Carter voices concern about a few votes

By The Associated Press

Jimmy Carter is growing increasingly concerned about all those Americans who don't plan to vote, and he's reminding his supporters of past instances when only a few ballots changed the nation's history.

In his speeches this week, Carter has leaned heavily on listeners who may be thinking of sitting out the 1976 campaign and has urged his supporters to spare no effort to get potential slackers to the polls.

Both Carter and President Ford are off the campaign trail today, Ford in Washington and Carter at home in Plains, Ga. Both candidates plan to attend the annual Al Smith dinner in New York on Thursday. Their final debate is scheduled for Friday in Williamsburg, Va.

Although he remained at the White House on Tuesday, Ford found an opportunity to criticize Carter's proposals to cut the record defense budget, saying such cuts would make the nation weak. Carter has said he wants to cut from $5 billion to $7 billion from the Pentagon budget.

And Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger made a rare foray into the political arena in a speech in New York where he defended Ford's record on international human rights.

Both the vice presidential candidates, Democratic Sen. Walter Mondale and Republican Sen. Bob Dole, were on the road.

Carter traveled to New York City where he stood in a chilly Harlem street as night closed in and pleaded for his supporters to round up prospective nonvoters and get them to the polls.

There are, he warned, past examples of elections that could have changed history if only a handful of voters who stayed at home had made it into the polling booth.

If John Kennedy had lost to Richard

Nixon in 1960, Carter shouted into a cheering mostly black crowd that police estimated at 7,000 strong, "we would never have had the Voting Rights Act. None of you would have the freedom you now have."

Later, at a fund-raising dinner, Carter worried that "in the last eight years a lot of people had decided that it is not worth the effort to try to be involved in politics and vote and try to change this country."

He also recalled the 1968 election when Richard Nixon narrowly defeated Hubert Humphrey. "The election went the wrong way," he said.

Carter has for several days referred to polls that say more than half the eligible voters may not cast ballots. Analysts say many of those who have become discouraged with the election process would be Democratic voters casting ballots to change the faces in Washington if they bothered to vote.

And national polls now show Ford and Carter nearly neck-and-neck with the election only two weeks away.

Some analysts say the lower the voter turnout the better chance Ford has of winning the election. But independent candidate Eugene McCarthy says he thinks voter apathy could help his campaign.

Ford received an award on Tuesday from the Amvets in a Rose Garden ceremony. He used the occasion to criticize Carter's proposal to cut from $5 billion to $7 billion from the record Pentagon budget.

He said those who want defense budget cuts "fail to understand that our armed forces are the bulwark of freedom throughout the world."

Carter has called for an end to what he says is waste in Pentagon spending.

The ceremony was Ford's only public appearance of the day.

Bentsen predicts gas deregulation

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Deregulation of natural gas prices will probably pass in Congress next year, U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said Tuesday.

Bentsen spoke at a luncheon at the Midland Petroleum Club and later attended the oil show in Odessa Tuesday during a campaign swing through the region.

Deregulation of natural gas prices this year passed in the Senate and lost by four votes in the House of Representatives, Bentsen said, adding that he expects passage next year.

One reason he predicted success for the measure, which he sponsored last year and plans to introduce again next year, is the endorsement by the national governors' conference.

"I think they (other states now buying gas at regulated prices) should bear the cost of finding new gas," Bentsen said. "We're never going to have enough but we ought to have as much as we can."

Bentsen said he is opposed to divestiture of major oil companies and does not believe such a measure will pass in the next session.

"If I thought they (the oil companies) were stifling competition I'd be for it," he said, but the largest concentration in the industry is 11 per cent.

To help solve unemployment, Bentsen said he has introduced a bill to give a 10 to 15 per cent employment credit to business during times of high unemployment. The credit would be for 10 to 15 per cent of the first year salary for new positions.

Such a measure would help inflation, Bentsen said, by lowering the cost of production.

"You're putting a man in a productive job and you're not putting him in a make-work job," he said. Further, the taxpayer pays only the small percentage of the salary instead of the entire amount as in the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill.

However, Bentsen said he favors public service employment as a last resort. "I'd rather pay him to work than not to work."

Bentsen said his proposal has a good chance of passing.

The senator expressed concern about the tendency to discourage investment of risk capital and called on businessmen to express their views while legislation is being formed.

"Too often it's after the fact that we hear (from businessmen)," he said.

On the tax bill that has recently become law, Bentsen was critical of some aspects, especially one that decreased benefits for intangible drilling costs, but said he believed that there was more good than bad in the bill and, therefore, he voted for it.

One feature praised was the increase in exemption of estate taxes. Twenty-five per cent of the small family farms and ranches that are sold are put on the market to pay estate taxes. The increase in exemp-

352 have voted absentee

Some 352 Midland voters out of the 39,000 registered to vote in the county have already cast absentee ballots for the Nov. 2 election in the district clerk's office.

Another 638 voters have had absentee ballots sent to them, said Midland District Clerk Mrs. Rosanelle Cherry. All voters planning to vote absentee must do so before the Oct. 29 deadline.

Those who find it necessary to vote absentee must either request an application to have the ballot mailed to them or they can vote in the clerk's office from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day. There must be a significant reason to vote absentee, Mrs. Cherry said.

All voters 65 or older, however, are entitled to absentee voting privileges, Mrs. Cherry said.

To write in a candidate this year, Mrs. Cherry added, all the voter has to do is lift "a plastic sleeve" over the name of each office and write in the candidate of their choice.

Oil show gets underway

ODessa — The 1976 Bicentennial Permian Basin Oil Show got underway semiofficially Tuesday night at the Pan American Ballroom when members of the petroleum industry and a news media got together for a get-acquainted session.

And, by what was a conservative estimate, about 5,000 people showed up to shake hands, visit and enjoy refreshments.

The show got underway officially today for members of the petroleum industry, with the gates at the Ector County Coliseum complex opening at 10 a.m. They will remain open until 8 p.m.

Thursday, industry personnel will again be given the run of the exhibit area from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The general public will get its chance Friday when the show will be dedicated with opening ceremonies at 1 p.m. at the show grounds. This event will follow a mammoth parade through downtown Odessa, starting at 11 a.m. The route will be from Third Street north on Grant. The show grounds will be closed at 8 p.m. Friday.

Saturday, the gates will again be opened at 10 a.m. to the general public. At 5 p.m., the Chuck Wagon Gang will make available a barbecue dinner.

The show will come to an end at 8 p.m. Saturday, and J. W. "Bill" Hall, president of the show, said he expects, weather permitting, that more than 400,000 persons will walk through the turnstiles during the four days of the exhibits.

LATE NEWS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Nixon aide John D. Erlichman was quoted today as saying that he never contacted President Ford, when Ford was House minority leader, about opposing an early House investigation of Watergate.

HOUSTON (AP) — The grievance committee of the State Bar of Texas today filed a lawsuit in district court calling for the disbarment of Donald B. Yarbrough, the Democratic nominee for the State Supreme Court.

Life in shadows of Pancho Villa prepared pioneer for oil patch

Oilmen are gathering from all over the country for the Permian Basin Oil Show at Odessa's Ector County Coliseum, and in the "family affair" before the show opens to the general public Friday there are bound to be long and hearty sessions of shop talk and reminiscences about the old days.

And one of the guys who will be in the thick of it is Ford Chapman, independent producer and long-time key figure in professional bodies around the industry.

Sombody may even ask Ford if it's true he and Pancho Villa were personal friends.

Well, not quite. But I was fascinated to hear that Chapman witnessed the raid on Columbus, N. M., that electrified the Southwest and gave Gen. John Pershing valuable experience that would stand him in good stead in chasing the Kaiser a couple of years later. I asked Chapman about it when I met him at the opening of the Republican Headquarters of Midland recently.

And it turns out he was a small boy living on a ranch south of Lordsburg and remembers the glow from the burning buildings as Pancho and his Dorados swept across the Rio Grande and pillaged in retaliation for recent reverses in his guerrilla drive against the old order in Mexico. (Spend some time in the mezzanine bar of Midland's La Bodega studying the outsized photographs of the Villistas at war and at ease during the period and you'll appreciate the anxiety that moved in the vicinity of the paisano marauders.)

Neither Chapman nor I recalled the exact date, although he was there and I have visited the quiet, barren park that memorializes the raid that cost the lives of 16 Columbus residents. But the excellent and amiable staff of Frances Williams at the Midland County Library bailed me out again. Columbus was attacked March 9, 1916, seven years before the "Cock of the Walk" was assassinated near Parral. Ford, then seven years old, recalls a mass meeting of area men to prepare for protection of the few families on the desert plains, with lengthy discussion about whether a 12-year-old friend of his should be given a weapon.

It was a era along the border as Pancho mixed depredations such as that at Columbus with "R and R" visits to his favorite bars along Avenida Juarez such as the San Luis that don't seem to have changed much since.

But it was also the eve of the Southwest's greatest industrial bonanza as petroleum exploration was beginning to begin in the land of greasewood and cholla that had seemed so hostile to surface development.

And since today marks a high tide among Basin oilmen, I want to take this opportunity to correct a grievous error I made in a story about Oil Patch Artist Gordon Bankston.

In a reference to the "morning tour" on a drilling rig I spelled the word as oil patchers pronounce it ("tower"), and I'm indebted for the eagle eye of The Reporter-Telegram's "First Lady of Oil," Mrs. Louise Baxter, for setting me straight. I'll reack an oil reporter yet.

Sen. Robert Dole

Sen. Dole talks oil in Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Republican vice presidential candidate Robert Dole told a breakfast meeting of GOP businessmen Tuesday that the Democratic ticket "is not the party of conservative Texas Democrats and not the party of many Texas independents."

Dole charged that Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale want to break up oil companies. "I want to find more gas," Dole said. "I want to find more oil."

The Kansas senator said he is in favor of deregulating oil and gas prices and would support an excess profits tax for all companies which did not plow profits into exploration for new energy source.

"Sen. Mondale's contribution to the energy shortage was to vote to delay the Alaska pipeline," Dole said. "We're going to leave them out in the cold in November."

African diplomats angered by triple veto in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — African diplomats say the triple Western veto of sanctions against South Africa places a new responsibility on the United States, Britain and France to bring about the independence of South-West Africa.

The burden on these countries is much more serious now that once again they have protected South Africa in the Security Council," said Ambassador Salim A. Salim of Tanzania, a leader of the black Africans' U.N. battle against white rule in South Africa.

The three permanent Western members of the Security Council on Tuesday vetoed a resolution calling for a ban on arms sales to South Africa for its failure to relinquish control of South-West Africa, or Namibia, as it is known in the United Nations.

U.S. Ambassador William W. Scranton and British delegate James Murray said they opposed sanctions because sensitive consultations were under way with the South African government on the future of the territory, and an embargo might disrupt these.

The French representative, Jacques Lecompt, said he knew nothing of these negotiations, but he argued that because he and other members of the council are not fully informed on the negotiations, this should prevent the council from taking action against South Africa.

The resolution got 10 affirmative votes, or two-thirds of the council membership, from Sweden, the Soviet Union, China and the seven sponsors, Benin, Libya, Tanzania, Guyana, Panama, Romania and Pakistan. Japan and Italy abstained.

It was the third triple veto by the Western powers in support of South Africa and the second against sanctions.

The African resolution charged that

South Africa had failed to meet the council's demand that it agree to a U.N. referendum in South-West Africa by Aug. 30 to determine the future of the territory.

But at the heart of the debate was the question whether Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had prevailed on South African Prime Minister John Vorster during his recent African shuttle to negotiate with the South-West African People's Organization (SWAPO). The United Nations recognizes SWAPO as the "legitimate representative" of the people in the territory, but Vorster's government refuses to deal with it and has been working out an independence agreement with tribal chiefs and other black leaders.

After his return from southern Africa, Kissinger told the General Assembly that "progress has been made" toward achieving U.N. goals.

Boycott debate continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversy over American firms' participation in the Arab boycott of Israel is turning into a debate about just what constitutes participation.

The Commerce Department says a company that supplies requested data to an Arab state is complying with the boycott. The companies disagree; many say they have always traded with both Arabs and Israelis and plan to continue doing so.

More voices were to be added to the debate today. A House subcommittee arranged to question Secretary of Commerce Elliot Richardson about the boycott and U.S. government efforts to stop it.

Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., who chairs the subcommittee, has advocated legislation making it illegal for American firms to comply with the boycott. The Ford administration has opposed that legislation.

Exactly what constitutes compliance has become a matter of dispute since the Commerce Department began releasing the names of American companies that do business with Arab nations and sign statements about the boycott.

More companies on Tuesday joined the ranks of those complaining that their actions were misinterpreted. Some of the confusion stems from the way the boycott terms and enforcement efforts vary from one Arab country to another.

Some of the Arab states require only that companies certify that the goods they are selling were not made in Israel or with Israeli materials. Sometimes they require that the ships carrying those goods to an Arab state not stop off at an Israeli port.

A spokesman for McGraw-Edison International of Elgin, Ill., said the company does not discriminate against Jews and ships regularly to Israeli customers who buy its washing machines, electrical machinery and other durable goods.

The spokesman said that on a recent sale to an Arab nation, the company was asked to certify that its washing machines were not made in Israel and would not go through an Israeli port. The company found that without changing its normal procedures it could respond affirmatively to both questions.

"What we've done is business as usual and it comes off as a boycott," said the spokesman.

Shootout case goes to jury

HALTOM CITY, Tex. (AP) — Police say a fatal shootout between two CB radio operators will be referred to the Tarrant County grand jury because of new information uncovered Tuesday.

Don Hillechen, who use CB handle was "Blue Goose," was shot to death Friday after he and Howard Collins, "Ivory Bird" to CB operators, began arguing over the radio and agreed to settle their differences face to face. Howard was in serious condition Tuesday as a result of the shooting.

Detective Bob Hurley said a third man is wanted in connection with the shootings, but police decided not to make an arrest.

"Due to the nature of the new information developed, we feel it would be appropriate to refer the case to a grand jury rather than filing charges and picking him (the third individual) up," said Hurley.

Police said the argument had been going on for two weeks and that the Friday night shooting came after Collins issued a challenge to Hillechen.

