

Patty Hearst Bank Robbery Conviction Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst received a fair trial and her conviction on bank robbery should stand, a federal appeals court ruled Wednesday.

Miss Hearst, 23, is expected to remain free on $1 million bail while her lawyers appeal the conviction further. She is under a sentence of seven years in prison.

A three-judge panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals declared that the trial judge acted properly in ordering the newspaper heiress to answer government questions about her months as a fugitive with her terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army kidnappers.

Miss Hearst contended that those questions forced her to invoke her 5th Amendment rights against self-incrimination.

At her eight-week trial, Miss Hearst invoked the 5th Amendment 42 times in refusing to answer questions asked by U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr.

The jury which convicted her said afterward that her refusal to answer the questions figured prominently in their verdict.

Miss Hearst, granddaughter of the late newspaper magnate William Randolph Hearst, was a University of California sophomore when she was kidnapped.

Her abductors demanded that her wealthy family feed California's poor and a chaotic program called People in Need organized by her father gave away more than $2 million in food.

Miss Hearst declared in tape recordings that she had joined her terrorist captors and had participated willingly in the bank holdup.

But at her trial, she renounced those vitriolic declarations and said she made the tapes under threat of death. She never surrendered to authorities, she said, because she feared she would be killed by terrorists.

Al Johnson, one of Miss Hearst's attorneys, said in a telephone interview that his client "was disappointed in the opinion but was optimistic about the final result."

Miss Hearst's father, newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst, said the family was "disappointed. We had hoped the appeal would be in her favor. We thought there were very good grounds for the appeal."

Chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey was unavailable for comment but Bailey's associate, Wayne Smith, said in Washington they "will definitely appeal" to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Browning said at a news conference after the decision was announced that the government "will not seek any order for her confinement" pending completion of the appeals process.

He said Miss Hearst's attorneys have 14 days to file for a rehearing and an additional 30 days to file a petition to the Supreme Court.

Asked whether Miss Hearst would ever spend more time in prison, Browning replied, "That would be up to the trial judge, William Orrick. It is up to him to decide if the previously imposed sentence should stand or should be modified" if and when the conviction is finally upheld.

Orrick took over the case when the trial judge, Oliver J. Carter, died in June, 1976, three months after Miss Hearst was convicted. Orrick later sentenced her to seven years in prison for her part as a carbine-wielding bandit in the April 15, 1974, holdup, just 10

Senate Kills Tax Plan On Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's proposal to use some income tax revenues for Social Security benefits was rejected Wednesday by the Senate amid doubts that Congress will complete work on a payroll tax bill this year.

The Senate voted 74 to 16 against an amendment by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., that would have pumped about $3 billion in income tax collections into Social Security over the next five years.

Such use of income tax money would reduce the payroll tax increases that otherwise will be necessary to keep one part of Social Security from going bankrupt by early 1979.

Delay Urged

As the Senate began debate on Social Security financing, several members called for delaying the subject until next year. Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., called it "an insult to the Senate" to have to discuss such a complex problem under time constraints that always accompany the end of a congressional session.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., was preparing a motion that would delay consideration of Social Security until January.

Morgan said the Finance Committee has demonstrated there is no need for immediate action because the payroll tax increases in the bill would not become effective until 1979. It is no coincidence, Morgan said, that no new tax would become effective in 1978, an election year.

By rejecting the use of income tax money for Social Security, the Senate left itself little choice but to raise payroll taxes.

The bill recommended by the Finance Committee would raise taxes on all workers over the next several years, but for the first time would require that employers pay a greater share of taxes than do employees. This basically is in line with what Carter recommended.

The House already has passed a bill that would retain the 50-50 split between employees and employers.

Tax Rise Seen

The House bill, combined with tax increases already written into law, would mean that today's maximum $965 tax would rise by 196 percent, to $2,854, by 1986. The tax bill of a $10,000 worker would go up 21 percent, to $710. At the $20,000 level, the tax would rise by 47 percent, to $1,420.

The Senate bill would result in a 21 percent increase, to $705, for the $10,000 worker by 1986, and a 46 percent increase at the $20,000 income level, to $1,410. The maximum payroll deduction on a worker would climb 135 percent from the current $965, to $2,263, by 1986.

For an employer, however, the top tax of $965 would soar in 1979 to $3,068 and in 1985 to $5,250. The maximum tax would apply only to an employer who

MOTHER OF 10 WINS AWARD Woman Leads Fight On Youth Gang

CHICAGO (AP) — Leddy Cooper, part-time nurse and mother of 10 who got fed up with a neighborhood youth gang that went from "punk" behavior to serious crime, is the Chicago Crime Commission's top gangbuster of the year.

Before bringing peace to her North Side neighborhood streets, she said she and other residents had to endure the "bewilderment, rage and frustration" of a criminal justice system that puts victims of crime "at an extreme disadvantage."

It took nearly four years, but the gang's overt criminal activities have virtually ceased, Mrs. Cooper said Wednesday. Its leader is in jail for murder, and convictions were won in 39 of 42 complaints brought by citizens who "were determined that something be done come hell or high water," she said in an interview.

Mrs. Cooper received the Crime Commission's Citizen Award of Merit last week for her efforts in organizing neighbors to rid their Thonardale community of a gang that started out "as a bunch of punk kids" who ended up stealing, maiming and murdering.

She and neighbors began to organize after her husband, Bill, was knocked down, beaten and kicked in July when he attempted to tell the gang's leader,

South African Arms Ban Gains Support

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. African bloc, defeated in its bid for economic sanctions, accepted a Western proposal Wednesday for a mandatory arms embargo against white-ruled South Africa.

Western and African diplomats said Security Council approval of the permanent embargo — expected to be unanimous — probably would come Friday.

Donald F. McHenry, deputy U.S. representative on the council, said earlier Wednesday the West was revising its embargo proposal to meet African objections. Earlier this week, the Western nations shifted support from a proposed six-month renewable embargo to a permanent one.

Prohibitions Agreed

The Western powers have agreed to add explicit prohibitions against new arms production licenses and against cooperation with South Africa in nuclear weapons development.

The resolution also calls on all nations to review existing arms production licenses. South Africa currently manufactures its own Mirage jet fighters under French license.

The 49-nation African group met later Wednesday and decided to support the revised proposal.

Campaign Launched

The African group launched its latest campaign against South Africa two weeks ago to protest the South African government's banning of 18 major black organizations and the arrest of more than 50 black leaders in a crackdown on opposition to its policies of racial segregation.

The Western nations have balked at formal U.N. economic sanctions against South Africa, but U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said Wednesday in Washington the United States was recalling its commercial officer in Johannesburg to review economic relations with South Africa. He also announced the recall of the U.S. naval attaché in Pretoria.

American Investments

American businesses have an estimated $1.5 billion in direct investments in South Africa.

Vance also told a news conference the United States had halted the shipment of all equipment with military potential to South Africa.

The three permanent Western members of the council — the United States, Britain and France — used their veto power Monday to kill an African-drafted arms embargo resolution and other proposals to impose economic sanctions and lay the groundwork for later expulsion of South Africa from the United Nations.

At the time, the Western powers supported only the idea of a six-month, renewable arms embargo. But after the vetoes the West switched its support to a permanent embargo.

The African group then demanded several changes in the new Western proposal, and negotiations between the two factions resumed.

McHenry told reporters he believed the Africans pressed their tougher resolutions to a vote Monday to test U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young and the Carter administration's policy of improving relations with black Africa.

Britain, for one, was more firmly opposed than the United States to the hard-line resolutions. The Africans apparently believed they could split the Western bloc in a council vote, American diplomats say.

Now that those resolutions are dead, McHenry said, "there is communication" between the West and the Africans.

"There is a recognition that when we said we wouldn't support those things we meant it," he said.

Vance's announcement represents a tightening of an arms embargo the United States has observed since 1963 and an

San Joaquin Valley Waging Worm War

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Declaring that the future of cotton farming in the San Joaquin Valley is at stake, agricultural officials Wednesday urged valley farmers to complete their harvests and plow under their fields as early as possible to help control the pink bollworm.

Richard Johnson, vice chairman of the state Cotton Pest Control Board, headed the six-member panel which met with newsmen and issued the warning about increasing infestations of the bollworm, considered the world's worst cotton pest.

Industry 'On Line'

"The entire cotton industry in the San Joaquin Valley, involving a million acres and a billion dollars, is on the line in this battle to control the pink bollworm," Les Stromberg, Fresno County farm advisor, said.

Reg Rosander, a pest control officer for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said more than 7,000 non-sterile pink bollworm moths were found in the valley this year, more than at any time since the pest was first discovered in the area in 1966.

Early Plowdown Essential

Johnson said early plowdown was essential to the program to control the pink bollworm and without cooperation of all valley cotton growers, other programs such as the release of millions of sterile pink bollworm moths in the area each season would be ineffective.

"If we don't get the harvested cotton fields plowed under as soon as possible to give us a long host-free period so the larvae from the eggs laid this year can't survive, we are in deep trouble," Johnson said. "We face the possibility of being wiped out within a few years if we can't control this pest."

To help the fight, state Food and Agricultural Director Richard Rominger last week moved the mandatory plowdown date from Feb. 1 to Jan. 1 and set the 1978 cotton planting date back to March 20.

"This will give us an 80-day host-free period which should help us control the pest," Johnson said. "But the 80-day host free period is the bare minimum needed and if farmers can complete their harvests sooner and plow under their fields before the Jan. 1 deadline, so much the better."

Envoy Lashes Klan Patrol

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Patrick Lucey said Wednesday residents on both sides of the U.S.-Mexico border "ought to be more careful reacting to rumors" about violence or vigilante patrols looking for illegal aliens.

Lucey, in Juarez in preparation for the visit today of Rosalynn Carter, said he feels stories about Ku Klux Klan announcements they would patrol the border have been blown far out of proportion.

"The Klan is a totally discredited group, very few in numbers, that couldn't put a significant number on the border if it tried," Lucey told a news conference.

"They are basking in the publicity they have received, especially the publicity south of the border. It is totally out of proportion."

One Killed, Another Hurt In Accidents

A 28-YEAR-OLD Lubbock contractor was killed instantly and a 22-year-old Texas Tech student was critically injured in accidents occurring within 90 minutes of each other at opposite ends of the city Wednesday.

Stanley J. Reed of 5224 17th St., who owns a residential and commercial construction firm here, was killed instantly after his 1976 Oldsmobile Cutlass left the outside lane on Loop 289, skidded through a median and shot down a steep concrete embankment to Spur 327 below.

Maj. Bill Carney, a field maintenance squadron commander with the U.S. Air Force, said he was alongside Reed's vehicle as both men drove south along Loop 289 about 6:10 p.m.

"I didn't see anything that would cause (Reed) to leave the road," Carney said, "but there was no reason for me to be looking at him."

Carney said he watched as Reed's car left the roadway and shot through an opening separating two overpasses, then hurtled down to Spur 327 below.

Carney said he pulled off the Loop and onto a median, then climbed down another concrete embankment in search of the vehicle.

Francis Carnes, who was traveling west on Spur 327, just east of the double ro Base tower of the accident and police and ambulance attendants began arriving within minutes.

Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy, called to the scene of the accident, declined to rule immediately on the cause of death pending receipt of a police accident report.

Voting List 'Foul-Up' Irks County Official

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

LUBBOCK County Clerk Frank Guess still doesn't have a current voter registration list for next week's constitutional amendments election — even though his office has been accepting absentee ballots since Oct. 19.

Fortunately, absentee voting has been so "awfully light" that absentee election judges have had no problems establishing the eligibility of the 14 persons who have voted thus far, Guess said.

But he predicts there "could be trouble" on Tuesday's election. "I just don't know if I'm going to get an up-to-date voter registration list by then," Guess said.

The registration list is maintained by the county tax assessor-collector's office, through a computer services contract with Lubbock National Bank. Guess said there seems to be a "foul-up somewhere" because his office, responsible for conducting elections, has yet to receive the voter rolls.

The subject was brought up Wednesday after a meeting of the county election board. County Judge Rod Shaw called the situation a "sorry thing. I'm very surprised... There's no logical reason why the computer can't have an up-to-date list for the county clerk by now."

Indeed, Shaw said, by law the voter registration rolls were to be closed 30 days before the election, and a list of eligible voters should have been provided to

"It was airborne," Carnes said.

The witness said he was returning to Wolfroth from Slaton where he had been working at a compress when he saw the two-door vehicle shoot through the opening and land on its roof.

"It just exploded after that and the car came to rest over here," he said, pointing to the roofless vehicle which smashed into a guard rail about 45 feet from where Reed's body lay.

Brezhnev Offers Total Halt In Nuclear Blasts

MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev proposed a halt in nuclear explosions for both military and peaceful purposes Wednesday in a speech marking the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

The Soviet leader also reported the 1977 grain harvest was well below the target fixed by Soviet planners and even less than U.S. experts had anticipated.

The nuclear proposal marked the first time the Kremlin had been willing to include peaceful blasts in nuclear test ban talks.

The speech text carried by the official Tass news agency also included a proposal that "the nuclear powers could undertake to start the gradual reduction of existing stockpiles of such (atomic) weapons, and move towards their complete, total destruction."

Brezhnev omitted this point when delivering the speech, and Western observers said later they thought the omission might have resulted either from a last-minute revision or from an inadvertent slip-up in reading the text.

In Washington, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance welcomed Brezhnev's proposal for a moratorium on all nuclear explosions, calling it "a major step toward a comprehensive test ban agreement."

Vance told a news conference "the proposal he (Brezhnev) made is in the direction of what we have been talking about for several months on the need to include all kinds of nuclear explosions, including so-called peaceful nuclear explosions in a comprehensive test ban."

Both the United States and the Soviet Union staged test explosions underground just last week. Western monitors reported the Soviets set off a double ex-

LUNCHING BEFORE A CROWD — Charles Kitch and his bride-to-be Molly Welch enjoy lunch in a display window at a local Dallas Store in the Northpark Shopping Center Wednesday as a crowd of shoppers gather to watch. Kitch

Screwball Events Arranged By Madcap Catering Firm

DALLAS (AP) — Charles Kitch took his fiancée to lunch Wednesday — in a display window at a crowded shopping mall.

They ate caviar, shrimp remoulade, quiche and champagne, served by a live tuxedoed mannequin.

And, Kitch said, he and Molly Welch plan to be married Nov. 11 in the Goodyear Blimp.

The arrangements for these and other unusual services are being handled by "Renta Yenta," a Los Angeles-based firm that will do almost anything or have it done, "as long as it's legal and it's kind."

Kitch paid $400 for his fiancée's surprise lunch, but, he said, "It came off perfectly."

"We were shopping a couple weeks ago and Molly was looking at the display windows, wondering aloud what it would be like to be on the inside looking out," Kitch said. "Last week I saw an ad for Renta Yenta and I told Mike (the Dallas agent) that I wanted to have lunch with Molly in this window."

This catered meal was a simple task compared to some of Renta Yenta's other offerings.

Dinner for two for life — delivered — carries a $250,000 price tag; $20,000 will buy 100 people a chartered flight dinner to Shangri-La; dinner with music and cocktails for six on an overnight cruise in a sailboat runs $1,000 and breakfast in bed for one or two with a butler and a violinist costs $175. Without the butler and violinist it's a mere $35.

This year, however, Renta Yenta is offering a complete

Thanksgiving turkey dinner for 12, delivered, for $100.

Prices for custom services vary, of course, according to what each customer wants.

Renta Yenta founders Lila Greene and Toby Brown said they started the million-dollar-a-year business five years ago.

"It was the same old story, you know, a couple housewives feeling trapped and looking for a little fun," said Mrs. Greene.

And the name? "Yenta is a Yiddish word for a busybody, someone who's always in the middle of things, making things happen."

"We fulfill fantasies," Mrs. Greene said. "We make anniversaries, birthdays, dinners, parties, weddings important. Not only do we provide elaborate occasions, but we take all the stress of a hostess by doing all the work."

Mrs. Greene said the firm has had requests to prepare a wedding in a supermarket — "that's where the couple met" — and on a merry-go-round, sell a yacht, and handle correspondence for a group of prisoners.

The San Francisco office once served dinner in a cattle car on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Another office had a woman in a spacesuit climb from a roof into a penthouse window during a party to return a screwdriver a neighbor had borrowed. "It seems these two families had been borrowing the screwdriver for years and the trick was to come up with a more original way of returning it each time," explained Mrs. Brown.

Billie Sol Estes, Ex-Associate Face $6 Million Damage Suit

TYLER (AP) — Convicted West Texas swindler Billie Sol Estes and Tyler millionaire Billy Pyron are the subject of a $6 million damage suit filed by a Mississippi promoter who claims Estes bilked him in a 1976 business deal.

Don Trull, whose allegations rekindled state and federal probes into Estes' business dealings, filed his suit under the Deceptive Trade Practices Act, claiming he paid Estes $125,000 which was forwarded to Pyron to buy property in the West Texas towns of Abilene, Andrews and Big Spring.

Trull said in his suit he agreed to buy the land as part of a business deal in which Estes would secure a $1.6 million loan for him. He said he also agreed to purchase three virtually bankrupt corporations "owned or controlled by" Estes.

However, Trull, who now lives in Tyler, said the loan never materialized and his money was not returned.

Pyron said he was unaware of the alleged business deal. However, he told the Dallas Times Herald last summer he had also been a victim of an Estes promotion.

Pyron's name, or a facsimile, appears on several documents Trull turned over to authorities and The Associated Press last spring. He said he removed the documents, canceled checks and credit statements from Estes' files when the two men shared an office in Abilene in 1976.

The FBI, Internal Revenue Service and the Texas Attorney General's Office have confirmed they are trying to determine if Estes is linked to a portable steamcleaning operation uncovered in Midland. Agents are also looking to see if Estes has violated his probation. He was released from federal prison in the early 1970s after serving about six years of a 15-year sentence for fraud.

Trull is free on bond awaiting trial on a charge of aggravated kidnapping and aggravated assault. He is accused of holding one of Pyron's employees hostage in a plush Tyler office building. The Mississippian told police and newsmen after he surrendered he was trying to force Pyron to make good his losses.

Pyron subsequently filed his own $1.5 million law suit against Trull.

Estes, who has avoided newsmen since authorities confirmed he was again being investigated, could not be reached for comment. Estes' attorney, Jack Bryant, said, "Since I have not seen the petition, I have no comment, but I will say I doubt Mr. Trull ever paid $125,000 to anybody. I'd like to see his check."

Hail Suppression Eyed

A-J Correspondent
PLAINVIEW — Calling for continued research and experimentation into weather modification in areas other than the High Plains. Dan True, an Amarillo meteorologist, told about 100 supporters of Hale County Citizens for Natural Weather "weather modification could eventually be successful but we just don't know enough about it at this point."

The recently formed group opposes a multi-year hail suppression and rain increase permit application filed by Plainview-based Plains Weather Improvement Association.

Voters will decide on the issuance of the permit to conduct activities over much of Hale County and portions of Lamb, Castro, Swisher and Floyd counties on Nov. 8.

Past weather modification activities in Lamb and Hale counties may have benefited residents in those counties at the expense of others, True said. "Hale county has been having its cake and eating it too. By seeding some of the thunderstorms as they pass through the county, Hale County was sometimes able to get rain out of the clouds as well as less hail as they decreased in intensity and dissipated."

"In areas to the northeast, east, and southeast of Hale County, some people are getting about half as much rain as the surrounding area. We need more study on weather modification to see if it is causing this problem and we need this study done in other projects outside the High Plains before we let it continue here," True said.

He also called for more study on the possible effects of silver iodide and other

Ruffner Talks In Davis Trial

'FAMILY' STAR TO WED—Sally Struthers, who plays Gloria on the "All In The Family" comedy series, poses with Dr. William Rader in New York recently. The couple will be married sometime next month, according to the New York Daily News. (AP Laserphoto)

AMARILLO (AP) — Brash, bearded W.T. Ruffner testified Wednesday that his love affair with Priscilla Davis was less than idyllic and that he did not return to her mansion after a drunken brawl in May 1975.

Ruffner, testifying in the murder trial of millionaire Cullen Davis, said he did not recall throwing a flower pot into the blonde socialite's bathtub or attempting to pull a knife the night the relationship ended in a hazy argument. The boisterous 38-year-old witness said he moved into the Fort Worth mansion with Mrs. Davis shortly after Davis moved out on July 31, 1974.

He implied, but never stated, the two became lovers before Davis and his wife separated and engaged in a bitter, multi-million dollar divorce suit.

And, finally, he said he never met Stan Farr, 30, who succeeded him as Mrs. Davis' lover and was one of two killed in the Aug. 2, 1976 shooting spree at the mansion.

Mrs. Davis, 36, and Gus Gavrel Jr., 22, were wounded in the midnight attack and Davis' 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, was wounded.

Davis, 44, is on trial for his life in the shooting death of the child.

Ruffner's testimony was punctuated with references to drinks, drugs and fighters and provided a bizarre glimpse into the free-wheeling lifestyle of one element of Fort Worth society.

Concerning his affair with Mrs. Davis, Ruffner said, "There were mornings when there was total harmony and mornings that were total hell."

He said she told him more than once to "take your junk and get out."

Ruffner said their relationship began to sour in the spring of 1975 and ended one May night when he wrecked her car outside a Fort Worth saloon.

That same night he got into a fistfight at the mansion during an argument with Mrs. Davis, but said he was too drunk at the time to remember details of the incident.

His combatant that night, Larry Thomas, testified previously that he knocked Ruffner as he appeared to be reaching into his pocket for a knife or gun.

But Ruffner said he was not carrying a gun and that he doubted he was reaching for his knife. A deputy sheriff took a knife from him after his arrival here Tuesday.

At the time, Ruffner was wearing his t-shirt that depicts him in a pose similar to one in a photograph the defense has unsuccessfully attempted three times to enter into evidence.

red and white-striped Christmas stocking. Mrs. Davis was wearing a revealing halter top and pants.

Chief defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes questioned Ruffner at length about his affair with Mrs. Davis and about when they began dating each other "exclusively."

"That would be hard to say because I've always had more than one lady in my life," said Ruffner.

The long-awaited confrontation between the stormy Ruffner and the crafty Haynes began behind closed doors Wednesday with spectators jamming the courtroom and spilling into the hallway.

Trial Judge George Dowlen summoned Ruffner, Haynes, a prosecutor and the court reporter into his chambers for two hours of secret questioning before testimony began.

Haynes told the jury in his opening statement last week he would show that Ruffner once threatened to kill Farr and Mrs. Davis.

Last week, Ruffner showed up in a lewd T-shirt and accused Haynes of using him as a "whipping boy," maliciously slandering him before the press and public.

Once Ruffner took the stand Wednesday, Haynes moved quickly into his relationship with Mrs. Davis, who admitted previously that the two became lovers after her separation.

"Do you know Priscilla Davis?" Haynes asked.

"Yes," Ruffner replied.

"Are you in love with her?"

"I'm in love with a lot of women."

"Does that include Priscilla Davis?"

"She's a special lady to me."

Ruffner testified at one point he began dating Mrs. Davis in January or February 1974. He said he saw Mrs. Davis socially many times before the separation and that they shared a couch while visiting a friend in Boston, Mass., in March 1974.

But he indicated, in Haynes' words, there was no "social interaction." He said he also accompanied Mrs. Davis and others to a "Willie Nelson Picnic" on July 4 of that year and that he had met her in bars, restaurants and the homes of friends.

"In July of 1974, had the relationship progressed to the point where you were in love?" Haynes asked.

"To a certain extent, yes."

Missing Child's Search Still Continuing

Weary police checked out several leads Wednesday as the week-old search for Johnny Turner Jr., 6, continued, but officers reported no success by the end of the day.

Acting on information supplied by a deputy sheriff, police checked a cave in the Slaton area but reported no trace of the missing 115 Elementary School student.

Late Tuesday lawmen found a small shoe in a Yellowhouse Canyon stream, but the child's father told officers the shoe was too large for his son's foot.

A white, 1974 Chevrolet pickup truck was impounded Wednesday morning, police said, and taken to a lot at 5th Street and Avenue J. Lawmen said the truck apparently belonged to 28-year-old Philip Carey Brasfield of Slaton, the man in custody for the abduction of the child.

Brasfield remained in Lubbock County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond, set Tuesday by Justice of the Peace Charles Smith. Attorney Mark Hall was appointed late Tuesday to represent Brasfield.

What had been the largest search by Lubbock police in a decade, according to veteran officers, was reduced to about a dozen men Wednesday.

Authorities said the Department of Public Safety would be checking the impounded pickup truck for any evidentiary matter sometime today.

An elderly Slaton woman, whose last name is the same as the accused man's, said Wednesday she has been victimized by callers who believe she is the suspect's mother.

The woman reportedly has been the target of callers at all times of the day, and some of the phone calls have been punctuated by death threats. Friends of Mrs. Audie Brasfield were imploring emotional callers Wednesday to not harass the woman.

Emeritus Faculty Reception Set

A reception honoring emeritus faculty of the department of mathematics at Texas Tech University will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon, in the Green Room of the University Center.

Department chairman Dalton Tarwater said the time was selected so that ex-students could attend to visit with emeritus and current faculty. He said former students in Lubbock for Homecoming "are especially invited to attend."

Emeritus mathematics faculty include professors John Ault, 1965-75; Gordon Fuller, 1950-68; Emmett Hazelwood, 1939-73; E. Richard Heineman, 1928-73; Robert Parker, 1946-73; Fred Sparks, 1926-61; and Horace Woodward, 1937-77.

Scholarship funds have been established to honor Fuller, Hazelwood and Heineman. The Gordon Fuller Mathematics Scholarship will be for graduate students, the E. Richard Heineman Mathematics Scholarship for entering freshmen and the Emmett Hazelwood Mathematics Scholarship for upper classmen.

McGovern Respects Yale Picket Lines

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern has canceled a three-day visit to Yale University because he refuses to cross the picket lines set up by Yale's 1,400 striking employees, the workers' union said Wednesday.

The South Dakota Democrat, who was scheduled to arrive at Yale for a Chubb fellowship, said that "under no circumstances would he cross our picket lines," said Vincent Sirabella, business manager of Local 35 of the Federation of University Employees.

"Senator McGovern's respect for our picket line has given our strikers a significant morale boost for which we are very grateful," said Sirabella.

"It's obviously a slap in the face for Yale," Sirabella said.
Another Chubb fellow, Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark, N.J., was greeted with shouts of "scab" last month as he crossed picket lines to participate in the fellowship. Gibson said at the time that it was unfair of the union to expect outsiders to come in, understand all the issues and take sides.

Computer Banking--An 'Okay'

THERE ARE worrisome concerns about electronic fund transfers but the weight of the evidence comes down on the side of an amendment to the Texas Constitution that would permit EFT banking in the state.
The Avalanche-Journal recommends a vote for Proposition 6 on Tuesday's ballot. We also favor approval of Proposition 2, which would authorize another $200 million in bonds for the state Veterans Land Fund.
If approved, Proposition 6 likely will lead to changes in the way almost every Texan handles his bank account.
THE PROPOSED amendment would give the Legislature authority to allow banks to set up EFT terminals at various remote locations, such as retail stores.

tions in the enabling legislation to be considered in the 1979 session.
ON THE PLUS SIDE, computer banking is the wave of the future and will provide consumers with a convenient optional method of payment.
It will speed up his routine business transactions, reduce his paperwork and make credit, up to predetermined maximums, instantly available.
Most bankers endorse EFT but some, particularly in smaller towns, object that EFT is branch banking in disguise. Although many states have branch banking, Texas has a Constitutional prohibition against it. Whether it's good or bad is often debated.

It would require that EFT terminals in a store be shared by all banks on a reasonable, nondiscriminatory basis.
Instead of paying cash or by check, or charging a purchase to his account, a customer could pay for merchandise instantly by transferring money from his bank account to the store's account.
Some consumerists fret that this will leave Texans vulnerable to computer error, to liability in case their EFT card is lost or stolen, to computer thefts of funds and to "snooping" by the IRS, other governmental units and other nosy entities.
There is no reason, however, that the Legislature can't provide the necessary protection.

PROPOSITION 2 on the Tuesday ballot would permit the Veterans Land Board to sell $200 million more in bonds, for a total of $700 million, to help veterans become landowners.
Unmarried surviving spouses of veterans who died in the line of duty would become eligible to buy land through the Board.
Again, serious objections have been raised by those who believe that federal benefits to veterans are especially generous without the state adding $200 million more to a program that started out as a $25 million commitment in 1946.
As a self-sustaining program, however, with interest on the bonds being paid by those who benefit from the program, Proposition 2 is worthy of a favorable vote.

AN EDITORIAL:

Carter--GOP Isolation Costly

IF ALICE and the Mad Hatter wanted to feel right at home, no one could blame them if they took up residency in Washington.
Not so long ago, President Carter, in chiding Democrats reluctant to jump at his beck and call said he felt he could depend upon some Republicans more than upon his own party.
This had the effect of further irritating the Demos and confusing the Republicans.
NOW COMES House GOP Leader John Rhodes to say that the President's political problems stem in part from his apparent isolation from Republicans.
According to the Arizona Republican, Mr. Carter has not talked regularly with any Republicans with the possible exception of former Sec. of State Henry Kissinger.
As far as I can tell, there is absolutely no contact, on either a regular or irregular basis with his administration," Rhodes said, noting that former President Lyndon Johnson --while a strict Democratic party man--kept channels open with GOP leaders in the House and Senate.

