Ford says he will try to end price controls on gasoline

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The Ford Administration, in a move that apparently caught congressional Democrats by surprise, has decided to seek abolition of price controls on gasoline before President-elect Jimmy Carter takes office.

The decontrol move, which Administration officials insisted would have no immediate effect on consumer prices, could take effect Jan. 19, one day before Carter's inauguration, unless Congress exercised its special veto power first.

Under present law, gasoline marketers and refiners cannot raise prices except to pass along to their customers actual increases in crude oil or other petroleum costs on a dollar-for-dollar basis. Also, certain increases in costs of labor, maintenance, and some other business expenses, can be passed through to consumers.

The law permits the President to propose removal of controls on any petroleum product if he is convinced that "competition and market forces would provide adequate protection for the consumer" and if decontrol would "not result in inequitable prices for any class of user."

Once such a proposal is formally submitted to Congress, it becomes effective within 15 days unless the House or the Senate passes a resolution of disapproval. Under terms of the law, a plan to decontrol gasoline could be submitted Jan. 4, when Congress ends its present recess, and the 15 days would elapse on Jan. 19.

Officials of the Federal Energy Administration, which deals with the controls program and is preparing the proposal to remove the restraints on gasoline, said Monday they hope to have the proposal ready for submission by President Ford on Jan. 4.

FEA chief Frank Zarb said "our preliminary evidence indicates there will be no adverse effect on price or supply" if gasoline is decontrolled and the move would "restore some measure of competition back into the system."

In Congress, Democrats who specialize in energy matters indicated Monday the decontrol move had not been expected. It was not clear whether an effort would be made to block it, but there were private expressions of resentment that the Ford Administration was forcing action before Carter took office.

"There is a fair probability that we would just routinely reject it to allow Carter an opportunity to craft his own energy policy," one influential House Democrat said. "It doesn't strike me that the energy policy of the Carter Administration ought to be written by the dead hand of the Ford Administration."

While the Administration move caused irritation, Democrats acknowledged it may be difficult to mobilize either the House or the Senate to veto decontrol in the frenetic period between Jan. 4 and the inauguration even though the Democrats have enormous majorities in both houses.

From an economic point of view, since Congress has already acquiesced in removal of controls on residual oil, middle distillates, certain specialty oils, and naphtha jet fuel this year, it might be hard to make a convincing case for retention of controls on gasoline.

As Zarb noted, supplies of gasoline and other petroleum products have been abundant in recent months and are expected to remain so, barring some unforeseen emergency. Partly, as a result, consumer prices of gasoline have not risen even as much as present controls would have allowed.

"All over the country, gasoline prices this year have been under the maximums permitted by controls," Zarb said, arguing that removal of the allocation system that is part of existing controls would increase competition among gasoline marketers and thus act as a further restraint on prices.

Theoretically, if the Administration's decontrol plan goes through, refiners, service stations, and other marketers would be free to charge any price they wish for gasoline even though U.S. crude oil prices would remain controlled under an entirely separate system.

In practice, Administration economists say, competition and other market forces would prevent prices from skyrocketing. If they did begin to rise precipitously, controls could be reimposed, officials said.

The controls Administration officials wish to remove apply only to prices charged for gasoline by refiners, wholesalers, service station operators and others downstream from the refiner.

'Christmas Shop Midland' drive opened by chamber

Midland merchants kicked off their "Christmas Shop Midland" promotion this morning, promising that this year's effort would be different from that of previous years.

John Ingram, chairman of the Midland Chamber of Commerce retail committee, presided during the short session attended by almost 100 Midland merchants.

"Urging people to shop at home is nothing new, but we're going about it in a different way this year," Ingram said. "This year, we're going to present a united campaign effort."

Ingram said the Christmas Shop Midland promotion came about from the concern of merchants and the chamber that Midlanders often go out of town to shop. "We're the only ones who can urge them to shop here," he added.

Ingram noted it is unrealistic to expect Midlanders to do all their shopping here all the time. But he said much shopping could be done here rather than elsewhere.

"This program can work only if merchants and their employees support it," Ingram said. "Let's not just give lip service to this effort. The more enthusiasm generated from each selling unit in Midland, the more enthusiastic a city we'll have."

Promotion efforts during the campaign were distributed to merchants. Among those advertising items for the program were buttons, stickers, counter cards, posters and suggestions for media advertising.

Sammy Long

Services held for slain trooper

McCAMEY — Sammy Charles Long, the slain Department of Public Safety (DPS) trooper, will be buried here today, apparently before the identity of his slayer and that of the slayer's killer are disclosed.

Long, 39, was shot to death about 5:45 p.m. Sunday about three miles east of Rankin after he had pulled to the roadside the driver of a speeding pickup truck. Ther services were conducted today at 1 p.m. at the First Baptist Church.

The so far unidentified driver of the speeding truck turned on Long and fired several shots into his back.

Reportedly witnessing the shooting was a San Angelo deer hunter, who had pulled into a rest area some 130 yards to the west of where Long had stopped the speedster.

Long, apparently sensing danger, had ran from the pickup truck and to the rear of his patrol car, which he had pulled behind the truck, officials said.

Long fell down on his chest, and the assailant repeatedly fired shot from his .32-caliber pistol into the trooper's back, officials said.

He then reached down, got hold of Long's .357 magnum pistol and continued firing, investigators said.

At that point, the deer hunter fired several shots at Long's killer.

Long, reportedly, was shot 11 times. The speeding truck Long chased and stopped may be the same one used in the robbery of a Tucson, Ariz., service station.

Texas Ranger Sgt. Jesse Priest said "everything pretty well fits" that the truck driven by the slain motorist was the same one used in the robbery.

District Attorney Aubrey Edwards has not released the name of the deer hunter who shot the motorist with a scope-fitted 6mm rifle.

Aubrey indicated that he would not prosecute the hunter.

Ray plea questioned by counsel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief counsel of the House committee on assassinations said today it is "most unusual" that authorities did not get a full confession from James Earl Ray in return for accepting his guilty plea in the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King.

Richard A. Sprague told reporters the failure is "one thing that does stand out" in his review of Ray's plea in the April 1968 killing.

"When arrangements were made for Ray to plead guilty, the law enforcement agencies never made as part of their plea bargain that there be a full interrogation or full confession by Ray," Sprague declared.

That "is most unusual where somebody is pleading guilty to the murder of an individual and questions have arisen as to whether others were behind it," Sprague said.

Missouri man recovers from flu

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A Missouri man who had not received a swine flu inoculation has recovered from the first confirmed case of the disease since a Fort Dix, N.J., soldier died of it nine months ago, officials say.

Federal officials who have been directing the nationwide swine flu immunization drive said there was no reason to fear the isolated case signaled an epidemic.

The man was identified Monday by the Missouri Health Division/Dr. H. Denny Donnell, director of its medical section, said he was "a young man in his 30s in western Missouri, in Lafayette County."

"He has recovered from his illness," Donnell said, adding that the man missed work for several days but was not hospitalized.

He said the man contracted a "flu-like illness" in mid-October and said blood studies confirmed the disease as swine flu. He said the man had not been immunized against swine flu then, but has since had a shot.

"We are in the process of further investigation to attempt to determine the origin, if possible, and the extent and spread, if any, from his illness," Donnell said.

In Atlanta, David Sencer of the federal Center for Disease Control said there was no reason for public alarm.

"We've had cases like this before where people have had contact with pigs, and we don't get all excited about it," he said.

Blood samples have been taken from about 20 persons in the community where the man with the swine flu lives, Donnell said. He said none has shown any signs of the illness.

More than 20 million Americans have been inoculated against swine flu, says the U.S. Public Health Service. Officials have said the program is "gaining momentum," but concern has been expressed about a lag in urban areas.

The program got off to a rocky start soon after it started this fall, with reports of deaths among elderly recipients causing several states to stop giving shots temporarily. Officials concluded the shots were not a factor in causing the deaths.

Museum in library basement replete with artifacts, images

If you try, really try, your imagination may conjure up the muted sounds of the dead in The Dungeon.

Or the crackling sound of a crushed egg. Or the wild screamings of a native who knows that it will be his head that will be shrunk next.

Or the sounds of hoofs beating onto the West Texas plains.

Or, "The library is closing" announcement.

"The Dungeon," though underground, is not a prisoner's pit at all. It is the halfway-in-jest name given to the secluded catch-all museum in the basement of the Midland County Public Library.

