

Lack Of Space In Classrooms Disputed

By JEFF SOUTH

FEDERAL government attorneys Tuesday tried to prove Lubbock has ample classroom space—a premise basic not only to their attempts to block new school construction, but also to their design of a new desegregation plan here.

to account the recent expansion of special education, physical education and remedial programs, and the district's efforts to assign fewer students per classroom.

comprehensive plan for both elementary and secondary schools should be required. "Race may well be a factor in determining the direction that growth takes in Lubbock, and consequently the government's contentions that Lubbock's new school construction is not based on true need, and would exacerbate racial segregation, must be given some merit," Bell's document said.

ent School District in its entirety, elementary school capacities are being under-utilized by some 5,364 permanent space and some 8,500 total spaces (including relocatable buildings), the report said.

Robbery Testimony Bares Death Threat

By FRANK PATRICK

MRS. CAROLYN Trussell testified Tuesday that Burton Russell Beadle helped plan last year's Wolforth bank robbery and said Beadle had threatened her in an effort to keep her silent.

Saturday, while her husband wanted to do it on a Tuesday. Three suspects, including Trussell, were arrested shortly after the holdup. Beadle was apprehended some time later.

Sadat earlier offered to make such a trip to try to end the "vicious circle" that has kept the Middle East at war for three decades. The proposed visit, which would break the Arab taboo against any leader visiting Israel, was called a "sacred duty" by Sadat who spoke with reporters in Egypt.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the proposed meeting was discussed by President Carter and the visiting Shah of Iran and "they are encouraged by developments." Powell said a Sadat-Begin meeting would be "an unprecedented exchange that probably would have been unthinkable even a year ago."

Some sources speculated Happy V had never fully recovered from an incident last year during which the horse was doused with orange paint the night before Tech was to play the University of Texas.

Whether there are any pending applications for annexations and, if so, what the estimates of the population, by race, for each area would be. A map outlining the areas also is requested.

Beadle, 46, was indicted along with three other men for allegedly pulling off the largest bank robbery in Lubbock County history. $40,000 Still Missing. Nearly $66,000 was taken during the Aug. 31, 1976, holdup of Wolforth's American Bank of Commerce.

Reaction Subdued. The Arab world's reaction to the proposed Sadat visit generally was subdued except for criticism from hard-line Iraq, Libya and Palestinian extremists.

Parliament Notified. Begin told the Knesset, Israel's parliament, he sent the invitation to Sadat through the U.S. Embassy and diplomatic sources said it reached Cairo within three hours of Begin's speech.

School's Spanking Rule Stirs Lawsuit

JONES, Okla. (AP) — Rhonda Davis, a 16-year-old cheerleader who was late to school five times, went to court over a rule that's forcing her to stay home unless she lets her principal spank her. On Tuesday, her principal said she can return until the suit is settled.

Blackie was the school's first Red Raider, ridden by Joe Kirk Fulton, now chairman of the board of Plains National Bank. Blackie was followed by Tech Beauty, Charcoal Cody, Showboy Huffman and then Happy V.

Deputy Recovers Own Auto

VALENCIA, Calif. (AP) — Deputy Sheriff James Curtis took a personal interest in a high-speed chase in pursuit of the persons who drove out of the station's parking lot in a stolen car — Curtis' car.

Curtis, 25, leaped into a patrol car Sunday night and chased his Volkswagen, quickly halting it and arresting the two occupants, authorities said.

The two were booked for investigation of grand theft auto and burglary, Los Angeles County deputies reported.

Grandmother Arrests Thief

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A 70-year-old grandmother said the "doggone police department didn't take care of things, so I did" when she lured a boy she thought had stolen money from her into her home and held him at gunpoint until police arrived.

Mrs. R.M. Long said she saw the 13-year-old hanging around just before somebody walked into her home while she was outside, rummaged in her purse and took $200 about two weeks ago.

"When I found out that money was gone, I knew it had to have been him that took it," she said.

Monday morning, she saw the boy outside again. "I ran over and unlocked the door and then I invited him in very kindly," she said. "I said, 'Come on in. I've got something pretty to show you.'"

After the boy went inside, "I picked up my '22 and I said 'Come on, sonny boy, we're going into the kitchen,'" Mrs. Long said. "I took him over and I said you sit down in front of that piano. And then after that I called the police."

While they waited, Mrs. Long said she talked to the boy "just like a mother ought to talk to her son." She said he eventually told her where he had hidden the money. Police took the boy into custody.

"I wouldn't have hurt him," said Mrs. Long. "Unless he'd have tried to run. Then I'd have let his legs have it."

Infant Breaks Father's Jaw

CLEVELAND (AP) — Edward Bruening's jaw has been wired shut for six weeks while the fracture he suffered during a playful match with his son heals. He was struck in the jaw by a punch from James Bruening.

Although sons often grow bigger than their fathers, Jamie hasn't reached that stage yet. He's 17 months old and, at 23 pounds, was outweighed by 124 pounds in the tickling match with his father.

"Every morning he goes to wake his daddy up," Jamie's mother explained. "They were on the bed tickling each other. Both of them relaxed on the pillow for a moment, then Eddy tickled him again. Jamie came around with a quick right and hit him on the left side of the jaw. Jamie looks like a little angel, with blond hair and blue eyes. He's just a tiny, little squirt."

White Paint Aids Police

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP) — Fort Madison police have painted a six-foot-wide white strip on the back side of downtown buildings in a four-block area. There's no beautification campaign under way, it's an anti-crime measure.

"The purpose of the white paint is to make a person stand out," Capt. Paul Bartholomew said of "Operation White Way."

The alley behind the buildings was full of nooks and crannies, overgrown with vines, brush and trash. But since the white paint and security lights were added and the area was cleaned out, the business break-in rate in this southeast Iowa city of 14,000 has been cut in half and local merchants have saved an estimated $14,000, police say.

Bartholomew said his 25-person force investigated an average of 91 burglaries each year for the past four years. But so far this year, just 46 burglaries occurred, he said. Because of the lights and white paint, he said, six burglary suspects were apprehended at the scene during June alone.

"It's paying off," he said. "Some of the best burglars in this area won't work here."

Davis Trial Attorneys Ready Final Arguments

AMARILLO (AP) — Attorneys huddled in secret and separate quarters Tuesday and polished closing jury arguments in the capital murder trial of Cullen Davis.

Those will be the last persuasive shots fired at the jurors before they slip into a small, draft room and begin their life and death deliberations.

They must weigh the evidence of 13 weeks of bizarre testimony and determine if Davis, 44, was the "man in black" who killed his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn.

The pretty, dark-haired girl was one of four persons gunned down on a warm summer night in 1976 at the secluded Davis mansion in Fort Worth.

Two survived, including the defendant's estranged wife, Priscilla, 36, who, on the night of the shootings was sharing the $6 million mansion with the latest in a string of lovers.

Her boyfriend, Stan Farr, 30, 6-foot-10 and nearly two feet taller than the curvaceous blonde socialite, was killed.

Gus Gavrel Jr., 22, a chance visitor to the hilltop estate, was crippled in the midnight gunfire. His girlfriend, Beverly Bass, 19, escaped unharmed.

Although there were no witnesses to Andrea's murder, prosecutors chose to try that case because Texas juries are notoriously lenient on love-triangle slayings.

State attorneys used bullets recovered from Farr's body as a circumstantial link to the girl's death, matching up those bullets with one found beneath her body.

The three survivors identified Davis as the gunman, but the defense contended each stood to profit financially by doing so.

The defense vigorously endeavored to show that persons other than Davis had a motive for the shootings, and that Farr was the primary target.

But in the most startling development, defense attorneys produced a surprise witness who said he saw an intruder inside the mansion shortly before the shootings. That man, he said, was not Davis.

A rebuttal witness cast doubts on the credibility of that testimony and it was on that note that the state, in a surprise move, closed its case.

Trial Judge George Dowlen has allowed each side 3½ hours to present its closing statements and said the jury would get the case late today.

The jurors themselves will decide when to begin deliberations.

They have three choices in reaching a verdict: capital murder, murder or innocence. Unless they choose the latter, there will be additional testimony before punishment is determined.

The trial, which began June 27, is the longest in Texas history. It is said that never before has a jury in this country been asked to decide the fate of a murder defendant of such enormous wealth.

'Desperation Decision' By Jurors Speculated

AMARILLO (AP) — Ask any of the nine men or three women whose communal home has been a hotel here since last summer. There's more than one prisoner in the Cullen Davis capital murder case.

In fact, an Amarillo psychologist said the 12 individuals now known collectively as the "Davis jury" probably are under more stress than imprisoned criminals.

They are the jury members who have listened to almost endless arguments presented by both the defense and prosecution in the capital murder trial of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis.

Marilyn K. Haessly, a 32-year-old department store clerk, was the first, becoming a juror on June 29. Forty-nine days later — Aug. 17 — Luis Ayala, 30, joined the 11 others at the Executive Inn. What would become the longest murder trial in Texas history was officially under way.

Now, 89 days later, their ordeal is almost over. Trial Judge George Dowlen said Monday he expects to read the charge to the jury today. It is expected to begin deliberations Thursday after final arguments are delivered.

For 12 weeks, the jury heard witnesses say the 44-year-old millionaire gunned down two people and wounded two more at his $6 million Fort Worth mansion last year. Still more witnesses spoke of a drug culture, allegedly frequented by some of the prosecution witnesses, where booze and sex were also readily available.

The jury heard it all down to the last sordid detail but the path that brought them to the brink of deliberations was trying at best. Courtroom observers, attorneys — even the bailiffs assigned to watch them after the day's testimony — admit the strain has begun to show.

Comic relief came hard as the attorneys droned on day after day. Still, some managed to retain a sense of humor.

One evening after they heard a witness repeatedly use the legal term "green leafy substance" to describe marijuana, a juror looked at the parsley garnishing his dinner in mock horror and cracked: "My God, there's a green leafy substance on my food."

"There's not a whole lot of conversation (among jurors), anyway," said bailiff Al Cross. "They've said everything they want to say to each other already. They've heard enough for eight hours every day, and they don't want to talk about it."

Dr. Temple Elliott, a psychologist at High Plains Baptist Hospital, said the absence of limited social and sexual outlets easily could "diminish their ability to concentrate" or make rational decisions.

Incoming telephone messages to jurors are screened by bailiffs. Television or radio news shows are taboo. Newspapers are edited for trial content. Even the jurors' allotted one-hour weekly visits with immediate family members are supervised.

Under such conditions, Dr. Elliott said, the question must arise: "Will they make a decision out of desperation?"

Area Democrats To Meet Candidates

LEVELLAND — Democratic congressional candidates Morris Sheets and Kent Hance will face each other for what is believed to be the first time Thursday when they both appear at the South Plains Democratic Council meeting.

Democrats from 15 counties will be on hand to hear them speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Sundown Room of South Plains College here.

Remarks by Sheets, pastor of Lubbock's Trinity Church, and Hance, state senator from Lubbock, will be followed by a question and answer period.

All interested persons are invited to attend. "This an opportunity for all citizens to see two candidates side by side as they discuss the issues early in the campaign. No reservations are necessary," said Hockley County Democratic chairman Sandra Davis.

Another Cold Spell Slated

A cool, high pressure air mass is expected to lower South Plains temperatures about 10 degrees through Thursday, heralding a "considerably cooler" weekend as a front now stretching from Idaho to Central California moves south.

Skies are expected to be mostly fair over the region through Thursday, with northwesterly winds from 10 to 15 mph forecast today.

Today's high should be in the upper 60s, with an overnight low forecast in the middle 30s. Thursday's high will be only in the middle 60s.

Relative humidity should be 60 percent in the early morning hours today and Thursday, decreasing to 20 percent during the afternoons.

About nine hours of sunshine is forecast today and Thursday, along with light frost both mornings.

Abundant sunshine and fair skies sent the mercury soaring to 74 degrees Tuesday after an overnight low of 45.

The weather was warm and windy over much of Texas as strong southerly winds of 20 mph with gusts to 30 mph pumped warm, humid air over East and Central Texas.

Scattered showers in the unstable air over the Gulf Coast spread across much of eastern Texas Tuesday afternoon as thunderstorms began to rumble along the upper coast.

Temperatures over most of the state Tuesday were in the upper 70s, with a few readings reported in the low 80s.

Area Government Panel Turns Down Interstate Migrant Head Start Plan

By FRANK COATS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A funding request for an interstate migrant head start program was denied favorable comment Tuesday by the South Plains Association of Governments.

Support for the program, which is aimed at preparing preschoolers for elementary school, had been requested by the Texas Migrant Council Inc.

The area government panel's interest in the program concerned only Lubbock and Hale counties, with funding requests for the areas of $172,312.51 and $162,920.24 respectively.

The head start program starts in Laredo, following the migrants into the northern states.

The project needed approval from both Hale and Lubbock counties but only Lubbock County Judge Rod Shaw's motion for funding received support.

Hale County Judge Henry Heck did not participate in much of the board's discussion and said at the executive session Tuesday morning that he had "made up my mind."

The board also whipped through requests for water wells from the cities of Littlefield, Olton and Hale Center and a similar request from the Whitharral Water Supply Corporation, giving a favorable comment to each one.

The board rendered a favorable comment to a $294,145 request for funding from the Lubbock Independent School District for continuation of its head start

Three projects to be funded by the Texas Commission on Alcoholism received favorable comment from the board: the Walker Houses Inc. program for female alcoholics, the Berean Youth Services project (applied for by the South Plains Alcoholism Regional Council) and a medical teaching program on alcohol, requested by Texas Tech.

The latter is a program to train doctors in the treatment of alcoholics.

Linda Handley, a representative from the Governor's Office of Energy Resources, presented a plan for thermal and lighting standards for buildings, drawn from the Texas Energy Conservation Plan approved in August. The plan is expected to save about 7.9 trillion British Thermal Units of the 9,335 trillion BTU consumption projected for Texas in 1980, she said.

Lubbock can participate in a pilot program if it meets the criteria chosen by the selection committee, which includes such factors as an enforced building code, sufficient construction and others. The board took no action on the proposal.

Passenger Boardings Climb At City Airport

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Passenger boardings at the Lubbock International Airport continue to soar higher this year, with October figures indicating employment are now 40,000 above last year's total.

By October of last year a record 253,510 persons had boarded planes at the airport. But through October of this year, 293,974 persons have climbed aboard planes at the airport.

A total of 37,735 passengers flew out of the facility in October, a 72.8 percent increase over the October, 1976, figure of 21,836.

The airline recording the most change between last month and October, 1976, was Continental whose 1976 figures were diminished by a pilots strike during the last nine days of October, 1976.

The airline boarded 6,638 passengers in October, 1976, then increased that by 68.8 percent to 12,332 passengers last month.

The strike also distorted 1976 figures for Braniff and Texas International, which absorbed Continental's passengers.

Braniff, which boarded 11,392 passengers in October, 1976, reported a loss of 21.4 percent with October, 1977, boardings of 8,960.

Texas International boardings dropped from 3,744 in October, 1976, to 3,048 in the same month this year. The figures represent a decrease of 2 percent.

Southwest, still in its first year of Lubbock operations, boarded 13,047 passengers last month. Chaparral Airlines, a commuter service headquartered in Abilene which has recently been granted temporary permission to terminate its Lubbock flights, recorded a drop of 30.7 percent between boardings last month and October a year ago. The commuter service employed 62 passengers in October, 1976, and 43 passengers last month.

Crown Aviation, a Clovis-Lubbock service, boarded 105 during October, bringing its total for the year to 233 passengers.

Through October of this year, Continental had boarded 108,234 passengers, a 12.8 percent over 1976. Braniff had boarded 92,954, an 8 percent increase over last year, and Texas International had employed 27,875, a 1.1 percent decrease.

Southwest had boarded 64,126 passengers through October and Chaparral increased boardings by 463 percent to 552 for the first 10 months of the year.

Airport Board members will receive the boarding figures at their regular monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the airport.

The board is scheduled to consider additional information on a request to place a chapel in the airport terminal.

The request, by Rev. Bob Utley of Trinity Baptist Church, was considered by the board at its September meeting but members requested additional information and asked Utley to seek the support of the Lubbock Ministerial Association for the project.

Also on the board's agenda are three requests for space in the old terminal building. Jack Ridpath, Mid American Construction Co. and AvTech Aviation all will seek space in the building.

One item conspicuous by its absence from the agenda is the request by Executive Limousine Service to operate at the airport. Board members, who have wrestled with the request for the past three meetings, almost made it four meetings.

However, Aviation Director Marvin Coffee said service representatives failed to submit their back-up material in time to be placed on the agenda.

Crooks Show Little Christmas Spirit

Judging from reports Tuesday, it appears Lubbock thieves have no intention of showing some Christmas spirit just yet.

Police were called to a salvage store in the 3500-block of Avenue Q about 2:40 p.m. Tuesday for a theft report.

A 78-year-old retired woman told officers she had taken all her savings—more than $830—from her bank recently in order to purchase Christmas gifts. While leaving her purse unattended in a shopping cart, the woman said someone apparently grabbed her purse and its contents.

Robert Torres of 1118 34th St., rear, reported the loss of a television set, stereo, radio and several record albums after someone broke through a window at his home Monday. The complainant set the missing property's value at more than $500.

in a hurry and drive away in an "old, white Plymouth," about the time the incident occurred.

Meanwhile, house burglars reportedly cleaned out garage at the victim's Route 7 residence Monday evening.

Baker told a deputy he was at home when he heard a vehicle drive away from his house about 7 p.m. Baker said he ran to his garage to check his workshop then found his property—valued at $4,207—missing.

Baker said the stolen items included nearly $3,000 worth of tools, fishing equipment, wheels and miscellaneous goods.

Lubbock deputies may have nipped a worthless check scheme in the bud Tuesday with the arrest of a 24-year-old woman, but the arrest was not without a casualty.

According to James David Dean, whoever broke through a second-story window at his 2414-D 15th St. residence sometime during the past two days made off with a stereo, television set, tapes, albums and a watch. His loss also was set at more than $500.

Mark Henry Herranen of 1906 Dixie Dr., No. 6, told police he no longer has a stereo and radio after burglars pried his front door Monday, and David Eugene Clark of 3201 35th St., No. 6, said his tape player was stolen from his car parked at his home.

News Brief

A fire which began at an electric heater in a garage at 4210 40th St. Tuesday caused between $100 and $1,000 damage to Myrtle McKenzie's home. Firefighters from two stations reported heavy smoke damage to contents of the garage. The blaze, which broke out about 5:05 p.m., was fueled by loose cotton near the electric heater, firemen said.

Worried About How You'll Look With A Hearing Aid?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike... and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 5308, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Grain Acreage Set-Aside Decried

By Reuters WASHINGTON — Acting Agriculture Secretary John White Tuesday announced a 10 percent set-aside in acreage of corn, grain sorghum and barley, subject to a final review in the last week of January 1978.

White said that it had been determined that such a set-aside would reduce U.S. production by an estimated 7 million tons or three percent of the United States and one percent of the world output.

U.S. Department of Agriculture economics director Howard Hjort said the conclusion is based on a set-aside participation of 25 to 35 percent.

White said that if corn prices near the end of the year are in a $2.40-$2.50 per bushel range, he thinks many farmers will take their chances and not take part. But there will be greater participation if prices stay around the loan rate of $2 per bushel, he added.

White also announced national program acres of 67.6 million for corn, 13.7 million for grain sorghum and 7.4 million for barley. Derivation of the national program acres was based on projected domestic and export use, less imports, divided by the national program yield, and adjusted for desirable carryover stocks.

White said there will be no land diversion payments, no limitation on planted acreage and that oats will not be included in the feed grain program.

Hjort said in answer to questions at a press briefing that sorghum and barley target prices will be based on the same formula used for wheat and cotton but will not be finalized for a year.

Before complying with a 10 percent set-aside, White said, producers who voluntarily reduce their corn and grain sorghum acreage by five percent or barley acreage planted for harvest by 20 percent in 1978 from that planted in 1977 are guaranteed target price protection on the normal production from their entire acreage and qualify for loan programs on all they produce.

White said the USDA is proposing that acreage designated as set-aside under the 1978 feed grain program must be in an approved vegetative cover crop such as annual or perennial grasses and legumes or small grain which is not allowed to mature.

It also proposes land eligible in any cropland that was tilled within the prior three years in crop production other than hay or pasture. Summer pasture is not included.

However, publication of final regulations is being deferred pending comments.

White said the set-aside decision will give the USDA the opportunity early next year to review the world and domestic situation again and revoke the set-aside if conditions change substantially.

He noted that world coarse grain production exceeds consumption by 8 million tons and that stocks at the beginning of the 1978-79 marketing year will be nearly 80 million tons.

White also confirmed that a 17 million to 19 million-ton feed grain reserve in the United States will be "captured" prior to the 1978-79 season "to remove excess grain from the market to help ensure our ability to remain a regular supplier to other nations and to protect consumers."

Late Sales Drop Live Cattle

By Reuters CHICAGO — Live cattle futures ended 35 points lower to 10 higher Tuesday in a heavy trade of 11,191 contracts on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

April was weakest with January showing the best gain. Early selling followed Monday's Agriculture Department report of record high placements of cattle on feed during October.

Strength in grains, along with higher cash hogs and hams, prompted buying in the early trade. The late reaction was traced to profit-taking and slippage in the belly pit.

