Suspect In Robbery Seizes U.S. Airline

ATLANTA (AP) - A "very calm, very cool" gunman seeking $3 million and freedom for his imprisoned homosexual lover hijacked a Frontier Airlines jetliner carrying 33 persons at a Nebraska airport today, authorities said. He forced the plane to fly to Kansas City, released about half his hostages and then flew on to Atlanta, where the friend had been held, authorities said.

The FBI identified the hijacker as Thomas Hannan, 29, of Grand Island,

The Boeing 737 landed normally in Atlanta at 11:02 p.m. CDT, several hundred vards in front of the main terminal at Hartsfield Airport. It then taxied to near a freight terminal where the FBI. Federal Aviation Administration and security officials had set up a command post.

More than 45 minutes after the plane landed there was no activity visible on the ground. Authorities said radio contact was open between the plane and the FBI and FAA and 11 male passengers, Williams said. The FAA said the plane was slightly late getting to Atlanta because of minor pressurization problems which forced it to fly at a slower speed and lower altitude than normal.

The FBI in Kansas City said Hannan demanded $3 million, two parachutes, two machine guns, two pistols and the release from an Atlanta jail of Stewart, his partner in an alleged robbery last month at a bank formerly headed by resigned

A prominent cattleman and his wife were bound and robbed of $30,000 in jewelry and cash today when three masked gunmen broke into their West Lubbock home before dawn.

By PAT CARLSON Avalanche-Journal Staff

The gun-wielding trio, heads covered by grotesque Halloween masks, got into the 4609 13th St. home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne James Owen about 4 a.m. During the 45 minutes the bandits were inside the fashionable residence they tied up the couple and made them cover themselves with bedding as they rummaged through portions of the large house.

Reportedly taken in the heist was about $30,000 in jewelry as well as several hundred dollars cash. A 1977 Oldsmobile stolen from the front drive was found about 10 a.m. abandoned in the 400-block of York Avenue, about two miles from the house.

Mrs. Owen, whose husband is a partner in Owen Bros. Custom Feeding Co. in Morton, said the gunmen repeatedly threatened to kill them before tying them to a bed and leaving about 4:45 a.m. "They went into my husband's room first, and the first thing I knew was when they came in here," the 57-year-old wornan said from her bedroom today. "I started screaming - I thought I was having a nightmare - and one of them said, 'If you don't shut up, we'll kill you."" The petite Mrs. Owen said she does not remember if she asked, or they told her, to go across the hall to her 62-year-old husband's room, but when she walked through the door, she saw his ring and watch lying on the bed. She said she then removed her rings and a necklace; however, the bandits allowed her to take back her wedding ring after her husband asked them to let her keep it.

We didn't dare not do what they said," Mrs. Owen recounted. "They made us keep our heads covered with sheets, and they told us to lie still or they would shoot us. (At one point) I said I couldn't breathe, and one of them said to close my eyes and look toward my hus-

"They kept asking for the safe," Mrs. Owen said. "We told them we don't have one, and they said, 'All Texans have safes.' I think that's why they looked behind all the drapes.'

The apparent point of entry was through a small utility room window at the front of the house. A glass pane had been broken and the window unlatched. According to the woman, a small dog was inside another nearby small room, but they were not awakened by the barking.

Police Hunt For Slayers

BONN, West Germany (AP) - West German police today launched what they called their most extensive hunt since World War II for six men and ten women sought in the kidnap-murder of industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer.

As the search for the 16 began in Germany, violence flared across Europe to protest the prison deaths of three German radicals. German terrorists vowed the violence "has just begun." Bombings and other incidents were reported in Britain, France, Holland, Italy, Austria and

In Paris, two German tourist buses were firebombed in the Latin quarter, and police said two persons were arrested. There were no reports of injuries. Explosions ripped German auto showrooms in a Paris suburb and two southern cities.

Four Escape Ector Jail Early Today

ODESSA (Special) - Four prisoners cut a hole in the back of their Ector County Jail cell and escaped sometime between midnight Wednesday and 6 a.m. today, a sheriff's captain said.

The four, all held for burglary or theft, were still at large at noon today.

Capt. Tommy McMeans said the prisoners, all in one block, cut a hole through plate steel in the back of the cell and crawled through a narrow passageway to the prisoner "walk-around.

The escapees cut a window screen, tied bed sheets to the window bars and climbed down the two-story county courthouse to make their getaway, McMeans said. The prisoners were small and managed to crawl through the bars,

The escape was not discovered until about 6 a.m. today, when the sheets were discovered hanging from the window, McMeans said. It was not known how they cut through the back of the cell.

The escapees were identified as Roy Leon Day, 22, of California, held on a theft charge; Jack Wilson Roman, 26, of Pennsylvania, jailed on a burglary charge; Robert Lee Dawson, 37, of East Texas, held on a burglary charge; and Stanley Price Perrin, 23, of Gorman, who had been sentenced to 14 years in the state prison in Huntsville for burglary and was awaiting transportation there. McMeans said it was believed this morning the four were still in the city and on foot.

put hundreds of thousands of workers out

Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Tex., had asked the House to reject the compromise worked out by a Senate-House conference committee, because it greatly weakened a House provision exempting more small businesses from paying the minimumwage benefits.

The House showed no inclination to push harder for its position, however, and with its vote ended a six-month fight for the minimum wage increase by organized labor and others.

The committee voted to exempt by 1982 firms with gross sales of less than $362,500. Pickle wanted to exempt by mid-1978 companies with sales under $500,000. The exemption is now $250,000.

There was virtually no debate as the bill won Senate approval Wednesday on a voice vote. Nearly five million workers would have bigger paychecks Jan. 1, under the bill, when the wage floor goes to $2.65 an hour. It would increase to $2.90 an hour in 1979, $3.10 an hour in 1980 and $3.35 an hour in 1981.

Colorado Hires Cloud-Seeders

DENVER (UPI) - Felix Sparks, head of the Colorado Water Conservation Board, said the state would spend $1 million this winter on a program designed to increase snowpack in the mountains.

Sparks said Western Weather Consultants, Durango, and Colorado International Corp., Boulder, had been awarded contracts to seed clouds under a $600,-000 federal grant. The 1977 legislature also appropriated $350,000 for the effort, which will begin Nov. 1 and run through April 30, 1978.

"Our opinion is that the drought situation is continuing in Colorado," said Harris Sherman, director of the Department of Natural Resources. "The purpose of this program is to create snowpack in the higher elevations. We only hope it lands in the right places."

Sherman said as of last May 1, snowpack in Colorado averaged only 21 per cent of normal, ranging from 31 per cent in the South Platte River basin to 3 per cent in the San Juan basin Sparks said Western Weather Consultants was awarded a $505,260 contract to operate 85 ground-based cloud nuclei generators in the southern and central portions of the state. Colorado International will be paid $280,778 for operation of 35 generators and one aircraft in the northern part of Colorad In addition, Sparks said another contract would be awarded later, probably to Colorado State University, to monitor the program.

Without question, we know additional precipitation can be produced from winter cloud masses," he said. "Statistics show moisture can be increased by as much as 55 per cent by this type of program." Sparks said proposals for the program were received from four firms, two of them in California. The Colorado companies were chosen "because they had more experience operating in this state, and because some of their equipment already is in place as the result of private seeding operations. He said the forecasting and control center for the program would be in Durango and would include "three of the best meteorologists we can find in Colorado." The center will be linked with a federal computer to "assist in the rapid assimilation of weather information." Most of the silver-iodide generators will be placed along the Western Slope of the Rockies, where Sparks said the "overwhelming bulk of snowpack" is received. Colorado International's airplane also will seed upslope storms which occur infrequently along the Front Range from Denver north to the Wyoming Public hearings on licenses and permits for the operators are scheduled Nov

Feedlots Show Decline In Number Of Cattle

By KETH HENLEY

Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer High Plains feedlots had 1.208,000 cattle and calves on feed as of Oct. 1, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Wednesday.

The total showed the second consecutive monthly decline in feedyard populations, although September placements at 270,000 head - were equal to the marketings for the month.

The decline was attributed to an 8.000 head disappearance from feedlots. Disappearance reflects cattle and calves that were sold for further feeding, returned to pasture or died.

A total of 9.777,000 head were being fattened on Oct. 1 across the United States compared with 9,280,000 a year earlier. according to the Agriculture Department. During the July-September quarter, U.S. marketings totaled 6.164,000 cattle and calves, while placements were reported at 6.472,000 head.

He said the report should not have a marked downward affect on prices of fed cattle during remainder of the year because greater marketings expected in November and December probably will be offset by a reduction in cow slaughter and other slaughter.

'Fed cattle prices are expected to hold at $40 per hundredweight or better the remainder of the year." said Williams. The head of the private agricultural consulting firm noted, however, that the government report "was quite bearish for the first half of next year.

Trading in the Lubbock cofton market was moderate Wednesday.

Supplies of cofton for sale were moderate and demand was moderate. Farmers sold small, mixed lots at 270 to 520 points over loan rates. The Lubbock Cofton Exchange's soot quotations closed steady at 46.55 cents for the base quality of grade 41, staple 34, mike 3.54.9. This was 50 points lower than a week ago.

Quotations are the approximate prices reported to the Agricultural Marketing Service for qualities equal to the U.S. Official Grade and Staple Standards. Prices are for micronaire (mike) readings of 35 through 4.9, in mixed lots, uncompressed, free of all charges in the warehouse in the market.

Texas Group Finds Variety In Morocco

By JAY HARRIS Avalanche-Journal Editor

CASABLANCA, Morocco - For the jaded traveler or the newcomer, a visit to this North African nation is a journey to a "never-never" land.

In brief, it's different. Occupying a segment of the far northwest portion of North Africa, bounded on the north by the warm waters of the Mediterranean and on the west by those of the Atlantic, Morocco can be "all things to all people."

And most often, it is. With a history dating before the time of Christ, a population of 21 million made up more or less of a melting pot of several cultures - both African and European — and a location which covers seashore, mountains and desert, Morocco indeed has something

That fact was impressed recently upon a group of Lubbock, Amarillo, Fort Worth-Dallas and West Texas travel agents as they made a TWA Getaway familiarization tour of the intriguing kingdom.

Long associated with intrigue, romance and spy stories, the Morocco of today still is a land of intrigue, perhaps romance, maybe spies - but mostly a lot to see and do.

The "Road to Morocco" is only a few hours' travel from Lubbock and then New York, as today's airliners

In the space of a day and part of a night, one can be walking through the crowded streets of this city of 2 million, savoring its rich new architecture and pedestrian malls, its ancient souks — shopping center or Casbah and enjoying its first-class hotel service, not to mention miles of beaches and pounding surf.

A short ride takes the traveler to Rabat, the impressive capital to the northeast and just barely inland from the Atlantic

In Rabat and nearby Dar es Salaam, the ancient and modern meld in an unbelievable melange of veiled women, men in flowing robes, ultra new hotels and hospitals, opulent palaces and monuments and the ancient walls of a past filled with glory and sometimes gore.

Morocco today is ruled by King Hassan II, who succeeded King Mohammed V in 1961. One of the outstanding landmarks in Rabat is the beautiful marble mausoleum to Mohammed V, guarded constantly by impressive Moroccan soldiers in white and red garb and silver-antiqued ri-

One of the highlights of a trip to Morocco can be a bus trip to Fez, one of the imperial cities of the nation, located in the foothills of the Atlas mountains in the northeastern section of the country. To get to the teeming metropolis of some 400,000 persons, the traveler passes through a huge cork tree forest, the products of which may adorn fancy wooden boxes or the walls of homes. Farther along, there are lush fields of grain and rolling hills where fruit and dates and olives grow in pro-

Fez itself is an Arabian night's dream and at the same time a night

Upon entering the ancient medina. or inner city, one passes a huge golden gate, typical of the walled cities in the country. Almost immediately, one is confronted with a chapter of the "never-never" land

There are some 50,000 souks, or shops, crammed into the central part of Fez, small stalls lining winding cobblestoned streets often no more than six to 10 feet wide.

Here may be found spices of all shades and tastes, open meat markets, shops selling glittering brass and silver and rugs. The chants and selling "pitches" of thousands of native merchants mingle with the constant hubbub of those crowding the winding thoroughfares. Small children with freshly baked bread atop their heads join tourists and native alike in moving aside as the driver of a loaded burro or a train of the beasts of burden meanders past. As one turns the corner of one of the hundreds of labyrinth-like "alleys" and "streets," one is confronted by a young man, or an older one, beseech-

ing. "stop. look, listen, buy... Now and then, on entering a small door, the visitor will find himself in a huge towering room, perhaps filled with beautiful hand-woven rugs hanging from the ceiling and making the floor and places to sit inviting and comfortable.

While sipping the native drink of hot mint tea the salesmen make their offers. And the customer makes his.

"Bargaining." or "haggling." is the name of the game in Morocco, as it is in much of the Middle East. And although there are stores in Casablanca and elsewhere where the prices are set and stable, most Moroccans prefer to "play the game.

If done wisely, a visitor can come away with a rug. impressive brass and silver items, and of course some of the famed Moroccan leather goods.

But Fez. Casablanca, Rabat, Tangier and Marrakesh aren't just tourist traps or Casbahs. They also are cities with impressive historic contributions. In all, the visitor can view beautiful mosques, ancient walls and gates of a past when warrior-like elements from the East and Europe sought to conquer the land. One of the highlights of a visit to Morocco is the journey by bus, or electric train if one prefers, to the southern capital of Marrakesh. Located in the south central region of Morocco, getting there can be half the fun

As one tools along an excellent. paved highway, there are the open and flat coastal plains from Rabat and Casablanca. Here, there are numerous villages, stacks of grain for the winter months and large numbers of cattle, sheep and farther south, camels.

About halfway along the four-hour journey, the land starts changing to the reddish, clay-like, cactus-studded and semi-mountainous region typical

Marrakesh itself, a thriving city of 400,000, is located in the foothills of the High Atlas mountains. It is a place which has to be seen to be believed

Known as the "Pearl of Morocco" and the "Gateway to the Sahara," Marrakesh is an oasis city of red-clay buildings, towering palms and an impressive past: It can be blistering hot in the summer and the jumping off spot for skiing in the nearby mountains in the winter. It has a public market which defies description and may be unmatched anywhere in the world for organized and spontaneous showman-

Marrakesh has a Casbah which offers the native and visitor alike anything the heart and pocketbook might desire. With a little haggling, one can walk away with a mohair blanket, an ornamental robe, a woman's purse, native jewelry, you name it.

One also can watch the modern version of the native belly dance, gamble in the city's crowded casino, ride a camel, enjoy fine Moroccan food and take a moonlight ride in a horsedrawn

There are fine hotels, including some where kings and heads of state have stayed. Marrakesh is part French, very much Arab and part Berber, garnished with a touch of rourista, ancient palaces, mosques, hundreds of buzzing motorbikes and a traffic problem, with small cars and the ever-present burro.

It is a "must" on any visit to this part of the world.

> Ancient Arab Land Offers Visitors Exciting Contrasts

There are ancient customs brought from even more ancient lands. And there are modern ways as timely as a pair of jeans on a shapely Arab girl walking alongside her mother and father, both in the traditional colorful, long robes.

As the travel blurbs note, there aren't many places like Morocco in this world

There aren't many countries with such an astonishing number of exciting opposites

The native population primarily is made up of Arabs and the Berbers, with a liberal sprinkling of those from Black Africa and an infusion of French, German, Spanish and other Europeans

The country covers the northwest corner of North Africa. covering some 436,000 square miles.

Its northwestern region is highly productive, producing for and export dates, olives, truit grain. To the south, sheep, camel and cattle vie for atten-

There are impressive and sparkling sandy beaches on the Atlantic Coast and along the Mediterranean. And there are towering mountains and skiing resorts in the South, the dividing line before one reaches the steaming Sahara, Morocco not only exports the aforementioned products, but its craftsmen add such goodies as leather goods, jewelry and clothing And the nation's main mineral, potash, has helped keep the Moroccan economy going. On the one hand there is the opulence of palaces, fine ho tels with reasonable rates and shops. On the other, there is poverty and squalor to defy description The contrasts extend to the country's architecture - cen turies-old buildings and walls and gates of another time, an other era, as well as stunning new hotels designed by the while not far away at the swimming pool a smile flashes above the briefest bikini. Both are Moroccan females in

The sounds of the souk or the marketplace can be almost deafening, and so can the rhythmic throb of drums and clapping hands and singing voices which accompany the ancient and traditional dances. Even the high-pitched music of the snake charmer, as the coiling cobra writhes its hooded response, has an electric, yet soothing effect

But in contrast to the crowded cities and their constant noise, one can find the silvery near-silence of the cedar forests, spring-fed streams in the north, and the silent, shifting sands of the south also a balm.

Too, it is not unusual to see an electric train on the na tion's main rail line, a bus loaded to the windows and a camel or donkey carayan in the space of minutes

Among the contrasts are "the Imperial cities" of Morocco - Rabat, the capital. Fez, the oldest of them all and found ed in 808 A.D. Marrakesh, founded at the end of the 11th century, and Meknes, on the road from Rabat to Fez.

Meknes is enclosed by 25 miles of triple walls with bas tions. The city's gigantic proportions contrast with the elegance of Rabat, the refinement and at times squalor of Fez. the voluptuous charm of Marrakesh, and the more modern aspects of Casablanca

The nation offers a variety of sports, from skiing to golf to hunting to fishing to tennis to soccer

One can sample food that ranks with the best on an inter national scale, including the country's famed couscous, a meal in itself, touajen, a rich, fragrant stew, hout, a fish version of the same stew, djaja mahamara, chicken stuffed with almond, semolina and raisins, mchoui, a fragrant pit-roasted mutton, and kab el ghzal, almond pastries.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

It's A Welcome Step

CHANGES IN ITS eligibility guidelines is a welcome, and overdue, step by the Lubbock County Hospital District toward providing adequate care for medically indigent residents.

Under the new guidelines, a family of four with a gross income of $325 a month will qualify for free medical care. The old standard, which will be discarded on Nov. 1, set the income ceiling at $280 a month.

The income ceiling for a single person living alone will remain at $205 but, for each additional family member, an additional $40 income will be allowed, instead of only $25.

THIS IS NOT as big an increase as it might appear because the new policy requires that eligibility be calculated on the basis of gross meome whereas the old policy requires it to be determined on the basis of net earnings.

Thus, payroll deductions that were subtracted before determining eligibility under the old guidelines now will be counted. It would be rare, however, that deductions guidelines, for larger families anyway.

Besides simplifying and relaxing the income regulations, the new policy eliminates the one-year state residency requirement, substituting a six-month county residence requirement.

Who Says Drift Isn't 'Right'?

WASHINGTON-As it diminishes in size to where it now has approximately as many members as the Hare Krishna religion, the Republican Party is getting a lot of advice on how to increase its ranks

Some of this advice is good, some of it is bad. In this latter category I would put some of the things said recently in the Chicago Tribune by Richard Whalen, a thoughtful, moderate Republican conservative who used to write speeches for Richard Nixon and now advises business on international economic maters.

EXPLAINING THAT the rightward drift in America is social and cultural, not economic, primarily concerned with strengthening such institutions as the family, the church, the neighborhood and the school, Whalen writes:

"The Republican Party needs to redefine itself as the representative of a broadly based social and cultural conservatism, forsaking its obsolete and narrowly economic opposition to big govern-

'The American middle-class is now the main beneficiary of the welfare state, in the form of Social Security and Medicare payments, and it cannot be expected to vote to expropriate itself.'

Now, there are several reasons why I think Whalen's analysis is maladroit and his advice wrong-headed.

FIRST, HE misunderstands the current political reality.

Every national poll I've seen shows that when they are asked, most Americans say that the No. nger to this country is posed by Big Govern-

Intricately involved in this concern is a rising dissatisfaction among voters with excessive taxation, too much government spending, huge budget deficits, over-regulation and inflation.

During the past decade, the main cause of these afflictions has been a four-fold increase in federal expenditures for social welfare programs-from $77.2 billion in 1965 to $286.5 billion in 1975-and a whopping 16-fold jump in government spending for so-called in-kind payments, things like food stamps, Medicare and Medicaid.

TO SAY, AS Whalen does, that the middle-class is the "main beneficiary" of these schemes is preposterous. A more accurate statement would be that the middle-class is the main victim of these programs.

My second objection to Whalen's analysis is that it offers the GOP a false alternative and it is overly simplistic. It's certainly true that large numbers of Amei-cans are concerned about the breakdown of the family, the church, the school and the neighbor-But, the record clearly demonstrates that the increasing involvement of Big Government in all these areas has played a large role in weakening these institutions

THE CHALLENGE the GOP faces is not an either-or strategy, as Whalen believes-either to abandon its traditional anti-Big Government, profree enterprise position, or to start talking up social and cultural issues.

The party must do both because they are interconnected in a thousand different ways. Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., is one of those Republicans who understands the importance of the economic issue to the GOP.

In a talk last month to the Republican National Committee in New Orleans, Kemp, the chief sponsor of The Tax Reduction Act of 1977, declared that permanently reducing the taxes Americans pay "is not only good politics; it is good economics as well." He observed: "The GOP's strategy for victory must be an immediate program of lower taxes and income growth in order to lead Ameica to greater prosperity without inflation.

'The Republican Party cannot survive or even hope to achieve political success by merely opposing what the Democrats are for

We must make clear to the American people what we are for, and the most positive platform for the Republican Party is to restore incentives for work, production, investment and savings, by increasing the after-tax income of American workers and investors." Tracing the history of how the GOP had in the past politically benefited from a program of reducing excessively high taxes, which led to increased economic growth and prosperity for all Americans, Kemp told his fellow Republicans:

"OUR STRATEGY is clear: Let the Democrats be the party of higher taxes. We are the party of lower taxes. Let the Democrats be the party of more government jobs.

"We are the party of private enterprise jobs. Let the Democrats be the party of deficits and in-

"We are the party of economic growth and a sound dollar. Let them promote income redistribution for some; we believe in income growth for "This is the program of the Republican Party. It is a blueprint for a Republican Congress in 1978 and a Republican president in 1980."

If the GOP is smart, it will listen to Jack Kemp. The man is on to something.

No Blackout Here

SOMEHOW, THE Army's announcement that it "must sacrifice a bit of the readiness here in the continental United States" in order to meet a growing Soviet menace in Europe doesn't leave me all that happy

Critics say a computer comparison of welfare rolls and payrolls in an effort to expose welfare cheats who are defrauding the taxpayer would be horrible "abuse of personal privacy rights."

How can this be? If a welfare applicant has nothing to hide-like a job somewhere-he shouldn't object. And if he does have something to hide, he shouldn't be allowed to object.

TODAY'S MAY BOUQUET: To the West Germans who conceived, planned and executed the commando raid that rescued 86 hostages from a hijacked jetliner.

That three of the four terrorists were killed in the raid made it 75 per cent perfect.

Saving the hostages more than made up for leaving one of the terrorists breathing, however. and the resultant suicide of some of the terrorist comrades whose freedom had been demanded was an unexpected plus

The death of the Lufthansa pilot was the only thing-and that was too much-left for the world to mourn as a result of the hijacking.

