

Maryland Police Seek Killer Of Three Girls

ELVATON, Md. (AP) — The discovery of the bodies of three missing girls, stabbed repeatedly through their parkas and left lying face down in a creek near their homes, has stunned the Southgate neighborhood here.

The bodies of Theresa Hogan, 8; her sister Deborah Anne, 10; and Ann Marie Brzeszkiewicz, 8, were found Monday. The school girls had left a house early Sunday evening to play and were last seen on a bridge over the stream, which runs through a wooded area near the subdivision where they lived.

State Medical Examiner Russell Fisher said two of the girls had been stabbed about six times, and the third victim had more than a dozen knife wounds. Fisher said the murder weapon was probably a hunting knife with a blade at least five inches long.

The girls were found fully clothed and there was no evidence that they had been sexually molested, authorities said. "We don't have anything," said Detective Sgt. William Chaplin of the Anne Arundel County homicide squad. "No clues, no motives, no weapon."

News of the slayings sent parents to Southgate Elementary School to gather up their children when classes were dismissed. School officials said usually a dozen parents would pick up their children, but about 150 were waiting outside Monday afternoon.

"You just feel like clutching them to you," said one anxious mother.

"We've always felt fairly safe here," said Bruce Strazza, president of the local civic association.

"You always hear about it happening somewhere else, but it doesn't happen in your neighborhood," said Roger Westphal, whose children played with the Hogan girls.

Charles Cochran, who lives across the street from the Hogan family, said simply, "I feel like I've just been clipped in the stomach."

There was no comment from Jacob and Judy Brzeszkiewicz, the parents of Ann Marie. But Sgt. Chaplin said the couple, who have another daughter and five sons, took the news very hard, and that a doctor was called to the house.

Frost Nips Portions Of Plains

A-J News Services

Snow blanketed many areas of the Rocky Mountains and upper Midwest today, as the first frost of the season nipped the northern reaches of the South Plains following a cold front that pushed through the area late Monday afternoon.

Dimmitt this morning recorded light frost and 30 degrees, the only subfreezing temperature in the area, although the thermometer fell near the freezing point at several recording stations.

It was 33 at Hereford, 34 at Muleshoe, Olton and Silverton and 35 at Plainview. Farther north, Dalhart had a 35-degree low and Amarillo a 38-degree mark.

Lubbock failed to get the predicted reading in the 30s, with the mercury here dipping to only 41. However, today's forecast again calls for a low in the upper 30s tonight for Lubbock and vicinity.

Comfortably cool high temperatures in the low 60s are expected today in the immediate area, with a slight warmup into the upper 60s on Wednesday.

Brisk northeasterly winds of 15 to 20 mph this morning should decrease before nightfall, becoming light and variable tonight.

The front also brought chilly temperatures to eastern New Mexico, dropping the mercury this morning to 34 at Clovis and Clayton. In Colorado, Pueblo recorded 26, La Junta 25 and Trinidad 30.

No precipitation was recorded anywhere on the South Plains or Panhandle as the front passed through, but some light showers were falling this morning in North Central Texas.

The long range outlook for the area calls for no precipitation Thursday through Saturday. Warmer weather, with highs in the 70s and lows in the upper 40s and 50s, is expected Thursday and Friday.

In Minneapolis, a radio station responded to the first snow of the season by playing "Jingle Bells" for astonished listeners. Dozens of auto accidents were reported as snow glazed the streets of the Twin Cities.

A travelers' advisory was issued from the western portion of Wisconsin, where snow accumulations up to 3 inches were predicted.

JOGGING IN THE SNOW — The first snow of the season in Minneapolis failed to deter this jogger, who trudged along his regular route Monday despite a thin blanket of white. The first snow came a month earlier than normal. (AP Laserphoto)

Farm Interests Rap Fuel Costs

By RAY WESTBROOK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Farm interest representatives described spiraling energy costs as a significant hardship to farmers at a meeting of a state energy resources committee today in Plainview.

The legislative panel, headed by Rep. Joe Hanna of Breckenridge, received testimony for a report on energy costs in land irrigation which it will publish in 1978.

Michael Merideth, lead-off witness, addressed the panel on behalf of North Plains Energy Consumer Association, a Northern Panhandle organization.

He told the committee that the use of natural gas accounts for 20 percent of farming costs in the Panhandle area which he represented. That region includes Dumas, Spearman, Borger, Perryton, Canadian and other Panhandle towns.

The prospects of going to dry land farming is very real because of the cost of energy, he said. "Even though we have underground water," he said, "it will not be economical to bring it to the surface due to energy costs."

He told the energy panel that he just doesn't know what the answer to the problem is.

Merideth doesn't anticipate any curtailment of gas deliveries to his area during the coming year. "After that, we're not too sure," he said.

The energy problem is the main farming problem in the Northern Panhandle area because of the costs, he said.

Sprinkler systems account for about 50 percent of irrigation systems there.

With irrigation farming, there is a stable economy with a constant crop year after year, he said.

"Without irrigation there is boom and bust," he said.

High Court Aids Vets' Job Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today set aside a lower court's ruling that struck down state laws giving a preference to military veterans who apply for public jobs.

The justices, by a 6-3 vote, told a three-judge federal court in Massachusetts to reconsider its decision in light of a 1976 Supreme Court decision that said "discriminatory intent" is necessary to find a constitutional violation.

The lower court said such preferential treatment for veterans represented unconstitutional sex discrimination against women.

The court's action carries broad impact. Only four states — Arkansas, Mississippi, New Mexico and South Carolina — have no form of veterans' preference.

Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall and Lewis F. Powell Jr. voted to hear arguments in the case.

In other actions today, the Supreme Court:

— Agreed to decide whether the Constitution grants total immunity to members of Congress and their aides even when their actions are judged unconstitutional.

— Set aside a lower court ruling that conceivably could have cost the U.S. Postal Service about $500 million in refunds to consumers in a case involving a mail rate increase in 1975. The justices ordered the lower court to re-examine the effects that amended regulations had on the case.

— Said it would decide whether a criminal defendant can be forced to stand trial a second time when the indictment is dismissed during the first trial for reasons not involving his guilt or innocence.

— Refused to consider whether defendants in civil antitrust suits can be forced to turn over transcripts of secret grand jury testimony they obtained in previous criminal proceedings.

The Massachusetts law was challenged in 1975 by Helen Feeney, a state employee from 1963 to that year.

On three occasions, Mrs. Feeney took civil service tests as an applicant for better-paying government jobs. Each time, her ranking was lowered because male veterans whose test grades were below Mrs. Feeney's were placed ahead of her when the veterans' preference formula was applied.

For example, in 1973 she took a test to become head administrative assistant at a mental health center. Her test grade was the third highest among applicants for the job, but when the veterans' preference was applied her ranking slipped to 14th, behind 12 veterans. Eleven of those veterans had received lower test grades.

Mrs. Feeney has been unemployed since she was laid off her state job in 1975.

Davis' Prints Not At Scene

AMARILLO (AP) — A fingerprint expert called by the state testified today none of the prints lifted from a blood-splattered Fort Worth mansion matched those of millionaire murder defendant Cullen Davis.

Jim Slaughter, an identification technician for the Fort Worth Police Department, testified at Davis' capital murder trial that he examined 44 separate prints removed from the mansion by crime scene search officers.

"Have you compared those fingerprints with those of Cullen Davis?" prosecutor Marvin Collins asked the witness.

"Yes, sir," he replied.

"Did any of those match those of the defendant?"

"No, sir," he replied.

Slaughter testified also that there were not enough characteristics to identify a bloody palm print found on a door facing leading to the mansion basement where a shooting victim was found.

But he said a palm print lifted from just beneath the bloody area was that of a former maid named Ariella Cooper.

Defense lawyer Richard (Rachorse) Haynes argued for nearly an hour to prevent Slaughter from identifying that palm print.

Asked the significance of that palm print, prosecutor Joe Shannon said:

"It was just a matter of explanation. If we didn't explain it, then somebody could have jumped up and said, 'Aha, that's the killer.'"

"If they now want to claim the maid did it, let them claim the maid did it."

Shannon said previously the palm prints were "significant" and explained today that "it would be significant if you let it go unexplained. If you don't explain whose the hell it was they'd come back and try to insinuate it was the killer's."

Slaughter testified also that none of the prints matched those of W. T. Rufner or Horace Copeland, two names banded about frequently by the defense. Rufner was a former friend of the defendant's estranged wife. Copeland was an associate of one of the two slain victims.

Prosecutors allege Davis was the "man in black" who wounded his estranged wife Priscilla, 36, and killed her 30-year-old lover, Stan Farr and her 12-year-old daughter Andrea Wilborn.

Gas Gavrel Jr., 22, was crippled in the midnight gunfire.

An arresting officer testified Monday that Davis emerged from the Edgecliff Village home of his girlfriend, Karen Master, and quietly surrendered to officers in the early morning hours of Aug. 3, 1976.

The defendant Cullen Davis walked very calmly out the front door and up the sidewalk to the street, rookie policeman Sam Van Vleck, 25, told the jury.

Jury Studies Decision On Bondsman

By FRANK PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A jury was deliberating shortly before noon on the guilt or innocence of a former local bail bondsman accused of murdering a theft.

An Oklahoma convict, who was jailed here last year, said that Henry W. "Hank" Hensley suggested that he steal lumber in order to pay off a bond fee.

Dennis Wayne Adams said he tipped police to the alleged suggestion.

Hensley, 49, who owned Hank's Bail Bonds at 818 Main St. is standing trial in Judge Robert C. Wright's 137th District Court in connection with the July 17, 1976, reported theft of a lumber-filled tractor trailer from S.B. Campbell Jr. Trucking and Wholesale Co. at 3906 Quirt Ave.

Testimony Monday indicated that police planted a "body bug," a type of electronic listening device, on Adams shortly before he conferred with the bondsman in his office the day preceding the alleged theft.

Also according to testimony, about 11 local law enforcement officers trailed the truck from Lubbock, aided by an electronic "beeper" which had earlier been planted inside the vehicle, to San Angelo, where Hensley was arrested.

Adams, who, according to testimony, has twice been convicted of felonies, told

Police Seek Car's Owner

By PAT CARLSON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

"Certainly, there are indications of foul play — we just don't know to whom."

Det. Lt. Billy Knox of the Lubbock Police Department today said progress is being made in the case of a blood-soaked sedan found abandoned in an eastside alley Monday and indicated the search for answers may be narrowing.

Department of Public Safety test results late Monday confirmed what investigators had feared: the blood samples taken from the 1969 LTD were human.

Contrary to earlier reports, only one man — the car's 19-year-old owner — is missing. An acquaintance of his, whom reportedly no one had seen since early Sunday, showed up at his home late Monday, but made a hasty departure after staying only a few minutes.

According to Knox, the "friend's" mother called detectives late Monday and said she had seen a picture of the abandoned car on a television news program. She also said her son had been in the car about 9 a.m. Sunday.

At that time, the man now presumed to be missing went to the other man's house and picked him up. The woman reportedly told police her son did not indicate where they were going.

That was thought to be the last time either man was seen, until the woman reported her son's brief appearance shortly before midnight Monday. The man, however, reportedly provided no information on his earlier whereabouts or his destination.

Det. Cpl. George White and Det. James Ashmore today talked with the brother of the car's owner who said the missing man came by their home about 9 p.m. Sunday and indicated he was going to a club. The man reportedly said his brother left alone in the car.

According to Knox, police now have information that the missing man and his acquaintance were together at the night-

Heavy Hauls Reported In Burglaries

A high incidence of heavy hauls, in terms of both cash and goods, is reflected in recent burglary reports made to police.

An Austin film producer said $6,000 cash and $3,500 worth of checks were stolen from his N. Avenue Q motel room during a 30-minute period early today.

Dennis Debruhl told officers the property was in two bank bags in the top drawer of a desk and that when he returned to his room about 2:45 a.m., he found the empty bags and several checks scattered on the floor and furniture.

Reports indicated a screen was removed from an unlocked window.

The manager of the same motel told police three television sets and assorted pieces of furniture were stolen from three rooms between 8:30 p.m. and 10:50 p.m. Monday. Apparent entry in each case was through a small bathroom window.

Howard M. Ussery of 1016 Ave. A said he left his briefcase, containing $162 in a money bag, on a bed while out of town. When he returned Monday, he discovered the bag and money missing. The complainant named a suspect, saying she had asked him for $50 just before he left town.

A $2,000 tar pot was stolen from a Rt. 7, Lubbock, site late Sunday or early Monday, reports showed. According to a maintenance worker, the 380-gallon container was on a two-wheel frame and had been sitting inside a fenced area.

Whoever cut that fence reportedly got past two large guard dogs who were inside the area.

According to Eprana Robinson of 1014-C E. 29th St., someone knocked a hole in her wall from a vacant adjoining apartment and stole two rifles Monday.

Luis Ledesma of 3108 Amherst Ave. told police $150 worth of tools, two tires and a battery charger were taken from a pickup parked in his back yard Monday.

Sometime between Sunday night and early Monday, someone took a television set and a stereo valued at more than $1,235 from Luciano Peres' 806 Ave. R home, and that was only the first heist of many.

Nuben Brewer of 1907 Walnut Ave., told police determined burglars pried open the locked door to his home late Sunday afternoon in order to get at $65 in cash and more than $400 of jewelry inside the residence.

William Vincent of 2212 5th St., No. 06, told police someone took the $55 luggage jack off of his car parked outside that address about 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

From Charles Sawyer's 2145 Baylor Drive business, burglars took several undetermined items, Sawyer told police, sometime late Sunday.

Cash Registers Carried Out In Armed Robbery

In Lubbock's latest armed robbery, bandits hauled off not just the loot, but apparently leaving nothing to chance — also the two cash registers it was in.

Tim Eugene Savoy, a clerk at Pantry Food Store at 6901 Slide Road, told police he was in the store's office at the rear of the building about 11:20 p.m. Monday when a man and woman entered the front door. When the attendant met them, the man said he had run out of gas and needed a container.

The clerk said as he was walking back to the office, the man produced a small black pistol, twisted his arm behind his back and pushed him into the smaller room.

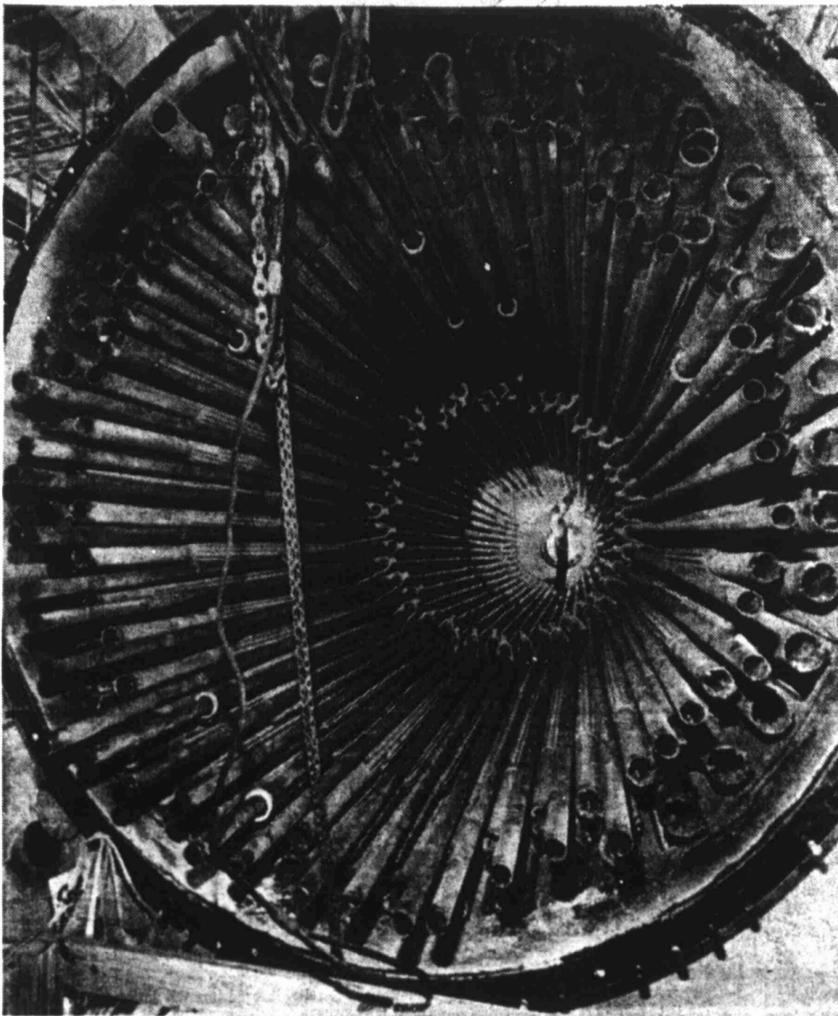

"Where do you keep the money?" the bandit reportedly asked, and warned, "Keep still or I'm gonna shoot you."

The man reportedly tied Savoy's hands behind him and made him sit in a chair, then pulled the cord from the phone. His next move, Savoy recounted, was to go back into the store and yell to his companion, "Haven't you got the ... money yet?"

The 18-year-old clerk said the next thing he heard was the sound of the bandits removing the two cash registers. When Savoy got loose and made his way to the front part of the building he found both bandits and both machines gone.

Police today still were searching for the suspects, both black and between 20 and 25 years old.

The heist was the city's 231st aggravated robbery of the year.

Juvenile Program Funding Gets Tentative Approval

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A comprehensive education and vocational training program designed to help Lubbock's juvenile offenders has received tentative funding from Gov. Dolph Briscoe's Criminal Justice Division (CJD).

A CJD juvenile justice advisory committee, the first in a three-step process of funding approval, has recommended giving $191,900 to Texas Boys Ranch located outside of Lubbock.

The ranch has provided living space for juvenile offenders since opening two years ago. But the ranch operators insist an academic and vocational training program is necessary if the boys are to have a chance of re-entering society and joining their natural families.

"As high as 97 per cent of the children referred to institutions are deficient or remedial in reading and (are unlikely) to succeed in any educational program," the ranch's grant proposal states.

The ranch has turned away nearly half of the boys referred during the last two years, because the center lacked the necessary vocational programs to help them, the proposal states.

If funding is approved, the ranch will work with the South Plains Association of Government, area counties juvenile probation departments and Lubbock's public school system in developing programs.

A vocational shop has been completed and a Learning Center should be finished later this month, the ranch reports.

In July, applications were taken for two teachers — one for vocational training and the second a reading specialist.

Working with public schools special educational departments, the ranch will work out a specialized program for each

Mother-In-Law Day Urged In Letters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every member of Congress has received a letter urging the establishment of a national Mother-in-Law Day.

Not surprisingly, the communications came from a florists' group. Florists' Transworld Delivery acknowledged gamely that their action was "not motivated solely by altruism," but said it had made studies showing that most people like their mothers-in-law and that the time has come "to refurbish the negative image of mothers-in-law as interfering, nagging shrews."

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, ran into a time problem under Senate rules, but solved it geographically.

The Senate stayed in session an unexpectedly long time while Inouye was presiding over a committee hearing. The time allowed for such a hearing to overlap a session of the full Senate ran out.

Inouye announced, "This committee hearing will go on according to Hawaii time, which is now 5:15 in the morning."

"Does it pay to write to your congressman?" Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., asked in a letter to constituents. Sometimes it does, he said, and told this story:

He received an anonymous postcard apparently from a railroad employee who had heard of Simon's efforts to require locomotives to use flashing strobe lights as a safety measure.

The writer said locomotives on a Boston-New Haven run with 21 grade crossings were equipped with the lights, but personnel had been instructed not to use them.

Simon took up the matter with Amtrak and received a reply thanking him and saying orders were being issued for locomotives equipped with the lights to use them.

Rep. John Burton, D-Calif., given to making tongue-in-cheek motions, offered one to create a volunteer force, "Reagan's Rough Riders," to defend the Panama Canal.

It specified that former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who opposes the new canal treaty now before the Senate, would be commissioned "a full bird colonel" and provided with a white horse to lead the troops.

Reagan wrote Burton, "I thought you'd like to know that the cavalry never uses white horses. They make too good a target — or was that what you had in mind?"

Burton wrote back acknowledging the point was well taken and that he would "never want to see a horse exposed to unnecessary danger."

He said he would consider an amendment to provide a palomino or strawberry roan.

Without waiting for the House to complete action on an ethics code for its employees, Rep. Newton Steers Jr., R-Md., drew up one for his staff that among other things prohibits attempts to fix traffic tickets, using official stationery to lend weight to personal complaints or requests, and accepting gifts worth more than $10.

That limit, he said, "permits social gestures, such as a box of candy or some flowers."

Gifts offered and returned because of the ban include two radio sets, tickets to various events, elaborate books, lithographs and a solar-powered hand calculator.

Sale Of Cubs To Benefit Club Project

Proceeds from the auction sale of two lion cubs Sunday will be used to purchase electrical wheelchairs at the Lubbock State School.

Mrs. Donny Lou Kelsey of the state school said the proceeds will be given to the school's Volunteer Services Council, which will buy the wheelchairs for students.

The proceeds are being given in memory of the late Slim Corbin, brother of local radio personality Larry Corbin. The cubs are being donated by Bob Montgomery of Lubbock.

Auctioneer Ken Draper said the two lion cubs will be sold at the beginning of an auction at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. The auction, which will include animals of the former Noah's Ark zoo, will be held at the zoo location on the Slaton Highway, U.S. 87, two miles southeast of the Lubbock city limits.

Draper, who added that the auctioneers will not charge for auctioning the two lion cubs, said he hopes the sale price for the cubs is high enough to purchase four of the electrical wheelchairs.

Milsap Gets Top Awards In Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Blind singer Ronnie Milsap cut loose with a yell as he stepped up to claim his title as country music's entertainer of the year, which he won along with honors for top male vocalist and best album.

Fellow performers echoed Milsap's joy Monday night, jumping up to applaud the singer's sweep of the Country Music Association awards ceremony.

"There's a lot of good talent in this industry, and I'm not sure I'm deserving," Milsap said as well-wishers pumped his arms and slapped his back. "I want my friends around; where are they? It's been a long road, and I didn't expect to win."

Milsap, born blind but master of the violin, piano and guitar by age 12, won the male vocalist award in 1974 and 1976. An early fascination with country music often got him in trouble with instructors who caught him practicing Jerry Lee Lewis instead of Beethoven.

Crystal Gayle, with hip-length hair swinging like sleek curtains around her face, said it was the sultry ballad, "Don't It Make My Brown Eyes Blue," that won her best female vocalist honors over her sister, Loretta Lynn, and other well-established stars.

"That song, it's just special and simple. And I'm fairly simple, too," she said, eyeing Dolly Parton's fringed, sequined get-up. "I'm not one to be flashy, and I think country fans are changing a little. We've opened the doors where anything goes."

Miss Parton, favored to win best entertainer or top female vocalist, left empty-handed. Waylon Jennings, also considered a frontrunner but who won nothing this year, boycotted the awards, saying they foster unnecessary rivalry.

"Lucille," the tale of a barroom encounter of a woman and the husband she deserted "with four hungry kids and a crop in the field," won record of the year honors for Kenny Rogers and best song awards for songwriters Roger Bowling and Hal Bynum.

Rogers described "Lucille" as a sad tune people are glad to sing. "They snicker the first time they hear it, but the next time around they're singing the words," Rogers said. "It's today's 'On Top of Old Smokey.'"

The vocal duo of the year award went to Jim Ed Brown and Helen Cornelius. The Statler Brothers were picked best vocal group for the sixth straight year.

Roy Clark, whose banjo and guitar picking highlights the homegrown humor of "Hee Haw," was named instrumentalist of the year. The Original Texas Playboys claimed the title of the year's best instrumental group.

About 5,000 members of the CMA, representing all segments of the $300 million industry centered in Nashville, chose master musician Merle Travis as the Country Music Hall of Fame's 30th member. "Oh, that old thing," Travis said of his classic "16 Tons" when an admiring stagehand congratulated the guitarist and mentioned his favorite tune.