"YOU KNOW, Johnson would have a group of business and labor people over...and he'd jawbone for awhile, but then, strangely enough, he'd listen for awhile," Rhodes noted.
"I really think Carter needs to do that. He needs to get some advice from somebody other than those ideologues he's got around him in the White House."
Furthermore, Rhodes said GOP leaders have not been consulted about foreign policy, an area which most Americans feel should be bipartisan.
THE EPISODE points up again what many close observers of the Carter administration, both friend and foe, have been saying for months.
That is that the President who came to Washington as an "outsider" still maintains that role, rather than attempting to work within the historic system which has stood the nation in good stead down through the years.
Mr. Carter has had the better part of a year to learn from his mistakes. Time is growing short--for all concerned, including the nation itself.

ART BUCHWALD:

Goodnight, Excellency; Goodnight, (Your Name)

WASHINGTON--If Prince Charles believes his visit to the United States has been a goodwill trip, he's sorely mistaken.
His appearance on American soil has caused nothing but hard feelings and bitter recrimination among the mothers of eligible daughters in this country.
I was sitting between two of these mothers the other night at a dinner party and this is exactly what happened.
"I WISH Prince Charles would come to Washington," one of the mothers said. "I know he would love to meet Mitzi."
The other mother scoffed.
"Who would Prince Charles want to meet Mitzi?"
"Because he's looking for a wife, and Mitzi would be the perfect princess. She has beauty, education and she understands the British pound."
"I never heard of anything so ridiculous. If Prince Charles was really looking for an American wife, he would be much happier with my Caroline. When she was born, the nurse said, 'She's beautiful enough to be a queen.'"
The first mother said, "Caroline has asthma. She wouldn't be able to live in Buckingham Palace."
"I'M QUITE certain that Queen Elizabeth wants Prince Charles to marry somebody who is completely healthy. After all, the whole purpose of him getting married is to have a male heir.
"Now Mitzi hasn't even had a cold in her whole life. She is the picture of good health. The Windsors do need new blood."
"In all due respect, I don't think Mitzi is regal enough to be a queen," Caroline's mother said.
"It takes tremendous savoir faire to open Parliament."
"Mitzi would not have to open Parliament. Prince Charles, when he became king, would open it. The least you could do is read up on British customs if you want your daughter to marry into the royal family."

THE DISCUSSION was becoming rather heated, so I tried to add a light note. "Why don't we do it like the television show, The Dating Game?"
"Prince Charles could sit behind a screen and ask Mitzi and Caroline questions. Then at the end of the show, without seeing them, he could choose one of them for his bride."
"That would be very undignified," Mitzi's mother said. "For Prince Charles?"
"No," she replied. "For Mitzi. After all, if she's going to be a princess, she can't do anything commercial."
"I WOULDN'T allow Caroline to do it either," her mother said. "I believe Prince Charles should marry for love."
"Do you really think that Prince Charles would fall in love with Caroline?"
"There is no doubt in my mind," Caroline's mother said. "Besides, I know that Prince Philip and Queen Elizabeth would enjoy having us as in-laws. Jim and I are very comfortable with royalty."
"You forgot one thing," Mitzi's mother retorted. "A British queen is expected to ride a horse on her birthday. You told me yourself that Caroline was allergic to horses."
"There is nothing in the Magna Carta that says the queen has to ride a horse," Caroline's mother said angrily.
FINALLY, MITZI'S mother turned to me: "Let's leave it to Art. Which do you think would make a better match for Prince Charles--my beautiful Mitzi or her asthmatic Caroline?"
I choked on my mousses au chocolate.
"Was a question?" I said.
"All I can say is I don't think Prince Charles is worthy of either of them.
"Now, if you'd like to talk about my daughter, Jennifer..."

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK:

What Price, Peace?

AMMAN, JORDAN--The temptation for Israel "to use its military might while it is at its peak" is the most dangerous political fact in the world today and one that directly threatens President Carter's peace efforts.
ANDREW TULLY:
No Tears Of Pity
WASHINGTON--It is nice they will name a Congressional office building and HEW headquarters for Hubert Humphrey. But they don't have to.
Nobody who knows that merry and thoughtful man or who has reaped the fruits of his compassion will ever forget him. One need only recall a comment by Arizona's Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater to understand Humphrey's impact on his beloved country.
Goldwater had lost another one to Humphrey on the Senate floor. Yet this stalwart conservative was constrained to pay tribute to the man from Minnesota.
"I seldom agree with Hubie," Goldwater told reporters, "but he's a living monument to decency."

King Hussein, now in his 25th year on the throne of Jordan, couples that warning with another conclusion that cuts at the heart of American policy toward Israel since its conquests 10 years ago in the Six-Day War.
"It has been said that a strong Israel is a moderate Israel," the King told us during an interview in his family palace. "I am afraid it is now clear that that is not true."
Hussein expressed the usual hope that Carter's plan to reconvene the Geneva conference will succeed and praised Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance for the most forthright peace efforts ever made by an American administration.
But his inner mood was melancholy, not optimistic.

THE 67-YEAR-OLD statesman is dying of cancer, and one naturally does not expect anyone to say anything but good about him. But, in my opinion, it is impossible to say anything but about Hubert Humphrey, who "nothing common did or mean."
That doesn't suggest that Hubie is perfect. Far, fortunately, from it. But he has always been human, and that is something that can be said of too few of the political figures who pass through the Washington scene.
There are those who will decry President Carter's statement that Humphrey "is the greatest man I know" as colored by hypocrisy. This is, after all, the same Jimmy Carter who called Humphrey "a loser" during the 1976 primary campaign.
But I'll accept Carter's paean--because it's true.

THE REASON is found in his somber view about Israel's real intentions, and its ability, thanks to the billion-dollar-a-year military pipeline from the U.S. to make good those intentions.
"I firmly believe that they are not interested in any withdrawal from the occupied territories, particularly the West Bank and Gaza," he said.
"They have in the back of their minds a base in all of Palestine, after 2,000 years, and I don't think they will part from it even for true peace."
The King had just sent the President a request for clarifications and modifications in the U.S.-Israel working paper on the procedural arrangements for Geneva. Clearly the task for coordinating Syria, Egypt and Jordan on a common Arab position is proving to be no picnic.

CARTER IS A new boy and no one in his political ken measures up to Hubert Humphrey. Besides, Carter by broad implication was apologizing for his 1976 crack. In the heat of a campaign, politicians frequently say things they later wish they hadn't.
Carter has made amends by stating the obvious. Carter also was only speaking the truth when he said "every elderly person in our nation..." owes Humphrey a debt. Hubie's faults have never included an inability to notice the underprivileged.
Whenever he erred, it was on the side of the plain citizen. He has never been patronizing; he was always spoken of the plain citizens' rights, not of noblesse oblige.
And he has always been a fighter, always moving into the center of the ring to strike a blow for the cause many of us--with regard to our own comfort--might wish to ignore. He is still fighting for what is left of his life.
"Never give up and never give in," Humphrey remarked as he returned to Washington from Minnesota on the Presidential plane. That is not merely putting up a front. For a brave many like Hubert Humphrey, no other front is conceivable.

FOR EXAMPLE, on the central question of PLO attendance at Geneva--absolutely ruled out by Israel--Jordan is not at all interested in making a fight.
Since the PLO has been designated by the Arab world as "sole representative" of the Palestinians on the West Bank, Jordan theoretically is not even a direct party for the Geneva talks about Israel's withdrawal.
But the King was vague about this. The PLO issue, he told us, is "rather important" and it would be "of great benefit" to have the PLO at Geneva.
The real question, he said, is not so much the PLO. Rather, it is to let the West Bank Palestinians themselves decide their future--"the people of Palestine as such, without pressure from any one, should exercise the right of self-determination under international auspices."

And he has always been a fighter, always moving into the center of the ring to strike a blow for the cause many of us--with regard to our own comfort--might wish to ignore. He is still fighting for what is left of his life.
"Never give up and never give in," Humphrey remarked as he returned to Washington from Minnesota on the Presidential plane. That is not merely putting up a front. For a brave many like Hubert Humphrey, no other front is conceivable.

HUSSEIN'S DEEPEST worry is neither the PLO nor the West Bank but what he sees as Israel's real game in the pre-Geneva jostling: "to outmaneuver the Arabs and remove any blame from themselves for lack of progress" in getting to Geneva or in a breakdown of diplomacy thereafter.
Thus, he implied, Jordan, Egypt and Syria should at all costs agree to go to Geneva and not let Israel's procedural demands deflect them. Otherwise, "Israel may get off the hook" and blame the Arabs for a breakdown and then, on any one of a multitude of manufactured pretexts, bring into play its immense military power.
However it may appear in the West, this view of a militaristic Israel capable of brazen exploitation of its U.S.-supplied power is today one of the underlying realities in the Arab world--a reality some students of mideast politics have warned about for years.

YES, HE WAS on the brink of tears when he spoke to his well-wishers at Andrews Air Force base. But if I know Hubert Humphrey, they were not tears of self-pity, but the tears of a man overcome by the affection with which he had been wrapped.
Hubie would never claim such love as his due, which explains why he was so moved by it.
He had, as always, concern for his friends' concern for him, and sought first to reassure them. "Everything is relative," he said. "I feel well, but of course I'm not as good as I was when I was 50." He is not one to saddle people with worry about him.
Bless this uncommon man with the common touch. He has sometimes been wrong, but the country always knew where to find him--on the side of mankind.

HUSSEIN'S SPECIAL worry about the probability of yet another Israeli military attack is Jordan's vulnerability as an easy avenue to Syria and Iraq.
"Jordan lies between Israel and major sources of Arab energy," he told us. His nightmare, which American politicians have until recently dismissed as Arab paranoia, is yet another failure of peace efforts--with the Americans blaming the Arabs, followed by a lightning Israeli assault to destroy the Arabs' war-making capability.
As the soft underbelly of the Arab world east of the Jordan river, Jordan, in the eyes of the king, could not be spared.
Sign on wall of office: "It Is Not What You Know That Counts But What You Can Think Of In Time."
Wife complaining to marriage counselor: "It all started with him wanting to be in the wedding photographs."

Stars 'n Strips?

THOUGHT FOR Today: Opportunity never comes. It's here.
OVERHEARD: Lumber is so expensive these days, it's hard to believe it grows on trees.
ANOTHER ONE of those flaps about what students are or are not learning came out of Honolulu the other day.
It not only concerned the fact that a group of ninth graders were more or less stumped in their efforts to write the Pledge of Allegiance, but a general lack of knowledge in several areas.
Seems that of 111 ninth graders asked to spell out the Pledge, not one could do it correctly!
The end results showed such things as the United States being "under guard" instead of "under God." The phrase "to the Republic for which it stands" turned up in some instances as "of richest stand."
The teacher charged that students are being passed regardless of their skills, and that educational standards are not high enough, a claim the state superintendent of education did not dispute.

WE GOT TO wondering if ninth graders in Lubbock Public Schools could recite the Pledge, or write it, without a bobble. They should be able to do so, perfectly.
We also got to wondering at the numerous stories which pop up here and there relating such incidents as the one in Honolulu, those involving students passed right on through the system to college, without being able to spell or knowing the nation's basic history.
We often hear how "this generation of youngsters is far smarter, more alert, more aware and with it" than the ones in the past.
We feel this is true as it applies to most students in the Lubbock Public School system and those at Texas Tech, LCC and other area colleges.

But, in numerous cities, if the wave of news stories are any indication, the school systems can stand some upgrading--in spelling, reading, basic government and U.S. history. The latter without "interpretation" and embellishment. Where there's so much smoke, there must be some murky thinking!
SLIDE ROAD Sam Says: President Carter has got it backwards. He should keep the Canal and get rid of Andy Young!
A LIB FOE Opines: If some feminists have their way, instead of Men and Women, restroom signs may soon read "To Whom It May Concern."

AS ONE WHO should be on the spot instead of listening to sermons on the radio, nevertheless we have a beef.
We note that all too often after a Sunday church service and the signoff, often in the middle of a sentence or a hymn, the station in question comes on with music.
Often as not, the selection may be some raucous hillbilly number, or worse still one of the new "in" things which either has ultra suggestive lyrics or seems grating in view of the immediate previous program.
Would it be asking too much to suggest that the powers that be at the stations sort of ease into the next program with some sort of appropriate music. A quieter, more logical transition, as it were?

IT'S STILL a fact: Every baby resembles the relative who has the most money.
A PERSON we know recently met someone who could cook, sew and keep house. So she married him.
THERE PROBABLY are few persons who at one time or another haven't felt but that they could run the business or the railroad better than the man doing it.
Sometimes, he, or she, might be right.
Sitting in the Decision Seat isn't all it's cracked up to be, however. Neither the decisions, nor the results, always come easy. There are more ulcers per capita in that position than all the others combined.

However, a lot of executives who run businesses, and perhaps railroads, bring some of the problems upon themselves. Some are so obvious as to make one wonder why.
One of the biggest weaknesses, we think, that most men who run the show make is failing to relate to or motivate those with whom they work. Much of the problem lies in not offering constructive praise as well as objective criticism.
SOME TIME ago, there was an item in Bits & Pieces, which told of a survey among several thousand persons who were asked: "What are the most serious faults of executives in dealing with their associates and subordinates?"
The most common fault was failure to see the other person's point of view. Two thirds put this at the top of the list. Here are the others:

- Failure to show appreciation or give credit, 36 per cent.
Failure to size up employes correctly, 34 per cent.
Lack of Leadership, 24 per cent.
Lack of frankness and sincerity, 19 per cent.
Arbitrariness, 17 per cent.
Arrogance, 17 per cent.
Failure to delegate authority, 17 per cent.
Indecision, 5 per cent.
and Miscellaneous, 21 per cent.
Of course, making the railroad, or whatever, run, is a two-way street. The employe also has obligations, and faults, which play a key role in putting it all together. For our money, giving a full day's work for a day's pay would have to top the list on that end of the line...

L.M. ROYD:

...Pass It On

Q. "WHY CAN'T big league baseball umpires look at TV's instant replays before making otherwise questionable decisions?"
A. The rulebook boys haven't come around to authorize that wrinkle yet. And it's not likely they will. It would certainly slow down the game. Besides, arguments continue after the replays, frequently. There was a time in baseball's early days when an umpire took testimony from both players and spectators before passing on doubtful plays. That didn't work, either.
Most recent surveys indicate that if you stand 5-foot-4 and weigh 132 pounds, young lady, you're exactly average in those two significant statistics.

Panel Orders Aid To Utilities

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas' Public Utility Commission Wednesday ordered power companies across the state to begin negotiations to arrange sales of cheap electricity to utilities facing high generating costs.

The three man commission also approved 2-1 a $44.1 million, 13.2 percent increase in electricity rates for Texas Electric Service Co.

Commissioner Garrett Morris argued unsuccessfully for a $32.2 million increase instead. He complained TESCO's customers are being assessed too high a portion of the cost of constructing new lignite and nuclear-powered plants.

Morris also suggested TESCO customers are entitled to credit for money the Fort Worth-based utility makes on sales of its cheap excess power to other utilities.

Commissioner Alan R. Erwin said state officials can determine how the proceeds from sales of excess power will be used when utilities began submitting contracts worked out by negotiators.

Erwin proposed the resolution pushing well-off utilities to sell electricity to other power companies as a way to curb spiraling costs in areas facing excessive fuel costs.

During September, for example, an Austin resident paid $47.48 for 1,000 kilowatts of electricity compared to $30.85 paid by a Fort Worth resident using the same amount of power.

Austin's municipal power generators were operating at near capacity, Erwin said, while more than 40 percent of TESCO's generating plant remained idle —

"costing its ratepayers but benefiting them little."

TESCO officials and representatives of Houston Lighting & Power Co., Texas Power & Light, Dallas Power & Light, Gulf States Utilitz Co., El Paso Electric Service Co., Central Power & Light of Corpus Christi, West Texas Utility, and municipal utilities in Austin, San Antonio and rownsville, endorsed the plan to push economy sales.

A spokesman for Central Power & Light and West Texas Utility said economy sales have saved Central customers more $6 million in the past two years and delayed the need for an increase in rates charged West Texas customers.

Frederick H. Ritts of Washington, attorney for Tex-La Electric Cooperatives, opposed the move, saying the Utility Commission lacks authority to issue such a directive without adopting a formal rule on economy sales.

"I think the resolution is a public statement of our desire to tell the utilities of this state to try to work in the direction of trying to furnish electricity as cheaply as possible to citizens of this state," said Commission Chairman George Cowden.
"We are paying through the nose for our own energy needs and if there is a way to reduce costs, we must identify it and utilize it," Erwin said.

Hill Promises To Fight For Lower Utility Bills

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Attorney General John Hill said Wednesday Gov. Dolph Briscoe has failed to provide leadership necessary to fight rising utility costs in Texas, and said if he is elected governor he will fight for passage of a six-point plan to reduce utility bills by at least 20 percent.

"Despite the fact that our citizens have suffered more cost increases than those in other states, our governor has not responded to the needs for rate relief," Hill told a Trinity University audience.

"The governor had an opportunity to provide some relief to our utility customers when the legislature was in session last spring. But nothing was done."

Hill said, however, the opportunity for lower bills was not lost.

"With real leadership for a change," he said, "we can cut our utility bills."

He proposed a repeal of the 4 percent state sales tax on utility bills, a crack-down by regulatory agencies on the cushion in the formula used to calculate utility rates, stronger regulatory agencies to audit utility companies, adjustment of the natural gas severance tax to pass more of the tax along to out of state gas customers, a serious conservation program, and adjustment of utility rate design.

"If we will take these initiatives, I believe we can stop this spiral and cut our utility bills by at least 20 percent," Hill said. "We can't bring back the good old days of really cheap utility bills. But we don't just have to suffer through the bad new days."

He said he had filed suit to block a statewide rate increase by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., and had gone on statewide television to lobby for passage of legislation creating the Texas Public Utility Commission.

"As governor, I will do more," he said. "I could provide the leadership we don't have and cut utility bills."

Faculty Receive Teaching Awards

Three Texas Tech University mass communications faculty members have received "Teaching Innovation Awards," sponsored by the Mass Communications Advisory Committee.

Hershel L. Womack Jr., instructor in photography and film, received $100 from the advisory committee. Clive J. Kinghorn, assistant professor of telecommunications, $75 and Dr. Harmon L. Morgan, assistant professor of journalism, $50.

The awards are donated by L.U. Kaiser, printing and direct mail advertising industries executive in Houston.

The awards were presented by John Anderson, managing editor of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times. Anderson is chairman of the selection subcommittee of the advisory committee.

Five Persons Die In Kentucky Hotel Fire

COLUMBIA, Ky. (AP) — Five persons died and eight were injured early Wednesday in a fire that swept through a 79-year-old hotel that authorities said was cited two years ago for 15 violations of the state fire code.

Four of the deaths were attributed to smoke inhalation, while a fifth man died of a heart attack shortly after fleeing the Miller Hotel.

Other persons had been feared missing after the fire was controlled by up to 60 firemen from four counties. But Deputy Fire Marshal Clell Upton said later that all 22 persons believed to have been in the building were accounted for.

Kentucky's acting fire marshal, Bob Estep, said the hotel was cited in 1975 for 15 violations of the state fire code and was last inspected in December 1975. Officials said there was no record of whether the alleged violations had been corrected.

Upton said the cause of the fire, which broke out before midnight Tuesday, was not known, but that it may have started in a laundry room. He said there was no reason to suspect arson.

The two-story, 32-room hotel had at least two emergency exits, but at least two persons escaped through windows. One witness said persons escaping by the main stairs had to go right past the laundry room where the fire may have started.

Six of the injured were hospitalized, and two were treated and released, officialists said. Among those injured were Mr. and Mrs. Haskin Rowe, who operated the hotel.

The hotel, a two-story building built in 1898 with 18-inch-thick brick walls, was a landmark in this community of about 3,500 in south-central Kentucky.

First-floor businesses in the building also were destroyed or damaged. They included the Greyhound bus station, an insurance company, an attorney's office, a beauty shop, the local office of the Mental Health and Retardation Board and a clothing store.

Authorities reported that 42 persons lived in the hotel but that only 22 were in the building at the time.

One resident was away attending horse racing in Louisville. "He won a hell of a stake by not being here," said Upton.

Insulation Shortage Predicted By Spokesman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers face shortages of fiberglass building insulation material for at least the next three years, industry representatives told Congress on Wednesday.

But they told a Senate governmental affairs subcommittee they have no firm figures on the severity of the existing shortage and predictions of future supplies are difficult because of economic uncertainties.

Officials of Owens-Corning Fiberglas, Johns-Manville and CertainTeed all said their firms are using allocation systems to distribute products because they are unable to meet demand. The companies also are expanding production.

John A. McKinney, president of Johns-Manville, said his company's allocation system probably will remain in effect at least until 1980, although all three companies said shortages are not as severe as some reports indicate. The Commerce Department also has predicted a shortage of insulation material at least through the end of the current decade.

One subcommittee member, Sen. Bill Roth, R-Del., expressed concern about the efficiency and safety of some of the non-fiberglass insulation materials on the market.

"We have learned that even though properly-manufactured cellulose is safe and effective, a few 'fast-buck' artists are selling a product which eats away at buildings and feeds fires," Roth said.

The shortages and safety concerns are developing as Congress considers President Carter's proposal to give tax credits to homeowners who insulate their houses as a way of cutting down on fuel consumption.

Both the House and Senate approved a $400 tax credit for consumers who install insulation, storm windows and other energy-saving devices, and the congressional conference committee on energy is expected to include the provision in the compromise bill it is drafting.

But McKinney said the proposed tax credit is unlikely to help distribute the available fiberglass insulation materials to areas of the greatest need. "The tax credit does not allocate according to need, it allocates according to ability to pay," he said.

Fiberglass material accounts for an estimated 75 per cent of insulation sold in this country, and industry officials said consumers can expect moderate price increases.

"Either prices must rise to cover increased costs or we must slow or stop capital spending for expansion in this area," McKinney said. Owens-Corning increased its prices earlier this year, hiking the cost of one type of insulation by 5 to 6 per cent and the cost of a second variety by 9 to 10 per cent.

Sen. William Hathaway cited estimates that the cost of insulation has increased 20 per cent to consumers in the past four months. The Maine Democrat has drafted legislation giving the federal government authority to impose temporary price controls on insulation materials.

The legislation also calls for Consumer Product Safety Commission standards on insulation and would require the Department of Energy to monitor the allocation system the industry has established.

S. John Byington, chairman of the safety commission, said his agency is looking into allegations that some firms are producing cellulose insulation products that do not conform with voluntary industry standards and are not submitted for independent laboratory tests.

Inflation Eating Up Raises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most American workers earned $15 more a week in May than they did a year ago, but couldn't buy more for their money because of inflation, the Labor Department reported Wednesday.

The department said weekly earnings of full-time wage and salary workers averaged $212 last May 8, an increase of $15 or 6.9 percent over the previous 12 months.

"But because consumer prices rose at about the same pace — 6.7 percent — real earnings (purchasing power) did not change significantly," the department said.

The figures were based on an annual survey of 55,000 households taken by the Census Bureau each May for the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The survey showed sharp differences remain between earnings for men and women and between whites and blacks.

According to the Labor Department:

— The median weekly earnings of all men who work full time was $253 in May 1977, while the median for women in full-time jobs was $156, or about 62 percent of the average for men. The ratio has shown little change over the past 18 years, despite the heavy influx of women into the work force.

The median is the level at which half the workers earned more and half earned less.

— Married men working full time were earning an average of $272 a week in 1977. Married women with full-time jobs reported a median of $158.

— Average weekly earnings of white full-time workers was $217, compared with $171 for blacks.

The median for white men, at $259, was 29 per cent higher than that of black men, whose median wage was $201. However, the $157 median wage for white women was only 7 percent higher than those of black women.

ADDRESSES CONVENTION—Evangelist Billy Graham was in Fort Worth Wednesday to address the Baptist General Convention of Texas. At a news conference preceding his address he defended a 22.9 million fund which will be used for creating educational institutions and asserted that the little publicized fund was never a "secret" fund. (AP Laserphoto)

Closer Minority Ties Urged

FORT WORTH (AP) — The new president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas urged the state's Baptists Wednesday to seek closer relationships with black and Mexican-American Baptist churches.

The appeal was made by The Rev. Dr. Milton Cunningham, pastor of the Westbury Baptist Church of Houston and a former African missionary, who was elected by acclamation president of the Texas denomination holding its annual convention here.

Cunningham said he hoped his service in Africa had given him a greater sensitivity toward those of different races and he said one of his priorities would be promoting better relations among Baptists churches of all races.

The Westbury church has a number of black and Mexican-American members.

Messengers to the state convention also approved a record $28 million budget for the denomination. The total was $2.5 million higher than the budget for the previous year.

In the convention sermon, Dr. Brown Ware, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Austin, said that Texas Baptists are still falling short in dealing with persons of other races.

"Our relationship with other races was marked by apathy until the 1954 Supreme Court decision," he said. "In response, we first resisted; then conformed and now rest on our modest laurels."

Ware said the Baptists, who have a new evangelistic program, entitled "Bold Missions," never have been bold about evangelizing among blacks and Mexican-Americans.

"Will we wait until Texas elects a Mexican-American governor before becoming bold missionaries among those who elect him?" he asked.

Dr. Cunningham said the current "Bold Missions" evangelism program has challenged Southern Baptists more than any other such endeavor. He added the program will be his highest priority as president.

Town Learning To Cope With Contaminated Water

SANTA ROSA (AP) — Residents are boiling their drinking water and school children are eating lunch off disposable plates as citizens of this Rio Grande Valley town learn to cope with a contaminated water supply.

Santa Rosa was told by state health officials Tuesday that its water was not fit for human consumption.

"We've got some men cleaning the settling tanks now and hope to have our chlorinator working by Thursday or have a new one," Mayor James E. Cameron. "Our water system is about 20 years old and like I've been telling people, it's got to be fixed and we just don't have the money to do it."

"I don't see why the government can't help us," he continued. "They throw millions of dollars down the tube every day for programs that don't help as many people as a new water plant would help us."

City officials said the latest census reports list Santa Rosa's per capita income at $1,268.

Last week, officials in this town of about 1,500 sent letters to local and national politicians asking for aid in obtaining federal funds to rejuvenate the water system. Following the example set by other South Texas communities such as Crystal City, Santa Rosa included Sen.

Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., in its letter-writing campaign.

Last month, the town was cited for 12 violations by the Texas State Department of Health Resources because of its "salty, stink-tasting" water.

Tuesday, state officials told Cameron the water should be boiled before used for cooking or drinking.

"We recommended that they clean out the storage tank and get the chlorinator back in operation," said Hector Herrera, an engineer for the state health department.

"We also told them to keep the hatch on the water storage tank so birds and insects couldn't contaminate the water and by keeping the hatch closed, light couldn't get in the tank and allow the algae to grow."

Herrera added that the "chemical quality of the water does not meet state standards — it's got more salts and sulphates in it than it should.

"We're not asking them to meet standards over night, but the most important recommendation from our point of view is to get the tank cleaned, the hatch over it and restore the chlorinator. That wouldn't take a lot of money. Then they could possibly begin looking for another source of water."

Santa Rosa school superintendent John Murphy said the approximately 1,000 students went without water most of the day and lunched off disposable plates to avoid washing dishes in the contaminated water.

"This is just temporary," he said. "The water supply from our well in town isn't the best in the world but it won't kill you. We brought in bottled water for cooking and drinking purposes."

Cameron said his town needs "about $35,000" for a new water plant. "We'll pay for the tank cleaning and restoring the chlorinator out of funds earmarked for bond retirement," he added. "The bond people will just have to wait a while for their money."

Four Agencies Cited For Discrimination

AUSTIN (AP) — Four state agencies in Texas have discriminated "individually and collectively" in the hiring and promotion of females, blacks and Mexican-Americans, a federal official has told Attorney General John Hill.

Drew S. Days III, assistant U. S. attorney general in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, told Hill in a letter dated Oct. 25, the state must institute affirmative action programs and compensate those who have been discriminated against.

Texas has 60 days in which to agree to a consent decree, the letter says.

The four agencies named are the Texas Employment Commission, the Health Department, the Human Resources Department and the Merit System Council.

Hill was unavailable for comment. A copy of the letter was obtained by KTBC-TV reporter George Waldrop from an employee in one of the four agencies.

Days said the agencies engaged "in a pattern and a practice of employment discrimination... blacks, females and Mexican-Americans have been discriminatorily denied promotional opportunities and have been assigned to less desirable positions."

He said the agencies "are using employment screening procedures that have an adverse effect on minorities and females."

Texas must do four things, Days said.

1. The establishment and implementation of hiring and promotional goals for qualified blacks, females and Mexican-Americans in numbers sufficient to overcome the effects of past discrimination.

2. The adoption and implementation of a recruitment program designed to inform blacks, females and Mexican-Americans of job and promotional opportunities within the state and its agencies, and to provide sufficient qualified applicants to satisfy the numerical goals set forth above.

3. The adoption and implementation of objective, formalized employment procedures that will not disproportionately exclude blacks, Mexican-Americans and females in the hiring and promotional process and will allow these minorities to compete on an equal basis with white males.

UT Victory Parties Costly To Taxpayers

AUSTIN (AP) — University of Texas street parties after Texas' football victories is costing taxpayers $5,000 a night.

Extra-duty costs, including police overtime, cost the city $7,500 after No. 1 Texas whipped No. 14 Texas Tech, 26-0, last Saturday.

Extra costs totaled $4,000 after each of the Arkansas and Southern Methodist games.

Paducah Council Okays Farm Labor Housing Project

A-J Correspondent

PADUCAH — The Paducah city council, meeting in called emergency session, Wednesday voted in favor of the proposed Farm Labor Housing Project being built on blocks No. 24 and 25 in the North Park Addition.

Council members first rescinded action taken at a September session when they approved the installation of water and sewer lines to an earlier considered site for the project.

The council also approved Holloway Construction Company of Lubbock, currently installing the sewer line for another project, as the contractor for the sewer line in North Park Addition.

