DOWNING RICE — A&M plays Rice today, and to show how ferociously they're going to smite the Owls, the Aggies have this little drill: they see who can eat the most Rice Crispies in two minutes. Here Kathryn Goff of Belton is shown as she ingested three bowls of the stuff, but the defending champion, Alan Perkins, won again by eating a record near five bowlsful. Really. The action, if that's not too dignified a term, was at College Station. (AP Laserphoto)

Scattered, Light Thundershowers Due To Play Encore Across Region Today

AFTER A WEEKLONG dry spell, scattered thundershowers cropped up across the South Plains Friday morning, heralding a trend that should continue throughout the weekend, according to National Weather Service forecasters.

Partly cloudy skies prevailed over most of Texas Friday but rainfall amounts across the South Plains were light. Officially, Lubbock recorded .04 of an inch of rain Friday. The most rainfall in the region was in Littlefield, where .08 of an inch of moisture was reported.

A vivid electrical display accompanied the storm as it moved across an area north of Lubbock. Levelland recorded .03 of an inch of rain Friday morning while Morton, Olton, Idalou, Floydada, Lockney and Lamesa received only a trace of rainfall. The unexpected rainfall was triggered by a weak cold front which reached the northern part of the Panhandle early Friday and by moisture moving in from the Gulf of Mexico, NWS officials said.

These two factors, plus a low pressure trough west of the Panhandle, produced the widely scattered showers and thunderstorms which were slowly moving to the east late Friday.

Forecasters are predicting the same weather pattern today, with the chance of rain across the South Plains listed at 40 per cent. The probability of rainfall should increase to 50 per cent tonight.

Lubbock's high temperature reading Friday climbed to 79 degrees despite the partly cloudy skies. However, forecasters are calling for a high today in the upper 60s. Tonight's low should be in the lower 50-degree range.

By late Friday afternoon the strongest thundershowers in the state were in the Abilene area. Brief periods of heavy rainfall and strong, gusty winds were accompanying the thunderstorms.

The heaviest thundershowers in the area Friday were in the Clarendon area, northeast of Lubbock. Elsewhere across the South Plains, scattered cloudiness dominated the skies but produced little moisture.

Temperatures elsewhere across the state Friday were in the 80-degree range.

The extended weather outlook for Lubbock and vicinity calls for even cooler temperatures Sunday, with high readings "near 60."

Carter Urges Arms Transfer To Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter asked Congress Friday to allow the United States to turn over $800 million worth of tanks, missiles and other equipment to South Korea to offset military deficiencies stemming from the withdrawal of U.S. troops.

The transfer would be made without any reimbursement from the government in Seoul.

In seeking congressional approval, required by law for the transfer of U.S. military equipment to a foreign nation, Carter reaffirmed his commitment to withdraw the ground troops from South Korea over the next four or five years.

Other Equipment
In addition to the tanks and anti-tank missiles, the equipment includes helicopters, artillery, radar, and ammunition, the White House said.

The equipment is now being used by the U.S. troops in South Korea, although the sophisticated M60 tanks the Americans are using there will be replaced by less-advanced M48 tanks, some of which are currently being used by the South Koreans.

The transfer is being sought, according to National Security Council staff member Michael Armacost, "to offset the consequences of our withdrawal, to offset any deficiencies in Korean defenses arising out of the withdrawal."

Basis Of Estimate
Armacost stressed that the $800 million figure, which Carter used in a letter to Congress seeking approval of the action, was an estimate based on the predicted replacement costs and anticipated inflation.

Carter said in the letter that he planned to withdraw 6,000 troops by the end of 1978. The Pentagon said Friday there are 40,000 U.S. ground and air troops in South Korea.

The U.S. air troops will remain in South Korea, along with some Army troops providing communications, intelligence and logistic support for the U.S. Air Force contingent there and the Republic of Korea military.

Armacost said the equipment would be turned over to the South Koreans in conjunction with the withdrawal, which Carter promised during his presidential campaign. The turnover would not be completed until the withdrawal is finished in 1981 or 1982.

Carter said in his letter that the legislation he proposed to carry out the transfer "is designed to help make certain that Korean defense capabilities are not weakened by our ground force withdrawal."

The President's letter was released at the White House while Carter was on the first day of a two-and-one-half day cross-country trip.

As he has in other statements related to the troop withdrawal, Carter took the opportunity to reiterate a warning to the Soviet Union, China and North Korea that the withdrawal should not be taken as a relaxing of the U.S. position. The warning could also serve to counter any opposition among conservative members of Congress to the withdrawal.

"We have made it clear to both the People's Republic of China and the Soviet Union that the withdrawal decision signals no weakening of our commitment," Carter told Congress. "The North Korean government should be in no doubt about our position."

Carter also said, however, that "even with this no-cost transfer, the withdrawal will require the Korean government to devote a larger share of its financial resources, both foreign exchange and local currency, to defense."

Carter said the equipment transfer would ease the fiscal burden of the troop withdrawal so that it could be met "without diverting excessive resources from

DAVID BERKOWITZ

Berkowitz Held Able For Trial

NEW YORK (AP) — David R. Berkowitz will stand trial for the slaying of a Brooklyn woman in the yearlong Son of Sam rampage which he said was dictated "by demons demanding blood," a judge ruled Friday.

Justice John Starkey, in a ruling described as unappealable, held the 24-year-old defendant mentally fit for trial after hearing a psychiatrist for the state declare: "His mind is free and there are no signs of any schizophrenic condition."

Ira Jultak, one of Berkowitz's defense attorneys, said: "David is significantly pleased with the decision. David was quite satisfied."

In a taped psychiatric interview introduced at the competency hearing, Berkowitz had pleaded for a trial so he could tell his bizarre story of demonic possession and "at last have peace of mind."

Dr. David Abrahamson, the prosecution's psychiatrist, testified during a two-day competency hearing that Berkowitz "understands the charges against him, is able to aid in his own defense and is able to stand trial."

Berkowitz is charged with six murders with a .44-caliber pistol. The victims were all young people, five of them women and most of them parked in lovers' lanes at the time of the shootings. Seven persons were wounded in the attacks. The Friday ruling applies only in the slaying of Stacy Moskowitz in Brooklyn, the last of the victims. The other murders took place in other jurisdictions.

Abrahamson said Berkowitz suffered from delusions, but said he believed they were invented. "But if the delusions are true, there would be a psychosis," he said.

Starkey accepted Abrahamson's testimony over that of two court-appointed psychiatrists who labeled Berkowitz unfit to be tried because of "flamboyant madness." One described him as "earnestly insane."

But the judge ruled: "There is no question as to Mr. Berkowitz's fitness to proceed." See BERKOWITZ Page 16

Reagan Foresees Woman President

ATLANTA (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan said Friday he knows of no reason why a woman shouldn't become president of the United States.

And Republican National Committee Chairman Bill Brock said he expects a woman to enter the White House as chief executive instead of a first lady during his lifetime.

The two men were in Atlanta to address the 19th biennial convention of the National Federation of Republican Women, which drew several thousand delegates. The topic came up at separate news conferences.

Murder Charge Seen In Death Of Youth

By PAT TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A NEARLY two-week search for a Lubbock carpenter ended in a weed-choked canyon in East Lubbock about 11 a.m. Friday, and by day's end police were predicting that capital murder charges would be brought against an 18-year-old suspect sometime Tuesday.

Police and sheriff's deputies were led to the decomposed body of Robert Atkinson of 4807 Cedar Ave., missing since Oct. 9, by a 19-year-old male who had been jailed early Tuesday in connection with a break-in.

An 18-year-old male, jailed in connection with the same Tuesday morning burglary attempt, is being held as the prime suspect in Atkinson's murder. Det. Sgt. Charles Park said.

Atkinson, 19, who worked as a framing crew carpenter for a Slaton contractor, had disappeared late Oct. 9 or early Oct. 10. His blood-soaked car was discovered in an alley in the 500 block of Avenue E about 9 a.m. Oct. 10.

In the interim, police searched the city and county by helicopter and led a class of more than 20 police rookies on a foot search of Mackenzie Park.

Friday morning, acting on information gathered by officer Bill Britt, police, deputies and ambulance attendants drove to a one-lane, caliche roadway, less than half a mile southeast of 19th Street and Weber Avenue.

There they found Atkinson's body 15 to 20 feet from the roadway in waist high weeds.

The site is about two miles from where the young victim lived.

Atkinson's body was lying face-up and his left leg exhibited a compound fracture. Authorities subsequently found a massive rear head wound and evidence of at least one bullet hole.

When the abandoned 1969 Ford LTD was discovered near a dumpster Oct. 10, witnesses noticed large splashes of blood in the car's rear seat, blood on a rear door and streaked blood beneath the car — indicating someone had been over-run by the vehicle. Fresh dandelions were tangled in the car's front and rear bumpers.

The body was found in a thicket of dead

Brezhnev Optimistic On SALT Accord

MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev said Friday he sees "a definite turn for the better" in U.S.-Soviet strategic arms talks and hopes an agreement will be reached "without undue delays."

Brezhnev's optimistic comments, made in a banquet toast to visiting Indian Prime Minister Morarji Desai, supported recent statements by U.S. and Soviet spokesmen that the SALT talks were going well.

"Recently there has been a definite turn for the better in these negotiations," Brezhnev was quoted as saying by the official news agency Tass. "We would like to bring these negotiations to a successful conclusion without any undue delays. With a realistic and businesslike approach by the American side, this is quite attainable."

President Carter said in an Oct. 4 speech to the United Nations General Assembly that a U.S.-Soviet SALT agreement was in sight. The two countries agreed to extend the old strategic arms accord, which expired Oct. 3, until a new one is worked out.

On Monday, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said negotiations were continuing "in a productive way" on three key provisions Carter considers essential to a new agreement.

They are an overall reduction in the number of nuclear weapons on both sides, restraints on atomic weapon improvements, and a third point involving sensitive weapons systems for both sides — the U.S. cruise missile and the Soviet Backfire bomber.

The Soviets want a range limit of less than 1,500 miles on the cruise missiles, which are low-flying drones capable of eluding radar. The United States wants the Backfire bomber counted along with missiles capable of carrying strategic nuclear warheads.

Soviet officials have been guarded in their remarks on the SALT talks. But Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko said Oct. 1 that Washington and Moscow "have now stepped onto the road which leads to agreement."

Brezhnev also restated past Soviet calls for an agreement banning "first-use" of nuclear weapons in Europe and prohibit-

Guidelines Would Curb Attorneys' Advertising

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

TEXAS LAWYERS would be limited to newspaper advertising under guidelines passed here Friday by the State Bar of Texas board of directors.

Specifically forbidden were advertisements in magazines, on radio or television and display ads in telephone directories.

However, a few board members expressed concern that the document did not go far enough in allowing lawyers' advertising and might result in additional — and expensive — referendums of the bar membership if the U.S. Supreme Court approves other forms of advertising by attorneys.

In the second day of a three-day meeting Friday, the board approved guidelines which will go to the Texas Supreme Court as a recommendation.

The court may make changes it deems necessary, then submit the matter to the Texas bar members for a vote.

Under the plan approved Friday, a lawyer could advertise biographical information, credit arrangements available and the attorney's concentration or specialization.

The latter, added to the original plan on an amendment by Austin board member Joe Longley, was a victory for the consumer, Longley said. "It's to the consumer's advantage, because there's more information for the prospective consumer," Longley said.

Fee information which could appear in an ad includes the fee for an initial consult-

President Vows New Steps To Help Poor

DETROIT (AP) — President Carter, on a hopscotch cross-country tour to defend his policies, acknowledged Friday that federal officials "tend to forget the human suffering" of poverty and promised redoubled efforts to help the poor.

"We have made some first major steps toward meeting the needs of the people you represent," Carter told a forum on urban poverty. "In the future, we'll make even greater steps."

Carter spoke at a "public forum" sponsored by the Community Services Administration, the successor to the agencies that made up the front lines of Lyndon Johnson's war on poverty.

Cross Country Trip
Carter flew here Friday morning on the first leg of a 21/2-day cross-country trip. He scheduled a stopover for the night at the Indianola, Iowa, farm of the Woodrow Diehl family.

When he arrived in Des Moines, Iowa, Carter ignored lightning and the first drops of rain and shook hands along more than 100 yards of rope restraining an estimated 3,500 sign-waving supporters. The shoulders of his suit were soaked when he finished.

He told the crowd he visited Iowa seven times during his presidential campaign and "never saw this many people... I do feel like I've come home to you."

Energy Plan Urged
In a speech at the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Des Moines, Carter predicted a "true catastrophe" if the United States does not swallow the "bitter medicine" of his energy plan and take drastic steps to conserve fuel.

Nonstop Flight Set For Oklahoma City

CONTINENTAL Airlines will begin Monday-through-Friday nonstop flights to Oklahoma City from Lubbock on Oct. 31.

C. W. "Buck" Newcum, Continental's Lubbock sales manager, said the flights will continue on for one-stop service to Tulsa, and connections will be available at one of the two cities to most major northern and northeastern cities.

The round-trip service will begin with an 8:20 a.m. flight from Lubbock. The return leg will depart Tulsa at 10:25 a.m. and Oklahoma City at 11:16 a.m. Newcum said increased business could lead to as much as seven-day per week service.

Soaked New Englanders Getting 'Cabin Fever'

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The National Weather Service predicts a chance of rain this weekend, and New Englanders are cheering. That means there's a chance it won't rain for the first weekend since Labor Day.

It has rained on seven consecutive weekends, spoiling fall foliage trips, the October harvest, sporting events and the plans of weekend do-it-yourselfers who put off house repairs all summer.

"For many people fall is their favorite season," says James Wells, a Concord psychologist. "That means clear sky and a fresh breeze."

Unfortunately, this year's autumn breeze has been blowing water in everyone's face.

Wells said the poor weather is really starting to get to New Englanders. "People are getting 'cabin fever'. If they are inside at work all week and then on the weekend they are in at home, the home gets kind of small," he said.

This leads to more arguments between adults and less patience with children, who don't like being cooped up either, he said.

The rain also has kept farmers indoors, causing major problems with harvest in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

"The fields have been soaked since the middle of August and the land is too soft to use farm equipment," says Gilbert Parker, Vermont's director of agricultural development.

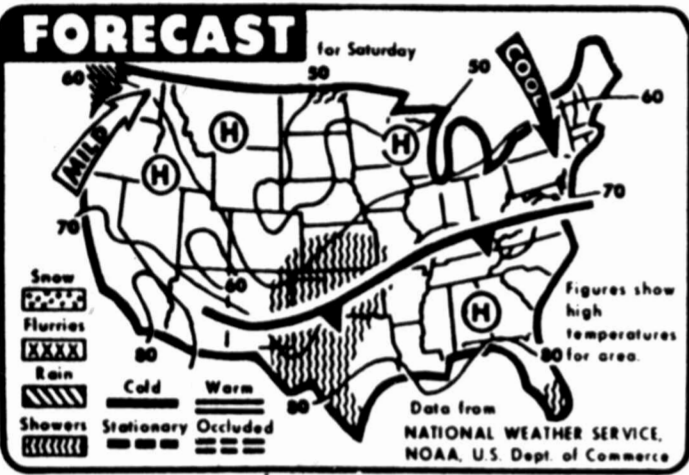

Raymond Bliven, a forecaster at the National Weather Service in Vermont, said some corn fields are covered with as much as six inches of water.

And Bliven couldn't offer much hope of relief. "We're looking for below normal temperatures and above normal precipitation" for the next 30 days, he said.

The weather service reports rainfall in all three states way above normal. In Maine 7.63 inches of rain has fallen this month — more than double the average. New Hampshire's 5.51 inches is almost four inches above normal; and in Vermont, October's 4.99 inches is more than 3 inches above average. All three states had higher than average rainfall for September.

While the rain has kept the local people indoors, hordes of tourists still streamed into the region to view the foliage. "You've got to concede that vacationers are eternal optimists. They think it will not rain on their vacation," said David Lyons, Vermont director of travel.

Lubbock and vicinity: Cooler today with the high near 70. Low tonight in the low 50s. A 40 per cent chance of rain today, increasing to 50 per cent tonight. Winds at 10 to 15, miles per hour from the east.

Gasoline Leak Pollutes Town In California

RICHMOND, Calif. (UPI) — Richmond is a place where if you drill for water, you may hit high octane gasoline.

David Mills sank a well in his backyard and hit gasoline at a depth of 35 feet. It was Richmond's second gasoline strike in recent months.

Across town Reuben Baeza watched his lawn turn yellow from drought and sought water, only to find a gasoline pocket. So far 1,500 gallons have been pumped out of Baeza's yard under the supervision of the fire department.

The latest gasoline strike was the Mills property, and it is located next to a Southern Pacific pipeline which was found to have a tiny leak.

Southern Pacific is now pumping out Mills' gas as "a good citizen because we have the facilities to do so," but it does not admit that the pipeline is the source.

"This town is full of transfer lines and nobody is going to come out and say, hey, that's ours," a fire inspector says. "Nobody wants to admit liability."

At the Baeza site suspicion centers on one of two service stations which could have leaked gas from their underground tanks or pipes. Whether it is the Mobil station or the Exxon station has not been determined.

Southern Pacific has sunk 10 test holes at the Mills site and found gas in four of them. The "product" is removed by vacuum trucks and dumped.

Conceivably the product could be reclaimed, but a Southern Pacific spokesman said it is "pretty dirty."

Fire department officials have speculated that Mills may have as much as 20,000 gallons, but Southern Pacific doubted there was much more than the 500 gallons already removed.

The Southern Pacific spokesman said the leak was a pinhole, too small to emit a jet. A larger leak would have been detected by the pipeline's monitoring devices, he said.

However, for how many days, months or years the pinhole may have been leaking was unknown.

The original dome of the Capitol in Washington, of wood covered with copper, was replaced by the present cast iron dome, completed in 1865.

"I'm interested in getting the women back in the home and this will help," Moore added.

Also included in Thomas' recommendation, was the approval of an MS degree with a major in statistics. The university agreed to defer its request to offer a BS degree with a major in biology and to withdraw its request to offer an MS degree with a major in systems.

State Coordinating Board Approves Hospital Funds

A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Health Sciences Center Hospital in Lubbock will receive $4 million in state funds following approval Friday by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System of a contract transferring the money to the Lubbock County Hospital District.

The board also okayed a $2 million addition to the Texas Tech School of Engineering and the creation of a department of family management, housing and consumer science.

A total of $8 million was appropriated during the past legislative session to offset costs borne by the hospital in light of the use of its facilities by the Texas Tech University School of Medicine.

Several coordinating board members Thursday asked for assurances that the hospital district would not consider reducing its taxes after receiving the state money.

Board member Fred H. Moore of Austin said one Lubbock resident had told him local people are expecting tax relief with the appropriation of the $8 million.

Medical school and hospital district of officials, however, assured the board members that no such tax reduction is planned.

The contract, in fact, requires that the hospital district tax effort not be eased as result of the transfer of state funds to the hospital.

In recommending approval of the contract, board member Betty Jo Hay of Dallas said the agreement includes a number of commitments "for effective organization and management, fiscal accountability," and an understanding on how hospital services are to be shared with the medical school.

Mrs. Hay noted that the contract is for one year only and that another contract will have to be negotiated for fiscal year 1979, with that negotiation to be based on the district's 1978 performance.

The board then voted unanimously to allow the commissioner of higher education to execute the contract with the Lubbock hospital.

In other action, the board approved a request by Texas Tech to construct additional instructional and research space to be assigned to the engineering school.

Board members were told that the $2 million project will be funded from ad valorem tax funds, and the board staff added that the cost of $47 per gross square foot does not seem unreasonable.

The board accepted the recommendation of its planning committee vice-chairman Wayne E. Thomas of Hereford, approving the creation of a department of family management, housing and consumer science at Texas Tech.

On Thursday, Thomas and others had expressed concern over the need for such a division within the home economics curriculum.

El Paso board member Sam D. Young, chairman of the planning committee, asked for assurances that the department would not be "training a group of Ralph Naders."

However, Moore defended the proposal as a developing trend across the nation to give status and prestige to the business of running a home.

"I'm interested in getting the women back in the home and this will help," Moore added.

Also included in Thomas' recommendation, was the approval of an MS degree with a major in statistics. The university agreed to defer its request to offer a BS degree with a major in biology and to withdraw its request to offer an MS degree with a major in systems.

Davis Trial Interrupted By Juror's Dental Needs

AMARILLO (AP) — A toothache disrupted testimony again Friday in the Cullen Davis capital murder trial, when another juror was escorted to a dentist for treatment.

It was the third time during nine weeks of testimony a juror's dental problems caused a halt in the proceedings.

"The Tooth Fairy strikes again," a spectator quipped as word spread of the latest problem, a recurrence of a gum infection affecting juror Gilbert Kennedy.

State District Judge George Dowlen recessed the trial shortly before 3 p.m. and U.S. attorneys to return at 9 a.m. Saturday.

"From talking to the attorneys, it is my feeling that we will finish with this witness tomorrow," Dowlen told newsmen.

Lawyers indicated previously they thought the state might rest its case Friday, but defense cross-examination of state witness Frank Shiller was going strong when court was recessed.

Thus, Shiller, director of the Fort Worth Crime Lab, will undergo his sixth day of questioning Saturday by chief defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes.

Prosecutors have indicated Shiller will be their final witness in this phase of the case.

Saturday's session will mark the ninth week of testimony since the state began presenting its evidence against Davis for the 1976 shooting death of his stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn, 12.

The Fort Worth millionaire is accused of the midnight shooting spree that also killed Stan Farr, 30, and wounded two others including the defendant's estranged wife Priscilla, 36.

Shiller took the stand eight days and testified on direct examination that the bullet that killed Andrea was fired from the same .38-caliber pistol used in the slaying of Farr.

No murder weapon was found and there were no eyewitnesses to the shooting of the girl, so Shiller's match-up of the bullets was the key to the state's circumstantial case.

And it was the bullets recovered at the hilltop mansion and removed from Farr's body that Haynes focused on Friday in his questioning of Shiller.

U.N. Troops Extended In Sinai

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Security Council Friday voted to extend for one year the 4,300-man U.N. peacekeeping force in the Sinai Peninsula, but warned the troops should not become a "permanent crutch" in the Middle East.

The Council took just 10 minutes to vote 13-0 to extend the mandate beyond its scheduled expiration Monday. China and Libya abstained.

Approval of the peacekeeping force, stretching 100 miles from the Mediterranean to the Gulf of Suez between Egypt and Israel, came as no surprise but several countries indicated time may be running out on its usefulness.

It "cannot be used as a permanent crutch" to maintain the present state of "no peace, no war" in the region, said British U.N. Counsellor Robin A.C. Byatt.

Soviet Ambassador Oleg Troyanovsky also warned that indefinite reliance on the troops might result in a "freezing" of the uneasy balance.

The comments echoed U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's concern that "unless and until a comprehensive settlement covering all aspects of the Middle East problem can be reached, the situation in the area will continue to be unstable and, with the passage of time, increasingly dangerous."

The Sinai force consists of 4,297 troops and 124 observers, from Australia, Canada, Finland, Ghana, Indonesia, Poland and Sweden and costs about $73 million a year to support.

It was one of two U.N. forces established in the Middle East following the October, 1973 war.

Released Hostages Express Pity For Tormented Captor, Family

HIJACK AFTERMATH—Frontier Airlines stewardess Diane Lord breaks into tears after spotting some friends at Denver's Stapleton airport Thursday night. Lord and fellow stewardesses Bobbie Karr, behind Lord, were returned from Atlanta where they were part of a four-man crew involved in the hijacking of a Boeing 737 from Grand Island, Neb. to Atlanta. Following hours of negotiations hijacker Thomas Hannan released the crew and 11 male hostages and then committed suicide. (AP Laser-photo)

ATLANTA (AP) — The torment that the air pirate showed so impressed the 15 hostages he had held that some expressed pity for him when he released them and ended the 14-hour hijacking in suicide.

"It's really sad when you think about his family," said John Michalek, 35, of Hastings, Neb., as he flew home Friday.

The night before, Thomas Michael Hannan, 29, had released the last hostages and then shot himself aboard the Frontier Airlines plane.

"He was a good kid," Michalek said of Hannan, who had stormed onto the jet in Grand Island, Neb., Thursday waving a sawed-off shotgun.

Hannan began by demanding a $3 million ransom and freedom for George David Stewart, described by police as a fellow homosexual and an accomplice with Hannan in a bank robbery here.

By the end of the day Hannan was quietly telling negotiators that "I just need an honorable way out."

A few hours later, he released his hostages at Hartsfield International Airport here and met with his attorney in the plane, pacing back and forth, trying to decide whether to give himself up.

He sat down in a darkened part of the plane and lit a cigarette.

"I heard a muffled sound," said the attorney, J. Roger Thompson.

It was a gunshot. Hannan had shot himself in the chest.

"There was some grief" on the part of the 11 male passengers when they were told of the death, said a Frontier spokesman. The 11 passengers and four crew members had been the last hostages. Hannan had released 18 women and children at a first stop, Kansas City.

The spokesman said the pilot, E.J. Curtis, and the co-pilot, G.H. Jones, had decided that Hannan would not be violent. "As time went by, they considered he was not inherently a cruel man," he added.

Even during the pressure of radio negotiations with FBI officials, Hannan was polite and calm, saying "yes, sir" and "no, sir."

Later, a picture of a shattered, troubled person began to emerge — of a handsome, athletic, girl-loving high school boy who drifted from college to college, then went into military service and Vietnam.

Back from the war and, according to friends, showing signs of drug use, he married, then divorced. Three years ago an old friend — Jeff Heyman — saw Hannan and said he "did not seem like himself."

Then last month Hannan and Stewart were arrested in Mobile, Ala., on charges of robbing a bank in Atlanta Sept. 2. Police said they were accompanied by two teen-age boys and carried pornographic publications. They were brought here and jailed.

Hannan was released on $25,000 bond earlier this month and headed for Grand Island and home.

A few days there and it was time to start back and face the charges.

That's when Hannan took over the Denver-bound jet and forced its crew to head for Atlanta demanding ransom, two parachutes and freedom for Stewart. Stewart was a college philosophy major, known to dress up in various uniforms and talk in cosmic terms.

It was in Atlanta that Hannan's effort faltered. Hour after hour, negotiators calmly talked with him and brought Stewart to the scene.

Stewart was said by one police circular to have been involved in a sexual relationship with Hannan, an allegation disputed by one of his attorneys and other police sources.

Thompson's associate, Frank Petrella, who had worked on the case, said homosexuality had nothing to do with the hijacking. He said Hannan "apparently had guilt feelings because he had gotten out on bond and Stewart didn't. It was his way of fulfilling his promises to his co-defendant."

In Grand Island, Hall County Sheriff Charles Headley said Hannan's fear of returning to jail in Atlanta may have triggered the hijacking. Headley said Hannan was scheduled to have a court hearing in Atlanta on Friday on bank robbery charges.

Richard Whittaker, an FBI agent in Nebraska, said that there was no information to link Stewart and Hannan in a homosexual relationship, and he said Stewart had told the FBI in Atlanta that no such relationship was involved.

Headley also said there was no evidence Hannan was involved with drugs, with the possible exception of experimenting with marijuana.

FBI negotiators credited Thompson and Stewart with helping get the hostages released safely. Hannan's father also had pleaded with him to give up.

Stewart had urged his friend to surrender and avoid "a bloody thing." He also thanked Hannan, called the effort "loyal" and "very, very impressive." But, he said, "you've accomplished what you can as a man at this point."

Captives Discussed Courses Of Action

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP) — While they were still held hostage, the passengers aboard a Frontier Airlines jetliner hijacked to Atlanta talked quietly of what action they might take if the chance arose.

David Alwood, 34, who returned to his Grand Island home after all were freed late Thursday, told Friday of the thoughts that went through the minds of the hostages.

After the women, children and two male passengers were released in Kansas City Thursday, Alwood said the remaining 11 male passengers were "corralled up front" and started talking among themselves.

They were able to carry on a quick, quiet conversation while the hijacker, Thomas Michael Hannan, 29, was in the cockpit of the plane talking to a negotiator, Alwood said.

"We weren't necessarily talking about escape," Alwood said. "There was some talk of it. In case he fired that gun, which was a bolt action, that was our only hope of getting ahold of him. He would have to operate the bolt. If he had put the thing down maybe we could have grabbed it."

They avoided almost all eye-contact with Hannan, Alwood said. "We didn't want to make friends with him in case he decided to single one of us out."

Although the hijacker and many of his hostages were from the area around Hannan's home town of Grand Island, Alwood said that Hannan seemed to know only one of the men.

Alwood said that at the start of the flight, when Hannan brushed aside security guards at the Grand Island Air Park, Hannan seemed confident and appeared to feel in control of the situation.

"We knew he was more or less calm, cool and collected," Alwood said, "and he didn't seem sporadic in his actions, there was no yelling or threatening. We kind of had the idea in the back of our minds that he was after something and we were more or less pawns and wouldn't be harmed."

"When he first got on he knew what he wanted to do and in Atlanta it was the same way," Alwood said. "But as the negotiator stalled him off he got more frustrated that he wasn't able to talk to his friend. That got to him more than anything. It changed him from being confident to being despondent."

Judge Orders Observation

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Former Castroville town marshal Frank Hayes was tentatively sentenced to life in prison Friday but also was ordered to undergo 90 days of observation at a U.S. Bureau of Prisons facility.

Chief U.S. District Judge Adrian Spears imposed the tentative sentence, which he said he may affirm or reduce after receiving results of the 90-day study.

A federal court jury in Waco last month convicted Hayes of a criminal civil rights violation charge in the slaying of construction worker Richard Morales while Morales was his prisoner.

Morales died of shotgun wounds Sept. 14, 1975.

Hayes is currently serving two to 10 years in the state prison for conviction of aggravated assault in the Morales slaying.

Lengthy psychiatric examinations to determine Hayes' competency to stand trial preceded both the state and federal trials.

He was ruled able to face the charges by Spears and a state court judge.

A psychiatrist testified at a hearing earlier that Hayes was able to stand federal trial only if he was receiving drugs to control his mental state.

Guarding U.S. 'Know-How'

WHILE MANY worry that American know-how may one day be turned against us by a foreign enemy, one of the nation's industrial giants unabashedly boasts of its technology transfer programs.

"For two decades, General Electric has been actively engaged in the transfer of nuclear technology for power generation," the company says in its Nuclear Power Newsletter.

"GE's experience in this area," it adds, "ranges from total nuclear plant construction on a turnkey basis to the granting of licenses for design and manufacture of the BWR (boiling water reactor) system and fuel...to providing support for a (foreign) licensee's efforts to compete in export markets."

"THE MOST IMPORTANT phase of technology transfer," the company says, "involves training the utility's staff in BWR plant design, construction, operation and maintenance."

It goes on to describe how "basically, all of General Electric's information relevant to design of BWR systems and fuel is made available under the agreement (with foreign associates) through training, documents and consultation."

It says that GE has trained 200 engineers for its overseas associates.

"The second transfer mechanism is documentation, which includes the drawings, specifications, technical reports, computer programs and other written material used by GE in the design of its BWR system and fuel," GE boasts.

Patient Not Well, But Better

BRITAIN, EUROPE'S sick man, if not exactly chasing the nurses through the corridors is at least sitting up in bed and feeling much better, thank you.

Consider these symptoms of returning economic health:

—A record balance of trade surplus between what Britain sold to foreigners and what it bought from them.

—An inflation rate down to "only" 14.4 per cent, still horrendous by U.S. standards but a vast improvement over the 30 per cent rate of two years ago.

—A bull market that has propelled shares of stock on the London exchange up by 270 per cent in 32 months.

BEYOND THOSE improving vital signs, Britain's official interest rate of 6 per cent, compared with 15 per cent one year ago, is now attracting foreign investors.

Furthermore, the perky pound is becoming so strong the government reportedly is debating whether to let it continue to rise in relation to foreign currencies.

An appreciating pound would push up the price of British exports, but it would also

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

Dark Mystery Envelops Nazi Goering's Death

ON OCT. 14, 1946, at 10:30 p.m. top Nazi Hermann Goering's guard saw him through the thick wooden door's 15 square-inch, always open, peep hole in Nuremberg Prison, apparently asleep.

Goering occupied cell No. 5, a guard standing on duty 24 hours a day and inspecting all prisoners nearly hourly.

The cell had only an iron cot, a toilet without a cover seat, a brilliant ceiling light (dimmed at night), a straight chair and a flimsy table.

Goering was in cell No. 5 two months. He lived one and half years longer than Hitler.

TWENTY-TWO Nazis, were on trial. Three were acquitted.

The International Military Tribunal sentenced them Oct. 1, 1946, but ordered the execution date and time kept secret.

And on the evening of October 13 you could hear carpenters' scaffold-pounding from the far side of the courtyard, like the three knocks before the curtain goes up in a French theater.

At 10:45 p.m. a guard noticed through the peep hole that Goering's right hand hung limp from the bed.

Entering, he saw on the floor a potassium cyanide phial.

Goering was dead, a sardonic smile on his lips.

In 1939, Goering weighed 270 pounds, he died weighing only 150.

