Jail Warning Given Border 'Vigilantes'

DEL RIO (AP) — South Texas officials warned opposing vigilante groups Friday they will be "put in jail" if either group interferes with established law enforcement agencies.

The two groups are the Ku Klux Klan, which pledged to take 200 men to the South Texas border to watch out for Mexican illegal aliens, and members of the Brown Berets, a Mexican-American group which also pledged to have several hundred people along the border to keep the Klan from bothering Mexicans.

will not respond to any call we get from them. If the KKKs pick up somebody and the Border Patrol makes contact, we are not going to question the person and will just tell the people to leave."

Beam said Klan Imperial Wizard David Duke sent a telegram to Attorney General Bell Friday stating the Klan would halt its border patrols if the federal government would supply sufficient manpower to stop the "alien army" from crossing the border.

"Those who have to get back for work will be coming back Monday," said Beam. "And those who have gotten the time off or are on vacation will stay in the area and keep up the border watch along with Klan members who live along the border."

Beam said KKK patrols have been warned against any physical confrontations with suspected aliens. He said the only Klansmen who will be armed are members of the "security forces" who are already encamped in or near various

Lubbock Beret Leader

An advance group of Brown Berets, led by Gilbert Herrera of Lubbock, met with city, county, and Border Patrol officials Friday morning to assure them that the group was there "to see that illegal aliens are not harassed or arrested by anybody other than authorized agents of the Border Patrol."

In Houston, KKK state organizer Louis Beam Jr. said 150 Klansmen would be deployed at undisclosed border points between El Paso and Brownsville by late Friday. The distance involved is nearly 900 miles.

Beam said the Klansmen would patrol along the river and up to 30 miles inland. He said suspected illegal aliens would be reported to authorities. A majority of the population in the Rio Grande Valley cities between Laredo and Del Rio is Mexican-American.

Difference Noted

Border patrol officials said they did not think the Klan could tell the difference between an illegal alien and a Spanish-speaking U.S. citizen.

The KKK's announcement of plans to patrol sparked the reaction of Mexican-American groups that said they would organize their own patrols to make sure the Klansmen did not violate the rights of Mexican-American citizens in South Texas.

In Washington, U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell urged "all organizations or individuals who have any intention to interfere with the enforcement of immigration laws to cease and desist their activities under penalty of law."

Berets Unarmed

Herrera's group, wearing the khaki uniform and boots of the organization, said the Brown Berets were not armed, but that "if the Klan roughs up aliens, we will rough up the Klan." He said about 1,500 Brown Berets would be in the area from Del Rio to Brownsville.

Val Verde County Sheriff J.R. Koog told the group: "What are we going to do? We've got you on one side with uniforms and the other guys with sheets on the other side... If you interfere with any of my men, you will be arrested. We don't need citizens groups here. If you break the law, you will go to jail."

Border Patrol area director Hugh Williams said: "We view the Klansmen as being completely untrained. Any information they give us is highly suspect. We

'Sunshine Bonus' In Store Sunday

MOST Americans will have a little extra morning sunshine in their lives — both figuratively and literally — beginning Sunday, when Daylight Saving Time exits until next spring.

At 2 a.m. Sunday, clocks should be turned back an hour; thus will be regained — theoretically, anyway — the hour of sleep "lost" last April.

That extra sunshine? Well, with the sun rising now at around 6 a.m. instead of 7, there's an additional hour of morning sunshine, although sunset will occur an hour earlier, too.

The present system of starting daylight time on the last Sunday in April and returning to standard time on the last Sunday in October was set by law in 1966 under the Uniform Time Act.

States, however, are permitted to exempt themselves in whole or in part from the time changes, and Arizona, Hawaii and part of Indiana as well as Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa reject the "spring ahead, fall back" routine and stay on standard time the year around.

Carter Signs Mexican Prisoner Exchange Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter signed bills Friday that will start Indochinese refugees on the road to citizenship and Americans now held prisoner in Mexico and Canada on the road back home.

Carter, in a Rose Garden ceremony, said both bills were examples of American compassion and concern for human rights.

The prisoner legislation sets up the machinery to implement treaties with Canada and Mexico. Citizens of the United States held in either country could choose to serve the remainder of their sentences in U.S. jails. Mexican and Canadian nationals held here could opt to return to their countries.

last November. The Canadian negotiations and treaty followed, although there was no similar outcry for help from the 250 Americans held in Canada.

Carter said the treaties would result in better rehabilitation for citizens of all three countries because the prisoners would be closer to their families and prospective employers.

Administration officials expect that many of the Americans who return will quickly be paroled. There are about 575 in Mexico, nearly all on drug charges, and 250 in Canada, on a wide range of charges. The Justice Department, which has begun interviewing the Americans in Mexico, estimates that at least 300 of those prisoners will be willing to return.

The Mexican treaty takes effect 30 days after a diplomatic formality called exchange of ratifications, which State Department officials said would occur Friday or Monday. The prisoners, therefore, could be back in the United States by Christmas.

In return for repatriation, the treaties require the prisoners to waive their constitutional right to ask an American court to review the conviction for which they are being held.

Legal scholars who testified on the point said they expect this will quickly be challenged by a returning prisoner.

The refugee bill grants permanent legal resident status to the estimated 145,000 Indochinese refugees who have been in the United States for two years. In another five years, they can apply for citizenship. It also continues educational and vocational training programs for them.

"I doubt that any other group of refugees in my lifetime has been so devastated by war. This bill acknowledges our gratitude, our debt, and our commitment to a better life for the refugees," Carter said.

The treaties are an indirect result of the Nixon administration's drug crackdown in the early 1970s. Mexico responded to United States pressure by arresting hundreds of young American drug couriers and giving them long sentences. In Mexico, there is no parole for drug offenders.

The prisoners and their families began complaining to the State Department and to Congress that they were being victimized by an allegedly corrupt court and prison system in Mexico. Negotiations for the treaty began, and it was signed

Charge Names Customs Agent

DALLAS (AP) — A lengthy federal investigation has resulted in the indictment and arrest of a highly decorated U.S. Customs Service agent on charges of extortion and obstruction of justice.

William Waggoner, accompanied by his attorney William Ravkind, surrendered to U.S. marshals Friday. Ravkind said his client was released on a personal recognizance bond.

The charges include alleged death threats made by Waggoner, 31, against Dallas private investigator Joe Horn after demanding kickbacks from him.

Horn received $50,000 from the U.S. Treasury Department for his work in helping break up a Mexican gold smuggling operation in February, 1975. Waggoner was one of the agents involved in the probe.

Ravkind said his client would plead innocent to all five counts. He described Waggoner as "stunned" and said, "He doesn't know what to think about all of this."

German Reds Claim Kidnaping

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Kidnapers seized a Dutch-Jewish multimillionaire Friday and the West German Red Army Faction claimed responsibility. A telephone caller demanded release of a jailed German anarchist and abdication of Queen Juliana, apparently as ransom for the tycoon's freedom.

The abductors struck as police throughout Europe hunted 16 Red Army Faction anarchists wanted in West Germany for the slayings of its federal prosecutor, a kidnaped industrialist and a banker.

Witnesses said about five persons overpowered Maurits Caransa, 61, as he left downtown Amsterdam's Continental Club at 1:15 a.m. after a bridge game. They drove him away in a red car, leaving his briefcase on the sidewalk near his chauffeur-driven Rolls Royce.

Nine hours later, a German-speaking caller told the Amsterdam newspaper Het Parool: "We are the Red Army Faction. We have Caransa. You will hear from us."

A Dutch-speaking caller told another Amsterdam paper, Telegraaf, that he represented "The Movement of October 18," the name used by European leftists to protest the Oct. 18 prison deaths of three West German anarchists. The caller demanded the queen's abdication and release of Knut Folkerts, 25, a Red Army Faction member detained for the slaying of a Dutch policeman in Utrecht Sept. 22.

Folkerts is wanted in Germany on charges of taking part in the April slaying of prosecutor Siegfried Buback and the July killing of banker Juergen Ponto. He is also sought for questioning in the Sept. 5 abduction of industrialist Hanns Martin Schleyer, who was found dead last week.

Dutch Premier Joop den Uyl told a news conference at The Hague later Friday authorities have not yet determined the "significance and value" of the two calls received by the Amsterdam newspapers.

"In the present uncertainty, we must wait before acting," the premier said. Meanwhile government officials kept in close contact with a team of 30 Amsterdam detectives hunting Caransa's kidnapers.

Dutch police have been searching for several other German terrorists believed in Holland. Police in Sweden said acquaintances of Ponto reported seeing one of his alleged slayers, Susan Albrecht, in Stockholm Thursday night.

Caransa owns a chain of hotels and other real estate valued at more than $40 million. He was born in Amsterdam of a poor Jewish family of Portuguese descent and made his fortune selling army surplus equipment after World War II.

His parents and both brothers perished in Nazi concentration camps, and he was held by the Nazis in Holland for 13

Search For Missing Tot Proves Fruitless

LUBBOCK police Friday were scaling down what has been a massive search for a missing 6-year-old boy, but juvenile officers pledged their continued diligence and added that any leads as to the child's whereabouts no matter "how weak or bizarre" would be checked out.

Capt. Bill Cox conceded the department needs "some new leads to follow up" and requested that all Lubbockites check weedy areas near their homes in hopes that evidence of Johnny Turner Jr. of 1028 E. 29th St. will turn up.

The search for the child, who a witness said was being dragged screaming through an alley near his home, has continued virtually without interruption since the boy was reported seen with a man about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Cox said the department had not utilized a Department of Public Safety helicopter in the search which already has included mounted policemen because there was no defined area in which to use the craft.

He noted that to be effective the helicopter would have to descend to just above the top of weeds.

At noon Friday, police on horseback were combing overgrown portions of Yellowhouse Canyon north of E. 19th Street. Later, officers scoured an area south toward 34th Street.

The child's anguished parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Turner, say there is no where the boy would have wandered alone and, they say, the lad did not speak to strangers.

So far the search has covered virtually all of East Lubbock, although Cox said Friday portions of that territory are too dense with vegetation for even dogs to penetrate.

Dogs have not been used in the search thus far, Cox said, because officers can find no starting places for the animals and have ruled their use impractical.

Police have retraced steps occasionally, Cox said, to avoid missing any scrap of evidence that might help locate the 11-year-old Elementary first grader.

Law enforcement Regions 4 and 5 were notified by Lubbock teletype early Thursday.

Rodeo Contestants Gaining On Stock

By ESTHER LONGORIA
Avalanche-Journal Staff

IT WASN'T easy, but cowboys and cowgirls managed to hold their own as third round Texas Tech rodeo action got underway Friday night.

Harry Vold's rough calves, broncs and bulls gave more than one Southwest Region collegian a taste of the dirt instead of the win in the third of a four-day run of rodeo action at Municipal Coliseum.

More than 2,000 thrilled to the action-packed spectacle, which could lead lucky cowboys and cowgirls to next summer's national intercollegiate finals in Bozeman, Mont.

The fast and furious rodeo action wasn't the only crowd-pleaser. Spectators applauded the patriotic pageantry of the Abernathy Rodeo Club, were delighted by the spectacular horsemanship of the Zamoras and thrilled to the antics of rodeo clown Bob Romer.

The crowd came alive when New Mexico State University's Jim Cooper, riding Diablo, grabbed a stunning 70 in the wild bareback bronc riding contest.

Other high scorers included Buddy

Reynolds, Western Texas College, 68; Danny Mason, WTC, 65; and T.J. Walker, Ranger Junior College, 64.

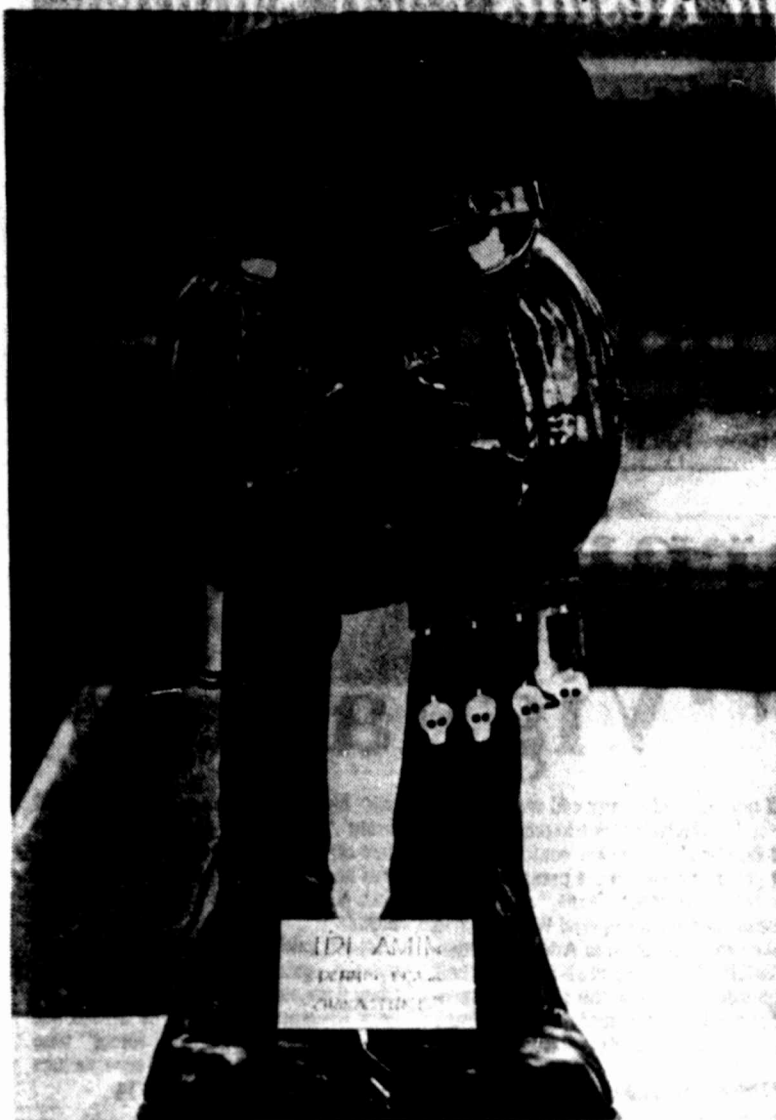

Vold's stock held a commanding lead, though, in the saddle bronc competition. Only George McNaughten of NMSU scored, taking a sterling 69.

Cowboys held their own in bulldogging, with Jimmy Garcia of Eastern New Mexico University wrestling down his beast in 5.65 seconds.

When the women got the chance, they showed they, too, could be tough to beat. In goat tying, three women accomplished the feat in less than 11 seconds. NMSU's Jeanie Freeman took the lead with 10.36, followed by WTC's Jill Greener and ENMU's Fawna Abel, who recorded a 10.51 and 10.91, respectively.

In calf roping, Tim Barton of Cisco Junior College topped his 10 competitors, tying his calf in 10.3 seconds.

The final night underway at 7:30 p.m. today. Tickets for the event, billed as the "world's largest and oldest indoor intercollegiate rodeo," are available at the college's box office and selected western wear outlets.

WHO IS THE GREAT PUMPKIN? — Linus, Charlie Brown's friend who faithfully awaits the arrival of the Great Pumpkin on Halloween night each year, would definitely have a problem with deciding just who he has been waiting for all of these years if he were to see the latest creations at the architecture department of Texas Tech University Judges of the Third Annual Great Pumpkin Design Contest feel that the pumpkin caricature of Idi Amin, entered by Dennis Bragg, will best fill the shoes for the title this year. Carrie McCann's pumpkin creation, with his winning facial expression, reflects a new mood for Halloween, while another creation by Bernie Harless, themed "No Place but Texas" reflects on another kind of fun-filled evening, often enjoyed by Texans. (Staff Photos by Milton Adams)

Weather No Threat To Raiders

Heavy fog across the South Plains Friday morning cut visibility to one-quarter of a mile at times and wreaked havoc with airline schedules.

A spokesman at Lubbock International Airport said visibility fell below minimum landing standards "on and off all morning," beginning at 7:30 a.m. Approximately six planes, the spokesman said, had overflown the city for alternate destinations, while others maintained holding patterns near Lubbock.

Flights departing the airport were also hampered by the dense fog, with Braniff, Continental, Southwest and Texas International officials all reporting the delay of some flights until the fog began lifting around 10:30 a.m.

Continental was forced to cancel two flights, one to Denver, Colo., and another to Los Angeles, Calif., because of the weather conditions, while Southwest canceled one departing flight.

Persons planning to fly from Lubbock to Austin for the Texas Tech-University of Texas football clash, however, should not have any problems with flights being delayed by the weather, National Weather Service officials report.

A dense fog similar to the one that blanketed Lubbock Friday morning is not anticipated for today, a NWS spokesman said, because of the dry air moving into the South Plains region. Any early morning fog, the spokesman said, should be light and patchy.

Today's Tech-Texas gametime forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with temperatures in the low 80s and southwest winds at 7-14 mph.

The forecast for Lubbock and vicinity calls for fair skies and a high temperature in the low 80s. The low tonight should dip to the lower 50-degree range.

Senate Plans Kill Tower Visit

WASHINGTON (Special) — U. S. Sen. John Tower expressed regret Friday about the forced cancellation of his Tuesday-Friday tour of the Panhandle and High Plains area.

Tower was scheduled to visit 21 counties to listen to constituents' opinions at town hall meetings. The Senate has scheduled major votes and debates on the Social Security Reform proposals and additional defense appropriations for that time, however.

"I am keenly disappointed about the last-minute postponement of these town hall meetings," Tower said. "My constituents on the High Plains and Panhandle would be equally disappointed, however, if I were to be absent from Senate deliberations and critical votes on such important legislation."

Tower was scheduled to visit citizens Tuesday in Guthrie, Jayton, Aspermont, Spur and Crosbyton. He was also scheduled to hold an afternoon news conference in Lubbock. Wednesday's tour included stops in Tahoka, Morton, Mador, Silvertown and Tulla. Wednesday Tower was to travel to Claude, Clarendon, Wellington, Dimmitt and Friona. On the fourth day he was scheduled to tour cities in the Amarillo area.

Whooping Cranes Headed To Haven

LYONS, Kan. (AP) — The pair of rare whooping cranes which made a stop-over at the Quivira National Waterfowl Refuge southwest of Lyons were spotted Friday about 25 miles due south near Preston, Kan.

Wayne Dale, director of the refuge, said they left sometime Thursday afternoon. The adult mates arrived at Quivira, in central Kansas, late Wednesday evening on their annual migration from nesting grounds in Canada to their winter haven at Aransas Pass.

At Quivira, they rested on a salt marsh and ate submerged vegetation two to three inches below the surface. They were too far from any vantage point where pictures could be taken.

Hunting was closed down at the refuge when they arrived but was reopened Friday.

Seven or eight whoopers made a stop over at Quivira two years ago.

Charro Tradition Lives On

By ESTHER LONGORIA
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A young Mexican man is making it his goal to see that the Charro tradition lives on in America as well as in his homeland.

"I feel I can give a lot to the American public by bringing some of the skills of the Charreadas (Mexican rodeos) to the United States," 33-year-old Francisco Zamora, who is performing at the Texas Tech Intercollegiate Rodeo, said.

The lean, dark man recalled that as a child he yearned to acquire the skill of jarropeo, the demanding ability to perform feats of roping skill in the rodeo arena.

"But, I had to practice in secret because my father was afraid of the dangers involved in roping and riding wild bulls and horses," he said, adding that eventually his father accepted it, and he began performing professionally at the age of 12.

The secret to his graceful, classical roping style is in the timing, he said. "You must put enough speed and balance into the rope to make it do what you want it to," he said "It takes a certain feel to make my rope come alive."

For his performance, Zamora uses rope made from the fibers of the Maguey cactus plant, which is lighter than the cotton or nylon ropes used by most American trick ropers. "In the roping I do, I care more about style and class than strength," he said.

However, the professional charro's talents are not only confined to roping—he also is an expert horseman whose stallions, trained in the movements of the Spanish riding school, will be performing with him and his wife, Barbara, tonight.

"I find it a real challenge to train horses," he said. "It's something that requires a tremendous amount of patience and dedication; I've been training horses so long that I can almost hear them talking to me." The Zamoras said their own bodies are the basic tool used in training their stallions. "You need to feel control, and we can have that control when we use our body to guide the horse into the movements," Zamora said.

"The main thing is to acquire the animal's trust," Mrs. Zamora said. "It helps if the horse has the desire to learn, too."

Training is a very repetitious process, and the couple added that it was not uncommon for them to spend up to 20 hours in a single day with one animal.

Amtrak To Sell Railroad Cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak plans a sale of old railroad cars and the price for most of them is expected to be about $4,000 with some going as high as $25,000.

Amtrak will sell the 170 vintage passenger cars — including some diners with woodburning stoves, round-end observation cars and dome sightseeing cars — next month.

However, the prospective buyer must find a way to get the cars — most of them more than 25 years old — out of the rail yard.

An Amtrak spokesman said the surplus cars are stored and will be sold in Oakland; Seattle; New Orleans; Chicago; Los Angeles; St. Petersburg, Fla.; Topeka, Kan.; New Haven, Conn.; and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

AN EDITORIAL:

Russia Holding Nuclear Ace?

IF THERE HAS been any doubt but that Russia continues to prepare for the possibility of a nuclear war, the latest announcement from Washington should dispel such fantasy.

The Pentagon, in an unusual news release, announced this week that the Soviets have staged their second successful test of a new system which could threaten destruction of U.S. reconnaissance and other military satellites.

It was the first time the Defense Department has volunteered such information, pointing up an apparent growing concern in the administration over such developments.

THE TEST, WHICH was part of a series of such experiments, was impressive in that it was launched at a difficult elliptical orbit, a harder feat than those for circular orbits.

The "killer" Red satellite passed close enough to the Russian target, Cosmos 959, to have destroyed it had that been the goal, Pentagon officials said.

Soviet emphasis on such a weapon is causing obvious concern in the nation's capital. Back on March 9, President Carter appealed for a mutual U.S.-Soviet ban on satellite destroying weapons systems. But, the Russians never publicly responded and have held three anti-satellite tests since, two of them successful.

On Oct. 4, Defense Sec. Harold Brown revealed that Moscow has "an operational capability that could be used against some satellites."

AN EDITORIAL:

Turning Back Hands Of Time

WANT TO play a good trick on yourself? Forget about changing your clock back an hour when standard time goes into effect at 2 a.m. Sunday.

Then, when your alarm blares Monday morning, just roll over and relax. You'll still have an hour to sleep.

Most people now accept these semi-annual time changes as natural, but it was actually necessity that spurred their invention.

DAYLIGHT SAVING time made its debut as a wartime conservation measure.

First adopted in 1918 and 1919, it was meant to conserve fuel and increase national efficiency. Franklin D. Roosevelt reinstated "war time" in 1942.

Soon after the war, in September 1945, it was eliminated, although individual cities and states opted to retain it. Daylight saving time became national policy once more with the Uniform Time Act of 1966.

The law stated that all states—unless exempted by their legislatures—must institute daylight saving time from the last Sunday in April until the last Sunday in October.

ART BUCHWALD:

It's A (Cough) Matter Of Life 'n (Gasp) Breath

WASHINGTON—A news item out of Chicago reports that the American Cancer Society has decided to launch a new advertising campaign entitled, "Smoking Stinks," aimed at teen-agers who are buying cigarettes.

The campaign will publicize the fact that smoking causes bad breath.

The reason for the switch is that studies showed that while most teen-agers do not fear death, they are, thanks to TV, frightened silly of bad breath.

I believe the Cancer Society is on the right track.

Teen-agers are fed a daily diet of murders and killings on television programs every day, and most of them accept it as one of those things.

But they are aware, from watching the commercials, that bad breath is no laughing matter, and no matter who you are you could be a victim of it. I know this from personal experience.

I WAS WATCHING a TV program the other night with some young people in which there was a knife, a rape and a shootout.

No one in the room except me seemed bothered by it.

The commercials were something else. In one, a young man took his date home and refused to kiss her. She went inside in tears.

The two young ladies watching with me were riveted to their seats.

FORTUNATELY, THE young woman's mother was still up and she explained to her daughter what the problem was.

It was bad breath.

The mother gave her daughter a bottle filled with a green liquid. The daughter protested that she already had used a mouthwash. But the mother said:

"This one is different. It freshens your mouth for 24 hours."

In the next scene the same boy took the daughter home and kissed her fully on the mouth.

"Can I see you again?" the boy asked.

WITH AN ACCURATE anti-satellite system, the Russians not only could destroy U.S. camera-carrying missiles which now keep check on Soviet space and military moves, but later U.S. ballistic missiles before they reached their targets.

And while they might be unable to stop all such missiles in a future confrontation, the mere ability to "blind" present U.S. reconnaissance is considered a threat in itself.

Of course, it may be that the U.S. also has such a weapon. But no hint of American progress in this area has ever been made known.

THE WHOLE scenario points up the sobering fact that while the U.S. continues to seek ways and means of arriving at an agreement in the SALT talks and offering to cut down on its atomic arsenal, the Russians are working to build up theirs.

Admittedly, both nations have enough nuclear weapons stockpiled to kill one another's armed and civilian forces many times over. But, the name of the nuclear game is to maintain a degree of parity which would deter a madman in the Kremlin, or the Pentagon for that matter, from launching a "preventive" first strike.

We know what the problem is. The solution, as has long been the case in dealing with Russian Communism, is not easy. Obviously, in this case such weapons should be included in any SALT discussions, and the U.S. hopefully has, or can perfect, such deterrents of its own.

It indeed is an atomic-clouded picture.

Arizona, Hawaii and part of Indiana maintain such exemptions.

SINCE THEN, Congress also has tried to use daylight saving time as a defense measure in another war—the energy crisis.

A law took effect Jan. 6, 1974, establishing year-round DST to help cut national energy consumption.

Arguments which led to the eventual repeal of winter DST centered on child safety.

In several states, children were killed or injured traveling to school in the dark.

Many schools were forced to delay their starting time by as much as an hour so children could walk in daylight.

Soon after the 1974 school year started, then-President Ford signed a bill into law re-establishing standard time for autumn and winter.

If you know it's time to change your clock but can't remember if you lose or gain an hour, you can always rely on the old memory aid—"spring forward, fall back."

Oh, and if you decide to change your clock Monday morning, don't forget to reset the alarm.

Inside the house the girl rushed into her mother's arms.

"How was your date?" the mother asked. "Wonderful," the girl replied. "Thanks to you and —"

MY TWO YOUNG lady visitors breathed a sigh of relief. They identified with the poor girl and it seemed that the problem had been resolved to everyone's satisfaction.

A few commercials later it was the boys' turn to squirm. The scene took place in a locker room.

The star basketball player had just scored the winning play but all his teammates were ignoring him.

Finally, the coach came over to the boy and said, "Nice game," and handed the star a can of underarm deodorant.

The boy took the can and sprayed it under his arms. In seconds the entire team gathered around him and congratulated him on his game.

"DO THE KNIFINGS and rapes and killings bother you?" I asked.

They all looked at me as if I was crazy.

"It's only a TV show," one of the teen-agers said.

"But the bad breath and underarm deodorants are for real?"

"Well, yeh," someone replied. "I mean that's life. No one likes anyone who smells bad."

Unfortunately, the next commercial had to do with constipation.

IT SHOWED AN old man who didn't want to go fishing until his wife gave him a new mint-flavored laxative.

The kids laughed at this one.

"What's so damn funny?" I wanted to know.

"Who ever heard of a guy who wouldn't go fishing until his wife gave him a new laxative?" a teen-ager asked.

It suddenly dawned on me that these kids were in a world of their own, and the American Cancer Society's new bad breath campaign just might work.

Killing Time, Energy

NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Surveying the disarray of the Carter energy program, the President's men gathered at the White House a couple of weeks ago and demonstrated how little they had learned from nine months of power by coming up with "the Jordan plan."

It is named after its principal author, top presidential aide Hamilton Jordan, whose strengths and weaknesses it mirrors. It mobilizes cabinet members to barnstorm the country generating public support for the program.

Trade negotiator Robert S. Strauss, a rising power in the administration, was designated by Jordan as "chief whip" to get his cabinet colleagues moving.

ANDREW TULLY:

Cuttin' It Too Close

WASHINGTON—Now it's the "impossible" shave. I think it's the one with roller bearings. Or is it the job with air conditioning? No matter. Every shave is impossible, a penalty imposed on males because Adam let Eve bulldoze him.

I say TV commercials that claim a man can shave comfortably with any device equipped with a razor blade should be outlawed and their perpetrators sentenced to 30 days on a desert island with Howie Cosell.

Shaving, in point of fact, is no good. The bum who invented shaving was a bum. I hate everybody when I'm shaving, especially those creeps on TV who are always trying to sneak into the bathroom to shave. Shaving implements are not cosmetic tools. They're dangerous weapons.

A BODY CAN commit involuntary suicide with a razor, even with an electric "shaver." Had I been a hemophiliac, I would have bled to death 25 years ago.

A razor can wound me at 20 paces. Once, after a particularly tough shave during World War II, a colonel recommended me for the Purple Heart. He naturally assumed I'd been struck repeatedly by a Tiger tank.

I never have forgiven Oliver Wendell Holmes since the day I discovered that splendid poet had endorsed a new hoe-shaped "safety razor" in 1880 with the pronouncement that "With it, one cannot cut oneself."

What was Holmes, anyway, some kind of a nut? Shame on Oliver Wendell Holmes, if indeed that was his name. Holmes, as you called yourself, meet Jack the Ripper.

MALES ALWAYS have been masochists, regarding their whiskers. Prehistoric cave dwellings have produced early shaving implements such as clam shells, shark's teeth, and sharpened flints.

Yesterday I shaved with a clam shell, and today with shark's teeth. Tomorrow, sharpened flints. That's not a machine gun wound on my cheek, it's where I sliced off a filet mignon a month ago.

Shaving doesn't even make me pretty. When I'm all shaved and ready to trot off to dinner at the White House, a female voice will suggest, "Don't you think you should go over your whiskers?"

Even if Richard Nixon did leave too much litter in the White House, I'll always have a warm spot in my heart for him because he has a tough beard, too.

IF SHAVING IS so much fun, how come so many baseball and football players grow beards? How much you wanna bet the real power behind the Big Blade has a face that requires shaving only once a week?

I may end up despising my youngest son because he has blond hair and can look forward to shaving only on alternate Wednesdays. That couldn't have happened to me, of course. My mother was a red Scot and my father a black Irishman. Guess whose whiskers I inherited?

Join me, my bewhiskered friends, in calling down a pox and underarms that scoff at Sure on Lucius Tarquinius, a Roman king circa the 6th century B.C. He introduced the razor to the Western world, depositing that a man was nobody, but nothing, unless he was smooth-faced.

Compared with Lousy Lucius, Genghis Khan was an Eagle Scout.

For the White House to seek public support while the energy program's fate is being decided on the Senate floor recalls 1964 when candidate William Scranton began shaking hands at Chicago commuter train stations after the Illinois delegation pledged to Barry Goldwater had arrived at the Republican national convention in San Francisco.

"IT IS AN ACT of desperation, born of naivete," said a veteran Democratic senator, who has loyally supported the Carter program, in describing "the Jordan plan."

Jordan, a brilliantly intuitive politician, in time of trouble reverts to what he does best: take to the streets in imitation of the memorable campaign that won Jimmy Carter the presidency.

That the energy plan itself might be remodeled was never discussed at the White House.

Instead, cabinet members were instructed to slip an exhortation on energy, prepared by White House speechwriter James Fallows, into all speeches.

COMMERCE SEC. Juanita Kreps addressed an energy forum in Frankfort, Ky., Friday. Housing Sec. Patricia Harris was to add words on energy while dedicating a public library in Michigan City, Ind., today. Transportation Sec. Brock Adams will preach energy conservation to the American Trucking Assn. in Las Vegas Wednesday.

Climaxing many such excursions, the nation's governors will be at the White House Thursday and Friday to talk energy.