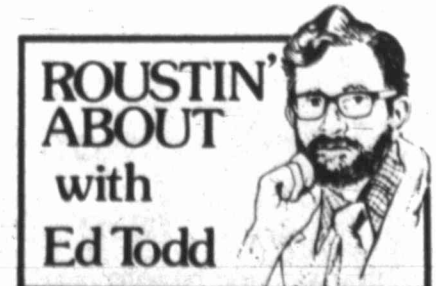

It's something you sort of stumble or wander into.

"Lots of people don't even know that we're down here until they come to the library," noted part-time curator Pauline Gwyn.

Even at that, they may overlook, miss or otherwise, perhaps by intent, bypass the "heritage" museum.

The museum is virtually bulging with artifacts from the pioneer days (and before) and with things and discards handed down from the living generation.

"We have quite a few things we can't even show," said Miss Gwyn. She was substituting for head curator Rosemary Rankin.

ROUSTIN' ABOUT with Ed Todd

There's nothing shameful or grotesque or in anyway, supposedly, shocking about those "things we can't even show." The one-room museum is out of space.

But, depending on your viewpoint, there may be some "shockers" on display in the county's family-rated museum.

Take, if you dare, the shriveled head of a South American native "See that shrunken head," Miss Gwyn said of the hardened flesh that, at first glance, might resemble a darkened and spoiled red apple. Thick threads of long, black hair were flowing onto the shelf below "the head."

"I didn't believe it was genuine either, until Rosemary (Rankin) said it was for real," she said.

Young school children, herded into the museum on class assignments, are intrigued by the shrunken head.

"And it seems like even adults get attracted at times" to that head of hair.

Next to it is a stone idol that may have been in the likeness of somebody's concept of a god, demon, or other spirit.

Overlooking, so to speak, the head and almost countless other "things" in the museum are some stuffed, rather than shrunken, creatures.

There's a copy of the flightless, and wingless, Kiwi bird from New Zealand; a hawk killed on Christmas day of 1965 in the swamps of South Carolina; a chaparral and an egg, and a "rare" golden eagle "killed at 200 yards" by Elliott F. Cowden in 1910 at a ranch 12 miles northwest of Odessa.

Elsewhere braced on the museum walls are the heads of a moose, an elk and a mountain goat, and the streamlined carcass of a sail fish.

In addition to representations from the wildlife, the museum displays wilted herbs under glass.

Angelo issues call for conservatism

By DEBBIE PIERCE

More important than who the next Republican national chairman is, is what he stands for, Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. said today.

"No one I know of has expressed an interest in the chairmanship, but the sparring for the position has just started," Angelo, national committeeman for Texas, said. National Chairman Mary Louise Smith of Iowa announced Monday she would resign from the top party post in January.

Several Texans were mentioned Monday as successors to Mrs. Smith, but the question seems to be not if a Texan will take over the post but whether the next chairman will be a conservative or a party traditionalist.

Angelo said he felt the necessity of a conservative following Mrs. Smith to the chairmanship post.

He said, "It's critical to the future of the party that the next chairman be an articulate conservative who can delineate the differences between Republicans and Democrats. It's obvious the party needs to take a position more in line with its platform agreed upon at convention this year—it needs a more conservative direction."

Angelo mentioned several possibilities who could succeed Mrs. Smith in the top GOP post. Included in the possibilities were former Texas Gov. John Connally, longtime party workers Fred Agnich and Peter O'Donnell of Dallas and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who this year was bidding for the GOP presidential nomination won by President Ford.

"Connally would be an excellent choice as chairman, but I don't feel there's any chance he'd accept the post," Angelo said. "He didn't express any interest in it in August, and there's no indication I have that he's changed his mind since then."

"Agnich and O'Donnell also would be acceptable choices, but I can't envision either being interested in running for the chairmanship."

City planners OK site for church

By DEBBIE PIERCE

The Midland Planning and Zoning Commission Monday went through a lengthy 13-item agenda in probably record time, with opposition from the public coming on only one item.

City planners approved one request by the Westside Church of Christ and took no action on a second request, as church representatives withdrew the request upon opposition from the neighborhood.

Irving Jarratt, one of the church's trustees, told city planners the church was seeking a zone change from local retail to multiple family on 4.98 acres in the 4400 block of West Illinois Avenue in order to construct a new church on the site. That request received no opposition, and commissioners approved it unanimously.

But church representatives ran into some trouble when they tried to dispose of their present church site.

The church was seeking a zone change from single-family district to local retail at the church site on the corner of Illinois Avenue and Midkiff Road.

Jarratt said most of the area surrounding the present church was retail, and the church needed to dispose of the property because church membership had grown too large for the small parking area there.

In opposition, Alan Holmes of 205 Peach St. was the spokesman for several residents of the area who objected to the request.

Holmes told the commission that the proposed change would result in noise and trash pollution, heavy traffic and deterioration of property values, not to mention the alteration in the nature of the neighborhood. Seven other residents of the area appeared with Holmes to protest the request.

City planning director Richard Hennessy reminded commissioners of a provision governing the planning commission — that if they voted on a request, the applicants could not appear before them again until after a one-year period. Hennessy said the provision was to prevent applicants from "pestering" the commission.

The commission agreed it was sympathetic with the church's request but was against the change and recommended the church withdraw its request until it had a prospective buyer for the site. The seven church representatives were granted a short recess and agreed to withdraw their request. Therefore, no action was taken on the matter.

Planning commissioners will recommend city council approval of a request by the Midland Girl Scouts to lease or purchase three acres west of the Cerebral Palsy Center in the northern part of the city.

Ross Roberts, chairman of the design and building committee for the scouts, told the group they would be receptive to an alternate site, north of the center and east of Cumberland Street, suggested by the Midland City Council earlier.

Roberts said the 2.7-acre alternate site would be okayed by the scouts if council would approve the extension of Dengar Street in that area.

Commissioners approved the request for the alternate site, with the recommendation that council extend Dengar Street and provide utilities to the location.

In other action, commissioners: — Approved a final plat of the Skyline Heights Addition at Midkiff and Golf Course roads; — Approved a request by W. W. Wallace for a specific use permit for a guest house for a relative in the 1000 block of Alpine Street;

— Approved a request by Warren L. Faller for a zone change from single-family to local retail north of FM 868 and Midkiff Road, and a similar zone change begun by the planning commission from single-family to local retail in that same area.

— Approved a request by Henry Culp for an amended planned district at Neely Street and Western Drive for landscaping purposes;

— Approved a request by Frank Welch for a zone change from parking district to planned district in the 100 block of Pine Street, after noting an error in the issuance of a building permit there;

— Approved a request by John

Williams for a zone change from single-family to multiple family, after noting an error in the legal description of the site about two years ago.

— Approved special permits for three townhouses being constructed and for four more units to be constructed in an area north of Midland Air Park, in accordance with the existing planned district to the south, as requested by the Magnatex Corp.;

— Deferred until its next session discussion of a preliminary development plan in an area bounded by Andrews Highway, Midland Drive, FM 1369 and Wadley Avenue, and.

— Deferred until its next session consideration of regulations pertaining to mobile homes located in other than single-family districts.

Museum really no dungeon

museum? Name it. Arrowheads, ranching tools, pistols and bullets, spinning wheels, photographs, rifles and bombs, helmets and hand grenades, and things that would bore and excite collectors of junk and artifact.

"Would you ever believe what chickens have eaten?" Miss Gwyn asks, as she eyes a tray of odds-and-ends that have been cut from chicken gizzards. "The way they gobble up," she said.

What they had stuffed down their gullets and into their gizzards would make a miniature museum of sorts: marbles, spent cartridges, nails, screws, wing nuts, springs, and, among much more, rocks.

Fittingly, in this petroleum-conscious Permian Basin, the museum "stocks" a scale model of a wood oilfield derrick, a standard rig. The model is in the name of PoBoy Oil Co. and L. J. Waddle.

The old-timers, probably, could "hear" the old rig straining and its men grunting.

Perhaps that, in part, is what a museum is about: a recalling for some. For others, the experience of touring a musty or sparkling museum may be a first.

The yesteryears reflected in the artifacts, junk and things may be totally strange to them.

So be it. Even the dead, even if their names are lost, are not forgotten in a museum.

Commissioners award contract to pave Terrell Street extension

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Midland County commissioners Monday accepted a $10,153 bid from South Texas Construction Co. for paving on Terrell Street from the city limits to Interstate 20.

