Ceiling on gas revised

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission on Friday issued revised ceiling prices estimated to cost natural gas consumers some $1.5 billion to $1.8 billion — $15 to $18 a year on the average residential gas bill.

The FPC action was immediately challenged in court by a consumer group and drew a sharp dissent from commission member Don S. Smith.

The commission had doubled and tripled its nationwide ceiling prices last July for natural gas sold by producers to interstate pipelines, arguing that higher prices are justified by the cost of finding and developing new gas supplies.

Both consumer and industry representatives urged it to reconsider, and the commission held new hearings in September. The consumer side argued that the new ceiling prices were unjustified and too high; the industry side said they were a step in the right direction but still too low.

Smith, dissenting from his three colleagues, said this case gave the commission "what may be its last clear chance to devise a rational and functional natural gas pricing system that could establish the necessary incentive for producers to explore for and develop new supplies of natural gas, and to provide a just and reasonable return on investments of the past.

"It has failed to do so," Smith charged.

Instead, Smith said, the FPC has adopted "a prohibitively expensive package made up of pointlessly overpriced parts."

Police crowd city streets

The streets of Midland seemed to be crawling with police cars for a while Friday night. Or so it appeared when two of three cars involved in a traffic accident belonged to the circuit force.

accident belonged to the city's finest.
Patrolman John H. Jones, 28, and narcotics squad Det. Sgt. John Harold Thompson, 36, had an unscheduled conference in the emergency room of Midland Memorial Hospital following the crash in the 2700 block of U.S. 80
West shortly before 7 p.m.

"The city sure lost on this one," said one officer as he looked at the damage to the cars at the scene. Both a marked patrol car assigned to the uniformed division and an unmarked car assigned to the narcotics squad were completely destroyed in the accident.

Jones required stitches to close a gash above his right eye. Thompson was shaken up but required no treatment. And the driver of the third car, Johnny James Paul, 33, 3505 Travis Ave., was shaken up also, police said, but did not go to the hospital Friday night.

Jones was driving west in the 2700 block of U.S. 80 West, Thompson was southbound on Thomason Drive and Paul was turning onto Thomason Drive from U.S. 80 West when the collision occurred, traffic investigators said.

As narcotics agents slumped drearily in one corner of the emergency room it looked like Midland's answer to the French Connection would have to wait for another Friday night.

Carter balked on Watergate, pollster says

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter was told by his campaign strategists in mid-October that the Nixon-pardon issue could "blow the election wide-open" and guarantee his victory over President Ford, Carter's pollster Patrick Caddell said Friday.

But he declined to use the issue himself because "he thought he would be elected president and he didn't want blood all over the floor."

Caddell told that story Friday in confirming the view of the Ford campaign pollster, Robert Teeter, that Carter's failure to develop a strong answer to the Ford campaign's attack on his credibility as governor of Georgia almost turned the election to the Republicans.

Teeter said that the effectiveness of the anti-Carter ads was heightened by the fact that voters who saw them still believed that it was Carter, not Ford, who was running "a negative cam-

The rival pollsters conducted their first public post-mortem on the election Friday at a joint appearance before the Public Affairs Council and the American Association of Political Consultants at the Mayflower Hotel. Later, they expanded on their comments in separate interviews.

They agreed that Carter's 33-point lead at the time of his nomination was artificially inflated, that it was hard to find issues that mattered to the voters, and that the highly publicized presidential debates turned out not to have influenced many voters'

However, Teeter said the second debate — the one on which Ford made his mistake on Soviet domination of Eastern Europe — "left us dead in the water for about 10 days."

"We had been ahead of schedule in overtaking Carter," Teeter said, "and we thought that there would be the kind of pressure on them that might cause them to abandon their strategy and start making mistakes. We looked for Carter to start throwing some 80-yard passes, and we knew we could intercept if he did. But then the pressure went off him."

Ironically, Caddell tabbed Carter's response to the second debate as "a terrible mistake" on the part of his candidate. "The governor has a mild instinct for the jugular," he said, "and for three days we couldn't stop him" from attacking Ford in very strong terms. "He was terribly abrasive," Caddell said, "and he cost us what we had gained by Ford's mistake in the debate."

On the other hand, Caddell said that it was Carter who decided — over the recommendations of his political advisers — not to use against Ford the issue of the Nixon pardon.

Carter had ruled out the pardon issue at the time of his nomination — a decision which Sen. Walter F. Mondale (D-Minn.) his running mate, publicly rejected and ignored.

Caddell said that when Carter's lead began eroding again in mid-October, he and other advisers went back to the Georgian with fresh data indicating that the pardon issue was "our best issue with the younger voters and independents" who were breaking to Ford.

"The pardon issue was vetoed by the candidate himself," he told the audience.

St. Lawrence Fair features food, fun

GARDEN CITY—This is the great time of year for Oestexas Catholics, small-towners, and German food fans, as everybody from Rowena to Berlin takes off for an old-time dinner on the grounds.

And one of the most celebrated of the fall festivals is at the St. Lawrence Chatholic Church south of Garden City. (Turn south at the only blinking

It's slated for tomorrow, beginning about 11 a.m. but really rolling after church services, and there are likely to be more souls in the neighborhood than ever passed through the town except on prior festival days. There were about 3,000 last year.

The main focus is on the food, and I understand some 6,000 pounds of sausage has been prepared and stuffed for this year's event, to join tubsful of potato salad and cole slaw and roast beef and the like on com-

DPS chemists defy myths of television

By JIM STEINBERG

With soft voices two men discussed the purity of a heroin sample. Both wore white coats and cowboy boots. The room was brightly lit.

"How did you draw that stuff, Jim?" one asked. The reply was muffled by country music from a nearby radio.

"Oh, sure. That would account for it," said the taller of the two men as he looked at his worksheet of equations. Like most heroin in the Midland area the sample is 20 per cent pure. The discrepancy involves figures smaller than one percentage point — a figure too insignificant for the ordinary drug trafficker.

The taller man scratched his head before filling another hypodermic needle with heroin. It's probably the eighth time he'd drawn a syringe full of heroin that day.

heroin that day.

But that's how most Department of Public Safety chemists spend the day.

"About 90 per cent of our work involves drugs," said Jim Swindall, one of two chemists based in the Department of Public Safety's Midland Regional Headquarters.

He and David Legg analyze the quality and quantity of narcotics seized by local agencies in the 40 counties incorporated within the Midland district. They also evaluate the composition of narcotics confiscated by state troopers and Department of Public Safety narcotics agents.

Although narcotics occupy most of their laboratory time, about 10 per cent of their laboratory work is spent in non drug related areas of forensic chemistry like cytology, where blood samples are identified. And they handle other tests one would expect out of the "crime lab", like revealing what chemicals were used to commit arson, whether paint scrappings from a hit-and-run accident match those of a suspect's car. Only reluctantly would they admit to using a paraffin test.

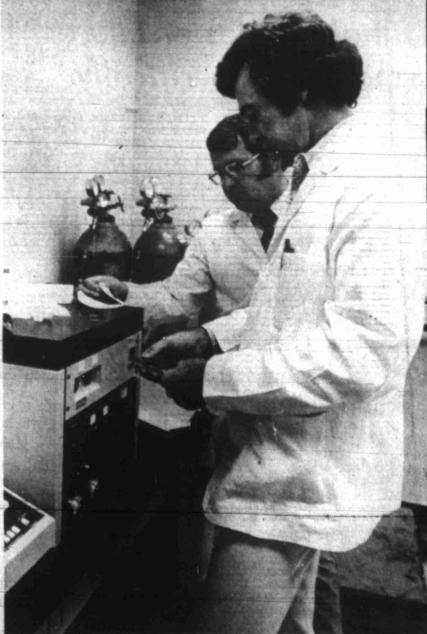

"I don't know where they get that stuff on television but I sure get a charge out of putting on the tube for a laugh," said Legg, referring to police shows. Contrary to television, Legg said; the paraffin test can only determine that a suspect might have fired a gun recently. The nitrates picked up in the test, he said, could have been gotten through yardwork or other ways without actually firing a gun.

The two chemists work on the average of 100 cases per month. Approximately 25 percent of their time is spent testifying in court, although last June 75 percent of their time was spent in court giving testimony in drug

Speaker says vocational education will help diversify city's economy

By JUDY JOHNSTON

Vocational education will be an important factor in the diversification of Midland's economy when oil and gas can no longer be the major source of income here, a Midland industrial development specialist says.

Harry W. Clark, senior vice president of Midland's First National Bank, addressed the vocational education section of Texas State Teachers Association Friday, emphasizing the need for diversification of the economy.

Oil has been both an advantage and a disadvantage to Midland economy, Clark said.

Tracing the history of the area back to the coming of the railroads, Clark said the lack of rainfall in the area would support only large ranches and did not encourage a broad-based economy.

When oil was discovered here, however, many workers were brought into the area and the economy flourished.