The gunfight took place near an airport area freeway. Police said they were informed of the potential battle and dispatched three units to the scene at 6:30 p.m. But the shootings did not occur until 11:14 p.m. after the officers had been sent on other calls.

Police said taped radio conversations between the two will be included in the evidence presented to the grand jury.

Sen. Bentsen predicting passage next year of gas deregulation bill

tion will reduce the need for such sales, he said.

Bentsen was critical of land use legislation which will come before Congress again in the next session. The proposed law would require states to meet 12 federal guidelines for land use planning or face loss of federal funds and would create another government agency to oversee the process, Bentsen said.

The federal guidelines would act as edicts rather than incentives for state action and, in effect, set value for land, Bentsen said.

The senator discussed three things he said would help reduce red tape. The number of government forms used in this country every year would fill the Cotton Bowl stadium several times over and costs $18 billion, he said.

First, Bentsen supports a sunset bill which would require each agency to be audited at least every four or five years to justify its continued existence.

Also, Bentsen said he helped create a paperwork commission to try to eliminate duplication on federal forms. "I hope it doesn't create more paper work," he said.

Third, Bentsen said he plans to introduce a bill to require a specific part of a law to be cited in the formulation of regulations under that law. One page of law yields 50 pages of regulation now, he said, but requiring justification under a specific part of a law would cut down on the number of regulations.

The senator said he does not believe these are the worst years this country has faced and expressed optimism about the future.

"I'm proud to be part of a country that isn't afraid to admit its mistakes and isn't ashamed of its successes," he said.

After his speech, Bentsen said he thinks his campaign for reelection to his Senate seat is going very well. "All the polls show us to be way ahead but polls don't elect people," he said.

Bentsen was introduced to the approximately 60 people attending the luncheon by Tom Sealy, one of the hosts for the luncheon.

The other hosts were William B. Blakemore, Tom Brown, John L. Cox, Reagan H. Legg, B. J. Pevehouse and W. F. Roden.

Rain chance accompanies colder days

Not only is the Permian Basin getting bombarded with cold temperatures — now there's a chance the area might get some rainfall, too.

The National Weather Service said the clouds and rain showers are likely on Thursday.

Wednesday dawned clear, calm and cold for most area residents, with some reporting stations having an early morning frost.

In Andrews and Stanton, it was clear and cold with no winds, while Crane had similar conditions and a slight breeze. Lamesa, Rankin and Big Lake all reported that conditions were clear and calm with a heavy early morning frost.

The Midland Regional Air Terminal said Midland only had a slight frost early today.

Skies will remain clear tonight and begin clouding on Thursday, the weather man said. Temperatures tonight will drop to near 40, with the mercury rising to the low 60s on Thursday.

Winds will be from the south at 5 to 15 mph tonight. A 20 per cent chance of precipitation will exist Thursday.

Midlander wins order against city track

A Midland man has won a temporary restraining order against Midland Downs, Inc., allowing him to race horses at the Downs after he and his wife were suspended from racing there. The order was signed Oct. 14, by District Court Judge Perry D. Pickett.

The man, Roy L. Simmons, said in his petition for the order that he had been prohibited from the grounds for 90 days, as a result of his wife's suspension.

His wife, Barbara, a licensed trainer and holder of a license from Midland Downs, entered a horse which won the race but was disqualified after the urine test. When she appeared before a Downs governing board, she was notified of her 90 days suspension.

Simmons said he was told he would not be allowed on the grounds or on any other race track during his wife's suspension.

He was not notified of the hearing or of what rights were involved, Simmons said, and asked for a restraining order against the Downs.

Judge Perry D. Pickett granted the order, asking the company to show cause why he should not issue a permanent order against the Downs. The hearing is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Another member of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter's family will be campaigning in Midland this week.

Emily Dolvin, better known as "Aunt Sissy," will visit with citizens and the press from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Thursday at the Midland Regional Air Terminal Building. Aunt Sissy is the younger sister of Carter's 78-year-old mother Miss Lillian.

Bob Northington, Carter campaign coordinator for Midland County, said Aunt Sissy usually directs her remarks toward agriculture, the elderly and Social Security.

Carter's aunt is the widow of an insurance man and, Northington said, has turned out to be the secret weapon of the Carter campaign. Aunt Sissy is in particular demand for appearances on the senior citizen circuit, but delights all ages, Northington added.

Jimmy Carter has pledged to coordinate government policy toward the elderly, to establish a Counselor on the Aging within the Office of the President, to develop innovative programs for the elderly and to insure that government action takes into account fully the concerns of the elderly, Northington said.

DEATHS

Area men's mother dies

GONZALES — Mrs. Gertrude Spinks of Harwood, mother of Alan Spinks of Midland and Leroy Spinks of Odessa, died Sunday morning in a Odessa hospital.

Services were at 2 p.m. Monday in the Seydler-Hill Chapel in Gonzales with Paul Vercher of the First Baptist Church in Harwood officiating. Burial was in Harwood City Cemetery.

Mrs. Spinks was a native of Pipe Creek. She married Bob Spinks in 1933 in Harwood. She was nursing service coordinator at Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation 23 years and served as clinic nurse of the Gonzales Mental Health-Mental Retardation Clinic at the time of her death. She graduated from vocational nursing school at the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation and was a member of the First Baptist Church of Harwood and the Texas Continuing Adult Education and Vocational Nursing Association of Texas.

Other survivors include a daughter, two sons, three sisters, a brother, nine grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Zudie Holloway dies at age 89

Mrs. Zudie Holloway, 89, of Midland died Tuesday afternoon in a Midland nursing home after a lengthy illness.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Ellis Funeral Home Chapel with Gary Bodine, pastor of Fort Worth and Jax Streets Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Mrs. Holloway was born Aug. 14, 1887, in Boerne. She married Pinkey "Doc" Holloway in Corsicana. They lived there and in Winters, moving later to Pampa where he farmed until his death in 1954. She moved to Midland shortly afterwards.

Survivors include a sister, Aggie Green of Midland.

Pallbearers will be L. C. Briley, L. E. Myers, J. D. Keith, Dick Patton of Lubbock, N. M., and Silas Birdwell and Benny Lassiter, both of Carlsbad, N. M.

BEN POWELL

Ben Powell's rites conducted

Services were held today at 2 p.m. at Ellis Funeral Home Chapel for Ben Powell, who died Monday afternoon of a heart seizure.

He is survived by his widow, Eunice Powell of Midland; a son, Sgt. James Powell stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army; a brother, David Powell of Houston; four sisters, Mrs. Hollis Beal of Crockett, Mrs. Judith Powell of Beaumont, Mrs. W. L. Benner of Houston, and Mrs. Wayne R. Abbott of Denton, and three grandchildren.

Minister's father dies

TEMPLE — Roy Frederick Havens, 82, of Temple, father of the Rev. Roy R. Havens of Midland, died this morning in a Temple hospital.

Services are pending at Harper-Talasek Funeral Home in Temple. Burial will be at Hico.

Havens was born May 27, 1893, in Granbury and married Mary E. French of Hico in February 1919. She died in 1968.

He was a retired civil service employee and had worked at Fort Hood. He was a former employee of the Santa Fe Railroad and a World War I veteran.

Other survivors include one grandson and one great-grandson.

Sadie Watson rites Thursday

Mrs. Sadie Watson, 81, of 1601 W. Tennessee St., died Tuesday night in a Midland hospital.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Ellis Funeral Home Chapel. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Mrs. Watson was born Feb. 1, 1895, in Post Oak, Mo. She moved to Midland in 1927, where her husband, the late Harry H. Watson, was an early day independent oil operator and drilling contractor. He had lived in Breckenridge and Borger before moving to Midland. She was a Methodist.

Survivors include three sisters, Mrs. Flossie Wink of Denver, Colo., Mrs. Lydia Wink of Elk City, Okla., and Mrs. Maude Chaney of Odessa, and two grandchildren.

Wyoming man dies at motel

John Joseph Davis, 51, of Casper, Wyo., was found dead Tuesday night in front of the Rodeway Inn.

Midland Justice of the Peace Robert Pine pronounced Davis dead at the scene and ordered an autopsy performed.

Davis reportedly was in Midland for the Permian Basin Oil Show.

Services are pending at the Bustard Funeral Home in Casper, Wyo.

Taylor rites rescheduled

Services for Clinton Milton Taylor, 72, of Midland have been rescheduled for 5 p.m. Thursday in Thomas Funeral Home.

Taylor died Monday morning in a Midland nursing home.

Survivors include daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Walker of Midland; a stepson, Albert Fennell of Corpus Christi; two sisters, Beatrice Mills and Mrs. Velma Brakins, both of Los Angeles, Calif., and two grandchildren.

Fines may await violators of building permit rule

Contractors who neglect to warn home or business owners that building permits must be taken out before structures are erected in the city may face a fine awaiting them.

The Midland Zoning Board of Adjustment Tuesday urged the city planning staff to make a recommendation to the city council regarding the possible fine.

The move came about after the board denied a request by J. L. Elmore for a variance in front yard setback requirements at 1600 N. Garfield St. Elmore told the board he'd already started construction on a carport, and was not notified of the necessity for acquiring a building permit on the structure.

The board noted it "was not right" that Elmore had not been informed of the requirements but denied the variance request.

In other action, the board of adjustment:

—Approved a request by Elvin L. Hajboard for a variance in the 50 per cent rear yard requirements at 2301 Metz Place, for a tool and hobby shop;

—Denied a request by Richard J. Knittle for a variance in side yard setback requirements at 2312 Seaboard St., for a garage driveway, due to a possible sight problem from the neighboring alley; and,

—Noted that a request by Roy Kimsey for a variance in front yard setback requirements at 2800 N. Big Spring St. had been withdrawn at the request of the applicant.

Five hours testimony begins man's rape trial

District Court recessed about 4 p.m. Tuesday in the rape trial of Cecil Ray Willis, after about five hours of testimony by state witnesses.

The trial was scheduled to continue today with more direct evidence by the prosecution, Assistant District Attorney Rusty Wall said.

The five-woman, seven-man jury Tuesday heard testimony by various law enforcement officers, including investigators from the Midland County Sheriff's Department and the Department of Public Safety.

On cross-examination, Willis' defense lawyer, H. Thomas Hirsch of Odessa, appeared to question the reliability and importance of the state's evidence by trying to show that some of the evidence in the case was either not examined or fully documented.

The case stems from an incident on Oct. 9, 1972 in which a 60-year-old Midland woman was allegedly beaten, threatened and raped.

Krueger plans Rotarian talk

Rep. Bob Krueger will be the guest speaker at Thursday's noon meeting of the Rotary Club in the Midland Hilton.

Krueger, a Democrat, is scheduled to complete a four state tour of agricultural research stations in San Angelo today. Among the counties in Krueger's congressional district are Reagan, Upton, Glasscock and Crane.

Man to die in 'chair' on Nov. 22

DALLAS (AP) — Ernest Benjamin Smith Jr., convicted in a 1973 robbery-murder, was told today he must die in the electric chair "before sunrise on Nov. 22."

Smith thus became the first man to have his execution date set under the new Texas death penalty. Forty-seven other men are on death row.

He had been convicted of the murder of convenience store clerk William Stewart Moon, 55.

Smith, father of two, stood with his hands behind his back and showed no emotion as State District Court Judge R. T. Scales set his execution date.

Defense lawyer John Simmons said he will attempt to have his client's case heard by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Texas' new death penalty law is one of those held constitutional this year by the Supreme Court.

GOP newcomer contests California Senator Tunney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Tunney is on the attack in his California re-election campaign, running hard against a surprisingly strong challenge from political newcomer S. I. Hayakawa.

Hayakawa, who has been a Republican for only three years, has based his campaign on the fame he won in 1968 when, as newly appointed college president, he quelled a violent student strike at San Francisco State College.

The 70-year-old challenger led the 42-year-old Tunney in polls just after the June primary. The Democratic incumbent has gained ground in recent weeks — leading by five percentage points in the latest California Poll.

Republicans rate Tunney as one of the most vulnerable Democrats up for re-election to the Senate this year.

The candidates present

a contrast in appearances:

—Hayakawa, a Canadian-born semanticist of Japanese ancestry, in the tam-o-shanter he made his symbol, giving speeches that sound like classroom lectures delivered in a thin, almost whispering voice, limiting appearances to two or three a day, tap dancing for exercise, but making sure he gets plenty of rest.

—Tunney, son of former world heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney, an athletic, early rising jogger, a traditional stump orator, with as many as eight or 10 appearances in a day, gregarious, swapping stories with aides about sports or Washington sex scandals.

Each candidate is viewed as a moderate in his own party and the substance of the campaign revolves around traditional philosophical divisions between Democrats and Republicans.

The style of the campaign is less traditional. It is the incumbent who is putting in the 14-to 16-hour days and making an issue of his opponent's reluctance to debate. It is the challenger who acts confident that the voters know him and will vote for him on the basis of his record.

Tunney says there is a reason for the reversal of roles. "I'm running against a folk hero," he says. "He (Hayakawa) couldn't have any more personal popularity than when he came out of San Francisco State — absolutely couldn't have any more popularity."

"The only place he can go after that is down, so he obviously doesn't want to make news. And so our strategy is to keep the pressure on, confront him. It's almost as if I'm the challenger."

Tunney tells voters, "One incident, five minutes in front of television cameras eight years ago, does not qualify a man for the U.S. Senate."

He is referring to the morning of Dec. 2, 1968, when Hayakawa, the newest in a series of interim presidents of San Francisco State, climbed to the roof of a sound truck operated illegally by leaders of a student strike. He yanked the wires from the speakers before a battery of television and newspaper cameras.

Nine out of 10 Hayakawa supporters mention that incident first when asked why they back him. And Hayakawa himself takes every opportunity to remind voters of "the battle of San Francisco State."

When student demonstrators interrupted his campaign speech at the college, Hayakawa thanked them for reminding voters of 1968 and said the hecklers would "win hundreds of thousands of votes for me."

The tam-o-shanter he campaigns in is similar to the one he wore as he pulled the wires from the sound truck. He even presented one to President Ford.