Wholesale hams were unchanged to up two cents at 84 to 93 1/2 cents per pound, f.o.b. river points. Cash hogs were up 25 cents to $1 with a top at $40.75.

Slaughter Tuesday was estimated at 307,000 head. The six major terminals expected 30,500 arrivals today.

Pork belly (bacon) futures shot up $1 per hundredweight to their highest level since July before finishing mixed at 25 points lower to 20 higher. March and July were easiest with August showing the highest gain on a turnover of 4,931 contracts.

The sharp advance in grains along with higher prices for cash hogs and bellies easily offset a heavy hog kill early in the day.

Late selling reflected fresh concern over nitrates in meats and forced prices to new lows for the day.

Wholesale bacon was unchanged to up 1 1/2 cents per pound at 40 to 43 1/2 cents, f.o.b. river.

Sales climbed to 6,077 cars in a mostly local and commission house trade.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE By DUANE HOWELL

HIGH PLAINS FARMERS ARE BEING reminded that correct reports of all planted acres of all crops in 1977 are extremely important.

Walter Y. Wells, executive director of the Lubbock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, points out that total 1977 plantings of designated crops will be called the "normal crop acreage" (NCA) under the federal farm program for 1978 and future years.

The designated crops here include cotton, wheat, grain sorghum, corn, barley, oats, soybeans, sunflowers, rye and dry edible beans. Vegetable crops aren't included.

Wells points out the NCA will be the total acreage of these crops — including any required set-aside — set-aside for any crop — that may be planted on a farm to be eligible for any program benefit in 1978 and beyond.

FARMERS MUST FILE REQUESTS BY Nov. 30 if they want average 1975-76 plantings to be used instead of the 1977 acreage.

A farmer may have correctly reported all the 1977 planted acreages of the designated crops and the total may be abnormally low due to conditions beyond his control. He then can request that the 1978 NCA be based on the 1975-76 average.

This is unlikely to be of help to many High Plains farmers. Weather conditions were more conducive to high-percentage plantings in 1977 than in either 1975 or 1976.

But if a farmer believes the 1975-76 average of the designated crops is greater than the 1977 acreage, he should seek a correction or request that the ASCS use the two-year average.

"We have reports of acreages farmers filed in 1975 and 1976 for all crops," Wells points out. "But we cannot recheck all past-year records without the farmer's request."

THE FILING AND LOCAL ACCEPTANCE of such requests won't necessarily mean all these farmers would get NCAs based on 1975-76 averages.

County ASCS offices are to send reports of the planted acreages of the NCA crops to the state committee by Dec. 1.

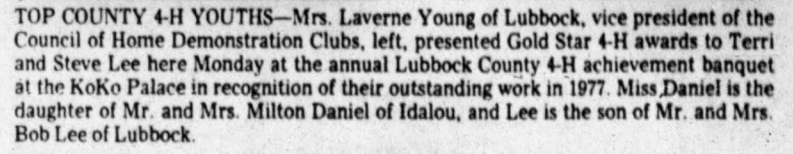

Say the 1977 total of the designated crops in a county was 400,000 acres, the county committee could adjust this based on the farmer requests for substitution of the 1975-76 averages. Say the adjusted total was 420,000 acres.

The state committee, after reviewing the aggregate figures, then would determine whether the county NCAs should be the acreage indicated by the 1977 plantings, the adjusted level reflecting the requests for use of the 1975-76 averages, or somewhere between the two.

INDICATIONS ARE THAT THE COUNTY committees will have some leeway for the requested adjustments. But, depending upon what the state figures show, the full amounts may or may not be granted.

The state committee, for instance, might approve an NCA of 410,000 acres for that hypothetical county which had sent in an adjusted total of 420,000 acres. The local committee then would have to distribute the approved base among farms so that the county's NCA didn't exceed 410,000 acres.

In any case, farmers probably would have a better chance of getting approval on NCA adjustments if they file the requests now rather than seeking revisions later.

Phone Call-In Slated Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Council of America plans to conduct another of its toll-free telephone call-ins today to hear about energy use by farmers and farm-related business people.

The telephone project will be cosponsored by the Alliance to Save Energy, a non-profit organization described as "working to build increased energy conservation awareness."

The council, which describes itself as a "non-political and non-lobbying" group, periodically offers toll-free telephone service to gain comments on a variety of subjects relating to agriculture.

Sponsors said toll-free lines will be available to callers nationwide between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. CST. The number is 800-424-9881.

Carla Hills, former secretary of Housing and Urban Development in President Ford's cabinet, is cochairman of the alliance.

Job Bill Falls Short For Javits

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A key Republican senator called Tuesday for passage of laws creating jobs, rather than reliance on an abstract strategy for achieving full employment goals typified by the Humphrey-Hawkins bill.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., told manpower officials here that Americans should be "under no illusion that Humphrey-Hawkins will give us full employment."

The bill was drafted by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., last year, but failed to win congressional approval. A revised version is before Congress, and it was endorsed Monday by President Carter.

Javits said the current Humphrey-Hawkins bill "is a useful tool, but it is not the answer." The 1977 version stresses employment goals rather than remedies, while the original measure was designed to create jobs, he said.

Javits said Congress must follow up on goals set forth by the legislation with a strategy to reduce the unemployment rate to the 4 percent level mandated for 1983.

In response to the senator's remarks, Leon Keyserling, former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers in the Truman administration, called the measure "a stronger bill, a better bill, a more useful bill, than the one we started with."

"I will not apologize" for the fact that the legislation does not create jobs or guarantee that all Americans will have a job, said Keyserling, an author of the measure.

To do so, he contended, would require legislation that would write the federal budget for the next five years. Keyserling called such an effort "preposterous."

And he criticized the White House for "trying to walk both sides of the street" in endorsing the legislation on the one hand and downplaying its impact on the other. He said the strategy was to allay fears in the business community.

"The argument that the bill does not create jobs, that is true. The argument that you need programs, that is also true," Keyserling said. But he stressed that the bill requires some federal strategy to reduce unemployment.

"If the president doesn't initiate some last-resort jobs program, and he's not reaching the (Humphrey-Hawkins) targets, then he's responsible," Keyserling said.

Javits said, however, he fears Congress might pass the Humphrey-Hawkins legislation and do nothing to enforce it.

"There is a danger that having done it, Congress will say, 'O.K., we took care of the cities, now let's get on to the next item on our agenda,'" he said.

Javits said he will submit legislation in 1978 to put full employment goals into program form.

Dock Strike Costs Billions In Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — The silent panorama of thousands of van-size containers aboard idle ships and lifeless piers in the nation's No. 1 harbor offers as good a measure as can be found of the tremendous impact of the current dock strike.

One private economic forecasting service put the projected loss at $5.7 billion in international trade. It estimated the strike punched a $1.3 billion hole in U.S. production at a critical period in the current economic recovery and caused more than 50,000 job layoffs, hopefully only temporarily.

Although confined to "automated" shipping, the selective strike by the International Longshoremen's Association, AFL-CIO, will be felt across the nation, even if a tentative settlement reached here Sunday can be ratified along the East and Gulf coasts by the weekend.

The strike tied up container ships, vessels that can carry up to 900 semi-trailer-sized steel containers with prepackaged loads. These ships, some of which can steam at close to 40 mph, have virtually taken over the transatlantic freight trade.

Worst hit by the strike are merchants deeply involved in the Christmas trade. A whole container of sweaters consigned to a New York department store was trapped somewhere, prompting a buyer to moan, "They won't sell very well in April."

Furs in transit from overseas may not be sold because they will reach wholesalers and go on display well in advance of Dec. 25. To move such valuable merchandise, one furrier fears he may have to sell at cost — or less.

And so it goes, down the line through a welter of products "caught in pipeline" when many of the coastal longshoremen struck on Oct. 1. Where merchants misread the signals before Oct. 1 and failed to move shipments ahead of time or on conventional "breakbulk" freighters, the results in some cases may spell financial disaster.

Liquor dealers were among the more foresighted. But whole tanks of Italian brandy destined for bottling here got stranded aboard ship. Some imported beer supplies have all but dried up.

Most foreign auto imports were choked off. And exports of American cars and spare parts were similarly halted.

Rolls Royce reportedly deliveries were slowed because their luxury cars are moved in special containers to protect them from damage.

In money terms, most onlookers will not hazard a guess at the cost. They only agree it is horrendous. But Data Resources, Inc., of Lexington, Mass. offers two yardsticks.

"We estimate that $3 billion in exports and $2.7 billion in imports are lost for this year's final quarter," Brigitte Sellekaerts, a senior economist, said Tuesday. "This means a $700 million loss to the Gross National Product this quarter and a $600 million loss carried over to the first quarter of next year."

Mrs. Sellekaerts said Data Resources also counted 24,000 workers displaced from the docks, where more than that number of longshoremen were out of work for a seventh week. Many of the 50,000 coastal longshoremen shared the unemployment by rotating between automated and conventional operations.

ILA President Thomas W. "Teddy" Gleason hailed the tentative three-year contract, providing for wage and benefit increases exceeding 30 percent, as a "no-cost" agreement because of "a 1,500 percent increase in productivity." But ship-owners said privately that they expect the projected new man-hour cost, which will reach $14.15 in the third year of a new contract, to add to cargo rates.

Steamship operators also worry that some costly cargo such as electronics, which commands premium rates, may be lost permanently to air carriers to whom shipments were diverted during the strike.

In all cases, it appeared that the American consumer faces a virtual certainty of higher product prices.

Efforts to sell the Northern settlement formula in the Southern ports was pressed Tuesday by Gleason, who flew to New Orleans to spearhead negotiations there.

OPEN HOUSE SLATED
SOUTHLAND (Special) — Open house in Southland's new school complex is slated Monday from 8 to 10 p.m. The new complex includes classrooms for kindergarten through twelfth grade, a gym and cafeteria. Refreshments will be served.

Slow Pace Irritates Conferees

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's energy program is being hammered out with foam rubber mallets by House-Senate conference committees at a pace slightly slower than evolution. Most members of the House and Senate are home, or junketing somewhere. But the senators and representatives on the conference committees soldier on in a war that is only a moral equivalent. "I, for one, don't enjoy staying around Washington," said Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., trying to spur his conference committee on. "There are some here who like to live in Washington. I don't."

That morning, the senators on his committee had flatly rejected items one through 29 of proposed public utility regulatory policies contained in the House bill, but not in the measure passed by the Senate. In the same spirit of conciliation, the House members voted to stand by all the items. The result is called standing pat on square one.

Staggers is the chairman of one joint committee — the one working on getting a consensus on non-tax items of the separate and unequal energy bills passed by the two houses of Congress. In Staggers's purview are natural gas pricing, utility rates, conversion of utilities and business to coal and mandatory conservation.

By comparison, the other committee — the tax group headed by Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana and Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon — was downright speedy. In two hours on Monday, for instance, that group was able to approve a tax credit for employers who buy vans to transport their employees to work.

Then, carried away by the blizzard of activity, the conferees agreed that the employee who is transported by that employer's van won't have to pay tax on the value of that fringe benefit.

On a scale of 10, the van-transport incentive doesn't even budge the needle. The Senate-passed bill would spend $42 billion over the next eight years on energy conservation and production incentives.

According to experts, the van pool credit would cost the government $3 million to $4 million a year, or in the neighborhood of $30 million in the eight-year span. Energy savings, according to the conference committee's own document, is "negligible."

Last week, the tax committee accepted one provision equally ho-hum. That item would give a tax credit for electric or hydrogen motor vehicles. Uncle Sam would spend about $58 million on that through fiscal 1986 and again the energy savings are rated negligible.

With that kind of activity, one would expect the hearings to be playing to empty rooms. Not so. Each is jammed to capacity — almost totally with lobbyists.

But even they are seen falling asleep.

GOP Solons Lash Carter's Energy Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's energy program will not help solve the nation's energy crisis, despite his stepped-up efforts to persuade Americans otherwise, two leading Republicans said Tuesday.

In a televised rebuttal to Carter's energy speech of a week ago, Sen. Bob Packwood of Oregon and Rep. John Anderson of Illinois said Carter's program would fail to meet his own goals for energy conservation.

"Mr. president, this nation wants and is waiting for an energy plan that meets the goals that you have set out for us," Packwood said.

Anderson, chairman of the House Republican Conference, denied what he said were inferences that Republicans were "succumbing to special interests and the pressures of oil industry lobbyists" in opposing the administration program.

"I can tell you there are no oil wells in my congressional district. But there are workers who want jobs and who are fearful that their jobs will be lost due to economic dislocations caused by energy shortages," Anderson said.

The response to Carter's energy address was televised by CBS.

Perhaps taking a cue from Carter's speech, the Republican response was low-key. It dealt more with Carter's overall energy philosophy than with specific issues now before House-Senate conference committees.

Both Anderson and Packwood serve on these panels, which are fashioning a compromise national energy bill.

The House passed most of what the president wanted while the Senate rejected the central elements of the administration plan. Two conference committees are trying to reconcile the differences.

Trying to drum up support for his program, Carter said in his nationally broadcast speech last week that he would veto any energy measures that do not meet his standards of fairness and conservation.

Packwood said the program fails to meet Carter's proclaimed conservation standards.

Noting that Carter called for reducing oil imports to six million barrels a day, he said the studies suggest that under the President's plan "we increase oil imports to 11 million barrels a day."

The nation now imports about 8.8 million barrels of oil daily, about half the nation's daily consumption.

Packwood said these studies, including one made by the General Accounting Office, a branch of Congress, "indicate uniformly that the President's plan...does not meet the President's goal that he set for this country."

"Now the President wants to increase our taxes $55 billion but it would produce a plan that will not meet the energy crisis," he said.

Anderson repeated a GOP criticism leveled against Carter's plan since he unveiled it April 20. He claimed "the President's proposal emphasizes conservation at the expense of production."

Anderson said Carter's proposal to keep price controls on natural gas and impose a tax on crude oil would be counterproductive to efforts to make the United States more energy self-reliant.

Anderson and Packwood said Americans are ready to make sacrifices to help fight the energy crisis, similar to the national war effort made in the 1940s. Packwood called for a tougher plan from the President.

Veteran Newsman Opposed To Death Penalty

By AMY KIDD
A-J Austin Bureau

HUNTSVILLE — It didn't take watching 189 men die in the Texas electric chair to convince Don Reid that the death penalty is wrong.

He began questioning its effectiveness and its merit almost 40 years ago. And he continues to fight an admittedly uphill battle against the death penalty in a state where, he says, frontier justice remains very much a part of life.

Reid, publisher emeritus of "The Huntsville Item," has covered Texas executions for the Associated Press since 1938. He believes wholeheartedly in his cause, but says he isn't kidding himself about its lack of popular support.

"The mood of America today is for the death penalty, I know that," he notes, adding that members of his own profession have helped cement public attitudes by blowing a rising crime rate out of proportion.

"It's gotten to the point that the little old lady with tennis shoes who lives out here in Hoopky's Corners where there's only about five houses suddenly has a fear that shall be raped or robbed or murdered — in bed.

"And when you have a mood like that, the first thing is, 'Let's put everybody in the penitentiary.' 'Let's execute everybody. That'll stop it.'"

Reid predicts grimly that it will take at least 25 years for attitudes toward capital punishment to soften; and until then, Texas can expect a "bloodbath" as executions become easier.

Reid expresses typical arguments against capital punishment, saying it personifies the "cruel and unusual" punishment prohibited by the U.S. Constitution. In addition, he claims, it's applied unfairly to a single group. "They're dropouts," he says. "Most of them are the drags of society. They've never learned a behavioral pattern that's in keeping with our social structures."

Second In A Series

Most Death Row inmates are paying for a life without regulations or achievement in school, or work or marriage, he says. "And most of them are poor."

The financial condition of those who end up on Death Row also concerns John Duncan, executive director of the Texas Civil Liberties Union. The TCLU and its counterpart, the American Civil Liberties Union, have argued unsuccessfully that the death penalty is unconstitutional. Furthermore, Duncan maintains, equal protection under the law doesn't exist on Death Row — and that even there, money talks.

"If you look at the statistics in terms of who is represented by paid counsel and who is represented by court appointed counsel you find a striking difference in the number of convictions of persons represented by court-appointed counsel. There's a striking difference, too, in the number of death penalties handed down by juries where counsel is court-appointed as opposed to where counsel is retained.

"Not many millionaires get sent off to Death Row."

The death penalty has a solid future in Texas, Duncan predicts, and he estimates that in two or more years some convicts will have exhausted years of state and federal appeals.

"It'll become a routine fashion if there's not some decision by the legislature or the courts to prohibit it," he predicts.

"You may be able to string it (appeals) out five or six years, but at some point you reach the end of your rope, so to speak."

Unlike other opponents of capital punishment, Reid says he can recommend changes in the criminal justice system to replace the death penalty: stronger emphasis on rehabilitation, removing from juries the right to assess punishment and reliance on a citizens' council to investigate individual cases and recommend sentences; and requiring prisoners to serve determined portions of their sentences before they are considered for parole.

Hearst Requests Court To Rehear Decision

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst asked the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday to rehear its decision upholding her bank robbery conviction.

A rehearing, said the petition filed by her attorneys, is warranted since the opinion overlooks and misapprehends several points of law and fact raised on appeal.

The petition said the rehearing should take place before the entire 15-member appeals court because the opinion issued by a three-judge panel conflicted with decisions by the court in other cases and involved an issue of exceptional importance.

On Nov. 2, the court issued a 40-page ruling upholding Miss Hearst's March 20, 1976, conviction. A jury found that she voluntarily joined her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers in the robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco.

The appellate court rejected Miss Hearst's contention that the judge erred in allowing the government to ask questions at her trial which forced her to invoke her 5th Amendment rights against self-incrimination.

Her attorneys have said that if the 9th Circuit refused to rehear the case, they will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Soviets Purchase U.S. Corn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union, suffering from a disappointing 1977 harvest, is rapidly increasing its imports and has bought another 1 million metric tons of American corn, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

It was the third time in two days the department has announced new Soviet grain purchases, strengthening administration forecasts that Soviet purchases of American corn and wheat will total 15 million tons for delivering in the marketing year that began Oct. 1.

The Russians bought 6 million tons in the previous year.

The department reported a 100,000-ton Soviet wheat purchase Monday, and two separate orders for corn Tuesday — 601,600 metric tons and 400,000 tons.

The deals, reported to the department by private exporters who made the sales, were the first since an earlier round of Russian buying ended in September.

But they had been anticipated in rumors since the Soviet government announced recently that its 1977 grain harvest would be only 194 million tons, down 13 percent from last year.

The Tuesday corn sales of 1,001,600 tons were equal to about 39.4 million bushels of the livestock feed grain. Officials did not disclose names of the exporters involved in the new grain sales or the value of the deals.

The sales brought total Soviet purchases of American grain for delivery during the 1977-78 season to 3.4 million tons. That includes 1.1 million tons or about 40.4 million bushels of wheat and 2.3 million tons or about 90.5 million bushels of corn.

In addition, Agriculture officials Tuesday announced private traders have reported the sale of 100,000 tons of wheat for export to "unknown destinations."

In the past, some of those sales have turned out to be to the Soviet Union.

The exports are coming from an American harvest which includes a record 6.4 billion bushel corn crop and a near-record wheat harvest. Despite the big sales, economists are still predicting that American surplus stocks will grow during the coming year.

With those big stocks in sight, American officials recently told Soviet spokesmen they could buy up to 15 million tons of grain in the current season under the U.S. Soviet trade agreement without further consultation. The basic agreement requires consultation for purchases over eight million tons.

Trade sources this week also reported the Peoples Republic of China has made a small 16,000 ton purchase of American soybeans.

African Leader Accused Of Overthrow Plan

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Black consciousness leader Steve Biko planned to create a United Revolutionary Front aimed at the violent overthrow of South Africa's white government, a security police officer testified Tuesday at an inquest into Biko's prison death.

The Biko family attorney, Sidney Kentridge, labelled the accusations a smear campaign and sought to block introduction of evidence allegedly supporting the charges.

Maj. Harold Snyman of the Port Elizabeth security police said that Biko went berserk when police confronted him with the charges during interrogation and there was a violent struggle to subdue him.

from Port Elizabeth. The official autopsy, presented Monday on the first day of the inquest, said he died of head injuries. Biko was the 21st black to die in police custody in 18 months. His death caused an international uproar.

Snyman, who headed the five-man police team that interrogated Biko on Sept. 7, said Biko was not assaulted. He said Biko fell and his head struck a wall during the struggle with police.

However, after more than two hours of interrogation by Kentridge, Snyman admitted it was possible that Biko did not hit his head against the wall. He said he did not actually see Biko's head strike the wall.

His testimony claiming that Biko sought violent overthrow of the South African government followed an attempt by police counsel P.R. Van Rooyen to introduce 10 affidavits by alleged accomplices of Biko purporting to show his involvement in a revolutionary movement.

Kentridge objected, and Magistrate M.J. Prins ruled the statements could not be introduced because they were dated after Biko's death.

"These could not have been put to him in his lifetime. What we have here is a smear prepared after Mr. Biko's death. It is a disgrace," Kentridge said.

A pamphlet calling for violent revolution allegedly compiled by Biko and reportedly found in his car at the time of his arrest was read into the record by Snyman.

During cross-examination of Snyman, Kentridge said 28 affidavits were made in connection with the struggle between Biko and his interrogators and none mentioned Biko's fall.

