The department originally had estimated a surplus for trade in goods and services at an annual rate of $5.9 billion, but later reports reduced the estimate to a $3.4 billion surplus.

Commerce also reduced its original estimate of inflation during the July-September period. Inflation totaled 4.2 per cent at an annual rate during the quarter instead of the original estimate of 4.4 per cent.

emergency room service. Under the terms of the contract, the doctors gave 60 days notice of termination of the contract on Oct. 21, Ulrich said.

A third doctor, Michael N. Burleson said he has never actually had a contract but expects to leave also. "I haven't really been given any significant option by the ad-ministration," Burleson said.

Ulrich said the doctors had given no reason for their resignations.

"We've given ample reason to the board. We've given them reason on several occasions," Gillett said. He said the problem is a "totally unsatisfactory relationship with the administration.

"We consider the administration to be primarily responsible for the existence of the problem. We have decided that we can't continue to practice under the circumstances," Gillett said.

He said Landry had found a new location but he and Burleson had not found new positions. "There are too many opportunities to make a sudden choice," Gillett said.

Ulrich said the hospital is negotiating with another group of doc-tors for similar service and he anticipates no interruption in service.

He expects to have a new contract in effect by the time the resignations become effective. "We will have doctors." Ulrich said.

Burns doesn't want cut now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board today recommended against a tax cut at the present time, but did not rule one out if the economy fails to recover from its current slowdown.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has said he will consider a tax reduction next year if the economic slowdown continues. Some of Carter's advisers have expressed concern that the Federal Reserve Board could offset the benefits by tightening the nation's money supply.

Burns has been trying to head off a possible conflict with Carter on the

The chairman made his statements in a speech prepared for the United States League of Savings Associations in New York. His remarks came as the government reduced its estimate of growth in the nation's economic output to 3.8 per cent during the fall

That rate is just below the level enerally considered necessary to hittle down unemployment.

Referring to a tax cut, Burns said he "will weigh the issue carefully" if the economy appears to need such a stimulus and if there are "economies" in federal spending.

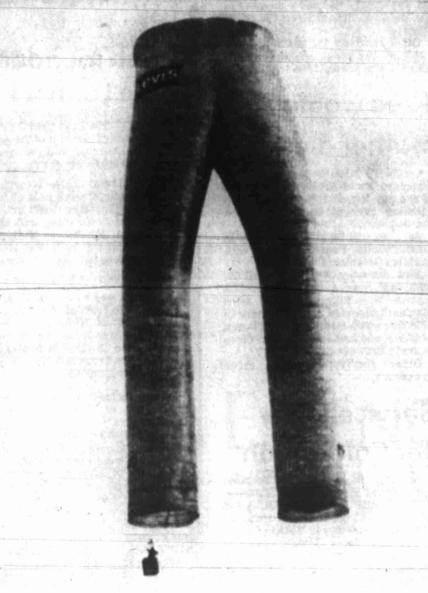

While some of Carter's advisers have said they would prefer a onetime tax rebate, Burns said he would prefer a broad-based permanent tax reduction for both buusiness and individuals, similar to a tax cut enacted in the early 1960s

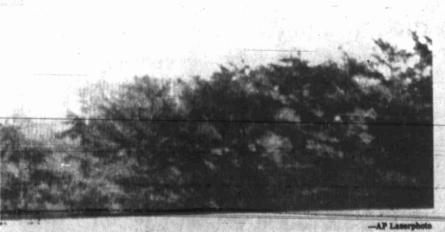

"Such a measure, on a responsible scale, would minimize social conflict and have the best chance of producing lasting economic benefits for our country," he said.

Carter, on the other hand, has said he will consider tax cuts aimed at benefiting low and middle-income workers and has said nothing about cutting taxes to benefit business

In any case, Burns said there is no need for a tax cut at the present time, partly because it could add to inflationary pressures and partly because he expects the economy to resume solid growth without one.

LIKE ALMOST EVERYTHING ELSE, the denim trade has been hit by soaring costs over recent years. Board won't be swayed by Gilmore suicide try Gilmore's sleeping pill overdose may have been a sympathy ploy or a ge-nuine suicide attempt, but it probably won't-influence his chances of facing a firing squad, the head of the state pardons board says.

Hospital officials said the 35-year-old convicted killer, who has fought efforts to delay his execution, was ex-pected to be returned to his Death Row cell at the Utah State Prison

He was found unconscious Tuesday morning after taking an overdose of morning after taking an overdose of sleeping pills in what prison officials called an apparent suicide pact with his girl friend, Nicole Barrett, 20. He later developed pneumonia.

After regaining consciousness at the hospital Wednesday, Gilmore included the intervention of the prison of the pri

10 Marines hit whites

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) - A commando-style attack by up to 10 black Marines using screwdrivers and other weapons against seven white Marines at Camp Pendleton has prompted an investigation that could lead to courts-martial, a base official

A military magistrate was to decide, possibly today, whether to try four black Marines who were taken into custody after the clubbing and stabbing assault in a new motel-style barracks Saturday night, a base spokesman said.

All but one of the white Marines were injured in the incident, and three of them remain hospitalized in satisfactory condition at the base hospital.

Spokesman Lt. Charles Owen refused comment on anonymous telephone calls to local newspapers saying the targets of the attack were white power advocates. "The investigation has not been completed."

But Owen confirmed that in addition to the black Marines already identified, three to five more were being sought for questioning.

Mrs. Barrett remained in critical condition in a coma at a Provo hospital after taking an overdose of pills at her apartment. Doctors said she was unable to breathe without a respirator and might have suffered brain damage.

Her mother said today that she had known of the suicide plot for two weeks and considered Gilmore "another Charles Manson," reference to the California cult leader serving a life sentence for murder.

George Latimer, chairman of the three-man Utah Board of Pardons said he wouldn't think his (Gilmore's) actions would have anything to do with what the board eventually decides in his case.

Gilmore's attorney, Dennis Boaz, said the double suicide attempt was 'a moment of truth" that had caused him to stop supporting his client's

Good waitress can brighten mornings

The guy in the red cap, red sweater and pitch-dark pants reminds you of the early-rising rooster who wants the world to know that he's up and that he's the first at 'em. He didn't crow or flap.

It was the break of dawn, and some of his good buddies were trying to wake up with steaming cups of coffee on a drab morning.

Businessmen to talk with college students

Four Midland business leaders will visit with Midland College students at the second annual Midland College Town Hall Meeting Friday from 10 a.m. to noon in room 213 of the learning resources center.

Panelists will be James L. Butler. vice president of finance for Perry Gas Companies Inc.; Roy E. Campbell, chairman of the board, president and chief executive officer of Elcor Corp.; Charles H. Priddy, president of Magnatex Industries, and E. E. Runyan, president and board chairman of WPC Inc.

The session is designed to allow students to learn about the opportunities in business, what industry is seeking, the social responsibility of business, how government affects business operations, the future of the free enterprise system and any other topic of interest to the students.

Gary Brummer, instructor of business administration at the college, will be moderator. Students in government, economics, business administration and mid-management classes will attend. The meeting also is open to the public.

It was organized by the college's five division chairmen, dean of students C. C. Dakil and vocational counselor Ricardo Saldana. The panelists will be honored at a luncheon after the meeting. Butler earned his bachelor's degree in accounting from The University of

Resident jailed on abuse charge

A 32-year-old Midland man remained in the county jail today in lieu of $60,000 bond on two counts of alleged sexual abuse with a child.

Ronnie Lee Collier, of Skyline Mobile Home Park, was arrested Wednesday morning by investigators from the police and sheriff's office. police Lt. Earl Luckie said.

Judge Robert H. Pine set bond Wednesday afternoon at $30,000 for each of the two counts. The first incident allegedly occurred June of 1975 and the second allegedly occurred during October this year, Luckie said. Both reportedly involved a child now eightyears-old, he added.

Texas at Arlington and received his CPA certificate in 1965. His experience includes five years in public accounting, eight years as a controller in manufacturing and two years in oil and gas as treasurer and vice president of finance.

Campbell is a native of Dallas and received his bachelor's degree from Rice University in chemical engineering. He was associated with Stanolind Oil and Gas (now Amoco) before joining the consulting firm of Leibrock, Landreth, Campbell and Calwell as a partner. He became first vice president of Elcor in 1965. He is a past director of the Permian Basin Section of SPE-AIME and past director and vice president of the national SPE-AIME.

A native of Wichita Falls, Priddy earned a mechanical engineering degree from The University of Texas and master of business education degree from Harvard University Business School. He has lived in Midland 27 years and is active in the oil industry as a petroleum engineer, partner in El Cinco Production Company, president of El Cinco Oils td. and is director of Magnatex Industries, Commercial Bank and Trust Co. and Citizens Savings and Loan Association.

He was instrumental in the formation of the Midalnd YMCA for which he was president three terms. He also has been president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, Midland Country Club and the Human Relations Council of Midland. He served two terms as campaign chairman of the Midland United Way.

Runyan formed WPC Inc., a Midland-based oilfield technology company, in 1969. He also is director of Texas American Oil Corporation and The Midland National Bank and owns EER Corporation. He received his B.S. and M.S. degrees in petroleum engineering from the University of Tulsa... Suicide try won't affect pardon board

Gilmore had been slated to die last Monday, but Gov. Calvin Rampton stayed the execution so the board could review his case at its regular meeting Wednesday. Gilmore's condition forced postponement of the review, and the board is scheduled to meet next on Dec. 6.

The board will either commute Gilmore's sentence for killing a motel clerk during a robbery or uphold the death penalty and send the case back to the trial judge for a new execution date. Latimer has indicated that the board may have little choice but to grant Gilmore's request to die.

Dr. Wesley Weissert, a psychiatric counselor at the Oregon State Prison, said Gilmore attempted suicide there in 1974 and that the doctor expected Gilmore to try it again.

A spokesman said the convict had access to television, and he said he presumed Gilmore watched news reports of himself and Mrs. Barrett. In another development, the Tribune said it has filed a complaint with a federal judge asking the state's correctional boards and officials to withdraw a policy banning interviews with Gilmore.

Grand jury indicts 10

The U.S. District Court grand jury indicted 10 persons Tuesday, including five for charges of escape from federal custody. Two cases remained sealed Thursday pending the arrest of the persons indicted.

The alleged offenses, those indicted, amount of bail and in-jail or not-in-jail status of each of those accused follow:

ESCAPE FROM FEDERAL CUSTODY: William Francis Jones. of Odessa, $20,000 in jail; Floyd Wade Graham, of Odessa, $20,000, in jail; Edward Lee Goswick, of Odessa, $20,000, in jail; Gary Wayne McCormick, of Odessa, $20,000, in jail.

Of those unserved indictments one was charged with escape and two were charged with failure to file taxes. The nature of the sealed indictments has not been released.

Robbers strike service station

ANDREWS - An Andrews service station was held up Wednesday night, for the second time within one week

The armed robbery was reported at 10:55 p.m. at the Post Office Texaco. The attendant on duty said a single male entered the station and took an unknown amount of money, Andrews sheriff's officers said.

No other details, including type of weapon or means of escape, were unknown late Thursday morning.

Also on the panel were Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland, Rep. Richard C. Slack of Pecos, Rep. Jim Rudd of Brownfield. Rep. Michael Ezzell of Snyder and Rep. John Hoestenbach of

The legislators told the educators that Gov. Dolph Briscoe is committed to an increased share in the cost of education from the state. His proposal is for the state to pay 90 per cent of the basic foundation program. Currently, the state pays an average 75 per cent of education costs.

"I really don't think there is any fine print (in the governor's position)," Rudd said.

Hance said more than a 90 per cent state share might lead to lack of local control. Hoestenbach, however, said he is afraid "certain strings" will be attached with less than complete state funding.

"We must be ever vigilant. If we get lax, if we sell out for money, then we are going to have strings attached," Hestenbach said.

He said there is a real "danger" that a limit may be imposed on the amount of local enrichment funds school districts can provide.

Craddick told the group legislators need help from their school districts to determine how proposed bills will affect them. In the last legislative session, there were several sets of figures in use so it was difficult for legislators to gauge the effect of a proposal on a given school district, he said. mented that there are too many legislative-mandated subjects that are required in the school. Such programs include drug education, the free enterprise system, law focused education, health and career Hoestenbach said superintendents need to talk to their legislators when they introduce legislation requiring things from the schools that will cause the districts problems. He suggested they request the legislator to withdraw the bill before it gets out on the floor.

Hoestenbach commented that he would be in a difficult position if he were running for office and an opponent could charge he had voted against teaching the free enterprise system. "You're not going to put me in that position.'

Big Spring superintendent Dr. Emmett McKenzie said he thinks the question of equalizing tax burdens needs to be considered.

In response, Slack said he at one time represented both the richest school district and the poorest school district in the state. They were 200 miles apart. He said there are problems involved in equalizing the Often, Slack said, "the poor and inept are going to pay more than their share." He advocated more supervision of tax collection and assessment but not "moving the tax office to Austin.

Craddick said whether or not an allday kindergarten program should be mandatory will be up for consideration in the coming legislative session. He asked the group what their feelings on the subject were

Most of those who spoke said they had had good experiences with fullday kindergarten or favored going to a full day. Midland principal Jack Hightower said Travis Elementary School, which has a half-day session does not have all of the eligible children enrolled because of child care problems which prevent the children from going for only a half

Neal Chastain, Lamesa superintendent, said Lamesa has had a fullday program several years and would not favor going back to the half day. Enrollment has gone up 100 per cent since going to the expanded program and the good results can be seen in the lower elementary grades, Chastain

Hance urged principals who favor particular programs to speak to community groups to help parents understand the need for them. The public mood now favors "reading, writing, arithmetic and lower taxes. Hance said.

In reponse to a question from Craddick on the advisability of expanding bilingual education programs to include fourth through sixth grades, the educators varied in their views.

Chastain said he would prefer to abolish the entire program because it disturbs the pupil-teacher ratio.

Hightower said Travis has a bilingual program which serves its function by third grade.

Jimmy Jones of Rusk Elementary School in Odessa, however, said he favors extension of the program because many students come into the school who have not had bilingual education and are not proficient in ODESSA, Tex. (AP) Authorities are to decide Nov. 29 who gets custody of 17-month-old Angelia Christina McCoy, a blonde, blue-eyed toddler who was found more than a week ago at an Odessa supermarket.