Bill Cartwright, city director of public works, was authorized to obtain bids on the water line work required.

Meeting with the council were Joe Don Brooks and Joe Caraway, members of the Paducah Chamber of Commerce Farm Labor Housing Committee; B. L. Scott, executive director of Paducah Housing Authority, and P. Edelen, supervisor of the local Farmers Home Administration, through which application will be filed for a 90 per cent funding grant and 10 percent loan.

Delay Plea Blasted By ERA Foe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Phyllis Schlafly, a leader of the opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment, criticized on Wednesday an attempt to extend the time for ratifying the amendment.

"We feel this is like changing the rules in the middle of the game," she said. "Now that some states have ratified, but not enough, they want to change the rules. This is in violation of all ideas of contract law," she told reporters at a news conference.

Need Three More States

The ERA, passed by Congress in 1972, must be adopted by three more state legislatures by March 22, 1979, if it is to become a part of the constitution. Thirty-five legislatures have endorsed the proposal. But three states, Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska, have voted to rescind their endorsements.

Mrs. Schlafly maintained that a seven-year extension, which is under study by a House subcommittee, would invalidate the positive votes given the ERA.

The Justice Department told the subcommittee Tuesday that only a majority vote by the House and Senate was needed to push the deadline beyond 1979. Assistant Attorney General John Harmon also said the department feels states cannot rescind their ratifications.

Court Challenge Threatened

Mrs. Schlafly said she and her associates will challenge the ratifications in court if the extension is adopted.

She filed a statement with the subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights expressing her opposition to the extension.

"Nothing could be more unreasonable than to saddle state legislatures with the duty of debating the same constitutional amendment for more than seven consecutive years," the statement said.

Mrs. Schlafly also criticized the Carter administration's efforts to persuade state legislators to support the amendment.

"For a White House lobbyist to be making calls...I feel is unconstitutional, improper and really proves our point that this whole ERA move is a grab for power (for the federal government)."

Hopes For Death Knell

Mrs. Schlafly, who has expanded her activities to opposing the forthcoming national women's conference in Houston, also said that she hopes the conference will be "the death knell of the women's liberation movement."

She said 20 per cent of the delegates to the federally funded conference agree with her views. The conference, which opens on Nov. 18, is being sponsored by the Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year.

She said the organizations she represents are joining with anti-abortion groups to form a Pro-Family Coalition which will sponsor counter activities during the Houston conference.

"We feel it necessary to show that the International Women's Year Commission does not represent American women," she said.

Dog Show Slated In 4-H Barn

A-J Correspondent

SILVERTON—A dog show, sponsored by the Silverton Young Homemakers, is slated at 3 p.m. Saturday at the 4-H show barn.

Divisions include one through six-year-olds; seven through 11-year-olds; and 12 through 18-year-olds.

Participants should be at the barn by 2:30 p.m. for registration.

Entry fee for each dog will be 25 cents. For those not showing pets, admission will be 25 cents for students and 50 cents for adults.

First, second and third place prizes will be given in each class, and an overall grand champion will be chosen from the top three dogs in all class divisions.

Kidnappers Seize Father Of Parliament Member

SALERNO, Italy (AP) — The 64-year-old father of a Christian Democrat member of parliament was kidnapped Wednesday on the Amalfi coast, police said.

Agents set up roadblocks on the narrow and winding drive along the coast after the abduction of Mario Amabile, father of deputy Giovanni Amabile of Italy's ruling party.

Beating, Theft Victim Afraid To Give Facts

A 31-year-old man who feared reprisal told Lubbock police Wednesday he was robbed of about $7,000 in checks by two white men sometime during the day.

The victim, who was found lying on a couch at a club in South Lubbock, reportedly had suffered a blackened eye, was bleeding from the mouth and was complaining of pain all over his body.

However, the victim refused to give police a local address and said he could not furnish information about his assailants, because the men would kill him.

The distressed victim said the robbery occurred sometime between 1 a.m. and 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Meanwhile, police arrested two Mexican-American women in the 3700 block of Avenue L Wednesday, after officers saw a man clinging to the outside of the car the women were driving.

Officers said John Edward Harris, 29, manager of a department store at 34th Street and Avenue A was the man riding precariously on the careening auto.

Witnesses said the two women entered the store about 2 p.m. Wednesday and allegedly stole some merchandise before fleeing to the parking lot.

Harris reportedly pursued the suspects, whose ages were listed by police as 39 and 33, then leaped onto their 1971 Chevrolet and ordered them to stop.

However, the car reportedly zig-zagged through the lot and at one point the driver allegedly attempted to dislodge Harris by driving close to a light stand.

As the driver reached for some merchandise in the vehicle, Harris told police, the manager was able to grab the keys from the ignition and halt the car.

Police arrived on the scene, recovered $65 worth of allegedly stolen goods, and transported the women to jail on suspicion of attempted murder and theft.

The suspects were released on bond. An estimated $1,300 worth of tools were stolen from a motel at 2100 Ave. Q Tuesday or Wednesday.

Craig Ligon said the burglars entered the building through an eastside room window, then snatched a mixer box, drills, spray gun and nail gun, in addition to other implements.

Pickup with... Mario Perez of 1303 59th St. ...

Reports of house burglaries with heavy losses continue to boost the city's growing property toll from crime.

Mario Perez of 1303 59th St. told police his house was burglarized between noon and 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, with the loss of three television sets valued at a total of $1,600.

Perez said two of the sets were lifted from the master bedroom and that the other was taken from another bedroom. Entry appeared to be through a kitchen window.

About $550 in cash and a television set valued at more than $500 reportedly were taken from the 2302 62nd St. residence of Dayn Altman.

Altman said the break-in apparently occurred between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Tuesday, and entry was made through a rear door.

James L. Gilbert of 6401 33rd St. is without a mailbox today after someone apparently placed an explosive charge in it and detonated it Monday night or Tuesday.

Gilbert said he discovered the remains of the box about 5:30 p.m. A powdery substance reportedly was found inside the ruined mailbox.

Police today were investigating a report by a 12-year-old girl that a man exposed himself to her as she was walking to school Tuesday morning.

The girl told officers she was walking to Dupre Elementary School about 8 a.m. when a man, clad only in a robe and socks, jumped from some bushes and exposed himself. She said she ran to school but did not tell her mother until after classes Tuesday afternoon. The incident reportedly occurred near 22nd Street and Avenue V.

According to B.J. Byrd of 2308 E. Baylor St., his house was burglarized between 1:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Tuesday and a $500 television set was taken. He said a glass pane was removed from a kitchen window.

Area Bands Vie For Ratings

The two-day University Interscholastic League area marching band contest ended Wednesday in Jones Stadium here with the following bands taking top ratings.

Schools in the Class AAAA division which received a Division I rating were Lubbock Coronado, Lubbock High School, Monterey High School and Plainview High School.

Plainview High School's second group received a Division II rating.

Marching bands earning a Division I rating in Class AAA were Lubbock Estacado, Brownfield and Seminole. Leveland and Lamesa took a Division II rating while Lubbock Dunbar received a Division III.

Class AA bands winning a Division I rating included Dimmitt, Floydada, Lockney, Littlefield, Friona and Freshship.

Olton, Muleshoe, Morton, Abernathy, and Slaton claimed a Division II rating, while judges gave a Division III rating to marching shows by Denver City, Idalou and Cooper.

Federal Court Director Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rowland F. Kirks, director of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts and one of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger's closest confidants, died Wednesday at Washington's Walter Reed Hospital. He was 62.

Cause of his death was not immediately released.

As administrative director since 1970, Kirks was responsible for overseeing the workload in federal courts.

Before being appointed as the administrative office's fourth director by the Supreme Court, Kirks served as general counsel for the American Textile Manufacturers Institute. Previously, he had been a registered lobbyist for the National Automobile Dealers Association.

A native of Washington, Kirks had been a friend of Burger's since they were lawyers together in the Justice Department, beginning in 1953.

"His untimely death is a great loss to the judicial system," Burger said. "His tenure...coincided with a period of unparalleled stress on the federal court system and his innovative leadership enabled the system to function in the face of great handicaps."

Burger said Kirks was responsible for many improvements in the delivery of justice, including innovations in jury use that saved more than $2 million a year.

Network Eyes City Comics Fan

An interest in comic strip characters and comic book collecting may gain a local man, Roy Dunlap, national television coverage in the near future.

A local television station film crew and reporter is expected to interview him this week for a national television network.

The interview will be aired locally, then sent to the network's headquarters in New York City for a later broadcast.

The interest in comic strip characters began when The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal started running the "Spiderman" comic strip in early 1977. Dunlap started clipping the comic strip out of the newspaper and sent copies to friends in the northern United States.

Dunlap said that friends in the northern states, such as Michigan, Pennsylvania, Wyoming and Montana, were unable to get the "Spiderman" comic strips. He clipped them from the newspaper as a favor to the friends and now clips a total of 133 daily editions each week. His paper-boy, Cecil Hastings, delivers more than 30 editions each day to Dunlap's Lubbock home.

The comic strip clipping evolved from Dunlap's main hobby, comic book collecting. He said that his favorite comic book character is Spiderman and, when the character began appearing daily in The A-J, he began his second hobby of clipping the comic strips and mailing them to friends.

Dunlap said he began collecting comic books approximately 15 years ago and now his collection numbers more than 125,000. He added that he became a comic book collector for the enjoyment of the hobby, not for the money. He once had a comic book company representative offer him $85,000 for his collection.

The hobby began as a teenager, when Dunlap read racks of comic books while waiting for his mother to finish work at a grocery store in his hometown of Dalhart. Most of his collection is stored in his parents' two-story home there.

The books are stored in plastic bags inside cardboard boxes, with the year and months written on the outside of the box. He carries with him an indexed card file for easy reference to the collection.

The local man said he purchases more than 150 comic books a month, costing either 35 cents or 60 cents each. He added that the books are purchased at smaller grocery stores, drive-in convenience stores and book stores. He buys some of the comic books at wholesale price when he can.

Ancient Life Form Discovery Shown By Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP) — A microscopic organism previously thought to be ordinary bacteria actually is a separate form of life and may be the oldest living thing on earth, it was announced Wednesday.

The major development could provide new clues to the unknown stages of evolution that immediately preceded the development of life as it is known today, scientists said.

The discovery by a University of Illinois research team was announced jointly by the National Science Foundation and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which funded the work.

The team led by Dr. Carl R. Woese, Dr. Ralph S. Wolfe and Dr. George Fox discovered the organism's uniqueness by analyzing its genetic composition.

Science traditionally divides living organisms into two basic types, the "higher" forms of animals and plants, and the "lower" forms of bacteria.

The researchers say their organism, which lives without oxygen and produces methane gas as its waste product, fits neither group.

"The organisms are a distinct new class, no more related to typical bacteria than to higher forms," Woese said. "They are a third form of life on this planet."

Woese said this type of organism probably evolved during the first billion years of earth's 4.6 billion-year existence when conditions would not sustain other known forms of life.

Its ability to live without oxygen in temperatures greater than 170 degrees Fahrenheit means that it probably could have survived on earth at that time. The atmosphere then was composed of hydrogen and carbon dioxide and temperatures were very warm. Woese says the methane-producing organisms are best suited for these conditions.

The traditional theory of two lines of evolution is based largely on the hypothesis that all life came from a common ancestor, probably a simple primal cell. The methane-producing organism may be an early offspring of this common ancestor that precedes even bacteria, the scientists said.

Woese said in an interview that discovery of a third evolutionary line opens the possibility that even more lines sprang from the common ancestor.

"This discovery is very important from a biologist's view of studying evolution," Woese said. "This allows a lot more perspectives and choices when there is disagreement on a question that can't be resolved using two lines of descent."

The methane-producing organism, technically called methanobacteria thermoautotrophica, is widespread in nature even though it is killed by oxygen. It exists in hot geothermal springs and in decaying plant material and the digestive systems of some animals where other organisms use up all the oxygen.

The Illinois team found that the organisms' basic genetic material, ribosomal RNA, was distinctly different from the RNA of bacteria and "higher" cells. This was the key evidence that the methane-producing organisms represent a unique evolutionary line.

NEW LIFE FORM — These photos, taken with an electron microscope show two different species of the organism which a NASA-National Science Foundation announced Wednesday that they have identified as a "new" form of life on Earth. Bulldozer Severs Natural Gas Line LIBERTY, Ky. (AP) — Schools and some houses in Liberty were evacuated Wednesday when a bulldozer working on a city reservoir severed an eight-inch natural gas transmission line, city officials said.

For about an hour after the accident, "there was a lot of gas in the air and it could have caused an explosion," Mayor Garland Hoskins said.

Casey County Sheriff Carl Meece said about 50 houses within a mile of the break were evacuated.

Casey County High School, Liberty Elementary and Casey County Vocational School, with a total of 1,500 to 2,000 students, were dismissed, Hoskins said. The schools were grouped together about one-half mile from the break in the gas line, he said.

Meece said the accident occurred when workmen were digging at the construction site of a dam that will create the reservoir.

"One of the 'dozers busted an eight-inch line with 300 pounds plus of pressure in it," said Meece. "It could be heard for probably two miles, the escaping gas."

State Police halted traffic on a state highway running through the area while officials worked to shut off the gas in the line, Meece said.

Hoskins said the gas line is owned by Texas Eastern Gas Transmission Corp. The line was repaired and the flow of gas restored shortly after the break was fixed, he said.

During the repairs, he said, "we asked all the residents in the city not to have any open fires."

"Everybody cooperated beautifully," he said. "Everything is back to normal now."

'Team' Pleads Innocent In Hospital Case

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (AP) — Two doctors and two other members of an operating room team pleaded innocent Wednesday to charges that they called in an untrained surgical supplies salesman to repair a botched operation on an unconscious patient.

District Attorney Henry O'Brien announced the indictments of Smithtown General Hospital personnel prior to the arraignments Wednesday. He said he had empaneled a special grand jury to investigate allegations that hospital supply salesmen have been permitted to perform surgery at other, unnamed Long Island hospitals.

O'Brien said it was "the most scandalous case it has ever been my duty to prosecute."

The indictments, which also named the hospital, allege that the salesman took over for the doctors after being summoned from a golf course in July 1975 to repair a shattered leg of Franklin Miranda, 44, of Central Islip.

Mirando has filed a $2 million malpractice suit against the doctors, claiming that the surgery, to implant an artificial joint in his hip, has crippled him.

The salesman who allegedly performed the surgery was not indicted and was named in the indictments only as "a person whose identity is known to the grand jury."

But in an interview in Newsday earlier this week, William MacKay, 34, owner of a medical supply company in Garden City and before that a surgical products salesman, said he had performed the surgery and had also taken part in 11 other operations.

Pleading innocent at their arraignment Wednesday were Dr. David Lipton, 47, head of orthopedic surgery at Smithtown General at the time of the operation in 1975; Dr. Howard Massoff, 51, who shares an office with Lipton; Lorna Salzarullo, 49, the registered nurse who was the operating room supervisor, and Mary Chiu, 48, the anesthesiologist.

All the defendants and the hospital were charged with second-degree assault, which carries a seven-year maximum term on conviction. In addition, Lipton, the nurse and the hospital were charged with falsifying records, which could carry a four-year penalty.

The indictment said the patient, Miranda, was "rendered unconscious and kept unconscious by the defendants" and that they permitted MacKay "to use surgical instruments to ream the canal of the patient's femur, to restructure the femur bone after it had been shattered by Dr. Lipton, to implant a prosthetic device commonly known as an artificial hip joint in the femur of the patient, knowing the said person was not licensed to practice medicine."

MacKay, whose formal schooling ended in the eighth grade, said he was present when Miranda's operation began to acquaint the operating team with the implant devices.

Art Festival Set For Tech Campus

The Fall Festival of the Arts featuring the works of about 20 local and area artists will be for sale in the Texas Tech University Center Courtyard, Nov. 14-15 from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. daily.

Art works will include metal sculpture, macrame, ceramics, jewelry, pottery, oil and water paintings and other works. Demonstrations by artists are scheduled throughout the festival, along with classical music, dance and theater groups sponsored by the University Center Program Fine Arts Committee.

Dollar Scores Modest Exchange Recovery

By The Associated Press
The U.S. dollar made a modest recovery in foreign exchange trading against most foreign currencies Wednesday, but fell to a 12-month low against the Italian lira and was mixed against the French franc.

The price of gold fell in both London and Zurich, Europe's major bullion markets.

Foreign exchange dealers said the dollar's improvement, after setting some record lows Tuesday, apparently was due to some profit-taking and a rise in short-term U.S. interest rates.

U.S. Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal, meeting in Bonn, West Germany, with West German Finance Minister Hans Apel, said the two governments had agreed to limit foreign exchange intervention.

In Milan, the dollar kept falling against the lira despite the Bank of Italy's large purchases. The bank has been buying dollars to increase its foreign exchange reserves.

Sets 12-Month Low

The dollar fell to 877.85 lire, a low for the past 12 months, compared to 879.40 lire Monday. There was no foreign exchange dealing in Milan Tuesday because of the All Saints holiday.

On the Paris market, which had been closed since Friday because of the holiday, the dollar improved during the day but was still lower than Friday's rate.

At the end of trading the dollar was quoted at 4.8235 French francs, compared with 4.8050 francs in early transactions and 4.8437 francs at Friday's close.

Oil Increase Feared

In Tokyo, the dollar's sharp decline in foreign exchange trading against the yen paused Wednesday as importers bought dollars, partly out of concern over a possible oil price increase.

The dollar closed at 247.55 yen, up from a postwar low closing of 247.025 Tuesday. The U.S. currency hit a low of 245.20 yen Wednesday before intervention by the Bank of Japan and import dollar buying brought it back up.

The market was affected Wednesday by a report in the Japanese press that an official of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries had said he would like to see an increase in oil prices.

Here are late rates of the dollar in some major European financial centers, with Tuesday's late rates in brackets: Zurich—2.2217 Swiss francs (2.2170); Frankfurt—2.2468 West German marks (2.2388); and Amsterdam—2.4135 Dutch guilders (2.4070).

In New York, the dollar was worth 2.2436 West German marks against 2.2376 Tuesday; 4.8192 French francs against 4.7961; 2.2177 Swiss francs against 2.2109; and 247.58 Japanese yen against 246.21.

In Toronto, the Canadian dollar slumped to 90.29 U.S. cents from 90.60 Tuesday.

In London, the pound encountered some profit-taking and eased to $1.8335 from $1.8445 late Tuesday.

The price of gold dropped 80 cents in London to close at $161.25 a troy ounce. In Zurich, the price fell 25 cents to close at $162.375 an ounce.

dent, police and ambulance attendants sped to the 2100-block of the Amarillo Highway where an older model Ford Mustang, driven by Robert Graves Lee, 22, of Hale Center, had left the roadway and plunged down a dirt embankment.

Lee was listed in critical condition at Methodist Hospital Wednesday, suffering from multiple head, chest and abdominal injuries.

An Emergency Medical Services technician said two cans of oil inside Lee's vehicle had ruptured from the force of the impact.

The 4:45 p.m. crash apparently occurred, police said, when Lee swerved to avoid a driver at a yield sign and lost control of his vehicle.

The car then shot over a concrete curb and smashed into a mound of dirt, sliding backwards down the embankment and lodging at the entrance to a drainage tunnel.

Rescue workers were hampered by a steep dirt embankment as they attempted to transport Lee from his car to one of two ambulances standing by.

A makeshift lift was hauled up the loose grade by emergency technicians and volunteers at the site before the victim could be transported to Methodist Hospital.

Services for Reed are pending with Rix Funeral Directors.

weeks after her Feb. 4 kidnap attempt. The appellate court, in upholding the verdict, agreed with the government's argument that Miss Hearst's activities while on the run with the SLA after the bank robbery were crucial to her defense of duress.

She testified that her kidnapers threatened to kill her if she did not join in the heist. But she refused, on instructions from Bailey, to answer any questions about 12 of her 19 months in the terrorist underground during which time another bank robbery was linked to the SLA.

Miss Hearst later pleaded no contest to a charge of firing a weapon during an SLA crime spree in Los Angeles a month after the San Francisco bank robbery. She was placed on five years probation in that case.

American Bus Tour Crash Kills Two

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — One of three buses plunged off a mountain road Wednesday night while returning American tourists from a visit to the famed Christ the Redeemer statue overlooking Rio, killing at least two persons, police reported.

More than a dozen injured were taken to one hospital alone.

A police spokesman said the bus apparently struck an empty car parked at the side of the road. He said the toll could have been higher, but the bus remained upright as it careened down a 60-foot embankment.

The buses were occupied by a group of 107 Americans from Seattle, Tacoma and Gig Harbor, Wash., said a spokesman for the Rent-a-Mar travel agency, Brazilian organizers of the tour.

One person died at the scene. Injured passengers were taken to Rio de Janeiro's Miguel Couto and Andaraí hospitals.

A spokesman at Miguel Couto said 14 persons were taken there and one woman died while being treated.

CRITICALLY INJURED — A Methodist Hospital spokesman said Wednesday Robert Graves Lee, 22, of Hale Center was in critical condition with multiple injuries after his car left the roadway in the 2100 block of the Amarillo Highway just before 5 p.m. Rescue workers pressed volunteers into service after the man's vehicle shot over a curb, struck the earth, then slid backward about 10 feet. Kidnappers Said Not Terrorists

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Dutch tycoon Maurits Caransa, freed Wednesday by kidnapers after five days captivity, said he negotiated his own $4.16 million ransom with four abductors he described as "just criminals" and not political terrorists.

"As they said themselves, they were only out for money," the 61-year-old millionaire told a news conference.

Caransa said the four men, who overpowered him last Friday outside an Amsterdam hotel, drove him to a dark cell-like enclosure within a larger room and handcuffed him to a bed. He spoke to him in English and French via intercom and wore ski masks in face-to-face dealings.

Bargained Release

The self-made tycoon said he gained his freedom at one fourth the 40-million guilder ($16.64 million) ransom his captors first demanded. "We bargained and came to the sum of 10 million guilders," he said.

He said he wrote the board of directors of his real estate company Sunday and instructed them to draw the money from a bank and arrange for its delivery to the kidnapers.

His advisers at the news conference stopped Caransa from explaining how this was done, but the newspaper Nieuws van de Dag said a Caransa company representative delivered the money at a rendezvous outside an Amsterdam bar. Police confirmed the ransom was paid.

Yelled For Help

The bearded and disheveled millionaire was put out of a car in downtown Amsterdam at 1:15 a.m. Wednesday. He yelled "I am Caransa! Please help me!" A woman passerby put him in a taxi and sent it to police headquarters, where he was reunited with his wife and grown daughter.

Caransa, born of a poor Jewish family of Portuguese descent, was imprisoned briefly by the Nazis during World War II, but his parents and two brothers died in concentration camps. He made his fortune selling army surplus equipment after the war.

Police Chief Inspector Gerard Toorenhaar said detectives knew the serial numbers of the 1,000-guilder ransom notes and were "not pessimistic" about finding the kidnapers. A car found in connection with the case was found abandoned on Amsterdam's south side.

Slaying Cited

Caransa's abduction came 10 days after the slaying of West German industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer by the Red Army Faction, a West German terrorist organization, and was first thought to be the work of that group. Dutch newspapers received calls demanding the release of a Red Army Faction member jailed in Holland in exchange for Caransa's freedom.

Caransa said his four abductors spoke English and French and one appeared to understand Dutch radio broadcasts. He said they gave him three sleeping pills two hours before releasing him, but he swallowed only one and stayed awake during the 45-to 60-minute drive from the hideout where he was held.

Caransa said he was never threatened and not harmed, except for a blow on the head he received when he was first taken hostage. He said he faked unconsciousness after being struck.

goal of U.S. President Carter, who last month told the United Nations General Assembly the United States was "willing now" to reduce its arsenal of nuclear arms if the Soviets would do the same.

During the 1 1/2-hour address Brezhnev said the Soviet grain harvest this year amounted to a disappointing 194 million tons, the lowest since the 1975 grain disaster. This year's crop was 19 million tons below the target and a sharp drop from the 1976 record crop of 223.8 million tons. The 1975 decade-low grain crop amounted to 140 million tons.

Imports Hike Seen

The Soviet shortfall raised the prospect of increased imports from the United States and higher U.S. grain prices following general market weakness. U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said the Soviet grain report was "a significant development to which we attach a great deal of importance ... This could have some upward impact on our grain prices."

Brezhnev stood in front of a huge bust of V.I. Lenin, founder of the Soviet state, to address Soviet officials and foreign dignitaries gathered in the 6,600-seat Palace of Congresses within the walls of the Kremlin. Communist and Socialist party delegations from 104 nations joined members of the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee and the Soviet parliament in the audience of the glittering jubilee convocation.

West Warned

In his speech Brezhnev also warned that Western countries shouldn't count on the China-Soviet split lasting forever. "We think this is a short-sighted policy," Brezhnev declared. But his renewed criticism of Peking at the same time prompted the Chinese ambassador to stalk out of the Kremlin hall.

—Asserted that the Soviet Union is not seeking to impose on other Communists its "prescriptions for the socialist transformation of society." Brezhnev's comments were in apparent response to sharp criticism of the Kremlin by Western European Communists. But Brezhnev warned that foreign Communists must avoid forsaking basic socialist principles.

Relations With U.S.

—Restated the Soviet Union's interest in continuing to develop relations with the United States "on the basis of equality and mutual respect."

Brezhnev declared that the Soviet Union "is effectively looking after its defense capability, but it does not and will not seek military superiority over the other side. We do not want to upset the approximate equilibrium of military strength existing at present."

On the nuclear testing issue, Brezhnev announced, "We are prepared to reach agreement on a moratorium covering nuclear explosions for peaceful purposes along with a ban on all nuclear weapons tests for a definite period."

Important Step

"We trust that this important step on the part of the U.S.S.R. is properly appreciated by our partners at the negotiations," recently resumed in Geneva.

Brezhnev's proposed moratorium on so-called peaceful atomic explosions appeared to bring the Soviet Union closer to the U.S.-British position at the current Geneva nuclear disarmament talks. But Western diplomatic observers in Moscow said the Brezhnev proposal wasn't detailed enough to allow thorough analysis.

Meanwhile, the Carter administration urged the Senate to reject a House-passed provision that would gradually eliminate the "earnings ceiling," which limits the amount a Social Security recipient may earn without losing some benefits.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare, wrote senators that such action would benefit only 1.3 million of the nation's 22 million retirees — those who now earn more than $3,000 a year.

Gary Kellas, that he didn't like obscenities used in front of neighborhood children.

Cooper, a carpenter for the Chicago Transit Authority, was hospitalized for three days and almost lost an eye. On the same day, two condominium residents went to the police station to press charges against a gang member they said was trying to steal parts from a motorcycle.

"While they were gone, the people in that building were subjected to all kinds of taunts, and one woman, Mrs. Mary Finnegan, went through hell," Mrs. Cooper said. She said gang members stood outside Mrs. Finnegan's window and threatened to kill her retarded son.

A neighborhood steering committee, formed with Mrs. Cooper as its leader, assembled once a month. Residents were encouraged to press charges and follow up with their testimony, supported by a busload of neighbors who packed the courtrooms for each case.

More than 60 attended when Bill Cooper testified against Kellas on a charge of aggravated battery. Kellas was convicted.

"The gang had grown up under our noses and got away with so much. Finally, we just got off our big, fat apathy...and we testified and testified and testified," Mrs. Cooper told a luncheon audience when she received her award.

She said she became frustrated with the slow-moving nature of the justice system, especially when a case was due in court and neighbors came in support, only to find the trial had been moved or continued.

South African Arms Ban Wins Backing escalation of Carter administration efforts to disassociate itself from the white supremacist regime.

He said the arms ban will be extended to cover so-called "gray area" items, which have both military and civilian uses. The ban also will encompass the export of spare parts for equipment sold to South Africa in the past.

"National Concern" He said the actions "reflect our national concern" over South Africa's actions two weeks ago against blacks and other dissidents.

The recall of the commercial attaché from Johannesburg is being made in connection with an administration review of U.S. economic relations with South Africa, Vance said.

Vance added that Monday's veto was based on the belief that there was no consensus in the Security Council for sweeping economic sanctions.

But the recall of the commercial attaché suggests that the administration may be considering some form of unilateral economic retaliation against the regime of Prime Minister John Vorster.

Minimum Effect

The tightened U.S. arms embargo will have minimal practical effect on South Africa. For the past 14 years, the export of items for use in combat or training by South African military, paramilitary or police forces has been banned.

Vance's announcement will affect such "gray area" items as civil aircraft, computers, radar and communications equipment.

Officials said spare parts for C-130 transport planes, which are not covered by the 1963 embargo, also will come under the new restrictions.

Blustery Cold Fronts Forecast

By IRA PERRY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Blustery cold fronts sending temperatures down to colder readings and winds gusting across the region should move through the South Plains once every five days this month, but even with the added systems, temperatures shouldn't drop much lower than usual.

National Weather Service 30-day forecasts indicate much of November may be just like the first two days of the month—cool, windy and dry.

Cold fronts, forecasters said, should move across the area on an average of once every five days, but only three or four systems should result in rainy weather. Average precipitation totals across the area should still be above normal, however.

Should that prediction hold true, the month would be much unlike October.

Rainfall averaged .81 of an inch below normal across the region during October, ranging from .46 of an inch above normal at Olton where 1.66 inches fell to 2.2 inches below normal at Snyder where only .37 of an inch of rain fell during the month.

Top average precipitation readings for this month include 1.15 inches at Aspermont, .95 of an inch at Snyder, .94 of an inch at Crosbyton and .91 of an inch at Paducah. The South Plains averages .67 of an inch of rain during the month of November.

Temperatures should continue to be slightly above normal throughout the month, forecasts indicate, with highs in the 60s during the first half and in the 50s the second portion of November. Freezing temperatures should be frequent, especially during the second half of the month and in the northern sections of the area.