Yet the major dependence was on oil, Clark said. By 1968 only 8 per cent of the total labor force was employed in manufacturing, the smallest percentage in any Texas metropolitan

For a diversified economy, Clark explained about 25 per cent of the working force should be in manufacturing.

The area was faced with a lack of diversification in an economy based on a depleting resource and many persons and businesses began looking for alternatives.

When the price restrictions on oil were lifted in 1973, a change occurred, Clark said. Between August 1973 and January 1976, 10,000 new jobs were created, but now only 6 per cent of the labor force is employed in manufacturing.

Despite that discouraging note, the Midland middle-level buying power has increased, which is a good economic sign post, Clark said.

Clark foresees a good future for Midland, with an increase in the number of major businesses moving from the large eastern metropolitan

In the 1980s, Clark said, major businesses will be moving to smaller cities which can promise office space, and continuing sources of power and communications, without the socioeconomic problems of larger cities. "We have an attractive package to sell," Clark said.

Clark then encouraged the vocational educators present to join him in helping to make Midland one of the greatest places in America.

The trends and factors he outlined apply to all cities in the District 18 who were represented in Friday's inservice training sessions, he said.

Rewarding good behavior is not bribery, Rothstein insisted. Bribery, he said, is "non-contingent rein-forcement," that is, giving rewards that are unearned.

"Up to age 12, the reinforcer is simple," a smile or a piece of candy, "but after that, it's going to cost you" Rothstein said.

However, when a child reaches age 15 or 16, there is one more chance. "It's called THE CAR. Do you know what a 14 or 15 year old kid will do to drive the car back and forth in the driveway?" he asked. In the classroom, there are lots of possibilities for positive rein-forcement — field trips, movies, sitting with friends, recess and so forth, he said.

What's wrong with all that? We give them away," instead of using them. He suggested a point system with a certain number of points given for desired behaviors to allow a child to earn privileges.

That way, the child learns that he has control over his own actions and that actions have consequences, Rothstein said.

"Mankind may be the missing link between apes and human beings," Rothstein said, and predicted that human beings may not develop until the world becomes a less punishing too, to help raise the money needed to buy research, to afford relief for the crippled and suffering, and someday, perhaps, to find the cause and the cure.

At present, there are theories but nothing really definite, she said.

Some say that arthritis is 'something' that simply crops up: The body, strangely, turns against itself. A rejection. Young, youthful, middle-aged or old. Many, many get struck and stuck with the pain.

Aspirin, for reasons not yet determined, often alleviate some pain and swelling. Surgery may correct the crippled body.

'It's not treating the disease," she said of the surgery that replaced joints in her hands and knees. Eventually, she'll undergo surgery on 'This treatment is the results of the disease," she said. "It's a last ditch effort, and thank God it's over." For the time being.

The pain and swelling that Miss Caldwell first experienced years ago was diagnosed as gout. It wasn't. Later, into her early teens, a physician said the disease was rheumatic fever. But there was nothing at all amiss with her heart.

Another doctor finally figured it out: "It's not rheumatic fever," he had told her. "It's only arthritis." Only arthritis? Miss Caldwell, only on really big cases we team up," said Swindall, 33, a chemistry graduate from Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. Both men were trained in the Department of Public Safety's Austin lab for one year before assignment in the Midland The workhorse of the lab is an ultraviolet spectophotometer costing $12,000 which records the wavelengths of light emitted from a substance exposed to light in the ultraviolet spectrum (blue light with too short a wavelength to be seen by the man eye). Although Swindell and Legg have memorized most of the details for compounds, a chart is kept handy for reference. On the scale used by DPS, heroin forms a hump on line 278. Swindall pointed out one analysis showing four distinct humps. Three were very jagged, one was smooth and touched line 278. That was heroin, Swindall said. But the drug was a compound. The three jagged lines were characteristic of an amphetamine. Therefore, Swindall continued, the drug was a heroinamphetamine mix.

Do defense lawyers dispute his analysis?

"Not often," Swindall said.

To identify how much of a particular substance there is, the DPS chemists use either an infrared spectophotometer or a gas chromatograph. The infrared spectophotometer is very similar to the instrument used in determining what an unknown quantity is, except infrared light (red light with wave lengths with too long to be seen by the human eye) is used instead of ultraviolet light.

The third tool at the lab, called a gas chromatograph, vaporizes the sample and burns it very slowly in a controlled flame. Legg, 32, a Texas Tech graduate, was working to integrate the chromatograph with a recently acquired $5,000 minicomputer. Once operational, the machine would give instantaneous readouts on the purity of a chemical. Until then, the chemists must do some lengthy

Mild, sunny weather to usher in weekend

Permian Basin area residents can look forward to a good weekend, as the National Weather Service has forecast fair skies and mild temperatures through Sunday.

Skies were clear, temperatures mild and winds calm across the area Friday. In Andrews, it was a little brisk temperature-wise, but clear and slightly breezy Friday.

Lamesa and Crane reported sunny skies and calm winds, while Rankin had a beautiful, clear day. Stanton had warm temperatures and clear skies, and in Odessa, it was sunny with a slight wind.

The weatherman said skies will remain fair through Sunday. Today's high should reach the mid-70s, with the mercury dipping to the mid-40s

Sunday's temperature should climb to the low 70s in the area. Winds will be from the southwest at 10 to 15 mph.

Brisk fall weather prevailed across the rest of Texas Friday, and the National Weather Service said more of the same was scheduled for the football games Saturday.

Late Friday afternoon skies were bright blue and cloudless, winds light and variable and temperatures ranged from the 70s along the coast and in San Angelo to 58 in Longview and 68 in Abilene, according to the Associated Press.

Overnight temperatures were predicted somewhere in the 40s. However, daytime highs Saturday were expected to heat up again under the clear skies.

PRESIDENT-ELECT Jimmy Carter displays volumes of books necessary for him to complete the transition process as press secretary Jody Powell looks on at the "Pond House," the Carters' summer cottage in Plains, Ga.

Healthy Carter begins preparing for January

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) - Presidentelect Jimmy Carter telephoned his thanks to supporters around the nation Friday, arranged increased security with the Secret Service and began reviewing thick transition books prepared by his staff.

Winding down from the pressures of his successful campaign for the White House, Carter plans to travel Saturday on an Air Force Boeing 707 jet to a vacation retreat on St. Simons "We do need a 100-room Island off the Georgia coast. The cost of the Air Force plane will be paid from $2 million which Congress appropriated to facilitate the transfer of power from President Ford to Carter.

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, announced that the Secret Service was increasing protection for the Carter family in Plains and had decided to assign a permanent detail to Carter's 9-year-old daughter, Amy.

Carter's day began with a physicial examination by a doctor from Atlanta. Powell said it was the completion of a checkup begun several weeks ago and that the doctor "pronounced Gov. Carter in good

During the morning, Carter reviewed operations at his peanut warehouse and chatted with tourists. "When are you going to get Kissinger out of there?" someone in the crowd asked, in reference to Ford's secretary of state.

"January," the smiling president-to-be replied.

Later, Carter walked in the woods near his home with some of his sons and their wives and then motored to a farm he owns in nearby Webster County for a talk with his brother

Powell said that when Carter began calling to thank supporters he discovered that some of the telephone numbers on the list prepared by the staff were incorrect. "He let us know about it," Powell said.

Powell did not say who Carter telephoned.

During his working vacation on St. Simons, Carter will be accompanied by his wife, their three adult sons and their wives. They will stay at Musgrove Plantation, a cluster of cabins owned by the Smith Bagleys of Washington, D.C. Bagley is an heir to the R.J. Reynolds tobacco fortune.

Powell has said Carter will pay Bagley between $1,000 and $2,000 to avoid any appearance of conflict of interest.

He plans to continue there the task of reading through the 18-inch-thick transition books that outline policy options Carter will face in many fields, plans for selecting persons to fill the government's highest positions and proposals for government

I have never been able to understand that an evolutionist could be too intelligent. O, I know that many of them are, and some who think they are, are not. You see, most of the so called intellectuals who believe in the theory of evolution find it extremely difficult to believe the Bible account of creation. That is that God (the supernatural power) spoke the world into existence. That He made man from the dust of the ground. That He breathed into man's nostrils the breath of life causing man to become a living soul. But I tell you, it is a far sight eaiser to believe the nostrils the breath of life causing man to become a living soul. But I tell you, it is a far sight eaiser to believe the Genesis account of creation than the theory and guesses of those who want to play like there is no God.

For example, let us look at the guess of the evolutionist relative to a man's eye. Do you know what he says about this wonderful orb? He says that a long long time ago animals did not have eyes, but that an animal had a freckle on his skin. Now of course that just happened, so don't anyone dare ask where the freckle came from. According to him, when the sun's rays were traveling over the animal's body and came to that freckle, they converged there more than any other place and that made it a little warmer there than any other spot on the body. Well that irritated the skin instead of some other place, and that nerve developed into the eye. So we had another freckle and then another eye. But the amazing thing about it all is that that second freckle turning into an eye was in the exact right place at the right time and so we have the orgin of the eyes. How about that dear reader? You didn't know where the eyes came from did you? Well now we know-or do we? The plain truth is that if I were to disbelieve the Bible account of the orgin of man, I would be as ignorant as a toad relative to the subject. The reason being that the explanation of the eye is exactly like every other explanation of the evolutionist, and that is that it is all a guess and a ridiculous conclusion. There is NO proof of such and asine theory as that, hence it cannot be science!

