

Congress May Approve Compromise Energy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, raised the possibility Monday that Congress may approve a compromise energy bill this year that omits natural gas pricing.

Keeping price controls on natural gas but at higher levels is a major element of President Carter's energy program. The House approved that but the Senate voted to lift the controls after two years.

Jackson, D-Wash., said the White House seems unwilling to accept any compromise that contains natural gas deregulation, even gradual. "The administration is going to be very tough and I'm pleased," he said.

But getting a bill out of a House-Senate conference committee endorsing the President's proposal for continued controls will be difficult in view of the Senate vote, Jackson acknowledged.

"If we can't agree, we can't agree," Jackson said in an interview. "There is a chance there will be no bill on natural gas."

He indicated the Carter administration may prefer no bill to one that includes even a phased lifting of price limits from natural gas.

"The administration holds all the cards," Jackson said. "Either there is no bill and the price (for natural gas) remains at $1.46 (per thousand cubic feet) or if there's a bill with deregulation, the President will veto it."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, however, said he still had high hopes that the conferees could agree on natural gas legislation that would be signed by President Carter.

And Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, co-chairman of the House energy conferees, said he, for one, is unwilling to sign his name to an energy bill that does not deal with natural gas pricing.

But, he added, "we've got one branch of Congress that has said no deregulation and the other branch has said deregulation. This obviously requires some legislative ingenuity."

Ashley said he was confident the conferees would go along with some form of gas regulation because sending a bill to the President that lifted the price controls, in face of Carter's threatened veto, "would be an exercise in futility."

Jackson, who heads the Senate team of conferees, disclosed that the issue of natural gas pricing is so controversial that it will be the last non-tax item the conference committee will consider.

That way an impasse would not jeopardize action on other parts of the President's energy program, he said.

He said he will work hard to get the conferees to adopt a compromise that keeps price controls on interstate gas and extends them to the intrastate market.

But he said this will be difficult because the Senate conferees on natural gas pricing are so evenly divided between the President's plan and deregulation.

He made the comments a day before conferees planned their first meeting to fashion a compromise energy bill. The House passed the President's program nearly intact but the Senate has rejected most of its major components.

Natural gas, which has seen a four-fold increase in prices since 1973, is now regulated at a price ceiling of $1.46 per thousand cubic feet if sold to interstate pipelines. It is free from regulation if used in the same state where it is produced.

Thus gas producers are reluctant to sell their gas to the interstate market when they can get prices of up to $1 per thousand cubic feet more by selling it within gas-producing states. This situation has led to surpluses of gas in Gulf Coast states and shortages in the industrial Northeast and Midwest.

Carter sought to eliminate this dual market by extending price controls to the intrastate markets while setting a higher ceiling for newly produced gas, beginning at $1.75 per thousand cubic feet.

Despite Carter's threat of vetoing a bill containing deregulation, the Senate voted to do just that — after a fierce 2½-week floor debate.

Jackson had offered a "compromise" toward the end of the natural gas debate that would phase out price controls after nine years. It was endorsed reluctantly by the administration as preferable to the industry-supported deregulation bill the Senate went on to adopt.

This compromise had been viewed by some as a possible middle-ground that the conferees might adopt. But Jackson said in light of the administration's firm opposition to any form of deregulation, he does not plan to offer his proposal to the conference committee.

Legion Urges Cuban Recon Overflights

The 19th District Convention of the American Legion, meeting in Lubbock Saturday and Sunday, petitioned Congress and President Carter to immediately resume intelligence photographing of Cuba by both satellite and overflights.

The delegates, representing more than 3,000 South Plains and Permian Basin legionnaires, were very disturbed by Washington columnist Paul Scott's report on Aug. 18 that said Carter had stopped the overflights of Cuba and also had halted the photographing of the island by satellites.

Legionnaires also passed a resolution urging support of HR 48. The resolution, now before the house, calls for the recreation of the House Internal Security Committee (formerly the Un-American Activities Committee) which had investigated alleged subversion for many years until it was killed about two years ago.

The Legionnaires' resolution pointed out that it was very important to restore this Congressional committee because the "radical effort" had caused the destruction of almost all effective subversion monitoring methods.

Steel: On Brink Of Break?

CONSEQUENCES of excessive wage and price increases are flying home to roost in the hair of world steel industry labor and management executives—the folks primarily responsible for their untimely birth.
Contracts negotiated last spring by the United Steelworkers of America in steel and aluminum will increase total labor costs in those two industries by as much as 30 per cent over the next three years.

Taking The Slow Boat Back

PREVAILING conventional wisdom teaches that if inflation is bad, unemployment is worse. And in most of the world's national economies, it has been a trade-off between the two.
For countries facing a "parliamentary impasse"—and there is not a single majority government in Western Europe—this dilemma is becoming increasingly painful.

Hunger Eliminated As Looting Provocation

WASHINGTON—When the New York City blackout was followed by an orgy of looting and violence, the reaction of federal officialdom was hauntingly familiar.
What can you expect, asked the official explainers, when people are hungry and unemployed? Hungry people will loot, said UN Ambassador Andrew Young, even in Switzerland.

Moving's A Pain

THE INSIDE word is that Congress is going to make it easier for folks to finance a house: higher FHA mortgage limits, lower down payments, higher ceilings on federal loans, stuff like that.
As usual, they're dealing with just part of the problem. Because chaining yourself to the monthly mortgage payment is only the beginning.

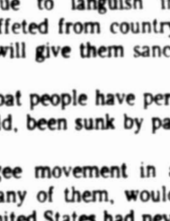

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

Bad Taste of SALT

WASHINGTON—The tentative SALT agreement virtually pinned down when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko visited the White House does not classify the Russian Backfire bomber as a strategic weapon despite a new U.S. intelligence report showing it able to reach North America with ease.
A top secret study puts the Backfire's range at over 6,200 miles, nearly double some previous estimates. Yet, the strategic arms limitation (SALT) agreement relies on a Kremlin pledge—clearly unverifiable—not to use its impressive new bomber as a strategic weapon.

DON OAKLEY:

Play It Again...

SOME STORIES IN THE news are so heart-breaking that one understandably might prefer to skip over them.
Such was the account of the arrival recently of the first of an eventual 15,000 new Vietnamese refugees to this country—7,000 of them "boat people" who escaped from former South Vietnam by sea in small, frail and uncertain craft, and 8,000 others who made their way overland to Thailand.
What is painful are not the individual or collective stories of these refugees. Though they involve an immense amount of suffering and sacrifice, they are after all 15,000 stories with happy endings.

...Pass It On

Am asked why such sharply flavored snacks as caviar, herring and anchovies have been served traditionally as appetizers at drinking parties. That goes back centuries. Most liquor tasted terrible. Oily. Bitter. And with awful fumes. Those fishes or fishlegs weren't appetizers, exactly. They were chasers, to wipe out the ach' of the booze.
Some seashore residents can tell you how many miles per hour the ocean waves are traveling just by looking at them for awhile. When one wave hits the beach, they start counting off the seconds—one-thousand-one, one-thousand-two, one-thousand-three—until the next wave hits. Then they multiply the number of seconds between the arriving crests by 3.5. If the lapse time between crests is 10 seconds, for example, those waves are moving at 35 m.p.h.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

PRESIDENT CARTER HAS COME OUT in support of a change in a law under which Western landowners would be required to sell off land in excess of 160 acres if the acreage receives water from federal irrigation or reclamation projects.

AN EXCERPT FROM A TRANSCRIPT of the press conference with farm editors follows:

"QUESTION: Mr. President, there have been some questions raised lately about Mr. Robert Meyer, assistant secretary of agriculture. Have you looked into this matter, and do you have any thoughts on it at this point?"

"THE PRESIDENT: I have not talked to Robert Meyer nor (Agriculture Secretary) Bob Bergland about this. I read about it in the news and understand from my staff reports that there has been nothing illegal done. But I have written Bob Bergland a note and told him that I wanted the practice stopped, whether or not there was an illegality."

"QUESTION: YOU PLAN NO ACTION against Mr. Meyer?"

"THE PRESIDENT: I certainly have no information about Bob Meyer's actions that would indicate any action needing to be taken, except that I have asked Bob Bergland to stop the effort of Bob Meyer's to determine land policy in the Imperial Valley. As all of you know, this is an ancient problem. The law that Congress passed, I think back in 1902, limited the ownership of land in some irrigated areas of the West to 160 acres. And in some instances a husband and wife can own 320 acres. In the Imperial Valley and in other places, the acreage owned by single families is much greater. The law was just not enforced."

"The alteration has been between Washington and farmers, honest farmers in the West, it has been between farmers in the West and their neighbors — their neighbors wanting to have an easier ability to acquire land; the farmers wanting to hold the land they possessed. This ultimately went to the federal courts. The federal courts have ruled the U. S. law has to be enforced."

ton and no feed grains in order to utilize their total acreage." Government cottonseed price supports, established through loans on cottonseed products, "have been tried and found wanting in the past," the officials added.

If instituted now "at a level high enough to help producers," many agree that cottonseed meal and oil would be priced out of the market and wind up in government stocks.

The PCG therefore will urge the USDA to devise "a more direct approach" to support prices. Discussed were two possibilities — a target price for cottonseed similar to that in effect for cotton lint, or a program which would operate in the same manner as the current price support system for wool.

higher led by the nearby October. That contract was up 125 points for a time. Volume climbed to 7,027 turnovers in local and commission house trading.

The spot month was lifted to a new season's high at $41.92 per hundredweight, highest since August, 1976, on buying spurred by the discount under cash and lack of deliveries as the final trading day approaches.

Wholesale hams were unchanged at 79 1/4 to 89 cents per pound, f.o.b. river points—a 10-month high. Cash hogs were steady to 50 cents stronger with the top at $43.50 per hundredweight.

