year, inflation dragged the buying power of that income down 2.6 per cent, the lowest level in five years. The government defines the poverty level as $5,500 for a nonfarm family of four. The Census Bureau report was described Monday by Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter as a clear "indictment of economic mismangement" by the Ford administration. In remarks prepared for delivery to a group of labor leaders meeting in Portland, Ore., Carter said: "Mr. Nixon and Mr. Ford have made these people poorer in the same way that Mr. Hoover made people poorer in the 1930s - by denying them the chance to

'The Republicans pay lip service to work but they veto bills that would create jobs. They have become a party not of work but of welfare.

The poverty level is determined by computing the cost of a basic nutritionally adequate diet and multiplying that by three, based on the finding that poor people spend one-third of their income on food. Of the families below the poverty level, 68.7 per cent were white, 47.5 per cent were in families headed by women and 95 per cent lived in nonfarm communities. On the question of future tax reductions, although Republicans and Democrats on the panel agreed that that federal spending should play Democrats, headed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., chairman of the committee, said that holding spending at current levels would restrict economic growth. But Republican members said spending above current levels would destroy the private sector's ability to create new jobs.

HOUSTON (AP) - B. M. "Pop" Shirar says anyone who rides a bicycle "won't have any trouble with his he alth." Shirar, 82, claims he has lost only 30 working days to illness since 1912. Shirar cred its his long years of biking and his willingness to follow a strict fitness program for keeping him lean and lively for so long. In fact, he's in such good health he's scheduled to lead an upcoming cyclethon over a three-mile course through Houston's Memorial Park to raise funds for the American Heart Associa tion.

Shirar, who opened one of Houston's t'irst bicycle businesses in 1912, says he will have no problem getting in shape for the cyclethon's e arly morn-

"I open my shop at 6:30 A.M. every day so I can get ready for the day's business and ride a bike around the blo ck about 15 times before the traffic gets heavy," he said. But my doctor insists that I leave at 3:30 p.m. to get my rest. Shirar said his wife.

Luckenbach's Crouch was a likeable man

JOHNS()N CITY, Tex. (AP) Hondo Crouch, the late "mayor" of Luckenbach, a dusty hamlet with a national reputation, watched closely to see how people reacted to his humor. If you liked his humor, you had the fe e ling Hondo liked you. Hondo, 60, was funny, and he had

On Wednesdays, however, according to Hondo, the town was closed. This meant that Mrs. Morgan

Hondo's casual air masked an apparent shrewd business sense, and he was part owner of Camp Champions, a popular summer camp.

Luckenbach became the center of national attention in February when Hondo and friends promoted a "Buy-Centennial" event to recognize the bad taste with which some Americans were celebrating the nation's 200th

Future beef prices to increase

The Los Angeles Times

Ranchers are selling cattle at record rates to cut their losses because of today's relatively low beef prices, and the slaughter includes cows and heifers which otherwise, would be kept to breed animals for future years. That means higher beef prices are on the horizon, industry spokesmen say.

law, which narrows the benefits of investing in cattle-feeding programs.

The cattle men already were on the low end of the price seesaw since last spring, according to the National Livestock and Meat Board in Chicago.

A good feed grain crop in 1975 brought feed prices down and en-couraged feed lots to start fattening more animals. When that meat came to market in heavy quantities early this year, retail prices started to fall. Prices paid to feeders and ranchers fell faster, though, according to trade spokesmen.

· "Everybody is liquidating," said Dick Kershaw, vice president of Kershaw and Sons of Brawley, a major cattle feeding company. The daily slaughter is running at a rate of 150,000 to 160,000 animals, Kershaw said, the biggest such kill on record. But that includes cows and heifer sion of the recently signed tax reform calves, he said, meaning that fewer calves will be born next year.

"Cattle numbers go in 10-year cycles," Kershaw said. "Last January, for the first time in 10 years, we had 1 million fewer cattle than the year before. By Jan. 1, 1977, it could be up to 3 million fewer.'

Next spring, he added, there will be fewer young, grass-fed animals competing in price with those fattened in feed lots. Meanwhile, meatpacking plants are paying 25 to 30 cents a pound for calves — far below the 45. cent price which is the break-even point for most ranchers. For the feed lot operators, Kershaw said, lower feed grain prices have helped reduce the break-even price for fattened cattle to 42 cents a pound from 47 cents a year-ago .- "but the market price we're getting is only about 38 cents.

Eventually the cycle will turn around, industry spokesmen say, as fewer animals are slaughtered and there is less meat going to market.

But the industry relies on outside investors to put cattle through the feed lots, and that's where the closing of the tax loophole might hurt.

"The net result of this will be a shortage of cattle for being fed and a resulting increase in prices to the consumer for choice beef within a very short time," said James L. Russell, president of Kershaw Distributions, Inc., which sells cattle-feeding programs in connection with the Kershaw and Sons lots. Beef prices are being held down now not only by the stampede into the feed lots but by heavy supplies of pork and turkey meat, one cattle futures broker explained, giving consumers an alternative in case beef prices get too high.

"The total meat supply is not being cut significantly" at the moment, he said, and sharply higher prices are not expected until two years from West won the third defensive trick with the king of hearts and returned a trump, content to let declarer develop the hand by himself. To put it another way, West knew how to sit still.

We can't say as much for East. That busy fellow had to discard on the second round of trumps, and he decided to play a clever nine of NO OTHER PLAY

The idea was to talk South out of the spade finesse. As it happened, South had no other play for the contract. Moreover, South had seen clever plays before. Hence declarer led the jack of spades after drawing trumps.

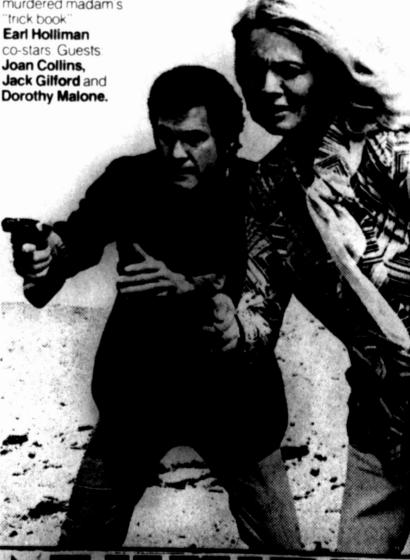

West covered with the king of spades, and dummy's ace won. South got back with a diamond to lead the eight of spades for another finesse. West's ten of spades was trapped, and South made his contract.