County Judge Barbara Culver said the project would be paid for by a $10,000 community development grant from 1975.

The commissioners also approved a $1,000 contract with Sherwin-Williams Paint Co. for new floor covering at Valley View Community Center. It, too, is a community development grant, Judge Culver said.

Judge Culver informed the commissioners that the county will receive $3,554 in insurance payments for damage done to the Culver Youth Home in a recent grease fire. In addition, the company will pay cost of installing a new stove.

That amount includes new carpet for a portion of the facility, cleaning drapes, a new stove and formica to replace scorched tiles.

In other action the commissioners agreed to accept deeds for right-of-way to extend County Road 72 east and County Road 1160 north.

They also approved two requests for pipeline crossings, one by Sohio Oil Co. and one by El Paso Natural Gas Co.

The commissioners acted on several personnel matters, including the resignation of assistant district attorney Rusty Wall, effective Jan. 1, and filling a new secretarial position in the office of the justices of the peace and constable.

They also approved a request by county tax assessor-collector Elmo Linebarger to spend budgeted travel funds to send himself and three employees to a workshop.

Commissioner Durwood Wright reported that Midland Memorial Hospital probably will need to seek a $10,000 increase in funds provided for this year's health care for the indigent.

The budget now calls for $110,000 for local indigent care and $15,000 for out-of-county indigent care.

Midlander hurt in rig mishap in New Mexico

TULAROSA, N.M. — A Midland man lost his left arm, and a New Mexico man suffered back injuries in an accident Sunday on a water drilling rig northeast of Tularosa, N.M.

Bill Culbertson, 53, of Midland and Edward Sprague, 26, of Tularosa said they were working on the rig Sunday when it started to vibrate and come apart.

The two men said one part of the rig hit Sprague in the head and apparently knocked him out. When he came to, he saw Culbertson was tangled in a rope and being wrapped around the rotary in the rig.

Officials said Sprague stopped the machine, and both men were taken to an Alamogordo hospital.

Carter seeks legislative leaders after Ford visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter, after meeting with President Ford, is planning discussions with leaders of Congress. Carter's second day of meetings on his first trip here since the election were on Capitol Hill today, but spokesmen for legislators he planned to see said they were unsure about discussion topics.

Carter spent 75 minutes with President Ford on Monday and said afterwards: "There cannot have been a better demonstration of unity and friendship and goodwill than has been shown to me by President Ford since the election."

"The transition will be one which will be conducive to peace in our own nation and peace around the world," Carter said after an Oval Office conference on the transition to a Carter administration.

Carter, staying at Blair House, the government guest house across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House, also met with several members of Ford's Cabinet.

At the Capitol on Monday there was some mystery about what Carter planned to discuss at meetings he requested with House and Senate committee chairmen, the House International Relations Committee, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and with GOP congressional leaders.

Vice president-elect Walter F. Mondale was to join in the meetings. The congressmen are among those whose support Carter will need if he hopes to assure success for his legislative program.

A Democratic staff member said there was no agenda for the session with House committee chairmen, but that Carter probably would discuss government reorganization, foreign policy and economic problems.

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said Monday night the meetings were requested by Carter to make contact "with the people on the Hill, giving them a chance to get to know" the incoming president.

Powell said earlier that Carter wanted to talk with the foreign affairs panels to advance his plans for a bipartisan foreign policy in which Congress would play a greater role.

After their meeting, Ford and Carter walked on the lawn and Ford told reporters "the transition is working smoothly."

"It has been a real pleasure and a privilege for Mrs. Ford and myself to have Gov. Carter and Mrs. Carter as our guests," he said.

While the President and president-elect talked, Ford's wife, Betty, showed Carter's wife, Rosalynn, around the White House.

Earlier, Mrs. Carter visited the principal of Stevens School, the Washington public school that nine-year-old Amy Carter might attend.

Carter thanked Ford "for the gracious way in which he has welcomed me to meet with his heads of departments to teach me about the future responsibilities which I will assume."

Powell said Carter described the meeting as "a very substantive discussion." Powell said "a good part of the time" was spent on foreign affairs.

More radioactive debris set to arrive over U.S. Thursday

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A second wave of radioactive debris from the Chinese nuclear test is scheduled to arrive over the United States Thursday, just as the first one disappears from the continent and drifts over the Atlantic, the Environmental Protection Agency said Monday.

The EPA said the second cloud of fallout will drift down from Canada, entering the United States over South Dakota and passing southeast to reach an area ranging from Maryland to Florida before going out to sea.

The cloud will drift at a level of 65,000 feet, twice as high as the first part of the contaminated air mass, and "will not affect people on the ground," according to William D. Rowe, EPA's deputy assistant administrator for radiation programs.

While there will be no ground effects, Rowe said, consideration is being given to air traffic that might be contaminated by the fallout while in flight.

He said that EPA and the Federal Aviation Administration are considering a possible rerouting of supersonic aircraft which routinely fly at altitudes high enough to encounter the radiation. Those would be the British-French Concorde commercial aircraft and U.S. military flights.

Minor traces of radioactive material were found on some aircraft that had passed through areas contaminated by the first wave of the air mass, Rowe said. The planes are measured for radioactivity at airports. No serious contamination had been found on any planes, Rowe said.

Brzezinski in running for NSC position

WASHINGTON (AP) — Of Jimmy Carter's many foreign policy advisers, the one virtually assured of a top job in the new administration is a university professor whose accent and scholarly demeanor invite comparisons with Henry Kissinger.

There is no indication that Carter has made up his mind, but professor Zbigniew Brzezinski of Columbia University is regarded by Carter associates as a possible candidate for the post of National Security Council chief.

It was from that power base that Kissinger became the dominant figure in U.S. foreign policy during the Nixon years, even before he became secretary of state in 1973.

A State Department source said Brzezinski expressed interest in the NSC job while on a visit to Israel several months ago.

Reached by telephone Monday, Brzezinski declined comment on his relationship with Carter except to say that the news media had exaggerated his influence on the president-elect's campaign.

As for his future plans, he said, "This is not the time for interviews."

Carter apparently was impressed by Brzezinski's foreign policy insights offered during the political campaign. He has announced publicly he wants Brzezinski in his administration.

Kissinger and Brzezinski have much in common. Kissinger was born in Germany, Brzezinski in Poland, and both retain the accents of their European heritage. Both did graduate work at Harvard University and attracted attention through their work there and through frequent contributions to scholarly journals.

Brzezinski is 48, just three years older than Kissinger was when he joined Nixon's inner circle in 1969.

But from their public statements, both Carter and Brzezinski believe that the flamboyant Kissinger approach to diplomacy should be replaced by a more conventional style.

In an article written two years ago, Brzezinski said, "What is needed is a major architectural effort rather than an acrobatic foreign policy."

Since his election, Carter has said he will not allow his national security adviser to encroach on the authority of his secretary of state.

Skeptics recall, however, that Kissinger himself said when he became NSC chief that he would engage principally in long range planning, leaving the conduct of policy to the State Department.

As it turned out, Kissinger seized effective control over the most important decisions, such as the Vietnam negotiations and the overtures to China, while Secretary of State William P. Rogers, was often kept in the dark. Kissinger served jointly as NSC chief and secretary of state from 1973 until last year, when former Air Force Gen. Brent Scowcroft took the NSC job.

T1 engine to be sent for test

DENVER (AP) — The engines of a Texas International jetliner which crashed and burned in Denver last week will be sent to a test facility in Dallas, Tex., while the plane's stall warning system will be tested in Houston, a National Transportation Safety Board investigator said Monday.

Rudolph Kapustin, the NTSB investigator in charge, said investigators still had not determined why the stall warning went off, causing the pilot to abort takeoff.

The stall warning is sounded whenever a plane's speed is unacceptable for the flight activity it is in at the time, he said.

Kapustin said the NTSB command post in Denver was closed down Monday. He said the investigation into the crash may take as long as six months.

The DC9 crashed and burned last Tuesday at Stapleton International Airport. All 80 passengers and five crew members were evacuated without any serious injuries.

Witness disfavours request

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s request for $46 million a year to make up for the loss of business that the company says will result from a rate increase should be rejected, says a Texas Municipal League witness.

Whatever loss the company experiences will be offset by growth, Robert G. Towers told the Public Utilities Commission Monday.