NEW ORLEANS (UPC) — Dockworkers at the nation's second largest port abandoned their costly 16-day general strike Monday and returned to work under a union order.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted Monday to exempt farmers who lost their crops because of drought or flooding from 1977 limits on federal farm disaster payments.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., opposing the bill, said "this measure should be called the fat cat farm relief act of 1977."

Foley said the criticism was "exaggerated and inflammatory," and that without the measure many farms, small and large, which suffered crop losses from the drought this year will not qualify for disaster payments.

Lower Meat Prices Seen By Industry Officials

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — The price hamburger should remain stable and the cost of pork chops may decrease this winter, according to industry officials.

Bill Schermer of Latimer, Iowa, president of the Iowa Cattlemen's Association, said the beef market should be "going along at a nice even keel for the next few months."

"I see moderate strength in prices, but I don't see enough of an increase to affect the housewife any. It will not change prices substantially. I think moderation is the word," he said.

Paul Queck, field secretary of the Iowa Pork Producers Association, said there continues to be a large number of pigs being produced and on market.

"We agree with the projections the government recently released that there will be an increase in the number of pigs in the marketplace. This plentiful supply will put pressure on prices — downward," he said.

Weak Market Drop Slows

NEW YORK (AP)—Two takeover candidates—Alcon Laboratories and Miles Laboratories—were the standout performers in a generally weak and listless stock market session Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial, reflecting the subdued mood of the over-all market, slipped 1.30 to 820.34 after an 18.71-point drop last week.

Losers outpaced gainers by close to a 5-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange, and the exchange's composite index eased 0.5 to 51.19.

Big Board volume dropped off to 17.34 million shares from 20.41 million in the previous session.

It was hardly a dull day, however, for investors in Alcon Laboratories, the stock which had traded as low as 16 1/4 earlier this year, shot up 9 points to 38 1/4 and led the active list as of the 4 p.m. close of the NYSE.

Nestle S.A. of Switzerland proposed an offer of $42 a share to acquire the pharmaceutical manufacturer.

Miles, maker of such consumer products as Alka Seltzer, One-Day vitamins and S.O.S. scouring pads, meanwhile climbed 1/2 to 46. Miles shareholders approved a $47-a-share takeover bid by West Germany's Bayer A.G.

Among other issues responding to special developments was Hilton Hotels, up 1/4 at 21 1/4. Hilton said its management planned to recommend that the board of directors authorize the company to offer $22 apiece for 2 million of its own shares.

Bar Panel To Discuss Advertising, Sunset Act

Lawyer advertising and the Sunset Act again will be the main topics of discussion during the State Bar of Texas board of directors meeting here Thursday through Saturday at the Hilton Inn.

Travis Shelton of Lubbock, president of the State Bar, said the lawyer advertising committee will report on the motion for rehearing filed with the U.S. Supreme Court by the Arizona State Bar on the advertising question.

The board will study proposed advertising guidelines for Texas lawyers to recommend to the Supreme Court of Texas for approval.

Any changes in the "Code of Professional Responsibility" must be made by the Supreme Court.

Lawyers were given limited rights to advertise their services by a June, 1977, ruling of the Supreme Court. At the September meeting, the board delayed making specific advertising guidelines for Texas lawyers until the outcome of the rehearing motion is known.

Also, the board will discuss the State Bar's progress in preparing its report for the Sunset Advisory Commission. The report, which is required by the commission and due Oct. 31, outlines all the activities of the State Bar during the past three years.

The State Bar is one of 26 agencies which will come up for review before the Texas Legislature in 1979 under the Sunset Act.

Passed by the 65th Legislature, the law requires each state agency to be reviewed. If the Legislature fails to pass an act renewing the agency, that agency will automatically become abolished on Sept. 1, 1979.

Other business includes a discussion on the status of the Law Center campaign and recent developments on an Internal Revenue Service ruling affecting contributions to the building fund.

The board also will hear committee and section reports and reports from board task forces.

ADORNMENTS

Tune In Tomorrow

By JON-MICHAEL REED
NEW YORK — Fans from around the country and Canada descended on Manhattan early in October for a weekend luncheon and gab-fest around a hotel indoor pool in honor of four soap opera stars.

The gathering was a joint endeavor of the fan clubs for Tony Craig (Draper Scott on "Edge of Night"), Val Dufour (John Wyatt on "Search For Tomorrow"), Veleka Gray (Mia Marriott on "Love of Life") and Judy Chapman (Natalie Hughes on "As the World Turns"). But a score of special guest stars also appeared.

had appointments to keep with former amours.

More matronly types in the audience were attracted to Louis Turrene (Tony Saxon on "Edge") who was dashing, tired and impeccably groomed, right down to his brush-waxed mustache. But again, disappointment was in order for fantasizing females since he was in the company of Kathleen Dezina, who portrays Estelle, Donna Beck's prostitute pal on "All My Children." Such are the lives of soap operas. Tune in tomorrow to view their on-screen lives...

(Send your questions about soap operas to "Tune In Tomorrow," 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. Questions cannot be answered personally, but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

CERTIFIED SECRETARIES — Elva Mitchell, right, and Kay Robertson, president and corresponding secretary, respectively, of the Caprock Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International), recently received the rating of Certified Professional Secretary, having successfully completed all six sections of a qualifying examination. They are two of only 1,065 to receive the rating this year in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico. (Staff photo by Paul Moseley)

Old-Fashioned Pie Recipe Given

By TOM HOGE

For the rest of the season, America's fruit markets should be deluged with plums, since California, where more than 90 per cent of our crop grows, is enjoying a record harvest this year.

Despite the drought gripping the West Coast, California growers say they are harvesting 40 per cent more plums than last year. This is 9 per cent higher than the all-time record for plum shipments, says Virgil Rasmussen, chairman of the Plum Commodity Committee.

America has raised plums since the days of the colonial settlers, but the fruit is not native to our shores. I'm told the closest thing to a true American plum is the wild persimmon, which is apt to be pretty bitter if not properly ripe.

The mainstay of the California industry is a Chinese plum which was actually domesticated in Japan and introduced to California in 1970. But the plums sold in our markets go back still further.

Any plum is a potential prune if it can be dried without having the stone removed and it has firm, long-keeping qualities after it is dried. Our prune industry is based largely on the Agen plum introduced to California back in 1856.

- 2 cups of pitted, quartered plums (any variety)
- 2 ozs. apricot brandy
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tbsps. tapioca
- 1 tbsps. butter
- Dash of nutmeg

Mix plums in a bowl with apricot brandy and place in refrigerator about 30 minutes. Then place in a deep pie pan lined with pastry. Sprinkle plums with sugar, tapioca and spice combined, and dot with butter. Cover with a top crust, perforated. Place in a 450-degree oven 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and cook 30 minutes until fruit and crust are well done.

Snyder Couple Marks 50th

By A-J Correspondent

SNYDER — Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Weemes celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house in their home Sunday.

Weemes and the former Ethel Mae Chapman were married Oct. 14, 1927, in Snyder. They lived in Eagle Pass before returning to Snyder in 1965. He is a retired customs inspector.

Hosts for the open house will be the brothers and sisters of the couple: Henry Weemes of Arlington; Mrs. Verma Carey of Amarillo; and Mrs. Mary Lee Frizzell, Miss Johnnie Weemes, Mrs. Erma Lenoir, Mrs. Ruby Crawley, Mrs. Ruby MacKenzie, Mrs. Pat von Roeder, Harry Chapman, Mrs. Mary Ellen Chapman and Mrs. Jerry Vernon, all of Snyder.

Fresh plums, which the French confusingly call prunes, range in color from yellow-green to deep purple and in size from a cherry to a hen's egg.

While the current plum crop is plentiful, consumers should take advantage of the many ways to enjoy this adaptable fruit.

If you don't have the time or the know-how to preserve plums, you can plan ahead by simply popping a bunch into a storage bag and freezing. The plum is one of the few fresh fruits that can be handled this way. And they say a plum taken out of the freezer and thawed only a few minutes, so that it is still frosty, tastes delicious.

There are many ways of fixing them in a blender with vanilla ice cream, or sweet wine to them. But one of my favorite desserts is old fashioned plum pie. Here's a recipe.

Bridal Courtesies

CINDY SAYLES

Cindy Sayles, bride-elect of Steve Kaufmann, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Friday in the home of Mrs. Bass Powell. There were five co-hostesses.

Special guests were Mrs. Jeraldean Sayles, mother of the bride-elect; Mrs. Henry Kaufmann, mother of the future bridegroom; Mrs. Kelly Smith of Clovis, N.M., sister of the future bridegroom; and Mrs. Dean Crowell and Pat Sayles, sisters of the bride-elect.

The couple plans to be married Nov. 11 in the Bowman Chapel of First United Methodist Church.

BLAIR ANN PIERCY
 Blair Ann Piercy, bride-elect of Robert Adams, was honored with a brunch Saturday in the home of Mrs. Sidney Johnson. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Kenneth Thiel and Mrs. Raymond Brigham.

Special guests were Mrs. D.H. Piercy and Mrs. Chester Adams, mothers of the couple.

The couple plans to be married Nov. 18 in Christ The King Catholic Church.

JACOBY'S ON BRIDGE

The bid is definitely not legal, but it was for a few years in the early '30s when the law makers goofed.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys". The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Double	Pass	Pass	1♣
Opening lead —	K♥

BY OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY
 Only one player opened the South hand. Normally, you don't expect to get a zero score because you make that poor opening. But South got one when he compounded his error by not redoubling to rescue after East converted his partner's takeout double to penalty by passing. Maybe the redouble would have just taken him from the frying pan into the fire — maybe it would have gotten him off the hook. We'll never know.

West started out by cashing the three top hearts and then the ace of clubs. Then he shifted to the three of spades.

South made the right guess by playing dummy's nine. If you are going to open hands like this one you had best make the best guesses.

After this successful guess South struggled along for a long time, but when the smoke of battle had cleared away the defense had pulled in eight tricks and 500 points.

At most other tables the final contract was one notrump by East. Some declarers made it, others went down; but all scores were less than 100 points.