It's easy to see that South would lose his contract if East kept the nine of spades. A frantically busy opponent can be a friend in need. DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade, and the next player doubles. You hold: SK1052 HK53 D75 CJ1093. What do you say? ANSWER: Bid three spades. This jump, after a takeout double, is a sort of shutout bid, promising good trump support but not much else. With a really good hand you would redouble.

DEAR ABBY Mother mink forgot herself

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Can animals count? I used to see horses in the circus obey their trainers by picking up their feet and putting them down according to the number the trainer called out. My father said there was some kind of trick to it.

But listen to this. We raised a female mink on our farm last year and she had a litter of five. Every day at feeding time this mother mink would make five little patties from her scoop of ground meat, then call her offspring to eat.

She never made six, and she never made four. Always five. So wouldn't you say she could count?-

DEAR TERRI: I would say that your mother mink could indeed count. But not all animals are as smart as the mink. What other female owns a mink coat as long as she lives?

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him "Pat") is a musician, and he works evenings. We have a small child, but occasionally I like to see Pat work, so I get a sitter, and Pat's Uncle Joe and Aunt Mae take me. (They're about the age of my parents.)
One night Uncle Joe and his wife took me to hear

Pat, and when they brought me home. Uncle Joe walked me to the door. It was quite dark, so he grabbed me and kissed me hard on the lips, and then he pinched my behind. I was so shocked I dropped my key!

The next day as soon as Pat left for work, Uncle Joe came over to see me. I didn't like the look in his eye, so I picked up the baby and went into the bathroom with her and locked the door behind me. He kept calling to me to open the door, but I wouldn't do it. Finally he left. Abby, I don't know whether to tell my husband or not. I don't want to put a strain on their relationship, but I really am afraid Uncle Joe will make a habit of coming over, and he frightens me.—BIG PROBLEM DEAR PROBLEM: Tell Uncle Joe if he comes over again while Pat is gone, you will tell Pat EVERYTHING. Then follow through. DEAR ABBY: My husband is all the time bringing home nuts, candy and gooey pastry even though he knows how hard I'm trying to lose weight. He's lucky. He can eat anything and not gain an ounce. If I just LOOK at a piece of candy, I gain a

NEEDLEPLAY

What blocking rule to follow?

DEAR MISS WILSON: I have always faithfully followed your rule when blocking-block needlepoint face down, and crewel face up, but now I'm stumped. Since the sampler I'm about to block is "crewelpoint"crewel stitches on needlepoint canvas-which rule do I follow?-Miss Candice Childs, Grand Rapids, Mich.

DEAR MISS CHILDS: Block your crewelpoint sampler facing upwards. because you don't want to flatten those nice, plump crewel stitches. Pull the canvas out tightly on a piece of chip or particle board (available at lumber yards) or use artists' stretcher frames available in all sizes at most art stores. With a heavy-duty stapler, hold the needlework out absolutely square to the board or stretcher. When you've finished that, you can prepare it for framing by taping it on to a piece of plywood, which you've covered first with some linen (so that the sharp corners of the board don't show through your canvas). You can attach the canvas to the back of the board with masking tape.

This might date me somewhat, but when I was at needlework school. masking tape wasn't available (though I like to think it had been invented-and just hadn't made its way to England yet) and we had to laboriously lace our samplers on the back of the board with needle and thread.

Even so, that's still a good method, more time-consuming to do, but more lasting. Use long lengths of strong

DEAR ERICA: Could you please tell me where I can find directions for doing a needlepoint back and seat for a canvas director's chair? I'm particularly concerned about how to keep the back of my work from showing through on the chair back.—Beatrice Stauss, Corvallis, Ore.

DEAR MS. STAUSS: This is one of the simplest projects to do because you just use the canvas seat and back as bases for your needlepoint canvas, by adhering your needlepoint to them.

Have you heard of Velcro? It's available in most notions departments, and what a marvelous invention it is. Strips of toothed material that totally adhere to each other when attached. So you see, you just attach strips to the underneath edges of your needlepoint canvas and to the top side of the sailcloth canvas, and when you put your needlepoint down on the chair, voila!

Besides making for an absolutely simple project, the Velcro allows for the needlepoint to be taken up when drycleaned (and without losing the use of a chair while your needlepoint is at the cleaners—you can use the canvas underneath.) It also means you'll have support from the canvas underneath (no fear of "seat droop"). Which answers your last question; the canvas of the chair will hide your stitches at the back, and hold it firm Salanda was introduced by Mrs. R. D. Reeves, a member of Altrusa's vocational services committee. A graduate of Sul Ross College, Salanda also is counselor for the foreign students enrolled at MC.

The speaker said that five departments in technical and vocational training had been changed to divisions and listed them as communication, cultural, scientific, vocational and technical studies. "These courses are not only for students seeking college credits, but also are for adults desiring to continue their education, and there are as many night classes held as during the day." He noted that sports offered at the college include golf, tennis and swimming, and non-credit basketball for girls.

Salanda's discussion was primarily about the vocational and technical courses, and he stated that there were a large number of women in each of them, especially in mid-management, petroleum technology and legal assistance, with three girls taking welding courses. "When the new buildings are completed at the college, there will be additional vo-tech courses offered," pointed out. "We also are working with the Community Theatre in that phase of clubs have published successful cookbooks. 'We still are getting requests for our recipe book, 'As The Spoon Turns,' says Joan Fraser of American Martyrs Parents Association

"But we don't have any copies left." The Manhattan Beach, Calif., resident says her group seriously is considering publishing a new edition with new recipes.

Money raised from the sale of the first book was used to buy audiovisual and sports equipment for American Martyrs School.

A weaving class at Meadow Park Adult School in Torrance, Calif., published a thin book of recipes in November. The profits, $150, have been spent on

"We printed 200, but I think we could have sold 250," says Pam Sherman, co-editor.

"Flavors From Sandpipers," published in October is sold out. But co-editor Lynne Carlson says the book soon will be reprinted.