TERRORISTS everywhere should be given the message that death is the inevitable result of any

Holmes Alexander:

When you're dealing with the lives of innocent hostages, it is tough to make decisions which might prevent their safe release.

However, each time a terrorist group is successful only means that there will be more times when the lives of innocent travelers are put in ieopardy.

If no hijacking had ever succeeded in anything but the deaths of the perpetrators, this week's hostages never would have been taken.

Like the Israeli raid on Entebbe, the West German reaction is the only way to deal with terrorists anywhere in the world. Would the U.S. have the courage and fortitude to react and execute so well?

A British professor theorizes that humans invented sex about 10 million years ago as an encouragement to food sharing. Professors have a lot to learn.

THE MORE I think about it, the more I doubt there are sufficient reasons for an interconnect between Lubbock Power and Light and Southwestern Public Service Co.

Last Sunday's blackout in San Antonio is a case in point.

As in New York City, San Antonio's residents had been assured that a blackout was an impossibility or, uh, well at least "extremely unlikely." But it happens in the best of companies.

In Lubbock, however, we have the best insurance there is against a total blackout: Two separate power companies.

We have no need to rely on an unreliable interconnect to assure that essential public services are maintained if one company has a power fail-

IN SAN ANTONIO, emergency generating systems in hospitals and at the airport prevented any problems with life support systems and air traffic during the outage.

In Lubbock, we can (and in some instances, do) provide backup service to such facilities through either emergency generators or through dual hookups to the lines of both power companies.

Ditto for water system pumps and even, if we so desired, the traffic signal system.

WHY SPEND SEVERAL million dollars on an interconnect just so we can avoid the possibility of a minor inconvenience every few years if the power goes off for a while in the middle of Ko-

Particularly when there's no assurance-remember San Antonio?-that a backup interconnect would work when it's needed.

As it is, if either SWPS or LP&L has a total blackout, roughly half of Lubbock still will have electricity.

And if you're connected with whichever company has the power failure, you can always catch the last half of Kojak at the nearest house where the lights are still burning!

Uh, Yes, He Would Object

WASHINGTON-That was a block-buster which Sen. Bob Griffin, R-Mich., slyly dropped into the cluster of State Department witnesses in the Senate caucus room.

Griffin and his foreign relations committee colleagues had been listening to the slick moralism with which Secretary Vance and his State Department advisors were advocating the Senate's ratification of the Panama Canal treaties.

Craftily, Griffin led this administration spokesman priesthood into a trap. How would Panama ratify the treaty? By plebesite of all Panamanian citizens, he was assured, in an election under United Nations supervision.

Griffin innocently resumed, "It has been suggested that the same opportunity be presented to the American people to ratify these treaties, You would have no objection to that, I assume?

TAKEN BY SURPRISE, Secretary Vance, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Sol Linowitz were momentarily stunned.

The audacity of this ruse overwhelmed them but Vance quickly recovered and said yes, he would object.

He went on to recite the well-known constitutional procedures of treaty ratification by the But he, with Bunker and Linowitz, as well as Democratic senators at the hearing, were shook

United States has a working constitution, and the Pans have only a master. But the uneasy internal questioning would not

"What if the peoples of several states voted in a referendum to junk these treaties? Would the great United States once more look like a pitiful helpless giant?"

Well, that's not going to happen either but the ratifying of a treaty by popular vote is the same idea as abolishing the Electorate College and choosing a president by a national show of hands. The inner monologue might continue.

'Somebody in the morning paper sarcastically paraphrased Winston Churchill by having Ronald Reagan say, 'I did not become Mr. Conservative to preside over the liquidation of the American Empire 'What's funny about that?

Look what has happened to the Brits since their Socialists liquidated the empire. And look what's happened to the American Empire in Cuba, Indochina and now the Isthmus! If the American people voted 'Hold, enough!' it wouldn't be such a bad decision."

THE GODS ARE ANGRY

But the American people don't have the constitutional option to vote on such matters of this sort, they rely on congressional and administration mortals who are in coast-to-coast direpute.

Better pass the treaties quickly before we think ourselves out of the mood

Court-Induced Windfall Ties Knot In SS Tangle

ENTIRELY ASIDE from Social Security's basic financing problems, a Supreme Court decision -striking down a requirement that a husband or widower prove that he was dependent upon his wife to get benefits based on her Social Security record-will cost the system $500 million in '77 and up to $3 billion over five years. Until the Court ruling, if a man applied for monthly benefits after his wife retired, died, or became disabled, he had to prove he had been dependent on her for at least half his support.

A woman, though, was assumed to have been dependent upon her husband and was required to make no showing of support.

THE DIFFERENCE in treatment was based on "archaic" assumptions about women as "the weaker sex," etc., said the Court. Since this ruling, Social Security has stopped asking husbands and widowers to prove dependency. You as a man are now treated the same as women applying for a wife's or widow's benefits.

If not entitled to higher SS benefits on your own, you can collect full husband's benefits starting at age 65 (providing your wife is then collecting either retired worker or disability insurance benefits), or reduced benefits starting at age 62.

If you are a widower and not remarried, you can get payments starting at age 60-or at age 50, if totally disabled. (Remarriage after age 60 will not disqualify you, but may change your payment total.)

If you, a man, are entitled to a SS benefit based on your own earnings that is lower than a husband's or widower's benefit, the difference is added to your SS check. In effect, you get the higher of the two benefits, but not both.

AT THIS TIME OF troubles in the Social Security system, naturally there is concern about paying out an additional half-billion dollars a year -made more acute by the fact that 213,000 men newly eligible for payments by the Court decision already are covered by other public pension pro-

Only about 34,000 men are not covered by any public pension-railroad retirement, federal, state and local civil service pensions.

For a large number of men, therefore, the new benefits are a windfall—but the same windfall available all along to those women who could collect SS wife's or widow's benefits even though qualified by a public pension in their own right.

AS AN ALTERNATIVE to no dependency test for either sex, the administration now proposes a new dependency test applying to men and women—and also to young widows and widowers applying for benefits payable to surviving spouses with children in their care.

The proposal (in the White House's package) is to consider a man or woman dependent upon a spouse if, during the three years just before eligibility for benefits, he or she had a lower income than the other spouse. The proposal would save an estimated $100 million next year and more thereafter-but it would be expensive to administer, costing perhaps as much as $70 million a year.

ANOTHER ALTERNATIVE would treat a public pension (such as the federal civil service pension) as if the pension were a Social Security benefit

This, in effect, would give the person the higher of the two benefits-but not both

This might spur earlier action to cover all public employes under Social Security, says former HEW Secretary Wilbur Cohen, and that is the most desirable solution

Democrat, Congressman Donald Fraser He and his wife, Arvonne, suggest a more fundamental change.

But this won't happen soon, argues Minnesota

UNDER THE FRASER'S proposal, married couples would have the option of sharing their earnings for Social Security purposes, just as they now file joint income tax returns. During their married years, the couple would each build up identical SS records, eliminating the need for dependent's benefits. For years that homemakers were not working in covered employment, they would get SS credit through the earnings of spouses who were. Carter's proposal, says Fraser, would not only perpetuate outmoded concepts of dependency, but also would cost some women their benefits.

Tomorrow: Covering government employes,

Nightclub's Request Rejected By Board

Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Zoning Board of Adjustment this morning unanimously denied a request by Fat Dawg's, a nightspot, to vary parking requirements

Citing neighbor opposition and already existing parking problems at the nightclub at 2408 4th St. the board rejected the request by an attorney representing the club According to zoning ordinances, the nightclub must have 77 parking spaces because not enough were available on the development site. Fat Dawgs requested that lots at 2401 3rd Place be allowed to as royal houses go, Belgium's Saxe-Cobourg is just an infant.

It was founded as a constitutional monarchy only in 1831, the year the country won its independence from the Dutch, and there have been only five kings of the Belgians since - Leopold I and II, Albert, Leopold III and Baudouin, the current monarch.

Yet in less than 150 years, the Belgian dynasty has seen its share of pleasure and pain, tragedy and triumph, heroes and less-than-heroes.

The royal family, limited to mostly ceremonial functions, has acted as a supreme unifying factor in this nation divided by language, customs and religion, and its history is, in effect, the history of independent Belgium.

Delightful bits and pieces of this history are crammed into the dynasty museum, a charming cluttered storehouse of BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — As far nostalgia tucked behind a big red door on a sidestreet behind the royal palace.

Cozy and quiet, it has been described by one writer as a perfect museum for a rainy day — and, yes, a Brussels drizzle does seem to dim the outside rumblings of the modern world and add poignancy to the faded clippings, yellowed photographs and paintings and cases full of memorabilia.

The collection ranges from lace mittens worn by Belgium's first queen, Louise-Marie, to childhood drawings by King Albert, to a lock of King Leopold II's baby hair, to portraits, paintings, models and knick-knacks detailing the lives and times of Belgium's kings. Leopold, Prince of Saxe-Cobourg in Germany and an uncle of Britain's Queen Victoria - and her husband Albert started the dynasty when he was crowned king of the newly independent Belgians copper mines operated by Asarco Inc. that have been closed since July will reopen Oct. 30, say company officials.

The reopening of the Sacaton unit near Casa Grande and the Mission and Silverbell mines in the Tucson area will cut copper mine unemployment in the state by 1,300 and reduce the jobless level in the depressed industry to about 5,000.

In July, Asarco workers struck the three mines when negotiators failed to reach an agreement on a new contract. After a three-year contract agreement was reached Sept. 8, Asarco announced the mines would remain closed for an indefinite period.

Norman Visness, Asarco's vice president for mining, said Tuesday that work at the mines was being resumed because a surplus of copper concentrates at Asarco's smelters has been reduced to normal levels. The mines will operate on a fiveday-a-week, three-shift basis, Asarco offiworkets at the Mission Mine, 280 at Silverbell and 270 at Sacaton. T.E. Scartaccini, manager of Asarco's southwestern mining department, said the recall had nothing to do with any developments elsewhere in the industry, such as the recent firming of prices. Most domestic copper is selling for about 60 cents a pound, about five cents more than foreign copper. Scartaccini also said there was no way of knowing how many of the 1,300 laid off miners would return to their jobs. In another copper-related development, Joseph Zimmerman, vice president of Miles Metals Co., a New York City metals trading firm, said industry optimists are reporting that the copper market has bottomed out.

The return to work will affect about 750

He predicted the market will remain slow until the middle of next year, when there will be some improvement.

With his extensive connections among European royalty and fine reputation as a soldier and statesman, he had been offered — and had refused — the throne of Greece just three years earlier.

Leopold I was 40 years old when he took the throne, swearing — as spelled out in an official scroll hanging in the museum — "to observe the constitution and laws of the Belgian people and maintain the national independence and integrity of the territory.

A darkly handsome, romantic figure until the day he died in 1865, Leopold consolidated the new nation during the 34 years of his reign.

The museum meanders chronologically from king to king.

From Leoplold I to his son, the spadebearded Leopold II whose 44 years of reign saw Belgian industrial and colonial expansion at home and in Africa.

From Leopold II, whose only son died at the age of 9, to his nephew Albert, the hero of World War I who became for the world a symbol of honor and courage by leading Belgian resistance against the invading Germans.

From Albert to Leopold III, who abdicated in 1951 because of political turmoil surrounding his attitude during World War II, when he remained in Belgium following his surrender to the Germans.

From Leopold III to Baudouin, who took over the monarchy as a shy youth in difficult times, and whose reign has seen Belgium become the headquarters for the Common Market, NATO and interna-

In the entry hall of the museum the marble busts of all five kings greet visitors, and in the exhibition rooms the monarchs' faces are repeated over and over on everything from postcards to medallions to collectors' cards that came in packaged soup.

It all gives not only a sense of history, but one of humanity, and this is emphasized by the trail of tragedies that touched each royal generation.

Leopold I's first wife died in childbirth. and two of his sons died as babies. Leopold II's only son died as a child and his favorite nephew, who would have been his heir, also died young.

Albert died in a rock-climbing accident in 1934 and Leopold III's first wife, Queen Astrid, whom the nation adored, died in a car crash at the age of 29.

And in the present generation, Baudouin and Queen Fabiola are childless.

These are the days of the "no frills" monarchy and the Belgians don't really make a terrible fuss about their kings anymore. The rather homey unpretentiousness of the dynasty museum tends to bear this out.

Most of the visitors are tourists and in the off season the museum is open only three days a week

It is, however, a way to step back into that past when royalty -or at least Belgian royalty - did exude charisma. And in doing so chart the changes that made Belgium what it is today.

By INK DIPPER

The interest of this column in the yo-yo pricing of CB units, both mobile and base stations, may seem to many readers overly zealous. But keeping you informed on what is happening in the industry and how it may affect you -a fellow CBer -is significant in our opinion

There are indications now that CBing is no longer a hot electronic fad. Rather, it has developed as a genuine communications form that is being productively utilized in a highly personal manner. It is truly serving the purpose for which Citizens Band radio was initially intended.

The basis for this conclusion: The FCC reports to us that July CB applications were at their lowest level in two years. They dipped to 293,662, compared with 396,080 last year. Through the first seven months the total was approximately 3.5 million. This means that will produce the 7 million unit sales as predicted.

This means something to you: It is bound to affect pricing at the retail level. If volume falls off, the per unit manufacturing costs are almost certain to rise. This means that the manufacturer will have to build more into the set and probably give you a better value for your money.

It certainly means buyers' market, rather than a sellers' paradise.

There are other indicators lurking around in the background that create this opinion. E.F. Johnson would never have filed its ITC motion to impose quotas and increased tariffs on imports if all was well. All available reports reflect a sluggish market, with a lot of 23s still sitting on the shelf.

The retail pricing being advertised is responsive to this problem and offers buyers some real values in both 23s and 40s, base and mobile units. The good, well established brands are coming up with refinements in their new sets that offer CBers more sophisticated gear at very reasonable prices. So, all that is

Even the FCC has been reflective to the mood of the CBing public. They've decided that their rules were virtually unintelligible to you and me, and have rewritten them. Thay said they were going to do the rewrite in non-legal language that we could all understand.

The FCC has also produced a slide-and-sound show. It is entitled "10-4 Uncle Charlie" and proceeds to explain the CB rules. The program has 72 slides and a 10-minute audio cassette. Your club can obtain the program, along with a question and answer sheet, for $15.00 from the National Audiovisual Center, GSA Order Section, Washington, D.C. 20409.

So, all this adds up to four important points: a) the CBers of today are utilizing their radios in an intelligent manner befitting veterans who don't regard it as a plaything; b) they are better informed and more responsive than the faddists of a year or two ago; c) marketing pressures on manufacturers and retailers has resulted in pricing vagaries unheard of in 1975; and d) the designers of sets for today and tomorrow must build increased value into each unit to survive.

Our mail indicates that the CBers are much aware of what is happening, even when the reasons are not clearly discernible. And they are benefiting from it all.

More Teens Turning To Alcohol increasingly turning to booze, a White House aide says, but that doesn't necessarily mean they're turning away from

"A lot has been written that teenagers are switching from drugs to alcohol," said Dr. Peter G. Bourne, President

In a telephone interview, Bourne said youngsters get the impression that using drugs is bad, while drinking heavily - a habit shared with many adults - is all

Saga Of Truckee River Continues This Month

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The proud Truckee River is drying up, but a fight over who should get the water grinds on in federal court, where it has been for the last 64 years.

The Pyramid Lake Paiute Indian Tribe wants its fair share of water to maintain the fishery at Pyramid Lake, at the end of the Truckee. And along the way, users of the water - the cities of Reno and Sparks and the myriad of ranchers want their fair share, too.

Some say there there isn't enough water to go around, and others say there is. That is the ground on which the battle lines have been drawn.

The latest chapter in the Truckee River saga begins Oct. 27 in federal court here. Judge J. Blaine Anderson of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals is scheduled to hear final arguments in a fouryear-old suit filed by the U.S. Justice Department on behalf of the Indian tribe.

In this round, the Indians named the Truckee-Carson Irrigation District and 13,000 other defendants in an action seeking enough water to keep the 110,000-acre lake status quo. In recent years, the spectacular lake, which has produced 40-pound Cutthroat Trout, has been dwindling because less water flows into it from the Truckee. The flow can't match the evaporation factor.

The tribe wants the court to guarantee enough river flow to maintain the lake and its fishery.

But according to Claude Dukes, federal water master, said the current low river flow into the lake has resulted because the lake has no right to the water. It gets what is left over from the users up-

The tribe says it does have rights to the water, arguing that it was not given fair legal representation in previous litigation which led to river water use priorities.

Some of that complex legal maneuvering included the controversial Orr Ditch Decree of 1944 which gave the Indians 32,000 acre feet of water a year - strictly for irrigation. There was no provision for the lake level being maintained.

Dukes said the Indians get an average of 5,500 acre feet per year of irrigation, far below the Orr mandate.

The Indians have argued all along they have never been treated fairly in legal decisions on use of Truckee River water. In the 1973 suit, the tribe argued the Orr Debe allowed more water.

Mayo Nutrition Expert Raps Athletic Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Exercise is as important as good eating habits in preventing obesity in children, but athletic programs centered on playing star athletes discourage many children from developing good exercise habits, says a Mayo Clinic nutrition expert.

Dr. Ralph A. Nelson said Tuesday the consequences of sitting on the bench during athletic events and physical education classes are more than just disappointment and frustration.

Discouraged youngsters don't have a desire to stay active or physically fit for the rest of their lives, thus increasing the risk of heart disease, high blood pressure and many other conditions when they get older, he said.

Nelson said current physical education programs emphasize team games that tend to be monopolized by natural athletes at the expense of less gifted stu-

'We have to have programs with activities that develop the skills each child does best, whether competing on a team or with himself. We should offer prizes for the most improvement in something as well as winning," Nelson said.

'It might be helpful if people rotated positions on teams and made sure everyone played, but this may mean downplaying the idea of winning for the sake Speaking at a forum on childrearing, the associate professor of nutrition at the Mayo Medical School said parents dismiss the consequences of overweight children by saying they'll grow out of it.

But, Nelson said, "If a child enters adolescence obese, chances are one to four against he or she ever achieving a normal

"If a child leaves adolescence obese, chances increase to about 28 to 1 against ever achieving a normal body weight,'

Nelson said about 20 per cent of adult Americans are either overweight or obese, a condition he said is also common among children.

In a five-year study Mayo scientists conducted using about 2,000 Rochester, Minn., school children, 18 per cent were classified as overweight and another 14 per cent obese, he said.

DR. LAMB

Measuring Calories

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB-Recently I read that most people do not really know what a calorie is. That started me to thinking and it is true. I know it has something to do with whether a food will make you fat or not but I really do not understand exactly what a calorie is. That sounds strange in a nation of calorie counters but how about telling us in terms we can understand what a calorie really is.

DEAR READER-A calorie is simply a way of measuring heat energy The kind of calories we use in discussing food and your body's use of calories, is a kilocalorie. That is the amount of heat you would need to raise the temperature of one liter (a little more than a quart) of water one degree centigrade. To help you visualize that, 100 calories would raise the temperature of one liter of water from freezing level to boiling.

The heat energy absorbed by the cold water to reach the boiling point can be from electricity. This is a good example of converting electricl energy nto heat energy. Energy can neither be created nor destroyed but it can be transformed into different forms of energy, including heat, electrical, mechanical or chemical energy.

Since a pound of body fat contains about 3500 calories it follows that a pound of body fat has locked in it enough energy to heat 35 liters of water from the freezing level to the boil-

A tablespoon of butter of margarine contains 100 calories, enough energy if it is released to heat a liter of water from the freezing (0 degrees C) to boiling (100 degrees C).

If you walk one mile and use 60 extra calories doing so, that would use the mechanical energy which could be transformed to enough heat energy to heat about two-thirds of a liter of water from freezing to boiling.

The energy stored in a food or in body fat is released by complex chemical actions. This energy is used to heat your body. The heat released is usually more than we want so the body has to constantly rid itself of the heat released from food. If it is unable to do so the body heat builds up and may even cause heat stroke.

Part of the released energy is used to build important chemicals, including enzymes and hormones. Growing children use the energy in building their bodies, which is why they can eat foods containing so much energy and still not get fat.

Some of the energy is converted to mechanical energy to enable you to do any physical activity.

If you consume 2,000 calories a day you are taking in enough calories to heat 20 liters of water from freezing to boiling. If you are a normal person and reasonably active you may use all of them to keep your body working properly, to keep your body warm and to perform physical activity.

If you take in more calories than you can use the body simply stores calories by forming body fat. When you are ready to use that energy the body fat is broken down to release the calories for use.

To give you more information I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-2, Understanding Your Energy System. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station,

Powell Uses Unusual Analogy On Nuclear Ceiling

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a hiatus of about 15 years, hamsters again are a topic of discussion at the White House. This time it involves their sex lives.

During the administration of President John F. Kennedy, Press Secretary Pierre Salinger was awakened in the middle of the night by a reporter who wondered if Caroline Kennedy's pet hamster had

Monastery In France Endangered

By MORT ROSENBLUM

MONT-SAINT-MICHEL, France (AP) — This mystical monastery on a granite isle, one of the world's most dramatic sites, will soon be a grass-bound extension of the Normandy coast if the creeping sands are not held back.

And discord between conservationists and free-enterprising businessmen may delay an ambitious proposal to let nature fix what man has wrought on the 1.011-year-old shrine.

The abbey, with its cloisters and ramparts, was sacked, burned and expanded so many times that it includes classic works of every architectural style from the 10th century to the 15th.

Its towers and spires appear to rise straight out of the English Channel, 450 feet into the air, a perfect rendition of storybook fantasy as it takes shape in the morning mist

At night, with footfalls echoing among the ancient walls, it takes visitors back to the Middle Ages

From the beginning, it was deluged with the faithful and the curious last year, with one and a half million visitors, it was among the most frequented monuments of Europe

A century ago, engineers built a wide ciuseway so that pilgrims and tourists could pay homage to the archangel Michael without risking their lives in the quicks; and in tides that roar in at the pace of a galloping horse.

They built dams and dikes, rechanneling three rivers spilling into the Channel and extending the coastline several miles toward the tiny island with huge tracts of reclaimed farmland.

As a result, hydrologists say, the currents and tides cannot wash away the sands and, as banks form and marine grass grows, land is fast encroaching. If the trend is not reversed by the 1990s, a study shows, it will be too late.

But a main recommendation is to blow up the causeway and build a bridge over the last 600 yards. Some merchants and hotchers on the island fear that would limit nearby parking, affecting business.

We agree that it should be saved from the sands, but we have to think about the way to do it best "remarked one hotelier." We have a lot of elderly clients. How are they going to be able to walk 600 or 700 yards? They have a right to visit the abbey, too.

Both the government and the merchants have been pressed by church officials to preserve the decorum of the abbey which now houses three Roman Catholic priests and two nuns. The island was abandoned by the church centuries ago, but in 1969 the abbey church was restored to active use.

Ministry of Culture officials are studying an extensive report, prepared over four years at a cost of about $500,000 by engineers who made a working model of the water flows. They will make no decision until probable costs can be calculated – perhaps early next year — and until all yiews on the problem can be considered.