In October, temperatures averaged 1.2 degrees above normal and ranged from 2.9 degrees above the usual high average of 61.5 degrees at Abertnathy to .7 degrees below normal of 63.6 degrees at Snyder.

Paducah recorded the highest average maximum temperature during the month with their 79.7 degree average, while Silverton reported the lowest with a 73.9 degree average.

Lubbock recorded an average maximum temperature of 75.9 degrees, an average minimum of 50.7 degrees and a monthly average of 63.3. Only 1.11 inches of rain fell here during October.

November forecasts call for an average monthly reading within one or two degrees of the city's 48.5 degree average since 1914.

South Plains communities that have not yet felt the effects of the season's first freeze should sometime within the first two weeks of the month, forecasters say.

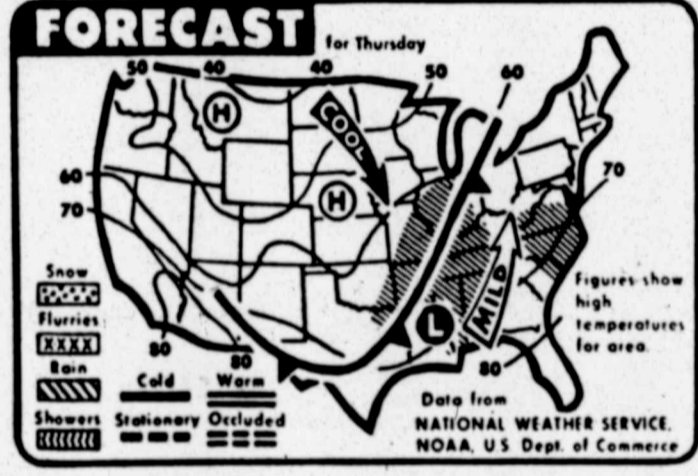

The first freeze of the season was at Dimmitt on Oct. 11 with a 30-degree reading reported there. Five more NWS stations reported 32 degrees or below on the 12th of that month. Dimmitt's 30-degree reading was the lowest for the month.

Temperatures Dip Below Freeze Mark

Strong winds swept across most of the South Plains early Wednesday, giving area residents their first shivery feel of frosty fall weather.

Following a full day of gusty, cold winds that kept mercury readings low, area residents got their first real feel of autumn Wednesday as temperatures plunged to freezing levels just before daybreak.

Lubbock temperatures landed on a low point for the day of 32 degrees at 6 a.m. Wednesday, the first time this season freezing temperatures have been recorded in the city, but in other South Plains communities, temperatures dropped even lower.

Warmer Readings Due
Today, though, forecasters say fall won't be quite as pronounced as Wednesday, with temperatures in the upper 60s today and the upper 30s tonight. Northeast winds at 10 to 15 mph, in sharp contrast to 44-mph winds felt Tuesday, shouldn't make things feel too much colder than normal. High temperatures Friday should reach the middle 60s.

Temperatures plummeted to new lows for the season Wednesday with several South Plains communities reporting temperatures as low as the 20s. Temperatures at Muleshoe and Dalhart were only one degree warmer than the 23-degree low for the state recorded at Marfa. Amarillo reported a 31-degree overnight low Wednesday.

Light Rain Falls
Light rain and drizzle fell over portions of North Texas, and cloudy skies dominated most of the north and northeast regions of the state throughout the day. In Lubbock, clear skies and high temperatures in the middle 60s were reported during most of the afternoon.

Forecasters said a new cold front forming in the northwestern portion of the nation could generate more cold weather later on, but through Friday, warmer and just as dry condition could be expected on the South Plains.

BUSNAP VICTIM ON WAY TO COURT—Mike Marshal, 15, one of the Chowchilla, Calif. school children who were kidnapped along with their bus driver last year, is followed by his sister, Candy, as they arrive at the Alameda County courthouse on Tuesday. Marshal was one of the witnesses on the stand Monday during the trial of three admitted kidnapers, who are being tried on the charge of "kidnapping with bodily harm," a more serious offense than simple kidnapping.

Girl Recalls Kidnap Ordeal

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A little girl, dwarfed by the large witness stand chair, recalled Wednesday singing songs to bolster her courage during the Chowchilla kidnapping but said she finally fainted from fright.

Ten-year-old Jennifer Brown told of being abducted July 15, 1976, by the three confessed kidnapers who sat staring at her from across the courtroom.

"I was scared and I was thinking about my mom and my dad," she said of the hours she spent underground. "It was hot and it didn't smell that nice. A lot of kids were crying and screaming and we were singing."

She said she and another girl sang "If You're Happy and You Know It, Clap Your Hands."

"Did anyone clap their hands?" asked Assistant District Attorney Joanne Pirelli.

"No," Jennifer said softly. She said she continued singing songs until her fear overwhelmed her. Even while singing, she said, she felt "sad."

"After we were in there a long time, the air started to disappear and it got hard to breathe," Jennifer remembered of the 16 hours she and the others spent in a buried moving van.

Then, she said, a distraught child kicked a wooden beam and the roof of the van began collapsing.

"Everybody was screaming," she said. "All I thought was that the whole thing would cave in and we'd all be squashed."

"Did you think you'd get out alive?" asked Miss Pirelli.

"No," said Jennifer. She was the fourth child to testify about the ordeal and the first to say that she fainted.

The three defendants are accused of causing bodily injury to their captives — 26 Chowchilla schoolchildren and their bus driver.

James Schoenfeld, 26; Richard Schoenfeld, 23, and Fred Woods, 26, have pleaded guilty to simple kidnapping, which

Committee Okays Carter Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee conditionally approved on Wednesday the nomination of Monroe G. McKay to be a judge of the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The committee acted only a few hours after the nomination was submitted to the Senate by President Carter.

Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, appealed to the committee for prompt action, saying he hoped to get the nomination on the Senate floor for confirmation before the adjournment of the current Congress.

McKay, a professor at the Brigham Young University Law School, is a brother of Rep. Gunn McKay, D-Utah.

carries a life sentence with possibility of parole. If convicted of kidnapping with bodily injury, they stand no chance of parole.

The smallest child to testify was Cynthia Van Hoff, 9, who timidly told her memories of the darkness and the crying voices inside the buried moving van.

Her father, Tom Van Hoff, took the witness stand to tell what it was like to welcome his child back the night she was brought home from her ordeal.

"She looked terrible. She was awful raggedy looking and dirty," he said.

"I'm the one that picked her up. When she came to me, she just threw her arms around my neck and clung to me till we got home. She didn't say a word. She just clung to me."

For several days afterward, he said, his daughter was silent.

"She didn't have anything to say. She was ashamed of herself and what had happened to her," the father said.

European Ties Stronger Than Communist Threat

By LOUIS HARRIS
Americans do not seem to be particularly worried about the growing strength of the communist parties of France, Italy and Spain. Indeed, a 56-26 per cent majority feels that the United States could have satisfactory relations with these countries even if there were communists in the governments.

The public is under no illusion that the so-called Eurocommunists are very much different from other communists. By 51-27 per cent people see no real difference between them. Yet according to this most recent Harris Survey of 1,536 adults nationwide, the public has rather firm views about how the United States should react if communists become part of the elected governments of western Europe:

—A 64-16 per cent majority holds the view that the U.S. "should continue to recognize those countries and carry on normal relations."

—By 63-12 per cent, people would also like to see this country "attempt to get to know the communists better and try to keep them separate from Russia."

—A 46-26 per cent plurality would oppose the U.S. "ending all military alliances with those countries."

—A 54-23 per cent majority would also oppose our "cutting down on trade with those countries."

On the delicate question of military alliance, a 44-21 per cent plurality of the public believes that Italy, Spain or France could still be part of NATO if communists were in their governments.

The issue of a communist presence in the democratically elected governments of western Europe is not just an academic one. In Italy, the powerful Communist party is close to participating in the government. In France, the so called left coalition of socialists and communists has led the center-right coalition in polls looking forward to next spring's national elections. In Spain, the communists have been openly hostile to Moscow and have expressed a desire to be part of a broader coalition.

B Local Family News METRO

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal Thursday, November 3, 1977

In general, the Eurocommunists make a point of their independence from Moscow, and they insist that if they are elected to office, their primary loyalties will be to their own country, and not to the Kremlin.

For their part, critics of the communists make the point that much of what they say may be tactical rhetoric to win votes. They point out that the internal organization of Eurocommunism is essentially the same as that of other communist parties — tight control from the top, with little or no opportunity for internal democracy. In other words, communism European-style differs little from communism Moscow-style.

Although a majority of Americans agrees with this criticism, young people under 30, college-educated people, and those who view their own political philosophy as liberal are more inclined than other groups to see Eurocommunism as a break from traditional communist dogma.

In France, where there is a real possibility that a left coalition could be elected, the socialists and communists recently broke with each other on some key issues, including plans to nationalize industry. Fundamental to this split was the growing conviction of the socialists that, in the end, it would be impossible to gov-

Bentsen Urges Installations Be Maintained

WASHINGTON (Special) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen told Defense Department officials Wednesday that "there have been enough military cutbacks in Texas." He urged that defense installations in the state be maintained at current strength in the upcoming defense budget.

"I wanted to meet with them and give them my views before they finished work on the new defense budget," Bentsen said following the meeting.

Bentsen and Sen. John Tower met in Bentsen's office with Deputy Secretary of Defense Charles Duncan and with John White, assistant secretary of defense for manpower, reserve affairs and logistics.

"I pointed out that 11 military installations in our state have been closed since 1965 because of various defense cutbacks," Sen. Bentsen said.

"And I said that those bases which remain after the winnowing-out process of the past decade are lean and mean, vital to our nation's defense and operating efficiency."

Bentsen said he asked for and received no assurances about what the new budget will include in Texas.

"It wasn't my purpose to seek any ironclad guarantees. I simply believe that a very good case can be made for keeping open all 27 installations that remain in Texas and I wanted to present our case at an early point in the Pentagon's budget-making process," Sen. Bentsen said.

Seal Given Star's Welcome

BOSTON (AP) — Andre, the celebrated harbor seal, got a star's welcome Wednesday on arrival at his winter home.

An estimated 200 youngsters and adults greeted him at the New England Aquarium where Andre was placed in a pool with other seals, said spokeswoman Roz Ridgway.

"Andre was alone in the middle, and the other seals started swimming around him," she said. "So, he's obviously a star wherever he is."

Andre was flown here from Rockland Airport aboard a chartered airplane and then trucked to the aquarium.

Andre was accompanied by his trainer, Harry A. Goodridge, who got him to perform for his waiting fans. He swam in circles, did a flip and climbed onto a platform where he covered one eye with a flipper.

His girlfriend, Smoke, made the trip from Rockport one week earlier by truck and was "very shy and reticent" Wednesday when Andre arrived, aquarium officials said.

Each spring, Andre swims the 160 miles from Massachusetts to his summer home in Rockport on the Maine coast, where he holds the title of honorary harbor master.

He is to perform three times a day at the aquarium, where "he's a great favorite," Ms. Ridgway said.

Tortilla Factory Asks Zoning Change

By PAULA TILKER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Planning and Zoning Commission today will consider legalizing a tortilla factory in a residential zone. Eloisa Gonzales will appeal to the board, which will meet at 6 p.m. in council chambers, to allow her tortilla factory to remain north of 54th Street and west of Oak Avenue.

The area is zoned single-family residential (R-1), and according to zoning ordinance the factory should be in a light manufacturing (M-1) district.

A city spokesman said Mrs. Gonzales and the building inspection department evidently misunderstood each other about the factory site when she asked whether it could be built in the R-1 zone.

Commissioners also will hear a request by Bill Cantrell for Ted Sisco asking that a lot south of 22nd Street and east of Knoxville Avenue be changed from R-1 to apartment-medical (A-M) zoning.

The change would allow a parking lot to be built across the street from Sisco's office.

Bill Steele will ask that several lots south of Erskine Street and west of Dover Avenue be zoned R-1 instead of the current two-family (R-2) zoning.

Don Harris and Tommy Cantrell will seek a change on lots south of 18th Street and west of Aberdeen Avenue. They will ask that the lots be zoned R-2 instead of R-1 to allow duplexes to be built.

A specific use permit zone change will be sought by Bobby Day to allow professional offices north of 65th Street and west of Quaker Avenue.

Commissioners will hear C.C. Knott's request to zone a tract of land west of Loop 289 and about 1,371 feet south of 50th Street from R-1 to M-1.

John G. King will ask that lots north of 22nd Street and about 304 feet east of Avenue S be zoned for high-density apartments (A-2) instead of the current R-2.

Scott C. McKenzie will seek a specific use permit zone change to allow mini-warehouses on a lot north of 2nd Place and about 173 feet east of University Avenue.

Mike Field, representing Craft, Elliott and Field, will appear before commissioners to request that a tract of land be

United Way Drive

A-J Correspondent

TULIA—The 1977-78 United Way drive here began Tuesday with a kickoff coffee in the Willie Room of Swisher Electric Cooperative.

Goal for this year's campaign is $18,800. Kenneth "Ty" Godwin is campaign chairman.

The United Way here benefits the American Red Cross, American Field Service, Tulia Satellite Training and Work Center, Boy Scouts of America, Girl Scouts, Swisher County Senior Citizens Association, Salvation Army, Tulia Day Nursery, USO, Texas United Community Services, Driskill Halfway House, Tulia Development Center and Tulia Community Services.

can be held at the same city facility. Several shows have been lost because of the rule, center staffers say. Because of that, the board will decide whether to modify the rule to make it more flexible.

Board members also will hear a progress report on talks with Texas Tech University for city recompense of maintenance costs of the Auditorium-Coliseum parking lot.

Dottie Townsend, Auditorium-Coliseum director, said no operating agreement is expected to be presented to the full board.

Last month the board authorized a subcommittee to negotiate with Tech an agreement to cover the annual $8,000 maintenance bills or possibly to share some of the estimated $60,000 collected annually in parking fees.

The board also will decide whether to authorize its Art Committee to raise money to buy a permanent art display for the Memorial Civic Center.

A display borrowed from the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce currently is in the center.

Progress reports on the addition of a scoreboard to the Auditorium-Coliseum and recarpeting of the facility's dressing rooms also will be presented.

Tune In Tomorrow

By JON-MICHAEL REED

NEW YORK — Several Ohio soap opera fans recently were alarmed when a hot-shot critic proclaimed on a talk show that "daytime television serials are on their way out." Viewers should have a sigh of relief since such an uninformed statement bears no relation to the fact.

Daytime television programmers are increasing their commitment to the serial form, while the other major daytime staple, game shows, are dwindling.

CBS expands "Guiding Light" to an hour format next week. ABC plans to expand "One Life to Live" by the end of the year and possibly "General Hospital" or "The Edge of Night" shortly thereafter. NBC will debut "For Richer, For Poorer," its concept-revamped version of "Lovers and Friends," in early December. "L&F" took a "leave of absence" from the screen last spring and will resurface with many of the same characters and actors.

The most exciting development in the soap opera world, however, is the projected "first syndicated daytime serial," tentatively titled "High Hopes." Norman Lear's "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" might put up a struggle for the new show's claim to fame. But "MH, MH" was intended for network airing and only reached the syndicated market after the major networks rejected the idea. "MH, MH" also was not a traditional soap opera and was aired in most cities in late-night spots.

"High Hopes," on the other hand, is geared specifically for the daytime market. Produced by DCA Productions and distributed by Y&R Ventures TV Syndication, the demonstration pilot was financed by a combination of station groups, including Metromedia and Scripps-Howard, and independent stations in half a dozen major city markets.

"For the first time independent stations will have the opportunity to sell a daytime soap opera on a half-hour, five-day-a-week, continuing basis," says Dick Cox, president of Y&R Ventures. The committed interest in the project extends to the subscriber station groups and to the Canadian Broadcasting Company.

"High Hopes" will be filmed in Toronto with veteran serial personnel on both sides of the camera. Joe Manetta, who in the past helmed "Another World" and the defunct "Where the Heart Is" and "Secret Storm," is producing "HH." A former head writer of both "Somerset" and "As The World Turns," Winifred Wolfe, is scripting the series which concerns family counselor Alex Chapman, his family, and a rotating cast of characters with whom they become involved professionally and personally. The episodic nature of the series will enable well-known former serial actors to make guest appearances. In fact, for the pilot, Rosemary Prinz, the former but fondly-remembered Penny on "ATWT," plays a battered housewife. The lead role of Alex Chapman will be played by Bruce Gray, who appeared on "Somerset" as Warren Parker, a would-be rapist of young heroine Heather Lawrence, and Wyatt Coles, husband of a child-beater on "All My Children" a few years ago. Other permanent characters will be portrayed by Canadian actors Jan Muszynski, Barbara Kyle and Marianne Mclsaac. Directors for the series also will be Canadian.

Projected American debut of the show is next March. And everyone connected with the project has high hopes for this most promising, innovative concept. This development, as well as the soon-to-be continuous, day-long block of scheduled operas on the three major networks, should put to rest the absurd

Short Takes:
For nearly two years viewers of "The Young and the Restless" watched actress Kay Heberle lose nearly 60 pounds in her role as a reformed fatty, Joann Curtzyski. Kay's feat, accomplished through a doctor-regimented diet, resulted in a 110-pound svelte figure and she has received publicity in major weight-loss publications. Kay exclaimed last August, "I had the first fabulous thin summer I've ever had in my life." But now that she is slimmer down, so is her serial role. Joann and Kay will be making infrequent appearances on "Y&R," and will be soon phased out completely.

Infectiously charming, gravel-voiced Sally Gracie (last seen as Martha Allen on "The Doctors") currently is appearing as Becky's landlady, Ina Hopkins, on "One Life to Live." The producers of the show promise that two all-time favorite characters, Wanda and Vince Wolek, will soon resurface after a long stay absence. Recasting is underway, since the first Wanda, actress Marilyn Chris, is busy pursuing a film and stage career, while the last Vinnie, Jordan Charney, is devoting his energies to teaching, producing and directing regional theater companies. Also on "OLTL" Kathryn Breech (Karen Wolek) has been replaced by serial newcomer Judith Light. The official word is that "Miss Breech left by mutual agreement to pursue other career outlets." But the inside scoop is that there was backstage animosity that reached the breaking point.

You will be interested in the booklet I've edited that includes a short history of "As the World Turns." Get your copy by sending one dollar to: Tune in Tomorrow, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Ask for "As the World Turns."

(Send your questions about soap operas to "Tune In Tomorrow," 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. Questions cannot be answered personally, but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a perfectionist when it comes to money. Hank insists that I give him receipts for every nickel I spend. If my "books" don't balance, I really catch it. My purse was snatched two years ago and I didn't know exactly how much money I had in it. Well — I am still getting lectured over my stupidity.

I know Hank will never change. I'm writing about another problem. Every five or six weeks, he goes on a beer binge, gets stinking drunk and starts calling up army buddies all over the country. He phones people on the East Coast where it's three hours later — wakes them up out of a sound sleep and they hang up on him. I can tell from his end of the conversation that most of the people he calls don't even know who he is. Our phone bill was $179 last month.

It infuriates me that Hank is such a penny-pincher when it comes to me, yet he throws out money we need for necessities on crazy phone calls that he can't even remember the next day.

What can I do about this? — Just Plain Mad

Dear J.P.M.: Maybe it will help if you save the receipts of the phone bills and wave them in front of his eyes when he begins to make the calls. It just might suggest something — assuming, of course, he can see.

Dear Ann Landers: We will leave it to you. If you say we are petty and small-minded, we'll accept it. Here is the situation: About two months ago I wrote to my daughter-in-law in Lexington, Ky., and asked her if she would please send us some snapshots of the three grandchildren. (We haven't seen them in two years and little ones do grow up so fast.)

This morning two dozen snapshots arrived with this note attached: "Will you please mark on the back of these pictures the ones you like and return them to me. I will send you the negatives so you can have some made for yourselves." What is your opinion of a daughter-in-law who would do such a thing? — Speechless In Danville, Ky.

Dear Danville: My opinion is the same as yours — and I don't have any words either.

Dear Ann Landers: Jerry and I are going to marry in December. I want him to wear a wedding ring. My father always wore one and I loved the way it looked on his hand.

Jerry is fighting it. He says it means nothing — that most of the men who work with him are living proof. He claims the ones with the wedding rings run around the most and act the least married. He also says single women find wedding rings on men "sexy" — sort of a challenge. They go after these guys just to see if they can make the grade.

I don't want to make a big deal over this but I must say we've had some pretty hot arguments already. What is your opinion? — Little Nell

Dear Nell: I believe most men who wear wedding rings do so because their wives want them to. Rarely is it the bridegroom's idea.

More than one airline stewardess has told me they meet a lot of male passengers without wedding rings but they can see the white mark (during summer sun-tan season) where the ring had been. So — use your own judgment, honey.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

So Sally won the heart in dummy, led a diamond and put up her king. She would surely go down more than one trick if West took his ace of diamonds and led the suit back, but there was West with ace-jack-small. West ducked and decided to wait for a second diamond lead.

He got it, but only after Sally had run off her slam.

Ask the Jacobys

A Colorado reader asks what you should bid as South with:

♥AQ6 ▲2 ♦KQ54 ▲AKQ76

We simply bid a Blackwood four no-trump. Five spades should be safe and if partner holds an ace we want to try the slam.

Here is a hand that helped Barbara Kachmar and Sally Johnson win the 1961 national women's team title.

Barbara's jump to six notrump was a slight overbid since she knew that Sally might well have just a 15-point notrump. Anyway, she bid it.

The contract was a reasonable one since it could not be beaten if East held the ace of diamonds. But you all can see it perched right over in the West hand. Then how did Sally make her 12th trick against the 10 of hearts lead?

It wasn't too difficult. Sally counted her 11 top tricks. The game was board-a-match team of four and she decided it was quite likely that her opponents' partners would not be in six.

PICKLED SPROUTS

- 1/3 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup cider vinegar
- 1/2 tsp. mustard seed
- 1/2 tsp. celery seed
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 10-oz. pkg. frozen Brussels sprouts

In a medium saucepan bring the sugar, vinegar and seasonings to a boil, stirring until the sugar dissolves. Add the sprouts and cook according to package directions but only until tender-crisp. Turn into a pint jar; cover tightly and refrigerate for several days to allow flavors to blend. Turn the jar upside down a few times so the marinade flavors all the sprouts.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I guess most of us have recipes we have been saving over the years. I was always going to type them off onto cards when I got around "tuit"...and kept putting it off.

Finally realized that I put it off because I really didn't want them to be just recipes on cards. Many of them were in friends' handwriting.

Could recall the night my friend Joan served that delicious lemon chiffon pie. One I copied on a blank check while the kids and I waited for the pediatrician...every one was a memory.

So...I bought a loose-leaf notebook to match the decor of my kitchen and started pasting. If they were written on both sides I stapled them into a plastic bag and stapled that to a sheet.

Then I sorted them into their separate categories and added dividers. Result...I can find the one I want, when I want it and the memory is still intact. — Frances R. Balha

Dear Frances:

You can go to the head of the class for this "ringer."

I know you must enjoy using these priceless recipes with all the adorable memories. I have some invaluable recipes myself from my many precious readers. — Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

Scrub that tub with a broom, sez Heloise, save your back as well as your knees.

Fifty-six years of doing that chore, sometimes even both arms were sore.

But I tried that broom, got so enthused, that loads of scouring stuff I just used.

Rinsed the tub, though of water was stingy, but that old tub warn't the least bit dingy.

On Saturday night drew the tub of water, climbed right in, as anyone orer.

And as for the soap I started to reach, thought, by golly, I was down on the beach.

Slid along as miserable as could be, for the sand on that bottom was sure rough on me.

Moral: Rinse better next time! — Mabel Wood

Dear Heloise:

I like to read in bed. Sometimes it gets cool at nights, and my bedroom isn't heated.

My old housecoat was ready to be thrown out when the idea struck me. Why not cut that ol' housecoat off?

Well, I did, and it made a wonderful bed jacket. Probably better than I could have found in a store (if I could find one at all). — D.V. Johns

Dear Heloise:

When you are doing a lot of baking and need an extra cake rack, place an oven rack on your dish drainer. (Do this before turning oven on.)

This will hold four or more cakes or pies and will allow the air to circulate freely. — Mrs. E.G. Peterson

Dear Heloise:

I made my grandchildren feel like they were getting a special treat one day when I buttered bread and sprinkled those multi-colored decorators on top.

They often enjoy their snack of "beads," as little Julie nicknamed them. — A Grandmother

Dear Heloise:

For an easier-to-bite sandwich for young children try this:

Cut chicken-turkey-ham-beef etc. in small pieces, mix with the dressing, seasonings, whatever, and spread on bread. Much better than having a big hunk of meat fall out on the first bite. — Mrs. R. Handly

Expert Discusses Single Parent Family Problems

By KAY LYNCH

HONOLULU (UPI) — Society's reluctance to sanction the single-parent family compounds divorce adjustment.

It leaves parents and children to cope with an extended life crisis unsupported and with limited agency help, says psychiatrist Charles A. Malone.

Ninety percent of all single parents are mothers, Malone told a World Congress of Psychiatry seminar here.

Mothers also face the most special problems, he said.

— They often have little sense of personal competence and worth or of vocational, social or sexual identity apart from the marriage they entered while young.

— Many are treated as second-class citizens by employers, repairmen, school personnel and even married friends and neighbors.

— If they are working mothers, they must cope with socially induced guilt for leaving their children, even though research indicates this situation is not necessarily harmful to children and may even be beneficial.

Seventy percent of divorcing couples have minor children, Malone said.

In 1975 alone, one million children were newly affected by divorce.

In 1976, more than 10 million children lived with one parent.

All single parents experience deep sadness blended with depression, rage toward the spouse, inadequacy, lowered self-esteem, fear, panic, sleeplessness, irritability and susceptibility to sudden anger, said Malone and his partner, Maria Gispert. He is with Case Western University in Cleveland and she is with the University of North Carolina.

Millions tough it out the same way, but physical complaints, loneliness, regret and suicidal tendencies may make a single parent feel isolated and unique, they added.

Malone estimated adjustment at two to four years for parents and children. They said psychiatric therapy may not be necessary, but family counseling is.

One counseling program started recently in St. Louis is for 5- to 17-year-old children of divorce. Social worker Kim Long divides participants in Kids in the Middle into four age groups.

During an eight-week period, each youngster attends a two-hour group session weekly, four individual therapy sessions, picnics, swimming, play therapy and music sessions. Two meetings are held with parents. Emergency consultation is available.

Miss Long estimates total fees for at least 22 hours of similar private therapy at almost $500. Her standard fee is $120, but she said it's reduced for parents who cannot pay that much, and no one is turned away.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 66 years old and have fainting spells, and not too much pep. I had a physical and the doctor told me I have auricular fibrillation. Should that keep me from traveling? Is it serious? I don't drink or smoke, and am not overweight. — L.L.

"Auricular" refers to one of the two upper chambers (the auricles) of the heart. Fibrillation means an irregular heart impulse leading to sudden rapid beating from mild exercise. The cause of the fibrillation is the irregular action of the walls in the heart chamber.

It can result from any type of heart disease, from overactive thyroid, blood clots in the lung, artery disease, or heart muscle disturbance. The fibrillation can be controlled with digitalis quinidine. If you are using medication effectively you should have no trouble traveling.

Often, no apparent cause of such fibrillation can be found. It was such a heart arrhythmia that forced the astronaut Donald "Deke" Slayton out of the U.S. space program. After intensive examination, no underlying disease could be detected. Slayton returned to the program and completed his courageous moon flight.

However, it can be serious sometimes, depending on the cause. For example, however, it can be serious sometimes, depending on the cause. For example, a blood clot may be released from the heart chamber or from the lung. Congestive heart failure can result. This is rare, though.

Your own physician should rule on your travel plans. By proper treatment, patients with auricular fibrillation can live long lives.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a problem with constipation. It began after I started a 1,000-calorie diet to lose weight. It seems laxatives and enemas won't help me. I have only two bowel movements a week. — Mrs. E.T.

Are you sure you have constipation? With 1,000 calories a day, you have very little to be constipated over. The vegetables and fruit in a 1,000-calorie diet should provide ample bulk.

Bowels, as I've noted before, need bulk to keep busy. But there's no harm in having but two bowel movements a week. Rather than discuss this entire matter of constipation, I'll refer you to a booklet of mine that may give you some insights. It's called, "The Way to Stop Constipation," which you can order by sending 35 cents to me. Many folks go on these near-starvation diets and expect to have regular movements. If they don't, they start dosing themselves with laxative. Before long they end up with true constipation. Give the bowels sufficient time to adjust to the rules of any new "ballgame."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had an ankle fracture four months ago. Adhesions have formed. I feel very depressed and worried. Can you give me some advice as to what I can do about this? — Mrs. E.D.

Adhesions are more a problem in the knitting-together of soft tissue than of bones. They are scar-like formations, and can be quite painful. However, when bone knits, too much new bone may form at the fracture site (callous). This may interfere with blood circulation or nerves in the area.

Most fractures heal with few remaining symptoms and the bone as strong as ever. You don't tell me your age. Healing can take longer the older we become, and female bones tend to become more porous (hence, less strong) with age because of less estrogen production.

Four months is plenty of time for healing to occur, so you should have new X-rays to determine why it hasn't.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: During pregnancy how frequent should internal examinations be given, or are they not given until the last few months? — M.R.