Kentridge also said Biko was kept se-cretely in security offices in the Sanlam building in central Port Elizabeth between Sept. 6 and Sept. 11 to make certain word of his treatment at the hands of police would not be revealed.

"I propose to show that you took every step to make sure that after being in your hands, he was seen by nobody else," Kentridge told Snyman.

He said that Snyman only entered the incident in the occurrence book, a record book kept at the offices, to protect himself against assault charges.

"I suggest what really happened was that you did not think Mr. Biko would die. Your worry when you made the entry was that he would recover, would appear in court and would say that he had been assaulted."

"You made this entry to protect yourself if the occasion arose," Kentridge said.

Snyman denied the allegations. He testified for more than six hours Monday and Tuesday in the hot, humid Old Synagogue in Pretoria.

The inquest was moved from regular government courtrooms to the onion-domed, Russian-style building in the central part of South Africa's administrative capital to accommodate the crowd expected to attend it.

The state has reserved the building for three weeks for the inquest.

When the second day of the inquest opened Tuesday, the courtroom was half full, but by 10 a.m., the hearing room was packed with spectators.

About 200 persons, half of them black, listened intently to the proceedings.

Cape Breton Island was made part of Nova Scotia in 1763.

Oilmen Accused Of 'Paranoia' By Schlesinger

HOUSTON (AP) — Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger, accusing oilmen of "colossal exaggeration" and "paranoia," ventured into Texas oil country Tuesday and criticized 2,800 industry officials for spreading "myths" about the president's energy plan.

Schlesinger, speaking to the final general session of the American Petroleum Institute's annual convention, dismissed industry objections to the energy plan as "a mythology that has spread widely in this industry and which really has no direct relevance to the present problems that the nation faces."

No Compromise
Just Schlesinger's presence at the convention was viewed by some industry officials as a conciliatory gesture, but he made no firm offer of compromise.

At a news conference after his speech, he said that many people in the industry had told him some reassurance the government's good intentions was needed. But he added: "This is not the moment for a sudden adaptation of the National Energy Plan."

The secretary's speech was greeted with only polite applause, and the institute's new chairman later said Schlesinger had not been "very forthright."

Battle For Months
Schlesinger and the industry, rarely clashing face to face, have battled for months through lobbyists and statements to the media as President Carter's energy plan moved slowly through Congress.

Schlesinger has been seeking support for the plan; the industry has been demanding more incentives for domestic oil and gas production.

The fight has continued as a congressional conference committee works on various compromise proposals.

In his speech, Schlesinger listed as "myths" held by the industry:

— The belief that the federal government does not think there are significant amounts of oil and gas remaining to be discovered in the United States.

Surveys Cited
"That is not true," he said. "We read the same publications and surveys that you do. The geological survey estimates a 50-50 probability that there are 81 billion barrels to be discovered."

But he quoted estimates as saying that at the current rate of consumption, all that oil would be consumed within 18 years.

— The belief that there are no incentives in the energy program for increased production of oil and gas.

"We had thought that there were generous incentives," he said. "Indeed, in our naivete, we had expected some grudging acceptance, even a degree of enthusiasm, from the industry."

World Price Seen
He said that for the first time, newly produced domestic oil would be sold at the world price, which is more than double the current price. But industry officials say none of the additional funds would be recycled to the oil firms; they say the plan primarily is a tax program and that the money would stay in the federal treasury.

— The belief that federal officials "have it in" for the industry.
"I put that under the heading of suspicion or paranoia," Schlesinger said. "The objective of the government is to see the American oil industry flourish. Indeed it is flourishing."

— The belief that the plan is "all conservation and no production."
"This is a colossal exaggeration," he said. "Conservationists are probably closer to the truth when they point out that there is a very limited amount of conservation in this program and that there is no change whatsoever intended in the basic American lifestyle, which includes suburban living and individual mobility in the form of the automobile."

Schlesinger began his speech with a joking reference to Carter's statement several weeks ago that the impending energy crisis is the moral equivalent of war. Schlesinger said he was assured that "at least the API could offer me the moral equivalent of hospitality."

And that's about all he received. The standing-room only audience responded to his speech with only several seconds of polite applause. Earlier, it gave a half-minute standing ovation to Maurice Granville, chairman of Texaco Inc. and the outgoing API chairman.

"I don't think he (Schlesinger) was very forthright," said John Swearingen, chairman of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), and new API chairman.

Earlier, Granville said that the industry was more than willing to cooperate with the government, but that so far most attempts have been blocked.

Bank Heist Testimony Continues

sell. Beadle told her he had stashed some $2 bills in a well near Lamesa.

The witness mentioned alleged threats against her during cross-examination by Goss. Goss had asked why she had made only a brief mention of Beadle during her husband's trial in April.

"Because when a man has threatened to kill you, you aren't going to do nothing," she answered.

Mrs. Trussell later said Beadle started making threats in September and that they became more intensive in November.

"Did he say anything about what he would do if you did testify?" Terrill asked. "He said he would blow all our — away," Mrs. Trussell stated.

Facing Felony Charge
It was revealed on direct examination that Mrs. Trussell is currently facing a felony charge of implements for escape for allegedly bringing keys to the county jail while visiting her husband last December.

During a withering cross-examination, Goss brought out that the witness had given a statement implicating Beadle in the robbery plans after having been in jail for some time.

Mrs. Trussell said she had been in jail for about two months. "How often were you asked to give a statement?" Goss queried. "Almost every day I was up there," the witness replied.

Mrs. Trussell maintained she was unaware of any plea bargaining agreement which may have been made on her behalf, however.

Goss pointed out through questioning that Mrs. Trussell had stated during sworn testimony at the earlier trial that she had met Beadle at a club frequented by her group but that she did not really know him well. The statement conflicted with Tuesday's estimate by Mrs. Trussell that Beadle had been to her home approximately 26 times during July and August, Goss implied.

Mrs. Trussell said she did not know Beadle well, and indicated he talked chiefly with her husband during the alleged meetings at her home.

Goss asked Mrs. Trussell who she was trying to protect. "Isn't it a fact that the only way you could keep (Goss here named another individual) out of it was to include Burt Beadle?" Goss asked. "No," Mrs. Trussell said.

Questioned On Role
The defense attorney also asked Mrs. Trussell if she had not helped plan the robbery.

"Isn't it a fact that you got the ski masks allegedly used?" he probed. Mrs. Trussell said she had not.

"Did you call them them?" Goss persisted.
"I knew where they were," Mrs. Trussell said.

"The fact is, you helped plan the robbery with your husband, didn't you? Are you the woman behind the man?" Goss queried.

Mrs. Trussell answered no to both questions.

Miller, who has testified at two previous trials in connection with the case, said he was knocked to the floor by one gun-wielding masked man when he opened up the bank.

He said he struggled briefly with the man. Then, he said, an associate screamed, "My God, he's got a gun."

Others Enter Bank
Miller said three more masked men entered the bank as he grappled on the floor with the first man.

According to Miller, employees were forced to lie on the floor as they came into the bank to report to work.

The bandits forced him and another employee to open the vault, he said, and stuffed money into what appeared to be a pillow case.

He said 11 persons, including himself, were left in the locked vault when the bandits made their getaway. He indicated the vault was locked, but not completely sealed, in order to allow the captives to breathe.

Miller said he called law enforcement officers from a telephone inside the vault. He said the 11 persons were freed after about five minutes by an employee who had arrived to work late.

New Fire Surges In California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dry desert winds transformed a smoldering fire in an illegal dump into a wall of flame that raced toward expensive homes along the Pacific coastline near Malibu Tuesday.

But fire fighters from two counties and the state Department of Forestry said they believed they had stopped the fire's march about three miles from the beach.

"We think we can hold it up in the canyons for the night. Then in the morning, we will throw everything we have at it," said a spokesman for the Los Angeles County Fire Department.

By late Monday, the flames had burned an estimated 2,000 acres of dense, highly combustible brush in the drought-parched Santa Monica Mountains, a fire official said.

Thick black smoke billowing out of the canyons was visible for more than 20 miles, and a heavier than normal pall hung over downtown Los Angeles.

It was the third brush fire in the mountains in two days.

The new fire began when winds fanned flames from an unattended fire in the illegal dump, said county fire Inspector Dennis Miller.

"The fire in the dump had been burning for several weeks, and the increased winds blew it out of control," Miller said.

About 200 homes scattered in rural canyons above the beaches and three county detention camps were evacuated, said county sheriff's department spokesman.

Winds were gusting to 40 miles an hour, pushing the fire in a southwest direction. About 300 acres an hour were going up in smoke. The fire was four to five miles from the ocean at 4 p.m., Bartlett said.

The fire began about 12:30 p.m. near the Los Angeles-Ventura county line and roared through the heavy brush in the thinly populated area toward the ocean and exclusive beach-front homes in the Malibu area, fire officials said.

Fire fighters and equipment from both counties were tackling the blaze in very heavy brush.

Meanwhile, the Topanga Canyon fire was declared contained at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, aided by a midday fog from the ocean. Fire officials said they hoped afternoon winds would not spring up to push the blaze past the containment lines and into nearby residential sections.

"Everybody should breathe a little easier," city Fire Chief John Gerard said Tuesday afternoon. "A little bit of humidity does wonderful things to brush. The brush soaks up moisture and when you get a little bit of fog, a fire stops dead."

The fire started Monday afternoon at the head of Topanga Canyon, about 25 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles. It jumped across a small residential area, Sylvia Park, where three houses, two outbuildings and a trailer were destroyed, said county Fire Chief Clyde Bragdon Jr.

No Injuries Known
No injuries to firefighters or residents were reported, Bragdon said. Several pets were reported killed.

The two chiefs, speaking at a Tuesday morning news conference, said the cause of the Topanga fire was being investigated, but it was probably started by a human.

"It's very difficult to absolutely say it was man-caused or not. It will probably be listed indefinitely as a 'suspicious fire.' It's in such a remote area, a possibility of an accidental fire is remote," Gerard said.

Bragdon said fire officials had ruled out the possibility that a spark from the first fire Monday morning ignited the Topanga blaze. The first fire covered less than 10 acres near Woodland Hills, about five miles from the Topanga fire, and was quickly contained.

Bragdon said about 600 firefighters and nine water-dropping helicopters worked Tuesday to put out the large fire's hot spots.

About a hundred Sylvia Park residents fled their homes to evacuation centers Monday, but most stayed to douse sparks that threatened their rustic wood houses set on the stony hillside.

Solon Reports Wheat Sale To Chinese

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An Oklahoma congressman said Tuesday he has learned of the sale of 20 million to 50 million bushels of American wheat to China.

In Washington, a spokesman for the U.S. Department in Agriculture said the department could not confirm the sale, but Rep. Glenn English, a Democrat, said "a highly placed USDA official has confirmed to me that the department is aware" of the transaction.

Grain companies are required to report to the USDA any sales to foreign countries within 24 hours after a transaction is made.

English, in a telephone interview with The Associated Press, said he understands that intermediaries are being used by the American grain companies and that the sale has not been reported to the USDA.

"Because intermediaries were used, English said USDA officials 'have not proved' the sale and would not make an announcement until they had more details.

He said he also had few details of the transaction or of the companies involved.

English said China previously had balked at buying American wheat but apparently was forced to look to the U.S. grain market because of a severe crop failure.

Sadat Invited For Historic Israeli Visit head of a neighboring state with which we want to live in peace."

Sadat, before receiving the invitation, told reporters at his Barrages retreat outside Cairo.

"I consider this trip as a sacred duty and that this vicious circle we are turning around in... has to be broken."

"If I can break it and do not break it, I shall be questioned about it... Questioned by whom? By God, and that is why it is sacred."

Egypt's ambassador to the United States, Ashraf Ghorbal, ruled out any separate peace with Israel resulting from Sadat's visit. He told reporters in Washington, "That is not in the cards."

He said Sadat still insists on Israel returning all land taken from Syria and Jordan, as well as from Egypt, in the 1967 Middle East and on a Palestinian state being set up on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in Gaza.

Reprimand Issued
An official reprimand of Israeli's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, by Defense Minister Ezer Weizman indicated the seriousness Israel was attaching to the proposed meeting. Gur was quoted by an Israeli newspaper as saying Egypt was preparing for war "toward 1978" and "Sadat planned 'a deception' he would find Israel ready to fight."

In a statement to parliament, Weizman called Gur's remarks "unnecessary and unjustified." He added, "I hope that the chief of staff's statement will not harm the political moves now under way between the prime minister of Israel and the president of Egypt in an effort to bring the two peoples to peace."

Pacts Negotiated
While an arch foe of Israel, Egypt has been the Arab nation most willing to seek agreement with the Jewish state and the two countries have already negotiated disengagement agreements under which Israel pulled back from the Suez Canal.

Mideast observers believe that Egypt's acute problems of poverty, overpopulation and underdevelopment led to Sadat's dramatic offer to go to Jerusalem in a bid for peace.

Sadat first proposed going to Israel last Wednesday and Begin said he would be welcome. In announcing the official invitation Begin added Sadat would be received in Israel "with all the honor and majesty" due a head of state.

"I consider my visit to the Knesset as part of the preparation for Geneva," Sadat told the visiting U.S. congressmen.

Cheerleader Brings Lawsuit On Lateness Spanking Rule quite a few kids who got licks for being tardy.

Earlier, Foote had declined to comment until he discussed the matter with Hollingsworth.

But both said earlier they did not think the accident in this Oklahoma City suburb of some 2,000 persons was sufficient excuse.

Mrs. Davis said she asked the police chief what would have happened had her daughter left the scene of the accident to get back to school on time.

"He said, 'I would have arrested her immediately,'" she said. "Then we would really have been in trouble."

Besides receiving failing grades in all courses until she returns to school, Miss Davis was not allowed to lead cheers at the high school's final football game of the season.

The suit filed by the Davises in Oklahoma County District Court on Monday seeks to have Miss Davis readmitted without the punishment. The suit also seeks a court order prohibiting enforcement of the handbook rule. A hearing on the lawsuit is scheduled Nov. 20.

"I hate to see her out of school," Mrs. Davis said of Rhonda. "But it has got to the point that the parents are telling the kids that if they are going to be late, to just come on back home."

She said most of the parents are opposed to the rule and she and her husband, a dry-wall contractor, brought the lawsuit "not just for our girl, but for the 500 other kids down here if their parents can't afford to or won't push it. They all think the rule is ridiculous."

Miss Davis said one other time she was late because "I was followed by an officer and got a warning for driving too fast in trying to get back in time from lunch." The other times, she said, "I just didn't get up and around in time."

Her mother said "there are other and better ways to discipline children, especially when they get in high school."

"I wonder how the board members would feel if they had that kind of rule, where they worked," she said, "I asked the board that one time and they just laughed like they thought I was crazy."

Annexation Question Lacking Firm Answer

more information would be requested. Future annexations to Southwest Lubbock also may be denied by the voting rights section because of possible weakening of minority voting power, she indicated.

Jones said he will ask for expedition of the case on the grounds that the delay hinders construction of badly needed housing and that it contributes to the city's unemployment among construction company employees.

Developer Cecil Jennings, who owns 221 of the disputed 960 acres annexed, told The Avalanche-Journal that the delay has caused him no problems yet.

"I think it (the Justice Department inquiry) is probably routine" and will not throw planned construction off schedule, Jennings said.

"Only complete denial of the annexation, which he initiated, would cause problems, he said, adding that he would "go to court" if the case is denied.

"But I don't think they could turn it down," he added. "There is no reason for them to say no."

"It's a matter of appraising these people in Washington about what's going on in Lubbock, Texas," he stated.

The 960 acres in question is bounded by 82nd Street, 98th Street and Quaker and Frankford Avenues.

Developer Ken Flagg seems more concerned about the Justice Department questions. He proposes annexing about 158 acres of land bordered by Indiana and Memphis Avenues and 98th and 114th streets. The tract also would include 660 feet east of Indiana Avenue and 150 feet west of Memphis Avenue.

Heeding the Justice Department's warning that another annexation in Southwest Lubbock may be denied, Flagg last week asked the city council to postpone until Dec. 8 second and final reading of an ordinance authorizing the annexation.

He said he needs time to "evaluate the problem" of possibly having the federal government reject his request. "I don't want to have land within the city limits that can't be served by city services" such as police and fire protection, he explained.

His is a "Catch-22" situation. Not until the council approves his request will it be forwarded to the Justice Department for review. If the federal government rejects it, he is stuck with the land outside city limits. And unless he seeks final council action, his land still will be outside the city.

The voting rights section of the Justice Department's civil rights division scrutinizes all annexations to ascertain whether they would affect minority voting strength. No Lubbock annexations have been rejected since the 1975 law authorizing the reviews.

Only five annexation requests have been made since 1975, and only two have been denied by the council, according to the city's planning department. Leroy Elmore's request for land in Southwest Lubbock was rejected twice on the grounds that it would be too expensive to extend city services into the area.

Violent Demonstrations Mark Ceremonies For Shah Of Iran

IN FRONT OF WHITE HOUSE — Two demonstrators clash in front of the northwest gate of the White House Tuesday as police subdue a man in background. Demonstrators gathered to WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bleary-eyed in wafting tear gas, President Carter greeted the shah of Iran on the White House lawn Tuesday as hordes of screaming, club swinging anti-shah demonstrators brawled with police and pro-shah crowds a few hundred yards away.

The shah, his queen and Rosalynn Carter wept and gagged in the wind-carried gas police fired during the half-hour, skull-cracking battle that erupted just as the Iranian monarch arrived for a two-day visit.

White House veterans said they could not recall any comparable disruption of a White House state ceremony, not even during the Vietnam protest era.

U.S. Park Police said at least 82 persons, including 20 policemen, were injured, most with cuts and bruises not requiring hospitalization. Hospital spokesmen put the total at 75 and said one man, a shah partisan, was in serious condition with a fractured skull.

Police said 20 persons were arrested. An estimated 7,500 to 8,000 pro and anti-shah demonstrators had gathered on both sides of the White House overnight for rallies.

The demonstrations remained peaceful, if noisy, until the visiting monarch and Empress Farah arrived by limousine at 10:30 a.m. But then the anti-shah protesters broke through police lines and the police responded with tear gas.

The gas and the noise drifted into the White House South lawn, where the president was just starting into his welcome speech. The shah recoiled as the fumes reached him, putting his hands to his face.

Through it all, Carter tried valiantly to conduct the ceremony as though nothing unusual were happening.

Standing erect, blinking back tears from the stinging fumes, he called the shah's visit "a great honor" and "a reminder of the strong ties of friendship between your country and ours."

Ironically, his prepared speech contained a line noting there are about 30,000 Iranian exchange students in the United States and saying, "this is a wonderful opportunity for us to share experiences and to plan together for the future."

In his responding speech, the shah said, "we attach utmost importance to our relations with the United States... America has always shown a very unselfish and many times very friendly attitude towards us."

With the din of the nearby fighting nearly drowning out his words, with much of his audience choking and weeping in the gas, the shah told Carter: "Thank you very much for your words of welcome."

Inside the executive mansion, Carter told his guests, with a smile, "I have already apologized to the shah for the temporary air pollution."

The shah's was expected to focus primarily on oil and arms sale issues, with Carter trying to persuade oil-exporting Iran to use its against further price hikes by petroleum exporters, and the shah seeking more ultramodern U.S. weaponry for his already well-equipped armies.

Carter later released a statement saying he had assured the shah, in their first private discussion, that the United States will continue to help Iran meet its military "security needs" and fulfill its "economic and social development programs."

The anti-shah factions — many of them Iranian exchange students wearing colored masks — bore placards and chanted slogans accusing the shah of running a brutally repressive regime in which secret police "torture" and "murder" dissidents.

Victim Wants Control Of Estate

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the survivors of the Son of Sam shootings filed legal papers Tuesday seeking to replace suspect David Berkowitz's father as conservator of the accused killer's meager assets.

A show-cause order was submitted in state Supreme Court to Justice Carmine Ventiera. The court was asked to have Robert Violante, who was in a parked car with Stacy Moskowitz when she was killed on a Brooklyn street, replace Nathan Berkowitz, David's adoptive father, as conservator.

On Oct. 31, Ventiera named Nathan Berkowitz conservator of his son's assets, which consist of about $1,000 and a used car.

More importantly, however, is the potential for income from books and movie about the suspect's life. Under state law, any income to Berkowitz from publications or films of his exploits is to be turned over to the shooting victims.

In a second legal proceeding Tuesday, the parents of Miss Moskowitz filed suit for a default judgement on behalf of the estate of their daughter.

The estate had previously sued David Berkowitz for $15 million, but he did not respond. The Moskowitz family seeks a court order declaring Berkowitz in default and awarding damages to the estate. The application will be presented to Justice Irving Kartell in the state Supreme Court.

Alcoholism As Disease Ignored By Med Schools

By JACK B. WEINER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When he was in medical school, today's average doctor learned more about such exotic (and, in America, nonexistent) diseases as tsutsugamushi (an acute infectious disease, sometimes called "Japanese river fever" or "scrub typhus") than he did about alcoholism. By the same token, he knows far more about the effects and role of triglycerides, cholesterol and nicotine upon body systems than that of alcohol.

In point of fact, lecture time in medical school related to alcoholism and its associated disorders totals no more than one or two hours, prompting one hospital chief of medicine to coin the comically yet accurately descriptive phrase, "Four-two-three syndrome."

"You go to medical school for four years," he scoffs, "and get two hours' exposure to alcoholism, which is America's number three killer."