Emmy, Goering's wife, moved to nearby Sackling during the trial.

I first thought her the key to how Goering turned his famous trick. But she last saw him October 7.

An American military police sergeant brought Goering to her in interview Room 57. He was handcuffed. They did not kiss.

Early in the evening of Goering's suicide a man

CONSULTATION, the third phase of the company's technology transfer plan, has GE's technical specialists available "to explain and interpret...how General Electric goes about designing its reactor, as well as the rationale behind GE's selection of design approaches and criteria."

All this is in sharp contrast with the position taken by J. Fred Bucy, president of Texas Instruments, a member of the Defense Science Board and chairman of the task force on the export of United States technology.

In testimony before a Senate committee earlier this year, Bucy defined technology as "the specific know-how required to define a product that fulfills a need, to design that product and to manufacture it."

WITH THAT DEFINITION in mind, Bucy warned that "once a technology transfer is made, there can be no effective control of either the flow of products or the future applications of the technology."

"Once released, technology can neither be taken back nor controlled. Its release is an irreversible decision."

While Bucy was talking about the transfer of militarily significant technology to Communist countries, GE's agreements with companies in such countries as West Germany, Japan, Italy and Sweden raise serious questions.

As Bucy further points out: "As other countries become self-sufficient in producing products (and that is their purpose in acquiring technology), markets for American products are lost, as is employment."

And, remember, technology once released to a "friendly" country, can neither be taken back nor controlled...

cut the price of imports and help reduce inflation.

The basic reason for Britain's optimistic prognosis is North Sea oil, which is now flowing in at the rate of 800,000 barrels a day and will eventually go to nearly double that amount, promising to make Britain the only Western industrial nation completely self-sufficient in energy.

ON THE cautionary side, however, much of the country's new-found prosperity exists in the expectations of stock market speculators.

Industrial production has been stagnant for a year, unemployment is at a postwar high and the trade unions, which agreed last year to curb wage demands, are becoming restive again.

But thanks for now to the North Sea oil, Britain has been given a new lease on life of perhaps 10 years' duration, enough time to put its economic house in order.

As Prime Minister James Callaghan remarked the other day, rarely in history has a nation been given a second chance like this.

We trust the British will make the most of it.

Mondale? Don't Know What I'd Do Without Him

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

In Daze Of Yore

NOSTALGIA BUFFS (or masochists) like to dredge up old newspapers advertising automobiles for $495, suits for $18, houses for $3,000 and a head of lettuce for a nickel.

It's their way of rubbing it in on inflation. Proof (as if we needed any) that our dollar is now worth about half what it was in Grandpa's day.

But that's usually turn-of-the-century stuff, back when wages weren't much to brag about either. And Grandpa probably grumbled as much about the price of his $18 suit as Pop does now over one for $180.

That's what we like to think.

BUT OUR RECENT move required a reshuffling of 76,438 books (give or take 50,000) and one of them turned out to be a 1962 travel guide of the Southwest. The tourist attractions are still the same, but the prices will make you weep.

(It was published, incidentally, by an oil company that was selling gasoline three times cheaper then, too.)

The editors rated hotels, motels, restaurants and inns from one star (good) to four (worth a special trip). Now then they got carried away and rated five stars (one of the best in the United States).

In Denver, for instance, the Cherry Creek Inn rates five, with double rooms for $13.50 and suites from $20 to $32. For this you got king-sized beds, separate dressing rooms and a private patio.

And that was only 15 years ago.

IF YOU COULD tear yourself away from such cut-rate luxury, you could drive up into the Rockies for another bargain.

At the Aspen Inn (three stars) skiers could bed down four-to-a-room for $6 each. A four-bedroom chalet for a week was $30 each, and private balconies with a mountain view came with the deal.

These are in-season resort tabs, remember. Restaurant prices were even more startling.

Breakfasts cost from 50 cents to $1.40, lunch, 75 cents to $1.85, and dinner, $2.90 to $5.25. Steaks were the big specialty, consumed by candlelight in front of an open fireplace.

ON THE SLOPES you could ride the world's longest chair lift (9,800 feet to the top) as often as you could stand it for $6.50 a day. Ask any ski nut what he paid last winter.

ON TO NEW ORLEANS, where dedicated gourmets go glassy-eyed over the cuisine. Today they also go broke.

But back in 1962, dinner at 122-year-old Antoine's (four stars) was $5. For that you got their famous oysters Rockefeller, pompano en papillote, and other Creole specialties. The absinthes were extra.

And out at Commander's Palace (four stars) they were serving up crab meat Imperial, crawfish Orleans and turtle stew amid crystal chandeliers and splashing fountains. All this for $6.75.

The swanky hotels had eat-your-heart-out prices, too. At the four-star Royal Orleans in the French Quarter, doubles were $17 a day and suites were $40 (which is about what a cheap hotel room costs now).

WHEN YOU THINK of Kansas City you think steak, and 15 years ago you could get one anywhere in town for around $5.

At Putsch's (three stars) the top was $6.50, but that included lobster, which is so expensive these days most restaurants haven't the nerve to put the price on the menu.

A double at the three-star Muehleback Hotel, where old Harry used to hang out, was $10 out on the highway at the U-Smile motor hotel (also three stars); it was only $8, with family suites for $15.

And you could feed the flock on 65-cent breakfasts and 85-cent lunches.

DOWN THE ROAD in Dallas, the Adolphus (three stars) and the Baker (two) would put you in a double for $9.50. At the four-star Sheraton it was $12.50. But you could get a suite at the Stoneleigh for $15.

Dallas had the only five-star restaurant, too, the Old Warsaw, where award-winning imported game and steak went for from $4.50 to $8.

At Arthur's, three-star goodies like soft-shell crab, lobster and charcoal broiled anything was from $3 to $6.50.

AND AT McAllen, on the Mexican border, the guide book awarded a five-star cluster to a motel, the super-luxury Fairway, where double rooms were $8 to $17.50, suites around $20, and studio rooms, $9.50.

You could get breakfast for 55 cents, lunch for $1.30, and dinner for $1.85.

So spare a moment of gentle nostalgia for good old 1962. It's not that far back in history, but with today's far-out prices it seems like another world.

L.M. ROYD:

...Pass It On

THOMAS JEFFERSON forced his daughter to study, study. He believed she probably personally would have to educate her whole family. This, because he'd calculated mathematically that the odds ran 14 to one that she'd marry a man with little schooling. In his word, a block-head.

No telling how old the oldest icebergs are. The iceberg longevity experts haven't been keeping records that long. Some are known to have been afloat for at least 225 years, though.

Among Californian Indian tribes, the scalp of a crested woodpecker once was used as money, worth the equivalent of about $1, I'm told.

Chariots in old Rome—the first rent-a-car city—could be leased by the day or the week.

The legs of each mammal that has legs, even the pachyderm, are vertical above the knee. The legs of each reptile that has legs are horizontal above the knee. Got that?

If you asked 12 guests at a party to write down a specific playing card, you can be reasonably certain that two of them will list the same card.

The senior Henry Ford's first ride in a car, his own, occurred in the rain with his wife running alongside to hold an umbrella over his head.

Those Chinese proverb-makers certainly had a nice touch. As in: "Flowers leave part of their fragrance in the hand that bestows them."

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

Feet To The Fire

WASHINGTON—The shift in President Carter's human rights campaign from shrill publicity to quiet diplomacy became evident in one aspect of Carter's talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Sept. 30.

Although strategic arms and a Mideast settlement were the centerpieces, the President pointedly raised one of the most celebrated Soviet human rights cases, believed here to be a direct violation of the Helsinki accords—the case of Anatoly Scharansky.

Scharansky, a leading dissident, was arrested without public charge in mid-March and, so far as any one in the West knows, is still in jail.

ANDREW TULLY:

Is Peace At Hand?

WASHINGTON—Unfortunately, Thomas Hardy was right when he said "My argument is that war makes rattling good history, but peace is poor reading."

Fortunately, women continue their uphill battle to successfully challenge Hardy's hard-boiled dictum. "We have created a climate for peace to become respectable," says an Irishwoman named Betty Williams.

Betty Williams indeed, I can hear the Hardy cultists sneering. But for a few hours the other day Mrs. Williams and her comrade, Mairead Corrigan, made peace pretty good reading.

Mrs. Williams and Miss Corrigan were awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for their campaign against war in Northern Ireland.

I EXPECT MOST Americans had never heard of Mrs. Williams and Miss Corrigan. Crusaders for peace seldom make Page 1 or TV's evening news.

They went around preaching that peace was possible. So what's new? The answer came from Norway in the Nobel Peace Committee's citation of the two women.

Their initiative paved the way for the strong resistance against violence and misuse of power. Mairead Corrigan and Betty Williams acted from a deep conviction that the individual person can make a meaningful contribution for peace through constructive reconciliation.

THOSE TWO WOMEN matter because they care. They cared deeply when on Aug. 10, 1976, they saw three children killed by a getaway car of fleeing Irish Republican Army guerrillas in Belfast. The childless Mrs. Williams was the children's aunt.

Mrs. Williams took the first step in the crusade. It took courage because she not only is a Roman Catholic, she is married to a Protestant.

In Northern Ireland, Catholics and Protestants merely hate each other. Both see mixed marriage as an act of treason that puts its participants beyond the pale.

Yet, there was Betty Williams invading the IRS stronghold of Andersonstown, asking strangers to sign a petition for peace and an end of the killing that had taken hundreds of lives since the late 1960s.

A small peace march she organized drew only 200 women. But one them was Miss Corrigan, and shortly she became Mrs. Williams' partner in the movement.

TOGETHER, THEY made it happen. Ten thousand people marched with them a few days after the children were killed. Twenty thousand marched a week later.

The Nobel Committee wanted to give the two women the prize last year, but could not do so because their peace campaign had been launched after the Feb. 1 deadline for nominations. Meanwhile, violent deaths in Northern Ireland have dropped by 54 per cent since the movement started.

"We hope this has something to do with our movement," said Mrs. Williams.

She is too modest. Even in those bullet-shattered streets of Ulster, she and Mairead Corrigan have made people listen to their argument that if they work at it, individuals can make possible an impossible dream.

U.S., South Korean Rift Foreseen Over Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ethics Committee completed its first phase of public hearings into the Korean influence-buying scandal Friday with its counsel claiming the evidence firmly showed that South Korean agents tried to win official American support through widespread cash payoffs and gifts.

Deputy Special Counsel Peter White said refusal of the Korean government to cooperate in the investigation inevitably will lead to a deterioration of the close relationship between South Korea and the United States.

"The investigation will be incomplete without the cooperation we seek from South Korea," White said. "We have sought such cooperation for several weeks. We have not had it."

Justice Department officials who traveled to Seoul said Thursday they failed to gain South Korean assistance in their investigation.

A key figure in the scandal, Tongsun Park, a South Korean businessman who was a prominent Washington party-giver until details of the payoff scandal began to surface, is under indictment by a federal grand jury and has returned to Korea.

Summing up the findings at the close of the first phase of the hearings, White said the existence of the influence-buying scheme "is now an established fact."

The opening phase of the hearings lasted three days. The first witness on the third day was Kim Hyung Wook, former head of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency.

Kim told the panel that a California congressman and Park helped set up a scheme to raise funds for congressional payoffs by arranging for Park to receive millions of dollars in commissions from the sale of U.S. rice to South Korea.

Kim said the plan was formulated during a 1968 meeting in his office in Seoul. He identified the congressman as Richard T. Hanna, a California Democrat no longer in Congress.

The testimony linking Hanna to the scheme came less than an hour after the former lawmaker pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court to charges of bribery, fraud and conspiracy. The charges stemmed from his alleged involvement in the influence-buying scheme.

The committee heard testimony giving two different estimates of how many members of Congress and other government officials were targeted by the scheme.

A Customs Service official, who examined documents carried by Park as he re-entered the United States on a flight from South Korea, said he saw a list containing 70 to 80 names, some of which he recognized as being members of Congress.

In a column headed "contributions," the document listed figures ranging from five to 50. The agent, Dennis Hazelton, said Park told him the figures represented hundreds of dollars.

In this phase of its hearings, the committee has declared it would not name any recipients of money from the Koreans. The names are expected to be made public in the second phase of the investigation.

Hazelton said his suspicions about the document were aroused when Park grabbed his arm as he tried to remove the paper from a briefcase. He said he examined it despite Park's frantic efforts to stop him.

Another witness, former Park aide Jai Shin Ryu, told the committee he removed a document from Park's home in September 1972. Committee staff members said they didn't know who wrote the document, which was described as an assessment of Park's activities in Washington, meant for Korean government officials.

According to the document, 150 persons "were under the influence" of Park, 120 in Congress and 30 in the administration. Jai Shin Ryu said he thought the document was an exaggeration.

Other witnesses, including former San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, former head of a Rice Growers Association, described how the Korean government intervened to ensure that Park became the agent for American rice sales to Seoul, an activity that earned Park more than $9 million in commissions between 1968 and 1976.

Investigators Confirm Abuse Cases At Rusk

ALSTON (AP) — A special investigating team says it found 20 incidents of patient abuse at the Rusk State Hospital, 14 of which occurred this year.

E. M. Scott, former assistant mental health commissioner, headed the team. The Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation released the team's final report Friday.

Mental Health Commissioner Kenneth Gaver fired Robert B. Sheldon, Rusk superintendent, Wednesday.

Gaver appointed Robert M. Inglis, superintendent of the San Antonio State Hospital, as acting superintendent at Rusk. Gaver said it "is not appropriate" for Gaver to take direct action regarding any given employee at Rusk. That will be Inglis' responsibility, he said.

Among incidents of alleged patient abuse reported by Scott's team were the following:

—Two patients were beaten by employees of the maximum security unit in an effort to get the patients to tell where two missing toilet tissue spindles could be found.

—A patient was beaten by two other patients during daylight hours on Ward 11 to the extent that he later expired from the injuries received. This ward is used by the hospital to house patients requiring close supervision. Obviously, under such circumstances, a tragic incident of this nature should not have happened.

—A patient attempting to escape was apprehended by security personnel, dragged down the street and up a set of concrete steps by two security guards. This patient weighed less than 100 pounds and was ambulatory. The patient later was found to have a fracture to the left pubic bone.

—A catatonic patient was hit, slapped and thrown to the floor by three PST's (psychiatric security technicians) because he did not have his bed made up correctly.

The team gave several reasons for the alleged incidents, including:

—Medical personnel except the superintendent are not sufficiently involved in decisions affecting overall management of patients; and "a number of direct care personnel do not appear to be temperamentally suited to the care of handicapped people."

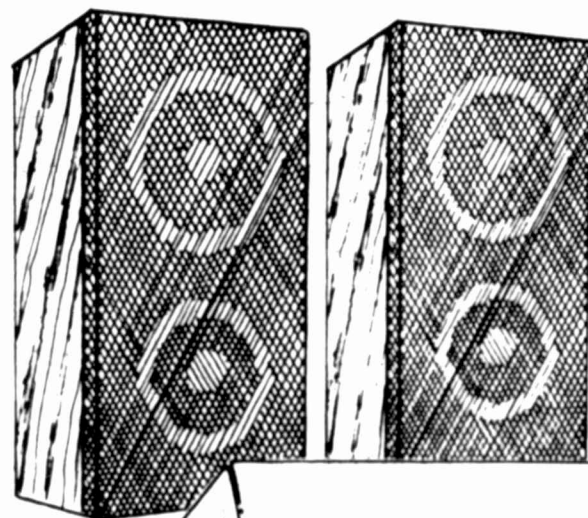

Gaver said Rusk had a 24 per cent turnover in personnel in the last fiscal year.

Government Debates Marijuana Use To Cope With Eye Disease

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Randall is at odds with his marijuana dealer. He gets 75 joints a week from the government to cope with an eye disease, but thinks federal officials aren't doing enough for others who might be helped by the illegal drug.

Randall, 29, has glaucoma, a disease that destroys the optic nerve and can cause blindness. He has received the government-grown grass for a year as part of an experiment to determine if it will sufficiently relieve eye pressure to keep his sight from deteriorating.

It is currently illegal for doctors to prescribe marijuana except in a handful of government-sanctioned experiments. Marijuana is being used experimentally for glaucoma and to help cancer patients avoid nausea while they undergo chemotherapy.

The government currently is considering a change in regulations to allow doctors to prescribe marijuana without special federal permission. A government advisory panel will take up the question on Nov. 16.

Randall claims marijuana has medical uses which the government is unwilling to recognize.

Shah Of Iran Plans Washington Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Shah and Empress of Iran will make a state visit to Washington next month, the White House says.

The White House said President Carter plans to meet with the Shah in Tehran about two weeks after the Shah visits Washington Nov. 15-16.

Carter's visit to Iran will be part of a four-continent tour.

results with glaucoma and chemotherapy are promising but not as conclusive as Randall makes them sound. And they are annoyed at his proselytizing on behalf of marijuana as a medicine. Randall has lectured and is working on a book.

"He tends to distort reality on a continuing basis," charged Robert C. Petersen, an associate director in the National Institute on Drug Abuse's research division.

Randall says he began smoking marijuana in 1968 and his glaucoma was diagnosed in 1972. The following year he felt that marijuana was easing his eye pressure so he began to "self-medicate."

Later he discovered that government research in 1970 indicated marijuana eased eye pressure.

Randall, who says he lost 90 per cent of his vision, can see well enough with glasses to drive. He also takes two conventional drugs for glaucoma.

Dr. Edward C. Tocus, chief of the drug abuse staff at the Food and Drug Administration's bureau of drugs, said, "He feels he's getting response (from marijuana). He's totally biased ... There are people who take the drug in similar conditions and it doesn't work for them."

Tocus said Randall is "psychologically dependent" on marijuana. Petersen said there are many unanswered questions about marijuana's efficacy in medicine.

"In no sense is marijuana curative. It's just a palliative. It reduces eye pressure," Petersen said. "Will it work for five or 10 or 15 years? Will an individual become tolerant of the effects?"

Petersen said many glaucoma sufferers are elderly and may not be able to take such side effects from smoking marijuana as "psychological disturbance and an increase in heart rate." Also, if marijuana works, it might be better to apply it directly to the eye rather than indirectly by smoking it, he said.

Organized Crime Seen At Work In Bootleg Cigarette Racket

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized crime has become heavily involved in large-volume smuggling of cigarettes from low-tax states to high-tax states, Congress was told Friday.

And "organized crime will commit murder to protect its investment," James H. Tully Jr., New York state tax commissioner, testified in urging congressional action to make cigarette bootlegging a federal crime.

Tully and Wayne F. Anderson, director of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, supported a bill to impose penalties up to two years in prison and $10,000 fine for shipping, transporting, receiving or possessing contraband cigarettes in any quantity in excess of 100 cartons.

Anderson said a commission study last year showed that cigarette tax evasion cost high-tax states and localities almost $400 million in 1975 and has become a serious-to-moderate revenue loss problem in 22 states.

Anderson told the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on criminal laws that the tax loss in the northeastern states "can be attributed either predominately or heavily to the network of organized crime."

By contrast, he said, the states of Alabama, Texas and Washington trace their problems primarily to casual cigarette smuggling or purchases of tax-free cigarettes from military post exchanges and Indian reservations.

Anderson said the study concluded that the states will not be able to eliminate cigarette smuggling by organized crime without federal help.

The tobacco-producing states, such as North Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky, are in good fiscal condition and cannot be expected to raise their cigarette taxes of two to three cents a pack by much, he said. The high-tax states can be expected to resist efforts to reduce their cigarette tax rates because of precarious financial status, he said.

Tully told the subcommittee "New York will not surrender to the mob" by cutting its cigarette taxes.

"We have already found that stepped up law enforcement in New York City, where the tax totals 23 cents, has resulted in increased bootlegging upstate where the tax is 15 cents," Tully said. "The mob continues to make enough profit on 15 cents a pack."

Tully said organized crime is heavily involved in cigarette smuggling in New York.

He said a recent New York City Police Department review of the arrest records of 60 persons charged with cigarette bootlegging showed that "these are not your unemployed factory worker trying to hold his family together, nor some hard-working fellow trying to earn a little extra money."

Man Shot In Face With Pellet After Dispute Over Debt

A disputed debt early Friday led to a painful injury for a 21-year-old Lubbock man, police reports indicated.

The man — a painter — told officers he went to an acquaintance's apartment about 1 a.m. Friday to visit. The acquaintance allegedly greeted the man with a hostile attitude and a pointed air rifle, the 21-year-old said.

After the two men walked out to a parking lot, the gun-wielding acquaintance reportedly accused the young painter of owing him $90.

After the painter reportedly professed ignorance of the debt several times, the rankled acquaintance began walking back towards his apartment, carrying his rifle at hip level.

Suddenly, the man allegedly wheeled and fired from the hip, striking the 21-year-old victim in the cheek with a pellet.

The victim was taken to Methodist Hospital where the pellet was extracted.

Intruders in the "household loot" business continued their assault on city residents as the weekend approached, according to reports.

Vernon L. Davis of Dallas said someone broke into his pickup, parked in a lot at 5845 S. Ave. Q Drive, sometime Friday morning, then made off with a radar detector, a CB radio and several 8-track tapes. Davis said his loss was near $385.

Sherry Inman's loss was even greater — at $600 — after someone broke in her residence at 1906 28th St. and took her table model television Thursday or Friday.

Costume jewelry, a gun and a jewelry box were the object of a burglar's search at 2607 Parkway Drive Thursday or Friday. Lorea Herron said the intruders entered through a back bedroom window and took the $200 worth of merchandise.

After a named suspect visited his trailer home Thursday, Greg Lynn Baker of 6801 19th St. said he was minus $280 cash.

Cruz DeLeon of 3408 E. Baylor St. said someone pried a bathroom screen off to gain access to his home Thursday or Friday. Inside, burglars reportedly took jewelry, an 8-track stereo and a television set, all valued at $1,000.

John R. Stalcup of 603 N. Durant St. said someone stole his power saw worth $450 from a house under construction at 5730 2nd St. The theft, which reportedly occurred Monday or Tuesday, also involved pilfered saw blades and other items which could put the loss near $600, Stalcup said.

A Lubbock man told police that when he went to his front door Thursday night two strangers greeted him with a knife to his stomach.

Benny Lara of 114 Ave. W said he was in bed about 9:40 p.m. when someone knocked on his door. When he opened the door, two men reportedly held the knife on him and demanded his money.

Lara later said that after he told the duo he did not have any money, they went through the house and decided upon a watch and a television instead of cash. Reports indicated that before the bandits left, they cut the phone line.

Burglars made off with a costly haul from a local repair business Thursday night.

According to Tony Montemayor, someone broke a window in an overhead door at Tony's Automotive at 103 N. University Ave. to get to $5,293 worth of tools. From marks on the ground, police said, it appeared the items were loaded into some type of vehicle parked at the rear of the building.

Two other Lubbock men reported recent thefts of tools from their pickups.

Jimmy Hendrick of 2713 56th St. said $400 worth of tools was stolen from his vehicle parked in his driveway last weekend.

Big Spring Festival Attracts Artisans

A-J Correspondent

BIG SPRING — Artists from throughout the Southwest are expected for the first Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival scheduled here today and Sunday. The committee which has put together the event hope the public from throughout the area will attend as well.

The festival will be held in Dora Roberts Community Center and in the outside area around the building. There will be an estimated 80 booths of artists, craftsmen, food and drink. The artist from the most distant point will be Mel Mitchell of Redmond, Wash.

located in the tennis center area of Comanche Trail Park. Artists also will come from New Mexico and Oklahoma.

The event has been put together by a committee headed by Mel Prather and Mike Paul.

Big Spring has a large community of artists and craftsmen who regularly take their works to other localities for sale.

Members of the advisory committee of the festival will help man an information booth at the site of the festival to direct out-of-town persons to local clubs, motels and restaurants.

The Tourism Council and the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce joined hands in sponsoring the event.

Prather said here Friday, "It's time that Big Spring quit talking about how there is nothing to do in the area and offer support to activities like this that will draw visitors to the area."

Items for sale will include oil paintings, watercolors, pen and ink drawings, macrame, sculptures, wire sculptures, ceramics and pottery.

Local citizens are being urged to visit the festival and select items that might be used as Christmas gifts.

Hours of the festival will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. today and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Robbery Connection Sought

Police Friday said there are apparent connections between Thursday's robbery of a fashionable westside residence and two other recent area incidents.

Three gun-wielding masked men broke into the 4609 13th St. home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne James Owen about 4 a.m. and succeeded in binding and robbing the couple of more than $30,000 worth of jewelry and several hundred dollars in cash.

The description of the suspects and the type of operation, lawmen say, are almost identical to those in last December's robbery of the H.C. Lewis residence at 3313 19th St. and Dr. Wayne Hill's Brownfield home in May.

While inside Lewis' comfortable home, three masked men ransacked the eight rooms, but made off with only a number of Indian blankets. In the Brownfield break-in, similar suspects stole a small amount of jewelry.

In each case, the bandits stated, "All Texans have safes."

Academic Autonomy Sought

The top administrative officer of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) Friday warned of continued and increased governmental encroachment upon academic autonomy.

Dr. Morton S. Baratz, general secretary of the AAUP, addressed the fourth annual Conference on Higher Education presented by Texas Tech University's Higher Education Program Area, the College of Education at Texas Tech, and the university's Division of Continuing Education.

More than 250 representatives from areas of higher education in colleges and universities in Texas and New Mexico attended the opening session at the South Park Inn Thursday night, with Dr. Kenneth Freeman, professor and chairman of Higher Education at Tech, presiding.

Baratz cited encroachment particularly in the areas of mode of teaching, curricular offerings, grading and related practices and hiring practices.

"Budget-making is increasingly determined by 'formulae,' a bureaucratic euphemism for 'rule of thumb,'" Baratz said. "This technique is especially popular when applied to the instructional budget. The formula may be primitive, for example one faculty position for 18 or 19 or 20 students, or it may be moderately refined with each professor generating 'X' number of student-credit hours per year, 'X' being fixed at successively higher amounts the more elementary the level of instruction. The justification for the formula is, inevitable, fiscal responsibility—a euphemism for saving money."

In the area of curricular offerings Baratz said most states have a board or council with broad supervisory powers over all post-secondary institutions. It usually has the authority, he commented, to order termination of degree programs that fail to satisfy certain criteria, including "avoidance of unnecessary duplication."

Baratz cited instances and trends providing for higher education review boards which would serve in effect as a court of last resort for aggrieved students whose complaints have been heard and dismissed by a succession of faculty-student committees and administrators within the university.

In the area of hiring practices Baratz said "I'm a veteran of this battle in the war to end improper discrimination, having written a campus affirmative-action plan, labored diligently to see that the plan was strictly adhered to, monitored the results periodically, and ever been a key defendant in a court action initiated by the U.S. Department of Justice."

"I came away from all this with the sorrowful conclusion that under Affirmative Action almost everybody loses, almost nobody wins. Those women and minority-group members who do get jobs can never be sure they were selected because their merit was recognized, or instead because they helped the employing college attain a numerical goal—should I say 'quota'?"

The AAUP general secretary said there is a way to reconcile governments' insistence upon fiscal accountability with universities' need for a maximum degree of autonomy. The elected officials who vote the funds have every right, "indeed the obligation," to demand full and regular accounting for the expenditure of the funds and to insist upon economy.

"But accountability does not need to be accompanied by detailed intervention into institutional decisions about what is to be taught, how and in what physical conditions," he said.

Baratz suggested that each college and university should be urged voluntarily to subscribe to a statement of equal opportunity in higher education.

SPEAKING ENGLISH — Baptist churchwomen in Lubbock have started an English-speaking course for residents who are here from a foreign country and cannot speak English. The class this year has enrolled 51 persons from 21 foreign countries. There are 31 teachers. The class convenes weekly at the First Baptist Church. In the photos, Tuong Nguyen of 6-week-old Vietnam, right, holds Rami, son of Jamila Jadallah from Palestine, as Pushpa Dhar of India, left, coos to the youngster. Tuong and Pushpa, along with the baby's mother, Jamila, are members of the English-speaking class. In the other photo, instructor Diane Bedunah of Fort Worth, engages left, engages gesturing Rani Rao, from India, in conversation using the English language, of course. Class members include wives of Texas Tech students, relatives of teachers and professional men of the city, and wives of AFB trainees. "Now I can go to the grocery store and get what I want without having to wait for my husband to come home from school," one class member laughed. (Staff Photos by Holly Kuper)

Baptist Women Offer English Speaking Class

To a group of Baptist women in Lubbock, "TOUCH" can mean "Teaching Others Using Christian Happiness." Actually, "TOUCH" is a ministry project of teaching English to residents of foreign countries who are in the United States, particularly international students at Texas Tech University.

The idea originated in the fall of 1972 and training in speaking English got underway in early 1973 with Mrs. Shirley Mayfield and Mrs. Jean Nettles leading the way.

Origin of the idea was material in the Southern Baptist Women's magazine "Royal Service." After studying the material, a few Lubbock women were made aware of the large number of persons in Lubbock who needed help with a second language — English.

The first method used was the Laubach system, named after Dr. Frank C. Laubach, who had developed a series on "streamlined" English. However, the Lubbock women found that most of the persons here, particularly Tech students already could speak some English.

Other methods of teaching adaptable to the local situation were utilized.

The English course began with four students all from Arabic-speaking countries in the spring of 1973. That first year, the class continued through the summer. In the fall of 1973, students were added from India and Taiwan. The class had grown to seven students and seven teachers.

This year, 51 students are now taking the English course. They come from 21 countries and have 31 teachers, who are volunteers, most of them from First Baptist Church of Lubbock, but some are from New Home Baptist Church and Highland Baptist Church of Lubbock.

The class convenes during the school year from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Thursday.

Religious News

Meeting place is Lubbock's First Baptist Church. Materials and refreshments are provided by the Women's Missionary Union of the church.

The Office of International Programs at Texas Tech serves as a source for students. Students are Tech students and wives, Reece Air Force Base wives, professional men and women (doctors, etc.) and wives of U.S. citizens, who have been naturalized.

The class has helped many members in obtaining citizenship papers and driver licenses.

The class includes all levels of English speaking ability. The work and study are directed toward what the students in the class feel is their greatest need to be fluent in English.

Mrs. Bobby Moody is current chairman of the project. Other chairmen have been Mrs. John Wilkerson, Mrs. Dan Law, and Mrs. Barry Wood.

The value of the English speaking course has been expressed by students from time to time.

One student said after taking the course, he felt differently about Texas Tech, Lubbock, and Texas, with a much-improved image having been created.

One student commented that this program seemed to make Texas Tech different from many other universities and colleges.

One student had said they possessed a fear of ever leaving their own country to study in the United States, but after taking the course and learning to speak English, they were no longer afraid.

One student said she surprised her friends by being able to talk over the telephone to them in English.

One husband said his wife was much happier here now since she could speak English and go places where she had not felt at home to go, like grocery stores, all kinds of shops, etc.

According to Mrs. Moody, the present chairman and coordinator, most all of the students in the English speaking class express appreciation for the opportunity of having a worthwhile place to go and study and declare the fellowship as excellent.

GROUNDBREAKING—Groundbreaking ceremonies for the construction of a 4,200 square-foot parish house for St. Stephen's Episcopal Church were held Wednesday at 11th Street and Slide Road. Those participating in the ceremony included, from left, the Rev. William Nix, rector of St. Stephen's; the Rt. Rev. Willis Hinton, bishop of the Diocese of Northwest Texas; and the Venerable Richard Wilson, archdeacon of the Diocese.

Episcopalians Internship Presents Aspects Of Ministerial Duties, Life

Break Ground For Structure

Communicants and friends of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church celebrated the groundbreaking Wednesday for construction of a new 4,200 square-foot parish house at 11th Street and Slide Road.

Officiating at the ceremonies were the Rt. Rev. Willis Hinton, bishop of the Diocese of Northwest Texas, the Venerable Richard Wilson, archdeacon of the diocese and the Rev. William Nix, rector of St. Stephen's Parish.

The new parish house, which was designed by Whitaker and Hall architects of Lubbock, is scheduled for construction in November. A contractor has not been selected at this date, however, construction is expected to take seven to nine months.

Included in the building will be a kitchen, nursery, choir and bride's room classrooms, large parish hall and office space. An enclosed courtyard is also planned.

Chairman of the building committee for the parish is Marvin Dvoracek. Carey May is senior warden and James Armstrong is junior warden of the parish.

Following the groundbreaking ceremonies, Holy Eucharist was celebrated in the church by Bishop Hinton. A wine, cheese and bread party concluded the evening.

Rev. Snipes Explains Magic Of Ministry

Ministry has its magic, says Rev. Felix Snipes, who is in a revival at Lubbock's Bacon Heights Baptist Church.

Rev. Snipes is an associate of Evangelist Wayne Bristow, who is conducting the crusade here.

He is a member of the International Brotherhood of Magicians. He conducted thought projection experiments Friday night, using persons from the church audience. A veteran of 15 years in an international ministry of evangelism, Rev. Snipes approaches the supernatural in a Christian context. He said he has found satanism (worship of the devil) and the practice of witchcraft to be widespread in America. "I would not be surprised to learn that there is a witches coven right here in Lubbock," he said.