Bell is asking the commission for permission to increase its rates enough to give the company a net $298.3 million more a year.

Towers also said the commission should disallow Bell's request for $31.7 million a year "to avoid an attrition in its rate of earnings caused by anticipated growth in its fair value rate base."

Both requests are based on speculations about developments that could occur, Towers said. It would be better to wait and see what actually happens, Towers said, and if the company experiences the losses it says it expects, it can apply for a rate increase. The commission is expected to rule on Bell's application next month.

Curb deficit spending

"Get out of our business; we'll operate a free enterprise system."

This is the message which citizens should and must get across to Congress, U.S. Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson told an Abilene audience recently.

He said that the nation will have to draw the line somewhere on spending, and that government needs to get back to its basic functions of keeping the peace and stopping encroachment on each other's rights.

"We need to quit looking to Washington to cure all our ills," he said.

Burleson, a veteran member of the House Budget and Ways and Means committees, knows whereof he speaks. He recognizes the dangers of deficit spending and he never hesitates to speak out against over-spending on the floor of the House or elsewhere.

"I want to say that our government should only spend what it takes in," said Burleson, who also spoke in favor of "zero budgeting," in which a program or agency would have to justify all expenditures during each budgeting period just as if it were starting anew.

The West Texas congressman also spoke out in opposition to central planning proposals.

"We all want planning," he said, "but we want to do it ourselves, and not have some faceless bureaucracy plan it for us."

Burleson explained that he fears central planning which would tell people what to produce, who would produce it, and then have "persuasive" powers to accomplish its wishes. He said he believes the power to persuade is the power to coerce.

Commenting that national health care will continue in the congressional spotlight, Burleson said he would favor a voluntary plan of participation in which the employe and his employer pay for the health care — similar to many health care plans now in operation.

He pointed out that everyone wants the nation's ills "cured" not today but yesterday. And the way people try to cure these ills is to pour money on them.

He admitted that it is difficult to vote against so many social programs which "always seem to have something for almost everyone in them."

"Who can be against research in mental retardation?" he asked. "I'm not. And if you're not for clean water, are you for dirty water?"

He said that his point is that somewhere, people must reach the point where they tell the government, "No more." Amen.

Yea, Lee Rebels!

Coach Jim Acree's Robert E. Lee Rebels, District 5-4A football champions, cleared their first state playoff hurdle in grand style last Saturday at Abilene, defeating the Eules Trinity Trojans 17-0.

Thus, the Rebels move into the regional phase of the playoffs. They will meet the Arlington Sam Houston Texans at 2 p.m. Saturday at San Angelo.

The game against the Trojans was one of the Rebels' best. The offense was spectacular and the work of the defensive unit was superb.

The Tall City's Rebels are rolling and there is no reason to look back now as the Rebs continue their winning ways.

The Lee High School team has proven itself against strong competition and there is no doubt it is one of the state's top football units. But, of course, the going will be somewhat tougher from here on out and the Midlanders will have to play as good or even better than they have in their best games in order to annex the state AAAA football crown. We believe they are capable of doing it.

The footballers may be assured that an even larger crowd of supporters than went to Abilene will be on hand at San Angelo to cheer them on to victory.

Meanwhile, congratulations and all best wishes to the Lee High School Rebels and to Coach Acree and members of his staff on their most recent, meaningful victory.

Midlanders are proud of their Lee Rebels and wish them well in their future games.

A Capital perversion: More abortions than births

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter's promise that, as President, he would strive to minimize abortion and would oppose federal funding of the grisly tragedy, should be put to test here in the District of Columbia where abortions outnumbered births last year.

According to D.C. government statistics, not only did abortions exceed births here in 1975, but 85 percent of the abortions were paid for by federal money. Both these facts should challenge Carter's often-expressed concern about the prevalence and trendy character of abortion in America.

While Washington, D.C., is the first city in the republic to record such a perversion in reproduction, in New York City the report is that abortions add up to 80 percent of the resident births. I am sure if a rundown is made on other major cities, the same trend will be found — a growing option to abort over delivering a child.

The old saw that most abortions are performed on middle-class white women doesn't hold up. Increasingly, black women are hustled through the abortion clinics (which thrive on federal bucks) like housewives going through the supermarket checkout counter. That certainly is the case in Washington, D.C., where officials estimate that black women account for as many abortions performed here as babies born.

Some black leaders and intellectuals have opposed the abortion binge because they think it is a cleverly disguised effort to rid any city of unwanted black children. Now no self-respecting and usually pompous Planned Parenthood zealot would admit to such a motive, nor would those popinjays who sit on the boards of civic-minded groups. But down deep, that's what they're after. A sort of schwarzenrein (consult your German-English dictionary).

Someone up above must be musing over this destructive madness. While good folks cluck-cluck over the news that aborts outnumber spank-on-the-bottom newborns, two physicians and an attorney here have been charged with violating the District of Columbia's baby-broker law. In other words, they are suspected of selling babies.

The story is that these licensed professionals are "outstanding citizens, not sleazy or slimy." I will accept that on face value. Perhaps they were only instrumental in cutting through the red tape of adoption procedures.

But the point is that there is a great demand for adopting babies at the same time the majority of pregnancies tended to in D.C. wind up as abor-

Alaskan economic power plays

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — In the name of civilization, white Americans have pushed the Indians off their hunting grounds and herded them into reservations. The only wilderness left open to them is Alaska's vast, frozen tundra and timberland.

By Act of Congress, this last open territory was granted to them in 1971. The Alaskan Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts were declared to be the rightful owners of Alaska's wilderness.

Their ancestors had roamed this harsh country for centuries. The Supreme Court supported their right to the region in an 1837 decision. Then in 1969, a giant consortium of oil companies, known as Alyeska, prepared to build the Alaska pipeline.

The company, in clearing the right of way for the pipeline, found the authorities unsure over who owned the Alaskan wilderness. The 1971 Act was supposed to have settled the issue.

But the federal bureaucracy, as we've pointed out in the past, doesn't always pay attention to the laws that Congress passes. The Interior Department has shown a decided reluctance to implement the Act.

The department has been receiving pressure from the same selfish white interests that have succeeded in subverting Indian treaties in the past. The big game hunters and recreational interests fear, without cause, that the natives will limit the hunting on their land.

Business and political circles are also uneasy over the economic power the natives will wield if they finally gain control of their vast acreage.

Already, 12 federally funded, native corporations have been set up to determine how best to develop the land.

The Interior Department, therefore, has been obstructing the transfer of the Alaskan wilderness to its native owners. Congress gave Interior the authority, for example, to reserve certain easements. The purpose was to provide the general public with rights of way across native territory.

The department seized upon this provision to issue massive, blanket easements on the entire coastline of Alaska and around all inland rivers and lakes. The dispute over this action has become bogged down in litigation.

It's an old, sad story. Time and again, the federal government has signed treaties with the Indians, which guaranteed millions of acres but which delivered only thousands.

At this moment, protected white interests are illegally dragnet off the life-giving water of tribes in various parts of the country — under the eyes of a government that systematically welsches on its commitments.

Dictators Beware: With Jimmy Carter in the White House, several Democratic congressmen will seek next year to strip tinhorn Latin American dictators of their military aid.

The group, led by Rep. Edward Koch, D-N.Y., claims that the military governments face no threats from external enemies and are using American weapons to oppress their own people.

Carter has indicated that he will consider human rights in dealing with foreign nations. Koch expects to have

ART BUCHWALD

Friendship and love for loyal benefactor

WASHINGTON — It came as a shock to many of us to discover that "brave" little South Korea was one of the big spenders in the nation's capital when it came to money for American congressmen, entertaining Administration officials and giving all-expense trips to the Pearl of the East.

There are some skeptical people in this skeptical town who refer to these gifts as "bribes."

Perish the thought. All South Korea was trying to do was endeavor itself to the officials who were trying to help them remain part of the free world.

Let's look at it from South Korea's standpoint. Here is a little country that is dependent on the good will of the United States. For 25 years the United States has been supplying it with food, guns and American troops at a cost of billions of dollars.

How can South Korea reciprocate this kindness? One way that makes sense is to give cash to congressmen who are friendly to the country. Another way is to throw lavish parties for our country's leaders in exclusive Georgetown clubs. A third is to present beautiful gifts to the wives of important Washington figures and, finally, they can offer all-expense trips to this exotic country steeped in tradition and history.