A single pelvic examination on the first visit is usually enough to tell the doctor what he needs to know. After that he can gauge progress by feeling with his hands

Anita Bryant Says She 'Won't Be Intimidated'

NEW YORK (AP) — Saying she has been shunned as an entertainer, Anita Bryant declared Wednesday that death threats, the potential loss of her livelihood and various forms of harassment would not deter her from campaigning against homosexuality. "I'm not afraid," she said in an interview. "So they kill me. So what?" Saying that her more than $100,000-a-year job with the Florida Citrus Commission is in jeopardy, Miss Bryant declared that she "won't be intimidated." She continued: "If that's the price I have to pay for standing as the concerned mother of my four children and to make it a decent country to live in, then it's worth paying the price."

She commented after taping two interviews at NBC. One of them was for the "Today Show," on which she was to have appeared live on Thursday.

Under the watchful eyes of security guards, the red-haired singer said that various threats from "militant homosexuals" prompted her to cut short her stay here and necessitated the taping. It also caused her to cancel a news conference scheduled by the publisher of "The Anita Bryant Story" for Thursday at the New York Hilton where gay activists pledged to tie up traffic and throw up picket lines, even in her absence.

Miss Bryant and her husband, Bob Green, said they acted in the wake of threats received by the hotel, by the police department and by NBC. A network spokesman said "several" bomb threats were telephoned to the switchboard.

"There's practically a state of siege in this building here," Green declared, although the network spokesman said the only extra security was the assignment of two guards assigned to Miss Bryant.

"I believe in the right to differ in this country," she said, contending that homosexuals were preventing her from telling her side. "Apparently that right is being taken away."

When the couple was warned that demonstrators were headed for the building, Green remarked as they hurriedly departed to catch a flight home to Florida, "Why don't they kill us and get it over with?"

Miss Bryant became the target of criticism by homosexuals in January when she spoke out against a Dade County ordinance, later defeated, which would have allowed known homosexuals to teach in public and private schools.

Gay activists sought to boycott orange juice as a result of her position, and her continuing in her job came into question. A decision on the matter is due Nov. 16.

Speaking of the possibility that she may become an "ex-entertainer," Miss Bryant said orange juice sales were up, and she added:

"If there is an effect on my ability to be the spokesperson and to do a good job, then I say fire me. But get it over with. "Don't have someone who has a difference of opinion and put me on the cross once a month ... That I don't think is fair."

She added that almost all of the TV talk shows, particularly those based in Hollywood, have blacklisted her for fear of boycotts by other performers. "Just take my word for it," Miss Bryant said. "I cannot say what the source is, but we tried to get on the shows, and I cannot specifically say what shows."

She said another effect of her stance has been fears of her family of four children, from 8 to 14 years old, even to open their own mail.

"It's not been easy for any of us," Miss Bryant said, commenting that the two times she has broken into tears publicly over the controversy reflected that she was "human, too."

"I don't mind being humiliated in that respect because I consider the source and I realize that my stand is a correct one, and I have a peace about that within me," she said.

"I'm not saying I enjoy it," Miss Bryant continued. "But if I had to do it all over again, I would make the same decisions."

Underwood Trial Ends With Deadlocked Jury

DALLAS (AP) — One juror's doubts was all that stood between barbecue entrepreneur Jimmy Underwood and a guilty verdict — but it was enough.

The resulting impasse Tuesday deadlocked the jury after 10 hours of deliberation and U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham declared a mistrial.

Underwood, owner of an Arlington-based barbecue chain, was arrested Sept. 7 and charged with receiving and disposing of more than $30,000 of stolen jewelry that had been transported from California.

After they were dismissed, jurors revealed only one of them did not believe the evidence presented by federal prosecutors. The other 11 had voted for conviction.

A jubilant Underwood said afterward, "I got no comment except that the jury didn't find me guilty, so I'm not a guilty man. I'm gonna go hunting."

Juror Charles Killian said the nine-man, three-woman jury's deadlock developed early Monday night when a male juror announced he had made up his mind for acquittal and would not change it. Killian said the juror refused to accept any of the government's evidence, including tape recordings made of Underwood allegedly buying jewels in a Dallas hotel room.

At issue in the trial was whether or not Underwood knew a specific piece of jewelry purchased last January from a professional burglar was stolen.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jay Ethington said he will request a new trial as soon as possible. Ethington said he had never participated in a case where a juror refused to accept any of the evidence presented.

New Orleans Ponders Anti-Litter Ordinance

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Even its supporters are worried about a new ordinance that makes it illegal to drink liquor, beer, soft drinks — or anything else — from glass or metal containers in public in New Orleans. Paper cups are permissible.

The penalty is a $100 fine or 90 days in jail or both.

The ordinance, aimed at cleaning up the notoriously dirty streets in the nation's 20th largest city, presents severe enforcement problems, a sponsor of the measure said Wednesday.

"We are wrestling with exactly how to define it," said City Councilman Frank Friedler, a co-sponsor of the ordinance. "It is aimed at the guy who leaves his neighborhood tavern at midnight with a can or glass and throws it on the ground."

"But what about the fellow who walks out to the front of his house with a beer can to say goodnight to his guests? Or people picnicking in the park with three beer cans?"

"That is obviously not what we are trying to prevent."

A similar ordinance has been in effect for five years in the French Quarter, a square-mile section of the city which is popular with tourists, and for more than a year in the central business district.

The ban on carrying open bottles or cans on public streets and sidewalks was extended Tuesday throughout the city, which has a population of 580,000.

So far, no one has been arrested outside the French Quarter for violating the ordinance. But police say they will enforce it.

"It's been a marvelous success in the Quarter, but we didn't anticipate these (enforcement) problems elsewhere," said Friedler.

Spokesmen for major soft drink companies on Wednesday had no comment on the new city ordinance.

In New York, a Pepsi spokesman de-lined comment and a spokesman for Coca-Cola, Bill Pruitt, said he believed New Orleans was the only major city in the nation to have such an ordinance.

Many city bar owners and managers said they like the ordinance.

"I'm for it and the customers are for it," said Joe Peak, manager of Jack Dempsey's Uptown Downtown Lounge, a neighborhood bar in the city's 9th Ward. "It's better for the city, better for the kids. Most people are surprised it didn't go citywide to begin with."

In an effort to cut down on litter, several states have banned the sale of throw-away cans and bottles.

Last summer several people were cited in a community on New York's Fire Island for violating an ordinance that forbids eating and drinking in public. The cases were not prosecuted, but the law is still on the books.

Pregnancy Back Pay Arguments Heard

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court was told Wednesday that New York City faces financial ruin if it must reimburse women employees who were unconstitutionally forced to leave their jobs because of pregnancy.

L. Kevin Sheridan, an assistant New York City corporation counsel, urged the court to deny back pay to women who were forced to quit their jobs because of pregnancy before it was medically necessary.

"This could open up litigation that would be ruinously expensive" to New York and other "financially strapped" cities, Sheridan said. He contended the costs might run to tens of millions of dollars.

"Who knows how large the class of people will be or the amount of money involved?" Sheridan said.

The case arose in 1971 after Jane Monell, a welfare caseworker in New York, and a number of city school teachers were forced to take maternity leave in their seventh month of pregnancy. Their doctors advised them there could be no harm medically in working another month.

The city changed the policy the following year to permit women to work as long as they could. The policy change was made after a suit was filed challenging the constitutionality of the city's maternity leave rule.

In 1974, the Supreme Court declared that policies like the one New York had revoked unconstitutionally discriminated against women.

But the issue of whether the women are entitled to back pay for the period of work they were forced to miss has not been determined. Mrs. Monell's attorney in the class action suit, Oscar G. Chase of Brooklyn, argued Wednesday that the court should not "erect a special protection" to bar damage suits against public agencies where Congress has not specifically granted such immunity.

Chase said the women were entitled to reimbursement under the Equal Opportunity Act of 1972.

Both Chase and Sheridan are professors at Brooklyn College.

In response to a question from Justice William H. Rehnquist, Chase said the fact that New York has been on the brink of financial default should not deter the court from granting the women their due.

The 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals, in ruling against the women last year, held that while the 1972 Equal Opportunity Act allowed for damage suits against cities, Congress did not intend to apply the law retroactively.

The Supreme Court is expected to decide the case sometime before its term ends next June.

Germans Say Terrorists Talked Of Suicide

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Three anarchists found isolation in prison unbearable and hinted of suicide 10 days before they were found dead or mortally wounded in their cells, the government said Wednesday.

Andreas Baader, 34; Gudrun Ensslin, 37, and Jan-Carl Raspe, 33, were found dead or dying in their maximum security cells Oct. 18, a few hours after West German commandos stormed a hijacked Lufthansa airliner in Mogadishu, Somalia, and freed 86 hostages.

The hijackers and kidnapers of the late industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer had demanded the release of the anarchists and other terrorists imprisoned in West Germany and Turkey. Schleyer's body was found Oct. 19 in the trunk of a car in Mulhouse, France.

All three anarchists were serving life terms for a series of bombings and killings in the early 1970s. Officials said Miss Ensslin hanged herself with a lampcord and Baader and Raspe shot themselves.

The suggestions of suicide were mentioned in a 220-page government report on the kidnapping and the hijacking.

The report said the prisoners gave hints "that can only have meant their (intended) suicide" to a police official in Stuttgart's maximum security Stammheim prison. The official talked to Raspe, Baader, Miss Ensslin and Irmgard Moeller, another woman terrorist, at their request on October 10.

Miss Moeller was taken to a hospital with stab wounds in the chest on the day the other three anarchists died. She has since recovered.

According to the report, the police official saw Baader for about seven minutes. He said Baader told him the prisoners could no longer tolerate confinement in isolation cells. All three were placed in isolation shortly after Schleyer was kidnapped Sept. 5.

His nerves apparently "finished" by uncertainty and weeks of solitary detention, Baader said the anarchists would make "an irreversible decision" unless the government improved prison conditions, the official said.

Baader said the prisoners "did not intend to suffer the current situation any longer. The federal government in future would no longer have the prisoners at its disposal," the official said.

The decision Baader referred to "can only have meant their suicide," the official reported.

The same official said that Miss Ensslin protested to him the following day about the prison conditions.

"If this bestiality here continues... then we, the prisoners at Stammheim, shall take the decision out of (Chancellor Helmut) Schmidt's hands by deciding ourselves, in the only way we still can, with a decision about ourselves," she was quoted as saying. She accused authorities of using drugs, torture, "total electronic surveillance" and solitary confinement to "break our wills and our consciousness."

Trudeau Testifies In RCMP Probe

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said Wednesday it never occurred to him that a special Royal Canadian Mounted Police unit might be using illegal methods to gather intelligence on suspected terrorists and legal political parties in the early 1970s.

"It certainly didn't cross my mind," Trudeau said during a 90-minute questioning period in the House of Commons. "We didn't ask the police each time 'where did you get this information?'"

He said he never ordered the Mounties to spy on legitimate political parties and ordered such surveillance stopped when he learned of it.

Trudeau told the House his Liberal party government — in power since 1968 — will not intervene in day-to-day activities of the Mounties, despite growing evidence they may have used illegal methods, because that could expose the force to political pressures.

It was Trudeau's first direct response to opposition charges that his cabinet knew of questionable activities by the Mounties' Security Services unit, similar to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the United States, and had not investigated fully.

The alleged tactics included arson, thefts, electronic wiretaps of terrorist groups and alleged subversives, and the theft in 1973 of the membership files of the Parti Quebecois, which advocates French-speaking separatism and now is the ruling party in Quebec province.

Trudeau said the government found out in 1974 or 1975 that the Mounties were conducting routine surveillance of the Parti Quebecois and had given some of the intelligence data to his government.

"There was no reason for me to suppose that to obtain this information the RCMP had to get it illegally," Trudeau told opposition leaders, who dominated the questioning period.

Trudeau said he ordered the surveillance stopped and the cabinet produced guidelines for the RCMP's Security Service in March 1975 to prevent the force from spying on any legal political party advocating democratic principles as allowed under the constitution.

The government didn't learn until last week that the Mounties, acting without a warrant, had taken, copied and returned computer tapes of Parti Quebecois membership lists on June 9, 1973, Trudeau said.

The prime minister handled himself coolly as opposition leaders grilled him about his responsibility for the activities of the federal police. The Liberal party faithful gave him prolonged applause.

Conservative party leader Joe Clark, considered Trudeau's chief rival in federal elections slated for next year, asked the prime minister why he had never asked what form the RCMP surveillance was taking.

"We on this side presume that the police are an honest group of people," Trudeau replied. "This doesn't mean they sometimes don't break the law."

Trudeau defended the Security Service as a force that performs admirably in its role of gathering information on terrorists and subversives. He said he had personally ordered the RCMP to pay more attention to groups "trying to break up this country" after 1970 when a wave of kidnappings, bombings, and murders swept across Canada.

He denied ever ordering the Mounties to spy on legitimate political parties or other law-abiding groups. Opposition leaders have charged Trudeau was behind the Parti Quebecois surveillance because the group represented a threat to national unity.

The prime minister concluded by saying the government should not second-guess the police or become involved in their daily operations because then the RMCP could be wrongly used for political purposes.

"The government would become party to many secrets about Canadians. It would be in a position to say: 'Don't look into so-and-so because he's our friend,'" Trudeau told his critics.

A federal Royal Commission and a Quebec provincial commission have been empowered to investigate the alleged illegal activities of the RCMP. The Royal Commission has been bogged down in procedural issues but the Quebec inquiry has uncovered a growing list of alleged wrongdoing.

Group Urges U.S. Stay In ILO

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The World Council of Churches urged the United States on Wednesday not to quit the International Labor Organization.

The Carter administration's decision Tuesday to withdraw from the United Nations specialized agency prompted expressions of regret by many of its 135 member governments, especially those in Western Europe. The pullout is effective Saturday.

A statement by Philip Potter, general secretary of the Geneva-based church council, representing 289 Protestant denominations, said:

"Any government can legitimately raise questions about a United Nations body of which it is a member. But the United States government cannot, at the same time, look forward to a stronger, rededicated and more purposeful ILO and withdraw from membership, particularly in view of the long-standing contributions it has made to that body."

The U.S. government has paid one quarter of the $80 million budget of the 58-year-old organization, which works to establish international labor standards. It quit because of a belief among business and labor leaders that the ILO has become politicized through such actions as anti-Israeli resolutions passed by Communist, Arab and Third World members.

Timothy Healy, a British business spokesman who has worked with the ILO, said the U.S. decision might weaken the organization so much that Britain could consider pulling out.

"It will be some time before we can tell if it's an organization in which we want to remain," he said.

Carter Discusses Israeli Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter told a Jewish audience from 30 countries Wednesday night that Israel's "worst fears" may be justified by the Palestine Liberation Organization's refusal to recognize the Jewish state.

But even though he criticized the PLO and reaffirmed that he does not prefer an independent Palestinian state, the president again declared Jewish settlements on the West Bank illegal and a cause of Arab "suspicions."

The carefully balanced speech, which made no new demands on Israel, as made as Carter accepted an award from the World Jewish Congress.

Speaking to the same group Tuesday, Senate Republican leader Howard Baker of Tennessee charged the administration with playing "Russian roulette" with Israel's security. The attack typified the concern U.S. policies in the Middle East have aroused among Jewish groups and other supporters of Israel.

Carter said the Arab states have reached the point of accepting Israel's status as a nation. "It was not so long ago," he said, "that Arab demands were often expressed in extreme and sometimes violent ways."

However, the president said the Arab side still needs to do more to remove Israeli suspicions.

In this regard, he cited the PLO's continuing refusal to accept the 1967 United Nations Security Council resolution that implicitly recognizes Israel's right to exist.

This refusal, Carter said, "along with the resort to violence and terror by some groups, provides Israel with tangible evidence that their worst fears may be in fact justified."

Last August, Carter said if the PLO accepts the U.N. resolution "it would open up a new opportunity for us to start discussions with them." But even though Arab governments advised Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance that the PLO might take that step, the organization has remained steadfast in its commitment to dismantle the Jewish state.

Carter said the United States will keep working for a "constructive solution" to the Palestinian question. He said the aim is to respect "the legitimate rights" of the Palestinians without threatening Israel's interests. "The nations involved must negotiate the settlement, but we ourselves do not prefer an independent Palestinian state on the West Bank," he said.

Along with these assurances, Carter said new Israeli settlements on the West Bank have clouded the atmosphere for serious negotiations.

He reiterated his view that by sending civilians into occupied territories Israel was in violation of the fourth Geneva convention. Israel won the West Bank of the Jordan River in the 1967 war.

"We may be facing now the best opportunity for a permanent Middle East settlement in our lifetime," Carter said. "We must not let it slip away."

JUST AN ORDINARY DAY—It's been said of New Yorkers that they're so blasé or hardened by life in the city that nothing really fazes them. The theory was put to the acid test Tuesday morning at a mid-Manhattan bus stop as Laura Brandel returned her halloween party costume. She said she found it easier to wear it than to carry it. New Poster Warns Of Laetrile Dangers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government on Wednesday began mass distribution of a poster warning that Laetrile is "worthless" and "dangerous."

The poster marks a new step by the government in what is becoming a war against Laetrile, which many claim to be a cure for cancer.

The poster is printed in bold letters like a wanted circular, with the word "Warning" in red. It says, "Laetrile can be fatal for cancer patients who delay or give up regular medical treatment and take Laetrile instead."

The poster notes that Laetrile contains cyanide and states, "One infant is known dead of cyanide poisoning after swallowing fewer than five Laetrile tablets. At least 16 other deaths have been documented from ingestion of Laetrile ingredients (apricot and similar fruit pits)."

The poisoning death involved a baby in Attica, N.Y., who accidentally took the pills, FDA spokesman Wayne Pines said.

Most major medical studies have declared Laetrile worthless and the FDA bars its use because it has not passed safety and efficacy tests. But 12 states allow its use.

About 350,000 Americans die each year from cancer. Laetrile proponents claim more than 50,000 persons take the drug in an attempt to either cure cancer or prevent it.

Forty thousand copies of the poster, which measures 17 inches by 22 inches, have been printed at a cost of $8,000. They will be posted in federal buildings and distributed to some states. A smaller copy will be mailed to nearly one million doctors and other health professionals.

The FDA launched a similar poster campaign in the 1950s against a purported cancer cure known as the Hoxie treatment, which included a pill made from the extract of tree bark and roots. A poster campaign in the 1960s warned against shock hazard from a device called a Relaxacizer.

The poster warns that Laetrile "can cause poisoning and death when taken by mouth" and that there is more danger if it is injected. It says the drug may be contaminated and notes that it is not "routinely subject to FDA inspection for quality and purity as are all other drugs."

"Not only is Laetrile a health fraud, it's an economic fraud," said Pines. "People don't get what they pay for." He said the contents of Laetrile doses vary widely.

Laetrile pills usually cost from $1 to $1.75 each, Pines said. He said a cancer victim can pay up to $700 for Laetrile treatment in the United States and more than $1,000 in Mexico.

Panel Okays Saccharin Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise bill requiring cancer warnings on food and drinks containing saccharin was approved by a House-Senate conference committee Wednesday.

The compromise, which will be sent to the House and Senate for final approval, also prohibits the Food and Drug Administration from banning the artificial sweetener, at least for the next 18 months.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., a member of the conference panel, said he expects final passage of the legislation by the end of the week.

The main difference in the original House and Senate bills that were sent to the conference committee was whether to require the cancer warning labels on saccharin products. The Senate wanted such notices, but the House did not.

The compromise bill would require that saccharin food products in interstate commerce must bear this warning:

"Use of this product may be hazardous to your health. This product contains saccharin which has been determined to cause cancer in laboratory animals."

Under the compromise measure, the Food and Drug Administration would be given authority to require similar labels on vending machines that dispense soft drinks or other products containing saccharin.

Retail stores selling saccharin products, with the exception of restaurants, would be required to post signs warning customers of the cancer threat of the artificial sweetener. Stores would also have to make available literature on the saccharin controversy.

Saccharin, the only major artificial sweetener left on the market, has been linked to bladder cancer in laboratory animals.

The FDA proposed that saccharin be banned in accordance with the so-called Delaney clause, which provides that no food additive shall be deemed safe if it is found to induce cancer when ingested by man or animal.

The bill would impose an 18-month moratorium on the FDA ban while additional government studies evaluate the relative health risks and benefits of using saccharin as a sugar substitute.

Rep. James J. Florio, D-N.J., a member of the House Commerce Committee's health panel and a leader in the compromise effort, said some people didn't want the word cancer in the label while others wanted a stronger warning of the type required on cigarette packages.

"This compromise gets the message across that saccharin is a potential health hazard," said Florio.

After more examination of the saccharin safety question, the FDA could change the wording of the required label, making it tougher, weaker or removing it altogether.

The labeling bill would not affect food products containing saccharin if the products are consumed in the same state in which they are produced.

Smith Attacks Performance Of Briscoe

AUSTIN — Former Gov. Preston Smith Wednesday accused Gov. Dolph Briscoe of maintaining an "ostrich like" posture that has prevented his administration from making important decisions and led to apathy among Texas voters.

Speaking to Sigma Delta Chi, a society of professional journalists, Smith said his campaign against Briscoe for next year's gubernatorial nomination has pointed out that citizens have lost confidence in their state government.

"He (Briscoe) has deliberately chosen to take the easy road. He's deliberately chosen to tell the people what they want to hear. He never takes a stand until a situation is decided, and never plans for the future," he said.

"The people are left with no input, they're left with no responsibility and as a result, they've lost all confidence in their state government."

Smith said during his two administrations from 1969 to 1973, his office responded to personal visits, telephone calls and letters from voters; Briscoe, he charged, has ignored his constituents.

The race for the Democratic nomination boils down to a contest between himself and Briscoe, Smith noted, saying the candidacy of Atty. Gen. John Hill won't affect the race because of his low name identification among voters.

He also predicted he will overcome the lack of voter support indicated in polls made by Hill's and Briscoe's campaign offices.

Queen Elizabeth II To Visit Germany

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II of Britain and her husband, Prince Philip, will pay a state visit to West Germany next year, President Walter Scheel announced Wednesday.

The visit is tentatively scheduled for May 22-26, Scheel said.

According to Scheel, the schedule and itinerary for the royal party have not been set but they are expected to include visits to several West German states and perhaps Berlin.

Britain has about 50,000 troops stationed in northern Germany and Berlin.

THE TALKING MACHINE — Speech scientist Kathy Fons demonstrates a portable artificial voice machine for use by people with voice impairment. The machine has keys representing phonetic sounds that can be punched in combination to form words, phrases and speech, in a low-pitched male voice. The machine was demonstrated recently at the American Speech and Hearing Assn. convention. (AP Laserphoto)

Electronic Voice Developed

CHICAGO (AP) — A portable push-button voice machine that "speaks" with a slight Scottish brogue and can form almost any word in the English language will restore "freedom of expression" to people with speech impairments, its developers say.

The computerized, battery-operated Phonic Mirror HandiVoice was displayed this week at the American Speech and Hearing Association convention. Its manufacturer, HC Electronics, a division of the American Hospital Supply Co. of Evanston, Ill., said it should be on the market next year and will sell for about $2,000.

The thin, gray box, which measures about 14 inches high by 8 inches wide, is designed for use by deaf-mutes, cancer patients whose vocal chords have been removed, victims of muscle-injuring diseases like multiple sclerosis and others incapable of speech.

Speech pathologist Diane DeHaven demonstrated the box at the convention. She picked it up, pressed a few buttons and a deep, easily understood male voice said: "Surprise. I'm using an artificial voice. I am excited."

Miss DeHaven said Wednesday that a person can use the device to utter electronically pre-programmed words and phrases or to construct words using phonetic sounds. The machine originates the speech it produces with a small computer. No tapes or other recorded sound is used.

"It has a prestored basic vocabulary" of 1,000 words, "but it has the capability for creating other words," she said. "It could do some swearing, for instance. Vocally impaired persons have the same frustrations as most of us."

So far the machine is available only in a male-sounding model. Researchers said they found lower-frequency artificial voice sounds were more easily understood than higher ones found in female voices.

There are two varieties of the machine. In one model, sounds are programmed by punching out numbers on a keyboard. The other has a 120-button keyboard with each key marked with a specific sound.

Kathy Fons, a speech scientist who helped develop the machines, said the first is "for persons who have high intelligence but little muscle control. The 120-key model is for persons with better control of their fingers but with mental impairment."

A spokesman for the manufacturer said the company hopes to persuade Blue Cross, Medicare and Medicaid to include the machines among benefits. Production units will be sold only to persons referred by doctors, speech therapists or other medical professionals.

"The machines will introduce an element of freedom of expression never before enjoyed by the speech-impaired," said Miss Fons.

Ships Lay Idle During Strike Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators for the ocean shipping industry and the 50,000 striking East and Gulf dockworkers groped for answers in port-by-port talks Wednesday as 68 container ships lay idle.

A meeting scheduled for Wednesday between management from the six big ports on the upper Atlantic Coast and the International Longshoremen's Association was canceled because negotiators were not ready.

Local bargaining in Boston and Baltimore resumed Wednesday and talks were being set up elsewhere, all aimed at resolving the No. 1 problem: framing an acceptable guaranteed annual income (GAI) plan and calculating how to assure its solvency.

The local bargaining was forced by refusal of other shipping groups to go along with a proposal by the New York Shipping Association that the steamship owners insure payment of GAI cost overruns.

The GAI dispute is at the heart of the strike, which is limited to cargo moving in van-size containers. The use of containers has cut labor needs and put thousands of longshoremen out of work.

The projected cost of the strike mounted toward an indicated $8 million daily in lost U.S. production and inflicted serious hardship on the economy of shipping-dependent Puerto Rico.

Republicans Say Carter Reneged On Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders claimed Wednesday that President Carter violated an agreement to choose a GOP nominee for the Federal Election Commission from a list submitted by them.

"Republicans have been had," Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker told the Senate Rules Committee at a hearing on Carter's nomination of John W. McGarry and Samuel D. Zagoria to the FEC.

The selection of Zagoria, director of labor-management relations for the U.S. Conference of Mayors, has aroused criticism from Republicans who challenge his credentials as a member of their party.

Zagoria was nominated last month to succeed Republican William Springer, whose term expired April 30. Both his term and that of McGarry would run until April 30, 1983. McGarry, special counsel to the House Administration committee, would succeed Democrat Neil Staebler.

Baker and House Minority Leader John Rhodes of Arizona said Carter agreed at a White House meeting on Feb. 23 to accept the Republican nominee from a list they would submit. On March 23, they offered the names of James F. Schoener, minority counsel to the Senate elections subcommittee, and Robert P. Visser, a Washington attorney.

On May 20, Carter told Baker and Rhodes he would like a longer list and expected all of his nominees to be sympathetic to the FEC's aims, including public financing of political campaigns.

The GOP leaders replied on June 7 that they thought the candidates they had suggested were qualified. They said Carter was imposing a new condition that "completely alters the nature of the agreement which we had with you," since public financing, particularly of congressional races, "is still very much a subject of national debate."

Baker told the committee that Carter "chose to ignore a commitment he made to the House and Senate minority leaders regarding the most politically sensitive commission in the entire country." Rhodes agreed and said Zagoria's nomination would be "a long step toward the imposition of one-party rule in this country."

A spokesman for Carter declined comment on the allegations. The hearing ended before the nominees had time to testify.

Fine, Imprisonment Mulled As Mail-Opening Punishment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee recommended Wednesday making it illegal for the government to open mail without a court-issued search warrant or permission of the sender or addressee.

"Violation of such a law should be criminally punishable by fine or imprisonment," the Government Operations Committee said in a report on a four-month investigation by a subcommittee into the Customs Service's mail opening program.

The committee unanimously approved the report. But it does not have jurisdiction and any law would have to be initiated by another panel.

Customs opens hundreds of thousands of pieces of mail per year as they enter the country in search of narcotics or other illegal items or merchandise on which duty has not been paid.

The Supreme Court upheld the mail openings, saying they cast only a slight "chill" on First Amendment rights of free expression.

The committee said any mail openings allowed to take place should be granted specifically by Congress as exceptions to the prohibition.

The panel recommended that, as at present, openings of packages entering the country be allowed upon "reasonable cause to believe they contain dutiable goods or contraband." But it suggested that first-class letters be subject to a warrant before they can be opened.

It said that correspondence should be read only with a warrant.

The committee discovered during the hearings that customs agents for two years routinely turned over to military investigators correspondence found with seized contraband. In these cases, in which no warrant was sought, the military authorities used the correspondence to investigate the source of the illegal drugs or other items.

In some cases, the panel found that mail had been opened improperly. "Record keeping in connection with the mail openings is totally inadequate."

State Council, Agencies Found Violating Laws

By LARRY SPRINGER
A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — A Justice Department investigation has concluded that the Texas Merit System Council and three of the state's largest agencies have violated federal law by discriminating against minorities and women through their hiring practices.

Welfare and the Texas Employment Commission — all participants in the merit system.
In a letter mailed last week to Texas Attorney General John Hill, the chief of the U.S. Attorney General's Civil Rights Division outlined the findings of the investigation, asking that the State of Texas agree to a court order which would include the establishment of minority hiring "goals" and compensation to those "specific blacks, females and Mexican-Americans who have suffered financial loss as a result of those unlawful employment practices."

Merit system director Leo Brockman refused to comment on the allegations, but other agency officials challenged the information on which the Justice Department apparently based its conclusion.
Texas Employment Commission Chairman Nolan Ward said that he doesn't believe the U.S. Attorney General's Office "can make a case against TEC now," noting that the data used by the Justice Department was "dated."