"When I was a little boy," Rev. Snipes related, "I saw one of those magic shows in school and my curiosity got the best of me. I loved it. I went to the library and got books on magic. I learned magic tricks, and, by the time I was in high school I was putting on magic shows."

"When I look back on those days, I can see that God was preparing me for my ministry. In 1952, I was drawn to a Billy Graham Crusade through the door of music."

Rev. Snipes said he believes his practice of magic has been instrumental in opening his ministry. He fascinates young audiences with mind-boggling feats of skill. He tells of the occult arts and moves from other supernaturals to God.

pastoral duties. On the other hand, the intern also is a learner, and in that capacity uses the internship year to practice becoming a pastor. The congregation helps the intern by evaluating his or her work.

"Some of the things I do at Shepherd King are: on Sunday, I am involved with the Reach Out Class before worship, and then am involved in the worship service itself. I preach once a month and lead the liturgy twice a month. Monday is my day off. On Tuesday afternoons, I meet with another intern and pastors to discuss the lessons for the coming Sunday worship. Wednesdays, I confer with pastor Robert E. Lee to discuss the various aspects of my internship. That night, I teach the 7th grade confirmation class and sing with the choir. On Thursdays, I meet in the morning with a group of pastors to study and discuss various technical books dealing with the ministry and in the afternoon, I teach a Bible study for several children at Neighborhood House. At night (Thursday), I attend training sessions for Contact Lubbock. There are no regularly scheduled activities on Friday, so I use the day to catch up on study and anything anything else that needs catching up.

Saturdays are like Fridays with the exception that I am involved with a reading group of people of Shepherd King. Between times, I do some home visiting, hospital calling, study, and anything else that comes up.

FIND STRENGTH FOR YOUR LIFE — ATTEND CHURCH

True or False

Could this be your picture? Are you putting on a false face when you get up each morning? Are you pretending that you live surrounded by big, bright balloons? Or, on the other hand, that things are down, down, down? Or, that you were just born unlucky, and at this late date there isn't much you can do about it?

Most of us would have to admit that there is more than a little of the clown in the image we present to others — whether on the high side or the low side. More's the pity. Because we would come across a lot better if we could just be ourselves.

There is a place where you can be yourself, where you can find yourself! No questions asked! The Church. Won't you try it?

Students Making Extensive Study Of Texas

By TANNER LAINE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

All Saints' School (formerly St. Christopher's) of Lubbock is engaged in an extensive study of Texas. Students from preschool through the sixth grade are involved in the in-depth study. The study utilizes a Six Flags Over Texas approach, integrating music, art and social studies. The third through sixth grade students are integrating all academic areas into this study. Their approach basically is historical and scientific. Last Friday, the students were allowed to preview an Allosaurus at the Museum of Texas Tech University. Dr. John Brand, a Tech geologist, explained the role of a paleontologist and the different ways in which fossils are found, preserved and modeled. Dr. David Vigness, chairman of the history department at Tech, Monday helped begin the study with an introduction to Texas history and its highlights. Tuesday, Dr. Brand was at the school to discuss land forms and geological points of interest which can be observed on routes of the various classrooms-in-the-field, which will begin next Monday. The trip will be to downstate sites. The Rev. Ed Abrahamson, rector of St. Christopher's, who is a geologist, demonstrated strata under oil fields. Today, Bob Nash, a radio personality and collector of Texas lore and legend, closed the week at 2 p.m. with a round of cattle and ranching tales. Classrooms-in-the-field will begin Monday with the fifth and sixth grades trekking to historical and geological points from Lubbock to San Angelo, Llano, San Antonio, Austin, the LBJ Ranch and Fredericksburg. The students will devote an hour each night at Camp Capers (near Kerrville), the base point of the field study, to classroom work on journals, maps and discussion relating to each day's work. Monday the students will eat a sack lunch at old Fort McKavett, visit ruins of San Saba, view a granite quarry at Llano and take samples at Enchanted Rock there. The headquarters camp is at Waring, just outside Comfort in the Texas Hill Country.

Kansas City Hosts Disciples Of Christ

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The biennial general assembly of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) will consider a wide range of topics — from homosexuality to gun control and U.S.-China relations — when some 12,000 church members gather in Kansas City Saturday. Representatives of the 1.3-million member denomination started gathering in Kansas City Friday, but the first business meeting was scheduled Saturday morning at Municipal Auditorium. About half the persons attending the assembly, which ends Wednesday, will be voting delegates. The church, which has its strongest following in the Midwest and South, will be considering preliminary proposals for a merger with the United Church of Christ. There are four items on the agenda regarding homosexuality, including a study paper that raises questions about biblical condemnation of homosexuality and recommends further study. The general board of the church has recommended approval of the study paper and a separate proposal for an end to discrimination against homosexuals. The board recommended disapproval of a resolution that labels homosexual acts as sinful, saying the resolution is premature in light of the proposed study paper. The board also recommended delay until 1979 of a resolution opposing the ordination of homosexuals. Among the other items to be considered by the general assembly: — A resolution urging an equitable and comprehensive national health care system to "assure quality care at controlled cost." — A proposal to monitor television programming in an effort to reduce violence on television. — A recommendation that women, who now hold only 20 pastorates in the church, be considered for employment equally with men.

— A reaffirmation of a 1969 proposal to support family income maintenance at the poverty index level or above. — A resolution urging full diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China and a peaceful solution of the Taiwan issue. — A proposed law limiting possession of operable handguns to law enforcement officers, members of the armed forces, guards, messengers on duty and licensed pistol clubs on the premises. — A proposal opposed by the general board which would withdraw support of the United Farm Workers union on grounds that the union "has done much to polarize the farmer and the farm worker." — A resolution supporting "unequivocally" majority rule in southern Africa.

First Baptist Presents Annual Budget Proposal

A record $1.6 million annual budget for operations, missions, witness and ministry for 1978 will be presented to the congregation of Lubbock's First Baptist Church at the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday. Final approval of the budget, largest in the 85-year history of First Baptist here, and said to be the largest church budget ever proposed in Lubbock, will be sought. The $1.6 million outlay for 1978 was endorsed by church members at a regular monthly business meeting last Wednesday night. It was presented and explained by O.C. Madden Jr., chairman, and members of the Church Finance Committee. If approved, a deadline of meeting the assessment will be set for before December 1, which marks the beginning of Dr. Jaroy Weber's fifth year as pastor of First Baptist. First Baptist here is the second largest in membership among the 32,000 churches of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Hard-Driving Music Stylists Taken From Rock Music Scene

By Associated Press
The rock music world may have lost one of its hardest-driving, hardest-working and hardest-living groups with the deaths of three members of the band Lynyrd Skynyrd.

Singer Ronnie Van Zandt, guitarist Steve Gaines and his sister, backup singer Cassie, all 28, died in a Thursday night airplane crash in McComb, Miss., while traveling between concert dates to promote the band's new album, "Street Survivors."

The other six members of the band were injured in the crash.

Van Zandt, the group's outspoken leader, epitomized the band's image of rebellious, hard-driving, hell-raising Southerners. He seemed equally at ease picking a fight and picking up a microphone to belt out bluesy rock numbers like "T For Texas" and "Gimme Three Steps" in his raspy voice.

"Ronnie is the ultimate say-so," Gaines said in an interview this summer. "If there's a disagreement Ronnie settles it, bangs a few heads together and says this is what we're going to do."

But band members admitted their rebellious image may have been overblown.

"Nobody wants to read about 'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm,'" bassist Leon Wilkeson said this summer. And Gaines readily admitted he hadn't seen any "real violence" in his year with the band.

Skynyrd's three stellar guitarists were "my boys" to Van Zandt, who would put his arms around Gaines, Gary Rossington and Allen Collins in concert and beam as they took turns soloing and trading off guitar licks.

Van Zandt was equally proud of the South, using a huge Confederate flag as a stage backdrop. He wrote the band's one AM radio hit, "Sweet Home Alabama," as a rebuke to Neil Young, whom Van Zandt felt unfairly put down his people in such songs as "Southern Man" and "Alabama."

A disc called "Street Survivors" was released 10 days before the crash and quickly sold almost 500,000 copies.

Beatles Memorial Plan Rebuffed

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — A plan for a monument to the Beatles, who put this grimy port city on the map in the 1960s and dominated pop music for more than a decade, has met rebuff in their hometown.

The City Council's General Services Committee voted 11-9 Wednesday night against erecting a monument to the four Liverpool natives.

"In my opinion they're not worthy of a place in our history," said city councillor Roy Stoddard, 59, in explaining his negative vote.

"They couldn't sing for toffee," said another city father, Tony McVeigh, who also cast a nay vote. "They ended up taking drugs and bringing discredit to the city."

The issue now goes before the full council.

"How narrow-minded, how short-sighted, and how typically out of touch with what people think and feel," the Liverpool Echo commented in an editorial Thursday.

The newspaper rallied to the defense of the since-disbanded pop group "whose special talent is now indelibly written in the history of popular music" and accused the committee members of sitting in a "remote ivory tower."

"The councillors don't seem to realize just what a world phenomenon the Beatles are," commented Alan Williams, the group's first manager in Liverpool.

"There should be a complete museum and tourist industry in Liverpool, let alone a single monument."

"They'll be recognized as the greatest composers of this century. Many famous composers in history have been drug addicts, and even homosexuals, but that doesn't stop them from being honored as great artists."

John Chambers, 29, an unemployed ship's carpenter, is spearheading the plan to put up the monument to the four Beatles — John Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr.

The head of an unofficial group of die-hard Beatles fans, Chambers launched an appeal for $31,500 and is organizing a series of rock concerts to help raise the money.

An anonymous London businessman has offered to start a fund with $875.

The plan was to erect a statue in a downtown shopping center a few hundred yards from the site of the Cavern Club, where the Beatles got their start in the early 1960s.

"It's a disgrace that there's virtually nothing in the city for the tourists coming here to see the places like the Cavern and Penny Lane," Chambers said.

Penny Lane is a Liverpool street that became the title of a Beatles song.

"I'm not an old fuddy-duddy and I know more about music than the Beatles ever will," said Councillor McVeigh.

"I've had a lot of people congratulating me on what I've said. I couldn't care less about the Beatles and they couldn't care less about Liverpool. We should leave it at that."

The Liverpool Echo said there is still "time for a change of heart."

Bolshoi Members To Appear As Guest Soloists

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — For the first time, members of the prestigious Bolshoi Ballet will appear as guest soloists in the United States — performing with a little known group of New Orleans dancers instead of the huge Russian company.

Mikhail Lavrovsky and Natalia Bessmertnova, two of only a few Bolshoi dancers who have achieved star status, will be featured Oct. 29-30 with the Delta Festival Ballet, a regional troupe of 28 young dance students.

Both Lavrovsky and Bessmertnova appeared with the Bolshoi when it performed on tour in New Orleans in 1975. But this will be the first time anyone from the Bolshoi has danced outside the company in this country, although some have made solo appearances in Europe.

"I think the fact that the Bolshoi played to full houses in New Orleans — and the present ease in diplomatic relations — contributed to the decision to have the soloists come here," said Joseph Giacobbe, director of the Delta Festival company.

Giacobbe, who frequently invites top performers for leads or solos in Delta Festival performances, said he got the idea from a member of his company, a devotee of the Bolshoi, who suggested he try to get Russians for the next guest stars. He declined to say how much the contract would cost the company.

"Having the soloists come to New Orleans and not to a big company in New York is really a boost for regional ballet in this country," Giacobbe said.

Giacobbe made his own arrangements through Gosconcert, the Soviet government agency that handles all performers in the U.S.S.R.

He was apparently breaking new ground. A spokesman for the State Department said as far as he knows this is the first time a U.S. dance company has attempted to contract Bolshoi performers directly.

Until his death, Sol Hurok handled the Bolshoi's tours in the United States.

Lavrovsky is the son of choreographer Leonid Lavrovsky whose "Romeo and Juliet" is an acknowledged ballet classic. Bessmertnova is married to the Bolshoi's artistic director Yuri Grigorovich.

In the New Orleans performance they will be featured in excerpts from "Spartacus," "Don Quixote" and "Swan Lake." The corps de ballet of the Delta Festival will dance in the "Swan Lake" segment. The soloists will practice for a week with the company before the performances.

Founded in 1970, Delta Festival is made up mostly of high school and college students who perform a half-dozen times a year at the New Orleans Center for the Performing Arts. In addition, they tour the region with special performances in neighboring towns and festivals.

BRINGING THE RUSSIANS—Joseph Giacobbe has arranged for Russian Ballet Stars Mikhail Lavrovsky and Natalia Bessmertnova to appear at the Delta Festival Ballet in New Orleans. It will mark the first time members of the prestigious Bolshoi Ballet have appeared with American dancers. (AP Laserphoto)

Reagan Says Scandal Caused Ford To Lose

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he could have won the 1976 election over Jimmy Carter because he didn't have the Watergate ties that plagued former President Gerald Ford.

"We have found out that in the last four weeks of the election the biggest single issue became Watergate," Reagan said in a taped interview on KQED-TV.

"That could not have happened had I been the candidate, because, like the Democratic candidate, I wasn't there. I wasn't part of Washington. That alone makes me believe I could have won," he said.

CHEERING SECTION
A DIMENSION PICTURES PRESENTATION

Stallone Stars In New Film

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—There are a few questions still unanswered, as the year rolls: Did Bert Lance really put slugs in his piggy bank? Are the Israelis planning to build a network of freeways on the West Bank? Will Sylvester Stallone ever come close to "Rocky" again?

I cannot answer for Bert Lance or the Israelis, but I did see Stallone in action in his first picture since "Rocky," and it has the look of a winner. It is called "F.I.S.T.," and I watched a scene that had everybody—spectators, extras, crew, cast—applauding. Honestly, that seldom happens.

"F.I.S.T." is the story of a labor union—Federation of Interstate Truckers—and the man who started the union and made it big. Any similarity to Jimmy Hoffa and his Teamsters is denied by the moviemakers, but you think what you want.

Norman Jewison, the producer-director, says the film is "pro-labor, but anti-corruption." He says he has been invited to Washington to have lunch with labor leader George Meany so organized labor is very curious about this film.

Whatever the bias, or lack of it, of the film, it is strong stuff. And it builds, as it follows the career of Johnny Kovak (Stallone) through the years, until the big confrontation between Kovak and a senator (Rod Steiger) in a Senate hearing room.

That was the scene I watched. With Kovak on the stand, testifying, the senator accuses him of a 1938 murder and, worse, of conspiring earlier that day to kill his best friend.

And that gave Stallone his acting chance. He replied to the charge, becoming angrier and angrier, swearing at the senator, accusing him of crimes, defying the senator's contempt threat, finally completely losing control.

Stallone gave it everything he had. Jewison gave him his head. The director had two cameras filming the scene, so Stallone wouldn't have to go through it all a second time for a close-up.

"I just want you to concentrate on his eyes," Jewison told one of his cameramen.

The room was full of extras. Jewison wanted them to react to Stallone's outburst. He told them to watch him, and he led them, like an orchestra leader leads his musicians, exhorting them to more reaction when he wanted it, motioning them to silence when he wanted less.

There were several takes. Jewison wanted to shoot it a couple of ways—in one, Stallone stood as he lost his cool, in another, he stayed in his seat. After each take, Stallone took several minutes for his anger to abate. Until he could regain his composure, he glowered at everybody, threw things on the floor, kicked the table leg.

After each take, too, everybody burst into spontaneous applause. The two men—Steiger's quiet hatred versus Stallone's robust anger—made an exquisite contrast. But, because of his vitriolic lines, this was Stallone's scene.

Jewison says that Stallone has been a revelation to work with. He first approached him to play Kovak before "Rocky" was in general release. He had seen a preview and thought that the young actor would be perfect to play the labor leader.

"I sent him the script," Jewison says, "and he read it and agreed to do it. And then 'Rocky' became the monster hit that it was. Within a week, Stallone had been offered a million dollars to do some cockamamie picture for Sir Lew Grade."

"Well, I was worried. I only had a verbal agreement with Syl, and it wasn't for a million dollars. So I called him and said I wanted to know where I stood. He said, 'Norman, this is my picture.'"

Jewison said he never realized "the depth of Stallone's commitment."

The director says that Stallone is thoroughly professional on the set, that he has memorized the entire script, not just his own part, and that that helps, because now they rarely need a rehearsal.

Obviously, for Stallone, "F.I.S.T." is important. Jewison says he realizes that many people—in Hollywood and out—are wondering if "Rocky" was a fluke. And those who are working with him on "F.I.S.T." are positive it wasn't. They believe Stallone will show them in "F.I.S.T." that he really has what it takes to be a superstar.

It's a pretty big film for Rod Steiger, too.

Carter Vows New Fight On Poverty

 cies have fared poorly in the last eight years but his administration will try to restore their vitality. "My neighborhood responsibilities are 215 million Americans," the President said.
 Carter took notes on a pad as participants, including a 56-year-old black unemployed steel worker, led for federal help. The participants had been selected by the White House as representatives of Detroit's urban poor.
 Carter told the 13 forum participants:
 — The nation will "feel the benefits in the next few months" of a housing and community development bill signed last week, which will provide $12 billion over three years, principally for the cities.
 — Congress will complete action this month on a measure providing paramedical aid for migrant workers and "I will sign it."
 — The unemployment rate will be "well under 5 per cent" by 1981. The national unemployment rate last month was 6.9 per cent or about seven million people.

 Detroit's unemployment rate is about 9 1/2 per cent. The White House said it estimated unemployment among the city's blacks between 16 and 19 years old at 47 per cent and among whites in that age group at 27 per cent.
 — The administration has "a very deep concern" about the destruction of ethnic neighborhoods because of federal policies that drive the young into suburbs.
 He won applause by saying he will try "to make sure that Congress does not give the oil companies all the breaks."
 The unemployed steel worker, Lawrence Hall of Gary, Ind., laid off when his steel mill closed recently, told the President:
 "I am only representing the other millions of unemployed. I'm in a desperate situation. I need a job."
 Hall, at Carter's left elbow as the participants sat around a horseshoe shaped table, said he was trying to support a young daughter. He said he had spent 37 years in the steel mill when the company told him, "We'll call you, don't call us."

 "I don't feel much like talking about energy or foreign policy," Hall said. "I'm concerned about how I'm going to be able to make it."
 Carter responded that "we tend to forget the human suffering" when the national unemployment rate drops two or three percentage points.
 "Feel Kinship"
 "I also have a 10-year old daughter. She was 10 this week. So I feel a kinship with you."
 "I think in our nation we will see an increase in the demand for steel as the demand for housing increases," Carter said. He pledged anew to enforce laws against unfair foreign competition in the steel industry.

 ceed. He knows what's happening, that's for sure. The possibility has entered my mind that his actions were caused by rejection by girls."
 The ruling that Berkowitz was mentally fit for trial in no way rules out a defense of insanity before a trial jury. Starkey's ruling applies only to the defendant's current condition, and not to his sanity or insanity at the time the murders were committed.
 Competency also is at question in proceedings before courts in two other jurisdictions and there is the possibility he could be found incompetent to stand trial in those proceedings. However, attorneys for both sides said they did not believe any other competency hearings would be held until their case was concluded.
 Starkey set no trial date, but said he would hear motions in the case Nov. 2. Meanwhile, his verdict of competency "beyond a reasonable doubt" is not subject to appeal.
 "He'll go to trial as soon as everyone is ready," said Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold. "We're ready now."
 "We will not seek to delay the trial," Jultak added.
 The first of what were to become known as the Son of Sam murders occurred July 29, 1976, when 18-year-old Donna Lauria was shot to death at 1 a.m. as she sat with a girl friend in front of her home in a quiet residential section of The Bronx. The other girl was the first of seven targets of the .44-caliber killer to be wounded, but to escape death.

 A court psychiatrist testified that Berkowitz said he was forced by demons to kill women because they wanted sex with the victims' souls. The defendant was quoted as saying he had been promised "the same privileges with Donna Lauria but these privileges had never been granted."
 Christine Freund, 26, was slain last Jan. 30 as she sat with a boy friend in a car parked in Forest Hills, a well-to-do section of Queens. Virginia Voskerichian, 19, was shot to death March 8, a half a block from the scene of the January murder.
 The killer struck again in The Bronx April 17, taking the lives of Valentina Suriani, 18, and Alexander Esau, 20, as they sat in a parked car.
 The stealthy killer shifted his hunting grounds to Brooklyn, claiming his final victim there July 31. She was Stacy Moskowitz, 20, gunned down as she sat in a parked car with a new boy friend. The latter was shot in the head and lost his eyesight.
 In a taunting letter to police midway in the carnage, the .44-caliber killer made a passing reference to himself as a Son of Sam. In a public reply, the police addressed him by that title. Berkowitz subsequently admitted it.
 The competency hearing was held in a sixth-floor recreation room at Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn, where Berkowitz has been confined since his arrest outside his suburban Yonkers apartment Aug. 11.
 During a discussion of an insanity defense at the trial itself, Berkowitz interrupted to tell the judge:
 "Your Honor, remember what I said. Lock the door and throw away the key. I mean that!"
 "Thanks for your observation," replied Starkey, "but I wish you would not interrupt the proceedings."
 Later, the testimony turned to Berkowitz's adoptive mother, who died of cancer 10 years ago. There was testimony that Berkowitz was sensitive about her and had talked about her nagging.
 "Your Honor, that's a lie," Berkowitz interjected. "What about the graveyard? This is ridiculous. That's my mother you're talking about!"

A group of about 50 pickets, part of a group calling itself "Youth Against War and Facism," protested that the administration had not done enough for the poor and that those in the forum with Carter did not truly represent the poor.
 Emma Molina, a social worker concerned with migrants, told the President: "The elderly poor minority people are left out of the good programs.... When I was a migrant 20 years ago, conditions were bad. There's no changes in wages and housing."
 Hope Of Poor
 She told Carter, "You are the hope of the poor people."
 "One thing we are doing is to require Medicaid and Medicare be provided to migrants," the President said, adding that this has not been done in the past.
 The President was asked by Courtney Matthews, a 20-year-old unemployed black, what can be done about high youth unemployment rates. Carter said, "I can't tell you that I've got the answer," but noted that his administration increased spending under the Comprehensive Education and Training Act, and is providing public service jobs.

Hearing Planned On Contempt Charge Against Attorney Here

By FRANK PATRICK
 Avalanche-Journal Staff
 The question of whether attorney Gene Gaines was in contempt of Justice of the Peace Charles Smith's court will be decided later by a district judge.
 Gaines, president of the local NAACP, was jailed for a brief period Friday morning after Smith found him to be in contempt.
 Smith said Gaines refused to leave the JP's office upon request. He said he fined Gaines $50, and ordered him removed after Gaines refused to pay the fine or leave the office.

 Contacted later Friday, Gaines claimed Smith had unaccountably lost his temper and had begun insulting him.
 After Gaines had been booked into Lubbock County Jail, lawyer A.W. Sallars filed a writ of habeas corpus, and a hearing was scheduled before 137th Dist. Judge Robert C. Wright.

After an approximate 20-minute session between the parties in the judge's chambers, however, Wright dismissed the application for the writ and ordered the attorney released.
 The move paves the way for a later hearing.
 State statutes provide that a court officer held to be in contempt may file a motion for release upon his personal recognition, pending a determination of the matter by a district court other than the offended court.
 No date for the hearing has been set. Judge Howard C. Davison, presiding judge of the local administrative district, will appoint the district judge who will hear the matter.
 The dispute between Gaines and Smith took place for the most part behind closed doors.
 Gaines said he went to Smith's office to discuss a matter pertaining to the attorney's practice in the court, shutting the door so the matter could be fully aired.
 He said the JP told him not to come into his office to "chew me (Smith) out."
 According to Gaines, Smith then said: "I'm the truck driver — if you don't like the way I run my show, get the hell out of my office."
 Gaines indicated he remonstrated with the judge, attempting to maintain a civil conversation.
 "I said, 'If I responded in that manner you'd hold me in contempt,'" Gaines stated.
 "He said, 'That's exactly what I'm going to do if you don't get out of here,'" the attorney continued.
 Gaines said he reminded Smith that, as an attorney, he was an officer of the court.
 According to Gaines, Smith then leaned across his desk and said, "Mr. Gaines, if you don't get out of the office, I'll physically throw you out."
 Gaines said he told Smith that he would not leave under those circumstances.
 Smith then summoned a sheriff's deputy and a representative of the Criminal District Attorney's Office, Gaines said.
 Smith said that Gaines came into his office, shut the door and began haranguing him. He said he asked the attorney to state his specific business before the court or to leave. He said he found Gaines in contempt after he would not leave the office.

 the high priority task of economic development."
 "With appropriate assistance, such as that included in the legislation I am proposing, the Republic of Korea will be able to assume a larger share of its defense burden and assume the tasks of U.S. units being withdrawn," Carter said.
 "So long as it is conducted in a way which will assure continued peace and stability in Northeast Asia, the ground force withdrawal is a natural evolution of our ongoing security relationship," he said.

planned military maneuvers.
 "In view of all this we believe we might agree not to hold exercises beyond a certain level, say 50,000 to 60,000 troops, because massive military maneuvers cause particular wariness and look too much like military demonstrations."

Guidelines Would Curb Attorneys' Advertising

 ation, the fixed fee for certain routine legal services and a statement that a schedule of fees for specific services is available.
 The burden of proof on what is a "routine legal service" is put on the attorney placing the ads except for uncontested divorces, simple adoptions, uncontested personal bankruptcy and change of name.
 However, the guidelines state "no matters of a contested or adversary nature are considered routine." That includes criminal law, board members said.
 A lawyer would be obligated for at least 30 days to charge any fee advertised in a daily newspaper.
 Lawyers would be prohibited from placing ads containing opinion about the quality of services, an endorsement of a lawyer, ads using "showmanship, puffery, self-laudation or hucksterism," and those containing "false, fraudulent, misleading, deceptive, self-laudatory or unfair statements." All advertising by lawyers would have to have a "dignified manner."
 Lawyers would maintain the right to list a specialization in a particular field of law, if approved by the Texas Board of Legal Specialization, in legal directories, law lists and in the Yellow Pages.
 The 21-6 vote for the guidelines seemed anti-climactic to some board members who anticipated a highly emotional fight over lawyers' advertising.

However, the board still must sell the plan to about 30,000 Texas lawyers who overwhelmingly opposed the idea of any advertising in a recent bar survey.
 Bar President Travis Shelton of Lubbock admitted some minds will have to be changed. "It's our responsibility to get the message to the lawyers — we have no choice," Shelton said.
 "We must say to local lawyers, 'We must adopt some kind of a plan,'" he said. Shelton predicted the lawyers will follow the recommendation of the board because "they know the problem."
 Longley, viewed by some as the liberal conscience of the board, said members "went as far as they were going to go."
 Considering the politics of the board, Longley expressed some surprise the board loosened the prohibitions against advertising as much as it did.
 "But, 'from a broad consumer standpoint, in my opinion,'" he said, lawyers should be permitted to advertise whatever and wherever they wanted so long as it was not false and misleading.

Also Friday, the board discussed a draft of a document to be presented Oct. 30 to the legislature's "Sunset Commission." A recently enacted "Sunset Law" requires agencies regularly to prove their worth or face being disbanded.
 However, work remains to be done on the final presentation and no action was taken.
 Today, board members must decide what course to take in regard to the bar's financially troubled Texas Law Center. The balance of the interim construction loan, $3,959,000, is due Dec. 31, and the board must determine how to generate that amount.

 "The paramount danger threatening at present the peace and tranquility of peoples is, doubtlessly, the continuing arms race," Brezhnev said at the dinner in De-sai's honor.
 "The root of the matter today is to arrest it, to prevent the world from sliding down toward a nuclear catastrophe, as if by inertia, by virtue of the crazy logic of building up military arsenals."
 In other references to East-West relations, Brezhnev praised recent "confidence-building" programs in Europe to help East and West to better understand each other's military operations. Both sides have been informing each other of

SEARCH ENDS — A nearly two-week search for Robert Atkinson, 19, who disappeared late Oct. 9 or early Oct. 10, ended Friday when an acquaintance led police and sheriff's deputies to a one-lane caliche road eight-tenths of a mile southeast of 19th Street and Avenue A. Lower Charge Given Bungler

WOODSTOCK, Va. (AP) — Charges against a man accused of being the bungling bank robber who got locked out of the bank when he went back to his car to get his mask were reduced Friday.
 Michael R. Madigan of Stephen City was arrested Sept. 28 after the attempted robbery of the local branch of First Virginia Bank.
 Police said a man carrying a gun entered the bank, realized he had forgotten to wear his mask and went back to his car.
 When he came back he discovered bank employes had shut the bank door and locked it.
 He left and police arrested Madigan a short time later.

Murder Charge Seen In Death Of Youth

 Atkinson's body was fully clothed, but police said no other evidence was found at the site.
 However, two divers from a Rescue and Recovery team discovered about 4 p.m. Friday what authorities speculate may be the murder weapon. The black, 22 caliber pearl-handled gun was found after a 45-minute search in three feet of water at Mackenzie Park, detectives said.
 Although there was no identification on the body, Atkinson's brother-in-law recognized a tattoo on the young man's shoulder.
 Police said Atkinson and another man apparently scuffled early on the morning of Oct. 10 and the fight apparently was culminated by gunfire.

 Justice of the Peace L. J. Blalack, who ruled Atkinson's death homicide Friday, said an autopsy would be performed this morning by a Lubbock physician.
 Bond for the suspect, held in county jail on an unrelated felony charge, temporarily was set at $100,000.
 Services for Atkinson are pending with Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home.
 A Lubbock resident since 1957, Atkinson was a native of San Patricio County and was a member of the Catholic Church.
 Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Maria Martinez of Lubbock, three half-brothers, Ernest, Roy and Frank Solis, all of Lubbock; eight half-sisters, Ada Solis of Lubbock, Mrs. Connie Guzman of Dallas, Mrs. Oralia Garcia of Lubbock, Mrs. Amelia Benitez of Houston, Mrs. Aurora Calderon of Austin, Mrs. Dora Acevedo of Georgetown, Mrs. Sally Ramirez of New Deal and Stella Solis of McKinney.

Boeing Strike Talks Continue

SEATTLE (AP) — Talks continued Friday in attempts to reach settlement in the 22-day-old walkout against the Boeing Co.
 Federal mediator Pete Horn termed daylong negotiations Thursday "constructive" but declined to say if progress was made.
 Negotiations for Boeing and the Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers met for two days last week with Horn, apparently without making significant progress.
 Most of the strikers got pay checks Thursday for one day's work and part of a second at cashiers windows set up at the Kingdome stadium.
 Union officials expressed anger that union dues of $14.90 were deducted by the company and said the money will be returned.

South African Arrests Made As Protests Continue

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police arrested 150 blacks and Indians in South Africa Friday as protests mounted inside and outside the country against the government crackdown on black movements and closing of black newspapers.

The United States and The Netherlands, in separate announcements, said they were recalling their ambassadors for consultations on the events in South Africa.

In Paris, the French Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying the crackdown on South African blacks "can only engender violence and complicate the search for a peaceful solution to the problems of southern Africa."

The United Nations Security Council in New York scheduled a debate on South Africa starting Monday at the request of the 49-nation African group in the world organization.

Ambassador William Bowdler was summoned to Washington after the State Department criticized the white-minority government's detention of more than 50 black leaders and banning of black organizations.

The Dutch Foreign Ministry said it had recalled Ambassador Rudolf Froger to discuss the situation. Foreign Minister Max van der Stoep told the South African ambassador in The Hague he felt "deep concern" over the actions of South Africa's government.

The Dutch government information service said Friday night that the cabinet decided at its weekly meeting to break off a cultural agreement with South Africa, whose ruling Afrikaners are of Dutch descent. The action requires parliamentary approval.

Four Christian Democratic members of parliament had asked the Dutch government to cancel the agreement. They also want an end to reduced air fares for Dutch emigrants to South Africa and amendment of the immigration pact between the two nations so Dutch-born South Africans cannot be made to serve in the South African civil service.

Dutch colonists first came here in the 17th century.

At Sharpeville, a segregated black township 36 miles south of Johannesburg, 54 students were arrested Friday in pre-dawn raids on their homes. Police said they would be charged in connection with disturbances at three schools Wednesday when hundreds of students left classes and stoned cars and school buildings.

In Queenstown, 420 miles to the south, police said a black school was gutted by fire early Friday. No arrests were reported.

Police arrested 97 Indians taking part in a lunchtime open-air demonstration Friday in Johannesburg's Lenasia Indian township. It was the first crackdown protest by Indians living in South Africa. Under the country's emergency laws currently in force, open-air meetings without official permission are banned.

In Pretoria, the South African capital, Justice Minister James T. Kruger said Friday in an interview with a U.S. television network, ABC, that the government's massive clampdown was justified. Kruger was responsible for carrying it out.

He said he acted "to try to stop the unrest in my country."

"The reaction overseas concerns me very much, and I'm very sorry about any tarnishing of the image of this country. I knew that there was an unpleasant act I had to take, but I was trying to weigh it up against how it would go down overseas," Kruger said.