Tunney, meanwhile, has taken to "debating" a tam-o-shanter to dramatize the point that Hayakawa has turned down 30 of 31 offers of joint appearances.

Hayakawa daily lists 10 issues such as national health care and offshore oil drilling on which, he says, Tunney switched positions. He calls Tunney "Sen. Flip-Flop" and attacks his absenteeism from the Senate, citing in particular two well-publicized vacation trips during sessions.

After the attack, Hayakawa often turns to subjects such as the historic perspectives of the two parties, which he says differ in psychology more than in objectives, or to analysis of the American "national experience."

In Tunney's bruising primary campaign, Tom Hayden and his wife, actress Jane Fonda, called Tunney a "playboy." At one point, Miss Fonda said Tunney dated teen-age girls, but she did not substantiate that allegation.

In the fall campaign, Hayakawa and other Republicans have made no mention of those charges, or of Tunney's widely publicized divorce two years ago.

There are few unique issues in the campaign. Hayakawa generally sticks to the Republican party platform, differing only on the question of abortion which he says "isn't any damn business of government." Like Tunney, he is the target of right-to-life pickets.

Hayakawa concentrates his appearances on GOP groups and despite his newness to the Republican party, he has won general acceptance in all but the most conservative GOP circles.

Tunney's campaign is focused on traditional Democratic bases — ethnic groups, labor, liberals, the poor and students. But the campaign is in large part an effort to patch differences with some of those groups.

Liberals are angry that Tunney opposed national health insurance legislation after coauthoring it.

Conservationists are wary of his endorsement of nuclear power. Consumer groups say he has too many big business contributors.

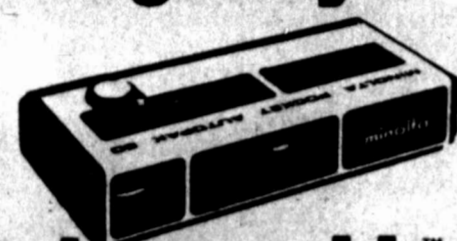

Students and young liberals, who flocked to former student radical leader Tom Hayden's primary campaign against Tunney, are conspicuously absent from the current battle.

Tunney says he is not worried about losing campus votes to Hayakawa. But he is worried that many liberals and young students may sit out this election or cast a protest vote for one of the three minor party candidates on the ballot.

Man never grows up

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Man is the most advanced of mammals probably because he never grows up.

According to Rand McNally's "Atlas of the Body and Mind," human evolution has been dominated by a process known as neoteny, or "remaining young." Essentially, this means that man has evolved by retaining the immature characteristics of his ancestors. These include not only such physiological characteristics as the large brain found in newborn primates and the resulting capacity to learn, but also such behavioral characteristics as a curiosity about the world.

Hazardous, indeed!

Although the very thought of it is disturbing to many Americans, the way now seems clear for the American Federation of Government Employees to start trying to recruit military personnel of the U.S. Armed Forces into the ranks of organized labor.

The American Federation of Government Employees, incidentally, is affiliated with the AFL-CIO. The union has a paid membership of 325,000 and through bargaining arrangements represents 675,000 federal employees, including 360,000 civilian military workers.

The union held its biennial convention at Las Vegas, Nev., last month and amended its constitution. Previously only civil employees of the federal government were eligible for membership. Now military personnel of the armed forces also are eligible. A military membership campaign now may begin.

It is likely that peacetime pay and benefits and conditions of military service will become more and more important to millions of men and women in uniform, now that they are all volunteers and now that more of them are looking to careers in the military service.

These Americans perhaps will seek some kind of collective representation, like other citizens in other groups with special interests in Washington. They may have a constitutional right to such representation.

It seems, however, that labor unions are very much unsuited to represent the military. They are geared to adversary relations between labor and management. They could jeopardize national security through erosion of military discipline. This would be hazardous, indeed.

Congress, when it meets in January, should give high priority to a study of the threat of military unionization, and should determine what if anything can be done about it. Surely Congress can act in a positive manner in the interest of national security.

Thank you, Gulf!

Anniversary gifts in reverse are not the usual custom, but Gulf Oil Foundation turned the trick at Gulf's 50th anniversary banquet here last Friday night.

It all came about when John A. Hord, district exploration manager for Gulf, presented a check for $25,000 to Midland Memorial Hospital. Hord said it was a way of saying "Thank You" to the community on Gulf's 50th anniversary in Midland.

L.H. Byrd, president of the hospital's trustees, who accepted the gift, said it will be used for selected medical equipment.

This was a marvelous gesture, indeed, on the part of Gulf Oil, which through the years has been active in support of the hospital and other community facilities and institutions.

"Midland Memorial Hospital is fortunate in having friends and supporters such as Gulf Oil Foundation and Gulf's employees in Midland," Byrd said in accepting the gift. "Gulf has been a true friend of Midland Memorial since the 1940s when Midlanders began to work toward the goal of establishing a non-profit, non-tax-supported hospital."

Two rooms in the hospital's patient care area were donated by Gulf during the original building campaign. In 1972, Gulf also contributed $10,000 toward construction of the facility's West Wing.

Byrd also pointed out that Gulf employees long have served on boards and committees of the hospital, giving it all-out support all-the-way.

Speaking for Midland and Midlanders, "Thank you, Gulf, for this marvelous gift which will serve Midland and area residents for a long time to come."

AID officials fret over image

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Behind their fashionable walled villas high above Port-Au-Prince, American AID officials are in an absolute tizzy over our criticism of their lifestyle.

We questioned whether they should draw hardship pay for distributing aid to the hungry people of Haiti. They are supposed to help develop the impoverished nation and to feed its malnourished millions.

They manage to do this in a style that is the envy of stateside tourists who pay premium rates for a few days of similar pleasure in Port-Au-Prince. For as we reported last August, the AID officials live in tropical luxury. They swim in private pools, are waited on by gracious servants, belong to exclusive private clubs and attend lavish cocktail and dinner parties.

To help them endure the tribulations of such an existence, they collect "hardship" allowance — a bonus of about 15 per cent above their regular salaries. They also draw generous housing and educational allowances so they can live in the grand manner and put their children through special schools.

Our reports infuriated the AID bureaucrats, who kept the wires burning between Port-Au-Prince and Washington as they speculated on ways they might repair their image. Donor Lion, a high muck-a-muck temporarily in charge of Latin-American aid assured his minions in Haiti that the home office was "taking issue with Anderson column."

Lion pledged that headquarters intended "to demonstrate to AID field personnel our continuing support of their efforts." He requested "as much information as possible" from Haiti "to respond to Anderson and to congressional and other inquiries concerned over Anderson's charges."

Yet try as they might, the AID contingent in Haiti couldn't refute the facts that we reported. Their responses were cabled to Washington by U.S. Ambassador Heyward Isham, who made a valiant effort, at least, to present all the mitigating circumstances.

"It is true," he acknowledged in one cable, "that some Americans live in comfortable homes with swimming pools." But he contended that there simply was too little housing "that would be acceptable by American standards, except those owned by wealthier Haitians. Many of these are built with swimming pools."

It costs the taxpayers an extra $4,600 to $6,900 a year in housing allowances, which are paid to the AID officials to help them meet the higher rents for their hillside villas. But Ambassador Isham pointed out that diplomats from other countries live in equal splendor in Port-Au-Prince.

The ambassador also acknowledged that AID officials belonged to three "exclusive private clubs." He insisted, however, that membership was "virtually mandatory for those wishing to play tennis or golf, as all three have tennis facilities and one the only golf course in Haiti."

"Americans living in Haiti usually employ servants," it was also acknowledged, but this is "necessary to maintain living standards similar to those in the United States."

We don't know whether a staff of servants is essential to uphold American living standards. But this wasn't our point. We merely questioned whether our AID administrators in Port-Au-Prince are entitled to 15 per cent extra hardship pay.

In all the thousands of words they wrote in defense of themselves, we could find only one paragraph that might justify a Haitian hardship allowance. "Service in Haiti exposes all employees and their families to several diseases endemic to Haiti, including malaria and dengue fever," they noted. In the past three months, one AID employee has been sent home for medical reasons.

ANGRY ALEXANDER: We recently reported that Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald Alexander, over the strong protests of his subordinates, eliminated a key question from the income tax forms. The question had been used to trap tax cheaters who deposit their hidden profits in foreign bank accounts.

We invited Alexander to comment. Rather than give us an explanation, he waited until the column appeared. Then he used his intelligence division to get the list of the newspapers that published the column. He sent a letter to our editors claiming he had unanimous approval for removing the question.

The truth is that many law enforcement officials, at every level of the federal government, didn't want the question removed. In fact, the Justice Department sent a confidential letter to the IRS insisting that the question be left on the tax form.

Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, has now introduced legislation to get the foreign bank account question reinstated. Sixty congressmen have signed a private letter to Treasury Secretary William Simon asking him to restore the crucial question.

INSIDE REPORT:

California's political consolation finals reviewed

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

LOS ANGELES — The desperation of Ronald Reagan to prevent Jimmy Carter from becoming President is Gerald Ford's biggest asset in the madcap game of presidential politics here which features not the candidates themselves so much as the runners-up — Reagan and Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

As two of the most glittering politicians in the land (and overwhelming winners in the presidential primaries here) Reagan and Brown would be far preferred by adoring partisans in the biggest state to stodgy Jerry Ford and born-again Jimmy Carter.

Accordingly, the presidential contest here has all the glamor of a consolation final. That handicap, together with the tough spending limits which have stripped this flamboyant state of all visible campaign teasers, confronts Messrs. Ford and Carter with enthusiasm that is well contained.

That Reagan's passion for Carter's defeat has maintained itself through difficult times was evident here when, following Mr. Ford's egregious second debate, Reagan and the President shared the podium at the party's Beverly-Hilton fund-raiser.

Only hours before, the conservative former governor had complained to an old friend that the President's shocking declaration that Eastern Europe was not under Soviet domination contradicted what Reagan called "my whole record." When dinner chairman Holmes Tuttle, the fat-cat California auto dealer and long-time Reagan intimate, called for Reagan to come to the podium side-by-side with Mr. Ford in front of the head table, for a moment it looked as though Reagan would not budge.

But he finally moved up beside the President — for one reason (as he explained to an aide): "I am scared to death of Carter."

Such fear lies at the root of Reagan's intention to do almost everything he can to defeat Carter, even if it means electing his once-scorned enemy of the bitter primary election season. Owing mainly to Reagan's personal control, all of California's 58 counties are now under combined Ford-Reagan campaign direction, with Reagan's respected political organization providing the real muscle.

The primary wounds are by no means healed. Paul R. Haerle, the Republican state chairman who was a protege of Reagan's but defected to Mr. Ford for the primary battle, is still anathema to Reaganites. His visible presence during Mr. Ford's California tour last week was as an inconspicuous passenger in the President's car for a few blocks in San Francisco.

Despite the Ford-Reagan marriage of convenience, problems predating last week's costly debate abound for Mr. Ford. A seemingly impressive array of telephone banks, for example, is now targeted only for Republican voters and the Ford-Dole ticket. Reagan experts criticize that as dangerously incomplete. Mr. Ford must win tens of thousands of Democrats in his uphill battle here and also needs the coattails of lesser Republican candidates.

"They have to tap Hayakawa votes and registered Democrats," one former Reagan operative told us, referring to Dr. S. I. (Sam) Hayakawa, the conservative Republican who is showing surprising strength against incumbent Democratic Sen. John Tunney.

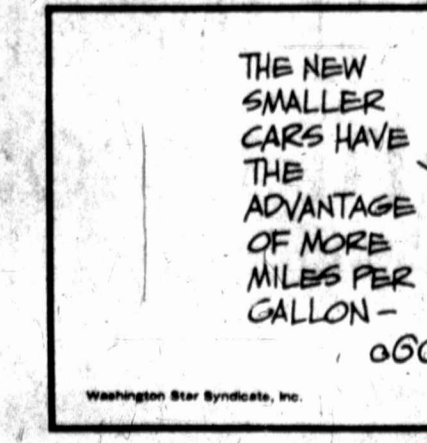

Compared to this semi-smooth Ford-Reagan teamwork, Gov. Brown lo's far short of lending Carter his formidable political talents. For example, Jerry Brown, who has embarrassingly dwarfed Carter in their few joint appearances, regretted last Thursday's Democratic fund-raising dinner here, pleading a prior political engagement. In fact, the prior engagement was a reception that Gov. Brown could easily have left early enough to reach the Century Plaza here to introduce Carter.

Likewise, Brown encouraged Carter to endorse Proposition 13, the highly controversial proposal backed by Cesar Chavez's farm workers that will be on the Nov. 2 ballot. Brown's reasoning: if Carter stayed neutral, militant pro-farm worker liberals might "split" Brown and Carter.

Making herself comfortable, Mosel Singley sits under a tree just outside the business district of Port Gibson, Miss., where blacks are boycotting merchants. The latest picketing started when a state court awarded local businesses over a million dollars in damages in a 1967 boycott.

Port Gibson boycott rages despite suit

PORT GIBSON, Miss. (AP) — For 12 white merchants who won a $1.2-million judgment against a black boycott, the future holds dreams of prosperity, but the present is a time of more economic hardship. The merchants hope the courts eventually will force the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) to pay the judgment. But, meanwhile, blacks have clamped another boycott on Port Gibson's small but normally busy main street in retaliation for the legal fight.

W.P. Gordon, mayor of this town of 3,000 persons, says he doubts the merchants will ever see a dime of the judgment. U.S. District Court Judge Orma Smith is expected to rule Thursday on one facet of the legal fight — whether the NAACP must put up a $1.56-million bond in order to file an appeal to the state Supreme Court. Under state law, a loser who wants to block collection while carrying on the legal fight must post bond to cover judgment and costs. Actually, there are 129 other losers in the case, but only the NAACP could possibly raise that kind of money.

James R. Perry tapped to be bank director

FORT WORTH — James R. Perry of Odessa was elected a director of First National Bank of Fort Worth today and is expected to become president of the bank about April 1, 1977.

Perry, chairman and president of State National Bank of Odessa, was elected to the directorship at a regularly scheduled meeting of the board of directors.

