Carter names choice to coordinate HEW

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) - Presidentelect Carter today completed his Cabinet by naming Washington lawyer Joseph Califano Jr., to head the sprawling Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The Preident-elect also named former defense secretary James R. Schlesinger as his new energy czar. And he appointed Theodore Sorensen, a key White House aide to President John F. Kennedy, to a top intelligence

The appointment completed Carter's 11-member Cabinet, and the President-elect said he may recommend creation of a new Department of Energy, which Schlesinger would head.

Carter said his plans on that point have not yet been drafted. He said while his ideas are still hazy, his inclination would be to put into the new department all energy functions now in the hands of other federal agencies, including the Department of Interior, which would be left with its other in our government.

"I think the noblest work in a civilized society is caring for its people, educating its young, caring for the health of its people, treating the old and poor, with dignity and respect," he said in accepting Carter's nomination.

Carter said Califano should do "an outstanding job of correcting the defects that do exist at HEW." But Califano indicated that correcting defects won't involve wholesale changes in HEW's professional staff. "A lot of people in that department have devoted their lives...there are first-rate professionals there," he

Schlesinger said that in energy conservation "we must as a nation face up to a responsibility which we had hoped would go away." He said there must be recognition of the need to control the growth of energy con-

Church services herald holy event

By ROGER SOUTHALL

Christmas Eve and Christmas Day numerous midiand churches will reiterate the deeper meaning of the holiday for hundreds of city residents. Candlelight ceremonies, the singing of familiar and favorite carols, hymns and anthems and the retelling of the Christmas story will be among highlights of the special services.

MIDLAND LUTHERAN CHURCH,

2705 W. Michigan Ave., will hold its annual candlelight worship and carol service at 7 p.m. Friday.

Old Testament prophecies foretelling the birth of Jesus, together with New Testament fulfillment scripture, will be read and a sermonette will be presented by Midland Lutheran's co-pastor, the Rev.

Grenade

Time-honored carols to be sung by the congregation include "O Come, All Ye Faithful," "O Little Town of Bethlehem." " "The First Noel" and "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," while the choral anthem will be "O Holy Night," with Cynthia Young as soloist. Organist will be Mary Ann

Each worshipper at the service will receive a candle and, prior to the singing of "Silent Night," the candles will be lighted to symbolize the "Light of the World" (Jesus) coming to each Midland Lutheran will hold a Christmas Day service beginning at 10 a.m. The event will feature the singing of carols and Christmas hymns. The sermon will be "This Child, Given To Us!" The public is invited to attend either service.

A Christmas Eve communion service will begin at 6 p.m. Friday at ST. MARK'S UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 1701 N. Main St. The brief service will conclude by 6:30.

The EPISCOPAL CHURCH OF
THE HOLY TRINITY, 1412 W. Illinois

The incident was the first act of violence in Beirut directed against the largely Syrian peacekeeping force which occupied most of Lebanon last month forcing an end to 19 months of civil war. It came as newly appointed premier Salim el-Hoss asked the Lebanese parliament for a vote of confidence and emergency powers to rule by decree for six months to deal with urgent security, defense, economic, information and education problems.

The soldiers were guarding the entrance of the daily "An Nahar" which was closed down with a number of other publications by Syrian TOKYO (AP) - Takeo Fukuda, the wealthy 71-year-old leader of one of the Liberal-Democratic party's big factions, was named president of the ruling conservative party today, making him almost certain to be chosen prime minister at a special session of parliament Friday.

Fukuda, a longtime aspirant to the government's top post, was chosen by acclamation at a meeting of all members of the party in the Diet, Japan's parliament. He was the only candidate to succeed Prime Minister Takeo Miki, 69, who is resigning because of the Liberal-Democrats' setback in the parliamentary elections Dec. 5.

At a news conference following his selection, Fukuda adopted all the major policies of his predecessor. He said his foreign policy would be one of "continuity," he would work to end factionalism within his party and would reform its fundraising system, and he would carry through the investigation into the Lockheed scandal

He was expected to complete his cabinet by the weekend. It was believed that the important post of party secretary-general would go to Finance Minister Masayoshi Ohira, another longtime contender who would then be in line to succeed Fukuda. He is 66, five years younger.

Fukuda, a graduate of the government bureaucracy and a financial and economic expert, entered politics in 1952. He has been elected to the lower house of the Diet nine times

Asked if he might attend an economic summit meeting of leaders of major non-Communist industrialized nations to be held in Japan later next year, he replied, "Possibly."

Mother voices thanks for scholarship aid

Dorothy Warren never put together any fancy vittles for the high-hatted socialites at the old Waldorf-Astoria. For that matter, she never fixed any plain ol' grubbings for the oil patch crews or the cowhands at the old Scharbauer Hotel that once graced downtown Midland.

But she has waited on enough cafe tables and has cooked around and been around long enough to know when to appreciate a good concoction.

Actually, she didn't have to turn an egg, broil a steak or throw together a fruit cobbler to know that.

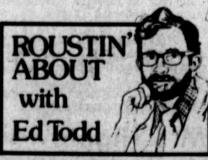

What she is appreciating these days is a concoction pieced together by the Fasken Foundation. It's known as a scholarship program, and Cecil and Dorothy Warren's daughter got a morsel of its fruit.

"It might have been a drop in the bucket to them," Mrs. Warren said,

"but it was a pail full to us."

What was in that pail, she said as she was doing some early-morning cooking chores in the Midland County Jail, was $2,000 spread over four semesters at a nursing school in Fort

School of Nursing at Fort Worth. Miss Warren, who became a licensed vocational nurse by way of Midland College, had been working parttime at a Fort Worth public hospital while working toward the RN status.

"She'd probably have made it (without the scholarship), but she'd have spent another year or two" in school. "I'm sure she would have made it."

"I hope everybody appreciates them (scholarships) as much as we did," Mrs. Warren said. "Kids that work for an education appreciate it; I know that they do."

To show her appreciation for what her daughter accomplished with aid of the scholarship, Mrs. Warren took off from her jailhouse cooking chores (Continued on Page 2A)

Some firms to close on Friday

With Christmas Day falling on Saturday, many Midland businesses are giving their employes Christmas Eve off to complete their Christmas shopping and gift wrapping.

Midland banks will be closed Friday only and will resume regular banking hours Monday.

All county offices except the sheriff's office will close Friday and Monday, Dec. 27. The Department of Public Safety drivers license division also will close Friday and Monday.

The U.S. Postal Service will provide normal mail service on Friday and special delivery send youths instead of to jail. "We hold runaways there until their parents can come after them or send them money to go home. Some wait for their trial to come up and some are sent there to await psychological or physical examinations," she said.

Christmas at Culver Youth Home is alternative for errant youths

After organization and civic leaders began pushing for a home, the Midland County Commissioners

"At the time we did this we were among the smallest county in population to provide such a facility for its young people," the judge said. "It should give the people in this area a good feeling to know that young people who get themselves into a predicament will not be put in jail as they would in many counties."

The home is strictly for juveniles between the ages of 10 and 17, she said. But, the welfare department often places a child there for a few days until a foster parent can be found, and these children sometimes are under the age of 10, according to Lorraine Miles, assistant juvenile probation officer.

Figures kept by Mrs. Miles' office show that 1,023 juveniles have spent some time at the home. When sent there for detention, the maximum stay is 10 days, Mrs. Miles said.

If a child's parents cannot be located at the end of the period or if the parents refuse to take the child back, another hearing is held and the stay can be extended another 10 days' Judge Culver explained.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wooten are the houseparents and have been there about six months. "We're not wardens," they said. "We treat them (the juveniles) like our own children.' The Wootens have decorated the home for Christmas with the help of the children, and Mrs. Wooten has made several Christmas candies for her family and the children. Two children may be staying during Christmas and Mrs. Wooten explained the county buys gifts for these

When she serves her family the traditional Christmas dinner, those children also will be eating it.

The Wootens said they have learned a lot from the children in the short time they have been houseparents. Their daughter, who is 16, gets along with the children and at the same time she has heard a lot of their problems and benefited from the experience, according to the couple.

The older juveniles seem to be "set in their ways," Wooten said and added that it is easier to get through "Kids seem to be learning more at an earlier age. The older kids will pass down what they know to the younger ones," he explained.

Juveniles sent to the home are not ones who have committed serious crimes. "They (the juvenile probation officers) wouldn't expose the other children or us to them," the Wootens said. "You can pretty well trust these here."

Even though the juvenile's stay is short, Mrs. Wooten admitted she gets attached to the children.

"All they need is a little love," she added.

But, the reason these children are in the home often is not the parents' fault. The Wootens said they have had children from all backgrounds and from poor to wealthy. In some cases. the child will do something wrong, no matter how much attention he gets from his parents, they explained.

When a juvenile arrives at the home, he is given a list of rules to follow and warned he will be sent to jail if the rules are broken.

Each person has a separate bedroom which locks from the outside. The children are locked in their rooms at night for their own protection, Wooten said. "Many of them fail to see that it is being done for their protection. For example, it keeps one kid from going and attacking another one at night.

Intercoms are in each room and the houseparents' bedroom in case a child needs help at night.

The children have chores to do during the day, such as cleaning up their room. Games are provided and they also can watch television. Basketball and volleyball can be played in the fenced backyard.

If the Wootens decide to go to a drive-in movie on a weekend and there is only one or two children, they take the juveniles with them.

"They really enjoy going with us," Mrs. Wooten said.

In fact, some children enjoy the home so much they don't want to leave it. "Several have wanted to stay," Mrs. Wooten said, "and several have come back to visit us."

There is no way of knowing in advance how many children will be there for Christmas. But, for someone who may have to spend the holiday there, it may be lonely, but it still is better than being in jail.

CIA knew of falsehood

WASHINGTON (AP) - The CIA knew that an executive of International Telephone & Telegraph Co. would give false testimony about his relationship with the spy agency when he was called before a Senate subcommittee investigating U.S.

actions in Chile. The ITT executive, Harold V. Hendrix, is cooperating with a federal grand jury that is probing a possible conspiracy involving CIA and ITT officials. The jury is investigating allegations of fraud and perjury arising from the officials' testimony about U.S. activities in Chile, it was learned.

Targets of the grand jury investigation are known to be former CIA Director Richard Helms and ITT chairman Harold Geneen.

Hendrix already has pleaded to a misdemeanor charge and received a suspended sentence for withholding information about his covert relationship with the CIA from the Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations.

"The reason I'm opposed to it ("right-to-work") is very simple," he said.

The Taft-Hartley Act outlaws union shops but permits states to either allow or ban dues shops, and a dues shop can exist only if the majority of the workers in a shop elect a union bargaining agent and only if the employer agrees, he said.

"It seems to me that's a good compromise" between a union shop and a completely open market, he said.