The baby girl, who was standing in a grocery cart when a customer discovered her, was identified Wednesday by her father, Clarence McCoy, jailed in Hobbs, N.M., on embezzlement charges.

Authorities continue to search for her missing mother.

After she was discovered, Angelia was taken to Ector County Children's Services, which then placed her in an Odessa foster home. She was dubbed "Shelley" by the foster

WASHINGTON (AP) - Steadily rising costs may force Congress to make "hard choices" in allocating defense funds between manpower and new weapons, a new study warns.

Although the report prepared by the General Accounting Office was directed to Congress, its conclusions carry significant implications for President-elect Jimmy Carter.

Among other things, the GAO report says there are limits to manpower cost reductions that can be achieved by improving efficiency in the use of defense personnel. "Larger reductions can only be achieved by policy changes affecting strength and pay levels," it said.

During his successful campaign for the presidency, Carter pledged to cut the defense budget by $5 billion to $7 billion, mainly by eliminating waste, improving efficiency, and changing some personnel policies.

Happy 50th, WTGS!

Society held its 50th anniversary meeting recently at Midland Country Club, with one charter member and 22 past presidents in attendance.

The organization has set a number of records during its existence, but having 22 of its past presidents on hand at one time is quite an achievement in itself.

Charles D. Vertrees, veteran Midland geologist, was the charter member present. Two other living charter members are Ellis Hall and W. Henry Conkling.

The half-century anniversary dinner surely must have brought to mind among many of the oldtimers recollections of numerous incidents, happenings and situations experienced through the years.

According to Vertrees' "History of the West Texas Geological Society." the organization of WTGS went like this:

"A number of geologists headquartering in San Angelo decided it would be advantageous to all geologists working in the Permian Basin to have a society where members could get together at meetings, discuss their geologic problems and become better acquainted. Early in January 1926 a group of eight geologists met in the Dixie Oil Co. offices in San Angelo and discussed the formation of a geological society... The group decided a geological society should be organized and plans were made to hold a meeting at an early date where all geologists could attend and get a formal organization started. This meeting was held on the mezzanine of the St. Angelus Hotel in San Angelo at 8 p.m., Jan. 16, 1926."

The organization was accomplished and Dr. J.W. Beede was elected as the first president. Fifty-one geologists paid their

$1 annual dues at that time... It was voted to call the newly formed organization the West Texas Geological Society, since geologists working in West Texas as a whole would be eligible as members of the society.

And it went on from there to survive the Great Depression. World War II and a number of other major problems to become the world's largest regional geological society. Membership

The West Texas Geological dues have been increased on occasion since the early years.

Regular meetings were held in San Angelo for a number of years. They later were alternated between San Angelo and Midland. Still later, the headquarters of the society were moved to Midland as oil companies relocated their district and division offices here and as the oil play shifted west-

The geologists in those early days had to rough it as they spread out over the West Texas countryside on mapping and other exploration operations. Improved roads were few and far between in those times, and the automobiles - and tires - were not what they are today.

But they survived the hardships and inconveniences. They got the job done, and the achievements of the petroleum industry and the progress and development of West Texas and the Permian Basin Empire through the years must be credited in large extent to the geologists and their untiring efforts. They never have and perhaps never will receive the full recognition which they so rightly deserve.

And the geologists of today are carrying on in traditional style and activities, just as the West Texas Geological Society continues as a great and highly respected organization, striving always to strengthen and advance the profession while, at the same time striving for community and regional betterment.

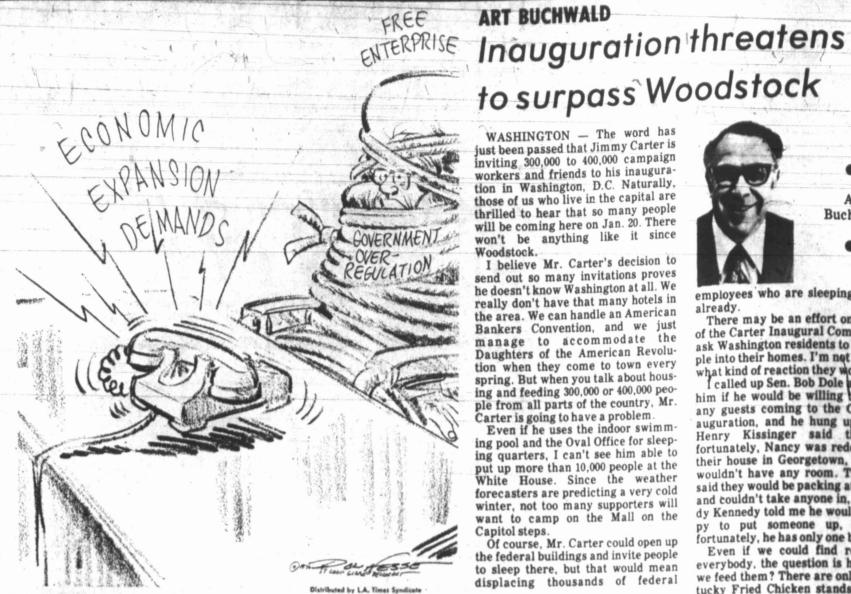

The society and its also are engaged diligently and effectively in continuing efforts to locate new oil and gas reserves to help overcome the nation's energy shortage and to make America self-sufficient in oil and gas production.

Congratulations and all best wishes always to the West Texas Geological Society on its 50th

WASHINGTON MERRY - GO - ROUND

Setbacks distress Republicans

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - In the privacy of the Republican policy councils, the party pros are more distressed over their setback on Capitol Hill than the loss of the White House.

They see the future of the Republican party threatened by the shattering congressional defeat. They had expected to gain 15 to 50 House seats. Yet of the 252 Democratic incumbents, only seven lost their seats. Two of the unlucky seven were Rep. Allan Howe, D.-Utah, who was caught up in a sex scandal, and Rep. Henry Helstoski, D.-N.J., who was under indictment. The Democrats overcame their losses by taking some Republican seats, with an apparent net gain of two seats. (At this writing, the votes are still being recounted in two races.)

In making their private postmortems, the GOP strategists have acknowledged that the prevailing political winds should have favored them. The Democrats had picked up a number of marginal seats two years ago in the post-Watergate landslide. In the past, the losing party has usually bounced back at the next election and has recaptured the close seats. But of the 74 freshmen Democrats, only two lost the seats they had won in 1974. The Republican pros had also calculated that the sex-in-Congress scandal would hurt the Democrats. From President Ford on down, the GOP had gone on the offensive against the Democratic Congress. Both Republican superstars, Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan, had campaigned generously for House members. Then, at the last moment, $308,470 was pumped into the 33 tightest races. Still, the Republicans couldn't hold their own. The results have stirred talk in GOP circles about reassessing the future and restructuring the party. This could lead to some major changes before the Republicans go to the polls again in 1978.

At the same time, a post-election analysis by the Democratic Study Group shows that some new political tactics paid off. These tactics were developed at closed-door meetings that began back in November 1974.

The party tacticians pointed out that the Republicans would regain several marginal seats unless the Democrats began at once to strengthen their hold on them. Thus, the 1974 election had hardly faded from the headlines before the Democratic Study Group and the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, working together, launched a "Get Elected" campaign.

The campaign committee immediately began deciding where funds in $1,000 to $5,000 sums would do the most good. The following January, February and March, campaign workshops were held. The Democratic congressmen and their aides were instructed on producing newsletters, media coverage and other self promotion.

The DSG's Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D .-Tex., and executive director John Conlon emphasized that the congressmen not only must work hard, but must appear to do so. This meant they must show up for as many of the 1,300 votes per session as possible. They were also shown that every vote is a potential pitfall or promotion point.

One of the most successful tactics, according to the DSG analysis, was encouraging the congressmen to go out in vans and converted mobile homes like old-time circuit riders to meet with votes in their home neighborhoods. At these sessions, the congressmen listened to the ideas and complaints of their constituents.

Of course, Mr. Carter could open up

The congressmen were also encouraged to organize weekend "town meetings" in out-of-the-way corners of their districts. "Take government to the people," Conlon urged. One of the unexpected victors on November 2, Rep. Floyd Fithian, D.-Ind., held

The Democratic congressmen also used a new polling system, which permitted them to cut costs and take more polls of voting trends.

It appears from the confidential analysis that the House Democrats helped to fashion their own 1976 victories.

WATCH ON WASTE - The Navy recently flew 41 Texas newsmen. public officials and friends of Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements to Groton, Conn., to watch Mrs. Clements write her name on the keel of the nuclear submarine Dallas, now under construction.

Navy officials explained that the signature ceremony is traditional. The special flight cost the taxpayers slightly more than $11,000.

We have just learned, meanwhile. that Rear Adm. Lee Baggett made sure his new car was waiting for him upon his return to the United States from the Mediterranean last year.

He ordered a Navy ship to pick up his new Fiat Spider sports car and the automobile of a staff aide in Naples. The ship hauled both cars, free of charge, to the United States. The admiral and his aide saved about $400 apiece.

A Navy spokesman told us the incident is now under investigation.

DIATHERMY SCANDAL- The Food and Drug Administration has failed to regulate the safety or effectiveness of thousands of diathermy devices, which are used to treat back problems, arthritis, fractures and other medical problems. Instead, the FDA has squandered its resources chasing down one single diathermy manufacturer.

These findings are contained in a confidential report of the General Accounting Office, prepared at the request of Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D.-

There may be an effort on the part of the Carter Inaugural Committee to ask Washington residents to take people into their homes. I'm not sure now what kind of reaction they would get.

I called up Sen. Bob Dole and asked him if he would be willing to take in any guests coming to the Carter inauguration, and he hung up on me. Henry Kissinger said that, unfortunately, Nancy was redecorating their house in Georgetown, and they wouldn't have any room. The Fords said they would be packing at the time and couldn't take anyone in, and Teddy Kennedy told me he would be happy to put someone up, but, unfortunately, he has only one bedroom. Even if we could find rooms for everybody, the question is how could we feed them? There are only 15 Kentucky Fried Chicken stands in all of Washington, 18 McDonald's hamburger outlets, 17 Burger Chefs and 12 Hot Shoppes.

The only experience Washington has had with handling so many people at one time was when the Veterans of World War I came to town during the Hoover Administration to protest their lack of bonuses, and Gen. MacArthur was ordered to drive them out of town. In recent years we've dealt with mobs - during the Nixon Administration thousands of students came to Washington to protest the Vietnamese war. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell handled the problem by rounding everyone up, arresting them and locking them up in the R.F.K. Stadium, which can't handle more than 51,000 people at one

Whether Mr. Carter would want to go to this extreme to handle his guests s something I don't know.

We admire the President-elect for wanting so many people to come to his inaugural, but we question his judgment in not thinking through what it will do to the town. We have about four places that can handle inaugural balls, so the majority of people will have to dance in the in the snow

I'm not predicting trouble, but I believe Mr. Carter's first act as President may have to be to call out the National Guard on Jan. 20 and declare Washington a disaster area

Every President has a right to have the inauguration of his choice, but Mr. Carter may have bitten off more than he can chew if everyone he invites to his swearing-in agrees to come.

If the President-elect decides to go ahead with it, I think he should pardon John Mitchell and make him chairman of his Inaugural Committee, Mitchell may not have cleared the streets of Washington legally, but at least he got the job done

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER

1. How many times have we doubted things in our mind that we knew in our hearts were really so? Shelly says, "The creative faculty to imagine whot we know." The Bible tells it plainer, "The eyes of your understanding being enlightened." Who said that? Ephesians 1:1-18

2. Who, without using his mind and reasoning, used his unreliable heart and said "There is no God"? Psalm 14:1, 53:1 3. What did Joseph order to be put in his brother's grain sacks? Gen. 44:2 4. How did David kill Goliath, who was covered with a coat of mail and helmet? 1 Sam. 17:49, 1 K. 17:49 (D.)

5. Who was Jason? Romans 16:21 Four correct ... excellent. Three correct ... good.

NICK THIMMESCH

President-elect's brother, Billy Carter, good old boy

WASHINGTON - So George Wallace says that Billy Carter was his choice over Jimmy for President. That makes sense because Wallace and Billy are a lot alike, the kind of good old boys Southerners instinctively warm to. Billy has been red-faced and brew happy on TV plenty lately, and the public is just getting to know As Jimmy-elect's brother, Billy joins a long list of presidential brothers, some of whom were distinguished in their own right, and some of whom had to be hid. The advance notices on Billy are such that fussy Democrats here hope he'll remain in Plains, but, after all, that's where Billy wants to be anyway. Now Billy, 39, is a Rabelaisian character. He drinks enough beer to make his face color match his neck and extend his belly, besides. There is no shame in Plains over the prodigious amounts of beer he extracts from the cooler in his gas station.

In fact, there is a spirit of gusto in this center of peanut commerce. A recent visitor rode with Billy in his Bravo truck en route to the Americus Moose lodge and noticed that Billy threw a beer can out the window (L.B.J. did the same thing, only from a Cadillac he was tooling around his

His beer drinking is legendary, and so is his stomach, the lining of which is reputed to have the durability of a goat's interiors. Billy once held two paper cups in his hand, one full of beer and the other minnows. That's right, he mindlessly downed both, but went fishing anyway.

Billy is a natural man, all right. He was 18 when he married his 15-year-old sweetheart, and now they've got a lovely 20-year-old daughter. Billy spent four years in the Marines, tried college, but flunked English five times, sold paint and finally went where the money was - in the Carter family's peanut business. Billy worked hard to make it even more prosperous.

It doesn't take much, apparently, to get Billy into a scuffle. He has threatened to punch out newsmen (he is allergic to the media), and he had to be held back once when he went after a news photographer.

Newsmen say that Billy used the word "nigger" freely until the campaign got close, and suddenly he swallowed the calumnious term. But the same newsmen vow that Billy's not dumb; he's shrewd like Bre'r Rabbit and well-read besides.