First National's chairman, Paul Mason, said Perry will continue to direct the activities of the Odessa bank during the transitional period before coming to Fort Worth and he will remain its chairman.

State National is a member of First United Bancorporation, a $1.03 billion multi-bank holding company. First National of Fort Worth is the lead bank in the corporation.

"We consider this a promotion from within. Jim Perry will bring to First of Fort Worth the same sound banking professionalism which has made his Odessa bank such a strong element in First United Bancorporation. Furthermore, his personal characteristics and community consciousness eminently qualify him to contribute importantly to our city as well as to the bank," Mason said.

Trustees tend school business

Greenwood school trustees met Tuesday night in their regular meeting to handle routine financial matters.

The trustees have scheduled a special meeting for 6 p.m. Thursday in the board room at Greenwood High School. At that time, they will accept bid for demolition of the present elementary school and discuss plans for a new elementary school and other construction with the district's architect.

School data collection put off

WASHINGTON — The White House has quietly moved to delay for another year the collection of nationwide public school information considered essential to the government's enforcement of many anti-discrimination laws.

Civil rights forces, calling the move by the White House Office of Management and Budget "an outrage," met for more than an hour with OMB officials Tuesday to protest the action.

Marian Wright Edelman, director of the Children's Defense Fund, said after the meeting that OMB officials had made clear the decision was not final, but they made it equally clear that there has been no decision yet to go ahead with the surveys, which must be done immediately.

The rights forces fear that another year's delay in the data-collection process could postpone serious enforcement of laws affecting women, the handicapped and minority students until the early 1980s.

State and local school officials, on the other hand, have long complained about the costs and other burdens of collecting the civil rights information.

The unannounced OMB move, disclosed in an Oct. 5 letter to the Health, Education and Welfare Department, would affect two major surveys of elementary and secondary schools, one of which had been postponed last year.

One of the surveys, which is new this year and which is aimed at all 16,000 school districts in the nation, requires data that would aid the government in combatting sex bias and discrimination toward physically and mentally handicapped students.

At present, HEW relies almost entirely on individual complaints to identify violations in these areas.

The second school-by-school survey, aimed at 3,000 districts that contain about 90 per cent of the country's minority students, is a revision of an earlier questionnaire which the government last December said it would delay sending out for a year. HEW's Office for Civil Rights told state school officials then that it still would require them to maintain records for 1975 so they could answer the questionnaire this year.

This would require information on such subjects as dropouts and student discipline, corporal punishment and alternatives to suspending minority students.

HEW also notified school officials last December that the new information on female and handicapped pupils would be required.

However, in its Oct. 5 letter, the White House Office of Management and Budget cited the lack of sufficient notice given to school officials and the requirement to include last year's data as prime reasons for the new delay.

"If this type of data can be produced at all," the letter said, "it can only be obtained through excessive burden on respondents who were not advised of the requirement in time to maintain the required records."

In a telegram sent to President Ford last week, the Children's Defense Fund called the move "an outrage" and a "complete abdication" of a federal responsibility to fight school discrimination.

Representatives of the fund, the National Coalition for Women and Girls in Education and other groups were among those who met Tuesday with Ferdinand Oaxaca, OMB's association director for management and operations.

After the meeting, Oaxaca confirmed that the OMB letter did not represent a final decision in the dispute. That ruling, he said, would be made within several days.

The rights forces said they are worried about such factors as the long time it takes school districts to file the reports and the fact that it takes a year to compile all of them. These factors delay their use by government officials to enforce students' rights.

A children's Defense Fund analysis forecasts that, if the surveys are postponed this year, it may be "the early 1980s before there can be effective enforcement" of laws barring discrimination against women and the handicapped.

Director speaks to club about Girlstown

The Twentieth Century Study Club held its regular monthly meeting in the Midland Woman's Club, with Mrs. Jack C. Howard presiding. Mrs. W. S. Dill led the club collect.

The program was on home life, in this case, a home for girls. Mrs. Robert Burkett introduced the speaker, Marshall Cooper, executive director of Girlstown, U.S.A. at Whiteface. After slides were shown, Cooper gave an informative talk on the facility. He answered questions following this.

Girlstown, U.S.A. became possible in 1949 when 1425 acres of the famous Slaughter ranch were donated for that purpose. This campus and their two newer ones have housed 1,200 girls in 27 years of operation. The girls come in all sizes and ages and from all areas of the United States.

There is one staff member or case worker, to every eight children so it can be run as much like family life as possible. The girls are cared for until they reach the legal age of 18. The staff then assists them to enter college, if desired, to find employment and aids them into becoming responsible citizens.

Girlstown at Whiteface has now 64 residents. In 1967 a second campus was made available at Borger, with 25 residents. A third campus was opened at Austin in 1970, with a capacity of 30 girls. The residents of these two campuses need smaller groups and special care.

When asked what an individual or club can do in a small way, Cooper answered "used clothing." With so many to outfit, this is the only solution, he said. Cooper has worked with youth since his graduation from Sam Houston State University. He is past president of the Texas State Juvenile Officers Association.

City insurance women to attend state confab

Five members of the Insurance Women of Midland, which is affiliated with the Federation of Insurance Women of Texas, will attend Thursday through Sunday the federation's annual convention at Austin.

Midlanders who will participate are Mrs. Charles Campanella, Mrs. Clarence Grant, Mrs. Jack Cook, Mrs. O. J. Puckett and Mrs. Carl Crawford. Mrs. Campanella and Mrs. Grant are past presidents of the federation.

The Insurance Women of Austin will host the 32nd session at the Austin Hilton Inn, the theme of the confab being "Revolution in Insurance — Past, Present and Future." This week has been designated Insurance Women of Texas Week by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

LaVernne Williams of Lubbock is the current president of the federation, which was founded in Dallas June 2, 1944. Objectives of the federation at the time of organization was the building and mainting of greater efficiency through study and practice, of establishing acquaintances with women having mutual interests through social and business meetings and to collectively participate in a worthwhile manner to the civic betterment of the community and through unselfish service to week to elevate the standards of the insurance profession.

MAXINE MAYSE of Odessa, Ector County extension agent, will receive the 1976 Distinguished Service Award at a meeting of the National Association of Extension Home Economists Monday through Friday at Portland, Ore.

Children learn by shopping

COLLEGE STATION — Parents who involve children in shopping are teaching them management skills—necessary lessons that should continue throughout childhood, according to Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Shopping with children is an ideal time to teach about money. Helping children learn how to plan with money is important training for adult living. Having an active part in the family financial planning provides actual experience in making decisions and seeing plans carried out," she added.

Extent of involvement and type of participation by children in planning and spending money will naturally vary according to the ages of the children. However, participation and responsibilities can begin in the preschool years and continue until young adulthood, this specialist said. "School-age children can gain experience in handling the money allotted for school lunches, milk and other expenses. Children should always be told what their money, or allowance, is expected to cover.

"They also can benefit by sitting in on family discussions of larger matters of family financial planning, such as the purchase of a new home or new car."

She explained that participation in such decisions gives children an understanding of the costs of operating a household and factors considered in reaching financial decisions.

"As a youth's wants and needs increase as he grows older, he will have a better understanding of how he must fit his needs into the family's total financial plan.

Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. slate fall confab at El Paso

EL PASO — Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., will hold its 49th fall convention here Tuesday through Thursday, with "Your Place in the Sun" theme for sessions at the Sheraton El Paso Motor Inn, 11155 Gateway West.

Mountain Plains District IX clubs with Mrs. C. F. Robison, director, will be hosts with Mrs. Franklin J. Kitchen and Mrs. Jimmie Emmona of El Paso, chairmen.

Mrs. Lee Coil, Lubbock, president of the state organization with nearly 29,000 members in 1100 garden clubs, says working sessions will provide time for reports, plans and workshops. Special guests will include Mrs. Vernon L. Conner of Florida.

president of National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc., and Mrs. Clifton Powell of Arkansas, regional director.

Official sessions for trustees, finance and executive committees will begin Tuesday, followed by a pre-convention dinner and board of directors meeting.

The national president and regional director will speak at the Wednesday morning business session, followed by a luncheon and program entitled "Sunny Hang-ups", featuring hanging baskets by Mrs. Bryl H. Burdick Jr. of El Paso. Mrs. Grady Starnes of Dallas heads workshops in the afternoon, conducted by Mrs. C. J. Montgomery of Houston and Mrs. G. W. Basham of Odessa. Mrs. G. Browning Smith of Harlingen will discuss "American Land Trust," the two-year national project designed to secure and protect America's ecologically significant natural areas.

Mrs. John M. Ewald will give the artistic design program, "Day Dreams," at the evening dinner.

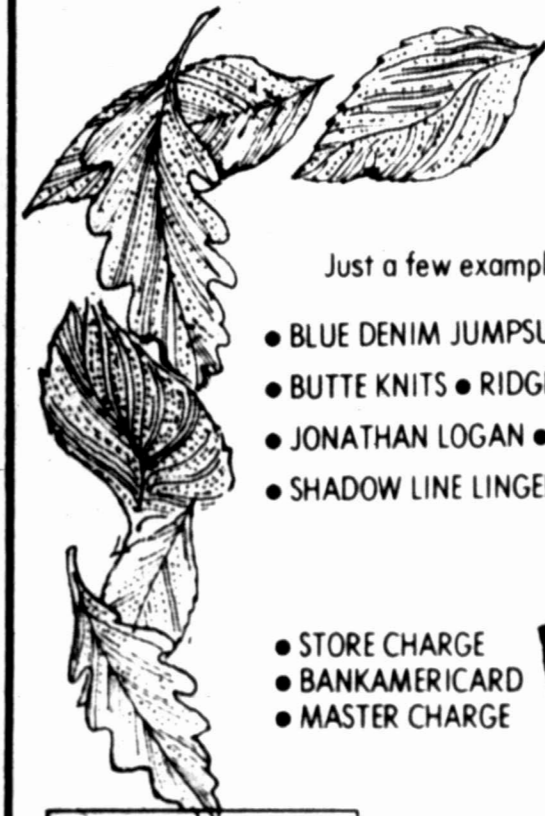

Thursday morning's horticulture breakfast program will be "Wind-Water-Sun-Soil-Food", a mini-vegetable gardening idea for home and patio by Dr. William S. Peavy, area horticulturist for Texas A&M University.

Following the business session and election of officers for 1977-79, a bus tour will be made to the Chamizal National Monument. A luncheon with the theme "Let's Be Amigos" will conclude the convention, followed by a tour of the greenhouses and landscapes of the Juarez track, tour of Embassy and other homes and shopping at the Juarez market.

Halloween explained

Halloween, formerly All Hallow's Eve, is a combination of pagan and religious celebrations. It celebrates the return from death of spirits in the form of witches, cats and goblins the night before All Saints' Day, Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says.

THE WINE DRINKER

California product selected over French wines in a tasting

By TOM GABLE
Copley News Service

How does the owner of a tiny California winery react when Time magazine announces that his Cabernet Sauvignon has just been selected ahead of some of the great wines of France in a blind tasting held in France?

"I got on the phone to the wine writers to let them know the magazine listed the wrong vintage," said Warren Winiarski, a former teacher whose Napa Valley winery, Stag's Leap Wine Cellars, was suddenly catapulted into the news. "It had somehow been reported to be the 1972 vintage Cabernet Sauvignon but it was really the 1973, which was better. And the 1974, we feel, is better than the 1973."

The 1972 Stag's Leap Wine Cellars' Cabernet Sauvignon had been a winner of its own in blind tastings. The 1973 was, indeed, even better. In the now-famous tasting in France, the 1973 finished ahead of the 1970 Mouton-Rothschild, the 1970 Haut Brion, the 1970 Chateau Montrose and the 1971 Chateau Leoville-las-Cases. Most of the tasters said it was French in style and were surprised when it was revealed to be a California wine that once sold for $6 a bottle, compared to $15 and up for Mouton, depending upon where you bought it.

"We do several things in the traditional method," said Winiarski, who is assisted in the family operation by his wife and three children. "But one of our greatest assets is the land; we believe we have an ideal microclimate and geology for making fine Cabernet Sauvignon."

Winiarski was an instructor in a Midwestern school before moving to California. He underwent his wine-making apprenticeship with Lee Stewart, who made fabulous wines at the old Sovereign property he once owned in the Napa Valley, and later with Robert Mondavi, who is making excellent wines of his own.

"I wanted my own winery but waited until I could find the right property," said Winiarski, a short, bookish man who looks like a former instructor or professor.

Winiarski rounds out his Cabernet Sauvignon with Merlot, in much the same manner as wine makers do in France. His three successive vintages — 1972, 1973 and 1974 — have an underlying similarity caused by the Stag's Leap soil and microclimate and the Winiarski approach to wine making.

All have a good medium-full Cabernet color.

The background aroma has several components: a light mintiness, the rich smell of very ripe Cabernet Sauvignon grapes, a slight hint of oak aging and a certain spiciness. The wines are made to be drunk young and not aged for years because of the Winiarski philosophy.

"I make my wines for the palate, not for the cellar," said Winiarski.

Marital mix-up entertains group

A Guest Day brunch was held at Ranchland Hill Country Club by the Permian Basin Geological-Geophysical Auxiliary.

Mrs. W. F. Pennebaker and Charles Dixon gave a play reading of a current British comedy. They read parts for five characters involved in a sophisticated marital mix-up.

Pumpkins with humorous painted faces, pyracantha berries and orange and black crepe paper decorated the tables. The hostesses, dressed in black and wearing witches' hats, carried out the Halloween theme.

Co-chairmen for the brunch were Mrs. Patrick Mackey and Mrs. Delmer Woods. Hostesses were Mrs. Earl Gaertner, Mrs. James K. Hartman, Mrs. Richard Mendenhall, Mrs. H. Jeff Noble, Mrs. Robert N. Watson, Mrs. Charles L. West and Mrs. Bud Wilson.

Membership prize was won by Mrs. Charles L. West and Mrs. Leroy Esterak was recipient of the special prize.

Ninety-eight members and guests attended. New members joining were Mrs. John William Isom, Mrs. Harry J. Briscoe, Mrs. H. Luis Lee Jr., Mrs. Charles N. Pruitt, Mrs. Jack C.