Reader friend, when we hear such theories as that of the orgin of the eye, I ask you: which is more reasonable to believe—the Bible story of how God made a man complete. which would include the eyes. . or this foolish theory that ought to be in a comic strip rather than from the pen of one

Accreditation Award

The Lamesa Area Chamber of Commerce is due congratulations on having earned official accreditation from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Formal presentation of the prestigious USCC Award of Accreditation was made last Wednesday when the Lamesa Rotary Club honored the Lamesa chamber and its officers, directors and committeee chairmen at its noon meeting.

This is a significant achievement for the Lamesa C. of C., which, incidentally, was the only Texas chamber to receive the award this year. There are only 15 accreditated organizations in Texas — Hereford and Abilene being the only two in this section of West Texas. There are 305 such organizations in the nation.

The Lamesa chamber, approximately two years ago, made up its mind to seek USCC accreditation. It hasn't been an easy task by any means, but the diligent efforts of the organization and its members have paid rich dividends in the eventual recognition by the USCC.

The overall purpose of accreditation is to define standards of planning and performance in chamber work, to measure achievement, and to upgrade and improve voluntary organizations of business and professional persons. High level performance must be maintained in order to hold accreditation.

The Lamesa Area Chamber of Commerce long has served its community faithfully and well. It now is in a position to do an even more effective job for the business interests and residents of Lamesa and Dawson County.

With a vengeance

During this Bicentennial year, it has been pointed out frequently that a spur to the Revolution was the nasty problem of taxation without representation.

Today we have representation with a vengeance.

A study developed by the Tax Foundation, Inc., reports that Congress during the last fiscal year spent $925 million in its trusteeship of the public interest. That's almost triple the amount of legislative cost in 1970 — five times that of 1960.

Much of the spiraling congressional budget goes for salaries, not only those of the senators and representatives, but those of the increasing number of staffers deemed necessary to guarantee adequate representation of the people. Congress has increased its employes by 44 per cent since 1970. Significant salary hikes also have been granted in the last six years.

It's likely unhealthy

Oklahoma City's Daily Oklahoman said recently that the day surely must come when Americans recognize that legislation alone cannot inspire moral rectitude and-or social responsibility.

The newspaper said that health warnings on packages of cigarettes are probably justified, although it is questionable how many smokers have been "scared" into quitting.

"But where are we to draw the line in our brother's-keeper role?" the editorial asks.

The Vulcan is supposed to shoot down attacking enemy planes. Yet its "destruction probability," as the experts refer to its ability to knock down planes, is no more than 13 per cent "against a non-maneuvering target flying at 250 knots." Most enemy planes, unfortunately, fly faster than 250 knots. It is also unlikely that they would cooperate with the gunners by flying in a straight line without maneuvering. Against "a non-maneuvering target

This means a squadron of supersonic jet planes. taking evasive measures, could fly in complete safety over a field of Vulcan anti-aircraft guns. Even subsonic planes could probably avoid being shot down. But that's not all. According to the

Now we've learned that the welders may not have been adequately certified before they were sent to Alaska to work on the pipeline. More than 80 per cent of them were funneled through the National Pipeline Welding School in Tulsa, Okla, A quality control inspector who visited the school in July, 1975, reported to his superiors that the poor quality of the welds on the pipeline could be traced directly to the attitude at the school.

Other pipeline welding inspectors also complained to Alyeska that the school was sending welders to Alaska who hadn't met the tough American Petroleum Institute standards. One inspector called it "the worst welder quality control job I have ever seen on a pipeline." Yet some officials, who wanted to tighten the standards, were fired from their jobs.

Significantly, the National Pipeline Welding School is run by the Pipeline Welding Union, Local 798. This single local has a near-monopoly on pipeline welding jobs in the United States.

The welders are a flamboyant breed who wear colorful caps and thick-heeled cowboy boots. They maintain a tight, clannish membership. In Alaska, they clashed with the Teamsters who control most of the obs on the pipelines. In some of the isolated construction camps, fierce, violent rivalries broke out between the two unions.

But Alyeska is treating the powerful Oklahoma union delicately. The construction consortium is afraid that the cowboy-booted welders could slow down the entire project.

FORD AIRLIFT-After we wrote that the giant Thiokol chemical firm twice ferried President Ford's son Jack in a company plane, we were told by usually reliable sources that the plane also had been made a avilable to Ford himself.

Mideast peace hopes noted by columnist

By JOHN PINKERMAN Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - The volatile situation in Lebanon excepted, American Mideast experts today reflect a sense of satisfaction and cautious optimism over events in that area so vital to world commerce and peace or war.

A CHANGING WORLD:

A State Department official responsible for careful U.S. analysis and planning on the Mideast ticked off, in an interview, reasons for hope that at least current truce agreements may hold: 1. The Russians have lost face in the Mideast through failure of their policies and, surprisingly to many, they may want peace there just as much as does the United States. They may not wish the role of "spoilers" lots of Americans have attributed to them 2. The Israeli-Egyptian Sinai agreement is holding after one year. Additionally, there are signs of tiny

'open border" activities even on the Golan Heights with Syria and at the Israeli-Lebanon border. 3. A surprise preemptive strike like Egypt's in the 1973 Yom Kippur War is almost impossible today. There are U.N. forces on the job and there are U.S. technicians monitoring traffic. None of this is to say that conditions could not worsen, the State Department official said. "The situation is very fluid and the intense centuries-old hatred of Arabs for Israelis ge to remains.

"The West Bank situation, which should get more attention, is a dangerous one and it is here that Arabs are living as 'occupied' people on what they claim is their own land.

"A classic example of this hatred exists in the old city of Jerusalem. If '1 you have ever made the walk along the Stations of the Cross you will note Station No. 1 and the inscription (the place where Pilate condemned Jesus). Just above it is the Arab inscription, little noticed by visitors, that translates as 'Crush the Zionist' Dogs.' The whole West Bank situation is uncertain but there is reason for optimism at least for the next six months to a year.'

Career American foreign service officers need not be tied to the misleading rhetoric required of their bosses — including Secretary of State Henry Kissinger - during periods like the recent political campaign, and this fact makes their remarks more revealing in some instances.

There is the feeling, for instance, among many of the career men that the simple matter of spreading its military strength too thin causes the Soviet Union to pause in any blatant action in the Mideast. They have China to worry about, and Europe.

While peace on Suez and the Sinai gets most of the attention, unexpected softening of Israeli-Syrian attitudes along the Golan Heights could have equal long-range effect. The Syrians have been the most bitter enemies of Israel but cooperated in an opening of the heavily defended border to allow reunions of Druze families.

"The Syrians haven't given up their claims to land held by Israel, and they won't," the State Department official said, "but even though we have a truce rather than an armistice, there

That hope, of course, could be shattered by any Arab military expression of its aims. Israel's sole goal is peace. The Arabs' sole goal is possession of the land on which Israel exists and that is where a danger continues.

Perhaps he overdramatizes, but the State Department official somewhat cynically points out that "Yes, we have a peace, or a truce and that's great, but all it really is is a white line painted in the middle of the road in Quantara (Sinai city on the Seez).'

Meanwhile, the absence of Soviet pressures and occasional small stepby-step progress appear to justify hopes that a new Arab-Israeli war gets just a little more remote each

Title-pointing Lee rumbles over Eagles

By BOB DILLON

It was almost brutal. Senior quarterback Brad Wright came out throwing and didn't stop until the Robert E. Lee Rebels had pulvarized the stunned Abilene Eagles, 42-13, Friday night in Memorial Stadium.

All Mr. Wright did was pass for five touchdowns in completing 10 of 15 passes for 211 yards as Lee keeps its hopes alive in the torrid District 5-4A football race.

While Lee was destroying the Warbirds, Odessa High bombed Big Spring by the 43-13 and San Angelo Central was ripping Odessa Permian, 23-6.

The Rebels must beat Midland High next week and hope that Permian handles OHS in order to move into the playoffs against John Reddell's Trinity Euless team, If Odessa beats Permian, it won't matter what Lee does to MHS.