"Our cookbooks have a good reputation for their recipes," she says. Cookbooks long have been a popular fund-raising project for Sandpipers, says Mrs. Carlson The only problem the group had this time was that it underestimated the cost - which could have been serious if the book hadn't sold well

There are more than 1,000 recipes in it." says the CAR society Manhattan Beach resident. "Our original cost estimate was based on a smaller book."

When the book is reprinted, the price will go up from $5 to $7.50, says Mrs. Carlson, adding that it still

"Cookbooks at the store are expensive," she says.

"People like ours because they know all the recipes are member-tested.

"We already have paid orders for it at the new price," says Mrs. Carlson. Mrs. Fraser says American Martyrs' cookbook sold for $3.75 in 1972 and had 799 recipes in. But, she says, there is no way the book could be sold at that price today and make a profit.

She says choosing good recipes and a reliable printer are musts for a successful cookbook. 'Ask for samples of the printer's work and ask people who've had work done by him how they like the work." she advises.

'If you are dealing with a printer by mail, spell out step-by-step what you want and expect.'

If two women submit the same recipe, Mrs. Fraser says, both women's names are used, but the recipe is printed only once.

And if two recipes are similar, she says to print one and then add a note saying Mrs. So-and-so submitted a similar recipe, but adds a cup of nuts.

To make assembly easier, Mrs. Carlson and Mrs. Sherman suggest catagorizing everything as it

'We used generic names - not brand names,' says Mrs. Sherman, "and we added the contributor's comments about the recipe

"Personal notes help make a cookbook a success." says Mrs. Fraser.

Then a further disaster struck. A typhoon slammed into The Philippines in June, smashing the aunt's tiny home. For weeks, the Griffins didn't know if their child was alive or dead. Finally, a letter arrived telling them she was safe and well in a crowded evacuation center.

Pitt makes challenge in college grid poll

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Tony Dorsett remembers leaner years when the University of Pittsburgh football team would get especially aroused to meet a highly-ranked foe.

"Now the shoe is on the other foot." Dorsett said Monday evening after Pitt jumped from third to second behind Michigan in The Associated Press college football poll.

"A FEW years ago, Pitt had no ranking and no respect," added Dorsett, who has 4,540 career yards rushing going into Saturday's game at

"I remember how it was always easy to get mentally fired up when we played teams like Notre Dame, Southern Cal and Oklahoma.

"Now other teams feel the same way about us. Beating Pitt can make their season, and they all come after us. Our being No. 2 will just make them try harder."

Dorsett was a senior at nearby Hopewell High School in 1972 when Pitt labored through a 1-10 season.

Muhammad Ali weighs in at 221 pounds for tonight's heavyweight championship fight with Kenny Heavyweight champion Norton at New York's Yankee Stadium. Checking the scales is New York State Boxing Commisioner James Farley.

Ali puts championship title on line tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — "This is the end of my career," says Muhammad Ali who puts the heavyweight championship on the line against Ken Norton tonight.

"I don't want to lose it." Ali didn't mean that this will be his last fight but that he was getting down that road toward retirement. The champion is 34.

AND HE IS the 8-5 favorite to keep that road open by beating Norton in their third meeting-each won a split 12-round decision in 1973 with Norton breaking Ali's jaw in the first fight.

'You must remember that those first two fights weren't for the title," said Ali who retained the championship by knocking out George Foreman Oct. 30, 1974, seven months after Norton was stopped in two rounds by Foreman in a bid for the title.

The weigh-in was scheduled for noon today at a hotel ovelooking Central Park. Ali was expected to scale about 221 pounds and Norton 215. Each is 6-foot-3 and has an 80-inch reach

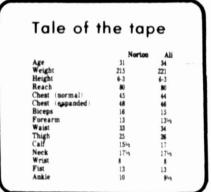

The fight was scheduled to start in Yankee Stadium at 10:30 p.m., EDT, with a the closed-circuit telecast to open at 9:30 p.m., with a 10-round heavyweight bout between Ernie Shavers and Henry Clark.

Wednesday night was the rain date. A CROWD of about 40,000, the promoters' estimate, was expected for the first fight at the famed ballpark since Ingemar Johansson knocked Floyd Patterson down seven times and stopped him in the third round to win the heavyweight title June 26, 1959. The worldwide television audience could reach 500 million-it will be seen on closed circuit at 300 locations in the United States and Canada and on a live and delayed basis in 57

Prices at Yankee Stadium ranged from $200 down to $25, with $20 the average price of a closed-circuit television ticket.

Ali is guaranteed a record $6 million plus $100,000 expenses and will get 50 per cent of all income over $9 million. A victory would set him up for a rematch with Foreman where his purse reportedly could hit $10 million. Norton is guaranteed $5 million plus $100,000 expenses and five per cent of all income from the start.

"It shall not go over five," said the 34-year-old Ali, who is three years older than Norton.

"I WILL make him quit," said Nor-

"I beat myself when I get beat,"

"I made you a success and I'm gonna destroy you," the champion said he will tell Norton when they get into the ring. "He knows I can reach him and I can hurt him," said Norton.

The fight will be the 20th appearance in a heavyweight championship fight in a career that has seen him hold the title twice since he

Allen outsmarts Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Washington Redskins presented Coach George Allen with his 100th National Football League victory and the veteran coach's quick thinking on the sidelines had more than a little to do with the triumph.

Mark Moseley booted a 29-yard field goal 12 minutes and 49 seconds into a sudden death period of Monday night's nationally televised game to give the unbeaten Redskins a 20-17 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles. But there would have been no sudden death, no victory without Alien a factor in the game with 12 seconds left in the first half. The Eagles led 10-3, and had a third-down-and-six at their 35-yard line. Washington's defense started to

The 54-year-old Allen, in his 11th

season as a NFL coach, made himself leave the field figuring the clock would run out, but Allen, ever alert, waved his defenders back and

"I called time out and told them to blitz, try to hit them on the exchange of the ball," Allen explained. "I felt that with 12 seconds left if we stopped them there, we'd go for the blocked

The Skins blitzed and Harold Mc-Clinton and Dave Butz hit Eagles' ball earrier Herb Lusk like a couple of trucks. Lusk fumbled the ball in the air, and Washington linebacker Brad Dusek picked it off and raced 32 yards for a touchdown. Moseley kicked the point and it was 10-10 at halftime.