President Eisenhower's brothers were first-rate men in their own right, but were no source of embarrassment. President Kennedy's "kid" brother, Robert F. Kennedy, was a sort of 60-40 proposition. R.F.K. was fierce for his brother and was a driven attorney general, but he made many enemies, and the hostility sometimes rubbed off on J.F.K. Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) was the charismatic "kid" brother for years before he developed his own distinct Lyndon B. Johnson had a brother, Sam Houston Johnson, who was earthy, outspoken and often in trouble. L.B.J. tried to shelter him in the White House. Sam Houston Johnson did not run from alcohol, nor did bad luck have any difficulty finding him. He could cuss and stomp around the same as Lyndon, and there was many a prayer that he would not publicly disgrace his brother.

Sam Houston Johnson, like many close kin of famous people, had trouble keeping himself together and asserting his own personality. His behavior and his book, "My Brother Lyndon" (which is fun reading), were his best attempts to be his own man. A month ago, Sam Houston Johnson endorsed President Ford, and Democratic Party Chairman Bob Strauss said, "That means Carter wins Texas.

Richard Nixon had his brother. Donald Nixon, wiretapped because Donald had always been a sucker for anybody with a story. W.C. Fields could have lived off poor Donald for a lifetime. Still. Nixon has another brother. Edward, who was and is a serious, upright man, quiet, unassuming and competent. He caused no sweat for R.N. President Ford has a raft of halfbrothers and sisters, but they are so unobtrusive, nobody ever heard of them. Tom. Dick and James Ford are hardly known in Michigan, where they live, and President Ford's halfbrother and two half-sisters on the King side are near strangers to the press. When the Ford half-brothers campaigned this fall, people stared at them only because they didn't know who they were.

What happens, I believe, is that we put such an aura around Presidents that they appear almost superhuman, and therefore it is incongruous for them to have anything as prosaic as a brother. All families have their achievers and their losers, their extroverts and quiet folk. A family of Kennedys, of course, is the exception which disproves all of this. All three Kennedy men carried charisma as though it was congenital.

President-elect Carter has the quintessential good-old-boy brother, Billy. It's funny newsmen didn't much discover him and his earthy ways until after the election, but then Earl Butz was still a Cabinet officer, Billy says he wouldn't mind being secretary of agriculture, but I'll bet he never meets John Dean.

Ousting of diplomats typifies U.S.-Soviet friction

The Washington Post

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union has revoked the visa of a senior American diplomat here in retaliation for a similar action by the United States against a Soviet official, a U.S. embassy spokesman said Wednesday.

The moves took place some weeks ago but were not disclosed, officials indicated, while efforts were underway to persuade the Soviets to change their minds about the American, Marshal Brement, the embassy's political counselor. reporter's query on the matter Brement, 44, a Soviet affairs specialist, left for vacation and home leave in August and was subsequently informed he would not be allowed to U.S. officials would not disclose the identity of the Soviet involved but said his visa had been withdrawn because he was "engaging in improper activities in the U.S." The Soviet Foreign Ministry did not respond to a Wednesday.

"It was perfectly clear that the action taken against Marshal Brement was purely retaliatory, said embassy spokesman Raymond Benson, "and the United States has urged the Soviet Union to recon-

The Russian had also been informed that he would not be readmitted while he was out of the country, said Benson, so neither case can be formally regarded as an expulson, although that is the effect. Use of this somewhat oblique format for ousting each others' representatives may be in deference to the nominally improved relations between the Soviet Union and United States in the

There apparently have been no such exchanges for several years, perhaps as many as seven. In 1969, the U.S. economic counselor in Moscow was ordered to leave when a Soviet official

The resumption of mutual ousters provides the latest example of how Soviet-American frictions, which have revived in the past year, affect representatives of the two countries.

In the heyday of the detente era between 1972 and 1975, such actions were either suspended or downplayed. Then last February, in the wake of American displeasure over Soviet actions in Angola and elsewhere, it was disclosed here that the Kremlin was focussing strong radiation beams on the U.S. embassy building. Next, the Russians States about harassment of its officials in the United States by Jewish extremist groups.

That point was driven home when American diplomats here were subjected to telephoned threats, minor jostling on the street and bomb scares at the embassy building.

Retaliation of that sort had largely ceased lately. Wednesday, however, an anonymous caller to the Soviet Ministry of Interior warned that at a bomb was set to go off in the pavilion at Sokolniki Park, where an enormously popular American exhibit to mark the U.S. Bicentennial has been drawing huge crowds all week.

According to Bell attorney Jon D. Lawrance, Dooley later said he had understated the telephone company's expenses by $40 million and had failed to include in an income tax calculation $72 million in additional revenue and $32 million in expenses.

BEVERLY HILLS-"A party in new Hollywood is a stratagem and an artifice," writes Joyce Haber in her new novel, "The Users," published by Delacorte. The parties that observer Haber classifies as "A" are the highly publicized affairs given by supersocially ambitious Hollywood hostesses who hope to dazzle the world with their glittering guest lists that often read like an account of last year's Academy Award ceremony, where people come not so much to eat elaborately catered meals as to be souffle." Joyce also included some of Chasen's famous chili.

When Joyce invites friends for dinner, she keeps the guest list short—12 people is her maximum. "I love to cook, but I hate to clean up the house afterward! One of my favorite dishes for company is a shrimp curry served with all the trimmings. What's really fun is giving a party with Dani Janssen, David's wife. We're great friends. Dani'll come over and do practically the whole thing. Her lasagne is sensational- she even makes her own pasta-but she won't part with her recipe for anything!

seen, sometimes to be heard, most of all, to impress.

Getting the "in" guests to accept, working out the seating arrangement and pairing off congenial people requires the cunning and political savvy of a presidential candidate's campaign manager, Joyce says.

Joyce knows the Hollywood social scene as few others do. She's been chronicling the loves, hates and ennuis of super stars for many years. It was the Hollywood party scene, in fact, that inspired her to write her book. "I used to be invited to endless lunches and dinners by people I came to recognize as closet press agents. They were secretly employed by wives of C movie stars or Hollywood newcomers who were anxious to get their names into the celebrity gossip columns, but who didn't want it to be known they were using a flack. I was fascinated by these people, these users of others who exploited their friends for their own political purposes. There are still a lot of people in this business who aren't aware that there are such things as secret press agents," Joyce said. She was seated in the den of her Beverly Hills home, once owned by the late Clifton Webb.

In "The Users," Joyce describes an "A" party given by her heroine, Elena, who's a one-time B-Girl, now reigning West Coast Hostess, perched at the very top of the slippery Beverly Hills-Bel Air social ladder. "Elena gives the party to bolster the sagging career of her movie-star husband. She gets the whole thing catered by a famous restaurant in exchange for the free publicity, and she fills her heavily mortgaged home with flowers by the same method. Actually," Joyce said, scratching the head of Ralph, her big, affectionate, white poodle, "most of those parties are truly boring." Ralph is a member of the Haber menagerie, which includes several cats and another dog. The human population consists of Joyce and her children, nine-year-old and six-year-old Courtney Joyce hasn't given many parties lately, but when she does have them, her first goal, she says, is "to make my friends feel comfortable." Her most recent bash was given in honor of her publisher; "I wanted it to be the best party I'd ever given. I served chicken and roast beef, vegetables, three kinds of salad (plain garden lettuce, spinach, fruit), and for dessert, cheese, fruit, and a lemon

The recipe for Joyce Haber's shrimp curry supreme follows:
SHRIMP CURRY SUPREME

Serves 8 to 10 For the shrimp: 3 stalks of celery with leaves, chopped

3 tbsp. chopped parsley 1 large onion, peeled, chopped 2 large bay leaves 9 peppercorns, bruised 1 half lemon, sliced 1 bottle dry white wine of qt. water 4 lbs. jumbo green shrimp Combine all the ingredients except shrimp in large saucepan. Bring to a boil, simmer 10 minutes. Reduce to slow simmer; add shrimp all at once; cook until shrimp turn pink and are cooked through. Do not overcook. Remove shrimp from stock; cool immediately by placing shrimp on ice cubes. Strain stock, cook, reserve.

Shell and devein shrimp. For the curry: 2 medium onions, peeled, minced 1 clove garlic, pressed two-third cup chopped green apple two-third cup chopped celery

¼ cup good quality curry powder, preferably a Madras brand. 1/2 tsp. ground ginger or cumin 1/4 cup sweet butter or margarine few drops Tabasco sauce

salt, freshly ground black pepper to 2 cups shrimp stock 2 cups cream

Educational opportunities for women at MC outlined

James E. Bramlett, director of the Department of Community Services at Midland College, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Beta Eta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha in the home of Mrs. Clarence Grant.

Mrs. S. L. Davis gave a brief history of MC and introduced Bramlett, who spoke of the educational opportunities for women at the school. He pointed out that while courses offered by the Department of Community Services are nonacademic, they do offer a variety of areas in which women can study for refreshing skills necessary for employment, as well as for personal enjoyment. "Continuing education units of credit are given for hours spent in adult and continuing education courses and employers are recognizing these hours as acceptable means of training when women enter

Tea honors Mrs. Wood

A Preferential Tea honoring Mrs. James Wood was held by the Beta Eta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma in the home of Mrs. Charles Campanella, 3216 Boyd St. Serving as co-hostesses were Mrs. Reggie Medley, Mrs. Frank Felts and Mrs. Jerry Newnham.

Chapter president, Mrs. Clarence Grant, officiated at ceremonies marking the occasion of Mrs. Woods' affiliation with the chapter. Mrs. Grant also presented a 10-year service award to Mrs. Dan Cotten, and five-year service awards to Mrs. Newnham, Mrs. Lamar Haines and Mrs. Campanella.

the job market. Numerous women who have started taking courses in the adult education department several years ago have now enrolled as academic students at MC and are working toward degrees in several fields. The number of students taking courses through this department has grown from only a few in the first year to cover 3,400 in 1975, with 1976 enrollments expected to exceed Bramlett also pointed out that the department is actually a college within the main body of MC, with it's own registration procedure, a staff of approximately 100 parttime teachers and a bulletin that is published twice each year describing the courses through the department. Most of the courses are offered at night on the MC campus, 3600 N. Garfield St.

At a business meeting following the speaker, Mrs. Marshall Blount, ways and means chairman, reported the committee is making plans for a western dance to be held later in the year as a fund raising activity. Members decided to order ESA International cookbooks to sell as another money raising activity, with proceeds to be used for various philanthropic efforts supported by the chapter.

Mrs. Reggie Medley, social chairman, reported that the couples Christmas party will be held Dec. 10 Ranchland Hill Country Club. Secret sisters will be revealed and gifts exchanged at the December business meeting.

Mrs. Sam Harril was appointed awards chairman, replacing Mra. Wil Klaehn who has become an inactive member. Mrs. James Wood will serve as Mrs. Harril's co-chairman.

DEAR ABBY

Drinking buddy is dog

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of an alcoholic dog? I think we have one. Every weekend my husband puts away eight six-packs of beer with the help of Rudy, our 10-year-old cocker spaniel.

I am not putting you on, Abby. It all started when Don (my husband) gave Rudy a taste of his beer. Rudy loved it, so Don gave him some more, and pretty soon it got to be a regular thing. Now after a few beers, Rudy chases his tail, staggers around and finally falls down and goes to sleep.

Can all this beer hurt the dog? Don says it can't. I say it can. Rudy can hardly wait until Friday, and when he sees Don carry those six-packs out of the car, he gets so excited he nearly goes crazy.

DEAR WIFE: My vet consultant says it is indeed

I would ask our vet but I'm ashamed.—DON'S possible for a dog to become addicted to beer. And I think anyone who would addict a dog is a dirty dog

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my boyfriend's taste in clothes for me. When he goes shopping with me, or buys a gift of clothing for me, he always picks out something that's backless or so low in front I can't wear a bra. He also likes dresses that have long slits up the sides and hip-hugger pants that fit skin tight blouse last Christmas and I haven't had the nerve to envelope, please.

I hate to hurt his feelings, but I feel uncomfortable wearing clothes that show so much. Am I too modest? Or do all guys like for their girls to dress this way?-MODEST

DEAR MODEST: All guys are not eager for their girlfriends to put on a skin exhibition. It's your body, and if you're uncomfortable in such get-ups, don't wear them for him or anybody else.

DEAR ABBY: No problem-I just thought you might enjoy a note our young daughter slipped under our bedroom door. It read:

DEAR ABBY: I have this real problem that only you can help me with. See, it's my parents. After 28 years of marriage, they still love each other! (Abnormal.) They still hold hands in public! (Disgusting.) They keep on telling me that they love me! (Humiliating.)

Do you think they should be committed for this? Say, to the Smithsonian Institution?

Durham was leveling chips in an elevated bin last Friday when he was dumped accidentally into the truck, which then headed for a fiber company 40 miles away.

Jerry Thorp, supervisor at Lumber Specialty Industries Inc., said Durham had neglected to block the driveway with a board that keeps trucks from backing under the bin while somebody is working in it. Better safety precautions since have been instituted, Thorp

"I knew I was going to die," Durham said. "I struggled, I yelled, but nobody heard me. Then I realized I had better save my energy."

Durham said he was nearly trampled and suffocated when the truck stopped at a weigh station. "I could feel somebody walking right on top of me there, but no one heard me yelling," he

Unknown to Durham, back at the lumber company Thorp had noticed him gone about 15 minutes after the truck pulled away. Realizing he might be in the truck, Thorp phoned fiber company officials, who contacted the driver by radio.

An ambulance awaited the truck at Longview, and workers dug and clawed Durham free. He escaped with only three cracked ribs and internal bleeding which has cleared up.

"I'm not religious, but I have second thoughts now," he said. "I know God had something to do with me making it."

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — It could happen as early as Dec. 10—the day J.W. Estelle must kill a man.

As it stands now, that is the date Robert Excel White or James Owen Livingston, both of Waco, will enter a room at the state prison in Huntsville and become perhaps the first person to be executed since the death penalty was upheld by the Supreme Court. They were sentenced for killing a Collin County grocer and two teen-age customers in May 1974.

In Texas, the death instrument is the electric chair.

The law specifies that Estelle, director of the Texas Department of Corrections, must throw the switch that snuffs out life with a massive jolt of electricity.

Estelle has long carried a "tough guy' image as a prison ad-ministrator, but an interview Wednesday he was filled with long, reflective pauses, revealing the inner agony of a man cast into the role of executioner.