'Once a union wins as bargaining agent, that union is required by law to represent all the workers of that unit, whether they belong to the union or not. Now that could be very expensive. Like many things in collective bargaining, the dues shop is a compromise," he said. He qualified his response again: "But it's not a thing I'd like to spend a lot of time with."

Marshall said he still hopes unemployment can be reduced by 11/2 per cent in the first year. "I think we can do 11/2 with no problem, but once we get in there . . . it's looking harder every day," he chuckled.

Asked if universities should put more emphasis on vocational-type training, he said, "If you mean teaching people to do things, yes," he

There is a prejudice at the university level against manual labor, he said. Manual labor is relegated "to second-class status whenever academics get control of it (the university). I think that's oad . . . I can get you a Ph.D faster than you can get an International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers ap-prenticeship," he said.

There is a "false dichotomy' between the words educational and vocational, he said.

"What we do is busily train everybody for the next level of education," he said.

In answer to a question, Marshall said Democratic officeholders in Texas did not know him but that when Jimmy Carter's people asked them about Marshall and they checked up on him, "they recommended me.'

"I'm not a politician," he said.

Study finds innovations in teaching ineffective

ment In fact, the federally sponsored study found that of the 30,000 students examined, those "enrolled in programs with a more moderate emphasis on innovation and individualization showed the greatest improvement" on standardized reading and mathematics texts.

One factor that does make a difference in improving reading scores, the report suggested, was spending more time on reading and language skills in the early grades.

The American Institutes for Research, a Palo Alto, Calif., organization that did the $1.8 million study for the U.S. Office of Education, said the report "should not be viewed novative teaching ideas but "should serve as a reminder to educators — as well as to parents and legislators that educational innovation per se will not necessarily produce dramatic effects on student achievement."

Bell agrees to resign from clubs

By JACK NELSON The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - Griffin B. Bell, President-elect Jimmy Carter's choice for attorney general, agreed under pressure Wednesday to resign from two private clubs that exclude Jews and blacks from membership.

Bell, in a terse statement released by Carter's press office in Plains, Ga.,

"I believe that the attorney general is a symbol of equality before the law and therefore I should and will resign my membership in all private clubs to which I now belong.

At the same time, Bell conceded he had been mistaken Tuesday when he said he had written a letter in 1970 endorsing G. Harrold Carswell for the Supreme Court before learning of a pro-segregation speech Carswell had given during a Georgia political campaign. Bell said the record shows that in fact he wrote the letter after public controversy over the Carswell speech

Bell's decision to resign from the segregated clubs, based on the advice of Carter aides, came in the wake of public criticism from blacks and civil rights groups.

Pressure on him to resign from the clubs had been building since Tuesday morning when The Los Angeles Times, quoting civil rights leaders, had reported that his membership in the segregated clubs could prove troublesome to him at Senate confirmation hearings:

In Wednesday's New York Times, Bell was quoted as saying he did not see how he could gain anything from resigning from the clubs and "I am not inclined to be put in a position of being forced by the press into doing something."

Carter had taken the position that club membership was a matter for the individual member to decide, although he hoped his Cabinet members would resign from any such organizations that discriminated against minorities.

Carter, talking to reporters on a plane Wednesday en route to Albany, Ga., from Chicago where he attended funeral services for Mayor Richard Daley, said he had never discussed the club memberships with Bell.

"As you know, almost every person in the past has belonged to some kind of club that doesn't have both women and blacks or Christians and Catholics or Protestants," he said. 'You know these are private clubs.

"I have taken the position that I won't be a member of any of them, but that doesn't mean I will require Cabinet members to meet the same stiff standards. I will leave it to them individually.

Bell was a member of at least two segregated clubs in Atlanta - the Capital City Club and the Piedmont Driving Club. The American Bar Assn., during its annual convention in Atlanta in August, canceled a scheduled social meeting at the Piedmont Club after learning of its membership policy.

Bell's prepared statement released in Plains also dealt with his statement at a Tuesday news conference on the Carswell nomination to the Supreme Court in 1970.

Bell said he was mistaken in saying he learned of Carswell's prosegregation speech only after writing his letter of endorsement. "It appears that I wrote the letter on Jan. 26, 1970," Bell said. "According to news reports, this was several days after the account of the speech became Bell, however, stopped short of repudiating his endorsement of Carswell, whose nomination was rejected by the Senate after publicity about his pro-segregation speech and his membership in segregated clubs.

In his letter endorsing Carswell, Bell recommended confirmation "without any hesitation or reservation whatsoever," and vouched for Carswell's character, integrity and intellectual honesty.

Black political leaders and civil rights groups continue to question the selection of Bell, meanwhilcontradicted Carter's promise to remove cronyism and politics from the Justice Department. Rep. Charles Rangel (D-N.Y.), a black and a strong Carter supporter, said he felt the choice of Bell was unfortunate and showed an insensitivity on Carter's part. He said the former Georgia governor also failed to keep a promise to consult the Black Congressional Caucus on his choice of an attorney general. Many of Bell's critics cited his moderate to conservative stance on civil rights while serving as a U.S. 5th 1961 until February, 1976. Carter, asked Wednesday if he expected adverse public reaction to the Bell selection, told reporters:

Circuit Court of Appeals judge from

"I knew there would be some reexamination of these 3,000 cases in which he has participated, but I think it will be short-lived. But as people get to know Griffin, they will appreciate him like I do."

Carter and Bell are long-time friends. Bell grew up in Americus, about 12 miles from Plains, and is a long-time friend and law partner of Carter's close adviser Charles Kirbo.

Carter told reporters Bell did not ask for the job and Kirbo did not recommend him. "After my search," Carter said, "I became convinced he was the best person for attorney

Asked if he expects a Senate confirmation fight over the Bell nomination, Carter said Bell "is a very competent person, very eloquent. My prediction is that he will be one of the favorite Cabinet members. He's a good philosopher, a good writer, well spoken, and will do a superb job."

The museum's Turner Memorial Gallery, 1705 W Missouri Ave., will be closed Christmas Day but will be open the following day. Sunday visiting hours will be 2 to 5 p.m. Weekday hours next week will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Admission is free at all times.

The saddlery and horse tack exhibited at the museum comes from the famous Tinker Collection at The University of Texas-Austin.

Also from Austin — from the Texas Memorial Museum — is the collection of 40 Mexican ceremonial masks. Collected for the most part from the Mexican state of Oaxaca, the masks provide an interesting view of the folk life of Mexico and of the influence of the Spanish conquest on native rituals and religious ceremonies.

The third temporary exhibit at the museum presents paintings and drawings by a number of Mexico's foremost 20th Century artists. With the exception of famed muralist and painter Diego Rivera, who is represented in the show with a selfportrait, all the artists are still living. The art works n the exhibit present a varied array of techniques and subject matter.

The art works are from a collection housed in the Humanities Research Center at The University of Seasonal subjects such as a nativity scene and a Christmas tree are depicted in the collection of weavings, along with more traditional Indian subjects such as reservation landscapes.

The 107 examples of weavings included in the Carter Museum display were accomplished with the same techniques used in Navajo rugs and other weavings dating back a century or more. J. F. Skelton, president of TP&L. said the electric company needs the extra money to meet the capital requirements for switching from gasfired generators to those fueled by ignite or nuclear power.

TP&L's service area covers 46,000 square miles, comprising 51 counties in North Central and East Texas and such major cities as Dallas and Fort Worth. It extends from Sherman-Denison in the north to Round Rock in the south and from Lufkin to Brownwood.

The utility commission regulates electric rates only in unincorporated areas. Cities can cede their regulatory power to the commission starting Sept. 1, 1977.

A statement from the company said rate increases received in 1975 were inadequate "to halt the deterioration of the company's financial con-

"The present rate simply will not support the tremendous requirements for capital in changing from the construction of gas generating facilities to lignite and nuclear generating facilities and to meet the future electrical energy requirements of our customers," Skelton said. "Neither will the present rates provide a fair return to holders of the company's common stock. . . . Texas Power & Light is making every effort to keep the cost to our customers as low as possible, and these efforts will continue. But unfortunately, the pressure of rapidly rising costs has brought us to the point where we must have this increase to meet our customers' energy needs," he said.

prints obtained at the mansion of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis after two persons were slain there Aug. 3 do not match his actual prints, defense attorney Richard Haynes has testified at a pretrial hearing for the case. Haynes, who claims he is one of the state's foremost experts on finger-prints, viewed prints obtained by prosecution investigators for nearly 30 minutes Wednesday during the hearing in Fort Worth district court.

Then he compared them to fingerprints and palm prints taken from Davis when he was arrested for the shootings.

"I'm more convinced than ever that they (prosecutors) don't have any fingerprints of Cullen Davis from the crime scene." Haynes said during a recess after his examination at the hearing.

"I'd bet a month's salary on it."
Davis' five-man defense team contends the multi-millionaire was not at the mansion the night his step-daughter. Andrea Wilborn, and ex-Texas Christian University basket-ball player Stan Farr were killed.

Haynes produced his own magnifying glass, a hand-held device with its own electric light bulb, to illuminate the view of prints brought to court by a police identification technician.

Prosecutors protested against Haynes' being allowed to examine the prints in court, but Judge Tom Cave overruled the objection, saying he would limit the inspection to 10

Some 27 minutes later, Haynes finished with the prints and returned them to the technician.

Earlier, lawyers for Davis said there is no precedent for the filing of burglary charges when the com-plainant is related to the defendant.

The attorneys said Wdnesday the Tarrant County district attorney's office used "selective prosecution" in order to charge Davis with capital murder.

The prosecution says capital murder charges were filed because the slaying Davis' 12-year-old stepdaughter was committed while a felony was being committed — in this case the alleged burglary of the

Belfast's Yuletide not merry

This is Northern Ireland's capital at Christmastime.

A ring of steel, like the pound, encompasses more than a square mile of Belfast's main shopping district, restricting automobiles. Shoppers carry their parcels in their arms. Should they set them down, they might be confiscated as suspected bombs. Lined up by the hundreds at each of several steel gates, grim-faced last-minute shoppers wait to be searched by Irish police and British soldiers before entering the business area.

"Today I've been stopped and searched at least six times," says an old woman accompanied by her grand-daughter.

Once inside the steel cordon, shoppers walk through electronic devices before they gain entrance to most of the department stores, novelty and clothing shops, and restaurants.

Attack dogs, restrained by soldiers, patrol the streets as Santa Claus comes by in his horse-drawn sleigh, shouting "Happy Christmas." Trailing close behind is an army jeep with four rifles pointing in all directions.

The steel barricade that surrounds the shopping area was completed last June to discourage bombing and shooting where crowds gather. Nearly 300 deaths have been reported this year in the Catholic-Protestant struggle, bringing the toll for more than seven years of civil war close to 1,700.