Reversing the sands requires changing river courses and allowing tidewaters to move freely, washing away accumulated sediment, the study says. That means removing dikes, flooding fields and exposing the ancient walls of Mont-Saint-Michel to intensified currents and tides.

But, says Philippe Siguret, encharged with administering the monument for the government. "The crisis is grave, all right." A hydrological engineer put it more strongly.

"If nothing is done. Mont-Saint-Michel will forever be imprisoned by the sands."

Governor Creates New State Board

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe Tuesday named a six-member board to promote improved understanding of state government by high school students.

Named to the Texas Closeup Board were Robert G. Meehan of Missouri Cits Elsworth R. Drummer Sr. of San Antonio. Phil L. Huddleston of Palestine. Mrs. Carl B. Cox of Dallas, Oscar L. Newton Jr. of Houston and A. Jack Swenson of Austin.

CORRECTION:

In Sears newspaper ad Sunday 10/16 and on page 8 of Sears "Fall Festival of Values" circular this week, Original Equipment shock absorbers were priced at 83,99 a pair. They should have been priced at $3,99 each. We regret this error.

died. (It had, and Salinger has never for gotten the post-midnight phone call.)

Amy Carter doesn't own a hamster. But the sex life of this particular variety of rodent was much on Press Secretary Jody Powell's mind this week as he attempted to draw a distinction between placing a ceiling on strategic nuclear weapons in negotiations with the Soviet Union and ordaining actual reductions.

"As I see the question of reductions as opposed to ceilings," said Powell, "it means if I have 14 hamsters and you set a limit of 20, that means that the hamsters can continue to enjoy themselves up to a point."

"If I have 14 hamsters and we set a limit of 12, it means not only will the hamsters have to quit enjoying themselves, but at least two of them will be faced with a rather difficult situation."

"That is the difference, and if you are a hamster you will appreciate that." President Carter and Soviet President

Leonid I Brezhnev have yet to embrace Powell's analogy

At the outset of the news briefing this week at which Powell announced Carter has added Saudi Arabia to the already crowded schedule for his four-continent tour, a reporter asked, "Is it true the trip has been extended so that now we are going to spend Christmas in Bangladesh?"

The President is not." Powell replied, but we may be able to make arrangements for some of you if you keep it up." Powell presumably had in mind the suggestions of some columnists and commentators that the 11-day itinerary shapes up more as a test of presidential staining than of administration diplomaCarter is scheduled to return from the journey on Dec. 2. Asked if he would bet his bottom dollar it won't be extended, the press secretary observed, "There are very few things I would bet my last dollar on."

Irrepressible is an apt one-word description of Midge Costanza, the President's assistant for public liaison.
Introducing Carter at a gathering of the Young Presidents Organization, Mrs.

Costanza raised both hands to still the applause.
"I told you not too much," she chided with mock seriousness.

It was all in good fun, but you might have to conduct a lengthy search to find another presidential assistant equally willing to get a laugh at the expense of the boss

Which brings to mind the efforts made before the inauguration by President-elect Carter and his top advisers to play up Mrs. Costanza's prospective role as the top-ranking woman on the White House staff.

Advance published reports had it that Hamilton Jordan would be the only Carter aide to be known simply as an assistant to the President.

All others, according to these accounts, would be assistants with designated areas

was reported at the time.

When top staff appointments were announced a day later... Powell said both Jordan and Mrs. Costanza would be plain assistants, having no fixed responsibilities except to advise Carter on a broad range of concerns.

States' Help On New Act

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus said this week he expects the states to play major roles in making the new federal surface mining act work.

"We mean to enforce the strip mining law strictly and fairly," he said. "We know that the nation needs coal and so the regulations for strip mining must be workable.

Andrus said a task force is reviewing public comments about the regulations, and "we have even called in additional specialists to give the comments the attention they deserve."

Andrus told a conference sponsored by the National Coal Association and Bituminous Coal Research, Inc., that the regulations to implement the act go into effect for new coal mining operations Feb. 3. 1978, and for old operations May 3,

"To mine coal, treat it, transport it and use it requires teamwork on the part of the government, the coal mining industry and consumers — close and harmonious teamwork," Andrus said.

He also said that the bulk of the nation's coal production will continue to come from private and state lands and not from federal property.

Soviet Dissidents Send Letter To Psychiatry Group

MOSCOW (UPI) - A group of Soviet dissidents has sent a letter to the World Association of Psychiatry asking for support for two prominent activists who have criticized alleged Soviet abuse of psychiatry.

The dissidents, led by Nobel laureate Andrei Sakharov, said Alexander Podrabinek and Josif Terelli have been followed during recent weeks by KGB secret police agents. They said they feared Podrabinek's arrest was imminent.

Podrabinek, 23, is the author of a 265page text outlining the alleged abuse of psychiatry in the Soviet Union for pelitical purposes. Terelli's memoirs about life in a mental hospital were recently published in the west.

The powers of our country have care-Andrus Expects "The powers of our country have carefully concealed all facts of misappropriation of psychiatry and have used all kinds of repressions against those who want to build obstacles in their way," the letter

It was addressed to "psychiatrists of the world, the World Association of Psychiatrists, Amnesty International and to all honest people for the defense of A. Podrabinek and Josif Terelli."

In addition to the text he researched and wrote, whech was presented to Amnesty International in London by dissident sources, Podrabinek has been active in a small group set up to monitor the abuse of psychiatry.

Podrabinek was arrested on a Moscow street as he walked with a girlfriend last week. He was released after questioning, but his apartment and the woman's apartment were searched and a number of documents were removed.

said. " He then got the suitcase and opened it up.

A spokesman for the Fulton County Jail in Atlanta said Stewart had been held there since he and Hannan were arrested last month after a robbery at an Atlanta branch of the National Bank of Georgia.

A federal magistate had freed Hannan on $25,000 bond earlier this month following his request to return home to attend to some personal business.

fore the plane took off from Kansas City, federal marshals picked Stewart up at the jail and drove him to an undisclosed loca-hijacker had kept his gun in full view but never verbally threatened them.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell told reporters that rejection of demands by hijackers is "our general policy." Bell, who said he reported to President Carter on the Nebraska hijacking, indicated Carter also takes that position.

However. Bell declined to say what might be done in the Nebraska incident. Asked if troops might be used in an effort to free victims of the hijacking, Bell would use the FBI and local law enforcement agencies.

Bell noted there are restrictions on the use of troops within the United States. But he noted the FBI has had experience in handling hijackings.

Williams said a high school friend of Hannan's, who was on board the plane by chance, tried in vain to get him to give up when he commandeered it at the Hall County Airport in Grand Island, Neb. about 6:30 a.m. CDT.

An FAA spokesman in Washington said the FAA first learned the plane was in trouble when the pilot radioed there was a man in the cockpit and "we're going to Kansas City for fuel.

The plane landed in Kansas City about an hour later.

Larry Bishop, a Frontier spokesman in Denver, said 30 passengers and five crew members already were aboard the plane at Hall County Airport at Grand Island when the hijacker pushed through a security check and forced his way aboard.

The flight, No. 101, normally originates in Grand Island, then flies east to Lincoln and Omaha before heading west to Den-

There has been only one successful hijacking of a U.S. airliner since Nov. 10, 1972, according to the Federal Aviation Adminstration

The FAA said that there were 24 successful hijackings of foreign air carriers between November 1972 and April 1977.

The most recent major U.S. hijacking involved a TWA jetliner taken over by five Croation nationalists last September while on a flight from Chicago to New York. The plane finally landed in Paris and the nearly 60 hostages were released. The hijackers were sentenced to terms ranging from 30 years to life in prison.

The FAA considers that hijacking to have been successful because the Croations achieved their demand of dropping leaflets publicizing their demands for independence for their homeland, now part of Yugoslavia

The United States' best-known hijacker is probably the man - given the name of Dan Cooper - who commandeered a Northwest Airlines 727 jetliner on Nov. 24, 1971. He demanded four parachutes and $200,000 in cash and bailed out, through the rear door, as the plane flew low between Seattle and Reno, Nev. Neither Cooper nor the money has ever been found. Many officials said they doubted he could have survived the jump.

The first reported case of sky piracy involving a commercial airline occurred in May 1971 when an Eastern Airlines plane was hijacked to Cuba. From 1961 to 1973, when the U.S. and Cuba signed an antihijacking agreement, 87 U.S. airplanes were diverted to Cuba, according to the

The jetliner hijacked today is a medium-range, twin-engine plane with a normai operating range of between 1,000 and 2.000 miles.

Even so, limited enforcement is no reason to scrap the policy, argued school board secretary Joan Ervin. And, in further rebuttal to Forbess, she said the ban should be applied to both smoking and non-smoking tobacco products, as an "example" that the board does not condone any use of tobacco.

Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration, added that state law forbids smoking in school buildings anyway, except in designated areas.

School board members briefly touched on the subject of student smoking lounges, then dropped the idea and stood solidly behind the ban on students' use of any tobacco product at school

Poet Loyal To Neighbors In Face Of Criticism

By NANCY SHULINS WOLCOTT, Vt. (AP) — Like a spurned suitor, poet and author David Budbill sits in the one-room hillside cabin where he writes. He puzzles over the irate reaction of his neighbors to a book of poems meant to pay tribute to their inventiveness, creativity and backwoods genius.

"What I'm trying to say in some of the poems is that people shouldn't jump to conclusions about what is ugly and what is beautiful. They are terms that need redefining.'

Beauty, for Budbill, is found in an old washtub transformed into a flower bed for marigolds outside the local garage, and the abandoned railroad boxcar that serves as a shed in a Wolcott backyard.

But mostly, it is found in his neighbors, whom he views as nothing short of heroes who in his eight years here have taught him of their genius for survival.

"Judevine and Wolcott are not the same place," Budbill says emphatically. 'The people in the book resemble the people here - they have the same sense of humor, the same ability to take a difficult life and make it enjoyable."

'Driving Home At Night'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two great performances in one show are coming to public TV in most areas Sunday night. The performances are by Charles Durning and Tyne Daly; the show is "The Dancing Bear."

"Bear," by Conrad Bromberg, is from the fine "Visions" series of original TV dramas made at KCET here. A 90-minute effort, it's a bittersweet tale of life, love and the Hollywood scuffle.

Its premise is that the one thing an actor never loses is hope - not even if he lives in Hollywood, is middle-aged, potbellied, broke, paying child support and hasn't worked in six months.

The veteran character actor in this condition is played by Durning, so good a few years ago in CBS' "Queen of the Stardust Ballroom.

Bill DeMore, program director for KSEL and one of the partners in the limousine venture, told the board the space in front of the airport terminal was needed to "expand the limousine service to public usage.

He explained the company began operation October 13 as a VIP himousine service which meets people at the airport by pre-arrangement

He said if the limousine service was granted permission to park at the airport it would charge $6 per trip regardless of distance or number of passengers.

However, board members asked De-More why the rate structure was different from that proposed at the first and second board meetings on the matter.

is not the time for a planning session The limousine company representatives appeared at the last city council meeting to request permission to operate in the city. However, the council discovered the city ordinance on vehicles for hire said nothing about limousines

The council then determined a new ordinance covering limousines might be in order and instructed the Airport Board to once again consider the company's request for parking space.

The experience with Executive Limousine Service prompted chairman Garland to suggest there might be a need for guidelines on what could be placed on the board's agenda or a procedure to fol-

Pilot Dies In One Of Two Accidents

Avalanche-Journal Staff

In a 31/2-hour period Wednesday one 29-year-old man was dead and another miraculously spared from serious injury, following separate plane crashes involving crop dusters.

Killed about 11 a.m. was David Doyle Van Kerk of Mission Viejo, Calif., a veteran fighter pilot in the Vietnam War who died following the fiery crash of his Piper Pawnee in a field north of Smyer. Owner Ken Young of Young's Flying Service of Smyer called Van Kerk "one of the top 10 fighter pilots in the United States" who had logged 30 missions during the Vietnam conflict.

Ironically, Van Kerk, who had worked for Young for two years, walked away from another crash just 18 days earlier when his plane snagged an electric fence on takeoff and was dragged down, Young

Young said Van Kerk's Piper Pawnee 235 had a 39-gallon capacity gasoline tank on board when it plummeted in a field about a mile and a half north of Smyer on FM 168, then exploded

The craft smashed into the cotton field Van Kerk had been defoliating, missing a pumping oil well by about 150 yards.

Oil field workers about 3/4 of a mile from the crash site said Van Kerk's craft was flying low in a southwesterly direc-

However, Federal Aviation Adr tion investigator Robert Burk said it could be months before the exact cause of the crash is made public.

The craft crashed tail first, then skidded about 40 feet before plopping down hard in the sandy field and exploding,

Contractor Bill Smith of Levelland, who rushed to the scene from an oil well nearby, said the plane was engulfed in flames and too hot for rescuers to ap-

Smith said he could not locate Van Kerk's body at first, and assumed the pilot had been thrown from the plane on impact. After the plane's portside had burned away, Smith said, the pilot's body -crumple forward toward the front of the plane - became visible.

First attempts to douse the flames with 30-gallon fire extinguishers failed, Smith said, and workers furiously shovelled dirt on the blaze to finally put the fire out.

The pilot was pronounced dead at the scene, and his body was taken to Smith Funeral Home in Levelland. A funeral home spokesman said Van Kerk's body will be sent to Independence, Mo., where his parents live.

Less than four hours later at about 2:30 p.m:, another Piper Pawnee crashed on a westside access road along U.S. 87, a mile

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I just returned from hearing a Federal Court decision that sent my 21-year-old grandson to prison

Outside the courtroom I confronted Don (my son-in-law) for having taken the boy out of school in the eighth grade. Don said the boy was better off out of school - that all he learned there was racism, violence and how to smoke pot. He didn't even know how to read.

My daughter and Don have three younger children, and Don says he's not going to send any of them to public school. If the authorities try to force him to, he says, they will have to kill him

My daughter says she will try to get some correspondence courses and teach the children at home. Can this be done? Escondido Grandma

Dear Grandma: According to California law, education - either public or private - is mandatory. In the case of a handicapped or ill child, the board of education often provides special tutoring. But if your son-in-law refuses to send his healthy children to school, and attempts to "teach" them at home, he can expect to have a legal battle on his hands.

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible to marry a dead person using a proxy?

In our area, a teenage boy drowned a few weeks ago, and he had planned to marry soon. They had a license already.

I understand the girl was pregnant and she wanted a name for her child, so they were married at the funeral parlor. Is that possible? Can you find out for me? Thank you.

The agency said the action was prompted by reports of cases in which the cornea was scratched by an applicator or fingernail, introducing bacteria which caused damage to the eye

The bacteria identified in all of the injury reports is a very common one, the FDA said, often present on the skin and readily absorbed by the cosmetics. A notice of intended rulemaking was published in the Federal Register, meaning that the agency will formally propose a rule requiring a preservative. The FDA said this will be included in a package of rules spelling out proper manufacturing practices for all cosmetics.

The bidding: West North East Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass 1 0 Pass Pass 5 0 Pass Pass Pass Pass Opening lead: King of +

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF

Good technique was well rewarded when this hand turned up in New York's annual Knickerbocker Championships over the Labor Day weekend.

The auction was conducted in orderly fashion. South's fit for hearts made his hand well worth a jump shift at his second turn. North showed a hand nearly equivalent to an opening bid with his jump preference, and South settled in a small slam after learning his side was off

Invariably, West led the king of spades and then shifted to a club. Since the hand was cold if trumps divided evenly, at most tables declarer won the queen of clubs and cashed the ace-king of diamonds.

The 3-1 trump division was disconcerting, but not necessarily fatal. Most declarers cashed two high clubs, discarding two hearts from dummy. After successfully ruffing a club in dummy, they cashed the king and ace of hearts and tried to ruff their heart loser. Unfortunately. East overruffed for down one.

Double dummy, the hand can always be made by cashing only the king of trumps, ruffing a club in dummy and then ruffing the last heart with the ace of diamonds. A finesse for the jack of diamonds then lands the slam. Alternatively, declarer can ruff a club, then run all his tricks to squeeze West if he had four or more hearts. However, both lines are an unnecessarily risky way to tackle the hand The successful declarers simply transposed the order in which they cashed their tricks. After drawing two rounds of tramps they first cashed the king and ace of hearts. When the queen dropped, declarer no longer needed a heart ruff He simply drew the last trump and rulfed his club loser in dummy to fulfill

Baltimore Builds Better Snowballs

BALTIMORE (AP) - Philadelphia is a good snowball town. New York has its Italian ices. New Orleans claims to be the snowball capital.

But local aficionados say none of them seems to compare with Baltimore's Some attribute it to the city's heat and

During the Great Depression, snowballs sold for a penny and were known as hard times sundaes

Izzy Fudman, the head of Sno-Master Manufacturing Co., said 4,000 to 5,000 of his ice-shaving machines are being used in the Baltimore area, many of them at sidewalk stands. "There's no other city which compares to Baltimore (for snowballs)." he said

Fudman said his machine, which sells best here although it's used as far away as Australia, made Baltimore the snow-

It also made the snowball business very profitable for college students, housewives, small businessmen, enterprising

A pint of concentrated flavor costs about $1. Mixed with sugar and water, it makes seven gallons of flavoring, enough for 840 snow balls. At 15 cents or more each, the profits add up.

The electric ice shaver was invented by a Texan, but Baltimorean Dave Davison bought the patent and started Sno-Mas-

Remove from heat, add beaten egg; mix well. Divide stuffing evenly among fish fillets, placing some in center of each, then roll them up and secure with wooden toothpicks (remove picks Cut large squares of aluminum foil and brush surface of each (as many as there are fillets) with olive oil. Place a rolled fillet in center of each and top with a lemon slice. Spoon wine over each and fold the foil to seal. Bake 30 to 35 minutes at 350 degrees, serve fish in foil, folded back to form a "boat." Serves 4 to 6, depending on whether it's a main dish or first course, and accompanying foods.

To vary the above, substitute a 73/4 ounce can of drained, flaked pink salmon for the shrimp. Crabmeat is delectable, but its price will have to drop substantially before most budgets are up to it. Crumbled cornbread can do for white bread or cracker crumbs.

monds of parsley and lemon slices. Other "stuffees" are chicken legs (with thighs attached), which are less costly than chicken breasts. Here's how to bone and prepare them yourself.
WALNUT-STUFFED

CHICKEN LEGS

Slit skin and meat from inner side of 4 large legs-with-thighs to the bone. With point of small sharp knife, cut meat away from bones, carefully keeping it in one piece with skin on. Place meat of each leg, skin-side down, on a board. Pound with a tenderizing mallet to flatten. Refrigerate between sheets of waxed paper till stuffing is made.

"STUFFING: Lightly saute 2 tablespoons chopped onion in 2 tablespoon butter or margarine. Add 1/3 cup soft bread crumbs, 1/3 cup chopped ripe olives, 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/16th teaspoon pepper, 1/3 cup chopped walnuts. Reserve 1/6th cup walnuts for garnish. Divide mixture into 4 portions, placing a portion on each flattened chicken piece. Fold ends over, then sides, envelope-fashion, securing with wooden picks or small metal skewers (remove the latter before serving.)

Mix 1 tablespoon melted butter or mar-

Serve with sauce made with pan es ences from which excess fat is remove Add dissolved chicken bouillon cubes parsley, a sprinkling of lemon juice, pe per and sugar, thickening, if desired, with a little cornstarch dissolved first in cold water. Spoon sauce over chicken, sprinkle with a little Parmesan cheese and place under preheated broiler till bubbly and glazed. Just before removing, sprinkle with reserved walnuts, so they toast a trifle, but don't burn.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY

House Votes For Funding Of Reactor

By JOHN LENGEL

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House has devised a legislative ploy to insulate the nation's nuclear breeder reactor project against a veto, keeping the project operating for a year while President Carter rethinks his opposition.

The House approved 252 to 165 on Wednesday a provision requiring that $80 million be appropriated this year to keep the reactor program roughly on schedule.

Congress usually funds each federal program with two bills: an authorization bill setting a ceiling on how much money can be appropriated and the conditions for how the money is to be spent, and an appropriations bill releasing the money.

Carter had urged Congress to kill the reactor project, and he has indicated that he is considering a veto for the breeder authorization bill, which now is in a conference committee.

But the effect of the House vote is to require the money be spent on the Clinch River breeder project in Tennessee regardless of whether the authorization bill is eventually approved.

The appropriation for the breeder is contained in a $6.8 billion bill providing the funding this year for a wide variety of federal programs, and the House is betting that Carter would not disrupt these programs just to kill the project.

A Senate appropriations subcommittee has already approved an approach identical to the House's.

An appropriation of $80 million still is looked upon by advocates of the reactor project as a compromise which keeps the program roughly on schedule without commencing construction.

By keeping the project alive, the compromise gives Carter a year to reassess his position, his congressional opponents

The breeder project is aimed at determining if this type of reactor is suitable for generating steam for electrical power. It has the potential for producing more fuel than it consumes, a factor which supporters say would spare the country of having to import uranium for nuclear power production toward the end

Carter thinks there is ample time to develop alternative nuclear power plant designs, but a majority of the House thinks the breeder looks too promising to drop at this point.

More important, Carter says a U.S. commitment to the project would encourage other countries to step up their breeder programs, raising the prospect of nuclear arms proliferation.

Project advocates retort that the United States can work for improved international arms and nuclear fuel controls Other countries will continue with their breeder programs regardless of what the United States decides, they add.

Public Hearing Set On Higher Gas Rates

has scheduled a public hearing Dec. 16. on a request by Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. to increase natural gas rates by 55.4 per rent to customers in

Arkla proposed to increase residential and commercial rates for 10,000 cubic feet of gas from $14.53 to $23.13 on Nov 15. The Railroad Commission delayed the increase for 120 days pending the public hearing. In the order delaying the increase, hearing examiner Austin C. Marriage Rate In U.S. Drops Sharply In Past Five Years

WASHINGDON (UPI) - The number of unmarried persons living together has almost doubled to 2 million during the 1970s, and America's soaring divorce rate still is the highest in the world.

In addition, the rates of first marriage and remarriage have dropped sharply in the past five years, according to a study released Wednesday by the Population Reference Bureau, and 40 per cent of all women in their late 20s will see their marriages end in divorce

It gave two factors for the sharp drop in the marriage rate - Vietnam removing many men from the "marriage market," and the "reinvigoration of the women's movement" which put more young women into the labor market "to get a taste of an attractive option to marriage and preoccupation with child care

As of March, the study said, 1,914,000 unmarried persons were living together. This broke down to 1.212.000 women who moved in with men, and 702,000 men who moved in with women.

This was an increase of 83 per cent over 1970. and compared with only a 19 per cent increase from 1960 to 1970.

'Back in 1960, most such couples were older women with a young man as a tenant." the report noted. "Nowadays, the majority are young men sharing living quarters with a young woman.

But despite the increase, the study said, "cohabiting though unwed" couples make up only 2 per cent of the country's AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Railroad current 48 million "couple households."