Ask the Jacobys
 A Canadian reader asks if a bid of eight is legal and if it ever was.

HIRE-IN

This Week 6-8 PM Monday thru Friday

If you're looking for more than just a temporary job, look at Texas Instruments. This week we're having a special hire-in for electronic assemblers to work through the holiday season. The job is temporary. The rewards are lasting. You'll make good money, enough to cover Christmas and then some. Make new friends. Have as a reference the world's leading electronics company. And you will have helped make life easier for people all over the world.

This week we're interviewing from 6 to 8 PM, Monday through Friday in addition to regular business hours. You can apply for a variety of shifts (there's premium pay for evening shifts). Come to our hiring center at North Loop 289 and University this week.

 AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Lucille Ball Overcoming Trauma Of Retirement

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — In the weeks immediately following the finale of her weekly television series Lucille Ball remained at home, gazing into space, a victim of retirement trauma.

After more than two decades of frantic daily activity the beloved redhead suffered the shock of inactivity.

"For three months I just sat," Lucy said, firing up a cigarette. "I didn't know what to do with myself."

"I didn't quit because I needed the rest. I loved the treadmill. I decided to stop because I thought it was time. If it hadn't been for the kids (son Desi and daughter Lucie) I would have quit nine years earlier.

"I wanted to get them started on their careers so it was worth it. But I'd broken my leg which impeded the physical comedy which I loved more than anything else."

"The thought of taking life easier sounded appealing, but I wasn't prepared for inactivity. It was a very peculiar feeling."

Lucy had just breezed into her Beverly Hills mansion and plopped down into an overstuffed chair. Still trim and glowing with health, she tapped her long fingernails on a table top.

When the initial inertia diminished, Lucy put herself back in high gear, directing her boundless energy in new directions.

She starred in two specials last year and will be seen Nov. 21 in her first TV special of the new season, "Lucy Calls The President."

The show will feature a reunion of her old weekly gang: Gale Gordon, Vivian Vance and Mary Wickes.

The past two months have been busier than the old days on the series.

"I've been catching up with all the things I promised myself I'd do for 10 years," she said. "The main thing was returning guest shots and appearing on talk shows."

"So I've been on the air with Johnny Carson, Merv Griffin, Dinah Shore and Mike Douglas. I did a show for Bob Hope and Donny and Marie Osmond. This week I did the 'Celebrity Circus' and a Barbara Walters interview, both of which will be on the air later this year."

"Next month the Friars Club is honoring me with a toast and I go to Las Vegas to be on the dais for a Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin roast."

"This coming week I'm putting on a charity backgammon tournament. Cutty Sark is putting up the trophies with the money going to the Thailians."

Lucy has become a grand dame of Hollywood backgammon. She has seven in-laid backgammon tables in her home and a half-dozen attaché case boards which she carts around whenever she goes visiting.

She plays the game several days a week and often has small tournaments at home involving as many as a dozen friends.

"The game is a recreational thing with me," she said. "It was my main source of relaxation after I quit the show and it filled up a lot of time."

In addition to her specials, guest shots and backgammon, Lucy participates in college seminars on comedy, lecturing on the subject at various schools around Southern California.

"I discovered I had something to give to young people interested in comedy," she said. "I don't talk about how to be funny, but how to cope with getting started in a career."

"I also take an active interest in a scholarship fund I established. It's just one of the charities I finally have time to participate in."

"During the years of the weekly show all I could do was give money and lend my name to good causes. Now I can make appearances and help raise funds."

Lucy works for WAIF, SHARE, the Thailians, The Junior Blind, motion Picture Mothers, Junior Achievement and other organizations.

Additionally, Lucy is caught up in every day domestic activities. She runs her Ber-erly Hills dwelling, a home in Palm Springs and another in Snowmass, Colo. She is forever overseeing the domiciles of Lucie and Desi who live nearby.

"I'm always available to the kids," she said. "They occupy a great deal of my thoughts and all the time I can give."

At the moment Lucy is plowing through storage bins containing more than 1,000 costumes worn in her shows for the past 20 years. She donates the expensive gowns to charities and auctions.

Lucy finds herself too busy to watch much television. Not even reruns of her old shows.

"Our show is playing in almost every city in the United States," she said happily, "and in 79 foreign countries. I sold out my residuals when I owned the company and plowed the money back into the show. I only have financial interest in reruns for the last six years we were on the air."

Will Lucy ever return to a weekly show?

"Are you crazy?" she asked.

250 Educators To Attend Conference

Some 250 educators from Texas and New Mexico are expected to attend the fourth annual Higher Education Conference, Thursday and Friday at the South Park Inn in Lubbock sponsored by Texas Tech University.

The panel of speakers will feature Dr. Morton S. Baratz, new general secretary of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), keynote speaker Dr. Warren B. Armstrong, president of Eastern New Mexico University, Portales; Dr. Robert Shepack, president of El Paso Community College; Dr. Beryl

D. Clinton, dean of Clarendon College; Dr. Ray Cardozer, president of the University of Texas, Permian Basin; Dr. Kaoru Yamamoto, professor of Higher Education, Arizona State University; Dr. Philip Speegel, president of Odessa College; and Dr. Marvin Baker, president of South Plains College, Levelland.

Theme of the conference is "Public Accountability to Higher Education." Proceedings will be published and available to interested persons.

Texas Tech's Higher Education Program Area, College of Education and Division of Continuing Education are organizing the event.

Dr. Armstrong's keynote address on "The University and the Community: A Janus View" will be delivered at the banquet session at 7 p.m., Thursday, with Dr. Kenneth Freeman, professor and chairman, Higher Education, and director of the Texas Tech Junior College Center, presiding. He is director of the Higher Education Conference. Dr. Robert H. Anderson, dean of the College of Education, Texas Tech, will welcome and introduce guests.

At the opening general session Friday, Dr. Baratz will discuss "The Governmental Challenge to Academic Autonomy." Dr. William A. Stewart, president of the Texas Tech chapter of the AAUP, will preside.

Mid-morning concurrent sessions will include:

- "Faculty Stake in Institutional Autonomy" led by Dr. Jacquelin Collins, associate professor of history and immediate past chairman of the Tech Faculty Council, with Dr. Clarence A. Bell, associate professor of engineering and current Faculty Council chairman presiding;

- "Effect of Federal and State Aid in Institutional Autonomy" led by Dr. George Meenaghan, associate vice president for Research and acting chairman, Chemical Engineering, with Dr. Shepack, presiding; and,
- "What Autonomy Have We Lost in Colleges and Universities in Texas?" led by Dr. Cardozer, with Dr. Clinton presiding.

Childress Independent School District trustees faced with probable remodeling or new construction on the elementary level, have opted to retain a financial consultant.

The decision to shop around for such an adviser surfaced at a recent meeting of the board. A decision was made to interview five financial consultants at a special meeting set for Thursday.

The board earlier announced a decision to offer the Wilson Elementary School building and its grounds for sale, with possession in June, 1978.

Wilson houses kindergarten and first grade classes. Grades two through five attend Lamar Elementary School, and board members feel the Wilson students could attend there only if remodeling and enlarging of the building is done.

Also, under consideration by the board is construction of a new elementary school.

The board recently signed a contract with the architect firm of Brasler, Gayette and Rapier of Lubbock concerning the project.

A committee of citizens is to be named to work with the board in the matter.

Since major remodeling or construction probably would require a bond issue, board members have stated that they want such a decision to come from the committee of local residents rather than by board action alone.

PROTECT THE FINISH OF YOUR CAR - POLYGLYCOAT

The revolutionary new protective sealant that is not a wax or polish and can only be applied by your new car dealer.

GUARANTEED FOR THREE FULL YEARS—Your auto purchase today is a necessity. Buy with the future in mind.

POLYGLYCOAT PRESERVES! NO NEED TO EVER WAX YOUR CAR AGAIN!

Polyglycoat is a paint and chrome sealant finish—guaranteed to protect your car against fading, corrosion, oxidation, and loss of gloss for three years. Comprised of Dow 500, paraffin, silicone, with a kerosene base, Polyglycoat breaks through the tiny paint pores in the surface, and penetrates 2-3 layers into the paint-base and shielding it against the foreign elements that cause corrosion, rust, and loss of gloss.

Not only will Polyglycoat eliminate the need for waxing, but it will virtually maintain your car's showroom luster, thereby eliminating resale potential. It should be applied to all new cars and properly prepared used cars of all makes.

KEEPS YOUR PAINT AND CHROME LIKE NEW!

Machinists Threaten Strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The U.S. aerospace industry, hit hard by strikes and layoffs...

The International Association of Machinists has threatened to strike Lockheed's Marietta, Ga., plant...

Meanwhile, almost 24,000 union members continued their strike of Boeing facilities...

And negotiators continued discussion of new contracts for the 11,000 machinists and United Auto Workers members...

to see what happened with the Lockheed, Boeing and McDonnell-Douglas negotiations...

Boeing Co. is the nation's major producer of commercial aircraft...

Spokesmen for the three corporations, enjoying a profitable year, said they have managed to keep production going...

At Rockwell International Co., the main B1 contractor that announced thousands of layoffs...

Union officials said they were waiting Sunday, but work continued under an automatic contract extension clause.

per cent raise over the life of the contract at Boeing, and about 17 per cent at Lockheed.

Lockheed spokesman Jim Ragsdale would not say Monday whether the company would make concessions to union demands...

Lockheed has met all delivery deadlines since the workers at its California Co. and Missiles and Space Co. struck Oct. 10, he said.

Each strike involves union demands for better job security, higher wages and better fringe benefits...

Agency Urges Support For Air Bags

CHICAGO (AP) — The head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration urged public support for air bags Monday...

Traffic Safety Administrator Joan Claybrook said in an address to a National Safety Council convention in Chicago...

Regulations requiring air bags in all new cars by 1984 were approved in June by U.S. Department of Transportation Secretary Brock Adams...

Claybrook said the bags prevent injury of persons in cars traveling at 30 m.p.h. or less...