The price of all this is a drop in the bucket compared to what we are giving the South Koreans in aid. What better way to show friendship and love for a benefactor than to fix him up with a beautiful Korean girl in Seoul?

But the skeptics say, "All right, the South Koreans have every right to bribe Americans, but what right do the Americans have to accept the bribes?"

The answer is simple. If a congressman or an official refused to accept a gift of cash or an elaborate present from a member of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency he would be an ingrate and would cause the KCIA official to lose face.

The worst thing you can do to a Korean secret agent when he presents you with an envelope stuffed with cash is to give it back to him.

How will the agent explain it to his superiors? What will they think of a man who doesn't even know how to bribe a member of a U.S. legislative body? Will they speculate that the bribe wasn't enough — or perhaps it was too much? A KCIA agent who fails to lay a bribe on an American public official is a marked man, and when he returns to Korea he is liable to long imprisonment or even death by the firing squad.

Most congressmen know this, and rather than risk a man's life they have accepted the cash he has proffered or the entertainment laid on him.

South Korea is one of the staunchest allies in the free world. It must be protected and defended at all costs. Very few of us can go to South Korea and sit in the trenches facing north waiting for an attack. But we can accept money, inlaid teak tables, jewelry and even women, to show them that we are with them.

We owe it to President Park to stop badgering Americans who have willingly or unwillingly accepted money from his agents in the United States.

If President Park wants to show his gratitude to the people who are in charge of foreign aid to his country, we should not show scorn or indignation.

I, for one, am sorry that Mr. Park never considered me important enough to have a KCIA agent slip a packet full of cash under my door. Had he done it, I would have worked very hard to see that South Korea got everything it asked for. Not because he had bribed me but because I would have realized that he cared.

Besides, it was my tax money in the first place.

DEAR ABBY

Paraplegics can give love, too

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: PUZZLED IN NEW YORK couldn't understand why a nurse he was engaged to marry dropped him for a patient who was paralyzed from the waist down. He asked, "What good can he do her as a husband?" Well, I have news for PUZZLED.

I am married to a paraplegic. His spine was severed by a bullet that rendered his legs useless, but the rest of him is just fine. He is just like any other man in all respects except that he rolls instead of walks.

And anyone who thinks that sex isn't a part of our marriage is really stupid. Paralyzed people need love, and they can give it too. And for the record, we are both 22.—HAPPY IN ILLINOIS

DEAR HAPPY: Read on for another interesting letter from a reader who also speaks with authority, with a view from a wheelchair!

DEAR ABBY: May I answer PUZZLED IN N.Y., the healthy able-bodied man who was engaged to a nurse, but lost her to a policeman who was paralyzed from the waist down? PUZZLED asked, "How can he do her any good as a husband?"

Dear Puzzled: As a totally paralyzed person in a wheelchair, I think I can tell you a few things you ought to know. Just because a person's legs stop functioning, it doesn't mean his mind and heart also stop. He can still think, get angry, make decisions and love.

Perhaps one day you will be able to see things in a different light. I can assure you that seeing things from a wheelchair not only changes your level of viewing life, but also broadens your appreciation of it.

It is possible that your former fiancée's life with a paralyzed husband could be highly rewarding in all aspects, and that means sexually, too.

I want to caution you about something. The possibility of your becoming paralyzed or suffering some form of disability is one in 10... and growing greater every year. Don't gamble your happiness on only being able to stand up.— WHEELCHAIR IN FORT WORTH

DEAR READERS: If you would like some excellent information and/or instruction on how to handle your sexual feelings satisfactorily though physically handicapped, get in touch with your County or State Easter Seal Society, also known as Society For Crippled Children and Adults.

And the office of SIECUS (Sex Information and Education Council of the U.S., 1855 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10023) can also provide you with helpful material.

AT WIT'S END

Super Moms vs. Jock Pops

By ERMA BOMBECK

I never really got over the time a priest came to bless my best friend's house and she was sitting in her antiseptic living room, with a copy of Bishop Sheen's book on the coffee table, listening to her Latin Berlitz records... in her eighth month.

That was the day I began to suspect I was different than other mothers. For a better label, I called them Super Moms and realized I never wanted to have one move in to my neighborhood.

Recently, a man cornered me and said, "You think you've got problems. How would you like to live across the street from a Jock Pop?"

"A Jock Pop?" "Yeah, you know, the guy who does everything right. His garage is lined with pegboard with his tools alphabetized. He empties the lawn mower bag every time he uses it, stores his old anti-freeze, and are you ready for this — trains his wife to clean paint brushes after she uses them."

"You're kidding." "As I stand here before you it's the truth. I don't understand men like that. We buy coffee just for the cans to store old paint brushes. And he's always got the right outfit for the right job. Jogs in his warmup suit, cuts grass in his layered look, carries out the garbage in his jacket with the patches on the elbows, and gets the paper in a coordinated pajama-robe outfit. Oh, and don't forget the letter-sweater for errands."

"It's enough to make you sick," I said.

"That's not all," he added. "He's the type of guy who takes his son fishing — and catches fish — doesn't have to stand on the milk box to hang the Christmas tree lights, always parks his car in the garage on the night before it snows, and gets in his grass seed just minutes before a gentle rain falls."

"Get hold of yourself," I said softly. "You don't understand," he shouted. "At school board meetings, he always has a question. He never sweats under the arms when he takes his jacket off, his back never goes out playing touch football, he's got a ski rack on his car and always ties his garbage cans together so the dogs won't knock them over."

"He's the first one to have his driveway cleared after a snow, the first one to have his storm windows stored, and the first one to know how he's going to feel on an issue even before a bumper sticker comes out. He has a diaper on his oil pan to keep oil off his garage floor and gets lemon-scented wax at the car wash." "I know... I know..." I said, patting his hand.

All the equipment you need, aside from the food items, is a lunch box with a wide-neck Thermos for salads as well as soups and beverages.

Gilmore, on hunger strike, to ask for death in week

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Gilmore, weakening in his fourth day without food, will appear before a special meeting of the Utah Board of Pardons one week from today to demand that he be allowed to die before a firing squad.

Board member Thomas Harrison said Monday that the three-man panel decided to move the hearing from Dec. 6 to Nov. 30 to avoid conflict with a state law requiring that executions be carried out within 60 days of sentencing.

Gilmore's 60 days will be up on Dec. 7, and some officials have said they were concerned the law might be interpreted as requiring that he be released if he were not executed by then.

The 35-year-old Gilmore has fought attempts to delay his execution for the slaying of a Provo motel clerk during a robbery. He has said he will plead personally before the board for a speedy death.

The board must either uphold the death sentence or commute it to life imprisonment, and the chairman has indicated board members may have little choice but to go along with Gilmore's wishes.

Number high schoolers trying pot up 5 per cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than half of the Bicentennial class of high school seniors tried marijuana and three out of 10 were users at graduation time, according to government surveys.

The National Institute on Drug Abuse surveyed 17,000 high school seniors in 130 schools last spring and found that 53 per cent had tried marijuana, a 5 per cent increase over the class of 1975.

The survey, released today, said 32 per cent regarded themselves as current marijuana users.

An identical 53 per cent of persons aged 18 to 25 had tried marijuana, according to another institute survey, and 25 per cent were current users. It showed 22 per cent of 12-to-17-year-olds had experimented with marijuana and 15 per cent were regular or occasional users.

Although cigarettes and alcohol were used more frequently than marijuana by young adults, 57 per cent of high school seniors thought there was a serious health risk for cigarettes while only 40 per cent felt the same way about marijuana.

The findings indicated the use of LSD has remained virtually constant the last four years, and that abuse of heroin and psychotherapeutic drugs has been unchanged the last two years.

The rate of cocaine use was the same this year as in 1975.

Dr. Robert L. DuPont, the institute's director, said comparison of the surveys show "an apparent stabilization in drug use and the attitudes toward drugs in general."

Government moves toward banning fluorocarbons

WASHINGTON (AP) — After two years of controversy over whether fluorocarbons are destroying the atmosphere's protective layer of ozone, the government is moving toward banning use of the chemical in spray cans.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission on Monday took the first step to ban fluorocarbon aerosols, saying they "present an unreasonable risk of injury to consumers."

Meanwhile, another federal agency, the Food and Drug Administration, was believed to be on the verge of taking action to warn consumers of the possible danger from fluorocarbon spray cans.