Does all this accomplish anything? Hardly anybody outside the Carter inner circle thinks so.

"It's like a hot water bottle for a seriously ill man," one administration official told us. "It may make him feel better but it doesn't help."

But this official believes "the Jordan plan" fails because it comes too late.

HE CONTENTS IT should have begun last April, when Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill talked the President out of going over the heads of Congress.

There also is feeling within the White House that Jordan, not Sec. of Energy James Schlesinger, should have been selling the program to the nation from the start.

Significantly, such second-guessing within the White House relates to the six months of advocacy following the unveiling of the program rather than the 90 days of drafting preceding it.

While confessing blunders in selling it, the President's men do not even consider that the program is just plain unmarketable.

But that possibility is widely considered beyond the gates of the White House.

THE PRESIDENT'S allies in Congress believe any energy program might be difficult to promote because of complexity; they regard the Carter plan, based on raising taxes, as patently unpalatable to the public.

For that reason, a Senate Democrat who has fought hard for the Carter program is contemptuous of "the Jordan plan," declaring:

"I think it's a waste of time, absolutely ridiculous. It's not the people who are at fault; it's the program."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a Carter supporter as chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, has privately told colleagues that passing everything the President wants would not nearly solve the energy problem.

Jackson has proposed massive government development of new energy sources, thereby stimulating the economy—an idea whose time seems to be coming on Capitol Hill.

But there was no talk at the White House of abandoning taxes and trying economic development. Instead, "the Jordan plan" reverts to techniques more applicable to selling a presidential candidate than a presidential program.

Timely Quotes

Our language continually grows and grows. We once had the Philadelphia lawyer but now we also have the Calhoun banker.

Overheard at a cocktail party: "Don't turn around—but who is that couple that just came in?"

In Russia, they banish the writers when they challenge the leaders. In this country, we banish the leaders who then become writers.

New Doll In Town

THERE ARE STILL 48 shopping days left before Christmas and already Santa Claus and I are battling it out at the toy counter.

I kind of hesitate to bring this up so early (since most folks haven't finished carving the Halloween pumpkin yet), but there's a crisis in the doll department and maybe if we work fast we can straighten out those elves at the North Pole.

What they really need is a new set of blueprints for baby dolls. I don't care whether they make them super-complicated or super-simple, but let's get it together, chums, and settle on one or the other.

The advance samples are just too talented in too many directions. Each one is so fascinating that a poor little kid can't make up her mind which one to put on her Christmas list.

Truly, the selection is dazzling.

WE'RE ALL TUNED in to baby dolls that walk and talk, wet and eat and, heaven help us, digest. But those are last year's models, mere clods compared to what Santa's pushing this season.

There's the realistic baby—she won't go to sleep. Put her down and she yowls until somebody picks her up again. (Or until her batteries run down).

How about the smoocher? Press her tummy, her arms go around your neck, and she puckers up for a big kiss. This one also talks. (Kiss-and-tell type?) Has a lot of cute sayings and no, one of them is not, "Your place or mine?"

There's one that not only drinks and eats, she chews her food. Later the little mother gets to change her diaper. And later still some poor adult has to remember to add pureed peas to the family shopping list.

OR, IF JUST ONE doll doesn't grab you, there's a combination package with a mama doll that rocks her own baby.

Just wind her up, thereby activating a lullaby tucked somewhere in her innards, and she goes into the rock-a-bye act.

If vaudeville's not your bag, how about the sleepy angel who says her prayers before she goes to bed? Gets down on her knees, folds her dimpled vinyl digits, closes her eyes and murmurs, "Now I lay me..." (I am not making this up).

If that doesn't grab you, maybe the party girl will.

THIS ONE SHOWS up dressed for a wow evening (funny hat and all) and blows balloons, toots her horn and sprays bubbles around from her own bubble pipe.

Then there's a genie-type who even makes herself disappear. She does it with mirrors behind her harem bed and doesn't that sound like fun?

Another model does somersaults, handstands and other acrobatics. The secret trick is the remote control in her purse (batteries not included).

You can get a doll that wakes up, turns her head, waves her arms and rolls over and over until you pick her up (or she does a head-first off the bed).

There's a vinyl baby that wakes up crying but "laughs with joy" when you pick her up; one that waves, draws pictures and brushes her teeth (craze and toothbrush included) and a toddler who crawls alone.

That covers the pediatric aisles.

BUT DON'T FORGET, little girls can't wait to be big girls. And so we have the super-sextops:

Barbie in a plunging neckline, Dolly Parton in her bosom-busting blouse, Cher with hair, Donnie and Marie (microphones included), the Bionic Woman with "that famous bionic ping," and (it was bound to happen) Farrah and the other two angels. (I wonder, when you wind Farrah up does she walk out on you?)

There's a bride doll (but I was afraid to ask what she does when you wind her up).

To make it this season a doll's got to have a gimmick. She can't just lie there and wait for a child to come play with her. She has to do her thing, be it bubbles, babbles or burps.

And you can be sure they'll keep it all, in store windows and TV pitch shows, from now till December 24.

So here's a suggestion, Santa, old boy: How about recalling all those models and retooling them into one all-purpose doll that does everything: sings, dances, prays, wets her pants and (by all means) disappears.

Either that, or put out a new one called Granny Go Broke.

And whatever happened to plain old baby dolls, anyway?

Tass Brands Jewish Dissident 'Traitor'

MOSCOW (AP) — The official Soviet news agency Tass responded to foreign protests of the arrest of leading Jewish dissident Anatoly Shcharansky by declaring Friday that he is a traitor and will be punished "with the full severity of Soviet law."

Shcharansky, 29, was arrested March 15 after the government newspaper Ivestia accused him of belonging to a dissident group that collected Soviet military and industrial secrets for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. Shcharansky is in prison and the date of his trial has not been set.

The Tass commentary called Shcharansky "a traitor to his motherland" and tended to confirm dissident reports that Shcharansky faces trial on the formal charge of treason. Treason is punishable in the Soviet Union by imprisonment for up to 15 years or by death.

The Shcharansky case has become a rallying point for Soviet and foreign human rights activists, who claim he did nothing but discuss Soviet human rights issues with Western correspondents and diplomats. Shcharansky belonged to the "Helsinki" civil rights group of Moscow dissidents that has been largely destroyed in the past year by arrests and emigration.

The U.S. State Department announced June 2 that it was "deeply concerned" about the Shcharansky case and called him "well known and respected in the United States for his efforts on behalf of human rights." His wife has been touring the United States and Western Europe appealing for support.

The Tass commentary, signed by Viktor Vladimirov, repeated Soviet assertions that Shcharansky collected information for a foreign power, tried to agitate against trade between the Soviet Union and the West and "collected and fabricated slanderous information about Soviet reality and transmitted it to the West for wide use to anti-Soviet ends."

"Such are the facts, and no slanderous hullabaloo can deny them," Tass said, referring to meetings in the West in Shcharansky's defense. "And one more thing — the organizers of this hullabaloo do not hide their goal of putting pressure on the organs of Soviet justice."

"Vain efforts, gentlemen. The traitor to his homeland will be punished with all the severity of Soviet law and in full accordance with its letter and spirit."

The Tass commentary also said Shcharansky cooperated with Robert C. Toth, a Moscow correspondent of the Los Angeles Times who ended his assignment here in June. Tass referred to Toth as "an agent of special services" of the United States, a charge previously leveled in other Soviet media and denied by Toth.

Shcharansky, a Moscow computer specialist, applied to leave the Soviet Union in April 1973. His application was denied on grounds that he knew state secrets. He subsequently became active in the Jewish emigration movement here and met frequently with foreign correspondents to allege Soviet violations of human rights.

His arrest and the preparation of the case against him have been a major part of a push against all dissidents this year by the KGB security police. Sources say more than 70 dissidents have been interrogated by the KGB or other authorities ostensibly in connection with Shcharansky, but with interrogators' questions ranging over many aspects of the Soviet dissident movement.

While Shcharansky and other leading dissidents remain in jail pending trial, Soviet authorities have been further weakening the dissident movement by urging other dissenters to leave the country.

Recent departees include Valentin Turchin, head of the Soviet branch of the human rights organization Amnesty International, who left earlier this month.

Hill Raps Highway Patrol Budget Cut

BEAUMONT (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Hill said Friday that the last legislature had "misplaced spending priorities" when it slashed requests for more highway patrolmen in the face of record increases in highway traffic.

"The state's spending priorities are upside down when the state highway patrol is strapped with a hiring freeze just as our highways are jammed with more traffic than ever before," Hill told the Department of Public Safety Officers Association's annual meeting in Beaumont.

"Highway traffic in Texas increased more last year than any previous year ... the highway patrol asked for 52 new officers during 1978-79 but they were allowed only 13 new officers this year and none next year. This is not sound fiscal policy. This is false economy."

Israel Floats Pound, Frees Foreign Currencies

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel, breaking from past reliance on government economic controls, freed the Israeli pound Friday to find its own value on foreign exchanges and abolished most controls on foreign currency.

Other moves taking the government's hands off business included cuts in basic food subsidies, abolition of most sales taxes and the cancellation of export incentives and import levies.

The measures moved Israel toward the free market economy that the conservative Likud government has set as its goal after 29 years of Labor government. The announcement provoked outrage among socialists and labor leaders.

Experts said the new regulations would kill the black market in foreign currency which paid 10 to 15 per cent above the official rate.

Financial sources also predicted a buying spree next week before prices adjust to the new exchange rates.

To compensate for cuts in sales taxes and special taxes, the value-added tax — a former sales tax paid on all goods and services — was raised from 9 to 12 per cent. In return welfare payments were raised by 12 per cent.

Finance Minister Simha Ehrlich announced the measures following a cabinet meeting. He said the program would check inflation, cut the foreign trade deficit, raise the growth rate from 1 to 5 per cent and, by freeing the economy from the vast bureaucracy built by previous Socialist governments, would make Israel "the investment capital of the Middle East."

He said badly needed foreign investment would be attracted by "the faith we are creating in our economy." This, he said, should more than make up for the unlimited foreign currency Israelis may now take out of the country.

Ehrlich said he expected the value of the pound to fall by nearly 50 per cent, from 10.35 to 15 pounds to the dollar. The Bank of Israel ordered all banks to remain closed Sunday, a normal business day in the Jewish state.

The food subsidy cuts and a boost in transportation costs, including a gasoline price rise from $1.97 to $2.38 per gallon, would contribute to inflation matching last year's 38 per cent, Ehrlich conceded. Earlier the government had pledged to reduce inflation to 25 per cent.

The food subsidy cuts caused the prices of several consumer goods to increase. Bread, for example, rose from 17 cents to 20 cents a loaf, eggs rose a penny to eight cents each and frozen chicken went from $1.54 to $1.77 a kilogram — 2.2 pounds — according to the latest available exchange rate.

Black Africans Balk At Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Black African diplomats complained Friday that a U.S.-backed proposal to bar arms sales to South Africa was too weak and held out for stronger sanctions.

U.S. sources indicated Western powers would reject African demands that the Security Council impose damaging economic sanctions against South Africa's white minority government along with an arms cutoff.

But it appeared the Africans might be able to win some concessions on the duration of the embargo, which under the Western plan would last six months and could be renewed.

"Once again the mountain has labored mightily and brought forth a mouse," Ambassador M. Moulye el Hassen of Mauritania said as the week-long Security Council debate on South Africa resumed.

With a council vote expected early next week, black African diplomats conferred on whether to accept the arms embargo proposal.

One U.S. source said Western nations on the council — the United States, Britain, France, West Germany and Canada — might drop the proposal if most African nations fail to support it.

British Ambassador Ivor Richard told the council his country was ready to use its "economic influence" to bring about change in South Africa "but not merely as a punitive measure."

He said the Western powers needed South African cooperation in achieving black majority rule in Rhodesia and South-West Africa.

and Britain believes "we should be ready to speak and to listen to the South African government."

The African group here demanded Security Council action after the South African government cracked down last week on domestic critics of its race policies. They called for a mandatory arms embargo and a resolution urging governments to halt new investments in South Africa. Some also demanded an oil embargo.

President Carter on Thursday announced U.S. support for the mandatory embargo — the United States, Britain and France claimed to be adhering to a voluntary embargo already — but he said he had not decided whether to back economic restrictions.

The Western proposal does call on U.N. members to "review" their economic relations with South Africa.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Friday it is actively considering recalling a military and economic affairs attache from its embassy in South Africa as part of its stepped-up efforts to disassociate itself from that government.

At the same time, State Department and National Security Council officials pushed ahead with the preparation of a list of items which would be affected by a tightened U.S. ban on military sales to South Africa.

Department spokesman John Trattner alluded to a number of "gray area items" which have not been included in the voluntary United Nations arms embargo which the United States has observed since 1963.

A tightened embargo could affect transfers of light aircraft computers and spare parts for transport planes.

Meanwhile, President Carter said he is "quite concerned" about a claim by South African Prime Minister John Vorster that Vorster had promised to forego the development of nuclear weapons.

Carter said he believes the South Africans had "unequivocally committed themselves not to design, produce or test" nuclear explosives.

Trattner confirmed that one of the reported five U.S. military attaches in South Africa may be recalled along with the economic affairs attache. Last Friday U.S. ambassador William Bowdler was recalled here from Pretoria just two days after the white supremacist regime embarked on a major crackdown on dissidents by banning eighteen civil rights groups and arresting scores of other anti-apartheid leaders, both black and white.

The administration has said that Bowdler will return to his post but no date has been set.

Thus far, the administration has restricted itself largely to symbolic measures in its campaign to discredit the south African regime. Officials were unable to draw any significant distinction between a mandatory U.N. arms embargo and the voluntary ban in effect for the past 14 years.

Trattner acknowledged that "there isn't any way that the United States by itself could force other countries to observe a mandatory ban." Until a few months ago, the United States itself was in violation of a mandatory ban on economic ties with Rhodesia.

Attache Recall Considered

House Investigators To Interrogate Ray

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) — Investigators from the House Assassinations Committee will question James Earl Ray at Brushy Mountain Penitentiary again next month, Ray's attorney said Friday.

The attorney, Mark Lane, said "I understand the committee has some new evidence and think you'll see some blockbuster developments on the King assassination coming out of its investigation."

Ray, serving a 99-year prison term after pleading guilty to killing civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., was convicted Thursday for his June 10 escape from the rural East Tennessee prison.

He was sentenced to an additional one to two years in prison, which extends the date he is first eligible for parole from July 1998 to July 1999. The sentence was the minimum the jury could impose under the state's escape law.

Lane, the author of books saying that conspiracies were involved in the assassinations of King and President John Kennedy, became Ray's 14th attorney on Tuesday, two days before the trial.

He said he was told Friday by Robert Lehner, head of the House assassination panel's probe into the King murder, that investigators would return to Tennessee to question Ray on Nov. 14. The committee's staff met with Ray at least four times before his escape and one time since his recapture on June 13.

Lane's statement that he expects some "blockbuster" developments in the King case coincided with a Scripps-Howard News Service report Friday that the chairman of the committee, Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, had told other members of the panel to expect the same.

Ray, who pleaded guilty in March 1969 to murdering King in Memphis, testified Thursday that he escaped hoping to make a deal with U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell for a new murder trial.

"It was my intention after I was out a couple of months to make some arrangements with the attorney general, General Bell, for a new trial in the King case," he said.

Three days after pleading guilty to King's death, Ray tried to withdraw the plea. He has been trying to win a new trial ever since.

Firms Seek Young Customers

HONOLULU (AP) — Savings and loan associations in Hawaii are looking for new customers and they're finding them by offering prizes such as toys, T-shirts and balloons.

Two campaigns, dubbed "Moneyhunes" and "Eagle-One," have been launched, and they're aimed at youngsters — the potential future customers of the institutions.

The result is thousands of new accounts, each with an average balance of $130.

"We hope to make children familiar with the value of saving and hope to retain them with our institution," says Arlene Yamada, director of American Savings and Loans' Moneyhune Little Savers Club.

"We're in the savings business. We can't just look at today, we look well ahead," says Fred Ball, marketing vice president at Honolulu Federal Savings and Loan, which runs an Eagle Club for young depositors.

The older of the two programs is the Moneyhunes, a three-year-old club which took its name from the legendary moneyhunes — little people who did good deeds and saved stones for trading.

American Savings' promotion features a children's chorus whose voices are heard not only on Saturday morning but also during prime time.

"Come and join us Moneyhunes, it's so much fun to do. And someday when you're all grownup, you'll find your dreams come true," the Moneyhunes sing.

Moneyhune savers receive a newsletter, coupons to area stores, and tickets to some children's functions. T-shirts and watches are available at a minimal price.

At Honolulu Federal, largest savings and loan here, a leotard-and cape-clad hero called Eagle-One is seen in full-page color advertisements, and his theme song is heard on prime time radio and television.

"Come and join the Eagle. It's super, super fun saving with Eagle-One. Spread your wings, become an Eagle," sings a rock chorus.

Eagle Club members receive a membership kit including coupons, a message decoder, pen, balloon and dime saver.

The Moneyhunes have drawn 4,000 new accounts since the latest promotion began in April. Since the Moneyhune drive started in 1974, about 14,000 accounts have been opened by youngsters.

At Honolulu Federal, 6,000 children's accounts have been opened since the Eagle campaign began in August.

Is a $100 account worth the advertising expense?

"We want to educate the child about saving," said Miss Yamada. "If they leave, at least we taught them something. For the number of accounts we lose, we gain the same through word of mouth."

The expense for the Eagle Club was great initially, but the firm will recover it, hopefully before the children become adults, Ball said.

"We want to stay with that person; that's our goal," he said.

Man Opposes Electronic Banking Proposition

AUSTIN (AP) — Proposition No. 6 on the Nov. 8 ballot would give the bank lobby almost everything it needs in its fight for branch banking, the executive director of the Texas Consumer Association charged Friday.

The amendment would permit replacement of bank checks with electronic funds transfer (E.F.T.) cards. James Boyle told a Capitol news conference the big bank holding companies are behind the amendment "so they can increase their octopus-like grasp on the pocketbook of the consumers of Texas."

The holding companies say it will benefit consumers because it will eliminate the cost of checks.

Boyle called this "baloney."

He listed five dangers:

1. Since consumers will not receive canceled checks, there will be no way of verifying the accuracy of the account. The consumer will not have any way of knowing if the computer made an error.

2. Unlike the theft of a credit card, the theft of an E.F.T. card would leave the owner without a limit on liability.

3. Without a canceled check, a consumer has no way of proving that a payment was made to a merchant.

4. There are no adequate procedures to detect computer theft. Unscrupulous computer operators could steal millions of dollars with little risk of detection.

5. The most intimate information about a person's affairs will be on computer and would be available to the Internal Revenue Service and other governmental agencies.

Only one small step would remain to complete a system of branch banking, which the Texas Constitution presently prohibits, Boyle said.

With the E.F.T. card, the three main activities of banking — depositing, withdrawing, borrowing — would be permitted off premises. The bank lobby then would go to the Legislature and say the amendment gives them everything else, why not allow them the extra building as well, he said.

State Panel To Decide School Financing Issue

AUSTIN (AP) — A blue ribbon commission studying financing of Texas public schools will decide one big question before they move on to the details. Should the state take over the financing of all school operations or leave it a state-local job as it is now?

That will be the subject of a mid-November meeting of the Legislative Commission of Public School Financing, a study group made up of House, Senate and citizen members.

"Shall we continue state-local funding as our basic question," said Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene. "We've got to decide that quickly."

"We've got to decide that first and that will set the pattern for everything else we do," said Rep. Hamp Atkinson, D-New Boston.

Childress Community Aids Victims Of Fire

A-J Correspondent
CHILDRESS — A community "shower" is in progress here to aid a family that recently lost all personal belongings by fire.

Mrs. Billie Lois Mills and her two small children were reported to have been away when a fire was discovered at their home at 331 4th St. Northwest Sunday. Firemen fought the blaze, believed to have been caused by a faulty water heater, for about an hour before extinguishing the flames. The Childress Fire Department reported extensive damage to the home's interior and contents.

Donations of clothing, linens other items are being accepted for the family at 700 Avenue B Southeast.

"This thing has had a scatter-gun approach too often," said Sen. Pete Snelson, D-Midland. "We need to shut down and center on our principal goal... I think we need a new economic index (in allocating school funds) for one thing."

"I favor full state funding of the minimum foundation fund," said Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, chairman of the commission. "I personally favor dedicating two cents of the sales tax to the minimum foundation fund."

Jones stressed that any changes in the formula for financing Texas public schools should take into consideration a local district's ability to raise money.

Jones said he thought the commission might recommend two constitution changes. One to change the tax appraisal of agriculture land and the second to define what types of property are subject to taxation.

All this brings up talk of consideration of intangibles (for property taxation), Snelson said.

Massey said the mid-November meeting would include testimony from expert witnesses on school operation funding.

ALETHEA'S HELMET — Eight-year-old Alethea Albrecht, right, is shown with her protective helmet as she pets a chicken with two of her friends. The Cross Plains youngster wears the helmet designed by her grandmother to prevent her from eating candy and other sweets. Alethea has an intestinal disorder that prevents her from assimilating food and liquid normally. Ingestion of such foods could prove fatal. The screened helmet covers her head and rests on her shoulders, and cannot be removed by Alethea. (AP Laserphoto)

Helmet Protects Cross Plains Girl From Fatal Sweet Tooth

CROSS PLAINS, Texas (AP) — Eight-year-old Alethea Albrecht, like a lot of kids her age, has a sweet tooth.

But unlike a lot of kids her age, giving in to that craving could kill her.

A congenital intestinal condition prevents Alethea's body from assimilating food and liquid normally.

Doctors found that fatty or sweet foods aggravated her problem, causing diarrhea which results in dehydration and extreme weight loss. Her weight and height are already subnormal.

The solution is a low-fat, no-sugar diet designed to increase her growth. Doctors say the diet is the only remedy at hand for the foreseeable future.

The problem is that Alethea seems to like forbidden foods and tends to find them where she can.

Amy Albrecht, Alethea's grandmother, came up with a remedy that has proved both effective and controversial.

It's a screen mesh helmet that fits over Alethea's head and rests on her shoulders.

ers. And it can't be removed by Alethea. Visually, the contraption resembles a beekeeper's hood.

But some have compared it to literature's "Man In The Iron Mask" — a form of cruel punishment.

"I went to the school and explained to Alethea's teacher," said Barbara Albrecht, Alethea's mother. "She told the children that when you have a broken arm, they put your arm in a sling. Or when you have a broken leg, they put it in a cast. And that this helmet is designed to help Alethea's problem."

Though teachers and Principal Richard Purvis say Alethea's helmet hasn't caused any problems, the unique apparel has triggered some concern.

Brown-Callahan County Department of Human Resources director Gary Bailey said he had received calls from persons concerned about the use of the helmet.

Bailey said that social worker John Baker has been working with the Albrechts.

"This is a family concerned with a unique problem," Bailey said. "Our program is a resource to the family and their doctor as they work to help the child adjust to her condition as well as possible."

The Albrechts admit that some people view the helmet as a punishment. "To us, it's a matter of life and death," her mother said.

"Alethea is living today because we love her," she said. "We could shut her up like our hamster, inside the house with a little treadmill for exercise and get her fat, like some people have suggested. But what would that do to her mentally?"

"We want her to live as normal a life as possible until her problem is solved. If anyone can come up with a better idea, we're ready to listen."

Canadian Says Mounties' Action Illegal

OTTAWA (AP) — The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, acting without a warrant, took computer tapes containing Parti Quebecois membership and financial information from a PQ office in Montreal Jan. 9, 1973, in what Solicitor-General Francis Fox said Friday may have been "an offence relating to property."

Fox told a news conference the Mounties had not considered the affair illegal because they returned the tapes to the PQ office after having them copied. The PQ is the French-speaking party pushing for Quebec independence. It won control of the Quebec Assembly in the 1976 elections.

In the House of Commons, Fox said he has referred the matter to Quebec Attorney-General Jean-Marc Beaudet for action because such enforcement is a provincial matter.

He also had drawn it to the attention of Justice David McDonald, who is leading a royal commission inquiry into "the extent and prevalence" of illegal RCMP activity, he said.

The McDonald commission was appointed in July after Fox was told by Maurice Nadon, who has since retired as RCMP commissioner, there were indications the RCMP had been involved in several illegal acts.

The case that prompted the inquiry was an October 1975 break-in into the office of a left-wing news agency in Montreal. Three police officers, including RCMP Chief Supt. Donald Cobb, pleaded guilty last May to authorizing the raid without warrant. The three — including a Montreal and Quebec provincial police officer — were given unconditional discharges by Judge Roger Vincent, who said they had acted with noble motives.

Stepping Out Gang' Members Charged In Scores Of Heists

PRICHARD, Ala. (AP) — Two young men suspected of scores of robberies in several states in an updated Bonnie and Clyde-style episode remained jailed without bond Friday after pleading innocent to the charges against them.

The two — identified as Howard Patrick Hagan, 17, of Kissimmee, Fla., and Anthony Artimus Sullivan, 21, of Columbus, Miss. — were arrested near the Florida line earlier this week along with a 16-year-old youth. Officers said they had a pellet gun and a fake pistol in their possession.

Sullivan, Hagan and the 16-year-old, Sam Kissimmee, were arrested as suspects in a food store robbery committed earlier in this southwest Alabama town.

The 16-year-old, whose name was withheld, was being processed as a juvenile and held in a youth detention center Friday. Police said his alias in the group was "Pretty Boy Floyd."

A Nov. 18 trial date on a robbery charge was set for the older two, who police said took the aliases Clyde Barrow (Sullivan) and C.W. Moss (Hagan), names of members of the Bonnie and Clyde gang of the 1930s.

No bonds were set for the two Friday after District Judge Thomas Sweeney was informed that several states have placed holds on them for questioning in other cases.

Officers say the gang members kept a diary with the idea of writing a book about their deeds. The officers said the gang was called "The Stepping Out Gang."

Oklahoma authorities said Friday the three are also suspected in the armed robbery of about 100 persons in a church congregation at McLoud, Okla., on Sept. 18. Officers said that in that robbery, at the Church of Christ at McLoud, one young man held a gun on the worshippers and a second walked down the aisle collecting money in a sack.

Police in Prichard said Thursday they had verified "probably 50" robberies in about a dozen states which the group is suspected of committing.

Two teen-aged Mississippi girls also are being sought as part of the Stepping Out Gang. Officers said that in the diary they were referred to as "Bonnie Parker," who was "Bonnie" of the Bonnie and Clyde gang, and "Ma Barker," who had her own gang.

Two other men jailed in Oklahoma have been charged in the church robbery as well as on other offenses.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I want to invest about $50,000 in a half-dozen utility preferreds. Dividends range from $11 to $14 per share. Are they sound? Are they good investments to supplement Social Security income?

A. The companies are sound enough, but — you have overlooked the fact that high dividend preferreds often carry with them some very real price risks.

It's okay to run your finger down the stock list and make check marks alongside the $12.50 and $14 and $13 dividend issues. But you can't stop there.

Every one of these preferreds was issued during a period of utility crisis and very high interest rates. So dividends were set at historically high levels. But, every one of these issues is also subject of redemption, at some time, if the utility companies can get cheaper money.

For example, that $14 dividend issue selling at $129 (which translates into a yield of about 10.9 per cent on current market price) is callable in a few years at $114. So if you now pay $129 for it, you must assume the risk of losing $15 a share if the issue is redeemed. Divide that $15 by the number of years to the first call date and you will see that about $2.50 a year in depreciation could easily come out of that $14 dividend, which means your actual yield could be reduced substantially.

Most high quality utility preferreds not vulnerable to redemption today yield around 8 to 9 percent. You will notice that the same companies' $5 or $4 or $5.50 dividend preferreds are selling to yield only about 8 1/2 per cent. Same quality, same earnings coverage, same company.

Did you ask yourself why? The answer is that risk of redemption in the $14 and $13 dividend preferreds. (Obviously these companies are not going to pay $105 or $106 to retire preferreds which pay only $4 or $5.)

To sum up: The $14 dividend issue is a "bargain" all right. Not because there is anything wrong with the company. Not because the dividend is "unsafe." But solely because any redeemable security (and this goes for bonds, too) which was issued when money rates were much higher than they are now is vulnerable to being paid off at a lower-than-present market price if money rates are lower when refunding becomes legally possible.

Q. You mentioned a lifetime annuity which paid a man $100 a month for life. I called an agent and he said he could not pay that.

A. Annuity payments are based on your age, sex, and the type of annuity (lifetime or refund) you buy. Don't expect that every person can buy the same benefits.

Death Date Of Lee's 'Greatest Soldier' To Go Unobserved

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A bronze plaque stands almost unnoticed along Union Avenue to mark the spot where Confederate Lt. Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest died a century ago.

"Unnoticed" could also describe the way the city will mark the 100th anniversary of the death of the man Robert E. Lee once praised as the greatest soldier under his command.

Forrest, a native of what is now Marshall County in Middle Tennessee, moved to Memphis as a young man, became a wealthy businessman and was elected to an alderman's seat three times.

The 39-year-old Forrest was one of the first to enlist to fight for the Confederacy.

Although possessing only a few years of formal education, Forrest rose from private to lieutenant colonel of a regiment of cavalry within a few months and quickly became known for his daring raids behind enemy lines.

In four years of war, Forrest never lost a battle he planned and led.

Forrest was away from Memphis most of the war because the city was occupied by Union troops.

But he returned one rainy night in August 1864, with 2,000 of "Forrest's Critics." Three Union generals were in the city with 5,000 soldiers and a huge supply depot.

The plan was to capture the general and lure Gen. A.J. Smith out of Mississippi to look after his supply source.

Forrest failed to capture the general, but he got away with 600 prisoners, some horses and mules and the trousers of a Yankee general who had fled from his quarters without bothering to dress.

When the war ended Forrest was a lieutenant general, known as one of the world's foremost cavalry tacticians.

"The trouble was that the generals commanding in the Southwest never appreciated Forrest until it was too late," Confederate President Jefferson Davis said after the general's death. "I was misled by them."

Following the war, Forrest helped organize the Ku Klux Klan to oppose the Reconstruction measures imposed on the South by the federal government.

Back in Memphis, he began farming on President's Island, just south of the city.

In 1877, he became ill with fever and his health began to decline.

Finally, in October, he was taken to the home of his brother, Col. Jesse Forrest, on Union Avenue.

"A perturbed spirit has at last found rest," reported the Memphis Appeal on Oct. 30. "General Nathan Bedford Forrest, he who was a pillar of strength to the Southern people in their struggle for independence, whose life was as strong as the tempestuous sea, and whose valor, patriotism and brilliant achievement have made his name and fame imperishable, has ceased to dwell on this earth."

For years, various groups marked his birthday, July 13, with ceremonies at his tomb in Forrest Park, across from the University of Tennessee Health Sciences Center. But in recent years those observances have seldom been held.

The city's Parks and Recreation Department said Friday that no ceremonies in Forrest's memory were scheduled for the park Saturday.

Government Indicators Reinforce Predictions Of Upturn In Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government indicators Friday reinforced administration predictions of a slight upturn in the economy at the end of this year.

The Commerce Department said its index of leading indicators, which is designed to predict economic trends, increased by three-tenths of 1 per cent in September.

Although slight, the increase followed a 1.4 per cent rise for August, the largest increase since March and the second largest in two years.

Economists say it takes several months for the indicators to establish a trend. They have increased three months in a row, starting with a one-tenth increase in July, after two months of slight declines.

The August figure was revised upward from an eight-tenths increase because of big improvements in net business formation. This indicator measures business spending plans by installation of telephones and other equipment.

The administration has been counting on businesses to increase their investments to revive the economy at the end of the year. The nation's output of goods and services grew at a pace of about 7 per cent per year in the first half but slowed to 3.8 per cent in the third quarter. Economists hope it will rise to 5 per cent in the last quarter to keep unemployment from getting worse.

In another report, the Labor Department said wage increases in major contracts negotiated so far this year were generally smaller than increases provided under 1976 settlements.