Cartwright and Mrs. Larry Wollschlager.

The auxiliary's next meeting in November will be a luncheon and style show.

DEAR ABBY

She agrees to loan sister her mate

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I have always been very close. She has a fine husband with whom she has a most happy marriage. I am a widow, 50, my sister is 53 and her husband is 52.

For the last two years, I have felt that my heart was breaking for lack of love from a man. My nerves are terribly strained, and the doctor advised me to get a man.

My sister says she cannot stand by and do nothing to help me, so she has agreed to lend me her husband, who is most agreeable to cooperating with us.

My sister says she would share her food to keep me from starving, and sees little difference in this instance.

The only thing that bothers me is wondering if God would sympathize with my plight and condone such a plan. We are all good Christians and attend church regularly. Please base your answer on a practical basis as well as a religious one. Yours in Christ.—NEEDS A MAN

DEAR NEEDS: As a church-going Christian, surely you know that borrowing another woman's husband (even for therapeutic reasons) is inconsistent with God's laws. Since you so desperately want a man, find your own. Sharing a husband might provide short-term relief but long-term disaster.

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column a while back from a woman who said everytime she got pregnant, her husband started drinking. My problem is just the opposite. Everytime my husband starts drinking, I get pregnant.

I love kids, but we've got just about all we can handle right now.

Don't tell me to use birth control. I've tried several methods, and they don't work for me.

You keep saying that a wife shouldn't turn her husband away when he wants sex because that gives him an excuse to find another woman. So what do you recommend?—ENOUGH KIDS

DEAR ENOUGH: Planned Parenthood for Y.O.U. Alcoholics Anonymous for HIM and self-control for both of you!

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a policeman, so I'd like to comment on the letter from the Passaic policeman's wife who said she hated her husband's work.

Being a policeman's wife is not easy. I worry about him being killed in the line of duty. There are lonely nights when I wish he were at home with me and the baby. He works hard and has very little time off. After duty hours, he's in court, on the telephone or exarinating those arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

But my husband is happy in his work, even though policemen are sometimes called "fuzz,"

"the heat" or "pigs." And TV, too, has pictured them as super-cops, trigger-happy fools or even robots.

I'm proud to be the wife of a policeman. When someone calls my husband a "pig," I take it as a compliment because in our family "pig" is short for "Professional Integrity and Guts!" My policeman needs love, patience and support from his wife—and from family—and from society.—Sign me, "MRS. PIG" DEAR MRS. PIG: ALL policemen do.

Cancer test volunteers scarce

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Lung Program was set up in 1974 to determine whether periodic examinations of men who feel healthy could detect lung cancer early enough to improve the survival rate. But it is running up against an unexpected obstacle — a deficiency of suitable volunteers, reports Dr. Myron R. Melamed, chief of cytology at Memorial Hospital here and local director of the program.

"To be statistically meaningful the program must follow 30,000 men — 10,000 at each of three hospitals — over a 5-10 year period, but it has still not reached that target."

The program is receiving $13 million from the National Cancer Institute. The participating hospitals are Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York City; Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.; and Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

Volunteers must be men over 45 years old who smoke at least one pack of cigarettes daily. The program has confined itself to these men because, as a group, they have the highest risk of lung cancer in the total population, Dr. Melamed said.

All volunteers are given comprehensive annual chest x-rays at no cost. Because the special x-ray machine used develops the pictures on-the-spot, additional pictures can be taken from different angles immediately if any abnormality is perceived.

Half of the volunteers are also given a sputum test and are asked to mail in sputum samples twice a year.

"Memorial has enlisted volunteers through TV and radio publicity, newspaper ads and direct mailing. But it is still a long way from its goal of 10,000-12,000 volunteers," Dr.

Melamed said.

"To date we have diagnosed 61 cancer cases among 6,600 volunteers at Memorial — twice as many as we expected. But nearly all of them can be treated by curative surgery. And we think we can boost the survival rate from 8 per cent to anywhere from 50 to 80 per cent."

"Since the program is a free service and requires only one 30-minute visit per year, we're surprised that more men haven't volunteered," said Dr. Melamed, who emphasized that the vast majority of volunteers will never get lung cancer.

Two-train railroad maintains feisty track record

CARRIZO GORGE, Calif. (AP) — The Midwest railroad chugs merrily on, making money while big ones fold, laughing back at the boys who throw rocks at it and winking at danger.

The danger is there to see: rockslides that once sent a whole train plunging 900 feet into Carrizo Gorge, treacherous mountain winds and washouts.

In 1916, a broken dam southeast of San Diego deluged another train with its water, burying the engine completely in mud.

This is the feisty little San Diego & Arizona Eastern, a two-train feeder line of the Southern Pacific and a 70-year-old tribute to man's conquest of a corner of the West.

The cargoes carried by No. 451 and No. 452 produced $3.6 million in freight business last year. They carry aerial antennas for Charleston, S.C., empty beer bottles bound for the Coors Brewery in Golden, Colo., and furniture for San Francisco.

The problems of embargoes and accumulation of cargo at ports elsewhere brought new business this summer — wheat destined for overseas. A total of 171 carloads of wheat got to bulk cargo ships in San Diego Harbor in June and about that much again in July.

At present, San Diego & Arizona Eastern is spending between $200,000 and $300,000 over last year's revenues to spruce up its track over 171 miles and pay regular operating costs.

A revenue peak of $3,943,000 was reported in 1974, but in modern times its lowest revenue year was 1967 when $3,080,000 came in.

The U.S. government, by contrast, formed Conrail this year from seven minor and seven major lines in the East, including the Reading, the old New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads beset by financial distress. Their problems stemmed from something unknown to the San Diego & Arizona Eastern — too much trackage over rights of way, soaring maintenance costs and Interstate Commerce Commission requirements to keep money-losing passenger trains in operation.

Passenger service on the San Diego & Arizona Eastern ended in 1951, 45 years after the railroad was chartered by John D. Spreckels, son of sugar magnate Claus Spreckels.

Predicting a golden future in bilingual trade with Mexico,

Spreckels spent $18 million for track and built 23 tunnels — $4 million of that alone for 17 tunnels in the brutal Carrizo Gorge in eastern San Diego County.

The tortuous route soared from the coastal floor to an altitude of 3,860 feet, then plunged back to 49 feet below sea level. In 1970, an agreement with Mexican National Railway turned over the 43 miles of track and three stations in Baja, Calif., for $320,000 while the railroad was allowed to continue use of the route.

"Wetbacks try to ride us over the border almost every day," says one of the conductors, Richard Henrikson.

"They hide everywhere — in empty freight cars, on the roofs, on the roofs, in empty molasses tank cars and sometimes in the engines."

In the engines, a few have been found burned to death. U.S. border officials say they catch the aliens by the time the train swings into the United States at Campo.

An entire train plunged into Carrizo Gorge in 1965, and the broken boxcars and debris of the diesel can be seen still strewn across the floor of the desert dungeon where deer and bobcats play.

Author checks locale

ST. MICHAELS, Md. (AP) — "I never write, ever, without intimate knowledge of an area," author James Michener said on the porch of a home he has rented here to work on a new novel.

The choice of this small Eastern shore town as a place to live and work was a matter of chance, Michener explained, but his reason for being here is anything but haphazard.

The book he is now researching is similar to others that he has written, he said, in the sense that it will use a geographical area as its core, a center around which plot and characters will revolve.

The core of this time will be the Chesapeake Bay, the world's largest estuarine sanctuary, a huge geographical, biological and geological entity more than worthy of the monumental themes apparent in Michener's other works such as "The Source," "Hawaii," and "Centennial."

Michener, dressed in shorts and T-shirt, admitted the Bay was his subject, but cautioned that this admission was the only one he would specifically make about the book.

"I never talk about what I'm actually doing," he said. "I don't ever write about anything that I haven't known for a long time. I lived in Colorado for six years and visited it for two two-year periods before I wrote 'Centennial.'"

"I worked with 20 of the best geologists in the country during that period. By the end I was pretty knowledgeable about the area, but not really by my own efforts," he said.

The author went on to explain that he relies on experts for much of his information about an area, saying "Every week of my life I contact people who know more than I do."

He noted that his subject, the Bay, had not until recently commanded the scientific attention that other great areas of the country had.

"Now we are getting a stunning group of experts. Belatedly you're going to have a superior body of knowledge here," he said.

Nor has the Chesapeake Bay been the subject of great American storytelling to date, anything similar to Mark Twain's mythological treatment of the Mississippi River never having been written.

And yet the Bay has always been as teeming with life, folklore, culture and history as Nathaniel Hawthorne's New England, Sinclair Lewis' Midwest or William Faulkner's Deep South.

Michener has explanations for both the lack of scientific interest in the Bay and the absence of a fictional heritage for the area.

"The Mississippi River has been under study for at least 30 years. The heavy economic pressure (on that waterway) created a demand for scholarship," he speculated.

While the Bay is of critical importance to its three surrounding states, it is not the lifeline of half a continent, he explained.

"A literary heritage of the Chesapeake hasn't been created, I think, because it is divided between the three states. Also, the rest of Maryland has always seemed to be engaged in a fight against the cultural greatness of Baltimore," Michener said.

While the diversity of the Bay may have denied it cultural recognition to date, such will not be the case for too much longer. The Chesapeake is a natural monument, the world's largest estuarine sanctuary, a body of water formed by the meeting of river currents and ocean tides that have always teamed with life.

Winters, droughts kill town

DUNDEE, Tex. (AP) — It wasn't many years ago that this North Central Texas town headquartered a regional cattle shipping office, was the site of elaborate Eastern-financed farming ventures and boasted more than 30 businesses.

But blistering droughts forced farmers off the land; icy, bitter winters drove cattlemen into bankruptcy; the Depression claimed the bank and fires got most of the tinder-like buildings.

"You could go to Dundee and buy anything you could in Wichita Falls," recalled John Lyles, 85, one of few farmers who still work the fields in Archer County.

The land now belongs to the mesquite trees. The hated scrub brush has overgrown lots formerly platted for big business, and decay has ridged once-proud mansions along residential dirt roads. Only a post office and a store remain.

David Williams, 51, whose grandfather came to the area from the East in 1890, related, "There were bad droughts in 1911, '17, '18, '34, '39 and all through the 50s. At one time, nearly the whole country was farmland, but dry weather took them (the farmers) all out."

The trains that regularly hauled precious water to Dundee also brought an influx of Eastern settlers who "didn't know how to farm dry country," Williams related.

"They had steam tractors and attempted fabulous enterprises, and if they had known the correct technique, the country never would have gone back to the mesquites."

Recalling when Dundee was a cattle shipping headquarters for a large area of North Central Texas, Lyles recalled, "Two or three days worth of cattle were held in loading chutes," he said. "They loaded them day and night—they didn't just have carloads, but trainloads of them." But the aspring cattle barons succumbed to the vicious winters.

In the winter of 1902, Lyles explained, the Club Cattle Co., which owned thousands of acres in Archer County, bought 15,000 cattle. "It rained and froze all winter and the company turned in its surviving 5,000 cattle to the bank," said Lyles. "The others lay dead in piles."

As the treacherous weather took its toll, Dundee slowly disappeared. The bank, both hotels, tractor and car agencies, drugstores, saloons, three grocery stores, filling stations and the school were boarded up and the train finally quit stopping.

"Most of the buildings here burned down," said Lyles. "We only had water buckets. We had no way to fight fire."

Williams added, "In 1943, a garage, Masonic lodge, cafe, dwelling and boarding house all burned in one fire. I was on a bucket brigade. We saved one house a block away."

Study links alcoholism to heredity

NEW YORK (AP) — University of North Carolina laboratory researchers say they have accumulated evidence "linking alcoholism — and the likelihood of becoming an alcoholic — to a hereditary, biological factor."

The studies show subjects with higher levels of a naturally occurring blood enzyme — DBH — get a greater "lift" from alcohol, and therefore drink more than persons with lower levels of the enzyme. The DBH level in each individual is relatively stable and is related to the person's genetic background, say the researchers.

Redlegs having last laugh on Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — "The designated hitter is still a joke to baseball."

So spoke Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson.

He, Dan Driessen and the rest of the Reds are laughing all the way toward their second straight World Series championship.

Anderson hates the DH, an American League innovation in which a batter hits for the pitcher each time the pitcher's turn comes up.

It had never been employed in a World Series until this year, when it was foisted upon this October classic by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Driessen, the first and thus far only DH in the National League, ramed a home run and two other hits Tuesday night in firing the Reds to a 6-2 victory over the New York Yankees. Cincinnati now has a seemingly unbeatable 3-0 lead in this best-of-seven series.

The Reds can wrap it up tonight—unless Yankee righthander Ed Figueroa or the weather can slow down the careening Big Red Machine. Gary Nolan, also a right-hander, will start for the Reds, bidding to become the first NL team since the 1921-22 New York Giants to win the World Series in successive years.

Rain has been forecast for tonight's fourth game. Billy Martin, the Yanks' feisty manager looking for a way to break the Reds' momentum, was asked if a delay might help achieve that end.

"Nah," he replied. "A postponement wouldn't do a thing for us now. It would've helped us before the Series began."

This series would seem to be virtually over. As Thurman Munson, the Yanks' catcher muttered: "If we've been trying to make them overconfident, we've reached our limit."

When someone pointed out that no team in the previous 72 World Series had come back from a 3-0 deficit, Martin said: "Listen, we're no quitters. I'm not a quitter and my guys aren't quitters. We've come back before and we plan to come back again. We'll be out there fighting all the way. They'll still have to beat us...But I must admit we're not in a very good position."

Beating the Yanks is all the Reds have been doing so far. They did all they had to do Tuesday night with a three-run burst in the second inning against Dock Ellis. And it was Driessen who started it all with an infield single off Ellis' glove.

He stole second and came home when George Foster pumped a one-bounce ground-rule double over the right-center field fence.

Johnny Bench followed with another infield single, this one off Chris Chambliss' glove at first. Cesar Geronimo's forecourt grounder scored Foster to make it 2-0. Then Geronimo swiped second and came in on Dave Concepcion's single to left.