At 5 divorces per 1,000 population in May, 1977, the divorce rate was far above any other country. And the marriage rate dropped from 11 per thousand in 1972 to 9.9 per thousand this year.

Other statistics:

-Only half the country's total pregnancies from 1970-75 ended in "legitimate" births "Illegitimate" births rose from 7 to 8.5 per cent, and legally aborted births skyrocketed from 3.4 to nearly 20 per cent of all pregnancies

-One-third of all first births in the first half of the 1970s were conceived before marriage, and one in 10 of all remarried

—Men with college degrees are most likely to marry and least likely to divorce. But women between 35 and 54 who have gone on to graduate school are "below

House following final congressional ac-

The Senate passed the bill 53-33 Wednesday in a debate marked by Republican criticism of President Carter for compromising on an aid cutoff to seven communist or Marxist countries.

To break a two-month deadlock in a House-Senate conference committee, Carter encouraged House members to drop their insistence that U.S. funds not go to international financial institutions for loans to Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, Uganda, Cuba, Angola and Mozambique. In a letter to Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., Carter said he would instruct U.S. representatives on the international banks to vote against loans to the seven

The administration originally had opposed House restrictions on using U.S. funds for such loans, saying the institutions could not legally accept U.S. contriBrian N Pearl, 26, William

Singer Sinatra Sues Columnist

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Singer Frank Sinatra has sued a Los Angeles Times columnist for $2 million, claiming she libeled him in an Oct. 10 story that said he arrived late at an award dinner for comedian George Burns. charged

Sinatra's suit Jody Jacobs mistakenly reported that he was not present at the dinner "because he arrived too late from Dodger Stadium." The implication, Sinatra said, was that he had little regard for Burns

The singer said he left the opening game of the Dodgers' National League play-off series after throwing out the traditional first ball. Sinatra said he did attend the dinner and presented Burns with a Jack Benny Memorial Award before a crowd of 1,000.

To Patrol Border

Knights of the Ku Klux Klan will defy San Diego police and patrol the U.S.-Mexican border to keep out illegal aliens, the group's national director says. "It is not inconceivable that we would use our weapons if klansmen were endangered by illegal aliens. We will protect ourselves if we have to," klan director David Duke of Metairie, La., said here Wednesday

Duke said the purpose of the patrols was peaceful. 'We're going to watch them and anyone caught with a concealed weapon without a permit will be promptly arrested," San Diego Deputy Police Chief Veon Nyhus said of the KKK members.

Duke claimed the U.S. Border Patrol cannot cope with the influx of aliens crossing into the United States, so the klan would step in beginning next Tuesday with 500 to 1,000 volunteers from Texas to California.

Duke told a news conference that some klansmen already are stationed at border "hot spots" watching for entering aliens, which would be reported to the Border

"I think this (klan program) is a vigilante type of action and I strongly question their motives," San Diego Police Chief William Kolender said. "They could cause racial dissension and increase the problems for all law enforcement agencies involved."

The klan's presence along the border has already sparked violence.

Alice Day To Lead County Volunteers

Mrs. Alice Day has been named lead coordinator for community volunteers in Lubbock County in a new project designed to increase citizen involvement in providing services to the elderly, handicapped, and neglected or abused child-

Mrs. Day's office, at 701 Main St., is being provided by the Texas Department of Human Resources. Her salary is federally funded from Title VI special projects money through the South Plains Association of Governments.

Mrs. Day said she will be assessing service needs in Lubbock County and contacting organizations and individuals to let them know of opportunities to vol-

We want to find mature individuals who could help young mothers having problems with family stresses learn homemaking skills and how to give better child care. We hope to develop resources for families who may have emergency housing needs, and to help elderly and handicapped persons use available medical and financial resources.

Mrs. Day said she expects most of her work to be done for persons referred to her office by Department of Human Resources caseworkers or by elected officials in the communities she serves However, she invited the public to notify her of elderly or handicapped persons with unmet needs, or of possible needed service for children

11 Persons Reported Killed By Pet Dogs

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government's top veterinarian says family pets or neighbors' dogs killed at least 11 people in 1974 and 1975.

Dr. William G. Winkler, who conducted a study, said nearly all the victims were young children, although women aged 17 and 75 also were killed. More than 11 deaths may have occurred, because no accurate count is kept on dog attacks.

All the deaths may have been prevented "if unsupervised contact between dogs, particularly large ones, and small children or physically limited adults had been avoided," said Winkler, who is with the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

An estimated one million persons are bitten by dogs each year in the United States, Winkler said

FTC Plans To Control Ads For Candy, Drinks

government, saying many products advertised for children are unhealthy, is moving toward controlling ads for such items as candy, soft drinks and cereal.

'We're not talking about research anymore. We're now talking about the legal problems of which way to go," said a spokesman for the Federal Trade Commission, which regulates advertising to assure it is not deceptive or unfair.

FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk said in an interview Wednesday that he is 'convinced that action has to be taken' to guard young children against television advertisements promoting products containing large concentrations of sugar.

Options available to the commission range from requiring labels on such products as cereals, soft drinks and candy warning about their sugar content, to requiring the televising of public service messages emphasizing good nutrition and eating habits, to a total ban on the adver-

The options are to be presented to the full commission in early November, the FTC spokesman said.

An FTC spokesman said the sugar products are the focus of the commission's attention right now, but the FTC might aim in the future at television advertising of drugs during children and family viewing hours and at ads promotthe difference between a snack and a toy? You're appealing to the same kind of (child) instincts," said the spokesman.

Last week Pertschuk met for 90 minutes with 25 board members of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, the industry since this issue was born," considering a total ban on children-oriented advertisments of products contain-a trade group representing the largest advertising firms. The advertising firms had sought the meeting Pertschuk, according to one source, raised the most serious warning flag to telling them the commission is seriously

The FTC spokesman said that though it could take years to get rules into effect, officials are hoping the fact the rules are being considered could prod the industries to act by themselves.

The spokesman said the public as well as other agencies of government support government action to curb advertising aimed at children.

A Massachusetts group - Action for Children's Television - last April asked the FTC to ban all candy advertisements on television, claiming they induce children to eat snacks that cause tooth decay.

Man Acquitted Of Charge

A jury here Wednesday acquitted a man accused of the June 5, 1976, burglary of a Slaton department store.

Found innocent of the burglary charge was Eubell Carter, 34, who lived at 1914 E. Auburn St. at the time of the reported

It took jurors in Judge John R. McFall's 237th District Court only about 10 minutes to determine Carter was innocent of the burglary

Clothing was reportedly taken from the store, C. R. Anthony's, which was burglarized in the early morning hours. Local police testified they received confidential information that merchandise reportedly stolen from the store could be found at two different Lubbock addresses, including the Auburn Street residence

Testimony indicated police, acting on a search warrant, confiscated some articles of clothing which were later identified by complaining witness Dick Hartman as having come from the Slaton business.

Violent Acts Break Out Again In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - The first violence since the government's banning of black protest organizations and the closing of two major black newspapers broke out in South Africa to-

A witness reported black students stoned three schools, a number of cars and a delivery truck at Sharpeville township. The witness, who asked not to be identified, said groups of as many as 100 students were demonstrating in the 30,-000 population township despite the heavy rains and presence of extra police.

It was at Sharpeville, outside the city of Vereeniging, 36 miles south of Johannesburg, that 67 blacks were killed by police gunfire in 1960 in the country's first major racial disturbance, prompting an international outcry against South Africa and withdrawal of foreign capital.

There were also reports of continued unrest in Garankua township outside Pretoria.

In a series of coordinated actions Wednesday, security police raided the offices of 18 black consciousness and protest organizations in white-ruled South Africa, closed The World and its sister paper, The Weekend World, detained more than 50 prominent black leaders and slapped restriction orders on seven

Customer Protection Rules Called Unworkable

of novice investors are being enticed by the profit potential of commodity futures trading and, the federal government believes, they need to be protected from

But industry representatives, testifying Wednesday at the first in a series of public hearings on proposals to safeguard commodity customers, criticized the rules as vague, costly and unworkable.

Former speculators related how they had been duped by solicitors who "maximize the potential to make large profits but minimize the risks.

More than a dozen representatives of brokerage houses, futures exchanges and other commodity interests, however, described the drafted rules as ill-conceived and, in part, as duplicating existing laws.

that deals primarily with farmers who use commodity futures markets, likened the rules to "using a cannon to kill a fly."

While most witnesses lauded the goal of protecting customers, they claimed that the increased costs of complying with the regulations ultimately would be reflected in larger commission fees. The rules were drawn up by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, the regulatory body for an industry in which contracts worth more than a trillion dollars are traded annually.

The rapid volume growth of the industry has attracted an increasing number of investors unfamiliar with the complexities of the market and has led to its promotion as "the hot thing," one witness

Frederick White, a CFTC lawyer, said that an "unexpectedly large number of reparation complaints received last year produced the feeling there was a need for greater customer protection." One of more than 750 complaints came from John Flasman, who admitted at the hearing that he invested his money although he "wasn't familiar with (commodity) options. I was advised throughout that my option was making money. But when a expired, my broker said he made a mistake. I lost everything.

Another speculator, University of Illinois graduate student Robert Aitken. told the commissioners that "people who are solicited off the street, as I was, shouldn't have to suffer because of their naivety." He spoke in favor of a proposal that would require commission houses to disclose the risks involved in futures trad-

But Mark Smith, who said he was attracted to commodity futures "by the lure of big money," said that many customers "are warned but assume the worst only happens to the other guy.

Industry representatives agreed that commodity futures trading inherently is a high-risk form of speculation. But most echoed the sentiments of James L. Fox, a lawver and former Chicago Board of Trade member, that "the American people are able to fend for themselves and make their own decision ... Providing there's no fraud. I think the government should keep its hands off of telling people how they can spend their money.

Certain rules received more negative comments than others. A requirement that brokerage firms carefully supervise their employes, for example, would be impractical for smaller businesses and would cause them to abandon rural offices. O'Brien said.

Another proposal would prohibit commodity professionals from making investment recommendations unless they were "suitable ... in light of the customer's financial condition.

The vagueness of that rule, Fox said, 'does nothing but stir up a witches' brew whereby any person who loses money in the futures market" can use it as an excuse to seek legal remedy.

Another witness claimed that the rule, which calls for customers supplying detailed financial statements, would be distasteful to the customers themselves and would be unenforceable.

Other proposals would:

-Prohibit advertisements that show how much money could be made in hypo-

In the courtyard of the National Army Museum are the wrecks of U.S. warplanes, among them an F111 fighter and a B52 bomber. On display nearby are antiaircraft guns and a Soviet-made MIG which a placard says shot American planes down.

Four years ago American pilots dragged to prison after their capture were hate objects. Today quiet, attentive visitors look at museum display cases with U.S. military identity cards, flight helmets and other captured paraphernalia and photographs of pilots released in

The visitors don't seem to give as much attention to Vietnam's recent history as they do to exhibits on the Mongol invasion in 1288.

The museum guide claimed not to know what I was talking about when I asked what happened to the "Hanoi Hilton," the Hanoi prison where Americans were confined and allegedly tortured.

The potholed markets and streets of Hanoi teem with more people than during the war years. Since all those evacuated during the American bombing raids have returned home, the population has swollen to 1.3 million, and government representatives said a strong effort will be made to send several hundred thousand to the "new economic zones" being developed in the Central Highlands of what once was South Vietnam

War damage is hardly noticeable at the airport and around the city. The antiair-craft guns are gone, revetments filled in. The runways are crowded with military and civilian aircraft, both American and Soviet made. But few seem in use, possi-bly due to lack of fuel.

On several hundred-mile drives through North Vietnam, I saw no signs of military preparedness. Hanoi's sol-diers are seen building roads, working on the docks and in factories, driving civilian trucks and even handling baggage at Hanoi airport.

Past the much-bombed but nowglearning Hanoi railroad yard a train from Haiphong train with a smokebelching steam locomotive huffs across the 1.3-mile Red River Bridge, also used by an endless stream of pedestrians, cyclists, trucks and our tourist bus. The bridge, built by the French in 1899, is almost a symbol of Vietnamese tenacity.

It has been battered by decades of use. bombed many times and repaired hundreds of times. The Vietnamese express pride that they kept the bridge open throughout the war with only brief interruptions - and still keep it open. But a new, wider bridge is one of the many, many things North Vietnam needs.

Although there has been a lot of building in the city since the city's present zoning code was adopted in 1960, he called it much too cumbersome and said it may contribute to urban decay by leaving builders and developers mystified and

New York City has large areas, particularly in the Bronx and Brooklyn, that have been devastated by social change.

Hundreds of blocks of tenements and lower middle class apartment buildings, factories and stores have been bulldozed down to save taxes. Some of the lands have been abandoned.

Redevelopment of this property depends on many things, but severe zoning restrictions can make redevelopment more difficult.

Swartzman said one trouble is that zoning seems to follow Parkinson's law that is, regulations expand to use up all the time and money the bureaucrats have

He said this has been aggravated by the fact that the federal government has made so much money available for municipal planners and that environmental and civil rights regulatory groups can proceed to exploit zoning restrictions to gain their ends.

Swartzman conceded that zoning is necessary in most cities and towns

The generally accepted advantages of zoning are that it enables a community to exercise control over population density and make long range plans for schools, fire and police protection, water, sewerage and other services

"Residences, artsy shops, homes turned into restaurants. hamburger stands, gas stations, town houses, duplexes and jumping night spots all stand cheek by jowl ... but that's the way Houston likes it. game called "Energy Crisis. The new game, designed by game and puzzle inventor Sid Konikoff of Minneapolis, was on display at a recent energy show at the Minneapolis Auditorium. "Energy Crisis" is a game that encourages the players to become energy conscious by amassing solar collectors and insulation to win over spendthrift opponents, who use up their energy sources. It has an appeal for both children aged eight or older and adults, Konikoff said. and can be sophisticated or just fun and a valuable teaching asset. But he said it's specific aim is to get a message in a subtle, but sometimes very profound way, to

"Adults don't change their habits too quickly." Konikoff said, "The more we have the more we want. The idea is to have an effect on the next generation to turn the kids on to the idea of conserving energy when they are small and make it desirable for them. Konikoff feels adults will manage somehow to make more money in order to pay higher bills for energy. He thinks the well-developed technology in the U.S. will learn to harness solar energy and eventually there'll be no need for fossil

"But we may have to live with at least one generation that has to be aware energy is precious," he said.

"If this game can help raise their conscious awareness, it's a good thing.

Konikoff began accumulating energy material in 1973 and introduced the game through his Peppermill Publications this past spring. It has been used informally in one Minneapolis school, and he would like to see it eventually become part of the educational system.

It is designed to allow teachers to introduce supplementary material into the game and make it part of their curriculum on science and energy. It teaches decimal arithmetic, fractions and coin trading with chips, Konikoff said, and would be appropriate in instructing fourth and fifth graders.

In addition it has the appeal of interaction between players, of buying and bartering and at the same time is geared toward self-preservation. It also has the additional joy of risk-taking, like roulette. "People love to take risks when it doesn't count," he said

Sometime next year Konikoff plans to introduce a supplementary book, called the "Energy Game Book", which will include puzzles, quizzes and games that can be used in conjunction with "Energy Cri-

NATO Still Bases Ground War Strategy O

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization, for one, says it does.

Despite increasing cost, complexity and vulnerability, the alliance continues to base its strategy for ground war in central Europe around tanks.

The U.S. and West German armies, most powerful in the alliance, are increasing and modernizing their tank fleets to meet a perceived armored threat by the Communist Warsaw Pact countries.

This does not come cheap. The new American XM-1 tank will go into production in 1980 at a reported cost of about $5 billion. A NATO exercise, Carbon Edge, taking place in the rolling, wooded countryside around this south German city centers around tank tactics. The Warsaw pact countries have a preponderance of tanks in central Europe

- 20,500 compared to NATO's 7,000, according to new estimates.

Some defense critics argue the best way to counter this threat is to equip NA-TO with large numbers of relatively inexpensive antitank missiles which can be fired by infantrymen or from helicopters.

The argument is attractive to Western governments laboring under weak economies and faced with rising defense costs. Indeed, alliance defense ministers agreed earlier this year to increase stockpiles of antitank missiles as an urgent priority.

Yet planners argue against putting too much faith in missiles. To do so, they say, would risk creating a new Maginot Line - the supposedly impregnable French defenses which Germany outflanked at the beginning of World War II - and thus losing flexibility.

There are, therefore, no indications that the days of the tank are numbered. The strategists argue that if Soviet tanks did come crashing over the border, it would take tanks to stop them.

"Modern warfare is geared to the destruction of armor," said Capt. William Lane of C Company, 4th Battalton, 63rd Armored Regiment, U.S. Army. Lane, normally based at Fort Riley, Kan., was taking part with his company in the Carbon Edge maneuvers.

"The best weapon to use against armor is armor," he said.

But Capt. Jack Shrode of Oklahoma City, from the 3rd Squadron, 8th Cavalry Regiment, was not so sure Shrode flies an AH-1 Cobra helicopter equipped, among other things, with eight TOW (tube-launched, optically tracked, wire-guided) antitank missiles. "It takes only minimum training to turn a soldier into a deadly tank killer," he said. "After five or six hours of training he'll achieve a 90-95 percent hit ra-

A good gunner can push that rate to 100 percent. Furthermore, if the missile reaches its target, destruction is virtually certain.

The Cobra is vulnerable for the time it takes to guide the missile to its target up to 15 seconds for the maximum range of 2.5 miles. The helicopter needs to hover barely above a tree line - just enough to keep the target in sight until the missile strikes home. It thus makes an elusive target for a harried tank commander. It also can take evasive action while the missile is in flight, while the sights remain locked on the target.

The Cobra's pilot and gunner each have coordinated sights in their helmets. This means that when the pilot spots a target, the gunner receives it in his sight without even turning his head. The target shows up automatically and magnified on a screen. It is tracked by matching a blip of light representing the missile to cross-hairs.

The advent of the antitank helicopters has brought about major rethinking in Western, and presumably Soviet, tank tactics.

Because the latest tanks are so fast - the German Leopard exceeds 40 miles an hour over rough terrain - the new tactics emphasize mobility. To exploit the qualities of modern armor, the German army has changed its command strucers.

NATO strategy regards the tank as a vital part of a "min" of wandoms, including artillery, anti-aircraft defenses, air support and infantry. This, it is thought, is the best way to overcome the missile threat. A lesson was learned from the 1973 Yom Kippur war. When larged sent in tanks unprotected, they suffered heavy casualties. When they went in as part of an armor artillary infantry min, casualties dropped dramatically, even from antitank missiles.

"A TOW missile's 100 per cent accuracy on a firing range could drop to 50 per cent in the smoke and confusion of a battle," a NATO official said. He pointed out the value of the tank ar a "leadership symbol" for traops in battle.

Some analysts say an attack on Western Europe might quickly bog down in urban sprawl in which the tank would have limited usefulness.

The total Soviet tank fleet of about 40,000 is increasing by an estimated 2,000 new vehicles a year — including the T-72, which is considered among the world's best.

world's best.

If the Warsaw Pact attacked Western Europe with massed armor and air sup-port — one scenario posed by defense planners — the tank would be in the first

But fears that it would be impossible to stop such a Blittkrieg with the forces at their disposal are behind the argument of some senior officers — including Gen. Alexander Haig, the supreme allied commander in Europe — that the neutron bomb would be useful to have. An argument frequently overlooked in the debate about the bomb is that it is the world's most effective tank-sto since its death-dealing rays can penetrate even the thickest steel plate. Its de ployment would at a stroke wipe out the Soviet Union's advantage in armor.

"From a military point of view, it would enhance our deterence," Haig said of the bomb during a visit to the Carbon Edge maneuvers. But he hastily added that the decision to deploy it rests entirely with President Carter.

But any kind of nuclear warfare would be the worst of all possible scenarios.

Half-Price Drinks Cut In Europe

HEIDELBERG, West Germany (UPI) - The custom of lining the bar with halfprice drinks during Friday night "Happy Hour" is a fading memory as a result of the Army's new look in Europe. A surprisingly large number of soldiers are

"I can remember plenty of times staggering home with a peace offering for the wife after staying too long at the club." said an officer. "There was a lot of pressure to have just one more, particularly if your boss was there.' Reduced prices for alcohol at Army clubs in Europe have been banned. So have double shots, "stacking" of drinks just before closing time and the official beer parties that military units used to stage a couple of times a year. Booze can no longer be given away as a prize at bingo games. Similar restraints are being planned by all the services, the result of concern spurred by criticism such as a 1976 congressional report which concluded that a fifth of all officers and a third of all enlisted men in the are heavy or "binge"

In Europe, the new regulations have been in effect for Army troops since last April. Gen. George S. Blanchard, the top commander, says he decided to lose no time after automobile accident statistics convinced him "alcohol is a problem in Europe — a worse problem than drugs at

Other restrictions have been achieved by what Blanchard terms "official guidlunch." That means beer coolers at an increasing number of Army facilities in Germany are kept locked until after duty

Alcohol counseling programs have been stepped up and 3,200 persons - about 2 percent of the 190,000 Army troops in Europe - have been enrolled in the past year, some of them by self-referral.

Emphasis on curbing alcohol abuse is just one change in the image of the Army here, which five years ago at the end of the Vietnam era had reached a low point in morale and combat readiness and a high point in use of hard drugs and disciplinary problems among long-haired draftees

Part of the comeback is traced to the Army's now putting top priority on its European units in the post-Vietnam era. In an interview, Blanchard gave credit to a large part to the end of the draft and the advent of the all-volunteer military. which "I know has worked because I'm the recipient of the product.

We are getting a soldier who may not have the accomplishments in terms of test scores that the leavening of the draft gave us, but the attitude is such that he'll work and is willing," said Blanchard.

Pfc. Stephen Kondi, 20, of Randolph, Vt., who was participating in annual NA-TO exercises in West Germany, didn't say it quite the same way, but he summed up that attitude in words that reflected the view of many GI's these

"I don't have many complaints," said Kondi. "There's nothing on the outside. I got laid off from four different jobs in six months Officers cite as evidence of the improved disciplinary situation a reduction in courts martial by 16 percent between 1972 and last year, a 40 percent reduction in bad conduct discharges and a decrease in identified drug offenders by more than

The number of GI's who go "over the hill" without leave is down by threefourths. Blanchard said his command was able to close one of its two stockades last fall "because of a lack of customers."

There have been changes in attitude on the part of the Army as well. Military police still make "busts" of soldiers who keep marijuana in the barracks but Blanchard indicated a more tolerant view than in earlier years.