The passive belts have no lap strap but, in an accident, allow the rider to "submarine" down and under the belt...

Lap belts are used by only about 50 per cent of riders but are still important in protecting them from injury in side crashes and rollovers...

'Top 10' Hit Parade Published For Russian Pop Music Fans

MOSCOW (AP) — In a new concession to the growing Russian ranks of pop music fans, a Soviet newspaper has begun publishing a hit parade of the "top 10" Soviet and foreign tunes.

The feature, called "Musical Parade," includes lists of Soviet and foreign top hits. The monthly lists began appearing Saturday in Moskovsky Komsomol, the newspaper of the Moscow Young Communist League...

The first chart lists the top foreign song as "Indian Summer" by French singer Joe Dassin...

Other songs include "Souvenirs" by Greek singer Demis Russos, "Money, Money, Money" and "S.O.S." by the Swedish group Abba...

The Soviet hit parade was topped by "My Homeland" sung by Sofia Rotaru.

In an interview, Moskovsky Komsomol's record editor Yuri Silinov said the list was started because "a lot of young composers are coming out in the Soviet Union and a lot is happening in foreign music..."

He said eligibility for the list would be limited to songs sold in the Soviet Union or played on Soviet radio...

Foreign records sold here are imported by a Soviet firm, Melodia, which signs contracts with Western record producers...

But since the records that make the list are not necessarily on sale, some foreign recording artists are not being paid royalties...

Dassin and Russos said they were not receiving royalties, although Russos said he understood his records were "selling very well..."

Songs beamed into the Soviet Union by foreign radio stations, which have a massive listening audience here, are ineligible for the list.

Trio Guilty In Con Game

CHILDRESS—Three Dallas residents pleaded guilty to charges of theft before Justice of the Peace Jimmy Smith here Thursday.

Janis Williams, 21, Fred D. Brown, 31, and Roosevelt Shaw Jr., 32, were charged with operating a "quick-change" con game in Childress Wednesday...

Officials said the trio made restitution to the merchants and paid fines totaling $184.

The subjects were apprehended in Vernon early Thursday and returned to Childress by Police Chief Odus Burrows and Sheriff J. E. Benham.

Cancer Society Leader Lashes Out At Critics

AUSTIN (AP) — Critics of the National Cancer Program are giving it no more time to prove itself than a cancer patient has to be "cured," the president of the American Cancer Society said Monday.

Dr. R. Lee Clark spoke to a symposium on cancer at the University of Texas.

Clark also listed 15 strides in basic cancer research and therapy, including a proposal by the new director of the National Cancer Institute, Dr. Arthur Upton...

"Since our long-held rule of thumb for evaluation has been five years of survival beyond the initial cancer therapy, the National Cancer Program is just barely beyond the first five-year interval from which we can begin to draw conclusions about the possible increased effectiveness of the program," Clark said.

"Numerous individuals in the country are claiming the National Cancer Program has wasted money and has nothing of significance to show for it. Most of these individuals have never tried to cure a cancer — they are journalists and scientists far-removed from hospital beds, who know little or nothing about human cancer except what they see through a microscope or in a test tube or in an animal model system."

The act creating the program was signed in 1971. Since then, spending on cancer research has increased from $230 million a year to $761.7 million a year, he said.

For the money, Clark said, Americans have reaped new methods of early cancer detection, therapies "that cure previously incurable cancers" and methods of informing more doctors of how to use these scientific advances.

Series Returns To Yankee Stadium

NEW YORK (AP) — Considering the alternative, the Los Angeles Dodgers were happy to be back in New York for the sixth game of the 1977 World Series against the Yankees. The game starts at 7:15 p.m. CDT today.

The Dodgers, whistling past the graveyard, jolted the Yankees 10-4 Sunday, preventing New York from clinching the world championship and keeping the Series going. The victory meant a return to Yankee Stadium, which wasn't a very congenial place the last time Los Angeles visited.

Disorderly fans left the field strewn with debris after last Wednesday night's second game. Several missiles were hurled at players and some connected.

"I can't speak for the other guys," said Dodger second baseman Davey Lopes, "but speaking for myself, I'm gonna wear a hard hat out there."

Shortstop Bill Russell agreed. "I take that seriously, definitely. They do not his right index finger, would start Game Six. Martin told newsmen that Figueroa had thrown both Saturday and Sunday and that the pitcher felt fine.

But, apparently, Team Turmoil was suffering from a gap in communications. Figueroa seemed angry in the dressing room and refused to talk with reporters. Then, moments before the Yankee bus left Dodger Stadium to go to the airport, Martin announced he was switching to Torrez.

That would leave Ron Guidry, the Game Four winner, as a seventh game starter. Martin, however, isn't planning on that. "We're only going to play six," the Yankee skipper said.

Torrez will be working with three days rest which was his routine during a stretch of seven complete-game victories in midseason.

"I'm ready to go whenever he needs me," the big right-hander said. "There are no changes in my mind the way I would pitch against them. I pitched pretty good the first time."

The Dodgers knew that their fifth game victory would mean nothing unless they could win Game Six as well. "We have to win Tuesday," said Los Angeles manager Tom Lasorda. "They don't."

The Yankees, though, would obviously like to end it quickly.

"You've got to be happy winning two out of three here," said Martin as the Yankees left Los Angeles. "Maybe it's right that we should win it in our home park for our fans. But I would've taken it there."

Asked if he was still confident, Martin laughed.

"No," he said, "I'm scared to death."

Tech Hosts

WT Spikers

The Texas Tech women's volleyball team will play host to the West Texas State University spikers tonight starting at 7 p.m. in the women's gym.

The match will be the second of the season between the Raiders and the Buffaloes. Earlier this year, Tech downed WT 15-5 and 15-10.

Starting for the Janice Hudson coached Tech squad will be Connie Pittman, Barbara Lueke, Christy Cotton, Lisa Pipes, Lisa Love and Teresa Jones.

Tonight's games will be Tech's last at home this season. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for students without ID cards.

STARTER'S STRETCH—Mike Torrez, the starting pitcher for the New York Yankees in tonight's sixth game of the World Series, takes a smiling stretch in the Yankees' locker room Monday. Torrez was relaxing after the team's workout was called off because of rainy weather. The Yankees and Dodgers both arrived in New York early Monday after a five-hour flight from Los Angeles. The sixth game of the World Series will be played at Yankee Stadium tonight. (AP Laserphoto) have enough security there to control it," he said. "Fans like that don't deserve a ball club there the way they act."

Dusty Baker, who had three hits in Sunday's fifth game, admitted he was a little way of the fans. "I just hope they're all nice," he said. "I wouldn't throw at anybody and I hope they don't throw at me."

But Baker summed up the feelings of the Dodgers' return trip to New York best when he said, "It's better than going home for the winter."

That's what the Dodgers would have been doing if they had lost Sunday. But they battered Yankee starter Don Gullett, building a 10-run lead for Don Sutton, who coasted to the victory.

So Los Angeles stayed alive and the Dodgers will hand the baseball to Burt Hooton, the winning pitcher in Game Two, for tonight's contest. The Yankees will go with Game Three winner Mike Torrez.

Originally, Yankee manager Billy Martin announced that Ed Figueroa, who has been sidelined with a nerve problem in

Tech Climbs To 13th Spot

Avalanche-Journal News Services The Michigan Wolverines, who romped over Wisconsin to the strains of their fight song, "Hail to the Victors," and the Texas Longhorns, who struggled late into the game against Arkansas before the "Eyes of Texas" smiled upon them, remain the top two major college football teams in the nation in the eyes of both sports writers and college coaches.

Michigan, 6-0, swamped previously unbeaten Wisconsin 56-0, and received 47 first place votes and 1,100 points, while Texas, 5-0, a 13-9 winner over Arkansas with a late touchdown, got eight first-place ballots and 1,014 points Monday from a nationwide panel of 56 sports writers and sportscasters in The Associated Press poll.

In the United Press International list, selected by a panel of coaches, Michigan garnered 38 of a possible 42 first-place votes. Texas received the other four first-place ballots.

Otherwise, there was a big shakeup in the rest of the Top Ten, and Texas Tech climbed two notches to 13th in both polls following its 42-7 crushing of Rice.

Alabama, 4-1, followed its upset of Southern California by beating Tennessee 24-10 to move from fourth to third in AP with 811 points. Ohio State, 5-1, moved up from fifth to fourth with 700 points after beating Iowa 27-6. The No. 5 team is Southern California, 5-1, which got 638 points and advanced from sixth after beating Oregon 35-15.

Oklahoma, 5-1, also advanced a notch to sixth with 638 points after edging Missouri 21-17. Colorado, 5-0-1, dropped in AP from third to seventh with 431 points after a 17-17 tie with Kansas. The new No. 8 in AP is Kentucky, 5-1 and 369

Don Henry Don't Touch That Dial, It's . . .

FROM ACROSS THE room, it wasn't difficult to tell it was the Yankees versus the Dodgers, the announcers kept reminding, and the uniforms were thus identified.

But, these were new Dodgers and new Yankees. No more Walter Alston, and it almost seemed as if something were gone from the game without him. No more Maris and Mantle, Ford and Berra, Snider or Erskine. For some of us with a bit of gray on top—if any on top at all—those on the screen were different Dodgers and Yankees.

We've seen these guys in other World Series, though, they were wearing uniforms of the Oakland A's, the Cincinnati Reds, or someone else fortunate enough to sneak into the October Classic.

But, as Sunday's game unfolded, there were thoughts of some of those previous Yankee strolls to the World Championship, back when the Yankees were The Yankees, and, like 'em or not, you had to admit that the rest of the teams fell in another league, a couple of steps below the Bombers.

That was back when TV was something for people in the Big Cities, or featured in the appliance section at the Department Store.

Then, it was radio or nothing else—until a few scenes would pop up on the movie newsreels in another couple of weeks.