TRIUMPHANT TRIO — "Lucille," sung by Kenny Rogers, left, was chosen song of the year and single of the year by the country music industry Monday night in Nashville. Ronnie Milsap won entertainer of the year, male vocalist of the year and best album. Crystal Gayle was voted top female vocalist. (AP Laserphoto)

Plant Officials Say Production Resumes

HOUSTON (AP) — Officials at Hughes Tool Co. say about 50 per cent of normal rock bit production has been resumed at the plant despite a three-week strike by about 3,000 workers.

However, W.R. Morris, president of United Steelworkers of America Local 1742, disagreed, claiming production was completely down and would remain down until the union was offered an acceptable contract.

Members of the local voted Sept. 18 to strike Hughes Tool after rejecting a contract the company said would raise wages and benefits about 34 per cent over three years. A new package, the company said was its final offer, was turned down Oct. 2. In the past week the company has been processing 30 to 40 job applications a day for permanent employment, a company spokesman said.

Americans Celebrate Feat By Columbus

By United Press International
Vice President Walter Mondale, a Norwegian from Minnesota, became an honorary Italian in Chicago.

More than 2,000 women ran a footrace in Cambridge, Mass.

A janitor named Joe Cervetto claimed California for the Queen of Spain.

One hundred thousand turned out in New York to watch 18 marching bands and a clutch of political candidates along 44 blocks of Fifth Avenue.

In Pennsylvania, latter-day Vikings smugly braved wind and rain to celebrate "Leif Erickson Day" once their less hardy neighbors called off the Columbus Day parade.

All the activity celebrated the 1492 landing, in the Bahamas, of Christopher Columbus, regarded by most as the discoverer of the new world.

Only in Media, Pa. — where Ivar Christensen has been trying for nine years to get the son of Eric the Red recognized as the legitimate heir to that mantle — did the iconoclasts carry the day.

"I heard on the radio at 9 a.m. that the Columbus Day parade was on, rain or shine," Christensen said. "Then at 10 a.m. I heard that it was canceled. It was this kind of indecision that caused them (Columbus and his crew) to get here 500 years too late."

Christensen says his Leif Erickson Society now boasts 999 members, among them Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and actress Liv Ullman. They contend Erickson, not Columbus, did all the discovering as early as A.D. 1000.

Mondale, though of Norse extraction, bowed to popular tradition and marched down Chicago's State Street in a parade with Italian Ambassador Robert Gaja and Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill.

Gaja praised Mondale for his "sympathy for Italian-Americans and his Italian-American relations," noting that Italian President Giovanni Leone has awarded him the Knight Grand Cross of the Italian Republic.

In Cambridge, Mass., 10,000 spectators turned out to watch Lynn Jennings, 17, a Harvard, Mass., high school senior, beat 2,307 other women in the 6.2-mile mini-marathon for women — a race in which Kitty Dukakis, wife of Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, was a contestant.

Miss Jennings won it in 34 minutes and 31 seconds, 19 seconds ahead of her closest challenger.

In North Beach, Calif., Joe Cervetto, who runs a janitorial service when he's not playing the role of Christopher Columbus, waded ashore at Aquatic Park clad in wine-colored tights and a white ruff.

Brandishing a sword, he cried, "I come from far beyond the rising sun."

Only a few hundred people turned out for this year's re-enactment of Columbus landing, compared to the 40,000 who watched the event when it first was re-enacted in 1916 by another Columbus named Emilio Astreto.

At that time Astreto was backed by a flotilla of 70 barges and yachts and the battleship Oregon.

This year's queen of Spain for the North Beach festival was Paula Matarra, whose lineage is Sicilian.

Singer Sergio Franchi served as grand marshal for New York City's traditional Columbus Day parade, which included a 15-foot-high replica of Columbus' flagship, the Santa Maria, and four mayoral candidates in full campaign cry.

In Los Angeles, California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said Americans should be inspired by Columbus' feat to explore the yet unknown: space.

"This universe still lays before us. It's just the beginning of untold new possibilities," he told city leaders, the Italian Consul, the Sons of Italy and the Garibaldi Society.

He predicted that by 1992 — the 600th anniversary of Columbus' landing — satellites will be circling the globe, transforming solar energy into electrical power and beaming it to earth.

Solons Restore Local Lawyer Groups To List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has decided to give local bar associations the right to be told in advance when a government-supported legal services program for the poor is to be established in their communities.

Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., told the Senate that notification of the local lawyer groups was required until 1974, when the independent Legal Services Corp. was established. Before then, legal help for the poor was a direct responsibility of the executive branch of government under programs adopted in the 1960s.

Since 1974, only state bar associations and governors have had to be given 30 days notice, so they could make comments and recommendations. Danforth's amendment would restore the local organizations to the list. It was adopted by voice vote Monday.

Further debate was scheduled today on a bill to extend the life of the Legal Services Corp. for five years and authorize increased appropriations. The corporation already has received an appropriation of $205 million for fiscal year 1978, up $80 million from the previous year.

Also adopted Monday was an amendment by Sen. William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, to authorize legal service grants for rural people who live in harsh climates and do not have adequate transportation. Hathaway said it is often hard for such people to get to a lawyer during severe winter weather.

The Senate approved a compromise version of an amendment by Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., restricting the corporation's ability to file friend of the court briefs outlining its views on court cases in which it is not directly involved.

Hayakawa originally proposed that the corporation be banned altogether from filing such briefs. Sen. John H. Chafee, R-R.I., argued this would bar the corporation from expressing its views on issues in which poor people have an interest.

Hayakawa agreed to permit such briefs if the poor people involved are represented by organizations financed by the corporation.

Senators Planning Close Look At Vernon Native

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — It is Lynn Coleman's luck to come before the Senate for confirmation after, and not before, the Bert Lance affair.

Coleman, nominated by President Carter as general counsel of the Department of Energy, is a partner in the Washington office of the Houston law firm of Vinson and Elkins, which numbers John Connally among its partners and many oil and gas companies among its clients.

For that reason, and because of Senate embarrassment over what was not discovered in Lance's confirmation process, Coleman is undergoing intense scrutiny by the Senate's staff in preparation for hearings that should begin later this month, said Tom Hall of Sen. Howard Metzenbaum's staff.

Hall said Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, intends to question Coleman closely about his efforts for clients like Houston Natural Gas Corp., Tricentral U.S. Inc., United Gas Pipeline Co., and Belco Petroleum, which was one of the companies which won a threefold increase in the price of natural gas from the Federal Power Commission several years ago.

Others see Coleman's appointment as a refutation of Carter's avowed desire to stop the "revolving door" between government agencies and the industries they are supposed to regulate.

"It sounds like there's some impropriety just in the fact that he's from John Connally's law firm. They should have found someone more committed to the public interest point of view or to no point of view rather than someone from Vinson and Elkins," said Ellen Berman of the Consumer Federation of America.

But Coleman has his defenders and backers. Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., recommended him for the job. Eckhardt is one of the rare Texas congressmen who frequently votes against positions taken by the oil and gas industry.

Eckhardt says he regards Coleman as representative of a younger generation of Texas lawyers who are "more idealistic and progressive than the generation which preceded them. He's a man of great breadth and intelligence and not a captive of the corporate mentality."

Coleman, 38, laughs about the various descriptions of him. He says he has been called the "house liberal" at Vinson and Elkins, but he finds most labels "not that significant. I've always just considered myself a mainstream Democrat."

Coleman shifts a bit in his chair and grows serious when asked if a man of his background can effectively regulate the energy industry.

He says that his appointment will not be a "revolving door" transition. He notes that he has signed the administration's agreement that obligates him to serve throughout Carter's tenure and limits his ability to represent the energy industry for two years after he leaves government.

And he says that his relationship with the industry was a professional one, which taught him things that will be beneficial in his new job as drafter and interpreter of the rules which regulate the industry.

But did he ever feel personally uncomfortable with the industry positions he espoused as an attorney?

"No. As a lawyer, you act in a professional capacity. You advise the client and help him state his case. The question doesn't occur for a lawyer as to whether he agrees or disagrees."

It's different, Coleman said, when a lawyer lobbies for a client, as he has done for Houston Natural Gas Corp. "A law change by Congress affects many people. I'm fortunate that I've never had to advocate a law before Congress that I found personally repugnant."

He pointed out that Houston Natural

Gas, unlike most gas companies, believes government regulation is needed for both the interstate and intrastate markets.

Coleman said he would prefer not to discuss his views on specific energy issues such as gas price deregulation. But he said he recognizes a continuing need for government to monitor and control the energy industry and an inherent potential for conflict between the industry's strictly corporate goals and the best interests of society.

Eckhardt dismissed the possibility that Coleman might be too closely tied to the industry. "A person engaged in a law practice tends to be engaged with a great number of issues strictly as a professional and can turn off his loyalty to old clients," Eckhardt said.

Furthermore, Eckhardt said, the Department of Energy's top lawyers now come almost exclusively from government backgrounds. "They need a mix of backgrounds."

He related how Coleman's industry experience had helped when Eckhardt wanted to write coal-slurry pipeline legislation that would exclude some kinds of companies and affect others. The government lawyers did not know enough about the intricacies of the energy industry's structure to write the legislation properly, he said. Coleman did.

Coleman is an amiable Texas native with a thick shock of dark-brown hair across his forehead and tortoise-shell glasses. He resembles Gregory Peck as Atticus Finch, the Southern lawyer in the film "To Kill a Mockingbird."

He comes by his small-town air naturally, having been born and having grown up in Vernon, down the road from Archer City, scene of Larry McMurtry's novel, "The Last Picture Show."

Life in Vernon was much like the life of the novel, he said.

"My father had a grocery store where I worked, there was a movie theater across the street that I went to every Saturday and a pool hall across the alley that I attended irregularly and surreptitiously."

Coleman was an excellent student, and he moved through Abilene Christian University, where he led the debate team, to the University of Texas Law School, to a clerkship with Judge John R. Brown on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, to a place with Vinson and Elkins in 1975.

Coleman said he generally brings work home to his Capitol Hill house at night. But when he does relax, he said his favorite activity is simply conversing with friends. He also jogs, an activity that he has had to forego since falling off his daughter's skateboard recently and breaking his leg.

First Lady Calls Other Nations For Caribbean Area Assistance

DORADO, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Rosalynn Carter today called on interested nations to coordinate development assistance to the Caribbean area, and said the United States "is eager to meet with others to discuss this idea."

The first lady described the U.S. plan for coordinated assistance in an address prepared for the 18th Annual UPI Editors and Publishers Conference meeting here.

"We hope this can be done before the end of this year," she said, adding that recipients "of this group effort would be all the nations in that region with which we have normal diplomatic or commercial relations."

She said that prerequisite would "apparently rule out the participation of Cuba."

Mrs. Carter said development assistance now comes from many different sources, "with little or no coordination or overall purpose ... and the economic problems are getting worse."

"All these individual efforts need to be organized and coordinated better," she said. "One idea would be to set up a group which would include representatives from all of the countries and all of the institutions interested in contributing to the development of the Caribbean."

Mrs. Carter said the decision on the most appropriate multilateral approach "can only be made in a cooperative spirit with all those who wish to be a part of this major undertaking."

Mary Hoyt, the First Lady's news secretary, said this was the first time the U.S. proposal for a Caribbean Regional Development Assistance Group had been "articulated," although others said it had been in the planning stage for some time.

successful and otherwise" had been based primarily on economic aid.

"With the Panama Canal treaty, a powerful and tangible new factor has been added," she said, "a spirit of equality, mutual respect, partnership, and an end to a damaging image of colonialism."

She said there is "great interest" in Caribbean development and that along with three international development banks a number of countries, including the United States, Venezuela, Trinidad, Tobago, Canada, Great Britain, France and the Netherlands, already have important assistance programs in the area.

She said Mexico also has long been interested in helping the region.

Rare Cancer Suspected In Deaths Of Workers

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — As many as six workers exposed to a chemical used in making synthetic rubber in the 1950s may have died from a rare form of cancer, it has been reported.

Another 150 of their colleagues have undergone twice-yearly tests since then. The Charleston Gazette reported today that Monsanto chemical company spokesman Barney Wander said about six employees heavily exposed to the substance at a plant near here died of bladder tumors. Use of the substance, para-aminobiphenyl (PAB), was stopped immediately when the cancer threat surfaced in 1955, he said.

However, Wander later denied that he had specified six deaths. "I don't know the number of deaths myself. I have no way to judge that," Wander told the Associated Press in an interview.

The newspaper reported that workers at the plant, at Nitro, said as many as 12 may have died of bladder cancer.

The company discovered in 1955 that PAB was entering the lungs of workers and passing through their blood and urine to their bladders, where it caused cancer, according to Wander, who is based in St. Louis.

"We immediately stopped using PAB," Wander said. "Monsanto did all it could to make the best of a difficult situation ... There are 155 men at Nitro in the screening program, getting medical exams every six months."

"We've never attempted to hide it," Wander said. "All the families knew about it."

Monsanto could not be sure of the number of PAB-related deaths and illnesses without extensive checks of company files, Wander said. He added that PAB had been used only at the Nitro plant.

Estel Dailey of Bancroft in Putnam County was one worker who was exposed to PAB. He told The Gazette: "They doctored me six or seven years before they finally took my bladder out in 1964. Monsanto paid all my medical costs."

"I'm the only one I know who lived this long, but my back and hips hurt so bad I can't do much."

Others who worked at Monsanto at the time said that after the danger was discovered, part of the building where PAB was used was torn down and remodeled.

Bill Would Permit 15,000 Refugees

WASHINGTON (AP) — An additional 15,000 Indochinese refugees may settle in the United States if a Senate-passed bill becomes law.

The Senate approved the additional immigration by a voice vote this week and sent the bill to the House.

The measure extends for four years the federal aid program for 150,000 Indochinese refugees now in this country. The program reimburses state and local governments for helping the refugees adjust to their new communities.

The bill also allows the Justice Department to permit applications for citizenship after five years in residence.

DR. LAMB

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—I just read your column about the lady who likes to smoke and I have some additional comments that I feel from deep inside my conscience.

After smoking since I was 12 years old I've grown increasingly dependent on my vice. I also resent the comments made by people that it's a nasty habit and offends people socially. But may I ask why everyone makes such a big deal of smoking and completely ignores those who drink themselves into a stupor every night because they want to relax?

I feel resentful toward people when they drink and become different from the persons they really are! They become obnoxious, mouthy and care less about anyone's feeling and there are those who suddenly become quiet and are about as much company as a brick wall. They drive and cause many accidents that in many cases involve innocent people and inconvenience people by "passing out" and having to be carried out. Thanks, but if there's a choice, I'll take smoking. It's much less hazardous.

DEAR READER—Funny, but I had an idea that you may have had someone close to you in mind when you were complaining about the effects of drinking on the personality. There is no reason why you need to choose between two bad habits. I don't recommend smoking instead of drinking. My advice is don't do either.

Alcoholism is a severe problem. Did you know cirrhosis of the liver is the fourth common cause of death in American men between the ages of 35 and 54 and that 60 per cent of these liver deaths are caused by alcoholism? It's true. It is just another example of how people affect their own health, as opposed to depending upon the doctor to provide life and health everlasting regardless of what they do.

No, I am not going to endorse your bad habit but I will say that drinking irresponsibly is also hazardous to your health. I would concur that a warning label should be on every beverage containing alcohol. It is a poison. It does destroy health, personality and families.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine, Beer. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It will give you a lot more information on how alcohol is hazardous to your health. You might be wise to share its content with some of those in your life who use too much alcohol. There are a lot of people who both drink to excess and smoke. The combination is like playing Russian roulette with two chambers of the revolver instead of just one.

Incidentally it is not true that alcohol relaxes a person. It may be a social lubricant for some people but it is a depressant or an anesthetic. The person may not feel his anxiety or tension but he has not relieved it with alcohol. He has only numbed his senses. A much better and more healthy tranquilizer is exercise. A good walk, a swim, or participation in some sport you enjoy is much better for a person's health. A wife can help in this area by planning family activities at the end of the day that provides health exercise.

Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Senator Seeks Metric Act Referendum

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Hoosiers opposed to footing the bill, budging an inch or yielding an ounce of their loyalty to the traditional English system of weights and measures may get a chance to vote "no" to metric conversion.

State Sen. Lawrence Borst said he will introduce in the next legislative session a resolution asking for a statewide referendum on the subject.

Borst uses metric measurements in his work as a veterinarian. He wrote a resolution in the past calling for metric instruction in the Indiana school curriculum.

However, "I think we in the Indiana legislature need to know exactly the true sentiments of the public," he said in an interview.

The advisory referendum, if approved by the legislature, would be a simple "yes" or "no" vote added to the fall election ballots of 1978, he said.

The Metric Conversion Act of 1975 does not force the changeover, but is meant to ease the voluntary conversion already begun, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., has explained.

He and Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., both have said they were pleased that the Federal Highway Administration, after receiving an overwhelmingly negative response, backed off from its proposal to change the nation's highway signs to metric figures.

Opposition to the conversion is bipartisan.

Rep. David W. Evans, D-Ind., nominated Indianapolis lawyer and fellow Democrat Robert F. Wagner to President Carter's Metric Council, which seeks citizens' views.

Wagner heads the national Metric Rebellion group recently established in Indianapolis.

He said he has received more than 1,500 letters — mainly favorable to his cause — from across the nation.

Man Criticizes SEC Agency

By LeROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — Peter Del Col is going to get his chance on Oct. 20 to tell the full Securities and Exchange Commission that its National Securities Clearing Corp. (NSCC) is a Frankenstein's monster that can strangle all competition in the business.

Del Col's Bradford National Corp., which is in the securities clearance, settlement and depository services business, is suing the SEC in the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia to knock out or drastically modify the NSCC, which was set up last January.

Del Col has testified before SEC staff officials against the NSCC and also has won the sympathy of a House subcommittee led by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif.

Del Col began his campaign against NSCC long before it came into being. He charged that Congress, in the name of insuring competition in the securities markets was doing the exact opposite. He told Congressman Moss's subcommittee the effect of the NSCC on the securities market would be almost as disastrous as a three-way merger of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler could be to the automobile world.

On another occasion he said the operation of NSCC would be much like permitting competition in the manufacture of automobiles, but establishing a huge monopoly in the manufacture and production of tires, without which automobiles would be useless.

Del Col's charges boil down to a contention that the National Securities Clearing Corp. would perpetuate the dominance of the securities business by the New York Stock Exchange even after a new national unified stock market set-up was created and put in operation. He has been supported in this contention by some of the regional exchanges, in particular by G. Robert Ackerman, president of the Pacific Exchange.

Del Col will tell the full SEC that a unified national competitive securities market simply cannot exist if it is forced to depend on an underlying clearing system that has such monopolistic powers that it can fix clearing fees for 85 per cent of the national market and 99 per cent of the New York market.

He charged the NSCC can engage in predatory pricing and force everybody else out of the securities clearing and settlement business.

As an example of favoritism by the NSCC for the New York Stock Exchange, he told United Press International that NSCC tried to force traders to pay interest charges when they traded through the Pacific exchange but put no such charge on trades on the NYSE.

"We fought that one successfully," Del Col said. "The rule was changed on Aug. 1."

But he said the NSCC now is proposing a discriminatory clearing fee schedule that will force banks to pay fees twice as high as brokers.

He will tell the full SEC that, as presently set up, the NSCC not only will stifle competition but will prevent the development of new more efficient and less costly securities trading methods.

City 'Inflicted' By Government

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The current issue of Washingtonian magazine proposes evicting Congress and the Supreme Court from the nation's capital because "no city should have more than a single branch of government inflicted on it."

It proposed moving the court to Los Angeles and Congress to Hannibal, Mo.

"One branch of government is enough; no city should have more than a single branch of government inflicted on it," the magazine said.

Among the reasons for evicting Congress are that it would save energy; Washington would get a baseball franchise; Congress gives Washington a bad name; "you can't trust them with your daughters;" there would finally be enough cabs to go around; Congress has all the good parking places, and they don't pay their taxes.

Oxygen Stimulation Treatment Criticized By Medical Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new medical study says a couple of martinis probably produce as much stimulation as an expensive "fountain of youth" oxygen technique used to perk up mentally sluggish senior citizens.

The National Institute of Mental Health study says countless elderly Americans have paid hundreds of thousands of dollars in recent years to don masks, climb into chambers that look like iron lungs and breathe pure oxygen in the belief it will revitalize their brain cells and reverse senility.

The NIMH study, to be published in the Archives of General Psychiatry, concludes that most such people have wasted

Doctors Say Law Should Define Death

CHICAGO (UPI) — Six New York doctors say the nation's lawbooks should be updated to accept that a man dies when his brain dies.

"The principal reason for deciding that a person is dead should be based on a fundamental understanding of the nature of man," the doctors said in this week's Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Without a brain, the body becomes the convenient medium in which the energy-requiring states of organs run down and the organs decay. These residual activities do not confer an iota of humanity or personality."

Some states still define death in other ways or fail to provide uniform definition, leading to complex legal questions about medical treatment.

"We are convinced that society now has sufficient philosophical certainty ... to use destruction of the brain as an indicator that the person has died," the team said.

The accepted definition of brain death was worked out at Harvard Medical School in 1968. It includes: "Unresponsiveness, unresponsiveness, absence of spontaneous movements and breathing, absent reflexes, fixed dilated pupils, and persistence of these findings over a 24-hour period in the absence of intoxicants or hypothermia."

The doctors also reasoned the concept of death when the brain stops functioning does not conflict with either Orthodox Jewish or Roman Catholic dogma.

The Orthodox Jewish position allows a distinction between cell life and the total life of an individual. By that definition, "there is no religious imperative to continue to use a respirator ... in an otherwise dead patient."

In Roman Catholic thought, the primary concept of death is separation of the soul from the body. Since that event cannot be observed, theologians have accepted outward signs such as the end of heartbeats and breathing as marking death. But recent teaching holds that if such outward signs are admitted to show death, the underlying cause of brain death is an even more certain symptom of death.

While there is no consistent Protestant position, many Protestant theologians have accepted the end of brain function as the indicator of death, the doctors argued.

Group Offers Help For Free-Lancers

NEW YORK (AP) — A service organization for free-lance publishing industry personnel has been established here.

The group, which was incorporated under New York State's non-profit organization laws, is called the Free-Lance Editorial Workers Association, Inc. (FEWA) and is open to all non-salaried editorial employees — editors, copy-editors, researchers, indexers, readers and translators — regardless of geographic boundaries.

ed their money. Allen Raskin, leader of the NIMH study team, said a few of the 82 elderly persons who participated in the institute's testing of so-called "hyperbaric oxygenation" did show improvement on memory tests.

But so did a few persons who breathed air instead of oxygen for comparison purposes, she said.

For most of the NIMH study patients — average age 72 — each twice-daily jolt of pure oxygen probably had about as much temporary stimulative effect as two martinis or so, said Raskin.

Dr. Robert Butler, director of the government's National Institute on Aging, recently complained to Consumers Digest about an article that appeared to promote oxygen treatment as a cure for memory loss and wrinkles.

He said NIMH experiments found the treatment "to be nothing short of quackery and another fruitless attempt to discover a fountain of youth."

According to the NIMH research team, oxygen treatment as an antidote to senility has become something of a vogue.

It found such treatment offered in well-established hospitals and health institutions in California, Florida, New York and other states. One facility was reportedly charging about $5,000 for two weeks of treatment.

Medical literature indicates the trend stems from the hopeful findings of a Buffalo, N.Y. Veterans Administration Hospital study of "hyperbaric oxygenation."

In a 1969 New England Journal of Medicine article, the Buffalo researchers described their "highly significant" success with experiments involving 13 male patients, average age 68.

After breathing pure oxygen twice a day, 90 minutes each time, for 15 days the men did better on psychological tests than they had before the treatment, the Buffalo study said.

"Our work indicates ... that the psychological symptoms of gross senility can be markedly and reliably alleviated by intermittent oxygenation ..." it said.

Suit Questions IQ Test Bias

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — IQ tests — and their alleged built-in bias against minority children — go on trial here today in a class action lawsuit filed on behalf of six black children placed in classes for the mentally retarded because of low IQ test scores.