"Since I've joined the commission (about one year ago), that charge won't hold water," Ward stressed.
"We have prompted and hired a number of minorities," he added, saying that of the five-top-level positions which have become available since he assumed the TEC chairmanship, "we've hired three (minorities) — a black, a brown and a woman."
Marlin W. Johnston, Deputy Commissioner of the Department of Human Resources (formerly the Department of Public Welfare) also claimed that the Justice Department apparently used "old statistics" in reaching its conclusion. He termed the discrimination charges "unfortunate."

ministered by the system as a prerequisite for listing on the register of eligible persons from which the merit system agencies may hire new employes.
"The exam tends to keep black out," Johnston conceded.
"The absence of minorities and women in top level has to be laid at the door of the merit system council," Ward said. "It has not done a good job."
The executive director of the Department of Health (formerly the Department of Health Resources) said he believes the Justice Department officials are unhappy "because we don't have any minority percentage or quotas — they call them 'goals'."

his agency is discriminating against any group.
Attorney General Hill was not available for comment on the letter, but an assistant said a meeting will be held within the next few days with the affected agencies to determine what action the state should take.

A 60-day deadline, expiring on Christmas, has been set down by federal authorities which the state must decide whether to agree to the proposed voluntary settlement or fight the matter out in court.

Days' letter, dated Oct. 25, charges that the State of Texas and the named agencies "have engaged individually and collectively in a pattern and practice of discrimination" in violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the State and Federal Fiscal Assistant Act of 1972.

Ex-Underworld Pair Released

DALLAS (AP) — Two former underworld figures who were sentenced to two years in prison for bank fraud here last month have been ordered released on bond pending appeal of their case before the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Edmund Graiffer and Salvatore Cardinelli, alias Eddie Green and Sal Cataldo, joined the federal witness protection program in 1972 after they agreed to testify against Mafia chieftains on the East Coast.

Both were given new identities and ultimately relocated to Dallas. During an interview with The Associated Press last month, they said they left in 1974 fearing their new names and locations had been learned by mobsters.

However, Graiffer and Cardinelli were accused of leaving behind several thousand dollars in unpaid bank loans. They were called out of hiding and convicted in a Dallas federal court.

Last month, U.S. District Judge Sarah Hughes sentenced them and denied their application to remain free on bond pending appeal of the case.

Graiffer told The AP if he were sent to prison, he would last "maybe a day" before mob inmates killed him.

Judge Hughes recommended Graiffer and Cardinelli be transferred immediately to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan. However, law enforcement sources confirmed they were taken by U.S. marshals to another undisclosed institution and confined. Several mobsters who were imprisoned as a result of their testimony are confined at Leavenworth.

Both men are still under federal protection and are expected to give further testimony against mob leaders.

On Friday, the appeals court in New Orleans overturned the bond ruling and directed the trial court to set bond.

"It is anticipated they will be released as soon as the order can be transferred to the Bureau of Prisons," said Houston defense attorney Roy Beene.

Senate Views Criminal Sentencing Procedures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved a sweeping revision of federal criminal laws Wednesday that would make drastic changes in the way criminals are sentenced.

The measure is expected to be on the Senate floor early next year. The House criminal justice subcommittee plans to begin hearings on a similar measure at about the same time.

The vote in the Senate committee was 10-2. Voting against the bill were Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., a liberal who has argued that it is too restrictive, and Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., a conservative who has called parts of it a dangerous relaxation of present laws.

The bill would establish a commission which would set guidelines for sentencing criminals under specific criteria for different types of offense. The guidelines would not permit a variation of more than 25 per cent among sentences for the same crime.

A judge could go outside the guidelines, but would have to give written reasons. The defendant could appeal if the sentence was too heavy and the government could appeal if the sentence was too light. Appeals of sentences are not allowed under current federal law.

Jay Miller, a Washington representative of the American Civil Liberties Union, said amendments made to the bill by the committee had improved it, "but not enough."

He said the ACLU's most serious objections were to the sentencing provisions, which could be "worse than the present law, depending on what the commission does."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a co-sponsor of the bill, said he had talked to Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, who is chairman of the Judicial Conference of federal judges, and "they have serious concerns about ... the rights that are being treated in the way of appeal."

Kennedy joined this year in co-sponsoring the bill with Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., who had been working on it for 10 years. In the last Congress, McClellan's bill came under heavy fire from civil liberties groups.

Kennedy and McClellan came up with a compromise version which eliminated such controversial features as expanded use of the death penalty and new categories of offenses involving disclosure of government secrets. Despite this, the bill has still encountered criticism from the ACLU and other liberal organizations.

In addition to the general sentencing provisions, the bill would:

- Reduce federal penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana. Possession would still be a crime, but the offender would receive a summons, like a traffic ticket, instead of being arrested.
- Establish a program to compensate innocent victims of violent federal crimes, with payments of up to $50,000 authorized.
- Sharply restrict the freedom of lawyers to inquire into the past sexual conduct of a rape victim, and eliminate the requirement for corroboration of the victim's testimony.
- Permit the mailing of pornography to willing adults in states where its dissemination has been decriminalized.

- Provide mandatory jail sentences for trafficking in hard drugs or using a weapon in the commission of a crime.
- Prevent reporters from being jailed for contempt of court for violating an order restricting their coverage of legal proceedings if the order is subsequently held constitutionally invalid.
- Outlaw pyramid sales schemes and provide much heavier fines for other categories of white collar crime.
- Repeal the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to advocate the violent overthrow of the government, and the Logan Act, which prohibits private citizens from communicating with foreign governments with the aim of influencing foreign policy.

Supreme Court Rules Bell Must Pay Gravitt Family

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. had no right to hold up death and pension benefits to the family of an executive who killed himself.

Southwestern Bell withheld an $80,000 payment, plus a $586 a month pension, from the T.O. Gravitt family of Dallas after the family and former Bell executive James Ashley sued the company for $29.2 million.

They alleged in the suit that "corporate rapacities" by Bell had led to Ashley's firing and Gravitt's suicide in 1974.

A five-member committee appointed by the company's board of directors had approved death and pension benefits but rescinded its action after the suit was filed in November 1974.

The Gravitts appealed, and the trial court granted a summary judgment for the Gravitts. The San Antonio Court of Civil Appeals affirmed the judgment, saying, in effect that two provisions of the benefit plan forced the Gravitts to choose between the benefits and filing a lawsuit.

The provisions are invalid, the appeals court said.

The supreme court affirmed the lower court rulings without offering an opinion of its own.

Two months ago, a state court jury in San Antonio said Southwestern Bell should pay Ashley and Mrs. Gravitt $1.5 million each for slandering Ashley and Gravitt.

In other cases Wednesday, the supreme court:

- Refused Kerry Knorpp's effort to be reinstated as county attorney of Potter County.
- Ruled that former Fort Worth city employee Donald Pack cannot sue the city for injuries sustained in a fall, because he signed an agreement to substitute benefits in a retirement fund for the right to sue.
- Rejected the plea of Jay Claude Hutchings' five children to get damages from Parkland Hospital in Dallas in the death of their father. Hutchings died as a result of damage done to his lungs by cobalt treatments.
- Hutchings received radiation treatments for a year after a pathologist erroneously diagnosed him as having inoperable lung cancer.
- The courts said the children could not collect from Parkland, because the pathologist was employed by the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, not the hospital.

Appeals Court Upholds Lubbock Area Rulings

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday upheld the judgments handed down in several Lubbock area cases.

Affirmed by the court were:

- The driving while intoxicated conviction of William Frederick Norris in Lubbock County. Morris was assessed three days in jail and a $75 fine.
- The conviction of Robert B. Boxter in Lubbock County for driving while intoxicated. He was assessed 10 days in jail.
- The seven-day jail sentence and $150 fine assessed George Morris Saunders following his conviction in Lubbock County for driving while intoxicated.
- The driving while intoxicated conviction of Sisto Rivera Jr. in Lubbock County. Rivera was assessed three days in jail and a $75 fine.
- The conviction of Cecil Dewayne Edge in Lubbock County for driving while intoxicated. He was assessed 10 days in jail and a $150 fine.
- The driving while license suspended conviction of Jesus Delarosa Flores in Lubbock County. Flores was assessed four days in jail and a $100 fine.
- The three-day jail sentence and $75 fine assessed Edwardo Rodriguez DeLeon following his conviction in Lubbock County for driving while intoxicated.

- The forgery by passing conviction of James Ehl in Deaf Smith County. Ehl was assessed five years in prison.
- The revocation of the probation of Nativida "Nick" Cabrera by a Deaf Smith County court. Cabrera previously had entered a plea of guilty to a marijuana possession charge and was assessed a probated five-year prison sentence.
- Court records indicated probation was revoked after allegations were made that Cabrera had committed burglary of a vehicle and had been drunk in public.

Oil Production Technology Symposium Set

The South Plains Section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers (SPE) will hold its annual Oil Production Technology Symposium today and Friday at the Koko Palace.

C. John Miller, vice president of Miller Bros. Drilling Corp., is scheduled to deliver the keynote address at the program's welcoming luncheon.

Miller, who has been involved in all phases of the oil business since 1954, is a member of the National Petroleum Council and the Michigan Oil and Gas Advisory Board. He is immediate past president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Miller will present his views on the "Past, Present and Future of U.S. Energy." An estimated 300 engineers are expected to sign up for the two-day event.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the lobby of the Koko Palace Convention Hall.

A meeting of the regional SPE directors has been scheduled for 10 a.m. at the Embers Steakhouse.

Technical discussions will occupy the SPE members from 1:30-5 p.m. today at the Koko Palace, and will continue throughout the day Friday.

The program, sponsored jointly by the South Plains and Texas Tech University Sections of the SPE, is designed to serve the needs of engineering personnel in all phases of petroleum production. Technical papers were chosen from the society's fall meeting in Denver, Colo.

House Approves Gas Pipeline Venture

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Wednesday gave its approval to President Carter's decision for a $10 billion Alaska natural gas pipeline project although some members expressed doubt that the pipeline can be built without federal aid.

Carter selected a consortium of U.S. and Canadian companies to build the trans-Canada pipeline, stressing that the firms must finance the project privately.

Company spokesmen and the administration told hearings in both houses that while the project represents the largest private undertaking ever, it can be financed without federal assistance.

Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, told the House that he had heard such assurances before, "but I must say I am nervous about it."

The House approval, by voice vote, left the issue up to the Senate which will probably vote before the week is out. Several senators have already warned that they are adamantly opposed to any bid for congressional approval of federal assistance.

Even with expected Senate approval, many issues remain to be settled before construction can start as scheduled in 1980.

Federal agencies must give final approval to construction planning, a price must be set for the Alaska natural gas, and the financing itself must be arranged.

In addition, Carter stipulated that the owners of the North Slope natural gas — Exxon, Atlantic-Richfield, and Standard of Ohio — must assist in financing the pipeline production and foot the bill for a $2 billion plant to process the gas for pipeline pumping.

The oil companies so far are opposed to playing the role Carter assigned to them. However, administration officials feel the companies will come around as they would forego $30 billion in sales revenue without a pipeline to take their natural gas to market.

The 4,800-mile pipeline system would deliver roughly five percent of the country's current annual natural gas needs for 25 years. The pipeline would split in Canada to serve terminals in the San Francisco Bay area and suburban Chicago.

RRC Sets Oil Allowable

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has agreed that the most efficient rate of production (MER) of the Tom O'Connor oil field in Refugio County should be maintained at 30,000 barrels a day.

Commission hearing examiners took testimony on the field's performance Oct. 4.

The O'Connor field has produced almost 208 million barrels of oil. An estimated 549 million barrels were in place when production started in 1935.

The reservoir has 168 wells operated by seven operators. The Quintana Petroleum Corp. of Houston is the major operator.

Tech Homecoming Festivities Slated

Homecoming weekend at Texas Tech University will be highlighted football game between the Texas Tech Red Raiders and the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, slated at 2 p.m. Saturday in Jones Stadium.

Festivities begin Friday and will continue through Saturday night.

The Texas Tech Ex-Students Association will host a coffee for past presidents of the association Friday morning. The association council luncheon honoring retiring faculty and staff and the Top Techs staff awardees will be held at 12:15 p.m. in the University Center (UC) Ballroom. A pep rally is slated for 6:15 p.m. Friday in Jones Stadium.

The annual Texas Tech Century Club Dinner, featuring a musical performance by Guy and Raina Hovis of the Lawrence Welk Show, is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the UC Ballroom. All exes and guests are invited to the Homecoming dance at the Koko Palace, 50th and Avenue Q, at 9 p.m. Mrs. Hovis is a former Lubbock resident, Raina English.

Saturday activities begin with a 9:30 a.m. coffee honoring all classes in the UC Courtyard. The class of 1952 will hold a silver anniversary reunion coffee at 9:30 a.m., and the class of 1957 will have a reception at 4:30 p.m., both in the Ex-Students Association Building on campus.

The Ex-Students Luncheon will begin at 11:15 a.m. at the Municipal Coliseum. Hosts are Furr's Inc., Furr's Cafeterias Inc., and Gold Bond Stamps.

Campus organizations and academic groups will host other homecoming activities.

The Homecoming parade will begin its march at Broadway and Avenue H at 10 a.m., continuing west on Broadway onto the Texas Tech campus and ending in the Administration Building parking lot.

Floats sponsored by various businesses and organizations will be judged, and winners will receive plaques and cash prizes of $350, $250, and $150. Plaques are donated by William W. "Coach" Brown of Brown's Varsity Shop, Burl Pigg of Pigg Brothers University Jewelry and Irvin Carson of Broadway Drug.

Float judges will be English professor J. Wilkes Berry, William E. Talley, academic counselor for athletics, Robert Duncan of the dean of students office, physical education professor Peggy J. Williams, and Mrs. Martin Neil.

Others will be Mrs. Raymond Marshall of Lubbock, Texas Tech's first homecoming queen; Arch Lamb of Lubbock, founder of the Saddle Tramps; Cheryl Greer, first woman to receive an athletic scholarship at Tech; Jeannine McHoney, director of Women's Athletics; Kimberly A. Miller, Miss Lubbock; Becky Bailey, South Plains Maid of Cotton; Mary Ellen Harter, Miss Texas Tech, and Sharon Kelton, 1976 Homecoming Queen.

The Texas Tech Band and area high school bands will march in the parade. Other participants will include the Red Raider on Happy Five, Raider Red, cheerleaders and pom-pom girls, along with Lubbock Mayor Roy Bass, former Texas Gov. Preston Smith, and Algore Smith, Texas Tech employee who several years ago asked and received permission to ride in the parade and has participated since.

The crowning of the 1977 Homecoming Queen will take place during pre-game activities at the stadium at 1:45 p.m. Elections will be held Wednesday and Thursday in the UC lobby, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The queen's court will be announced Friday with the queen being announced at the game.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your self-confidence and personal security are strengthened by friendly aspects. Accent is on money problems, as you are able to concentrate on them now and solve them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take care of important commitments before you participate in recreations you crave. Show devotion to a love one. Watch reputation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are able to improve health and appearance considerably today and become more popular and successful. Postpone pleasure trips until you have more leisure time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You need the help of allies to get what you want, so be sure to cooperate with them and get it. Be particularly careful in travel.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Stick to practical and orthodox methods so you do not get into some unfortunate kid of trouble. Forget foolish spending.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Resist high pressure salesmanship. Be careful in expenditure of money and energies.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't expect much help from your mate who is too concerned with the worries of others. Be more cheerful and get more accomplished.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't force your views on a good friend, but let him or her use own good judgement. Avoid a social affair where trouble could ensue.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Business, money and travel matters tend to be turbulent. What can be delayed should be postponed until another time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't go off on any foolish tangent at the expense of whatever is important to you. Consult an ally who can assist you in solving a money problem.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Pay pressing bills. Use tact and diplomacy in making collections. Loved one may be in a bad mood, so smile and don't antagonize.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An associate is pushy today, so be tactful and wait for a better time to state own views. One who has opposed you for a long time could give you trouble again, if you permit.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get down to all that work ahead of you even though your heart isn't in it. Keep promises you have made to co-workers. Avoid strangers.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to assume more responsibility than is good for him or her. Teach to take rightful place in the scheme of things, and permit others to do likewise, and then this becomes a successful chart.

Woman To Join Fire Fighters

DALLAS (AP) — It took 105 years, but the Dallas Fire Department finally has its first female firefighter trainee.

Sherrie Clark, 20, became eligible to enter the four-month rookie training program after passing the department's tough physical ability test. Sixty other women had gone before her and failed.

"I couldn't decide what I wanted to do for the longest time, and then I worked fulltime for an ambulance service for four months last summer and that made up my mind," she said.

The Duncanville resident won't begin her firefighting duties until she graduates from Mountain View College next spring and completes her rookie training. For now, she spends 20 hours a week in the department's communication section.

Taking a shower and washing the hair at the same time uses less water than doing the hair separately.

Seminar On Juvenile Justice Set In Lubbock Civic Center

Robert F. Leonard, president of the National Association of District Attorneys, will make the first address tonight at the opening session of the seminar, "Juvenile Justice: The Human Dimension," in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Registration for the seminar, sponsored by the Junior League of Lubbock, will be held from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. today. An optional dinner is scheduled from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Overview presentations for the conference will be made from 7:45 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

The seminar, open free to the public, will continue Friday at 9 a.m.

Leonard, prosecuting attorney for Genesee County (Flint), Mich., will speak on law enforcement and juvenile crime.

Other presentations tonight will cover courts, by the Hon. Enrique H. Pena, an El Paso district judge and juvenile law instructor, and corrections, by Allen F. Breed, one of the nation's foremost authorities on juvenile and criminal justice.

Friday's 9 a.m. address will be given by William Lucas, sheriff of Wayne County (Detroit), Mich. Lucas has been a special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation and an assistant U.S. attorney.

At 1 p.m. Friday, an address will be made by Dr. Warren Rhodes, who grew up as a member of a Baltimore street gang, graduated from a Job Corps center and now is a post-doctoral intern in the department of psychiatry and human behavior at the University of Mississippi Medical Center.

Panel discussions will be held throughout Friday. Panelists will include Daniel Nathan, Texas Tech University philosophy professor; Betty Anderson, president of the Texas League of Women Voters; Charles Bubany, Texas Tech law professor; Travis Shelton, president of the State Bar of Texas; Evelyn Montgomery, Texas Tech anthropology professor; and Ron Jackson, executive director of the Texas Youth Council.

The seminar is being made possible by a $5,900 grant from the Texas Committee for the Humanities and Public Policy and the National Endowment for the Humanities, and a $7,800 contribution from the Junior League.

Billion Dollar Youth Program Begins At Conservation Sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government began its billion-dollar effort to cut down massive youth unemployment this week by sending the first Young Adults Conservation Corps workers to wildlife refuges and forest areas.

By the end of this year, 7,895 youth will be lacking conservation tasks in urban, park and forest settings, according to Labor Department officials. Some 22,300 out-of-work young people will be awarded jobs with the corps by next October.

The corps is a $233.3-million piece of the $1-billion youth jobs act that passed Congress this year. Other major elements of the act are experimental training and employment programs and community job projects. The overall program is expected to eventually create more than 300,000 jobs.

With the teenage unemployment rate at 18.1 percent and black teenage unemployment at 37.4 percent, youth joblessness has taken on crisis proportions in Congress and the Carter administration. The 18.1 percent means 1.6 million workers between the ages of 16 and 19 are unable to find work, according to Labor Department statistics.

The corps — modeled after the Depression-era Civilian Conservation Corps whose hiking trails and National Park camp sites still dot the landscape — is the most visible aspect of the escalating war on teenage joblessness. Jobless persons ages 16 to 23 are eligible.

Unlike the CCC, at least 75 per cent of the youth corps will not live in residential camps, but instead will commute from their homes to their jobs, though a residential camp is being set up for early next year in Yellowstone National Park.

Labor Department officials say the change away from residential sites means more money will go for jobs, instead of living quarters. Three agencies — the Labor Department, the Agriculture Department and the Interior Department — share responsibilities for operating the program.

Robert Taggart, the Labor Department official who runs the youth job programs, says the conservation corps is certain to be popular with both the youth and the public because of the physical improvements it leaves for the public to enjoy.

Federal officials dispatched their first youth workers this week to start conservation projects at Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge in Illinois, the American Samor seashore, the Gulf Island National Seashore off Florida and Mississippi, the Colville National Forest in the state of Washington and to the Golden State Reserve in Marin County, Calif.

The initial workers range from 15 in American Samoa to 50 at the Golden State Reserve, near San Francisco.

Taggart says the main features of the youth corps jobs is "the belief and history in conservation" and "the development of sites in or near the inner city."

He said future job sites will include near-city projects such as upgrading facilities at Floyd Bennett Field in New York City and in Rock Creek Park in the District of Columbia.

Department of Agriculture officials said their November projects will also include the Santa Fe National Forest and forest areas of Idaho, Utah and Nevada.

While other youth employment programs will involve job training and counseling, the youth corps "is mainly a work program. It is the 'sweat' theory of job programs," says Taggart.

The conservation corps jobs pay the minimum wage, currently $2.30 an hour and rising to $2.65 on Jan. 1. Because of the salary increase, Anola Harris of the Labor Department says there is certain to be a request for supplemental appropriations.

Taggart and his boss, Assistant Labor Secretary Ernest Green, both cautioned that neither Congress nor the public should expect a dramatic decline in the youth jobless rates because of the new job programs.

"We don't want to inflate expectations," said Taggart. When a visitor responded that "Nobody is expecting any miracles, Green said ruefully, "You haven't been getting our phone calls."

Rev. Degrate To Speak

The Rev. L.H. Degrate, chairman of the Educational Board for the West Texas Baptist District Association, will be the featured speaker for the young people's department at New Hope Baptist Church at 8 p.m. Friday.

The Rev. Degrate works through the association to raise funds for scholarship awards for students attending Bishop College in Dallas.

The Rev. A.L. Dunn is host pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church and also moderator for the West Texas Baptist District Association. He has conducted evangelistic services and fund-raising campaigns for youths to attend summer camp as well as participating in district and state work of the church.

The Rev. Dunn has held evangelistic services in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado. He is a pianist and singer, as well as a minister.

He said, "I encourage many young people to enter vocational training. Many students are not college material and have a need for vocational training where many jobs now are open."

Mrs. R.B. Thompson is district youth director and chairman of the program committee at the church.

Bail Reduced For Watergate Figure

NEW YORK (AP) — Bail was reduced for Watergate burglar Frank Sturgis Wednesday after his lawyer argued that charges against him — that he tried to harass and coerce a former spy — stemmed from a publicity stunt.

Sturgis, 53, was accused of trying to harass and coerce ex-spy Marita Lorenz into changing alleged testimony that he was involved in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

In Washington, the chief investigator for the House Assassination Committee declined to confirm or deny that Miss Lorenz had told committee staffers that the former CIA agent was involved in the Kennedy assassination.

Sturgis was arrested at Miss Lorenz's apartment Monday night. His lawyer, Alan Goldfarb, said at the bail hearing that she had invited Sturgis to New York and had sent him the air fare.

Goldfarb protested that someone was trying to create a case of "international intrigue." He accused Miss Lorenz of staging the arrest incident to generate publicity for a book she is writing about her onetime CIA activities.

Alan Broomer, assistant district attorney, maintained that Sturgis made death threats against Miss Lorenz. Broomer said Sturgis told his former CIA colleague that "the company would take care of her" if she didn't change her story.

After hearing their respective arguments in Manhattan's State Supreme Court, Justice Walter Gorman reduced the $25,000 bond set Tuesday to $10,000. He said it "seems like a lot of money under the circumstances."

Henry Rothblatt, another Sturgis attorney, told a reporter in Washington that Miss Lorenz's book agent had confirmed the stunt story.

"She actually sent him the ticket," Rothblatt declared. "She called him and said, 'Frank, come to New York.' He said, 'I don't have the money.' She said, 'I'll send you the fare.'"

"When he got to the apartment the cops picked him up," Rothblatt concluded.

He said Sturgis knew Miss Lorenz from the time when he was running Premier Fidel Castro's air force in Cuba. Sturgis claims he broke with Castro after Castro embraced communism.

Miss Lorenz reportedly told investigators for the House Committee on Assassinations that she, Sturgis, Lee Harvey Oswald, and others drove to Dallas from Miami together a few days before Kennedy was shot. She said she left before the shooting.

G. Robert Blakey, chief investigator for the committee, denied she made such a statement to him personally. But he replied "no comment" when asked at another point if she had given the account to committee investigators.

In an interview with the New York Post, Miss Lorenz said five city police officers were guarding her in her apartment and tasting her food to make sure it was not poisoned.

"I don't like being threatened," she told the newspaper. "I can be dangerous. My daughter can be dangerous. I'm very proud of my daughter for protecting me."

Miss Lorenz's 15-year-old daughter was arrested with a loaded pistol which the newspaper said she had obtained to protect her mother from Sturgis. The daughter, Monica Mercedes Perez Jimenez, was released to the custody of her mother.

Kennedy Assassination File To Be Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI officials confirmed Wednesday that the bureau is about ready to release publicly its massive file on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

A department spokesman said the first segment of the 80,000 pages of investigative material would be unveiled sometime this month. It will cover the first six months of the probe.

The remainder of the file will be disclosed by the end of the year, the official said.

The release comes in response to more than 50 requests under the Freedom of Information Act. Critics of the government's version of the events surrounding the Kennedy assassination, in which Lee Harvey Oswald was held to have acted alone, have sought access to the FBI's raw files almost from the Nov. 22, 1963, date of the killing.

The FBI said it has been working on the file's preparation for release for two and one-half years.

The disclosures will not include those documents from the Warren Commission which remain classified and under seal in the National Archives. Nor will it involve materials which the FBI received from other federal agencies such as the CIA or the Secret Service.

The Dallas Times-Herald originally reported the pending release, quoting a retired agent in Dallas as saying the data would produce no sensational revelations.

Farmers' Strike Speaker Slated

A-J Correspondent
CLOVIS—Derrell Schroeder, a member of the American Agricultural Strike Movement, will speak at 7:30 p.m. today in Marshall Junior High auditorium.

The Colorado resident said the movement rejects the current farm program and demands 100 per cent parity for all domestically used or consumed agricultural products, for all foreign exports and for meat.

Unless demands are met by Dec. 13, he said the movement is encouraging farmers not to sell any products, not to produce any more agricultural products and not to buy any agricultural equipment, supplies or non-essential products.

Dr. Burford, Wife Earn Associateships

Industrial engineering Prof. Charles L. Burford of Texas Tech University and his wife, Clara, have been named 1977 Danforth Associates.

The Danforth Associate Program is designed "to recognize and encourage effective teaching and to humanize teaching and learning for members of the campus community." Appointments are for six years.

More than 6,000 men and women in approximately 900 colleges and universities throughout the U.S. hold the associateships. Dr. and Mrs. Burford are only the 11th couple to be selected from Texas Tech for this honor since the initiation of the program in 1941. Three years ago Dr. J. Wilkes Berry and June Berry were selected.

The Burfords will attend the biannual conference for associates at Totto Hills Resort in Many, La., Thursday through Sunday.

The Danforth Program offers opportunities for interdisciplinary and inter-institutional activities among faculty "who share a broad concern for values in education and society at large and who, as persons interested in teaching and scholarship, share a specific concern for students."

Associates attend regional conferences which are sponsored by the foundation and which address various topics related to their roles as faculty, teachers and citizens. The program is unique in the inclusion of spouses who are associates and full participants in conferences and other program activities.

During their terms associates are eligible to attend three biennial regional conferences as guest of the foundation and to apply to the College Project Fund for support of special activities.

Danforth Associates are selected from college and university faculty and their spouses who express a major commitment to undergraduate teaching. Prime criterion for selection is that the faculty member be an able teacher in a four-year accredited college or university, be interested in scholarship and be concerned with the development of undergraduate students in terms of their values and social responsibilities.

Burford came to Texas Tech in 1964 and has been active in university affairs since. He is past chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee of the Faculty Council.

In addition to civic and professional organization involvement, he has worked in student affairs and has sponsored several student organizations.

He has been instrumental in developing undergraduate courses and has served as an advisor to both undergraduate and graduate students. He has been acclaimed for teaching excellence and for providing variety in teaching.

Burford received the Ph.D. from Oklahoma State University in 1966 and is a registered professional engineer in Texas and Oklahoma.

Clara Burford is working toward a doctoral degree in education at Texas Tech and has a master's in elementary education from the university. She did undergraduate work in music at The University of Texas at Austin, and has been teaching in Lubbock public schools eight years. She also is nearing qualification for administration and supervision certification.

Radiator Cap Fanciers Disappointed

By National Geographic
WASHINGTON — Once again it's New Car Season, but the latest models again are disappointing to an elite group of auto buffs, the lovers of radiator caps.

Despite predictions, radiator caps are not coming back — at least not grandly enough for their admirers.

There are a few vestigial chromium worms that squiggle on the hoods of today's cars, and a few stand-up, stylized coats-of-arms that seem too frail to herald the ton or more of sleekness behind them.

The worst has come true for the likes of Bill Mitchell, who as General Motors styling chief once complained: "I can't stand a hood that looks like a turkey roaster or a bed pan."

Gone are the wings and spears, the dancing nymphs and leaping animals that paced yesterday's roadsters and limousines down the highway. Gone but not forgotten.

The golden age of radiator caps is remembered by friends and collectors of antique cars. These hood adornments, or mascots, are especially remembered by some 150 to 200 Americans who collect them.

All are prized, the National Geographic Society says, but some collections of hundreds of radiator caps are valued at many thousands of dollars. Among the most treasured:

The Cadillac "herald" lifting his trumpet as though to toot clear the highway ahead. This tiny figure is worth $1,000; only 50 were cast.

The LaSalle namesake, a tiny statue of the famed explorer holding a map in his hand and extending his hat to the undiscovered horizon — just down the road.

The Isotta-Fraschini's "flying man," valued at $1,500 and closely resembling the famous Packard mascot of a winged racer holding a wheel in outstretched hand, a figure nicknamed "the doughnut chaser."

Other mascots are more familiar, although few bring as much as $350 in trading between collectors.

Many are creatures of speed and grace: the Dodge ram, the Lincoln greyhound, Terraplane's reposing griffin, the Hispano-Suiza's stork, the Graf and Strift's growling lion, and the Franklin's version of the king of beasts raised up and clawing the air.