"About the only Christmas present you can expect around here is a bullet or a bomb. After all, this is Belfast, you know," says a boyish-faced, gun-toting soldier.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — After nearly 3,800 shows, $35 million in prizes and 20,000 onstage kisses from female contestants, television's Monty Hall has tired of the grind and taped his last "Let's Make a Deal."

The final syndicated program starring the Canadian-born emcee and actor was videotaped at the Hilton Hotel here Wednesday night. Connie Busse of Las Vegas won two cars worth $12,000 in the "Big Deal," and there were no "zonks" — the booby prizes like live pigs or old socks for which the 14-year-old show is famous.

"And underneath those crazy costumes, there is a real slice of America," he said. "They've been very decent with me, and have shown me an awful lot of love.

"In 3,800 shows, never once have we had to edit a show because of a reaction from a contestant — physically or orally. The person has never hurled an expletive when they've lost a car, and got a pig, or anything like that."

When viewers nationwide see the show, they will not be able to tell it was the last one because no farewells were said while the tape was rolling.

At a quiet backstage party for cast and crew afterwards, Hall said he never got a hostile reaction from his contestants, who had to dress in outlandish outfits to be picked for the Hall said he was aware the show had been "the whipping boy for all the critics" who complained it glorified greed and commercialism. He said he had "never minded" people who made fun of the show. "It was the real harsh criticism that did get to me."

GENERAL NEWS/EDITORAL

France, Turkey keep religious theme in holiday

The Midland Reporter-Telegram

EDITOR'S NOTE: Christmas is celebrated in many different ways throughout the world. The following is the final story in a four-part series on customs of Midlanders born in a foreign country.

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

SECTION

Christmas began as a religious holiday centuries ago to celebrate the birth of the Christ child.

Although people in the United States note the religious significance of the holiday, it is the Europeans who have kept the true meaning of the holiday in their celebrations.

For Jacqueline Chras growing up in Lyon, France and Leila Sigmon growing up in Istanbul, Turkey, Christmas was a religious holiday and only part of the celebration taking place through Jan. 6 with Epiphany being the major holiday.

Although Turkey is a Moslem country, the Greeks belong to the Eastern Orthodox Church, according to Mrs. Sigmon.

The holiday season starts Dec. 5 with the coming of St. Nicholas in Turkey. Mrs. Sigmon remembers St. Nicholas being depicted as a tall, thin man who carried a Christmas tree. Stockings were put up for the Feast of St. Nicholas and if sticks were found in that child's stocking, it was a signal he was to be spanked, she said. The coming of St. Nicholas also signifies the beginning of the Christmas season, she said. The four Sundays leading up to Christmas are known as Advent and is a solemn time, "much like Lent is. It is a time we give up things, such as desserts, for Christmas," she explained. On Christmas Eve the family ate "a frugal meal. We had unleavened bread, something green such as spinach, and no desserts. It was a day of abstinence.'

Each family had an Advent wreath which has four purple candles in it and was hung over the table from the

One candle was lighted each Sunday so that by the time Christmas Day came, all four purple candles were burning, she explained.

Supper on Christmas Eve would not be eaten until after the first stars appeared. Hay was scattered on the table "to signify that Jesus was born

Mrs. Jacqueline Chras places a camel figurine under the Christmas tree which she decorated with cotton balls for snow. She is a native of Lyon, France.

Christmas cards were not sent as they are in the United States, but New Year's cards are sent, both women said of their native country.

"Christmas cards in Turkey were handmade and sent to only a few selected persons," Mrs. Sigmon said.

If gifts were given at this time, they, too, were given to only a few friends in Turkey and were handmade.

"Christmas in France is strictly for children," Mrs. Chras said. "It is a religious and family holiday. Everything happens at church."

When she was a child, Mrs. Chras said children did not have stockings to hang by the fireplace but they did put out wooden shoes, or sabots, in front of the fireplace. This was done in the belief that petit Jesus, or little Christ, came down the chimney and filled the shoes with fruits and candies.

But, she emphasized there were no big gifts given like here in the United States.

Children also would write to Papa Noel that they had been good, she added.

Both countries decorated with Christmas trees.

"Peddlers would go through the streets and sell them," Mrs. Sigmon said. If the family did not want to buy a live tree, they could purchase an artificial one made of paper and wire. she added. Trees were not up until Christmas Eve and were taken down after Epiphany.

Trees were not as important in France, according to Mrs. Chras, and the ones they had were much fuller than "the ones you can get here." She would decorate her trees with cotton balls to resemble snow, and she still does. The tree was decorated a few days before Christmas and taken down after Epiphany.

France, being rich in mistletoe, decorated extensively with it. "We would buy it from a street vender and hang it on the porch to bring good luck to the house," Mrs. Chras explained. Other than the tree, the main

Christmas decoration in both countries is the creche and nativity scene. Life centered around these prior to Christmas Day and up until

In Turkey, the three wise men and other figures, including Mary and Joseph, were placed away from the nativity scene and were moved a little closer each day. Mary and Joseph and the infant Jesus were in the stable on Christmas Day. The three wise men did not arrive until Epiphany, 12 days

While Christmas Eve is a solemn time in Turkey, it is a time for celebration in France.

"All adults go to midnight Mass and it is one of the best services," Mrs. Chras said excitedly. "It is so beautiful you could cry.

A lifesize nativity scene is set up with the figures who are stationed around the creche. "After the service. everyone worships at the creche," she added. Then comes the reveillon, or midnight supper and dancing, for which there is no English translation.

"The cafes and restaurants advertise their reveillon," she said. The supper includes goose, pate de foie gras, or goose liver, live oysters, white wine, buche de Noel or yule log and champagne.

Food and drink are two important items during the holidays in France. she explained. "During the holidays you offer a drink to all your guests who come to visit you.

After Christmas Day in Turkey. everyone prepares for Epiphany, which Mrs. Sigmon said is definitely a friendlier type of holiday than Christmas.

Epiphany symbolizes when the three kings arrived at the manger to signify that Christ was King, she said.

Mrs. Leila Sigmon, who grew up in Istanbul, Turkey, arranges nativity scene figurines as she would have done in Turkey for Christmas.

In Turkey it is known as the Feast of Lights while in France it is called Fete des Rois, or Feast of Kings.

In both countries a cake is baked to find out who will reign over the festivities. In Turkey, three nuts or beans were placed in the cake and whoever found one in his piece, reigned as king, with there being three kings to represent Gaspar, Melchior and Baltasar.

But, in France only one china bead was placed in the cake and whoever found it was the king, Mrs. Chras

It is during Epiphany that gifts are exchanged in both countries.

In Turkey a piece of chalk would be blessed during the day by a priest. That night at the festivities, the person in charge would take the chalk and write above the door: 19*c*m*b* and that year, Mrs. Sigmon said. This is known as the blessing of the home. The cmb represents the three wise

In France on New Year's Day the children would go to each neighbor's door and wish them a happy new year by shouting, "Bonne annee," Mrs. Chras said. The neighbors usually gave each child a bit of money or a piece of fruit, she added.

It is at New Year's that cards are exchanged in France.

One popular sweet candy made for the holidays in France is papillutte, a chocolate with a soft inside. In Turkey one delicacy is baklava, which Mrs. Sigmon described as a pastry with pistachio nuts and honey in it.

In looking back over the celebrations, both women sadly remarked they wish Epiphany was celebrated in the United States as it is in their native country.

Mrs. Chras, in noting how commercialized Christmas has become in the United States, added, "The nativity scene is so important and reminds you of what Christmas is all

Why don't I hear chimes? Remember the small boy who made the chimes ring in a fictional story years ago? As the legend went, the chimes would not ring unless a gift of love was placed on the altar. Kings and men of great wealth placed untold jewels on the altar, but year after year the church remained silent.

Then one Christmas eve, a small child in a tattered coat made his way down the aisle and without anyone noticing he took off his coat and placed it on the altar. The chimes rang out joyously throughout the land to mark the unselfish giving of a small boy.

I used to hear chimes. I heard them the year one of my sons gave me a tattered piece of construction paper on which he had crayoned two hands folded in prayer and a moving message, "OH COME HOLY SPIT!"

I heard them the year I got a shoebox that contained two baseball cards and the gum was still with

I heard them the Christmas they all got together First woman heads foundation and cleaned the garage.

They're gone, aren't they? The years of the lace doilies fashioned into snowflakes . . . the hands traced in plaster of Paris . . . the Christmas trees of pipe cleaners . . . the thread spools that held small candles. They're gone.

The chubby hands that clumsily used up $2 worth of paper to wrap a cork coaster are sophisticated enough to take a number and have the gift wrapped professionally.

The childish decision of when to break the ceramic piggy bank with a hammer to spring the 59 cents is now resolved by a credit card. The muted thump of pajama-covered feet paddling down the stairs to tuck her homemade crumb scrapers beneath the tree has given way to pan-

CHRISTMAS EVE

MIDKIFF & CUTHBERT

WASHINGTON - Inflation in the health care field is "serious and getting worse," the White House's inflation monitor said Wednesday. and warned that if solving the problem is left to the medical profession, inflation "will continue to get worse.

But William Lilley III, acting director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said at a news conference that while the discipline on medical care costs must come "from outside," a federal takeover of health care through a national health insurance system is a "recipe for disaster.'

Lilley said the solution lies in the private sector - with the consumers of health care such as the companies and unions that pay insurance premiums - and said it is time for the private sector to take off its gloves and start mixing it up with the medical profession

Lilley cited a number of recent costcutting practices, including requiring second opinions on elective surgery, setting up health maintenance organizations and reviewing courses of treatment before they are undertaken by a doctor of dentist.

Labor unions have taken the lead in combatting rising health costs, he said, although he admitted that most unions prefer a national health insurance approach. But only the

Botswana protesting abuses

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Botswana, a country without an army, is being drawn into the expanding civil war between Rhodesia's ruling white minority and black nationalist guerrillas.

Rhodesian forces launched a campaign last month against guerrillas operating in southwest Rhodesia along the Botswana border.

Botswana, which has a police force of 500 men for a desert country the size of France, has protested that Rhodesian security forces repeatedly cross the border.

The Rhodesian government denied this on Wednesday and offered to discuss the situation with the Botswana government. The Rhodesians said their forces "have made every effort to avoid infringing the territorial sovereignty of Botswana."

Last month, raiders alleged to have come from Rhodesia blew up the Francistown office of supporters of Rhodesian nationalist Joshua Nkomo. A 20-minute clash between Botswana police and Rhodesian forces was reported in the same area this week. Reports from Gaborone, the capital, say the government is planning to add 200 men to the police force and to station mobile patrols along the border. It is also reported considering asking the Soviet Union for arms. The people on both sides of the border are members of the Kalanga tribe. Those on the Botswana side used to shop, visit relatives and send their children to school in Bulawayo, the largest town in southwest Rhodesia.

private sector has the dual incentive of keeping medical care quality up and costs down, he contended.