Sixty-two seconds earlier, the Redskins had a fourth-down and-10 at the Eagles' 33. Moseley set up for a field goal. The Eagles didn't charge, so holder Joe Theismann picked up the ball and ran 16 yards for a first down at the 17 on the fake kick. The Skins wound up with a 27yard field

Thus, Allen's quick strategy resulted in 10 points in 62 seconds and turned a 10-0 deficit into a tie. The Skins had been outrun, outpassed, outhustled for 30 minutes, but not outthought or outscored.

"I called the fake field goal," said Allen, "because I felt we could catch them by surprise, and we did."

In the third period, Mike Thomas ran 27 yards to wrap up a six-play, 57yard drive and send the Skins ahead 17-10. Then the defense took over. Twice the Eagles drove to the Washington 10, and twice they were frustrated with end zone pass interceptions. Former Eagle Joe Lavender picked off one, and Pat Fischer the other.

"Our defense played an outstanding game," said Allen. "We didn't play very well on offense. We'll have to play better and we all know it.

Moseley's winning kick was set up by an interception by Eddie Brown, who returned eight yards to the Eagles' 22. Calvin Hill carried twice for 12 and 6 yards to the four. A holding penalty set the Skins back 10, and then Moseley, also a former Eagle, kicked the winning points.

It was a tough loss for the Eagles. now 1-2 for the season. They outgained the Redskins with total offense of 418 yards to 230. Rookie Coach Dick Vermeil's team gained 252 yards rushing, more than the total of the Redskins' first two opponentsthe New York Giants and Seattle.

Philadelphia took a 10-0 lead with a 22-yard field goal by Horst Muhlmann in the first period and Art Malone's second period 16-yard TD run. After the Eagles fell behind 17-10, quarterback Mike Boryla directed a nineplay, 73-yard scoring drive. The march started with 2:09 to play and ended on a 41-yard TD bomb to Charley Smith with 1:07 on the clock. sending the game into sudden death.

Don Sutton responds to Alston's retirement

By The Associated Press

"I wanted to pitch a no-hitter for him," said Don Sutton. "I've played for the guy 11 years and he has been honest with me every minute of it."

Sutton, like most of his teammates on the Los Angeles Dodgers, was deeply moved by the announcement Monday that Walter Alston was retiring after 23 years as manager of the team. For him, beating the Houston Astros Monday night was especially important.

And he showed his feelings for his long-time mentor by turning in a brilliant four-hit shutout, pitching the Dodgers to a 2-0

"He's the only guy I've ever known more stubborn than I am," Sutton said. "I guess that's what I've needed all these years. I respond to an honest relationship rather than a lot of patting on the back. He tells it to me up front and sticks to it. If he has told me something, I found it

"The best way to describe him is that he's an honest man. I'm glad to have won this one.

Elsewhere in the National League Monday night, the New York Mets pounded the Montreal Expos 10-3, the Philadelphia Phillies routed the Sutton, 21-9, struck out three and walked two in posting his fourth shutout of the season and the 44th of his career, most among active National Leaguers. He allowed just one runner past second base. It was his ninth consecutive victory and 14th in his last 15 decisions. and it was an emotional one.

"I wish he had made his announcement other than a day that I was pitching," Sutton said of Alston's late afternoon statement that he was retiring effective at the end of the season. "Believe me, this is a sad day for me.I can't honestly say I'm surprised, but I am very disappointed. I had the feeling most of the year that he wouldn't be back.'

Sutton's batterymate, Steve Yeager, said he felt the Los Angeles players had let their manager down this season, when they never mounted a serious challenge to the Cincinnati Reds in the National League's West Division.

"It's a shame that 30 guys didn't bust their butts for him this year," said Yeager. "I'll miss him because he's a man who treats his players with

"It's a sad day," said Steve Garvey, who won Most Valuable Player honors in 1974, the last of Alston's seven pennant seasons with the Dodgers. "He set the standard for all managers. He's been a man's manager. No rules, just good, solid baseball."

Phils' Ozark gives Allen permission to take a 'rest'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Controversial slugger Dick Allen has left the National League playoff-bound Philadelphia Phillies — this time with the club's permission.

Manager Danny Ozark confirmed Monday night that the 34-year-old Allen left the club Sunday in Montreal to return home for a four-day rest. Ozark, asked for an explanation, noted "the one thing he (Allen) did say was that he'd never been in one of these things (playoffs) before and he'd like to be with his family. 'The one thing he was disturbed about was his hitting and his shoulder was still hurting him," Ozark added. Allen, who is hitting .268 and has 15 two game winning streak come to an end when powerful AA Sonora blasted the Owls, 28-6. The Owls were trailing only 7-6 early in the second period.

Andrews, Pecos headed for gridiron showdown

THE STANTON Buffaloes also saw a two-game winning streak stopped when they lost a tough 14-12 decision to Roscoe. Stanton, which has been a West Texas rushing power, managed only 62 yards rushing. The Buffs, however, still had a chance to tie the game with less than two minutes left when they failed to convert a twopoint play after a 59-yard scoring pass from Todd Smith to Oscar Perez.

McCamey dropped its fourth straight to powerful AA Ozona, who remained undefeated with a 27-0 blanking of the Badgers. Ozona returned two interceptions for touchdowns, however, to make the game more of a rout than it really was.

Andrews, Rankin, Pecos, Lake View, Sonora, Ozona, Seagraves and Menard are the only unbeaten and untied teams left in the area.

FORT STOCKTON, Lubbock Dunbar and Plains have yet to lose a game this year, but all have ties to mar their records. Dunbar has two ties while Fort Stockton and Plains have one each.

Lubbock Estacado, Snyder and Junction fell from the list of unbeatens Friday, but Estacado lost to AAAA power Lubbock Monterey, 20-0.

Lamesa fell from the dwindling list of all-beaten teams, but McCamey, Eldorado and Brownfield have yet to see that first victory. Eldorado does have a tie to go with three losses.

A's, royals touch off brawl in heated game

OAKLAND (AP) - Don Baylor of the Oakland A's, after getting hit by a pitch in the sixth inning Monday night, charged after Kansas City pitcher Dennis Leonard and touched off a general brawl between the A's and Royals on the field.

After the fighting on the field ended, fans sitting behind the Royals' bullpen in right field started fighting with Kansas City players there. The Royals players on the field and in the dugout raced to the bullpen to assist their mates, and they were showered with beer and debris by spectators.