Contract settlements in the first nine months of 1977 provided for wage increases averaging 7.8 per cent for the first year of the pact and 5.8 per cent annually over the life of the contract.

Settlements negotiated in 1976 provided increases of 8.4 per cent for the first year and 6.4 per cent over the life of the contract.

The leading indicators report showed the index at 132.4 for September or 32.4 per cent above the 1967 base period. The indicators increased eight-tenths of 1 per cent in the third quarter after a 2 per cent rise in the second quarter and a seven-tenths increase in the first quarter.

The August increase was surpassed in the past two years only by a 2 per cent rise in March. In mid-1975, at the end of the recession, increases ranged from 2 to 3 per cent.

Despite the three-tenths increase in September, only four of the 10 indicators rose. They were increases in total liquid assets, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, the money supply and changes in sensitive prices. Economists said prices that are sensitive to economic improvements rose during the month, indicating more demand for these products.

Having a negative influence on the September index were a decrease in the average work week, an increase in the lay-off rate, slower deliveries, falling stock prices and a decrease in new orders and building permits.

Davis' Whereabouts Bared In Testimony

AMARILLO (AP) — The girl friend of Cullen Davis testified Friday that the murder defendant was asleep in bed beside her within minutes of the time four persons were shot at his Fort Worth mansion.

"I awoke very briefly at 12:45 a.m. and looked over at him ... he was lying on the other side of the king-sized bed," Karen Master, 28, told the jury.

"I have a digital clock that sits on a dresser and at night it is always visible from the bed."

The key defense witness in Davis' capital murder trial said she did not get out of bed until between 4 and 4:15 a.m. the morning of Aug. 3, 1976, when the defendant's brother Kenneth Davis, telephoned news of the shootings.

She said she handed the phone to Davis and quoted him as saying, "Oh, no. Oh, my God. Really? Who was shot?"

She said a series of telephone calls from a police officer ensued and that Davis eventually dressed, walked outside and surrendered to officers waiting in the street.

The prosecution contends Davis was the "man in black" who killed two and wounded two in the midnight Aug. 2, 1976, shooting spree. He is on trial for the slaying of his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn.

The defendant's estranged wife Priscilla, 36, was wounded and her lover Stan

Farr, 30, who shared the mansion with her, was killed. A young mansion visitor, Gus Gavrel Jr., 22, was crippled in the gunfire.

"Do you know of your own personal knowledge what happened at 4200 Mockingbird Lane on the night of Aug. 2, 1976?" Mrs. Master was asked.

"No sir, I don't," she replied.

Moments after questioning by chief defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, prosecutor Joe Shannon launched vigorous, penetrating cross-examination.

Shannon quickly asked her if she had been instructed to turn to the jury when responding to questions by attorneys.

"No, I was not," she said. "I have not had an opportunity to see the jury."

They're very interesting people."

Mrs. Master, a divorcee with two young children, told the jury she had fallen asleep that night about 9:30 p.m. after taking a sleeping pill and that she did not awake until 12:40 a.m.

"Actually, the next thing you knew was the phone rang?" Shannon asked.

"No sir, that is not true," she replied.

Shannon asked her repeatedly if she had never before said under oath that the first thing she remembered between midnight and 4 a.m. was the phone ringing.

"No, that is not correct," she replied.

Referring to the 12:40 a.m. time, Shannon asked her, "Is that the only time you woke up from the time you went to bed until the time the phone rang?"

"Yes," she said.

Mortgage Company Offers New Securities Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — A new member is moving into the "nickname sector" of the bond market.

The new securities, known as Connie Macs, are challenging the long-established Ginnie Mae pass-through obligations in the extremely popular mortgage-backed securities market. In addition, they are joining the numerous acronyms — such as Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac and Sallie Mae — that have sprung up in recent years.

The obligations are the development of Tigor Mortgage Insurance Co., a Los Angeles-based concern that claims to be the nation's No. 2 mortgage insurer. The trademarked term Connie Mac stands for conventional mortgage-backed certificate.

Tigor hopes the Connie Macs will perform in the money market in much the same way Ginnie Maes do. Ginnie Maes are fixed securities guaranteed by the federal Government National Mortgage Association and backed by pools of Federal Housing Administration or Veterans Administration home mortgages.

Connie Macs, meanwhile, will be made up of a pool of conventional home mortgages and protected by private mortgage insurance.

The aim of the new idea is to complement the Ginnie Mae program in attracting pension fund and other institutional investor money, says Tigor.

"The bulk of the mortgage funds needed each year," says Neil Diver, executive vice president of the company, "are for conventional mortgages. Rather than compete with the Ginnie Mae security, which uses FHA and VA mortgages, the conventional mortgage-backed security will provide the investor with greater portfolio diversification. It's a logical development in trying to help meet the nation's growing demand for mortgage money."

The mortgage insurance guarantees full payment of principal and interest on the Connie Mac securities, making their appeal somewhat similar to the Ginnie Maes. The insurance is "a unique example of the private sector's providing protection similar to a government agency with no cost to the taxpayer," Diver says.

As would be expected, the executive has a positive outlook on the plan's future. He forecasts that by 1985 the market for Connie Macs will surpass the Ginnie Mae market of today. Currently, he says, about $48 billion of Ginnie Mae securities are outstanding.

"Ginnie Mae has been enthusiastically received by the investment community, and we are confident that the Connie Mac certificate will receive the same welcome," he says.

The program's first test occurred in September, when Bank of America, the nation's largest bank, offered $150 million of mortgage-backed obligations in the public bond market.

As for investors, Tigor says the securities present many advantages, including greater portfolio diversification through investment in loans pooled from a broad geographical base; limited price volatility and time certainty of debt-service payments with the pass-through of principal and interest by the issuer. Of course, the company also points out the biggest drawback — that their guarantee doesn't compare with Ginnie Mae's government guarantee.

In the bond market last week, prices of older issues closed mostly lower in moderate activity.

Corporate bonds ended the period with losses of about 1/4 point, and U.S. government notes and bonds were down. State and city bonds were unchanged.

The nation's basic money supply, known as M1, decreased in the latest reporting week, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced Thursday. But analysts cautioned that the decline was only temporary and that further increases are expected.

For the week ended Oct. 19, M1 fell to a seasonally adjusted average of $333.3 billion from $334.4 billion the previous week. The broader money supply measurement, M2, declined to an average of $768.9 billion from $769.8 billion a week ago.

M1 is the total of checking account deposits plus currency in circulation. M2 includes currency in circulation plus all private bank accounts except those represented by certificates.

Four Ex-Officers Plead Innocent In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Four former Houston policemen are to stand trial Dec. 5 on federal charges of violating the civil rights of Joe Campos Torres, a young Mexican-American who drowned while in police custody.

The four officers — Terry Denson, 27; Stephen Orlando, 22; Louis G. Kinney, 27; and Joseph Janish, 22 — entered pleas of innocent Friday before U.S. District Court Judge Ross Sterling.

The body of the 23-year-old laborer and Vietnam veteran was found floating in the murky waters of Buffalo Bayou May 8, three days after he was arrested during a disturbance at a Houston bar.

Denson and Orlando were tried on murder charges in a state district court at Huntsville. They were convicted of negligent homicide, a misdemeanor, and received probated one-year sentences. Witnesses said during the trial Campos Torres was beaten by the officers and then pushed into the bayou, which twists and turns through a downtown section of Houston.

Another former city policeman, Glenn L. Brinkmeyer, 25, earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiring with other officers to deprive Campos Torres of his constitutional rights, a misdemeanor.

Brinkmeyer, in a plea-bargaining agreement, said he would testify against the other officers in the federal trial.

The four former policemen face possible life sentences in the civil rights case.

Judge Sterling also turned down a motion by Gerald Applewhite, attorney for Kinney, asking the court to prohibit any employee of the Justice Department from making "prejudicial statements" about the case.

A federal prosecutor, Mary Sinderson, said the motion was an attempt to place Justice Department employees "in a verbal straitjacket."

The judge, however, ordered lawyers on both sides to adhere to a rule which would prohibit them from publicly commenting on the merits of the case.

Mexican-American groups in the state have protested the light sentences given Orlando and Denson in the state court and urged the Justice Department to bring federal civil rights charges against the former officers.

Mormon Will Case Moves To Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The state of Nevada, not Texas, will determine whether Howard Hughes wrote the so-called Mormon will, a Nevada judge declared Friday.

"This case will commence Nov. 7 in Las Vegas," Clark County District Court Judge Keith Hayes said. "I expect everybody to be here."

Hayes said he feels it's "regrettable" that the judicial systems of the two states appear to be battling each other when both are after the same end — the truth.

The controversy surrounding the will has been bubbling ever since the three-page handwritten document was found in the Mormon Church headquarters in Salt Lake City about three weeks after Hughes died on April 5, 1976.

Attorneys for Hughes' relatives claim the purported will is a forgery, but Los Angeles attorney Harold Rhoden, representing former Hughes' aide Noah Dietrich is fighting to have the document declared valid.

The validity of the document is now slated for trial here Nov. 7, and in Texas on Nov. 14. Texas authorities claim Hughes was a resident of that state when he died, and are seeking millions of dollars in inheritance taxes.

The will is in Las Vegas, where Hughes built his gaming empire and lived before leaving the country in the early 1970s. Nevada has no inheritance tax.

Rhoden complained that Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill is forcing the case to a trial in Houston.

Rhoden explained that he can't be in two places at once, and asked Hayes for an order prohibiting Hill from seeking a default in the Texas court.

"The will is here... the case is here," Rhoden argued. "I can't show up in Texas on Nov. 14, and I don't have anyone to send there. I'm either going to be held in contempt in Texas or be in default in Texas."

Hayes ruled that Hill is subject to his jurisdiction in the Hughes case because Hill once made an appearance in the courtroom, and ordered Hill to not move for a default in the Texas proceeding if Rhoden does not show up when the trial begins there.

Representing Hill, attorney Neil Galatz said later that his only recourse will be to advise Hill of the order, and recommend that the matter be taken to a federal court.

Conferees Deadlocked On Gas-Guzzler Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate energy conferees deadlocked Friday over a Senate proposal to outlaw the manufacture of fuel-inefficient automobiles beginning in 1980.

Because of the impasse, the conference committee, which is working on the non-tax aspects of President Carter's energy program, temporarily suspended its efforts to produce a compromise national energy bill.

Some members of the House-Senate conference committee indicated the issue could break up the panel.

Meanwhile, the Senate Friday headed off an attempt to kill the energy package by rejecting on a 51-to-30 vote an attempt by conservative Republicans and Democratic liberals to send a $49 billion package of energy tax credits back to committee.

Had the opponents succeeded in killing the package, there would have been almost no chance for congressional passage of the most important elements of President Carter's energy plan this year.

The coalition sought to kill the package because it opposes the plan of Sen. Russell Long, chairman of the Finance Committee, to take almost unrestricted authority and a grab-bag of tax credits into the House-Senate conference committee. The Louisiana Democrat hopes to trade off some of these tax credits for concessions by the House side, thereby obtaining an energy bill more to the Senate's liking.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., who led the coalition effort, said he was afraid the Senate conferees, if given this unrestricted freedom, would accept during the conference talks the multibillion dollar tax on crude oil which President Carter favors and the House has accepted. That tax is not in the current Senate bill but Long has said he favors it.

The Senate also voted 49-to-35 to approve tax credits for oil produced from shale and tar sands, and for natural gas produced from methane deposits and deep rock formations.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., had urged rejection of the credits, which would reduce corporate taxes by $3 per barrel of oil and 50 cents for each thousand cubic feet of gas produced from more difficult sources. He said by encouraging such production, the government would be responsible for vast environmental damage in western states.

The House-Senate conference was suspended after House conferees voted unanimously to reject the Senate-passed ban on so-called "gas-guzzling automobiles," which would start in 1980. In that year, automakers could not build cars that get less than 16 miles per gallon, a standard that would rise to 21 miles per gallon by 1985.

Leaders of the House energy negotiators said they feared that accepting the proposed ban would mean later rejection of President Carter's proposal to tax cars that get poor gas mileage.

But Senate conferees, on a 10-0 vote, refused to give ground.

The conference committee then recessed until Monday, with both House and Senate members agreeing that a compromise did not appear to be forthcoming.

Breakup Speculated

"This may very well be the impasse which is going to break this conference up," said Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark.

Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., conference committee chairman, agreed that could happen. But he said "I think we need more time" and that he hoped both House and Senate members of the panel would be in a more compromising mood by next week.

Meanwhile, committee staff members were told to get figures on how much such a ban would cost automakers and whether it would result in significant unemployment on assembly lines.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the Senate intends to stand firm on the ban.

"If we are really going to do something about energy conservation, we cannot ignore the automobile. Period. That is the central issue," he said. "We are taking a firm, tough position."

House conferees voted earlier in the week, 23 to 1, to reject the Senate ban. Friday's vote reinforced that earlier action.

House members claimed the ban would not produce significant gasoline savings and would be a financial hardship on automakers, especially American Motors Corp., the smallest of the "Big Four" automakers.

Critics of the ban claimed AMC would have to close down some of its assembly lines and lay off workers if the ban takes effect.

Israeli Settlements Censured By U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly censured Israel on Friday for establishing Jewish settlements in occupied Arab territories.

With Israel casting the only "no" vote, the assembly adopted 131-1 an Egyptian resolution declaring the settlements "have no legal validity and constitute a serious obstruction" to Middle East peace efforts.

The United States — Israel's chief ally, which voted against a broader anti-Israeli measure last year — abstained. President Carter has called the settlements illegal and an obstacle to peace.

Sixty-two nations in addition to Egypt sponsored the resolution denouncing the outposts in the West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

First Such Censure

The assembly and Security Council have repeatedly condemned Israeli practices in Arab territories occupied during the 1967 Middle East war, but this was the first assembly censure of Israel for the settlements alone.

U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young said the United States is opposed to the settlements "because they could be perceived as prejudging the outcome of negotiations to deal with the territorial aspect of final peace treaties. The settlements thus inevitably complicate the already difficult process of negotiations."

U.S. Position

The resolution is "consistent in most respects with the position of the United States," Young said. But he noted that America is a co-chairman with Russia of the recessed Geneva Mideast peace conference and said Washington has a special responsibility to "remain impartial and stand apart in any effort which could be understood as involving the complex issues that will be considered in Geneva."

The nine European Common Market countries and other traditional supporters of Israel that often abstained on previous anti-Israeli measures voted for the resolution.

Abstaining along with the United States were six countries — Costa Rica, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Malawi, Fiji and Papua New Guinea.

Israel Condemns

Israeli Ambassador Chaim Herzog condemned the resolution, saying it contained "demonstrably false" allegations and reflected "a racist philosophy."

"This is horribly reminiscent of Nazism and alarmingly typical of the trend of this body," Herzog told the assembly. "The sole achievement is a poisoning of the atmosphere, which can only harm the prospects for reconvening Geneva."

Herzog welcomed the U.S. abstention, saying it showed the Carter Administration "has addressed itself" to Israel's arguments. But he attacked the West Europeans who, he said, "could not display this measure of independence and thought and objectivity."

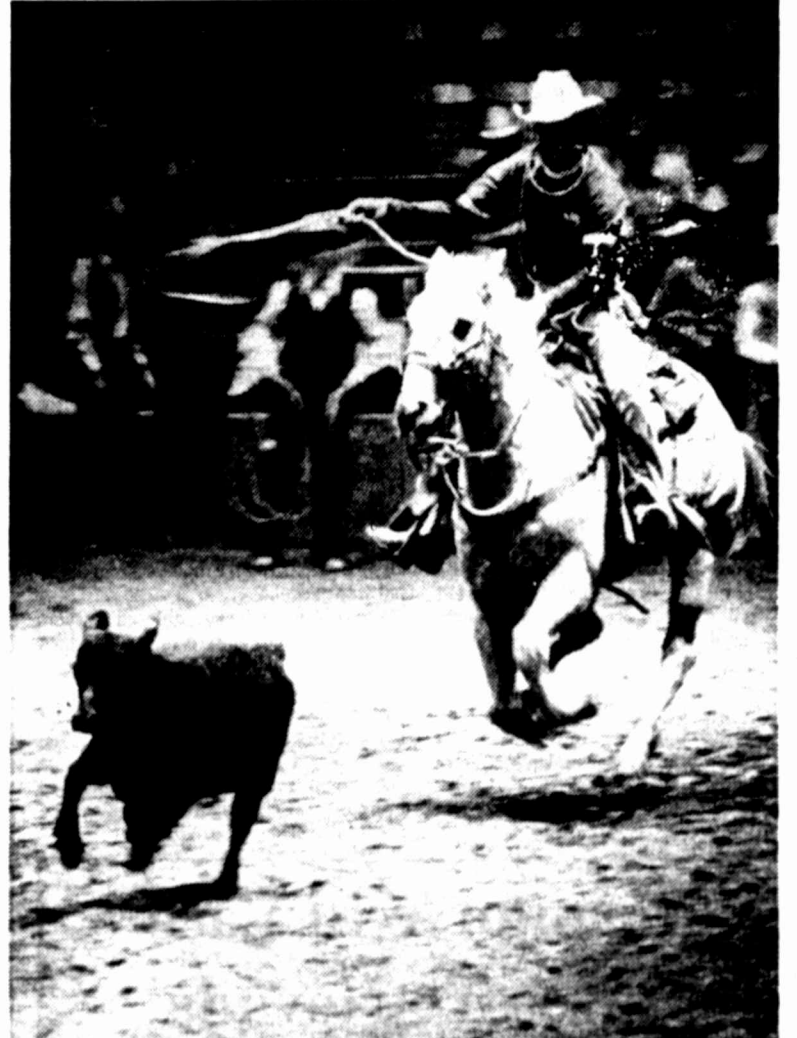

A Common Market spokesman, Belgian Ambassador Andre Ernemann, said Wednesday the Israeli settlements "aggravate tensions in the area and prejudice future overall negotiations."

"We remain firmly committed to the security of Israel," he said, "but every unilateral move could eventually harm Israel's security."

The resolution declares that the Jewish settlements "have no legal validity and constitute a serious obstruction" to peace efforts. It instructs Israel to "desist forthwith from taking any action that would result in changing the legal status, geographical nature or demographic composition of the Arab lands occupied since 1967, including Jerusalem."

The resolution also asks Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim to contact the Israeli government to ensure the document's "prompt implementation" and to report to the assembly by Dec. 31.

The Israeli government says there are about 80 settlements in the occupied lands. In an apparent attempt to quiet U.S. objections, it recently postponed the establishment of new civilian settlements in the West Bank but has been locating civilian settlers in military outposts.

Ohio School Closes Awaiting Election

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — When bells rang signaling the end of classes at Rogers High School Friday, students staged a mock funeral procession to protest the closing of their schools due to lack of funds.

The students, many in black clothes and wearing armbands, gathered in the school gym to hear a bass drum sounding a slow, mournful beat while pallbearers carried a coffin ahead of the march.

It was the last day of school in this northwestern Ohio city until Jan. 3, unless voters, in a referendum on Nov. 8, approve a $6 10 tax per $1,000 of assessed property values. Approval would allow the 52,000-pupil district to borrow against anticipated revenue from the tax and reopen schools shortly after the election.

If the levy is turned down, the schools would have to stay closed through the Christmas break, but could reopen in January when state funds again become available.

A similar levy has failed the last five times it was put on the ballot. Last year, Toledo schools were closed for nearly all of December because of their financial problems.

But there's a big difference in the current campaign to pass the levy: students themselves are taking the lead in pushing passage of the tax measure.

Mark Ridenour headed the march through three neighborhoods served by Rogers High. The 17-year-old senior said he got the idea to start the group from an English class assignment by Jean Taylor, who also participated in the march.

"We wanted to let the voters know that kids really care about going to school," Mark said.

"If we get one positive vote from every parent we've done our job," added 16-year-old Chari Koder.

Mrs. Taylor encouraged and helped her students. "Reciting facts and figures about school finances had failed to persuade voters the last four times," Mrs. Taylor said. "Our plea this time is to the voters' sympathies."

The march around the high school neighborhood is only part of an exhaustive campaign by the students of Rogers High and other Toledo schools. They've already met with the mayor, talked with officers of Toledo companies, appeared before civic groups and aided the United Toledo Campaign, the citizens group working for the levy.

The blackboard in Mrs. Taylor's classroom is filled with notices and announcements telling students what section of the neighborhood they are to canvass or what polling place to go to on election day to pass out literature.

"No matter what differences the school administration and the voters had," Mrs.

Taylor said, "the students felt they had to do something themselves because they were being neglected."

Last year's closing was at first welcomed as a big weekend, Mark said, but that soon fizzled. When students returned they had to skip their Easter vacation and had to attend school until late June. School sports schedules had to be trimmed. High school seniors were stalled in applying to colleges.

"We came back after Christmas," Mark said, "and we had forgotten a lot of what we had been learning before the break. I had a job for a while, but I just ran out of things to do."

German Reds Claim Kidnap

weeks. Friends say he donates regularly to Jewish organizations.

Jews have been the targets of recent global terrorism. The hijackers of a Lufthansa jetliner earlier this month checked the passports and possessions of the passengers to see if any were Jewish and then threatened to execute three Jewish girls on board the plane.

The hijackers — said to be members of a militant Palestinian group — apparently were collaborating with the Red Army Faction, whose members kidnaped Schleyer in September. Both the kidnapers and the hijackers threatened to kill their hostages if German authorities did not meet the hijackers' demands, which included freeing 11 prisoners from West German jails.

Police put special guards at the Caransa villa at Vinkeveen, south of Amsterdam, where the tycoon lives with his wife Rika. They have a grown daughter.

Elsewhere in Europe, bombs damaged two German car showrooms in Milan, one in Rome and a German engineering company office in Lisbon. Callers told police they were planted to avenge the Oct. 18 prison deaths of Andreas Baader, Gudrun Ensslin and Jan-Carl Raspe — leaders of the terrorist underground bent on destroying West German capitalism.

West German Justice Minister Hans-Jochen Vogel told a parliament the prison deaths, officially termed suicides, were not "acts of resignation" by the terrorists but a sign that "further attacks are looming."

The parliament then opened debate on new anti-terrorist legislation by the liberal coalition government and a package of even stronger measures by the conservative Christian Democratic opposition.

Border 'Vigilantes' Given Jail Warning

border communities awaiting orders.

He said KKK "dens" from the Houston, Beaumont and San Antonio area will be patrolling from Brownsville to the Big Bend area. Klan elements from Amarillo and North Texas are to patrol from the Big Bend to El Paso.

A Klan meeting in Robstown, a Corpus Christi suburb, was apparently called off because of adverse publicity, according to a police spokesman.

In Corpus Christi, Ruben Bonilla, executive director of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) called the Klan patrols "the height of stupidity."

In the Rio Grande Valley, Hidalgo County Sheriff Brig Marmolejo said Valley residents did not need either the KKK or the Mexican-American vigilantes.

"We are too civilized for that," he said. Privately Owned

Most of the Valley cities are within a 30-mile area along the border. Land on the banks of the Rio Grande is privately owned.

The area from Laredo down to Brownsville is also known as the marijuana pipeline, a wide area traveled by drug smugglers.

Meanwhile in Arizona, Klan spokesmen said patrols along the border with Mexico would begin today.

Meanwhile, in San Diego a spokesman said a Ku Klux Klan group is withdrawing from the Mexican border in California and will watch for aliens in farm fields farther north.

Authorities in California said the much-publicized "Klan watch" is a phantom operation.

Not a single Klansman has been sighted or heard from since the heralded watch began early this week, said local and U.S. officials.

The U.S. Border Patrol said there were no telephone tips from Klansman on the location of illegal aliens and that the number of arrests has been normal.

"We haven't seen a Klansman in the border area," Chief of Police William Kolender said. Sheriff's spokesmen said nobody even suspected of being a Klansman had been seen.

Meanwhile, Duke was in Tucson, Ariz., announcing a border watch was starting south of there for aliens and expanding into New Mexico and Texas.

Tom Metzger, who said he heads the Klan in California, said law enforcement officers have refused to credit the KKK with radio and telephone tips and "I think they've been ordered from the top not to recognize the information the Klan is giving them."

At least 50 aliens have been sighted and the word passed on by Klansmen, Metzger said.

But, said Metzger, "we've moved off the border." He said northern San Diego County, where many aliens work in fruit and vegetable fields, will now get the attention of the white-supremacist group.

The pullback was disclosed after Mexican-American activists announced plans for a major march to the border today to protest the Klan and call for "a humane immigration policy" for the United States.

Earlier, Bell and Leonel Castillo, commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, issued a joint statement asking that vigilante groups quit interfering with enforcement of immigration laws.

Duke, in Tucson, said his group would continue its border watch. He said the Justice Department should look for "lawbreakers" trying to steal into the United States. He also claimed that about 250 Klansmen were along the border in California earlier this week.

Ladder-Climbing Burglars Hit Firm

Lubbock police Friday were searching for ladder-climbing burglars who entered a business near the downtown area during the night and made off with more than $2,400 in goods and cash.

Mary Richardson, manager of Uncommon Graphics, 2110 Ave. Q, said someone stood a ladder against the rear of her shop sometime Thursday or Friday, then entered the store through a skylight.

A clock, 12 bolts of material valued at $2,000, a $90 hammock, $190 in cash and other merchandise were taken.

Police reportedly are seeking two men, aged 18 to 25 years old, one tall and the other medium height.

An argument in West Lubbock late Thursday ended in injury for Hugh Cargen of 5529 17th St. The victim said a named suspect had argued with his 12-year-old son and attempted to pick a fight with the youth. When Cargen reportedly offered to intercede in the youngster's behalf, the suspect backed up his vehicle, turned his front left wheel to the curb and inched forward until he ran over Cargen's foot and ankle.

The victim told police he had to roll out of the way to avoid having his body struck by the car.

A four foot tear in a swimming pool tarp has put a $250 hole in Al McWhorter's budget. The victim said someone apparently ripped the covering at an apartment complex at 1905 5th St. sometime this week.

Police went to a 17th Street cafe about 10 p.m. Thursday and found a 36-year-old Lubbock man sitting in a chair with three stab wounds in his left leg.

The man told officers his ex-wife had walked into the cafe and began stabbing him. She was found at her Avenue C apartment with stab wounds in the back and side.

The couple was taken to West Texas

Hospital where they were listed in serious but stable condition today.

A car-pedestrian accident about 11:30 p.m. Thursday at the intersection of 30th Street and Nashville Avenue resulted in a 16-year-old Lubbock youth being charged with failure to stop and render aid.

Joel Ray Andrews, 17, of 5409 45th St. was found lying in the intersection after reportedly being hit by a red and white pickup truck. Andrews was taken to Highland Hospital where he was treated and released.

Witnesses to the incident said the vehicle was traveling east on 30th Street when it veered to the wrong side of the road, struck Andrews and kept going.

A Lubbock youth suspected of driving the truck arrived at Highland Hospital with his parents soon after the incident, reports show.

The suspect told officers the victim and several other youths were throwing things at the car in front of him. He said he heard something bang his car, but did not think he had hit anyone. The youth told officers he did not stop because he feared damage to his truck or bodily harm.

The case will be turned over to juvenile authorities.

Dennis Munger, 23, of 5806 20th St. was treated and released at West Texas Hospital after receiving a blow to the head inside a 19th Street bar about 1:30 a.m. today.

Munger told police he got into an altercation with the bartender, but differences soon were worked out. However, Munger told officers, another dispute began between him and two other persons at the bar, and the bartender came over and hit him on the head.

Officers discovered the 1205 Pine St. residence of Andrew Beavers on fire about 12:45 a.m. today, and after some investigation it was believed the fire resulted from arson.

Small blades were found on the house's front door and porch, on a picket fence on the west side and at the structure's east side.

Police found Betty Jean Beavers at the back of the house with her children, calling for her father to come out. There were no injuries.

Mrs. Beavers said she had been having some problems with several boys who had threatened to harm her and her father.

William O. Linn of 3303 46th St. parked his 1977 Cadillac at the Lubbock Country Club Thursday morning, and when he came out he discovered his car's wheel covers gone. Linn estimated the loss at $250.

Criminal mischief resulted in a loss of about $900 between two businesses Thursday.

Plate glass windows were reported broken Thursday at Billy Sims' Trailer Sales, 2182 Clovis Road, and Radio Lab, 1501 Ave. Q. The trailer business estimated damage at $400 and Radio Lab officials said their loss was about $900.

Roosevelt Torres of 3303 E. Baxter St. told police his residence was broken into Wednesday and $300 in property taken, including two guns, fishing equipment and tools.

Four mattresses and a coffee table were reported stolen by Joe Lee Eddins of 3305 E. 15th St. Eddins said his house was entered sometime Thursday. He estimated his loss at about $250.

Lorenae Newton of 3313 E. 19th St. told police her house was burglarized Thursday and a television, some food and a billfold containing about $30 were taken. Entry apparently was gained through a window.

Three Charged In Oct. 1 Jewelry Store Robbery

Three persons were charged Friday with aggravated robbery as the result of the Oct. 1 holdup of a local jewelry store in which more than $200,000 in precious gems was reportedly taken.

Named in the charges were Linda Harvey Campbell, 31, Homer Clifton

Campbell, 34, and Kenneth Wayne Butcher, 27, all of Waco.

Bond of $15,000 was recommended for each of the trio, who were in Austin's Travis County Jail Friday.

The three reportedly were arrested along with another person by Georgetown police about 12:15 a.m. Monday, only minutes after the robbery of a supermarket.

In Austin Thursday witnesses to the Lubbock heist reportedly identified three of the four suspects as being the same persons who participated in the Oct. 1 holdup of Meyer's Jewelry Store here.

The witnesses Friday traveled to Georgetown, where the suspects were arrested, and identified three rings and a necklace as part of the booty from the Lubbock crime. Det. Capt. Wayne Love said.

In the Lubbock case, reports indicate, a man and woman entered the jewelry store Sept. 3 and asked to see several expensive items. An attendant said the pair returned to the store Oct. 1.

The clerk said he displayed a pouch of gems after the man asked to see a one-carat diamond. Meanwhile, according to witnesses, a second man quietly entered through the front door. While the second man looked at necklaces, the first man reportedly pulled a large revolver from his pocket and announced, "This is a holdup."

According to an account given police, the second man then drew a gun, and the female suspect walked behind the glass counter, pulled on a pair of surgical gloves and began raking the stones into a leather bag.

UT Student Dies Of Rifle Wound

AUSTIN (AP) — The 19-year-old son of former State Republican Chairman Ray Hutchison died Friday of a .30-caliber rifle wound, police reported.

Bradley Hutchison's body was found at 11:20 a.m. on the third parking level at Dobie Mall, an apartment and shopping skyscraper across the street from the University of Texas campus, said Lt. Fred Maxwell.

A bullet was fired into his mouth and exited from the back of the head, Maxwell said.

"It appears to me a self-inflicted gunshot wound," he said.

The boy apparently was a student at the university and lived at Dobie Mall, he said.

The father reportedly was en route to Austin after learning of the death.

The elder Hutchison, a former state representative from Dallas, recently resigned as head of the state party to consider a race for governor.

Texas AA Holds Meeting In Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Hundreds of recovered alcoholics are gathering in this border city for a four-day Alcoholics Anonymous conference.

Delegates from throughout the state are expected to attend. Saturday a delegate to the AA General Service Organization in New York will be elected.

"The hotels just love to see us coming," said an AA spokesman. "We don't drink and raise a lot of hell. We're no trouble at all."

21-Year-Old Lubbockite Faces Marijuana Charge

A 21-year-old Lubbock man has been charged with possession of marijuana.

Named in the charge was Charles Ray Moran.

Moran was reportedly arrested after Drug Enforcement Administration agents obtained a warrant from Justice of the Peace Charles Smith and searched a residence at 5204 50th St., No. E-101.

Agents said the search was conducted Oct. 21, and that approximately 3.5 pounds of a substance believed to be marijuana was found inside the apartment.