"The basic claim that we're trying is that the IQ tests are culturally biased against black children because they don't take into consideration the cultural experience of the children," said attorney Sam Miller.

The class action suit was filed in 1971 after the black children scored below 75 on standard intelligence quotient tests and were placed in classes for the "educable mentally retarded."

The children scored 17 to 35 points higher when retested by the Bay Area Association of Black Psychologists, using tests reworded to better reflect the language and experience of the children.

Miller claims the misuse of IQ tests in class placement could result in irrevocably stunting the educational growth of some minority children.

After the suit was filed, U.S. District Court Judge Robert Peckham stopped the placement of San Francisco black children in classes for the retarded when based on results of IQ tests, pending the outcome of the trial. Other criteria have been used since then. Peckham is hearing the nonjury trial.

At the time the suit was filed, 66.3 per cent of the students in the special classes were black, while 28.5 per cent of the total school population was black.

Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and a group called Public Advocates will assist in challenging the tests.

Defendants in the case include both the state and San Francisco school superintendents and the state and city school boards.

In pre-trial briefs, school officials argued that blacks predominate in the special classes in inner-city schools because of a whole range of social and economic factors, including poor nutrition, poor home environment and greater incidence of one-parent families.

The documents also referred to the possibility of "a poorer genetic pool for all races 'ghettoized' in the inner city."

Tom Griffin, chief counsel for the state Department of Education, said the genetic argument could be argued across race lines and did not represent any allegations that blacks were genetically inferior to whites.

In pretrial documents, Roger Lennon, an expert in testing, said there were no culture-free tests.

"We cannot build a test that is divorced from culture," he said. "If we could, it would be hard to see what utility it would have."

Lennon said the importance of IQ tests lay in their reflection of the language used in the classroom, although they might not reflect black culture.

"For example, the school, and presumably, most parents, are interested in a child's being able to read and understand the vocabulary used at school to transmit the curriculum," he said.

Oil Demand Rising In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. demand for petroleum products has been rising at a record rate for this time of year, and oil imports provide more than 48 per cent of the supply, the Department of Energy reports.

The department's latest petroleum-demand summary figures are for the four weeks ended last Sept. 23.

During that time, it said, imports of crude oil averaged nearly 6.5 million barrels a day, or 36.2 per cent of the nation's total petroleum demand of 17.86 million barrels daily.

Imports of refined petroleum products accounted for another 2.12 million barrels a day, or 11.9 per cent of total demand.

Meanwhile, that total demand itself had climbed some 6.3 per cent from a year ago.

After a dip in demand that followed the 1973-1974 Arab oil embargo, U.S. consumption of oil reverted to its steady increasing trend and has climbed now to about 7 per cent higher than its pre-embargo level of September 1973.

But the proportion of foreign oil in the U.S. supply has climbed even faster, despite the hardships of the Arab embargo and the quadrupling of world oil prices that went along with it.

The department said total petroleum imports for the latest reporting period had increased nearly 10 per cent from the past year and were 33.8 per cent higher than in September 1973, just before the embargo.

Houston Police Try To Meet State Law

HOUSTON (AP) — A spokesman for the Houston Police Department says the department is attempting to comply with a state law which requires that arrested persons be notified of the way they can have their record cleared.

The requirement has been in effect since Aug. 29. It was passed in the last legislative session.

Rick Hartley, a spokesman for Police Chief Harry Caldwell, said there was no time estimate when those arrested would begin getting their rights explained to them in writing, as the law requires.

After the time the suit was filed, 66.3 per cent of the students in the special classes were black, while 28.5 per cent of the total school population was black.

Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and a group called Public Advocates will assist in challenging the tests.

Termites Eyed To Aid Desert

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (UPI) — A research biologist says termites, which can bring down a house, also can help restore a Mexican desert and the southwestern United States to fertile grassland.

Under a grant from the National Science Foundation, Dr. Walter Whitford of New Mexico State University is conducting laboratory and field research with termites and soil mixes.

He said termites can feed on dead vegetation, process it with nitrogen through their own systems and return it to the lifeless soil as fertilizer.

Whitford said he believes the insects can play an important role in reforesting the Chihuahuan desert, which extends from Mexico City north to Socorro, N.M., west to Wilcox, Ariz., and east to the Big Bend area of Texas.

Until 70 or 80 years ago, Whitford said, the desert was lush, green grassland, but several decades of overgrazing and subsequent erosion left only sparse desert vegetation.

Whitford said he believes studies have shown lack of rainfall was not as much a limiting factor in desert vegetation as the lack of vegetation itself. He said more carbon or dead plant material may be needed for the process of nitrogen fixation.

Jail Escapees Leave Letter

CARNESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Two prisoners left a letter before escaping from the Franklin County jail, telling the sheriff they were only human and "just needed a taste of freedom."

Sheriff Clifford Royston on Monday made public a letter by David Worley, 34, which was also signed by Ricky Lamar Hughes, 29. Serving 20 years for armed robbery, they had recently lost an appeal for a new trial and escaped last week by sawing through bars.

"You have been a most fair man," they said. "We really regret these circumstances and situation and it may be a foolish move on our part but we need to relieve some mental and physical pressures."

"We had hoped ... we could return to our homes and families. We don't intend to partake in any crime and we will be back in this county to face another charge on our own, we hope."

"We're human, we just needed a taste of freedom."

For Royston, who has been ill recently, they added: "We wish you the best, take care and stay out of the hospital."

Viewing Solar Eclipse Can Cause Damage

By JIM BUSBY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Observation of Wednesday's partial solar eclipse may leave permanent eye damage in persons who employ improper viewing techniques, experts warn.

And some of the supposed "protective" procedures — such as using smoked glass to filter sun rays — provide only false security and may result in irreparable eye damage.

Some amateur eclipse viewers apparently assume they are safe when they feel no pain from sun-viewing. But that is no assurance of safety.

Dr. Robert Moreland, associate math professor and astronomy instructor at Texas Tech, said he plans to demonstrate one proper viewing technique to students during the mid-afternoon partial eclipse Wednesday.

Moreland said he will show students a way to observe the eclipse by casting the sun's image onto a shaded card — a viewing technique that involves no direct sighting of the sun.

Moreland said some telescopes have accessory "solar eyepiece" attachments, but warned that these can be dangerous. Some of these attachments often are found in the less expensive, children's telescopes, he said.

Texas Tech Planetarium director Ron Johnston said the eclipse should reach its peak in the Lubbock area about 4 p.m. when 35-40 per cent of the sun will be obscured by the moon. The moon will "start crossing the sun" about 2:50-2:55 p.m., he said.

The Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness reports that while the sun's rays appear to be blocked, invisible infrared light rays can burn the retina, producing a "blind spot in the vital area used for reading and close work." Direct viewing, the Society states, can lead to blindness.

In a special notice, the Society notes "there is no safe way to view the eclipse directly. Sunglasses, goggles, smoked glass filters or homemade viewing devices cannot give the eyes 100 per cent protection from the harmful rays."

CIA Head Says U.S. Spying 'Essential'

ATLANTA (AP) — Spying is an essential part of U.S. intelligence-gathering efforts, but there now are groups making sure the cloak-and-dagger work doesn't trample the rights of U.S. citizens, Stansfield Turner, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, said.

"I assure you that with all the many wonderful technical means available to us today, the traditional, the historic, clandestine spying activity continues to be an absolutely essential arrow in our quiver," Turner said.

"But we must make very careful judgments as to the lengths we will go in such clandestine activities," he added.

Turner told an Atlanta audience the CIA has "no contractual relations with accredited American newsmen," but will accept information given by newsmen as American citizens.

In addition, he said, the agency is willing to return the favor by giving newsmen unclassified data they might find useful.

The additional supervision Congress has taken over the CIA is needed, he said, but there are "risks" involved.

Clandestine activities are almost totally overseas operations, Turner said, but they must be used sparingly with the need for information weighed against this country's "fundamental desire" to deal honestly with other nations.

Leaks of secret CIA information have occasionally placed the agency at a disadvantage to Soviet spies, Turner said, but overall, U.S. intelligence operations are superior to those of the Soviet Union because of more sophisticated systems and because CIA analysts have greater freedom to honestly evaluate information.

Jury Completed In Mabra Trial

Testimony in the David Mabra capital murder trial was scheduled to begin this afternoon after attorneys finally selected a twelfth juror earlier in the day.

It took eight days of individual juror examination to form the panel which will hear the possible life or death case.

Mabra, 20, is standing trial in Judge John McFall's 237th District Court in connection with the Oct. 21, 1975, shotgun slaying of Amarillo convenience store clerk Edith Whitfield.

Prosecutors allege the victim was killed during a robbery, making the offense a capital crime.

The incident occurred in Amarillo, but Mabra's trial was moved here on a change of venue after a co-defendant received the death penalty from an Amarillo jury.

If Mabra is convicted of the capital charge, he will receive either the death penalty or life imprisonment, the only punishment options open to jurors after a capital conviction.

Panel Okays Application By LISD

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A 15-member Parent Advisory Committee today endorsed the Lubbock Independent School District's application for continued federal support for bilingual education in predominantly low-income Mexican-American areas of the city.

The school district will seek about $130,000 for the 1978-79 academic term under the federal Title VII program. As during the current year, the money will be used for:

- Bilingual materials and teacher aides for the fifth grades at Jackson, Harwell, McWhorter, Tubbs and Wolfirth Elementary Schools.
- A communications resource room, staffed by a bilingual teacher and aide, for individualized instruction at Wolfirth. A smaller communications laboratory also will be continued at Tubbs.
- College training of teacher aides in bilingual education.
- Programs to involve parents in their children's schools.

The proposed fifth grade Title VII project will complement a locally funded bilingual effort in grades four and six of the five target schools. In addition, the state provides a bilingual program for kindergarten and grades one through three in the Title VII schools and eleven other elementary schools in Lubbock.

All told, the Lubbock school system operates 92 bilingual classrooms with some 1,300 students participating, according to Mary Gryder, bilingual director.

Parents on the Title VII advisory committee, which is chaired by Mercedes Molina, voiced support for the district's application to renew federal funding. They said the federal program, started about 10 years ago in Lubbock, has made a difference in students.

The goal of bilingual education, Mrs. Gryder said, is to "teach children to use the language they bring from home and at the same time teach them English. We want to increase their effectiveness in both languages."

Also, Mrs. Gryder said, the program seeks to develop students' pride in their Mexican heritage.

Although primarily aimed at students of limited English-speaking ability, the bilingual program also is open to students who want to learn Spanish as a second language. Mrs. Gryder said there are many blacks and a few whites enrolled in the bilingual projects.

Testimony Continues In Suit Of Airmen

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Testimony was continuing here today before U.S. District Court Judge Halbert O. Woodward of Lubbock in a suit by two airmen seeking honorable discharges because they claim the Air Force didn't fulfill their enlistment contract.

Henry A. Silverio of Jacksonville, Fla., now stationed in Maryland, and Stephen J. Bell of Sunnyside, Wash., now stationed in West Berlin, claim they were not given enough training to become fluent in Russian.

Both airmen were stationed at Goodfellow Air Force Base here when the suit was filed on March 9.

The men allege their enlistment contracts stipulate dual training as linguists-interrogators and voice-processing specialists. They testified Monday that they expected to become fluent in Russian through their Air Force training.

The enlistment contracts signed by both men when they joined the Air Force in 1975 stated that they were guaranteed training for both jobs, but that their initial assignments would be as voice-processing specialists, a job that does not require knowledge of a second language, testimony showed.

The men testified that they were enrolled in a 36-week Russian course in February 1976 at Monterey, Calif., but said the course did not include instruction in the spoken language.

Maj. Mary Fels of Randolph Air Force Base said the Air Force realized in March 1976 that recruits interested in language had signed an "ambiguous" contract that specified training in both fields.

She said the 249 students at the Monterey school, including Silverio and Bell, were informed of the contract ambiguity and were given the choice of continuing their training as voice-processors or being discharged from the service.

The new contract, signed by Silverio but not by Bell, still specified that the men would receive "dual training" for qualifications in both fields, but that they would be assigned jobs as voice processors, she said.

Maj. Fels said the men were told that, "in all probability they would never be assigned as linguists since the Air Force has only 100 linguist jobs and some 10,000 voice-processor positions."

While both plaintiffs contend they were willing to take an additional 10-week course offered by the Air Force, both refused to sign a document that would have waived their right to further breach of contract grievances.

"Having dealt with the Air Force during this past year, I would like to exercise my own option, which is to be discharged," Bell said Monday.

A third man was involved in the suit but is no longer in the Air Force.

Expansion Set For Pulp Mill

CALHOUN, Tenn. (AP) — The board chairman of Bowater Corp. Ltd. of London has announced a $90 million expansion program which he says will make the Bowater mill in Calhoun the largest pulp mill facility in North America.

The mill, which now employs about 1,250 persons, is already the largest producer in the United States, said Lord Erroll of Hale, a British nobleman and Bowater's board chairman.

The expansion is estimated to boost employment at the mill by about 300 persons.

Erroll headed the largest single group of Bowater officials ever to visit the plant, which Bowater Corp. Ltd. owns.

Increased customer demand and the addition of new customers made it necessary to add a fifth machine unit, Erroll said. This will increase plant capacity by about 140,000 tons of newsprint a year, about 30 per cent above current capacity.

In turn, the company will buy an extra 110,000 cords of wood a year from the 100 counties in the Southeast which make up the mill's wood procurement territory.

Two Americans, Briton Share Physics Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two Americans and a Briton won the Nobel prize for physics today and a Belgian was awarded the prize for chemistry.

The Swedish Academy gave the physics prize to John H. Van Vleck, 78, of Harvard University; his former student Philip Anderson, 55, of Princeton University and Bell Laboratories; and Sir Nevill F. Mott, 72, of Cambridge University in England.

The chemistry prize went to Ilya Prigogine, 60, of the Free University of Brussels. He also is director of the Center for Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics at the University of Texas.

The physics winners, who will share equally a $145,000 prize, were cited for research on the electronic structure of magnetic and disordered systems — work applied to development of the laser, advancement in the industrial use of glass, and in copper spirals for birth control devices.

Prigogine, who gets $145,000, was cited for contributions in the field of thermodynamics.

The physics award was announced behind schedule after three hours' deliberation by the academy, which was reportedly divided over two sets of candidates.

A statement by the academy cited the winners' "highly valuable contributions" in "large domains" of physics.

"This year's prize put the emphasis on their work concerning electron-electron interaction and the coupling between the motions of the electrons and the atomic nuclei in magnetic and disordered materials, where they ... have gone far beyond the conventional theories, with direct importance for experiments and technology," the academy said.

Van Vleck, a 78-year-old professor emeritus, has been called "the father of modern magnetism."

Mott, also a professor emeritus, was born in 1905. Anderson, once a student of Van Vleck, was born in 1923.

The physics prize has been dominated by Americans since World War II. Last year Americans Burton Richter and Samuel Ting shared the prize for their discovery of a new heavy elementary particle.

Anderson, reached by The Associated Press at his home in New Vernon, N.J., said he had not yet been notified of the award.

He said he was especially surprised because the project for which the prize was awarded was done 20 years ago.

Anderson interrupted the conversation to shout the news to his wife, Joyce. The couple has one daughter, Susan.

A consulting director at Bell Labs in Murray Hill and physics professor at Princeton University, Anderson said he considered it a privilege to share the prize with two "already great historical figures."

He said Van Vleck in particular "had been bypassed many too many times."

Van Vleck, who is Hollis Professor Emeritus of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy at Harvard, the oldest endowed scientific chair in the United States, began the work that led to the prize in 1927, only a year after the theory of quantum mechanics was stated.

He said of the prize, "I'm pleased, and it's a complete surprise."

"So often prizes go to younger men. Anybody couldn't help feeling that it is a culmination when you're 78 years old."

"I just did my work and thought it was — hopefully — an important contribution," he said.

Quantum mechanics was a revolutionary tool for investigation of magnetic properties, Van Vleck said, allowing him to determine "why certain materials are magnetic and why they have the properties they do."

"My work consists in explaining the results of other people's experiments," he said.

The academy said Anderson, Mott and Van Vleck have added many new basic concepts to solid state physics that have led quickly to technical advances.

"The distance between fundamental results in basic research and technical applications is as a rule comparatively short in this field," the academy statement said.

"As an example, one can mention that Van Vleck's ideas have played a central role for the development of the Laser, whereas the technical development of amorphous materials like glass, which is now going on, would be unthinkable without Mott's and Anderson's contributions to the fundamental theory."

The academy said Van Vleck was the first to point out the importance of electron correlation — the interaction between the motions of the electrons.

As Van Vleck's student, it said, Anderson developed this concept to explain how local magnetic moments can occur in metals like copper and silver, which in pure form are not magnetic.

Mott and Anderson, working separately, have contributed to the knowledge about disordered systems, the academy said. These systems exist within materials whose atomic structures are irregular — a quality that makes it difficult to treat them theoretically.

"Mott and Anderson have in a series of papers created a multitude of new concepts which turned out to be central for the understanding of disordered materials," the academy said. "Their ideas have to a large extent been experimentally verified and they thus have laid the foundation for important technical developments."

The academy deliberated 45 minutes before announcing the chemistry prize. It cited Prigogine's development of a theory of "dissipative structures," which one academy member said could have a bearing on development of solar energy.

"I am very happy to get it, but I am also a little surprised," Prigogine said in Brussels. "There are many top research people."

The Russian-born professor has lived in Belgium since he was 12 years old. He is married and has a school-aged son.

The academy continued a trend of awarding the physics prize to two or more researchers and the chemistry prize to an individual. Last year the chemistry award went to William S. Lipscomb of Harvard University for his studies of boranes and chemical bonding.

The two prizes awarded today were the third and fourth Nobel awards given for 1977. The literature prize was awarded last Thursday to Spanish poet Vicente Aleixandre and the peace prize Monday to Amnesty International. The cofounders of the peace movement in Northern Ireland, Betty Williams and Mairead Corrigan, were awarded the 1976 peace prize belatedly. Prizes will be given for medicine Thursday and economics Friday.

The prizes were established under the will of Swedish chemist Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite.

St. Mark's Square Flooded in Venice

VENICE, Italy (UPI) — Flood waters invaded Venice's main St. Mark's Square and other low-lying areas of the city Monday in the first high water of the season.

Officials said the level of the Venice Lagoon was 35 inches above normal, sending water lapping into the square and forcing the city's taxi boats to change routes.

The route change was necessary, officials said, because the high water made it impossible for the taxi and bus boats to pass under some of the city's low bridges.

Departments Host Fete In Dallas

Texas Tech University's colleges of Agricultural Sciences and Home Economics are sponsoring a reception in Dallas Friday for individuals who will be honored at the State Fair of Texas awards banquet that night.

Hosts for the reception will be Deans Anson R. Bertrand and Donald S. Longworth.

Forty outstanding 4-H, Future Farmers of America (FFA) and Future Homemakers of America (FHA) members from around the state will be honored.

Several students from the two colleges also will act as hosts and hostesses, including Jacqueline Stout of Lubbock and Tina Underwood of Sherman, both from Home Economics, and Alice Althaus of Wichita Falls, Mark Ellison of Rosebud, Linda Goehman of Menard, and Von Box of Carrizo Springs, all from Agricultural Sciences.

Three Texas Tech students are among those to be honored. All three are agricultural education majors. Elvin Caraway, son of Mrs. George E. Carnahan of Spur, is state FFA president. Donald D. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Davis of Wichita Falls, is Area 4 state FFA vice-president. James D. Louder, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Louder of Stanton, is Area 3 state FFA vice-president.

The reception will be held before the banquet at the Sheraton Inn in Dallas. It will begin at 5:30 p.m. with the banquet, sponsored by the State Fair of Texas, following at 7 p.m.

Prices Lose Ground In Stock Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices lost more ground today amid apprehension over the prospect of a continued rise in interest rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 830 industrials was down 2.86 at 837.40, after a 09 loss Monday.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 4-3 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

A number of analysts were predicting a sharp rise in the basic measure of the money supply when the Federal Reserve issues its weekly report on Thursday.

Such an increase would presumably lead to further credit-tightening by the Fed.

Curtis Noll rose 1/4 to 24 1/2. Congoleum Corp. said it would offer $25 a share for all of Curtis Noll's stock.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks eased .10 to 52.40. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .06 at 118.49.

Volume on the Big Board remained light, totalling 6.57 million shares by noontime against 4.57 million at the same point on Monday.

RCA, which said its third quarter earnings rose to 82 cents a share from 43 cents in the like period of 1976, picked up 1/4 to 28 1/4.

Grand Jury Boss In California Has Unique Court Experience

OAKHURST, Calif. (AP) — Ursula Uphold brings a unique courtroom experience to her task of grand jury forewoman in Madera County. As a girl of 15, she was an interpreter at the Nuremberg war crime trials after World War II.

That experience was traumatic, Mrs. Uphold says, but it did not keep her from accepting an appointment in July to head the grand jury, which returns criminal indictments and investigates county offenses.

"On the grand jury, you can work creatively and imaginatively and give opinions," she said. "But to sit at the (war crimes) trials and judge people was a tremendous responsibility. I hope I never have to do it again."

Mrs. Uphold said she had been unable to talk about the trial of leaders of Nazi Germany until recently and still cannot recall all her experiences there.

"I don't know how I could possibly tell you how it was to be confronted with those responsibilities, especially at that age," she said in an interview. "To hear about those atrocities and wrongdoings you never heard before was just devastating."

Mrs. Uphold said she put the trials, which ended in 1946, out of her mind once her duties there ended.

"You know, I haven't seen any films about Nuremberg since I left. I've never read a book on it... It was such a painful experience," she said.

Born Ursula Gilich, daughter of a French countess and a German count, she was unconscious for five weeks after her Berlin home was bombed in 1945. But, she said, her translating stint was worse.

The interpreters had to translate testimony for up to an hour at a time in any of four languages — English, French, German or Russian.

"The pressure was so great," she said. "You couldn't take that for any length of time. Nobody could. The Americans knew that and would relieve us by sending us to do investigative work or transfer us to other jobs."

And other Germans resented the interpreters working for Allied intelligence, often throwing rocks and yelling at them as they entered an internment camp, she said.

"We even went so far as to change our names — not officially, but to avoid harassment," Mrs. Uphold said. "I just had to get out."

In late 1948 she emigrated to America, married a college professor and moved to this central California area when her husband took a post at Fresno State College.

Mrs. Uphold says her experience as an interpreter increased her concern for public affairs.

"It bothers me tremendously that so many Americans don't take advantage of their many freedoms — in voting, serving on juries, just being involved," she said.

"When you come from a country like I did, you appreciate the freedom. There's not another country in the world with the freedom of choice like this one."

Agency Claims 30 Employees Have Dodged Loan Collector

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare says about 30 of its 316 employees recently reported to have defaulted on student loans were identified by government auditors as defaulters three years ago.

Some payments were made, but the collections process failed and the same defaulters have turned up again, said an HEW spokesman.

The department said last week that 316 of its employees — some earning more than $30,000 a year — were in default on loans they had as college students, "and it's only fitting that we ... put our own house in order."

UPI learned later that an HEW audit investigation in Sept., 1974, reported 234 HEW employees were in default.

A spokesman confirmed that about 10 per cent of the newly identified 316 workers are repeaters from the earlier list.

He said most of the "double defaulters" did repay some of their loans. "There is some evidence of that."

But sometime before this year, he said, the collections and the payment process somehow fell apart.

It won't again, he said. A computerized system scheduled to go into operation in December will be able to flag any month payment missed in the future on any student loan, he said.

Asked if the earlier identified HEW employees made payments until they felt the heat was off, he replied: "I wouldn't want to say that, but it's certainly reasonable speculation."

HEW's Office of Education plans to send letters to all 316 employees seeking repayment. A spokesman said the repeaters "will certainly recognize that this is the second time the department has been in communication with them about default."

"By and large the earlier group did make their payments," the spokesman said.

The 316 HEW employees were identified by a computer operation called Project CrossCheck, which checks guaranteed student loan files against HEW payroll records. Expansion to other federal agencies is being considered.