A Permian victory over Odessa and a Midland win over Lee would create a three-way tie for the 5-4A crown between Lee, Permian and Odessa, causing a coin toss to see who represents the league in bi-district

It proved to be an interesting evening all the way around. Just as the game was ready to get underway. the scoreboard clock went on the blink. (Maybe it knew what was coming during the 55-point onslaught)

Anyway, Lee took the opening kickoff and Wright immediately went to work on second down by hitting fullback Brian Crowell with a nineyard screen pass. He then connected with Clyde Gary on a 62-yard pass play to the Eagle 14 and on the next play, passed 14 yards to Gary for the score. Not too bad - three-out-ofthree and a TD. Jerry Moore booted the first of six extra points to make it 7-0 with 10:31 left, I think, but then I'm Abilene fired up and moved all the way down to the Lee six where the Maroon Platoon held. Quarterback Glen Stirman hit Vurlee Williams with a 48-yard strike to the Rebel 25 and fullback Reggie Fields broke for 11 to the 14, but sophomore defensive end Jeff McCowan made a great stop on speedster Herman Reece and Lee

Lee fumbled on its next posession with Larry Lathrop recovering at the Lee 21, but the Rebs held again.

The Eagles came back to tie the score early in the second period after a short 13-yard punt by Donald Salinas and in 10 plays, were on the scoreboard. Stirman scored fron the four and Kent Long's kick tied it at 7-7 with no telling how much time left in the second period.

This seemed to anger the Rebs and they marched 66 yards in 10 plays to take the lead for good. Todd Clements gained 11 yards and Wright 19 more on a keeper and Wright hit Eric Stewart with an 8-yard strike for the score. Moore's PAT made it 14-7 and the Rebs were off and running.

Lee exploded for 14 more points and a commanding 28-7 halftime lead, Marvin Iglehart picked off a Stirman pass at the Lee 43 and in nine plays, Lee scored again, this time on a 10-yard pass from Wright to fullback John Marks. Moore's boot made it 21-7 and Lee scored again on a 19-yard scoring toss from Wright to Marks. Moore made it 28-7 at the intermission with his kick.

The Rebel band put on an eye-popping display at halftime, just like the team in some precision drills along with a lively version of the current pop hit "A Fifth of Beethoven," complete with electric piano and guitar.

The Rebels kicked off to Abilene to start the second half and held after the Key City team moved from its 28 to the Lee 30.

Lee then marched 71 yards in only seven plays with the big gainer a 49yard scamper down the middle on a draw play by Crowell.

Wright capped the drive by dialing Stewart's number for the score from 26 yards out. Moore spilt the uprights, making it 35-7.

Reece electrified the crowd-on the ensuing kickoff as the 9.6 sprinter zipped 82 yards for a touchdown, cutting the Reb lead to 35-13. A run for the two-point conversion failed, however.

Abilene tried an onsides kick, but Lee's Brent Bates came up with the ball at the Eagle 49 and six plays later, the Rebels scored again.

Crowell's 23-yard run to the Abilene nine, set up the final score of the evening and Crowell capped the drive by going over from the nine. Moore's kick it made 42-13.

Abilene did manage to drive to the Lee 15 in the final period, but the Rebs held with Jeff Degenfelder making two big plays.

Lee is now 8-1 on the year and stands 5-1 in 5-4A play, the same as OHS, going into next Friday's big game with the Purple Pack.

The Rebels has a total offense of 509 yards with 221 through the airways and an additional 288 on the ground. It all boils down to the final

Ward's searing runs singe Cooper for Pack, 23-0

BY PAUL DOMOWITCH R-T Sports Writer

ABILENE - If Phillip Ward ever decides to give up the game of football, he'd be an instant success as a

His "now-you-see-me, now-youdon't" vanishing act made believers out of the Abilene Cooper gridders Friday night as the mercurial wonder 'disappeared' all over the P.E. Shotwell Stadium gridiron for 252 yards and a pair of devastating touchdowns, as Midland High overwhelmed the Cougars, 23-0.

One of the few Bulldogs who didn't spend this past week commuting between the two Midland Memorials-hospital and stadium, after the physical abuse Coach Jerry Hopkins' team suffered seven days ago against Odessa, Ward scored on runs of 56 and 85 yards.

OVERSHADOWED BY Ward's superb heroics, was another fine performance—this one called the 'Now-you-see-me, now-you-see-me again" act, by the Pack defensive unit, which held Cooper's rushing attack to just 101 yards, and Rusty Maroney, who also hit triple figures in rushing, with 104 yards.

The Cougars took the opening kickoff, and immediately drove to the Midland 40 on the running and pass receiving of tailback Tim Orr. Orr teamed up with quarterback Mark Beale For two nine-yard receptions that kept the drive moving.

But Bulldog linebacker Byron Hixson caught Beale from behind for a four-yard loss on a crucial third down play, and Cooper punted.

With Maroney and Ward running over and around the Cougar defense, the Pack moved the ball across midfield on the ensuing possession, but were also thwarted at the Cooper the end zone, gave Cooper a new beginning at their own 20. But the Bulldog defense refused to budge.

Linebacker Shane Fletcher put Beale to the turf for Midland's second quarterback sack and seconds later the Key City team was punting again.

Taking over on their own 24, Ward went into his magic act. Quicker than you could say "presto" the Fleet-Footed Wonder cut back to his left and outraced the Cougar secondary to the end zone. Robert Montgomery's PAT at the 1:17 mark of the quarter made

The Bulldog defense, which foresaked its normal five-man front. for a 4-4 look, kept the pressure on Beale and company and forced another punt.

BY THIS time, Cougar punter Brian Bailey had limbered up his foot, and propelled the kick 55 yards down the left sideline, the ball going out at

A run by Maroney gained two, but a Bulldog motion penalty wiped it out.

Hopkins must have sent a distress single up then, because Ward came to the rescue once again.

The 180-pound senior found a gaping hole in the left side of his line and jetted to the Midland 49 before a lone Cooper defender saved another score. Ward's run failed to propel the Bulldog offense any farther and three plays later Maroney kicked.

With 1:13 still left in the half, the Bulldogs got it back at their own 20. Maroney ran for five and eight yard gains, Brently Jackson picked up another four and then Kevin Widner hit tight end Larry Murphy on a 43yard reception and a first down at the Cougar 21. With only seconds left, kicker Montgomery came on and booted a 38-yard field goal.

COOPER CAME out throwing in the opening moments of the second half and a 53-yard Beale to Orr pass moved the home squad to the Midland seven, but the Pack defense just refused to give. Mark Dinsmore and Grady McGowan threw Orr For a Bulldogs took over on their own three. But the demon of deception jolted their memories.

After Maroney moved the ball to the 15, Ward ran left, cut back against the grain and put his human machine into high gear for an 85-yard scoring to make it 17-0 with 3:40 left.

Defensive tackle Brian Booker, who turned in an outstanding game, was rewarded for his efforts with less than three minutes left. Beale threw another desperation pass, this time right into Booker's hands and the Bulldog danced 40 yards for the final

Bobcats bury Panthers

SAN ANGELO - The San Angelo Central Bobcats took advantage of eight Odessa Permian turnovers Friday night to blast the Panthers, 23-6, in a District 5-4A game.

The loss nails the second nail into Mojo's coffin for 1976 since Permian lost to Robert R. Lee of Midland last Permian's only hope to share the title is to beat Odessa High and hope for Midland to upset Midland Lee. That way, Permian, Lee and OHS would all wind up 5-2 in the final loop standings and that would bring about a coin toss.

The Bobcats were in front of Permian, 17-0, before Mojo scord scored in the final period.

Panther quarterback Curtis Pittman, who had not had a pass intercepted all season long, had seven aerials picked off by the alert Bob-

Bill Woodard scored the first TD of the night, going two yards in the first period. Joe David West booted the PAT for a 7-0 lead.

West booted a 32-yard field goal in the second period to give the Concho Cats a 10-0 halftime lead.

Quarterback Mickey Abbott zipped 22 yards in the third period for a TD on a keeper play and West booted the PAT to make it 17-0.

Permian finally scored on a sixyard pass from Pittman to split end Bobby Riggs, but the pass for the twopointer failed, making it 17-6. The Bobcats scored in the final period on an 11-yard pass from Vin Smith to Joe Paul Bramhall. The kick was wide, however.

Permian is now 7-2 on the year and 4-2 in league play while Central is 4-5

Bucs trade with A's for Tanner

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Chuck Tanner, manager of the American League's Oakland A's, was acquired Friday to run the Pittsburgh Pirates in exchange for catcher Manny Sanquillen and a cash consideration, the Pirates announced.

Pirate General Manager Harding Peterson would not say what the amount of cash was, but it was widely speculated that Oakland owner Charlie Finley received the $100,000 he had asked for.

in a separate deal, the Pirates sold infielder Tommy Helms to Oakland but Peterson said it had nothing to do with the deal for Tanner. Tanner, 47 and a native of nearby

New Castle, was very happy about signing with Pittsburgh. "I feel like I've been on a 14-year road trip," said Tanner at a press dinner at Three Rivers Stadium. Tanner spent just one year with Oakland after five years with the Chicago White Sox. He was named manager of the year in 1972 while with the White Sox. "This is where I want to be," said

Tanner, who has spent 30 years in baseball. "Pete and I hope to do what Joe Brown and Danny Murtaugh did in the past. And that's bring quality baseball here." Peterson had said he would look elsewhere for a manager when Finley asked for Sanguillen and $100,000 in exchange for Tanner. But no other names surfaced and Peterson confirmed he had no new candidates for the spot.