It is becoming increasingly difficult in 20th-century America to ignore such travesties as these:

- Probably fewer than 10 per cent of the nation's alcoholic people are receiving the treatment they need.

- Less than half the nation's hospitals will admit patients, with a primary diagnosis of alcoholism.

- Most communities continue to jail acutely intoxicated people without referring them to treatment for overdose of a drug.

- The vast majority of health professionals remain unwilling to accept their proper responsibility for the treatment of alcoholic people.

- In addition — and far more important for the alcoholic man or woman seeking treatment — one can hardly ignore the all-important matter of health insurance: to be sure, the presence or absence of health insurance frequently spells the difference between seeking and avoiding help in the first place.

The reality today? Hardly a handful of insurance companies do provide coverage for alcoholism; even among that handful, some provide coverage solely for the acute or detoxification phase.

By any standard, it would be difficult to overestimate the personal and societal impact of alcoholism among physicians ism. The same legislation provides federal financial support (a mere $13 million, unfortunately) to those states enacting the Uniform Alcoholism and Intoxi-cal schools are being encouraged to integrate alcoholism studies in their curricula through training grants awarded by the institute. Moreover, for the first time, various medical organizations and state legislatures are beginning to acknowledge the problem of alcoholism and, in some instances, even trying to do something about it.

The Michigan State Medical Society, for example, has prepared a proposal which would educate physicians about their own alcoholism and provide a referral service for them. Similarly, the American Medical Association has drafted a model law dealing with sick physicians incapacitated by alcohol or other drugs. Also encouraging is that fact that nine states have enacted legislation requiring either that benefits for alcoholism treatment be included in all group health policies or that the coverage be offered to policyholders as an option.

themselves. The astonishing fact is that more than 18 per cent of America's 356,000 physicians suffer from alcoholism — three times the percentage of alcoholics found in the general population.

Unquestionably, some progress is being made. For example, legislation enacted by Congress in 1974 prohibits hospitals receiving federal assistance from discriminating against or denying admission to alcoholic patients with medical problems solely because of their alcoholification Treatment Act, the law that removes public drunkenness from the criminal code and places it in the health domain, where it has always belonged.

Finally, the legislation guarantees the confidentiality of medical records of patients under treatment for alcoholism.

In addition, the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism has undertaken various efforts to expand the alcoholism education of doctors; at this writing, a number of medi-

Gum Sweetener Causes Cancer In Lab Mice

STONY BROOK, N.Y. (AP) — The natural sweetener xylitol, used in Wrigley's widely advertised Orbit chewing gum, has produced bladder cancer in laboratory mice, the National Institute of Dental Research reported Tuesday.

An executive of the Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co. said in Chicago that the experimental findings were preliminary and showed no discernible public health problem from xylitol, a substance many times sweeter than sugar.

The spokesman said Wrigley had introduced Orbit early this year as "our answer to other sugar-free gum," most of which contains saccharin. That substance has also been shown to produce tumors in some animals and may be banned.

As a result of the laboratory findings, officials at the State University of New York at Stony Brook suspended a three-year-old research project in which sixth-graders in a Long Island junior high school were to chew gum containing xylitol. This three-year test was to see whether using xylitol reduced tooth decay.

"I think the answer is clearly no" as to whether there is any hazard for the 150 children who have already chewed the gum, said Dr. James P. Carlos, associate director of the dental institute, which funded the dental research.

Dr. Carlos, who flew to the New York area for a news conference on the suspension, said his institute and the Food and Drug Administration were notified of the xylitol-animal experiments by telephone last Wednesday by Hoffman-LaRoche, a Nutley, N.J., pharmaceutical company. That firm, a commercial supplier of xylitol, had contracted with Huntington Research Center near London, England, to test the sweetener on animals.

Hoffman-LaRoche, which received the preliminary reports by cable from the laboratory, said that in addition to alerting the federal agencies, it outlined the findings in a letter to customers who use xylitol in their products.

The FDA currently permits xylitol to be used as a sweetener only in chewing gum.

Xylitol is one of a group of natural substitutes for sugar known as sugar alcohols and is found in such plant sources as birch bark, corn cobs, peanut shells, cottonseed and cottonseed oil. It is also produced naturally by the body.

Dr. Carlos said he understood that the FDA feels there is not enough evidence at the moment to take any formal action. FDA experts were expected to fly to England to look at the results first hand.

According to the cabled report, malignant tumors appeared in eight male mice and benign tumors in another eight males out of 200 fed very high doses of xylitol, up to one-fifth of their diet. There was also some thickening of tissue and stones in the urinary tract.

Hoffman-LaRoche said no evidence of similar trouble showed up in female mice or in rats and dogs subject to the same experiment. There also were some tumors of adrenal glands in rats, but no information on how many and whether they were cancerous.

Based on these preliminary findings, Dr. Carlos said, "we advised SUNY (State University of New York) that the study should at least be temporarily discontinued."

The dental study began last Monday and was stopped last Wednesday. Dr. J. Howard Oaks, university vice president for health sciences, said at the news conference. The study was being conducted by Drs. Gary Leske and Louis Ripa, both of the school of dental medicine.

According to Wrigley's research vice president, Eugene Fisher, the daily dose given the experimental animals in England was equivalent to the xylitol in 100 sticks of gum.

Dr. Carlos said the medical literature has extensive information on the safety and metabolism of xylitol. The only side effect reported has been a mild and transient diarrhea. The substance is on the FDA's GRAS list, which stands for "generally regarded as safe," and is an approved human dietary additive.

The Stony Brook dental study was an attempt to confirm a 1975 study in Finland that showed a "strong probability" that xylitol could prevent the tooth discoloration and opaque appearance that signals the appearance of a cavity. Children who chewed gum containing xylitol had up to 80 or 85 percent fewer cavities than a control group.

Conflicting Views Presented On Value Of Lie Detector Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bosses who require employees or job applicants to take lie detector tests could reduce theft losses just as effectively by making them play Russian roulette, a psychiatry professor said Tuesday.

A polygraph expert, on the other hand, said such tests are an effective weapon against "blatant, costly crime."

These conflicting views were presented to a Senate judiciary subcommittee considering legislation which would forbid use of lie detector tests by employers.

The professor, David Lykken of the University of Minnesota, told the panel of instances in which test subjects trusted a polygraph's false results rather than their own recollection.

He cited the case of Peter Reilly, a Connecticut man exonerated of killing his mother, who initially confessed to the crime because of an erroneous lie detector test and a persuasive examiner.

Lykken also testified that two recent scientific studies showed only 64 to 72 percent accuracy of polygraph tests, as opposed to a 50 percent chance by flipping a coin.

In many cases, Lykken said, those conducting the tests under contract to companies are predisposed to "produce a victim in order to earn their fee... One imagines that it would be equally effective to require all employees to play Russian roulette until someone got a bullet in the brain. And about equally fair."

He said there are cases of persons being fired unjustly on evidence that would be inadmissible in court and who "are being punished more severely than many properly convicted first-time felons."

But J. Kirk Barefoot, a spokesman for the American Polygraph Association, opposed the legislation, saying it would result in increased crime. He said ill-defined right-to-privacy arguments "ignore an employer's countervailing need to protect himself and the consuming public from the crippling and inflationary effects of epidemic employee theft."

While there have been abuses among testers, said Barefoot, "the polygraph technique is still reliable. When used properly, it can be a protective device which safeguards against blatant, costly crime."

The subcommittee also heard testimony from the American Civil Liberties Union, which argued that even with 100 percent accuracy, such tests are unconstitutional invasions of privacy.

Space Baby's Birth Foreseen As Epoch

COCOA, Fla. (UPI) — A NASA scientist says the birth of the first space baby — which could occur in 20 years or less — may be the biggest event in modern history.

Jesco Von Puttkamer, NASA's senior scientist dealing with advanced space programs, also predicted Monday that a space station housing permanent residents should be operational by the end of the 1980s, and possibly as early as 1986.

"I see the biggest event in modern world history being the first person born in space," Von Puttkamer said. "I figure it will happen by 1995 or a little later, but it could occur even in the early 1990s."

"The reason it will be treated as such a big event — in fact I envision a worldwide celebration — is because it will prove that people are not just tied to the earth to reproduce their offspring," said Von Puttkamer, who is NASA's program manager for space utilization and long-range planning studies under the Office of Space Flight.

"By the end of the 1980s there will be a permanent base station in space and by the 1990s I figure that 50 to 100 people will be living there permanently," he said.

Von Puttkamer said a permanent housing unit in space "will occur very naturally. People working at the space station will decide to live there for longer and longer periods of time."

"They will get tired of shuttling back and forth to earth and suddenly we will find them living there all the time," he said.

Holiday Trappings Protested

AUSTIN (UPI) — Atheist leader Madalyn Murray O'Hair Tuesday demanded Gov. Dolph Briscoe prohibit display of a nativity scene in the State Capitol during the Christmas holidays.

"I feel that it's unconstitutional and inappropriate," she told aides to the governor. "It's offensive to Jews, Muslims, Buddhists, atheists and agnostics."

Two Briscoe aides met with Mrs. O'Hair but said the nativity scene will be on display.

"The governor wants it there," Jay Floyd, an assistant to Briscoe, told Mrs. O'Hair.

"This has been a tradition and it'll be there this year," Dickie Travis, Briscoe's director of budget and planning, said. "I'm speaking for the governor."

Mrs. O'Hair asked the officials to request an attorney general's opinion on the constitutionality of displaying a nativity scene in a public building and having a monument inscribed with the Ten Commandments on Capitol grounds, but the governor's aides refused.

"There will be trouble over this at Christmas," Mrs. O'Hair said. "We will be back."

Mrs. O'Hair said she will ask her attorneys to determine what legal action can be taken to block display of the nativity scene and other Christian activities associated with Christmas.

She said she has no objection to the huge Christmas tree placed in the 89-year-old Capitol building during the holiday season because, "The Christmas tree is a pagan thing which has nothing to do with religion."

The atheist leader said she cannot understand why anyone would be permitted to place a stone tablet inscribed the Ten Commandments on public land.

The seven-foot monument was erected by the Texas Fraternal Order of Eagles in 1961 between the Capitol and the State Supreme Court building.

"This is a flagrant illegal presentation and in violation of the principle of separation of church and state," Mrs. O'Hair said.

Mrs. O'Hair said she plans to continue her crusade against government involvement in religion with an appearance before the Austin City Council Thursday.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
DR. GEORGE C. THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am worried about my six-year-old daughter. When she was born she had on her records, "PKU 3.6 per cent." When my son was born last year nothing was said about PKU. Does this mean the girl may have slight retardation, or what? — Mrs. L.E.

"PKU" stands for a real tongue-twister of a word — "phenylketonuria." This means the presence of phenylalanine in the urine. It is substance (an amino acid) found in protein. The problem was recognized years ago as a cause of mental retardation, so testing newborns for this is a common practice today.

The reason it appears in the urine is that the liver fails to break it down properly.

The 3.6 per cent reading would have put your daughter in a suspicious category. A reading of 6 milligrams and above is considered significant.

There's much missing from your letter.

She is now six years old, but you don't mention her present mental state. If you haven't noted any unusual behavior, I doubt you have anything to worry about. If she was put on a reduced phenylalanine diet after birth, the chances of mental retardation occurring is small. She may also have been able to compensate for her deficiency.

Your daughter is about to start school and will have the usual aptitude test. This will tell much. If you are still worried, the PKU problem can be tested in other ways.

I have used the term, "inborn error of metabolism," in discussing certain ailments in this column. One reader wrote to ask me what that means. PKU is a classic example.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am six months pregnant and have heard of the dangers of taking medicine during pregnancy. I took aspirin in the first four months. My doctor told me to because of my migraine. I'm really afraid of what might happen to the baby. Can you ease my mind? — Mrs. M.R.L.

The general rule, as you know, is to take as little medication as possible in pregnancy, especially in the first three months. Aspirin is a mild analgesic. I would predict no undue effect on the baby from taking a few, even when you did.

It's important to remember that the health of the mother is as important for safe delivery, as is the health of the fetus. There are certain conditions that demand medications during pregnancy. These should be used only on the advice of the physician, who should be told of any over-the-counter medicine (or pre-

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain trench mouth. I have heard nerves will cause it. Is that true? Are antibiotics of help? — E.R.

Trench mouth is a disease that affects the gums and mucous membranes of the mouth. It got the name when it became common among soldiers in trenches in World War I.

Various germs lurking in the mouth cause it. These germs normally give us no trouble, but under certain circumstances they can. The chief culprit is poor dental hygiene. Heavy smoking, poor nutrition, heavy metal poisoning, gum injury and various blood disorders are others.

The gums become red and swollen, with bleeding (pink brush) and a foul mouth odor. Worry and emotional disturbance may be factors, but these are usually secondary to faulty dental care.

Antibiotics are not effective. Plaque (tartar) can be removed, the gums massaged and dental floss used to clean crevices between teeth. It's a matter of care of the teeth, first by the dentist, then by the individual thereafter.

The disease is not transmitted by contact.

scribed, for that matter) the woman may be using.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband, age 77, just came home from the hospital. They gave him a bone scan and said he has Paget's disease. He has been having severe pain in his left leg. The doctor says they can give injections for it, but that the best way to start was with vitamins to see if they helped. He is taking them. Can you give us any further information on this? — Mrs. L.A.S.

You may mean "Paget's disease." I'm not aware of a Pabst's disease.

In Paget's, certain bones become weakened and deformed. A descriptive name for it is "osteitis deformans." The long bones of the legs and the skull are most commonly affected. It's not clear why it happens or why these areas are involved.

Fortunately, treatment is available. Good results have been reported with use of calcitonin. This "blocks" the cells that cause calcium loss and the bone breakdown. At the same time, new bone is deposited and pain relieved. This may be the medicine to which your doctor referred. Another preparation — disodium etidronate — can be taken by mouth. It, too, has produced good results. I have doubts about vitamin treatment, although vitamin D is associated with bone growth (calcium absorption).

Paget's is a "crippler," not a "killer." A final note for other readers. Do not confuse this Paget's disease with the other kind, a breast problem, which I've discussed here previously.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: This may sound like a crazy question, but do you know of any cure for fear of heights? — B.Z.

The only help I know of is in psychiatry — hypnosis, etc.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to him, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I have seen letters in your column from cats and dogs but never a canary. Let me be the first.

When I had feathers they were a buttercup yellow. My wings were emerald green interspersed with blue and orange. "Why don't I have feathers?" you ask. Because there are four kids under six years of age in the family and they take turns torturing me. I keep looking for an open window or a chance to get out the front door but so far no luck. I realize if I could escape, life would be very difficult for a house bird like me. But it's so bad in here, I'd take the chance.

Please, Ann, give me some advice. I read your column regularly. — Without A Song In Lansing

Dear Without: Although I'm sure my column is on the bottom of many bird cages around the world, you are, indeed, the first canary to write.

When your letter appears in print, clip the column with your beak and hand it to the parent of your choice. You don't have to say anything. They'll know. In the meantime, here's a word from me, in case you get too choked up: If there's a mom or dad out there whose canary seems to be moulting out of season, please keep a closer watch on your kids. No child under 10 years of age should be permitted to handle a pet bird without adult supervision.

have to be shocked into shaping up by being left. Maybe this is the way it is in your family.

A good therapist can show you the way. Check the mental health clinics in your area and get going.

At Wit's End...

In the olden days B.C. (Before Canapes), this column would never have been written, but since hors d'oeuvres, appetizers and those little before-dinner snacks have become so chic, it's an absolute necessity.

There are some foods that do not diminish when you chew them...they grow, and I suspect multiply. One of them is the anchovy.

I have inadvertently found myself with an anchovy in my mouth which I have chewed vigorously for three days and swallowed 137 times only to wake up in the middle of the night and realize I was still chewing it.

Anchovies are sneaky little devils and often disguise themselves as edible. They never look the same. Once, in your mouth, however, they wrap themselves around your front teeth and refuse to let go.

The late naturalist, Euell Gibbons, once wrote about eating a seaweed called Dulse. He said when this reddish weed was fresh from the tide pool it was tough and tasteless, giving the sensation of chewing on a salted rubber band. However, one rainy day when he craved some, he put a little in an open work onion bag, dried it an hour in the automatic clothes dryer and it tasted wonderful.

There is nothing you can do for an anchovy.

It's baffling to me, but there are some people who not find anchovies disgusting at all, and I try to be tolerant. I have one friend, old Fish Breath, who invariably orders them on her pizza when she is in my presence. It's all I can do to remember she is kind to her mother, tithes to the church and doesn't litter our highways.

As I circled a table full of appetizers the other night, it occurred to me that one of life's greatest mysteries is, "What's in all those little globs and mounds of shredded food?"

It's one of the few places where I throw pride to the wind and wear my glasses. As I bent over a crust of bread, shaped like a diamond and covered with bits of bacon, shredded shrimp, a glob of blue cheese and a toothpick holding an olive with an almond center, I looked at my husband. He looked weird. His teeth weren't meeting. He gasped only two words before he took leave: "It's liver!"

Unlike an anchovy, liver doesn't grow or multiply. Liver is like malaria. Once you think it's gone, the taste comes back...maybe not today or tomorrow...but someday...

Copyright, 1977, Field Enterprises, Inc.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a hard worker, faithful and kind. The problem is gluttony and a fixation on the television.

It's regular fare for him to eat three dozen donuts, one bag of potato chips, several pounds of nuts and a couple of salami sandwiches in the course of 5-8 hours of watching television.

His appearance is disgusting. He outweighs me by at least 150 pounds and has a closet full of clothes that don't fit. He refuses to give them away on the pretense that he's going on a diet "next week." He admits he has a neurotic eating problem but he won't seek help. Our marriage is in big trouble but he won't let me get counseling — says, "They don't know anything." I've even examined my own behavior, thinking perhaps I drive him to eat but I'm not a nagger and resent the guilt he has laid on me by inuendo.

I'm busy with three preschool children, one who is handicapped and requires special care. I get absolutely no help from fat stuff. I do EVERYTHING from paperwork to home canning to yard work to carpentry.

I still love him, but my respect diminishes with every pound he puts on.

Is neurotic overeating grounds for divorce? What about his health? He knows he's killing himself slowly with every bite he takes. What does this say about his feelings for me and the children? What approach do I take? Silence and pretending the problem isn't there doesn't work. Help me. — Wife Of Mr. Fat have reached three notrump. There were nine quick tricks if spades failed to break and 11 if they did. There would also be 11 tricks at hearts if the spades broke and maybe even 12 if they didn't. But South's problem was to get 10 while guarding against both a 4-2 spade break and a misplaced ace of clubs.

Dear Wife: I suggest counseling for you. Some foodaholics (like alcoholics)

Then South solved his problem. He rose with dummy's ace of diamonds, led a low trump to his ace and cashed the jack of trumps to find both opponents following suit nicely. Then he took two of dummy's high spades. When everyone followed he was ready with a safety play. He ruffed a low spade, got back to dummy with the queen of trumps, discarded a club and diamond on the last two spades and led a club toward his king.

West won with the ace and the defendants scored two more club tricks, but the rubber bonus was safe in South's pocket.

A New Mexico reader wants to know if there were ever five-point scores possible in contract.

The original scoring table counted no-trump at 35 points a trick and it was some time later that the current 40 for the first trick and 30 for subsequent tricks was adopted.

Hints from Heloise

Hi There!

Frozen yogurt is all the rage now and I for one absolutely adore it.

It is so good to eat when it comes out of those machines soft and creamy and delicious but I wanted to have some at home.

My friend Tod Fridge solved my problem.

He said that he spoons the yogurt into an ice cube tray and then puts wooden sticks into it and freezes them.

Tod said his kids love to eat them like ice cream on a stick and they make great snacks.

Well, I rushed home and had to try it out. I buy the plain yogurt (less fattening) and doctor it up myself to suit my taste.

Depending on my mood, I either mix a little diet jelly with it or add some artificial sweetener and maybe some extract till it tastes right.

One of my favorites is banana extract and the second is chocolate. I add my own flavorings and sweetness so it is exactly the way I like it.

It takes a good 24 hours to freeze solid and I have found that if I don't freeze it completely solid and it is just kinda mushy, I can whip it up with a fork and it is almost like ice cream.

It tastes so good and it is cold and fills that craving for something good and satisfying to eat when I have the urge.

If you like yogurt I feel you will love this idea.

If there is anyone out there who knows how to make the yogurt soft and creamy like out of the machines, without buying a machine I wish you would share it with the rest of us.

Bon appetit. — Heloise II

"BAREFOOT NUREYEV" — Wayan Pasek Yusabawa, a 12-year-old member of the Dancers of Bali, practices his dance Thursday in full make-up and costume at the Carnegie Recital Hall in New York. The boy was described as a "little Baryshnikov" and a "barefoot Nureyev" last spring when the troupe danced in London. But the phrases didn't mean anything to him. He had never heard of either of the famous Russian dancers. (AP Wirephoto)

Critics Praise Young Dancer

NEW YORK (AP) — "A little Baryshnikov" and "a barefoot Nureyev" were among the descriptions London newspapers used for a 12-year-old member of the Dancers of Bali when the company performed there last spring.

The boy they spoke of, Wayan Pasek Yusabawa, had never heard of either of the famous Russian dancers.

With the Balinese troupe preparing for a seven-week tour of the United States, Canada and the Caribbean, Yusabawa was brought to New York for a preview of an appearance at Carnegie Hall Nov. 16-18. He put on full makeup and costume — no shoes — and danced his solo "Baris Kreasi."