Mascots were both standard equipment and special accessories, such as the Bugatti elephant and the cobra that struck from Rudolph Valentino's Isotta. Many were birds: a quail for Ford, a flying goose for the Wills Sainte Claire, an eagle for the Marmon, a snipe for the Humber, a crested eagle for the Alvis, a heron for the Cadillac, an eagle with 8-inch wings for the Thomas Flyer and, for the Bianchi, another eagle — swallowing a snake.

The Duesenberg lightning flash was generally looked upon as a surrealistic "duesen-bird."

History took a bow among radiator caps with the Mayflower of the Plymouth and the Indian chief of the Pontiac, both becoming more wind-swept as cars became increasingly streamlined.

All kinds of creatures graced radiators. Rover had a stolid Viking, the Salmson a warrior brandishing sword and shield, the Armstrong-Siddley a sphinx, and the Auburn a fleet-footed Mercury delivering a golden apple.

For years, the kneeling bowman of the Pierce-Arrow aimed a shaft at any upstart auto challenging the route ahead.

Only four of the famous mascots of yesterday survive today: Rolls-Royce's "Spirit of Ecstasy" or flying lady used since 1911; the Mercedes-Benz circle and star, originally symbolizing the union of the two founding companies; the Jaguar's big pouncing cat, and the Bentley's "winged B."

Today's safety rules say radiator mascots are too dangerous to pedestrians, so these ornaments must be spring-loaded so they bend backward, or they must be removed entirely when the car is in motion.

Car buffs always unscrew and pocket their mascots when they leave their classic cars at the curb, and sometimes they replace the caps with much cheaper replicas. Even Motometers, the glassed-in thermometers that registered the radiator water's temperature, are quickly swiped.

Personalized and customized hood ornaments were popular from the first. The French glass company Laliqu made translucent miniature statuary often illuminated by tiny concealed lightbulbs.

Rickenbacker's Hat-in-the-Ring Squadron Spad, as a radiator ornament, was not much help to the short-lived automobile named for the famed American ace. At other times, spinning propellers and even flapping wings have failed to excite

Atop the world's first radiator cap, appearing in 1898, stood St. Christopher holding a little boy on his shoulder, an appropriately protective symbol at the dawn of the dangerous auto age.

'Boss' Tweed History At Tech

History made by the family of William Marcy "Boss" Tweed of New York City is being made available to historians in a far distant location, Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Richard M. Tweed was the great nephew of the nineteenth century New York politician, and it is Dick Tweed's widow, Holly, who has given to the Texas Tech Southwest Collection nearly 2,000 pages of material relating to the family, as well as an elegant hand wrought silver tea set and small side chair to The Museum of Texas Tech University. The chair bears markings which suggest it was made by the chair manufacturing branch of the Tweed family.

The late Dick Tweed, of Amarillo and Borger, was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., and moved west in 1938 to become associated with a fledgling insurance business in the Texas Panhandle.

After spending several years in the U.S. Army in a combat military police battalion in the Philippines, he returned to the United States in 1946 and joined an insurance agency in Borger.

Dick Tweed was extremely active in community affairs and was well known in Texas insurance circles.

The recently published book, "Tweed's New York," by Leon Hershkovitz was based in part upon personal interviews with Dick Tweed and the use of the material donated to Texas Tech.

The tea set, made by Edward Rockwell of New York City, is in the classical revival style of the 1820's and 1830's and could have been made at any point during that era.

The material in the Southwest Collection, a regional research center, includes correspondence, diaries, essays and poetry, written by members of the Tweed family.

David J. Murrach, university archivist and head of the Southwest Collection, said that, although most of the collection pertains to the family of Richard Tweed, William M. Tweed's brother, it "should be of significant benefit to social and political historians interested in Boss Tweed or in nineteenth century social and cultural history."

Some of the items date to 1836, he said.

Voting "Yes" to Proposition 6 Can Save You Time and Money. Here's How.

Voting "Yes" to Proposition No. 6 will enable our Legislature to establish guidelines for electronic banking in Texas. An optional method of banking that brings bank services to you. Twenty-four hours a day. Here are some points to consider.

1. What change in banking procedures can be expected if Proposition No. 6 is approved by voters? No change at all can take place for at least two years. Then a gradual evolution, beginning in the 1980's, will see electronic banking machines and devices distributed throughout Texas cities and towns. Customers can use the machines to withdraw cash, shift funds from savings to checking, pay for merchandise, and perform other simple bank transactions.

2. How would electronic banking machines located throughout a city benefit the customer, "the consumer" of bank services? It's a matter of convenience—customers won't have to drive to their bank for routine transactions. Instead, they have the option of banking electronically, through the use of convenient bank terminals, twenty-four hours a day, holidays and weekends included.

3. Will the use of off-premise machines permit the invasion of a customer's privacy where his or her bank account is concerned? No. Confidentiality between a bank and a depositor will be better protected. Legislation to implement the system will insure the privacy of users be fully protected.

4. Would Proposition No. 6 deny customers personal contact with their bank? Not at all. Banks will still carry on all of their traditional functions, from opening checking and savings accounts to arranging for loans and providing financial counseling and other services. Electronic banking simply gives you an optional method of handling your banking, just as drive-in banking facilities and bank credit cards did when they were introduced.

Already, legislation in forty-four states enables banks to provide electronic bank services for their customers. It's time Texans took action to put bank services everywhere we need them. When we need them.

Help Make Banking Easier for You.

Falcons Sign Kicker, Cut Mike-Mayer

ATLANTA (AP) — Fred Steinfort, the placekicker who booted George Blanda out of a job a year ago before being cut himself by two National Football League clubs, has been signed by the Atlanta Falcons.

Coach Leeman Bennett made the announcement Wednesday, cutting five-year veteran Nick Mike-Mayer who had connected on only seven of 19 field goal attempts this season.

"Nick is gone and Steinfort is going to be my kicker," said Bennett, whose club is tied for first in the Western Division of the National Football Conference with a 4-3 record.

"It was a decision we had to make. I'm sorry things worked out like they did. I wish it could be different but we thought we would try a change," said Bennett.

"I realize Nick was out there doing his best but it could get to effect a team whenever three points are taken away from you," said the first-year coach.

Mike-Mayer missed twice in Sunday's 14-7 loss to the Minnesota Vikings.

Steinfort, 25, ousted Blanda at Oakland last year after being chosen in the fourth round by the Raiders in the draft. The Boston College graduate was four of eight in the field goal department before a pulled groin muscle sidelined him after seven games.

Errol Mann took over the placekicking for the Super Bowl champions and won the job in preseason this year. Steinfort was released but picked up by Seattle and traded to Detroit. He was released two weeks ago by the Lions.

"I had just been home three or four days and was going to give it a couple of weeks to see if anyone called before looking for a job, then going back to school," said Steinfort.

His plans were interrupted when the Falcons called Sunday night. He worked out Monday and was signed Wednesday at noon and immediately practiced with his new club.

"I'm very anxious to get back in the swing of things," said Steinfort, who holds the Boston College school record with a field goal of 55 yards.

He said his release from two clubs "just amounted to bad breaks."

"I hurt my groin muscle in Oakland last year and then had an ankle problem in Detroit," said Steinfort. "I'm healthy now and over the little nagging injuries. I know I'll be able to do a fairly decent job."

"I'm very enthusiastic and it's an excellent opportunity for me. There's no reason why I shouldn't be able to take advantage of this opportunity. I'll make the best of it," said the blond who was born in Germany and came to the United States 12 years ago.

Union Nips Bledsoe

Greg Wilkes hit 25 points to lead Bledsoe to a 58-55 overtime win over Union Tuesday night.

Leading Union was Stacy Dunn with 14 points. In girl's play, Keri Bledsoe poured in 14 points to lead Bledsoe to a 43-41 win over Union. Gena Fought hit 25 for the loser.

McAdoo Wins Pair
McAdoo opened the season with a pair of road victories over Spade, with the girls winning 48-27 and the boys 56-54.

The hosts got 31 points and 23 rebounds from Lynn Cowan in the boys game, but that wasn't enough. Albert Osuna had 20 for the victors.

Sally Pullen ripped the nets for 41 points to direct the McAdoo girls. Vicki Mills had 17 for Spade.

In 1976 Missouri played seven teams which ultimately went to football bowl games.

BERT YANCEY

Former Tour Golfer Arrested

BEAUFORT, S.C. (AP)—Golfer Bert Yancey was under observation at a state mental hospital Wednesday after being arrested on charges of lewd conduct, a spokesman for the Beaufort County Sheriff's Department said.

Yancey, a teaching professional on nearby Hilton Head Island, was arrested and jailed Monday, but the sheriff's department did not release public reports until Wednesday.

One of professional golf's top 50 all-time money winners with $688,000 in career earnings, Yancey was taken into custody around 1 a.m. Monday after a woman reported a prowler around her house.

He became violent when taken to the county jail and was transferred to the State Hospital in Columbia, said Lt. John Kistler of the sheriff's department.

Yancey, 39, was charged with looking through the window of a woman's home, indecent exposure, resisting arrest and destruction of county property, said Kistler.

Kistler said the department received a prowler call at a home next door to Yancey's residence at Hilton Head Island.

Deputies who arrived at the scene said they saw a man looking through a rear window into the home. The man approached a deputy and exposed himself while making obscene gestures, the deputy said.

The man became belligerent and was handcuffed en route to the county jail, but still damaged the inside of the deputies' patrol car by kicking, Kistler said.

"When he was put in the car, he apparently went sort of berserk," Kistler said. Yancey retired from the pro golf circuit to become a teaching professional at the Hilton Head Golf Club this year.

A native of Chipley, Fla., Yancey attended West Point but did not graduate, being discharged after a mental breakdown.

He turned professional in 1961 and joined the Professional Golfers Association (PGA) tour in 1964.

He won eight major golf tournaments and placed high in dozens of others in his golfing career, becoming a consultant for the National Golf Foundation and a member of the PGA teaching staff.

Yancey, runnerup three times in the Masters tournament, had also started writing a local newspaper column called, "Ask Bert Yancey," in which he gave tips to local golfers.

Akers Calls UT-Tech Very Physical Game

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas Coach Fred Akers noted Wednesday after watching film of a Texas Tech linebacker flattening Texas' Earl Campbell that the physical blows dealt out "certainly weren't all one-sided."

The film of top-ranked Texas' 26-0 victory over No. 14 Tech last Saturday also showed Tech tight ends decking Texas defensive back Ricky Churchman — who has a reputation for being tough — at least three times.

"It was a very tough, very physical football game by both squads. They had an outstanding football team," Akers told the Longhorn Club.

A real blow — with a fist — appeared to be delivered by Tech linebacker Mike Mock after Texas' Johnny "Ham" Jones pointed at him as he was crossing the goal line.

Texas was penalized 15 yards for taunting Mock, but no infraction was called on Mock.

"You're not supposed to do that," Akers said of Jones' pointing, "but you're not supposed to swing at people either."

Akers' unbeaten squad plays Houston next Saturday, and Akers said Houston's defense "is almost identical in structure to Arkansas — except they are bigger. They also are younger, but they have good athletes — really good athletes — although they have been a bit unpredictable at times."

Texas edged Arkansas, 13-9, after trailing 9-6.

Akers said Houston likes to overshift its defense "and make you go to the weak side, but we can do that, too."

Akers said tight end Gil Harris is working out although he strained his knee against Tech, and "everyone should be ready to go" against Houston.

Asked if Texas quarterback Randy McEachern, a third-teamer who took over a starting role after Texas' top two quarterbacks were hurt, was getting "smoother," Akers said:

"All along — if he can just quit fumbling the snap on first down, we'll be all right."

Freshman Sanford Coggins fractured a small bone in his ankle in a junior varsity game, which means, Akers said, that possible redshirt Ted Constanzo will be trained more this week.

"If we need him," Akers said, "he won't be redshirted."

Texas has lost four quarterbacks this season with injuries and now has only freshman Sam Ansley and Constanzo, who is recovering from a knee operation, behind McEachern.

ACC Cage Heads Aid Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — A number of college basketball coaches at Atlantic Coast Conference schools think the publicity generated by a published report that four Maryland players are on the verge of academic dismissal has gone a bit far.

"All of us probably recruited some players that were a little more marginal than the ones we had been going after," said Clemson Coach Bill Foster. "At the same time, academics are getting tougher on most campuses. We're putting some kids in spots where they just can't handle the academics."

On Tuesday, the Washington Star indicated four Maryland players face possible dismissal from the school because of failing grades. All four were said to be on academic probation.

Coach Lefty Driesell, upset over publication of the student's problems, said he had always emphasized academics over athletics.

Noting that in 17 years at both Davidson and Maryland only three players who had completed their eligibility had failed to graduate, Driesell said, "I'm more proud of that than I am of having six teams in the Top Ten (at Davidson and Maryland)."

Terry Holland, coach of the University of Virginia and a former aide to Driesell, was taken aback by the news.

"Lefty's always been more concerned about grades than just about any other coach you could name," Holland said. "He does as much as he can to keep the players in line. In fact, he often demands more from them than the school itself requires."

Wake Forest coach Carl Tacey said it could happen anywhere.

"We don't have a problem, but it could happen to anyone."

Georgetown coach John Thompson, meantime, said he was not surprised at the situation at Maryland.

Dry Looks For Guards

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian coach F.A. Dry, who has three of his four top offensive guards sidelined by injuries, says he's looking for volunteers for Saturday's game against Texas Tech.

Starter Bill Kinder has missed the last two games with water on the knee, while the other regular, freshman Frank Hartman, suffered a shoulder injury in last week's loss to Houston.

Kinder's replacement, senior Jim Blackwelder, is out with a neck injury.

Dry said Blackwelder is definitely out for the Southwest Conference contest against Texas Tech, while Hartman is questionable. Kinder should be back, however, Dry added.

Silver Spurs Go On Line

Alfred Lord Tennyson poem, "The Charge of the Light Brigade," when he talked about the Plainsmen.

"There's this line that goes, 'Cannons on the right, cannons on the left and cannons in front of me,' and it's about the same thing as Plainsmen on the right, Plainsmen on the left and Plainsmen in front of me," Talbot said.

Meanwhile, Odom paid tribute to his coaching cohort moments later.

"Lubbock High hasn't been outgout or outthustled all year and that's a great credit to Coach Talbot and their fine coaching staff," the MHS coach said.

Monterey's offense turned in "as fine an effort as any Monterey offense since 1972," according to Odom in last week's 40-7 win over Coronado. While quarterback Ron Reeves passed and romped for his usual chunks, fullback Robby McDaniell and tailback Jeff Harp pounded away at the Mustangs' middle for plenty of valuable yardage.

And split receivers Eric Voyles and Dudley McMinn rate high on Talbot's list of worries.

"They have a ball-control offense, even when they go to the air. And those two receivers run such good routes," the Lubbock coach added.

Lubbock's offense depends on the running of tailback Ernest Day and fullback Bobby Mitchell for its ball control. But last week at Hereford, quarterback Ricky Moreno connected with split end Mark Vickery and wingback Larry Dupree for decisive gainers.

"We feel like our quarterback has come a long way. . . There's not many times this year when our quarterback has been able to drop down on one knee at the end of the game. But we would like to use that play more often," Talbot said.

Odom hopes the improved Lubbocks wait at least another week to dial that play again.

Lubbock Christian JV Opens Cage Play At OC

ODESSA (Special) — Lubbock Christian College's junior varsity basketballers kick off their six-game schedule here tonight against Odessa College.

Coach Darrell Price will have three freshmen and two sophomores in the lineup. Sophs Steve Doudney (6-0) and Robert Cobb (6-2) will handle the guard duties, with 6-3 Lamar Sampy of Houston Jefferson, 6-3 Roosevelt Gatterson of Houston Kashmere and 6-6 Mike Buckner of Monterey across the front line.

The Roadrunners will be without the services of 6-3 Brian Fortner, City Player of the Year in 1977 as a senior at LCHS, for another 10 days due to a hairline fracture on his right foot.

Price will have four reserves at his command, but all are guards, 6-2 Jack Bell of El Paso Andress, 6-2 Gary Norris of Lubbock High, 5-11 Robert Watts of Texas City and 6-2 Edwin Miles of Kashmere, who has missed the last three weeks due to a turned ankle suffered in intramural football.

The Roadrunners face South Plains Monday and New Mexico Junior College Nov. 12, on the road, then conclude their brief season in the New Mexico Military Institute-sponsored Wool Bowl Tournament at Roswell, N.M., Nov. 24-26.

Both Doudney, from Dallas Christian High, and Cobb, from Bell Gardens, Calif., lettered last year for the Chaarrals.

Thomas Finds No Fault With Late Decision

By CARTER CROMWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

At this point, Andy Thomas can find no fault with his decision of a year and a half ago to attend Texas Tech.

Thomas, a sophomore who has started at defensive end for the Raiders this season when he's been healthy, was headed for Texas A&M before making a last-minute decision to sign with Tech in February 1976.

"I had been committed to A&M for about a week," the 6-3, 207-pounder said. "But I changed my mind the Sunday night before the Tuesday signing date. I just got to thinking about it and decided that I'd have a better chance to play early in my career here than at A&M."

Thomas' brother, Willie, was a Tech offensive lineman at the time. Thomas said Willie had some influence on his decision, "but he pretty much left it up to me. He didn't try to force me to come here."

Thomas has to be happy with his decision now, since he is getting to play a lot as a sophomore. The Fort Worth Arlington Heights product has bothered by a bruised shoulder and strained knee this season and is just now getting back to full speed, but he's played well when he's been in the lineup.

Thomas' quickness and speed are big assets for him.

"He's played well when he's been in there," defensive end coach Jess Stiles said. "He'll get better with experience, too, since he's got two years after this. Missing some time this year has held him back a little bit." After straining his left knee against A&M, he missed the next two games.

This season, Tech kept the weakside and strongside designations for their ends, but switched responsibilities. The weak end has been going to the strong side of the offensive formation, while the strongside end has been lining up on the weak side of the formation. Thomas was a "weakside" end until this fall, when he was switched to the "strongside" spot.

"We moved him to the strong side so we could get him and (Richard) Aledge in the game at the same time," Stiles said. "We felt he has the quickness we need, and we didn't want him to sit on the bench a whole lot behind Arledge."

Thomas says he likes playing where he is.

"The way we've been playing this year, the weakside end (Arledge) drops off into the pass coverage a lot, and I'm not that good on coverage, so I like playing strongside better."

"It wasn't too tough making the adjustment, but I've still got to improve my techniques."

Thomas didn't play defensive end until he came to Tech. He was a defensive tackle in high school until his senior season, when he was shifted to linebacker. When he was being recruited, Tech coaches indictated that they wanted to use him at either linebacker or defensive end.

ANDY THOMAS

NOTES: Tech coach Steve Sloan said Wednesday that Tres Adams would be the starter at quarterback for the Raiders against TCU Saturday. "based on the situation as it is now." Mark Johnson, troubled by a bruised thigh for some time now, hasn't been able to run this week. Rodney Allison was "a lot better" Wednesday, Sloan said, "but that's based on the fact that he could hardly do anything Tuesday. He looked about like he did last Saturday, but it looks like he's making some progress."

Offensive lineman Wilbert Cunningham, who sprained a knee Tuesday, is "doubtful" for the TCU game, Sloan said. Guard Kenny Thiel has been moved to strong tackle to back up Dan Irons. Cornerback Craig Harris suffered a deep leg bruise Tuesday and didn't work out Wednesday, but Sloan said he should be available for Saturday's contest.

Corbett Charges Kuhn Entering Hisle Case

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Rangers owner Brad Corbett said Wednesday that Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn is trying to prevent the team from signing free agent outfielder Larry Hisle.

Kuhn is currently studying testimony offered in a hearing last week on possible "tampering" by the Rangers in their attempts to get the Minnesota outfielder.

Minnesota Twins officials raised the tampering charge after Ranger general manager Danny O'Brien said at a luncheon that it wouldn't surprise him to see Hisle in a Ranger uniform next year. He jokingly added that money was not a problem because the Rangers simple would "ink the printing press."

Kuhn came to Dallas to meet with Ranger officials and said he would make a decision later on whether O'Brien's comments constituted "tampering."

Minnesota officials said O'Brien's comments made it difficult for them to sign Hisle. Hisle, however, already had stated that he intended to play out his option and become a free agent.

In the wake of the investigation by Kuhn, O'Brien submitted his resignation to Corbett, but the Ranger manager did not accept it, sources said.

Corbett said Wednesday he had talked to Kuhn most of the day. He told newsmen: "They don't want us to sign Hisle."

He declined to elaborate.

The re-entry draft for free agents will be held Friday.

Butters Selected Blue Devils AD

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Tom Butters has been named Duke University athletic director after serving since Aug. 1 as acting athletic director.

Butters succeeds Carl James who resigned this summer after five years in the post. The new director joined the Duke staff as director of special events in 1967 after serving as assistant director of admissions at Ohio Wesleyan, his alma mater.

SWC Injured QBs Speak Out

One of the most significant developments of the 1977 collegiate football season has been the injuries to quarterbacks. Teams from national leader Texas on down have been hit by injuries. In the Southwest Conference, no fewer than 11 quarterbacks have been banged up enough to miss anywhere from a few days of practice to the full season. Theories have ranged from head-hunting defenses through conditioning programs on to the types of playing surfaces employed and equipment being worn. The 11 quarterbacks were asked two questions: 1. How were you injured? and 2. Why have there been so many quarterbacks hurt? Their comments:

Rodney Allison, Texas Tech (missed three games and parts of two others, still not 100 per cent from broken leg): I was scrambling on a pass play and my leg got folded up under me when I was tackled. It was definitely not a cheap shot. Injuries are happening because quarterbacks are running more and more exposed in the open field. When you run parallel to the line, you've got a better chance of getting hit from all different angles.

Jon Aune, Texas (out for season after knee surgery): I had pitched to Earl Campbell on the option and planted my foot. Some guy who had been blocked was crawling around on the ground and hit me. It sort of hyper-extended the knee. From what I've heard, they're all freak accidents like mine. I don't think it's just quarterbacks getting hurt. It's both running and passing quarterbacks. We've got to be in better shape.

Steve Bayuk, TCU (missed one game with thigh bruise): I got hit on the thigh with a helmet. I kept running on it and irritated it until it got so bad I couldn't go. I have no theory why so many (QBs) are getting hurt. Cyl it mishap or misfortune. Everybody seems to be getting different kinds of injuries, so you can't pinpoint it to one thing, like if they were all leg injuries. A quarterback needs to relax and be alert at all times.

Sammy Bickham, Baylor (out for season with knee surgery, broken foot, shoulder separation and dislocated finger): Before the season I got tackled on an option play in practice and felt my shoulder pop. I jammed my index finger on my own blocker's helmet on a follow-through after a pass in workout. I got the knee injury on a good, low tackle on an option play. No one is trying to get the quarterback. This is a rough sport and these things just happen.

Delrick Brown, Houston (jammed turf—toe): I don't even remember when (the injury occurred against Utah). More teams are using the option instead of dropback formations, but I'm not sure if that makes much difference because some quarterbacks are hurt passing. When you're a quarterback, you get hit and when you get hit, you can get hurt.

Danny Davis, Houston (out for season with shoulder separation): It wasn't a really big lick, but I was off balance when I got hit. I was in the wrong place at the wrong time. I worked on weights all summer and fall to improve my strength, and I don't think there's any one reason. Just about all of us have had different types of injuries. Any person who handles the ball as much as the quarterback is more susceptible to injury.

Mike Ford, SMU (missed workouts, no games, with hyper-extended elbow): I ran with the ball and fumbled. When I reached out for it, I got hit from behind by a player diving over me. I'm pretty sure it wasn't intentional, since it was one of my own teammates. I think all injuries are freakish. Every quarterback is going to get hit. I don't think I've gotten any cheap shots. Maybe a couple of times I thought there were late hits, but that's a judgment call.

Mark Johnson, Tech (thigh injury): I was making a cut in practice and nobody touched me. I just went down and hurt a muscle. The quarterback handles the ball most of the time and the defense is always coming after the ball. In the veer, the quarterback gets hit even when he pitches because he pitches at the last second when somebody's already about to hit him. A quarterback can count on getting hit just about every time the ball is snapped, and that increases your chances of getting injured. I haven't seen any cheap shots this year.

Mark McBath, Texas (out for season with broken leg): It was more a freak deal. I wasn't prepared for the impact. I got straightened up by a tackler, then got hit from behind and my leg was broken in the pileup. I can't see that any of the injuries were related; they're part of the game, just a coincidence, different plays under different circumstances. I know it's not head-hunting. I've taken some late hits from guys who were mad because they were getting beat bad, but they were frustrated over how the game was going.

Scott Smith, Baylor (shoulder separation, dislocated shoulder): I hurt my shoulder in high school and as soon as I went down on a sprintout pass, I knew I was hurt. I think the turf is one reason; that and the defenses are quicker and stronger. And quarterbacks probably aren't protecting themselves enough.

Greg Wood, Baylor (sprained ankle): I got tackled on a rollout pass and my ankle turned underneath me. It didn't seem bad at first, but I couldn't walk after practice. Better defensive personnel is the reason for so many injuries. They're stronger and quicker than ever. There's no one specific reason for quarterbacks getting hurt—it just happens. And it's not something that quarterbacks are going to have to worry about from now on. It's just that these injuries seem to be standing out this year.

Kress Joins Ratings

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Despite the fact four ranked teams suffered defeat last Friday, Kress is the only newcomer to The Avalanche-Journal's area rankings this week.

"We're tickled to death to get there," Kangaroo boss Al Mitts said upon learning that his unit had taken over the No. 5 position in the Class A division.

"It's been a long, hard struggle for us to get there. I think our men have played hard and earned it. . . I just hope we can prove we're deserving of it."

Odessa Permian in AAAA, Perryton in AAA, Idalou in AA, Seagraves in A and Ropesville in B maintained their top listings. In fact, all except Permian have been top-ranked all season, and the Panthers took over the hot spot after the season's second game.

Mitts said he felt Kress was "a little flat against Bovina. But I guarantee you they played us real tough. You've got to give them credit for that. I think Coach (E.C.) Jenkins did a good job preparing for us."

The Kangaroos may be looking ahead a bit to Nov. 11's date with Vega, which will decide the 3-A playoff representative.

"There's no way we can keep them from looking at Vega," Mitts explained, "because win or lose this week the game with Vega will be the 'big' game. We're just doing the best we keep to keep their minds on Springlake and not stray off to Vega."

"Springlake's record (2-6) may not be that good, but they've got a young club that has some potential and that's the type club that, if you don't watch them, can slip up on you."

Other ranked teams tasting defeat last week were Frenship and Muleshoe in AA, Plains in A and Valley in B.

Frenship, however, retained its No. 3 listing and Muleshoe slipped a notch to fifth, with Post taking over fourth.

In A, Plains dropped out and Valley tumbled from second to fifth, with Sudan, Motley County and Sundown each moving up a notch.

Yeoman Says Campbell Best Of Texas High School Crop

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston coach Bill Yeoman, whose Cougars must face the No. 1-ranked Texas Longhorns and Earl Campbell Saturday, could act as an advance man for Campbell's Heisman Trophy campaign.

While UT publicists have preferred to let Campbell's actions do the talking, Yeoman is unrestrained in his praise of the Southwest Conference's leading rusher.

Yeoman, asked to rate Campbell with the best runners he's seen, placed Campbell in a category with his former Army teammate Doc Blanchard.

"He (Blanchard) was a freak in his time," Yeoman said. "I've watched people fall off of Blanchard just like I've seen them fall off of Campbell. I don't think there's any question that everybody realized this young man is the best to come out of Texas high schools."

Houston will find out just how good Saturday afternoon when the Cougars host the Longhorns in Rice Stadium before an expected crowd of 70,000. Only 2,000 standing-room-only tickets remain to be sold prior to the 2 p.m. kickoff.

Campbell could easily move into the top 10 among National Collegiate Athletic Association career rushing leaders against the Cougars.

Campbell currently is 12th on the all-time list but could replace Arizona State's Woody Green in the No. 10 position if he gains 41 yards in the Houston game. Campbell is averaging 145.0

yards through seven games this season.

Yeoman also compares Campbell more than favorably with former UH star Paul Gipson, a star of the 1968 season when Houston and Texas battled to a 20-20 tie in Austin.

"Earl has similar capacity to what Gipson had, just more of it," Yeoman said. "Paul weighed about 198 and Campbell is 220. Paul had about 4.5 speed and this guy is fairly similar and he has more strength."

Although the Cougars embarrassed the Longhorns 30-0 last year to end Texas' 42-game home winning streak, new coach Fred Akers has turned the Longhorns' fortunes around.

Based on comparative scores, it should be a romp for Texas. The Longhorns beat Arkansas 13-9 and Southern Methodist 30-14 while the Cougars lost to the Hogs 34-0 and the Ponies 37-23.

Houston's two losses followed announcement by the NCAA that the Cougars had been placed on probation for recruiting violations involving freshman quarterback Darrell Shepard.

Saturday's game will be played in Rice Stadium instead of Houston's home field, the Astrodome, under a stipulation placed on the Cougars when they were admitted to the SWC.

UH agreed to give all SWC teams a choice of playing either in Rice Stadium or the Astrodome on their first trip to Houston. Since last season's game was in Austin, the Longhorns exercised their option this season to play in Rice Stadium.

National Pro-Am Meet Scheduled

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans for a new annual golf tournament to determine the Pro-Am Team Championship among everyday golfers and their club professional were announced here Wednesday.

The event will be cosponsored by the World Golf Hall of Fame and the Hertz Corp., and staged over the Pinehurst No. 2 course at Pinehurst, N.C.