HEW's Leo Kornfeld, deputy commissioner for student financial aid, said Project CrossCheck was undertaken as a result of the earlier investigation.

"It turned out we actually did this once before ... it occurred to me we ought to do it again," he said. "That's how this thing got launched."

Claims totaling more than $403,000 have been paid by the government to lending institutions for student loans defaulted on by the 316 employees, HEW said.

Twenty-nine of the 316 employees work on an hourly wage. The others have civil service ratings that pay from $5,810 to $43,923. They are employed throughout the country.

HDL Cholesterol Can Help

By ROBERT STRAND
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There is increasing evidence from several studies involving thousands of people that strongly suggests the existence of a powerful protector against heart disease — a form of cholesterol called HDL.

"Suddenly this has become the most exciting thing going on in coronary disease research," says Dr. Stephen B. Hulley, a University of California epidemiologist.

HDL cholesterol refers to high density lipoproteins, blood fats differing from other kinds of cholesterol, which are called low density and very low density.

What the studies indicate is that the more HDL you have, the less chance you have of a heart attack. The less you have, the more likely you are to have coronary trouble.

And the evidence suggests that the more low density lipoproteins, called LDL, you have, the greater the danger may be. Doctors say LDL can be lowered by a reduction of cholesterol in the diet.

The theory is that somehow HDL affects the buildup of cholesterol wall deposits that cause heart attacks by closing the arteries.

Perhaps the HDL removes cholesterol from the blood and excretes it through the liver. Or perhaps the HDL simply keeps the cholesterol from forming deposits.

Little research has been done yet to learn how HDL works, and whether heart attacks could be prevented by increasing HDL has not been established.

Surprisingly, the relationship between HDL cholesterol and heart disease has been well known for 25 years — but hardly anybody gave it any attention.

HDL cholesterol was the subject of a report at an American Heart Association meeting last January and since then it has received increasing interest.

The reason it didn't receive much attention earlier was because it seemed illogical to researchers that having a high level of any kind of cholesterol could be a good thing, Hulley says.

Also, the difference in the HDL amounts between low and high risk is small.

However, in recent months that difference has developed to be remarkably consistent among large groups studied independently of each other.

One survey, involving 6,850 white, black and Japanese subjects in five cities, is known as the Cooperative Lipoprotein Phenotyping Study. Other studies each involving thousands were conducted in Israel, Norway and Framingham, Mass.

Hulley is associated with a study involving 12,000 men, aged 35 to 59, and known as the Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial. The subjects are at high risk because of their blood pressure, cholesterol levels and smoking habits, and the main purpose is to learn whether heart attacks can be prevented on a mass scale by reducing the risk factors.

The data disclosed high HDL levels are found among women, non-smokers, long distance runners, the underweight and blacks. Low HDL levels occurred among coronary patients and persons considered at high risk.

For reasons not understood, HDL seems to rise with habitual alcohol intake, a low carbohydrate diet, estrogens and, oddly, among workers exposed to DDT. The level drops when people are overweight and habitually smoke cigarettes.

When asked by friends what they should do to increase their HDL, Hulley says, "My response is, nothing, right now. We need to learn more."

"But it never hurts to exercise and to avoid obesity."

Another sign was a report that a carefully planned, well-financed effort has been mounted in New Jersey to woo Hispanic voters to the GOP side in the current gubernatorial campaign.

A third indication was the willingness demonstrated by the national committee leadership to work with state parties, including the sharing of once jealously guarded mailing lists for fund raising.

There are some who think the GOP's new programs of minority recruiting are just another off-year aberration that will be forgotten when the campaigns start next year — or that it is too late in any case for the Republican party to shed its image as the exclusive political refuge of the white upper middle class.

Either or both of those views could be true, but the Republicans who went to New Orleans obviously were not ready to accept them as inevitable.

White's English publisher decided not to include the final book because of a shortage of paper in World War II and because of its anti-war sentiment.

GOP Out To Win Minority Voters

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Whenever the Republican party loses an election, an event of some regularity in the recent past, voices from the GOP center and left can be heard chanting "open the doors...broaden the base...improve the image."

These catch phrases invariably get an "amen" response from party leaders attempting to cope with the debris of yet another campaign wreck. Sometimes they even inspire the expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars for a new public relations or advertising campaign to promote the GOP.

Up to now, the Republicans have seen their problem as one of image. They have assumed that proper merchandising of the party name would clean it up and that there was no need for changes in organization or issue emphasis to break the Democratic lock on the votes of the blacks, the Hispanics, the union members and the working poor.

They felt any special attention given the problems of these groups would be to join the Democrats in a promising contest. They repeatedly told each other that most Americans would become Republicans if they only realized that the GOP was the political party that represented their values and views.

Whatever it is that Americans believe, they obviously didn't buy what the Republicans were selling. The polls say the GOP continues to be perceived as the party of the privileged, and the election returns say most voters do not cast their ballots for candidates of such a party.

Now, there are some indications that the Republicans are learning that they can't get people to march in their parade unless they give them some voice in calling the cadence.

GOP national chairman Bill Brock says this time the party is going to do more than just talk about trying to win a share of the minority voting blocs: it is going to search actively for black and brown party leaders and candidates and back them with money and political know how.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
Today is Tuesday, Oct. 11, the 284th day of 1977 with 81 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Venus and Mercury.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.

Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was born Oct. 11, 1884.

On this day in history:
In 1811, the first steam-powered ferry in the world started its run between New York City and Hoboken, N.J.

In 1868, Thomas Alva Edison filed papers for his first invention — an electrical vote recorder to tabulate floor votes in Congress in a matter of minutes. Congress rejected it.

In 1962, Pope John XXIII opened the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council in St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.

In 1975, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller urged a swift federal loan to help New York City avoid economic bankruptcy.

A thought for the day: President Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "The test of our progress is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much: it is whether we provide enough for those who have too little."

These catch phrases invariably get an "amen" response from party leaders attempting to cope with the debris of yet another campaign wreck. Sometimes

Israel Hears Geneva Plan

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan came home today to persuade the cabinet to accept a working paper on the Geneva peace talks arrived at in long negotiations with President Carter and other U.S. officials.

"In my mind this is a good document and I will recommend it," he told reporters on returning from a three-week tour capped by a speech at the United Nations.

Arab delegates walked out of the U.N. General Assembly chamber during the speech by Dayan, dampening hopes for resumption of the Geneva talks.

Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Esmat Abdel Meguid said Dayan's speech was "a heavy setback for chances to reconvene the Geneva Middle East peace conference, and for the rights of the Palestinians."

The Arab states insist the PLO must be at the conference because they recognize it as the "sole legitimate representative" of the Palestinians.

PLO officials in Damascus, Syria, said Monday the organization's principles "are steady and unbargainable" and the PLO will not go to Geneva unless it receives "prior assurances" backing an independent Palestinian state.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam said in an interview published in Beirut that Syria will boycott Geneva if the PLO is not represented.

And in Cairo, President Anwar Sadat said Egypt, backed by other Arab states, notably oil-rich Saudi Arabia, will launch an "inevitable" war against Israel, should peace efforts fail.

Dayan said the working paper "says categorically we will not sit with the Palestine Liberation Organization," one of Israel's major conditions for taking part in peace talks.

"There cannot be a Geneva conference without Israel," he said. "Israel will not go if it is going to talk about a Palestinian state or if there are Palestinians who represent the PLO."

Asked who Israel would like to see taking part at Geneva, Dayan said, "We want to talk with the West Bank Palestinians, within a Jordanian delegation, and we want to talk with the Gazans, if Egypt accepts, within the Egyptian delegation."

"This is our preference," he said.

Despite the Carter administration's agreement on a working paper for Geneva, Dayan said, "I am not very happy about it, since they have been trying to legitimize the PLO and have been talking about a Palestinian state or homeland."

He said he did not disagree with Prime Minister Menachem Begin's decision in July to go ahead with plans for peace talks without prior coordination of positions with Washington.

"I think it would be wishful thinking if we thought we could arrive at any joint commitment between the U.S. and Israel that would totally coincide with our thinking," he said.

If the cabinet rejects the working paper he will not resign, Dayan said.

Earlier, Begin was released from hospital to preside over the cabinet session that was expected to approve a preliminary agreement on the resumption of Geneva peace talks.

"With the help of the excellent doctors and nurses I feel fine," said Begin, 64, who was hospitalized for treatment of an inflammation of the membrane around his heart.

Wearing a charcoal gray suit and slightly pale after 11 days in the hospital, Begin told reporters, "I shall be taking it easy, but the doctors have allowed me to attend the cabinet meeting today."

Begin was to discuss the preliminary agreement, known as a "working paper," with Dayan before the cabinet meeting.

Officials in the Israeli capital said they expected the cabinet to approve the working paper, though there is some dissatisfaction with it.

The document does not include a clear rejection of delegates from the Palestine Liberation Organization at the talks, or the establishment of a Palestinian state, they said.

On the other hand, it calls for settlement of the problems of Jewish refugees from Arab countries as well as Palestinian refugees.

The actual text of the working paper has been kept secret and most of the cabinet ministers will see it for the first time at the meeting.

Government sources said Israeli approval of the document would give Secretary of State Cyrus Vance the go-ahead to pass the document on to Arab states.

Egypt and Jordan are more likely to accept it, but Syria may reject it, they said.

The document is said to call for a united Arab delegation to the Geneva talks, possibly including Palestinians from the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan and the Gaza Strip.

The single delegation later would break up into smaller working groups, and issues such as the refugee problem would be discussed between Israel and mixed Arab panels. Formal agreements or treaties would be arrived at only with individual states.

Kuwait Shows Best Growth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The desert kingdom of Kuwait has not only the world's highest per capita income but it also has the fastest growing population.

Estimates compiled by the Environmental Fund, based on figures from the United Nations and the U.S. Census, are that the tax-free nation, which is the size of Vermont, will double its population of 1.1 million by the end of the century.

Perched on the shores of the Persian Gulf and atop an estimated 15 per cent of the world's known oil reserves, Kuwait has an $11,000 per capita income — the highest in the world. Only six nations produced more oil in 1975.

Kuwait's annual 6.1 per cent population growth is almost three times the rate of population growth worldwide and almost eight times the rate in the United States. Its death rate is one of the lowest.

Women in Kuwait bear an average of 7.2 children. American women bear an average of 1.8 children, the report said.

Russians Close Space Mission

MOSCOW (AP) — The two cosmonauts of the Soyuz-25 spacecraft returned to earth today after a two-day flight in which they failed to link up with an orbiting space laboratory. Both men were reported in good health.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported that Lt. Col. Vladimir Kovalenok and flight engineer Valery Ryumin, ended their first mission in space with a soft landing "in the set area" 450 miles north of the Baikonur space center in central Asia.

The flight, which lasted only 49 hours and 46 minutes, was to have been a dramatic celebration of the 20th anniversary of the space age, inaugurated Oct. 4, 1957, by the first manmade earth satellite, the unmanned Soviet Sputnik.

No official explanation has been given for the failure of Soyuz-25 to put Kovalenok and Ryumin aboard the Salyut-6 space station. A Tass report Monday said only that there were "some deviations from a planned docking regime."

Western space experts in Moscow suggested two possible reasons that the docking mechanism did not work or, more likely, that the cosmonauts overshoot the space lab and didn't have enough fuel for another try.

Lack of a booster rocket powerful enough to lift loads of more than seven tons into space is the crux of the problems with the Soyuz-Salyut program, in the view of Western observers here.

The Soyuz spaceship normally carries food and fuel for five days, but on longer missions fuel must be sacrificed for a larger food load. The American Apollo and Skylab programs, which use the Saturn-V rocket, are able to lift between 120 and 140 tons into orbit and can put a 50-ton payload on the moon.

Western experts feel this problem could prove a serious obstacle to the Soviet space program because it is geared to work by cosmonauts aboard orbiting space stations.

The first Soyuz spacecraft launched in 1967 crashed on its return to earth, killing cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov.

The Soviets aborted an attempted link-up with Salyut-1 in 1971 without explanation. The next manned mission, Soyuz-11,

Gunman Gets Candy, Leaves Cash Box

DENVILLE, N.J. (AP) — A gunman demanded a supermarket cashier's cash box but settled for minted breath fresheners instead, police said.

He pulled a revolver after buying a box of cookies, but the cashier told him she couldn't reopen the register without a purchase.

So, with the store manager approaching, the gunman took his change and left quietly with a pack of the candy, police said.

Court Rules For Vets

stablished that governmental actions cannot be found to discriminate against any class of people just because of a disproportionate impact.

Bellotti quoted from the lower court's decision that found the state law "was not enacted for the purpose of disqualifying women from receiving civil service appointments."

The decision continued, "Yet the formula's impact, triggered by decades of restrictive federal enlistment regulations, makes the operation of the veterans' preference in Massachusetts anything but an impartial, neutral policy of selection...."

Bellotti said the state law "rationally promotes legitimate state interests" in helping veterans obtain employment.

In an unusual step, the Supreme Court had to ask the highest court in Massachusetts whether Bellotti was authorized to file such an appeal.

The defendants in Mrs. Feeney's suit were the state Civil Service Commission and the state personnel administrator — neither of whom wanted to appeal the lower court's decision striking down the law.

The state legislature, however, passed a resolution urging Bellotti to appeal.

The Supreme Court asked the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts whether state law permitted Bellotti to appeal under such circumstances, and the state court told the justices he could.

"The veterans' preference statute is an expression of legislative policy which is designed to promote public employment of military veterans," the state court said. "The action of the attorney general in determining to prosecute this appeal is consistent with his traditional right."

succeeded in putting three men aboard a space station, but the third died from decompression on the return to earth.

Two space stations were sent up in 1973 but failed before cosmonauts were launched to man them.

In April, 1975, a Soyuz capsule failed to link up with Salyut-4, apparently because the first docking attempt failed and there was not enough fuel for another. Three months later the United States and the Soviet Union joined forces to dock a Soyuz and an Apollo spaceship in orbit, but the American Apollo did the maneuvering for the linkup.

The Russians failed again in October, 1976, when Soyuz-23 was unable to dock with Salyut-5. But last February two cosmonauts succeeded in joining Soyuz-25 to Salyut-5 on a 19-day mission.

Foul Play Suspected spot late Sunday or early Monday.

Homicide detectives at the 500-block of Avenue E alley Monday found dried blood smears on several outer parts of the sedan. In addition to being visible on the right back bumper and under the gas tank, the substance also could be seen on the inside of one of the rear doors, and on the front seat. A large pool of wet blood was found on the back seat.

Police also found a .22-caliber pistol with a missing hammer under the front passenger's seat, next to an axe and an empty beer can. A .22-caliber shell was found on the front floor of the vehicle.

Officer Bobby Price said he found the car's keys in the ignition and opened the trunk, however, reportedly no further evidence was found in that part of the auto.

Investigators at the scene theorized the car recently had been driven through a pasture because of dandelions entangled in the bumpers. They also indicated that if a body were involved, it possibly was dragged from the car, accounting for the blood smears on the side, and backed over, because of the blood on the rear bumper and under the vehicle.

The car was found parked at an angle just inches from a dumpster in the alley near downtown Lubbock. A man who lives near the site of the discovery told police he had gotten home about 3 a.m. Monday and the car was not in front of his home then. However, he said he saw it when he got up at 6 a.m.

It was after investigators ran a license check Monday to determine the car's owner that officers first visited the man's home and were told he was not there, nor did he show up for work that day.

Detectives today visited the other man's home to talk with his family again, however, reportedly no one was there. At noon they still were trying to learn of the man's place of employment.

According to police, a check of local hospitals turned up no unaccounted-for injuries which could be related to the case.

Two Women Killed In Auto Accident

FREER (UPI) — A two-car collision at the entrance to the property of rancher-banker Clinton Manges Monday killed Edith Richmond, mother-in-law of Manges, and a passenger, Maude Phyllis Damorn, both of Freer.

Department of Public Safety investigators said the Richmond automobile was struck by another car as it attempted to turn into the ranch. A second passenger in the car, Geraldine Havey of Freer was taken to Laredo's Mercy Hospital with multiple injuries. A Corpus Christi couple, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Calk, traveling in the second auto, also were undergoing treatment at the Laredo hospital.

The witness said he went and told his mother, who worked at a local church, about the conversation, and that she called police.

bust farming," Merideth said.

That area produces primarily corn, milo, and some wheat.

Bruce Rigler, representing dairy farmers, said energy costs during the last five to six years have gone up 350 per cent, while the value of their product has dropped by 50 per cent.

Farmers were paying 38 to 40 cents per MCF (1,000 cubic feet) before prices began going up. This year they are paying from $1.38 to $1.45 per MCF, he said.

In questioning the witnesses, the energy panel stressed the belief that fuel prices will inevitably go up, and queried witnesses for evidence of conservation and greater efficiency in utilizing irrigation and energy to operate it.

In response, Rigler said some farmers in his area had been planting two rows in, one out, resulting in 40 per cent reductions in water and about the same yield.

Max Lennon, representing the Texas Tech University College of Agriculture, told the panel that dry land farming would result in reductions of sorghum and cotton by 50 per cent. Corn and wheat grown in the Texas High Plains area would be reduced by 80 per cent and 40 per cent, respectively, without irrigation, he said.

He told the state legislative panel that a strong agriculture represents a strong economy, and that irrigation is needed for good crops.

The panel had asked representatives of Texas Tech to present testimony in the hearing today.

Czech Jet Hijacked

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — A man and woman employed by the Czechoslovak airlines and carrying loaded pistols hijacked a domestic jetliner to Frankfurt airport today and asked for political asylum, police said.

The two wore their uniforms but traveled as passengers, police said.

After holding the other 24 passengers and three crew members hostage on the plane for two hours, the two surrendered to police, Frankfurt police chief Knut Mueller said.

He identified them only as Vlastislav T. 29, and Ruzena V. 22, both employed by the CSA airline in Karlovy Vary, a once glittering spa known as Carlsbad. They carried pistols when they boarded the flight to Prague, he said.

The hijackers were taken to the airport terminal for questioning and were expected to be formally arrested later today for "endangering airline transportation," Mueller said.

Airport authorities said the Soviet-built Yak 40 airliner would return to Czechoslovakia with the passengers and crew.

After the plane landed the hijackers demanded the airliner be refueled for a 180-mile flight southward to Munich.

Authorities convinced them to surrender after telling them that the special fuel needed for the flight was not readily available at Frankfurt.

Mueller said a Frankfurt airport official, Ingo Klaus, negotiated with the hijackers through an open window of the jetliner, which was parked out of sight of the terminal and surrounded by police commandos.

The Czechoslovak pilot acted as interpreter in the negotiations carried out in English and German, Mueller said.

Karlovy Vary and its sister spa, Mariánské Lázně, formerly Marienbad, are the usual starting or landing points for flights hijacked from Czechoslovakia to West Germany. Both are near the West German border and have figured in six hijackings to West Germany since 1970.

The airline employees were able to get their weapons aboard the plane despite stringent anti-hijacking precautions in force at Karlovy Vary.

Non-Farm Food Costs Increasing In America

WASHINGTON (AP) — Family spending on coffee, fish and other food products that do not originate on U.S. farms is going up sharply this year to an estimated $33 billion, according to new government figures.

That will be an increase of $5.8 billion or about 21 per cent above the $27.2 billion the government says Americans spent on non-farm food in 1976.

The figures are included in two recent reports issued by the Agriculture Department and also involve statistics from the Commerce Department, the Bureau of Labor Statistics and other sources.

A major reason for the big jump in non-farm food costs is that prices of coffee and seafood have gone up sharply. Also, there are more people to feed this year.

One USDA report, "Agricultural Outlook," says that the farm-food component of the estimated $213-billion U.S. food bill this year is expected to be about $180 billion. This includes spending for food purchased in grocery stores, meals in restaurants and allowances for the value of food served by schools, hospitals and other institutions.

The analysis compiled by Andrew Weiser of the department's Economic Research Service shows that the $180 billion Americans are spending this year on food produced on U.S. farms is up about 4.5 per cent from $172.3 billion spent in 1976. Total food spending last year was $199.5 billion.

Thus, during the time imported and other non-farm food spending rose $33 billion, expenditures for farm-produced food are going up only about $7.7 billion.

The big factor is that food prices for major farm commodities going into the food chain have declined in the last year while non-farm prices have risen.

Moreover, the figures show that middleman costs for transporting, processing and merchandizing food continue to increase. The farmer's share of the food dollar, meanwhile, has not gone up from 1976.

Although a complete breakdown is not yet available for this year, Weiser's analysis showed some of the routes taken by the $172.3 billion Americans spent for farm-produced food in 1976.

Overall, about $116 billion for food last year went to the middleman. That was up from $106.5 billion in 1975.

The "farm value" of food, the equivalent of what farmers get for raw products, was $56.3 billion last year, compared with $54.9 billion in 1975.

Looking in more detail at the middleman food share of the $116 billion, also called by USDA the "marketing bill" for getting food from the farm to consumer tables, the report showed it included:

- Some $64.3 billion for labor, including supplements to wages and salaries such as Social Security and unemployment insurance taxes, and health insurance premiums paid by employers, up from $49.1 billion in 1975.
- Some $15 billion for "packing materials" for food along the pipeline, including the familiar cans, plastic bags, boxes and paper wrappings in retail stores, up from $13.4 billion in 1975.
- Some $9.5 billion for rail and truck transportation, compared with $8.5 billion the year before.
- Some $8.3 billion in food industry corporate profits before taxes, compared with $8.2 billion in 1975.

The remainder of the $172.3 billion spent on farm foods last year included charges for business taxes, depreciation, rent, advertising, repairs and interest.

Antique Auto Buffs Gather At Tin Lizzie Show

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Back in 1965, Roland Dunkelberger's wife began devoting a lot of time to collecting antique furniture. Feeling somewhat slighted, he bought a 1904 Elmore and restored it.

Today he owns a 1908 Cameron, a 1914 Pierce Arrow, a 1914 Stanley Steamer, a 1928 Packard Phaeton, a 1929 Packard limousine and a 1929 Chevrolet truck.

The Packard Phaeton was one of some 900 antique autos on display over the weekend here at the Antique Automobile Club of America's eastern division fall meet.

Billed as the biggest antique car show and flea market in the world, it's the place to be if you're looking for wood-spoked wheels for your Hummobile or a carburetor for your Cord.

Some 3,000 vendors spread out over eight miles of countryside, hawking crank handles, brass grills, running boards, rumble seats, radiator caps and other assorted old do-dads.

A man from England bought a 1914 Model-T body on Thursday, the flea market's opening day, tucked it lovingly into a giant shipping crate, and went home to introduce it to its chest.

"If you can't find a part in Hershey, you just plain aren't going to find it," says Dunkelberger, a member of the Hershey Antique Automobile Club and chairman of the fall meet.

Lamb County To Get Plant

By PAULA TELKER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Southwestern Public Service Company (SWPS) announced Monday it will spend more than $200 million to build a coal-burning plant in Lamb County instead of Lubbock County.

The site selected, about 13 miles southwest of Earth, was the original one considered by the company for the electric-generating station. An additional plant also will be built there.

Until recently, representatives from the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, county commissioners court and the city had negotiated with SWPS to locate the plant in Lubbock County. As proposed in the talks, the city would exchange effluent for SWPS' fresh water supply in Lamb County.

John Logan, executive director of the chamber, said a "combination of factors" caused Lubbock County to lose out in the plant site.

A "whole lot of things" such as questions about effluent amount, effluent availability and Environmental Protection Administration requirements, caused a negotiation breakdown, Logan said.

Councilman Bill McAlister, however, blames the loss on Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan's public disclosure of the talks on Sept. 13. The publicity generated by the disclosure "pretty well diminished the opportunity for us to get it," McAlister said.

Lamb County residents started pressuring SWPS to build the plant there, he explained.

Mrs. Jordan, who predicted last month that she would be blamed if the negotiations fell through, said today that when she made her announcement she was aware that "the probabilities of getting the plant here were fairly remote."

The day before her press conference, she explained, she received a memorandum from Mayor Roy Bass saying that negotiations were at a standstill.

"It confirmed what I had already known," Mrs. Jordan said. "I don't know why Bill McAlister wants to place the blame on me."