Lilley warned that many segments of the medical profession do not think there is a problem and that they can be expected to resist many efforts. A council study cited an attempt by Philadelphia retail clerks to set up a prepaid dental plan which was fought by organized dentistry. A similar vision care program in New Jersey was permitted by optometrists only after the clerks upped the planned fees by 70 per cent.

The wage and price council has spent a year preparing this study of health care inflation and has held several sets of hearings across the country.

In recent years, health care costs have been rising much faster than overall prices. This has put the squeeze both on unions — who often must reduce benefit packages or sharply increase the percentage of a total settlement which goes to health insurance - and on companies - who find rising health costs squeezing

Only in the last three or four years has the incentive to hold down health care costs been clear to labor unions and companies, Lilley said. As a result, the efforts of the private sector still are "fledgling."

But the "lines of force" are such that bill payers are on the hook and must find ways to institute reforms in the way services are provided, the council director said. "As long as the federal government doesn't take them off the hook (through a national health insurance system)," each year will see more innovative cost-cutting programs introduced, he predicted.

Nevertheless, because the health care system is unique in many ways - especially in that third-party insurance companies pay for much of the cost — it will be a "long and difficult fight" to make medical fees subject to the same cost benefit checks and balances as most other prices and wages in the economy, he

Under questioning, Lilley acknowledged that it is not surprising that the Republican adminstration would take a position against further federal involvement in health care.

However, he said, traditional Republican opposition has been in terms of cost, of the amount of federal a system v "While that is a concern," the council is much more concerned that federalization of the health care system would "reduce the quality of care and change important forces" in society which are working toward

WASHINGTON - A federal advisory committee urged Wednesday that each state allow law enforcement officials to use wiretaps and other forms of electronic surveillance in invsetigating organized crime.

The recommendation was made by the organized crime task force of the ministration. The task force, in a 288-page report

National Advisory Committee on Criminal Justice, which is funded by the Law Enforcement Assistance Adon the growth and causes of organized crime in the United States, said that electronic surveillance is needed "because organized crime activities require a sophisticated means of evidence gathering.'

"Often witnesses will not come forward; and members of some criminal organizations are bound by either an oath of silence or threats of violence ... One way to break through these conspiratorial safeguards is to enact a state statute permitting nonconsentual wiretap and microphonic surveillance," the report said. The report said state laws authorizing electronic spying should contain strict provisions for protecting individual rights. Twenty-three states and the District of Columbia, have such laws, the report said. One member of the 13-member task force, Washington lawyer Benjamin Louis Zelenko, dissented from the call for stateapproved wiretapping.

"I would prefer to allow each state to decide how the conflicting demands of individual privacy and law enforcement should be balanced," Zelenko said. He also said that a recent report of the National Commission on Wiretapping "reveals that wiretapping has been effective exclusively in gambling and narcotics investiga-too limited to show its (wiretapping) effectiveness as to other criminal investigations. Moreover, the ... report shows that once wiretapping is legalized, policing its limitations and protecting individual privacy is increasingly difficult to guarantee." The task force also said that legalizing "victimless crimes" — gambling, prostitution and the use of drugs like marijuana - would open those areas to organized criminal activity. The report said that state legislatures should view decriminalization proposals "with considerable caution" because "major sources of revenue for organized crime are provided by offenses in-volving prohibited activities such as gambling, drugs and prostitution. "These crimes of vice show a number of characteristics," the report said. "They all play on human weakness and desire. They provide scarce good or service at high cost to members of the public. They can generate, or are often accompanied by, the commission of other incidental crimes."

The report noted that when New York legalized off-track betting on horses races in 1970, organized crime did not lose any business. Instead, illegal gambling appeared to increase, the report said.

Zelenko disagreed, saying the panel's conclusion was not supported by documented evidence.

A more appropriate recommendation would seem to be that the subject of victimless crimes deserves careful reappriasal by each state," he said.

The report also said that organized crime has grown in the southeast in the last 10 years, and that "one southern city seems to be the center for financial fraud for the entire na-

The report said that organized crime figures in the unnamed city are believed to have influence over the city's banking industry and grand juries, as well as some members of the city's legal profession.

New Jersey Gov. Brendan T. Byrne, chairman of the advisory panel, refused to name the city because he said it is only one of many cities that have problems with organized crime.

The LEAA, which channeled nearly $110 million into state and local governments last year for criminal justice research, said the recommendations and judgements expressed in the report do not necessarily reflect those of LEAA.

Thirty-four Midland Junior Achievement delegates will leave by bus Monday for Baton Rouge, La., where they will attend the annual Junior Achievement Management Conference for the Southern Region. The youths and their sponsors will return Dec.

Announcements concerning the trip were made by Jerry Caddell, executive director, at the December meeting of the A board of directors held this morning in the J A Center.

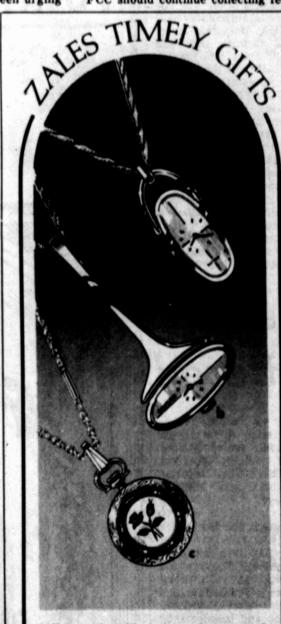

WESCO, the miniature company counseled by The Western Co., was announced as the 'Company of the Month' for November.

Caddell reported that all of the miniature firms are in "definite learning situations," competition among companies is keen, and attendance at work sessions is running ahead of last year.

The financial statement was submitted by Thomas Bruner, and Gene Abbott reported as to the progress of the fund campaign, which will be continued into January.

Announcement was made concerning the annual J A National Business Leadership Conference to be held at Washington, D.C., in February. President W.F. Ortloff announced committee assignments for the year. Flynt, owner of the Square Top 3 Ranch and a lifelong cutting horse en-thusiast, carried away almost every major award given at the con-test which had 372 entries and a record purse of $215,035. It was the richest nonracing single horse event in the world.

Two of Flynt's horses-Doc's Becky, ridden by Bill Freeman of Pineville, Mo., and Freckles Playboy, ridden by Terry Riddle of Gardendale—were judged co-reserve champions of the futurity. They each earned more than $24,000.

And Kay Floyd, who works on the Flynt ranch, was judged co-champion non-professional rider in the futurity on a mare named Mia Freckles, which Flynt bred and raised.

Although Flynt didn't own the winning horse, he was listed as the breeder, the nominator of the horse into the futurity, and owner of the cham-pion's sire. The champion was a stallion named Colonel Freckles, bought from Flynt early this year by Bob McLeod of Brenham

WTCC adopts papers

ABILENE — Directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. at their recent Brown-wood meeting, adopted eight position papers in regard to needed legislation that should be considered by the 65th Texas Legislature.

The position papers are in regard to: (1) Requirement for successful completion of a mandatory course on benefits and fundamentals of American Free Enterprise System for graduation from Texas high schools; (2) requirement for economic impact statement on all proposed rules of Texas agencies; (3) the need for including all persons, engaged in activities to influence legislation, under the Texas lobby laws; (4) the need for stringent requirements for zerobased budgeting for all state agencies; (5) urgent need for state legislation that requires all rules and regulations issued by state agencies be forwarded to appropriate house and senate committees for concurrence before they can go into effect; (6) need for "sunset" law concept for most Texas agencies and advisory committees; (7) need for state legislation to eliminate unnecessary state agency ex-penditures for self-serving public relations activities; and (8) oppose Senate ratification of appointment of State of Texas employes to any State Board or State Advisory Committee that sets or recommends policies that employe would work under.

W. H. Collyns of Midland, WTCC president, commenting on needed Texas legislation, said that "requirements for the successful completion of a mandatory course on the benefits and fundamentals of American Free Enterprise System for graduation from Texas high schools is needed to protect the future of America; there is a need for a requirement for an economic impact statement on all proposed statement on all proposed rules of Texas agencies to protect jobs both present and future; and that a need for a "sunset" law for most state agencies has been clearly demonstrated.

"There should be zero-based budgeting for all state agencies to reduce the cost of state government on the taxpayer," he said. "WTCC opposes Senate ratification of

Christmas story

News of people helping people, particularly those in distress. always is received favorably by the public.

But news of this nature at this particular season of the year is doubly appreciated by most everyone. This is what Christmas is all about.

Just such a heart warming happening occurred right here in Midland County a few days ago, when thoughtful, compassionate friends and neighbors converged on a cotton field of a farmer who was ill, harvesting 160 bales of cotton from 180 acres within a matter of hours.

This is what we mean by people helping people. It proves beyond a doubt that there yet are people who care about other people and their welfare. This is a fairly common procedure in West Texas, and we hope it yet is practiced in other states and regions. It is one of the things which makes West Texas great.

This particular story had its beginning on Oct. 29 when Jeff T. Flowers, a farmer in the Valley View community, suffered a heart seizure just when the harvest season was beginning to get underway.

Mr. Flowers was in the hospital at Big Spring for two weeks or so. and later he was confined to a clinic at Lubbock. In the meantime, his cotton crop was maturing, coming closer and closer to the tine for picking.

But Jeff Flowers wasn't in a position to do anything about it, laid up as he was with a heart condition. The doctor had said, "Don't worry about it," but that is right difficult for a man who has been in the field most of his life and who has 180-acres in cultivation.

Besides that, the price for cotton has been more-or-less right this year and Jeff was anxious about his crop. Who could blame

Jeff perhaps was unaware that his neighbors also were thinking about his cotton crop ... and about his physical condition.

And so it was that Jeff Flowers looked out the window of his farm home one morning early in December to see a number of persons and their harvesting equipment assemblying at the hang low and the snow blows in the bone-numbing cold as it did 32 years ago during the "Battle of the Bulge" fought here. If the imagination runs, one visualizes the fierce fighting on Christmas Day a short distance to the west (at Bastogne) and to the north (near the Ouvre River).

The "Battle of the Bulge," which Germans called "The Von Rundstedt Offensive," was Hitler's last desperate gamble to slow or stop the war in hopes of getting a negotiated peace and perhaps preserving a semblance of the Nazi regime.

One military analyst called this fight "the greatest pitched battle ever fought by American arms." Initially, a huge force of Germans, out-numbering surprised American troops three-to-one, broke through the snow-covered mountain forests in a bold attempt to cross the Meuse River and capture the Belgian seaport of Antwerp, thus splitting the allies.

The intense six-week spasm of fighting took 19,000 American lives and those of 100,000 Germans. Before it was over, some 600,000 American troops, including cooks and supply sergeants, were rushed into battle. Many thousands of American soldiers were captured and sent to doomed prisoner-of-war camps; we have Kurt Vonnegut's "Slaughterhouse Five" to give us a vivid picture of what that

Today, with a long generation of peace separating the "Battle of the Bulge" from prosperity in Europe and America, the remembrances of the furious lethal storm before the drive across the Rhine, and Nazi

Germany's capitulation, become dim. After all, even NATO has become old gateway to his farm. He soon realized what they were about, and he probably stopped right there to thank God that there yet are people who care.