Former Deputy Dead At 73

DALLAS (AP) — One of the many memories etched indelibly in Ted Hinton's mind was of gangster moll Bonnie Parker dying in his arms.

Hinton, the last surviving member of the six-man team that ambushed Bonnie and her notorious partner, Clyde Barrow, on a Louisiana back road in 1934, died Thursday in a hospital here. He was 73.

In an unpublished manuscript, the former Dallas County Sheriff's deputy said he jumped over the hood of Barrow's bullet-riddled V-8 Ford seconds after the fusillade of shotgun and machine gun fire had stopped. He said he yanked open the passenger's door and Bonnie, whom he had known as a waitress, fell into his arms, breathing her last.

"When they drew down on them, Clyde snatched the car in gear and reached down between his legs for a sawed-off BAR (Browning Automatic Rifle)," said Hinton's son, Linton. "Ted jumped over the hood and almost got shot in the process because he was afraid that car was going to take off and he was going to chase it. Keep in mind, he was 29 at the time."

The ambush near Arcadia, La., ended a nine-month assignment for the Dallas native. His name was again before the public in 1972 when he made an unsuccessful bid to unseat Dallas County Sheriff Clarence Jones in the Democratic primary.

Linton Hinton said his father's book would be published "as soon as possible."

"A lot of people associate Ted with just Bonnie and Clyde but what they don't know is that he worked on about a thousand cases," said Hinton. "He was one helluva man."

Other survivors include his wife, Billie Hinton.

Midland Teenagers Listed Critical

MIDLAND (Special) — Two teenagers were in critical condition at Midland Memorial Hospital late Friday, after the truck in which they rode with another youth overturned about 8:30 a.m. a mile north of the city on county road 1170.

In critical condition with neck and head injuries were David Printz, 15, and Stacy Stover, 14, both of Midland.

A third youth, Joe McEwen, 14 of Midland escaped serious injuries when a pickup driven by Printz overturned and slid about 40 feet on its top Friday morning, according to a DPS spokesman.

Both Printz and Stover underwent emergency surgery Friday, a hospital spokesman said.

Kleindienst Named In Teamsters Fund Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst intervened with a reputed Chicago mobster to get a $23 million Teamsters Union insurance contract for a company run by an alleged swindler, a former law client told the Senate Friday.

John Boden, a former associate of probe target Joseph Hauser, testified under immunity from prosecution about how, on Hauser's order, he paid Kleindienst's law firm an "excessive" $250,000 legal fee for getting the Teamsters business.

Boden also charged that Kleindienst advised him to transfer $1.8 million in company funds out of Arizona — the company's base — to thwart a ruling by the state insurance department, a move Kleindienst earlier promised state officials would not happen.

"Kleindienst told me in effect not to worry about it, that we should transfer the money and fix it up later," Boden said in his third appearance before the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee.

Kleindienst, who will testify next week, said in a telephone interview, "I never said anything like that to the guy. I never told him to transfer the money. I never gave him any instructions."

Boden testified that Hauser, looking to expand his business schemes, set his sights on the Teamsters Central States Health and Welfare Fund insurance contract, the largest of its kind with $23 million in annual premiums.

After getting the contract, Hauser then allegedly siphoned off the premiums for his own use and to buy other companies. The Teamsters are suing to get back more than $7 million from his company and for $7 million in damages.

Using inside information from the fund, the Hauser group made an artificially low bid, Boden testified.

Then, in Boden's presence in a Washington hotel, Kleindienst telephoned long-time Teamsters insurance adviser Allen Dorfman allegedly to arrange for the contract to be awarded to the Hauser company on condition that Dorfman retain the lucrative claims handling end of the deal.

Dorfman has been identified by congressional sources as a key figure in the organized crime syndicate and was an associate of the late Jimmy Hoffa.

"I made no deal with Allen Dorfman at any time," Kleindienst said. "I told him it was a business decision" for the Hauser company. "I never discussed price. I never said anything like that," Kleindienst said.

Appearing under protection from U.S. marshals, Boden testified as to the purpose of the $250,000 check.

"Hauser said ... that Kleindienst was going to get us a lot of other Teamsters business, that although Kleindienst had been instrumental in getting us the Central States contract, that contract was 'small potatoes' compared to other business he could get us."

Bertrand Elected Consortium Chief

Dean Anson R. Bertrand of Texas Tech University's College of Agricultural Sciences has been elected president for the 1978 term of the Eisenhower Consortium for Western Environmental Resource Management.

Bertrand will take over his duties in February. Other officers elected include president-elect Dr. L.S. "Bill" Pope, dean of agriculture at New Mexico State University (NMSU); vice president for research Dr. Loren Potter, biology professor at the University of New Mexico (UNM); and secretary-treasurer Dr. Charles O. Minor, dean of the School of Forestry at Northern Arizona State University (NASU).

The consortium is an organization of universities under the leadership of the Rocky Mountain Forest Experimental Station, a part of the U. S. Forest Service. The service originally set up the program to allow several universities to share in the its resources, including funds. Now Congress regularly appropriates funds to the forest service specifically for use by the universities in the consortium.

Those universities include Tech, the University of Wyoming, Colorado State University, the University of Colorado, UNM, MNSU, the University of Arizona, Arizona State University and NASU.

The universities use the funds for research in such areas as wildlife management, watershed management, second home development in wild land areas, transportation into natural wild areas and fire ecology.

There are three such research projects underway at Tech. Dr. John D. Garcia, of the Range and Wildlife Department, is studying water quality in lakes in the High Plains. Dr. Frank F. Skillern, of the School of Law, is compiling a major review of public recreation and wild land area laws. Dr. James D. Mertes, of the Park Administration and Landscape Architecture Department, is developing a long range research action plan for the consortium.

Bertrand will chair the board of directors for the consortium, which consists of one representative from each university.

A meeting of the board, to be held at Tech, is tentatively scheduled for February 1978.

Public Needed For Railroad Planning

By PAT PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Where are Texas' railroads going in the future?

The state Railroad Commission is trying to find out, with a study called for under the federal Railroad Revitalization and Regulatory Reform, or "4R," Act, and today asked the public for help.

"Changing industrial needs and industry locations, shifts in population and new and different methods of transportation" have caused severe rail problems in the Northeast and Midwest, commission staff member John R. Whisenhunt said.

The 4R Act, passed by Congress last year to try to head off such problems elsewhere in the country, makes federal funds available, with state matching money, for rail assistance for three years.

But to qualify, a state must present a detailed study of rail conditions, traffic, cost and revenue estimates, regional economic conditions, users' and shippers' problems if line abandonment is proposed, other transportation modes available if abandonment happens, and impact of railroads and abandonment on communities and on energy, agriculture and other transportation.

The Railroad Commission held a public hearing in Lubbock Friday, asking area citizens to get in on the early trackwork of the study.

"We're trying to let you in on the planning before we've reached any conclusions" or before the scope of the study is even completely mapped out, Whisenhunt told some 25 persons at the hearing.

Of particular concern under the Texas State Rail Plan study, begun last month and aimed for completion in March, 1979, is rail line abandonment.

Thirty-one rail segments with a total of about 1,000 miles now are subject to possible abandonment in Texas, Whisenhunt said.

In the Lubbock area, he said, these include:

—19.71 miles in Floyd and Briscoe Counties, operated by the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad, a line for which an abandonment application is pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC).

—104.80 miles in Cottle, Motley, Floyd and Hardeman Counties, operated by the —24.3 miles between Whiteface and Bledsoe, operated by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe.

The Quanah, Acme and Pacific line has been the subject of long controversy, and Floydada, Paducah and Acme area farmers who had been fighting that abandonment recently won the battle. But, apparently, their victory is up in the air now.

An administrative judge earlier this year ruled against the railroad's abandonment proposal and the ruling recently was upheld by the ICC.

However, Whisenhunt said that "within the past week," the QA&P filed a notice for another application to drop the Whisenhunt noted that besides the 31 lines now or likely soon to be involved in abandonment proceedings, there are "about 2,200 miles in 84 lines with very light (traffic) density."

The light-density lines are spread over the state, but abandonments "clustered together" in one area could have "serious" consequences upon a region's economy and people, the commission's assistant director of transportation said.

Prisoner, Declared Innocent, Goes Back To Old Grey Walls

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — Ralph Lobaugh walked out of the Indiana State Prison in August after serving 30 years behind bars for three murders that authorities were fully aware he didn't commit.

But he had spent so much time in the maximum security institution here that he could not cope with the freedom he had sought for 14 years and after only two months outside he returned to his cell.

Lobaugh, 60, told officials he could not relax on the outside, and went back behind the grey walls here Oct. 21. He was reassigned his old cell and prison job.

"He just got nervous and real excited and wanted to go back to prison," said Harold G. Roddy, director of Indiana's inmate work release program. "The man is institutionalized — he's just been locked up too damn long."

Lobaugh was freed Aug. 24 when Gov. Otis R. Bowen approved clemency but ordered him to spend six months in a work release center before receiving full parole.

Lobaugh was assigned to the Indianapolis center and lived there quietly, sweeping floors and minding his own business, until requesting a transfer to the South Bend work release center 11 days ago. He found a job sweeping floors in a church there but worked only three days before telling officials he would rather be in prison.

"He just had difficulty settling down, he was always nervous. He couldn't get used to the younger men and the dormitory-style living in the work release center," Roddy explained. "He just wanted to live in a cell again and be with his old friends."

Lobaugh first entered prison in 1947 under sentence of death in the electric chair after he confessed to the rape-murders of three women. His execution date was stayed three times. It is not known why he confessed to a series of crimes he didn't commit.

The murders took place in Fort Wayne, Ind., and Lobaugh walked into a police station in Kokomo — about 80 miles away — and told the police there that he was the killer. The false confession came some time after the crimes were committed.

By late the following year, police learned he hadn't killed anyone after two other men were arrested in the case. One of them was executed.

A state panel investigated the case after the convictions and reported it could find no reason why Lobaugh should be released despite the knowledge that his confession was false.

In 1961, then-Gov. Henry F. Schriker commuted Lobaugh's sentence to life, calling the tangled case "one of the most sordid messes in history." But because the first-degree murder conviction never was lifted, Lobaugh could not be freed. Courts ruled at the time that they saw no reason to review the case.

By then he had become seriously ill and suffered from hallucinations, so officials placed him in a mental institution until 1963, when he was returned to prison.

Lobaugh became a model prisoner and began pleading for freedom, but no one listened for another 14 years until Bowen granted clemency.

"He's not at all well and has a little arthritis in his legs and feet, but he can work and wants to go out and work," declared Warden Jack Duckworth.

Skeleton Found Not That Of Teamster Hoffa

NEW YORK (AP) — A skeleton found in a Pennsylvania forest earlier this week was not that of former Teamsters boss Jimmy Hoffa, it was determined Friday. Thus ended the latest in a series of wild goose chases since his disappearance more than two years ago.

"A preliminary check of the dental records indicated it was not Hoffa," Chief Medical Examiner Dominick DiMaio told a news conference after the missing man's dental records were flown here from Detroit.

DiMaio also said the skeleton had abnormal bone structure in the lower jaw and the back of the head, while Hoffa had no such deformities. There was more extensive capping of Hoffa's teeth than of those in the skeleton, said DiMaio, adding that he was positive in his determination.

Asked why such a fuss was made over the skeleton, DiMaio replied: "Everybody just pitched in with Hoffa and before you know it, the FBI was involved."

The medical examiner added that there were enough similarities between the skeleton and Hoffa to encourage a theory that it might be the missing man. But he added there was no evidence of foul play on the skeleton, although decomposition could have erased such evidence.

While engaged in a drive to regain control of the Teamsters union, Hoffa, 62, vanished on July 30, 1975, from the parking lot of a suburban Detroit restaurant, after telling his family and acquaintances that he had an appointment there with Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone and Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano.

Giacalone has been identified by the Justice Department as a Detroit Mafia figure, while Provenzano is a New Jersey Teamsters leader who had been feuding with Hoffa. Both men denied any appointment with Hoffa that day.

Hoffa's son, James P. Hoffa, characterized his father's disappearance as an "assassination," and the family and the Teamsters union offered $300,000 in rewards for the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the disappearance. The initial search for Hoffa proved in vain, and the presumption soon arose that he had been slain.

A Detroit area trash compactor was combed, and an empty field dug up north of Detroit on a tip the body was buried there. A construction site in northern Michigan was scoured, as was a farm field in the southern part of the state.

In New Jersey, a garbage dump was explored on the banks of the Hackensack River, beneath the Pulaski Skyway. Also advanced was the theory that Hoffa's body might have been disposed of in the trunk of a car that was compacted for recycling under extreme pressure into a relatively small chunk of metal.

Last Monday, the skeleton was found by a hunter. It was inside two plastic bags in a wooded area about five miles from Honesdale, in northeastern Pennsylvania. The bags were covered with leaves and hidden by rhododendrons about 20 feet from a dirt road.

Pennsylvania authorities speculated that the body might have been dumped there more than a year ago.

The skeleton was that of a male, white, about 60, 5-feet-6, heavy set, broad and probably muscular, with gray black hair. The general description matched that of Hoffa to some degree.

Moreover, the skeleton bore expensive gold dental work and Hoffa was known to have had similar work done on his teeth.

Coroner Robert Jennings of Wayne County, where Honesdale is located, said he talked about discovery of the skeleton with Hoffa's son Thursday night.

"He was very excited when he heard the age, height and the hair color," the coroner added.

Jennings said he was asked on Thursday to alert the FBI to the body's existence and its similarity to Hoffa's, but declined to say where the request originated.

The skeleton was brought to New York last Tuesday because the medical examiner's office here was better equipped and more experienced in dealing with such examinations.

The elder Hoffa was president of the powerful Teamsters union for 10 years, until he was imprisoned in 1967 on a 13-year federal sentence for mail fraud and jury tampering.

President Richard Nixon commuted the sentence in 1971, on condition that Hoffa be barred from resuming any union activities before 1980.

When he disappeared, Hoffa was engaged in a court battle to have the restriction against union activity declared unconstitutional.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a reader asked you, "How can a 120-pound woman throw out a 190-pound bum?" There IS a way.

Most women think of the police when they are abused. A police investigation means the use of warrants, which means criminal action in court. Courts hesitate to handle domestic criminal actions because too many women have a change of heart after the bruises heal.

I realize laws differ from state to state and the information I'm giving cannot apply in all places, but it might lead some women to seek such help. A CIVIL action for the woman who seriously wants to get rid of her abusive husband is often the best procedure. North Carolina has laws on "constructive abandonment" (his actions force her to leave and he therefore abandons her); "divorce from bed and board" (not a divorce decree but a means of receiving support); and "alimony without divorce" (which is much the same).

A preliminary hearing is usually held within a week and temporary support orders are given. Legal fees are paid by the losing party.

As you said, there ARE ways to be free of an abusing husband and every woman needs to be educated in this regard. Perhaps you can condense or reword the information in such a way as to pass it on to your readers. Surely North Carolina is not the only state which has civil actions to protect women. — Durham Fan

Dear D.F.: I didn't have to do very much condensing or rewording. Thank you for educating millions of readers today.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine dropped dead of a heart attack yesterday. He was a terrific person but his wife never cared for me because I am a gambler by profession and loaned him money for gambling purposes.

I saw a lot of this friend behind his wife's back. I really liked him a lot but there was no way he could get his wife to accept me.

My problem is this: I owed this guy $1,500 as his percentage of a hot tip and was going to pay him back next week. I'm afraid if I send the money to his wife it will be like ratting on him. Should I give it to charity in his name? Please advise me on this matter. — Undercover Buddy

Dear Buddy: Send the $1,500 to his wife. No details are necessary. She will assume it was a loan — and that's good enough.

Dear Ann Landers: What can I do about a husband who comes home from work and says, "what did you do all day?" When I tell him I washed clothes (for eight people — we have six children), he comes back with, "What do you mean YOU washed clothes? The machine did it." I could wring his neck.

He works in a factory and I know his job isn't easy, but if I were to tell him the machines do the work and all he does is stand around, he'd clobber me.

Do you have a snappy comeback for a husband like mine? I'm not very good with words but you are. — Need Some Answers.

Dear Need: Forget it. Don't let the big ape get to you. Deep down he knows better. (P.S. I suppose he thinks the six kids were manufactured by machine, too.)

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am writing to bring attention to what I feel is a harmful practice.

In this day of obesity problems, with dentists telling kids to chew sugarless gum to avoid dental decay, and so on, why is it that kids in school are subject to so many sweets? And I don't mean in school lunches necessarily.

What bothers me is the practice of holding so many parties in the classroom with cookies, candies, and pop. Kids' birthdays are celebrated, and with 30 kids in a room that's a lot of sweets. Some might even be children of diabetics.

Teachers, it seems to me, could have a lot of influence in fostering good eating habits. Maybe you can say something in your column that will hit home without offending. Heaven knows, a teacher with 30 kids all day long doesn't need many complaining mothers, and I don't mean to complain. I know the kids love it, but please, have a heart and a thought for the future? — Anonymous.

At the risk of throwing a wet blanket over thousands of classroom parties (and making millions of pint-sized enemies), I have to agree with you, and you've stated the problem well. Surely, if such parties are to be held, some thought should be given to minimizing sweets. A cookie and fruit should suffice.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I enjoy your daily words of wisdom. My question concerns my nails — finger and toe. They become dry, peel back, and the corners split. I also have what I believe is psoriasis. Could this cause the nail problems? — A.M.

No need to guess about psoriasis. It's easily diagnosed. And it can affect the nails. If it is not psoriasis, you can look for such causes as fungus, chemical irritation, or protein deficiency. See my booklet, "Solving Your Nail Problems." Send 35 cents for printing and handling, and stamped, self-addressed envelope to me.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: During the past two years my husband, 65, has had episodes of fluttering heart. He has been on rauwolfia medicine. He doesn't have any other symptoms of heart problems. The last episode frightened him because he became dizzy and lightheaded. Is this something to be alarmed about? Would caffeine intake have a bearing on it? — A.R.

He should be reporting these episodes. It is a form of tachycardia (fast heart beat or an irregular rhythm). The rauwolfia prescription implies he has some degree of high blood pressure. Perhaps an electrocardiogram study is in order to determine if there is heart damage present. He should certainly be examined again. Digitalis or some other medication may help prevent the episodes. The giddiness was the result of disturbed blood circulation during the attack. Both caffeine and smoking can cause.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My eight-year-old daughter looks like she has a slight hump back, although it isn't. I am constantly telling her to straighten her back. Should I have her sleep without a pillow at night? — W.M.

A spinal deformity, such as scoliosis or kyphosis, may cause one to slump. These conditions should be treated as early as possible. If your little girl is slumping now, and one of these disorders is causing it, it will get worse with time. Removing her pillow wouldn't help. Braces might.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After having the eyes dilated for an examination, is it harmful to go out in the sun with your eyes still dilated. I am truly concerned. — Mrs. M.S.

Not harmful, but uncomfortable. The effect usually wears off quickly. Some offices give drops that constrict the pupils to hasten the recovery process. If you're bothered, next time ask about this.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Clip 'n' Cook

SODA BREAD

1 cup unbleached all-purpose white flour
1 cup stone-ground (fine) whole wheat flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. cream of tartar
1 1/4 tsp. salt
1 1/2 tps. sugar
1 tsp. caraway seeds
3/4 cup (about) buttermilk

In a medium bowl stir together the flours, leavenings, salt, sugar and caraway seeds. Make a well in the center and pour the buttermilk into it; mix well. Knead about a dozen times in the bowl; if too dry to shape into a ball, work in a little more buttermilk — we used 1 tablespoon. On a greased cookie sheet flatten the ball to a 7-inch-wide round. With a sharp knife cut an X about 1/4-inch deep through the center and to the edges. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until browned — 50 minutes. Serve this deliciously crusty loaf warm or cold with lots of butter. Makes 1 round loaf — enough for 4 servings. Recipe may be doubled.

Hints from Heloise

Hello:
Here is a shortie, but yet a goodie.
While I was in N.Y. recently, I got a very good suggestion from my friend Janet.
When she has something she wants to remember and writes herself a note, she uses those peel-and-stick labels and sticks one to her purse.
I thought this was absolutely great. When done, just whisk it off and throw away.
I almost have gone wacko over this. I am probably the world's best when it comes to making a list of things to do, etc. and also probably the world's best when it comes to misplacing or losing that list.
It never fails that I find it a day later, or after I get home.
So now I just write things down, stick a label to the flap on my purse and I can't miss it.
Even better, for really busy days, I stick one to the dashboard of my car and every time I get in, there it is for me to see.
Thanks, Janet. You have helped me organize things a little bit more.
Now I have no excuse for forgetting anything—do I? — Heloise II

HINTS FROM HIM

Dear Heloise:
We have a big dog natch, buy those huge bags of dog food. Since it is too big to keep in our kitchen, I always save our bread wrappers and the wire twistums that comes on the end.
I then pour each bread wrapper full of some food and twist away and put the whole kaboodle in the basement or garage. Then at intervals bring up a few small bags of bagged bread wrappers full of food for our dog, Mike.
It may be only a flashing thought, but I think it keeps the food fresher too. — Dick Keegan

Dear Heloise:
For bouillon cubes to dissolve faster take a small hammer and hit the cube while it is still wrapped. Carefully unwrap over cup or whatever container it is to be mixed in, then add water of other liquid.
This makes the cubes just as handy as the more expensive "instant" bouillon. — Mrs. M.B.

Dear Heloise:
I'm sure everyone knows how great one-half cup of corn starch in a gallon of warm water cleans your window, but have you tried it on your refrigerator and other kitchen appliances? Sparkling! — Mrs. Lon Sowers

Great! I tried it. But, folks, be sure to use pure corn starch not laundry starch.
All you have to do is take a dry cloth and wipe off newly made finger marks, and the beautiful shine still remains. — Heloise

Dear Heloise:
When we bought this house some clever person had done us a real favor in the garage. It's been so useful I have to pass it along.
They must have had an old ladder not fit for use. They cut lengthwise down the rungs of the ladder so there was one side piece and a lot of rungs sticking out. This was secured along the studs of the garage.
Lawn chairs fit perfectly on two rungs. Hoses are up for winter. You name it. I wish I had more old ladders. — Linda Metcalf

Dear Heloise:
Here's a hint for mothers with small children.
To remove gum from children's hair, my husband discovered that the hand cleaner he uses to clean car grease from his hands works very well. Just work it into the gum and then the gum can be pulled easily from the hair. — Lola Beagley

THIS COLUMN is written for you...the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Cost Of Living Tops Israeli Conversation

BY RICHARD C. GROSS

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — The biggest topic of conversation in Israel these days is not war or peace. It is the cost of staying alive.

The Israelis are leaving the prospects of war or peace to the politicians — while they carefully count the change in their pockets lessened by the same group of politicians. Prime Minister Menahem Begin's Likud-dominated coalition government.

Begin's government recently raised prices of basic commodities by 25 percent in a move to cut government spending to slow down the ferocious rate of inflation — 38 percent last year and already 16 percent so far this year. As elsewhere in the world, the salaried workers are hit hardest by the price increases. Those who have got by by skimming off the top just skim off a little more.

"We live in Israel so we have no choice," one Israeli man-in-the-street, a laborer, told an interviewer for the national television.

Finance Minister Simha Ehrlich said the belt-tightening, which included an unprecedented $140 million cut in the defense budget, was done in part to prove Israel can tidy up its own house before asking the American taxpayer for more help.

The cutting of defense expenditures in a country that, in relation to its neighbors in size, is the mightiest fortress in the Middle East was a dramatic gesture designed to prove to the Americans how badly in need of help are the Israelis.

It's not an easy place to live in, Israel, despite the trappings of plenty that are the hallmark of a Western society. The cost of the simplest items can be staggering, largely because so many things are imported.

Example: an imported bulb for the headlight of a European car is $8.75, including the 8 percent value added tax that is applied to everything but food. A plastic model airplane from the United States or England is $10 or more.

The cars themselves can cost the equivalent of over $20,000 because taxes make up two-thirds of the sticker price. Yet Volvos, top-of-the-line Peugeots, Renaults and Fords and even Oldsmobiles abound in the heavy traffic.

The question every visitor to Israel asks is how can an Israeli, one of the highest taxed of all peoples, afford such luxury items. The answer: many don't pay their taxes.

Indeed, the tax authorities estimate they are owed $517 million by tax evaders. Begin's government is thinking of declaring an amnesty in a move to start from scratch.

The only way to amass "black money," aside from outright stealing, is ownership of a business. The keeper of the books, when there are books, can report what he wants. The employee are not so lucky because their taxes are deducted at the source, their monthly paychecks.

It is the existence of such an abundant supply of unreported money that makes it possible for an American dentist who has settled in Israel to offer his penthouse Tel Aviv apartment for sale at $104,000. He has more than one buyer at that price.

Now this "black money" is finding a new outlet that in the United States is old hat: the stock market. The influx of money into the tiny market in recent months has sent prices soaring.

"They've used this kind of money to buy cars, apartments, washing machines, televisions and to travel abroad," said a bank manager, Moshe Cohen. "They have nothing more to buy so now they are flooding into the stock market."

Considering Israel only is a country of 3.4 million, it is stupifying how inefficient the bureaucracy must be in order for so many tax evaders to escape unnoticed.

But cheating the tax man is the only way for an Israeli to be able to live in a style that is commonplace for the average West European or American.

and the dealer opens one spade.
The answer is that you should pass. You have 14 high card points but your hand is completely balanced with spades your only four-card suit. A bid with this holding at this point invites the under-taker.

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

There was nothing wrong with South's three-notrump contract except it turned out that South didn't come close to making it.

After the spade lead he could bring in four clubs without letting East into the lead. Hence, he would have played a low club from dummy at trick two and finessed in his hand. Back to the board with the ace of clubs and a second finesse to bring in all five clubs.

Instead, he led the ace to guard against a possible singleton queen in the West hand. Not that a club trick won by West would hurt South. West could not lead a spade successfully.

Anyway, South played the club ace, finessed the second club, played the king of clubs and jack of clubs. East took his queen, led a spade and it was bingo time.

Before a hundred readers write in to tell us that South could still make his contract after misplaying the clubs, we know that he could have done just that.

He should simply cash the red aces and throw West in with the seven of hearts. West could take whatever hearts he still held, but would then have to play a spade and give South a trick with the queen.

Pair Charged With Kidnaping

EPSOM, England (AP) — The cases of 27-year-old Joyce McKinney and another American, both accused of kidnaping a Mormon missionary, have been continued until Nov. 3.

Miss McKinney, of Minneapolis, N.C., and Keith May, 24, of Maywood, Calif., were ordered held without bail after they appeared in Epsom Magistrates Court on Thursday.

They have been in police custody since their arrest more than a month ago on charges of kidnaping and unlawfully imprisoning Kirk Anderson of Orem, Utah, a missionary in Britain for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

He was abducted from a Mormon church in a southwest London suburb near Epsom last Sept. 14. He reappeared three days later, saying he had escaped his kidnapers.

Police allege that Miss McKinney, aided by May, kidnaped the 21-year-old missionary because of her unrequited infatuation with him.

The defendants held hands as they sat in the dock for Thursday's hearing. They have not yet had to enter pleas. No application was made for bail.

The case has attracted great public interest in Britain and Miss McKinney has shouted her innocence to newspaper reporters as she has been transported to and from court.

Tapes Indicate Star Placed Bets

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A taped conversation allegedly between two defendants in a federal gambling trial indicated that television's "Six Million Dollar Man" placed $2,000 in football bets last November.

In the wiretapped conversation played for the jury, a voice identified by the prosecution as that of L.D. Morris told of taking bets of $1,000 each from actor Lee Majors on the Pittsburgh and Oklahoma football games Nov. 24, 1976.

Morris also said on the tape he had met Majors through a restaurant employee identified only as "Barbara."

Asked how he ran into Majors, Morris replied, "He dated Barbara once before. I flew up to Enid and got him."

Majors at the time was taking part in the Grand National Quail Hunt at Enid, Okla.

The second voice was identified by the government this week as that of defendant Randall Loyd Keef. Morris and Keef are among seven defendants. The government is attempting to prove five or more defendants were involved in an alleged statewide $100,000 gambling ring.

Majors originally had been scheduled to testify at the trial, but was excused because of filming commitments.

Defense attorneys objected to the tape being played in open court, and later tried to question government witnesses on the relevancy of material pertaining to the television star.

Hotel In Sri Lanka Retains Old Charm

By ALAN DAWSON
COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — The halls are gloomy and you might have problems getting the key in the door to your room.

But within a day of moving in, every employee is calling you by name and never are you rushed.

Now 111 years old, the Galle Face Hotel shrieks its colonial beginning. Gin and tonic may not be your drink, but it's what supported the bars in the Galle Face for a century.

It's not as historic as the Raffles in Singapore, as modern as the Oriental in Bangkok, or as luxurious as the Peninsula in Hong Kong.

But the Galle Face is older than all of them, less uptight than any of them and more homely — in all senses of the word — than just about any hotel its size in the area.

In 1864, the Galle Face was "a small club for colonists," according to hotel publicist Brig. Gen. Maurice Jayaweera, assistant to the chairman.

Five years before the turn of the century, it became a hotel. Naturally, the "natives" of Ceylon were barred.

There have been some changes since then, but not so many that the Galle Face would be unrecognizable to a colonist. The natives now sit on the veranda with the whites. But most of the rest is the same.

A recent visitor to the hotel described the overall effect as "elegantly seedy," a phrase which definitely fits.

In the newer chain hotels in Colombo, no guest would put up with rattan mats, for example. But in the Galle Face, they fit — carpets in the hallways would be out of place.

The chain hotels have restaurants up high, with more or less magnificent views of the blue Indian Ocean. In the Galle Face, such views are seen from the rooms. Seeing water from the Coconut Grove restaurant usually means staring at your water glass.

But it still is the best foreign food in town.

There are 145 rooms in the Galle Face. Only 110 are airconditioned and a traveler from the West seeking a taste of the way things used to be in Asia can stay here for less than $25 at the busiest time of the year.

The only suite with a name is the Yuri Gagarin Suite, where the Russian cosmonaut first into space stayed during a world tour.

There also is a G.D. William Room, a function room named after a hotel employee killed during labor agitation.

For it is a sad fact that the Galle Face has been losing large amounts of money in recent years and now has called in a Hong Kong hotel chain to manage and advise.

On the other hand, the chairman of the hotel, Cyril Gardinar, is not worried enough about making money to change the Galle Face all that much.

"The chairman has a policy of no retrenchments," said Jayaweera.

Panel Suggests Reserve Act As Clearing House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve should be allowed to operate as a clearing house for the electronic payments that are expected to become widespread in coming years, a government study commission said Friday.

The recommendation by the National Commission on Electronic Funds Transfers differed with one made earlier this year by another federal study group, the Privacy Protection Study Commission.

The privacy group recommended that "No governmental entity be allowed to own, operate or otherwise manage any part of an electronic payments mechanism that involves transactions among private parties."

Electronic funds transfer, or EFT, is defined as the movement of money without any paper, such as cash or checks, changing hands. One application would be for computer terminals in stores that would allow the amount of a purchase to be deducted from a consumer's bank account automatically.

One of the principal fears expressed about electronic payments is that it would create a new opportunity for invasions of privacy. Records of transactions could be kept in computerized data banks that would allow an investigator to learn a great deal about a person's habits.

"EFT calls for much stricter controls than now apply to government access to an individual's financial records," the commission said.

Although it recommended specific limitations on use of EFT information, it said the Federal Reserve should be allowed to operate automated clearing houses to facilitate a national EFT network.

David Linowes, who served as chairman of the privacy commission, immediately criticized the EFT commission's recommendation on the Federal Reserve.

"It's a very dangerous and treacherous area for intrusion into all the areas of a person's life," Linowes said. "Information on purchases — a book or a drug or whatever — gets entered into a data bank never to be destroyed."

Linowes said the Federal Reserve could be used by other federal agencies to gather information on citizens. He said this danger was shown by use of Internal Revenue Service information by other parts of the government.