Rangers gamble on Bert

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) - The Texas Rangers are gambling a considerable amount of money that Bert Campaneris turns out to be another Luis Aparacio.

The Rangers signed the 35-year-old former Oakland shortstop to a five-year contract believed to be in the neighborhood of $750,000. A's owner Charlie Finley said late last year that Campaneris had demanded a fiveyear contract totaling near $750.000.

Ranger majority owner Brad Corbett said "When we considered Bert's age we also considered the record of another shortstop by the name of Luis Aparicio who was very productive until he was 39 or 40. With the designated hitter rule, we believe Bert will play for us many years."

The signing of Campaneris means that the Rangers will probably have starters at three new positions in the infield in 1977. Toby Harrah will move from shortstop to third base and Bump Wills is expected to beat out Lenny Randle at second base. Only first baseman Mike Hargrove's job is Campaneris was described by manager Frank Lucchesi as having "the body of a 30-year-old." The muscular Campaneris nodded

A's-ex becomes Angel

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) - Outfielder Joe Rudi and shortstop Bert Campaneris are the latest refugees in the exodus of the Oakland A's via baseball's free agent route.

Rudi joined another ex-Oakland outfielder, Don Baylor, with the California Angels, and Campaneris signed with the Texas Rangers.

Both players agreed to longterm deals Wednesday and ex-Philadelphia Phillies' second baseman Dave Cash reached a similar arrangement with the Montreal Expos.

That's five signings in two days for super-agent Jerry Kapstein and four of the players he has parceled out are ex-employes of the A's and owner

Charles O. Finley. Besides Rudi, Baylor and Campaneris, former Oakland catcher-first baseman Gene Tenace signed with San Diego.

Still waiting their turns are reliever Rollie Fingers, one of five free agents Kapstein still has available, and third baseman Sal Bando.

Finley retained the negotiating rights to all of his players as part of the free agent draft arrangement but, according to Kapstein, he never called the agent.

Rudi, who carried a million dollar price tag after Boston paid Finley that much for him last June in a deal that was vetoed by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, bristled over the image his old boss has painted for himself in this free agent marketplace.

"It's incredible that Charlie comes out looking like the good guy," the veteran outfielder said. "The average people really don't know what is going on. People say, 'How can you not get along with such a nice man like that?' But they don't know him.'

Rudi batted .270 with 13 home runs and 94 runs batted in for the A's last season. He missed three weeks when Finley refused to allow him in the lineup following Kuhn's block of the

Reddell compares 6-4A favorably with 5-4A

The student body at Euless Trinity High School is excited about the big Class AAAA bi-district football playoff game with Robert E. Lee's Rebels in Abilene Saturday.

Former Midland High Coach John Reddell has guided his Trojans into the state playoffs, taking a 3-7 team from last season to a 10-0 reading this

And while the Trojans appear excited, things aren't exactly quiet in Midland as the Maroon Platoon prepares for the 2 p.m. kickoff in P.E. Shotwell Stadium.

"Yes, you might say we are excited and pleased over being in the playoffs for the first time here at Trinity, " said Reddell by phone Wednesday

Reddell hesitated when asked if District 6-4A compares with 5-4A which is called over the Lone Star State as the Little Southwest Con-

"I must admit that it isn't State Fair Week here every weekend, but yes, I would compare our district with 5-4A." Reddell should know since he Reddell rates his Trojans as stronger physically than his teams at Midland and it should be, because of the size in the line.

"We have some players that have played better than we anticipated and we have a good ball club," said

As far as workouts this week in preparing for Lee, the Trojans had one day of cold weather and that was on Monday. "Tuesday and today was nice and we got a lot of things done that we need to in order to be ready to

Pork Chop Hill, molder of Rankin's champions

RANKIN-There is a hill that menacingly sits right behind Rankin's football field house. It's the place that champions are made. It's unlovingly known as "Pork Chop Hill"

On top of the hill is the football practice field. There are no escalators, sidewalks or runways to the top- just a worn path where many have trod

One trip to the top, and the hill becomes a mountain. If you survive the season at Rankin, it becomes Mt. Olympus. It's where the fortunes of Red Devils are directed by the likes of Zeus, Thor and Mercury.

It's where head football coach Dwayne Turner has built teams that have posted a 57-16 record since 1972 when Turner first sent a team up Pork

RANKIN WILL be in the Class A. playoffs for the fourth time in the last five years Friday when they meet No. 3 ranked Seagraves in Andrews at 7:30 p.m. Rankin is undefeated with a 9-0 record, and it all started back in August when the Red Devils first went out to conquer Pork Chop.

It may be easier to conquer other football teams than The Chop. Only champions can survive. It's the only way Pork Chop will have it.

Rankin players become acquainted with Pork Chop in the seventh grade and it remains a part of their lives until they graduate. It is a place you can learn to love and hate with each running stride up and down its sides .

By the time Rankin gridders reach high school age, they know how to cope with Pork Chop. They know how to get to the top where the practice sessions begin. They know how to be a Red Devil by the time they learn to get to the top.

WAITING FOR the grid hopefuls; at the top will be two assistant coachies, who know how to take the knowledge learned on the hill and turn it into a football team. Coach James Heffernan molds the line and coach Willie Myers shapes the backs. Turner overlooks it all from his throne on top of Pork Chop. It's a working system.

Probably the most rewarding experience for a Rankin football player is the end of a practice session. It's all down hill to the locker room. Only thoughts of the return trip up The Chop the next day can mar the feeling.

Apparently, it's all down hill on Friday nights too. That's when the Devils take to Red Devil Stadium to finally show their wares learned on Pork Chop. That's the easy roadwith bus and all. That's first class treatment. They don't have to run to the stadium. They've learned enough

THE CHOP builds confidence, and Rankin doesn't shudder at the names of other highly ranked teams when Friday night rolls around. Seagraves is no exception.

Rankin will play the role of the underdog Friday against the Eagles, but Rankin looks forward to the game. They feel (they know) they have the team that can win.

After all, Pork Chop expects them to win. The Chop is a good teacherstern and tough with the wisdom of years behind it.

The lessons of The Chop will be put to test Friday. Win or lose Pork Chop will be there for the next group. The teaching process never ends. Pork Chop Hill is a teacher in the truest BY TERRY WILLIAMSON

R-T Sports Writer
ANDREWS—The undefeated Rankin Red Devils and the once beaten Seagraves Eagles will square off here Friday at 7:30 p.m. in Mustang Bowl in what The Associated Press terms the top Class A bi-district football matchup in the state.

Rankin will enter the contest with a perfect 9-0 mark while Seagraves will tote an 8-1 reading. Both teams cancelled the last game of the regular season when the Blizzard of '76 hit last

The playoff battle is not a new experience for either team. Rankin is making a playoff appearance for the fourth time in the last five years under coach Dwayne Turner while Seagraves is appearing for the third straight under coach Jim Eddins.

RANKIN AND Seagraves met in the bi-district round in 1974 with Seagraves winning, 32-19. In fact, Seagraves has not lost a bi-district encounter the two years they have been in the playoffs. Last year, Seagraves defeated Iraan, 22-0.

Rankin, on the other hand, has twice entered the playoffs with an undefeated mark. With 10-0 records. Rankin lost to Plains, 13-0, in 1972, and lost to Seagraves two years ago.

"Well things are a little different this time," Turner says. "We are 9-0 this year and not 10-0. That's the Still, Rankin is considered the underdog. Seagraves in the No. 3 ranked team in the state while Rankin is rated No. 8. However, when Rankin took a 7-3 record into the playoffs in 1973, the Red Devils advanced to the quarterfinals before losing to Vega, 35-0. That year the Devils knocked off the state's top ranked unit Holliday by a big 23-6 margin. Most everyone is considering this year's matchup as a near tossup

BOTH TEAMS will enter Friday's engagement injury free. With the week off last week, both teams have had a chance to get their clubs in top

"Seagraves is big and strong," Turner notes. "But I think we will be in better shape physically than when we played them the last time. Our quarterback played injured against them last time and it took the passing game away from us."

The two Wing-T oriented coaches both feel that they have to stop the others' running game to win.

"They have three super running backs just like they did the last time," Turner assessed. "It's liable to be a knock down, drag out, and they may whip us, but they'll know that they've been in a ball game when it's over. I think our kids are ready. I know my kids will give a good effort."

EDDINS SEES the game much the same way. "I know that Rankin throws the ball well, but we always feel that you have to stop the running attack first and they have a fine fullback and halfback. We feel that if they have to throw, we're one up on The Rankin attack centers around fullback Hilton Luckie, who rushed for 1,000 yards in nine games for a 5.5 per carry. Luckie led the team in scoring with 86 points. Halfback Clarke Turner rushed for 666 yards and a 5.2 average while scoring 30 points. Wingback Russell Wimberley is a strong runner and pass receiver.

But the Red Devils' attack is balanced since the pass is also used as a potent weapon. Quarterback Randy Doege completed 64 of 123 passes this year for 882 yards and six touchdowns. He did throw eight interceptions, however.

DOEGE WILL have two excellent ends to throw to in Michael Dupriest and Randy Golson. Dupriest led the 6-A receivers this year with 24 catches for 321 yards while Golson made 16 catches for 240 yards. Wimberley will also be a threat in the passing lanes.

With halfbacks Clarence Davis amd Steve McCormick and fullback Mike Hoover, Seagraves is powerful on the ground. All three have neared the 1,000 yard rushing mark.

Quarterback Dennis Middleton uses the pass as the last resort and throws only six to ten times a game with end Brad Woods the key receiver. "We don't place much stock in statistics, so I really don't know what our kids have, but I know that our offense has produced this year,"

WITH BOTH teams eyeing the running game, the defensive lines become important. Rankin has a young front wall with sophomore Brent Wrinkle and freshman Scott Russam at the ends and junior Bryan Traylor at guard. The only senior is Frank Self at the other guard. Luckie. Dupriest and Lynn Parker, however,

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Lance Rentzel is in trouble again.

Outlook for Trans-Pecos deer season is promising moisture to keep ranges in good shape.

Conditions also have been just right for bucks to develop good antler growth and this could be the best season in several for trophy bucks.

ALL OF these factors, coupled with an unusual fall weather pattern in far West Texas have hunters ready for

The Trans-Pecos has received some cold weather much earlier in the year than normal, and this could be one of the biggest plus factors for deer season, weather is too warm for ideal hunting conditions but, by mid-November, two cold, wet fronts had already brought snow, sleet and freezing rains to the Trans-Pecos.

The earlier cold weather should have the deer moving more during the season than they normally do, making it easier for hunters to find them.

Normally, mule deer in the Trans-Pecos do not go into rut until mid-December or later. Colder weather this year could cause an earlier rut,

WHILE THE weather has been in favor of the hunter, too much wet weather just before, or during the season could cause some problems for hunters, making it difficult for them to get around during the season; especially since this year's deer season is shorter than usual. The season was trimmed from 16 days to nine this year, which means only two weekends will be open for hunting. Season dates west of the hunters. Often, during the deer hunters' chances of finding a good Pecos River are Nov. 27-Dec. 5 for mule end white-tail deer. In Terrell, Pecos and Jeff Davis counties and that portion of the Val Verde County that lies west of the Pecos, the season will be extended Dec. 6-Jan. 2 for white-tail deer only.

Since all of the major bowls and most of the minor ones will be televised, the networks have more than a passing interest in which teams go to which bowls. And ABC has spent much of the week denying reports of a clandestine deal with Pittsburgh-the nation's No. 1 team and most sought-after bowl participant.

THE REPORTS began circulating a week ago and at least one newspaper—the Memphis Commercial-Appeal-has printed

It all began when ABC announced last week that it would televise the Pitt-West Virginia game regionally on Saturday. The Panthers, so the story goes, had been leaning toward the Orange Bowl in Miami, a game that

When the Pitt-West Virginia game appeared on the regional schedule last week—a development that rewarded each club with $190,000-some considered it a move by ABC to sweeten the pot. That money, plus other inducements, was seen as a move to help bridge the financial gap between the Orange and Sugar bowls and encourage Pitt to choose the latter.

Similar rumors have been around for years concerning the Alabama-Notre Dame Sugar Bowl game in 1974.

THE NETWORK, not surprisingly, is irate over the suggestion of collusion in making Pitt a regional game

Regardless of where Pittsburgh spends New Year's Day, the University has already done well for itself this season. Pitt picked up $190,000 for the West Virginia game, another $190,000 for a regional telecast against Notre Dame earlier in the season, and will get about $250,000 for its national telecast against Penn State Nov. 26.

The Sugar Bowl incidentally, will be telecast New Year's Day this time around instead of New Year's Eve as in the past few years. ABC has found that even football-crazy Americans have better things to do New Year's Eve than watch television.

Pack to open season Friday

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

The curtain goes up on Don Humphrey's varsity coaching career Friday night, and like any Broadway actor appearing in his first big role, he's naturally got a case of the butterflies. But the man that has promised a district basketball championship Midland High School promises to be more subdued come tomorrow, when his charges travel north to Pampa for a two-night engagement with the Harvesters. Humphrey isn't quite sure what kind of reviews his team will deserve once the weekend action is over, but he has reason to be optimistic — at least for the moment

"We've still got a long way to go," admitted the rookie mentor, "but I was pleased with a lot of the things we did Monday, in our scrimmage with Fort Stockton.

"We rebounded very well against them, and even more importantly, we controlled the tempo of play." Humphrey feels the latter is almost a necessity in regard to his team's success in the weeks and months "IF WE can control the game tempo, and make teams play the kind of game we want to play, we'll stay on the floor against anyone. There were some drawbacks in the Fort Stockton scrimmage however, even though the Bulldogs won 76-57.

One was the Pack's tendency to foul. "Nineteen of their points came from the free throw line," Humphrey said emphatically, "and that's just too much. "We've got to cut back in that regard, and I think we can." He added, "one of the main reasons for all of the fouling was the fact that we were in a full court press much of the

that, the number of personals will drop drastically."

Humphrey got an opportunity to weigh the ability of most of his varsity performers in the Fort Stockton scrimmage, and has settled on a starting lineup for Friday night's

TO NO one's surprise, senior lettermen John Magness will start at the point in Humphrey's double-post offense. The six-footer will do the ball handling for the Bulldog cagers, and set the offense in motion.