The day was cold and blustry, but the overall feeling of all the persons in this people helping people project was warm and cordial.

Mr. and Mrs. Flowers were told by Gene Jones, Charlie Welch, Fred Hall and other leaders in the harvest project to just sit back and take it easy ... everything is being handled just as Jeff himself would have done it.

And when noontime rolled around, the women folk of the community and beyond assembled at the Valley View community center to spread a lunch which was described as being "out of this world."

More than 100 adults and a lot of youngsters participated in this heart warming experience in one way or another.

And when it was completed, Jeff Flowers' concern about the harvesting of his cotton crop was over.

Jeff Flowers himself had participated in projects of this sort for other persons, but he had no idea as to just what it really meant to the person being helped until that very minute, when it dawned on him that his harvest worries were over.

He acknowledged his sincere appreciation, of course, but he knew that he never could put into words his true thankfulness and appreciation for what his friends and neighbors had done for him. "They came from all over the county to help me, and I am so grateful," Flowers said. "What would we have done without them?"

And that is a good question, "What would we have done without them?" It is a question which many of us perhaps have asked at one time or another.

People have been helping other people in many ways right here in the Tall City and vicinity during this Christmas season ... and make no mistake about it, those doing the giving have a warm feeling down deep for proving once again that there are those who really care.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Kuwait may control gas prices

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - While the oil potentates debated last week how much to charge the world for a barrel of crude, the sheiks from Kuwait pressured their OPEC partners behind the scenes to control natural gas prices in the same way they fix oil

This is a disturbing development that could lead to another international economic crisis. For the shelks, if they also wind up controlling natural gas, could suddenly jack up prices.

This could cause a repeat of the oil crisis that rocked the world in the early 1970s. It would have the effect of tying another rocket to the world price structure, which already has been boosted into orbit by the oil increases.

In urgent, classified cables, the U.S. embassy in Kuwait has alerted the State Department that the oil minister, Abdul Muttaleb al-Kazemi, wants OPEC to control natural gas prices on two levels. The chemical definitions are complicated, but gases are categorized as liquid petroleum gas (LPG) and liquid natural gas (LNG). Kuwait wants OPEC to fix prices for both types.

Since the United States imports only an insignificant amount of natural gas, there is no immediate danger to this country. Most of the natural gas consumed in the United States comes from domestic reserves.

experiences.

But high world price increases, inevitably, would have the effect of pushing up domestic prices.

Ironically, the Kuwaitis fear there will be a world surplus, not a shortage, of natural gas. Prices, therefore, should go down, not up. Indeed, this is the reason they want OPEC to control the natural gas market and to rig prices.

Kuwait expects to increase its own LPG capacity from 8.5 million tons to more than 40 million tons by 1985. The sheikdom's energy experts fear that leaving the LPG storage tanks overflowing in the 1980s.

It will take a rigged market, therefore, to keep prices high. Otherwise, prices will tumble as the natural gas surpluses grow. This will hurt Kuwait, which has invested billions in natural gas projects on the Persian Gulf.

At least two OPEC partners, Iran and Algeria, also have huge natural gas investments to protect. Both countries, therefore, support Kuwait's efforts to control natural gas

But the cagey OPEC potentates. according to our sources, aren't likely to overplay their hands. They can be expected to keep natural gas prices at low levels at least until more international customers can be persuaded to purchase this comparatively cheap energy. Once they become hooked on it, OPEC may start pushing up prices.

WAR OF WORDS: Washington bureaucrats, those anonymous soldiers of the swivel chair, wage their wars on paper. When normal relations break down, they bombard one another with blistering memos.

Such a war of words has been raging between the two top officials of the Consumer Product Safety Com-

R. David Pittle, the vice chairman, pet project of Chairman S. John Byington. Pittle blasted the project in an interoffice memo; the indignant Byington returned the fire in kind.

Soon the hot words were flying back and forth. There were accusations of 'government by ambush' and countercharges of releasing "confidential" information.

The battle escalated until Byington. as commander-in-chief of the agency. delivered a biting., 10-page scolding to Pittle. The chairman accused his vice chairman of slowing down agency decisions, needlessly editing reports, promoting secretive meetings and opposing consumer research projects.

Byington thought this should settle the matter. But Pittle fired back another 12-page response, defending his own devotion to the consumers and attacking Byington's background. Byington told us he hasn't read

Pittle's last memo but assured us the feud is over. Pittle agreed; enough government time, he said, had been wasted on the war. PENTAGON POLITICS: The Army is determined to phase down Kentucky's Lexington-Bluegrass military depot, with a loss of almost 1,300 jobs, as an economy move.

One the eve of the Republican presidential primary in Kentucky, President Ford had promised to review the Army's decision. But he settled for a routine White House briefing from the Pentagon brass.

They contended that the Kentucky cutbacks eventually would save $18 million a year. The lame ducks in the White House didn't argue. So on the night before Thanksgiving, the Army notified the Lexington employes that they would be fired.

This has outraged Kentucky's con-ressmen, with the loudest protests coming from John Breckenridge, D-Ky., and Carl Perkins, D-Ky. They have told us that the job cuts are strictly political, that more jobs are being awarded to politically favored depots in California and Pennsylvania.

It is feared that a picture of an elephant wearing a tutu "would impair development of the proper self-image among female pupils." I wouldn't dare ask them what they thought of Minnie Mouse.

Maybe the women are right. But let's not forget the traumatic consequences that Donald Duck can bring to little boys in sailor suits.

Immaculate Reception gave birth to bitter rivalry a rivalry to be renewed Sunday when the Raiders and Steelers meet for the AFC title at Oakland Greased jerseys, obscene footballs. a spying priest, and a purposely frozen field have been just some of the strange elements that have fed the rivalry in recent years.

The tone got more serious this season when the Steelers accused some Raiders of cheap shots with intent to maim, and one Raiders player followed with a slander suit against Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll.

Differences between the two teams go back to that day in 1972 when Tatum insisted he never touched the ball, that it bounced off Fuqua and therefore was not legally catchable by

In 1973, the Steelers went to Oakland and returned with a 17-9 regular-season victory and complaints of "dirty tricks."

Center Ray Mansfield insisted some of the footballs he was given from the sidelines were short of air. He said others had obscenities printed in ink on the laces.

IN ADDITION, the Steelers accused Raiders offensive linemen of greasing their jerseys. Later that season, it was Oakland pointing the finger. It seems that during the Raiders' last regular-season contest, some Steelers assistant coaches used press passes to attend the game.

When Raiders officials found out, they summoned police to bar the Steelers' coaches from the press box. A week later, the Raiders barred the Steelers from the AFC title game. beating them 33-14.

When the Steelers returned to Oakland for the 1974 AFC title game. it was Noll who was wary of spying. He purposely had the Steelers run some plays from an unbalanced line in practice, even though no such strategy was planned for the game, which they won 32-14. LAST SEASON, the Steelers beat the Raiders 16-10 in Pittsburgh for the AFC title, and that game spawned more accusations. While practicing here, Raiders officials saw a priest on the field. The priest, a friend of Rooney's, was asked to leave, and he obliged

After the game, the Raiders suggested that Pittsburgh might have purposely allowed the field to freeze to thwart Oakland's passing game.

Prior to the game, the field was covered by a tarp inflated by hot air blowers. Yet when the Raiders took blowers. Yet when the Raiders took the field for the game, they found it frozen slick near the sidelines.

Steelers officials said the freeze was inevitable because there had been condensation under the tent. It also was said that high winds had whipped under the tarp.

"How the heck that ice got there is tough to comprehend," Raiders Coach John Madden said this week in a telephone interview.

"I WAS in under the tent the day before, and it was pretty nice ... the next day that son of a gun must have fallen down.'

Though they won that game, the Steelers were upset. Wide receiver Lynn Swann had sustained a concus-sion when belted by Raiders safety

George Atkinson. In the first game of this season in Oakland, Swann was sidelined in the first half with another concussion, inflicted by Atkinson with a forearm from behind.

That play prompted Noll's assessment that there may be a "criminal element" in pro football. Atkinson followed with his lawsuit.

That game was marked by a 17-point Raiders spree in the final five minutes and Pittsburgh lost 31-28.

After the game, Madden was asked if he had found the finish surprising.
"Well," he said, "I remember the end of a game when they threw the ball, it hit a couple of guys and Franco came out of nowhere to beat us. You can expect funny things to happen when we play Pittsburgh.

BATTLE SCENE

Get serious, Rutgers a national power?

BY TED BATTLES

The first inclination is to snicker at Rutgers' dreams of football grandeur and an exotic holiday in some warm weather climate after the season.

So, they went undefeated and have the longest winning streak in college football, but what's so tough about that on a schedule that until recent years has been made up of Lehighs, Lafayettes, Connecticuts, Columbias and Hofstras.

It's true, the Scarlet Knights did upgrade their schedule this year, adding Louisville and Tulane, and their feat of going unbeaten may have been deserving of the coveted niche in the top 20, and, grudgingly, maybe even more serious bowl consideration than they received.

HOWEVER, EVEN Rutgers considers this as just a beginning. The school on the banks of the Raritan plans to improve its schedule in the future with the objective of attaining status as a genuine football major.

But Rutgers competing on a major level? Excuse me while I roll in the aisle and hold my tummy...that's the first reaction.

But if you think about it a while, if Rutgers really wanted to, it probably could become the USC of the East coast by simply keeping its players home. Like Texas, although not nearly in the same quantity, and a few others, Rutgers probably could thrive on in-state talent.

PROBABLY, A large segment of the U.S. doesn't even know what state Rutgers is located in. In fact, chances are that some people right at home aren't aware that it is the state University of New Jersey.

Apparently, Rutgers did make a successful attempt to keep some of its basketball players in the Garden State last year and the Knights went undefeated in regular season play.

This fall, Rutgers went undefeated with players some suspect no one else

IN THE past, Rutgers has been content to compete in a low-pressure atmosphere. As a result, the state's top players can be found sprinkled liberally on Notre Dame, Ohio State, Michigan, Penn State, Pittsburgh rosters and it has proved a happy hunting ground for other Big 10, Big Eight, WAC, Pac-8, and Atlantic Coast Conference recruiters.

Still not convinced that Rutgers could be as good as it wanted to be. Consider then, that a few years ago its starting backfield, if the strays had stayed, could have been Lydell Mitchell, Franco Harris, Ed Marinaro and Joe Theismann.

But that's the rub, keeping New Jersey kids at home.

Think about it, we're willing to bet you never met anyone from New Jersey that wasn't wise. As the old saying goes, that's when they got wise, when they left New Jersey.