HUMBLE HOWIE KEPT reaching back into his index-card file for some of those "Golden Moments" when Mickey Owen dropped a third strike and the Dodgers snatched defeat from the jaws of victory, when Don Larsen made it look easy against only 27 batters, when Yogi Berra would swing at one even with his cap bill and drill it off the wall for a double and the go-ahead runs.

It wasn't perfect, but it was a no-hitter until Cookie Lavagetto doubled off the fence to not only spoil Floyd Bevens' no-hitter but also win one for the old Brooklyn Dodgers.

Today, through affluence and advances of technology, the World Series may have lost some of its glitter and aura. It's not so much the loss of those Berra-Campbell-Lopat-DiMaggio-Newcombe figures as much as familiarity.

WE CAN THANK Charlie Finley for the night Series games. He promoted night action for the Series and summer All-Star games, his thinking being that baseball owed it to the working stiffs who put in 7:30-to-5 every day on the loading dock or on a John Deere to let them see a little of the prime action.

He has done that, but, in a sense, he also has taken a layer of tradition off the sport. Just like "pie are not square; pie are round, cornbread are square," there's just something about playing the World Series in the afternoon. When the announcer told you that it was a bright, sunny day at Yankee Stadium, you knew all was right in the world.

Too. Back Then, there was not so much missing the Series as one would think. Out in the country, it may have taken a bit of vital juice out of the dry-cell battery, but in the barn or on the back porch, the radio would be on, Mel Allen or some other major-league announcer giving it to you straight, providing everything except peanuts and a souvenir foul ball.

Even at school, teachers would show compassion for a bunch of rowdies by allowing a radio, "just this once." Could be that he or she wanted to listen and the rowdies provided an excuse.

MEMORIES CAN SEND a guy back to the history books for verification, but no television can replace the word description of Enos Slaughter rounding third and scoring all the way from first on a single to left center by Harry Walker. Of course, everyone knew that if Dom DiMaggio had been playing center field completely healthy for the Red Sox, he could have rifled it all the way home, not needing a relay by Johnny Pesky at short.

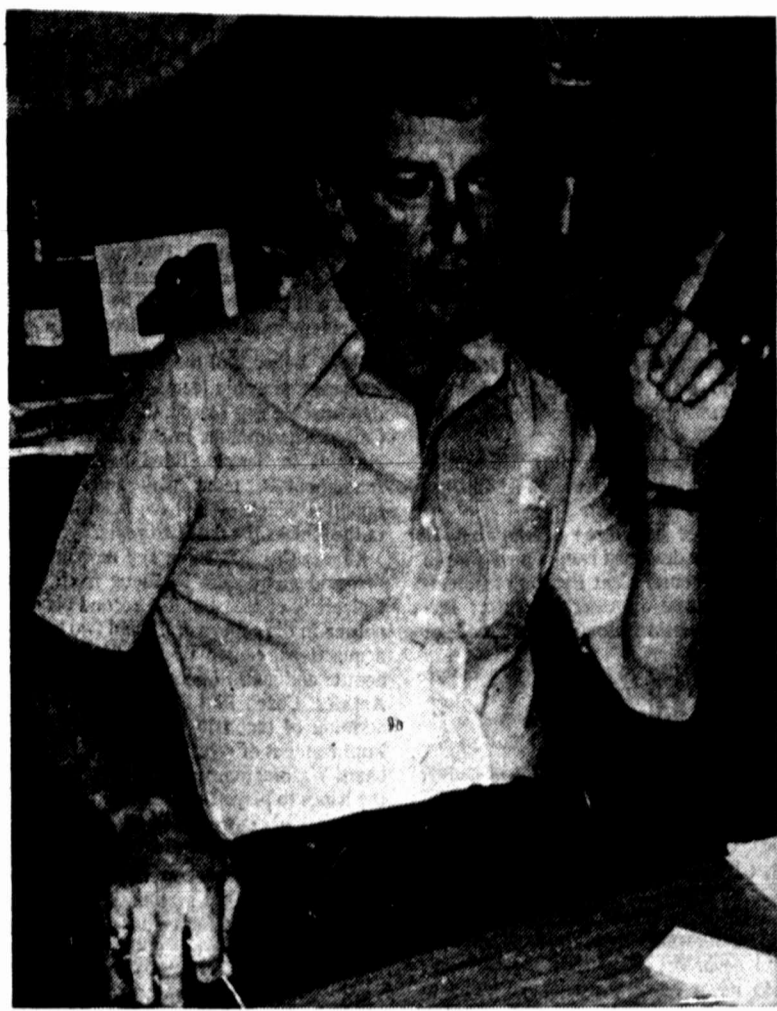

But, somewhere a radio would be blaring, if not in the classroom, at least the principal's office for between-class resumes, or at the hardware store, at the post office, or, for sure, at the filling station.

For all the description which had to go into it, there was little time left for off-the-field troubles. If Billy Martin got in a fight, it had to be at second base, not in the dugout or at a bar. For better or worse, seldom did one hear of his hero's problems with the chicks, sauce, police or front office.

Even if you heard it, you'd dismiss it: major leaguers fought for team, mom and apple pie and didn't worry about their monthly paycheck.

But, times change—ask the guy who still wears a crew-cut. Thurman Munson—not a Yogi Berra but not bad—makes it public he wants to be traded. Martin (without the humor of a Casey Stengel) pops off about Reggie Jackson, and Reggie replies openly.

Yes, you see it right there on your screen, folks. Looking backward, however, very few of us will admit to turning off the knob and digging out a dry-cell. Lavagetto took his double and his radio with him; you need the new Dodgers and Davey Lopes—the new classics—in living color.

ONE MORE — New York Yankees manager Billy Martin, already wearing one championship ring, indicates one more win will give the Bronx Bombers the World Series championship. The Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers both called off their workouts at Yankee Stadium Monday afternoon due to inclement weather. (AP Laserphoto)

Just how good a road team is the state's No. 9 ranked AA unit Slaton? Coach Ed Cook and the Tiger fans will find out the next few weeks as Slaton has three road encounters, including one Friday at Post. And Cook, despite the fact his chargers have compiled a 6-0 mark, feels this is a "must" win game for Slaton. "My feelings are that if you lose one, there's a good chance you're playing for a three-way split."
Asked if he was surprised at Frenship, which Slaton plays in two weeks, beating Post 21-20, Cook said "Not really. I've said all along this district is fairly even and that's the way it's been. We're not a fancy team, we're just sort of a basic ball club and I just feel we've got to win to stay in it (the district race)."

Slaton had only three defensive holdovers returning from a 9-1 club of a year ago, but Cook has mixed in nine new faces and that unit has allowed only 19 points — two TDs, two field goals and a PAT — in six games. "We're just running the plain old basic five defense," Cook points out, "but our linebackers (Michael Piwonka and Edward Kitten) have been doing a good job, which they have to do in this defense."
"Our secondary (Steve White, Steve Wood and Tim Bourn) all returned from last year and they've done a good job so far. They've got seven interceptions. And both our defensive ends (Stan White, Greg Jeffcoat) have been just super."
Slaton has nine two-way people, but thus far have been able to substitute quite often, as the 11-point decision in the rain against Littlefield has been Slaton's closest game.
"Our second-line troops have gotten a lot of playing time, that's right," Cook said. "We normally try to substitute three at a time and let them play with our first team. Against Abernathy (a 68-0 win) we substituted full teams. Against Denver City (a 60-0 win) we almost always had three second-teamers in there and it was our second entirely that scored the last two touchdowns."
Offensively, the Tigers had only guard Lonnie Ardrey and split end Bourn as returners. Cook has filled in with Jeffcoat at center, Tracy Angle at the other guard, Chris Mosser and Kevin Kerns at the tackles and Stan White at the other end.
In the backfield, Brad Eblen and John Johnson have developed into the top runners. Both play tailback at times, but Eblen moves to a fullback when Johnson is in the game. Piwonka also sees action in the tandem set offense, which three times this year has amassed right at 400 total yards for a game.
Cook admits "Our new youngsters have come around real well and evidently they're doing a pretty good job."

Woody Wants Replays

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Woody Hayes, Ohio State's explosive coach, has renewed a campaign for instant replays in college football.
Hayes' suggestion Monday came after officials ruled his freshman fullback, Joel Payton, was not in the end zone at Iowa Saturday. "Films show he scored," Hayes told newsmen at his weekly press conference.
The college coach of three decades says a team's captain should have the right to ask for a replay of a controversial ruling.
"If the replay had been as we said it was, we'd get the touchdown we deserved," said Hayes. "If not, we'd have been penalized five yards for delay of a game."
"If you ask twice and you're wrong, you would be penalized 15 yards."
Hayes asked himself a question: How can an official miss a call?
"Well, they miss it a lot of ways. If they're not just quite in position or two people are intervening between them and the play, it's impossible to work a perfect ball game," said Hayes.
The coach contends his proposal is in a state of inertia. "I don't think the official wants to be made to look wrong. The officials above them don't want to be made to look wrong either."
"Yet in any court in this country," he said, "you do have a chance to have a reconsideration of your case."
Hayes' request for instant replays follows on the heels of a move toward similar devices for professional baseball and football.
In the opening World Series game last week, umpire Nestor Chylak called Los Angeles Dodger Steve Garvey out at home plate. Television replays showed Garvey was safe, prompting the media to advocate use of the electronic scheme to settle controversies.
"Wick Temple, general sports editor of The Associated Press, said an official should be set up in a box with a TV set. Temple said the official could tell those on the field what he saw in the replay and they would make the final decision."
Hayes also blasted home fans who yell while a visiting quarterback barks signals near the home goal line.
"It's downright dishonest to allow the crowd to yell at the goal line. I'm vehemently opposed to it," he said. "I hope your crowd doesn't stoop to that."
Looking ahead to host Northwestern this week, Hayes said, "We don't dare side up. We never, never figure on an easy game from anyone we're playing."
Ohio State is ranked among the nation's top five and has won five of its six games. Northwestern is 0-6 this fall.