Craig Dunn, the All-District returnee, and Midland's only starter back from last season's 13-18 team, will work out of one of the post positions. Joining the 6-3 performer inside will be James Hicks.

Terry Rogers and Glen Rickey will round out the starting quintet at the wings, with six foot junior Steve Brittain and 6-2 Kiffey Hickey the top choices off the bench.

Phillip Ward and Brentley Jackson joined the team earlier this week, making the transition from the gridiron to the hardwoods. Jackson will make the journey to Pampa, but Ward, who is in line for one of the starting wing positions once he rounds into form, will not travel up to the North Texas high school.

It's easy to fix pro game

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) -Philadelphia Eagles' offenseive guard John Niland testified in a federal court suit that he believes it would be relatively easy to fix a National Football League game.

The 32-year-old Niland told the U.S. District Court Wednesday that he personally did not know of any attempts to fix any NFL games, but predicted mounting pressures on game officials and players by gambling interests if legalized sports betting were added to illegal operations.

Niland, on the Eagles' injured reserve list this season, said he believes gambling interests could affect the outcome and the victory margin of a game with the cooperation of a referee or key player such as the quarter-

His testimony came on the third day of an NFL suit to halt Delaware's Scoreboard Lottery which offers the first stateoperated sports betting in the NILAND WAS among a parade of witnesses the NFL has produced who predicted that Delaware's sports game and others that might follow would compound and aggravate pro-blems caused by illegal sports betting.

William Sullivan, president of the New England Patriots, told the court that he probably would sell his franchise immediately if gamblers filled his Foxboro, Mass., stadium. Sullivan testified that his security people indicated angry gamblers may have played a part in a serious post-game disturbance Oct. 18, when the Patriots beat the New York Jets

Sullivan said some of the rowdy fans who converged on the field had been drinking heavily, but he said he also had reports that some of them were gamblers who were upset at the size of the victory margin.

Sullivan and Niland were part of a star-studded group of witnesses, which earlier included NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who has predicted dire consequences for pro sports if games like Delaware's Scoreboard Lottery become widespread.

Although Nevada offers legal sports betting, Rozelle told the court, earlier this week, it doesn't pose the same threat as Delaware's games.

The Nevada betting is privately run but state-licensed. Montana also offers a less direct type of privately-run sportsrelated gambling.

Liberty folks angry

Published reports that Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant is at-tempting to dictate an opponent in the Liberty Bowl have angered bowl officials.

Officials met late Wednesday and failed to pick college football games to scout this weekend in hopes of landing an opponent for Alabama, an almost certain choice for the Dec. 20 bowl.

There was a report that Alabama's team had decided it prefers to accept a bid from the Memphis bowl - if its opposition is not a team from the Big 8 Con-

"A lot of stuff you read in the newspaper is absolute bologna," said Tim Treadwell, a member of the Liberty Bowl selection committee. "Anyone close to Alabama is not going to come out and make a statement that they are not going to play certain people.

Treadwell said the Tide just couldn't afford to make that kind of statement. "They play them during the regular season, why wouldn't they play them in a bowl game."

A.F. "Bud" Dudley, executive director of the Liberty Bowl, was angered by the report. "They (Alabama) would like to know as soon as possible...We told them we'd let them know as soon as possible."

African youth fleeing

Newsday

JOHANNESBURG South Africa — To flee or not to flee is a question facing young black activists opposing apar-theid here in South Africa. Hundreds of African students have fled the republic since riots broke out in Juné. They went first to neigh-boring Swaziland and Botswana and then on to Tanzania, England or the United States. Many sought political and military training. Almost all have vowed to return to carry on the struggle and a few already have slipped back into the country.

Newsday has confirmed that more than 200 students from Soweto have recently escaped to Swaziland. They are housed in camps run by two revolutionary groups: the African National Congress (ANC) and the Pan Africanist Congress (PAC). There are 97 students in the ANC camp near Manzina and 110 at the PAC camp in Moutshane.

Students in both camps are heavily guarded for their own safety, according to camp officials. Though allowed to move about freely during the day, they are required to return to the camps by 6 p.m. Camp officials said they fear that South African police will attempt to capture the students and forcibly repatriate them.

Both ANC and PAC have attempted to recruit the students, offering them money and hotel accommodations, but most have resisted the efforts. "We are not interested in money and hotel rooms," explained one student in the ANC camp. "We have lost friends at the hands of the police in Soweto. Many others have been put in jail. We are here to find ways to fight back."

The students spoke angrily about police action against blacks in South Africa. Some bore scars and bruises from their ordeal in Soweto and many said that they had left South Africa only when arrest appeared imminent. Some said that they had left in order to obtain training in military tactics before returning to fight. There were plans to fly the students to nearby countries where, presumably, they are to

"We are going to do everything possible to make their stay here bearable," said an ANC spokesman. "These kids have gone through hell. They are eager to strike back at the enemy.'

"We came here to chart out our own destiny," said one 18-year-old student in the camp at Manzini. "Some of us are interested in medicine or teaching or law or stage acting. But what is important for us now is to undergo military training. We will go back to Soweto in nine to 12 months and continue the struggle."

Problems for the Soweto students arose almost from the moment they arrived in Swaziland. They had asked the deputy prime minister to keep their presence in Swaziland a secret. "We wanted our coming here a dead secret," one 20-year-old student said. "We didn't even tell our parents and close friends." But last week, soon after their arrival, the Swaziland government announced that it had granted asylum to 92 Soweto students under its interpretation of United Nations provisions.

"We were taken aback when one afternoon we heard a radio broadcast giving all the details of our presence here," a student at the ANC camp said. "This was a terrible breach of faith. We don't know why this was allowed. We now feel that our lives are in danger. We have had to change our plans for bringing more students to Swaziland. Obviously the inlets here are heavily a

WASHINGTON — President Ford has taken another significant step to deepen United States' involvement in Africa by formally declaring Sudan, largest country on the continent, eligible for the purchase of American military equipment.

His declaration, made to the public Wednesday in the Federal Register, is a significant step in U.S. efforts to encourage Sudan to play a role as a buffer state to the more radical Arab and African states adjoining it.

Relations between the U.S. and Sudan were strained severely in 1974 when Sudanese President Jaafar Nimeri commuted the life sentences of the eight terrorists who killed U.S. Ambassador Cleo A Noel Jr. and Counselor George C. Moore in Khartoum, Sudan's capital, in 1973. Nimeri turned the terrorists over to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Now, as a result of President Ford declaring to Congress that selling "defense articles" to Sudan "will strengthen the security of the United States and promote world peace," the Nimeri government is eligible to seek military equipment from the United States. The Presidential declaration is expected to be followed by formal requests from Sudan for U.S. help to combat subversion from within and attacks from without. Libya, on Sudan's nor-thwest border, is the chief external danger to the Nimeri government. U.S. military officials said Sudan has a long way to go to build a credible defense against Libyan forces and predicted Sudan's modernization will start with basic items like trucks, rifles and armored cars rather than fancy items like merican jet fighters. Neither administration nor sudanese embassy officials would disclose Tuesday night what U.S. military items Sudan would like to buy. Congress would have to approve any military purchases over $25 million and be informed of any over $7 million under the new arms control act.

One source predicted Sudan's first request would be for communications, sensors and related equipment to keep track of subversives.

Dissident Sudanese army units attempted a coup in July but were quelled. The Sudanese overnment said after that attempted coup it had "definite evidence that this aggression was plotted and carried out by Libya." This attitude is expected to impel requests for American arms to beef up Sudan's border defense once internal security is improved in Khartoum

The United States is moving to supply arms for another neighbor of Libya, Tunisia. President Ford declares in Wednesday's Federal Register that it is "important to the national security of the United States' to sell Chaparral anti-aircraft missiles to Tunisia.

The Chaparral sale to Tunisia is expected to total $58 million, ten times the total military assistance to that country to date, according to Pentagon records.

Chaparral is the name for the U.S. Army system consisting of a heatseeking missile fired at low-flying aircraft from a tracked vehicle. The missile is often combined with a 20 mm. Gatling gun on the same vehicle to cover a wider area.

The launching vehicle costs about $700,000 and each of the four heatseeking missiles on it $55,000. Although the total cost of about $1 million would enable Tunisia to buy 58 Chaparral units with its $58 million, administration officials predicted the actual number would be about half that because of the cost of training and spare

What's happened to abundant winter squash?

By ARTHUR SCHWARTZ Newsday

GARDEN CITY, N.Y." - To the American Indian, winter squash was as important and versatile a food as corn. What's happened to it? Although winter squash is abundant, it rarely appears on menus. When it does, it's more likely than not a puree or baked with brown sugar or honey.

Rich in Vitamin A and iron and with a delicate sweet flavor, winter squash, whether it's butternut, buttercup, acorn, scallop, Turk's Turban or hubbard, deserves more. Here are a couple of new ways to prepare it.

BUTTERNUT SQUASH WITH TOMATO, ONION 1 butternut squash, about 2 pounds 2 tablespoons butter

1 cup chopped onion
1 1-pound can salad tomatoes,

1/2 teaspoon salt teaspoon sugar ¼ teaspoon dried savory 1/8 teaspoon fresh-ground black

In a large kettle of water, boil the whole, unpeeled squash for 15 to 20 minutes or until just tender. Cut in half and cool slightly. Pare and cut into 1-inch cubes.

2. In a skillet, heat butter and saute onion for 3 to 4 minutes. Add tomatoes and cook over low heat for 5 minutes. Add the squash cubes, salt, sugar, savory and pepper.

3. Cover and continue cooking for about 10 minutes or until squash is very tender. Makes 4 to 6 servings. WINTER SQUASH COOKIES

34 cup (11/2 sticks) butter 34 cup sugar 1 cup grated raw winter squash 1 egg

Grated rind of 1 orange 2 cups flour 2 teaspoons baking powder

1/2 teaspoon salt 1. In a large mixing bowl, cream together the butter and sugar. Thoroughly beat in the squash, egg and grated orange rind.

2. Gradually sift the dry ingredients into the batter a little at a time, mixing well. 3. On well-greased cookie sheets, drop the batter by teaspoonfuls. With fingers, flatten the mounds down slightly. Bake in a preheated 375degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown at the edges. Cool on racks. Makes about 3 dozen.

Weight watchers should look for low-fat cheeses

By ARTHUR SCHWARTZ Newsday

Fat is what makes cheese delicious. satisfying, smooth, meltingly rich and high in calories.

So what do you do if you're passionate for cheese but also compelled to watch your waistline? One solution is to simply and stoically deny yourself cheesy pleasures. Another is to seek out low-fat cheeses.

Which is not as easy as it sounds. You have to be a sophisticated consumer to know a low-fat cheese when you see one. Even the cheeses advertised these days as partly skimmed, do, in fact, provide more than 100 calories an ounce, about the same number as whole-milk cheeses.

At first this sounds rather illogical. How, you ask, can skimmed milk cheese be as fattening as whole milk cheese? The answer, unfortunately, is not simple and is buried in the idiosyncrasies of cheese manufacture and labeling.

For starters, you should know that even whole cow's milk has only between 3 and 4 per cent fat, depending on the cattle breed, grazing conditions, season and time of day the cows are milked. But a minor difference in the fat content of the milk makes a major difference in the fat content of the cheese. Skimmed milk cows, of course, have less fat then whole milk. But skimming milk for cheese is not designed to lower the fat content of the milk or the finished cheese. It is meant to standardize the fat content of various milkings. Thus, milk that is skimmed for cheeses may have as much or more fat than certain kinds of whole milk.

For instance, Switzerland Swiss or true Emmenthaler, a whole milk cheese, is about 43 per cent fat. Norwegian Jarlsberg, a partly skimmed milk cheese and a copy of Emmenthaler, has at least 45 per cent fat. Jarlsberg is, indeed, a part-skim cheese, as advertised, yet it has about the same number of calories as Swiss which is legally full fat.

It is a fact that true low-fat cheeses (defined as having less than 20 per cent fat), even so-called part-fat cheese (defined as having between 20 and 40 per cent fat) are quite rare and, when available, are often unappealing. (Full-fat cheeses have a minimum of 40 per cent fat, but usually at least 45.)

Fat keeps cheese supple even after it is ripened and aged, makes it melt smoothly, gives it that creamy feel in But don't despair. There are some attractive low-fat cheeses. This group's cheeses don't need much fat because they are not ripened or aged, but eaten immediately after they are produced. This group includes cottage cheese, farmer cheese, ricotta cheese, pot cheese and feta cheese. Every cheese-making country produces a fresh cheese, but they are not imported because of their delicate nature. Those sold in the United States are made her, although they may be copies of a foreign cheese.

One of the easiest to find seems to be Danbo, a Danish cheese that comes in 20 per cent low-fat (sometimes called Skelling), 30 per cent part-fat and 45 per cent full-fat versions. The 20 per cent version is bland and slightly rubbery with no particular distinction. When melted it is even more rubbery. The 30 per cent type has a creamier texture and slight buttery flavor, but also does not melt well. The full-fat type is, of course, a more buttery cheese with excellent creamy texture. St. Otho claims to be 95 per cent fat free and tastes that way.

A much better example of very low-fat cheese is Lorraine swiss, an American brand-name product. Cheese merchants are claiming this cheese is both 99 per cent fat-free and salt-free, so it should be a boon to cheese-lovers who are on a lowcholesterol and low-sodium diet.

The flavor of Lorraine Swiss is very mild, but pleasantly enough like Switzerland Swiss. It has holes, although at some parts of the long rectangular cheese, the holes look more like cobwebs. Surprisingly for a cheese with so little fat, Lorraine melts very smoothly. Unfortunately, however, when heated, its extremely delicate flavor virtually disappears.

Another 99 per cent fat and salt-free cheese made by the same firm is Lorraine cheddar. Its gaudy orange color will put off those who abhor artificial color in their food, but it does have a relatively creamy texture vaguely like that of Wisconsin Colby. It also melts well, but lacks flavor when hot.

Sap Sago is perhaps one of the strangest cheeses made anywhere in the world. With only about 1 per cent fat, it is as hard as flint, which it resembles somewhat. It has been made for over 1,000 years in its native Switzerland, where it is also called Glarner Schabzieger.