Gate-crashing lark produces Vike mascot

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) -What began as a gate-crashing lark has built a nationwide reputation for a White Bear Lake, Minn., truck driver as a symbol of the Minnesota Vikings. "I guess I kind of fell into this," said

43-year-old Hub Meeds of his role patroling the sidelines in a Viking "My brother and I went to the first Super Bowl the Vikings played in," explained Meeds. "When we got there, we rented costumes at the last minute and they let us out on the field,

Meeds asked the Vikings if he could be their permanent mascot. They gave me a sideline pass, even though I really don't even need it," said Meeds. "Even for road games. They take care of everything and my wife even gets two tickets."

The 5-foot-11, 185-pound Meeds said he enjoys his role. Primarily, it's a cheerleading function. The Minnesota crowd responds with a roar when Meeds brandishes his sword.

"I do it for joy," he says. "This is my seventh year and it's as much fun urging the Vikings to victory.

Meeds doesn't have as much fun during road games, but he takes things in stride.

"I get a lot of stuff thrown at me out of town, but I've never been hit with anything serious," he says. "I guess I've kind of asked for it when I get it."

THE COSTUME keeps him warm, even late in the season when the temperature sometimes has hovered near zero.

"It's all fur," he said about the Vik-ing uniform. "Fake furs, really, but they're warm.'

He is responsible for maintaining the costume, his hat and horn, which he estimates cost about $150.

Meeds, who was a high school fullback 25 years ago, thinks the Vikings are playing their best football in several years.

"This last one (35-20 victory over Washington) was one of their better ones," Meeds said. "I think they look better than they ever have, but I'd like to try someone different in the Super Bowl—like Oakland."

But before that can happen, the Vikings must survive Sunday's National Football Conference title game with Los Angeles. Hub Meeds will be there, plans have three simple parts:

On the last dramatic play of the NFL's long football weekend, the Ram punter, Rusty Jackson, was seen

The Los Angeles Times

MEMPHIS - A man who saw pro football's four playoff games over the weekend said here Monday: "Three teams that can't win the big one are still alive, and two were saved by officials. The officials made the big

The teams referred to were Oakland and Minnesota - which have yet to win a National Football League title - and the Rams, who won their only title 25 years ago. These were the key plays:

-In Oakland, a roughing-thepasser penalty was called against New England's Ray Hamilton with 52 seconds left, when, with the Patriots leading by four points, the Raiders threw unsuccessfully on third-and-19. The penalty gave Oakland's Kenny Stabler a first down at the 13-yard line, and four plays later he rolled out to win the game, 24-21.

—In Dallas, a running-into-the-kicker penalty was called against the Cowboys' Cliff Harris in the fourth quarter as Tom Dempsey hit a 24yard field goal that advanced the Rams to an apparent 10-10 tie. When coach Chuck Knox declined the field goal, the penalty gave his club a first down on the Dallas 3, and three plays later Lawrence McCutcheon ran a yard to win it for the Rams, 14-12.

BOTH PENALTIES seemed marginal - especially in view of the fact that each decided an agonizingly close game - and the men penalized both pleaded innocent.

Hamilton, the New England nose guard, said: "I tipped the ball before I hit him. There's no way they can call that penalty."

Said Dallas safety Harris: "I was blocked into Dempsey. It was a bad Still, both pays are going to stand — as is the McCutcheon touchdown, which the Cowboys also protested. And so in another stew over officiating, Oakland and Los Angeles have moved along to the second round of the playoffs Sunday against Pittsburgh and Minnesota. Many of those who saw the Steelers grind up Baltimore are picking them to win in the first quarter at Oakland. Some are recommending the cancellation of the Super Bowl and suggesting that the trophy be simply mailed to Pittsburgh. The Rams, however, are being cited for the most historic accomplishment of the tournament so far. In overcoming Dallas they won a playoff game on the road for the first time in the history of the franchise.

THEIR RECORD of futility began in 1950 in Cleveland, where they lost the title game, and continued in 1952 with a blown playoff in Detroit. Next, under George Allen, the Rams lost playoffs in Green Bay and Minnesota. And under Knox, they lost in Minnesota and Dallas.

Indeed, Knox's December wins against Washington and St. Louis at the Coliseum in 1974 and 1975 were the only playoff victories for the Rams anywhere in the last quarter century until they brought down the Cowboys Sunday in Dallas.

The glow may only last seven days. At Minnesota this time the Rams can't expect Fran Tarkenton to throw into a crowd, as he did last September, when a goal-line interception cost Minnesota a shot at a lastminute field goal in overtime.

With a first down, Tarkenton step-ped back and fired to a Los Angeles linebacker, Rick Kay. From the 11 it would have been a 28-yard field goal against a stiff wind - a chancy kick - so Tarkenton can be excused for his call, but not for his throw. On first down, with a minute left, it should have been thrown away.

Pat Haden of Los Angeles outplayed Tarkenton that afternoon in a fivequarter 10-10 draw. After the Vikings won the fifth-quarter coin toss. Tarkenton on first down threw an interception to Monte Jackson at the Ram 16. Taking over there, Haden marched the Rams to the Minnesota 13, where the winning field goal seemed imminent as Tom Dempsey lined up with the wind to his back. But the center snap into the wind was off target, and the field goal was

THIS HAS been a bad year for the Ram special teams. In Dallas Sunday, for instance, they suffered two blocked punts. And on another Ram punt, they allowed the Dallas returner to escape for 44 yards. Thus threatened with three touchdowns, the Ram defense only allowed one as Jack Youngblood, Isiah Robertson and their nine teammates played some of the best clutch football in Ram defensive history. In the end the game was saved not season and Perry eight.

Free safety Bill Simpson from Michigan State is in his third season, while Dave Elmendorf, from Texas A&M, is the veteran with five years.

Sophisticated imming and Part French - with a bow to the Oriental - and part common sense cookery based on up-to-date nutrition information, La Nouvelle Cuisine is the slickest and one of the most pleasant and sophisticated ways to "eat smart" that has come along in years.

The international trend, particularly in America, has been toward lighter and more adventurous eating. Credit for crystallization of the "new cuisine" goes to the French who created slenderizing menus with flair and flavor

Emphasis is on naturally nutritious foods. Vitamin and mineral-rich vegetables and fruits, smaller portions of high-fat meats and the frequent appearance of lean poultry and high-protein, low-fat fish fillets from the North Atlantic highlight the menus.

Sauces are often a meld of vegetables sauteed in a bit of fresh butter, then simmered with chicken, meat or fish and pureed to smoothness. When the sauce needs more character, as in our Soubise Sauce, uncreamed cottage cheese or low-fat ricotta is blended with the other ingredients.

Flavors reflect the French bouquet of spices and herbs using traditional seasonings. Thyme, bay leaf, garlic and parsley used in a Court Bouillon or fish stock, rosemary with chicken, tarragon in a tomato thickened brown sauce for beef.

What it all shapes up to is a general "way to cook," not a collection of hard and fast recipes. Eye appeal and color—a sunset yellow California Cling Peach, pure white Cod floating in a hot but cool-as-a-cucumber broth—food arranged elegantly and beautifully as hand-painted porcelain.

In Oriental fashion, the food is cooked quickly. Vegetables are blanched to crisp tenderness in flavored broth fish cooked for the shortest of intervals.

to crisp tenderness in flavored broth, fish cooked for the shortest of intervals and only until it flakes.

Whether oven-steamed, poached or sauteed, firm-fleshed, delicate flavored Cod fillets and other species from the icy waters of the North Atlantic take very little time to cook, even when fast frozen. Properly prepared fish is tender, moist and succulent.

FISH JARDINIERE

8 carrots, 3 green peppers, 2 leeks, 6 celery ribs — cut in julienne strips 1/4" x 2" 1 lb. frozen North Atlantic Cod Fillets

3/4 cup water 1 onion, sliced

1 rib celery

1 carrot, peeled and sliced

2 lemon slices

1/4 teaspoon salt

1-1/2 cups chicken broth

2 tablespoons butter salt and pepper to taste

2 teaspoons lemon juice

1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper

1/2 teaspoon garlic salt

1/2 teaspoon celery salt

Place frozen block of fish in 10" skillet; add water, onion, celery, carrot, lemon, salt and peppercorns. Bring water to boiling point, cover, reduce heat and simmer 8 to 10 minutes. Gently separate fillets; remove from liquid with slotted spatula and keep warm; strain liquid and reserve for Soubise Sauce. Meanwhile, cook julienned vegetables in boiling chicken broth until crisp-tender, about 5 to 8 minutes; remove from liquid with slotted spoon and reserve chicken broth for sauce. Toss vegetables with butter and salt and pepper, spread on warmed platter. Arrange Cod fillets on vegetables and top with Soubise Sauce. (If desired, garnish with sauteed mushrooms.)

Bill Cormack likes to cook - so for the sixth year he fixed Christmas dinner for the more than 50 ad-ministration employes of the school

Cormack, coordinator of fine arts and migrant education, learned to cook while in the Army. "I cooked for a general," he said.

Tuesday's spread included dishes ranging from shish kebab to blueberry salad to meatballs with

"I make everybody in this room mad at least once a year," Cormack told the group, explaining why he

He said he started cooking Friday night, beginning with the meat dishes which can be frozen. The salads were made Sunday and Monday and un-molded Tuesday morning before the

"I'm the only person I know who enjoyed himself in the Army," Cormack said of his three-year hitch. He did three things — cooked, coached a baseball team and directed a choir.

The hardest part of cooking a meal of many dishes like the one he fixed Tuesday is timing, planning what to fix when so it all comes out right.

After everybody had eaten their fill, the whole thing was dismantled and 10 minutes later the room was ready for the school board meeting Tuesday

Bill Cormack puts the finishing touches on one of a dozen platters of food he single-handedly fixed for more than 50 school administration employes Tuesday.

Polish Hunter's Stew solves skier's dilemma of eating

By ARTHUR SCHWARTZ Newsday

GARDEN CITY, New York - After a day on the slopes, warm, comforting food and drink are probably on every skier's mind.

The following recipe for Polish Hunter's Stew is an ideal solution. tastes even better when reheated than it does when freshly prepared and goes well with mugs of beer. Traditionally, leftover roasted meat, game or even chicken is added with kielbasa (Polish sausage) to the sauerkraut base, although in the recipe below, roasted short ribs are suggested in case you don't have any meat leftovers. The only accompani-ment the stew needs is boiled potatoes or rye bread. Polish Hunter's Stew:

1-4 cup lard 4 cups sliced onions

pounds sauerkraut

4 tart apples, peeled, cored and coarsely chopped

1 1-2 ounces sliced dried mushrooms

4 tablespoons tomato paste cup water

1 teaspoon dried thyme 1 bay leaf 3 tablespoons brown sugar 1-4 teaspoon freshly ground black 5 pounds short ribs

2 to 3 pounds kielbasa (Polish sausage)

1. In a large Dutch oven, heat the lard until very hot. Add the onions and saute over medium-high heat until onions are well browned. Some of them should be rather dark, almost

2. Add the sauerkraut, apples and mushrooms. In a small bowl, dissolve the tomato paste in the water. Add to pot. Add thyme, bay leaf, brown sugar and pepper. Stir well. Cover and simmer slowly about two hours.