NOT BASEBALL WEATHER—Yankee Stadium groundskeepers use brooms to sweep water from the tarp covering the infield Monday afternoon in New York. Workouts for tonight's sixth game of the World Series were cancelled after a day of rain and cold weather. (AP Laserphoto)

Hooton Plans Slippery Stuff

NEW YORK (AP) — The last time Burt Hooton faced the New York Yankees, he beat them with a solid game plan and a slippery knuckle-curve ball — and he says the American League champions will get more of both tonight in the sixth game of the World Series.
"I'm going to try to keep Mickey Rivers and Willie Randolph off the bases," said the Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Monday on the eve of his must-win assignment. "I think we'll be in good shape if I can do that."
Rivers and Randolph are the 1-2 batters in the New York lineup and usually set the table for a Murderer's Row of left-handed hitters.
Hooton's ability to keep Rivers and Randolph in check was one of the reasons the blond right-hander was able to whip the Yankees 6-1 with a five-hitter in the second game of the championship at Yankee Stadium last Wednesday night. Another reason was the wicked knuckle-curve, Hooton's No. 1 pitch.
"The Yankees looked as if they had never seen the thing before," said Bill Russell, the Los Angeles shortstop who along with Hooton and manager Tom Lasorda featured an off-day news conference Monday.
Hooton hopes that still will be the case tonight, since the Dodgers trail 3-2 in the best-of-seven Series and have to win to stay alive in the cross-country matchup.
"I don't enjoy pitching in cold weather," said Hooton, referring to a forecast that predicted cool and clear weather with temperatures in the 40s. "But I can't worry about that. I have to just go out and pitch the best way I know how. The weather will be just as much a disadvantage for the hitters. I don't think many of them like hitting in weather like that, anyway."

Hooton, as a matter of fact, may have an advantage in the cold-weather situation because of his style. He enjoys mixing inside fastballs with his knuckler.
"That can sting the hands," he said.
The Dodgers, though down by a game, would seem to have an advantage of sorts over the Yankees in that their pitching staff is well rested. Hooton will be working with five days' rest and the Yankees' sixth-game pitcher, Mike Torrez, will be going with only three.
Then, if a seventh game is necessary, Tommy John will have four days' rest against the Yankees' Ron Guidry, who will have had only three days off.

Lasorda seemed to agree that the Dodgers have a slight edge. "We're fortunate that we've had five solid starters all season," Lasorda said, "and this helps our rotation in the Series. Hooton is an outstanding pitcher, of course, and he'll be strong for this game."
The optimistic Lasorda, submerging any thoughts of a Yankees victory, looked ahead to a seventh game. "And in the seventh game," he added without hesitation, "we'll have big TJ going for us with four days' rest. That's an unbeatable combination."

Figueroa Denies Rumor Of Leaving Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees right-hander Ed Figueroa branded rumors that he had jumped the team "a misunderstanding" Monday and said he would be with the club for Game 6 of the World Series tonight.
Figueroa, reportedly upset over being replaced as the New York starter against the Los Angeles Dodgers for tonight's game by Mike Torrez, cleaned out his locker at Yankee Stadium early Monday. There were reports he had left the team but Figueroa denied them.

"I asked Billy Martin on the plane coming home last night if I could go home to Puerto Rico today since I wasn't going to pitch," said Figueroa. "He gave me permission so I went there (Yankee Stadium) and packed. Then I came back to my hotel and I heard he was saying that I left the club."
"But he gave me permission. It is just a misunderstanding."
The flap, the latest in a seemingly endless series of disputes involving the Yankees this season, began after Sunday's game when Martin was asked to name his pitcher for Game 6. He named Figueroa, who has not pitched in more than a week due to a sore finger.
But moments before leaving for the airport from Dodger Stadium, Martin changed his mind and said Torrez, the winner in Game 3, would pitch for the Yanks. Martin said he changed his mind "when I checked with the doctor and two trainers and I found out he didn't let them know he was 100 per cent. That's why I'm in the middle."
"I know he wants to pitch, but I'm not going to take a chance and put a man out there who is not 100 per cent in a big game," said Martin. "He probably feels bad not being able to pitch. The guy has a lot of pride and I can't fault him. He's a proud man."

Unruly Fans Face Threat Of Charges

NEW YORK (AP) — The World Series moving back to the Big Apple may be a sweet happening for Dodger fans but it's a big headache for New York police who have to control the unruly Yankee Stadium crowds.
In Game 2 at Yankee Stadium last Wednesday, Reggie Smith, the Dodgers' right fielder, was beamed by a hard rubber ball thrown from the upper deck. Smith said he had been ducking oranges and apples but was afraid that the next ball from the upper deck might be a hard one.
Smith suffered spasms of the neck and back from the beaming and called the fan behavior "ridiculous." In other episodes in New York during Games 1 and 2, fans ran onto the field, chanting curse words in unison, and bombarded the Dodger bullpen with various dangerous missiles.
Dodger pitchers said they were afraid to run near the stands in warmups before the game. As a result of the fans' throws, the bullpen car carrying relievers to the mound avoids the dirt warming path near the stands and drives on the field.
The contrast between the fans in New York and Los Angeles was particularly vivid after the three games on the West Coast were played without incident.
"I wouldn't want to single New York out. It's a matter of geography," baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn said in an interview with The Associated Press. "The cities of the Northeast present more of a problem."
"I think we have to keep stepping up our security arrangements. I know the Yankees are utilizing maximum security arrangements. Of course, there is always room for more sophistication in this area."

unruly crowd behavior. He was bloodied by a thrown bottle in Oakland after the final game of the 1973 World Series.

Angels Appoint Third Base Coach

ANAHEIM (AP) — John McNamara, former manager of the Oakland A's and San Diego Padres, has been appointed as third base coach for the California Angels, the American League team announced Monday.
McNamara, 45, replaces Del Crandall, who was released last week.
A catcher and playing manager for 15 minor league seasons, McNamara began his major league career in 1968 as a coach at Oakland. He was appointed manager the final week of the 1969 season and guided the A's to an 89-73 record and second place in the American League West in 1970.
McNamara, a native of Sacramento, was a coach for the San Francisco Giants from 1971-73 before taking the managerial job at San Diego prior to the 1974 season. He was replaced by Alvin Dark last May 30.

Harris Points To Possibility Of Best Team

DALLAS (AP) — The unbeaten Dallas Cowboys, springing such surprises as rookie runningback Tony Dorsett throwing passes, are threatening to run away with the National Conference Division if they can stay healthy.

The Cowboys learned Monday that cornerback Aaron Kyle will be lost five weeks because of a wrist fractured in two places in Sunday's 34-16 battering of the rival Washington Redskins.

"Barring injuries this could be the greatest of the Cowboy teams," said safety Cliff Harris. "Boy, I tell you it looks strange to see all these young players in our offensive line out there with old man (right tackle) Ralph Neely playing like veterans."

Harris said Monday the defensive line was playing so well that "I didn't even get much contact against the Redskins. I feel pretty bad today, but it was because I stayed up late last night celebrating."

"I certainly felt sorry for Washington's quarterbacks in the fourth quarter the way our front four was storming in there. I wanted an interception but they couldn't get the ball off."

Harris said the Cowboys went through the "toughest off-season conditioning program we've ever had. That's bound to have some effect in the fourth quarter. This team just has the ability to maintain pressure until the other team breaks. The defense never lets down."

Dallas, at 5-0, is one of three unbeaten teams remaining in the National Football League and the only one in the NFC. The Cowboys are two games ahead of Washington and three in front of St. Louis in the usually wild, wild NFC East.

Cowboy coach Tom Landry put yet another new wrinkle into the Dallas offense Sunday with Dorsett running to his left and passing.

"We thought we could cross them up since he (Dorsett) is a right-handed thrower," said Dallas wide receiver Drew Pearson. "It was an excellent pass. He's not a Roger Staubach but he's got potential."

Dorsett, who was held to only 51 yards rushing by Washington, which was shadowing his every move, winged a perfect spiral to Pearson for a 34-yard gain that set up a vital touchdown.

"I should have scored," said Pearson, who stepped out of bounds. "I didn't know I was that close to the sideline."

Harris said he didn't see any letdown in the Cowboys' future schedule and added, "If we have any letdown you'll see me making a lot of tackles. I really don't want to have to do that."

Dorsett, who was held to only 51 yards rushing by Washington, which was shadowing his every move, winged a perfect spiral to Pearson for a 34-yard gain that set up a vital touchdown.

Pro Basketball Season Begins

By The Associated Press

The Milwaukee Bucks unveil their super-rookies against Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers and ex-captain Willis Reed makes his coaching debut with the New York Knicks against the revamped Kansas City Kings as the National Basketball Association opens its 32nd season tonight.

Five games are scheduled for opening night, the first five in a 902-game season that runs through April 9. And that's just the regular season; as many as 61 more playoff games involving 12 of the NBA's 22 teams will be needed before a league champion is crowned.

It took the Portland Trail Blazers 101 games to win the NBA title last season, when they beat Philadelphia four games to two in the playoff finals. This year they'll be trying to become the first team to win consecutive championships since Boston did it in 1968-69. Portland opens its season Friday night at Seattle.

Tonight's schedule lists Los Angeles at Milwaukee, Kansas City at New York, Chicago at Cleveland, New Jersey at Detroit and Golden State at Phoenix.

Abdul-Jabbar, the league's Most Valuable Player last year, has a largely new supporting cast on the Lakers, who compiled the best record during the 1976-77 regular season only to be swept by Portland in the playoff semifinals.

Among the new faces, one rookie, forward Kenny Carr, is injured and will be lost to the club for at least a month, but other rookies like guards Brad Davis and Norm Nixon and backup center James Edwards loom large in Laker plans. Los Angeles went shopping during the off-season and signed forward Jamaal Wilkes as a free agent, bought playmaker Ernie DiGregorio from Buffalo and traded for veteran swingman Lou Hudson of Atlanta.