The EFT Commission claimed that the controls it recommended would be adequate.

'Lost' Tourist Leaves Maine

The 50-year-old German brewery worker, who mistook Bangor for San Francisco, flew to California with his Maine host, Ralph Coffman of nearby Old Town, courtesy of the San Francisco Examiner.

Two weeks ago, Kreuz, who does not speak English, stepped off a charter flight from Frankfurt and wandered around Bangor for several days, thinking he was in San Francisco. He was befriended by Coffman and others and soon became a semi-celebrity.

On Thursday, he went to Rockport to see Andre the seal, an old hand at attracting publicity, perform tricks in his floating pen. Kreuz "got quite a kick out of it," said Andre's trainer, Harry Goodridge.

Before that, Kreuz met with Gov. James Longley, was given the keys to the city of Bangor and was offered title to two acres of land as a gift.

He returns to West Germany on Monday.

Miss America Comes Home

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Miss America 1978 has come to a whirlwind welcome which left her little time for family and friends.

Susan Perkins, 23, made what she termed a nostalgic visit to her former high school, was the focus of a parade through downtown, saw her picture spread across the newspaper's front page and was toasted by local officials throughout the day.

"It feels like home," Miss Perkins said Friday. "I usually don't get nervous about press conferences like this, but for some reason, it's so more difficult than any other place and it makes it so much harder to perform and talk."

Miss Perkins called her experiences so far fantastic but added she wanted to go on to a career in singing or politics.

"I don't want to live on the title. Ten years from now I don't want to say merely that I was Miss America in 1978," she said.

Graham Hears From Nixon

ATLANTA (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon says he's feeling better than he has in years, evangelist Billy Graham reported Friday.

Graham, in Atlanta to address the executive council of the American Jewish Committee, told reporters at a news conference he had spoken with and received a letter from the ex-president as recently as four days ago.

"He told me over the phone he was feeling better than he had in years, and I suspect that is right because he's playing golf every day," said Graham.

While Nixon was president, Graham was a frequent visitor to the White House.

Graham said he received a note from the former president, scribbled on the bottom of a newspaper clipping, shortly after the death of singer Bing Crosby.

The news item reported that one of Crosby's last written comments before his death expressed concern about the influence "of the media and the press ... concern about violence on TV."

"He suggested this was material that I could use in a sermon," Graham said.

Self-Serve Gas Ordered

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Gov. Robert Ray has ordered state employees to use the self-serve pumps when purchasing gasoline for their state-owned vehicles.

"If our people can pump gas for their personal cars, they can do the same when driving a state vehicle," Ray said Thursday.

The action was prompted by an incident involving an administrative assistant who was using a state pool car while on official business.

Ray said aide Susan Mickelsen stopped at a self-serve pump in Iowa City and was told by the gas station manager that he wanted to shake her hand to congratulate her for saving money by using the self-serve pump.

"This should not be such an unusual occurrence," said Ray. "We seek economy in government and buying gas for state cars should be no exception."

Ray said some employees might never have been shown how to pump their own gas, so the Department of Transportation will be asked to prepare a simple card explaining the procedure for all state vehicles.

State Car Dispatcher Milford Juhl said the 2,045 cars and trucks assigned to his office were driven a total of 41,801,059 miles during fiscal year 1977, consuming some 3,381,000 gallons of gas.

Princess' Brother DWI

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — City Councilman John B. Kelly Jr., brother of Princess Grace of Monaco, has pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving in Camden County, N.J.

Kelly had his driving privileges in New Jersey suspended for two months and was fined $200 and $10 court costs Wednesday by Municipal Court Judge Frank M. Lario in Bellmawr. Under a reciprocal agreement, Kelly's license will be suspended in Pennsylvania for the same period.

Police said Kelly, 50, was arrested April 26. Judge Lario refused reporters permission to see the court records, which are generally open to the public in New Jersey, until he conferred with the assignment judge for Camden County.

Kelly, a former Olympic rower who has held several national offices in connection with amateur athletics, is serving his second term on the council.

NAACP Hears Newsman

DENVER (AP) — Former television newsman Malvin Goode says groups like the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have helped blacks, but now blacks are refusing to join such organizations.

"I find young black doctors, reporters and other professional people who don't care anymore," Goode told a crowd of about 300 Thursday at the annual freedom fund banquet of the Mile High Branch of the NAACP. "Twenty-five years ago they couldn't have been janitors in the businesses where they now work."

Black people "don't have it made" as many think, said Goode, who formerly worked for ABC and is now a consultant with the National Black Network.

Goode criticized President Carter for his dealings with blacks.

"A while back, during a meeting with blacks, Carter was asked what can be done to help us," Goode said. "He said 'just be patient' — and some of those fools at that meeting laughed."

"Where does that peanut farmer get off telling me to be patient? He doesn't tell his brother Billy to be patient waiting to make his first million," Goode said.

Woman Becomes Pilot At 74

BENNINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Mrs. Edith Burns of Bennington was born in 1903, the year Orville and Wilbur Wright took to the air in Kitty Hawk, N.C.

This month, 74 years later, Mrs. Burns followed the Wrights' example, passing the Federal Aviation Administration's examination for her private pilot's license.

Deane Hanson, president of Bennington Aviation, says Mrs. Burns may be the oldest person in Vermont to accomplish such a feat.

An avid swimmer who is also active in church work, Mrs. Burns says she learned to fly because "I just thought I wanted to do something besides bowling."

Dart 'Zapper' Cleared

NEW WESTMINSTER, British Columbia (AP) — Howard Ross, a lawyer, zapped his client's angry husband with an electrified dart gun.

County Court Judge D.B. Hinds said the incident reminded him of comic hero Flash Gordon and his ray gun, so he ruled the lawyer acted in self defense and acquitted Ross of an assault charge.

The court was told Thursday that the lawyer fired the darts at Horst Thielman, the husband of a woman Ross was representing in a divorce action. Thielman was hit twice.

Hinds termed the weapon a "20th century imitation of a Flash Gordon ray gun."

Ross believed Thielman had threatened his life twice while Ross was representing Thielman's wife Maria in their divorce action, the court was told.

Dinosaur Retired, Deflated

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Museum of Natural History is throwing a five-day retirement party for Dino the Dinosaur, inflated star attraction of Macy's Thanksgiving Day parades since 1963.

The party, also featuring clowns and circus music, will begin at 10 a.m. Wednesday Nov. 9.

As usual with new "scientific attractions," the prestigious institution will supply a lecturer to explain all about dinosaurs.

He is Paul Licameli of Metuchen, N.J., a self-proclaimed expert.

Licameli is nine years old.

After the five-day gala, Dino, 60 feet long and 28 feet high, will be deflated and shipped to Rockmart, Ga., headquarters of Goodyear Aerospace Corp., which created the balloon.

Saudis Seek Moderation In Oil Prices

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Saudi Arabia is attempting "to be moderate" on the oil-price front, but feels the U.S. should more actively bolster the value of its dollar, Saudi Arabia's finance minister said Friday after meeting with U.S. Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal.

The basic motivation behind Saudi Arabia's moderate policy, Mohammed Ali Aba-Al-Khail told a group of U.S. newsmen, is to help the world economy.

"We feel oil price is an import factor," he said.

Aba Al-Khail said Saudi Arabia, as the largest oil producer in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, is prepared to "play its role" when OPEC meets in Caracas next December to decide whether to increase oil prices.

The minister offered no predictions on the outcome of the Caracas meeting. However, oil sources here said there was strong pressure within OPEC for an increase — perhaps as high as 15 percent.

"The question is whether the moderates (like Saudi Arabia) can help keep the prices down," the source said.

Agoraphobia Keeps Many Women Housebound

NEW YORK (AP) — Imagine being afraid to leave your home. So afraid, in fact, that you can't mail a letter, go to work or attend your child's graduation. So afraid, that you remain housebound for years on end, virtually paralyzed at the thought of going outside.

Hundreds of thousands of people, most of them women, suffer exactly this kind of fear. They are victims of a sickness known as agoraphobia — literally, fear of the marketplace.

Dr. Claire Weekes, an author and specialist in the field, says that the number of agoraphobics in the United States alone has been estimated at one and a quarter million.

Fraser Kent, author of a recent book on phobias, said agoraphobia is considered the most common phobia in North America and Europe today. He said up to two-thirds of all phobics seeking treatment suffer from agoraphobia to some extent.

Dr. Weekes, 75, practiced medicine in her native Australia for 38 years. Since retiring a little more than a decade ago, she has traveled widely in the United States and Great Britain, lecturing on the subject of agoraphobia and treating patients by what she calls remote direction through the use of her books and cassette tape recordings. Her books have been translated into eight languages.

In a recent interview, Dr. Weekes said agoraphobia — called "homebound housewives' syndrome" in England — "is one of the most incapacitating of nervous illnesses."

She said one woman went for 10 years without setting foot outside her house-

Other agoraphobics are afraid to take a bath; afraid they will have a spasm of fear while undressed and will be vulnerable. They lie to their friends, making excuses for not leaving home. Often, their marriages and families break up before they seek help.

Eighty per cent of the victims are women, Dr. Weekes said. "Men have got to go to work," she added, but said many men who suffer from agoraphobia will not travel from city to city, but insist on remaining in familiar surroundings.

Agoraphobia can be brought on by a variety of problems. Victims become "sensitized," Dr. Weekes said, and feel the symptoms of fear much more strongly than the ordinary person. "Anything that is a shock to the nervous system will sensitize them," she added.

Agoraphobics suffer acute waves of panic combined with the fear that the same thing will happen again. It is the second fear — the fear of another attack — that keeps agoraphobics housebound, Dr. Weekes said.

"They are like animals without a skin, so vulnerable to the slightest anxiety," Dr. Weekes said.

Sufferers often cannot define exactly what they are afraid of. Some feel they are safer if there is a doctor or nurse on hand in case they lose complete control of themselves, but they may not be able to verbalize exactly what they expect to happen.

Trying to explain agoraphobia, Dr. Weekes said that if a normal person steps off the curb and narrowly misses getting hit by a car, he or she may feel a momentary panic, but probably will forget about the whole thing in a few minutes. The agoraphobic, in contrast, will feel a much more severe panic and will not forget.

The realization of the extent of the problem of agoraphobia is recent, Dr. Weekes said, but she added that the illness is now getting more attention, in clinics and from doctors. Agoraphobics themselves are losing their shame and learning to seek help.

Dr. Weekes said agoraphobia is curable — usually within a relatively short period of time. She said that with a few exceptions, she no longer sees patients personally, but said the key to her treatment is showing the agoraphobic how to accept the initial panic. They should not fight the panic, she said. "That just adds tension ... Let the panic come. Let it burn the roots of your hair if necessary. Don't withdraw from it."

She said she tries to help them overcome the second fear — the fear of recurrence — by making them understand the panic will die down if they don't fight it. "It's themselves they have to cope with, not a situation."

Being able to confide in friends helps, Dr. Weekes said. The agoraphobics "lose that corset of tension they wear." If the agoraphobic knows she can go home in case of an attack of panic while visiting friends, she is more likely to make the effort.

Support from the family also is a key factor in recovery. "Some of the husbands are fantastic ... Some say, 'How can I help?' The woman with that kind of husband gets better quickly."

Westminster Press, the publishing arm of the United Presbyterian Church and never one to shrink from controversy, has done it again.

The people who brought you the "honest to God" debate and the "situation ethics" debate have now raised for American Christians the question of whether Christianity needs to affirm Jesus as God as a necessary element of what it means to be Christian.

The issue is raised in a provocative new book being published by Westminster, "The Myth of God Incarnate," edited by well-known theologian John Hick. It is a collection of 10 essays by seven theologians which, when first published in Great Britain earlier this year, created a storm of controversy which has yet to subside.

Now, Westminster has done the American church-going public the favor of making the book available here so that American theologians, and more importantly the average church-attender, can get in on the debate.

The general position of the book, in somewhat simplistic terms, is rather straightforward. Jesus never claimed divinity for himself, that the identification of Jesus as the "second person" of the Triune God is a post-New Testament identification and that it is not necessary to recognize Jesus as divine in order to be a believing Christian.

While the 10 essays are more theologically and historically technical than the popularized position taken by Bishop John A. T. Robinson in his "Honest to God," they are not inaccessible to the average Christian who takes seriously his or her relationship to the Christian faith.

What the seven theologians aim at getting at is that the traditional understanding of the incarnation — God made human in the person Jesus — is neither a correct understanding of New Testament times or an adequate rendering of the meaning of Jesus for contemporary times.

At the same time, most of the authors while denying the deity of Christ stress his uniqueness and his role in bringing the believer into relationship with God.

John Hick, the editor of the volume, puts it this way: "He (Jesus) is the one in following whom we have found ourselves in God's presence and have found God's meaning for our lives. He is our sufficient model of true humanity in a perfect relationship to God."

Another of the theologians, Frances Young, notes, "I find myself able to say: 'I see God in Jesus,' and 'God was in Christ reconciling the world to himself,' and other such traditional statements without necessarily having to spell it out in terms of a literal incarnation."

In her terms, Jesus becomes the "supreme disclosure" of God which "opens my eyes to God in the present, and while remaining a man who lived in a particular historical situation, he will always be the unique focus of my perception of and response to God."

More conservative theologians contend that if Jesus is not divine as well as truly human, then he could not be Savior and mankind would be eternally separated from God because of its sins.

At least some of the "radicals" would counter that salvation is God's activity, not Christ's, although it is made known to humanity through Jesus' suffering and death. Indeed, an undercurrent of the present volume is that to make Jesus divine is to undercut God and the Christian claim to monotheism.

Certainly, the conservatives will reply to "The Myth of God Incarnate" in one if not more sustained theological volumes of their own and the issue promises to be one of the more lively debates among Christians in the years to come.

RELIGION ROUNDUP

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After meeting its expenses for the last year, St. Christopher's Church, a middle-income Roman Catholic parish of about 900 families, found that it had a surplus of $40,000 in the bank.

"What should we do with it?" the Rev. James T. Smith, the pastor, phrased the question the parish council raised. "Should we keep it in the bank when there is so much need around the world?" They decided to spend half of it for the poor overseas.

After getting advice from the head of Catholic Relief Services, Bishop Edwin B. Broderick, $20,000 from the parish will go to provide some 5,000 poor farmers in rural Ecuador with pure drinking water in their villages, and to help set up a marketing cooperative in the famine-gripped Bawku district of Ghana.

CHICAGO (AP) — Pollster George Gallup Jr. says American religious leaders are alarmingly ill-informed about changing religious attitudes and have "only a vague notion" of people's actual religious concerns.

"We know more about what breakfast foods people like and why than we do about the spiritual health of the American people," he said in the October issue of the U.S. Catholic, published by the Claretian Fathers.

He said his new religion research center hoped to provide data that would give religious leaders a "realistic look" at current religious factors in society.

NASHVILLE (AP) — The president of the Southern Baptist Convention, the Rev. Jimmy Allen, says Biblical illiteracy is of "epic proportions" in this country, and that the Bible has become a "foreign language" to many Americans.

"No wonder citizens are flummoxed by every kind of religious pitchmanship," he says. "Not only are they patsies for eastern religion and sects, but also for every kind of parachurch group which sounds like the bugle calling for their attention."

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The board of directors of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association has voted unanimously to begin making public its annual, audited financial reports, beginning at the end of this year.

It will cover affairs of the BGEA and its affiliated organizations. The step was taken at Graham's recommendation.

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — The National Federation of Decency has called for a boycott against Bic pens, lighters and shavers, saying the company has stepped up its "sex-oriented advertising" on television.

Special program festivals will include a tribute on Nov. 1 to the late James G.

FIND STRENGTH FOR YOUR LIFE — ATTEND CHURCH

Misty View

When you look through the window on a rainy day everything beyond the pane seems blurred in wavy wetness. Even the familiar objects, like the sidewalk and the mailbox seem distorted.

Sometimes the same thing can happen with another kind of view — when we look at ourselves, trying to find meaning and perspective in our own lives. For there are moments when we are at odds with the world and the ones we love, when we don't know where to turn next.

Well — how about turning to the Church? Just go to church, even if you haven't gone for a long time, even if you've never gone, for that matter. Sit back and relax, and let yourself and your problems swing back into focus, there within God's House.

Funny thing about it . . . it works.

Crisis Headlines Tout Portugal's Food Woes

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Big black headlines, befitting a national crisis, told Portuguese this week they have problems with their food. Investigators are probing reports of molasses in the wine, crankcase drippings in the olive oil and swine disease in the pork chops.

And codfish, a traditional staple, is about to vanish. The regulatory commission for the cod trade said the government can no longer afford $75 million a year to import cod.

A spokesman for the National Retailers Federation announced, "After Easter there won't be any codfish to sell in Portugal even at the price of lobster." Salted and dried cod, the local equivalent of the Sunday roast, now costs $1.82 a pound, more than some cuts of pork.

The news reached housewives as they were already beginning to experience the shortages that leave big gaps on market shelves every autumn and winter.

Supermarkets stopped selling milk several weeks ago and shoppers line up for hours starting at 7 a.m. outside neighborhood dairy stores, where they are informally rationed to one quart per person. Supplies are exhausted by 11 a.m. in Lisbon, where officials say milk demand exceeds supply by nearly 50 per cent.

"It's terrible. A few years ago, these things didn't happen," said a smartly dressed woman outside a supermarket on a fashionable street. "What's going on with our food?"

Consumer experts said Portugal is gripped this season by an unusually severe combination of shortages, high prices, hoarding and breakdowns in sanitation. During two weeks in September police said they prosecuted 730 cases involving seven tons of rotten pork and sausages, and 2,200 gallons of impure olive oil and wine.

Doctors routinely advise patients to boil milk even though it's labeled pasteurized.

Among alleged food frauds currently being investigated:

—Olive oil. The government television station said an inquiry was underway into reports of widespread adulteration of oil. Unofficial accounts say used automobile crankcase oil is favored as a mixer.

—Wine. Police said two special squads operating in Lisbon and Oporto for the past month have made arrests during efforts to break up large-scale doctoring of wine. Authorities say sugar, molasses and chemicals are poured into wines.

"This happens every year, mostly in the local wines grown for local consumption, and it is thus difficult to bring under quality control," an Oporto wine trader said. "But it's worse this year because rain has reduced the grape harvest."

—Sale of diseased pigs. Agriculture ministry officials say farmers continue to market pigs suffering from African swine disease despite dozens of arrests and the destruction of more than 35,000 sick animals.

Carlos Antunes Filipe, the Agriculture Ministry's chief of food trading, called this week for a new national food policy to upgrade the quality of consumer items. But officials said privately that problems of financing and obtaining trained personnel made a significant improvement unlikely in the near future.

ARRAIGNED — A Nov. 14 trial date was set in Birmingham, Ala., Friday for Robert Edward Chambliss, 73, who is charged with four counts of first-degree murder in the 1963 bombing that killed four black girls. (AP Laserphoto)

Date Of Trial Set For Man Charged With 1963 Bombing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A Nov. 14 trial date was set Friday for a man charged with murdering four black girls in a 1963 church bombing that drew shocked national attention to the violence then being directed against followers of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

Robert Edward Chambliss, 73, of Birmingham, pleaded innocent to the charges connected with the Sept. 15, 1963, explosion at Sixteenth Street Baptist Church.

He remained free on $200,000 bond. Chambliss was in jail for nearly a month before raising the bond. He was indicted in September and is the first person to be charged in the case.

Circuit Judge Wallace Gibson earlier refused to throw out the four first-degree murder indictments against Chambliss after a motion from defense attorney Art Hanes Jr.

Hanes said the indictments should be quashed because they referred to Chambliss as "Dynamite Bob," a nickname he allegedly acquired soon after the bombing.

Glenn Collins of Birmingham, who testified that he once was an informer for the Birmingham Police Department and the FBI, said he often heard Chambliss' associates use the nickname.

He said he once heard J.B. Stoner call Chambliss that name to his face in the headquarters of the National States Rights Party.

Stoner, a Marietta, Ga., attorney, has been charged with setting off dynamite near an inhabited dwelling in the 1958 bombing of the Bethel Baptist Church in Birmingham.

He is fighting extradition to Alabama and is free on $10,000 bond.

Judge Gibson refused to remove the name Dynamite Bob from the indictments, but told attorneys not to use it in front of a jury.

Chambliss and two other men were arrested on dynamite possession charges shortly after the bombing at the church, which for months had been used as headquarters for street demonstrations led by the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

At the time, the three were not linked to the church bombing. They were convicted in city court of illegal possession of dynamite, but the verdicts were later overturned by a state court.

The four black girls were killed in a basement restroom area adjacent to the outside stairwell where, authorities said, up to 15 sticks of dynamite were set off.

Twenty-three people in the church after the Sunday school hour were injured. Debris was tossed over a wide area.

Some 50 racial bombings occurred in the Birmingham area in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

Grand Jury Probes Leak

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury is investigating allegations that a member of Congress tipped South Korea's spy agency about the planned defection of a top Korean diplomat.

A published report Friday identified the congressman as Rep. Edward J. Derwinski, an Illinois Republican, but Derwinski said he did not leak the secret information to the Korean Central Intelligence Agency.

"I deny that," Derwinski said. "I'm not the culprit in this thing. I deny that."

Derwinski also said he does not know if the Justice Department has singled him out as the subject of its investigation.

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House International Relations Committee, said he was informed of the investigation of the alleged leak, which was traced to his committee. Derwinski is a member of the committee and is the ranking Republican on a subcommittee investigating South Korean activities in the United States.

Zablocki said he was not told the name of the congressman at the center of the investigation, but the Wall Street Journal named Derwinski.

The newspaper said U.S. intelligence officials learned of the leak and got the diplomat and his family out of their home only 30 minutes before South Korean agents arrived to try to stop the defection.

It said the diplomat, Sohn Young Ho, who was with the Korean consulate in New York City, had told the subcommittee he planned to defect and had given the date—Sept. 16.

The newspaper said Sohn apparently defected because he had been recalled to Seoul as part of a shakeup intended to muffle allegations of Korean influence buying on Capitol Hill. Despite his being listed as a diplomat, the Wall Street Journal said Sohn actually was the KCIA's station chief in New York.

Sohn now is under Justice Department protection at an undisclosed location.

Derwinski issued a statement Friday saying he would withhold comment, and at first refused to make any other statement.

"I do not have any information as to the source of the allegations," the statement said. "In view of the ongoing investigation it is appropriate that I withhold any comment on the allegations at this time."

But cornered off the House floor later, Derwinski denied the allegations. He said he did know in advance that Sohn planned to defect, adding that all subcommittee members did.

Derwinski also made a veiled comment that he is suspicious of the finger being pointed "at a Republican" but did not specifically accuse Democrats of trying to blame the leak on Republicans.

Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., chairman of the subcommittee on international organizations, refused to make any comment except to say that he had asked the Justice Department to investigate the leak. He said he does not believe the leak to the KCIA was accidental.

Asked if South Korea might have learned of the planned defection by accident, Fraser replied: "I think it is much more serious than that."

Zablocki said he understood, however, that a key question in the investigation is whether "the dates" of events indicate a subcommittee leak led directly to the South Korean effort to block the defection.

The Wall Street Journal said a potential problem in prosecuting the case may be an unwillingness by U.S. intelligence officials to reveal how they discovered that a congressman telephoned or talked to South Korean agents and warned them of the defection.

The Justice Department refused to make any comment on that.

The Fraser subcommittee is conducting one of two House investigations on South Korean activities in the United States.

The House ethics committee is investigating alleged South Korean efforts to buy favors from members of Congress, and Fraser's subcommittee is investigating all other South Korean activities, particularly alleged harassment of Korean-Americans who criticize South Korean President Park Chung Hee.

Derwinski's name has not been mentioned in the influence-buying scandal.

United Effort Sought To Defeat Terrorism

LONDON (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany said Friday the nations of the world must make a common effort "to overcome the scourge of international terrorism."

Schmidt, heavily guarded by German and British security men, spoke to an audience of 500 persons at the Institute for Strategic Studies. All the guests, including ambassadors, British peers and top Foreign Office diplomats, had to submit to a body search for weapons.

Schmidt told them, "Nobody, anywhere in the world, can any longer make light of terrorist violence as the work of people who have been led astray by an allegedly political motive, and on top of that give them refuge."

He said West Germany recently became "a focal point" of the issue when German commandos raided a hijacked Lufthansa airliner Oct. 18 in Mogadishu, Somalia, freeing the 86 hostages and killing three of the four hijackers. The hijackers had demanded the release of convicted West German terrorists, three of whom died in their cells hours after the commando operation — by their own hands, according to the government.

Demonstrations and bombings erupted throughout Europe, with left-wing sympathizers claiming the jailed terrorists had not taken their own lives but had been slain.

Schmidt, referring to the hijacking that spanned six days, said, "From day to day it became increasingly clear to the people in all corners of the world that terrorism is not a problem of concern to the Germans exclusively, but an international problem."

Other countries rallied beside Germany "with advice and active assistance ... in practical solidarity," he said, and added:

"During those days signals were given, I feel, for cooperation among the world's nations and states and for a common stand, a common effort to overcome the scourge of international terrorism and its society-destroying aims."

The chancellor said he hoped "the terrible experience will prompt the United Nations quickly to adopt the convention against the taking of hostages."

"At the same time," he said, "we should jointly resolve to confront the blindness of terrorist killers with the steadfastness of our democratic convictions."

About 50 banner-waving members of the Campaign Against Oppression in West Germany were at the auditorium, but Schmidt entered through a rear door as policemen sealed off the area.

The London-based International Institute for Strategic Studies is an independent organization that does research on the world's military forces.

Speaking of armaments, Schmidt said an agreement at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) between the United States and Soviet Union must be coupled with limits on weapons deployed by both power blocs in Europe.

The principle of parity "must be the target of all arms limitation and weapons control and must apply to all weapons," Schmidt said.

Tech Aims At 'Biggest Game'

By CARTER CROMWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

AUSTIN—The theory has been advanced more than once that it wouldn't matter so much if Texas Tech completed a 1-10 season, just so long as the one victory was over Texas.

That may be taking matters a bit too far, but the contest has to rank as one of the most important in the minds of Tech partisans each year, and this season is a case in point.

At 2 p.m. today, the Raiders, ranked 14th in the country, will battle for a position in the Southwest Conference race.

Texas officials are expecting more than 79,000 fans to pack Memorial Stadium today. That would quite possibly be the largest crowd ever to see an athletic event in the state of Texas.

"This is probably the biggest game I've ever played in," Tech runningback Billy Taylor said earlier in the week. "I think the Texas game is the biggest game for most of our guys."

"It's a big game because Texas is No. 1, but more so just because Texas is Texas, and most of the guys on our team are from Texas and have grown up hearing about Texas."

"Last year, it seemed like all the fans and everybody were real fired up for the Texas game and we had a record crowd. But people weren't quite as fired for Houston, although we were, in effect, playing for the conference championship then."

Injured quarterback Rodney Allison, whose status is questionable for the Texas game, remarked, "I really want to play against Texas if I can. It's the biggest game of the year for me. I'd rather beat them than anybody."

"It's just because of their tradition and them being No. 1. When a team is in the position we are, it makes you want to knock them off that much more."

That, of course, will not be an easy task. Texas is not a great team, but it is obviously a very good one. For a team with a number of question marks before the season, one that was coming off a 5-5-1 1976 campaign, and one that lost its top two quarterbacks within seven plays of the fourth game, the Longhorns haven't done too badly.

They are 6-0 for the season and 3-0 in SWC play, which ties them with Texas A&M for the conference lead.

Texas is first in the league in total offense (428), total defense (206), rushing offense and rushing defense. It ranks fourth in the nation in total defense and rushing defense and third in scoring defense. It is seventh in total offense and third in rushing.

"We haven't talked too much about rankings," UT head coach Fred Akers said, "other than take pride and be appreciative of the confidence others have shown in us. Our players have done a great job of taking the games one at a time."

"We try to work on things we can control, and we can't control polls. Texas Tech as a football team represents plenty of incentive for us, as far as I'm concerned. We still have a very demanding schedule ahead of us, so we can't take anything for granted."

Our remaining schedule demands our respect."

After this game, Texas must face Houston in Houston, TCU and Baylor at home and Texas A&M in College Station.

Tech, 5-1 for the season and tied with Arkansas for second place in the SWC with a 2-1 record, will next play TCU in Lubbock and follow that with games against SMU in Dallas, Houston in Houston and Arkansas in Lubbock.

Despite their loss to A&M, Tech is very much in the conference race. However, another loss would virtually eliminate it from title contention, since no team with more than one league loss has ever gotten a piece of the championship.

Both teams boast stingy defenses. Texas is first in the league, although it normally starts eight sophomores on the defensive unit. The Longhorns aren't especially big but are very quick and fast.

Offensively, Tech hasn't faced a team with Texas' offensive potential. And they haven't faced Earl Campbell, who is possibly the best back in the nation.

MHS Crowns Homecoming With 40-7 Win

By TOM HALLIBURTON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Like an effective spray deodorant, mighty Monterey really took the worry out of being close of this festive occasion.

The Plainsmen celebrated their football homecoming affair by mauling crown rival Coronado 40-7 Friday night in a rather lopsided display at Lowrey Field.

Though a total of 9 points separated these two teams in the past four meetings, the eighth-ranked troops of coach James Odom never let up on the smaller Mustangs during this session. The offense exploded for 420 yards with steady balance and hard running from its backs. Meanwhile, the MHS defense turned in another sterling show, allowing 199 total yards and only one second-quarter score.

But by that point, Monterey already had established a 21-0 cushion, so homecoming queen Janna Lawson and her court weren't all that uptight about the outcome.

"We were very pleased with the way we controlled the line of scrimmage," said Odom afterwards. "Our offensive backs are coming on. They ran hard tonight."

Leave us mention that fullback Robby

McDaniel and tailback Jeff Harp did assist quarterback Ron Reeves with more help than usual. McDaniel belted 9 times for 72 yards and Harp busted loose for 80 yards in 18 carries. But lots of other scab-backs could have piled up a few nice trips behind that offensive line.

To make matters more lopsided, Coronado continued the fumble routine which plagued the Mustangs so dearly in last week's loss to Hereford. The Mustangs fell to 4-5 overall and 1-2 in district while Monterey moved on to 2-0 in the league and 7-0-1 with only Lubbock High and Hereford left on the regular schedule.

"I was just very disappointed in the way we played. We just fumbled the stinking ball again and that will kill you," said losing coach Don King, who also was displeased that Monterey was driving

Westerners' Comeback Catches Herd 21-17

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

HEREFORD — It was gut check time here Friday night for the Lubbock High Westerners.

And the Hub City group showed the Homecoming crowd that it had all the fortitude it took and more to pull out a narrow 21-17 come-from-behind victory over the Whitefaces in a District 4-AAAA football clash.

The Westerners, who found themselves trailing 17-14 with only 4:51 remaining in the game, put together a classy 70-yard drive to assure themselves of the win.

Aided by a controversial pass interference call, coach Rusty Talbot's crew marched methodically down the field to score the go-ahead TD with 1:07 left.

Facing third-and-25 from their own 15, quarterback Ricky Moreno dropped back and lofted a pass to end Mark Vickery.

It was a desperation heave, that's all it was.

However, on the play the official ruled that Mark Vickery had been interfered with while trying to reach the pass.

"It (the pass interference call) is simply a judgement ruling," said a relatively subdued, yet happy Westerner coach Rusty Talbot. "From where I was it looked like he (Vickery) was interfered with."

"I think we played extremely well under pressure. We stayed in the game all the way and were never discouraged. I think that shows the kind of competitors our kids are," Talbot said.

The interference call enabled the Westerners to get a new lease on life 24 yards down the field.

Moreno, who riddled the Whitefaces with key passes to tailback Ernest Day and Vickery along the way, marched his mates down to the three.

From there, Moreno simply turned and handed the ball to back David Rush, who bulled over for the score behind blocks by Roy Reyna and George Telles.