Better keep those checks coming, Man

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

A month or so ago, gridders from Memphis State got their athletic program in hot water, when they they threatened to strike, because-get this-their monthly checks from the University alumni were late.

This "startling" revelation surprised very few people, in view of the illegal incidents that have been uncovered the past few years by NCAA investigators and crusading newsmen, which includes the most recent list of charges (115 at last count) against Oklahoma State. And despite the severe disciplinary action that has been taken, the violations continue to occur-and will continue to occur for some time. No penalty short of the gas chamber is going to make all of the illegalities cease.

Let us for a moment, take a look into the foreseeable future. The scene is a smoke-filled room at NCAA headquarters in Shawnee Mission, Kansas, An NCAA investigator, with a forty-year old stogie hanging limply from his mouth, is questioning Elmer Encroachment, a football player at Pigskin Tech. A powerful light is constantly glaring into En-croachment's face, as the investigator puts down the rubber hose. Why is Elmer here? Well, it seems that he squealed on his school, when the new Corvette the Dean bought him didn't have an 8-track tape deck. "They can't pull any of that turkey jive on me. Not ol' Elmer, prince of cool behind my idol, the Fonz".)

Let's put our mike up close, and catch some of the interesting

NCAA INVESTIGATOR: Mr. Encroachment, do you mean to tell me that everyone of the football players on your team receive free Corvettes? ELMER: No man. Where did you ever get an idea like that? Some of us got Camaros, some of us got Cobras, and old Duane, he got a Caddy. NCAA INVESTIGATOR: Who's Duane?

ELMER: Our water boy.

NCAA: I see, and what other endowments are bestowed on you? ELMER: Any what on who? C'mon man, don't talk that jive Polish to me. I ain't never heard none a' them big words around my pad.

NCAA: And where is your pad? ELMER: Fourteenth floor of the Hilton man. Second door on the right after you get out of the elevator. Stop by when you're in town sometime. We can guzzle down some booze and chase around some of the broads that always hangin' around.

NCAA: Hardly. Who pays for all of

ELMER: The tooth fairy, man. Who do you think? NCAA: Don't be impertinent.

ELMER: Who you callin' names, you jive turkey. NCAA: Elmer, what are you majoring in at Pigskin Tech? ELMER: Nothin' special. A little of this and a little of that. NCAA: Do you attend classes regularly? ELMER: If it don't interfere with my beauty sleep, man.

NCAA: When is the last time you've gone to class? ELMER: I guess it was back in my freshman year. Coach said it would make a good impression on the teachers if I showed up the first day. NCAA: And you haven't been to class since then? ELMER: Well, come to think of it, there was one time last year. They were having a wine tasting party in the French class I signed up for. I'm a sucker for a bottle of Boonesfarm. NCAA: Where does your family live, Elmer?

Toronto robs craddle in draft

NEW YORK (AP) - As expected, both American League expansion baseball teams loaded their rosters with young players in Friday's draft. But only the Toronto Blue Jays robbed the cradle.

On the first round, the Blue Jays picked three 20-year-old pitchers one of whom has played a day in the major leagues.

"We decided to bite the bullet," said Peter Bavasi, executive vice president and general manager of the Blue Jays. "We thought they were the best young arms available, so we took

"We're committed to them this year. Some will make it now, some will make it later." The young arms were lefthander Ted Garvin from the Minnesota organization, righthander Jim Clancy

from Texas and right-hander Claude

Edge of Milwaukee. These youngsters comprised half of Toronto's first-round selections. Their other selections do have to shave, especially greybeard Rico Carty-one of the top designated hitters in the league last season.

"The card says he's 36," said AL President Lee MacPhail in announcing the Blue Jays' selection of from the Cleveland organization.

Rounding out Toronto's firstround choices were No. 1 pick Bob Bailor, a shortstop from Baltimore, and Gary Woods, an outfielder from the California organization. The two expansion clubs alternated choices but Bavasi said that the Mariners' choices did not force his club to juggle its order of selection. "Seattle is going for older players than we are," he said.

The Mariners, who will be playing in the AL West in 1977, stressed older young players on the first round. They selected Ruppert Jones, 21, an outfielder from the Kansas City organization; Gary Wheelock, 24, a right-handed pitcher from California; Bill Stein, a 29-year-old infielder from Chicago; Dick Pole, 26, a right-handed pitcher from Boston; Dan Meyer, a 24year-old outfielder from Detroit, and Grant Jackson, a 34-yearold relief specialist from the Yankees.

Jones was the first selection of the draft, which went through five rounds. Each expansion club picked up 30 players and each established club lost one player per round. The price tag was $175,000 per player for a total of $5.25 million. "Our first choice was exactly what we wanted, and so was theirs," said Lou Gorman, the Mariners' chief of baseball operations. "We have done excellently. "I don't think Toronto has done better. I would not swap our list for their list. They took some real young pitching arms who may be heard

Comedian Danny Kaye, one of the owners of the Seattle club, announced Jones' selection. Asked for Jones' age, Kaye said "21" and then joked:

It was awful for the Kansas City organization, which didn't include Jones among its quota of 15 protected players. "We hated to lose him," said Royals Manager Whitey Herzog. "He's a player of great potential, but if he stayed in our organization, we'd have to assign him to Omaha."

Kansas City, a talent-loaded team, donated the first pick in four of the five rounds: Jones in the first round, left-handed pitcher Al Fitzmorris to Toronto in the second round, catcher Bob Stinson to Seattle in the third round and infielder Steve Staggs to Toronto in the fourth round.

Fitzmorris wasn't a Blue Jay very long. The 30-year-old pitcher who was 15-11 for the Royals last season, was traded to Cleveland after the draft with Toronto getting catcher Alan Ashby and first basemanoutfielder Doug Howard in exchange for him.

Fitzmorris was an expansion veteran, having been one of the Royals selections when they were added to the league in 1969.

Garvey believes players, NFL owners can agree

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) - The head of the National Football League Players Association said Friday he believes the players can reach a collective bargaining agreement with the owners next year and

Ed Garvey, executive director of the association, said he believed recent court decisions favorable to the players in the areas of freedom and contracts would promote a settlement.

NFL players are the only group of major professional athletes without some sort of collective bargaining agreement. The dispute over the NFL reserve system and contract provisions touched off a

But while Garvey accused NFL owners of refusing to negotiate in good faith, he predicted an eventual settlement without a strike.

With court rulings striking down the college draft, the Rozelle Rule and the standard player contract, he said, "maybe for the first time we're not found in a system where we have to go up against a monopoly—we now have the ability to say (to the owners) that we'll agree on a reasonable com-promise if you accept the union and not try to bust

Wishbone...does it have a future?

Bulldogs' Humphrey sets sight on disrict title

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

No one will ever accuse first year Midland-High basketball coach Don Humphrey of thinking small. He's a man with immense vision, who has set his sights high; some might think

"We are going to win the district championship this season," said the cage mentor who is taking over a team that exhibits just one returning starter from a less than auspicious 13-

"We've obviously got a lot of work to do in order to make the prediction hold up, but I think we can do it."

And the river parted. Standing in the way of Humphrey's own miraculous act are several obstacles, including a ridiculous lack of height. but in Humphrey's eyes, that too can be overcome.

The man with the golden dream has been the junior varsity coach at Midland the past three seasons, and is stepping into some very big shoes, as he makes his move to the varsity coaching level.

He replaces James Cagle, a man that led the Bulldogs to a state semifinal berth back in 1973, and a second place finish a year later, as they lost the state championship to Houston Wheatley.

There are many that feel Cagle made a very intelligent move by deserting Midland High basketball. Humphrey is not one of that group.

"We've got a crop of talented people back," he stated," along with some of the best young talent Midland has ever had.' But young talent needs time to develop, and if his district championship prophesy is to become a reality, he's going to have to rush the growing process just a bit.

The lone starter back for the Pack is a good one. He's all-district post man Craig Dunn, a 6-3 senior with strong rebounding ability. Humphrey calls him "a good position basketball player."

There are four other lettermen who will be in line for starting positions. Six-foot senior guard John Magness will probably be one of the ballhandlers for Humphrey, and may be joined in the backcourt by the speedy join the club until football season is

Other experienced cagers back are 6-3 postman James Hicks and 6-2 guard Glenn Rickey. A pair of juniors have also impressed Humphrey thus far. Steve Brittan, a 6-0 guard is a skilled ballhandler, while 6-2 Kiffy Hickey can be utilized in either the post or at guard.

Humphrey has added a new wrinkle to the Bulldogs look, to offset the lack of height and quickness. "We're going to run a continuity offense this season," he explained, "so that everybody has an opportunity to handle the ball. I really think this will help us a great deal."

Defensively, Humphrey will have his team playing man-for-man, and despite his own admission that his club lacks quickness, he said they will

'We may lack quickness, but I've been terribly impressed thus far with the kids' mental attitude. They are ready to play. They want to play.