"And, given that choice, I say without any hesitation I have no doubt I have done the right thing," he told interviewer Harry Reasoner.

Asked if he thought the detentions and banings would calm unrest, Kruger said: "The results, I believe, will be to bring a certain amount of peace back to the (segregated) townships, so that we can get on with ... uplifting the standard of living for all our people."

South Africa announced Friday a form of limited self-government for the segregated township of Soweto near Johannesburg. Soweto, home to 1.2 million blacks, now is run by a government board.

The government said elections for a community council will take place early next year. But a community leader, Shimeane Kumalo, said this week's banings and detentions angered the township and that "no black is going to vote unless he is a stooge."

The council concept falls short of the complete municipal autonomy sought by an impromptu group of Soweto community leaders, the Committee of 10. Six of its members were detained Wednesday.

At Pietermaritzburg, 260 miles southeast of Johannesburg, four white students including 21-year-old Peter Maritz of St. Louis, Mo., were charged under the Riotous Assemblies Act and ordered held for further hearing Nov. 8.

Maritz, who said the similarity between his name and that of the town is pure coincidence, is a Princeton University student studying for a year abroad. He said he and the other three were picked up Thursday after a student demonstration against the crackdown because they were known activists in campus politics.

He said the demonstration was peaceful and spontaneous, involved only about 100 students, and dispersed voluntarily after about an hour and a half. He said the four arrested after the demonstration had ended.

Government leaders have brushed aside the storm of international and local opposition to the crackdown, saying it is vital for law and order.

South Africa's initial public reaction to news of the recall of the American ambassador was calm. "At this stage it appears as a logical and sound thing to do in these circumstances," a government spokesman said.

Prime Minister John Vorster on Thursday dismissed as "totally irrelevant" a U.S. State Department comment that the crackdown could harm U.S.-South African relations.

Vorster also attacked U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young, saying his criticism of the crackdown as smacking of Stalinism meant "he should like it and not criticize it at all, because he has said Communism has never harmed him."

Banks Ignore Carter Warning, Increase Prime Lending Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Just one day after the White House warned of the dangers of higher interest rates, several banks Friday increased their prime lending rates for the sixth time this year.

The increase from 7½ per cent to 7¾ per cent boosted the lending rate charged to the banks' most creditworthy customers to its highest mark in almost two years. Trends in the prime rate often indicate what will happen to rates charged on other loans.

The latest round of increases was begun by Citibank of New York, the nation's second-largest commercial bank and the institution generally regarded as the leader in prime rate changes. Several commercial banks soon joined in the increase.

But many of the largest banks displayed a reluctance to immediately follow Citibank's lead. One reason apparently was concern about the White House warning.

"If there are some who are slow in following, they might be casting an eye on the White House statement," said an economist at one of the larger institutions that did not raise its rate.

In an unusual move, the White House on Thursday warned the Federal Reserve System not to further increase short-term interest rates.

"The speed with which interest rates have been increasing has unsettled the stock market ...," the White House statement said. "If short-term interest rates were to increase substantially further, a diversion of flows from mortgage lending institutions could begin to occur and this would reduce the supply of funds for housing."

The statement apparently was designed to discourage the Fed, an independent government agency, from boosting the price banks must pay for the funds which then are loaned to customers.

The Fed has been increasing this cost, and was expected to boost it again soon, as part of its battle to reduce the amount of money floating through the economy.

Many experts believe that an overly rapid growth of the money supply is inflationary, but the administration said Thursday that "recent rates of monetary growth have not been inflationary, even though they have been above the targets set by the Federal Reserve."

When banks have to pay more for their funds, the costs generally are passed on to prime and other customers — one reason for the continuing series of prime-rate increases.

Boosts in the prime rate do not necessarily mean higher interest rates on other consumer loans, but often result in a psychological climate favoring those other increases, bank officials said.

Continuing increases in the prime rate, however, sometimes reflect a trend toward higher across-the-board interest rates and often depress the stock market.

The prime rate generally is given to creditworthy medium and large companies that borrow money for 90 days, banking officials said.

Among the banks joining Citibank in raising the prime rate were Crocker Bank of San Francisco; the First National Bank of Boston; and three big St. Louis banks, Mercantile Trust Co., First National Bank, and Boatmen's National Bank.

Slim Chance Given To Dieting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A panel of specialists on obesity painted a gloomy picture Friday of medicine's current ability to help people lose extra pounds and keep them off.

The committee said dietary treatments of the obese have been discouraging, drugs are risky for long-term use, radical surgical procedures are too dangerous in most cases and behavior control is not very effective.

The panel, part of a government-sponsored international task force on obesity, said there has been an overwhelming mass of reports recently on a wide variety of ways to take off fat.

"Some are intended to make us optimistic, but on the whole they leave us with the general, and no doubt realistic, impression that immediate results are moderate and that long term success is rare," the panel said in a paper presented at a three-day meeting at the National Institutes of Health.

"The main reason for this depressing state of affairs is, of course, that obesity is in fact largely resistant to current therapy."

Dr. George Bray, head of the conference and professor of medicine at Harbor General Hospital, Torrance, Calif., said diets are numerous "and if any of them worked, there would be no need for so many new ones."

He expressed particular concern about abuse of liquid protein diets by people who take them without guidance from physicians. Bray said several deaths have been reported recently from complications associated with liquid protein diets.

Dr. Friedrich Gries of Dusseldorf, West Germany, said starvation diets should be carried out only in a hospital and even then are of little benefit if they last less than two weeks. He said long term fasting is too expensive and not justified.

Specialists said very low calorie diets, restricting intake to about 300 calories a day, are theoretically safe if controlled by a doctor, but in most cases produce only temporary weight losses.

Of less conservative approaches to controlling obesity, the panel said diet suppressing drugs can only be used for a few weeks because patients run the risk of becoming addicted or otherwise abusing the drugs.

The specialists said more extreme techniques such as wiring jaws shut to prevent food intake do lead to substantial weight loss. But when wires are removed after six months, the patients often put the pounds back on.

Surgery to bypass part of the intestines to reduce food absorption has worked in very obese patients. But the panel said surgical death rates have been reported as high as 5 per cent in some areas and it said there is little indication that the risks of obesity are worth the risk of surgery.

School District Would End Litigation

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

School officials say the U.S. Justice Department had its chance seven years ago to push for more desegregation in Lubbock — and it's too late to go back now.

Also, they maintain in briefs filed in federal court, the Justice Department is going beyond current desegregation doctrine in trying to break up racial imbalances "due solely to a moving population."

The briefs are in reply to the Justice Department's request that U.S. Dist. Judge Halbert O. Woodward block proposed new schools in predominantly white areas outside Loop 289 and require the Lubbock Independent School District to implement a more comprehensive desegregation plan.

Woodward, who handed down Lubbock's present court order in 1970, is scheduled to hear the case beginning Nov. 14.

Key points in the briefs filed by school district attorneys Charles Cobb and D. Thomas Johnson are that:

—The case already has been "fully litigated." Since the Justice Department did not appeal Woodward's 1970 order, the original findings "remain final, conclusive and binding upon the (federal) government." The department should be stopped from seeking additional changes, school officials said.

—If the Justice Department is permitted to raise some issues, they must be confined to Dunbar High School, Struggs Junior High and the five elementaries found by Woodward to have been segregated by school district intent.

School attorneys said the department should not be allowed to drag other schools into the controversy, because Woodward's 1970 opinion held that all schools except those specifically mentioned are okay.

—The school system has lived up to the spirit and intent of Woodward's 1970 order. Although changes in housing patterns have resulted in some resegregation, that is no justification to require sweeping desegregation efforts.

—There are "no reasonable alternatives" to the proposed construction of new schools in growing residential areas. As provided in the bond program passed in February, the school district wants to build three elementaries and a junior high south of Loop 289 and one elementary northwest of the loop.

"The needs are where the students are located," school attorneys said in rebuttal to the Justice Department's suggestion that students at crowded southside schools be assigned to under-enrolled inner-city and eastside schools.

The department also has urged that bond monies be used to build new central facilities are "not fully utilized," they said, it is "not feasible" to bus the overflow from south and southwest schools to those under-enrolled campuses.

Such a plan would "not only be unsound educationally, but it would be no solution at all. Even if it constituted a temporary solution, it is not a reasonable alternative," they said.

School district attorneys said Woodward's 1970 order, as it addressed Dun-

Bar and Struggs, was based largely on the Justice Department's own proposed solutions. The department "now seeks to take an inconsistent position" by asking for more changes, they said.

Woodward did find that Iles, Guadalupe, Sanders, Martin and Wheatley elementary schools also were once segregated by school district intent, the attorneys noted.

But "following the decision in Higley v. West, which has not been overruled or superseded, this court (Woodward) permitted the five elementary schools to remain as neighborhood schools."

The school district contends that the Justice Department has surrendered its opportunity to push for more desegregation efforts here.

"The findings made and conclusions reached in the 1970 decision (by Woodward) are final," Cobb argues. "They were accepted by the government with no appeal."

Also, he said, "If a dual system (segregation) existed at the time (of the 1970 order), it was dismantled" by Woodward's ruling. There are no grounds for the Justice Department to go back and rehash the issues, Cobb said.

"Public policy demands that there be an end to litigation," he stated.

The immediate integration of Dunbar and Struggs has been diluted in recent years, and many other schools remain or have become predominantly one-race.

But such changes in the racial composition of certain schools "have been due solely to a moving population," Cobb said.

Concentration of minorities in some schools "has resulted naturally from changes in housing patterns and the viable educational neighborhood school concept, and not from any segregative intent or design by the district," he said.

"The fact that there may be racial imbalances in some schools does not alone justify a school desegregation order," Cobb said.

The Justice Department contends that Supreme Court and other court decisions since Woodward's 1970 ruling require Woodward to impose a new, more comprehensive desegregation plan on Lubbock.

But Cobb maintains that "there has not occurred since this court's 1970 opinion a change in the applicable law which renders incorrect the legal principles upon which this court made its 1970 decision."

He said it appears that the Justice Department is trying to force the school system, "because of changing housing patterns, to change the composition of its schools."

"The cost of maintaining schools in efficient locations, as well as pupil safety, dictates that children in overcrowded schools should not be indiscriminately bused to newly constructed schools in areas where schools are not needed," school officials said.

Although some central and eastside fa-

Jury Clears Robinson In Death Of Dr. Hill

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston millionaire Ash Robinson was cleared by a jury Friday on a charge he had conspired in a kill-for-hire slaying of his former son-in-law, and told newsmen: "I am going home, get in bed and stay there until tomorrow night. I am a happy man."

Robinson, 79, who made his fortune in the rough and tumble early days of the big Texas oil boom, embraced his wife, and both cried when the seven-man, five-woman jury brought in the verdict in the $7.6 million wrongful death civil suit.

Mike Shepler, a member of the jury, said, "It boiled down to one major thing — there just wasn't enough evidence presented to link Mr. Robinson to the slaying of Dr. Hill."

Robinson was accused in the civil suit of conspiring in the slaying of Dr. John Hill, a prominent Houston plastic surgeon, to avenge the death of Joan Robinson Hill, the millionaire's only daughter and the doctor's first wife.

Mrs. Hill died in 1969. Her husband was indicted on a charge he killed her through medical neglect. The first trial was a mistrial.

Dr. Hill was awaiting a second trial when he was shot to death by a masked gunman as he entered his posh River Oaks home on a late September evening in 1972.

The plaintiffs in the case were Connie Hill, the surgeon's third wife; his son, Robert, 17, and his mother, Myra, 75.

Marcia McKittick, a former drug addict and prostitute, is now serving a 10-year sentence for her part in the slaying. Lilla Paulus is serving 35-years for her involvement. The man accused of pulling the trigger that killed Hill, Bobby Wayne Vandiver, was shot to death by police in Longview, Tex., prior to his trial.

McKittick testified against Robinson, but Shepler said "some of the jurors didn't believe her. Some did. Personally, I didn't believe her."

The jury deliberated about 15 hours after hearing seven weeks of testimony and a full day of final arguments.

Connie Hill and her adopted son Robert left the courtroom immediately after the verdict was announced. Mrs. Hill would say only that "with the emotion of the trial it is too early to say if we will file an appeal. We fought a very difficult and long battle. We fought it honestly and fairly. There is no dishonor in defeat."

The jury did rule that the plaintiffs deserved several hundred thousands of dollars in damage, but with Hill cleared of conspiracy, it meant no one would have to pay the damages.

One attorney told The Associated Press, "Those damages are not collectable. There is no person named in the verdict responsible for the payments. It is one of those complex things in a civil lawsuit."

The verdict was unanimous, although a 10-2 vote is sufficient to settle a civil court case.

Robinson later said, "I hope to God that we can be reconciled with my grandson."

During the trial, Robinson, under questioning on the witness stand, looked at his young grandson, and using the nickname he had given the boy, said, "Boot, I had no more to do with your father's death than you did. Death, murder, does not solve any problem on the face of the earth."

Robert had testified earlier if the jury cleared his grandfather of any part in his father's death, "I could forgive him for that. But I can't forgive him for the things he has said about my father, calling his a drug addict and a homosexual."

WIN SUIT — Mr. and Mrs. Ash Robinson leave the Harris County Civil Court Building in Houston after a civil court jury decided that the Houston oil millionaire did not participate in a conspiracy to kill his son-in-law, Dr. John Hill. The verdict ended a prolonged $7.6 million wrongful death suit filed against Robinson by Hill's son, wife and mother. (AP Laserphoto)

Offices To Close Veterans Day

Federal, county and city offices will be closed Monday to observe Veterans Day in October for the last time.

Beginning in 1978, all official observance of the day will be on Nov. 11, the anniversary of the signing of the armistice to end World War I in 1918.

No residential, business or rural mail deliveries will be made Monday, and no window or caller service will be provided by the post office. Special delivery and collection service will be according to normal holiday schedules.

It will be classes as usual at Lubbock public schools, Texas Tech and Lubbock Christian College on Monday. However, LCC students are getting a long weekend thanks to a day off today.

State offices, local banks and savings and loan associations will observe Veterans Day on Nov. 11. All American Legion and Veterans of Foreign War posts will follow suit.

Veterans Day, which was known as Armistice Day until 1954, traditionally has been observed on Nov. 11. The observance was renamed Veterans Day in 1954 to honor soldiers from the Korean War and World War II. In 1968, Congress decided the day would be observed on the fourth Monday in October to give citizens a three-day weekend.

However, because more than 40 states refused to commemorate the veterans in October, Congress last year rescinded its decision and again declared Nov. 11 as the national holiday.

The change will not become effective until 1978 because by the time Congress decided on the revision, calendars already had been printed with the October date.

Voters To Decide Water Issue

A-J Correspondent
DIMMITT — Dimmitt's voters will decide today whether the city will issue $11 million in revenue bonds to bring in a new well field 6½ miles south of town.

All ballots will be cast at the city hall, and polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The city commission's proposal is to drill three new wells on its new two-acre well field, build a million-gallon reservoir and chlorine-treatment plant at the site, and construct a seven-mile pipeline to connect with the city water system.

The city purchased the well field and drilling rights last year from Mr. and Mrs. Joe Scott at a cost of $62,500.

According to City Mgr. Garnett Holland, the expansion project would increase the city's pumping capacity by 55 per cent — from 4.4 million to 6.9 million gallons per day, and from 75 million to 135 million gallons per month.

The city pumped more than 70 million gallons two months last summer, and had one day in which water usage topped the 4 million gallon mark.

The revenue bonds would be repaid with income from the city's water and sewer systems. City officials say that residential water rates would not have to be raised to pay off the bonds.

Today's election was forced by a petition after the city commission attempted last month to issue the bonds via city ordinance, without an election. Members of the city's governing board said they are trying to save time to take advantage of a lower interest rate on the bonds.

Almost 300 Dimmitt residents signed petitions demanding an election on the issue.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Last year my mother bought a Ricinus Communis plant, commonly known as the castor oil plant. The salesperson assured her it was not poisonous. My three-year-old brother ate the large seeds off the plant and died. Mother went to pieces after my little brother's death and has been under psychiatric care ever since.

Because of this tragedy I have done a lot of research on plants and was shocked to learn that there are a lot of poisonous plants in homes with small children. Unfortunately, many plant shops employ people who are uninformed. So, will you please warn your readers to check with a knowledgeable horticulturist or with a poison control center before they buy a house plant? I wish my mother had.

The following ARE poisonous if eaten in large amounts and will result in death:

- The berries of the daphne plant
- The bulb of the hyacinth plant
- The leaves and branches of the oleander

- The green berries of the red sage plant
- Any and all parts of the rhododendron plant
- The berries and foliage of the yew plant

Sign this letter — One Less In The Family

Dear One Less: Thank you for a letter that may save many lives. Too bad you had to lose your little brother, but hopefully you will have saved someone else's.

Dear Ann: My wife is 27 I am 29. We have been married five years. From the beginning I knew Martha had emotional problems but was sure that with a lot of love and understanding we could work things out.

Everything was fine until last January when our little girl was born. Martha became depressed, couldn't do much housework and wanted nothing to do with me sexually. I got her to go to a counselor. It helped.

In May Martha announced she was switching to an unlicensed hypnotist. Since that day she has become stubborn and unpleasant. She phones the hypnotist several times a day and can't make a decision on her own. She has a bad cough but won't go to a doctor — says the hypnotist is curing her. What can I do? — Stymied

Dear Sty: If the hypnotist is unlicensed and practicing medicine (which he seems to be doing) he should be reported to the County Medical Society and to the district attorney at once.

Dear Ann: My mother and I just had a big argument. We both respect your advice and have agreed to go by what you say. Here is the problem: A very good friend (a boy) didn't know what to buy me for my 15th birthday, so he handed me a $20 bill and said, "Here is your birthday present. Buy what you want. I can't think of anything."

My mother did not like the idea. She says it is not proper for a young boy to give a girl money as a gift. I think it's more sensible to give money than buy something dumb. Please settle this — Only Friends

Dear Only: I'm with your mom. If the friend couldn't think of an appropriate present, he should have given you a gift certificate rather than cash.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Mr. and Mrs. W.B. White will be honored today with a dinner at the Gridiron Restaurant on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. The former Bertha Barnes and White were married Oct. 20, 1927, in Humboldt, Tenn., and lived in Wichita Falls and Austin before moving to Lubbock five years ago. The dinner will be hosted by the couple's children and their families: Mr. and Mrs. A.E. Conrath of Bellevue, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. W.F. White of Richardson; and Mr. and Mrs. John T. White of Lubbock. The couple also has eight grandchildren.

North could have said any number of things starting with the mild suggestion that South would have made his contract. If he had led a small club and played low from dummy instead of that heart, all the defense could do would be to cash a second heart to keep South from making an overtrick.

Or North could have said something stronger such as "Play bridge!" or maybe "Use your brain, if you have one."

In any event North merely said, "Deal and get on with it."

HONEY SELECTION

Select the flavor you desire. The flavor depends upon the kind of flowers from which the bees gather nectar. Honey producers frequently mix several honeys by heating moderately and stirring to produce a blend with a flavor which is most satisfactory. If you have storage space, it is more economical to buy honey in large size containers.

This is the time when older folks sit around the fire, supplied with juicy apples and nuts in the shell, and are immersed in good conversation.

Be the first to surprise your family with this colorful, decorative cake.

One-Piece Style Big News In Swimwear Next Spring

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With summer 77 barely faded, the nation's forward-looking buyers are flocking here to find the swimsuits that will sell next year.

California's designers, always trendsetters in swimwear, unveiled sleek new collections firmly united in support of the one-piece suit.

The near-nude "string" bikini, good for shock value a few seasons ago, gets short shrift in the new California lines.

"Let's face it," says Loren Remy of one fashion swimwear company. "A one-piece is sexier than a bikini on a girl with a good figure."

Of course, these aren't the old-fashioned one-piece sarongs of other seasons.

Necklines plunge as far as the navel. Leg holes are cut high up on the thigh. Fabrics are body-hugging. Frequently the suit is strapless.

"The news is the maillot (my-oi)," said John Weingarten, vice president of another swimwear firm, using the French term. "There will probably be a resurgence of the bikini eventually. But for now, the bikini is for sunning at home. The maillot is for wearing in company."

His company's new collection features one-piece suits with halter straps or no straps at all. There are innovations such as the smashing "swim scarf," a piece of fabric wrapped gracefully around the body.

Two well-known swimwear houses see the one-piece blouse and the strapless "tube suit" as pacesetters.

"The strapless tube is the hottest selling style across the boards today," said Stephanie Soll of one designer firm, but that firm, trying to please all tastes, is showing a few bikinis.

"Put the one-piece next to the bikini," said Miss Soll, "and you'll see that the one-piece is sexier."

A well-known swimwear maker, launching a new line called "Ete" (the French word for summer), uses the boldest and brightest prints as attention getters. A standout in the line is a burgundy and white woodblock floral "tube" suit with matching floor-length strapless dress.

Another swimwear house, which designs for the youthful junior market, focuses on active, athletic styles. It calls them "the jock look," and they are as simple as an Olympic swimmer's suit. The dash of fashion is in colors and racing stripes.

"Many of our junior customers have never bought a one-piece maillot," said Remy, spokesman for the company, of the bikini-generation market.

"The last time they had a one-piece suit was when they were little kids. This is something new to them. It gives them a reason to buy a new swimsuit."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has just informed me that he has a spot on his lung. It seems to cause him a great deal of pain, and he is taking medicine prescribed by his doctor. He claims there is nothing that can be done and he only has six months to live. The doctor did not tell him this. He just believes it. Can you tell me what it sounds like? — C.H.

A spot on the lung is never a very nice thing to have, but hopeless? I doubt it. Even lung cancer need not be hopeless in these days of sophisticated surgical techniques.

If it appeared on a routine physical X-ray, a lot more would have to be known before any diagnosis could be given. A spot could be any of several things — healing of TB (or active TB) or histoplasmosis or scar from a previous infection, etc. The spot could be in the pleural lining of the lung and not in the lung proper.

It's time this matter was settled, perhaps for you to have a chat with the doctor or your husband to get some straight information. It would be helpful to know just what medicine is being used — an antibiotic, or what? That would give a clue.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife tells me I shouldn't drink coffee because of my angina pectoris. Is she right, or off base? — A.A.

She's right if she means the caffeinated kind. That should be limited. Moderate use of a decaffeinated variety is usually tolerated, even though a bit of the caffeine remains.

Some hearts are easily stimulated, and stimulation can disturb rhythm. This can produce the pain. With angina, it's not so much what you eat or what you do, but how you eat (not too much at once) and how you pace your activities. For a fuller discussion of these factors see my booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris," especially pages 13-18. If you don't have a copy, you can get one by sending 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a young son who has reached the age where one usually thinks of talking about the facts of life. How should I go about this? My husbands says the kids know it all from television and movies nowadays, anyway, and it's useless. What do you say? — Mrs. C.P.

I say that's a bad attitude to take about such an important subject.

Certainly, it's a fact that youngsters are exposed to more explicit sex information today than was any other generation. But it's usually best to have the "little talk" anyway. Such talks may serve merely to confirm what a youngster has already heard at school or in the schoolyard. But more often it clears up a lot of misinformation generated from the informal "lessons."

Some of my mail betrays a lot of that among young people. I always think of the occasional note from the young girl, asking if she can become pregnant from kissing.

With a son, the father should take the lead. Questions should be solicited and the answers should be direct. They need not be lectures so long as they are factual.

Good books and pamphlets on this subject are plentiful. Check your library.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You stated that one cause of hair loss can be excessive vitamin A. What would you consider to be an excess? — A.E.L.

Anything over the recommended daily allowance, which for vitamin A is 5,000 international units. More is not needed and for the normal adult is superfluous. A diet that includes some of the green and yellow vegetables supplies enough.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My brother takes an antibiotic, but doesn't seem to drink much water with it. What I want to know is should he not drink a lot of water for that medicine? — E.B.

Enough to swallow with is all he needs.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are there any calories in vitamins? — S.L.

No. Might be a few in the compound of which they are a part, but not in the vitamins themselves.

Do you have problem hair? Dr. Thosteson's new booklet, "Good Health for Your Hair," shows how proper treatment can result in healthier, more attractive hair. To get a copy, write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise

Here's a hint for those quicksters who like to take care of their skin and don't have the time to cleanse their face with cold cream and then night cream.

I buy my creams when they are on sale and keep them stored in my refrigerator to prevent deterioration — just in case. Then I mix the two together in another jar thus saving two operations and much time.

One application takes care of everything for me by using the above method. — Amelita Harrison

HINTS FROM HIM

Dear Heloise

While making a tossed salad, I stumbled across this hint.

I had often been disappointed by the flavor that green onions gave to my salads when the salads were made in advance.

So I prepared the rest of the salad, cut up the onions, put them in the corner of the plastic bag and gave the bag a couple of twists.

Next, I simply tuck the sealed onions into the bowl with the rest of the salad until I was ready to serve the salad and used the rest of the bag to cover the salad bowl, thus keeping everything fresh and crispy (not oniony).

Sure saves time for a busy student. — Paul Scott

Mysterious Deaths Pose Questions For Germans

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The mystery over the jail cell deaths of three convicted West German terrorists deepened Friday with a report that one of them told prison chaplains the day before her death that she "reckoned with her execution."

The disclosure, made by a government spokesman, added to a string of questions surrounding the deaths of Andreas Baader, 34, Gudrun Ensslin, 37, and Jan-Carl Raspe, 32, who were found dead Tuesday at a Stuttgart prison.

Other questions on the minds of many West Germans on Friday included: How did two of the jailed anarchists get the pistols that fired the fatal shots? Did the terrorists leave behind any written testaments? Who were the hijackers of a West German airliner that demanded the release of the three and other prisoners and what were the hijackers' ties with the terrorist network?

The government said the deaths were suicides, but the lawyers for the terrorists have called for an international investigation into the possibility the three were murdered.

Extremists across Western Europe staged a wave of attacks against German property in reaction to the prison deaths.

Government spokesman Klaus Boelling told reporters Miss Ensslin voiced fears of her possible "execution" during a meeting with chaplains Monday at the maximum security prison.

The next morning, prison guards discovered the bodies a few hours after the air hijacking to force their release was foiled by German commandos in Somalia.

The hijackers, all but one of whom were killed, were cooperating with other German terrorists who earlier had kidnapped industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer in an effort to free Baader, Ensslin, Raspe and eight other jailed anarchists.

Although passengers said the hijackers appeared to be Arabs or Turks, the German government has not reported their names, nationalities or terrorist connections.

Schleyer, one of West Germany's most influential businessmen, was abducted on a Cologne street Sept. 5. His body was found Wednesday in Mulhouse, France, across the Rhine from Germany. He had been killed by a bullet in the head.

Over 100,000 police are hunting for 10 women and six men wanted in connection with the Schleyer case.

Boelling denied claims by Miss Ensslin's lawyer, Otto Schily, that she had given the chaplains a letter to be delivered to Manfred Schueler, chief of Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's office.

Schily called on the government to release contents of the letter in view of Miss Ensslin's death. But Boelling denied such a letter existed and said a search of her cell turned up no correspondence addressed to Schueler.

Boelling indicated that allegations of the mystery letter may have been part of a pattern designed to make the deaths appear to be murders and make martyrs of the terrorists.

The spokesman said Baader met with an official from Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's office one day before the terrorist's death. Boelling said the official had been sent to the prison to investigate a request by Baader and Miss Ensslin to talk to chancellery office chief Manfred Schueler.

The official returned to Bonn when it turned out that neither Baader nor Ensslin was prepared to say anything helpful in solving the Lufthansa hijacking or Schleyer kidnaping. Both wanted to have "a political discussion" with Schueler, Boelling said.

In Stammheim prison, investigators said Friday they found half a pound of explosives behind the baseboard of a cell once used by the terrorists. They also reported finding a hidden compartment in Baader's record player, and officials said it was big enough to hide a gun.

Investigators also found a pair of headphones hidden under a wash basin in another cell, they said.

The Bonn government was faced with a large number of unanswered questions surrounding the deaths of the terrorists.

The questions include: —How did Baader and Raspe, who died of gunshot wounds, obtain pistols and conceal them despite daily searches of their isolation cells? Miss Ensslin hanged herself with an electrical cord.

—If Baader killed himself, why did he fire two extra bullets, found in his cell wall and mattresses, and then shoot himself in the back of the neck? Some government officials believe it could have been a deliberate move to make the terrorists look like martyrs.

—How could the guards, stationed near the cells, not have heard the shots, as they claim?

—Did the prisoners die in a suicide pact in a fit of despair after the hijacking failed?

—How were the prisoners able to maintain an illegal electrical communications system without being discovered by guards?

In Stuttgart, Mayor Manfred Rommel, son of World War II Gen. Erwin Rommel, announced that the three terrorists will be buried in a city cemetery despite objections from local residents.

Officials said Miss Ensslin's father, the Rev. Helmut Ensslin, had agreed to take care of the arrangements.

In Babenhausen, funeral services were held Friday for Capt. Juergen Schumann, pilot of the hijacked Lufthansa jet who was murdered Sunday night during a refueling stop in South Yemen.

The hijackers said they shot Schumann because he tried to escape, and they said Yemeni authorities returned him. Lufthansa insists the pilot jumped off the plane to try to get the Yemenis to intervene with the hijackers and prevent another takeoff. The West German government announced that Schumann has been awarded the Federal Service Cross for gallantry.

The Bonn government also announced that a state funeral for Schleyer, 62, president of West Germany's employers and industrial association would be held Tuesday in his hometown of Stuttgart.

Throughout the country, police continued their hunt for Schleyer's killers, distributing more than three million handbills with pictures and descriptions of the suspects.

Police said no arrests had been made in the Schleyer case, but the security crack-down had led to arrests of 16 persons sought in other serious crimes.

The government also said it was taking seriously a threat by Schleyer's killers against Chancellor Schmidt. In the communique announcing the location of Schleyer's body, the kidnapers warned, "we will never forget the blood shed by Schmidt and the imperialists who support him."

Boelling said the government considered the remark "a concrete threat" against the chancellor's life. He did not elaborate.

Many Prescriptions Called Unnecessary

By The Associated Press
If you've ever tried to read a prescription from your doctor and given up after the printed name and address at the top you may have cheated yourself out of some valuable information by conceding defeat too quickly.

According to federal officials, more than 1.5 billion prescriptions are written every year. Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare, said recently that the prescriptions often are unnecessary and useless.

Needed or not, they are also misunderstood. Knowing exactly what the doctor prescribes is essential if you want to comparison shop for the best price. And contrary to popular belief, the translation job isn't hopeless. Assuming you can read your doctor's handwriting, you only have to remember a few simple abbreviations in order to learn what you are looking for.

Virtually all prescriptions are written on standard size, pre-printed forms, containing the doctor's name and address and providing space for him to write your name, the date, the name of the drug being prescribed, the form of the drug, the strength, the amount to be dispensed, directions for use and the number of times the prescription can be refilled. The doctor's signature goes at the bottom.

The drug will be listed either according to the manufacturer's trade name or by the generic or common name. The generic drugs are less expensive, chemical equivalents of the brand-name products.

The dosage form — if there is a choice — will be indicated by an abbreviation: "cap" stands for capsule and "tab" for tablet. Liquids are indicated by "el" for elixir, "sy" for syrup or "sol" for solution.

Drops may be indicated by "gtt," an abbreviation for the Latin gutta.

The dosage strength is given in metric measures such as "50 mg" for 50 milligrams.

Refill information also will be listed in abbreviated form: "Refill 2x," for example, means the patient can obtain the same amount of the drug two more times without a new prescription.

Doctors still use Latin in the directions for use. These directions are written in English on the label the pharmacist puts on the drug container, but it's a good idea to learn the original phrases anyway.

Here, from the Food and Drug Administration, is a guide to some of the most common phrases, their abbreviations and their meanings.

- ad libitum, abbreviated as ad lib., meaning freely, as needed
- ante cibos, abbreviated as a.c., meaning before meals
- bis in die, abbreviated as b.i.d., meaning twice a day
- hora somni, abbreviated as h.s., meaning at bedtime
- per os, abbreviated as P.O., meaning orally
- quaque 4 hora, abbreviated as q 4 h., meaning every four hours (q 6 h. would mean every six hours, q 8 h., every eight hours, etc.)
- quater in die, abbreviated as q.i.d., meaning four times a day
- ter in die, abbreviated as t.i.d., meaning three times a day
- ut dictum, abbreviated as Ut dict or U.D., meaning as directed

Until recently, consumers had little choice of products when it came to prescription drugs, particularly if the doctor specified a particular brand. A growing campaign is under way, however, to permit pharmacists to substitute generic products for brand names, even if the doctor prescribes a brand-name item.

Americans spend $7.5 billion a year for prescription drugs. Supporters of efforts to allow the substitution of generic drugs for brand-name items say consumers could save hundreds of millions of dollars a year if they are allowed to choose the cheaper products.

Problems Stall New SALT Agreement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials said Friday three major problems remain before the United States and the Soviet Union can agree on a new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty.

The officials, who represent government agencies, told reporters they expect the problems to be solved but remaining negotiations will be very tough. Under the ground rules, the officials could not be identified or quoted.