The fighting caused about a 15minute delay in the game, which started more than an hour late because of rain.

Leonard, who had just thrown a home run ball to Bando, making the score 5-3 Oakland, was taken out for a reliever after the incident

Baylor was ejected from the game. It appeared there were no injuries to players in the fighting.

the game. However, it was police intervention that got patrolman Juan Picon fired.

> City Manager Jim Brown said. Brown said it is city policy for school officials to handle players and for law enforcement officers to handle crowds if any fights break out at high school events. He said this policy was arranged after a fight occurred at a baseball game last spring in which Picon ran on the field and fired his service revolver in the air.

"The problem at the football game was that officer Picon left his post near the stands in violation of direct orders." Brown said. "Because of his past record, we felt another suspension would not be advantageous to discipline in the police

Brown said Picon had several temporary suspensions from the police force earlier.

Griffin said some players decided to quit after talking with their parents.

UCLA's top running tandem may miss Saturday's important clash with OSU

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wendell Tyler, UCLA's all-time leading rusher, and running mate Theotis Brown, who have led fifth-ranked UCLA to a 3-0 record, may not play next Saturday against Ohio State at Columbus.

UCLA Coach Terry Donahue said Monday that both suffered minor injuries in a 40-7 victory over the Air Force last Saturday night and neither would be able to practice until Wednesday.

"Tyler had a groin muscle pull before the Air Force game," Donahue said. "He was taped up, and we retaped at halftime. He told us he wanted to play because he wanted to the rushing record before

Tyler ran for 156 yards, surpassing Kermit Johnson's school record for career yards gained rushing. Tyler now has 2,519 yards to Johnson's

"Brown has a hip pointer and he's questionable for Ohio State.

Reserve running backs Kenny Lee and Jim Brown have played in the latter stages of all three Bruin games and will start if Tyler and Theotis Brown can't, said Donahue. Others who could play include freshman Fred Ford and defensive back James

Prices decline

NEW YORK (AP) —Stock prices retreated today in the face of a decline in the index of leading economic indicators.

After two hours of trading, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 5.82 at 1,007.31.

Declining New York Stock Exchange issues led those advancing by a 6-4 margin. Trading was brisk.

The Commerce Department report that its leading indicator index, which is designed to show future economic trends, fell 1.5 per cent last month apparently heightened the worries among some investors over the economy's strength.

The index is subject to revision and most economists onsider a threemonth reading necessary for accurate predicting.

The NYSE composite index was down .18 to 57.08 at noon and the market value index of the American Stock Exchange was .17 lower at 103.52.

Big Board volume in the first two hours came to 10.31 million shares, compared with 7.65 million in the same period Monday.

Westinghouse Electric, up 36 to 191/2, was the most active issue on the NYSE. Also active was Eastman Kodak, which was down 21/8

Jet plane sale raises issues

WASHINGTON - A $2.2 billion sale of F-14 jet fighters to Iran, which probably kept Grumman in business and provided Iran with the most sophisticaetd jet in the United States arsenal, has also put the aerospace firm in a congressional spotlight.

At a time of growing concern over spiraling overseas U.S. weapon sales, as well as growing criticism of the government's policy and control over those sales, the Grumman transaction is being pictured as a classic example of the sometimes byzantine relationship between corporate, economic, international and political pressures that characterize the world munitions trade.

"In this case study," said Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho), who is presiding over congressional hearings on the sale, "we can see the effects of the two elements which have done so much to make the U.S. government the leading arms merchant of the world. First, the promotional push of U.S. arms companies undeterred by effective U.S. government supervision. Second, the embryonic beginnings of the vicious cycle in which we are now caught - the appetite for sophisticated weapons feeds the need for revenues to pay for the arms; this leads to more pressure for oil price increases, particularly in a country like Iran.

That portrait has been developed by Church's Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations. which is scheduled to reseme hearings Monday with testimony by Army Secretary Martin Hoffman.

Essentially, The Grumman-Iran deal was initiated in 1972 through an agreement between President Nixon and the Shah of Iran allowing Iran to buy virtually any conventional weapon system it wanted. That agreement preempted the usual State Department Treasury Department and Commerce Department machinery for reviewing overseas arms

Two years later, Grumman, with its F-14, and McDonnell Douglas, with its F-15, were bidding for a place in the Royal Iranian Air Force. U.S. defense officials expected the F-15 to get the nod. However, in the midst of the bidding, Grumman, which had first made overtures to Iran in 1970 and had secretly hired one agent, switched to another agent who shared New York offices with the Royal Iranian Air Force Purchasing Commission, an agency of the Iran government, and who allegedly was friendly with the Iranian vice minister of war and the head of the Iran air force. Two months after switching agents, Grumman had a $2.2 billion contract to deliver 80 F-14 swingwing fighters. The first of those planes was delivered in January. The agents were to receive $28 million from the deal, but they have received only $6 million some of which congressional investigators say, went to prominent figures in Iran.

In the 1950s and 1960s, overseas arms sales were an instrument of U.S. foreign policy - military aid that was dispensed at no cost to the host countries.

Annual sales in the 1960s were $1.6 billion a year and now are $14.4 billion a year. Moreover, 90 per cent of the sales are paid for by the receiving nations. and in the case of the F-14, Grumman officials and representatives had virtually completed the deal with the Shah of Iran before Defense and State Department representatives became involved in the Tragic family may aid others

MIAMI (AP) - "We survived another one," Jane Southerland said last February after learning her husband had undergone successful brain surgery for removal of a tumor

It was good news for the family that had lost one son to cancer but saw their two other sons win their battles against the disease.

Now, Raymond Southerland says the disease which has brought his family grief and financial hardship may have given scientists vital informa-

Southerland says scientists at the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md., where he underwent surgery, have told him they believe they've found a link between his tumor and his sons' malignancies. "They're calling the full complex of tumors 'embryonic," "the Dade County police deputy said. "In other words, they think there is something in our genes that is causing us all the trouble. What Southerland, 37, calls "all the trouble" began in 1942 when his brother, Jerry, died at age 2 from a malignant brain tumor. His mother suffered from breast cancer The Southerland's 4-year-old son, Jeffrey, died of lymphatic leukemia in 1969 after an 18- month battle against the disease. The day before his death, doctors diagnosed a rare form of cancer in the nerve linings of his brother, Michael, then 5. Michael underwent two operations, radiation treatment and physical therapy for paralysis in his left arm.