"They also have great selfdiscipline and hustle. We may be small this year, but we're going to be physical, and that will offset the other disadvantages."

The Pack will stage their first intrasquad scrimmage Monday night at 6:15 in the MHS gym, and will travel to Fort Stockton on the 15th for their Phillip Ward, a 6-1 senior who won't first test against outside opposition.

Theismann gets nod for Skins' 'must win'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Joe moved into the No. 2 spot behind Theismann probably will start at quarterback for the Washington Redskins against the San Francisco 49ers Sunday in what coach George Allen is calling "a must game."

"We're still leaning toward Joe," said Allen after the Redskins held a closed morning practice before catching a midafternoon plane for the West Coast.

Translated, that means that barring injury, Theismann will start over veteran Bill Kilmer.

The Redskins had some bad news from the already depleted receiving corps. Tight end Jerry Smith came up with a badly sprained ankle.

"We don't know whether Jerry will play or not," said Allen. "if he can't, Dallas Hickman will be the backup.' Hickman, normally a defensive end who plays on the special teams, passing.

Smith earlier this season when starter Jean Fugett was injured. Defensive tackle Bill Brundige was still in the hospital with an arm infection and did not travel with the team to San Francisco. "We don't know about his availability," said Allen. "We don't know whether he will be able to fly out tomorrow or what we will do. We're hoping for the best."

Defensive end Dennis Johnson still has a sore knee but did work out Friday.

Allen again heaped praise on San Francisco, which now has won six of eight games and is in a good position for a spot in the playoffs. Washington is 5-3 and must win in order to have any hope of making the playoffs.

"Jimmy Plunkett is now their leader," said Allen. "And he has a good running game to compliment his

Still, they threw a scare into national champion Nebraska in one of those games that is decided by the last possession.

Strangely enough, it was Oklahoma's game against Texas this year that raised the question of the Wishbone's future in a more balanced football world. Here were two evenly mat-

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) -Jerry McGee birdied four of the first five holes and he and partner Allen Miller went on to a better-ball, seven-under-par 65 that gave them sole control of the second-round lead Friday in the $200,000 National Team Golf Championship

McGee and Miller, who decided to team up just a few hours before the deadline for entering this event, had a two-round total of 128, 16 under par. Scoring is based on the better ball of each two-man team.

"Yesterday Allen made all the birdies. Today I kind of picked us up. That's the best putting I've done all year," said McGee, who dropped three birdie putts of 25 feet or more in that opening burst on the 7,197-yard Magnolia course at Walt Disney

NEW YORK (AP) - Let's talk about points this week.

In the last two weeks, the Pittsburgh Steelers, trying to turn their National Football League season around, have not allowed any. In the last two weeks, the New York Giants, trying only to survive, have not scored any.

And that is why the Pittsburgh Steelers are succeeding at their task and the New York Giants are failing

The Steelers have not allowed a touchdown in winning their last three games and now have squared their season record at 4-4. That leaves them in a three-way tie with Houston and Cleveland, two games behind Cincinnati in the American Conference Central Division.

Chaps open season with more depth and size

BY TED BATTLES

Last year Midland College surprised everybody in the Western Junior College Conference by finishing with an 18-12 record for the season and barely missing a spot in the Regional playoffs.

It was the Chaparrals' first-year of basketball competition in the tough WJCC, or anywhere else for that matter, and most folks figured if the Chaps showed up with five players ready to play, they would be doing as well as could be expected for a first year competitor.

MC launches its basketball season at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday against the Lubbock Christian College JV's in the MC gym and Coach Chester Story is optimistic about the prospects for the SUMMING UP the Chaparrals' prospects in a nutshell, Story notes, 'We'll have more talent, more depth, more inside strength and we'll be better off at the post position than we were a year ago.

'We are not as far along defensively. As a group we are not as well grounded in defensive fundamentals, but maybe we are more so offensively."

Story will be building around a solid nucleus of five returning lettermen. Included are Tommy Parks, who averaged 20.8 points per game, led the team in points, field goals, most free throws, assists and steals; Jackson Pace, the field goal percentage leader; Jeff Jackson, who pulled down 236 rebounds and averaged 7.9 per game; Sim Nickerson, who as the Chaps' second leading scorer as the sixth man; and Scott Stamp, who came on strong late last season with his sparkling all-around floor play.

LAST YEAR MC finished 8-10 in conference and a half dozen of those games hung in the balance until the final minutes when the Chaps' lack of depth under the boards proved decisive.

This year Story hopes that situation will be rectified by a strong crop of freshmen recruits.

"Cliff Taylor, 6-7 1/2, from Fort Worth Tech, shows signs of being real strong inside," says Story. Ricky Hudgins, 6-5, 246 from Fort Worth Trimble Tech also, "has a fine shooting touch and is a strong

Rod Hawthorne, 6-6, 187, from Fort Worth Poly, Parks' alma mater, is

"quick with good jumping ability and good offensively. He has a lot to learn on defense, but may be our best jumper and inside man.

Alvin Mayes, 6-3 forward-guard from Tulsa Bishop Kelley, was voted the Most Valuable player in the Tulsa area last year, and will play a wing guard. "He's real strong, a good jumper and good defensively, " appraises Story.

CARL WILLIAMS, 6-2, 161 pounder from Washington, N.C., has been hampered by a bad ankle in preseason workouts, but is a nifty ball-handler.

Don Turner, 6-3 1/2, was a starter on one of the top Indiana high school teams and is ticketed for a wing guard, although his progress has been impeded by a strained knee.

Phil Durrett, 6-6, Victoria; Richard Holland, 6-7, Lubbock Coronado; Neil Laws, 6-3, Blum, and Greenwood's 5-7 Danny Pruitt are possible redshirts, "It all depends on how fast they develop," says Story.

"Jackson, Pace, Taylor , Parks, Stamp and Mayes and possibly Nickerson look like our top six right now with J.J. (Jackson) serving as our swing man.

Story regards Ron Jones, 6-4 1/2, 205, from Stillwater, Okla., as the Chaps' best outside shooter.

TUNING UP for the season, Midland College scrimmaged Sul Ross University, Wayland, Weatherford JC and Angelo State U. twice. "We came out on the top end of the score each time, but in scrimmages everybody plays and you really can't go by score. We looked best at Wayland, but lacked consistency, largely because we aren't as far along defensively."

Story adds, "It's important for us to get a good start and build up the confidence of our new players. We should be at the top in challenging for a Regional Tournament spot. Our conference will send a minimum of three teams and last year we had

The Chaps' tip off with Lubbock Christian is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., but Story advises that the pregame show will start at 7 p.m.

"We'll have our spirit girls, band and cheerleaders and souvenir basketballs will be tossed into the stands." advises Story.

Tuesday's game also will be YMCA and junior high football night with all w players in their jersies admitted free.

Barring one of those shocking upsets that Texas Tech and Texas Christian have a tradition for swapping, the Red Raiders should gain ground on someone in the Southwest Conference race this weekend. While the Raiders and Horned Frogs are tangling before 20,000 at Fort Worth 2 p.m. Saturday, Arkansas, tied with Tech for first in the SWC race at 3-0, plays Baylor, 4-2 and 2-1 at Waco. The Hogs are 5-1 for the season with the lone loss to Tulsa. Baylor, despite two league defeats, holds intersectional wins over Auburn, Illinois, and South Carolina.

MEANWHILE, AT Austin, Houston, 5-2, 4-1, and Texas, 3-2-1 and 2-1, will be fighting for survival. The Longhorns haven't lost or tied at home since Sept. 21, 1968, which was the last time the Cougars visited the UT campus. The teams played a 20-20 tie that many contend paved the way for Houston's eventual entry into the

The game offers a classic matchup of Houston's Veer and Texas' Wishbone. Rice quarterback Tommy Kramer leads the nation in passing and quarterback Ricky Wesson is an all-around threat for the Mustangs. Baylor's problem will be stopping Razorbacks' star Ben Cowins, who leads the SWC in rushing with 125.7 yards per game, and is fifth in the nation. Baylor, against Arkansas' SWC leading rushing defense, offers a healthy Cleveland Franklin and Gary Blair as a one-two running punch while Mark Jackson to Tomny Davidson has been a clutch passing combination for the Bears.

Arkansas won 41-3 last year as Baylor fumbled nine times and the Hogs have won seven of the last eight between the schools.

TEXAS TECH, 6-0, 3-0 and fifth ranked nationally, shouldn't have any trouble with 0-7, 0-4 TCU, especially since the Frogs probably will be without quarterback Jimmy Dan Elzner. However, the rivalry is studded with upsets in the past and a win over Tech would salvage what has been a dismal season.

With Rodney Allison ramrodding the offense and Larry Isaac and Billy Taylor supplying the sock on the ground, Tech should head into a tough stretch run with an 8-0 record.

IN THE Lone Star Conference. Texas A&I hosts Sam Houston at 7:30 p.m. The Lumberjacks, ranked No. 1 in the small college ranks, is 8-0 for the season with a 34-game winning streak. S.F. Austin, 1-6-1, is at Angelo State, 4-4-1, at 7:30 p.m. and Abilene Christian plays Cameron State at Wichita Falls.