The three major questions still left unsettled were:

— How to limit accuracy and development of the new, large Soviet missiles, such as the SS-18, so as to give the United States some assurance they would not be used in a sneak attack that would wipe out U.S. land-based missiles in their silos.

— How to regulate the long-distance cruise missiles. Cruise missiles are pilotless jets which can carry small nuclear warheads over great distance with exceptional accuracy.

The Soviets want the numbers limited in the agreement. The United States agrees, but it wants to keep future options open, particularly the possibility of turning the missiles, or the technology, over to NATO allies.

The actual numbers involved in the overall ceiling of weapons. Congressional sources said the negotiators are now discussing a total for each side ranging between 2,160 and 2,250. The bargaining is being carried on at Geneva, by a standing committee of U.S. and Soviet arms negotiators.

The officials said a basic format has been agreed for dealing with the Soviet "Backfire" bombers. The exact numbers, and other conditions, are still being negotiated, but it is not thought to be a major problem.

The Backfire question will be considered in a document that will be apart from the three-part SALT agreement.

The first part will be a treaty, with an eight-year life, which will set the overall limits for strategic weapons, and will set out "sub-limits" for different kinds of missiles.

New Nursing Home To Have Open House

A-J Correspondent
SNYDER — Snyder Oaks Nursing Home will hold open house from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

The new 97-bed facility is located at 210 27th St. and has begun accepting patients. The facility includes an activity room, barber and beauty shop, television lounge and a chapel.

For example, the officials said, each side will be permitted 1,200 multi-warhead land-based missiles, in addition to 120 bombers equipped to carry air-launched cruise missiles.

The second part will be a protocol, which will set out restrictions on testing and perfecting new weapons, such as certain kinds of long-range cruise missiles.

The final part will be a statement of principles, in which both sides will agree on the targets for a Salt III treaty. The Salt III treaty would cut the strategic arsenals still more with the two sides aiming for a reduction as low as 1,800 total.

Marines Die In Crackup Of Chopper

MANILA, The Philippines (UPI) — A U.S. Marine Corps helicopter with 39 persons aboard crashed in a ravine Friday during an amphibious landing exercise in the central Philippines, Navy and Marine Corps spokesmen said. At least 18 Marines were killed, 14 were injured and 7 were listed as missing.

A Navy spokesman in Manila said the aircraft went down at about 11:30 a.m. near Santa Cruz on the island of Mindoro, about 90 miles southwest of Manila, during a joint U.S. Filipino training exercise.

The helicopter was a single rotor CH-53 Sikorsky "Sea Stallion," the largest in the Marine Corps, listed as being capable of carrying 35 troops and a crew of five or a total load of 14,000 pounds, a Marine spokesman at the Pentagon said.

"Right now, we have no idea what caused the accident. It's under investigation," the spokesman said.

He said names of the dead and injured would not be released until relatives were notified. As for the seven men listed as missing, he said "I assume it's rugged terrain and they're still searching."

The helicopter was involved in the "Fortress Lightning" 5000-man brigade operation supported by 31 ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet which began Oct. 9 and was to end Friday, the Marine spokesman said.

The operation involved elements of the First Marine Aircraft Wing and the Third Marine Division, including the 4th, 9th and 12th Regiments, from bases in Okinawa and Iwakuni, Japan.

Rescue workers and medical assistants were on the scene and 7th fleet units were standing by off the coast for medical assistance and the evacuation of the victims.

Tax Credit Package Approved By Senate Finance Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $40-billion package of tax credits for energy conservation and production was given a final vote of approval Friday by the Senate Finance Committee.

By a 13-5 vote the committee endorsed the bill as a substitute for the energy taxes that President Carter proposed to force energy conservation and reduce U.S. reliance on imported oil.

Committee aides said the bill would cut U.S. oil imports by 2.3 million barrels a day by 1985. By comparison, the House-passed tax bill, which includes much of what Carter recommended, would save 1.7 million to 2.5 million barrels daily in that year.

The committee's action set the stage for a major Senate battle next week, but no matter what shape the bill is in when it passes the Senate, a conference committee will write the final energy program. And it likely will include some of the taxes passed by the House as well as some of the tax credits approved by the Finance Committee.

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., protested that while the committee appeared to be voting for $40 billion worth of tax reductions, it really was setting the stage to accept some of the House-approved taxes.

"What we're really voting for is ... a massive tax program," he said. "We can't vote on the (bill's) merits because there aren't any."

Surprisingly, four of the committee's seven Republicans voted for the bill. Democratic Sen. Floyd Haskell of Colorado, independent Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and three Republicans opposed the measure.

Instead of seeking to force energy conservation by raising taxes, as Carter and the House propose to do, the Finance Committee bill would reward those who conserve and provide greater incentives for increased energy production.

There are few provisions aimed at helping typical Americans. The most noteworthy is one on which Carter, the House and the committee agree: a tax cut of up to $400 to help offset the cost of home insulation, storm windows and other weatherization efforts.

The biggest item in the bill would allow the federal government to pay half the cost of new boilers and other equipment needed for power plants and factories to convert their oil-and-gas-burning facilities to coal.

About $3 billion worth of the $40 billion is earmarked as incentives to help energy companies produce oil and gas from ocean brine, shale rock and other exotic sources.

By a 12-3 vote the committee rejected an effort Friday to kill those credits on grounds the energy industry will produce without them. Instead, the panel voted to make the credits permanent.

When Senate debate begins on the bill next Tuesday, efforts will be made to cut the production credit, the big incentive for coal-conversion equipment and other provisions.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., who is not a member of the tax-writing Finance Committee, says he will seek to have the Senate restore Carter's proposed tax on gas-guzzling automobiles. As yet, there is no evidence that anyone will try to get the Senate to adopt the main tax proposed by Carter, a levy on crude oil that is intended to drive up the price of domestic oil.

Those two taxes, as well as one on industries that burn oil and gas, were killed by the Finance Committee. However, even though the Senate may reject them, they still could be part of the energy program approved by Congress because they were voted by the House.

Membership kick-off month set for October will be emphasized by 19th District president, Naomi Lowery and District Commissioner Sid Lowery. Members attending the meeting will also be served a luncheon at noon as part of the day-long convention.

The next district meeting will be at Big Spring in 1978.

Ford Warehouse Hit By Blaze

DETROIT (AP) — A fire that roared through Ford Motor Co.'s main auto-parts warehouse in Cologne, Germany, "will not in any way affect" imports of Ford Fiestas or Mercury Capris to the United States, Ford said Friday.

The Capri and the new Fiesta are the only two models Ford makes in Germany for the U.S. market.

Ford officials here say they still do not know the cause of Thursday's blaze, but said damages could run as high as $87 million.

Army C Rations Go To School

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Officials of Weber State College found out the other day that 10 cases of "C rations" had shown up at the school.

And that brought logical questions: Why? Who paid for them?

At first, school administrators speculated the fabled food of yesteryear's GIs would be used in some sort of nutritional study.

But a secretary dispatched by the school's institutional council found out differently.

The C rations were for the Army ROTC unit on campus, and she reported, federal money had been used to purchase them.

Then someone wondered out loud whether they were canned in modern times, or if they were surplus from a long-since ended war.

"That's what we wondered about back during World War II," said one council member.

GOP Chairman Pans Republican Splinter Group

By PAT PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Organizers' claims that a new GOP group has been set up here to help, not hurt the current Lubbock County Republican Party are "Baloney," County GOP chairman Mike Stevens charged Friday.

"I believe these people are on a personal ego trip and their aim is to destroy, for personal gain," Stevens said.

The Active Republicans of Lubbock County (ARLC) was formed Thursday night.

Three of its leaders — Mike Van Horn, John Ryan and Dean Krueger — have been frequent vocal critics of Stevens and the Lubbock County Republican Party executive committee.

Organizers stressed at their charter meeting that they do not want to rebel from or supplant the current GOP organization here, but to "enhance" it.

They said they will seek out qualified conservatives, encourage them to file for election, endorse them and work on their behalf in the Republican primaries.

Then, they said, they will work in "total cooperation" with all other GOP organizations in general elections to defeat Democratic candidates.

Leaders of the ARLC referred at the chartering meeting to conservative Ronald Reagan's GOP presidential primary loss last year to Gerald Ford, and said they had learned then that the official county Republican Party could not directly involve itself on behalf of a primary candidate.

"We can get involved in partisan primaries where the formal Republican Party can't," said Bill Wigley, chosen temporary chairman of the ARLC until it elects permanent officers in February.

Stevens sneered at the claims today.

"The 18 months that I have served as county chairman, these people have shown a lack of desire to cooperate with anyone who would do anything any way except theirs. They have made repeated attacks on the national party, the state party, local precinct chairmen and on me personally," he said.

"Their claim of trying to help the GOP is baloney. They are without credibility. If they statements of a desire to help were made by anyone other than these individuals — two of whom I consider outsiders with checkered political pasts — it would be believable," Stevens lashed.

He said the two to whom he referred are Van Horn and Ryan who came to Lubbock a few years ago from California. Van Horn had been chairman of Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee there, but was ousted by the party after about six months in office.

Ryan reportedly was a close associate of his there.

Stevens noted there is no rule against the county Republican Party here taking an active part on behalf of individuals in the primary, but said it had chosen not to do so in the past to encourage citizens to make up their own minds.

"It would discourage candidates from filing if they thought the party as a group would support one over the others. I don't think any organization has the right to tell its members that 'You will support this candidate' and will give him your money."

"That's the way unions work," Stevens said.

ARLC leaders Thursday said they hope it will become a 13-county organization, encompassing the state's 28th Senatorial District.

Stevens indicated he thinks the ARLC

DPS Urges Slower Highway Driving

AUSTIN (AP) — The head of the Texas Department of Public Safety said Friday that traffic deaths are increasing each week and urged motorists to obey the 55 mph speed limit.

Col. Wilson Speir said traffic deaths this year total 2,675, compared with 2,467 at this time in 1976.

"What's more, the percentage of increase in deaths is becoming greater with each passing week," he said.

Meanwhile, Speir said, an estimated 74 per cent of motorists exceed the speed limit, compared with 69 per cent at the end of last year.

Although the highway patrol's enforcement effort has doubled since the new law took effect, the low number of troopers provided by the legislature "makes the job extremely difficult when some three-fourths of the driving public is violating the speed law," he said.

He said the 50 per cent increase in deaths on the interstate system clearly indicates that excessive speed is a major factor in fatal accidents.

"We are therefore issuing this appeal to motorists in the hope they will realize that slower speeds will pay off in the saving of lives, suffering and money in the form of better gas mileage and insurance costs in addition to extra wear and tear on vehicles," Speir said.

organizers only decided to take the "we want-to-help" tactic after finding out they would have little support among local party faithful for an alternative county party.

"Ten days ago, they issued press releases inviting dissidents to their meeting and then deny their intentions at the meeting. Given this discrepancy, can these people be believed?" Stevens asked.

He referred to a press release distributed by Van Horn about two weeks ago. The release contained scathing personal criticism of Stevens, accusing him of "buffoonery" and saying that a "small vocal group" on the county executive committee is interested only in arguing.

About 20 persons attended the ARLC charter meeting Thursday — about half or less than the 40 to 50 Van Horn and

Krueger had earlier predicted would be there.

Ryan admitted at the session to being "disappointed" in the turnout, but confidently forecast the ARLC will have 150 members or more by February, when a senatorial district convention is planned.

Carter's Designate As FBI Director Still Recuperating

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — FBI Director-designate Frank M. Johnson Jr. has resumed a light work schedule as he continues to recuperate from a relapse suffered last week from abdominal surgery in August.

Johnson's physician, Dr. J.J. Kirschfeld of Montgomery, said Thursday the federal judge should be able to resume a normal schedule within a month.

"He's doing well," the doctor said. "He's up now and back on his rehabilitation program. He's going to work in the office for half a day, and I anticipate within three to four weeks he will be back to normal."

Because of the relapse, confirmation hearings for Johnson, 58, are expected to be delayed until after the first of the year.

Jamaicans Host Cuba's Castro

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Cuba's cigar-puffing President Fidel Castro, a baseball addict, was bemused during his official visit to Jamaica this week by a cricket field in this former British colony.

At the sprawling Cuban-built Jose Marti agricultural secondary school outside Kingston Castro asked, "What is this cricket?"

Principal Joseph Earl explained that cricket, Jamaica's leading sport, was something like baseball, which is the number one sport in Cuba, but it's played on an oval not a diamond.

Castro, appearing still perplexed, moved on saying: "Let's see if you can teach us to play cricket."

Castro, who puffed fervently on his cigars as he moved from place to place, proved still to be Cuba's best advertisement for Havana cigars. But he never mentioned cigars, perhaps tactfully because his hosts have their own cigar industry which is in competition with Havana's.

Castro's cigar smoking figured in a cartoon in the Daily Gleaner newspaper. A cloud of smoke overhead had the word "communism" written inside. Seated next to him was Prime Minister Michael Manley, in the guise of blushing maiden, waving a "Democratic Socialism" fan. The caption said: "Not interfering, just friendly."

At the Reynolds Jamaica mines, welder Winston Moodie broke through heavy security, jumped on the podium where Castro was speaking and presented the Cuban leader with his 15-year service medal.

Castro gave Moodie a Latin-style "abrazo," pinned on the medal and then took off a pin with a Cuban emblem and gave it to the welder. Moodie said he wanted to give something special to the famous revolutionary leader.

Where was Castro staying? Officials declined to say because of security considerations, but the Daily Gleaner gave the answer on its front-page. The paper said Castro was staying at the residence of Cuba's ambassador to Jamaica, Ramon Pez Ferro, in nearby St. Andrew's. The residence is enclosed by a high fence and a heavy contingent of security officials patrolled the area.

During an hour-long speech to 550 students at the Jose Marti school, the Cuban leader shed some light on his student days.

"If you ask me how I was when I was a student, I would say I was regular," Castro said. "Sometimes, I would study a lot.

Determined Irishman Jogs Across America

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With Ohio grasshoppers and Rocky Mountain blizzards just a memory, a footsore Irish bartender jogged to the steps of City Hall on Friday, completing a 52-day, 3,046-mile cross-country run that he started just after getting married. Tom McGrath, 27, who began the marathon Aug. 29 at New York's City Hall Plaza, said his feat qualified him for "Guinness Book of World Records" honors as having made the longest and fastest run across the United States. He said he did it to set an example for President Carter's energy program and for physical fitness.

The small but muscular Irishman with a Fu Manchu mustache trotted into a cheering crowd of about 100 at the municipal building's steps, waving the flag of Ireland and holding hands with his wife, Mena, who waved an American flag. Mena and two friends from New York, Jim Manion, 38, and Ricky Barberi, 33, had accompanied him in a camper and on a motorcycle.

McGrath kissed his wife, accepted a can of beer from a friend, and poured it down over his head, soaking his gold jersey, green gym shorts and track shoes.

Asked what kind of shape he was in, the genial McGrath said in a lilting brogue, "I feel almost dead. It was much more severe than I had expected."

He said he ran an average of 60 miles a day, and the worst part was "getting up to face each morning. I was tempted to quit every day. It became more a mental battle than a physical battle."

"The only thing that kept me going was the thought of my friends in New York and my family in Ireland."

The grasshoppers, which formed a swarm around him in Ohio, and the blizzard in the Rockies weren't his only hazards. McGrath said he injured an arm when a truck brushed him in New Jersey, got drenched in Iowa when it rained 10 inches in two hours, and barely avoided a rattlesnake in Nevada.

Dogs attacked him all across the country, he pulled a hamstring crossing rugged Kit Carson Pass in Alpine County, Calif., and was shooed off many a road by highway patrolmen.

He said the worst terrain he faced was

"744 miles of shrub and desert when I ran across Nevada and Utah. It can get pretty lonely out there."

McGrath had sold his pub in the New York City borough of Queens to make the journey and married his wife the day before he left. Both come from the town of Ederney, in Northern Ireland's County Fermanagh.

The record McGrath claimed to have broken belonged to E. Gordon Brooks, who ran from New York to Los Angeles in 53 days, seven hours and 45 minutes between June 21 and Aug. 13, 1974. McGrath said he beat that mark by 12 hours and five minutes, and by 170 miles.

Because Jupiter bulges at the equator, a 150-pound man standing there would weigh 350 pounds and standing on either of its poles, would weigh 425 pounds.

Moderate Price Increases Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation held at a moderate pace during September, with small increases in the retail price of food and most other goods, the government said Friday.

The Labor Department said consumer prices rose by only three-tenths of one per cent last month. That matched the August increase and cut inflation to a 4.2 per cent annual rate in during the third quarter.

It was a marked improvement from earlier this year, when consumer prices soared at a 10 per cent annual rate during the first quarter and an 8.1 per cent rate in the second quarter.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said President Carter was "gratified and encouraged by the continued moderation in consumer price inflation."

Powell said that while inflation is still a cause for concern, the new figures "do clearly indicate a welcome respite for consumers." Carter was "particularly pleased that the slowdown in consumer price increases over the past several months has been broadened," he added.

Farm prices have fallen since April and the declines have been reflected at the supermarket. At the same time, retail price increases for non-food commodities such as autos and gasoline have moderated and there has been some slowdown in the rising costs of services.

The administration has forecast an inflation rate of about 6.5 per cent for the year, following a 4.8 per cent rate in 1976.

Consumer prices in September were 6.6 per cent higher than those of a year ago, with the Consumer Price Index at 184.0. This means that a marketbasket of goods and services selling for $100 in 1967 now costs $184.

Despite the slowing of inflation, the purchasing power of the average workers' paycheck fell four-tenths of a per cent last month because weekly earnings were held down by a reduction in working hours.

But real spendable earnings — take-home pay adjusted for inflation and taxes — was up 3.7 per cent, largely because of the increase in the standard tax deduction in June that put more money in workers' pockets.

The Labor Department said retail food prices actually declined four-tenths of a per cent in September, but with adjustment for the usual seasonal influences, the change was registered as a one-tenth of a per cent increase.

Prices declined for pork, poultry, fresh fruits, eggs, coffee, fats and oil products and dairy products. The decline in dairy products was the first in seven months.

Beef prices rose, however, for the first time in five months and fresh vegetables were seven per cent higher last month. Among non-food commodities, declines in used car and clothing prices helped offset increases for tobacco products, gasoline and new cars.

Non-food prices rose two-tenths of a per cent last month, about the same as in each of the three preceding months.

The second consecutive monthly decline in mortgage rates was reported, but higher charges for household services, medical care and transportation pushed the cost of services up five-tenths of a per cent last month, the same as in August.

Meanwhile, in other economic developments:

—Two major banks, Citibank of New York and First National Bank of St. Louis, raised their prime lending rate — the rate charged on loans to a bank's most creditworthy customers — from 7½ to 7¾ per cent.

Boosts in the prime rate do not necessarily mean higher interest rates on consumer loans, but often resulted in a psychological climate favoring those other increases.

—The White House Council on Wage and Price Stability, noting a 12 per cent increase in lumber prices over the past three months, blamed it on demand outpacing supply. The council suggested the National Forest Service may be too stringent in its policies limiting logging in national forests.

POLYGLYCOAT

The revolutionary new protective sealant that's not a wax or polish and can only be applied by your new car dealer.

GUARANTEED FOR THREE FULL YEARS — Your auto purchase today is a necessity. Buy with the future in mind.

POLYGLYCOAT PRESERVES! NO NEED TO EVER WAX YOUR CAR AGAIN!

Polyglycoat is a paint and chrome sealant finish — guaranteed to protect your car against fading, corrosion, oxidation, and loss of gloss for three years. Composed of Dow 502, paraffin, silicone, with a kerosene base. Polyglycoat breaks through the fine paint pores in the surface and penetrates 2-3 layers into the paint-sealing it and shielding it against the foreign elements that cause corrosion, rust, and loss of gloss.

Not only will Polyglycoat eliminate the need for waxing, but it will virtually maintain your car's showroom finish, thereby enhancing resale potential. It should be applied to all new cars and properly prepared used cars.

KEEPS YOUR PAINT AND CHROME LIKE NEW!

Witnesses Testify For Robison In Bolles Murder Case

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Two former employees of a plumbing supply store testified Friday that they saw murder defendant James Robison in the shop at about the time the prosecution contends he was triggering a bomb that fatally injured newsman Don Bolles.

Robison, 55, a suburban Chandler plumber, and Max Dunlap, 48, a Phoenix contractor, are charged with first-degree murder and conspiracy in the June 1976 car-bomb slaying of the Arizona Republic reporter.

They were arrested last January after John Harvey Adamson, 33, a former racing dog breeder, confessed to the killing, was given a relatively light prison sentence, and turned state's evidence.

Adamson has testified that Dunlap hired him to kill Bolles and two other men and that he brought Robison into the plot to help him.

Adamson said Robison detonated the bomb underneath Bolles' car in a hotel parking lot June 2, the bomb exploded about 11:30 a.m.

According to Adamson, the plot to kill Bolles, Arizona Atty. Gen. Bruce Babbitt and Al "King Alfonso" Luznetz, a former public relations man, was hatched because a millionaire liquor wholesaler, and friend of Dunlap, Kemper Marley Sr., wanted the three slain.

Marley has not been charged in the case and testified last week he had nothing to do with the killing.

Chris Stamps, a former employee of Universal Plumbing Supply in Phoenix, testified that Robison was in the store for about 45 minutes sometime between 10:30 a.m. and noon the day of the bombing.

He told Robison's court-appointed attorney, David Derickson, that he estimated the timing of Robison's visit according to a delivery truck schedule at the warehouse. He said the trucks usually left the store between 10 a.m. and 10:30 a.m., but on June 2 they left late.

Under cross examination, Stamps denied ever having told police he could not recall what time of day Robison was in the store or that he could have come in as early as 10 a.m.

Stamps said Robison did not appear upset or nervous when he was in the store and did not seem to be watching the clock.

Stamps said he also talked to Robison after he had been interviewed by police shortly after the bombing slaying, and that Robison did not appear concerned that police had questioned Stamps.

William Davis, a former warehouse supervisor, also testified that he saw Robison in the warehouse between 10 a.m. and noon that day.

Zebra Plants Get No Respect

By ELVIN McDONALD

After years of answering thousands of reader questions, I think I am not being unfair in saying that a disproportionate number of them have to do with the zebra plant, known officially as aphelandra, a word properly pronounced aff-uh-LAN-druh. Judging by its behavior for me, AW-ful-lan-druh might be more appropriate.

However, lest I malign an innocent plant, I decided to check up on its reputation among some of my friends. Sorry aphelandra, you don't seem to get much respect from any of the plant people. For instance:

George and Virginia Elbert in "Plants That Really Bloom Indoors" ... in most instances it is a losing battle ... you get tired of trying ... out it goes.

Bill Mulligan, garden editor of "American Home" ... a lemon.

Maggie Baylis in "House Plants for the Purple Thumb" ... "This is a prima donna which charms for one season ... but will rarely live to give more." And, in "Plant Parenthood" ... one of those mass-produced plants grown for its showy foliage and usually forced under greenhouse conditions to attract the buyer. Given normal house or apartment conditions, it sags after the showy yellow bloom has breathed its last.

Florence and Stanley Dworkin in "The Apartment Gardener" ... we don't know anyone who grows it successfully in an apartment, certainly no one who flowers it again.

And, finally, Tina Nitzken, the green thumb at "Apartment Life": "Aphelandra? Forget it."

With that kind of press, it's surprising that the zebra plant is still around to haunt us. I've decided it may be tougher than we think.

In fact, aphelandra's real problem, as Maggie Baylis suggests, is that most of us first become acquainted with it as a commercially grown gift plant, one that has been hurried along under ideal conditions, to the point of flower and foliage perfection, then turned out into the cruel world of reality.

And the harsh realities that wither up the zebra's white-veined green foliage are these:

1. Letting the soil dry out enough to wilt the leaves—even once.
2. Setting the plant where forced-air heat blows directly on it.
3. Leaving the plant standing in a saucer of water when temperatures are on the chilly side (below 65 F.)
4. Allowing an attack of red spider-mites, mealybugs, brown scale or aphids to go unchecked.

An aphelandra that survives any or all of these debilitating experiences typically has a few leaves that perch on top of an otherwise totally nude stem. The way to save it is to make a tip cutting about 4 inches long in late winter, set it to root with 3 inches of the bare stem planted in a pot of vermiculite. Enclose in a plastic bag or large drinking glass, keep evenly moist in bright light but no direct sun. When new leaf growth is apparent, transplant to a mixture of equal parts sphagnum peat moss, vermiculite, sand (or perlite) and all-purpose potting soil.

Since fall is the time when aphelandras are most likely to bloom, here is the care I recommend if you find yourself unable to resist buying one:

Light, up to a half day of direct sun, or grow in a fluorescent-light garden.

Temperature, moderate, ideally a range of 60-72F., during the winter heating season.

Humidity, medium to high, set pot on a pebble tray, mist the leaves daily.

Soil, evenly moist at all times, avoid extremes, especially dryness.

Now I have a confession to make. There is a new silver-leaved aphelandra on the market and I can't wait to try it. After all, even if I have to pay $7.50, it's sure to give me several weeks of pleasure and that's a lot more than I get from store-bought fresh cut flowers at twice the price.

House Call

Q. My Smithia fern is beautiful and green on top, but underneath there is a lot of dead growth. Should I trim off the brown parts?

A. I give your question a qualified "no." The thin, fragile fronds of Smithia (it is closely related to Boston fern) just naturally weave themselves into a tapestry that is green on top, brown on the reverse. The only time I trim off the brown is when I see it on top or around the edges of the plant. Removing all of the brown parts without damaging the green is virtually impossible.

ZEBRA PLANT

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. We are in our late 20's, with income more than sufficient to live on. We recently inherited $125,000 in stocks and $35,000 earning 6 per cent fixed interest. We are asking the best course to follow. The stocks include such issues as Exxon, Standard Oils of Indiana and of California, General Electric, K Mart, International Harvester. Should we sell?

A. I don't see why you should. Quality is good and although these stocks aren't members of the "second tier," smallish, new company groups which are catching the fancy of most growth seekers today, they form a portfolio base which could be a comfort to anyone. Certainly, no mass turnover is indicated. Stay with them awhile and, if you do any diversifying - which you seem to want to do, do it slowly.

I don't think the $35,000 earning a fixed 6 percent taxable income is any big deal. If it is negotiable, you could consider a switch to tax-exempt.

Q. The fallacy in your retirement financing columns is that they attempt to prepare us as if most of us will live forever. I say: Spend it now. Half of all the men around won't reach 69.

A. Maybe so. But even accepting your statistics, what about the other half who may reach 79, or 89, or even more?

You're perfectly within your rights but I'd rather be financially prepared to live to 80 and conk out at 69 than have enough money only until age 69 and then hang on to age 80. I think most elderly readers will agree, although I'm always willing to be corrected.

Q. What is your opinion of the roll-over accounts banks are offering for pension money which must now be accepted, and taxed?

A. If you don't need the money now the deferring of taxes (until such time as your tax bracket drops) is certainly worth considering.

Q. I bought a bond which has risen in value. Should I take the profit and reinvest?

A. The bond rose in value primarily because interest rates are below the level which were in effect at the time the bond was issued. If you take the profit you most likely will have to reinvest at today's interest rates, which also set the price for your present bond.

As a rule such a maneuver would be pretty much like shifting from one "up" escalator to another, since bonds of the same quality and maturity tend to sell in the same price area.

Q. I was recently widowed at 70, and left with $70,000 in savings on regular day-to-day accounts. Would it be right for me to put some of this into time certificates?

A. Not only right, but a "must." At least $55,000 or even $60,000 of this could be earning top rates in 6 or 7-year certificates.

Q. What is the risk in having a brokerage firm hold my securities and send me the dividends and interest? There doesn't seem to be any charge for this service. Who pays?

A. If the firm is a reputable one and is insured for anything from $50,000 to $300,000 securities in the account, there is little risk.

Some brokers do charge for this service, especially if the account is an inactive one. Furthermore, you will find that there is a delay in relaying the dividends and interest to you. And in Wall Street "time is money."

I think there isn't much point to leaving securities with a broker unless you intend to sell them soon. I'm sure most brokers would prefer that long-term holdings be in your vault rather than in theirs.

Shulsky welcomes written questions but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Panel To Name Clovis Hospital

A.J. Correspondent

CLOVIS, N.M. — Construction on the new Clovis Hospital has reached the halfway mark, according to Ted Kaap, hospital administrator, and Bob Brooks, assistant hospital administrator. Construction is expected to be completed by June 1978.

The roof of the hospital has been completed and windows are being installed to facilitate construction during the winter months.

A committee was formed to develop proposals for a name for the new hospital. Committee members are Kaap, representing the hospital; Don Bonner, representing the city; and Charles Stackton, representing Curry County.

Ambulance service was discussed. The current major ambulance service is a function of the Clovis Fire Department. Some members of the hospital board feel the service should be integrated with the new hospital facility.

Kaap reported to the board the current hospital has experienced a net income of $130,000 for this fiscal year.

Plains Nudges Mustangs

SHALLOWATER (Special) — The Plains Cowboys survived a third-quarter rally by the Shallowater Mustangs and took home a 15-13 victory Friday.

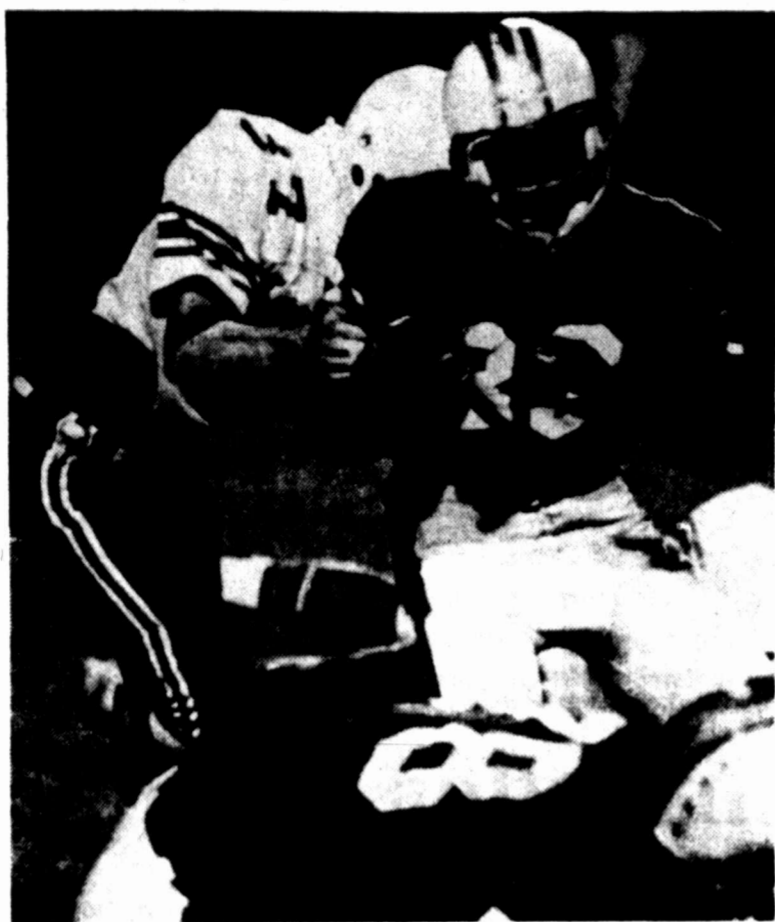

The Cowboys, ranked fifth in area Class A, weren't expected to have much trouble with the Mustangs, who had scored only one touchdown at home this year. Plains went into the District 5-A game with a 5-1-1 season record and a 1-0 league slate. Shallowater was 0-1 in loop action and 2-5 overall.

In the first quarter, the Cowboys' Darrell Sherrin kicked a 37-yard field goal, and Plains got a touchdown in the following period on a 3-yard run by Rusty Howell. The PAT attempt failed, and the Cowboys had a 9-0 halftime lead.

But Shallowater came to life in the third quarter. Quarterback Rodney Jackson went 35 yards for a touchdown on a well-executed sneak, and Curtis Lester kicked the extra point.

The Cowboys interrupted the surge with a 30-yard touchdown pass from Howell to Clinton Yeatts that made the score 15-7.

But Shallowater's Jackson connected on a 45-yard pass to Pete Alvarado for a touchdown. The PAT attempt failed.

Slaton Rolls 40-7 Over Post In 5-AA

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

POST — That explosion heard in this Garza County seat Friday night wasn't the Concord passing overhead, but rather the state's No. 4 ranked Class AA team en route to its seventh win of the year.

And when the fireworks subsided, Slaton had claimed a convincing 40-7 triumph over Post in a key 5-AA tilt that many expected to be similar to games the league co-champions had played the last two years.

When the final period dawned, it had been just such a game as Slaton led 13-7. The previous two years Slaton had won 13-6 here and Post had claimed a 12-7 decision in Slaton.

But when the fourth-quarter fireworks were over, Slaton's 12 minutes of work revealed: 11 offensive plays, four touchdowns—a fifth called back—and a grand total of 230 yards offense.