"Yeah, there's lots of marijuana smoking," he said. "We look at it as being about the same proportion as in the rest of their generation. But it's more oriented toward having fun on the weekend now and there doesn't seem to be the same requirement behind it as before." While only 1.7 percent of those suspected are now confirmed as hard drug users, the view of Blanchard and other officers. is that "we're not totally out of the woods

Residents Of Moscow Preparing For Cold Winter

By DOUGLAS STANGLIN MOSCOW (UPI) - Like the worn and battered trees of Red Square, Moscow

has given up without a fight and hunkered down for the long, dark winter. Birch and poplars, once lush and green in the countryside, have turned pale in the sweep of autumn, shrugging off their

The Russian word for bread is "hleb" - and it is used interchangably to mean wheat, indicating the vital link between the harvest and the country's well-being. Russians, pointing to a field of wheat, say

The first edge of winter rolled in on low-slung clouds, dropping temperatures to 5 to 8 degrees centigrade (41-46 Fahrenheit) some 5 or 6 degrees (10 or 12 F) below normal

One Russian crossing the Moscow River along Kutuzovsky Prospekt -the city's Fifth Avenue - reported snowflakes mixed with chilling rain at mid-month.

Shoppers, Russian and foreign alike, combed department stores, snapping up the fuzzy fur "shapkas" - those funny hats that take one's ears safely through the Russian winter.

And foreigners who have slogged through past snows are maneuvering to outwit the next. One group cranked up a betting pool for the first measurable snowfall, registered last year on Oct. 12. Travelers to Helsinki haul back bags of ice scrapers, window heaters, de-icing sprays and inch-deep floor mats to scoop out the snow in their cars before it rots the carpet.

Those with Soviet-made cars are tossing out the standard Polish sparkplugs for West German brands and planning a final run to Leningrad before the wind, ice and snow turn the primitive highways into deathtraps.

For many, it will be the last time they will drive until spring. Many Russian cars go up on blocks for the winter, covered with canvas to protect against snow and falling icicles.

NEW YORK (AP) - The fringe benefits of a college education range from athletic competition to a happier, more creative family life, says a new study, undertaken in part to counter the allegation that too many Americans are over-

The study was directed by economist Howard Bowen and financed by the Sloan Foundation and the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in higher educa-

Bowen, former president of Grinnell College, the University of Iowa, and Claremont University Center, says he conducted the study in part to answer a number of books questioning whether many college students actually belong

The study contends that the $85 billion a year spent on higher education returns about three times that amount in intellectually and socially broadened graduates.

"One of the benefits of attending college is simply the satisfactions that come from the attendance itself - from the learning, the stimulus of interesting people and ideas, the sociability, the pleasant surroundings, and the memorable experiences." the study concludes "College also opens up to many people new interests, new awarenesses, and new understandings that are an important basis of lifetime satisfactions.'

Although the report finds that the college experience will add meaning to the rest of a student's life, it recognizes that the experience can vary from student to student and college to college.

It can be negative for some. "Students learn to smoke, to drink, to use drugs, and some ruin their knees playing football," Bowen said in a recent interview.

Of all the contributions of college, Bowen finds the enhancement of family life the most significant, particularly in fostering an attitude of intellectual currosity in the homes of college graduates. That curiosity and its effects, he feels, contributes markedly to future generations.

For example, the study finds that more time and thought are given to raising children in college-ducated families. The children tend do better in school and in turn are likely to attend college, as will their children, building a solid base for a better-educated America.

for a better-educated America.

"...Recent public discussion of higher education has been one-sided," Bowe writes in the introduction to the study. "It has focused attention on problem and weaknesses and minimized or ignored the strengths and undoubted contra butions to American society.'

Bowen particularly debunks the criticism that too many college graduates will mean too many people for the top jobs in society and too few for the low. He maintains that the job market can always adjust to the people available to fill it, and that if those at the top make a little less money and those at the bottom make a little more, that equalization will benefit society. The study also sees political side effects. Noting that graduates tend to b more liberal politically, the summary adds:

'It is no accident that the campus and its alumni have had an important part in the quest for racial equality, the ending of the Vietnam War, the women's movement, the 18-year-old vote, consumerism and the environmental move-

Small Commuter Airline Seeks CAB Certification

NEW YORK (UPI) - Time was when you could fly to Battle Creek, Mich., on American Airlines. Later North Central Airlines served the Michigan city and today Air Wisconsin provides the only scheduled air service.

The progression from American, now a major trunk carrier that dropped Battle Creek from its system in the 1950s, to North Central, a "regional" carrier, to Air Wisconsin illustrates how airlines outgrow cities, opening the way to the small commuter lines.

Commuters now operate in well over 600 U.S. cities and carry more than 7.5 passengers a year. equivalent to the population of New York City. The average commuter trip is 75 miles (compared with 582 miles for the trunk carriers) and provides the link from small cities to the Free from regulation in setting their routes and fares, commuters in the last 20 years have developed into the third tier of scheduled air service - a key part of the nation's air network.

But commuters do not have certificates of "convenience and necessity" from the Civil Aeronautics Board. That excludes them from federal subsidy and aircraft purchase loan guarantees. It also limits their workings with the cer tificated car riers and gives them little voice in CAB proceedings.

In addition, commuters generally cannot operate aircraft carrying more than 30 passengers. Small, efficient aircraft are fine for many cities and explain much of the commuters' success but are too small, the commuters say, for other markets where several closely scheduled flights are needed to meet demand.

"It's pure and simple as far as we are concerned." says Preston H. Wilbourne. president of Air Wisconsin. "The law of the air transportation system is written for the certificated carriers."

As a result, Air Wisconsin decided to apply for certification. It calculates the move will both profit the airline and save passengers some $600,000 a year because of joint fare agreements among certificated carriers that result in discounts.

But many of the 160 commuter airlines that carry passengers and publish schedules do not want to come under the regulatory thumb of the CAB. They believe it will limit the independence they hold key to their success.

Commuters, however, must meet all the safety and training requirements of the Federal Aviation Administration. They hope Congress, in drafting airline 'deregulation' legislation applying to the bigger carriers, will include provisions for commuters without heaping on restrictions

This would be regulatory reform in reverse." argues the Commuter Airline Association of America, in lobbying against imposed restrictions on commuters and for opening up benefits such as subsidies. Providing subsidies to commuters (not all of which want or need them) is part of a larger debate over the subsidy program itself. Since the 1940s, this program has dispensed about $2 billion to cover airline losses. The subsidies mostly have gone to regional airlines, still technically called "local service" carriers by the CAB although the term today describes commuters.

Over 200 small cities received subsidized air service at a cost of $72 million in fiscal 1976 in the name of furthering commerce, carrying the mail or for "national defense.

In August, however, the General Accounting Office told Congress the CAB subsidy program is misdirected; instead of determining what air service small communities need and providing government aid, the subsidies are aimed at covering whatever losses the carriers have in local service, regardless what the service

"CAB does not limit subsidy only to necessary air service which is inherently unprofitable under efficient manage ment. Instead CAB subsidizes airlines for any number of flights they choose to provide to an eligible community with any type of aircraft," GAO said.

With little oversight, subsidized service can end up competing against unaided profitable flights provided by commuters between the same two cities. The GAO also found five cases where two airlines were subsidized to serve the same route.

Even the CAB is critical of the subside program. In March, the board proposed to Congress a major overhaul. It would include CAB planning of routes and type of service. It would base subsidies on representative costs rather than actual losses to spur efficiency. Later subsidies would be based on actual costs.

Such talk scares some communities which like jet service, however uneconomical, and want continued subsidies to support it.

They may lose some of their fancy service," said Richard J. Sterne, airline analyst for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fennet & Smith. "They may have jet service when they should have turbo-prop and they may have a 10-seat plane when they should have a 30-seater.'

Sterne calls commuters a "great growth industry." He cites steady in creases of about 10 per cent a year in passengers even during the dark days of 1975 for the bigger carriers. And he predicts the level of federal subsidies will decline if they are opened to commuters with their smaller equipment and lower oper ating costs.

However, much of what the commuters want in getting greater government red ognition as part of the nation's air trave and cargo system may be grounded to Congress as it considers the complex reg

Bodyguard Saved Prince

LONDON (UPI) - A bodyguard three years ago saved Prince Charles from a mentally unbalanced fellow officer who was about to smash a chair over the head of the heir to the British throne, Buckingham Palace said Wednesday

Charles, who Tuesday began an 11-day tour of the United States, suffered only slight bruises in the incident.

The attack was disclosed in a Women's Realm magazine article about Charles. A Buckingham Palace spokesman con-

The incident occurred in April, 1974, when Charles was taking a Royal Navy underwater warfare training course in southern England, the article said. The Prince had just gone to bed after dinner when he was awakened by a noise in an adjoining room. When Charles opened the connecting door, a lieutenant rushed in and they fell struggling to the floor. Charles' bodyguard, sleeping nearby, heard the rumpus and dashed to the Prince's aid just as his assailant was about to smash a chair over his head.

Following a secret inquiry, the officer was committed to a service psychiatric hospital, the magazine said. "The incident was apparently unprovoked," the Buckingham Palace spokesman said. "A fellow officer appeared to have had a nervous breakdown and lost control of himself. We don't think there had been any disagreements. Everyone felt sad for the unfortunate officer involved.

Forged Identification Papers Creating Large Credit Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) - If you've wondered why so many stores are reluctant to accept any identification except a driver's license to cash a check, the answer lies in the $1 billion a year or more in losses American banks and stores suffer through forged ID papers.

The driver's license isn't 100 percent reliable, especially in the states that don't require the motorist's photograph on it, but it's better than other ID cards.

That's mainly because the states do exchange information about lost, stolen and known forged drivers' licenses in a fairly rapid way through computer networks.

Nevertheless, according to the trade magazine, Bank Systems & Equipment, losses of banks and other credit grantors stemming from forged ID papers still are mounting because of carlessness on the part of bank offccials and mercantile credit managers.

Author James Natal says losses on check passing are small compared to those on loans, credit cards and demand deposit accounts resulting from use of phony ID papers.

Natal said far too many bank officials just write the losses off and refuse to prosecute because they don't want to admit how naive they have been or they think it takes too much time and money to push

Obtaining fraudulent loans and bank deposits in the name of people who are long dead or never existed has become an extremely lucrative racket that owes its mushrooming growth to the fact the computer can't have sudden flashes of intuitive suspicion as a human clerk can.

As a result, banks, finance companies and merchants are hit for millions of dollars of losses on loans and credit card charges and big overdrafts on deposits by characters whose identification apparently checks out until they suddenly vanish into thin air.

Banking Systems & Equipment said there are a number of companies around the country that boldly advertise in various magazines that they will supply a complete set of phony identification papers, sometimes including a driver's license, for as little as $7.50.

Some of the people who use these phony ID's are amateurs, but the article said most are professionals working through organized rings operated by criminals who, for a fee, will give backup verification services on the phony ID

In an even more sophisticated operation, the rings, operating under various fictitious business names, succeed in feeding false credit information directly into the computers of legitimate credit reporting agencies about various fictitious individuals.

The criminals rush out to the banks and stores and make a killing taking out loans and running up big bills for valuable merchandise that can be fenced. Then they

There are candles in hotel rooms as there are in every home, because poweroutages are frequent. Flaws in the water delivery system affect everyone. There are a mini-bus service and a few cars for rent, but motorbike is the major means of getting around.

Rarotonga is a place where one encounters the local people effortlessly. They all wave as you make your way around the island's 22-mile perimeter. If you stop to take a picture, passersby want to know all about you.

It will not be lost on the self-reliant traveler that Rarotonga service, if slow, is rendered with love - that it is slow not because of indifference, but because the rhythm of life differs from that indicated

The Cook Islands, some still uninhabited, were settled by Henry's and Ratumu's ancestors around the 7th century, during the sixth and last major migration of Polynesian peoples across the Pacific.

Soon after visits by Capt. James Cook between 1773 and 1777, they began to appear on world maps. The capital island of Rarotonga, home of half the Cooks' 19,-500 population, was not found by Europeans until Fletcher Christian's Bounty mutineers came upon it in 1789.

The Cooks were made a British protectorate in 1888 and a colony of New Zealand in 1900.

In 1942, Albert Royle Henry, then 35, went to Auckland as many Cook Islanders do for better-paying jobs. He liked what he learned of 20th century political

He returned to Rarotonga in 1964 and formed the Cook Islands Party, at a time when both New Zealand and the United Nations were encouraging the Cooks to become self-governing. A special election was arranged and Henry became the infant nation's first premier.

Cook Islanders now are citizens of New Zealand through a free-association agreement. They are subjects of the British Cook Islanders are energetic farmers and fishermen who provide for most of their own basic needs. They export oranges, orange juice, bananas, pineapple and copra.

New Zealand buys 85 per cent of the export crop and continues to help finance local government services through a grant which makes up about half the Cook Islands' annual budget of $14 mil-

Sir Albert is described as both a genius and a scamp. His domination of local affairs makes him an easy target for the usual criticisms of one-man goverments: nepotism, favoritism, unfulfilled promises and too-high salaries for cabinet minis-ters ($6-8,000 annually), when the aver-age shopkeeper brings in $20 a week at the 55-cent-an-hour minimum wage. The opposition Democratic Party, led by Dr. Tom Davis, has found fuel lately in the program of Dr. Milan Brych, a Czech who left New Zealand in Decem-ber because of hostility to his use of the cancer drug laetrile. Appointed head of a cancer drug laetrile. Appointed head of a new Cook Islands Research Institute by Henry, he has now opened a clinic in the

But even some of Sir Albert's critics say he has probably been the right man for his time in the Cooks. They think his new goal of greater economic self-sufficiency through controlled tourism, ex-panded crop markets and fisheries development is the right way to go.

He hopes for 200,000 visitors annually within five years, compared with 10,000 now who are mostly vacationing New Zealanders and Australians are longer and the first sputters of snow have fallen on the Minnesota Iron Range, where the United Steelworkers Union has cut off the taconite ore supply for the maws of industry.

An estimated 20,000 workers went on strike Aug. 1 over local issues. The national union, which has a no-strike agreement with the steel industry, authorized the walkout, although it was reported reluctant to do so.

There are more than 1,500 local issues ranging from free car washes and plant saunas to incentive pay. Steel mill workers in the East make from 50 to 65 cents an hour more than the miners under the incentive plan.

Many leaders of union locals consider this the key issue. It's clear industry feels the same.

William Miller, chief negotiator for U.S. Steel, said the incentive pay issue was a national issue, that the steel companies would never give in on it.

This is a showdown fight," said one union local leader.

All across the Iron Range, which furnishes more than 50 per cent of the raw material for American's steel industry, people are "making do," skipping the luxuries of going out to eat, bowling, and beauty parlors.

Layoffs are mounting in ancillary enterprises and, said Mary Richards, wife of a retired steelworker in Eveleth, "Nobody's buying for Christmas.'

Gov. Rudy Perpich, who went to Washington to rally support to end the strike, said the economic pinch was felt across the northern Minnesota area.

"The people are being forced to sell such things as cabins and canoes," Perpich said. "The only thing they're short of up there is 'for sale' signs

Losses in wages and profits have run into the millions. The state estimates it will lose $45 million in taxes if the strike goes on until the end of the year. Lake Superior shipping was off 20 per cent in August

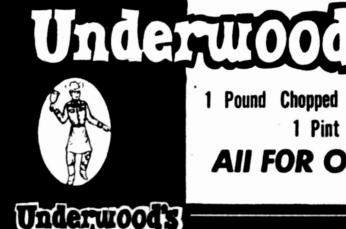

To Harold Engelhart, a member of the negotiating committee from Local 4757 at Babbitt, the big issue is not money but the health and safety issues.

Complicating the strike picture are steel plant shutdowns because of competition from foreign imports and a resulting stockpile of ore, plus the internal politics of the union.

The moderate leadership of the national union is said to be lukewarm in its support of the strike. Older union members also find themselves pitted against vounger mavericks who voted for the rebel faction in the last national union el-

Des Moines Attempting To Attract Conventions By PAMELA J. HUEY

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) - Centrally located between two oceans, Iowa's capital city of 210,000 is a "surprising place with an easy grace where you can have the town and the country, too.

So go the song lyrics in a year-long, $150,000 chamber of commerce campaign to improve the city's image and attract newcomers and conventions through radio commercials, bumper stickers, Frisbees, pamphlets, luggage tags and direct

'The reaction has been better than fan-"astic." said Tim Colwell, chamber publrelations director. "We are surprised."

Last week, the chamber completed a campaign segment which focused radio spots in seven major markets, including Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee, St Louis, Kansas City and Washington, D.C. Colwell said Des Moines even received unexpected publicity in the form of unsolicited comments from disc jockeys who played the spots. In Kansas City, morning man Mike Murphy, a native of Ottumwa, Iowa, used the spot to lead into his farm report by saying, "it's 6:21 in Des Moines and the chickens are just about to get up there along with the cows, sheep and the ewes." Sound effects of chickens and cows played in the background. Colwell said at first the chamber was concerned about the ribbing, but concluded the fun made of the city helped to strengthen the campaign's effectiveness.

The radio campaign consisted of five ads - all of which include portions of a Des Moines theme song written and recorded especially for the promotion and divided into two parts. The first three ads told in serial fashion of a man's inept attempts to attract people to Iowa's capital city.

His only success was to attract a convention - Sunday Surfers of America. Although he turned it down because the nearest ocean is 1.000 miles away, as the commercial fades. Des Moines' neversay-die salesman said ". .. although we are centrally located between two

A negative response to the campaign occurred in Cleveland where some businessmen called stations to complain the ads might take away convention busi-

So far, Colwell said the chamber has received about 100 inquiries from persons who heard the spots and wanted to know more about the city. He said one listener interviewed in Chicago said he thought Des Moines was in Idaho.

A Des Moines resident, however, told Colwell a cab driver at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport reported he had heard good things about the city from WGN morning personality Wally Phillips.

Migrant Tomato Pickers Spend Long Hours

ELMORE, Ohio (UPI) - Fingers cramp and knees ache. That's good picking. Bend wrong or throw out a hip when hoisting 33 pounds of tomatoes on a truck and the inexperienced back is set afire. But each hamper is worth 30 cents.

Migrant workers in the tomato fields of northwestern Ohio, the Midwest's largest employer of migrants, are there for the

As long as the tomatoes last, they are there 12 hours a day, six days a week.

Elizabeth Lopez, 17, babysits a year-old nephew while her sister and brother-inlaw pick in John J. Luckey's 40-acre tomato field. She says she is still asleep when the alarm goes off at 6 or earlier.

"The hotter it is, the earlier they get started," said Luckey, who has never had to set time limits on his migrants.

They don't return until 5, except for some of the women, like Elizabeth's sister Connie, who cook and carry back lunch.

Connie, Joe and Luckey's 16 other workers, all Lopez relatives from around Brownsville, Tex., drive in camper trucks to fields a half mile away.

They wear jeans and T-shirts under long-sleeved shirts, sneakers and straw hats tied with bandannas or baseball caps. One picker lashes tough rubber pads to his kneecaps. They all wear vellow rubber gloves.

It doesn't keep the dirt from caking in the creases of Adam Lopez' neck or wearing away Minda Lopez' nails. The trucks kick up itchy swirls of dust, but, said Minda, "the sun, that's definitely the

"I've watched these guvs go down a row for an hour and a half," said an Ohio Bureau of Employment Services worker. "and they don't straighten up. If I tried that they'd have to send someone in with a jack to straighten me out."

Minda fills a hamper every five minutes. That's 12 baskets or about $3.60 an

"Some migrants make $400 a week," said Ezequiel Gonzalez, OBES rural manpower representative. But such weeks* come only late in the season when the crop is abundant. They may not come at all in case of rain, cutworms, labor surplus or market slumps.

Federal statistics say the average migrant makes $3,000 and has four kids.

After five, and on Sundays, migrant life centers on the camps. Luckey's is a lowslung, corrugated metal barracks. The floors are cement, a hazard to the handful of toddlers that race through the units giggling, hauling their shepherd puppy, Star, by a rope

By LEE BYRD WASHINGTON (AP) — In glasses raised warmly to an old friend, in tributes spoken and unspoken, the life and times of Hubert H. Humphrey will be celebrated in style tonight by a few of his friends.

About three thousand of them.

They will gather for "An Evening in Honor of Hubert H. Humphrey," an affair Humphrey is too ill to attend. He has not returned to Washington since surgeons discovered inoperable pelvic cancer Aug. 18.

And they will seek to remember Humphrey's admonition to "not make anything maudlin of this ... It should be an evening of fun, a happy time for ever-

"He told us not to make this a sad affair," said longtime friend Joe Dillon, the former mayor of St. Paul, Minn., who is now a Washington attorney.

"And that's why we're going to have dancing and dinner and cocktails and entertainers and all the rest. But you know and I know that it will be very sad, for all of us ... how could anybody help it?"

Until a few days ago, Humphrey planned to attend, even if he had to go right back to Minnesota for the treatments he has been undergoing for the cancer. But Dillon said Humphrey's "just

The guest list includes Cabinet members past and present, Chief Justice Warren Burger and a long line of congressional colleagues from both sides of the aisle. President Carter, who calls Humphrey 'the greatest living Democrat," may also stop by to join tonight's tribute.

Conservative Republican Bob Dole and George McGovern, the liberal Democrat who dashed Humphrey's last real run at the presidency, both will be there.

While there will be glowing words from Mondale and actors Lorne Greene and Vincent Price — it may be left to political satirist Mark Russell, who has made Humphrey the butt of a thousand one-liners, to remind the assembled that the senator possesses, to this day, the most unsinkable good cheer in govern-

Avalanche-Journal Staff A jury here Wednesday acquitted a man accused of pointing a pistol at a local Found innocent of the aggravated assault charge was Harold Dane Wilson, 39, of 2626 E. Cornell St.

The jury in Judge Thomas L. Clinton's 99th Dist. Court deliberated approximately five hours before finding Wilson

Prosecutors felt that the case hinged on whether the jury believed the testiomy of police officers or of Wilson's self-described common-law wife, Joyce John-But defense attorney Cleddie Edwards also argued that, even if police testimony concerning Wilson's alleged actions with the pistol were true, his client still had not threatened anyone. Asst. Dist. Atty. Jim Darnell claimed

Mrs. Johnson's testimony comprised the most incredible story I've ever heard in my life" and asked jurors to empathize with police officers who risk their lives in the line of duty.

"The man walks up to a door and finds a gun stuck in his chest. He had a very sinking feeling," Darnell said.

"Ask yourselves this: why would a police officer get up here and testify to that if it were not true'

Officers Pat Hastings and Max Wilkinson testified they were responding to a call of shots being fired in the area of 2626 E. Cornell St. on May 14 of this year. Hastings testified he and Wilkinson walked up to the front door and were preparing to knock. "I saw the defendant opening the door with his right hand and he was holding a pistol with his left hand. He was less than two feet away," Hastings said. Darnell asked where the weapon was pointing. "At my chest," Hastings said. He said the barrell of the .32-caliber pistol was six to nine inches away from him "I had a sinking feeling." Hastings said, when Darnell asked what went through his mind. "I felt like I was about to get

The officer said he reached for the gun and grabbed the cylinder with his right hand to prevent it from turning. He said he noticed the weapon was not cocked. Hastings said he forced the pistol up in the air, using leverage to try to wrest it from Wilson's hand. He said he succeeded after about 15 seconds.

Darnell asked if he had said anything. "I said 'Give me the gun, man," Hastings said. He said Wilson did not answer.