The Southerland's 15-year-old son Stephen was diagnosed in 1974 as having bone cancer in his left leg, and his leg was amputated. Later, he became good friends with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's son. Ted, who had a similar operation. Neither Stephen nor Michael has had a recurrence of the disease. "I hope this is all over for us," Southerland said.

"The doctors said we could still contract it. But we haven't had any recurrences. Maybe it is over. Buffalo Trail

Then, some 60 hours after that first barrel of southbound Prudhoe crude surfaces at the drilling pad, a Pump Station One operator will release a scraper designed to precede the oil through the controversial pipeline, pushing an explosion preventing inert gas mixture ahead of it. The crude will follow and, if all goes according to plan, the first syrupy drops will appear at the south

Alaska port of Valdez 30 days later. That's the time you might expect all concerned to relax and begin counting their Prudhoe profits. But actually, given the volatile economics of North Slope oil, it's acknowledged that even after the first crude reaches Valdez there will still be major unresolved disputes over how the $115 billion

Prudhoe pie is to be divided. The state of Alaska has already hired a law firm to challenge a trans-Alaska pipeline tariff that the line's owners won't even set until just before the oil flows, for example. State Atty. Gen. Avrum Gross says that proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission could mean a difference of $500 million in state revenues from Prudhoe The current list of imponderables is even more imposing. Included is the price oil companies will be allowed to charge for North Slope crude, where it will be sold, how much Alaska will tax it, how much it will cost to develop it and when it will become available. About the only thing that seems clear at this point is that the Prudhoe pie is so large that despite escalating costs and the threat of even more delays in bringing the oil to market, the North Slope producers, the state of Alaska and the federal government can all still count on a windfall. Most projectiosn call for the oil companies to earn between $2 and $3 a barrel after taxes for extracting Prudhoe crude and another $1 to $1.50 a barrel for delivering it through the trans-Alaska pipeline. Producer profits will be even higher as output climbs from the 1.2 millionbarrel-a-day rate anticipated in 1978 to the 1.5 million-barrel-a-day level considered optimum for the Sadlerochit, or primary oil reservoir at Prudhoe. Two other known Prudhoe reservoirs - one shallower. called Kuparuk, and one deeper, known as Lisburne — could eventually bring total output here up to 2 million barrels a day. Wall Street analysts generally estimate that Prudhoe will add nearly $300 million to Arco's after-tax profits in 1978 — an amount equal to one-third its total anticipated net income that "You have some winners and you have some losers," comments Richard Bressler, Arco financial vice president. "This happens to be our winner - and we need it.'

For Standard Oil Col. of Ohio, Prudhoe could mean a leap from 20th place to 10th on the list of the nation's biggest oil companies. It has already enabled the firm to borrow an amount of money equal to more than six times its assets in 1968 - the year the oil

Alaska, meanwhile, plans to build up a $2 billion bank account by 1985 just on that portion of its oil revenues

And the federal government stands to collect taxes from the Prudhoe producers that, according to most forecasts, will be equal to about $2 a barrel_or nearly $1.5 billion a year at full capacity.

National interest is currently focusing on uncertainties surrounding the integrity of the trans-Alaska pipeline Congressional investigators and at least one Wall Street analyst contend that quality control shortcomings could lead to a delay of up to one year in the date the line will be ready to handle Prudhoe Bay oil.

There's no question that Alyeska Pipeline Service Co, is well behind schedule in completing critical testing of the line, due primarily to earlier faulty welds.

An earlier-than-normal winter on the North Slope and unsanctioned work stoppages along the line could also cause problems in meeting the May 1, 1977 target date for introducing oil into the line here, a company spokesman says. But under the worst of all circumstances, barring some natural disaster. Pump Station One will be receiving oil by "sometime in early June" next year, the Alyeska executive states. That would push the earliest possible date for beginning to load tankers at Valdez from July 1 to sometime in August, 1977.

State pipeline coordinator Charles Champion says he can picture a delay of up to three months from the original schedule, but "I can conceive of no set of circumstances which will delay this line beyond the fall of 1977

Each day of delay will cost Alaska about $1.5 million in fiscal 1978 oil taxes, according to figures supplied by the state's department of revenue Since the state's budget is balanced precariously on Prudhoe Bay revenues, it won't take much of a delay to constitute a "compelling" reason for Alaska to raise oil taxes. says Chancy Croft, Democratic president of the state senate.

"I think it's appropriate to keep a pessimistic view," comments Alaska's Republican governor, Jay Hammond. He says the state has drafted contingency budgets for the next fiscal year assuming both sixmonth and one-year delays in the flow of oil from Prudhoe. It's almost certain the state would continue for an extra year a $250 million "reserves tax" it assessed on oil still in the ground in both its 1976 and 1977 fiscal years, for example.

Oil companies argue that it's unfair for the state to make major tax revisions that will cut into their Prudhoe Bay profits. It's like changing the rules after the game has already begun, they say.

However, petroleum company officials concede that an oil tax increase is almost inevitable when the state legislature reconvenes early next year - no matter what happens to the trans-Alaska pipeline timetable. There are too many other financial

During the 1959-1973 years — a period in which the industry extracted 500 million barrels of oil from Alaska's Cook Inlet - oil companies paid only $2 million in state income taxes, says Croft. Based on "conservative" legislative staff estimates, the legislator adds, the companies should have paid 10 times that much

RRC denies application

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The railroad commission denied an application by Amoco Production Co. Monday to reclassify the Old Ocean Field in Brazos County from an oil to a gas reservoir

The commission said such a reclassification, with different production rules, would have increased the amount of natural gas but decreased the amount of oil that could ultimately be recovered from the

Amoco sought to raise the gas allowable from 39 million cubic feet a day to 160 million cubic feet a day by 1980 to meet its contract requirements.

Producing gas so rapidly, hearing examiner Mac Coker said, would leave 10 years of oil in the ground with no gas to push it to the surface. A gas injection project has been in use since Barnhart Co. and the Johnson Foundation protested Amoco's application.

In maintaining the reservoir's designation as an oil field, the commission also set the gas-oil ratio at 2,000 cubic feet per barrel.

Coastal States is headquartered in Houston and Wyatt lives there.