Michael Piwonka started the rout when he rambled 53 yards—on his first carry of the night—on the initial play of the last stanza.

Despite rolling up 517 yards total offense, Slaton, now 3-0 in league play and tied with Frenship for the top spot, was hampered by penalties—drawing 10 flags for 144 yards, with nine being for 15 yards or longer. Post had its woes in that department, too, with nine flags for 108 yards.

John Johnson sparked Slaton with 163 yards rushing on 24 carries, including a 42-yard TD burst. Piwonka had 95 yards on three carries and had a 40-yard gallop which he almost broke for a second TD.

Slaton QB Steve White hit eight of 14 passes for 154 yards and two TDs, picking out five receivers during the night, with Steve Wood and Mark Hulme catching scoring aeriels of 8 and 40 yards, respectively.

Post led 7-6 at intermission and the ground-minded Antelopes, who were limited to one first down and 23 yards total offense in the final 24 minutes, got their TD via the airways. On the first play of the second stanza, Brad Shepherd hit Evans Heatron from 30 yards out on the initial play of a drive. Leslie Looney added the PAT.

Slaton, which hit six of 12 passes for 99 yards the first half, went 54 yards in 11 plays, with White hitting Wood for the score with 3:30 left. A penalty stopped the try for 2 and Wood's PAT kick was wide.

The Tigers, who converted six of nine third-down tries, scored on their first possession of the second half, going 50 yards in eight plays with Brad Eblen getting the final 4 yards. Tracy Angle's PAT made it 13-7 with 6:54 left in the period.

On the first play of the final period, Piwonka took a quick handoff over right tackle, cut to the sidelines and raced home. Angle's PAT made it 20-7.

An outstanding second effort by Eblen from 7 yards out capped a 60-yard, five-play drive the next time Slaton touched the ball, and it was 26-7 with 8:46 left. Johnson, getting super blocks from Hulme and Stan White—QB Steve's twin brother—curled right end for 42 yards on a one-play drive and Angle added the 33rd point with 5:50 left.

Post, which controlled the ball for 24:08 of the game, got its only first down of the half with 5:33 left in the game. The game's final score came on a 40-yard pass to Hulme when Slaton faced third and 28.

Oh, yes, reserve Ricky Davis had a 61-stanza.

Despite rolling up 517 yards total offense, Slaton, now 3-0 in league play and tied with Frenship for the top spot, was hampered by penalties—drawing 10 flags for 144 yards, with nine being for 15 yards or longer. Post had its woes in that department, too, with nine flags for 108 yards.

Loboes Trip Tribe 27-7

SEMINOLE (Special) — Monahans drummed Seminole 27-7 here Friday, as the Loboes utilized a high-powered running attack paced by tailback Jeff Rolfe.

The Loboes totaled 351 yards on the ground. They had no passing yardage, but they didn't need any.

Monahans led 13-0 at intermission on the strength of two TD runs by Rolfe.

The tailback scampered in from the 12 with 8:05 left in the quarter. Rolfe scored again on a 3-yard run with nine seconds left in the stanza.

Floyd Wingrove booted the PAT after the first Rolfe score.

Rolfe sliced 17 yards with 1:36 left in the third period to make it 19-0. Later in the quarter, the Indians scored, as Mike Grass connected with Steve Thomas on a 76-yard pass play.

Monahans' Ruben White scored the game's last TD on a 3-yard run in the fourth period, with halfback Celvy Walsh running in for two extra points.

Monahans is now 5-1, while the Indians are 2-5.

Idalou Outlasts 'Lopes In 4-AA Battle 22-12

ABERNATHY (Special) — In a game of turnovers, Abernathy and Idalou swapped the ball nine times here Friday in a District 4-AA contest.

In the end, the visiting Wildcats held on one final time to snatch a 22-12 win over the Antelopes and remain undefeated on the season.

With little more than five minutes elapsed in the first quarter, flanker Buckles Bryant took a toss from Paige Burlesmith and scored on a 59-yard pass-and-run play for the Wildcats. Kenny Phillips kicked the extra point.

Idalou carried a 7-6 lead into the locker at the half after a 30-yard touchdown run by the Antelopes' Lon Mason.

Tailback Larry Murphy scored from one yard out for the Wildcats with 3:35 remaining in the third quarter. Ricky Hobbs kicked the extra point.

In the final period, Idalou tight end Kelly Vineyard caught a Burlesmith aerial for 35-yard score, and Phillips kicked the extra point.

Guthrie Throttles Patton Springs

PATTON SPRINGS (Special) — A total of 190 yards in penalties stymied the Patton Springs Rangers Friday, as they fell to the Guthrie Jaguars 38-6 in District 4B play.

After a scoreless first period, the Rangers took a 6-0 lead on an four-yard run by fullback Turk Sweatt.

But it was the only lead of the night, as Guthrie tailback Bobby Hemphill came Abernathy put its last points on the board with a 14-yard run by tailback Roger Lindsey with 6:37 left in the game.

The victory left Idalou 8-0 for the year and 2-0 in district play. Abernathy is 1-7 and 0-1.

roaring back with a 34-yard touchdown run, and quarterback Gordon Smith followed with a 19-yard scoring pass to Darrell King before the end of the half.

It was all Jaguar football in the second half. In the third period, Smith passed to Gregg Tidmore for a touchdown, and Jay Hurt kicked for two points.

Hurt scored later on a 44-yard run and John Piper had two touchdowns from 22 and four yards.

Hart Loses To Vega On Safety

HART (Special) — A safety proved to be the crucial play, as Vega kept its seasonal win streak and title hopes alive here Friday by edging defending district champion Hart in a 9-8 football thriller.

Hart quarterback Eliazar Castillo fumbled a punt snap in his own end zone on the first play of the fourth period, tried to run it out and was dropped for the safety.

Hart had led 8-7 until that point. Vega's J. Rodriguez made the tackle which enabled the Longhorns' record to sky to 7-0 for the year.

The win leaves Vega 2-0 in District 3-A play. Defending 3-A champion Hart is now 0-2 in district and 3-4 for the season.

The two-point safety was the only score of the second half.

Vega struck first in the second quarter. Fullback Gary Fangman hauled in an aerial from quarterback Randal Galbraith for a 32-yard touchdown. Randy Roark added the extra point for a 7-0 Vega lead.

Hart retaliated, with Castillo providing a major hand. Still in the second stanza, the quarterback tossed a screen pass to fullback Glen Black, who took it and rumbled for a 57-yard TD.

Castillo then connected with flanker Johnny Newson for the 2-point conversion which gave Hart an 8-7 lead.

Vega piled up 173 yards rushing and 110 passing, while Hart collected 119 ground yards and 80 through the air.

Leading groundgainers were Hart's Michael Finch, with 85 steps on 17 carries, and Marvin Mode of Vega, who garnered 61 yards on 13 carries.

Unbeaten Longhorns Try Ponies In SWC Feature

By The Associated Press
The second-ranked Texas Longhorns travel to the Cotton Bowl today for what they hope will be their next-to-last visit of the season to meet a crippled Southern Methodist team that showed Houston how dangerous it can be.

Texas and the Texas Aggies, who meet Rice in Houston tonight, share the Southwest Conference football leadership with 2-0 records.

standing. And no one has stopped Earl Campbell. He's a pleasure to watch. I just wish I didn't have to watch him Saturday."

Meyer said his 14-point underdog Mustangs are too young to stay with the Longhorns physically.

"We dress 29 freshmen and they are only five or six games removed from Pine Tree and White Oak and Alta Loma," said Meyer. "That's a big jump up to Pine Tree and White Oak and Alta Loma," said Meyer. "That's a big jump up to the No. 2 team in the nation."

SMU freshman quarterback Mike Ford, who is leading the SWC in passing, is a big question mark because of a hyperextended elbow.

"Mike has been hurt all year," said Meyer. "You won't see the real Mike Ford until next year, I'm sorry to say. He's doing good, but I know what he can really do."

The Texas Aggies are 29-point favorites over the Owls.

"Our team knows that Rice has given up a lot of points this season, but that doesn't mean it will happen Saturday," said Aggie coach Emory Bellard.

In other games, Arkansas is a 10-point favorite over Houston in Little Rock, Texas Christian is a 17-point underdog to Miami of Florida in Fort Worth, and the Baylor Bears are 12-point favorites to defeat Air Force on homecoming at Waco.

Arkansas coach Lou Holtz said it would be difficult for his Razorbacks to bounce back off the 13-9 loss to Texas last week.

"You have no idea what will happen," said Holtz. "To win a game like the Texas game gives you great momentum. When you lose one, you either sit around feeling sorry for yourself or you push yourself and get back. I've never seen this team in this situation before."

"I've coached against Houston and Coach (Bill) Yeoman once before in the Bluebonnet Bowl. It was a 31-31 tie. I remember a great deal about that game, but particularly that Houston had as quick and as strong people as I had seen.

This Houston team is no different." Holtz then added "We're making progress but sometimes the light at the end of the tunnel can be an oncoming train."

Irish, Not Legend, Worry USC; Two Big Eight Battles Slated

By The Associated Press
Southern California coach John Robinson has nothing against legends. The only thing is, his team will be up against solid muscle and live flesh today during the annual battle with Notre Dame.

The Notre Dame football players," says Robinson. "They're pretty dog-gone good. Sure, they have a great atmosphere and a super-enthusiastic following, but getting a chance to come in and play in that stadium shouldn't do anything but excite a visiting team."

The television people (ABC-TV, 12:30 p.m., CDT) were excited about a matchup of unbeaten clubs, but 4-1 Notre Dame was upset by Mississippi while 5-1 Southern Cal dropped a one-point squeaker to Alabama. That's the reason USC is only ranked No. 5 in The Associated Press ratings while Notre Dame is 11th.

Today's slate includes two other games between ranked teams and both will have a bearing on Big Eight Conference-Orange Bowl race. Sixth-ranked Oklahoma enters No. 16 Iowa State in a match between the Big Eight's only 2-0 clubs while seventh-ranked Colorado (1-0-1) visits No. 18 Nebraska (1-1). Neither of those teams can afford to lose.

Elsewhere, top-rated Michigan is the only one of the nation's top four teams which might have its hands full, although that's what folks were saying a week ago and the Wolverines merely flattened previously unbeaten Wisconsin 56-0. This time, they visit Minnesota in the annual Little Brown Jug skirmish and the Golden Gophers obviously were looking ahead when they struggled to beat winless Northwestern last weekend.

Meanwhile, No. 2 Texas visits pesky Southern Methodist while third ranked Alabama hosts Louisville and No. 4 Ohio State visits Northwestern. Michigan, Texas, Alabama and Ohio State are heavy favorites.

Rounding out the Top Ten, eighth-ranked Kentucky is at Georgia, No. 9 Arkansas meets Houston under the lights in Little Rock and No. 10 Penn State hosts West Virginia.

In the Second Ten, it's No. 12 Texas A&M at Rice for a night game, Syracuse at No. 14 Pitt, No. 15 California at UCLA under the lights, No. 17 Brigham Young at Wyoming, Tennessee at No. 19 Florida, and North Carolina State at No. 20 Clemson Texas Tech, the No. 13 team, is idle.

USC's John Robinson has only been to South Bend once—as a Trojan assistant in 1973 when Notre Dame won 23-14 and

HEAVENS FALLING—Jerome Heavens, Notre Dame runningback, starts toward the turf after picking up yardage toward the Army goal in last week's victory. Heavens will play against Southern Cal in one of the nation's prime games today. (AP Laserphoto)

Michigan Ploy

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Gophers' Coach Cal Stoll thinks he has uncovered one of the secrets of success employed by undefeated Michigan, the No. 1 rated college football team in the nation.

Stoll, whose Gophers play Michigan here Saturday, said he was studying the film of Michigan's 14-7 victory over Navy earlier in the season.

Stoll said he something "looked kind of funny" when Michigan lined up to block a Navy punt.

"I said, Hey, wait a minute and backed up the film. Then I counted, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. They had 11 guys down on the line of scrimmage to block the punt."

Stoll said he thought Navy would throw a pass because all the Michigan defenders were rushing the kicker. Despite the rush, Stoll said, Navy got the ball off and "there's a guy back to catch it."

The officials did not catch the fact that Michigan had an extra player on the field.

conducted by Western OTB even though it had been banned by the board, which is considering further action against regional OTB officials.

"We are concerned that this specific promotion was done without board approval," said board chairman William G. Barry. "Further, they appear to have done so in direct contravention of directives from the board's staff."

Barry also said the board will examine Western New York OTB's operation of at least one branch office prior to board approval. "The board has an obligation to insure that the pari-mutuel industry in the state conforms to the highest standards in its operations," he said. "We cannot precedents to be established which lessen the board's role in the control of as sensitive a complex an operation as OTB."

Roughnecks Blank Whiteface

SUNDOWN (Special) — Rebounding from last week's first zone loss in Sundown history, the Roughnecks man-handled Whiteface here Friday night, 28-0.

Sundown now stands 3-1 in district play, and 4-4 for the year, while Whiteface slipped to 1-3 in district and 1-7 for the season.

The Roughnecks' halfback, Larry Henderson, romped 29 yards for the initial TD for the winners, and Noe Rodriguez booted the PAT for a 7-0 lead in the first quarter.

Then, halfback Ricky Waygood's 9-yard run capped another Sundown drive, and, although the PAT failed, it was 13-0. In the second stanza, halfback Jerry McKee broke loose for 43 yards and another Sundown TD to make it 19-0. The PAT failed.

In the third quarter, Henderson again broke free, this time from 21 yards out, and it was a Sundown TD and a 25-0 lead. PAT failed. Guard Tommy Nugent booted a 20-yard field goal to cap the scoring.

Field Goals Lift Tigers Over D-City

DENVER CITY (Special) — David Norrell kicked two field goals in the first quarter for the only points of the evening as the undefeated Frenship Tigers edged the Denver City Mustangs 6-0 Friday to remain in a tie for the district lead.

The Mustangs, playing their final home game of the season, surrendered four fumbles in the hard-fought District 5-AA game. Two of them led to field goals by Norrell.

He booted one through the crossbars from 28 yards out five minutes into the opening quarter and was successful on a 27-yarder just before the period ended.

Injury-riddled Denver City put up a strong defense, holding the powerful Tigers scoreless the rest of the game. Frenship managed 14 first downs, 173 yards rushing and 45 yards passing.

The Tigers, rated No. 3 in area Class AA, are now 3-0 in district play and 7-0 overall.

Denver City is 1-3 in district and 2-6 for the season. The Mustangs have scored just one touchdown since league play began.

But both of their victories came at home, and the Mustangs proved Friday they play their best on familiar turf.

Friday they play their best on familiar turf. Denver City got nine first downs, 110 yards on the ground and 20 yards in the air.

Cavemen Bury Hobbs 36-0

HOBBS (Special) — The Cavemen of Carlsbad dug a cave and buried Hobbs in it here Friday night, opening their District 4-AAAA (New Mexico) league play with a resounding 36-0 rout of the Eagles.

Carlsbad, now 7-1, amassed 354 total yards, with Larry Trower accounting for 106 yards on 11 carries and Dale Wiggins getting 93 more of the 301 overall steps on 13 totes.

Wiggins scored from a yard out in the first period and Larry Inman added the PAT in the second quarter. QB Joe Leyva tallied from a yard out, halfback Raul Dominguez raced 47 yards with a pass from Leyva and Wiggins caught the PAT pass from Larry Trower, who kicked the first PAT of the period, to make it 22-0 at intermission.

Split end Gilbert Smith caught a 19-yard pass from Leyva and Wiggins ran a yard in the final stanza, with Inman and Trower each booting a PAT.

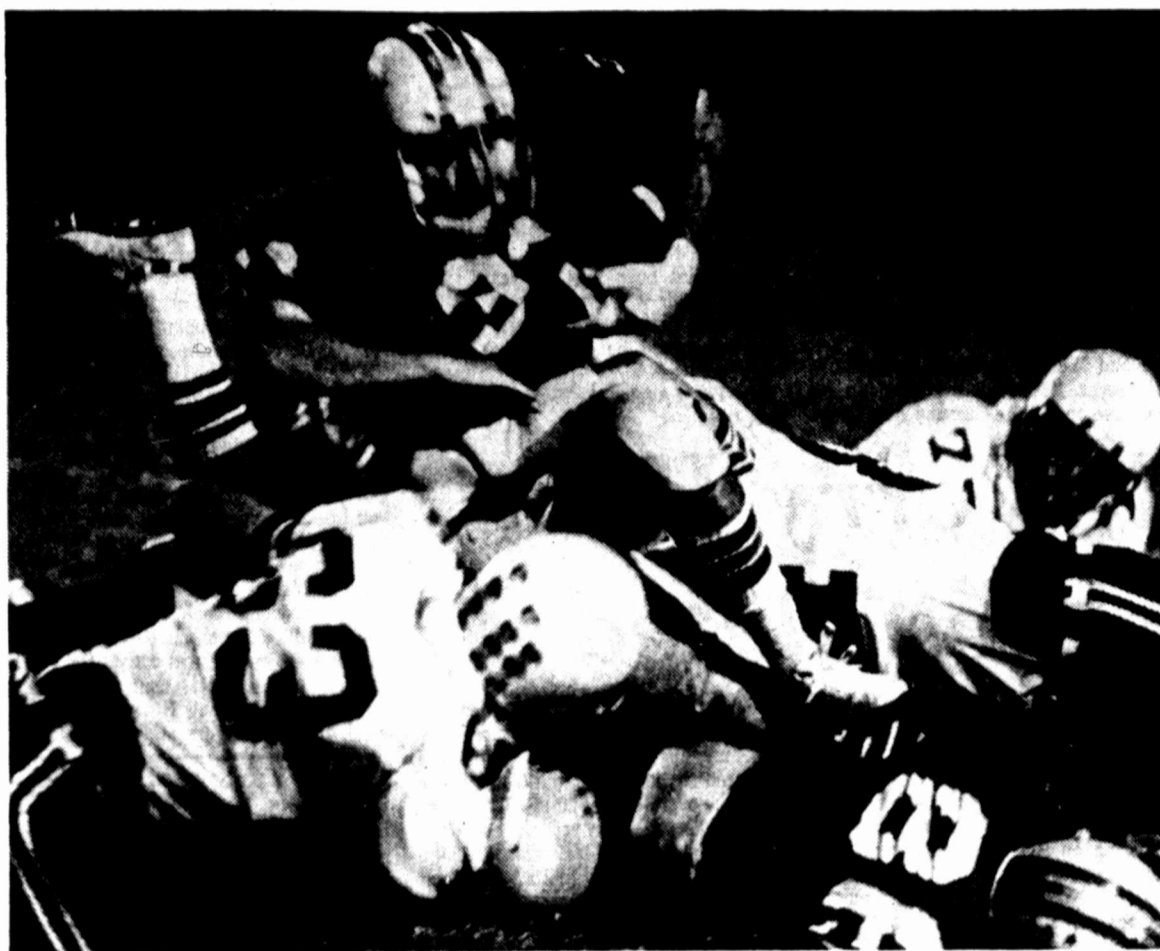

Hobbs, now 2-6, 1-1, managed 60 yards rushing and 106 passing, hitting 9 of 21 aerials. Carlsbad led 17-8 in first downs.

Wilhelm-Led Swifts Blast Owls 43-19

SILVERTON (Special) — The Nazareth Swifts beat the Silverton Owls 43-19 in a District 2-B game Friday.

The Swifts were led by Neal Wilhelm, who ran back the opening kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown and also scored TDs on carries of 7 and 10 yards.

Nazareth had 10 first downs, 135 yards rushing and 159 yards passing. Silverton got eight first downs, 148 yards rushing and 4 yards passing.

Hornets Sting New Deal

LORENZO (Special) — Tailback Dale Miller ran for 90 yards and two touchdowns as the Lorenzo Hornets defeated the New Deal Lions 24-7 Friday in a District 4-A showdown.

The game was close through the first half, with Lorenzo, rated fourth in area Class A, and sharing the District 4-A lead with Petersburg, holding an 8-7 lead.

New Deal, a preseason pick for the district title, scored in the second quarter on a 3-yard run by halfback Tommy Thiel. Kerry Miller kicked the extra point.

Lorenzo got its second-quarter points on a 1-yard run by tailback Greg Cunningham, and a 2-point conversion by quarterback Bobby Brown.

In the second half, the Hornets exploded. They got a safety when nose guard Cruz Mendoza and tackle Mark Moore trapped New Deal's Miller in the Lions' end zone, to make the Hornets' advantage 10-7.

Then, in the fourth quarter, Miller scored touchdowns on runs of 4 and 2 yards to ice the victory. Miller gained 90 yards on 23 carries and Cunningham, 78 yards on 18 tries.

New Deal, now 3-3-1 for the year and 1-2 in district, got 11 first downs, 148 yards rushing and 17 yards passing. The Hornets, 6-2 for the season and 4-0 in district, had 17 first downs, 203 yards rushing and 16 yards passing.

Borger Drops Lobos 27-8

BORGER (Special) — The Borger Bulldogs managed to score on their first possession of the night here Friday and then went on to drop Levelland 27-8.

With Friday's victory, Borger now boasts a 7-1 season record and a 2-0 stance in district play. The Lobos drop to a 2-6 season record and a 0-1 in District 1-AAA action.

Borger's Tommy Newell started the Bulldog offense rolling on Borger's first possession with a 6-yard run for the touchdown. After that scoring play, Newell booted his own extra point kick.

After driving 56 yards in eight plays in second quarter action, Borger's Greg Fleming put the ball across on an 11-yard run, and Newell's kick made the score 14-0.

Bulldog Dennis Rion carried for Borger's third score of the night after receiving a 9-yard pass from Fleming, and Newell handled the extra point attempt.

The Lobos then brought out whatever it was they had been hiding and managed to score twice in the fourth quarter, but that still wasn't enough to break the Bulldog's lead.

Levelland defensive squads pinned a Borger Bulldog in the end zone for the safety and then Lance Anthony came back a few minutes later to score on a 10-yard run.

Borger's John Plumley carried on a 1-yard scoring play, the game's last, but the pass attempt for two points failed.

Eleven major college football games in 1976 were decided with 10 seconds or less to play.

LCHS Posts 29-0 Homecoming Win

The Lubbock Christian Eagles crushed the Abilene Christian Panthers 29-0 here Friday, racking up 202 yards rushing and 148 passing for their school's homecoming to Abilene's 51 yards on the ground and 38 yards in the air.

The outcome leaves both teams with disappointing records so far of two wins and six losses.

The first score came in the first period when Lubbock's flanker Pat Randolph caught a 20-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Kent Allison, cousin to Texas Tech University's Rodney Allison. The extra point was kicked by Brent Stewart.

Eagle tailback Hutch Hailey took it in from 4 yards out in the second quarter, and the 2-point conversion was made when quarterback Gary Lynn connected with end Steve Sikes.

In the third quarter Allison went over on a 22-yard run and fullback Tim Howell plunged over the goal line from 1 yard out. The extra point attempts were good.

Polk, Avery Lead Whitharral's Win

GRADY (Special) — Whitharral quarterback James Polk and wide receiver Jimmy Avery teamed to lead the Panthers to a 42-8 victory over the Grady Wildcats Friday in District 3-B North competition.

Throughout the game, it was Avery and Polk—in one combination or another—sparking the Panthers.

The Whitharral duo started out the game with a 58-yard pass from Avery to Polk for the score, and then Polk kicked for two more points.

Polk carried again for the score minutes later after fielding a 21-yard pass from Jim Gage, and then came back for another TD on a 5-yard run. After that scoring play, Avery booted the kick to put Grady behind 22-0 at the end of the first quarter.

Wildcat linemen managed to contain the Whitharral offensive squads in the second quarter, but, in the third, Whitharral broke loose again with a 60-yard run by Polk for another touchdown and the 2-point kick by Avery.

Just into the fourth quarter, Avery picked off a 7-yard pass from Polk and then once more passed 20 yards to Polk to put Grady behind 42-0 only minutes from the game's end.

Something clicked, though, and Wildcat linebacker Ruben Gutierrez found himself in the middle of a 40-yard pass intended for a Panther receiver. After picking off the pass, Gutierrez stroled across the line for the score, and kicker Joe Lozano's kick concluded the game's scoring.

on both third quarter tries to end the contest at 29-0 Lubbock

Odessa Holds Off Abilene

ODESSA (Special) — Led by a goat turned-hero safety Odessa High's Bronchos held off a furious rally by the Abilene Eagles Friday for a 21-18 district win.

Armando Hinojos, who had been called for interference twice in the game, redeemed himself with a minute to go when he picked off Glen Sturman's pass to Stanley Booker and shut down a heart-stopping Eagle rally.

The Eagles drew first blood on Reggie Hackman's 35-yard field goal in the first quarter.

But the Bronchos busted loose in the second period, first on a Neal Gray-to-Cal Adams pass for 13 yards and a score and then on Donnie Stewart's 25-yard interception return. Charlie Whittington added the PAT on Adams' touchdown and Adams ran the ball over himself following Stewart's interception run to make it 15-3 at the half.

Neither team could dent the end zone in the third quarter, but Reggie Fields brought Abilene within range with his fourth quarter one-yard plunge. Hackman's kick made it Odessa 15, Abilene 10.

Gray and Adams teamed up again for the Bronchos, this time on a 58-yard scoring pass. The kick failed but Odessa breathed a sigh at 21-10.

Eagle quarterback Sturman then whipped a 40-yard strike to Stanley Booker to bring Abilene within 5 points at 21-16. Sturman made it closer following a two-point pass to David Agnew.

But with the Eagles driving for the go-ahead TD, Booker tipped the ball aloft and Hinojos was there to end the Abilene High threat.

Adams caught two passes for two touchdowns for the Bronchos and Gray completed 5 of 11 for 110 yards.

Joe Diggs pored the Eagles with 76 yards on 12 carries, while Sturman won the quarterback duel by a yard with 7 of 13 for 111 yards.

Odessa is 5-2 overall and Abilene dropped to 2-5 for the year.

Mule's Field Goal Nips Dimmitt 10-7

MULESHOE (Special) — A 35-yard field goal by Muleshoe's George Villareal gave the Mules just enough to edge by defending District 3-AA champion Dimmitt 10-7 here Friday.

With the score deadlocked at 7-7 only seconds before halftime, Villareal's kick went true to form to give Muleshoe their seventh win of the season for an unblemished record while dealing Dimmitt their third loss of the season and their first in district play.

Dimmitt's Robert Mayberry put the Bobcats on the scoreboard first on an 8-yard run through Mule territory in the first quarter, and Matt Howel's kick gave the Bobcats an early 7-0 lead.

Just into the second quarter, though, Dean Northcutt blazed through Dimmitt's defensive line to score on a 6-yard run, and Villareal's kick tied the score.

As the buzzer ending the first half sounded, Villareal's kick drove the ball through the goal posts to put the Mules ahead 10-7.

Though the score stopped at that point, the rest of the game was just as hard-fought. Dimmitt completed 60 yards in passing, close behind Muleshoe's six completions of 13 tries for 70 yards.

Muleshoe trailed Dimmitt by 10 yards in rushing though, adding up only 138 yards to Dimmitt's 148. Bobcat players picked off three Mule passes, compared to only two interceptions for the Muleshoe squads.

Olton Nips Tribe 19-18

OLTON (Special) — Olton fullback Roger Russell slipped across the goal late in the fourth quarter Friday to give the Mustangs a 19-18 victory over the Morton Indians and their first win in district play.

Despite constant sackings of Olton quarterback Brad Allcorn by what looked like a Morton defensive powerhouse, the Mustangs came back to pick off the win, giving them a 2-5 for the season and a 1-1 stance in district competition.

Early in the first quarter, Morton's defensive squads showed their strength, pinning Allcorn behind the line for a safety and two points.

The Indian offense wasn't doing bad either, and Morton chalked up 11 points in the second quarter — a touchdown on a 1-yard run by halfback David Moore, the kick by Richard Kuehler and another safety when Allcorn was tackled in the end zone as he tried to punt.

Despite a last-minute effort that gave Olton a touchdown on a 15-yard pass from Allcorn to end Mike Landrum, Morton led at halftime 13-6.

In the third quarter, Moore scored again, this time on a 3-yard run with 22 seconds left on the clock. Kuehler's kick was good.

Olton tailback Charles Brown managed to put the ball across for a Mustang touchdown on a 2-yard run before the quarter ended though, and Allcorn's kick made the score 18-13 Morton, going into the final quarter.

Just before the game ended, though Russell slipped across the line on a 2-yard run to put Olton ahead 19-18.

Snyder Topples Ponies 24-15

SNYDER (Special) — Richard Crayton returned kickoffs for 97 and 100 yards for scores here Friday to lead the Snyder Tigers to a 24-15 win over the Sweetwater Mustangs.

The Tiger fullback's first TD came on the first play of the game, and his second came on a fourth-quarter kickoff return with 4:50 left in the game.

Quarterback Clay Johnson added the third Snyder touchdown on a 39-yard run in the third quarter. Tackle Richard Wilts kicked all the extra points.

Earlier, Willis kicked a 42-yard field goal with 10:24 left in the first half.

Sweetwater scored on a 5-yard run by wingback Scott Knox in the second quarter. He also ran over for the two-point conversion.

Fullback Everett Todd made the second Mustang touchdown in the fourth period on a 54-yard run. Terry Henson kicked the extra point.

Cotton Centerites Drop WTC 46-30

COTTON CENTER (Special) — Halfback Johnny Davis tallied three touchdowns and David Castilleja passed for four, as Cotton Center beat West Texas Christian 46-30 in a six-man battle here Friday.

Cotton Center led 31-12 at halftime. Davis scored on runs of 6 and 5 yards, and on a 38-yard pass from Castilleja. In addition to his toss to Davis, Castilleja fired TD passes of 26 and 5 yards to Alvin Garcia and a 40-yard TD to Eric Allen.

Garcia passed 26 yards to Mandy Martinez to round out the Elks' scoring.

Darreal Negal scored on runs of 3 and 10 yards for the Texans. Tom Valentine also scored twice, from the 4 and 1. The Texans' remaining TD was on a 12-yard jaunt by halfback Randy Veretto.

Wildcats Drub Roswell

CLOVIS, N.M. (Special) — The Clovis Wildcats exploded for three second-quarter touchdowns Friday to break open a deadlocked game and go on to defeat the Roswell Coyotes 34-7.

Both teams traded scores in the first quarter, after Roswell's Jim Stovall threw a 7-yard scoring aerial to David Peschka, and the Wildcats' Ronnie Morris bulled over from four yards out.

Sedillo added the point after for Roswell, and David Nelson kicked true for Clovis as the quarter closed, 7-7.

But the scoring came to a halt for the Coyotes as the Wildcats defense held, while its offense racked up 20 more points before halftime.

Cedric Williams had two scores in the second quarter for Clovis on runs of 18 yards and one yard. Meanwhile, Scott Petty gathered in a 9-yard throw from Layne Walker for the third Clovis score. Nelson was good on two of three PATs and the Wildcats held a commanding 27-7 lead at intermission.

Both teams were held out of the end zone in the third quarter, but Clovis' Ronnie Morris added his second touchdown in the fourth quarter, while David Nelson kicked his fourth point after.

Andrews Ends Pecos' Perfect Season 24-6

PECOS (Special) — The state-ranked Andrews Mustangs rushed for more than 400 yards here Friday night to defeat the Pecos Eagles 24-6, handing the home team its first loss of the season.

The Mustangs are ranked seventh and 10th in state polls for Class AAA teams, with a 2-0 slate in the District 2-AAA and 6-0-1 on the season. Pecos is ranked No. 3 in the area, right behind Andrews.

The Mustangs struck first with 5:10 left in the first period when quarterback Booger Brooks ran over from 8 yards out. Ricky Chessure kicked the point after.

Chessure added three more early in the second quarter on a 21-yard field goal, Andrews runningback Joe Dan Barnes hit pay dirt from a yard out and Chessure kicked the point after with 1:43 left before the half.

Late in the third period Pecos managed to get on the board for the first and only time when quarterback Gary Rogers threw a 30-yard TD pass to end Kevin Doan. The PAT was blocked.

Mustang runningback Johnny Lopez flew 75 yards with 1:20 left in the game to make the final touchdown. Chessure was successful on the extra point try.

Leading rushers for Andrews were runningback Kenny Hearne, who carried 20 times for 126 yards, Lopez with six carries for 106 yards and Brooks with 88 yards on 13 possessions.

Pecos' leading rusher was Ricky Box with six carries for 68 yards.

Tatum Triumphs In final Seconds

TATUM, N.M. (Special) — Tatum literally waited past the final minute here Friday before deciding a tie was not good enough.

With three seconds remaining in the game, Brent Miles kicked a 28-yard field goal to present the Coyotes with a 9-6 win over the Texico Wilverines.

The victory pushed the Coyotes season record to 5-2 and Texico stands 3-5. The whole game was sandwiched around scoreless second and third quarters. Tatum scored with 2:03 in the first period on a 14-yard run by Matt Lindsey.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Texico fullback Hill punched in from 2 yards out.