Logan's assessment of the problems besetting the talks was more accurate, she added.

"My concern is that we have members of the city council who are not wholeheartedly supporting Lubbock Power and Light," she said. "I think that's where the emphasis needs to be."

Mrs. Jordan added that she doesn't believe it is important where the plant is built on the South Plains because the economic benefit will cross county lines.

In her announcement, Mrs. Jordan charged McAlister and Mayor Roy Bass with secretly negotiating with SWPS to locate the plant in Lubbock County.

Such a move would have long-range effects on the future of Lubbock Power and Light and so should be open to "close public scrutiny," Mrs. Jordan said in explaining her public statement.

McAlister and Bass denied any wrongdoing, saying that the Chamber of Commerce was negotiating with the privately owned utility company.

The city's interest was in the possibility of exchanging effluent for fresh water, which could be connected by 12 miles of pipe to the Bailey County water supply, McAlister said.

If the exchange were possible, Bass said, the city's water supply could have been increased about 50 per cent.

"Anytime you get a chance for fresh water in West Texas, you jump at it," McAlister said.

Had the new plant been built in Lubbock County it would have yielded about $1.2 million in county and hospital district taxes annually.

About $2.9 million a year could be collected by the school district in Lamb County, according to official estimates.

About 200 people will work at the plant when it is completed in four years, said Carroll McDonald, Lubbock district manager.

The plant will be built on the James Ranch about seven miles west of SWPS' Plant X.

In honor of Roy Tolk, chairman of the SWPS board, the plant, which will have a generating capacity of 565,000 kilowatts, will be called "Tolk Station."

Primary fuel for the station will be low sulfur coal, which will be shipped from Wyoming by unit train.

A second 565,000-kilowatt plant will be built by 1985, McDonald said.

Air Show Highlights Reese Fete

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

U.S. Thunderbirds spiraled in spectacular aerial maneuvers, followed a split second later by the roar of sound, echoing through South Plains skies like approval of the legendary Thunderbird for its namesakes.

Earthbound once more, the Thunderbird pilots received an ovation from the thousands watching from the Reese Air Force Base flight line.

It was the topping on the birthday cake, the final offering of a Monday open house party to observe Reese's 28th and the Air Force's 30th birthdays.

Breath-taking aerobatics came, too, from the Navy Parachute team.

Skydivers, trailing colored smoke, spiraled downward, then, chutes open, skied here and there as on invisible slopes to thrill the crowd before touching down once more on Mother Earth.

Visitors arrived early, prowled the flight line to investigate a display of multi-service aerial machines from sleek jets of the fighter variety to cumbersome cargo planes helicopter gunships.

Then they roamed through exhibits in Hangar 82 before, hot dog and cold drink in hand, they sat on the grass to hear musical renditions by the U.S. Air Force Academy's Moods in Blue band and singers.

Taking a lion's share of the plane attention was the smallest offering, a PT-22 flown in from Oklahoma by a WW II pilot who made history with a B-17.

Taking all eyes by flight line prowlers was a Navy pilot with blond curls flying in the West Texas wind which kept the Navy Parachute Team temporarily grounded, halted parasailing and did nothing to deter a model airplane demonstration on the center runway.

Pilots and civilians couldn't seem to believe Navy Lt. Mary Louise Jorgensen actually flew the single seat attack jet she stood beside.

The A-4F Sky Hawk, she explained, now is used as a readiness training craft in which she tows targets for air and surface target practice. Other planes or ground crews haven't touched her plane with their target shooting, but have come pretty close — too close a time or two.

She also is, the adversary in fighter training, the plane with which intercept planes do their practicing. She is the bad guy in the fight game, but loves it.

She wasn't in the first class, but made the second ever in which women were allowed flying training.

Lancaster Criticizes Plans To Pave Road

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock County Commissioner Jim Lancaster says that under authorization given by his colleagues Monday, the state will squander $452,000 on improvements for a rural road few people use.

"This is one of the least traveled roads in the county, and they want to pave more than seven miles of it," Lancaster said of the Texas Highway Commission's proposal to extend FM 2378 in west Lubbock County.

"Well, I'm going to ask that we turn this one down," he said. Lancaster added the state should give other local county roads, in the Wolforth area for example, priority over the FM 2378 project.

Lancaster said the FM 2378 extension is the "least desirable" of the various road improvements the state could undertake in Lubbock County.

could persuade the state to invest the improvement monies in some other local project.

The project involves extending FM 2378 on the western fringe of Lubbock County, from FM 2641 north to U.S. 84. Currently, the strip of road involved is unpaved, and designated as County Road 10.

Under terms of the Texas Highway Commission's offer, the county will buy the necessary right-of-way for the project. The width of the road must be widened from its present 40 feet to 100 feet.

Then the state will come in and improve the dirt road from its "county road" status to a state farm-to-market road. The required paving and other improvements will cost the state about $452,000.

Brazell agreed with Lancaster that the road currently has a low traffic count. But, Brazell said, the number of vehicles using the artery will increase substantially after the improvements are made.

Furthermore, Brazell said, the FM 2378 extension is a "crucial link in the highway commission's areawide farm-to-market system. By itself, the road may not be all that important. But as the links are connected, traffic will pick up."

With Lancaster dissenting, the commissioners court voted to authorize the state to undertake the FM 2378 project.

Center To Give Energy Aid To Crystal City

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — The National Center for Appropriate Technology announced Monday it would spend $200,000 to help develop alternate energy systems for Crystal City — a town of 8,000 that has been without natural gas service since Sept. 23.

Center director Jim Schmidt said the money will be in addition to $310,000 authorized earlier by the federal Community Services Administration (CSA) for Crystal City. Part of the CSA money is to be used to buy appliances for Crystal City residents — and part to develop alternate energy systems.

Crystal City officials refused to pay a bill of about $750,000 owed to its natural gas supplier, the Lo-Vaca Gathering Co., and the firm cut off the town's gas supply after two postponements and brief legal action.

The center here was set up to develop energy saving devices for persons with low incomes. It was the brain-child of Jerry Plunkett, who is director of the Butte-based Magnetohydrodynamics Research and Development Institute. The institute is a non-profit corporation that conducts research on energy systems.

The National Center for Appropriate Technology is operating on a $3 million grant from the CSA.

Schmidt said the center already has sent technicians to Crystal City to study how the town can use the sun, wind and other alternate energy sources.

Schmidt said that 80 to 90 per cent of Crystal City's residents are of Mexican descent, with 40 per cent of them living

However, other members of the county commissioners court disagreed. They said the county should welcome the Texas Highway Commission's offer — in part because they may not get another chance.

"We've never turned down an offer like this before," said County Commissioner Alton Brazell, in whose precinct the proposed project is located.

County Judge Rod Shaw added, "It looks like they (the state highway commission) got their mind made up." It is unlikely, Shaw said, that Lubbock County

Hepatitis Diagnosed As Non-Contagious

A Texas Tech employe suffering from hepatitis has been found to have a non-contagious variety of the disease.

The employe, who worked in the University Center snack bar on campus, was suspected of having infectious hepatitis late last week and laboratory tests were ordered by Texas Tech health officials.

Monday Dr. Reagan H. Gibbs, director of Tech's Student Health Service, announced the laboratory analyses showed the woman to have contacted serum hepatitis which, he said, "virtually eliminates any possibility of the disease being contagious for co-workers or snack bar patrons."

"There is so little chance for this type of hepatitis to be transmitted at work that the weekly series of laboratory tests which had been scheduled for co-workers has been cancelled," Gibbs added.

Gibbs said the employe is making satisfactory progress recovering from the viral infection which affects the liver.

BY VINCENT J. FONTANA, M.D.
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Countless thousands of American children are being permanently injured, physically and mentally, as a result of physical and psychological abuse inflicted by parents and caretakers.

It is estimated that there are between 30 thousand and 40 thousand cases of truly "battered" children in the United States; at least 100,000 who are being sexually abused and probably 200,000 to 300-000 who are psychologically abused each year.

This epidemic of child abuse kills an estimated 2,000 American children annually.

Child maltreatment and violent child rearing are becoming more entrenched in our population and are among the most common causes of death in early childhood. These figures are cause for deep concern, especially since the statistics reflect only the documentable portion of an even more widespread phenomenon.

The problem of child abuse concerns men and women equally. Since women tend to be more involved with the day-to-day work of child rearing, however, it is a subject of particular relevance to them.

To deal with this problem, it is important to understand the process and the consequences of child abuse.

When a child is exposed to repeated episodes of violence in the family unit, he or she is likely to grow up with anger and hostility as part of his or her own behavior pattern. This is due to the natural tendency of children to imitate their parents, in this case violent ones. In addition to the hurt of physical battering, the abused child is likely to be starved for love, starved for life, and growing up without the crucial element of self-esteem.

This brings us to a second very important point: the battering need not be physical to a child. It can take the form of battering with words.

Verbal psychological abuse may not cause any noticeable physical damage but the effects can be deep and devastating. Parents who, in place of love and support, continually criticize, demean, reject or ignore a child may be inflicting an especially destructive kind of hurt.

While the child's arm may not be broken, abusive parental anger breaks a child's spirit, seriously impeding the development of self-confidence needed to meet the challenges of personal development and adult life.

A third point, and this is crucial for the well-being of society as a whole, is that most battered children grow up to be the next generation of battering parents, perpetuating a vicious cycle of this violence in our society. The hurt and anger endured by abused children leads to deep feelings of hostility not just toward their parents but toward society in general and may express itself in a range of antisocial and criminal behavior.

To begin to solve this problem what is needed, first and foremost, is a feeling of compassion both for the children and for the parents. Few parents willfully want to injure their own children. However, during stressful situations some parents lose control and strike out at what is closest to them, namely a child.

The use of alcohol and other drugs in our adult population may add to the many stresses and strains of modern life that create the frustrating situations leading to anger and child abuse.

We do know that the common denominator for aggressive parental behavior is a lack of self-control. Parents must learn to channel their anger, so that disappointments of adult life are not unfairly taken out on children, and so that anger due to a child's mistake can be used appropriately to help a child learn, rather than being unleashed as a crushing and crippling punishment. Of course, parents who themselves lacked parental love and support will be most vulnerable to this loss of self-control.

Essential to the solution of child abuse is a clear understanding of the role of a parent. "Parenting", is, in fact, a learned ability.

Given not only the problem of child abuse, but also the fragility of the modern family — about half of all marriages end in divorce or separation — perhaps the time has come to set up programs on parenthood in elementary and high schools.

In this way the unconscious and occasionally incomplete learning experience at home might be supplemented. Effective parenting must encompass wholesome, sustained parental affection, with acceptance and approval of the child.

Of primary importance, the specific families where abuse takes place must get help. Parents who can realize that they are caught in this problem — and friends and neighbors of families where child abuse takes place — encouraged to recognize the situation and to take immediate steps.

Consultations with psychologists, psychiatrists and family counselors can be of great benefit for both parents and children. Today, there are also many community services throughout the country for abusing and neglectful parents that provide programs for parenting which make for better parents, better family life and better future children.

Fundamentally, we must learn to care for the safety and well being of all children.

Caring means human involvement and helping parents before they do damage to themselves and their children. Remember, if we cannot feel for the children who are now being savaged and scarred, at least let us feel for the kind of future we are shaping for ourselves and our children. It is at this level that we must start — on a purely personal, humane, reaching-out level. Anyone can try reaching out to save a child.

Coarsely cracked black pepper

Place the refrigerator-cold beef in a shallow roasting pan. Rub with a little flour and sprinkle generously with salt and pepper. Place a tent of foil loosely over the top of the meat. Roast in a preheated 500-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Turn off heat but do not open oven door. Allow the roast to remain in the oven for at least 1 hour, or until the oven is lukewarm, which occurs in about 2 hours. The roast will retain a crunchiness outside, and an internal heat suitable for serving for as long as 4 hours. Adapted from "Good Food and How to Cook It" by Ann Seranne (Morrow).

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Who made up that rule that only virgin brides may wear white? And does it still prevail?

Curious

Dear Curious: According to Edith Head, the celebrated fashion designer and expert on proper dress for all occasions, the ancient Roman brides were wrapped from head to toe in orange-colored veils.

In medieval times, the brides wore red! The first white wedding gown was worn by Anne of Brittany when she wed Louis XII in 1499.

To cite bridal attire or more modern times, Emily Post wrote in 1922: "Brides have been known to choose colors other than white. Silver is conventional and so is deep cream. But gold cloth is more suitable for a widow than a virgin maid."

In 1952, Amy Vanderbilt wrote: "The formal wedding gown is generally white or ivory, but delicate blue and pink are sometimes seen."

So in all the literature concerning proper bridal attire (and Miss Head says there is surprisingly little) there is actually no "rule" stating that only virgins may wear white.

Then a Florida editor took you to task, saying he knew Emerson couldn't have authored that quote because it contained a grammatical error. He further stated that on looking it up he found the correct quote to be: "Pay every debt as if God wrote the bill."

Your Florida critic is right as far as he goes, but he fails to point out that Emerson made a grammatical error at least as serious as using "like" for "as if," for which you were so triumphantly chastened.

Proper sequence of tenses demands this phrasing: "Pay every debt as if God had written the bill."

HAWAIIAN BEETS WITH PINEAPPLE

2 cans (16-oz.) small whole beets
1 can (20-oz.) pineapple chunks
1 tbsp. cornstarch
1/4 tsp. salt

Drain beets and pineapple separately. Measure pineapple juice to equal 1 cup (if less than 1 cup, add beet juice to make that amount.) Combine pineapple juice, molasses, cornstarch, and salt in saucepan. Cook over medium heat until sauce thickens and turn clear. Add beets and heat until beets are hot. Just before serving, add pineapple chunks and warm for 2-3 minutes. Yield: 8 servings.

KEDGEREE

1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed chicken broth
1 soup can water
3/4 cup raw regular rice
1 lb. fillets of cod fish, cut in pieces
1 tsp. salt
Generous dash pepper
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
2 tbsps. finely chopped parsley

In saucepan, combine broth, water, rice, fish, salt, and pepper. Bring to boil; reduce heat. Cover; cook over low heat 20 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Stir occasionally. Remove from heat; stir in eggs and parsley. Makes about 5 1/2 cups, 4 servings.

DEAR ABBY: Is the dinner table a place for gripes and problems? I am 12 years old, and I am sick and tired of having my dinner spoiled by a lot of unpleasant conversation every night. I know my parents have to get it out of their systems — but at the dinner table?

I know that some adults out there will say, "Since when do children tell their parents what to do and when," but we kids have rights too, and we should be able to enjoy a peaceful dinner at home. Besides, we're not telling our parents, we're just asking them to please let us have a nice dinner with pleasant conversation.

Fed Up In Hawaii

Dear Fed Up: I agree, children do have rights, and I hope this letter will remind parents to make mealtime a happy time. Concentrate on what you're eating and not on what's eating you!

DEAR ABBY: First you credited Emerson with the following quote: "Pay every debt like God wrote the bill."

Looking at all four hands it seems incredible that South failed by one trick in his contract of four hearts. Yet when this hand was played in a recent National Championship event, declarer went down thanks to devilish defense by East.

The stage for the coup was set in the auction, when West took advantage of the vulnerability to make a light overcall in spades. North brushed aside the interference with his leap to four hearts, and South was delighted with the contract.

West led his king of spades. East was Thomas K. Sanders of Nashville, Tenn., one of the South's great players and chairman of the Regional Bridge Championship to be held in his home town over the first weekend of December.

Sanders realized that his trump length might prove an unwelcome surprise for declarer. It seemed likely that the defenders would come to two spade tricks and the king of clubs, but that might be all they were due. Sanders decided that he would look to the trump suit for the setting trick.

West's overcall was the key link in a plan that called for a bit of deception. To make it look as if he held a doubleton spade, Sanders won the ace of spades at trick one and returned the ten. The tactic took in West, who dutifully overtook the ten of spades to play a third round of the suit.

Declarer also was sure that East had started with a doubleton spade. It looked perfectly safe to ruff in dummy with a high trump, and that's exactly what he did. He did not have to wait long to find out he had done the wrong thing. When he led a high trump, he saw that East now had a certain trump trick.

Declarer was not yet dead—if the club finesse succeeded, he was still home. But Sanders had that card as well, and declarer could only applaud a brilliant defense.

Concern Mounting Over Inmate's Medical Bills

By PAT CARLSON
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Lubbock County Jail officials, who say they are convinced no foul play was responsible for the recent hospitalization of an inmate, are voicing concern over mounting intensive care bills for the critically ill prisoner.

Medical bills for Stewart Hawkins Jr. of 2805-B Weber Drive climbed to more than $4,600 by Monday afternoon. He was charged with the Sept. 22 shooting death of 24-year-old Henry Robinson at an east-side club and was indicted for murder by a grand jury last week.

The 41-year-old Hawkins has remained in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital for 14 days. Reports indicate he basically is being kept alive by a machine. Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard and jail supervisor Gary McGrew say they have been told repeatedly that medical personnel have been unable to determine the exact cause of Hawkins' illness. However, the condition reportedly is similar to that caused by a "blood clot on the brain."

Hawkins reportedly had been having trouble with other inmates since being jailed in lieu of $15,000 bond. However, both Blanchard and McGrew stated they have been told by doctors that the prisoner suffered no physical abuse before lapsing into his present condition.

According to a medical report made available by Blanchard, the following sequence of events led to Hawkins' hospitalization:

While the jail's nurse was making rounds at 12:30 p.m. Sept. 28, Hawkins complained of having headaches before being jailed. When the nurse asked if he needed anything for the headache, Hawkins said he did not and indicated he wanted to see a doctor. When the nurse told him the doctor would be at the jail Sept. 30 and would see him then, Hawkins began to use abusive language and walked off.

At 4:20 p.m., Hawkins, who still was complaining of not feeling well, was moved to an isolated cell for closer observation. At that point, McGrew stated Hawkins had told him his life had been threatened "four or five" times.

A short time later, Hawkins' vital signs had greatly improved, but a report noted "jerking at intervals both feet or head, never both at the same time, no more than one to two jerks at a time."

At 5 p.m., the jail's doctor was notified of the inmate's condition. Hawkins refused medication ordered by the doctor and began sitting up.

Two hours later, the report stated, Hawkins' "condition changed (as) pupils pin-pointed, muscles flaccid — no reaction to light or touch stimuli, no response." At 7:10 p.m. the jail's doctor was notified and another physician was sent to the facility.

At 7:40 p.m., the doctor examined Hawkins and "highly recommended" that the inmate be transferred to St. Mary's for closer observation. At 8:10 p.m. Hawkins was taken, on a stretcher, to the hospital.

According to McGrew, the ill inmate had been having trouble with prisoners who said they were friends of the man he allegedly killed. The supervisor said that in such cases, when the trouble is discovered, prisoners are moved if necessary.

Although officials are confident Hawkins was not injured in their facility and that he apparently had been having medical problems before being jailed, the county will be picking up the tab for the indefinite period of time he remains hospitalized.

According to McGrew, the bill at St. Mary's through 2 p.m. Monday had run to $4,681. Blanchard said county commissioners had not yet been appraised of the situation.

Although the hospital bill has not yet been sent to the county, Blanchard said that when his office receives and approves it, the statement will be sent to the Lubbock County Welfare Department, which will calculate what portion it will pay. The remainder of the bill, which, according to McGrew and Blanchard will be "substantial," will be forwarded to county commissioners for payment.

Thunderbirds Take Spotlight At Reese

lar plane and was flying bombers, stationed at Hickam Field in Hawaii, when WW II opened with a bang one Sunday with him in attendance.

"There isn't much you can do with a bomber once an attack is on, so we stayed out of the way until it was over and then sent some B-18s out to look for the Japanese fleet."

Looking for the fleet was a job he had often, but once down in Australia, he flew missions to soften up all South Pacific fronts before invasion.

Once, on New Guinea, when the U.S. "owned the air base and a strip of land around it," a typhoon caused him to set his B-17 down on a strip of sandy beach in enemy territory.

He contacted the base some 75 miles away, got some pierce plank steel brought in, commandeered aid from 700 natives and flew the plane home.

Also, he had an alternate plan for burning the plane and going to sea in a native canoe if the Japanese spotted him.

Monday, he seemed more concerned with fuel to reach Altus before dark. He was all set to take off as the Thunderbirds touched down to end the day's festivities for open house.

Thunderbird assignments, according to Capt. John LaPointe who flies the left wing position, get a little more intensive in the second year. He spent his first being a precision member of the team. This year he has been more involved with the responsibilities of being the senior wingman.

"It still takes total concentration" to fly the maneuvers showing what the T-38 Talon can do if necessary, but LaPointe has time to help get the timing going in the performances.

Last year he and the team performed before 6.6 million spectators and an estimated three or four million this year so far.

Though he meets senators, vice presidents, many high diplomats and even "the president's mother," LaPointe feels his greatest thrill is flying for future Air Force pilots learning to fly in the T-38.

LaPointe, who came to the team after flying the F-4 Phantom in Thailand, will be going back into F-4s at the end of this season.

He leaves behind two years of showmanship with a team made up of the Air Force's best who make up a very tight knit family upstairs where there is no room for friction, where a man's life depends on the man at the controls of the plane a few feet away.

Death of the narrator during the year was like the death of a member of the family, LaPointe noted.

The narrator is in training to be a Thunderbird, ready to step into the cockpit after his year as a narrator.

If it had been a team member, like it was a few years ago, the tour for the year probably would have been canceled as there is no pilot waiting in the wings, already trained for the Thunderbirds.

It takes a lot of screening and a lot of ability to make the team in the first place. It takes 80 training sorties to weld the team after new members join the veterans.

Reese open house is arranged according to the schedule of the Thunderbirds which put towering columns of smoke trails into West Texas skies as the candles on the base birthday cake each year.

Hill's Second Wife Says Doctor Admitted Slaying

HOUSTON (AP) — The second wife of slain Houston plastic surgeon Dr. John Hill has testified he told her he killed his first wife, Joan Robinson Hill.

Ann Kurth also testified Monday she believes Hill also tried to take her life on three occasions during their brief marriage.

The statements by Mrs. Kurth were out of the presence of the jury since State District Judge Arthur Lesher had ruled earlier the testimony could not be admitted before the jury which is hearing a $7.6 million wrongful death civil suit.

Her testimony launched the seventh week of the trial of the civil suit in which the slain physician's third wife, Connie Hill, 37, his mother, Myra Hill, 75, and son Robert Hill, 17, are suing oil millionaire Ash Robinson, 79.

They allege in the suit that Robinson arranged the death of Hill to avenge the death of his only daughter, Joan Robinson Hill. When he was shot to death at his fashionable River Oaks home in 1972, Hill was awaiting a second trial on charges he killed his first wife in 1969 through medical neglect.

No criminal charges have been filed against Robinson, and he denies the allegations by the Hill family.

Hill's first trial ended in a mistrial in 1971, and it was during Mrs. Kurth's testimony in that trial that the mistrial was declared.

In her testimony Monday with the jury absent, Mrs. Kurth, 47, a tall, black-haired woman who was married to Hill for nine months in 1969 and 1970, said Hill told her he killed his first wife with cultures grown from bodily wastes.

She said she and Hill were riding on the outskirts of Houston June 30, 1969, when he described to her how he killed Joan Hill by growing culture "from every form of human waste," inserting them into pastries and feeding them to her along with a drug to make her vomit.

She testified that Hill told her that eating the infected pastries did not kill Joan Hill and when she asked for something to cure the illness he instead injected a culture-infected drug to speed up the infection process.

Mrs. Kurth testified Hill then crashed her side of his automobile into a concrete abutment in what she believed was an attempt to kill her. When the wreck did not kill her, she said, Hill attempted twice to inject her with a syringe containing an unknown substance but that she fought him off.

A passing car wound up taking them to a hospital, where she was treated for lacerations and bruises and Hill for a broken nose, she testified.

Mrs. Kurth said that later in their marriage Hill became angry at her and tried to strangle her once in front of Robert and her three sons by a previous marriage. She said on another occasion Hill "gripped" her tightly while they were in a swimming pool.