The gross division championship will be held Aug. 17-18 next year and the net division Nov. 2-3.

Contestants from all public and private courses in the United States will be eligible, including both men and women. Representative teams will be selected from other countries by various international and national golf bodies.

Under the format, qualifying will take place within the 39 sections of the Professional Golfers Association. In each case, three amateurs will team with the club professional.

Gross scores, with no application of handicaps, will determine winners of both the qualifying rounds and the championship. In the net division, in addition to the pro, each team must consist of amateur players representing three handicap categories—scratch-9, 10-16 and 17-25. Handicaps will apply in the scoring.

In both net and gross divisions, each team's score will consist of the three best aggregate scores by members. Pros will compete for $10,000 prize and exemption to play in the Colgate-Hall of Fame Golf Classic, a four event.

Plans for the unique tournament were announced at a meeting of golf officials by Don Collett, president of the World Golf Hall of Fame, and Frank A. Olson, president of Hertz.

Fans Flood Miami QB With Anti-Fog Advice

MIAMI (AP) — Professional football players often have to contend with playing in the rain or snow. But Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins has a unique weather problem that could affect his game.

Fog.

Griese is the only National Football League quarterback who wears eye glasses when he plays. He got a lot of attention recently when he appeared — jokingly — wearing glasses equipped with little electric windshield wipers.

Since then, Griese has received more than 100 letters from fans, offering advice on his eye trouble.

One warned of a different type of problem. "He told me I'll have problems with my glasses when I play in the cold weather," Griese said. "My body temperature is going to be warm, so when the air from my body hits my glasses, that'll fog them up."

"Since I've been wearing the glasses, people have sent me a lot of anti-fogger sprays and waxes," Griese said. "I've got a whole locker full of them."

"I'd never been in a situation where my glasses fogged up, so I took a hot shower at home yesterday," Griese said. "I took two pairs of glasses in the shower with me. I put some anti-fog on one and didn't treat the other. It was like I was doing a commercial. But the anti-fog stuff works. It really works!"

"I'm planning to take some of the anti-fog stuff to New York this week," Griese said of the upcoming game with the Jets.

Griese admits the attention given his glasses has made him some kind of a trend setter. "I'm sure there will be more quarterbacks wearing glasses because of this," he said.

"I've had a lot of parents come to me and say, 'I'm glad you're wearing glasses. Now I can get my son to wear his glasses.' Before, their sons were embarrassed to wear them."

ABC Official Denies Payoff For Silence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rooney Arledge, head of ABC sports, has denied that a $10,000 payment to one of his employees was made to silence him from making any public statements about the network's U.S. boxing championships.

In a memorandum to the House Communications Subcommittee, ABC said its investigation shows "Arledge stated unequivocally that the $10,000 payment to Wallau was not intended in any way to silence Wallau or influence his statements or conduct."

Alex Wallau, who advised the network on televising of the championships last spring, warned it that 31 of 56 boxers selected for the series were unqualified. Wallau subsequently was taken off the series but remained with the network.

The ABC memo stated that Arledge believes Wallau "could not be influenced in this regard by money and that Wallau is such a highly motivated and principled person, with a great desire to be accepted and valuable, that he would probably be offended if he thought he was receiving money in order to influence his statements and conduct."

ABC said the $10,000, paid Wallau after he was taken off the fight series, "does not appear to be disproportionate to the substantial amount of work on boxing matters performed by Wallau and the quality of that work and its importance to ABC sports."

The communications subcommittee renewed its hearings Wednesday into the relationships between sports and television, concentrating on the Don King-promoted boxing championships which were suspended by ABC last April amid charges of kickbacks. The $1.5 million in prizes for the tournament came from the network.

The subcommittee also will look into the CBS "winner take all" tennis matches, as well as advertising and promotional practices, anticompetitive trade practices and changes in sports events to accommodate television.

The probe, planned to be wide-ranging, was shortened and its scope narrowed Wednesday during the questioning of NBC sports executives Alvin Rush and Chester Simmons.

Bettis' First Move: Name Livingston QB

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mike Livingston will be Kansas City's starting quarterback Sunday against the Green Bay Packers, Tom Bettis announced Wednesday in his first major decision as head coach.

"That was arrived at as a staff decision," said Bettis, long-time Chiefs defensive backfield coach who replaced the fired Paul Wiggin Monday.

Livingston, a 10-year veteran, was the third-leading passer in the American Football Conference last year but was benched in favor of three-year man Tony Adams after Adams had lurching to an 0-5 beginning.

In his first start, Adams helped quarterback the Chiefs to their only victory of the year, a 21-16 decision over the San Diego Chargers Oct. 23. But last week at Cleveland, after falling behind 30-0 en route to a 44-7 crushing, Wiggin played Livingston the entire second half.

Bettis also announced that veterans John Brockington and Ed Podolak would start at fullback and runningback ahead of rookies Mark Bailey and Tony Reed, who had started most of the Chiefs' games this season.

"I feel we have two fine, capable quarterbacks, but Mike earned a chance to play," the coach commented. "And we need both of them."

Bettis stopped short of giving Livingston a complete vote of confidence.

"To some degree, this is going to be a performance-type thing. But I want to keep this on a positive note. I talked with Mike and Tony and I feel they both understand that."

The Chiefs players took full responsibility for the dismissal of the popular Wiggin and Bettis has been stressing to them the need to "remain together and remain positive."

"I told our players that we cannot be a house divided," he said. "And I truly feel that is the case. There is not even a crack in the wall. We are approaching the last seven games as a new season for us. The 1-6 is behind us. We hope we've learned from our mistakes."

Livingston, obviously pleased with Bettis' decision, said he had never lost confidence in his ability and echoed the new head coach's philosophy of sticking together.

"Sometimes it takes something as tragic as having Paul Wiggin get fired to wake people up to their responsibilities," he said. "I hope the Green Bay game will be one of the most emotional games the Chiefs have ever played. I think it will be."

Blues Hope Trade Turns Team Aound

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Blues are hoping Swedish hockey player Inge Hammarstrom, recently acquired from the Toronto Maple Leafs, will put more muscle in their stumbling offense.

The National Hockey League team has not won a game this season, posting a 0-8-1 record.

On Tuesday, the Blues acquired Hammarstrom, who scored 24 goals last season and made 17 assists, from Toronto in exchange for right wing Jerry Butler. Hammarstrom, 29, was born in Sweden and was a member of the Swedish National team at 19.

Texas, Tide, OU, SWC Given Solid Support

By FRED ROTHENBERG
NEW YORK (AP)—Once again, Texas has easily answered the question: Who's No. 1?
But college football, a combination of bigtime athletics and sometimes academics, never runs out of questions to pass the time from one Saturday to the next.
So today's burning question is: Which conference is No. 1?
Several conferences can make legitimate claims for this honor, particularly the Southwest Conference, the Southeast Conference, the Big Ten and the Big Eight.

Nowhere in sight is the Pacific-8, which doesn't have a Top Ten team. Perennial powers UCLA and USC both have three losses, with the Trojans falling off their horse each of the last three weeks. USC, which lost to California last Saturday, is 16th while California is 17th.
A little mathematical mischief with the Top Ten — giving the No. 1 team 10 points, the No. 2 nine and so on — produces three conferences in a near-dead heat.
The Southwest Conference has 14 points, based on undefeated Texas' No. 1 ranking, Arkansas, eighth-place and Texas A&M No. 10 position.

The Southeast Conference has 13 points with Alabama No. 2 and Kentucky No. 7. LSU also is represented in the Top 20, checking in at No. 18.
Then comes the Big Ten, which as usual is represented by its Big Two — Ohio State (No. 4) and Michigan (No. 6) for a total of 12 points.
The Big Eight shows just one Top Ten team — Oklahoma is No. 3 (eight points) — but also has No. 11 Nebraska and No. 19 Iowa State.
Maybe the best conference, though, is no conference at all. Maybe it's the independents who include fifth-ranked Notre Dame, No. 9 Penn State, 12th-rated Pitt, 15th-ranked Florida State and unranked, undefeated and untied Colgate.

Tiny Colgate and titanic Texas remain the nation's two major college unbeaten. Only in 1927 and 1936 did at least one major college team fail to get by all its opponents.
Colgate, 8-0, has three Division II opponents left, including Bucknell on Saturday which should pose no problems for the Red Raiders of the Chenango Valley.
Texas, 7-0, facing a much more difficult schedule, locks horns with Houston Saturday, revenge day for the Longhorns who remember the Alamo and Houston's 30-0 victory last year. . . Texas 47, Houston 10.

Chileans Use Sawdust Furnaces

CONCEPCION, Chile (AP) — A growing number of industries in southern Chile have abandoned oil and are using sawdust to heat their buildings.

Chile's southern regions, important producers of wood, annually generate 400,000 tons of sawdust. For many years, homes and small hotels in this chilly area have used small amounts of sawdust in room heaters called "salamandras." In 1968, the Bio-Bio region's development corporation, CIDERE, decided to introduce sawdust for industrial heating.

The first industrial furnaces were installed in 1974, coincidental with the world "energy crisis." By 1976-77, the region had substituted 14,800 tons of petroleum by using 65,000 tons of sawdust in specially constructed furnaces. Chile normally must import two-thirds of its oil.

Alfredo Searle, a chemical engineer at Concepcion's branch of the National Technical University, designed the specialized furnace, which introduces sawdust slowly to a burner through a large metal cone. The furnace is a large rectangular metal structure with a small opening to introduce fire and a large cylindrical exhaust pipe. Searle, who had attended graduate school at the University of Michigan in 1953-54, remembered having seen a similar furnace in use at the Forest Products Laboratory in Madison, Wis.

In 1968, Searle tried to obtain plans for such a furnace from the United States. He found that the sawdust method, once widely used in heavily forested areas of the United States and Canadian Northwest, Germany and Switzerland had generally been put aside for inexpensive petroleum heating with the advent of economic development and the ecology movement.

"But the sawdust furnace isn't dangerous," Searle attested. "A well-constructed furnace gives off neither smoke nor steam."

Finally, Searle obtained a 1941 study from Oregon State College, "Rating and Care of Domestic Sawdust Burners" and drew up the initial designs for CIDERE. Since 1974, sawdust furnaces have been installed in the region, where winter temperatures go down into the 20s. A typical furnace costs about $1,800.

With the new furnaces in use, two problems have been resolved: 16 percent of the sawdust generated in Chile, formerly wasted, is now being consumed. And heating is accomplished for one-fifth the cost of petroleum or kerosene. Virtually the only cost of its use is transportation, which costs less than a penny per kilogram (2.2 pounds) of sawdust.

Searle estimates that this savings enables a furnace to pay for itself in 100 days. Even so, he says that Chile's continuing economic depression makes furnace conversion difficult for many industries.

One problem is that the furnaces must be "manned" to introduce sawdust every few hours. Many Chilean companies cannot afford to hire the needed workers.

Another difficulty is the space required for sawdust storage — 15 times that needed for oil storage. Large city buildings such as the University of Concepcion's administration building and the Banco de Trabajo have sawdust delivered frequently in sacks.

Educators Slated For Honors

The executive director of the Texas Association of School Administrators, Dr. Charles F. Mathews of Austin, and the president of the Lubbock Independent School District Board of Trustees, Charles L. Waters, will receive special recognition Thursday at Texas Tech University.

At the 6:30 p.m. Recognition and Awards Dinner sponsored by the Advisory Development Council to the College of Education at Texas Tech, Mathews will be named "Distinguished Alumnus" of the College of Education. He received the Ed. D. degree from Texas Tech in 1960.

Waters, a Lubbock attorney, will receive the "distinguished friend of president" since 1974.

Mathews has been executive director of the TASA since June 1, 1976. Prior to that he was executive vice president of Kilgore College. He served as superin-

Automaker Recalls Vans For Defects

LIVONIA, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. Wednesday recalled 2,045 new Econoline vans and Club wagons for a possible defect that could cause loss of steering control.

The automaker said the problem in the 1978 model vehicles is in the steering tie rod adjusting sleeve and clamp assembly.

Ford said the adjusting sleeve clamp might fracture under certain conditions, but said it had no reports of accidents or injuries as a result of the problems.

tendent of schools at Longview from 1961-'72 and Plainview, 1953-'6.

He also has held administrative posts in public school systems in Midland, Colorado City and Santa Anna. He received the Bachelor of Arts Degree from Howard Payne College, Brownwood, in 1936 and the Master of Education from the University of Texas in 1941.

Texas Tech president Cecil Mackey will be the principal speaker at the dinner which inaugurates Education Week at Texas Tech, Nov. 7-11.

More than 300 persons are expected to attend the banquet honoring distinguished alumni, educators and friends of the College of Education.

Tickets for the dinner are $4. Reservations can be made by calling the College of Education at Tech.

Israeli Airline Shares Anti-Hijacking Lore

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — El Al, Israel's national airline says it is sharing with at least 20 foreign air carriers the knowledge it has gained over the years on anti-hijacking tactics.

Its officials say that with the recent spate of hijackings they expect more foreign airlines to contact them for security advice.

One official said that while there is no formal course of instruction "we share our knowledge and security measures."

"I think it's common knowledge that we are one of the best in this field," he added.

El Al President Mordechai Ben-Ari is scheduled to lecture on security to 120 airline executives at an International Air Transport Association (IATA) meeting in Madrid on Nov. 8. Officials say he will repeat his call for international cooperation on air terrorism.

Although there have been several attempts to hijack El Al planes, the only successful operation was in 1968 when Palestinians hijacked an El Al to Algeria. The airline's security system is mostly secret but plain clothes sky marshals are said to ride shotgun on every flight.

During one hijack attempt on an El Al plane to London in September 1970, sky marshals shot a terrorist and wounded his female companion, Leila Khaled, in a gunfight aboard the plane.

According to Israeli army figures, of the 208 civilians killed in terrorist attacks against airliners both in the air and on the ground between 1968 and the start of 1977, only seven of the casualties died during attacks on El Al planes.

A large part of El Al's overall security relies on its stringent security procedures at Ben-Gurion Airport and at its other terminals at foreign airports.

Passengers to and from Israel who use El Al have to be at the airport at least two hours before flight departures to go through multiple security checks.

Airline experts emphasize that ground security "is the most important aspect" of the hijack problem.

At Ben-Gurion each passenger leaving the country is questioned by a trained officer. Passengers are asked whether they packed their own bags or if anyone has given them packages to take abroad. Any suspicious person is taken away for further questioning.

Besides being subjected to body searches, El Al passengers walk through metal detector devices and their hand luggage is searched.

At Ben-Gurion Airport, where terrorists killed 26 passengers inside the arrival lounge in 1972, a motorized unit of border police meets each of the 25 or so daily flights that land in Israel.

Every incoming passenger is checked against a list and passengers with Arab passports are taken to a separate location for questioning.

Bootmaker Makes Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Sharlot Battin says she'd never dream of leaving New York — not until her shoes have worked their way across every stage on Broadway. "I just drifted into leather," says Miss Battin, 31, whose reputation as a theatrical shoemaker and leatherworker is gaining momentum along the Great White Way.

Admitting she pounded the pavement to get business in the beginning, she reports production men and costume designers are now calling her one-woman company, Montana Leatherworks Ltd., to make sandals, boots and other leather accessories for their plays.

After graduating from Brigham Young University in Utah, Miss Battin, a speech and drama major, worked for a San Francisco prop shop before coming to New York three years ago. Here she was employed by a costume company making cartoon outfits like Sylvester and Tweety Bird, worn as promotional gimmicks.

"One day a designer ordered slippers for a Shakespearean production. We didn't have any in stock. Somebody said to me, 'You better learn how to make them.' So I got some old slippers, took them apart, put them back together and presto — instant shoemaker!"

Later she became friends with an East Village leatherworker who specialized in Ukrainian dance boots. After buying and borrowing equipment and supplies, she set up shop in Manhattan's Chinatown.

Recent credits include footgear for Rex Harrison and other cast members in Broadway's "Caesar and Cleopatra" early this year, hooves for the horses in the play "Equus" and assorted items for the stage productions of "The Wiz," "Hair" and "The Merchant." She's currently at work on 30 pairs of shoes for the Metropolitan Opera's production of "Tanhauser."

"I've always idolized Rex Harrison," she admits. "So when I came with my tape measure I got butterflies. The costume designer told me to march right in and say, 'Mr. Harrison, I've come to size up your feet.' It's not the most sophisticated line to feed to one of the stage's all-time greats, but what could I do?"

Miss Battin's work often carries her into theater dressing rooms and other areas backstage where she fits cast members. "I grab those feet wherever I can corner them," she says. "At rehearsals, in dressing rooms, coffee breaks — you name it." She traveled to Washington, where "Caesar and Cleopatra" was to preview. "I spent the whole time on my hands and knees in the basement of the Kennedy Center fitting all these Roman soldiers with sandals. What a way to see the nation's capital."

Her first week in New York might have been enough to send her packing for the 200 acres she calls home in Montana. She got lost in Manhattan's mass transit maze, got off a bus in Harlem and promptly got mugged.

"A bunch of 11-year-olds threw me against a wall, roughed me up and stole $140 — every cent I had. I was staying with friends in Chelsea. Some people were making porno films in the next apartment. I didn't think my money would be safe around there — so I kept it on me."

"So these monsters had me cornered when a big, shiny car pulls up and a voice says, 'Split, kids.' Next thing I know, I'm sitting in the car with this tall black gentleman and he's asking where he can drop me. Drove me home and told me to be more careful, stay out of Harlem."

Raised in tiny Whitefish, Mont., near Glacier National Park, Miss Battin often longs for the sweeping silence of the Montana hills where her mother and grandfather still live.

"You're never alone in New York — not even when you're by yourself in your apartment. The squeal of brakes, the grinding of the garbage trucks, the shrieking police sirens — it all troops right in, just like the soot and the cockroaches," she says. "But this is where Broadway is, where the opportunities are."

Jeffrey Byron Signed For MGM Movie

CULVER CITY, CALIF. (Special) — Jeffrey Byron, 21, has been signed by MGM to portray Tatum O'Neal's boyfriend in "International Velvet."

Byron, who recently starred in the production called "The Seniors," will play the role of Scott Saunders, star of the U.S. Equestrian Olympics Team.

Son of British actress Anna Lee and the godson of the legendary John Ford, Byron has been part of the acting profession since childhood. In addition to feature film roles, he has appeared in major television series such as "MacMillan," "Eight Is Enough" and "Fantastic Journey."

"International Velvet," a continuation of the 1944 classic "National Velvet," is produced and directed by Bryan Forbes from his original screenplay. It also stars Christopher Plummer, Anthony Hopkins and Nanette Newman.

With the exception of three days in October at Ledyard, Mass., production will be filmed entirely in the United Kingdom.

SEE 'HANK' SATURDAY — The legendary Hank Williams died a tragic death after writing hundreds of country music's favorite songs. But he lives again every time Jim Owen takes the stage. Owen will bring his celebrated "Hank" concert to the Civic Center theater stage at 8 p.m. Saturday, riding a crest of popularity after PBS television taped his one-man show. A-J critic William Kerns calls the show "stunning, one well worth seeing if you've ever liked even one of Hank's songs. Or if you just wanted to learn more about him. ... Highly entertaining." Tickets are still on sale at Luskey's Western Wear, Flipside Records and the Civic Center box office. (Staff Photo by Norm Tindell)

Actress Gets Role In Upcoming Film

NEW YORK, N.Y. (Special) — Penny Milford has been signed for the key role of Vi in "Coming Home," a Hal Ashby film starring Jane Fonda, Jon Voight and Bruce Dern. The film will be released by United Artists.

Milford recently returned from London where she completed her role in Ken Russell's "Valentino" with Rudolph Nureyev.

Milford has held leading roles in the Broadway productions of "Shenandoah" and "Lenny," and starred in such films as "Maidstone" and "Man On A Swing."

"Coming Home" is produced by Jerome Hellman. Hal Ashby is directing from a script by Waldo Salt and Robert Jones, which was based on an idea by Fonda and associate producer Bruce Gilbert. Haskell Wexler is the director of photography.

Described by Hellman as a "realistic love story," the film is set in California during the height of the Vietnam War and concerns two veterans and the wife of one of them.

GINO TONIGHT! — Gino Vannelli, the Canadian musician whose Vegas-style show saw people hawking tickets outside a sold out Municipal Auditorium last year, will bring his computerized light show, quadrophonic sound system and excellent music to the Lubbock Coliseum at 8 p.m. today. The concert, originally slated for Oct. 28, was postponed because of equipment delays. Those still holding tickets to the Oct. 28 Civic Center show may exchange them today at the Coliseum. Tickets remain on sale at the Coliseum box office and a crowd of 6,000 to 7,000 is expected.

Isaac Hayes' Comeback Has New Look

STATERLINE, Nev. (AP) — Pass the word: Isaac Hayes is back. He surprised a few people here a couple of weeks ago when he opened at the Sahara Tahoe in a chocolate-colored tux, singing "Stranger In Paradise." On the same stage four years ago, he appeared wearing chains and not much else. At that time, he appealed to a special group of music listeners. Now he's trying to widen that appeal. After a bout with financial problems, he's back, planning appearances and plugging a new album, laced with middle of the road cuts. The heavy soul with the driving beat is still there, but it isn't quite the same. Hayes, at 35, has gone on a diet, a training program and says simply: "It's good to be back." What about his new image? "I've always liked all kinds of music. I like slow, easy things. I guess you could say I'm a sentimentalist. Now I'm just going to sing more of it. It's a bag most people aren't used to seeing me in. "You know, before I didn't always sing what I want. Now I'm going to. I haven't abandoned the old Isaac, I've just added something most people haven't heard from me," he said. At his four-day Tahoe run, Hayes sang most of his hits: "Never Can Say Goodbye," "Shaft" and more. But the new look was there. Judging from the audience reaction on opening night, Hayes may have some doing to latch on to the broader cross-section of audience he seeks. Before his finale, a number of persons had silently exited, apparently not impressed that Hayes was far enough to the middle of the road. Afterwards, backstage, he laughed it off. "Wasn't that something. It's just one of those things." He said he has big plans for his career, perhaps including a bigger attempt at serious acting. "I want to do it all." As for his music career, Hayes said he is back to stay. "I've got to get some hits going again. It's necessary for the image and to pay some bills." He said he thinks music will progress, and not do as some predict, head back to the past. "Music is a reflection of the times. It reflects attitudes, development and technology. To keep up with the age, music must be that reflection. If it does that, it moves forward," he said. The man who climbed to the top like many others — the hard way — says he wants to stay there. "I've had some problems, but it's all relative. I just try to understand about life. Life is a challenge. It's being with out some ups and downs," he said.

COE Banquet Set For Employers

Three-hundred employers, students, teachers and administrators are expected to fill Coronado High School Cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday for the annual Cooperative Office Education (COE) Employer Appreciation Banquet. "A Bountiful Harvest — Our Employers" will be the theme for the banquet held by students enrolled in COE at the five Lubbock high schools. Special recognition will go to those firms participating in the program for five or more years.

Federal Government Uses DDT Against Bats

The potent pesticide DDT — banned in this country since 1972 because it can cause cancer in humans — is still doled out by the federal government's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta to control one of nature's most widely understood creatures: the bat.

The rationale for this is the contemporary belief that bats — which frequently inhabit human dwellings — transmit rabies to humans.

In one recent case, for example, 2,300 tenants were moved out of a federal housing project in Texas for four hours while 56 pounds of DDT were dusted into attics, along eaves and into fire walls. And on smaller levels, single family dwellings across the country have been dusted with one to four pounds of DDT use itself. And many agree that irrational fears about this animal that sleeps day and flies by night — but which plays a vital role in eradicating insect pests — are at the bottom of the bat-control program.

"This program is (conducted) mostly because of the anxiety of people," says Dr. Valdas Kaupas, who runs a sizeable bat control program for the State of New Hampshire's public health department. "Bats are not frequently rabid now."

In fact, according to Dr. Alvin Novick, associate professor of biology at Yale University who has specialized in bat investigation, "The number of cases of rabies in man which can reasonably be attributed to transmission from bats is perhaps one in the medical history of the United States.

"There may even have been two or three — still hardly a public menace. More people die each year of black fly bites, bee stings, or from contaminated food consumed at church suppers."

Many bats do unquestionably carry the rabies virus, says Tom Kunz, professor of biology at Boston University, who has just finished an extensive study of bat behavior. "But whether under what conditions they transmit the virus is another question entirely."

According to Dr. Kaupas, bats are not even among the top three wildlife species that present a rabies threat to man. Skunks rank number one in that department, followed by foxes and raccoons — though even the latter two transmit the disease only in rare instances.

Partially because of the DDT control program, bats — still the world's most numerous mammals — have been found by researchers at the University of Kentucky to be "decreasing at an alarming rate in the United States."

Like eagles, falcons and numerous songbird species, bats are particularly sensitive to insecticide poisoning. Large quantities of chlorinated hydrocarbon pesticides such as DDT, chlordane and lindane build up in the food chain and ultimately are stored in the bat's fatty tissue. When bats use this fat during hibernation, they absorb lethal doses of the poison.

Yet bat colonies themselves are remarkable natural pesticides. Leaving only nitrogen-rich guano as a residue (which is commercially marketed as fertilizer in some areas), bats significantly reduce the populations of most insect pests. "The biggest problem with bats is that they have a bad public image," says Boston University's Kunz. Despite their presence in every subpolar region of the earth, the estimated tens of billions of bats are collectively obscure in the human mind. Relegated to dusty corners with cobwebs, witches and demons, they are often feared as threatening or evil.

"Bats were connected to the devil in ancient times," says New Hampshire's Dr. Kaupas, "and it has long been believed that the devil in bat form was attracted to the hair of a beautiful woman. We still have strange beliefs. They are hard to eradicate."

Actually, bats are just unusual, they are the only mammals that can fly, and are possessed of a degree of functional and structural specialization that man cannot yet completely understand. Nearly blind, they can sift out, correlate, integrate and act upon information in midflight garnered from echoes of their own astonishingly rapid ultrasonic sound emissions.

The bat's seemingly erratic, darting flight is actually a precision hunting expedition that makes man's use of radar seem neolithic by comparison. With the grace of a lightning-quick ballerina, a bat will scoop an insect from the air with the tip of its wing and consume it in midflight without missing wingbeat.

BOOMERANG
Ironically, according to Boston University's Kunz, chemical pesticide control programs on bats actually increase the danger bats pose to humans.

Kunz — who has been working in intimate association for the past five years with 1,200 bats in a barn at Sargent Camp in Peterborough, Mass. — says that while DDT kills some members of the colony, it just makes others seriously ill, since bats have a strong homing instinct, new bats that return to a treated site year after year will also pick up sub-lethal doses of the pesticide.

"This does two things," Kunz has determined. "First, it increases the exposure of humans to bats, and second, it increases the danger of rabies transmission."

"There is no federal or state follow-up of the DDT bat-control program," he explains, "so people whose homes have been treated are left to pick up and dispose of the flopping, dying bats themselves. It is at this time that bats are most disposed to bite."

And, Kunz adds, "Bats that have contracted sub-lethal doses of DDT often become ill. In this state, those bats that carry mild viral infections become more acutely rabid, and the danger to humans increases."

According to Kunz, the best and safest way to get rid of bats creating a nuisance in walls or attics is to "build them out."

This can be done by locating and then blocking all entrances through which bats may gain access. Entryways can easily be located by noting the points from which bats emerge from the building during the last hour of daylight; they can then be blocked by nails, boards and mortar after the bats have left for the night.

"Building out bats from your home may be a bit more expensive," Kunz says, "but consider the alternative."

Tangled Laws On Abortion Discussed

By BILL CLAYTON

AUSTIN — Abortion has been subject to great controversy since the first pro-abortion rulings were made by the United States Supreme Court in 1972.

Stemming from the permissive rulings on the rights of women to obtain abortions on demand, there was a move by persons opposing abortion to completely ban or severely limit the performance of abortions.

In every session of the Texas legislature since 1972, bills have been introduced to prohibit abortion except when necessary to save the life of the mother. The battle between supporters and opponents of abortion has raged full force with both sides devoting much time and effort to promotion their cause.

For the persons supporting anti-abortion measures, some headway was made this past summer, when the U. S. Supreme Court issued three opinions that reverse the trend of the earlier decisions regarding the right of women to obtain abortions.

The reversals were in relation to earlier decisions which required states to include non-therapeutic abortions in their Medicaid programs. The recent court decisions, however, remove those requirements and are expressed by three separate decisions.

The first decision holds that Title XIX of the Social Security Act (which establishes the Medicaid program) does not require states to fund non-therapeutic abortions for women on welfare.

Opinion number two holds that a state's refusal to provide non-therapeutic abortions does not violate equal protection rights of pregnant indigents, and the third opinion holds that a hospital's refusal to provide publicly financed hospital services for non-therapeutic abortions, while providing such services for childbirth, is not unconstitutional.

Congress appears to be supporting the trend of limiting voluntary abortions with both the House and Senate favoring a ban on the use of Federal matching funds for Medicaid services for abortion, with the only disagreement being in what will be considered "therapeutic."

The reversal of court decisions regarding state's responsibility to provide non-therapeutic abortions for welfare recipients and actions expected from the U.S. Congress will give states the leeway through state option to provide or to not provide non-therapeutic abortions for welfare recipients.

Texas did not appropriate any state money to be used specifically for non-therapeutic abortions for welfare recipients, and as of August 4, 1977 stopped paying for such abortions until action is taken by Congress. It is believed that Congressional action favoring the more limited payment for abortions will enable Texas to permanently cease the performance of abortions except in cases where it is necessary to save the life of the mother.

HOW CYPRUS NAMED

It is believed that Cyprus, off the coast of Turkey, may have received its name from "kypros," the Greek word for copper. The island prospered from copper mines more than 4,000 years ago in the Bronze age.