Whether these newcomers will significantly reduce the pressure on Abdul-Jabbar remains to be seen.

Milwaukee had three of the first 11 picks in the draft and came up with three beauties—center Kent Benson of Indiana, a two-time all-America center; forward Marques Johnson of UCLA, college Player of the Year last winter, and swingman Ernie Grunfeld, the leading scorer and rebounder in Tennessee history.

Those three blend with young veterans Brian Winters, Quinn Buckner, Junior Bridgeman and Dave Meyers to make the Bucks a future contender. The big question is how soon they'll develop.

Reed, bulwark of the Knicks' 1970 and 1973 championship teams, is one of three new coaches this season, the others being Cotton Fitzsimmons in Buffalo and Bob Hopkins in Seattle. Reed has stressed fundamentals, team play and hustle, qualities which often have been lacking in the Knicks the past two years.

Kansas City has three key newcomers—rookie guard Otis Birdsong from the University of Houston, the second player chosen in the college draft, and two trade acquisitions, center Tom Burlison from Seattle and guard Lucius Allen from Los Angeles. Coach Phil Johnson hopes the addition of that trio, plus the expected improvement of second-year forward Richard Washington, will be enough to lift the Kings to playoff contention.

Chicago, the hottest team in the league the final month of last season when it won 16 of its last 20 games, hopes to carry that over into this season. Coach Ed Badger is looking for center Artis Gilmore to develop into one of the dominant players in the league.

After a decade with the Knicks, where he became the club's all-time leader in games, minutes, points and assists, Walt Frazier will be in uniform for the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The Nets play their first regular season NBA game as representatives of New Jersey, the state where the franchise first was located in the American Basketball Association nine years ago. They've strengthened their front line with forwards Bernard King and Bob Carrington and center George Johnson.

Detroit once again has plenty of talent on its roster, but it will be up to coach Herb Brown to get the club to play together and avoid the divisive bickering which marred last season.

Golden State is expecting big things from first-round draft choice Ricky Green from Michigan, but another rookie guard, last-round draft choice Ricky Marsh, has been a pleasant surprise. Phoenix also has some key newcomers, most prominently NBA assists and steals champion Don Buse from Indiana and rookie forward Walter Davis.

Injuries Plague Archibald

BUFFALO (AP) — After suffering his third major injury in five years, the Buffalo Braves' Nate Archibald is beginning to wonder if he's been healed.

As he did arm-strengthening exercises and kept one eye on Mighty Mouse's exploits on the television above his hospital bed, the playmaking guard discussed Monday the frustration of his latest injury, a torn Achilles' tendon.

"It's depressing because I was looking forward to playing with the new team. This is the most talent I've ever had around me. We were just starting to mold into a team. I just feel real unfortunate," said Archibald, acquired two months ago from the New York Nets.

Archibald broke his foot last season, and during his 1973-74 season with the Kansas City Kings he missed 47 games with a strained Achilles' tendon.

"I was driving in for a layup and I stepped on the back of a foot, and when I twisted off it, I heard something snap. I knew what it was, because I'd been through that before."

"I don't know what you can pinpoint all the injuries on. I guess they don't make guys tough in the Bronx any more," the New York City native said with a laugh.

Archibald, who said he hopes to be back in action by January, plans to make the most of his convalescence. He said he'll run and work out, speak to youngsters at Buffalo area high schools and even get married.

"I'm still single," he told his visitor. "But that might change in a few days."

He said he wants to honeymoon with his new wife, who is from Omaha, at Niagara Falls.

"You know, I've lived in New York all my life and never been to the Empire State Building. Now that I'm in Buffalo, I've got to see the Falls," he said.

More seriously, Archibald added, "Maybe the two of us can bind our faith together and get through all these injuries."

Teammates Billy Knight and John Shu-mate brought Archibald a box of candy, but it lay untouched.

"I'm not going to let myself balloon up. Last time I got hurt I got up to 205 pounds (he usually stretches 165 pounds over his 6-foot-one frame)," he said.

If he does, though, Archibald can use the rubber warm-up suit he used before.

"I never get rid of anything like that. You never know when you're going to need it. I've still got a set of crutches in New York, too," he added, smiling.

WAC Honor Copped By Utah Defender

DENVER (AP) — Utah defensive end Guy Morrell spilled Utah State ballcarriers twice unassisted, intercepted a pass and forced a fumble in leading the Redskins to a 20-0 victory over the black-clad Aggies Saturday.

He won Western Athletic Conference Defensive Player of the Week honors Monday.

The 6-3, 195-pound junior was the main reason for the shutout, the first Utah has recorded over an opponent since 1970.

He set up the first Utah score, a field goal, when he intercepted a pass. Then he forced a Utah State fumble at the Aggie 20 to set up the final touchdown of the game.

He had seven assisted tackles and two fumbles for 13 yards in losses.

Lakers Cut Russell; Denver Drops Beck

By The Associated Press

Cazzie Russell, one of the National Basketball Association's more notable names for more than a decade, was among several players cut Monday as the teams reached the 12-player opening-day limit.

Russell, an 11-year NBA veteran with a career scoring average of 15.4 points per game, was placed on waivers by the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Lakers were the third team for the 33-year-old forward, who previously played for the New York Knicks and Golden State Warriors. Russell was on the final year of a no-cut contract at an estimated $200,000 a year, which must be paid if the three-time University of Michigan all-America isn't claimed by another club.

In addition to waiving Russell, the Lakers traded rookie forward Tony Robertson to the Atlanta Hawks for a future draft choice and placed Kenny Carr, another forward, on the injured list.

Among other players cut as NBA squads got down to the limit for the season which opens tonight were: Portland guard Herm Gilliam; New Orleans center Otto Moore; Chicago forward Cliff Pondexter; Detroit center Roger Brown; Washington guard Coniel Norman and Denver forward Byron Beck.

Gilliam, 30, who has played eight seasons in the NBA with five teams, was the oldest player on the Trail Blazers' roster. Gilliam, who has averaged 9.3 points in his NBA career, had a 9.3 average for last season's league champions.

The 6-foot-11 Moore became expendable at New Orleans when the Jazz acquired center Joe Mervin from Atlanta last week. Moore, 31, a draft choice from Pan American by the Detroit Pistons in 1968, had been a periodic starter for the Jazz and has his best season there in 1975 with 9.0 points and 9.8 rebounds a game.

The muscular, 6-foot-9 Pondexter, chosen by the Bulls in the first round of the 1974 draft out of Long Beach State, averaged 4.5 points in his two years in the league.

Brown, a five-year NBA veteran, was among three players cut by the Pistons, who also waived guard Louie Nelson and forward Don Adams. Norman, 24, had been drafted by the Philadelphia 76ers and sat out last season before trying out with Washington this year.

Over his decade with Denver, the 6-9 Beck averaged nearly 13 points per game. He was one of two remaining American Basketball Association players in pro basketball. Louie Dampier, now with the San Antonio Spurs, is the other.

Elsewhere, the Phoenix Suns released rookie free agent Freeman Blade and second-year forward Butch Feher; the Golden State Warriors waived forwards Marlon Redmond and Neil Jurgenson; the Milwaukee Bucks placed swingman Chuck Goodyear on waivers and the Seattle SuperSonics cut rookies Ricky Brown, Billy Reynolds and Dennis Shaffer.

In another NBA off-court development on the eve of opening night, free agent Gus Williams signed a three-year contract with the Seattle SuperSonics. The 6-2 guard played out his option last season with Golden State.

Cosell Brands Fight 'Joke'

NEW YORK (AP) — A Philadelphia sports writer said Monday he was struck several times by sportscaster Howard Cosell on an airplane, but Cosell called the claim a joke and said he gave the writer "a friendly chuck under the chin."

Stan Hochman of the Philadelphia Daily News said the incident occurred just before the midnight CDT flight from Los Angeles to New York after the fifth game of the World Series.

Hochman said he was buckled into his seat when Cosell came down the aisle and, after a verbal exchange, "He reached over with his left hand and whacked me hard on the right ear at least four times, maybe five."

WTT HONORS EVERT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chris Evert of the Phoenix Racquets won her second consecutive women's most valuable player award in World Team Tennis, WTT Commissioner Butch Buchholz announced Monday. Miss Evert was the overwhelming choice of the WTT writers although she was runner-up to Martina Navratilova of the Boston Lobsters in number of women's singles matches won during the last season.

Cosell was unavailable for comment Monday night but an ABC spokesman quoted him as saying "It was utterly insane, a joke."

Hochman called it "a lot worse than that" and said he told a flight attendant he wanted to file a formal complaint. He also said Cosell said later in the flight, "Stan, I want to apologize. I was only playing around."

Hochman said there was no police when the plane landed in New York but a policeman, summoned by an airline supervisor, told him he should have filed a complaint in Los Angeles since it occurred at that airport and that New York had no jurisdiction.

Cavern Provides Visitors Unique Tour

(Editors Note: This is the second installment of a two-part series featuring the commercial caverns near Boerne.)

By JEFF W. HENDERSON
A-J Correspondent

In looking at a map of Texas, no where you find listed a 90-foot waterfall not far from San Antonio near the town of Boerne.

It's just not listed. But, it's there. To see it, you have to be 190 feet underground in Cascade Caverns.

And, the Cascade Caverns are marked on Texas highway maps. The caverns and associated park are about two miles south of Boerne just off U.S. 87 (Interstate 10).

The water comes from an underground river, gushing through a small opening at the back of a large cathedral room.

It collects on the floor of the chamber, forming a rather large underground pool.

John Bridges, the manager, quickly pointed out that through a system of pumps, the water is taken from the cave.

As you look at the pool of water, you will discover a pipe sticking up. Without explanation, you quickly conclude that the pipe is a part of the water removal system.

It isn't. The pipe is the entrance to a lower portion of the caverns—a part not on the regular tour.

"It goes down to some room we take groups to on special tours," said Bridges. "We schedule a trip down usually once a month, but a large enough group can make special arrangements for the lower level tour."