Following the score, the Lubbock High bench burst into what appeared to be the latest dance steps at your local disco. It was sheer havoc.

Day booted the extra point and LHS had its first loop win of the year. Despite its lowly 2-5-1 record, the Westerners are still very much alive in the loop race along with Monterey.

The Plainsmen and the Westerners meet Friday night in what could be the district showdown.

With two losses under their belt, the Whitefaces have been placed in the loop's bread line.

Hereford used the 199-yard rushing performance of Paul Bell to grab a 21-14 lead late in the game.

Bell, who reached the magical 1,000 yard rushing mark against the Westerners, tore loose for a 95-yard TD run to notch the score at 14-all score in the third quarter, following Reyna's point after.

Bell, one of the premier ball carriers in the district, took a pitch-out from quarterback Kelly Kitchens, burst into the LHS secondary and raced all the way for the score.

The play was simply student-body left, with all 10 of Bell's mates pulling for the sweep.

Hereford grabbed what appeared to be the advantage it needed to win the game with 4:52 remaining when Reyna booted a 21-yard field goal.

But the 17-14 Hereford advantage just wouldn't stand up.

Lubbock High grabbed a 14-7 halftime lead due mainly to the swift ball handling of Moreno.

Undefeated Stockton Rips Tribe 34-0

FORT STOCKTON (Special) — Keeping that illustrious No. 4 area ranking intact, the Fort Stockton Panthers ran their season record to 8-0 by massacring the Seminole Indians 34-0 here Friday night.

The Panthers started things off when quarterback Tate Randle ran eight yards for a score with 42 seconds left in the initial quarter. A second quarter safety and scoring loss from Randle to Rick McIvor sent the Panthers in at halftime with a 14-0 lead.

The third quarter didn't see the Indians leading any charges of their own. Randle ran for 50 yards and a quick score, then passed to Oscar Gallegos to run the score to 27-0.

The game's final tally came when Panther defensive back McIvor ran 20 yards with an interception for a touchdown with 1:02 left in the third stanza.

The Panthers outscored the Indians 287 to 30. The Indians outpassed their opponents 122-102 and generally kept the Panther defensive backs busy by tossing 35 passes, completing 11.

Unfortunately for Seminole, an additional six Indian passes were completed to Panther defensive backs. The six interceptions were joined by an additional fumble and the seven turnovers killed any chances Seminole held for a comeback.

The Indians fell to 2-6 on the season.

Eagles Drop Shallowater

Morton Falls To Bobcats

DIMMITT (Special) — The Morton Indians put a scare into the Dimmitt Bobcats for about one quarter here Friday but their good fortune ran out the last play of the period.

After taking a 14-7 lead into the second quarter, things went cold for the Indians and they fell before a steady, well-balanced attack by the Bobcats on a 28-14 margin.

Morton remains winless for the season, while Dimmitt upped its record to 5-3.

Indian halfback David Moore paced the visitors' attack with the two first quarter touchdowns sandwiched around a Dimmitt score.

Moore scored on a 42-yard run early in the period and from the 9-yard line on the final play of the quarter. Richard Kuehler kicked the extra points.

Bobcat quarterback Jack Stewart passed for three touchdowns on the night, the only three passed completed out of 10 attempts.

The first came on a 56-yard aerial to Tobin Touchstone in the first quarter. Halfback Thompson Mayberry took the next Stewart touchdown pass on an 81-yard scoring play in the second quarter.

After the intermission, Mayberry scored from the 14-yard line as Stewart returned a 56-yard pass interception. With 2:26 left in the game, Stewart tossed 64 yards to Reggie Washington, shook off three would-be tacklers at the 50.

Matt Howell kicked all four of the Bobcat extra points.

Despite only three pass completions, Dimmitt had 201 yards through the air and gained another 216 on the ground.

Meantime, Morton rushed for 243 yards and had 6 of 15 passes completed for 112 yards.

O'DONNELL (Special) — In a hard fought football game at O'Donnell Friday night, the home team Eagles toughed it out over the Shallowater Mustangs by a score of 12-9.

The Eagles are now 1-1 in district 5-A play. Shallowater is winless in three district attempts, but has nothing to be ashamed of when it comes to Friday's clash.

The visiting Mustangs drew first blood on a stunning 46 yard touchdown pass from quarterback Rodney Jackson to wide receiver Pete Alavardo.

The Shallowater defense hung tough and took the 7-0 score into the locker room at half time. The same defense started proceedings in the third quarter by sacking Eagle running back Danny Morales in the end zone for a safety.

But then O'Donnell started their move. A 1-yard run to paydirt by halfback John McLaurin tightened the gap to 9-6. Then, with 4:18 left in the game, McLaurin again made it into the end zone, this time on a 4 yard run, to give the Eagles the winning margin of 12-9.

McLaurin had 52 yards rushing on the evening, but was beaten statistics-wise by teammates Morales with 53 and Tony Acosta with 72.

Shallowater was hampered by Clay Dixon's collarbone injury and Curtis Lester's knee injury.

Hart Scores 48-6 Win Over S-E

SPRINGLAKE (Special) — Quarterback Eliazar Castillo ran for one touchdown and passed for two others to lead the Hart Longhorns to a 48-6 victory over the Springlake-Earth Wolverines Friday.

The Longhorns scored in the first period on a 5-yard run by fullback Glen Black and a 21-yard carry by Castillo. They stretched that to a 27-0 halftime lead as tailback Michael Finch scored from 6 yards out and Castillo connected on a 21-yard pass to end Johnny Newsome.

In the third quarter, Newsome tallied on an 8-yard sprint and Castillo threw 22 yards to Luther Isagurra for a touchdown. Isagurra intercepted a Wolverine pass in the fourth period and returned in 21 yards for a TD.

The Wolverines' points came in the final period on a 7-yard run by fullback Tim May.

The Longhorns, now 4-4 on the season and 1-2 in District 3-A, got 21 first downs, 316 yards running and 85 yards passing. The Wolverines, dropping to 1-2 in district and 2-6 overall, had 11 first downs, 115 yards on the ground and 75 yards in the air.

Loops Win 64-19 Over Bethel Unit

LOOP (Special)—Tailback Darren Ancinc scored four touchdowns and Clay Freeman ran for three more to pace Loop over Bethel Christian 64-19 in a six-man grid battle here Friday.

Ancinc scored on runs of 25, 22 and 28 yards, and also tallied on a 3-yard intercepted pass. That was the game's last score, with the 45-point rule going into effect.

Freeman, who is edging in on 1,400 yards rushing for the year, tallied on runs of 8, 14 and 2 yards.

Loop also scored TDs on a 26-yard pass from Gilbert Basquez to Bert Gibson and on an 8-yard carry by Leonard Nail.

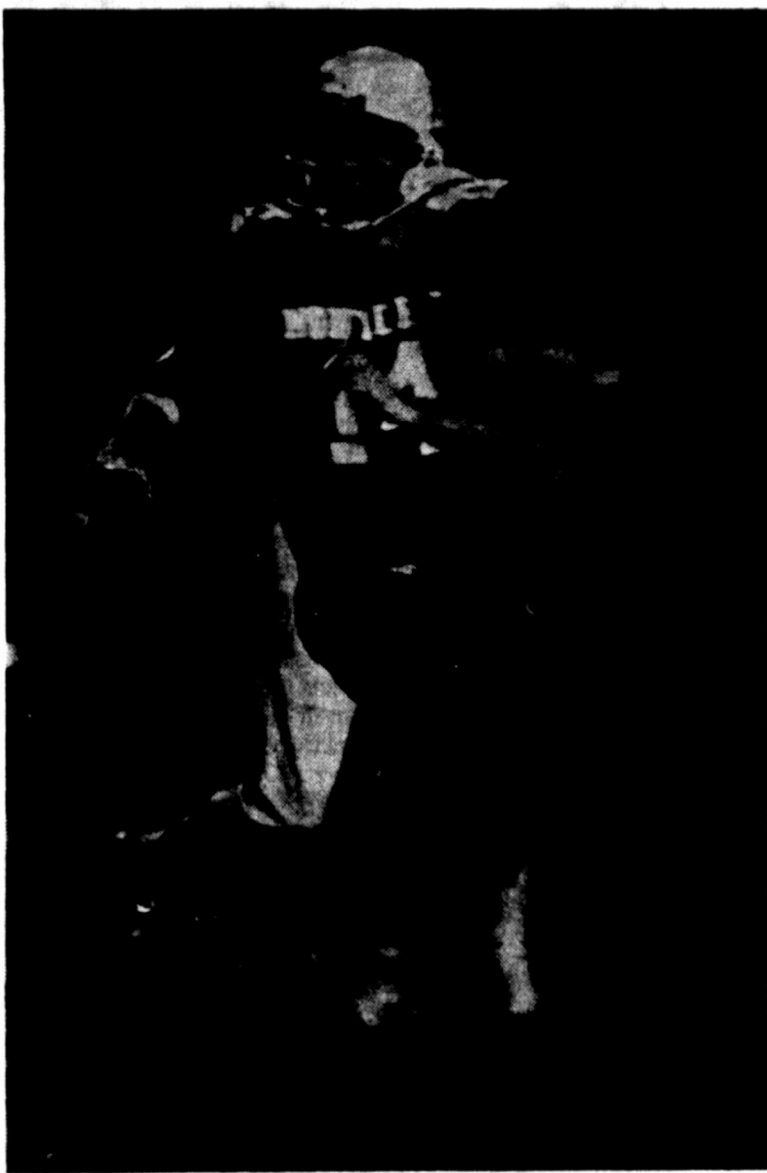

Steve McMillan scored all the Bethel touchdowns, on passes of 35 and 34 yards from quarterback Mike Bell and on a 38-yard run.

Antelopes Blanked By Amherst 58-0

WHITEFACE (Special) — The Amherst Bulldogs whipped the Whiteface Antelopes 58-0 Friday.

The Bulldogs logged an awesome 419 yards rushing and 22 first downs to the Antelopes' 115 yards on the ground and four first downs in the District 2-B South mismatch.

New Home Pops Wilson

WILSON (Special) — The New Home Leopards stayed undefeated in District 3-B West Friday by overpowering the Wilson Mustangs, 36-6.

The Leopards, district co-leaders with Borden County, now have a 4-0 slate in loop play. They stand 4-4 overall.

New Home's Isiah Roberson scored the game's first points on an 80-yard run in the first quarter. Wilson halfback Billy Nava came back, however, with a 14-yard touchdown sprint to keep the Mustangs in contention.

The Leopards then broke the contest open. Tony Rodriguez kicked a 20-yard field goal, and quarterback Marty McClintock hit Monte Maloney with a touchdown pass to give New Home a 17-6 halftime lead.

In the second half, Roberson scored on runs of 14 and 4 yards, and New Home halfback Tracy Smith raced in from 3 yards out.

New Home had 21 first downs, 195 yards rushing and 82 yards passing, to Wilson's 13 first downs, 130 yards rushing and 113 yards passing. The Mustangs, District 3-B defending champs, are now 2-2 in district and 3-6 on the year.

Dumas Pounds Out 36-3 Canyon Win

CANYON (Special) — The Dumas Demons managed to force the Canyon Eagles into flying right into canyon walls Friday night, scoring a devilish 36-3 victory.

Dumas is now 4-4 and 1-1 in district 1-AAA play. Canyon is 4-5 and 0-3 in district action.

The Demons drew first blood on a 61 yard pass play from quarterback Kent Hazen to end James Payne. Hazen kicked the point after. The first quarter ended with the Demons ahead by only one, as Canyon's Robert Scott scored on a one yard run, only to have the PAT fail.

From here on in it was all Dumas. Touchdown runs by Sammy Gardeny, Hazen and Bruce Town followed, joined by Hazen's additional two TD passes to Payne and Gary Wingo.

Dumas rushed for 266 yards and hit on 9 of 15 passes for 149 yards and the three TDs. Canyon rushed for 145 yards and connected on only 3 of 15 throws for 68 yards.

Dumas lost one of its two fumbles. Canyon fumbled four times, losing one, and also tossed three interceptions.

Slaton Nudges Frenship 7-0 In 5-AA Bout

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

SLATON — The battle of the undefeated had been billed as a miss-match, but it would be difficult indeed to find a state championship game that could match the intensity of Friday's Slaton-Frenship contest.

Seven previous times this year Slaton coach Ed Cook has worked his magic at intermission, and seven times the Red and Black Tigers have scored on their first possession of the second half.

It was no different here Friday, as his "Knute Rockne" rendition ran true for the eighth time, and his No. 8 ranked (both AP and UPI State polls) Tigers chalked up their eighth victory of the season, 7-0.

And they did it in impressive fashion, flying 75 yards in five plays with the second half kickoff. The scoring play was a picture-perfect bomb from Steve White to Tim Bourn.

On a second and 6 from the Frenship 44, White retreated to the pocket while Bourn ran a slant to the middle and had his man beat by three steps. White's aerial was right on target at the 15, and Bourn took it in full stride. Four steps later the 0-0 deadlock was broken.

The five-play drive had consumed only 1:48 of the clock, and when Steve Wood added the PAT, Slaton turned the contest over to its defense.

"Boy, they sure came to play, didn't they?" Cook asked moments after the 5-AA contest ended. "They really took it to us the first half. . . . Yes, I definitely think our passing game (5 of 12 for 128 yards, including three for 100 yards to Bourn) was the difference. It took us until after the half to adjust to their defense."

"They stunted a little more in the final period, and we were able to break Eblien (Brad, who had a game-high 54 yards on 7 carries, but managed 50 of that in the final 5:16) loose on some gainers."

Slaton drew 14 flags for 140 yards in the contest, and Cook was a bit puzzled by that. "We do get off the ball pretty quick and sometimes that causes us to get a lot of penalties, but I just don't know. . . . I'll have to wait and see the films before I make a judgment on that (the penalties)."

Across the way, there was not a dry eye to be found in the Frenship locker room. "What can I say?" asked the Blue and White Tiger mentor John Parchman. "It was a pretty good game, wasn't it? We've just got to get ready for Cooper now."

"No, they didn't change defenses at the half, they just were a little more fired up the second half."

At intermission Parchman was found outside the dressing room and was pleased with the way things were going, despite the 0-0 tie.

Frenship led in first downs 11-2 and had 145 total yards to only 21 for Slaton — and the host team had 41 yards through the airways the first 24 minutes, 16 of which Frenship controlled.

"If we can just continue to play this way, we'll make the break we need," Parchman said confidently.

That break came with just over five minutes gone in the final stanza, when Roy Cruz picked off a White aerial and returned it eight yards to the Slaton 37.

Facing fourth and 1, Ralph Gonzales broke for 17 yards, but on first down from the 11, Jimmy Rameriz' hit separated Gonzales from the pigskin and Chris Mosser came up with the recovery with 5:16 to play.

Behind the running of Eblien and White, whose twin brother Stan listened to the game from a hospital bed where he has been confined with a collapsed lung since last Saturday, the Tigers marched from their own 8 to the opposite 21.

On third down from that point, White tried a quarterback draw but forgot the ball, and Mark Turner recovered for Frenship.

Doug Townsend, who hit 5 of 21 aerials for 46 yards in the game but only 1 of 8 for minus four yards the second half, wasn't able to work enough magic.

Frenship moved to a first down at mid-field with 42 seconds left. After an incomplete, Frenship went for the halfback reverse, only to have Lonnie Ardrey and Cary Jones dump Lloyd Strong for a 9-yard loss, and two incompletions ended Frenship's hopes for an undefeated season.

The visitors converted 7 of 9 possession tries the first half, yet finished the game with 9 of 18, three of which came on penalties.

It was not until Gonzales' run that Frenship got in the plus category for ground yardage the second half, and Slaton did not reach that point for the game until John Johnson broke loose for a six-yard scamper with 8:26 left in the contest.

Frenship controlled the ball for 28:39 of the 48 minutes and ran off 60 plays, compared to only 47 for the hosts. Townsend led the visitors with 40 yards on 8 carries, and Gonzales had 37 yards on 6 tries. Johnson had 44 yards on 17 tries for Slaton, which is currently enjoying the longest winning streak in its history.

Friona Shocks Mules 13-7

FRIONA (Special) — The District 3-AA race was thrown wide open here Friday as the Friona Chieftains upset the favored Muleshoe Mules 13-7.

Wins by Littlefield and Dimmitt knotted the race for the top spot between them and the Chieftains and Mules. Until Friday, Muleshoe was undefeated after seven games.

There were no scores until the second half when Friona struck with its 13 points in the third period. The first touchdown came on a four-yard run by halfback Terry Wilcox. Kevin Pope kicked the extra point.

Then, with 17 seconds left in the quarter, Chieftain halfback Jeff Whiteside scampered 60 yards for the second score.

Friona was on the march again in the fourth quarter until Keith Hawkins stopped in front of a Whiteside pass. The Muleshoe defensive back ran 95 yards with the interception for the Mules' only score. George Villarreal kicked the extra point.

Friona combined an outstanding defensive effort with a bruising ground game for the victory.

The Chieftains rushed for 345 yards to only 93 for the Mules. In the fourth quarter, Friona allowed only one Muleshoe first down.

The Mules now stand 7-1 on the season and 2-1 in district play, while the Chieftains are 3-5 and 2-1.

Rotan Nudges Past Paducah

ROTAN (Special) — The home team Rotan Yellowhammers took a 15-7 lead at halftime, then watched as the Paducah Dragons gnawed at the lead piece by piece and eventually took the contest 19-15.

Paducah was down 15-13 in the final quarter before scoring the winning tally.

Statistics were more even than not. Rotan rushed for 155 yards and hit on 6 of 13 passes for 87 yards. The winning Dragons rushed for 140 yards and hit on three big passes out of eight attempts for a walloping 122 yards.

Petersburg Outlasts New Deal 23-14

NEW DEAL (Special) — The New Deal Lions, picked in pre-season polls to share the District 4-A championship with Petersburg, fell behind in the first quarter 9-0 Friday night to Petersburg, then mounted a comeback which almost justified their pre-season ranking before finally bowing, 23-14.

The Lions closed to within 16-14 in the fourth quarter, and lined up for a 2-point conversion try, only 3 yards short of tying the Buffaloes and stopping a six-game win streak that had carried Petersburg to first place in district play. But the conversion try was stopped short of the goal, and the visitors clung to that 16-14 lead.

Then, moving steadily downfield, Petersburg used up the rest of the game in driving to a final TD, scored by tailback Mike Jones from 1 yard out. The PAT by Ricky Juarez made it 23-14.

Jones carried 31 times for 162 yards Friday, upping his season's total to 1,748 yards, best on the South Plains this year.

Petersburg had moved to its 9-0 first quarter lead on the strength of a 2-point touchback when New Deal punter Kerry Miller was downed in his own end zone, and quarterback Mark Scarborough passed to tight end David Vaughn on a 20-yard TD pass play and Juarez added the PAT kick.

In the second quarter, a center snap out of the end zone gave the Lions their first 2 points.

In the third quarter, Scarborough's pass to Junior Castilleja was good for 25 yards and a TD and Juarez' PAT kick made it 16-2, Petersburg.

Then, New Deal tailback Tommy Thiel ran 4 yards to paydirt. The PAT attempt for 2 was no good, but, in the final quarter, after Jones fumbled near the Petersburg goal to give the Lions field position, Lion quarterback Kelly Howell passed to split end Tim Garland for a 10-yard TD pass play to close the gap to 16-14.

Nazareth Punctures Valley's Bubble

NAZARETH (Special) — Tailback Derwin Huseman has recovered from the injury which put him out of action for two weeks. He made that point perfectly clear Friday night by rushing for 157 yards and one touchdown and leading the Nazareth Swifts to a 14-6 upset of the third ranked Valley Patriots.

Valley only a week ago stunned No. 6 state ranked Motley County 34-0 and had ambitions of a three-way tie with the Matadors and Sudan for the 2-B North Zone title and a coin flip for the playoff rights.

Nazareth's quick 14-0 lead, aided by four Valley turnovers, blew all Patriot chances into the next county.

The initial score of the game came when Huseman broke through the line for a 20-yard scamper to paydirt. He did the extra point kicking honors himself to send his team into the locker room with a 7-0 lead.

Neil Wilhelm scored the first Swifts touchdown on a 13-yard run in the third quarter; Huseman again kicked the PAT.

Try as they may, the Patriots could not put points on the board until the final quarter, when Kenneth Helms scored on a two-yard plunge. Forced into going for the two point conversion, the attempted run failed to make it past the goal line.

First down statistics were pretty even, the Swifts earning 13 and the Patriots 12. And the passing stats were the same. Nazareth completed 2 of 6 for 18 yards, while Valley connected on 2 of 12 for a loss of ten.

But it was the surprising rushing of the Swifts which turned the trick, as Nazareth outruled Valley 256 yards to 139.

Nazareth lost the ball both times it fumbled. But Valley also lost two of four fumbles and suffered two interceptions to boot.

Jayton Outlasts Garden City 35-20

GARDEN CITY (Special) — Jayton stayed in the thick of the District 3-B East Zone race Friday with a 35-20 road victory over Garden City.

Despite getting only 95 yards rushing during the contest, the Jaybirds blew things open with a 21-point explosion in the first period.

And the victors, now 7-2 overall and 3-1 in league play, scored almost every conceivable way. First, tailback Gene Cleveland hit home from the one and booted the PAT.

Then, after Alex Medrano scored for Garden City, Robert Segura returned a kickoff 86 yards for a TD. Just as the first period was in its countdown stages, quarterback David Noles passed 45 yards to Randy Prince and Cleveland booted his third PAT.

Jayton added a 6-yard run by Segura in the second quarter and Prince booted the PAT to make it 28-6 at intermission. Noles passed 49 yards to Kenny Kidd in the third period and Cleveland added the 35th point.

Brothers Wayne and Kevin Hirt combined for two fourth-quarter TDs for the home team. Wayne ran 29 yards for one and then took a pass from Kevin for the PATs. With a mere 7 seconds left, Kevin passed to Wayne from 38 yards out.

The losers led in first downs 19-13 and in rushing yardage 231-95. Jayton hit 7 of 12 passes for 156 yards and GC hit 2 of 16 for 38 yards. Wayne Hirt carried 24 times for 154 yards. Jayton lost two fumbles and had one pass intercepted, but th Jaybirds picked off four aeriels. GC fell to 5-4, 1-3 readings.

Eagles Clinch Crown

ROPEVILLE (Special) — Ropesville's Eagles completed regular season play here Friday night with a perfect 9-0 season record, 6-0 in District 2-B, to take the South Zone championship of that District with a 27-0 romp over the Anton Bulldogs.

Anton dropped to 2-6-1 for the year and 1-4 in District play.

Quarterback Gary Means booted a 15-yard field goal in the first quarter and a 22-yarder in the second quarter to give the winners a 6-0 edge midway in the second stanza, then ran 9 yards for a TD and booted the PAT to give the winners a 13-0 lead at the half. He came back with a 14-yard TD pass play to Kenneth Chambers in the third quarter and one more PAT to make it 20-0, before retiring to the bench for a rest.

He also punted four times for a 42-yard average and shared the lead in tackles on defense with fellow linebacker Steve Sims.

Ropesville substituted quarterback Randy Lowrie for Means in the final stanza, and he passed 16 yards to wingback Doug Willis for another TD. Means encoored for the PAT, giving a final score of 27-0.

Ropesville totaled 239 yards rushing and 48 passing for 21 first downs. Anton had only 2 first downs going into the final stanza, but quarterbacks Jimmy Davis and Steve Green kept firing passes, and the Bulldogs ended up with 13 completions in 34 attempts and 10 first downs, despite a minus 26 yards rushing total. Only one Anton pass was intercepted, that one by John Cowan to set up one of the winner's TDs.

Borden County Drubs Cougars

KLONDIKE (Special) — The Borden County Coyotes stomped the Klondike Cougars 50-12 Friday in a District 3-B West game.

The win upped the Coyotes' district record to 4-0 and kept them tied with New Home for the loop lead.

Klondike kept the game close through the first half. The Coyotes scored touchdowns on runs of 23 yards by Travis Rinehart and 1 and 6 yards by Craig Peterson. But the Cougars tallied on a 38-yard carry by Dennis Heald and a 23-yard TD pass from Tommy Hayes to Bobby Hanson.

In the second half, however, the Coyotes added 28 points to their 22-12 intermission advantage.

Eurdist Rinehart scored on a 1-yard run for Borden County and Peterson contributed touchdowns on runs of 5 and 3 yards. Also, Blaine Dyess hit Peterson with a 37-yard pass for a touchdown.

The Coyotes, now 5-4 for the season, got 25 first downs, 360 yards rushing and 85 passing. Klondike, 0-4 in district and 2-7 overall, had 11 first downs, 100 yards rushing and 52 yards passing.

Bulldogs Bite Ralls 58-28

SPUR (Special) — The stars were out for Spur Friday, with several standouts leading the Bulldogs to a 58-28 slaughter of visiting Ralls.

Quarterback Eugene Solis passed for three touchdowns and ran for another, all in the first half, as Spur jumped to a 38-7 halftime lead.

The TD throws were 26 yards to Ricky Vasquez, 15 yards to Alton Fisher and 49 yards to wingback Paul Bethany. Solis ran one in from the 10.

Bethany also scored on TD runs of 16 and 26 yards. Fisher scored on runs of 1 and 10 yards.

Other Spur scoring effort came on a 73-yard interception by defensive halfback Duke Hill.

Fullback Michael Sales scored on runs of 1 and 4 yards for Ralls. Ralls quarterback David Heinrich also ran for a 5-yard TD and passed 5 yards to John Pearson for another score.

The District 4-A contest leaves Spur at 3-6, with Ralls sporting a 1-7 record for the year.

Stanton Plains Cowboys

PLAINS (Special) — The first Stanton offensive effort told the story here Friday, as the visitors opened Plains 25-0 and dampened Cowboy hopes for a District 5-A crown.

The first time the Buffaloes had the ball, Tommy Morrow cranked up and tossed a 63-yard TD bomb to Oscar Perez. Collie Huffman's PAT boot made it 7-0 with 10:04 left in the opening quarter, and the Buffs were never threatened.

Going into the game, Plains was the No. 5 ranked A team in the area and had been building toward what the Cowboys hoped would be a crucial shootout with Seagraves next week.

Plains is now 6-2-1. The league upset win leaves Stanton at 6-2. Plains is 2-1 in loop strife, while the Buffs evened their league ledger at 1-1.

Huffman kicked a 23-yard field goal with only 18 seconds left until intermission, to make it 10-0 at halftime.

After a scoreless third period, the Buffaloes struck for 15 fourth quarter points to douse all Cowboy hopes.

With 4:10 left, tailback Todd Smith rambled 28 yards for a TD, and Russell Mims booted the extra.

Smith iced it with 49 ticks left in the game by slamming home with a 1-yard run. A 2-point conversion pass from kicker Huffman to Bob Jones made for the final 20-0 count.

Stanton rolled up 15 first downs and 248 yards rushing. The Buffaloes added 157 yards through the air, connecting on six of 10 aerials.

Plains had 10 first downs, 159 yards rushing and 48 via the air.

Sudan Drubs Bobcats 69-6

SMYER (Special) — The Sudan Hornets, ranked No. 3 in area Class B, logged a 69-6 win over the Smyer Bobcats Friday.

The Hornets, of District 2-B, got their first three touchdowns from halfback Joel Williams on runs of 35, 16 and 15 yards.

Quarterback Darren Provence also scored on a 1-yard plunge and tossed TD passes of 20 and 25 yards to Edgar Tamplin, before the Bobcats, a District 2-B South team, got on the board.

Smyer's only points came late in the second quarter on a 1-yard run by halfback Tyke Taylor.

In the second half, Sudan scored on carries of 43 yards by John Miles, 10 yards by Mike Jones and 56 yards by Bob Graves. Ricky Stanford also returned a punt 40 yards for a TD.

The Hornets are now 7-1-1 for the season. The Bobcats are 0-9.

Bailey-Led 'Dogs Drop Cooper 28-7

COOPER (Special) — Clifford Bailey scored three touchdowns here Friday to lead Taboka to a 28-7 victory over Cooper.

Bailey scored on dashes of 20 and 41 yards in the first half and added a 4-yard TD in the third period.

Taboka scored a touchdown in each quarter. The score was 14-7 at halftime.

The Bulldogs got their first half points on Bailey's two longest jaunts and extra point kicks by Ed Roberson.

Cooper's only score of the night came in the second quarter when halfback David Martinez sliced in from the 10. Rodney Warlick booted the PAT.

Quarterback Roberson scored on a 20-yard run in the fourth quarter, then booted his fourth extra point of the game to make for the final margin.

Wellman Clinches Title

WELLMAN (Special) — Joe Nunez and Lewis Arrezola scored three touchdowns each as the Wellman Wildcats beat the Southland Eagles 71-46 Friday to clinch the District 3-B North six-man title.

The victory kept the Wildcats the area's only undefeated six-man team. Wellman is now 5-0 in district play and 9-0 overall.

Matadors Nip Happy In 2-B Tilt 14-12

MATADOR (Special) — Ranked No. 4 in area B district and No. 10 in the state, the Motley County Matadors went into Friday night's clash with the Happy Cowboys trying to bounce back after last week's 34-0 loss at the hands of Valley.

They pulled it off with a score of 14-12. The score, coupled with Valley's upset at the hands of Nazareth, has placed the Matadors in a brighter position.

The PATs proved the difference Friday as Happy jumped off to a smiling 12-0 lead on scoring runs by Sammy Moore and Stanley Dietz in the first quarter. The Cowboys went for two both times. Both times they were stymied.

The second quarter saw Motley County break loose with a 65-yard scoring run by Matador quarterback Harold Dempsey. Dempsey's conversion pass to Robert Tyke Taylor.

In the second half, Sudan scored on carries of 43 yards by John Miles, 10 yards by Mike Jones and 56 yards by Bob Graves. Ricky Stanford also returned a punt 40 yards for a TD.

The Hornets are now 7-1-1 for the season. The Bobcats are 0-9.

Bailey scored on dashes of 20 and 41 yards in the first half and added a 4-yard TD in the third period.

Taboka scored a touchdown in each quarter. The score was 14-7 at halftime.

The Bulldogs got their first half points on Bailey's two longest jaunts and extra point kicks by Ed Roberson.

Cooper's only score of the night came in the second quarter when halfback David Martinez sliced in from the 10. Rodney Warlick booted the PAT.

Quarterback Roberson scored on a 20-yard run in the fourth quarter, then booted his fourth extra point of the game to make for the final margin.

Wellman is now 5-0 in district play and 9-0 overall.

Wellman rolled up a big 36-4 halftime lead, with running backs Nunez and Arrezola each contributing TDs in the first and second quarters. Nunez scored on runs of 15 and 8 yards, and Arrezola on carries of 9 and 25 yards.

Rodney Brashears also tallied for the Wildcats, on a 6-yard sprint.

Southland's only points of the first half came on a 12-yard pass from Nathan Wheeler to Eddie Dasil.

The Eagles opened the third quarter with two quick touchdowns on runs of 12 and 70 yards by John Sertuche. But the Wildcats kept their composure and burst for four consecutive TDs.

Hagerman Spoils Tatum Show 22-0

TATUM, N.M. (Special) — The Hagerman Bobcats were ranked No. 1 in the New Mexico district 4-A. Tatum's Coyotes had the No. 2 ranking — and the home field. It was expected to be a memorable battle, but poor play on Tatum's part turned the game into a dud.

The Bobcats ran their record to 8-1 with the 22-0 victory.

The first half proved a sparkling defensive game. The score at the half was knifed at 3-0, and the fans were figuring up penetrations. But Hagerman capitalized on Tatum's five second half turnovers to score 15 in the third quarter and an additional 7 in the final frame.

The Bobcats' TDs were scored by running back Robert Medina, end Robert Luciano and fullback Errillio Olive.

Plainview Drops 39-6 Bomb On Harvesters

PLAINVIEW (Special) — It was a harvest of shame Friday for Pampa as the Plainview Bulldogs took total control of a non-conference football game here and blistered the Harvesters 39-6.