Ripened under pressure, Sap Sago is formed into cones with the addition of various herbs, including myrtle and a type of clover grown exclusively for this cheese. It cannot be eaten as is, but must be grated, then mixed into a sauce or, as some Swiss eat it, mixed with butter and spread on hot

By far the most delicious part-fat cheese available in cheese shops is a French import called Gaperon. This flattened ball of cheese covered with a bon may be difficult to find but is well worth the search. Strongly flavored with garlic and accented with cracked peppercorns, it has a texture resembling that of a pressed fresh cheese. Superb with a glass of robust red wine and a slice of honest bread, it is a dieting cheese-lover's dream

Fish dishes could center holiday table

By WILLIAM RICE The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Sadly, fish has become a luxury. Therefore, from time to time, why not treat it as a luxury and serve one of the great fish in a manner worthy of its price and stature?

Here are two recipes that could each become the centerpiece of a festive meal. The first utilizes bay scallops; those tiny, incomparably flavorful shellfish. The second, a favorite of Washingtonian restaurant critic Robert Shoffner, is an imaginative method of enhancing the taste of salmon without allowing it to become dry.

> SCALLOPS PROVENCALE (Serves 8 to 10)

21/2 pounds bay scallops 1 medium onion, minced 2 ribs celery, minced 3 tablespoons butter

2 tablespoons vermouth 2 tablespoons Pernod or other anise liqueur

1 teaspoon dried tarragon, crushed 1/2 teaspoon fennel seed, crushed 1 clove garlic, minced 1/2 cup tomato paste 1 teaspoon lemon juice Salt and pepper to taste 1 cup creme fraiche (see note)

Chopped parsley

Saute onion and celery in butter in a large frying pan or dutch oven until softened. Add vermouth and boil down over high heat. Add Pernod and flame. When flame subsides, add scallops and turn with a slotted spoonuntil they turn white and become firm, about 3 to 5 minutes. Do not overcook.

Transfer scallops to a bowl with slotted spoon. Add herbs and garlic, and reduce liquid over high heat until syrupy. Add tomato paste, lemon juice, salt and pepper and return scallops. Pour in creme fraiche, stir and cook until hot but not boiling. Serve at once with chopped parsley scattered on top.

Note: Creme fraiche may be purchased at specialty stores or made at home by combining 2 or 3 tablespoons of plain yoghurt or buttermilk with 1 cup of heavy cream, covering the bowl and leaving it in a turned-off gas oven or other warm place for 6 to 8

ARDENNES SALMON IN FOIL (Serves 1)

1 fillet (10 ounces) salmon

2 tablespoons dry white wine

1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley Vegetable oil

Pinches of chipped garlic, thyme, bay leaf and savory 1 slice of temon

Freshly-ground pepper 2 slices bacon

2 teaspoons finely chopped shallots 2 tablespoons unsalted butter, softened 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Cut the salmon into 2-inch slices and place them in a bowl with the wine, lemon slice and a little ground pepper. Marinate for 1 hour, then drain. Put aside marinade.

Wrap salmon in bacon. Oil a piece of aluminum foil large enough to fold around the salmon. Place salmon on half the foil. Sprinkle on garlic and herbs. Fold remaining foil over and seal packet tightly. Bake in a pre-heated 400-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes.

While salmon is cooking, strain marinade into a saucepan. Add shallots and pepper to taste, plus a half-tablespoon of water. Reduce liguid by half over brisk heat. Turn off the heat, and stir in butter, lemon juice and salt to taste.

Study says food researchers trade independence

WASHINGTON - In a report entitled "Feeding at the Company Trough," Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal (D-N.Y.) has charged that "Eminent nutritionists have traded their independence for the food industry's

The study, compiled by the Center for Science in the Public Interest and Rosenthal, said that many of the nation's most prominent nutrition and food science professors sit on boards of directors of, act as consultants for, and testify at congressional hearings on behalf of industry and receive industry research grants.

Officials at several universities denied any conflict of interest and said food industry grants have not influenced researchers' findings. However, a number of professors included in the study refused to divulge their industry connections when queried by the researchers.

The study includes a broad spectrum of scientists - from those who see consumer activiists as enemies of the food industry, such as Dr. E.M. Foster of the Food Research Institute at the University of Wisconsin, to Dr. Jean Mayer who most consumer advocates consider a friend

Mayer, until July a professor of nutrition at Harvard and now president of Tufts University, draws a sharp distinction between directorships and consulting work. In a recent interview Mayer, who is a paid director of Monsanto and Miles Laboratories, said: "I do not want to be a consultant to industry because that is where you are used. To be a

Mayer said that "Monsanto is just peripherally interested in food." According to the report, Monsanto "is just peripherally interested in food.' According to the report, Monsanto manufactures food flavorings, preservatives, pesticides, fertilizers and other food industry chemicals." The former nutrition professor said his "main interest in being on the board is because Monsanto is the single most important company planning agricultural development. his directorship of the Stange Corp manufacturer of food ingredients including flavorings and colorings has said that consumer activists "have complicated and confused the decision-making process."

Prof. Fergus Clydesdale of the Nutrition and Food Science Department of the University of Massachusetts is described by the report as "a frequent public defender of the food industry." He is a consultant for the National Automatic Vending Merchandising Association and told a convention of vending machine executives "There is no such thing as junk food ...'

Clydesdale is also a consultant for the researchers, neglected to mention the Carnation Co. and says he does "informal counseling to several major food industries as well as a major (artificial) color equipment manufacturer." He would not tell the researchers what his current outside affiliations are.

Prof. Aaron Altschul of Georgetown University Medical School has been a consultant for Miles Laboratories, Thomas Lipton, J.E. Underwood and A.E. Staley, a soybean processor. Last year Altschul hosted a breakfast for the press and other interested parties which was designed to explore the advantages of soybean-based breakfast meat substitutes manufactured by Miles.

In the September issue of Family Health magazine, Mayer wrote an article about textured vegetable protein, used in dozens of food products as a substitute for meat and as the basis for non-meat products. Such products include Morningstar Farms breakfast meat substitutes, manufactured by Miles Laboratories. Following Mayer's article, which gives the history, background and future of TVP, as it is called, a collection of nine recipes calling for these meat-like breakfast foods is offered. On the facing page there is an advertisement for Morningstar

Asked if it bothered him that the advertisement and recipe story followed his article, Mayer said that it did. "It is just the sort of position I don't want to be in. I will talk to them (the magazine editors) about that. It may be completely inadvertent. I hope it is. I could see why people would think it isn't."

Several scientists refused to disclose their current outside af-filiations. Prof. Theodore Labuza of the University of Minnesota's department of nutrition and food science was one of them, but the study said that at some time Labuza "has sold his services to General Mills, Searle Biochemics, Pillsbury, Hunt-Wesson and Quaker Oats."

Sweets consumers to be calculators

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - If you think the metric system is difficult to learn, try studying the new size-to-price ratio on candy bars.

Citing rising cocoa prices, Hershey, M&M and Peter Paul, that trio of tempters who pander to passions that can hardly be imagined by those who merely deal in jewels or flesh, have announced that they will increase the size of their goodies slightly and the prices a whole lot. But they have done it in such a way that the dimension of the sin will be obscure even by the sinner:

Questions for piggy mathematicians: If the old Hershey milk chocolate bar was 1.2 ounces and cost 15 cents, and the new one will be 1.35 ounces but cost 20 cents, how many can I have if I finish my meat and potatoes and half my vegetable? A Mounds bar used to cost 15 cents for 1.5 ounces, and will now cost 20 cents for 1.65 ounces. If I ate two between meals, what should my attitude be to the Atkins dieter at the next desk who has 2½ Hersheys concealed under his in-basket?

If you line up the contents of a bag of M&Ms, orange, yellow, green, brown, does it count if you eat the extra brown ones in order to make the chain

An old Three Musketeers was 1 13-16 ounces for 15 cents, a new one, 2 1-16 ounces for 20 cents. If I put a quarter in the machine, how come I get a bag of barbecued potato chips and no change?

When you begin to examine these problems, you understand why a number of school districts are now banning the sale of junk food on school premises, and encouraging the children to snack on eggs and fruit. The classic problem, the one about if I have three apples and give you two oranges, how many eggs do I have in one basket is beginning to look delicious.

Also, this shifting about tampers with some of our basic values. Every American knew, before the changes started, how big a chocolate bar was and how much it cost. The National Bureau of Standards had one, which it kept next to its sundial.

This perfect candy bar, and what one was ever not perfect, cost a nickel, except at the movies, where it cost 8 cents, or on the train, where they only had the kind with nuts left. And the size was calculated exactly, so that if you ate one before dinner, a period beginning at 3:30 p.m. for people whose school let out at 3 p.m., it would spoil your appetite. But it was also exactly small enough so that you could eat two after trick or treating, provided that you children stopped fighting among yourselves.

Now, of course, all those delicate calculations have simply melted away. Right in your hand.

Storing Methods

Fresh, ready-to-cook poultry (whole or in parts) is available in plastic wrapping. Remove the wrapping and place the meat on a dish or tray, covering loosely with waxed paper or foil. Refrigerate immediately. Turkey stored this way will keep for a few days.

Frozen turkey should be placed in the freezer and held at 0 degrees F, or below, until time to thaw for cooking. For top quality, do not keep longer than six

QUESTIONS

The Los Angeles Times method for storing bean sprouts for a longer period, say about 5 days in the refrigerator? Could the sprouts be frozen?

A. Fresh bean sprouts will keep for about 5 days with this method: Wash well, then place in a jar with enough water to cover. Close jar lid and refrigerate. Change the water every day to keep the sprouts fresh. If you wish to store them for a longer period, you may blanch them and store as above. However, you will lose some crunchiness and part of their nutritional value. To freeze, wash sprouts, parboil 1 to 2 minutes and drain well. Place in plastic bag and freeze. Thaw fully before using.

Q. Sometime ago I read an article that one can preserve and can foods by using the microwave overn. How safe is microwave canning?

A. Several microwave consultants I have talked to all agree that microwave canning is not at all safe and should not be recommended. In microwave cooking, heat is created within the food due to molecular vibration caused by microwaves that are converted from electrical energy by an electron tube called a magnetron. The microwaves pass through a channel into the oven cavity where they are usually distributed by a fan or stirrer, then absorbed by the fat, sugar and liquid molecules in the food. Thus, if you can in the microwave, the food may be heated through but there is an uneven distribution of maximum heat sufficient to kill p r o b l e m microorganisms. Not all the food molecules reach the boiling temperature as in standard canning methods. There is also a danger of the jars bursting and exploding due to the intense vibration of the food molecules during cooking:

Q. Is there a way of making wine vinegar from leftover table

A. Wine vinegar may be made by fermenting red or white wines just to the point before they become bitter. An easier process is to dilute sharp vinegar with red or white

But Daniel Patrick Moynihan won his Senate seat on Manhattan's East Side, where his dramatic performances at the United Nations drew rave notices and gave Democrat Moynihan a head start with the state's important Jewish voters.

The sometimes-professor, sometimes-bureaucrat made two big speeches on behalf of Israel during his time as U.S. permanent represen-tative to the United Nations, and his reputation was made.

Moynihan's dramatic flair is considerable. He can hunch his narrow shoulders up, spread out his arms like wings, toss his long, gray hair — he even seems to stretch his 6-foot-4 frame into a strung bow. His eyebrows are capable of arched heights beyond the reach of most mortals, and his reddened face bobs and twists into numberless masks atop the thickened neck. For all that skill, Moynihan's campaign speeches often left audiences flat, and it is too early to class him with the Senate's grand old speakers, with their melodrama and passion. Moynihan's thrusts against his recent foe, incumbent Republican-Conservative Sen. James L. Buckley, were more tweaks than damnations.

'Professorial" is a word many observers enjoy pinning on Moynihan. Buckley called him "Professor Moynihan" throughout the campaign. and while Moynihan put on great displays of anger, he seemed to relish the label.

In fact Moynihan's whole campaign image was a marriage of Irish street imp and Ivy League intellectual. 'Say something in Irish and I'll introduce you," one speaker told him from the stage during the campaign. "I'll have a beer," Moynihan responded.

Moynihan, who favors plaid Irish walking hats, will have some colorful competition in the Senate from a fellow academic who's fond of tamo'shanters. It will come from Sen. S. I. Hayakawa, a semantics professor who, like Moynihan, defeated an incumbent to become a California senator. Hayakawa, who gained his fame as a college president for a confrontation with student demonstrators in the 60s, is a Republican.

At 49, Moynihan has behind him a career of bouncing back and forth between government and campus, between Republican and Democratic powerholders. Hayakawa, who says he and Moynihan are liberal intellectuals who have seen the light, only recently switched from the Democratic to the Republican party.

Moynihan started out working for New York's Democratic governor of the 1950's, W. Averell Harriman. When Harriman lost his bid for reelection in 1958, he gave his official papers to Syracuse University and Moynihan went there to teach.

Moynihan got involved early in John F. Kennedy's campaign and went to Washington when Kennedy won the 1960 election.

There, in the forefront of the New Frontier, and later President Lyndon B. Johnson's Great Society, Moynihan was a highly ranked architect of expanding social programs.

Later, after his first stint at Harvard, he grew more doubtful about. the federal government's ability to bring about creative change, and he signed on as President Richard M. Nixon's domestic affairs adviser.

In that post Moynihan counseled that the black "problem" could benefit from a period of "benign neglect." That advice, in addition to some of his academic work, has rendered him eternally suspect to many black leaders.

During the same time Moynihan promoted a welfare reform plan, based primarily on the notion that the current system works to divide families and that a system which offered more cash and fewer programs for broken families would probably help people more. It would cost more in the short run but less in the long run, he argued. Congress refused to go along, but Moynihan did push to get the outline of his plan into the Democratic party platform this year.

On foreign policy matters, Moynihan pronounces himself deeply suspicious of the Russians and other Communists, and sounds like a 1950s Cold Warrior at times. He supported Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington during the presidential primaries.

Moynihan says he is helping to lead a Democratic party return to moderation after what he views as the excesses of George McGovern and celebrity appeal, but no firm political of the state's most powerful county base of his own. He won both the chairman, Joseph Crangle of Buffalo.