Bridges noted that the explorer of the lower level had to be willing to get muddy, for the area is undeveloped—there are no wide, paved pathways to walk on.

"What we do on the special

In discussing Cascade Caverns, Bridges said about 50 per cent of the cave area is on the regular tour. The group tour on the lower level takes in about 25 per cent more of the cave, with the remaining 25 per cent of the explored cave being visited only by spelunking groups.

Bridges said, "We teach spelunking here, emphasizing proper equipment and safety measures. This is the only cave in Texas, the only commercial cave, where spelunking is taught on a regular basis."

The Alamo Area Grotto (a caving club) members use Cascade Caverns for training exercises. Spelunking classes from St. Mary's University in San Antonio also use the cave for rappelling lessons and safety lectures.

The entrance to Cascade Caverns lends itself to learning the technique of rappelling, for the entrance is at the bottom of a deep, narrow sinkhole. The tours wind down a series of stairways to the bottom of the pit and the iron door at the entrance.

The spelunker comes down to the iron door through a natural chimney. About two-thirds of the rappelling is done with the caver relying only on his rope and equipment, for the walls of the chimney widen as it gets close to the bottom.

It's not hard to get someone from one of the classes to give a rappelling demonstration.

Incidentally, as you are walking down the steps to the entrance, pay attention to the guide. There is a cave entrance up near the top of the sinkhole he will point out.

According to legend, a hermit lived in the small cave up near the top about a hundred years ago. The book, The Hermit of the Caverns, is about the man who is supposed to have been rejected by his lover and who fled to the sanctity of the upper level of Cascade Caverns.

The caverns were developed in 1932 and have been open to the public almost continuously since then. An occasional flood—a torrential downpour sometimes drops enough water into the small feeder canyons that lead

You have nothing to fear on a tour of the Cascade Caverns. Enjoy the beauty created through natural violence.

To arrange a special group tour of the lower level of the cave (down through the tube), write to John or Gladys Bridges, Rt. 1, Box 57A, Boerne, 78006; or call 512-756-9285.

Cascade Caverns are open every day with tours every 30 minutes, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the summer and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the winter.

Go stand in the "Cathedral Room" and listen to the roar of the waterfall. You'll find it hard to leave.

He continued, "Then, we take the group on the regular tour of the caverns, ending up in front of the waterfall. To see the lower level, we have to go through the tube (the pipe sticking out of the pond)."

Castro Rally Stirs Political Storm In Jamaica

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica (AP) — A rally featuring Cuban President Fidel Castro here Monday stirred a political storm Monday as the opposition party complained that the gathering was only a show of support for Prime Minister Michael Manley's socialist government.

Castro is on a 6-day state visit to this Caribbean island.

Full-page advertisements in local newspapers featuring pictures of Castro and Manley urged Jamaicans to attend the rally in Sam Sharpe Square, named for the leader of an 1831 slave rebellion who is one of Jamaica's major national heroes.

A government official predicted a turnout of more than 100,000.

The opposition Jamaica Labor party, which is boycotting Castro's visit, issued a statement protesting "the misuse of public funds to stage a mass Peoples' National party rally in the name of the nation and which is to be addressed by a Communist leader." Manley heads the Peoples' National party.

In an editorial Monday, the Daily Gleaner said: "We agree that a government-sponsored rally should not be used for political purposes and hope indeed that Mr. Manley will ask our guest Dr. Castro to be sensitive to the principles of our two-party system in his speech this afternoon."

Security for Castro's visit has been the tightest ever seen for a dignitary visiting Jamaica.

Castro was awarded the Order of Jamaica, the nation's highest honor for foreigners, at a ceremony shortly after his arrival Sunday night and Manley hailed him as "a national hero of Cuba."

Manley's news secretary said Castro met with officials Monday morning before flying to this north coast resort on a Jamaican military plane. He was to remain here overnight.

Castro is the second Marxist head of state to visit Jamaica in two weeks. President Samora Machel of Mozambique stopped here 10 days ago on his way to Cuba.

Machel sparked a political flap with a speech in which he called on Jamaicans to begin "killing the bourgeoisie when it is still in the egg."

The Labor party accused Machel of meddling in the island's internal affairs.

Jamaica's ties with Cuba have been improving steadily since Manley's socialist government was elected in 1972. After Manley visited Cuba in 1975, relations be-between the countries were upgraded to the ambassadorial level.

In recent years, the Cubans have sponsored a number of projects in Jamaica including a $2.7 million agricultural secondary school near Kingston, the Jamaican capital. Hundreds of Jamaican youths have been trained in construction techniques in Cuba.

The Cuban's program in Jamaica appeared to part of Castro efforts to extend Cuban influence among its neighboring islands in the Caribbean. However, some Caribbean leaders have been leery of Castro's aid because of Cuban military intervention in African.

Judge Shucks Robes For Jeans, Tromps In Forest To Decide Well Drilling Case

ATLANTA, Mich. (AP) — Shucking his robes for a flannel shirt and jeans, a judge tromped past swamps, streams and wooden bridges in a remote Michigan forest Monday to help him decide whether to allow gas and oil companies to drill more wells in the forest.

Judge Thomas Brown, who sits in Ingham County Circuit Court in Mason, just outside Lansing, traveled 200 miles to the northernmost area of the state's Lower Peninsula for a first-hand look at the 96,000-acre Pigeon River County State Forest.

Trailing him on his walk were about 20 attorneys, reporters and agents for the state Natural Resources Department, which is being sued by environmentalists who want to block permits already issued that would allow expanded drilling.

To enable him to see several of the widely scattered wells and proposed well sites, Brown rode part of the way in a four-wheel drive vehicle owned by the resources department.

Frost covered the ground and a thin layer of ice coated puddles as the tour began near dawn, but by noon a bright sun was melting the cold. Low autumn rains filtered through birch maple and basswood branches, now nearly bare of leaves which carpeted the forest floor.

The first stop, picked by the environmentalists' attorneys, was on the outskirts of the forest at a producing well which filled the crisp air with a clanging. "You have to see a good well now, judge," said Shell Oil Co. attorney Webb Smith after the group had listened for a few moments.

They walked back into a tract of scrubby aspen trees, which not long ago were cut over to improve the deer habitat. They hiked far up a hardwood ridge, edged by small ravines, to examine a site in a hilltop clearing. Later they stopped at a group of producing wells which emitted only a low hum and a faint rumble from a compressor. As the group peered around for survey stakes, lawyers explained that each new site would require a clearing about 50 yards across.

Brown later said he was impressed by the handful of proposed sites he examined — on high ground away from surface waters and well back from existing trails. He said the department "has done an excellent job in picking the sites I've seen so far. I am impressed with the dedication and care going into the project."

The rugged terrain, crossed only by two gravel roads and a series of trails, has a variety of wildlife — including the only wild elk herd east of the Mississippi. Sports enthusiasts use it for fishing, hunting, hiking, camping, nature observation, berry picking and cross-country skiing.

Brown, 45, himself an outdoorsman who has hunted in Pigeon River, began his tour from a courthouse on the edge of the forest. He had left it to attorneys for the environmentalists, the state and the oil companies to determine what parts of the forest he saw.

"The idea is to give the court an idea of what the area looks like — a picture is worth a thousand words," he said. "Anytime you can view the matter under controversy, it's helpful."

Roger Conner, attorney for the West Michigan Environmental Action Council, which filed the suit, said the main thing he wanted was "for the judge to have something he can relate to when he hears people describe various parts of the forest."

Brown said his family has vacationed near the forest since 1940.

"I got lost in Pigeon River one time," he recalled. "I kept going in a circle and coming back to the same dumb four corners."

Court arguments return to Mason on Tuesday as attorneys for the environmentalists begin calling witnesses to testify on how the state sold drilling leases in the forest in 1968. They contend state officials did not properly review the leases before issuing them.

About six wells are operating now in the semiwilderness area in Cheboygan, Montmorency and Otsego counties. Natural Resources Director Howard Tanner has approved 10 permits to drill in the forest, but drilling has been delayed until December under a state moratorium during the elk mating season.

The permits were approved under a 1976 agreement between the state and three oil companies. According to the permits, Shell Oil Co. can drill for all three firms in the southern third of the forest under tight restrictions to protect the ecology of the woods.

But environmentalists argue that any new drilling will damage the forest and that the state has the obligation of considering other drilling sites before approving development in Pigeon River.

Highway Plans Revealed

CHILDRESS — Important highway improvements may be in the offing for Childress.

Lewis White, district engineer for the Texas Highway Department here, told city council members at a recent meeting that his department is researching the possibilities of several projects in the city.

He discussed a highway department intention to relieve rush-hour traffic problems on busy U.S. 287, which runs through the city, by construction of a continuous left-turn lane.

A major project under consideration, the engineer said, is construction of a railroad overpass to connect the north and south sections of the city. Childress now has only one outlet to bypass railroad tracks: an underpass on U.S. 83 at the west edge of the city.

But the project is not without major problems, White said.

The engineer estimated cost of the overpass at half a million dollars more, and said securing enough land in the city for clearance of the railroad tracks is another major drawback.

A third highway department project under consideration has drawn objection from officials of the Forth Worth and Denver Railroad here.

White said plans are underway to surface a presently unpaved section of 5th Street. The area connects the northwest and southwest parts of the city, but also involves the nearby Burlington switching yards.

Merit Attracts Large Numbers of High Tar Smokers.

Low tar MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco gaining solid support from "taste" smokers.

Most current MERIT smokers have come directly from high tar cigarettes.

It's clear: low tar MERIT is delivering the kind of taste that can satisfy high tar smokers, the toughest "taste" critics of low tar smoking.

The reason is a real advance in tobacco technology that results in a way to boost natural tobacco flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

It's called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT and MERIT 100's

Kings: 8 mg "tar," 0.6 mg nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Aug. 77
100's: 12 mg "tar," 0.9 mg nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

REGULAR and MENTHOL

are packed with this special tobacco.

And both were taste-tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.