West Texas State hosts Lamar while UTEP, playing out the string under Coach Gil Bartosh, who announced his resignation effective at the season's end, will be at Brigham Young in a Western Athletic Conference game.

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) -Stewart Ginn of Australia, using a new set of golf clubs similar to the ones he began to use at the age of 15, chopped three more strokes off par Friday and stretched his lead to seven after two rounds of the Chrysler Classic Golf Tournament.

Ginn, who started the day with a five-under-par 66, shot a 68 on the 6.961-yard Royal Melbourne course for a 36-hole total of 134.

Fellow Aussies Bob Shearer and Ian Stanley were tied for second at 141, one under par. Shearer shot a secondround 69 and Stanley a 67.

Another stroke back at 142 were John Lister and Simon Owen of New Zealand and Australian Randall Vines. Lister shot a second 71 while Owen and Vines each had a oneoverpar 72.

The best American showing was a 70-143 by Gaylord Burrows, which put him into a tie for seventh with Aussie Bruce Devlin, who had a second-round 71.

Ginn birdied five of the first 11 holes to go 10 under, but he bogeyed the 14th when he three-putted from 65 feet, and the 18th when he took a penalty

Stanley's 67, the day's best score. was put together with four birdies and two bogeys on the front nine and two birdies on the back nine.

Oklahoma...State battles Nebraska for Big 8 lead

By The Associated Press

Did you catch that hilarious typographical error in the Big Eight Conference standings? There's mighty Nebraska, all right, tied for the lead as usual, but someone slipped the word "State" in there after "Oklahoma."

Everybody knows it's always Oklahoma and Nebraska slugging it out for the title come November. Oklahoma State?

The Big Eight office insists it's really the Oklahoma State Cowboys up there in the rarefied atmosphere of first place, and not only tied for the lead with No. 9 Nebraska and No. 14 Colorado, but ranked No. 13 in the entire U.S. of A, to boot.

A FUNNY thing-an over-all 5-2 record-happened to the Cowpokes en route to their annual also-ran finish while an even funnier thing happened to the Oklahoma Sooners. They're 5-2-1 over-all, which isn't too shabby, but only 2-2 in Big Eight head-knocking while Nebraska, Colorado and Oklahoma State are all 3-1.

Unfortunately, the folks who deal in those sort of things say O-State's gonna be 3-2 come sundown Saturday in Lincoln, Neb. The other Big Eight coleader, Colorado, visits No. 16

"Nebraska is a super team," says Oklahoma State Coach Jim Stanley, fresh from back-to-back come-frombehind victories over Oklahoma and Missouri. "In Ron Pruitt and Mike Fultz they have the two best defensive tackles on one team we'll see all year. They're just part of a great defense.

"Offensively, they have a way of moving the ball on us. Nebraska claims we always play 'em tough, but we can't take this for granted. It's a must game, but Nebraska realizes this, too. There's no sleep this week for our coaches. We know we need a super plan for this game. I think it will be the most important game we have ever played."

"Right now," says Nebraska's Tom Osborne, "every game you play is a big game."

THE BIG Eight isn't the only conference with key contests on tap. While No. 1-rated Michigan visits Purdue, Big Ten co-leader Ohio State, ranked No. 8, entertains Illinois. In the Pacifics, third-ranked UCLA is at home against Oregon while coleader Southern Cal, ranked No. 4, visits Stanford.

Fifth-ranked Texas Tech, tied with No. 12 Arkansas for the Southwest Conference lead, is on the road but figures to have an easy time with winless Texas Christian while the

A&M, No. 18, is idle. Michigan's Bo Schembechler seems about to resurrect the old stock headline "Stagg Fears Purdue, although his Wolverines are lopsided favorites over the 3-5 Boilermakers. "I always consider Purdue to be a contender in the Big Ten," Bo says. 'They always seem to attract some of the best quality personnel in the conference. I don't know what's wrong with Purdue this season. I know they have some great players, so I know they are a very capable team.

Razorbacks visit rugged Baylor. The Southeastern Conference lists

Kansas State at No. 17 Oklahoma and

No. 19 Houston at No. 20 Texas, Texas

We can never take Purdue lightly, especially in West Lafayette. They are particularly tough at home against Michigan. Of all the teams in the Big Ten capable of pulling an upset, I think Purdue is the one," said Schembechler.

Oklahoma, whose dreams of an unprecedented third straight national championship collapsed in a wave of injuries, must beat lowly Kansas State or virtually drop out of the Big Eight race and face a three-game losing streak for the first time in 11

"THE INJURY situation is the worst I've ever seen at one time." moans Coach Barry Switzer. "We're a completely different team than we were at the start of the year. We can't stop anybody. We've been lucky with injuries the past three years and I guess it all catches up with you sooner or later.'

Houston and Texas, with one SWC loss apiece, are battling for survival. Texas is 3-2-1 over-all and a loss would mark the first time in a decade the Longhorns had anything as revolting as a .500 mark this late in the season.

In addition, they have won 42 consecutive games in Austin's friendly Memorial Stadium...since a 20-20 tie with Houston in the 1968 opener.

Coach Darrell Royal, coming off a bitter 31-28 loss to Texas Tech, says the Longhorns "improved on offense and fell off on defense." He also says Houston "presents many of the same problems offensively as Tech. They have a balanced attack. They are stronger physically than Tech, but they'll decide their battle when they play (Nov. 20). I don't compare my own players, so I sure shouldn't compare other folks'."

Giants frighten Dallas' Landry

By The Associated Press

Tom Landry was fishing for something nice to say about the New York Giants.

It was a tough task for the coach of the Dallas Cowboys, considering the team he was being asked about, the team his Cowboys host this Sunday, hasn't won a game this year or scored in its last 21/2 games.

Landry paused for a few moments. then found the compliment he'd been

'The Giants," he said, "are the best 0-8 team I ever saw on film.' Dallas, 7-1, is off to its best start in seven years, leading the National Football League's National Conference East. Landry insists the Giants are no clubs with those kinds of records can do just as much damage to playoff contenders as winners can.

"They hustle, they hit and don't quit," he said. And he tossed out a note of caution for his players, recalling a game in Texas two years ago, when the Giants were on their way to a 2-12 season

"They beat us 14-6 in 1974 and we didn't even get into the playoffs," he said. "It's foolish to say we will have the same concentration for New York that we had for Washington (whom the Cowboys beat 20-7 last Sunday), but we will try not to let down. This New York game counts as much as the Redskin game."

In Sunday's other NFL games it's St. Louis at Philadelphia, Washington pushovers, and that history shows at San Francisco, Detroit at Minnesota, Oakland at Chicago, Baltimore at San Diego, Buffalo at New England, Miami at the New York Jets, Atlanta at Seattle, New Orleans vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Pittsburgh at Kansas City, Cleveland at Houston, and Tampa Bay at Denver. On Monday night, Los Angeles is at

The Giants-Cowboys game is also a renewal of an old rivalry at quarterback. Roger Staubach is still throwing for Dallas. He beat out Craig Morton for the No. 1 spot a few years ago, then Morton was traded to the St. Louis, which played one of its typically hair-raising games last Sunday, a 23-20 sudden-death victory

Cards trail the Cowboys by one game and face a young Philadelphia squad buoved by last week's shutout victory over the Giants.

Both Washington and San Francisco are trying to get untracked after last weekend's losses. The Redskins desperately need a victory to keep alive their dimming playoff hopes since they trail Dallas by two games while the 49ers are gunning to stay close to Los Angeles, which vaulted over them last week and into a onehalf game lead in the NFC West.

The Vikings, Raiders, Colts and Bengals can retain their relatively tight grips on their divisional leads Young, ranked No. 3, and Lyle, the fourth-ranked heavyweight, also are sharing dreams of a go at the likes of George Foreman or Ken Norton on the way to claiming the title Muhammad Ali says he has vacated.

Young, of Philadelphia, has a record of 19-5-2, and with only seven knockouts to his credit is not known as a particularly heavy hitter. Lyle, an ex-convict now living in Denver, has knocked out 22 opponents in compiling a 31-4-1 record.

Each man studiously avoided conversation with the other on Friday. As a result, the weighin lacked the bombast associated with Ali, who knocked out Lyle in 1975 and won a close decision over Young last

The Alamo YMCA will accept individual and team registrations for Over 30 basketball until Friday. Call the Alamo Y, 694-9571, to register. Over-30 basketball is designed for men 30 years' and older. Men are offered the fun and exercise of basketball without all the running.

One of the key rules is that a defensive team getting a rebound must wait eight seconds before shooting. This allows men plenty of time to get down court and eliminates fastbreaks and wobbly knees.

TOKYO (AP) - Americans Roscoe Tanner and Dick Stockton advanced to the semifinals of the $100,000 Japan Open tennis tournament Friday, along with Australia's Ken Rosewall and Italy's Corrado Barazzutti.