His face was tiny under a triangular hat and above a jutting, fringed collar. Yusabawa didn't leap through the air the way Baryshnikov and Nureyev do, but his intensity did recall the concentration of the two stars.

He saw ballet dancing in Europe for the first time, Yusabawa said through an interpreter, and does not want to try it. He giggled when asked whether he wants to continue to dance as an adult.

In Bali, a person never is asked what he intends to do in the future, the interpreter explained, and the boy found it an amusing question.

He dances, Yusabawa said, because in Bali everyone is an artist. He and his older sister, also in the troupe, chose to be dancers, he said, like their father and grandfather.

Anak-Agung-Gede Raka Bawa, the dance company's administrator, said "Baris Kreasi" is a dance that Yusabawa can do until he is about 20. He was chosen for the solo because in his village, Sebatu, he was the best young male dancer.

Yusabawa said he never forgets a step because the dances are part of his religion. He doesn't dance every day when at home, as many ballet dancers do, but rehearses just before a ceremonial occasion.

The dances are done in a set representing the garden of a Hindu temple. Part of the time the dancers face the audience and part of the time they turn their backs and dance for the gods in the temple.

The best place to watch the dancing is from a seat close to the stage, the interpreter, Seti-Arti Kailola advised. "You see expressions and eyes. If you're going to see these dances on a Western stage, take binoculars."

Public Encouraged To Use Building

The Federal Building soon will be open for dancing, art demonstrations and business meetings as part of a newly-established Living Buildings Programs to open federal buildings to public activities.

Jay Solomon, administrator of general services at the Federal Building here, said the program will give communities the opportunity to use and enjoy the structures their tax dollars have built.

Under the Public Buildings Cooperative Use Act of 1976, Solomon said, commercial, cultural, educational and recreational use of public buildings is allowed and encouraged. "...as long as building operations are not disrupted."

Tentatively, two 600-foot conference rooms and part of the lobby of the Federal Building at 1205 Texas Ave. have been designated for rental by groups engaged in cultural, educational or recreational activities.

Organizations using the building next week will not be charged a fee, but after that "groups will have to pay for the space rented to help with operation maintenance and cleaning," according to W.C. Bouton, Federal Building manager.

"The rent guidelines will probably be sent from Washington shortly," Bouton said, "but it will be cheaper than normal rent as far as building space is concerned."

With considerations such as utility bills and paying a guard overtime for night activities, Bouton speculated the rent

"could run up to a few dollars per hour." All activities would have to be approved by the regional General Services Administration office before they would be allowed in the Federal Building, Bouton said.

"There should be no problem with approval — we would just telephone the regional office. But organizations would not be permitted to charge fees of any kind for their exhibits or shows," Bouton added.

A similar program was initiated recently in Dallas and Fort Worth and in Albuquerque and Santa Fe, N.M. Bouton said, with "real good response."

Organizations or individuals wishing to inquire about renting space may contact Bouton at the Federal Building.

Tech Women's Group Schedules Symposium

"Focus on Individuality," a symposium sponsored by the Texas Tech University Women's Service Organization (WSO), Dec. 5-6 in the University Center, will feature speakers Margaret Mead, sociologist and writer, and Kent Hance, state senator, and other local and campus personalities.

Mead will speak on "Human Identity and Social Action" in the University Center Ballroom, 8 p.m., Dec. 5.

A panel discussion on effects of Title IX, which legislates greater equality for women in multiple campus activities, is scheduled for 3 p.m., Dec. 5, in the Senate Chambers of the University Center. Panelists will include R. Jeannine McHaffey, director of Women's Athletics, Dr. Charles S. Hardwick, vice president for Academic Affairs, and a representative to be named from the Women's Legal Council for Texas Tech.

Activities for Dec. 6 include a theater interpretation of the roles of women in nine plays from the Greek times until the present by Midge Verheine, Wisconsin theatrical performer, at noon in the University Center courtyard. At 3 p.m. a panel discussion on reverse discrimination will be held in the Senate Room. Representatives from the School of Law, the School of Medicine, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and a local bank will conduct the discussion.

The symposium will close with Sen. Kent Hance's speech on "Community Service," at 8 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom.

Groups from Texas Tech and Lubbock communities are invited by WSO to purchase booth space in the University Center to represent their organizations.

More information about the programs during the symposium or booth space can be obtained by contacting Debbie Engle, head of the Women in Action Committee, WSO, at Texas Tech.

Gregg, Cher Pleased With Europe Tour

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Singers Cher and Gregg Allman, their personal partnership flourishing, have launched into a professional partnership they also hope will be a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Allman have just released an album together and in early November began a month-long European tour.

The album and the tour mark the debut of the pair as a husband-and-wife performing team and the album's title, "Two the Hard Way," is a reminder that the partnership did not come easily.

"It's the first time ever we've given concerts together," said Allman in a backstage interview following their Brussels show. "We wondered a lot about how it would work out. For one thing, we didn't know if we'd be accepted."

Cher, of course, reached fame in the 1960s as a husband-and-wife team with Sonny Bono. She and Sonny had a highly successful television show which, after their divorce, Cher continued on her own.

Georgia-born Allman, with his brother Duane, formed the nucleus of the Allman Brothers Band, a blues-rock group that remained popular even after Duane died in 1971.

Their marriage in 1975 brought together two extremely diverse talents — Cher with her pop music and ballad background and polished television image, and Allman with his funky rock and reputation for hard drink and drugs — and their life together has had its well-publicized ups and downs.

Neither Cher nor Gregg appears willing to talk about past problems and reporters seeking interviews are warned that they will refuse to answer questions concerning the touchy subjects of drugs, alcohol or past marriages.

Their performance on stage, backed by an eight-piece band, still has rough edges, but both singers are enjoying the experiment.

The act is a mixture of hard driving Allman brothers classics, with Gregg singing solo, and sort of country-western-blues-type duet arrangements.

Cher, known in the past for her exotic costume changes, at the Brussels concert dressed simply in tight, faded jeans, a see-through tank top and a cowboy hat in keeping with the down-home quality of the music. But she dominated the show with her powerful voice, her dancing and her exceptional stage presence.

Using her hip-length black hair as an important stage prop, she and Allman, whose brilliant blond hair is almost as long as his wife's, made a striking scene singing at the same microphone.

"It's great to sing with my wife," Allman grinned. "Right now we're just trying to see what'll happen, depending on how well the album does."

"So far it's going real good," Cher said she enjoyed the type of music they were doing and enjoyed being out on stage with her husband.

"I like it," she said. "It's different, but not that different, and I also find it real easy to sing this type of music."

The two of them select most of their material together and their performance is full of affectionate gestures and husband-wife banter.

But both Cher and Gregg are emphatic that their current musical collaboration will not affect their solo work.

"There are things we can do together and there are things we can't do together," Allman explained.

He said he plans to make a solo tour of the southern United States and cut a solo album when they return from Europe.

Cher, he said, was lining up some television specials.

"I also want to make a film," she said, adding that a script is already in the works.

It is impossible, however, to watch

Cher in her new husband-wife act without remembering her performances with Sonny. The Bonos created musical history with their rendition of "I've Got You, Babe," and the comparison is inevitable.

The Allmans try very hard to make the same sort of history with a lowdown version of the Beatles' "You Really Got a Hold On Me," but so far they haven't quite lit the same spark.

'Helping Hand' Plan Studied By Hobbs PTA

A-J Correspondent
HOBBS — The Hobbs Parent-Teacher Association city council is studying the possibility of adopting a "Helping Hand" program.

According to Capt. Robert Barbaree of the Hobbs Police Department, the idea consists of selecting neighborhood residents to display placards in their windows, which would indicate that children in need of assistance could go to them for protection.

He said that an 8-by-10-inch placard bearing the silhouette of a white hand on a black background is the key to the program.

"Persons selected to participate in the program are carefully screened by organizers," he added.

"Businesses along school children's routes may also display the placards."

The plan, approved by the New Mexico Congress of Parents and Teachers, is modeled after a similar project in Albuquerque.

HEAVY RAIN
When seven inches of rain fell within 30 minutes at Cambridge, Ohio, one day in July 1914, the air was so full of water that anyone stepping outdoors found it virtually impossible to breathe. It was one of the severest rainstorms ever recorded in the United States.

Muscles Bring Fame, Problems To Mr. America Title Holder

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Getting fitted for clothing can present problems when you have a 52-inch chest, a 29-inch waist and arms that reach 20 inches around, says Joseph Spooner — Mr. America.

And the well-built body can cause other problems even after the tailor has adapted his custom fit.

"Women — if they don't know what you're like, they figure that you have big lumps," says Spooner, 29. "But when they get close to you they realize you're like them, that it's only when you flex your muscles that you're different."

Spooner, a native of St. Lucia in the British West Indies, returned to New Jersey this summer to prepare for his junior year at Livingston College, part of Rutgers University.

Six weeks later, he won the Mr. America competition in New York, beating 14 others for the crown.

In the last 10 years Spooner says he has won more than 25 titles and never placed lower than third in any of the competitions he's entered. His next goal is to "skip" the Mr. World competition and go directly for the crown of Mr. Universe.

"It will take me a few years of hard training to get into that kind of shape because it's very tough competition. It's the guys who are mature in body building — who have been working 20 or 25 years who actually win that kind of contest," Spooner said.

Dispelling the notion that body building is for the young and vigorous, Spooner noted that the current Mr. World is 40 years old. He still can ascend two steps further in the body building hierarchy, Spooner said, to Mr. Universe and ultimately Mr. Olympia.

Spooner's weight-lifting days began as a 19-year-old police officer in the West Indies. He said he went to see Rick Wayne, a well-known body builder, and "I decided I wanted to look like that."

He says he hopes to use his title to help dispell some of the myths surrounding his sport — including the stigma of homosexuality that was frequently attached to the body builder.

"Bodybuilding is a sport which keeps you fit and feeling good all the time," he said. "There's a group of men who love body building just as there is a group of men who love football. It's like every other sport.

"And they say that most body builders are dumb. That's not true — we have some body builders who are professors and doctors."

Spooner married a girl from St. Louis who won the Miss Eastern America weight-lifting crown in 1975. "Women use much lighter weights than men and women do not grow muscles because they have a thicker layer of fat under the skin," he said.

Spooner is completing a triple-major at Livingston College, studying labor relations, history and sociology, and intends to go on for his master's degree.

"I want to get into the labor field in St. Lucia, maybe an arbitrator — anything to help my people gain better wages," he says.

RAFB Planning Fact Meeting For Retirees

Retired military personnel and dependents will receive an update on benefits and programs at a special "Retired Information Night" on Dec. 6 at the Officers Club at Reese Air Force Base.

Col. Charles E. Bishop, Reese wing commander, announced the sessions of prepared briefings by base officials on many areas of concern for retired personnel.

Among the topics will be personnel and legal services available at Reese; Morale, Welfare and Recreation facilities available to retirees; and other matters concerning plans for the base exchange and commissary improvements.

Also covered in the session will be Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services as well as services available at the base hospital.

The evening will begin with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. and a 7:30 p.m. buffet dinner with tickets $5.50 per person.

For those not attending the dinner, the program will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Reservations must be made by Dec. 1 by calling 885-4511 extensions 2823 or 2329.

VODKA FAILURE

A polish pharmacist attempting to distill vodka from oil seeping from the ground produced kerosene, not liquor. Ignacy Lukaszewicz then went on in 1852 to develop a lamp to burn the clean, low-smoke fuel.

Fire Damages City Restaurant

By PAT CARLSON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Although a fire at a fashionable West Lubbock restaurant was choked off partially early Tuesday, by a lack of air, the blaze caused an estimated $200,000 damage and firemen remained on the scene about 3 1/2 hours.

Most of the Brookshire Inn's interior sustained heavy damage during the hour that smoke and flames were visible. Firemen got the call to the 3838 50th St. restaurant-club about 3 a.m.

Reportedly, several bottles of cooking liqueur — used in preparing flaming desserts — were sitting near an oven which apparently was left on after closing Monday night. According to Fire Marshal A.C. Black, the heat caused the bottles to break and the liquid ran down over electrical switches.

The 6,000-square-foot structure suffered extensive smoke damage as flames swept through the rear kitchen and main dining room. The ceiling also was burned.

Owner Richard Arnold said at the scene he estimates his business will be closed for three to five months for repairs.

"It's a hell of a mess, but I will rebuild here," he remarked while walking through the gutted remains. "First, we'll have to get a trash hauler in here, and then the entire ceiling will have to come down."

Arnold said the operation, which he has owned since February, was closed by his employees about 11:30 p.m. Monday.

The four responding fire department units had the blaze under control about 10 minutes after their arrival. However, hidden fires continued to burn for about an hour. Firemen remained at the scene until about 6:30 a.m.

Although the blaze was well under way when the first units arrived, an overhead water pipe in the kitchen area was credited with saving what was left of the structure.

According to District Fire Chief Jack Carlile, the pipe came unsoldered and burst, resulting in a sort of "automatic sprinkler" system.

Visible beneath the sagging ceiling was a buckled beam. Dining room skylights, although melted, did not collapse.

"If they had (collapsed), and if air had gotten in here, we would have been out in the street trying to fight this thing," remarked Bill Hewett, one of the first firemen at the scene. "It had been burning for some time when we got here, but all we saw at first was smoke coming out of the two chimneys."

Several pieces of expensive kitchen equipment, as well as an $8,000 computerized cash register, were melted by the searing heat.

Students Honor Bosses

Employers of Cooperative Health Education (CHE) students of Lubbock public schools are being honored during a banquet Friday in the George M. Brewer Assembly Room at Methodist Hospital.

Approximately 200 students and employers will attend the noon program at the hospital.

Guest speaker will be Ruth Neal of Texas AM University. As a member of the Texas Education Agency, she assists CHE programs in high schools across the state.

George M. Brewer, president of Methodist Hospital, will welcome guests and Doris Keslin, patient care coordinator at the hospital, will respond for employers.

Students participating in the program will be Linda Nixon and Rhonda Speck of Monterey High School and Donna Manis and Becky Baucum of Coronado High School.

Mrs. Jean Cassell of Coronado and Mrs. Helen Payne of Monterey are teacher-coordinators of the CHE program.

Currently, there are students employed in 32 training stations here. They work in hospitals, pharmacies, medical and dental offices, laboratories, nursing homes, clinics and optical companies.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY

Tax shelters! Magic words, and understandably so. After all, who wants to pay taxes if he doesn't have to?

The boom in municipal bonds is evidence of the growing demand for tax relief from investors at all levels of tax liability. Tax-sheltered investments go far beyond municipals, of course. But they are far more complicated and there are caveats which the investor ignores only at his peril.

More problems were added by the Tax Reform Act of 1976. But numerous tax shelter opportunities remain, according to John J. Loughlin, vice president and manager of the Tax Investment Department, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith. And the next words you read will be his:

"The greatest impact of the Tax Reform Act on tax shelters for individuals is, with the exception of real estate, the limiting of deductions to the amount a taxpayer has 'at risk.' The result has been a sharp curtailment of the 2-for-1 or better write-offs investors were able to take in the past.

"However, when dealing with tax shelters, prudence has always been the wisest approach, and a conservative examination of the best tax investments reveals liberal opportunities from the standpoint of both tax advantage and appreciation potential.

"Last summer, the IRS issued a new manual that delineates the boundary between good shelters and abusive ones...I would suggest interested investors, or their accountants, take a look at the new definitions...new guidelines investors should understand. These are summarized thus: 'In the absence of believable and acceptable evidence that the taxpayer hoped for and reasonably expected an economic gain in the tax shelter, the tax deductions would be disallowed.'

"To be valid, a tax shelter should have a reasonable expectation of profit. Tax benefits, such as accelerated depreciation in equipment leasing partnership or tax deferral on funds reinvested in real estate must take the role of an additional inducement to invest, and not represent the primary motivation behind the venture.

"There are still several tax shelters that meet these criteria. For the individual investor in the 50 percent bracket with, say, $20,000 available for a tax sheltered investment, oil and gas drilling programs might be suitable. Similarly, a real estate development, depending upon the individual's financial situation and objectives, could also be appropriate.

"The conduit through which funds are invested in such shelters is the limited partnership, which consists of the investor, or limited partner, and the project operations manager, or general partner. A limited partner's liability is limited to the amount of capital at risk and profits and losses flow through to the partners. The general partner carries on the day-to-day business of the operation and, needless to say, should have a proven record as an expert in the field.

"An illustration of a limited partnership in oil and gas drilling: assume the limited partner is in the 50 percent income tax bracket and has made a pre-tax investment of $20,000.

"Intangible drilling costs are deductible, which means a limited partner can normally deduct 70 to 80 percent of the investment during the first year. Assuming 80 percent deduction, the first year tax savings for the 50 percent tax bracket investor would be $8,000. The net, after-tax, cost of the original $20,000 investment is then $12,000.

"The remaining 20 percent, or $4,000, can usually be deducted the second year. Because the investor is in the 50 percent tax bracket, the second year tax savings are $2,000 and this brings his net after-tax cost of the initial investment down to $10,000—or half his original investment.

"Once oil revenues start flowing, a 22 percent depletion allowance reduces gross taxable income from the wells. The 22 percent remains in effect through 1980 and gradually declines until 1984, when the allowance stabilizes at 15 percent on the first 1,000 barrels the investor takes from the ground each day."

"Tomorrow: Real estate tax shelters. Shulsky welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

HEARTLINE: I have been employed under civil service for eight years. I recently had an automobile accident and my injuries may keep me from ever working again. Can you tell me how I can qualify for a disability annuity? —O.N.

A. To qualify for disability benefits, you must have worked at least five years under civil service. Also, you must be disabled enough to prevent you from efficiently performing your job or a similar position. You need not show that you are disabled for all kinds of jobs.

HEARTLINE: I am 61 and have been divorced for a couple of years. My ex-husband remarried in February of this year. I've heard that since he remarried I am not eligible for Social Security.

I have never worked, so I don't have any Social Security of my own. I want to know if it is true that I can't collect on his Social Security. I need the money badly. —A.D.

A. If you were married for 20 years or more, you are eligible for wife's benefits on your husband's record.

Your ex-husband must be drawing his Social Security benefits before you can start drawing on his work record. If you take your Social Security benefits early (before age 65), you'd have to take a reduction in benefits.

The basic age 65 wife's benefit is 50 percent of the husband's (or ex-husband's) unreduced Social Security benefit. If you take your benefit before 65, you will receive the following percentage of one-half your husband's unreduced benefit:

- Age 62 — 75 percent
- Age 63 — 84.4 percent
- Age 64 — 91.7 percent

HEARTLINE: My brother has joined a group called the National Association of Older Americans. Could you please give me some information on this group. —T.S.

A. The National Association of Older Americans (NAOA) is a group designed to aid older Americans regarding problems or questions they may have. NAOA publishes a monthly newsletter and offers a substantial savings on its members' drug bills.

For a free brochure explaining the NAOA in detail, write Heartline-NAOA, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Charm interests and entertainments will not work out as you wish right now. But you will be able to gain the good will of others and achieve much of a constructive and basic nature.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look at clever friends who are serious for assistance today, since fun pals could only get you in trouble. Be organized and you accomplish a great deal.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Contact important persons you know and gain their good will, support. Get involved in civic matters that can be helpful to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study a new plan you have in mind well and bring it to the attention of bigwigs who can help you with it. Don't be flippant with highups or you gain their ill will.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be very practical in dealing with debtors and creditors and get right results. Pay more attention to the views of a loved one and you keep out of trouble.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Understand what is expected of you by a clever partner and you have more success. Keep promises or you could lose out where it counts most.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Consider the purchase of new appliances to get work done more efficiently. Avoid high-strung, nervous types who could disappoint you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good time to get into creative work but not a good time for frivolity. Show more affection for a loved one, and get a fine response.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Gather all the facts and figures you will need in order to better your financial affairs. Be loyal to the ones you love.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Go after information you need from right sources and use a direct method in dealing with others. Don't let your emotions run away with you. Show that you have self-control and are confident.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have new ideas through which you can add appreciably to your present income. Don't argue with those close to you because you may be wrong.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact good friends who are able to help you in some way. Listen to their suggestions. Forget that frivolity you have in mind and show you are a stable person.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Rely on your experiences in the past in order to set up a better arrangement for the future. A new contact offers a scheme that's not for you.

Son Born To Princess Anne

AWAIT BIRTH—Police stand guard at the entrance to St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington, here Tuesday morning, after Britain's Princess Anne had been taken in during the early hours of the morning to await the delivery of her first child. (AP Laserphoto)

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne gave birth to a 7-pound, 9-ounce boy Tuesday, crowning Queen Elizabeth II's Silver Jubilee with her first grandchild. But the royal baby — born a commoner — will be known as just plain Master Phillips.

Champagne flowed, flags were raised and a 41-gun salute was fired as word reached the royally-loving British public that the baby had arrived. He was born at 10:46 a.m. in St. Mary's Hospital here.

Both the 27-year-old princess and son were reported doing "fine" in a $100-a-day private room. The proud father, Capt. Mark Phillips, told a throng of reporters: "She is very well and the baby is very well."

Queen Elizabeth, 51, rushed into a Buckingham Palace investiture ceremony 10 minutes late and joyously broke the news.

"I must apologize for being late but I have just had a message from the hospital. My daughter has just given birth to a son," the breathless, radiant grandmother told the crowd awaiting her.