"Bloop hits, that's all we've been seeing," Martin moaned, picking up on his alibi of the first two games. "Bloopers, bloopers and more bloopers."

The next time Driessen batted he didn't exactly bloop the ball. He drove it hard and long, about 400 feet into the rightcenter field stands for a 4-0 Cincinnati lead.

Did those two diverse hits by Driessen, and the wasted two-out double he stroked in the sixth inning, change Anderson's view of the DH? "I'm more convinced now than ever that the DH has no place in baseball," he said. "It's not right to send up a big bomber for the pitcher. It's a joke to baseball. The pitcher is a part of this game."

Then would he consider sending a pitcher to bat in view of the Reds'?

Dorsett gains top AP honors

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Down to a walk-on quarterback, Pitt's nationally second-ranked football team naturally turned to Tony Dorsett to carry the ball—down the field and in the huddle.

Dorsett ran for 227 yards and three touchdowns Saturday in a 36-19 victory over Miami, Fla., that kept Pitt undefeated after six games, despite the loss of two veteran quarterbacks. The Heisman Trophy hopeful even helped call the plays.

"Under the circumstances, I'd say this was his greatest game ever at Pitt," said Coach John Majors of the performance that earned Dorsett the honor today as The Associated Press' Back of the Week for the second time this season.

"He might have had more yards on other days, but what he did Saturday was outstanding," said Majors.

Dorsett, averaging 145 yards per game rushing this season, has run for more than 100 yards in 14 straight games. He is 108 yards short of being the first player in the history of college football to rush for 1,000 yards in four consecutive years.

But more importantly, Dorsett is only 152 yards shy of Archie Griffin's major college rushing record of 5,177 yards. And he is 15 carries short of being the greatest collegiate workhorse.

He also is pretty good in the huddle. Dorsett overruled third-string, non-scholarship quarterback Tom Yewic and called a screen pass that developed into a 40-yard touchdown run against Miami.

"We were going to run something else," said Yewic, who replaced Bob Haygood and Matt Cavanaugh, both on crutches. "But Tony said, run the screen because they're giving us a great rush."

"So we called the screen and Tony took it all the way. I just stood back and watched him. He's amazing."

For his part, Dorsett was modest when credited with keying the hobbled offense to what he described as a must victory. And he was at first blase about being named back of the week.

"You know I feel good about any award," Dorsett said after practice Tuesday. "But an award is an award."

Recovering his dignity when he realized that a tape recorder was running, Dorsett said: "The AP Back of the Week Award is something I take pride in because there are many outstanding backs in the country."

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lee Roy Jordan's complaints about the blocking tactics of Conrad Dobler have fallen on deaf ears.

"I have no hard feelings about Lee Roy," an imperturbed Dobler said Tuesday. "I'll do the exact same things as I did before only hit him harder."

Jordan, the middle linebacker for the Dallas Cowboys, voiced his protest following a 21-17 loss Sunday to the St. Louis Cardinals in an important National Football League game.

But Dobler, the Cards' 255-pound right guard, immediately denied charges he blocked Jordan illegally from behind or had tackled him.

"I just got through reviewing the films," Dobler said of the bitter struggle between the National Conference East co-leaders.

"He just got the heck blocked out of him," Dobler contended. "With some of the situations he got himself into he's probably lucky to be walking."

Jordan, now in his 14th pro season, said he will complain to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and ask that Dobler's tactics be monitored more closely by officials.

"If he wants to take me to Rozelle I'll be more than happy to have him," Dobler said. "His griping has no place in professional football."

"He was hit from behind but in a legitimate zone," Dobler said, referring to the distance within three yards of the line of scrimmage.

"I think Lee Roy is believing that the only way he can get blocked is to get tackled. What the heck's the big deal if I did tackle him? I'm trying to get a block off on a linebacker and he's grabbing my face mask."

OBSEVATIONS

Four-team race in District 5-4A

By BOB DILLON

The 1978 schoolboy football season heads into the seventh weekend and in the District 5-4A race, Odessa Permian, Odessa, Abilene and the Robert E. Lee Rebels are all in the thick of things.

in 5-4A and wound up hitting 32 of 40 for an 80 per cent for the week. On the year, the record reads 200 right and 32 wrong for a percentage of 86.2.

MIDLAND HIGH takes on the San Angelo Central Bobcats in Memorial Stadium. Central was picked behind Permian in the 5-4A race and still has a good ball club, but must face the fiveyear jinx against Midland schools. Going with the Purple Pack to post a narrow 21-16 victory Friday night...

ROBERT E. LEE faces the hapless Big Spring Steers on the road Friday night. The Maroon Platoon may be looking ahead to Odessa Permian, but it won't make any difference. Lee to take 42-6 victory over the Steers...

ODESSA HIGH faces the quick and speedy Abilene High Eagles in P.E. Shotwell Stadium Friday and it will be a severe task for the Bronchos. Going to go with the Warbirds to post big 5-4A upset over OHS, say 28-22...

ODESSA PERMIAN is at home

Friday against the Abilene Cooper Cougars. Cooper is off to its poorest start in recent years, but still has some talent. The Black Cats should prevail, but it will be a good game. Mojo 28, Cooper 14...

IN OTHER GAMES across the state, El Paso Coronado will take care of El Paso Andress; Austin to whip El Paso Jefferson; Burges to romp past Bowie's Bears; El Paso over Irvin; Eastwood to polish off Ysleta High; Amarillo to win fifth straight over...

Stonewall Brigade tries Steers here

Robert E. Lee's Stonewall Brigade junior varsity football team takes on the Big Spring JVs at 7 p.m. Thursday in Memorial Stadium while Midland High's Bullpups don't play until 1:30 p.m. Saturday in San Angelo.

Lee, with a 2-3-1 season record and District 5-4A mark of 0-2-1, faces a Steer team which is 1-5-0 and 0-3-0. The Bullpups, meanwhile, stand 4-2-0 on the year and are 1-2-0 in loop play while San Angelo is 2-3-1 and 0-2-1.

Odessa Permian's JV is the only undefeated team left with a perfect 6-0-0 mark and is 3-0-0 in district. The Black Cats face Cooper in Abilene Saturday while OHS which is 5-1-0 and 3-0-0, plays Abilene in Odessa Saturday. Both Abilene and Cooper are 5-1 on the year and both Key City teams are 2-1 in loop action. Last week, Permian split its squad, beating the Big Spring JV, 42-0 and then took a 7-0 win over the Snyder sophomores while Abilene blanked Midland, 22-0 and Lee lost to Cooper, 7-0. OHS edged past San Angelo, 14-12.

Tech exes set meeting

The Midland chapter of the Texas Tech Exes will meet tonight at 7:30 in Coors Hospitality Room.

Coach Bob Patterson, an assistant coach at Tech, will be the guest speaker. Highlights of the Tech-Texas A&M game will also be shown.

Even Joe DiMaggio impressed with Cincinnati

NEW YORK (AP) — Even the great Joe DiMaggio was impressed. "A hell of a team," the Yankee Clipper remarked after watching the Cincinnati Reds pummel the New York Yankees 6-2 to grab a 3-0 game lead in the World Series. "They do everything," he added. "They hit the ball. From the top of the order to the bottom, they can hurt you. They run. They are tough in the field. "Maybe they could use a little better pitching, but who are we to say? So far, it's been sufficient." The handsome, graying Hall of Famer, whose name became synonymous with center field in Yankee Stadium, had the honor of throwing out the first ball Tuesday night. Then he settled back to watch the Big Red Machine grind up the proud men in pinstripes and spit them on the natural turf of the $100 million revamped ball park. Ralph Kiner, the former Pittsburgh home run slugger and a National League, had been quoted as saying the present Cincinnati baseball juggernaut is superior to any of the great Yankee teams he had seen in his day, including those for whom DiMaggio played. "You can't compare eras," he said. "Connie Mack once said baseball changes every 15 years. I agree. This is not the same game I played. "The gloves are bigger. The equipment is better. But the biggest difference is in the artificial turf. In my day, the emphasis was on the big inning. We went for the long ball. Now speed is the thing. "The reason is Astro-Turf. That's what you saw at the Reds' park, Riverfront Stadium. I think there are six teams in the National League playing on the stuff. "You saw what happened at Cincinnati. When a ball was hit, it flew like a rifle shot. Balls hit to the outfield that would have been held to singles on regular turn went for triples. "Take the ninth inning of the second game. This kid, Griffey (Ken Griffey, Reds' right fielder), hit a high bouncer to shortstop and wound up at second base. It was scored a two-base error but it was his speed that set up the play. "They tell me he has beaten out 37 or 38 infield hits this year. That could never have happened when I was playing."

DiMaggio's favorites on the Cincinnati team are Joe Morgan, the second baseman, and scrappy Pete Rose at third. "Morgan's statistics are really impressive," he said of the National League's Most Valuable Player last year. He hits the ball well enough to be an outfielder. He is a great fielder. He does everything well. "DiMaggio had to stop to catch his breath when he began talking about Rose. "A real hustling ball player, never gives an inch," he said. "A battler, fights for every edge. He's a hard out—a hard out at bat and a hard out in the field." The Clipper, a Yankee partisan, declined to enter any controversy on the relative merits of great baseball teams. He also soft-pedaled his own exploits—46 homers and 167 runs in 1937, when the Yankees became the first to win straight World Series, and his feat of hitting in 56 consecutive games in 1941. "Those old Yankee teams didn't lack for speed," he said, "it was just that they didn't need it. The big thing was home run output. "I know, in the Coast League, I had 24 and 25 basestealing attempts a season. Ben Chapman, Jake Powell, George Selkirk—they could run. They never had to. And I never heard anybody say Mickey Mantle was slow." DiMaggio also praised the Yankees, saying they were a team that just seemed to jell into a winning combination. "Look at guys like Mickey Rivers and Chris Chambliss—they had terrific years. It was a team that hustled, made its breaks and took advantage of them. They deserve a lot of credit." A baseball purist, DiMaggio expressed regret that the game had found it necessary because of television dollars to spread its season and play night games in weather more suitable for ice hockey. "We always dreaded cold weather," he said. "I remember those exhibition games in April before the season started, we played in near-freezing weather at times. It isn't fair to the players and it isn't fair to the fans. "But money dictates." Discussing other controversial matters, the Yankee immortal said he was not offended by the designated hitter, an American League move sharply criticized by the Reds' management and other National Leaguers.

Negative double urges further bid

Many of our top tournament players use "negative" doubles where rubber bridge players would use penalty doubles. The tournament player's double urges his partner to bid a new suit instead of asking him to pass and collect a penalty.

In the recent national tournament in Salt Lake City, North's double invited his partner to bid either of the unbid suits. Leonard Jefferson, of Metairie, La., obliged by bidding hearts, whereupon North invited a game by raising to three hearts. Most declarers in the tournament lost a heart, a diamond and two spades. Some of them went down at three hearts when East ruffed the third round of spades.

Jefferson saw the danger of allowing East to lead spades. After taking the ace of clubs and returned the jack of diamonds to make sure that only West could win the trick. (Actually, even a low diamond would have worked, since West had the ten.)

TRUMP RETURN

West won the diamond and returned a trump. Jefferson put up dummy's ace, ruffed a diamond to get to his hand, and cashed the high clubs to discard two spades from dummy.

Then he could afford to lead a trump. The defenders could get only one trump, one spade and one diamond. Jefferson's overtrick was worth a very fine tournament score even though he hadn't bid the risky game.

ANSWER: Bid one spade. You have 12 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton, enough for an optional opening bid. You choose to bid rather than pass because you have good high-card structure and excellent intermediates (two tens and two nines).

Immigration hearings on trio accused of war crimes novel

By MARGARET GENTRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nightmare of wartime Europe will be relived in three U.S. courtrooms next month as federal authorities attempt to deport three aging immigrants accused of atrocities against Jews more than 30 years ago.

The hearings before federal immigration judges in New Britain, Conn., Baltimore and New York City will be, in effect, this country's first trials for crimes committed during World War II.

The charges mark a turning point in the government's efforts to track down and deport Nazi war criminals living in the United States.

In these cases and others to come, government lawyers are relying on the memories of Jews who watched in horror as their friends and neighbors were beaten and slain by the hundreds in prisons and concentration camps.

About 20 who escaped the persecution and now live in Israel will be brought to the United States to testify in the three hearings, said Verne Jervis, spokesman for the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The defendants are Bronius Kaminskas, a 73-year-old Lithuanian who lives alone in a $20-a-week room in Hartford, Conn.; Karlis Detlavs, 65, who retired from his timore factory job after losing a leg to cancer three years ago; and Boleslavs Malkovskis, a 72-year-old retired carpenter in Mineola, N.Y.

Kaminskas and Detlavs have told reporters they are innocent of the charges. Malkovskis has refused to see reporters and has made no comment on the charges.

In legal terms, Detlavs and Malkovskis are charged with entering the United States illegally by lying about their wartime activities. Kaminskas, because of a slight difference in the law at the time he entered the country, is charged with being ineligible for U.S. residence because of war crimes.

Though the charges are based on immigration law, the evidence will focus almost entirely on the atrocities the three allegedly committed. Jervis said the only government witnesses against the three will be the Israeli Jews who claim to have seen the murders and beatings.

The defendants, of course, are entitled to be represented by attorneys and to present testimony from witnesses.

The filing of charges was only a single step in what could be years of court hearings. Any of the Nov. 15 hearings could be postponed at the request of the individual involved.

The INS judges could take several weeks to announce their decisions.

The loser, whether it's the defendant or the agency, may appeal to the Board of Immigration Appeals. The defendant, if he loses there, could take the case to the courts and ultimately to the Supreme Court. The agency, however, cannot appeal the board's decision to the courts.

Meantime, INS investigators are gathering evidence in 77 other cases that could lead to deportation orders or lawsuits to strip naturalized Americans of their citizenship.

The agency has announced plans to launch denaturalization proceedings against four accused war criminals but will not identify them until the suits are filed.

Through the 1950s and 1960s, Jervis said, the INS periodically looked into war crimes cases, but no charges were brought and the effort ranked low in priority.