3. Meanwhile, place the short ribs on a rack in a roasting pan. Roast in a preheated 350-degree oven for one hour. Allow ribs to cool, then cut meat into 1 1-2 inch chunks, discarding the fat. Bones may be added to stew for extra flavor

4. Add the short-rib meat to the sauerkraut. Cut the kielbasa into 1 1-2 to 2-inch pieces and add to the sauerkraut. Continue to simmer for about another hour. Stew is best when reheated. Serve with boiled potatoes. Makes 8 to 10 servings. Gluhwein:

1 fifth dry red wine 1-4 teaspoon bitters

Champagne something adults can believe in

By BILL RICE The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Champagne is something an adult can believe in. It's not only the expense — champagne is the beverage of aristocrats — that

"The wine is gay," writes Cyril Ray in his boook "Bollinger," "and the cause of gaiety in those who drink it. Not only do the bubbles laugh at one: They carry the alcohol into the bloodstream more quickly than happens with a still wine - one gets an immediate 'lift' or 'kick' from cham-

No theater audience awaits the first-act curtain with more anticipation than thirsty revelers gathered about a champagne bottle ready to pop. The sound is unmistakable, and, once open, champagne puts on a floor show all its own. The bubbles dance, swim to the surface, and break into song in the best Esther Williams tradition.

In color, champagne is neither silver nor gold, but contains suggestions of both. Crisp and clear, it demands fine glassware (or silver cups) to show it off. The taste? Listen to the English writer Hugh Johnson:

It has, he write, "an incomparably fresh and delicate taste of grapes. There is hardly any sugar in it at all, but just enough to balance a slight acidity - the perfect balance of, say, a crisp dolden-green apple. It has an extraordinaryily pungent smell ... and yet the scent in the top of your glass is as delicate as the wine itself

"No other wine has these qualities all together - or indeed any of them

All that inspired the Russians who flooded into Paris after Waterloo to sing, Edwardian Englishmen to dance and former Georgetown resident James McMillan Gibson to have replicas of champagne bottles, each three feet high, placed at the head and the foot of his grave. It inspired "The Night They Invented Champagne' and Glenn Miller's "Champagne Cocktail" and innumerable declarations of love and toasts in joy and in sorrow.

The romance with champagne began not very long ago, as wine history goes. There have been vines in the Champgne region for more than 1.500 years. But the wine produced from the chalky soil in the Marne River area tended to undergo secondary fermentation - actually, a delayed transformation of the natural grape sugar into alcohol, and the delay produced bubbles, of a sort — the spring after the wine had been made. Toward the end of the 17th Century, man took the process in hand.

History credits a monk named Dom Perignon with the research and experimentation that brought the permanent sparkle to champagne. Thereafter, all that was needed were strong bottles to withstand the pressure of dissolved carbon dioxide (thus the indentation in the bottom of champagne bottle), corks to stop the bottles securely, and then the Napoleonic wars. Napoleon's generals took champagne to the lands they conquered, and after the emperor went into exile, champagne became the official beverage of the Congress of Vienna.

For the English, who held first place in the champagne export market, no summer outing at a country house was complete without a wheelbarrow filled with ice and champagne close at hand. Pink champagne was a popular affectation. Even today in England, according to Cyril Ray, it "carries with it the trailing glories of late-Victorian and Ed-wardian frivolity and fun."

These pre-Pepsi Generation wines were not the same as the champagnes we may drink now. They were sweet and to our taste undoubtedly would be

'Ho-Ho Breakfast'

An elegant meal easy to prepare

When you picture your elegant holiday table with a festive turkey, chutneyed pears, squash boats filled with sauteed onions, do you also picture working for days in a hot steamy kitchen? If you do, don't. This holiday meal is as easy as it is elegant.

Turkey is the number one main course choice. Why? Because it's economical-one of the very lowest priced meats; it's nutritious—less fat than another cooked meat; it's practical—it can serve from four to forty or more people; it's versatile, there are literally hundreds of recipe variations; and it's a time-sayer. Here's an unbelievably easy cooking method:

First, thaw your bird (two or three days in the fridge or quickly in the bag in cold water). Next, remove neck and giblets (tucked in the turkey's cavity). Rinse. Pat dry. Fasten down the legs by tucking under skin band. Place on a rack. Brush with butter. Bake at 325 degrees F. When the ther-mometer registers 180-185 degrees F., your turkey is done. Wait about 20 minutes, then start carving.

Go ahead. Picture yourself serving an elegant elaborate holiday meal with a magnificent turkey as the main course. Only you will know the easy preparation picture that precedes it.

Cheese-Chutneyed Pears 1 1/2 cups sharp cheddar cheese, grated 1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened 4 teaspoon curry powder

2 tablespoons finely chopped chutney Combine all ingredients and mix till smooth. If necessary, thin with a little of the chutney syrup or a little milk. Spread into pear halves, or use a decorating kit and pipe into pear halves. Chill till serving time. Use as a garnish around your turkey for a festive look, nestled in a bed of parsley. Browned Onions In

Acorn Squash Boats

4 acorn squash 1/2 cup butter 2 lbs. small white onions, peeled

2 beef-flavored bouillon cubes dissolved in 1 cup

1 teaspoon parsley flakes 4 teaspoon garlic salt 4 teaspoon dill weed

4 cup honey Wash and cut the squash in half and clean out the seeds. Place the halves, cut side down, in a large pan which has about an inch of water in it. Cover, and steam for about 30 minutes or until tender. In a large sauce pan, combine butter or margarine, and the onions, saute till golden brown, turning often. Cook about 10 minutes, then add bouillon dissolved in water, parsley, garlic and dill. Bring to a boil, cover and let simmer about 30 minutes till tender. Spoon into cooked, drained squash halves which have been brushed with honey.

There's more to consider about our new cartons than just the pretty pictures.

Consider the sugar itself. It's the same fine 100% pure cane sugar as before. Only the cartons changed Consider the new laminated liner inside Imperial brown sugar cartons. It keeps the sugar moist and refinery fresh until it reaches your pantry.

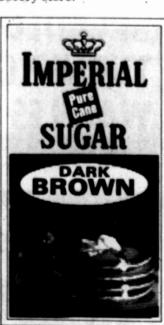

Consider the liner inside Imperial powdered sugar cartons. It keeps moisture out to prevent lumping.

Now consider the new cartons. They show on the outside the delicious recipes you can make with the pure cane sugar inside using the directions on the back panel.

Look for these new cartons along with other colorful new Imperial Sugar cartons in your favorite grocery store.

Apple Upside-Down Cake Delicious, moist cake topped with juicy apples. Serve slightly warm smothered in whipped cream. Recipe on back of new Imperial Light Brown Sugar cartons.

Fluffy Strawberry Pie Tasty and light chiffon-type pie with fresh or frozen strawberries. No cooking. Just mix and chill. Recipe on back of new Imperial Powdered Sugar

Old-Fashioned Gingerbread Pancakes Tender, moist pancakes with just the right amount of spicy flavor. Makes a hearty breakfast, or it's a beauty for brunch. Recipe on back of new Imperial Dark Brown Sugar cartons.

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures No. 2 were lower in midday dealings today. Evened up positions prior to the long holiday weekend depresed futures, brokers said. Some selling also was prompted by a cotton census bureau report which placed the daily consumption for November at 4 per cent below October and 8 per cent less than a year ago

The average price for strict low middling 1:-16-inch spot cotton advanced 13 points to 71.26 cents a pound Wednesday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midmorning prices were $1.05 to $1.80 a bale lower than the previous close. March 74.95, May 75.55, and July 75.59.

Market continues climbing

NEW YORK (AP)-The stock market moved ahead again today, working its way through cross-currents of yearend maneuvering by investors.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 1.58 at 986.12 after a 12.13-point advance in the past two sessions. Gainers held a 6-5 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed Brokers said the market was drawing steady support from optimism over the outlook for inflation and interest rates. They also noted buying by traders on the theory that the market might repeat its strong January showing of the past two years in early 1977.

Southern Co. topped the active list, up 1/6 at 16. Blocks of 200,000 and 105,200 shares of the stock traded at that

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .07 to 56.51. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained .50 to 105.76.

Volume on the Big Board came to 10.88 million shares over the first two hours, off a bit from 12.22 million in the comparable period on Wednesday.

TWA fell 14 to 114 in active trading. A Wall Street
Journal article discussed problems facing the company in coming up with the money it will need for new planes in the next few years.

Cattle owners enduring losses

AUSTIN — While Texas feedlot operators enter the Christmas season still losing money, losses have leveled some on the 1,725,000 head of cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in the state.

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said today.

"Current losses for fed cattle are running anywhere from $30 - $50 per head compared to recei months when producers were losing as much as $100 per animal fed in the lots," White explained.

With moderate supply reductions, beef and cattle prices are expected to increase gradually throughout the winter and spring, White added.

While feedlot operators are still digging out from under 1976 losses year-end figures indicate that total red meat output, including that for beef, will set a national record for the year. Estimates are that Americans on the average will have consumed more than 192 lbs. of red meat by the end of 1976, up 11 lbs. from last year and just above the 1971 record consumption year.

"Ameicans are continuing to cast their nutritional vote for red meat as the outstanding food buy it still remains," White said

"And despite heavy losses throughout the feeding year, Texas producers have managed to keep beef moving to the American dinner table," he added.

Texas cattle feeders placed 380,000 head into their lots during November 11 per cent above November, 1975, but 27 per cent below the previous month. There were 281,000 head of fat cattle marketed during November, eight per cent above November, 1975, but seven per cent below October, 1976, marketings.

Other disappearance from feedlots was estimates at 34,000 head compared with 20,000 a year earlier.

Cattle and calves on feed Dec. 1 for slaughter market in the seven states preparing monthly estimates totaled 8,000,000 head, down three per cent from a year ago but 21 per cent more than Dec. 1, 1974. The number on feed Dec. 1 was above last year in three of the seven states, which include Arizona, California, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, and

Communication grants awarded

AUSTIN - The Public Utilites Commission has granted certificates of "convenience and necessity" to several communications companies in the West Texas area to continue to provide radio-telephone communications service.

The certificates allow those companies to provide mobile telephone and/or paging equipment in specified counties of the state. The companies covered under the order, according to the PUC staff, all had facilities in place or under construction as of Sept. 1, 1975, and have been licensed under the "grandfather clause" of the legislation setting up the PUC. That clause of the law allows existing facilities a license to operate without a formal showing of need.

a license to operate without a formal showing of need.