Call it an omen, but things weren't looking too bright for the visitors with 19 seconds elapsed and the 'Dogs up 6-0, thanks to a 90-yard broken field run by Billy Williams on the opening kickoff.

Ralph Hayes failed to convert but it wouldn't have mattered this night. Minutes later, Royce Coleman burst off tackle and the fullback rambled 37 yards for Plainview's second score. Hayes added the point, and Pampa trailed, 13-0.

The Harvesters got on the scoreboard early in the second quarter after Rick Dougherty threw 30 yards to David Green for a touchdown, capping an 80-yard drive.

But Plainview matched that score minutes later with a 63-yard drive, topped off with quarterback Jamie McAlister's 21-yard dash. Hayes added the PAT to make it 20-6 Plainview at the half.

Richard Pena got the scoring going for Plainview on the 'Dogs first possession of the third quarter when he plunged in from a yard out, ending an eight-play, 76-yard drive. Hayes was true again, and Plainview led 27-6.

A Pampa fumble minutes later shut down a Harvester drive at the Plainview 9-yard line. The visitors fumbled again in the quarter, and the Bulldogs missed 10 yards to score, primarily on the strength of Harold Uddley's 24-yard run that moved the ball to the 1. Quarterback Bruce Wesley tossed to Jay Miller for the final two and the score. The Bulldogs led 34-6.

The 'Dogs weren't through in the fourth quarter, as they moved 60 yards in 11 plays, capped by a 27-yard scoring run. The kick was good.

The 'Dogs scored 14-0 in the final quarter, with a 49-yard Uddley dash and another apparent score by Williams nullified by penalty.

Dougherty was sacked 11 times by the Plainview defense, with losses totaling 66 yards. However, the Harvester quarterback hit on 10 of 15 passes for 247 yards and no interceptions. Harvester missed 31 Pampa with 11 yards yet to go in 31 attempts, while Plainview missed up 19 first downs, 976 yards total.

Plainview picked up four Pampa fumbles. Coleman was the hammer for Plainview, amassing 117 yards on 11 carries. McAlister picked up 60 yards on 8 carries for Plainview.

The win was the seventh straight for Plainview over Pampa, and it brought the Bulldogs to 5-3 overall, while the Harvesters dropped to 1-7.

Whirlwinds Drop 'Lopes

FLOYDADA (Special) — Abernathy fought Floydada to a dead draw in the first quarter here Friday but after that the Whirlwinds could do no wrong and ended with a 33-0 shutout of the Antelopes.

The Floydada win left the District 4 AA race in a tie for the second spot, behind Idaolu, between Floydada and Tulia.

Scoring was pretty well evenly divided among the Whirlwinds as quarterback Todd Vickers contributed two touchdowns and halfbacks Larry Jones and Ricky Day, as well as fullback Joe Covington, contributed one apiece.

Vickers' first touchdown came on a 18-yard keeper with 10:32 left in the second quarter. Midway in the third period, he scored again on another 13-yard run.

Junior Cuevas kicked the extra point to cap a 15-play, 80-yard drive.

Jones went three yards off tackle with 6:59 remaining in the first half to put the Antelopes up 12-0. Six minutes later Day scored on a three-yard run around right end. Vickers passed to Kary Helms for the two-point conversion.

Covington's touchdown came on a two-yard run straight up the middle with 9:51 left in the game.

Floydada ended the night with 351 total yards, compared with 65 for the Antelopes.

The Whirlwinds boosted their record to 6-3 for the year, while Abernathy fell to 1-7-1.

Clovis Upends Cavemen

CARLSBAD, N.M. (Special) — The Clovis Wildcats scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to upset the Carlsbad Cavemen 14-8 Friday in New Mexico District 4-AAAA action.

The win virtually assures the Wildcats a district title.

Through the first three quarters, it was a stalemate between the Cavemen, New Mexico's No. 2-ranked AAAA team, and Clovis, rated No. 4 in state polls.

In the final period, however, Clovis quarterback Layne Walker raced 37 yards for a touchdown and with minutes to go mauling halfback Cedric Williams led the victory with a 2-yard TD carry.

The Wildcats are now 7-3 for the year and 2-0 in district. The Cavemen are 7-2 for the season and 2-1 in loop play.

Jaguars Pounce Raiders 74-24

GUTHRIE (Special) — The Guthrie Jaguars beat the Lueders Raiders 74-24 Friday.

The Jaguars, led by Darrell King, Bobby Hemphill, John Piper and Jimmy Hinojosa, rolled up a 44-12 halftime lead in their homecoming game. Lueders' TDs were scored by Kyle Clifton and Lloyd Windrow.

Jill Huey, a Guthrie senior, was crowned homecoming queen.

Raiders Tackle UT In SWC Title Tilt

 Little can be said about Campbell that hasn't already been said. He's currently second in the country with 899 yards and a 150-yard average per game, figures that top SWC rushers.
 "I don't believe there's a team in the country that wouldn't like to have him, college or pro," Tech defensive coordinator Bill Parcells said.
 With kicker Russell Erxleben and punt returner Johnnie Johnson, Texas has one of the country's finest all-around kicking games around.
 "Erxleben is right up there with all the real good kickers," Tech defensive coach Bill Parcells said. "He does everything well."
 Erxleben has a 67-yard field goal to his credit, a tie for the longest in NCAA history, and has a 46.6 punting average, which equals his nation-leading figure of 1976.

 Texas' offense, which has shown steady improvement after a series of injuries cut into the ranks of veteran players, is expected to be under the direction of Mark Johnson, although Tres Adams will play some.
 Sloan said Allison, who has gotten better each day this week, will make the trip and suit up. How much playing time he receives will be determined by how he looks in pregame warmups.
 The Raiders will have three sophomores in their interior line—guards Larry Martin and Joe Walstad and tackle Ken Walter. Walstad is normally a center, but will play this game in place of the injured Greg Mahoney, who had taken over for the injured Greg Davis four games ago.

EARTH-MOVER—The big man in the Longhorns' rise to the No. 1 spot in the nation is runningback Earl Campbell. The 220-pound fullback has rushed for 899 yards this season, an average of 7 yards every time he gets the football. For his career at Texas, Campbell has picked up 3,598 yards rushing and has a chance to become only the fourth player in collegiate history to rush for more than 4,000 yards.

Cubs Pull 14-13 Surprise On Tors

BROWNFIELD (Special) — There is joy in Brownfield.
 The Cubs won their first game of the year here Friday, coming from behind in the fourth quarter to nip Lamesa 14-13.
 With the Cubs trailing 13-7, quarterback Duane Sales spotted Jay Bryant and connected with the end on a 6-yard TD strike. Danny McCurmen then drilled the extra point which raised the Cub record to 1-8 for the year.
 The District 3-AAA league contest leaves Lamesa with a 2-7 record overall. The teams were knotted 7-7 at half-time.
 Lamesa scored first when halfback Glen McCurley recorded a 6-yard TD run. Clay Wright kicked the PAT to make it 7-0 in the second quarter.
 Brownfield retaliated with a 23-yard

TD slash by tailback David Harrell. McCurmen booted the extra.
 Lamesa went ahead on Bennett's 4-yard run in the fourth period, but Wright missed the important extra point kick.

Dragons Shut Out Sands In 3-B

ACKERLY (Special) — The fire breathing Dragons of Dawson High School turned the Sands Mustangs into char-broiled horseflesh with a 7-0 victory on the Mustangs' home field.
 The only score of the game came on a lengthy end run in the second quarter, but it was more than enough to send the Mustangs to their ninth straight defeat.
 Dawson is now 2-6.
 The Dragons rushed for 180 yards and completed 5 of 11 passes for 30 yards. Sands ran for 126 yards, with Jackie McDonald the leading rusher with 66 yards. The Mustangs completed three of 16 passes for 30 yards, and threw one interception.

Kress Keeps Clean Slate, Bops Bovina

BOVINA (Special) — The Kress Kangeroos protected their clean District 3-A slate Friday night with a 19-7 win over Bovina.
 Kress now stands 7-1 for the year, 3-0 in District play, while Bovina stands 3-5 and 0-3 respectively.
 Kress runningback Eddie Johnson put a pair of TDs on the scoreboard for the winners in the second and third quarters, the first coming on a 7-yard carry, and the second on a 35-yard romp, to give Kress a 19-0 edge midway in the third quarter.
 Bovina's Ruben Salazar scored from 4 yards out in the final stanza, and David Murphy booted the PAT for the only Mustang points.
 Kress led in yardage rushing, 252-208, in yards passing, 30-0, and the teams traded turnovers 1-1.

Erxleben Claims Game Will Not Be Close

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Longhorn with the bionic leg, Russell Erxleben, who led the nation in punting last year and is leading it in field goals this year, disagreed with people who say today's game with Texas Tech will be close.
 "A lot of people still don't think we're No. 1," Erxleben told the UT student newspaper. "We just have to show them we are."
 "They say it will be close. But this team doesn't think so. We'll show some people."
 Tech is ranked No. 14.
 Erxleben averaged 46.6 yards a punt last year, precisely the same average he has this year but he hasn't had to punt often enough — only 22 times in six games — to qualify for national statistical purposes.
 He has kicked 12 of 18 field goals this year, including ones of 67 (setting the NCAA record) and 64 yards.

Dunbar Hosts Pass-Minded Mustang Unit

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 An aerial display is what local football fans could witness tonight at Lowrey Field starting at 7:30 p.m.
 Nope, the Flying Punzars aren't coming to town; the Sweetwater Mustangs are.
 The Ponies are slated to meet Dunbar. And Panther coach Van Jefferson says his club just may match the visitors heave for heave.
 "I don't know how many times we are going to throw," coach Van Jefferson said. "But if we need to, we might throw on every down."
 On their way to 4-2-1 season and 2-1 District 3-AAA records, the Panthers have not been what one would refer to as an awesome passing team. Quarterback Walter Alsbrooks has been the most prolific chucker, hitting eight of 26 passes for 146 yards.

Wingback Kenneth James has connected on a pair of tosses for 61 yards.
 What does stand out, though, is the fact that Dunbar throwers have been intercepted only three times, while its defense has picked off 10 aeriels.
 "Our (defensive) backfield is one of our strengths," Jefferson said. "And they (Sweetwater) are going to have problems moving against it."
 Jefferson said he had a couple of "surprises" for the Mustangs, but he would not say exactly what they are. "They'll find out," he said.
 Sweetwater's passing attack is led by quarterback Matt Patterson, who Jefferson calls a "good passer who hits the short ones extremely well."
 Patterson's favorite target this season has been wingback Robert Allen who is also one of the Mustangs' leading runners. He is averaging 9 yards per carry.
 "Mostly they (Sweetwater) just like to hit Allen fast and let him try to pick up some ground on his own," Jefferson said. Allen, a 10.2 sprinter, is the fastest member of the Sweetwater squad.
 Joining Allen and Patterson in the Sweetwater backfield is Everett Todd, a durable fullback who carries the ball as many as 25 times each outing.
 "Todd is their power runner," Jefferson pointed out. "And we need to stop him."
 The '76 season has not been a great one for the Mustangs, a team with a 4-3 season record. Sweetwater lost its opening game (a 7-3 decision to Breckenridge) and commenced to roll up three straight wins before losing to Lamesa 14-10 on the opening night of the loop chase.
 Following a win over Brownfield, the Mustangs were ambushed by Snyder 24-15. During the Snyder game, Sweetwater was burned twice by long kickoff returns, one a 101-yard dash and the other a 97-yard burst.

 So with two losses under its belt, Sweetwater is out of any chance at winning the crown.
 On the other hand, Dunbar looms as one of the outside contenders to overtake leader Lake View and capture at least a share of the laurels.
 "I think we are in the driver's seat," Jefferson explained. "We can determine the fate of all the teams in the district. We can win the rest of our games and tie. Or if Estacado is beaten and we can beat Lake View, we can win it outright."
 But first of all, the Panthers have to get by Sweetwater.

Bodine Grabs Pole Position

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Defending champion Geoff Bodine of Bellingham, Mass., missed his track record Friday but won the pole position for the 250-lap Modified half of Sunday's $107,960 Cardinal 500 Classic doubleheader.
 Bodine hit a top speed of 92.027 miles per hour in a Pinto at Martinsville Speedway in earning the No. 1 spot for the first of two 250-lap races. The Modified race will be followed by a Late Model Sportsman race.
 Ron Bouchard of Fitchburg, Mass., also driving a Pinto, won the outside front row spot for the Modified race with a qualifying speed of 91.648 mph, followed by Donald Worley of Rocky Mount, Va., who qualified at 91.635 mph in a Monza.
 Winning the fourth and fifth spots in the Modified event were Carl Stevens of Rehoboth, Mass., and Bob Polverari of West Springfield, Mass. Stevens averaged 91.079 mph in a Pinto and Polverari 90.405 mph in a Vega.
 Bodine's track qualifying record is 92.777 mph, set last year.
 The Modified qualifying had been scheduled Thursday but was postponed a day because of rain. The first 20 spots were decided Friday for both Sunday races.
 The last 20 spots in each race will be determined in six 25-lap qualifying races Saturday.

Texas Makes First Defense Of National Lead

By The Associated Press
Coach Fred Akers remembers hearing this big cheer toward the end of the third quarter as his Texas Longhorns were in the process of beating Southern Methodist last week.

"I didn't know what was going on," he said. "Then I looked at the scoreboard to check the clock and they had it printed up there. It didn't really hit me at the time because my first concern was calling a play."

"It was Michigan's 16-0 loss to Minnesota, paving the way for Texas to climb from second place to the top of The Associated Press college football ratings. The upset of No. 1-ranked Michigan set Texas supporters to dancing in the aisles but it didn't give Akers a swelled head.

"If we're No. 1 I'll accept it," said Texas' first-year coach, "but I was very proud to have been the No. 2 team."

Before the season, the pundits said the Longhorns would be lucky to be the No. 2 team in the Southwest Conference, much less the entire nation.

But here they are, 5-5-1 under Darrell Royal a year ago, putting their 6-0 record on the line today for the first time as the No. 1 team in the country in a home game against 14th-ranked Texas Tech. It is the weekend's only pairing of Top Twenty teams.

Meanwhile, runner-up Alabama is in Jackson, Miss., for a night game with Mississippi State, third-ranked Ohio State entertains Wisconsin, No. 4 Oklahoma visits Kansas State and fifth-ranked Notre Dame hosts Navy.

Rounding out the Top Ten, Michigan, the No. 6 team, is at home against Iowa while Virginia Tech is at No. 7 Kentucky for a night game, Rice at No. 8 Arkansas, Miami of Florida at No. 9 Penn State and No. 10 Southern Cal at California.

In the Second Ten, Southern Methodist is at No. 11 Texas A&M, No. 12 Nebraska at Oklahoma State, Tulane at No. 13 Pitt, Missouri at No. 15 Colorado, Wake Forest at No. 16 Clemson, Arizona at No. 17 Brigham Young, No. 18 Florida at Auburn, No. 19 Minnesota at Indiana and North Texas State at No. 20 Florida State under the lights.

If Texas is confounding the experts, the Longhorns also are surprising Akers. Although he spent the last two years as Wyoming's head coach, Akers was familiar with Texas' personnel, having recruited some of them during nine years as a Longhorn assistant.

"I didn't expect to have this kind of season based on what we knew last spring, last summer and even during pre-season camp," he says. "We had some fine players, but we knew we had a depth problem and no established quarterback."

So Akers made a move that paid quick dividends. He scrapped Royal's famed Wishbone formation in favor of the Veer, which has two setbacks and two wide receivers.

"I felt we'd probably have to get away from the wishbone for personnel reasons," he explains. "We didn't have the backs to run the wishbone consistently. But we knew we had a great runningback in Earl Campbell—I think he's the best back ever to come out of this state—and we knew we had to get him the football in several ways—inside, outside, throwing the ball. In the veer, it's not easy to gang up on any one particular player."

But Campbell isn't the whole story. "The defense has been great," Akers adds, "and that was one of our question marks before the season. Brad Shearer has got to be one of the premier tackles in the country and we only have two seniors and two juniors starting on defense."

Texas Tech will probably have to face Texas without big-play quarterback Rodney Allison, who has been out for a month with a broken bone in his leg.

"Prior to all our injuries (the Red Raiders have lost three offensive guards in addition to Allison), we were as good, if not better, than last year," says coach Steve Sloan. "Our defense has been a little better, but our offensive situation isn't as good because of the injuries."

While Texas-Texas Tech looms as the weekend's top game, a great individual battle is on tap at Stillwater, Okla., where Oklahoma State entertains Nebraska in one of five games to be televised regionally by ABC-TV.

It will be a head-to-head—feet-to-feet pairing of the Big Eight's top runners and two of the nation's leaders. Oklahoma State's Terry Miller ranks third nationally with 149 yards a game while Nebraska's I.M. Hipp is fourth with 136.9.

A week ago, Miller became the most prolific runner in Big Eight history. His 149 yards against Kansas gave him 4,117 for his career, surpassing the 4,071 of Oklahoma's Joe Washington.

"I didn't have a computer in my head, so I didn't know how many yards I needed," Miller said. "But I couldn't have done it without my teammates. They've got to get most of the credit. I know there have been a lot of good backs and I think you've got to look at all the circumstances they played under. I'm really not an emotional guy, but there was a feeling down inside of pride. I feel good."

Mississippi State coach Bob Tyler says there isn't a whole lot he can say about second-ranked Alabama that football fans don't already know as the Bulldogs try to recover from a disappointing Southeastern Conference season.

"What can I say about Alabama," Tyler said as he put the finishing touches on the battle plan for the showdown in Jackson. "They have very good size in the offensive line and it's hard to tell from watching films what their best game of this season was."

Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant said Mississippi State's 3-4 overall record didn't provide a true picture of the Bulldogs and that the Crimson Tide had a good chance of winning only "if we go down there and play the kind of football I think we are capable of playing."

"If we don't then we won't win," Bryant said. "It's as simple as that."

Bryant, college football's winningest active coach, sends his once beaten team against the Bulldogs in the nightcap of a Memorial Stadium SEC doubleheader that has LSU battling Mississippi in a regionally televised afternoon game.

Alabama is a two-touchdown favorite over a faltering Mississippi State team that had been picked to battle the Tide for the SEC title. Bryant's squad has won five straight since losing to Nebraska while the Bulldogs have lost three in a row and are 0-2 in Conference play.

Joe Gattuso, the heart of Navy's ground attack with 820 yards, will be a marked man when the Middies invade Notre Dame Stadium. So will Bob Leszczynski, a junior quarterback who last year keyed a near-upset against Notre Dame.

And high on the list of Irish defenders who would like nothing better than stopping them cold in their tracks is all-America defensive end Ross Brown, a serious contender for the Heisman Trophy.

"I guess it would be a symbol for all the linemen if I won the Heisman Trophy," says Browner of the most prestigious college football award that usually gravitates toward the offensive backfield. "To me, it's an honor just to be in consideration. I'm always striving for better things. I've always dreamed of making something of myself."

Gattuso, a senior tailback, racked up

250 yards as the Middies walloped William & Mary 42-17 last week. He also is Navy's No. 2 pass receiver with 15 receptions for 109 yards and has completed two of four option passes, one of them a 20-yard scoring pass last Saturday.

Navy, 4-3 this season, came within inches of upsetting the Irish last year at Cleveland. With Notre Dame leading 27-21, Leszczynski led the Middies deep into Irish territory in the closing moments. On a crucial fourth-down play from the Irish 15, a pass to split end Steve Scott at the goal line was deflected at the last second by Irish defender Dave Wayner.

Ohio State rules as a 22-point favorite to keep Wisconsin winless in Ohio Stadium and protect its sole Big Ten Conference lead. The giant OSU horseshoe, which will be filled for the 55th straight game, was built 55 years ago. Wisconsin has suffered 15 defeats and two ties in 17 efforts in the stadium.

Ohio State, 6-1 overall, is on another countdown toward a Big Ten summit meeting with Michigan to settle the league title and a berth in the Rose Bowl. The Buckeyes are 4-0 in the conference and the Wolverines 3-1.

Wisconsin, mainly because of its light, but swift defense, has started with a 5-2 record. The Badgers are 3-2 in the Big Ten.

Aggies Return Home To Take On Mustangs

By The Associated Press
The Texas Longhorns, who were ticketed for a fourth-place finish in the Southwest Conference this year if they got a lot of good bounces, put their No. 1 ranking on the line today against a Texas Tech team with a week's rest and their inspirational leader back in uniform.

"We try to work on things we can control and not be concerned with what we can't control, with polls being one of those things," says Texas coach Fred Akers.

"Texas Tech as a football team represents plenty of incentive as far as I'm concerned. We still have a demanding schedule ahead of us."

Michigan was shocked 16-0 by Minnesota last Saturday as an example of what can happen to top-ranked teams in The Associated Press poll. Tech is an eight-point underdog but senior quarterback Rodney Allison, who broke a bone in his leg Sept. 16, was limping around in practice all week. It has been a long grind (five straight road games) but I think our players handled it well."

The Aggies' only loss was a 41-3 humiliation to Michigan. A&M is a 17-point favorite.

In other SWC games, Arkansas is a 29-point pick over Rice in Houston and Texas time since Sept. 10. A crowd of 53,000 will overflow the 49,700-seat Kyle Field Stadium as the Aggies host Southern Methodist.

"It's good to be home, man, we've been gone a long time," said Aggie coach Emory Bellard of his 11th-ranked Cadets. "When you continually play on the road you lose the atmosphere of your home campus. . . it has been a long grind (five straight road games) but I think our players handled it well."

as Christian is a 13-point underdog to Houston in a game to be played at Fort Worth.

Tech Coach Steve Sloan said Texas deserved the No. 1 ranking and not necessarily because of superb tailback Earl Campbell.

"Texas has the best kicking game I've ever seen," said the former Alabama quarterback. "Russell Erlebein (who leads the nation in placekicking and has a 67-yard field goal) is the ultimate weapon."

Joe Louis Being Moved To Houston

LAS VEGAS (AP)—Arrangements were being made late Friday to transport former heavyweight champion Joe Louis from a hospital here to a Houston hospital where he will be under the care of noted heart surgeon Michael DeBakey.

Louis, 63, was rushed to the Sunrise Medical Center late last Saturday after suffering chest pains at his home.

The Brown Bomber's ailment was diagnosed earlier this week as a "dissecting aortic aneurysm," or a weakness in the wall of the aorta. The aorta is one of the body's major arteries.

A spokesperson for the hospital here said Louis' condition improved slightly Friday.

He had been listed in guarded condition, but he was termed "stabilized" late in the day.

Louis' wife, Martha, is making the arrangements for the flight to Houston. A local physician will accompany the former champ on the trip.

The hospital said only that Louis will go to Houston "within the next few days."

DeBakey has already reviewed Louis' x-rays, and has indicated that "surgery is most likely," according to the hospital spokesperson.

Louis' adopted daughter, Janet, 15 months, remains hospitalized at Sunrise in critical condition. The tot fell into the pool in the backyard of the Louis residence on Oct. 3. She was rescued by members of an emergency squad, but remains in a coma.

Louis, thought by many boxing experts to be the best heavyweight of all time, held the title longer than any other man—12 years.

ENMU Hopes To Snap Losing String Tonight

ADA, Okla. (Special) — After a season-opening win, the Eastern New Mexico Greyhounds have lost six straight games but hope to snap the slump against East Central Oklahoma tonight.

The Greyhounds of coach Jack Scott dropped a 24-20 decision to Central (Okla.) State last week, and Scott continues to look for the right combination of players to stop the skid.

Meanwhile, the East Central Tigers (4-4) also hoped for better early-season fortunes this year with strong senior full-back Don Erwin. The leading NAIA District 9 scorer in 1976, Erwin has averaged only 62 yards a game this year.

But the Tigers found an air game in recent weeks with quarterback Kyle Miracle at the controls. Miracle has thrown nine touchdown passes for 585 yards this season.

Eastern's offense also has used the pass effectively with junior Joe Martin at quarterback. Martin averages 115 yards passing a game. The Lewisville athlete completed 11 of 20 passes for 211 yards and two touchdowns last week.

Eastern's defense is led by 11-American candidate John Younger, who leads the team in tackles with 93. Helping out on the Greyhound offensive line is tackle Kirk Potter, a 6-5, 250-pound senior from Dulce, N.M., who is being touted for post-season honors.

Tech Soph Wins Three Net Matches

ABILENE (Special) — Texas Tech's Karen Schuchard, a sophomore from Abilene, advanced through three rounds Saturday in the Abilene Christian Halloween tennis tournament.

Miss Schuchard defeated Ann Arwin of Texas A&M 6-0, 6-0 in the first round, Karen Boerner of A&M 6-0, 6-0 in the second and Lori Schrier of Hardin-Simmons 6-0, 6-1 in the third.

Five other Texas Tech players won their first two matches and await third-round action today. Monterey ex Kathy Kuhne defeated Denise Norrid of Angelo State 6-0, 6-0 in her opener and then downed Pam Campbell of Hardin-Simmons 3-6, 6-3, 6-2. Kathy Dougherty downed Lori Smith of Howard Payne 6-0, 6-1 and Carol Roberts of ACU 6-1, 6-1.

Lisa Booker stopped Margaret Playton of HPC 6-4, 6-0 and Jean Lane of Dallas Baptist 7-6, 6-1. Kim Hood defeated Donna Wood of Abilene Christian 6-0, 6-0 and Paula Plasek of Abilene Christian 6-1, 6-1. Mame Bevers defeated Patricia Coleman of ACU 6-1, 6-0 and Mary Schaffer of Angelo State 6-4, 7-5.

Coronado ex Leisa Bewley of Tech downed Jana Perkins of Howard Payne 6-0, 6-0 and awaited her second foe. Tech's Ann McNabb won her opener over Jane Harlow of Brownwood 6-1, 6-1, and Kathy Mellena defeated Miss Boerner of A&M 6-4, 1-6, 6-2 in the first round. Mandy Ham of Tech lost her opener to Carol Roberts of ACU 4-6, 6-4, 7-6.

Two other Tech women won their openers but lost in the second round. Peggy O'Neal stopped Beth Hodgson of Hardin-Simmons 6-4, 6-1 but bowed to Jo Ann Hall of ACU 6-1, 6-0. Debbie Donley downed Lori Lonford of ACU 6-0, 6-0 before falling to Ann Laman of Midland 6-3, 7-5.

GREYHOUND LINEMAN—Anchoring the offensive line for Eastern New Mexico is 250-pound tackle Kirk Potter. The Greyhounds will be playing East Central Oklahoma in Ada, Okla., tonight.

WTS, Indiana State Battle For Survival

CANYON (Special) — West Texas State and Indiana State collide tonight in a survival match for the Valley Conference race at 7:30 p.m.

The Buffaloes of coach Bill Yung, who is 3-4 in his first year as head coach here, seek their fourth straight win of the campaign and their third consecutive league win. WT has topped New Mexico State 17-14, Drake 31-7 and Lamar 27-9 (in nonconference) in the last three outings.

The streak has filled the first-year coach with plenty of enthusiasm and added much-needed momentum to his program.

"We have paid the price all year. We were at the bottom of the list and now we are ready to go for the top spot. We needed a win last week for the sake of momentum. But this week, it's back to the MVC and the championship. If we are to win the title, we must win this one," Yung said.

WTU was the preseason favorite for the conference championship.

Indiana State, a new Valley member, has never played WT. The Sycamores are led by runningback Vincent Allen, the state of Indiana's all-time rushing leader, who carried 28 times for 110 yards in last week's 20-10 win over Illinois State. The Indiana squad stands 3-3 overall and 2-1 in MVC standings.

While Allen ranks second among Valley rushers, the Buffs' ace runner, Bo Robinson of Lamesa, leads the league.

Despite leg cramps and a bruised shoulder, Robinson still played enough last week at Lamar to rush 20 times for 116 yards. Robinson averages 112.8 yards a game and 6.8 yards a carry.

Tonight's game starts a four-contest home stretch for the Buffaloes. After a week off next week, the Buffaloes will host Colorado State, Tulsa and Southern Illinois on successive Saturdays.

Turner Gets Permission To Hire Pilot

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced Friday that he had granted permission for suspended Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner to participate in the hiring and selection of a new manager for the National League club.

The Braves, who finished in last place in the NL West during the 1977 season, are seeking to fill the managerial spot after firing Dave Bristol earlier this week.

Turner is under a one-year suspension until March 23, 1978 for tampering with Gary Matthews of San Francisco while the outfielder still was under contract to the Giants. In addition to the suspension, Turner was fined and the Braves had to forfeit their first-round choice in last June's free agent draft.

"Great," Turner exclaimed in Atlanta when informed of Kuhn's decision.

The Plainsmen were led by Brian Sheffield, Cliff Baggett and Bruce Northcutt with scores of 76, 77 and 77 respectively.

Tech Spikers Win Three

ABILENE (Special) — Top-seeded Texas Tech won three matches Friday in the opening day of the AIAW west zone volleyball tournament at McMurry College.

Coronado's leader was David Groom with an 82 while Chad Williams paced Plainview with an 84.

MHS led the team totals with a 313 score followed by Plainview's 344 and Coronado's 345 on the par-72 course.

Tech downed Hardin-Simmons 15-3, 15-4 in the opener as Christy Cotton and Lisa Pipes contributed 7 and 8 points respectively for the winners. Then Nancy Landry had 12 and Miss Cotton 8 as Tech topped host McMurry 15-10, 15-0. The Tech team needed three sets before downing Abilene Christian 15-7, 4-15, 15-4 in the third match of the day. Pate Claims Share Of Lead At Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Jerry Pate, a hometown hero followed by a big mob of friends, relatives and neighbors, pulled his game together on the back nine, shot a four-under-par 67 and moved into a three-way tie for the lead Friday in the second round of the $125,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Pate, a winner last week in the Southern Open, put together a 36-hole total of 135, seven under par on his home course, the tree-lined, 6,540-yard Pensacola Country Club layout.

He shared the top spot halfway through this, the last official event of the long pro tour, with Leonard Thompson and Jim Simons. Thompson's six-under-par 65 was the best round of the mild, calm, hazy day.

Simons, winner of the New Orleans Open earlier this season, had a 67 and owned the lead alone until he bogeyed his 17th hole with an approach shot "that never even sniffed the green."

One shot back at 136 was little Nate Starks, who had a 66.

PGA champion Lanny Wadkins moved into strong contention with a 66. He was tied at 137, only two strokes off the lead, with first-round leader Mac McLendon, who slipped to a 71, John Mahaffey, Steve Melnyk, Pat Fitzsimons and Fuzzy Zoeller. Melnyk had a 66, Mahaffey and Zoeller 68s, Fitzsimons a 70.

Arnold Palmer improved to a 68 and qualified for the final two rounds with a 141 total. Johnny Miller, who tied for second behind Pate last week, didn't make it. He shot a 73 and missed at 143.

"I still haven't hit the ball as well as I'd like to," said Pate, who won the U.S. and Canadian Open titles last season as a rookie but was troubled by a pinched nerve most of this season.