The FDA claims it has regulatory jurisdiction over 80 per cent of the fluorocarbon sprays on the U.S. market, including deodorants, hair sprays and other cosmetic items.

Fluorocarbons are used in about half of all aerosol products. More than one billion cans are sold in the United States alone each year.

The controversy already has led some manufacturers to substitute hydrocarbons — considered safe by environmentalists — for fluorocarbons in spray cans.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission's surprise action appeared to signal a coordinated government move against fluorocarbon sprays.

The commission, which refused in July 1975 to ban fluorocarbon sprays, had been expected to let the FDA and the Environmental Protection Agency handle the issue. But the commission voted 5-0 in closed session Monday in favor of the ban sought by an environmental group, the National Resources Defense Council.

The commission said it has clear jurisdiction over non-cosmetic products like household cleaners, and that it was ordering immediate preparation of a notice banning fluorocarbons from those items.

It will take at least several months for the commission to follow the procedural steps to implement the ban.

The commission said it would coordinate its action with the FDA and the EPA.

If the EPA imposes its own ban on fluorocarbons "within a reasonable period of time," the commission said it would drop its action. EPA is considering such a ban.

Canadian payments queried

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — An official report has questioned payments totaling $10.5 million by a government company to promote the sales of nuclear power plants to the Argentina and South Korea.

The report by Auditor-General J.L. Macdonell to the House of Commons Monday said Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. (AECL) was unable to supply "adequate documentation" of how the money was spent.

The corporation confirmed that it made the questioned payments of $2.4 million in Argentina and $8.1 million in South Korea. It said it did not even know who received the money in Argentina. A spokesman for AECL said the agency had no knowledge that the money was used to bribe foreign officials, as officials of the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. have admitted doing in Japan and other countries. The auditor-general said he would not speculate on the purpose of the payments. The auditor's report said AECL paid a total of $18 million to foreign concerns to promote its sale of a $514-million nuclear generating station to South Korea and a $600-million nuclear station to Argentina.

The corporation paid $15.4 million for the services of an agent in the South Korean deal between 1972 and last January, the report said. Of that amount, $8.1 million was "supported only by general statements without details," the report said.

The agent was United Development Inc., a worldwide firm with headquarters in Tel Aviv. In the Argentine sale, an AECL spokesman said, commercial and promotional work was handled by the Italian firm Italimpianti.

WON'T RUN AWAY East was the criminal. His two trump tricks won't run away if he allows dummy's nine of trumps to win the third round of diamonds. East should discard a club instead of overruffing.

Dealer's best play is to cash the ace of spades and reach his hand with a club to lead the jack of spades. East wins with the queen, but then still has the K-8 of spades while South has the 10-7. Sooner or later East gets a trick with the eight of spades, defeating the contract.

Don't be in a hurry to overruff with a trump that will always be good.

ANSWER: Bid 3 NT. The combined count is 26 to 28 points in high cards, which should be good enough for game at notrump but is not always enough for game at a minor suit—especially when neither hand has a singleton or a void suit.

FBI after bookies

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The FBI has begun an examination of evidence collected during its weekend raids on suspected bookmaking operations across the state.

Special agent Homer Hauer, in charge of the Bureau's Jackson office, said a "detailed and extensive investigation" will be conducted in connection with the raids.

In the weekend sweep, which involved 21 locations, agents seized gambling equipment and about $80,000. Prior to the raids, the FBI had obtained search warrants which were served on 24 persons.

The warrants were returned Monday to U.S. Magistrates' offices in the Northern and Southern districts.

NOVO-BAKINSKY REFINERY ON the Caspian Coast is the site of the latest addition to Soviet refining capacity. Its capacity jumped 120,000 barrels per day on completion of an expansion program in October. A flurry of major refining-project completions this year kicked off the country's new five-year plan (1976-80).

Energy-oriented people may be on Carter staff

WASHINGTON — There is a growing possibility that some people with energy-based experience will be appointed to key positions in the upcoming Carter Administration. If so, this will be a change in the trend in recent years when the White House was jittery about naming anyone to an energy position who professed to know anything about energy. On the rare occasions when this rule was not followed, congressional leaders would raise a hue and cry, saying this was putting the fox in charge of the chicken coop. The situation is considerably different now. For one thing, President Carter will be sending nominations to a Congress dominated by members of his own party, so there will be some reluctance to pounce on them from the outset. Also, Carter has indicated an increasing awareness that energy problems will rank high during his time in office and, therefore, that he will need the best help he can get in coping with these in improving the nation's domestic energy development.

stirred into the pot as the Carter team fills Cabinet, sub-Cabinet, regulatory and other key positions.

That is why close attention will be paid in the weeks ahead to the appointments that will be made.

President-elect Carter has said he will make known the people he is considering for Cabinet and similar posts before a final decision is made.

Energy industry officials recognize the importance of these appointments because of the tremendous impact governmental actions have on the shape and the future of the energy industries.

Pecos gains shallow prospector, stepout scheduled, pool spreads

Pecos County drew site for a shallow prospector, a stepout is scheduled in an Andrews gas area, and a Sterling field gained an extension.

Gulf Oil Corp. will drill No. 1 Carolyn Harral, et al-State, a 3,000-foot venture in Pecos, 11 miles southeast of Bakersfield.

Drillsite is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 58, block C-4, GC&SF survey, ¾ mile north of the Rocky Mesa (Queen) gas field.

The discovery, Gulf No. 1-N Harral, et al, finalized in September, 1972, for eight barrels of 22.4-gravity oil daily, through perforations at 2,574-2,578 feet.

ANDREWS SITE

Wood, McShane & Thams of Monahans will drill No. 2 Fannie Mathews as a ¾-mile southeast stepout to Yates gas production in the Block A-34 field of North Andrews.

The test, slated to 3,100 feet, spots 660 feet from south and 2,309 feet from west lines of section 9, block A-34, PSL survey, 13 miles north of Andrews.

STERLING EXTENDER

HNG Oil Co., Midland, finalized its No. 1-3 Wilkinson as a ¾-mile northeast extension to the Credo, East (upper Cisco) gas field in Sterling County, about 10 miles northwest of Sterling City.

It had a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 3,050 million cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-condensate ratio of 21,000-1. Gravity of the condensate is 55 degrees.

Completion was effected through perforations at 7,214-7,423 feet, after fracturing the pay zone with 42,000 gallons and 36,000 pounds of sand.

Location is 660 feet from south and 933 feet from east lines of section 3, block 23, H&TC survey.

Upton try yields oil

Samedan Oil Corp., Midland, No. 1-27 University, Upton County wildcat, seven miles southeast of Rankin and 2½ miles southwest of the lone Wolfcamp well in the Block 4 field, reversed out 15 barrels of 42-gravity oil and two barrels of salt water along with an unreported amount of oil-cut mud on a drillstem test in an unindented zone.

Tool was open 45 minutes on the test taken from 9,765-9,818 feet.

Operator set 5½-inch casing at 9,954 feet, on total depth of 11,143 feet, for completion attempt.

Location is 590 feet from south and 2,173 feet from east lines of section 27, block 4, ULS.

Wolfcamp production in the Block 4 field is at about 9,506 feet.

Eddy project gauges flow

Morris R. Antwell, Artesia, N.M., No. 1 Macho Norte, Eddy County undesignated test, ¼ mile north of Antwell No. 1 Mesa Macho, Morrow gasser between two Morrow areas, flowed 234 barrels of oil and gas at the rate of 1.02 million cubic feet per day, in 24 hours, from the Morrow.

The flow was through perforations at 11,242-11,250 feet. Testing continued.

It is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 24-205-27e, seven miles north of Carlsbad.

Belco well flows gas

Belco Petroleum Corp., Midland, was preparing to acidize and resume testing at No. 1 Christy, Pennsylvania detrital wildcat and 1¼-mile southeast outpost to the one-well Blue Danube (Strawn) oil field.

It flowed two hours through a 20-64-inch choke and perforations at 10,442-10,458 feet, making 2.32 barrels of condensate and gas at the daily rate of 1,001 million cubic feet.

Total depth is 10,900 feet. Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 36, block E, CC&MRR survey, three miles northwest of Rankin.

Wildcat scheduled

Walsh & Trant Petroleum Corp. of Tyler filed permit application to drill No. 1 C. N. Kornegay, a 4,500-foot venture in Runnels County, one mile southwest of Winters.