Fort Sumner Nips Host Eunice 7-6

EUNICE, N.M. (Special) — Both Eunice and Fort Sumner scored TDs in the final quarter here Friday night, but the visiting Foxes converted their PAT on a kick by quarterback Quentin Wilson, and a later Eunice try for 2 failed. The result was a 7-6 Fort Sumner win.

Wilson also scored the Fort Sumner TD, on a 27-yard run, before booting the winning conversion.

Eunice scored in the last stanza on a 22-yard pass play from quarterback Dale Kelton to wide receiver Walter White. But a conversion run failed.

Eunice dropped to 2-6 for the year and 1-1 in District 4-AA play, while Fort Sumner now stands 5-2 and 1-1.

Permian Nips Cooper Petersburg In 5-4A Tilt 14-7 Drubs Bulldogs

ABILENE (Special) — Odessa Permian had a scare here Friday, but mustered enough firepower to down Abilene Cooper 14-7.

It was a surprisingly hard-fought battle. Cooper managed a slight lead in total yards 209-206.

With the game knotted 7-7 in the third period, Vic Vines tossed the 19-yard touchdown pass to Brian Vickers which spelled the difference.

The win leaves the powerful Panthers — ranked first among area AAAA powers and second and third in state wire polls — undefeated after seven games. The Cougars are 2-5.

Brainard Runs Midland Crazy

SAN ANGELO (Special) — It was a successful homecoming game for San Angelo's Carl Brainard.

The Bobcat halfback accounted for all the home team's points on the way to a 24-0 win over the Midland High Bulldogs.

After kicking a 20-yard field goal with 10:28 left in the first half, he scored one touchdown in the third quarter and two in the final period — and added the extra points.

Brainard's first touchdown came on a 4-yard dive with 4:40 in the third quarter. With 3:29 remaining in the fourth quarter, he scored on a 24-yard run.

Less than 2 minutes later, the halfback took a 10-yard Vin Smith pass for the final touchdown.

San Angelo piled up 225 yards rushing, including the visitors' 130, and tossed for 114 yards through the air, while Midland could pass for only 68.

Despite Brainard's scoring dominance, Danny Abbott had 80 yards on 13 carries for the Bobcats and Glen Payne also rushed 13 times for 73 yards.

Dunbar Wins

early in the fourth period when White, who had been the Dunbar workhorse for a majority of the game, danced in from 2 yards out for the touchdown.

A 19-yard punt put the Panthers in business on the Cub 38, and from there, it was only a matter of time until the visitors collected their 20th and 21st points of the evening.

A 31-yard burst by Willie Anderson moved the ball to the 4. From there, DHS used Tolbert on a dive play over right guard and a quarterback option by Alsbrooks to advance to the 2.

On four-and-goal from there, Alsbrooks pitched out wide to White who ran untouched for the score.

The drive could be termed a mini-match of sorts. Dunbar used only six plays and two minutes to garner the score.

Following the Panther TD, Brownfield marched 80 yards for a touchdown which cut the score to 21-12.

The march, which consumed over five minutes of the fourth-quarter clock, was certainly a work of art. The only problem was, it took too much time.

The Cubs needed to score fast against Dunbar but they were unable to do it.

Keeping the ball on the ground the entire time, Brownfield moved methodically down the field. With 4:13 remaining, David Harrell scored from 6 yards out on an end sweep.

The try for 2 failed when McCrummen was unable to crack the stiff Panther defense led again by linebacker Danny McCutcheon.

Brownfield made a last ditch effort at cutting the Panther's lead with 1:56 left in the game. But a Duane Sales pass was intercepted by Bruce McKnight on the Dunbar 47, thwarting the attempt.

The first half was all Brownfield. The Cubs took the opening kickoff and moved it down to the 15 where McCrummen hit his first of two field goals. With 50 seconds remaining in the second quarter McCrummen added a 35-yard 3-pointer to give the Cubs a 6-0 locker room advantage.

During the first half, the Brownfield defense led by Harrell, Lynn Goldston and Hungerford limited Dunbar to nary a first down and 27 yards total offense.

Permian's Robert Graves raced 49 yards for a second-quarter touchdown, and Robert Orasco's kick made it 7-0 at intermission.

The Cougars came back to tie it early in the third period on a 1-yard TD thrust by Terry Orr and Tracy Smith's conversion.

Then the pass from Vines to Vickers — the only Panther completion of the night — put Permian ahead for keeps. Orasco again booted the PAT.

Permian collected 187 rushing yards and the 19 yards on the one TD completion.

Cooper picked up only 61 ground yards and added 148 through the air.

Graves gained 101 yards on only 11 carries to lead all rushers.

Bovina Falls To Wolverines

EARTH (Special) — Fullback Tim May plunged for a touchdown in the final period to give the Springlake-Earth Wolverines a 15-12 win over the Bovina Mustangs Friday.

The dramatic finish to the District 3-A game was set up on a blocked punt, one of three by the Wolverines during the evening.

Trailing 12-7 at the time, the Wolverines took the ball down to Bovina's 1-yard line. May rolled into the end zone, and Wolverine quarterback Ray Vanbanks ran for a two-point conversion to cap the scoring.

All the earlier points came in the first half. The Mustangs scored their two touchdowns in the opening period on runs of 3 and 37 yards by halfback Gerald Shelby. On both occasions, however, two-point conversion attempts failed.

The Wolverines narrowed the gap to 12-7 in the second quarter on an 18-yard run by tailback Ronnie James and an extra point by Jeff Washington.

Bovina, now 0-2 in district and 3-4 overall, got eight first downs, 132 yards rushing and 45 yards passing. The Wolverines, 1-1 in district and 2-5 for the year, had 10 first downs, 128 yards rushing and 24 passing.

Rebels Pin 30-0 Loss On Steers

MIDLAND (Special) — The hometown Rebels scored a touchdown in every quarter to throttle Big Spring 30-0 here Friday.

Big Spring managed only six first downs and 96 total yards. Lee picked up over 300 yards rushing.

Lee led 16-0 at halftime on the strength of two touchdowns and a safety.

Todd Clements tallied on an 8-yard TD run in the opening period, and Clements then hit John Marks with a 9-yard TD aerial in the second stanza.

Marvin Iglehart made the biggest play of the game with a 95-yard TD run with an interception. Mike Moore capped the Midland TD parade by catching an 8-yard toss from Steve Pitts. Jerry Moore added the four extra point kicks.

In the same period, Roberson scored again on a 7-yard run but the try for the extra points didn't pan out.

New Home then turned the ball over to Dawson, but the Dragons couldn't move downfield, and, at the first of the second quarter, New Home again took control. During the game, Dawson managed to scrape up only five first downs.

Before halftime, though, Leopard quarterback Gary McClintock trotted across the field from 7 yards out after pulling off a risky quarterback bootleg and slipping through the Dragon line. Tony Rodriguez booted the extra point for the game's final score.

New Home now stands with a 3-4 season record and a 3-0 in district. Dawson is 4-3 for the year.

Anton Rally Rips Eagles

O'DONNELL (Special) — Anton's Bulldogs exploded for three sudden touchdowns in the final quarter here Friday night, taking full advantage of an O'Donnell fumble on the O'Donnell 2-yard line and a pass interception, to pull out an 18-10 victory over the hometown Eagles.

It was O'Donnell 10-0 going into the final quarter.

Then, halfback Roger Harrell rolled 1 yard for the first Anton TD to narrow the O'Donnell lead to 10-6. The PAT failed, and it was still 10-6 midway into the final quarter. Then O'Donnell had to take over on the 2-yard line after an excellent Anton punt, and a fumble furnished the Bulldogs with a second scoring opportunity, and they cashed it in, two plays later, on a 1-yard run by halfback Timmy Belcher. The PAT failed once more, and it was 12-10, Anton.

Just minutes later, after an intercepted pass, Belcher scored again for the winners, this time from 22 yards out, for an 18-10 Anton lead. The PAT failed once more, but the winners held on to the lead for another three minutes and took home the victory.

O'Donnell's 10 points came on a 6-yard TD run by fullback Tony Acosta, a PAT kick by George Casaraz, and a 33-yard field goal by Casaraz. All of O'Donnell scoring came in the first half.

Belcher and Harrell led the offensive surge for the winners with 40 and 44 yards rushing, while Acosta gained 104 yards for O'Donnell.

O'Donnell now stands 4-2-1 for the year, Anton 2-5-1.

At the start of the 1977 season, Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama was the winningest college football coach with 262 victories.

'Hounds Face Central State In Homecoming

PORTALES, N.M. (Special)—Head coach Jack Scott has lost only one homecoming game since taking over the reins at Eastern New Mexico University back in 1970.

No doubt, Scott will hope to pick up his seventh homecoming victory today at 2 p.m. when the Greyhounds host Central Oklahoma State University in Greyhound Stadium.

"Although our record doesn't show it, we are still a sound football team and will give it everything we've got for our (ENMU's 44th) homecoming," Scott said.

The two clubs, Eastern and Central Oklahoma, both sport identical 1-5 records. Eastern's only win came on opening day against New Mexico Highlands, while Central whipped Langston University last week for its only victory.

In the offense department, Central has gained a few more yards on the ground than the Greyhounds but is several hundred yards behind the New Mexico crew in the passing category.

Tailback Steve Tate leads the Bronco attack with 95 yards a game on the ground. Only a freshman, Tate could be the all-time leading ground gainer for Central before his career is finished.

Eastern's top rushing threat is Darrell Talley of Fort Worth. Talley has a game average of 54 yards. The 240-pound sophomore is also one of the strongest players on the team.

The Greyhound passing game will be directed by Butch Woodward or Joe Martin. Woodward has started for the Greyhounds the past two games while Martin recovered from a shoulder injury.

The offensive line, one of Eastern's strong points this season, will be led by all-America candidate Kirk Potter and tackle Mike Prokop. Potter, a 6-5, 250-pounder, is considered one of the premier linemen in the country.

After today's game, the Greyhounds will go to Oklahoma to play East Central State at Ada, next Saturday.

TOPPLING TACKLES — Eastern New Mexico's all-America candidate Mike Prokop will be one of the keys to the Greyhound's attack when it takes on Central (Okla.) State University today starting at 2 p.m. in Greyhound Stadium, between Portales and Clovis, N.M.

Andretti Turns Fastest Lap

GOTEMBA, Japan (AP) — Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., clocked the fastest run Friday, the first day of official time trials for Sunday's Japan Grand Prix race, the last of the 1977 Formula 1 auto season.

Andretti, driving a John Player Special Lotus 76, was timed in one minute 12.23 seconds, averaging 134 miles an hour over the 2.5-mile Fuji International Speedway track.

Andretti won the Japanese race last year and has won four Grand Prix races so far this year. The 1977 driving championship already has been clinched by Niki Lauda of Austria.

"The surface of the track was better this year," Andretti said. "But I still could not get used to the course."

James Hunt, 1976 world driving champion from Britain, was second in 1:12.39. He drove a McLaren M26.

Dutch Official Blasts Cutting Olympic List

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The senior figure in world track and field warned Friday that the sport will disappear from the Olympic Games if any attempt is made to reduce the number of events.

"Our sport is the Olympic Games as the Greeks invented them," said Adrian Paulen, Dutch president of the International Amateur Athletics Federation. "Athletics are the center of the Olympics."

"We will not consider any suggestion that our events be reduced. We understand that such a plan may be put forward. If that happens, it will be the end of our federation in the Olympic Games."

Paulen spoke as he went into a two-day meeting between the executive board of the International Olympic Committee and leaders of the 26 international federations which control the sports in the Olympics.

The IOC's program commission, which is studying what many consider the unwieldy size of the Olympics, recommended earlier this year that all current sports be retained in the Games. But it now is considering other ways of making the Games smaller.

Arpad Csanadi, Hungarian president of the commission, said, "One possibility is to allot a quota of events to each sport, and leave it to the federation concerned to decide which events should be cut out."

"We are considering this, but we will not come to a decision before it is time to report to the IOC at its annual session in Athens next May."

Only the IOC, the supreme ruling body of the Olympics, can make the final ruling. It already has decided that the present shape of the Games shall be unchanged for the Olympics of 1980 — the Summer Games in Moscow and the Winter Games in Lake Placid, N.Y.

Just over 200 gold medals were awarded at last year's Olympics. The program commission has talked of possibly reducing the number to about 180 and thus thinning out the population of Olympic villages.

"Personally, I don't believe any of the federations would tolerate such a thing," Paulen said.

Thomas Keller, Swiss president of the General Assembly of International Federations, said, "This is an explosive subject. Other federations besides track and field would revolt if it happened. It could be a problem for us in the future."

Bland Leads By Two Shots

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — John Bland forged to a two-stroke lead at the halfway point of the $57,000 Lexington Professional Golfers' Association Championship Friday. He followed up his first-round 68 with a three-under-par 67 Friday for a total of 135 on the Wanderers course.

Bobby Verwey, the first-round leader, had a 70 for 137 to trail Bland. Another stroke back at 138 are Britain's Nick Job, whose 66 was the best round so far in this tournament, and Mark McNulty of South Africa.

Gary Player of South Africa, who posted a 68 Friday, and South African Bobby Cole, with a 71, have 139s.

U.S. PGA champion Lanny Wadkins shot a 67 for a par 140.

Paulen spoke as he went into a two-day meeting between the executive board of the International Olympic Committee and leaders of the 26 international federations which control the sports in the Olympics.

Gigantic Cross-Country Meet Set At Mackenzie

Led by a quartet of Kenyans, West Texas State University will be favored in the university division team title of this morning's Texas Tech Invitational Cross-Country Meet.

And in the high school division which will precede, Monterrey's Curtis Conaway is the choice in the boys division. It'll be a full morning of running in Mackenzie Park, as athletes will compete in six divisions. First competition will begin at 10 a.m., and races will continue until noon.

There is no admission to the event which is being sponsored by Tech and the Lubbock Independent School District. Tech will be in charge of the university and junior college events, and the LISD will oversee the high school classes.

On the high school agenda will be varsity and junior varsity races for both girls and boys. High school races will measure two miles. All races will begin in the area just east of the swimming pool in Mackenzie Park.

Expected to compete in the high school events—either boys or girls or both—will be individuals and teams from Abilene, Amarillo, Big Spring, Brownfield, Caprock, Abilene Cooper, Hobbs, Midland Lee, Midland High, Morton, Odessa, Odessa Permian, Pampa, in addition to the five local high schools.

Amarillo girls will be favored for the title of their division. Amarillo is defending Class AAAA state cross-country champions. Midland, Brownfield and Monterrey could battle for the boys team championship.

Conaway is unbeaten this year individually in cross-country and won last week at Hereford.

Susan White of Amarillo is the favorite among the girls.

The university favorite is WTSU's Joseph Kemei, who has not been beaten in the "West Texas" cross-country circuit this fall. Kemei, and Kenyan teammates John Chermarigo, Joseph Barno and Gabriel Bot, gave WTS the title in its meet last weekend.

Tech has beaten WT once this year, by a point in the opening meet of the season, at Plainsview.

Tech will be led by senior Marc Johnson, junior Ricky McCormick, and sophomore Greg Lautenslager. Also, Tech will be running Robert Wilson, Randy Yates, Richard Postma and Tony Lozano.

The university class will have Lubbock Christian, Wayland Baptist College, Eastern New Mexico University, and Angelo State, in addition to the hosts and WT.

Running for LCC will be Willie Siga, a junior, and freshmen Kip Mibey, Joel Koech, Jim Cook, Mike Jenkins, and Harold Stewart. Siga, a Kenyan, will challenge for the individual title.

The junior college division will also serve as the Region V meet, with the top two teams and top 15 individuals qualifying from here to the national junior college meet at Tucson, Ariz., on Nov. 12. South Plains College is the sponsoring organization.

New Mexico Junior College, paced by Ben Mokua, will be the team favorite. In the field will be SPC, NMJC, Odessa College, New Mexico Military, Grayson County, Cisco, Ranger, and Southwest Christian junior colleges.

Pro Ring Program On Slate

Professional boxing makes its first venture into Lubbock in several years tonight with a program beginning at 8 p.m. at Fair Park Coliseum.

Headlining the card are heavyweight Nick Wells and featherweight James Martinez of Odessa.

Wells, who sports a 7-1 professional record but has knocked out every professional foe, had a 96-13 record as an amateur.

Wells' opponents over the years both as a pro and amateur include Ron Lyle, Duane Bobick and Earnie Shavers, who fought Muhammad Ali recently. Wells battled Shavers when he was still in high school.

Wells will go against Pampa's Dickie Wills in the final bout of the night, a 10-round affair. Wills has a 19-6 record as a pro.

Just prior to the Wells-Wills battle, Martinez, with a 31-4 professional record and a 125-4 amateur mark, will go ten rounds against Gilbert Navarette of Juarez, Mexico. Martinez is ranked fourth in the United States, 12th in the world. Martinez's record includes a split-decision loss to the third-ranked Richard Rozelle in the Tournament of Champions.

The card will open with a trio of four-rounders. Troy Vaughn of Wichita Falls will take on Marciano Estoga of Odessa in the opener. The Odessa fighter is making his professional debut.

Paul Stephens of Fort Worth, and Jimmy Stringer of Odessa will tangle in a welterweight battle, and Lyn Ball of Shreveport will go against Leroy Green of Wichita Falls in a heavyweight battle.

A six-round battle will send Tommy Young of Dallas against Alfonso Dominguez of Odessa. Young has won once, lost once in his pro career, and Dominguez is fighting professionally for the first time.

WILDCAT INJURED

ABILENE (AP)—Abilene Christian University quarterback John Mayes broke his thumb in practice Thursday and will be out of action for three weeks. Mayes, a sophomore, is the Lone Star Conference leader in passing and total offense and is third in total offense in the NAIA. ACU, 4-1-1, is No. 4 in the NAIA Division I rankings and plays ninth-ranked East Texas State today.

LEADING RUSHER—Bo Robinson of Lamesa is already one of West Texas State's all-time leading rushers, and he will be reaching for more yardage tonight when the Buffaloes play Lamar at Beaumont in a nonconference game.

Buffaloes Seek Third Straight At Lamar

BEAUMONT (Special)—West Texas State University goes for its third straight victory of the football season tonight against the Lamar Cardinals at 7:30 p.m.

The Buffaloes of coach Bill Yung won two straight Valley Conference games the past two weekends, defeating New Mexico State 17-14 at Las Cruces and Drake 31-7 in Canyon for a 2-4 season record. Lamar, 1-5, opened the season with a win (over Northeast Louisiana) but has suffered five straight losses since then.

West Texas averages 268 yards a game on the ground and boasts the Valley's top rushing threat in Bo Robinson of Lamesa, who carried 25 times for 175 yards in last week's Drake game and was named MVC Back of the Week.

Robinson, averaging 7 yards a carry, ranks sixth on the all-time WT ground list with 1937 career yards.

"Lamar has a new coaching staff and a very capable one at that," said WT coach Yung, himself serving as head coach here for the first season. "We're anticipating a tough game, for their defense is excellent. They have two runningbacks that have the potential to do some things out of the split veer."

In West Texas' two previous wins, the Buff's defense displayed a solid goal line stand once against the New Mexico State Aggies and twice against the Drake Bulldogs.

"I was accusing—kiddingly, of course—(assistant coach) Bob Brush, that he was purposely letting the opponents get down close so the defense could show off. Three goal line stands in two games is unheard of," Yung said.

WT holds the nine-game series edge 6-3, including last year's 21-6 victory at Canyon.

Clete Boyer Gets Job With Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP)—The Atlanta Braves announced Friday the hiring of former golden glove infielder Clete Boyer as a minor league field instructor for the 1978 season.

Boyer, 40, played in five World Series with the New York Yankees, was on Atlanta's Western Division championship team in 1969 and also played in Japan.

Boyer has the third best all-time fielding percentage among major league third basemen.

Canada's Tie Ousts Haiti In Cup Tourney

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP)—Canada's national soccer team ran out of reserves in the World Cup qualifying competition Thursday night but it had the satisfaction of having also eliminated Haiti from the six-nation tournament.

A 1-1 draw on a last-minute goal by Ike Bakich of the Rochester Lancers of the North American Soccer League gave both Canada and Haiti five points from two wins, one loss and one tie each. As a result, Mexico with eight points from four wins and no losses, cannot be caught when it plays Canada tonight.

All through the week the Canadians were under the impression that, in the event of a tie on points for first place, goal spread would decide which nation went to the World Cup in Argentina next year, but on Thursday morning, they learned that a tie would be settled by a playoff game. That meant that victories over Haiti and Mexico would have left both teams with 4-1 records, forcing the playoff.

But when Guy Dorsainville, a fresh, second-half substitute, beat Canadian goalkeeper Tony Chursky in the 34th minute of the second half to give Haiti a 1-0 lead, it appeared all over for Canada.

The Canadians fought back, however, and with 25 seconds left on the clock, Bakich tied the score on a desperation play. Sam Lenaduzzi, who had the ball bounce off his knee on Haiti's score, lofted a long shot into Haiti's goal mouth.

Gary Thompson, a second-half substitute for Ike McKay, headed the ball and it fell at Bakich's feet. All he had to do was ease it past goalkeeper Henry Frasnellion.

"I am not disappointed because after being down 1-0 we have to be satisfied with a draw and five points," said Canadian coach Eckhard Krautzun. "I gave the Canadian players all the credit. After Haiti scored they didn't give up. They fought to the last second and the equalizer."

Ropes Wins 14-9, Nabs 2-B South Playoff Spot

AMHERST (Special) — Ropesville, ranked No. 1 in area Class B competition clinched the Dist. 2-B South Zone championship here Friday with a 14-9 win over the Amherst Bulldogs.

The Eagles, rated No. 5 in the state, captured the 2-B South crown on two touchdown runs and points after by quarterback Gary Means.

Amherst held the Bulldogs scoreless in the first quarter, while putting 3 points on the board. Eagle fullback Jim Bagwell punched a 40-yard field goal through the uprights midway through the initial period.

With 3:30 remaining in the half, Means scored the first of his pair of touchdowns on a 1-yard run.

In the third quarter, the Eagle quarterback took the ball in from the 3-yard line.

Amherst halfback Terry Sterling scored the only Bulldog touchdown. After a 62-yard Ropesville punt, Sterling took a pitchout deep in his own territory and avoided all tacklers on his way to an 85-yard touchdown.

Sterling was the top rusher on the night with 169 yards on 14 carries. Eagle halfback Steve Simms rushed 31 times for 95 yards.

The Ropesville victory boosts the team's record to 8-0 for the season and 5-0 in district play. Meanwhile, Amherst stands 5-3 and 2-2, respectively.

Unbeaten Seagraves Scuttles Buffs 27-7

STANTON (Special) — The undefeated and No. 1 state-ranked Seagraves Eagles used a pair of TD runs by runningback Clarence Davis in the second and third quarters to pull away from the Stanton Buffaloes Friday, and added a last-second TD to pull the final score to 27-7.

It was the front-running Eagles' lowest scoring output this year. Previous low was 29 points.

Steve McCormick ran 10 yards for Seagraves' only first-quarter TD with 5:39 left, and Davis Morgan's PAT kick made it 7-0. Stanton fought back in the second stanza, with tailback Marvin Jones going the final three yards of a TD drive for the hometown. Collinson Huffman's PAT tied it up at 7-7 with 6:36 remaining in the half.

Then Davis burst 17 yards for the go-ahead TD for the state's top-ranked Class A team some three minutes later, and Morgan's PAT kick gave the winners a 14-7 halftime edge.

In the third quarter, Davis broke loose for his second TD of the night, this one from 9 yards out, and with 5:39 left in the third period, Morgan's PAT made it 21-7.

Then McCormick added the final TD as the game ended and the PAT was blocked for a 27-7 final score.

Seagraves ran up margins of 19-8 in first downs, and 342-112 in rushing yardage in moving to an 8-0 season ledger and 2-0 district record.

Stanton now stands 5-2 and for the season 0-1 in district.

Tulia Blanks 'Winds 12-0

TULIA (Special) — A fumble recovery by Trent Finck set up the first score for the Tulia Hornets here Friday and spurred them to a 12-0 shutout of the Floydada Whirlwinds.

The Hornets put 12 points on the board before the end of the first half and then coasted for the win.

Quarterback Don Burgess hit Jeff Wilks on a 35-yard pass for the first Tulia touchdown.

Alex Vaughn ran in from four yards out for the second Hornet TD.

The win lifted Tulia's season record to 5-3, while Floydada fell to 4-4.

Borden County Coasts 58-0

GAIL (Special) — The Borden County Coyotes had a happy homecoming Friday, rolling up seven touchdowns in the first half and coasting to a 58-0 win over the Sands Mustangs.

The Coyotes started the scoring spurge early in the first quarter of the District 3-B West game when they swamped Sands quarterback Max Hernandez in the Mustangs' end zone for a safety.

Before that period ended, Borden County added three touchdowns. Halfback Eurdist Rinehart scored on runs of 10 and 45 yards, and defensive end Ty Zant intercepted a Sands pass and went 12 yards for a TD.

A two-point conversion by halfback Pat Toombs made the Coyotes' first-quarter lead 22-0.

They boosted that advantage to 52-0 by the half, as touchdowns were scored on a 20-yard run by Travis Rinehart, a 5-yard carry by quarterback Blane Dyess, a 5-yard sprint by Craig Peterson and a 45-yard pass from Dyess to Eurdist Rinehart.

Borden County's final tally came in the fourth quarter on a 1-yard plunge by Eurdist Rinehart.

Sands drops to 0-3 in district and 0-8 on the year. The Coyotes are 3-0 in loop play and 4-4 overall.

Mustangs Stampede Over Klondike

WILSON (Special) — Calvin Wilke ran for one touchdown, passed for two, and returned a punt and an intercepted pass for additional TDs, as the Wilson Mustangs stormed past the Klondike Cougars 35-14 Friday.

Wilson played a role in every Wilson tally except one extra point.

Klondike jumped to a 6-0 lead in the first period on a 29-yard run by Ines Casillas. But Wilke started putting on a show in the second quarter.

As quarterback, he threw 44 yards to Garcia for a touchdown, then caught a pass from Lucio Trevino for a two-point conversion. Later in the period, Wilke ran four yards for another TD and kicked the extra point.

In the third quarter, the Mustangs stretched their 15-6 halftime advantage as Wilke connected with Garcia on a 6-yard touchdown toss. The PAT attempt failed.

On the first play of the fourth period, Klondike punted and Wilke returned the ball 83 yards for a TD, with Garcia adding the extra point.

Then, the Cougars' Dennis Hearld snared the ensuing kickoff and ran it back 80 yards for a Klondike touchdown. A two-point conversion on a pass from Tommy Haynes to Johnny Guerra made the score 28-14.

Wilke scored the final points when he intercepted a Klondike pass and returned it 29 yards for a touchdown. He then kicked the extra point.

The Cougars are now 1-2 in District 3-B West, and the Mustangs are 2-1.

Wilson had 18 first downs, 206 yards rushing and 87 passing. Klondike got six first downs, 67 yards rushing and 21 passing.

Baiza Paces Wildcat Win

LITTLEFIELD (Special) — Raymond Baiza slammed home with three short-yardage touchdowns here Friday to pace Littlefield over Friona 21-0.

Friona actually gained more yardage than the victors—266 to 213—but Littlefield capitalized on two crucial turnovers to take the lead.

Both turnovers came in the first stanza. Baiza intercepted a pass on the Friona 42 early in the game and legged it back to the 19. He ran the next four plays, scoring on a 1-yard run with 9:29 left in the quarter.

About five minutes later, Wildcat David Jones recovered a fumble on the Friona 5. Baiza scored shortly thereafter from the 2. Richard Soria booted all three extra points for the Wildcats.

Littlefield scored its final TD with 6:45 left in the contest on a Baiza 1-yarder.

Littlefield is now 4-3 on the year, while Friona's ledger dips to 2-5.

Meadow Shuts Out Smyer By 36-0

SMYER (Special) — The Meadow Broncos kicked the Smyer Bobcats 36-0 here Friday night in a District 2B game.

First-quarter scores included a 6-yard run by Bronco halfback Louis Villarreal, and an 82-yard kickoff return by Smyer quarterback Dennis Scott to tie the things going into the second quarter.

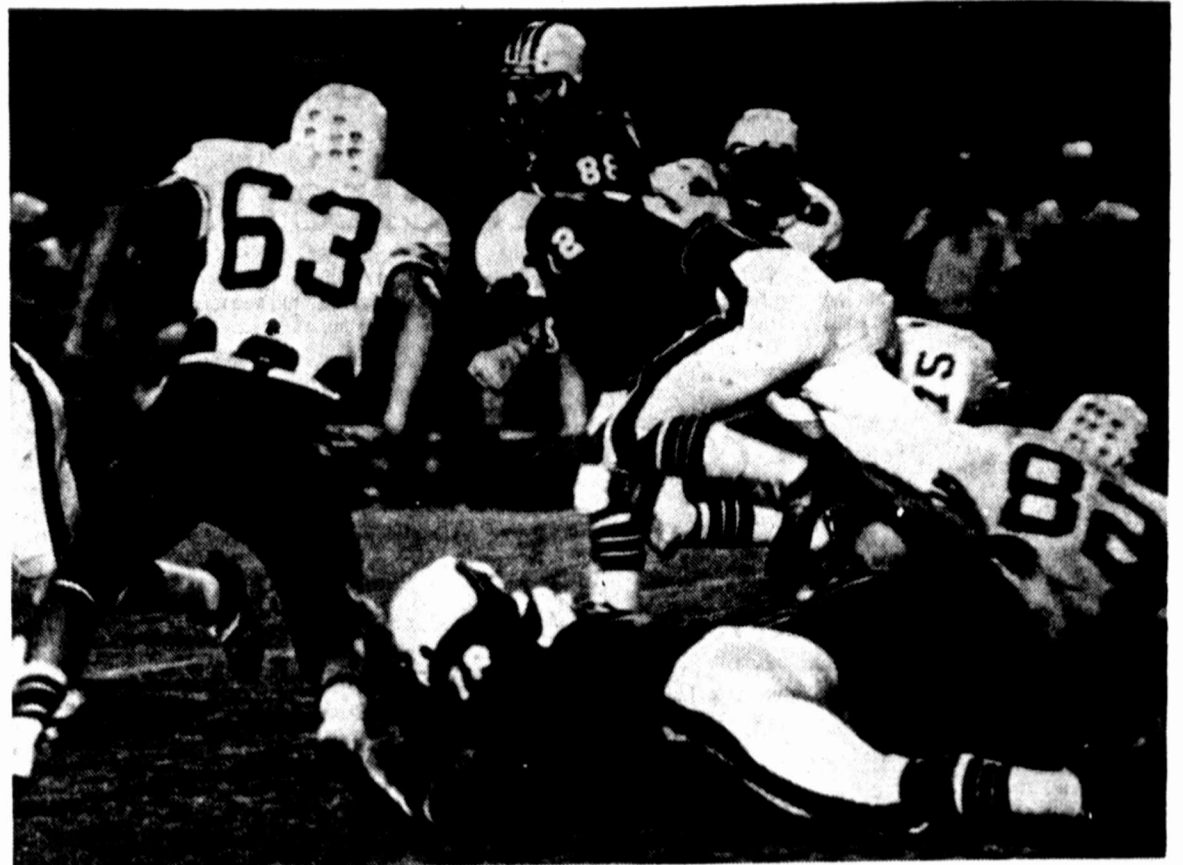

However, it was all Broncos for the rest of the game. Villarreal made the only score in the second period on a 1-yard run.

Third-quarter action included scoring runs by Meadow's halfback Marcus Cruz from 11 yards out and a 2-yard run by halfback Raul Flores, followed by the extra-point kick by Cruz.

In the fourth quarter, Bronco quarterback Milton Sanchez connected with Flores on a 20-yard TD pass. Meadow was successful on the extra-point run.

Whitney Bennet ended the game's scoring with a 25-yard field goal.

HOLE-IN-ONE
LORENZO (Special)—Chuck Mills used a 4-iron in aicing the 210-yard seventh hole at Lorenzo Country Club Friday. He was playing with Carl Shirley, Gary Haight, and Ronnie Armes.

Lake View Overcomes Tors' Defense For 18-14 Victory

LAMESA (Special) — Held to a paltry two first downs in the first half by an inspired Lamesa defense, San Angelo Lake View's Chiefs stormed back with three touchdowns after intermission Friday to beat the Golden Tors 18-14 in a District 3-AAA game.

Clay Wright, Lamesa halfback, started things going for the Tors in the second period with a 7-yard scoring run. Unsuccessful with his PAT's the past three weeks, Wright had no trouble booting the point after Friday to put Lamesa up 7-0.

Minutes later, quarterback Mark Price scored on an 11-yard run, and Wright added the extra point to increase the lead to 14-0 as the half ended.

Held out of the contest during the first half, Chiefs' quarterback Gary Speck returned after intermission to throw a 9-yard scoring pass to tight end Kenny Daywood. A try for two points failed, and Lamesa led 14-0.

John Mayberry scored for the Chiefs on a 9-yard dash as the fourth quarter opened. Again, the two-point conversion try failed, and the Chiefs still trailed, 14-12.

Speck dipped in to the end zone for his second TD of the evening on a one-yard plunge with 3 minutes remaining for the winning score.