According to Hastings, there was one live round in the cylinder of the gun. Hastings and Wilkinson said they were invited into the residence by Mrs. Johnson, who was, according to them, hysterical and crying. The officers indicated that Mrs. Johnson told them she wanted Wilson out of the house because he had been shooting at her children.

Hastings said Mrs. Johnson told them she was not married to Wilson, and produced rent receipts in her name.

The officer said he grabbed Wilson's arm, telling him he had to leave, and that Wilson suddenly became aggres-

He said he and Wilkinson grappled with Wilson but were unable to handcuff him. They were hampered, he said, when Mrs. Johnson suddenly joined the fray, trying to pull Wilson away from them.

According to the prosecution account, Wilson was finally subdued when backup units arrived.

Mrs. Johnson's testimony contradicted that of the police officers on every vital

She said that the police kicked in the front door, came in, and that one of them hit Wilson, knocking him to the floor. She said Wilson had not answered the door while holding a pistol, and that he did not have a pistol on him during the entire time police were there.

The witness said she did not remember officers asking if she were married to Wilson and said she did not show Hastings or Wilkinson any rent receipts.

She said officers handcuffed Wilson and then began torturing him by pulling on certain portions of his anatomy. That was when she began fighting, she said, by

"A little blond cop put a shotgun up to my head and said if I didn't shut up he would blow my brains out.

"He called me a very bad name," Mrs. Johnson said.

On cross-examination, Mrs. Johnson said she had called for police several times in the past because of domestic dis-

She said Wilson had been hit hard enough to leave a facial bruise. Darnell introduced a mug shot of Wilson taken at

Queen Buys Farm Tract

LONDON (AP) - Queen Elizabeth II plans to buy 600 acres of farmland to almost double the western England estate she presented to her daughter, Princess Anne, Buckingham Palace said Tuesday.

The Palace confirmed a news report about the negotiations but would not reveal the price of the land.

The Daily Mirror newspaper put the cost of the extra land at $437,500.

The land adjoins the 730-acre Gatcombe Park estate in Gloucestershire, for which the Queen reportedly paid $875,000 as a gift to Anne and her husband, Army Captain Mark Phillips.

The Palace spokesman said the farmland came on the market "and was considered a sensible investment for the future." He said it would continue to be

Of Putting Debate On TV

The question in the Senate takes the form of a resolution proposing that floor debate on the Panama Canal treaty next year be televised live, either by the com-

Byrd argued before the Senate Rules Committee last week that the canal treaty, "a matter of major national and international interest." would be a "fitting occasion" to establish such a historic precedent

He said TV coverage of floor debate would have to be strictly controlled to avoid intrusion on Senate decorum. But he noted that the problem had been solved at the United Nations, and that Senate committee hearings have been

One opponent of televising the Senate is Sen. Mark Hatfield. R-Ore

"Look at the polls." says Hatfield. "We already are listed as low in the public's esteem. We can expect distortion by the camera, rather than an accurate picture. Instead of understanding, we are going to create more disillusionment among the people.

But Sen. James Allen. D-Ala., counters. "It might not improve the Senate's image, but if not, that is the Senate's fault, not the fault of TV coverage.

CINCINNATI (AP) - University of ical tone in the human voice range and Cincinnati researchers say they have found a new way for doctors to detect a cerebral aneurysm before the ballooning spot in the artery ruptures.

Dr. Charles P. Olinger said researchers have developed a stethoscope-computer system which they say detects characteristic tones emitted by blood flow swirling abnormally through the weakened vessel. The sounds are detected from the closed eyelid and recorded on magnetic tape.

Olinger said he began his research seva years ago. He said that during open surgery, an aneurysm sounds with a musthat he reasoned it should be possible to detect it.

The system has been developed to the point where the computer can detect and report on the tones of disturbance of blood flowing through an affected artery, he said.

"If the family physician or emergency room staff could recognize the warning symptoms and easily detect probable presence of an aneurysm, surgeons could then see the patient...while he is in a condition ideally suited for surgery." Olinger

Steel Theories Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) - Most theories explaining the Japanese steel industry's competitive edge over its United States counterpart are incorrect, a federal official says.

This goes for assumptions about wages, government subsidies, and the shape of the steel plants, Barry Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said this week.

He testified before the House Banking subcommittee on economic stabilization.

"While layoffs in steel have been a recurrent event over the years, normally they have been temporary," said Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., committee chairman.

"Now for the first time, we are facing the problem of permanent loss of jobs in some communities as existing steel mills are closed down or cut back, with no

The council, in a report two weeks ago, said restricting imports might save some jobs but would send inflation higher generally and ultimately hurt the economy.

The council said there are no easy answers to the industry's dilemma but that it should focus on cutting costs, not keeping out foreign competition.

Bosworth gave this item-by-item accounting of mistaken theories about the United States and Japanese steel industries.

- Technology: most people assume U.S. plants rely too much on traditional open hearth steel making methods to compete with the huge Japanese plants using the oxygen method. Unlike Japan, Bosworth said, the United States has an abundance of scrap metal which makes the open hearth method the most efficient for this country

ers have inflated salaries. Bosworth said Japanese wages have gone up faster than those of U.S. steelworkers but Japanese productivity has gone up faster, also. The comparative labor costs end up about the

-Environmental protections: the myth is that the Congress and the government have imposed so many costly cleanair requirements that the U.S. industry cannot compete with the Japanese, who have relatively few such requirements. Bosworth said the emphasis on clean-air safeguards is about the same in both countries.

Government subsidies: people assume that the Japanese government heavily subsidizes the steel industry, giving it a competitive edge over the privately owned U.S. industry.

whelming votes, the Senate and House have passed bills to allow millions of Americans who now must retire at 65 to work until 70 if they so desire.

Negotiators now will try to reconcile differences between the two bills. It appeared possible a compromise could be reached and signed into law by the end of

An estimated one-third to one-half of American workers are governed by some mandatory retirement age, most commonly 65.

A 1967 law already forbids employers from discriminating on the basis of age against persons 40 through 64. Both bills would extend this protection to a person's 70th birthday.

In general, this would mean an employe could work until 70 if he wanted But he still would have the option of retiring earlier. Nothing in the bills would prevent an employer from keeping a worker on his payroll beyond age 70.

The Senate version - passed 88 to 7 Wednesday - would not apply to "highly compensated management employes" in business (defined as those with retirement pensions of more than $20,000 a year, not counting Social Security) - or to tenured university professors. Their employers still could require them to step down at 65

The House version — passed 359 to 4 in September - would treat businessmen and professors the same as everyone else. Business groups and university administrators lobbied for the Senate exceptions, arguing that if more people work longer there will be fewer jobs and promotion opportunities for younger employes, including women and members of minority groups

However, the American Association of University Professors and the National Organization for Women lobbied for the increased age limit. NOW said women have more need than men to work into old age because they live longer, work for lower wages and retire on lower pen-

The Senate bill would take effect Jan. 1, 1979, the House version, six months after enactment Both allow more time for compliance in the case of collectively bargained retirement programs.

The House would remove entirely the mandatory retirement age of 70 applying to most federal workers, the Senate would not change it dams have design flaws that, in heavy flooding, could cause a repeat of the Teton Dam disaster which killed 11 persons last year, a government study shows.

The Bureau of Reclamation study noted that such heavy flooding is unlikely, but could not be ruled out.

The study also noted that the safety of another eight dams is threatened by see-

The report came to light on the same day Reclamation Commissioner R. Keith Higginson announced the bureau is instituting new procedures to insure dam

"We will identify a principal designer and a responsible geologist for each dam ... and establish responsibility for dam safety with specific individual and organizational units," Higginson said.

At the same time, the National Research Council issued a report calling for the establishment of an independent

'Responsibilities are so diffused ... that satisfactory execution is dependent upon informal cooperation and communication," the council said.

The Teton Dam collapsed June 5, 1976, killing 11 persons and causing property damage estimated at $11 billion

The dam burst as it was being filled, sending a wall of water across Idaho farmiands. A government study blamed poor site selection and design error for the disaster. The 17 dams "require modification to prevent their failure should the currently estimated maximum probable flood occur," the Bureau of Reclamation report

The dams were built prior to the 1950s and were designed to stop floodwater. But the safety factors used to estimate the "maximum probable flood" which a dam should be capable of withstanding are no longer considered acceptable. the report noted.

The eight dams with seepage problems might need remedial measures to insure their integrity, the report added.

Bureau spokesmen said efforts are underway to strengthen some dams, and studies are being conducted at others to determine what must be done to remove defficiencies.

In addition, the Bureau of Reclamation is preparing legislation requesting additional funds to repair the dams, a spokesman said.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is acting to increase veterans' education benefits, but details must be worked out by a House-Senate conference com

The Senate voted 91 to 0 Wednesday to increase the benefits by 6.6 per cent and start a program to help veterans pay rising tuition costs.

While the House also approved a 6.6 per cent boost it did not vote for the tuition help, so the conference committee must resolve the differences.

The Senate also approved by voice vote the granting of veterans benefits to some 850 civilian members of the Womens Army Service Pilots. The women ferried planes during World War II and have been seeking recognition since the war.

The non-controversial cost-of-living increase would raise the monthly be for an unmarried veteran from $292 to $311, with one dependent from $347 to $370 and with two dependents from $306 to $422

To help with the tuition problems, the Senate bill provides that veterans may accelerate their government payments. A veteran is normally entitled to 45 months and it usually takes 36 months to complete four years of college, so he could use payments from the extra nine months for the tuition.

At the Children's Palace we visited, 2,-000 youngsters between the ages of 7 and 16 attend it every day between 3:00 and 5:30 p.m. The children were unbelievably neat and clean. In fact, they were almost too clean - but children are children the world over and, being the mother of four daughters, it was a great relief to finally spot one little girl who had very dirty knees. It made me feel good.

Each of us was assigned a child who was our guide and they were extremely polite and well trained. Throughout the building, we found youngsters being taught how to vut together TV sets, practicing table tennis, doing embroidery and being told over and over to "study, keep fit and work hard" because that is good for the Party and good for the coun-

PBB Losses

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) - The accidental mixing of between 500 and 1,000 pounds of the toxic chemical PBB with dairy feed four years ago could easily become a $10 million mistake.

And there are those who insist the cost of Michigan's livestock contamination tragedy could go much higher - perhaps $200 million. Others claimed the economic impact of the 1973 mishap is too full of unknowns and imponderables to permit a full assessment.

No price tag has been set on total agricultural losses and medical bills for farmers, or the impact of market scares and consumer fears about the safety of farm

The known dimensions of the problem, however, moved one state senator who compared the volume of the contaminant with dollar consequences to remark: "If this state continues for a million years, never will so many have paid so much for so little."

Known or projected dollar costs include $38 million in damages already paid to farmers by Michigan Farm Bureau Services, which distributed the tainted feed, and the Michigan Chemical Co. which produced PBB - polybrominated biphenyl - under the trade name

Firemaster It also takes into account $40 million provided under a new state law to keep contaminated milk and meat from dairy animals off the market. That tab will be picked up by Michigan taxpayers and state attorneys are mum about prospects of recovering any portion in court. Falmouth dairy farmer Roy Tacoma's highly publicized $1 million lawsuit seeking to recover livestock damages is only one of nearly 100 similar actions from farmers whose herds were contaminated with smaller amounts of PBB. Sources close to the litigation put the approximate value at $25 million.

In addition, some officials consider that, since health studies have tentatively linked some health disorders with PBB among farmers who consumed large amounts of the chemical, there is potential for another $50 million in perCould Run Into Millions

According to Michigan Agriculture Director B. Dale Ball, the only farm market impact that is "fairly easy to document" is the current Canadian ban on Michigan-fed beef - which, unlike dairy animals, were never directly contaminated by PBB.

In 1976, Canada imported 57,000 head of fat cattle from Michigan, compared with some 20,000 the year before - a statistic Ball calls "remarkable progress."

Although state officials said their fears were unjustified, Canadians halted imports in January, cutting off a market potential of $45 million.

By United Press International

When the average person thinks of ham radio, he thinks about someone playing with black boxes connected to aluminum antennas beaming signals off the ionosphere to other hams with similar equip-

among the world's hams. The relay system is called OSCAR (Orbiting Satellites Carrying Amateur Radio) and is designed and built by hams from several nations around the world.

The first OSCAR was rocketed into orbit in 1961, four years after Sputnik 1, and was the world's first nongovernmental satellite. OSCAR 1 was designed and built by a group of volunteer hams from California at a cost of $63.

The two most recent OSCAR satellites are still circling the earth and provide two-way communication between amateur radio stations up to 5,000 miles apart.

According to the Amateur Radio Relay League in Newington, Conn., when an OSCAR is planned arrangements are made with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to schedule a launch alongside another satellite. OS-CAR 7, for example, was launched "piggyback" with a weather satellite.

Once launched and placed into orbit, OSCAR satellites relay radio signals sent to them from ground stations, providing worldwide communication for amateur radio operators. The two most recent satellites can receive and transmit several different types of communication: voice. Morse code and slow-scan amateur television, among others.

A device called a transponder makes two-way communication possible. OS-CAR 6 contains one transponder which converts signals sent to it on the amateur 2-meter band to the 10-meter band.

Patterns/Needlework New Laws Cost Jobs, Money

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — In its noble quest for perfection in medical care, environment, technology and even equality - is America insuring its future mediocrity? The vote to date, of course, is that, no, it isn't. But the possibility is often suggested, and sometimes angrily, especially by business executives. At issue aren't the goals, they say, but the way in which we seek them.

Edgar B. Speer, U.S. Steel Corp. chairman, maintains the company is in 100 per cent agreement with environmental goals. In the same breath he says the administration of Environmental laws is costing many thousands of jobs.

Alan Miller, president of American Medicorp, Inc., which operates 54 private hospitals, argues that the Carter administration effort to limit hospitals to a 9 per cent increase in insurance reimbursements will hurt the most efficient institu-

Mansion Needs Many Repairs

LENOX, Mass. (UPI) - Teddy Roosevelt and Henry James once walked the halls of novelist Edith Wharton's sprawling mansion, the Mount.

But now the 75-year-old, three-story house has been damaged by bursting water pipes and its owner says it must be sold to be preserved.

We can't afford to make the repairs, but we feel some obligation to keep it from deteriorating. The longer it goes without being repaired, the more it will cost," Douglas Lambrose, general manager of the resort which owns the 24-room mansion, said this week. The Mount was built in 1902 and includes interior gardens, terraces and a grass tennis court. Miss Wharton based her novel. Ethan Frome, on the Lenox

Lambrose said eight prospective buyers have looked at the Mount, but a sale is not imminent.

The mansion is being offered either with 15 acres for $200,000 or with 55 acres for $250,000, he said.

The efficient ones, he points out, already have striven to hold down costs. The inefficient ones, in contrast, have lots of fat to cut away before reaching the

Speer argues that it is economic suicide for steel companies to spend on older plants to meet clean air and water requirements. Not, he says, when those plants are rapidly becoming obsolete technologically. If the same money were invested in new facilities, he said, the company would be able to triple the environmental effectiveness of its dollars. And the country, not just incidentally, would have more jobs and a more competitive indus-There is no way we can justify making and death. But what about some of the other requirements such as that faced a year ago by Chrysler Corp., resulting in a $91 million government suit.

"What would be the consequence if we required all automobile owners to bring their existing vehicles up to current envi-ronmental standards? asked an associate. The implication was that millions would howl in one chorus.

Chrysler said it had inadvertently equipped 1985 Plymouths and Dodges with an emission control gadget that functioned equally as well as the item listed on a control paper it filed with the government. The error was a paper one. No matter, the government sued for $10,000 a car, arguing that the item, worth perhaps $10 installed, differed slightly from the description on file in Washington. A year later a judge threw out the case. "The bad publicity, the lost car sales, the damaged reputation . . . they probably cost us millions," said Sidney Terry, vice

The fact is that American industry, which manufactured the near perfect lu-nar vehicles, most likely can produce the almost perfect automobile, but at what cost to the buyer? Returning to medical care: Alex McMahon , head of the American Hospital Association, maintains that Americans must make life or death decisions.

We can't have everything, he suggested.
We can't afford it; we won't pay for it.
What is the decision? We're going to have to decide, he said, who should live and who should die, whether the terminally ill should be made ally ill should be maintained by the most expensive facilities or whether efforts should be directed at those who have a

Washington, shares a light moment with Monford M. Gregory,

NEW YORK (AP) - Patrick Meyers is showing that people with disturbed minds aren't all in cities in "Feedlot." which opened Thursday night at the off-Broadway Circle Repertory Company Theater Unfortunately, Meyers has muddled his message while his play's appeal to prurient interests comes through

Early in the second act, we suspected that soft-core pornography was all that Meyers was purveying and at the end of the first act we were bored enough not to care how the plot turned out. However, by the end of the play we were giving Meyers credit for an honest try at saying

The statement he apparently wants to make is that people should be more un-derstanding of each other. He uses a very unusual setting, some cliche characters and a rape to get that across.

The setting is a tower, full of computerized boards controlling the flow of grain rom silos, for a gigantic cattle feedlot in

The most disturbed character is Gene a college-age homosexual who likes to do ROBBIN'S nodern dance. In his past is having his car forced off the road by a car full of drunks, who then captured, raped and Eitled his sister.

In the play. Gene pulls a gun on and håndcuffs Billy Fred, a macho coworker. Billy Fred, who killed 17 people while a Marine in Vietnam, currently is drinking beavily and mean because his wife left birn. Gene rapes Billy Fred in the dark their clothes are off when the lights go

After that, both apologize, both really talk to each other instead of taunting on one side and condescending on the other. Mark J. Soper and Joseph Ragno play Gene and Billy Fred. However, in the earliest scene, by four workers, before the plot takes off, the other two actors, Jeff Daniels and James Ray Weeks, seemed to be the best.

Mevers, the 30-year-old writer, is from Phoenix. "Feedlot" is his first play, except for a children's play for television. In the future he needs to strive for more focic. less awkwardness in conversation and endings that work dramatically. Feedlot" ends with a coworker repeat-De Gene's trauma, only this time it's a that is killed.

Actress' Role In 'Soap' Shocks Family

Comic Holds Unique

Interviews On Radio

NEW YORK (AP) - The Dance Umbrella, which will shelter 12 dance comparties during five weeks this fall, started on this week with a masterpiece by Pearl Lang and Dance Company

Small and struggling modern dance nies which couldn't afford a theaike off-Broadway's renamed Entermedia Theater are helped to play there briefly by the Technical Assistance Group, which operates the Dance Umcella. The theater was previously named the den, because the nude show "Oh! Calatta!" opened in it.

Opening night saw Miss Lang's threect dance, "The Possessed," based on the Yiddish play, "The Dybbuk." When the dance was new, in 1975, critics praised it highly and audiences bought out theaters. It is a powerful, powerful work; watching it, a viewer can feel physical jolts, as though getting small electric

Television Film Planned On Hill-Robinson Case

HOUSTON (UPI) - "Blood and Money" will be the first television film done on a movie shooting schedule, and the producer expects it to attract major stars. 'That's how I was able to get William Friedkin (director of "The French Connection" and "The Exorcist")," said producer David Merrick.

'The fact that CBS is in ratings trouble and could use a major event like this is very helpful to me," he said. "They're gambling. This could be the breakthrough movie for television in terms of budget and artistic freedom. It might really raise the standards, and everybody in the industry is rooting for it.

Merrick this week said he will make his 10-hour television movie of "Blood and Money" regardless of the outcome of the current $7.6 million wrongful death suit against one of the principal characters, oilman Ash Robinson.

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) - A small women's college and a newspaper feature service have celebrated joint birthdays on the occasion of a third coincidental anniversary - the birthday of their founder, newspaper pioneer Ellen Browning Scripps.

"The coincidence of the anniversaries of two institutions in which Miss Scripps played key roles was almost too good to be true from a public relations point of view," said Newspaper Enterprise Association President Robert Metz at the three-way ceremony. One of America's first female college graduates, Miss Scripps was perhaps the earliest newspaper columnist. She was born in London on Oct. 18, 1836, and died at La Jolla, Calif., in 1932 at age 96.

Metz had come to the tree-lined camous 26 miles east of Los Angeles to celebrate Founder's Day at Scripps College. which Miss Scripps started 50 years ago. NEA, now headquartered in New York. was formed 75 years ago to distribute features Miss Scripps wrote for the Detroit Evening News

Although the occasion was a festive one as both celebrators looked back over many years of growth and success, each viewed the future with serious concern over rising competition from other medi-

As for editors, Metz said, "I am certain that very few of them have considered seriously that the day of the newspaper's constant expansion into more and more new households may already have pas-

"... For one thing," continued Metz, "we are going to have to accept a redefinition of what is news. We are going to have to cease publishing only the extraordinary events, which are usually disastrous, and concern ourselves more often with the positive and negative processes of our society." Television, radio and an overwhelming barrage of facts have caused "an unfortunate tendency to turn it all off, which is why, I suspect, I see almost as many best selling fiction paperbacks being read on my morning subway ride as I do copies of the (New York) Times and The (New York) Daily News.

Steinbrenner Says NY New Face Of Baseball

Among the pile of letters on George Steinbrenner's desk, critical and congratulatory, was one from a friend, quoting the poet Burton Braley:

"Back of the job, the dreamer, 'Making the dream come true.

"I like that," said the vigorous, controversial Tampa, Fla., ship builder, relishing the baseball success of his New York Yankees. When Reggie Jackson unleashed a record three straight home runs to power the Yankees to a clinching World Series victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers, Steinbrenner's dream came true.

"We had the horses," he said proudly, shedding criticism that the Yankees were a collection of gold dust superstars plucked from the exclusive shelf of the free-agent salon.

Jackson, who spearheaded the September pennant drive and became the Most Valuable Player of the World Series, cost a cool $2.9 million. Pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter wore from the Cincinnati Reds for $2 million.

"Let's face it." Steinbrenner said, "this is the new face of baseball. With the free-agent rulings, the only way to remain competitive is to be active on the open market. Our case is different than it was with Tom Yawkey and the Boston Red Sox years ago.

"The game has changed. The traditionalists in baseball will have to accept it. When I bought the Yankees my ambition was to rebuild the old Yankee dynasty. I wouldn't have been fair to the team or to our fans if I hadn't done everything possible, whatever the cost, to improve the club.

"That is my intention." Steinbrenner was roundly criticized when he personally signed Jackson and inserted him in a team that had been good enough to win the American League pennant the year before. Manager Billy Martin, as well as such team stalwarts as Thurman Munson and Craig Nettles, resented it. The chemistry of the Yankees definitely changed. The 1977 season was a year of turmoil - and victory.

Jackson's faculty for delivery in the clutch vindicated the owner's judgment.

It was Steinbrenner who, when personal jealousies and outsized egos threatened to destroy the great Yankee machine in midseason, kept urging that Jackson bat cleanup, Lou Piniella play steady left field instead of being platooned, and pitchers Mike Torrez and Ed Figueroa be put into the rotation.

Billy is the manager, I don't demand," Steinbrenner insisted. "Sometimes I do make suggestions."