Location is 467 feet from north and east lines of Joe Vancil survey 2, abstract 1283, ¾ mile east of depleted production in the Spike, Southwest field.

Terry test swabs crude

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 64 Mallet Land & Cattle Co., Terry County wildcat, ¾ mile south of the one-well Frazier (Abo) field of Hockley, swabbed 156 barrels of oil and 37 barrels of water in 11 hours.

Recovery was through Abo perforations at 7,740-7,954 feet. Testing continued.

The project is 1,670 feet from north and west lines of section 5, block D-11, J. H. Gibson survey, five miles south of Sundown.

Conoco pumps oil

Continental Oil Co. No. 8-30 Russell-Federal, Lea County, N.M., wildcat, ¾ mile northwest of the Battleaxe (Delaware) field, pumped 34 barrels of oil and 67 barrels of water in 24 hours, from the Delaware.

Recovery was through perforations at 4,254-4,266 feet. Testing continued. Location is 2,310 feet from south and west lines of section 30-28s-32e, 36 miles south of Halfway.

Midland-based firm plans first dividend

Rising oil and gas sales resulting from successful exploration and development efforts, plus improved contract drilling profits, enabled MGF Oil Corp. of Midland to report higher third quarter profits.

Companies win tracts

TULSA, Okla. — Independents outbid major companies during last week's Gulf of Mexico lease sale to win most of the tracts drawing bids.

The Oil and Gas Journal's Nov. 22 issue says the independent's surprising vigor turned an expected lackluster sale into one of the best in two years.

Operators bid more than $381 million in appraised high bonuses for 48 of the 61 tracts offered by the Interior Department. The weekly business magazine says the last time bonus bids surpassed $300 million in a Gulf sale was the $1.4 billion in October 1974.

Twenty-two blocks went to the independents and seven to majors and independents bidding jointly. The Journal says major operators too, 19 of the tracts, but some large companies, including Exxon and Texaco, were shut out in the bidding.

Pipeline and utility companies, apparently seeking increased fuel supplies, also made a strong bid for the offshore acreage, according to the Journal.

Transco Exploration Co. lead a coalition of exploration, utility, pipeline and manufacturing companies which ran far ahead of the overall competition with total high bonuses of $123,380,000 for five tracts.

Jack Bowen, Transco chairman, told the Journal higher national new-gas rates fixed by the Federal Power Commission helped make the blocks more attractive.

Other interstate pipeline affiliates making successful bids for acreage were Northern Natural Gas, Texas Eastern Exploration, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Natural Gas, United Gas Pipeline and Tennessee.

The Journal says the biggest attraction for the bidders, Main Pass 72 and 74, reportedly overlie one of the last unleased Miocene salt domes in the gulf. The structure is regarded primarily as an oil prospect.

Portions of the two tracts were offered together and brought the highest bid of the sale. A group of Mobil Oil Corp., Diamond Shamrock Corp., POGO, and Plato, Inc., paid $79,846,000 for exploration and production rights on the parcel.

Oil company breakup would hurt farmers

CHICAGO, Ill. — Breaking up the 18 largest vertically integrated U.S. oil companies would force petroleum prices up about $5 billion, with $200 million "coming out of farmers' pockets," Amoco Oil Co.'s marketing vice president said Monday.

Ken E. Curtis cited a study of vertical divestiture which concluded that such action would lead to a 50 per cent reduction in capital spending by oil companies by 1985 which, in turn, would point to farm fuel shortages that could drive the price of food up by 13 per cent.

He also noted that the agricultural sector might see a "disruption of established supply lines and the traditional relationship with the farm community petroleum supplier since one-third of on-farm fuel is sold by petroleum companies threatened with vertical divestiture.

David Freeman, who has been active in Washington in energy-related matters since his days as on the staff of the Federal Power Commission during the time Joseph C. Swidler was chairman, is another possibility. He has had White House and Capitol Hill experience and was on of Carter's advisors during the campaign and reportedly is having some input during the current transition planning.

Offsetting this are some long-time Democrats who have held government positions and who also have had energy industry experience.

Carter's people currently are doing the talent search that accompanies a change in Administration, and the indications are that they are welcoming concrete suggestions—including suggestions from groups and individuals involved with energy.

It is known that Carter people have conferred with individuals from oil-producing states and from energy-related activities.

Among the key energy positions open to him are the chairmanship of the regulatory agencies, including the Federal Power Commission. Carter since has said he favors deregulation of the wellhead price of newly-found natural gas, it stands to reason that his selection of a chairman of FPC would be a person with a similar viewpoint.

There is also the job of administrator of the Federal Energy Administration, a position currently held by Frank Zarb.

It will be important, too, who he chooses for top environmental positions because there obviously must be some trade-offs between energy and environmental targets if there is to be any real progress.

One such person who comes to mind is J. J. Simmons III, a former head of the Oil Import Administration and for the past several years an official with Hess Oil.

Simmons is originally from Oklahoma, where his father was an oilman. His current job with Hess has given him further experience in international oil to add to his knowledge of the domestic scene. He is Black, and the Blacks feel that their support of Carter was a key to his election.

Duke Ligon is another who would appear to be in the running for a top appointment. He has had experience both in Washington and in the field.

Many other names likely will be "In sum, the gross inefficiencies that would be caused by vertical divestiture would increase petroleum product prices by an estimated $5 billion a year — and $200 million of this would come out of farmers' pockets," Curtis said in an address here to the National Agri-Marketing Outlook Conference.

Removal of artificial government constraints on the U.S. oil industry offers the "one hope" that this nation can ease its way out of the current energy crisis, Curtis said.

"There is a crisis — an insidious one," Curtis said. "There may not be the lineups at the neighborhood service station, hit America sure is lining up for more crude oil from abroad. In fact, our nation is more dependent than ever before on the other guy's crude oil, and this dependency is getting worse as the months go by."

At the same time, Curtis said, our nation's appetite for energy remains "ravenous," yet the federal government is "effectively turning aside efforts by private industry to help dislodge the nation from this mess."

The oil executive declared, "What we have now is a situation wherein the prices of most crude oil and natural gas still are arbitrarily held down by government price lids. This has the effect of encouraging consumption and discouraging replenishing supplies — a kind of reversal of the economic law of supply and demand."

"If there is any one hope of our nation easing its way out of this situation," Curtis said, "it might be by the federal government 'letting go,' letting the forces of supply and demand once again determine the course of the market place."

He noted that artificial constraints "don't add one barrel of crude to the reservoir" — instead, spawn multitudes of new regulations and hordes of new bureaucrats to interpret them.

Curtis said that many people view coal as perhaps the brightest hope for the near term — "that is, coal not only as a direct fuel, but coal as a medium that can yield up synthetic fuels similar to gasoline and natural gas."

But he warned that if petroleum companies are excluded from helping find and develop these new synthetic fuels — whether it be from coal, oil shale, or tar sands, "then this nation will only continue to shortchange itself."

Curtis said proponents of horizontal divestiture, who would exclude oil companies from developing these resources for fear they would monopolize the energy industry, have failed to identify any other segment of the economy with the working capital and know-how to get the job done.

King sector gains test

Taubert, Steed, Gunn & Medders of Wichita Falls plans No. 4-FF S. B. Burnett Estate as a 2,340-foot west stepout to a one-well northwest extension area to Tannehill production in the Big "N" field of King County.

The project has a planned depth is 2,900 feet, and spots 1,900 feet from south and 3,000 feet from east lines of G. W. Lampson survey, abstract 24, 12 miles southeast of Guthrie.

Garza draws test site

Magnatex Corp., Oil Division, Midland, will drill No. 1 Slaughter, a 9,400-foot exploratory test in Southwest Garza, four miles southwest of Graham.

Location is 660 feet from north and 990 feet from west lines of section 12, block 8, TTRR survey, ¼ mile south of a Strawn discovery.

Colts block Dolphins

MIAMI (AP) — Mike Barnes, who knew little glory in the Orange Bowl while toiling for the University of Miami, surfaced as a hero Monday night in the Baltimore Colts' 17-16 victory over the Miami Dolphins. The 6-foot-6, 256-pound defensive tackle blocked Garo Yepremian's conversion kick with 12 seconds to play, preserving the victory and first place for the Colts in the American Football Conference's Eastern Division.

and sometimes you get one," said Barnes of his leap to knock down Yepremian's kick. "The Dolphins scare me. They're a great team. But you're lucky sometimes." Miami's Jim Langer, centering the ball because of an ankle injury to Bob Kuechenberg, blamed himself for the block because of a low snap. "I just blew it," Langer said. "It's my fault."

three-yard lunge by Benny Malone. "It's a tough way to lose," said Miami Coach Don Shula, whose club fell to a 5-6 record and out of playoff contention. "Our team deserved better than what it got." Jones, who shredded Miami's secondary for 13 completions in 20 attempts and 234 yards, did not agree with Shula.