"It's a boy," shouted the front pages of London's evening newspapers. The royal tidings pushed all mention of the country's first firefighters' strike out of the headlines and eclipsed other news.

It was the first time in history that an English monarch's grandchild was born without a title. The strong-willed princess and husband did not want traditional courtesy titles passed onto their children.

The newborn is fifth in the line of succession to the throne, after the queen's three sons and his mother. Since any sons born to his three uncles will take precedence, his chances of becoming king are remote.

The baby came a day after Princess Anne and her equestrian husband celebrated their fourth wedding anniversary with a quiet dinner-for-two at Buckingham Palace. They were said to be disappointed the baby didn't come on Monday, which was also Prince Charles' birthday.

At 4 a.m., Anne went into labor and the queen's gynecologist, George Pinker, was called to the palace. After a quick examination, Phillips drove his wife in their Rover Sedan to the hospital.

After the baby was born, the Army captain telephoned the queen, who talked to her daughter and then went to the investiture.

The official announcement from Buckingham Palace said:

"Her Royal Highness, the Princess Anne, Mrs. Mark Phillips, was safely delivered of a son at St. Mary's hospital at 10:46 a.m. Her Royal Highness and her son are both doing well."

No courtiers attended the birth, only Anne's husband. And the Home Secretary never had a chance to announce the birth, as was once constitutionally required. The news came informally from the queen.

Congratulations poured in from relatives, politicians and the British public. Father-in-law Peter Phillips said: "I'm absolutely delighted for them both. I was hoping for a boy."

Queen Elizabeth's husband Prince Philip received the news that he is a grandfather in Germany where he is visiting relatives. Anne's older brother, Prince Charles, heir to the throne, heard about his first nephew while fox hunting in Yorkshire. "He was off like billy-ho!" exclaimed one of his companions.

Anne's two younger brothers, Princes Andrew and Edward, were away at their private school in Scotland.

Prime Minister James Callaghan sent a telegram to Princess Anne, that read: "The nation rejoices with you and will wish long life and happiness to your son and to his parents."

But anti-royalist Willie Hamilton, a Labor member of Parliament who wants to do away with the monarchy, remarked: "How charming — another one on the payroll."

Planes Target Of Terrorist Bomb Threat

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Armored cars patrolled runways and police searched every suitcase at West German airport terminals Tuesday in the face of a terrorist threat to blow up three Lufthansa jetliners in flight.

Helicopters and mounted police checked airports from Hamburg to Munich, looking for possible missile-launching sites. Some fearful passengers canceled reservations.

The threats were contained in letters signed by the Red Army Faction promising to avenge the deaths of three jailed German anarchists in a Stuttgart prison Oct. 18. Every Lufthansa passenger must know that "death will be on board" after Nov. 15, the letters said.

There were no incidents reported on the first day of the deadline.

"After El Al, we must be the most security conscious airline in the world today," said a Lufthansa booking clerk at Cologne airport. Many of the precautions had been pioneered by the Israeli airline.

At Munich's Riem airport, Lufthansa seat bookings were reported down by 10 per cent. Many domestic flights flew half-empty, but airline officials noted Wednesday will be a German holiday and slow travel day.

An airline spokesman said: "A lot of people are still flying. They aren't letting themselves be frightened off."

Protective measures also were imposed at American and other foreign airports. The U.S. Coast Guard patrolled waters near airports in New York, Boston and Philadelphia for "suspicious-looking craft."

It was feared the terrorists might try to shoot down the jetliners using portable ground-to-air missiles from hidden rocket-launching sites. German pilots were ordered to fly special missile-evasion patterns.

The three anarchists — Andreas Baader, Gudrun Ensslin and Jan-Carl Raspe — were found dead or dying in their prison cells a day after German commandos stormed a hijacked Lufthansa plane in Mogadishu, Somalia, and freed all 85 hostages aboard.

Their deaths were ruled suicides by the Bonn government but leftist extremists claim the three were murdered by German authorities.

Lufthansa and several news agencies received the threatening letters two weeks ago. They read: "For each comrade assassinated, we shall blow up a Lufthansa plane in flight. There will be no way to prevent that. Therefore, everyone should know that if he boards a German plane on Nov. 15 or afterward, death will be on board."

YOU DON'T PUMP A LOT OF MONEY INTO A SUBARU.

46 Highway/31 City MPG

DI 2 DOOR SEDAN

Because our SEEC T engine doesn't need a catalytic converter, our cars run on regular gas. Not the more expensive unleaded.

Your actual mileage may vary because of the way you drive, driving conditions, the condition of your car and whatever optional equipment you might have.

But with the mileage Subaru delivers on regular, it will be a long time before your wallet goes from full to empty.

State Agents To Examine Death Evidence

A-J Correspondent

BIG SPRING — The Texas Attorney General's office is sending two agents to Midland today to read statements evolving from the Nov. 6 shooting of a Mexican national, Tibureio Griego Santome. Santome, 37, was shot to death by G.B. Thurwanger, 51, of Stanton after Santome had been arrested by Glasscock County sheriff Royce Pruitt and loaded into a police car.

According to an investigation, directed by District Attorney Rick Hamby of Big Spring, Thurwanger grabbed a pistol off the dashboard and fired at Santome after the Mexican national allegedly had attacked him and Sheriff Pruitt with a butcher knife he had hidden in his belt.

Santome had been arrested in St. Lawrence during the annual fall festival and was being taken to jail in Garden City.

Thurwanger, who was visiting Pruitt at the time, is a former peace officer and is now employed by an oil company.

The two agents being sent to Midland by Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill are Ed Idar and Dan Maeso. They are officially identified as assistant attorneys general.

Hamby will meet with the two in Midland.

Thurwanger and Pruitt are both former Dawson County deputies.

Murder Defendant Testifies Killing Of Lover Accidental

By PAT PATRICK
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A red-eyed Debra Gay Adair testified Tuesday she never meant to kill her lover when she pulled a gun on him during an argument April 2 and it went off, sending a bullet into his brain.

During some three tearful hours on the stand, Miss Adair depicted John Michael Burks as a young man with a violent temper who struck her often during their 4 1/2-year-long love affair.

She said that when he appeared at her home about 2 a.m. on the fatal night, she pocketed the gun before going outside to talk to him because "I was scared of Michael and I wasn't going to let him in."

Report Disputed

Prosecutor Chuck Bailey suggested, however, that Miss Adair, 26, was "mad" because Burks stood her up for a date earlier in the evening.

He pointed out that, according to her testimony, there had been no violence in their relationship for some time — in contrast to her tales of frequently being beaten until they quit living together in July, 1976.

"He hadn't hit you in the last couple of months, had he?" Bailey asked.

"Not that I remember," the thin, dark blonde defendant said.

"Why didn't you unload the gun?" he asked.

"I don't know," she murmured.

Followed Into House

Bailey referred to testimony that after going outside to talk to Burks who had been lying down in his car, Miss Adair went back into her 5112 35th St. residence, followed by her boyfriend.

"It was late, he had worked all day and then been out with friends. Why didn't you just let him lie there on the bed, instead of trying to make him leave?" Bailey continued, pressing the idea Miss Adair was trying to provoke an argument.

"I didn't want him to stay," she answered.

"Why didn't you let him sleep on the couch, to avoid a problem?" Bailey asked.

Argument Point Pressed

"Isn't it true that you wanted to fight with him, to argue with him because he went out with his friends?"

"No," Miss Adair said.

"Miss Adair, you lived with the man for 4 1/2 years. During that time, did you consider it necessary to defend yourself with a gun?" Bailey demanded, his voice rising.

"I...I..." she said, pausing. Then the defendant looked down. "No, no," she finished.

Final Arguments Stated

A six-man, six-woman jury is slated to begin deliberations in the case this morning, after final arguments in the 99th District Court.

Dist. Judge George Miller of Floydada, presiding over a special "impact" court here, is expected to present a charge to the panel which would allow it to consider Miss Adair's guilt or innocence on murder or voluntary manslaughter.

Miss Adair testified Tuesday Burks once threatened to disfigure her, and that he also kicked her in the mouth, breaking two of her teeth.

"He told me once, 'If I ever, ever catch you running around on me, I'm going to mess you up so bad that no one will ever look at you again,'" she said.

Kicked In Mouth

She said that after a party he accused her of flirting with another man. "He jerked me around by the hair and threw me down, and then he kicked me in the mouth and it broke two of my teeth."

Her attorney, John Davis of Levelland, asked why she kept living with Burks if he treated her so badly.

"Because I loved him and he loved me. There were a lot of times that he would hit me, and then he would be so sorry," she replied.

Miss Adair said she moved out of the house she and Burks shared at 2214-A 15th St. in July, 1976, after he demanded she leave.

He was "furious," she related, because she had gone to a nightclub with girlfriends after he told her not to.

She said she was so frightened of him then, she didn't tell him with whom she was staying.

Miss Adair testified she feared for her life the night Burks was killed.

After entering her house, he began "hitting me with his open palm. I tried to scream and he kept putting his hand on my mouth and his hand covered my nose and mouth and I couldn't breathe," she stated.

Yelling And Cussing

She said she finally got loose and darted across a bed. "He was yelling and cussing. I took the gun out of my pocket."

"Did you cock it?" her lawyer asked.

"Yes," she said.

"Why?" he asked. "I don't know," she answered.

Miss Adair said Burks noticed the gun in her hand and told her, "Go ahead, go ahead."

The young woman continued: "Then he started toward me and the gun went off and he just slumped into the chair. I thought he was just kind of surprised, kind of shocked...."

"I walked over and put it down. Then I went into the living room and then...."

After a pause and sob, Miss Adair finished. "Then he sounded like he took a breath and it was an awful sound and I thought, 'Oh, my God.'"

Davis asked if she checked on Burks' condition.

Called Ambulance, Police

"No," she said. "I went to the phone and called the operator and told her to get an ambulance and the police."

A former co-worker of Miss Adair's tried to buttress the self defense tale.

Phyllis Little said that several days after the death night, Miss Adair had visible bruises on her throat and said the defendant told her they were the result of Burks trying to strangle her.

Bailey pointed out police photos of Miss Adair, taken within a few hours of the purported violent attack, show no marks on the woman.

The prosecutor also drew attention to a statement Miss Adair gave police then and which was admitted into evidence Monday.

"Why didn't you tell the police that he choked you?...You didn't say that one time in your statement. Isn't it because it didn't happen?" he asked.

"It's true," averred the Levelland Methodist minister's daughter.

Bailey also produced testimony from friends of Burks and the dead man's mother that they had never known the 27-year-old to have a violent temper.

Astronomy Club Plans Star Party

The public is invited to a Star Party to be held by the South Plains Astronomy Club beginning at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the parking lot of the Museum of Texas Tech University.

If the skies are cloudy Friday, the party will be held the following evening at the same time.

Several telescopes of various sizes will be set up for participants to view astronomical objects. There also will be facilities for some astro-photography.

Coffee will be provided in the lobby of the Museum.

The South Plains Astronomy Club is an organization of local and area residents who enjoy star gazing. Membership is open to the public.

Art Sale Planned For Hobbs Mall

A-J Correspondent

HOBBS — A variety of art, including oils, watercolors, ceramics and charcoals, will be sold from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in Broadmoor Mall.

The sale, which also will include artists' demonstrations, is sponsored by the Llano Estacado Art Association.

"The pre-holiday art show used to be an annual event, which is now being revived," Terry Bumpass, co-president of the art association, said. "If it is a success, we hope to continue the show each year."

Message To Washington

STRUGGLING WITH IRS

MESSAGE—I am having a problem with the Internal Revenue Service and I hope you can help. I had a local tax accounting agency file my tax return for me in 1976. Their figures showed that I had overpaid $724 for the year and, therefore, I would receive a refund in that amount. When I got my refund check, however, it was for only $551. I have since written the IRS twice to ask for an accounting of the missing $173, but I have not received any reply. Can they do this without even offering an explanation?—J.W., Dallas

SENATOR BENTSEN RESPONDS—Your $173 is on the way. IRS officials explain that when certain deductions which might require verification are claimed, that portion of the tax refund is sometimes delayed. On reviewing your return, though, they determined that no further substantiation was required and a check with interest, has been mailed to you.

HAM RADIO BUDDIES

MESSAGE—A good friend of mine, a Mexican citizen, is coming to Houston to undergo treatment in a local hospital. We are both avid amateur radio operators and my friend would like to operate his station while he is in the hospital. This would enable him to advise his wife of his situation, plus provide a break from the loneliness of being hospitalized in a foreign country. Considering the fact that U.S. and Canadian citizens have reciprocity in the amateur license field, I feel that there surely must be some way to extend that hospitality to our southern neighbors. Can you help my friend get a temporary license from the Federal Communications Commission?—F.C., Houston

SENATOR BENTSEN RESPONDS—I am sorry to report that since there is no reciprocal amateur broadcasting agreement between the U.S. and Mexico, your friend cannot obtain a temporary F.C.C. permit. Our State Department advises me that they raise the topic regularly during discussions with Mexican officials but the officials are not convinced that such an agreement would be in the best interests of their country.

Editor's Note: Senator Bentsen will resume his MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON when Congress reconvenes in January.

Do you have a problem with government? MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON cuts through the red tape to get answers to your questions about Social Security, veteran benefits, immigration matters and other problems you may have run into in your dealings with the Federal Government in Washington. Write MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON c/o Senator Lloyd Bentsen, U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510. Inquiries to MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON are sometimes edited before publication, but the intent and substance of the inquiries are maintained.

Plus new direct service to Tulsa.

Continental is making it easier than ever to get to Oklahoma City. Because we've got the only nonstop 727's going. And that means it'll be easier to make connections on other carriers to points beyond, like Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, New York, Memphis, Kansas City and other major cities.

But that's not all we've got going from Lubbock. We also have new exclusive no-change-of-plane service to Tulsa, where you can connect to our new direct service to Tampa and Miami. And every time you fly, you'll have plenty of room to stretch out on our spacious 727's, plus stereo entertainment that's music to your ears.

Who else but Continental would make a good thing better with new improved service to Oklahoma City, Tulsa and beyond? For reservations, call your travel agent, company travel department or Continental at 763-8031.

THE DATE PASSED without a great amount of noise, fanfare or hoopla around these parts. South of here about 150 miles, last Saturday was Something Special, however.

It's about this time every year that the leaves turn color, the nights turn a shade nippy, and the season turns men into liars.

Throughout the state, this is deer-hunting season—it opened last Saturday. In the region south of I-20, this season brings a completely different atmosphere. Cars and Jeeps suddenly sprout horns, dignified businessmen sprout scraggly beards in public, and farmers hurriedly scrawl "I Am A Cow" on ole Bossy's back.

I'm told that the sight of a graceful deer bounding through the brush has led more than one hunter's finger to freeze just a fraction on an inch from the trigger of a 30-30. But, buck fever never kept that same hunter from telling, once he returned home, how the deer was really out of range or ducked behind a tree, thus cutting off his line of fire.

The venison is secondary; the hunt's the thing, and no rack ever went into a den or office without a tale to match. It's both fascinating and amusing to listen to these yarns. Strengthens one's faith in the old saying about the first liar never having a chance.

BUT, ABOUT THIS time every year in the Hill Country—and the Trans-Pecos—deer hunting becomes No. 1. Having lived in this region, one learns to separate the goods from the averages—both deer racks and stories. It's not been my lot to hunt, only to listen to the stories.

Some yarns you forget before the coffee gets cold, others remain in one's memory bank. None, however, matches that told by a colleague, a sports writer.

In his day, the late Blondy Cross was known widely throughout West Texas for his predictions as well as his eccentricities. By no criterion was Blondy your average sports writer. He built his following in the 1930s and '40s, and his readers stayed with him. Usually, they spoke of him with (expletive deleted), but they read him. He had that knack of making people boil.

THIS ONE YEAR, Blondy slipped away from his typewriter to accompany a friend on a hunting trip in Big Bend country. Although a hunter of average talent, he wasn't so much interested in a mule deer as a chance to tag along.

Seems there were three of them—Blondy, his hunter friend and one landowner —as they set out in the pickup. Once they reached their spot, the landowner-guide saddled up a horse and circled out, to drive any prospective bucks into this small box canyon, where he had parked the pickup and where the friend—rifle at the ready—and Blondy waited.

Well, it took the guide longer than expected to make his sweep. Finally, Blondy and the rifleman tired of waiting and watching, so they looked around for a diversion. Checking the bed of the pickup, they found an old softball, a baseball glove and a bat. Voila! A game of pitch and catch.

Here they were, out in the High Lonesome, not a Chavez Ravine within a thousand miles, and the two were playing catch. Blondy was batting, the friend who had forsaken his rifle was pitching.

THIS WAS THE scene, then, as time went by... when out of the canyon came this scrambling noise. Sure enough, a big buck came bounding through the canyon in their direction. Blondy's friend grabbed his rifle, and in his rush to get in position in the canyon, slipped, slid and fell down the bank, losing his rifle in the process.

Now, here stood Blondy, a bat on his shoulder, watching the onrushing deer, his scrambling friend, and the guide and his horse trotting up in the distance. The buck headed straight at Blondy, and it was the most bewildered of the four—some, as it arrived at the end of the canyon—and with no place to go.

Those who knew Blondy will agree he was never slow on the uptake. He'd been an amateur fighter in his college days at TCU and an unbeaten one at that. He knew how to handle himself in a tight, so...

Wham! Off his shoulder came that bat, and he creamed that buck right between the eyes.

The muley was down for the count. By the time the rifleman had retrieved his weapon, and the horseman had ridden up, Blondy was standing over his trophy reloading his softball bat.

Well, they used the rifle to kill the stunned deer, the friend had his trophy, the landowner could always take visitors out to one of the most inaccessible ball parks in the West. And Blondy had something new to write about.

That rack may never make it in Boone and Crockett, the baseball bat will never make it to Cooperstown. And his detractors wouldn't believe the story anyway. But, just like the buck, that wouldn't faze Blondy Cross.

Honest.

Bowl Picture Taking Shape

NEW YORK (AP) — As rumored, Notre Dame will go to the Cotton Bowl, Penn State to the Orange Bowl and the Ohio State-Michigan loser to the Sugar Bowl. The Associated Press learned Tuesday.

Ohio State or Michigan) vs. the Pacific-8 Conference representative (UCLA, Washington or Stanford).
Gator Bowl—Clemson vs. an opponent to be selected.

Liberty Bowl—North Carolina vs. an opponent to be selected.
Fiesta Bowl—Western Athletic Conference champion (probably Arizona State) vs. Arkansas.

Bluebonnet Bowl—The Texas-Texas A&M loser vs. possibly Iowa State or a West Coast team, perhaps UCLA or Southern California, the latter still an attractive name despite a so-so 6-4 record.

Tangerine Bowl—Texas Tech vs. Florida State. Tech appears locked in, State isn't, although Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, a Florida State grad, is pushing for the Seminoles.

Peach Bowl—North Carolina State vs. an opponent to be selected.
Independence Bowl—Louisiana Tech, the Southland Conference king, vs. either Colgate, East Carolina or Louisville.

Hall of Fame Classic—Who knows? "Opponent to be selected" translates into Pitt, Iowa State, California, Stanford, Southern Cal, UCLA, Florida, North Texas State and Maryland. Pitt will vote today among the Gator, Liberty, Bluebonnet and Hall of Fame bowls.

The Sugar Bowl reportedly had been trying to convince Notre Dame, which wants to play for the national championship, that No. 1-ranked Texas could lose to rugged Texas A&M Nov. 26 and thus replace the Longhorns as the host team in the Cotton Bowl. Notre Dame, it was suggested, could then play Alabama, which currently is ranked No. 2 but likely would move up to the top should Texas lose.

Tech-Tangerine Match Appears Solidified

By CARTER CROWWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Indications are very strong that the Tangerine Bowl will extend a bid to Texas Tech Saturday, whether the Raiders defeat Houston in the next-to-last game of their regular season.

The Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel-Star reported that the bowl, based in Orlando, would do this, and The Avalanche-Journal has received the same indications from sources.

When asked about the possibility, one source grinned and said, "Well, I'd say there's a real good chance of it turning out that way."

The NCAA office told The A-J Tuesday that bowls can extend invitations to teams immediately following afternoon games or at 6 p.m. if a team under consideration is playing a night contest. The Avalanche-Journal had been told previously by the Southwest Conference office that a bowl considering a team that is playing Saturday night must wait until after that game to invite the school.

The A-J reported Tuesday that the Texas Tech players had voted Monday overwhelmingly in favor of accepting a bid from the Tangerine Bowl if one is tendered.

Head coach Steve Sloan had said Monday that the Hall of Fame and Tangerine Bowls were the ones considering Tech the most seriously and that the decision would be left to the players if the Raiders had a choice.

The players favored the Tangerine Bowl, because it is more established—having begun in 1946, while this is the Hall of Fame Bowl's first year—and because of the greater variety of outside activities in Orlando, compared to Birmingham, Ala., the site of the Hall of Fame Bowl.

Tech, 7-2 for the season, will follow the Houston clash with a regular-season-ending contest against Arkansas Thanksgiving Day.

Taylor Finds Moves Return

By CARTER CROMWELL
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Billy Taylor lived in Houston last summer and worked out daily with a number of University of Houston players, and the thought was often expressed that Saturday's Texas Tech-Houston game might have as much riding on it as the 1976 contest did.

But things haven't worked out that way. Injuries at key positions have knocked both teams out of the running for the SWC title.