The current effort began three years ago when Leonard F. Chapman took office as INS commissioner and was questioned by the House immigration subcommittee.

"It was clear to him that (the war crimes investigation) was one of the things the subcommittee wanted him to do," Jervis said.

Subcommittee Chairman Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., and member Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., in particular have pushed for a probe. "The interest of the subcommittee was certainly a factor" in raising the effort to a high priority in the agency, Jervis acknowledged.

Eilberg frequently has complained that the agency has taken much too long to bring the first charges.

One explanation, Jervis said, is that "the size and scope and depth of this is something new for this agency. A worldwide investigation is a new experience for us."

There are only three previous cases in which the INS has attempted to deport immigrants for alleged war crimes.

Deportation charges were initiated against Hermione Braunsteiner Ryan of New York City in 1972. During the process, the West German government initiated extradition proceedings. She was extradited to West Germany in August 1973, and is now on trial there for murder.

A deportation case was brought in 1953 against Andrija Artukovic of Seal Beach, Calif., who is wanted in Yugoslavia on charges of murdering thousands of Serbs, Jews and gypsies. Six years later, a federal court commissioner ruled that he could not be returned to Yugoslavia because he was likely to be the target of political persecution there.

"We have sought other countries to deport him to, but Ireland, Switzerland and West Germany have refused to accept him," Jervis said.

Beef prices expected to rise in winter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer beef prices, on the decline for five months, are expected to climb this winter because of a reduction in the cattle supply.

But Agriculture Department experts say they foresee no sharp price increases before next spring. They declined to predict how high above today's $1.35-a-pound average future retail prices will rise.

The number of cattle being fed for slaughter this fall and winter is 6 per cent below the level this time a year ago, as farmers and feedlot operators seek to eliminate the surplus that has been blamed, in part, for low beef prices.

The forecast on beef prices was one of several economic reports issued by the federal government Tuesday. Among the others:

—The number of housing units started in September was the highest in 2 1/2 years. This should cut heavy unemployment in the construction industry and could signal better times ahead for one of the weakest spots in the economy.

—Mortgage rates for buyers of new homes increased for the third straight month, to an average of 9.25 per cent. The average purchase price of a new home rose $900 to $50,000. For a used home, the average was up $500, to $43,300.

—The growth of the Gross National Product during the last three months was below the rate that economists generally agree is necessary to make a significant dent in unemployment. The annual rate was 4 per cent.

—Inflation, as measured by the GNP, was at an annual rate of 4.4 per cent last quarter, down from the 5.2 per cent of the previous three months.

—Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman

Jr. said the Ford administration will revise its own plan, strongly opposed by the trucking industry, that is aimed at cutting consumer prices by increasing competition in the industry.

The Ford administration conceded its disappointment at the relatively small increase in GNP in the September quarter but forecast better times during the current quarter.

Jury tampering alleged

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) —

A juror in the official misconduct trial of Ramiro Carrillo has reported a possible jury tampering incident involving a witness called by the defense but who the defense says is Carrillo's enemy.

Testimony in the case begins today.

The witness, Ricky Barton, Tuesday

allegedly told another prospective juror, Fred Looney, to remain silent about the Looney's hunting trips to Duval County because "We want you on the jury."

District Judge Joe Ewins of Edinburg called

Travis County Dist. Atty. Bob Smith about the alleged jury tampering, and Smith said he would wait until the trial is completed to investigate the report.

A seven-woman, five-man jury was selected to hear the case. Surprisingly, neither the prosecution nor the defense scratched the name of a woman on the jury panel who testified she overheard the conversation between the Barton and Looney.

The woman, Denise Eilledge, reported the incident to the bailiff, and the bailiff told the judge. The judge first called Looney and then Mrs. Eilledge to the stand after sending the other prospective jurors out of the room.

Looney said he had only a casual conversation with Barton about a mutual friend in Austin and about hunting at a ranch near Benavides.

Chamber tables action on dropping program

ODESSA — Odessa Chamber of Commerce directors tabled an executive committee recommendation that the chamber drop all convention and visitors activities from this year's program.

Reasons given for the recommendation included lack of funds and duplication of effort.

Funds for the program were provided by the city from a hotel-motel tax established to provide these services. The city discontinued the funds after a controversial audit and has announced it will reestablish convention and visitors activities under its auspices.

Both the convention and visitors bureau and the economic research and development council are operating at a deficit this year, the directors were told.

In other action, the board approved committee chairmen and voted to support a proposal by Continental Airlines to the Civil Aeronautics Board that Continental be allowed to schedule any nonstop flight from Midland-Odessa to any city in its present operating system.

Plains faces new problem

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter's hometown of 683 residents has a parking problem, because of the tourists and reporters coming to see where the candidate lives.

Faced with a doubling of the number of shops along the thoroughfare and a shortage of parking spaces, the Town Council decided last week to end free parking on the south side of Main Street.

The council did not decide when 30-minute parking meters would be installed or what the fee would be. Nor was a decision made about the all-day parking permitted on the north side of the street.

The action was a response to complaints from Main Street merchants.

"The downtown people are upset because of the parking problem," said Plains Mayor A.L. Blanton, who owns a souvenir shop and a downtown restaurant.

Lamesa council OKs pay hikes

LAMESA — The Lamesa City Council has approved a 10 per cent salary increase for all city employees, effective Oct. 27.

The increase was approved in a Monday night meeting.

Money for the increased salaries will come from general fund and revenue sharing monies, city secretary Ben Allen said.

It has been about a year since the last pay increases were received.

Bids requested on construction

MIDKIFF, Tex. — Bids for construction and leasing of a new post office at Midkiff are requested by the U. S. Postal Service.

Bids are to be submitted to Thomas E. King, real estate officer at the U. S. Postal Service in Dallas.

Trial continues in Big Spring

BIG SPRING — Several witnesses testified Tuesday in the trial of J. Doug Ingram in 118th District Court. Ingram is charged with the slaying of Michael Green April 10, 1975, at a Big Spring residence.

Among those who testified were the first police officer on the scene, other police officers and persons who had been at a party given for Green the evening of the shooting death.

ED POULT Midland Coll Petroleum En chapter from

D. K. Davis of Dallas explains to Heasley Rook, left and Joe Feagan, right, that much of the oil industry's problems are a fault of the industry itself. Rook is president of the Natural Gas Men of the Permian Basin, and Feagan is vice president.

Midland speaker says industry must take offensive approach

Attack! In the name of free enterprise and in the name of the consumer," D. K. Davis of Dallas told members of the Natural Gas Men of the Permian Basin Tuesday.

Speaking at the organization's regular noon meeting, Davis, managing director of Energy Research Associates, said it is the petroleum industry's fault for allowing "a vacuum to develop in the public mind which has been filled with half-truths, part truths and no truths."

Davis said "we all know there's too much talking to each other about the oil industry and politics. There are hundreds of people within a three-block radius of us who still believe that because we are associated with the oil and gas business we are getting filthy rich by running up their gasoline and utility bills. In the state of Texas there are probably six to eight million people who believe the same thing — including some who work in the oil industry."

"They believe it because politicians who know better say it is true. The politicians say it is true because the voters have heard it's true, and unless more oil and gas people interject themselves into breaking up that self-perpetuating spiral, it is going to turn into a whirlwind that will suck the guts out of the Texas economy," Davis declared.

Davis said politicians, militant union leaders and liberal economists have created an image of the oil industry as gougers of the public, and as villains who use such evil devices as investment credits and the depletion allowance to rob the public and reap high profits.

"For too long we have let muckraking columnists and self-styled consumer advocates wrest the initiative from us.

"The poison trash they have fed the public seemed so outlandish we apparently assumed no answer was needed or when it was answered, our defense has too often taken the form of crying about what Washington is doing to the oil and gas industry," Davis said.

and let them defend their "policies," Davis said.

The speaker charged that the ultimate energy user and voter is the one really being carved up by Washington. "When a voter finally sees that Congress has placed him in the position of subsidizing his own subject to blackmail by foreign nations, and he is mad enough, he will put the pressure on elected officials and he will do what is right at the ballot box.

Outpost pair scheduled

Outposts to production have been scheduled for Ward and Reeves fields.

HNG Oil Co., Midland, filed application to drill No. 1-116 Vaughn, a one-mile southwest outpost to the Rhoda Walker (Canyon) oil pool of Ward, five miles southwest of Pyote.

Location is 1,667 feet from northeast and 467 feet from northwest lines of section 116, block 34, H&TC survey. Planned depth is 8,900 feet.

The Reeves test is Enserch Exploration, Inc., No. 1-24 ARCO-State, ¼-mile northwest outpost to the three-well Reeves, North (3,200) field.

It is slated to 4,400 feet, and spots 660 feet from south and west lines of section 24, block 57, T-3, T&P survey, 10 miles southwest of Orta.

"If you have been telling your Sunday school class, or a neighbor down the block, or a television interviewer the true stories about how the industry has been hamstrung because of government red tape and controls and regulations you are to be commended for speaking out at all. But, I am here to tell you you're probably not being listened to.

"The public sees no real evidence of energy shortages, and could care less about any problem our industry has," Davis explained.

"The word is attack."

"Attack excessive regulation in the name of the future of this country. Attack in the name of free enterprise, and in the name of the consumer.

"Why should you and I apologize for free enterprise? Why not attack the power seekers in Washington who say every facet of American industry should be controlled by government

MGF finals extension

MGF Operating Corp., operating from Midland, has completed No. 1 TXL as a third Devonian gas well and ¼-mile north and southwest extension to that pay in the Davis field of Upton County.

It had a calculated, absolute open flow of 685,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, producing through perforations at 11,780-11,920 feet, after the pay had been treated with 4,000 gallons of acid.

A former Ellenburger well in the field, total depth is 13,110 feet, and it is plugged back to 12,000 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 17, block 41, T-5-S, T&P survey, 24 miles northwest of Rankin.

DRY HOLES

STONEWALL — Hanson Corp. No. 1 Wendeborn, wildcat, 1,800 feet from south and 2,285 feet from west lines of section 3, block B, A&M survey, two miles south of Old Glory, 4,485 feet.

John L. Swanner Estate No. 1 Daniels, in the Ben, south (Tomahawk) field, 2,100 feet from south and 2,505 feet from west lines of section 405, block D, H&TC survey, eight miles northwest of Pecosock, 4,300 feet.

A. L. Sander Jr. No. 1-18 Swanson Land & Cattle Co., wildcat, 800 feet from north and east lines of section 12, B&B&C survey, 18 miles northeast of Hamlin, 4,400 feet.

T. F. Hunter Estate No. 1 Pruitt, wildcat, 815 feet from south and 870 feet from west lines of section 200, block D, H&TC survey, six miles southwest of Asperment, 4,300 feet.

SUTTON — Wesley West No. 1 J. E. & P. E. Adams, wildcat, 2,187 feet from south and 2,070 feet from east lines of section 20, block A, CWT&P survey, 20 miles east of Sonora, 4,170 feet.

Shell Oil Co. reports offshore pool opener

HOUSTON (AP) — Shell Oil Co. reported Tuesday evaluation tests indicate one sand zone encountered in a wildcat oil test drilled off the California coast may be capable of commercial production.

Three of seven indicated oil bearing sand zones on the NO. 1 OCS P-0301 well in the San Pedro Bay area 15 miles south of Long Beach had been selected for testing to determine oil characteristics and productivity.

Shell said tests on the other two zones are considered inconclusive.

The wildcat is the first to be drilled by Shell and co-bidders on leases purchased on a federal offshore sale last December. The tract 262 well was drilled to a total depth of 8,317 feet with electric logs indicating more than 500 feet of net oil bearing sandstone in the interval between 2,905 and 4,172 feet. Casing was set at 4,508.

Shell said the second zone tested was at an intermediate depth and contained 133 feet.

"Rates were recorded which ranged from 50 to 1,000 barrels of oil per day in brief incremental time periods during a 5½-hour natural flow test," the announcement said.

"This zone is considered to be capable of commercial production rates if further drilling determines it to be extensive enough to warrant development."

The oil had a reported average gravity of 19.5 degrees.

Shell said a deeper zone with 138 feet of sand had small volumes of 13.7 gravity oil but that results of the tests were not considered conclusive because of the condition of the borehole.

Chaves test flows crude

Morris R. Antwell, Roswell, No. 1 Dinkus Communized, Eddy County, N.M., wildcat, seven miles southwest of Dayton, has assured production in the Cisco with the flowing of 112 barrels of oil and 102 barrels of water in six hours.

The flow was through perforations at 7,128-7,148 feet, after acidizing the pay zone with 1,500 gallons.

Testing continued at the project which spots 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 28-18-25e, seven miles southwest of Dayton.

Nolan gets wildcat try

Nolan County drew sites for a wildcat and a strike offset.

John R. Thompson of Abilene has scheduled No. 3 B. C. Burwick, et ux, a 6,200-foot exploratory test in Nolan, one mile southeast of dual Cambrian and dolomite production in the E.A. field and two miles south of Nolan.

Location is 1,667 feet from south and east lines of section 249, block 64, H&TC survey.

Thompson also plans No. 1 Vivian Hipp, a location east offset to the recently completed reopener of the Hylton-Moore field.

Location is 2,173 feet from south and east lines of section 182, block 64, H&TC survey, two miles north of Hylton.

Gaines pool reopened

Hilliard Oil & Gas, Inc., Midland, has completed its No. 1 FNB to reopen Devonian production in the Bale, East field of Gaines County, 12 miles northwest of Seminole.

It finished on the pump for 135 barrels of 37-gravity oil per day, with gas-oil ratio measuring 20-1, through perforations at 11,751-11,756 feet, which had been acidized with 250 gallons.

Drilled to 11,761 feet, it has 5¼-inch casing set on bottom.

Location is 500 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 312, block F, CCSD&RNG survey.

Pumper potentials

Tucker Drilling Co. of San Angelo has completed its No. 1-33 Page Brothers as a stray Strawn (Buster sand) oil discovery in Schleicher County, 9¼ miles southeast of Eldorado.

The 24-hour pumping potential was for 46 barrels of 32.2-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio measuring 968-1. Completion was effected through perforations at 5,152-5,160 feet.