In New York State, Moynihan has primary campaign and the general remendous name recognition, almost election as the designated candidate

Age doesn't hinder Hayakawa

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - S. I. Hayakawa, California's colorful 70year-old senator-elect, is a recent Republican convert who says he views campaigning as a combination of evangelism and standup comedy.

His own campaign contained elements of each. Picture the scene: The Japanese-American semanticist is on his campaign train playing "Bye Bye Blackbird" on a harmonica. Dressed in a white suit and white shoes, light blue shirt and polka-dot tie, Hayakawa embarks from the train in San Diego and hears the crowd chanting: "We want Sam!"

Hayakawa pauses, then tells his admirers: "I love that sound ... we want Sam. Sam the samurai, yellow hope of the Republican party.

As with most of his quips, the short, puckish Republican was at least semi-serious. He has said he wants to move the GOP forward in the 20th century, including more recruiting minorities to its ranks.

Hayakawa's campaign symbol was wore when television cameras filmed him ripping wires out of a student sound truck in 1968 at San Francisco State College.

He was then president of the school, and Hayakawa says the episode helped him become a folk hero of sorts - "in the same way Patrick Moynihan became a folk hero when he was cursing them out at the United Nations." Moynihan is a newly elected U.S. senator from New York.

After seeing universities "go down the drain" in the student radical days in the 1960s, Hayakawa said: "I stood up and I moved people very profoundly. I stood up to all the abuse the universities were taking."

During his campaign to unseat incumbent Democrat John Tunney. Dr. Samuel Ichiye Hayakawa lived up to his self-billing as an "unpredictable" even though he spent a lot of time talking about traditional GOP issues such as the need for a streamlined bureaucracy and increased aid to the small-business

It wasn't just that Hayakawa was a non-politician. Californians elected song-and-dance-man George Murphy senator in 1964 and former actor Ronald Reagan governor in 1966.

What made Hayakawa different was what else he talked about and how he behaved on the campaign

He seemed to enjoy being an odd mixture, one moment brushing off a question on the Panana Canal with the line, "I think we ought to keep it, we stole it fair and square," and the next on political theory.

One point he discussed in a serious way was his change of political parties. How could a man who called himself a liberal Democrat until three years ago now have conservative GOP backing?

"What happened to me happened to considerable number of liberal intellectuals, many of them former Socialists, Irving Kristol, Sidney Hook, Daniel Bell, Daniel Moynihan,

Seymour Lipset," he said. "They stood for the traditional outlook conference today that "on balance, plantings for the 1977 wheat crop will likely total near the 80 million acres of But Naive cautioned that "weather will still be influential for spring wheat and, perhaps more importantly, for how many acres of winter wheat will be harvested." The department will announce on Dec. 22 how many acres of winter wheat farmers planted this fall for harvest next summer. That will give the first solid idea of how the 1977 wheat crop is shaping up since winter wheat accounts for about three-fourths of the total U.S. wheat output. Some experts say, however, that farmers in some areas where corn and other crops can be grown may reduce winter wheat plantings because of lower grain prices and the huge supply. That, they say, may mean two or three million fewer acres of wheat for the 1977 harvest than in 1976.

Crawford due Hoover role

Actor Broderick part of J. Edgar Hoover in a new movie about the life of the late FBI

Doc Severinson started young

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A few weeks ago, millions of viewers might have thought a chap named Muffin Calhoun on ABC's "Bionic Woman" looked suspiciously like Doc Severinson. Their suspicions were right.

It was Doc. But the 49-yearold trumpeter and leader of the big, swinging band on NBC's "Tonight" show has no plans to abandon the horn he's played since childhood and take up play-acting in adulthood.

"If some other part I'd enjoy doing came along, I'd do it," says the good doctor, whose previous acting experience was a "Love, American Style" show years ago. "But I'd certainly never give up my music."

Doc, whose Christian name is Carl, may strike viewers as the late-hour clown prince of music with his flashy "Tonight" threads, his dead-pan sallies with Johnny Carson and the occasional crossing of his eyes after he hits C above high C during a rousing band number.

But he's been dead serious about music ever since his father, a dentist in Arlington, Ore., and an excellent violinist, bought him his first trumpet almost 40 years ago.

At the ripe old age of 17, even before he'd graduated from high school, he was a featured trumpeter in Ted Fiorito's band, pulling down, he says, $90 a week, which was pretty good bread for his age.

After high school and the Army, he graduated into the trumpet sections of the powerhouse bands led by Charlie Barnet, Benny Goodman and Tommy Dorsey. In 1949, at age 22, he became an NBC staff musician.

It's even more of a feat when you consider that Doc had no musical schooling in the academic sense, most of his training coming from big bands and a New York teacher named Benny Baker.

He cites Baker's intensive training as "probably one of the reasons l didn't go to music school because I put in much more concentrated study with him.

"And hell, I had to support myself and a family," said Doc, who has five kids. "College was a luxury I couldn't quite afford.

Severinson, who spoke in an easy Southern drawl while sampling the wares at the NBC commissary in Burbank, has led the "Tonight" band since October 1967, when Skitch Henderson left it.

But he's been with the band, on and off, longer than Johnny Carson has hosted "Tonight," Carson having

DALLAS - "Scapino!", a new adaptation of a classic French comedy by Moliere, has opened at the an explanation of his Dallas Theater Center, to run through

The comedy was adapted by Frank Dunlop and Jim Dale from Moliere's "Les Fourberies de Scapin" (Scapin's Knaveries) and had its initial life by joining a band, or production by the Young Vic Company of the National Theatre of Great 'Scapino!", set in contemporary Naples, was a great success in England and had equal success in this country when the Young Vic Comcessful stage works, pany brought it here in 1974. The comedy revolves around Scapino, the traditional clever servant who puts his pompous, humorless and miserly superiors in their places with his tricks and slapstick jokes. In the Dallas Theater Center version, the pivotal role is taken by Robert A. Smith. Other featured players include Steven Mackenroth and Paul Buboltz, with John Stevens portraying Scapino's partner Sylvestro.

The DTC production has been directed by Robyn Flatt, with set designs by Dallas painter and designer Yoichi Aoki and costumes by Denise Drennen. Lighting is by Sally Netzel.

"Scapino!" has performances at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Friday each week, as well as at 5 and 8:30 p.m. each Saturday. Seat reservations may be made through the box office of DTC's Kalita Humphreys Theater, taken over from Jack Paar in October, 1962. Doc joined the show in its early years, in the 1950s, when Steve Allen was its ringmaster.

With Doc's transition from littleknown sideman to well-known co-star has come the inevitable branching out. Since the early part of this decade, he's led a group called the Now Generation Brass, backed by a vocal group — his oldest daughter, Nancy, sings in it — called Today's Children.

Of late he's also taken up songwriting, and has one hit, "Stop and Smell the Roses," which he wrote with singer Mac Davis.

"Mac was kind enough to cut me in on that," he grinned, "and I got to looking at all those royalty checks and said, 'Mmm, maybe I ought to try this.'" Then he grew serious.

"Actually, to record in today's market, you've got to come up with your own material. The old days of doing 'cover records,' that's all

By this he meant the practice of recording songs others had made into hits. Doe did just that in his early years of leading the "Tonight" band. He cut several albums of pop hits, but in a so-called "middle-of-the-road" musical vein that he admits were intended more to show off a listener's stereo set than achieve anything creative or different. Alas, he says a bit wistfully, his old middle-of-the-road image still persists in the minds of record buyers, even though he's been hard at work trying to go from MOR to mod.

Last year, he cut a kind of discojazz album called "Night Journey," eight of its nine songs co-authored by him. He says it was anything but mood music.

Houston Grand Opera presents Rossini work

HOUSTON - The second offering of the Houston Grand Opera's 1976-77 season is a new production of one of the world's favorite operatic comedies, "The Barber of Seville."
The famous work by Rossini will have its initial performance at 8 p.m. Friday in Jesse H. Jones Hall for the Performing Arts in downtown Houston. Repeats are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Sunday and Tuesday and Friday nights next week.

Being welcomed to Houston for the performance series is a stellar cast, including tenor Edoardo Gimenez as Count Almaviva, mezzo-soprano Maria Ewing as Rosina, baritone Hermann Prey as Figaro, bass Paolo Montarsolo as Basilio. Joining these HGO newcomers in "Barber" is a Houston favorite, basa-baritone Donald Gramm, as Bartolo, and other featured singers in the production include mezzo-soprano Dana Krueger as Berta, tenor Edgar Moore as Ambrosius and baritone Rodney Stenborg as Fiorello and the Officer.

In addition to the above performances, all sung in the original Italian, "Barber of Seville" is having English-language presentations. The first performance in HGO's 'American Series' will be at 8 p.m. Saturday and a second presentation is scheduled for 7;30 p.m. Monday. The

ART NEWS IN BRIEF Print show opens

LUBBOCK - Colorprint U.S.A., an inclusion in the Texas Fine Arts annual print show and sale, has opened in the teaching gallery of the Texas Tech University art depart-

The exhibition presents works of well-known printmakers from throughout the nation, including such noted artists as Rudy Pozzatti, Clare Romano and Gabor Peterdi. It is one of the few exhibitions devoted exclusively to color prints.

Juror for this year's show was internationally-known printmaker David Driesbach. A former student of Stanley William Mayter at Atelier 17 in Paris, Driesbach chose 125 works for inclusion here, out of a total of 520 works submitted. The imagery presented in the new show ranges from the rich fantasy of Robert A. Nelson's lithograph, "A Prince of Atlantis," to the more traditional treatment in Harold Altman's etching of figures in a park.

The print show will be on view to the public each weekday for the next several weeks.

Works by Marilyn Todd of Midland College and Delmos Hickmott of Odessa College have been selected for Association's annual circuit show. The exhibition will be toured throughout the state during coming months

The Midland and Odessa artists' works were among winners in the TFAA Region 18 competition at Odessa in September and then went to Austin for inclusion in the TFAA state exhibition.

Todd is represented with an etching, "Homeward Bound." Hickmott's work is an untitled pastel. LUBBOCK -Four Kerrville artists, Herman Walker, Travis Keese, Alan Kinney and Joe Russell, will be present for the opening of a cooperative art exhibit in Hall's Gallery of Lubbock Sunday afternoon.

Each of the four is bringing selections of his newest work for inclusion in the show which will continue for the next several weeks. Hall's Gallery is at 4012 34th St., in Lubbock. The public is invited to attend the Sunday preview and meet the artists. Hours will be 1 to 5 p.m.

All four artists are native Texans and received their formal art training in Texas schools.

Congressmen enjoy excursions

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Members of Congress have once again found the postelection period to be a good time for foreign travel.

Among the travelers are at least four lame ducks who announced months ago that they would not seek reelection. Three of them are spending more than two weeks abroad at taxpayers' expense.

The most extensive trip is being taken by Rep. William Randall (D-Mo.), the chairman of the Select Committee on Aging who is retiring.

Randall left Nov. 5 and will return Nov. 21 after visiting Yugoslavia, Romania, France, Germany, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Egypt and

An aide said Randall was studying cell regeneration projects in geriatrie centers in Belgrade and Bucharest, then joining members of the Select Committee on Narcotics for the rest of the trip. Randall is not a member of the narcotics committee.

The retiring chairman of the House International Relations Committee, Rep. Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa.) is on an 18-day visit to Taiwan, the Philippines, Indonesia, Australia, and New Zealand to study foreign policy interests in the Far East.

Retiring Rep. Edward Hutchinson (R-Mich.) has joined a House Judiciary Committee trip to Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Kenya to study problems of international terrorism

Rep. James G. O'Hara (D-Mich.), who lost a primary bid to succeed Sen. Philip Hart (D-Mich.), is planning to attend a UNESCO conference in Nairobi.

Two senators who were defeated in re-election attempts, Frank Moss (D-Utah) and Gale McGee (D-Wyo.), have not decided whether they will attend a conference on South African problems in Lesotho. A third defeated senator, John Tunney (D-Calif.), has dropped out of the Lesotho trip.

At least 25 senators and 50 congressmen who will remain in office next year are spreading out across the globe from the Antarctica to Finland between now and the new Congress that convenes Jan. 4.

BACKYARD GARDENER

Cleanup necessary for good garden

By PATRICK DENTON Copley News Service

Last week I pointed out that even once the growing season has packed it in for another year, there are a number of jobs that need doing outdoors before our garden tools are hung up in the shed.

The garden cleanup, of course, is a necessary chore because it simply isn't healthy to leave dead plants lying around to spread disease, or old of lumber and trash to harbor insect pests.

Burning is a safe method of getting rid of such trash but different communities have different regulations and it's always a good idea to check with the local authorities before putting a match to your bonfire. But however you accomplish it, the need for a fall cleanup is imperative to maintain good garden hygiene.

Aside from old bits of lumber and other accumulated trash that shows up as the vegetation dies down, most likely candidates for the incinerator are the large weeds that have gone to seed unnoticed behind the squash vines or between the raspberry rows.

Speaking of weeds, I was most interested in a government communication that crossed my desk recently telling of a whole garden full of weeds that is proving to be quite a drawing card at one government research station.

It was established in 1972 after a survey indicated that only 15 per cent of the area's farmers could identify the 28 most common weeds in the region. This weed garden has proved an aid to weed identification for both farmers and home gardeners and in addition it has given the research station staff data on germination and growth habits of various weed

According to weed ecologist Dr. A.S. Hamill, some weed species are actually difficult to grow in a domesticated environment since the garden soil - sandy loam, low in organic matter - is not ideal for normal growth of certain weeds. I don't know about that, but I sometimes look at our garden and ruefully reach the conclusion there pop up there at one time or another!

Anyway, each weed in the collection occupies its own plot and there's a grass border between the plots. Species are divided into three groups on the basis of their life cycles annuals, biennials and perennials. Weeds with creeping root systems are planted in tiles to contain the spreading roots.

The major value of the weed garden is that farmers are able to correctly identify their particular problem weeds before asking about control measures. Many herbicide labels now specify the weeds that can be controlled by the product and sometimes those that can't be controlled by it.

I have never been to a government agricultural research or experimental station, or a Department of Agriculture office where the people have not been extraordinarily helpful.

These are good places to go with any problem, even if you happen to be clutching a freshly plucked noxious weed for identification.

And remember, unless you want to set up a weed identification garden of your own, weed clearing is an important part of your fall cleanup

COIN BOX

How about new theme for coinage?