In order to keep the trial in San Antonio, lawyers for the city and CPS must show that any fraud committed by the defendants occurred in Bexar County, where San Antonio is situated. Fred Meyers, a San Antonio city attorney, said the judge's decision to hear the defense pleas would result in the prejury phase being a mini-trial.

Meyers said the gas suppliers misrepresented and concealed the true gas reserves from CPS during the late 1960s and early 1970s. Miller said the city's case would center around the natural gas supply contract between San Antonio and the old Alamo Gas Co. signed in 1961. He said the city will show that Coastal States Gas Producing Co. was an early partner with Alamo Gas in the joint venture to supply San Antonio with 1.2 trillion cubic feet of prices from 21 cents to 25 cents per thousand cubic feet. Currently, the city is paying about natural gas for a 25-year period at $2 per thousand cubic feet of gas. Although shortage problems did not begin to show up until 1968-69, Miller said Wyatt and others were engaged "misrepresentation and concealment" of the true gas supply situation long before it came to light publicly.

The actual trial of the city's suit against the gas suppliers and Wyatt will not begin until after a ruling has been made on the pleas to move the trial to Houston.

WASHINGTON (AP) - From the Natchez to Mobile, President Ford tuned his campaign themes to the conservative Deep South, and his strategists said those overtures to Jimmy Carter's neighbors showed that the President can win there in November states. A spokesman said Monday night the President thought his three-day trip was "just terrific."

Ford talked of a strong, highbudget national defense; scorned federal gun control; and added a tough law-andorder message in his Miami windup on Monday

It seemed to play well in deepest Dixie. There were thousands of Southerners to listen and cheer in the levee rallies Saturday during his Mississippi River cruise on the sternwheeler Natchez, more thousands on the President's route across the Mississippi Gulf Coast on Sunday.

But the cheers and crowds of September don't necessarily mean votes on Nov. 2.

Ford and his advisers say that they will, arguing that Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, is too liberal for the tastes of his own Southern homeland. But Carter also emphasizes conservative positions in the South - and he does it in a downhome drawl. That could be a tough combination to beat.

Ford advisers said the President was tailoring his emphasis to his audiences. He raised no new issues. His call on Monday for a crusade against crime, with tough measures against repeat offenders and violent. strectwise youths, fit the same pat-

By White House estimates, Ford saw or was seen by 113,000 people during his heavy campaigning on Saturday and Sunday.

But there was no gauge to determine how many people were there to see a president of the United States. and how many were there to applaud a campaigning Republican politician.

"You'd have to say that perhaps 25 per cent of the crowds came to see a president of the United States," said William Greener, deputy chairman of Ford's campaign committee. But Greener said that some who stayed to listen might well have been persuaded about the candidate, too.

Greener and White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said there are no firm plans now for further forays into the Deep South. Nessen said decisions on later campaign targets have not been made yet. He said they will depend on polls and other soundings so that Ford's personal votehunting can be concentrated on states where his chances are best.

Ford said as he traveled that he is writing off no state. "We thought it was a very good trip," Greener said when it was over. "It proved some things - and one is that we are not writing off the South.

House sends garbage measure to Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before you throw those egg shells, coffee grounds and orange peels in the trash can, stop and think about this:

The House of Representatives is willing to spend $282.5 million for a national effort to find something useful that can be made from garbage like that.

The House has passed a bill that would supply the money for research aimed at finding ways to use wastes that now burden most municipal governments. The bill now needs Senate approval.

Most Americans haven't given much thought to trash, except to notice if it hasn't been picked up. And the garbageman has just been some guy who runs over your trash can twice a week.

Still, a very few people already have found a variety of highly useful, although not alway esthetic, uses for their garbage. For instance, in Richmond, Va., houses were made from recycled trash several years ago, but potential weekly report. There have been eight fatalities since the disease began making its annual appearance in late June, the CDC said. The disease is carried by mosquitos and occurs most frequently in late summer and in the fall.

The CDC said the worst outbreak is in Mississippi, which has reported 26 confirmed and 24 presumptive cases. Texas had 23 confirmed and 11 presumptive cases and Alabama had 14 confirmed and 16 presumptive.

Mississippi reported four deaths,
Alabama three and Texas one. homebuyers were somewhat wary about living in something made of compressed things somebody else had thrown away. And newspapers not long ago told of a man who built a house out of his collection of beer bottles.

Rep. Fred Rooney, D-Pa., who managed the garbage bill in the House, said one goal would be finding ways to use garbage as a source of fuel after proper processing and reatment.

Consider this: The Federal Energy Administrat0on said Monday the nation's dependence on foreign oil is still increasing, with imports in the first six months of the year up by 16.7

Some energy experts say Americans produce in garbage each year a potential energy source equivalent to 290 million barrels of low sulphur fuel oil or 5 per cent of current domestic oil consumption. And they say total municipal refuse collection could generate 6 per cent of the nation's total annual electric

But with $282.5 million at stake there should be lots of other classy suggestions about what to do with all those empty milk cartons, gum wrappers and cigarette butts that litter the homestead.

For instance: -How about a new automobile made from gnawed chicken bones that runs on gas made from carrot tops, potato eyes and radish roots. Or fake eyelashes made from all that spinach you have to scrape off the kids' plates.

-Maybe cement made from coffee grounds, stale bread crumbs and fruit pits. America could have an interstate highway system that smells like a prune danish.

-Or how about wearing the latest in double-knit suits woven from last night's spaghetti dinner.

Cars, clothes, highways and eyelashes made from garbage would be cheap, but they also would have some obvious drawbacks — a certain air about them, you might say.

Drug training helping solve major problem

WASHINGTON (AP) - International narcotics pushers are facing increasingly effective pressures from a little-known United States aid program—the training of foreign police officers as skilled narcotics agents.

Reports from U.S. embassies indicate that the training program made possible the seizure during the past year of more than a half-billion dollars worth of narcotics which might otherwise have reached the streets of America.

The drugs were confiscated by graduates of a sixweek course run by the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), the narcotics enforcement arm of the Department of Justice. The DEA, because of long drug enforcement experience in this country, has developed perhaps the most sophisticated narcotics investigation training program in the

The biggest success came in Chile, where narcotics officers trained by DEA caught seven cocaine chemists between November 1975 and January 1976. More than 450 kilograms (about 992 pounds) of cocaine worth $225 million retail were seized.