"I remember talking to Anthony Francis and Alois Blackwell (Houston players) before the season and saying that this game might mean the SWC title again," Taylor said. "But no one can predict how those injuries will fall. I guess."

Tech has been overcoming its injuries lately, though. The offense has improved, particularly in the last two games, in which the Raiders have scored 94 points and sustained some long drives.

Taylor has been a principal factor, rushing for 278 yards and seven touchdowns against TCU and SMU.

"I felt quicker last week than I have all season," Taylor said. "My moves started to come back, too. I was beginning to wonder if I had any moves left. I don't know why I hadn't done as well as I expected to do before. Maybe it was a mental thing."

"I think one of the big things lately is that the team is jelling. Everybody had a good game against SMU, and the play selection was excellent."

NOTES: Head coach Steve Sloan said Tuesday that offensive tackles Ken Walter and Dan Irons, tight end Gregg Adkins and defensive tackle Kijon Taliaferro were not able to practice. All have knee problems. Quarterback Rodney Allison is still limping noticeably, also. "The muscles around where the break was are still real sore," Sloan said. "He felt real good at the start of the SMU game — about 90 per cent — but the leg got weaker as the game went on. I'm hoping that he'll continue to progress, though."

Sloan said the Raiders started putting in their game plan for Houston. "Houston has a lot of play-action passes, and they're very deceptive with them," he said. "They're difficult to defend."

SILVERTON WINS TWO
The Silverton girls defeated Lockney 50-36. Twila Wood led Silverton with 34 points. Debra Hrbacek topped Lockney with 16. Silverton is 4-0.

The Silverton boys topped Lockney 67-47. Jackie Vaughn scored 41 points to lead the winners, while Tom Reedley topped Lockney with 18. Silverton is 1-1.

IDALOU GIRLS TRIUMPH
Idalou's girls won their first game of the season, 59-56 over Frenship. Arinda Speer's 36 points led the winners while Tonya Ivie's 28 topped the Frenship scorers, now 0-1.

MULESHOE TAKES TWO
Muleshoe's boys and girls both opened seasons successfully against Bovina. The boys won 58-34 behind Billy Vinson's 14 points. Roy and Gerald Shelby each had 8 for the losers. The girls won 52-39 as Shelby Dunham headed the winners with 23 while Belinda Shelby had 17 for Bovina.

DIMMITT OPENS WITH WIN
Dimmitt's boys opened the season by blasting Channing 73-40. Mark Summers led the winners with 16 while Tim Price paced Channing (3-1) with 20.

Channing's girls (4-0 for the year) downed Dimmitt 60-44 as Kathy Cribbs and Terri Manley scored 21 points apiece for the winners and Lori Dyer led Dimmitt with 19.

OLTON OPENS STRONG
Olton bopped Tulia's girls 57-39 in the season opener for both teams. Melome Whitten and Dusty Kinnison guided Olton with 38 and 13 points respectively. Debra Blankenship topped Tulia's scorers with 29.

The Klondike girls defeated New Home 85-54. Paige Echols had 37 points for Klondike, while D.J. Hiracheta had 32 for New Home. New Home is 2-2.

The New Home boys topped Klondike 55-54. Marty McClintock had 18 points for the winners, while Jerry Riley had 16 for Klondike. New Home is 1-1.

ALPINE (Special)—Sul Ross State blistered the nets for a 90 per cent field-goal shooting effort in the first half and held on to nip Lubbock Christian College 95-93 Tuesday night.

The hot shooting allowed the winners to lead through most of the first half and carry a 53-48 edge into the locker room at halftime. Sul Ross finished the night at 67 per cent with 36 of 64 from the field.

The Chaparrals led 2-0 at the outset but trailed by 10 points through much of the second half.

Vic Flores and Robert Sekal paced the winners with 25 and 12 points respectively. Mike Kahler and Mike Wrinkle headed the LCC attack with 17 and 16 points each.

LCC outscored Sul Ross 40-35. The two teams met again Friday night in the LCC Fieldhouse at 7:30 p.m.

LSU Drops Russian Team

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A 20-foot jump shot by Jordy Hultberg gave LSU a 99-96 victory over the touring Russian National basketball team in a wild double overtime exhibition game Tuesday.

"I was a bit surprised by the way he (Kirkman) shot from the outside," winning coach Joe Michalka said following the game. "He really came through from out there and that allowed us to break up their zone a little."

Although both teams played with the usual first-game jitters, Michalka said he was pleased with the overall performance of "his young team."

"We didn't lose our poise, and for a young team like ours that's saying a lot," Michalka said.

The Plainsmen, who wound up hitting 18-48 shots from the field, had more than his share of opportunities to lose their poise in the game which saw the lead change hands 16 times.

Monterey saw their 4-point, first-quarter lead disappearing in the second quarter when the cold-shooting Cougars put on a last-minute spurt.

During the second stanza the lead saw-sawed back and forth with the Cougars winding up with a slim 3-point lead going into the locker room at halftime.

After exchanging the lead eight times in the quarter, Cooper grabbed command with 2:04 left in the half when Woody Martin hit a lay up to give the Cougars a 25-24 lead.

Following another layup by Martin, Kirkman banged home a nifty 10-foot jumper to cut margin by 1.

Bobby Miers, however tossed in an easy jumper from only a couple of feet out to give the Cougars its 3-point halftime lead.

The Cougars cooled off considerable in the second half.

City Boxers Gain Finals

A pair of Lubbock boxers, just getting their starts in Texas, went almost as far as they could go in New Mexico.

Mario Martinez and James Sherman, invited to compete in the New Mexico Golden Gloves Novice Tournament, lost in the state finals last weekend.

The two, along with Gilbert Castillo and Carlos Martinez of Loveland, were the only out-of-staters invited to compete in the New Mexico meet.

Mario Martinez, following a first-round bye, defeated Mike Jauregui of Roswell, then decided Johnny Serrano of Albuquerque in the semifinals. The Lubbock boxer then lost to Joseph Chacon of Taos in the finals of the 112-pound class.

Sherman also had a first-round bye but won by default over Dar Lente of Phil. N.M. In the finals, Sherman lost to Ray Ornelas of Belen. Sherman was fighting in the 119-pound class.

Both fighters are members of the Warriors Boxing Club here.

However, after Sims' untimely departure, Burrell was given the ball as often as five times in a row. "What impressed me was the hard shots he took," Kelley said. "Sweetwater knew he was going to get the ball, and they really hit him."

Burrell exited the game on three different occasions with injuries. Also nominated by local coaches were Bobby Mitchell of Lubbock High who scored a touchdown and rushed for 72 yards, Willie Anderson of Dunbar who wound up with 57 yards on 16 carries and Duane Smith of Monterey.

Smith, seeing his first action on the varsity unit after playing for Monterey's unbeaten junior varsity, rushed for 96 yards on 13 carries and scored three touchdowns.

Garnering the offensive lineman honor is Nathan Lewis of Lubbock High. Lewis, a 187-pound tackle, is a senior. Cooks of Dunbar, Dewey Turner of Estacado and Craig Potts of Monterey, also drew mentions.

Dunbar's Jimmy Smith picked off a pair of Lake View aerials during the Panthers 29-13 loss to the state-ranked Chiefs and also notched three unassisted tackles to cop the defensive back of the week award.

Cited along with Smith were Mike Chatham of Estacado, Scott Boulter of Monterey and Chris Bigham of Lubbock High.

Neal Thomas of Monterey had 11 unassisted tackles in the Plainsmen's 46-0 win over Hereford to garner the defensive lineman's honor.

Mentioned were Roger Young of Lubbock, Danny McCutcheon of Dunbar and Fred Dunn of Estacado.

MHS Linemen Learned From Tie With Rider

By TOM HALLIBURTON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
That 13-13 tie with Wichita Falls Rider taught Monterey's offensive line some valuable lessons, says Plainsmen coach James Odom.

"We learned a whole bunch that night," Odom recalled. "We learned that we got our tails whipped."

And with that teaching session completed, the young Plainsmen blocking pupils gradually progressed toward the start of district play. Since then, it's been full speed ahead for the young crew.

While other areas of the team played with experience, most of the line started its first season of varsity ball. Tackle Scott Allford (245) and guard Craig Potts (205) returned to beef up the strong side. The others needed seasoning. Tony Loggins (175) moved to tight end from guard. Larry Bradley gained the starting center's role after Ricky Bairrington quit the team.

Chris Anderson (190) and George Morris (230) won weakside guard and tackle positions, but it all took awhile for the offense to jell.

"They've made a lot of progress in the last two or three games. It's been kind of spotty. One week we would get a good game out of one of them. The next week, one or two others would play well. I think maybe we expected too much out of them for awhile. We've played with some real big kids and it took some of them a little while to get in shape," Odom said.

It took awhile for Monterey's offense to shape up, too. But since Oct. 1, the Plainsmen have scored 230 points in their last six games. At that juncture, Monterey also changed its offensive look considerably.

WILMINGTON PUNISHED
FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The Hoosier-Buckeye Conference placed Wilmington College on two-year probation Tuesday for aid violations to athletes in eight sports, a spokesman for the league announced.

Defensively, Eagle stalwarts appear to be Hoover and McCormick at linebacker, Daylan Sellers at tackle and Wesley Smith at end. Petersburg and Vega have only one common foe: Kress, which finished 8-2. Petersburg rolled over the Kangaroos 49-20 the third week of the season and Vega nipped Kress 13-0 last week for the 3-A title. And, ironically, both games were played in Kress.

Both teams are playoff wise, as Vega won league titles in 63-66-67-71-73, advancing to the finals last time. Petersburg has won 12 crowns, including winning of sharing it five times this decade, including the last four years.

The Buffs' attack is led by junior Mike Jones, who has amassed 1,965 yards on 328 carries this year in addition to catching three passes for 26 yards and returning 16 punts and kickoffs for 328 more, a total of 2,319 yards, or 6.7 every time he touches the pigskin.

But coach Gary Gaines feels his offensive unit will have a challenge. "Vega has given us only 37 points all year and has shut out six opponents. We're excited about being in the playoffs, but we're going to have to be ready."

Gaines indicated that the Buffs will continue to pass "9, 10 times a game." And if they do throw, tight end David Vaughn will likely be in the spotlight. He has 32 catches for 544 yards and three TDs this year.

Defensively, Vaughn and Wes McLaughlin team at linebacker to lead Petersburg. Vaughn has 81 tackles, 30 assists and one fumble recovery this year.

Improvement Along The Way

IRVING — DANDY DON'S fickle of buddy, Mo—surely the guy's a household word by now. Mo's last name is Mentum, and he's sort of a hard character to describe. But you know when Mo's around cause you can sense his presence.

Tony Dorsett's effect on the Dallas Cowboys' offense kinda resembles Mo's effect around folks. It's difficult to always point up in black and white figures, but you can feel it.

The Cowboy rookie talked about it Monday night in the Dallas locker room. The 24-17 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals in front of Dandy Dan and the national television watchers was Dorsett's first defeat in 21 games. Dallas entered the game with an 8-0 season and Dorsett's collegiate team, Pitt, went 12-0 last year. The Panthers also thrashed Kansas in the Sun Bowl at the end of Dorsett's junior year. So the last setback was a 7-6 nation-the Cowboys used Pearson through most of the final 10 minutes because of his receiving ability.

Other Heisman winners might rant and rave at the coach for such tactics, but Dorsett tries to walk a fine line.

"It will help me to really get untracked if I can play a full game. I feel I'm capable of being a starter. It seems like any time I come into the game, we start moving. I don't know if it's my presence or what it is. But how much I play is out of my jurisdiction to worry about," he said.

Dorsett's coach, Tom Landry, also admitted after the game, "If he keeps running well, we're going to have to use him more in the next few games."

The prize rookie hopes the chance comes Sunday when he returns near his old stomping grounds as Dallas plays at Pittsburgh.

"It's a big game for me to get back home and see my parents. But I'm not going to say it's bigger than any of the others," he said.

Perhaps, it's the great ability or maybe it's all the pressure and public demands, but Dorsett carefully is adjusting to his place on a consistent winning pro organization. The hoopla of the Heisman Trophy and the pro draft and the first summer in training camp have faded. The talented tailback just tries to help make Dallas a Super Bowl champion, that's all.

"I feel like I contribute. I never know how much I'm getting to play from one week to the next, so I'm through being surprised. But all of the adjustments are behind me. I know the offense well enough that I can play regularly," he added.

DALLAS CARRIES SIX runningbacks on the roster — Robert Newhouse, Doug Dennison, Scott Laidlaw, Larry Brinson, Pearson and Dorsett. Each possesses more experience than Dorsett except for Brinson. None of the others can claim the pressure or national interest, though. Once the Heisman Trophy ballots were counted, Dorsett expected to attract the attention especially on a glamor team like Dallas. So does the swift runner intend to turn into another Heisman loser?

"Naw, I'm not about to stop. I just go out and try to do my best each day. Right now, the big test is whether we can bounce back against Pittsburgh," he said.

For the most part, Landry expressed disappointment after the loss. The veteran coach thought his team "had not played well in the last few weeks and was asking for it."

And when one announcer asked if the coach left the game with any positive vibes, Landry quickly responded, "There's nothing positive that I ever see out of a game when we lose."

But the stoic coach's face did light up a bit when he said, "Tony's running is getting better and better."

Dorsett finished the night with 16 carries for 50 yards. His longest gain of the game only amounted to 9 yards, a far cry from so many of his long-distance journeys against all those Penn State and Notre Dame defenses. But there's every indication to believe that those opportunities may come again. On a fulltime basis.

DOESN'T LIKE WHAT HE SEES — Tom Landry, head coach of the Dallas Cowboys, wears a pained expression as he watches his team go down to defeat at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals 24-17 Monday night. Butch Johnson, a Cowboy wide receiver, watches the play on the field. (AP Laserphoto)

Cowboy Coach Ponders Changes Following Loss To Cardinals

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas coach Tom Landry, with gloating St. Louis Cardinals closing in from behind and a vicious five-game stretch ahead, indicates some changes are in store for the sputtering Cowboy offense.

And that's where heralded rookie runningback Tony Dorsett comes in. "We have to use Tony more because he is running good," Landry said after the rejuvinated Cardinals rallied Monday night to hand the Cowboys their first defeat 24-17 and pull to within two games of their bitter rivals in the NFC East.

Landry said at his weekly press luncheon there was the "possibility" Dorsett will be in the starting lineup over veteran Preston Pearson Sunday against Pittsburgh.

"We're not positive on it, but it may happen," said Landry. "We haven't made a definite decision, but Tony will continue to play more."

The object of Landry's concern is the Cowboys' recent spotty showing and a punishing season-ending stretch that includes road games against Pittsburgh, Washington and San Francisco and home clashes with Philadelphia and Denver. Meanwhile, the 6-3 Cardinals, who have won five straight, face only the New York Giants and hapless Tampa Bay on the road and host Philadelphia, Miami and Washington.

"We haven't played good for the last three or four weeks and a loss was inevitable," said Landry after Dallas dropped to 8-1. "The Cardinals have made things interesting again in the division, particularly with us going to Pittsburgh next week. Now it's going to be tough."

In response, Conrad Dobler, the Cardinals' controversial offensive guard, jubilantly cackled, "We're moving along now. Dallas has some tough ones coming up and by chance if they happen to give us the championship, we'll take it."

Dorsett, the Cowboys' leading ground-gainer and a second-stringer behind Pearson, sat out the first quarter and much of the third but breathed life into the sluggish Dallas offense in the second period.

Dallas hadn't managed a first down until Dorsett entered the game and caught a 10-yard pass early in the second quarter. He then darted for gains of four and six yards before plunging one yard for the first of two second-quarter touchdowns. Running with abandon, the 1976 Heisman Trophy winner ended the game with 50 yards and the touchdown, snared three passes for 33 yards and served as a decoy to spring Robert Newhouse for 61 more yards.

In a jubilant dressing room, the Cardinals echoed Dobler's assessment of the final five weeks of the season.

"I think it's obvious we have turned our season around," said quarterback Jim Hart, who burned the Dallas secondary in the second half on a 49-yard touchdown pass to Mel Gray and a surprise three-yarder to veteran Jackie Smith to give the Cardinals their first victory in Dallas since 1970.

"The victory was a great game for us to win," St. Louis coach Don Coryell said of the game marked by the usual fistfights and shoving matches of a Dallas-St. Louis contest. "It was a game we wanted real bad."

But veteran Cowboy offensive tackle Ralph Neely had his own views of the division race.

"If you'll check the record," Neely said, "I believe you'll see we're 8-1. They're 6-3."

'Pentagon' Approves Late Start

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Army and Navy officials don't think the shift of the annual service classic to the late, late football show on national television is a put-down.

"We had the option of playing early or late," insisted Capt. J.O. "Bo" Coppedge, Navy athletic director.

What happened was that the American Broadcasting System decided to shift the Pitt-Penn State game in Pittsburgh from Nov. 19 to Nov. 26, to complete a nationally televised college football double-header with the Army-Navy game.

The Pitt-Penn State game is slated for 11:30 a.m., and Army-Navy at 3 p.m.

It appeared that ABC executives figured those watching Pitt and Penn State battle for the eastern football championship would stick around for Army-Navy, even if only to see the pregame parade of Midshipmen and Cadets, always an inspiring sight.

Capt. Coppedge didn't dispute that over the last decade attendance dropped at the Army-Navy game and interest was considerably reduced because of the poor records of the once powerful service schools.

But he doesn't believe that the change in TV time forced Army and Navy to play second fiddle to Pitt and Penn State.

"We volunteered to do it," Coppedge said at a luncheon Tuesday to promote the 78th service meeting. "We think that by playing at 4 p.m. (3 p.m. CST) we will be exposed to the maximum television audience. There are more sets on at 16:00 (4 p.m.) than earlier."

Capt. Coppedge said, "There are people coming home from walking the dog, shopping, carrying grandmaw to the store."

Army athletic director Gen. Raymond P. Murphy said people who once had to get up at 5:30-6:30 in the morning to get to Philadelphia in time for the parade are excited about the change.

"I think it's a real break," Murphy said.

Coppedge and Murphy may be right, but the trend in recent years has been down, down, down for the game that more than once settled the collegiate football championship. The Korean and Vietnam wars lessened the appetite of American youth for service careers. Recruiting suffered and the quality of Army-Navy football went with it.

The game used to attract 100,000 people plus, but in the past few years has drawn in the 80,000-90,000 area.

TONY DORSETT

al TV game against Penn State when some character named Carson Long missed all sorts of field goals for the Panthers.

"I can feel it in the crowd that I pick up our team a little when I come into the game. Or else, it sure seems like it," said last year's Heisman Trophy winner.

The Cowboys enjoy a predicament of trying to play both Dorsett and veteran Preston Pearson at tailback. Though he's an 11-year pro, the valuable Pearson hardly seems headed for the graveyard anytime soon. And there are plenty of things Dorsett can still learn by watching the older players. But the Dallas offense did seem to perk up again as the Cardinals when Dorsett played.

HERE'S A REVIEW of Monday night's game:

St. Louis took a 3-0 lead after the first quarter while Pearson played and Dorsett stayed on the sidelines. Then in the second quarter, Dorsett carried 12 times for 37 yards and one touchdown while Dallas carried a 14-3 lead in at half. In the third quarter, Dallas dialed Pearson again and used Dorsett for only one carry. The offense picked up one first down in the quarter while St. Louis crept up within four points (14-10).

In the fourth quarter, Dorsett aided Dallas in building its lead to 17-10. Then

Vet Banned From Track During Legal Wrangles

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Mark Gerard, the veterinarian accused of switching horses at Belmont Park, will not be allowed to work at the track until the state court system makes a final decision on whether the suspension of his privileges there was legal.

A justice in the state Supreme Court here decided Tuesday that he did not have jurisdiction in the case and therefore had no power to order the state's Racing and Wagering Board to lift the suspension and allow Gerard to treat his 400 horses at Belmont.

The judge also declined to punish the racing board for contempt for keeping Gerard off the track.

A hearing in the proper court, the state's Appellate Division in Brooklyn, will be held Nov. 16 unless the dispute is settled in some other way before then.

The state Racing and Wagering Board suspended Gerard last month after allegations surfaced that he had run Cizano, a South American champion horse, in place of Lebon, a mediocre thoroughbred, on Sept. 23 and had won $78,000 from bets on the race.

A State Supreme Court justice and the state's Appellate Division both have ruled that the suspension was illegal because it denied Gerard due process, but the racing board hopes to take the case to the Court of Appeals, the highest state court.

The question before Justice Bernard Tomson Tuesday was whether the racing board could legally enforce the suspension while the case works its way through the court system.

Daniel M. Cohen, an assistant state attorney general representing the racing board, argued that the Appellate Division's decision was automatically stayed last week when he applied with the Appellate Division for permission to take the case to the Court of Appeals. Such permission is required before making the formal appeal.

GAME CHANGED TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — The football game between the University of Arizona and Arizona State has been changed from Saturday night, Nov. 26 to Friday night Nov. 25, Arizona State officials announced Tuesday. The game will be nationally televised by ABC.

Morton, Slaton Teams Favored

By WALT McALEXANDER
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Morton's boys will again rule District 3-AA and Slaton's girls once more should reign over 5-AA.

That's the way coaches in those two leagues see the 1977-78 cage races. And since the dawning of the 1970s, those two schools have dominated Class AA ball in their respective divisions, with Morton taking state titles in 1972 and last year and Slaton winning the 1974 state crown.