The order covers 20 companies operating in 40 counties of Texas. Area companies granted certificates to operate, and the counties they operate in, are: Basin Answering Service, Inc., Ector and Ward counties; General Communications Service, Inc., Ector, Gaines, Howard, Upton, Midland and Anaws counties; Mobile Phone of Texas, Inc., Scurry, Jan and Taylor counties; Western Communications Service, Tom Green, Reagan, Schleicher, Sterling, Coleman and Crockett counties; Don McFarland doing business as Westex Communications, Sutton County; and Western Communications Service for proposed facilities, Tom Green and Sterling counties.

AMARILLO - Mesa Petroleum Co. announced today that the confirmation well on Block 11-30 (Mesa 25 percent interest) in the Moray Firth area of the U.K. sector of the North Sea encountered 140 net feet of oilbearing sands and has been tested at an aggregate flow rate of 6,197 barrels of oil per day. Based on the results of the first two exploratory wells, feasibility studies are currently in progress to determine future development of Block 11-30.

The confirmation well, located 2% miles southwest of the previously announced discovery well, is approximately 15 miles from the coast of Scotland in 135 feet of water. Mesa, as operator, will commence drilling the third exploratory well on the block immediately. The third well will be located 134 mile to the northeast of the discovery well and four miles from the confirmation well.

Mesa owns a 25 percent interest in this 55,000 acre block. Other owners are Kerr-McGee Corp. (25 percent), Hunt - Oil Co. (15 percent), P&O Petroleum Limited (15 percent), Cresslenn Chelsea (15 percent), and Exploration Holding Corp. (five the stranded oil tanker Argo Merchant, Massachusetts' lieutenant governor says the worst oil spill in .S. history "did not have to happen."

Thomas P. O'Neill III told a congressional hearing into the spill Wednesday night that he was "incredulous" that the Coast Guard had no specially trained personnel ready to deal with such a grounding.

Coast Guard divers were to attempt to examine the tanks of the split-up tanker today to see whether any of its 7.6 million gallons of thick oil remained unspilled

As the oil drifted out to sea in a conical slick more than 100 miles long, scientists began studying its effects, fishermen dreaded financial ruin and the state cried for help.

Only the bow section of the 64-foot Liberian ship remained afloat over a shoal off Nantucket Island. It was settling into the sea at a 40-degree angle and was expected to disappear sometime today, according to a Coast Guard spokesman.

The middle section was out of sight, and the stern, firmly embedded in the sandy shoal, was barely visible above

The National Weather Service predicted relatively calm seas up to five feet in the area today. Winds were expected to shift slightly to the southwest and reach 15 to 20 knots.

Those conditions, the Coast Guard said, would keep the oil moving away from the beaches of Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard and Cape Cod and onto the rich fishing grounds of the Georges Bank.

Rainier VP for Aminoil

HOUSTON - Peter W. Rainier has been elected vice president for exploration, a member of the board of directors and named to the executive committee of Aminoil USA, Inc.

The announcement was made by J. B. Sunderland, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Aminoil.

Rainer, a native of Canada, joined Aminoil's predecessor, Signal Oil & Gas Co., in 1968, as manager of its exploration efforts in Europe and Africa.

He became vice president of international exploration in 1971 and in 1972, he was elected vice president and director of all the firm's exploration efforts.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Operation not the end

Dear Dr. Solomon: My doctor has the body where a fracture is just told me that I have to have a hysterectomy. It really isn't so much the operation that I am afraid of as what is going to happen to my sex life. Will I be able to have sex with my husband? Will it be the same? I am very worried about what life will be like. Please advise.-Agness B.

Dear Agnes: There is no physical reason whatever why your sex life should be affected by a hysterectomy. What is removed is the uterus, and this plays no direct role in sexual intercourse. You can have an orgasm as as attractive and pleasing to your hus-You know, many women enjoy sex more after they have had a hysterectomy, because there is no longer any danger of pregnancy. The only thing you have to worry about is worry. But if you find that you simply can't stop worrying, talk to your doctor. I'm sure he will be able to put your mind at ease. Dear Dr. Solomon: Does a splint have to be absolutely stiff, like a stick or a narrow board, or can you use car-board? We were having a discussion about what to do in skiing accidents

the other day, and it seemed to me that you don't always have the perfect splint around in an emergency.-Gus Dear Gus: The purpose of a splint is suspected, and anything that does this is OK. If you have a big heavy corrugated cardboard box, you can use one side of it to make a good splint for the arm or lower leg. You bend it along two parallel creases so as to make a right-angled trough. The arm or leg will rest very well in there with the necessary padding. In fact, the 3M company is printing its shipping cartons. The used cartons can be picked up without too much trouble and the splints cut out and stored with ski equipment. Splinting is terribly important in order to prevent a fairly simple fracture from becoming a serious injury.

Any skier should be sure to study a

East took the ace of diamonds and returned the ten of diamonds to make dummy ruff. Declarer drew a round of trumps with the ace, cashed the top hearts and ruffed a heart.

Opening lead - O K

South then led a trump to dummy's king and led the jack of hearts. East and South discarded clubs, and Declarer continued with dummy's last heart. This is where East and South traded proverbs:

If East ruffed either heart, South would discard a club on each heart, could ruff a diamond return in dummy and eventually give up a club. He would lose only a trump, a diamond and a club

WOULD DRAW TRUMPS If South discarded two clubs and then led a club after East refused to ruff, East would take the ace of clubs and draw the last two trumps with the queen of spades. He would then lead a diamond, and West would take two diamond tricks to collect a penalty of 200 points.

South avoided this embarrassing fate by ruffing dummy's last heart. South then ruffed his last diamond in dummy and led a club. East could take the ace of clubs and the queen of spades, but then had to lead a club to give South his tenth trick.

DAILY QUESTION Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S87 H1093 DKQJ532 C98. What do you say? ANSWER: Bid two hearts. The hand is not strong enough for a response of two diamonds, and the raise to two hearts is preferable to a response of 1 NT.

New senator adapts space flight methods to political career

By ED SCHUMACHER Special to The Washington Post

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. - For Harrison H. Schmitt, preparing for a sixyear term in the U.S. Senate is like preparing for a flight to the moon and

The New Mexico Republican, the last man to stand on the moon in the 1972 Apollo 17 flight, is applying the same techniques to becoming a senator that he used as a civilian astronaut for the National Aeronautics and Space Administra-

Flow charts, mock ups, communication control systems.

"It's the way I approached the campaign, too," he said in an interview. "We're sitting down and laying out next year's plan. "We're deciding what we want to accomplish, and when, and mapping out the 'milestones' (space talk for objectives) on a wall chart.'

He was here with 22 other newly elected members of Congress attending an intense, week-long cram course at Harvard University on, in effect, how to get things done in Congress. Coming here to learn the processes is one more of those "milestones" on the Schmitt master

The slow ways of the Senate have stymied more than one freshman arriving full of vigor, but Schmitt said he is determined to remain "disciplined and systematic." It is precisely what he called the 'complex set of variables" that he finds challenging about the Senate.

"I don't expect to control the activities of the United States Senate by any means," he acknowledged. "But planning means that you have thought through everything, so you're prepared for whatever 'known' hap-

However, planning for the Senate is in many ways more difficult than planning for space flights, he observed, noting that machines are more definitive than people - and especially elected officials.

Schmitt, running in his first election, defeated Sen. Jospeh Montoya (D-N.M.) on Nov. 2 in a campaign that began 13 months earlier with "simulated" trial runs on paper. He began as an underdog with little party support and ended winning by a wide margin. In recent weeks, he said he from across New Mexico to systematically collect their views on Personally, Schmitt is considered a pleasant man and well liked among many of his colleagues here. He has never been married: "No time." he explained. But he adds that marriage is "an option I am keeping open."

Physically, he does not fit the popular conception of a tall, strapping astronaut. He is stoop-shouldered and about 5 feet 8 inches tall. At 41, his dark hair reveals streaks of gray and he has a New Mexico tan.

Other freshmen say that Schmitt among them has been asking by far the most questions in the sessions here, demonstrating an inquisitive eagerness. As he explained, this is his opportunity to learn all he can from the prestigious collection of Harvard experts and congressional analysts leading the meetings. Schmitt, however, is no stranger to at Harvard where the political conser- carefully pack it into a Keepsake vative from Silver City, N.M., encountered and disagreed with prevailing liberal student orthodoxy. As a result he decided some day to go into

Astronaut training, the flight to the moon, a stint in Washington as head of Schmitt classifies himself politically as a Republican close to the moderate position repesented by President Ford. His answers for the ills of the Republican party are to apply many of the same managerial techniques he used in his campaign and then broaden the party's base and find candidates who can articulate a position.

Matters he hopes to pursue in Congress inlclude upgrading the National Guard, increasing military research and development, moderately expanding the space program, developing a detailed national energy policy with a mix of resources and generally reducing government regulatory power.

He said the flow charts he is drawing for next year will include schedules for the progress of legislation he plans to sponsor. The charts will also project office management efficiency, expenditures, systematic visits to counties in New Mexico during congressional recesses, and even social events.

"communications control system" that uses computers and microfilm to record letters and telephone calls and their required action, will be instituted in his senatorial office, he said. The system will be price. modeled after one used by Sen. Mark . Hatfield (R-Ore.)

Schmitt even plans to program his press coverage, though he admits this might be a bit perplexing. He explained that via his flow charts he will coordinate the timing of his speaking engagements. Beyond that, he plans simply to be "open and newsworthy."

Appeal of Yule sharing succeeds

DALLAS (AP) - When a South Dallas youth center recently appealed for Christmas food, toys and treats for about 1,000 neighborhood youths, the response was overwhelming.

Record number of calls seen

The telephone company has made plans for handling the record number of calls expected to be placed by Midlanders this Christmas, Royce Brookmole. Southwestern Bell district manager, said.

Moat calls are between homes in the suburbs and in rural areas, Brookmole said, noting that Christmas greeting calls tend to last longer than other long distance calls so the equipment is tied up longer on each call "But Southwestern Bell has been planning ahead

We'll have extra circuits and people available to help handle the extra load on Christmas Day," he said. He said 56 operators will be on duty to handle the operator-assisted calls. "We expect a record 51,150 calls to be placed by customers in Midland this Christmas," he said.

The best times to call are early in the day, in the late afternoon and late at night, he said. "Callers should try to avoid the peak calling times of 9 to 11 a.m. and 7 to 11 p.m. That's when our people and equipment are busiest and slight dial tone delays

The holiday discount rate, 35 per cent on all calls outside of Texas and 30 per cent on calls within Texas, will apply all day Friday.

"Since Christmas is on a Saturday this year, the regular weekend rate will be in effect throughout Christmas Day," Brookmole aaid. "That means a 60 per cent savings on calls out of state and 40 per cent reduction for calls within Texas." he said.