A superb field general but a proud and obstinate man, Martin perhaps understandably resisted the front-office interference. The adversary relationship between the ambitious owner and volatile manager contributed much to the Yankees' midsummer madness

It was in early August, with the team in third place behind

Boston and Baltimore and going nowhere fast, that Maryin finally came around to making the moves his employer sought. By Aug. 23, the Yankees were in first place and sail-

CINCINNATI (AP) - Memo to Reggie Jackson: World Series fame and im mortality is fine, but don't forget your fellow man.

The advice comes from Ron Pritchard, a National Football League linebacker who roomed with Jackson at Arizona State. The New York Yankees star was best man at Pritchard's wedding.

"I'm worried about Reggie. Hitting those three home runs might have been the worst thing for him," Pritchard said Wednesday

"I'm speaking from my heart for a friend. If he hadn't done so well in the Series, the season might have been a humbling experience for him, something he could have learned from," said Pritchard.

Instead, Pritchard fears his longtime friend may place vanity ahead of values. Jackson won Most Valuable Player

Long Seasons Here To Stay

FIRST, THERE WAS a mad dash home Tuesday night to catch the beginning of the sixth-mercifully, the last-game of the World Series. Later, one turned to idly flipping the television's channel selector after the Yankees had obviously wrapped matters up. That led to a shock of sorts.

Three turns of the dial produced images of men scampering about a hardwood floor casting a round object at two things that looked like small hula hoops with streamers dangling from them. Hoping against hope, the viewer stared at the set until his worst fears were confirmed by a message flashed upon the screen— Knicks 59, Kings 52.

Pro basketball already? On the same night the World Series ended? What happened? Did they just decide to forget about football? Hardly, football has been with us for a good while and will be for a good while longer. But pro basketball,

Yes, indeed. There was Kansas City's Scott Wedman driving to the baseline and sinking a 15-footer. New York's Spencer Haywood stuffing one and the Knicks' Earl Monroe showing flashes of his wizardry to chants of "Spin, Pearl,

Pro basketball already? Yes, indeed,

AGAIN WE HEAR the cry "The seasons are too long." And they are. The popularity of sports in this country is indicated by the great numbers of fans that attend games and the many that watch the numerous telecasts of sporting events. But the pro seasons are too drawn out. Actually, there are no seasons anymore. Baseball teams begin oringing players to "spring" camps in February, play through the middle of October and then conducts winter leagues. Pro football opens its training camps in June and continues play through the middle of January

Pro hockey and basketball start training in September and finish in May or June. The tennis and golf circuits last almost the entire year. Soccer's season is not terribly long now, but it probably will lengthen as its popularity grows.

It isn't unusual to have three "major" sports "in season" simultaneously

Earlier this week, there were four-baseball, basketball, hockey and football. A closer examination of the seasons' lengths is staggering. EACH OF THE 26 major-league baseball teams begins in early April and plays 162 games, which means that there are 2106 regular-season contests played The league playoffs are best-of-five series, which adds six to ten games. The World Series, of course, is a best-of-seven affair. National Football League clubs (26 of them) play 14 regular-season games, which eliminates the playoff field to six division winners and a wild-card team from each of the two conferences. This allows for four divisional playoffs, two conference championship games and the Super Bowl. That's 189 games Basketball is next. The 22 NBA teams play 82 games apiece in the regular season, which means there are 902 contests played. The first-round of the playoffs is comprised of best-of-three series, while the quarter-final, semifinal and championship series are best-of-seven sets. That means it is possible to have 61 Last season, the NBA began playing for keeps Oct. 21, 1976. The sixth and deciding game of the championship series between Portland and Philadelphia was played June 6, 1977. That's seven months and 16 days. The regular season lasted five and a half months, but the playoffs alone consumed nearly two months

HOCKEY, TOO, IS a culprit. The NHLers began a week ago and have an 80game regular-season schedule and a playoff system nearly as long and draining

Also keep in mind that this discussion has not mentioned exhibition games, which are played in every sport and further lengthen the season.

But don't think that matters will soon, if ever, make a 180-degree turn. More games mean more fans and more money, which is needed to pay high salaries and other operating costs incurred by teams nowadays. And, even if high salaries and inflation didn't exist, owners would probably still be greedy enough to schedule as many games as possible.

ABC's Series Coverage Mirror Of U.S. Society

NEW YORK (AP) — The television coverage of the World Series would give a newcomer to the United States not only an education in baseball, but a good picture of some of the major forces prevalent in the nation. ABC-TV succeeded in putting into focus sport as a mirror of society in America. An immigrant armed with a TV set could have come up with these conclusions:

Your inner cities are in chaos. In them, law and order have broken down. Your pollution problems are of monstrous proportions. Yet your scientists are able to work medical miracles. Your new president is thriving on personal and family charisma. Your country is so affluent that your athletes are paid millions of dollars but many of them haven't the maturity to handle their status.

Your people are so concerned with sport that 65 million of them watch a baseball game and become so involved that they have personal love or hate relationships not only with the players but even with the television announcers who describe the games.

It takes a long time to bring all that home to the average person, but six World Series games on national television take care of it in a hurry

In the second game of the Series at Yankee Stadium, cameras jumped to a raging arson fire a mile beyond the left field fence. It was a school in the South Bronx, an area that is being systematically burned out by the people who live in it. The police call the area Fort Apache.

Although the Yankee Stadium scoreboard flashed "The Yankees Thank The Greatest Fans In The World," the socalled fans threw dangerous missiles at the players, injuring one Los Angeles Dodger. They ran onto the field, threw a smoke bomb, started fights. The security force was no match. Plans were made for more than a hundred extra security guards

When the Yankees landed at Newark Airport before the start of the Series, a mob of apparent well-wishers nearly tore them apart, even trying to rip a baby from the arms of one player.

When the Series switched to Los Angeles, the long-range

"And smog," said commentator Howard Cosell. Considering the picture, those two words were enough.

Yet before Friday night's game, ABC-TV presented a segment on the rebuilding of the elbow of Dodger pitcher Tommy John. Doctors showed with medical charts how an injury of seemingly impossible proportions was repaired not just to the point of normal activity, but tendons were transplanted to allow the arm to throw a baseball at 90 miles an hour.

Saturday afternoon, President Carter's 78-year-old mother appeared. She didn't demurely toss out the first ball. She climbed onto the field, went through a windup and threw a semblance of a sidearm pitch, then raised her arms in a victory sign. The cheers told the viewer something about the new administration in Washington.

But in an interview she also took a verbal shot at commentator Cosell, saying "I don't wish he'd die, but I wish they would take him off the Series.

strong about a sports commentator? Others said stronger things. A New York station received thousands of calls criticizing Cosell for, among other things, "rooting" for the

The daily intramural fights on the Yankee team were well documented. Thurman Munson and Mickey Rivers wanted to be traded. Reggie Jackson, who said he never thought he'd be able to earn $2.9 million and live in Jackie Kennedy Onassis' neighborhood, stayed in a running argument with his manager, Billy Martin. Jackson and Munson threw tantrums about the tickets they were given for their families and friends at Dodger Stadium.

In the middle of it all, Bing Crosby died, and at Dodger Stadium, 55,992 spectators stood for a moment of silence. Bing Crosby, the gentle man who emerged from the Great Depression singing about pennies from heaven and about

Only in the wake of their World Series victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers did they realize how right they were.

All the nonsense and ludricous shennanigans that swirled around this turbulent team from the start of spring training served to obscure the fact that the additions of right fielder Reggie Jackson, pitcher Don Gullett and shortstop Bucky Dent made the Yankees a stronger club than the one the Cincinnati Reds swept in four games a year ago.

Just before the third game of the Series in Los Angeles, when the papers were full of Jackson blasting Manager Billy Martin for pitching Catfish Hunter in Game 2 after a month's idleness, outfielder Lou Puniella said disbelievingly, 'The only thing I haven't read around here is if we're going to win or lose the

It was so much more fun writing about turmoil and controversy that few people realized how easily the Yankees might have won the American League East had their pitching been sound all season.

As it was, they won 100 games and lost 62, finishing 212 games ahead of the Baltimore Orioles and Boston Red Sox with a furious stretch drive. A year ago, when they romped home 101/2 games in front of the Orioles, they had a 97-62 record.

The Yankees won in 1977 with Catfish Hunter slipping from 17 victories to nine. with Ed Rigueroa dropping from 19 to 16, with Gullet spending a good deal of time in the sidelines with an ailing shoulder, with Mike Torrez in-and-out except for one brilliant seven-game stretch, with Ken Holztman a body but not an arm.

'We were shooting craps," Martin said after starting the sore-shouldered Gullett in Game 1, and the seldom-used Hunter in Game 2, and coming away with a split. Indeed, he was shooting craps with his pitchers all season, except for the remarkably consistent newcomer. Ron Guidry, and a bullpen featuring the rubber-armed Sparky Lyle and, until he was needed as a late-season starter, Dick Tid-

But elsewhere, cather Thurman Munson, first baseman Chris Chambliss and

duced seasons comparable to 1976 while Dent provided added punch and Graig Nettles set club record for home runs and

RBI by a third baseman. In the outfield, Roy White was his usual reliable self in left until a late-season slump. Mickey Rivers was even more productive than 1976 in center despite a drop in stolen bases and Jackson, even with all the furor surrounding his every breath, still managed to belt 32 homers and drive in 110 runs. When help was needed, Paul Blair provided brilliant defense and clutch hitting and Piniella led the team with a 330 batting average while switching between designated hitter and left field

When Sweet Lou played left, Cliff Johnson, a June steal from Houston, DHed his way to 12 home runs and a .296 average in just 56 games.

What about next year' Munson, Rivers, White, Fugueroa, Johnson and Holtzman have expressed a desire to play in less controversial surroundings, and the unsigned Torrez may be lost in next month's re-entry draft.

"I've been proud as hell to be a Yankee and I'm not saying I couldn't be proud to be one again," said Munson, who wants to play in Cleveland, less than an hour from his home. "We'll just have to see what happens.

"I don't know if next year will be any different. I'll have to think about it over the winter. I don't know at this time what will have to happen for me to come back. It's a serious decision. But it can't be too much of a mistake being home with my

When all the emotion has died down, owner Geoprge Steinbrenner expects most of his stars to be back - along with some new playmates. The rumor mill says this year's free-agent draft will find the Yankees going after Pittsburgh pitcher Rich Gossage and Minnesota outfielder Larry Hisle

The Yankees can't comment for fear of tampering charges, but club president the height of the post-Series celebration Tuesday night, while being drenched with champagne.

FORT WORTH (UPI) - Texas Christian coach F.A. Dry Wednesday promoted sophomore Chris Judge to the starting free safety slot as a result of his play two weeks ago in the Horned Frogs' 35-15 win over Rice.

And, during workouts for the game this week against Miami, Dry elevated freshman center Eddie Grimes and freshman tackle Bud Conway to the second string. TCU will go into the Miami game with a two-deep roster that consists of 18 freshmen and 11 sophomores and only six seniors among the top 44.

Preston Pearson

DALLAS (UPI) - Dallas Cowboys runningback Preston Pearson missed practice Wednesday because of a bad toothache and spent part of the day in a dentist's chair.

The Cowboys continued to list Pearson as probable, however, for Sunday's game at Philadelphia. If Pearson's dental problem causes him to miss Sunday's game, his place in the starting lineup will be taken by Tony Dorsett.

Longhorns

AUSTIN (UPI) - Texas coach Fred Akers Wednesday said he considers Southern Methodist - the secondranked Longhorns' next opponent - a Southwest Conference title contender.

"Look at the standings," Akers said after Texas' workout in preparation for the SMU game Saturday in Dallas. "It's us and A&M and right behind is SMU."

Texas, behind only Michigan in the national ratings, is 5-0 for the season and 2-0 in SWC play. The Mustangs are 3-3 overall and 2-1 in the conference.

Baylor

WACO (UPI) - Baylor coach Grant Teaff Wednesday said freshman Scott Smith would start at quarterback for the Bears Saturday against Air Force with sophomore Greg Wood in reserve.

Smith, Wood and Sammy Bickham, the Bears' original starter, all have missed playing time this season with iniuries. Bickham underwent knee surgery two weeks ago and is out for the season.

Razorbacks

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) - Arkansas coach Lou Holtz said Wednesday he was pleased with the Razorbacks' work for Saturday's Southwest Conference game against Houston.

Mere Mortals Unable To Top Jackson Feats

Jackson took off his Yankee pinstripes and donned a Superman outfit, the 1977 World Series was just an average affair played by mere mortals.

Until Jackson borrowed a page from Babe Ruth's power book with three rocketing home runs Tuesday night, there was enough action to fill baseball's annual World Series film but nothing worthy of the special niche for memorable moments in Series history

No catch was comparable to the ones made by Al Gionfrido, Willie Mays, Sandy Amoros or Ron Swoboda.

No pitching performance brought back memories of Don Larsen, Floyd Bevins, Sandy Koufax, Bob Gibson or Whitey Ford

There were no hitting heroics on a par with the feats immortalized by Bill Mazeroski, Cookie Lavagetto, Carlton Fisk or Babe Ruth

The 1977 Series was going to be remembered for the New York Yankees' off-thefield squabbles, whether they won it or not. Jackson second-guessed his manager. Billy Martin. The manager retaliated by cursing Jackson and questioning his ability Several players asked to be traded and one, pitcher Ed Figueroa, jumped the club for a short time.

Old wounds, like an early summer meeting between several players and owner George Steinbrenner discussing the fate of Martin, were reopened by a national magazine piece. The story also recycled a remark by Jackson that he would never play again for Martin.

In contrast, the Dodgers of Los Angeles were the "Sunshine Boys," filled with love for their fellow man, following the lead of their rah-rah manager, Tom Lasorda, by hugging each other at the drop But that's all incidental now. Jackson saw to that. And isn't it ironic that Jackson, the man who was involved in nearly every Yankee tempest all year, could overshadow all the turmoil with one of the most magestic performances in World

Ironic, but not surprising. Throughout his career, Jackson always has managed to get more mileage out of his efforts than anyone else. If five guys hit homers, his would be the game-winner and it would travel the furthest.

And always, the best performances would come while he was on center And always, the best performances would come while he was on center stage in an All-Star Game, a playoff game or a World Series game. No, it is not surprising that Jackson, Steinbrenner's $2.9 million freetimes Tuesday night, slam three homers and win baseball's world championship for the Yankees 4 games to 2

"Reggie just seems to be the type of person who most efficiently utilizes his talents when he's in the limelight," said Dodger pitcher Don Sutton. "It's like an actor on a talk show who can't say much off-stage. But you turn the camera on him and he gives an Academy Award per-'Now I believe him." said Mike Tor-rez, the sixth-game winning pitcher Now I know why he calls himself Mr. October That was the greatest performance that I've ever seen in a World Series, "said Lasorda. "Guys throw around the word superstar a lot," said Jackson, the Series Most Valuable Player. "Guys like Ruth, Di-Maggio, Mays and Clemente. But I can say I had one day like those guys. Until he did, the unheroic five-game Series had no heroes-just the Yankee anti-heroes. There was no clear-cut choice for The first game was won by the Yankees in 12 innings. The victory was built on sore-armed Don Gullett's starting pitching, ironman Sparky Lyle's stingy relief and the timely hitting of Willie Randolph and Paul Blair. Game 2 was won by the Dodgers, and they put it in their corner early, rocking a stale Catfish Hunter for three homers inside 21 3 innings. Hunter, a victim of season-long shoulder ills and a recent battle with a long-worded urological disorder, shoudn't have been Martin's starting pitcher. Jackson second-guessed after

Martin, however, said he was pleased that the Yankees were leaving New York with a two-game split.

We shot craps with our two injured pitchers and we won." Martin said. Now our pitching is set. The third game was the big one, according to Martin, who knew he had a well-rested Ron Guidry for Game 4. The winner of the third game would win the Series. Torrez settled down after a shaky start and overpowered the Dodgers, beating them on their friendly home turf

The next day. Guidry, the Yankees' most consistent pitcher all year, stopped the Dodgers on four hits, leaving the New Yorkers a game away from their 21st world title

It wasn't to be on Sunday, when the Dodgers' pride and home run bats woke up, sending the Series back to New York without a clear choice for top performer

As Howard Cosell, another contrversial performer throughout the Series, would say: "Tuesday night. The scene, New York's famed Yankee Stadium. At stake, the 1977 World Series.

LA Manager 'Wouldn't Trade Teams'

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The New York Yankees won the World Series, but Los Angeles Manager Tommy Lasorda still feels the Dodgers are the better of the

"I don't want to take anything away from the Yankees, we're too professional to do that," said Lasorda Wednesday. "Yet there is no way I can consider New York the better team. I wouldn't trade clubs, period. Man for man I have to take the Dodgers over the Yankees.

Despite the Yankees' 4-2 Series victory. climaxed by Tuesday night's 8-4 triumph at Yankee Stadium featuring three homers by Reggie Jackson, Lasorda said there was only one way to look at the 1977 season and that was as a dream-

'We had a long flight home and we're disappointed that we couldn't bring Los Angeles a world championship," said Lasorda. "But we had a tremendous season in many ways, a gratifying season for the organization, the manager, the players and the fans.

"The World Series doesn't change anything, doesn't alter the fact that this was a happy and exciting season of outstanding accomplishments.

Lasorda agreed with the contention of Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark that the playoff with the Dodgers was bigger and better than the World Series, that there was more emotion and tension involved.

You have to maintain an emotional pitch that's difficult to maintain once the playoffs are over," said Lasorda. "I can't say that the system is wrong but I do feel that there should be more than a day or two break between the two events

"I just don't feel you saw the real McLendon Dodgers in the Series," added Lasorda. 'We were flat throughout. We didn't come back to the tremendous emotional level we had for the playoffs. Maybe it was my fault for failing to get them up. Maybe we were trying too hard. There's no easy answer.

Lasorda said that a measure of the Dodgers' success could be found in the setting of an all-time attendance record, nearly three million.

"I think we strengthened the attachment between our fans and Dodger blue," he said. "I was talking to Frank Sinatra a few days ago and he said that he'd never seen a team in just one year excite a city like this team did. I felt very

Plains, Lake View Join A-J's Area Grid Elite

By WALT MCALEXANDER Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

When informed his Plains Cowboys had just been elevated into the No. 5 spot on The Avalanche-Journal's Class A area rankings, coach Bobby King quipped, 'Oh, no, I wish you wouldn't."

King, whose charges have compiled a 5-1-1 mark including a 13-0 win over previously No. 4 ranked O'Donnell last weekend, then explained why he was against the lofty perch. "I just don't think we deserve it because there are other people in our district who have been playing a lot better.

"Stanton hasn't been ranked since they lost to McCamey (20-13 the third week of the season) but that was a fluke and they've been winning despite a lot of injuries. Really, they should be 6-0) right now.

Getting back to his squad, which has allowed only 21 points the last four games, King admitted "we've been playing real well defensively. But inexperience has been hurting us all year. We're making a lot of offensive mistakes because of that inexperience, but we did play a real good game a gainist O'Donnell.'

Plains' first possession of the second half snapped a 0-0 tie as the Cowboys marched 70 yards in 18 plays for a score. We had several third and ones and fourth and ones in that drive. That was the best we've looked offensively in some wind wasn't blowing that much either way. He's averaging about 40 yards per kick on the season

Switching to the defense, King claimed basically, it's the entire unit that's doing a fine job. Safety Henry Ramos has done well, as has linebacker Derrill Sherrin, tackle Greg McCravey and Frank Garza played a real fine game against O'Donnell . . . I could just name them all.

"One of the keys to our success this year is that we've been able to rest more people and we only have a few going both

LA, 76ers Win Minus Top Stars

So the Los Angeles Lakers didn't have Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, winner of the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player Award a record-tying five

They had James Edwards. And the Philadelphia 76ers were without superstar Julius Erving.

It didn't matter Both the Lakers, the winningest team in the NBA last season, and the 76ers, the losing finalist in the 1977 playoffs, played without their top performers Wednesday night-and won easily.

Los Angeles, with the overlooked Edwards, a 7-foot rookie center from the University of Washington replacing the injured Abdul-Jabbar and scoring 25 points and grabbing 14 rebounds, beat the Indiana Pacers 133-120.

And Philadelphia, minus the ailing Erving, got 32 points and 22 rebounds from George McGinnis in trouncing the Detroit Pistons 113-96.

In other NBA games, the Denver Nuggets whipped the Milwaukee Bucks 133-115, the San Antonio Spurs defeated the Boston Celtics 114-109, the Chicago Bulls downed the Houston Rockets 107-103, the Buffalo Braves topped the Kansas City Kings 112-108, and the Golden State Warriors walloped the Seattle SuperSonics 116-84

"Edwards did a super job," Los Angeles coach Jerry West said of his young third-round draft choice who played a team-high 40 minutes and hit 11 of 22 field goal attempts and three of four foul shots against Indiana.

"He didn't look that good when we saw him in Hawaii (last season during a college tournament)," said Indiana coach Bob Leonard. "That's why he slipped by and didn't get picked until the third

Edwards started because Abdul-Jabbar has a broken bone in his right hand, suffered in a fight with Milwaukee rookie Kent Benson Tuesday night, and will be sidelined indefinitely.

The Lakers also had three other players with 20 or more points, including Earl Tatum with 22. Kermit Washington 21 and Jamaal Wilkes 20. The Pacers' Adrian Dantley scored 34.

McGinnis, a flop in last season's final playoff series against Portland, made up for the absence of Erving, out with a sprained knee, by firing in 20 points in the first half against Detroit as the 76ers opened a commanding 63-38 lead. McGinnis was devastating," said Pistons coach Herb Brown.

"I came in (to training camp) with the attitude of working hard," explained McGinnis. 'That's the way it's going to be all the time, hard work.

Trio Repeats On Star Unit

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Joe Morgan of the Cincinnati Reds, teammate George Foster, and Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt are repeaters on the National League all-star team named by the Sporting News. It was the 54th time the weekly publication has named all-star teams for the American and National Leagues. They were selected by more than 400 players.

Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins and Morgan headed the list. Morgan was selected at second base on the National League team. It was the fifth time he's been named. Carew was chosen for the first time at first base; he's already made it seven times as a second baseman.

California Angels left-hander Frank Tanana and Kansas City Royals designated hitter Hal McRae were the Sporting News' only repeat choices on the American League squad.

The Sporting News teams: AMERICAN LEAGUE — Rod Carew, Minnesota, first base; Wil-LEAGUE — Rod Carew, Minnesota, first base; Willie Randolph, New York, second bese; Graig Nettles, New York, third base, Rick Burleson, Boston, shortstop; Larry Hisle, Minnesota, outfleid; Jim Rice, Boston, outfleid, Bobby Bonds, California, outfleid; Carlton Fisk, Boston, catcher; Nolan
Ryan, California, righthanded pitcher; Frank Tanan, California, lefthanded pitcher; Hai McRae, Kansas City, designated hitter. ansas City, designated nitter.