Morton's race over Dimmitt will once again be a nip-and-tuck affair. Since 1970, Dimmitt has won loop titles three times and the state crown once. Morton, which also finished as state runner-up in 1976, has five league crowns and Friona, which was state runner-up in 1974, has one.

Slaton has won all but one league title since 1970—that the first year of the decade when Post took the honors although Cooper won back-to-back titles in 71-72 as a Class A school.

In the other two races, coaches, who could not vote for their own teams in the A-J poll, see Abernathy and Idalou sharing the 4-AA title and Slaton a narrow choice for the 5-AA crown, although four other teams also received first-place votes.

Muleshoe was tabbed to unseat Dimmitt in the 3-AA girls chase and Abernathy was selected to replace Lockney as the 4-AA winner.

Morton's Dan Smith has only four lettermen back from a 35-4 unit, with 6-3 Rusty Lamar the leader. Bobby Patton, a 5-9 junior, also started some last year. Dimmitt has six award winners back, including 5-10 Rocky Rawls, who dished out 10 assists a game. Friona has eight lettermen back including 6-4 Koty Kothmann and five others above 6-0.

Muleshoe has seven lettermen back with 6-2 Marcus Beverdorf the big man. Littlefield has four letterman back and 6-7, 195-pound David Jones could make a lot of noise this year. Olton has six lettermen back including 6-3 Kelly Cox and three others above 6-0.

Cal Irbeck welcomes back three starters—5-11 Ted Heard, 5-8 Lon Mason and 6-0 Lee McCune—but that's the extent of his experience. Idalou has five award winners back in 6-5 Kelly Vinyard, 6-3 Ricky Hobbs, 6-2 Larry Murphy, 6-1 Paige Bursmith and 5-10 Buckles Bryant, but all five are currently involved in football.

Floydada has only one player returning from last year and only three above 6 feet; Tulla has five lettermen back including 6-6 Russell Webb, a 180-pound junior. Lockney is led by 6-7 Mitch McMahon and four lettermen.

Slaton has six lettermen returning, including 6-1 Jerome Whaley, who has been an all-district pick the last two years. Roosevelt returns three lettermen, plus six players over 6 feet off a potent JV of a year ago and could easily be the class of the league.

Frenship has seven—including 6-3, 200-pound Lloyd Strong—above 6-0 back from last year. Tahoka has four holdovers including 6-3, 190-pound Clifford Bailey plus 6-2 Donny Clary, up from the JV. Denver City is sparked by Rickey Rodriguez (13.2 points) and Bobby Buckhalter (13.6 points) plus 6-3 Kenneth Harvey, the top rebounder a year ago.

On the girls side of the ledger, Slaton, under new coach Cathy Wilson, who coached Nazareth to the Class B state crown last year, will have a pair of 5-9 forwards in Lynn Webb and Dee Preston and 5-7 guards in Dena Gamble and Jance Jensen.

Abernathy has seven award winners back including 5-11 Cathy Rogers, 5-9 Cynthia Betts and Debbie Oswald, and 6-0 Linda Adkison and 5-10 Tammy Conway up from the JV. Tulla only has three award people back—5-6 Karen Noble, 5-6 Debra Blankenship and 5-5 Patrice Simpson. Idalou is loaded with experience with 5-6 Arinda Speer, 5-8 Tammy Wylie, 5-4 Jody Pharr and 5-7 Aricka Speer the leaders. Lockney's only two holdovers are 5-7 Sheila Hrbacek and 5-4 Karla McCarter.

Muleshoe only has three letterwomen back—5-7 Evelyn Grace, 5-9 Elizabeth Isaac and 5-6 Dani Durham. Dimmitt has six juniors and seniors returning with 5-11 Norma Sandoval the tallest.

Charlotte QB Tops State Honor Roll

By The Associated Press

It didn't take Charlotte football coach Warren Bell long to realize two years ago that freshman quarterback Carlos Tijerina had a strong arm.

Bell was an assistant coach then, and when he took over as head coach he decided to build around the strong arm of Tijerina and changed from the wishbone offense to the veer. Nobody in Charlotte has been sorry that he did.

"He can throw it 85 yards if that's any indication of arm strength," said Bell, who still can be amazed at the feats of Tijerina, now a junior.

His performance last Friday would come under the amazing category. Tijerina completed 22 of 40 passes for 402 yards and three touchdowns to lead a second half rally that fell just short in a disheartening 33-27 loss to Brackettville.

Tijerina's performance, the sixth best ever on the Texas all-time schoolboy passing list, earns him mention this week in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll. Tijerina's 402 yards rank the third best performance for a Class A passer.

"He's learning when to float it and when to rifle it," Bell said. "When we run the curl patterns I have to tone him down a little or he would throw it right through the receivers."

Tijerina finished the season with 106 completions on 185 attempts for 2,002 yards and 22 touchdowns and yielded only 10 interceptions. Bell has drilled Tijerina with throwing from every conceivable position and with good reason.

"We're not very conservative," Bell said. "You could say we throw the ball a lot."

Joining Tijerina on the Honor Roll this week is teammate receiver Robert Salazar a favorite target all season. Salazar snagged nine passes for 166 yards and one touchdown against Brackettville.

McKinney quarterback Ricky Shields had another outstanding offensive performance in a 35-15 victory over Gainesville rolling up 319 yards in total offense. Shields completed 11 of 19 passes for 253 yards and three touchdowns and rushed 17 times for 66 yards and one touchdown.

Tim Smith, a 5-9, 155 senior running-back from Corpus Christi Carroll, also earns mention for his performance in a 24-7 victory over Corpus Christi King that knocked King out of the Class AAAA playoffs.

Smith rushed 226 yards on 30 carries and scored on runs of 65, 19 and 14 yards. His 65 yard TD came on the first play of the second half and rallied Carroll from a 7-6 halftime deficit.

Other Honor Roll nominees included:

- Tailback Ruperto Contreras of Laredo Martin, who rushed 23 times for 175 yards and scored on a 66-yard run in a 27-0 shutout of Laredo Nixon.
- Hebronville receiver Gilbert Soliz, who caught seven passes for 117 yards and one touchdown in the first half in a 14-14 tie with Laredo United.

Longhorns' Frosh QB Selected Week's Top Back In SWC

AUSTIN (AP) — A restless Sam Anasley, facing his first start as a freshman at Texas, apparently was looking for comfort when he sought out teammates Earl Campbell and Johnny "Ham" Jones the night before the TCU game.

"We told him, 'Hey, it'll be OK.' And it was," said Jones.

After a sleepless night, Anasley, a frail teen-ager from Cypress-Fairbanks, had a wide-awake performance.

Filling in for the injured Randy McEachern, who had been playing because of injuries to two other Texas quarterbacks, fourth-teamer Anasley guided Texas to a 44-14 victory over TCU last Saturday.

The victory was Texas' ninth without a loss this season and kept the Longhorns atop the college football polls.

Anasley was so impressive that The Associated Press chose him as the offensive player of the week in the Southwest Conference.

Texas was flagged for too much time on Anasley's first play from scrimmage, and he lost six yards on second down.

He struck on the seventh play of the game, however, hitting Johnny "Lam" Jones with a 56-yard touchdown heave for a 7-0 lead, and Texas never trailed.

"I was a little nervous," said Anasley. "I think the pass to Johnny Lam broke the ice a little bit."

"Little nervous?" coach Fred Akers said, smiling. "If you touched him, he jumped."

Collecting his nerves, Anasley guided Texas to five touchdowns, including his own two-yard run and another scoring toss to Lam Jones for 10 yards.

He finished with 181 yards total offense, 48 running and 133 passing.

In addition, Lam dropped a 32-yard strike in the end zone, Alfred Jackson muffed an apparent 23-yard touchdown throw and a clipping penalty rubbed out Anasley's 29-yard broken field scamper into the end zone.

Bostock's Stock Soars Beyond $3 Million Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — The bidding for Lyman Bostock has soared over the $3 million mark for a multi-year contract and the free agent outfielder will narrow his choice of clubs to six later this week, his agent said Tuesday.

Pittsburgh and Kansas City have been eliminated because their offers fell far short of the contracts other clubs have laid before Bostock, according to Abdul Jalil, who is negotiating for him.

"You can't ask a player to consider signing for $1 million less with one club than he can get from another," said Jalil.

"Right now, we have five offers of over $2 million and three offers that are better than what Reggie Jackson signed for."

Jackson's $2.9 million contract with the New York Yankees was the largest any free agent received last year.

The Yankees and California Angels both surprised Jalil with opening offers that the agent characterized as low.

"Since then, things have changed drastically," he said, indicating that both clubs remained in the bidding.

Both the Angels and Yankees have shopped in this marketplace before. California signed three free agents—outfielders Don Baylor and Joe Rudi and infielder Bobby Grich—last year. The Yankees invested in Jackson and pitcher Don Gullett.

Besides the elimination of Pittsburgh and Kansas City, Texas also appears to be out of the Bostock sweepstakes. The Rangers invested over $3 million recently signing two other free agents, outfielder Richie Zisk and pitcher Doc Medich.

Other clubs which selected Bostock and could be among the finalists in the battle for him are Toronto, San Diego, and Milwaukee.

"Lyman is close to making a decision," Jalil said. "All the teams that made good offers have a good chance at getting him."

Six other clubs also have the right to negotiate with Bostock but the New York Mets, Oakland, Chicago White Sox, San Francisco, Baltimore and his old club, the Minnesota Twins, all have avoided the kind of big money stakes that the bidding has reached.

Some teams indicated immediately that they could not compete for Bostock if the price was over a certain ceiling. Contacts have ended with them. "A lot of clubs eliminated themselves by not being competitive. There's no sense negotiating with someone who's not really interested," said Jalil.

From the start, Bostock has made it clear that money would only be one factor in determining which team would get him. Among the others are the city and what it offers his family, the ball park, commercial endorsement possibilities, playing on an artificial surface, etc.

Earlier, Larry Hisle, who teamed with Bostock in the outfield for Minnesota last season and also is a free agent, said he was leaning toward signing with Milwaukee and hoped Bostock would do the same. The Brewers signed one big name free agent, third baseman Sal Bando, last year.

"The offers have been substantial and merit the abilities of the second best hitter in baseball," Jalil said. Bostock finished second among American League hitters with a .336 average. He also hit 14 home runs and drove in 90 runs for the Twins last season.

Hisle said Monday that he and the Brewers are close to an agreement, with only "a few small details" remaining to be ironed out by his agent.

"I am tickled to death about Milwaukee," Hisle said. "I hope that my agent and the Brewers can get something formalized."

Hisle said Bostock told him he'd love to come to Milwaukee too, although the New York Yankees "are after him extremely hard."

"I can't see anything but great things happening in Milwaukee if the Brewers got both of us," Hisle added.

Conditions May Improve For Russian Soldiers

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Army is paying new attention to the living conditions of its 4.4 million soldiers, whose standard of living is usually regarded as well below that of Western troops.

Senior officers are now organizing an "all-army conference on the living conditions of forces" that will concentrate on soldiers' food, clothing and recreational facilities. The civilian and military press has begun a series of reports keyed to the conference, many of them openly disclosing shortcomings in army life.

Western military experts are skeptical that the traditionally rigorous conditions of Soviet military service will change overnight. But they note that, according to Western studies, the low Soviet birthrate will soon force the army to compete with other sectors of the economy to retain able young men.

Although the military draft in the Soviet Union is almost universal, the willingness of men to stay in uniform after the obligatory term of service — two years in the army or three in the navy — must depend in part on the comfort of army existence.

The campaign for improved conditions also probably reflects a new Soviet prosperity that permits the army to give its men more than bare necessities.

The living conditions of Soviet troops vary greatly. Westerners in Moscow occasionally have been permitted to tour such model units as the "Taman" Division outside Moscow, where they have seen comfortable barracks and hefty packets of field rations. But the military press paints a different picture of conditions elsewhere. Recent editorials in "Red Star," the central army paper, have referred to inadequate supplies of tents, clothes-drying equipment and other necessities for rainy field maneuvers and suggested that morale could suffer if conditions are not improved.

Food is a common complaint, even at established military bases. At an interceptor pilot school in fertile Soviet Central Asia, Red Star said, there was such a poor selection of vegetables at mealtimes that a visitor might think he was "somewhere beyond the Arctic Circle."

Red Star said recently that some officers were shrugging off their responsibility to take care of their troops "by stressing the importance of steeling soldiers to difficult conditions."

But the paper retorted: "The difficulties created as a result of poor management and insufficient care of people have nothing in common with the objective difficulties of military training that steel soldiers."

Meanwhile, the press is praising instances of good treatment of troops. The Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda devoted a lengthy article recently to a rather ordinary-appearing tea room for the relaxation of Soviet tank troops in East Germany. Red Star held up as a model another unit that had, among other things, "a little library — a small one, but its very own."

The army paper also reported favorably on a Moscow artillery unit where officers always make sure that "however complex the situation is, the troops are regularly provided with high-calorie food, can rest well in the time provided and the necessary sanitary norms of life are not violated."

Soviet men are subject to the draft at age 18 and can be dispatched into combat units, construction battalions, internal security units or other work depending upon where men are needed.

Western military men who have observed Soviet units say troops are routinely worked hard, with large doses of political propaganda instead of material inducements often used to keep up enthusiasm.

"They do everything with less concern for the welfare of the individual soldier," one Western observer said. "This applies even to little things. In a Western army any second lieutenant knows you don't leave troops standing around in the hot sun unless you have to. Here they don't seem to care."

Soldiers make meager salaries, with a recruit starting at 5 rubles, the equivalent of $6.75 per month compared to the average national wage of $203. The pay for a comparable soldier in the U.S. army is $397.50 a month.

While the discipline and combat readiness of Soviet soldiers are not thought to be problems at present, as living conditions throughout the country improve and young people learn more about conditions in the West, the Soviet army apparently wants to keep improving its soldiers' lives.

Venezuela Funding Scholars

CARACAS (AP) — This small but oil-rich nation is spending hundreds of millions of dollars to send students abroad for study in an effort to create a pool of technicians needed for industrialization.

The Gran Mariscal de Ayacucho Foundation now has 8,000 scholarship holders overseas, half of them in the United States, foundation President Ruth Lerner de Almeida said.

She said the foundation also has 5,100 students studying within Venezuela and plans to expand rapidly to its goal of 15,000 active scholarships.

Critics have charged the program with wasting huge sums on unqualified students who spend their time abroad partying, carousing and getting into trouble.

Mrs. Almeida concedes that the program has had its failures, but said they have been few.

"You cannot generalize for everybody from the cases of one or another scholarship holder," she said.

"In the total group of 8,000 scholarship holders, you could find one who quits, one who takes drugs, one who doesn't study, one who drinks — and one who steals. But this is not the case in general."

Figures she supplied showed only 390 students had their scholarships revoked — 214 because they were found academically unqualified, 114 for abandoning their studies, 22 for bad conduct and 40 for other reasons ranging from submitting false data to committing punishable acts.

President Carlos Andres Perez created the program June 4, 1974. He named it for Gen. Antonio de Sucre, grand marshal (gran mariscal) of independence forces triumphant 150 years earlier on the Plains of Ayacucho, Peru.

"The new Ayacucho, with weapons of intelligence, science and technology, will result in the economic liberation of Venezuela," Perez said.

He gave the program two goals, the first being to create a new class of skilled technicians and professionals to run the industries of a modern state. A secondary aim was to encourage social change by giving new opportunities to poor Venezuelans and those in the interior.

Scholarship winners are chosen by computer through a system that gives preference to poor students and those from the interior, officials said.

Venezuela has nationalized its oil industry, previously primarily owned and operated by foreign companies. But foreign technicians, including many Americans, still are employed here to help operate the oil industry.

At the end of 1976, poor students and those from the interior held 66 percent of the scholarships in force, according to the New York-based Institute of International Education, which manages the program in the United States.

The foundation said 13 percent of the scholarship holders were taking technical training, 17 percent were studying for post-graduate degrees and 70 percent were undergraduates.

The IIE said that of the 3,500 undergraduates in the United States at the beginning of this year, 2,000 were studying engineering, 1,000 were studying science, economics, education, management or agriculture and the rest were scattered through the humanities, social sciences and other fields.

Venezuela has invested $236 million in the program and is now spending an average of more than $7,800 for each student abroad, officials said. The students receive air transportation to their places of study, full tuition, an allowance for books and a monthly living stipend to cover meals, lodging and incidentals.

In return, each student agrees to work two years for a state-run enterprise for each year of study up to a maximum of five years work for the state. Mrs. Almeida said about 600 students had completed their studies and "are all working."

Andreas Duarte Vivas, a consultant who worked with the program during its organizational phase, said there had been administrative and disciplinary problems in the beginning. But the program has been reorganized and the disciplinary problems were dealt with strictly, he said.

"We had a group of about 40 students in West Germany who tried to take over the Venezuelan Embassy there," Duarte said. "We told them to cut it out and get back to their studies or we'd fire them — revoke their scholarships. We eventually had to fire most of them. The same thing happened with a group of students in California who got political."

FATHER OF RACE

In Nordic mythology, the first man created by the gods, and the father of the human race, was called Ask.

Introducing the solution.

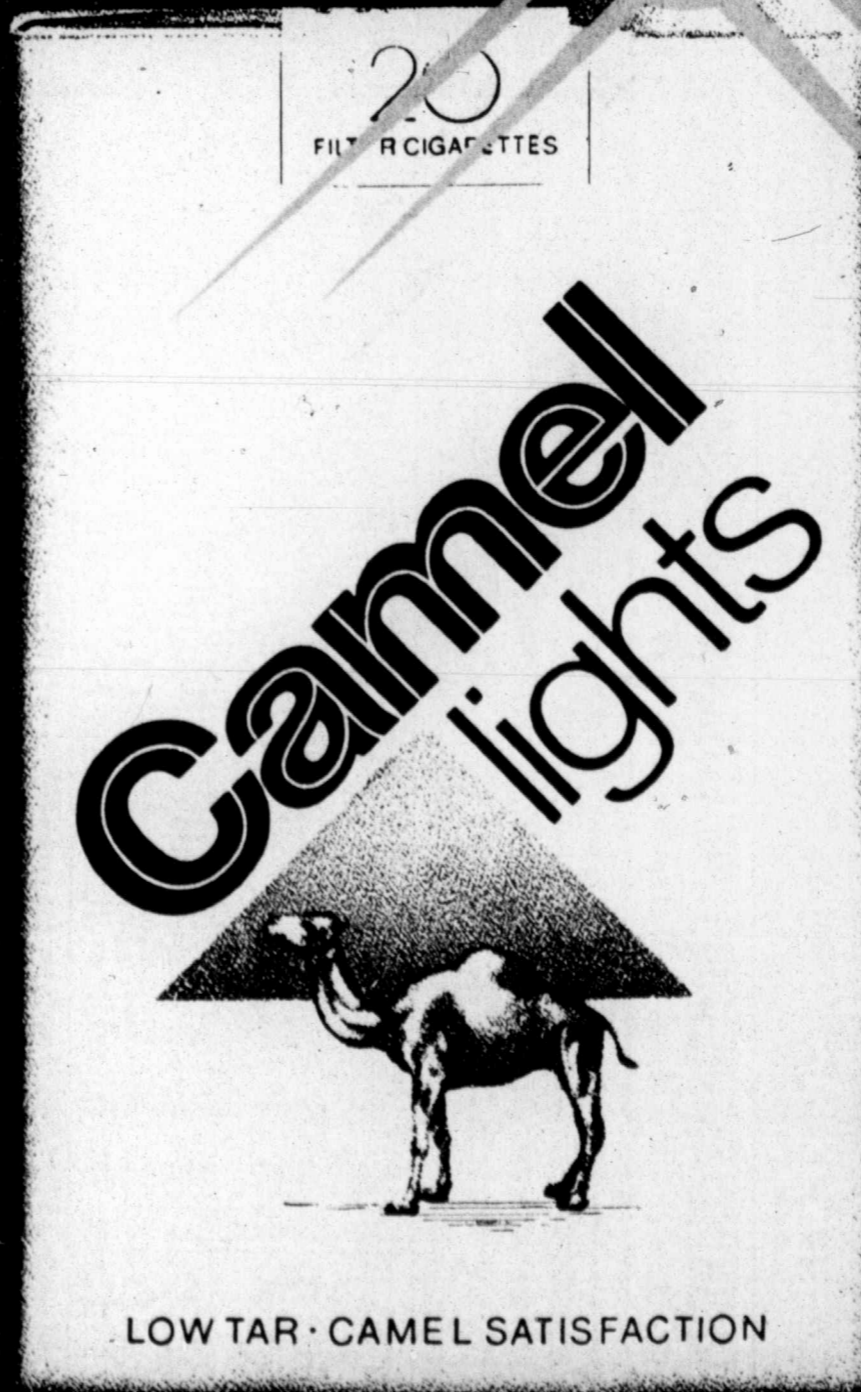

The low tar/low taste problem...solved!

Camel Lights deliver the real satisfaction no other low tar cigarette can. But, then, no other low tar is a Camel.

It starts with the richer-tasting Camel blend. Reformulated for low tar filter smoking. The result: a rich, rewarding, truly satisfying taste.

The name says it all. All the flavor and satisfaction that's been missing in low tar cigarettes. This one delivers. Because this one's a Camel. Put the solution in your hands.