Mrs. Kurth drew a quiet laugh from Robert when she told of the boy becoming "terrified" of his father during a trip to Kemah when Hill began driving recklessly.

"Robert appears to find the incident amusing now," W. Robert Brown, Robinson's attorney said. "Did he find it amusing the day it occurred?"

"No," Mrs. Kurth replied as Robert continued to smile and take notes on a legal pad.

She also testified the boy once ran away from home because of his father and grandmother, Myra Hill.

In the presence of the jury, Mrs. Kurth testified that Robert called her "Mom" and that she allowed him to visit the Robinsons without Hill knowing it.

Schmidt argued for public ownership of utilities.

"The federal government cannot be subsidizing individual utility bills," Schmidt said. "So we need to look for a new energy policy that calls for public ownership of not only our energy resources, but also transmission and transportation of all energy."

"We must begin to treat energy the same way we treat water, public education, public hospitals and the public highway system — all which are necessary commodities for survival."

Mexican-Americans Meet In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Mexican-American leaders met Monday night to draft proposals for "keeping our community calm."

Many members of the community have expressed disappointment at the outcome of a trial in Huntsville in which two former Houston policemen were found guilty of negligent homicide in the drowning death of Joe Campos-Torres last May.

Frumencio Reyes Jr., legal counsel in Harris County for the Political Association of Spanish Speaking Persons, said about 30 persons attended the meeting.

Mexican-American officials have asked the Justice Department to file civil rights violation charges against the two former officers.

HOME AGAIN — U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr., left, was greeted by his brother Jimmy as the 58-year-old judge returned to Montgomery Monday for a medical examination after illness forced postponement of his Senate confirmation hearing for his appointment as FBI director. (AP Laserphoto)

FBI Designate Told To Rest

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — FBI director-designate Frank M. Johnson Jr. has been ordered by his doctor to get a week to 10 days' bed rest after "overdoing it" preparing for his Senate confirmation hearings.

Today's hearings were postponed by the Senate Judiciary Committee after Johnson, who recently underwent stomach surgery, left Washington Monday complaining of exhaustion.

FBI Director Clarence Kelley, who took office in Jan. 1973, has announced plans to retire Jan. 1, Johnson, 58, a federal judge in Alabama since 1955, is Carter's choice to succeed Kelly.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said the postponement of hearings is "nothing serious."

Johnson was met at the Montgomery airport by his brother, Jimmy, and taken to his physician for an examination.

GOP Dissidents Plan Meet To Ponder Split

A group of dissatisfied Republicans will meet Oct. 20 to consider future plans including the possibility of forming a new county GOP organization.

Spokesmen Dean Krueger and Mike Van Horn said the meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Melonie Park South clubhouse.

The two, both members of the Lubbock County Republican executive committee, have recently openly criticized both the committee and county chairman Mike Stevens.

"We want to set the record straight that the actions of the executive committee do not always reflect the views of the conservative, grass-roots Republican," said Krueger, GOP Pct. 47 chairman.

The Oct. 20 meeting will be to consider future plans "and the direction that conservative, grass-roots Republicans should take," he said.

Krueger and Van Horn said the discontent group includes 40 to 50 or more persons, and said it will split from the county GOP organization if necessary.

"We would much rather work through the executive committee for the benefit of all Republicans. But if a few people insist on speaking under the guise of representing the Republicans as a whole, then we will have to take some alternative action," Krueger said.

Chinese Education Undergoing Major Changes

EDITOR'S NOTE — A group of Associated Press executives and directors were given a look inside classrooms of China during a recent 16-day tour of the country. In this article, Louis D. Boccardi, executive editor and vice president of the AP, tells what they learned.

By LOUIS D. BOCCARDI
PEKING (AP) — China's leaders are making major changes in the country's educational system, which they say was all but wrecked in the ideological disputes of recent years.
 The problems, and the proposed cures, came up frequently during a 16-day trip through China.
 —There is no freshman class this fall at Peking University because new standards for admission have not been drawn up. The university is 3,000 short of its 10,000-student capacity.

 —The new standards, still being formulated, will put new stress on letting the brightest students get the most advanced training, with ideology not the central qualification.
 —Because of ideological attacks on the universities and scholars by the now-outcast Gang of Four, textbook publishing virtually stopped during the last three or four years. Teachers, unsure which way the wind would be blowing, ran off their materials on duplicating machines — less permanent and less likely to cause trouble.
 —Scientific advance was interrupted. Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping said in an interview that power struggles cost the country a decade of progress.

 —Examinations were attacked as a form of elitism not suited to a society of equals. Teng said exams must be given.
 A leader in the current Chinese educational effort is an old hand, Chou Peiyuan, a physicist now in his 70s who studied in the United States before 1949 and is vice chairman of Peking University.
 During a half-day visit to the university by a group of Associated Press executives and directors, Chou unfolded his story. He spoke in Chinese, although his English is excellent. Occasionally he would interrupt the interpreter to correct a nuance.
 Chou said the Gang of Four, which included Mao's widow Chiang Ching, had taken tight control of the university from 1973 to 1976. (They were arrested last October.)

 He said they attacked professors for their writings, assailed intellectuals as non-contributors to the labors China needed from every citizen, and sabotaged examinations. They attacked him, too, for his stress on China's need to make the best use of its brainpower, he said.
 Now, with the Gang of Four arrested and Vice Premier Teng leading an effort to speed China's modernization, the new order is illustrated in the discussions over who gets into the university.
 The old way, Chou explained, consisted of a class made up pretty much equally from among peasants, workers and soldiers. They were nominated by their factory or neighborhood or military unit and ideological purity was a key factor.

 Now, Chou said, that is to be changed. Plans are not yet final but perhaps as much as 30 per cent of the new students may be selected directly from middle school, with the selection based on their intelligence.
 That such a shift should be regarded as so profound may strike non-Chinese as strange. But it is central to China's efforts to modernize, and it is an important thread in the modernization effort a visitor hears about (and to a lesser extent sees) from one end of China to the other.

 In the interview, Teng said the quality of education at all levels in China was too low and had to be raised.
 Teaching materials are substandard and must be improved, he said.
 But he emphasized that while there would be a stress on educational achievement, education would have to keep its students in touch with the realities of life in China.
 Complaining of past mistakes in the system, he said it turned out technology majors, but didn't teach them to run a lathe.

Somali Forces Claim To Be Near Objective

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Somali forces trying to seize control of Ethiopia's Ogaden desert region say they have killed 800 Ethiopian soldiers and penetrated to within three miles of their main objective.
 The Somalis said Monday they fought Ethiopian troops in two battles near the city of Dire Dawa, the biggest Ethiopian enclave north of the disputed Ogaden desert and an anchor of the Ethiopians' last line of defense.

Somalia Radio quoted the insurgents' newspaper Danab (Thunderbolt) as saying 500 Ethiopian troops were killed last week at the village of Hamareysa, just three miles from Dire Dawa.
 In a second battle, 300 Ethiopians, mostly lightly equipped militia, were said to have died at the town of Kadar Addey on the road running east from Dire Dawa to the ancient walled city of Harar. Two Ethiopian F5A jet fighters were shot down by the insurgents, according to radio reports.

Firm Wins Pacts For Telescope

LONDON (AP) — The British Aerospace company announced today it has won two major contracts for work on a giant American telescope that will probe deep space and possibly tell scientists what life was like billions of years ago.
 The company said it will lead a consortium of 11 companies from eight European countries to fulfill the contract.
 The telescope, to be operated by NASA, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, is considered by Western experts as the world's most ambitious space astronomy project. Estimated cost is $350 million.
 British Aerospace's Electronic and Space Systems Division at Bristol was awarded the contracts, totalling $23.275 million by ESA, the European Space Agency.

Somalia insists ethnic Somali guerrillas are fighting the Ethiopians, but the Ethiopian government maintains regular Somali forces have joined the battle.
 It was the first reported fighting near Dire Dawa since August, when the Ethiopians turned back a major Somali attack against the city.
 For the last two weeks, the Somalis were reported to be concentrating their attacks around Harar, the headquarters of the Ethiopian Third Army Division.
 It had been widely expected the insurgents would attempt to cut Harar off from Dire Dawa and Addis Ababa to the west and take the town by siege. But they may have decided to bypass Harar to attack Dire Dawa, an easier military target.
 If the Somali reports are correct — Ethiopian radio made no mention of fighting in the area — the insurgents may be trying to cut both towns off from the capital.
 Harar and Dire Dawa — an industrial center and former end of the rail line to the seaport of Djibouti — are connected by highway to Addis Ababa and get most of their supplies by truck.
 The two towns, along with the stronghold of Jijiga which was lost to the Somalis in early September, formed the anchors of the Ethiopian defense line north of the Ogaden.
 Military analysts consider Harar and Dire Dawa to be crucial to controlling four southern and eastern provinces of Ethiopia which the insurgents consider part of an historic "Greater Somalia."

Under the terms of an agreement between NASA and ESA, approximately 15 per cent of the Space Telescope project will be developed in Europe, and European astronomers will get not less than 15 per cent of the total telescope observing time.
 The first contract, valued at $10.5 million, covers the development and manufacture of what are termed Solar Arrays to power the telescope during its projected life of 10 to 15 years.
 The second contract, valued at $12.25 million, is for the development and manufacture of what is called the Photon Detector Assembly, the heart of a "faint object" camera with which the telescope will scan deep space.
 The Lockheed Missiles and Space Co. is the main contractor for the structure and support systems, while the Perkin-Elmer Corp., of Norwalk, Conn., will build the optical telescope assembly.
 The space telescope is a cylinder 43 feet long and 14 feet in diameter. The optical telescope assembly will comprise a primary mirror 7.8 feet in diameter.
 The space telescope will be placed in orbit at a nominal altitude of 311 miles and will be set to detect objects 50 times fainter and seven times farther away than can be seen with telescopes on earth, British Aerospace told reporters.
 "This opens up an immense new area of space to observation," an official stated.

Moscow (UPI) — A young dissident who wrote an extensive account about abuses of psychiatry in the Soviet Union was picked up on a Moscow street, questioned by police and later released, dissident sources said.
 Alexander Podrabinek, 23, was walking with a woman friend, Ina Kaplun, on Monday when an unmarked car stopped. Podrabinek was pulled into the car, the sources said, and taken away for questioning.
 The woman said she tried to get into the car with him but was pushed out. She returned to her apartment to find it being searched by Soviet authorities, the sources said.
 She told the sources that during the search, authorized by the Moscow prosecutor's office, some 33 hand-written documents relating to Podrabinek and his work were confiscated.
 Podrabinek was held for about seven hours.
 It was the latest incident involving Moscow dissidents and followed by a few hours the house arrest — for the second time — of a group of Jewish "refuseniks" who wanted to stage a demonstration.
 They were placed under house arrest last week when authorities learned they wanted to demonstrate at the offices of the Supreme Soviet because they have been refused exit visas.
 Those being confined to their homes included activist Vladimir Slepak.
 Podrabinek is the author of a text called "Punitive Medicine," a 265-page documentation of human rights abuses in mental hospitals. Parts of his report were published in August by Amnesty International.
 In the study, Podrabinek said a Soviet citizen can be sent to a psychiatric hospital for committing such political crimes as "anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda" — a charge often lodged against dissidents.
 The sources said they had been worried about Podrabinek because it was the second time he has been picked up by the police.
 Last spring he was jailed for 15 days for "hooliganism" for attending a political meeting. At that time his apartment was searched and some documents were taken.

Japanese, Germans Plan Weapon Ban

TOKYO (AP) — West Germany and Japan plan to submit a joint proposal at a U.N. disarmament meeting next spring calling for a ban on the export of all weapons, West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher said today.
 Genscher, on an official visit here, told a news conference he and Foreign Minister Ichiro Hatoyama agreed on the joint proposal because Japan and West Germany have been in concurrence on such related issues as nuclear nonproliferation.
 Since World War II, both countries have depended largely on weapons supplied by the United States for their armed forces, but both have been strengthening their domestic arms industries since then.
 The U.N. General Assembly is to hold the disarmament conference next May.

London-Australia Air Fare Lowered

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — British Airways says it will reduce roundtrip fares between London and Australia on an advance reservation basis starting next January.
 If purchased 90 days in advance, a low-season roundtrip fare will be $760, about $170 less than the current fare. Similar reductions will be made on high season fares, the company said.
 The move came four days before the Australian Civil Aviation Authority will hear an application from airline entrepreneur Freddie Laker for cut-rate flights on the same route. Laker has claimed he will run as low as $600 roundtrip.

Deserters Say Bill Threatens Job Chances

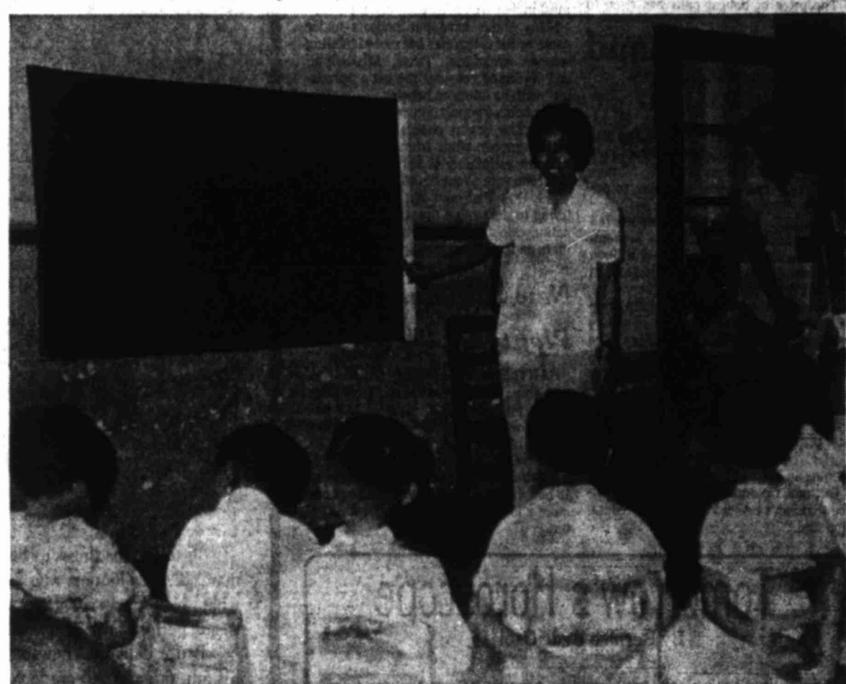

PARIS (UPI) — Two American Army deserters who plan to return home soon say a bill signed into law by President Carter may endanger their chances of finding jobs and getting full veteran benefits.
 The new law denies automatic benefits to veterans whose discharges have been upgraded under Carter's amnesty program for Vietnam War deserters and draft evaders.
 Tom Nagel of Stockton, Ill., and George Kazolias of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., said many of the estimated 300,000 Vietnam deserters and draft evaders in France had never heard of the amnesty program.
 Nagel, 29, went absent without leave from his army base in Germany in 1973. Under Carter's amnesty program he drew an "other than honorable" discharge. It was then upgraded to a general discharge.
 Nagel, who has a French wife and a 2-year-old daughter, said Monday he plans to return to the United States at the end of this month. But he said all upgraded discharges require a case-by-case review and each is coded as to whether the holder is eligible for benefits.
 He called the Carter amnesty program "a complete hoax."

Moslems Kill General, 32 Soldiers

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — An army brigadier general and 32 of his men were ambushed and killed by Moslem rebels, who lured them into a village marketplace with an offer to talk peace, a government spokesman said today.
 Brig. Gen. Teodoro Bautista was shot in the back at pointblank range Monday immediately after he shook hands with Moslem rebel leader Usman Sali, the spokesman said, while other guerrillas shot the 23 soldiers and nine officers in Bautista's party.
 Three enlisted men were wounded, but survived the massacre, Acting Secretary of Public Information Lorenzo Cruz said.
 President Ferdinand Marcos today declared Sali and his band "an outlaw group to be hunted down by the police as well as the armed forces," and offered a $15,000 reward for Sali and $3,000 for each senior member of his group.
 The ambush took place in a village marketplace in Jolo, an island about 600 miles south of Manila and one of the key strongholds of the secessionist Moro (Moslem) National Liberation Front.
 Cruz said the West Point-trained Bautista had arranged the meeting with Sali, a leader of the Moro Front, apparently in the belief that he was ready to surrender.
 The massacre was the most serious breach to date of a cease-fire agreement signed last December in Tripoli, Libya, between the Moro Front and the government.
 The Moro Front has waged a five-year war against the predominantly Roman Catholic Republic of the Philippines for the independence of the southern provinces. Ten thousand civilians have died and hundreds of thousands are homeless.
 Of the 6.2 million people in the southern Philippines, about 1.2 million are Moslems.
 Hostilities between the rebel forces and government troops resumed on a wide scale last month following the deaths of 25 civilians in a land mine explosion on the island of Basilan, about 500 miles south of Manila.

SALT Negotiators Discussing Formal Language For Treaty

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet SALT negotiators are now discussing formal language for new areas of agreement on a nuclear weapons limitation treaty, U.S. officials announced today.
 The announcement said the new areas of agreement were achieved in the recent talks in Washington between President Carter and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.
 Paul C. Warnke, the chief U.S. negotiator, and his Soviet counterpart Vladimir S. Semenov, met privately in Geneva Monday for one hour and 15 minutes to discuss the new developments.
 "The meeting... constituted the beginning of the work to translate into treaty form those areas of agreement reached in Washington and to resolve outstanding differences between the sides," the U.S. statement said.
 Warnke and Semenov agreed to hold a full SALT plenary session Oct. 13 to continue this work. The meeting will be the 211th since the current SALT round began Nov. 21, 1972.
 The announcement today confirmed reports from Washington that new areas of agreement for a SALT II treaty had been found, but that some problems remain.
 Both U.S. and Soviet SALT officials refused to comment on reports in the New York Times giving purported details of the "new areas of agreement" reached by President Carter and Gromyko.
 The Times said these "areas" involve the new U.S. cruise missile, the Soviet "Backfire" nuclear bomber and new Soviet heavy missiles — all issues which have held up progress in the SALT II negotiations for the past 18 months.
 While negotiations continue, both sides are respecting the original SALT I treaty, of 1972, which expired this month, to freeze nuclear weapons arsenals at existing numbers pending a SALT II treaty on actual reductions.
 Privately, SALT delegates say there now appears to be a fairly reasonable chance of getting a new treaty by the end of the year.
 While this treaty may not be as comprehensive as originally hoped, it will provide for work to start almost at once on a SALT III pact, delegates said.

Nicaraguans Deny News Report

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The Nicaraguan presidential press office has denied that President Anastasio Somoza has had to curtail his work load because of a heart attack suffered July 25.
 Press Secretary Gen. Roger Bermudez sent a telex to UPI divisional headquarters in Mexico City protesting a commentary on Nicaragua written by Mexico City editor Carol Cook and based on talks with diplomatic sources and Nicaraguans in Managua.
 Miss Cook quoted one source as saying Somoza was limited to three hours of work per week.
 The commentary, for reissue in afternoon papers Friday, Oct. 7, also stated that one opposition party has called for Somoza's resignation and quoted informed sources as saying some of his aides were trying to persuade the 51-year-old leader to step down.

Southpaw Store Caters To Left-Hand Market

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (UPI) — Leonardo da Vinci was a lefty. So was Charlie Chaplin, King George II of England, Judy Garland, Babe Ruth, Harry Truman, Cole Porter and Jack the Ripper. And so are between 15 and 22 percent of the people in the United States today. Whatever the century, lefties have always had trouble living in a right-handed world.

Jerry Drake knows this as well as any southpaw, and has opened a left-handed store — called the Southpaw — at the Cinderella City shopping center in Englewood.

"I'm left-handed and all my life I've had trouble finding things to use with my left hand, like scissors for instance," said Drake. "I guess what really triggered the idea of a store was when I had trouble locating a left-handed gun holster."

Drake, a sales manager for a wholesale lumber company, and his wife, Karen, have been for thumbing through catalogs and writing letters to manufacturers and accumulating lefthanded items for nearly two years for the store they wanted to open.

"And this is only a start," said Drake. "There still are a lot of things I want to get, like left-handed mustache cups. We've already had some calls for them. And a man was in the other day looking for a lefthanded circular saw. I've located one for him."

So far, the store's biggest selling items are T-shirts with lettering such as "Love a Lefty," "What's Left," and "Ask me if I'm sinister." (Sinister means left in Latin.) Drake said most of his customers have been right-handed persons buying gifts for left-handed friends or relatives.

His store also sells lefty golf clubs, hockey sticks, scissors, can openers, address books, yardsticks, butter knives, notebooks, potato peelers, corkscrews and soup ladles.

"Did you realize there's such a thing as left-handed playing cards?" said Drake. "Regular cards have the numbers on only two corners and a lefty can't see them when he makes a fan in his hands. The cards we sell have numbers on all four corners."

The Southpaw also stocks left-handed instruction books on golf, tennis, crocheting and guitar-playing.

"And we had a cowboy in there the other day wondering why we don't have instructions on left-handed calf roping," said Drake.

"When they see this store, people come in and ask for a left-handed monkey wrench," he said. "It's going to surprise them, because I've found one, and if I can't get more, I'm going to have them manufactured."

Endangered Bobcats To Be Protected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A European taste for fashionable animal skin coats has jeopardized the future of the bobcat, long considered nothing more than an American pest.

Now individual states and the U.S. Endangered Species Scientific Authority are moving to protect the species, according to a National Wildlife Federation study.

Bobcats also are known as wildcats, lynx rufus and bay lynx.

The federation said the animal, once widespread and currently unprotected by law in many states, is a prime candidate to replace the now forbidden skins of exotic animals.

Bobcat skins are yellow-gold with black spots and European furriers consider them a substitute for the skins of leopards, a species now regulated under an international endangered species agreement.

The price of bobcat pelts has risen to about $150, with some of the most favored species — those with thick furs from the northern United States — bringing as much as $400 each to trappers.

But the U.S. Endangered Species Scientific Authority — William Brown — barred the export of bobcat pelts taken after August 30.

"The high price of bobcat is a phenomenon of the last decade, perhaps caused by recent worldwide restriction of trade in larger cats," said Brown, who estimated exporters sell about $10 million a year worth of bobcat furs abroad.

Another factor draining bobcat population is loss of habitat, the wildlife group said. Yet the federation found the nocturnal bobcat, which preys mainly on rodents and rabbits and sometimes young deer, has adapted to habitats including swamps, deserts, and mountain country.

The study found that half the lower 48 states consider the bobcat in jeopardy, almost in jeopardy or already endangered.

Many states have put bobcats under game or fur categories but closed hunting seasons. Colorado, Texas, Mississippi, and Wyoming consider the cat a "predator" with no limits on hunting.

The bobcat population was stable in 25 states. The largest populations reported in the survey were from New Mexico with an estimated 48,300 wildcats, and Colorado with about 30,000.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife service is trying to determine the status of bobcats nationwide to decide whether to place them on the endangered species list.

Coffee Demand Falls In U.S.

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — The National Federation of Coffee Growers says Colombian coffee exports fell by 1.7 million sacks over the past year due to declining consumer demand.

Although Colombian coffee exports fell between September, 1976 and September, 1977, the value rose by $549 million in the same period, the federation said in a report this weekend.

The increase was due to the sharp jump in prices that made a pound of coffee worth $3.38 in New York in May. The price has now fallen to $1.80 a pound in the unstable market of the last four months.

The 1975 frost that hit Brazil, the major coffee supplier, caused a scarcity. Colombia, the world's second-largest coffee exporter, cashed in on the coffee boom gaining an extra $1.5 billion.

But now Colombia has silos full of coffee that can't be sold quickly, the federation said.

New Ship Can Pump Plenty Of Water

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — A new ship, the Phillips SS, is a firefighter with a pumping capability of 40,000 gallons of water a minute — the equivalent of about 150 firemen with hoses.

The World's Greatest Athlete is proud to have been a Newspaper Carrier

Born in Ossining, New York, on October 28, 1949, Bruce spent his youth in Tarrytown and Mt. Kisco, N.Y. and Newtown, Connecticut, where he competed in football, basketball and track. He was All-State pole vault champion in high school, but only Graceland College in Iowa offered a sports scholarship to the man who was to become the world's greatest athlete.