It has 4¼-inch casing set at 5,750 feet, total depth.

Wellsite is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 33, block L, GH&SA survey, on the east side of the Page (Strawn) field.

The drilling rig Ocean Prospector was said to be in the process of being moved to a new location on the prospect.

Shell has a 50 per cent interest in the tract, Occidental Petroleum 17 per cent, American Independent Oil 16.5 per cent, Chanslor-Western Oil 12 per cent, and three Hamilton Brothers firms 4.5 per cent.

Operators announce sites in four areas

Wildcat sites have been staked in Borden, Upton and Crockett counties and field stepouts are planned for Kent and Upton sectors.

Bobby Bonner of Midland intends to drill No. 1 Juanita Hill, a 6,850-foot wildcat, in Borden County, five miles southwest of Gail.

Drillsite, 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 9, block 31, T-4-N, T&P survey, is one mile south of the Aplark (lower Spraberry) oil pool.

CROCKETT SEARCHERS

Two wildcats have been staked in Crockett County.

Texas Oil & Gas, Midland, filed application for permit to drill No. 1-A Parker, a 9,000-foot test, five miles north of Ozona.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and east lines of section 77, block GH, GC&SF survey, seven miles west of the Ozona, Northeast (Ellenburger) gas field.

Also, J. Cleo Thompson of Dallas, intends to drill No. 1-B J. W. Childress, a 9,300-foot searcher, eight miles east of Ozona.

It is 660 feet from south and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 35, block GH, GC&SF survey, three miles northwest of the Clayton Ranch (Ellenburger) gas field.

KENT PROJECT

Knox Industries, Midland, plans No. 6 Morrison as a location southeast stepout to 6,150-foot production in the Lyn-Kay field of Kent, 20 miles southwest of Spur.

It is scheduled to 6,300 feet and spots 1,450 feet from south and east lines of section 8, block B, PSL survey.

The field also produces from 6,000, foot and 6,200-foot pays.

UPTON TEST

Wood, McShane & Thams, Monahans, staked site for No. 1 E. E. Windham Estate, as a location east and slightly north offset to the lone Wolfcamp well in the Amacker-Tippett, South field of Upton.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 16, block 2, MK&T survey, 10 miles northeast of McCamey. Planned depth is 8,500 feet.

Wolfcamp production was opened in the field in 1958.

John L. Cox, Midland, plans No. 1 McGill, a 9,000-foot exploratory test in Upton, 14 miles northwest of Rankin. Location is 467 feet from north and 2,150 feet from west lines of section 51, block C, CCSD&RNG survey, 2¾ miles southeast of the Hazel (Spraberry) oil pool and the same distance northeast of the depleted A-B-M (Pennsylvanian) field.

Eddy sector gains Morrow prospector

Petroleum activity has been scheduled in Eddy County, N.M.

Yates Petroleum Corp., Roswell, filed application to drill No. 1 North Millman Unit, an 11,200-foot Morrow prospector, in Eddy, 17 miles north of Carlsbad.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 7-19-28e, two miles south of the firm's No. 1-HY-GH State, a recent Morrow gas discovery.

Harvey E. Yates Co., Inc., of Roswell, accounted for a scheduled 11,100-foot Morrow prospector to be drilled about 11 miles south of Loco Hills. It is No. 1 Travis Deep Unit.

Drillsite, 2¼ miles south of Morrow gas production in the Empire, South field, is 1,980 feet from south and 1,684 feet from west lines of section 18-18-29e.

Hanson Oil Corp., Roswell, has announced plans to drill No. 2 Gulf-Federal as a 2,100-foot Delaware wildcat, one location north of its No. 1 Gulf-Federal, a recent Delaware strike.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of section 12-25s-26e, five miles south of Black River.

The discovery was completed Sept. 2, for four barrels of oil and 24 barrels of water daily, through perforations at 1,925-1,948 feet.

McClellan Oil Corp., Roswell, has scheduled No. 2-A Barbara-Federal as an undesignated, 2,500-foot Premier test, 8½ miles northwest of Loco Hills.

It is 1,650 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 10-16-29e, ¼ mile northeast of the firm's No. 1-A Barbara-Federal, recent Grayburg oil discovery.

The strike finished Sept. 29, for 24 barrels of 37-gravity oil and 10 barrels of water daily, through perforations at 2,378-2,402 feet.

The No. 1 Albert-Federal Communized has been scheduled by Monsanto Co. as a ¼-mile east outpost to Morrow gas production in the Dagger Draw area, seven miles west of Lake Wood.

It spots 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 32-19s-25e. Planned depth is 9,500 feet. Ground elevation at the site is 3,503 feet.

Palestinians hit before lull

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Palestinian forces reported hard fighting with Lebanese Christians and Israeli armor around towns and villages in southern Lebanon today less than 24 hours before the 50th-plus cease-fire in the Lebanese civil war was scheduled to start.

Beirut also had its usual nightly heavy firing between Christian and Moslem street fighters, and hospital sources said at least 60 persons were killed. Three rockets set fire to a United Nations food warehouse for Palestinian refugees in Moslem west Beirut.

A Palestinian communique claimed that an Israeli infantry force supported by 60 tanks, armored cars and personnel carriers crossed the frontier and captured Yaroun, a village one mile to the north.

"After taking Yaroun, the Israeli enemy began bringing in reinforcements in an apparent preparation for an attack to capture the town of Bint Jbeil," the communique said. "Right-wing (Christian) militias served a 12-hour ultimatum on Moslem villagers to evacuate a chain of hamlets east of Bint Jbeil, warning a Christian attack also was imminent."

Bint Jbeil, two miles north of the Lebanese-Israeli frontier, was a major base for Palestinian raids into Israel before the Lebanese civil war began 18 months ago. Since then, the Palestinians have been too busy fighting for their existence in Lebanon and have lost most of their bases along the border.

Palestinian spokesmen claimed the new attack was mounted by Israel and the Lebanese Christians to ease Palestinian pressure on the garrison town of Marjayoun, farther west and eight miles north of the border.

Marjayoun controls access to the 40-square-mile Arkoub region in southeast Lebanon, which until the Lebanese war was the chief base for Palestinian raids into Israel. Christian forces took the town from the Palestinians Monday, but the Palestinians said they recaptured it Tuesday and laid siege to a Christian military compound on the town's southern edge.

The Palestinians said their forces, along with their leftist Lebanese Moslem allies, also seized Achiyeh, a village two miles north of Marjayoun, and that Israeli gunners along the border began pounding the village with 155mm howitzer fire at daybreak.

The surge of fighting came in advance of a cease-fire set for 6 a.m. Thursday — midnight Wednesday EDT — at a weekend meeting of six Arab leaders in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

MP & RC gets swim meet

The Midland Parks and Recreation Commission Tuesday was one of five bodies to receive a contract for the new Allison West Texas National Champions Invitational swim meet.

Charles Cook presented the contract to parks director Robert Thomson, noting that the parks department and the YMCA had begun the West Texas Swim Meet in 1948. The event has enlarged to this invitational in which Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allison will contribute more than $40,000 over the next four years in sponsoring the meet.

Other groups receiving contracts for the invitational were the Midland Jaycees, the Midland Chamber of Commerce, the City of Midland Swim Team and the First National Bank of Midland.

In other action, the parks commission heard a number of reports, and agreed to take several hours next month for a tour of the city's parks. Commissioners decided to gather at 10 a.m. Nov. 6 at the parks office, 300 Baldwin St., to begin the tour and to look at as many parks as time would allow.

Kissinger refutes comments on Israel

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has rebutted a statement by the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who said Israel was a "military burden" to the United States.

Without mentioning Gen. George S. Brown by name, Kissinger departed from his prepared text at a Jewish organization's dinner Tuesday night to say that the United States considers Israel "not as a burden, but as a strong asset, not as a liability, but as a staunch bastion of democracy."

Brown's comment about Israel, along with remarks about other U.S. allies, were made in a wide-ranging interview that was conducted April 12 by Ranan Lurie and is now being distributed by King Features.

Brown was asked in the interview: "Speaking about the Middle East from a purely military point of view, would you say that from the American global strategic interest, militarily, is Israel and its forces more of a burden or a blessing from a pure military point of view to the United States?"

He replied, "Well, I think it's just got to be considered a burden." The comment brought demands from Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter and his running mate, Minnesota Sen. Walter Mondale, that Ford reprimand Brown.

Ford has maintained silence on the Brown comments. His spokesman said on Monday that he considers the matter closed.

The Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations called for Brown's censure and said, "The Jewish community does not consider the matter of Gen. Brown to be closed."

Lions hear Sally Knapp

Evening Lions Club met Tuesday in the Westside Lions Building. The program was presented by Sally Knapp, coordinator of the foster care program for Mental Health-Retardation.

Mental illness can be cured but mental retardation cannot, she told the Lions. Three out of every 800 babies are retarded. The foster care program takes $6.50 a day for room and board. Medical expenses are handled by the foster care offices, she said.

Those adults 18 years of age or older, who are mentally retarded, are usually placed in foster homes.

Midland High choir to sing

Foreigners buy grand properties

By VIVIAN BROWN
By The Associated Press

A lot of grand American properties are being sold to foreigners. In fact "sales to foreigners are 900 per cent ahead of last year," says Bruce Wennerstrom of Greenwich, Conn., whose firm handles properties that need broad exposure to find buyers.

A 26-room San Francisco residence, its exterior a copy of Le Petit Trianon at Versailles, was sold to the Iranian government. A German couple recently purchased a Virginia property for $1.2 million even though it is not to be their primary residence. A Japanese industrialist "who had never been to the United States" bought a big ranch. Wennerstrom, president of Previews, a 43-year-old company that assists real estate firms in finding buyers, explained:

"America is considered a safe haven for money. The German buyer commented that Germany was preceding the United States on the road to socialism by about 20 years. A Swede buying property in Virginia and Italian buyers have cited a stable political system and a relatively low rate of inflation as reasons for their purchases. Also, we don't have restrictive laws about foreign ownerships, unlike a lot of countries."

The United States is not without its own millionaire house buyers, though, and they are likely to be overnight entertainers in the rock stars or television personalities and the like or executives of new growth companies selling high technology products. Even though "everybody is really looking for a good $10,000 house" big houses aren't necessarily hard to sell, Wennerstrom insists. The difficulty is in matching house to buyer.

"If a house has had a lot of exposure in the United States — we have 11 offices — and hasn't sold, it is advertised abroad. An island in the Fijis is not going to sell locally."

Wennerstrom would like to own one, a picturesque 26-acre island, one of several listed in Fiji and Tahiti. It has its own lagoon and reef, there are no taxes, and "it costs only $150,000," he says with a far away look in his eyes.

For frontier types, there may be the last of the old west in a 34-square-mile working ranch in Oregon, 21,000 acres of ranges, pastures, wild game, blacksmith shops, residences and barns, for $4.75 million. The ranch and one-of-a-kind round house that pivots automatically on a ball bearing will be advertised abroad. Ditto a 200-acre horse farm in Connecticut with a heated horse track, heated horse stalls, indoor riding ring, helicopter field and residences.

The most expensive house built in one small southern town would not attract anyone from abroad, Wennerstrom points out. A buyer must come from within a 250-mile radius, their analysis has shown, and "the man who built it probably will not get his money back."

"It's like spending $100,000 dollars on gold faucets and other trappings on a $40,000 house in a development. Anyone who could afford a $140,000 house wouldn't look for it there."

Howard board hears report

BIG SPRING — Howard College trustees Tuesday were told construction on the cafeteria extension and the landscaping program are both proceeding on schedule.

Construction on the coliseum is approximately 45 days behind schedule, but contractors believe they will be able to make up the lost time, the trustees learned.

The trustees also let a bid for steel on the cafeteria extension to Central Texas Ironworks of Abilene for $4,975. A $4,680 bid for a new truck from Bob Brook Ford of Big Spring was accepted.

In other action, trustees changed the title of Dr. Charles McCamant from director of financial aid and continuing education to administrative dean. No

GOP emblem dates to 1874

NEW YORK (AP) — The Republican "elephant" first appeared in an 1874 Harpers Weekly cartoon by Thomas Nast. According to "World Book Encyclopedia," Nast used the elephant as a Republican symbol many times and it soon came to stand for the Republican Party.

Chamber taps new officers

LAMESA — New directors of the Lamesa Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors have been elected. They are Bill Hamilton, Lee Roy Colgan, D. V. Phipps and Doyle McAda. The Rotary Club is sponsoring a Chamber Appreciation Day Nov. 3. W. H. "Bill" Collins of Midland, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will attend the event. The U.S. Chamber accreditation plaque will be formally presented at that time.

Realtors' group elects officers

New officers for 1977 were elected by the Midland Board of Realtors Tuesday.

Ella Barnett of Don Harvey's Don Johnson Realtors was elected president of the group. Other officers chosen were Betty Taylor, first vice president; Conrad Lloyd, second vice president; and Joan Ramey, secretary-treasurer.

New directors chosen for a two-year term were Spencer Blocker, Conrad Lloyd and Joan Ramey. Directors with one year remaining in their terms include Gordon Jennings, Dene Kelly and Wanda Bishop.

Federal agencies to close

The United States government is taking a three-day weekend this week, with the extra holiday coming on Monday in observance of Veteran's Day. All federal agencies will be closed on Monday. The U.S. Postal Service will provide no residential or business delivery. Holiday service to lockboxes will be maintained, and special delivery service will be provided. Most state agencies and the city's banks and savings and loan associations will wait until the traditional Nov. 11 to take their Veteran's Day holiday. Midland city and county offices, too, will remain open on Monday.

MCT sets tryouts for play

Midland Community Theatre is holding tryouts for its December show, "Come Blow Your Horn." The comedy, the first in a long series of stage successes by playwright Neil Simon, will be the concluding production of MCT's 1976 season. Cast requirements include a middle aged man and two young men, as well as two middle-aged women.

Auditions for parts in the comedy will continue at 8 p.m. today at Theatre Centre, 2301 W. Indiana St., and all interested persons — newcomers as well as MCT regulars — will be welcomed. Persons do not have to be MCT season members to qualify for parts.