A furious Lamesa rally was stopped short when a Lake View player intercepted a stray Golden Tor pass in the end zone with only 10 seconds remaining. Lake View held on for the win and kept its undefeated record intact.

The Chiefs, who climbed to 8-0 for the year, picked up 15 second-half first downs to amass 17 for the night. They had 209 yards rushing and 100 yards passing.

Lamesa, which dropped to 2-6 overall and 1-3 in district play, rolled up 14 first downs, 294 yards rushing and 76 passing. Mayberry led the Chiefs in rushing while Wright was the top offensive weapon for the Golden Tors.

Jayton Drubs Loraine 45-0

JAYTON (Special) — The Jayton Jaybirds, led by quarterback David Noles, crushed the Loraine Bulldogs 45-0 Friday in District 3-B play.

The home team accumulated 26 first downs and 305 yards rushing on the ground to Loraine's meager three first downs and 43 yards on the ground. The outcome leaves Jayton 6-2 for the season, and the Bulldogs with only one win in eight outings.

Noles made the first of his four scoring runs from 20 yards out with 9:33 left in the first period. Five minutes later, tailback Gene Cleveland scored on a 4-yard run after Jaybird linebacker Joe McMeans recovered an onside kick on Loraine's 38-yard line.

Noles scored twice in the second quarter from a yard out. The first was registered with 5:13 showing and the second came with about a minute to go in the period. Randy Prince kicked the extra point following the second.

With 8:51 left in the third period Noles took a keeper and again ran in from the 1-yard line. Cleveland kicked the extra point.

McMeans, who was the stalwart for the Jaybird defense, recovered a fumbled Bulldog kick on the visiting team's 3-yard line, and tailback Robert Segura ran it in on the next play with 22 seconds left in the third quarter.

The last score came with 4:37 left in the final period when fullback Donnie Shipp ran in from 4 yards out, capping a 38-yard Jaybird drive.

McMeans led the defense with 13 tackles and two fumbles, followed by Shipp, also a linebacker, with 12 tackles.

Sudan Bombs 'Horns 35-6

SUDAN (Special) — Three Sudan Hornets checked up more than 100 yards rushing here Friday in a runaway game that ended with Sudan trouncing the Lubbock Longhorns 35-6.

Halfback Joel Williams marked up 116 yards on 17 carries, halfback John Miles carried 14 times for 132 yards and Darren Provence, Hornet quarterback, completed six of 14 passes for 103 yards.

From the start, it was Sudan's game, and Lazbuddie's only touchdown of the night came late in the third quarter.

Sudan began tallying points in the second quarter with Ricky Stanford carrying one yard for the TD with 8:50 showing on the clock. End Rick Hill's kick was good.

The Hornet's scored again soon after on a 38-yard pass from Miles to halfback Joel Williams. Hill's kick was blocked.

In the third quarter, Provence connected on a 41-yard pass to Ricky Stanford in the end zone, and Williams' extra point try made the score 21-0.

Miles earned again for another touchdown, this time on a 1-yard run, and Hill's kick was good.

Lazbuddie then scored its only touchdown of the night on a 9-yard run by quarterback Charles Steinbock.

A fourth quarter touchdown by Sudan's Miles came on a 34-yard run, and Hill's extra point brought the final score to 35-6.

Sudan's three leading scorers made up most of the 309 yards rushing tallied up against Lazbuddie's 111 yards.

Crowell Rips Paducah 26-8

CROWELL (Special) — Paducah Dragon Vance Porter picked off a 67-yard pass intended for a Crowell receiver late in the fourth quarter here Friday, but the interception wasn't enough to keep Paducah from being downed 26-8.

Vance's scoring interception, and Dragon Stewart Barnes' pass to Lee Tippen for the conversion were Paducah's only score in the District 7-A game against the Crowell Wildcats here.

Crowell's pre-halftime scores came on a 1-yard run by Mark Christopher in the first quarter and another 1-yard run by Christopher in the second quarter followed by an Oran Carroll kick for the extra point.

In the fourth quarter, C.B. Sparkman sprinted across the line from three yards out for another touchdown, followed soon thereafter by Christopher, this time on a 40-yard run. Carroll's extra point attempt was good.

Christopher's carries made up most of Crowell's 245 yards rushing, while Porter's interception-scoring play led Paducah's total of 94 yards rushing.

Jal Pops Dexter In NM League Tilt

JAL, N.M. (Special) — The Jal Panthers ran past the Dexter Demons 27-12 here Friday night for a 2-0 mark in District 4-AA play. Dexter is winless in the district.

With about five minutes left in the opening period, Jal halfback Ricky Jennings scored on a 4-yard run. The point after was kicked by James Roney. The Panthers struck again with 10:40 showing in the second quarter when fullback Rusty Andrews went over on a 1-yard run. Roney's extra point kick was good.

Dexter scored next with nine minutes gone in the second half when halfback Gene Grimm scored after quarterback Larry Grantham hit him with a 23-yard pass.

Three minutes later Jal decided to duplicate the last scoring pass when quarterback Roney connected with wide receiver Gary Simmons on a 23-yard TD pass.

With 10:56 left in the final period Roney scored on a 1-yard keeper.

The total attendance at major college football games in 1976 was 32,012,008.

Allen Hints Cowboys Should Be Fined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington coach George Allen suggested Friday that the Dallas Cowboys should be fined $25,000 for harassment of Redskins' field goal kicker Mark Moseley.

"Moseley has done a great job and every year Tex (Schramm) pulls cheap shots against him," said Allen of the Dallas general manager. "There ought to be a rule against the Cowboys harassing Moseley."

Allen said he was angry after last Sunday's game at Dallas, inquiring about the legality of Moseley's kicking shoe. After the game, Cowboys placekicker Eflren Herrera renewed old charges and claimed that Moseley had lead in his kicking shoe.

Allen said he was fed up with the charges, but his outburst also was a way of getting around the question of whether the Redskins would ever voluntarily pay compensation to the Cowboys for signing free agents Calvin Hill and Jean Fugett.

The compensation issue was raised again this week when Wellington Mara, the Giants president, voluntarily gave his third-round draft choices in 1978 and 1979 to the Miami Dolphins as compensation for signing Larry Csonka.

Mara then facetiously suggested that Schramm give the Giants compensation for Dallas' signing of ex-Giant running-back Ron Johnson.

Schramm said he would—when the Redskins compensated Dallas for the signing of Fugett and Hill.

Asked to comment on the compensation issue, Allen got in his bit about the Cowboys' charges against Moseley.

"Dallas is into everybody else's business," Allen said. "So that's my answer to that. Tex and Dallas are always carrying the Holy Grail."

"I got a call from the league office on Moseley's shoe again this year and then they said Dallas had nothing to do with it, which also was a fairy tale. There ought to be a league rule against harassment and Tex or whoever does it should be fined $25,000. It's against Mark's integrity."

"I signed Mark as a free agent and he's developed into a fine kicker. They just can't believe he's as good as he is."

Moseley kicked three field goals against the Cowboys, including a Redskins' record 53-yarder.

About the compensation issue? "Allen shrugged. "We're playing the Giants this week," he replied. "That's my answer to that."

Loop Posts 46-0 Win Over Southland

SOUTHLAND (Special) — The Loop Longhorns beat the Southland Eagles 46-0 Friday in a District 3-B (Six-Man) game.

The game was called in the third quarter after the Longhorns, led by Clay Freeman, opened a lead of more than 45 points, the margin required under six-man rules to end play.

Loop's record is now 4-4. Southland stands 3-5 on the year.

Pate Extends Southern Lead To Four Strokes

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Calm, confident Jerry Pate padded his lead to four strokes in the $125,000 Southern Open golf tournament Friday as he fired a 67 for a 36-hole total of 131, nine under par.

Johnny Miller, winless since the Bob Hope Desert Classic nearly two years ago, shot a 68 and shared the second spot with defending champion Mac McLendon at 135 over the par-70, 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

McLendon had a 66, the best round of the day.

Bob Wynn, Don Bies, Gibby Gilbert and Wally Armstrong were another shot back at 136. Armstrong had a 68 and the other three players had 69s.

Pate, the 1976 U.S. Open champion, who was plagued by an injury to his right hand and shoulder earlier this year, had his irons working to perfection on the back nine Friday.

The blond, former University of Alabama golfer bagged birdies on Nos. 10, 12 and 13 to take command at the half-way point in his bid for the $25,000 first prize.

Pate, 24, won the Phoenix Open in January before laying off with his injury. He was making only his 16th start of the year.

Drub Jackrabbits

RALLS (Special) — Dennis Carter passed for one touchdown and ran for another as the Hale Center Owls beat the Ralls Jackrabbits 31-7 Friday.

Carver connected on a 13-yard TD pass in the first quarter and scored on a 3-yard quarterback sneak in the fourth period. The Owls also got touchdowns in the second quarter on a 3-yard run by Dale Gason and a 37-yard sprint by Benny Heath.

Ralls' only points came on an 18-yard run by Paul Menefee in the second period with the PAT also by Menefee.

The Owls are now 3-5 on the season and the Jackrabbits 1-6.

Hale Center got 20 first downs, 200 yards rushing and 76 passing to Ralls: 16 first downs, 181 yards rushing and 30 passing.

year, but earned more than $72,000.

The 6-foot 165-pounder from Pensacola, Fla., had a pair of birdies and two bogeys on the front nine before his backside birdie binge. His longest putt of the three was eight feet.

Dave Eichelberger, who was one shot behind Pate entering Friday's round, skied to a 75 for a 140 total. The Fort Worth golfer had a pair of double bogeys on the front nine.

Fem Netters Host Oklahoma

The Texas Tech University women's tennis team will be facing a strong team from the University of Oklahoma today on the Tech women's tennis courts. Singles play will begin at 11 a.m.

This will probably be the closest matchup of the season," said Tech coach Emilie Foster. "Oklahoma's top two players are probably among the strongest we will ever play. I anticipate set scores to be very close, and the head-to-head competition tough."

Mrs. Foster plans her singles lineup with Karen Schuchard, Mame Bevers, Kathy Kuhne, Kim Hood, Debbie Donley and Peggy O'Neil. Doubles lineup will be Bevers-Schuchard, Hood-Kuhne and O'Neil-Donley.

Oklahoma coach Randy Sontheimer will match Tech's singles lineup with Jill Moreland, Suzie Brennan, Linda Shields, Jane Bryan, Diane Davidson and Debra Inman. Doubles pairings will be Brennan-Moreland, Bryan-Shields and Inman-Davidson.

"We lost a close match to TCU last week, and we hope that this one with Oklahoma will be even tighter, with Tech coming out on top, of course," Foster said.

Tech's team match record is currently 1-2-1, and the Red Raiders' next outing will be next weekend at the Abilene Halloween Invitational.

There will be no admission charge to the Tech-OU match.

Pate, who had a 64 in the opening round on a string of six birdies and no bogeys, opened the day with a bogey five on the first hole, knocked in consecutive birds on five and six and then bogeyed the seventh to remain even on the front side.

U.S. Open winner Hubert Green fired a 70 and was at 140, while Canadian Open champion Lee Trevino was at 142 after a 74.

It took a score of 144 to survive the midway cut. Ex-Texas Tech golfer Jeff Mitchell had his second straight two-over 72 to go into today's round with a 144 total.

Bears Given Slight Nod; Dallas, Colts Picked

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
For rookie kickers Rafael Septien and Glen Walker, this could be a very interesting Monday night.

Septien and Walker work for the Los Angeles Rams, who have a date with the Minnesota Vikings. And every time placekicker Septien and punter Walker step on the field, waiting for them will be the Viking special teams, which specialize in blocking kicks.

Last year, the Vikes blocked 16 of them, including two by LA in the NFC championship game—a field goal try by Tom Dempsey that was converted into a 90-yard Minnesota touchdown and a punt by Rusty Jackson that set up a Minnesota three-pointer. That's part of the reason why Septien and Walker kick for the Rams these days.

Now the two rookies will find out first hand about the headaches the Viking specialists can cause. It says here that a block or two will figure in the outcome with the Vikes on top.

Last week's 8-6 left the season's log at 49-21, a 700 pace. The picks:

Minnesota 19, Los Angeles 12
The Vikes are underdogs, probably because the game will be played in sunny California instead of frigid Minnesota. Forget the location. The Rams have been lethargic and Fran Tarkenton & Co. should prevail.

Chicago 17, Atlanta 7

That Falcon defense is tough but not as good against the run as it is against the pass. And Walter Payton runs. The Bears can score enough to win.

Baltimore 27, New England 21

Bert Jones will get the points on the board for the Colts but Baltimore will have to control the Patriot ground game, which is leading the NFL.

Cleveland 24, Buffalo 10

The Bills ended a 13-game losing streak last week against Atlanta but the Browns have more weapons than the Falcons. The most effective could be Don Cockroft, who has won two games with pressure field goals.

Dallas 34, Philadelphia 10

The Cowboys are devastating and will stay unbeaten against the Eagles, who are improving but aren't in Dallas' class quite yet.

Denver 24, Cincinnati 20

The Broncos are for real and now that they lead the AFC West, they want to stay there. The Bengals are bruised, battered and bewildered over what is fast becoming a nightmare season.

Detroit 16, San Francisco 7

The Lions are no world-beaters but the 49ers play like they're from another world. San Francisco lost to the Giants last week in a game in which New York completed two—count 'em, two—passes.

Green Bay 13, Tampa Bay 10

The Battle of the Bays. If somebody has to win, make it the Packers, who are getting closer to respectability faster than the Bucs.

Pittsburgh 20, Houston 10

The Steelers owe the Oilers this one after losing in Houston. The Steel Curtain won't let that happen again.

San Diego 19, Kansas City 7

The Chargers lead the NFL in pass defense and that's the only way the Chiefs can make any progress. Therefore, take San Diego.

St. Louis 23, New Orleans 17

The Cardinals have the best passing statistics in the league but the Saints are more vulnerable on the ground, so look for St. Louis to run the ball more than usual.

Washington 20, NY Giants 7

No offense means no points. Both attacks are less than awesome. The No offense means no points. Both attacks are less than awesome. The Redskins probably will benefit from a couple of turnovers to spell the difference.

Oakland 27, NY Jets 10

The Raiders stumbled last week against Denver and can't afford any more slipups as long as the Broncos keep on winning. The Jets are clearly improving and should learn some things from the Super Bowl champs.

Miami 34, Seattle 14

In their last three games, the Dolphins have scored 70 points in the first half and only six after intermission. What's going on in that dressing room at halftime, anyway?

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

PROPOSED RULES FOR WHEAT SET-ASIDE and normal crop acreage have been issued by the USDA.

The proposals basically require that a normal crop acreage be established to replace conserving bases, that set-aside land be recently tilled and protected by vegetative cover, and that harvesting or grazing be prohibited on set-aside acreage.

The set-aside requirements are on a calendar year basis and, according to the USDA, are designed to make the set-aside more effective in controlling production and protecting acreage from weeds and wind and water erosion.

The normal crop acreage will include the acreage of small grains harvested in 1977 (adjusted where abnormal) and other major field crops of significant acreage which have been recommended by state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committees and approved.

ELIGIBLE FOR THE SET-ASIDE WILL BE cropland which has been tilled within the last three years.

Ineligible for set-aside use: A farmer cannot designate the same land for set-aside under two programs, receive prevented planting or low yield payment on it, harvest it, graze it, or summer fallow it during the calendar year.

Set-aside land must be devoted to grasses, legumes or small grains (including volunteer stands other than weeds) and be clipped except when approved for wildlife cover.

Under certain conditions new trees, shrubs, terraces, sod waterways and water-stoppage areas also can qualify.

A preparation-for-fall seeding provision is that crops may be seeded on set-aside in the fall for harvest the next year but can only be left bare in preparation of seeding if the state committee obtains approval.

GRAZING WILL BE PROHIBITED AFTER Dec. 31 except when approved under emergency conditions.

Under a cross-compliance provision, a farmer who produces a crop covered by a set-aside program must make the required diversion from the normal crop acreage for the farm to be eligible for any loans or payments on price supported crops.

There is a provision on offsetting compliance between farms. To qualify on any farm for loans and payments authorized for crops included in the normal crop acreage (NCA), a landowner, landlord or operator of a farm that produces a set-aside crop must assure that on each farm the required acreage, if any, is set-aside and the acreages of NCA crops are limited to the NCA less the required set-aside.

THE USDA HAS PROPOSED TO SET the national wheat program acreage for 1978 at 58.7 million acres. This acreage represents the pay base under the new farm program, and an allocation factor will be determined by dividing the program acreage by the total number of harvested acres following the August 1978 crop report. The law requires, however, that this factor cannot be less than 80 per cent.

The program acreage proposal is based on the USDA's estimate of domestic use at 815 million bushels and exports of 1 billion bushels, minus imports of 2 million bushels, divided by a proposed payment yield of 30.9 bushels.

The USDA doesn't propose to adjust the national program acreage level because of excessive stocks. The national program acreage will be subject to revision as more information becomes available on expected utilization and establishment of farm program payment yields.

Federal Official Quits Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Agriculture Secretary Robert Meyer submitted his resignation to President Carter Friday rather than stop his lobbying efforts to keep federal water flowing to farmers in California's Imperial Valley.

The White House said Carter was expected to formally accept the resignation on Monday. Press Secretary Jody Powell said the resignation had not been requested.

Agriculture Department sources said Meyer had been thinking of resigning since late September when questions were raised about his lobbying activities to change a law adversely affecting Imperial Valley farmers.

Meyer and his family own more than 2,000 acres in the area, a former desert region in Southern California.

At issue was a 1902 federal law, recently upheld by the court, which limited federal water for irrigation to farms of less than 160 acres.

The court ruling has been attacked by large landholders in the western United States, and Carter has said the law needs a change since few farms as small as 160 acres can be profitable.

Meyer admitted arranging meetings with members of Congress for himself and friends to discuss the law but said he did nothing wrong, Meyer said he acted

ACLU Leader Says

CIA On Campuses

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A former National Security Council staff member says intelligence agency activities are prevalent on some 100 American college campuses.

Morton Halperin, who now heads the American Civil Liberties Union's "campaign to stop government spying" spoke Thursday at the University of Michigan Law School.

He urged his audience and members of the U-M faculty committee to adopt guidelines similar to those adopted by Harvard University, where intelligence agents are required to identify themselves as being involved in CIA recruitment.

only "as an individual" and did not use his government position to seek special treatment for Imperial Valley.

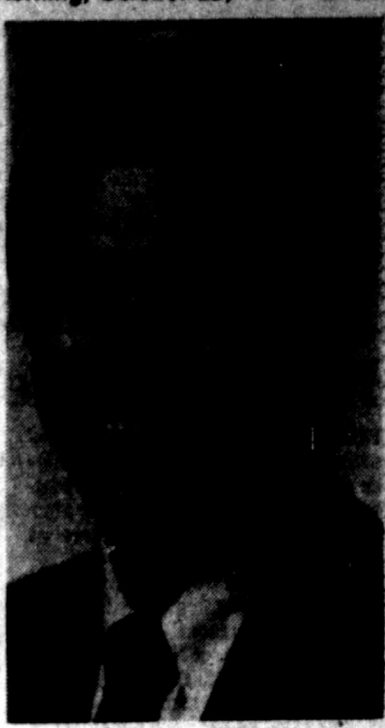

On Sept. 30, Carter received a report and said Meyer had done nothing illegal. But Carter wrote to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland ordering Meyer to stop his contacts "whether or not there was an illegality."

Meyer had been stewing over the situation ever since, department sources said.

"When I talked to him (Meyer), he said he understood now he couldn't have a private life and a public life but he didn't have to buy it," one official commented.

A factor in Meyer's decision may have been a hint Sen. Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., was considering asking for a Senate hearing into Meyer's activities.

Haskell had written Bergland asking for a full explanation of Meyer's dealings on behalf of Imperial Valley. After receiving Bergland's response, Haskell told the secretary he thought it would be "appropriate" for Meyer to resign because of conflict of interest questions, a spokesman for the senator said.

Fee Proposal Draws Criticism

DENVER (AP) — Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus announced Friday a proposal to increase by about 50 per cent the fees that the nation's 25,000 cattle and sheep raisers pay to graze their stock on public lands. He said the increases would total an extra $28 million a year.

The proposed increases were immediately attacked as "unfair and unrealistic" by the National Cattlemen's Association and the National Wool Growers Association.

In a joint statement, the associations said the fees increases were "part of an overall plan to force livestock production off public lands."

Cattle and sheep raisers now pay $1.51 a month for each animal they graze on lands on which they lease grazing rights from the Bureau of Land Management. The fee for grazing on U.S. Forest Service lands is $1.60 per animal each month.

Andrus said he and Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland were recommending increases that would raise those rates to a single fee of $2.38 a month for each animal.

Most of the public lands used for grazing are in 11 states from Colorado westward.

Andrus said the increases, if adopted, would be implemented in stages starting

Disappointment Seen For Striking Farmers

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — A proposed strike by U.S. farmers is going to be a great disappointment for those who enter into it, a top U.S. Agriculture Department official predicts.

The prediction came Thursday from Howard W. Hjort, chief economic adviser to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, in an address to the 21st annual Grain Elevator Business Conference.

He said he believes any farmers who strike will find "their influence relatively small" when compared with crop production and trade in other countries.

Farmers in some states, including next February. The increase in the first year would be to no more than $1.89 a month, and fees would increase no more than 12 per cent a year thereafter until reaching $2.38 a month, he said.

some in a few western Oklahoma counties, have called for a nationwide strike to begin Dec. 14 and continue until they receive 100 per cent parity for their products.

In his talk, Hjort also defended the Carter administration's 20 per cent set-aside program for wheat.

Farmers who do not participate in the set-aside will not be eligible for federal price support payments.

Hjort noted that many farmers wanted a section added to the program permitting the grazing of cattle on the land held out of production.

But, he said, no grazing option was included in the plan because the problems plaguing the cattle industry would be increased by grain producers grazing their herds on land held out of production and because such grazing would be impossible in the northern wheat states, which have little wheat production.

Although Hjort predicted that farmers who hold 85 to 90 per cent of wheat land currently in production would participate in the set-aside program, Don Dudley, executive director of the Oklahoma Wheat Commission, said some state farmers will use their 20 per cent set-aside for livestock "because the potential for making money by grazing it" will outweigh current prices for wheat.

But, he said, no grazing option was included in the plan because the problems plaguing the cattle industry would be increased by grain producers grazing their herds on land held out of production and because such grazing would be impossible in the northern wheat states, which have little wheat production.

Cattle Futures Advance On Chicago Exchanges

CHICAGO (AP) — For the third consecutive day, live cattle futures advanced, with a gain of 27-67 points Friday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

December led the climb and gained as much as 72 points early in the session. Volume was 9,252 trades.

Active commission house buying lifted the nearby contract to its highest level in more than four months, up two cents per pound from recent lows.

Sparkling the demand was the 2 1/2-cent advance in carcass beef seen Wednesday, coupled with light slaughter and firm cash cattle.

Wholesale beef was up one cent per pound at 66 1/2 to 67 cents at all weights, highest since May 1976. Cash cattle were steady to firm with a top at $44 per hundredweight.

Friday's kill was estimated at 150,000 head. The six markets expect receipts of about 18,600 head on Monday.

Hog futures rallied on spillover buying from the cattle pit and gained two to 47 points at the close, led by February. That contract broke 32 points early in the trade, while the nearby added 55 for a time. Volume was estimated at 4,534 trades.

Wholesale bacon was unchanged to off 2 1/2 cents per pound at 45 1/2 to 50 cents, a 1 1/2-week low.

Grain Farmers Sorghum Board Gets New Head

Larry Witten of Olton has been named chairman of the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board (TGSPB) succeeding C.C. "Pap" Reed of Kress.

John Gilbreath of Hart is vice chairman and C.P. Smith of Hale Center is secretary-treasurer. The officers were elected to two-year terms at a bimonthly meeting of the board earlier this month in Lubbock.

New directors of the board also were installed by Bob Gray of the Texas Department of Agriculture in Austin. They are Paul Cobb, Lee Hill, Worth Jones and Reed. Paul Cobb will serve his first term as director.

Cobb farms 3,500 dryland acres in Yoakum County; Hill 2,000 irrigated acres in Hartley County; Jones, 900 irrigated acres in Swisher County; and Reed, 1,500 irrigated acres in Swisher County. Jones also breeds Angus Cattle and Reed irrigates pasture for cattle grazing.

K.B. Parish, past chairman, awarded plaques of recognition to Reed for his service as chairman of the board and A.R. Dillard of Hereford for service as a board director.

The Food and Fiber National Institute of Achievement in Lubbock presented a slide show about grain sorghum. It is one of three prepared by the organization to emphasize the role played by American farmers and ranchers in helping to feed and clothe the nation and world.

The Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board promotes grain sorghum sales and research. It is supported by a five cent per ton voluntary assessment collected in a 29-county area of the High Plains.

Coroner Reveals Results Of Presley Autopsy

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Elvis Presley died of hypertensive heart disease, not drugs, the Shelby County medical examiner said Friday.

Dr. Jerry T. Francisco said, however, that four drugs were found in significant amounts in the body of the 42-year-old rock 'n' roll star during post-mortem tests. Four other drugs were discovered in amounts that would have had no pharmacological effect on the body, he said.

"Had these drugs not been there, he still would have died," Francisco told reporters at a news conference called to disclose autopsy findings.

Francisco said the autopsy report was discussed by three forensic pathologists and a toxicologist at the University of Tennessee Center for Health Sciences. Two toxicologists from other states were consulted as well.

He said exhaustive post-mortem tests were ordered because of rumors and published reports that Presley, who died Aug. 16, had drug problems which contributed to his death.

"It is the considered opinion of all the forensic pathologists and two of the three toxicologists that there is no evidence the medication present in the body of Elvis Presley caused or made any significant contribution to his death," Francisco said.

"The third toxicologist was of the opinion that all three medications were in the therapeutic range and individually did not represent an overdose." Nor, he said, were the drugs collectively an overdose.

Asked what the dissenting toxicologist's opinion had been on the question of whether the drugs collectively constituted an overdose, Francisco said, "He said 'I don't know.'"

The medical examiner identified the drugs found in significant quantities as the sedatives ethinamate and methaqualone, codeine, which had been prescribed for pain resulting from dental work; and barbiturates.

None was found in quantities beyond what would be considered normal therapeutic levels, Francisco said.

The ethinamate level was 100 gammas per 100 milliliters of blood. A gamma is 1-1,000th of a milligram.

Methaqualone was found at a 600

gamma per 100 level and the codeine level was 100 gammas per 100. The barbiturate level was 800 gammas per 100.

Francisco said the methaqualone in Presley's blood was about what could be expected in a person who had taken a single tablet within the past five or six hours.

The other drugs were in much lower levels, the medical examiner said.

Francisco said morphine is found in the blood of anyone who is taking codeine.

The medical examiner said those drugs were in such small amounts that they would have had no effect on the body.

Lead Singer Of Group Billed 'Platters' Dies

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Howard Guyton, lead singer for an American group touring Argentina as the Platters, died in a hospital here Friday after suffering a heart attack, doctors at French Hospital reported.

The hospital said Guyton, 39, was hospitalized after collapsing Thursday in his Buenos Aires hotel room.

Earnest Cameron, of New York City, a nine-year-veteran with the singing group, said Guyton's real name was David Lynch and that he had been a member of the group since the late 1950s.

However, David Lynch, a member of the original Platters group, was later reached by phone at his home in Los Angeles. He told a reporter that several groups have since used the name of the Platters.

"Howard was one of the old-timers," Cameron told The Associated Press, "and he was lead singer on this Latin American tour."

U.S. Consulate officials said they were making arrangements to ship the body of the dead singer back to the United States aboard a commercial jetliner departing here Friday night.

Cameron said Guyton is survived by a mother and sister who live in Detroit.

Buck Ram, arranger and personal manager of the original Platters formed in 1955, said Guyton and his group are not the authentic Platters. Reached in Los Angeles, Ram said there are at least 20 singing groups performing around the world using the Platters' name as a drawing card.

Ram said the original group had gone to court in Baltimore to seek protection for its name. He said the group then incorporated under the name Five Platters, Inc., and is the only group allowed to use the name in 10 countries, including the United States.

Ram said Guyton was not David Lynch, who was the baritone for the original group. He said the Platters are all "alive and well" and currently performing in Las Vegas.

Reached later in Buenos Aires, Cameron said that the group appearing here is the legitimate Platters group.

ESCAPEE RECAPTURED
 ABILENE (AP) — One of four men who escaped Thursday from the Ector County Jail in Odessa was recaptured Friday at an Abilene bus station. Police said 22-year-old Roy Leon Day, who had been jailed on a theft charge, offered no resistance.

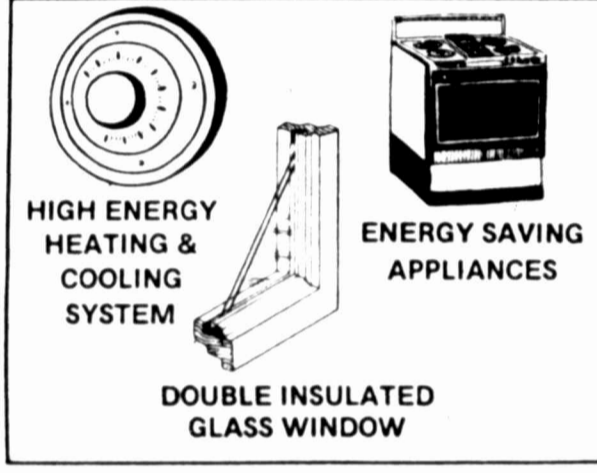

Guyton's mother and sister could not be reached for comment on Ram's statements.

THE MCINTOSH C28 STEREO PREAMPLIFIER IS THE QUIETTEST, MOST FLEXIBLE, EASY TO USE, MOST ADVANCED AND HAS THE LOWEST DISTORTION!

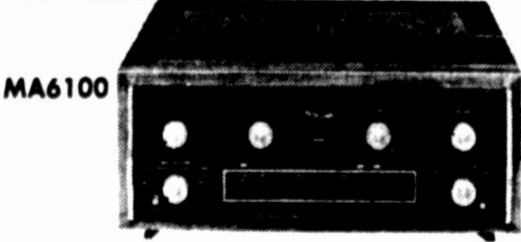

McIntosh Engineers could not be content with just another preamplifier. New concepts, new technology has produced a preamplifier that gives you the greatest flexibility ever in a preamplifier.

MAC 1900

The MAC 1900 compares very favorably with more recently designed receivers in its price category. Add to this McIntosh's well earned reputation for using quality components that rarely break down, and their unquestioned willingness to take care of any and all service problems wherever and whenever they arise and the MAC 1900 can hardly be classified as an antiquated design in any sense of the word.

"Mac" stylists have managed to design a look that may well appeal to both types of user, and this opinion dovetails with the unit's general feel as a product... One gets the feeling that the McIntosh MA6100 was built to last a very long time. McIntosh stresses long-term reliability for all of their products, along with a dedication to service a customer satisfaction that cannot be adequately judged in the short time we had to live with these units.

MR74

The McIntosh MR 74 AM-FM, FM Stereo Tuner is a superb instrument with useful performance characteristics. It incorporates unique front end IF filter mixer and provides for two position selectivity. When you connect this fine instrument you will discover more FM stations with good quality than you have ever heard before. The AM portion represents the most advanced techniques that bring about a desirable rediscovery of AM. The McIntosh MR 74 is used with other McIntosh products such as preamp-power amplifier or with individual preamplifier and power amplifier.

MCINTOSH SPEAKERS

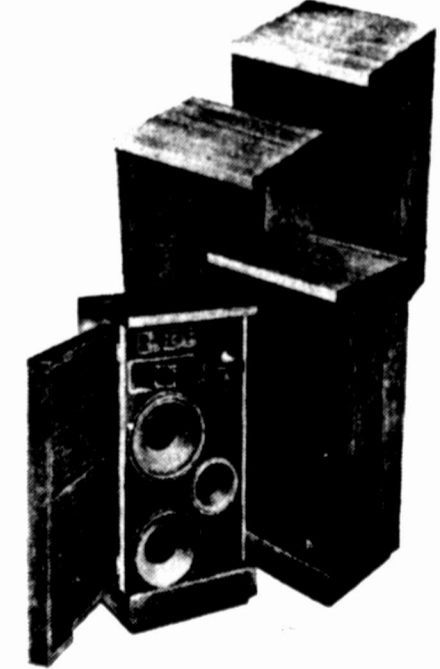

The acoustical, mechanical and electrical characteristics of each speaker element have been designed for desired performances. Each loud speaker in the system produces optimum performance in a limited frequency range. At low frequencies a high volume-velocity of air is required to radiate low frequency energy.

These dome loudspeakers incorporate materials that are the latest industrial technology to insure wide dispersion, smooth response and exceptionally low distortion. At 7000 Hz the dome speakers become directional and response is deliberately rolled off. The angled 2" tweeters, each with moving mass less than 4000 milligrams, mechanically cross over to the 5/8" center domes to extend the response to 20,000 Hz with good dispersion.