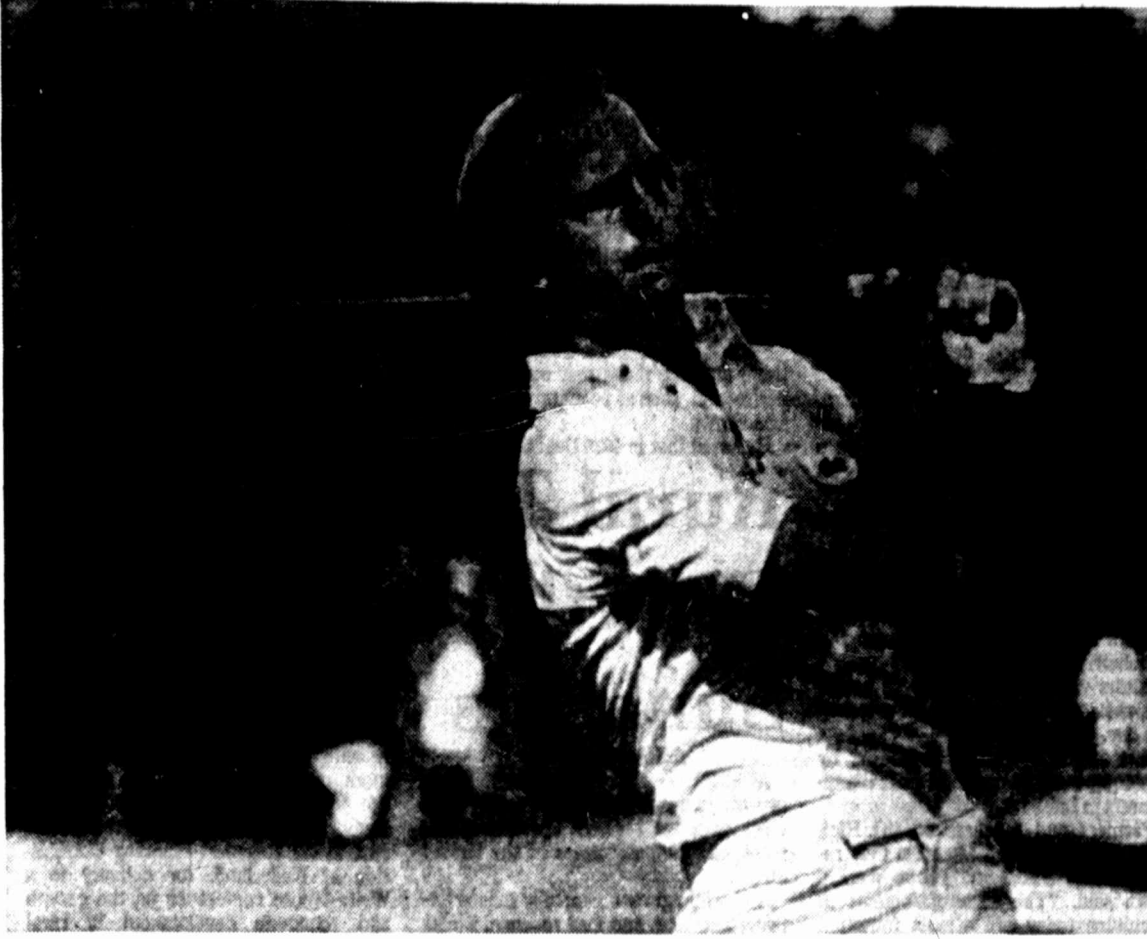

"You're hard put, at home, to just go ahead and free-wheel it. On the back nine, I finally started relaxing a little bit and hit it at the hole."

He played that side in four-under-par 62, hit his approach inside of three feet on three holes and dropped another from about 15 feet.

The husky Thompson didn't make a bogey and said the key to his round was "a couple of really critical putts at just the right time." Those were a pair of 15-footers to save par.

Simons pitched to within a foot of the cup for a birdie that put him alone in the lead at eight under par on his 15th hole, then dropped back into a tie with his hooked approach on the 17th.

Ex-Texas Tech golfer Jeff Mitchell, after firing a first-round 60, played the course in one-over-par Friday and stood at 140 going into today's third round.

WATCHING IT FLY—Jerry Pate, playing on his home course at Pensacola, Fla., watches his drive off the first tee Friday. Pate came home with a 67 to share the lead at the halfway point in the Pensacola Open. (AP Laserphoto)

Steelers Given Nod Over Colts, Airplane

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The last time the Pittsburgh Steelers played in Baltimore, some guy landed his airplane in the upper deck, an area not currently on the list of the country's recognized airports.

That was in the American Football Conference playoffs last December when the Steelers ripped the Colts and earned a title shot at Oakland.

Now Pittsburgh is back in town again, perhaps eyeing that stadium landing strip a little warily. The Colts would like to instill a little worry of their own in the Steelers but Pittsburgh's track record against them is awfully impressive, with or without aircraft buzzing overhead.

The Steelers won their 1975 AFC playoff 28-10 and repeated last year 40-14. So, until the Colts prove otherwise, you have to believe Pittsburgh has the combination to beat them.

The Pro Picker's mid-season slump continued last week with an 8-6 making the season record 57-27 for 679. Watch out for a fast finish.

The picks:

Pittsburgh 24, Baltimore 17
The Steelers lead the NFL in defense and allowed minus 14 yards passing against Houston last week. That should be an interesting statistic for Bert Jones, ringleader in the Colts' passing circus.

Oakland 17, Denver 14
Everything seems to be pointing the Broncos' way. They're unbeaten and they're at home and they beat the Raiders convincingly in Oakland two weeks ago. But we can't write off the Super Bowl champions that quickly.

Atlanta 16, Minnesota 14
Upset special. The Falcons are at home and must have loved watching that Viking swoon on television last Monday night. Atlanta's defense could keep Fran Tarkenton scrambling all day.

Dallas 27, Detroit 10
The Lions are out of their class in this one. Dallas has beaten Detroit five straight times since 1960 and the Cowboys weren't even a powerhouse in those days. Are you sure unbeaten Dallas isn't an AFC team in disguise?

Los Angeles 30, New Orleans 21
The Rams may finally have found themselves with Pat Haden at quarterback and Joe Namath on the sideline phones. The Saints are still searching for respectability.

New England 24, NY Jets 20
The Jet defense is hurting, especially at

Unser Drubs Qualifiers For Ball 150

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Bobby Unser stomped all over the competition, obliterated the five-year-old track record, then expressed mild disappointment that he wasn't even faster Friday in qualifying for today's Bobby Ball 150 for Indianapolis cars.

Unser whipped around the recently repaved Phoenix International Raceway mile in 24.25 seconds on the first of his two lap qualifying run, then knocked it down to 24.21 on the final lap. Gordon Johncock had the previous record of 25.05.

"There is so much more potential in this car," the two-time Indianapolis 500 winner said of his unique Cosworth-powered Lightning which is making its debut here. "We're going to make a few more adjustments and take it back out and see if we can break into the 23-second bracket."

"This car was supposed to be ready two months ago for the California 500. Then it was supposed to be finished in time for Michigan, then Trenton. They barely got it ready in time for this race... but it's still not really ready. It was pushing when I qualified."

linebacker. But the offense has come to life behind Richard Todd, who may be another you-know-who.

Miami 29, San Diego 16
The Dolphins, tied for first place with Baltimore, will have trouble concentrating on the Chargers and watching the scoreboard for the latest on the Colts-Steelers game.

Cleveland 17, Kansas City 13
The Chiefs won their first game with a late rally against San Diego last week. The Browns, tied for the AFC Central lead, owe them one from a 39-14 pasting Kansas City dealt them in the final game last season.

Cincinnati 20, Houston 17
Both the Bengals and Oilers have lost two straight and both have lingering quarterback injury problems. Cincy has won the last four meetings and the Bengals are at home. That's the only edge here.

Philadelphia 17, Washington 14
Who are those nice old men wearing Redskin uniforms? Oh, you say they're the Redskins. That's too bad.

Chicago 23, Green Bay 10
Walter Payton of the Bears leads all NFL rushers with 653 yards. Green Bay's team rushing total is 561. 'Nuff said.

Buffalo 21, Seattle 14
O. J. Simpson is a little banged up but the Kingdom could cause a quick recovery. The last time The Juice played indoors, he ran for 273 yards against Detroit.

San Francisco 19, Tampa Bay 7
Some day the Buccaneers will win a regular season game but who knows when.

St. Louis 24, NY Giants 20
Their defensive line is the best thing the Giants have going for them. And their offensive line is the best thing the Cardinals have going for them. That makes for an interesting Monday night.

Surprise Highlights City Tennis Tourney

Todd Kent of Canyon, the top-seeded player in A boys singles of the Lubbock Fall Tennis Tournament, went out in the semifinals Friday. But other seeded performers came through the opening rounds.

Action in the big tournament will continue today.

All divisions will begin play at 8:30 a.m. All "A" divisions will compete at Coronado's courts, with the "B" players at Coronado also. C-division boys will play at Monterey and C girls at Lubbock High.

Kent ousted Monterey's Steve Barnett, 6-0, 6-1, and Chi Dang of Lubbock High 6-0, 6-2, before running into Coronado's Robert Davis, the fourth-seeded performer.

Davis posted a 6-3, 2-6, 6-1 upset in the semifinals to advance to the finals against Coronado's Dale Anderson, the second-seeded singles player.

It will be Coronado against Monterey in A boys singles, as the top-seeded pair of Anderson and Dan McMillan will play Monterey's Gary Nazarens and David Ribble for the championship.

Monterey's Cheryl Rosen marched through a pair of matches but had to go three sets in subduing Sharon Landry of Plainview 5-7, 6-1, 6-2 in the semifinals.

In the finals, Miss Rosen will meet another Landry from Plainview, Theresa, who was second-seeded and won two matches in straight sets.

And, in A girls doubles, the Landry sisters will play in the finals against the Coronado duo of Dana Craig and Lynda Weaver.

Championships will be decided in each of the A, B and C divisions.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

A LOOMING SHORTAGE OF BALE BAGGING and ties — particularly ties — threatens to curtail High Plains cotton ginning operations. Materials needed to refurbish the supplies are on ships along the Gulf Coast but are not being unloaded because of the dock strike against containerized cargo.

"The situation is becoming critical," says Donald G. Smith, executive vice president of the Lubbock-based Texas Independent Ginners Association. A survey of oil mills and bagging companies conducted by Smith and Bob Weatherford of Lubbock, Southwest area supervisor of the National Cotton Council, indicates supplies could begin running out in one to three weeks. Smith said one company has as many as 100,000 bundles of ties — one bundle will tie out about five bales — on board strike-bound ships at the Gulf.

THE PROBLEM ALSO EXTENDS INTO THE Low Plains area below the Caprock but apparently is limited to the West Texas region.

"If we aren't able to get in more supplies, we could be in trouble on more than 2 million bales," Smith said. "We understand that there may be enough ties for 100,000 bales coming from California but we haven't detected that they have arrived yet."

The size and earliness of the crop — the output is expected to reach an all-time high and the harvest is moving at the fastest early pace of modern times — have compounded the problem.

"It's going to be bad for everyone involved if the harvesting and ginning of this crop are brought to a standstill," pointed out Donald A. Johnson, executive vice president of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The Cotton Council's Washington and Memphis offices are both working on the problem. Even after the cargo is unloaded, Smith said, it would take one to two weeks to get the materials into the pipelines and to the gins.

THE COTTON COUNCIL HAS SENT LETTERS to all members of the Texas congressional delegation to inform them of the situation.

Earl Sears of Memphis, deputy executive vice president of the council, said a packaging specialist is surveying other regions of the Cotton Belt and national suppliers in an effort to locate fill-in supplies.

Contacts also are being made to see if an agreement could be reached to have the cotton materials unloaded through some sort of emergency provision. The striking longshoremen, however, may not be receptive to this.

About 90 per cent of the ties now used in West Texas are imported, Smith pointed out, and most of them are shipped in containerized vessels.

"We may be facing a slowdown in the country movement of cotton under the best of circumstances," Johnson commented. "If we can't get relief some other way, we may have to try for a Taft-Hartley injunction, even though this might involve other problems."

A TAFT-HARTLEY INJUNCTION, which would open the ports on a one-time basis for 90 days, would leave open the possibility of a port shutdown later at the height of the cotton export shipping season if the strike were not settled in the interim.

And the ensuing shipping delays then could aggravate a potential problem on the opening of letters of credit by foreign buyers who booked U. S. cotton at the higher prices which prevailed earlier.

But the cotton can't be shipped anyway if it can't be wrapped and tied.

Live Cattle Futures Dip Again

By Reuters
CHICAGO — Live cattle futures finished unchanged to off 37 points Friday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

The nearby contract led the decline, falling as much as 40 points for a time. Volume was 6,234 cars in a mostly local and commission house trade.

Prices slipped to lowest levels in a week, 110 points below Monday, on selling touched off by increased cattle arrivals and a softer tone to cash cattle and carcass beef.

Hogs Stage Own Decline
Wholesale beef was unchanged at 65 3/4 cents per pound for all weights. Cash cattle were steady to off 50 cents with the top at $43.50 per hundred weight.

The six markets expect receipts of 19-100 head on Monday. Friday's slaughter was 152,000 head.

Live hog futures tumbled 85 points in February before closing two to 67 lower on sales of 4,582 cars. Increased hog runs and lower prices, coupled with weakness in belly futures, easily offset firmness in cash hams.

Hams Up Slightly
The sizable kill and prospects of another heavy run of hogs on Monday exerted much of the late pressure. Slaughter was estimated at 324,000 head and the six terminal expect about 33,000 head to arrive on Monday.

Wholesale hams were up one-half to two cents at 85 to 90 cents per pound, f.o.b. river points. Cash hogs were steady to off 50 cents with a top at $41.50.

Pork bellies (bacon) skidded 115 to 155 points led by March on a turnover of about 5,904 contracts. February was off 157 just before the final bell.

Selling pressure increased as cash bellies continued to slide, breaking 12 cents per pound in recent days. The heavy hog runs and lower prices on the heels of an expanded slaughter kept prices on the minus side from the start.

Wholesale pound was off 2 1/4 to 3 3/4 cents per pound at 37 1/4 to 44 cents, f.o.b. river.

Food, Fiber Exposition Slated Here Next Week

Food and fiber week, sponsored by the Texas Department of Agriculture, will begin a four-day run here Wednesday at the South Plains Mall, according to Lynn Kemper of Lubbock, department marketing supervisor.

Exhibits will be on display from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day.

The annual event is pretty close to a hometown celebration because nearly all of the state's major crops and livestock are produced in the area, says Reagan Brown, TDA commissioner.

The TDA and regional food processors will have displays on wheat, beef, pecans, peanuts, pork, fruits, vegetables, grain sorghum and cotton. Also featured will be mohair, turkeys and eggs.

Visitors will be able to sample bread, nuts, meat and also register for a turkey each day.

Other displays will be presented by farm equipment dealers and fiber manufacturers in Lubbock.

"Farmers and ranchers on the High Plains deserve all the attention they receive during Food and Fiber Week," Brown said. "The accomplishments in agriculture today are almost forgotten with the current economic stresses."

The commissioner noted that "a land once considered desolate" now produces 77 per cent of the state's cotton, 70 per cent of the wheat and 41 per cent of its grain sorghum. Ranchers have continued the custom of shipping millions of pounds of beef and pork each year, he added.

"In addition to these traditional crops, there also are those that once were experimental, such as peanuts and pecans," said Brown.

He noted that in 1976 Deaf Smith County led the state in total cash receipts and government payments. Also included were Parmer, Castro, Hale and Lubbock counties on the list of the top six counties in Texas.

"The High Plains production accounted for more than a third of the state's farm and ranch income in 1976, receiving $2,720,831,000," Brown added.

Rural Texas Urban Growth Part Of Sunbelt's Pattern

AUSTIN — The emerging urban growth in rural Texas apparently coincides with the regional upswing in the southern "Sunbelt" areas of the United States.

And while growth generally means improved services and new revenue, it also means new headaches, especially in traditionally underserved, rural Texas.

The benefits and problems arising from this new urban growth in rural Texas are the subjects of a publication recently produced by the Texas Department of Community Affairs. Much of the policy paper was compiled by Don Kelly, executive director of the Southeast Texas Regional Planning Commission at Nederland, for delivery to a White House conference on the growth and economic development in rural areas.

According to the report, urbanization is occurring mostly in rural towns and counties surrounding the state's major metropolitan areas, notably San Antonio, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and Austin.

"Many people are reaching out beyond suburbia to the more rural communities in looking for the 'good life,'" the publication begins.

The department contends much of this new rural growth is in communities where large energy installations are being located. Most of these developments, in turn, were planned and constructed in areas far from large concentrations of people.

Rural "urbanization" also tends to be occurring at faster pace in small communities along the state's interstate highway corridors, even those far removed from urban centers.

The report says that some rural communities, particularly those offering good year-round climate, coupled with "inexpensive" land prices, are appealing to a larger number of retired persons who wish to return to the rural life. The report cites much of the recent growth in what is known as the Hill Country, identified as large scenic area of Central Texas west of Interstate 35.

Additionally, as more of the population becomes affluent and can afford an increasing amount of leisure time, the report says that "resort communities" in rural Texas will continue to experience new urban pressures. There are many such communities in the state, mainly around man-made lakes and areas along the Texas Gulf Coast.

The report says rural areas are growing because they are no longer removed from the cultural attractions of the city. One does not have to live in a major city in order to enjoy the "pleasures" of urbanity, it says.

"The growing cost of energy will further tip the balance to less movement in favor of better communication," Kelly predicts.

However, there are problems associated with the new urbanization of Texas' rural communities, he adds.

Just as the state's more metropolitan areas show the stress and strain of accommodating rapid growth and large population increases, so too are many rural communities.

The report says many rural problems relate to the need for additional services to accommodate new people. These include adequate water and sewer systems, solid waste disposal, fire and police protection, and improved transportation.

Four Miles Of U.S. 84 To Be Closed On Monday

Four miles of the east roadway of U.S. 84, extending from Southland north to the Lynn-Lubbock county line, will be closed beginning Monday until reconstruction has been completed.

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation will route the west roadway of the highway as a two-way road during reconstruction of the section.

'Cotton Roundup' To Aid Crippled Children

ABILENE (Special) — With the cotton harvest in full swing, the West Texas Rehabilitation Center has issued an invitation to farmers throughout the area to participate in the third annual Cotton Roundup for Crippled Children by pledging a bale or more to help the center continue to provide services to the handicapped.

Last year's roundup netted almost $30,000 for the non-profit treatment and diagnostic facility, with campuses in Abilene, San Angelo and Snyder.

Traditionally, the West Texas Rehabilitation center has provided services to the handicapped without having to charge the patients.

Roundup officials said that farmers wishing to participate may send their green card and warehouse receipt to any of the three campuses.

Rep. Elmer Martin of Colorado city and Herman A. Propst of Anson are the general chairmen for the campaign and area chairmen are Pat Hale and Joe B. Cloud, Haskell county; Leon Cohorn, Dawson County; Max Von Roeder, Scurry County; J.B. Cooper, Nolan County; Foy Mitchell, Fisher County; Bobby Lemmons, Mitchell County; Mrs. Charis Poe, Runnels County; Rex Johnson, Motley County, and Bill Meador, Stone- wall County.

Wheat and oats deliveries were narrowly mixed at the close.

Unconfirmed reports from London that the People's Republic of China was in the market for grains and continued talk of Soviet buying interest triggered short-covering in the corn pit. The talk also was cited as an incentive to buy wheat contracts.

Hedge selling by commercial interests also contributed to taking corn futures off session highs.

The lack of significant change in soybeans was attributed to light farmer selling at country points. Traders expressed opinions that soybean harvesting could be completed with a few days of good weather, but doubted that farmers would sell much of the commodity at current low prices.

Scattered rains were in the weekend forecast, although much of the Midwest was expected to be under clear skies.

HIGH PLAINS COTTON

U. S. Department of Agriculture
Trading in the Lubbock cotton market was active Friday.

Supplies of cotton for sale were heavy. Grower offerings were moderate and demand was moderate. High Plains growers sold mixed lots of new-crop cotton at 90-95 points over last year.

The Lubbock Cotton Exchange's spot quotations declined 25 points. The base price of grade 41, staple 34, base micronaire, was quoted at 45.50 cents, down 25 points from a week earlier.

High Plains classing offices graded 24,900 samples. The season's total was 584,300. Only 14,000 samples had been graded at this time last year. About 188,000 samples were carried over as unclassified.

Predominant grades this week were grade 31 at 33 per cent, grade 41 at 30 per cent and grade 32 at 14 per cent. The approximate prices reported to the Agricultural Marketing Service for qualities equal to the U. S. Official Grade and Staple Standards. Prices are for micronaire (mix) readings of 3.5 through 4.9 in mixed lots, uncompressed, free of all charges in the warehouse in the market.

Price trend: Lower on Friday.

Career Began At Middle-Age Crisis

FOR YOUR WANT ADS CALL 762-8821

NEW SCREEN WRITER — Hilma Wolitzer begins work on her first screenplay, based on her new, critically acclaimed book, "In The Flesh." The book is being made into a feature film by The Triseme Corporation. Danny Arnold will produce and direct the production late next fall on location in New England.

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — What do you do on a dull day when your husband is working and the kids are at school? If you're Hilma Wolitzer, the fortyish housewife of a clinical psychologist, you're ensconced at the elegant L'Ermitage Hotel in Beverly Hills, California, having story conferences with the executive producer of your new motion picture.

Just a few years ago, she was facing the prospect of her two daughters growing up and leaving her with an "empty nest." And so, she enrolled at the New School in New York, wrote a short story, acquired an agent, and began to think of herself as a writer.

As a writer, she has created three children's books, a TV script, and two novels — "Ending" and "In The Flesh." Writing has turned her life around.

Instead of facing a "middle-age crisis," this candid and intelligent woman who laughs easily and often at herself, is off to a new career as a screenwriter.

Although "In The Flesh" is not autobiographical, Paulette, the hip, young heroine, and Hilma share a New York background and "feel the same way about the other characters have been living in the author's head" for so long they should be paying rent."

Hilma adds that she gave Paulette and Howard, the handsome, young musician she marries, parents like her own mother and father.

So it's understandable when he says, "I grow fond of my characters. If I don't care about them, nobody will. I want to launch them," she explains. "I want Paulette to be famous. I hope they (the readers) like her and wish her well."

Hilma wrote "In The Flesh" by free association, without any notes.

"I let the ideas accumulate in my head at night. If there's anything good, I'll remember it in the morning."

She is seated in the penthouse suite of the L'Ermitage, dressed in blue jeans and a black T-shirt, working on her screenplay, which will go into production next fall in New England. "It's fun," she says. "I already know what the characters look like. When I was writing the book, I saw them moving around in their own apartments."

Meters For Christmas Giving

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa (UPI) — Christmas shopping may be starting early this year, Mayor Jon Crews said Friday.

He reported that at least 742 persons have put in bids for the city's 440 old parking meters.

The city is replacing all its meters, some 20 years old, with new ones. The meter-making company offered the city a $3 trade-in for each discarded meter. But the city is offering to sell the meters for $5 each.

"At $5 apiece, we're $2 better off on each one, so we can't complain," Crews said.

He wasn't kidding. Requests for the meters poured in. One man offered to buy all of them — at an outlay of $2,200.

Crews said he will recommend to the City Council that the meters be sold on a first-come, first-served basis to city residents and does not expect any will be left for outsiders.

"Maybe some people will just take them home and bash them up for all the frustrations they've had over the years," he said.

After 11 Years Car Found To Be Dangerous

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Dear general Motors: You really know how to hurt a guy.

Remember that Opel Kadett station wagon you sold me in 1967? I picked it up in January and recall that the snow was drifting down on its shiny red paint job and squishing under its spotless white walls. I brought my baby daughter (now 10 years old) home from the hospital in it. I lashed my first sailing dinghy to the roof rack. I drove thousands of miles from my Long Island home to South Carolina and Maine to the screams and scuffles of kids in the back seat.

Now you tell me after almost 11 years that I have to bring it in because there is a possibility it could catch on fire.

Your letter, with the motto "Wouldn't You Really Rather Have a Buick?" printed on the bottom, quotes the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration as saying: "Both the fuel line to fuel inlet pipe connection and the fuel inlet pipe to carburetor connection ... separate in service, resulting in underhood fuel leakage and vehicle fires."

And you advise: "Until you have your Opel Kadett corrected, you should be alert for any odor of gasoline or indications of smoke from the engine compartment. In the event you observe such condition, you should drive to the side of the road and exit your car."

"In the event there is a fire, make no attempt to open the hood until it has cooled so as to avoid the possibility of burned fingers."

Well, General Motors, it's too late. On Oct. 19, somebody stole my now faded, rusty, but still running Opel Kadett wagon from the Greenlawn commuter parking lot of the Long Island Rail Road.

Light Company 'Pulls Plug'

DETROIT (AP) — Service stations here don't give glasses away any more and the movie theaters don't give away plates.

Now Detroit Edison may stop its light bulbs giveaway.

They weren't exactly free — you paid for them in the form of a slightly higher bill — but Detroit Edison says the cost to close to 75 per cent of its customers who use the program has been no more than 12 or 13 cents a bulb compared to 40 cents or more in a store.

A merchant who complained the practice competed with his business filed suit against Edison in attempts to get it halted.

Pulling the plug on the program will not mean lower rates, a spokesman said, "just that rates will go up a little slower than they otherwise would."

Liza Minnelli's 'Act' Opens On Broadway

By MIKE SILVERMAN
 NEW YORK (AP) — After rumors of off-stage romance, a last-minute change of directors and tryout reviews that ran the gamut from lukewarm to abysmal, Liza Minnelli's million-dollar musical "The Act" opens on Broadway at record-high ticket prices Saturday night.

For the 31-year-old Miss Minnelli it is the culmination of six months of rehearsing what a spokesman calls "probably the most demanding performance ever presented on Broadway."

She sings and dances 12 of the show's 13 numbers and is almost never off-stage in her role as a washed-up movie star making a comeback with a Las Vegas nightclub act. Half the show is "the act" itself, the other half flashbacks of the star's life. The songs are by John Kander and Fred Ebb, who have done nightclub acts for Miss Minnelli and who wrote the songs for "Cabaret," which provided her with an Oscar-winning film role.

Yet so brutal were reviews of "The Act" during four months in Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles that Merle Debuskey, the show's press representative, says if anybody but a "superstar" like Miss Minnelli were involved, "we'd never have made it to New York."

In Chicago, Debuskey admits, "We didn't have it down." But he claims the show "kept improving" as director Martin Scorsese — trying his first stage show after such movies as "Taxi Driver" — got his bearings.

Discarded along the way were two titles — "In Person" and "Shine It On" — $92,000 worth of costumes and $80,000 worth of scenery.

Actor Barry Nelson, who has the non-singing role of Miss Minnelli's husband, says he "could play the show in repertory, the character changed so many times."

Despite the alterations, Los Angeles Times critic Dan Sullivan described the show as possibly "the dumbest backstage musical ever, to the point where you figure they've got to be kidding." Debuskey says other critics who re-reviewed the musical near the end of the Los Angeles run were more impressed.

By that time Scorsese had withdrawn and, with his approval, veteran musical director Gower Champion was brought in as what Debuskey calls "play doctor" to "do what could be done in the remaining weeks." Champion's name will not appear in the credits.

Rumors involving Scorsese and Miss Minnelli stem from last year when she was working on his latest film, "New York, New York." Both deny being any more than friends, but while "The Act" was in Los Angeles, Scorsese's wife, Julia Cameron, filed for divorce. Miss Minnelli is said to be still happily married to producer Jack Haley Jr., but their careers kept them separated much of the time the show was on the road.

Slew Returns To Work After Five-Week Illness

NEW YORK (AP)—Whatever happened to Seattle Slew? The sensational Triple Crown champion, inactive since his 16-length beating on the Pacific Coast July 3, galloped at Belmont Park Friday for the first time in five weeks.

"He's coming along fine," said Dr. Jim Hill, co-owner of the 3-year-old bargain colt who became the first horse in history to carry an all-winning record through the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

"We are getting him ready for the winter season, hoping to have him on the track in early December. We will race him five or six times next year in important races and then retire him."

Asked about recurring rumors that Slew might be syndicated for stud purposes without ever running another race, the young Garden City, N.Y., veterinarian said, "Absolutely not. This horse is not through running. He will come back and prove what a great champion he is."

The mahogany thunderbolt, purchased for $17,500 by Hill and Washington lumberman Mickey Taylor in the Lexington, Ky., yearling sales, won nine straight aces without a defeat before his disastrous venture into the $316,400 Swaps Stakes at Hollywood Park.

Against the advice of trainer Billy Turner, who argued the colt had been drained by the rigorous campaign, Hill and Taylor chose to go in the rich, highly publicized Coast race. The race was won by J.O. Tobin with Seattle Slew finishing fourth 16 lengths back.

"He was never in the race," Hill acknowledged Friday at Belmont's barn 54. "Something happened to him. He ran but never competed. In hindsight, I would have to say it was a mistake on our part. Without benefit of hindsight, I think we would do the same thing again."

After the loss, Seattle Slew was brought back to his Belmont Park quarters where he was allowed to loaf while the great stakes runner, Forego, mounted a challenge for Horse of the Year honors. Forego has taken the title the last three years.

"We would have liked to have had a shot at Forego, with both horses at their best, but this wasn't possible," Hill said. "Maybe next year."

It was the hope of both the owners and Turner to have Slew ready for the Travers at Saratoga and the Jerome at Belmont this fall. But the colt failed to come around properly. Forego himself had to take sick leave because of swelling of the ankles after winning the Woodward Stakes in early September.

"Slew has had an upper respiratory ailment for the last few weeks and we haven't had him on the track since Sept. 18," Hill said. "He's fine now."

He said Slew would start racing at Belmont probably the first week in December and then go to Florida for the Hialeah Challenge Cup and perhaps the Seminole and Widener.

Turner described himself as being "sick" over Slew's long layoff and said the horse was about as far along in training now as when he went to Florida a year ago to start his 3-year-old campaign.

SURGERY QUESTIONABLE
CINCINNATI (AP)—Center Bob Miller, leading scorer and rebounder for the University of Cincinnati's basketball team last season, may not need surgery despite a "slight cartilage tear" in his knee, according to Coach Gale Catlett.

North Stars Protest Ref's, Bruins' Conduct

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP)—President Gordon Ritz of the Minnesota North Stars has filed protests with the National Hockey League over the conduct of the Boston Bruins and their coach and the refereeing of Denis Morel.

Ritz spent much of Thursday with a series of harshly worded telephone calls to NHL officials. He accused the Bruins of "thuggery" in their Wednesday night 3-0 loss to Minnesota—the Stars' first victory of the season.

Ritz fumed over the use of sticks by Boston players, blaming Bruins coach Don Cherry for the number of sticks planted on North Star bodies.

Cherry, still here at the time, was sharp in his comments on Ritz' complaints.

"If I had a chicken club like that, I'd complain to everybody, too," Cherry said. "They need all the help they can get. Everybody hates us and they're all out to get us. I don't know why Ritz called the NHL office, but he couldn't have been there ahead of (Bruins general manager) Harry Sinden, who watched the game on television in Boston."

Minnesota winger Kent Anderson suffered a badly swollen hand when he was struck by a stick in the Wednesday game. Winger Ron Zanussi took a gash from a stick on the back of the leg.

Referee Morel ejected Bruins Terry O'Reilly for apparently swinging at him with his stick and Stan Jonathon for slugging Steve Jensen after concluding a fight with Alex Pirus. Jensen overturned a linesman in his charge to get at Jonathon.

"If one of our guys had wrestled the linesman to the ice like Jensen, he'd be gone for life," said Cherry. "And never in my 23 years have I seen a guy like No. 10 (Pirus) go into the penalty box and sit there while his teammates are fighting on the ice."

Ritz said he is asking the NHL to prevent Morel from working any other games at Bloomington. The North Stars president said he called referee-in-chief Scotty Morrison, NHL president John Ziegler and NHL vice president Brian O'Neill.

Ritz said Morrison already had seen a report from Frank Udvardi, NHL supervisor of officials, who had attended the game. The North Stars president said Morrison agreed with him that the game refereeing was inept.

"The major ineptness of the official came when he did not throw Cherry out of the game," said Ritz. "Cherry was the real culprit, egging his players on."

Ritz said he reminded Ziegler that it was the responsibility of club owners to stop "all the mass brawling and thuggery." Ritz said he asked that the "integrity of hockey" be placed on the agenda at the next meeting of the NHL governors.

WINTER FERTILIZING—The roots of trees, shrubs, and grass continue to grow through the winter. FALL FEEDING is probably the most important feeding of the year. FERTILONE'S WINTERIZER is high in phosphorus and potash to insure winter hardiness.