By GARY L. PALMER Copley News Service

I am fed up. Fed up with what I consider some inexcusable practices and problems in a hobby which has the capability of being significant in the nation's third century.

Much of the blame belongs to a government which moves haltingly at best where numismatics is concerned and the rest belongs to the hobby in

The mint spends thousands to have a study made to evaluate the nation's future coinage needs and then balks at the suggestions, giving no promise or inkling needed changes will occur. Instead it reverts to second century coins, beginning next year. Must the nation's early leaders. Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, Roosevelt and the more current Kennedy and Eisenhower, continue to be the only ones to leave a legacy on the nation's coins?

Where are our achievements in science, industry and the Space Age? Aren't these feats every bit as vital to the nation's being as it enters the third century as those exploits of the leaders who led this land out of diapers into its still admitted infancy?

It seems to me government could do well to put the past to rest on America's coinage — particularly if serious consideration is being given to new denominations in the not too distant future.

But no, we revert from the token three new reverses on Bicentennial coinage to those that have gone before. A disgrace to America's technological advances. And that is not to disparage the nation's great leaders of yesterday.

Come on, Washington. Awaken to the future; don't sleep with the past.

And before the hobby raises its hands to applaud the above let it be aware of its shortcomings.

The complaints in the numismatic journals are becoming far too commonplace about insensitive coin dealers.

The public, the hobbyist, is simply shunted aside in too many instances at major coin shows across the nation.

Take a good look in the mirror, Mr. Dealer, and ask yourself how often you have been guilty of ignoring the enthusiastic collector because it's obvious he comes to the shows with a limited budget, seeking numismatic education nearly as much as he is that missing coin in a Whitman folder.

The complaints are too frequent to ignore, coin dealers. The public has grown tired of your "go away, small-timer," attitude so that a deal can be consummated with another bourse table. What IS your obligation, professional numismatist? To whom do you owe allegiance for your livelihood? The little collector, interested in coins as a lifelong hobby. or the man across the hall, in the same business, but with plenty ready cash to spend?

Lo-Vaca reports income

HOUSTON (AP) - A net income of $3.5 million for the nine months ending Sept. 20 has been reported for Lo-Vaca Gathering Co., the troubled subsidiary of Coastal States Gas

Coastal States issued the report Wednesday and said it included a net income of $1.0 million for the three months ending the same date.

The earnings of Lo-Vaca were reported in a footbote to a quarterly report to security holders by Oscar S. Wyatt Jr., chairman of Coastal States, and Harry L. Blamquist Jr., A Coastal States news release on earning Nov. 4 made no reference to Lo-Vaca. The parent firm at that time reported nine-month earnings of $44 million or $2.11 a share, compared to $42.6 million or $2.05 a share last year. The $3.6 million earnings for Lo-

Vaca the first nine months of the year compared with $2 million the same period last year. The $1.8 million for the third quarter compared with $300,000 a year earlier.

Wyatt and Blomquist attributed the Lo-Vaca earnings sales of natural gas

"Lo-Vaca Gathering's gas sales volumes, which were down from the previous year, continue to be unprofitable because of an inadequate interim rate structure established by the Texas Railroad Commission," they said. 'Juice' stealers squeezing firms

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - In the wintry Northeast, where consumers pay prices for electricity that rank among the nation's highest, power companies are being squeezed by "juice" stealers.

Stealing electricity by tampering with meters was first noticed by a Florida utility in 1970, industry sources said. It has spread to all parts of the country and appears to be flourishing in New England.

Boston Edison and New England Electric System recently mailed warning pamphlets with their bills. Three New England Electric subsidiaries said that in 1975 they found 405 suspected cases of theft among one million customers. They billed 177 customers for $61,457 worth of stolen electricity. Through September of this year, the firm said it has found 1,521 suspicious cases, with 686 billed for a total of

"Anybody who says his company doesn't have a problem hasn't looked for one," says Clarence F. Eckelmann of the New Orleans Public Service Co. and chairman of the securify committee of the Edison Electric Institut, a trade group.

Eckelmann said utilities initially ignored the problem for fear of putting larcenous ideas in the heads of otherwise honest customers.

Most electricty thieves realize they'd be caught if their meter recorded no usage, so they disable it or in stall jumper wires only part of the time, or else they rig their meter An apartment house owner here told a friend he disables his meters for the middle two weeks between the meter reader's monthly visits.

John Walsh of Boston Edison said the relatively new crime apparently "cuts across all the socio-economic categories."

New England Electric said it has prosecuted 23 cases this year. Boston Edison said it prefers civil to criminal remedies. In Massachusetts, the maximum penalty for stealing electricity is a $100 fine and a year in

Operators schedule 129 projects in Permian Basin'

Petroleum operators last week scheduled 129 tests for oil or gas in the Permian Basin Empire of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico.

Thirty-one of the projects were staked as wildcats, with the remaining 98 being field development

Two weeks ago, only 121 applications were filed with regulatory agencies, with the wildcat count at 31. Texas Railroad Commission District 7-C, with headquarters offices at San Angelo, accounted for 12 wildcats, Eight prospectors were planned for RRC District 8-A (Lubbock), while the Midland office, supervising activity in District 8, reported applications for six. Districts 8 and 8-A tied in field tests more boardings Boardings at Midland Regional Air Terminal last month were up for one airline but down for the other from figures for the same month last year.

Continental Airlines recorded 12,162 boardings last month, compared to 16,776 boardings during October 1975. Texas International registered 6,584 boardings last month, compared to 2,888 boardings last October.

One of the primary reasons for Continental's decrease in boarding figures was the walk-out by its pilots during the last week of October.

Control tower operations, too, are

AUTO OIL

This Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday will be a very special event at Skaggs Albertson in Midland and Odessa. We will have on display, for the LAST public showing in Texas, the STP-Dodge stock car used by race driver Richard Petty. This has been called the "show car of the NASCAR Grand National circuit."

You can see this fantastic machine at Skaggs Albertsons in Midland on Fri., Nov. 19th and Sun., Nov. 21st from 12 noon

And for your own Pit Stop needs, come meet the STP Pit Stop Crew, who'll be in our automotive section to help you with all your car needs. They will be giving away free decals and ballons for the kids, so come on in! They will be in both stores Thurs., Nov. 18th through Sun., Nov. 21st from 12 noon to 8 p.m.

What stocks did

NEW YORK (AP) -The stock market advanced today, gaining strength from signs that the siz eof the oil price hike expected to come out of next month's meeting of oil-exporting nations is less certain than it once appeared.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 5.24 at 943.32 at noon.

Advances held a wide 8 to 5 lead over declines among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Brokers said the market was encouraged by indications today that

Venezuela would try to avoid or limit any increase in crude oil prices at its meeting with other oil exporters in December. Venezuelan President Carlos Perez said his nation will continue to play a merating role among oil nations, ccording to Italian

President Giovanni Leone, who recently had talks with perez. Brokers said investors fear a big oil price increase would harm the U.S. economic recovery which is already in a pause. Today, the government lowered its estimate of the third-quarter Gross National Product growth to 3.8 per cent from its previously reported 4 per Trading on the Big Board at noon amounted to an active 10.02 million shares compared with 8.66 million traded in the fiest two hours on Wednesday.

The most active stock at noon was Occidental Petroleum, up ¾ to 19%. F.W. Woolworth gained % to 24% after the company reported sharply higher third-quarter earnings. International Business Machines rose 21/6 to 2695/6. IBM Chairman Frank Cary reiterated before security analysts on the West Coast that the company expects, a "very good" fourth quarter. The NYSE composite ndex at noon was up .34 to 54.19 and the American Stock Exchange market value index was ahead .54 to 98.83.

Market City officials advance return to area

City officials all have returned to Midland after four days in Dallas, where they attended the 64th annual Texas Municipal League conference and set forth one resolution.

Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. said the resolution proposed by the Midland delegation was accepted by the TML representatives and will become part of TML policy.

The dozen Midlanders proposed that, if the state legislature passes a bill ending the total five per cent sales tax on utilities as far as the state is concerned. the individual cities be given the option on their one Angelo noted that several resolutions were approved by the TML during its four-day session. One resolution opposed collective bargaining for municipal employes, while another urged adequate financing of state highways and public tran-

One resolution approved by the whole TML but opposed by the Midland delegation urged the legislature to enact legislation prohibiting "take or pay" contracts between buyers and sellers. Angelo said Midlanders opposed the resolution because they felt the "take or pay" contracts provided legitimate contracting and prohibition would do nothing to increase the supply of natural gas. Angelo also said this resolution was approved on a narrow vote by the

The Midland mayor said the annual conference offered "enjoyable, interesting sessions and good speakers." He said he felt the Midland delegation picked up some good information" during the four-

Among the sessions attended by all TML representatives were a panel discussion on the upcoming legislature in regard to cities, an analysis of what to expect from the presidency now, a discussion of legislative policy and a discussion on the U.S. Voting Rights Act.

After the full sessions to discuss broad policy issues, the major departmental associations met separately to discuss issues specific to their job

During the meeting of the Association of Mayors, Councilmen and Commissioners, Angelo noted several interesting discussions were presented. He said the group held a panel discussion on single-member districts, an informative session on taxation and the bills approved by the legislature costing the cities money with no provisions for raising the funds, a panel discussion on police and fire department collective bargaining and a session on growth and development policies in the cities.

Those attending the conference from Midland were Angelo; City Councilmen Carroll Thomas and Thane Akins: James Brown, Fred Poe and Mike Butler from the city administrative department, plus six department heads from city hall.

UAW negotiating to avert strike

DETROIT (AP) - The United Auto Workers, after narrowly ratifying a contract with Chrysler, launch a final bargaining drive at General Motors today in an attempt to avert a midnight EST walkout by 390,000 hourly GM workers in 21 states.

Charging that the negotiating pace at GM had slowed, the UAW warned the No. 1 auto maker Wednesday to "step up" its talks if it hopes to avoid becoming the second major auto company struck this year.

"I feel nervous," one union source said after a full day and night of talks. "Things aren't coming together as fast as they should." UAW Vice President Irving Bluestone, the top

UAW bargainger at GM, said that "a considerble number of important issues" remain unresolved.

However, union officials said time remained to fashion a three-year accord based on the industry pattern set at Ford Motor Co., following a 28-day strike, and accepted by Chrysler.

Ratification of a pact for 109,000 hourly Chrysler workers came Wednesday, as skilled tradesmen who held veto power over the settlement forged Nov. 5 - voted their approval by a slim 622 votes.

Chief provisions of the contract include seven additional paid days off by 1979, annual wage hikes of about 3 per cent a year; continued cost-of-living pro-tection; expanded health care and layoff benefits; cash bonuses of up to $600 for retirees; and a special wage hike of at least 25 cents an hour for tradesmen. At GM, only 32 of 143 local bargaining units had set-

U.S. policy in Cuba, Panama likely to stay same

("I believe there are sometimes in-dications of lack of adequate attention to our Latin American neighbors. We don't have to establish friendship here; it already exists. We don't have to seek for common background and common problems, common opportunities; they already exist. We don't have to examine possibilities of proximity and neighborliness; they already exist.") - Jimmy Carter, Mexico City, April 10, 1972

Newsday

WASHINGTON - Diplomats and foreign experts searching for clues to a Jimmy Carter policy for Latin America needn't look too far: They already exist.

The president-elect's brief acquaintance with Latin America when he was governor of Georgia and the basic policy followed by the last three U.S. presidents, aides and State Department officials say, suggest the framework for a policy to be pursued early in the Carter Administration. During his travels in South America while Georgia governor, Carter criticized U.S. policy makers' neglect of Latin America, and during the presidential campaign he called for a "creative" approach in dealing with those countries.

But for the hemisphere's two trouble spots, Cuba and the Panama Canal, there is little likelihood of deviation from the course set by U.S. presidents since 1964. No immediate overtures to Cuba are planned, and Carter is committed to continued negotiations on the control of the canal.

The canal is seen throughout Latin America as a vestige of "Yankee imperialism." Every President since Lyndon Johnson in 1964 has been committed to renegotiating the 1903 treaty, which assured U.S. control of the canal and of the 500-square-mile Canal Zone, a U.S. territory.

In 1974 negotiators signed an eightpoint understanding that Panama would take control of the canal at the expiration of a new treaty to be negotiated. Key questions remain unresolved, including how long the new treaty will last, how much land within the Canal Zone the United States needs to administer the canal and how much land will revert to Panama when the pact is signed. The latter question was under discussion when the current series of talks ended recently, and no date has been set for a new meeting.

During the second of the three presidential debates, Carter pledged never to yield "complete control or practical control of the Panama Canal Zone. But I would continue to negotiate with the Panamanians." He also said he would be willing to reduce the U.S. military presence within the Canal Zone.

Carter has said virtually nothing in public about his planned policy toward Cuba, although aides have said he is particularly concerned about the continued presence of Cuba military forces in southern Africa. Cuba's role in Angola stymied reconiciliation under the Ford Adbargo of Cuba continues.

For the time being, it is unlikely policy toward the two countries.

Mrs. Carter going to Mexico

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rosalynn Carter, wife of President-elect Jimmy Carter, is going to Mexico to attend the Dec. 1 inaugration of its new President Jose Lopez Portillo, her press secretary has announced.

Mrs. Carter is going as a private citizen at the invitation of Mrs. Lopez Portillo, press secretary Mary Hoyt said in a telephone interview.

An official U.S. delegation representing President Ford and headed by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was announced earlier this week by the White House. The inaugural ceremonies in Mexico City run from Nov. 28 to Dec. 3.

Mrs. Carter also plans to travel to board of the association and has been Philadelphia Thursday to attend a a voting delegate for four years meeting of the National Association of Mental Health. She is a member of the Health Association.

City sales tax checks mailed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Checks totaling $13.2 million were mailed to 640 Texas cities Monday as rebates from the one-cent city sales tax, State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced.

Bullock said the rebate checks for the month ending Oct. 29 ranged from $2.5 million for Houston to $501 for Monthly payments are not mailed if they are for less than $500. Payments must be sent out quarterly, however, no matter how small they are.

Bullock said in a statement that cities have received a total of $252.2 million in rebates this year, an increase of $28.5 million or nearly 13 per cent over the same period last year.