Midland High cagers host Pecos tonight

By PAUL DOMOWITZ This year's edition of the Midland High basketball team does not exactly rekindle fond memories of the great Bulldog units of 1972 and 1973, which came within a whisker of capturing state titles.

a pair of controversial calls by the officials turned things around. HUMPHREY ADDED, "we just had a case of first game jitters Friday night. Pampa did all of their damage early in the game. After that, we played them evenly. But by then, it was too late."

At first glance, their lack of quickness is very noticeable. At second glance, their lack of size is equally apparent. At third glance, their inexperience hits you smack in the face. And at fourth glance, you begin to wonder why you are even taking a fourth glance. Coach Don Humphrey's team hopes to come up with an answer to that tonight, in their home opener against Pecos, and if you take Humphrey to heart, the Pack will get more than just a passing glance in the days ahead. Two weekend road losses to Pampa, the first a humiliating 99-77 trouncing, have failed to swaggar Humphrey's eternal flame of optimism. He still believes his slow, short, and young team will win the district title come next March, and what's more, his players are beginning to believe it. How could two losses place this kind of confidence in a team, Humphrey explains. "After getting beat badly Friday," he said, "we came within a hair of turning things around Saturday. We may have lost that second game by six points, but for our kids, it was a moral victory, they know now that they can play with anybody. They believe in themselves."

Statistics on the two games indicate quite a few more differences than just the point spread. Humphrey had been quite concerned about his team's penchant for fouling in pre-season scrimmages, and the Pampa opener bore this concern out. The Bulldogs were charged with 35 infractions. Midland did not fair much better in the turnover department either on opening night. The final count was 23. But Saturday was a different story. The number of personals dropped to 17, and they committed only 11 turnovers, which isn't bad for a high school team. Why then did they still lose? "We were just cold from the field," Humphrey explained. "Something like 25 per cent." That's not cold. That's freezing. HUMPHREY ALSO made a few lineup changes in Saturday's game, and he promises to do exactly that again tonight, as he continues to search for "the right combinations." NET NOTES: Pampa's starting lineup featured four players over 6-3. It didn't take Humphrey long to abandon his man-for-man defense in favor of a zone. The Midland sophomores blasted Lee last Thursday, 70-34. Phillip Ward, who didn't make the trip to Pampa last weekend, will be suited tonight, and will see action. The Bulldogs will open with Parkland Friday in the first round of the Tall City Tournament at Lee.

Jackson hard to convince

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson is a tough man to pitch to. American League hurlers have known that for years and American and National League owners are personally finding that out these days. The latest of these was George Steinbrenner, who runs the New York Yankees. Hoping to sign the celebrated free agent, Steinbrenner lunched with Jackson Monday, ostensibly to talk contract, then waited in line with the others.

Jackson, a slugging outfielder during the baseball season, is a long-distance runner this week. On Wednesday, he will jump to Chicago and talk contract with hamburger king Ray Kroc, owner of the San Diego Padres. The Yankees and Padres are two of four teams apparently willing to meet Jackson's high-priced salary demands.

Michigan regains second

By The Associated Press Michigan's 16-14 upset loss two weeks ago to Big Ten rival Purdue may have not been as devastating as some may have imagined.

Coach Bo Schembechler, whose team dropped from first to fourth in the rankings after the setback, has vaulted up to second behind Pittsburgh, which took over the top spot.

Apparently the Wolverines' 22-0 thrashing over Ohio State on national television Saturday was more impressive to poll voters than Southern California's 24-14 national TV triumph over UCLA.

Instead of moving up from third in the poll, Southern Cal stayed where it was and Michigan replaced previous runnerup UCLA in the balloting by 62 sports writers and broadcasters around the country.

Michigan, 10-1, and Southern Cal, 9-1, will meet in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day.

"I would say that game on the West Coast could be for the national championship," Schembechler said.

He wouldn't expand on that when pressed Monday. All season he has sloughed off the significance of the rankings, saying that he'd be concerned with being No. 1 'only in the final poll'.

Pittsburgh faces 16th-ranked Penn State on Friday night. A loss could push Michigan back into first place—or maybe Southern Cal, if it can beat Notre Dame on Saturday.

If Pittsburgh beats Penn State it would still have to win over Georgia in the Sugar Bowl to expect a national championship.

Pittsburgh received 39 firstplace poll votes (compared with 44 last week) and 1,172 of a possible 1,240 points. Michigan garnered 13 firsts and 1,050 points, while seven voters picked Southern Cal as No. 1. The Trojans are behind Michigan by only four points.

Georgia climbed from a sixth-place tie with Maryland to fourth place, gaining one first place vote and 807 points. Maryland, headed for the Cotton Bowl owning its first 11-0 record, was fifth with the remaining two firsts and 790 points.

UCLA fell to sixth, followed by Houston, Oklahoma, Texas Tech and Nebraska. Orangebowl bound Ohio State was the only team to drop from the top 10, winding up 12th behind Texas A&M.

Notre Dame, Colorado and Oklahoma State are tied for 14th. Penn State, Rutgers and Alabama follow. Mississippi and North Carolina round out the top 20, tying for 19th. They replace Iowa State and Missouri, which lost Saturday to Big Eight rivals Oklahoma State and Kansas, respectively.

Reagan County Owls; Stanton Buffaloes win

Stanton's Buffaloes and Reagan County's Owls won impressive basketball victories Monday.

Stanton upped its record to 2-0 with a 52-37 victory over AA Coahoma as Doug McCallister led the way with 10 points to lead all scorers. Stanton also won the junior varsity outing, 34-27.

The Owls opened the season against AA Sonora and came away with an easy 62-41 victory. Jennings Teel led all scorers with 18 points and Dennis Kruse contributed 12. Bobby Woodard had 10. Sonora won the girls outing, 52-45 as Cavanaugh had 34 points. Dorothy Phillips had 19 for the Owlettes.

points for the Eagles while Danny Washington had 16 and David Little 14 points. Bryan Smith of Coronado led all scorers with 37 points.

In other area games, Seminole held off Brownfield, 46-43 while Palo Duro edged Lubbock Estacado, 62-57.

In area games Reagan County will host Crane in a big battle while McCamey travels to Buena Vista. Class B Greenwood will host AA Coahoma in a big game for the Rangers. Stanton is scheduled to meet Forsan tonight, but that game may not be played since Forsan was in the state football playoffs.

Reagan County swept the junior varsity action, winning the boys game, 27-25, and the girls game, 55-31.

In an AAAA contest, Abilene High scored six straight points to take a 71-67 overtime victory over Lubbock Coronado. Byron Roberts scored 22 points for the Eagles while Danny Washington had 16 and David Little 14 points. Bryan Smith of Coronado led all scorers with 37 points.

Arizona tests top 10 ranking

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The University of Arizona basketball team will find out tonight whether its top 10 ranking has the Wildcats pegged correctly.

Fred Snowden's Wildcats open their pre-season schedule with the Yugoslavian National team, which took the silver medal at the Montreal Olympics. And after the Wildcats finish with the Yugoslavs, they'll have to deal with Arizona State, a prospect that has basketball Coach Fred Snowden grumbling.

Milwaukee Bucks shake front office

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Only five NBA coaches have won 400 or more games, said he had considered quitting for several days.

"This was initiated by me because I sincerely feel it is in the best interests of everybody concerned," Costello said. "I want this team and this organization to be winners.

Costello, his credibility with his players shattered by their belief that Fitzgerald wanted him fired, announced his resignation Monday night. Embury, who said he had to do Fitzgerald's resignation last week, effective May 31, made it public at a hastily called news conference.

The whirlwind developments, expected for weeks in wake of the Bucks' 3-15 start in the National Basketball Association this season, saw Costello's assistant coach, Don Nelson, promoted to head coach.

Nelson, 36, who retired as a player after last season following 11 years with the Boston Celtics, will make his head coaching debut tonight at home against the Los Angeles Lakers.