Bruce Jenner made the NAIA All-American Team and the Olympic qualifying standard in the Drake Relays, which he won in 1972. He finished 10th in his first Olympics, prompting him to move to San Jose, California, with his wife, Chrystie, for four years of decathlon training. In August 1975, he set a world record, scoring 8,524 points in a Triangular meet in Eugene, Oregon.

Bruce Jenner is the only man ever to score over 8,500 points, and currently holds the world's record with 8,618 points. He also holds the Olympic and World Record for the greatest second-day score and the greatest 10-meet average score.

A natural athlete and outdoorsman, the 6 ft., 2 in., 195-pound Jenner bicycles, plays tennis, sails, skis and was three-time Eastern water skiing champion.

"It takes steadiness to be a decathlon man," Bruce Jenner says. "And that's what Newspaper Carriers give you — steady performance every day."

Bruce delivered newspapers through his 5th, 6th and 7th-grade years in Tarrytown, N.Y.

"Being a Newspaper Carrier helped me to acquire the discipline I needed for training." And his training paid off.

Grimacing with pain and tension, Bruce Jenner crossed the 1,500-meter finish at the Montreal Olympics to win the most grueling of all competitions. The 1976 decathlon champion also won the only Olympic honor more precious than gold—the title of The World's Greatest Athlete.

Now he's asking you to join the Treasury Department in saying "thank you" to your local Newspaper Carriers. It's their day: Newspaper Carrier Day, 1977.

Newspaper Carriers have steadily supported the U.S. Savings Bond program, buying Bonds regularly with their earnings. Through their Newspaper Carrier Thrift Clubs, many have set aside money for their college educations.

Like Bruce Jenner, they believe in goals for the future. And that's what U.S. Savings Bonds are all about.

'Old Fashion' World Series Opens Run

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers, two franchises that divided baseball positions and World Series titles during most of the 1950s, square off in Game 1 of the 1977 World Series tonight.

"This is exciting for baseball," enthused the Dodgers' Tom Lasorda, a National League pennant winner in his rookie managerial season in the big leagues. "Here we have the two great teams which over the years have been synonymous with major league baseball."

Lasorda, who said he was cut from the Dodgers' 1955 championship team because of a young lefthander named Sandy Koufax, was highly emotional about Meanwhile, his managerial counterpart, Billy Martin, proclaimed there was no longer any special rivalry between the Bronx Bombers and the Dodgers, former tenants in the borough of Brooklyn.

"The fifties were too long ago," said brash Billy, a hero of the Yankees' 1953 World Series win over the "Bums" of Brooklyn. "We used to travel by subway then. Now we go cross country in planes."

There now is a lot more separating Los Angeles and New York besides 3,000 miles.

The Dodgers, a team built from its minor league system, failed to enter the free-agent market. The Yankees, however, have been called the best team money can buy, adding free-agent plums Reggie Jackson and Don Gullett to last season's AL championship club that dropped four straight World Series games to the Cincinnati Reds.

The Dodgers believe in the credo that the team that loves together plays together, while the Yankees play together on the field and argue about it in the clubhouse.

"We built this team on togetherness, love and spirit," said Lasorda, who managed many of his players in the Dodgers chain before succeeding long-time skipper Walter Alton this season. "I love my players because they got me here. Hey, I was just a third-string pitcher on my high school team and now I'm managing the Dodgers in the World Series in the House That Ruth Built."

The Yankees' road to the AL pennant, won over Kansas City in the ninth inning of the fifth game for the second straight year, was a rocky one, highlighted by a near dugout brawl between Martin and Jackson, the near firing of Martin and personality clashes between Jackson and Yankees captain Thurman Munson.

"It's a relief we won," said Jackson, benched in the final game against Kansas City but a starter in right field tonight. "That way I don't have to hear how Jackson failed. It makes things a lot more peaceful around here."

It looked for a little while like the Yankees weren't going to be allowed to drift peacefully into tonight's game when Jackson received an eight-page telegram, allegedly from owner George Steinbrenner, saying his contract was terminated because his attitude had been degrading to the team.

After seriously scrutinizing the telegram for several minutes, Jackson was able to laugh it off as a hoax.

"Things could stay peaceful for the Yankees provided they quickly pick up their 100th World Series victory and follow that fast with three more triumphs. To that end, Martin will send lefthander Don Gullett to the mound against righthander Don Sutton at 7:15 p.m. tonight."

Gullett, who ironically was Cincinnati's opening-game pitcher against the Yankees last year, will be making his first start since a shoulder ailment knocked him out in the second inning of Game 1 of the AL playoffs last Wednesday.

At that time, Martin proclaimed Gullett was finished for the season. But Gullett, who said he threw pretty well on Saturday and Sunday, told Martin that he could pitch.

"There's been some physical improvement," said Gullett, 14-4 in the regular season. "I feel I can go out there and pitch. Every pitcher has days when he's not 100 per cent and he goes out there and wins with secondary stuff."

"But I'm not looking for secondary stuff."

Did Gullett take a pain-killing shot? "I don't want to comment on that. Ask the doctor," Gullett said.

"We don't disclose that kind of thing," said Martin.

Sutton, the Dodgers' ace righthander, is both well-rested and healthy following

George Really
'Gorgeous'

By MICKEY HERSKOWITZ
And STEVE PERKINS

HERSKOWITZ

Q. I would like to know a few things about Gorgeous George, the wrestler who will be portrayed by Henry Winkler in a movie. What was his real name? Did he have long golden curls or did he wear a wig? Did he actually have it shaved off one time in the ring?

—Mary Ann Patillo, San Antonio

A. The hair was his own. George, born Robert Wagner, let it grow long, dyed it blond, hired a valet to spray perfume in it and tossed "Georgie" pins to the crowds. As a side wager he once had his hair cut off after losing to Whipper Watson.

Demanding a rematch, Gorgeous declared that if he lost again the barber could shave off his WIFE's hair, which was red and long. George lost. Recalled his wife, later: "It took seven men to hold me down. Some women were crying for me. Others yelled that it was what I deserved. People were grabbing for pieces of my hair. I was hysterical."

Q. In a recent article in a Sunday tabloid, Kenny Moore, the Olympic marathoner, argued in favor of federal support for U.S. trackmen. Why is there no such assistance and how do the Russians handle this?

—Brian Rothkop, Flint, Mich.

A. Such a program of at least partial aid—say, in the form of expenses or tax credits—would have been approved long ago if not for the opposition of the late Avery Brundage, who for a quarter of a century fought to preserve the virginity of amateur sports in America. Soviet athletes are subsidized by their government. Olga Korbut, for example, was paid by the army. Two figure skaters, who won gold medals in the last Olympiad, were listed as students, aged 34 and 36.

But Brundage took the position that since all people work for the state in Russia, its athletes were entitled to such support. The American system works on the theory that amateur sports should not be a full-time (paid) occupation.

Q. In the 1920 World Series between Cleveland and Brooklyn, Billy Wambgsann made an unassisted triple play. Please explain how he made the play and what the outcome of the game was.

—Tim Cox, Galena Park.

A. This one crops up every year at World Series time. And here it is: Brooklyn at bat, Peter Kilduff on second and Otto Miller on first, pitcher Clarence Mitchell at the plate. The hit and run is on. Mitchell smashes a line drive over second. Second baseman Wambgsann spears the ball, steps on second, then walks over the tags Miller, who was too stunned to move. Triple play. Cleveland won the game 8-1 and the Series, five games to two. Brooklyn didn't get into another Series until 1941.

The Michigan Wolverines returned to the top of The Associated Press college football ratings today while last week's 1-2 teams, Southern California and Oklahoma, dropped to sixth and seventh.

Michigan also regained the leadership in United Press International's poll by drawing 31 of the 41 first-place votes from coaches across the nation.

The Wolverines, voted out of the No. 1 position two weeks ago at the request of coach Bo Schembechler, climbed back by defeating Michigan State 24-14 while Alabama stunned Southern Cal 21-20 and Texas knocked off Oklahoma 13-6.

Michigan, received 44 of 61 AP first-place votes and 1,180 of a possible 1,220 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Yankees' Martin, Jackson Praise Each Other

By The Associated Press

Reggie Jackson had nothing but nice things to say about Billy Martin. "Give him credit — the man has guts," he said. "Martin would play Hitler if he thought it would help him win."

Billy Martin had nothing but nice things to say about Reggie Jackson. "I made it hard on Reggie during the year, but I have developed the greatest respect and admiration for the guy. He really put out for us the last two months of the season."

George Steinbrenner had nothing but nice things to say about Martin, the manager he is reportedly ready to fire. "Last year in the playoffs and World Series, I thought Billy was unsure of himself," the owner said. "I think the job he did in the final game against Kansas City Sunday night was the finest game of managing under pressure I have ever seen."

President Gabe Paul, who is supposed to be fashioning the noose for Martin's red neck, had nothing but nice things to say about everybody.

"This is a team that is not afraid of the consequences," he said. "The tougher the going, the tougher they play. If you are afraid of consequences, you play it close to the vest. Not these guys — they slug away."

Given a reprieve in the final inning of the final game of the league championship, the New York Yankees at last have found the light.

They have got religion. They are sorry for their past sins. Having stared the ghost of disaster squarely in the eyes and lived to tell about it, they have become a humbler, a more mature group of human beings.

The questions now are:

- How will this change of attitude affect their performances against Tommy Lasorda's Los Angeles "Togetherness Boys" in the World Series, starting tonight at Yankee Stadium?
- Has firebrand Billy Martin saved his job with his gutsy benching of Steinbrenner's $2.9 million free agent baby?

• Will the feuding, back-biting, discontented Yankees finally find peace and happiness in their narrow escape from doom?

The specter was raised for the controversial, outspoken Jackson Monday when a lengthy telegram was delivered to him while he was donning his pinstripes in the Yankees locker room. Jackson opened the envelope slowly and read the jolting words: "Your conduct has been disgraceful to the team. Your contract is terminated, effective Oct. 9." It continued for eight abusive pages and was signed "George Steinbrenner." It was just one of the many crank letters Jackson receives.

Martin's benching of Jackson, who had 32 homers and 110 runs batted in for the season, exploded a bombshell prior to Sunday night's game at Kansas City.

"I had to do it for the sake of the team," Martin said. "He was having trouble fielding on the artificial turf and he hadn't hit well against Splittorff (Paul Splittorff, Kansas City's starting lefthander). It was a hard decision. The manager always is a heel."

Martin said he first checked out the decision with Steinbrenner, who agreed with it.

"It is true," Steinbrenner said. "Billy came up and said there was something he wanted to try on for size. When he explained it, I said I had been on the same wave length but my idea was perhaps to play Roy White in left and Lou Piniella in right. When Billy explained that Paul Blair (Jackson's replacement) hit Splittorff well, I agreed it was a good move."

"Those kids never quit," he said of the Yankees. "They (the Royals) thought they could intimidate us. They couldn't. I love guys who fight."

He wouldn't commit himself on the future of Billy Martin, the scrappiest scoundrel in baseball, but of Jackson he said: "If I had a chance to sign him again for the same price ($2.9 million), I would do it. Reggie has fulfilled all our expectations and, take my word for it, he's going to have a great World Series."

Medical Tape Holds NY Staff Together

NEW YORK (AP) — From the back of a crowd of newsmen, someone asked Yankees Manager Billy Martin if he needed another starting pitcher.

"We'll be all right," said Martin, his eyes fixed on the carpet. Then he looked up. "Hey, Tommy, how you doing? Damn, I could use you right now."

The probing questioner was none other than Tom Seaver, ace of the Cincinnati Reds and tonight a voice in the broadcasting booth when ABC gets its first crack at the World Series.

The truth is Martin could use Seaver or almost any other big league starter. His pitching staff, by reputation one of the best in baseball, seems to be now held together by one huge roll of medical tape.

Tonight he's starting Don Gullett, the same Don Gullett who was pulled after two innings' work last Wednesday in the opening game of the American League playoffs. The diagnosis was a sore shoulder.

"He told me he was all right," said Martin of his ace lefthander, who was 14-4 in the regular season while suffering from an assortment of ailments and a stint on the disabled list in August.

"I feel a big improvement," said Gullett, who opened last year's World Series for Cincinnati and beat the Yankees before leaving that game with a season-ending ankle injury. "There's more freedom in the shoulder. I told Billy I was confident I could do the job."

The next patient in Martin's patched-up pitching parade will probably be Catfish Hunter, 9-9 in just 22 games this season. Hunter, bothered by a sore shoulder most of the past two seasons, has been sidelined by a urological disorder and hasn't pitched since Sept. 10.

"I think I might start Catfish because of (Ed) Figueroa's finger," said Martin. "He developed a nerve problem in Kansas City and I had to take him out of the fourth game."

Hunter says he feels okay, but he's not certain about his control after a long lay-off.

"Control will definitely be the problem," Martin said. "It all depends on how well he can zero in on the plate."

Martin's probable third-game starter in Los Angeles Friday night is Ron Guidry, who won the second game of the playoffs but didn't have enough zip on his fastball in the fifth game three days later. He's healthy, but fragile and requires at least four days' rest between starts.

Mike Torrez, a strapping righthander who pitched a strong 5 1/3 innings in relief Sunday with one day's rest, is another possible starter. Dick Tidrow is Martin's long man out of the bullpen, where righthander Ken Clay and lefthander Ken Holtzman are expected to sit as spectators the entire series.

That leaves one man on the Yankees pitching staff — Sparky Lyle, who bailed the Yankees out with long and short relief wins on Saturday and Sunday. He's Martin's ace in the hole.

"Sparky's amazing, he's so good," said Martin, who wishes he had a super starter comparable to his fabulous finisher.

LA, NY Managers 'Pals'

NEW YORK (AP) — "We're like brothers," said Tom Lasorda, manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"The best of pals," agreed Billy Martin, manager of the New York Yankees.

"But if I was starving in the desert and I found a plate of spaghetti — and I love spaghetti — I'd rather beat his butt this week," said Lasorda.

"That's a two-way street," Martin confirmed.

The two bosom buddies will become arch-rivals for anywhere from four to seven games beginning tonight when Lasorda's Dodgers and Martin's Yankees clash in the World Series.

Before the skirmishing began, however, the rival managers found time to sit down for some friendly libation Monday evening.

After going through the formality of a pre-series meeting in the midtown Manhattan office of baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, Martin and Lasorda adjourned downstairs to have a few drinks and relive a few memories while startled onlookers gaped at them.

"It's Columbus Day and us Italians have to stick together," said Martin, born Alfred Manuel Pesano.

Ironically, the Martin-Lasorda friendship began with a near-fight in 1956 during a game between the Yankees and the Kansas City A's.

"Tom Sturdivant had us beat 5-0," Lasorda recalled. "In those days, when the Yankees walked out on the field our team just stared in awe. Our manager, Lou Boudreau, was spacing back and forth in the dugout.

"He said, 'You guys are afraid of the Yankees. I grabbed him,'" continued Lasorda, who pitched in the Dodgers' chain for 11 years, "and I told him, 'In the organization I came from we're not afraid of anybody.'"

"So he sent me to the bullpen to warm up and I came in the game in the eighth inning. Joe Collins was the first batter and I threw two pitches behind him. Sturdivant was next and I threw behind him. Billy was the third batter and he moved up in the box to hit my curve — I had a pretty good curve ball — and I said, 'Don't you do that.' Then I struck him out."

"In the ninth, Hank Bauer was the first batter and I threw two pitches behind him. Billy was really getting on me from their dugout and I said, 'Come on out and get him,'" he recalled, "and I said, 'I think I will,' but (umpire) Hank Soar grabbed me before I even got to the foul line."

For Lasorda, in the World Series in his first year as a major league pilot, it is a dream come true to be managing in Yankee Stadium.

"I used to dream that I was a Yankee," said the Norristown, Pa., native. "I used to dream about the Joe DiMaggio, the Bill Dickey, the Red Rolfe, the Frank Crosetti. It's a thrill in itself to be managing in the World Series and in Yankee Stadium, but to be managing against my old buddy . . ."

Series Start At Yankee Stadium Sutton 'Dream'

NEW YORK (AP) — With all the millions the New York Yankees have been throwing around, a mere $13,000 was all that separated them from Don Sutton.

"They only offered me $2,000 as a bonus, and I didn't think that was enough," says Sutton, recalling his modest baseball beginnings. "I wanted $15,000."

So Sutton instead went westward as a young man and signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers. He got his $15,000, and tonight he gets even more than he ever dreamed of — a start in the World Series at Yankee Stadium.

"I once spent my whole life dreaming about pitching in Yankee Stadium," says Sutton. "You don't know how many mental shutouts I've pitched there. But I'm glad that I was in the All-Star Game last July at the Stadium. That got some of the apprehension out of my system, and now I won't be too awed."

Sutton, a 14-game winner but a virtual bust after the All-Star Game, wouldn't necessarily be his own choice to get the most prestigious pitching assignment of the baseball season. But Sutton surely wants the ball as much as anyone else.

"I think it would be easier for me to open than to just sit over there on the bench and watch it," said Sutton.

Possibly no one would enjoy it more than Sutton, either.

"It's fun," he says. "Playoffs and World Series are fun. I think we worked too hard to get here not to be able to enjoy one of the greatest spectacles in sports."

But despite the carnival atmosphere of the widely celebrated event, Sutton would never equate the World Series with a vacation.

"It's a workday," he says. "Once you cross the white line, it's work. I happen to enjoy my work very much, though. When I stop enjoying it, that'll be the time for me to quit."

Sutton, who grew up in Alabama a hard-line Yankees fan, will be looking at the New York team from a different viewpoint as the Dodgers face one of baseball's most expensive and explosive offenses.

"They've got four or five guys who can hit one out of Yellowstone Park," says Sutton, referring among others to high-salaried Reggie Jackson, the Yankees' $2.9 Million Man.

his victory Wednesday over Philadelphia in the NL playoffs.

"I'm fine, did you hear anything different," joked Sutton, 14-8 in the regular season and the winning All-Star pitcher last July.

"There's still a lot of excitement in being here," said the long-time Yankees fan who only changed his allegiance when he was signed by the Dodgers in 1965. "But it can't compare with my All-Star start. That was full. This is work."

"I now have 33 full World Series shares riding on how I throw."

Packers Kid Willie Randolph's Brother

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Terry Randolph says he never could hit the curve ball — nor the fast ball, for that matter — although he hit a lot of running backs and wide receivers at Brooklyn Tilden High School.

His brother, Willie, one year older, hit baseballs better than anyone else in the neighborhood. He was good at football, too, but injured fingers forced him to miss all but a couple of games as a high school senior.

Thus the two went separate athletic ways. Willie, the American League's All-Star second baseman, will be one of the New York Yankees' key players in the World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers. Terry is a rookie defensive back of considerable promise for the Green Bay Packers.

"We have a lot of baseball fans on the team, and they're really starting to give it to me," Terry Randolph said Monday. "They see Willie on television and they always tell me he's really good. They joke about it. They say, 'One brother made it. What happened to you?'"

True, there is no comparison between the athletic recognition accorded Willie and Terry, who so far has played only on special teams and as the fifth back in the Packers' pass prevent defense. But according to Dick LeBeau, the former Detroit Lions' All Pro who coaches the Packers' defensive backs, Terry could have a bright future in the National Football League.

"He's our No. 1 replacement at cornerback, and I'd have no reservations about putting him if the need arose," LeBeau said. "We're very pleased with his progress. He didn't play college football at a big time program, but he's very intelligent and has been able to adjust to the pro scheme."

Terry got into football because he became frustrated with baseball.

"Willie and I played a lot of baseball as kids, but when we got into organized baseball Willie was just so much better than everyone else," Terry said. "I just couldn't hit. I gave it up after one year."

But he became a high school football star, mostly as a defensive back, although he played some runningback and quarterback.

"Willie came out for the football team as a senior," Terry recalled. "I think he was trying to make up his mind between football and baseball. But he was hurt most of the season, so baseball was it for him."

Terry later starred for three seasons as a defensive back at American International College in Springfield, Mass., which plays NCAA Division II football. He was switched to runningback as a senior and rushed for nearly 1,000 yards.

"We played a wing-T, where you need a lot of speed," Terry said. "We had lost some backs through graduation, and they wanted me to switch to offense. At first I wasn't too happy about it because I thought I'd get drafted higher if I stayed on defense, but it probably worked out because I got more exposure by running the ball."

CHS Grabs Win In Volleyball

Coronado successfully began defense of its District 4-AAAA volleyball championship by dropping Hereford Monday night, as three city teams tested district action.

Coronado won 15-7, 15-3, as Teresa Moys scored 16 points. Tony Blackwell and Anna Wilson paced Hereford with 3 points each. The win upped Coronado's season record to 7-10. It was Hereford's first district game also. Next game for CHS will be against Pleasantview next Monday.

Snyder defeated Dunbar 15-4, 15-4 in a District 3-AAA girls volleyball game Monday night at Snyder.

High-pointer for Snyder was Shana Smith with 7 points while Lucy Lara paced DHS with 4. Snyder now stands 4-0 in district and 23-3 overall while Dunbar falls to 0-4 and 3-16 overall. Snyder won the JV game 15-4, 15-5.

Moctezey opened 4-AAAA play with a 15-6, 15-7 victory over Pleasantview. Kenna Cantrell scored 10 points for the winners who brought their season record to 8-16. MHS won the junior varsity contest 15-4, 15-10.

ABILENE (AP) — Although sports-writers and broadcasters will make the decision, the head football coaches at Texas A&I and Abilene Christian each claim they have the nation's best NAIA team.

No. 1 Texas A&I and No. 2 Abilene Christian battled to a 25-25 tie last Saturday. It snapped a 42-game winning streak by Texas A&I and an 11-game streak by Abilene Christian.

"I think if A&I people were truthful," said ACU coach Dewitt Jones, "they would tell you we've got the better football team."

"We broke their 42-game winning streak on their home field. We outgained them statistically by over 100 yards. Our pass completion percentage was better. We scored four touchdowns to their three and we held them to 18 yards rushing."

But Javelina coach Fred Jonas said, "It was a tie game, so I don't see any reason for the rankings to change."

Texas A&I, playing before a hometown crowd of 18,500 at Kingsville, rallied from a 25-0 fourth quarter deficit to tie the game with 4:44 left on a 36-yard field goal by Robbie Spencer.

"I have to give our kids credit for coming back," said Jonas. "A lot of teams could have folded. Ours didn't."

The tie wiped out the Javelina win streak, but they still have a chance of matching the Oklahoma Sooners' mark of 48 straight decisions without a loss.

Texas A&I hosts Stephen F. Austin, 0-4, Saturday, while Abilene Christian will be at home against Angelo State, which is 4-0.

Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips says pride was the difference in the Oilers' 27-10 victory over Pittsburgh Sunday—and nine Steeler turnovers didn't hurt either.

The Oilers, who played poorly in a 27-7 loss to Miami, rebounded Sunday with a 27-10 victory over Pittsburgh to take sole possession of the AFC Central Division with a 3-1 record.

"When you get nine turnovers in a game, you should win no matter who you're playing," Phillips said, referring to Houston's six interceptions and three fumble recoveries against the Steelers.

"I'm enjoying it," Phillips said when asked about the Oiler's first place standing. "But I'd like to enjoy it one more week. That's all you can do anyway. Take 'em one at a time."

Phillips said the Oilers were embarrassed by their Miami performance.

"I think their pride was hurt when they didn't play as well as they knew they could," Phillips said. "That's why it's hard to handicap games. Sometimes a player doesn't do what he's supposed to do. There's that human element that no one can predict."

Phillips won't try to predict if injured starting quarterback Dan Pastorini will be ready for Houston's second straight division showdown Sunday against Cleveland. But he's not counting him out either.

"He's not one to give in to pain," Phillips said of Pastorini, who suffered a sprained ankle late in the third quarter. "If anybody can play on it, Dan can."

Pittsburgh also had quarterback problems, losing Terry Bradshaw with a broken bone in his left wrist and backup Mike Kruczek with a shoulder separation.