NATIONAL LEAGUE — Steve Garvey, Los Angeles, first base; Joe Morgan, Cincinnati, second base; Mike Schmidt, Philadelphia, third base; Gary Templeton, St. Louis, shortstop; George Foster Incinnati, outfield: Dave Parker, Pittsburgh, out

David Thompson and Bobby Jones led a surge that enabled Denver to break away from a 100-100 tie against Milwaukee with less than 10 minutes remaining and beat the undermanned Bucks, playing without Benson, sidelined with a mild concussion. Thompson finished with 36 points and Jones had 26. Rookie Marques Johnson was high for Milwaukee with 22.

Spurs 114, Celtics 109 A standing-room crowd of 10,466 in San Antonio watched the Spurs, led by George Gervin's 39 points, beat Boston for the first time in history. Jo Jo White topped the Celtics with 24 points.

Bulls 107, Rockets 103 Mickey Johnson scored 19 points, including a field goal with less than six minutes left that put Chicago ahead for good 98-97, helping the Bulls win their second road game in two nights, against Houston. Rudy Tomjanovich paced the Rockets with 29 points, raising his career total over 10,000 points.

Braves 112, Kings 108

Buffalo made new coach Cotton Fitzsimmons' debut a success, beating Kansas City as Billy Knight scored 31 points and grabbed 15 rebounds, and Chuck Williams, replacing injured Tiny Archibald, had his NBA career high of 21 points. But only 4.198 fans attended the Braves' home opener. Ron Boone led the Kings with 20 points.

Warriors 116, Sonics 84

Golden State ruined the coaching debut of Seattle's Bob Hopkins, routing the Sonics behind Rick Barry's 28 points and Phil Smith's 20. Fred Brown tallied 21 points for Seattle.

Jabbar Broke Hand With Punch

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Superstar center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's immediate future with the Los Angeles Lakers was expected to be determined today by Dr. Herbert Stark, an orthopedic surgeon.

The 7-foot-21/2 Abdul-Jabbar, the National Baskethall Association's Most Valnable Player last season for the second year in a row and a record-tying fifth time, suffered a fracture of the fourth metercarpal bone in his right hand Tuesday night in an early first-period fight with rookie center Kent Benson of the Milwaukee Bucks

The broken bone was discovered Wednesday when precautionary X-rays were taken after the team arrived in Indianapolis for a game against the Pacers

NHL Patsy Washington Gives Canadiens Test

By The Associated Press

The magical 100-point level will be harder to reach in the National Hockey League this season, and Scotty Bowman will bet the Stanley Cup on it.

"Competition is much tougher this year," notes the coach of the defending NHL champions, one of five 100-point clubs last season. "There's not that much room for improvement among the top teams, but I think you'll see a lot of improvement from teams like Chicago, Washington and Minnesota.

"All those teams want to beat us and I think we'll be more vulnerable this year after two great seasons. You'll see more balance in the NHL."

Bowman's point was all the more appropriate after the powerful Canadiens were extended to the limit before taking a 5-3-victory Wednesday night over Washington, an exceptionally weak team in previous seasons.

"We've feasted on a lot of clubs in the past—I don't think that will happen now," said Bowman, whose team lost on-

Whalers Rip Edmonton 6-3

EDMONTON (AP) — Veterans Tom Webster and Gordie Howe collaborated on Webster's three goals Wednesday night as the New England Whalers gave rookie goaltender Frank Turnbull a rough night in a 6-3 victory over Eemonton.

Turnbull faced only 24 shots but most of them were difficult. It was his first start of the season after he won a job in training camp. When regular netminder Dave Dryden broke a thumb, Turnbull got a chance's for his first start of the season.

Mike Rogers, a former Oiler, scored on Turnbull's first tough chance and Webster followed with his first a few moments later. They came on identical plays, with the shifty forwards in the clear at the edge of the crease with time to fake Turnbull out of position.

Howe's three assists gave him a career total of 2,402. His 2,400th point was announced to a crowd of 8,652.

"I didn't know I was in that neighborhood," said Howe, who indicated last spring he would not play again.

In other NHL games, the Boston Bruins whipped the St. Louis Blues 7-3; the Buffalo Sabres and Chicago Black Hawks played to a 2-2 tie; the Toronto Maple Leafs edged the Colorado Rockies 5-4: the Cleveland Barons trimmed the Los Angeles Kings 3-1; the Atlanta Flames stopped the Minnesota North Stars 5-1 and the New York Rangers tied

Bruins 7, Blues 3

Former St. Louis left wing John Wensink scored two goals to lead Boston over the Blues. Brad Park's long shot deflected off Wensink's skate and rolled behind St. Louis goalie Yves Belanger to snap a 3-3 tie with only 33 seconds left in the second period.

After Peter McNab increased the Bruins lead to 5-3, Wensink fired in a rebound at the 14:48 mark of the third period, helping the Bruins to their first victory of the season after two losses and a tie.

Sabres 2, Black Hawks 2

Danny Gare tipped in his first NHL goal of the season with 65 seconds remaining in the final period, boosting Buffalo into a tie with Chicago.

"I was all set, but the puck must have hit somebody's stick and then it hit Gare's skate and while I made an attempt to block where I thought the puck was going, it went in the other direction," said Chicago goalie Tony Esposito in describing the tying goal.

Maple Leafs 5, Rockies 4

Defenseman Ian Turnbull scored the winning goal on a power play with five minutes left and defenseman Borje Salming assisted on three goals to lead Toronto over Colorado.

Turnbull's goal came six seconds after Colorado's Barry Beck was handed a minor penalty for holding.

Barons 3, Kings 1
Center Dennis Maruk and Bob Murdoch, part of Cleveland's explosive 3-M line, came up with a pair of second-period goals to carry the Barons over Los Angeles.

Maruk scored his first goal of the season 46 seconds into the second period to break a 1-1 deadlock and Murdoch, who assisted on Maruk's goal, added a goal 13:14 into the period to make it 3-1.

Flames 5, North Stars 1
Right wings Ken Houston and John Gould scored goals a little more than two minutes apart midway in the second period, leading Atlanta over Minnesota.

Rangers 3, Penguins 3
Greg Polis tipped in Dave Maloney's shot at 8:30 of the third period, giving the New York Rangers a tie with Pittsburgh. Lowell MacDonald had given Pittsburgh a 3-2 lead with a 10-foot backhander at 4:55 of the session, but Polis produced the tie with his first goal of the year.

Appleman is sanctioned by the U.S. Gymnastic Association to arrange and manage international tours for Nadia and for Russian gymnast Olga Korbut.

The 15-year-old gymnast who captured worldwide acclaim with an unprecidented perfect score at the 1976 Montreal Olympics performed in Hartford Wednesday. It was the last leg of a visit tour by the Romanian women's gymnastic squad.

Only a representative of the American Broadcasting Co., which bought exclusive rights to the tour, has met Nadia face-to-face on the tour. Newtown native Bruce Jenner, also an Olympic gold medalist, interviewed her Tuesday for ABC's Wide World of Sports program this week-

"It must have been because of their common Olympic bond. They're both athletes and I told Jenner he accomplished something in the interview I've never seen before. Nadia came alive. She opened up. She even smiled," Appleman

Appleman said Nadia takes a nap each afternoon before an evening performance. She doesn't eat in restaurants, rarely walks city streets and only leaves her hotel for short, planned shopping tours with her teammates, he said.

After Friday's game, Motley County has only Happy left on the regular-season schedule. Valley has both Nazareth and Lazbuddie remaining and Sudan, which faces Lazbuddie this week, has nonleague foe Smyer and Silverton.

Thus, a Valley win this week would all but assure the zone of a three-way deadlock at the top. And just how would that tie be resolved? By a coin flip, that's how, since Nov. 11 is set aside for the district championship tilt.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which fell 8.31 on Wednesday to a new two-year low, was down another 1.65 at 810.55 at noontime today.

Losers held a 2-1 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted that the market began to slide Wednesday when the Commerce Department reported that the Gross National Product grew at only a 3.8 per cent annual rate, after adjustment for inflation, in the third quarter.

That was down sharply from the 6-7 per cent economic growth rate in the first half of the year.

Citicorp, the most active NYSE issue, lost 1/8 to 21 7/8. A 104,000share block traded at 21 3/4. The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped .07 to 50.58. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index managed a .02 advance to 113.66.

Volume on the NYSE reached 9.16 million in the first two hours, up from 8.92 million in the comparable period Wednesday.

'Gobbledygook' Mail Gets Unusual Reply

County Commissioner Bob Bacon said he received a "gobbledygook" letter last week from the U.S. Department of Labor, so he replied in kind.

The government letter was referred to as "7PGT-P, Prime Sponsor Issuance No. 169-77," as "State Agency Issuance No. 302-77," and as "Field Review of Net Employment Effects of PSE."

Bacon said what followed was alphabet soup with $10 dollar words and vague terms. One paragraph completely eluded Bacon's efforts to make sense of it. Paragraph 3-A:

"Preparation of expert papers based on 1) review of the legislative history and program experience under various public service job creation approaches, 2) assessment of ecofometric analysis of the fiscal substitution effects of public employment programs, and, 3) macroeconomic analysis of the employment stimu-

Bacon's reply:

Websterwise, (unabridged Edit. 1976, et. seq.) little, if any, relief can be ascertained, thus adversely affecting our erudite promulgation by confounding insipient recipients.

"Due, apparently to microelectronic hitches in the get-along, paragraph 3-A does not compute dictionarywise

"Additional elucidation of the existing obfuscatory concatenation would, doubtless, enlist at least a pseudo-intelligent rejoinder.

"Pellucidly yours, Bob Bacon."

What Bacon said was that: he received the letter; it blew his mind; the dictionary could not help him understand the letter, so he could not tell his constituents what it meant: he could not understand paragraph 3-A at all: and he would reply if they would tell him what the original letter meant.

Bacon said a "PSE" still is a mystery.

minutive, gentle and slow-speaking, carefully weighing his words. Yet many art critics consider Pierre Alechinsky one of the strongest, most vehement, inventive painters in Europe.

The fact is that Alechinsky's work has earned him the first $50,000 Andrew W. Mellon prize, the largest prize existing today for artists, given by the Museum of Art of the Carnegie Institute of Pitts-

To receive the prize and attend the opening of a retrospective exhibit organized in the Pittsburgh International series, Alechinsky and his wife Micky have scheduled a trip to the United States for a While preparing for the trip in his airy white-washed studio next to his Bougival home on the outskirts of Paris, Alechinsky, who has won numerous prizes for his work around the world said, "It is a big cake, but art prizes always have something unfair about them.

'For instance, had he lived, this prize should logically have gone to the Danish painter Asger Jorn, " Alechinsky said. "I am carrying on where he left off, but he had a moral rigor superior to mine, so he might have rejected the honor.

Alechinsky was born Oct. 19, 1927 in three cities where it originated: Copenhagen, Brussels, and Amsterdam.

'Cobra was a movement created in 1948 that was based on spontaneity, a disgust for theories, a great admiration for traditional popular arts and crafts and for childhood," Alechinsky said.

"Rapidly it became a sort of despecialization, with writers starting to paint and painters starting to write.

There was a will to decentralize the art world from Paris," Alechinsky said with a smile. "Ironically, today most of the members of Cobra, like myself, live and work in Paris.

Alechinsky, who sports a beard and a crew-cut, moved to a two-room apartment in Paris in 1952 after Cobra broke up. With his growing success, he was able to buy in 1963 his Bougival home, where he had a special wing built to house offices and his huge dream studio looking out on a lush vegetable and flower gar-

When he does work, he paints on a flat table instead of an easel. "This way which has always been used by the Orientals - gives me the feeling I am pouring myself out onto the paper. When I used an easel, I felt I was fencing with the Alechinsky paints only on paper, which is eventually put up on a canvas, and uses brushes he has specially brought to him from China and Japan. Since 1965, when he worked in the studio of his friend Wallasse Ting in New York, he has been working in acrylic paints.

"He taught me the Chinese way of approaching paper," Alechinsky said, "Oil can upset the surface of the paper. It is so muddy, and vulnerable. It cracks and falls to dust with age."

His studio is lined with drawings in red acrylic paint, and a large rack-in a corner stores his canvases. Outside in the garden, Alechinsky has two large bronze sculptures by his Cobra friend Reinhoud. In a tiny glasshouse adjacent to the studio and the offices stands a black stone sculpture by Max Ernst.

"I received a phone call today from a person asking me to help in the building of (the late French Architect Pierre) Le Corbusier's last church," Alechinsky, who is a "fervent" atheist said. "A Church. For his last bistro yes. I have a lot of respect for him, but a church, no.

"You see it is a moral issue, if one wraps up in a perfect esthetic a doubtful and baneful thought, the thought becomes much more baneful and bad," he Alechinsky's works are on show in 75 major art museums around the world, including the Museums of Modern Art of Paris, New York, Warsaw, Montreal and the Guggenheim in New York.

"For whom do I paint? I start from the principle that I know myself better than I know the others," he said. "Painting rests on tiny reasons for satisfaction, but "It is excellent that a great number of people see works of art," Alechineky said. "But it is important not to trans form someone into a victim of obligator schooling, where one would learn about the phenomena of modern art while being very bored and receiving such illusions and hearing such absurdities as 'everyone can paint. Unfortunately that is just not true. Most people would feel anguished at the sight of a white sheet of standard set in 1961 to limit worker exposure to the pesticide DBCP was probably unsafe and researchers were wrong to recommend the guideline without more study, one of the researchers admits.

DBCP, Dibromochloropropane, has been blamed for sterility in dozens of chemical workers. Fears are it may eventually cause cancer in workers or in people who eat produce treated with the pes-

Charles Hine, a professor of occupational and environmental medicine at the University of California, said this week the federal standard, in effect for 16 years based on research done by him and others, was "probably too low.

With the present data relative to human exposure, I would be concerned myself that one part per million is a safe and reasonable level." Hine said at a hearing and the Dow Chemical Co., the only domestic producers of DBCP.

In 1961, the pesticide was registered with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and worker exposure limited to one part per million based on research published that year by Hine and others. Their work was subsidized by the Shell Oil Co.

Its production was halted in August when tests showed many of the workers registered no sperm or abnormally low sperm counts.

Hine said researchers erred by suggesting the one ppm standard without testing it first to make sure it had no detrimental effects on animals. A dose of five ppm caused some changes in the tissues of animal testicles, while higher doses caused rats' testicles to waste away and their sperm counts to drop.

The standard was in effect until August, when it was raised to 10 parts per billion. That was after tests on workers at plants in Magnolia, Ark., Lathrop, Calif., and Mobile. Ala., turned up many who were sterile. DBCP also has been made in Midland, Mich., and in Denver.

Four days of hearings are intended to uncover out why workers were exposed to unsafe levels and whether they were warned of the pesticide's dangers

USDA Announces Tree Quarantine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has placed a federal quarantine in parts of New York and Vermont to help protect Christmas tree plantations and other tree resources from what officials describe as a devastating new fungus disease.

Officials said this week that the federal action will help strengthen quarantines already placed on the infected areas by New York and Vermont state regulatory

'All species of pine, spruce including Christmas trees, wreathes, branches twigs and nursery stock are restricted from moving out of the quarantined areas," the department said. No restrictions are placed on the shipment of logs and pulpwood that are free of twigs and

Included in the quarantine are portions of the New York counties of Clinton, Essex, Franklin, Hamilton, Herkimer, Jefferson, Lewis, Oneida, Oswego and St. Lawrence and portions of the Vermont counties of Caladonia, Franklin, Orleans and Washington plus all of Lamoille

The reason for the state and federal actions is alarm over the spread of a European strain of Scleroderris canker.

'The deadly European strain was identified in northern Vermont and in northeast New York in 1976 where it has spread to more than 40,000 acres of pine trees," the department said.

The disease has a potential of spreading to all spruce and pine stands in the northeastern and Great Lakes states, officials

The European type of canker is regarded as a "far more serious threat" than the Lake State strain of canker which has been present in North America since the early 1950s. The Lake State variety attacks only young trees, while the European type also infects mature trees and can completely kill an infected stand of the trees within three years.

Officials said the emergency quarantine hopefully will stop the artificial spread of the fungus while countermeasures are developed. Controls will include cutting and burning of infected areas, and the use of fungicides and the breeding of resistant trees.

Massachusetts Eyes Unusual Punishments

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) -A teacher convicted of forging drug prescriptions is sentenced to six months of tutoring a handicapped child. A lobster thief is ordered to catch his own lobster, cook it and serve a meal to elderly people in his community

These are the types of alternative sentences that Judge Paul A. Chernoff wants to see more of in Massachusetts district

Chernoff heads a special committee searching out examples of offbeat sentences imposed instead of prison terms by the state's judges. The panel will catalogue the ideas and compile guidelines on when and how to mete out such punish-

"It's amazing the types of things people can come up with to truly let the punishment fit the crime," Chernoff said this week at a conference of Massachusetts probation officers. "I don't think you have to limit it to have litterers pick up trash, as we commonly perceive. It can be used for serious crimes

About 275 of the state's 800 probation workers gathered for the opening session of the two-day conference.

Chernoff, who was chairman of the state parole board before being named a judge last year, told the officers they would play an important role in expanded use of alternative sentencing

CooperationKey For Education

By United Press International Education's a triangle made up of parents, teachers, students The three must work together if education is to succeed

John Rynor, president of the National Education Association, in an interview said teachers more than ever before are seeking cooperation from parents and students in the resolution of problems in the schoolhouse

"In the light of much of the turmoil and confusion over what schools should be, it is important that all parties recognize resolution of the problems must be generated by all segments of the education enterprise.

Some of the problems on Rynor's list: Violence directed at teachers — 70,-000 attacks last year -increases every year. In a random sampling of 9,000 delegates at the annual meeting of the National Education Association, attacks on teachers was cited as a top problem. "Discipline is the major concern here. Rynor said. "The tendency of more and more students is toward violent solutions to problems.

- Alternative arrangements for the small percentage of students who cannot adjust to a regular classroom. Teachers spend time on problems created by such students and can't do their best for all the other students.

- The rush to cut drama, music, art and other so-called "frills" as money for education becomes harder to come by in these inflationary times. Rynor takes serious exception to calling such extras

"Often such additions to the regular school program makes the difference between quality and mundane education, he said. Music, art, drama give students background in cultural values. "The pressures to cut are getting really enormous.

- Teacher supply. Some 300,000 teachers are without jobs. "If we met our goal fruits are grown largely in the islandj's of 25 students to a classroom, we could

Rynor, a math teacher on leave fro Springfield High School in Battle Creet Mich., also talked about the two touch issues in education today: teacher strike and the declining Scholastic Aptitud

Test scores. On the declining SAT scores (college entrance examination tests) he made these points:

- Don't blame teacher laxity or a decline in teaching standards. "Eighty-five per cent of the teachers in the classrooms." today were teaching when the test scores were high.

 Changing values in society, televi-sion watching, the deterioration of discipline and the family may be more likely contributors to the poorer performance

On teacher strikes, Rynor said: There are about 6,000 contracts negotiated each year, and perhaps 100-or at the most 200-strikes.

An overlooked point, I think, is that 5,800 or 5,900 contracts are agreed upon without strikes.

Rynor was asked how he feels about being on leave from his teacher job while performing presidential duties for the association representing 1.8 million teach-

Texas Court Has Stake In Proposition No. 1

By GARTH JONES AUSTIN (AP) — Texas voters decide Nov. 8 whether to increase the size of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in hopes of getting speedier handling of criminal case appeals.

Some sources say the state's highest appellate court for criminal cases is at least one year behind on its docket

Proposition No. 1 to expand the court from five to nine judges is one of seven proposed constitutional amendments sent to the November ballot by the 1977

Other proposals would provide an additional $200 million for the Veterans Land Fund, expand grounds for denial of bail to persons already convicted of felonies. provide tax relief for cultural, historical and natural history resources, allow assessment of fees by agricultural or marine commodity groups, allow banks to set up electronic banking machines in shopping centers, and change the name and powers of the State Judicial Qualifications Commission.

Eight other proposed amendments approved by the 1977 Legislature will be voted on in November 1978. The effort to change the size of the Court of Criminal Appeals follows numerous attempts in recent years to do something about overloaded dockets that persistently plague the Texas high courts.

The Court of Criminal Appeals was created in 1891 with three judges. But in 1925 two commissioners were added to help them and in 1966 voters adopted a constitutional change enlarging it five judges. Two additional comssioners were added in 1971.

All these efforts have not been able to handle the flood of appeals from criminal cases in district courts, particularly from Dallas and Houston The court carried over 1,075 cases from 1976 to 1977. By Aug. 31, 1977, however, 1,920 new cases had been added to those carried over.

In 1975, voters were offered, and defeated decisively, a plan to integrate the Supreme Court and the Court of Criminal Appeals, along with a series of regional courts of appeals, handling both civil and

The resolution offered Nov. 8 does not effect the Supreme Court or the regional courts of civil appeals. It would enlarge the Court of Criminal appeals from five to nine judges.

The entire court would hear all cases involving capital punishment and certain other cases, but for other cases the court Texas Civil Liberties Union.

could be split into three separate bodies to hear appeals.

Proponents say this would be cheaper than setting up a system of intermediate criminal appeals courts that would be separate but similar to the present courts of civil appeals.

Backers include all of the present Court of Criminal Appeals justices, the Texas

Some opponents, including former Supreme Court chief justice Robert W. Calvert, oppose the amendment because they want a unified system with just one high court for both civil and criminal cas-

They argue that a dual system not only increases the number of judges but produces judges with narrow points of view. Texas already has twice as many judges on its highest courts as any of the seven most populous states. Proposition No. 3 on the ballot would expand the grounds by which a person accused of a felony may be denied freedom on bail. Currently a person may be denied bond if he or she has previously been convicted of two separate felonies

The new proposal would permit denial of bail to anyone who is accused of committing a felony while out on bail for an indictment of a prior felony. It also would allow denial of bail if the person, convicted previously, commits another felony while using a deadly weapon.

Proponents argue this would reduce crime and provide safeguards against abuse of the bail procedures. The Dallas district attorney's office and others said it is coramon for someone to commit felony while out on bail, particularly on burglary indictments. Those accused of robbery, hot checks, and forgery are frequent repeaters, they said

Prosecutors also say defendants usually do not want a speedy trial, hoping the witnesses will disappear or forget.

Opponents say the amendment would have little impact on the crime rate and that it would place too much power in the hand of the police as a form of preventive detention.

The bail amendment is supported by the Texas District and County Attorneys Association. It is opposed by the Criminal Defense Lawyers Association and the

The last amendment on the ballot. No.

1965 it has investigated about 600 complaints about Texas judges. It has recommended that three district judges be removed. Eight judges have retired while under investigation and nine more have resigned.

New changes in the commission's authority would allow it to suspend a judge, with or without pay, if he is indicted for a felony offense or after receiving a sworn complaint of judicial or public misconduct. The commission would be able, for the first time, to publicly reprimand an errant judge.

The amendment also would allow the Texas Supreme Court, which is the administrative head of the judicial system, to bar a judge from holding any future judicial office once he is removed by the Proponents said the changes would make the commission more modern and effective, including more supervision of the state's 903 justices of the peace.

Opponents say there would be only four judges on the 11-member body and that would be a threat to an independent judiciary. They also object to suspending a judge on a sworn complaint, possibly made by one of his political enemies