The powerful Tanner served 11 aces and needed only 30 minutes to beat Jurgen Fassbender of West Germany, 6-3, 6-2. Stockton downed Dick Crealy of Australia, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2. Rosewall, the 42-year-old Australian, was extended to a second-set tie-breaker before beating John Whitlinger, 6-1, 7-6, and Barazzutti eliminated Brian Fairlie of New Zealand.

Christian Science Church experiencing turmoil

The Los Angeles Times

The Christian Science Church, whose claim to fame is spiritual healing; is having difficulty maintaining its customary mien of placid and closemouthed authority.

The number of its churches and practioners (spiritual counselors who practice healing by prayer) is in a long-term decline. In California, the state with the largest Christian Scientist population, the listed practitioners have dropped from more than 2,200 in 1946 to about 1,100 today.

And a modest grass-roots movement has been sparked by long "letters" from Reginald G. Kerry; a former Santa Barbara, Calif., who accused leaders of the Boston-based church of "gross mismanagement, inexperience and lack of Christian unless an "impartial investigation" of his charges was launched.

Kerry also suggested that churches "send no more money to Boston until a thorough financial accounting is prepared" and shown to the church membership.

Kerry, a security consultant at the Christian Science church Center in Boston in 1973, claimed in his first two letters - sent out in December and March - that the decline in the number of churches and practitioners was linked to managerial ineptitude.

Missionary to speak for Sunday service

W. Wall Ave., will be host to a career missionary to El Salvador and Guatemala for a Sunday evening program.

The Rev. Larry Bryant will present a program on El Salvador at 6 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited to hear his lecture on the issues related to ministering in that populous and energetic nation.

Mr. Bryant holds degrees from Nazarene Theological Seminary at Kansas City and Olivet Nazarene College. Before appointment to missionary service, he held a pastorate in Dayton, Ohio. He and his wife currently are on furlough in the United States, during which time they are residing in Kansas City.

Many ordinary church members. who have heard only rumors or secondhand reports of the letters, assumed the controversy ended with a study last spring by five respected Christian Science teachers, who called the letters "a cruel massive hoax." The board of directors also answered selected written questions at the denomination's June annual meeting.

Spokesmen for The Church of Christ, Scientist, as it is known officially, have admitted to some membership and financial attrition but suggest it is not much different from that suffered by other established denominations in recent times. Many of Kerry's other claims were unfounded and inaccurate, they

But last July, ripples went through the church when comedian Alan Young, who left a successful television career 10 years ago for full-time church work, returned to acting.

"The administration of the church seemed to me in a terrible state. It had become so difficult to accomplish anything," said Young, who once shared top billing on a long-running television show with a Talking horse, Young had spent three years as a practitioner in Laguna Beach, Calif., was intrumental in the church headquarters' radio-TV-film department for a while and lectured widely. But upon his return to acting, he told one interviewer, "I've found more love and brotherhood in the entertainment business than I encountered in the

The actor has received strong criticism for his remarks. He recently declined to elaborate, saying, "I feel I can do better by staying in the church, by praying and keeping my mouth

Dissidents said Young and other church members had been told, in one way or another, that if they criticized the church administration to the press they faced the possibility of being expelled from the church.

The Rev. Roy Roach has accepted a help defray New Hope's call to the pastorate of Midland's Tower Baptist Church.

A native of New Mexico and lifelong resident of that state, Mr. Roach has held pastorates in numerous Eastern New Mexico communities, including Mouse, Lovington, St. Vrain and Field. The Midland pastorate is his first outside New Mexico.

Mr. Roach attended Eastern New Mexico University at Portales and Wayland College in Plainview. He and wife Eunice are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Carrol Brand and Mrs. Dan Sage, both of Midland.

J. Buroughs Stokes, a spokesman for the Boston headquarters, denied in a telephone interview that the threat of excommunication is wielded against critics within the church.

"There are no such approaches made like that in our organization. We are very democratic; you are free to do what you want," Stokes said.

Of Kerry's frequent criticism that the cost of the new Christian Science Church Center went from an original $8 million estimate to a final $80 million. Stokes said that any "meaningful" analysis should begin with a $35 million estimate in 1967 rather than the more limited and tentative $8 million proposal in 1964.

Stokes cited inflation, strikes and other factors as reasons for escalating construction costs resulting in an actual total cost of $82 million.

Whether Christian Science officials can allay suspicions in the ranks is still uncertain, partly because some aspects of the church's operations are not disclosed.

Kerry claimed that each member of the board of directors earns about $100,000 annually from salaries and other income. The official response was that they earn far less, but precise figures were not provided

Two UCS leaders, Steve and Doris Evans, said the group is not a splinter organization but is dedicated to exposing the Boston "coverup." Mrs. Evans claimed she was dropped from the official practitioner list not long ago for unspecified offenses.

Much of the internal criticism is now being channeled through the new United Christian Scientists, Inc., a New Jersey-based group which declares its loyalty to the Christian Science cause and church founder Mary Baker Eddy.

The denomination may be the only major U.S. church which does not reveal its membership total. The church reportedly said it had 268,915 members during World War II when a figure was needed by the government to determine Christian Science's allotment in the chaplaincy.

Kerry estimated that membership is down to about 195,000. Church officials said that figure was "highly in-

A Boston area health specialist, who is also a devout Roman Catholic, says his church is a potential diseasespreader because of the way it administers holy communion in this country.

Catholic priests in the United States are required to place the communion wafer in the worshiper's mouth. John Brennan, of Needham, Mass., contends that in the process, the priest's fingers may come in contact with germ-laden or virus-laden saliva that is then transferred to the remaining wafers and thus to the worshipers.

Presto: an instant epidemic of, say, swine flu.

cy to authorize priests to put the communion wafer in the worshipper's hand to place in his or her own mouth.

Communion in the hand is common practice in Catholic churches in 50 countries, including Canada and most of Europe.

Backed by the medical opinion of a Harvard University medical professor, the Brennans have persuaded the administrative committee of the U.S. Catholic hierarchy to consider the matter at its meeting here Satur-

It is up to this six-man group to determine whether the question will be put on the agenda of the full bishops' meeting next week.

Progressive forces in the church have pressured U.S. bishops for years to authorize communion in the hand as more dignified and more appropriate for adult worshippers than what they derisively refer to as the "feed the baby bird" style of the traditional method.

The U.S. conference of bishops has twice considered communion in the hand but both times voted it down. The Rev. Thomas A. Krosnecki, associate director of the bishops' committee on the liturgy, said the negative vote stemmed from a "fear of irreverence on the part of the laity and fears that the laity would not necessarily welcome such change.'

Father Krosnecki said the Brennans' complaint was documented with a statement from Dr. Louis Weinstein, professor of medicine at Harvard and a world-recognized authority on infectious diseases.

Dr. Weinstein agreed with the Brennans' concern about the dangers of spreading infection through the present communion procedure, pointing out that since "the influenza virus is present in the upper respiratory tract, this procedure is fraught with the danger of passing the virus from a person who has the disease to a number of persons who do not yet have the infection."

Sister Marie Rieckelman, a physician who heads the U.S. Catholic Conference Office of Health Affairs here. also agreed that the present communion practice "certainly would be another means of spreading infection under epidemic conditions.'

Brennan, who works for the Forsyth Research Institute in Boston, which does research in oral health, expressed the fear in a telephone interview that despite his medical backing, his proposal may be buried in the bishops' administrative committee. That, he said "would be unconsgoverning Labor party. Two-of them voted for Mrs. Thatcher's Conservative party opposition, and the third slashed Labor's winning margin by more than three-fourths.

The off-year elections to fill three vacant seats in the House of Commons neatly covered the country. The Walsall North seat in the Midlands, vacated by the crooked and jailed John Stonehouse, turned what had been a Labor majority of 15,885 votes into a Conservative edge of 4,379. At Newcastle in the Northeast, where Labor employs an old-style political machine, a margin of 8,114 votes was reduced to 4,838. In the Northwest constituency of Workington, Labor's 9,551-vote lead was converted into a Tory victory of 1,065. But Prime Minister James Callaghan, no novice at political games, has no intention of holding an election for Mrs. Thatcher's benefit. "This government will remain in office until we have succeeded in an early hour Friday morning: "The dry rot has set in to the government house and you know just how quickly dry rot runs through a whole building. We are very near to bringing them down," she said.

This is all good stuff for the party faithful, and she knows better. Some mass media, particularly those edited several thousand miles away, keep talking about a political crisis here, about an imminent fall of the Callaghan government. They look at the House of Commons

"The results are enormously important for our morale and will stop the sniping at Maggie's leadership. But they don't bring a general election one day nearer."

What matters is Labor's margin in the House over the Tories, not its strength compared to a disparate collection of divided parties. Against the Conservatives, Labor has a nominal edge of 34 and a real advantage of 36, since it can safely count on two Ulster Catholics and two Scottlish Labor party members. Thirty-eight is more than enough to govern, more than enough to push bills through.