Last February, Lt. Mario Jimenez Alfaro of the Colombian Department of Security, who had graduated just weeks before from the DEA's Washington training school, was in charge of a group making the largest known marijuana seizure in history-80 tons. Estimated U.S. street value: $48,626,000

The embassy in Bangkok, Thailand, reported huge drug hauls by U.S.-trained officers of the Police Narcotic Suppression Center. U.S. officials also reported cocaine valued at $19,935,000 seized in Bolivia, Argentina, Brazil and Costa Rica by DEAtrained agents.

'The monetary value of these seizures,' said DEA Administrator Peter B. Bensinger, "are particularly noteworthy when compared with the $2,258,040 the U.S. government spent on the training of foreign police officers in 1975."

The program was expanded in 1975. Between 1972 and 1974, the total training budget was $2,931,500. Bensinger said DEA's chief aim is cooperation with authorities abroad to eliminate sources of supply affecting the United States. Foreign police officers first expressed interest in learning the techniques of drug law enforcement in 1969. The Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs (BNDD), the forerunner of DEA, accepted 20 officers from Brazil, Chile, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala and Venezuela in its two-week training school for U.S. officers. Congress authorized appropriations in 1973 for a small unit within the BNDD National Training Institute, established a year earlier, to help in training of foreign officers. A six-week Advanced International Drug Enforcement School was formed and has graduated 556 officers. In addition, courses are conducted in foreign countries. The mobile teams have trained 7,364 foreign police officers since

Robert M. Stutman, international training division chief, said his 25 instructors-selected from DEA's more than 2,000 special agents—are all college

A typical class, No. 17, graduated June 25. It included 27 officers from Thailand, The Philippines, Nationalist China, South Korea, Indonesia and Malaysia. All but one student understood English.

Special Agent Thomas G. Martin, chief of the instructor team, said the class began with "country reports." designed not only to acquaint the students with narcotics problems of the various countries but also to break down any barriers between nationals whose countries have traditionally viewed each other with suspicion

"You realize quickly that we have a common problem, the scourge of drug abuse, and that we all speak the common language of policemen," said Maj. J.D.H. Sihombing of the Indonesian National Police Directorate of Narcotics, who delivered his country's report.

Asst. Supt. Hassan K. Lambok, of the Malaysian Central Narcotic Bureau (CNA), traced the history of his nation's opium problem to Chinese and Indian laborers brought in by the British during the 19th

Both Malaysia and Indonesia have made capital punishment the maximum penalty for drug pushing. The first two weeks of the DEA course are devoted to understanding international drug traffic patterns, identifying narcotics and investigating drug deaths. To aid agent instructors, the DEA used Capt. Frank Raasch, a pathologist at the San Diego Naval Hospital and an expert on narcotics and narcotic deaths. Some of his color slides of drug deaths and autopsies made even a few seasoned officers queasy to the point of leaving the classroom. Narcotics investigations, according to Raasch, are probably the most difficult of all criminal detective

"When you have a murder, the police find a body and can look for clues. When a burglary is committed, the victims report it and police can go to work. But the narcotics victim, who is the addict, never complains '

Much of narcotics enforcement work, therefore, depends on undercover investigation, the use of informants and watching street buys. Thus, undercover techniques, surveillance of suspects and the use of electronic equipment such as body transmitters and special automobile tracing gear took up an additional two weeks.

Class 17 then split into four sections for field training. One group visited Kansas City and Wichita, another went to San Francisco and Sacramento, a third to Seattle and Spokane and the fourth group was sent to Baltimore, Atlantic City, N.J., and New York City.

During the field trips, the officers visited local police departments, customs facilities, courts and prosecutors' offices. They observed narcotics enforcement operations in the streets.

While attending the school, the officers are encouraged to build working relationships with their counterparts from other countries. Since officers from the same region of the world are in one class, their similar cultures and mutual problems, such as trafficking routes, can be the basis for future international cooperation.

To maintain the relationships established among themselves, the students have formed an In-ternational Alumni Association. Run by DEA graduates, the group's activities are administered by DEA personnel.

At a graduation ceremony for Class 17, Rep. Tom F. Railsback, R-Ill., expressed congressional appreciation to the students for helping to curb the narcotics problem which, he said, was costing the U.S. $17 billion a year.

Minister Ian Douglas Smith is basically a quiet, almost shy, introvert, a man who claims he entered politics reluctantly and would prefer to be known as a cattle rancher, his hobby. The idolatry of his white constituency openly embarrasses him. His wife claims she has never heard him shout. And he says he has never lost sleep over the vitriolic condemnation he has endured since declaring unilateral independence from Britain in 1965, plunging his nation into severe economic and political crises.

Even his speech Friday night announcing his government's decision to relinquish the reins of power and accept black majority rule in two years under the Kissinger settlement plan was made in his slow, dry monotone voice, cracking only once.

Critics more cynically charge that his views are those of a racist who has tried to keep power in the hands of Rhodesia's 270,000 minority whites, outnumbered more than 20-1 by

He met twice with British officials on shipboard - neutral territory for negotiations, which failed because of his refusal to return Rhodesia to colonial status in preparation for constitutional changes.

In 1971, a proposal to reach parity representation between blacks and whites in the legislature with gradual progression to majority rule was rejected by Africans.

And at the Victoria Falls talks in because of demands and divisions among the black nationalists.

If stubborn, Smith has at least been consistent. Just five weeks ago he said of the American proposals:

"I would have thought that the U.S. government was a little more realistic and pragmatic than to fall for that kind of theme because it's so illogical.''

And according to government sources. Smith fought until the very end of the Pretoria talks last weekend with American and South African officials to win them over to his alternative proposals. In the speech Friday, he said he had won unspecififed "modifications."

But the announcement is not likely to end the prime minister's political career, according to high-level Rhodesian officials. "He's come up from behind before," one explained.

Twice during his career as an RAF pilot in World War II, Smith crashed, once suffering serious injuries to his face, back and legs. Plastic surgery after the first accident has left one side of his face slightly impaired.

But a few weeks later he was in the air again, only to be shot down during a raid over the Po Valley. The young pilot walked 23 days in enemy territory before rejoining allied forces.

Stovall, Craig Beeson and Greg Allen. The six youths received the recognition in a Court of Honor and Eagle ceremony.