Phillips said the Steelers' quarterback losses should not detract from Houston's performance.

"They lost their quarterbacks but they didn't lose their defense," Phillips said. "There's no doubt it was hard for them to play without their quarterbacks. But last year their Number Two guy came in and did a good job against us."

"But I think we were going to win anyway. We intercepted their best quarterback four times in the first half."

Houston's position atop the AFC Central Division standings will be tested against the Astrodomes Sunday against the Cleveland Browns, tied for second place with Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, all with 2-2 records.

Drew Pearson

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Drew Pearson would like to see rookie runningback Tony Dorsett's statistics if the Heisman Trophy winner played all 60 minutes of a National Football League game.

Pearson said, "I feel coach (Tom) Landry has got to make a decision on a starter and stick with him. Preston Pearson is doing a good job and it's hard to keep him out."

"But can you imagine what Tony would do if he got to play a whole game? He only played half the time against St. Louis."

Dorsett rushed for 141 yards and two touchdowns, including a 77-yard romp which was the longest touchdown run in the club's history.

Pearson said "I feel better when Tony is in there because the defense really has to guard against the run. That means the cornerbacks have to come up a little and it opens up the secondary for the pass."

"It's a pleasant problem for coach Landry. I've been on this team when we had a solid running game with Calvin Hill and when we didn't. There's nothing like having the threat of the run—particularly with somebody like Tony who can go all the way any play."

Pearson suffered a bad sprain of his left wrist in Dallas' 30-24 victory over St. Louis in a National Conference showdown Sunday.

"The X-rays didn't show a break or anything but what ever it is I'm not going to miss the Washington game," said Pearson.

Washington (3-1) travels to Texas Stadium to play the unbeaten Cowboys Sunday in another NFC East showdown.

"If we don't beat the Redskins this week then the big wins we had over Minnesota and St. Louis won't mean a thing," said Pearson. "If we can win, it puts Washington two games out and puts us in good shape."

Landry indicated Monday there was a chance that Dorsett might get a starting call over Preston Pearson, who is having one of the best years of his 11-year National Football League career.

"He (Dorsett) could but I don't want to speculate right now," said Landry.

Dorsett said the St. Louis game was "a real morale builder. It showed the coaches have confidence in me to leave me in a tight situation. I know the system now and I can turn loose without thinking."

SWC QBs

By The Associated Press

Quarterbacks in the Southwest Conference appear to be going the way of the whooping crane, snail darter and furbish lousewort — on the endangered species list.

Less than halfway through the season, four SWC teams have lost their starting quarterbacks and Texas has even lost its No. 2 signal-caller.

Baylor's hard-luck starting quarterback Sammy Bickham, who has already suffered a separated shoulder and a dislocated finger this season, was to have surgery today for a torn knee ligament and a broken foot suffered last Saturday.

Texas' No. 1 quarterback Mark McBath, injured in the first quarter of last week's 13-6 upset of bitter rival Oklahoma, will have his broken left ankle encased in plaster for 10 weeks.

Meanwhile, the Longhorns' No. 2 quarterback Jon Aune, who tore up his knee within minutes of McBath's departure from the Oklahoma game, underwent surgery Monday to repair a torn ligament and remove both cartilages from his right knee.

Texas Tech's star quarterback Rodney Allison had already been sidelined with a broken leg suffered Sept. 24 against Texas A&M, while Danny Davis, the catalyst for the Houston Cougars, was earlier lost for the season with a shoulder injury.

And Southern Methodist's Mike Ford has been playing all season with a series of injuries.

Texas coach Fred Akers will be forced to go with unknown third-stringer Randy McEachern, who bounced off the bench in the first quarter last week to guide the Longhorns over the Sooners, against potent Arkansas on national television Saturday.

Backing up McEachern will be freshman Sam Ansley, while Ted Constanzo, who underwent knee surgery last summer, has resumed workouts.

With Bickham out, Baylor coach Grant Teaff will have to choose between sophomore Greg Wood or freshman Scott Smith, who have also been nursing injuries all season.

At one point, Teaff had all three quarterbacks listed as doubtful starters because of injuries.

Bickham broke his foot on the first series of plays in last week's 9-6 SWC victory over Southern Methodist but remained in the game. He suffered the knee injury later in the game, but again stayed in to guide the Bears to the game-winning field goal.

"We are all saddened by what happened to Sammy, but are proud of the courage he displayed," Teaff said of the former Plano star. "It's really amazing to think of him playing the game with a broken foot."

Cooper Out

HOUSTON (UPI) — Rice Owls coach Homer Rice Monday announced the team's leading rusher, fullback Earl Cooper, would hold out of Saturday's game against Texas Tech for disciplinary reasons.

The coach would not reveal the reason for the one-game suspension.

Cooper, a 220-pound sophomore from Lexington had gained 337 yards on 69 carries and scored three touchdowns. He also was the team's second leading receiver with 14 receptions.

Rice said freshman Calvin Fance would replace Cooper.

Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — Texas A&M coach Emory Bellard said Monday he expects his Aggies to be at full physical strength against Baylor Saturday.

Offensive right guards Kenny Kirk and Thomas Gregory missed Monday's workout — Kirk because of illness and Gregory with an injured knee, but both are expected to be back later in the week.

Arkansas

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — Arkansas coach Lon Holtz noted a few concerns Monday while the Razorbacks opened preparations for Saturday's nationally televised game with Texas here. One of them was the second team offense.

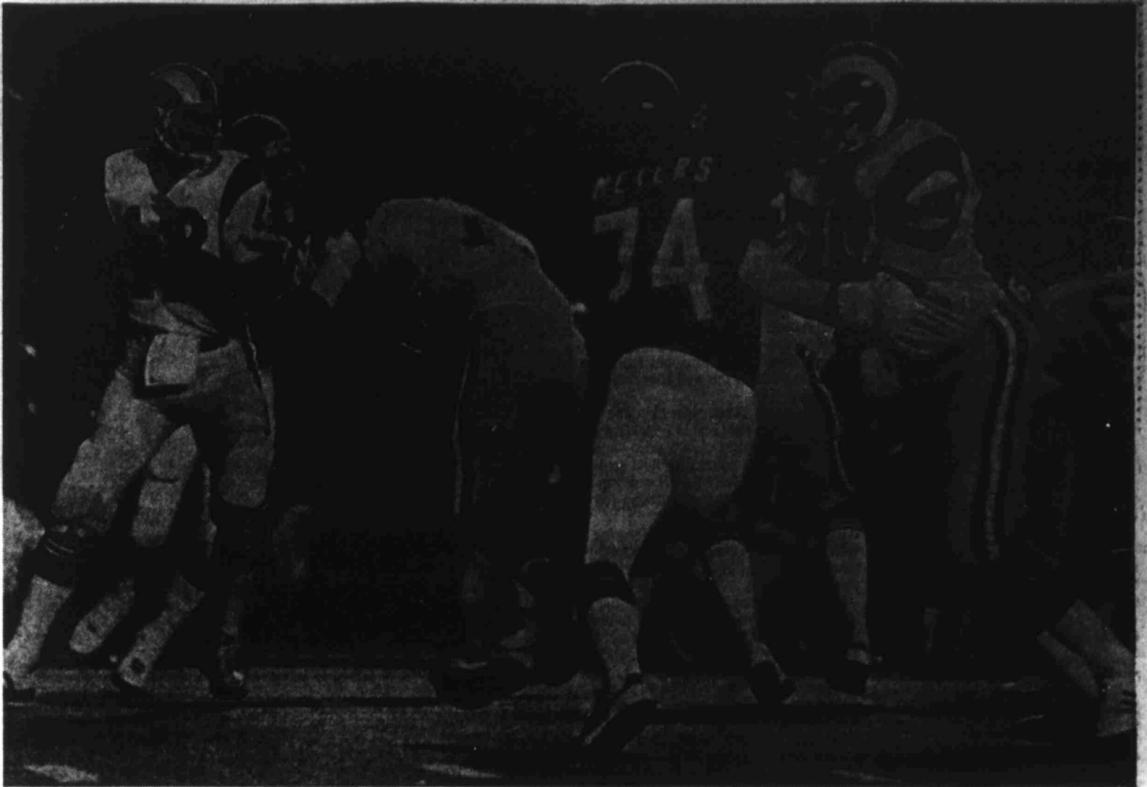

"It'll be a catastrophe if they don't get better quick," Holtz said.

Rams Cry 'Poor Sports' After 24-23 Bear Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Bears coach Jack Pardee called it "a well fought game in the trenches." Los Angeles Rams quarterback Joe Namath agreed with the battle analogy.

"People get away with taking cheap shots and it becomes one big war out there," Namath said. "If you let people continue to get away with cheap shots, what happens to sportsmanship?"

He accused linebacker Raymond Bryant of hitting him after a play in the waning moments of the Bears' 24-23 nationally televised National Football League upset victory on a rainy, windy Monday night that ended with both teams sporting 2-2 records.

The officials slapped Bryant with a roughing-the-passer penalty and Ram right guard Dennis Harrah slugged him with a fist that brought Harrah a personal foul and ejection from the game.

"I did not see the hit but I know it was a cheap shot. I could feel it. What else can I say?" said a remorseful Harrah. "I lost my head and retaliated when I should not have."

Namath indicated that other Bears weren't bashful about getting in a tarry nudge or two either.

"If the league would look at the films, they'd see what's going on out there," he said. "Next time we play them we'll beat them. We're not that kind of team."

By the time Bryant bashed Namath in the chest, leaving him gasping for air, the Rams were straining to stay alive.

Pat Haden replaced Namath and led Los Angeles to its final touchdown, a 26-yard strike to Dwight Scott that drew the Rams to within one point with 27 seconds to play.

But the best quarterback on the field was a newly independent Bob Avellini, a third-year pro who is progressing week by week. Calling the plays for the first time this season, he said he was more confident. It showed.

He came up with scoring missiles of 70 and 72 yards to James Scott in the first half, which ended with the Rams ahead 16-14 on three Rafael Septien field goals and a 2-yard touchdown pass by Lawrence McCutcheon, a native of Plainview.

Avellini's 29-yard touchdown pass to Greg Latta in the fourth quarter put the Bears ahead 24-16 and provided breathing room.

Pardee said he let Avellini call the plays because "We needed a little more leadership on the field... Bob would make the same decisions we'd make from the sidelines anyway."

The Bears won with big plays, including a 51-yard scamper by Walter Payton, who gained 126 yards, to set up Latta's catch. But Avellini said that doesn't mean he's a more adventurous play-caller than the often conservative coaches.

"We've tried passes before. We were fortunate enough to hit them tonight. They were in the game plan. I didn't draw up the plays," said Avellini, who completed 11 of 17 passes for 219 yards.

Namath, who went to the air 40 times, completed just 16 and had four intercepted. He said he had trouble with the bad weather and added, "Of course I played poorly. We lost."

The Rams scored the first three times they got the ball. Septien kicked a 22-yard field goal after the Bears punted and the Rams stalled at the Chicago 5.

Isiah Robertson picked off Avellini's pass after the kickoff to set the stage for a 29-yard boot by Septien.

Robertson then recovered Payton's fumble and Namath led a 54-yard march capped by McCutcheon's tally to put the Rams up 13-0 with the game just 11:32 old.

"The whole story is we did not capitalize on our first-half opportunities to score. We had to settle for field goals and we came up short," said Rams coach Chuck Knox.

A key play came about 10 minutes into the third quarter when the Rams, leading 16-14, decided to go for a touchdown on a fourth down at the Chicago 1. But Rod Phillips was buried for no gain.

"If we went for the field goal, we didn't think that would stand up later," said Knox. "We felt that the way Payton was running that he was good enough to break for one and our five-point lead would not have stood up."

Pardee said the Bears tackled better than they did in a 42-24 loss eight days earlier to New Orleans. He said the return of free safety Doug Clark, who missed the first three games with a bad ankle, helped the pass coverage and gave the linemen more time to get to Namath.

However, he added, "We're not a whole lot different than we were last week when we lost 42 to whatever that stupid score was."

Pardee took note of Chicago errors that included three lost fumbles, one interception and 15 penalties for 144 yards. But he said, "We played with enough emotion and enthusiasm to overcome it."

Although they had few sustained drives, the Bears capitalized on Los Angeles errors and overcame their own.

Feats Surprise Raider Kicker

By CARYER CROMWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Did Bill Adams expect to set one Texas Tech kicking record and tie two others in his first five games after entering the season as a walk-on with a large question mark by his name?

Did he envision taking a flying dive off Metro Tower into a bucket of water?
"Yes, I have been surprised at my achievements so far," the sophomore said Monday, two days after he kicked four field goals against Arizona to tie a school record. "When I walked on in the fall of 1976, I thought I could kick well enough to make the team, but I didn't dream I'd be doing this well after four or five games."

What the 5-10, 143-pounder has done is boot the longest field goal in Tech history—a 57-yarder against New Mexico—and tie the single-game marks for field goals and extra points (seven). His performance earned him a full scholarship following the New Mexico game.

He leads the Red Raiders in scoring with 35 points. He is seven-of-11 on field-goal attempts and 14-for-14 in the extra-point department.

"I think a turning point was the spring game this year," he said, referring to his last-minute field goal that gave his team a 31-30 victory. "Things started to click then."

"That gave me some confidence in myself, and, just as importantly, it gave the coaches and other players some confidence in me. Now, I'm getting more confidence every time out. Things seem to be getting easier every time."

Adams doesn't lift weights, but he says his leg is stronger than in the past.

"I'm not sure what it is," he said, "but before the A&M game, I was hitting the ball longer than ever before. I do some running, but, mainly, I just kick."

Adams, who has been kicking for just 2½ years, says he hasn't changed his technique much. It's just a matter of improving his concentration.

"I'm trying to keep my head down more on my kicks," he said. "I've missed a couple this year because I pulled my head up too fast to watch the ball. I missed one against Baylor that way, and the one I missed against Arizona was because of that."

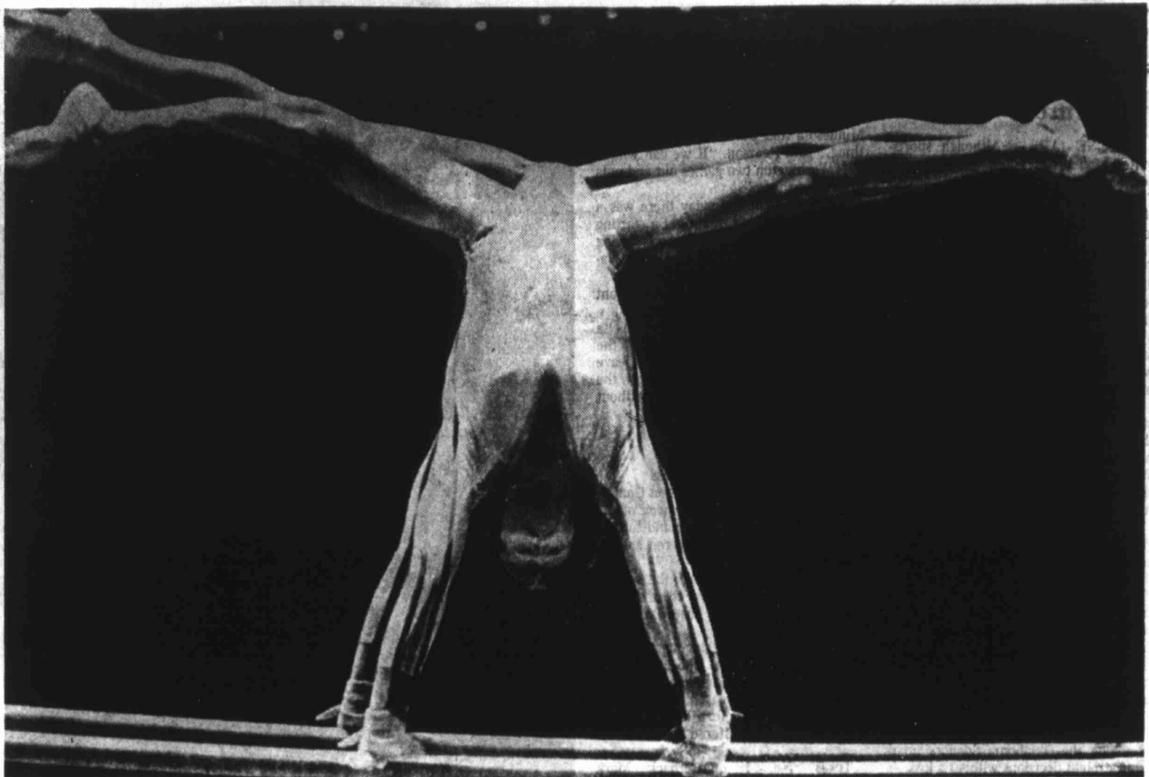

"Now, I'm trying to remember to wait until after I pick up the tee before I look up."

NOTES: At his regular Monday press conference, Tech head coach Steve Sloan said his team "wasn't as mentally alert (against Arizona) as it has been in the past. But the positive thing was that we still had what it took to win, despite having two long road trips to different parts of the country two weeks in a row."

Sloan said quarterback Mark Johnson is "questionable" for Saturday's game with Rice because of a bruised thigh received in the Arizona game. "He might be able to run in practice Wednesday," Sloan said. Johnson's condition is "is somewhat of a concern."

Sloan said middle linebacker Gary McCright was in the hospital Monday and will miss today's practices because of "dehydration." "He's had the flu, so he's weak because of that, and he just plays so hard, he just wears himself out," Sloan added. "They're feeding him glucose now. I think he'll probably be able to play Saturday, though."

According to Sloan, injured quarterback Rodney Allison will be x-rayed Wednesday, and, if the broken bone in his leg is healed, the cast will be removed, and he can begin rehabilitating the leg. He is still expected to be ready for the Texas game Oct. 29.

Monterey Continues Grid Fall; Plainsmen Now 8th On AP List

By The Associated Press
Port Neches-Groves, which retains its top billing this week in Class AAAA of The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll, has an enviable first half record—it has allowed a mere three first downs in the first half against four district opponents.

That's significant because the PNG starting unit usually gets to rest in the second half after zooming to a big half-time lead. Beaumont French managed but one first down the entire game in last week's 28-0 loss to PNG.

The rest of the Top Ten teams. Gregory-Portland in AAA, Belville in AA, Seagraves in A and Wheeler in B, easily retained their No. 1 ranks this week. All posted big victories except Belville, which took an open date.

It was a uneventful week for upsets with only four losses among the top 50 teams in all classes.
Monterey continued to tumble despite piling up points. The Plainsmen fell two notches to seventh last week after blistering Hobbs 54-6 and then ripped Pampa 41-14 last Friday, yet are No. 8 on this week's AAAA list.

The highest-ranked team to tumble was No. 5 ranked Silsbee in 3A. Silsbee dropped from the top 10 and was replaced by defending 3A champion Beaumont Hebert, 5-0 as the No. 10 team. Bridge City edged Silsbee 13-12.

Seventh ranked Blooming Grove and Farwell, tied for 10th last week, were losers in A. Blooming Grove dipped into 10th place and Farwell disappeared from the list.

Evant, No. 9 in B last week, lost 26-18 to Gorman and was replaced by No. 10 Union Hill.
Temple and Odessa Permian remained the Nos. 2-3 teams in the 4A poll but Arlington Sam Houston leap frogged Sherman into fourth place after Sherman's narrow 29-27 victory over Richardson Lake Highlands.

LaPorte each up one position to ninth in the 4A division.

Sure, Denver's 4-0, But Foes Have Fashioned 1-15 Record

By The Associated Press
"Hey, y'know Red Miller must be doing one heck of a job out there in Denver," the fan said, glancing at the standings.

True, the Broncos are one of only four National Football League teams still unbeaten after four Sundays.
But is it really Miller's doing?
This is not to put the rap on Denver's freshman coach. It's a way of backing in to a defense of coaches in general—and losers in particular.

If Miller really is that good, then it must mean Jim Ringo, Paul Wiggins and Ken Meyer really are that bad. They haven't got a win among them at Buffalo, Kansas City and San Francisco, and if you're going to heap praise, you've got to heap blame, too, right?

Wrong.
Oh, sure, bringing in a bad coach can turn a decent team into a crummy one real fast—and sometimes bringing in a sensational coach can turn a really horrendous team into a moderately lousy one. But turning a loser into a winner?

No way, unless you're talking about a team going from 6-8 to 8-8. Anything beyond that comes from drafts, trades, experience and occasional luck—and years of coaching, not a few games' worth.

If a team turns around when a new man arrives, it probably means the team was due and the new man managed to avoid getting in the way.

With that in mind, let's consider Miller and his predecessor, keeping in mind that one of sports' oldest cliches goes something like "You can't fire the players so you fire the coach."

The Broncos had their best season ever in 1976. They posted a 9-5 record and once again bemoaned the fact that they're in the same division with Oakland. Being second to the NFL's most successful team wasn't good enough—so the Broncos canned coach John Ralston.

Now comes Miller time. He's got 'em 4-0... but against what? St. Louis, Buffalo, Seattle and Kansas City. Collectively, Denver's opposition thus far has a record of 1-15. It doesn't take a genius to coach victories against that kind of competition.

What's next for the Broncos? Oakland. Then Cincinnati. Then Pittsburgh. Then we'll see how good Mr. Miller really is.

Now let's consider how bad Mr. Ringo really is.
He's really not bad at all, of course. He took over when Lou Saban quit four games into Buffalo's 1976 season, suffered through nine losses last year and four more thus far in 1977.

He's a tempting target—but his players throw themselves in front of him the way heroes used to in melodramas.

"He inherited a pocketful of problems. It's not really his fault," says guard Reggie McKenzie.

"He just doesn't deserve the criticism. He's done too much for this team to go through what he's going through," says quarterback Joe Ferguson.

And what of Mr. Wiggins, chief sufferer with the Chiefs?

Well, just as Miller has feasted on the 1-15 record of Denver's opposition, Wiggins has starved on the 13-3 record amassed by New England, San Diego, Oakland and Denver.

"In some ways, it's as though he's working for an expansion team," says Jim Schaff, Kansas City's general manager. "He did not come here (in 1975) with an abundance of football players. The cupboard was bare when he arrived. We've only got a handful of players left from the drafts of 1971 through '75, and certainly Paul didn't have anything to do with that."

Who, then, is responsible for all those records, from 4-0 to 0-4? Look at the front office, where the scouts and players and coaches are hired. But don't look too hard at the coach. Odds are he's only an innocent bystander.

Antelopes Face Tough Two Tilts

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
When a team is unbeaten more than halfway through its schedule and already owns two loop scalps, things couldn't be finer, right?

Please don't tell that to Post mentor Jackie Brown. Yes, Post is 6-0 on the season and 3-0 in 5-AA action but... But that "but" is a big one.

The Antelopes must face unbeaten (5-0) for the year, 1-0 in district) Frenship this week and state-ranked Slaton—which is also unbeaten at 5-0, 1-0—in two weeks.

"We feel kinda fortunate to be where we are now," explained Brown, a man of few words. "The kids have been giving good effort and have been playing together well."

Post represented the district in the playoffs last year, and Brown feels the squad is executing the offense better now than it did a year ago. "Of course, the kids have had a year to get more accustomed to what we're trying to do."

By the same token, the Antelopes carry 27 on the varsity and "we've played them all in every game. They've all been giving a good effort and working hard. We have several individuals who are about equal and we've been playing them all."

Brown said the Antelopes haven't thrown much but feels the passing game is there if they need it. "We've had several teams put eight and nine men on the line and just dared us to pass. When that happens, we'll pass because we feel we've got to loosen them up a little.

"We've played a real competitive schedule (Lockney, Coahoma, Floydada and Colorado City in nondistrict) and we haven't been that far out on front (the 24-0 win over Coahoma was the only game decided by more than a TD until last week) and we've found we can play under pressure.

"We've also been able to play a lot of kids and we just hope that's made us a stronger team."

"This (5-AA) is the toughest district around and all the teams (Post, Slaton, Frenship) appear pretty equal with the exception of Slaton... they may be out in front of everyone."
